Canton farmer Larry Huebler combines wheat at his farm. Huebler and other farmers will have a hard time in the future if a new master land use plan, which calls for drastic reductions in agricultural zoning, is approved by the township board this fall.

Farmers plan to keep land

By Keith Postler

Tom Gill's family has been farming in Canton and Superior Townships since 1834, and he says he plans on expanding his dairy operation.

But he may be bucking a trend in Canton Township, where farmers can make more money selling their land to developers than keeping it in crop production.

"I'm concerned with the development, and how it will affect me, but I have the wheels turning to be in the expansion mode. I'm willing to work with people if they're willing to work with me," said Gill.

BUT THERE seem to be few persons willing to work with farmers like Gill.

Township officials say there's no way to preserve the remaining 2,570 acres of farmland in Canton, and the new master land use plan, expected to be approved by the township board this fall, calls for changes in land use that would curtail farming.

"In the extreme western portion of the township the community recognizes that those lands will be residential one day," said supervisor Tom Yack adding that most of the land is rented.

Canton at the crossroads

However, farmers are a hardy breed. Christy Varner, an energy technician with the Wayne County Soil and Water Conservation District, estimated that 70-80 percent of the family farmers in Canton will still maintain their farms in the future.

"I think the farmland that is privately held in Canton will probably stay that way. I think the people who want to sell have probably already done so," she said.

Yack agrees.

"I think farms will be here for a long time," he said.

Sentencing set in shotgun death

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Ronald Steiger, who called police from a Canton bar last year and asked to be arrested for the shotgun slaying of his estranged wife, pleaded no contest to second degree murder and felony firearm charges last week.

Steiger, 55, will be sentenced Sept. 20 before Recorder's Court Judge Harvey Tennen.

ASSISTANT WAYNE County prosecuting attorney Agustus Hutting asked Tennen to sentence Steiger to a eight years in prison on the murder charge, a plea bargain with defense attorney Bob Greenstein. The felony firearm charge carries a mandatory two-year prison sentence.

"Mr. Steiger is a wonderful, kind, gentle man," said defense attorney Bob Greenstein.

"I think he needs treatment and some real help as far as his alcoholism," Greenstein said.

"That's one of the things that aided us in making this agreement with the prosecutor.

"He's still very much in love with his (deceased) wife," he said. "It was an act of desperation, which he still doesn't remember, by the way."

Shortly after the slaying in June 1988, Steiger went to the Rusty Nail Lounge on Ford Road, ordered a beer and called Canton police.

When the officers arrived, the bartender motioned to Steiger, who reportedly stepped off a bar stool and approached them with a beer in his hand, police testified during earlier court proceedings in 35th District Court.

Steiger, who reportedly drank five beers — three in Westland — before officers arrived, told police he had no weapons and asked to be arrested.

His estranged wife, Irene Steiger, was found by police in the kitchen of the Steigers' Royal Holiday Estate mobile home on Warren.

She had two gunshot wounds in her chest and one bullet wound in her stomach, according to a Wayne County medical examiner's report.

POLICE FOUND a shotgun lying on the kitchen table.

Last August Steiger was ruled incompetent to stand trial by 35th District Court Judge John MacDonald. Steiger was committed for eight months to the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital based on a psychiatric report.

Steiger had said he feared for his physical well being and felt like he was in a twilight zone, the report said.

He also told a forensic evaluator that during the past 12 or 13 years he had experienced "loss after loss." He said he "kept a smile on the outside and he was keeping his negative feelings to himself."

In March, 35th District Court Judge James Garber bound Steiger over on second degree murder charges.

Schools to refurbish board building, add parking

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

If all goes according to plan, the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Harvey Street will look different in a year.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education reviewed plans at its meeting Monday to refurbish and add on to the board office at 454 S. Harvey.

The project, as proposed by Carne Associates Inc. of Plymouth and Barton Malow of Southfield, would be financed with the $925,000 remaining from a $13 million bond issue approved by voters in 1986.

The two-story addition would provide 5,000 square feet of office space, 2,500 on each floor. A 1,800 square-foot basement would have a storage room, said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

THE ADDITION would house a board room 50 percent larger than the existing meeting room as well as offices for the superintendent and associate superintendent, an elevator and lobby.

Remodeling the exterior with insulated windows and brick and adding a sloped roof would give the building a federal colonial look while making it energy efficient and nearly maintenance-free, said Carne.

To make room for parking, the district plans to level two houses on Ann Arbor Trail. The houses and lots, immediately west of Robert Bake Realtors, were bought from Ralph Lorenz for $225,000.

The addition is overdue, said John Hoben, superintendent.

"Our problem is that administration is spread all over the district," he said.

"THIS ALLOWS us to redesign space within building to accommodate people here plus additions, such as the curriculum coordinators currently at Tanger, the special ed director, and possibly the transportation director.

"Just go through the building and see the utilization of space. We have file cabinets sticking out in halls, and secretaries operating in terrible cubby holes without ventilation or windows. It's not a good work environment."

"Our board room is atrocious. If you go to Livonia or Northville, you'd see the set up is quite a bit different."

No money is available for remodeling the existing board office — a project that could be done in-house, or with a future bond issue, say Hoedel and Hoben. Costs are estimated at $463,000.

DNR: Amoco leads in tainted sites

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the state attorney general's office have launched a joint investigation of Amoco Oil Co.

Amoco has more contaminated sites — 54 — than any other company in Michigan, said David Rymph, DNR environmental quality manager.

That fact came to light as the DNR grappled with a longtime underground oil spill in downtown Plymouth. Fuel that seeped from tanks at the Amoco station at Ann Arbor Trail and Main has contaminated ground water and soil underneath the Mayflower Meeting House, the Box Bar and Grill, Ann Arbor Trail at Main. The area has been on a DNR list of contaminated sites since 1979.

"When we were addressing this situation, we discovered — lo and behold — there aren't any other companies with as many contaminated sites in the state. We're investigating all of Amoco's known sites and adopting an overall strategy," said Rymph. Court action is a possibility, he said.

The contaminated sites dot the state, and "most are gas stations," Rymph said.

WALT BROWN of Amoco's public affairs office said it stands to reason Amoco would have the highest number of contaminated sites "because we have more service stations in the state of Michigan than anyone else. Historically, we are the leading marketer in the state of Michigan. The odds would be very high then, since we have the most sites, that we

Schools' tanks polluted ground

By M.B. Dillon

Removing fuel tanks from Plymouth-Canton schools' bus yard proved more costly than anticipated after contaminated soil was found at the Mill Streeet facility.

There are no wells in the area and it appears that groundwater wasn't affected.

"A slight amount of petroleum product was found. We're not positive how much. We can't say until the geology reports come back," said Greg Pirtle, fleet service manager for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The schools are liable for up to $10,000 in removal costs. Anything exceeding that will be paid by the state under the financial responsibility act passed by the Legislature in July.

The soil was removed from an area about 75-100 feet in diameter and 16 feet deep. It was replaced with pea gravel.

The fuel tanks are being replaced to comply with new federal laws at a cost of $74,580.

Cheryl Wallace, environmental quality analyst with the state Department of Natural Resources, is working with the district and Parks Installation Co., the schools' contractor. Wallace was unavailable for comment.

Aladipo Oyinsan, district supervisor of the DNR's environmental response division, was unsure how many cubic yards of soil were contaminated. He said that under DNR policy, soil is removed and tested for benzene, a carcinogen; toluene; ethylbenzene; and xylene "until it comes up clean or within the levels we set." The tainted material is deposited in a landfill.

Between 1957 and 1975, the district installed five tanks with capacities ranging from 1,500 to 20,000 gallons. They held diesel fuel and leaded and unleaded gasoline for buses and school vehicles. They're being replaced with three fiberglass tanks.

SHARON LE MIEUX/staff photographer

While replacing fuel tanks at its bus yard this week, Plymouth-Canton school officials discovered contaminated soil. It's been removed and replaced with gravel.

Thomas Rose, Plymouth-Canton schools' purchasing agent, said the district wanted to finish the job before school started, a goal jeopardized by uncertainty surrounding state clean up monies.

"You never know in the Legislature what's going to be passed and what isn't. We couldn't make any movement until the funds were authorized," said Rose. "It's nice to get this over with before school starts."

Plan would limit farming, spur development

sold to developers is east of Canton Center Road, and now developers are looking west.

And so is the township. The new master plan calls for the western portion of Canton to be larger homes on larger lots, with the intent of attracting more wealthy residents.

The new plan calls for maintaining a rural atmosphere, but calls for fewer farms in the township.

Dave Nicholson, Canton's community and economic development director, said, "As far as preserving farmland in Canton west of Canton Center Road, I don't think there is a viable mechanism right now."

On the west side of the township the proposed master plan calls for 40 acre and five acre parcels. The planning commission also is considering 2 acre parcels.

"It's recognizing that in the long term that residents will replace agriculture," Yack said. "Short term it will allow a holding pattern for its current (farm) use.

That comes as bad news to the approximately 23 farmers left in Canton, most of whom farm in the western half of the township.

But there was a time when Canton could have saved the farms.

In 1981 voters turned down a bond issue that would have preserved more than 5,000 acres of farmland in the western part of the township. The proposal was defeated by nearly 455 votes.

In 1978 voters also turned it down by only a narrow margin.

IF PASSED, the bond proposals would have generated money so the township could buy the development rights for these lands. The land would have remained undeveloped, said Yack.

"I think the message was that the community was willing to accept the development," said Loren Bennett, township clerk.

Bennett said that if a similar proposal were passed in the next election, it could cost the township as much as $80 million to purchase the development rights for all of the undeveloped lands in Canton.

Township officials said developing Canton would be more profitable than preserving farmland.

What else can be done?

State Representative James Kosteva, D-Canton, said there are two possible solutions.

"First, you have to dramatically reduce the property tax burden for farmers, which means a major change in state assessment property policies would have to take place, or second, you would have to pursue a program akin to the developments rights proposals of 1978 and 1981," Kosteva said.

He said the direction being taken by the board reflects township wide opinion based on the 1978 and 1981 Farmland Preservation votes.

LEE GONZALES, director of the Michigan Family Farm Development Authority, said one of the keys to preserving farmlands is stressing the need for enhanced business and management techniques among farmers.

The agriculture statistic services report showed that of the 55,000 farms in Michigan, 31,200 had sales of less than $10,000.

Yack stresses that residents have called for more open space.

"I think we have to be more aggressive in our purchase of open space for recreation and just to leave it open," he said.

At the state level, there are a number of possible solutions that farmers could use to preserve their land, including:

- The Capital Access Program, under the Michigan Stategic Fund, is designed to give banks a flexible tool to make loans of $100,000 or less. Some agricultural loans have been issued under this program.
- Public Act 116, the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act of 1974, enables a landowner to enter into a development rights agreement (for farmland) or a development rights easement (for open space) with the state. The agreements guarantee that the land remains in a particular use for a specified period.
- The Individual Agricultural Bond (IAB) program, established through the Michigan Family Farm Development Authority. IAB program loans are funded through the sale of tax-exempt revenue bonds with private lenders.
- The Federal Agricultural Mortgage Corporation, created as part of the Federal Agricultural Credit Act of 1987, is an agriculture financing tool. It addressed the need for farm mortgaging and long-term, fixed-rate financing for young, new and beginning farmers.

Thief lifts clubs from golf course

A golfer at Fellows Creek Golf Course reported that more than $700 worth of equipment was stolen last weekend right off the course, Canton Police said.

The goods reported stolen include a $55 golf bag; $60 worth of miscellaneous equipment; assorted clubs valued at $315; a $75 pair of shoes and a set of irons worth $275, police said.

FLASHER EXPOSED: A 13-year-old Canton girl told police she was walking on Foxthorne near Warren when a man drove by in a car, blocked her way and exposed himself last weekend. When the girl walked around the car the driver turned around and started following her until she went into her residence.

The girl was unable to tell police what type of car the man was driving. She did say, however, that the car had bright pink letters on the windows, police reported.

She described the man as in his 30s and of medium height, with dark hair and dark eyes.

GARAGE HEIST: A Doubletree resident told police last weekend that more than $1,000 worth of his property was stolen or damaged. He told police someone opened the closed garage door and removed golf clubs valued at $850 and a $100 golf bag, police reported. A broken garage door opener was valued at $155.

THEFT FROM CAR: The owner of a Cadillac parked in the Superbowl parking lot on Ford Road last weekend told police that someone smashed a window and stole a $260 radar detector, a $150 citizen's band radio, $20 worth of cassette tapes and a $30 garage door opener. Damage to the car was listed as $200 for a smashed car window; $100 on the frame of the window and a $300 fender.

MOBILE HOME BROKEN INTO: The owner of a mobile home on Geddes last weekend reported a break-in. The stolen items include a tool box valued at $50; $110 worth of tools and $125 in cash.

It was back to school for Venessa Thoma, who listened to the teacher explain the rules for the sixth grade at Central Middle School in Plymouth.

Answering the bell

District rings in new school year

By Keith Postler
staff writer

Parents of school-age children throughout the Plymouth-Canton area had reason to rejoice Tuesday — school is finally back in session.

Plymouth-Canton students reported for a half-day of school Tuesday morning and settled in for full-day sessions Wednesday.

For all students, the fall is a time of renewal. Friendships that drifted away lazily over the summer months are rekindled, as are study habits and the daily grind of waking up early every morning.

For some, the fall is the beginning of one phase and the end of another. Fifth grade students enjoy their power as elder statesman of their given elementary school, while sixth graders moan the blues as they end up on the bottom again in middle school.

At Canton's Gallimore Elementary School, Carol Sweet, beginning her 19th year as a teacher, said each falls brings new wonders to the school and students.

"Every year it's exciting, and every year the kids are different," she said, standing outside of her fifth grade classroom.

Tuesday was mostly an orientation day for students, but Sweet started off the new year by giving her students brief math and spelling exams.

"I think the kids are anxious to get back to school, so if you give them something academically the first day, they're enthused about it," she said.

Julie Jun, 10, said she is happy to be back in school but wishes summer could have lasted a little longer. "I like school," she said. "I think it's fun. I like everything, it's all pretty good."

Billy Young, also a fifth grader, said art and gym are his favorite classes, but that he will miss a few things about the summer.

"My friends won't be able to come over as much. My one friend is a sixth grader, and he'll have homework every night," he said.

"And I don't know what my dog'll be doing during the day, either."

For the fifth graders at Gallimore, this fall will be their last at the elementary school level. Next fall, they will move on to a middle school.

Billy Young has a few reservations about that move, he said. "It's sorta weird. You work your way up to the top here, then you lose your grip and end up on the bottom again in the sixth grade," he said.

Joyce Deren, Gallimore principal for 10 years, said, "My favorite part of coming back to school is working with the families. I always have mixed emotions about coming back, but we're here to educate the kids, and you can't do that when they're home.

"It's an exciting time, because you see the kids after they've been gone all summer, and you hear them talk about what they've been doing," she said.

Holiday, school expected to slow down cruising

By Doug Funke
staff writer

City officials say they hope the upcoming holiday weekend and the start of school will dissipate the crowds of young people congregating on downtown Plymouth streets and sidewalks.

Police reported issuing fewer cruising-related tickets last weekend than the weekend of Aug. 18-20. However, more people seemed to be out, especially Friday.

"It was extremely busy, the busiest I've seen," said Paul Sincock, assistant to the city manager.

"It was a lot of traffic, a lot of people," he added. "It was loud. There was a lot of yelling going back and forth across the street, people yelling from cars."

WITH THE COMING of a long holiday weekend when many people traditionally head north for a last blast of summer, both Sincock and Police Chief Richard Myers anticipate fewer cruisers.

"Usually there's a lot of people out of town and usually cruising isn't quite so bad," Myers said of the holiday.

"With school starting, that will curtail our weekday crowd to a limited number," said Sincock. "We start getting into activities at the high school."

Police last weekend issued 66 tickets for moving traffic violations, 18 for more serious traffic violations, including alcohol-related offenses, and 14 for ordinance violations, mostly trespassing.

Myers provided the statistics.

ONE OFFICER, Robert Neumann, sustained minor injuries in a fall while chasing a youth on foot, but has since returned to work, Myers said.

The Taco Bell on Main near Ann Arbor Road seemed to be a hot spot.

Management at the restaurant had trouble controlling its parking lot and patio Friday, Sincock said, but a phone call to the Chicago Taco Bell offices seemed to produce better results Saturday.

City police erected traffic-control barricades prohibiting right turns from Ann Arbor Road to Main and left turns from Main to Ann Arbor Road Friday in an effort to lessen traffic downtown.

Township police barricaded Main south of Ann Arbor Road Friday for the second week in a row so that all traffic leaving town via southbound Main had to turn right and go west-bound on Ann Arbor Road.

CARL BERRY, township police chief, said he was concerned about speeding and motorists turning around in driveways in that neighborhood to head back into town.

Sincock said congestion was so bad last weekend that he would seriously consider restricting traffic to one lane in each direction the length of Main from Ann Arbor Road to Ann Arbor Trail this weekend if a holiday didn't fall during the period.

Polish book no trivial project for area man

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Did you know that actor Charles Bronson was born Charles Buchinski?

Or that as of 1987, 800,000 people of Polish descent lived in metropolitan Detroit?

And that Nicolaus Copernicus, a Polish astronomer, was the first to discover that the Earth and its fellow planets revolve around the sun?

Minutiae like that are among 616 facts found in the "The Polish Trivia Book," written by John M. Vraniak of Plymouth Township. The book is full of historical data, movie tidbits and tributes to Poland and people of Polish descent.

MOST PEOPLE mistakenly think that Marie Curie, who co-discovered radium, used in cancer treatment, and polonium, used to run heart pacemakers, was French. Actually, she was born Marie Sklodowska in 1867. By marrying a French man, she took the nickname "madame."

"A lot of these things are not brought up in public schools," said Vraniak, whose name-dropping in the book includes notes about actresses Loretta Swit and Stefanie Powers.

Swit's name in Polish means dawn. And Powers, born Stefania Federkiewicz, was the first Polish-American to have her own line of clothing, Vraniak writes.

"In general, I didn't know most of this" before the research, said Vraniak, whose father came from Poland to the United States in 1932.

His purpose for writing the book, Vraniak said, was to diffuse the many Polish joke books that line book store shelves. The 169-page paperback that took three years to research and write, Vraniak said, will balance the readers' options.

"Polish jokes were a take-off of the moron jokes in the 1950s and they evolved into ethnic jokes," said Vraniak. "And Polack was once a legitimate term to describe people of Poland."

The much talked-about political changes going on in Poland, Vraniak admits, will likely boost sales. But, he added, the book was doing well before the most recent upheaval there.

The first printing of 2,000 copies has been sold, said Vraniak, who recently moved from Farmington Hills with his wife Annette and three children, ages 6, 4 and 1.

THE 10 MILLION Polish-Americans are an obvious potential market. But Vraniak said he wants to reach non-Polish readers with historical facts and other less-consequential information in a light-hearted way that would draw their attention.

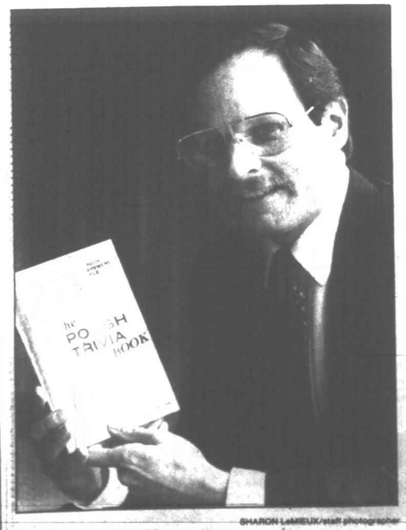
Vraniak made the book easy to read by setting up a question-and-answer format. On the left side of the fold, questions appear, such as "What alternative to Mother's Day is observed in Poland?" The answer, "Women's Day," lies directly across the fold on the opposite page.

"This intentionally was supposed to be a fast-food approach," Vraniak said.

The book's index turns the trivia manual into a valuable reference when the reader is finished, said Vraniak, who grew up on Detroit's east side, a few miles from Poletown.

He works as a Ford Motor Co. service quality engineer and drew from that environment for the book. For instance, he talks about the reader as the "voice of the customer," a phrase coined by Ford Motor.

And if the 616 pieces of trivia costing $5.95 doesn't satisfy your curiosity, Vraniak has a sequel that he plans to have published next year. The title, he said, will be simple, like: "More Polish Trivia."



SHARON LeMIEUX/staff photographer

John M. Vraniak said he wrote "The Polish Trivia Book" to counter the Polish joke books that line bookstore shelves.

Money from bond issue to fund improvements

SOME PEOPLE, including Canton Supervisor Thomas Yack, favored a plan to build a new board office near Centennial Educational Park in Canton. That idea was nixed when the state attorney general told the district that the bond money couldn't be used for new construction, said Hoedel.

The construction proposal, to be voted on Sept. 11 or 25, "right now is all we can do," said Hoben. "I'm not sure this is the total answer. I think it will add a lot, enhancing the community with something that is much more aesthetically pleasing from the outside. It also has utility value.

"This location has served the district well," he said. "We are Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, and we also have portions of Salem, Superior and Northville townships. Certainly for meetings it is a central location."

Operating near CEP would have compounded traffic problems, Hoben added.

TRUSTEES ARE enthusiastic about the plan.

"Aesthetically, this should look nice in the community. It'll fit in with the existing architecture," said board president Dean Swartzwelter.

"This is a very viable and sensible plan for the district. I look forward to a year from now when it will be completed.

"This also will provide access for the handicapped. At long last, we will meet state requirements for the handicapped," Swartzwelter added.

"Carne Associates and Barton Malow should be complimented for coming up with a promising-looking creation," said board member E.J. McClendon. "It's difficult to shrink something, and they deserve commendation."

AN INITIAL plan, presented to the board last spring, would have cost considerably more than the allotted $925,000. The board asked for a revised, less-expensive expansion plan.

Amoco 'working on' plan

might have the most potential problems.

"We are well aware of these conditions," added Brown. "We are working on all of these sites, I'm sure, to get the problems resolved. We have a program in place and have had, where we are working to eliminate the possibility of these problems by checking all of the underground storage tanks at our stations and putting in monitoring and testing systems so they can't happen," Brown said.

THE DNR AND property owners affected by the contamination have waited for months for Amoco to come up with a clean-up plan. The company's initial proposal, submitted in May, was rejected by Ralph Lorenz of the Mayflower Meeting House because it would have removed just 75 percent of the contamination.

The DNR has said it won't review a clean-up plan until Amoco drafts a proposal acceptable to everyone involved.

"We are working on it," said Brown. "We are aware we are supposed to do it, and we are doing it. This isn't easy. If it were easy, it would have been solved long before your calls.

"We have proposed plans in the past which have been turned down for a variety of reasons. We are being asked to submit a plan that other people will review favorably, and that's what we want to do."

RYMPH OF the DNR said Amoco "hasn't submitted any information on a clean-up schedule. But they are progressing in a logical nature. The work they are doing is necessary."

Amoco is continuing to drill observation wells to determine how far contamination has spread, Rymph said. One recent test revealed contaminated soil under the slab of t southerly end of the Mayflow Meeting House, said Rymph.

Lorenz sued Amoco in federal d trict court earlier this month, see ing damages in excess of $50,00 "Litigation can be simply a way getting things off dead center. Ra ly that was our approach here," sa Michael Southerland, Lorenz' att ney.

"It's taken too darn long to get clean-up plan together."

"Mr. Lorenz has been reasonab He's spent a great deal of money a simply wants to be paid."

Southerland said he understan Amoco's reluctance to act.

"This is not a $10,000 clean-u We're talking about several hundr thousand dollars to clean this site u It's very expensive."

Amoco is due to file an answer the first week of September.

Margaret Kole of Livonia is among the nearly 17,000 volunteers who serve the American Red Cross. Each Friday for the last 14 years she has worked in the Livonia donor site, registering donors and preparing blood packets. Here she goes over a donor log sheets with Jack Dudde, a Job Bank Employee at GM, who also donates his time.

Volunteers

Young, old forge community bonds

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Volunteerism is alive and well in Detroit and its neighboring suburbs.

Of an estimated 1.6 million residents in those communities, nearly half of all adults, some 42 percent, are involved in volunteer work, contributing an average of four hours weekly to charitable organizations.

Another 30 percent contribute money, according to a survey conducted two years ago by area business and community leaders.

A case in point is Mary Kennedy, an employee of National Bank of Detroit, who founded the Michigan Corporate Volunteer Council in response to the dying plea of a widowed grandmother.

She told me the kindest thing a person can do for the elderly is help old people stay in their homes, Kennedy said of inspiration for the second annual Paint the Town project hosted by the council.

On Saturday, Sept. 9, some 2,000 corporate employees, many of them first-time volunteers, will "refurbish" a Detroit neighborhood, painting and repairing homes of the elderly and other needy, planting trees and clearing empty lots of debris.

More than $100,000 in supplies has been donated by Church's Lumber, Perry Drugs and others.

Next year, the effort will likely be expanded to suburban communities, Kennedy said.

NEED IS AN IMPORTANT factor in motivating volunteers, according to Cheryl Carter of the Salvation Army in Farmington Hills which serves Livonia and Redford Township. The Army recently established a new corps in Westland.

Many of the Army's charitable deeds are performed by a battalion of volunteers, people drawn to the group by "our good reputation," Carter said. "But nobody can assume a wealth of volunteers." Other than the Christmas holiday season, the Army actively recruits volunteers year around, including from among those they help.

Residents of Harbor Light, an Army residence for substance abusers, assist in the Army's soup kitchen in Detroit. Prisoners, slated for early release and participating in a strict Army-sponsored rehabilitation program, are also recruited from area prisons for both kitchen and clerical duties.

"The nonprofit world relies on volunteers to get the work done," said Diane Bailey of United Way of Southeastern Michigan that finances the Center for Volunteerism. Without them, "many vital services would go by the wayside."

This year, the Center has distributed in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties 17,000 Guides to Volunteer Opportunities, 7,000 more than in previous years. The Center also conducts training for volunteers.

Young, old swelling ranks of volunteers

Today's volunteer is better trained than ever before, according to Bailey, and based on the corporate study, half are employed full-time and a third wish they could donate more time and money.

"YOUR SON GETS involved, and you go along for the ride. That's the compelling reason for (adult) involvement" in Boy Scouts of America, according to Hu Campbell of Livonia Campbell, an electronics designer, has been active in scouting since son Lee, now 24, joined a troop in 1973.

Later this month, the elder Campbell will conduct a week of advanced training for scoutmasters from around the country gathered at the D-Bar A Scout Ranch an hour northeast of Livonia. Such training emphasizes leadership skills, communications, use of resources and counseling.

Campbell is one of an estimated 5,000 area scout volunteers. The American Red Cross relied on nearly 17,000 volunteers last year to draw blood (volunteer registered nurses), sew uniforms and transport both donors and patients.

Margaret Kole of Livonia is typical. Each Friday for 14 years she has worked in the Livonia donor site, registering donors and preparing blood packets.

While most volunteers are between ages 25 and 49, Kole reflects a growing trend. The old and the young are beginning to swell volunteer ranks, according to Bailey of United Way.

"Retirees, especially men, are finding volunteer work a significant opportunity to try something new. And more and more high schools are now requiring 40 hours of mandatory volunteer service for graduation," she said.

"I FEEL BETTER when I work with them," said Deborah Sullivan, 18, of her work with the mentally handicapped. A recent graduate of Plymouth-Canton schools, Sullivan was recently recognized for five years of volunteer effort, first with the Junior Civitan Club and then the Association for Retarded Citizens.

Now employed in a group home for the mentally handicapped in Plymouth, Sullivan's volunteer work has motivated a career. She attends Schoolcraft College in Livonia, working toward a degree in special education.

Though a number of area school districts require volunteer service as part of graduation requirements, Plymouth Salem High School doesn't. The subject has been previously discussed, according to Jerry Ostoin, Salem principal, and likely will be again.

For 30 years, Evelyn Marquis of Livonia has volunteered at the Rehabilitation Institute in Detroit and more recently, at the Vest Pocket Library in Livonia where she is in charge of weekly bridge games.

"I'm doing a little good and it gives me something to do," she said.

Whether arranging flowers for the church altar, serving as a trustee for the local symphony or walking animals for the humane society, volunteer effort equates into millions of dollars in savings to nonprofit organizations, many of which otherwise would have to significantly reduce services or cease to exist at all.

Volunteers, according to a recent article in the Harvard Business Review, are forging new bonds of community, a new commitment to active citizenship, to social responsibility, to values.

Successful groups employ these techniques

A profile of today's most successful non-profit organizations:

- Renewed commitment to management, realizing good intentions are no substitute for organization and leadership in achieving results.
- More money conscious than business enterprises because money is hard to raise and there is less than needed.
- A well-defined mission, focusing on clear-cut objectives and avoiding sweeping statements full of good intentions.
- Look outside the organization for innovative new ideas.
- A functioning board that annually reviews its own performance and that of the CEO.
- Professional unpaid volunteers who are well trained.
- Systematic recruitment of seasoned volunteers.
- Accountability of volunteers.

Judges Gene Schnelz and Fred M. Mester of Oakland County Circuit Court and Judge Patrick Duggan of Federal District Court and a Livonia resident will be among the faculty for 13 legal assistant courses being offered by Madonna College this fall.

The class will meet from 6-10 p.m. Fridays, Nov. 10 and 17 and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays, Nov. 11 and 18. Madonna College's legal assistant program, the first approved by the American Bar Associaton in Wayne County, offers associate and bachelor of science degrees and post baccalaureate certificates in the field.

For beginning legal assistants two classes are offered this semester: "Legal Assistant Orientation" and "Legal Research and Writing I" are being taught by Mary Urisko, local attorney and assistant director of the legal assistant program at Madonna.

Other classes offered are "Legal Interviewing and Investigation" and "Law Office Economics and Management" which will both be taught by Oakland County Circuit Judge Gene Schnelz; "Legal Research and Writing II" taught by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Fred M. Mester; "Litigation" taught by Federal District Court Judge Patrick Duggan and "Torts: An Overview of Negligence" taught by Dimanin. Some medical enrollments lag while job needs rise

staff writer

Enrollments in allied health programs at Schoolcraft College are down despite excellent job opportunities and increasing demand for employees who are trained medical and laboratory assistants, occupational therapists and transcribers.

Hardest hit are the medical office assisting and medical laboratory technology courses, with enrollment in each less than 50 percent of capacity. Enrollment is also down substantially in medical transcription. Medical record technology and occupational therapy are faring better, but enrollments are still less than capacity, according to college officials.

THE NUMBERS reflect recent trends and reduced enrollments in health-related courses that have resulted in schools either cutting back programs or eliminating them altogether.

The trend bodes poorly, according to Patricia Rubio of West Bloomfield. For 20 years, Rubio has directed medical assistance, records and transcription programs at Schoolcraft.

"Health careers are going to be here forever. We can't eliminate these occupations. And if community colleges don't offer training, people will have to go to private technical schools and pay twice the tuition," Rubio said.

"I REALLY ENJOY the med tech field. It's very interesting," said Cindy Bida, 40, of Plymouth. Bida is a 1986 graduate of Schoolcraft's two-year medical lab technology program who is leaving the field this year and returning to her "first love" of teaching.

Bida's training included on-the-job experience, which she performed at Doctor's Hospital in Detroit. She "loved" the hospital atmosphere but ultimately settled for employment with Health Alliance Plan.

"It's difficult to find a job in a hospital. They require a four-year degree," she explained.

STILL, BIDA strongly recommends lab technology because jobs are plentiful and pay is decent. She started at $8 an hour.

The program, however, is seriously affected by low enrollment. Seven students are enrolled in a course designed for 25.

Lack of interest at Schoolcraft is reflected statewide. There were just 37 graduates throughout Michigan last school year, according to Roseanne Morche, who directs the Schoolcraft lab program.

