The Canton Connection

Balloon treat

Canton resident Lesley Denton was just minding her business earlier this month when she spotted something in a tree near her home.

The 12-year-old, along with friend Stacy Krzemineki, 15, decided to investigate. So they climbed up the tree and found a balloon.

The balloon carried a message from an elementary school student from Lima-Brighton School in Howe, Ind. The message greeted the balloon finder and asked that the person respond by writing back.

Lesley plans to write and perhaps start a letter-writing connection from Canton to Howe.

Senior sports

Canton senior citizens don't have time to sit around on park benches or wait for the grandchildren to come visit.

And the Canton Parks and Recreation Department along with the Canton Senior Citizens are doing everything they can to make sure seniors keep busy.

The parks department needs seniors to participate in a golf league starting in May. The league will play at Fellows Creek Golf Course. For more information, call 397-5110.

Those not interested in duffing can take a different swing, on a softball field.

Men and women 50 and older are eligible to participate. Indoor practice starts Monday, April 18. Co-ed and men's league games start in late May. For more information, call 397-1000, Ext. 278.

Festivities

A garage sale, carnival, crafts and entertainment are all part of the festivities scheduled for the annual St. Thomas A'Becket Festival.

The activities are set for May 20-22 at the church, Cherry Hill and Lilley.

The church received approval from the Canton Township Board last week to go ahead with the annual event that also includes a raffle, pancake breakfast and Vegas activities.

The government approval requires that a building official and public safety director give their OK once the facilities are set up for the festival.

Booked

So you really think you know books, huh? Do you check the best-seller lists every week to make sure you have read all the important novels of the day?

Do you drop the names of famous authors at cocktail parties and discuss the themes and imagery in today's literature?

The Canton Public Library has a place for you. The library's evening book discussion group meets Tuesday to discuss "Where the Red Fern Grows" and "Rascal."

The program has been around for about a year and started with a handful of people. Now, the program has more than a dozen participants and there is room for more.

The group meets at 7 p.m. and registration is not required. For more information, call 397-0909.

Cafeterias get county OK to reopen

Cafeterias at the Centennial Educational Park received approval to serve hot lunches today from county health officials, who now strongly believe that a virus sickened more than 200 students and staff just before the spring break.

"We feel — and again we have people out there now (Friday) giving one more thorough going over — all food-handling procedures were appropriate and the water supply system is operating appropriately at this time," said Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, medical director for the health department.

Analysis of food, water, blood and stool samples by state health officials ruled out a bacterial cause — a staph infection or salmonella poisoning — that would have had more serious consequences, Lawrenchuk said.

HE EXPECTS the National Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta to confirm the virus in a few weeks.

Lawrenchuk believes the source was some kind of water or food contamination.

"What happened . . . we just don't know," he said. "What we do know is each time we went — and we went out there several times — everything was functioning normally."

County health officials have extensively surveyed 40 people who became ill and 80 who didn't, all chosen randomly from CEP, in an effort to find a cause.

"We're continuing to do statistical analysis," Lawrenchuk said. He conceded, though, that a cause may never be determined.

A letter was prepared by county health officials for possible distribution today to students, staff and parents outlining most recent developments.

THERE WAS limited secondary spread of illness from person to person, lending support to water or food contamination, Lawrenchuk said.

Symptoms included nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, loss of appetite, chills and weakness.

"Course of illness is usually mild, with patients recovering in a few days with no long-term consequences," Lawrenchuk said.

Baseball's back

The calendar may say it's baseball season but these Salem players found there is still a chill in the air. The teammates — Dave Colasinski (from left), Matt Metikosh and Mike Howard — try to stay warm during spring practice. Their season opens Friday at home against Northville. For a preview of the coming season, turn to Page 1C.

Prosecutor may testify in hearing

By M.B. Dillon

Washtenaw County Prosecutor William Delhey and his assistant are expected to be called as witnesses in a hearing in connection with the 1986 shooting death of Mary Anne Hulbert, 13, of Canton Township.

The hearing, to determine whether statements made to police by two teenage defendants are admissible, is scheduled for Tuesday before Washtenaw Circuit Judge Henry Conlin.

Charged with open murder are Christopher Machecek and Steven Stamper, both 17, of Ypsilanti Township. Hulbert's body was found in a Superior Township field Jan. 7, 1987. She was shot seven times.

According to testimony, the boys blamed each other for Hulbert's death in statements to police.

by one of the boys. The youths took her to a field where they intended to shoot rifles into the air, scaring Hulbert enough to induce a miscarriage, according to testimony. An autopsy showed she was not pregnant.

Assistant prosecutor Libby Pollard was subpoenaed by Richard Digon, Machecek's attorney.

THE DEFENSE is arguing that sheriffs, acting on advice from prosecutors, erred in detaining the youths for questioning the day Hulbert's body was found.

Because the boys were 16 when the murder occurred, they should have been turned over to juvenile court authorities immediately, say defense attorneys.

"I don't think it's proper for me to comment until they (defense attorneys) make claims for the record," said Pollard.

Delhey said he was "contacted on that Friday by the sheriff's department. I also was contacted by my assistant by phone that evening."

"In all fairness, I don't know why they would be calling me as a witness. I am here in the office; if they serve me, I will appear."

MACHECEK AND Stamper are being held without bond in Washtenaw County Jail. They were bound over for trial in circuit court by Washtenaw Probate Judge Judith Wood after a 17-week evidentiary hearing.

Defense counsel appealed Wood's decision to send the case to circuit court. Conlin upheld Wood's decision.

Wood in her findings characterized Machecek as the trigger man and Stamper as the aider and abettor, according to attorney Jane Thurston, who appealed Wood's ruling for Stamper.

Trials for the youths, expected to begin sometime this spring, are not yet scheduled.

Canton officers sued in man's death

By Diane Gale
Staff writer

Two Canton police officers have been sued for circumstances surrounding a 1986 traffic stop that involved the death of a 36-year-old Ypsilanti man.

The suit names Canton officers Dan Antleau and Roger Pearsall. It was filed by the victim's wife, Linda Yates, and Joyce McCune, the guardian of the victim's son.

Different explanations of the incident are given in a police report and the lawsuit.

Dewayne Gerald Yates was driving on Michigan Avenue at I-275 on Jan. 18, 1986 when he complained of chest pains and collapsed behind the steering wheel, according to a Canton police report.

HIS COUSIN, Rachel Lynn Yates, who was a passenger in the car, "pushed the victim from behind the steering wheel" and drove toward Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti, the report said.

At 12:46 a.m., with her four-way flashers on, Rachel Yates was clocked by Canton Police officer Pearsall driving 95 mph westbound on Michigan, according to the report. The road's posted speed limit is 55 mph.

Pearsall pulled Yates over, who said: "I think he's dead, he's had a heart attack," the report said.

"This officer (Pearsall) found the victim lying across the front seat of the above vehicle face down and head towards the passenger door," the report said.

Another Canton officer, Antleau, arrived. Dewayne Yates was removed from the car, and Pearsall tried to revive him, the report said.

Van Buren police arrived, and a Taylor ambulance took Dewayne Yates to Beyer Hospital. He was pronounced dead at 1:55 a.m.

THE COMPLAINT, which was filed in Wayne County Circuit Court, alleges the Canton officers:

• Failed to escort Dewayne Yates to Beyer Memorial Hospital, when the travel time would have been significantly less than waiting for the ambulance.

• Failed to immediately contact hospital authorities for correct instructions.

• Failed to contact the nearest available emergency medical service.

• Removed the Dewayne Yates from his vehicle without permission.

• Failed to otherwise act prudently under the circumstances.

The case has not yet gone to trial. Canton was dropped from the suit due to governmental immunity, said Anne McLaughlin, who is representing the officers.

"They (the officers) did everything within their training and everything within their power to respond to this emergency situation," McLaughlin said. Canton will pay legal fees because they're being sued for actions done in their capacity as officers, McLaughlin said.

The lawsuit also names the Taylor Ambulance Service, Inc. and the emergency medical workers who responded to the call.

'They (the officers) did everything within their training and everything within their power to respond to this emergency situation.'

— Anne McLaughlin
attorney for the officers

The lawsuit claims the officers did not act prudently in trying to save the life of a 36-year-old Ypsilanti man in 1986. The man was being transported in a speeding car to a hospital when officers pulled the driver over.

THESE ARE the survey results:

decent wage," Marcangelo said. "I don't think it's very much if you compare it to other communities."

• Lynn Pruitt, of Suffolk Court, didn't name the three politicians. She said she cared about their salaries because they affect taxes. "I feel you need to be deserving of a raise and it shouldn't be because so and so got a raise to keep up."

• An 11-year Bridge resident, preferring anonymity, named Poole and Chuhnan. She believed the board recently received pay raises.

• "I think it (salaries) should be a reasonable amount," said Barbara Robertson, of Iron Gate. "It should be in line with other communities and with what other people are doing in the same type of work."

She identified Chuhnan and Poole.

• Carole Strid, an Iron Gate resident, named Poole and Brown.

"Obviously it doesn't make sense they would get paid an exorbitant amount," Strid said. "But it has (to) be enough so you get a good competition of people."

• Frank Messina, a 10-year Trotwood resident, identified Poole and Brown.

He said their pay depends on whether the positions are full- or part-time.

• Curtis Harshman, of Shana, said he knew the name of the supervisor but not the treasurer or clerk. "For the amount of work they do they should get paid appropriately, but not to excess," Harshman said.

• Vivian Remington, of Mantion, knew of Poole, but couldn't identify the others. Their pay "depends on what they're doing for the money."

• "I have no idea how much they get paid, but as long as it's within a reasonable amount," said Denise Ploucha, of Holmes Drive.

She identified Poole and Chuhnan. • Anne Bradley, a 32-year Canton Center Road resident, identified all three candidates.

As for their pay, she said: "I'm always money conscious, of course."

• Poole and Chuhnan were identified by Linda Berlin, of Bartlett.

Berlin said she cared about their salaries.

• Craig Money, of Honeytree, laughed when he asked if they were paid from his taxes. "Then they're making too much." He was unsure who was in the office.

• A Shana Drive resident, preferring anonymity, named Chuhnan. She cared about their salaries because: "It's coming out of my taxes. I think if they're giving that much to the clerk, they should be giving more to the school system and special education."

Seven file petitions for local school board seats

People wishing to run for Plymouth-Canton school board have until 4 p.m. today to file with elections clerk Bernice Nichols.

As of Friday afternoon, seven candidates filed nominating petitions, said Nichols.

They include incumbent Lester Rensburg of Plymouth; Annette Rensburg of Plymouth; Richard Sumpter of Canton Township; Leon Watkins of Plymouth; Allen Kinsler of Plymouth; Milan Emanuele of Plymouth and Kent Jensen of Canton Township.

Open are two four-year terms. Trustees receive a stipend of $30 per meeting, up to a maximum of $1,500 a year.

The regular school election is scheduled for Monday, June 13. Up for grabs are four-year posts held by Trustee E.J. McClelland and vice president Walker. Each of the board's seven members is elected to a four-year term.

Petitions must contain at least 27 valid signatures.

Candidates who change their minds have until 4 p.m. Thursday to withdraw.

Eastern Michigan University recognized four Canton residents for maintaining a perfect 4.0 academic average over the past year during its 40th annual honors convocation. They were Sharon Ketcham, a junior, and sophomores Linda Corzine, Lila Howard and Esther Sanabria.

Ferris State College included two Plymouth residents, Heidi Zang and Erica Miller, on its academic honors list for the winter quarter.

Three Canton residents — Tami Bane, Karl Wehrheim and Michael Williams — also were listed. They compiled a grade point average of at least 3.5.

Several Plymouth Township Community Service officers were honored with service awards during recent ceremonies before the township board.

Sgt. Sally Maxwell received a certificate acknowledging six years of service; Sgt. Dominick Grunas, three years; Sgt. Richard Maxwell, Sgt. Sidney Morris and officers Richard Genik and Patrick Wheeler, all two years.

Thomas Alonzo, a Canton resident, has been named to the 1988 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges."

Alonzo is a culinary arts major at Johnson & Wales College in Providence, R.I.

Christine L. Roby of Plymouth has received a bachelor's degree in comparative world literature from Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Ill. She's also a Plymouth Salem High School graduate.

Lawrence Institute of Technology has listed six area students on the dean's honor roll for the winter term. Jeffrey M. Feiler, Harry L. Lee, Christopher J. Sommer, John S. Stylianou and Stanley E. Cole, all from Canton, and James D. Ervin of Plymouth maintained at least a 3.5 grade point average.

Mud Day offers kids good, not-so-clean fun

Imagine being able to play in the mud — and your parents not minding. That youthful fantasy came true Wednesday for more than 100 area youngsters who participated in Mud Day at Nankin Mills Picnic Area, Westland.

Wayne County Parks workers dampened a field, then let the youngsters have at it.

"Parts were like a big, muddy swimming pool," event coordinator Vic Chasson said. "Needless to say, those were the most popular spots."

Youngsters played in the slop for about an hour. Even a few parents couldn't resist getting in the act, Chasson said.

Ricky Frizzell of Dearborn Heights and Tonya Warrick of Dearborn were crowned Mr. and Ms. Mud by a voice vote of their fellow participants.

Firefighters from Metro Airport hosed down participants, who changed clothes before going home.

Introduced last year, Mud Day coincides with the end of spring break for most area school children.

Even his own mother might not be able to recognize this boy, one of an estimated 100 youngsters who flocked to the Nankin Mills picnic area.

Opposition drives on against transport cuts

By Brian Lyasight
staff writer

The federal government is repeating its threats on budget cuts that would devastate the NTC.

In an attempt to fight the cuts, proposed at the federal level the last few years, the five communities making up the NTC are expected to protest the reductions formally. Garden City, Westland, Canton Township, Wayne and Inkster make up the NTC.

Last week, the Canton Township Board approved a resolution opposing the cuts.

The U.S. Department of Transportation has proposed a 53-percent cut for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1. Locally, that could gut the commission, which provides low-cost transportation for riders, most of whom are elderly or handicapped.

Ninety percent of the ridership is handicapped or elderly, and for many NTC transportation is all they can afford, said Charles Hunter, NTC executive director.

"It could mean trouble for seniors on a limited income," Hunter said, referring to the proposed cuts.

Councilman Jim Plakas, who represents Garden City on the NTC board, said the proposed federal cuts would strain the system.

"We've streamlined considerably," he said. "We can't do any more."

obviously. We don't offer the service we once had."

