Cross burned at Canton mobile home

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A wooden cross was burned earlier this month on the front lawn of a 36-year-old white Canton man, Canton police reported.

The College Park mobile home resident told police he believed the burning was "due to his attitude toward blacks or possibly since some of his visiting relatives are Arab Americans."

THE VICTIM declined comment to the Observer, saying it was too early to speculate what happened. He said he wants to wait until after police investigate the incident.

Historically cross burnings have been used by white extremist groups to terrorize blacks.

This case is considered a civil rights violation and is being investigated by the FBI along with Canton police.

No one was reported injured and the only damage was to the small area of grass where the cross burned, said Dave Boljesic, Canton police spokesman.

There are no suspects, he said.

The 30-year-old neighbor, who put the fire out, told the victim he wasn't sure if the incident happened at dusk June 3 or 4, a police report said.

"All I know is we put it out," the neighbor told the Observer.

A police report said the neighbor found the cross on the front lawn next to the door of his neighbor's mobile home.

The victim was on vacation late last month and early this month and wasn't home when the incident occurred, a police report said.

At least two other cross burnings have been reported in metro Detroit in the last couple of weeks.

WHEN POLICE believe civil rights are violated, the FBI is asked to conduct a preliminary investigation that usually takes 20 days. And that information is sent to the civil rights division of the U.S. Department of Justice.

"We instituted an investigation on that cross burning as of today," said John Anthony, FBI special agent.

"We just got the basic facts," he said Friday afternoon.

Possible charges in a civil rights case is a $1,000 fine or one year in jail. If the case involves a personal injury the possible punishment is a $10,000 fine or 10 years in prison.

In a separate case, a grand jury investigation is continuing in a possible civil rights violation involving a fire set in 1986 in the apartment of a black family living in a Honeytree apartment.

No one was reported injured in that incident, either.

Drunk driving arrests fall 18%

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Drunken driving arrests by city of Plymouth police officers rose nearly 71 percent through the first five months of 1989 compared to last year, according to figures provided by the department.

Ninety-nine arrests were made through May of this year compared to 58 during the same period last year.

What makes the figures astonishing is that the city consists of only 2.3 square miles. Plus, police Chief Richard Myers said that no special enforcement effort has been implemented to crack down on drunken drivers.

"I can't account for the raw numbers being higher," Myers said. "Anything's possible. I know in the last three years as a department we have put a higher priority on traffic enforcement in general."

ALMOST TWICE as many drunken driving arrests occurred in April and May than during January, February and March both this year and last, city police figures indicate.

"Typically at this time of year, you see more alcohol-related events," Myers said. "It's warmer, graduation, picnic season, vacation season. People tend to go out more. And cruising. That's a factor."

High turnout forecast for school ballot

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Voters at the polls today are taking part in one of the most heated elections in the history of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Turnout is expected to top 15 percent — well above average.

As of Friday, 1,496 absentee ballots were taken out — an all-time high, said district election clerk Bernice Nichols.

On the ballot are a request for an 8-mill renewal and a property tax increase of 4 mills. Both are two-year proposals. The polls are open until 8 p.m.

Voters also will elect one school board member. Challenging incumbent David Artley are Robert Anderson, Carl Battishill, Mary Buti, Brian Kidston, Joan Kotcher and Ronald Turner.

Superintendent John Hoben made no predictions but said he's "very much encouraged" by the work of citizens' groups. "There's greatly increased activity this year. I'm not exactly sure what that means. But it's good to see citizens taking an active part in the determination of what goes on in the school district.

"They've made an outstanding effort to open up communications. And we're very much interested in keeping them open once this election is over with," Hoben said.

"This should be our biggest turnout," he added. "I think information has been disseminated, and it's finally getting its proper airing. People realize the district is in trouble."

School officials say $3.2 million in cuts will be necessary if the 4-mill increase doesn't pass.

Many in the district have said they believe Citizens for Better Education — a group of Christian conservatives backing Anderson for school board — has overshadowed the election.

Hoben doesn't share the view. "I'm not too sure it has influenced

A group of Sherwood Mobile Home park residents were issued eviction notices last week.

The residents deposited their money in an escrow account due to what they said were sewer problems in the park.

A spokesman for Lautrec, Ltd., the owner of the trailer park, said when renters fail to pay their rent they are evicted. However, he wouldn't be specific or comment further on the case.

"The issue is that they're living on top of a human waste landfill," said Maryem Rafani, an attorney with Neighborhood Legal Services, a legal service for low-income people.

RAFANI SAID she is representing one Sherwood resident.

"To be here when it rains is unbelievable," said Don Chudzinski, who is also putting his rent in escrow. Chudzinski believes the stench is coming from the sewers.

"There is actual human feces coming from under the ground around people's homes," said Chudzinski, who estimated that 47 Sherwood residents received eviction notices.

The disgruntled residents informed Lautrec in Farmington Hills on May 4 that they would start placing their rent payments in the escrow account beginning June 1, Chudzinski said.

Rena Santamour, a 12-year Sherwood resident, said the water level on her property has been bothersome.

"We're in such a low level," Santamour said. "Is that right for them to jeopardize our health for a profit?"

They were issued eviction notices last week, Chudzinski said.

"We have raw sewage coming out of the ground," Chudzinski said.

Residents complain about what they have said are unfair rent increases.

Most residents in the park pay between $273 and $303 monthly, he said.

"We pay $300 to live on a cesspool," said Chudzinski, who lives in the mobile home with his son.

anyone way or another," he said. "People have their minds pretty well made up. Whoever is elected, we will have to work with."

CBE has taken a neutral stance on the 8-mill renewal. It has opposed the 4-mill increase. CBE chairman Diane Daskalakis, who spearheaded the Anderson campaign, said she's optimistic.

"Let's face it. The lines have been drawn. Bob is the only true conservative running. And Bob is the only one telling people it is OK if they don't vote for that increase."

"I think it's very important that there be a voice such as mine that takes a stand for morality," said Anderson. "There is such a thing as right or wrong."

"I believe the school board hasn't reflected the values of taxpayers," he added. Anderson supports the renewal and said the 4 mill increase isn't needed.

ARTLEY HAS received criticism for his election expenditures. The school board president estimated he'd spent $5,600 as of last Thursday.

"I'm really upset about the amount of money he is spending," said Kotcher. "I've spent so much less on my campaign I can't believe it. I don't think this election should be bought."

"This reflects on the type of member he's going to be. I'm selective with my spending so that I get a good return for my dollar."

"That's the way a board president ought to be in work, a campaign and on the board," she said.

Responded Artley, "I had to give 101 percent. I would have run an aggressive, hard campaign no matter who was in the race. I would have done this if it was myself and one other candidate or 20 other candidates."

achieved the votes they'll need to pass the 4 mills. "She's less hopeful about her chances of being elected."

"A lot of people have told me I am a very highly qualified candidate," she said. "I think if CBE weren't involved, things would be a lot different. I hate to be a casualty of that, but I believe the community is more important."

Kotcher also has been encouraged by "a couple of board members who've said that if David Artley is elected, he will never be president again because he's such a poor president. He's mishandled the public, and he's the reason for the problems we have."

"People who go to the board come away very unhappy with the reception they get. That's very important. If people are dissatisfied with one contact, they're dissatisfied with the whole school system," she said. "You're not going to get your Headlee overrides and your millages."

Kotcher also found on the campaign trail that "a lot of people are added. They realize schools cost money and they're willing to pay their fair share."

Artley, said Battishill, "has escaped a tremendous amount of criticism because of CBE. If elected next year, I'd really have to confront him and say we have to move forward here."

Battishill differs with Artley about whether Plymouth-Canton has some of the best schools in the state.

"I teach in schools (in West Bloomfield) that have won national awards. This district is really average. That is one of the reasons I am running."

Battishill wonders how many people realize Plymouth-Canton schools spend thousands of dollars less per student than do numerous metropolitan area districts.

Drunk driving arrests up in Plymouth

Carl Berry, police chief in Plymouth Township, said that officers in his department are on approximately the same pace as last year with drunken driving arrests.

Township police had made 99 arrests for drunken driving through last Thursday, Berry said. They cleared 255 all of last year.

Drunken driving arrests in Canton through the first five months of this year compared with last are down 18 percent — from 144 to 118, according to Dave Boljesic, community relations officer.

NEITHER BERRY nor Myers believes that the number of people who actually get behind the wheel of a car while drunk or impaired has changed much in recent years.

Judge James Garber of 35th District Court also addressed that point. "My suggestion is the amount of drinking drivers doesn't fluctuate much," Garber said. "Amount of enforcement" determines numbers brought into the court.

"It's not so simple you can say this is the factor causing it. There probably are five or six factors causing it," Garber said.

"You get increased crime attractors, increased enforcement, increased population. Therefore, you have more crime."

Garber said he hasn't noticed a recent increase in the number of drunken driving cases he hears. Then, again, many from May and June haven't yet come before him.

Garber hears cases from Canton, both Plymouths and Northville.

AS MAY be expected, most drunken driving arrests take place on the most heavily trafficked roads — Main Street in the city, Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township and Ford and Michigan Avenue in Canton.

Most arrests occur in the late evening and early morning hours. More men than women are stopped.

Police observation of erratic driving is the most common reason for a traffic stop in the city that leads to a drunken driving arrest, Myers said.

Coming upon accident scenes and notification of a potentially dangerous driver are the next two common ways police meet up with drunken drivers, he said.

"ALL THE publicity and programs out there haven't decreased the number of drunk drivers on the road," Berry said. "I don't know why."

Lt. Larry Stewart of the Canton police takes a slightly different view. "I would think there certainly has been an impact," he said. "I think the overall picture is getting better. I think fewer are getting behind the wheel drunk."

Stanley Goldberg, president of the Wayne County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving, agrees with Stewart.

"I think we're going to need another 30 years to say it's really working," Goldberg said.

Tenant for Farmer Jack store could move in within 2 months

An owner of the vacant Farmer Jack store on Main Street in Plymouth said last week that he expects another tenant — most likely a non-food retailer — to be in business there "in the next couple of months."

Borman Inc. unexpectedly closed its downtown Farmer Jack store last December just before plans to merge with A&P were announced. The 16,855-square-foot store has been vacant since. "There's nothing in writing between us and another tenant at this point," said Stanley Dickson Jr., a Grosse Pointe lawyer who owns the building.

"There's been a fair amount of interest. We've had businesses from restaurants to hardware stores to grocery stores interested in the property," he said.

THE SITE, one of the most visible on Main, has the largest concentration of free parking of any single store in the city.

Borman, which has a long-term lease on the building, is continuing to say rent, Dickson said. Both he and Borman are looking for another tenant, he said.

"It certainly is a unique building in that it's probably too small for most large grocery chains and too large for many small retail stores," Dickson said. "It's a tremendous location."

"To divide that building into smaller segments would be very costly. It would probably be in a tenant's and landlord's best interest to find one tenant," he said.

carrier of the month

Canton

David Goemer, an eighth grader at Lowell Middle School, has been named Carrier of the Month for June by the Canton Observer.

David, 13, is the son of Michael and Darlene Goemer.

His favorite subjects are math and gym. His hobbies are fishing and baseball. He has several baseball trophies.

He said he plans on attending college to become a veterinarian.

He said the thing he likes most about his route is getting done. Doing the route has helped him learn how to manage his money.

He said other young people could benefit from a route because it teaches them to earn money and be organized.

High school graduates remembered with PRIDE

By Diane Gale, staff writer

In the year that will be remembered for the disturbances in China, more than 1,100 Plymouth-Canton high school students will have the summer of 1989 etched in their minds for another reason.

The graduating class donned cap and gown and became Plymouth-Canton alumni Sunday in Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor.

