RV group set to tackle more township rules

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A group that killed a proposed ordinance restricting recreational vehicle parking, now plans to take aim at other township rules.

A lengthy set of rules addressing everything from home occupations to parking rules will be discussed at a 7 p.m. planning commission meeting tonight in the township administration building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, south of Proctor.

THE COMMISSION is expected to recommend approval of the revised ordinance to the board of trustees. If the board approves the ordinance package, the rules become law.

The Michigan RV Homeowners Association, recently formed in Canton in response to a proposed ordinance restricting RV parking in residential areas. The group succeeded in stopping most of the RV restrictions.

"We're homeowners as well as RV owners," said Fred Beinke, an association board member.

Some basketball backboards could be made illegal in the township, Beinke said.

"We're not going away, we're going to make sure that the people get the most out of their government," Beinke said. "I do not think the government should be restricting people every time they look up. Government is to serve the people. It's not to restrict . . . so long as they do not hurt anyone else."

ANOTHER RV association member is expected to urge trustees to temper restrictions.

"This is not Rochester Hills and we don't want it to be Rochester Hills," Beinke said.

The ordinance packet identifies four commercial districts:

- Neighborhood commercial is geared toward residential convenience shopping;

- community comparison shopping;

- regional shopping drawing people in surrounding communities;

- and interchange service district for regional retail, office buildings and businesses serving residents and non-residents.

The ordinance revision also addresses the following:

- Construction rules, landscaping and off-street parking and loading;

- Zoning district regulations for the residential, commercial, indus-

Michael Varney, 4, of Canton whispers to Santa shortly after his arrival in Canton.

Kids whisper Christmas wishes into Santa's ear

By Diane Gale
staff writer

When Jason Falardeau of Canton was asked if Santa Claus usually arrives by helicopter (like he did Friday at Canton Cinema 6), he said "No."

"He usually comes by limousine," the 9-year-old said. Jason said he saw Santa arrive that way last year next door at Frank's Nursery.

"Maybe his reindeers are tired," Jason added.

THE SCENE was jolly as 600 youngsters accompanied by adults started standing in line at 7:30 a.m. to watch Santa make the long trip from the North Pole and descend from a helicopter at the theater on Ford Road, said Tim Jahn, theater manager.

Youngsters were treated to a free viewing of "An American Tale," a raffle with more than 30 prizes, snacks and goody bags packed with coloring books, crayons and other prizes. Even adults got surprise bags with sewing kits and other trinkets.

The morning of Christmas delights was sponsored by McDonald's of Canton, Canton Cinema Six and the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

However, old St. Nick stole the show. The youngsters cuddled, cooed and whispered in his ear.

James Christopher Duque, 5, of Canton quietly told Santa what he wanted and later refused to divulge the secret. His mother, Jenny, said the family recently moved to the township from New Jersey.

ALLYSON McDONALD, 8, of Canton asked Santa for a Barbie doll despite the fact that she has 20 more of the dolls at home.

Westland resident Grant Winchester, 4, hugged Santa and after a little prodding said he'd like to see Leggo's and blocks under his Christmas tree. Jonathon Show, 3, of Plymouth looked almost like a doll himself in the big man's arms. He declined comment when Santa asked what he wanted him to bring.

Sisters torn apart by adoption find each other, seek siblings

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

All they know is that their two sisters were adopted by a Plymouth lawyer, and are now in their mid-30s.

And they'd like to find them. Sisters Kim Pielecha and Karen Davis, who'd like to find two other sisters, met for the first time in September.

THAT WAS after Pielecha contacted the Adoption Identity Movement office, as she was searching for her birth mother.

Kim and Karen's mother, Thelma Davis, who died three years ago, "had put my name in (with AIM) so they came up with the match," Pielecha said.

Sisters Kim Pielecha and Karen Davis, who'd like to find two other sisters, met for the first time in September.

She got the call from AIM in September.

"They said we found your birth family — I almost fell over," Pielecha said.

Meanwhile, "I got a call from AIM," Davis said.

"They said we're not sure, but we think we found one of our sisters, we think it's the youngest one."

DAVIS, 40, lives in Detroit, does volunteer work and receives state disability payments. Pielecha, 29, lives in Livonia and works as a legal secretary.

Fifteen minutes after getting the call, both sisters were on the phone.

"When she called I just flipped," Davis said. "My daughter said 'Mom, calm down.'"

"Karen called and we got together."

er that same night," Pielecha said. "I wanted to know why I was given up. I wanted to know about my brothers and sisters."

Pielecha, who has two children, was born Mary Lynne Davis. Her birth mother had 10 children, and many were placed in foster homes because she had health problems, Karen Davis said.

THE SISTERS learned that one thing they have in common is they are devout Christians. Before meeting, both attended the Jesus Center at Inkster Road and Eight Mile.

On that first visit at Davis' house, she brought out seven photo albums her mother had saved. They included photos of the children before they were given up to foster homes.

Pielecha, the youngest child, looks like her birth mother, in photos taken when Thelma Davis was younger, Davis said.

Anyone with information on the two sisters given up for adoption to a Plymouth lawyer in the mid-to-late 1950s can call Karen Davis at 537-4535.

Committee suggests cable TV changes

● Bury cables in backyards at installation.

● Provide the cable guide free. Yack said common gripes he hears are about rate increases, delays in burying cables and not enough local programs. He stressed that he doesn't receive many cable complaints and sometimes hears compliments about Omnicom.

"It's a private industry," Yack said. "Government is involved because we granted the franchise, and it's up to us to assist customer problems."

THE TOWNSHIP'S franchise agreement expires in 1994 and the negotiating process should begin in a couple of years, McMurray said. The temporary committee recommended appointment of a permanent cable committee, which Omnicom general manager, Lisa Boland, said was a good idea.

"It's another source to generate ideas, regarding programming," she said.

Complaints about some areas not getting cable are covered in the company's contract with the township. The franchise agreement allows cable to be built where there are at least 70 homes per mile. Omnicom goes further than what is required by building in areas where there are only 40 homes per mile, she said.

However, much of western Canton Township is without cable because of its sparse population.

Another problem is the disruption of cable service. Omnicom deals with outages on a case-by-case basis.

"When somebody calls to find out about an outage we try to identify what the problem is, and they know we're working on it," Boland said.

Cable outages are caused by cable or electric company power problems, she said.

And 52 times last summer people cut cable lines while putting in fences or planting trees. That wouldn't happen, she said, if people called MISS-DIG to determine if underground wires are in the way. It costs the company $1,000 to fix each cut, Boland said.

Residents picket Pursell's office

By Kevin Brown staff writer

Nearly 75 local and area residents opposed to U.S. support of the government in El Salvador picketed U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell's Plymouth office Friday at a noon protest rally.

"We want Carl to stop funding the military government in El Salvador," said Stephen Williams, a rally organizer and Plymouth-Canton High School teacher.

Rachel Thiet of Plymouth, a University of Michigan student, said the recent murder of Jesuit priests in El Salvador helped move her to join the rally.

"It's just an escalation of everything that's going on there," she said.

Paul Kobrak, also a University of Michigan student, said he came "to protest Carl Pursell's voting record on El Salvador."

Pursell's press secretary Gary Cates stressed that the Republican congressman has spoken out strongly in Congress against the murders in El Salvador, and has urged "that the guilty parties be brought to justice," Cates said.

Pursell recently voted for a general foreign aid bill, Cates said, adding, "El Salvador is one component of that bill."

The rally was organized after a teach-in on El Salvador earlier this month at Wayne State University, which was attended by several people who were at the rally.

"On Thanksgiving, one of the things we give thanks for is our independence and our right to determine our own government," Williams said.

Several U.S. congressmen have criticized the military government in El Salvador, which some say is tied to right wing activists believed responsible for the deaths of the priests and others who have opposed the government.

"Ten years and $4 billion later, the (Salvadoran) government continues to murder its own people, even the peaceful members of the religious community," Williams said.

As the group rallied outside Pursell's office on Main Street, the office was closed for the Thanksgiving weekend.

Area residents staged a rally on Friday at the Plymouth office of U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell to protest U.S. support of the government in El Salvador.

Judge waives traffic death exam

The preliminary exam for Mark A. Vernier, 17, of Milford, charged in the Oct. 13 traffic death of a Canton man, was waived by 35th District Court Judge John MacDonald.

The waiver was in accordance with a request by Vernier's attorney, Brian Lavan.

The preliminary exam was scheduled for Nov. 17.

Vernier, a senior at Redford Catholic Central High School, was arrested on negligent homicide charges Oct. 18.

Robert Valicento, 68, of Canton Township died in the rollover accident on North Territorial at Ridge.

Vernier was released on $5,000 personal bond. Negligent homicide is punishable by up to two years in prison.

Witnesses said Valicento was traveling east on North Territorial when the accident occurred at about 4 p.m.

He told police he stopped at the stop sign, then proceeded into the intersection after looking both east and west.

The vehicles collided, causing Valicento's 1988 Crown Victoria LTD to rollover. Valicento was pronounced dead at the scene. Vernier, who was in a 1986 Ford Ranger, received minor injuries.

Alcohol was not a factor in the accident, police said.

Baseball card aces high at 4th annual convention

By Kevin Brown staff writer

It's almost December, and few folks are thinking about baseball, right?

Wrong. It was more crowded than a major league dugout during a rain delay at the Radisson Plymouth Hotel on Friday — just 90 minutes after the opening of the 4th Annual Plymouth In The Fall Sports Collectors Convention.

Baseball card and sports memorabilia dealers from around the country converged on the former Plymouth Hilton for one of the Midwest's biggest sports shows.

And so did fans, young and old. In a hotel hallway, John Harter of Sturgis and his son Jason examined a brown briefcase full of cards they hoped to sell, before entering the packed show area.

I like the older stuff, '60 and '61, the late '50s," Harter explained.

"I'm trying to finish a '60 and '61 (Tops) set."

"I need a Pittsburgh Pirates team card, all the all-star cards in that series," said Harter.

He owns a 1954 Al Kaline card, from the Tiger's rookie year.

JUST INSIDE the show area, Diana McSweeney of Farmington Hills stood behind a table stacked with baseballs for signing. Stars Mitch Williams, Willie Mays and Don Sutton were scheduled to appear during the three-day event.

Man found not guilty in apartment explosion, fire

By M.B. Dillon staff writer

After deliberating for just 45 minutes, a jury of eight women and four men found Guy Zukowski of Plymouth Township not guilty of causing an explosion and fire that gutted his apartment complex at 300 N. Mill in Old Village Nov. 4, 1988.

Zukowski, 26, tried before Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Craig Strong, faced a possible 20-year sentence for arson of a dwelling.

The prosecution contended that Zukowski tried to kill himself because he was distraught over the unreturned affections of a female neighbor. Jurors handed down the verdict Wednesday afternoon after a three-day trial.

Zukowski, a 1980 Plymouth Canton High School graduate, testified he'd pulled his stove away from the wall to retrieve a pepper shaker, unknowingly causing a gas leak. Later that afternoon, he lit a cigarette. He said the next thing he knew, there was a fireball and he was on fire.

Zukowski, who owned a janitorial service, suffered burns to his head, shoulders, arms and hands in the fire. A second person, searching for residents and pets in the burning apartments, received minor injuries.

Ten Heritage Square residents were left homeless. More than a dozen pets died in the fire and natural gas explosion, which could be felt up to a mile away. Damage was estimated at more than $200,000. None of the tenants in the 18-unit complex had renters' insurance.

Both assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Mark Bernardi and defense attorney Shirley Saltzman expected the jury would deliberate Wednesday afternoon, resuming deliberations today. Neither Bernardi nor Saltzman was available for comment over the Thanksgiving weekend.

Zukowski wrote a letter about a week before the fire to his neighbor, Beyon Perry. The letter said that he'd fallen love with her, and that he couldn't bear the thought of anyone else possessing her. Zukowski said he didn't want to live any longer, Perry testified.

A note taped to his door the day of the fire said, "Go away," and was signed, "Guy." Earlier that day, Zukowski sat outside in the rain, drinking beer for "quite a while," said Perry, 30.

A second tenant, Paul Pahnke, testified that in the days leading up to the explosion, Zukowski grew increasingly depressed and was drinking more than usual.

SALTZMAN ASKED Judge Strong to dismiss the case in a motion for a directed verdict after the second day of trial.

"I don't think it was established that Mr. Zukowski was the person who caused the fire, or that Mr. Zukowski acted willfully or maliciously in causing damage or injuries to others."

"Even if we were to believe the testimony, the only injury caused was to himself. The lighting of a cigarette would not establish arson. There's nothing to establish that Mr. Zukowski knew that gas had permeated the apartment," she said.