THE RESOLUTION passed by the Canton board urges the federal government to keep the DOT spending at current levels.

The resolution will be sent to Michigan congressmen and to congressional leaders.

According to the resolution, the cuts would cause NTC service to cease or cut back on rates to rise. The resolution is a symbolic gesture and by itself carries little weight, officials said.

The proposed federal cuts would affect transportation systems nationally, Hunter said. If each city or system protested, the chances of restoring the proposed cuts would be more promising, he said.

BUT THAT battle will be fought in coming months. Hunter said the NTC's 15 vehicles will be on the streets through the fall. Ridership has begun to pick up for the warmer months, he said.

The system had 9,200 riders in March and 7,200 in February, Hunter said. The figure includes the five member communities.

SIMILAR FEDERAL cutbacks have been proposed in previous years but later rescinded, Hunter said.

The federal government "keeps trying and trying and one of these years, they will say 'OK. No more excuses,'" he said.

Another issue NTC must face is a new agreement with the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, the regional transportation agency through which NTC's federal funds are funneled.

The current agreement ends in June and SEMTA has voted to dissolve itself. If that happens, NTC — a private, non-profit corporation — may work closer with the county, or stand alone, Hunter said.

NTC settled a funding dispute with SEMTA last summer by raising rates from 75 cents to $1, and raising $50,000 from member communities. That funding crisis was the result of state and federal funding cutbacks since 1984, Hunter said at the time.

Canton man faces sentence after plea in cocaine charges

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Two area men were found guilty of drug charges after an undercover drug operation that culminated in the parking lot of a Redford Township restaurant.

A third man pleaded guilty to drug charges.

Glenn Sandy, 28, of Canton Township; Timothy O'Hagan, 26, of Redford Township; and Michael Adamson, 34, of Highland Park were arrested Oct. 6, 1987. All three are expected to be sentenced by Judge Thomas Foley later this month.

A Drug Enforcement Administration agent made the arrest with Livonia police in the White Castle parking lot at 1-64 and Telegraph in Redford Township, said Mark Haldar, assistant Wayne County prosecutor.

SANDY PLEADED guilty to delivering more than 54 grams of cocaine and less than 225 grams of cocaine. The charge carries a maximum 10-20 years in prison.

A Wayne Circuit jury in Foley's courtroom recently found O'Hagan and Adamson each guilty of delivering more than 650 grams of cocaine. The conviction carries mandatory life in prison without parole.

Adamson is free on a $25,000 bond. O'Hagan is in jail.

THE OCTOBER transaction involved sale of almost 1,000 grams of pure cocaine to a drug enforcement administration agent, Haldar said. The price of the drugs was $32,000.

It is customary the cocaine would be diluted with other powders. In subsequent sales, the cocaine was probably worth $250,000, according to a DEA spokesman.

"Anyone who can come up with a kilo of dope isn't to be taken lightly," the DEA spokesman said. "They're worth working on."

THE POLICE investigation on O'Hagan began earlier in 1987 when the DEA agent began buying smaller amounts of drugs, Haldar said. DEA agents were interested in pursuing an investigation, because the cocaine was more than 90-percent pure.

"We had intelligence and information that he (O'Hagan) was the head of an organization and was capable of doing that kind of weight," the DEA spokesman said.

Homeowners: Build barrier, not golf course

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

Homeowners who live near Wayne County's only forest and wildlife preserve are as sick as county officials are of the trash dumped in William P. Holliday Park.

However, the homeowners view the proposed building of a golf course on the preserve as a meat-ax approach to a problem that has a simpler solution.

The answer, they said, is to erect a permanent barricade at the Koppernick Road entrance, the only vehicular entrance into the landlocked western portion of the park. This is the portion of the 500-acre preserve that Westland has proposed buying from Wayne County to build an 18-hole golf course.

A permanent barricade would keep cars out of this part of the park, they said, thus ending the "midnight dumping" of trash. Visitors could walk around the barricade and still get in.

The single, biggest thing they can do to preserve the area is to put up a permanent barricade at the Koppernick (Road) entrance," said Gary Bickell, who lives on Koppernick Road.

Echoed Maxine Kunz, who has lived on Koppernick since 1938: "They should let people in there, not cars."

WHEN WESTLAND'S controversial bid to build a golf course on 99 acres of parkland south of Koppernick Road first surfaced, naturalists hiked the park's trails and reported finding little trash.

That was puzzling, considering that Westland Mayor Charles Griffin had called the park a "garbage dump" and an "absolute junkyard."

Koppernick Road residents had an answer to the puzzle. The county recently put up a metal barricade at the Koppernick entrance, they said. Since then cars have not gone into the western portion of the park.

"It's the difference between night and day, when a barricade is up," Bickell said. "They clean the place up, and it stays cleaned up when cars can't get in."

The homeowners proposed three other changes at the Koppernick entrance.

- Keep the barricade up year-round.
- Move it farther back so that more than five cars can park behind it.
- Put out some trash cans near the barricade.

Griffin has said that Wayne County can no longer afford to pay the bills to maintain the park.

Koppernick Road resident William Kraschovetz disagreed, at least as far as maintaining the far western part of the park goes.

With the entrance barricaded, he said, the county would have little to maintain in that section.

The Koppernick entrance leads into a forest of mature maple, beech, oak, hickory and tulip trees. Nothing is disturbed under the forest canopy; fallen trees are left to decay in silence.

THE SAME ease of maintenance apparently does not hold true for other sections of Holliday Park more easily accessible by cars.

Wayne, Newburgh and Hix roads all cut through the park as it stretches snakelike for 12 miles along Tonquish Creek. The park begins at Nankin Mills Nature Center on Edward Hines Drive, runs north of Warren Road and ends beyond the border of Canton Township near the I-275 expressway.

The three intersecting roads all give cars easy access to the park — and to illegal dumping. One spot, between Newburgh and Hix roads, dramatizes the dumping problem the county has to deal with along the slender length of Holliday Park.

Next to a wooden bridge over Tonquish Creek is the bulk of an old car, a tarp, roofing materials, old carpeting, broken glass, and that's only what could be deciphered from the

Nature preserve
controversy continues

Homeowners say a permanent barricade here would solve the county's vandalism and trash problems.

rubble. Engine parts lay on the sandy bottom of the creek. The roof of a nearby scenic shelter had been torn off.

IN CONTRAST, the biggest pile of garbage spotted in the Koppernick section was a pile of glass and concrete pieces lying next to the park road.

Wilkinson said area residents themselves pick up trash thrown alongside Koppernick Road.

Many of the homeowners recalled the park's glory days, back in the 1960s and 1970s, when a ranger patrolled it, when scouts camped there, when picnickers dallied on newly Homeowners who live near Wayne County's only forest and wildlife preserve are as sick as county officials are of the trash dumped in William P. Holliday Park.

However, the homeowners view the proposed building of a golf course on the preserve as a meat-ax approach to a problem that has a simpler solution.

The answer, they said, is to erect a permanent barricade at the Koppernick Road entrance, the only vehicular entrance into the landlocked western portion of the park.

"It's a crying shame, that the park is not appreciated," Kunz said. "Only kids up to no good go there now."

Bickell said the park needs more advertising. "It's an incredible place and an awful lot of people don't even know it's there."

TODAY, A gray-bricked wall sits forlornly beyond the metal barricade at the foot of Koppernick Road. On this wall, the old park entrance is a plaque honoring Arthur J. Richardson, the man who made the preserve possible.

Back in 1958, Richardson gave Wayne County the money to buy a preserve in memory of his uncle, William P. Holliday. The preserve was to give future generations a glimpse into an America long missing from urban areas.

"This is an area to be enjoyed in its natural beauty and preserved unspoiled for future generations," reads an old brochure published by Wayne County.

"Nothing here is to be disturbed; even the dead trees are left to rebuild the forest soil. Careless use of our natural resources have made such areas as this our most valuable possessions. They are truly irreplaceable."

Beyond the gray-bricked wall, the gravel road divides. Both parts end at grassy knolls, where forest trees were removed, grass and evergreens planted and restrooms and picnic pavilions built. Heavily vandalized, the restrooms are now boarded up, the pavilions seldom used.

Except for the trails blazed and the bridges built across two creeks, those are the only man-made alterations to the old remnant forest. With its decaying logs and moss-covered stumps, the land looks much like it did to settlers back in the mid-1800s.

Kunz sold six acres of her own land back in the 1980s to Wayne County so that the park could be created.

MANY OF the area homeowners have joined the Holliday Nature Preserve Association, a grassroots group which sprang up after Westland and Wayne County officials began talks on building the golf course. The course could jump to 27 holes if Canton Township decides to tack on nine more holes on the westernmost edge of the park, which lies in the township.

None of the homeowners interviewed want the course to be built.

"My husband wanted to buy the house before we walked in, after he saw the park," Wilkinson said. "Even the people here who golf don't want it. There's golf courses five minutes away. But how far would we have to go to see another place like this?"

Bickell said he should back a golf course because it would increase the value of his property, which backs up to the preserve. But he doesn't.

"I'd rather see the land left alone," Bickell said. "There's something far more valuable back there."

The preserve is home to a multitude of birds, animals and wildflowers. Wilkinson told of recently seeing three deer. Bickell told of trillium that has spread from the forest into his backyard. Kunz said that "ducks, woodchucks, skunks, three kinds of squirrels and mosquitos that will carry you away" all live in the woods.

"Animals were here before people, and they need a place to survive," Kunz said.

A former Florida resident, Bickell said he saw firsthand in that state what happens when a countryside gets overbuilt.

He said fertilizer used to nurture grass on the course could drain through Tonquish and Deer creeks into the Rouge River.

"Now doesn't that seem odd?" he asked. "We have one group working to clean up the Rouge. Then they build a golf course, which will pollute it."

Motel planned for I-275 corridor

By Doug Funk
staff writer

A new motel has been proposed along the I-275 corridor in Plymouth Township.

Signature Inns Inc., headquartered in Indianapolis, has submitted plans to build a two-story, 124-room hotel at I-275 and Ann Arbor Road behind Benning's Restaurant.

Site plans also show an outdoor pool on the three-acre parcel.

Trish Barger, administrative assistant in Signature's real estate department, couldn't provide a construction timetable or cost estimates.

"We definitely gear our service to the business person more than the vacationing family," she said. Signature includes a continental breakfast and daily newspaper in its guest rate. Barger said the hotel would be between expensive full-service hotels and budget motels.

THE TOWNSHIP'S planning commission will consider tentative site plan approval at its Wednesday, April 20, meeting.

A Signature Inn would be the third motel/hotel in Plymouth Township.

The Red Roof Inn, which promotes itself to the budget-conscious traveler, opened a 109-room motel at the northeast corner of Ann Arbor Road and I-275 in 1975.

The Plymouth Hilton Inn on

Northville Road has 195 guest rooms, an indoor pool, ballrooms and a restaurant. It opened in 1972. In recent years, a host of motels/hotels have been built or are being built along the length of I-275 north from metropolitan airport.

They include Budgetel Inn, Knights Inn and Fairfield in Canton; Holiday Inn, Quality Inn and Marriott in Livonia; and Novi Hilton and Skyline Inn in Novi.

STUDIES UP TO about a year ago didn't indicate an oversaturation of the lodging marketplace in the area, said James Anulewicz, planning director for the township.

He isn't so sure that's the case now. "As far as marketability, that's their responsibility," he said.

Managers of other motels/hotels said they try to carve their own niches.

"Signature is in the budget hotel area. We're not," said Patrick Bohr, general manager of the Plymouth Hilton. "This is a good growing area. There's room for everybody. We're two totally different markets."

Creon Smith is co-owner and manager of the 97-room Mayflower Hotel in downtown Plymouth.

"We've got tourists, business people, weekend business. We're conscious of the competition, but we blaze our own trails," he said. Kathy Simmons, general manager of the Red Roof Inn, declined comment.

Group eyes cleanup to help stop links

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

A group protesting the plan to convert part of the William P. Holliday nature preserve into a golf course will fight Westland officials on two fronts, according to its chairman.

The nature preserve is surrounded by Westland, Canton Township and Livonia.

"We're looking at a major cleanup effort in the preserve and the possibility of mounting a legal challenge," said Jack Smiley, who heads the Holliday Park Nature Preserve Association.

Smiley told about 100 people attending the group's third meeting recently that the issue of litter in the park "has to be addressed since they (Westland officials) are trying to foster the idea that the area has become an uncontrollable mess."

Westland Mayor Charles Griffin, who disclosed the plan to build the 18-hole course using about 20 percent of the 500-acre preserve in the city's northwest section last January, claims that the park has become a dumping ground and several maintenance buildings have been vandalized.

THE PROPOSED course would be built north of Warren Road and west of John Hix on land that is owned partly by the city and partly by Wayne County.

Under the proposal, the county would either sell or lease its portion of the land for the city-operated course.

Griffin said last month he has begun to set up an advisory commission for further exploration of the proposal. A chairman hasn't been selected yet, Griffin said, but the advisory commission will include parks and recreation director George Gillies.

The Westland mayor said the commission's first priority would be finding grants and donations to pay for a feasibility study for the proposal. The study is expected to cost $25,000.

If money for the study can be found, the advisory committee would be charged with further work on the proposal, including assessing the study and making recommendations concerning construction of the course.

Griffin said a long-term project of several years here, Griffin said.

THE HOLLIDAY Nature Preserve Association meanwhile claims construction of a golf course would disturb the wildlife that makes its home in the preserve and that such a project may constitute an illegal use of the land.

The association's cleanup committee reported collecting 15 bags of garbage during an informal effort the weekend of March 26-27.

"We'd like to get a real drive going," Smiley said. "If we can get the area cleaned up the city won't have that as an excuse for the golf course."

Smiley said the group was continuing its exploration of the history of the preserve and its legal uses.

The nature preserve was created in the late 1950s using money from the estate of the late Arthur J. Richardson. It is named after Richardson's late uncle, William P. Holliday.

Smiley said a possible legal challenge to the proposal would center on the designation in Richardson's will that the land be used "for park purposes only."

"We have material which would seem to indicate that it must remain a forest and wildlife preserve," Smiley said.

Griffin contends that a golf course, by definition, is a kind of park and therefore a valid use of the land.

"WE FEEL there are grounds to keep the preserve the way it is, but we still haven't gotten the final word on the legality issue," Smiley said.

Smiley said any intrusion on the preserve would be harmful to the wildlife and flowers it was designed to protect. The preserve is currently home to several rare species of owl and deer, he said.

The association also has compiled a list of several dozen species of birds that can be found in the area.

