New district sparks challengers

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

State Rep. Jim Kosteva will. Former Canton Township official Dan Calabrese will. School board president David Artley will, probably.

Will what?

The three will likely run for state representative in the new 21st district, which will almost unify Canton.

The new district was revealed recently as part of a court plan to reconfigure legislative districts based on population shifts.

Some 50,000 of Canton's 57,000 residents live within the new 21st district's boundaries, said Kosteva. Currently, Canton is split nearly in half, between the 36th state representative district of Georgina Goss, and Kosteva's 37th District.

The new district also includes Belleville, Sumpter Township, and Van Buren Township, all part of the 37th. Gone is Romulus, however. Canton makes up nearly two-thirds of the new district, Kosteva said. It includes all but a sliver of the township, east of I-275 between Joy and Cherry Hill roads.

THE NEW BOUNDARIES make for an interesting re-election bid for Kosteva, a Democrat who is well-regarded in the state House. Canton is considered Republican territory.

"I'm expecting a challenge and I expect that challenge to be a serious and hard fought one," said Kosteva, a former Canton Township planner.

He said the new district could mean added clout in Lansing for the township.

"Canton is deserving of a higher profile role in state affairs. It's a high population area."

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack said redistricting can be a "double-edged sword."

With two representatives, "when you can gain both of their support, that's great," Yack said. It also means legislators have more duties in other communities, he said.

"Canton probably will require and receive more attention," with a lone representative, Yack said.

PLYMOUTH CANTON SCHOOLS Superintendent John Hoben said the district was happy with the new boundaries.

"This redistricting should make it possible for (Kosteva) to more fully represent our school district," Hoben said. "He has been supportive, sensitive to our needs and always willing to discuss areas of concern."

Dave Artley

Plymouth Township Supervisor Gerry Law, a former legislator, said he preferred a single representative for Plymouth and Canton.

Goss, who represents northeast Canton, said she was sorry to lose that section. Her district is shifting north.

Dan Calabrese

"I enjoyed representing Canton," Goss said.

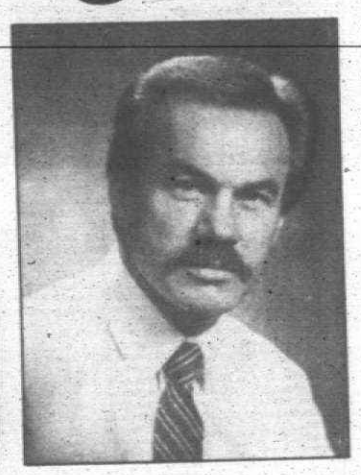

One challenge to Kosteva may come from Calabrese, who resigned effective last Friday as assistant to Canton Supervisor Tom Yack. A Republican, Calabrese said he would file paperwork this week to make his candidacy official.

His main concern will be relieving property tax burden on homeowners, he said. As Yack's assistant, he worked on economic development issues, resident problems and communications.

The new district may give a slight edge to the GOP, he said.

"I don't think it's overly Republi-

Race for Canton treasurer's job heats up

By Brian Lysaght
staff writer

In the wake of Canton Treasurer Jerry Brown's retirement, at least two candidates are preparing for what may be an interesting campaign to succeed him.

Both Elaine Kirchgatter, a township trustee and Timothy McCurley, a former Canton deputy treasurer, will be on the Republican ballot in Canton's August 4 primary.

Another possible candidate, Patrick Haggerty, said he is undecided about entering the race. Others may be interested in the job; the filing deadline for candidates is May 12.

The retirement of Brown, Canton's twice-elected treasurer, became effective March 24, following his announcement at a recent board of trustees meeting. Brown suffers from a congestive heart disease and had been on disability leave collecting a $46,700 salary for six months.

"I'M WHAT YOU call officially retired," Brown said. He has no big plans, saying his heart condition limits activity.

"I feel good. I just run out of steam pretty quickly."

Some board members had thought Brown's retirement should have come sooner, but he said he "had to conform" to township insurance requirements.

Deputy treasurer Sandy Setlock will continue to run the office, as she has since Brown began his disability leave.

"The place is in excellent hands," Brown said.

Dan Durack, Canton's administrative services director, said Setlock can conduct all the treasurer business, though she can't vote on the seven-member board.

