High-tech pumpkins

Ballot issues' effect minimal for Canton

By M.B. Dillor staff writer

Voters will decide on two school finance proposals on Tuesday in Canton where they are the only issues on the ballot.

Proposal A would increase the sales tax a half-cent to 41/2 cents.

The new revenue would generate an estimated $400 million for Michigan schools the first year. About $285 million would be added to the general school aid formula, going mainly to low-income districts. About $115 million would be spent on specific programs.

Proposal B would increase the sales tax to 6 cents and reduce property taxes. It also would set permanent school operating tax rate not subject to voter renewal and dedicate money for local schools. House Taxation Committee estimates B would generate $325 million for education the first year. Taking care to avoid using the word "oppose," the Plymouth-Can-ton Board of Education last week voted 4-0-3 to recommend approval of neither A nor B.

Residents may vote on both pro-posals. Should both be approved, the one with the most yes votes will be enacted.

Plymouth-Canton school officials say neither proposal would do much for the district.

Proposal A "would have very little effect on the revenues of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools because the district is out of formula,' said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business. "However, it could strengthen the district's categorical aid revenues in that the state will 'recapture' less of our categorical aid entitlement."

Proposal B, which would partly shift school funding from the property tax to sales tax, would provide for a state-levied property tax.

Plymouth-Canton's current operating rate of 36.94 mills would be reduced to about 22 mills for all residential properties, representing an

Schools to show R-rated films despite protests

staff writer

Plymouth-Canton school officials have no plans to remove R-rated films from the classroom despite objections from a citizens' organization.

About 75 picketers, predominantly members of a Christian group called Citizens for Better Education, protested the showing of the film "Excelling" outside Plymouth-Canton High School on Monday afternoon.

Shown to British literature classes, "Excalibur" includes a rape scene and violence, said Diane Daskalakis of CBE

Weather permitting, CBE plans to picket each time one of 14 R-rated films is shown in Plymouth-Canton schools this semester, Daskalakis said.

'Excalibur has been shown twice this year," said Daskalakis. "It is violence against women. You have a small child, aged 7 or 8, watching her mother being raped. There's frontal nudity and intercourse.

"I don't understand how our children can respect us said the scene is "an integral part of the story, artfully done

"This scene is done in order that the viewer might understand the unworthiness of Uther to be king and perhaps to hint at a flaw in the offspring of that union, Arthur.

Students must have permission slips signed by their parents to see the film. For students whose parents object to the film, other material is available for study, Egli said.

CBE formally objected to "Excalibur" in 1986. A review committee comprised of two residents, a librarian, a teacher and an administrator upheld the use of the film. The finding was appealed to Superintendent John-Hoben who agreed with the committee. CBE then approached the board, which unanimously approved the film.

THE FILMS CBE plans to protest include "The Terminator," "Firestarter," "Aliens II," "Ordinary Peo-ple," "Apocalypse Now," "Bless the Beasts and the Children," "The Life of Brian," "Shame," "The Thing," "Slaughterhouse Five," "Aliens," "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," and "Macbeth.'

Member's class visit concerns school board

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

Plymouth-Canton school board member Barbara Graham sat in on a British literature class that viewed the R-rated movie "Excalibur" Monday, prompting concerns among fellow board members, teacher Susan Schneider and students.

members of Citizens for Better Education, picketed at the high school Monday while the film was being shown Graham told board members at a workshop Monday night that she went to the class to better understand the controversy. "You can't just do this role behind this desk. Out there there are a lot of things to involved in. You cán't vote and not know what voting on. If I am going to you're be objective, I must observe the process and understand." Graham planned to sit in on the class every day this week. She backed off under pressure from board members who questioned her reasons for doing so.

The district doesn't have a policy on school visitation by board members acting as private citizens. Superintendent John Hoben said he'd research the issue and seek a legal opinion

Schneider welcomed Graham's change of heart.

"Her presence was disruptive, because when she came in and we didn't know what the purpose of her visit was. She became the focus. Kids were asking, 'What is she doing here? Is she watching when we show them this type of stuff.'

The controversial scene in "Excalibur," a film based on the legend of King Arthur, depicts King Uther mak-* ing love against a curtain of flames to Igrayne, a woman who is not his wife.

Woman helping the mentally ill

By Diane Gale staff writer

Susan Wooley wants to take the stignes from mental illness.

And now that a string of family health problems are mostly behind her, the mother of four children, ages 6 to 22, is channeling her energies toward disseminating her newly found knowledge about mental ill-

"Mental illness deserves the same attention as other illnesses," said Wooley, 47. "I'd like to encourage other people that there is hope."

Wooley was chosen to receive the st grant awarded by the Canton Community Foundation, a group designed to address community problems and boost civic pride.

WOOLEY, a Canton Commons low-income housing complex resi-dent, was given $130 last month to cover the costs of a seminar on mental health in Lansing and lodging for one night. Wooley wanted to learn about services for mentally ill people so she "wouldn't be a rubber stamp" in her role as adviser to Canton's Community Development Block Grant pro-gram, which distributes federal funds to local programs serving low-income people and senior citizens. Some Canton CDBG grant money is earmarked for an agency, expected to open in Canton soon, that will deal with mental impairments.

Wooley said testimony during the seminar from people who overcame mental health problems by using social service programs were inspirational

She knew a lot about those services through her involvement with the State Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Michigan, an organization she became involved with to support mentally ill family members. The alliance links local groups with mentally ill people as well as with their families and friends.

WOOLEY DECLINED to say which family members were mentally ill.

Social attitudes about mental illness have changed, but, she added: "We still have a long way to go." Other family health problems have prevented her from getting involved in community service work in the past, but Wooley plans to make up for lost time.

Her family had to move 27 times in 22 years to find a proper climate and adequate medical attention for her son Will, who suffered from asth-

A move to study traffic conditions near Plymouth-Canton high schools on Canton Center and Joy roads was revived shortly after a student was struck by a car near the schools last month

The traffic survey will target the 45 mph speed limit on Canton Center from Joy to Sheldon Center roads, according to Pat Nemecek, Canton public safety information officer.

Recent road changes that have affected traffic flows have been made, according to Dale Goby, school transportation director.

They are:

 The construction of the Sheldon Center connector road south of Joy Road to alleviate traffic flows or Canton Center and away from school traffic.

• The widening of Canton Center to make it easier for motorists en-tering and leaving the school parking lot.

• The addition of a passing lane on Canton Center to help alleviate traffic back-ups for motorists not going to the school.

In flames

Two cars burst into flames about 4:15 p.m. Friday, Oct. 27, on the I-275 expressway at Ford Road in Canton after a car driven by a Wvandotte man struck an unmarked state police car with two passengers. The three men were treated for minor injuries, state police officers reported. The unmarked state police car was part of traffic backed up on the expressway caused by state highway construction. The Wyandotte man was unable to stop and struck the state police officers' car in the rear, police reported. The state police car gas tank exploded and both cars went up in flames, police said.

Study will focus on traffic, safety options

Continued from Page 1 The study would log traffic flows, the speeds motorists travel and the number of pedestrians in the area, according to Dick Egli, school community relations director. The study would also look at options that could be used to improve Canton Center such as installing traffic lights.

A traffic light at Canton Center in front of the school has been considered for three years, Goby said.

"It may offer protection for students as pedestrians, but it may not help traffic," Goby said. "The simple solution is if you have a problem you put up a traffic light, and studies show sometimes this produces additional problems. In many instances it increases accidents instead of decreasing them." A school safety committee re viewed Canton Center safety after Marianne Patten, a 16-year-old junior grade student, was struck by a car Friday, Oct. 20.

Property tax savings would total $1,122. Additional sales tax would amount to an estimated $319. The homeowner would lose family, Proposal B would mean a net tax $550 in state property tax credit and an additional $160 in federal income tax savings.

Meteor shower, comets highlight November sky

On the morning of Nov. moon forms an elongated triangle with Pollux (PAWL lux) and Castor, the twin stars in Gemini. Each star represents a "head" of one of the twins. Pollux is to the north (right) of the moon; Castor is north of Pollux.

That morning is also when the Leonid meteor shower reaches its maximum. The Leonids are named for the constellation of Leo, which is east (left) of Gemini and looks like a giant backward question mark.

The Leonids are no more impressive than the S. Taurids were earlier this month; expect an average of 15 meteors each hour. The Leonids are notable for having been very spectacular in 1833 when thousand of meteors lit up the sky.

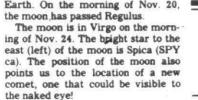

Such a display is not expected in 1989. There is, however, a 33-year with a 6-inch refractor Aug. 26. cycle in the Leonid display. If you wait until 1999, the Leonids may put on a very impressive show.

Greek word "kometis," which means "hairy star." A comet looks like a furry star! Because a bright comet is rarely seen, the appearance of one usually terrified the ancient skywatchers. Most believed comets were mysteri ous objects; they would appear unexpectedly, then slowly fade from cocted to explain the reason for their appearance

IT WASN'T until an English astronomer named Edmond Halley (HALL ee) came along that our understanding of comets began to improve. He had noted a regular 76year interval where historical records made mention that a bright comet had appeared.

Halley made the very daring proposal that comets orbited the sun and predicted that this same bright

What made this prediction all the more remarkable was that it was made at a time when the orbits of the planets weren't fully understood. Many laughed at Halley, but the comet did return. To honor his prediction, the comet was named in Halley's honor. But he did not live to see his prediction fulfilled. He would have been 102 years old if he had!

A COMET can appear in any part of the sky at any time of the year. Infamous Comet Kohoutek was seen in 1973 and named for the man who first spotted it when it was far from the sun. Comet Kobayashi-Berger-Milon was seen in 1975 and named for all three of its discoverers. Comet West appeared in 1975 and put on a magificent display in the pre-dawn sky. The recent appearance of famous Comet Halley was not expected to be exceptional, and it lived up to those expectations!

As the Earth passes through the stream of debris, we have showers of particles falling through our atmosphere. We can predict when the Earth will enter the stream, so we know when the major meteor showers will occur.

It is very difficult to predict exactly how impressive (or unimpressive) Comet Okazaki-Levi-Rudenko will become. We are not certain that a related spectacular meteor shower will be seen.

The only certainty is that the opportunity of seeing a bright comet is very rare. Everyone should make an attempt to see this one. The moor points right to it!

Film dispute Real issues getting obscured

TERE WE ARE AGAIN. There's another battle of the selfrighteous going on in the Plymouth-Canton school district over the showing of "Excalibur," an R-rated movie at Plymouth-Canton High School.

