Artley elected president of school board

By Doug Funke
staff writer

David Artley, who has served on the Plymouth-Canton school board since 1983, has been selected board president for the 1987-88 academic year by his colleagues on the board.

As president, Artley will chair all board meetings. The president also signs most legal documents involving the district.

Perhaps just as important, though not an official duty, is the president's ability to set a tone for working relationships within the district.

Artley said he wants to make sure people are heard and that "there is a common understanding. You don't always have agreement but you can have a common understanding."

ARTLEY, who lives in Canton, also sees his role as a coordinator and facilitator.

"Coordinator in the sense that staff, community, board and students are working together for the common goal of excellence in education."

"It's my job as an elected official to understand the bureaucracy and explain it to others. Get them pointed in the right direction."

Labor peace, educating all students and community involvement were cited by Artley as major issues facing the district.

The teachers' contract expires in the fall of 1988 but Artley said he expects negotiations to begin well

Hoben gets raise

Superintendent John M. Hoben, who earlier scored high marks in a performance evaluation by the Plymouth-Canton school board, was rewarded Monday with a 5 1/2 percent increase in base pay.

The school board upped Hoben's salary to $83,897 from $79,516. That figure doesn't include an annual car allowance of $6,000 and a yearly longevity bonus of $500.

Hoben, 63, chief executive officer of the school district since 1971, administers an annual budget with revenues of $55.8 million and about 1,800 employees.

A Plymouth Township resident, Hoben was hired in 1955 as a teacher and coach at Plymouth High School.

Business people like it in Canton

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Business people like doing business in Canton.

That was a finding of a Community and Economic Development department survey that will be used to draw more business to the community.

Commercial and industrial businesses were targeted.

Canton's demographics are a major attraction to owners of commercial firms.

"The township boasts a large, young, middle class population with a comfortable high income level," the survey said. "Only 11 percent of respondents could specify no advantages to doing business in Canton or expressed no opinion."

POOR ROAD CONDITIONS, congested traffic, a restrictive sign ordinance, landscaping requirements and other township rules were named as disadvantages of doing business in Canton.

The majority of industrialists praised Canton's "location and easy access to the freeways as the major benefit in locating in Canton," the survey stated.

Poor roads, high taxes and "negative views of local government"

Sights, sounds of 4th

By Julie Brown
staff writer

This year's Fourth of July weekend was an action-packed one in the Plymouth-Canton community.

The seventh annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival was held Friday through Sunday.

On Saturday afternoon, the Fourth of July Parade, sponsored by the Plymouth Jaycees, filled Main Street in downtown Plymouth with festive sights and sounds.

The Jaycees also sponsored a fireworks display Saturday night at Plymouth Township Park, enhanced by a star-spangled performance of the Plymouth Community Band. Other activities held during the weekend provided something for everyone.

"People that went out of town missed the best party in Michigan, I think," said Scott Lorenz, co-chairman of the balloon festival with Gordon Boring.

"It was nice to have it on the Fourth of July," Lorenz said. "We had good crowds."

Marchers win honors

The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps earned the first place trophy in band competition for the Fourth of July Parade in Plymouth Saturday.

For marching units, the Fred Hill Haberdashery Precision Briefcase Drill Team captured first place. Tying for second place were the high school pom pom teams of the Plymouth Salem Rockettes coached by Anne Buie and the Plymouth Canton Rockettes coached by Christina Branham.

For adult floats, first place went to the Plymouth Business and Professional Women with second place to Plymouth Elks Lodge 1780 and third place to the Canton Historical Society.

For youth floats, first place went to the Polish National Alliance Centennial Dancers, and second

A New Trend in music

Band members share determination and optimism

By Susan Buck
staff writer

When Brice Cranston graduated from high school last year, his parents gave him a choice: a new car or a new digital sampler keyboard.

Cranston, 19, a band member who plays keyboard and guitar in a group called The New Trend, chose the $7,500 keyboard, which is known in the recording business as an emulator.

Cranston's choice is proof of the drive, determination, commitment and optimism shared by all members of The New Trend, who want to go to the top of a volatile industry.

Formed in October 1983, The New Trend also includes as members: Keith Lowers, 19, lead guitarist; Todd Wyman, 19, bass; Dustin Wyman, 16, vocalist; and Johnny Hill, 18, drummer. All are Plymouth residents.

THE BAND, which is managed by Talent Live, a Canton talent agency, recently played at a student anti-drug rally sponsored by the Michigan PTA on April 4 held at the Pontiac Silverdome. The event was attended by 10,000 people.

"They loved us. We went over real big," said Cranston.

The band is busily accumulating other credits and may, pending an interview, be featured in an as yet unscheduled, two-hour television special highlighting the story of how an album, called "Busting Barriers," came to be.

people

The idea for the album was conceived by Elsie Young, a Talent Live manager and her daughter Carrie Young, editor and publisher of "Conquest," a locally produced newspaper for the handicapped.

The New Trend sang and helped to compose with fellow manager, Bruce Young of Canton, a song featured on the album called "Little House of Woo."

According to Elsie Young, the album caught the attention of Stevie Wonder who wants to be included on the next one.

Released in January 1986, the album involved the efforts of 100 people — young, old and handicapped — in an effort to bring together the strengths of these people who often follow separate paths.

The album can be bought at Harmony House stores. The album jacket portrays the Statue of Liberty in a wheelchair, said Elsie Young.

A MUTUAL love of music brought

The New Trend band members together.

Cranston and Lowers were friends in seventh grade in Central Middle School, where they played in separate bands. Cranston was in a group called Sierra; Lowers was in High Voltage.

"We were sort of rival bands in a friendly way," said Cranston. "All of us had formal music instruction from James R. Griffith, CEP music director, who taught us theory and we all were in the marching band."

Band member Johnny Hill was recently awarded a full-ride scholarship to study music at Central Michigan University.

The New Trend plays a wide range of music, from funk to technorock.

"We also do our own originals," said Cranston. "We play the top 40 songs, so many of the people we play for are young."

The New Trend has played at the Studio Lounge in Westland and Liberties (formerly called The Suds Factory) in Ypsilanti. They are slated, by Talent Live, to perform at the Pontiac Silverdome again on July 25, this time to benefit a group called Michigan For Jesus.

Residents protest development deluge

By M.B. Dillon
Staff writer

Canton Township, not long ago a sleepy bedroom community that considered passing a farmland preservation act, is being deluged with developers' proposals.

In a meeting that lasted nearly four hours Tuesday, township trustees and a standing-room-only crowd of residents heard from petitioners requesting approval to build apartment and a gasoline station/convenience store. The first two projects were turned down; the latter approved.

Surfacing with each request was concern about Canton's limited sewer capacity. Fear about flooding is what drew a full house to protest the proposal of American Auto Parks, which planned an auto care complex for the north side of Ford between Lilley and Haggerty.

And it prompted Supervisor James Poole to suggest that a construction moratorium be considered.

IF THE Department of Public Health could have taken the collective blood pressure of the room's 100-plus occupants, most would have been ordered off salt immediately. Friction and furor were the name of the game.

A majority of those in the audience opposed the automotive park. Many of the residents, whose homes border a ravine near the commercially-zoned site, still are fuming about a June flood that submerged their backyard decks.

Petitioners they signed claimed that added development would worsen the flooding, pollute lawns, harm wildlife and create traffic congestion, excessive noise, and unpleasant odors.

DAVE NICHOLSON, Canton's economic development director, cited the township's zoning laws in recommending against approval of the auto center, which was to include a muffler shop, auto parts and car stereo stores and transmission and tune-up centers.

"To qualify for special land use, the applicant must demonstrate certain qualifications will be met," he said.

The development would not have been "compatible with the use of adjacent land . . . and the natural environment," nor would it have satisfied a community need, Nicholson said.

The board expressed concerns about traffic, location and flooding before a motion to deny by trustee Bob Padgett was approved unanimously.

American Auto Parks representative Seymour Mandell said after the session, "I think it would have been formed the community to have in certain concerns. More than all of them could have been resolved to the satisfaction of the community."

JAMES JABARA, a Plymouth resident and city commissioner, was verbally slapped around by Poole before the board denied his request to build apartments on 14 landlocked acres west of Canton Center between Ford and Hanford.

"We've denied Jim's requests two or three times before but he's going to keep coming back until he gets the answer he wants," Poole said.

Jabara told the board he has owned and paid taxes on the residentially-zoned property for 15 years, during which time the parcel has been rezoned several times.

"When I bought it it was commercial — in the meantime we're sitting with a piece of property about which the Canton Planning Commission can't even agree," Jabara said.

Clerk Linda Chuhman was the tie-breaker, deciding against Jabara. Voting with her were Poole, Loren Bennett and John Prenciczky. Favoring the development were trustees Steve Larson, Padgett and Jerry Brown.

A DOWAGIAC firm, Westledge-Milham Partnership, succeeded in convincing the board to rezone a parcel on the southwest corner of Joy and Sheldon from office to commercial.

The rezoning paves the way for an Amoco gas station and convenience store to locate on the 1.2 acres.

Nicholson called the plan a "reasonable proposal for the site" and recommended approval.

Poole liked the name of the development — Gateway Plaza.

"I think it should set an example. It is a gateway to Canton and it should have an impressive approach to the township. It can't have too much landscaping."

Scott is president of Wayne-Westland board

By Ted Schneider
Staff writer

Sharon Scott, one of three Wayne-Westland school board winners last month, was named president of the board Monday night.

Scott will succeed Matthew McCusker, who also won re-election last month.

Other officers unanimously selected by the seven-member board were:

Andrew Spisak, vice president; Sylwia Kozorok-Wiacek, secretary; and Kathleen Chorbagan, treasurer.

Scott, McCusker and Terri Reighard-Johnson were sworn in for their new terms at the start of the special meeting.

The district includes most of Westland and a section of Canton Township.

Scott said she hasn't set an agenda for her term as board president at this point.

"I think I've learned a couple of things from all the past presidents I have worked under," she said.

"I've learned that nothing less than a 100 percent effort on our part is acceptable and that unity among the board is something you have to strive for."

During her first term on the board, Scott served under former board member James LeDuc, Chorbagan and McCusker.

ALL THREE incumbents defeated their opponents handily in the June election. Scott was the top vote-getter with 1,725 votes.

Scott, 47, was appointed to the board in 1982 and elected the following spring.

While campaigning for re-election this spring, Scott pledged to continue back to people understanding what is happening.

Artley, 42, is a manufacturing manager.

He was elected board president by a 6-0 vote, with E.J. McClendon absent.

Lester Walker was elected vice president, Dean Swartzwelder secretary and Marilyn Schwim treasurer. None of those seats was contested.

The board also decided during its organization session Monday to continue meeting regularly throughout the year on the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

The board also reappointed three law firms, an auditor, a financial consultant and several banks to provide services as needed.

THE OTHER two things I feel are important are to make sure we're preparing students, not only those going on to college, but those going out in the work-a-day world.

I think the third thing is community involvement. I think that goes were cited by industrialists as drawbacks to setting up shop in the community.

The survey was conducted to:

- Lure developers by showing them a study that includes positive comments from other business people.
- Give existing business people a forum to air concerns or make suggestions to township employees.
- Provide information to township officials who need data to make zoning changes and other decisions.
- Offer background information for new programs and services in the township.

There are not as many problems to address as what was originally thought," said Canton-CED research associate, Kim Scherschligt, who conducted the survey last year.

DAVE NICHOLSON, CED director, echoed Scherschligt's response.

"It was a big surprise that the vast majority of respondents were pleased with community services," he said. "The complaints were about traffic congestion and road surfaces and, frankly, I complain about both of those, too."

Nicholson noted Wayne County is responsible for paving and surfacing roads in Canton. The county has identified a number of road construction projects in the next few years.

Between 60 and 70 percent of the business people responded to the survey.

A contest in which pilots were to attempt to pick up a key from atop a sailboat mast.

"That had to be scrapped," said Lorenz, who is co-owner and general manager of the Mayflower Hotel. The key contest prize would have been a car from Dick Scott Dodge.

"It's the equivalent of shooting a hole-in-one," Lorenz said.

The weather during the weekend was as always unpredictable.

"Saturday was great," Lorenz said. "It was a good day all day Sunday was a little iffy."

IT'S HARD to know ahead of time if the balloons will be able to take off, Lorenz said.

Most people attending the festivities listen to the weather reports and know when to show up to see the balloons take off.

"Overall, I think it was a nice event. We're satisfied with it."

Estimating attendance at the festival is difficult, according to Lorenz. "It's so busy. We're lucky to get any sleep, let alone statistics."

Plenty of work went into the weekend's festivities. Those involved in planning and coordinating the weekend activities were looking forward to some well-deserved rest this week.

"We are definitely exhausted but in a nice way," Lorenz said. "Obviously, we're planning on continuing."

No dates have been set for next year's balloon festival.

"It's up in the air, so to speak. But we are planning on an eighth."

The younger "kids at risk" are spotted, the better odds society has for keeping them from crime and prison. Children's advocates gave that message last week in Detroit to a panel of state representatives studying early intervention for the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

"We're not dealing with Huck Finn and Mary Poppins. These are damned dangerous kids who don't understand remorse, who call killing you 'putting you to sleep,'" said Rolando Shorey.

Shorey is executive director of Metro Youth Program in Detroit, a non-profit agency that formerly was part of government. He deals with 11- to 17-year-olds who already have been in trouble.

"Start with single-parent families," advised Shorey, who, like most of the 10 witnesses, refrained from asking for more state funds. "I don't always ask for money," he said.

A THREE-HOUR hearing in the City-County Building was the first of five that Chairman Teola P. Hunter, D-Detroit, plans this summer. "Simply to build new prisons isn't the solution," said Rep. David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods.

Seasonal hiring cuts jobless rate

Seasonal hiring caused unemployment rates in 10 of Michigan's 12 major labor market areas to drop in May, but Flint continued to be a gloomy spot. Richard Simmons Jr., director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, said that the statewide jobless rate fell to 8.2 percent in May from 8.5 percent in April.

AS BOARD chairwoman, Breen will direct meetings, establish agenda and serve on all trustee committees. She can also call special meetings and establish new committees. She also will review the expense reports filed by the president and other trustees.
Breen said she would stress cooperation among her fellow trustees. "It's my feeling that it's just not the chairperson who gets things done, it's the whole board."
A former educator, Breen taught for 16 years in the Dearborn, Wayne Westland and Livonia public schools, then served 10 years as a school administrator. She was assistant principal at Livonia Churchill High School at the time of her 1986 retirement.

