Victim's father testifies in Fisher trial

staff writer

Diary notes of the duct tape murder victim reveal glimpses of a woman who aspired to be a writer, talked about premonitions and was intense about love, intellect

Journal entries and letters written by Ella Maria (Ria) Mercado Fisher were read in court earlier this week by her father, Manuel Mercado, during the first-degree murder trial of her husband, Charles Mercado Fisher was bound with duct tape in the couple's Thornwood home in Canton on July 15, 1984. She never regained consciousness and died five days later after life support units were removed.

Mike Reynolds, Wayne County assistant prosecutor, maintains that Fisher staged the fatal attack because he was overwhelmed by jealousy and was obsessed with controlling his wife. Fisher said he and his wife were victims of burglars.

Mercado, moved by his daughter's writings, occasionally stopped during his reading to compose himself.

Ironically, the diary, one of the prosecutor's key pieces of evidence against Fisher, was a gift he gave to his wife.

He wrote an inscription on the inside cover: "To my writer and nurse and wife" He wished her luck so the pages would be filled with "happiness" and "good memories.

INSTEAD, THE journal is filled with bitter marital observations, desires to leave Fisher and a longing to visit her first cousin Javier Hortato, in Germany

She wrote in a letter to Hortato: "I have so much passion for you . . . the physical and the spiritual . . . to have a total sense of enrapture with you." She also wrote about wanting to have intellectual discussions with him.

In the journal, Mercado Fisher said she was manipulated into marrying Fisher, who suffered from severe depression and threatened suicide three times

'I used to have a premonition when I was a little girl I would marry a very rich person I didn't really love," she wrote. "Ah, these premonitions. What are they? Why are they? Do we make them real?"

Mercado also read a letter Fisher wrote discussing his fear of losing his wife. He said, "I admit how weak I am when it comes to her.'

In the last entry, written only a few days before the attack, Mercado Fisher talked about her excitement about visiting Horta-

This business is really sweet

By Louise Okrutsky staff writer

In the case of one Plymouth entrepreneur, starting a new business means more than a bid for the sweet smell of success.

For Tony Steffinelli, the candy store he recently opened represents the cumulative efforts of three generations in the family business, chocolate making. It's a craft so filled with tradition that the shop, Romeo Chocolate Factory, at Wing and Forest, bears his grandfather Steffinelli's first

The family's last name graces the shop in Erie, Pa., where they've been turning out chocolates for 35

Just as his grandmother's work table in the new store represents a link with the past, Steffinelli sees his children's enthusiasm for the craft as a promise for the future.

"THEY'RE THE fourth generation. I have not forced (chocolate making) on my children at all," Steffinelli said. "They all have a creative side but on the same hand. (chocolate making's) almost in and sister are students at Plymouth Canton High School.

They became familiar with the techniques and machinery at an earlier age than their father

"My children are so familiar with the equipment - and just from being Steffinellis — that they can run it," he said.

"I stood next to my grandmother watching her hand dip candy," he said. The table she used, with its slot for a container of chocolate, is now in his own candy shop.

"You watch for years. You start out with a broom in your hand. I've had hands-on experience for the last 10 years. It's more of a thing where when you see it day-in, day-out it's a natural thing.'

WHILE HE was still in school he worked part time in his father's shop. It wasn't until he was well into his 20s that he decided to come back to the family business. He had been a guitarist and a music teach-

It's a tradition that his grandfather wanted him to continue.

"Finally, my grandfather want-ed me to be in the business. 'Wouldn't it be better to have two trades than one?' he'd say to me.'

Tony Steffinelli said he hopes his children's enthusiasm for the chocolate-making business bodes well for the future.

Romeo Steffinelli's love of the business continues through each generation. "My father," remembers Anthony Steffinelli Sr., "he stuck his head in the sugar barrel and never took it out.

After Romeo Steffinelli came to the United States from Italy in 1909, he traveled around his new country working for candy makers Eventually he married a candy maker, Elizabeth De Santo. They had met when his brother married her sister.

Prosecutor may testify in hearings

By Louise Okrutsky staff writer

As hearings continue in the cases of two youths accused of murdering a young Canton Township girl, the defense attorney for one of the boys plans to call the prosecuting attorney as a witness.

Pension policy to be reviewed

staff writer

Elected officials in Canton Township become vested in a pension after just 20 months of service, but that could change soon.

The township Merit Commission is reviewing Canton's pension policy at a meeting set for 7:30 p.m. today at the Canton Administration Building.

Canton trustees are expected to act on Merit Commission recommendations March 22. The threemember Merit Commission enforces personnel policy for the majority of township employees.

Up until 1984, township employees were vested after 20 months. A change effective in January 1984 made it mandatory for new employees to serve 10 years before they were eligible to receive a pension.

Trustee Robert Padget said the change was to have been made applicable to elected officials after the situation came to light in 1981, but it fell through the cracks.

To the mentally retarded and mentally ill adults who live there. it's simply home. To outsiders, the clusters of adults living together in state-licensed foster care facilities - often single-family houses in inconspicuous subdivisions - are residents of "group homes."

A phenomenon born in the 1970s, often with resistance from neighbors and local politicians, group homes nevertheless continue to thrive in the

No penalty for stealing cable TV*

*This time.