"There is no one answer" accounting for decreased interest, Morche said, suggesting "poor image" as one possible reason. "We used to be comparable in professionalism to nursing." Schoolcraft's two nursing program are full.

Rubio suggests another reason.

"THERE IS A FEAR of the lab right now, a fear of contracting a deadly disease. It's unreasonable, but it's there," she said.

Equally hard hit is office assistance and transcription courses. Enrollments in assistance programs may be low because of poor entry wages, ranging from $5.50 to $7 hourly, and in transcription because the program is new, listed for the first time in the Schoolcraft class catalog this fall.

Stuart Baker, Schoolcraft College assistant dean at the Radcliff campus in Garden City where allied health courses are scheduled, suggests yet another reason.

"THE MBA-BMW syndrome," he said. Allied health careers have an "imaging problem. The level of expectations by young people is very high, and allied health careers are thought of as overworked and underpaid.

"But people need to know they are quality professions, well respected and with good career opportunities."

In fact, careers in record technology and transcription are up and coming, according to Rubio. There is a tremendous need, and "advancement is excellent because they are tied into reimbursement by third-party payers," a major component in today's health care provisions, he said.

"I HAVE MORE requests for employees than I have graduates to fill positions," said Masline Horton. For 22 years, Horton has directed Schoolcraft's occupational therapy program. "There are lots of jobs available."

Horton recruits new students at every opportunity, addressing public groups whenever possible. Most recruitment, however, is "word of mouth. We are a small profession, and people generally don't know about us," she said.

Lois LaLone, 49, learned of the program from a counselor at Schoolcraft where she graduated as a certified therapist in 1980.

SHE HAS been employed since at Ardmore Center in Livonia, working with substance abusers and emotionally impaired youth. She also performs testing for an area neurologist.

Programs offered

Allied health programs offered by Schoolcraft College at the Radcliff Center, 1751 Radcliff, Garden City are:

- Medical Office Assisting — Prepares students to assume administrative, business and clinic responsibilities in medical offices or other health care settings.
- Medical Laboratory Technology — Technicians conduct tests related to the examination and treatment of patients, including detection, diagnosis and treatment of disease.
- Medical Record Technology — Technicians maintain health care data consistent with medical, administrative, ethical and legal accreditation in hospitals, nursing homes and clinics.
- Medical Transcription — Students learn medical terminology, anatomy and physiology, medical report formats and the medicolegal significance of medical reports required to transcribe medical data.
- Occupational Therapy — Therapists serve those who are mentally, physically or emotionally disabled in general and psychiatric hospitals, nursing homes, day care centers and special education programs.

For more information, call 462-4410.

MET is popular with area parents

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Suburbanites are buying Michigan Education Trust contracts in disproportionate numbers, the state Treasury Department says.

Oakland County residents bought 10,224 pre-paid college tuition contracts — fully 25 percent of the 40,409 the state sold last year, said Robert Kolt, Treasury's public information officer.

Oakland has an estimated 1.1 million people, about 11 percent of the state's 9.4 million.

Neighboring Livingston County residents bought 706 contracts last year, or 1.7 percent of the state's total. Livingston has an estimated 110,000 residents, or 1.1 percent of the state's total.

Thus, Oakland parents and grandparents are buying more than double the MET contracts one would expect based on population alone, and Livingston residents 50 percent more.

Wayne County residents bought 7,756 contracts, 19 percent of the total. Wayne has 2.3 million population, or 25 percent of the state's total.

WAYNE COUNTY residents bought 7,756 contracts, 19 percent of the total. Wayne has 2.3 million population, or 25 percent of the state's total.

Kolt said no breakdown was available between communities within a county.

The theory of MET is that if parents invest a small sum now, the trust fund will earn compound interest — and provide tax advantages — to cover a child's state university tuition for four years when he or she reaches 18.

A 20-minute video explaining the MET program is being copied and produced in Livonia, Kolt said. Premier Video is making 5,000 copies at cost, and Video Trend is distributing them free, to 1,200 video stores statewide. The stores are expected to make copies available to the public free or for a small handling charge.

The videos also will be distributed to 350 public libraries.

"It's a marketing tool explaining the ABC's of the MET," Kolt said.

STATE TREASURER Robert Bowman will bring his traveling MET show to southeastern Michigan starting at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 6, in Royal Oak's Kimball High School, 1500 Lexington.

It will be the only public forum on MET in this area. Others are scheduled for Marquette, Traverse City, Haslett and Grand Rapids.

Open enrollment dates for MET this year are Oct. 2-6.

Tuition increases at the state's 15 universities have pushed this year's prices for Michigan's prepaid tuition guarantee program up 13 percent over last year.

But Bowman said loan rates at savings and loan associations are down half a percentage point or more.

Thus, parents who borrow to enroll their children in MET this year will have payments just $1 to $2 higher than last year, he said. Last year, those loan payments averaged about $100 a month, according to MET figures.

PARENTS OF a newborn paid $6,756 last year to guarantee four years' tuition for that child, or $1,689 for each year.

For this year's enrollment period, the preliminary price for a newborn is $7,664 for four years of tuition, or $1,916 a year.

The price is higher for older children — up to $3,638 a year for children 16 through 18. Last year, the top figure was $3,145.

Prices are lower for community colleges.

Bowman, chairman of the MET board, said final prices will be set after the enrollment period when the trust has a chance to examine the ages of the children enrolled and what colleges they plan to attend.

For example, if this year's group is older with more who want to attend the more expensive schools — Michigan State and the University of Michigan — than last year's crop, then the rate might have to be increased, Bowman said. It wouldn't be a dramatic rise, he said.

THE MAIN REASON for this year's average 13-percent increase is to make up for part of tuition increases of nearly 10 percent last year and increases averaging 9 percent for the upcoming school year, he said.

Bowman said state budget director Shelby Solomon was working with the state's university presidents on a way to tie state appropriations to tuition increases in an effort to moderate them.

The MET program is based on expectations that university tuitions will rise 7.3 percent a year while the investment fund earns 9.5 percent.

"What we're looking at is an overall policy that makes sense — a policy to moderate tuition. I think we've reached the basis for that kind of agreement with most of the universities," he said.

Banker cries foul as feds prepare to try him again

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Former banker Stanford C. Stoddard is saying "double jeopardy" as federal prosecutors prepare to try him a second time for misapplying bank funds in a Jackson case.

Stoddard, 58, of Birmingham, is the former board chairman of Michigan National Corp., then a holding company. He was arraigned in federal court last week on the new count after a U.S. Court of Appeals panel overthrew his 1987 conviction.

"This proceeding clearly subjects me to double jeopardy. I will exercise my right under the fifth amendment (to move for dismissal)," Stoddard said in a telephone interview Monday. "They have indicted me on a different basis."

THE APPEALS court overturned the conviction in May. It said the lower court lacked jurisdiction because the affected institution — Michigan National Midwest of Jackson — wasn't federally chartered.

U.S. attorney Stephen J. Markman is seeking a second federal trial on the ground that the Jackson bank was covered by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

U.S. District Judge Anna Diggs Taylor, who conducted the 1987 jury trial, sentenced Stoddard to three years in federal prison and fined him $5,000.

At press time, the new trial date and judge were unknown.

Stoddard's attorneys are Neil Fink, Christopher Andreoff (a former federal prosecutor) and Keith Corbett of the Detroit firm of Evans & Luptak.

SC programs benefit from local businesses

Schoolcraft College trustees have accepted gifts of computer and electronic equipment valued at an estimated $4,000.

Trustees accepted from Sensor Manufacturing in Novi a 2-year-old Moxley XY plotter and terminal with a tape reader for use in the school's computer laboratory.

The equipment, purchased two years ago by Sensor for $2,000, was donated to the school when the firm installed new equipment, according to Frank Sherman of Sensor.

"We upgraded our equipment and rather than just disposing (of the old system), decided it would be of better use by giving it to Schoolcraft," Sherman said.

Daykin Systems Inc. of Livonia, donated an estimated $2,627 to the college in electronic equipment, miscellaneous items essential in electronics training.

Vehicle ban

New ordinance goes too far

CANTON TOWNSHIP has bitten off more than it can chew with a proposed ordinance to ban campers in driveways of homes.

We can understand trying to encourage the storage of larger-type recreational vehicles off a resident's property. Storage areas are available around the metro Detroit area, and they are a good idea.

But Canton went a little too far. The new ordinance would ban camper-style pickup trucks, boats and snowmobiles.

People have a right to own those types of vehicles and use them. That's why we see the township running into a hornets nest of problems.

"I don't think it's fair. I don't think it's legal. I think it's one way for our ordinances to get off on a bad start," Bob Shefferly, a planning commission member and township trustee, told the planning commission last week.

We agree with his assessment. The township will open itself to potential lawsuits, if the ordinance goes on the books.

One potential area we see is the restrictions on pickup trucks with campers. Those types of vehicles are often used as a second car by families, and thus are primarily used for transportation, and not recreation.

One potential area we see is the restrictions on pickup trucks with campers. Those types of vehicles are often used as a second car by families, and thus are primarily used for transportation, and not recreation.

THE PROPOSED ordinance would require such vehicles to be parked at least 150 feet from property lines and would basically prohibit the parking of vehicles outside of garages in most subdivisions.

That would mean that the owner of a pickup truck with a small camper on the back would be required to put his or her pickup in the garage or to store it off the property.

We find the ordinance discriminatory not only against those with recreational vehicles, but with pickup trucks with campers. Often tradesmen use such pickups and use the camper covers to protect the tools of their trade.

If we were a tradesman, we would look at the ordinance as an anti-blue collar measure. That's something we hope the township doesn't intend by proposing the ordinance, but never the less, the implication is still there.

But while we have some troubles with the ordinance, we understand the sentiment behind it. Large recreational vehicles parked in driveways and yards can be an eyesore in a neighborhood.

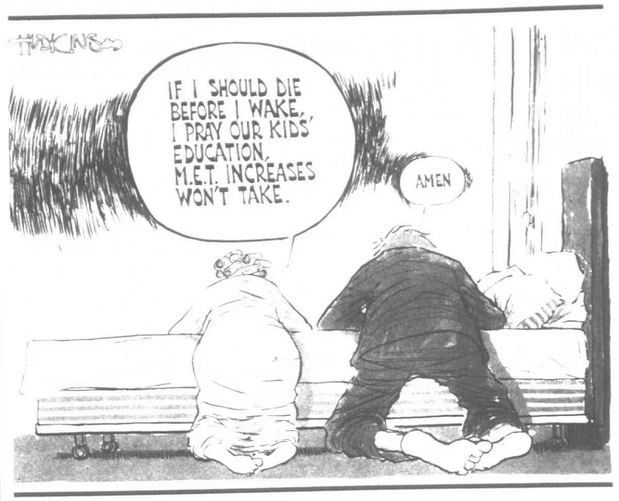
However, there's a middle ground that the township could look into and that's the creation of a storage area for such vehicles. The City of Dearborn has such a lot behind it's police headquarters.

WE BELIEVE that if Canton views the parking of such vehicles in yards as a problem, the township should look at helping residents by providing a lot and charging rent to offset the costs of providing fencing and security. Such a lot would encourage persons with such vehicles to park them there and not in their yards or backyards.

As for other smaller type campers, boats, snowmobiles and pickup trucks with campers, we think residents should be able to keep them at their homes. Such vehicles can be stored in backyards without that much disruption to neighborhoods.

Fencing and landscaping can often be put in place around storage areas for vehicles. Such screening done at the expense of the vehicle owner would go a long way to solving the problem.

We think the township is hauling its heavy artillery out when all they need is a pop gun. It's overkill. There has to be a better solution and we hope that township officials sit down with residents to come up with that solution.



Shooting incidents ought to wake us up

Steve Barnaby

SOME RANDOM observations in the waning days of summer:

● The good guys and the bad guys are playing shoot 'em up around town these days. A Redford Township man was shot after stopping in Farmington Hills to exchange a few angry words with a fellow motorist during the heat of the summer rush hour. A Farmington Hills resident was arraigned on two felony counts.

In Southfield, three separate incidents have been reported within the last six weeks with motorists either being shot or threatened with a weapon while driving through that city.

In Birmingham, the eighth armed robbery was chalked up last week as a gunman opened fire in the retail district during the middle of the day. Fortunately, no one was injured.

In Livonia, an off-duty police officer whipped out his 9 mm semiautomatic and pumped off seven rounds in his successful attempt to stop a couple of kids from stealing his automobile. Police can account for only two of the rounds. Only God knows where the other five landed.

Earlier this year, reams of police officials took umbrage at this column for its objection to police departments adopting use of these killer-type weapons.

THE PUBLIC, this column maintains, is endangered from those very persons hired to protect it when they carry such volatile weapons. Many police officials differ, saying that police are highly trained and would never indiscriminately spray an area.

Frankly, I hoped they would prove me wrong. Generally speaking, cops are nice guys doing a pretty tough job. The last thing they need is bad publicity. But semiautomatic weapons are unnecessary and dangerous, as this latest incident proves.

The lawyer for one of the defendants accused of attempting to steal the auto put it best.

"If a private citizen shot seven times with a gun, police would charge him with attempted murder and careless discharge of a firearm."

C'mon guys in blue. Wise up and demand weapons which will make you a defense force, not an assault force.

WE ALL were lucky this time. No innocent bystanders were killed or injured and your reputation is still intact. But the first time someone is unnecessarily killed, watch out, the public will turn on you.

It's bad enough that we've got criminals out there threatening the public with their weapons, don't let yourself be perceived as the same kind of threat.

● Some officials in Troy are objecting to the name of the new Marriott in town. Seems the corporation wants to call it the Detroit Marriott for convenience of booking. Those objecting believe the name Detroit carries a negative connotation. Marriott officials differ, saying that few outside of Michigan have ever heard of Troy.

We really shouldn't allow those who wish to display their prejudices get in the way of economic progress. C'mon now, name the suburbs around Kansas City. Name the suburbs around San Francisco. Name the suburbs around most any major city. Most of us would be hard-pressed, unless we had once lived in that area.

Enough for now. The crispness of fall is approaching. The kids are back in school. Let's keep it all in perspective. Despite our problems, it's a pretty fine world.

DSO aid is money well spent

APPLAUSE to the Michigan Legislature and Gov. James Blanchard for approving a $1 million supplemental appropriation to the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in its time of turnaround.

With many worthy causes grasping for very little loose cash, state government has added to the $2.5 million it already had voted the debt-plagued DSO.

It was an enlightened decision under the circumstances. The DSO is more than a rich folks' form of entertainment in downtown Detroit. It is all of Michigan's symphony orchestra, an asset to the entire state.

State government has added to the $2.5 million it already had voted the debt-plagued DSO. It was an enlightened decision under the circumstances. The DSO is more than a rich folks' form of entertainment in downtown Detroit. It is all of Michigan's symphony orchestra, an asset to the entire state.

CONSIDER:

● In May the DSO played in Lansing, and in October it will perform in Ann Arbor and Muskegon.

● During the summer, it played free concerts in Kensington, Willow and Metro Beach metroparks.

● It also played a regular summer series at Meadow Brook on the Oakland University campus near Rochester.

● DSO this summer brought a rare form of music to the Upper Peninsula towns of Calumet, Escanaba, Ironwood, Iron Mountain, Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie.

● In November, it will visit a number of suburban high schools — Churchill in Livonia, Harrison in Farmington Hills, Pontiac Central, Utica Stevenson and Lakeshore in St. Clair Shores.

● In the spring of 1990, audiences in Alpena, Adrian, Flint and Kalamazoo will hear Michigan's symphony orchestra.

At the risk of overemphasizing money, we add that DSO's tours of international capitals and line recordings bring favorable attention to this battered old town in the world economy.

Those are DSO's contributions as a unit.

THE 98 MUSICIANS make other contributions to the quality of life in the suburbs, where most of them live.

Many provide first chair leadership in community orchestras, working side by side with amateur and student musicians. Often they are called upon as soloists with local orchestras.

They teach, privately and in universities.

In other words, if Michigan's symphony orchestra were allowed to disintegrate and the musicians to move elsewhere, the cultural loss would be far-reaching.

DSO has a civic orchestra that trains young professionals from the metropolitan area. This orchestra is in the process of expanding its seasonal offerings from three to nine.

Four weekend young people's concerts are also on tap.

Detroit, where musical education may die for elementary and junior high kids, still is able to send busloads of classes to hear educational concerts. Some of the close-in suburbs take advantage of these concerts, too.

SOMEHOW, BETWEEN the recession of 1979-83, management mistakes and Detroit politics, DSO accumulated a deficit of $18 million. New management, headed by chairman Robert S. (Steve) Miller and executive director Deborah Borda, has been joined by the musicians' union in turning Michigan's symphony around.

Already we are seeing better budgeting and better promotion.

The union took economic cuts of $5,000 per person per year. In a little-publicized change, the union agreed to a 50-mile extension of the distance it will travel before a trip is considered an overnighter. That means the musicians realize they're part of a Michigan symphony orchestra.

So we applaud the state for its added $1 million of faith in Michigan's orchestra. As Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes said: "Taxes are what we pay for civilized society." (275 U.S. 87, 100)

At the same time, we agree with the state's view that corporations and individual donors ought to cough up two-thirds of what is needed to set DSO's affairs in order and to build up an endowment fund. This isn't Europe, where they have state-funded orchestras. The U.S. and Michigan are too culturally diverse to justify the state's picking up the lion's share of the DSO burden.

It's up to the rest of us to follow state government's, the management's and the musicians' lead in polishing Michigan's symphonic jewel.

RVs mean togetherness for families

To the editor:

I'd like to respond to "No Parking. Plan would prohibit RVs in driveways."

I find Canton Planning Commissioner Cathy Johnson's (and those who agree) perspective on RVs to be a little perverse and certainly anti-family. One should view RVs (boats, travel trailers, motor homes, snowmobiles, etc.) as the symbols of successful family life rather than "... as a nuisance to other residents and lower property values."

People who have selected Canton to live in work hard to give their kids a good life. As the years go by and the hard work pays off, these families begin to acquire the means to bring the family even closer together through various forms of recreation. RVs are not the signs of neighborhood deterioration, but rather signal the family orientation of the residents.

The property value argument surely has no validity in my mind given the number of people I have known who lived in Canton and moved cashing in on home appreciation. We certainly had no trouble selling our home for twice what we paid for it after 12 good years of family life in Canton.

Also, from our own RV experience, I can tell you that the 24-hour rule makes no sense, and is, in fact, a harassment designed to discourage RV users. Just the occasional routine maintenance on most RVs takes more time than that (especially when you are working full time at a job or career) not to mention time needed for occasional repairs. Preparation, too, for a trip of any length often takes more than 24 hours.

As for storage of large RVs, most of the use is seasonal anyway. I wouldn't want a 35-foot trailer in my driveway all winter simply because it would be a nuisance to every day life, but a couple of snowmobiles in the backyard in February should not raise an eyebrow, except with those few like Ms. Johnson who seem to see the community as some kind of sterile Madison Avenue advertisement. I'm sure she wouldn't have a problem with someone who, after years of labor, enjoyed a $35,000 BMW as recreation and parked it in his driveway, but oddly she fails to see the beauty in a $35,000 boat or trailer. They certainly look beautiful to me, and I'm sure to lots of kids who enjoy the hours spent in these wholesome family activities.

This superficial idea of neighborhood "beauty" is classist, too. What is Ms. Johnson saying here? Is it OK for someone fortunate enough to afford a few acres of land west of Canton Center Road to have an RV on their property, but not acceptable for hard-working lives? Be proud that people are putting effort and love into family and children Ms. Johnson and others need to put on a different pair of glasses when they look at the streets of Canton.

So I say, get local government in Canton behind the family instead of on top of it. Relax the regulations for the "big" RV equipment during the busy season and forget about the small stuff. If you can't tolerate a little pop-up camper in the neighbor's backyard, perhaps it's time for a condo in Northville.

Drive for Life this weekend

To the editor:

Drunk driving kills our friends and family members at an alarming rate, and remains the most frequently committed crime in the nation. On average, one person dies every 22 minutes, 65 each day, and more than 23,000 Americans lose their lives due to drunk driving crashes each year.

Here in Michigan, 793 men, women, and children died in alcohol-related crashes last year. That is why MADD and Volkswagen United States, Inc. are focusing state attention on the third annual Drive For Life public awareness campaign.

We are asking that all motorists turn on their headlights during daylight hours of the Labor Day Weekend in memory of those 793 individuals who were killed in drunk driving crashes and, of course, to drive sober over the Labor Day Weekend and for the rest of the year.

School opening jitters in the air

Doc Doyle

Q: Our son is going to be a freshman in high school this fall and he is beginning to act strange. It seems the closer school opening comes, the jumpier he gets. Is this typical?

A: It's in the air. The school floors are scrubbed, the buses are greased — ready for action.

School opening for both students and teachers is full of anticipation and excitement — yet tempered by certain anxieties. Experienced, quality teachers often times have a difficult time sleeping the night before the opening day.

To address your question, we need to consider specific factors that impact on your son's anxiety. It is a normal phenomena for students at all grade levels to experience opening day anxieties but it is most traumatic at certain grade levels.

In your case, your son is going from a cozy middle school environment to the "big high school" where suave, wordly seniors are walking the halls, protecting their turf and territory. Your ninth grader is low man on the totem pole whereas as an eighth grader in a middle school last year he was part of the power structure at least in relationship to the sixth and seventh grade students.

What you have in your son is a normal fear of the unseen, the unknown. Your son is not sure of what will occur that first day. Let us all remember our first day as "freshmen" when many of us experienced those unfounded but real, at the time, fears of early adolescence.

An even more anxious scenario could be the student leaving the fifth grade and entering middle school. Kindergarten students through fifth grade students deal with one teacher, one personality, all day long. Now the fifth grader is moving into the sixth grade where he/she will have six or seven different teachers to deal with, six or seven different personalities, possibly six or seven different grading and classroom management styles.

Indeed, a new middle school child can move from a first hour class run by a "General Patton" to a second hour class overseen by a "Mary Poppins," very relaxed and easy going.

Other opening day situations which have great impact on a child include the move from kindergarten to first grade, from a half-day kindergarten setting to a full-day setting. Many first graders initially tend to get tired in the afternoon having been used to the half-day kindergarten schedule.

However, the greatest, most dramatic event is the child going to kindergarten their first day, especially if it is the first child leaving the home for schooling, the first severing of the home site, emotional umbilical cord. For whom is it most difficult, the kindergarten child or the parent, has always been the unanswered question.

The first day of school is always full of anticipation — for teachers, administrators, students and parents alike.

School is starting next week and frankly I'm beginning to get a little nervous and anxious. Therefore, your son's anxieties are similar to what principals, teachers, secretaries, bus drivers, cafeteria, maintenance and central office personnel experience when that first school bell of the year rings out.

School issues affect us all

Judith Doner Berne

SCHOOL BELLS RING, are you listening?

Because even if your children are grown, even if they're too little, even if you have none, the back-to-school season affects you.

Stores are more crowded with back-to-school shoppers, school buses add another dimension to traffic and a need for even more careful driving, and you're certain to be hit with a batch of back-to-school news and feature stories by the broadcast and print media.

But, even more, you are affected by the use of your tax dollars to foot the bill for your local schools. These are dollars that most of us would pay less grudgingly if we knew our school people were doing the job — both in turning out well-educated students prepared for tomorrow's world and in running our schools in an accountable, business-like manner.

For most school districts, late August is no longer the tense time it was up to the early 1980s. The number of school districts facing possible strikes is miniscule compared with days gone by.

SOME MAY ATTRIBUTE that to the 1974 Dearborn Heights Crestwood School District episode, in which striking teachers were fired and never rehired. That certainly had impact. Since that time there have been fewer strikes, and those that have occurred were generally short-lived.

But people have short memories. More influential now is the fact that teachers are pretty much getting what they want. In concert with a high-rolling economy and a property-tax based school funding system, most of the Observer & Eccentric districts have hiked teacher and administrative salaries at least 6 percent per year. Combined with an inflation rate that's under control, those salaries increases are real.

There is no need to strike. At the same time, teachers can no longer cry that they are underpaid.

Livonia teachers are asking for raises equivalent to other top districts. That's fine, but taxpayers in Livonia should know that their average teacher makes more than an average teacher in any of the 15 districts covered by the Observer & Eccentric, with three exceptions: Southfield ($43,274), Wayne-Westland ($43,500) and Troy ($43,402).

AND THE AVERAGE salary for teachers in Livonia is $42,494, higher than in top districts such as Birmingham ($39,000) and Bloomfield Hills ($41,222).

In the early morning hours of Monday — the start of their new school year — a tentative agreement was reached in the Farmington district that gives 6.5-percent pay raises to teachers and other support personnel.

Betcha that Livonia teachers who are asking for 8 percent will probably settle in that 6 percent range.

But salaries are only part of the picture.

Benefits. To begin with, teachers make that salary for working only nine months of the year. They'll scream, but to the rest of the working world, that's a pricey benefit.

Beyond that, their insurance is tops, generally through MESSA - a division of the Michigan Education Association. In an era in which businesses are attempting to cut benefits, changing to less expensive plans or asking employees to contribute, school districts will be hard-pressed to successfully do the same.

FARMINGTON SCHOOL officials tried, but only gained the promise that for three months employee bargainers would join them in exploring insurance alternatives.

It's doubtful any changes will be made.

Job security. When was the last incompetent teacher fired in your district? It's almost impossible.

Job opportunities. They're the same as in any business — off the line and into administration. And, at the top, a superintendent such as Bloomfield Hills' W. Robert Docking, whose contract was just amended to give him more than $136,000 by the 1991-92 school year.

So the school bells now ringing affect us all. Let's ring to a new school year, full of challenge and energy. Let's ring for less discrepancy between rich and poor school districts. Let's ring to the majority of hard-working teachers and administrators who earn their salaries and benefits — and to more accountability for those who don't.

Schools bungle Christmas 'problem'

Jack Gladden

If I had my will, every idiot who goes around with "Merry Christmas" on his lips should be boiled with his own pudding, and buried with a stake of holly through his heart. He should.

— Ebenezer Scrooge

I am sure I have always thought of Christmas time, when it has come round — apart from the veneration due to its sacred origin, if anything belonging to it can be apart from that — as a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; the only time I know of, in the long calendar of the year, when men and women seem by one consent to open their shut-up hearts freely, and to think of people below them as if they really were fellow-travellers to the grave, and not another race of creatures on other journeys.

— Scrooge's nephew, Fred

Holiday celebrations must be curriculum-driven, as opposed to being celebrated for holiday's sake.

— Diane Iras
Rochester schools
communications specialist

NO, I'M NOT rushing the season but school districts are. They're already getting prepared for what seems to have become "The Problem of Christmas."

It's part of the current wave of trying to create a generic society in which no one can possibly be offended by anything.

Rochester schools recently approved a "holiday policy" with eight pages of guidelines specifying what's OK and what's not when it comes to celebrating holidays with religious overtones. Troy schools are considering a similar policy.

They are but two of numerous districts which, in recent years, have become seriously concerned over "The Problem of Christmas."

THE PROBLEM, of course, is that it is CHRISTmas and some non-Christians don't like that. The holiday doesn't represent their religious beliefs, they protest, and their children shouldn't be forced to take part in celebrations that they don't believe in or to sit on the sidelines while the believers celebrate.

All of this sounds reasonable enough on the surface. So school officials establish study committees whose sole purpose is to take Christ out of CHRISTmas.

"We'll call it the 'Winter Holidays,'" they say. "We'll get rid of all the religious trappings and what we'll be left with is a nice generic holiday that everyone can celebrate without offending anyone."

Such an approach is patently silly. These policies end up in one way or another offending everyone. Not to mention what they do to a season that is as much a part of American culture and tradition as baseball and traffic jams.

Christmas is, at the core, a religious holiday celebrating the birth of Christ. At the same time it has become so commercialized and secularized that it is already virtually a generic winter holiday.

The symbols of the season — Christmas trees from Germany, mistletoe from the British Isles, Santa Claus, who appears to have evolved from a 4th Century Turk — form an amalgam symbolizing America as melting pot. Sleigh bells and red-nosed reindeer get equal billing with Nativity scenes and wondrous stars.

IF SCHOOL districts are going to view the celebration in the first sense — as a Christian rite — then let them exercise their powers of separation of church and state and ban it altogether. No Christmas vacation, no decorations, no hypocrisy. Scrooge would have approved wholeheartedly.

On the other hand, if the schools want to retain the holiday, then take it for what it is and don't try to spray-paint the religious symbolism out of it.

Yes, Christmas is basically a Christian holiday. So what? This is basically a Christian country.

And our Americanized version of Christmas already leaves plenty of room for everyone, of whatever faith or ethnic origin, to find some small niche in the celebrations without going to Christmas Eve Mass or setting up a Nativity scene on the front lawn.

Scrooge's nephew was right. Christmas is "a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time."

What's so bad about that?

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.
It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Treasurer will meet on trust

The public can learn about the Michigan Education Trust straight from the founder's mouth next week in Royal Oak.

State treasurer Robert Bowman will hold a community forum at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 6, in Kimball High School, 1500 Lexington.

It's one of five being held around the state and the only one in southeastern Michigan. Others will be in Marquette, Traverse City, Haslett (near Lansing) and Grand Rapids).

"The intent of the MET forums is to answer any questions people might have about MET before the Oct. 2-6 open application period," Bowman said.

Parents, grandparents and even employers may invest $7,664 to guarantee a newborn child four years of state university tuition in 18 years. Cost are lower for fewer years and for community colleges.

To make a reservation or for further information, call the state's toll-free hot line at 1-800-MET-4-KID

Stoddard to be tried second time

IN A STATEMENT, Markman said Stoddard benefitted from a deal in which a company he half-owned leased a Jackson building to the bank.

Markman alleges that terms of the lease — $27,000 annually — were excessive for a building purchased for $41,500. He added:

"Stoddard kept his interest hidden by having the property purchased in the name of an attorney-friend, then later by transferring the property and the lease to a partnership known as 'Amberly Properties' — a Michigan co-partnership in which Stoddard was a 50 percent partner."

Stoddard was forced to resign as chairman of Michigan National Corp. in 1985. He has separate suits in Oakland Circuit Court against MNC and the 19 directors for failing to provide aid in his defense against federal charges.

The Comptroller of the Currency sought to ban Stoddard from banking for misuse of bank funds, but that case was overturned by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington, D.C.

Union pickets S'craft

Pat Mog, a member of the Schoolcraft College Support Personnel Association, and son Steven, 11 months, join pickets Tuesday during Schoolcraft College's annual staff barbecue. Custodians and maintenance workers joined members of the Schoolcraft College Clerical Association and the Faculty Forum to "make our presence felt," said David Stabley, president of support personnel. "We feel the concerns we have raised are falling on deaf ears," Stabley said. Support and clerical personnel have worked without contract since July 1. At issue are wages, benefits and the schools increasing use of part-time and non-union employees. The barbecue is an annual event for all Schoolcraft employees, administrators and trustees.

Guaranteed Weight.

Did you know when you buy a one carat diamond, you may not actually get a full carat?

Some jewelry stores, discount stores, and catalog showrooms sell what's referred to as a "light carat." Which means that your diamond could weigh as much as 10% less than a full carat.

By industry standards, that's good enough. By Helzberg standards, it's not even close.

That's why when you buy a diamond at Helzberg Diamonds, the precise carat weight is clearly marked and guaranteed. So you can be sure you get exactly what you're paying for.

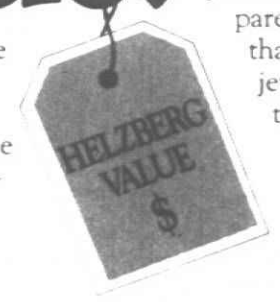
You'll also discover that a Helzberg diamond is not only "worth the weight"; it's the best quality diamond you'll find for the money.