She was also a delegate to the National Education Association's national conventions in 1973-75. In the early 1970s, she also served on a charter commission which successfully sought to incorporate Plymouth Township as the home rule city of Plymouth Heights.

HER HUSBAND, Maurice Breen, is in his second term as Plymouth Township Supervisor and has been a community official since 1988. While her appointment was news, it wasn't the biggest news in the Breen household.
"The most exciting news is that our daughter has given us a second grandson," she said.
In her new job, Breen said she hopes to make 11-pound, 11-ounce Matthew Marcus Sullivan and his 21-month old brother, Patrick, proud.

Toys R Us plans office center in Canton

By Diane Gale
A proposed Toys R Us Inc. warehouse, distribution and office center will be the second largest structure in Canton.
The 472,000-square-foot building, to be the company's regional headquarters, will be built on 20 acres north of Koppernick, east of Hagertry, south of Joy Road and the C & O Railroad and west of I-275.
The expected opening is November 1988.
THE LARGEST structure is the K Mart Canton Central Distribution complex, 960,000 square feet, on the south side of Joy Road east of Lilley.

Toys R Us warehouse will employ between 40 and 50 workers. The number could "double during the season" around Christmas time, according to Michael P. Miller, Toys R Us, Inc. senior vice president.
The office will employ about 30 year-long employees.
Miller declined to say how much the property cost or the expected net value of the project.
Dave Nicholson, Canton community and economic development director, estimates the building and equipment will be worth between $12-$15 million.
However, the company's site plan application "suggests" the building, land and improvements are valued at less than $10 million (not including equipment), Nicholson said. He believes the company's figure is low.
"It's going to bring in a substantial amount of tax base in the community," Nicholson said.
The company will not receive a tax abatement, a 50 percent reduction in assessed valuation for up to 12 years.
"Since it's not for a manufacturing use, we're not permitted to give them a tax abatement," Nicholson said.

He complimented Canton board members on their 1982 insight in sponsoring the northeast industrial development district in the Hagertry, Koppernick and Ronda area.
"They took a risk in 1982 at a time when it was considered not a smart thing to do," Nicholson said. "And now it's paying off."

Kids need SS number
Parents are reminded they need a Social Security number for each dependent age 5 and older whom they list on Federal tax returns filed after Dec. 31, 1987. This is required by the Tax Reform Act of 1986.
One can apply for a number in person or by mail at the Livonia Social Security office at 13407 Farmington Road. If the dependent needing a number is 18 or older or was born outside the United States (U.S.) the application must be made in person.
Proof of the dependent's date of birth, U.S. citizenship or lawful alien status and identity are required when a person applies. If the dependent was born in the U.S., usually an original or certified copy of a public, hospital or religious birth record can establish proof of both date of birth and citizenship. School, medical, day care and insurance records can be used for identity.
School districts in Livonia, Plymouth-Canton and Northville have invited representatives from Social Security to sign up dependents in the schools.
Schools that have not had a sign up visit will be reconvened in the fall. Private schools will also be contacted. Preschools in these communities are now being contacted for sign-up visits this summer.
School personnel and parents say they have been very pleased with Social Security visits.
For more information about applying for a Social Security number call 1-900-410-INFO. There is an 85 cent charge for this call.

Breen to head Schoolcraft board

By Wayne Peal
Mary Breen has been a teacher and principal. Now she's a college board chairwoman.
Schoolcraft College trustees unanimously appointed Breen to a two-year term as chairwoman Monday. The appointment came during the board's annual organizational meeting.
"This is going to be a very exciting time for the college and I wanted to be a part of it," Breen said.
Breen, a Plymouth Township resident, is completing her fourth year as a board member, though this will be her first as a board officer. She replaces Michael Burley of Canton Township, who has been chairman since 1983. Veteran trustee Harry Greeleaf was also nominated for the post, but declined.

AS BOARD chairwoman, Breen will direct meetings, establish agenda and serve on all trustee committees. She can also call special meetings and establish new committees. She also will review the expense reports filed by the president and other trustees.
Breen said she would stress cooperation among her fellow trustees. "It's my feeling that it's just not the chairperson who gets things done, it's the whole board."
A former educator, Breen taught for 16 years in the Dearborn, Wayne Westland and Livonia public schools, then served 10 years as a school administrator. She was assistant principal at Livonia Churchill High School at the time of her 1986 retirement.

She was also a delegate to the National Education Association's national conventions in 1973-75. In the early 1970s, she also served on a charter commission which successfully sought to incorporate Plymouth Township as the home rule city of Plymouth Heights.

Peace marchers to visit Plymouth

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

The 1987 Michigan Peace March, on its way to Detroit from Sault Ste. Marie, is planning a stop in Plymouth Tuesday, Aug. 4.

The 725-mile march began Memorial Day and will end Sunday, Aug. 9, with the setting afloat of lanterns on the Detroit River to commemorate the 42nd anniversary of the World War II bombing of Nagasaki, Japan.

Plymouth resident Glenn Davis spoke at Monday's city commission meeting regarding the marchers' local appearance.

Michigan United for Global Nuclear Disarmament, which is sponsoring the march, is "asking for four things," he said. "One is a test ban treaty. The second is a nuclear weapons freeze. Third is to end the Strategic Defense Initiative and fourth is economic conversion. Let's spend some of this money on some of our human social needs, rather than on massive nuclear weapons."

DAVIS SAID the $50,000 march is backed by the peace fellowship group at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth Township.

"We're in favor of working through our government to bring about a new awareness of peace issues," said Davis. "On this planet there are at least 54,000 nuclear weapons."

The marchers will head into Plymouth from Ypsilanti, then move on to Novi, Walled Lake, Birmingham and Detroit. Area residents are welcome to join the march along the way, said Birmingham's Mary Diskin, Michigan Peace March co-coordinator.

"What we've really tried to do here is to get in touch with as many people as we can — people not traditionally involved with the peace movement," she said.

MARCHERS SO far have been warmly welcomed with police escorts, community potlucks, mayoral speeches and rallies. In parks and on church grounds, "all the way through Michigan, marchers have planted carved wooden peace poles," said Diskin. "They stand about seven feet out of the ground and are four-sided. Each side says, in a different language, 'May peace prevail on earth.' The pole planting has been accepted as a Michigan sesquicentennial event."

Marchers have encountered little trouble along the way.

"What traditionally happens is a group of eight or 10 curses at us, calling us commies, telling us to get a job — the usual type things," said Diskin. "They don't speak for the majority, and we don't feel very threatened."

Those wishing to learn more about the march may call 258-5815. Davis will present more information at the Plymouth City Commission meeting July 20.

State plea: Repair radioactive waste law

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A lot of legislation will be debated in Washington and Lansing before a low-level radioactive waste storage site ever is constructed in Michigan, state officials say.

"The result was predictable," said Beverly McAninch of Plymouth, as a seven-state commission voted 6-1 last week to pick Michigan as the first 20-year "host" state.

McAninch chaired Michigan's Radioactive Waste Control Committee, which spent the winter and spring months sounding out public opinion and seeking a possible site for the storage of such wastes. She is a former mayor, official of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments and state president of the League of Women Voters.

The waste would come from nuclear power plants, hospitals, universities and industry.

THESE STEPS are brewing, McAninch said.

• David Hales, Gov. Blanchard's representative on the regional panel, has approached the state's congressional delegation to get changes in the federal law requiring 15 or more such waste sites nationwide.

"There is no provision for liability to be shared," McAninch said, although the law provides for sharing construction costs. Michigan would be expected to pay 35 percent of the construction and operation costs, based on its generation of wastes.

But it's undetermined how liability during construction and operation would be shared, she said.

And there's wide sentiment that fewer sites are needed.

Hales was an undersecretary of the Interior in the Carter Administration and knows the Washington scene, she said. He is a University of Michigan professor of natural resources.

• A state Senate committee, chaired by Vern Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, is considering three bills setting up site restrictions for a radioactive waste site. McAninch noted Ehlers is a former college physics professor.

• McAninch's own committee members speak at the invitation of county boards seeking more information. There are multimillion-dollar inducements for the local governmental unit that will agree to accept low-level radioactive wastes.

Part of her committee's work is putting out fires set by Mary Sinclair, anti-nuclear power activist from Midland, and Ingham County commissioner Ellen Beale, who wants to line up all 87 counties against the project.

OHIO WAS ejected the first alternate state and Minnesota the second in case Michigan does not build a regional facility.

In that case, Michigan still must build a site for its own waste and bear the full cost.

Commission officials said they expect the region to generate about 169,000 cubic feet of waste a year by the time the site must open in 1993.

The facility is envisioned as a concrete structure in which waste is permanently encapsulated.

Michigan won the commission's endorsement to seek a nationwide meeting of other coalitions to discuss seeking changes in the federal law.

OTHER STATES in the Midwest commission sympathized with Michigan's position Tuesday but doubted the chances for revisions in the federal law.

The federal law was passed after Nevada, Washington state and South Carolina announced they eventually would no longer accept low-level waste, from other parts of the country.

Under the law "regional sites would charge producers of the waste for disposal. Each site is expected to cost about $250 million.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

AS EXPECTED, Michigan was selected by a 6-1 vote by the Midwest Interstate Low-Level Radioactive Waste Commission for the responsibility of finding a dumpsite — a duty it can refuse.

Representatives of Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Missouri voted for Michigan because it produces the biggest volume and most radioactive of the region's waste.

Many in the audience of more than 50 carried signs protesting Michigan's selection.

"We believe imposing a waste dump on Michigan is irresponsible," Brian Ewart of Ann Arbor, a spokesman for the environmental group Tocsin, told the commission.

McAninch chaired Michigan's Radioactive Waste Control Committee. She is a former mayor, official of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments and state president of the League of Women Voters.

McAninch's own committee members speak at the invitation of county boards seeking more information. There are multimillion-dollar inducements for the local governmental unit that will agree to accept low-level radioactive wastes.

Part of her committee's work is putting out fires set by Mary Sinclair, anti-nuclear power activist from Midland, and Ingham County commissioner Ellen Beale, who wants to line up all 87 counties against the project.

An era of growth creeping upon us

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools once again may be challenged to adjust to rising enrollments. During the '80s, the school district has faced stable and declining enrollments. During this period, neighboring school districts were closing a number of school buildings. Now, it appears, Plymouth-Canton might be on the verge of another period of rapid growth. In recent years, enrollment began to increase again, to the point that Hoben Elementary is being built in Canton, an addition is in the works to enlarge Gallimore's capacity, and portable classrooms have been ordered. Hoben Elementary and the Gallimore expansion are being done primarily to handle pre-schoolers and pupils already in the district. It means no classroom space is available at this moment for students moving into subdivisions now under construction. Projecting student growth is, at best, an art. There is high reliability in tracking students and pre-schoolers already in the district. Tracking live birth statistics five years into the future will provide a fairly reliable (though inexact) estimate of the kindergarten enrollment. But projecting student enrollments generated by new housing starts is risky business. Subdivisions get zoning and site plan approvals and then are delayed indefinitely by shifts in the lending market. Projects get under way but are delayed by weather, labor strife or countless other factors. Even then, the number of students any subdivision may produce remains unknown until sales are made and mortgages executed. THE POINT is that school administrators and trustees face an almost impossible challenge of making sure classrooms are available in the right places at the right time to maintain desirable student-teacher ratios. One advantage of portable classrooms is that they can be shifted from one site to another in the district to absorb students from neighborhoods undergoing a population burst.

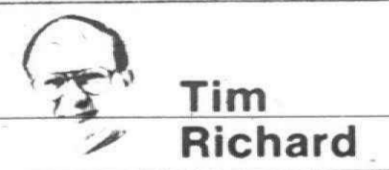

The sounds of summer

SUMMER'S LAZY DAYS form a perfect, nearly soulful amphitheater of the mind and spirit that softly demands outdoor performances to fully take advantage of the respite from Michigan's chilly winters. Fortunately, there are many such concerts in Oakland and Wayne counties. Jazz bands, singers and classical and popular orchestras play at 7:30 p.m. every Thursday in Shain Park in Birmingham through Sept. 3. Also on Thursdays, the Rochester Municipal Park is the site of the Kiwanis Club concerts through Aug. 6. In Southfield, big band and nostalgia-jazz musicians play Sundays at 7 p.m. in the Sun Bowl on the grounds of the Prudential Center. There are still two concert dates, July 12 and Aug. 23, for the West Bloomfield Department of Parks and Recreation series at grounds of the Henry Ford Medical Center, west of Orchard Lake Road. In Livonia Music Under the Stars runs through Aug. 23. Concerts begin at 7:30 p.m. at either Civic Center Park, Wilson Barn or Greenmead. Tuesday is concert night in Redford where five more concerts await jazz fans 7:30-9 p.m. in Capitol Park. The Plymouth Community Band plays every Thursday through July at 8 p.m. in Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth. The Westland Cultural Society presents the Detroit Music Company in concert at 7 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 30, at the Central City Park on Ford Road. Bring a blanket and perhaps a picnic dinner and enjoy!

Births, abortions and Medicaid

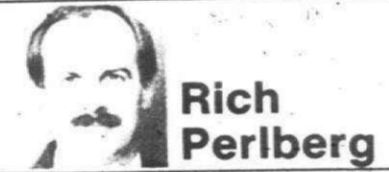

Separating fact from fiction in the Medicaid abortion funding debate. TRUE OR FALSE: When Medicaid funding ceases, women on AFDC (welfare) will be unable to get abortions? False. Both "pro-life" and "pro-choice" folks agree. Experience in other states shows the number of abortions will drop only about 25 percent. The fiction about welfare recipients being "denied freedom of choice" seems based on the notion that they're totally without funds. In fact, they appear to be able to earn enough cash, to get money from family or charity, or to persuade the fellows who got them with child to help. They may even do without some items - remember, Michigan has an interstate reputation for generosity with welfare money. In the 1970s, Medicaid abortion was a major growth industry here. In recent years, the annual rate has leveled off to roughly 20,000 Medicaid abortions. That number would dip to 15,000 or fewer if the new law is upheld. WHY, THEN, was it wrong to guess that fewer Medicaid abortions will mean more welfare births? Only anecdotal evidence exists. It suggests that men and women get careless about contraception when they know the governor will bail them out. Eliminating Medicaid funding doesn't reduce abortions to zero, but it does, as politicians say, "send a message" that state government disapproves of the causal behavior. Men and/or women get careful. They abstain, watch the calendar, use contraception, maybe even get married. And they reduce the numbers of abortions and illegitimate children that the rest of us must pay for. Who knows? We may also see a reduction in herpes and VD. Those are the mathematical facts. Sorry if they burst anyone's fantasies.