If you have tampered with the cable equipment in order to receive Basic or Premium Services and not pay for them, you've been committing a criminal offense. And it's no longer a question of whether you'll get caught. It's just a question of when.

In fairness to our honest subscribers, Omnicom Cable is cracking down on cable theft. Right now our auditing crews are using the latest technology to determine who's guilty of cable theft in your neighborhood.

Now we don't want to see anybody go to jail. Pay stiff fines. Or both. There's an easy way out of trouble for all concerned.

Simply take advantage of our No Penalty Amnesty Program. Give Omnicom a call & become an honest subscriber. We won't ask any questions - if you call us before we call you.

State agencies oppose changes in placement act

By Jackie Klein staff writer

The Michigan Department of Mental Health has joined the Department of Social Services in opposing proposed changes in the state community placement act governing small group homes.

The Michigan Municipal League is urging the state Legislature to amend the 1987 act to give the government and the public more control over the establishment of small group homes for the mentally retarded pople in community neighborhods.

To put quotas on people's lives and their civil rights is unconstitutional," said Thomas Watkins, director of the state Department of Mental Health.

'As an advocate on behalf of the mentally handicapped citizens in this state, the department must oppose any resolution or proposed legislation that compromises such The MML has proposed an

By Janice Brunson

Opportunity for corrections officers in Michigan is wide open, according to an area educator who said more than 1,000 new officers will be hired in entry level positions this year

Based upon Gov. James Blanchard's proposed 1988-89 state budget currently before lawmakers, the estimate seems accurate. Blanchard's budget proposes nearly $590 million for corrections. That's some $70 million more than for education.

"The move in corrections is towards the professional officer, away from the old guard attitude of the past,' said Pat Gugel of Schoolcraft College's Radcliff Center in Garden City.

Gugel coordinates Schoolcraft's accelerated course of study for those interested in becoming correction officers. Gugel said these jobs offer excellent opportunity, good benefits and a new nse of professionalism. The program, a 16-week course of study in five subjects, is one of only two accredited programs in Wayne County, according to Gugel. The other is offered by the University of Detroit. Wayne County Community College is currently seeking

"I HAVE a thing for people. The job offers really good opportunity and I can advance," said Lori Hill, 29, of Garden City. Hill completed the Schoolcraft accelerated course last summer

Hill previously worked in poorly paid factory position and then for 90 days with General Motors before being laid off. She said opportunity "has not been part my previous (employment) experience."

Hill, who is married and the mother of two, is awaiting results of an interview with the state Department of Corrections. Pat Grosso, 38, of Canton was also interviewed recent-

Group seeks toxic waste data

By Wayne Peal staff writer

A consumer advocacy group has initiated legal action against the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department, alleging the department illegally prevented it from obtaining information on the amount of toxic waste being discharged into the system.

The Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM) filed notice of its intent to sue Feb. 25. PIR-GIM alleges the city illegally prevented it from obtaining industry records necessary to conduct a survey on the amount of toxins being discharged.

"It's vitally important for the public to know what's going in and what the Detroit Sewerage system is doing ? about it," PIRGIM spokesman Andy Buchsbaum said.

The Detroit system serves the vast majority of communities in Wayne and Oakland counties.

The Rouge River, where sewage is being discharged after it is treated, Buchsbaum said, is believed to be

Michigan's most heavily polluted river. Late last year, PIRGIM sought information on the amount of toxic waste being issued by the system's industrial users

THE DEPARTMENT, however, denied access to the master files of selected companies, saying they were exempt from public scrutiny because they were part of active investigations or enforcement proceedings being conducted by the city.

The department blocked release of sewage discharge levels from other selected companies for similar reasons, according to documents released by PIRGIM.

PIRGIM will sue the department in U.S. District Court if matters aren't resolved within the 60-day waiting period, Buchsbaum said.

Notice of PIRGIM's intent was filed with the department, Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Federal Environmetal Protection Agency, as required under the clean water act.

Filing notice is the first step of a 60-day process mandated under the federal Clean Water Act, Buchsbaum

PIRGIM seeks to compile a report on toxic waste discharges into the sewer system to determine if the city is properly regulating the flow. Although the department is required by law to treat industrial sewage. Buchsbaum said, it isn't required to treat the sewage for

The report on toxic sewage will be a a companion to a list of toxic dump sites compiled by PIRTGIM last year,

Zoo sets St. Pat's Day adopt-a-pet

There aren't any rain forests in Ireland, but that isn't preventing the Detroit and Belle Isle zoos from offering tropical animals for adoption during St. Patrick's Day.

Those who make a donation in an animal's name will receive two free zoo passes, good throughout March. The names of those who "adopt" pets will also be added to a zoo honor roll Animals available for adoption include toucans, ruffed lemurs, gibbons, dwarf caimans and blue and yellow macaws. Toucans are tropical birds, lemurs are primitive monkeys, gibbons are small apes and maca ws are large parrots.

To adopt an animal, send a $15 money order or check to: The Detroit Zoo, "Rainforest Animals," P.O. Box 39, Royal Oak, Mich. 48068.

The zoo is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday-Sunday. Admission is $5 for adults, $3.50 for senior citizens and $2.50 for children 5-12. There is no admission charge for children under 5.

McNamara to appear on cable show

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara will appear on County Impact, a local cable television show hosted by county commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township.

