Schools plan for major budget cuts

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

The Plymouth-Canton school board on Monday proposed cutting the 1989-90 school district budget by $3.18 million, if voters reject a 4-mill property tax increase on June 12.

The cuts would be across the board and affect everything from administration to the length of the school day.

Final approval of the proposed cuts is expected to come at an April 10 board meeting. The meeting on Monday was a workshop, and although issues could be discussed, the board couldn't vote on those issues.

Administrators have proposed restoring $1.8 million in personnel and programming cuts if voters approve both the tax increase and an 8-mill renewal, which will be on the same ballot.

The tax increase would cost the owner of a house worth $100,000 approximately $200 in additional taxes.

If the proposals do not pass, administrators say, the cuts are needed because property in the district has become worth so much that the district will receive no state aid next year.

In addition, property values are going up faster than the rate of inflation. So the district will have to reduce the tax rate next year. However, because of these rising property values, taxes will rise, even without a tax-rate increase.

THE CUTTING COMPLETE, board and audience members put in a word for their favorite educational causes.

For Trustee Roland Thomas, it was restoration of the six-hour school day.

Trustee Marilyn Schwinn said, "I'd like WSDP looked at to see if we can keep a license to stay on the air without spending any money."

Trustee Dean Swartzwelder wants "to be able to have the 1987-1988 attendance policy in 1989-90." Cuts in the attendance office budget have contributed to an increase in absences of 5-10 percent at the high schools, he said.

Trustee Jeanette Wines doesn't want to pay for extracurricular activities in school buildings at the expense of educational programs.

"I KNOW it would be a good move for PR, but I can't see it when we need the money for educational programs," she said.

Trustee E.J. McClendon disagreed, saying, "I think a lot of parents want to have activities at their local school. People see it as a community center."

Resident Joan Kotcher wants to preserve testing programs. "It's important to look at how deep a knife wound it would be to remove standardized testing. Without it, we don't know where we are — if we're wasting our time, or if students are in too deep," she said.

Allen School Principal Jim Burt spoke on behalf of the attendance office and staff.

"It seems to me we might be missing the point a little by keeping the radio station without keeping the attendance office. That seems to me to be out of whack."

"I also believe you should examine what effect keeping extracurricular activities is having on your school day. Our job is to educate kids for the hours we have them in school. We can't do a very good job of educating kids without a librarian and a learning specialist."

Here's what would be cut

The Plymouth-Canton school board expects to make the following cuts, if a 2 mill property tax increase fails in June:

- 75 teachers at a savings of $2 million. Laying off teachers would mean cutting the school day from six hours to five. Pink slips are expected to go out April 15.
- two administrative positions, saving $52,251;
- after school activities, trimming $29,520;
- aides for K-5, saving $7,450;
- aides for 6-12, saving $7,725;

- high school athletics, at a $126,721 savings;
- eliminating middle school sports, saving $57,050;
- audio-visual technician, saving $7,620;
- $21,530 in central office costs;
- 4.5 clerical positions, saving $73,051;
- eliminating the curriculum center, saving $63,917;
- 16.5 custodial positions, saving $336,000;
- $70,000 in maintenance costs;
- $5,500 in the high school mu-

- sic budget;
- eliminating the print shop, saving $32,000;
- $20,000 in staff development funding;
- $88,671 in special education;
- $75,000 in transportation costs;
- $26,868 in vocational education funding;
- $22,510 in warehouse operations; and
- eliminating WSDP, the student radio station at a $34,509 savings.

Levin: Slashing deficit key to better economy

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Slashing the national deficit by raising taxes is the key to a healthier economy with better services, U.S. Sen. Carl Levin told a group of 50 in the Canton Public Library Tuesday.

Environment, education and a health care system that Levin called shameful are major concerns.

But the unwieldy $2.8 trillion deficit puts all national programs in jeopardy, he said.

"We're papering over the deficit," said Levin, who was invited to Canton by state Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton.

"Something has to give somewhere," Levin said. "Basically we're ducking the issues. We're not addressing the issues that threaten the economy, which is the deficit."

THE TIDE will turn, he said, by increasing cigarette taxes, imposing fees on imported oil and applying a higher tax rate to wage earners with annual incomes of $150,000 or more.

Someone earning $20,000 annually shouldn't pay the same tax rate as someone earning $1 million, said Levin.

"There's no painless way to reduce the deficit and no line item called waste in the budget," according to the 10-year congressional veteran.

Levin attacked money spent on warheads.

"All you can use them for is to threaten," he said. "We have enough warheads 100 times over to blow up the Soviet Union."

Too much money is dumped into defending allies and bringing troops home will cut federal expenses, he added. "We're spending more money to defend Europe than Europe is to defend Europe."

But a deadlock between the president, who promised not to raise taxes, and Congress, which said it wouldn't take the lead in imposing taxes, paralyzes either from taking necessary action, Levin said.

If the deficit is ignored, basic federal commitments, especially Social Security, will fail, he added.

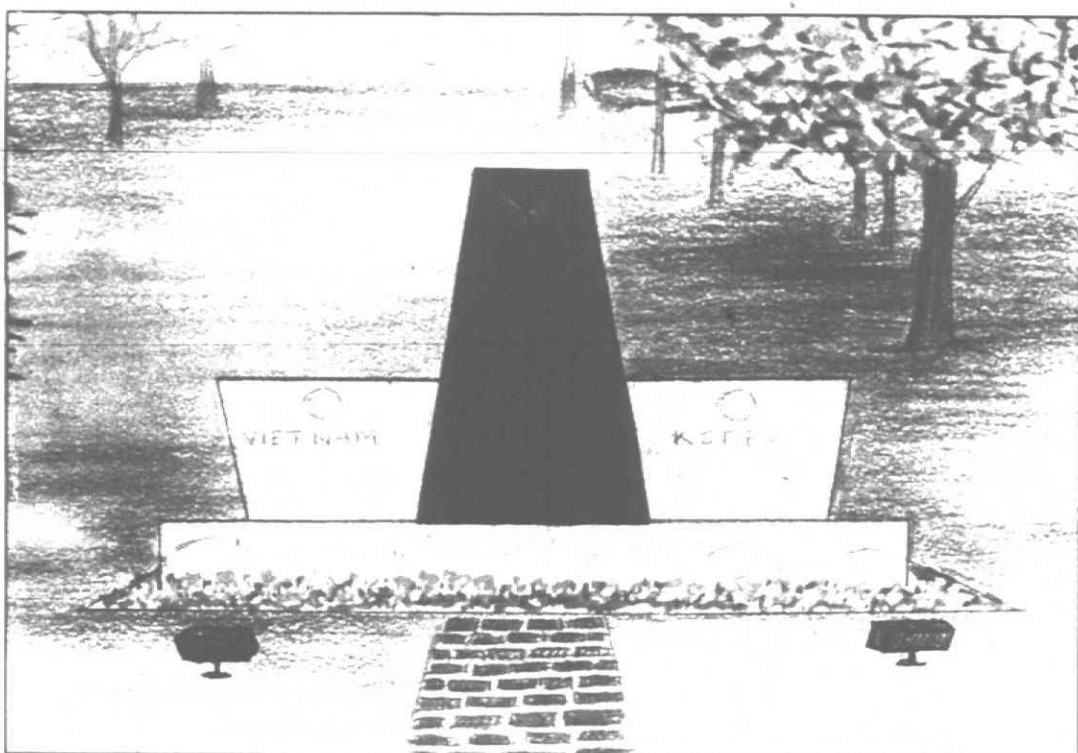

"Social Security may not be there when we need it," he said.

The government has to build the money supply for the year 2003, when more money will be drawn out of the retirement payment system than what is deposited.

"We're pitting seniors against other programs," Levin said.

A NATIONAL crisis in solid waste disposal sites has been especially evident in Canton, one of a group of Wayne County communities considered for a landfill to handle much of Wayne County's solid waste.

Plan to honor Viet vets coming along

By Doug Funke

The granite has been ordered. Fund-raisers have netted $5,500.

The Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association reports that its drive to build a monument to local men and women who served during the Vietnam and Korean wars is going well.

"I'm really excited," said David Blake, a Plymouth resident and co-owner of Simpson Granite Works. His company is donating design, lettering and set-up services to the PVVA.

Four slabs — Cherry Hill black granite from southwestern Pennsylvania and Southern light granite from Elberton, Ga. — will be cut to design specifications and should be received within a month, Blake said.

The slabs will weigh 700 to 3,200 pounds.

"YOU TAKE out a block of granite, dynamite it, take out a 40 ton block and start cutting up slabs with a diamond saw or wire saw," Blake said of the procurement process.

"Then they polish the slab. You can't tell if there's a defect in the slab unless it's polished," he said. "We draw blueprints, send them down there and it (slab) comes back."

Design etchings of an eagle and dove, commemorative messages and the names of local men killed or missing in action will be done by David Goldsworthy, Blake's partner.

"We're going to take our time on it," Blake said. "We're not going to rush at all. It will be done and ready to be set the middle of June."

The PVVA plans a formal dedication on the Fourth of July.

Tyburski posts $25,000 bond

Leonard Tyburski of Canton, charged with murdering his wife and stuffing her body in the family's freezer, posted $25,000 bond and was released Tuesday from the Wayne County Jail.

Nancy Mouradian, a spokeswoman at the jail, said Tyburski posted $25,000 surety bond. "He backed it up with some sort of collateral such as a house and/or car," she said.

Recorder's Court Judge Michael Sapala reduced the bond from $250,000 or 10 percent to $25,000 at Tyburski's arraignment last week on a second-degree murder charge. Tyburski pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The next legal step for Tyburski is a Recorder's Court trial, the date of which will be decided after the judge hears motions in the case. Those motions will be filed April 7.

Last January in Washington, D.C., Moira Foley took a group of Puerto Rican students to a forum to hear surprise speakers including the president, vice president and Soviet comedian Yakov Smirnoff; to the inaugural parade; and to an inaugural ball for 1,100 young people at the ritzy Omni Shoreham Hotel.

It was all in a week's work for Foley, a program instructor with Close Up, a non-profit national foundation dedicated to learning about government.

Each week, students from across the country arrive in the capital to meet with their legislators, attend Congressional hearings and debates; analyze Supreme Court cases; listen to guest speakers and tour D.C.

A 1979 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, Foley, 27, was student teaching at her alma mater last year when government teacher Bill Gretzinger asked if she'd like to accompany his class to Washington as a chaperone.

"I brought my resume," said the Central Michigan University graduate, who started her job in January.

As a program instructor, Foley works 80 hours a week, with one week off per month.

"I prepare the kids for seminar speakers and lead my specific workshops and activities on the presidency, national security, the budget and on teens as victims of crime."

While accompanying students around Washington, "we use the bus as a classroom without walls," says Foley, who has worked with students from California, Oregon, Colorado, Florida, Texas, Arkansas, Rhode Island, Minnesota and Michigan. Last week, a third of her students were deaf.

Viet memorial gaining ground

The city has agreed to provide a site for a Vietnam/Korean monument near the Plymouth Rock Memorial adjacent to Kellogg Park.

No public funds have been committed to the project by the city.

SO FAR, seven Plymouth servicemen have been identified who were killed in action in Vietnam—James Eckles, James Fields, Richard Larrick, Richard Nowry, Hugh Sarah, Harry Zahesky Jr. and Harry Baker Jr.

Morris Beasley was classified missing and presumed dead during the Korean War.

John Pappas, president of the PVVA, said about 10 members are now active in the PVVA. He decided to go for a monument after witnessing the great reception Vietnam vets received while marching in last year's Fourth of July parade.

"The whole purpose of the memorial is to bring vets who were killed, and people who served in Vietnam and Korea, to bring their names to public recognition," Pappas said.

FUNDRAISERS now are looking for an additional $2,000 to add a flagpole, lighting to the monument and upkeep, said the Rev. Stanley Jenkins, treasurer of the PVVA. The granite is expected to cost $4,000.

The Ford Motor Co. and the Box Bar each have contributed $1,000, Jenkins said. Other contributions net of expenses total $4,500, he said.

Monument would honor all veterans

Two veterans organizations in Plymouth — the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion — now say they want to incorporate a monument to Vietnam and Korean veterans into a memorial for local veterans of all wars.

About two dozen members of those two groups appeared before the city commission Monday to show support for that concept.

"What we'd like to see is one monument honoring all vets," said Deane Johnson, past commander of the Mayflower-Lt. Gamble VFW Post. "We're prepared to share our costs in this."

James Maaha, a Vietnam vet and a member of American Legion Passage-Gayde Post, said what he thought was just site approval has now turned into a concrete plan for a Vietnam/Korean monument.

Maaha proposes a monument incorporating plaques from the existing Plymouth Rock Memorial to veterans of the Civil War, Spanish American War, World War I and World War II with plaques honoring veterans of Korea and Vietnam.

John Pappas, president of the Plymouth Vietnam Veterans Association, says too much work has gone into a Vietnam/Korean monument to change course now.

"We're beyond the point of coming together on it," Pappas said. "There's too much investment in it. It's already been designed. It's already been passed by the city."

Pappas said he made efforts earlier to work with the VFW and the American Legion. "We were not welcome, period," he said.

Maaha said the veterans group tried to talk with Pappas "on a number of occasions" without success.

"There's been a rift," Maaha said. "It's time that rift came together."

Resident wins award

Smile Pichonny of Canton was one of six people from the metropolitan Detroit area named recipient of the 1988 Jefferson Award in recognition of their outstanding public service benefiting local communities last year.

Pichonny, director of the Wayne County Special Olympics, devoted her time to fundraising, coordinating training programs and organizing events, recruiting and organizing volunteer groups and coordinating the involvement of athletes' families.

WJBK-TV 2 is the area sponsor of the Jefferson Award for the ninth consecutive year.

Each of the recipients received a bronze medalion from the Franklin Mint and is eligible for the National Jefferson Awards, sponsored by the American Institute for Public Service in Washington, D.C.

Board rejects expansion plan

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Plymouth-Canton school board members shot down an architectural plan commissioned by administrators which would have expanded the board office at a cost of $2.4 million.

Voters approved a bond issue in 1986 that included $925,000 for board office renovation. The proposal, presented at Monday's workshop by Carne Associates Inc. of Plymouth, would entail remodeling the existing building at 454 S. Harvey and adding a new two-story, 10,000-square-foot structure.

The work was planned in two phases: the first at a cost of $1.2 million, the second at $1.14 million.

Board members, who the same night proposed cutting $3.1 million in program and personnel expenditures from the 1989-90 district budget, balked at the numbers.

"We've gone through several architectural approaches, and personally, I like the layout of this one best. But the thing that bothers me is that we only have $925,000. This comes to more than that," said Trustee Dean Swartzweller.

"I don't know how you buy a Lincoln for the price of an Escort. I think our direction can be that the sky's the limit, within the $925,000. I don't want to spend a 25-cent stamp over the $925,000."

Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, said the proposal would give the board office 400,000 square feet of badly-needed storage space.

While the cost would exceed the amount available, "I talked to our attorney in Lansing (about funding) and he said we'd have to put in a formal written request with the state board of education. He felt it would be no problem."

Trustee Jeanette Wines asked what would happen to the $925,000 "if we decided we don't want to do anything. While I know this building is in dire need, how do we justify this when we are asking the public for an increase? We're supposedly operating at bare bones now."

Superintendent John Hoben answered that the $925,000 would go toward retiring bond indebtedness.

"I also want to see us live within the $925,000," said Trustee Roland Thomas. If that says all we can afford to do is renovate and add a one-floor addition, then so be it. It doesn't say we can't add a second piece later if it's designed right."

"We can't do a basement later, and Lord knows, the thing we need is storage space," said Trustee E.J. McClendon. McClendon favors phased construction to accommodate the district's growth.

"We'll never be able to run a first class operation out of an outhouse, and effectively, that's what we've been trying to do. I'm not sure if the public realizes that," said McClendon.

"I don't want to build something that becomes a white elephant that we can't develop or unload."

Audience members Joan Kotcher and Mary Dahn questioned spending money on the board office so close to the June 12 election, when the district will ask voters to approve mills in new taxes.

"You have to think about justifying spending money when you're laying off administrators and asking the public for more money for operating expenses," said Kotcher.

Agreed Dahn: "Spending money you don't have, and then going to the public for more money is poor policy," she said.

Said Hoedel following the meeting: "I don't feel bad at what the board said. We'll go back to the drawing board and see what we can do for $900,000."

"We might put a lobby in with a basement and an elevator, renovate the building, put in a new heating system, a new brick facade and parking."

The district spent about $2,100 on three architectural plans, he said. Hoedel added that a consultant underestimated the cost of the project in 1986 before the bond issue was proposed to voters.

Salem grad keeps busy in Washington program

About 160 Plymouth Canton and Salem students — Michigan's largest contingent ever — arrived in Washington March 5 during Foley's week off.

But Foley took it in stride. She took several days to accompany students to meetings with their congressmen and attended receptions with their teachers.

"A lot of these kids have worked their tails off to get here," said Foley.

"And they're unbelievably prepared. They ask some really good questions. I wish their parents could see them and how much they do. They'd probably be floored."

"I'm also impressed with the energy of the Plymouth kids," adds Foley. "They can see through the speakers. They not only know what kinds of questions to ask, but what kind of answers they want. They can tell when someone is beating around the bush."

FOLEY, WHO worked in retail, managed a pizzeria, and interned at the Bureau of History in Lansing before joining Close Up, shares an apartment in Alexandria, Va. One of her roommates negotiates defense contracts for the Navy. The other is a Republican National Committee coordinator who worked on the Bush campaign.

Her boss coaches football at Gallaudet University, the only liberal arts college for deaf students in the world.

"I don't know if this is a place to settle down, but I can absorb the energy for a couple years. There's always something new to discover," says Foley.

people

"I like the range of people I'm meeting and the contacts I'm making. I think I'll be a better teacher for it. I'm not limited to a textbook."

Holding down an emotionally charged job in Washington, D.C., can be tough.

"In this city, if you're too proud to ask questions, you get lost," says Foley. "You have to be strong in your beliefs about what you can do or you won't survive. The key is to find a support system of friends."

Foley's done that, but says it "doesn't prevent me from getting homesick."

She hopes eventually to teach in Michigan, so she can enjoy her family, the Midwest, and "football Saturdays. I love the fall. It's my favorite time of year," she says.

Foley is the oldest of five. She has three brothers, Rob, 25, John, 23, and Tom, 21; and a sister, Meghan, 26.

Her father is assistant Wayne County prosecutor Pat Foley of Northville. Her mother is Peg Opick of Pinckney.

The greatest rewards of the job aren't financial, adds Foley, whose forte is getting all of her students to participate in the activity of the moment.

"I had a kid from Minnesota tell me. 'It's taken me five hours to tell you this, but this whole week was great.'"

"It's a week out of school, but 99 percent of the kids get really interested in their country and what's going on. By Friday when their interest is really peaked, it's time to send them home and that's tough. We're just getting started."

"Sometimes they might not even realize how much they accomplished until they get back. Sometimes there's an atmosphere created where kids think, 'I can spare an extra hour-to do this. I can get that done.'"

"We get letters from kids. Some tell us that they're going to run for student council," said Foley.

"When they say, 'You really made a difference,' it chokes me up."

Tornado season is approaching.

Weather wise

Planning for severe storms crucial

By Doug Funke
staff writer

The more people learn about the consequences of severe weather like winds, lightning, torrential rain and even tornadoes, the better they can prepare to ride out the storm.

Or, in the words of Chuck VanVleck, deputy director of emergency preparedness for Plymouth Township, "Common sense is based on knowledge."

"The plan is the key," he said. "Don't wait until it's actually happening to you to decide to have a plan."

Chuck VanVleck

Most severe weather doesn't just materialize on a spur of the moment. Watches give way to warnings. And when they do, take heed and cover, VanVleck said.

"If YOU FOLLOW a normal chain of events, you'll get a severe thunderstorm watch. Get an idea where your (young) kids are and what you're going to do if things get worse," he said.

"In a severe thunderstorm warning, at least get the kids in their own yard. If you happen to be in a pool, get out of the water. Of course, don't get under trees."

"When the siren goes off, that's a tornado warning," VanVleck said. "My family goes down in the basement. I have no problem waking them up if I hear the siren."

VanVleck said he stores a battery operated radio and flashlight in his basement shelter area under the stairs. It would be a good idea to keep some books or games nearby to take the edge off for frightened young children, he added.

"THE RULE OF thumb is to be on the lowest floor possible, under something substantial like a stairway or workbench — something to protect you if debris starts falling," he said.

People without a basement should take cover in an interior room like a closet or bathroom. "Get as many walls between you and the exterior as you can," he said.

It's human nature to disregard uneventful tornado sirens over time, VanVleck said. But that doesn't stop him. Large trees have been known to crash through roofs and windows in thunderstorms.

Better to be safe than sorry, he said.

A mobile home is one of the worst places to be in a high wind or tornado situation, VanVleck said.

"TD PACK UP my family in a shelter somewhere — a mall. Come into a public building during the day if you have to."

Downed wires can kill even if they appear to be cable TV or phone lines, VanVleck said. His advice — leave them alone.

"You don't know where they end up," he said. "Every wire that's down as far as you're concerned is live."

Stay in your house or car if at all possible, VanVleck said. They still offer greater protection than direct exposure to the elements.

VanVleck is looking for men and women who want to become severe weather spotters in Plymouth and Canton townships.

A free training session will be offered 1-3 p.m. Saturday, April 1, at Plymouth Township Hall. Call VanVleck at 453-5015 for details.