It's not her mom's house

THE WIFE LEAVES work shortly after quitting time, grabs a fast food burger at a place near the expressway and rushes to day care. From there, she and her infant hustle to toddler swimming classes. She's home shortly after 7, waiting for her husband to end his long commute so that she can leave for a community service group board meeting. He would like to attend his son's swimming class, but Tuesday is the night he always works late. So it goes. The baby is transferred from one parent to another. Dad, munching cold chicken from Sunday's barbecue, puts the work he brought home on the shelf and turns to more pressing matters - dirty diapers and a hungry baby. The rest of the week doesn't look much different. The lawn, cut just Friday, is ready for another clipping. Gifts must be bought for birthdays and weddings. The weekend that was going to be spent at home relaxing has already filled with social engagements and chores. A DECADE AGO, such families were said to be living in the fast lane. It was not an apt description or reaction. It's the fast lane in the same way a sharply struck cue ball sends a rack of pool balls flying. The speed is fast but not necessarily directed. The results are random and reactive rather than planned and expected. But what's to complain? No one said having it all would be easy. There is a price to pay for the good life. No call to bellyache. It's better than hauling coal from a mine from dawn to dusk. Still, there is a growing segment of society that is trying to live the '80s under rules spelled out by Donna Reed and Beaver Cleaver. Dads may spend more time with household chores and child care responsibilities, but mom still can't help comparing herself unfavorably with the way her mother ran the household. TIME MAGAZINE recognized the stretching of two-income families with a cover story about day care that fed mothers' guilt by describing a nation of understaffed, undertrained day care centers where children are ignored while mom pursues a career. The story is not always that bleak. But it is a fact that the nation's business policies and laws have not kept pace with today's families. No western, industrial nation does as little in the way of day care and maternity leave as does the United States. Many government officials and chamber of commerce types howl when corrective legislation is suggested. Rather than appreciate the great resources that working women bring to the market place, they wring their hands instead over prohibitive costs that will further burden business. Funny thing. No one worried about prohibitive costs last month when legislators increased department head wages by up to 25 percent and sweetened their own pension plans in the process. Maybe that's only a drop in the bucket. But as anyone with a leaky roof will tell you, those drops eventually fill the pail. And then what do you have?

Symbols build area's tradition

THE POPE, that man will love the fist. I like the fist. As a matter of fact, I think the Joe Louis Arm hanging at the foot of Woodward is a beautiful piece of art. Just can't wait for his eminence to see it. I love art - good art. I suspect the Pope shares that appreciation, especially since hanging his hat at the Vatican on a regular basis. But not all folks think the same way. Just ask Birmingham's Harry Vandine. He's the architect who's in charge of designing the Pope's platform down Hart Plaza way. In case you've been hiding out, the Roman Catholic leader is making a 24-hour stopover this September. He is slated to say a few words at the downtown Detroit location. Vandine has been quoted as saying the sculpture is obscene. His distaste is shared by some of the crowd down at the archdiocese. Vandine and friends would like to see the piece of art taken down because it doesn't match with the Pope's image as a peacemaker. Livonians wonder, often aloud, whether their city hall was a premature birth descended from the Renaissance Center. The examples are endless. At one point or another we've stood elbow to elbow at bar and cocktail party and wrangled over the worth of the People Mover, the Ren Cen, the Indian in front of Cobo Hall and Cobo Hall, itself. Metro-Detroit is undoubtedly the only area which has actually built two ends of an expressway and then waited 20 years to finish the middle. You've probably got your own favorites which you've spent many a night arguing over. One thing is for sure. In the long run we learn to love all these symbols of our metropolitan area. Even if we love to hate some of them. But in one way or another each one of these symbols has contributed to the tradition of the area. And tradition is what makes a community strong. Don't kid yourself. These Louis Arm detractors are just like the rest of us. One of these days they'll find themselves listening to an out-of-towner criticize the Brown Bomber's symbol and they'll say. "What ya mean. That's real art bud. It's part of my town." Metro Detroiters, well, we are just like that.

On the den shelves: Sorting out gift books

IN WHAT few relaxing moments there were last weekend between hot air balloon races, parades, fireworks, cookouts and preparing for an Elk Rapids respite, the summer's No. 1 household project as ordained by Mother Goose was given occasional thought. You see, our den has become overly cluttered, unlike yours which I'm sure is neatly organized in every respect. There's no way I would interfere with my mate's as-yet-unannounced decision on new placement of tables, lamps, sofa bed, pictures et al., as long as there is still room for my desk and typewriter. What I will do with a three-foot collection of newspapers and three cartons of what I regard as all-important trivia is the biggest problem. The phase I really started to ponder over the weekend was the dozens and dozens of books. New shelves soon will be in place and I decided to take sort of an inventory. What astounded me the most was the wide range of subject matter covered in books received as gifts in the recent past. SOME DONORS have seemed bent upon the improbable task of improving my mind. Others have stuck with the writing and publishing profession. In many there is a bookmark to indicate where I left off reading when I last had the book in hand. A case in point is the seventh revised edition of Russell Kirk's "The Conserv-

Writer incorrect about board pay

To the editor: I read with concern Joan Kenote's letter to the editor in the Thursday, June 16, issue of the Plymouth Observer. First, I feel that Mrs. Kenote's comments were taken out of context after overhearing a private conversation between Dean Swartzweiler and myself. My comments were made in a sad and disappointed tone, not one of vindictiveness or in a threatening matter as Mrs. Kenote would have you believe. As we discussed, the administration would need an opportunity to develop a recommended list of reductions for the board and that we would have to follow the mandate of the voters. This process has been completed and the Board of Education has adopted the recommendations. The board acted responsibly and with great concern and care in reducing planned spending for the 1987-88 school year. Each of the reductions will affect the education of children or the maintenance of our schools. Roland J. Thomas Jr., Trustee, Plymouth-Canton Board of Education

Windsor Park is flood weary

To the editor: (An open letter to Canton Supervisor James Poole) We are writing in regard to the sanitary sewer backup in Windsor Park Subdivision. We are deeply concerned about the health threat to our families. The health department advised us that there is a possibility any time in the next 45 days of contracting typhoid fever or hepatitis as a result of cleaning up raw sewage. We are angry because we can't use our basements fully and are forced to take special precautions including elevating items from the floor and refraining from the use of carpeting. In spite of these precautions, we still must move items such as furniture that cannot be repaired and incur added expenses as premature repair and replacement of appliances including hot water tanks, furnaces, washers and dryers. We need action now to prevent these problems in the future. Some steps that may be taken could be removal of obstructions and repair of sewers, including a system of monitoring these conditions, increase sewer capacity, additional pumping stations, a moratorium on construction, purchase of pumps for individual homeowners. Also, reduce taxes and water rates to compensate homeowners for financial loss. We appreciate your prompt action and await your response to our concerns. Windsor Park Homeowners, Canton

'87 senior party had many helpers

To the editor: As co-chairpersons of the food committee for the Plymouth Canton Salem senior party, we would like to thank the merchants who contributed in making our party such a success, and all of those who helped in the kitchen on the night of the party. The parents who made this party possible were great to work with. The decorating committee, in particular, did a super job in transforming Salem into a real "Sea Cruise". # House kills probe of own members' ethics

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the legislative week ending July 1.

HOUSE

HOUSE MEMBERS' ETHICS — The House defeated, 77 for and 297 against, an amendment calling for a special commission to probe House ethics.

Without naming lawmakers, the measure said "the ongoing pattern of questionable ethical conduct within the House is deplorable." It was offered to the fiscal 1988 legislative branch appropriations bill (HR 2714), which was sent to the Senate.

Sponsor Robert Walker, R-Pa., said "we have had understatement of income on financial disclosure statements, use of campaign funds for personal use, charges of bribery, improper use of the congressional payroll (and) voting card, hiring of ghost employees."

Opponent John Dingell, D-Mich., said the House is "an honorable body of honorable men. Its behavior is the most public and publicly scrutinized of any group in our society."

Members voting yes wanted a special probe of House members' ethics. Voting no: Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Saander Levin, D-Southfield, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham. Not voting: Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

LEGAL SERVICES CORP. — By a vote of 127 for and 282 against, the House rejected an amendment to kill the Legal Services Corp. by deleting its $306 million budget from a fiscal 1988 appropriations bill (HR 2763). The bill later was sent to the Senate.

The agency provides free or subsidized legal aid to the poor at approximately 1,000 offices nationwide. The Reagan Administration wants to eliminate it.

Amendment sponsor Norman Shumway, R-Calif., said taxpayers should not be required to "finance lobbyists who seek to further their personal, social or political agenda."

Opponent Bruce Morrison, D-Conn., said the agency embodies "the principle of equal justice under law."

Members voting yes wanted to kill the Legal Services Corp. Voting yes: Broomfield. Voting no: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin.

Roll Call Report

AID THE HOMELESS — By a vote of 301 for and 115 against, the House joined the Senate in approving the conference report on legislation authorizing nearly $1.1 billion for a mix of old and new programs to provide shelter, food, medical care and other aid to the homeless in fiscal 1987-88.

This sent the measure (HR 558) to President Reagan.

Estimating there are up to 3 million homeless Americans, supporter George Wortley, R-N.Y., said, "A lack of shelter whatsoever strikes at the core of human dignity."

Opponent Thomas DeLay, R-Texas, said the legislation creates "a brand new welfare program that we cannot pay for, that we are going to borrow to pay for."

Members voting yes supported the legislation. Voting yes: Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin, Broomfield.

SENATE

TAXING IMPORTED OIL — The Senate voted, 55 for and 41 against, to strip pending trade legislation (S 1420) of language under which a president could have placed fees on imported oil to prevent America from becoming too dependent on it.

Oil import fees would trigger a rise in domestic as well as foreign petroleum prices. They are favored by senators from producing regions, while generally disliked by senators from states that rely heavily on imported oil.

Under the provision killed by this vote, taxing imported oil was one of several options a president could take to keep foreign oil from accounting over time for more than half of U.S. consumption.

Bill Bradley, D-N.J., said "sending subsidies to domestic producers is not the only way to address the issue of U.S. vulnerability" to suppliers of foreign oil.

Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, who sponsored the provision, said he wanted to avert "an OPEC hammerlock on American national security."

Senators voting yes did not want presidents to have power to levy oil import fees.

Voting no: Michigan Democrats Carl Levin and Donald Riegle.

LABELING IMPORTED FOOD — By a vote of 73 for and 19 against, the Senate adopted an amendment to the omnibus trade bill (S 1420, above) under which the Food and Drug Administration must require labeling showing consumers the country of origin of imported food products, meat and poultry.

Sponsor James Exon, D-Nebr., said Americans "should have the right to know what they are putting into their bodies."

Opponent Richard Lugar, R-Ind., said the labeling would provoke retaliation and that "the last thing we ought to be doing... is passing legislation which will end up hurting our own exports."

Senators voting yes supported the labeling requirement. Voting yes: Levin, Riegle.

BAN ON TOSHIBA — The Senate adopted, 92 for and 5 against, an amendment to S 1420 (above) placing a two- to five-year ban on imports from Japan's Toshiba Corp. and the Norwegian firm Kongsberg Vaapenfabrik.

The legislation is aimed at penalizing the companies for selling the Soviet Union sophisticated technology that the Pentagon says has enabled Soviet submarines to become quieter and less subject to American detection.

Senators voting yes supported the ban. Voting yes: Levin. Voting no: Riegle.

Interest rates on Adjustable Rate Mortgages are the lowest ever at Standard Federal.

15-Year ARM

7.25% Interest Rate

9.57% Annual Percentage Rate*

30-Year ARM

7.50% Interest Rate

9.79% Annual Percentage Rate*

Before you buy or refinance your home, consider the advantages of our Adjustable Rate Mortgage (ARM).

Many of our ARM loan customers have saved a lot of money in mortgage interest costs over the past few years. And, at present interest rates, borrowers are finding our ARM loans to be an even better bargain. The first-year interest rate on our 15-year ARM is now only 7.25% compared to much higher rates on fixed-rate loans. What's more, with the 2% annual and 6% lifetime interest rate caps that we have placed on our ARM loans, you'll pay less interest and have greater principal reduction over at least the first four years of your loan.

The lower initial interest rates on our ARM loans result in lower initial monthly payments. And, the lower monthly payments mean that it will be easier for you to qualify for the loan that you need to buy or refinance your home.

So, come to any Standard Federal branch office and learn more about our ARM loans. We'll help you find the loan that is just right for you.

*All annual percentage rates are calculated based on a 2% loan discount fee, a loan amount of $50,000.00, a 20% down payment, and monthly principal and interest payments of $456.43 for the 15-year loan and $349.61 for the 30-year loan. These estimated annual percentage rates are subject to increase or decrease on an annual basis after the loan is closed based on the formula set forth in the loan contract.

Class draws talented young artists

By Julie Brown
staff writer

SCHOOL'S OUT for the summer, but Plymouth-Canton students are still learning. Some local students are spending part of their summer break taking art classes offered by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. A class in drawing and oil painting for children age 10 and older is among those being offered. "Most of them, this is the first time they've had any experience with oils," said Sharon Holton, instructor for the drawing and oil painting class. The two-week class meets from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. Holton, a Plymouth Township resident, has taught the PCAC's drawing and oil painting class previously; she's had some of this summer's students in earlier classes. "They're taking it again and learning more."

AT ONE class session last week, students started off by sketching a drawing of the exterior of the Wilcox house. After that task had been completed, the students heard some tips on mixing oil paints. They then went to work, painting the sky portion of their masterpieces.

One of the students in the class had suggested the Wilcox house in downtown Plymouth as the site for their class project.

"This house has got a lot of character," the instructor said. "I thought it was a fantastic idea."