The show will be broadcast in Plymouth/Canton 8:30 p.m. Friday, March 11, on Omnicom cable Channel 15, and in Livonia 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 15, over Metrovision cable Channel 13

At the Community Federal Credit Union, Crimmins started in the cash department. She worked as cash operations manager and was then promoted to special projects/north district manager.

Her north district manager responsibilities included credit union facilities in the northern Michigan communities of Gaylord, Hillman, Atlanta and Lewiston. She then worked as special projects manager for the Community Federal Credit Union.

Although Andrea Kotch's work keeps her busy, it's also something she finds tremendously rewarding.

Kotch is an account executive and financial planner with Prescott, Ball and Turben Inc. in downtown Plymouth. The Northville resident puts in 60 to 70 hours a week on the job. She also spends time reading materials related to her field.

Working with clients is what Kotch enjoys about her job.

She joined the Plymouth BPW in December and would like to become an active member.

"The women have been just terrific. They're a very diversified group.

KOTCH IS a relative newcomer to Plymouth; she's been on the job for about six months.

It's unfair to give financial advice without looking at the entire situation, she said.

"It's extremely important to be aware of the fact you have to look at the whole."

Jill Thomas will be able to come back to the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth at some point during her adult life and see just what she's

And Thomas, 17, is looking forward to doing that someday — "I think that'd be really neat."

But these days, she's hard at work, creating a mural of storybook characters for a wall of the library's preschool room. Last fall, Thomas' art teacher at Salem, Kris Darby, asked if anyone would like to work on what was originally to be a group project.

Thomas volunteered and submitted three original sketches for the mural.

"This is the one they chose," she said.

Now working alone, Thomas' mural incorporates such characters as Humpty Dumpty, a goose, a bunny and a dragon. The words "Once Upon a Time" are included in the mural design.

WHEN SHE first saw the wall at the Dunning-Hough Library, Thomas was a bit overwhelmed. "Oh, my gosh, I have to fill this wall up," she remembers thinking.

The wall measures approximately 20 feet by 6 feet, and Thomas had a bit of trouble with the measurements when she first started working.

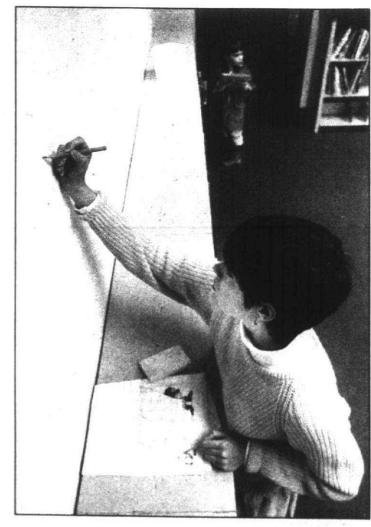

"I think I'll do fine now. I think this is a good design for it," she said.

Thomas, the daughter of John and Donna Thomas of Plymouth, is trying to finish the project in time for National Library Week, April 17-

"Now that I've started, it doesn't seem like it'll take that long," she

SHE'S HOPING that children will enjoy seeing the mural even though she didn't include such characters as Transformers and GoBots.

"That was something I wanted to

She did include characters from more enduring children's stories, which in her younger days populated the children's books she loved to read - classic stories written for children.

She reread some of those classic to help her decide what to include in the mural.

HOW TO GET AROUND THE HIGH COST OF GETTING AROUND.

If getting around town has been getting you down, get a SEMTACARD. It's good for a month of unlimited rides on a clean, comfortable SEMTA bus. And you'll save up to 20% over paying for daily fares. It's a great way to take advantage of weekend shopping. And because SEMTA stops are conveniently located throughout the area, you're never far from where you want to be. The SEMTACARD. It's easy. It's convenient. And it's the best way to get around the high cost of getting around. To make it easy, we've arranged for you to be able to purchase exact-fare tickets and SEMTACARDs at many area banks or at SEMTA's Transit Centre located in the lobby of the First National Building, 660 Woodward, where you can also use your Visa or MasterCard. If you would like to order by mail, call 962-5515 and we'll be happy to mail you a form. For more information about specific SEMTACARD locations, routes, fares and schedule information, call 962-5515.

Test can reduce risk of fatalities from exercising

IS extremely difficult to identify persons who may be fatally stricken during exercise. Neither superior fitness, regular exercise participation, nor the absence of cardiac risk factors guarantees protection against an exercise death

Two important clues, however, have emerged.

• Cardiovascular complications during exercise are often preceded by warning symptoms, including chest or stomach pain.

• A very low HDL-cholesterol (the good form of cholesterol) has also been shown to be a potential indicator of increased exercise risk.

ACCORDING TO the American Heart Association's Committee on Exercise, "The risk of strenuous exercise in the sedentary population may be minimized or perhaps even eliminated through proper preliminary testing and the individualized prescribing of exercise programs."

Although exercise stress testing is widely recommended and extremely useful to establish the safety of vigorous exercise participation, the test is not infallible. Normal exercise test responses have sometimes occurred in persons who subsequently experienced complications during

These limitations, coupled with the millions of Americans now exercising, suggest that it is impractical to use exercise testing as a routine screening procedure for all persons starting exercise programs.

ACCORDINGLY, THE American College of Sports Medicine recommends stress tests only for selected exercisers, based on age, risk factors, and the presence of disease: · Apparently healthy individuals at or above age 45. • Individuals at or above age 35 with at least one of the following risk factors: high blood pressure; ele-vated cholesterol or a low HDL-cho-lesterol; cigarette smoking; abnormal resting electrocardiogram; family history of heart disease before age 50; and diabetes mellitus.

