Unfortunately, Halloween isn't what it used to be. But parents can have a safe holiday for their children by taking advantage of a program sponsored by the Canton Township Police and the local Kiwanis.

The groups will check Halloween candy for foreign objects 7-9 p.m. today at both Canton McDonald's, 44900 Ford and 40241 Michigan Ave.

Teen sentenced to life for murder

Washtenaw Circuit Judge Henry Conlin sentenced Christopher Machacek, 18, of Ypsilanti Township to life in prison Friday for the murder of a Canton Township girl - a crime Conlin called "the most heinous situation I've ever been exposed to in almost 50 years in this system." According to testimony, Mary Anne Hulbert, 13, thought she was pregnant by Machacek. Machacek and co-defendant Steven Stamper drove Hulbert to a field in Superior Township where they intended to shoot rifles to scare Hulbert and induce a miscarriage. Her body was found by hunters Jan. 7, 1987, eight days after she disappeared from her mother's mobile home.

An autopsy showed Hulbert was not pregnant. The Stevenson Junior High School seventh grader had been Before Christopher Machacek was sentenced to life in prison for the murder of a Canton Township teenager, both he and the victim's mother addressed Washtenaw Circuit Judge Henry Conlin.

According to testimony, Mary Anne Hulbert, 13, was shot to death because she thought she was pregnant by Machacek.

Machacek, 18, of Ypsilanti Township and co-defendant Steven Stamper, also an Ypsilanti Township 18-year-old, were found guilty of murder in separate jury trials last month.

Asked whether he had any comments on the court's presentence report, Machacek said, "Yes. I don't think I'm that kind of person - unremorseful and all that. I'd like to say I am very sorry Mary was killed.

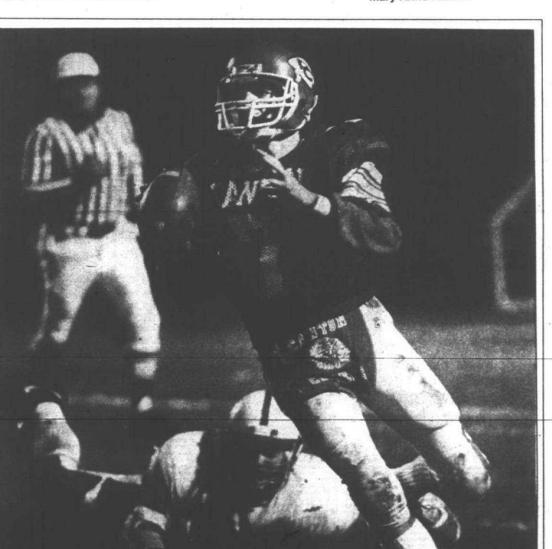

"I am not an unremorseful person. I'm bitter at how things turned out. I'm being sentenced for life about a crime I didn't commit. I do feel sorry she was killed."

The domination ends

For the first time in CEP history, Canton came out on top in its season-ending clash with Salem. The Chiefs prevailed 21-14, with a large part of the credit going to Karl Wukie. The sophomore quarterback completed 12-of-20 passes for 101 yards and rushed for 87 more, tossing two touchdown passes and running for a third. Story on 1C.

Cops set sights on target range

By Peggy Aulino staff writer

The Canton Police Department hopes to have an outdoor shooting range in operation by late November. The $6,700 price tag will be re-couped in savings in a little over a year, according to John Santomauro, director of public safety.

Township trustees approved the expenditure at a meeting Tuesday, after having authorized the expense in this year's budget. Officers currently have to take target practice at the Westland department's range. That costs $450 a day, and it is used four days a year. The township pays officers overtime for the time spent at the range, at an annual cost of $5,640, Santomauro With a range inside the township,

"WE WOULD almost pay for the construction of the range in a oneyear period," he said.

In addition to using the Westland facility, Canton officers were using a range in Van Buren Township for free until it was closed its new $20 million facility Wednes-There are about 35 employees working in the Haggerty Road building now, but plans call for a workforce of 50 in the future, according to ProCoil comptroller Michael Prendergast.

The company is a joint venture between the National Steel and Marubeni corporations. National Steel will be ProCoil's primary customer. Both National Steel and Marubeni will sell the steel to automobile manufacturers in southeast Michigan.

The plant will produce blanks and slit steel for automobile body parts on a "just-in-time" delivery basis

"IT WILL wind up as a door or a hood or a roof, depending on the needs of the customer," Prendergast

In the past, the blanking and slitting processes were carried out inhouse by auto makers. By buying from companies such as ProCoil, auto manufacturers can "reduce or redeploy their work forces and make more efficient use of space," a press release from the company said. "ProCoil's initial goal is to produce a product of better quality than automotive manufacturers can now make themselves," the release said.

The 114,000-square-foot ProCoil building is on a 15-acre site about a half mile south of Michigan Avenue.

The company, which was granted a tax abatement by the township, expects to pay $127,000 in local taxes next year, Prendergast said.

Library board candidates have an easy election run

There is no suspense for at least six people whose names appear on the Canton Township ballot. All of the candidates for library board of directors are shoo-ins.

Three incumbents and three newcomers will be elected to the sixmember board. Having just enough candidates to fill the slots is not unusual, said long-time board member James Gillig, one of the candidates. There is no payment for serving the four-year term. It is "the kind of position that you take because you are interested in public service, not trying to make a career," Gillig said.

"That eliminates a lot of people,"

Katherine A. Baldrica and John O.

Schwartz III are the other incumbents. Mary D. Gyorke, Beverly J. Polcyn and William T. Simmerer are making their first runs for the board.

THE MOST immediate task facing the board is getting moved to and settled in the new library, which is near completion next to the township hall. Gillig said the new board will start work on a five-year planning cycle and the establishment of a

Westland drops golf plan for nature site

The controversial proposal to build a municipal golf course in a portion of the William P. Holliday nature preserve ended up in the deep rough.

Westland Mayor Charles Griffin said Friday he was dropping the idea after an ad hoc advisory committee unanimously recommended against construction of a city course in the city's northwest corner.

The 10-member committee made its recommendation after reviewing a study of the area by a Michigan State University ecologist.

The study - one of three surveys projected by the committee to help determine the project's feasibility indicates that construction of a course couldn't be accomplished without destroying the sensitive environment, according to committee

Griffin, in a statement Friday, said it was apparent from the report that "there would not be enough land available for golf course construction due to the prevailing wetlands (land that is partially under water) and 'old growth forest.

Where is school spirit?

To the editor: I must preface this letter with a small amount of personal history Our family has lived in the Plymouth/Canton area for 14 years. Our two sons are graduates of Plymouth Salem High School. They both were very involved in sports at Salem with both playing football for four

So, how well do our opponents know what we are going to do if we've done the same thing year after year after year? I could not write this letter before this year for fear of reprisal against my sons.

Another major problem exists for both schools. Neither school seems to demonstrate one ounce of school spirit. Why should parents have to "pay for play" of their children when 99 percent of the students body doesn't care what's going on?

We are blessed with the fantastic CEP band and its numerous accomplishments. Its great to walk in to the CEP stadium and see all the yellow jackets of the band parents. I disagree with your editorial on Proposal A (Observer & Eccentric. Oct. 20). You are using specious reasoning when you argue that Medicaid abortions cost "less than a dollar

Most importantly. however, what you claim to be an inconsequential dollar amount to each resident adds up to a most significant body count of almost 19,000 unborn human beings annually. The cumulative effect is devastation.