During the class, students learn about composition and about mixing oil paints. Holton also teaches the students about taking care of their art supplies.

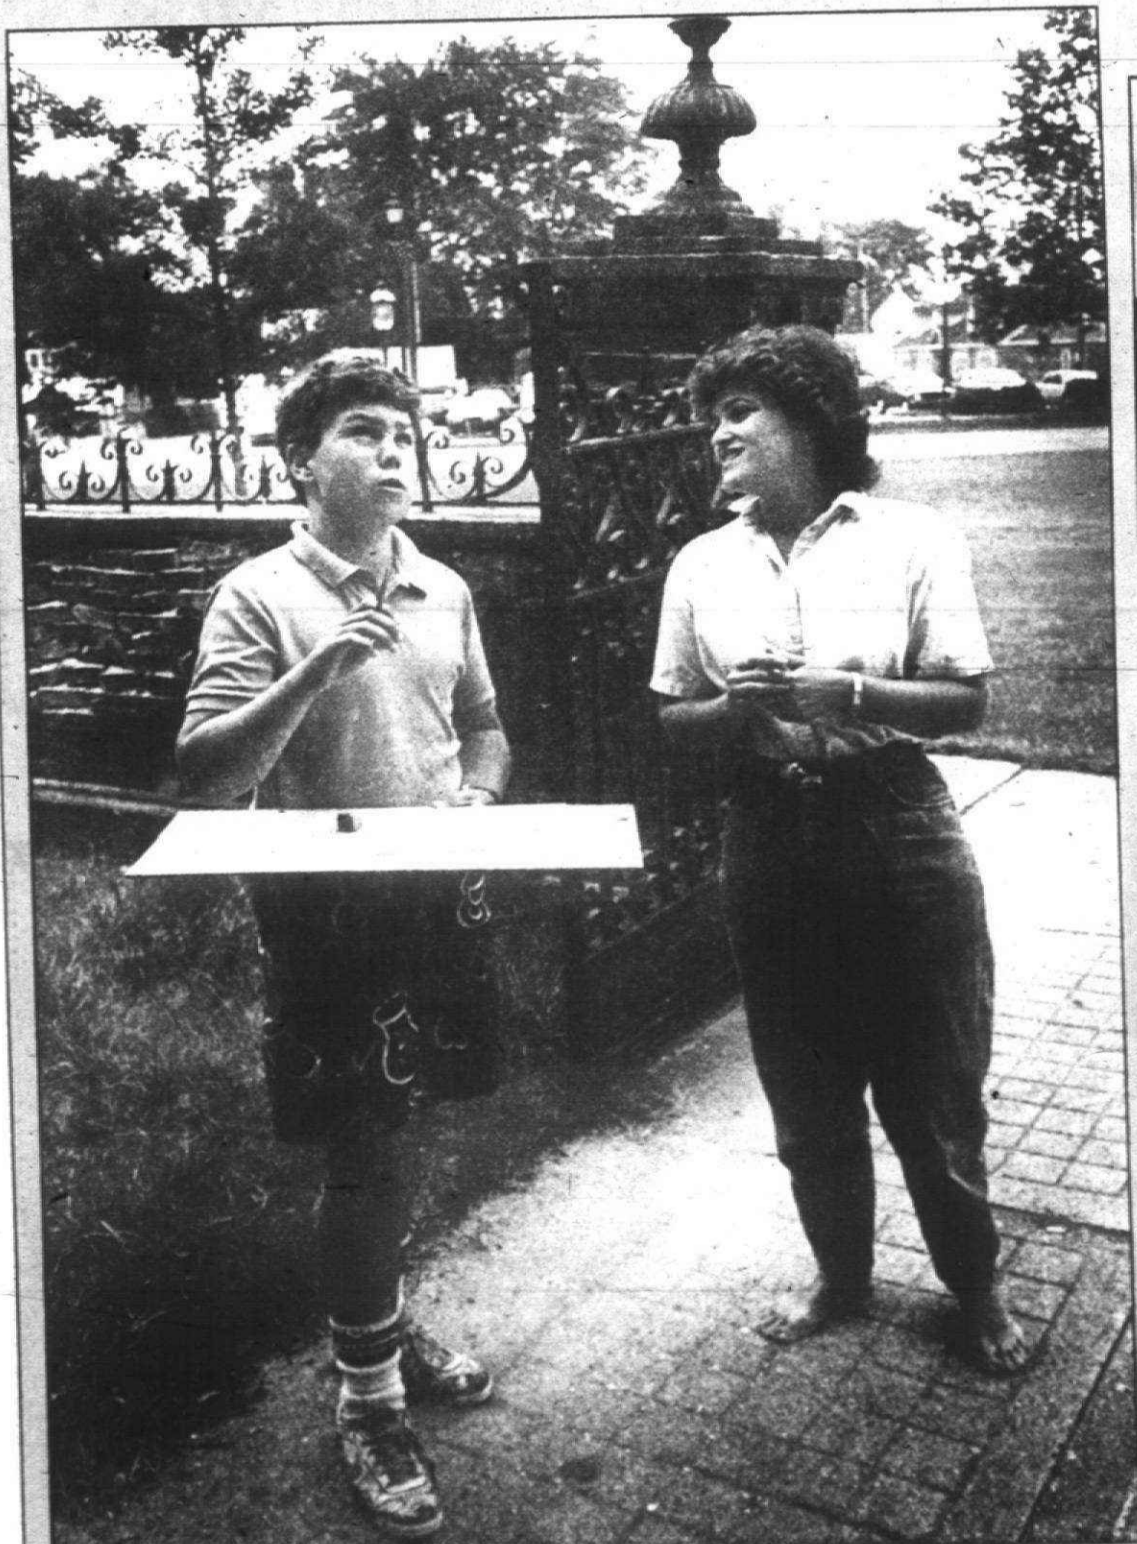

Completing an oil painting takes some time; painting the house portion of the students' masterpieces is more time-consuming than the sky portion is, according to Holton. "That'll take some time." Some of the students can become a bit impatient when the work doesn't get done right away.

"I try to teach them to slow down. This is relaxing. For me, anyway, it's really therapeutic."

In addition to teaching, Holton does some oil painting, both for pleasure and on a commissioned basis.

Here's when fruit is ripe for pickin'

Q. Can you suggest the best times for picking fruits available in Michigan this summer?

H.S., Oak Park

A. Many Michigianians like yourself enjoy picking fresh produce both to eat now and store for winter months. It's also a great way to save money and have fun at the same time.

Michigan ranks first in the country in the production of five food crops: Jonathan and Northern Spy apples; blueberries, tart red cherries, cucumbers, and navy beans. We are fifth or higher in a total of 26 crops.

Below is the Michigan crop calendar, a partial list of approximate season opening dates. Crops generally are earlier in southern Michigan and somewhat later as you travel north.

Due to the unusually warm temperatures this past month, the cooperative extension Master Gardener says that these normal dates will be two to three weeks ahead of this schedule this year.

- June 1 — strawberries (just about finished).

- June 20 — sweet cherries.
- July 1 — raspberries.
- July 4 — tart red cherries.
- July 15 — blueberries.
- July 22 — tomatoes.
- Aug. 1 — peaches.
- Aug. 10 — pears.
- Aug. 25 — grapes.
- Sept. 15 — fall apples.

PICKING YOUR own fruits and vegetables guarantees the freshest possible.

Roadside stands also offer the just-picked freshness — without the work! Whichever way you decide, you'll enjoy the good taste that's good for you.

"Michigan Carousel," a guide to pick-your-own and roadside stands throughout Michigan is available free from: Michigan Dept. of Agriculture, Communications Dept., P.O. Box 30017, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

Dear Jo:
My mother has been diagnosed as having Tourette's syndrome. She is confined to a nursing home for a variety of medical problems and receives good care.

My reason for writing is to ask you how we should react to the outbursts of profane language that go along with Tourette's syndrome. During her entire life, right up until she became ill, she never used any language that was unbecoming to a lady.

We are at a loss as to what to do and would like your advice on this.

Mrs. E.W., Northern Reader

Dear Mrs. W.:
For those who are not familiar with this rare condition, Tourette's syndrome is a neurological disorder that is marked by uncoordinated body movements, speech disorders and convulsions. Generally, its cause is unknown.

Patients with this syndrome attempt to use will power to control their behavior, but find that the symptoms such as outbursts of profanity appear involuntarily.

The best thing that you and your family can do is ignore your mother's language and look on it as part of her disease, just as you would if she presented with any other symptom. She would be shocked and humiliated if she were aware of what she was doing.

Try not to personalize her behavior; i.e. become emotionally distressed when she uses the incongruent language, as it will distance you from her at a time when she needs you the most.

A. Jolayne Farrell

Dear Jo:
Could you suggest a good book on exercise for those of us who are over age 60?

G.B., Regular Reader

Dear Mr. B.:

Three generations of the Kauffman family — Naomi Lederach, Nona Kauffman and Beth Lederach — have written a book titled "Exercise as You Grow Older."

The authors approach exercise from a personal angle, incorporating family anecdotes, family events and a sound philosophy.

The focus of the exercises in the book is to promote muscle tone, balance, coordination and flexibility. For clarity, large print and illustrations are used.

You can order the book through your local bookstore. The publisher is Good Books located in Inter-course, Pa., and the cost is $9.95.

Town Hall has new site

The Livonia Town Hall Lecture Series will have a new meeting place for its 1987-88 season.

The lecture series will be moving to Bobby's Country House in Livonia. Last year the Town Hall met at the Livonia Holiday Inn — West.

The 1987-88 lineup is: Chef Du-glass, Oct. 21; Observer & Eccentric graphology columnist Lorene Green, Nov. 18; television writer Mike Duffy, Jan. 20; and Jacobson's fashion and cosmetics experts Sandy Wloszek and Deede Hassinger, March 15.

Town Hall officials said seating will be limited this year.

A season ticket for the lectures is $24 ($30, sponsor; $35 patron). Send check payable to Livonia Town Hall with stamped, self-addressed envelope to Shirley Dodge, 38771 Roycroft, Livonia 48154.

Tickets for the after-lecture luncheons are $7 each. Send check with stamped, self-addressed envelope to Lois Gibbons, 37664 Kingsbury, Livonia 48154.

Oakwood's Women & Children's Health Care Center

Meet one of our toughest customers

Don't let this innocent look fool you. A sick child can be the most demanding of patients. One that requires care that goes beyond medical science. Care that includes a reassuring touch. A calming voice. The ability to explain procedures in terms the child and family can understand. And a policy that even encourages the parents to stay overnight. It's all part of the care your child will receive at Oakwood's Women & Children's Health Care Center. Where doctors and nurses have a commitment to pediatrics that makes it much more than a job. People who find their greatest satisfaction is treating tough customers like this one. Developer Lawrence Dailey of Southfield: "The riverfront is prime land, the last place in the country near water that is not already developed."

Riverfront development forges suburban links

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

The river. More specifically, a three-mile stretch of Detroit River shoreline between the Ambassador Bridge and Belle Isle where some $300 million in development is under construction.

Present projects include River Place, a $250 million multi-use development by Stroh Brewery Co.; Harbortown, a $35 million joint residential development by ANR Development and MichCon Development Corp.; a $25 million remodeling project of Renaissance Center, an estimated $20 million expansion of linked water front parks owned by the city; and an unknown number of smaller ventures by private entrepreneurs.

Why is development on the Detroit River of any possible significance to people living in Birmingham, Farmington or Westland?

"THE RIVERFRONT is the hot spot of development in a seven-county radius," said developer Lawrence Dailey of Southfield.

"Look around. The riverfront is prime land, the last place in the country near water that is not already developed."

Dailey is owner of R.E. Dailey & Co., the construction firm that is building what has been described as the "heart" of the Stroh River Place development, a 19th-century warehouse conversion into 500,000 square feet of office and retail space.

"There's a lot of available land (along the shoreline) that has been lying dormant for a very long time. It's prime for tapping," said Dailey who currently serves as chairman of the 2,700-member Construction Association of Michigan.

GARY KRAUSE, vice president of property development for Stroh, agrees.

"This is not an average piece of real estate. This is fresh, clear water. This is an international border, a go-anywhere-in-the-world-from-here place. This is a celebration of a true Midwestern resource.

"Why is the filling station attendant in Westland interested in what's happening on the waterfront?" Krause asked. "Because his economic health is directly tied to a healthy region."

A "vested interest" is how developer William Caldwell of Troy puts it. "Everyone living in the metropolitan area has a vested interest in the vitality and health of Detroit, whether they live in the city or not."

Caldwell, president of Caldwell American Investment of Troy, is one of the original developers of Harbortown, a riverfront project that includes 1,000 housing units and a shopping center.

Although he has not been associated with the project since last December, Caldwell calls the riverfront "the key to Detroit's vitality."

EVELYN BROWN of the Detroit Economic Growth Corporation, a non-profit organization aimed at expanding the city's economic base, also uses the word "vitality" when describing redevelopment.

"People who come downtown are amazed at the vitality," Brown said. But she readily concedes that the big problem is "getting people downtown."

"Perception seems to belie fact and in view of what we read about Detroit, it's hard to convince people to come."

Image also concerns the current chairman of board of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, Bloomfield Hills attorney Richard Van Dusen.

Detroit's image, according to Van Dusen, is directly tied to that of neighboring suburban communities and it is obviously beneficial for that image to be positive.

"It is clear that economic health on a continuing basis depends in part on the image of the region. Image is what attracts new business," Van Dusen said.

DEVELOPMENT ALONG the Detroit River is used to portray a more positive impression of the city, described in marketing films as an area rich in history that is emerging from deterioration into a progressive "people place."

"A return to the city's roots on the river, mixing the best of the past with the promise of the future," according to Detroit Mayor Coleman Young in one such marketing film.

Developers, city officials and others envision the riverfront a mixed-use community, complete with cultural and shopping facilities that are linked to housing developments.

The phenomenon has been called "yuppifying of the riverfront," "Detroit's second renaissance," and the "re-birth of the city."

But others are more reserved in their opinions, labeling developers "genuine river gamblers" and expressing caution.

"More diligence than ever is needed" when firms consider current shoreline projects, said contractor Ben Maibach of Southfield.