The losers in the battle are the sane, sensible ents, students and teachers who want to go about the task of preparing children for the world.

They're the losers because the real questions the kids watching movies anyway? Why aren't they reading? Somebody should be asking the district those questions

However, we're afraid those issues will get lost in the shuffle as the Citizens for Better Education confronts the district over the use of certain films in the classroom.

The group, which sees devil worship and pornography in every school hallway, has announced plans to picket when certain films are shown at the district's two high schools.

WE CAN SEE THE BATTLE shaping up. The protests will be met by the school district with claims that the films don't violate the district's policy and that teachers have the academic freedom to use certain materials in the classroom.

Both sides are right, which probably makes them feel so self-righteous. Students in high school probably shouldn't be shown two people having sexual intercourse in a movie at school. On the other hand, teachers should be able to use materials in schools without being descended on by a mob of angry parents.

Apart from obscuring the real issue, the use of films in class, what bothers us most about the situation is that both sides will use the showing of of "Excalibur" to further their own causes.

That's fine when there's a real issue. From what Citizens for Better Education leaders say, they will be protesting if "Macbeth" is shown at the schools That would be a real issue, but "Excalibur"

The losers in the battle are the sane, sensible parents, students and teachers who want to go about the task of preparing children for the world.

isn't "Macbeth." "Excalibur" is a forgettable movie that was probably made by film makers to aren't being asked. Those questions are: Why are cash in on the popularity of dungeons and dragons games. It's a Saturday morning cartoon compared to Shakespeare's works.

> SCHOOLS ARE UNDER pressure to teach children how to read and we find it hard to justify the showing of "Excalibur" in a literature class. We acknowledge that some movies can help students understand literature. However, we wonder if the showing of too many isn't just lazy teaching under the guise of academic freedom. Let's face it, we all can remember when movies were shown in class, it meant party time, the pressure was off and you could easily fall asleep without the teacher noticing . That's the question we think Citizens for Better Education should be addressing, instead of worrying about some stupid sex scene. Kids have probably seen worse on cable television. But then again the group is just playing poli tics. And that seemingly will continue this year. if the district continues to allow teachers to show movies and the group continues to protest their showing

We just hope a sensible group or person steps forward to clarify the real concern of parents. which is: Is the school district teaching kids how to read and write?

There's time enough at night and on the weekends for cartoons like "Excalibur." Trying to justify showing that movie in school is like trying to justify the showing of the "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.

They could be fun, but they aren't "Macbeth.

Water study Detroit system owes answers

quality shouldn't be dismissed as mere Detroit-bashing.

Detroit Water and Sewer Department officials bristled at a recent metro League of Women Voters report pointing out potential problems with the water most suburbanites and Detroiters — drink.

DWSD officials were particularly upset bee they believed the League paid insufficient attention to improvements already made to the -system More troubling, however, is the DWSD's silence on several of the League's findings.

THEY INCLUDE:

 A rising number of oil and chemical spills. The League reports 384 in 1987 and 492 in 1988. Contingency plans need to be expanded and strengthened. Leauge members say...

Potential expansion of the system's Lake Huron intake. The intake currently brings in 15 percent of our water. The League believes it hould bring in more. · Lack of routine maintenance and inade-ONCERNS over future drinking water quate maintenance staff. The League said repairs aren't being performed on a timely basis, in part because more supervisors and backup personnel are needed.

Other concerns, disputed by Detroit, concern alleged delays in bond issues and construction projects and alleged pollution coming from the DWSD's treatment plant.

THE RELATIONSHIP between the DWSD and its suburban customers - indeed between Detroit and the suburbs in general - has often been prickly. And when it comes to blame, fingers could be pointed in all directions.

But the future of the water we all drink is too important an issue to become sidetracked by old. long-standing animosity.

The DWSD needs to address the League's findings. If the findings are correct, remedial action should be taken. If not, the DWSD should issue a definitive study of its own.

Simply put, the DWSD owes some answers, to its own city customers no less than to the suburbanites who buy its drinking water

Certainly, after a few years, parents do gain a general pattern of what teachers say about their child whether the child is an all A student or a C student. The major issue however, is the interest you show in your child's education by taking time from your schedule to subliminally pass on to her that she is most im-

At the middle school level parent attendance drops a bit then tends to fall off at the high school level. Unfortunately, it is at the high school level where teachers desperately need to see certain par-

Woman heads county work force program

Patricia Kukula has been appointed to direct the Wayne County Alternative Work Force program.

The community corrections program provides alternative punishments to jail terms for misdemeanor and non-violent family offenders. The program was first initiated to help alleviate jail overcrowding.

"The Alternative Work Force program has grown by leaps and bounds and Patti Kukula's bright and creative imagination will be an asset to its expansion," said Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara.

"At the start of the program, we were receiving from five to 10 participants a day. Those numbers have now increased to 60 to 65 during the week, and averaging 100 to 120 participants on weekends."

Kukula said that prior to the county's work/release plan, misdemeanants were set free due to inadequate jail space. Judges are now sentencing those convicted of minor crimes to community service work at an increasing rate. Should the offender fail to show up for a job assignment, he or she is promptly picked up and remanded to jail.

A Detroit resident, Kukula earned a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan University in occupational therapy and is pursuing a master's degree in public administration. She has worked in several rehabilitation positions and most recently served as executive assistant to the chief executive officer at Hegira Programs Inc., a substance abuse and mental health agency.

In addition to directing the operations of the work force, Kukula will oversee a collection function for jail space which the county contracts throughout the state. She will also coordinate the activities of the county's property forfeiture program whereby confiscated houses of drug offenders are turned over to neighborhood groups for renovation.

"I look forward to the challenge of making a difference in the community," said Kukula. "There are many people in the program who show real potential."

Kukula cites an example of a work force participant who discovered she liked working outdoors and performed so well that she was hired as a county laborer. Another had been assigned to clean the loading docks at the jail and afterward said: "Once I saw the inside of a jail, I don't ever want to stay overnight."

Married to Recorder's Court Judge James Chylinski, Kukula has been on the job since late September. The alternative work program is important to county residents for three reasons, according to McNamara. First, since prisoners report each morning and are not housed overnight, there is a saving of $67 a day to taxpayers. That jail space can be used for the more serious offender.

Police to get high-tech fingerprint system

By Jeff Holyfield special writer

AP - A new high-tech fingerprint system that rivals the crimebusting tools of comic-strip detective Dick Tracy already has helped in four murder probes, the state police director says.

"If ever there was a crime-fighting tool that came close to the gadgets of Dick Tracy, this is it," Col. Ritchie T. Davis said Thursday at the unveiling of the $22 million computer system.

The local law enforcement agencies that initially will get terminals are Livonia, Southfield, Dearborn, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids and Taylor police departments and the Wayne and Oakland County sheriff's departments. "We now will be able to go after criminals faster than before and make it tougher for them to hide," Gov. James Blanchard said. "We are truly adding to the war on crime and drugs a new high-tech weapon."

Blanchard said the Automated Fingerprint Identification System eventually would be rated as the third great technological advance in police work, coming behind fingerprints and the police radio.

The new AFIS system electronically scans fingerprints and checks them against other fingerprints on file in a Michigan State Police computer.

More than 730,000 sets of fingerprint cards are in the state police files and it would take 72 years to check each one manually. The AFIS system can do that within 24 hours or less. Current manual checks must focus on possible suspects and take up to four days.

Davis said the system began checking fingerprints from unsolved crimes on Friday and already had generated a list of possible suspects for four murders. He declined to provide any further information about the murders, such as when or where they occurred.

Eventually county jails will have computer terminals allowing them access to the system, which will detect career criminals who sometimes go free on bond when they give aliases to arresting officers.

"That's been a real problem for us. We've had some very bad individuals slip away from us that way," Davis said. Catching those criminals not only would help solve crimes, but prevent others.

Capt. Thomas Nasser, head of the state police forensic science division, said that in addition to checking the fingerprints on file, the AFIS system also periodically will compare unidentified prints with those added to the file later.

Initially, AFIS terminals will be installed at the state police laboratories at Bridgeport, East Lansing, Grand Rapids and Sterling Heights. Others will be installed later at the labs in Grayling, Marquette and Northville.

Nasser said as more states get such systems, they can be linked together, eventually forming a national network that could be linked to an international network.

Plymouth Family Service staffers David Breeden and Connie Cavanaugh cut up the cake during the celebration get-togeth-

Milestone: cause for celebration

By Julie Brown staff writer

In the past 25 years, the Plymouth-Canton community has seen many changes, and so has Plymouth Family Service.

Plymouth Family Service, a Plymouth Community United Way agency, has been operating in the community throughout that time. The agency provides counseling and other services

"I think the community's probably a reflection of a lot of the changes that have happened with families," said David Breeden, director of Plymouth Family Service.

Plymouth Family Service, part of Child and Family Service of Washtenaw, operates out of an office at Wing in Plymouth. The local agency came about in the 1960s as a result of a needs assessment initiated by Plymouth Community Fund leaders.

They found such a service was needed, and the agency was established. Today, it provides counseling for individuals, couples and families.

'I think that is happening. There

FRIDAY EVENING was a time for celebration for those involved with Plymouth Family Service. Agency leaders held a 25th anniversary get-together at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth Township. Staffers and board of directors members attended, as did local governmental officials and other community leaders. During the evening, Breeden accepted a proclamation from Plymouth Mayor Dennis Bila honoring the agency for 25 years of service Displays set up that evening at the church told the story of Plymouth Family Service and how it has changed over time. Newspaper and TV stories, visual displays and slides were used. "It's a testimonial to the community, really, that the service has continued," said Breeden, who has served as director for six years and was an agency caseworker/therapist for five years before that.

AGENCY SERVICES have helped local people deal with life's cycles and challenges.

"I think Plymouth has a nice sense of community."

In many ways, this area does a better job than others of providing that network and sense of community, he said.

David Breeden, Plymouth Family Service director, accepts the congratulations of Plymouth Mayor Dennis Bila (right). The respite care for older adults as well. That care includes companionship, supervision, nursing or assistance with daily activities.

The adult day care and in-home respite care have been available for approximately two years.

'I think we will find there will be greater need for those services,' Breeden said.

As people live longer, there's more of a need for services for older adults

PROVIDING THOSE services in cost-effective ways is essential, Breeden said.

'That's really the challenge we face.'