Report recommends selling Metro Airport

By Wayne Peal

Customer satisfaction and county tax revenue would soar if Detroit Metropolitan Airport were sold to a private management firm, according to a report issued Thursday by an independent study group.

But Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said the plan should be grounded. McNamara turned thumbs down on the concept even before receiving a copy of the Privatization would make Metro a "consumer-oriented" airport, con-cluded a report compiled by the Mackinac Center, a private research group based in Midland.

"AT THIS point, it's a countyowned airport and, really, what interest does the county have in providing the best customer service pos-' said researcher John Kost, who compiled the report.

In addition, privatization would raise millions each year for the financially plagued county, including revenue from the newly approved county jail tax, Kost said.

McNamara, however, said private ownership would make the airport less consumer oriented.

"I don't see any value in it at all." McNamara said. "It could actually cost people more to fly out of Metro. Those taxes would cost the airport, and they'd have to make it up somewhere.

Earlier 'this year, McNamara campaigned for a private jail for non-violent criminals - citing research from another Mackinac Center report.

This time, however the executive said privatization wouldn't work.

"There are things that could be privatized, and things the county should maintain," McNamara said. "And the airport is something the county should maintain."

The Mackinac Center conducted the study on its own not on the behalf of any county agency, center president Lawrence Reed said.

'No one came to us and said we'd like you to do this," Reed said.

Privatization, he added, remains an "on-going concern" for the research group.

METRO SUFFERS from inadequate layout and an outmoded contract agreement with its airlines, the Airline deregulation, adding more peak-hour flights to heavy-demand areas like Detroit and creating "hub" airports, with major use by a single carrier, demands major changes in Metro's layout, the report

"Metro isn't laid out to serve as a hub airport," Kost said. "Years ago, you'd have airlines using one or two concourses. Now, you can have them using a half dozen or more concourses all over the place. Even with motorized walkways, you still have to walk a lot at Metro. I know, I fly out of there myself."

A private owner, the report concluded, would be more sensitive to consumer demands

Metro is a hub airport for Minneapolis-based Northwest Airlines.

The private management firm could reduce peak-hour congestion by charging airlines more to land during peak hours, the report said, pushing less-profitable flights to offhour landing times.

Metro officials acknowledge airport use has risen dramatically since 1984, when Metro became a hub, first for Republic Airlines, then for Northwest, Republic's new owner.

AIRPORT OFFICIALS have embarked on their own expansion plan. They seek to add a fourth north/ south runway and an east/west 'crosswind" runway and build a new air traffic control tower. They also want to create a new access road, connecting Eureka Road and Rogell Drive. Ultimately, they plan to build a new terminal.

Land acquisition has already begun for the fourth north/southe runway, McNamara said. Privatization, he added, would make future airport expansion more difficult.

"A private owner wouldn't have the same right to condemn property that government has," McNamara said. "What you might end up with is a little old lady in tennis shoes sitting on her front porch right in the middle of a runway.

The report also concluded privatization would provide a profit motive for improving the Romulus air-

"The operating agreement (between the airport and airlines) is outmoded," Kost said. "It's considered one of the worst in the nation."

Under the current agreement airport revenue surpluses essentially are returned to the airlines by reduc ing landing fees. While price changes wouldn't necessarily reduce ticket prices, the report concluded, savings could be used to expand airport ser-

"THERE'S NO question the agreement could be more efficient, that there could be an incentive for profit but the basic problem is that privatization would give you a monopoly, said county commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, whose district includes the airport.

"Because airports are so large and expensive it's doubtful you would ever get competition," said Mack, whose district also includes Canton Township. "At least with the present system, we're all elected officials accountable to the public."

This year, for the first time in Metro history, some airport revenue is being returned to the county

A change in state law last December allowed the county to use airport parking fees to pay off county debt. Before that, all Metro revenue was tied exclusively to the airport.

Pumpkins once used for brew

'Tis the season for pumpkins and jack-olanterns. Having just visited the local pumpkin patch for the ritualistic purchase of an assorted family of jack-o-lanterns and a few (undersized) pie pumpkins, I thought a trip down memory lane about how we discovered these beauties was in order.

It is believed that the wild ancestors of the pumpkins originated in the region that is now Mexico and Guatemala. The ancient Aztec, Inca and Mayan Indians used pumpkin seeds as food, but they probably discarded the pulp because the wild fruits contained only small amounts off bitter-tasting flesh. Most likely, the wilder varieties with an abundantly sweeter flesh arose when the Indians used mutant varieties for cultivation.

The European explorers of the New World thought that pumpkins were giant species of melons. By that time, these fruits were seen growing throughout Mexico, North America and the West Indies, from as far north as Canada and as far south as Mexico City. They were soon brought back to the Old World to be grown from Western Europe to Sometimes the Indians' ways of utilizing the crops were adopted and modified by Asians and Europeans. For example, the farmers of Manchuria dried strips of pumpkin flesh in the sun and the Italians ate deepfried, batter-covered pumpkin flowers. Both practices have been passed down through the ages and are still utilized. Of course, after this early wintery weather we've been experiencing, you won't have much luck finding pumpkin flowers.

SO IF EATING dried pumpkin flesh and fried pumpkin flowers sounds a little unappetizing, were you aware that the early settlers made beer from pumpkins, maple sugar and persimmons? Can't imagine gulping a few "pumpkin brews" with my redhots at Tiger Stadium.

Pumpkins require four months to reach maturity. They can be picked after the rind has hardened, but they may be left on the plant until after the first light frost or when the vines begin to wither. A light frost will make the pumpkins sweeter. However, the fruits should be picked before they are likely to be damaged by a heavy frost.

Pumpkins are processed by removal of the rinds and the seeds, followed by the cooking of the pulp prior to canning, freezing or baking into cakes, custards or pies. If you're looking for real pumpkin pies and pie fillings, read the label because many of the pie fillings and mass-produced pies often contain winter squash in lieu of pumpkin. This isn't all that bad, however, because some folks actually believe winter squash has a better flavor than real pumpkin.

Now, taking you back to Home Ec 101, you are aware, of course, that when I refer to cooking pumpkin, we are using what is normally called a pie pumpkin and not the jack-o-lantern variety? In order to prepare your own homemade fresh pumpkin, remove the seed and scoop out the "guts" of the purapkin. Cut the pumpkin into halves or small sections and peel off the rind.

ATURDAY IS ON its way.

That means a lot of different things to different people. But for thousands of us, Saturday means getting up, packing the cooler, fill-ing the thermos, heading for Ann Arbor, East Lansing or wherever the tailgate party is happening.

If you have grown tired of the same old tailgate party foods, why not try a tailgate party with a German theme?

We all know that the German cuisine includes some wonderful dark beers and white wines, but the meats, cheeses, mustards, breads and specialty items are good tasting, healthy and fun to pronounce.

German meats come in a variety of shapes and size. They have good flavors and are not known to be overly spicy. The cheeses typically are firmer with stronger flavors, and there is nothing sweet about those tangy, lively tasting German mustards.

THE GERMAN breads are, to put it bluntly, the best. Once a few of the varieties are tried, white and whole wheat just can't match up. German breads are a mixture of ryes, sourdoughs and pumpernickles. All the breads are nutritious. They use no preservatives, have loads of fiber, and many of the variations leave the rye or pumpernickel seeds whole.