Perry was shaken with the news of Zukowski's acquittal. "I can't believe they let him walk. I am going to get all these people (tenants) together and we will fight for it," she said.

"He tried to kill me. I know he did. He did all this damage, and gets a pat on the back. I lost everything I owned, and so did two other people."

"If you play, you pay. It's obvious he played and we're paying."

Kids whisper wishes to Santa

It was hard to decide what Lisa Nowicki, 20 months, of Canton liked better: Santa or her animal shaped out of a balloon.

Moslem Shrine clowns kept the

It was Shop-Till-You-Drop Day — the nation's newest holiday the day after Thanksgiving, and Dora Thomas, Janie Wilson and Gladys Moyer — like other area shoppers — weren't about to waste any time.

The three sisters arrived at the Wonderland Mall at 6:30 a.m., fully 30 minutes before it opened. By 9:10, they had their red shopping bags filled to the brim and were sitting on a bench in the middle of the mall, heads drooping while they caught their breath.

They weren't done — far from it. They were just taking a break, getting ready to carry their stuff to their car and then continue Round Two at Poland's.

"You have to shop in shifts," said Thomas, of Southfield.

"Did they care to pose for a photo?" "No, don't you know we have to lose weight before we get our picture taken?" said Thomas.

"What you do, is you find three beautiful women, take their picture and put our names on 'em."

And with that, they were up and off.

THE RADIO STATIONS were broadcasting shopping updates, much like they do traffic updates at freeway rush hours. The rush hour this day wasn't on the freeways, so they were doing mall updates.

To go by the folks on the radio, you'd have thought parking spaces at the malls were as rare as Red Wing wins — or, worse yet, as rare as parking spaces at Metro Airport.

To the merchants' chagrin, the reports of traffic gridlock at the malls, like reports of Mark Twain's death, were greatly exaggerated. Vast expanses of parking lot at Wonderland, Livonia Mall and Laurel Park Place sat empty as the sun rose high into a clear blue sky.

It was so unbusy at 9:20 a.m. at Wonderland that at least one of the army of senior walkers who patrol the mall each day getting exercise before it officially opens didn't even know that mall had opened early Friday.

"It won't be crowded till they open at 10," said Norah Yager of Redford, who had already done a mile and a half with her walking buddy, Charles Orand of Redford.

Perhaps the slow start reflected what retailers fear will be a slow season. Wall Street prognosticators are on record with predictions that sales will be up only 4.5 percent this year, compared to growth of 10-15 percent annually in recent holiday seasons. Which may explain all the signs of the times.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES — at Wonderland and Livonia mall the sales signs seemed everywhere. Once upon a time, Santa himself couldn't have found a sale till the week before Christmas. Now, the turkey's still warm when the market downs begin.

CHRISTOPHER SWEANEY of Livonia was out at Livonia Mall with his daughter, Christine. "I usually wait till Christmas eve to do my shopping, but I'm trying something different this year."

Mary Jane Swiderek of Redford was out with her daughter, too. They waited patiently for a picture with Santa, then admired the print that was ready faster than it takes Rudolph's nose to glow.

Never mind that her daughter, Dolly Diamond of Livonia — yes, that's her real name — is a fully grown adult.

"Hey, we come out here every year," said Mom, who was wearing a Mickey Mouse sweatshirt. "We still believe."

Santa lets them sit on his knee. They, in turn, leave milk and cookies out each Christmas Eve. "Always," said Dolly.

They were having sales at the newly opened, elegant Laurel Park, too.

Local attorney plays major role in Poland bond offering

By Tim Richard
staff writer

How does an Irishman who doesn't speak a word of Polish ghostwrite a Lech Walesa speech?

"I tried to string together things he had already said," said Michael McGee, a bond attorney from Livonia.

McGee, 35, wrote a couple of speeches when he worked as an administrative aide to Mayor Ed McNamara back in 1974-77 and made some speeches of his own in a campaign for state representative.

Actually, McGee had a heavier role in the recent announcement of the availability of $100 million in Poland Bonds. He works in the Detroit law firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, among the top 10 or 15 bond counsel firms in the country.

A final element in the plan is a U.S. government guarantee — much like the guarantees of Chrysler Corp. and New York City's bonds. If all goes well, the federal government will spend nothing.

SPEAKING IN Polish, Walesa, the Solidarity leader, took part in a Chicago ceremony with the Polish American Congress. Translation: "There are many business opportunities in Poland, and investing money in Poland will prove to be very profitable, even if it does not bring immediate results."

Walesa also held out hope of establishing a market economy in a nation that has been under Communist Party rule since World War II. And he thanked those who believe "deeds follow words."

First in line to buy $10 million was Michigan state treasurer Robert Bowman, trustee of the state pension fund. Bowman also said he intends to proceed with venture capital investments in Poland.

Second in line was the state of Illinois, bidding for $25 million. McGee said the two commitments bring the program more than one-third of the way to its target figure of $100 million.

Besides institutional investors such as government and unions, the bonds will be marketed to individuals.

INSTITUTIONAL investors like

"Poland has no law for bond financing. We wrote their statute for parliament!" — Michael McGee, bond attorney.

Bowman had to be satisfied, McGee said. "Bowman has certain controls — he wanted it invested in agricultural and medical purposes; he prohibited other uses."

"Poland has no law for bond financing. We wrote their statute for parliament."

This week Walawender, McGee and William Danhof of the Miller, Canfield firm are meeting in Warsaw with the Polish prime minister and finance minister.

The bonds Bowman is acquiring will be like U.S. savings bonds — the interest will be compounded, not paid, increasing the bond's capital value. Later, the bonds will be convertible to coupon bonds on which interest is paid periodically.

McGee said Poland wants to upgrade its agriculture by acquiring more tractors. It also needs pharmaceuticals.

"One of the nice things we see is that the money flows benefit the local economy," he said.

Caterpillar tractors, trucks from the Wayne Assembly plant, a joint venture with the Ujpoln Co. of Kalamazoo — all are prospects as the invested money goes to work.

Mediation sought to help resolve contract issues with 2 SC unions

Schoolcraft College has gone to mediation to settle contracts with its physical plant and clerical workers. A bargaining session with a mediator was scheduled for Wednesday between the college and Schoolcraft College Physical Plant Employees Union.

The union represents college maintenance and grounds workers. A session has been scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 13 with the Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel. That union represents college secretaries, clerks and telephone operators.

Through mediation, a mediator attempts to bring both sides closer to a settlement, though either side could reject the mediator's proposals.

Local delegation says yes to pay, ethnics package

WASHINGTON — Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Nov. 17.

HOUSE:

PAY AND ETHICS PACKAGE — By a vote of 252 for and 174 against, the House approved legislation (HR 3660) raising the pay of members of Congress and tightening their ethics and rules. The bill, which also raised the pay of federal judges and high executive branch officials, was sent to the Senate.

House members and senators would receive a 7.9 percent cost-of-living increase Jan. 1 plus a cost-of-living increase of up to 5 percent and a 25-percent raise in January 1991. This would raise their present $89,500 salary to about $125,000, up about 40 percent. Salaries of up to 834 top executive branch officials including Cabinet members and 1,115 Supreme Court, appellate and district court judges also would rise under the bill.

Tightening congressional ethics, the bill prohibits lawmakers from keeping honoraria such as speaking fees, limits outside earned income to 15 percent of congressional pay, prohibits members from accepting gifts worth more than $200 and tightens certain travel rules. It repeals in 1993 the law under which House members elected before 1980 can convert campaign contributions to personal income when they leave Congress.

Michigan representatives voting yes were Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfield, and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Michigan member Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, voted no.

CIVIL RIGHTS COMMISSION — By a vote of 278 for and 135 against, the House sent to the Senate a bill (HR 3532) to renew the U.S. Civil Rights Commission for six months beyond its scheduled expiration on Nov. 30.

The bill shelved President Bush's plan to extend the agency for six years under new commissioners appointed by him and Congress. It also dealt the White House a defeat by transferring from the president to

Roll Call Report

Capital Hill the authority to appoint the commission's staff director. Michigan members Pursell, Hertel, William Ford, and Levin voted yes. Voting no was Broomfield.

TO HELP PAY FOR POPULATION CONTROL — By a vote of 244 against and 178 against, the House approved $15 million in American support of a United Nations program to slow global population growth.

The payment to the U.N. Population Activities Fund could not be allocated to China, said by critics to have coercive abortion and sterilization policies, or spent anywhere on abortions.

The vote reversed a previous House stand against U.S. support of the fund and put the House in agreement with the Senate that the $15 million should be sent to the U.N.

However, the House then reversed itself again, approving an amendment by anti-abortion legislators that gives President Bush power to block release of the money.

Michigan members voting yes were Pursell, Hertel, William Ford, and Levin.

Broomfield voted no.

SENATE

U.N. POPULATION FUND — By a vote of 52 for and 44 against, the Senate repudiated a House plan (above) for handling America's $15 million payment to the U.N. Population Assistance Fund. The House wanted to put the money on hold until President Bush certified the fund was not supporting coercive abortion and sterilization in China. A majority of senators saw this condition as meddling because legislative language already prohibited the American money from reaching China. The vote occurred during debate on HR 2939.

Both Democratic Michigan Senators Riegle and Levin voted yes.

CAPITAL GAINS — By a vote of 51 for and 47 against, the Senate endorsed White House-backed cuts in the capital gains tax rate for individuals and corporations. Included in the measure was a new Individual Retirement Account providing tax-free withdrawals.

Senators voting yes endorsed President Bush's call for a cut in the capital gains tax rate.

Both Michigan Senators Levin and Riegle voted no.

REPLACING YOUR WORN OUT KNEE
You need a knee replacement when your joint pain is so great or your motion is so little, as to render you immobile. What kind of replacement you need depends on the extent of the wear on your knee.

If both the inside and outside part of the knee joint have lost considerable cartilage, then a total knee operation is in order. This procedure requires removal of considerable bone, making subsequent interventions difficult.

If only one side of the joint is worn, then a partial replacement is possible. In this case the good half of the joint is saved, and is available for anchoring an artificial joint if you require a second operation.

The third type of knee surgery is the "tibial osteotomy." The surgeon removes a wedge of bone from the lower leg, thus shifting weight on the joint from the involved to the uninvolved side. At the bone of the knee joint is available for later operations. This approach, while attractive, is technically difficult, and subject to failure more often than the other operations described above.

Thus, knowing you need surgery is a straightforward decision, while making the choice of operation is fraught with difficulty.

Where foodies hang out

Most foodies have a pre-set compass that will direct them to their favorite gourmet shop or grocery.

Everybody has favorites, but a few interesting and out-of-the-way boutiques and retail shops are so specialized that a holiday shopping excursion turns into a fantasy trip.

I checked out the Festival of Trees in downtown Detroit last week with my wife and kids and, as usual, I parked at Greektown and took the People Mover over to Cobo.

BUT BEFORE embarking on the People Mover, a quick trip through Trappers Alley at Greektown unearthed a shop called Get Sauced that just opened last week.

This unusual and definitely one-of-a-kind little hole-in-the-wall on the second level of Trappers Alley was brimming with the likes of Blue Crab Bay Seafood Marinade, Larry Forgone's famed Peanut sauce, an array of Justin Rashid's American Spoon Foods products and even Detroit's famous Sanders Hot Fudge.

Anybody who is a foodie or wants a special edible gift for a foodie must put Get Sauced on the holiday trip sheet. Ask for a sample of a lemon curd that beats Momma's. What a neat concept!

JUST UP Gratiot from downtown Detroit is the famed Eastern Market area, and any foodie who has not visited Hirt's has yet to discover another foodie nirvana.

Hirt's is loaded with specialty foods and "basket stuffing materials" that range from coffee beans to soup base.

The store has condiments and a cheese-and-sausage counter reminiscent of the good old days.

The more you buy the more you save. If you need anything wicker to put it in, a trek up three flights of old wooden stairs will be well worth the trip.

WITH THE busy holiday shopping season upon us, it was a real surprise to see a store called the Dollar Tree open up recently at Wonderland Mall in Livonia.

Everything in the store costs a buck. Period. Nothing more, nothing less. Let me tell you, if you are hunting for some real bargains when it comes to basic, utilitarian kitchen items, at a buck each, this is the cheap place to shop.

So far, the only locations for the Dollar Tree besides Wonderland Mall are Universal Mall in Warren and Macomb Mall in Roseville.

Keep your eyes peeled, as this budget-minded emporium of the '90s will surely spread its wings and expand to every major mall in the area.

UNDOUBTEDLY ONE of my most favorite off-the-wall places to shop is Hartler Brothers in Ann Arbor.

The place is actually a feed store, but it has bubbled over into a quasi-gourmet shop filled with Americana and all the basics from the kitchen.