EARLIER THIS year, 596 Plymouth-Canton diplomas and 593 Plymouth-Salem diplomas were ordered for graduation ceremonies.

Since each of 1,089 students were given seven tickets, local school facilities were unable to handle the capacity crowds, said Dick Egli, spokesman for the Plymouth-Canton schools.

This year came close in size to last year's class, which broke the district's record as being the largest ever graduated, Egli said. Plymouth-Canton schools graduated 1,200 students in 1988.

The class of '89 may not be remembered for its size, but it will be thought of for its participation, along with teachers, in PRIDE. The group was formed this year and worked on the appearance of the school.

"This year has been a very responsible class," said Gerald Ostoin, Salem High School principal.

There's an area I patrol that I can leave and come back and it will be clean," Ostoin said. "A lot of people question if you can get kids interested in something like that today."

James Hartness, won the highest place; Suzanne Long, took second place; Dan Gorsich, placed third; Lara Crosby, won fourth; Catherine Yeung, William Teller and John Sticer, tied for fifth place; Lane Beatty, won eighth place, and Ashley Miller, Colleen McGurran, Ross McFarland and Heather Keller tied for ninth place.

The top graduating students this year at Plymouth-Salem are as follows:

Anindya Roy, won first place ranking; Richard Cundiff, won second place; Peter Stelmazek, placed third; Kristopher Erickson, won fourth place; Umesh Patel, took fifth place; Laura Bodell, placed sixth; Joan Zaretti, was in seventh place; Sarah Andrews, was in eighth place; Joanna Wiklund, placed ninth, and Katie Vesnaugh, was in 10th place.

Plymouth-Canton bus driver steering for victory in contest

By Melissa Rozek, staff writer

A Plymouth-Canton school bus driver has qualified for the 1989 State School Bus Roadshow in Eaton Rapids, to be held Wednesday, June 21.

Her name is Kay Yager, and she's no stranger to bus "roadshows." This is her 14th.

The annual events are sponsored by AAA Michigan and the Michigan Association for Pupil Transportation (MAPT).

"Roadshows encourage drivers to practice skills they use daily when transporting students," said Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Safety and Traffic manager.

This year, Yager finished second in the regional competition in Detroit. The top three regional finalists were invited to the state competition.

"I've always gone into the competition competing against myself rather than the other drivers," Yager said, "and if I happen to get a score good enough to go to the state roadshow, then I'm very pleased with myself."

In the state competition, she will be driving against 50 other contestants from Michigan.

Contestants are encouraged to drive their own buses and Yager will be driving one she's taken to the last 16 competitions.

Yager's been driving a school bus for 13 years for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, and said she enjoys the students.

She added, however, that there have to be rules and guidelines. "You do have to have a lot of patience," she said.

The contest includes a written test and a timed verbal test, as well as a physical test of their ability to operate a school bus in a narrow area and skill at performing basic driving maneuvers.

Yager said the event is good for keeping a driver's skills at their best. Finalists at state competitions are invited to the national finals, who be held later this year in Traverse City.

Rouge rescue:

Hero drawing praise after saving woman from river

By C.L. Rugenstein
staff writer

It was a real Rouge River rescue all right. But it wasn't the river that was in danger when Charles Dawson, 38, of Redford pulled a woman out of her car after it jumped the bank and plunged into the water. "I'm not a big fan of going swimming in the Rouge River," Dawson said recently of his deed on the last Tuesday in April. "The only thing I could think of was getting whoever was in the car out as quickly as possible. His quick action saved the life of the driver, a 60-year old Dexter woman. The woman had been trapped when the car landed upside down in about five feet of water.

DAWSON WAS on his way home from work when he noticed the car driving on the shoulder of the road about four car lengths ahead of him on Ann Arbor Trail. At first, he didn't realize anything was wrong. "It looked like she was passing on the shoulder of the road but she just kept going back and forth on the grass. As Dawson watched, the car went over the bank, flipped, and fell about six or seven feet into the water. By the time he arrived at the scene, about three cars had stopped, and "people were out of their cars looking," but no one had tried to rescue the driver.

Dawson said he had his shirt off and dove into the water before he realized what he was doing. The passenger side had landed against the river bank. But the window in the driver's side door was open. "I reached in," he felt a person, and pulled her out," Dawson said. He also noticed she wasn't strapped into her seat belt, a factor he believes might have delayed the underwater rescue. "But except for being 'pretty shook up,' the woman was breathing fine" when he brought her out of the water, Dawson said. He put a blanket from his car around her until a rescue truck arrived and took the woman to Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

FOR ALL its drama, Dawson's action in saving the woman went relatively unnoticed. "No one except the Wayne County Sheriff's Department spoke to him after the rescue, Dawson said. He gave bystanders, who hadn't made a move to help before he got there, a piece of his mind as he came out of the water with the woman. But he said, in looking back, he believes they were probably in shock, too. Rosemary Moorehead, office manager of the Livonia tool shop where Dawson has worked for two years, alerted the Observer about Dawson's deed. "Did you hear about it?" people at the shop had asked Moorehead when she got back from vacation. "My first reaction was — 'Did anyone report it? I was surprised no one had.' ACCORDING TO Moorehead, Dawson, a 1978 graduate of Livonia Churchill High, is easygoing and gets along well with everyone. He made light of it when she asked him about the rescue. "Oh yeah, I just pulled her out of the window," Moorehead said he told her. Dawson also never knew what that's the last I heard of her." The woman, whose friends asked that her name not be used, was treated at the hospital and released. The friends didn't know who to thank for her rescue. "We were lead to believe that the fire department pulled her out," said George Akkazan, a friend of the family. Dawson, meanwhile, doesn't plan any more swims in the Rouge River for a while. "My girlfriend was a little worried about it," he said with a chuckle. "It took me a good day to get the taste out of my mouth." Instead, he'll spend his spare time working around his Redford home, and rebuilding vintage Harley Davidson motorcycles. "If he had it to do over again, would he?" "Oh, yeah," he said. "I'm sure of it."

Charles Dawson of Redford became a hero of sorts at work after it was learned he saved a woman's life by preventing her from drowning.

DNR picks up on students' call on dump

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

The only things spoiling the beauty of a woods in Plymouth Township where Erik Schultz played as a kid are strewn-about barrels and bedsprings, tires, rusted car doors, washers, refrigerators, gas cans, bricks, dirty carpeting, pallets and pools of stagnant, discolored water. For years, debris has been dumped among the trees, bushes and wild daisies that cover about 100 acres bounded by the C & O railroad tracks east of Sheldon and south of M-14.

Schultz, now a junior at Plymouth-Canton High School, was reminded of the area while studying environmental issues in a social studies class. He and a friend, Brendan Rutledge, took a walk through the woods. Not much had changed. "Someone's using that area for a dump," said Schultz. "We found two barrels in a stream that said CSX on them. There's water that smells really bad, and it's different colors." Schultz and Rutledge called Plymouth Township and the state Department of Natural Resources. Anthony Pitts, DNR environmental quality analyst, toured the area with Schultz and Rutledge last week. They found plenty of household refuse and a few empty drums, but no evidence of what Pitts called priority pollutants. Because of that, Pitts said the DNR will have minimal involvement in cleaning up the site. "We'll send a letter to the township and the property owner explaining that there is dumping on their property in violation of state landfill laws. "We'll refer them to township hall and excuse ourselves from the case,"

Pitts said. Because the site is being developed, the problem may soon be taken care of, said Charles Van Vleck, Plymouth Township administrative assistant to the fire chief. R.A. DeMattia Co. and CSX Transportation in a joint venture are building Plymouth Oaks Business Park. About 21 large buildings will eventually comprise an industrial subdivision. Bulldozers were clearing the land as Pitts, Rutledge and Schultz walked through the woods. DeMattia could not be reached for comment. Van Vleck praised Schultz and Rutledge for drawing attention to the matter. "It's certainly a cause we have to address. What they did was pretty good. It showed some real initiative." Van Vleck said he's unsure exactly how the township will proceed. "We've never run into this type of situation before," he said.

4 groups outline plans to develop county land

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Four groups — including a Who's Who of local and national developers and famous golf pros — have made bids for major developments on 1,000 acres of land Wayne County owns in Northville Township. The deadline bid was 4 p.m. Thursday. Bidders include groups aligned with Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer. Bill Wild, the county's director of business development, declined to give details of the bids. He said the four bids would be narrowed to two finalists in about 90 days, with approval of the eventual developer by county executive Edward McNamara and the county commission expected by September. Wild said demolition of about 50-55 buildings on the site could begin as early as next winter.

The land, which includes the former Child Development Center, is from east of Sheldon west to Elk and from Five Mile north towards Mile. Zoning approval for development will be required by Northville Township. HERE ARE descriptions of the four development groups and their projects. GROUP I: Headed by the Tam-based Nicklaus Sierra Development Corp., Group I partners are LoPn & Co. of Southfield, the Far Group, headed by financier J. Fisher's son, Phillip, Holtzman, Silverman Cos. of Farmington Hills, and Indianapolis-based Duke Associates, also involved in developing office complexes on Schoolcraft College property along I-275 in Livot. The Nicklaus proposal would develop 550 acres of the land. Since founding six years ago, Nicklaus Sierra has developed six exclusive golf-course communities nationwide, with single-family homes surrounding the golf courses. The homes sit on one-acre lots that cost up to $800,000. GROUP II: This group's golf course would be designed by Lee Trevino. Partners include Robert DeMat-golf course, single-family homes, condominiums, recreational facilities for use by residents of Northville and Plymouth, renovation of some existing facilities and a high-tech center. "We're going to be the winner. We know we are," said DeMattia. GROUP III: According to partner Arnold Cohen, this group has a commitment but has not yet signed a contract with Arnold Palmer Cohen, his son, Walter, and Hubert Wright own Charter Development Co., which has built 12,000 senior citizen housing units in southeastern Michigan as well as office buildings, warehouses, and shopping centers, including Franklin Shopping Center in Southfield. The Cohens also own Arco Construction of Southfield. Their partners are John Boll and Joseph Minstrell, who own Chateau Land Development Co. of Mt. Clemens. GROUP IV: This group includes J. & J. Slavik Inc. of Farmington Hills, Byron Terrace Co., a real-estate brokerage firm based in Birmingham, Vidosh Inc., a Pontiac-based landscaping and developing company, and Trammell Crow, one of the nation's largest developers and developers of the Novi Town Center. The J's in the Slavik company stand for a father and son, both of whom are named Joseph. According to Joseph Sr., the group plans to build two golf courses and is interested in hiring golf-course designer Arthur Hill. He didn't want to get into bid specifics, but said it would be "mixed-use," which "takes in most everything," including residential and office.

The four groups — including a Who's Who of local and national developers and famous golf pros — have made bids for major developments on 1,000 acres of land Wayne County owns in Northville Township.

County to clean up contamination at development site

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Wayne County officials say the county, not developers, will pay for the clean up of soil and buildings contaminated with PCB at the Northville Township site that is for sale. Thursday was the deadline for bids on the site, nearly 1,000 acres between Five and Six Mile and east of Sheldon to Beck.

According to Glenn Brown, director of environmental health for the county, the site will be cleaned of PCB before a decision is made on which development group will take the property. (See related story about who made bids and possible plans for the site.) Abandoned buildings and soil at Sheldon were contaminated with PCB in early May, when thieves apparently tore apart old electrical transformers looking for copper. Liquid used to cool the transformers contained unknown levels of PCB, or polychlorinated biphenyl, an insulating material used in electrical equipment manufactured before 1970. Contact with PCB has been linked to rashes, swelling and intestinal disorders. BROWN SAID the contamination posed no threat to homeowners living near the property. "With this kind of problem, you always want it done yesterday," said Brown. "But we can't move too fast until we know the extent of the trouble." He said the site should be cleaned up within a month. "If it's more than a month from now, I'll be very disappointed," he said Thursday. Most of the contamination was inside the former power house, but some PCB was spilled outside on the ground. "It was very limited outside," said Brown. He said soil samples have been taken and the data is "just coming back. We don't have full-fledged response plans, yet, though we're getting close." Until test results are back, he said he would have no estimate of the cost of the cleanup. Brown said he was unsure how much coolant was spilled. He said three transformers were ruptured and that each holds up to 100 gallons of coolant. PCB levels in the coolant can differ widely. Five transformers, including the three broken ones, have been removed. The county put up no-trespassing signs and yellow police tape ordering persons to stay away, but both the signs and the tape have been ripped down by vandals.