Trailer parks can be a concern during storms.

Dennis is convicted of 1st degree murder

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

Patrick Dennis, 22, who reportedly told witnesses last October he was going to "kill a fag," was convicted of first-degree murder Wednesday after a jury heard two days of testimony and deliberated for less than two hours.

Dennis, of Plymouth Township, was found guilty in Wayne County Recorder's Court of killing Kevin Kinney, 23, also of Plymouth Township.

Two witnesses testified Dennis told them he was going to kill a man he had just met at a bar.

Dennis told police after his arrest Oct. 4 he was fending off sexual advances from Kinney before the stabbing.

The victim's family has said Kinney wasn't a homosexual. Kim Worthing, the prosecutor in the case, said in her closing statement it's likely Dennis made up the story, for sympathy and to play on the emotions of those who don't like homosexuals.

Dennis faces a mandatory sentence of life in prison with no chance of parole. Sentencing will be April 10. Dennis' court-appointed lawyer, Jeffrey Collins, said the conviction is likely to be appealed.

KEY INFORMATION about the case was given by Deborah Youmans, an employee of Dunkin' Donuts on Ann Arbor Road, and the defendant's brother, Kelly Dennis, who testified that Dennis helped move the body and clean up the scene of the crime.

She testified she looked out the window and saw a man in Dennis' car. She later identified Kinney, through police photos, as the man in the car.

(Dennis) told me that he wasn't kidding, to come over in about 10 or 15 minutes," she said. Dennis also told Daniel Badalamente, a truck driver who was in the doughnut shop, that the person he just met in a bar "might have some money," the trucker testified.

Dennis also said "I might take the kid home and kill him," Badalamente said.

COLLINS' DEFENSE was based on the contention that Dennis had been drinking heavily. That can be a defense in a first-degree murder case.

Collins also tried to show the stabbing wasn't premeditated, which must be present for a first-degree murder conviction.

The lawyer suggested the crime could be considered voluntary manslaughter because, he said, the stabbing occurred "in the heat of passion."

BUT WORTHY called Dennis' statement in the shop "the clearest, specific intent to kill that I can think of."

Kelly Dennis agreed to testify against his brother rather than be charged with accessory after the fact, according to Erik Mayerink, the Plymouth Township police officer in charge of the case.

The younger Dennis testified he "asked Pat where he got the knife, if he had brought it out of the house," he said "yes," Dennis said.

The murder was premeditated because Dennis lured Kinney into the garage to kill him and brought the knife to do so.

ON THE way to Dennis' home on the night of the murder, the two stopped at Dunkin' Donuts. Kinney waited in the car while Dennis went inside. Two witnesses testified that Dennis told them he was going to kill the man in his car.

Youmans, a doughnut shop employee who was off work, testified she has known Dennis and his family.

"He came in and walked over to me and told me that he had a fag in his car and that he was going to kill him," Youmans said.

She testified she looked out the window and saw a man in Dennis' car. She later identified Kinney, through police photos, as the man in the car.

(Dennis) told me that he wasn't kidding, to come over in about 10 or

Improved 9-1-1 to come in June

The long-awaited turn on date for Enhanced 9-1-1 is June 9.

Enhanced 9-1-1 is an improved version of the basic emergency telephone service and uses computers to automatically route calls to the nearest police or fire departments or other proper public safety answering point.

The computer displays show caller addresses and telephone numbers, which allows for faster, more accurate routing of emergency vehicles and also eliminates false reporting of emergencies.

The service is provided by the Conference of Western Wayne, which includes Canton, Plymouth,

House passes child seat belt law

A bill requiring all child passengers under the age of 16 to wear seat belts regardless of where they are seated in the car passed the state House of Representatives.

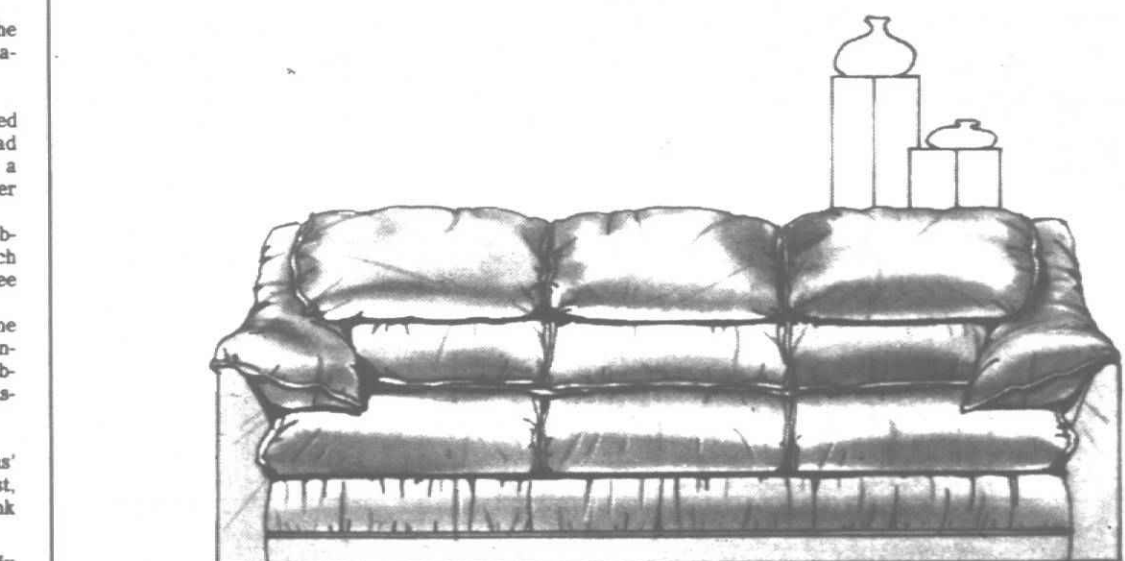

The bill, sponsored by State Rep. James Kostava, D-Canton, exempts nursing babies, and specifies that the seat belt requirement would not apply if a motorist is transporting more children than there are seat belts available.

Police officers would be prohibited from stopping motorists and ticketing them solely for a seat belt infraction.

"I'm very pleased that the bill was passed, especially since children aged four to 16 have the lowest seat belt usage compared to all other age groups," Kostava said.

"Requiring children to use seat belts at all times will encourage them to use them throughout their lives," he added.

Slashing deficit is key — Levin

"I'm not sure we're (Congress) doing a whole lot in solid waste," said Levin, adding that most solid waste regulations have been imposed by state and local governments.

"The federal government has not stepped in here," Levin said. "We're looking at possibly having the Pentagon use recyclable paper to get a bigger demand for recyclables."

The environment is one of many pressing issues in Canton that are reflective of areas that have to be addressed nationwide during the next decade, said Kosteva.

SHIRLEY POLING of Canton said she was disappointed more residents failed to show for the open meeting.

"People want to say elected officials are out of touch," said Poling, adding that few voters take advantage of open meetings to "get in touch."

Dale Smith, also of Canton, said it's ironic the president claims there are no new taxes. But when he filled out his income tax forms this year he learned he had fewer deductions compared to last year.

"I just wanted to come out and hear what he had to say," said Bob Birch, of Canton. "Just to let him know we're alive."

Stolen lawn equipment worth more than $3,000

More than $3,000 worth of lawn equipment was stolen from a 1989 Silver Ford pickup at about 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, March 18, Canton police reported.

The truck was parked in the 8000 block of Holly, Canton police said.

The stolen equipment include a $1,500 weed whip, a $1,000 push blower, a $400 mower, a $300 back pick-up and two $300 edgers.

MAN HOOKED: A 39-year-old Romulus man told Canton police he picked up a woman at the Roosevelt Hotel on 14th Street in Detroit and ended up at Country Side Motel on Michigan Avenue in Canton on Saturday, March 18.

He said he was sleeping when she stole the keys to his green 1979 Ford Bronco station wagon.

crime watch

He said he had $15 in his wallet and $560 cash hidden in the truck.

The woman was described as between 22 and 30 years old, 5-foot-11-inches, 170 pounds with brown hair and brown eyes, police reported.

SCHOOL VANDALIZED: More than $900 worth of damage was reported at Field Elementary School on Haggerty on Saturday, March 18.

A youngster on a bicycle was seen riding south from the school area, police reported. Fresh bicycle tracks in a dusting of snow were also found near the broken windows.

Two fifth graders were suspected in the case, police reported.

HOT SET: A television was reported stolen from Maple Lawn Motel on Michigan Avenue in Canton, police reported.

An alarm connected to the television in Room 2 was activated about 5 a.m. on Saturday, March 18, and a man was seen running north from the room, police reported.

He entered the room by breaking a small window on the door and opening the door.

GUN BLAST: The driver of a Ford pickup truck fired a shotgun at a house in the 2000 block of Denton, police reported.

The unidentified man drove the truck south on Denton. No one was injured during the incident, and it's unclear how much damage was caused to the house, police reported.

STRANGE NOISES: A resident in the 6000 block of Woodmere told police he heard noises in the garage and thought someone was trying to break in.

Apparently a vehicle drove up and struck his 1981 two-door Camaro, which was parked in the garage, police reported.

There was an estimated $700 to $1,000 worth of damage.

These are only some of the incidents recently reported to Canton police. They can be reached at 397-3000.

carrier of the month

Andy Detting

Andy Detting, 12, a sixth grade student at Pioneer Middle School, has been named carrier of the month for the Canton Township Observer.

Andy is the son of Robert and Carol Detting of Canton. His favorite school subjects are science and math. His hobbies include bowling, camping and canoeing.

He lists being on the honor roll at school as one of his outstanding achievements.

He plans on attending college. The things he likes most about his route are that he can be his own boss, is outdoors and the money.

The route has helped him learn how to deal with people and be responsible. He said a route can help young people because it teaches them how to handle money and keep records.

Veteran Schoolcraft trustee stepping down

By Wayne Peal staff writer

Rosina Raymond is a walking history of Schoolcraft College. Names, dates and events from the college's first quarter century come tumbling out in a conversation with the long-time Schoolcraft College trustee.

Any details she can't quite remember are there for ready reference in five notebooks and countless file folders filled with campaign fliers, board proclamations and articles clipped from long-ago newspapers.

Raymond, a board member since 1971, won't be seeking re-election this spring after completing her third successive six-year term.

"I'VE LOVED my time on the board but six years is a long time," she said.

Even though she's leaving the board, Raymond will be maintaining ties with the college.

"I'll be serving on the Schoolcraft Foundation (a non-profit group that finances scholarships for area students)," she said. "I'll still be keeping an eye on things."

IT'S a relationship that goes back to Schoolcraft's beginnings. Raymond campaigned for the college's creation back in the early 1960s and was a candidate in the college's initial trustee election in 1961.

"It wasn't easy," she said of the campaign to create Northwest Wayne County Community College (Schoolcraft's pre-founding name).

That the Redford Union and South Redford schools failed to join the Schoolcraft district is still a disappointment, she said.

"There was a newspaper out in Redford that was campaigning against us, saying all kinds of things," she said. "That's probably the primary reason why the two Redford school districts didn't join us."

Even though she narrowly lost the 1965 election, she and Hudson became friends. Among her prized possessions is a hand-signed copy of Hudson's college history. The late Hudson made several references to Raymond in the volume.

In one he recalls her determination in the light of the early election defeats.

"At that point, many a person would have given up trying," he wrote. "But Rosina didn't and her tenacity paid off."

TENACITY HAS marked Raymond's career on the board, whether it's fighting for liberal arts programs or women's rights.

"She's always been right in there fighting for the cause," board president Mary Breen said. "She's been a fine friend to Schoolcraft College."

In the early 1970s, Raymond participated in a Washington, D.C., "fly in" among nationwide Equal Rights Amendment supporters and was active in the creation of Schoolcraft's Women's Resources Center.

"That is one of the things of which I'm proudest," she said. "That center has helped many, many people over the years."

CREATION OF the Seven Mile Crossing office complex on college-owned property was a major recent highlight, she said.

"That will allow us to get the Women's Resource Center and all the other offices out of those little houses along Haggerty and into a space on their own campus," she said.

She raised four children before receiving her bachelor's degree. She received a master's in teaching college speech and language from Wayne State University and later worked toward her doctorate at the Detroit-based university. Raymond began her education career as a junior high school teacher. She later served on the faculty of Madonna College. Fluent in German and Spanish, Raymond was also a part-time member of the Wayne State University speech department.

At various times, she also taught community education classes in genealogy. That subject is a personal favorite.

"I'm working on an anecdotal history of eight families of my relatives," she said. "I've been back and forth over Europe several times looking at records that go back as far as 1654."

"Sometimes, information is hard to find, but I'm not one to give up."

springboard to city or state office, Raymond said she never harbored such ambitions.

"I'm interested in politics but probably not as interested in it as my husband (former Livonia Councilman Jerry Raymond)," she said.

RAYMOND, HOWEVER, has been active in numerous community activities and is active in the city's library programs. In 1980, she was selected Livonia First Citizen in an annual community recognition program co-sponsored by the Observer Newspapers.

Exposing incidents lead to warnings

Road in Plymouth Township at 8 a.m. on Monday, March 20, when the incident occurred, according to Dave Boljesic, Canton police spokesman.

"When they approached, they noticed he had no pants on and was masturbating," said Dave Boljesic, Canton police spokesman.

THE GIRLS fled. The man was described as being in his late teens, with blond hair and clean cut. He was driving a gray Ford Fairmont with a black stripe.

An hour later at 9 a.m. two 11-year-old girls were approached by a man with blond hair in the area of Bart and Holly, in Holiday Estate subdivision, which is the first subdivision east of the apartment complex and across the street from Fiegel Elementary School, Boljesic said.

He asked for directions to Deer Street.

As the girls walked toward the car they noticed he was wearing a white T-shirt and nothing else. When they saw he was masturbating they turned and ran away, Boljesic said. The man was driving a white car. Police patrols were increased in the area, Boljesic said.

Barbara Young, Fiegel principal, made announcements in school and sent letters home explaining what happened.

"We told them not to talk to strangers and not to listen to anyone asking for directions," said Young, who applauded Canton and Plymouth Township police for their quick response to meet with school officials and the added patrols.

"We want people to be aware," said Dick Egli, district spokesman. "But we don't want anyone to panic."

William O'Connor, a school social worker, said the experience can be traumatic for children involved, but less serious emotionally if contact was made or violence was included.

IN A separate case March 15, a man was spotted in the woods near Walker Elementary School on Michigan Avenue east of I-275 in Canton.

He was watching the children in the playground and ran when a lunch aide approached, Boljesic said.

The following day a school custodian said he heard a shot gun fired from the wooded area.

Patrol cars also were increased in this area, Boljesic said.

"I think it's good that parents are concerned about the situation," said Lucian Domin, a social worker at Walker Elementary School, which is in the Wayne-Westland School District.

"I think there's also a great over-reaction," he said adding that the man may have been a neighbor walking in the woods.

Stories about Ninja warriors and men with axes circulated in the schools, Domin said.

Anyone with information about the case is asked to call Canton police, 397-1000.

Four seats available in SC election

Four seats will be available on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees in this spring's election with at least one new trustee assured of election.

Rosina Raymond of Livonia, the board's senior member, announced she wouldn't be seeking re-election.

Raymond's six-year seat is open. Seats held by board president Mary Breen of Plymouth Township and board members Harry Greenleaf and Jack Kirksey, both of Livonia, are also up for election this year. Candidates have until Tuesday, April 25, to file for the seats, said Schoolcraft director of institutional advancement Sandra Florek.

At this point, no incumbents have filed, though Florek said that wasn't unusual.

In all, three six-year seats and one four-year seat will be decided.

Candidates must live within the Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Garden City, Clarenceville or Northville public school districts. Residents living in a small portion of the Novi public school district are also eligible.

Nominating petitions can be obtained at college president Richard McDowell's office in the Grote Administration building on the school's main campus, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

The board usually meets the fourth Wednesday of each month. Trustees serve without pay.

Group works for 'chemical-free' roommate choice

By Susan Rosiek staff writer

An ad hoc committee is urging State Rep. David Honigman to re-introduce a bill allowing students at all state colleges and universities to request roommates who don't drink alcoholic beverages or take illicit drugs.

The push for a new state law comes despite a voluntary pledge from 13 of the state's 15 public colleges and universities.

"I'm glad they're doing something positive, but I'm skeptical," said U.S. District Judge Bernard Friedman, leader of the ad hoc committee lobbying for the "chemical-free" option.

"The problem that I have not doing it by legislation is they (colleges and universities) can discontinue it any time they want," said Friedman, whose committee has backed the proposal for the past two years.

In a letter to Honigman last week, Friedman said legislation is needed to "ensure continuation of the chemical-free option."

"The only thing that will guarantee it year after year is legislation," agreed committee member Lorna McEwen, a publicist for the chemical dependency programs at Henry Ford Hospital-West Bloomfield.

Both Friedman and McEwen point to Western Michigan University's "experimental program" that offers students an option to live in non-smoking, non-alcohol and limited-visitation dorms beginning in the fall.

Both praised the WMU administration's efforts but noted that the program is experimental.

HONIGMAN'S proposed bill would also require the state's 44 private colleges to give students the choice of a non-drinking roommate, as they now offer the option of a non-smoking roommate.

Honigman introduced the bill last year, but it never made it out of committee after the public and private educational institutions announced their opposition.

Dr. Glenn Stevens of the Council of College Presidents, representing the state's 15 public schools, has said previously that the issue is more complex than a mere check-off on a housing application.

"It's a complicated issue. The university is entering into a contractual agreement with students," Stevens said in an earlier interview with the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

"What controls can the university reasonably implement to enforce such a contract?"

Council members oppose the legislation, he said, because compliance is best left up to the individual school administrations.

Friedman, however, said the issue involves students' rights.

"A student has a right to be in a chemical-free environment," Friedman said, noting he handled many alcohol-related cases as a 48th District Court judge.

Honigman, R-West Bloomfield,

"A student has a right to be in a chemical-free environment."

— Bernard Friedman
U.S. District Judge

met with representatives from 13 of the state's 15 public institutions Feb. 24 at Oakland University. The representatives, vice presidents for student affairs, agreed to include the chemical-free housing option on their schools' applications forms, according to OU student affairs vice president Wilma Ray-Bledsoe.

REPRESENTATIVES of Michigan State University and Northern Michigan University were absent. Last month Northern officials said beginning this fall they plan to offer students an opportunity to select roommates who do not use alcohol by checking off that option on the housing application.

But Robert Underwood, the director of student housing at MSU, is unsure whether MSU housing applications will offer students the option.

"There are lots of problems connected with it," said Underwood. "Housing operators are totally at the mercy of the person filling out the form. Habits change. Conflicts arise. Then the university is held in low esteem. It's not an easy thing."

Robert Hughes, director of student housing at the University of Michigan, was unaware of state legislation to get the option placed on housing applications, but said U-M will begin offering students a choice come September.

