Five of the six men arrested recently at the I-275 rest stop pleaded guilty last week to engaging in homosexual activity in public places, which police reported took place on picnic tables and outside stalls.

Listen for the EMU wave, it's coming

Plymouth and Canton residents who tune in public radio from Eastern Michigan University will have an easier time of it.

That's because station WEMU (89.1 FM) is boosting its power.

Tuesday the station installed the first 120 feet of a new 324-foot transmitting tower in Superior Township.

The work is the culmination of a two-year effort to raise money for the $300,000 tower. The university provided $150,000 of the cost.

NEAR THE Clark and LeForge roads intersection, the tower in creases WEMU's audience potential by 10 times its current size, from 237,000 potential listeners to nearly 2.4 million.

WEMU transmits via a 154-foot tower atop Pierce Hall on EMU's campus. Due to its relatively low height and the rolling Washtenaw County terrain, the station's listening area has been considerably limit-

Everyone agrees.

If people used mulching mowers a lot of problems would disappear.

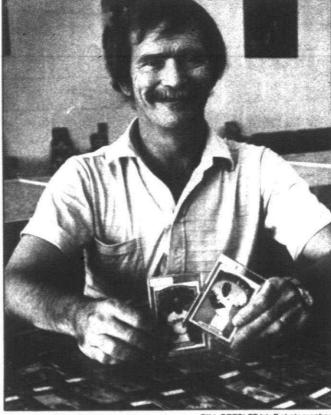

Canton residents near Compost Systems, Inc., south of Michigan at Morton Taylor, wouldn't have the rotten odors wafting through their backyards. And there wouldn't be the environmental problem of dump-

Teacher questions testing

AKE A BOW, Sharon Belobraidich.

Belobraidich, a 25-year veteran teacher, had the courage to inform members of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education at their meeting June 11 about a matter that easily could have escaped

Courage because she's the only one who dared speak, even though we're told a number of teachers are incensed about the way a test was administered to Plymouth-Canton second graders.

Teachers keep quiet because they know there are consequences for those who speak out about problems they perceive in the schools.

Belobraidich leveled no charges or accusations; she simply asked whether a test designed to measure the success of the controversial "developmental" teaching method was administered fairly. Developmental education stresses individualized instruction to accommodate students at varying levels of maturity and ability. Critics call it the "do nothing, know nothing" curricu-

State Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, wore a black arm band on the House floor Thursday.

The second-term lawmaker held up a black bandit's mask and offered it to Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City. "There should be give and take. There's only take. That's not fair,"

Her GOP colleague from the other side of the metropolis, William Bryant of Grosse Pointe, called it the "sheriff of Nottingham bill," a companion to last year's "Robin Hood" school aid bill

Wayne counties - to sweeten the school funding pot.

The bill is on a fast track. It emerged suddenly from the House Taxation Committee with an hour's discussion and no staff analysis.

Although it wasn't on the House calendar, it was pushed through second reading Thursday and could be passed as early as Tuesday.

House Bill 4267 has some technical differences from a Senate-passed version, which was part of the school aid bill. The House bill sets up two districts instead of three. The House bill's first-year impact would be $23 in per-pupil aid for the poorest dis-tricts versus $30 in the Senate ver-

So the question appears to be not if the Michigan Legislature will make the dramatic move to tax base shar-ing but what kind of collection system it will set up.

KEITH, A FORMER Garden City school board member and a chief proponent of tax base sharing, was nearly as adamant that districts like Inkster are the real victims of Michigan's "King John" taxation policies.

They're sharing not their tax base but their future growth," Keith said to lawmakers from the growth es half as much." In 1990 Keith was architect of a plan to "recapture" $72 million in categorical aid from wealthier districts, a measure called the "Robin Hood law." It cost Dolan's home district $5.8 million. Other suburbs also lost millions. "We shouldn't be playing Robin

Hood," Keith said. "We shouldn't have been sending $6 million Bloomfield Hills in the first place.

"If this is a Robin Hood approach. they (wealthier suburbs) must be King John," he said.

KEITH SAID bluntly his goal is to end all categorical programs and put the money into the general school aid formula, aiding poorer districts. Today we're putting half the money into categoricals and half into school aid," he said

The goal of Keith and like-minded lawmakers is to reduce the gap between the state's richest districts ($8,400 per pupil) and poorest (less than $2,500).

He, Rep. James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, and Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, say it's impossible to raise state taxes to pump more into state school aid. The only way to close the gap, they argue, is to spread local BRYANT SAID tax base sharing will cost a few districts a lot of money but spread "a measley $14 million this year" to poorer districts.

The veteran GOP leader said that Lansing can raid half the local business tax base this year, next year it may raid all the business tax base, and the year after it may start taking residential tax base.

Bryant found an irony in the tax bill: "This doesn't affect Bridgman (one of the wealthiest districts in the state, with its nuclear power plant). It operates on allocated milllage."

His point was that tax base sharing affects only new growth, not old

WHY SHOULD I GET DENTAL X-RAYS?

People often wonder whether X-rays are really necessary, and whether or not there will be any risk to their health. Your dentist recommends X-rays because they provide information that is essential for detection, diagnosis, and treatment of conditions that can threaten your oral health. Many diseases can not be seen when your dentist examines your mouth. Without X-rays, small cavities between teeth, abscesses. cysts, tumors and other diseases may be impossible to detect until serious damage has been done Finding and treating dental prob-lems at an early stage can save time, money, and unnecessary discomfort

Children may need X-rays more often than adults because their teeth and jaws are still developing and because their teeth are more likely to be affected by decay than those of adults. We generally want to take this diagnostic look about once a year. Tell your dentist if you are pregnant so that he can adequately protect you with a lead apron. If you have had radiation therapy to the head or neck, you are more susceptible to decay and infection, therefore, it is especially important for you to have dental X-rays to detect these problems at an early stage.