"I crave the bread. I would pay a fortune for the bread (if necessary) to get it. I need it and want it," exclaims Farmington Hills resident Vali Byrd, owner of Bryd's Meats in Livonia.

Byrd's Meats is one of two German specialty stores that carry a genuine selection of German foods in the suburban Detroit area. Byrd's is managed by Norman Scheck of Canton, whose grandfather was German.

Byrd's stocks all 20 varieties of Dimplfmeier Bread, a German bakery in Toronto, the best resource around for German breads. Its selection includes Munich rye, hunter, pumpernickel, linseed rye and the customer favorite, schinkenbrot. Dimplfmeier bakes bread for the Detroit area Mondays and Thursdays, loads the loaves on trucks so that it arrives here fresh and tasty Selecting meats for a tailgate party may prove to be more difficult than first imagined. After all, what could be involved in selecting a few cold cuts?

Now is the time to get busy cooking and fill up your freezer.

Then when the holidays come around, you can "share good times and good food with good friends," said Marcia Sikarskie, in an informal introduction to her make-ahead hors d'oeuvres class. Some 120 men and women who squeezed into the back section of Kitchen

Glamor in West Bloomfield on a recent afternoon got a lot more than a simple demonstration of recipes. Sikarskie, 51, of Okemos, has been giving cooking classes for about 15 rears. At the store and cooking instruction center owned by Chris and Toula Patsallis, Sikarskie crammed nearly two hours with a running stream of invaluable tips, cunning techniques and useful information. She believes a cook should be flexible.

"Life is full of alternatives, compromises and substitutes," Sikarskie said. In cooking, "people have to learn what to do in these situations, just like you do in life." OF COURSE, there are some things you just can't change, such as measurements in cakes, cookies, and especially tortes," she continued. In those recipes you need to use exact quantities.

Recipes like the ones she demonstrated for hors d'oeuvres are "designed to be like parts of a wardrobe. You mix and match 'em," she said.

For instance, a veal filling made with sauted ground veal, mushrooms, onions and herbs is meant to fill a turnover.

But as Sikarskie pointed out, you can also use it to fill cherry tomatoes or

Why heart patients experience chest pains in the cold

ten ask the bewildering question, 'Why am I suddenly experiencing angina pectoris (chest discomfort) during my walks outdoors?"

Two physiologic mechanisms have been implicated.

First, inhaling cold air may cause a reflex that temporarily constricts the heart's (coronary) arteries. It may also increase the amount of blood pumped with each heart beat. In the presence of cholesterol-narrowed coronary blood vessels, these stresses may provoke chest pain or discomfort.

Second, a cold environment evokes your body into a temperature regulation reflex. The skin's blood vessels constrict to conserve body heat. Their narrowing increases blood pressure and the heart's demand for oxygen, thus more readily provoking angina pectoris

TEMPERATURE ALONE, however, is not an accurate index of cold stress. Wind removes the layer of air your body has heated around you to keep itself warm.

Thus, you need to consider the "wind chill factor," which measures the cooling power of moving air. For example, at 10 degrees Fahrenheit in a 20-mile-an-hour wind, the cooling effect is equivalent to calm air at 25-below zero. (See chart).

To prevent angina and excessive exposure to cold during activity in winter weather, these recommendations may help:

· Wear a cold weather mask or scarf to avoid inhaling or cold air and exposing your face and neck. Such measures are often effective in reducing the symptoms of angina during activity in cold weather.

 Be extra careful when the wind is blowing. Wind chill equivalent temperatures of 25-below (Fahrenheit) or lower can mean increasing danger, including freezing of exposed flesh. And temperatures under 74-below are hazardous.

· Beware of wet clothing. If your skin or clothing gets wet, your body will lose heat much more rapidly. For this reason, you should change wet clothing, particularly socks and gloves.

Figuring the windchill

Estimated wind	actual thermometer reading (Fahrenheit)
speed (in mph)	30*	20*	10*	0*	-10*	-20*
	Egui	valent T	empera	ture
calm	30	20	10	0	-10	-20

20	4	-10	-25	-39	-53	-67
30	-2	-18	-33	-48	-63	-78
40	-6	-21	-37	-53	-69	-86

Figure the wind chill factor by picking a temperature and reading down to see how cold it feels at various wind speeds. Adapted from Patient Care.

 Dress appropriately. Avoid overdressing for activity in the cold to prevent overheating and excessive sweating.

Wear several layers of light, loose clothing that can be shed or replaced as body heat changes. Between each layer there is trapped air which, when heated by the body, acts as an excellent insula-

The insulating properties of wool are widely recognized. It is one fabric which, when wet, still keeps the body warm. Most other materials, when wet, actually draw heat away from the body and pass it into the air.

 Avoid staying in one position too long when it's cold. Exercise increases heat production by contracing the skeletal muscles. Thus, body temperature can generally be maintained even in subzero conditions, as long as one stays moving. If you start to shiver to generate heat, get in out of the cold as quick-

Temperature alone is not an accurate index of cold stress. Wind removes the layer of air your body has heated around you to keep itself warm.

 Protect certain body areas. Body heat is most easily lost from parts that have a large surface area to mass ratio - for example, the hands and feet. Keep them warm and dry. Finally, wear a hat a tremendous loss of body heat can occur from an uncovered head.

I have a problem with arthritis in my hands. Even the simplest daily chore, such as turning on my reading light, causes pain.

The other day I found something - a touch control lamp converter that turns lights on and off by simply touching the metal part of the lamp. It was easy to install, and now I don't have to anticipate pain every time I want to sit down to read.

The converters can be found in most stores that sell lamps and lighting fixtures.

Stunning! Canton upsets Salem

Jason Riggs (with ball) had trouble squirming came up with one of the game's biggest plays away from Salem defender Mike Jarvey, but he when he recovered a fumbled Salem punt.

staff writer

They forgot to tear down the goal

Forgive the Plymouth Canton football fans, though. They're not used to this kind of celebration.

A mob of Canton followers rushed the Centennial Educational Park football field after the Chiefs thrilling 21-14 upset of Salem Friday night. The victory was the first-ever recorded in football by Canton over

The Canton players and their fans huddled in the end zone afterward to sing the school's fight song. The Chiefs finished their season at a modest 3-6, while the Rocks are 6-3, tying their record of a year ago.

This was a milestone win for the Chiefs and still the goal posts stand. Well, the fans will learn.

"WE'RE CHANGING Canton's history right here," said senior fullback Jim Young. "It's a different feeling. It's nice to go down in the record book as seniors of 1988 finally beating Salem. We're starting it for the juniors next year."

The score was tied at 14 late in the third quarter when Canton capitalized on a critical error made by Salem's special teams. The Rocks' Don Parrish fumbled a Jason Dembny punt and Jason Riggs fell on the ball for Canton at Salem's 16-yard line.

Three plays later, with 11:06 left in the game, quarterback Karl Wukie found end Mark Barrette open in the end zone with the winning 5-yard touchdown toss. Mike Krejcar added the extra point.

"It's great to beat them," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said. "I'm glad for the kids, the coaching staff, the school. We've gone through adversity, but everyone's hung in there.

They made a costly turnover, but that's part of the game. They're a good club, and so are we. We've got a lot of young players so the future for us is down the road."