THE CANTON police department awarded citations to residents and officers for exemplary public service.

Kimberly and Dale Funk were driving through their mobile home park and saw heavy smoke coming from a mobile home. Dale Funk kicked in the door and he and his wife entered. They found a semiconscious woman on the floor and carried her to their car while waiting for a rescue unit.

THOMAS TAYLOR helped Kimberly and Dale Funk assist a semiconscious woman from a burning mobile home. Taylor entered the burning dwelling to search for others who might have been overcome by the fire.

ROGER HUGGANS was cited for service as a Canton reserve police officer in Canton.

VIRGINIA BABIK, Canton Police detective bureau secretary, was acknowledged for developing a new system using computer spread sheets for pawn shop files, providing detectives with an investigative tool for finding stolen property.

GEORGINA KOLOIAN received a phone call from AAA security who reported a breaking-and-entering alarm at the Clark gas station on Ford Road. When police arrived they found the business had been broken into. Koloian saw a man running from the station and called police. She got a description of the man and saw him running and hiding in a parked pickup truck. Police were sent out and the man was arrested for breaking and entering.

MELISSA SCHRADER responded to a barn fire at the Real Life Farm in Canton. She noticed smoke, entered the barn and removed the animals. As she was leaving, she closed the door, preventing the fire from spreading.

CANTON OFFICERS were given commendations for work performed. A series of armed robberies in five counties were solved and the following officers took part in the case: Sgt. John MacDiarmid and officers Robert Kerr, Keith Lazar, Richard Pomorski, Charles Raycraft and Leonard Schemanske.

Sgt. Roger Pearsall, Sgt. Eddie Tanner and officers William Keppen and Brian Sutzer apprehended other breaking-and-entering suspects.

Officer Kenneth Winkler's work on a robbery led to an arrest and confession.

Beef up choices for grill

Readers are aware of the Janes Gang eating habits know that beef products are not a high priority in the family food budget.

But with Father's Day just around the corner and traditional family barbecues heating up all over, here is a primer for getting the most for your money at the butcher's or meat department of your favorite grocer.

The grades used on all meat and meat products may include the grade names of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and/or the grade names of packers and retailers.

Both grade and brand names are applied to meat with a roller stamp, which leaves its mark the full length of the carcass of cuts. The bluish vegetable-base marking fluid used on all beef and for the inspection stamp is totally harmless.

PRIMARY PURPOSE of the Federal Meat Inspection Stamp is protection of you, the consumer, by guaranteeing that all meat inspected is from healthy animals. It states that the animal was slaughtered and butchered under sanitary conditions and that it is entirely suitable for consumption.

Primary factors determining the value and general acceptability of the carcass include:

a. Conformation. This refers to the general form, shape or outline of the carcass. Superior conformation is characterized by thick backs with full loins and ribs; deep, plump rounds; thick shoulders, and short necks and shanks.

In addition, the quality of the meat is determined by checking the maturity (age) of the animal, marbling or the flecks of fat within the lean portions which enhances palatability, juiciness, flavor and tenderness and, last but not least, the color, firmness and texture of the lean sections.

b. Cutability. This refers to the amount of usable meat in a carcass. High cutability of carcasses combine a minimum of fat covered with very thick muscling. The USDA cutability grades are numbered from one to five, with one having the best cutability.

c. Aging. Usually, only the ribs and loins of high-quality beef, lamb and mutton are aged. To be suitable for aging, meat must have a very thick covering of fat to prevent discoloration of the lean portions and keep evaporation to a minimum. This is why the biggest, fattest steers are awarded blue-ribbon prizes at State Fairs.

VACUUM PACKAGING is more noticeable in the butcher's meat case these days. This form of moisture and vaporproof film protects meat from the time it is processed till the time it is consumed and reduces weight loss and surface spoilage for two to three weeks.

Quality grades are given to beef cuts so that consumers can use a guideline to choose what they prefer and can afford. The various grades include prime, choice, good, standard, commercial, utility cutter and canner.

You may be surprised to learn that meat grading is not compulsory. It is a voluntary service on the part of the wholesaler and slaughterhouse, which pays a fee to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, whose inspectors make the decision on how the meat will be graded. What is compulsory, however, is the USDA stamp of approval on the health of the steer.

If you are looking for the best cuts of beef for your summertime grilling, the top of the line is prime, which features light-colored meat with firm, white fat and fine-textured, even marbling throughout the meat. Less than two percent of the meat in the butcher shops and markets are prime, so when you see it, expect to pay for the quality.

Plastic plates for real, really good food

It was so good, we could have licked the plate of the house salad, and it didn't even matter that the salad was served on plastic.

But you will have to get around that fact if you want to enjoy the food at Kruse and Muer, a restaurant that literally fits into a hole in the wall in Rochester Hills' MeadowBrook Village Mall.

In something under 2,000 square feet, Kruse and Muer packs a culinary wallop into very little space. The menu includes homemade pasta, fresh fish, a varied selection of chicken dishes and pizza. There's also a smattering of items borrowed from the Muer Corp. — Charley's Chowder and homemade bread. Something not borrowed is the plastic dishes, which at first seem out of place and then seem almost acceptable.

In a note to customers, co-owner Bill Kruse explains that plastic dishes mean more room for cooking (and thus menu diversification) because china storage and a dishwasher no longer become an issue.

CONSIDERING THE concept of Kruse and Muer, it makes sense.

"We wanted to be a carryout for that two-income family, with both Mom and Dad working. We wanted to provide nutritious, well-balanced carryout meals," Kruse said.

The concept, he added, seems to be "dead on." Nearly 35 percent of the restaurant's business is in the takeout department. As the restaurant approaches its one-year anniversary in August, Kruse hopes to see the percentage increase to 50.

The "we" part of Kruse and Muer is Chuck Muer of the famed Charley's Crab. A 17-year Muer Corp. employee, Kruse served his last seven years there as vice-president of operations.

During his tenure, he learned the restaurant business and developed with Muer the concept for the Rochester restaurant, which is separate from the corporation. Muer, said Kruse, "is my financial partner and my operational mentor. Before I left the Muer Corp., Chuck and I were talking a lot about carryout — and that that was a way to go in the future.

"SO, WE THOUGHT we'd give it a whirl. The 50 seats we do have were really to help promote the carryout business. The restaurant ended up telling what we were all about."

And what is that, exactly? The restaurant focuses on three areas: 1. Bread — homemade and hot out of the oven. 2. Fresh fish and homemade pasta, and 3. Pizza.

Our favorite was a wonderful combination of greens and fruit concocted by Kruse's wife, Cindy, that makes up the house salad. A delightful and distinctly different flavor results from combining cantaloupe with romaine lettuce and tossing it with a honey-mustard vinaigrette, which you can buy by the pint ($3.95). The salad changes depending on what's freshest at the time. The evening we had it, we could have made a meal of the salad alone. Do not miss it.

For dinner we tried the chicken primavera, not one of the top three draws but delicious nevertheless. Crunchy broccoli, red pepper and other vegetables are mixed with a chicken cooked just tender. The entree was delicious and plentiful at $7.95, including bread and salad.

Another entree tried was the Shaft barbecue ribs. While we were impressed with the amount of meat on the bones and the flavor of the sauce, the grease factor — though always expected with ribs — was still more than we cared for. The ribs were made to imitate those at an Aspen restaurant named the Shaft. Maybe after a long day of skiing, all that grease warms you up. In Rochester, it provides a little too much finger-licking.

JIM RIDER/staff photographer

Bill Kruse, co-owner of Kruse and Muer, leans down to chat with Jack Schodowski of Rochester Hills, Anne Schodowski of Birmingham (center) and Helen Schodowski of Rochester Hills, at the casual dining spot in MeadowBrook Village Mall in Rochester Hills.

FORGET ULTRA-LOUD ties and cardigan sweaters with little green alligators on the breast. Creamy cheesecakes are the in items for Father's Day, proclaims one local company.

"Who doesn't need a cheesecake? It's the perfect gift for Dad," said Marian Sheridan, co-owner of the Gourmet Cheesecake Club based in Farmington Hills. "For the month of June the flavor is Key Lime."

Four years ago Sheridan, 35, a former medical technician, and her sister Linda Ozog, 39, who still is an art director for an advertising agency, began looking into businesses that they could own and somehow come up with cheesecakes. "I knew of a lady in Colorado who had a cookie-of-the-month club," said Sheridan. "I thought, 'Why not cheesecakes?' It could be so much better."

And, so they say, history was made. Sheridan said that before things could really take off, packaging and recipes needed to be perfected. "I always made cheesecakes, but I didn't know how well they would ship," she said. "I also didn't know how long they would stay fresh."

While exploring their options, the women discovered a mail-order catalog that shipped cheesecakes. "We found that to be something very interesting to stumble upon."

FROM THERE they had to come up with a scheme that would allow them to begin, but without having to purchase "thousands of boxes."

"It took us about four months of searching various states before we found someone to cut forms and corrugated material that would go into the gift boxes," she said.

Once the search for the perfect packaging material ended, the business officially kicked off in May 1985. "It was great. We opened up for Mother's Day," she recalled.

Since then, the Gourmet Cheesecake Club has been baking unique and elegant cheesecakes, ready to eat and to send.

"We got so busy that we had to hire another baker, who does all our baking for us out of a licensed kitchen in Berkley," explained Sheridan. "In the experimental stages, my sister and I did the baking out of my home."

Sheridan said eventually the club would like to branch out and operate its own bakery — minus a retail front. "Instead of contracting out, we could do all the baking ourselves."

SHERIDAN SAID their cheesecakes are made with the finest, freshest, natural ingredients. There are 13 in all. Each month, a different gourmet flavor is featured, such as irresistible Raspberry Ribbon, Amaretto, and Chocolate-Crowned INDEED, IF there is one complaint overall, it was the excess liquor factor. Not so much to make it intolerable but enough to notice.

Dad gets his just desserts

By Debbie L. Sklar
special writer

FORGET ULTRA-LOUD ties and cardigan sweaters with little green alligators on the breast. Creamy cheesecakes are the in items for Father's Day, proclaims one local company. "Who doesn't need a cheesecake? It's the perfect gift for Dad," said Marian Sheridan, co-owner of the Gourmet Cheesecake Club based in Farmington Hills. "For the month of June the flavor is Key Lime."

Sisters Marian Sheridan (left) and Linda Ozog originated the idea for the Gourmet Cheesecake Club four years ago.

Four years ago Sheridan, 35, a former medical technician, and her sister Linda Ozog, 39, who still is an art director for an advertising agency, began looking into businesses that they could own and somehow come up with cheesecakes. "I knew of a lady in Colorado who had a cookie-of-the-month club," said Sheridan. "I thought, 'Why not cheesecakes?' It could be so much better."

And, so they say, history was made. Sheridan said that before things could really take off, packaging and recipes needed to be perfected. "I always made cheesecakes, but I didn't know how well they would ship," she said. "I also didn't know how long they would stay fresh."