Agency services most likely will be different in another 10 or 20 years, as community needs continue to change

'We should expect that and that's all right. I think the key thing is to be flexible.

BREEDEN AND his colleagues have seen family life change. He's reluctant to characterize modernday life as either better or worse than what came before.

"The challenges are somewhat different, but I think in a lot of ways they're the same.' These days, there are more two-income families, and parents often have increased responsibilities outside the home

"But I don't think that necessarily means the quality of family life is not as good," he said. "I think it's just different.'

He sees a trend toward more emphasis on family life, moving away from the narcissistic 1980s. 'I think that is happening. There seems to be a little more re-emphasis on the family."

THE AGENCY also operates an adult day care center. That facility, based at St. John's Episcopal Church, provides weekday supervision for older people, allowing their family caregivers to continue working or meeting other responsibilities. The agency provides in-home chat during the celebration get-together, held at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth Township. Plymouth Family Service, a Plymouth Community United Way agency, got its start 25 years ago.

Quarry Intrepid librarians track down those elusive facts

By Julie Brown staff writer

EFERENCE LIBRARIANS have been known to put their sleuthing skills to the test at work. They never know what kind of question the next phone call will bring.

"We really get a lot of ques-tions," said Carol Kuchta, head of reference for the Canton Public Library. "We get questions from all kinds of places and people."

One time, a patron came into the library in Canton and asked if there were any Shakespeare plays available in English

"Another was, 'Where are the books with facts in them?' " Kuchta said.

Librarians try to be helpful with all requests, she said. Sometimes, a patron just hasn't worded his or her request quite right.

REFERENCE | LIBRARIAN Darlene Ursel of the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth has had her share of challenging ques-tions. One patron was looking for a copy of the 1946 Lionel Train cata-

"He knew it had been in Liberty magazine in 1946," Ursel said.

Librarians were able to track down that magazine on microfilm at a library in Pennsylvania. They requested the material on interlibrary loan, and the patron found what he needed.

A patron at the Plymouth library sted a copy of something Ben Franklin had written in 1745. That essay on "The Reasons for Preferring an Elderly Mistress" was nd in another library and forwarded to Plymouth.

Another time, a woman called seeking information on the Minnesota town in which her mother was born. Ursel found that in an atlas. Magazine articles on "penny rugs" helped another patron at the Plymouth library. Those rugs of the 1800s were made of scraps from woolen garments and blankets. Round pieces were used, thus the rugs were known as penny

Some of that material was found in the Dunning-Hough Library, while other material came from other libraries through interlibrary

"Sometimes, some of the simplest questions turn out to be the most difficult ones to find information on." Ursel said.

PEOPLE LOOKING for jobs often come to the library seeking information on area employers. Tracking down information on small, privately owned businesses can be difficult.

Sometimes, patrons are referred to larger libraries with more extensive or specialized collections Librarians can call patrons back with information if they're not able to find it right away.

"We don't always find it but we do most of the time," Ursel said. There are limits on how much we can do."

Some patrons need to come into the library to find the information they want.

CHALLENGING REFERENCE questions can be forwarded to the Wayne-Oakland Library Federation headquarters, Kuchta said. The libraries in Plymouth and Canton belong to that federation. Patrons can then be contacted when information is available.

Librarians in Canton were once asked at what point one fluid ounce equals one ounce in weight. That answer was eventually found.

What style of cap does Sherlock Holmes wear?' was another one," Kuchta said.

She and her colleagues also have handled requests for a picture of an electric chair and a picture of an old-fashioned bathtub

"That took us awhile, but we did find that," Kuchta said.

CHILDREN ASK their share of reference questions. Elementary and middle school children sometimes do reports on life in the 1890s. The Dunning-Hough Library has Sears catalogs from that era, giving the prices for farm implements, clothing and other essentials

"So that's been kind of an interesting one to work on," Ursel said. "Some of them are really fun to try to track down."

Librarians are careful not to do children's work for them. Some children need more assistance than others, and making that determina-quests for the same information they alert each other that students are working on projects or reports and need certain information.

"Leaf identification is a biggie every fall," Ursel said. "Now we're getting into Indians and pilgrims, things like that.'

Only so many books are available on each subject, she said. When late-comer students visit the library to work on assignments, they may find those books are checked out. Librarians rely on non-circulating reference materials to help those students.

LIBRARIANS IN Canton had a number of requests for information on tubeworms. Among other things, students wanted to know if tubeworms were affected by light even though the worms have no eyes.

Some information requests must be handled quickly. Librarians get requests for help with funeral readings or poems. "Granger's Poetry Collection" includes information on thousands of poems, Ursel said. Searches can be done by author or subject using that microfiche col-

After the recent California earthquake, the Dunning-Hough Library had many requests for phone numbers in that area. Those are available on the Phone Fiche microfiche system.

LIBRARIANS DON'T concern themselves with why patrons want certain information. Even rather unusual requests are assumed to be legitimate.

Sometimes, we do have to ask a lot of questions," Ursel said.

Librarians aren't being nosy, but do need to know what a patron is looking for, so they can narrow their search.

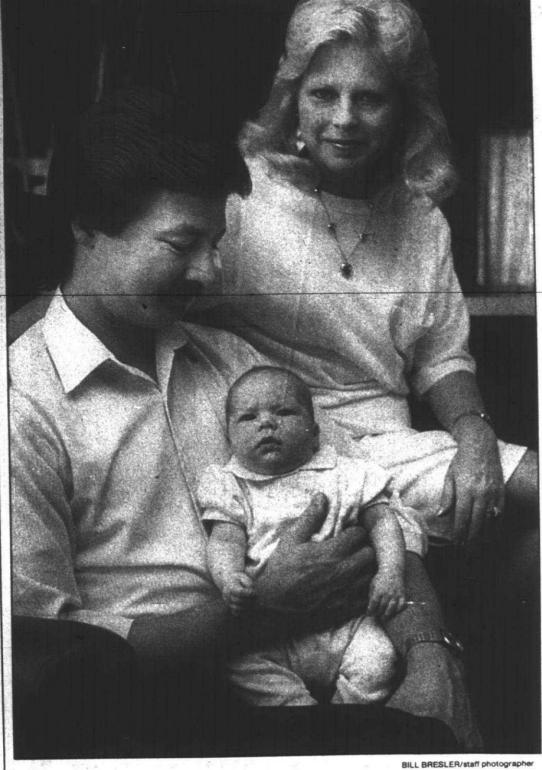

Patrons can be reluctant to reveal personal information, Kuchta said.

"You have to respect that, try to answer it as best you can." Librarians have training in their graduate school programs to help them answer reference questions, but find much of that ability is developed on the job. "A lot of it just comes with expe-rience, being out there with the public every day," Kuchta said.

affects church Churches are facing the pressures of consumerism. We see this in the larger proportion of people shopping for a church. We find this in the lack of loyalty to any church. In addition, consumerism in religion means higher expectations. A familiar saying of the older generation was, "You can't please everyone." Many in the younger group are looking for a variety of program and staff that will serve their needs from parents down through babies.

The old assumption was that if we wanted something we would have to roll up our sleeves and get it going ves. This is rarely the case today. More and more people expect ortunities to be on the ready to consume.

Many of these attitudes have developed in our consumer society. People complain about the wait for new, custom-built cars and furniture. People tell me stories about walking out of a store because they did not have the exact item they wanted. A two-week delivery is too long a time. These attitudes flow over into church life.

WE CAN find some positive fea-tures in this change. Religions are being pushed to identify people's peeds. This is good. Planning needs to include inter-generational mixes. This is a plus. The quality of offer-ings may be examined. Questions concerning the purpose of the church may be reviewed. These are to the scool

This fish story keeps brokers reeling in sales

By R.J. King special writer

From the Mississippi delta to area restaurants and supermarkets, a classic Southern favorite making its culinary and economic mark - and it's catfish.

Wait a minute. Catfish? Yep, but it's not the same mean-looking, whiskered 12-pound tough guy that roams the murky bottom of the Mississippi River. This fish, says Denny Inman, is raised by farmers through a process called aqua-culture.

"The hardest thing about selling catfish is overcoming the misconception that all catfish are bottomfeeders and have a slimy taste," says Inman, who is vice president of Paul Inman Associates of Farmington Hills, a full-service food broker that sold $2.5 million worth of aqua-culture catfish in Michigan last year.

"But there is a great difference with aqua-culture catfish, which are raised in spring-fed ponds and are fed a rich diet of grain and minerals through pellets which float on the surface

Because the pellets induce the fish to look up, not down, for their food, it's one reason why the aqua-culture variety taste milder and more tender than their river-dwelling counterpart, which prefer to navigate among the mud and silt.

The fish is one of Paul Inman Associates' hottest products.

'We first started selling catfish three years ago and sold $450,000 worth in that first year, and now we've sold over four times that amount," said Dale Murnahan, account executive for Inman's food service division. It's one of our fastest growing lines and should be well into the decade."

'The hardest thing about selling catfish is overcoming the misconception that all catfish are bottomfeeders and have a slimy taste.'

as farm-raised varieties of salmon, trout and shrimp, are also showing up with greater frequency at upscale restaurants, said Milos Cihelka, head chef and co-owner of the Golden Mushroom in Southfield. "With concern of cholesterol so high, the demand for fish is starting to outdis-tance the supply," he said. "People are also becoming more leery of lake trout from Michigan's Great Lakes and other bodies of water tainted by chemicals. The farmraised catfish offers our customers a choice, and actually it's a very mild, sweet-tasting fish, which can be prepared in a variety of ways.

Taking on the classic middle-man role, Paul Inman Associates, which has headquarters on Northwestern Highway, acts as the selling arm for more than 40 national food manufacturers, including Delta Pride Catfish of Indianola, Miss., the world's largest aqua-culture catfish processor, controlling more than 64,000 acres of catfish ponds amid land once reserved for cotton.

Delta Pride recently inducted Paul Inman Associates into its Million Dollar Club, an award that honors food brokers based on its singleyear's sales level. "Rather than have a lot of sales"

Paul Inman Associates has seen its catfish sales quadruple in three years. Showing their product in the company's test kitch-serve, Delta Pride and other processors hire a brokerage firm like us to sell their products," Murnahan said. "It cuts down on their overhead and we earn our income through a commission rate

LIKE MOST food brokers, the company rarely sees the product it sells. From salad dressings and cheeses to coffee makers and shampoos, the company sells to a variety of supermarket chains and food distributors, with deliveries handled by respective manufacturers.