Real dish towels, the kind Momma used to use. Crockery pickle jars and bowls big enough to hold a dozen loaves of bread.

A ladder that rolls on a rail down the back wall of the store can take you from cast-iron cookware to rat poison, in one easy push.

Anyone into Americana has to put this place on the list, if not to shop, just to walk around in awe.

It's just west of Main Street and north of Huron Road. Ask anyone for directions because the place has got to have been there for at least a hundred years.

I'm sure there are more of these little mom-and-pop-type places that makes the foodie in us go wild, but space prohibits mentioning them. Do you have a favorite, relatively unknown place that foodies would go wild in? Drop me a note and I'll list the best. Until then, bon appetit!

Turkey takes to SAUSAGE

By Larry Janes
special writer

WE'VE ALL HAD our fill of Thanksgiving turkey, and maybe now you're coping with leftovers. But once that's out of the way, we can still talk turkey - with turkey sausage.

If you think that original pork sausage consumption is slipping in favor of a seemingly more healthy turkey sausage, you're right on the money. Anyone who has walked by the meat counter of a grocery store lately can see that turkey strategists have given a shove to "the other white meat" and have positioned themselves as a major threat to the meat and pork industry.

You name it and the turkey industry has adapted a product - one that is leaner, healthier, and with a flavor equivalent that just can't be beat.

Industry analysts project a 400 percent increase in turkey production. Five years ago, ground turkey meat was barely noticed by a few of the weight-conscious industries. Today, there are more brands with more products. Everything from turkey sausage, turkey ham, turkey bologna, turkey pastrami, turkey franks, turkey salami. You name it, they've got it.

THE BREAKFAST industry has really taken notice of turkey sausage. Anyone who has fried up a pan of bacon surely wonders about all the fat, not to mention the sodium and nitrates. Even pork sausage is being shunned for more leaner turkey sausage selections, mainly because the fat composition can have a whopping difference of more than 50 percent, depending on varieties.

Nutritionalists have long stated that our consumption of fat should be lowered, and turkey breakfast sausage sounds like a reasonable, great start. Not only is the fat content lower when using turkey breakfast sausage but the product has only 59 calories per ounce, compared to 79 calories per ounce for pork sausage.

Sausage lovers can try these

TURKEY SAUSAGE STRATA

4 slices bread, cubed
2 ounces shredded cheese
4 ounces cooked turkey sausage
4 eggs
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
Alternate layers of bread, cheese and cooked sausage in a nonstick loaf pan. Combine eggs, milk, mustard and parsley and mix well. Pour over cheese mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes, covered. Remove covering and bake for 15 minutes or until golden. Enjoy. Serves 2-3.

SPAGHETTI WITH TURKEY SAUSAGE MEATBALLS

1 pound spaghetti, cooked
6 cups prepared spaghetti sauce
1 pound turkey sausage
Set aside spaghetti sauce and spaghetti. Shape turkey sausage into meatballs and brown in a nonstick frypan or under a broiler until browned and cooked throughout. Stir in spaghetti sauce. Pour over hot, cooked spaghetti.

ITALIAN TURKEY SAUSAGE PIE

1 pound turkey breakfast sausage
1 egg
garlic salt and pepper to taste
1 teaspoon dried Italian seasoning
1 tablespoon Italian olive oil
3/4 cup (3-ounces) mozzarella cheese, shredded
Toss sausage lightly with egg, salt, pepper and Italian seasonings. Divide meat into two equal parts. Add olive oil to a large nonstick frypan. Place half the sausage mixture in the skillet and lightly pat it into a large circle. Sprinkle on the cheese. Cover cheese with remaining meat, patting lightly so cheese is covered with a thin layer of sausage. Turn heat to moderate. When bottom is well browned, cut the pie into 4 wedges, and using a spatula, turn over and continue cooking until browned and cheese is melted. Serve with heated tomato sauce, if desired.

TURKEYBURGER LASAGNA

1 pound turkey sausage
2 large, peeled minced onions
3 cups chopped Italian canned tomatoes
1 16-ounce can tomato sauce
1 1/4 teaspoons dried Italian seasonings
10 dry lasagna noodles
1 1/4 cups cottage cheese or ricotta
2 eggs
1 cup mozzarella cheese, shredded
Saute sausage with onions until onions are tender. Add tomatoes and tomato sauce with Italian seasonings. Simmer until ready to use. Cook lasagna noodles in lightly salted water. Drain. Set aside. Combine cottage cheese with eggs. Mix well. Set aside. In an oblong baking dish sprayed with a nonstick coating, layer the noodles, the meat mixture, the cottage cheese mixture, then the cheese. Continue layering until all are used, ending with meat mixture on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Turn off oven, let stand in oven for 30 minutes. Serve and enjoy. Easily serves 4-6.

'Corner cafe' goes upscale with LeMetro

In the remote past, for instance before prominent local chefs became better known than local politicians, the corner cafe was an institution. The clientele might have been wonderful, but you had to be a candidate for institutionalization to like the food.

Today's version of the "corner cafe" is a far cry from the greasy spoon of yore. Many are full service restaurants with an upscale menu. They just happen to share a wall with a retail shop.

A restaurant of this "genre" is LeMetro, in Southfield's Applegate Square shopping center on Northwestern Highway, a salad plate's throw from the Mira Linder spa. LeMetro occupies a corner spot, a space the size of a small shop. With seating for 70, a small waiting area and a small kitchen, this restaurant has all it needs for its business - but not much more. Its almond-beige decor is bland or soothing, depending on your point of view, but its menu is spritely.

Though one might expect a limited menu in a restaurant of this size, LeMetro guests will find a broad and interesting range of entrees. On our visit, LeMetro was offering six appetizers, and each one sounded better than the one before. It also offered 11 entrees on the menu and two specials for the evening. Dinner entrees ranged from white Peking duck ($15.95) to lamb ($13.95), coq au vin ($11.95) or a combination of roasted venison and sauteed quail ($17.95).

THE RESTAURANT can't be characterized as French - as its

JERRY ZOLYNSKY/staff photographer

Among specialties by Chef Tim Winterfield at LeMetro in Southfield are stuffed medallions of provimi veal garnished with sun-dried tomatoes over basil and tomato coulis with Boursin cheese, and salmon with multicolored peppers and shrimp.

name would imply, but it doesn't fit the bistro image either. Its good breeding is evident, however. Ed Janos of Chez Raphael is par' owner, and the chef, Tim Winterfield, worked previously at the Money Tree, London Chop House and the Whitney. The other owner is Winterfield's father, Tom.

For an appetizer, we reluctantly passed up the gratin of shittake mushrooms and green beans; the fettucine tossed with caramelized shallots, shrimp and pea pods; and the smoked seafood variety - all of which were exceedingly tempting. Instead, we tried the scallop timbale, and were delighted. The extra-large sea scallop was flavored with a sauce of walnuts and grapes. The scallop itself was cooked perfectly, moist and tender but substantive enough to slice easily with a knife. And the sauce was light, buttery and sweetened by the grapes. It was great.

The salads also had a special touch. The three selections of the evening were a spinach salad ($4.50) with dried cherries, apples, Roquefort cheese and warm onion-citrus dressing; a chaves salad ($4.25) with Romaine lettuce, Parmesan cheese, croutons and toasted sesame seed dressing, and the house salad ($3.50) of mixed greens with an herb vinaigrette. We found the house salad and the spinach salad to be very good. The cherries and apples sweetened the spinach salad - but not too much. The house vinaigrette is very

SLICER-SHREDDER

A new cordless, rechargeable SaladShooter slicer-shredder has been introduced by National Presto Industries, Inc., which last year brought out the original SaladShooter. Like its electric counterpart, the hand-held cordless SaladShooter streamlines salad making, shooting one ingredient after another directly into the serving bowl. Changing function from slicer to shredding is done by slipping out one cone and slipping in another. The cordless may be stored in a drawer. Its small power pack disconnects and can be plugged into any available outlet to recharge. The new SaladShooter sells for under $50.

clarification

Matthew Prentice of Sebastian's recipe for Pumpkin Cheesecake, that appeared in the Monday, Nov. 20, issue, should have specified that the ingredients given make two cheesecakes.

The recipe for Pizza Casserole, in Betsy Brethen's Family-Tested Winner Dinner column Monday, Nov. 13, should have called for two 14-ounce jars of pizza sauce instead of one. The Winner Dinner Winner was Pauline Uzelac of Bloomfield Hills.

The recipe for Spaghetti Alla Carbonara, in Betsy Brethen's column Monday, Oct. 2, calls for raw eggs that are not cooked afterward.

Any recipe with raw eggs should not be used (unless the eggs are cooked afterward or refrigerated before cooking later), according to Lois Thieleke of the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. Thieleke also does not recommend homemade eggnog (bub pasturized eggnog in a store), Caesar salad dressing, uncooked hollandaise sauce or "power" drinks made with raw eggs. Salmonella is destroyed by heat. For food safety questions, call the extension service's hotline at 858-0904.

Turkey gobbling up fatter competition

The trick dialogue here is "ounce." How many people do you know who can eat only an ounce of anything? Multiply that 20 calorie per ounce difference by the number of ounces usually consumed by the average person and you can save a whopping 80 calories or more just by switching to turkey sausage.

Heat until boiling. Reduce heat, stir in cheese and continue stirring until smooth. Serve with bread cubes or fresh vegetables.

POTATO PANCAKES
Find an old potato grater or ricer from Hirt's for this.
6 medium potatoes, pared
1 medium onion, grated
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
butter or margarine

Grate potatoes on a medium grater or press through a ricer. Drain well. Add grated onion, eggs, salt, pepper, flour and parsley; mix well. Heat 2-3 tablespoons of butter or margarine in a large skillet, drop mixture by heaping (tablespoonful) into hot fat. Press and fry until golden brown on bottom. Turn and brown the second side, adding more fat as needed. Drain on paper towels.

HEALTH DIET BEEF
A new beef, called Health Diet Beef, is genetically designed throughout both fat and lean portions to reduce fat, calories and cholesterol. Cost is about 30 percent more than regular beef. However, because there is 25 percent less loss in shrinkage than regular beef, two adults need to use only six ounces instead of eight ounces of regular beef (vs. four ounces of USDA Choice). Health Diet Beef is available at Fisher's Market in Birmingham.

Upon cutting into both products, I immediately noticed that both samples into equal-sized proportions so that once in the pan, it would be difficult to discern the difference. Once again, Momma's keen eye noticed the difference almost immediately. It was evident there was more fat in the pork sausage than in the turkey sausage.

After repeated requests to please sit down and let me do the cooking, she finally complied, and when the sausage was presented, after a quick pat with a paper towel to remove the grease, outward inspection could not discern a difference. Deep down, I think this bothered Momma because I think she wanted to show me that anyone could tell the difference, even before for breakfast.

As a matter of fact, I can remember growing up in Wyandotte, and after Momma fried up a pan of regular sausage or bacon, she would use the same frypan, loaded with grease, remains, to fry the eggs in. (Can't you just see those arteries hardening?)

I DIDN'T MESS around with random tastings either. Two weeks ago I ventured down to Wyandotte at 6:30 a.m., complete with a dozen eggs and fresh samples of both pork and turkey sausages. All Momma had to do was make coffee. Is this turkey sausage too good to be true? Sneak a look at to which package of what went into those frypan.

Then it was on to the main dishes — and we were pleased here, too. A grilled tuna ($14.95) topped with a sauce of shrimp, peppers, tomatoes and rosemary was good, though slightly overcooked.

Elderly can safely undergo most major surgery

Dear Jo:
Is surgery advisable for people in their 80s and 90s? I ask this because I just found out that my grandmother, age 87, is having hip surgery. I enjoy your column.

Mr. F. B.
Border City Reader

Dear Mr. B.:
Age, by itself should not prevent anyone from gaining the benefits of surgery.

According to a recent study done by the Mayo Clinic and published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, people in their 90s and older can safely undergo most major operations.

The surgery becomes risky to the health of older people if they suffer from heart disease or high blood pressure. The Mayo Clinic study reported that the long-term survival rate of surgical patients was comparable to those of the same age who did not undergo surgery.

The findings in this study are important because the over 80 population is expected to increase by 236 percent between 1980 and the year 2000.

Dear Jo:

I have arthritis in my hands. I find tasks such as holding a toothbrush difficult. What would you suggest?

Mrs. H. R.
Northern Senior

Dear Mrs. R.:

You can buy toothbrushes and other such items with larger handles at specialty medical supply stores. These can be located through the Yellow Pages. Also, you may want to try an electric toothbrush. It has the larger handle plus the additional feature of automation which makes brushing your teeth a less painful task.

Keep walks clear for winter mail delivery

County residents will have to do their part if they want mail delivery on snowy, winter days, according to the U. S. Postal Service.