Once the search for the perfect packaging material ended, the business officially kicked off in May 1985. "It was great. We opened up for Mother's Day," she recalled. Since then, the Gourmet Cheesecake Club has been baking unique and elegant cheesecakes, ready to eat and to send. "We got so busy that we had to hire another baker, who does all our baking for us out of a licensed kitchen in Berkeley," explained Sheridan. "In the experimental stages, my sister and I did the baking out of my home."

Sheridan said eventually the club would like to branch out and operate its own bakery - minus a retail front. "Instead of contracting out, we could do all the baking ourselves." You can opt to send either one cheesecake on a one-time basis or sign up for a membership. Seventy percent of the business is one-time orders, according to Sheridan. "Membership-wise there are people who will enroll friends, relatives or themselves into the club," she said. Prices are as follows: a single order, which is 10 servings, 2 pounds 8 ounces, $21.95; 18 servings, 3 pounds 8 ounces, $27.95; three-month club, $61.50; five-month club, $102.50; eight-month club, $161.50; 12-month club, $234.50; and 24-month club (bi-monthly), $124.50. All prices include delivery except for air shipments.

When asked how quickly their idea took off, Sheridan said, "It took off almost immediately because it's so different. People get tired of buying the same gifts over and over again. Our idea is fresh, delicious and unique. Cheesecakes have become so popular that some people even order them for weddings and other special occasions." "We've grown by word of mouth, and through recommendations by numerous Chamber of Commerce," she said. "Over 30 percent of our accounts are commercial accounts." Many of the Gourmet Cheesecake Club's scrumptious cheesecakes make their way from coast to coast. "One out of every four travels out of state." Large numbers also are sent to parents in Florida and California. "I had a customer who enjoyed the cheesecake that she received so much that she signed up for a 12-month membership," she said. "For us that's the ultimate compliment."

Arthur Borucki of Bloomfield Township recently found morel mushrooms in his own home town. Bloomfield Village Officer Henry Rogalski told Borucki where he had seen some mushrooms, and Borucki, who has hunted morels before, gathered them up. "They're not supposed to grow south of Bay City," said Borucki.

Morel finders
who found two 10-inch-tall ones and two 8-inch ones, among 11 morels. He said they were found in a woodpile and believes the spores were in the wood when it was brought from up north. (Another Observer & Eccentric reader wrote to say she found six morels, one six-inches tall, in her Livonia backyard.)

"City Cuisine" by Susan Feniger and Mary Sue Milliken, William Morrow and Co., 1989, $19.95
"The discipline rules of haute cuisine are bent in our kitchen," say the authors, and it's quite obvious as one reads through the book. Feniger, a Culinarian Institute of America graduate and Milliken, a Washington Trade School graduate, also have studied in Thailand, Mexico, India and Japan.

KADAYIF
1 pound Kadayif dough, or 12 shredded-wheat biscuits
1 cup unsalted butter, melted selected filling (see below)
syrup (see below)
Remove any lumps from the Kadayif dough by gently separating the strands with your fingers. Place half the dough in a buttered 12-by-16-inch cake pan and brush with butter. Alternate method: If you are using shredded wheat, break up half the shredded wheat and lay the strands in the buttered pan, brushing them with butter. Spread the selected filling evenly over the dough or shredded wheat. Cover with the remaining dough or shredded wheat, and brush generously with butter. Bake in a 375-degree oven for 45 minutes, or until golden brown. Remove from the oven and pour cold syrup over it. Cook, and cut into squares.
Kadayif Fillings
Nut Filling
2 egg whites
4 cups mixed ground nuts (such as walnuts, hazelnuts or cashews)

BABA GHANOUSH
1 1/2 pounds eggplant
2 tablespoons tahini (sesame seed paste)
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil
1 tablespoon pitted garlic
1 teaspoon cayenne pepper dash of tabasco
salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
Preheat broiler. Place eggplant on a baking sheet and broil, turning occasionally until charred all over and softened, about 40 minutes. Set aside to cool. When cool enough to handle, peel eggplant and roughly chop, reserving liquid. Transfer to a large bowl. Mix in remaining ingredients and season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve chilled or at room temperature. Can also be served as a dip with pita bread.

Dessert, coffee complete menu

My column last month dealt with these some in several sizes. We didn't have space to include the best part - the dessert and Turkish coffee. Your friends will enjoy watching you make Turkish coffee, and you can really thrill them by reading their coffee grounds afterward. Even if you don't prepare a whole Arabic meal, you might enjoy serving just the dessert and coffee after an evening out.

Cheese Filling
1 pound ricotta cheese
sugar to taste
1/2 cup raisins, soaked and drained (optional)
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
cinnamon to taste
Beat the cheese to a smooth paste, and fold in the lemon peel. Add sugar and cinnamon. Add raisins, if you wish.
Fruit and Almond Filling
1 pound dried fruit, finely chopped
1/2 cup fruit preserves or jam
1/2 cup blanched, chopped almonds
cinnamon to taste
Combine all the ingredients, and mix well.
Kadayif Syrup
2 cups sugar (for a sweeter syrup, add another half cup)
1 cup water
juice of one lemon
1 tablespoon orange blossom water or rose water
Dissolve sugar in water and lemon juice, and bring to a boil. Simmer for 15 minutes. Stir in orange blossom or rose water, and remove from the heat. Cool, and pour over the pastries as soon as they come out of the oven.

TURKISH COFFEE
To brew Turkish Coffee you will need an ibrik, or long-handled brass pot. These come in several sizes, from a 2-cup to an 8-cup size. A 4 or 6-cup size is usually the most useful one to own. You can use it for smaller amounts.
You will also need some demitasse cups. Plain ones, with no pattern inside are best. If you plan to read the coffee grounds. Cups also should be round-bottomed, so that the grounds will adhere properly to the bottom and be easier to read.
Turkish coffee is stone-ground to a fine powder, and its consistency is somewhere between old-fashioned instant and the finest fresh-roasted coffee.
To make Turkish coffee, pour a demitasse of water for each cup into the ibrik (pot) and heat until it starts to steam but not yet to a boil.
Add one heaping teaspoon of coffee and one heaping teaspoon of sugar for each cup of water. The coffee comes out syrupy sweet and very strong.
STIR COFFEE and sugar into the water, and heat until the coffee foams to a boil. As soon as the foam comes up, remove from the heat and divide the foam evenly among the cups.
Put the pot back over the heat and bring coffee to a boil twice more.

The next grade is choice, a grade that accounts for 20 percent of all the beef sold and is what most supermarkets and butchers carry for consumer purchases. The meat is also light colored and has a firm layer of fat, but the marbling is uneven and there might be little pockets of fat. Choice meat is a tad more coarse than prime.

meat marked as "top choice." No one, however, would dare advertise their meat as "bottom choice." The "good" grade of meat formerly was the commercial grade. This grade is for folks who don't like a lot of fat. It is plain meat with hardly any marbling and is apt to be tough, with little flavor. These cuts usually lend themselves to marinating and slow cooking, which enhances flavor and tenderness.

Yours truly has a simple rule that is followed by all the Janes Gang. Momma always said never to buy steaks or good meat that was cut and wrapped in a smothering plastic. She always said that you should get to know your butcher or meat person so that when quality counted, you could depend on his or her recommendation.

TRADITIONAL BEEF WELLINGTON
4 good beef filets
1 cup fresh chopped mushrooms
4 strips bacon or salt pork
salt and pepper
1 sheet puff pastry dough (available in frozen forms)
Wrap the filets in bacon and secure with a toothpick. Brown on all sides in a hot skillet until meat is browned (about 1 minute). Season with salt and pepper. Top each filet with 1/4 cup chopped mushrooms. Wrap in puff pastry and bake on a lightly greased baking pan until desired internal temperature is reached.

CLASSIC LONDON BROIL
Although many people think of London broil as a cut of meat, it is actually a way of cooking meat. A boneless piece of meat is marinated, broiled, then sliced into thin slices and is usually served with a mushroom sauce. Flank steak has traditionally been the best cut for London broil.
1 flank steak, 2-1/2 pounds paprika
salt and pepper to taste juice of 1 lemon
1 clove garlic, chopped fine
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Place the piece of meat in a dish or saucpan and season it with paprika, salt and pepper. Squeeze the lemon juice over it and then sprinkle with garlic, parsley, thyme and rosemary. Wet the meat with oil, turning it several times. Marinate the meat in the refrigerator for at least 2 hours (the longer the better), then broil the steak in a preheated broiler. Place the steak on a cutting board and with a sharp knife, cut thin slices on the bias. Serve plain or with a mushroom sauce.

A favorite on picnics

Here's a recipe for potato salad from the article "Picnics Past" in the June issue of Gourmet magazine.
COOEE POTATO SALAD
1 tablespoon English-style dry mustard
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon celery seeds
5 pounds potatoes, cooked, peeled, and mashed without butter or milk
3 hard-boiled large eggs, chopped fine
1 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup drained pickle relish, or to taste
1/4 cup finely chopped drained pimento
1/2 cup finely chopped scallion waterproof for garnish if desired
In a small bowl whisk together the mustard, the vinegar, the brown sugar, the celery seeds, and salt and pepper to taste until the dressing is combined well. In a large bowl combine the potatoes, the eggs, the celery, the relish, the pimento, the scallion and the dressing; stir the salad until it is combined well, and chill it, covered, until it is cold. Garnish the salad with the watercrest. Makes about 10 cups, serving 8.

The crowd is coming and you're in charge. Whether it is a school graduation open house, a wedding anniversary party, a garden wedding reception or just a summer neighborhood get-together, make it a pleasurable, not stressful, experience.

Lois Thieleke
home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

Plan a paper and pencil and start planning the event to make it go smoothly. Your celebration should be determined by your available space and your pocketbook. The idea is to create a joyous atmosphere with the least amount of work. A celebration is a time for sharing a special occasion with family, friends or neighbors.
Yet too often the people in charge lose control of the situation because they neglect to plan. They end up spending too much on decorations, buying too much or not enough food and spending all their time running for extra ice, parking cars or handling emergencies.
ADVANCE PLANNING is the key in being able to enjoy your own celebration.
Once you have determined the type of party you want to give, it's best to get your ideas down on paper. Keeping all the information in your head will not work. A typical response when under pressure is for the mind to short-circuit right when you need the answer.
Your planning should include the party menu, the guest list, consider-throughout the party. If you are offering drinks or a punch bowl at your party, it's a good idea to have the beverages placed in another location, separate from the food. You may also want to create a separate dessert table as well.

To cover foods on an outside buffet table, take large embroidery hoops and stretch a plastic wrap over the hoop and pop together. Use these on top of your serving bowls. The plastic wrap allows people to see the food but keeps the unwanted pests out.
HOW MANY pounds of potatoes do you need to make potato salad to feed 150 people? Many cooks mistakenly take a "trial-and-true" recipe that feeds 10 and multiply the ingredients by 15. This is not the best or most accurate way to deal with the recipe.
To get the best results, find recipes that are designed for quantities. The local library has many quantity cookbooks. Personalize a recipe by adding your own special seasonings or garnishes.
The whole idea of putting on a party is to have fun. Let the fun begin when your guests first receive their creative invitation, and keep the good times rolling until the last serving dish is put in the dishwasher.
When the crowd is coming and you're in charge with good advance planning - be assured it will be fun and you will remain calm.

Fraud: Billion dollar business preys on elderly

Dear Jo:
My mother, age 68, has been a victim of fraud. She just paid $300 for some unlabeled pills that were supposed to cure her arthritis, to a well-dressed young man who was selling health care products from door-to-door. She trusted the man completely — she said he reminded her of my son. She takes the pills every day and is getting upset because she hasn't had any positive results as yet. Is this just an isolated case or is fraud of the elderly common?