"Of course, we research and inspect the products we sell for quality and taste, but once we've established an account between a food processor and say, a supermarket, it would be a waste of time to warehouse products here when the processor can just deliver to the supermarket direct," Inman said. Aqua-culture catfish have acen is Denny Inman, vice president of food service, and Dale Murnahan, account executive.

counted for substantial growth for Paul Inman Associates' food service division, according to Inman. He declined to reveal the company's revenues last year, as well as commission rates, but said the company has been profitable in each of the last 35 years of its existence.

In addition to the company's Farmington Hills headquarters, it has offices in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Toledo, Fort Wayne and Indianapolis

As for the '90s, Inman predicted supermarkets and retail grocery stores would offer consumers a larger choice of entrees to compete with fast-food restaurants.

"The grocery store acting as restaurant is getting larger every day, and it's having a crossover effect on hospitals and hotels as well. But aqua-culture seafood is just beginning to take off, and I think we've only scratched the surface."

Two organizations representing business interests in Michigan have been going about it fairly quietly, but there's no mistaking their opposition to the two state proposals on next week's ballot.

Listen to Jay Sweeney, who owns a sales consulting firm in Bloomfield Hills and is chairman of the guardian advisory council of the National Federation of Independent Business of Michigan.

'We don't think throwing money at the problem is the answer," he said. "No one has sat down yet saying this is what you're going to get, chapter and verse, for what we want to tax you for.

'We say, as business people, 'Why not have new priorities with existing revenues?'

"Michigan spending per pupil is among the top 10 states in the country. Teachers are among the best paid in the country," Sweeney said.

BOTH BALLOT proposals would modify the state constitution 'and provide more money for financing public education in kindergarten to 12th grade.

Proposal A would increase the state sales tax from 4 cents to 4.5 cents per dollar. Proposal B would increase the sales tax to 6 cents per dollar and reduce school property taxes

The state chamber of commerce isn't enamored with the two proposals, either. Hear James Barrett, its president.

"There are no quality (of education) promises in either Proposal A and B," he said. "Voters who want more equity between districts won't be helped much by either A or B.

'In the case of Proposal A, there's no property tax relief at all. B offers some short-term reduction for some taxpayers, but B guts the Headlee rollback protection against assessment increases," Barrett said.

The Headlee Amendment generally requires reductions in tax rates to offset soaring increases in property values. Proponents of the ballot proposals say they will shift the method of funding away from prop-erty taxes, which they call an unfair method of school financing, while allowing more money to be pumped into the public schools.

NEITHER THE state chamber nor the federation, which primarily represents, small busine es, has spent much money to get their message across.

The chamber, with 7,000 mem-bers, has contributed about $15,500 for brochures, polling and legal ex-penses, Barrett said.

penses, Barrett said. The national federal of independ-ent business, with some 25,000 mem-bers in Michigan, has contributed nothing to the campaign, said David J. Baerwalde, state director. "We don't have ongoing asses-ments (union dues) every month that pay into coffers and build a war chest," Sweeney said.

David J. Baerwalde: Reduce level of regulation and taxation on business and individuals.

He categorized the campaign as grass roots. Pamphlets have been mailed to the most active federation members. They have been asked to talk with their employees and make telephone calls.

"WE'RE TRYING to get information out on presentations, public affairs programs on radio and TV and requests from journalists," Barrett

Tax increases generally aren't well-received by business, especially small businesses

"It's going to decrease operating nargins," Baerwalde said. "Our feeling is, whenever possible, we should reduce level of regulation and taxation on business and individuals to grow."

"Michigan is a relatively high-tax and high-expenditure state for education," Barrett said.

"Business would like to see more emphasis from state policy makers on results rather than inputting higher taxes. There's lots of room for improvement with the significant investment we already make in education," he said.

Limited partnership offers high income

Q. My broker has suggested I buy me shares in a master limited partnership for the purpose of ob-taining higher income. He explained them a little bit, but I would appreciate it if you would make some comments about them.

A. MLPs are large limited partnerships, the interests of which are treated like shares of stock. They are traded on public stock exchanges just like shares of stock.

MLPs have an advantage because they allow the interest in large partnerships to be broken up into small pieces. Because they are traded on an exchange, master limited partnership shares (units) have a liquidity that would not be possible if interests were kept in large piec-

New report indicates no ozone crisis in U.S.

"There is no ozone crisis in the United States," said Dr. Kay Jones, author of a just-released ozone analysis. Jones, a former official with the Council on Environmental Quality, reported that abnormal urban ozone levels in 1988 were a result of last year's record heat wave and drought.

"The majority of U.S. cities where ozone levels exceed federal standards will likely come into attainment within five years without additional con-Jones, a Ph.D. engineer and consultant, is a former EPA official who served as chief science adviser to the President's Council on Environmental Quality. His analysis was sponsored by the Clean Air Working Group, which had taken note of his research and earlier presentations of Council on Envi conmental Quality data at academic conferences. Ozone pollution levels recorded in the record heat wave of 1988 were abnormal and they declined dramatically in 1989. The record heat wave of 1988 temporarily accelerated ozone formation in many cities, but 1989 figures show a marked decline in ozone readings throughout the entire area ffected by last year's drought.

Historical trend analysis shows that 1986 was a typical or "normal" year in most parts of the country. Further analysis of 1986 figures reveals that most Americans are not exposed to unhealthy ozone-levels at all, he said. Most Americans live in areas with acceptable ozone levels, he said. # Salem dumps defending champ

HERE'S A THEORY, concocted by whom I don't know, which maintains that for every bad break there's a good one. In the end, it all balances out. If so, the guys who've played football at Plymouth Salem are waiting still for the scales of fortune to start tipping in their favor. It's hardly news anymore, hear ing the Rocks missed the Class A football playoffs by the narrowest of margins. In fact, after examining their playoff history, could any thing else have been expected?

Salem has qualified for the playoffs once - 1977. Old-timers might remember. The Rocks' best player was quarterback Rich Hewlett, who went on to play at University of Michigan. Hewlett was knocked out of action in the last regular-season game; he never played against Portage Central.

SINCE THAT '77 appearance, Salem has had two 8-1 records. Neither was good enough to qualify. Of course, the Rocks can still boast the highest computer playoff point total ever accumulated for a Class A team.

Unfortunately, it was in 1974, the year of the "paper playoffs." The computer system was just being tested; there were no playoff games that year.

Typical. But just when it seems one school has suffered enough disap pointment and heartache, enough to plead "Stop already!" to who mever controls the fates, another lump of coal is dumped into their Christmas stocking.

THIS TIME Salem missed because their rival, Ann Arbor Pioabout state championship soccer teams, having coached five in his 15 years at Livonia Stevenson. And he likes Plymouth Salem's chances of succeeding his Spartans after the Rocks eliminated the defending Class A champs 5-2 in a regional contest Wednesday at Centennial Educational Park.

"We lost to an outstanding team today," Scerri said. "I'll make a prediction: I don't think there is a team than can hold this team."

Redford Catholic Central will attempt to do that Saturday when it plays the Rocks, 16-3-1, for the re-gional championship at 2 p.m. The site will be Ford Elementary School, located a half mile west of Dearborn Fordson High School on Ford Road between Southfield and Schaefer.

Salem advanced to the final with a historic victory - its first ever over Stevenson, snapping an 0-11-2 winless streak that spanned the last nine vears.

"THIS IS THE biggest win of my life; this is it," said Salem goal-keeper Matt Tudor after the Rocks avenged a 2-0, regular-season loss to the Spartans. "A lot of emotion went into this game, and we just carried it through.'

Wednesday's game was significant for another reason, also. It was Scerri's last, culminating a successful career in which he made Stevenson the foremost power in the state. He coached the Spartans to 242 wins, 19 losses and 20 ties, including a 13-3-2 mark this year.

Scerri, who emphasized he was retiring and not quitting, said he decided to leave coaching after an angry parent called his home and used abusive language because his son didn't make the all-league team.

"I'm going to miss it, but I don't have it in my heart anymore," Scerri said. "When a parent hurts me, when it's no fun anymore, I don't want to be there.

"I never go to the parents, where they work, and tell them how to do their job."

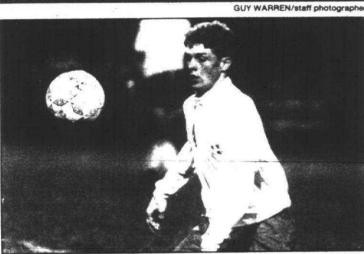

Scerri added he still feels a bond with his players and will continue to be a fan of the Spartans.

You can take me out of Steven-

"I FEEL BAD because of the kids. These kids are something else. I nev-

Stevenson beat in the district final. The Rocks offered support for that contention and appear to be peaking at the right time. Salem has played extremely well of late and has been on a roll since going 0-3-1 late in the regular season, during which time it lost to Churchill and Stevenson.

"We played the way we have the last two games," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "We're passing quicker and using our speed.

"Like our wins in the district, we knew we could do it if we spread the field and relied on team play. (The players) feel it; they've got the spir-

The game turned in favor of the Rocks late in the first half when Jeff Gold and Greg Christensen scored goals in the last two minutes, breaking a 1-1 tie and sending Salem into halftime with plenty of momentum. Gold and Stevenson keeper Jerry Smolenski went up for a ball in front of the goal and collided. The ball caromed toward the goal, and Gold drilled it past a defender with just under 2:00 to play.

WITH SECONDS left in the half, Chris Lajoy's throwin was touched by Chris Olson, who directed it to Christensen on the right side. Christensen kicked it across to the opposite side of the net.

"I think that did it." Johnson said. adding no player has scored more than one goal in Salem's last three games. "I think it was just a matter of the whole team clicking and relying on team play."

Salem might have secured its position in the first half, but the Spartans put themselves at a greater disad-vantage in the second half when defender Jason Flynn kicked the ball into his own net.

Flynn and Olson chased the ball into the Stevenson end, and Smolenski came out to take a security pass from Flynn, who lifted the ball over his keeper's head into the unattended net

Stevenson also was minus leading scorer Shane Millner, who was redcarded in the last game.

Salem's Andy Cosenza made it 5-1 when his rebound shot ricocheted off the foot of Stevenson defender John Labadie before Smolenski could recover from the initial attempt.

Flynn scored Stevenson's second goal on a penalty kick with 15 minutes remaining. Tom Baker opened the scoring for Salem after 10 minutes of play, and Todd Krzisnik countered for the Spartans with a header.