Guaranteed Value.

When you shop for jewelry, how can you be sure you're getting the best value?

Well, unless you're an expert gemologist, or someone who's trained to judge the quality of a precious gem, you can't be sure.

But at Helzberg Diamonds, when you see specially selected merchandise marked with our special pink "Helzberg Value" price tag, you can be absolutely certain that those items are the best value, on items of their kind, in town.



Just shop around and compare. You'll discover that you can't find jewelry anywhere near the quality, anywhere near the price, anywhere else you look.

Guaranteed HELZBERG.

When you buy a diamond from Helzberg Diamonds, you're guaranteed something very special indeed.

We carefully select and inspect each diamond we sell, and we mount only the most dazzling, radiant stones in our beautifully unique settings. We provide a spectacular selection of quality merchandise from which to choose. And to insure your complete satisfaction, we offer a full 90-day refund.

But most important of all, we put into our jewelry, what you find hard to put into words.

So no matter what the occasion, or reason to express your special feelings, shop at Helzberg Diamonds.

No other jewelry store guarantees you more.

Friends gather at this center

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Edmund Murawski has plenty of stories to tell from his days as a court clerk for Wayne County.

Murawski, 82, is retired now, but remembers those years on the job. He enjoys sharing stories with others at the Plymouth Adult Day Center, based at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth Township.

They talk about "the things that go on, what happened," said Murawski, a Plymouth Township resident. "You read about it and you talk about it."

He started coming to the center in January. His days there give his daughter time to spend at her job as a nurse.

"I do a little of this, a little of that," Murawski said of his time at the center. "Mostly, I like to sing."

The center has been open since the fall of 1987, said site manager Mary Mauro. It operates 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at St. John's Episcopal Church, 574 S. Sheldon. (For information, call 451-1455.)

THE CENTER is operated by Plymouth Family Service, a Plymouth Community United Way agency affiliated with Child and Family Service of Washtenaw. Child and Family Service of Washtenaw also operates a center for adult care in Ann Arbor.

The Plymouth facility has 23 clients, not all of whom visit every day.

"It's pretty much based on family need," said Mauro, a 34-year-old Plymouth resident. Some clients need more extended care than others.

Coming to the center gives clients a chance to socialize. Rather than sitting home in front of the TV all day, they have a chance to be with other people.

"It really brings so many of them out of the depression," she said. "They get together, side by side like this, and they have a lot of things in common."

Many of the men worked for the auto companies in their younger days and enjoy sharing those stories. Many of the women worked as homemakers and raised children.

Bringing a loved one to the center helps family members cope. Family members can work, run errands or just have some time to themselves.

"We have some families who have come to us just on the edge," Mauro said. "It's been the answer to their needs."

A FAMILY support group — open to client families and others from the community — meets 10-11:30 a.m. the third Wednesday of the month at the church.

"With the care of an elderly family member, it's not always as pleasant as one might see from the outside," Mauro said.

The center is for people living in or around Wayne County (other than the city of Detroit). Clients age 60 and older are asked to make a sliding-scale donation based on income.

Younger clients in need of care are also eligible to attend, and are asked to pay a daily rate of $25. Transportation by van is available for clients living close to the center.

"We start out the morning with a social coffee-hour type thing," Mauro said. That's followed by a discussion period.

Clients talk about current events. Some don't see well enough to read, so it's helpful for them to stay up-to-date on happenings.

Registered nurse Kathy Matthews, who works part time at the center, often presents programs on health and nutrition issues.

A morning activity period includes arts and crafts, sewing, woodworking and other activities.

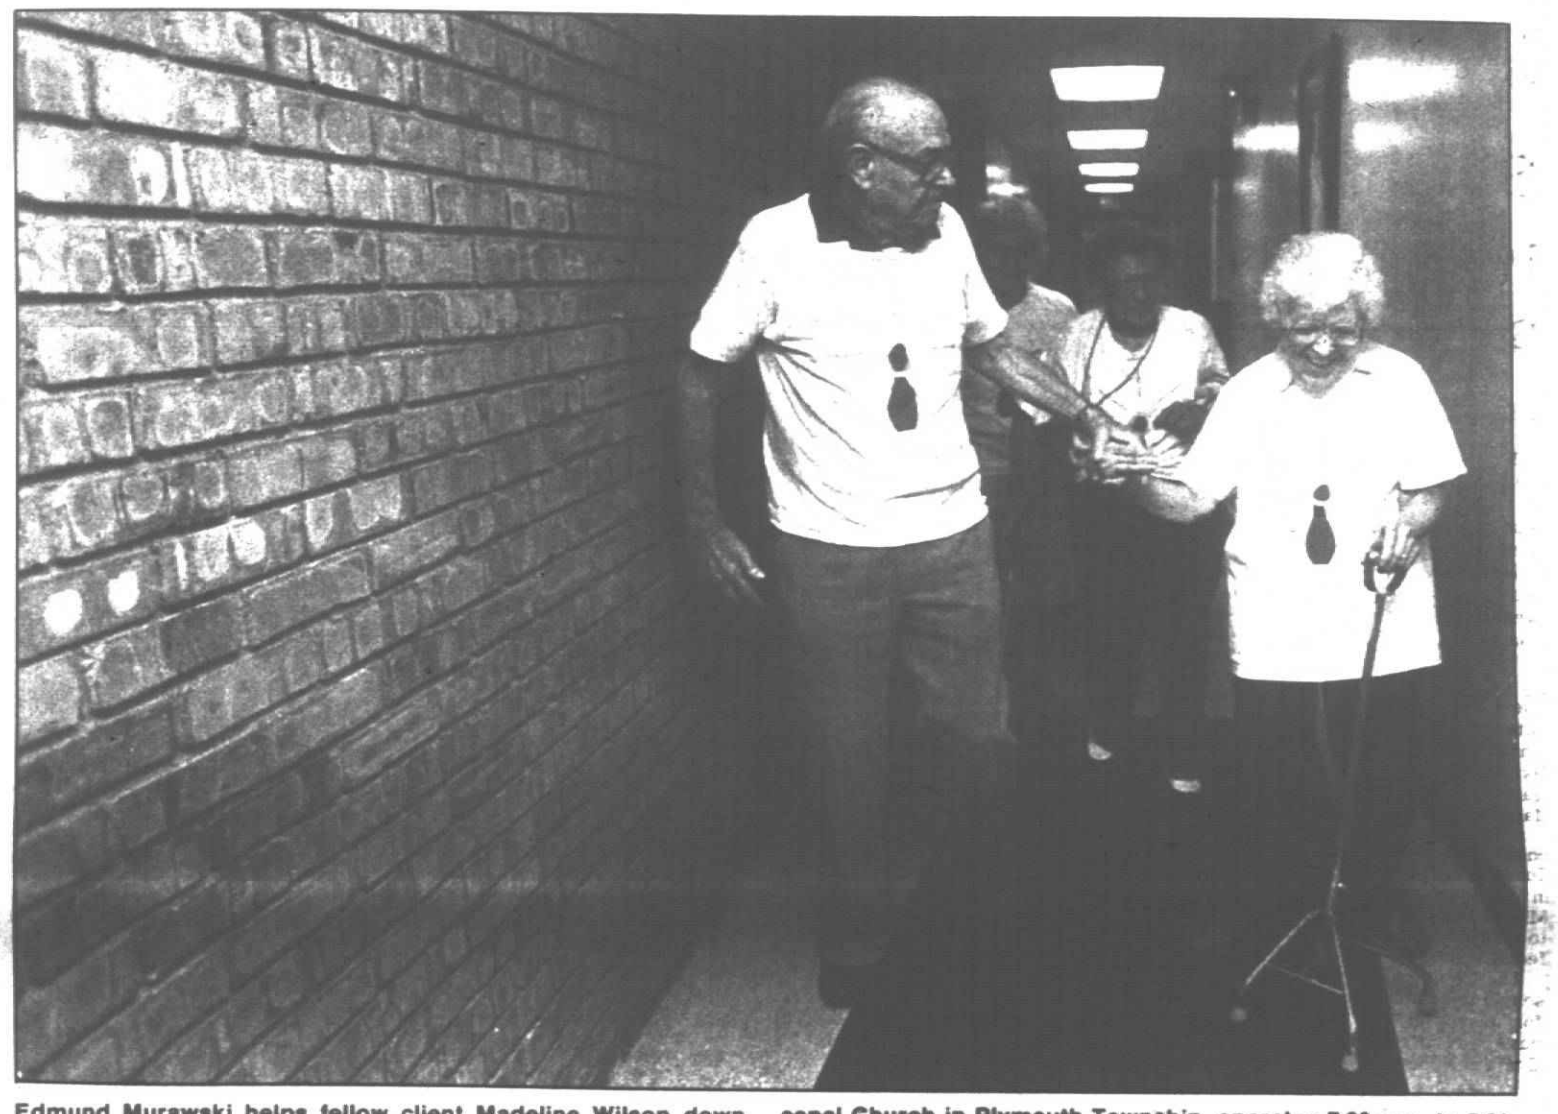
Client Ann Kargus takes time every afternoon to wind everyone down with a back rub. She's massaging volunteer Woody Taylor's shoulders.



Edmund Murawski helps fellow client Madeline Wilson down the hallway at the center. The center, based at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth Township, operates 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Stop

Caution called for when around school buses

By Julie Brown
staff writer

PLYMOUTH-CANTON roadways are a bit more crowded during this back-to-school week. That takes some getting used to for many drivers.

"They might not be used to the kids being back in school," said Officer Pat Nemecek of the Canton Department of Public Safety. Some drivers are impatient and don't pay enough attention to traffic safety.

"It always seems like people are in a hurry," he said.

Traffic volume increases this time of year, due in part to the presence of parents and students driving to school. Drivers may need to leave a few minutes earlier in the morning, Nemecek said, giving themselves time to get to their destination.

Motorists are required to stop at least 10 feet from a school bus that is stopped and displaying its alternating flashing red lights. That's true for traffic moving in both directions. Drivers should remain stopped until the bus begins moving or the flashing lights are turned off.

DRIVERS SOMETIMES forget that they must stop for school buses on multi-lane roads, said Chief Richard Myers of the Plymouth Police Department.

Some drivers on Main Street in Plymouth, for example, assume they don't need to stop if the bus is on the other side of the street. That's not the case, however. It's only on a divided highway that oncoming traffic isn't required to stop.

Typically, the Plymouth Police Department receives complaints of violations during the first few weeks of the school year. After that, most motorists get back into a routine.

"They tend to remember the law and comply with it," Myers said.

Chief Carl Berry of the Plymouth Township Police Department has seen some improvement in traffic safety in recent years. Fewer drivers in that township pass school buses illegally than did in the past.

"That hasn't been a problem in recent years," Berry said. "I think drivers are just becoming more aware of kids, that's all."

Berry has seen problems with students walking in the street when sidewalks are available. Some parents even walk with their children in the streets rather than using the sidewalks.

IN SOME cases, that's because homeowners have parked their cars and blocked portions of the sidewalk. Homeowners parking in driveways should remember to keep the sidewalk unobstructed. Parents and children walking to and from school should use the sidewalks.

"It is a problem," Berry said. "It seems to be getting more frequent."

Those walking along roads without sidewalks should face traffic and stay away from the roadway. Police officials recommend that students wear reflective or brightly-colored clothing, making it easier for motorists to spot pedestrians.

Pedestrians of all ages should cross the street at intersections, Myers said. That's the safest spot in that drivers are more likely to be anticipating pedestrians.

Even so, those walking need to be careful about approaching traffic. Pedestrians shouldn't assume that a car can or will stop.

"A pedestrian is never going to win that battle," Myers said.

Pedestrians need to obey the walk/don't walk and traffic signals, and should use pedestrian walkways when those are available. Students and drivers should obey the directions of school crossing guards.

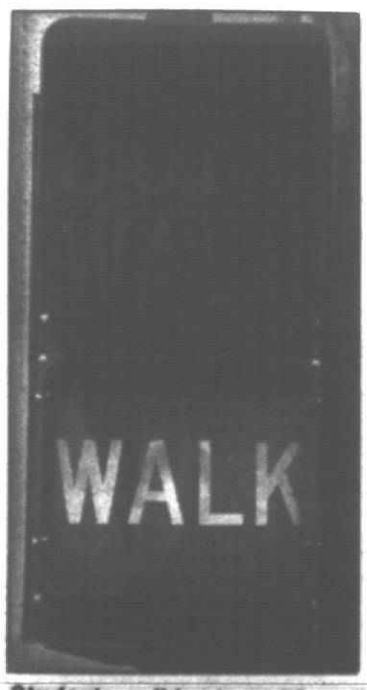
Myers cautions against students wearing earphones and listening to music while walking or bicycling to school. That music can make it impossible for a preoccupied student to hear a siren or a horn.

"A lot of kids ride bikes to school, so bicycle safety comes into play," Canton's Nemecek said. Bicyclists should ride single file with the traffic, and are required to obey all traffic laws that apply to motorists.

As with pedestrians, reflective or brightly-colored clothing makes bicyclists easier to spot. A bicycle should be equipped with a headlight and reflectors.

Children need to be careful on residential streets where cars are parked. Youngsters may run into the street to chase a ball or greet a friend, and forget about approaching traffic.

"If you're driving down the street and you're not watching, that can be a serious problem," Myers said.



Students walking to and from school should obey the walk/don't walk and traffic signals.

Rules help guarantee safety

Each day during the school year, just over 9,000 students ride on Plymouth-Canton Community Schools buses. Most are pretty well-behaved.

"I think overall it's not that much of a problem," said Dale Goby, director of transportation and safety for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Middle school students are the most likely to act up on the buses.

"It's a time of testing authority." Those students often alternate between child-like and more mature behavior.

Each year, students riding the buses are advised of the importance of obeying the rules. Those rules, posted on each bus, remind students that they should be courteous and conduct themselves as they would in a classroom.

Students should refrain from using profanity or being destructive. Eating, drinking and smoking aren't allowed on school buses.

"They're pretty much commonsense rules," Goby said. Students are to cooperate with the bus driver.

STUDENTS ARE to keep hands, feet and heads inside the bus at all times.

Drivers are allowed to assign seats. That sometimes becomes necessary when disciplinary problems surface, Goby said.

Each year, workshops are held to help bus drivers cope with the behavior of unruly students and the demands of the job.

Often, it's just the luck of the draw that determines if a driver will have disruptive students, Goby said. A driver can end up with a well-behaved group or with one that's not quite as polite.

He's found that the district's ninth graders tend to be more well-behaved when they attend the high schools. Ninth graders attending middle schools may tend to be less mature in their behavior. The ninth graders who attend Centennial Educational Park, however, often model their behavior on that of the older students.

Bus drivers have some control over the behavior of students. They're less able to control the driving habits of motorists around them.

"We occasionally have people violate the stop law," Goby said. "I think there's some confusion as to the law itself."

Although the procedure is uniform throughout the Plymouth-Canton community, it's not uniform statewide or nationwide. Some states have different systems of lights and signals to notify motorists that they should stop.

LOCALLY, MOTORISTS are required to stop at least 10 feet in either direction from a bus that has stopped and is displaying its alternating flashing red lights.

"That's obviously for the protection of students boarding the bus," Goby said.

Bus routes in the district are examined and changed from year to year. That's done to accommodate changes in student population. Some students graduate or move, while others start kindergarten. Some students move from one level of schooling to the next, possibly requiring changes in bus routes.

Bus routes are designed to eliminate or minimize situations where students must cross busier roads. That's particularly important for the younger students, Goby said.

He and other district staffers will be looking at bus routes during the early part of this school year. There won't be many changes during the first two weeks of school. Any difficulties or concerns raised will be reviewed, and changes made where needed.

SHARON LeMIEUX/staff photographer

Anne Storkan and the others listen to Ann Kargus read a postcard from a volunteer at the center. Many volunteers help out at the center. "They all have different areas of expertise," said site manager Mary Mauro.

Center helps families cope with varied responsibilities

"We do cooking quite a bit," Mauro said. The morning also includes a session of armchair exercises.

LUNCH IS provided daily through the Wayne County Office of Nutrition Services. After lunch, there's a quiet time for reading or socializing.

An afternoon activity session features games and other fun. Some clients do some bowling, wearing their "Holy Rollers" team shirts with pride.

An afternoon "Happy Hour" includes another snack. Some clients then leave the center. Extended hours for care are available 3-5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Some clients have Alzheimer's or other disabilities. They participate in center activities to the extent that they're able. Monitoring of medication is provided if requested.

In addition to Mauro and Matthews, the nurse, the staff includes activities director Sally Walker. Director Cindy Lockman divides her time between the centers in Plymouth and Ann Arbor.

Activities assistant Mary Ann Carey and senior aide Elizabeth Olson do their share. Some 12 volunteers, "who give us hundreds of hours, literally" help out, Mauro said. "They all have different areas of expertise."

Plymouth Family Service offers more limited in-home respite care for clients and their families. Some who visit the day center in Plymouth also use the in-home care.

The country's aging population means such centers will continue to be needed, Mauro said. People live longer these days than was true in the past. There aren't as many younger or middle-aged women at home to care for loved ones.

"The need is there, to have some choices of what to do," she said. "Now there are some choices. That's why it's so successful, I think too, because it answers so many people's needs."

Seminar helps women get ready for college

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Thinking about college? Join the crowd.

About 80 women, who attended the "Thinking About College" seminar recently at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, have the same idea. The Women Resource Center puts on the seminar, designed to provide information to women who might be considering going back to school.

A wide variety of speakers discussed such topics as financial aid, child-care and career planning and placement — all those things that may have kept some people from returning to school.

"Some people are concerned about child-care," said Nancy Swanborg, who is the new director of the Women's Resource Center. "Others are concerned about financial aid. Some people are concerned about something as simple as "how do I apply for school."

All of those can look might intimidating, especially to someone who hasn't been to school since they graduated from high school. "Thinking About College" is designed to allay those fears.

Women from all walks of life were in attendance: homemakers, those with careers and those who just want to brush up on some academic skills.

WHATEVER REASONS, many adults are returning to school. The average student age at Schoolcraft is 27 with 62 percent of those enrolled 22 or older — well above the usual college age group of 18-22.

This fall, Carol Harrison of Canton will be a student again. She plans to enroll at Schoolcraft College, perhaps taking some computer courses.

"Just that it's been such a long time since being in an academic situation, it's a little scary," said Harrison, who will be attending school for the first time since she graduated from high school in 1963.

Harrison said she found the seminar very informative, especially the workshops presented later in the day. "Now it's my opportunity to go back and do what I've wanted," she said.

College is nothing new to Claire Moon of Livonia. She has taken several C.E.S. (continuing education services) classes. She'd like to go part-time and major in computer art courses.

"Like the one professor said, 'I'm just trying to find out what I'm going to do when I grow up,'" said Moon, who is a mother of four grown children.

The Women's Resource Center presents "Thinking About College?" seminars in August and in November. The WRC provides a wide variety of support services, including peer counseling, personal or academic counseling, financial aid and child care referrals.

THE LAST one is of particular importance since many women who wish to return to college also have young children. Dorothy Witten of the Schoolcraft College Child Care Center was one of the featured speakers at the seminar.

The Child Care Center at Schoolcraft College provides day care for infants through age 6. For infants and toddlers, cost is $25 a day or $120 a week. For children 2½ through age 6, the cost is $17 a day ($2.50 an hour) or $75 a week.

Another major issue is financial,

This service has a Christian focus

By Sue Mason
staff writer

It does what other private counseling services do — help people with their problems. But what sets Christian Counseling Services apart is its service is geared to the Christian population.

"Christians have the same problems as the general public, but they're fearful that their religious beliefs may be seen as a crutch by secular therapists," said Jeff Imber, director of the Christian Counseling Service in Livonia.

"A lot of times people come in having unrealistic religious beliefs like parents who use God to empower them or bad religious experiences. We accept people where they're at."

Christian Counceling Services got its start in 1983, when Imber and Noel Lemon teamed up to offer a professional counseling and psychotherapy center that addressed the spiritual needs of people.

The service has offices in Livonia, Rochester and Sterling Heights and while it has Christian in its name, the service isn't supported by any church denomination, Imber said.

But the Christian in the name does help attract clients.

"THEY'RE VERY happy to find us," Imber said. "There's a relief for them to know they can open up and talk about their spiritual side without being ridiculed or lumped together with right-wing Christians."

The center, staffed by psychologists and social workers, helps clients with a variety of problems — guilt, anxiety, depressions, family problems, significant loss issues and addictions.

But its speciality is dysfunctional families — adult children syndromes — Imber said.

The counseling can take the form of family groups and individual or group therapy. Support groups also are available for incest victims, adult children of alcoholics, co-dependents and compulsive overeaters.

The idea of the spiritual side of human beings is nothing new, but addressing it in therapy is, Imber said.

"We are human beings in body, spirit and soul," Imber said. "To ignore the spiritual dimension is like cutting out a part of the human being. Spiritual issues have a lot to do with mental health."

According to Imber, psychology at one time took out the idea of the human soul, but there's a movement afoot now to bring it back, but in New Age thinking.

"Christians speak to the human condition as a 'not complete state,' and secular psychologists have discovered humans are not 'actualized' and work toward that," he said. "But if they looked, they'd see that Christianity addresses that.

"It's ironic to find that in any 12-step recovery program, the basis is spiritual."

IMBER, 31, is quick to talk about human spirituality. At one point in his life, he had set his sights on being a minister. But he found that the questions asked in his theology classes weren't the questions he was asking.

His questions, he found, were being posed in psychology classes, although the answers ignored human spirituality. He ended up studying both with the idea of bringing them together in practice.

After college, he worked for a church, ministering and counseling members, but eventually left to start a private practice. It was about that time he met Lemon and Christian Counseling Services was formed.

Imber can relate to Christian experiences. Raised in a Jewish family, he became Christian at the age of 17.

His mother died when he was 12 years old. His father later remarried and the result was a blended family, but "it wasn't the 'Brady Bunch'," he said. Imber distanced himself from his new family, so much so that he had his room in the basement of the family home.

It was there one night that he felt a spiritual awakening, a call to Christianity, he said.

"It was a powerful, true experience," he said, "and it has had staying power for 15-16 years. It has benefitted me emotionally, spiritually and psychologically."

Imber equates therapy to "helping people on a journey to being whole;" the therapist is "there to help on the journey." And he finds that helping people is rewarding.

"IT'S REALLY rewarding to see that they can see the path to go on and that they can find joy," he said. "Through the process, they open up. They know this is a safe place where they can face and express their anger or deeper feelings about God.

"A lot of our work with people is to help them learn to accept their human beingness. We teach them to embrace the realities of life, that there is pain and suffering and that if they run away from that, it will cause them emotional pain and suffering."

In addition to therapy work, Christian Counseling Services is developing a lecture series about its work and in the past has sponsored conferences to help ministers work with families in crisis and on addictive behaviors.

Christian Counseling Services is in Suite 103 of Arbor Commons, 37625 Ann Arbor Road, Livonia. For more information, call 464-8882.

As Jeff Imber, director of Christian Counseling Services in Livonia, sees it, Christians need a place where they can go to talk about their problems and their spirituality without being ridiculed or lumped in with right-wing Christians.

Not all changes have improved our world moral perspectives

Rev. Robert Schaden

Just a few weeks ago I buried my grandmother.

She was here for a long time. This December would have marked her 105th birthday.

Although I miss her, I do not feel bad for her. She had made it quite clear that 104 was enough and she was tired. She believed that the God who sustained her here would be there to meet her in that other place.

Mamie, as her friends called her, saw a few changes in her lifetime. She saw communication progress from a call over the back fence to a fresh copy off the fax machine. She rode in everything from buggies to jet aircraft. She watched families go from entertaining themselves to depending on cable television to do it for them.

Grandma watched a word or two enter the language. She could remember the word icebox, but learned to say and use refrigerator. She learned telephone when she was a young girl but later learned a new word, television. She watched blacksmith shops give way to gas stations. And she went from picking her dinner from the garden to lifting it from the freezer.

BUT THERE were other kinds of changes as well. She could once drink safely from the stream behind the house in which she was born. But before she died she experienced a world in which even the water from the faucet was not necessarily safe. Her parents never heard of chemically contaminated fish, but she was warned against too much pickerel from the Great Lakes.

When Mame's husband died, Harry Truman was president. We were only three years removed from having forever changed the course of humankind by dropping two nuclear bombs on some people in Japan.

Grandpa's name was also Harry. Grandma was 64 when that happened and even though I was only 12years old I remember her saying that with Harry gone life was over for her. Well, as your arithmetic can tell you, Mame still had another 40 years of changes to experience.

She had not yet ridden in that jet plane. She still did not have a television. She had not yet been hired into the job that she kept through most of her 70s. And she had not yet been to Europe. These were all things that she did after her "life was over."

We as a human species did a lot of things in the hundred and four years that Mame was alive upon this earth. Some of it was marvelous and some of it was terribly shameful. Some of it made the world a better place and some of it made the world a frightful place.

We as a human species did a lot of things in the 104 years that Mame was alive upon this earth. Some of it was marvelous and some of it was terribly shameful. Some of it made the world a better place and some of it made the world a frightful place.

The church bulletin is published every Thursday in the Observer. Information must be received in the Livonia office by noon the Monday prior to publication.

● SINGLE POINT

Single Point Ministries of Ward Presbyterian Church, Livonia, has announced the Christian music group "Stillwaters" will appear Friday, Sept. 1.

Stillwaters came together as a group in 1987, and produced and released its first album, "Waiting and Watching," in August 1988. The thrust of the group's music, according to group leader Roy Zimmerman, is ministry and sharing.

The group will perform at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 1, in Knox Hall, Ward Church, 17000 Farmington Road, Livonia. Child care will be provided. For more information, call the Single Point office, 422-1854.

● SUPERIFIC SATURDAY

The First Church of God, Farmington Hills has developed a program called Superific Saturday, 9:30 a.m. to noon the second Saturday of each month. The program is open to children age 3 through grade 12. Activities include a film, puppet show, Bible stories, prayer time, refreshments and crafts.

On Saturday, Sept. 9, there will be a picnic on the church grounds. The church is on Power, between 10 Mile and 11 Mile. For information, call 478-0013.

● TEST OF FAITH

United Assembly of God will show the film "Test of Faith" at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 3, at the church, 46500 N. Territorial, Plymouth. The film tells the story of a young man's struggle to stand for Christ in an atheistic world. In the film, Taylor Mitchell, the son of a farmer, receives a science scholarship to a prestigious, modern university where God is mocked and faith is ridiculed. He faces a highly-pressured decision of whether to remain silent or to defend his faith at a tremendous cost. The film helps viewers examine the reality and strength of living their faith when faced with atheism, peer pressure and ridicule. The public may attend. Baby-sitting will be provided for preschool children.

● FOCUS ON BRAZIL

The Rev. Terry Johnson, Assemblies of God missionary to Brazil, will be the guest speaker at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 3, at Fairlane Assembly of God, Dearborn Heights. Johnson was born and raised in Brazil as a missionary's son and will return to Brazil as a third-generation missionary. Johnson and his wife, Beth, are going to Brazil to help train pastors through seminars and Bible schools.

The Johnsons will share a music ministry in this Sunday evening service as well as present the need for evangelizing a nation the size of Brazil. The public may attend.

Fairlane Assembly is at 22575 Ann Arbor Trail, one mile east of Telegraph.

● WARD HAPPENINGS

Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church, 17000 Farmington Road, will offer two membership/information classes for prospective members beginning in September. Classes will meet at the church 7-8:15 p.m. Wednesdays beginning Sept. 6 and 8:30-9:30 a.m. Sundays.

The Wednesday School of Christian Education opens its fall term Sept. 6. Adult classes on Christian living, outreach to Muslims, fatherhood, the Bethel Bible series study, and discipleship will run for 16 weeks. Classes on membership information, communications, faith, life-style evangelism, creation/evolution and current issues will meet for eight weeks.

Ward offers classes for children, junior high and high school teens and child care for preschoolers at the same time as adult classes so that the whole family can participate. All classes take place 7-8:15 p.m. Ward is at the corner of Six Mile Road and Farmington. Call 422-1836 for more information.

● POWER OF PRAYER

The Rev. John Zenz will speak on "The Power of Prayer" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7, at St. John Neumann Church, 44800 Warren, Canton. Zenz is secretary to Cardinal Edmund Szoka and teaches theology at Sacred Heart Major Seminary. The public may attend. For more information, call 455-5910.

● THE DOWNINGS

Tri-City Assembly of God will host the Christian music group, The Downings, at the 6 p.m. service Sunday, Sept. 10, at 2100 Hannan, Canton. Since 1968, ministry has played a big part in the group's musical presentation. More emphasis than ever is placed on sharing with others their experiences in the faith and walk with God. For more information, call the church, 326-0330.

● RUMMAGE SALE

The annual rummage sale of the Garden City Presbyterian Church will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 16, in the church fellowship hall. Furniture, toys, housewares and clothing will be featured. The church is at 1841 Middlebelt, one block south of Ford.

Church offers Bible course

The Community Bible Class taught by Margaret Hess will have its opening session for the 1989-90 year Tuesday, Sept. 12. The class meets at Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church, Six Mile and Farmington roads, Livonia, on Tuesdays throughout the school year.

A total of 25 small groups meet for discussion at 9:30 a.m.; followed by the lesson taught by Hess 10-11 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The course covers the entire Bible in eight years. This year, the study will be Joshua to Kings, plus Proverbs. New members may enroll at any point and complete the course by continuing to where they began.

Margaret Hess has taught Bible classes in the Chicago and Detroit areas for many years. She also teaches a class at Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills, Thursdays.

SHE HAS written eight books and many articles for religious magazines. Hess is listed in the Marquis "Who's Who of American Women" and "Who's Who in the Midwest."

She and her husband, Dr. Bartlett L. Hess, senior pastor of Ward Church, have visited the Bible lands seven times. They expect to return next spring.

They have also traveled extensively throughout the world.

Margaret Hess uses knowledge gained during her travels to make the Bible come alive. Above all, she seeks to help people find answers in the Bible for everyday problems of modern living.

"I've been coming to the class for 10 years," said Patty McDonald, assistant coordinator for the class. "I came when I had to bring four preschoolers to the nursery. The class was a life-line to me."

Cynthia Kniebes serves as coordinator for the class. Both men and women may attend. The class includes people from some 132 different churches.

Materials for this year's study will be available 30 minutes before the class. Price for materials is $1.50.

Separate nurseries are provided for infants, toddlers and preschool children, with four women in each to care for the children.

Pearl Holforty: "We are catalysts for action."

Local women back BIDCO

The Liberty BIDCO Investment Corp., founded by seven Michigan businesswomen, said it has received a contingent commitment of $2.4 million from the Michigan Strategic Fund (MSF). Liberty's goal is to raise $6 million in equity to fund the new financial institution.

With that base, Liberty BIDCO estimates it will have invested more than $100 million over the next 10 years in small businesses, focusing upon the service industry and businesses owned by women.

"Our business plan is solid," said Pearl M. Holforty, CPA, chair of the board of directors and chief executive officer of the BIDCO, which stands for "business and industrial development corporation." Plans were announced last week in a Southfield news conference.

Holforty, a partner of Plante & Moran, a Michigan-based public accounting and management consulting firm, and a Southfield resident, also owns several small businesses and is president of the Women's Economic Club.

FOUNDERS CHOSE the name Liberty to convey the traits of independence, expansion, freedom, patriotism, hard work and dedication.

"Besides, liberty, in French, is a feminine noun — and that's what we are: catalysts for action who are women," said Holforty.

Liberty plans to open its first office in the Detroit area next month. It plans to have regional offices in Grand Rapids, Lansing, and the upper Lower Peninsula and Upper Peninsula by 1992.

"We deliberated for more than two years, researching the numbers, discussing the potential and determining the viability of such a venture," she said.