Maibach, president of Barton-Malow Construction Co., is an experienced riverfront contractor who built the Joe Louis Arena in the 1970s and the River Front Apartments in the 1980s.

'Quality of life' is the issue

The city vs. the suburbs.

Us vs. them.

Does the polarity have to exist? No, says Ted Moss, president of River Place Properties. In a speech before the Grosse Pointe Senior Men's Club, Moss pointed out the mutual benefits of a healthy city-suburb relationship. Here is an excerpt from his speech:

"As a suburbanite who works downtown at the riverfront, I want to share my perspective on why we all should claim a connection to Detroit. I then want to talk about the suburbs' connection to the city.

"We all know the media thrives on conflict. Oftentimes, the suburbs are played out against the city. A local company leaving downtown for the suburbs turns into a story that plays up downtown's loss, the suburbs' gain. And when businesses decide to return to downtown — the riverfront, for example — it can be termed part of a trend.

"I maintain that, when it comes to business location, it is not an 'us-vs.-them' situation.

"AT STROH River Place, we are not in competition with suburban developments any more than with downtown developments or even other riverfront projects. Like other major projects in the city and in southeast Michigan, we market our product by stressing its special features.

"The construction tradesmen who are working on Stroh River Place take pride in their role in the largest historic renovation in the Midwest. Some live in the city. But I would bet most are from surrounding communities. Do they think in terms of suburbs vs. city? Do they think in terms of us vs. them? I think not.

"I tend to believe those workers take pride in being part of a project that will make the community a better place to live, work and be entertained.

"Peter Stroh lives in Grosse Pointe Farms, River Place Properties chairman Bill Powers lives in Birmingham. I live in Bloomfield. But we join together in organizations that benefit Detroit.

"Those who are really concerned with this area want to think of Detroit in the widest terms possible. Those who are really concerned with

"There is a definite magnetism created by the water, a therapeutic, refreshing effect. Transition (in the area) is definitely in motion and there is room for more activity."

But, Maibach cautions, "how quickly real change will occur is questionable."

REBIRTH OR NOT, it is evident jobs have been created by the activity and suburban-based businesses are receiving a fair share of the work.

Redstone Associates, an architectural firm originally of Detroit and now of Livonia, is designing for River Place townhouses with computerized security within an old warehouse.

"We've always felt the thing that will bring Detroit back is to get people living downtown," said Redstone vice president Al Geddeman. "Our housing designs fall into that line of thinking."

Storen & Associates, a construction management firm in Bloomfield Hills, is building Harbortown's commercial structure.

Owner Robert Storen has contracted work with a number of suburban-based businesses, including Livonia-based companies like Professional Fence Services, Peter A. Basile & Sons and Skandia Landscaping, as well as Old Village Sign Co. of Plymouth and Gray Electric of Troy.

EACH CONTRACT forges working links between the suburbs and the city; links illustrated by such comments as those of John Bailey who has lived in Farmington Hills and worked in Detroit for nearly 20 years.

"I think of myself as a Detroitite," Bailey said. "I also think of myself as a suburbanite."

Roger Smith, chairman of General Motors, also serves as chairman of Detroit Renaissance, a non-profit group which promotes development in the city.

Smith, who lives in Bloomfield Hills, said, "Many of us who live in the suburbs work in Detroit. We consider ourselves part of the whole metropolis."

"From that standpoint, (the city) provides a wide array of interesting, exciting and unique experiences that you cannot obtain in the suburbs. It's a special place. There is nothing else like it to be found in the area."

Now, Wherever We Have A Bank, You Have A Bank.

Manufacturers Bank has combined all of its local offices in Detroit, Livonia, Novi, St. Clair Shores and Southfield into one single bank.

So from now on, wherever you see a Manufacturers Bank sign, you'll be looking at one bank. And no matter where you live or work in metropolitan Detroit, you'll have access to the quality service at all of our 98 Detroit area branches.

Plus, no other bank in the area offers you the convenience of 72 branches open on Saturday with 25 of those having full lobby service.

So, now it's a lot easier to bank where business banks. Manufacturers Bank.

ed in the Wolverine VIII soccer tournament in Livonia last weekend.

Ohio ballclubs dominate play

By Brad Emons
staff writer

The Wolverine VIII Soccer Tournament had a distinct Buckeye flavor last weekend.

Some 170 teams competed in the three-day extravaganza, which began Friday at three different sites in Livonia, capped by the championship finals Sunday at Schoolcraft College.

Ohio teams captured six of the 13 age divisions and finished second in five.

But in the under-19 division for girls, Ohio was shut out as two longtime Livonia rivals battled for the championship. The Hawks, coached by Paul Dugan, prevailed over the Crusaders, coached by Dave Lussier, 2-1, in double overtime. The two teams are primarily made up of players from Observerland.

The game wasn't decided until 22 seconds were left in the second five-minute overtime as Farmington High sophomore Carrie Maier scored on an assist from Kim Montgomery.

IT WAS THE third time this season the Hawks had beaten the Crusaders. In a previous matchup between the two teams in the Michigan Youth Soccer Association State Cup, the Hawks also won in OT to qualify for Saturday's Midwest Regional in Burnsville, Minn. And during the regular season encounter, the Hawks prevailed by a goal.

"This was a good tuneup for the regionals," Dugan said. "I've had seven of these girls for eight years now. We won the under-16 (at the regionals) and took third that year (1985) in the nationals. I'm looking forward to it."

After a scoreless first half, Jennifer Sherman scored for the Hawks, but Laurie Hauber, a freshman from Harvard, countered with a goal for the Crusaders. The game remained 1-1 until Maier's goal.

"The Hawks are an excellent team and it was a good game for both of us," said Lussier, the Crusaders' coach.

Elks rally, defeat Ypsi in last at-bat

The Canton Elks produced a winning effort in the clutch Tuesday as they edged Ypsilanti 9-8 to run their Redford Adray-Connie Mack League record to 11-1.

The Elks, 14-1 overall, faced an 8-4 deficit when they came to bat for the final time in the top of the seventh inning. With the pressure on, they came up with the five runs needed to win.

The decisive inning, in which the Elks sent 11 batters to the plate, began with Joel Riggs hitting safely, Tim Dowd drawing a walk and Steve Waite reaching base on a fielder's choice. An error on the latter play allowed Riggs to take third and loaded the bases.

Chris Sisler started the scoring parade with an RBI single. Then Dowd scored on an error, Waite on a passed ball as the Elks cut Ypsilanti's lead to one.

AFTER TODD Kenyon was hit by a pitch to load the bases again, Kevin Learned and Steve Johnson were issued RBI walks, the second bringing Jay Buelow to the plate with the winning run.

Riggs went 3-for-5 and scored two runs, as did Sisler. Vince Fox keyed a four-run first inning with a two-run single.

The father-son racing duo of Tom and Doug Goad, competing in the IMSA Firestone-Firehawk Endurance Series with its Pontiac Firebird (No. 19 at left), met with success in '86 and is off to a good start in '87.

Father-son combination hits big time in endurance racing

SUCCESS DOESN'T just breed success. In the world of auto racing, it breeds expansion. Ask Doug Goad.

The 29-year-old Farmington Hills resident and Birmingham Seaholm graduate has traveled a long, twisting road in a six-year racing career. He started driving a 1974 Buick Opel in the Waterford Hills circuit in 1981; now he's racing a Pontiac Firebird on the International Motorsports Association Firestone-Firehawk endurance circuit.

And sharing the driver's seat with him is Tom Goad — his father.

As Doug explained, "My hobby has grown into a time-consuming business operation."

IT'S ALSO GROWN into a fairly successful operation. After a spotty initial season on the IMSA Firestone-Firehawk circuit in 1985, the Goads improved dramatically in 1986. Their car finished all but one of 10 races, and they were first in the first five races of the season.

But problems haunted them. "Last year was frustrating," admitted Doug. "Our introduction into motor sports was a real learning experience."

Among their lessons were two disqualifications in races they won, one for not using track fuel and another for using an illegal part.

"That's when we were transformed from amateurs to professionals," said Doug. "We had to get real serious or get out. This was no game anymore."

C.J. Risak

The Goads finished the '86 campaign with Doug fifth and Tom sixth in the driver's standings. Their teammates, Andy Pilgrim and Bill Bayley, who were also driving a Firebird, placed third (Pilgrim) and fourth in the driver's standings.

But it was Doug who was awarded the Norelco Cup, presented annually to the circuit's best driver.

"That kind of made up for a lot of things," he said.

THE 1987 SEASON has started smoother, if not as successful, for the Goads. In the six-hour opening race at Sebring March 20 they placed third. At the three-hour Riverside (Calif.) race April 25, a flat tire dropped them from second to 85th; they eventually finished sixth.

The six-hour Phoenix race May 16 proved disastrous. A blown gasket crippled their car, taking them to 28th out of 32 entries.

That was no way to prep the car for the grueling 24-hour Watkins Glen (N.Y.) race, the next stop on the circuit. Of the 80 cars that started the June 17 race, the Goads had qualified 12th.

By the first turn, Doug had streaked into fourth place. Problems kept cropping up, however: a spin-out on wet, slippery, repatched pavement; a lap lost when the brakes failed; a change of the rear axle which, fortunately, took less than 4½ minutes.

AND YET the Goads persevered. When the 24 hours had elapsed they were in second place, one spot ahead of teammates Pilgrim, Bayley and Tim Evans and 1:20 behind the winners — despite nursing blown brakes.

At the three-hour Road Atlanta race June 28, the Goads overcame a poor qualifying position (16th) and Doug's dehydration to move into sixth place with 30 minutes left in the race when they were mistakenly waved off the track by officials who thought they were spilling fuel. That dropped the Goads to 11th, and that's where they finished.

Five races remain on the schedule, starting this weekend at Summit Point (W. Va.). "Our object," said Doug, "is to win a manufacturer's championship." That goal is within reach; prior to the Road Atlanta

Orchestra gives Copland first-class treatment

The classical series of the Meadow Brook Festival had a much larger audience last Thursday than during its previous two weeks. This was, of course, the beginning of the long Fourth of July weekend. After observing roads severely congested by vacationers heading north and so many others braving downtown Detroit traffic to watch the fireworks on the river front, it was a wonder there were so many left to attend the Meadow Brook program.

Traditionally, these holiday concerts have been followed by a lavish display of fireworks on the grounds. This year, however, the fireworks were cancelled due to inability to obtain fire insurance for the pavilion.

This must have left many in the audience disappointed. Had this been more widely advertised, it might have affected the attendance for this program, featuring music by Aaron Copland.

There is no accounting for taste and preferences among people are bound to differ. Copland's music, in my opinion, could never compete artistically with that of the European masters. But in terms of spirit, it would be hard to find more suitable music for the occasion. This music, which could be written only by someone who has nourished the American heritage all his life, has an obvious appeal to American audiences.

But the fact that Copland music is performed all over the world proves that it amounts to much more than a simplistic display of nationalism. It is the kind of music that could embrace everybody, regardless of national origin.

To a large degree, Copland's music is appealing in its accessibility. It has none of the harsh and controversial contemporary elements that tend to turn audiences away. It features melodies that one can actually sing, some of which are based on familiar American tunes.

This program provided samples of both familiar and less familiar works by Copland. Among the former were "El Salon Mexico" and "Billy the Kid." Among the less familiar were the short work "Letter from Home" and the Concerto for Clarinet and Orchestra.

Guest conductor Leonard Slatkin, music director of the St. Louis Symphony, is among the most respected visiting conductors here. His ability to combine plain, old-fashioned enthusiasm with high musical standards was crucial in elevating this music to high art. Whatever one's opinion may be of the music's intrinsic quality, one tends to treat it with respect after such a capable performance.

Visiting clarinet virtuoso, Richard Stoltzman, excited the audience with his captivating performance of the clarinet concerto. This work was dedicated by the composer to the late Benny Goodman. Its first movement, which is slow and subdued, tends to become more meaningful in retrospect — when the long virtuosic cadenza bridges it with the catchy phrases and spirited technique of the second movement.

Following this work, Stoltzman played a piece by Jenkins as an encore, which was a farewell tribute to Benny Goodman.

"Billy the Kid" was performed in its entirety. To most, this work is familiar only as a short suite. While not all of the music is equally exciting without the ballet performance, the long shooting episode was a partial compensation for the absence of fireworks. However, judging by the reactions, most would have preferred the real thing.

briefly speaking

● SUNSET SERENDIPITY

Walk the woods at dusk — just as the sun sets. That's the invitation from the staff of the University of Michigan-Dearborn Environmental Study Area for a tour at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. As the sun sets, walkers will be alerted to sights and sounds that occur as night hours approach. The tours are free and last about 90 minutes. Walkers should meet at the study area's main entrance on Fairlane Drive inside the UM-D campus. Dress for the season.

● METALWORK COLLECTION

The Cranbrook Metalwork Collection, a fascinating exhibition of silver, gold, brass and iron objects, will be on view at Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum through Sept. 20.

Featuring 33 objects and 17 drawings, the show presents many of the finest metalsmithing pieces from the Cranbrook Collection. Vases, jewelry, sculptures, andirons, chalices and lamps are among the works on display. Drawings by Eliel Saarinen for flatware, gates and andirons are also included.

For tour information, call 645-3323.

● EYEMEDIAE

The gallery at Eyemediae will be exhibiting clay sculpture and drawings by Daniela Richter and Anat Shifan through Aug. 1. The gallery is located at 213 N. Fourth Ave., Ann Arbor. Galleries hours are Mondays and Tuesdays, 7-10 p.m. and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays.

● EXHIBITORS SOUGHT

Arts group redefines its focus

The Arts Alliance Group, a non-profit organization consisting of individuals interested in enhancing the quality of the arts in the northwestern suburbs, has reorganized and redefined its purpose.

According to Ken Kelsey, new TAAG chairman, "We have changed the focus of TAAG from being a 'fund-raising' organization to a 'fund-raising' group." The emphasis of TAAG now will be to organize artistic programs and excursions which will be fun and a good entertainment value for the arts consumer.