The amount of radiation used in diagnostic X-rays is very small. Therefore, the risk of harmful effects from dental X-rays is small. Dental X-ray does not increase your risk of cancer by any measurable amount. X-ray examinations should be made only when necessary. The only when necessary. The National Center for Devices and Radiological Health of the Pood and Drug Administration, the American Academy of Dental Radiology, the National Council on Radiation Protection, and many other organizations have developed guidelines for proper, safe, and effective use of X-rays in safe, and effective use of X-rays in dentistry. ### Fish gets his nod if poached

During the dog days of summer, a visit to any restaurant having poached fish on the menu automatically gets my nod. Let's face it, there aren't many restaurant kitchen staffs that feel comfortable preparing poached

Most fish lend themselves to frying, baking or broiling, but when poaching is mentioned, immediate thoughts of firmfleshed fish like salmon, trout, grouper or snapper are chosen 99.5 percent of the time.

To poach a fish is to cook it in liquid, usually flavored with vegetables, herbs, seasonings and wine. You can serve poached fish warm or cold, with the chilled version usually making the appetizer or salad routine and the hotter version shoring up the rear as an entree.

Poaching is a time-honored practice. Some critics will go so far as to say that poaching causes some of the flavor of the fish to disappear in the poaching liquid. Personally, I disagree, based solely on the concept that by incorporating herbs, wine and broth, the fish can only become more flavorful through the cooking process.

MASTER CHEFS will tout the fish poacher as the sole means of preparation. This elongated pan, 4-to-8-inches high with a lift-out tray, usually requires two burners on the stove, not to mention the necessity of storage between uses. I don't have enough cabinet space as it is, let alone for a fish poacher. If poaching individual fillets, I use my Farberware dutch oven with tight-fitting lid.

The poaching of a whole fish or large fillets finds me bringing out the oblong enameled roaster. Both work equally well. especially when using a roasting rack to keep the fish off the

There are only two steps in the poaching practice that would require some amount of culinary skill. The first, preparing the proper poaching liquid, suggests common sense. The use of highsalt bouillons or harsh red wines are discouraged while the use of white wines, light broths and accepted.

In addition, chunks of fresh vegetables such as carrots, celery (especially the tops) and capers make flavorful additions. Milder herbs such as parsley, chives, thyme, marjoram and bay leaves are most widely used.

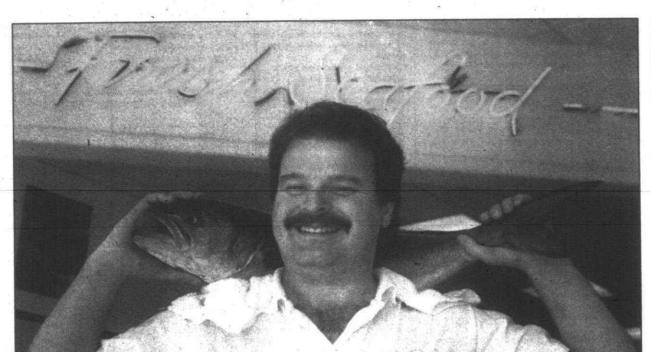

The secret here is making sure the poaching liquid has come to a full rolling boil with the additions before adding the fish.

The second important step is timing. Individual fillets already skinned and boned will need 10-15 minutes of poaching. Whole fish, gutted and scaled, coming in at around three pounds, requires about 20 minutes. Again, the secret is to bring the poaching liquid to a full rolling boil with the vegetables, broth, wine and herbs and then, once the fish is added, cover and lower the temperature to barely a simmer

USING A firm-fleshed fish such as salmon will allow the preparer to perform the "flake" test. After sufficient cooking, a fork inserted into the fish and pulled will flake when pulled with the fork. Novices should always begin testing the fish earlier because you can always add cooking time but can never take it away

Poached fish usually is served with a flavored mayonnaise or light cream sauce to accentuate the flavor. A personal favorite calls for mixing one cup of mayonnaise with the juice of a

OR SEAFOOD lovers, a quick quiz. What's the surest clue to fresh fish? How can you be certain you're paying for Mexican white gulf shrimp and not the less costly Indian tiger variety that looks the same?

Where can you locally buy delectably delicious brill, a popular English flatfish?

Answers are: Fresh fish smells "oceany" and the smart buyer always performs an on-the-spot smell test. Fish should be purchased only from a trusted and reliable source. Jack's Seafood Market in Farmington Hills carries

For other questions, in fact, for most any question at all about seafood, try calling Brad Vargo at Jack's. You see, since Jack's opened last August, "Brad's hotline" has inadvertently evolved.

"I must get four, five, six calls a day, usually in the late afternoon, people calling with all sorts of questions about fish and how to prepare it. We give tons of advice. We welcome the calls," said Vargo, an enthusiastic awardwinning chef who manages Jack's for Farmington Hills owners Jack Galopin and Mike Adler.

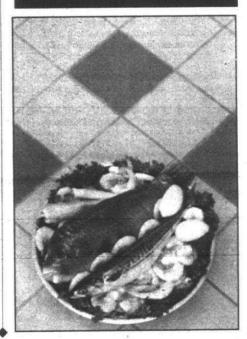

WHEN IT COMES to questions, Vargo likely has an answer. "Seafood has always sort of followed me around." During 18 years as a professional chef, he won culinary awards in 1978 and 1984 for such creations as crab bisque and poached salmon.