• Individuals at any age with known heart, lung, or other disease.

RECOMMENDATIONS to reduce the incidence of cardiovascular complications during exercise include: Insure medical clearance and follow-up, including exercise testing for "high risk" adults and patients with heart disease. Although the need for routine exercise testing in all physically active persons has been questioned, exercise testing clearly helps to identify heart pa-tients who are at increased risk for exertion-related complications.

• Maintain a mild-to-moderate intensity exercise program. The lower the exercise intensity, the less likely it is that a complication will occur. Moreover, a reduced training intensity may be compensated for by increasing the exercise duration or frequency.

You exercise program should not be perceived as more than "some-what hard." As a general rule of thumb, if you cannot carry on a conversation comfortably during activity, you are probably working too

• Seek medical advice if heart rhythm irregularities are detected or exertional symptoms occur. Warning symptoms include stomach discomfort which many exercisers fail to recognize may be heart-relat-

• Emphasize appropriate warmup and cool-down procedures. A gradual warmup (e.g., comfortable walking or mild tension bicycling) may decrease the occurrence of serious heart irregularities that can occur with sudden strenuous exer-

"Games Mother Never Taught You' by Betty Lehan Harragan deals with the power of actions in the business world. 'The Wounded Don't Cry,' a collection of articles written by Quentin Reynolds during World War II, which I read in high school. Also 'Getting to Yes' by William Ury. It deals with the power that negotiations can have to make lives more productive.

'There are two books Search of Adam' by a German author, translated into English. It's back to our roots to find the first man. It's evident that you never finish an effort like that. It's also an interesting combination of archeology, anthropology and biology. It brought home that searching for truth is an unending effort. It brought home the commonality of man. Oldest traces of man appeared in different parts of the world, not in one place or one race. It affects your view of what you're doing.

"'History of Western Philosophy' by Bertrand Russell. No race has a monopoly on intelligent thinking. It's tied into ethics. It has an impact on life overall. As a former newspaper reporter, pollster, and publicist, no single book has affected that part of me. E.B. White's 'How to Write Simply,' but writing is really mechanical. 'Also a set of books, 'The Story of Civilization,' are well written. One time I set a goal to read all the way through. I like history. I didn't finish the series. It got discouraging. Certain trends repeat themselves. Another book, 'The Age of Discontinuity' written by Peter Drucker about 10 years ago. A leader in business philosophy, he predicted conceptual issues that turn into events and activities a number of years later.

"Others: the story of Billy Durant, the founder of General Motors, by Lawrence Gustin. Durant was flamboyant. He did things with great speed and boldness. 'Transformational Leadership' by Noel Tichy Noel has written the definitive book on change. Canton's Brian Paupore prepares to pass while Northville's Jeff Terwin tries to prevent it. The Chiefs routed the Mustangs 74-59 Monday in the opening game of the district tournament at Northville. See story on Page 6D. More basketball stories appear on pages 4D and 7D.

District final matches Chiefs against Rocks

Canton and Salem traveled the same bumpy road Wednesday night in the semifinals of the district basketball tournament at Northville.

But both teams stayed on course and managed to arrive at the same destination - the championship game and the chance to play in next week's regional at Eastern Michigan University

The arch rivals will meet for the second time this season after Salem eliminated Novi 63-57 in the first game and Canton bounced South Lyon 74-62 in the late game. Tipoff for Friday's final is 7 p.m.

The Chiefs, who defeated Salem 68-52 when the teams played Jan. 8, and the Rocks had to overcome sluggish first halves Wednesday and come from behind to win.

South Lyon, despite its 4-16 record going in (which included a December loss to Canton), gave a good account of itself and led 34-29 at halftime.

THE LIONS pushed the ball inside for quality shots, and their press gave Canton some early problems. South Lyon, shooting 8-of-15 in the first quarter, led 22-14 before the Chiefs came on late

"In the first half, we didn't play very good defense," Canton coach Tom Niemi said. "Their post players were giving us fits

"In the second half, we made adjustments, and that was instrumental in the game.

Indeed it was as the Chiefs, 18-4 overall, cut off the passing lanes and took away South Lyon's inside

Center Mike Cobb and forwards Mark Hoorn and Tony Sevakis combined for eight field goals and 20 points in the first half. They had only four deuces and eight points in the

"In the third quarter, we came out and played basketball," said Niemi, crediting substitute guard Brad Carey for his floor leadership and Dave Foxworthy for his scoring contribution

SOUTH LYON'S press in the second half worked to Canton's advantage, Niemi added, as it provided the Chiefs with some easy, transition

'We moved the ball much more aggressively," he said.

Brian Paupore had 10 of his 18 points in the first quarter to keep Canton in it early. Starters Roger Trice and Mitch Fyke had 13 and 10 points, and Foxworthy added 12 off the bench.

Canton outscored the Lions 17-2 during a stretch of the third quarter to break South Lyon's momentum and take a 48-40 lead.

But the Chiefs weren't out of the woods yet. The Lions were still within five, 60-55, when they turned the ball. Foxworthy scored on the break. and Jeff Anulewicz made two free throws for a nine-point lead with less than three minutes to play.