I would appreciate it if you would address this subject as my mother and her friends read your column. Thank you.
Mrs. H.R.,
Concerned Daughter
Dear Mrs. R.:
You have good reason to be concerned. Medical quackery or fraud is a $10 billion business in North America. The Oxford dictionary defines fraud as: a criminal deception; a dishonest artifice or trick; an imposture; and a person or thing not fulfilling a claim or expectation. The elderly are hit the hardest by fraud, primarily because of their increased health problems. They are promised, for a price, a cure to any problem that they are having. The gerontology

A. Jolayne Farrell
commonest are "cures" for aging itself, cancer and, as in your mother's case, arthritis. The perpetrators don't look like criminals at all. They are usually good looking, well-dressed and absolutely charming. Most of the victims say, as your mother did, that the bogus salesperson reminded them of a family member. The best way to deal with door-to-door salespeople who are unknown to the householder is to thank them for calling and send them on their way. Many elderly are taken in, not only by the looks and charm of these people, but because they themselves are lonely and perhaps a little depressed and would like some company. Lastly, a message to your mother and others her age who read my column — when it comes to health care and "cures" for anything, legitimate treatment must come from well educated health care professionals who have dedicated their lives to the physical and mental wellbeing of others. Please tell your mother to throw away those pills — they are not doing her any good and they could damage her health. Readers can write to Jolayne Farrell at 11 Cynthia Crescent, Richmond Hill, Ontario.

Air quality still poor despite battle to reduce pollution

The following is one of the Consumer Mailbag's ECO-NOTES — updates on various environmental issues:
AIR QUALITY
During 1987, air quality remained poor in all major U.S. cities despite the continued battle to reduce pollution levels down to comply with the federally set standards. The EPA reports that 68 metropolitan areas — six more than in 1986 — failed to meet the ozone standards. Ozone is the main lung-irritating ingredient in smog. Several areas showed improvement in carbon monoxide levels, mainly because more older cars exempt from emission controls were junked. Despite improvements, 59 areas failed to meet the carbon monoxide levels. The 23 largest U.S. urban areas failed on one or both counts.

ACID RAIN
While most people are aware that Northeast inland lakes are being adversely affected by acid deposits, a recent report from the Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) states that acid rain — specifically airborne nitrogen — is causing a major decline in the quality of coastal waters and marine life in the eastern

United States. The EDF study examined the effects of eutrophication (the depletion of oxygen from the water) rather than acidity, on coastal life. Airborne nitrogen oxides, mostly from cars and electric utilities, are converted to nitric acids and nitrates. When deposited in the water, the chemicals stimulate excessive algae growth. The algae depletes the oxygen supply and blocks sunlight needed by marine plants and animals. According to the U.S. EPA, cases of severe oxygen depletion and fish kills are on the rise in eastern coastal waters from the Chesapeake Bay south through North Carolina, particularly in estuaries.

SOLAR ENERGY
A main drawback to solar energy has been its higher cost in relation to other forms of energy. However, solar energy researchers are getting closer to making solar energy cost competitive with coal and oil. Scientists at the Arco Solar Co. and the Solar Energy Research Institute, a division of the U.S. Department of Energy, have increased solar panel efficiency from 8 percent to 11.2 percent. Fifteen percent efficiency would make the panels cost-competitive with other energy sources. This efficiency improvement was achieved with the use of copper indium selenide (CIS), a semiconductor material that converts sunlight into electricity. CIS produces large amounts of electrical current in panels, but at the same time lowers the panel's maximum voltage. When the voltage was raised, the current was reduced to unacceptable levels. Scientists found by adding the element gallium to CIS they could raise the voltage without getting the usual reduction in current. The Solar Energy Research Institute believes that these CIS/gallium panels should one day produce power at half the cost of power generated by present day solar panels and cost competitive with coal or oil. Arco hopes to market these new panels for limited commercial use by 1990. The Consumer Mailbag answers your questions. GLOVE AND STOCKING NEUROPATHY
You may know someone who suffered shooting pains and numbness in the hands or feet and was thought to have arthritis. If such pain occurs in the extremities, involves the right and left side equally, and is worse when resting, then the cause is not arthritis. Rather, the probable reason for the pain is a neuritis — an inflammation of the nerve endings that provide a sensory network for the fingers and toes. This neuritis is called "a glove and stocking neuropathy," a term as descriptive as it is colorful. The pains that originate in these nerve endings start in the toes or fingers, and gradually work up the arm like a formal glove, and up the leg, like a full length stocking. Reasons for this neuritis include diabetes and certain vitamin deficiencies, but in most instances the cause is unknown. Fortunately, over time, in the majority of cases, numbness subsides and pain decreases. One exception is the glove and stocking pain that can occur with rheumatoid arthritis. In this instance, specific therapy if started soon enough, will stop the neuropathy. If not begun in a timely fashion, the therapy will fail regardless of the dose used and the duration continued.

Shamrocks halt Canton tourney run

GUY WARREN/staff photographer

Canton third baseman Geoff Allen and Catholic Central baserunner Pete Elezovic await the ruling on this fourth-inning play at third base. With the bases loaded and two outs, Allen fielded a ground ball in front of the bag and was unable to make the force at third, giving the Shamrocks a 6-4 lead. CC won the regional and goes to the Class A semifinals for the second time in three years.

CC deals defeat to Rams in final

By Brad Emons
staff writer

baseball

Redford Catholic Central opened its own little shop of horrors Saturday afternoon, smothering No. 1-ranked Taylor Center in the Class A regional baseball finals at Plymouth Canton, 7-3.

CC snapped the Rams' unbeaten streak at 29 after getting a scare from Canton in the semifinals earlier in the day at adjoining Salem High, 7-4.

It was CC's day all the way. The Shamrocks' defense was superb, gobbling up everything in sight.

"That's been our weakness all season, not handling the ground balls, the fly balls . . . at times we've thrown the ball all over the place, but today we came through," said CC coach John Salter, whose team will take a 25-9 record into the state semifinals, 9 a.m. Friday against Milford at Lansing's Municipal Field. (Milford beat Grand Haven, 12-4, to win the Lansing Waverly regional crown.)

Pitchers Leo Hutchinson and Keith Boyzk each tossed complete games to enable CC to make a bid for its third state title. CC has won the coveted Class A title twice (1979 and 1987).

HUTCHINSON, a senior left-hander now sporting a 15-2 record, got off to a rocky start against Canton, serving up a first-inning grand slam to Canton first baseman Mike Culver.

But Hutchinson finished strong, retiring 13 of the final 14 batters he faced. He allowed just three hits and four walks, while striking out seven.

And if Hutchinson's uncharacteristic start was spooky, Canton ace Mike Sulak's brief stint was nightmarish.

The usually reliable senior right-hander unraveled in the top of the first, allowing five runs in just one-third of an inning.

Of the six batters he faced, Sulak hit one and walked four.

Chris Johnston, the CC lead-off man, scored on a wild pitch. Chris Tomasi strolled home when Tom Hill walked with the bases loaded. Mark Staniforth then greeted Canton reliever Brian Paupore with a soft single through a drawn-in infield, scoring more two runs. Kevin Wheeler brought Hill home with a successful suicide squeeze bunt, accounting for the fifth run.

BUT CANTON got right back in it as Hutchinson also had trouble finding the plate in the bottom of the first.

He walked Ron Groh, gave up a single to Derek Humphries and walked Geoff Allen, loading the bases for the left-hand hitting Culver, who lined an 0-2 pitch, a curveball, over the right field fence.

Athens first non-WLAA champ

By Jim Toth
staff writer

It appeared innocent enough, but oh the significance.

Troy Athens freshman Angie Marino took on the role of hero Saturday afternoon as her 30-yard floater early in the second half eluded Northville goalkeeper Kristi Turner and proved the difference as the Red Hawks claimed the 1989 Class A girls soccer championship with a 1-0 victory over the Mustangs at North Farmington High School.

The title was the first in the eight-season history of the Athens girls program. The Red Hawks had previously reached the final game in 1985 and 1986. They dropped a 5-2 decision to Livonia Stevenson in '85 and suffered a 3-2 overtime loss to Livonia Churchill in '86.

"I've won four now and lost three (finals) and it's so much more fun winning a championship," beamed Athens coach Tim Storch, whose three prior state championships have come with the Red Hawks boys teams. "This is something I've wanted to do for a long time."

"THE GIRLS program started in 1982 and it was slow going in the beginning," continued Storch. "It took me time to learn the differences in coaching the boys teams and the girls teams."

"But this is a personal culmination for me and it means a lot to me as a coach and I'm sure it means a lot to the girls."

The Red Hawks, who finished the season with a 22-2-1 ledger, came into the contest playing stellar defense as they allowed only three goals in six post-season victories. In 18 regular-season games, the Red Hawks allowed only 10 goals.

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Beth Huck of Athens tries to protect the ball from Northville's Debbie Stevens in the Class A championship game Saturday. Athens defeated the Mustangs 1-0 to win its first state title in girls soccer.

That quality of defense can explain why Athens freshman goalkeeper Kristi McGough barely worked up a sweat in recording her 18th shutout of the season.

The Mustangs did hold a slight edge in play in the first half as they benefited from the wind and sent a couple shots toward the Athens net. But McGough proved equal to the task.

WITH THE WIND favoring Storch's troops in the second half, the Red Hawks carried the play to the Mustangs and just missed on a number of good scoring chances.

But with 29:21 remaining, Marino turned what looked like a routine play in front of the Northville net into Red Hawk soccer history.

Marino, who was called up to the varsity in the middle of the season, took a pass from sophomore Andrea Olesik directly in front of the Mustangs net and lofted the ball toward Turner. Turner's initial break was forward, and as the ball inched closer, she was unable to backpedal and recover.

"I thought it was going over (the crossbar)," said Marino, who scored only three goals all season. "I couldn't believe it when it went in."

"I knew it had a chance," said Storch of the winning goal. "She's (Marino) a girl who can hit the ball from 25 yards out."

FRESHMAN LISA GRACE, the Red Hawks' leading scorer, had opportunities to increase the lead, but a 30-yard boot found Turner's hands and a shot from closer range brushed the side of the net.

Lee Krueger

All-America recognition for Krueger

Lee Krueger of Plymouth has been named a high school All-American by the National Wrestling Coaches Association. The team was announced in the May edition of the Amateur Wrestling News.

Krueger, who graduates from Redford Catholic Central this month, won the Class A heavy-weight championship last February. He won the 198-pound title as a junior.

"I didn't anticipate it, but I hoped to be (an All-American)," Krueger said. "I figured I had a chance, but I wasn't sure."

Krueger, who will play football and wrestle at the University of Wisconsin next fall, was one of five wrestlers on the NWCA team who will compete for the Badgers.

"Going to Wisconsin will be like starting all over," Krueger said. "It's a bigger challenge than (when he was a freshman at CC). I'm kinda nervous about it."

Krueger, who made the All-Observer football and wrestling teams during the 1988-89 school year, reports to Wisconsin in the second week of August.

Three other Michigan state champions — Shane Camera of Rochester, Chris Henderson of Lansing Sexton and Dean Moskovic of Birmingham Brother Rice — were named All-Americans by the coaches, too.

Krueger and CC teammate Matt Heim were honorable mentions on the USA Wrestling All-America team last month.

Jamula leads TC to softball title

By C.J. Rieck
staff writer

Disregard the records, the reputations, the results of Saturday's Class A softball regional at King Boring Field in Dearborn. None of it made a difference, really. Neither did defense or key hits or perfect execution, although there was plenty of all three.

The difference, what will keep Westland John Glenn and Livonia Franklin at home next weekend while Taylor Kennedy takes a shot at the state title, was Wendy Jamula.

The junior pitcher single-handedly dismantled John Glenn, 7-0, in a regional semifinal by hurling a three-hitter while striking out 10 and slugging a first-inning, three-run homer.