WUKIE, A SOPHOMORE, gave the Salem defense trouble all night, completing 12 of 20 passes for 101 vards and two TDs. Just as important were Wukie's 87 yards rushing, including 38 yards on a drive late in the game when the Chiefs managed to eat up four precious minutes.

The drive stalled, however, at Salem's 8-yard line, giving the Rocks one final chance to win with 1:52 remaining in the game.

A 39-yard pass from Rob Kowalski to end Bryan Schultz - one of only three Salem passes completed gave Salem the ball at Canton's 36 yard line with less than a minute

Canton's defense got stubborn, stopping the Rocks for no gain on a first-down run and then forcing two straight incomplete passes. A fourth-down pass to Mike Jarvey fell six yards short of a first down with 17 seconds left in the game.

Then came the fans, who had waited years for this moment.

'You know the old saying, 'Keep fans in the stands,' 'Khoenle the fans in the stands,' said. "It was a good game to watch."

The loss wasn't easy for Salem coach Tom Moshimer to accept. The Rocks came into the contest heavy favorites and with incentive to improve on last year's record of 6-3.

SALEM TOOK the lead in the first quarter, turning a Canton fumble into a 1-yard TD run by Ryan John-

Canton came back, however to lead 14-6 at halftime on a 10-yard pass from Wukie to Bruce Hermanson and a quarterback sneak by Wukie. Canton's Kevin Stackpoole stopped a potential Salem scoring drive in the first half, intercepting a pass by Kowalski.

Chiefs upend Pioneer i shootout

By C.J. Risak staff writer

Perhaps Mike Morgan's perspective on Saturday's soccer district final between his Plymouth Canton team and Ann Arbor Pioneer was

"Some days are like that."

The Chiefs' coach could say that with a relieved shrug after Canton prevailed in an overtime shootout, making six penalty kicks to Pio-neer's five. The official final score was 2-1 at Scranton Middle School in

The winning shot came from Eric Miller, who hit it to the right of keep-

Canton's Lori Penland was fifth overall and the second Chief to er Jeff Saylor. Canton was shooting first in the second set of five penalty kicks - the first set ended in a 2-2 tie - and the first three Chiefs all connected, each going to Saylor's right. Miller, the fourth shooter, went to the same side.

Pioneer had a chance to knot it again, but Sasha Bagchi's hard shot was blocked by Canton keeper Marty Adamian, who dived to his right for the game-winning save.

IT COULD have been far worse for the Chiefs, who were superior to their Ann Arbor counterparts. They trailed until the final minutes of regulation, after Pioneer's Bob Kallay burst through the center of the Canton defense and beat Marty Adamian in the game's first 10 minutes.

But the Chiefs failed miserably on a dozen perfect scoring chances. John Cortese twice missed chances to score when camped in front of an open net; Dave Presley headed two shots that Pioneer keeper Mike Sampson barely deflected; and, worst of all, Kerry Zavagnin banged a first-half penalty kick off the post.

Zavagnin ("That's a lot of pressure for a freshman," said Morgan of Zavagnin's miss) made up for his miscue by saving his team. With just 12 minutes left in regulation, the talented midfielder split the Pioneer defense, took a moment to set up his shot, then pounded the ball past Sampson to tie it at 1-1.

TWO 10-MINUTE overtimes, then a pair of five-minute sudden death sessions, followed the same script: Canton dominating play, controlling the ball, but failing to score.

The Pioneer defense, which was packed in trying to protect their slim thing to do with the Chiefs' failures. "But we were missing, too," said Morgan. The shot totals confirmed it: Canton 28, Pioneer 6.

Pioneer coach Bill Browning was disappointed, but he credited the Chiefs. "They had a more coordinated attack," he said after his squad finished its season at 10-6-5. "We had a good defense, we've had a good defense all year. Part of our problem is you have to get the ball and you have to control it to work it up the field."

PERHAPS THAT was the greatest compliment the Pioneer coach could have paid Canton. All season long, the Chiefs had worked on a precision passing game. It showed against Pioneer

"We went to a disciplined style of play this year," said Morgan. "It took us a while to get adjusted to it. We weren't getting blown out of any games, we were always in it.'

But on the losing end too often, as the Chiefs 9-7-4 record indicates. But with three straight wins in state tournament play, they may be getting their game on track at the right

Chiefs repeat in WLA

By Dan O'Meara

For the several hundred people attending the Western Lakes Activities Association cross country championships Wednesday, it was a deja vu experience It could easily have been 1987 all over again.

The weather (cold and overcast), many of the competitors and, most of all, the team winners The only difference was the site - Cass Benton Park instead of Schoolcraft College - as Plymouth Canton and Farmington defended their respective girls and boys titles. By now, everybody is accustomed to seeing the Falcons at the top. Farmington has won the last five WLAA boys championships. "Some people would rather see somebody else win the league," said veteran Farmington coach Jerry Young, who has guided the Falcons to 13 titles in 23 years, "but our kids have pride in the fact we've always won it. THEY POINT FOR this meet and want to do well, because we have been the power in this "It's the long blue line," he added. "The kids

While the boys race had four solid contenders, including Walled Lake Western and the Plymouth-Canton teams, it was no surprise the Chiefs won their second straight girls championship. On the day of last year's meet, Canton was rated the favorite to win again in '88 since all of its top runners would return. The Chiefs easily lived up to expectations, but they had to do more than just show up.

We were the favorite, but that didn't mean we weren't nervous and didn't prepare for this meet because we had to," Canton coach George Chiefs did exactly what they had to do when it came time to perform, placing five girls among the first 17 and seven in the top 25.

"I HAVE A good feeling about our program and confidence in our kids," Przygodski said. "Besides, you don't have to be an Einstein to figure out when you win the conference and everybody is coming back, you're going to be pretty good

With its depth, Canton compiled an impressive score of 39 points. Farmington was closest with cross country

WLAA stats, 3C

One of Farmington's top runners, Jenny Derwinski, was ill and had to drop out of the race, which coach John Barrett figured cost the Falcons 14-15 points but wouldn't have made a difference in pursuing Canton.

"We did the best we could, but Canton has a heckuva team this year," said Barrett, who coached the Falcons to the Lakes Division title. 'Hopefully, they'll all graduate."

Don't plan on that, coach. Four of Canton's top seven are juniors.

'We hope to be as successful next year," Przygodski said. "If the seniors lead as well as this group did, I have no doubt we'll be in contention

SENIOR CINDY Spessard and junior Lori Penland paced the Chiefs, running fourth and fifth overall. Canton was in good shape when senior Kris Marquard finished seventh and junior Missy Jasnowski 10th.

Junior Adrienne Garrow, who has been the team's No. 6-7 runner much of the year, locked up the victory with a 14th-place finish. Junior Cathy McCabe and senior Lynda Schendel were 17th and 25th, respectively.

"Adrienne ran an excellent race and had a real good time," Przygodski said. "She's been a big

"That just goes to show how competitive our kids are with each other. There's no set order.

This week Cindy beats Lori; next week Lori might beat Cindy. Nothing is set in cement."

The individual favorite, Colleen Yuhn of Walled Lake Central, also prevailed with a 19:25 time, but North Farmington's Lisa Rives was close behind, defeating her Farmington rival Jennifer Kiel. Rives ran 19:30, her personal best, and Kiel

"We don't have a rivalry," said Rives, a candidate for her team's most improved award as well MVP. "She's my friend. I was just trying to run the best race I possibly could.

honored to be up there with them. I never thought I'd be here at the beginning of the season. I never thought I'd break 20 (minutes)."