Salem coach Bob Brodie sent a new five-man unit out to start the second quarter in an attempt to get the Rocks rolling. Salem fell behind 21-14 but pulled within 30-28 at halftime behind the play of Keith Smith, Jeff Elliott and Jeff Gold.

"IT WASN'T pretty again early," Brodie said. "We started rotating a lot of players trying to get that right we were going to do everything we could to win this game. We weren't going to lay another egg like we did against North (Farmington in last Saturday's league championship game).

Salem got on track in the second half when it grabbed nearly every defensive rebound and covered most of the loose balls. The shooting turned around in the third quarter also, with the Rocks going 7-for-13, but Salern was still only two points ahead, 42-40

With Smith (nine rebounds) doing the job on the defensive glass, the Rocks, 10-11 overall, limited Novi's offense and gradually built a safe lead in the finale.

Todd Marion increased it early in the fourth, and Elliott's basket capped a string of eight points that upped the Salem lead to 56-45.

Novi was forced to foul, and it looked as if the strategy might work when the Rocks missed a couple of free throws and the Wildcats, 12-9, pulled within five, 60-55, with :33 remaining.

BUT CRAIG Marshall, Elliott and Mike Albertson made crucial free throws to protect the lead 'We tried to do too much" early in the game, said Brodie, emphasizing the need to play team ball instead of shooting at will. "If we work together and let the offense run, we're going to get some opportunities.

'It wasn't until late in the fourth quarter that we played the kind of game we wanted to.

Scott Hale had 13 points, Elliott and Smith 12 apiece and Marion 10. Novi center Brian Schram scored a game-high 21 points

The Rocks had 11 defensive rebounds to Novi's four offensive in the second half, and the total was 20-7 in Salem's favor

Plymouth team skates to Midget B state title

The Plymouth Midget B hockey team captured the Michigan Ama teur Hockey Association's state championship Sunday with a 5-4, overtime victory over the Warren-RHC Flames.

The tournament finale was played in front of a capacity crowd at the Plymouth Cultural Center and Ice

Plymouth finished the preliminary round with a 3-0 record, defeating Garden City 8-5 on Thursday and posting two victories on Saturday, 6-0 over Ann Arbor and 5-3 over War-

While Plymouth was first in the National Division, the Flames were second and qualified for the playoffs by beating Ann Arbor 5-0 and Garden City 8-4 before losing to the host Southfield won the American Division with victories over Lincoln Park (4-3), Marquette (2-1) and Midland (8-1). Lincoln Park was the runnerup with two victories, 13-7 over Midland and 12-1 over Marquette.

PLYMOUTH DEFEATED Lincoln Park in the semifinals 5-2, and Warren eliminated Southfield with a 6-5. overtime decision in the other con-

hockey

Erik Sheehan opened the Plymouth scoring at 0:46 of the first period with an assist by Kevin Gilmore.

Lincoln Park tied the score, but take command of the game. Matt Blom scored an unassisted goal, Gilmore scored twice Jim Bryans accounted for the final goal.

Sheehan returned the favor and assisted on Gilmore's first goal, and defensemen John Megdan and Gregg Bednarczyk received credit for assists on the last two tallies.

In the championship game, Wes Anderson, assisted by Mike Pruzinsky and Gilmore, put Plymouth on the board first, but Warren scored a pair of power-play goals to lead 2-1 at the end of the first period.

Gilmore, taking a pass from Bednarczyk, tied the score just 56 seconds into the second period, but Jeff Marley put the Flames back in front 4-2 with two scores.

THE PERIOD ended, however, in a 4-4 deadlock after Gilmore rallied the home team. Assisted twice by Bryans, he pulled Plymouth even while getting the hat trick.

The third period saw plenty of end-to-end action and was dominated by the goaltenders. Plymouth fought off a power-play situation by the Flames early in the period, and neither team was able to score, sending the game into an eight-minute, sudden-death overtime. The extra session didn't last very long, however. A mere 10 seconds to be exact.

Bryans won the faceoff and passed to Anderson, who sent the puck back to Bryans. As the three Plymouth forwards entered the Warren zone at the blue line, Bryans slipped a pass to Gilmore on the right wing, and Gilmore fired a slap shot past goalie Karl Fujarski to settle the issue

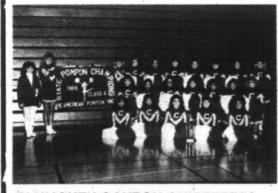

Plymouth finished the regular season in the Litle Caesars Hockey League with a 19-2-0 record for first place. In February, the team won the MAHA District IV championship and a berth in last weekend's state tournament.

Plymouth, which now boasts a season record of 41-4-1, was scheduled to face the Warren-RHC Flames again Wednesday night for the Little Caesars tournament championship at Joe Louis Arena

Vellucci's NHL stay brief

staff writer

Some call it having a cup of coffee. Except Mike Vellucci didn't even have time to ask for cream and sugar.

Within a week, the Farmington native was called up from the Milwaukee Admirals of the International Hockey League, played in three games with the Hartford Whalers of the National Hockey League, and was sent back down to Milwaukee. The postcards home hadn't even arrived by then

The 6-foot-1 defenseman scored no goals, had no assists, and collected 11 minutes in penalties with the Whalers.

Yet his brief stay in the NHL marked a triumph of sorts.