"Our market niche of service and women-owned businesses was carefully chosen. The number of these businesses is growing spectacularly in Michigan, and the potential of this market is extremely attractive to us and other investors."

LIBERTY BIDCO proposes to provide financing from $50,000 to $300,000, along with management assistance, to fill the gap between low risk, low return bank lenders and high risk, high return venture capital investors.

"We'll help Michigan entrepreneurs who traditionally have been ineligible for bank financing," said Holforty.

"We'll help the companies who haven't been of interest to venture capitalists because they may not be in glamorous fast-growing industries.

"These firms have the independence, foresight, stamina and dedication to grow a business. We'll be there to provide that additional assistance to make their companies really work while providing a good return for our investors."

HOLFORTY IS joined by Shirley A. Kyle as senior vice president and chief investment officer, and Patrick R. Crosson as senior vice president and chief operations officer.

Kyle joins Liberty from The Neighborhood Fund, Inc., a minority enterprise small business investment corporation (MESBIC), a subsidiary of the Shorebank Corp., Chicago, a $170 million bank holding company. She is the vice president and manager of The Neighborhood Fund, which has invested in 23 companies.

Crosson of Livonia is the founder and president of Crosson & Co., a financial consulting firm, and a former senior vice president and director of operations of Michigan National Corp., a bank holding company.

Created by the Michigan Legislature in 1986, BIDCOs are "to promote economic development . . . to meet the financing assistance and management assistance needs of business firms in this state." They are regulated by Michigan's Financial Institutions Bureau.

OTHER FOUNDING officers and directors are:

- Mildred Green, secretary; president and CEO of Millie Green Industries, Caro, a computer distributor and manufacturer.
- Andrea Harris of Southfield, treasurer, a principal in Comprehensive Planning Group, Southfield, a financial planning consultancy.
- Charlotte Brannstrom, president and owner of Greater Flint Temporaries.
- Mari D'Alto of Southfield, coowner of D'Alto Somberman, Detroit, New York and Los Angeles, designer and manufacturer of fashion accessories.
- Mary Jane Hilker, vice president — finance for Cambrian Capital Corp., Farmington Hills, an investment management firm.
- Joyce Van Ochten, vice president — commercial loans and public funds for Second National Bank, Saginaw.

Jacobson's to open Troy clearance store

By Marilyn Fitchett
staff writer

Bargain hunters will be attracted to a large clearance sign tagged on a former supermarket in Troy as Jacobson Stores enters the marked-down merchandise market.

The company will open Jacobson's Clearance Center at Rochester Road and Big Beaver in November, selling clothing, accessories, linens and home decorating merchandise. Furniture will not be carried.

The 30,000-square-foot clearance center is in a strip mall of stores with evening and weekend hours, which is in contrast to Jacobson's never-on-Sunday policy. Company president Mark Rosenfeld said hours have not been decided, but clearance center hours "probably will be different" than regular store hours.

Rosenfeld stressed that the clearance center will sell marked-down merchandise that previously had been found at its full-line stores.

"We have no intention of operating a discount store," Rosenfeld said. "We're going to sell good, quality merchandise that for some reason did not sell. We're not buying cheap merchandise and trying to suggest that it's being sold at less than market value.

"Our specialty stores will continue to have end-of-season clearances for a limited time. After that, the merchandise will be shipped to the clearance center. You can never anticipate the exact quantity of merchandise that will be sold in a store. This is a natural retail business procedure."

Retail consultant Frederick Marx, who heads Marx Management Co. of Birmingham, explained the difference between discount and clearance stores.

"A clearance store sweeps up goods that are carryovers — third and fourth markdowns. Discount stores carry current, in-season merchandise sold at reduced prices. These are stores such as TJ Maxx or Hit Or Miss.

"Most stores liquidate merchandise through jobbers — broken sizes, odds and ends. Today some companies have their own clearance stores like Gantos Boutique. But in addition to clearance merchandise, they often offer opportunistic buys to the customers."

Marx sees the "opportunistic buys" as helping stores fill their clearance outlets with merchandise, something only marked-down items might not be able to do. He questions whether Jacobson's will be able to keep its clearance center stocked only with markdowns.

Jacobson's has two major end-of-season clearances in January and July and two minor clearances after Easter and in October.

Rosenfeld said moving the merchandise to a clearance center will "permit us to bring the new season merchandise into our fashion stores in greater depth and wider assortments."

Clearance merchandise will be processed in the company's Jackson distribution center before it is sent to Troy, offering a potential turnound time of a "couple of days."

Marx disagrees with the concept.

"The cost of transferring goods is not worth it. Those who do it effectively do it with separate divisions and with multiple stores. It's not just an extension of the regular business. The process takes time, and time is valuable at the end of the season."

He said the role of clearance sales is not solely to remove "day-old bread."

"Let's say you're going on vacation on Aug. 1 and you're looking for a bathing suit or an extra pair of shorts. You're not going to want to pay full price. But maybe there's one more thing you'd like and you find a leather coat. There's a synergy of one department to the next. The retailer is interested in the next season as well as selling clearance."

Marx questions what the clearance center concept will do to Jacobson's image.

"The company is revered — their whole presentation, their service. Suddenly they have this (clearance) store, and it takes away from their cache. Usually I'm very supportive of what Jacobson's does. People have a deep affection for them. But I don't think this helps."

Rosenfeld described the target customer as someone who is a Jacobson's customer now and those who are not but who would normally shop at clearance centers. He said Troy was chosen because of its proximity to Jacobson's metro Detroit stores.

Manufacturing enters classroom at Oakland

By Helen Niemiec
staff writer

Oakland University will unveil a new manufacturing program this fall designed to blend practical knowledge and academic learning into a comprehensive program to benefit those in supervisory and lower-management positions.

The Production and Manufacturing Management certificate program is the first of its kind in Michigan and is a response to requests from manufacturing companies in the area.

Designed by an advisory board, the program is co-sponsored by the university's business education and continuing education divisions. Those considering the program should have hands-on experience in manufacturing and, preferably, two years of college because of the mathematics background required to understand the course materials.

Dr. Amir Hormozi, program consultant, said classes are designed for those who wish to receive the certificate or those in the field who wish to take a course or two to hone their skills.

All instructors have both academic and practical backgrounds in the area they will be teaching, one of the key benefits of the Oakland program, Hormozi said.

STUDENTS WHO take the program one course per semester will earn certification in three years. Those taking three courses per semester will complete the program in one year.

At the end of the seven classes required, each student will take an 80-hour internship, which applies knowledge gained in the classroom at the student's place of employment.

Carmen Thomas, program manager, said other schools offer seminars similar to some of the courses offered, but no other university puts the topics together in one unified program that awards certification.

"People who work in the field get used to their one particular area," Hormozi said. "We want these people to look at the total picture. The idea behind the internship is to come up with an idea to improve something at the workplace, whether it be by saving money or by increasing productivity."

Course work covers a basic introduction to manufacturing and production, quality control, inventory, computerized management and design aspects, purchasing.

Those interested in the course can attend a free informational session at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7, at the Oakland University campus in Rochester. Reservations are required and can be made by calling the Continuing Education Division at 370-3120.

Toyota is making the best production car

Dan McCosh

There is an old story about a drill company that thought it had just made the smallest drill in the world and sent it off to a competitor along with a note that it was so small it took a microscope to see it.

It came back with a hole drilled in it.

The anecdote came to mind as I fiddled with a cup holder on the new Lexus LS400. Toyota's new luxury car. The LS400 isn't exactly a household word. In fact, it will be a while before you hear one of those guys at the State Fair saying anything like "This little number is the LS400 of steak knives." It is, however, the best car made in the world today.

I say this fully realizing it will start an argument with somebody. In fact, I don't think I ever put the statement in print before — since I learned long ago never to say "first" and never to say "best," unless you want to lose a lot of arguments.

REGARDLESS, I think it was the cup holder that persuaded me. To begin with, the LS400 has a cup holder, and BMWs don't. Until the LS400, the best cupholders were on Chrysler products, and luxury car owners, particularly German luxury car owners, mainly have to settle for a lot of wet spots between their legs — the dreaded commuter coffee crotch.

The Lexus cup holder is concealed in the armrest between the seats. At a touch it kind of snicks out in a fluid motion, with two polished arms unfolding like a satellite catcher in a James Bond movie. Then comes the grabber, as you notice two rubber flaps unfolding neatly into place, which are there to keep the cup from rattling.

The car is just full of this kind of stuff — the kind of neat things you used to depend on Cadillac for to amuse and impress your neighbors. But on top of the amusement value comes the realization that every one of the gimmicks has this quiet, fluid mechanical motion that is the result of the best mix of engineering and fine craftsmanship: an amusement park with rides by Rolex.

THE BIG pieces are obvious — notably one of the smoothest, most efficient and most powerful V-8s ever stuffed in a luxury car. The ride is silky, smoother than any other car I have ever driven — while extraordinarily stable at high speeds and cornering.

"It doesn't have a power ashtray," someone jokes as he touches a memory button and the power seat adjusts in three dimensions to fit the driver, the headrest moves into proper position, the seat belt anchors slide to customize against the driver, the outside rear view mirrors change angle, and then the steering wheel changes angle and telescopes to the proper reach. All with that same uncanny smoothness, all automatically.

With its $40,000-plus price tag, the discussion of this car so far mainly has centered around its effect on the luxury market, and whether the Japanese can "catch up" with the ultra expensive German makes. After spending a couple of days scrutinizing the car, I think most of the analysts and car critics have missed the point.

I SUSPECT that this car never was conceived as a way of catching up or matching another company. It was more likely the result of a self-initiated directive to do the absolute best every facet of the company knew how to do. An easy enough thing to say, but as it turns out, it led to refinements and improvements in areas I assumed had reached their maximum state of development years ago.

The price tag is misleading, since it implies the car is the result of throwing money at a problem. Frankly, I think the car demonstrates that almost any mid-range car could be mass-produced by this company on the same level.

It's a sobering thought, because I suspect that the LS400 represents such a tour de force of mass-produced precision, innovation and elegant industrial design that very few companies today, if any, have the technical resources to duplicate it, at any price.

The new hole in the twist drill is very small indeed.

If you want to pay less in taxes, divert, divert, divert finances and you

Sid Mittra

Second of five parts

The second strategy of tax reduction is diversion. Diversion of income refers to the steps a taxpayer can take to channel investment returns into money that will (1) be taxed at lower rates, (2) offer higher deductions, or (3) completely avoid taxation.

Home ownership

The most significant benefit to home ownership as a tax-avoidance strategy, of course, is the ability to postpone almost indefinitely the recognition of gains on the sale of the principal residence.

As long as the proceeds from the sale of the residence are used to buy or build a residence within two years, and the cost of the new residence equals or exceeds the sale proceeds from the old residence, no capital gains are recognized.

Captial can be accumulated in a principal residence without tax consequences. This retains the original basis of the first home plus improvements.

A taxpayer is 55 or older completely avoids tax on profits up to $125,000 when he finally sells and does not reinvest in a primary residence. This delaying feature shelters $125,000 of capital accumulation from taxation.

Matching incomes and losses

Another strategy, matching incomes and losses, can also minimize the tax liability.

The passive-loss limitation does not permanently disallow losses and credits from passive activities but rather determines how and when the losses and credits can be claimed by the taxpayer.

Losses from a passive activity are deductible only against income from that or another passive activity. Unused losses can be carried forward indefinitely and can be used to offset passive income realized by the taxpayer in subsequent years.

While the current law permits the postponement of current losses, a taxpayer is better off deducting the losses during the current year.

For instance, if a taxpayer has significant capital gain in one tax year and has a potential loss on an investment, he can reduce his overall tax liability by selling the losing investment and realizing the loss in the same tax year as the capital gain to offset the gain and reduce tax liability.

Tax shelters

The change in tax law requiring that passive losses may only offset passive income has dramatically changed the use of tax shelters.

Tax shelters have historically been investments designed to create accounting losses that could be used as deductions against taxable income from other sources. Investors did not materially participate in the management of these investments, hence the designation "passive activity."

Most shelters were set up to generate the biggest deductions in the first few years so investors could get their money back quickly in the form of tax write-offs. If the investment went well, it eventually turned profitable.

Some investments never did, partly because relatively few economic benefits were expected from them. With the change in tax law, the write-offs generated by such tax shelters are no longer deductible against any income except income from a passive activity.

To soften the blow to individuals who have invested heavily in tax shelters before Oct. 23, 1986, write-offs are being gradually phased out and will no longer be available after 1990.

The change in tax law shifted the emphasis in tax shelter investment from tax write-offs to making money. As a planning strategy, taxpayers should look to tax shelters to help them appropriately time or offset their passive gains and losses.

While investors who have significant passive income will still seek passive losses, most investors with existing tax shelter investments and passive losses should seek to generate additional passive income.

The seminar, sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning, will be 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 12, in the offices of Coordianted Financial Planning, Sheffield Office Park, 3250 W. Big Beaver, Suite 540, Troy.

Micro marketing offers good alternative to mass marketing

Zeroing in on key customer groups is crucial for any company planning its promotional strategy. Business owners who believe that their products and services appeal to everyone are only kidding themselves.

This "mass marketing mentality" assumes that any individual or business has the potential of becoming a regular customer so long as everyone has the same opportunity to be reached through promotion.

No where has the ineffectiveness of mass marketing been more apparent than in prime time television advertising. Ten years ago, approximately 92 percent of prime time viewers watched commercials; today audience share has dropped by nearly 30 percent.

A RECENT Business Week article points out that even Proctor & Gamble, "the king of mass marketers" is experimenting with various micro marketing techniques to better identify, locate and satisfy new customer markets.

By definition, "mass marketing" promotions attempt to attract large numbers of people at the same time to quickly boost sales. Any significant difference that may exist between customer groups is not important when promoting to the masses; the goal is to get as much "bang for the buck" over the shortest period of time possible.

ON THE other hand, micro marketing techniques treat the total customer market as being made up of several small segments with different needs and wants. As a result, it becomes much more effective to develop numerous promotions that appeal to each of these segments and subsequently "pay off" in small increments.

Large advertisers that have historically dumped large sums of money into mass advertising and promotions are not realizing what their small business counterparts have known for years. Company management must be able to identify who their customers are, where they come from, and what they want and expect when buying goods and services.

ONCE THIS information is collected, promotional efforts may then be structured to reach specific customer groups through the right variety of both media and non-media sources.

To discover who makes up a company's current and potential customer markets does not require high-tech consumer research. There are still basically three methods to help identify how customers may be segmented and include demographic, benefits-related, and lifestyle characteristics. The goal is to be able to identify your key customer groups in ways that are meaningful to the business while understanding each group's similarities and differences as much as possible.

Next week, we will review these three customer identification techniques and present free data sources to help small businesses with this process.

Dividend reinvestment plan could cut selling price

of the National Association of Investors Corp.

Q. Many people have told me I should use dividend reinvestment plans, but my broker says I shouldn't because of the problems in selling. He told me I would not be able to get the price I wanted. How would I be able to sell the stock if I participated in a plan?

A. Before getting into the actual mechanics, a bit of investment philosophy might be in order.

In my opinion, participating in a dividend reinvestment plan is most effective or the person dedicated to long-term investing who wishes to accumulate shares over a period of time. The plans are not designed for someone who wished to get in and out of a stock.

There are really three different procedures for selling through dividend reinvestment plans.

THE MOST frequently used is to contact the plan administrator and instruct him to sell all of the shares in the account, including any fractional shares held.

As of the next investment date, the shares will be sold and a check sent to you. It is not possible to set a price at which to sell in this instance.

Your shares could be sold at a price higher or lower than the prevailing price at the time you decided to dispose of the shares.

Even though the plan may be one where not commissions are charged, there usually is a commission on sales. It stands to reason that the company does not want to pay the charges when you are disposing of shares.

HOWEVER, THE commission is usually smaller than that charged by a broker.

A second alternative is to request the plan administrator to send you a certificate for the full shares and sell the fraction.

The sales of the full shares is then completed through a broker once you have received delivery of the certificate.

Remember that certificates are to issued for fractional shares, so the plan administrator must sell them for you.

The final way is when you have reached the desired number of shares you wish to hold in a company.

FOR EXAMPLE, after getting to 300 shares, you may wish to discontinue the dividend reinvestment plan but still hold the stock.

You can request a certificate at that time. When you decide to sell at some future date, it can be done through a broker as you physically hold the certificate.

A word of caution: You may be holding a certificate for a small number of shares, acquired at the time of your initial investment.

Some plans will not allow you to sell those shares through the plan administrator.

IF, FOR example, you have a certificate for three shares and hold an additional 100 in the account, the plan administrator may only be able to sell the 100 shares, leaving you with the possibility of paying high commission costs to sell the final three.

We Need Volunteers Who Love Happy Campers!

Sun Deer® campers are happy campers and it's no wonder because most severely asthmatic kids are forced to spend their summers indoors. At Camp Sun Deer® asthmatic kids ages 9-12 participate in a variety of outdoor activities, but they can't do it without your help. The limitations and doubts they face can be diminished by a volunteer who cares. Your participation at Camp Sun Deer® can make all the difference in an asthmatic child's summer.

"Driving Miss Daisy," the 1988 Pulitzer Prize comedy, opens the Birmingham Theatre's 1989-90 season Tuesday, Sept. 19, through Sunday, Oct. 22. Ted Lange is known as the bartender, Isaac Washington, in "The Love Boat" for its nine TV seasons. Reilly has performed in more than 30 New York productions and directed on Broadway.

At the conclusion of the Birmingham engagement, "Driving Miss Daisy" will begin a national tour. LIVE MUSIC for your listening and dining pleasure by "Promise"

'Stardust' in his voice, doing the old standards

By Victor E. Swanson
special writer

SOMETIMES WHEN you hear a good old standard song, such as "That Old Black Magic," you hear a bit of "stardust" in it — that is, the heart of the singer. That's especially true if the singer is George "Stardust" Green, the professional supper-club entertainer, who is now a resident of West Bloomfield.

Although barely settled into a new house, Green is already working on his career here. "I would like to see if I can formulate the type of group that would fit in supper clubs," Green said expressively, using his whole body to talk, continually moving and gesturing, in his seat in his kitchen. "I've been in some nice rooms — eating houses here). They have no music."

According to Green, one reason for the lack of supper clubs in the Detroit area is, "The type of music you play in a supper club is different than the type of music that you would play for a concert. I don't think that the musicians here know the type of music that the supper club people appreciate. The first thing is, they would like music if it would go along with the conversation."

Green said the supper club entertainer "must play contemporary jazz. He must know the show tunes. He must be smart enough to know the music never gets into the area to make it offensive." And he must know "the standards," for patrons like to hear familiar songs.

GREEN IS a musician and singer. He calls himself a lyric baritone. "My speaking voice doesn't sound like my singing voice at all," he said.

He wants to put together a duo in which he will sing and play drums. "I'm looking for a piano player. I need a piano player who thinks like I think, and who loves music like I love music, who likes to rehearse." He would prefer a woman. Also, "I'm not tied down to race. That has nothing to do with it."

"I got to say that the status I attained as a performer has come from people — who didn't look at color — who were looking at my ability," he said.

Green came to the Detroit area from Reno, where he was working at the Hilton with a white woman, in her 50s, whom he had found in a mission. Although she has a master's degree in music, she was, as Green described her, not much more than "a bag lady" when he found her. Today she is teaching music classes at the local university.

Green was in Reno with his family — wife Shirley and their son, Bill, and daughter, Veronica — for about seven years. Mostly, they were there because of his wife's career in hospital administration.

Before going to Reno, Green spent many years in Chicago, where he was born and raised, working the many supper clubs around in the 1960 and 1970s. In the early '60s, he was a member of the Ramsey Lewis Trio, with Lewis and L.D. Young. They worked the south side of Chicago.

HE SOON BRANCHED off and formed his own group, Stardust, with pianist Bob Knowles and bassist Dolphyus Dean. Green described Dean as "a man that could use a bow as fast as most guys could pick."

Together for much of the '60s and 70's, they worked in Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana. For about nine months they even worked in California.

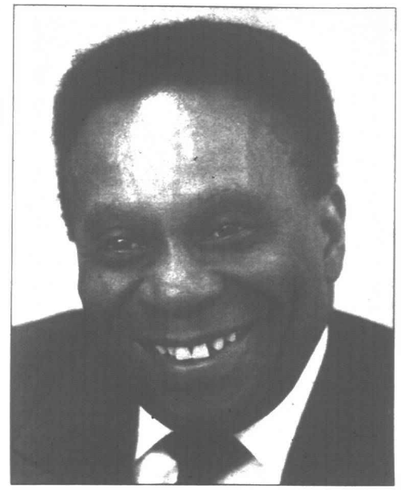
In 1967, Green performed in South Africa on a 21-day tour with singers Laverne Baker and Billy Williams, bassist Billy Yancy and Bob Knowles.

"We were received admirably. We quartered at an Indian hotel . . . and it was very nice. All the concerts that were scheduled were integrated," he said.

Green explained why they had gone and performed in South Africa: "Anything that smacks of racism is always hard to digest, but we also figured that there's a certain culture that these people are reaching out (and) trying to identify with. So who are we hurting? Who's getting injured the most? Is it the white populace, who — the dominate force — who are keeping that part . . . of this world in what you call dire straits of apartheid, which is hard-core segregation, or are we hurting the people who don't get a chance to see what the offsprings of 400 years have been able to attain?"

'The type of music you play in a supper club is different than the type of music that you would play for a concert. I don't think that the musicians here know the type of music that the supper club people appreciate. The first thing is, they would like music if it would go along with the conversation.'

— George 'Stardust' Green



STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

George "Stardust" Green of West Bloomfield had made a show-business career singing in supper clubs, performing the kinds of music that customers want to hear.

Green commented on the recent conflict the musical group the Commodores was having, in which one performer of the group didn't want to perform in South Africa. "I can understand how the guy feels who doesn't want to go. He looking at it from strictly a racial standpoint. But on the other hand, he's doing the same thing that he's fightin . . . He's taking to punishing 25 million people . . . for what five million people are doing and not allowing them to enjoy his culture. So he's playing right into the same hands that he's trying to stop."

GREEN DID HAVE time for lighter topics. He talked about how his wife, whom he has been married to for about 22 years, is in nursing administration at Harper Hospital. Bill, 17, a keyboardist, is interested in science fiction and football, and it looks as if he will be a member of the West Bloomfield High School football team this year.

Of Veronica (who often is called Ronnie), 13, Green said with sparkle in his voice — or was it stardust? — "She's quite a dancer. She's into ballet and tap and modern and jazz, and very good, and very, very good, and she plays keyboard."

It was Green's mother, who died about eight years ago, who really guided Green to a musical career. Otherwise, he might have become a baseball player. "The scouts were looking at me. I mean, around third base I was a vacuum. They used to call me, 'The Vacuum.' They (the scouts) did come around the house to talk to Mom, and she said, "No, I'm going to have him do something that's going to make him happy all his life."

So instead of being known "The Vacuum," George Green is known as "Stardust."

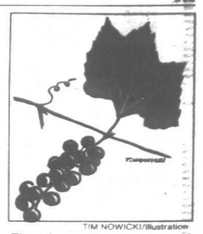
Wild grapes are plentiful, tasty now



TIM NOWICKI/Illustration

There is still an abundance of wild grape vines in our area. Michigan sports four species according to one authority. Leaves and fruit of all species look very similar and all produce an edible fruit.

nature
Timothy Nowicki

While walking along fence rows and riverbanks at local parks in the area and throughout the state, I am reminded of the Vikings name for North America — Vinland. When the Vikings landed in the New England area they were so impressed with the profusion of grape vines, that they named the country Vinland.

There is still an abundance of wild grape vines in our area. Michigan sports four species according to one authority, and throughout the United States there are from 24-30 different species. Leaves and fruit of all species look very similar and all produce an edible fruit.

One species, the northern fox grape was used to cultivate the Concord, Catawba and Isabella varieties. Fruit taken from wild plants does not make good wine, but it does make excellent jams and jellies.

Wild grapes of all species grow in a variety of places, so there is no problem in finding a supply to collect. But be sure to collect them when they are ripe. For some additional flavor you may want to add a few unripe fruit.

The only problem you may have in collecting, is finding ripe fruit before the animals do. Approximately 57 species of birds and 12 species of mammals enjoy eating the ripe fruit to fatten up for fall and winter. Even dried fruit discovered in winter is eaten.

SWEET SUGARS as well as the many seeds produced by the plant are nutritious. As homeowners with grape vines in their yard well know, some of those seeds pass through the digestive system of birds and animals, and are deposited on sidewalks, clean cars, or aluminum siding. Grapevine is found commonly in fence rows because it is a place where birds and animals frequently rest and deposit seeds.

Birds not only enjoy the ripe fruit of grapes, but brown thrashers and catbirds use strips of bark from the vine to build their nests. Their dense tangle of stems provide good cover and shelter for a variety of animals born in summer and in winter.

Instead of going to the grocery store to buy some grape jelly go out and collect some wild fruits and make your own. Always be sure of your identification and be considerate of private property.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence-Oaks in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

Pets of the week

Bashful, (Control No. 279814) an 8-week old spaniel mix, and Puff (Control No. 279672), a year-old male tiger and white stripped cat, need homes. To adopt these pets or others, or to check for lost pets, call the Michigan Humane Society, Westland Kindess Center, 721-7300. The center is at 37255 Marquette, Westland.

Dog days hike will benefit MHS shelters

Pet owners and their dogs are invited to take a hike to help the animals cared for by the Michigan Humane Society.

Saturday Sept. 16 is set for the Dog Days Hike at Merrimam Hollow Picnic area along Edward Hines Drive. Walk with or without a pet along the five-mile course. Canine walkers must be in good shape, on a leash at all times and show proof of distemper and rabies inoculations.

The walk will last from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Refreshments for both people and dog walkers will be provided along the route. Pet refreshments provided courtesy of the Milk Bone Dog Biscuit Co.

Walkers who get more than $100 in pledges will receive a free "Hot to Trot" official walk T-shirt, while the walker who brings in the most pledges will receive a Sony Discman portable compact disc player courtesy of Highland Superstores.

Information and pledge forms are available at all three Michigan Humane Society shelters: 7401 Chrysler Drive, Detroit, 37255 Marquette Road, Westland; and at 3600 Auburn Road, Auburn Hills.

For more information, call 872-3400.

Don't forget to write.

Staying strong: Familiar faces portend continued cage success

SHARON LEMIEUX/staff photographer

After coaching the JV girls basketball team for the last four years, Bob Blohm takes over as coach of the varsity this season, replacing Rob Neu. Blohm, however, is no stranger to the varsity game, having previously compiled an impressive six-year record as Plymouth Salem's coach. The Chiefs open their 1989 season Tuesday with a home game against Trenton.

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

League rivals will have a hard time trying to pry defending champion Plymouth Canton's fingers off the Western Lakes Activities Association girls basketball trophy this year.

The Chiefs lost their coach and three starters from a team that swept through the WLAA with a 16-0 record and finished 19-2 overall, but Canton has filled the coaching void and appears able to do likewise in the personnel department.

Bob Blohm, who was a successful head coach at Plymouth Salem for six years and the JV coach at Canton the last four, takes Rob Neu's place as the Canton mentor.

Blohm had five 20-win seasons at Salem, compiling an impressive overall record of 123-25. He also won a pair of league titles and four districts, taking the Rocks to the Class A semifinals in 1980.

"Once we got practice started, it felt good to be back," Blohm said. "It was like getting into cold water. The summer helped a lot, because it eased me back into it and we got a lot of work done."

WHILE THE Chiefs lost Michelle Fortier, Amanda Bell and Candi Jones to graduation, there were some areas Blohm didn't have to worry about. Seniors Susan Ferko, Jenny Russell and Stacey Thompson were key players last season and comprise the nucleus of what should be another contender

As for others moving up the ranks, Blohm has four juniors from his last JV team that posted a 17-3 record. Canton also returns senior Jennie Clark, and the Chiefs got added help from Christyn Halliday, a transfer from Utah.

"I'm sure this group is looking to establish its own identity and to move forward," Blohm said. "Four kids have been in the program for four years, and that gives you a solid nucleus. And it's the seniors who take the initiative to get things done on and off the court.

"I never try to compare this year's team to last year," he added, "but I think the kids who were part of that team are proud of what they accomplished and are looking forward to new challenges."

Ferko, a 5-foot-11 post player, was named to the All-Observer team after leading the Chiefs in scoring and rebounding with per-game averages of 16 and nine.

Blohm is looking for Ferko — and Russell, who inherits Fortier's old duties as the point guard — to add another dimension to her game this year.

"WE EXPECT her not only to continue to dominate inside but to take her game and move it outside and play from 15 to 17 feet," Blohm said. "Not only to score (from out there) but to put it on the floor and take it to the basket."

Blohm wants Ferko to make those additions because opponents are apt to focus their defense on her. Furthermore, she's not the biggest post player at 5-11, and the traffic in the lane will be heavy at times.

"We're adding a little versatility to her game and expanding it," Blohm said. "She has to realize teams will be concentrating on her, because they know she can score a lot of easy baskets."

Blohm has a similar charge for the 5-3 Russell, who heretofore has been more of a defensive factor on the floor.

Fox Hills christens new 18-hole course

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Golf courses are like children, according to noted architect Arthur Hills.

"They might have shortcomings, but you love them all," he said. "I've got eight kids, and each one has a different personality."

In designing the Golden Fox — the new 18-hole championship course at Fox Hills Country Club in Plymouth — Hills applied a lot of TLC and gave the course its own identity.

The Golden Fox, officially opened with a ribbon-cutting ceremony and golf outing Tuesday, offers plenty of challenges in the way of traps and hilly terrain that surround many greens. In addition, the 6,800-yard course has an especially scenic setting with its lush fairways and wooded areas.

"It's a public-fee golf course that has a country club character to it," Hills said. "There's a lot of variety in the holes and a lot of spaciousness on the course. It almost feels as if all the holes are separated from the others."

Kathy Dul Aznavorian, president of the club her family has owned since 1974, is quite pleased with the work the nationally renowned Hills has done, echoing his thoughts on the roomy atmosphere of the course.

"HE REALLY capitalized on the woods that were available to him," she said, "weaving the course through the woods and back again. I like the nature aspect. Though you can see other people, you never feel like you're intruding on them."

Fox Hills also opened a new $3½ million, 32,000-square-foot clubhouse. Together with the land acquisition and construction of the new course, the total project cost $7 million.

But the course, perhaps unbeknownst to many people, is not a private club. Fox Hills has no memberships or fees and is open to the public. The Golden Fox will have different rates from that of the club's other 27 holes, however.

"The name country club throws people off," said Dul Aznavorian, 42, who operates the facility with her sister, Vice President and General Manager Sandy Mily, and her mother, Estelle Dul. Fox Hills had been a private club until it was purchased by the late Alexander Dul and his wife in 1974.

'A lot of thought goes into every square foot. I'm thinking about the aesthetics, the strategy, the maintenance and the environmental concerns of every hole . . . I work to design the best course I can for that client and that site.'

— Arthur Hills
golf course architect

Hills' favorite hole is the 15th, which epitomizes the difficult aspects of the course with its partially hidden green.

"It has this big convoluted earth form, and you have to hit over it," said Hills, referring to the big mounds in front of the green. "The greens have a lot of undulations, and the cup placements are very subtle.

"EVERY HOLE out here some kind of challenge. It's like designing a room in your house. You're designing every hole with certain objectives."

Hills not only took advantage of the trees on the property but also made use of a stream running through it. Hills tried to save and incorporate as many trees as possible.

"A lot of thought goes into every square foot," he said. "I'm thinking about the aesthetics, the strategy, the maintenance and the environmental concerns of every hole.

"I approach (each course) in similar fashion. I work to design the best course I can for that client and that site, and when I design a course I hope it will be beyond what their expectations are."