"Any destruction of a part of the preserve will diminish the whole," Smiley said. "Many animals are in need of a large, contiguous area in order to flourish."

Family Y to honor 2 for volunteer aid

The Wayne-Westland Family Y, which serves Garden City and Canton Township, will honor two individuals for devoting countless hours to the organization and the community.

Ted Scott and Jim Leight will be cited at the Y's 12th annual recognition dinner Thursday night, April 21, in Leight's banquet hall, 626 S. Wayne Road.

Announcing the awards was Gail McKnight, Y board chairwoman. Leight, born in Detroit and raised in Wayne, is "one of those rare human beings who is always there to help out others," said McKnight.

"Whenever there is a worthy cause, Jim is always ready to pitch in."

"Jim is never one to seek public recognition for his charitable deeds, preferring always to work quietly in the background."

Leight opened his first restaurant in 1955 in Wayne, his second in Westland 11 years later across the street from the Y complex of buildings on Wayne Road south of Cherry Hill.

Scott has devoted hundreds of hours to the Y, McKnight said. Besides serving as board chairman and other leadership roles, Scott has "literally held together" the Y haunted house project, which has been an annual fund-raiser for the Y.

Ted is always there to help design and plan the haunted house, McKnight said.

Recycling urged as trash solution

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Will Michigan residents support recycling—will they separate their trash before they dump it?

Gov. James Blanchard and at least one area legislator believe so. And they believe Michigan residents will support spending an estimated $150 million to implement the program.

For residents, it would mean putting bottles, cans and other products that could be recycled into one container, other waste in another and hazardous waste, including old car batteries, in another.

Recycling is a key to meeting long term disposal needs, David Dempsey, Gov. Blanchard's environmental aide, told members of the intergovernmental Conference of Western Wayne County on Friday, one day after the Blanchard Administration unveiled its disposal plan.

"OUR LONG term goal is the end of land filling," Dempsey said. By the year 2005, Dempsey said, some 25 percent should be getting 'The message is the technology is available, and the technology works.'

—Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton

recycled, he added.

The Blanchard Administration is proposing an $800 million bond issue to pay for recycling and energy conversion plants, as well as other environmental projects.

Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, told conference members he supported the $150 million that would be earmarked to help communities implement solid waste management programs.

"I'm 100 percent behind that," Kosteva said, though he added another $150 million targeted for economic development "lacked specifics."

Kosteva, who recently toured European waste disposal plants under a private grant, said similar systems could be implemented here.

"The message is the technology is available and the technology works," he said. In Europe, he added, wastes that cannot be recycled are converted to compost.

THE PLAN fits in with Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara's recently announced plan to reduce county waste, the executive's staff members said.

"It's pretty much in line with what we're proposing," county public works director James Murray said.

The conference, which represents Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth and Canton, Plymouth and Redford townships, made no commitments.

Individual conference members said they understood the need for waste management, but said they expected controversy.

"Education is the key," Canton Township Supervisor James Poole said. "It's getting those 'hostiles' out there to participate."

OSTEOARTHRITIS OF THE HAND

When you think of "wear and tear" arthritis, you likely picture someone limping because of a worn-out knee or hip. But even more common is the image of someone painfully holding a hairbrush or a towel as a result of osteoarthritis of the hand.

Because of the endless use it receives throughout a lifetime, the base of the thumb is the most frequent site of osteoarthritis. Pain, swelling, and loss of motion characterize this condition. Treatment with aspirin and similar drugs rarely suffices, and injections give only temporary relief. The best therapy comes from hand surgery.

Swelling that involves the knuckles, while the most visible presentation of osteoarthritis of the hands, is the type least likely to lead to impairment. The hands will have an appearance that looks like rheumatoid arthritis, but the timing and duration of discomfort is different and allows your doctor to identify the problem as osteoarthritis.

Initially, osteo and rheumatoid arthritis of the hands are treated with aspirin therapy. If this treatment fails, further drug regimens may be useful in rheumatoid arthritis. But in osteoarthritis the next step is surgery with fusion of the joint in the position of function being the most common operation.

HOUSE

CONTRA AID — The House approved, 345 for and 70 against, a $47.9 million humanitarian aid package that will keep contra forces in the field during early stages of the truce between the American-backed rebel forces and the Sandinista government of Nicaragua.

The measure (HJ Res 523) was approved by the Senate (below) and signed into law by President Reagan. It earmarks about $10 million for Organization of American States efforts to verify the 60-day ceasefire that launches the peace agreement and $2.5 million for administrative costs.

The remaining $35.4 million is to be split evenly between medical care for children injured in the Nicaraguan war and non-lethal aid for the contras.

Members voting yes supported the aid package. Voting yes were Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Voting no was William Ford, D-Taylor.

REHIRE CONTROLLERS — By a vote of 234 for and 180 against, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill (HR 3396) requiring the government to rehire at least 1,000 of the 11,400 air traffic controllers fired in 1981 by President Reagan.

The discharged Federal Aviation Administration workers had belonged to the now defunct Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO) and were striking in violation of federal law.

Supporter William Ford, D-Taylor, said experienced PATCO controllers are needed because "the air traffic control system is at the stress point — too much traffic and too few qualified controllers."

Opponent John Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., said "putting the strikers and their replacements in the same control tower is sure to create animosity between the two factions" and undermine air safety.

Members voting yes favored rehiring the fired controllers. Voting yes were Pursell, Hertel, Ford, Levin and Broomfield.

PRESIDENTIAL FUNDS — By a vote of 203 for and 187 against, the House adopted an amendment to prevent presidents-elect from accepting private contributions to defray their official transition costs.

The vote occurred during debate on a bill (HR 3932), sent to the Senate, authorizing $3.5 million in transition funds for incoming presidents and $1 million for those leaving the White House.

At issue was whether private contributors to transition costs are trying to buy influence.

Members voting yes wanted to outlaw private contributions toward presidential transition costs. Voting yes were Pursell, Hertel and Broomfield.

Voting no were Ford and Levin.

SENATE

CONTRA AID — By a vote of 87 for and 7 against, the Senate approved the $47.9 million contra aid package cleared earlier by the House (above). President Reagan then signed the measure.

Senators voting yes favored the legislation. Michigan Democrats Carl Levin and Donald Riegle voted yes.

State offers jobs for youth

Applications are available for Michigan Youth Corps summer jobs. The program, designed for unemployed youths 18-21, begins June 1.

Applicants must be Michigan residents. Applicants from households headed by an unemployed person are given first hiring priority.

Youth Corps workers earn $3.35 an hour, supervisors earn $5.50 an hour. Jobs are full time. They last an average of 10 weeks.

Training sessions, including resume writing and job search skills, have been added to the program for the first time in its six-year history. Counseling is also available for Youth Corps workers who have dropped out of high school.

The state-sponsored program has provided 95,000 jobs since its founding in 1983.

Western Wayne County jobs are available by calling the Wayne County Private Industry Corp., Livonia, 261-3420.

S'craft plans kayaking class

Kayaking is the focus of a course offered this spring at Schoolcraft College, Livonia.

The course will meet 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. for two weeks beginning Saturday, April 16. It will be offered again beginning May 14. Class cost is $70.

The class is designed to provide those unfamiliar with kayaking the necessary skills to function safely in open water. Classes will be held in the college's olympic-sized pool. Equipment is provided.

Enrollment is limited. To register, call 591-6400, Ext. 540.

College sets spring sign-up

Registration appointments are available now at Schoolcraft College.

Registration will occur April 26-28, by appointment only. Appointments are available at the campus admissions office, or by calling 591-6400, Ext. 318 from 12:30-3:30 p.m. weekdays.

Spring courses include accounting, art, biology, business, chemistry, child care development, communications, computer information systems, economics, electronics, English, geology, history, mathematics, physical education, political science, psychology, sociology and theater.

There are only 3 kinds of tea

"Tea for two
And two for tea . . .
How happy life would be."

Just when you thought all of life's problems were hard enough to handle, along comes a food writer who wants to complicate things with tall tea tales of what kind you should drink and how it should be made.

Many area hostellers and fine dining establishments are quickly learning that high tea is the place to be.

Whether you are planning an elaborate tea ceremony or just contemplating a simple potful with friends, the varieties of tea are many. It doesn't really matter if you call your tea Darjeeling, English Breakfast or Ceylon Black, all tea comes from one plant — an evergreen shrub of the camellia family, which is found to thrive in tropical or subtropical climates.

The abundance of tea is grown when the weather is warm and wet, but tea grown at higher, cooler altitudes, much like mountain-grown coffees, is often considered the finest by tea connoisseurs.

If you have yet to visit a London tea shop and be swept away with aromas and flavors from the far corners of the earth, did you know that, officially, there are only three kinds of tea? Just black, oolong and green. Period.

IT IS THE processing that determines the subtle differences in tea. Black tea, which accounts for almost 97 percent of the tea drunk in North America, is mainly consumed in Darjeeling, Kemun and Ceylon varieties. A well-brewed black tea will have a rich, strong flavor and a mellow aroma.

Oolong teas, processed like black teas with less fermentation, produce a milder brew, which is rich and fruity tasting. Green teas are not fermented and the leaves are steamed, then rolled and dried, which produces a light, clear and delicate but flavorful taste.

Though processing produces only three types of finished tea, there are dozens of varieties in addition to some 3,000 different blends. Everything from Earl Grey, a blend of Ceylon and Indian teas, to English Breakfast, which got its moniker from the English habit of adding milk to tea to help bring out a distinctive aroma, is available to a wise tea shopper at area gourmet shops and delis.

One pound of tea makes approximately 200 cups. Most tinned teas last only about a year, so when you have decided on a variety worthy of investigation, be careful not to buy more than you need.

Always store tea in lightproof, airtight containers at room temperature for best brewed results. By the way, herbal teas aren't really teas at all. They are a variety of dried herbs and spices.

Though all the curious tea brew paraphernalia available could intimidate a novice, making the perfect cup of tea should not be difficult. All you need is a teapot and some fresh water.

Best teas are made in a porcelain or earthenware pot that has been warmed by filling with hot water for a few minutes. Bring fresh water to a boil (no softened waters or well water here). When the water boils, remove from the heat and allow the boiling to subside for a few seconds before pouring.

A ROUNDED teaspoon of tea per six-ounce cup is recommended. Pour it over the tea leaves and allow to steep for some four to five minutes, depending on strength.

Most tea experts disdain the tea ball as the leaves are not given a chance to swell and expand. A fine mesh mini-strainer is used or, for the more daring, the loose tea is allowed to flow to the bottom of the cup where it has been known to predict the future.

God forbid, if you must use tea bags, please do not squeeze the bag after steeping. Harsh tannins and acids are released by squeezing and can adversely affect the quality of tea.

So if your day is harried and you have been on the go, block off some 20 minutes for high tea, preferably around 2 p.m., for a refreshing few minutes of pure solitude and enjoyment. Bon Appetit!

TEA

Sip of satisfaction

marjoram

By Marty Figley
special writer

Imagine sitting down to a cup of nice hot tea when the day has been particularly hectic and letting the aroma engulf you with its serenity.

At the first sip, peace seems to settle. On the other hand, teas are wonderful "pick-me-up and start-the-day" drinks. For many, many years people have been experiencing these same pleasures.

The tea plant, thea sinensis, a member of the camellia family, is an evergreen plant that can grow as high as 30 feet in the wild. It grows in tropical and subtropical regions of the world such as Southeast Asia, China, Japan, India, Ceylon, Formosa, the East Indies and even in South Africa.

The cultivated plants are kept pruned to form a bushlike plant, which in turn can yield a crop every 40 days. A tea plant is ready to produce its first crop when it is five years old and can grow to the ripe old age of 50 years.

The plants produce shoots, called flushes (several leaves on a bud), which are picked and then processed.

THERE ARE basically three types of tea:

- Black: A special processing treatment turns the leaves black, giving the tea a rich, hearty flavor, preferred by Americans.

- Green: One of the steps for black tea, oxidation, is omitted, resulting in a tea green in appearance. When brewed, the beverage is light in color.

- Oolong: A compromise between black and green tea. It is semiprocessed so its leaves are partly brown and partly green. Another light-colored tea results.

The beginnings of tea drinking are shrouded in mystery but one story seems to persist. A Chinese legend tells about an emperor, Chen Nung, who in the year 2737 BC (more or less), while sitting beside his campfire, smelled a delicious aroma and — voila! — discovered the tea leaves had fallen into the pot of boiling water to produce the fragrance. After a taste or two, a new beverage was found that resulted in about half the world's population enjoying tea.

The earliest credible recorded reference to tea cultivation was written in 350 AD when Kuo P'o added this definition, "A beverage is made from the leaves by boiling," to the ancient dictionary "Erh Ya," supposedly written by the Duke of Chou in the 18th century BC.

A "Tea Book" written by the expert Lu Yu in 780 AD described the plant and its properties, tea-making methods, utensils used and legends. In short, a three-volume treatise with 10 parts that dealt with all aspects of tea.

Subsequently, the Dutch and English businessmen were able to establish great tea empires with information from this ancient book. Another interesting fact is that the emperors of the T'ang dynasty (618-907) were the first to levy duties on tea.

Accent on herbs, spices

By Marty Figley
special writer

All the history associated with herbs and spices makes the enjoyment of tea possess a little mystique.

Today there are spice merchants the world over, and not one country has control over the trade. We can thus enjoy our cup of herbal tea knowing that centuries ago the same flavor was enjoyed by those who have gone before us.

The history of the spice trade is intertwined with the history of tea. Herbs were also very much a part of that era. The use of the word spice or herb can be somewhat confusing as both are used to make herbal teas.

Generally, an herb is described as a flowering plant, whose stem above ground does not become woody and persistent, while a spice is described as being a pungent or aromatic substance of vegetable origin, used as preservatives and seasonings.

IN SOME HERBS we use the leaves, flowers, stems and even the roots and seeds, so sometimes the distinction is a moot point. Perhaps the key word here is "aromatic."

Herbal teas were used for medicine before the teas — or tisanes — were drunk for pleasure. Perhaps the colonists' enjoyment of herbal tea as a beverage stems from the Boston Tea Party.

Herbs and spices share similar past

One of the first herbs used in the English colonies as a substitute for the imported tea was bergamot, a plant native to this country, as were many others.

Many herbs were growing in America when the continent was discovered and the Indians used them in much the same way that the Europeans did. Colonists brought seeds with them when they arrived from England and cherished the plants as they prospered in the New World.