NEARLY FOUR years ago, Vellucci's chances of playing hockey at all seemed about as good as a candle staying lit on a March day in Chicago. He was a passenger with Al lafrate when their car flipped on Highway 401 in lafrate came out with a couple of broken ribs. Vellucci fractured a verte brae in his back, and his hockey career was threatened.

"It was scary," said Vellucci, who would use the same term to describe his first game with the Whalers. "I heard so many different opinions from different doctors. Some said I should never play hockey again. Some said it would be all right and some said I should wait and see. I just wanted to get healthy again. I wasn't worried about playing hockey.

A PLYMOUTH HIGH SCHOOL FLASHBACK

Ten years ago this week, both the Plymouth Salem Rocks and the Plymouth Canton Chiefs advanced to the Regional Quarter Finals in Volleyball. Canton upset Livonia Stevenson 10-15, 15-11 and 15-11. Judy Freiman and Kelly Heaton were standouts in the Chief's win. Salem crushed Farmington Harrison 15-2 and 15-6. Karen Prikosouits and Sue Busha led the Rocks attack.

OU hopes to do better in NCAA

A year ago, Oakland University's womens swim team finished 11th at the NCAA Division II championships. They did that with just two the NCAAs. swimmers and three divers. This week, the Lady Pioneers are taking a far bigger contingent, and first-year coach Tracy Huth is expecting far better results. 'I think a legitimate goal for us would be fifth," said Huth, who has nine swimmers and a pair of divers going to the State University of New with

Don't push children into athletic regimen

Dear Myrna: My husband is a former football player. We have a son, 9 years old, who seems to be following in his father's footsteps. He is a large-framed boy, coordinated and fairly athletic. We think he should start on an athletic training program. Would you advise us to start directing him toward this?

Football parents from Troy

The athletic training of a child is an individual matter, depending on the age of the child and the particular sport. My partner, psychologist Barbara Schiff, offers this: "For children under the age of 10, any activity must be fun and limited in scope. It is difficult to drive children at this age." You must be careful not to force them to practice until they are overly tired. You still want to keep this athletic endeavor light and

Most children inpately know their limits of tolerance and it is simply wrong to push anyone under the age of 10 in any training regimen. When your son becomes a teenage athlete, he will be able to be pushed and trained into the sport easier. But remember the rapidly growing child uses up enormous amounts of energy in the growth

The more rapid a child is growing, the more vulnerable his "growth zones" are to injury, fatigue and pain — especially in areas of the knees, shoulders, elbows and back.

It might help you to know that many Olympic athletes did not even take up their sports until they were at least 11 years or older. Sometimes, the most gifted young athletes, in rebellion against their par ents, totally abandon a sport when they become adolescents.

You've got a special situation being the boy's father was an accomplished football player. I can't blame you for trying. I've always wanted to play a musical instrument, and when my daughter came of age - I pushed her. Well, she rebelled and that's we've had this past week. And if this warm weather sticks around it will soon be time to put the ice fishing equipment away and gear up for spring fishing.

When the ice melts from Michigan rivers and warm weather begins to warm the water temperature, spring steelhead spawning runs begin. Last year the runs were erratic because of a mid-February thaw, followed by another cold spell and finally the spring thaw. The runs never really peaked, as they normally do, but were slow and steady for a couple

This year, however, Michigan Department of Natural Resource fisheries biologists expect an excellent season with runs peaking in southern Michigan from mid-March to mid-April. Mid-April to early-May should provide excellent fishing on streams night. and rivers in the central and northern Lower Peninsula while late-April to mid-May should be the best time for Upper Peninsula steelhead

It's still hard to say 'I'm an artist'

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Even though it's small, Susan Shlom likes working er. But the light is good and her children can watch in her studio at home. While the studio has stayed the same size, her art works have grown much largher work. Behind her are two of her recent collages.

By Corinne Abatt staff writer

Susan Shlom's enthusiasm for art comes through in her paintings and collages. Now, this may sound simplistic, but it's far from automat-

Shlom radiates energy and excitement for many areas of art. She's a practicing art therapist, a part-time art teacher, a successful studio artist and a soon-to-be published author. Yet, Shlom, a certified art therapist (Wayne State 1983) holder of a master's degree in art education (Wayne State 1976) and a bachelor's in arts (University of Michigan 1971) said, "I approached art through the side door (therapy and teaching). To approach art as a career, saying 'I'm an artist - this is what I do' is the most frightening thing I've ever done. The paintings are me. There's always movement. There's always energy forces - that's me.

This declaration continues to be scary in spite of the fact that she sells practically everything she paints. "I'm selling very well because my art tends to be something people can live with. They're really dreamscapes instead of

One of her favorite places to market her work is the Sholem Aleichem Institute Art Show which celebrates its silver anniversary when it opens at 8 p.m. Friday at the Shenadoah Country Club of West Bloomfield. This will be Shlom's eighth straight year in the show. The works she will have there will be collages or have collaged eleanything as sensual or exciting, but canvas is much more flexible in size . . . and watercolor is so unforgiving."