Fox Hills, with its new clubhouse, is hoping to attract more than just golf outings, though that represents a major share of its business in the warm months. But the club is already taking wedding reservations for next September and hopes to attract business groups and seminars in the winter months.

golf

"THE NICE thing about the business is that we can combine it with golf," Dul Aznavorian said.

Dul Aznavorian, a certified public accountant by profession, acts as the person behind the scenes, handling many of the business matters. Mily, 33, oversees the day-to-day operation and is the person the public sees most.

"I think we complement each other nicely, and I think the business operation needs that," Dul Aznavorian said.

Dul Aznavorian and Mily, who has been the GM since she was 18, also serve as role models for women in business, but Dul Aznavorian believes their 79-year-old mother, who still does the bookkeeping, banking and purchasing for the pro shop, is the real pioneer.

"I think there are a lot of opportunities out there for women," she said, "having grown up in an entrepreneurial family. My mother started her own manufacturing company back in the 40s before she met my father.

"I don't think in terms of there being roadblocks for women but giving reasons why women can be successful in business."

Borgess season hinges on prayer for defense

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

football

Walt Bazylewicz, the new football coach at Redford Bishop Borgess, has no intention of running a conventional 4-3 or 5-2 defensive alignment.

Bazylewicz, the 67-year-old Catholic League coaching legend, gives his defensive scheme a special name:

"We run the 'Hail Mary,'" said Bazylewicz, who came out of retirement to take the job at Borgess. "We'll run multiple defenses and try to manipulate our defense to the kids' ability. We can't stand up at the line and pound anybody."

So Borgess does have a prayer, but unless it gets answered, don't expect the Spartans to surprise anyone in the rugged Catholic League Central Division race. The Spartans lost 23 seniors to graduation and only 31 players have come out for the entire Borgess program.

Bazylewicz is hoping to gather up enough players for both a varsity and junior varsity team, but he's already discounted the possibility of playing a freshman schedule.

THE SPARTANS open the season at 3 p.m. Saturday against Class C power Orchard Lake St. Mary at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Bazylewicz knows this year will be a learning experience. He compares it to his first team in 1948 at Detroit St. Thomas.

Bazylewicz went on to become one of the Catholic League's most successful coaches, leading St. Thomas and Harper Woods Notre Dame to six Catholic League titles during the 1950s and early '60s.

Bazylewicz, who hasn't coached for more than 18 years, was the longtime Catholic League Director, before retiring from that post and assuming his new role at Borgess.

"There are a lot of comparisons," he said, comparing Borgess to St. Thomas. "I had 15 kids then and now I've got 30 for three teams, but 15 are sophomores or freshmen. We're working on getting a JV team going but I've got to get kids to help on the varsity before I get a JV going. You can't have 15 kids on the varsity in our league."

GRADUATION DEPLETED a Borgess team that finished 3-6 in 1988. Also gone are a pair of underclassmen, Kareem Carpenter and Shawn Respert, who had all-state potential, Bazylewicz said.

Carpenter, a 6-foot-5 tight end, transferred to Ann Arbor Huron last winter. Respert, a highly recruited basketball player at Borgess, played wide receiver last fall for the Spartans but decided to forego his senior year and concentrate on basketball.

Also out, at least for the time being, is senior guard Tony Mastroionni, who dislocated a knee in practice. Mastroionni was the most experienced returning offensive lineman.

"It was kind of a freak thing," Bazylewicz said of Mastroionni's injury. "He had a bum knee from last year. I guess it was the other one that went out."

Borgess lacks depth everywhere, but Bazylewicz has a promising returnee in senior two-way tackle Dennis Parker (6-3, 215), who "could be a blue-chipper."

"HE'S INTENSE, a good blocker, good tackler and has good speed," Bazylewicz said.

Sophomore Thelester Mahone (5-11, 185), who bench presses 275, will start at the other tackle. Other linemen include senior center Jason Hassell (6-0, 195), who also bench presses 275 pounds, and senior guard Chris Spitzig (5-9, 170).

The quarterback is junior Tom Cole, who played on the JV in '88. Backing up Cole is senior Carl Smith.

Respert doesn't return as a receiver, but Bazylewicz is impressed by the play of wide receiver Ramone Mills (6-3, 175), who didn't play football last year. Borgess is thin in the backfield, where 5-3 140-pound tailback Delwin Sears is listed No. 1 on the depth chart.

OTHER BACKFIELD candidates include fullbacks Anthony Hood (6-0, 170 so.) and David Dobbin (5-9, 155, jr.). Also getting a look is senior Anthony Davis (5-11, 190).

As for that 'Hail Mary' defense, Bazylewicz is looking for leadership in the secondary where seniors Anthony Woods (5-7, 150) and LaDale Calloway (5-9, 170) line up.

Bazylewicz said he'd rather not play one of his younger boys against a schedule he calls "suicidal."

"We're using older, inexperienced kids because of humanity reasons," said Bazylewicz. "For crying out loud, you can't hurt the younger kids."

Unexpected arrival strengthens Ocelots

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Schoolcraft sports

The news regarding Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team was promising already. The Ocelots, 9-2-3 last year but losers to arch-rival Macomb CC in the battle for the Region 12 crown, seemed strengthened by an influx of impressive talent.

Then came the news out of Oakland University. One of OU coach Gary Parsons' prize recruits, Gerard Walker of Arouca, Trinidad, had failed to complete all the tests necessary to qualify him to attend a four-year university in the U.S.

"It looks like he'll be going to Schoolcraft," said Parsons Tuesday.

SC coach Van Dimitriou confirmed that SC athletic department officials were working on the paperwork to get Walker into school. If all goes well and Walker does get enrolled, the Ocelots could go from impressive to outstanding.

AT LEAST Dimitriou thinks so. "Absolutely," he said. "We're in the process of improving our team 20 to 25 percent. If we can get this kid, it frees up another player to play somewhere else. Plus, there's the confidence factor."

Oddly, no one is certain just how good Walker is. Only two countrymen, Earl Parris and Emmanuel Charles, both playing at OU, have seen him on the field.

But Parsons, who has built OU into one of the best NCAA Division II programs in the nation, has been so impressed with Charles that he has already listed him as a starter. Walker is reputedly just as skilled, although he's more defensive-minded.

If he becomes eligible, Walker will probably play sweeper for SC and Chris Speen (from Livonia Churchill) will move to stopper, improving an already-solid defense.

OTHER DEFENSIVE starters as the Ocelots head into their opening matches (6 p.m. tonight at home against General Motors Institute, and noon Sunday against Meramec CC, from St. Louis) figure to be T.J. Flowers (from Churchill) and either Doug Sobolak (Plymouth Canton) or Eric Thomas (Churchill) at fullback.

Dave Dinglie (Livonia Stevenson) will start somewhere, again depending on Walker's status. Dinglie will be at stopper (with Speen at sweeper) or midfield.

Other candidates to start in the midfield are Rick Menary (Canton), Dave Hebestreit (Churchill) and John Cortese (Canton). Brian Thomas (Churchill), a starter there last year, is nursing a hamstring injury that has limited his practice time.

THE FORWARD line is a bit thinner, but no less formidable. Khaled Zeidan (Churchill) is a proven scorer, but his durability is questionable. Still, Dimitriou figures he can be deadly when used 40-50 minutes a game.

Brendan O'Reilly seems a perfect match for Zeidan. "He's a strong, strong player, very aggressive," said Dimitriou.

The other forward could be Chris Moore (Redford Catholic Central), who played goal last year. Moore is movable because of the addition of Jeff Shuk, an all-state keeper from Reno, Nevada. Moore will also serve as Shuk's backup.

There's more to the Ocelots. Depth shouldn't be a problem. Neither should strength. The team has been working in the weight room three days a week in what Dimitriou termed "a total fitness program." Dimitriou plans to scale back the weight training to twice a week once the season starts.

The Ocelots may need all their strength to overtake Macomb CC. The Monarchs have won the last two regional titles, allowing them to make the trip to the National Junior College Athletic Association Inter-Regional tournament in Chicago.

THAT PROVIDES SC with another advantage: incentive. "We're working very, very hard," said Dimitriou. "We're working as hard as I've ever seen a Schoolcraft team work.

"It's a matter of pride with us now. There's no question Macomb is strong (the Monarchs defeated University of Detroit 2-1 in a preseason scrimmage last week, according to Dimitriou), but we're improved. I think when we play them, it will be a good match."

In last season's pivotal showdown, SC was thumped at home 5-0. "This year it won't be a runaway," promised Dimitriou. "That I'll guarantee."

Walker's addition would bolster that guarantee.

Adray Appliance slugger takes Atlanta's best offer

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

baseball

"Rick Karcher might not make a better investment than the one he made this summer playing for the Detroit Adray Appliance baseball team.

Karcher, who batted .328 and led the Detroit Adray League with 35 RBI, signed a free-agent contract with the Atlanta Braves Saturday night. Karcher, a 1987 North Farmington graduate, will be assigned to Pulaski, Va., of the Rookie Appalachian League.

The 6-foot-5, 210-pound Karcher led Stu Rose's Henry Ford Community College team in home runs and RBI last spring but was passed by in June's Major League draft.

Braves scout Tony Stiel didn't need anymore convincing after watching Karcher bat nearly 400 and belt two impressive home runs earlier this month at the All-American Amateur Baseball Federation national tournament in Johnstown, Pa.

KARCHER PLAYED outfield for Henry Ford and Adray, but Atlanta will try the left-hander at first base.

"He's an outstanding boy, besides his ability to play," said Stiel, who scouts Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. "I thought about signing him two months ago (after the draft), but I didn't want to interfere with them playing in Johnstown. He hit some tremendous shots out there; he got every bit of a couple of them. And he's all for going to first base. We think that's his best shot."

Karcher liked the offer he got from Atlanta — a one-year contract, including a signing and incentive bonus. Contract terms also call for the Braves to pay for the rest of Karcher's college education, whether he stays with the team or not.

Karcher will attend Henry Ford this fall, before reporting to Atlanta's early camp in February in West Palm Beach, Fla.

"Very few players get an opportunity like this, and I'm going to make the most of it," said Karcher, who turns 20 Saturday. "I felt the time was right for me for a lot of personal reasons. I like Atlanta and I like the scout (Stiel); he seems to be interested in my personal self. They have a lot of good pitching but need power hitters.

"ATLANTA IS bringing up a lot of its players through the minor leagues, and that's why it's beneficial for me. It all just seemed to go into place."

Karcher won't attend the Instructional League for prospects in the fall, but he and other Atlanta minor-league players from the Detroit area (including pitcher Steve Avery) are expected to work out in Lincoln Park and Henry Ford, Stiel said.

Karcher swung an aluminum bat during his sandlot days but said he is prepared to adjust to swinging a wooden bat.

"A lot of people overexaggerate that it's so hard to hit with a wooden bat," said Karcher, who spent one year at Indiana University (Bloomington) before transferring. "If you can hit, you can hit. There's definitely a smaller sweet spot on the wooden bat, but I don't see it as a problem.

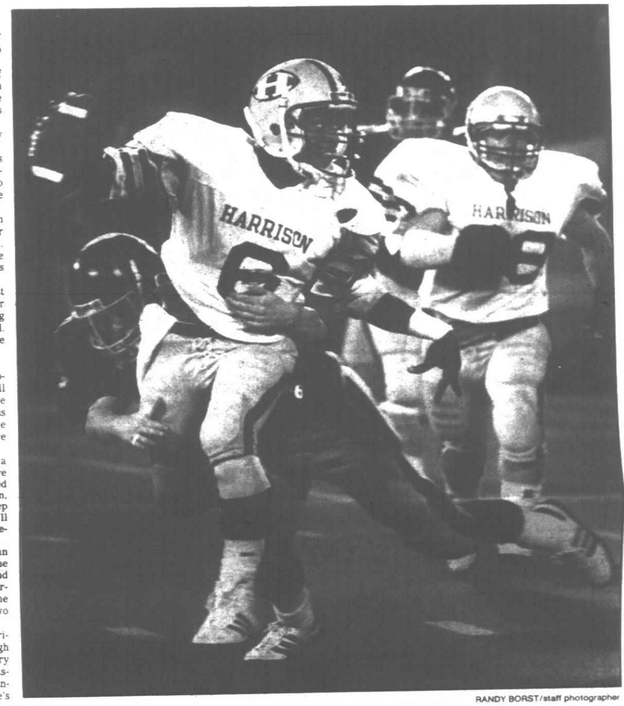
FOOTBALL KICKOFF '89

Captain Coleman

Stats take backseat to leadership quality

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer



RANDY BORST/staff photographer

Mill Coleman, the fleet-footed, strong-armed quarterback at Farmington Hills Harrison, enters his senior year as one of the top-rated prep quarterbacks in the country. He has passed for more than 5,500 yards and could leave his mark on several national record lists.

Mill Coleman is accustomed to being a leader.

In two seasons as quarterback of the Farmington Hills Harrison football team, he has provided the direction that has made the Hawks a prolific offensive machine.

Coleman, heretofore, has led by example.

The quiet, introverted player has made his statement with his tremendous skills and been content to let the upperclassmen do the cheerleading.

Coleman enters the 1989 season as a senior, and that adds another dimension to his role on the team. As a tri-captain, Coleman will be expected to lead in word as well as deed.

"Being a quarterback the past few years, you have to be a leader on the team, so it's not something totally new to me," Coleman said. "I just have to take on a little more leadership."

COLEMAN KNOWS fellow captains Matt Conley and Steve Hill can be counted on to rally the troops in time of need, but he plans to assert himself, too, in ways he wasn't expected as a sophomore and junior.

"As a captain, I may have to be a little more vocal," he said. "There will be others to get the guys fired up, but I may have to say 'Come on, guys, get your heads up' or 'Keep going, we're not finished yet.' I'll have to be more vocal in that respect."

Anyone who knows Coleman knows he will assert himself on the playing field. As a senior, friend and foe alike expect him to perform the same feats, work the same magic, he has the last two years.

He enters his final year at Harrison as one of the top-rated high school quarterbacks in the country and with some impressive statistics, which undoubtedly will increase handsomely before he's done.

Coleman passed for 2,074 yards in 1988 — his second straight year over 2,000 — and 28 touchdowns. In the process, he connected on 103 of his 171 attempts for a 60-percent completion rate.

He added 470 yards and seven TDs rushing, to boot, as Harrison, the No. 1-rated team in Class B all season, compiled a 13-0 record, won its fifth Western Lakes Activities Association title and captured a third state championship.

"IT'S KINDA hard to top last season, but I'm only worried about winning our games and the league before I think about the state championship," Coleman said.

"If we do the things we're supposed to, any stats and numbers will be there. So I don't worry if I'm going to pass for 200 yards in this game or run for 100."

Though Coleman's reserved nature makes it easy to believe he's genuinely not concerned about stats, the fact remains he could leave his name on several national lists of statistical achievers.

Though it would take another season like he had in '88 and then some to set any records, Coleman could realistically move into the top 10 in career TD passes, completion percentage and passing yards.

Coleman has completed 55.3 percent of his passes, which ties him for ninth place on the National High School Athletic Association chart. He has 60 career TDs and needs another 21 to become one of the 10 best. He has passed for 5,496 yards and conceivably could surpass 7,000, pushing him well past No. 10 on that list.

"To be honest, it wasn't something I set out to do," Coleman said. "My dad was looking through a stat book and happened to notice I was up there with some of the leaders in the country.

"IT'S NICE TO be up there, but it won't be the end of the world if I don't set any records."

Coleman possesses an amazingly strong arm that will astonish first-time observers, who assume a 5-foot-9, 165-pound youth can't possibly throw as far and with such accuracy as he does.

And he has chosen timely occasions to do just that. Coleman qualifies unreservedly as a gamer, having some of his greatest moments in the state playoffs. He led Harrison back from a 20-7 deficit in the 1987 semifinals against Marysville to win 35-20, and he passed for a state-finals record 238 yards in the 1988 championship game as the Hawks whipped St. Joseph 44-9.

Harrison plans to continue throwing the ball, but it could be more difficult for Coleman to repeat the numbers he racked up as a junior. The reason is the two receivers who caught most of those passes and had most of the receiving yardage, Bryan Wauldron and Chad Burgess, have graduated.

Steve Hill is the lone holdover at swingback, but Coleman is learning to work with an essentially new group of receivers this year. Instead of throwing to two all-staters, most of Coleman's passes will go to Scott Ratzes, Roy Granger and Jon Schaeffer.

"I've been working with the new receiver corps for a while," Coleman said. "We have Steve Hill back. But it's hard at times because some of the guys don't have the speed Chad and Bryan did and I've overthrown them.

"I KNEW WHAT (Burgess and Wauldron) could do and what they couldn't. It's different, getting the timing down and knowing what (the new receivers) capabilities are. But we have good receivers and the potential is there. We're coming along, and we'll get there."

Coleman, being true to his modest nature, isn't making any bold predictions, but he believes the Hawks have the ability to organize another massive aerial strike this year.

"I'm not going to say I want to pass for so many yards and touchdowns, but we have receivers capable of getting 2,000 yards," he said.

Central Division

Rice bids to break CC hold

By Brad Emons
staff writer

There's no room for the faint of heart in the tough Central Division of the Catholic League.

The 1989 football season for six schools will again test each member in a survival of the fittest.

For the past two seasons Redford Catholic Central has ruled the Central and won the Catholic League A-B Division title.

A bridesmaid for the past two seasons, Birmingham Brother Rice appears to be the favorite to reclaim its first crown since 1986.

But watch out for three other contending teams including always tough Warren DeLaSalle, along with Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher and Harper Woods Notre Dame.

Only Redford Bishop Borgess appears to be a long shot for the title.

Here is a preview of the Central:

REDFORD CC

The Shamrocks (12-1 overall, 5-0 Central) lost several key performers including All-State nose tackle Lee Krueger (University of Wisconsin), quarterback Scott Haruchar, center/linebacker Pat McNelis, tackle Jack Dankert, end Lou Yeager and kicker Pete Elezovic.

But tackle Rylin Bell, a 6-foot-3, 245-pound senior, anchors another strong CC line.

The team's strength lies in its skill players with the return of senior tailback Dave Owens (716 yards), wide receiver Mike Mathis and fullback Arshon Stewart.

The quarterback situation rests with a pair of juniors — 6-1, 180-pound Jason Carr, son of University of Michigan defensive coordinator Lloyd Carr, and 5-10, 170-pound Jack Davidson.

"We have a lot of people we can go to," said CC coach Tom Mach, who has guided the Shamrocks to one state title (1979) and a pair of second place finishes (1987-88).

BIRMINGHAM BROTHER RICE

Optimism is running high in the Warriors' camp as coach Al Fracassa, entering his 21st season, welcomes back senior quarterback Bob Utter, who completed 101 of 180 passes for 1,127 yards and nine touchdowns last season.

Utter compares favorably former stalwart Rice quarterbacks, including Jon English, Dave Yarema, Allen Sydlowski and Jon Gieselman.

"Bob is probably one of our hardest workers," Fracassa said. "He's a real leader. He can also run. He ranks right up there with the other fine quarterbacks we've had at Rice."

Blue chippers catch eye of colleges

By Brad Emons
staff writer

WHO ARE SOME of the top college football prospects around Observerland? Some past Observerland standouts have had a big effect on the collegiate gridiron, including University of Michigan linebacker Alex Marshall (Bishop Borgess High), U-M tailback Tony Boles (Westland John Glenn), Michigan State tailback Scott Selzer (North Farmington) and Eastern Michigan defensive back John Stoitsiadis (Livonia Churchill).

Others have gone on to the pro ranks including Michigan's Mark Messner (Redford CC), trying to hold on with the Los Angeles Rams; and MSU's John Miller (Farmington Harrison), who is trying to stick with the Detroit Lions.

It will take awhile to determine how this class ranks, but the Observer sports staff has compiled the following list with the help of area prep and college coaches. A list of some of the top underclassmen has also been compiled.

TOP 15 SENIORS

1. Mill Coleman, quarterback, Farm. Harrison: Mill "The Thrill" is by far Observerland's top player, having thrown for 2,074 yards (103 of 171) last year and over 5,000 during his three-year varsity career. Rated one of the nation's top prep quarterbacks by the Sporting News, Coleman's only drawback is his lack of size (5-10 years, 165 pounds), which may scare away some coaches. But don't forget, Doug Flutie made it big at Boston College and is now playing in the NFL.

2. Ryan Bell, lineman, Redford CC: Designated "our best lineman" by coach Tom Mach says it all. The 6-3, 245-pound two-way tackle is a fierce pass rusher and good blocker. The second-team All-Observer pick from a year ago follows the likes of former CC offensive line stalwarts Joe Micarana, Jeff Wiska, Dan Nash and Tony Heaton.

3. Ryan Johnson, tailback/safety, Ply. Salem: The 6-3, 215-pound Johnson could also play quarterback and linebacker, but coach Tom Moshimer prefers him at tailback and strong safety. He's not afraid to make contact and his very mobile for his size. Reminds some of former Salem standout Scott Jurek, who went on to perform at Eastern Michigan University. Johnson was second team All-Area last year.

4. Dave Owens, tailback, Redford CC: Expected to have a big year after gaining a year's experience (716 yards). Small for a running back (5-7, 165), but added strength should make him CC's best ball carrier since Aaron Roberts (1980). His brother Fred, who played a Redford Bishop Borgess High, is a senior tailback at the University of Wisconsin.

5. Andy Sapienza, fullback/linebacker, Llv. Churchill: If motivated, the 6-2, 218-pound Sapienza could be in the class with the late Churchill great Matt Foster, who started on Michigan State's 1978 Big Ten championship club. The word is that Sapienza's work ethic is better than a year ago, which should make him Division I caliber come November.

6. Steve Hill, linebacker/fullback/kicker, Farm. Harrison: A hernia problem slowed him during the pre season, but the 6-3, 210-pound Hill has bounced back. He is probably the area's most versatile performer. Hill can play swingback and is the Hawks' leader on defense at linebacker. Kicking, however, may be his forte. Last year he made 62 of 65 extra points and booted six field goals en route to first-team All-Area honors.

7. Mike Mathis, wide receiver/defensive back, Redford CC: Saw considerable action last year for a team that reached the Class A state title game. He could be a bonafide Division I player before his senior year ends. Speed to burn, Mathis (6-1, 190) will be a deep threat on offense and a good cover man on defense.

8. Pierre Hixon, defensive back, Wayne: An All-Wolverine A League pick as a junior, Hixon (5-11, 165) is fast and strong. He's not afraid to make contact and should be one of the area's standouts before the 1989 season ends. Also an excellent basketball player and track performer.

9. Mark Johnston, offensive tackle/linebacker, Westland Glenn: The second-team All-Observer pick made his presence known as a junior and should be in line for a big senior year. The 6-2, 230-pounder is a Mid-American Conference caliber player and is one of the reasons why Glenn could be making its fourth state playoff appearance in five years.

10. Eric Stover, quarterback, Westland Glenn: Although overshadowed by Coleman, the 6-1, 168-pound signal caller threw for 13 TDs as a junior and should be even better this season. He is quick enough to scramble and should ring up some impressive passing numbers this year, surpassing the likes of former Glenn standouts Steve Irwin, Steve Hawley and Clint Straub.

11. Matt Conley, tailback, Farm. Harrison: Missed the first three games of 1988 because of a knee injury, but rebounded to lead the state Class B champions in rushing (463 yards and 13 touchdowns). In the playoffs he scored a school-record six TDs against Avondale. The 5-11, 192-pound running back should be able to double his rushing total this season.

Eric Stover, consulting with Glenn coach Chuck Gordon on the sidelines, helps to make the Rockets a preseason contender for Lakes Division and WLAA honors.

Hawks, Rockets favored to repeat

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Judging from preseason indicators, the 1989 football season in the Western Lakes Activities Association could be a repeat of the previous one.

Farmington Hills Harrison and Westland John Glenn, the division champions and league finalists a year ago, are expected to field strong teams once more and, come late October, could end up playing for the title again.

Farmington Hills Harrison, the reigning WLAA and Class B champion, is the Observer sports staff's pick to win the Western Division title this fall. Think that has something to do with the return of Mill Coleman?

Watch out for Livonia Churchill, though, because the Chargers have one of Observerland's biggest, most explosive offensive backfields.

In the Lakes Division, defending champion Westland John Glenn is expected to get a challenge from Plymouth Salem and North Farmington, but the Rockets are the early favorites in their half of the WLAA.

Glenn lost do-it-all Bryant Satterlee to graduation, but quarterback Eric Stover returns for his senior campaign after an impressive junior year.

Following is a capsule look at all the teams in the WLAA, beginning with the Lakes Division and with teams listed in order of expected finish:

Lakes Division

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN

The Rockets, who last year lost to Harrison in the WLAA title game, return senior quarterback Eric Stover, a starter all but '88.

Glenn finished the season at 9-2 after being ousted in the Class A quarterfinals by Redford Catholic Central. The Rockets' major loss to graduation was Bryant Satterlee, a two-way starter at tailback and linebacker.

"I think we'll be more balanced," said coach Chuck Gordon, in his 13th year with Satterlee it was foolish not to run. Eric is a good quarterback and one of the real keys to the season. He has as good an arm as we've had."

Sixty players are out for Glenn's varsity and the co-captains of the group are Tom Luxton (5-10, 162), a senior backup fullback, and senior defensive end Kraig Kibbons. Senior Shannon Layne (5-10, 170), the incumbent to start at tailback and the fullback is senior Paul Bialy (5-11, 195).

Catching the ball will be senior wide receiver David Ryan (6-0, 161), and senior tight end Garnett Woody (6-3, 203).

Defensively, the Rockets' 5-2 alignment will be keyed by Kuban (6-1, 182), a fierce hitter. Others to watch include noseguard Sam Weddington (5-8, 170) and linebacker Mark Johnston (6-2, 230), who also starts at offensive tackle.

PLYMOUTH SALEM

The Rocks' wishbone offense has potential with the return of seniors Ryan Johnson, Pat Bowie and Rob Kowalski.

Johnson and Kowalski shared time last year at quarterback, but the signal caller this year will be Kowalski. Johnson (6-3, 216) will line up at halfback, Bowie returns at fullback and an impressive newcomer is halfback Chad Johnson, who sat out last year after transferring from Redford Catholic Central.

The problem is, Salem, with only Casey Nichols and Joe Roza returning on the line, will need to open some holes for the talent-laden backfield.

"We're so thin up front, we converted two backs to linemen," coach Tom Moshimer said. "It will be a while before the offensive line becomes mature enough to handle what it has to handle. The beauty of our backfield is you can't ignore one of those backs, because all of them can carry the football."

Johnson rushed for 537 yards and eight TDs in '88, and Bowie carried for a team-high 613 yards and five TDs. Senior Bryan Schultz, a promising returning receiver, will miss the start of the season, however, after undergoing arthroscopic knee surgery.

Salem lost All-Observer linebacker Mike Jarvey to graduation, and his position will be manned by Chad Johnson. Steve Burlison (6-1, 180), a converted defensive back, will be an outside linebacker. Ryan Johnson returns to strong safety, leading the secondary.

NORTH FARMINGTON

North is building its 1989 team around defense, even though defensive standouts Zaim Cunmulaj and Joe Sturtz, have graduated.

Among the returnees is heavy-hitting senior inside linebacker Rob Zeno (5-11, 170), and secondarymen Chris White and Jerry Dolak. The Raiders were 7-2 a year ago, and coach Jim O'Leary counts on an experienced secondary to make up for any other deficiencies the team has.

The junior varsity also was 7-2 a year ago and O'Leary is confident those players will continue to be successful on the varsity.

"I never worry about defense," coach O'Leary said. "Defense is a lot easier to teach than offense. If the kids are aggressive, they might make mistakes, but the secondary should be able to cover for them."

White (6-2, 170) is only a junior and he is also a weapon on offense where he caught 33 passes for 425 yards as a sophomore wide receiver. Senior Jon Kraus, a backup to the graduated Mike Filipovich last year, will get the call at quarterback. Kraus (5-10, 160) has more quickness and running ability than Filipovich, so there might be more sprintout passing in North's offense.

Sturtz, who rushed for 1,001 yards last fall at tailback will be replaced by Bart Sinanis, the noseguard in '88. Dolak returns at upback. Cunmulaj leaves a big void on the line where a host of new players will get their chance.

Former soccer player Mike Cowen, a first-year player, is the placekicker and punter.

WALLED LAKE CENTRAL

The Vikings lost quarterback Derk Wallace to graduation, but seven starters return on both offense and defense.

Central finished the season at 4-5 overall, 2-3 in the Lakes Division. The Vikings are a senior-laden group, but sophomore Mark Tartacuk (5-6, 170) might be the replacement for Wallace, who threw for 737 yards and earned all-division honors as a safety.

The other quarterback candidate is junior Lawrence Kerber.

"We'll roll a lot with Mark," coach Gary Tuz said. "We'll get him outside and throw the ball with him. Ideally, I wouldn't want a sophomore at quarterback because we're basically a senior team, but right now the seniors have taken to him. I hope he can jump on their bandwagon and fit right in."

The tailback is junior Joe Gough (6-1, 195), who gained 630 yards on the ground and 340 in passing yardage last year. Three starters, including 6-5, 250-pound senior tackle Brian Marsh, return on the line.

The Vikings' 4-3 defense is led by senior middle linebacker Nick Kiffner (6-1, 205), the leading tackler in '88. The placekicker/punter is Darryl Piotrowski, a junior who has 45- to 50-yard field goal range, Tuz said.

Central won four of its last five games last fall, shutting out the opposition twice during that span. Tuz said Central was "three catches from a 7-2 season," recalling losses to Churchill, Salem and Milford.

"We'll have to drop the mental mistakes," he said.

LIVONIA STEVENSON

Coach Jack Reardon, entering his 24th year, is coming off a 4-5 record in 1988, his first losing season in 17 years.

Improving on its record will be a difficult task for Stevenson, with only four returning starters and seven seniors on the roster. The most impressive senior is Brian Piergentili (5-11, 182), an all-purpose back last season, who will start at quarterback and play safety.

Jack Reardon, the veteran coach of the Livonia Stevenson football team, enters his 25th year with the Spartans. Stevenson, coming off a 4-5 season, is led by running back Brian Piergentili.

Western Lakes

"He might be one of our top three football players," Reardon said. "Last year he started every position for us. He works hard and loves the game of football."

The tailback position will be filled by either Rob Petree (5-10, 188), a senior who missed most of last season with a broken collarbone, or junior Tim Marshke (5-8, 148).

Kevin Corradi, a 6-0, 178-pound senior, gives the Spartans a reliable player at tight end.

All-Observer first-team tackle Eric Ruth is missing from the offensive line after graduating, and Reardon is faced with the task of rebuilding the whole line. Only two seniors, Doug Pascoe (5-10, 208) and Barry Greco (6-0, 211) are expected to be among the playing group.

Stevenson, with only three players listed over 200 pounds, will "have to have a great pursuit defense," Reardon said.

FARMINGTON

The Falcons were winless in nine games, so second-year coach Rick Milhizer is eager to get that first win under his belt.

He'd like to get it Friday at West Bloomfield, before the Western Lakes Activities Association season kicks off later next month.

Leading Farmington's offense is senior quarterback Chris Schmid, who started the last three games a year ago. Tailback Dave Winey returns for his senior year after gaining 350 yards, and one of Schmid's best targets will be senior flanker Brian Vicchio.

The tight end is Eric Miller, who started the '88 season at quarterback, and the biggest lineman is Derek Mehreban (6-4, 235). Numbers are slim, however, at Farmington, and Milhizer will be forced to play nearly all his starters both ways.

"The players are starting to understand what it takes to be a winner," Milhizer said. "Being a winner isn't just winning on game day. It's being a winner all the time. The little things are important, but we're still hurt by numbers."

Western Division

FARMINGTON HILLS HARRISON

Opposing teams are hoping Mill Coleman isn't saving his best for last.