There are definite directions for making herbal tea. One person may like a very delicate flavor while the next may prefer a strong flavor. Some herbs blend better with others, some flavors are enhanced by the addition of honey, milk or sugar.

LEMON, ORANGE peel, cinnamon and ginger all give a different taste to teas. A clove stuffed in a slice of lemon makes a pretty presentation and gives a unique flavor to a cup of the beverage. A cinnamon stick stirrer adds interest.

The possibilities are endless, so use your imagination and experiment with various herbs until you come up with a favorite combination.

Tea blends available on the market are usually the tea plant with the addition of flavorings, such as oils or herbs, to give the desired taste. Some commercial blends, Earle Grey for instance, contain oils of bergamot.

Jasmine tea from China contains petals of the jasmine flower. Arabs flavor their tea with mint, and this mixture is also available on the American market. Orange pekoe is a finely sifted grade of black tea of India, Ceylon, and Java and does not contain added flavorings, despite its name.

There are several ways to secure herbs to use for herbal tea. You may go into the woods and gather those that you can find, or visit a specialty shop, such as a natural food store, spice shop, special tea shop and herb farms.

ON THE OTHER hand, many herbs used in this manner can be grown quite easily in your own garden. The way you obtain the herbs is unimportant, just experiment and enjoy. Herbal teas are sometimes called tisanes, from a Greek word that means "crushed barley." How this came about is anyone's guess.

A word of warning before you begin exploring herbal teas. If you are sensitive to ragweed or goldenrod avoid chamomile, as an allergic reaction may result. Rue and tansy may also provoke the same result. Sassafras is a known carcinogen and nutmeg can be toxic if a large quantity is consumed.

When in doubt, don't! Check ingredients on labels — use any new-to-you herb in reasonable amounts and do not use for medicinal purposes.

Dried herbs should be stored in airtight glass containers in a dry, dark cool place. Fresh leaves should be stored in the refrigerator and used within a day or so.

Herbs brew up fine cup of tea

By Marty Figley
special writer

One teaspoon of the dried herb should be used per cup, and if made in a pot, add one for it.

1/2 cup seeded rose hips
1/4 cup dried hibiscus flowers
1 small handful verbena leaves
(brew 20 minutes)
(from the Southern Michigan Unit of the Herb Society of America)

Or: Thyme and hyssop, sage, thyme and rosemary, lavender with mints and/or rosemary, rosemary, lavender, whole cloves and lemon peel, scented geranium and whole cloves, sage, mint and orange peel. Many herbs blend well with mints — rose petals, rose geranium leaves, lemon balm, rose hips, marjoram, lemon verbena, comfrey.

The seeds of dill, fennel, caraway, cardamom and coriander make interesting teas alone or in combination with other herbs, except perhaps mints or lemon.

A licorice flavor can be obtained by using fennel seeds, tarragon, star anise or chervil.

Many of the above herbs can be added to "store" teas to add interest.

FOLLOWING ARE some of the herbs native to North America that can be used as tea:

Catnip — use leaves and flowering tops. A popular tea in England long ago. It was popular with the Colonists.

Bergamot — use leaves and flowers. Called Oswego tea because settlers in Oswego, N.Y., drank the beverage during the American Revolution.

Chamomile — use flowers. Has an apple-like scent — good with honey.

Ginger — use ground root. A peppery kind of flavor.

Ginseng — use ground root. It was thought to be a cure-all for man's ailments because the root resembles a human figure.

Linden blossoms — use flowers. The tea is sweet and fragrant. The blossoms make an especially good honey.

Mints — use the leaves. Spearmint is the oldest in the family — some others are apple, orange, lemon and peppermint. Very refreshing.

Pennyroyal — use leaves. A favorite among American settlers.

Raspberry — use leaves. A unique experience.

Red clover — use flower heads. One of the oldest cultivated herbs. Indians ate the leaves and flowers raw and boiled.

Rose petals and rose hips — The hips are the swelling fruit at the end of the stem under the wilted flower.

Sarsaparilla — use root. Used by American Indians.

Strawberry — use leaves. American settlers at Salem in 1630 found the fruit and had a feast. A cooling, healthy tea.

Wintergreen — use leaves. Well known to the early settlers and Indians. A pleasant tea.

Herbs native to European and other countries — now found readily in America:

Lemon balm — use leaves and flowering tops. The plant was once rubbed on bees to keep them from straying. A pungent tea.

Lemon Verbena — use leaves. Has a lemon flavor and aroma.

Lavender — use blossoms. Tea is light and mild with a delightful aroma.

ma with a slightly lavender hue. Good with honey.

Mallow — use roots, flowers and leaves. One of the oldest food herbs. A mild, sweet tea.

Rosemary — use leaves. Has a long history. Means "sea dew." Tea has a fresh, clean taste somewhere between mint and pine.

Sage — use leaves. There are many varieties. It was highly esteemed by the Chinese as a tea.

Summer Savory — use leaves. One of the first herbs brought from England by American colonists.

Thyme — use leaves. There are many kinds of thyme: lemon, caraway, orange and wild, to name a few. Tea is warm and aromatic.

MANY HOT TEAS are wonderful served as iced tea. To make iced-tea cubes, make a pot of strong tea and freeze in cubes to keep the drink from being diluted.

A newly discovered herb is being studied, since 1981, as a sugar substitute. The plant is native to South America and is called stevia rebaudiana, or sweet herb. It is truly sweet. The Guarani Indians in Paraguay have long used it to make a sweet tea. Ask for Stevia at the market if you would like a natural sweetener for your drink.

Friends, foes size up Patterson's career

By Tim Richard
staff writer

They agree that L. Brooks Patterson won a lot of votes and addressed the public's gut feelings. They disagree on whether the Oakland County prosecutor is a sincere public servant or a demagogue riding coattails to promote himself.

"He deals with his bothering people," said Larry Littman, who worked on Patterson's first campaign. Now a member of the Road Commission, Littman says Patterson "raised a lot of issues that needed to be raised."

U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin in the 1978 primary and lost, sought the gubernatorial nomination in 1982 and lost, accepted the attorney general nomination that year and lost, twice tried to get the death penalty on the ballot and failed, and advocated a long string of tougher anti-crime measures, few of which became law.

Rarely will a lawyer criticize a judge. Patterson has no such qualms, lambasting three decisions of Circuit Judge James Thornburn and lashing out at a Walled Lake district judge's handling of protesters at Williams International Corp.

REPORTERS - even those who don't like him - give Patterson a good play because he is so eminently quotable.

"Our prisons are revolving doors for crime," he said, and everyone picked it up. When the Bush Republicans beat the Kemp-Robertson people, his quote made the 6 o'clock news: "We're inside the candy store with our hands on the gummy bears."

Since graduating from the University of Detroit law school, Patterson has spent all but a couple of years of his working life in the prosecutor's office. After fighting the school bus issue (unsuccessfully) in 1972, he beat incumbent Democrat Thomas Plunkett for the top post and won three more terms by larger and larger margins. In 1978 he won voter support for reform of state "good time" laws for parolees.

Outside Oakland County, however, his successes have been few. Patterson ran against incumbent the need to raise pay and benefits. "It's changing, and I hope I had a part in it," McDonald said. "You see people staying now. It's a very rewarding job."

LEIB, AN assistant prosecutor, 1968-70, calls Patterson "a prosecutor for the people. He has taken the temperature of the public on many issues and set policy within the parameters of public opinion."

"He's a strong law-and-order prosecutor. He's a strong, modern prosecutor for an urban county. Anyone who would want to dismantle his policies would have to be crazy."

"My strengths are administration, staffing and diplomacy. I can get along with Murphy, the sheriff and the board of commissioners," said Leib, a principal in a Southfield law firm and active in bar association committees.

McDONALD, WHO was an assistant prosecutor under both Plunkett and Patterson, says Patterson "goes for the jugular (on issues) and does it better than anyone I know."

"You don't hear that from O'Hair. You didn't hear that from Cahalan. You don't hear that from Marlinga," McDonald said, citing prosecutors from neighboring counties.

McDonald, who left the prosecutor's staff in the early '70s for economic reasons, said he's close to his fellow U-D alumnus on tough law enforcement but wouldn't be as "theatrical."

For a decade, McDonald chaired the county board's personnel committee and agreed with Patterson on perspective. He sees Patterson as "severely frustrated" as prosecutor and "looking for a way out through elevation to higher elected office."

Simon calls Patterson's approach a "lock 'em up and throw away the key" policy where "you beat up on the few people you wind up catching."

It has been unsuccessful, and he's advocating more of the same, pandering to the public.

The ACLU spokesman sees Patterson as pretty much a failure at selling his legislative program, mandates for prosecutors, mandatory sentences by judges, wiping out the state Parole Board, lowering the juvenile age from 16 to 14, abolishing half-way houses, restricting the insanity defense and totally eliminating plea bargaining.

Simon OF the ACLU has debated Patterson on the death-penalty question and has an entirely different perspective.

Endurance-type exercise boosts heart fitness

Did you know that...

- Cross-sectional studies of adults generally show a linear decline in heart-lung fitness with increasing age (about 1 to 2 percent per year). However, an endurance-type exercise training program generally augments the cardiovascular fitness level by about 15 percent.

R. Erick Reickel

Dems woo Reickel for exec race

Oakland Democratic leaders have approached Wayne County parks director R. Eric Reickel about running for county executive.

"I've made no decision," said Reickel, who since 1984 has been Wayne County parks director after holding the same post in Oakland for more than a decade. He promised a decision in "the near future."

Reickel was lured away from his Oakland post by William Lucas, then Wayne County executive, with a promise of an expanded budget and a chance to rescue its 4,000-acre system. He moved from West Bloomfield Township to Northville Township.

Budget cuts, however, have hampered his opportunities.

Reickel admitted his interest but said he would have to live off his savings for several months to run for Oakland executive. "Dan Murphy deserves a challenge," he said.

County commissioner James Doyon, D-Madison Heights, called Reickel "one of the few people who we can say is truly qualified" to challenge Murphy, who has been executive since the post was created in 1974.

But Doyon expressed dissatisfaction that it was taking party leaders so long to recruit a ticket. All county offices — executive, sheriff, prosecutor, clerk-register and drain commissioner — are up this year.

"If Democrats don't offer an executive candidate in the next month, we might as well give Murphy no opposition at all. Oakland is a winnable county," Doyon said.

Oakland Democratic chairman Louis L. Miller could not be reached for comment at press time.

Pursell bill seeks grants for nursing

AP — A shortage of nurses nationally makes it imperative the federal government help universities bolster their nursing-research programs, says Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

Pursell, whose district includes part of Livonia, and Rep. John Dingell, a Democrat from Trenton, recently introduced legislation that would authorize $30 million in federal grants for construction of nursing-research facilities.

"Few schools of nursing have the physical plants and laboratories needed for conducting and expanding patient-care research," said Pursell.

The bill would establish a grant program specifically designed to increase universities' ability to support nursing research.

Pursell said the University of Michigan would be a likely candidate for a grant establishing a national nursing research facility. The bill would also provide money for construction or repair of nursing research centers across the nation, Pursell said.

Medical care professionals within the National Institutes of Health would review grant proposals, and institutions receiving the money would be required to match the federal grant.

The bill would authorize $5 million in grants in 1989, $10 million in 1990 and $15 million in 1991.

The University of Michigan would be in line for a normal research-center grant. Other legislation backed by Pursell would establish several regional nursing-research centers under the National Institutes of Health.

Michigan would also be a likely candidate for a regional center, Pursell said.

Pursell intends to seek inclusion of his legislation in a broader bill authorizing funding for the National Institutes of Health, said Dave Mengelber, a Pursell aide.

A good rule of thumb: If salt or any sodium product is listed among the first three ingredients, consider the product as too salty and avoid it.

'Top Gun' pulls the trigger for Eagles

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Every team has at least one player it counts on when the situation demands a clutch performance.

Jeff Leach is unquestionably that player on the Plymouth Christian Academy baseball team. Coach Sam Gaines calls him "Top Gun."

The left-handed senior was voted the most valuable player last year after the Eagles won their first league championship in 11 years, and he was named the best pitcher in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

Leach batted .455 as PCA went 12-2 and tied Bethesda Christian for the title, and he hit .438 overall with three home runs and 13 RBI to lead the Eagles to a 17-7 record.

He led the team in nearly every offensive category, also scoring 19 runs, collecting 32 hits and rolling up a .638 slugging percentage.

AS A PITCHER, Leach was just as effective, going 5-1 with 39 strikeouts and a 1.55 earned run average in the league.

While Leach gives the Eagles a solid player around which to build this year's ballclub, PCA suffered key losses through graduation. Pitcher/shortstop Pat McCarthy, named Athlete of the Year by the Observer, catcher Andy Stephens, pitcher/outfielder Steve Windle and outfielder Todd Gentry have moved on.

baseball

Gaines, in fact, will have a relatively young team with only three seniors. Jeff Vos, who becomes the starting catcher, and first-year player Doug Lax, who will be used mainly as a designated hitter, are the others.

Vos, who blocks the ball well, according to Gaines, didn't hit for average but had a lot of key hits last season.

A number of juniors, who have been "paying their dues the last few years" behind the strong senior class of a year ago, will be elevated to regular duty.

BEN ODOM, one of the fastest players on the team and who stole 13 bases last year, will start in center field. He hit .357 last season.

Bryan Davies has the job of replacing McCarthy at shortstop, but he played in 17 games last year and has experience. He, too, has good speed, and Gaines recalls him hitting a home run in his first at-bat as a freshman.

"I'm looking for him to do that a few more times this year," Gaines said.

Kevin Breier will play second base, and John Pierce, who is in his first year at PCA, will start in the outfield.

Freshman Mike Pressley, who earned all-league honors in soccer last fall, rounds out the starting outfield. Gaines expects him to steal some bases, too.

Sophomore Scott Cox will play first base when Leach is on the mound, and the third-base assignment is the most wide-open vacancy. But freshman Manish Nandani was possibly the one to fill that position, Gaines said.

IN ADDITION to Leach, the list of possible pitchers includes Odom, Breier, Pierce and Nandani. All are right-handed hurlers.

Gaines believes the Eagles will be in the thick of the league race again with Southfield Christian, which "has a wealth of pitchers," and Grosse Pointe University-Liggett being contenders, too.

"We'll be sound defensively and run like crazy," Gaines said. "We will have a lot of speed on the base paths. If the pitching holds up, I think we'll be up there."

Salem softball minus sluggers from title team

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem's softball team had it all last year: pitching, hitting and fielding. But the Rocks were most effective with the bat.