Her collages are on canvas using acrylics and a variety of other materials. Her move from impressionistic to abstract, she said, came over a period of time and through a logical progression, adding that her work is still based on reality. "I am not infatuated with form for the sake of form. I am greatly influenced by everything I do and everything in my life." And her work reflects what she is - a highspirited, happy person, an optimist and a doer. I've always had a fashionable palette - it's almost as if I struggle against it," she said with a smile. She also said she knows her work has been described as "decorative," adding, "I know I am truly accepted when they keep my painting when they change the couch.' In a more serious vein, she said, "I have very high standards in reference to composition. Like other artists of this era, I get infatuated with materials, so I have to make sure the art materials are very congruous.' Shlom is an art therapist for Far Conservatory of Birmingham, working out of a school in Royal

She and her husband, Gordon, a dentist, have two children, Adam, 9, and Samara, 10. Her paintings are also available at Town Center Gallery of Southfield.

The Sholem Aleichem Institute Art Show opens Friday with works by more than 150 artists. Hours are 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

It is being held at the Shenandoah Country "I love watercolor paper. I don't think there is Club, 5600 Walnut Lake Road, West Bloomfield.

Photomontage Many images make 1 statement

By Manon Meilgaard special writer

Photomontage used for cheap effect can be crude and gimcrack, but in the exhibition at Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum, it becomes a thoughtful, humorous, haunting and beautiful art.

With more than 50 works by 14 contemporary photographers, "Under Construction: New Photomontage" was created with infinite respect and care by the academy's head of photography, Carl Toth, and museum curator Bruce Hartman (who has to be one of the brightest young curators in the country).

In the accompanying catalogue oth writes a lucid and interesting history of photomontage, explaining that the term was first used by German Dada artists in the 1920s to describe a single statement with a multiplicity of images.

With this in mind, it makes sense to begin viewing the exhibit with the black and white "photo-stories" of Robert Frank, an older artist who gained prominence in the 1950s.

In "Halifax Infirmary" he mounts small prints in rows, suggesting that he himself might be in the bed next to a patient who undergoes surgery, is somtiemes sitting up cheerfully, has a series of visits by family, friends, or doctor. In the last still, an empty bed tells the whole story.

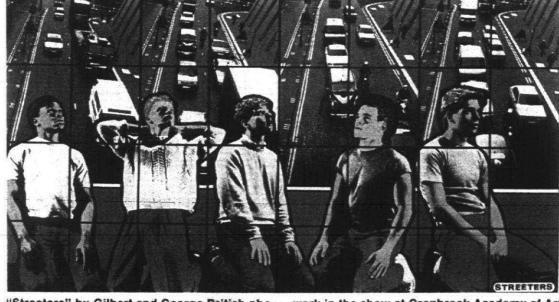

JOHN WOOD, another older artist, uses the symbolic carapace of a sea shell in a structured collage of photograph, roughly-done drawing and crossed-out etching of the image which makes a narrative of the shell of today and the fossil of yesterday.

Photomontage runs counter many commonly held precepts of photography. Toth said, "While photomontages have a strong, even primary visual aspect, their full engagement requires the addition of something more like reading than viewing." Much of it is expressive, challenging and intensely personal.

Joan Lyons, for example, makes an autobiographical statement of her own environment with a collage of cut-out pictures and Polaroids, while Bart Parker portrays the passage of time in "Leave and Fall," with male figures walking away from houses in various stages of disintegration or almost total destruc-

With expressionistic fantasy, Robert Frichter incorporates his own paintings and lithographs into massed images of skeletons, fish and animals in bleak landscapes that speak of post-nuclear Armageddon.

Susan Rankaitis depicts somber futurism in a more painterly sense with her powerful, huge, Rauschenberg-like over-exposed panels of combat aircraft,

"Streeters" by Gilbert and George British photographers, is 95 by 158 inches, the largest work in the show at Cranbrook Academy of Art

TWO EXPRESSIONS of Jyrical fantasy are Martha Madigan's photograms of birds formed from plant materials in gold-toned printing and Joyce Neimanas' spectral human images mounted on fabric with an evocative skyline composed of spray cans, bottles and lipstick tubes on the bottom edge.

There's a humogous twist to Robert Heinecken's Andy Warhol-like mix and match portraits and distortions in "The Correct Physiognomy for a Network Newscaster," in which he uses some familar television faces such as Maria Shriver, Bill Kurtis, Connie Chung and Steve Baskerville. Heinecken also does a series of fashion models wearing intimate Fredericks of Hollywood type lingerie, with amusing tests describing the rules for posing. The models should never hold hands for instance, as this might appear too intimate.

Sardonically humorous too are John Baldessar's photomontages of humans who resemble animals and animals that resemble humans, where the facial expressions, be they joyful or dour, are blocked out by large white dots.

Jo Ann Callis' still lifes of mounted together, half-opened repositories like boxes, purses and envelopes also have a story to tell.

BRITISH ARTIST Victor Burgin's two "Office at Night" pieces have plenty to say about conventional and changing attitudes in the office. Using male and female figures from Edward Hopper's painting of the same name as background figures, he places an attractive woman wearing a mannish suit and a bored expression in the foreground, where she is opening a file cabinet.

In the next picture, the same woman, still in the foreground, reads reports with an authorative air while a male worker sits at a desk behind her - a statement perhaps that reverses the roles of subservience and power. Next to each figurative panel is a panel painted yellow and next to that a panel with abstract logos and symbols.

The largest piece is the 95-by-158inch "Streeters" by the British duo Gilbert and George, who are considered either enfants terribles or artists extraordinaires in their native land. A stream of traffic moves on a red background, with five young boys kneeling in the foreground looking upwards, almost as if praying.