Walled Lake Western's Brian Grosso won going away in the boys race. He finished well over a minute ahead of his closest challenger at 15:26.

Farmington, however, did like the Canton girls, putting two near the top and all five scorers in the top 23. Brad Moore and Ben Goba led the Falcons with second- and fourth-place efforts.

"Brad ran against (third-place Mark Kwiatkowski of WLC) half a dozen times this year and never beat him until today," Young said. "Goba is one of the best sophomores in the league. Brian (Grosso) will be gone next year, and Ben is going to be here." Moore, a senior, knew Grosso was ahead of him but didn't know if anybody else was while he ran with a pack of about 10 runners. "Somebody said that pack was for second, and that excited me," said Moore, adding he usually gets stronger as the race progresses. "I really didn't expect to get second. It was like a remote possibility, and I saw the opportunity."

WITH THE MEET up for grabs, Farmington made a move when Paul Brandt and Greg Endres finished 18th and 19th, respectively. Matt Langdon sealed it when he took the 23rd spot.

That gave the Falcons 66 points and left Western and Canton to decide second place. WLW edged the Chiefs by one point, 81-82, and Salem was third with 105. The Falcons were at their peak, physically, for the meet, which wasn't always the case during the

"Endres and Goba got healthy, and when they're healthy were a good team," Young said. "We didn't have them at mid-season."

Farmington also believed it had something to prove on the hilly course at Cass Benton. The Fal-cons lost a dual meet to Salem there last year, and Young reminded his runners Salem coach Geoff Baker said they didn't like to run hills after Farmington beat the Rocks on the flat course at Oakland Community College the previous week.

"Tm going over and ask Geoff what he thinks now," said Young, smiling of course. "(The Salem runners) are close friends of ours, but we like to

"We talked about that," he added. "We didn't feel that way. We run a steady diet of (hills), and we run as well as any other team on a tough finish at the WLAA meet, helping her team repeat as league champions. 86, and Livonia Stevenson was third with 105. "(YUHN AND KIEL) are both so awesome I'm Salem improved to 14-2, 10-0 in the Lakes Division. Stevenson fell to 1-15, 0-10 in the Lakes. A win would have made the Spartans' season. "This was our best game," Stevenson coach said. "The girls played as well as they could have. They each gave 100 percent. I was happy. We're getting ready for district and the league playoffs and I'm starting to find the right combination. Stevenson, a heavy underdog, led for the last time, 20-19 midway through the third quarter on a jump shot by senior forward Jessann Martin. The Rocks pulled away near the end of the quarter, however, scoring six straight points to lead 26-20. Of King's game-high 17 points, one field goal came from 3-point range. Point guard Jill Estey scored 14 points, six in the final quarter when Salem outscored Stevenson 14-6.

Sophomore guard Jenny Audet scored only six points for Stevenson, but made her counterpart Estey earn her points. Junior forward Stephy Sutter also scored six for the Spartans.

The Chiefs, fourth-ranked in Class A, are 10-0 in the Western Division, 16-1 overall. Churchill dipped to 2-8, 5-11.

Susan Ferko led Canton with 21 points and Candi Jones and Michelle Fortier added 11 each. Joann Atkin scored 12 for Churchill and Carrie Blanchard contributed nine.

Maimie Smith and Jennie Clock played significant roles for Canton off the bench. "The girls did a nice job of stepping out and getting in the game," Canton coach Rob Neu said.

Churchill didn't give up, although the Chargers could have after trailing 33-12 at halftime. Churchill outscored Canton 12-11 in the third quarter to keep the game from getting even more

"The first 10 to 12 minutes of the second half we played exceptional 'basketball." Churchill coach Dave Van Wagoner said. "If we can play with the No. 4-ranked team in the state we're really taking positive steps."

ATVs: Deadly or safe?

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Monday, October 31, 1988 O&E

Revving around on all-terrain vehicles can be fun, but the Michigan State Medical Society wants owners to be aware of the dangers.

"You don't need a special driver's license to operate an ATV and as a result, kids as young as 5 years old are driving them," said Dr. Elliot Grysen, an East Lansing-based emergency room physician and spokesman for the medical society. Grysen is also an attorney.

Grysen's group advocates abolishing the three wheel ATV, which is no longer sold but still in use by thousands of owners, he said. For the four-wheel, ATV, the medical society is urging greater restrictions on usage.

"More than 50 people have been killed on these three-and four-wheel vehicles in Michigan," Grysen said "And over 50 percent of them have been under the age of 16. We've had (fatalities) as young as 5, 6, 7, 8 and

The doctor's group became en-raged recently at the response of ATV dealers to public service announcements airing on television warning about the dangers.

ATV dealers have convinced some television stations to pull doctor designed public service announcements off the air. Don Craig, the motorcycle dealers association's executive director, said a complaint will be filed with the Mass Media Bureau of the Federal Communications

"THAT KIND of publicity doesn't bode well for any kind of product," Craig said. "We didn't feel the spot met the criteria for a public service announcement. It's supposed to be a non-biased release."

The message the dealers find objectionable features a child in an emergency room, where a nurse "Another ATV injury. Third one this week. We've got the trauma surgeon. Call the neurosurgeon.'

The final message: "Off-road vehicles can be fun, but also dangerous. The Michigan State Medical-Society wants you to learn the facts before you buy. Don't learn them the hard

"'We specifically did not condemn these machines," said society presi-dent Dr. Fred Bryant. "We simply wanted to get the message out that these vehicles are killing and crippling children at an alarming rate and that parents should learn all they can about them before they buy one for their children."

"Frankly we were shocked at their response. The safety of teens and young children is at question here," Grysen added.

Grysen, who last year was a member of a state subcommittee on offroad recreational vehicles, is well versed in its history

"I've been working on this for four years," he said. "The ATV was originally designed in 1971-72. It was popular through the early 1980s and

'Cycles' get high tech 'fix'

Motorcycles aren't just for macho guys anymore. To be sure, there are still the huge engines for those who want that kind of power fix. But not evervone was born to be wild.

Today, motorcycles are as apt to come in hot pink and turquoise, with helmets and jackets to match, as they are in basic black.

Tattooed bikers clad in black leather share the highways with guys on their way to work, saving gas money on long hauls across town. And more women are buying bikes.

"BIKES ARE getting more sophisticated," said Joe Hickman, sales manager for Andrew Pelc BMW Motorcycles in Canton Township.

"BMW released the first motorcycle ever to have an anti lock braking system. In an emergency situation, on a slippery road when quick stopping is required, the tendency was to brake too hard, causing the bike to go down. This system will eliminate that "The trend is going toward more durable cycles. Four or five years ago, the Japanese cafe racers were very big. They go very fast, but they're only built to last a few years. Now, the trend is toward more durable bikes.

Hicksen points out BMW. Manufactured in Germany, it has "the best track record for durability,"

"It has a 300,000-mile club for bikers who have watched the odometer turn three times. "Anyone who can't get at least a quarter of a million miles out of their bike, then something is wrong," Hickman said.