If no answer is readily apparent, Vargo will search it out, as in the case of brill, requested by an English customer. "That one took a while," he said with a laugh

Brill is not the only unusual offering at Jack's. Ever tried parrot fish, a coral swimmer from the Florida Keys that is both delicate and delicious in taste? How about wolffish, a fearsome-looking catfish from the ocean that is excellent broiled, grilled or baked? Or Louisiana redfish, delicious in Cajun cuisine but often unavailable at the market?

Jack's also offers seasonal catches, with daily specials on the catch of the moment. Coming up in July and August — mahi mahi, yellow fin tuna, halibut, Norwegian salmon, pickerel and swordfish. Depending on the variety, prices begin at $3.99 per pound. Vargo stresses caution in buying seafood. Otherwise, you might get a fishy deal, sole sold as flounder, cod as haddock or trout as brown trout.

Other advice: fish should be used the day of purchase; it freezes nicely if packaged correctly; best buys are seasonal catches; and beware of fish that carries a slightly ammonia-like smell. "It's not spoiled, but it's not fresh

For a "one-of-a-kind taste treat," Vargo recommends the soft-shelled blue crab from Maryland, his hottest seller. The soft shell variety has molted its shell, rendering the entire crab edible. "It's a little pricey but if you've never had one, there's nothing else like it in the world."

MARYLAND CRAB cakes are also hot items, prepared by Vargo and pronounced the real thing by a discerning Maryland native who questioned whether a Michigan chef. award-winning or not, could really make a genuine Maryland-tasting cake. The key: "using actual blue crab."

Vargo draws on culinary experience as a former chef for Jacques Seafood in Southield, Haymaker's in Lake Orion and the Hotel St. Regis and the 1940 Chop House in Detroit to prepare soups and salads of the day at Jack's, including chowders, bisques, gumbos and gazpachos.

All prepared foods are made with an eye to health, such as Jack's Neptune salad of crab and shrimp nuggets blended with mayonnaise, which is low in cholesterol. So, now you have an excellent fillet of sturgeon, lake cod or whitefish. What to do? Again, Vargo has a ready answer, presented on alternate Saturday afternoons free of charge when he demonstrates seafood cookery technique, followed by tasting parties.

"I do basic and very intricate recipes," things as basic as grilling seasonal fish to preparing an Americana feast. Garnishes such as the popular Inner Beauty Blue Marlin & Fish Sauce and condiments such as broiling baskets or Smoking Herbs for barbecuing — items Vargo uses in the demonstrations — are available for sale.

DISHING IT OUT

Golden The Mushroom has been a culinary institution in the Detroit area for 19 years Nestled

Southfield's busiest intersection at 10 Mile and Southfield roads, it has survived - and indeed thrived under the watchful eye of master chef/ partner Milos Cihelka and executive chef Steven Allen.

One cannot help but be impressed by the restaurant and its trappings: impressive starched table linens, West German floral-pattern china, crystal and silver.

The dining room is arranged to give customers privacy, with booths and tables adequately spaced. Service is attentive but not overbearing. Nearly half the tables are designated

AND THEN there is the food. As its name suggests, the restaurant is an oasis for mushroom lovers. Several types are available and served as either an appetizer or accompaniment to an entree.

To show its dedication to the edible fungi, the restaurant greets guests with a three-foot statue of this region's granddaddy mushroom, the morel, which guards the less-formal Mushroom Cellar lounge down-

One thing diners are required to do is make a lot of decisions. The process begins with deciding what type of bottled water to have, either spring or sparkling.

The fun starts with complimentary hors d'oeuvres . Roasted, pickled sweet peppers with Italian parsley and spices were nicely sour, while the cucumber pieces with salmon mousse, topped with golden caviar, were smooth and tasty.

Two signature appetizers are winners: the pate of the day, on this occasion a venison tenderloin surrounded by venison mousse and pistachios with a layer of shiitake mushrooms; and a variety of wild mushrooms sauteed and served in a

OF THE SOUPS sampled, the house specialty Golden Mushroom and the lobster bisque with large chunks of lobster and velvety sherryflavored broth were both excellent, although the favorite was the daily special curry crab with sweet crab meat and intense yet not overpowering seasoning.

Diners next can choose between a house salad of fresh Boston lettuce, dried cherries, red onions, walnuts, blue cheese and red wine viniagrette, or a very good Caesar salad.

Perhaps the most-difficult thing to do at the Golden Mushroom is select a wine to accompany the entrees. The list is mind-boggling both in breadth and price, undoubtedly one of the largest selections of any res-

Prices range from a $5.50 glass of Kendall-Jackson chardonnay to a $600 bottle of Chateau Margaux.

A handful of special seafood and game dishes were rattled off at amazing speed by the waitress. These include sauteed soft shell crabs, sea bass with a citrus sauce, and a slightly salty veal steak with, what else, mushrooms.

AMONG THE regular main dishes is a terrific medallions of venison tenderloin with sauteed morels in a cognac sauce served medium-rare as ordered, accompanied by spaetzles and fresh asparagus.