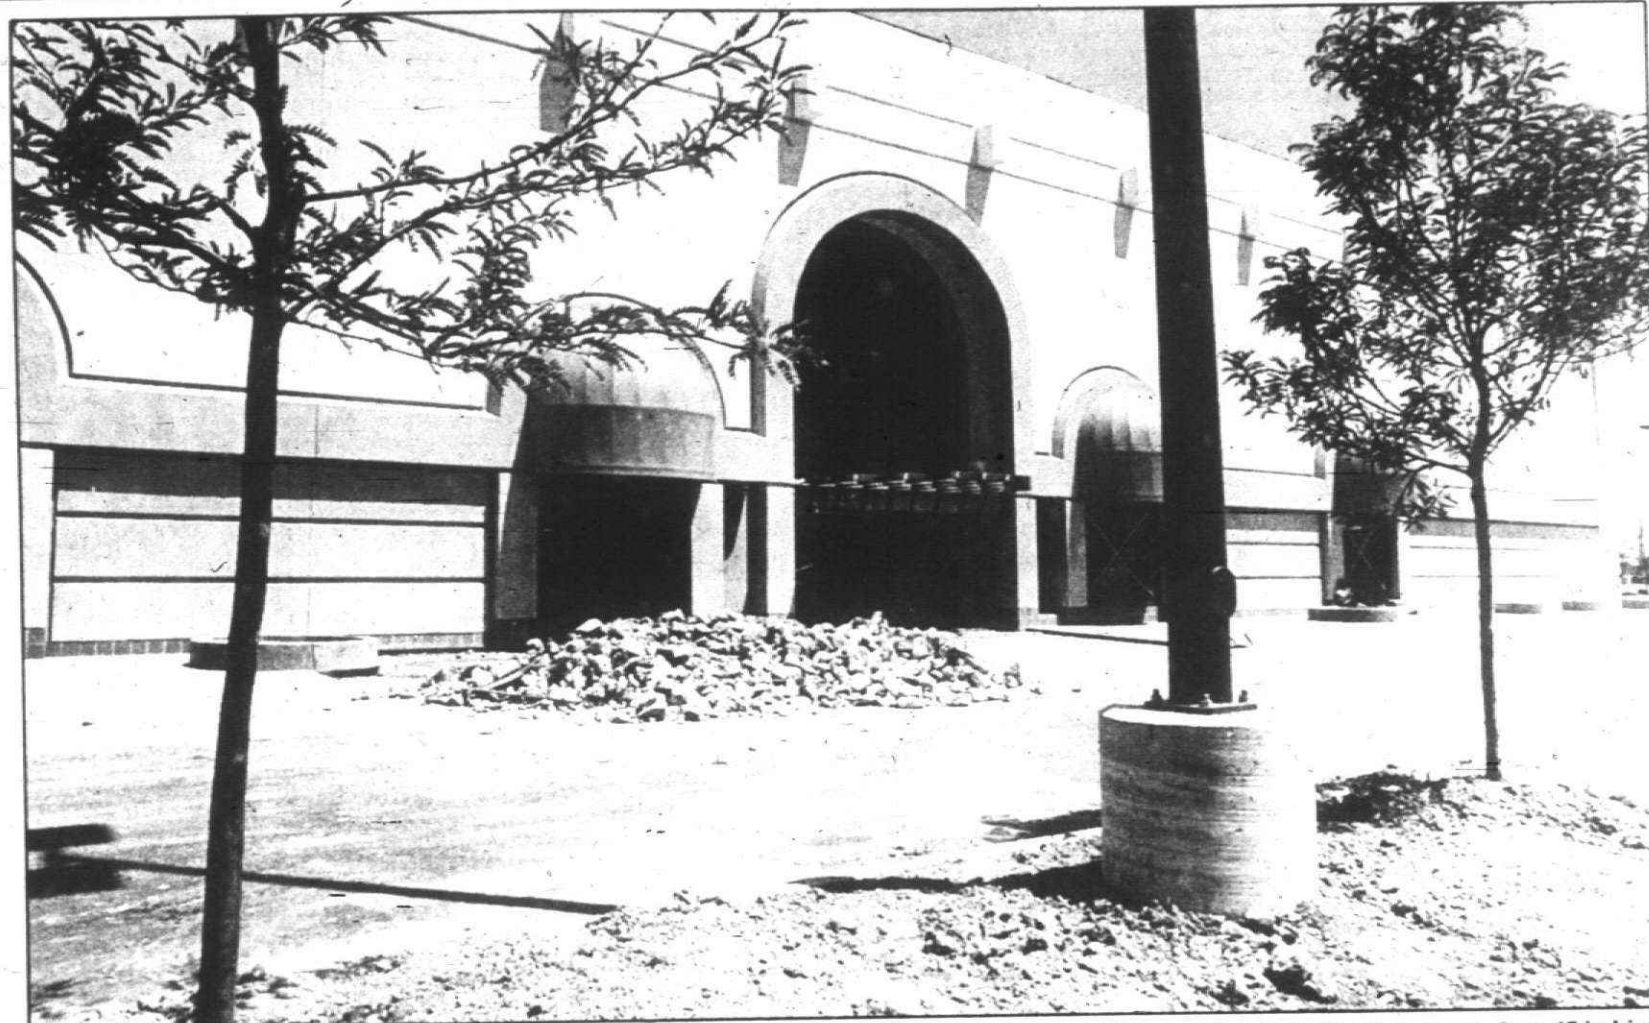

Recently, TAAG members took a bus trip to Ann Arbor for a jazz concert by Dave Brubeck. The next program will be a trip to Chicago to see the Chicago Symphony Orchestra perform at the Ravinia.

The TAAG group will leave on Friday, July 24, and will return Sunday, July 26. The per person price of $199 covers round trip train to Chicago from Dearborn and back, two nights at the Westin Hotel, all transfers, admission to the symphony concert on Saturday, July 25, at 8:30 p.m., and all taxes and gratuities for the above items.

THE CHICAGO SYMPHONY will present a Russian night at their July 25 concert. The renowned Soviet maestro Gennady Rozhdestvensky will be conducting the Shostakovich Symphony No. 10, E Minor, Opus 93 and the Rachmaninoff Concerto No. 3. The guest pianist will be Nelson Frierie.

The group will depart on the Amtrak train from Dearborn at 12:05 p.m. on Friday, July 24 and will return the following Sunday at 8:30 p.m. Information regarding the TAAG trip to Chicago can be obtained from Diana Socha at TravelMasters, 591-9022.

Future TAAG artistic endeavors will include an art auction in October and a concert by the Jackson Chorale in the early winter. Additional information about membership in TAAG and its activities can be obtained by contacting Kelsey at 261-2620 or by writing TAAG, P.O. Box 2412, Livonia, 48151.

A stucco-like exterior with aqua arched canopies will greet customers at the front entrance of the new Jacobson's set to open Aug. 15 in Livonia.

New Jacobson's contemporary in design

AN OCTAGON-shaped skylight — an impressive 56 feet above the base of a glass escalator — is one of the many design highlights of Jacobson's new Laurel Park Place Livonia store opening Aug. 15.

The 150,000-square-foot, two-level store has a contemporary "abstract classic" design. An off-white, studio-like exterior with contrasting aqua arched canopies creates a fresh and appealing look that architecturally blends with the surrounding neighborhood. Inside, a marble staircase, wood and marble trims throughout the store, hand-carved wood moldings and arched windows are surrounded by combinations of pastel and neutral color schemes.

The exterior architects for the project are Brown and Deyo Associates Inc. of Bloomfield Hills, and the general contractor is D. M. Kitchen of Troy. Jacobson's own store planning is responsible for the interior design and space planning.

'Each of our stores — and Livonia is the newest example — is a reflection of the community it's in.'

— J. Russell Fowler
Jacobson's chairman of the board

"Each of our stores — and Livonia is the newest example — is a reflection of the community it's in," said J. Russell Fowler, chairman of the board of Jacobson's. "The individuality of each Jacobson's store has been an important factor in our success.

The first floor will feature women's accessories, specialties, boyswear, men's apparel, home accessories and children's wear. Located on the second floor will be women's apparel — including an International Designer Salon and Signature Collection — home furnishings and services, including a restaurant.

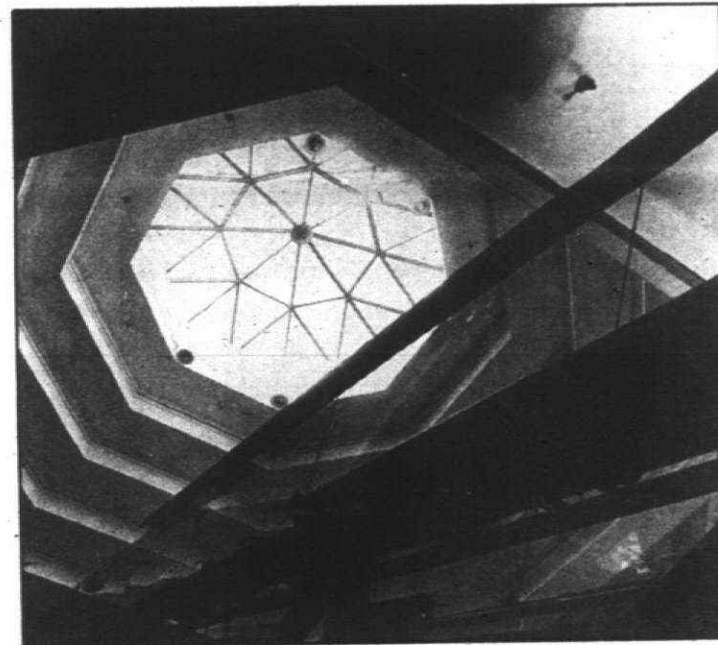

Louis Feraud, Tiktiner, Valentino, Miss V., and Ungarao are some of the designers women will find in the International Designer Salon. Other designer apparel for women includes Albert Nipon, Damon, Victor Costa, and Raul Blanco in the Designer Salon; Anne Klein and Gloria Sachs in Collection Sportswear.

Signature Collection customers will find designers like Joanie Char and Cathy Hardwick; and in sportswear, names including Liz Claiborne, Dalton and Bleyle. Nancy Johnson and Pendleton are just two of the names in the Petites collection. In the coat and suit salon, Dejac, Perry Ellis and Bill Blass.

Men will find names such as Hickey-Freeman, Burberrys' and Hathaway.

For children, Florence Eiseman and Christian Dior are a few of the best known.

For the home, Baker, Herend, and the Theo Faberge St. Petersburg Egg Collection in gifts.

An octagon-shaped skylight over a glass escalator (shown in foreground under construction) highlights the new 150,000-square-foot Laurel Park store.

'New Deal' art good deal for collectors

SINGLY, THEY are unique — from the muted, wintry tones of Agnes Tait's "Skating in Central Park," to the vibrant red and stunning shape of Alexander Calder's "Flamingo." Collectively, they are a portrait of the nation.

The 15 museum-quality posters — 10 featuring "Depression-era" art commissioned by the federal government during the 1930s — were published by the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) to celebrate 50 years of federal patronage of the arts. GSA is the government's business manager, providing, among other things, workspace for most federal civilian agencies.

Called "Federal Art: Portrait of the Nation," the collection was unveiled in Washington, D.C. last month by GSA Administrator Terence C. Golden. The 24-by-30-inch posters, printed in full color, are available in prepackaged sets of five for $10 per set.

"OUR GOAL IS TO increase the quality of the space we occupy by creating an attractive and people-oriented environment. We are making federal art widely available to federal agencies to enhance their workspace," Golden said. But the offer is also being made available to the general public.

Five posters showcase works originally commissioned for GSA's Art-in-Architecture program, which allocates one-half of 1 percent of the cost of new construction projects — of major renovations — for fine art to enhance federal buildings. Since 1962, GSA has commissioned more than 250 works nationwide.

During the depression years, Golden said, the government also commissioned art for federal office buildings, post offices and courthouses, "producing the first body of truly American public art." Ten posters depicting art from this period feature original paintings now in the Smithsonian's collections.

The Golden Anniversary series, "A New Deal for American Art in Federal Buildings," 1935-1943, includes two sets of five posters each, with works commissioned by the Work Projects Administration (WPA) and other federal agencies.

Set one consists of "Greetings from a Manhattan Artist," by Ida Abelman; "Sixth Avenue L," by Francis Criss; "Composition," by Stuart Davis; "Structure," by Eugene Morley; and "Aerial Act," by Louis Schanker.

SET TWO CONSISTS OF "Festival at Hamburg," by William E.L. Bunn; "School's Out," by Allan Rohan Crite; "Italians in Jefferson Park," by Jerome Myers; "Artists on WPA," by Moses Soyer; and "Skating in Central Park," by Agnes Tait.

The Silver Anniversary series, "Celebrating the Vitality of American Art in Federal Buildings," 1962-1986, showcases five works from GSA's Art-in-Architecture program: "Flamingo," by Alexander Calder; "Tlingit," by Robert Hudson; "On High," by Alexander Calder; "Joatinga," by Frank Stella; and "Chorale," by Isaac Witkin.

Although published primarily to enliven government work areas, these handsome prints would brighten any room — at home or at work. They also would be ideal gifts for art or history buffs.

The posters are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402-9325, or by calling (202) 783-3238. They also may be purchased at Government Printing Office bookstores.

Maquette for "Flamingo" (1972) by Alexander Calder is included in the public art portfolio being offered for sale.

"Skating in Central Park" (1934) by Agnes Tait is one of 15 posters in a portfolio of public art being offered by the U.S. General Services Administration.

Ideas galore at Homearama

HOMEARAMA, the builders' annual showcase of new idea houses being held from July 9 to Aug. 2 this year, will almost triple in size with 34 new built-especially-for-Homearama houses worth $10 million, making it one of the largest shows of its type in the country.

For the first time in its five-year history, Homearama will be staged at two sites simultaneously — in Rochester and in Macomb Township. The Macomb Township location will be the first time Homearama will be in the east side.

Each house is the creation of its own team of architects, builders, interior designers and landscapers, and incorporates their latest ideas and techniques.

DONALD PRATT, chairman of Homearama for the fifth year for the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, is optimistic about this year's show.

"This is by far the finest, most exciting Homearama we have ever presented," said Pratt. "I wouldn't be surprised if attendance hits 150,000 or more, doubling last year's 80,000."

Pratt, president of Wake-Pratt Enterprises Inc. of Troy, bases his predictions on Homearama running 25 days this year compared with 18 last year, and also that Homearama is being held at the prime time of the year with better weather and more daylight hours. Last year's Homearama in Livonia featured 12 houses and ran Sept. 12 through Oct. 12.