"WE HAVE an upbeat clientele," said Jerry Huttula, store manager for Anderson Sales & Service in Bloomfield Hills. "People in Michigan are outdoorsy and sports-minded. They like their toys and they like to be outside.' Anderson Sales & Services sells Honda, Yamaha, Kawasaki and Suzuki motorcycles, scooters, all-terrain vehicles and motor-powered watercraft (jet Motorcycles today are engineering marvels. The multi-cylinder bikes have engines that run like a finely tuned Swiss watch, Huttula said. And the majority of the market falls into one of two categories. The touring bikes are heavy, with a strong base," he said. "They're very high tech and they appeal mostly to (customers) between 40 and 60 years old. The sports bikes are sleeker. They appeal to the 25- to 30-year-olds, mostly males, but you can't exclude the ladies anymore.

SCOOTERS ARE still a craze and Huttula was anxious to set the record straight on mopeds.

"Mopeds are not a brand name; it's a classification for the smallest scooter," he said. "It must have an automatic transmission, no more than a 50cc engine, and can't go more than 30 mph.

Operators must be at least 15 years old licensed through the Secretary of State."

Moped buyers are given a safety handbook at the time of purchase in his dealership, Huttula said.

Bigger scooters appeal to adults for things like vacation transportation. These bikes have 80cc to 250cc engines with automatic transmissions. Operators must have a valid driver's license stamped for operation of a motorcycle.

"They attach them to the motor home," Huttula said. "We also sell them to college age kids to get around on campus. They're easy to operate."

Some ghouls, ghosts and things that

By Rebecca Haynes staff writer

You may find tonight's goblins who come trick-or-treating at your door more believable than the following story. The decision is yours, in this, the season for ghost stories.

But, before we begin, you must be in the proper frame of mind. Sitting outside, in the chilly darkness around a campfire may be the best setting for listening to ghost stories. The fall wind whistling through the leaves is the perfect sound effect. However, if you don't have access to a forest or a campfire, you may want to take your Street Scene copy down into your basement on a cold and windy night and sit by yourself by candlelight to read this story. Then you can decide whether or not you believe in ghosts.

JOHN KING says he doesn't - believe in ghosts, that is - but some of the events that have happened recently in his Detroit bookstore have caused him to keep an open mind.

More than a year ago, King acquired a collection of books and possessions of a woman who committed a gruesome suicide, something he says isn't unusual in his business, which frequently deals with people's estates.

"It's sort of a normal thing for us to do, so we never really thought twice about it," King said. "Then I started noticing some strange things, odd, unexplainable noises and just a string of weird happenings all surrounding this collection. I don't think I would have thought anything of it if it had just been one thing, but when you string them all together, you have to wonder.

While the collection was still intact it was stored in a locked area on the building's fourth floor. King said he often worked alone there at night to catch up on paperwork.

"Madame Sousatzka" (A) (PG-13) 122 minutes. Lush, sensuous photography, in-spired music and brilliant acting plus John Schlesinger's fine direction equal an excellent film. This touching portrait of Madame Sousatzka (Shirley MacLaine) and her obsessive piano-teaching techniques also tells the story of a young genius, Manek Sen (Navin Chowdhry). The rainbow projection can be made two inches to 20 feet or larger, ding on how far the light is from the surface you are projecting. While it also works in light, the colors are more vivid the darker it is. It also makes a wonderful nightlight. It's available in black for $79.95 plus sales tax and shipping, or 24K gold electroplated for $99.95 plus tax and shipping. Ruth Joyce stars in fashion 'show' the 1970s, some of Detroit and America's best-dressed women wore designs by Ruth Joyce.

Those designs are now the highlight of an exhibit at the Detroit Historical Museum. "Ruth Joyce: Detroit Designer" opened Saturday in the museum's Booth-Wilkinson Costume Gallery. Ruth Joyce Essad grew up surrounded by fine fabrics in a family original design sketches and fashion tradition of tailoring. She learned the business of high fashion by working in a blouse shop on Washington Boulevard when she was 14 years old and later in the Detroit stores of Pack-Wolin, Irvings and Saks Fifth In December 1947, she opened her first shop at 20002 Livernois and showed her first fall collection in 1950. In 1963, she moved to 649 Van Dyke Place, currently the location of the Van Dyke Place Restaurant, and transformed it into her salon. Joyce was known for designing personal wardrobes and garments that were adaptable for many occasions. She was best known, however, for matching her designs to the personality of the wearer, never allowing the fashion to overwhelm the woman. Joyce's clientele included Mrs. Henry Ford II, Mrs. L.P. Fisher and

Pam Eldred, Miss Michigan 1969 and Miss America 1970. "ALTHOUGH most people think of Paris, Rome or New York, when they think of couture fashion, Joyce offered the same couture garment llustrations by Joyce. The garments range from day wear, cocktail dresses and evening wear to wedding gowns and chil dren's clothing.

One of the designs will be displayed inside out because, as one fashion writer wrote in 1953, "You could actually wear the suits, coats, dresses inside out, so beautifully are they seamed and detailed."

Among the garments on display are a pink silk brocade gown with matching stole, made in 1966 and worn by Eldred in the 1970 Miss America parade, and a red silk evening gown with an elaborately tucked and pleated skirt, petticoat and stole. The exhibit also includes a voided black silk velvet cocktail dress with harem hemline and two matching stoles, made in 1957 and from Joyce's personal wardrobe

ANOTHER garment on display is an evening/wedding gown with an alencon lace bodice, beaded with pailettes and seed pearls, and silk skirt attached with cartridge pleats. It was originally shown as an evening gown in 1960 and worn as a wedding dress in 1986. An entire exhibit section on the

Posters: Nostalgia at a price

(AP) - Twenty years ago, Ira Resnick, a graduate of New York University's film school, bought a movie poster for "Grand Hotel." It wasn't an original, but a 1962 reissue.

That single purchase led to collection of more than 10,000 vintage, original movie posters worth more than $1 million and to the opening six years ago of the Motion Picture Arts Gallery. Posters at the Manhattan gallery sell for between $25 and $50,000 each, Resnick said.

Resnick's favorite is a rare poster for a 1929 Louise Brooks film, "Diary of a Lost The most colorful posters

We are gathered around the flickering flames like ancient Druids. Outside the windows, the Halloween candles glow in the jack-o'-lanterns

Inside the light from the two silver candelabra light the crystal and china on the table. We are like ancient Celtic priests only they were tending their sacred fires and we are drinking martinis with two olives.

A faint hum of music flows from the stereo cabinet on the wall

"Why can't they be like we were, perfect in every way? What's the matter with kids to-

A firecracker pops outside the window

"I don't remember using firecrackers on Halloween when we were kids," a voice says from across the table

"We used dynamite," George says. "About four or five sticks per house.

Laughter erupts.

"You mean you didn't tip it over, you blew it up?"

"Disintegrated," George says with satisfaction. "Toothpicks.

The voice moves forward in the candleight. It is Mary.

"I've always hesitated to pursue that image," she murmurs. "The outhouse tipped over in the field, the

When I was 11 or 12 years old we went to a small rural school in Ar-kansas," George says. "They had a schoolhouse there that housed all grades from one through 12. They didn't have indoor plumbing, they had outdoor privies. Four holers one for boys and one for girls."

"FOUR-HOLERS! Blooming

"On Halloween, our favorite trick was to take one of those outhouses and put it on top of the schoolhouse," George says. "The last time that I remember, the principal came tripping across the schoolyard and fell into the hole."

'That's the image I've never been able to pursue," Mary says.