Lobster compares favorably to red meat

AP - For those concerned about saturated fat and cholesterol, there's no need to exclude lobster meat from the diet, the National Fisheries Institute says. On average, a 31/2ounce serving of (raw) American obster contains 95 milligrams of cholesterol about one-third to onehalf of the daily recommended 300 milligram limit Sonja Connor, a registered dietician and co-author of "The New American Diet System," says crustacean shellfish like lobster are as good a choice as the leanest cuts of red meat, and better than skinless poultry, "due to their very low saturated fat content and the fact that they contain omega-3 fatty acids, the eneficial polyunsaturated fatty acids believed to play a role in reinfatuated with wine offerings from 'new" wineries, you should remember there is nothing more important on the label than the brand name. Quality, established wineries will not risk their reputation on an inferior product. One such winery is Charles Krug - Napa Valley's oldest win-

In 1849, the first year of the California Gold Rush, Charles Krug fled to America from his native Prussia, not to pan for gold but to flee a repressive regime unwilling to cope with idealists.

Like so many after him, Krug was enthralled with the natural blessings of Napa Valley's climate and terrain and caught the wine bug. He moved to Napa in 1860 and began planting vineyards in 1861, completing construction of a stone winery in 1868.

Just in case Krug's contemporaries hadn't noticed his achievements. the long arm of fate reached out one night in 1874 when a cellar worker nserted a sulfur candle (used for barrel sterilization) into a furning brandy barrel. An explosion and subsequent fire destroyed the winery. Local historical records report that before the embers were safely out, Krug was ordering lumber for the rebuilding project.

Bread bakers go for whole grains

Frugal Gourmet meets his fans

staff writer

The "Frug" himself - Jeff Smith, star of TV's "The Frugal Gourmet" visited Cargo Express in Farm-ington Hills one recent afternoon to sign copies of his books for customers at the cookware shop.

Smith was even more lively than he is on the popular PBS show, seen locally on WTVS, Channel 56. His cooking show chef, Craig Wollam, who also came along to sign books with Smith, was as laid-back as he is on the air.

TV star Smith greeted each customer or family effusively, as they approached him for the book-signing after many of them waited for an hour or more in a long line that snaked through the store.

The Frugal Gourmet was especially cheery with the youngsters, many of whom watch his show along with their moms and/or dads. "How long have you been waiting?" he said loudly to one child. "That's dumb!" he joked, after the child told him.

ONE MOTHER brought copies for Smith to sign of each of his five books, which include "The Frugal Gourmet," "The Frugal Gourmet Cooks with Wine," "The Frugal Cooks with Wine,"

THE RIGHT CHAIR

If you have arthritis, take care when purchasing furniture.

For example: consider a chair.

The chair seat should be no lower than 14 inches from the floor. This height allows you to arise using your knees in their optimum leveraged position, and usually spares your shoulders and hands from the need to assist in getting up.

Your chair should have a hard bottom to prevent you from sinking deeper into your seat when you start to move. The chair should have side arms that you can grip easily and on which you can position your elbows and shoulders when you must help your legs on arising.

Your chair should have a straight back. Then you can divide your seated weight in an equal manner between your shoulder blades and pelvis, a distribution that assists arising.

Using pillows as cushion or wedge between your lumbar spine and the back of the chair is a good idea. The difficulty comes in finding an accessory that both accomodates the contours of your body and the shape of the chair.

Your option to shop a catalogue is limited, as you must sit in a chair before purchase. Also, because of your needs that persons without arthritis cannot understand, it is impractical for others to buy chairs or other furniture that you will use.

Soccer salute Salem puts 4 on all-area squad

By C.J. Risak staff writer

T'S DIFFICULT to believe, really, but understand it's long been accepted that in sports, results are what matter.

Based upon that premise, the Observerland region had an off-year in girls soccer. How can that be, with all the talent packed into this area? Look at the final results. For the first time since the sport offered a state championship sponsored by the Michigan High School Athletic Association in 1983, a Western was not in the final. Prior to this season, in every year except 1989 (Northville vs. Troy Athens) an Observer-area WLAA team reached the Class A championship game and in three of those seasons, both finalists were from the state's premier soccer conference

THERE'S A reason this year is different, of course - the MHSAA. The state's governing body has decided to pack a few districts with WLAA teams and have them all come out of the same region meaning no more than one could reach the Final Four

It's hardly representative when the state's best teams (indeed, three of the top six-ranked squads were in the Northville district knock each other off in the early rounds of the state tournament. The draw was a decisive factor in this year's tourney

The end result is soccer fans across the state missed a chance to see the best players and best teams, which is what a statewide tournament is supposed to feature.

One final opinion: It's an even bet that the following athletes chosen to the all-Observer team could match any team of all-stars picked from the remainder of the state.

Healthy Orris seeks improved sophomore year

special writer

College competition presented a new and greater challenge for former Plymouth Salem swimming great Ron Orris.

Orris, a double winner in the 1990 Class A finals and a high school All-American, said his first year at Michigan State University was a good learning experience.

"Overall, it was a year for adjusting," Orris said. "College swimming is much more competitive and men-tally tougher, but I think I adjusted Orris was physically limited throughout the season, however, by a persistent knee injury. He injured the knee while playing basketball on a recruiting visit to MSU and had surgery on it last spring.

'Ron had a phenomenal season, considering he did it pretty much with one leg," MSU men's swim coach Richard Bader said.

HIS EFFORT to rehabilitate his knee this year already is paying dividends, according to Orris.

The program I'm on now is working," he said. "I'm getting stronger. I didn't do any rehab at all during the season, and I think it affected my performance

'The rehab is designed to work the muscles without aggravating the Bader said the rehabilitation has motivated Orris for next season. The injury prevented Orris from meeting his own expectations, he added.

Orris placed in the top eight in the 100-yard butterfly and the top 16 in 200 individual medley and 200 butterfly at the Big Ten meet. He also was part of three relays that scored in the top eight.

He qualified for the NCAA meet as part of the medley relay, and he also swam at the Senior Nationals.