In the regional final, Franklin proved more stubborn, but again Jamula prevailed in a 4-2 eight-inning triumph. She surrendered one earned run on five hits, striking out three, and stretched two singles into doubles that turned into runs — the second the game-winner.

"HER PITCHING didn't beat us," said Franklin coach Joe Epstein of Jamula. "What beat us was her hitting. A single for anyone else is a double for her. She makes things happen on the basepaths."

Taylor Center coach Jerry Abraham would hardly argue. "Isn't she great?" he said after the win, which carries the Rams back to the final four tournament in Lansing Friday and Saturday. Center lost in the finals a year ago to Jenison Friday's opponent will be Harper Woods Regina.

The Patriots, who were runners-up to Glenn in the Western Lakes Activities Association, provided a stiff challenge before being subdued. Twice the Rams got leads, twice Franklin battled back to tie, and twice the Patriots thwarted Center scoring efforts.

The third Ram rally, however, was a winner. Jamula started the eighth inning with a drive into center field, which she legged into a double. A sacrifice bunt moved her to third, and with Lani Mauritho at the plate, a Lisa Allen pitch got past catcher Leslie Szaflarski. Jamula slid under Allen's tag for the go-ahead run.

CENTER ADDED another after a walk and left fielder Dawn Warner's two-base error put runners at second and third. Helena Guts grounded out, scoring the run.

Karen Brown started Franklin's half of the eighth with a single, but Jenny Mayle flew out to center field and Sherry Weiss' pop was caught by shortstop Ronnie Ronco, who tossed to first to double up Brown and end the game.

"We made a couple of mental errors and throwing errors, otherwise we could have won the game 2-1," said Epstein. "But I'm proud of the

Tourney decides overall champion

LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIPS were decided weeks ago, but now the 'Champion of Champions' tournament is under way.

10-pin alley
Al Harrison

The first four teams are eligible to compete and represent their league in this competition to determine the overall champion in the metropolitan Detroit area. The finals will take place at Country Lanes in Farmington Hills, July 8-9. This is the 43rd year for the 'Champion of Champions' and it's produced by the Bowling Centers Association of Michigan (BCA), formerly known as BPA or the Bowling Proprietors Association. The tournament, sponsored by Kessler's, has a total prize fund of $87,000 with first place worth $15,000 and a trip to Las Vegas for the winning team, second place, $7,500; third, $3,500; fourth, $2,500; and fifth, $1,500.

The BCA has expanded its coverage this year to include eligible teams from Port Huron, Pontiac and Ann Arbor. Let's all try a little harder this upcoming season and get in on this prize fund.

Back in January and February, bowlers were asked to contribute one dollar to the bowling charities. Those who participated and bowled well enough to qualify for the local competition then became eligible to advance to the state finals if they were among the top finishers. The final competition was held over the weekend in Gaylor. The results will be printed in this column as soon as they are official. Prizes in the Bowling Charities Tournament are $2,000 for first, $1,000 for second and $500 for third, along with other items such as televisions and radios. This year, the bowling charities raised a total of $94,000 for various charities throughout the state.

We would all like to become winners and in order to bowl better it is necessary to try and improve our own game. I have reviewed a good videotape, "Maximum Bowling," by Marshall Holman and John Jowdy. You might want to rent or buy the video cassette as it has a lot of very good tips to improve the techniques for most bowlers.

It is a five-point program in which they demonstrate the proper method of: 1. rhythm, 2. slide, 3. hand position, 4. release point and angle, 5. Follow through. There are many good video cassettes available for self help in bowling and if you look at the good ones, this is like getting the best professional instruction if you concentrate on the material.

Farmington wins debut

Three pitchers combined for a one-hitter last week as the South Farmington Mickey Mantle baseball team began its season with a 10-2 victory over Allen Park.

Les Luark was the starter and winner in the game played Tuesday at Farmington. He went 3 1/2 innings and allowed the only Allen Park hit. Luark walked six, hit two and fanned four.

Eric Miller pitched 2 1/2 innings of hitless relief, and Ron Hollis did likewise in the final inning. Neither pitcher allowed a walk, and Miller struck out three.

Hollis paced the hitting attack, going 3-for-4. He drove in four runs with a double and a home run. Miller broke a 1-1 tie with a bases-loaded triple. Luark added a pair of triples and one RBI, and John Benninger had two hits in four trips.

South Farmington competes in the Little Caesars Travel League's Mantle Division.

Good Old SAVINGS SUMMERTIME

LOSE WEIGHT FAST
and Energize your body

No matter who you are or how much weight you want to lose...

NOTHING WORKS LIKE DIET CENTER!

Unlike some other weight loss programs, research shows that 92 percent of the weight lost on the Diet Center Program is from excess fat, not water or lean body mass. You'll lose pounds and inches right where you want to!

- EAT REAL FOOD
No expensive prepackaged meals to buy, no rigid diets, just wholesome, natural foods from your grocery store! From the first day at Diet Center, you'll be forming new eating habits that will keep you slim and healthy for the rest of your life!
- LOSE FAT NOT MUSCLE
Whether you want to lose 10, 50 or 100 pounds, or more, your personal Diet Center counselor will be with you every step of the way, privately, on a one-to-one basis. Every Diet Center counselor has overcome her own weight problem and is ready to help you become the slim, healthy person you want to be.
- SIGN NO CONTRACTS
You won't be obligated by contract to stick with the Diet Center Program, you'll want to because it works! Your own success will motivate you all the way to ideal weight.
- NOBODY CARES FOR YOU LIKE DIET CENTER!
Call today for a free introductory consultation. No charge, no obligation. Learn all about the Program that has helped millions of men, women and children lose weight and keep it off. And you'll be surprised at how inexpensive our total Program is!

How do you know you are not in the multinational world of Grand Prix racing? The language spoken might be the first clue.

At the Grand Prix, one can hear French, Spanish and Italian spoken fluently. At Flat Rock Speedway, the tongue of the stock car racing buff can be a little right of English at times.

Or, for example, as one patron of the sport articulated upon his encounter with an attendant who was checking proper credentials for admission to the pit area, "I'm going to knock that son of a bitch on his ass one of these days."

Such eloquent statements can only sum up what the nitty-gritty world of country stock car racing where dust swirls after every lap and race cars backfire with the frequency to make you think you're in the Battle of 1812.

A Saturday night at Flat Rock Speedway is like none other. People drive from all over the tri-county area in everything from pickup trucks to recreational vehicles to savor the thrills and spills of stock car racing at the rural track.

Some other indications that you're at Flat Rock, not Monaco:

- While Indy cars are billboards for STP, Valvoline and Ford Motor Co., drivers at Flat Rock Speedway are sponsored by Bill's Pizza & Subs and the Hanger Lounge.

- While drivers feast on stuffed shrimp washed down with champagne at pre-Grand Prix parties, the guy at Flat Rock stirs a vat of homemade chili next to his car.

- WHILE CELEBS like Paul Newman and Mick Jagger can be found at Grand Prix events, people like former Tiger pitcher Milt Wilcox make appearances at Flat Rock Speedway.

Needless to say, things are little more "down home" at the Michigan race track. For many, a Saturday night at Flat Rock Speedway has become a way of life.

"My dad was a racer before he passed away," said Steve Cronenwett of Westland, who races

Don't let the T-shirts scare you. This pit crew is anything but "Bad Boys" when it comes to keeping its car in competition.

FLAT ROCK:

life in the fast lane

'I like the competition. Something about having all that power underneath you.'

— Steve Cronenwett

The action isn't quite as fast-paced as at Indy, but it's just as exciting as the cars handle the curve of Flat Rock's quarter-mile track.

The fans come in all shapes and sizes on a Saturday night at the Flat Rock Speedway.

in the street stock division at Flat Rock Speedway. "My five brothers all raced at one time or another. It's a family thing."

"I like the competition. Something about having all that power underneath you."

The machines they drive are definitely their own, usually resurrected from a junk yard and converted into a race car.

First, they gut the car's interior. Then a steel cage and sheet metal are placed inside. Braces are installed to support the frame and the engine.

Cronenwett proudly pats the hood of his red street stock car, which he said cost roughly $5,000 to build.

"This one here, a friend of mine had an old car and I bought it for $50," Cronenwett said, "and I started from there."

Cronenwett hops in through the driver's side and then a person hands him the steering wheel. He screws it in. A hulking figure wipes the windshield and then spills gasoline into the car.

Todd Irvine is one of Cronenwett's pit crew, which consists mainly of friends and family. Around the pit area, it's not uncommon to see wives, brothers and sisters wiping windshields, changing tires and fetching tools.

"YOUR CREW is volunteer," Cronenwett said. "You can't afford anybody. You have to keep them fed and give them what they want to drink. That's all you can do."

When Cronenwett pulls the safety goggles over his eyes, "Knock 'em dead," said Irvin, hitting his fist on the top of the car.

A few feet away, another guy sips on a Pepsi and chats with some other drivers. Joy Fair, 58, has been knocking them dead on speedways since 1949. At Flat Rock Speedway, he holds the record for most wins in the Late Model Stock Car Division — a grade up from street stocks.

His list of 10 season championships run from 1965 until 1981. He hasn't won a season championship since 1981, but Fair doesn't sound like a man who's ready to throw in the wrench.

Saturday nights at Flat Rock Speedway have become such a routine, he wouldn't know what else to do.

Montague Inn : A gem of a B&B

By Mary Augusta Rodgers
special writer

Q: I see that the Montague Inn in Saginaw is now listed in the guidebook, "Country Inns and Back Roads," and am wondering what it's like to visit. Also, should we take our toddler there, or leave him home with a baby-sitter?

A: The Montague Inn is a gem in an unusual setting, considering Saginaw's reputation as an industrial, have-a-beer-and-go-to-the-hockey-game town.

It's the kind of country inn that used to be found mainly in Europe, offering a quiet, pleasant setting, attractive decor, good food, good service and attention to details. Nothing has brightened the U.S. travel picture as much as the recent appearance of places like the Montague Inn.

Business men and women are most in evidence during the week, with travelers and country inn enthusiasts taking over the weekends. It's not surprising that people think of the inn for special occasions — five honeymoon couples once arrived on the same weekend. The Montague Inn is a stately

Georgian manor house, built of rose-colored brick with cream colored trim and green shutters, set on eight acres and surrounded by fine old trees, shrubs and flowers. At the back, a well-tended lawn slopes down to a small lake. Gulls circle overhead and the Lake Linton water sparkles in the sun.

The house was built in 1929 by Robert Montague, a farmer who made a fortune from a hand-cleaning formula he sold to the Jergens Co. Mr. and Mrs. Montague and their two children lived there in fine style, with a staff of five servants, and entertained a great deal.

By the early 1960s, the Montague era was over. The house was used for city offices, then stood empty for years. It might have been demolished, if a few people hadn't seen the possibilities in the dilapidated but strong old place, built with oak beams and hand-made bricks and with six fireplaces.

SO THE HOUSE was bought and restored under the direction of Norman Kinney, one of five owners. Kinney had previously restored the National House Inn in Marshall.

Guests find the inn's library, with its bay windows, window seats, books and magazines within easy reach and tables for games irresistible.

Masterful performances shine in 'Poets Society'

Societies have always agonized over proper education for the young so that when they do mature, they will assume power and wealth...

The terrible tragedy presently being played out in China indicates conflict between various elements of the power structure and their divergent views about how Chinese children should behave.

That same issue is at the heart of Peter Weir's "Witness." "Gallipoli" and "The Year of Living Dangerously" latest film "Dead Poets Society" (A+, PG, 124 minutes).

In particular, Keating inspires seven young men in his class, four of whom figure dramatically in the forefront of this very well acted, finely photographed and generally excellent movie.