With almost perfect conditions at West Bloomfield's Marshbank Park, the Chiefs cruised past No. 2-ranked Redford Catholic Central, which posted 66 points, followed by Plym-outh Salem (77), Livonia Stevenson (166) and Farmington (168).

Farmington's Ben Goba won top individual honors, posting a time of 16:14. CC's Mike Sheridan ran a close second (16:27) and Canton's Brian Beach finished third. Chris Antczak of CC took fifth (16:53) and Salem's Brian Uryga sprinted his way to sixth (16:55).

Mike Ream of Canton finished eighth, followed by CC's Jay Schemanske who grabbed ninth (17:06) and Stevenson's Scott Freeborn finished 10th in 17:10.

Canton, CC and Salem will convoy north Saturday for the state Class A cross country finals. Flint's IMA-Brookwood Golf Club will host the 5 000-meter race, which is slated to begin at 11 a.m.

"If we are healthy, we can compete with any team there," Baker said. "I think CC, Canton and us are all evenly matched.

Magni, the veteran CC Tony coach, said his team has an insidechance because of experience.

"We've been there before," said Magni, who led CC to titles in 1983 and 1984. "The state run is a whole different ballgame and a lot of these teams will find that out."

John Barrett figured his Farmington girls cross country team "had a lock on second place no matter what" at Saturday's Class A regional at Marshbank Park.

Barrett's belief proved right enough, but - if he said the same thing to Redford Union coach Bob Ouellette - his optimism might have been tempered.

West Bloomfield captured the regional team title easily enough, scorng 31 points. After that, though, it got tight. Only three teams could qualify for Saturday's state meet at IMA-Brookwood Golf Course in Flint

And only nine points separated the next three teams. Farmington was d with 103, followed by Plymouth Canton, which edged Ouellette's RU team for third place, 107 to 112. Livonia Stevenson was fifth with 140, Bloomfield Hills Andover was sixth with 179 and Livonia Franklin took seventh with 186.

Other Observer-area teams in the 17-team region were Plymouth Sa-lem, ninth (260); North Farmington, 10th (285); Farmington Hills Mercy, 12th (312); Livonia Churchill, 13th Westland John Glenn, 15th (357); (408); and Livonia Ladywood, 17th (452).

THE INDIVIDUAL champion was Farmington senior Jennifer Kiel in Her season-long nemesis, 19:30 North Farmington senior Lisa Rives, was right behind in second in 19:35.

Other top-finishers from the Ob-server area included Canton's Amy Smith, fifth (20:39); Stevenson's Tracy Clark, sixth (20:43); and RU's Tracey James, 12th.

Still, who didn't finish may have had as big an impact. RU's Liza-Mockeridge told her coach she was feeling ill just an hour before the race. Ouellette wanted to pull her out, but she convinced him she was well enough to run.

Ouellette said he would allow it. but he was going to stand at the onemile marker on the 5,000-meter course and take her out if he thought her condition was worsening.

"She never made it that far," said Ouellette. Mockeridge, the Panthers' second-best runner, dropped out of the race early, and that quite likely cost RU a spot among the top three teams in the region. Ouellette said Tuesday Mockeridge possibly was afflicted with mononucleosis.

BUT THE RU coach would not use Mockeridge's illness as an excuse 'Everybody has problems," he said. RU's other runners did well, but not well enough to offset Mockeridge's loss. Michelle Daraban was 17th and Jenny Sturdevant was 18th; they will join James in the Class A individual race Saturday.

BU's other finishers were Kelly Murray (23rd) and Melissa Still (42nd).

Although bad luck hounded the Panthers Saturday, Ouellette was right: Other teams have endured similar problems all season. Farmington had to rest Margaret Martin part of the season and was without Amy Trunk, who was injured.

What bugs Moshimer is nowhere does the tiebreaking format mention better records. He thinks a team's record should be considered first or second, either before or after head-

Remember, the Rocks' only loss came in the final five seconds to Westland John Glenn, 7-6. After having shut out the Rockets the entire game, Salem surrendered a 37-vard completion on third-down-and-38 in the game-winning 82-yard drive (Glenn, by the way, is in the

"Then Pioneer's opponents win seven of eight games in the final week," said Moshimer. "That's how they caught us.

Salem used 12 to 14 players as starters (depending on how many went both ways), and all but one is graduating. There will be no second chance for them.

"I'm going to do everything in my power to make sure this doesn't happen again," vowed Moshimer. Of course, his promise won't help the '89 Rocks. As the Salem coach noted "The sad part about this is, the only time a rule is changed is after it

THERE ARE alternatives. Cven gros said a committee responsible for the football playoffs meets every January to consider possible changes. "I can tell you this," Cvengros said, "This will be on (our agenda) this year.'

Options include Moshimer's idea to consider a team's record in the tiebreaking formula. Or how about altering the regional concept? Instead of taking four teams from each of four regions, take the top two teams per region and then the next eight teams with the most playoff points as wild cards.

That should satisfy those who insist all regions of the state must be represented and others who would like the best teams to make it, regardless of location.

But understand: No matter how much you tinker with it, there will always be someone unhappy with the playoff format. As Cvengros said, "As long as you limit the number of teams in the playoffs, there's always going to be inadequacies."

OK. But do the inadequacies always have to go against Salem?

Still kicking Inter-regionals next for Ocelots

It didn't come easy, but it dia come - and now Schoolcraft Colege's mens soccer team is going. The Ocelots subdued a stubbon Cuyahoga Metro CC team 1-0 lst Saturday at SC to clinch the Regin 12 title. The victory improved their record to 11-2-2 overall.

A CHANGE in fortune has improved SC's chances of advancing to the final tournament immensely. The toughest team in the Inter-regional was Triton CC, raiked second in the NJCAA. Last weel, Triton was disqualified for using inligible play-

LF TRITON'S absence isn't enough, here'a more fuel for Dimi-triou's optimism. Chris Speen is ex-pected to return. The sophomore stopper straised his knee midway through the season and has been sidelined since.

"Without Chris, it put a strain on the coaching staff and the other players," safi Dimitriou of his missing, team captain. "Chris was our The win was the fourth in the last er out tiere.

"THAT'S WHERE our weakness is, up front," said Dimitriou. "So far, Khaled (Zeidan, SC's leading scores with 15 goals) has been a marked man. If we can draw some attention away from him, it's got to help."

John Castle is that man. And he's stalking Michigan's phantom feline: the black leopard

To some, Castle is little more than a ghost buster. Many people are con-vinced the reports of sightings of a large panther-like cat are merely from confused individuals who have seen either a black Labrador, a coyote, a feral house cat or a fisher. They remain convinced, in their own minds, that there is no large-cat population in Michigan

But to hundreds of other reputable large, black, panther-like cat, Castle is their only link to the bottom of this unsolved mystery.

"I've seen enough reports that I'm convinced we have a small popula- or cougar has yet been caught, killed tion of breeding black leopards in fichigan," Castle said.

IF ANYONE has an inside track in the existence of a black leopard alation in Michigan, Castle does. He has been studying and following up on the reported sightings for 36 ears. Sice 1980, Castle has been stalking the cats full-time and has traveled thousands of miles and spent thousands of hours investigating the reports.

Castle received his first report of a panther sighting in 1953 while serving as the city editor of the Pontiac Press (now the Oakland Press).

Although intrigued by the idea, Castle decided the sighting was robably that of a cougar under poor lighting conditions. He assumed the ing that time the remains of a neigh- "My survey did yield an eyepop- to: Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Bir-

More recently however, there have been a rash of sightings, centered around a number of reports from Michigan's southern Lower ninsula, which began in 1984.

At that time, Castle had recently retired from an executive speechwriting position at General Motors and had the time to spend to seriously investigate the reports.

"In the early '80s I got the drive to get to the bottom of this mystery," said Castle, "I was a newspaperman, people who claim to have seen a so naturally I was skeptical. But the more I've gotten into it, the less skeptical I've become."

> ALTHOUGH NO panther, leopard or otherwise positively identified in Michigan, Castle has gathered enough physical evidence to raise the eyebrows of even the most ardent skeptic

Castle follows up on most sighting reports. He discards many, however, such as sound reports and night sightings. He is also very skeptical of reports after an initial report. "Initial reports tend to develop hysteria," he cautioned.

Despite the discarded reports, Castle has files and files of reputable reports, including some which even leave the skeptics with unanswered

Burger returned later with a 30.06 and a scope, hoping the cat would return. It did, but Burger couldn't get a clear shot. "I could see it clear as day in my scope. It was a black leopardess, probably weighing 70 to 75ounds," Burger told Castle.

"People have to understand that if they see something, they must find the trail immediately. They can't wait until tomorrow or all kinds of animals can come through the area and they may never find the correct set of tracks. Even with tracks and pictures, many people will doubt the existence of black leopards in Michigan. "The best way to authenticate their existence is to put one up a tree, tranquilize it and cage it," Castle said. "Or if one was killed, either by a hunter or a car, but I don't advocate that and I would hate to see

For now, Castle will continue his hunt with hopes of someday hitting the jackpot. But he knows the mystery could go on for years. "They have been called the feline flying saucers," admitted Castle, "But I've got so many credible reports, I just can't ignore it.

Unfamiliar face

Weisburg is the man behind top TV documentaries

special writer

6D*

TOU WOULDN'T KNOW his face if you passed him on a street of his native Bloomfield Hills.

But through his award-winning work, millions of Americans, including many of the most important decision makers in Washington, D.C., better understand the often-complicated issues we face today in the United States. His most recent film premiered in early October on Pubic Broadcasting and was hosted by the dean and news anchor emeritus of American news reporting, Walter Cronkite.

The amazing thing is this - Roger Weisburg, 36, actually began his award-winning career as a documentary filmmaker by accident.

"I actually stumbled into this career by default," Weisburg said, from the office of his company, Public Policy Productions, in New York City. "After attending Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn., I was on my way to a Ph.D. in comparative literature and life in academia. taught Introductory Philosophy and Spanish for a year at one of the Friends Schools in Manhattan and realized that teaching really wasn't the direction I wanted to go in."