Salem always had the potential to be — and usually was — awesome at the plate. That was how the Rocks managed to go 16-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and 21-3 overall.

While Salem retains one of the area's best pitchers and will be competent in the field, graduation took much of the offensive punch from the lineup.

Denise Tackett, who is a member of the University of Detroit team, Marcie Walker and Jessica Handley were key hitters, especially Tackett and Walker whom area coaches put on the All-Observer first team.

"There's no replacing those girls," said Rob Willette, who begins his eighth year as Salem's coach. "We lost two .300 hitters, and Denise hit .524."

TACKETT ALSO knocked in 46 runs last year and finished with a four-year total in excess of 150. She also belted eight homers and 19 extra-base hits. Furthermore, in regards to defense, the trio started three straight years on the infield.

"If we do win games this year, it's going to be a lot closer," Willette softball

said. "Hopefully, the pitching will keep us in the game, but we'll be winning games 3-2 instead blowing teams out."

"We're not a bad team by any means. We lost those girls, but we're not giving up."

Senior pitcher Kim Berrie, who also was on the All-Observer first team, was an important player last year and will be even more so this year in light of the reduced offense.

Berrie, who was 17-1, is a control pitcher, having walked only 30 batters in 118 innings and thrown four wild pitches last season. She fanned 50 opposing hitters and had a 1.30 earned run average.

SENIOR LAURA Sewesky did some pitching a year ago and will be Berrie's main back up.

"(Berrie) did the job last year, and we're hoping she can do it again," Willette said. "If those girls come through, we should be in the ball game. I can't see us getting blown out."

The Rocks do have an excellent hitter returning in junior Ann Mundinger, who was on the second All-Observer team after hitting .372 and driving in 19 runs. She will move from second base to shortstop in the field but bat third in the order again.

"She should be the star of the team," Willette said. "If (opponents) pitch to her, she should win several games by herself."

Willette expects senior Sandy Oberliesen, who returns for her fourth year as the regular left fielder, and junior Tracie Robinson, who played JV ball last year and will start at third base, to support Mundinger at the plate.

OBERLIESEN CARRIED a .323 batting average last season, but she batted behind Tackett and, therefore, there seldom were any runners left on base for her to collect many RBI, Willette noted.

"(Robinson) swings a good bat and has good power, and we're counting on (Oberliesen) to have a good year," he said. "The other starters will just have to do it. We don't want to count on one (player) any more than the others."

Marion key to Salem hopes

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem had one of the best baseball teams in Observerland last year, and Todd Marion was a major reason the Rocks compiled a 22-5 record and won a district championship.

Marion, who can hit the ball as well as pitch it, is verbally committed to playing for the University of Michigan next year, but he will wear Salem's blue-and-white uniform again this spring.

The 6-foot-1, 200-pound senior heads a list of returning players that gives the Rocks an optimistic outlook for the coming season.

Marion was Salem's ace pitcher last year, posting a 7-1 record and 1.60 earned run average. Westland John Glenn was the only team that could beat him, taking a 3-2 decision in an early-season game.

BUT WHILE HE was most noted for his pitching, Marion was just as

baseball

tough at the plate and earned a position on the All-Area team as an outfielder. He hit .493, smashed eight home runs, led the team in triples and batted in 36 runs.

"I don't think Michigan realizes how good a hitter Todd is," fifth-year Salem coach John Gravin said. "I think they'll realize before long they will have to have Todd in the lineup."

"(Marion) thought long and hard about (choosing a school) last fall," he added, "and it's been a lifelong dream of his to play for a top-10 program. U-M is close by, and that's where he wanted to go."

Pitching should be one of Salem's strengths since left-handed senior Fidel Cashero also returns to complement the right-handed Marion.

Gravlin noted Marion is ahead of where he was at this time a year ago because the basketball season didn't run as long. He will have more than a month of practice behind him when the season opens Friday afternoon at home against Northville.

CASHERO TOSSED two no-hitters last year, and he was 4-2 with a 2.60 ERA. In 33 innings, the 6-foot-4, 220-pound senior had a strikeouts-to-walks ratio of 2-to-1.

"He seems the most dedicated he has been to becoming a good pitcher," Gravlin said. "I think he made the decision to have a good senior year. When he's on he's definitely on."

In addition, seniors Bob Files, the top reliever, and Dan Boyle give the Rocks four pitchers with experience at the varsity level.

"That has to be a plus, a good place to start," Gravlin said, "but my philosophy has always been defense."

New coach no stranger to Salem athletics

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

This is Mark Gregor's first year as Plymouth Salem's girls track coach, but the surroundings and athletes aren't new to him.

A substitute teacher at Salem, Gregor has taught some of his runners in the classroom. Also, in the fall, Gregor is an assistant coach for the Rocks' football program.

Perhaps most importantly, however, Gregor is a former track coach at the middle school level in Plymouth. That means many of Salem's top performers this year were coached by Gregor in middle school.

Only they are a few years older.

"I HAVE A good idea of what some of them can do," said Gregor, who took over for Fred Thomann, who resigned to concentrate solely on coaching girls basketball at Salem.

"Salem has been a new experience. It's a little different for me coaching high school students than those in middle school. They're more mature and they know what to expect. They seem to respond to the coaching much better."

Salem has built powerful springtime teams in both girls soccer and softball, and it is Gregor's goal to do the same in girls track. Actually, the popularity of soccer and softball has been detrimental to the track program, Gregor said.

That's the breaks.

"It's tough at Salem to compete against the other sports," Gregor said. "The improvement of the softball team and quality of the soccer team has drawn many of the skilled athletes to those programs. I don't know if it's a cycle, but we hope to offer the girls a good opportunity to win just like the other programs."

Gregor has three senior captains — Kim

Mishler, Jennifer Smith and Shelly Bohlen — to build upon. Mishler is a distance runner, Smith runs sprints and Bohlen throws the shot and discus.

LAST YEAR, Smith was a member of the 400-meter relay team that won the Western Lakes Conference championship.

"The three captains are going to have to score a lot of points for us," Gregor said. "They're all good leaders and all four-year veterans."

"They've been around long enough to know what it takes to win. One is a nice sprinter, another is a nice distance runner and Shelly will be right up there with the best of the shot and discus throwers in the area. They're a nice combination."

Outside of the three co-captains, the Rocks are a youth-laden team. Salem will have freshmen Toni Trabani and Holly Pody along with sophomore Amy Hobgood competing in some middle-distance events. A returnee at middle distance is junior Rima Zayed.

Mishler and another senior, Jenny Sample, will lead the distance field for Salem. Also running distance events are Hobgood and juniors Shannon Donnelly and Beth Cunningham.

Back to run sprints along with Smith is senior Kelly Roe. Expected to provide depth in the sprints are juniors Lauri Santo, Carrie Henig and Tracey Santilli. Sophomore Vikki Neuhardt also is a sprinter.

SENIOR KERI McBride returns to run hurdles, along with junior Nikki Wygonik. Sophomores Gwen Sobczak and Jennifer Harris also will compete, Gregor said Harris has been a welcome surprise.

"I'm kind of surprised by the effort of newcomers like Jennifer Harris," said Gregor. "This is her first year and she has picked up the hurdles real quick."

Catcher Jerry Heath prepares to make a play on sliding baserunner Dennis Hanson during a Plymouth Salem intra-squad baseball scrimmage Thursday. Catching is one of the few defensive positions where the Rocks return a starting player from last year's 22-5 ballclub.

Salem must fill defensive holes

The latter is Gravin's big concern since Salem must replace three quarters of its infield and All-Area outfielder Tim Dowd, who now plays for Central Michigan. Dowd also hit .493 and led the team with 38 RBI. "You don't replace a Tim Dowd," Gravin said. "He was the best outfielder for miles around the last two years."

THE ROCKS also graduated second baseman Todd Robinson, shortstop Jerry Sumner, who is playing for Ferris State University, and third baseman Tom Henig. Senior Mike Stout returns at first base. "We made few errors last year, and that was why we were 22-5," Gravin said.

Senior Steve Woodard, who had amazing stats as a pinch hitter, takes over at second. He had 10 hits in his first 11 at-bats and was 24-for-48 overall.

Seniors John Woodard and Dave Colasinski are vying for Sumner's old job, and "the JV's sent us a pretty good shortstop" in junior Dennis Hanson, Gravin said.

Files, senior Chris Adams and junior Dave Noonan, another junior varsity product, are battling for the third base assignment.

baseball

While the Rocks had a veteran infield last year, they were looking for a catcher. Now the situation has reversed itself this season, and Salem is set behind the plate.

SENIOR CHRIS Michalek, a 290 hitter, returns as the backstop and will be backed up by senior Jerry Heath and junior Tim Lake, "who may be the best player off the JV team that won the league," Gravin said.

"The catching corps seems to be set; now we have to go to work rebuilding the rest of the defensive unit."

Andy Gee, who started in right field and hit .336, moves over to center for his senior season. Senior Brad Wright becomes the new man in right, and senior Mike Howard will play left field when Marion is pitching.

Gravin, who will carry 17 seniors on his 23-man varsity, added this preseason was his toughest yet for deciding who would play.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Raiders to rely on big foursome

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

baseball

North Farmington baseball coach Irv Horwitz will build his 1988 team around a nucleus of four returning starters, a group that includes junior Joe Sturtz.

Horwitz is hoping for a big year from Sturtz, who earned all-Lakes Division honors after hitting .415 with 15 runs batted in and three homers as a sophomore.

"If he has the year he had last year, he's going to be one of the premier hitters around," said Horwitz, adding he believes other teams will try to pitch around the team's center fielder.

The 5-foot-10, 185-pound Sturtz will bat third in the order again, and Horwitz plans to put strong hitters such as senior Scott Simon, another of the key returnees, on either side of him to give opponents something to think about if they hope to avoid Sturtz's bat.

"HE'S GOING TO be a good one," Horwitz added. "I think he's going to be college material."

Sturtz, who was a leadoff hitter and hit eight home runs on the JV team before being called up to the varsity, also led the team with 19 runs scored, walked 11 times and had 22 hits in 53 at-bats and produced a .625 on-base percentage.

Simon, who returns at shortstop, hit .323, scored 11 runs, drove in five, and both of his home runs came in the same game against Walled Lake Central.

The Raiders, who were 5-12 last year, have junior Jerry Hakala behind the plate and Vasey Hill in the outfield again.

Hakala's batting average was .265, and he collected 10 RBI and scored eight runs. Hill, who moves from right to left field this year, hit .320, had 16 hits and nine RBI and scored seven runs.

'If (Joe Sturtz) has the year he had last year, he's going to be one of the premier hitters around. . . I think he's going to be college material.'

— Irv Horwitz
North baseball coach

"WITH STURTZ, Simon and the others, the hitting will be good, and we'll be able to score some runs if we can hold the other teams," said Horwitz, referring to his concern about lack of experienced pitching.

Senior Todd Gesund, who played behind Jerry Haight, takes over at second base and will be a co-captain along with Simon. In 29 plate appearances, he hit .310 and had five RBI.

Senior Greg Orman also assumes full-time duty at first base, and senior Mike Mackie, who played JV ball last year, completes the starting infield at the hot corner.

Senior Jay Marcoux, a varsity returnee, takes Hill's place in right field where he will have to contend with fly balls on bright, sunny days.

Pitching is the big question mark since North graduated Rick Karcher, who is on scholarship at Indiana University, Rob Knapp and Mark Taylor. The Raiders also lost Trent Hiner, their leading hitter a year ago with a .466 average.

Big hitters gone from softball team

One of two returning seniors, Missy Vele or Kellie Craggs, will inherit Tackett's first-base job. Either junior Jo Wicklund, who played soccer the last two years, or senior Meg Foley, a returning varsity player, will take over for Mundinger at second.

Salem graduated center fielder Mary Jo Callan, and senior Sheryl Gildo will move from her starting position in right field to replace her. Junior Katie Vesnaugh is likely to be the other starter, but senior Liana Idrizi or junior Mary Meissner will get playing time, too.

The Rocks were dealt a setback at catcher when junior Darlene Gagleard, another Observer second-team player, didn't come out for softball. Senior Pam Austin becomes the new starter with sophomore Jenny Jencks playing backup.

"I THINK THE girls can play defense," said Willette in assessing the '88 outlook. "We just won't be scoring runs like we have in the past. "That makes the defense tougher. If we boot a ground ball, it could mean the game. In the past, it wouldn't have made any difference." While he doesn't think the Rocks can be labeled a league favorite again, Willette expects Salem to be in contention.

The first game, on the road Friday against a supposedly strong Northville team, could "tell the story right away" as to what kind of season the Rocks can expect to have, Willette said.

Canton Parks and Recreation Department still has openings in its men's and women's softball leagues. Interested teams should call 397-5110 for entry fee information.

• FRIENDLY GAME

The World's Friendliest Softball Tournament will take place Saturday and Sunday, April 16-17, in Canton.

The fee is $95. Prizes will be awarded for first and second place. Entries are limited. For information, call 348-6235 or 471-5918.

• WRESTLERS MEET

Canton Wrestling Club will meet Mondays and Wednesdays 6-8 p.m. at Phase III (Canton High School). Participation in the club is open to any young person interested in learning to wrestle.

The club will continue to meet through the end of April. There is no fee. For information, call 453-4702.

• GIRLS SOFTBALL

The Mid-America Mustangs, a girls slow-pitch softball team, is organizing for the 1988 summer season. Thirteen- to 15-year-old girls, who live in the Plymouth-Canton area and would like to play for the team, should call Ray Knickerbocker at 455-5893.

All runners invited to 5th birthday bash

Calling all runners! The People Who Run Downtown, a running group made up of an equal mix of Detroiters and suburbanites who run from a different downtown bar or restaurant every Tuesday night, are inviting all interested runners, race walkers and walkers to their fifth birthday party Tuesday night at the Greenwich Time Pub, 130 Cadillac Square.

The group ranges in size from 60 to 150 depending on the season and the weather. They begin congregating about 5:30 p.m. and head out for runs or walks at 5:45 p.m., with routes varying each week from one to six miles. The ability level ranges from slow walkers to fast marathoners, with everything in between.

Club leaders say they will celebrate their birthday with a free buffet and enough free pitchers of beer to wash the food down. For information, call 965-2770.

CIRCULATION

Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are delivered twice each week by carrier and mail. Our current audited circulation is 160,959 (September 30, 1987). To begin receiving your Observer or Eccentric call

591-0500 in Wayne
644-1100 in Oakland
651-7575 in Rochester/Rochester Hills

These also are the numbers to call if you experience a problem with delivery. Office hours are from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. To become a carrier, call 591-0500 or 644-1100.