Nineteen houses will be clustered in the hilly Stony Pointe subdivision in Rochester, called by Pratt "one of the nicest sites we could ever find for Homearama," and one we've had our eye on for a couple of years.

HOUSES AT STONY Pointe, on Parkdale between Rochester and Dequindre roads, will be in the $225,000 to $500,000 price range.

On the east side, 15 houses in the $115,000 to $200,000 price range will be in the Jefferson Meadows subdivision on 22 Mile between Hayes and Romec Plank roads in Macomb Township, now Detroit's fastest-growing suburban area.

Homearama will be open noon to 10 p.m. Mondays-Fridays, and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

The admission price of $4 per person at each location includes an extensive plan book covering all houses. Discount coupons for each location are available.

at all offices of Detroit Edison, First Federal of Michigan and Standard Federal Bank, which sponsor Homearama with the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan.

A tent of exhibits on house heating, cooling and financing will be presented by the co-sponsors at Homearama. Free parking is provided at each location, and refreshments will be sold.

High drama

Gathering rooms — or great rooms — are still popular in new house design. This dramatic view is the from the second-floor balcony of the 4-bedroom Brookstone model by the Brody Group in the Rochester Homearama and features floor to ceiling glass.

Home decor ideas abound

One of the nicest things about any Homearama are the ideas on home decor the show presents along with the latest in home design. Here, in the Jasmine home, by Lepore Building Co. in Jefferson Meadows, interior designer Elaine M. Her-shock captures a feeling of warmth in the classic French two-story home that features — among other things — a master bedroom with a fireplace with tile and wood mantle. The living area is shown here.

In addition to all of the wonderfully innovative ideas you'll collect when you stroll through our models at Homearama, we'll give you a gift certificate to use at either of our stores! Bring in your certificate and let our designers assist to help recreate the looks you'll love living with!

Many of the furnishings you'll see at Homearama and our stores, are exclusive due to our international buying power and membership in the Contemporary Design Group.

Homearama is showcase of what's 'in' in new homes

ASTROLL through the 34 new homes displayed in Homearama, in two locations this year, July 9 to Aug. 2, will leave no doubt as to what's "in" in new homes. Each the product of its own team of builder, architect, interior designer and landscaper, the homes showcase the latest features that are tempting today's home buyers, plus innovative features for tomorrow's homes.

French doors are definitely in, but not only for interior doors but exterior doors as well. In the interiors, they lead from den to gathering room in the Kensington by Woodlake Homes and from the nook to master bedroom in the Oakville by J.C.A. Construction, two of the 15 homes on display in Jefferson Meadows, the Homearama location on 22 Mile between Hayes and Romeo Plank in Macomb Township.

EXTERIOR FRENCH doors lead to the decks in the Atria, by Sgroi Construction. The Excalibur, by Cohen/Winkler Properties, and the Nouveau, by Laran Building Co., all in Jefferson Meadows. Also there, the Jasmine, by Lepore Building Co., has French doors leading out from the foyer.

The French doors separating the formal dining room from the great room in the Shenandoah, by Hopper Construction, also in Jefferson Meadows, are bronze leaded. Double French doors lead into the library in the Oak Wood, by Wake Pratt Enterprises, one of 19 homes in Stony Pointe Homearama location on Parkdale Road between Rochester Road and Dequindre in Rochester.

POSITIVELY IN is the use of oak wood, as the names of Wake-Pratt Enterprises so visibly recognize. This hard, durable wood is found almost everywhere in everything, from staircases and paneling to kitchen cabinets and flooring.

Oak paneling is used in both the study and the kitchen in the Hampton, by Olympia Homes Inc., in Stony Pointe.

A solid oak herringbone-pattern floor is featured in the Wake Pratt home as well, and an oak parquet floor is featured in the Shenandoah.

Open, winding and hanging staircases are an innovative item this year. The Hillcrest, by Barnard & Associates and Caesar Homes in Stony Pointe, has a three-story winding staircase of oak, of course.

The stairway in the Jeffersonian, by A. E. Mead Inc. in Jefferson Meadows, is circular, while the one in the Allison, by Rayco Building Co., is free standing.

SOMETHING NEW in stair rails are those made entirely of glass in the Renaissance, by D. E. Parsley Builder Inc., at Jefferson Meadows. Master bedrooms on the first floor came in a year or two ago, and now Kellett & Saylor and William D. Rex Custom Builders Ltd. have advanced the "concept" with master suites on the first floors in their Stony Pointe homes.

The Bedford, by Kellett and Saylor, incorporates an attached study and whirlpool bath in their suite, while Rex incorporates a den with fireplace and two-person marble jacuzzi tub in its RexCrest home.

The two-person principle of togetherness is very much in, with other doubles tubs in the RexCrown, another home by Rex in Stony Pointe, and the Shenandoah.

Two-person showers are found in the Carrington, by Oliver Homes Inc., and the Michele, by Sura & Schneider Builders Inc., both in Stony Pointe.

A new development in the two-person separate but equal concept is the his and hers separate walk-in closets in the master suites by Jim Sardelli & Associates' Elegante in Stony Pointe, and in the Auburn, by Kamego Building Co. in Jefferson Meadows.

ISLAND WORK centers in kitchens are bigger than ever, as seen in the Heritage, by CJM Builders Inc. in Stony Pointe. Some incorporate a sink, like the ones in the Tricia, by Rayco Building Co., and the Meadowbrook, by D & T Construction Co., both in Jefferson Meadows. A cook top is incorporated in the one in the Nouveau, and an island is a snack bar in Rayco's other home in Jefferson Meadows, the Allison.

Box-out windows are more prolific than ever this year, and featured in such homes as the Omni, by Pacific Homes at Jefferson Meadows, and the Manchester, by Bing Construction Co. in Stony Pointe.

Greenhouse windows and garden windows are still in, like the one in the kitchen of the Yorkshire, by M.J.C. Homes Inc. in Stony Pointe.

Arched windows are more in than ever, with a good example found in the Elegante, by Vito Anthony Homes in Stony Pointe, where they are in the library and master bath.

The Homearama unofficial award for the most fireplaces — still in this year — goes to L.C. Homes Inc. for the four they designed into the basement, great room, master bedroom and living room of the Sheffield, in Stony Pointe.

The most unusual fireplace in Homearama may well be the one of drift

1st Federal 'privileged' to offer home financing

First Federal of Michigan is co-sponsoring the Rochester Homearama, to be held July 9-Aug. 2 at the Stony Pointe subdivision in Rochester. The site is Parkdale Road, north of M-59, between Rochester and Dequindre roads. "As Michigan's largest provider of home mortgages for more than 35 years, we think it's most appropriate — and a real privilege — to work with the Builders of Association of Southeastern Michigan on this project," said Ronald A. Sinclair, First Federal's executive vice president for lending, in announcing his company's participation. "The 19 homes this year are absolutely spectacular, and are packed with great ideas for building materials, design and decor," he commented. First Federal provided funds for lot development in the subdivision, and construction funds for model homes, which range in value from $250,000 to $500,000. "Now we look forward to having the opportunity to prove the end-loan financing to purchasers of homes in the entire subdivision," Sinclair added. First Federal loan officers will staff an information booth in the Homearama exhibit pavilion throughout the show. Hours are noon to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Current loan offerings from First Federal include a one-year adjustable rate mortgage, 15-year and 30-year fixed-rate mortgage loans, and a special 15-year graduated payment mortgage loan plan.

Deck the homes . . .

The last few years has seen the popularity of wood decks grow and grow. They're even more popular this year with Homearama models in both Stony Point and Jefferson Meadows. Shown is a deck on the Meadowood, built by D&T Construction, in Jefferson Meadows. It is accessible from the dining room. Many of the homes feature French doors to wood deck patios areas.

Excitement

Awaits at the New Lane/Venture Galerie!

The excitement of this celebration comes your way with our Mid-Summer Sale. Share our pride (and the savings) at our Lane/Venture Galerie. Festive fashions. Quality crafting. Bold concepts. Venture's Grand Caymen collection blends fully upholstered luxury with contemporary Rattan styling. It's design creates an atmosphere of casual elegance. Quality craftsmanship produces durable construction and long lasting beauty.

Jasmine

A French classic two-story, the Jasmine features a two-story foyer with French glass door and skylights in the foyer, master bedroom and main bath. Bay windows are in the nook, great room and master bedroom, which also features a fireplace with tile and wood mantle. Built by Lepore Building Co., it is in the $150,000-$160,000 price range and is located in the Jefferson Meadows segment of Homearama.

The upstairs bath in the Jasmine model tub with skylight. The use of skylights has increased throughout the building industry as evidenced by the number showing in Homearama models.

Brookstone

A transitional colonial with a country English flair, the Brookstone is an offering by the Brody Group in the Stony Pointe Homearama. Some of the features are a dramatic 2-story gathering room with floor to ceiling glass, expansive country kitchen with extra height cabinets, lower level family room with Dolby surround-sound video system and wet bar. Designer master bath with deep whirlpool tub surrounded by handcrafted art glass. Four bedrooms, four baths — two full, two half. Price range: $300,000-$400,000.

LAURA CASTLE/staff photographer

Country English touches

A country English flair is evident in the formal wood paneled library of the Brookstone, by the Brody Group, in the Stony Pointe sector of Homearama. Focal point is the marble fireplace, one of two in the two-story transitional colonial. For the opening, special flowers have been flown in from England and placed throughout the home. Interiors were by Modern Studio of Interiors.

Feeling of formality

Among the most innovative homes in Homearama is the Carlton by Robert R. Jones Associates in Stony Pointe. Tuscan columns were used extensively throughout the 4,000-square-foot home to give a feeling of formality and tradition. Here, they are shown in the full-mirrored dining room at the entry point. Interior designer was Perimutter & Freiwald Inc.

Stony Pointe to have lighted walkway system

FOR THE FIRST time in its five-year history, Homearama will feature a pedestrian sidewalk with a prototype lighting system.

The lighting system, a joint venture of Detroit Edison and developer Carl Sams, will provide security lighting in the 1988 Homearama homes in the Stony Pointe subdivisions in Rochester.

The walkway lighting system features decorative colonial-style fixtures that use 70-watt high-pressure sodium vapor lamps.

"Many communities do not provide street lighting to subdivisions," said Ray A. Maly, builder development specialist for Detroit Edison.

"Carl Sams was interested in trying something new with the Stony Pointe development that could enhance the safety and value of homes with a subdivision that has not street lighting.

"This pilot program allows us to evaluate the installation and overall acceptance of a lighted walkway system. Because of its success, we hope to offer a similar package to other developers this year."

IN ADDITION TO the walkway lighting system, Detroit Edison has designed the security lighting systems in almost all Homearama homes in Stony Pointe and Jefferson Meadows subdivision in Macomb Township.

"Our lighting experts designed lighting layouts and recommended appropriate fixtures for the homes' exteriors including lawn, deck and driveway areas," Maly said. "All fixtures include automatic or photocell timers to maximize the use of the safety lights."

Some of the Homearama homes also have the latest in heating and cooling systems. Air-to-air heat pumps were installed as add-on features to fossil-fuel furnaces to give homeowners efficient, economical heating in the winter and air conditioning in the summer.

Detroit Edison is sponsor of Homearama, along with First Federal of Michigan and Standard Federal Bank. Discount coupons, good for $1 off the admission price to Homearama Monday-Friday, will be available at Detroit Edison customer offices two weeks prior to Homearama.

Sweet dreams

What youngster wouldn't love this bedroom all done up in pink-and-white Laura Ashley prints with lavender accents, designed by Modern Studios of Interiors in the Brookstone, in the Brody Group, in the Stony Pointe segment of Homearama? The furniture is white wicker except for the chair, which is in pink. Treatment of the arched palladium window has swags of lace curtain caught up with pink bows. The carpeting is white.

Romanesque touches

Contemporary qualities with a feeling of formality and tradition, the Carlton, by Robert R. Jones Associates Inc., has Tuscan columns throughout the home — including master bedroom bath where four-columned circular whirlpool bathing tub sits on a marble deck.

Jeffersonian

A classic revival colonial, the four-bedroom Jeffersonian has a truly open floor plan — with yet another distinctive touch: a second-floor laundry. The two-story formal dining room has a glass wall at the rear with French doors. A circular staircase leads to a bridge overlooking the dining room and foyer. The great room features a brick fireplace with mantle, oak flooring and handrails. Built by A. E. Mead Inc. in Jefferson Meadows. Price range: $160,000-$175,000.

stone in the great room of the Yorkshire, by Summit Homes in Jefferson Meadows.

THE WISFUL thinking for winter award goes to Pinewood Homes for the Florida room featured in their Royalton, in Stony Pointe.

Among the most innovative homes in Homearama is the Carlton, by Robert R. Jones Associates Inc. in Stony Pointe, which uses Tuscan columns throughout the home to bring a feeling of formality and tradition to a home that otherwise has many contemporary qualities.

Advanced sound and video systems are the wave of the future at Homearama, where a Dolby surround sound video system is found in the Brookstone, by the Brody Group Inc. in Stony Pointe.

The hats-off award to the builder who incorporated the most "art" into his design would go to Benivegna Building Co. Inc. for its "Mason Home" and "Mt. Vernon" homes in Stony Pointe.

These contemporary and traditional homes, respectively, show an inspired use of custom wood carving on entry doors and mantles, leaded glass entry doors and vestibule doors and a two-story-deep light fixture in the vestibule.

Bedford

It doesn't look like it from this view but the Bedford is a two-story home that uses "skywalls" in two areas to bring the outside in. The first-floor master bedroom suite has a whirlpool bath and attached study. The gathering room has a cathedral ceiling and the dining room has a tray ceiling. Stained doors, jambs, casings and base add a traditional look. Built by Kellett & Saylor, the three-bedroom, three-bathroom home is in the price range of $275,000-$325,000.

Island cooktop

The Jasmine model, built by LePore Building Co., in the Jefferson Meadows Homearama, features a kitchen with an island cook-top, ceramic tile floor and counters. A rattan breakfast set was selected by designer Elaine M. Herchock to complete the setting.