Snow will soon be falling and once again the post office asks area homeowners and businesses to shovel the walkways and salt or sand them when necessary.

"Our carriers are anxious to provide quick, efficient service," the service said in a recent public advisory. "But they will not be able to if mailboxes are inaccessible because of snow or ice."

Carriers can not make door or curb deliveries when the approach to the mailbox is hazardous because of snow or ice.

• Door delivery — Carriers aren't allowed to attempt delivery when there is heavy build-up of snow and ice on sidewalks, steps or porches.

• Curb deliver — Carriers aren't allowed to dismount for curbside boxes blocked due to snow and ice build-up. And they aren't permitted to back up. So snow must be cleared to the curbline for at least six feet on both sides of the mailbox so the carrier may approach and leave without backing up.

"If you've slipped on someone's unshoveled walk, you've experienced the frustration letter carriers feel and realize the potential for injury," the service said.

Canton advances to 'A' quarterfinals

Chiefs take 1st regional crown

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Jenny Russell couldn't say whether she had scored a career-high number of points or not Wednesday night.

She didn't care. It really didn't matter.

The important fact was Russell's 12 points were vital to Plymouth Canton winning its first regional championship in girls basketball.

Russell and Susan Ferko, who scored a game-high 22, combined to lead the Chiefs to a 48-40 victory over tournament host Trenton.

"I don't even know what my career high is," said Russell, a point guard averaging three points per game. "They've been telling me to shoot the ball, and the opportunities were there and I went with it."

Russell, who usually makes an impact with her defense and ball-handling skills, did have a career-high point total, and 11 came in the second half to help Canton take control of the contest.

THE NO. 9-RATED Chiefs, 21-3, will play No. 3 Benton Harbor in a Class A quarterfinal game at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Jackson Lumen Christi High School. The game will be broadcast live by radio station WSDP (88.1 FM).

"We wanted (Russell) to shoot," Trenton coach John Biedenbach said, "but we didn't want her to drive in and shoot layups. She might have been the total difference."

In helping Canton defeat the Trojanettes for a third time this year, Russell got the Chiefs, who led 23-20 at halftime, off to a good start in the second half as she drove for two layups in the first minute.

That boosted the Chiefs into a 27-21 lead, and Canton's advantage was never less than three points the rest of the game.

BUT IT was close until the end, and the Chiefs didn't have a comfortable lead until Ferko gave them an eight-point margin, 41-33, with 3½ minutes remaining.

Even then, Canton needed free throws down the stretch to cement its first appearance in the final round of eight teams.

Trenton's height — 6-foot Katie Mans and 6-foot Kim Hoppes — gave the Chiefs trouble early, as those two combined to double team the 5-foot-11 Ferko and hold her to three first-half field goals from the low post. With a perimeter basket and 6-of-7 free throw shooting, Ferko had 14 points before halftime, however.

"WHEN THE ball went back to Hoppes' player, she recovered out," Canton coach Bob Blohm said, "and we didn't recognize it early. Hoppes was coming back outside, but when the ball came out we weren't patient enough to continue looking inside."

Russell's drives to the basket helped loosen up the defense in the second half, and the Chiefs were able to hit Ferko inside, resulting in layups or more free throws for an additional eight points.

"Going inside helped us a lot, because it got them in foul trouble and put us on the free-throw line," Blohm said. "That's a big part of basketball. You have to force the other team to guard you at the basket."

FREE THROWS were real important for Canton, which had one less field goal than the Trojanettes but was 24-of-35 at the line. Trenton made 14 of 24 free throws. Ferko was 8-of-10, Russell 6-of-9 and Stacey Thompson 6-of-10.

"Our goal was to shut down Ferko," Biedenbach said. "We had done that against some other good players in our league, and we thought we could do it again. We did a good job of double teaming her, but she's just a tough player. She works hard, and that's the thing."

Coach Bob Blohm gets a hug from senior Stacey Thompson as the clock winds down and victory becomes imminent for Plymouth Canton in the regional final Wednesday at Trenton. Also celebrating the win are (left to right) Kris Ford, Julie Toma, Christyn Halliday and Amy Westerhold. The Chiefs defeated host Trenton 48-40 and advanced to the Class A quarterfinals for the first time in school history. Canton will play Benton Harbor at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Jackson.

The foul situation became critical for the Trojanettes when Mans, who scored 16 points to lead Trenton, sat down with her fourth foul at 3:33 in the third quarter and the Chiefs leading 30-27.

RUSSELL DROVE for another layup and Ferko scored to give Canton a seven-point lead entering the final period.

"The key was on the blocked shot by Katie Mans," Biedenbach said. "We had to go two or three minutes with her on the bench, and that's when they got their spurt. Without her in the post, we're in trouble."

Trenton stayed within three, 36-33, on Brigitte Anderson's basket, but another key sequence followed.

Mary Barna, who held Hoppes to one field goal and six points, made a free throw, and Ferko scored back-to-back baskets, the second coming after a Thompson steal at midcourt with 3:47 remaining.

"Our defense was what helped us win the game," Thompson said. "With us being strong defensively in the beginning, it brought us out at the end. Our offense will come when our defense is there."

"We knew if we did our best we'd have a shot at the end, but we couldn't take that for granted."

FERKO'S SECOND basket made the score 41-33, giving Canton its biggest lead to that point, and the Chiefs went to their delay game and subsequently the free-throw line to secure the victory.

Russell made four straight free throws, Thompson two and Barna one for a 48-38 lead with 12 seconds remaining.

"When we got ourselves on eight points, that was critical," Blohm said. "If you stay on four or six in a game like this, then you're susceptible."

Students take note of hoop champions

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Now that Plymouth Canton's girls basketball team has made it to the Class A quarterfinals, people are starting to notice the Chiefs.

Those people are their fellow students, however. From summer camp experiences, Canton already is well known around that state in basketball circles.

"Our school is so big it's hard for everyone to keep track of everything that's going on," said Stacey Thompson, a senior co-captain with Susan Ferko and Jenny Russell.

"We've had a lot of support from the school. Nobody knew who we were before, but now that we're starting to do something it's putting us in the spotlight."

Canton is one of eight teams remaining in the Class A tournament, and the Chiefs will be in the spotlight Wednesday when they play Benton Harbor at 7:30 p.m. in the Jackson Lumen Christi High School gymnasium.

girls basketball

"I'M EXCITED; I can't wait," Ferko said. "It's just fun to get there, and we're going to play our best."

The Chiefs go into the game with a 21-3 record and No. 9 ranking statewide. Benton Harbor is 24-1 and rated No. 3. They beat East Lansing 55-41 in the regional final at Lansing Eastern.

Wednesday's winner advances to the semifinals Friday at Grand Rapids Union High School and will play the winner of the West Bloomfield-Taylor Center quarterfinal at 8 p.m.

The state championship game is scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday at Grand Valley State University.

"It's good to come this far and do well and play up to our potential," said Russell after she scored 12 points in Canton's 48-40 victory Wednesday over regional host Trenton.

ton. "Now it's time to get back to work and work on getting into the Final Four."

With Ferko (center), Thompson (forward) and Russell (guard), Canton has a quality player with experience at each position. The trio has been the backbone of a ballclub that won a second straight Western Lakes Activities Association title, held down the No. 1 ranking in Observerland all season and has gone the farthest of any Canton team in the state tournament.

"FERKO AND Russell were sophomores on the varsity, and they were getting experience against the good teams (Plymouth) Salem had," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. "I think

Poor shooting sends Patriots to defeat

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonia Franklin found a lid on the basket last week, falling to Taylor Center in the Class A regional girls final at Dearborn Edsel Ford, 43-39.

The Patriots finished the season at 19-4 overall, their best-ever girls record.

Meanwhile, Taylor Center (24-1) moves on to the state quarterfinals Wednesday at Southfield. The Lady Rams will take on West Bloomfield (22-3).

Franklin fought tooth and nail with the much taller and stronger Lady Rams, but two free throws by Wendy Jamula with 44 seconds to go sealed the victory for Taylor Center.

Ironically, Jamula, the team's top scorer with more than 2,000 career points, was held without a field goal. The 5-foot-10 point-guard, however, hit eight of 10 free throws.

Tila Thomas, a 5-11 senior, led Taylor Center with 16, while 6-2 center Jennifer Miller added 10.

Three Patriots scored in double figures. Leading the way was junior forward Juliann Stesiak, who netted 13. Dawn Warner and Cheryl Hintz added 12 and 11, respectively.

FRANKLIN was plagued by poor shooting, making only 15 of 48 shots from the floor.

"Basically what it boiled down to is that we missed shots that we normally make," said Franklin coach Dan Freeman. "And it happened in both halves."

"I said to myself, 'keep taking them' because they're eventually going to go, but the shots kept rolling around and went off. The other parts of our game were there, but we just didn't finish off the shots."

Despite the poor shooting, Franklin was tied 8-8 after one quarter, 21-all at the half and trailed by only two after three quarters, 32-30.

Stesiak's basket with 3:57 left in the game tied it at 35-all, but the Patriots scored only four points down the stretch.

A layup by Miller with three minutes to go gave Taylor Center a 37-35 lead.

Franklin then lost out on a critical possession with 2:49 to play when Hintz took a short turn-around baseline jumper that was blocked by the 6-2 Miller.

Confusion arose whether the Rams' center had committed a foul or whether the Patriots had called timeout prior to the block.

AFTER A BRIEF huddle, officials ruled that the Patriots illegally signaled timeout while the ball was being passed in the air to Hintz.

Although it appeared Franklin retained possession, officials ruled it a jump ball. With the arrow pointing Taylor Center's way, the Rams took the ball out of bounds and capitalized on the turnover by sending Jamula to the line.

She made both free throws with 2:41 to play to put the Rams up four, 39-35.

"Although the pass was in the air, I thought we still maintained possession," said Freeman. "I was signaling timeout because I wanted to run an inbounds play that I thought we could score off of. To me that was the turning point."

Another turning point came when Franklin's senior center, Shannon Eberly, picked up three fouls in the first half.

Hawks rally to nip DeWitt

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Mill Coleman's last football game for Farmington Hills Harrison was some kind of thrill.

The senior quarterback was certainly "Mill The Thrill" as he guided the Hawks to an exciting, last-minute victory over DeWitt in the Class B championship game Saturday night, 28-27.

Coleman directed a clutch, 67-yard drive that tied the score and enabled Steve Hill to kick the game-winning extra point with 1:34 remaining in the Pontiac Silverdome.

"I couldn't picture losing my last game," Coleman said after leading Harrison to its second consecutive state title. "I don't think there's any better way to end your high school career than to win a championship and come from behind to do it."

The Hawks, who finished 13-0 and extended the state's longest winning streak to 26 games, got a break and much-needed shot in the arm when Matt Sperry blocked Marty Camp's extra point. DeWitt had scored the go-ahead touchdown with 2:20 remaining, but Harrison saw the opportunity for victory in that moment-turning block.

"Once everybody saw we were only down six points (27-21), that kinda inspired us," Sperry said. "As soon as I blocked it, I looked up at the clock and said 'We're going to win this — just get the ball in Mill's hands.'"

RANDY BORSI/staff photographer

Harrison coach John Herrington embraces quarterback Mill Coleman after the Hawks clinched back-to-back titles in the Class B final Saturday.

THAT'S WHAT the Hawks did after Scott Rattos returned the kickoff 26 yards to the Harrison 33. It took Coleman and the offense five plays and 46 seconds to reach the DeWitt end zone, with Coleman running the last 9 yards for his second TD of the game.

"When they scored, I saw there was time on the clock and I knew we had all three timeouts left," said Coleman, who completed 13 of 20 passes for 208 yards. One pass went for a TD on the first series of the game, but two others were intercepted.

"I was thinking of John Elway's 98-yard drive with three minutes to go (against the Cleveland Browns in the playoffs)," Coleman said. "That was going through my mind — the drive, the drive, the drive."

Coleman was the epitome of cool under fire, calmly using hand signals to convey audibles to his receivers and being content with a little yardage at a time.

He completed three straight first-down passes covering 51 yards to Mike Saputo, Steve Hill and Greg Piacopink which put the ball on DeWitt's 16-yard line with 1:50 to play.

After running 7 yards on a bootleg, Coleman rolled out the other way and ran for the TD, lunging past oncoming defender Chris Berkimer at the 2 and diving into the end zone.

"We work on the two-minute drill every week, so that really helped us," Coleman said. "The Panthers were playing soft, and we were taking what they were giving us."

COLEMAN'S RUNS originated as sprintout pass plays, but there was plenty of room for him to run with DeWitt playing a prevent defense. He was Harrison's leading rusher with 89 yards on 14 carries.