Fred Wright is our Circulation Director, 591-2300 ext. 500

ADVERTISING

There are two basic types of advertisements in The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers: DISPLAY-

These ads are found in the main sections of the paper and are billed at a column-inch rate. We will provide layout, typesetting, and copywriting if you need it, at no additional charge.

Photos and additional artwork are available for a fee.

Our representatives will be happy to visit your place of business and discuss a marketing strategy with you, along with information pertaining to deadlines, contract rates, research data, and upcoming special supplements. Our display telephones are:

644-1100 in Oakland
591-2300 in Wayne

Monica DiCola heads our Retail Advertising department in Oakland (644-1100 ext. 348) and Mark Lewis is our Wayne County Retail Manager (591-2300 ext. 469)

CLASSIFIED

These ads are found in the Classified sections of the papers and are placed in columns under the appropriate classification for the item that is to be bought or sold. They are billed at a line rate. Our Classified telephone lines are open daily from 8:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Friday.

Call: 644-1070 in Oakland
591-0900 in Wayne
852-3222 in Rochester/Rochester Hills

Our computerized classified phone system will route your call to one of our ad takers. We suggest that you jot down what you would like to say before calling and have your Visa or Mastercard ready if you plan to use one of them.

Classified ads are also available in display format for Real Estate and Automotive clients and are billed at an inch rate. To arrange for a classified display ad call:

644-1100 in Oakland
591-2300 in Wayne

Jack Padley manages our Classified department (591-2300 ext. 487).

Dick Brady directs all advertising and promotion for The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers; 591-2300 ext. 400

EDITORIAL

Ever wonder who to call when you have a question or comment about what you've read in your hometown newspaper? Perhaps you've wondered how to let us know about news or photo tips?

All news tips should be called to the community editor at the telephone number listed below. If you receive no answer, call The Observer, 591-2305 or The Eccentric, 644-1101.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editorials are published every Thursday. The lead editorial is written by the community editor. Editorials printed below the lead are written by a member of the editorial department. To reach the community editor, call the number listed. To reach the county editorial staff, call the appropriate number. All letters to the editor must be legibly written and signed. Please restrict letters to 300 words. We reserve the right to condense any letter and may refuse publication.

CLUB AND FASHION SHOW NOTICES

Notices of club activities appear in the Thursday Suburban Life section. All notices must be written legibly and received by 5 p.m. Monday to be included in Thursday's paper. If you have questions, please call the appropriate Suburban Life editor.

STREET SCENE

591-2300 Ext. 302

BUSINESS NEWS

591-2300 Ext. 325

The business section is published Thursdays. In addition to the story coverage and columns, the section contains several calendars: BUSINESS PEOPLE covers promotions, internal awards and retirements for anyone living or working in our circulation area. We will print photographs if space permits. DATEBOOK covers upcoming meetings and courses of interest to business people. MARKETPLACE briefly covers new businesses, new products and other business-related items.

Submit items for these in writing by 5:00 p.m. Monday. For these calendars, call Barry Jensen (ext. 325) for all other items, call Marilyn Fitchett, 591-2300.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS, ANNIVERSARIES

We publish photographs and announcements of weddings, engagements and major anniversaries of local residents or former local residents. These appear as soon as possible, depending upon available space. Forms for announcing these events are available from any of our local offices, or you may model your announcement on an example you've read in the newspaper. The best reproduction can be made from a 5" x 7" black and white photo, but others will do. Please avoid regular or color Polaroid pictures.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Reprints of photographs that appear in the paper are not available. However, if a photograph is used and not needed for our files, it will be made available to the first person calling in. Such photographs will be held in any of our offices for two months, awaiting pickup. To inquire about a photograph, please call the editor who ran the picture, i.e.: Sports, Suburban Life, Entertainment, Creative Living, News.

RELIGION

Religious news is published Thursdays. The religion calendar is published on these pages. Calendar deadline is Monday noon. All material must be in writing. For more information, call your local suburban life editor.

OBITUARIES

We publish obituaries of local residents and former local residents. Most obituary information is received from area funeral homes. If a local funeral home is not involved, please call the community editor at the appropriate telephone number. All obituaries appear at the discretion of the community editor. Obituaries are printed without charge.

CREATIVE LIVING

News of the arts appears every Thursday. Deadline for notices of gallery shows (which must be legibly written) is 5:00 p.m. Monday. For more information, call the appropriate Creative Living editor.

ENTERTAINMENT

591-2300 Ext. 305

Entertainment pages appear Thursday and include feature stories, theater and other entertainment reviews, TABLE TALK restaurant news column, and the UPCOMING calendar, which deadlines each Thursday (for items to appear the following Thursday). Submit all information to Ethel Simmons, entertainment editor.

MOVIE REVIEWS

591-2300 Ext. 302

All questions about movie reviews, which appear every Monday in our STREET SCENE section, should be directed to Sue Mason.

Steve Barnaby is Managing Editor of The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers; 591-2300 ext. 300

Ann Arbor

Amtracking it west for day on the town

By Carolyn DeMarco
staff writer

Say you've got an urge to set out for parts unknown, but your budget and schedule shout, "Stay at home." What can you do?

Consider a day trip. Consider Ann Arbor. And consider the train.

True, you won't get the full dose of recreational vitamins that a week-long vacation in the Bahamas can provide, but you will get a quick fix during the 35-minute one-way ride on the rails that may tide you over until the real thing is available.

Begin your day-long excursion from depots in Detroit or Dearborn. Choose the Dearborn station for safety, ease in getting there and ample, well-lighted parking.

Jean Deboe, lead agent in Dearborn and the first Amtrak employee hired in Michigan, calls it "the busiest station between here and Chicago," but you can still leave your car within steps of the station-door.

THE TINY station is on Michigan Avenue just east of the Southfield freeway near the Dearborn police station. Follow the green and white signs from the expressway.

"We're packed on the weekends in summer," Deboe said of the small but comfortable and clean waiting room. Winter-spring weekdays find few Ann Arbor-bound travelers outside of school groups, "but you never can tell," Deboe said. "It's like the bus."

Reservations are not necessary. Tickets can be bought for unreserved seats just prior to travel. A round-trip fare to Ann Arbor is $8; one-way is $5.25. Children younger than 12 travel at half price.

UNFORTUNATELY, the Dearborn/Ann Arbor/Dearborn schedules make it inconvenient for leisure travel since one timely route was dropped, making it a long stretch between trains.

"We really need another train," Deboe said, but supervisor Don Muscat calls any addition wishful thinking.

Monday-Thursday the Dearborn-to-Ann-Arbor trains depart at 7:55 and 11:55 a.m. Return runs are at 8:10 and 11 p.m., creating a long day for turn-around passengers.

One route is added each way Friday-Sunday. Passengers can depart Dearborn at 4:55 p.m. on weekends to take advantage of Ann Arbor dining or entertainment before a late-evening return. For a half-day in Ann Arbor on the weekends, passengers can return to Dearborn on the 2 p.m. run.

READY TO roll? Preparing for departure takes just a few minutes. Those with tickets — no visitors, please — are admitted on board in the space of minutes.

On our brief trip, conductors Gerald Heddon of Flint and L.E. Poelman of Southfield did the honors, checking tickets and directing the small numbers of boarding passengers into smoking and non-smoking cars.

And yes, the trains do run on time.

Seating resembles that of airplanes, but seats are larger and more spacious — two abreast on each side of the aisle. Any baggage is carried on by passengers and placed in overhead luggage racks. No seat belts; the ride never gets rough, although the constant sway, rumble and clacking are something to get accustomed to.

SNACKS? THEY'VE got them for a price. But unlike an airplane, you go to them, they don't come to you.

An employee at the compact snack bar vends sandwiches, hamburgers and hot dogs, ranging in price from $2.25 to $2.75. Coffee or tea is 65 cents. Also available are pizza, yogurt, soft drinks, cold beer and wine, pastries and muffins.

Alka Seltzer and pain relievers, playing cards and trivia cards also are dispensed.

You can bring your own sack lunch aboard Amtrak, but forget about the alcohol. That's frowned upon.

REST ROOMS are similar to those on a plane — cramped. You'll probably want to avoid them.

Sit back and enjoy the view. Okay, so the ride through junk yards and the back alleys of Chelsea, Dexter and Ypsilanti at 70 miles per hour could hardly be described as scenic, but the stretch along the Huron River is pretty from late spring through fall.

Just when you've settled into the rhythm, 35 minutes later, you're there, abruptly.

No descent, no landing, just a "Welcome to Ann Arbor."

"Riding the rails" is always a thrill, even if the journey is only as far as Ann Arbor.

The Gandy Dancer restaurant occupies the old railroad depot, just next door to the newer Amtrak station. The seafood spot is the weekend destination of a number of Ann Arbor traingooers. The name, a waitress hypothesized, first referred to an Irish railroad boss named Gandy who headed a crew of Chinese workers who laid the rails. He whistled to keep a working rhythm, hence the name Gandy Dancer. The term was later used for all railroad workers.

A day in Ann Arbor should begin a week in advance.

One telephone call to the Ann Arbor Convention and Visitors Bureau (995-7281) will net you by return mail a packet of brochures and ideas for individuals, couples, senior citizens, school and scouting groups.

If it's an impromptu weekday trip, you can still stop by the bureau, just a few blocks from the train station upon your arrival. The office is at 211 E. Huron, Suite 6. Hours are 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

with a tour group operators, city, county and University of Michigan attractions, restaurants and hotels.

Susan Fielder offers suggestions for families. Barbara Barden, director of tourism, will suggest itineraries for groups.

Barden gave this sample of a good walking day trip in Ann Arbor for families with school-aged children and scouting or school groups.

• Arrive at the Ann Arbor depot at 8:28 a.m. and walk via Fifth Avenue to Kerrytown, an assortment of 35 shops and restaurants in three, century-old restored factory and warehouse buildings.

Within the Kerrytown courtyard is a ceramic mosaic created by children giving their visual impressions of Ann Arbor.

Golfers can find glory on the greens

By Iris Sanders Jones
special writer

Q: I love golf. First sign of green grass and I'm out there. How do I get a golf job in northern Michigan, and how do I find out about going into golf as a professional?

A.G.,
Birmingham

A: I was at Sylvan Resort near Gaylord last summer when I met Pat Chisholm of Birmingham. He was working at the new golf course, called Treetops, and practicing his game on the side.

Pat played his first game of golf when he was 8 years old. At 10, he decided that some day he would be a pro. Last year he won the Michigan men's amateur championship and then turned professional. Next fall he hopes to qualify for the Professional Golfers Association of America.

If that's what you mean by "going into golf as a professional," it's a long, hard road, but it can be done. The other path into the golf business is as a club professional, which takes a totally different set of skills.

In both cases you have to love golf. A professional player must have excellent skills and that little something extra that boosts you into the big time. A club pro needs business, public relations and teaching skills, the kind required to work with the public on a club or resort course.

Please turn to Page 5

MICKY JONES

Whether it's the ninth hole at Sylvan Lake or the 18th hole, it takes plenty of work on the greens to get a golf game in shape for the pro golfers' tour.

Tough talk can't save 'The Law'

Anton James is upfront about his music. He's image conscious and tries to look good for his audience.

Anton James' music: Reality 'with a beat?'

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Yes, Anton James has landed. Amid the smoke machines and the incessant drumming, Anton James makes his appearance at St. Andrew's Hall. Like a UFO, though, there's only a flash.

For there are some things even Apton James cannot control, like his drummer showing up late. As a result, his recent show appearance at the "Detroit Music Scene" show was limited to one number.

Was Anton disappointed? Perhaps. Defeated? Never.

The press release that precedes Anton James perhaps offers insight into the resiliency of a man who is somewhere "between outer space and the inner man."

States the piece of propaganda: "He has lasted triumph and defeat. He has stumbled and fallen. In his darkest hours, like all men, he has prayed. Every emotion visited upon man has been a part of Anton. But unlike that man on the street, he is one of the chosen ones, one of those minstrels who move among us singing the most favored and beloved songs of the past."

With that, Frank Zappa might ask who does he think he's jiving with that cosmic debris? If anything, Anton James looks fairly down to earth sitting in a cafeteria discussing his music.

ANTON JAMES is his real name reversed. He's direct about his music.

"We're image conscious," said James, 22, a graduate of Redford St. Mary High School. "We try to come off looking good and try to be entertaining as well. We would never dress down. People want to know that someone is going out of their way to present themselves... we don't try to overdo it."

Anton James music is self-described as "reality with a beat." The sound is a hodgepodge of blaring saxophone solos and keyboard wizardry.

The band features Dave Rollins on guitar, Marc Speck on keyboards, Chris Branch on alto and tenor saxo-

'We try to come off looking good and try to be entertaining as well.'

— Anton James

phone, Steve Wieser of Livonia on drums (replacing the drummer who was late at St. Andrew's) and Dwight Bierman on bass.

On stage, James takes a Bowiesque presence. Lyrical content ranges from the upbeat to the bleak. "Here It Comes" is a number about suicide. A video has been made about "Here It Comes," which will be aired as a public service announcement for suicide prevention. The video already has been shown on cable programs in Redford, Livonia and Bloomfield Hills. James also has submitted it to MTV's "Base-Tapes."

"Here It Comes" is the third video effort from James, who is extensively involved in that particular area of music. He works full time as a video editor, which might explain his interest in that field.

THE DIFFICULT thing about videos is finding an outlet to broadcast them. And, as always, there are the artistic questions as well.

"That's the hardest part," he said. "You have to find something that's representative of the song. But you have to have something that's attainable, such as the budget and the location."

He's been able to attain his own sound on his debut EP, "Off The Cuff," and "Anton James," a nine-song cassette tape. While his stage presence is extravagant, James has a keen business sense as well.

On the "Here It Comes" video, James found a group to split the production costs with. He also shopped for the least expensive tape duplicator for his latest cassette tape.

Anton James believes the real strength lies in the music.

"We're not just selling the size," he said. "We have the bacon."

GLOBE OF FROGS

— Robyn Hitchcock and the Egyptians

Robyn Hitchcock states up front in his manifesto that his songs are not about so-called real life situations. No kidding.

Hitchcock goes for the obscure, the quirky and the completely bizarre on "Globe of Frogs." Hitchcock experiments like a chemist gone mad here.

And, because of it, "Globe of Frogs" both shines and suffers at times. There are numbers are that are wonderfully aloof and feature the hooks needed in well-tuned pop songs.