Neil Perry (Robert Sean Leonard), Todd Anderson (Ethan Hawke), Knox Overstreet (Josh Charles) and Charlie Dalton (Gale Hansen) revive and lead the Dead Poets Society, a long defunct "club" that Keating had been part of as a student at Welton 17 years earlier.

These masterful performances were photographed by John Seale as is more at home carting the family around in a puke green-colored station wagon. "Meet the wretched family," he growls during one such interlude (certainly more akin to "Married with Children" than "Father Knows Best").

Four years ago, filmmaker Fred G. Sullivan decided that his family was as good a subject as anything Hollywood could produce. His resulting movie, "The Beer Drinker's Guide to Fitness and Filmmaking," may be the best home movie ever made.

REVIEWS

ELLA MENTAL — Ella Mental

All I know about this band is that their manager, Billy Gaff, used to work to work with Cream and Rod Stewart and on a night when he was supposed to check out an unknown Irish band called U2, ended up going to a different bar and getting drunk. He signed the Lookalikes instead.

Apparently, Ella Mental consists of a duo, Tim Parr and Heather Mac, aided by studio musicians. All but one of the songs on this self-titled debut for Warner Records are composed by the aforementioned pair.

Universal Congress is in (jazzy) session

By Larry O'Connor staff writer In the Universal Congress Of, there is the house of jazz and a senate of rock 'n' roll. The speaker of the body is guitarist and vocalist Joe Baiza, who espouses a musical philosophy of Meccolodious (SST).

Skanking Voodoo Dolls were definitely needed. Smith's experience, for example, was strictly in hard rock circles.

Added Perez about drumming to reggae beats compared to rock 'n' roll. "You have to learn to play as fast."

Universal Congress Of delivers an interesting mix of jazzy tunes that hark back to the beatnik sound.

STREET SENSE

You should leave his goodbye as is

Dear Barbara,

I am a 39-year-old divorcee. I have a good job, lots of friends, a healthy relationship with my family and lots of interests that keep me busy. I am financially and emotionally secure.

About a year ago I met a terrific man with whom I shared an exciting and caring relationship for three months. He literally swept me off my feet. Then all of a sudden the calls became fewer and far between. Then, nothing.

How do you handle a man who rushes you and then suddenly turns his back and nothing? How do you handle the feeling of being rejected? W.C.

Dear W.C.,

You cannot handle him or manipulate him. It would be a degrading mistake to look for ways to reinvolve him. Even if he miraculously, parolarily, would forever be the victim in this relationship. The foregoing is good advice in real life relationships that run the unhappy course described in your letter. Understanding the man who perpetrated this wrong is not so clear. The following insight is given with the disclaimer that it is only one of many possible dynamics. Three other men would have done the same thing, but their reasons would have been different.

In this example, you should understand that the rush job was a ruse. This man had to escape because he could not endure long-term intimacy and love. Recognize that he wasn't worthy of you. You weren't rejected. It is possible that he couldn't tolerate your adequate capacity for closeness.

I hope this answer has been helpful. If you do not think my description fits the man who you were seeing, please write again with more information and I will try to better understand your particular situation. Sincerely, Barbara

Barbara Schiff

Dear Barbara, This is a very strange problem. I love the darkness and the shorter days. I get my energy at night. I'm not a morning person, therefore, I do not like daylight savings time. My house looks better to me when it's dark outside. Sometimes I do laundry at 1 a.m.

I can't function as a human being as well during the daylight hours except to drive. I am unable to drive at night.

This problem began at the onset of menopause 10 years ago when I became 50 years young.

Should I see a psychiatrist? Comment please.

Your letter sounds as if some physical processes are involved. I am not qualified to give advice in this area. Have you discussed these problems with your family physician or internist? After a physical examination, the physician can tell you whether or not you should see a psychiatrist. Good luck. Barbara

The Montague Inn: A slice of good life

The inn opened in May 1988. Since then there have been guests who said, "You know, we used to come to parties here. And the feeling is much the same!"

The large entrance hall is inviting, full of light and flowers, with a large Oriental rug and a desk near the curving staircase. It sets the tone of easy tradition and elegance that is apparent throughout.

There are 18 guest rooms — each with its own individual charms — a distinguished dining room, a large parlor and a library that most guests find irresistible, with its bay windows, window seats, books and magazines within easy reach and tables for games like "Scrabble" and "Trivial Pursuit."

There's even a secret room, revealed when one section of a floor-to-ceiling bookcase swings forward. No one knows what the secret room was originally used for. "But the house was built during prohibition," Kinney points out.

The guest rooms are named for members of the Montague family, or people who have some connection with Saginaw. The Montague suite is large and luxurious, with a fireplace, four-poster bed, Oriental rug and handsome mahogany desk.

The Rust room, one of the smallest, has a ruffled canopy over the bed, a view of the lake, and a distinctive flowery appeal.

THE GROVE dining room — the neighborhood, known as "The Grove," was the best address in town when the Montagues lived here — manages to look both formal and cozy.

A complimentary breakfast of fruit, cereals, breads and pastries is served to guests. But the lunch and dinner menus are the main attraction, drawing people from all over the Saginaw area. Reservations are usually required.

The menu features fresh, seasonal food, carefully prepared and attractively presented, with two or three daily specials of fish and seafood. (At

Outside, an herb garden is within easy reach of the kitchen, and guests often see a white-hatted young chef running out to cut fresh herbs. During the summer, dinner plates are garnished with a rose-colored nasturtium from the garden, and a few rose petals are scattered on salads.

The inn schedules many special events throughout the year. The Fourth of July will be celebrated with a fancy picnic, fireworks and pianist Kevin Cole playing George Gershwin and Cole Porter classics.

During the summer, Kathryn Kinney talks on "Enjoying an Herb Garden" illustrating with herbs from her garden. Ask the inn for dates and times.

The inn's gardens and lawns invite daylight strolls as well as more sedentary sitting and sipping pleasures, and there are other attractions within walking distance — for example, a rose garden with more than 1,000 varieties of roses.

THERE'S ALSO a Japanese Garden and Tea House, reflecting the fact that Saginaw and Tokushima, Japan, are sister cities. Visitors can participate in an informal tea service or a demonstration of Chanoyu, the art of preparing and drinking tea.

Children are welcomed at the inn, so it's your decision if you want to bring your toddler along. It all depends on what you want, a family or a get-away weekend.

Your toddler might like the nearby Children's Zoo, with its miniature train. A water park and wading pool are nearby, as well as public tennis courts and three miles of trails and park land along the Riverfront Parkway.

The Old Saginaw City historical district has a variety of interesting shops and restaurants. J.B. Monberg's is a popular night spot there. Farther out is Heatherfield's Lounge at the Bay Valley resort.

Saginaw has an art museum, a historical museum and a great many antique shops, specializing in country and Victorian furniture. A trolley runs from the downtown area past the inn to Old Town and the Antique Warehouse and back on a regular schedule.

Rates at the Montague Inn run from $55 to $130. The address is 1581 S. Washington Ave., Saginaw 48601, or call (517) 752-3939.

STREET CRACKS

Peter Berman: A bit of story-telling and real life

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

A sudden crash interrupts the conversation. Peter Berman sighs and yells to his roommate.

"You gotta be kidding me," he says, without covering the phone receiver. "You just broke another dish!" Excuse me, everything is falling apart on my roommate.

Life's little nuisances have a way of creeping into Berman's discussion about comedy. Berman pauses again.

"I just got my Michigan driver's license while I'm talking to you," he says. "What a pathetic looking picture."

The comedic picture for Berman is hardly pathetic. If anything, the young comedian is on the rise.

After his appearance this week at Joey's Comedy Club in Livonia, Berman will embark on a journey to the comedic land of Oz — Los Angeles. From there, he'll head to New York.

All of which would seem to make a jokster sweat a bit. After all, The Improv? Dangerfield's? Geer, isn't that where people like Robin Williams, David Letterman and Whoopi Goldberg earned their comedic stripes?

BERMAN, THOUGH, sounds as cool as a cucumber in the snow of Anchorage. In little more than two years, he's been a finalist in several comedy competitions. He recently was one of the four finalists in a nationwide MTV competition.

"Somebody asked me before I left, 'What will happen if you lose?'" Berman said. "I said, first of all, I don't consider being selected one of the top four young comedians in the country as a loser. If I perform to the best of my ability and the other guy wins, that's all I can do."

Berman was runner-up in the competition. As Vonnegut said, so it goes.

Confidence is in plentiful supply when Berman takes the stage. His act is a mixture of storytelling and real-life anecdotes. One could call it observational comedy. Berman's not sure what to label it.

"What would you call my comedy?" he asks another person while on the phone. "I don't how to describe myself."

After consulting his girlfriend, he agrees. It's observational. In this area, Berman has been observed opening up for the likes of Jay Leno, Judy Tenuta and Rita Rudner.

The task of preceding a headline act is not easy. People in the audience are there to see them, not you.

"Opening up for Rita Rudner, that was tough," Berman said. "She's very nice. The audience is much quieter. Judy Tenuta is on the edge. The audience for Judy Tenuta was ready to party."

"WHEN I go on stage, no matter what I'm doing, whether it's an emcee, opening or headlining, my goal is represent myself the best of my ability."

Berman is originally from Massachusetts but moved to Ann Arbor to study at the University of Michigan. He has a degree in communications from U-M. While in school, he got the notion to pursue comedy.

Soon, Berman was a regular at area comedy clubs. He was the winner of the Starburst talent competition and was selected No. 1 in Northeast Region of the U.S. College Comedy Competition. He was also a semifinalist in the 1988 Michigan Laff-Off and a finalist in the Joey's Comedy Club competition.

Berman's been featured on "Live at Nick's Comedy Stop" on cable TV and "MTV's Spring Break '89" comedy special. He also has the somewhat dubious honor of finishing second as a contestant on the music network's "Remote Control" game show.

"I got beat by a guy named Puck," he said. "Isn't that humiliating? Why couldn't I have been beaten by a guy named Bill or something?"

Peter Berman will perform along with Gary Thison on Wednesday through Saturday June 14-17, at Joey's Comedy Club, 36071 Plymouth Road, Livonia. For information, call 261-0553.

After his appearance this week at Joey's Comedy Club in Livonia, Berman will head for Los Angeles and then New York to hon his comedic skills.

The pit crews are usually volunteers — the driver's family and friends — and they take their job just as seriously as crews in better publicized racing events.

Thrills, spills and Flat Rock Speedway

"It's so much work, if I could find anything else that was less work I'd do it," Fair said. "I haven't. So I play racer."

"It's something to do. It's better than fighting with the wife," he added, turning to his wife who is dressed in a black blouse with the name "Fair No. 1" embroidered in yellow on the back.

Between waves of the checkered flag, there has been pain for the racing legend. He was involved in a serious accident at Toledo Speedway in 1972 that put him into the hospital. Some 10 years later, he hit the wall during time trials at Flat Rock. He suffered a broken leg, broken ribs and a fractured skull.

Fair shrugs off those incidents with the same nonchalance with which he discusses his numerous wins. For racers like him, the game is a break-even proposition at best.

A WINNER OF the main event Late Model race pulls in $600. Other preliminary runs earn $30 to $50 for first-place finishes. But Fair said overhead it usually runs $300 a night.

Things, though, are generally better than they used to be at the track.

"It used to be dark and dangerous," said Fair, who started at Motor City Speedway in Detroit. "There used to be fights in the pits. Now it's evolved into more of a gentleman's circuit."

One of the gentlemen is next to him smoking a pipe. Dave Kuhlman is the heir apparent to Fair's status as a track legend. Kuhlman has won the Late Model Stock Car division the last three years. But he has no aspirations of going on to bigger things.

"I'm sure everyone thinks about it," he said. "To go beyond this, you have to travel the circuit. You really need a good sponsor. The jump is 10 times what it is from here."