Coleman enters his senior year with one Class B state championship already behind him, and the Hawks are expected to contend for that honor again. The 5-foot-9, 165-pound quarterback — rated among the best high school players in the country at his position by the Sporting News — threw for 2,074 yards last year and has thrown for more than 5,000 yards in his career.

Coleman completed 103 of 171 passes last year in leading the Hawks to a 13-0 record and the WLAA title.

So what's left as an encore?

"I don't know how he can improve on his play after last year," coach John Herrington said. "But he's a captain now and he'll have to show some more off-field leadership."

There is concern at Harrison because the Hawks have to replace Coleman's favorite targets, Bryan Wauldron and Chad Burgess, who graduated. Also gone from the offensive line are Dale Katz and Jeff Skinner and their replacements are inexperienced.

But Herrington has a trio of impressive senior returnees in the backfield — Matt Conley (5-11, 192), Joe George (6-0, 185) and Steve Hill (6-3, 210). Conley gained a team-high 463 yards and scored 13 touchdowns last year. Hill, one of the state's premier kickers with 62 extra points last year, makes the Hawks a threat every time they pass midfield.

Hill also will be one of Harrison's most important defensive players, lining up alongside Blazo Sarcevich (6-3, 212) at inside linebacker.

Last year, Harrison yielded only 63 points in 13 games and no team scored more than two TDs against the Hawks in any game. The down linemen and secondary are young, but Harrison teams tend to reload, not rebuild.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL

The Chargers are making a bid to become one of the Western Lakes surprise teams.

Churchill returns an explosive backfield — highlighted by senior fullback Andy Sapienza — and is expected to improve on its 4-5 record. A tough early season schedule, featuring North Farmington and Farmington Hills Harrison in the first three weeks, might be the only thing preventing improvement.

Sapienza (6-2, 218) is the brother of former Livonia Bentley standout Steve Sapienza and may have more major-college potential.

"The potential is there," coach Herb Osterland said of his second-team All-Observer standout. "We're looking for Andy to run up the middle, because he's a big, strong and tough kid. If we win the first couple games, it's really going to make for a positive situation."

Others expected to carry the ball are senior swingback/inside linebacker Trent Naumcheff and junior Mike Brooks. The quarterback is Matt Spaccarotella, a 5-7, 155-pound package.

The linebacking group will be a strength in Churchill's 52 defense. Sapienza and John Aittama will line up as outside linebackers and the inside linebackers will be Naumcheff and Bob Margo.

Others to watch on defense are noseguard Jim King (6-1, 190) and senior Kevin Fletchner (5-10, 195).

LIVONIA FRANKLIN

Could Franklin coach Armand Vigna be erasing words like pitch and option from his playbook?

Unless he's playing a game with the media, it appears so.

"The option game is gone, no more pitching the ball, we're throwing if anything," Vigna said in an earlier interview. "We're using a backwards approach. We're going to pass to set up the run."

Senior Brian Bartz, who possesses a strong arm, looks like the perfect candidate to run such an offense. A catcher on the baseball team, Vigna said Bartz has one of the strongest arms dating back to Rich Popp, the quarterback of the 1982 Franklin team.

Vigna's line is stacked, so he's not opposed to running the ball. Leading line returnees include senior tackles Derek Ploch (6-1, 211) and Ray Moldovan (6-1, 220), junior guard Paul Rhoads (6-2, 210), senior center Christopher Counts (6-1, 207), and tight end Brian Stover (6-1, 180).

The Patriots' 4-3 defense will be led by tackle Dan McKay (6-2, 216) and newcomer Chris Roberts (6-0, 237), also a tackle. Junior Bobby Johnson (6-1, 250) shows promise at linebacker and as a punter and placekicker.

PLYMOUTH CANTON

The Chiefs ended the 1988 season with an upset win over Plymouth Salem, marking the first time they ever beat the Rocks.

A winning record is on this year's agenda and that, too, would be a first at Canton.

"The Salem win helped us in a lot of ways," coach Bob Khoenle said. "We could see it in the attitude of the kids in the weight room during the winter and spring. If nothing else, that win made the kids believe in themselves a little more."

Junior Karl Wukie, who gained valuable experience late in the year at quarterback, returns to lead the Chiefs' I-formation offense. Canton was 0-4 before Wukie took over but finished 3-6. Another important member of Canton's offense is tailback Joel Riggs, who has beefed up to 175 pounds.

The Chiefs lost their leading receiver, Mark Barrette, to graduation, but return seniors Jeremy Rheault (5-6, 160), Dave Makara (5-10, 155) and Chris Robinson (5-8, 140).

Senior Brian Bartlett (6-1, 205) lines up at tackle on offense and begins his third year as a starter at defensive end. The Chiefs are deep at linebacker, where Trond Darby, Jason Bielec, Jason Dembry and Josh Walaskay return.

An area of concern is the secondary, which will be dominated by an untested junior class.

NORTHVILLE

The Mustangs return mammoth-sized defensive tackle Rob Spradlin (6-5, 260), but even he isn't able to fill all the voids created by graduation.

Nine seniors off last year's team graduated, so Spradlin, considered a major college prospect by coach Darrell Schumacher, will need to make more of an impact this year.

Spradlin was an All-Western Division choice a year ago. Three starters, Chuck Schuff (6-0, 225), Bob Townsend (5-11, 185) and Jason Stringer (5-10, 180), return to the offensive line. Quarterback Greg Price graduated so those duties will belong to either senior Steve Bastian (5-10, 160) or sophomore Ryan Horjak (5-11, 145).

WALLED LAKE WESTERN

Coach Chuck Apap, entering his 11th year at Western, has only three starters returning on offense and two on defense.

One of the significant losses to graduation was Shoane Scannell, a quarterback and outside linebacker who is playing this fall at Wayne State University.

Still, Apap remains optimistic.

"We're going to be better," he said. "We have a young team — we'll start two sophomores. The first three games (at home against Novi, Westland John Glenn and Northville) will dictate a lot to us. If we knock a few out in the beginning, that would put us on the right foot."

Senior tailback Sean Litzinger, a fullback in 1988, is the most impressive returning starter because of his 4.6 speed and strength. The other returning offensive starters are wide receiver Chris Johnson (5-10, 147), a 4.8 sprinter, and center Brent McCallum (5-7, 161). The quarterback is Todd Brion (6-1, 160), who had an "exceptional scrimmage," according to Apap against Detroit Country Day.

Newcomers expected to contribute are sophomore running back Mat Middleton, who scored 16 touchdowns on the freshman team, and sophomore lineman Chris Apap.

Defensively, the Warriors' 5-2 alignment will be led by senior inside linebacker John O'Mell (5-9, 170) and senior noseguard Tedd Heater (6-0, 181). The placekicking and punting responsibilities belong to senior Eric Franz, who made a 42-yard field goal a year ago and averaged 36 yards a punt.

Livonia Franklin coach Armand Vigna makes a point with John Revels while teaching the techniques of defensive line play. Vigna says the Patriots will abandon their emphasis on the run offensively and throw the ball more.

'Marshall Plan' well ahead of schedule

Alex Marshall
Not resting on laurels

college sports

To Lloyd Carr, the defensive coordinator for University of Michigan's football team, Alex Marshall's success wasn't so surprising.

"I knew he was a good football player," said Carr at Thursday's media day. "He has outstanding potential."

What was surprising was the timing of Marshall's success. It's rare for a first-year player — Marshall was a redshirt freshman in 1988 — to make a significant contribution. But this 6-foot-4, 235-pound outside linebacker from Redford Bishop Borgess proved to be something special.

Marshall didn't just play, he started 11 of 12 games last season. He made 49 tackles, including seven for 37 yards in losses — three of which were quarterback sacks.

Such rapid success surprised Carr. "He needed to get experience," the U-M coach said. "It's hard to count on a freshman."

Marshall proved more than reliable. The progress he made last year puts him in position to challenge for all-Big Ten accolades this year and for the remainder of his Wolverine career.

BUT SUCH projections mean little to Marshall. His opinion is blunt enough. "A lot of people have potential, but they never do anything with it. You've got to live up to it."

That is Marshall's goal — to make the most of his ability.

If he manages to come close to realizing his enormous talent, Marshall may be the finest outside linebacker to come out of U-M. He's already a proven blitzer, according to Carr.

"He's a great pass rusher," the Wolverine coach said. "He's got the size you want. The thing that's helped is he got some experience early in his career, because you know he's going to get bigger and stronger and develop some more.

"If Alex maintains his work ethic, he can be a great one."

Already, Marshall is determined not to limit himself. "My strength is probably in pass rushing and against the run," he said. But he quickly added doing those two things well in a game doesn't necessarily mean he's performing up to his potential.

"FOR ME to play well, I've got to be consistent," Marshall, who has three more years of eligibility, explained. "I want to improve in all areas. I don't want people to look at me and say, 'He's a good pass rusher,' or 'He's good at coverage.'

"I want to be good at everything. I want to improve all-around."

Despite a year of experience, Marshall doesn't expect it to get any easier. "In some ways, it will be," he predicted. "The nervousness of being a redshirt freshman starting is behind me.

"But now, (coaches and teammates) are looking for me to be more of a leader, to help the newer guys. And I'm looking for a little more from myself. I want to be the best I can be."

The U-M coaches are expecting a lot from Marshall, and his linebacker teammates, too. "Linebacker will be the strength of our defense," said coach Bo Schembechler. "We have a lot of depth. Our returning starters will have to work like the dickens to hold onto their spots."

That challenge doesn't worry Marshall. "Potential is one thing," he philosophized. "It's wonderful, magnificent. But what I accomplish, well, it's all up to me."

Should Marshall progress and improve on a scale equal to last year, both he and the Wolverines will enjoy spectacular success.

RU, Garden City set to disrupt NSL

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Northwest Suburban

This season the Northwest Suburban League could prove whether last year was the beginning of a new era or just an illusion, a temporary blurring of the status quo.

There were a couple of firsts in the NSL in '88, the most impressive of which was the crowning of a new champion. Dearborn Edsel Ford had ruled the current NSL since its formation in 1986. The Thunderbirds had been perfect in league play two consecutive years.

Woodhaven ended that streak in the league opener for both teams last year, beating Edsel Ford 13-9. The game proved pivotal; it was the Thunderbirds only league loss, and it relegated them to second place behind Woodhaven. The Warriors finished 4-0, 6-3 overall; Edsel Ford was 3-1 and 6-3.

THE LOCAL entries, Redford Union and Garden City, could not overtake the front-runners. RU finished third in the NSL at 2-2 (5-4 overall), while Garden City tumbled into the basement at 0-4 (1-8 overall). Dearborn placed in between at 1-3, 4-5 overall.

Don't expect much of a change in the '89 NSL standings, although the race could take on a different complexion. Woodhaven and Edsel Ford are expected to grapple for the No. 1 spot, but unlike last season, the gap between contenders and also-rans may be wider.

For example: Last year, two of Garden City's league losses were by the slimmest of margins. The Cougars were edged by one point by Woodhaven and lost to Dearborn in overtime in coach Bob Eisiminger's first season.

The '89 Cougars don't look as tough. Gone are Joe Ziurinskas, an all-NSL lineman, and quarterback Brad Armstrong. The lines will have to be rebuilt, with senior center-noseguard Doug Day (5-foot-9, 185-pounds) the only experienced returnee.

SENIOR JIM MARSZALEK (5-10, 165) takes over at quarterback. Marszalek started in the defensive backfield in '88 and — since the team has just 33 varsity players — he must play both ways again.

Operating behind an inexperienced and small (only one starter over 200 pounds) offensive line, Marszalek will have to rely on roll-out passing. His main target will be returning tight end John Samborski (6-4, 198).

Their overall lack of size, depth and experience could make Eisminger's second year more difficult than his first.

At RU, the picture isn't as bleak. The Panthers have lost heavily to graduation — quarterback John Burdick and wide receiver-punter Joe Delfgauw set school records — and they must break in both a new coach in Shawn McGowan and a new offense (McGowan's dumped the run-and-shoot employed by former coach Jim Gibbons, now RU's athletic director).

Also gone are noseguard Chris Woodbeck and defensive back Doug Robinson, both all-league performers. But RU has depth and size, and four offensive linemen return.

SENIOR DAVE STERLITZ (6-3½, 200) will anchor the offensive line at center and be a defensive key at linebacker. Seniors Carl Watkins (6-3½, 225) and Andy Kazor (6-3, 235) will open holes at their tackle positions for senior running back Jeff Platt (5-10, 175).

McGowan, who served as RU's defensive coordinator last year, is counting on line play to be the glue early in the season. There's no telling how long it will take for new players to develop and replace Burdick and Delfgauw.

Should the development exceed expectations, the Panthers may make a run at the front-runners.

But that might be expecting a lot. As Dearborn coach Chuck Baughman predicted, "Woodhaven's got a lot of starting linemen coming back, and Edsel Ford is always tough. At Redford Union, well, they've got a new coach and I think they lost a lot. My guess is they'll take a little while to get going."

Baughman's prognosis for his own team is wait 'til next year. "We have a lot of depth, and the thing I like is we have a lot of kids who will go only one way. But we're young. We'll only start three seniors. Every kid that started for us last year was a senior except for two spots.

"I don't think Redford Union, Dearborn or Garden City can go unbeaten in the league."

Alan Snyder (5-11, 165), a safety and back-up tight end and fullback, and Matt Lewicki (5-11, 215), an offensive guard-defensive end, are the co-captains. Another player to watch, a major college prospect according to Baughman, is junior lineman Andy Balestrieri (6-1, 265).

"We're nothing special," insisted Baughman.

IT MAY NOT take anything special to win the title, however. Woodhaven does have some strong returnees in senior offensive linemen John Formentin (6-5, 200), Kevin Miller (6-2, 250) and John Salyers (5-10, 260). Formentin and Miller were both all-NSL offensive linemen in '88. Formentin also plays inside linebacker and Miller is a defensive tackle.

However, the Warriors' losses have coach Jim Buttson concerned. "I certainly think we have a chance at (the title)," he said. "But Edsel has to be the favorite."

Among the 18 seniors Buttson lost from his '88 championship team are quarterback Chris Collins, tailback Carl Robak (the team's leading rusher), all-NSL linebacker-guard Rick Neuharth and center Jim Clawson.

Still, the talent is there. Junior Ernie Nemeth (5-10, 170), a starter at strong safety last season, will play both ways this year, replacing Robak at tailback. Senior Dustin Snell, in his first year of varsity football, also looks dangerous at wide receiver and placekicker (he may punt, too).

Woodhaven's fate could be determined early. The Warriors face Edsel Ford in their first NSL game once again, this time at Woodhaven Sept. 22. "Our first league game is obviously so important," said Buttson. "If we win that, we could win the whole thing."

JACK BRIDGES, Edsel Ford's veteran coach, wouldn't disagree. Indeed, he wondered why anyone would rate his team as a challenger.

"Woodhaven's the defending champion," he noted. "We're not the defending champions. We've lost a tremendous amount of size through graduation. Some of the kids we have coming back I like real well. But I'm concerned about our physical size and squad size."

The key player Bridges must replace is quarterback-defensive backkicker Joe Crill, voted the NSL's most valuable defensive player in '88. "He played a lot of positions for us," the Thunderbirds' coach said. "He'll be very difficult to replace."

Also gone are both offensive tackles and most of the receivers. But Six defensive starters return. Among them are senior defensive back Greg Cunningham (5-10, 175), who was also an all-NSL running back, and senior Derek Sied (5-9, 170), a linebacker and running back. Senior Brian Miller (5-7, 175), the all-NSL center, is back as well.

Bridges maintains the league race "is up in the air." But tradition favors Edsel Ford, and so does the talent.

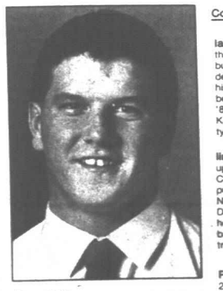
Top 15 loaded with talent



Steve Hill
Harrison's outstanding kicker

12. Harold Rankey, tackle, Westland Glenn: Enormous potential even though he didn't see much action in '88, but at 6-6, 265 he's the type who should develop as the season goes along. In only his second year of football, Rankey may be one of the keys to Glenn's success in '89. Remember Harrison lineman Dale Katz last year? Rankey could be the same type of performer.

13. Trent Naumcheff, receiver/linebacker, Liv. Churchill: Will team up...with Sapienza (see above) to give Churchill one of the area's best one-two punches at linebacker. At 6-1, 190, Naumcheff has the size and speed to be a Division I safety. Biggest problem is that he has been plagued by injuries. His brother Brett is the long snapper for Central Michigan.

14. Pat Bowie, fullback/tackle, Ply. Salem: The Don Nottingham (5-9, 210) of Observerland. The human bowling ball rushed for 613 yards last year for the Rocks and should do even better on an improved Rocks' team in '89. Also a standout tackle on defense because of his quickness.

15. Carl Watkins, tackle, Redford Union: A two-year varsity starter, big things are expected of the 6-3, 225-pound senior. First-year coach Shawn McGowan has a pair of standout tackles in Watkins and Andy Kazor (6-3, 235). The Panthers should be able to run the football in '89.

TOP JUNIORS

Chris White, receiver/defensive back, North Farmington; Todd Pawlowski, linebacker/tight end, North Farmington; Bobby Johnson, linebacker/tackle, Livonia Franklin; Brian Kutch, quarterback/linebacker, Redford St. Agatha; Mike Turner, linebacker/tailback, Redford Thurston; Arshon Stewart, wide receiver/defensive back, Redford Catholic Central; Karl Wukie, quarterback, Plymouth Canton; Kendrick Herrington, flanker/defensive back, Livonia Clarenceville; Blazo Sarcevich, tackle/linebacker, Farmington Harrison.

Harrison has been a thrill for Mill

Mill Coleman will lead Hawks again

Coleman immediately stepped into the starting role at Harrison after he transferred from Albion late in his freshman year. He had started for the Albion varsity the previous fall and threw for more than 1,500 yards.

He might still have been an all-stater at Albion, but then he might not have achieved his biggest goal.

"Before I left high school, I wanted to win a state championship, whatever school I was at," he said. "I had no idea we would be in the finals the last two years."

COLEMAN BECAME an immediate star for the Hawks, who had the supporting talent to complement his abilities and make Harrison a bonafide state contender. In a way, Coleman, who has led the Hawks to a 34-3 record the last two years, made the Harrison star shine brighter, and the Hawks helped make Coleman a bigger star.

"The past two years have been great," he said. "Whenever you're winning in football, it's great. But I've made a lot of friends here, and the school took me in with open arms. I couldn't have asked for anything better."

For talented athletes like Coleman, with senior year come the college recruiters, and they haven't had any trouble finding the Coleman family's address and/or phone number.

Coleman has been contacted by every school imaginable, but he's being cool toward the recruiting side of stardom with an entire season of high school ball still ahead.

"My parents pretty much take care of that," he said. "I don't even talk to the coaches when they call the house. My dad takes all the calls and talks with them.

"He said he wants me to enjoy my last year and as soon as football is over we can deal with the recruiters. So right now I'm concentrating on my last year of football and having a nice season."

football

COLEMAN HAS left the entire question wide open for now. He hasn't developed a short list of schools he's interested in and reveals no inclination toward a personal favorite.

Though he has demonstrated he can run, Coleman has built his reputation as a passer. Ironically, some schools may want him for the former reason.

Harrison doesn't run the option, which would seem to lessen the interest of schools with run-oriented offenses. Coleman does most of his running off the rollout and play-action schemes.

"I won't say I wouldn't go to a school that mainly runs the ball," he said. "But I'd like to go to a school that mixes it up, so I can use my running abilities as well as passing. I have an open mind about it right now."

Coleman said his style is suited for a run-and-shoot offense, scrambling from the pocket and throwing on the run. He's seen Rodney Peete play for the Detroit Lions and likes to compare himself with the former Southern Cal quarterback.

Some colleges may shy away from Coleman, however, because of his lack of size. But he believes he can play at the major college level, because his style allows him to negate any drawbacks caused by his 5-9 stature.

"I THINK I can make up for lack of height with other things I can do, like spreading the field, eluding the rush and finding the open receiver," he said.

Coleman hinted a school that uses a play-action offense and allows its quarterback to bootleg and run out of the pocket might have an inside track when the recruiting battle heats up later this year.

"That would mean a lot to me," he said, "because that would move me out of the pocket. It's kinda hard to see behind a 6-foot-6 lineman. It doesn't mean I can't throw from the pocket, but I prefer to run bootleg fakes than staying in the pocket."

The opponents who must try and defense Coleman one last time this fall probably wish he would stay in the pocket, but they know that is merely wishful thinking.

grid predictions

The first week is always the toughest for grid prognosticators, who often get sucked in by optimistic prep football coaches.

To refresh your memory, the Plymouth-Canton-Farmington sports editor was more successful than his counterpart, going 96-32 on the year.

Meanwhile, the Livonia-Westland-Garden City-Redford sports chief had a Pete Rose-like season, going 89-39.

Since neither reporter has been banned from the game of football, we've been given the green light to battle again, Las Vegas-style.

Remember, the Michigan High School Athletic Association frowns on gambling. Point spreads are taboo.

Hopefully, coaches and players won't take this weekly ritual seriously. Believe us, it's nothing personal when we pick against your team.

This is all in fun. So guys, girls and parents (did you hear us?), let's leave it that way.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
(all 7:30 p.m. unless noted)

Red. Thurston at Dearborn (4 p.m.): Pioneer coach Chuck Baughman says "we're nothing special." But what about Thurston? The Eagles have a lot to prove after going 0-9 last year, including a 28-0 loss to Dearborn in the '88 opener. Picks: Dearborn wins again, but the score is much closer.

Redford St. Mary's at Clarenceville (7 p.m.): It was no contest last year, Clarenceville winning 26-8. St. Mary's is expected to be improved, while the Trojans, under new coach Vic Balaj, are young, inexperienced and a bit of a question mark. Picks: Balaj wins his opener as flanker Kendrick Harrington is the difference.

Liv. Stevenson at Redford Union (Hilbert): Last year's game was a wide-open affair with Stevenson prevailing, 20-14. Expect this one to be played close to the vest. RU has superior size on the line. Picks: RU ready for a Panthers' victory?

Wayne at Garden City: The word is that Wayne pounded Western Lakes member Northville all over the field in a scrimmage last week. The Zebras are low in numbers, but so are the Cougars, who could be in for another long season. Picks: The Zebras earn their stripes.

Sterling Heights at Liv. Churchill: One of the best matchups of the night. The series is 2-2 with Sterling Heights, considered one the state's top Class A teams, winning the last two meetings. Junior quarterback Scott Demetral is very good for the Stallions. Churchill is an underdog, but how heavy? Picks: The Chargers are respectable, but Sterling Heights comes away the victor.

Highland Park at Westland Glenn: The Rockets haven't had many tough openers over the years, but they have been beaten once by the Polar Bears (in 1985). Glenn's aerial circus, led by quarterback Eric Stover, will be launched again for 1989. Picks: The Rockets send Highland Park orbiting into space.

Ply. Canton at Monroe: Last year the Chiefs gave Monroe all they could handle before losing by three. But this year's Monroe team is the favored to repeat as Wolverine A League champs and return to the state Class A playoffs. Willie Jones, a mobile 300-pound plus refrigerator, is one of the reasons why. Canton quarterback Karl Wukie needs protection. Picks: Monroe's shock absorbs Canton's best shot.

Trenton at Ply. Salem: Another good matchup pitting at Wolverine A team against a Western Lakes club. Salem rolled last season, but Trenton will not stand to be run over. Look for a very competitive matchup, but the Rocks' wishbone will be the difference. Picks: Salem pulls its witchcraft.

Farm. Harrison at Saginaw Arthur Hill: The Class B champs (13-0) take on a Class A qualifier (9-2) in the best battle of the night. Is an ambush awaiting Harrison? Look for a physical contest with quarterback Mill "The Thrill" Coleman at his best. Picks: Emons will never pick against the Hawks again. O'Meara won't argue with that logic.

Farmington at W. Bloomfield: The Lakers (2-7) expect to be better under second-year coach Joe Brandell. Meanwhile, Farmington (0-9) is trying to keep its head above water. Picks: It will be smooth sailing for the Lakers.

St. Agatha at Country Day: The Yellow Jackets (8-2) have made four straight playoff appearances under coach Joe D'Angelo. Agatha (6-3) will be no pushover with the return of quarterback Brian Kutch. DCD, led by returning quarterback Mike Montico and running back Aaron Sims, downed the Aggies last year 26-0. Picks: Agatha feels the Yellow Jackets' sting again.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Liv. Franklin at Lansing Sexton (1 p.m.): The Big Red (9-1) qualified for last year's Class A playoffs, losing 11-8 in the first round to Monroe (in overtime). Running backs Howard Triplett and Curtis Belen are fast, and quarterback Robert Villarreal is elusive. Safety Ricardo Jackson is a good one. Franklin (6-3) has lost the last two meetings (21-14 and 22-3), but boasts a veteran line. Picks: Sexton, despite a line full of inexperience, prevails.

Cardinal Mooney at Lutheran Westland (1 p.m.): Cardinal Mooney is down to 15 players, while Lutheran Westland (2-6) is on the rise. Look for veterans Steve Aumann and Mike Hardies to pile up the points for the host Warriors. Picks: Take Lutheran Westland.

N. Farmington at S'field-Lathrup (2 p.m.): The secret cannot be kept any longer. North (7-2) is loaded and could be knocking on the door for a Western Lakes Activities Association title. Lathrup (3-6) is sinking in quick sand. The Chargers will sorely miss tailback Ulric King, who graduated. Picks: North's Raiders put one in the ark.

Bish. Borgess vs. Orchard Lk. St. Mary (3 p.m. at Pontiac Silverdome): Walt Bazylewicz makes his re-debut as Borgess coach and it won't be a pleasant one. The Eaglets (10-1), who beat Brother Rice last year and then lost in the second round of the Class C playoffs to state champion Detroit DePorres, should have another devastating attack led by quarterback Vaughn Bryant and tailback Joe Jefferson. Picks: Last year's 47-7 St. Mary's win could be repeated.

Redford CC vs. Det. Osborn (5:30 p.m. at Pontiac Silverdome): The second game of the triple-header could also be a mismatch with the Shamrocks (12-1) rocking and rolling in their opener. CC can match whatever speed the Knights throw at them. Picks: The Shamrocks win blowout No. 2.

Area schools challenge for league titles

football

Here's a look at how other Observerland teams expect to fare in leagues outside the coverage area:

REDFORD ST. AGATHA, defending champion of the Catholic League's C-D Division, has another fighting chance to take the crown this fall. Quarterback Brian Kutch returns for his junior year, along with five other offensive starters, and seven on defense.

Lost to graduation was Mike Boyle, an offensive tackle now playing at Eastern Michigan. Tackle Scott Maher (6-2, 220) and guard Pat Wagner (6-3, 225) return, however, for their senior campaigns.

Also back defensively are a trio of linemen — Wagner, John DiPonio (5-8, 170) and Mark Sievers (5-6, 155).

AS USUAL, Dearborn Fordson figures to be the team to beat in the Wolverine A League, but if Wayne Memorial gets blocking up front, the Zebras could challenge.

Senior quarterback Brent Tapp (5-8, 145) is the leading returnee on offense, and Wayne's secondary is paced by the return of all-league defensive back Pierre Hixon.

TRI-RIVER LEAGUE member Redford Thurston was 0-9 last year under the first-year guidance of Bob Snell. Missing from that team is multitalented Tim Wojcik, who is playing at Central Michigan, and the wishbone, which wasn't welcomed back.

Instead, Thurston will employ the power-I formation, and Snell is excited about the addition of California transfer Mike Turner, a fullback and linebacker. Thurston plays at defending Tri-River League champion Allen Park on Friday, Oct. 6, when Snell hopes the Eagles are still in contention for the title.

LUTHERAN WESTLAND plays an independent schedule in 1989, the second year of its varsity existence. Returning is three-year starting quarterback Steve Aumann, and he'll get backfield support from halfbacks Jason Zielinski and David Gielow and fullback Erik Smith.

Speed is a concern, with coach Dennis Tuomi's fastest player running only a 5.1 in the 40-yard dash (slow by high school standards). The punting will be done by tight end Mike Hardies, who averaged just shy of 40 yards per boot last year.

LIVONIA CLARENCEVILLE's new coach is Vic Balaj, who knows what it takes to have a successful program. Balaj spent eight years as defensive coordinator at Dearborn Divine Child, a traditionally strong Class B team in the Catholic League.

Clarenceville was third in the Metro Conference last year at 4-3, 6-3 overall. The good news is the Trojans won't have to play three-time defending champion Auburn Hills Avondale until Friday, Oct. 20, at home.

Avondale has won 21 straight league games and 27 consecutive regular-season games, and the longer Clarenceville avoids the Rhinos, the better. Avondale reached the Class B semifinals before losing to eventual champion Farmington Hills Harrison. The Rhinos' most exciting returnee is junior receiver Kevin Woodmoore, who last year caught 20 passes for more than 400 yards.

Clarenceville will use the run-and-shoot offense, and the leading returnee is quarterback Chris Foss, a vital member of the new offense.

Rice is favorite to take Central

Rice (7-2, 4-1) also returns tight end Pete Mitchell, a 6-3, 210-pound senior (36 catches), fullback Steve Morrison, tailback John Burtraw and wide receiver Tony Paesano.

Defensively, nose tackle Gannon Dudlar (6-3, 235) is a blue chipper. He is joined by returnees Dean Polce (cornerback), Ted Baumer (strong safety) and junior Kevin Kalcynski (defensive end).

'Football is still blocking, running and tackling. If you go to gimmicks, you've got to have talent.'
— Walt Bazylewicz
Borgess football coach

H.W. BISHOP GALLAGHER

The Lancers (5-4, 3-2) could break through thanks to the return of running back Jesse Johnson, a 5-9½, 195-pound senior who rushed for 848 yards in 158 carries last season.

Johnson is considered one of the state's premier runners. He made his mark last season by gaining over 100 yards against a tough Redford CC defense.

Sixty-eight colleges have inquired about Johnson including Notre Dame, Michigan, Florida State, Miami of Florida and Ohio State.

But Lancers are far from a one-man team as quarterback/defensive back Romond Batten (6-1½, 190) returns. Center Mike Flaviani (6-2, 225) leads an experienced line with Carl Davis heading a strong secondary.

"I think our front people can stay with anybody," said Gallagher coach George Sahadi. "But with only 28 players, we can't have injuries. If we do, we'll be in trouble.

"If we don't do it this year, we may never do it."

Gallagher's non-league schedule is no picnic — Dearborn Divine Child, Chicago DeLaSalle and Detroit DePorres.

WARREN DeLaSALLE

After 20 years at Fraser High, Ross MacDonald figured he needed a change.

He came to DeLaSalle (5-4, 1-4) after coach Ray Barr resigned.

Barr, ironically, traded places with MacDonald, moving to Fraser.

"The school (DeLaSalle) is real close to home and I knew a lot of people there. I felt at this particular time I needed a change, a rejuvenation. With the enrollment dropping (at Fraser), I didn't see the situation getting any better."

Defensive back/quarterback Mike Krasnicki is gone, but waiting in the wings is senior Jason Ahee (6-1, 165).

"Jason is a good ball-handler, we'll run the bootleg and option with him," MacDonald said. "He's the key to our team. He has a great attitude and he has a very good grasp of what we're trying to do."

All-Central Division linebacker Greg Anderson (6-1, 190) also returns. The team's most physical player, Anderson will start at fullback.

The team's most publicized player is massive tackle Mark Green (6-7, 275), who earns similar marks as former DeLaSalle all-stater and University of Michigan standout Tony Vitale.

"Mark will play more defense this season," promised MacDonald.

HARPER WDS. NOTRE DAME

The Irish (3-6, 1-4), under sixth-year coach Bob LaPointe, could pull a surprise or two this season with the return of tailback Dezjuan Reynolds (5-10, 190), a two-year starter.