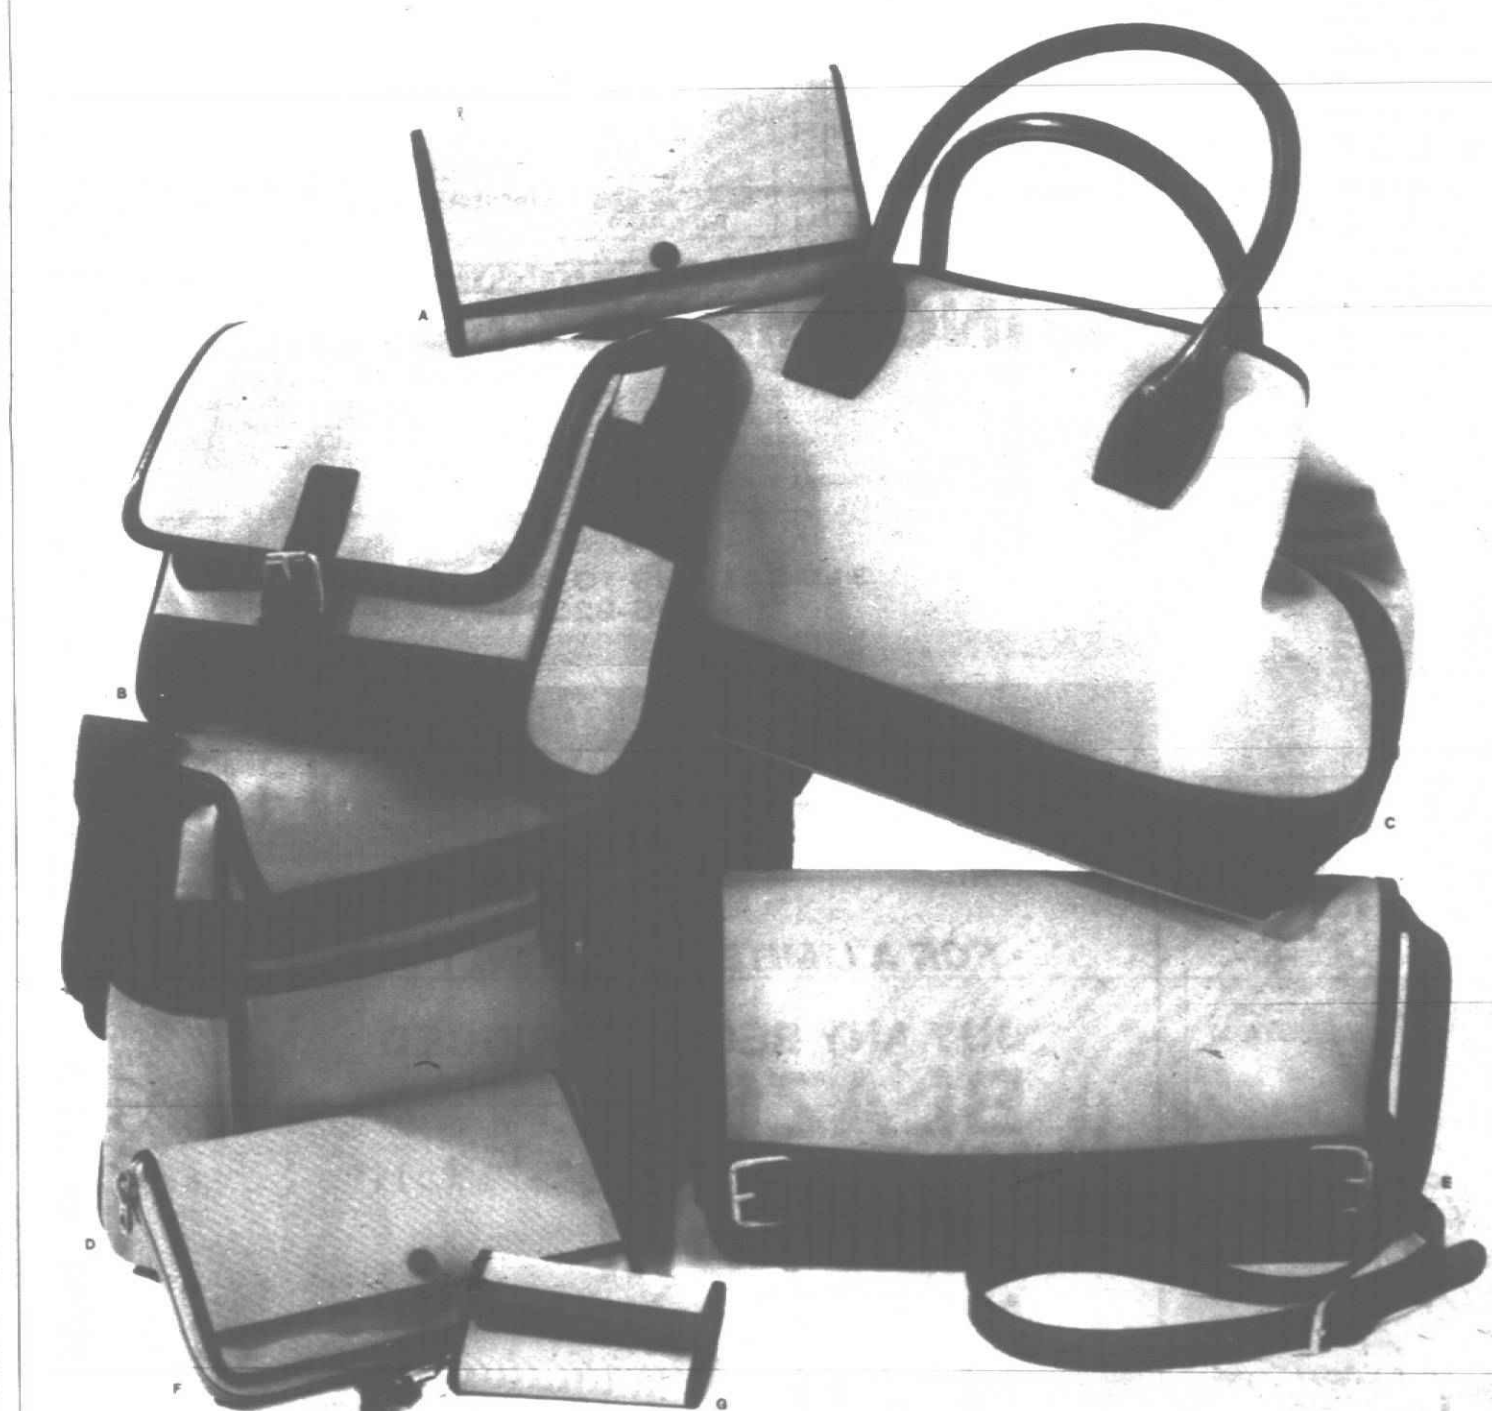

"We will give students an opportunity to choose a chemical-free roommate," Hughes said. "It has nothing to do with legislation. This is just something we are going to do."

Deborah McNish, associate director of auxiliary operations and housing for Eastern Michigan University, served on a state task force a year ago that addressed the issue.

"See, we will comply," McNish said. "People have already started signing up about a week ago. It looks like a big hit. That's positive."

Honigman, R-West Bloomfield,

Accusations fly at abortion talk

The auditorium may have been "packed" in more ways than one Tuesday afternoon during a lecture on the Supreme Court decision on abortion.

An Oakland University administrator was accused of leading an audience with pro-life supporters and prodding them with questions to ask the pro-choice speaker.

The speaker was Sarah Weddington, best known as the lawyer who successfully argued the Roe vs. Wade case to the U.S. Supreme Court, granting women the constitutional right to continue or terminate an unwanted pregnancy.

"I'm upset because an administrator, David Strubler, was seen by several of us standing outside the auditorium and handing out slips of paper with well-prepared questions," said Rebecca Warner, assistant professor of sociology. "I'm an employee of the university, and I don't think it's appropriate for me to provide my students with questions."

STRUBLER, MANAGER of Employment and Staff Development at OU and an ardent pro-life supporter, would not comment on the charges.

"Abortion is a very controversial issue," he said. "For that reason, I think that accusations will be made on both sides."

Strubler admitted he was disappointed that only one side of the issue was represented at the forum.

Paul Franklin, chairperson of the student life lecture board which arranged the program, said he didn't think it was necessary to bring in a speaker with the opposing viewpoint.

"This is not an election issue," Franklin said. "We've had pro-life speakers before, and we've had both sides debating together."

"But she (Weddington) is one of a kind. She's the only person to win an abortion case in the Supreme Court."

In her speech, Weddington said she thought the U.S. Supreme Court may eventually grant states the right to regulate abortion legislation "more broadly."

But she maintained her position that "right to make the final decision, not the state."

SEVERAL STUDENTS protested her stand and at least one quoted Bible scriptures to make his point.

"I'm appealing to people's moral conscience," said one student. "Given that the mark of a civilized society is to protect its weakest members, what gives society the right to terminate the life of an unborn child?"

Near the end of her speech, Weddington told the audience she had been informed that "a gentleman was handing out questions" to students.

At a reception afterward, Weddington said she "wondered if any of the women asked the questions sincerely or whether they were simply asking the man's ques-

Fuming State bills on drilling strike grass-roots support

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

A grass-roots group from Northville wants Livonia to join in its crusade to keep oil and gas drilling operations out of heavily populated residential areas.

The group, the Northville Preservation Association, is seeking state legislation that would give municipalities the power to say no to oil or gas drilling in their community.

Under present state law, townships have no local control over either operation, while cities do. Before drilling in Livonia, companies first must get permission from the Livonia City Council.

ASSOCIATION REPRESENTATIVE Carol Andrikides asked the council last Wednesday to urge state lawmakers to support two bills that would be introduced in the Michigan House by Rep. Gerald H. Law, R-Plymouth. Law's 36th District includes Northville.

"Only cities and villages are allowed local controls," Andrikides said. "And we found that the ordinances of cities and villages were being challenged in the courts."

Livonia city attorney Harry Tatigian agreed that the controls the city now puts on oil and gas drilling "may not be enough" if either industry were to challenge Livonia's ordinance in court.

"This isn't a problem — not yet," Tatigian said. "But we don't know, for no one has tried to get a drilling permit under our zoning ordinance."

The council sent the association's request for support to its legislative committee for further study.

One bill to be introduced by Law would allow townships to put controls on local drilling operations. The second bill would require oil and gas companies to hold a public hearing in the area in which they plan to drill before receiving a permit from the Department of Natural Resources.

The second bill also would require drillers to issue an environmental impact study on the area to be drilled.

THE POSSIBILITY of having oil and gas drilling rigs in back yards surfaced last year when drilling representatives began offering homeowners in northwest Livonia $100 if they would sign an oil and gas exploration lease.

Many of the homeowners lived on Hickory, Morningstar, Jahn and Meadowview streets in the Livonia Hills subdivision.

Concerned, the homeowners took their questions to city officials. Can a company legally drill for gas or oil in Livonia?

City officials told them a permit is needed to drill in Livonia. They also agreed to notify the homeowners if any company sought permission to drill here.

DRILLING COMPANY representatives last year also made the rounds of homes in Northville, Farmington Hills and Novi.

For some of these homeowners, the possibility of oil and gas rigs in their back yards gave birth to the Northville Preservation Association.

"The group was formed to research the effects of gas and oil wells in densely populated areas," Andrikides said.

All the data the group collected regarding residential oil and gas drilling was included in a thick packet given Wednesday to the council.

The goal of Michigan is to move from 15th place in oil and gas production to No. 1 among producing states," Andrikides said. "The increase will not only come from current fields in northern Michigan but from densely populated areas including Wayne and Oakland counties."

WITH TODAY'S technology, acres of land are not needed for a drilling operation, Tatigian said. "Livonia is well-developed on the surface but it doesn't take much area to put a hole in the ground to tap into underground rivers," Tatigian said. "These are very small rigs."

Drillers can drill sideways from a vacant lot, Meadowview resident Joe Mysliwiec said.

"They can drill under homes. What if basements start to crack? What if wells get contaminated? What about the waste from drilling that has to be disposed of?"

Property owners next to a drilling operation would have to deal with obnoxious odors, noise, pipelines, truck traffic, flare-off stacks for waste fumes, large oil storage tanks, hydrogen sulfide gas, water and soil contamination and the possibility of fires and explosions, Andrikides said. According to the Resource Conservation Act of 1980, Andrikides said the oil and gas industry is exempt from hazardous waste regulations.

The association is backed in its quest for tougher local legislation by Northville Township, Farmington Hills, Novi, the Michigan Township Association, the Wayne County Health Department, the Wayne County Environmental Health Division and numerous environmentalist groups, she said.

LAW SAID he had no illusions about the fight he faced in Lansing in giving municipalities more control over gas and oil operations.

"Passing such legislation will not be easy as the DNR and the oil and gas industry have indicated that they will oppose it," Law said. "However, we are prepared for a long hard fight to make sure our communities are protected."

After taking numerous seismographic soundings in Livonia last year, the industry might have put local drilling on hold for two reasons, Mysliwiec said.

"There was a heavy reaction from homeowners. Also, gas and oil prices have not been rising," Mysliwiec said.

Stress to be target of April 2 lecture

Stress is inevitable. It's how it is handled that makes the difference for a proper mental outlook.

From 7-9 p.m. Sunday, April 2, the Midwest Center for Stress and Anxiety is sponsoring a lecture on the topic of Agoraphobia — the intense fear of making mistakes and losing control in public places — at the Michigan Inn.

The April 2 lecture is free. The Michigan Inn, a 412-room, full-service hotel located on 16400

J.L. Hudson Drive in Southfield, will be the Sheraton Southfield Hotel sometime in the spring of 1989. For more information on the Midwest Center for Stress and Anxiety lecture, call (419) 898-4357 or call the Michigan Inn at (313) 559-6500.

How to tell Observer about event

Faced with the prospect of writing your first press release in the near future? Don't despair. Don't disparage your fellow club members for giving you the task.

Arm yourself with a paper and pen or typewriter and answer the following questions. You'll be well on your way to providing us with the necessary information.

• What is the event?
• Who's sponsoring it?
• Who are the participants?

• When is it taking place?
• Where is it occurring?
• At what time is the event scheduled?
• Why is this event taking place?
• Where can people buy tickets?
• How much is admission?
• Who can the public call for further information?

Please provide the Observer with the name and telephone number of a person with whom we can verify the information.

If you are submitting a photo for our consideration, please keep in mind that black and white pictures reproduce the best. Snapshots of large groups don't reproduce well and aren't considered suitable for publication. As a rule we don't publish photographs depicting the presentation of checks or plaques.

Send the information to the Observer Newspapers, 469 S. Main, Plymouth 48170.

County applauds success of area youth programs

Throughout Wayne County, youth assistance programs offer young offenders an alternative to juvenile detention homes.

Recognizing the success of youth assistance programs, County Executive Edward McNamara has declared this week Youth Assistance Week in the county.

"The program has a very high success rate, strong community involvement through volunteer counselors and strong support from the police departments," McNamara said.

An awards presentation at McNamara's downtown office launched the week's activities. Some honorees were major contributors to the program, including the Skillman Foundation, Hudson-Webber Foundation and Kellogg Foundation.

Program directors receiving honors included Sue Jimenez, Livonia; Tom O'Connor, Redford Township; Joe Goodrid, Garden City and Sue Davis, Plymouth-Canton.

More than 250 people, including community leaders, parents, youths and directors were invited to the program. Juvenile Judges Frances Pitts and Y. Gladys Barman were guest speakers.

Initiated seven years ago in Livonia, youth assistance now has programs operating in 19 Wayne County communities, including Livonia, Redford Township, Garden City and Plymouth-Canton.

Youth assistance moves delinquent youths through a series of activities designed to alter their behavior and permanently divert them out of the juvenile justice system.

"That is the basic idea behind the Youth Assistance programs in Wayne County," said McNamara. "The objective is to identify the youth who is headed for trouble, get him and his parents into counseling and try to redirect his life."

Program activities include behavioral contracting, one-to-one counseling with a volunteer, life skills classes, work service and specialized services like tutorial assistance, job placement and court visitation.

Family members actively participate in the program through group sessions on parenting skills and drug and alcohol education.

gram in January 1986.

The state of Michigan, through the Department of Social Services, has provided funds to the Michigan Training and Resource Center to initiate youth assistance in six additional Wayne County cities.

Program development is currently underway in Wayne, Wyandotte, Lincoln Park, Riverview, Southgate and Trenton.

Citizens with questions about the program, or who want information about initiating the service in their communities, should contact their local city hall or the Michigan Training and Resource Center.

Detroit programs are under the supervision of the Wayne County Juvenile Court. All other programs have local autonomy, local control and local funding. Community involvement and a high success rate are factors which result in long-term commitment and local financial support, according to program directors.

The Youth Assistance program directors and the Michigan Training and Resource Center staff recently

Marshmallow drop planned for Friday

A blizzard of marshmallows will greet participants during Wayne County Parks' annual "Great Marshmallow Drop," Friday.

A county tradition since 1978, the annual Good Friday event will be held 11 a.m. in Hines Park. Children will gather at the Nankin Mills Picnic Area, Hines Drive and Farmington Road, Westland. Marshmallows will be dropped from a helicopter hovering over the park at an altitude of 200 feet.

Children are encouraged to gather marshmallows and exchange them for a prize-filled Easter egg. Children will be divided into age groups to give each child a fair chance at marshmallow gathering.

The event will also be held 9 a.m. in Elizabeth Park, Trenton. The rain date is Saturday, March 25.

The marshmallow drop is the kick-off for spring activities in the parks.

SPRING PARK activities continue with the first "Saturday in the Park" event, May 6. From then through Sept. 23, six miles of the Hines Drive will be closed to motor traffic between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. to provide greater park access for bicyclists, joggers and strollers.

Hines Drive will be closed from the Warrendale Picnic Area, west of Outer Drive, Dearborn Heights, to the Nankin Mills Station, near Ann Arbor Trail, Westland. Parking will be available at the Helms Haven, Warrendale, Merriman Hollow and Nankin Mills picnic areas.

Other spring events include Mud Day and the Nursery School Olympics.

Mud Day allows youngsters the chance to play in a specially-created mud pool. The event is highlighted by the crowning of Mr. and Ms. Mud. The annual event will be held 11 a.m. Saturday, May 13 at the Nankin Mills Picnic Area. The event is co-sponsored by Tubs and Tumbler Coin Laundry.

The Nursery School Olympics are designed for children age 3-4. Events include (very) miniature golf, marshmallow shot put, paper plate discus toss and Big Wheels grand prix. All children are awarded a commemorative ribbon for their participation. The event is co-sponsored by the Greater Detroit Cooperative Nursery Council.

Additional information on spring parks activities is available by calling recreation and special events manager Vic Chiasson at 261-1990.

DRC-to-Detroit bus to resume its route

The Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation (SMART) has resumed weekend bus service between downtown Detroit and Ladbroke Detroit Race Course.

One trip in each direction will be operated every Friday, Saturday and Sunday during the racing season.

Trips to the DRC leave downtown Detroit on Woodward at Monroe near the Kern Block newsstand. Return trips leave in front of the DRC grandstand entrance.

Fare is $1.75 each way, which must be paid in cash or with SMART exact fare tickets. No transfers. SMART cards or senior citizens discounts may be used.

Good Friday, March 24, SMART service to the DRC will leave at 12:15 p.m. and return at 7 p.m. to accommodate an earlier post time at DRC on that day.

SMART also offers service to DRC on Route 285-Middlebelt, which operates along Middlebelt, between Farmington Hills and Metropolitan Airport. Connections to this route can be made from SMART Route 206-Michigan Avenue and from other SMART and DOT routes.

For more information, call the SMART Office of Customer Information, 962-5515.

Art contest views Constitution

Students from kindergarten through graduate school will receive the opportunity to display their artistic talent this spring through a contest sponsored by the Michigan Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution.

The theme of this year's competition is "The United States Constitution — the Past, Present and Future."

Artwork will be judged in eight categories: paintings, drawings, collages, sculptures, mixed media and fiber arts.

Artists will compete in five categories: kindergarten-grade 3, grade 4-6, grade 7-9, grade 10-12 and college/adult education.

Each student may submit one entry. Entries must be received by Friday, April 14.

Entry forms and guidelines are available by writing the Michigan Bicentennial Commission, Department of Management & Budget, P.O. Box 30026, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

Additional information is available by calling (517) 335-4460.

School cuts

They would go deep in district

THE PLYMOUTH CANTON school district this week announced the budget cuts it will make if voters reject a 4-mill property tax increase at the polls on June 12.

Those cuts would mean the elimination of 75 teachers, and teachers are the heart of the educational system.

We acknowledge that the school board must face the reality of a millage defeat, but we hope the school board isn't using the list of proposed cuts as a scare tactic to encourage voters to approve the millage increase.

Crying wolf won't help during a year in which the property tax assessments of residents in Plymouth and Canton have gone up 15 to 17 percent, and in which a battle over education spending and taxes is going on in Lansing.

The board should look carefully at what's going on in Lansing. There's a showdown between Gov. James Blanchard and education groups over the reform of the school financing system.

According to news reports, Blanchard is trying to portray education groups as greedy protectors of mediocre schools who are making a grab for more state money to throw at old education problems.

However, there's an indication that politics may get in the way of any reform of the school tax system. State Sen. John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, who is expected to be the Republican candidate for governor in 1990, and Blanchard are at odds over reforms that could lead to tax increases.

With that showdown going on in Lansing, there will be more public attention paid to school financing.

And that just may mean voters in the Plymouth Canton district will be taking a tougher look at what's going on in the district.

If a school financing reform package does emerge from Lansing, it won't help the school district next year.

That means the board needs to sell its millage or else look at making the following cuts:

- the layoff of 75 teachers, saving the district $2 million;
- two administrative positions, saving $52,251;
- after school activities, trimming $29,520;

Alcohol-free

Students must have a choice

IT'S EXCITING that starting this fall nearly all of Michigan's public colleges and universities will give students the option of alcohol-free rooming.

It appears the only holdout is Michigan State University. MSU officials say they're still unsure whether to allow students to request non-drinking roommates. That's too bad, because MSU's dormitory system is by far the largest of any institution of higher learning in the state.

We urge MSU officials to join their public college and university counterparts before fall term housing applications start pouring in.

That issue aside, credit is due those other institutions of higher learning who have adopted the alcohol-free option and to people who urged them to do so.

It's a diverse lot, with members ranging from West Bloomfield High School senior Eric Worley, who testified before a state legislative committee that it was his right to have the choice of a roommate who didn't use alcohol, to federal Judge Bernard Friedman, who was disturbed at the number of young people who came before him for alcohol and drug-related offenses.

Documentation that students recovering from substance abuse problems must have a safe place to live was provided by representatives of Maple Grove Youth Treatment Center in West Bloomfield.

In the end, it took two responsive legislators to put enough pressure on the colleges and universities to get them to agree that students should have the same right to choose a non-drinking roommate, as they now have to choose a non-smoking roommate.

STATE REP. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, drew up the proposed legislation, while state Rep. Burton Leland, D-Detroit, when he was chair of the House Committee on Colleges and Universities, agreed to delay action on the bill before the committee, giving the universities until this spring to respond and ward off the legislation.

Honigman previously had insisted on total compliance from public colleges and universities. He plans to meet with area members of an ad hoc committee to discuss the next move. It's unfortunate that it took the threat of legislation to get public schools to make a commitment. Honigman has had no response from the association that represents private colleges.

We hope that private colleges will follow the lead of their public counterparts.

Although initially aimed at providing a safe

- aides for K-5, saving $7,450;
- aides for 6-12, saving $7,725;
- high school athletics, at a $126,721 savings;
- eliminating middle school sports, saving $57,050;
- audio-visual technician, saving $7,620;
- trimming $21,530 in central office costs;
- eliminating 4.5 clerical positions, saving $73,951;
- eliminating the curriculum center, saving $63,917;
- trimming 16.5 custodial positions, saving $336,000;
- saving $70,000 in maintenance costs;
- cutting $5,500 in the high school music budget;
- eliminating the print shop, saving $32,000;
- cutting $20,000 in staff development funding;
- trimming $88,671 in special education;
- cutting $75,000 in transportation costs;
- cutting $26,868 in vocational education funding;
- cutting $22,510 in warehouse operations; and
- eliminating WSDP, the student radio station at a $34,509 savings.