"I had a pretty good season but nothing spectacular," Orris said. "I had hoped to do better. I know I'm going to swim faster next year.

"I WAS GLAD to go to the NCAAs. Being there helped inspire me to work hard and qualify individually

Bader said Orris has considerable untapped potential, and his first visit to the NCAA finals was only the be-

'Ron will be a dominant factor in the NCAA meet someday," he said.

Orris is looking forward to his sophomore season, too. His goals include placing in the top three at the Big Ten meet, earning All-America honors at the NCAA meet and making the finals at the Olympic trials.

Orris, a packaging major with a 3.0 grade-point average, also ex-celled in the classroom. Bader described him as a pure student/athlete and one of the best at balancing swimming and studies.

'I'm glad I came to MSU," Orris said. "The guys on the team create a good atmosphere, and the coaches and myself have a good understanding about the goals we need to work on for next year.

Stingrays undergo coaching change

By Dan O'Meara staff writer

The highly successful Michigan Stingrays, the Farmington Hillsbased competitive youth swim club, are in transition with the organization undergoing a recent coaching change.

Peter Leonhardt ended his 61/2year association with the Stingrays when he resigned as coach to devote more time to the pursuit of a second college degree.

Replacing him is former Oakland University All-America Jeff Cooper. who was assistant men's and women's coach at Louisiana State University in his latest assignment.

Under the guidance of Leonhardt, the Stingrays won seven state titles - three in long-course meets, one each in girls and boys short-course events and two in combined 13-andover short-course meets.

'I felt very satisfied with what we had accomplished," Leonhardt said. It was a great six years, and I felt it was time to go on and do some other

THE 29-YEAR-old Leonhardt, who plans to continue coaching the Redford Catholic Central varsity, is four classes short of earning his degree in education from Wayne State University.

He previously received a criminal justice degree from WSU but would like to teach social studies in the secondary schools and coach swimming. Once I get certified to teach, I'd like to combine that with swim coaching," he said. "Once I accomplish that, it will mean a more stable

'I didn't leave the Stingrays to get out of the sport. I didn't think I'd be able to do both - finish my degree and coach the Stingrays, too.

Leonhardt, a native of Pleasant Ridge and 1979 graduate of Ferndale High School, expressed his confidence in Cooper and assistant Greg Patrell and the continuation and quality of the program.

"The Stingrays are loaded with a fine group of athletes of all ages," he said. "Under the leadership of two fine coaches, I'm confident the Stingrays will stay at their present level or reach an even greater level.

The 25-year-old Cooper captained the 1988 team at OU and was named an All-America 13 times during his four-year career in the 1,650-yard freestyle, 400 individual medley, 500 freestyle and 800 freestyle relay.

At the conclusion of his collegiate career, Cooper served as OU wornen's assistant coach for three years before moving to LSU for one year.

HE ALSO WAS head assistant for the LSU Bengal Tigers, an age-group team, and has coached the Orchard Valley Swim Club team in the Northwest Suburban Swim League for the last five years.

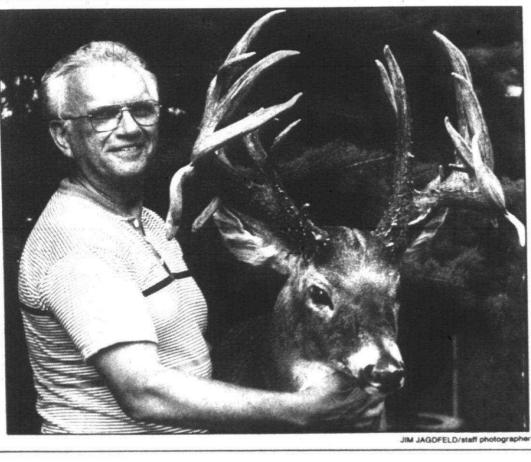

Cooper, who was Leonhardt's assistant with the Stingrays in 1989-90, will rejoin the OU women's program as an assistant.

"My main goal is to develop the younger part of the (Stingrays) program," he said. "It's not that it has been neglected, but it was a lesser part of the program.

'The program needs a shot-in-thearm at the younger levels so by the time they're older the program will be all set. I hope to get them to where the 12-and-under program will be one of the best in the state.

Cooper, a 1984 graduate of Swartz Creek High School, hopes to pick up where his predecessor left off.

'Peter took over when the Stingrays were in need and has brought them to where they are now," said. " I have enough coaching experience to know I can do the job, and I definitely want to maintain that, keep it going.

N'wood shift affects area schools

staff writer

A benefit to one and all?

Hardly. Not like before, anyway. Prior to the 1987 collegiate sports season, Northwood Institute decided to drop out of the conference it had helped conceive and remain affiliated with the national association it had always been part of.

Now, Northwood is reversing itself The winners in the Midland-based college's decision are the other Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference members it will rejoin starting in 1992-93. Oakland University is among the nine current GLIAC schools.

Others are Wayne State, Saginaw Valley State, Hillsdale, Michigan Tech, Grand Valley State, Lake Superior State, Northern Michigan and

The losers? The NAIA's District 23, to which Northwood has been a part of for 20 years. Among the district members are Madonna University and St. Mary's College. Other current members include Siena Heights, Aquinas College, Spring Arbor, Grand Rapids Baptist, Michigan-Dearborn and Concordia.

NORTHWOOD APPLIED for readmission into the GLIAC after the conference's expansion committee contacted school administrators in March, 1990. Seven months later, Northwood submitted its formal application.

Two weeks ago, the last remaining hurdle for re-entry was cleared when the GLIAC's president's committee unanimously approved the expansion. With 10 members (all within Michigan), the conference is at its all-time high.