"We're putting our hopes on him (Reynolds)," LaPointe said.

Tight end Sergio Gasperoni (6-3, 215) can go both ways along with center Erick Moir.

All-Central linebacker Allen Yahner also returns along with tackle Kevin Miodonski and strong safety Erick Burkheiser.

Quarterback Jeff Miller possesses a strong arm with his favorite target behind Ron Stempien.

"Rice and CC will be the two dominant teams with everybody else fighting for third, and maybe one of us three (Gallagher, DeLaSalle and Notre Dame) sneaking into second," said LaPointe.

REDFORD BISHOP BORGESS

New coach Walt Bazylewicz, 67, is no stranger to the Catholic League. He served as the league's director for over a decade.

And Bazylewicz is no stranger to success, having won six CHSL crowns.

But after a 17-year absence as a head coach, "Bazy" is nearly starting from scratch thanks to a young and inexperienced Spartan team, which lost 23 of 33 players to graduation.

Depth will be a problem for Borgess (3-6, 1-4) with only 29 players in the entire program.

The best of the 10 returning varsity players is senior tackle Dennis Parker (6-3, 215).

Tom Cole, who quarterback the JV squad last year, takes over on the varsity level.

Speedy running back Delwin Sears (5-3, 140), who runs a 4.5 in the 40-yard dash, will be the Spartans' breakaway threat after sitting out last season (ineligibility).

The Spartans suffered a big blow when senior guard Tony Mastroionni dislocated his knee.

"Football is still blocking, running and tackling," Bazylewicz said. "If you go to gimmicks, you've got to have talent."

The Spartans could be short on gimmicks and talent this season.

Practicing their dribbling skills are Canton players (left to right) Jenny Russell, Susan Ferko and Mary Barna. Russell and Ferko were regulars on the team that won the WLAA championship last year.

As the premier guard, she replaces Fortier, who averaged nine points and received a basketball scholarship to Western Michigan. But Russell has excellent athletic ability and was named the top soccer player in the state last spring.

"Jenny is one of the finest athletes we've had at Canton," Blohm said. "She's going from just a defensive player to an offensive/defensive player that can pull up and shoot the 15- to 17-foot jumper.

"WE WANT HER to drive and score or drive and pass off. Defensively, we know she's going to be just solid. She puts good pressure on the ball and understands the help concept."

Blohm added Russell is capable of averaging in double figures, too, and he would like eight to 10 points a game from her.

Thompson, a 5-7 forward, was one of the first players off the bench last year, contributing six points and four rebounds a game. But she has wrestled with a recurring back injury that caused her to miss some games last fall. Her objective is a little different than that of Ferko and Russell.

"The No. 1 goal for Stacey is to get her conditioned and playing an entire season, because she has the basketball talent," Blohm said.

"She has great intensity and plays hard, but because of her back and conditioning level she wasn't able to maintain it. So we're looking for her to stay healthy and finish strong."

Clark, a 5-10 senior who spelled Ferko last year, provides depth and added experience at the post, and 6-1 junior Shannon Murphy will lend extra support after a year on the JV. Clark's playing time will increase, according to Blohm, who wants her to score more around the basket.

"CLARK SPENT a solid year in apprenticeship under Ferko," Blohm said. "Her minutes were limited, but she got a lot of experience working in that area every day with Ferko and Jones."

Halliday, a 5-7 senior, has good basketball skills and comes from a solid program that won the Utah state championship when she was a sophomore, Blohm said.

"We look for her to add to the Canton program," he said.

Other players who will help at the perimeter positions are juniors Mary Barna (5-5), Kris Ford (5-3) and Julie Toma (5-8), all of whom were instrumental in the JV team's success.

The Chiefs hope to be there at the end of the season again, and they'd like to add a district title — something Canton hasn't done. The Chiefs were upset by Plymouth Salem in the district final last year.

"Our No. 1 goal is to challenge for the division and conference," Blohm said. "Our next goal is to see how much we can improve from Game 1 to Game 20. The reason we play a 20-game schedule is to give the kids an opportunity to grow and develop throughout the year."

Rocks start season with 0-3 mark

The schedule-maker gave Plymouth Salem a head start on most of the teams in Michigan, but the Rocks have taken three steps backward.

Salem fell to 0-3 Tuesday, losing at home to Flint Powers Catholic, 44-27.

The Rocks opened the season last weekend (a week earlier than most teams) losing a pair of games at the Traverse City High Invitational.

Sarah Ruete has been the early-season scoring star for the Rocks. On Tuesday, Ruete led Salem with 11 points, but Sarah Willyerd and Julie Angle combined for 28 to lead Powers to the non-conference win.

POWERS MADE 13 of 24 free throws, and Salem went to the line only 11 times, converting two. Willyerd's 15 points led Powers and Angle poured in 13.

The Rocks are trying to adjust to playing without all-state point guard Jill Estey, now playing for the University of Illinois.

"We're a very young ballclub with a ways to go," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "We're making progress, though."

Salem opened the season Friday in Traverse City, dropping a 57-35 game to Ludington. Ruete led all Rocks scorers with nine points, and freshman Yolanda Jackson, an all-tournament selection, scored six. Sophomore Emily Giuliani also scored six for the Rocks.

SALEM CAME up with a gutsy performance Saturday against Traverse City, losing to the host Trojans 38-34.

Mercy expects return to prominence in '89

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

basketball

Basketball is back at Farmington Hills Mercy.

The Marlins never left the sport, but preseason forecasts have Mercy rebounding from a 9-13 season.

Some teams would be content with that record, but it was considered a sub-par showing for the Marlins, who have built a solid program and reputation for excellence under veteran coach Larry Baker.

With three starters returning and a host of talented underclassmen lending support, Mercy anticipates a season more like it's accustomed to having.

"It was a tough year more than a down year," said Baker of 1988, recalling the Marlins began 0-6 against some of the best teams in the state. "We had a big-time schedule and played that schedule with inexperienced players.

"We expect the juniors and sophomores we've got to provide a foundation for us to move on to bigger and better things.

"THIS TEAM has the makings of being a prototypical Mercy team," he added. "We can run and play defense and, if all goes well, we'll score a little, too."

The heart of this year's team will be seniors and returning starters Jenny Clinton, Joanne Stephens and Lee Albrecht. In addition, each one plays a different position, giving Mercy a veteran at guard, wing and post, respectively.

"Last year there was an awful lot of pressure on the juniors to produce," Baker said. "This year they won't have to play as many minutes, and we've upgraded the other positions so they can play within themselves and not feel they have to do as much."

The 5-foot-5 Clinton, selected one of the top 10 players at Western Michigan's summer camp, begins her third year as the starting point guard and is drawing attention from Division I schools. She averaged 8½ points, four assists and 2½ steals and has expanded her game, according to Baker.

Clinton, who went from being a role player as a sophomore to the one expected to do it all last year, is fourth among Mercy's all-time assist leaders. She has 179 and trails Annette Ruggierio (299), Denise Basford and Yvette Maison.

"She has become a consummate ballplayer," Baker said. "She can score, she can pass and she's one of the best defensive players I've ever coached. She has developed her skill level in all phases of the game."

'This is definitely a traditional Mercy team in terms of what we're going to try and do on the court. I think we're going to be a little stronger and competitive for having taken some hard knocks last season.'
— Larry Baker
Mercy cage coach

THE 5-9 STEPHENS was trying to determine where she fit in last year after transferring from Detroit Country Day, but she still led the Marlins in scoring (10.6 points per game) and averaged nearly six rebounds.

"She didn't want to step on any toes and had to learn her role" last season and sometimes shied away from shooting, Baker said. "But I'm counting on her to know she has my confidence in her scoring ability."

Albrecht, a 5-11 force in the middle, averaged 8½ points and was the top rebounder with 7½ a game, and Baker looks for improved play from her, too, after making the Sweet Sixteen list at WMU's inside camp.

"She's improved her foot work inside," Baker said. "She's always been an aggressive banger, but now she's acquired some finesse around the basket."

Albrecht has some competition at the post position and will get backup help from 6-foot sophomore Laure DeMattia, a cousin of the DeMattias who played for Baker in past years. She held her own against some of the best centers in the state this summer, Baker said.

DeMattia is part of the excellent depth the Marlins have this year. The JV and freshman teams were undefeated last fall, and many of those JV players got varsity playing time in the rotation system Baker used.

JV COACH MIKE King, who begins his 11th season in that position, has played a large role in molding the Mercy talent over the years, boasts a career record of 156-22.

"Fortunately, this team is already marked by its depth," Baker said.

Carrie Walton, a 5-9 junior who played in 17 varsity games a year ago and started several, is expected to start at the off-guard position.

Kathleen Gerigk, a 5-3 junior, was the point guard on the JV team and will be the first guard off the bench in relief of Stephens or Walton. Kathleen Berrigan, a 5-4 sophomore, played the same position on the freshman squad and back up Clinton.

Susie Atchinson, a 5-6 junior, may be the team's best shooting guard and scored 16 points in one of the two district tournament games she started. Heather Sullivan, a 5-4 junior, is a defensive specialist who appeared in 15 varsity games.

Baker pondered the idea of playing Albrecht and DeMattia simultaneously but has opted for a smaller, quicker lineup, and the power forward will be one of three 5-8 juniors — Maureen Paulin, Kim Reichard or Judi Rosowski. Paulin had the edge on the starting job, but an injury has set her back, Baker said.

"(THE THREE players) are not exactly interchangable parts," Baker said. "They have different strengths and weaknesses, but I'm telling all 12 kids they have something to contribute.

"And, if I can coach at all, I should be able to take advantage of their strengths in game situations. We're blessed with some genuine athletes."

The Marlins, who were 5-5 and tied for third place in the Central Division, open the season tonight at home against Saginaw Nouvel and expect to contend with Birmingham Marian and Livonia Ladywood in the Catholic League.

Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher has been dropped from the Central Division, however, and Mercy has added non-league opponents Flint Southwestern and Marysville in its place.

"This is definitely a traditional Mercy team in terms of what we're going to try and do on the court," Baker said. "I think we're going to be a little stronger and competitive for having taken some hard knocks last season."

Myrna Partrich

A helpful program for beginning joggers

Dear Myrna: I would like to start running. Could you please give me a program to get started. I'm in decent shape for 24 years old. I'm more interested in the aerobic benefit. I don't care how fast, I just need the timing. P.S. I am a woman.

You sound very sensible about running.

Some people want to run marathons after less than six months of running. These people, of course, never made sense to me. Your health is where it's at and you have the right idea. I am going to refer to the 'New York Road Runners Club Beginner's Program.'

The program was developed by Bob Glover 10 years ago. Each week, you will run a little further. At the end of 10 weeks, you'll be able to complete 20 minutes of continuous running. This is the safest way to get started and I feel confident recommending this program.

The walk/run format helps prevent the pain or injury which may occur if you push your body beyond what your bones and muscles can handle. Your cardiovascular system will adapt to these workouts faster and easier than your musculoskeletal system.

You might feel as if you can run further, but wait until your body is ready. Feeling refreshed and being able to run a greater distance at the end of each walk/run will build confidence and make you look forward to the next workout.

Here is the program:

- Week 1: Run one minute; walk two minutes. Repeat five times, then run one minute. Total running time — seven minutes.
- Week 2: Run one minute; walk one minute. Repeat nine times. Total running time — 10 minutes.
- Week 3: Run two minutes; walk one minute. Repeat five times, then run two minutes. Total running time — 14 minutes.
- Week 4: Run three minutes; walk one minute. Repeat four times. Total running time — 15 minutes.
- Week 5: Run four minutes; walk one minute. Repeat three times. Total running time — 16 minutes.
- Week 6: Run five minutes; walk one minute. Repeat twice, then run two minutes. Total running time — 17 minutes.
- Week 7: Run six minutes; walk one minute. Repeat twice. Total running time — 18 minutes.
- Week 8: Run eight minutes; walk one minute. Repeat once, then run two minutes. Total running time — 18 minutes.
- Week 9: Run 10 minutes; walk one minute. Repeat once. Total running time — 20 minutes.
- Week 10: Run 20 minutes continuously.

Remember to warm-up before and cool-down after your run/walk session. For a warm-up, try walking in place briskly for around eight minutes, then stretch out legs and lower back.

Your cool-down can be just stretching, but deeper than your warm-up stretches. Ask someone to show you a series of good stretches which are easy and not too time consuming. This will add to your flexibility.

Have fun and get out there while the weather permits.

Bear controversy revisited

Bill Parker

CONTROVERSY SURROUNDING black bear hunting in Michigan heated up again this week as Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Thomas Brown issued an injunction against new regulations approved recently by the Natural Resource Commission.

With the September 10th deadline to purchase a bear license just around the corner, bear hunters are now left wondering if the NRC's regulations will be enforced for the upcoming season — beginning Sept. 10 in the Upper Penninsula and Sept. 22 in the northern Lower Penninsula — or if things will remain as they have been in past years.

"The main reason (the NRC approved the regulations) is to eliminate hunter conflicts and and also to address some of the concerns of hunters and land owners," explained Rochester's Bill Walker, vice president of the Michigan Bear Hunters Association. "The real problem is that the popularity of the sport has increased 50 percent since 1985. In '85 there were 8,000 bear hunters in Michigan. Last year there were 12,000. With so many hunters, they are even starting to put quotas (on the number of licenses issued) in some areas."

EARLIER THIS YEAR, the NRC approved several new regulations, many aimed at regulating the commercialization of the sport through professional guide services.

Some of those new regulations include: limiting the number of bait piles a guide can put out to three per hunter and no more than six on land open to public hunting; prohibiting guides from starting business until Sept. 20 in the Upper Penninsula and Sept. 25 in the Lower Penninsula; forcing guides to register before Sept. 10, the deadline to purchase a license; prohibiting those who are not Michigan residents to become guides.

Bear hunting guides were outraged about the new regulations and sued the state, forcing Brown to issue the injunction. Now hunters must wait for the outcome while the courts gather and examine all the "bear" facts.

THE NRC also passed new regulations on the use of dogs while bear hunting. Some of those regulations include: no night training of dogs; no non-resident dog training; no dog training five days before the season; limiting the number of dogs used in training to eight; and requiring those people training dogs to possess a bear hunting license.

"There is almost a natural conflict between bait and dog hunters in that sometimes innocent things happen where one (style of hunting) interferes with the other," Walker said. "For instance, dogs may pick up a (bear scent) and run right through someone's (bait) pile after that person has been sitting (at he pile) for hours. On the other hand, dogs may run a bear and the bear runs into a (bait) pile and that hunter shoots him. Either way, someone gets upset."

According to Walker, the regulations were intended to alleviate some of these problems.

The current bear herd in Michigan stands between 10 and 20 thousand, depending on who you talk to. Last year, hunters harvested close to 1,500 black bear in Michigan.

"I think commercialization (of bear hunting) has seen its' day," added Walker. "I think the whole state will eventually go to a lotery system to issue licenses."

Hoffman assists Detroit cagers

basketball

Detroit finished third in the International Invitational Maccabi Games held recently in Pittsburgh.

The Detroit team, composed mainly of players from The Observer & Eccentric coverage area, played six basketball games in three days. Detroit went 4-2 in the nine-team tourney, defeating a team from Chicago, 85-75, to wrap up the bronze medal.

"We've become very competitive over the past four years," said Detroit coach Burt Hurshe, a Brighton resident who previously coached in both the Birmingham and Southfield school systems. "I thought it was great competition. ...four of the teams were very competitive."

Detroit opened the tourney with a 68-43 victory over Toronto as Scott Zack (West Bloomfield) and Joe Hurshe (Brighton) combined for 26 points. In its next game, Detroit routed Cleveland, 83-40. Vaughn Swartz (Ann Arbor Huron) scored a team-high 20 points. Hurshe added 14 and Adam Shapiro (Bloomfield Hills Andover) scored 10.

Detroit suffered its first loss in the next game against New Jersey, the eventual gold medalists. Despite a flurry of four consecutive 3-point shots by Hurshe in the third quarter, Detroit fell, 79-71. Swartz scored 13 points and Matt Hoffman (North Farmington) scored 10.

THE DETROIT team got back on track in its fourth game against the host Pittsburgh squad, winning 78-52 to wrap up a spot in the medal round. Hurshe, for the second straight game, was the leading team scorer with 18 points. Hoffman scored 13 points and Jeff Rosenberg (Bloomfield Hills Andover) totaled 13.

In its first medal-round game, Miami topped Detroit by two points, 64-62. Detroit trailed by five points with seven seconds left, but Hurshe hit a 3-point shot to cut the margin to two. The Detroit squad then forced a turnover, but missed a 3-point attempt at the buzzer.

"We had a halftime lead and a lead in the third quarter," said Hurshe. "But we seemed to lose a little intensity. It was an incredible game."

Zack and Hurshe led Detroit in scoring against Miami with 21 and 17 points, respectively.

Detroit had a very balanced attack in earning its bronze medal against Chicago. Swartz and Rosenberg each scored 18 points, followed by Zack (15), Hurshe (13), Hoffman (9) and Shapiro (8).

"That was our best game of the tournament," said Hurshe. "It was a very well-played game. We got up by 17 points, but they came back to within five points and we managed to hang on."

Dave Bellenson (West Bloomfield), Greg Olshansky (Bloomfield Hills Andover), Johhn Rosenbaum (Southfield Lathrup), Matt Frankel (Birmingham Seaholm), Brian Winchell (West Bloomfield) and Darren Rosenberg (Bloomfield Hills Andover) were other team members. Doug Hoffman was an assistant coach.

The Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield will host the 1990 games, slated to begin Aug. 19.

Mary Rose DuPrie, shown using a router in her workshop, says buying tools is much more fun than buying clothes or shoes.

Skilled carpenter/artist builds a booming career

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

WHO'D HAVE THOUGHT that Mary Rose DuPrie, growing up in Garden City, a true tomboy in a family of three brothers, would someday be one of the hot young, furniture designers in the metropolitan area?

Not Mary Rose, that's for sure. She never even had an art class until she was 25. Of course, once she had that first taste, there was no stopping her.

"My background interest is architecture and fine art," she said in the well-equipped workshop of her Bloomfield Hills home. "I took every art class imaginable and I loved it all."

Her quest for art courses took her to Oakland Community College, Wayne State University, Center for Creative Studies and finally for hands-on carpentry to adult education classes at Berkshire Middle School and Ferndale High School. Name it, she's had it. She worked for Futura Custom Kitchens for six years and still does part-time.

It was the carpentry classes that turned her life around, "Until I took the class at Berkshire Middle School (Birmingham school district), I had never worked with a drill or anything. I loved that class, it was all hands-on. Then, I took the class at Ferndale. The air tools we used there were geared more for me."

THE ELEGANT JEWELRY boxes, price range $650-$1,600, which she builds to order incorporate all of her wide ranging of skills. She began to make them when she couldn't find one for herself.

"I build everything on them, everything you see," she said. The drawers are lined in velvet. The cabinets are 19 inches wide by 12 inches deep. Radius cabinets are 25 inches wide. The customer can choose the number and depth of drawers and black or gray velvet lining.

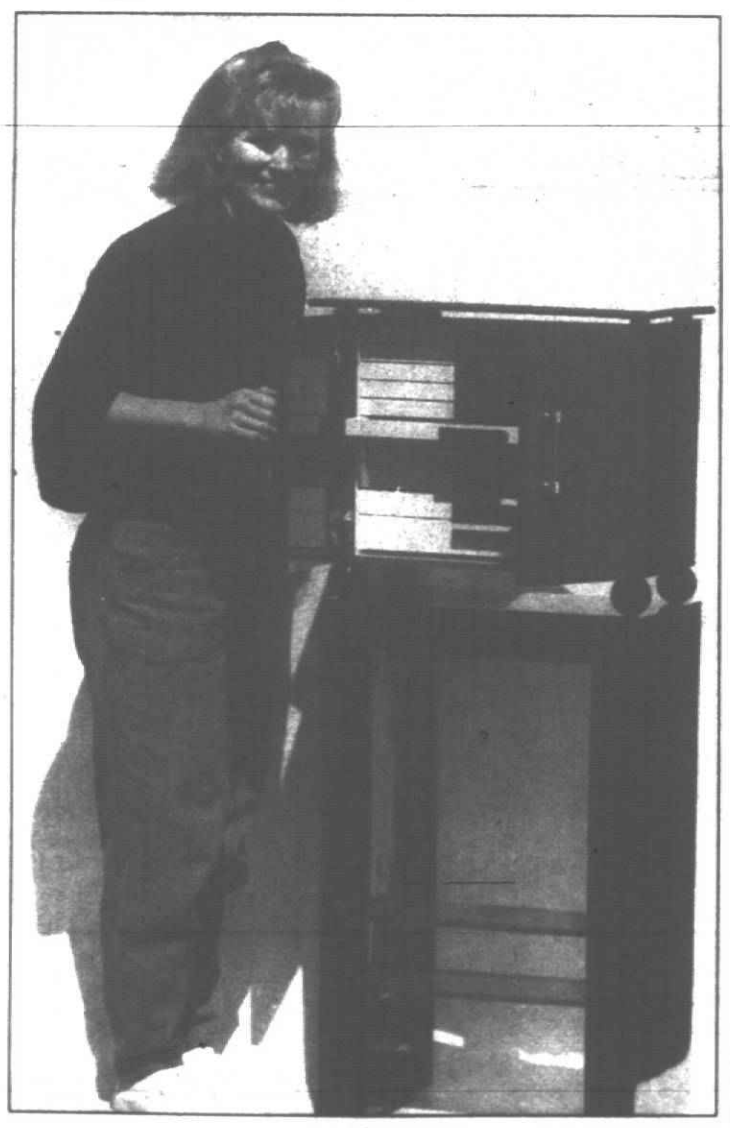
DuPrie cuts the tops from half-inch Avonite, an expensive, but durable material that comes in many colors and finishes. After she completes the long, tedious steps of polishing and buffing, the Avonite has the look of marble. The sides are laminate in a variety of colors or are done in other custom treatments such as wood veneer which she is just now getting into. There is a choice of four counter top edges — bullnose, square, bevel or stepped. She makes the tables to match.

"The design concept it totally unique," she said, "I didn't steal anything." She smiled and added, "I've replaced my shoes and clothes buying impulses with buying tools — there's always another tool. I'm just so amazed I do it, but it's a lot of work."

BACK ORDERS are such that she's in her workshop about 10 hours a day. But, the response she's had from the public from the shows she does and the lifestyle she's building for herself make those long hours infinitely worthwhile. And besides, her father, Neal DuPrie of Garden City, is so proud of her.

She remembers that she used to apply to be in art shows and occasionally get rejected. Now she gets invited. She will be one of 70 artists in "Art on the Green" in Franklin Village which is part of the Labor Day Round-Up. She will be one of the featured guests at a trunk showing at Roz and Sherm's of Bloomfield Township in October.

She described her successes of the past year and said with an engaging, smile, "I'm just amazed."



Mary Rose DuPrie opens the door of a jewelry box she just finished. It is teal and black laminate with matching table.

Franklin throws party

The 45th annual Labor Day Round-Up in Franklin Village will feature 74 artists and artisans in "Art on the Green," a horse show, a midway and food.

Mary Rose DuPrie will be showing her custom made jewelry cabinets in a variety of colors and styles. Other artists will show their with pottery, ceramics, photography, baskets, weaving, watercolors, woodcarvings, bronze and brass sculpture and blown glass.

"Art on the Green" sweatshirts and T-shirts will be available. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. No admission charge.

Chairs — art vs. function

By Joan Boram
special writer

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Phillipe Starck named his chair designs after his friends. Above is Ed Archer which has the designer's trademark fin in the back. Below is Costas, whose good looks are the seat of its attraction.

Sitting isn't a scholarly subject. Anthropologists may squabble over bones and shards and ashes of ancient fires, but they never quibble over who sat down first.

And even the most ethnocentric group never claims that one of their own invented sitting.

It's safe to say, however, that the first man who stood upright for any length of time wanted to take a load off his feet, and sat down.

Could chairs have been far behind?

Ape, fish, or angel, when our progenitor developed a backside that sat on a log and leaned against a tree, the chair was invented.

Period. Form followed function.

That's what you think.

Claudia F. Brownlie recently hosted a special showing of "cutting edge" furniture in her Michigan Design Center showroom. The chairs were presented by Interna Designs of Chicago, an importer and licensee manufacturer of contemporary furniture. Included in the exhibit were several new models by internationally renowned designers Phillipe Starck and Richard Penney.

Starck is an architect, whose short squat chairs have a strong architectural quality reminiscent of the tall, skinny chairs of Charles Rennie Mackintosh, also an architect.

Like Mackintosh's chairs they are stark black. Each man also frequently designed for restaurants. But where the Scotsman's designs were Nouveau/Deco, the Frenchman's are vaguely surreal - a soupcon of Rene Magritte. In some instances, they are better looked at than sat on.

The first designs that earned Starck important attention were for a Paris cafe. The chairs for that commission were named "Costas," (Starck names his furniture designs after friends). Like all of Starck's designs, Costas is smaller than most people we know.

The cafe must have served nouvelle cuisine - much more than two string beans and a lamb chop and you just wouldn't fit the furniture.

According to Bruce Reinhart, spokesman for Interna Designs, "Comfort, as well as beauty, is in the eye of the beholder. There is a term, perceived ergonomics, meaning that a piece has to look receptive and warm. (Loosely translated, "ergonomics" means a chair doesn't make your back ache.)

"Some of Starck's chairs, Costas being one of them, are very uncomfortable, but they look inviting, so people are attracted to them."

Sure enough, even as he spoke, a young woman sat on the half-barrel-shaped chair. She leaned back, she looked surprised, she squirmed, trying to isolate the comfort she had perceived. Then she got up. But she looked uneasy and a little guilty. Why wasn't Costas comfortable? Had she done something wrong?

Why would anyone want an uncomfortable chair for a cafe? Maybe for the same reason they paint fast food restaurants orange - people eat fast and get out.

"Ed Archer," another Starck design, sports a Starck trademark, an aluminum fin instead of back legs.

"Ed Archer was also designed for a restaurant," said Reinhart. "The fin made it easier for waiters to approach the table, they didn't have to avoid the back legs of traditionally designed chairs."

These chairs have no sides and are less restricting than "Costas."

As Brownlie put it, "You can just ooze over the sides."

A prolific designer, Starck works for leading manufacturers worldwide. He designs furniture for Spanish, Italian, French and Japanese companies. Other projects include boats, luggage, china, vases, computers, fabrics and pasta. In his role as architect, he has buildings in the United States, France, and Japan.

Starck's designs are not generic; they are calculated to fit a specific environment and are seldom adaptable to another milieu.

AMERICAN INDUSTRIAL DESIGNER Richard Penney and his "Next" chair represent the opposite of Starck's design methodology. Starck's furniture is often derived from sketches that he made as a child. Penney spent a year and a half designing "Next."

After making a thorough study of the evolution of chair design and surveying everything available on the current market, Penney decided that anything that could be done has been. Then he designed "Next."

"Next" doesn't exactly radiate perceived ergonomics. People tend to walk right past it. But it is very comfortable and has been a great commercial success. Unlike Starck's chairs, "Next" isn't site-specific, it is adaptable to any situation.

"A New York restaurant has 200 of these chairs," said Reinhart, "and it is widely used in offices. There are many "Nexts" in residential situations as well."

In appearance, "Next" is best described as utilitarian. It has four wooden legs, a padded seat that rests on an exposed wooden platform and a gracefully curved back with four decorative open squiggles in the lower half.

"The curve of the back was both a visual nicety and an ergonomic necessity" said Rinehart. "But he found the same back in a Chinese chair from the Ming Dynasty (1368-1644). It proved his theory that, chair-wise, there's nothing new under the sun."

These chairs and others in the collection, are available through Claudia F. Brownlie & Co. For information, call 649-4775.

Orchestra going home in style

Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall plans a festive homecoming parade 12:30-2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 15, to symbolize the orchestra's move from Ford Auditorium to its new home, Orchestra Hall.

Floats, marching bands, cheerleaders, clowns and dignitaries will join members of the orchestra in a procession north on Woodward Avenue to Orchestra Hall, where the orchestra will perform a short concert in front of the hall.

During the 1940s Orchestra Hall, under the name of Paradise Theatre, was the site of performances by the finest jazz and vaudeville artists in the country.

A GALA concert, "A Salute to Paradise Theatre," will celebrate that great heritage at 8 p.m. Sept. 15 at Orchestra Hall.

A special appearance by dancer/actor Gregory Hines will headline the event, which will feature the Detroit Symphony Orchestra conducted by Mitch Miller.

Joining Maestro Miller and the orchestra will be soprano Gail Nelson, performing songs by George Gershwin and Harold Arlen, and The Sultans, Detroit tap-dance legends, who will dance to the music of Duke Ellington.

There will be reminiscences on the Paradise Theatre days and a display of memorabilia from the old Paradise Theatre, including items discovered during this summer's restoration of Orchestra Hall.

MILLER, KNOWN to most of America from his "Sing Along With Mitch" albums and television appearances, is a classically trained musician who has spent the last several years appearing as guest conductor with orchestras across the country.

As a young oboist just graduated from the Eastman School of Music in 1934, he toured the country with Gershwin and the George Gershwin Orchestra.

In 1935 he played in the orchestra of the original production of "Porgy and Bess." During this time, he studied the remarks and performances of Gershwin. The skills he learned make Miller one of today's finest interpreters of works by Gershwin and

Sand sculptures honor Great Oz

Dorothy, Toto, the Tin Man, the Scarecrow and the Cowardly Lion are coming to Twelve Oaks Mall.

They're coming from a giant sandbox filled with 70 tons of sand, and they're going — where else? — to the Wizard of Oz.

The Wizard of Oz favorites will be part of a massive life-sized sand sculpture that will take three full weeks to build in Twelve Oaks' Center Court. Artisans from Sand Sculptors International, holders of all current world sand sculpture records, will carve the display as center onlookers watch.

Sculpting in the giant Center Court sandbox began Aug. 23 and will run through Sept. 10.

"We're hoping people will come every day and watch as the sculpture takes shape," said Philip Morosco, Twelve Oaks general manager. "Half the fun is watching it being built. This is something that has never been done before in this area."

The total sculpture will cover an area 35 feet long and 16 feet wide.

THE WITCH'S CASTLE will stand 12 feet high and cover about 108 square feet.

The Emerald City of Oz opposite the castle will cover about the same area but will stand 15 feet high.

Both will be three-dimensional and detailed on all visible sides. Sand sculpture artists will use foreshortening techniques to give the illusion that both buildings are off in the distance.

Between the two buildings, life-size sculptures of the Oz characters will skip, arm-in-arm, through a field of flowers.

"Remember how Dorothy clicked her heels together and said, 'There's no place like home'?" Morosco said. "We think that after seeing this phenomenal project and visiting our unique stores, visitors will agree that there's no place like Twelve Oaks, either."

The sculpture will be principally designed and sculpted by Todd Vander Pluym, who has been creating sand sculptures around the world for more than 40 years.

What makes the sand hold together? The same thing that works on the beach . . . water. The sculptors use sand that is rich in grit and clay. They mix the sand with water and add it bit by bit to the sculpture as they work.

Since the Oz sand sculpture will remain in Center Court through the end of October, that may mean that Dorothy never gets home to Aunt Em.

Nelson is equally at home on the Broadway stage, the opera house and night clubs. She has performed in top Broadway musicals and with symphony orchestras across the United States, and was warmly received by Detroit audiences when she sang the songs of Gershwin on the DSO's Weekender Pops Series last season.

FOR DECADES, the members of The Sultans have tap-danced everywhere from Broadway to Detroit's Paradise Valley, sharing the stage with Bill "Bojangles" Robinson, Fats Waller, Dizzy Gillespie and many other great artists of the jazz and vaudeville circuit.