"I liked all those pass plays I called that he ran in a row and touched down," Herrington said tongue-in-cheek.

Hill, who injured his kicking leg in the team's 3-2 victory over East Grand Rapids in the semifinal game, provided the deciding margin for the second week in a row and killed DeWitt's last hope when he intercepted Berkimer with 1:03 on the clock.

"We were the so-called favorite, but it didn't look that way for most of the game," Herrington said. "I was wondering if we weren't going to get blown out in the first half."

The Panthers, 12-1, gave an inspired effort that surprised most of the 16,090 in attendance.

Making its first appearance in the state finals and competing for the first time as a Class B school, DeWitt was awed neither by being in the Dome nor Harrison's tradition and No. 1 ranking.

"We expected to play this well," DeWitt coach Gail Thornton said. "We've played this well all year and, hopefully, people will know what we mean when we say 'We're from DeWitt and we play good football.'"

THE PROBLEM for Harrison was its inability to stop DeWitt running back John Telford, who rushed for 153 yards and two TDs on 16 carries.

Much to everyone's surprise, the Panthers pounded a Harrison defense that had been tough against the run, rolling up 248 yards on the ground.

Furthermore, the Hawks compounded that with three first-half turnovers, each of which the Panthers converted into TDs and a 21-7 lead.

Harrison had geared its defense to stop 2,000-yard rusher Mike Crowder, but his counterpart in the wishbone was just as big a threat. Telford scored on runs of 2 and 32 yards and threw a halfback pass for a 36-yard TD in the first half.

At the start, Harrison made it look as if the state final was going to be another stomp like the 44-3 shellacking it dealt St. Joseph in 1988.

Harrison needed five plays on the game's first series to take a 7-0 lead. Coleman had two good runs and passed 35 yards to Rattos for the TD before three minutes had elapsed.

But the rest of the first half was a debacle for the heavily favored Hawks.

HARRISON STUFFED the Panthers on their first possession but fumbled away the punt at its 35. Telford's short run capped the four-play drive.

Coleman, who was 7-of-11 for 121 yards in the first half, saw both interceptions lead to DeWitt scores.

Prior to the second one and with the Hawks driving, the chains broke, and a 10-minute delay while another set was located interrupted Harrison's momentum. When play resumed, Crowder intercepted and Coleman had to make a TD-saving tackle at the 50.

"We had a nice drive going and had to stand around," Herrington said. "That's one of those things. There's nothing you can do about that."

Telford, having ripped through the Harrison defense a second time to make it 14-7 early in the second quarter, made the Hawks run conscious and vulnerable to the halfback pass which he completed to a wide-open John Cowan.

Harrison responded with a Matt Conley 1-yard scoring run with 1:09 left before halftime, and Coleman took the Hawks on a 77-yard, game-tying drive (21-21) early in the fourth quarter.

Coleman converted third-and-long plays twice with his scrambling ability — the second run being an urgent 19-yard dash for points as he pushed his lead blocker, Roy Granger, into the end zone ahead of him.

But the Panthers turned around and went 78 yards during a time-consuming drive (7:43 and 15 plays) for what seemed to be the game-winning TD.

DeWitt faced third-and-12 and third-and-17 situations early and late, but a Telford run kept it going and a 24-yard pass to tight end David Riker set up Berkimer's 1-yard sneak with 2:20 remaining.

"There's was over two minutes left, and I knew deep down that was too much time," Thornton said. "I knew we'd have to come up with a big play and we couldn't."

"It was a matter of who made the last mistake, and tonight it was us."

Ziggy brings Lakers good luck

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Michelle Aerts, Amira Danforth and Ziggy the Bear.

It all added up to another win for West Bloomfield in the Class A girls basketball tournament. The Lakers held off Detroit Cass Tech, 55-44, Wednesday in a regional final played at Berkley.

Against Cass Tech, West Bloomfield led by as many as nine, 21-12, after the first quarter, but had to cash in at the free throw line in the end to secure the win.

The Lakers were 14 of 18 at the free throw line, and Siperly made all six of her attempts.

"I JUST SAID, 'They're going in,'" Siperly said. "We always expect a tough game. We came out real strong, then let up. Ronna was a little disappointed. But she'll take it."

West Bloomfield committed 15 turnovers and that's uncharacteristic of the Lakers.

"Tonight I'm surprised we won," Greenberg said. "It was a crazy game. It shows we have the poise and character it takes to win the close ones. For some reason, we're not making free throws when there's no pressure. Tonight, we made them with pressure on."

Cass Tech, the Class A runner-up two years ago under coach Charles Frank, ended its season at 14-5 overall.

Robyn Williams scored 12 points, Yolanda McGehee had 11 and Kenyetta Borden 10 for Cass Tech, which will return all but one of its players next year.

"We're young in experience," Frank said. "Although most of them are 11th graders, this is the first year they've ever played. They've come a long way. If we get a few players more, we'll be a lot stronger."

CASS LED, 28-27 at halftime. The Lakers opened up a 36-32 lead on a basket by reserve Kelly Roberts, but a pair of baskets by McGehee at the end of the third quarter tied the game, 36-36.

Aerts, who scored seven points in the fourth quarter, gave the Lakers the lead for good, 42-40, with 5:20 left on a basket in the paint. Aerts made one of two free throws to give West Bloomfield a 43-40 lead and Danforth then made two important defensive plays — taking a charge and forcing a jump ball — with less than three minutes left.

The Lakers' defense in the second half was the difference, according to Greenberg.</

Amway Grand Plaza Hotel, right downtown on the Grand River, is one Grand Rapids' largest and best-located hotels.

A rapid trip through a grand city

By Carolyn DeMarco
staff writer

You need a weekend off and you're longing for city lights. New York's too expensive. Detroit's too close. Chicago's too far.

Remember Grand Rapids, Michigan's second largest city? With a core population of less than 200,000, it's certainly not the Big Apple (nor does it pretend to be).

But there's enough activity offered to fill a winter weekend nicely. And, as a bonus, it's less than 2 1/2 hours from Detroit.

If the idea of a weekend in a large, but not too large, city is appealing, read on.

THE LUXURIOUS Amway Grand Plaza Hotel, right downtown on the Grand River, is certainly the area's largest and best-located hotel, and the rates reflect it.

If you can't get a special weekend package, plenty of other moderate hotel choices are available. Among them are Days Inn, Red Roof, Marriott, Quality Inn and Holiday Inn.

One obvious "what to do with ourselves now that we're here" is the Gerald R. Ford Museum, an interesting afternoon whatever your politics, and cheap at $1.50 per person. It's just a walk over the Grand River bridge from the Amway.

Films and two dozen displays trace the 38th president's life from his early childhood in Grand Rapids, through his University of Michigan football years and on to the House of Representatives, then his selection as vice president and his swearing in as president.

Of special interest is a reproduction of the White House Oval Office.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Monday through Saturday, noon to 4:45 p.m. Sunday. It's closed Thanksgiving Day, Christmas and New Year's Day.

SOME OTHER sights to see:

- The Alexander Calder Sculpture at Ottawa and Lyon is worth a drive by, if only to ask yourself quietly what other people see in the red-orange "La Grande Vitesse."

- The Fish Ladder Sculpture. Ah, now we're talking something practical here.

The sculptor's plan was to help the spawning salmon climb the rapids instead of knocking themselves out to defy gravity and the Grand River rapids, but no one told the fish, at least the day we visited. It's still fun to say you've been.

- Heritage Hill is a nationally recognized historic district of 365 acres and 60 residential architectural styles.

Among them are the Meyer May House, 442 Madison Avenue, a Frank Lloyd Wright restoration of the 1909 house. Free tours are offered 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

The Voigt House Victorian Home Museum is close by. This magnificent house needed no restoration. The Voigts never threw anything away or changed a thing.

The clothing of the day displayed on beds, the wallpaper, the dozens of rocking chairs are all authentic, as are the items that stocked the pantry and the laundry room, like laundry flakes.

The house is open 1-3 p.m. the second Sunday of each month and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesdays.

- The Grand Rapids Art Museum, 155 Division, is a short walk from the Amway and worth the exercise.

Larger than a small museum, smaller than a large museum, it's worth an hour of your time to view the traveling and permanent exhibits, especially the furniture room. It's free Tuesday and Saturday.

- While you're in the vicinity, stop at the Kendall School of Art and Design. One recent display on the school's main floor was a jukebox exhibition, "Man, They Dig This Jive." Fifteen jukeboxes were on display dating from 1927.

- For downtown shopping, visit the City Centre Mall, a three-decker Trappers Alley-type affair, or the adjacent Monroe Center pedestrian mall.

Hats in the Belfry is a small haberdashery that carries everything from berets to deerstalkers to Australian cowboy hats. Try the Shaver and Pen Center, "Michigan's Largest Pen Dealer." Or The Great Divide, which sells only U-M and MSU memorabilia.

YOU CAN do lots of things in January. Bring downhill or cross country skis or ice skates.

For maps and information on outdoor recreation spots, including public ice skating rinks and folks who offer sleigh rides, send for a free copy of "Grand Rapids Guest Book." Bed and breakfast places are also listed. Write Gemini Publications, 40 Pearl NW, Suite 1040 Trust Bldg., Grand Rapids 49503. Or call (616) 459-4545.

"On the Town," a tabloid calendar of events for the month, is also distributed free. Write Downtown Publishing Inc., 759 Butterworth SW, Grand Rapids 49504. Phone (616) 451-0361.

He provides weather tips to sail by

By Chris Rizk
special writer

If the temperatures are cold these days, Chris Bedford declines to take credit for it.

Temperatures, he said, are only a small part of his duties as a meteorologist since 1986 with the New York-based firm of Galson Technical Services, Inc., an environmental consulting firm for special interest sporting groups.

But he will take partial credit for returning the America's Cup to America and away from the Australians.

Admittedly, Bedford's sailing skills did little to recapture the most-coveted sailing prize. But his knowledge of weather conditions did.

Bedford, who has ties to Redford (and yes, he's heard all the jokes about Bedford/Redford, he said) through his parents who live there, has the lucrative title of "weatherman" for America's Cup team leader Dennis Connor.

It is, he said, easy to be at the beck and call of the famous yachtsman Connor, who used Bedford to lead his team to victory during the 1987 America's Cup races.

"I was their on-site meteorological support," Bedford said. "Each day, I'd make weather forecasts and spend some time out on the water."

That's Australian waters for those who don't remember that the American's Cup was won in the southern hemisphere in 1987. Bedford spent five months in Fremantle near Perth in Western Australia, charting weather conditions for Connor's team.

EXPERT WEATHER readings are supposed to provide an extra edge to winning. Was he correct a lot?

"Well," the 25-year-old said hesitatingly, "let's just say they asked me back."

Connor first asked Bedford to join his team when the latter's boss, Lee Davis, relinquished the title to pursue a teaching position at the University of Michigan.

That's where Connor met Bedford, then an undergraduate working toward his degree in atmospheric science.

"He knew I was interested in the kind of forecasting the Cup team needed," Bedford said. "He asked me if I'd be interested."

Bedford began charting Cup forecasts in October. Sometimes, because the stakes for winning the Griff (Thomas F. Wilson) and his gang hold on to their hover boards over the town square pond in an attempt to catch Marty (Michael J. Fox).

Return trip still entertaining

Once again, friends, it's time to time-warp so rev up your DeLorean and brace yourself for an exciting and delightful trip "Back to the Future Part II" (B, PG, 90 minutes).

In this sequel, Marty McFly (Michael J. Fox) learns from Doctor Emmett Brown (Christopher Lloyd) that, in the year 2015, Marty's kids — Marty Jr. (Michael J. Fox) and sister Marlene (Michael J. Fox) — are in trouble. Unless Marty can intervene and alter things, Marty Jr. will go to jail and a whole string of misfortunes will follow.

Marty is whipped forward by Doc to 2015 in order to avert catastrophe. In this future segment Michael J. Fox plays three roles — Marty, Marty Jr. and Marlene — courtesy of the makeup department. Generally that's OK but there tends to be a rubbery, Halloween-mask quality which works against Fox's visual impact.

Marty helps his son by outsmarting the villain, Griff (Thomas F. Wilson), grandson of Biff, circa 1955. This secures the future but while in 2015 Marty gets greedy and purchases a sports almanac listing events from 1950 to 2000.

A chain of events follows spinning Marty back to an alternate track 1955, parallel to the 1985 he had left. Well, now he's in the soup, in a world where Grandpa Biff (Thomas F. Wilson) retrieved the almanac Marty never should have picked up in 2015. With that booklet back in 1955 Grandpa Biff made a lot of money which leads to a corrupt and depraved Hill Valley in 1985. Unfortunately some of Biff's villainy is a touch too cruel and unpleasant for the film's generally happy atmosphere.