WEISBURG LEFT teaching and with aging, child abuse, wife battery, regan working as a consumer activ- divorce, consumer fraud, housing, ist with a consumer agency in New York City. He was soon pointed out to television producers as a consumer expert. By 1977 he was helping to provide stories and background on the de-institutionalization of the

But you have to fairly narrowly define what you hope to achieve because, one, an hour is a lot of time for a TV news story, and, two, it's not much when you get into the complexities of the issue. "Documentary combines the rigors of journalism with the creative side of filmmaking, merging the two so that the viewer is not conscious either that they're listening to a news report or seeing a movie. Hopefully the viewer gets involved with the story and doesn't feel

"I try to get the viewer hooked on the story, and slip in the reporting ry. Weisburg's documentary-making and the broader implications of the story they've been drawn into. My goal is to subtly weave the story and the reporting together, so that the viewer doesn't notice where one begins and the other lets off."

> Weisburg writes, produces and directs all his films. "No Place Like Home" examined the long-term care options of the frail elderly, and eceived numerous awards. "Old Enough To Do Time" scrutinized "get tough" juvenile justice policies and received several awards and an Emmy nomination

Of utmost importance is to have something worthwhile to say knowing exactly and concisely what you want to get across.'

- Roger Weisburg

His most recent project, "Can't Afford To Grow Old," hosted and narrated by Walter Cronkite, exanined long-term care for the elderly and the reasons why each year a million Americans are forced into poverty by the cost of long-term care. The program also explored different approaches to providing assistance to this fastest-growing segment of American society.

Weisburg currently has two projects in the works (physical production - location shooting, editing, takes six-nine months). The first is on national health insurance and the second is on preschool children in America growing up in poverty.

"For the first time in history, children are the poorest segment of the population," he said. "In the U.S. there are 3.5 million kids living below the poverty line. Today's kids are the first ever downwardly mobile generation that this country has brought up. The report will be on the competition between the generations for scarce social dollars.

ON THE LIGHTER side is Weisburg's experiences with the bigname host/narrators he uses for his documentaries.

"When we cast, we're looking to match the message of the documentary with the prospective narrator's interests, or public service sensibilities. We, in effect, exploit their TV ersona," he said. "You couldn't work with anybody better than Walter Cronkite. He is the most incredibly congenial, personable man you could ever meet. He puts everyone at ease. And he's such a pro. I allotted three and a half hours of studio time for Walter's voiceover narration session and he completed it in 35 minutes. He read over 50 pages of manuscript. He just doesn't make mistakes. He's so good at what he does that everything he says seems to be his deepest most heartfelt conviction.

'Actor Jack Klugman was very energetic, eager to get to the guts of the issue, very interested in coming across as uncovering scandal much like his televison character, Quincy. We had to get him to tone it down a bit. Daniel Travanti, who was at the height of his 'Hill Street Blues' fame as Captain Furillo, also had to let up on his TV persona when he hosted 'Old Enough To Do Time.'

According to Weisburg, the most selfless host who gave of her time and effort was actress Helen Hayes. As a result of their working together Weisburg and Hayes have main tained an active friendship. Hayes even offered her services for free but worked for scale because of union rules.

THE MOST DIFFICULT host to work with for Weisburg was James Earl Jones - who does indeed have the reputation in the industry of being somewhat cantankerous.

"But when all is said and done and you're in the editing studio and you hear his voice coming out of thespeakers, it's wonderful. It's like God talking," Weisburg said.

When asked which composer she plays best, Raim defers to the critWolf: publishers at door

EXT WEEK, Livonia writer S.K. Wolf's suspense-thriller, "The Harbinger-Effect" (Simon & Schuster, $18.95), will arrive at area bookstores.

It'll be a very special day for Wolf (a.k.a. Sarah Wolf Shoemaker), made especially sweet by the fact that the book - just her second published novel - has been designated an alternate selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club and a main selection of the Mysterious Book Club, a division of BOMC.

The new novel, (her first, "Long Chain of Death," was published by Walker & Co. in 1987) is a tale of intrigue and derring-do. It centers on the defection of one Yuri Klebanoff, an important Soviet citizen who not only happens to be the son of the editor-in-chief of Pravda, but is also the grandson o viet premier.

Along with the KGB, U.S. operatives are also working to sabotage the defection

WOLF, 53, has lived in Greece and Turkey, and traveled extensively in the Middle East. She wrote "The Harbinger Effect" over three-year period, starting in 1985, while working as a librarian at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Much of it was put together, in fact, during spare moments she could grab on lunch ind coffee breaks nce, the then-aspiring writer was highly intrigued. "Writers hear things like that and immediately begin to embellish, of course," Wolf said.

Over time, she kept thinking about the story. As a result, some time during the years that followed, a plot line took shape: What if an important Soviet citizen defected, and not only did the Soviets want to get the defector back, but the Americans didn't want the defection to work, either

With that, "The Harbinger Effect" was on its way.

IT WOULD BE another couple of years, though, before any of it was on paper - not only because Wolf was sidetracked by activities like returning to college, graduating, going to work, and seeing her first book published - but because she tends to "write" most of a story inside her head before committing any of it to paper.

for her opening chapters on how an American embassy deals with a defector, she gave him a call.

"He gave me very detailed information and, in fact, offered to read those parts of the book which dealt with that," she said.

At no time, did the agent divulge "secretive" information, she any said.

Meet author

S. K. Wolf will be available to sign books and meet readers at the following locations during November Nov. 12 — Metro News.

The New York Times called pianist Cynthia Raim "a musician of intelligence and judgment." The Philadelphia Inquirer praised her "impeccable technique, bright but not . . delicately colored." brittle .

Saturday, Nov. 11, the native Detroiter will bring her critically acclaimed musicianship home to the first concert of the annual Birmingham Unitarian Church Festival of Music.

"I'm there to make music, not a show. I'm not what you would call a flamboyant artist," Raim said of her own interpretive style.

She prefers letting the music take the limelight in her interpretations, rather than resorting to keyboard pyrotechnics that draw attention to the planist at the expense of the music, she said.

"I enjoy playing a wide repertoire," she said of her conscious decision not to become musically pi-

"It has often been said that I have an exceptional ability to be equally

WHEN RAIM PLAYS at the Birmingham Unitarian Church Festival of Music, she'll be returning not only to her home area, but also to the place and to the people who believed in her talent when she was a teenag er attending Cass Tech High School, studying under Mischa Kottler and playing Sunday mornings at the church

Unique Steinway coming here

Steinway & Sons and Hammell ebony and dyed Swiss pear and Music Inc. of Livonia, in cooperation with the Chamber Music Society of Detroit, are hosting "Steinway and Friends at Orchestra Hall" with internationally acclaimed Detroitborn planists Ruth Laredo and James Tocco at 8 p.m. Friday in Orchestra Hall.

The concert honors Steinway piano company's 500,000th piano. Laredo and Tocco will perform.

In its 136-year history, Steinway has built just three specially com-missioned planos. The 100,000th Steinway, built in 1903, is property of the Smithsonian Institution. The 200,000th, built 35 years later, is in the East Room of the White House. Now, the 500,000th Steinway has been created as a "gift to the world."

The 500,000th plano case was de-signed by Wendell Castle, widely ac-claimed furniture designer.

trimmed with Bubinga wood and Gaboon ebony, the piano is adorned with laser-inscribed signatures of more than 870 living Steinway artists. With an estimated value of over $500,000, it has the distinction of being the most valuable as well as visually arresting plano ever made.

Immediately following the concert, the plano will be taken to Hamsic showrooms on Middle mell Mu Belt Road in Livonia where it will be on public display from Monday, Nov. 6, through Saturday, Dec. 2, as part of Hammell's exclusive Steinway factory selection event.

It will then be moved to the Detroit Institute of Arts where it will be featured with a complete collection of famous works by Castle. In addition, gallery concerts on the 500,000th will be presented with two special "Brunch with Bach" perfor-mances in Kresge Court.

He is aided in his attempt at defection by an ex-Peace Corps volunteer, Molly Davison, who, though short on a knowledge of international intrigue, is long on spirit and quick wit.

The action moves from Africa to Rome to Greece to points beyond, with stakes growing ever higher, and the plot thickening considerably because of one curious fact: Ideas, outlines, characters and possible plots for the story had been rattling around inside Wolf's imagination since the early '70s, however

'Harbinger' has well-devised plot

By Barbara Cassani special writer

FEW years back, scientists introduced a phrase into our ever-deepening pool of buzz words that raised the national and global ecological consciousness: The Greenhouse Effect.

This phrase describes the warm ing of the Earth that has occurred because the burning of fossil fuels have increased the amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, trapping solar energy.

Sarah Wolf's new book, due out this month from Simon & Schuster, introduces a similar phrase that ust may become part of the guage and raise the national, and possibly global, political consciousness to an even more wary level: The Harbinger Effect.

THIS PHRASE (the title of Wolf's spy thriller) describes the political manipulation of a Third World nation by the American and Soviet military, apparently unbe-knownst to the governments in Washington and Moscow.

Soviet glasnost, perestroika and American proposals of "a kind-er, gentler nation" have become mere political plots stoked by Sovi-

Africa, that is the scene of a civil uprising supposedly run by a group of Bodamwean rebels. Enter Yuri Klebanoff, a Russian photojournalist working for Tass (the Soviet news agency), documenting the fighting in what the Soviets regard as a people's revolution in this tor-rid land.

ONE EVENING, as he witness another typical Bodamwean su set, his artist's eye unconscious reveling in the subtle watercold this exotic city on the Atlantic, Klebanoff decides to defect to the United States. After setting in motion his planned ruse, Klebanoff makes his way to the United States

At the embassy, Kelbanoff uses his undeveloped film of the fighting in the Dioula province as a barter with embassy officials who do not readily buy "seeking artistic freedom" as reason enough to grant Klebanoff asylum in America. It isn't until Klebanoff cites his infamous family tree - he's the only living grandson of former Soviet premier Sergei Butakov, the aging ead of the old-school, hard-line Soviet politics (we might compare fictional Butakov with Kruschev) - that the embassy officials takes Klebanoff's request for asylum a little more seriously.

APPARENTLY UNAWARE of United States involvement in co-vert military operations in Bodamwe at the time of Klebanoff's defection, the officials quickly sort out the effects of Klebanoff's defection on current Soviet Premi-Kalishev's (compare fictional Kal-ishev to Gorbachev) soft-line approach of glasnost and perestroi-ka. They also consider what Kle-banoff's defection would mean to United States and Soviet relations

United States and Soviet relations and future summit meetings. The real consequences of Kle-banoff's defection lie somewhere festering beneath the surface in a political carbuncle, code name Harbinger on the American side, and code name Phase II on the So-rist side viet si wants to inform us that the old boy network is alive and well in both the East and the West. Soviet Phase II proponents consist of a group of old-school, pro-Butakov Soviet politicos that don't want to see the communist revolution go down the tubes by diluting it with Kalishev's near-Western reforms.