Then there are those tunes that seem almost too disjointed and too jagged to be enjoyed by the human ear. To be unique is one thing. To try to be unique is quite another.

Sometimes one senses Hitchcock tries too hard. "Tropical Fish Manda" and "Vibrating," for example, are songs that seem to miss the mark as the result of an overextension of Hitchcock's creativity.

But when Hitchcock is on the mark, he's brilliant. Listen to the melodic acoustic number "Balloon Man," and one would think Hitchcock has all the magic to be the best songwriter hands down.

"Balloon Man" will lure you in and please your interest enough to listen further. "Sleeping With Your Devil Mask" and "Flesh Number One (Beast Dennis)" serve the same purpose. All three are excellent pop offerings.

"Luminous Rose" strays from track as a dark, more surreal number. It remains as one of the highlights of this album.

In short, "Globe of Frogs" has enough highlights to make it worth listening to.

EASTERN BLOC

— Eastern Bloc

Sometimes one doesn't even have to shed the heat-shrink rapping to know if a record is going to be worth a listen.

All it takes is a glance at the song list. When you see such hackneyed titles as "So Long," "Wait Too Long," "Heartbreak," "Time Will Tell," and "You Got Love," it ought to give you a fair idea of what might lie inside.

Such song titles on "Eastern Bloc" are only surpassed by the cliché-ridden lyrics inside. Simple melodies and trite lyrics seem to be the norm here.

On top of that, the sound is almost too slick. There's a nifty a flaw in the technical department, which doesn't make for a very vibrant album.

The brightest spots here are in the songs with the most promising song titles. One rather enjoyable melodic number is "Dancing Barefoot." The rhythm guitar combined with punchy lyrics adds life to this song. Another tasty morsel of Eastern Bloc's music is in "Miracle Mile." Here, as in "Dancing Barefoot," there's something at least original being put forth. Too bad the same cannot be said for the rest of the album.

Musicianship is not a problem here. But, usually, it never is with a formula-following band.

To truly appreciate the lifeless lyrics, one just needs to listen to "Time Will Tell." "One, Two, Three/It's a mystery for what will be for you and me." What poets.

Another limerick can be found in the equally mindless number "Call Me." "You're so mean and vicious/you act so precious/I know you've got it in for me/don't call me because I'm not alone."

They would be lucky if anyone would call for this album.

BETWEEN THE BUTTONS

— Rolling Stones

We've heard the Beatles on CD, but what about the Rolling Stones? If you haven't heard, the Stones' CDs were released last year.

Unlike Beatles CDs, fed to the clamoring public a few at a time, the Stones' 60s CDs were released all at once. Maybe that's why the event drew little fanfare.

The Beatles, it was said, had better vocals and songwriting, and were more innovative. But there's something about the Stones that moves some of us to — dare we say it — like them even more than the Beatles.

That aside, the release of the Stones' early albums on CD could be viewed as the more significant event. That's because several of their records were poorly recorded compared to the Beatles'.

Now digitally remastered, these old albums show a big improvement in sound quality on CD.

On "Beggar's Banquet," the acoustic guitars sparkle. The orchestration on "As Tears Go By" from the "December's Children" album, once a muddy mess, now sounds clean.

CD versions of "Aftermath" and "Between the Buttons" spark a renewed appreciation for the mid-period Stones. They weren't always a guitar-slashing rock band.

Brian Jones' contributions shine on "Between the Buttons." His recorder on "Ruby Tuesday," dulcimer on "Cool Calm Collected," and marimba on "Yesterday's Papers" helped vary the band's sound.

"Miss Amanda Jones" — used for a recent movie soundtrack — and "Let's Spend the Night Together" rock as well as any 70s Stones number. "All Sold Out," "Who's Been Sleeping Here" and "Something Happened to Me Yesterday" show the band's playful side.

Raisin' some fun

Hey, according to the grapevine, those crazy California Raisin characters are riding the crest of popularity in yet another way — T-shirts and sweats. Currently, they are hanging out at Maple Drugs in the Grand River-Farmington Road shopping center. The T-shirts are $12.99 and the sweat shirts are $19.99.

Fashion off-the-cuff

Spring's newest soft matte gold finish is combined with ever-popular black in an unusual cuff-link bracelet. The trailing fold serpentine strands add a saucy touch. Matching earrings complement the great look. Bracelet, $23; earring, $11. Unique Accessories, 888 Wing St., Plymouth.

Light up the night

The cuddly pooch shown here is just a toy, but the collar is the latest in safety precautions for the family pet. It's called Glo-Safety Collar, designed as a safety feature for owners who walk animals at night, or simply want to know the location of their pet at night in the yard. Tiny lights become activated when the collar is snapped on. The high-visibility collar is made of soft, comfortable material. The collar is water resistant and under normal use, will last a year. It is completely self-contained, safe for the animal and owner and can be thrown away when the lights give out. Available at Feed Rite, 24401 Ann Arbor Trail, Dearborn Heights. For more information, call 582-8844.

Tying up good looks

This year's most important accessory, the scarf, is beautifully accented with the scarf pin. A bold design, available in gold or silver, can be worn by itself as a pin or used to anchor a scarf in place. Available with free scarf-tying instructions at Unique Accessories, 888 Wing Street, Plymouth. This pin is $22.95, but others are available from $6.50 and up.

Alternative cinema opens

Detroit's former Telenews Theater has a new lease on life after opening last week as the Tele-Arts Theatre.

The theater is offering "alternative cinema," those films that with critical acclaim but often have limited in appeal, are foreign in origin and unlikely to be seen in the metropolitan area.

The theater — at 1540 Woodward Ave., just across the street from the Grand Circus Park People Mover station — is opening in two stages. For now it's open on weekends while being renovated. It was built in 1942 and designed to show wartime news reels. It has seating for 440, including 73 balcony seats.

Tele-Arts kicked off last week with the film "My Life as a Dog," a Swedish film nominated for two Academy Awards.

This weekend "Dark Eyes," a film for which Marcello Mastroianni won the best actor award at the Cannes Film Festival, will be shown. And fans of Japanese film director Kurosawa may want to circle the weekend of May 13-15. Showtimes are 5:25, 7:20 and 9:30 p.m. Friday, 1, 5:25, 7:20 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday and 1 and 3 p.m. Sunday. Tickets cost $2.75 for general admission and $1.75 for senior citizens and students with appropriate identification.

When you're hot, you're hot

The hottest, jazziest poolside party anywhere will premiere Wednesday, April 13, at the Sheraton Oaks Hotel in Novi.

"So Jazz '88" will be from 5-8 p.m. every Wednesday at the hotel, 27000 Sheraton, across from Twelve Oaks Mall, Novi.

Alexander Zonjic will open up the season this week, followed by the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band April 20, the Larry Nozaro Quartet April 27 and a return visit by Zonjic on May 4.

There's no cover charge. For more information, call 348-5000.

An evening with Twain

"An Evening with Mark Twain" Friday and Saturday, April 15-16 is one of three entertainment programs scheduled this month for Smith Theater on the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College.

Actor Jack Graham will perform the best of Samuel Clemens' stories in a one-man show.

Performance times are 1 and 8 p.m. Friday and 8 p.m. Saturday. Tickets cost $8 for the afternoon performance and $10 for the evening shows. Lunch and dinner packages also are available at $15 and $21 respectively.

On Thursday and Friday, April 21-22, the OCC Jazz Band will perform. Tickets for the April 21 performance are $3, while the April 22 dinner-dance, "Swinging at the OCC," are $16, or $6, if guests attend the dance only at Tiramisu Hall.

The OCC Chorus, under the direction of Lawrence Simmons, will perform at a free 8 p.m. concert Tuesday, April 26.

Shovel on in

Reservations for performances must be made a week in advance. Call the theater at 471-7700 for more information.

If you're looking for a dance with that old time flavor, try the Old Time Saturday Night Dance Saturday, April 16, at St. Timothy's Fellowship Hall, 15888 Archdale, Detroit.

Burton Schwartz of the Detroit Country Dance Society and The Oldie Michigan Ruffwater Stringband provide live calling and music from 8-11 p.m. No partner or experience is necessary. All dances are taught.

Admission is $3.50 and $2 for members of the Detroit Country Dance Society.

The society also is offering advanced dancing from 4-6:30 p.m. Sunday, April 17, at the Port Street Presbyterian Church, Third and Fort streets, Detroit.

Schwartz will be doing the calling and there will be special events and surprise music. Admission is $2, $1.50 for society members.

For more information, call 645-2357.

There's plenty to do in Ann Arbor

Every Saturday and on Wednesdays during the summer, you can browse through the craft, flower and food stalls in the nearby Farmers' Market, open 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

ON TO THE ANN ARBOR HANDS ON Museum, 219 E. Huron, where would-be scientists can explore four floors of 100 exhibits in a renovated firehouse. Among the "to-dos"—make waves, fly a mini hot air balloon, get inside a soap bubble, look into a bee hive, examine a hologram, control a robot arm, try out computers, play mathematical games.

Admission is $1.50 for children and senior citizens, $2.50 for adults, and $6 for entire families. Hours are 1:30-5:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays, and 1-5 p.m. Sundays. Demonstrations are scheduled for 1 and 3 p.m. Saturdays and 2 and 4 p.m. Sundays.

Groups can make special arrangements for morning visits by calling 995-5439 and special classes are offered throughout the year.

Liberty Square, kitty-corner to Liberty Plaza, the city park at East Liberty and Division, is a good spot for lunch. The glitzy, multi-story mall contains a number of fast food booths, attractive to both children and adults.

If the timing's right (noon to 12:30 p.m.), you can catch the carillon concert at Burton Memorial Tower, the third largest musical instrument in the world, on the University of Michigan campus. Climb to the 10th floor bell chamber for the best view of the city.

Other central campus attractions for a quick architectural look-see could include Hill Auditorium, Rackham Auditorium, the Michigan Union or Nickell's Arcade.

THE KELSEY Museum of Ancient and Medieval Architecture, 434 S. State is open until 4 p.m. It features artifacts, sometimes mummies, from excavations in the Mediterranean and the Near East. Admission is free and groups are treated to a guided tour.

Follow North University east to the Natural Science Museums at Geddes. You'll know you're there by the stone lions guarding the entrance. Hours are 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

The big attraction here is dinosaurs, but you'll also find a floor of Michigan wildlife and galleries on Indians, astronomy, geology, minerals, physiology and a planetarium. Groups should make advance reservations by calling 764-0478.

For dinner you could hit the campus haunts — pizza at the Little Brown Jug, for instance, or head downtown for uptown dining.

Before the train trip home, there may be time for an evening event. Check with the Visitors Bureau for schedules of classic film series, live entertainment and the like.

Looking up, I discovered that the three big windows that run from floor to ceiling were covered with frogs. There were hundreds of them, one-inch frogs with delicate webbed feet... I suppose them to be spring peepers, Hyla crucifer...

Sure enough, each pinkish-brown frog had a back crisscrossed with the dark markings that give the species its scientific name. I had not known before that they were attracted to light.

If hundreds of frogs seem too biblical, consider the chigger. Chiggers go through several transformations on the way from egg to adult. During the larval stage, the chigger must feed on a host. For this, it needs a protected place. That is why on humans the bites are concentrated in spots where clothing fits snugly.

The body overreacts to the chigger bite. One has an allergic reaction that causes itching and discomfort. This serves neither party.

This is one of those biological puzzles that I find cheering — untidy, unresolved, a reminder that the results are not yet in, that we do not have the final forms nor all the answers. We are still in process, chiggers, humans and the rest.

'A Country Year': Nature at its best

By John Killeen
special writer

Winter slowly releases its grip on the year. The world, once cold and forbidding, eases into the renewal of spring.

The hurried dashes from heated cars to heated homes and offices becomes more leisurely. Bird songs fill the air. Pale green shoots hump up damp earth and push through bare branches bud.

A humming sense of fecundity permeates everything. One begins to notice nature instead of fight it.

Now is the time to sit down with a well-written book about nature. Now is the time to pause and take notice with an attentive guide.

Over the past 12 years I have learned that a tree needs space to grow, that coyotes sing down by the creek in January, that I can drive a nail into oak only when its green, that bees know more about making honey than I do, that love can become sadness and that there are more questions than answers.

Welcome to the farm of Sue Hubbell. Its 105 acres are at the center of "A Country Year: Living the Questions" (Perennial Library, $6.95).

Hubbell is 50 years old, raises bees and lives on a peninsula between a river and a small creek in the Ozark Mountains.

Her father was a botanist and on weekends would point out plants, give their Latin binomials and tell her how they grew. That gift of knowledge inspired a curiosity that has served her well.

HER WORLD is filled with the wonders of a child's world. Her eyes are open to the details in the picture of nature.

Animals, plants, birds and insects wear friendly, everyday names along with their proper, formal names. Their habits, while lived out in the open, are puzzles to be fitted together.

Sitting one spring evening, reading the paper, she was suddenly aware that she was not alone.

"Looking up, I discovered that the three big windows that run from floor to ceiling were covered with frogs. There were hundreds of them, one-inch frogs with delicate webbed feet... I suppose them to be spring peepers, Hyla crucifer..."

Sure enough, each pinkish-brown frog had a back crisscrossed with the dark markings that give the species its scientific name. I had not known before that they were attracted to light.

J.C. Heard: "Drums is a rhythm instrument so all you have to do is swing. It'll come out all right."

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

Monday night in a suburban hotel bar and the J.C. Heard Orchestra pauses as Heard takes a solo.

He bangs, thumps and taps. There are stops and starts, flourishes. He is pounding out rhythm with a smile on his face.

The band joins in again to finish the song and the set. There is heavy applause and shouts of approval. Out of breath, Heard grabs the microphone and announces, "One more like that and I'll have to go back to Beaumont."

He gets out from behind his drum set and takes a seat near the stage with his granddaughter on his lap. Friends and strangers approach with comments, seeking handshakes or autographs, and Heard, ever the showman, obliges.

At 71, J.C. Heard, is still swinging. Not as much as he'd like perhaps.

He should — but he's doing what he loves best — playing jazz music.

That smile is always there when he's playing. He really can't tell you why, but you might guess.

"I don't even know I'm doing it," he said. "It just comes with me because I'm in another world when I'm playing . . . because I feel good when I'm up there. I feel so happy."

PLAYING IS a pleasure, he said, pure enjoyment.

Heard has traveled the world as a jazz drummer. He lives now with his wife in an apartment in Troy.

He got his start in Detroit in the clubs along Hastings Street in the old Black Bottom.