GOT ALL the time travel fans? Well, go see "Back to the Future Part II" because figuring out all these complications is fun. However, be prepared for less than a total experience. Sequels never quite measure up to the expectations created

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

A pair of musicals with unusual twists

By John Monaghan
special writer

It's easy to look at movie musicals as mindless entertainment whose sole purpose is to make people hum the soundtrack on their way home.

In a week brimming with musical screenings, two of the titles, "Love Me or Leave Me" (1955) and "Cabin in the Sky" (1943), have that same end result. But — as their troubled characters can attest — it's a long, hard road getting there.

Take Ruth Etting, the subject of "Love Me or Leave Me," screening Tuesday morning at Livonia Mall. The famous 1920s torch singer was as well known for her lousy marriage to a gangster as for the songs she made popular.

In adapting her story for the screen, Oscar-winner Daniel Fuchs didn't pull any punches. The end result was perhaps the most disturbing and honest show biz biography of the 1950s.

DORIS DAY played Etting, the talented chorus girl whose career flourished under the financial support of gangster Martin "The Gimp" Snyder (James Cagney). Forced into marriage, Etting fell in love with another man — whom Snyder tried to murder out of jealousy.

The chemistry was unusual — to say the least. Cagney, well known for gangster roles, elicited both sympathy and revulsion as the psychopathically jealous Snyder. The role echoed slightly more subtly than his intense mother fixation in "White Heat" (1949).

Day, meanwhile, surprised everyone with her poignant, dramatic performance. She did justice to the renditions of Etting classics — "Ten Cents a Dance" and "Shaking the Blues Away" — along with a pair of songs written especially for the film. "Love Me or Leave Me" was well received by critics and audiences and could have turned Day into a major dramatic actress. Press releases called the film "The Dawn of a new Day."

Though she worked with Hitchcock on "The Man Who Knew Too Much" the following year, Day soon returned to the squeaky-clean roles that made her famous.

THE DARK aspects of "Cabin in the Sky," meanwhile, spread well beyond its all-black cast. In it, the forces of good and evil wrestle for the soul of a likeable no-account named Little Joe (Eddie "Rochester" Anderson).

In the world of "Cabin in the Sky," jazz music becomes synonymous with sin. Louis Armstrong is all smiles as an assistant to Lester Jr. (Rex Ingram), and Duke Ellington sizzles at the local den of iniquity.

"Cabin in the Sky" was based on a popular Broadway play, and was the first of many musicals directed by Vincente Minnelli. Despite the obvious racial stereotypes, a black cast has rarely been used so creatively.

The film sets up familiar good girl and bad girl counterparts in Ethel Waters and Lena Horne. As Little Joe's faithful wife, Waters comes off surprisingly sexy when vamping it up in an attempt to make her husband jealous. She introduced the song, "Taking a Chance on Love."

Ageless Horne, meanwhile, is at her most striking in this film. She puts on sin with the same ease of slipping into a sexy silk blouse.

"Cabin in the Sky" teams with "Singin' in the Rain" (1952) this weekend as the Tele-Arts Theatre takes a break from premieres with a monthlong look at vintage films.

"White Christmas" (USA - 1954) Nov. 30 to Dec. 3 (all for showtimes). Bing Crosby and Danny Kaye star in the overrated Christmas classic, which has little going for it except Irving Berlin's lifting title song.

REDFOOT THEATRE, 17360 Lahser, Detroit. 537-2560. ($2)

"Shall We Dance?" (USA - 1937), 8 p.m. 1-2. Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers teamed again in this classic musical. There's a cleverly stage roller skating sequence and unforgettable songs by George and Ira Gershwin. Among them: "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off." "They Can't Take That Away From Me" and the title number.

Language is one of the problems foreign films face in this country, and while dubbing is disturbing on large theater screens, it's not so intrusive on a 21-inch videocassette, despite the fact that it never quite matches up and there's always the sense that some strangers are botting in on the fun.

"Pardon Mon Affaire" is dubbed and it's a pretty effective comedy about four friends and their problems with sexuality and aging. Despite that topic, the film is properly rated PG. All very tasteful as the comedy centers less on the sexual problems of middle-aged men and more on their bumbling attempts to do something about it.

"Affaire" was directed by Yves Robert, better known for "The Tall Blonde Man with One Black Shoe" — also remade on this side of the Atlantic and also available in its original on tape.

THE MAIN character, Etienne Dorsay (Jean Rochefort), a minor but successful civil servant, is happily married to Martine (Danielle Delorme) but the middle-aged crazies

While all that is going on his wife is being pursued by Lucien, a classmate of their youth, a totally humorless, young pseudo-intellectual. His is a very funny characterization and a clever comment on the middle-life traumas that populate this entertainment.

Stowe-ing away the songs

"It's My Turn" is Stowe's second album since embarking on a solo career.

Singer strums away, shuns music's labels

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

You can call him Bruce Springsteen. You can call him Warren Zevon. You can call him John Cougar Mellencamp. But you don't have to call him a folk-rock-pop singer.

In fact, Ichabod Stowe prefers you wouldn't. For Stowe, labels belong on clothes and food products, not music. He actually prefers being compared to another artist than having his music affixed with some description that doesn't apply.

"I try to avoid labels of any kind," said Stowe, 30, a native of Franklin and a Birmingham Groves graduate. "Especially ones like stale or something like that."

That would probably be the last thing one would call his latest LP, "It's My Turn," on the New York-based independent label Gardy Records. Stowe's music includes folk, rock and even reggae this time around.

The cover features a person trying to balance the cube (from Ann Arbor) on his finger. Sometimes humorous, sometimes serious, indeed, this LP is something of a balancing act for Stowe (whose real name is Mitch Cantor).

The LP opens with the folk-rock inspired "This Train is Running Out of Track" and then follows with the reggae-infused "All Grown Up With Nowhere to Go." From there on, anything goes.

"It's My Turn" is the follow-up to the singer-songwriter's acclaimed debut "The Legendary Ichabod Stowe" two years ago. Though well-received, the LP perhaps didn't capture the essence of what Ichabod Stowe is on stage, one who is funny, the artist who is quite versatile.

Versatility is Stowe's middle name. After all this is a guy who has two master's degrees, teaches the martial art Aikido Yoshinkan, held public office in Ann Arbor and had a role in the Dino DeLaurentis film "Evil Dead II."

Stowe's musical resume is as extensive. His musical roots can be traced to Ann Arbor, where he joined a band, Gary Pryka and the Scales

He then started his own group The Fine Line.

HE WENT on to Washington D.C. where he was in a group called The Jump and then performed with a band in Paris, France, The Ice Cream Men.

A move to the Big Apple, though, would prove to be the core of his solo career. It's a career that continues to evolve despite the usual obstacles. He doesn't have a record deal, operating his own label, and he is trying to stake a claim in the highly competitive New York folk scene.

"It's a double-edged sword," Stowe said. "New York is a better place for meeting people from other parts of the country, it's more centralized. Again, on the other hand, you don't walk down the street and meet the president of C.B.S. Records."

Nonetheless, Stowe carries on. His audience is targeted, primarily college-educated people who listen to such things as lyrics. Now, it's only a matter of reaching them.

He believes an open-minded audience helps give him carte blanche in terms of the type of music he performs. Along with folk, pop and reggae, Stowe has a bagful of rockabilly tunes he might pull out during a live performance. That won't change anytime soon, he said.

"I write whatever I feel like writing," he said. "I don't think of it as setting down. I think of it as limiting yourself. If you enjoy writing in different styles, if you cut yourself off from that, I don't know why you would do that."

Much the same attitude is applied to his choices of venues for live performances. He will perform a show at his alma mater, Birmingham Groves on Thursday, Dec. 7. He will also perform that evening at The Ark in Ann Arbor. He talks of perhaps one day performing a show at the Apple Orchard in his hometown of Franklin.

Nonetheless, Stowe is looking forward to returning to his old school. "The guy who book the date wanted to know what I did in high school," Stowe said. "Basically, I went to school. There no extracurricular activities... I was just there."

LIVE

BO DIDDLEY
Majestic Theatre,
Detroit

This show had the feel of a high school sock hop: a rockin' little trip back in time.

The boys were lined up front, pounding the stage with their fists, thump-a-thump-thump thump-thump. The Bo Diddley Beat. A couple fellas even sported 1950s, D-style haircuts. They were too young for the original, but looked good nonetheless.

A few girls were up front as well, moving to that beat. The man, Bo Diddley, was on stage in all his glory, at times gyrating, shaking and strutting, his eyes showing keen interest in the girls.

"I've been doing it for 35 years," he told the Majestic Theatre crowd. "Long live rock and roll."

Bo Diddley did many things that night, but he did not show his age.

In 1955, Chess Records released a 45 by Diddley — a.k.a. Elbert McDaniel, Mississippi-born and Chicago raised — with "Bo Diddley" on one side and "I'm A Man" on the other.

DIDDLEY AND HIS SIMPLE but captivating guitar sound brought rhythm and blues to rock and roll much like his contemporaries Chuck Berry and Chubby Checker did.

Unlike Berry and Checker, Diddley never scored big on the record charts. He has complained bitterly over the years about getting ripped off by record companies, promoters, and other music industry sharks.

He played two hours to a couple hundred fans at the faded but fun Majestic, seeming to enjoy himself all the while.

Diddley's trademark guitar looks like a Lincoln Continental on strings — square, loaded with switches and a stickier that reads "Turbo 5 Speed." Its master worked all the gears.

Flipping switches and pedals, Diddley had that square, Gretsch guitar sounding at times like a mariachi band, at times like a guitar army.

HE WORKED THROUGH HITS like "I'm A Man," and "Roadrunner" with a strong voice, and got into some twisted, love-gone-bad raps. Bo Diddley is no feminist. His odd sense of humor remains.

On one song, he berates a lover then adds: "Wait a minute, woman, put away that razor. Don't you know I love you?"

Local bluesman Johnny "Yard Dog" Jones opened up the show with The Rhythm Kings, who stayed on stage to back up Diddley.

If there was a complaint, it was the brevity with which he whipped through "Bo Diddley." He didn't even play "Who Do You Love?"

That's too bad because I could have listened to that beat all night.

RHYTHM NATION 1814

— Janet Jackson

Make no mistake, the queen of the dance floor is back — but there's more on her mind than just shaking her booty.

After taking on sexual politics with "Control," her 1986 breakthrough, the youngest Jackson sibling issues a state-of-the-world address this time out.

The sentiments — a call for racial harmony and social justice — are admirable, welcome and well within the Jackson tradition. They build on both brother Michael's "Man in the Mirror" and the peacock symbolism introduced by her brothers way back in the disco era.

Questions linger about whether the sentiments — and the absolute killer funk throughout — are Jackson's own or the solo product of Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis, her highly regarded, Minneapolis-based production team. And to what does this 1814 staff refer? The Congress of Vienna?

Those questions, however, only surface after the record is over. Once it's on the turntable, cassette deck or compact disc player, the listener is swept away by a stunning production that makes reference to a struggle of the human spirit against a dehumanizing, 1984-style future — not generally the stuff of pop dreams.

Musically, it offers a tour of state-of-the-art pop music making as well as reaching back to Sly Stone. The title track's killer guitar riff is a direct steal from Sly's "Thank You Fallettin' Me Be Mice Elf Agin."

Jackson spent more than three years delivering this album. In that time, numerous pretenders to the throne have emerged, including such talented ones as Jody Watley and one-time Jackson collaborator Paula Abdul.

But whether the credit belongs to her alone, her production team or a combination of each, this album re-establishes Jackson as a shooting star cutting across the pop stratosphere and throws down a bold, subliminal challenge to all who would dare follow.

AUTOMATIC

— The Jesus and Mary Chain

It may well be time to reassess the Jesus and Mary Chain as a gimmick band that unwisely dumped its gimmick.

Four years ago, the Chain was the darling of the independent music scene. The black-clad quartet drenched its simple pop songs with a squalling wall of feedback and guitar noise. The Chain's debut LP, "Psychocandy," set a new standard for noise, and it remains influential.

On "Automatic," the Chain has been pared down to Jim and William Reid, brothers, guitarists, singers and songwriters. While the Reids can fairly claim the bulk of the credit for the band's earlier successes, they must now accept the blame

FEAR & LOAFING

Culture gone mad

For years, suburbia's social elite have been forced to travel downtown for their cultural pursuits. From the DSO to the DIA, the big city has traditionally enjoyed a monopoly on highbrow entertainment.

Now, culturally-deprived suburbanites can stand tall, thanks to the debut of the prestigious "Museum of Failed Products" in Farmington Hills. Exhibiting only those cultural milestones conceived in suburbia, the MFB threatens to turn metropolitan green with envy.