On the United States side, the Harbinger plan is the idea of a small group of former highly positioned Army and Navy men, seek-ing to retain the power and money they once held in a former harder-lined American president's admin-istration while reinstating the mili-tary-industrial complex thether held tary-industrial complex that u pin ed American government not

IT IS this premise, the existence of a mirror-double, clandestine non-officially-authorized Soviet American faction of covert mili-tary operations in a Third World country — one that purposefully intends to keep East and West immersed, or "buried" if you will, in Cold War politics — that makes Wolf's "The Harbinger Effect" so intriguing.

Wolf has good descriptive sense and uses it throughout the book to

'Harbinger' a modern woman's story

Continued from Page 1 introduce settings and characters, as well as to allude to what's about to happen in a particular setting with a particular character - for example, the opening passage of the story.

FROM ONE short paragraph, the reader knows immediately that the character, Yuri Andreyevich Klebanoff, is Russian, a photographer and that he is experiencing a dilemma, a thought that has been obviously nagging him for awhile as he tells himself, "Do it now," and that whatever it is he is going to do now might cause him consid erable trouble, so much so that if he ponders too long, he will not do what he he must do now.

The imperative pulls the reader into the story as we internally ask. to what now? What's he's going to do? Is he going to jump out the win-dow? We read curiously on to learn that this is a defection, not a sui-cide, and then we look for a reason-But what we find is a somewhat anemic excuse for seeking asylum n the United States.

INDEED, THROUGHOUT the story, the character of Yuri seems not to have much substance there isn't much meat of reason for the reader to bite into and digest - is reflected in the somewhat dida so his words and thoughts about the defection and his subsequent involvement with Molly Davison, a Peace Corps worker enlisted to escort him out of the country under the guise of American husband and-wife tourists, do not reveal the man inside the political defector.

Yuri gives a good deal of person al history and politcal background information to Molly, and even ex plains how glasnost and perestroika should be interpreted from their Russian definitions (somewhat different from U.S. interpretations), yet, he remains enigmatic. if not downright aloof. Perhaps that was Wolf's intention: to make Yuri a somewhat transparent conduit through which the plot and other characters transit.

"THE HARBINGER Effect" could easily be described as a modern woman's story, even though a male is the focal character. The female characters appear the strongest. They are intelligent, who manage to outsmart the overbearing political machismo of both American and Soviet governments, manipulating them to play the game of Yuri's defection their way or no way. Wolf's background as a former teaching librarian at University of Michigan's undergraduate library The female characters appear the strongest. They are intelligent, can-do women who manage to outsmart the overbearing political machismo of both American and Soviet aovernments.

tic nature of "The Harbinger Ef- new word to be learned is italicized fect." There is a good deal of referential information pertaining to journalism/newspaper source ethics, - publishing a source of information on "background" or "deep background," when and why this is done, and information about governmental procedures regarding defections, foreign relations, etc.

WOLF ALSO makes use of a lot italicized terms, some of which she partially defines by the context they are used, and some of which Russian or Italian/English dictionary or a governmental slang dictionary. Although it's wonderful to expand your vocabulary, foreign and native, these passages in "Harbinger" are reminiscent of spelling/ vocabulary exercises where the or left blank to be filled in from a list or glossary, However, Wolf left out the glossary, and this is a stopper to another stimulating. well-devised novel for this second author

AS HARBINGER refers to an omen of things to come, we can only hope that such subterreanean workings of groups's like Wolf's Harbinger and Phase II are purely fictional concepts in U.S. and Sovicompel the reader to look for a et relations and that glasnost and perestroika are the real ice picks to chip away the frozen block we know as the Cold War.

"He critiqued those first two chapters very closely, so that I was confident the chapters were really accurate, even though I'd never wit nessed any of that first-hand," Wolf said.

WHILE SHE conducts some of her research for her novels via personal contacts (she once learned, from her son's high school physics teacher, how to put together a bomb, and recent ly happened upon a helpful weapons expert - at a church service), she's quick to point out that more than 90 percent of it is done at her local

S.K. Wolf in the near future?

COUNT ON it. Her third book, "MacKinnon's Machine." is scheduled to be brought out by Simon & Schuster in fall 1990.

It's the tale of a group of mercenaries sent to the Middle East to assassinate Libya's Moammar Quaddafi, only to receive a rather astonishing surprise in the bargain. The word at Simon & Schuster is that Wolf's third novel looks to be a "major book."

A fourth thriller is in the offing, too, but none of it is on paper, as of now. "Right now, I'm 'percolating,'" Wolf saids" smiling. "I don't yet feel quite sure enough about where it's going to stort writing any of it down." Plans are also afoot for several mainstream novels somewhere along the way, she said.

staff writer oncrete's strong grip in subdivisions may be slipping. Brick patios, brick side walks and even brick driveways are becoming increasingly popular with homeowners even though brick landscaping generally costs two to three times as much as concrete. 'We do 500 houses a year here, said Mike Soulliere, who owns Soulliere Decorative Stone of Utica with his brother, Roger.

'(Homeowners) are looking for that cute little patio or walkway. It's more decorative, more durable," Mike said. "What they're looking for is a style of brick to fit with the house

"People are tired of concrete and the gray look. They're tired of cks," he said Soulliere is recognized as the largest brick landscaper in the Detroit area in terms of sales and employ-

The other major player, Brick-scape in Northville, is owned by Joe and Diane DiRado.

"A LOT of people are looking for something elegant, different," Diane said. "People are getting tired of looking down the subdivision and seeing wood deck after wood deck or concrete patio after concrete patio. "People like the look of brick. It's very rich looking and it's a long-lasting system if installed properly," Joe said

The concept of brick landscaping, fairly new in this country, was imported from Canada. Consumers here started showing interest after brickworks were displayed at a Homearama about five years ago, Soulliere said

Both DiRado and the Soullieres had been in the plant landscaping business and taught themselves brick landscaping. Both also started in the business in 1984.

"ALL JOBS are done differently. I don't think we've done two alike ever." DiRado said.

We're really pushing into deck guys," Soulliere said. "Number one, you don't have cracking. Number two, you don't need permits."

No permits means no inspections and no assessment increases on the property, unless the local assessor stumbles upon an improvement.

But we're getting ahead of ourselves

First, bricks used for patios, sidewalks and driveways aren't the same kind of bricks used on houses.

Landscaping bricks generally are formed by pressurizing concrete and concrete aggregate using less water than regular concrete. Bricks used on buildings generally are made of clay little patio or walkway."

The brick is not made for being in the ground," he said. "They throw them in the ground without thinking of pitching (for drainage). Moisture gets in, they shatter."

Lesson No. 2 - mortar isn't used in brick landscaping jobs. DiRado described the process

"First you excavate an area. Then you install a base of slag gravel and sand - six inches for patios and sidewalks, 8-12 for driveways. You lay bricks one at a time. You lay them hand tight.

"You put a concrete edging around the surface. Then you run a compactor over the surface that sweeps sand between the joints at the same time," DiRado said. The vibration of the compactor and the sand tighten the bricks. Soulliere picks up the narrative:

"You have to follow specifications

Branch support, longevity key to mortgage lenders

By Doug Funke staff writer

Who are the major mortgage lend ers in metro Detroit and why

Standard Federal Bank, First Federal of Michigan and Comerica Bank-Detroit led the way in terms of total amount loaned and number of mortgages issued during August.

According to figures provided by Lawyers Title Insurance Corp:

• Standard Federal, headquartered in Troy, recorded 1,593 mortgages during the month with an aggregate value of $94.5 million.

· First Federal of Michigan, based in Detroit, logged 626 morts with an aggregate value of gages with a $42.8 million.

· Comerica Bank-Detroit. recorded 870 mortgages with an ag-gregate value of $27.3 million.

All of those mortgages were for $250,000 or less and the great major-ity were on residential property. Since the August survey, Comerica has consolidated Detroit, Ann Arbor and Comerica Mortgage Corp. oper-ations into one entity — Comerica Mortgage Corp. — and acquired Bloomfield Mortgage. If those branches had been included as one entity by Lawyer's Title Comerica's totals for August would have been 1,070 mortgages with an aggregate value of $41.4 million.

THE THREE pace-setters seem to have two elements in common longevity in the financial services business to build a reputation and lots of branches in which to draw customers.

Michael Lubig, vice president and manager of the mortgage depart-ment for Standard Federal, said he anticipates that his bank will approach $850 million in mortgage oans this year.

"First, we have a very good branch network (60) that blankets the community we serve," Lubig said. That makes it convenient to filing mortgage applications.

"Number two is the speed at which the customer gets a response back," Lubig said.

"Now, between when a customer comes in and files an application and when we're ready to close on the mortgage has been running . . . 15, 15% calendar days.

"THE LAST thing is price," he said: "For a lot of customers, that's most important. Standard Federal is very, very competitive as far as rates and fees."

They like the look that brick provides

By Doug Funke staff writer

The appearance, pure and simple, is what attracts homeowners and commercial customers to brick landscaping.

Lesley O'Neill of Birmingham said she just didn't think a wood deck would mesh architecturally with the house she shares with husband Bill. The O'Neills wanted to do something with a small plot in the vard that had been used as a garden and contained some old patio blocks. "I had seen it (brick) at a shopping center in town," she said. "I just think it's a nicer look."

They contracted for a small brick patio and a brick ribbon walkway along the driveway.

"We've had a lot of positive comments. People out walking have stopped and said how nice it looks."

Lesley said. Paul Camilleri of Livonia has installed a brick patio, a brick walkway between the patio and a deck and a brick walkway leading to the children's play area in the yard.

"WE WANTED it to have a parklike atmosphere," Camilleri said of his newly built house. "Asphalt or cement would take away from that." Camilleri and his wife, Karen, became more and more enamored with brick landscaping the more they saw of it over the years at builder shows. "If I could afford it, I would have a brick driveway and sidewalk," he Molly Kuclo, who lives with husband Tom in Northville, said there was no doubt in her mind what she wanted when an old brick walkway and porch steps started deteriorating in the house they bought last

More brick "I fell in love with it. It really made an entrance to the house," Molly said. 'I've had nothing but positive remarks. In fact, another neighbor down the street is going to have Brickscape do something for them.

"Even the woman who did our wallpaper and did the master bedroom called and said how nice it looked," Kuclo said.