Unlike Northwood's decision between the NAIA and the GLIAC four years ago, this choice was easier. "We looked around to see what was available to us," said Northwood athletic director Dave Coffey, "and the smart decision for us was to get back into the conference we were one of the foun-

There's technique to speed walking

Dear Myrna: Can you explain the technique of speed walking — if there is one? I'm new at exercise, and I've been told there is a technique to almost everything you do.

Well you're not far off.

Yes, there is a proper technique to "everything" we do in exercise. It's called "let's be smart and not get injured." Using proper technique certainly can make a difference in what you get out of exercise

A racewalker's technique is actually a slightly modified style of walking fast. The modifications, mostly in the use of hips and arms, help you walk more efficiently.

The International Athletic Fereration's definition of racewalking is: Walking is the progression by steps so taken that unbroken contact with the ground is maintained. At each stop, the advancing foot of the walker must make contact with the ground before the rear foot leaves

During the period of each step when the foot is on the ground, the leg must be straightened at least for one moment and, in particular, the supporting leg must be straight in the vertical upright position.

Do you find the explanation confusing?

I had to read it over twice to get it - no problem. The main difference between running and racewalking is that in running, there are times when both feet are elevated off the ground. Now you can't racewalk as fast as you can run - don't even think it. World class racewalkers, however, can cover a mile in less than six minutes and the marathon in less than two hours and 45 minutes.

Impressive, isn't it? Proper technique allows the racewalker to use the entire body to maximum advantage. The stride looks swivel hipped; this is how the walker takes the deeper steps. Your knee's driving force is important as it is fully extended at heel contact in front.

Your arms should remain bent, shortening the pendulum-like swing, allowing a quicker pace. They should act in the opposite rhythm of your hips, helping balance the body. When walking, arms should cross your body at mid-chest and elbows are in toward the

If you are new at exercise, you might need a partner to enjoy it with. Partners give each other incentive to keep going. On the other hand, it's also a great time to think. A brisk walk can really air out the brain, as they say.

Happy honeymoon tip: don't scrimp

"There are several things that couples don't think about when they are planning a honeymoon. For example, they never realize how exhausted they will be when the wedding is over."

That is the voice of Risa Weinreb, author of Frommer's Honeymoon Destinations. I wrote a honeymoon story for Risa many years ago when she was travel editor of Modern Bride magazine, so I wasn't surprised to find her in town last week promoting honeymoons in Puerto Rico.

Risa is not married, but she takes several honeymoon trips a year to research destinations for Modern Bride and can always becounted on to have current honeymoon information at her finger tips.

mation at her finger tips.

Lots of couples still get married in June, but weddings are now spread out from May to October, according to Risa.

"Some people get married in January, February and March but it's hard to plan an expensive wedding for 400 people when you are not sure whether they can make it through the snow to the church," she said.

"The Modern Bride surveys show that most couples want warm sunny weather, beautiful natural scenery and outdoor sports and sightseeing attractions, in that order."

Do people still go to those heart-shaped bathtubs in the Poconos? "They were designed for another generation, but a certain segment of the honeymoon population still goes there. They were the first all-inclusive vacation re-

Risa says that the number one honeymoon destination is the Caribbean. Another very popular destination is Florida, where the "in spot" for honeymooners is Walt Disney World.

"That shows that newly married couples are looking for something quite different from what we have always imagined. The popular image is a young couple who check in, hang a Do Not Disturb sign on the door and are not seen again for eight days.

"That image is not true. They are looking for fun. Where they go and where they stay depends on their budget."

Risa's survey indicates that the average honeymoon costs $3,000 for eight days. Inside the continental United States it averages $2,200, outside the continental United States it averages $4,000. Hawaii: $4,500. The Caribbean: $3,800. Puerto Rico: $3,400.

The three components of honeymoon travel are the same as any travel: transportation, hotel, food. All-inclusive resorts can often be bought to cover all three, so that you only need to pay for incidentals. Jamaica is the best-known island for couples resorts, but there are others.

It is increasingly popular to get married at a resort. If Mom and Dad give you the honeymoon as a gift, your costs are almost completely covered. "If the bride comes from Buffalo and the groom comes from Denver, and they met in Detroit, it's easier to take 20 close family and friends to the Caribbean than it is to gather 300 cousins from around the country for a Michigan wedding."

Recession-weary newlyweds should not give up the honeymoon. If you can't do anything else, Risa suggests you at least splurge on a night or two at a local hotel, drink champagne and take a limousine to the baseball game.

If your budget is under $2,000?

• Drive to the Poconos to stay seven nights in a moderately priced room.

Honeymooners can go to Puerto Rico for a week, spend a few days in San Juan and then stay out-island.

Golf among the gators at Kiawah

South Carolina resort built with nature in mind

Looking across the dunes from Kiawah Island Inn at Kiawah Island, S.C., one of the dozens of barrier islands that border the Atlantic coast of America.

By Iris Sanderson Jones special writer

IAWAH ISLAND, S.C. — An alligator moves slowly across a lagoon toward a Great Blue Heron, which stands 3 feet tall on the bank beside a group of modern villas. That was one of my first images of Kiawah Island, although the real alligator stories come from the golf courses, where the gators snooze beside the greens.

I press a periwinkle against my neck while standing in a low marsh beside the sea, with naturalist Mark Madden instructing his walking tour participants: "hurn, and the periwinkle will come out of his shell."