"I started out as a song and dance man. I taught myself to play the drums," he said.

He joined Teddy Wilson's Big Band in 1939, then Wilson's sextet in 1940. He toured with Cab Calloway in the 1940s and did stints with other bands, including Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Bennie Carter and Louis Armstrong.

He free-lanced and recorded with the biggest names in jazz. In the 1950s, he joined the Norman Granz Jazz at the Philharmonic All-Stars, which included musicians Oscar Peterson, Roy Eldridge and Ray Brown.

He lived in Japan for 5 years until 1957, worked more in New York, then Los Angeles and Las Vegas. He returned to Detroit in 1966 and has led bands here and toured since then.

He formed his current orchestra in 1982.

These aren't the easiest of times for jazz musicians around Detroit, Heard said.

Top 40 bands dominate the clubs, and it's difficult to get club owners to promote and push jazz bands, especially big orchestras like Heard's, he said.

He sounds frustrated when he talks about it.

"I KNOW there's a market for this kind of thing I'm selling. I know there is," he said. "It may not make money like the big rock stars. I'm not ever going to be a millionaire anyway."

"I'm not worried about that stuff. I just want people to accept my music, to accept me and to appreciate it."

He recently ended his 13-week

J.C. HEARD

Getting that feeling playing his 'music'

J.C. on jazz and more

Drummer J.C. Heard has been playing jazz for five decades. He has played with the biggest names in jazz — Louis Armstrong, Count Basie, Lester Young, Billie Holiday.

A friendly and outgoing man, he likes stories and has plenty to tell.

● On learning jazz: "You can't learn jazz by just reading books or charts," he said. "Jazz music is feeling . . . so you have to have feeling and imagination, conception."

● On the loss of clubs where Detroit jazz musicians could go to jam: "That's what we had in New York and that's the way it used to be in Detroit many years ago. Back in the '40s and '50s we used to have places like the Blue Bird and other joints, but that's over with."

● On drums: Heard said he can play any music. He urges young drummers to be versatile. "Drums are a rhythm instrument, so all you have to do is swing. It'll come out all right."

● On new music forms and jazz: "OK. Bring in new age and everything, but don't discard the other. You've got to always keep the roots. . . . So what is all the great jazz musicians supposed to do just because some new stuff comes in? Just give up and go drive a garbage truck? Dig a ditch? Because you got millions of people in the world that the love the kind of stuff I'm playing and will always love it."

● On Billie Holiday: He calls her one of the greatest singers since Beanie Smith. "I went to visit her in the hospital two weeks before she died. She had $750 under the mattress and a whole big vial of dope and nobody knew about it."

Monday night gig at the Southfield Holiday Inn. The crowds, he said, were just beginning to build. It takes time, he said.

In Japan, things were different. Heard decided to stay over after a two-week tour in 1953 with the Jazz All-Stars, one of the first big American bands to tour Japan.

Heard stayed because he liked the reception the all-stars got.

"We had a ticker tape parade . . . A ticker tape parade, baby. Three hours. All the way from the airport into the city of Tokyo to the hotel."

Other all-stars "tried to convince him not to stay, but Heard didn't listen. He led his own band. He wrote his own contract, made money and toured the Pacific."

And while things around Detroit today aren't as good as they should be, Heard is an optimist.

"I'm fortunate enough to have made a reputation and name enough to where I can survive. It's not the best I want more and eventually . . . it will come."

He's not interested in fusion or synthesizers or, for that matter, playing the sentimental stuff.

THE ORCHESTRA members are young. Besides pianist Earl Van Riper, most players are in their 20s or 30s, Heard said. The band came together on a grant as part of a tribute to Duke Ellington in 1982.

They cut a record in December 1986, entitled "Some of This, Some of That."

"Some of This" is exactly that — a mix of styles and arrangements, some straight jazz, some Latin stuff. There's a fine bluesy piece Heard wrote and sings, called "Blues for Sale."

Heard is working on dates for the summer. He wants to keep selling the band. He may play a few with trumpeter Dizzy Gillespie. He hopes also to arrange a one- or two-week tour in Europe, playing festivals in Holland, Finland and Switzerland.

There may be another album to record this summer, possibly a live recording from Orchestra Hall, a room Heard considers one of the best-sounding rooms in the country. He played there in the 1940s when it was known as the Paradise Theatre.

"I used to play there with Cab and (a) couple times with Basie. Every year with Cab when I was with him four years," he said.

Heard isn't impressed with rock and roll or Top 40 drummers. He said several rock drummers came to see the orchestra recently. They liked his style.

"WELL, THEY'RE used to driving nails in the ground all night. I show them that drums can have finesse, you can phrase, you can be quiet, you can bring it up. Everything don't have to be loud."

With typical humor, Heard said he is unaffected by other drummers, promoters, or record company representatives who would seek to change his straight-ahead style.

"I can't afford to be avant-garde like some of these guys, no more than I can afford to put on a blond wig and some lipstick and do some rock," he said.

He ultimately would like the band to work several times a week, to live in Detroit, but travel the country playing college campuses and clubs.

You can have golf and play it, too, as a club pro

Pat Chisholm went to Brother Rice High School and was in his senior year when his team won the state high school golf championships. After graduation he won a full golf scholarship to Florida Southern, where his college team won the National Golf Association championships during both his junior and senior years in 1985 and 1986.

How do you get to be a PGA professional, qualified to play in pro tournaments?

YOU MUST qualify first in the PGA regionals and then in Florida. Chisholm made the regionals, but didn't make it in Florida last year. He'll try again next fall. Meantime, he played the Space Coast Tour and will be back on tour in Michigan in May.

He also hopes to qualify for both the Canadian and Australia professional tournaments this year.

I met Pat Chisholm on the ninth hole at Treetops. Pat and the rest of the Florida Southern team were working with Rick Smith, PGA pro at Sylvan Resort. They took lessons from Rick, worked for the resort and played a lot of golf.

I asked Rick how somebody like you could get a job there or at any of the other courses in Michigan. He's hiring right now.

"We hire a lot of people to work here, some of them still in high school," Rick said. "They work the carts, the bag drops, as caddies, all sorts of things."

"They make $2.50 to $4 an hour plus tips in a place like this. Private clubs that discourage tipping pay a little more."

The average tips are $15 to $25 a day, and you get free golf privileges.

What does he look for in a summer employee? "You really should love golf. It's important how you handle people. Clubs and resorts hire people with good communications skills and a knack for the business. It helps if you smile a lot."

"IF YOU decide later that you don't want to be in the golf business, you have still learned how to deal with people, and you will probably meet a lot of business executives you would never meet otherwise. I've seen young caddies who so impressed a corporate golfer they got hired! They didn't go into the golf business, but it was still good business."

THE GOLF Association of Michigan, which is affiliated with the United States Golf Association, holds several amateur summer tournaments in Michigan. To qualify, you must have a USGA handicap. If you don't belong to one of the 103 affiliated clubs, ask the golf pro where you play to help you get it.

Call GAA at 855-4653 in Farmington Hills for dates and times of the tournaments. You might also call the PGA in Walled Lake at 669-4099.

To reach Sylvan Lake Resort, call toll-free (800) 368-4133. For a list of other golf courses in Michigan, call the Michigan travel department toll free at (800) 5432-YES for a copy of its golf booklet, "Golf in Michigan: A guide to the 10,000 greens of the Great Lakes State."

Desk, filing system puts you in control

Q. I've never had a desk before but I'm moving to a new home and wonder if I should invest in one and, if so, where to put it. Any suggestions?

A. It is important to create a control center consisting of a combined desk and filing system in your home. Its location is critical for several reasons. First, it must be placed where it is pleasant for you to work. If you feel claustrophobic sitting in a cramped, closed-in corner, you will not want to work there.

An unappealing room color may make you want to escape at the first possible moment. One of my students realized during a class discussion that she loved driving her new car because of its warm and soothing interior color. Her former car had been identical otherwise, but she disliked driving it because of its disquieting color.

If you don't have a control center in or near your kitchen, I recommend setting one up there. The kitchen is usually where you (1) bring in the mail and (2) receive your phone calls. It is logical, therefore, to establish a place for your papers right where you use them most.

Many people want their desk in a more remote place in the house because they don't want the mess to be seen. Unfortunately, the result is the papers still come in to the kitchen area and end up being strung out at half-way points between the entrance and their final resting place at your desk. You may not think a filing cabinet looks attractive in the kitchen, but how do those stacks of paper look?

A desk does not have to be a formal executive style. All that is necessary is a writing area, adequate lighting, a telephone, supplies and filing space. Using the kitchen table for writing, a couple of drawers within reach for supplies and a small filing cabinet in the immediate vicinity will do fine. This cabinet can hold papers you use regularly such as a current schedule, action items, bills, etc. A larger filing cabinet in a more remote area can retain permanent folders of taxes, legal papers, etc.

Supplies are especially important. When you sit down to write checks or do other paperwork, do you have to pop up periodically to gather files, stamps, envelopes, etc., or can you sit down and finish the job without repeated trips? Become aware of the items you collect, and store them in one "department." Not only are these trips time consuming, you also risk incurring distractions. If you dislike paperwork, you may even avoid it by subconsciously looking for something else to do along the way.

If you are lucky enough to have a fine desk in a study adjoining the kitchen, that is an ideal arrangement. Few people are lucky enough to have such a set up, however.

This'll clean walls

For a homemade wall cleaner with oomph, try this. Put two gallons of warm water in a pail. Stir in one-half cup borax and a tablespoon or two of ammonia. Good for cleaning dirty floors, too.

Another tip: built-in shelving is a perfect way to make use of the irregular spaces between doors and windows.

'Old World' is new design look

IF YOU'RE like one-third of all Americans, you redecorate some part of your home every two to four years. And 18 percent of your fellow redecorators update their rooms every year.

This is a great year in design if you're planning to re-evaluate your surroundings.

Interior design is stretching two wonderfully livable ways in 1988: The traditional is being updated with exuberant colors and irreverent finishes. And high-tech interiors are warmed up with a little color and personal details.

The operative word in design for 88, from the East Coast to West, is "luxury."

Exciting color, riveting details, sensuous textures and rich fabrics lend what many designers feel is a necessary touch of decadence.

Comfort and personality are two more features coming into play this year. The overwhelming feeling is that homes should reflect the people who live in them. The glossy, lacquered showplaces of the past few years have given way to warmer, more traditionally oriented rooms.

REACHING FOR THE timeless and elegant, designers are avoiding anything overtly trendy.

Both modern and traditional interiors have a strong sense of home as a haven. This year, people want their homes to have a timeless feeling of family and security.

"Years from now, you don't want to pinpoint a room with a dated look," says Jamie Goller of the Phyllis Morris showroom in Los Angeles.

One way to create your own warm and timeless environment is to borrow elements of the past.

The period of choice for 1988 is the Renaissance era. Metropolitan Home magazine calls the look "Venetian" because it connotes the richness and luxury of the canal city under the doges.

For the rich, antiques re-create the period with unbeatable accuracy, and the current passion for Old World interiors has renewed interest in antiques.

But for the rest of us, quality antique reproductions of both furniture and accessories are available and fit a limited budget.

Look for heavily carved wood (dark wood is really Old World), perhaps with a sparkling touch of gold leaf. Quality printed cottons reproduce the rich look of brocade fabrics without their cloying heaviness. Hand-painted silk is another modern luxury that perks up old-style furniture.

A WHOLE INDUSTRY of artisans has grown up around old-world interiors to re-create the antique look at a fraction of the price. Oxidized brass, copper, bronze and steel, for example, is used to give chairs, tables, vases, plates and other accessories a wonderfully historical verdigris finish. (Perfect, considering that green is a key color this year.)

You can create the look of marble (an important element in old-world rooms) with quality faux marble tiles. Avonite, a relatively new material, re-creates the look of granite, which is very popular for kitchens and bathrooms.

Keeping your old-world interior from looking like a museum exhibit is the key to making it work.

Covering an antique chair in a bright jewel tone makes it delightful, even in an otherwise contemporary room. Combine modern taste with classical elegance by covering antique pieces with wild-stenciled hides.

A faint wash of teal blue or pale green brings the wood on antique pieces up to date in an unexpected way.

That's what Metropolitan Home calls the mutation of the popular Southwestern look in 1988. The sleepy pastel shades of Santa Fe are replaced by the zippy, bright colors of Mexico, capturing the brilliance of a desert sunset.

Even Roche-Bobois, the French furniture retailer whose trademark is contemporary sofas and chairs, has branched out into cotton fabric sectionals boasting bright geometric patterns reminiscent of an Indian blanket.

SALSA, HOWEVER, MEANS more than south of border. Don't shy away from vibrant ethnic furnishings or accessories with a lively Caribbean or Mediterranean flavor. The flat-weave texture and bold geometric patterns of a Turkish kilim also adds an exciting dash of salsa.

Some of us will always yearn for the clean lines of Bauhaus and the elegant functionalism of Le Corbusier. That doesn't stop modern interiors from acquiring a sense of fun and humor this year.

Curvy, streamlined furniture loosens up with light jazzy prints. A formerly austere cabinet can show off the collectibles of your choice, and Art Deco pieces are right at home.

Even the harsh, sterile white interiors of the 1970s are softened with texture and subtle variations of white. Metropolitan Home calls it "a whole rainbow of whites." Eggshell, cream and oyster, coupled with such textures as raw silk, wicker and blonde woods, make the white room inviting where once it was intimidating.

Country-style interiors convey the feeling of family and tradition in a more casual way than Old-World. This year, country interiors back away from a cutesy, precious look in favor of cleaner, more sophisticated styling.

Laura Ashley is inspired by the jubilant expressionistic art of England's Bloomsbury artists of the 1920s.

CHINTZ IS STILL a popular way to bring colorful, garden-inspired freshness into your rooms, and Victorian wicker garden furniture also comes indoors to create luxurious, but casual elegance.

Nowhere is the romance of interior design this year more apparent than in the bedroom. Big, comfortable, elegantly appointed beds take center stage.

Whether you opt for old-world elegance or more contemporary comfort, remember to dress the bed with big plump pillows, soft sheets that are pleasing to the eye and touch and, for a real sense of luxury, a cozy down comforter.

...on the other hand, pick what YOU like

Your home is your castle, so why worry about what designers say is in and out in furnishings? For best buys you, of course, want to invest in what will be in style tomorrow as well as today, but you have to like it to live with it.

So, swat the fashion police and check out this list of must-have furnishings and home accessories we've culled from newspapers and magazines around the world.