Meanwhile, join me for a sneak preview as we take a burb-by-burb look at our hometown inventors.

No. 1. Redford's talented Sister Cordova is the proud inventor of the original "Meat Detector." Developed in the '50s for use by the Catholic Church, this portable electronic sensor helped enforce meatless Fridays on the faithful.

Every Friday, plainclothes nuns would drive past parishioner's homes at dinner time and scan them for meat. If the detector's needle swung into the red, the sisters would surround the house, shouting "Where's the Beef?"

The papal edict lifting the ban on meat spelled doom for the local manufacturer. However, a modified version is still being used by fast-food restaurants to locate hamburger patties too small to see with the naked eye.

No. 2. Next time you nuke a frozen pizza, pause a moment to say "thank you" to Tom Bunker of Troy.

While experimenting with electromagnetic radiation, Tom invented the revolutionary new appliance he dubbed the "Open-Air Microwave Oven." Unlike today's fully enclosed models, this early prototype was open on three sides for easy access.

Sensing the future market for microwave cooking, industry flocked to purchase the rights to Bunker's idea. Unfortunately, before the royalty checks arrived, Tom's family had mutated into alien life forms and slithered off into the storm sewers.

No. 3. Jack Kinzel of Westland had a terrible habit of oversleeping. Finally, to keep from losing his job, he was forced to create the "Alarm Clock from Hell."

Designed for folks who can ignore ordinary snooze-alarmers, Jack's wake-up call began with the super-amplified sound of fingernails squeaking across a blackboard. If the audio alert went unheeded, jets of water soaked down the bed. If that failed, a dozen electric cattle prods were lowered from the ceiling. If there was still no response, hundreds of needles protruded up through the mattress to suspend the sleeper in mid-air as South American killer bees were released into the room.

Unfortunately, the buzzing of the angry insects lulled Kinzel back to sleep and he scrapped the idea.

No. 4. Back in the '70s, Southfield was the hub of discomania. Excitement peaked when local dance champ Conrad Lupanoff was hired to teach John Travolta a few simple moves for Saturday Night Fever.

When the lessons failed, Lupanoff constructed the "Automatic Disco Dancer."

Using robotics, a set of rods and levers were installed around Travolta's legs. Once the dance steps were programmed in, the motorized splints completely controlled his lower body. With the machinery concealed by bellbottoms, all Travolta had to do was swing his arms and curl his lip to the beat.

After the success of the movie, Lupanoff earned his own place in the record books by winning 14 dance marathons in his battery-powered slacks. Able to dance vigorously while eating or sleeping, Conrad stunned the judges by dancing for eight straight days! Sadly, Lupanoff retired in disgrace when heat from an overloaded circuit melted his polyester suit.

No. 5. Birmingham jogger Bob Mango had a dream of training indoors during the harsh Michigan winters.

Finding traditional "conveyor-belt" treadmills too expensive, the resourceful Mango designed the first ever "Circular Treadmill." By turning an old lawn mower upside down and attaching a giant plywood disc to the driveshaft, Bob devised an exercise witness described "like running in place on a huge record album."

Unfortunately, there was no way to control the speed of rotation and during the trial run Bob was flung off over the horizon, never to return.

Now that you're bursting to run out and visit the Museum of Failed Products, I've got some bad news. The grand opening is being delayed while the curators figure out how to get the Pontiac Silverdome inside.

Rock with no roll

It's said to be the world's first all-natural deodorant. Made from 100 percent all natural mineral salts, Crystal Body Deodorant is the newest alternative to standard spray, deodorant and roll-on deodorants. The crystalline rock leaves a thin, invisible layer of mineral salts that prevents the formation of odor-causing bacteria. Imported from France, the deodorant retails for about $10 and is said to last a year. Available at area Meijer stores.

Great pretender

Remember when bubble gum machines were only at the store and available only in red? Now they come in a rainbow of colors, including hot pink, blue, yellow and black. Great for kids' rooms or the office. $25 at the Paper Place in Applegate Square in Southfield.

STREET SENSE

No winners in name game

Dear Barbara,

I am thinking of changing my name to "Kathy Detroit." I have never been fond of my family name and think that "Detroit" as a last name would have a certain excitement that I now lack. I asked my brother what he thought and he was insulted that I wanted to change my name. He says that my father will be insulted and angry too. Any thoughts on this subject?

"In Search of a Name"

Dear "In Search of,"

Acting like a movie star will not make you exciting like one. Without excitement in you, your modifier cannot create it. As for your father and mother, it seems as if all of you may not be able to be happy at the same time. That is often the case with relationships.

Dear Barbara,

I recently met a man that I like and want him to like me. I have consequently asked a lot of acquaintances how I should handle this situation.

Barbara Schiff

One of the women who had the most to say gave me this advice. First, she said, get to know the man. Second, let him see me in situations with other people. Third, arrange for an intimate evening alone but don't be there when he arrives. She said that this will break his heart and put his "head in his pants. Never take your favors for granted."

What do you think? I am a divorced woman in my 30s with two children. I lack confidence in dealing with men.

Clawson

Free advice is usually worth what you pay for it. That answer would also apply to my answer to your letter.

Perhaps your friend has had a lot of success with "absence make the heart grow bigger." If so, she's talking about sex and not about your first sentence which stressed liking and being liked. It is my experience that the most successful force in getting the right man to love you is for him to know how much you love him. Mature individuals do not play games with each other.

A final suggestion: If you want him to like you, try being a likable person.

Richard Lewis is on hiatus from his ABC-TV sitcom, "Anything but Love," working on his stand-up routine.

Lewis: Anything but rest

By Bob Sadler
Special writer

It's tough to catch Richard Lewis when he's not working.

Technically, when we caught up with him last week, he was "on hiatus" from his ABC series "Anything But Love." However, the scenario painted by the frenetic comic could be more realistically titled "anything but rest."

"I'm at some mountain retreat," Lewis said, somewhere in California off the beaten path. That sounds restful enough, but what is the man really up to?

"I'm planning the rest of my concert tour because I've been working so hard on the sit-com," he said. "I'm pouring over millions of ideas because I'm doing Detroit, Philly and Carnegie Hall."

Although constantly referring to his series as "the sit-com," it's obvious that Lewis is giving his all to the project, despite its overwhelming impact on the rest of his life.

"When I do the sit-com, I have no time for stand-up. I'm working Monday through Friday, and on Saturday, I'm a goner."

When I was writing a screenplay (a recently finished piece for HBO called "No Life to Live"), having a relationship, doing concerts and the sit-com, it was really almost unfair," Lewis lamented in characteristic fashion. "It was almost like, 'let's see how long this guy'll live.'"

"Anything But Love" is in its first full season on ABC and Lewis is excited about its possibilities.

"ABC believes in the show," he says. "I have many more problems than he does," said the ever-neurotic comic actor.

"Not recently," he said. "A mountain stream, I understand, is therapeutic. I understand things to be therapeutic, I just haven't experienced them."

On stage, where it took him more than a decade to be discovered, Lewis is perpetual motion, tossing his twisted observations at the audience while sporting a slouched comedy stance more suited for a professional fighter.

"I see my posture improving around the year 2008," he said. "I don't want to stand up straight. I think it would be bad for the act."

His career did not start its steady upward climb until old friend David Letterman got a late night talk show (they worked together on the old comedy circuit, particularly the New York Improv).

"My whole career was resurrected by Dave's show," Lewis said. "I'd been in stand-up 10 years prior to getting on 'Late Night.' Letterman knew that stand-up wasn't my best art form on network television because you only get four minutes. Fortunately, he got a show, and 45 guest spots later, I have a following."

The frequent Letterman spots propelled the Lewis-coined "from hell" family of phrases into the American consciousness. There have been dates from hell, actresses from hell, kitchen appliances from hell — you name it. The whole idea was something Lewis generated about 10 years ago.

"In that time of my life, I wasn't a hellish person, but I felt victimized by all these people. They're from hell, not me. I guess I just picked the darkest metaphor possible."

Lewis' style has often been compared with Lenny Bruce, and his material has been likened to that of Woody Allen. Lewis admires both, but has an especially deep reverence for Bruce.

"I ADMIRE how prolific he was, but more importantly, I admired his courage," Lewis said. "He was way ahead of his time."

Richard Lewis appears Saturday, Dec. 2, at the Royal Oak Music Theatre. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets, or charge by calling 645-6666.

He helped bring the cup home

Cup were so high, things "got a little tense," he said. Winds in Fremantle were light for the kind of racing Connor was used to.

"We lost a number of races," he said, "and the team got a little tense then. It wasn't so much the forecasts as the winds. They were just too light. But because it had to do with the weather, the team took it out on the meteorologist."

But everyone on the team was a team player, he said, and he was soon working with the crews on boat design, sails and navigation. New forecasts were made, new races won.

Bedford found himself in San Diego for four months after his stint in Australia, again at the behest of Connor.

HIS MOST recent work includes forecasting in Newport, R.I., for boat races there and in July for the Port Huron to Mackinac races. Just-completed tasks were a little more exotic, he said.

Selected last year as the meteorologist for the U.S. Olympic yachting team, Bedford spent 1 1/2 weeks in Barcelona, Spain.

But lest those less fortunate protest his good fortune, consider this: A typical office day means arriving at 6 a.m. to look at maps for a couple hours and preparing a forecast for clients by 8:30 a.m. Then it's on to preparing the next day's forecast.

Bedford spends as many as 16 hours a day when he's out at the actual sites of his weather forecasts.

"I really didn't have much time to myself in Australia," he said. "I was up between 4 and 5 a.m. and I'd finish at 9 p.m. pretty much seven days a week."

In fact, Bedford said, he had a total of seven days off between September and January while preparing for the Cup races.

"We even had to work Thanksgiving Day," he said. "It's a concentrated effort to win."

Bedford said he took a "quick" trip across southwest Australia and spent 11 hours on layover in Sydney, one of the country's largest and most populated cities.

When he's not elbow-deep in maps and charts, he's flying, he said. Still in flight training school, his habits are hard to shake.

"MY INSTRUCTOR gets mad at me," he said. "I spend most of my time looking at the clouds."

He has no intentions of trading his illustrious career for one more subdued. Television weather reporting holds no attraction because, he said, "competition, not science."

"I enjoy this field," he said. "The thing I like most is being on-site. You're there, they call you after the race and tell you how you did. You have to live up to that forecast."

His shining hour

By Cathie Breidenbach
special writer

LAST APRIL when Charles Bullock decided to manufacture and market glimmering ornamental Christmas trees, sentiment played as big a role in the decision as business know-how.

He says when people succumb to the shimmering serenity of his trees, "It's an emotional buy no matter what. The trees are so reflective when they're near lights, they sparkle like they're lit up themselves."

If emotions move people to buy the tree kits called Ornamentrix, emotion also lies behind Bullock's own decision to go into the Christmas tree business.

The trees and the holiday have become a family affair. The partially-retired manufacturers representative will be 60 Dec. 25. His wife, Jill, was also born on Christmas Day, and that's just the beginning of the mix of traditions and memories that persuaded him to fill his basement with floor to ceiling boxes of shiny balls and packaging materials and to become an entrepreneur again.

The most persuasive reason is that his 82-year-old mother, Rose Bullock, first created the decorative trees 40 years ago.

"DURING MY YOUNGER years," Bullock reminisces, "Dad was busy making a living as vice president of a manufacturing company. He always came home with a briefcase packed with work. So mother and I became pals. She taught me to cook soup and corn relish and to bake pies. She and I played horseshoes and she tossed a football with me."

Rose Bullock came up with the idea of making the trees from graduated sizes of glass Christmas balls topped by a spiked ornament. The tiers of balls were mounted on a spindle and her husband made a metal base to anchor the tree. Her creations have sparkled on coffee tables and end tables during the holidays ever since — a treasured heirloom she shared with family and friends.

A year ago July, she moved from her large home in Bloomfield Hills to Mercy Bellbrook, a complex for senior citizens not far from where Charles and his wife live. Over the holidays at her new home, "people oohed and aahed and asked her where she got her trees," says Bullock, "and one fella said from out of left field, 'Geez, you ought to market those.'"

Charles Bullock couldn't banish the idea from his mind and decided to launch a new business. Certainly the lifelong businessman knew how to go about starting a business. He'd done it several times before, once on a large scale with a tool and die shop. Unlike his previous business ventures, this one capitalizes on emotions — his own and his buyers'.

FIRST HE PATENTED the trees which he sells as a kit because there's no unbreakable way to ship them assembled. Expenses to get his patent approved cost $6,000 up front. The trees may look uncomplicated, but the multiple details of patenting them, purchasing parts, designing packaging that could withstand UPS shipping, and booking advertising demand careful planning not to mention considerable outlay of money.