Omni

The only contemporary quad-level home in the Jefferson Meadows Homearama, the Omni features four bedrooms and four baths. A studio foyer has double entry door, marble floor and two skylights. Focal point in the great room is a marble fireplace, with two door walls framing the fireplace. There is also a wet bar in the room. The kitchen features an island-snack bar, Euro-style high-gloss laminate cabinets. The master bath has a glass-enclosed, step-up tub and shower and floating cabinet. Built by Pacific Homes, it is in the price range of $170,000-$180,000.

Standard Federal is Homearama sponsor

Standard Federal Bank is co-sponsoring Homearama to be held July 9 through Aug. 2 in the Jefferson Meadows subdivision, on 22 Mile Road between Hayes and Romeo Plank Road in Macomb Township.

"As one of the leading lenders in the Detroit metropolitan area, we are proud to participate with the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan in this year's Homearama project," said John P. Ray, executive vice president and chief lending officer at Federal Standard Bank.

He said Standard Federal is very excited about this year's Homearama because this the first year the event will be presented in the eastern suburbs of metropolitan Detroit.

The 15 homes in this year's Homearama offer a variety of creative and unique home building ideas for the thousands of visitors who will attend the show.

Standard Federal provided the construction money for the model homes and "we will also offer financing to purchasers of homes throughout the entire subdivision," Ray added.

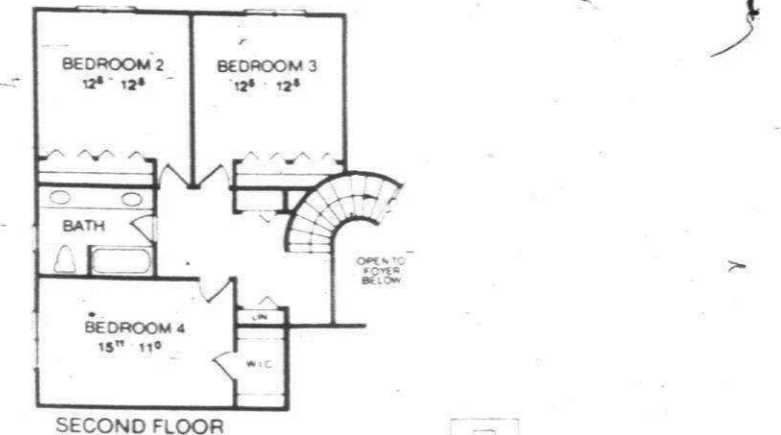

Standard Federal will have an information booth in the Homearama exhibit area for the duration of the show. Hours for the show are noon to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Discount coupons for the show, good Monday through Friday, are available at all Standard Federal branch offices in southeastern Michigan.

Home financing is available from Standard Federal at competitive interest rates on adjustable-rate mortgages and fixed-rate mortgage loans. Applications can be made at any Standard Federal's branch offices. For information, call 643-8597.

Elegante I

An elegant library with pan ceiling, built-in bookcases, oak hardwood floors and arched windows is a highlight of the four-bedroom, Country French Elegante I model by Vito Anthony Homes in the Stony Pointe segment of Homearama. Features in the great room include a studio ceiling, wet bar, marble fireplace and a wall of windows. In the master bedroom, there is also a pan ceiling and dressing area with built-in formica shelving in the walk-in closet. The home also features a Euro-style kitchen with a nook with two door walls leading to an outside deck.

BUILDING? BEWARE!

Your insulation can be robbed dramatically of its "R" value efficiency

Insulation is a major concern for those building or siding their home. No other single element will affect the family energy budget more. So careful consideration is given to selecting the type and amount of insulation to provide the best "R" value efficiency. Unfortunately, depending on many factors, this efficiency can drastically drop. One of the major culprits is air infiltration. Now, from DuPont, there is a cost effective solution.

It's called Tyvek® Housewrap ...and its significantly reduces air infiltration. Priced amazingly low, and easily installed by your builder, DuPont Tyvek® Housewrap can raise your insulation efficiency right from the start. And that can mean solid savings. We urge you to write for our free brochure on Tyvek® Housewrap. See how very little it can cost you to protect your "R" value. Act Now, before it's too late!

Four bedrooms with 3 1/2 baths, one of which features a two-person shower. Price range: $300,000.

ANNOUNCING...

The New Standard in Cadillac Service!

We've all heard the salesman's promise, "If you have a problem you can use my demo while your car is in for service." That's great if the demo is there when you need it, but what if it isn't? Or worse yet, what if your salesman isn't even there?

That's why Crissman Cadillac has taken the extraordinary step of providing up to 250 fine GM cars to our new car customers whenever their car is in our shop for covered warranty repairs. We provide this service for three years or 36,000 miles.

No hooks, no catches, no charge. And we give you this promise in writing.

You see we know many dealers can sell you a new Cadillac. But nobody will service you like Crissman.

Fabrics complement

An Aztec pattern in the draperies is complemented by pillows and matching fabric in two lounge chairs for a unifying feeling in this room of the Manchester, a four-bedroom, two-story Tudor home with walk-out basement by Bing Construction. Located in the Stony Pointe section of Homearama, the home also has box-out windows in the dining room, living room, master bath and bedroom. The family room has a full wall of floor-to-ceiling windows, wet bar and studio ceiling. There are two fireplaces — one in the family room and the other in the lower-level recreation room. Priced in the $275,000-$350,000 range, the home also has an oak coffer/beamed ceiling in the library.

Quality...We Build Our Reputation On It.

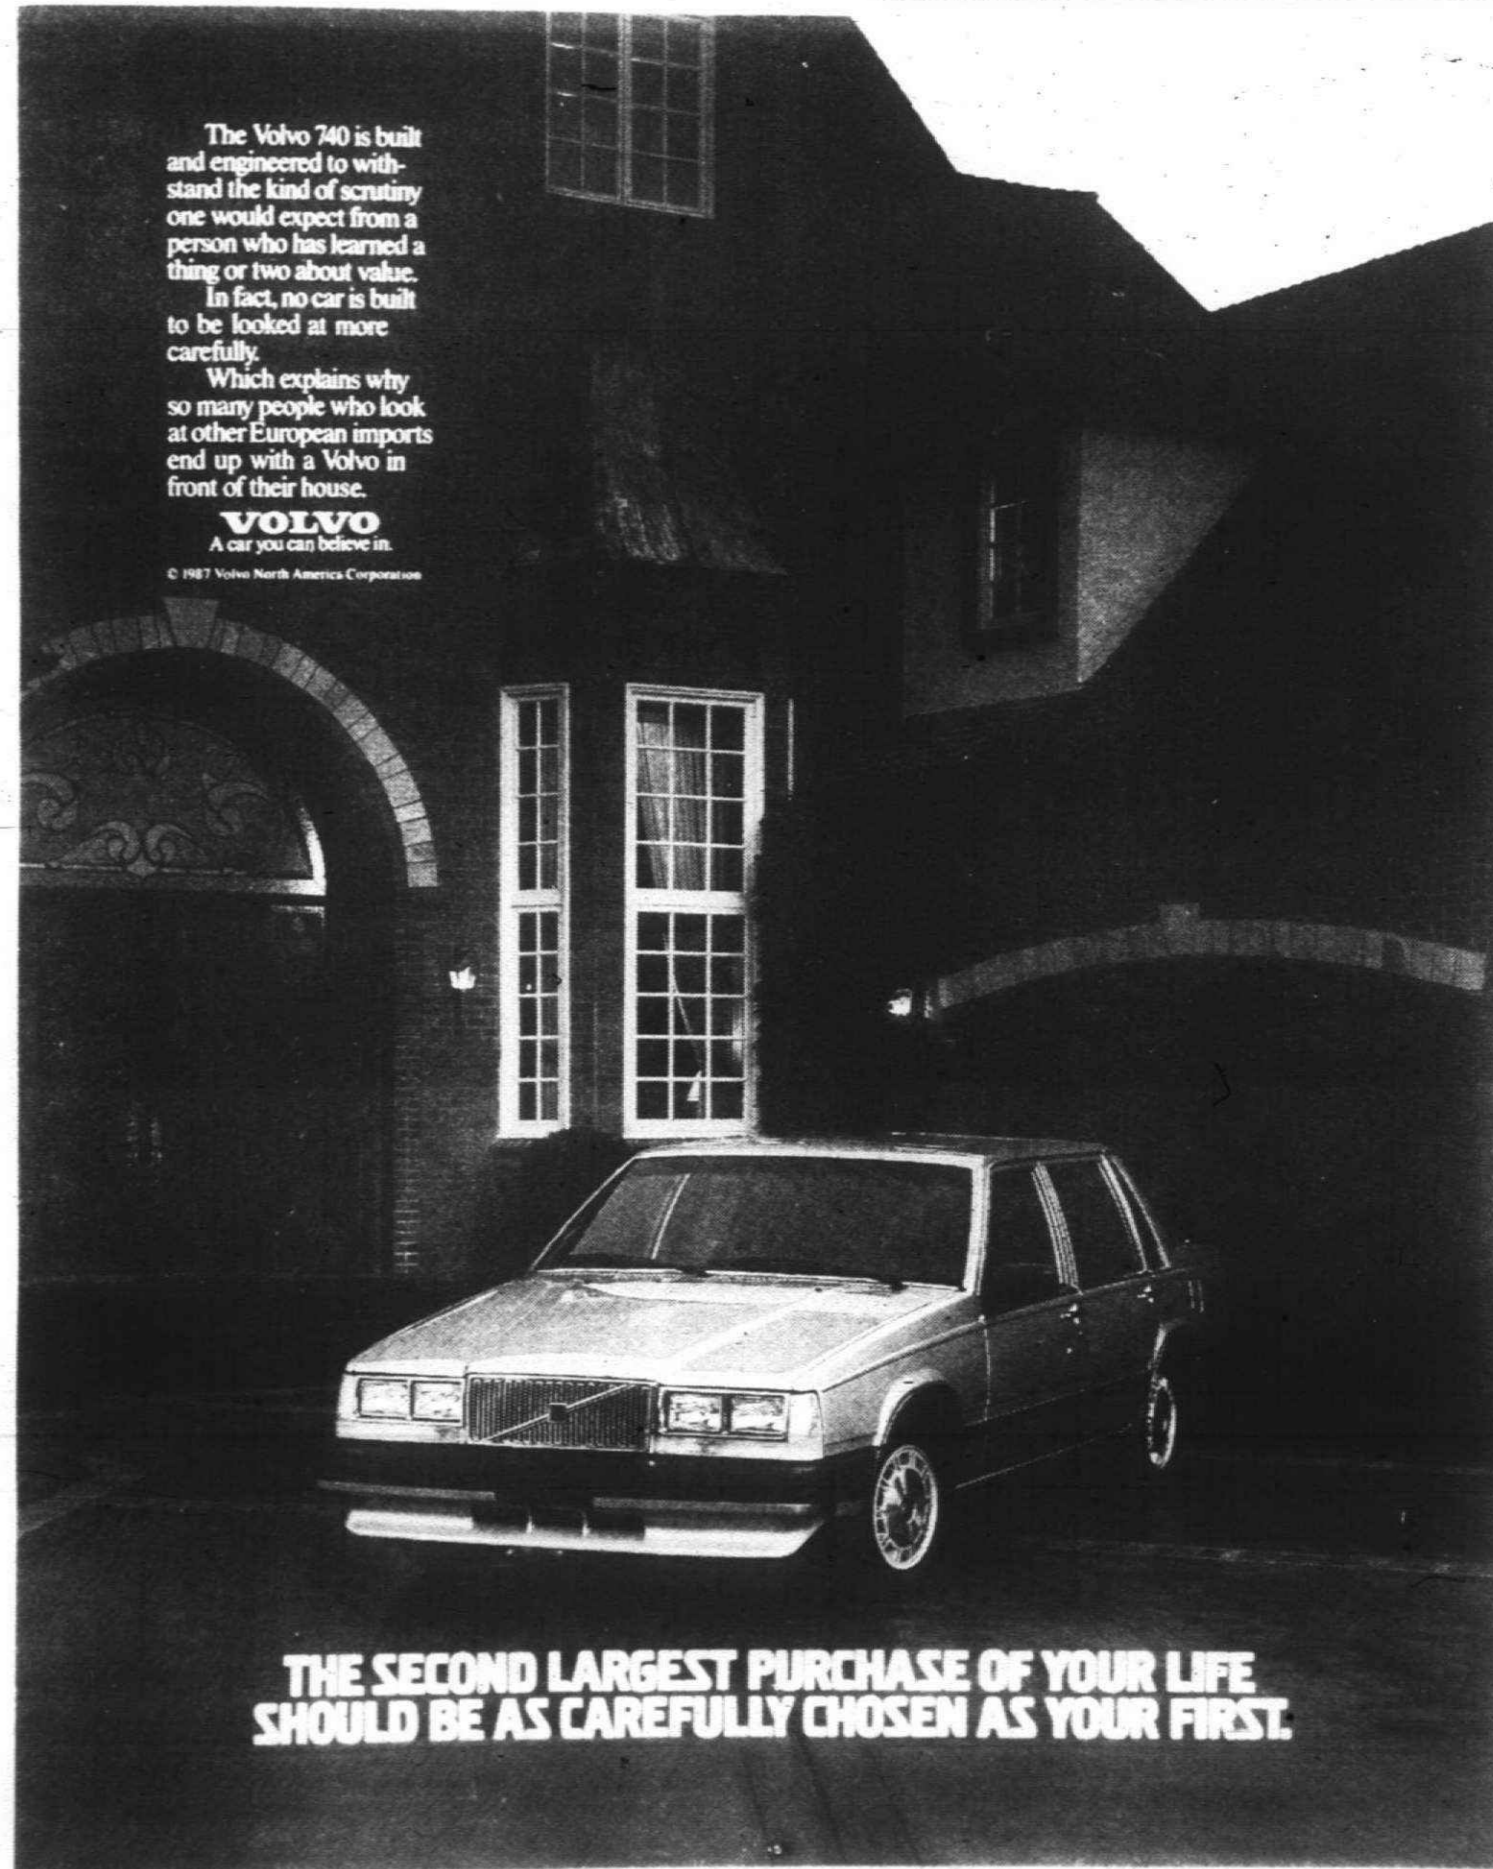

The Volvo 740 is built and engineered to withstand the kind of scrutiny one would expect from a person who has learned a thing or two about value.

In fact, no car is built to be looked at more carefully.

Which explains why so many people who look at other European imports end up with a Volvo in front of their house.