But while the board has to face cuts if the millage proposal fails, we would encourage them to stress the positive points in their millage campaign.

The board went a long way toward that when it announced what it will restore $1.8 million to school programs, if the millage is approved.

The board's shopping list includes rehiring 24 teachers, opening school buildings for community activities, restoring the textbook budget, improving grants to individual schools for discretionary spending and the elimination of the pay to play fees.

It's a good agenda, but, but the tough task will be to sell it to voters who are distressed and distracted by their property tax bills, and probably confused by what's going on in Lansing.

We think board members and others interested in having the school millage approved should be hitting the bricks soon in their quest to convince voters that the district needs the money.

It's going to be a tough selling job. We wish them good luck.

Although initially aimed at providing a safe haven for college students recovering from substance abuse problems, the alcohol-free room option is now much broader. It's an acknowledgment that students have made a lot of choices about their lives.

It will also aid students who come from homes where alcohol has been a problem, students whose religion doesn't allow them to drink and students who simply don't want alcohol-related parties in their rooms.

IT MAY even lead to an overall reduction in college-age drinking.

Rather than weakening their position on in loco parentis (charged with a parent's rights, duties and responsibilities), the schools have taken a further step toward increased student rights. Students have another opportunity to determine the kind of lifestyle they want.

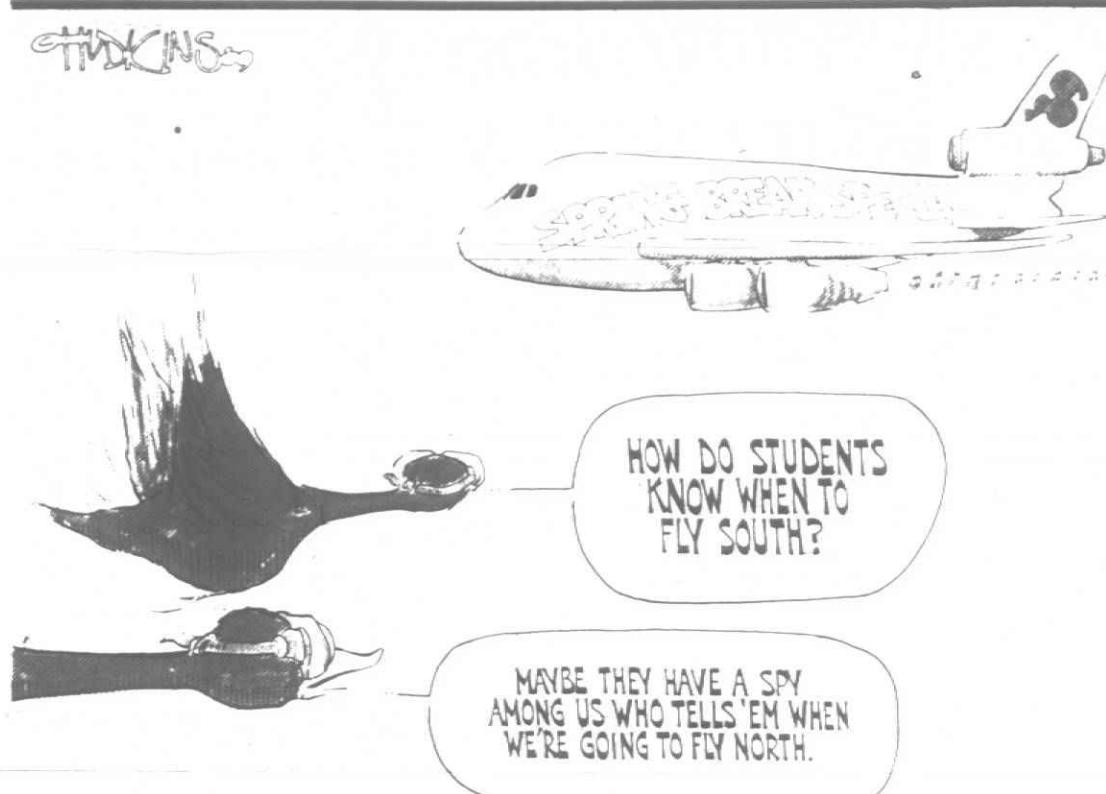

We urge parents to take the first step in separating from their college-bound students and allow them to fill out their student housing applications for themselves.

That what's happening at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, which this fall will have a wing for students who choose not to drink or use drugs for any reason.

Making the decision to choose a roommate who doesn't smoke or who doesn't drink must be the student's choice, for it will be the student who must enforce it.

The state's public institutions of higher learning can take pride in the example they are setting for the rest of the nation in stepping up to the fact that drinking is a choice, not a necessary part of college life.

We hope that the public schools will live up to the spirit of their voluntary, verbal agreement, and we call upon MSU and the state's private colleges to make it unanimous.

to these wise words

NOTHING is more important than hearing from the reader — especially when your comments have to do with an issue of overriding social significance.

Lately we've been reading a lot about education, its financing and its effectiveness in educating our children. A while back, you may recall, a concerned teacher wrote to express disgruntlement with academics. Because of its importance, education is always a welcome subject in this column.

Now, a student has written in to express his concerns. I know you'll find the remarks by Hans Wild compelling. Hans, a student at Stevenson High School in Sterling Heights, saw a copy of the other column via teacher Marie Brown.

This is what Hans has to say. "The system is going downhill rapidly, and several groups of people are to blame."

"THE ATTITUDES of a portion of the students are totally wrong. As the teacher in the previous article stated, children and teens see school as a 'place to come and socialize,' and this is very true."

"These students are often the same ones who are late for class. Also, a lot of students declare that in a certain class, or just school in general, is impossible to do well. However, these are, more often than not, the students who do not apply themselves; they don't try to do well. These are the students who have the wrong attitude.

"I feel that the acquiring of this attitude should not be blamed solely on the student, but also on the student's parents. All parents should push their children to develop good homework and study habits."

"There are also a few teachers who have the wrong school attitude. These are the teachers who hand their students a textbook, assign a few questions or problems each day, read off the answers the next day and give a test every other week."

"This is not teaching."

"A teacher must know more about a subject than just what is in the textbook. A teacher must teach. He should help students with problems, answer questions, and lecture, in-depth on material that a student can not get out of a regular textbook. This, in turn, is teaching."

Steve Barnaby is managing editor of the 12 Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

"Also to blame for the failing educational system are the administrators. Administrators are very naive when it comes to what goes on in the classroom. They do not see the bad attitudes of the teachers and the students. They do not know what 'school life' is all about. They live in their own 'office' world."

"When it comes to disciplinary actions, the administrators are much too easy, and therefore, repetitious offenders are common."

"It is time that the administrators come down to earth and find out what really goes on in their schools. And when they find out the problems, they must do something to correct them."

Research has clearly indicated that some 3-year-old children, especially boys, who enter kindergarten may not be ready and can have problems in school because of the lack of readiness.

Allowing trained teachers to work with such children in a developmental kindergarten setting can pay positive dividends."

The developmental kindergarten concept takes into consideration the fact that children are different — some walk sooner than others or talk sooner than others, and some are not necessarily ready for kindergarten just because they are 5 years old.

Baseball relieves stress

THERE ARE many important issues weighing heavy on your minds and those issues are very pressing. They are also depressing.

My mind for a day hasn't room for such thoughts. It's too busy drifting back to the stands behind first base at a stadium where palm trees cast shadows over the right field fence. Only a week ago that wandering mind was joined by a body. If you've ever seen spring training baseball, you know why it's hard to leave it behind.

This game was played at the winter home of the New York Mets, which, according to spring training guides, is in Port St. Lucie, but according to promotional brochures and billboards is actually in West St. Lucie, or maybe it is West Port St. Lucie. I get confused.

PORT ST. LUCIE is not your household word. As I prepared for Florida, no one I talked with knew where it was. I told friends it was near Port St. Ricky Ricardo and generally got in return that type of look you get when people think you really do need a vacation.

Port St. Lucie has been in Florida a long time. There is even a Club

Rich Perlberg

Med there. But the area recently has taken off. The couple we traveled with could document the rapid growth of housing, developments, shopping malls and commercial strip developments.

There are now two Port St. Lucie daily newspapers. Can a Port St. Lucie JOA be far behind?

But the Mets are not in Port St. Lucie. They are west of the river in West Port St. Lucie, which, near as I could tell, consists of a baseball park, a golf course and hundreds of acres of flat, grassy land with periodic signs saying, "Site of New Mega Mall."

ALL OF this is immaterial. I don't care to talk today about the malling of America, the paving of pastures or even the use of government money to build baseball parks to lure major league baseball teams from one Florida city to another. That is what is happening in Florida, where a monument stands in front of the Mets' Florida stadium in appreciation to county taxpayers whose money built the park in 1988.

I don't care about these things, just as I don't care that I was watching the New York Mets, probably the only team I dislike more than the New York Yankees. I even wore a Mets cap.

You really cannot dislike anything at a spring training game. Even the boots for putting millionaire Darryl Strawberry were good-natured. In a world of oranges and grapefruits, there is little room for serious raspberries.

BASEBALL is a wonderful sport. There is not the aggression, the taking of turf that marks other sports. How many other sports do you know where the defense gets the ball?

In baseball you get the full measure of your opponent. There is no stalling in baseball. No holding the ball until the clock runs out. The other team always gets its last bat. It ain't over 'til it's over.

As good as the game gets during the season when lazy summer days turn into tension-packed, late-inning rallies, there may be no better time and place for baseball than in Florida in March.

The grass is green, the sky is blue, the sound of the bat on the ball is loud and true. Young men are playing a child's game while children of all ages bask in both the sun and the dreamed-of glory.

School's prepping

Q: I have been told my son should be placed in kindergarten. What is kindergarten and is it good for my son? Is he stupid?

A: Kindergarten, developmental kindergarten or pre-kindergarten is for those students who are old enough to attend regular kindergarten but who need the luxury of another year of schooling before entering the mainstream.

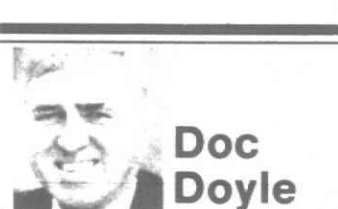

It does not mean that your child is stupid. Assuming appropriate testing has been given, it could mean his fine motor development, hand-eye coordination, language and communications skills or social or emotional level requires some special attention prior to going into regular kindergarten.

Research has clearly indicated that some 3-year-old children, especially boys, who enter kindergarten may not be ready and can have problems in school because of the lack of readiness.

A major problem to many school districts is cost and space. It requires additional teachers, space, materials, transportation and supervision.

Another problem is that the pre-kindergarten population usually continues to grow in numbers. In one school district, the percent went from 6 percent to 34 percent in three years. Some districts put a "cap" on the number to be admitted.

What is really needed is a revised curriculum that is driven less by textbooks and dittos, and more by a developmental approach that allows students to progress in hands-on activities in a cooperative learning environment, which takes into consideration the social, emotional and academic readiness of the child.

Dr. James Doyle is an associate superintendent in the Troy School District. The answers provided here are the opinions of Doyle and not the Troy School District. Questions for this column should be sent to Doc Doyle c/o the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

African American unit: a help or hindrance?

By Tim Richard
staff writer

The state Senate's vote to create an African American Affairs Commission left Sen. Jack Faxon shaking his head.

"It looks better on paper than in terms of actual functions. We should enforce the civil rights laws . . . provide better social services . . . use it on the African American Museum in Detroit," said Faxon, D-Farmington Hills.

He joined four Republicans in opposing two bills to create an African American Affairs Commission and an African American Interagency Council within the administration. Senate Bills 198 and 199 were passed 32-5.

All other Observer & Eccentric area senators voted yes but took no part in the debate.

"I would like to remove my name as a co-sponsor," said Sen. Doug Carl, R-Utica, who voted no. Carl said his change of heart was due to "our impending fiscal problems and our inability to deliver on property tax reform."

FAXON WAS a member of the 1961 Constitutional Convention, which created a Civil Rights Commission to achieve compliance with anti-discrimination laws.

The 25-year legislative veteran said the CRC is underfunded, and the new African American Commission will only drain off $250,000 to $300,000 for per diem, travel, staff and office expenses, according to a Senate staff analysis.

Freshman Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, saw the issue as one of achieving respect for people whose cultural roots are in Africa. "We've never had cultural recognition. We have never been compensated for 200 years of bondage," said Smith.

— Sen. Jack Faxon,
D-Farmington Hills

relating stories from "Roots" about the 50 percent death rate aboard slave ships.

"We're proud we helped build this country for free — and still have not been compensated."

The sponsor, Sen. Phil Arthurs, R-Whitehall, said the AAAC would "review trends in our society . . . review state public policy, existing actions, housing, employment, justice."

IF THE HOUSE also passes Arthurs' bill, a 15-member AAAC would, according to a staff analysis:

- Stimulate the study of the status of African Americans.
- Develop unified policies to serve their needs.
- Advise elected officials on state policies concerning African Americans, particularly in employment, civil rights and political rights.
- Review and approve federal, state and private grants administered by an Office of African American Affairs.
- Promote African American entrepreneurship.
- Cooperate and coordinate activities with the Indian Affairs Commission, Michigan Women's Commission and Commission on Spanish-Speaking Affairs.

• Strengthen home life by directing attention to critical problems confronting American Americans in single-parent households.

The second body, a 16-member AAA Interagency Council, would consist of state department heads or their designated staff members. With no additional budget, it would be charged with developing the annual report of the AAAC.

FAXON ALSO deplored what he saw as a fad of changing the minority's name from Afro-American to colored to Negro to black to African American.

"It used to be, when people of that background were referred to as Afro-Americans, they took exception. They said, 'we've been Americans for hundreds of years.'"

"What about East Indians, who are very black in color but are not African Americans?" Faxon said. "This concept of hyphenated Americans is outdated."

Replied Smith: "We've had plenty of names over the years. We've never had the respect we deserve."

SC students can register by mail

Mail-in registration will be held Monday, April 3, through Friday, April 14, for spring term Schoolcraft College students.

Early enrollment ensures a better chance of placement in courses beginning Monday, May 8.

Day and evening classes are held on the main campus, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia, as well as at extension centers in Garden City and Plymouth-Canton.

New course offerings include: introduction to health careers, keyboarding, Word Perfect micro, introduction to computer art and design, introduction to DOS, college note taking, tool detailing and applied physics.

Additional information, including a copy of the full spring course schedule, is available by calling 462-4426.

Young inventors sought for science center contest

Young inventors are invited to participate in the Detroit Science Center's annual Gizmo contest.

The contest seeks design drawings for devices that will help people perform everyday tasks. Entries must be received by Monday, April 10.

Winning inventions will be displayed at the science center, 5020 John R, from April 23-29 as part of National Science and Technology Week.

The contest is divided into the Rube Goldberg division, for original inventions, and the Thomas Edison division, for improvements to existing inventions.

Students may enter either category or both. Students must draw their inventions on an 8½-by-11-inch piece of paper.

Additional information is available by calling 577-8400.

Marilyn Droz of Farmington Hills is the executive director of the Council for Children's Television and the Media. She believes adults should encourage responsible television viewing among children by setting a good example.

TV can be a teaching tool

By Rebecca Haynes
staff writer

MATTHEW DROZ MAY BE the only student in his sixth grade class who hasn't seen "Nightmare On Elm Street," but it doesn't seem to bother him.

"I don't really have a desire to watch it," said Matt, whose mother Marilyn is the executive director of the Council for Children's Television and the Media. "There are certain programs I'm not allowed to watch."

"I can't watch anything violent, like 'The Equalizer' or 'Wise Guy.' My favorites are TV sitcoms, like 'Family Ties' and 'Different Strokes,'" he said. "I don't usually watch TV. I like to do other things instead."

The Council was formed back in 1973 by the Junior League of Birmingham. Its main purpose is to encourage responsible television viewing as well as to suggest alternative activities.

"The Junior League funded us for three years and now I like to say we're self-sufficiently failing," said Marilyn, laughing. "But every time we think we're going to have to close our doors someone sends us a check and we keep going."

BASED IN West Bloomfield, the Council has written a program that's gone into the curriculum in many area schools. It covers commercials, violence, special effects, stereotypes and values and thinking skills.

"Our mailing list is almost 2,000," she said, adding members receive a monthly newsletter full of helpful hints. "We don't have regular membership meetings, but what we do do is offer a speaker's bureau to any of our members who belong to other organizations."

"One of the big things we do is to try to teach the kids about commercials," Marilyn said. "We're not against commercials, but there is a trend for them to go a little extreme. A lot of kids can't tell the difference between the commercials and the programs."

Some programs are nothing more than extended commercials, she said, citing the Transformers cartoon series as an example.

"Some of the toy companies have made cartoons solely to sell their toys," she said. "The Transformers program killed off all of its leading characters so the kids would have to run out and buy different Transformers."

Signs of spring were easy to spot at the spring arts and crafts show, sponsored by the city of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department.

The annual show was held Friday through Sunday, March 17-19, at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

About 75 craftspeople participated in the juried show. Many gear their crafts toward Easter and springtime, said Tom Willette, assistant recreation director for Plymouth.

The spring show has been held for about 14 years.

"It's been around for a long time," Willette said. "A lot of people know about it."

Admission isn't charged for the show, so it's hard to know exactly how many people attend. The parking lot at the Plymouth Cultural Center was full all three days, a good indicator of the show's success, Willette said.

"We had a real good crowd on Friday."

TYPICALLY, FRIDAY'S a slower day because many people are working, but this year's crowd was impressive.

"So we were happy about that," Willette said. The craftspeople were also pleased with the show.

"There's a lot of traffic coming through," said Carolyn Huffer of Canton, one of the participants. "It's good exposure for a small business person like me."

Huffer's business, "Now and Forever," is based at her home. She specializes in creating bridal headpieces and has been in business for almost three years.

Huffer was in the Christmas show and in last June's show, both sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department in Plymouth.

She also makes such accessories as bridal garters, silk bouquets, cake tops, pillows and bridal bags. Huffer has found that many show visitors will take a flier home and call her a few months down the road.

"Generally speaking, most of my business will come after the shows," she said. "But that's fine."

Judy Matteson of Walled Lake was a first-time participant in last weekend's show. Her business, "The Dead Tree," has a memorable motto: "Out on a Limb For You."

"It is so original that people will remember it," she said.

Bush strives to put his imprint on presidency

By Julie Brown
staff writer

George Bush has to walk a fine line.

His task is to put his own imprint on the presidency, according to Helen Thomas, White House bureau chief for United Press International. He's trying to put forth the idea of a less conservative, more compassionate White House.

"Yes, he is attempting to promote a more caring administration," Thomas said. At the same time, Bush, the ultimate team player during the eight years Ronald Reagan was in office, doesn't want to be disloyal to his chief benefactor.

Thomas was in Ann Arbor Tuesday, March 14, for a Waterman Town Hall lecture, presented by the Margaret Waterman Alumnae Group. During the lecture, held at the Michigan League, she talked about the early days of the Bush administration.

THE PRESIDENT has put the defeat of Sen. John Tower's nomination for Secretary of Defense behind him. Bush nominated Rep. Richard Cheney of Wyoming as defense secretary, and played it safe with that appointment, she said.

The Tower debacle "has led to comments that he has hit the deck crawling," Thomas said.

"At last, he has the job that he coveted for so long. When he comes down to earth, he will face many problems."

The national debt is among the problems Bush faces at home. He also has work to do in dealing with foreign countries.

Bush has tried to put his mean-spirited campaign against Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis behind him, she said. He's a hard worker and is at his desk early each morning.

"Some reporters are longing for the good old laid-back Reagan era."

Bush has demonstrated a conciliatory attitude toward the Congress, but the substance of that still has to be determined, Thomas said.

The president has assembled a predominantly white, male, Eastern establishment cabinet, with just one woman included. That's not much different from the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt, in which Frances Perkins served as labor secretary.

Bush apparently plans to keep his campaign promise of no new taxes, "although we will pay the bill one way or another," Thomas said.

RONALD REAGAN, the most conservative president of recent times, turned the country to the right, she said. He was the most protected and isolated president, "too often unaware but politically very shrewd. He slept at night. We didn't."

The Iran-Contra scandal was forgotten, perhaps too quickly, Thomas said.

"Sometimes it seemed to be a fantasy world." Reagan had a great sense of humor and was a master at delegation.

"Reagan ran the White House like a chairman of the board." Many of those he appointed left office under less than ideal circumstances.

"It got so in Washington that if you weren't indicted, you were a success."

Thomas, who has been covering the White House for UPI since 1960, had some kind words for Reagan.

The former president made a 180-degree turn after striking a remarkably close friendship with Mikhail Gorbachev. The men realized a nuclear war involving the United States and the Soviet Union could never be won.

The arms agreement "and the beginning of the end, we hope, of the Cold War," will be part of Reagan's legacy.

Thomas has covered seven administrations, and as the senior wire service correspondent, officially closes all presidential press conferences.

SHE WAS born in Winchester, Ky., in 1920, one of nine children of an immigrant Lebanese family. She grew up in Detroit and graduated from Wayne State University in 1942.

Thomas moved to Washington, D.C., starting her journalism career at the Washington Daily News.

A year later, she joined UPI's Washington bureau as a radio writer, and transferred to the national staff in 1956. She covered the Justice Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and joined the UPI White House staff after the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy.