"He wasn't a sport about it,"

George says. "He was fighting mad . . . Pardon me Mary, are you enjoy-ing your cake?" For some reason, Mary has put her cake fork down and is staring into space.

"Why can't they be like we were, perfect in every way? What's the matter with kids to-

Our hostess, Eleanor, goes to the door. A ghost and a small tramp stand beside the jack-o'-lantern their hands politely outstretched. Eleanor hands them each a paperwrapped candy bar and closes the door. The table candles gutter as she re-enters the room.

"Of course, you know that Halloween goes back to pagan times," Emmy says suddenly. "It was once the autumn celebration of the Druids, the priestly order of the ancient Celtic inhabitants of the British Isles." Emmy is George's wife. We don't call her Encyclopedia Emmy for nothing. "It was the beginning of the New Year wasn't it?" Mary begins to say, but her husband, Jim, is leaning on his elbow, staring through a martini

A tale about kids and their always perfect parents?

"MY MOTHER was one of 14 children," he says musingly. "Eleven of them were boys. They used to loosen the seats of the outhouses in the farm area where they lived. When the farmers sat down, the seats would start to collarse. Those farmers could jump right quick when they had to. One day they loosened the seat on the outhouse of a neighbor who weighed 200 pounds. It went down and so did she!

There is a moment's silence while we picture the situation.

'Somehow or another she was rescued," John says, "But it was a pretty frightening experience. Which led one of my mother's brothers to say that it was the first time he'd ever heard of anyone being interred before they died.

George's laughter booms across glass at the candle flame. She knows the table. He and John are doubled over the table before the rest of us realize what he has said. That reminds me of the story of the old grandfather on the farm." George says, but Emmy says "GEORGE!" in a wifely tone of voice and he stops. "We used to put resin on a string, tie it to a spool and attach it to the doors," Emmy says. "That made an awful noise. If my kids did half the things we did, though, I'd whale the tar out of them.

"Our favorite trick was to take wagons apart and reassemble them the church roof," George says. "I'd like to see some of these soft kids do that today!"

THE MEMORIES are shattered suddenly by a shriek at the window Eleanor gathers her elegant hostess gown in her right hand and leaps from the table with a yell "Wait'll I get my hands on the little monster that did that. It takes hours to get that soap off the windows."

She runs out of the room, flapping like a witch.

My husband, Jamie, watches her with a ghostly grin on his face. "Why can't they be like we were, perfect in every way?" he says. "Out in western Canada, our favorite trick was to shove potatoes in the exhaust pipes of cars. When the driver started the engine, there'd be a mighty explosion and WHOOSH, the potato went shooting out the back. "That was great fun until the Halloween they found a man dead in his car because his leaky exhaust pipe was plugged and his car filled with carbon monoxide. Nobody thought it was funny after that." "TRICK OR TREAT, TRICK OR TREAT!"

Emmy starts slightly as a spool and string go rat-a-tat against the window. This time our host, Welsh Jones, gets up. We haven't heard a word from him all night.

He opens the door. A hulking teenager in a mask and a black jacket stands there with his hand out. Beside him is a tiny figure dressed like a black witch. Welsh Jones hands two candy bars to the small child.

"May you be delivered from ghoulies and ghosties, longleggedy beasties and things that go bump in the night," he says solemnly. The tiny witch stares up for a moment, then runs for its life

'WATCH THIS," Eleanor whispers. "He has a way of getting rid of teens who are too old to be trick-or-treating anyway."

Welsh Jones hands the boy a wooden kitchen match. "Ancient men gave thanks to the sun god for lighting fires," he says. "They gathered in solemn conclave to pass judgment on crimes and problems among their people. Go ye, and do likewise.

The boy takes the match hesitently. He doesn't know whether to smile or sneer.

"It was a time of omens and augu-ries," Welsh Jones says. "A time when sorcerers and ordinary people divined the future. If you are one of those doomed to perish in the next 12 months, you may take a three-legged stool to the junction of three crossroads when the church bell strikes midnight.

He stops. The teenager is running down the sidewalk.

The front door slams. Two elegantly attired young astronauts followe hv a man with a sack in his hand.

"Grandpa! Did you go out treating with those kids again?" Eleanor says indignantly.

'Hey, Mom, can we have some soap to soap windows. Grandpa says

"YOU CANNOT! And don't listen to anything Grandpa says. Grandpa, you old goat . .

"I recollect the year we put a horse on the second story of the Trimble barn," Grandpa muses. "Did you, Grandpa, did you? Tell

"NEVER MIND!," Eleanor says. She is turning a slow purple. "You two go to bed. Grandpa has told you enough stories! '

She glares up at the old man as Grandpa turns his head and winks at Welsh Jones.

Fact or fiction? These books have 'spirit'

'We would hear footsteps and other weird sounds that were unexplainable and sometimes the building would actually shake," he said. "It got to where I wouldn't go up there at night without a flashlight, and my wife wouldn't go up there at all. It was just like we felt something there, even though we knew nothing was.'

KING SAID another odd thing happened when he went to the home, where the woman had shot herself, to pick up the collection.

"I had a brand new truck. Never had any problems with it," he said. "But after we loaded all of the boxes onto it, it wouldn't start. "I played around with it for an hour before I finally got it to start, and we never could figure out why it happened."

Even more strange is that the King went out to pick up the second load, even though his truck showed no problems at any time in between.

"I also found out that the person who bought a main portion of this collection had been having odd things happen to him," King said. "The day I called him he'd just come home from the hospital. He'd been involved in a car accident.

THE MAN also had experienced several small accidents in the home, and a couple of minor auto accidents since the time he'd purchased this collection.

King contacted local ghosthunter Mark McPherson, whose Daedalos agency investigates matters of the paranoramal or unusual.

"I have a very strong belief that a human soul is impressed upon cer-tain places or objects," McPherson said. "Intense emotions can make a very deep impression and can hang around for some time."

McPherson said he is now into the third phase of investigation of the King bookstore.

"The first phase was to separate the physical from the psychical," he said, adding that often times weird happenings are explained by actual physical things wrong with the build-"The second phase was taking psychic in to see what she could

The third phase involves more re-search on the building to find out about any other significant events that may have happened there.

"There could be other hauntings. We need to be sure that what's happening is related to this particular collection and not to something else that could be here," McPherson said. The fourth phase will be to go in again with a psychic and try to make contact with whatever's there.

THE PSYCHIC involved in this investigation is Gloria Davis. She was told nothing about the case before making a tour through the building, but was given an object that belonged to the dead woman.

"I immediately felt the emotions of a very troubled adult," she said. "I felt such lonliness and sadness, and they wanted me to go through the building to see if I could pick up on those vibrations anywhere else."

It wasn't until she approached the fourth floor that she began to sense something. In the elevator going from the third to the fourth floor my stomach began to clench," Davis said. "At first, when I walked onto the floor, I didn't feel anything, but as I wandered toward a particular area I got almost a smokey sense, just very briefly, then it was gone.

"Then I had the same vibrations that I felt when I first held the object, only they were more intense," she said. "I almost had the sense that if I could walk through the back wall this feeling would be even stronger.'

King said later that part of the collection was still stored in a room behind this wall.

"I didn't see or hear anything," Davis said. "I simply felt the energy of a tremendous trauma and a very confused person. I felt there may be a troubled presence there that needs to be helped onto another plane.

King said he's not sure what the final conclusion will be to his predicament, saying he'll do whatever McPherson recommends.