Co-founder Lloyd Storey started out in the chorus of the Apollo Theater in the 1930s after his family moved from Detroit to New York. He formed The Sultans in the late 1950s with Fletcher "Bones" Hollingsworth, and they were later joined by Sherman Bush and Frank Colvard.

Continuing the grand tradition of the vaudeville era, Storey and Colvard join in the tribute to Paradise Theatre along with Amani Henry, a 6-year-old student of Storey.

Evening historic church tour offered

Church history buffs who who are unable to attend the First Monday of the Month Historic Church Tours will be offered a special evening tour scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 20. The Detroit Historical Museum's Historymobile will leave the museum at 5:30 p.m. and return around 10:30 p.m. after visiting All Saints Russian, St. John-St. Luke, St. Joseph and St. Mary churches. The $18 ticket price for DHS members ($20 for non-members) includes a church supper.

Advance reservations are required. To register, send your check to the Detroit Historical Society, 5401 Woodward Avenue, Detroit 48202 with your name, address and daytime telephone number.

The historic church tours are presented to acquaint metropolitan residents with the history of these parishes, the arrival and movement of early Detroiters, their contribution to the cultural and religious life of the area and to focus attention on the importance of maintaining and preserving these buildings as visible history.

Contemporary, classic blend at Homearama

AMID MODERN innovations in home convenience and technology, there are equal innovations in classic architectural design — including Cotswold Tudors, Georgian Colonials and reproductions of local mansions — at this year's Homearama in Oakland Township.

Located on spacious lots with an expansive hilltop view in the Hills of Oakland subdivision, Homearama opens to the public on Aug. 31 and runs daily until Sept. 24.

Although every home offers the latest features in home conveniences, visitors will also marvel at the workmanship and attention to detail reminiscent of the past, with custom woodwork and crown mouldings, beamed ceilings, as well as a generous use of brick, marble, cedar, fieldstone, and other natural materials in this year's showcase of 10 fabulous homes.

THERE ARE HINTS of very classic designs in each home, revealed not only in the names but in the descriptions selected by the builders.

- "The Meadowbrook" by Capitol Homes Inc.,
- "Heirloom" by Koch Development,
- "Bayview" by Palazzolo Brothers Construction Co., a traditional colonial,
- "Jacquelynn Maria," by F & M Construction, a classical tradit onal,
- "The Francesco" by Moceri/Ferro, a classical contemporary,
- "The Stonecrest" by Hunters Creek Homes, a tradit ional split colonial,
- "Graystone Manor," by Damascus Development Corp., a Cotswold Tudor,
- "The Barclay," by Robert R. Jones Associates, a Savannah North style, and
- "The Jeffersonian," by Kellett & Saylor, historical Georgian.

But there is nothing conventiona or old-fashioned about design. Trendsetting innovations in design are visible throughout Homearama.

For instance. An octagon garden room off the great room in F & M Construction's "Jacquelynn Maria" also provides access to the kitchen and to a circular staircase with vaulted ceilings that leads to a balcony off the master bedroom.

"THE BARCLAY," the Savannah North style home of Robert R. Jones Associates, has a great room with a circular, two-story walk-in bay window and a traditional marble fireplace with floor to ceiling pilasters.

In the "Jeffersonian" by Kellett & Saylor, an elegant gathering room, three steps down from the rest of the house has ample space for entertaining on a grand scale.

Spectacular design elements are featured in the exterior of the "Heirloom" by Koch Development, including 12-foot front doors in a beautifully arched, tiered, brick entry with stone surround.

The master bedroom suite allows the home builder to create a mood of privacy and relaxation for the homeowner. Custom-domed cathedral ceilings are highlighted in the "Meadowbrook" by Capitol Homes Inc., and a vaulted gazebo ceiling, 16-feet high in Damascus Development's "Graystone Manor."

THE "BROOKSHIRE," by Oliver Homes, has a master bedroom with a pan ceiling, walk-in double closets, whirlpool and double sinks, marble floors, counter and shower. And a first-floor master suite in "The Stonecrest," by Hunters Creek Homes inc., features a beamed cathedral ceiling, skylights, french doors to a private cedar deck and a double shower.

Bonus rooms in homes give home owners options. The double step-down master bedroom suite in the "Bayview" has a 21-foot-by-7-foot closet leading to a potential studio or office over the garage.

In the "Francesco," by Moceri/Ferro, the foyer opens into an expansive walkout (lower level) with entertainment center, billiards and walk behind bar.

Fine examples of innovations can be seen in the kitchens of Homearama, the center of activity in every home, regardless of the owner's lifestyle. Each kitchen features the very latest in creative design and built-in convenience.

Looking beyond the modern kitchens, innovation is at its best in "Graystone Manor," where a media room replaces the predictable living on the first floor, offering the home owner a theater screen and surround sound.

Easy steps to keep home safe, secure

Don't leave your home vulnerable to hazards, fire and burglary. Protecting that haven against accident and intruders is not a complex task. But it does take some planning.

The more elementary provisioning requires a first-aid kit, a store-house of canned and dried foods and water, flashlights, batteries, candles and matches, a fire extinguisher and a list of emergency phone numbers.

Beyond that, you should have smoke alarms on each floor. Black & Decker's new model features a reset button. Awake n' Escape by Advanced Products can be mounted on walls or detached to double as a flashlight.

BURGLAR-PROOF YOUR house with lockable windows, deadbolts and programmable automatic timer switches for lighting, teevis or sets and radio. You don't have to buy individual timers for each room. Radio Shack's central system allows for remote control and can be programmed for variable on/off cycles.

If you're going out of town, make arrangements to have the mail and newspapers picked up. Local police will inspect your house for security at no charge, making suggestions for improvements.

Comprehensive high-tech security systems can cost $3,000 or more.

Adult Communities

Sharing a common bond is cornerstone

In COLONIAL Acres adult community in South Lyon, Centaur Contractors Inc. have what they believe is the wave of the future for housing. We're going after the adult market," said Edward S. Tompkins, a partner with Jim Pelky, in Centaur: "People over 55 with no children, or children over 17. Part of what we're selling is the lifestyle - the community itself."

People at Colonial Acres share a common bond. They've moved out of houses they've lived in for 20 or 30 years. Some of them even lived in the same Livonia or Farmington Hills neighborhoods, or thereabouts, or worked at the same companies, but never had the time or the opportunity to develop any friendships.

"What we've found," said Tompkins, "is that they're rediscovering each other since moving there."

This well developed sense of community with neighbors looking out for one another has helped make the initial phase of Colonial Acres sell-outs. Pelky and Tompkins have already begun building more units at the $100-million project in the Pontiac Trail - Ten Mile Road area.

COLONIAL NOW HAS ABOUT 450 units on 52 acres in phases one through four. Phase five will add another 594 units on 87 additional acres for a total of 1,044 with a projected completion date of 1993.

The acreage is wooded and has several man-made ponds that tapped into natural underground springs. One of the ponds will be stocked for fishing, and another will have a beach for swimming. There are two clubhouses, the newest one in phase 5 with a swimming pool. One and two bedroom units are attached in groups of six or eight. The newer units have lower level walk-out patios.

Enclosing a wood deck into a porch is one of the buyer's many options. It adds another 120 square feet to the overall 1,800 square feet of the unit. Base price for the walkouts is $69,900.

TO SHOW WHAT OPTIONS are available, the model for phase 5 is loaded with options.

The units have California style walled courtyard entrances. A good-sized dining area is at the far end of the living room. The kitchens feature a breakfast bar pass-through to the living-dining room.

One of the standard features at Colonial Acres is hot water baseboard heating systems. "It's more expensive, but more effective," Tompkins said.

Centaur has an in-house service department to handle all maintenance problems. The fee at Colonial Acres is $135 per month and includes insurance, boiler, hot water heater repair and/or replacement, land lease costs as well as snow removal, exterior painting, lawn and shrub care. "Unlike other developers, we don't leave the development when it's finished," Pelky said. "We're here and very accessible." For more information about the development, call 437-8193.

Kitchens in Colonial Acres have a breakfast bar pass-through to the living-dining room area. End units have windows, but inner units feature skylights to compensate for the lost window. Enjoying a coffee break is Rosalie Webb, Gov. James Blanchard's mother, with her husband, Baxter. The couple have been residents since 1984.

The photo to the left is a view of a finished basement leading to an enclosed walkout porch. Both are options offered by Centaur Contractors Inc.

Moving out to Colonial Acres was like Old Home Week for Frank Ross (right) and Peter Schmidt. Both retired about 10 years ago from the same tool and engineering company in Southfield. They hadn't seen each other again until recently when they discovered they each lived in the same development and were now neighbors. With them are their wives, Amy Ross (left) and Maria Schmidt.

Back again with 'show of homes'

First Federal of Michigan is once again a lender-sponsor of Homearama and will have loan officers staffing an information booth in the exhibit pavilion throughout the show.

First Federal provided funds for all development in the subdivision and financed several of the model homes, which range in value from $375,000 to $675,000.

As one of Michigan's largest providers of home mortgages, we believe it's most appropriate — and a real privilege — to work with the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan on this project," said Ronald A. Sinclair, First Federal's executive vice president for lending, in announcing his company's participation for the fourth year.

Discount coupons for admission to Homearama Monday through Friday, will be available at all First Federal offices.

New home construction benefits everyone

WHEN NEW homes are built in a community, the home building industry benefits. But home builders are only the tip of the iceberg. Countless individuals benefit throughout the local community and the entire country for every home that is built.

According to James S. Bonadeo, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM), a typical house contains more than 3,000 components. If you take a simple item, like a piece of wood, think about all the people who were responsible for getting it to your home," he explains.

Someone cuts the tree. A driver transports it to the mill, where a worker makes it into a building product. The finished product must be transported [illegible] to a material distributor, who sells it to a builder or subcontractor who installs it in the home.

Now consider the long chain of people involved in the 3,000 components Bonadeo notes, such as the people working in concrete, windows, nails, screws, appliances, carpeting, drywall, paint, insulation, roofing, bricks, and many other items. You will get an idea of how many people benefit just from the structure of the house."

BUT A HOUSE IS more than just a structure. It's also a collection of services. Bankers are employed to make loans on new homes, as well as existing homes which are sold when someone purchases a new home.

Appraisers are needed to [illegible] value. Attorneys and clerks [illegible] employees of the companies research responsibility, prepare financial calculations, people in insurance companies sell and process [illegible] when a mortgage is granted, policies.

The government employs many people who are affected by new home construction. Employees are needed to issue building permits and to perform code inspections to ensure that your home will be safe. In addition, property taxes are collected to fund schools, other local facilities and community services.

If you consider the indirect employment from building a house, the impact increases even more," says Bonadeo. Home buyers who buy new homes often purchase new furniture, draperies, appliances, lawnmowers and a wide variety of other items. Also many new home buyers change their route to work, which may necessitate the purchase of an automobile. All of these items are manufactured, transported, and sold, providing employment for numerous people.

Finally, new home owners provides a personal resource to their community. They may join the PTA, become members of the local community group, attend local sporting events and run for public office. And when they do," Bonadeo concludes, "their personal contributions and commitments become essential to the community's growth and quality of life."

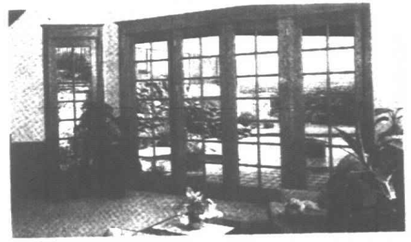
ADVERTISMENT



Residential Window Film

WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT

Solar window films were originally designed for heat and glare control and, in many cases, the use of such an application meant comfort and energy savings.

Today, consumers are spending more and more time in the home and investing great amounts of money in furnishings. To protect the furniture, carpeting, art objects, etc., they are utilizing window film, which absorbs nearly all of the sun's damaging ultraviolet rays that damage the home's interior.

Window film has been designed and refined to such a point of sophistication that it is practically invisible. In fact, the fade protection of the film neither alters the appearance of a window visibility, nor distorts the original clear view.

Tinted windows, contrary to belief, do not have to be dark to be effective. In fact, the newest of films offer high visibility and high energy control. An example of a recent innovation—and the biggest seller in the glass industry—is the Low-E (low emissivity) film, which helps the glass retain or hold in more heat in the winter.

In addition to protecting home furnishings and dramatically cutting down on the sun's glare, another important benefit from using window film is its ability to make the glass safe (or "breaksafe"). Should the window break, the film will actually hold broken glass together, offering safety and security. For example, should a child or adult hit a window hard enough to break it, they are much less likely to suffer any cuts or be showered with dangerous glass shards. Special "extra-thick" security films are also available.

In the past, one of the drawbacks of using window film was its tendency to become scratched when cleaned. Today, however, all films boast a scratch-resistant coating which is tough enough to stand up against even fine steel wool.

Opulent details and grand scale recalls the luxury of Victorian-era interiors. A survey of today's house buyers reveals a desire for larger houses and luxury amenities, many of which are incorporated in the Homearama designs.

Homearama to showcase preferences buyers want

ACCORDING to recent National Association of Home Builders survey, current home owners revealed a preference for "dream" features when they are looking a new home.

This year's Homearama offers all the amenities mentioned in the survey.

- Today's home buyers look for more family-room space and would select a great room instead of a smaller den or a study.
- They prefer a large, well-equipped kitchen, with features like a walk-in pantry, a built-in microwave, special storage space, a double sink, an island eating space and a bay window.
- In the master bedroom suite, they would choose a separate bathrub and shower, double-sink vanities and closet space in the bathroom. Whirlpools are a nice extra.
- In addition, buyers indicated that they want the following extra features, which ranked as very important by 60 percent or more of those surveyed.

— Separate family room or great room;
— Two-car garage;
— Walk-in bedroom closets;
— Air conditioning;
— Fireplace;
— High ceilings;
— Skylights.

Home buying trends are moving toward the selection of larger, more expensive homes. Survey respondents indicated not only a desire to buy larger homes, but a willingness to buy a more expensive home to get the features they want.

Homearama homes offer an average of 4,400 square feet of living space, in a price range of $375,000-$675,000 and a beautiful showcase of all the features buyers are looking for today.

Tips for selecting a builder

WHEN YOU are ready to begin shopping for your new home, you should begin shopping for your builder as well. Whether you are buying a condominium, townhouse in a subdivision, or a custom-built house, the quality of your home will be determined by the quality of the builder.

Start your builder-search process by calling a local home builders association, such as the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan. It can give you the names of reputable builders in your area. Ask friends and relatives about builders they have dealt with directly, or ask them for the names of acquaintances who have recently dealt with a builder.

Once you have developed a list of builders, find out about their reputations and the quality of their work. The best way is to visit homes that they have built and talk to the owners. Ask the builders for your list for the addresses of their recently completed houses, subdivisions, townhouses or condominium complexes. At the very least, drive by and see if the homes are visually appealing.

LOOK AT HOMES that are the same style as you plan to buy. A good time to visit is on a weekend morning when people are outside doing chores or errands. Just introduce yourself and explain that you are considering buying a home from the same builder who built their home.

Question their satisfaction with the home and ask if the builder constructed what was promised in a timely manner. Ask if they would buy another home from this builder. People will generally tell you if they are happy with their purchase.

When examining a home, look at the quality of the construction features, the cabinetry, carpeting, trimwork and paint.

In viewing each builder's homes, you must determine whether they lend themselves to the type of lifestyle you want to lead. Look at the amount of interior living space and how efficiently the space is used. Find out if the builder is using the latest energy efficient features, both in appliances and insulation.

A home is primarily a place to live, but it also is an important investment. Consider the appreciation potential of any home you might purchase. Be concerned with the value you are getting for your money, regarding locations, housing supply and demand, and other local market factors.

One of the most important criteria for selecting a builder is the warranty protection provided on the home. Ask for a copy of the builder's warranty. Read the document thoroughly and be sure you understand what protection would be provided to you. If you have any questions about the coverage, be sure to clarify it with the builder prior to completing your purchase.

ALMOST ALL BUILDERS offer some form of written warranty. Many builders back their own warranties on workmanship and materials, typically for one year. Other builders offer warranties backed by an insurance company. To get an insured warranty, you must buy a home from a builder who belongs to a warranty program, such as the Home Owners Warranty Corporation (HOW). Founded by the National Association of Home Builders, HOW is the nation's oldest and largest warranty insurer of new homes. In this area, HOW is served by the Southern Michigan Home Owners Warranty Council.

While you are shopping for your builder, find out from each one you interview what you can expect regarding service after the sale. A builder may make two service calls during the first year after you move in. These calls are to make repairs on non-emergency problems covered by your warranty. The first call is usually 30 to 120 days after your move-in, and the second is around the 11th month, right before any one-year warranties on workmanship and materials would expire. For emergencies, the builder should send someone right away.

When selecting a builder, be thorough and ask a lot of questions. Get as many specifics as possible. If you receive the answers verbally, take notes. Never hesitate to ask a question because you are afraid of sounding "dumb" or uninformed. A simple question may yield a very important answer.

Larger homes, luxury amenities tops with buyers

WHAT DO today's home buyers really want?

Are their hearts set on rustic little rose-covered country cottages or do they want high-tech houses where the Jetsons would feel right at home? Are they yearning for simplicity and small spaces or do they have dreams of luxury living?

Today's increasingly affluent home owners of the baby boom generation will choose larger houses with more luxury features and bigger lots when they buy their next house. Even if they have to pay more, and/or live further from work, they will be willing to make these trade-offs to get the house they want.

According to a recent National Association of Home Builders survey, workmanship and materials — including carpeting, flooring, tiles and paint — as well as the builder's reputation and the neighborhoods must be first-rate. And if they cannot afford to buy the house they want, they will settle for an expandable houses with some parts left unfinished. However, they will not opt for a smaller house.

MORE THAN TWO-thirds would choose a suburban location and one-fourth would choose a rural location if buying a new home.

Current home owners also want their next home to have about 2,360 square feet — almost 30 percent more than their present home. And even though land costs have increased dramatically in the last two years, consumers want larger yards.

The survey findings revealed the following homebuyer preferences:

HOUSE DESIGN: A two-story house with a basement (32 percent); single-story house with a basement (24 percent). Four bedrooms (about 50 percent). Three bedrooms (33 percent); 2½ or more bathrooms (70 percent); and three bathrooms or more (25 percent).

FAMILY ROOM: Home buyers want a family room, not a den or a study. A family room/kitchen design is desirable.

KITCHEN: A large, well-equipped kitchen, with a walk-in pantry, a built-in microwave, a special use storage space, a double-sink, an island eating space and a bay window.

MASTER BATHROOM: Separate bathtub and shower; double-sink vanities and closet space in the bathroom. Whirlpools are not a necessity.

ENERGY EFFICIENCY: Buyers prefer an energy efficient home — insulation, a more efficient furnace, but does not imply low ceilings, small rooms or no fireplaces.

PREFERRED FEATURES: Features ranked as very important by 60 percent or more of those surveyed include: Separate family/great rooms; two-car garage; walk-in bedroom closets; higher quality carpeting; air-conditioning; storm windows; fireplace and smoke detectors. Also mentioned were high ceilings and skylight.

"Homeownership was valued highly. More than 80 percent of those surveyed said a single-family detached house is the best hedge against inflation. This is followed by investment in land (53 percent) and mutual funds (42 percent).

Furniture will be for sale

The furniture and accessories in most of the Homearama "idea homes" will be put up for sale on the last day of its run, Sunday, Sept. 24.

All styles of furniture, from American traditional to contemporary to European and from moderately priced to expensive, will be offered for sale just as it is displayed in those home participating the sale.

Not every house is participating in the sale of its furnishings, however. Some of the furnishings may be the property of designers, furniture companies, or the builders in various instances.

The houses themselves will be for sale after the show closes, and can be purchased with furnishings included, in most cases.

Brit touch

You don't have to be British to live like the lord of the manor. All you really need are the three Cs of English country decor — comfort, clutter and color. Exemplifying these traditional virtues is the overstuffed sofa dressed in a color hallmark floral print (by La-Z-Boy), a deep-seated reclining wing chair, a seemingly endless array of personal mementos and a bit of English whimsy — a Victorian bird cage. Memento

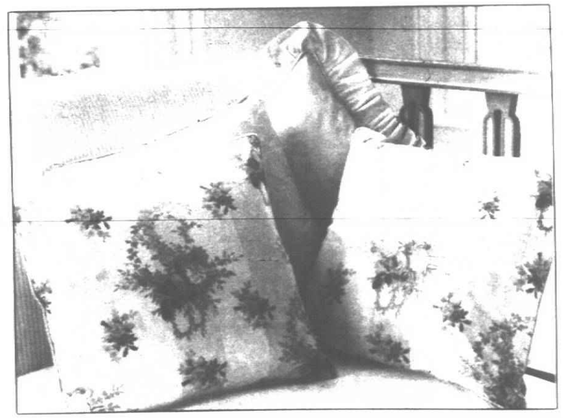
English country comfy look

MAYBE IT was Chuck and Di or one of those very British made-for-television movies. Or maybe, just a case of good taste. Whatever the cause, America has gone bonkers for the British — and some of that feeling is reflected in homes in this year's Homearama.

Unbashedly borrowing the best from a melange of traditionally elegant English offerings, Americans are enjoying high tea in high English style, demure sweater sets a la Deborah Kerr and polo, the so-called sport of kings.

But the best of the best of these British imports, according to those who've lived with it, is the kind of lived-in manor decorating style we frankly dub "the English Country look."

In many respects, English country style is nothing short of miraculous, says design consultant Ann Britter. "There is absolutely no other decor in the world that is at once so elegant and yet so dedicated to comfort."



The combination of broad stripes and florals make this Laura Ashley "Isabelle" chintz the ideal decorative theme for today's popular English country interiors on display in several of the Homearama models. It's shown here with complementing solids and smaller-scale stripes.

NANCY MEININGER of the MICHIGAN GROUP REALTORS proudly presents CUSTOM HOMES by F.J. PINEHOLLOW.

This elegant 2800 sq. ft. two story is ready to move into at 17176 Ellen Dr. in Livonia's prestigious Pinecreek Subdivision. $214,900.

This spacious 2800 sq. ft. colonial will be ready for occupancy in 60 days. Exciting amenities like a walk-in pantry, fashion bath. At 47073 Elsmere at the gateway to Abbey Knoll-Northville's most coveted area! $228,900.

Also ready for autumn construction are 7 homesites in Livonia's long awaited Fox Creek Meadows. For more information, call 591-9200 and ask only for Nancy Meininger or call 348-2514, F.J. Pinehollow Builders.

Stripes and florals are combined in a variety of new decorative themes, among them "Floral Stripe" chintz, shown here, by Laura Ashley. This large-scale design of roses, morning glories and fuchsias with alternating geranium stripe, is available in chintz and printed ottoman fabrics. The simplicity is also repeated in a companion wallcovering, seen beyond the chair. Similar choices appear in English-manor type homes featured in this year's Homearama.

Although the English country look was born in the manor house, the style has been thoroughly democratized over the years, Britten says. So you don't need roomfuls of ancestral heirlooms of a stately site on The Thames to recreate the look.

All you really need are the three C's of English country decor.

- COLOR. One thing that says English country. Floral cotton and glazed chintz, the extravagantly printed fabric the British imported from India almost 400 years ago. So use them lavishly.

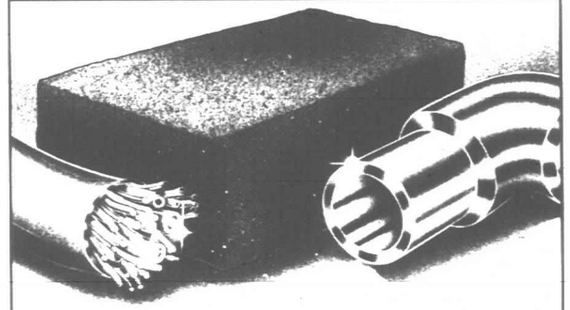
Start with a bold floral design, then complement with a mix of stripes, smaller-scale florals, plaids, geometrics or faux animal prints. Use color as a unifying force to pull all these disparate patterns into one cohesive whole.

- COMFORT. Reserve the rickety gilt sidechairs and antique loveseats for the palace. The English country look is built on comfort.
- CLUTTER. Hedonistic hodgepodge. Cheek-by-jowel jumble. Memento madness. Clutter is the endearing heart of English country style.

For Anglo-authenticity, add masses of framed family photos, blue-and-white china and botanical prints. A timeless sense of style is not built on born-yesterday perfection.

Once you've experienced this best-of Britain brand of living, Britten maintains, you'll understand why there'll always be an England. Even if it is deep in the heart of Texas or the rolling hills of Rochester.

SINCE YOU CAN'T SEE THESE IN YOUR NEW HOME,



INSIST ON SEEING THIS:

In any new home, it's what you can't see that can cost you down the road.

Things like wiring, plumbing, even the foundation itself.

That's why more and more new homebuyers are insisting on homes displaying the HOW symbol.

HOW—the Home Owners Warranty program—gives you 10 years of protection. And your HOW coverage is included in the cost of the home.

You're protected against workmanship and material defects the first year. Defective wiring, ductwork, and piping in the second. And your home is protected against major structural defects that vitally affect the use of your new home for the full 10 years.* Your builder can give you all the details, including the reasonable exclusions.

So while you're enjoying all the things you can see in a new home, make sure you're protected on the things you can't.

Insist on a HOW home.

HOW

* Subject to deductibles. Warranty and insurance coverage applies only if the builder properly enrolls the home and is in good standing with HOW at the time of settlement.

LARRY ALLEN PEPPER

A lofty side view of Kellett & Saylor's historical Georgian-style home, the "Jeffersonian." Architect was Anderson Rienke and interior design by Robert L. Stevenson.

Your house-buying power spelled out

You've decided you're ready to buy a new house. But can you afford it? To figure out how much house you can afford, you must first understand the rules of buying a home. And you must qualify for a loan, and lenders ask for down payment so that if you default on your loan, the home can be sold and the losses from your transaction can be recovered from the proceeds of the sale. Buyers entering the market for the first time usually must rely on savings or assistance from relatives to accumulate a down payment.

The size of your down payment plays an important role in determining how large a loan you qualify for.

Lenders examine your credit record and the extent to which you are already in debt. To qualify, they evaluate a variety of factors to determine the maximum monthly payment you can afford.

Most conventional loans (not government insured) require a 20 percent down payment. But most first-time home buyers don't have that kind of savings. Other sources are available to those who qualify — FHA or VA loans.

A LOAN INSURED by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) normally requires a down payment of five percent of the home's appraised value. Their interest rates are generally slightly below those for conventional loans. Qualified FHA borrowers are also required to pay a mortgage insurance premium of 3.8 percent of the total loan amount. A ceiling amount, based on [illegible] prevailing interest rates and the [illegible] are buying, determines the maximum loan amount.

The Veterans Administration (VA) guarantees loans to eligible veterans, service members and their spouses. No down payment is required, but the VA charges a funding fee of 1.25 percent for loans of $144,000 or less. There is a 1.5 percent funding fee on VA loans over $144,000.

Private mortgage insurance (PMI) plans are an option available to those who don't qualify for FHA or VA loans. These loans require a 5 to 10 percent down payment and are insured by a private mortgage company.

Not all the money you put up front will be applied to the down payment. A major expense many first-time buyers overlook is settlement or closing costs. When you apply for a loan, the lender is required by law to provide you with a good faith estimate of closing costs. Thousands of dollars can be spent in this final step in buying a home.

CLOSING COSTS FALL in two general categories: points, costs from making the loan, and expenses linked to the actual transfer of property from the seller to you.

Discount points charged by the lender are generally the largest part of your closing costs. One point equals one percent of the total loan amount. Points should be a strong consideration in your loan selection. The borrower almost always pays his own points.

Other costs, some of which may be negotiated between the buyer and the seller, include appraisal fee, attorney's fees, credit report, property survey fee, recording fee, state and local transfer taxes, title search and insurance, and property taxes.

Colonial-style lighting to illuminate roadways

A custom-designed colonial-style lighting system that illuminates roadways will be featured at this year's Homearama. The roadway lighting system, the first of its kind to be installed by a subdivision developer, will provide security lighting for homes in the Hills of Oakland subdivision.

Many communities do not provide streetlighting to subdivisions, according to Roy A. Maly, builder development specialist for Detroit Edison. "Modern Development wanted to enhance the safety and value of the homes by installing colonial-style 100-watt high pressure sodium fixtures. Our Detroit Edison lighting experts helped design the system."

Discount coupons, good for $1 of the admission price to Homearama Monday through Friday, will be mailed to Detroit Edison customers with their August statements. The coupons also will be available at Detroit Edison customer offices prior to and during Homearama.

The Intelligent Choice!

'Varnish' outstrips its original meaning

By Andy Lang
AP Newsfeatures

When you need more liveable space and are thinking about remodeling, don't forget the insulation in the attic floor. That insulation was originally needed to prevent the movement of rising heat through the ceiling of the living area and attic floor into the attic itself. You otherwise would be wasting energy and money to heat an attic where no one lived or slept.

It now has been determined that the amount of insulation in the attic floor is insufficient to take care of the requirements of an area where people live. It also has been determined that the large saving made possible by proper insulation applies just as much to a house with air conditioning as it does to a house with heat.

IF YOU contemplate remodeling and using the attic, a check of the insulation in the attic floor usually will reveal about 3 inches of insulation. The National Bureau of Standards and other agencies concerned with energy have estimated that 6 inches of insulation would fill the bill in the attic floor in regions of relatively mild winters. Amounts greater than that are justifiable where the climate is colder or warmer than average. Other reasons for increasing the insulation would be where energy costs are expected to rise and where walls are poorly insulated.

When adding insulation to the floor, use batts or blankets without vapor barriers. If the new installation has such barriers, slash the barriers with a knife or remove them.

WHEN IT is inconvenient to use batts or blankets, loose insulation may be used. If, by some chance, the attic floor had no insulation and you are using batts or blankets with vapor barriers, make sure those barriers are facing downward.

Insulation to be placed in the walls of the new living quarters should be set into place after the framework is up but before the full walls are up.

Most clear finishes don't require shaking or stirring and, in many cases, you are warned against these actions. They are inclined to cause bubbles that affect the finish.

Staples used on the flanges of the insulation should be spaced about 8 inches apart. You may want to look into what are called wire insulation supports.

Since the object of a vapor barrier is to keep moisture out of the insulation itself, a cut or tear in the barrier must be repaired instantly. This can be done with a piece of barrier from a scrap section of the insulation or, in the absence of that, a piece of polyethylene. Any opening in the barrier will permit moisture to get through and thus destroy the entire purpose of the covering.

NO MATTER how efficiently your attic is insulated, there will be a considerable amount of leakage. The rule of thumb is that wherever you see any gap that might permit air or heat to escape, plug it up somehow, whether by weatherstripping, caulking, compound or anything at all that will do the job.

One way to handle this, especially around window frames, is with the wool from an insulation blanket. Pull it from a blanket and stuff it by hand into the opening.

Since insulation fiber can cause skin irritation, wear work gloves of some kind while doing this. It's also a good idea to wear long-sleeved clothing to cover bare skin.

Besides escaping around window frames, air can get through electrical connections, plumbing stacks, ducts and whatever connections have been made to make living upstairs comfortable.

Above all, there must be plenty of ventilation at the top part of the attic. There usually are a couple of vents at the gable ends, but a combination of vents there and at the eaves is much better. Moisture vapor must be permitted to get out of the attic, either through the vents or with assistance from one or more fans.

(Detailed instructions on insulating an attic are included in Andy Lang's booklet, "Save Money by Insulating," which can be obtained by sending $1 and a stamped, long envelope to Know How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, NY 11743.)

The new polyurethane varnishes generally give a more durable finish than the varnishes made of natural resins. They cost more, but are easier to brush on, dry more quickly and have excellent clarity.