Thomas, the author of "Dateline: White House," is the first woman to supervise coverage of the White House for a major news service. In 1975, she was the first woman elected president of the White House Correspondents Association. Thomas was inducted into the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame in 1986.

"I try to cover presidents as if they were human beings." That applies to First Ladies as well.

Barbara Bush, characterized as

"down to earth," is nevertheless not so liberated as to publicly oppose her husband on policy issues. She's dedicated to promoting literacy, "a worthy cause that can get a big boost under the White House spotlight."

Covering the White House doesn't endear the press to the public, she said.

"Sam Donaldson gets the most mail." Many letter writers don't approve of aggressive reporting, that's a case of people wanting to kill the messenger who brings bad news, Thomas said.

College hosts conference

Helen Thomas of United Press International will be the featured speaker at noon Saturday, April 15, at the annual conference of the Michigan Women's Studies Association.

The conference is cosponsored by the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College. It will be held at the Waterman Campus Center of the college, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

"We are delighted to be cosponsors," said Barbara Campau, coordinator of the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College. Michigan Women's Studies Association leaders contacted Schoolcraft officials to ask about cosponsorship.

Thomas is UPI's White House bureau chief. The conference theme is

"Women's Culture: Continuity and Change."

THE CONFERENCE will also include a panel, "Oral History of Early Childhood Development in Detroit from Notion to Reality." It will be presented by Michael O. Smith and Charlene Firestone.

A panel, "Cultural Shifts in Education," will explore what's happening in the education of women at community colleges and four-year schools. Panelists will be Patricia Coleman-Burns, chairwoman of the President's Commission on Status of Women at Wayne State University and a lecturer in black studies at WSU; Barbara Gell, vice president for student services at Schoolcraft College; and Grace Stewart, director of the Focus on Women program at Henry Ford Community College.

The conference will feature papers analyzing women's culture from historical and educational perspectives.

Most of the work for the conference is being done by the Michigan Women's Studies Association, Campau said. Schoolcraft College is providing the meeting facility and support assistance.

Price for the luncheon only is $15. Luncheon reservations must be received by April 12. Checks should be made payable to MWSA.

For more information, write: MWSA 1989 Conference Committee, 213 W. Main, Lansing Mich. 48933, or call (517) 373-9772.

Arts show: a success

MATTESON, a former Livonia resident, was enjoying her time at the show.

"I always liked Plymouth," she said, hoping to participate in this year's Plymouth Community Arts Council show, to be held during the Fall Festival.

Matteson found that business was just fine at the March 17-19 show.

"The kids come by and they see the little toys. They say, Oh, Mommy."

Matteson and her husband, David, have been in business together for about nine months. They specialize in wood items. Those items are cut and sanded, some are painted before they're sold while others are stained.

Learning On-off button's an effective censor

The Council doesn't get into letter writing campaigns and pressuring sponsors, networks or television or radio stations, she said.

"WE TRY not to get ugly," she said. "We may nip at their heels a little, but we aren't looking to put anyone out of business. If you don't like a show, don't watch it. The ratings will go down, the sponsors will go away and the show will be cancelled."

The group does write letters on occasion to the writers of various television programs.

"We'll tell them that they have a lot more power than they think. One example is we'll ask them why they have to write into the script that a character is smoking," she said.

"The answers we usually get are that it's very boring to show two people talking so they'll have one of them smoke. On one particular show that I really like the main character smokes, and the answer I got after I told that letter was that the actor himself is a chain smoker."

"We try to stress that since 1937 television has been built with a censor button. It's called the on and off switch," said Marilyn, an elementary school teacher. "Our job is to encourage families to take the responsibility themselves."

"One of the tips we give is to keep games, books and other activities by the TV set," she said. "Then if your kid asks you what's on TV, you can say 'See, I don't know, but here's this great game you haven't played in a while.'"

THE COUNCIL is working on another school unit dealing with sex and television.

"Don't assume your child is laughing at a sexual joke because they understand it and they think it's funny," she said. "They're laughing because there's a soundtrack and they hear other people laughing."

Being realistic about and knowing your own values is another helpful hint for parents.

"If they see a show that deals with sexuality, tell them how you feel," Marilyn said. "Be vocal and don't be afraid. It's so much easier to scream at the girl on TV about what you think she did wrong than to scream at your own kids and lecture them about what they shouldn't do. They'll get the message and it won't be as threatening."

The Drex family has several specific rules surrounding television viewing.

"Before we watch TV we have to look at the TV Guide," Marilyn said. "Even if we know there's a show on at a specific time that we want to watch we still have to look at it because maybe there's something better on another channel we don't know about."

Television viewing during dinner is a no-go. Also, when Matt has friends over to the house they're there for socialization, not for TV watching.

"ANOTHER RULE we have is you either watch TV or you don't," she said. "You can't play with toys and have the TV on as background noise."

When Matt was small Marilyn said they used to watch educational programs like the National Geographic specials. She'd turn down the sound and do her own monologue in language more suitable to his age bracket, getting out maps and other books she might have in the house to help her explain things.

"We've always limited Matt's TV viewing," she said. "We did have a hard time with babysitters, you do have as much control, but we try to set the role model ourselves and my husband and I limit our own TV viewing."

Discussing the values of the characters on the shows is another way of getting your own values across to your children, Marilyn said.

"We also talk about commercials and who they're aimed toward," she said.

Many of the gains that were made in the television industry were lost during the Reagan administration, she said.

"He deregulated everything," Marilyn said. "The FCC used to limit the number of commercials you could show during children's programming, but they don't anymore."

Also, before deregulation a toy company would never have been permitted to produce cartoons based around toys they sold, she said.

"It's our hope that President Bush will bring some of these things back," she said. "He does seem to be family oriented."

"Our concern is kids," she said. "We don't work through threats. We try to use a positive approach."

Council gives TV viewing tips

The Council for Children's Television and Media offers the following tips for TV viewing.

- WATCH:
- TV with your child.
  - Programs your child is interested in watching.
  - Commercials carefully.
  - TV characters whose behavior your child may imitate.
  - TV characters who represent a wide variety of cultures and ideas.
  - Shows which express your attitudes.
  - Out for shows which do not express your attitudes.

DISCUSS:

- Problems and the ways TV programs solve them and other ways of problem solving.
- Violence and its effects.
- Make believe and real life.
- Alternatives to TV viewing.

CHOOSE:

- Total time your child may view TV daily or weekly.
- The times your child may watch TV.
- To have homework completed before TV viewing.
- The programs turned on in your home.

These tips are compiled and listed in a brochure provided by the Council. The Council is located at 33290 W 14 Mile, Suite 488, West Bloomfield. To reach them, call 489-5499.

"Choosing David's doctor was easy. I called Mount Carmel."

"I'd heard about Mount Carmel's excellent reputation in pediatrics. So I wanted the doctor I chose for David to be affiliated with the hospital. But I also wanted someone with an office near my home in Livonia. I called the Mount Carmel referral number and the woman who answered the phone put me in touch with several doctors who offered what I was looking for. The one I selected for David is wonderful. I couldn't have found him without the help I got from the referral service."

—Cheryl C. Latona

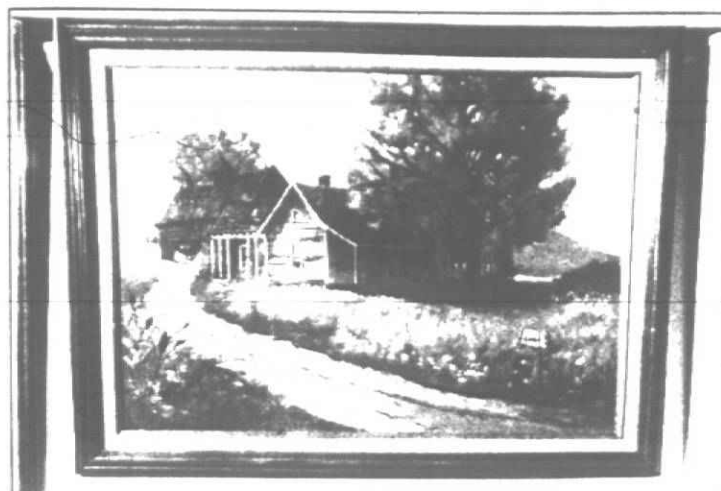

Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital can help find the right doctor for you, too. Someone near you who accepts your insurance. Someone who's affiliated with a hospital you can trust, and who specializes in the kind of care you need. Whatever you're looking for in a doctor, tell us about it. The service is free. We'll answer your questions, and even make an appointment for you, if you'd like.

"Autumn Farm" by Sylvia Wood is included in the collection at the gallery. The rental gallery is operated by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

Art gallery set to host annual sale

By Julie Brown
staff writer

YOU DON'T have to put up with bare walls at your home or workplace.

The art rental gallery operated by the Plymouth Community Arts Council offers something for just about everyone. Original watercolors, acrylics, photographs, serigraphs and some reproductions are featured.

Traditional and contemporary works are featured, along with just about everything in between. About "Ancestor" by Noelle Custer is featured in the gallery collection.

Newcomers plan an April auction

The Plymouth Newcomers will hold an art auction Saturday, April 8, at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer. The preview will be at 7 p.m., the auction at 8 p.m.

Proceeds from the fund-raising event will support First Step, a local domestic violence shelter.

Hors d'oeuvres and wine punch will be served throughout the evening. There will be a door prize; the winner must be present.

Donation is $4. Tickets are available at The Mole Hole, on Main Street in downtown Plymouth.

All art work is framed, matted and ready for hanging. Prices will range from $5 to $2,000, with many pieces in the $20 to $85 range.

Local checks and major credit cards will be accepted.

The annual auction will feature the work of a number of artists, including Dali, Calder, Chagall, Renoir, Rockwell, Neiman and Miro. Lithographs, oils, serigraphs, engravings, woodcuts and others will be included.

The auction will be presented by Oxford Art Galleries.

Beth Lurtz of Plymouth Township, a volunteer at the art rental gallery, looks over part of the collection. The gallery will hold its annual "Spring Cleaning Sale" Wednesday, April 5 and 12.

This year's sale will include some 150 pictures, with prices ranging from $10 to $500. Buyers will be able to pay by cash or check only; credit cards won't be accepted.

It used to be that gallery works were sold only during the annual sale. Gallery volunteers received some complaints about that policy from people who weren't able to get to the sale.

In order to accommodate more people, gallery works now are made available for sale throughout the year. Works must be in circulation for one year before being sold. Some pieces are part of the permanent collection and aren't made available to buyers.

"Last year, we had a really good sale," Gail said. "We anticipate a healthy crowd of interested art buyers" this year, she added.

Beth Lurtz, who has been volunteering at the gallery for about two years, enjoys the time she spends there. She bought one piece of art work last year, not during the "Spring Cleaning Sale."

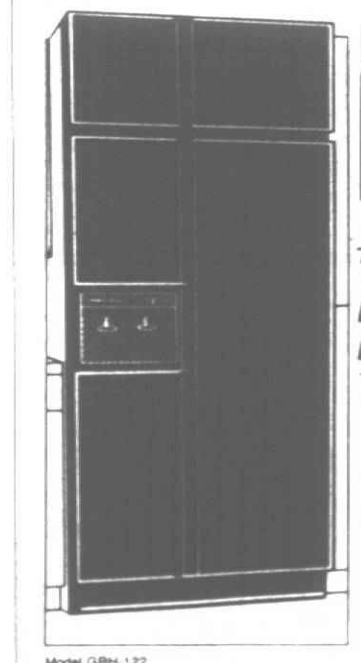

"I loved it and it worked." She has found that is true of other gallery defines the sacred as that which is beyond criticism or ridicule. By that definition, we live in a world where the sacred is difficult to find.

Considering the diversity of the human family and the evolutionary nature of understanding truth, an expectation of agreement is beyond reality.
But agreement is hardly necessary for respect. I may not understand any more about your religion than the fact that it is sacred to you, but that in itself should be enough to command respect. In fact, only when I can respect what is sacred in your life can I truly appreciate the sacred in my own life.
Perhaps a piece of the difficulty lies in a void of understanding. The media keeps us informed of the shortcomings or various religious groups. Stand-up comedians and talk show hosts alike have made religion a subject for their monologues. But it is for understanding why this or that concept is sacred to a particular group of people, even our well-educated society falls short.
A friend of mine recently returned from a business trip to Japan. While he was there, he was invited to a service in a Shinto temple. Although he still adheres to his own religion, I rather doubt that he would appreciate a sermon about the Shinto religion any more than if they were directed against his own.
BECAUSE HE has a sense of the sacred, even someone else's sacred, he does not need the love of tolerance to give the blessing of respect.
Perhaps we cannot all go to a Shinto temple. But we could do well to think about how we might educate ourselves and our children in the sacred and in the respect that is due to the sacred, their own as well as that of others.
Until then, we will have to settle for commercials in poor taste, insensitive authors and even death threats that reach around the globe.
The Rev. Robert Schaden is with Newman House at Schoolcraft Community College in Livonia.

church bulletin

Special services planned for Easter

The following churches have special services planned for Easter.

CHRIST OUR SAVIOR

Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, 14175 Farmington Road, Livonia, will be observing Holy Week and Easter with special services.

To help understand the meaning of the Passover, the congregation will share in a passover meal at 6 p.m. Maundy Thursday. A Communion service will follow at 7:30 p.m.

Good Friday will be observed with a service of the cross at 12:30 p.m. and a candlelight Tenebrae service at 7:30 p.m.

Easter Sunday will be celebrated with a 6:30 a.m. sunrise communion service and festival communion services at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Six choirs, vocal, instrumental and bells will highlight the worship with special music. Easter breakfast will be served by the men of the congregation from 6:30-10:30 a.m.

ECUMENICAL SERVICE

Seven Livonia churches will gather at noon Friday, March 24, for an ecumenical Good Friday service at St. Matthew United Methodist Church, 30900 Six Mile, between Merriman and Middlebelt roads, Livonia. A combined choir, made up of members from all the churches, will sing. Pastors and lay members from the participating congregations will lead the prayers, the Passion History reading and the meditations. The service is open to the public.

Churches participating include Church of the Savior, Reformed, Grand River Baptist, Holy Trinity Lutheran, Riverside Park Church of God, St. Edith Catholic, St. Matthew United Methodist and St. Timothy Presbyterian U.S.A.

FAITH MORAVIAN

In keeping with a centuries-old Moravian tradition, members of Faith Community Moravian Church in Canton will assemble at the church at 6 a.m. Easter Sunday and then travel to a local cemetery as a demonstration of their faith in the resurrection.

Since 1772, Moravians throughout the world have gathered every Easter morning at a cemetery before dawn. They huddle for a brief service to sing and recite a confession of faith. After a breakfast at the church, the congregation will meet at 10:30 a.m. for the regular Sunday service.

The Moravian Church is a main line Protestant denomination that was organized in 1457 in what is present-day Czechoslovakia by the followers of the reformer and martyr John Hus.

At 12:30 p.m. Good Friday, a downtown community service will take place at the church. The Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee will speak on "The Cross Carrier." The Chancel Choir and Agape Singers will offer an anthem. Nursery will be available.

Easter will be celebrated with three services. At 7:30 a.m., Easter morning communion will be observed. A festival service will take place at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Magee will speak at all three services. For information, call 453-6464.

BEREAN BAPTIST
Berean Baptist Church of Livonia will have Good Friday services at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 24. Dr. Ronald Chadwick, author and speaker for the Radio Bible Class, will be the guest speaker. There will be special music and a nursery will be provided.

At 6 p.m. Easter Sunday, Loren Jacobs of Shema Yisrael will present a dramatic presentation, "Messiah in the Passover," an explanation of the festival meal. A free will offering will be taken. The church is at 38303 Eight Mile Road, between I-275 and Newburgh Road, Livonia. For information, call 477-6365.

RADIO PROGRAMMING
WLQV-AM 1500 in Livonia will present special holiday programming this weekend. At 1:30 p.m. Good Friday, March 24, an "Easter Musical of Restoration" by Bill and Gloria Gaither will be presented. A special Easter rendition will be presented by Chuck Cossin at 2:30 p.m. On Easter Sunday, March 26, "The Living Christ," a Michael Card radio special, will take place from 1-3 p.m.

EASTER FILM
The film, "Jesus," will be presented at 6 p.m. Easter Sunday, March 26, at Calvary Baptist Church, 43065 Joy Road, Canton. The movie was filmed entirely in the Holy Land and is based solely on the Gospel of Luke. The film is open to the public. A nursery will be provided. For information, call 455-0022.

HOLY TRINITY LUTHERAN
A Tenebrae service of darkness will take place at 7:30 p.m. Good Friday, March 24, at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 30900 Five Mile, between Merriman and Middlebelt roads, Livonia. The service will include music by the adult choir and brass. Both services are open to the public. The church is at 1841 Middlebelt Road, one block south of Ford Road.

CANTON CALVARY
On Easter Sunday, March 26, the drama and music departments of Canton Calvary Assembly of God will present an Easter special, "Calvary's Love." The church is at 7933 Sheldon Road. The service is open to the public. For information, call 455-0820.

WARD PRESBYTERIAN
At 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 23, Maundy Thursday will be observed with a Tenebrae service in Knox Hall at Ward Presbyterian Church, 17000 Farmington, Livonia. The Prime Time Singers and Players of the Single Point Ministries of Ward Presbyterian will present, "He Holds the Keys," at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 24-25. The performance is open to the public. For information, call 422-1854.

At 7 a.m., Easter Sunday begins with the youth sunrise celebration

The Rev. Jim Scheik of St. Edith Catholic Church, the Rev. Raymond VandeGiessen of Church of the Savior Reformed, the Rev. Robert Seltz of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church and the Rev. David Strong of St. Matthew United Methodist Church will participate in an ecumenical Good Friday service at St. Matthew United Methodist Church, 30900 Six Mile, between Merriman and Middlebelt roads, Livonia.

GARDEN CITY PRESBYTERIAN

Water use down in '80s

PERIODICALLY throughout the year, the Consumer Mailbag does an "Eco-Notes" column where topics of environmental interest are discussed. Recently, three reports have come into the Concern Office about water that I wanted to share with you:

WATER CONSUMPTION:
A five-year survey done by the U.S. Geological Survey shows a drop in water use in the U.S. 1980-85, the date of the last survey.
The report shows a 10 percent decline in both fresh and saline-water drawn from lakes, streams, wells and springs for use in homes, offices, farms, industry and thermoelectric power plants.
However, since the USGS began its survey, water use has more than doubled from less than 200 billion to almost 400 billion gallons per day.
One possible reason for the decline in water use may have been because water removal costs have increased as water levels dropped with increased use in the past.
Another reason may be that more water was being recycled for industry and irrigation while commodity production dropped.
Last summer's drought may show increased water use, especially in areas like Nebraska. It withdrew twice as much as usual from ground-water supplies and began irrigation of crops as month earlier than usual. In Washington, D.C., demand for water during the first half of July was 24 percent above average.
— From a USGS news release
WATER CONSERVATION:

Terry Glbb

Western California farmers are participating in a three-year irrigation management project to reduce water use. They are using gypsum blocks to help cut their use by up to 58 percent in some cases, according to INFORM, a non-profit, environmental research group.

These marshmallow-sized, plaster-of-paris blocks were systematically buried at different locations and depths in flood-irrigated fields. Each block contains electrodes connected to insulated wires drawn to the surface.
Twice a week, readings are taken of the electrical conductivity of the blocks by connecting a small battery-powered meter to the surface wires. Conductivity levels vary with the wetness of the blocks which reflects the moisture level of the soil in that area.

Using this information, farmers can determine where crops are being overwatered and adjust irrigation to the correct amounts.
— From an Inform news release fish population.

The AIRE-02 machines use an above-water motor to turn an underwater propeller at the end of a hollow shaft. The propeller pushes water outward away from the shaft, creating a vacuum that sucks air down the shaft.
The oxygen-enriched water gets pushed out and distributed throughout the river. This constant motion keeps wastes in suspension and circulates the bacteria that breaks down these wastes. The extra oxygen in the water causes the bacteria to proliferate on a large scale and speed up decomposition of the wastes.

Following care labels can save clothing

Dear Jo:
As a senior citizen there are some new things that I come across that I find terribly confusing. The latest is the new labeling in clothing that supposedly tells you how to care for the garment. Have you any idea what all those circles and squares mean? If so, could you pass the message on? Thanks.

Mrs. S. E.
Eastern Reader

Dear Mrs. E.:
Once clarified, the care labels in clothing are worthwhile. They save time and, if followed, prolong the life of the garment.
Labels for washable garments are marked with a "U" shaped symbol. Inside the symbol are further washing instructions. A hand is pictured if hand washing is required, and, if necessary, the water temperature is given.

gerontology
A. Jolayne Farrell

If the item can be dried in a dryer, the symbol is a square with a circle inside — it looks just like a miniature dryer. An item that cannot be put in the dryer is marked accordingly — a square with three vertical lines means it must be drip-dried and a square with a curved line that looks like a clothesline means the item should be line-dried.
Some other symbols are: a tiny iron, means ironing is necessary and safe; a triangle means the item can be bleached; and a small circle means dry cleaning is required.

Any of the above symbols that have a large "X" through them means do not use that method.
Since these symbols are worldwide, the temperature settings for washing and ironing items are in metric. Medium hot water is 50 to 70 degrees Celsius and a hot iron is 200 degrees.