"I'm hoping he'll be able to come up with an explanation," King said. haven't hurt myself, and I don't think I have anything to fear.

As McPherson says, "We live in a world where a lot of strange things go on. Nothing ever ceases to be ... things never disappear completely."

Unmasking skeletons

Q. My home and office look neat on the surfaces, but my storage areas look like Fibber McGee's closet. They need organizing desperately, and I'd die if anyone saw them.

A. Today is Halloween, an appropriate time to discuss the masking and costuming so many of us use to cover up and pretend we are organized while we are actually struggling to keep our heads above water.

It seems everyone in the world is struggling. We have created a society where, if you are No. 1, you are struggling to stay there. If you are No. 2 you're struggling to be No. 1, and those in lower positions are struggling to better themselves

The sad part is even those in No. 1 positions often feel like impostors. The shelves of bookstores are lined with books about people who fight to get to the top, then don't feel they have the right to their lofty position.

Perhaps that's why children enjoy Halloween. For one time a year they can justly pretend they are some powerful, beautiful or far-out creature instead of the normal small person they are.

SOME PEOPLE do the same with their organization. Their surfaces are tidy but behind the scenes they have a mess, carry a load of guilt and worry about being "found out." They know they should clean out their junk because they would be embarrassed if anybody "knew."

Almost everyone has a few "skeletons in the closet" - skeletons of broken appliances, photos in disorder, musty camping equipment or office memos never answered.

With the pace of our society today, it's impossible to be perfect. All we can do is the best we can, and hope that some day we can catch up with ourselves.

YOUR BEST weapon against collecting skeletons is daily maintenance. By keeping current today you are at least not getting further behind and adding to your misery.

Keeping current involves acting on, putting away or throwing away today's influx, complet, ing projects before starting new ones, making decisions as you go.

Your biggest problem is probably your conservative, saving nature and an inability to make decisions about what to do with the things you've saved.

Each day, try to peck away at your collection and end up with less instead of more.

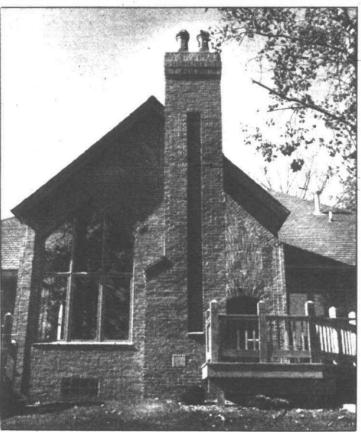

condo queries

Robert M. Meisner

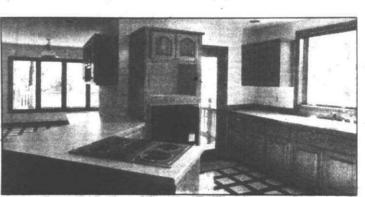

Q. How do I get my condominium association to take care of the sidewalk outside of my unit which is, unfortunately, covered with debris in the summer and, during the winter, is conducive to icing conditions. I have contacted the management company but to no avail. Please help!

The association should be mindful of its potential liability for failing to maintain the area surrounding your condominium, presuming that they are common elements within the jurisdictions of the association. The fact that you put the management company on notice is the first step but, if that has not proved to be successful, you should write the board of directors directly and, if necessary, the insurance carrier of the association, expressing your concern about the man-ner in which the condominium is being main-

The association should be concerned about this potential liability as more and more condominium associations are being deemed to be liable for negligent maintenance of the common areas, particularly when the result of such negligence is personal or property damage to co-owners and/or their invitees.

HE HOMESTEAD Estates condominiums in Plymouth have the feel of a country manor.

Homestead Estates is the latest creation of the Lorenz family, which operates the popular Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth ::

The condo project is at the site of the old Lorenz family home, on Ann Arbor Trail slightly more than one mile west of Plymouth's down-

"When I grew up here, there were only a few homes on Ann Arbor Trail," said 40-year-old Rick Lorenz, whose firm, Lorenz and Associates, is the sales agent for Homestead Estates.

"I USED to hunt pheasant in the woods," he said. "We're trying to put a little personality back into the site - the personality that was there to begin with.

The developers have designed a small, upscale community of 21 condominiums on 10 acres. They envision a private and elegant enclave with plenty of amenities and safety fea-

Rick Lorenz, a 1966 graduate of the old Plymouth High School, is the fourth of six children of longtime hotelier Ralph Lorenz and the late Ma-

Although he majored in hotel-restaurant management at Michigan State University, graduating in 1971, Rick found his niche in real estate.

As with the hotel, this real estate venture is a family enterprise. Its principals are Ralph Lorenz, 78, who relinquished management of the Mayflower to other family members, Ralph Lorenz's second wife, Theresa, Rick Lorenz and his wife, Tammy.

Rick had spent the last several years in Colorado real estate. When he returned to Michigan, to work on Homestead Estates, he brought two key men. Howard Wille is the project superintendent and Butch Head is the custom cabinet-

Construction began last fall. Two units are finished and four more are nearly completed.

"THIS PROJECT has many touches from the west - things that were fairly common in Colorado," Rick Lorenz said.

Plymouth architect David Schaff drew plans for the exterior. Herringbone brick designs are used extensively. Arches and angles create a majestic effect, enhancing the solid oak doors with leaded-glass windows. Each unit has gray trim with brass fixtures, and brick walk-

The 2,750-square-foot, single-story model has two bedrooms and a library. The two-story unit, at 2,825 square feet, has three bedrooms with an optional library. Around half of the projected 21 units have been sold. Prices start at $322,000.

IN EACH floor plan, the oversized master suite and master bath are on the first floor. Both have jacuzzi-type tub, shower with built-in bench, brass towel warmers. A sliding door leads to a deck directly off the bedroom. Adjacent to the bedroom is an exercise area.

"I tend to think of it as the insomnia room." Lorenz said.

A second deck near the dining area has builtin seating, a common feature of Colorado homes. Each unit has an outdoor Jenn-Air cooktop. Adjacent to the fireplace is a built-in storage closet that is fed from outdoors.

"I PLAN to have a service provide the firewood," Lorenz said. "It will be included in the condominium fees.'

Cabinets are of handmade oak ("We brought the cabinet shop from Colorado," Lorenz said). The kitchen has built-in spice racks, special spaces for hard-to-store items and an "appliance

All units have a poured concrete walk-in storage vault in the basement.

The grounds contain several varieties of mature trees. A total of 72 trees, including beech, maple, pine and black walnut, were moved from the path of bulldozers.

We wanted to preserve as many trees as possible," Lorenz said. "They laughed at me - they called them 'Rick's trees.'

LORENZ IS hopeful that rose bushes, planted around the perimeter last spring, will survive the drought and bloom again next year. It is his design that the roses become a "living wall," providing both beauty and privacy.

Also planned are designated areas where condo residents can plant small gardens, berry bushes and a jogging path.

"I can remember picking raspberries and blackberries when I was a kid," Lorenz said. "Just because you give up your house, it doesn't mean you have to give up your green thumb."
Rick Lorenz now lives in the old family house, which was built in 1940. The home, which is within the Homestead Estates property, is being revamped to match the surrounding decor. Lorenz finds the project satisfying, both personally and professionally. "I enjoy making clients happy - fulfilling their wishes," he said. "I'm getting to know my dad, and enjoying working with him.