After Christmas last year, Bullock bought sample balls from stores all over town to find out names of manufacturers as potential sources.

"Only two manufacturers make four sizes of balls," he says of the supply problems he encountered, and "nobody makes tops in the U.S." Back in April he wanted to place an order for spiked tops through Bronner's in Frankenmuth, but it was already too late to take advantage of Bronner's bulk order discounts. So he ordered independently — tops from Colombia, South America, and balls in assorted colors from a company in Los Angeles.

Even though silver is his hottest seller, he couldn't specify color quantities because manufacturers can't afford to hand pack orders. Computers do the packing and buyers must take either cases of predetermined color mixes or full cases in all one color.

Matching ball colors presented the next hurdle. The blue and green on imported balls which he uses for the tops of his trees quarrel with the colors of balls from his Los Angeles supplier. "The imported blues are nearly purple," he says. Clashing colors led him to his basement "laboratory" to experiment with spray cans of assorted automotive transparent acrylic lacquers. He rigged up a cardboard box spraying chamber and set up fans to speed drying.

IN HIS "LAB," he worked out close color matches. He offers the trees in silver, gold, red, green and blue or in two color mixes.

Next he negotiated with businesses to manufacture the 4-inch plastic discs that support the tree and won't scratch furniture surfaces. "I wanted to make 100 trees to start," he said, "but manufacturers wouldn't even waste the time to quote me on that volume." Quotes on molds to produce the bases ranged from $175 to over $12,000. He settled on a Wixom company that charged a moderate price for the mold and two dollars per disk.

"I totally blew estimates of packaging costs," he says of another hurdle in starting up his business. Packaging accounts for 20 percent of costs because the 16 glass balls and spiked top must nestle securely in molded urethane to keep them from breaking.

One manufacturer told him, "You gotta break some eggs to make an omelet," but he didn't want any of his customers to receive kits with broken balls.

Finally Manhattan Container Co. in Hazel Park came up with a sturdy package for the kit that doubles as a permanent storage box. Bullock sent the carefully designed two-pound package to the UPS lab in Illinois to see if it could withstand their drop, vibration and puncture tests. He facetiously says, "It passed the UPS drop kick test."

Finally he investigated advertising in Better Homes and Gardens and Traditional Home Magazines and was overwhelmed by the cost. When he inquired two months ago, he says, "Not only was I too late, I couldn't afford them." Earlier in the year, he made a sales circuit of upper Michigan and talked with six different retail operations. Most had already ordered their Christmas supplies and he discovered a marketing problem — "I can't afford to sell low enough so they can mark the trees up 100 percent."

HE DELIBERATELY priced the trees to "meet IRS guidelines limiting gifts and entertainment to $25," so the trees would be eligible for business gift giving. The kits sell for $24.95 plus $4 shipping and handling.

For more information on the Ornamentrix trees, contact Bullock at 647-8370.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl

Q: My husband works constantly, yet is always behind. I'm more in control and like to take time off and do nothing sometimes, and he can hardly stand it. He thinks I should always be doing something productive, like cleaning out file folders while I'm watching TV. Can't a person ever just have time to relax?

A: Yes, you can and should regularly take time off to do only what you want. Relaxation is essential to good physical and emotional health and a well-balanced life.

What is relaxation for one person, however, might mean work for another.

Some people function well doing two things at once, while others feel pressured under the same circumportant aspect is to enjoy it.

You must decide for yourself how your time will be best spent.

If you consider cleaning out files to be work and you are already feeling burned out, then don't do it during your leisure time. If purging your folders is enjoyable for you, however, you could do it then.

HERE'S ANOTHER consideration. If your husband is a logical, time-conscious and detail-oriented person, he may be a left brain dominant person who tends to make work out of play.

Instead of just sitting down to watch TV, for instance, the Left Brainer will often consider what work can also be done during that time.

Right Brain people have the opposite approach.

They make play out of work and might decide that, regardless of the time, since they are cleaning out file folders anyway, they may as well make a game out of it or watch TV at the same time.

TELL YOUR husband not to confuse movement with action. Some people with a high energy level seem to function well with non-stop working.

Workaholics are not necessarily peak performers, however; some just spin their wheels. If down time is important to you, then stick to your guns and take off the time you need.

Building amid woods, water

staff photos by DAN DEAN

Mission Springs features 101 acres of home sites with five parks and 1,750 feet of lakefront. Fifty acres of wetlands were preserved, and 80 percent of the lots back up to a park. Houses such as the Lakewood model by Ivanhoe-Huntley are surrounded by trees.

By Louise Okrutsky
staff writer

After three others failed to develop separate pieces of a sensitive plot of land, Gary Shapiro of The Ivanhoe Cos. assembled two parcels into Mission Springs on Darb Lake in West Bloomfield.

"It took me a long time to acquire it," Shapiro said of the property. His plans needed to conform to West Bloomfield and the state Department of Natural Resources wetlands and woodlands regulations.

Out of that grew a development with 101 acres of home sites with five parks and 1,750 feet of lakefront on Darb Lake. A bridge leading from Willow Road was built over wetlands and continues 600 feet into the developed area. The development is west of Hiller Road off Willow.

"I wanted to bring the development in from a paved road. If the bulk of the houses were in the back, you would have had to drive through the neighborhood behind us to get to it," Shapiro said.

Working with the DNR, he came up with a plan that saved 50 acres of wetlands and allowed 80 percent of the lots to back up to a park. There are five cul de sacs in the development. Houses are almost literally built around trees.

"It's more difficult and expensive to build on a treed lot," said Scott Jacobson of SR Jacobson Development Corp., one of four builders in the development. "West Bloomfield is involved in the amount of trees we can take down. We'd like to keep all the trees we can. It's certainly more difficult."

"It's a long process before we dig a hole for the basement," said Stuart Michaelson of Stewart Homes Corp., another of Mission Spring's builders.

AFTER STAKING out a lot, the builder and a West Bloomfield environmental ordinance officer walk through the property deciding which trees can be removed. In many cases, the property also goes through a wetlands inspection. The process adds a couple of weeks to the building time, Michaelson said.

When the basement is dug, the dirt is carted off the lot. The trees don't allow much room on the lot to store the dirt there as it's more commonly done. Piles of dirt left against tree trunks would harm the trees.

Shapiro's convinced that the subdivision would look different if he wanted to develop the property today. "It was approved two years ago, but under the current state ordinance there would have been bigger lots. It would have made the homes more expensive," Shapiro said. Mission Springs borrows a bit from the condominium developments done by The Ivanhoe Cos. Parks, beaches, streets and bridges are marked with etched signs.

In addition to developing the property, Shapiro also has a stake in building homes in the subdivision. Along with Steve Perlman, his partner in Ivanhoe-Huntley Homes, Shapiro's building on half of the property.

He also chose three other companies from a field of 50 to build in the development. In addition to those already mentioned, that group includes Richter-Rosin Builders. "We wanted diversity," said Shapiro, a third-generation builder. Perlman's a second-generation builder.

"WE'RE BUILDING houses of the '90s," Shapiro said. Emphasizing open spaces, many of the development's houses feature a sitting room next to the country kitchen and master bedroom suites for working couples. "Those are the two rooms lived in to a greater extent," Shapiro said.

So far, the development with homes in the $220,000-$300,000 range is attracting working couples, empty nesters and young executives and families.

Typical of the homes offered in the subdivision is Ivanhoe-Huntley's 1½-story home with 2,742 square feet. It appeals to young couples with one child or no children. Next door to that model is a 3,090-square-foot colonial with enough room to accommodate a larger family.

Entrance to the foyer of this 1,478-square-foot Cape Cod offers full perspective of the open stair great room and dining area. A pre-fab fireplace is shown in great room, with garage access from the dining area.

The kitchen is U-shaped, lending to an open working area. Built-in appliances are called for in the plan. The basement stair is central from this area. A large laundry area and full tub bath with powder room are shown to the rear of the master bedroom.

A central bath services both upstairs bedrooms. Sloped ceilings are shown for both bedrooms.

This plan may be built without the garage or with a single or double garage. The exterior is shown with horizontal wood siding, shuttered windows and two dormers for windows in the upstairs bedrooms. The plan is available with basement or crawl space.

The plan is No. 459A and includes construction details for energy efficiency. It is drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For more information, write to W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, Ga. 30345.

Board ignores woman member

I am the only woman on a five-person board of directors and believe I am being abused by the male members. They never seem to listen to me and think that I am some scatterbrained female, even though I have a teaching certificate and have been married for 25 years. What can I do to assert my rights and still maintain some degree of respectability?

This is a frequent complaint I hear from females who believe their voice is not being heard by the other members of the board. If your intent is not to seek a direct confrontation with the other directors and if you do not wish to come out and accuse them of being discriminatory or chauvinistic, my best suggestion is that you overwhelm them with your enlightenment and education concerning condominium association affairs. It may be appropriate to do additional reading, take condominium operation classes and otherwise point out by way of direction that you are indeed perceptive and know what you are doing and that your experience both in your avocation and in your day-to-day living demands the proper respect from the other members of the board.

I am being told by my real estate agent that I do not need an attorney at closing to review the papers because the Realtor is very experienced and that the bank will be overseeing the closing as they must protect their interest as the lender. While I don't expect you to agree, can you give me any decent reason why my Realtor is wrong?

I could probably fill the newspaper why your Realtor has not only given you bad advice but has breached his or her fiduciary responsibilities as a broker. Instead of encouraging you not to have an attorney, a Realtor is supposed to recommend to you that you have an attorney look over your closing documents. The bank-lender is interested in securing that it has a first mortgage interest and that its lien is prior to all other interests and it is not necessarily in a position to protect your legal rights with respect to the particular aspects of your purchase. At the very minimum, you should have an attorney look at the closing documents to ensure that the calculations have been properly made as well as the deed and bill of sale have been properly drafted to protect your interests in accordance with the purchase agreement. Moreover, I would be particularly skeptical of the nature of the closing in light of what bad advice you have received from your Realtor. As a practical matter, the best time to get the attorney involved is before the purchase agreement has been signed to insure that all of your rights are protected. If that has not been done, at least insure that you got the benefit of your bargain so that you will not have problems, either in terms of the deed, bill of sale or title policy that you will presumably receive after closing.

condo queries

Robert M. Melsner

Our board of directors is experiencing increasing problems with the developer. Several members of the board indicated that they do not want to spend the money to pursue the developer and that the co-owners will not tolerate a special assessment because they are on fixed incomes. I am trying to point out to the board that they must discharge their fiduciary duties and pursue the developer because of the magnitude of the claim. How can I get their heads screwed on straight?

You may have to unscrew their heads and replace them with others if they are not persuaded that they must pursue the developer in light of serious defects and deficiencies in the common areas for which the association is responsible. The fact that co-owners may not be able to easily afford to defray the costs of litigation is a practical consideration but should not be the sole basis by which the association decides to pursue the developer. In any condominium, there are always co-owners who will complain about special assessments, regardless of their ability to pay. Unfortunately, the board of directors has a practical responsibility of insuring that it has done whatever is necessary to pursue the developer if the economics and legal claims justify it. In your case, it would seem that your board is being very shortsighted and has not forthrightly dealt with the issue of the developer claim as it relates to the members' ability to fund the claim. I would insist on a meeting of members of the association to explain the need of the board to take action against the developer by way of a members' derivative suit or to seek a petition to force a special meeting of the members.

Our board has hired a new management company that has been in existence for 10-12 years but claims to be the cheapest management company having the cheapest contractors and the cheapest lawyer. The management company president doesn't seem terribly professional, and the board and I am concerned about what can be done to confront the management agent. The attorney that he has recommended seems to be involved with him in a number of sites, and I am not sure that the attorney will be in any way helpful in confronting the management agent. What do you suggest?

As in any other profession or business, there are excellent management companies and there are very poor management companies. A management firm that is not prepared to stand up to a board of directors when the board is wrong or does not have independent judgment in terms of making decisions is not the management firm that you want for your condominium association.

If you believe that the attorney is basically beholden to the management company, you are best advised to interview on your own other management companies or attorneys to get a straight answer on the advisability of continuing to use your present management company and the alternatives available. There are attorneys who can be consulted on an independent basis to provide you with an unemotional and detached evaluation of their experience in working with condominium management companies and you may be well advised to consult with that attorney on behalf of your association. Then take your information and confront the board of directors with the results if your views are confirmed.

You are invited to submit topics you would like to see discussed in this column by writing Robert M. Melsner, 30200 Telegraph Road, Suite 467, Birmingham 48010. This column provides general information and should not be construed as legal opinion.

The best time to get the attorney involved is before the purchase agreement has been signed to insure that all of your rights are protected.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

5. Run on consecutive days
Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