Dear Jo:
What is the best emergency treatment for burns? Mrs. K.L., Senior Homemaker

Dear Mrs. L.:
The best emergency treatment for minor or first degree burns (defined as a burn involving only the outer layer of skin) is cold (not iced) water. For the best effect, the burned area should be immersed in the cold water immediately. The cold water eases the pain and acts as a cleanser.
One of the poorest emergency treatments for burns is the application of butter. Butter does not relieve pain and it may harbor bacteria which could eventually lead to an infection.

Brenda Wallace believes resellers should put some of their earnings back into their shops. She owns Born Again Resale in Plymouth.

Bill Bresler

Resalers seek a little respect

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

Merchants who sell used clothing, furniture, jewelry and toys have a surprise for you: Their stores don't stink.

Resale shop owners are accustomed to being insulted. It's par for the course, they say. But resellers are working to change the notion that their stores smell funny and are only attractive to those who are too poor to shop elsewhere.

Shoppers who venture into resale establishments are likely to have some stereotypes changed, said Victoria Haltom, owner of It Ain't Bloomingdales in Detroit.

"One woman stood in the middle of my store and said, 'Gosh, it doesn't even smell,'" Haltom said.

Another potential customer picked up a new toy and remarked: "They just put these things in their store so people will think they have nice things," Haltom recalled.

"Eventually you have to get a sense of humor about these things," she said.

But Haltom and other area resale store owners are doing more than grinning and bearing it. They have formed the Metro Resale Association to offer each other support, share information and join forces for business purposes.

"If you own a franchise, you have a lot of help, a lot of support. Resalers are by themselves," Haltom said. "People in resale businesses are hungry to talk to each other."

THE METRO RESELLER Association was formed last year and has 10 members. Another 12, including owners of suburban Wayne and Oakland county stores, are expected to join before the group's April meeting, Haltom said.

Besides just talking about the difficulties their businesses must face, the local association has done co-op advertising and is investigating the possibility of getting group liability and employee health insurance. Many resellers also belong to the National Association of Resale & Thrift Shops, which sends members a newsletter full of information on legal issues, taxes and other issues relevant to their businesses.

Resale, or second-hand, shops have been around for decades, but the trend really took hold about five or six years ago, Haltom said.

At that time, she said, "garage sales started to be big business, and that really helped the resale business." Haltom described garage sales as "the non-professional approach to what happens when you open a resale shop."

Haltom and others stress the fact that they are professionals who must work harder than their small business peers in order to overcome the negative image resale has had.

Brenda Wallace, whose Born Again Resale Shop is in the Old Village section of Plymouth, blames the negative image on resellers of the past.

"I think resellers were guilty of not putting some earnings back into the shop and not being very careful of the kinds of clothes they sold," Wallace said.

Wallace, who opened her store 2½ years ago, accepts clothing and other items on consignment. She said it's rewarding to help people find a market for things they want to sell.

Boating industry offers bridge over troubled waters

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

People involved in the buying, selling, maintenance and storage of boats will no longer have to say, "I'll see you in court" when a dispute involving recreational craft arises.

The Michigan Boating Industries Association, based in Livonia, is launching an Alternate Dispute Resolution program designed to get the opposing parties to sit down and agree on a solution instead of filing a lawsuit. It will involve volunteers acting as mediators and arbitrators and will cost the parties a fraction of the price of litigation — in terms of both time and money.

"The whole premise behind the program is to take the disputes out of the courtroom and out of the high-priced attorney's hands, bringing it down to a level where two people can very easily mediate a dispute and everybody's happy," said Anne Masterson, MBIA administration executive.

Other industries use alternative dispute resolution programs, but this is the first of its kind involving recreational boating cases, Masterson said. She called Michigan, which has more registered boats than any other state, a leader in the recreational boating industry.

Masterson said the service would be useful in a situation where a boat owner is not satisfied with work done at a marina, for example. Typically, the customer would refuse to pay the bill, the marina would refuse to release the boat and one or both parties might have to file suit.

"THE COST OF litigating has gotten so high that oftentimes you either have to take your lumps and not go to court, or you have to invest a lot of money in a case to try to get some satisfaction," Masterson said.

Under the MBIA alternative program, the parties could meet with a mediator to discuss the issue. The mediator's decision would be non-binding. If the parties are not satisfied with the results, or they do not want to use a mediator, they could present the matter to a three-member panel of arbitrators. The parties can choose from among a group of arbitrators, but both sides would have to agree in advance to abide by that panel's decision.

The MBIA has budgeted about $40,000 to cover start-up costs, Masterson said. The cost to those who use the service has not been decided, but she estimated it will be $200 to $250. That charge is to cover administrative and processing fees.

"Nobody's going to make a profit on this," Masterson said.

The MBIA is seeking volunteers from the small business community to serve as arbitrators. It hopes to have a pool of 20 to 30 volunteers.

The concept of arbitration is not new to the marine industry. Freighters and other commercial craft have been using it for more than 100 years in New York and London, Masterson said.

"It was set up because the courts don't have the technical knowledge to address the problems of the marine industry because it's so specific," she said. "We're trying to take that program and adapt it to the recreational boating industry which, too, is highly specific and difficult to understand unless you are directly involved with it."

The 285-member association is made up primarily of marina operators and boat dealers. The program is expected to be operational in May.

It's all in the family when it comes to selling carpets

By Peggy Aulino
staff writer

Some families pass down jewels or china. The heirloom of choice among the Kramers is a carpet store.

A.R. Kramer Flooring was established in 1925 by Archie R. Kramer, whose son, Alan, came aboard in the 1950s. Earlier this year the business was bought by Alan Kramer's sons, Art and Mike.

The family-owned store, on Middlebelt between Five Mile and Six Mile in Livonia, is a holdout in this age of chain stores and subsidiaries. The Kramers say their continuing independence is based more on a desire to maintain quality control than on any grand scheme on the part of their ancestors.

"We don't have any great desires to get big," said Art. "There's really no value in it for us. You lose basic control over your business to a point."

The Kramer strategy is to be involved in day-to-day operations and stand behind their service. The store sells carpet and flooring that can be installed either by Kramer employees or subcontractors.

"It comes down to service and being able to meet the needs of people," Art said. "My grandfather was always very particular with that. That's really been the mainstay of the business."

THE KRAMERS SAID they have as much faith in their subcontractors as they have in their own employees.

"Sometimes you even have a little better leverage over subcontractors, being that they would like to continue working," Art said.

Mike said chain stores try "to get the customer to think about price rather than quality." And he believes the Kramer sales force is more knowledgeable than the competitors and better able to "make sure the customer's buying the right product."

"In some instances, they might pay a little more (at Kramer's), but they know the finished product is going to be exactly what they want," he said.

Kramer Flooring counts among its larger accounts much of Ford Motor Co.'s North American operations and the University of Michigan.

The store has customers whose grandparents bought carpets from Archie Kramer, Art said.

"Much like we are the third generation of Kramers here, we are on the third generation of their families," he said.

And 89-year-old Manny Eisenberg, hired by the store's founder, is still selling carpets for Archie's grandsons. Eisenberg said he worked in carpet mills before going into the sales end, and Mike called him the best salesman in the business.

THE ORIGINAL Kramer store was on the West Side of Detroit, where as youngsters the current proprietors used to visit their grandfather. The store moved to its present location in 1971. Archie Kramer died two years ago, and Alan Kramer is retired and living in Florida.

"I wasn't really planning on coming into the business," said Art Kramer. "My grandfather felt otherwise. He would give me different things that I would find interesting to do, and the next thing I knew I'm working on a regular basis."

The fact is 35-year-old Art Kramer is the president of the company. Mike, 29, is the vice president, but neither of them places much stock in titles.

Art, who lives in Green Oak Township, handles accounting and operations; Mike, a Farmington Hills resident, does marketing. But Mike summed up the division of duties this way: "I don't know how to do what he does, and he doesn't know how to do what I do."

BESIDES THEIR stores being saddled with negative connotations, those who shop at them are also misunderstood, resellers said.

"We have a lot of customers who are not poor people that can't go anywhere else," said Cookie Koblin, one of three owners of Bloomfield Keego Resale in Keego Harbor. "Most of them can afford to shop anywhere. They choose to shop this way."

Koblin's inventory, most of which is also accepted on consignment, includes designer clothing, fur coats, baby furniture and jewelry. "Everything that we take in is really good condition. We won't take anything that's a year or a year-and-a-half old," she said.

Koblin, once rejected clothing brought in in garbage bags, and the person who wanted to sell the items complained, saying, "People who shop here shouldn't be so picky."

"That's an attitude that we would like to see done away with because that's not true," she said.

The manager of Designer's Den, which has been in existence in Farmington for 40 years, also credits her customers with being "astute."

"I have women who come in here and throw down $300 without blinking an eye, but when they walk away, they walk away with half the store," said Monica Melton. "Everybody, even Donald Trump, wants a bargain."

was taking a picture of a car on a mountain road in California, stepped back to get the thing in focus and stepped right off the mountain. Which was his story for the cast on his arm at the time.

Hall kept showing up, whether in a fog or a cast, allegedly because he was an automotive journalist at the time. Not exactly James Dean, but enough of a car guy with questionable credentials to be ignored by GM's 14th floor. Or even the basement.

Like most automotive journalists, Hall was overbearing with his opinion on what kind of car these guys should make if they really knew what they were doing. It was something of zen transformation that Kenichi Yamamoto decided to listen to him. Or maybe he got one of Hall's steaks.

YAMAMOTO IS the legendary engineer who developed the rotary engine for Mazda before he was kicked upstairs to run the company as chairman. Hall was included in a team based in Irvine, Calif., that acts as a listening post and development center for Mazda. Among others on the team is Mark Jordan, son of Chuck, currently running GM styling.

Now half of the Hall brothers is being credited for inspiring the new Mazda Miata, a two-seat roadster that brings tears to your eyes if you ever had the top fly off your old Triumph on I-96 halfway back to Michigan State.

Which is to say that sometimes somebody does listen to an oddball off the street, take at least some of his advice, and make the kind of car that would be made if anybody really knew what he was doing.

ALTHOUGH THE company that listened not only in Japan, but in a quarter owned by Ford, GM hasn't lost its chance.

I think I saw the ghost of Bob Hall at Chevrolet the other day unless it really is his twin brother. Or maybe he just lost a little weight.

Business held liable for abuse of drugs

In their recently published book, "Drugs and Alcohol in the Workplace," Drusilla Campbell and Marilyn Graham state that for every 10 employees at least one is impaired by chemical dependency.

The cost to business is in excess of $100 billion each year. These employees take home salaries for working at two-thirds capacity of healthy workers, receive employee benefits while having four times as many accidents, and are a primary cause of employee-related discipline and morale problems. Regardless of the size or type of business, "polydrug" abuse has been described as "the most serious problem facing American business between now and the end of the century."

In recent years, the legal system has made it clear that employers cannot afford to ignore this problem any longer. A growing majority of companies have been held liable for failures to remove an employee whose substance abuse endangers co-workers. While most managers acknowledge these grim statistics, many are reluctant to provide sources of information and outside assistance to employees, let alone consider the possibility of offering in-house treatment services.

The reasons behind this form of "managerial denial" are numerous. Many honestly don't know that their business is being negatively affected by employees. Business "losses" may be attributed to the economy, shoplifting, foreign competition, union battles or seasonal downturns. Other employers deny the problem exists so as to "protect" the image and reputation of their company. This is especially true when the owners/managers are themselves chemically dependent.

"Most everyone in upper management was an alcoholic," says one retired business executive from Grosse Pointe. "And since we were employed in the health-care industry, it's ludicrous to think that several major company decisions were made while management was intoxicated."

Another common reason for managerial denial is a feeling of hopelessness about the whole issue. "She's going through a divorce and supporting three kids. . . . If I were married to him, I'd drink too," his wife just did."

These are just a few of the many excuses that serve to encourage abusers to ignore their problem. Breaking through the denial as business owners and managers is crucial if employers are to take responsibility in helping to control chemical abuse in the workplace. What businesses don't seem to realize is how much clout they have. When the boss says, "Get well or get out," the addict/alcoholic has no choice but to look for help. Next week, we will discuss how business owners and managers can identify a drug-impaired workplace and sources of available assistance.

Mary DiPaolo is the owner of MarkeTrends, a Farmington Hills-based business consulting firm. She is also producer and host of the cable television series, "Chamber Perspectives."

However, plan participants must demonstrate that they have made a "reasonable liquidation" of their assets as well as those of their spouse and their dependents before tapping 401(k) savings. A "reasonable liquidation" includes exercising any loan provisions of the 401(k) plan, as well as attempts to borrow from other sources.

Also, even after satisfying various hardship tests, the regulations indicate that plan participants can only withdraw amounts representing their own contributions; employer matching contributions are not eligible.

Finally, 401(k) participants who clear all the hurdles and make a hardship withdrawal face a corresponding reduction in the subsequent years contribution limit. For example, if the participant were limited to a $5,000 annual contribution and withdrew $4,000 this year, he could contribute just $1,000 next year.

T-bills offer safety and liquidity

What can you tell me about T-bills? Do you have a list of Federal Reserve Banks or can you tell me where I can find one?

Treasury bills, or T-bills as they are often called, are short-term obligations issued by the U.S. government and help to finance the government's short-term interest rates. They have appeal among investors because of safety, liquidity and exemption from state and local taxes.

One of the problems for individuals is the minimum investment, which is $10,000. The maturities are three, six and 12 months, and the treasury does not redeem them before maturity. However, T-bills can be sold before they mature through a broker or bank.

T-BILLS PAY no interest at regu-

today's investor

Thomas E. O'Hara

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

lar intervals like most other interest-bearing obligations. Instead, they are sold at a discount from their redemption price, with the difference being the interest payment. The three- and six-month bills are sold at regular weekly treasury auctions, usually on Mondays. The 12-month T-bills are offered at auction just once a month.

While T-bills can be bought through a broker or a bank, there is a fee. To avoid that fee, an individ-al can buy directly from Federal Reserve Banks or branches. All that is necessary is to complete a form, referred to as a tender and available from Federal Reserve Banks and send it with a check for $10,000.

A PART OF your $10,000 will be refunded to you, so it is as if you bought the T-bill at a discount and it will be worth $10,000 when it matures.

The minimum investment is $10,000, but larger investments can be made at $5,000 multiples.

The bid must be made in person or by mail and arrive in advance of the auction. When an investor buys the T-bills, no certificate is issued. The investor's name is simply recorded in the Treasury Department's books.

Most individuals make a non-competitive bid, meaning they will pay whatever the average market rate is at the auction. That rate will be determined by the competitive bids made by large institutional investors.

AN INDIVIDUAL can submit a competitive bid, but then he runs the risk of paying too much or being shut out if the bid is too low.

Since T-bills are issued by the U.S. government, they are considered as safe as any piece of paper can be. If you want an application to order directly from the government, call the Detroit office at 961-6880 and tell them you want a tender. You must specify whether you want a tender for a three-month, six-month or 12-month T-bill.

Or you can write to the Bureau of the Public Debt, Department of the Treasury, Washington D.C. 20239 and give them the same information.

Thomas O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments but will answer them only through this column. Readers who send in questions on a general investment subject or on a corporation with broad investor interest and whose questions are used will receive a free one-year subscription to the investment magazine "Better Investing" or information about investment clubs, write Today's Investor, P.O. # Broadway lights

They shine for star of 'Les Miz'

By Kevin Teevens
special writer

JOE KOLINSKI can look out his apartment window and see his name in lights — on Broadway. "I live up the street from the Broadway Theatre, and there I am," said Kolinski, by phone from his New York apartment. Kolinski, a Detroit Catholic Central graduate and former student at the University of Detroit, is performing in the lead role of Enjolras in the Broadway musical production of "Les Misérables." The actor, 35, is well known to Detroit-area audiences. He found his calling in high school, when he appeared in numerous musicals at Mercy High School in Farmington Hills.

Although Broadway is quite a distance from where he started his career, the road trip has been worth it. "We haven't played to an empty seat in the house since we opened in 1987," said Kolinski.

PRIOR TO APPEARING as Enjolras, Kolinski played the role of Feuille, another lead in "Les Miz," as it has come to be called. "It has been a busy time. Life is very concentrated here. You can accomplish a great deal in a short time," he said. Kolinski has performed on Broadway in "Sunday in the Park with George." "The Three Musketeers," "The Human Comedy" and "Dance a Little Closer." In 1981, he sang the role of the celebrant in the 10th anniversary production of Bernstein's Mass at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

From 1974 to 1976 he was a student at the University of Detroit and performed in the Marygrove Theatre program. He had lead roles in many productions including "A Cry of Players," "The Me Nobody Knows" and "Godspell." In 1977 he sang the role of Leo in the Michigan Opera Theatre production of "Regina." His last metropolitan-Detroit appearance was in the 1985 production of "Kumi Leml" at the Birmingham Theatre, in the role of Max.

Growing up and performing in the Detroit area had a very strong impact on Kolinski's career. He said two major influences were Dominic Missimi of the University of Detroit and Larry Teevens, chairman of the music department at Mercy High School.

MISSIMI, WHO currently teaches at Northwestern University, was then acting chairman of the U-D Theatre Department. "I was working in O'Halloran's flower shop on McNichols, and Dominic came in and said he could get me into the program at U-D/Marygrove. I jumped at it like a shot," Kolinski said.

English tea

Teatime at the Townsend is a new offering 3-5 p.m. Tuesdays-Saturdays in the lobby of the elegant new Townsend Hotel in Birmingham. Pauline Palazzolo, the tea hostess, greets guests who are seated in comfortable, floral-patterned sofas and chairs. She is assisted by the tea server, Francine Line of Australia, in starched uniform.

No reservations are required for teatime. From 16-18 guests can be accommodated at a time, in the cozy, airy setting. Tea is presented in traditional English style, with a choice of seven teas poured into Royal Doulton china cups.

Accompanying the tea are decorative, finger sandwiches including cucumber and cream cheese, Scottish smoked salmon, watercress, egg and chicken. Scones and Devonshire cream, strawberry preserve tarts and miniature pastries also are served. In addition, there's a tiny, tasty cup of soup and a cheese straw. Tea is $8.50 and no reservations are required, at present.

THE TOWNSEND also has been serving meals in its Rugby Grill dining room. It's open for breakfast, lunch (with sandwich bar) and dinner (including tableside service), serving from noon to midnight weekdays and to 1 a.m. Fridays-Saturdays. More than a half-dozen specials are featured each day at lunch and dinner. The bar is open until 2 a.m. every night.

The Townsend decided not to open a restaurant called Tony's that was planned for the hotel. Instead, the area becomes the Regency Room, seating 250 for private dining. The hotel also has the Hunter Room, seating up to 100 for private dining. Carol Haskins is executive chef.

Don Palmer the pastry chef, Kirsten Berwick does the tea sandwiches. Lewis Weidemann, maitre d'hôtel, was lured away from a Chicago hotel by restaurateur Norman LePage and his wife, Bonnie, who manage the Townsend's dining facilities. Bonnie LePage is also manager-director of the Townsend.

Norman LePage describes his role at the Townsend as "jack of all trades." He said they plan to add more seating in the corridor for gallery dining, overlooking the street. There's no dress code, so guests can drop in to tea in casual or sport attire, if desired.

"I was happy, very happy to help Joe along the way. We all were," Teevens said. "When we do a musical at Mercy, we welcome auditions from all the surrounding communities. The talent is incredible. Our mid-March production of 'Oklahoma' for example, featured 23 area communities and 16 schools."

Among those auditioning and selected for the show was Karl Galmeyer, a graduate of Wayne State University and a resident of Bloomfield Hills.

Phil Marcus Esser of Farmington Hills opens his new cabaret theater production, a revue of songs called "Sing Spring," on Saturday at Somerset Mall in Troy.

Lack of action slows drama

Performances of the Meadow Brook Theatre production of "The Road to Mecca" continue through Sunday on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills. For ticket information call the box office at 577-3300.

By Cathie Breidenbach
Special Writer

South African playwright Athol Fugard has five contemporary peers. The dramatist who wrote the acclaimed "Master Harold and the Boys" weaves together plot, character and language with acknowledged mastery, but in "The Road to Mecca" words — splendid though they may be — can't compensate for the poverty of action.

Terence Kilburn, who directs the Meadow Brook production, does what he can to instill action in the three-act, one-set play that, despite its profound ideas and admitted charm, almost runs aground on the old shoals of too much "tell" and too little "show."

This least political of Fugard's plays unravels a crisis in the life of Helen Martins, an aging Afrikaner woman who didn't resign herself to being a meek, church-going little widow when her husband died. Instead she became an artist who creates the townpeople's lack of action.

With sensitivity and a refreshing lack of cliché, Fugard's play challenges conventional ideas about artistic freedom, religion, conformity and aging. The Meadow Brook Theatre's mixed production has moments that shine as brightly, as the theatre's very best, but the play's minimal action and the production's sometimes-heavy-handed characterizations of Helen and her young schoolteacher friend, Elsa Barlow, dull the glow of those moments.

ARTISTIC DIRECTOR Kilburn has Barlow wander into the bedroom to change clothes four or five times in the course of an evening. The audience craves action, so why not have Elsa change clothes as often as a teenager? Watching the full-bodied Miss Barlow don and discard clothes offers a pleasing sight in lieu of real action.

Set designer Peter Hicks creates a magical room that blends the royal coziness of a desert sunrise and sets them shimmering with shards of mirrors scattered on the walls like stars in a dawn sky. The room, which Helen the artist created, reflects her theatrical magic. When the lights are a few candles and the room that is her personal Mecca comes alive with light and a primitive, whimsical wonder. Then, character, theme and set converge for a magical moment of theater not easily forgotten.