I walk the long strand of sand between the surf and the dunes, enjoying the illusion that I have the world to myself at sunset. The chimneys and rooftops of Kiawah Island Inn and Villas are visible amid the palmetto trees beyond the dunes, but I share the beach with one lonely jogger, one kayaker and a pelican diving 30 feet straight down into the sea for his supper.

Those are just three of the many scenes that imprint the mind on Kiawah Island, an interesting combination of resort life and nature 21 miles by road from Charleston, S.C. I emphasize "by road" because for 200 years the Vanderhorst family traveled by tidal river to the plantation house sagging gently against the reeds on the marsh side of Kiawah.

Kiawah is one of the dozens of barrier islands that border the Atlantic coast of America. It is part of the estuary that surrounds Charleston, where the "Ashley and Cooper rivers come together to form the Atlantic Ocean."

ECOTOURISM

Kiawah island was at peace with nature for millions of years before the developers came and could easily have lost its innocence then, as so many resort islands have done. The Indians never lived here, because there is no fresh water, but they hunted,

Beachcombers walk the long strand between the water and the dunes at Kiawah Island, red fox, elk and woodland buffalo amid the magnolia and loblolly pines that now line the woodland trails.

Dig your fingers under the matted forest floor near the Vanderhorst Plantation and you can still feel the ridges where indigo and cotton were planted by slaves in the 18th century.

British soldiers occupied the plantation house during the American Revolution and if they ever restore and open the house to tours you'll see graffiti left behind by Union soldiers during the Civil War.

The island was sold to Kuwait Investment Co. in 1974. The Kuwaitis commissioned an environmental inventory from the Environmental Research Center Inc., of Columbia, S.C., so that resort development would not disturb the natural barrier island setting. It was ecotourism ahead of its time.

Resort buildings were built behind the dunes, so the loggerhead turtles still lay their eggs near the beach. They protected the marshes, so shrimp babies still feed on the tidal flata and the periwinkle can still climb up his own piece of spartini grass when the tide comes in and down again when the tide goes out. Hold him against your neck and hum, and the periwinkle will come out of his shell because he thinks he is covered by seawater.

The Kuwaitis are gone now, although Saleh and Suad Alzouman still live in Charleston, but the environmental philosophy remains; nature comes

Couple rebuilds old farmers' mill into 'bonny' inn

By Phyllis Kreger Stillman special writer

Walking through the leaded glass front door of the Bonnymill Inn in Chesaning is like stepping into a Victorian greeting card. The usual Victorian frills are there—lace, ribbons, bows, flowers. They create a romantic, fairy-tale feel to a place that helps you look at life, for a little while, through rose-colored glasses.

We arrived in the evening. Tiny lights outlined the building and made us feel like they'd left the lights on for us.

The inn is in a restored Chesaning Farmers Cooperative Elevator built in 1920.

Howard and Bonnie Ebenhoeh, owners of the Heritage House Restaurant across the street, bought the mill in 1988. It was in such bad shape that they rebuilt most of it, keeping as much as possible to the lines of the original mill. Photo albums show various stages of rebuilding.

Bonnie Ebenhoeh served as interior decorator. It took her a year to plan what she wanted for the inn. During that year, she and Howard collected antique furniture and accessories; then, when they were ready to start, it took only six months to

The Ebenhoehs were able to do it so quickly because they had a lot of help. "It was our family and friends that came in here to do it. Everybody had the goal to make this place look good," said Bonnie. That goal has certainly been met; the inn looks great.

The atrium area of the lobby is one of the most striking parts of the inn. Along each side of the lobby's long hall are guest rooms, each with its own bay window. Behind each spotless window is a lighted tiffany lamp hanging over a table and chairs. When a room is vacant, the shades are left open so you can see into the room.

Susan Felice of Waterford stayed in one of the bay window rooms. "It was gorgeous," she said. She warrfs, however, that staying in one of the atrium rooms has its risks. "There were people walking through there all the time; everybody wanted to see the rooms." The atrium area also contains tables where you can have breakfast or an afternoon snack.

The rest of the guest rooms are reached by climbing an antique, oak staircase which Howard Ebenhoeh rescued from a store in Illinois. Each room is tunusual. Many of the rooms have fireplaces, some have two-person Jacuzzi tubs, and some have old-fashioned claw-foot tubs. "I didn't want to make this predictable. Each room is different," said Bonnie.

"All the rooms are named after our kids, their spouses and our grandkids," said Bonnie. Each room has a picture of the

The vendor's already gone, looking for another customer. And on a good day, with a good crowd, they'll be plenty of customers. And the vendors? There are about 100 on a good day and up to 200 on opening day at Tiger Stadium.

"A good salesman can make $50 to $100 a day," said Charles Stevens, a vendor since he moved to Detroit four years ago. "But it's also a release. If you like sports and the excitement, it's a good job.'

And many of the vendors at Tiger Stadium have spent a few campaigns at the corner of Michigan and Trumbull.

"I'VE SEEN players come and go," said John Taylor of Roseville, a vendor at Tiger Stadium for the past 43 years. "They're all good players. But you can't talk to 'em as much because of all the restrictions

Taylor started vending at age 17 because he couldn't get a factory job.

"I was too young to work in the shop," he said. "So I worked after school here."

Talor later landed a shop job, and worked there for 28 years. The shop closed, but he still had a job pushing hot dogs at baseball games. And like a philosophical urban cowboy, Taylor knows the name of the game: "You've got to move

For native Detoiter Art Witkosky, his love affair with the Tigers began in 1938 when he came to a game with other school safety patrol boys. "I'd see Hank Greenberg, Mickey Cochrane and Schoolboy

Other vendors agree: The fans at the old ball park are

"Tve never been shortchanged," Stevens said. "The fans are real good. You don't have to worry about it."