The circuit is small, but tough. Cars race around the quarter-mile oval track at speeds exceeding 75 miles per hour. The small size of the tracks, with its numerous turns, makes for rather some rather wild and crazy driving.

In the first Late Model race, a car tangled with another and left one driver kissing the wall. He emerged from his mangled car dazed and limping, but is all right.

Fans in the bleachers "ooh" and "ah." One teenager comes running out of the stands; his friend is in the wrecked car.

The crowd is quiet for a spell. But as soon as the race resumes, it's back to screaming and yelling.

The people in the stands are a cross-section of families and teenagers, women and men. Behind the bleachers, kids wearing blue jeans and rock'n'roll T-shirts with the likenesses of such bands of Guns N'Roses and Led Zeppelin walk around.

SOME GRAVITATE to the concession stand or the souvenir booth, which sells checkered flags and snap shots of race cars. A line starts to form by the restroom.

Underneath, James Morgan tunes out the fan noise with the radio broadcast of the Tigers game. He sits by the door, eating a hot dog.

Morgan has been a porter at the speedway since 1954. He sweeps and mops the floor and changes the toilet paper in the stalls. A sign above the urinal reminds people to tip the porter on the way out.

With every clink of change in the coffee can, Morgan smiles and says "thank you." He said he's a race fan.

"Oh yeah," said Morgan, who is a retired driver from a security company. "I watch the races all the time. The Figure Eights are my favorite."

So, too, are they for many of the fans in attendance. Figure 8 racing is yet another division at Flat Rock. This is the most primitive of racing where drivers go in figure eights, trying to avoid hitting one another in the intersection.

When the Figure 8 winner takes the flag, the people begin to quietly file out. Outside, car lights illuminate the dark parking lot as they file out onto Telegraph Road.

The real race has started.

James Morgan has been a porter at the speedway since 1954, sweeping and mopping the floor and changing the toilet paper in the stalls of the restroom.

There's even a place for love amid the whine of the engines at Flat Rock Speedway.

Fabulous fakes: Putting on the dog on the cheap

By Mary Rodrigue
staff writer

You want to project that upwardly mobile image, but you're not that upwardly mobile yet?

No problem. Furs, jewels — even car phones — can be faked, in some cases so well no one but your retailer will know for sure.

Ever heard the words cubic zirconia?

No, it's not a skin cream or the latest fad in cube games.

"It's an imitation diamond, a hard substance that holds up very well," said one local jeweler. "It's been around for about 10 years. There's another substance called chatham, created emerald and chatham, created ruby. It's a patented process that looks very much like the real thing."

A real emerald (a favorite bauble of Sarah, the Duchess-of-York) costs about $10,000, but the chatham-created version sells for a mere $500 at some local jewelry stores.

"It has all the same properties as a natural stone," the jeweler said, though to a trained eye, it looks too refined.

Corey's Jewel Box, in Livonia's Wonderland Mall, sells imitation diamond earrings of cubic zirconia, from studs to multi-stone fans and clusters.

The Loop, at Westland Center, not only sells cubic zirconia earrings, but also pendants and rings for would-be diamond lovers.

"THE EARRINGS are set in 14

Majestic Counterfeit Jewels in Birmingham does custom design and custom copying and is a place where jewel dreams become a reality. In addition to fake diamonds and colored gems, the store carries replica watches, designer copy pearls and copy colognes.

karat gold and range in price from $14.88 to $45.88," said saleswoman Michelle McKimmy. "Rhinestones, imitation diamonds, pearls and crystals are popular."

"We sell a lot of necklaces for proms, weddings, and retirement parties."

Cubic zirconia is a good fake, McKimmy added.

"You can put it next to a diamond and you'd have to be an expert to tell (the difference)," she said.

Big hoop earrings are fashionable, and gold is always tasteful and fairly popular, she added.

Tea ties — brightly colored plastic pieces in square, circular or rectangular shapes worn woven through a T-shirt — are a new trendy item. The Loop is selling them like hotcakes, McKimmy said.

Majestic Counterfeit Jewels in Birmingham is, "like a candy store for women familiar with this type of work," said owner Sylvia Gerenraich.

"We do custom design and custom copying. It's a place where you can make your jewel dreams become a reality."

In addition to fake diamonds and colored gems, the store carries replica watches, designer copy pearls and copy colognes.

Customers can choose from what they see or bring in a picture and have the piece copied.

"You can get several custom-designed pieces at a fraction of the cost," Gerenraich said.

Engaged couples can choose fancy custom designed settings, she said, and travelers can pick a piece of jewelry to blend with their real pieces.

THE BIRMINGHAM store opened just before Christmas and business is good, Gerenraich said. The store originally opened in Trappers Alley downtown Detroit in February 1988.

"There are a couple of (similar) stores in California," Gerenraich said. "One in Beverly Hills copies all the latest designs from the rich and famous."

So you've got the (ahem) jewels and now you want to top it off with a fur? If fake fits your budget and your conscience (even designers are creating fakes and discontinuing natural furs to appease animal rights groups) they're out there, but hard to find in spring. As any good fur wearer knows, the coat should be in storage after March or early April.

Neither Hudsons, Crowleys nor J.C. Penney in Westland carry fake fur coats at this time.

"We had them, but we got rid of most of our winter stock in January," said Sharon Estevez, saleswoman at J.C. Penney in Westland Mall. "They sold pretty well — imitation minks and some fox."

Fake furs can still be found at the Burlington Coat Factory in Redford

Township

"We have imitation fox, mink, coyote — jackets, full length coats and hats," said Martha Whitlow, a saleswoman. "Yes, they are really popular. We have people coming in asking for them all the time."

Younger women like Whitlow, 19, prefer leather jackets trimmed in fake fur, she said. Older career women opt for full length coats.

Big this spring are gabardine wool coats — some with leather trim, and shining material trench coats in shades of peach and beige, according to Estevez at JC Penney.

IF YOU want to look like a very important person motoring around town, Murray's Discount Auto Parts sells fake cellular phone antennas. Some people have gone so far as to carry fake car phones in their autos.

"I've got a regular customer who has a fake pink plastic car phone," said John Wisz, co-owner of Beverly Hills Auto Service, a 10-minute oil change shop in Birmingham. "He says he has it to make fun of all his friends who have car phones."

But who is he kidding. The same customer drives a Jeep Cherokee which Wisz proclaims "is very popular with the yuppie crowd. It's a cheaper version of the Range Rover," a real yuppiemobile.

Postal service rule target in junk mail fight

ACCORDING to the Postal Service's own figures, it delivers 1.9 billion pounds of unwanted mail annually in the U.S. This figure is based on a study of recipients who indicated that 25.6 percent of third class bulk mail was either objectionable or uninteresting.

As I learn more in my "Less Is Better" campaign against junk mail, I suspect these figures are low. The Direct Marketing Association suggests that direct mail advertising produces an average of two-to-three percent return, hence I wonder if at least 75 percent (or over 5.6 billion pounds annually) of bulk mail is unwanted useless refuse. Of course, none of us wants to bury this waste in our own back yard, to breathe the smoke from its incineration, nor to cut down enough trees to support this "habit."

I respect the fact that many people, including me, do enjoy certain items, like catalogs, and that bulk mail provides many jobs and important services. I believe any legitimate business has a right to advertise and every person has a right to receive mail they enjoy. Advertisers do not have the right, however, to harass individuals, produce mind boggling unnecessary waste or destroy the environment in the process.

RESPONSIBLE advertising is the answer. With radio, TV or newspaper advertising, private citizens do have some recourse. They can drop subscriptions or turn off the noise. There's no way to stop the incessant deliveries to your mailbox, however, nor to avoid the physical act of disposing of the unwanted stuff. If we could eliminate 25 percent of bulk mail and recycle the rest, individuals would benefit without time consuming irritants and we could make a giant leap toward cleaning up our environment.

I propose, therefore, that the Postal Service be convinced to change its rule so that bulk mail can be returned at the sender's expense. That way, those who want advertising could keep it, while unwanted mail could be returned.

Since getting advertisers to remove names from their lists is sometimes a problem now, the double expense of paying for returned advertising would surely force irresponsible mailers to maintain their lists more selectively. Exceptions could be made for mailings required by law.

organizing
Dorothy Lehmkuhl

The Rate Commission Office in Washington told me that changing this rule is a feasible idea, although it would necessitate increased bulk mailing fees.

CURRENTLY, WHEN third class bulk mail is given back, the Post Office throws it away. Postal patrons can have first class mail returned to the sender — this service is included in the first class postage rate and is not abused by the average citizen.

I believe that after an initial transition period, the same would hold true for bulk mail. Why should first class mailers be forced to pay for this service, while third class ped-ulously fought by them) it seems the net result would be less, but better targeted, bulk mail.

A famous person once said, "I wondered why somebody didn't do something, and then I realized I am somebody." If you are unhappy about junk mail, what can you do?

1. Make an effort to have your name removed from undesired mailing list. Many will happily remove your name on your first request.
2. Return unwanted first class advertising by marking it "Unsolicited — Return to Sender" (A rubber stamp would be handy).

3. Return postage paid cards that drop out of magazines with a request to stop sending unattached cards.

4. Support this campaign by returning the section below. If your response is great enough, I will petition the Postal Rates commission to act as an Intervenor at its next hearing in Washington, D.C. to deliver your message.

condo queries

Q. Are local code restrictions regarding the number of individuals that can occupy a specific type of unit enforceable? We are wondering if this is a way around family status restrictions of the new Federal Statute regarding housing.

A. You are, no doubt, referring to the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988. The act states that it does not limit the applicability of any reasonable local, state or federal restriction regarding the maximum number of occupants permitted to occupy a dwelling. Therefore, local restrictions can be applied without committing a violation of the act. Of course, if you attempt to operate a subterfuge in a veiled attempt to circumvent the protection of the Fair Housing Act as it relates to family status, you will not be successful.

Q. I am a landlord that has certain handicapped persons living at the project. I am wondering whether the handicapped person can require me to make reasonable modifications to the common area portions of an apartment complex.

A. In the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1988, the new act provides that it is unlawful to refuse to permit, at the expense of the handicapped person, reasonable modification of existing premises if the proposed modifications are necessary to afford the handicapped person the full enjoyment of the premises. The act defines the word "premises" as the interior or exterior spaces, parts, components or elements of the building, including individual units in the public and common use areas in the building.

Therefore, the act requires that a landlord make reasonable modifications to the public and common use areas of the building as well as to the interior, but, at the expense of the handicapped person. The handicapped person, however, does not have to restore the common areas back to their original condition. The obligation to restore is restricted to the interior of the tenant's unit.

Check warranty

You are ready to buy a home. The one you found is just what you've been looking for. The location is great, the home is only a few years old and the owners have kept it in top condition.

The price is right, you have the down payment and the mortgage company just called to approve the financing. You're ready to close — or are you?

Before you sign the papers, there's another important item to check. Does the home have a warranty, and if so, does this warranty transfer?

"If the warranty program is Home Owners Warranty (HOW), the unexpired portion of the builder's warranty/insurance protection package will automatically transfer to the new owner," said Gerald Kosmensch, president of the Southern Michigan Home Owners Warranty Council.

"HOW provides many significant benefits to protect the home buyer."

HOW BUILDERS insure their work product against major structural defects for 10 years from the original warranty date. The builders warranty protects against defects in the wiring, plumbing, heating, cooling, ventilating and mechanical systems for two years. Under the first year of the warranty, faulty workmanship and materials are covered.

Not all builders can participate in the program.

"HOW carefully screens its builder members," Kosmensch said. "Only those with high construction standards, good business practices and positive customer relations policies are eligible for membership."

HOW is the only new home warranty and insurance program endorsed by the National Association of Home Builders. It currently has more than 12,500 builder members and more than 2 million homes enrolled nationwide.