Anne Sheldon plays Helen as a Grandma Moses kind of artist facing failing eyesight, arthritic hands and the encroaching frailty of age. Sheldon's Helen is innocent, sweet, kind — but not nearly tough enough to have challenged the bigotry of righteous religion or to exercise artistic freedom amidst the provincial prejudices of a small South African town.

The minister, played by William Le Massena with assurance that his white, masculine, majority opinion prevails, tries to persuade Helen she is too old to live in her house among her idolatrous creations. He wants her to move to the town old folks home.

Under the pressure of age and uncertainty, Helen becomes a whimpering wretch who sits hunched in a chair like a helpless child with no control over her destiny, her feet suddenly pigeon-toed in an overhead picture of abject passivity.

WHICH ARE WE to believe? That Helen really is a heroine with the strength to defy the conventions of a provincial town and its religion? Or that she is the passive old woman triumphantly discommodated by minor frailties of age? Sheldon creates an endearing and lovable Helen. If only she didn't make Helen a wimp as well.

Mary Walworth, as Helen's younger friend Elsa Barlow, projects a tough and angry stubbornness that belies the uncertainties and ambiguities festering beneath her surface.

PLYMOUTH SALEM had Observerland's best swimmer in junior Ron Orris, but there wasn't much distance between the Rocks and neighboring Plymouth Canton in the quality of their teams.

In fact, the Chiefs, runners-up to Salem in the Western Lakes Activities Association meet, placed three swimmers on the 1989 All-Observer team.

The Rocks, who finished seventh at the Class A meet, have two first-team members, headlined by Orris in the 200-yard individual medley. Canton's medley relay team was the area's best while Salem had the top freestyle relay.

Of course, Orris could have been the first-team choice in most individual events, but swimmers are only allowed to be named in one. Orris, Mark Papierski (Livonia Churchill), Troy Shumate (Redford Catholic Central), and Jeff Homan (Canton) are repeat selections.

Salem coach Chuck Olson was named Observerland coach of the year after leading the Rocks to their second straight WLAA title. Salem was 9-2 in dual meets.

ALL-OBSERVER FIRST TEAM

200-yard medley relay: Jim Hartnett, Jeff Homan, Bryce Anderson and Mitch Timberlake, Plymouth Canton: The quartet had the area's best time and set a varsity record, clocking 1:41.08 for 12th place at the state meet. With Scott Swartzweiser on the team instead of Hartnett, Canton was first at the WLAA meet.

"All four of these guys had great seasons this year," Coach Hooker Wellman said. "The three seniors (Hartnett, Homan and Timberlake) will be very difficult to replace as swimmers and good people."

200-yard freestyle: Mike Hill, senior, Salem: Hill was a state qualifier in four events, and he was the WLAA champion in the 200- and 100-yard freestyle events.

Hill also was a member of the 200 medley and 400 freestyle relay teams, both of which broke Salem school records. He finished ninth in the 100 freestyle at the state meet and swam a leg in the freestyle relay team that took third at state. He was a team captain.

"Mike has been one of the top freestylers in the area and state," Olson said. "He showed teammates and opponents the attitude that 'Salem swimmers don't get beat.'"

200 individual medley: Ron Orris, junior, Salem: Orris has one year of eligibility remaining and already he holds school records in seven events.

Orris is a nine-time WLAA individual champion, and he qualified in every individual event for the state meet. His best 200 IM time was 1:54.02. His other records are 1:40.44, 200 freestyle; 21:80, 50 freestyle; 51:27, butterfly; 47:65, 100 freestyle; 4:43.02, 500 freestyle; 1:00.11, breaststroke.

He was an all-state selection in the 200 freestyle, 400 butterfly and 400 freestyle relay. All this and he's a 3.85 student, too.

best time among area foursomes and landed first-team, all-area honors. The Chiefs placed 12th in the Class A finals.

Big names missing from Canton squad

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Retaining its Western Lakes Activities Association championship won't be as easy for the Plymouth Canton girls track team as it was winning the title.

The Chiefs had some major graduation losses, including all-stater Angie Miller, who was a two-time Class A high jump champion.

But that doesn't mean Canton lacks the talent to repeat, according to coach George Przygodski. The difference between the 1988 and 1989 squads is the amount of proven talent.

"Obviously, our talent won't lie so much with our senior class," Przygodski said. "Last year, we came in with a team that knew what it could do. This year there are a lot of unknowns. At this point, we're not sure what we can do."

Przygodski isn't worried about finding replacements. Ninety girls reported for spring practice, and there ought to be enough new talent in a group that size to remain competitive as Canton seeks a fifth consecutive Western Division dual-meet crown.

"THINK ABOUT that," he said. "We can fill two buses with kids."

"We might not have a state champ in there, but we're going to be deep. It's just a matter of finding out where we're going to put everybody. Because we're so young, we don't know yet."

One area in which there can be no doubt about Canton's ability is the distance events. The Chiefs, under the direction of Przygodski, have won back-to-back WLAA cross-country championships and will benefit from the strength of that program.

Seniors Cindy Spessard, Lynda Schendel and Kris Marquard and juniors Lori Penland, Missy

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Jasnowski, Cathy McCabe and Adrienne Garrow are veterans in both sports. In the last league meet, Spessard finished second in the 3,200-meter run, Marquard third and McCabe fifth. Penland was fifth in the 1,600.

In addition, senior Marnie Smith and sophomores Carolyn Way, Ann Dibble and Amy Smith will add to the enormous depth in the distance runs.

girls track

"I think we're going to be outstanding," Przygodski said. "That's definitely going to have to be the strength of our team."

"WITH OUR depth, we don't want to double kids in the distance events. The distinct advantage comes in the 3,200. We'll be running somebody who hasn't run all day, and they'll be going up against someone who's run two or three races already."

And, of course, that edge will carry over to the distance relays. As far as combinations, "nothing is in cement," Przygodski said, and it's easy to see why.

"We can probably put together two 3,200 relay teams and be very competitive using completely different kids," he said. "We can probably do the same in the 1,600."

In the high jump, Canton returns a good one in junior Heather Spencer, who was third in the WLAA last year. She has jumped 5-2, but it would be unfair to compare her to Miller, who set the school record at 5-7 1/4 and is on scholarship at Western Michigan, Przygodski said.

"How often do you get somebody who's jumping at the level Angie was?" he said. "But (Spencer) is a good jumper, a good technician and she'll be very competitive in the WLAA."

"(Miller) was great for our program," he added. "She did a great job for four years, but we've got to move on. It's important for our program to build on what Angie, as well as the other seniors, did."

Minch state's top gymnast

By Mike Rosenbaum
staff writer

Westland John Glenn gymnast Wendy Minch did her floor exercises routine to the music of "Wild, Wild West," by the Escape Club, during Saturday's individual gymnastics state meet at Troy High School. During the meet, Minch, a sophomore, out-gunned her competition and escaped with three titles.

Minch won the all-around competition on Friday, then wrapped up victories on the balance beam and the uneven parallel bars on Saturday.

Minch, in her first high school season, said she felt "great," about the titles. "I don't know how to explain it. It doesn't seem like it's real."

Glenn coach Pam Yockey was expecting the all-around title, "because she's so consistent." The beam victory, however, was a "pleasant surprise."

To Yockey, Minch placed fourth in the floor exercises but did not qualify for Saturday's finals in the vault.

Troy Athens, which finished second in team competition Friday, was the only school with four individuals in Saturday's final, which featured the top eight gymnasts in each event.

Junior Michelle Miller tied for first in floor exercises, winning the event for the second time, and tied for third in vault. Natalie Leich, a senior, was one of two individuals to compete in all four

gymnastics

Freshman Amy Krebs was seventh on beam and senior Tiffany Kinia was eighth as the Red Hawks placed three individuals in the top eight on beam.

North Farmington's Kim Heller, a junior, tied for third in vault and placed sixth on the floor. Raider sophomore Heather Kahn tied for fifth on the bars.

Minch scored a 9.4 on bars Friday, leading Bethany Park's Midland Dow by .05. She trailed Amy Walberer of Grand Rapids West Catholic by .05 after scoring a 9.15 on beam Friday. Minch did not think about those close margins between the two days of competition. "I don't usually look at anyone else's scores. I just try to beat myself."

Minch bettered her bar score Saturday, posting a 9.45 to win by .35, the largest margin of victory on the day. Despite Friday's success, she changed her bar routine Saturday, putting in a more difficult dismount.

"She stuck it," said Yockey, who also liked Minch's "good big swings." The idea of doing a different dismount on Saturday "made me a little bit more tense," Minch said. "But I knew I could do it."

Minch, the second gymnast on the beam Saturday, impressed Yockey with a one-footed layout and thrilled the crowd with a reverse summersault. Minch posted a 9.45. Walberer, seventh in line, managed a 9.1, giving Minch a win by .3.

Miller trailed Jill Stuart of Rockford after Friday's floor exercises; 9.25 to 9.2. But the gymnasts reversed their scores Saturday. Leich, who opened with a 9.0, had the highest one-day floor score with a 9.4 Saturday.

Athens coach Frank Divito called Miller a "great dancer. She has very strong tumbling. She just did a great job like she did Friday night. She just did a carbon copy routine."

Of Leich's floor show on Saturday, Divito said, "MSU is just so dynamic. She mixes great dancing with powerful tumbling. And she does a great job showing it off on the floor. Her routine fits her personality to a T."

Leich, second in the vault last season, felt she was better this year in "all-around consistency," although "I was hoping for a first in one event."

Leich will represent Michigan in a national high school meet in Chicago on May 18-20. The top four seniors in the all-around competition earned spots on the team.

Wendy Minch, a John Glenn sophomore, captured the individual state championship in all-around gymnastics, winning balance beam and uneven bars titles in the process.

Ladywood repeats as Class A champ

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Surprise, surprise, surprise. The new Class A state volleyball championship is (drum roll, please):

Livonia Ladywood!

OK, in some respects maybe it isn't so surprising that the Blazers jumped Harper Woods Regina 15-1, 15-10 in Saturday's final at Kalamazoo Central High School. After all, the Blazers were the defending state champs.

And they are under the guidance of the hottest coach around — Tom Teeters, who now has won three championships in the last year (two with Ladywood and a National Junior College Athletic Association title with Schoolcraft College).

But there was serious reason for doubt. For starters, four starters and six seniors from last year's championship squad graduated, leaving Teeters with a major rebuilding job.

SECOND, LADYWOOD'S record against the other three finalists — Regina, Portage Northern (which the Blazers defeated 15-13, 15-5 in the semifinals) and Rochester Adams — was lousy. Both Northern 15-1, 15-10 in Saturday's final at Kalamazoo Central High School. After all, the Blazers were the defending state champs.

And then there was Teeters' own estimate of his team's semifinal performance. "We weren't playing that well, but neither were they (Northern) made a few more errors than we did, and they didn't take advantage of their opportunities."

"We're going to have to play a lot better."

They did. Regina — which surprised Adams 15-11, 15-13, in the other semifinal to set up an all-Catholic League showdown — never got in gear in the first game. Karl Domanski served nine consecutive points, including four aces, as the Blazers jumped out to a 13-0 lead.

"THE MOMENTUM" took hold so quickly," said Regina coach Ann Hutchins. "It took no time at all for them to build a big lead. Our serve reception was good all year until today." Teeters' strategy was "to serve tough to their weaker passers to keep their bigger people off the net." That, and his team's precision attack from the left side, worked perfectly.

The second game was easier, as the Blazers continued to take advantage of Huskie miscues. Ladywood finished its season with a 48-5 record — and a second state championship.

JIM JAGOFFEL/staff photographer

Ladywood players had reason to celebrate Saturday when the Blazers won their second consecutive Class A volleyball championship.

HOW MUCH DID YOU LOSE LAST YEAR ON NON-DEDUCTIBLE INTEREST?

UNLESS YOU ACT QUICKLY, THIS YEAR COULD BE WORSE.

As you know, Congress is steadily phasing out interest deductions on most consumer loans. An exception is a loan secured by your home.* Which makes it a great time to apply for a home equity line of credit at First of America Bank.

A Special Offer—All Closing Costs Waived.

When you sign up for a home equity line by May 31, 1989, we'll waive your closing costs—a savings of up to $400. But you must act by May 31.

Put The Deduction Back In Your Interest.

The Federal tax laws allow you to use your home equity line of credit for any purpose you want. And in most cases, on loans all the way up to $100,000, you still get to take a 100 percent tax deduction.

You also may pay a lower interest rate along with those lower taxes.

Take Advantage Of Your Tax Break.

Get your tax break with our home equity line of credit. You can use this line instead of other loans that are no longer fully tax deductible.

You can also access your credit line simply by writing a check. And the payment schedule is flexible, too.

However, using the equity in your home is not something you should do without careful consideration. Furthermore, there are some items—like normal living expenses, for example—for which a home equity line of credit is definitely not appropriate.

So stop by your nearest First of America office, or call 1-800-544-6155 for more information. We'll provide you with a free information brochure and an application. We'll also help you determine if a home equity line of credit is right for you.

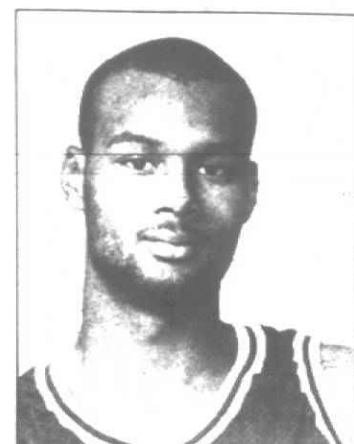

In no time, we can have your good credit working in your favor.

Hickman part of crowd at MSU

Parish Hickman adjusts to role

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Parish Hickman's dunk as time expired in the first half Monday night brought 9,860 Michigan State fans to their feet at Jensen Field House.

Shortly after, Hickman returned to his seat like everyone else at Jensen. But his seat was next to coach Jud Heathcote.

Hickman, a 6-foot-7 freshman forward from Redford Bishop Borge, spent most of the second half on the bench for the Spartans, who whipped Wichita State, 79-67, in a second-round NIT game.

Hickman's dunk resulted in his only points of the game and gave MSU a 33-30 halftime lead. Hickman played 15 minutes and grabbed two rebounds.

MSU (17-13 overall) played last night at Villanova in a third-round NIT game.

"I THOUGHT I'D get a chance to get loose in the second half (after the dunk)," Hickman said. "My playing time usually depends on how I start off the game. If it takes me a little time to get in the groove, I might not play as much."

Hickman's first year at MSU has been a learning experience, an up-and-down campaign that included a career-high 11 rebounds last Thursday in a first-round NIT win over Kent State.

Hickman's playing time Monday was limited because of outstanding play by others, including reserve guard forward Todd Wolfe, who scored a game-high 18 points. MSU also got a strong performance from starting forward Ken Redfield, who scored 12 points in 29 minutes.

"We got a lot of basketball out of a lot of players tonight," Heathcote said. "They all seemed to play at a level higher than normal, guys like Redfield, (Jeff) Casler and Wolfe. And we got a typical performance from (Steve) Smith (16 points)."

Although Hickman said he has entertained thoughts this winter of transferring to another school, he knows he might not have gotten a chance to play immediately elsewhere. Five freshmen don't do the Spartans' roster.

FIVE TIMES Hickman has reached double figures in scoring for MSU, including a 10-point game in an upset at Iowa. Hickman averages 5.2 points and 3.2 rebounds per game.

"I've probably had a better first year than a lot of freshmen, because the team has needed a lot of players," Hickman said. "I've gotten to play and learn at the same time. I thought I could play after getting here, but I thought I was going to play a lot more."

"Basically my role is a rebounder. I'm not a player yet, just a rebounder. I'm a garbage man," Hickman said. "I've gotten to play and learn at the same time. I thought I could play after getting here, but I thought I was going to play a lot more."

"It's a big difference," Hickman said. "Coach Fusco is like a friend. He helps me out a lot and talks to me. He told me to keep my head up and things would start coming my way."

"For me, it's a lot of bolstering (from Heathcote). I don't like it, but it's the type of thing you put up with in college."

Both Heathcote and Fusco have the tendency to yell on the sidelines, but Hickman said he has a different relationship with Fusco.

"For me, it's a lot of bolstering (from Heathcote). I don't like it, but it's the type of thing you put up with in college."

into the picture." Wagner's picture has since been altered.

Stanford University has one of the best women's basketball programs in the nation. The Cardinal proved it last weekend by blasting Illinois State 105-77 in a second-round NCAA tournament game.

Emily Wagner, Michigan's Miss Basketball (following her 1985 season at Livonia Ladywood, is part of the Stanford success story. But she isn't an integral part.

Injuries have ruined Wagner's chances for athletic glory. Entering the NCAA tournament, she had appeared in 19 of Stanford's 28 games (the Cardinal are now 27-2). They finished the PAC-10 season a perfect 18-0, averaging 1.4 points, 11 rebounds and 1.0 assists.

"Coming out of high school, you think all you have to do is work hard," she said. "Injury never comes."

Maybe too determined. "I did a lot

Wildcats find success

The Western Wayne Wildcats, a first-year AAU girls basketball program, met with varied success in five age-group tournaments last weekend.

In the Seventh Annual Waterford St. Pat's Tournament, the Wildcats won the 11- and 18-year-old tournaments.

The older team included Birmingham Marian's Jennifer Shasky, Plymouth South's Jill Estey and Teri King and Plymouth Canton's Michelle Fortier and Candi Jones.

Shasky, who will play college basketball at George Washington University in Washington, D.C., was named Miss Basketball after leading Marian to the Class A championship last December. Estey has signed to play at Illinois and Fortier at Western Michigan.

The 13-year-old team, led by Christi Parimucha, Yolanda Jackson, Tracy Prybylski and Tracy Mocon fought its way through the losers bracket to finish second.

At the AAU regional tournament in Sandusky, the 15-year-old Wildcats were beaten in overtime by Flint Northwestern. The Western Wayne roster included Sarah Ruete, Julianne Stesiak, Patty Shea, Kelly Austin, Emily Guiliani, Mary Barna, Chris Ford and Nicki Glass.

The 16-year-olds lost in the semifinals and finished third. Area players included Susan Ferko and Stacey Thompson of Plymouth Canton and Kathleen Gerigk of Farmington Hills Mercy.

The Wildcats will be host for the 11- and 13-year-old regional tournaments April 21-23 at Salem High School.

The Western Wayne teams are coached by Fred Thomann, Bob Blohm, Larry Baker and Tom Williams.

Rocks, Chiefs dominate honor squad

"Ron Orris simply does it all — sprinter, distance, all strokes," Olson said. "He's a team leader and has a great practice attitude."

50 freestyle: Scott Hawkins, senior, Farmington. Hawkins claimed the WLAA league crown in the 50 freestyle and qualified for state. His best time of 22.41 in the 50 free was second only to Orris in the area.

Originally a backstroke, Hawkins has shown his versatility by becoming a freestyle swimmer.

"He developed into an excellent freestyle," coach Ross Bandy said. "He was really a teammate. Anywhere we needed him he would swim."

Diving: Joe Bush, senior, John Glenn. Bush won the Western Wayne Invitational and was fourth in the regional and 16th at the state meet. His best score was 245.0.

"Joe has done extremely well in his career as a diver for having only started as a sophomore with no previous experience," Glenn coach Jeff Pryor said.

100 butterfly: Bryce Anderson, junior, Canton. Even better things are expected out of Anderson next year, as he already has been named co-captain of the 1989-90 unit.

The versatile swimmer was a part of Canton's medley relay team that captured a WLAA title and was 12th at state. He came in second in the butterfly at the league meet and seventh in the IM.

"Bryce is very strong with a good swimming background," Weisman said. "He's got another year to look forward to, and we look for more improvement."

100 backstroke: Mark Papierski, senior, Churchill. Papierski will take with him five individual school records when he graduates in June. He placed sixth at the state meet in the 100 backstroke (55.12) and also finished fifth in the 200 IM.

Mark is an experienced, hard trainer. Church coach Lawrence Hein said, "and, as a result, can apply himself to more advanced and difficult training sets."

Mark has been one of the most versatile swimmers in the school's history. His overall best individual stroke is the backstroke, but as his 200 IM time reveals, he is able to swim all four strokes with speed and proficiency.

100 breaststroke: Jeff Homan, senior, Canton. Homan was Canton's most valuable swimmer, claiming first at the WLAA meet in the breaststroke with a time of 1:01.67. His time also is a WLAA record.

He was second at the WLAA meet in the 200 IM, swimming a school-record time of 2:02.14. He also was a member of the winning 200 medley relay team at the league meet. Homan is a four-year letterman.

Jeff is an outstanding team leader who is very hard working," Weisman said. "He has a future in swimming at the collegiate level. He pursues it. He was a great person to work with."

100 backstroke: Mark Papierski, senior, Churchill. Papierski will take with him five individual school records when he graduates in June. He placed sixth at the state meet in the 100 backstroke (55.12) and also finished fifth in the 200 IM.

100 butterfly: Bryce Anderson, junior, Canton. Even better things are expected out of Anderson next year, as he already has been named co-captain of the 1989-90 unit.

The versatile swimmer was a part of Canton's medley relay team that captured a WLAA title and was 12th at state. He came in second in the butterfly at the league meet and seventh in the IM.

"Bryce is very strong with a good swimming background," Weisman said. "He's got another year to look forward to, and we look for more improvement."

100 freestyle: Mike Helmstadter, senior, Canton. The senior finished his career by taking second place in the 100 freestyle and fourth in the 200 freestyle at the WLAA meet. His best time in the 100 was 49.83.