As their faces are painted a luminous yellow, could they be golden boys or runaways from home?

After the stunning success of the James Surls sculpture exhibit, this is another Cranbrook show that is attracting a lot of attention. As Hart-man said, "photomontage is the kind of national exhibition most museums are hesitant to tackle."

"Under Construction" continues through April 2 at the museum 500 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-

Fortepianist to give concert at Cranbrook

One of America's leading performers on fortepiano and harpsichord, Penelope Crawford, returns to her home area to give a fortepiano concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday for the Cranbrook Music Guild cham-

Crawford is known for her fresh and spontaneous interpretations of music from the 17th through early 19th centuries. Her special gift is in making her audience feel they are hearing these masterworks for the first time.

Her fortepiano is an exact copy of the instrument Mozart owned during the last years of his life. It has a five octave range and is the forerunner of the modern piano.

Crawford talks to her audience and shares information about her instrument and her program which next Tuesday will include works by Mozart, Clementi, Haydn, Cramer and Beethoven. One critic's review of this program ended with ' she is no limp Romanticist; her playing is hearty and powerful."

The concert will take place in the library at Cranbrook House, 380 Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

Parking is available across the street at Christ Church Cranbrook parking lot with shuttle bus serviceto the front door of the mansion. A reception in the Oak Room will follow the performance. For ticket information, call 645-2037 or 647-2884. Tickets are available at the

Q. Our association has retained a management company which has recommended a CPA firm and an attorney to us. Do you have any suggestions as to whether or not it is a good idea to use a firm recommended by the management company in representing our association?

A. Many times, management firms are in a position to recommend CPAs and attorneys with whom they have worked in order to serve the best interests of the association. The association should be careful, however, to ensure that the arrangement between the management company and the attorney is not a "sweetheart arrangement" to the extent that the attorney can serve as independent counsel to the association and is not finacially tied to the management company because of the nature of the relation-

Buying seeds vs. buying plants

HOULD YOU START seeds indoors, wait until it is warm enough to sow them directly into the garden outdoors. or buy transplants at the garden center? It's less work to buy plants but it is more economical to purchase seeds, especially if you have a big vegetable or flower garden, or you want to edge a long walk. For instance, you can order packets of 40 good variety tomato seeds or 50 bush-type watermelon seeds for $1, or 50 seeds of zinnia for $1. Other flower or vegetable seed varieties might

However, if you buy transplants ready to set in the ground, you probably will pay at least $1 for six plants.

ANOTHER BENEFIT OF starting seeds early suggests friend Jeannette Lowe, a staff horticulturist at W. Atlee Burpee Co., is that you can "choose from among all the best varieties Also, Lowe says, growing your own means you'll have good-about the house's structure or systems, it makes sense to hire an independent house inspector to do a professional job. If this is your case, here are a few pointers. Home inspectors are supposed to work FOR the buyer. The real estate agent is not the inspection expert and he or inspects the house and submits the findings but does nothing whatsoever to correct any fault he may find, in tha way, the inspector will not be motivated to "discover" a lot of extra faults as a means toward finding repair work. The inspector should be knowledgeable enough to give pproximate costs of repairs as a guide so the clien hake an informed decision on the house.

HIRING A HOUSE INSPECTOR

START PEPPERS AND EGGPLANT indoors eight-10 weeks before your last frost date. Tomatoes need a six-eight-week head start. Other vegetables to sow indoors include broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, head lettuce and onions.

In short-summer areas, start cucumbers, melons and squash plants indoors three-four weeks before the last frost date. They should mature early enough to produce a crop before early fall

A greenhouse is a great place for raising seedlings, but winsized transplants just when you need them, and "you can con- dowsills that get good sunshine or bright light, with daytime trol growing conditions to be sure the plants are in tiptop temperatures 65-70 degrees F or a little cooler at night, are fine. If you use garden soil as seed-starting material, bake it in the digging and planting, gardeners are chomping at the bit to feel oven at 180 degrees F for 30-45 minutes to kill fungus organisms that may cause poor germination or damping off.

Sowing tiny seeds too deeply may make it hard for them to germinate. Scatter fine seeds, including begonias and petunias, on the surface of the planting medium and press them in light-Some, such as petunias, need light to come up well. Sow large seeds just deep enough to be hidden from view.

Keep planting material moist all the time - but not soaked stance. fibrous-rooted begonias and geraniums need 10-12. Use a misty spray that won't dislodge seeds or seedlings. When weeks from seed-sowing before they are planted in the garden shoots appear, move seedlings to a bright, airy but not drafty

Now is the time to clear out those closets, attics, basements and garages and make some quick cash in the process.

How do you plan a garage sale?

It's easy!

Just follow these simple guidelines:

- 1. Gather together the items you have for sale. Sort them into appropriate categories and price them fairly.
- 2. Place a classified advertisement in The Observer & Eccentic by calling one of the numbers below.
- 3. Hang signs throughout your neighborhood alerting residents to the upcoming sale.
- 4. Decide what to with all the money you'll have after your sale!

Or, if you love to bagain-hunt and would rather shop then sell, be sure to look for our special garage sale listings every Monday and Thursday in your hometown newspaper. Observer & Eccentric classifieds make it easy to earn money and save money. Discover for yourself, today!