'It provides the image the city wants to project - a positive, homey kind of image. The brick walkways add a sense of community pride."

- Paul Sincock of Plymouth

BRICK LANDSCAPING is going beyond residential. 'Again, it makes a statement about what they're doing, what they're about," said Joe DiRado, owner of Brickscape. Mike Soulliere, owner of Soulliere Decorative Stone, said his company has done 43,000 square feet of brick landscaping at the entrance to the Detroit Zoo and 25,000 square feet at the Scott Fountain on Belle Isle.

Soulliere also did a brick patio some years back at Oakland Hills Country Club in Birmingham especially for the U.S. Open. The patio was taken apart after the tournament and the bricks were reassembled at drinking fountains and other spots around the course.

MUNICIPALITIES WITH downtowns also are going for the brick look in central business districts. "It provides the image the city Brickscape workers lay out a circle and fan design for a home in Pheasant Hills subdivision in Northville. wants to project - a positive homey kind of image," said Paul Sin-cock, assistant to the city manager in Plymouth. "The brick walkways add a sense of community pride." add a sense of community pride." The bricks installed around Kellogg Park in the early 1970s were financed by private donations, Sincock said. Brick landscaping also projects a historical flavor, said Steven tal drainage. Walters, city manager in Northville, ber of projects including the area around the city's bandshell. you try to get the flavor by doing accents, only the edge (of sidewalks) at certain points and crosswalks," Walters said.

Builders will offer liberal use of brick, wood and stone. Moveable walls that will allow homeowners to create their own solutions for additional space will become popular.

The 3,000-square-foot house has curved bay windows, generous decks and huge atrium windows in front and back. Its amenities include double showers that convert to steam rooms and movable walls that would allow a redesign of living space without raising a hammer.

no aerobics. "Relaxing." it was called. Talk about temps perdu! Today's traveler, glued to the ube at home, wants to be entertained, educated, amused, and force-fed shrimp at all hours of the day and night. "In my dad's time, the late 1940s and the '50s at the (Joan Anderson) Agency, the mode of travel for those with the time and the money was the ocean liner." recalls Parn Nikitas. "They took the S.S. France or the first Queen Mary, and had a private driver with a Daimler neet them at the dock. Then they took a leisurely tour of the countries they wanted to see." Southfield resident Nikitas 'grew up'' in the travel business and took over the Joan Anderson Travel Service when her father, George Nikitas. retired. "The children and arandchildren of those leisurely ravelers are our clients today They can afford the best ccommodations, but times have changed. 'The best' today usually implies a complete package: all you have to do is show up — and pay. The Sea Goddess I and II and Abercromble & Kent represent the finest in luxury tours. They are the first to fill up: there are a Nothing to do but sit there and lot of people out there who want the best and will pay for it."

The Sea Goddess is a ship. but that's about the only thing she has in common with a slow boat to China. Lifestyle aboard the Cunard vessel is typified by the photos in the lavish on-how to flirt, and, please God, brochure. Throughout. passengers are shown wearing black-tie or swim suits. If your idea of dressing for dinner is putting on socks, you might feel a little out of place mingling amiably . . . with nine Saudi princesses, a Swiss hotelier, a Houston oil and cattle king, and a well-to-do English family" who represent the typical Sea Goddess passenger mix.

Sea Goddesses cruises vary in price, according to destination and duration. Al 11-day Caribbeay/New Year's cruise is $7,900. A 14-day Orient/ Holiday cruise, beginning and ending in Singapore, with stops at Jakarta. Ball and other ports. is $9,000.

On the other hand, "The Royal Air Tour." promises "the wonders of the world by private jet." Offered also by Abercrombie & Kent, The Tour is limited to 88 travelers. Four tour hosts will ensure comfortable sightseeing and personal service. An L-1011 jetliner has been #### refitted to accommodate the 88 passengers in first class luxury. (The plane usually carries 344 passengers.) The entire rear of the airplane has been remodeled into a bar and lounge area. Passengers will spend no more than 712 hours in flight during any single segment of the trip. and the group will always fly west with the sun.

The tour departs from Los Angeles via Honolulu, and will return via New York thirty-five days later. In between you will experience "a program gratifying balanced between sophisticated urban pleasures and adventures far off the beaten path."

The itinery includes: three nights in French Polynesia; three nights in Australia; three nights in Bali: three nights in Hong Kong: three nights in China: three nights in Delhi and Agra: five nights in Kenya; six nights in Egypt: and three nights in England. Promising an itinerary that explores the master works of man and nature, members of the Royal Air tour will see the beaches of Bora-Bora, the Masai. Mara Game Reserve, the River Nile, as well as the Sydney Opera House, the Great Wall, the Pyramids, and the Taj Mahal.

THE TOUR OFFERS more than monuments, however. Members will also have the opportunity to meet a wide variety of interesting and inflential people around the globe. Prominent local dignitaries have been invited for cocktails and dinner at each stop: In Agra, the Maharajah of Jaipur has been invited, and in Nairobi Richard Leakey will discuss his latest archaeoanthropolical finds.

The all-inclusive price of the taur is $36,000. double occupancy, with a $2,850 single supplement. In addition to air transporation, all meals, cruise and land accommodations. surface transporation, sight seeing and gratuities, the fare includes First Class air travel between your home town and Los Angeles at departure, and between New York and your home town at the conclusion of the trip

By Joan Boram special writer

OU PROBABLY could be a successful wine merchant if you weren't didactic, but it isn't likely. Certainly, the voluble Merchant of Vino, Ed Jonna, and the silver-tongued Tim McCarthy, of the Eastern Market's Cost Plus Wine Shoppe, are adept at giving the impression that you are doing them a favor by asking questions about wine.

Both Jonna and McCarthy see themselves as primarily educators. "I'm here to answer questions," said McCarthy in his genial brogue. "I love to talk about wine — I'll talk all day, if a customer is interested."

And Jonna admits he would rather preside over a wine tasting than deal with a "money-is-no-object" wine customer.

"It's just more rewarding to see people discover the pleasures of fine wine. My wife (Juliette, of Juliette's Cusine) and I offer wine-and-food tastings for private parties. After the hostess selects the foods for the seven-course dinner, I select the appropriate wines. At the tasting, we compare champagnes of the world, several red and white wines, and dessert wines. By the end of the party, guests have tasted 24 wines and know their background and characteristics. They are in the top two percent in the United States as far as wine knowledge is concerned, and they're eager to know more.

"THERE ARE VERY few gifts that will enhance everyday living for a longer period of time than a wine tasting given by an expert who shares not only knowledge. but enthusiasm." "Wine is a time machine." he continues. "Nothing else can take you back 40 or 50 years like a fine aged wine can. Try eating a piece of fish that's been in the freezer for half a century! Wine is a living thing: it accents life."

WINE a timely Investment

> Both men agree that a fine palate is made, not born. The problem seems to be that, whereas people who don't know much about art know what they like, they are reluctant to have an opinion about wine. Seeing is more democratic than tasting.

"Go to a shop — Cost Plus, Merchant of Vino, Cloverleaf, Gibbs, Battel's — where they have qualified people who have tasted the wines they stock," said McCarthy. "A reputable shop will only buy good vintages, so you can hardly go wrong. The secret is to ask questions."

MCCARTHY'S ADVICE

makes sense when you consider that, typically, Cost Plus carries some 2,000 different wines at any given time. So don't be shy, speak up. Pick a quiet time, probably not a Saturday afternoon, and allow yourself to become educated in one of life's pleasures.

All right, so you're educated. You're educated to the stage where your palate is ahead of your pocketbook. You've begun to shub old friends who still drink wine coolers. Now what do you do?

The first thing you do is develop patience. Buy a few cases of reasonably priced wine every year, put them in the celler, or a cool closet, and foret about them for a few years. Voila! In a few years that $8 bottle of Cotes de Rhone is a $40 bottle of wine — assuming you can find it at any price!

'I recommend a five-year rotation for wines," said McCarthy, "All red wines are drunk too young in this country. The only way is to allow them to mature gracefully in a cellar. The ideal temperature is 60 degrees-65 degrees, which allows the wines to mature gradually. If it's too cold, the wine will stay as it is. Wine matures from the outside in — the bigger the bottle, the longer it takes to mature."

Just remember, we're not talking mutual funds here. The idea is not to sell them in five years and get rich, but to drink them in five years and feel rich. What McCarthy calls pricequality ratio. "The investment is in the pleasure of drinking fine wines."

TO DEMONSTRATE THE virtue of patience, McCarthy tells of two bottles of Spanish wine, vintage 1964 and 1974, that he picked up in a closeout bin in Chicago for $1.99 each, put in the basement and completely forgot about for 10 years. "They were fantastic. I don't often rave about wines, but they had matured into $40 wines."

Jonna feels so strongly about allowing wine to mature that he won't even let you buy a $125 bottle of 1986 Chateau Mouton Rothschild unless you promise not to drink it before 2001.

If you want to pamper someone special, like yourself, join the Merchant's Wine of the Month Club. There are two categories: The Enthusiast and The Advocate, and membership can be for six months or one year. A bottle of wine selected by Jonna and his "Board of Selectors" is delivered to the door every month, and members receive the club's monthly newsletter. "Notes" describes the month's selection, and also explores issues in the world of wine appreciation — articles ranging from how to build a wine cellar to planning a trip to the wine country.

(If you're looking for a fine gift for a wine aficionado, the Birmingham Book Store has two elegant volumes any winelover would cherish: "The Sotheby World Wine Encyclopedia," by Tom Stevensch, $40 and Hugh Johnson's "World Atlas of Wine," $45.)

THE NUMBER OF really good wine stores in the area is a tribute to the taste and sophistication of the citizens of Greater Detroit. "Very few cities in the United States have the number of fine food and wine stores that the Detroit area has," said Jonna. "Wine makers all over the world recognize this, and they bring their wines here to sell."

McCarthy concurs. "I don't have to go to France. Everything worth buying comes to Detroit."

McCarthy and Jonna differ over whether 1989 is likely to be a good year or not. McCarthy doubts it: "They had our summer of 1988 extremely hot and dry. The grapes had to be harvested three weeks early. A good wine requires a balafice between fruit acid and tannic acid. Extreme heat cooks the grapes, making such a balance unlikely."

Jonna agrees with the predictions that 1989 will be a good year, but, "You'd better check with your acturalist before buying any. It'll be five years before it gets here, and another 10 or 15 years before it will be drinkable."