AND FOR vendors with enough seniority to work the box seat sections, the clientele can include some famous people. "I have regular customers," said Witkosky. "I've served or other events. He's quick to reject a hot dog from one of the three commissaries in the stadium if it's broken.

Fully loaded with hot dogs, buns, mustard, hot water and the coals, which keep the wieners hot and add an appealing aroma, a hot dog vendor is carrying more than 50 pounds. Experienced vendors will rest their cases on a railing while looking for customers, or like pretzel vendor Olva Newman, carry the case on top of her head.

And although location is important, the box seats aren't necessarily the best place for vending at every game. Stevens, who prefers to sell ice cream, said school groups which often sit in the upper deck or outlying sections, can be his best customers. Many vendors, like Newman, work year-round, selling at Michigan Stadium or at concerts as well as Tiger Stadium. But vendors also include school teachers and other professionals, who have found a way to enjoy baseball and make some extra money. Now, back to that hot dog and the baseball game.

John Taylor (left) as he serves up a hot dog near the Detroit Tigers dugout before the game. Young fans, however, were more interested in Cecil Fielder than Taylor's wares. SAVE:

Vendor Charles Stevens had to work the upper deck on a day when the crowd was small. But two large groups of school children came to the park and gave Stevens plenty of business."I did all right," he said.

Jerry Williams was doing a hopping business with malt cups in the lower grandstand, but he took a bad hop with a case of the cold treats on top of his head and dropped one. No harm done.

Art Witkosky has found an out pitch when hot dog sales are slow. He throws a package of buns in the air to catch the eye, and appetite.

Young artists keep faith with dreams

special writer

PERSON who wants to be an engineer goes to engineering school, then gets a job in the field. Same goes for most other professions such as doctor, lawyer or journalist.

Not so with the arts. Rarely does anyone decide to be an artist, then voila, it happens. The usual scenario is that the aspiring artist goes to art school, graduates, then picks up odd jobs for several years before actually making a living as a full-time art-

That's the case with Tom Klar and Dani Jeffries of Farmington Hills, two painters who are discovering that making it in the art world quickly after graduation is nearly

WHILE IN art school at the University of Michigan, Klar and Jeffries lived in an "art house," a gathering of some of the brightest and best of their peers.

During that time, the artists inspired each other, the creative atmosphere was contagious. Since the members of the house were so talented, it was pretty much assumed that the future held exciting prospects for them all.

"I look at some of these people now and they're waiters and waitresses." Klar said in the apartment he shares with his wife, Jeffries, "I don't know anyone, except maybe two people, who is working in the field." (And they are in the more marketable field of graphic arts.)

THE PROBLEM isn't lack of talent or motivation, it's lack of money. It would be nice to be able to work full time on art, but that's pretty much impossible without some benevolent patron to pay the bills.

For most, the odds of making it are bad enough to make them forget their dreams, ignore their talent and settle for a more mundane career. Many from the art house did just

"The minute they graduated, some of them just forgot what they just did for four years," Klar said.

BUT KLAR and Jeffries aren't willing to give up so easily. They're determined to make it as artists and have accepted the necessity of living like the cliche "starving artists" for awhile.

So, for now, Klar is working at a frame shop and Jeffries is in retail. In their limited spare time, they keep painting.

The ideal is not to have to have a regular job any more," Jeffries said. Slowly, they are getting closer to that ideal. Klar, a graduate of Andover High, Bloomfield HIlls, recently had his work accepted by a gallery in Florida, a perfect setting for his vibrant paintings. ONE PIECE, as of yet untitled, still hangs on his wall. It nearly bursts with energy. It features the horeline of the condo-filled Florida coast and a view of the goings-on under the sea

And, as Klar puts it, "Something's going on under water." And that happens to be a pair of skeleton pirates enjoying themselves in the wreckage their ship. Stylistic fish and whales with happy, goofy expressions, are swimming by.

Looking down on the scene is a smiling crescent moon. The bright green and blue colors in the painting virtually glow with vibrancy. The whole effect is sort of a rollicking kineticism.

The piece is three-dimensional and includes seven layers.

"Each one was a little nightmare," Klar said.

JEFFRIES' WORK, too, is alive with vibrant colors. She is currently working on a series. The working titles refer to the theme of each such as "Desert" and "Jungle."

In "Jungle," a blue being sits reading a red-striped newspaper in a cartoonish, art deco living room. A psychedelic, checked sun lights the Jeffries specializes in intricate borders, and the border in "Jungle' is no exception. It is comprised of several squares, each picturing a different aspect of the jungle. In one a colorful tiger prances, in another a lion stalks.

Paintings like these are beginning to get Jeffries noticed. One of her pieces was featured on the poster for the Grand Rapids Festival of the Arts. The paintings earned her a feature article in the Grand Rapids

SO THINGS are happening, it just takes time. For now, there's still the challenge of getting more gallery owners to look at their work. It's a challenge.

"Having never owned a gallery, I don't know how it works," Jeffries

Often gallery workers don't have the time to consider a new artist's pieces. It's usually up to the artist to break through that wall.

"We're not business people, we're artists. Most of us don't know how to market ourselves.

But, these two are learning as they go. Now they face a more welcome challenge - learning how to part with favorite paintings once they're

"It helps knowing that the person who is buying it loves it as much as vou do." Jeffries said.

Dani Jeffries likes to work in a series. Her painting here illustrates her interest in both water and land creatures and illusion. In this work the border motif becomes a part of the painting rather than simply a frame.