400 freestyle relay: Mike Hill, Fred Seidelman, Rick Steshetz and Ron Orris, Salem. The team had the area's best time, 3:14.32, which also is a school record. It was good enough to give the Rocks third place at the state meet. All four are seniors who qualified for the state meet in some individual capacity.

AT-LARGE SELECTIONS

Diving: Carl Johnson, junior, Harrison. Johnson overcame injuries to finish seventh at the Class B state meet. Johnson will be one of the top returning divers in the area next year.

He's really enthusiastic about next year. Harrison coach Peter Leonhardt said: "His goal is set on winning the state Class B. That's what he told me he wants to do."

200 medley relay: Chris Butzlaff, Rick Steshetz, Fred Seidelman and Mike Hill, Salem. The foursome came up with the area's second-best time in the medley, clocking in at 4:42.65 and qualifying for the state meet.

Fred has been a four-year letter winner and has really led us in competition, practice and the classroom (3.40 grade point) in 1989," Olson said.

Rick improved his times and strokes every year. He was one of our hardest workers and most dedicated swimmers. Chris is one of the most improved swimmers on the team and he worked very hard to become the No. 1 backstroke at Salem.

400 freestyle relay: Mike Hoefflein, Jim Kovach, Alan Afsari and Troy Shumate, Redford CC. The group was first at the Catholic League meet and 11th at state. Hoefflein, Afsari and Shumate are sophomores, so McClune is excited about next year's prospects.

The free relay was one of the most exciting races at the Catholic League meet, McClune said. "The boys dropped four seconds from their pre-relay swim five hours earlier to beat Brother Rice."

Jeff is an outstanding team leader who is very hard working," Weisman said. "He has a future in swimming at the collegiate level. He pursues it. He was a great person to work with."

100 backstroke: Mark Papierski, senior, Churchill. Papierski will take with him five individual school records when he graduates in June. He placed sixth at the state meet in the 100 backstroke (55.12) and also finished fifth in the 200 IM.

Orris captures individual honor

The Livonia Spartan Aquatic club scored 91 points to finish fourth in the team standings at the state short course swim championships (ages 13-18), hosted by the Capitol Area Swim League last weekend at McCaffrey Pool on the campus of Michigan State University.

The Spartans won 15 individual races and one relay.

Plymouth Salem High School junior Ron Orris was the high-point champion in the Boys 15-16 age division, winning all six events including the 200 and 400-yard individual medleys, 100, 200 and 500 freestyles, and 100 butterfly (state record).

Teammate Scott DeWolf (Boys 13-14) captured four events — 200 butterfly, 400 IM, 500 and 1,000 freestyles. He also took second in the 1,650 freestyle and 100 butterfly.

Also in the Boys 13-14 age division, the Spartans' Matt Martin, Alex Goecke, Ryan Freeborn and DeWolf took the medley relay.

The Spartans finished second in the Boys 13-14 team standings with 580 points.

THE BULLDOG AQUATIC CLUB also turned in several outstanding performances, led by Julie Jensen, Aaron Rieder and Troy Shumate.

In the Girls 17-18 age division, Jensen took second in the 100 and 200-yard backstrokes, fourth in the 200 butterfly, fifth in both the 200 and 400 individual medleys, and ninth, 100 butterfly.

Rieder, competing in the Boys 13-14 category, finished second in the 200 backstroke, 200 and 400 IMs. He also took third in the 500, 1,000 and 1,650 freestyle events.

Troy Shumate excelled in the Boys 15-16 division, taking first in the 1,000 and 1,650 freestyles where he set pool records for Lansing Community College in both events. He also took second in the 200 and 500 freestyles, third, 100 butterfly, and fourth, 200 butterfly.

All boys ages 11 or 12 (but not 13 before Aug. 1, 1989) are welcome. For information call Bob Ruete at 397-8149 or Chet Kapla at 459-0765 after 7:30 p.m.

KARATE CLASSES

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department is offering karate lessons for all levels from 7:30-9 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays. The cost is $35 per person for 10 weeks.

Sam Santilli, a sixth-degree black belt, will instruct all ages in the Isshinryu style of karate. Registration is on a continuous basis. For details call 397-5110.

South all-stars win blowout

By Steve Kowalek
staff writer

Dick Vitale would have called it "Blowout City."

A.J. Baker called it a mistake. The South team routed the North, 13-1 Sunday in the sixth annual All-Star hockey game played before more than 1,000 fans at Redford's Ice Arena. Baker, the game's director, said it was a mistake because this was the first time he divided talent geographically.

In the five previous games, teams were selected regardless of region, meaning some players from Oberlin had teammates from the Upper Peninsula.

This time, the South completely outclassed the North, and led 4-0 after one period and 7-1 heading into the third period. Livonia Churchill right winger Jeff Pendell was the game's Most Valuable Player, scoring

ing four goals and adding two assists.

ADAM MITCHELL, formerly a coach at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, guided the South team.

"This year, the people up north spoke to us and thought they had enough talent to warrant a North-South game," Baker said. "Whatever they thought, they were slightly wrong."

Will it happen again? "Absolutely not," Baker said. "It will never happen again. If it does happen again, it's tough luck. We can't afford to have blowouts like that. I knew when it was 7-1 it was the wrong way to go. I like to think this is a pretty neat showcase."

Pendell's performance might have earned him at least a partial scholarship to college. Western coach Tom Scanlon, Michigan State coach Ron Mason and Bowling Green coach Ron York were among the coaches who attended the game, Baker said.

"I just wanted to play well, I guess," said Pendell, who scored 24 goals for Churchill. "I didn't do it all myself. I had a lot of help from my linemates (including Churchill teammate Mike Kneiding)."

"I DIDN'T HAVE a real big goal-scoring year and we don't get too much exposure, playing in our league (Suburban Prep). I'm not counting on a scholarship, but I think I helped my chances. I want to go to Western, but I haven't heard from them yet."

Southgate Anderson's Jeff Christensen was the game's second star, scoring two goals for the winners. Sault Ste. Marie senior Todd Mapes was third star. Alpena's Wes Gentry tallied the North's only goal.

Scoring single goals for the South were Kneiding, Zac Fryer (Birmingham Brother Rice), Tony Thompson (Rice), Charlie Olshchanski (Livonia Franklin), Joe Ahmet (Churchill), Scott Stewart (Anderson) and Brian Lindstrom (Anderson).

Baker said fine goaltending by the South contributed to the lopsided score. The three South goalies — Stevenson's Paul Strauch, Trenton's Derek Mento and Allen Park Cabrin's Joe Aho — kicked away 31 of the North's 32 shots. The South fired 44 shots against the North.

"Strauch made some tremendous saves in the first period and that made a big, big difference," Baker said.

DCD wants to be 'B'

By Bill Parker
staff writer

Detroit Country Day was in a league of its own during the last basketball season.

Playing as an independent Class C team, the Yellowjackets met eight Class A teams, three Class B teams and still managed to outscore their opponents by better than 500 points. DCD scored 1,947 points while its opponents combined for 1,442.

In the state tournament, the Jackets outscored their opponents 577-383, including a 39-point, 82-43 victory over Ishpeming in the championship game.

With such domination of the Class C schools, DCD is contemplating a move up to Class B next year.

"I'm 95-percent sure it's going to happen," said DCD coach and athletic director Kurt Keener. "All I need now is approval from my headmaster."

"The move would have two purposes. No. 1, it would present a little better competition. It would present a good challenge for the program. No. 2, it would be a good public relations move. It may offset some of the tension between the public and private schools. Maybe it would allow a better chance for someone else to win state."

Such a move wouldn't affect the other sport programs at DCD since the Michigan High School Athletic Association allows one sport at a school to move up in class while the other sports remain at the same level.

If the boys basketball program moves up to Class B, it would be committed to stay at that level of competition for two years before dropping back down to Class C.

If things do go well in Class B, would DCD consider moving up to Class A for the 1990-91 or would it still be locked into Class B for another year?

Foster care panel seeks members

Volunteers are needed to review foster care in Wayne County.

The State Court Administrative Office seeks volunteers to serve on one of the county's eight foster care review boards.

Board members meet each month to review cases of children placed in foster care homes as the result of abuse or neglect. Reviews determine if appropriate efforts are being made by the Michigan Department of Social Services, juvenile court and private child care agencies to find a permanent home for the children.

A cross section of volunteers is sought, though applicants must live in Wayne County. Employees of the DSS, juvenile court or private child care agencies are ineligible.

New board members will attend two days' training in Lansing. Meeting expenses are reimbursed. Those interested in volunteering can write: Michigan Foster Care Review Board, Plaza Building, 1200 Sixth St., Suite P-150, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

Applications must be received by Monday, April 3. Additional information is available by calling 254-1540.

Research sheds new light on behavior of black bear

Many of our fears of wildlife result from misinformation. The more we learn about animals and plants the more we come to respect and appreciate them.

A recent study of black bears in northern Minnesota shows that our long-held belief that they are "ferocious" is not entirely true. Different species of bear behave differently.

Grizzly bears will attack to defend their young. Female black bears with cubs neither attacked, nor made contact with, a researcher who followed them within a few feet for 24-hour periods during the summer.

OUR CONCEPTS about animals are often too generalized and should be reserved for only that species which was studied.

These same researchers even took food from a black bear for examination and were not mauled or injured. The bear charged, in an effort to intimidate the researcher. But when the investigator held his ground, the bear eventually walked away.

Grizzly bears will, however, protect their food.

This kind of research is being done to learn more about what does pro-nature

Timothy Nowicki

voke occasional attacks. If we learn what is normal, we can learn about what is causing the abnormal.

Following a bear around the woods at close range may sound crazy, but it has produced a tremendous amount of information regarding the behavior and requirements of wild animals.

Continued work on the Kirtland's warbler by dedicated people has probably kept this species from extinction. Years of research on its northern Michigan breeding range have yielded enough information to allow man to maintain the population at about 450 individuals for the past 20 years.

Without information on habitat requirements, interactions with the parasitic brown-headed cowbird, and wintering grounds survival, the Kirtland's warbler may have been added to the growing list of animal extinctions.

Despite the growing amount of information dealing with various species, it will be a long time before we can confidently say we know all the answers. One thing learning about wildlife does, however, is to teach us how complex and interconnected life on Earth really is.

The writer is staff naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park.

Schools chief to speak at SC

Water beads right off Wolmanized EXTRA Weather-Resistant Lumber because it's got something "extra" — it's pressure treated with a special water repellent to prevent moisture penetration from rain and snow. As it dries, it releases moisture and shrinks. Constant expansion and contraction causes grain raising, checking, splintering and warping. Spray or brush-on water sealers just can't repel water like Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber — in laboratory tests Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber shows almost two-thirds more moisture resistance than pressure-treated lumber protected with a leading water sealer. Of course, this fantastic lumber is also pressure treated with chemicals for lifelong protection against termites, rot and decay. Don't settle for ordinary treated lumber. Insist on Wolmanized EXTRA!

Architect becomes do-it-yourselfer

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

MICHAEL STERN, architect/builder had a special advantage when he renovated his Birmingham home. He and his wife and two little daughters lived in it while he drew up his plans and did the actual work.

Living there through the planning and work stages tested everyone's patience, but the finished product made it all worth while. Stern came to know his house and site intimately — he preserved the views they loved and designed windows to capitalize on the best flow of air and the best light at all times of day. He said when he was an architect working for a large New York based firm, he seldom saw the buildings he designed for overseas clients.

The home, located on a ravine site in the Mill Pond area of downtown Birmingham, was built in 1950 for concert pianist and teacher, Dorothy Roosevelt, sister-in-law of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It was one story, 1,000 square feet in size and avant-garde in design. The floor to ceiling windows in the living room overlook the ravine. The room was designed to hold two grand pianos and 75 listeners. It had a tiny kitchen at the back, an area off the living room with a folding door served as a bedroom.

Stern said, "They couldn't sell this house. It had been on the market for months, it didn't even qualify for a mortgage because there were no sleeping quarters."

STILL STERN remembers saying as soon as he walked for the first time, "I've got to have this house — it is just too special."

They put up temporary partitions to divide the living room for more bedroom space and a family area, moved in and Stern set to work on his design.

"It took two years before I got the plans done — that I got a design we were happy with," he said.

The original house presented some special challenges. Certainly the pitch of the room had been a stumbling block for many who would buy it with the idea of adding to it. Another was how to integrate what in the 50s, was an avant garde design, into a contemporary style that would blend with the traditional character of the neighborhood. For Stern's "new house" would be far more visible than the original one which was partially hidden by trees.

He began construction a year ago and did much of the work himself, changing and adapting as he went. He enjoyed the do-it-yourselfer's built-in flexibility.

The house, completed several months ago, is tripled in size. A strong rectilinear form with gabled ends rises from the contemporary, lateral base. The original great room overlooking the ravine, which Stern loved from the beginning, is in tact. But now there's a second floor with a master suite, two additional bedrooms for the girls and a loft area playroom. On the first level in the addition is a elegant contemporary kitchen and family room toward the street side. No space is wasted.

Homes for the 90s

THERE ARE SKYLIGHTS, walls of windows, clean curved lines, white walls and open surfaces. The entire home is bathed in soft filtered light. Each element was carefully thought out for placement, quality and texture. The shaped, dropped ceiling in the black and white kitchen reflects the shaped center island directly beneath it. The black and white tiles behind the sink are textured to give depth and sculptural quality to the wall. The white-stained, pickled oak floor in the kitchen is functional as well as appropriate to the contemporary look.

"I'm into very simple taste," said Stern as he stood by one of two stained glass windows that are geometric in design and add only a discreet, tasteful bits of color to the interior.

This is true throughout the house — color is introduced with discretion. The natural light and the flow of architectural line are strong elements.

Heating and cooling were other challenges that may have dissuaded potential buyers of the original house. There are now two types — radiant heating on the first level (as in the original house) and forced air on the second. The combination works well, said Stern.

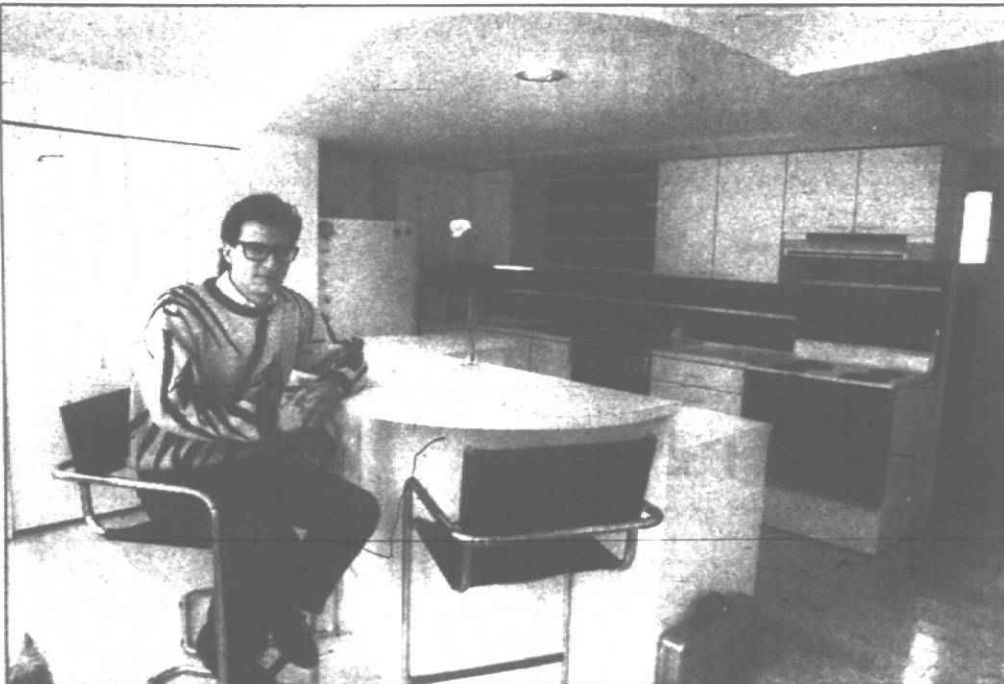

He said he always builds a model before he completes a design — this one took several models before the solutions became clear. "The constraints pretty well told me what to do — as an architect, I like that."

And his original judgement holds true — it is a very special house.

Staff photos
by Jerry Zolynsky

The two-story center section plus everything in the foreground is new, the small section at the back, seen in the rear at the left, is the original house.

Michael Stern has a pleasant view of the family room from where he sits in the smart, contemporary kitchen. To his right is the hall along the north side of the house with lots of windows.

The great room of the original house is now done in all light colors. It still has the wonderful view that Michael Stern fell in love with.

Diaz to write book column

AFAMILIAR name to Observer & Eccentric readers will take over the Book Break column which appears semimonthly in the Creative Living section.

Authoring the column will be Victoria Diaz, whose feature articles and movie/book reviews have appeared in the O&E for a number of years.

Victoria Diaz

A resident of Livonia, Diaz will take over from Mona Grigg who gave up writing the column in order to devote more time to writing fiction.

A FREE-LANCE writer in the area for 10 years, Diaz is a graduate of Schoolcraft College and the University of Michigan-Dearborn. She has participated in the Writers-in-the-Schools program in Ann Arbor and has taught creative writing in Livonia and Southfield Community Education program. She has also taught creative writing in Schoolcraft College's Continuing Education program.

A member of the executive board of the Detroit Women Writers, she has been a speaker at the Oakland University Writers Conference and will be co-chairwoman of the conference to be held in October.

In addition to the O&E, her work has appeared in other area newspapers, including the Toledo Blade Sunday Magazine, Michigan Woman, the Jewish News, the Detroit News and Detroit Free Press.

She has had some of her short fiction and poetry published in various university journals. Currently she is working on a collection of short stories, "War News from the Home Front."

Recital set

Violinist Sheila Fiekowsky, native Detroit, will be the guest for the final concert of the Julius Chajes Music Fund Concert Series. The concert will be 3 p.m. Sunday, April 2 at the Aaron DeRoy Theater of the Jewish Community Center, 6800 West Maple, West Bloomfield. Fiekowsky is member of the Boston Symphony, soloist and chamber musician.

Orchestra to play local composer's work

A work for symphony orchestra, "Reflections on a Rainbow," by Elaine Lebenbom, Birmingham resident and composer, will be performed in a concert by the Warren Symphony Orchestra at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, April 9.

David Daniels will conduct the concert to be held at the Warren Woods Community Theatre, E. 12 Mile at Schoenher, Warren.

"My inspiration for the work was a double rainbow I sighted in northern Michigan in 1982," said Lebenbom. "I wanted to transfer the beauty of that rainbow to the varied and evocative colors of a symphony orchestra and have been excited by the prospect of working with the Warren Symphony to execute the piece."

Lebenbom is a recent recipient on an Individual Artist's Grant from Michigan Council for the Arts. The one-year grant, her first, will allow her to prepare her opera "The Witch, The Wise man and The Fool" for production. "Only 10 percent of those submitting proposals were funded, so I feel very fortunate," she said.

Lebenbom has been a Birmingham resident for more than 20 years. She earned a bachelor's and master's in music composition from the University of Michigan, 27 years apart. She has written or composed operas, sonnets, chamber works, lullabies, poems and sound tracks for slide presentations in her 30-year musical career.

Mirroring is smart

Q. We have converted a walk-in closet in the hall leading from our great room into a bar. With the plumbing from the kitchen backing up to the closet wall, we have been able to have a wet bar. This is a dark area. What can I do to give this room some glitz and be practical at the same time? We have installed ready made dark oak cabinets — one where the sink is and on the opposite wall which will serve as the bar itself. We face a blank wall as you enter the room. We just had a black and white mini pattern carpet put on the floor.

A. If cost isn't a big consideration, use Corian on the counter tops. Your white Corian will be uplifting. I suggest mirroring the wall you face as you enter your bar. Have the mirror supplier install eight-inch wide strips from floor to ceiling. Each strip should have a bevel on either side. Add them together and you will have a much smarter look than just mirroring the wall. If cost is a consideration, I suggest you use a laminate. The brushed chrome for your counters will give the sparkle you need. I would use the mirrored wall here as well.

May 2 begins my second year of teaching "A New Approach to Interior Design" at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The class runs for 7½ weeks. For information, call Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 881-7511.

Noted paleontologist holds 3 workshops

If you're interested in dinosaurs — and who isn't these days? — you're in for a Mesozoic treat when the paleontologist whose name is synonymous with the subject makes Cranbrook Institute of Science his headquarters on Saturday, April 8, for three programs focusing on the newest theories.

Jack Horner, curator of paleontology at the Museum of the Rockies in Bozeman, Mont., will discuss his latest dinosaur discoveries, including that of an extensive Maiasaura nesting ground in the western United States. This 2½ hour workshop for ages 12 through adult will be held in a casual, personal setting. It begins at 9:30 a.m. in the institute.

"Dinosaurs for Everyone," a one-hour presentation for the entire family, will cover dinosaur families, including the "Good Mother Lizard," and care of her young. Designed for all ages, this will take place at 3 p.m. in the auditorium.

Finally, "An Evening with Jack Horner" for adults will feature a discussion of contemporary dinosaur theories, including behavior and growth patterns. Refreshments will be served in the Fossil Lab area following the 8 p.m. lecture.

Tickets are priced at $25 for the workshop, $5 for adults and $3 for children for the family presentation, and $10 for the evening lecture. They can be reserved by calling 645-3230. Early registration is suggested for the workshop since seating is limited.