The board, meanwhile, is expected to allow voters to choose Brown's successor rather than appoint a treasurer before the election. According to this plan, if the winner of the August Republican primary would be appointed if there was no Democratic primary or candidate. If Democrats did run, the November election would decide the issue.

McCurley, 35, was Canton's deputy treasurer 1984-86. He is budget director in Westland, working with another former township official, Mike Gorman.

"I do the work in Westland now that I would be doing (as Canton treasurer). . .and I feel that I can help Canton grow now," said McCurley, a Canton resident for five years.

Kirchgatter, 51, was appointed as trustee in Jan. 1988 and elected to a four-year term the following November. She served for 8.5 years on the Plymouth-Canton school board before in the late 1970s and 1980s.

"At this time in my life, I just feel ready to take on more responsibility,' said Kirchgatter, a Canton resident for about 20 years.

Kirchgatter and another trustee, Robert Shefferly expressed interest in December in the treasurer's post. Shefferly said he would seek re-election as trustee unless appointed treasurer.

She said she supports the board decision not to appoint a treasurer before the primary election and allow voters to choose. "Then there's no question of the old boy network," she said.

Haggerty, 42, an accountant in Plymouth, said he "really hasn't completely decided" whether to enter the race. He obtained petitions but not circulated nominating petitions.

The Canton Connection

Radio award

The student radio station at Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools was named Station of the Year by the Michigan Association of Educational Broadcasters.

Individual students were also recognized. They are Sarah Kuhaneck, gold medals for news, sports and promotional announcements; Jennifer Eaton, silver medal for news; Paul Thomas, gold medal for sports, silver for on-air talent; Asif Chowdhury, silver medal for promotional announcements; Sarah Petrere, silver medal for on-air talent; and Lara Hrycaj, a silver medal for on-air talent and a bronze for on-air talent.

Ground breaking

A ground breaking was held Thursday for Canton Center Industrial Park on Michigan Avenue east of Belleville Road.

The 44-acre park being developed by Dearborn Real Estate Co. and will offer sites ranging in size from one to three acres.

The potential exists for about 500,000 square feet of manufacturing, office and warehouse space in the center.

School move

The Canton Township Board on Tuesday, April 14, will consider a resolution to urge local school districts and the Wayne County Intermediate School District to allow several subdivisions to move from the Wayne-Westland to the Plymouth Canton school district.

The resolution, which doesn't carry legal authority, cites the need for members of the Canton community to attend community schools, just as they participate in other community functions.

Residents of the affected subdivisions asked the board to take a position in support of the change.

Students give toiletries to homeless

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Jim is a regular at the Baptist Center in Detroit's Cass Corridor.

The 58-year-old Chicago man used to work as a doctor — before he got hooked on drugs and alcohol.

"Because of his drug and alcohol problem, he lost his job and his home. Now he's here in Detroit, struggling to survive," said Sherrie Pridemore, director of the Baptist Center, which assists and feeds more than 100 homeless people a day.

Another homeless person who frequents the center is a woman named Kathy who recently came to Michigan from California.

"This young woman just discovered she is expecting twins. She has always been homeless. She never really had solid roots," Pridemore said.

Thanks to Canton children who attend Eriksson Elementary School, homeless people like Jim and Kathy will have toiletries to get them through the month.

IN JUST A FEW weeks, the students collected 188 bars of soap, 186 bottles of shampoo, 86 toothbrushes, 71 Wetnaps, 66 tubes of toothpaste and 29 containers of deodorant.

"We will add disposable razors and toothpaste to this, and we'll have enough items to make kits for 66 people," said Pridemore, whose nephew Andrew attends Eriksson. It was Andrew's mother, inspired by her sister-in-law, who thought up the school project.

Andrew, a few of his classmates, and their principal, Judy Ireson, shared their thoughts on their recent effort.

Ireson said students were asked to donate pocket-sized trial and sample sizes of toiletries.

"For our children, the idea that there are people who don't have a home and who sleep wherever they can was kind of unbelievable," Ireson said. "The concept that they go to the center to get supplies, but have to carry with them all of their belongings, made us think. It made all of us aware of what some of the problems of the homeless are."

Andrew, a first grader, said his school is giving to the homeless "because they didn't have enough money to buy any of it."

Third grader Kim Reeve said she saw a person "just a few days ago who had his clothes tied all around him."

The homeless man, and the homeless people helped at the center, "don't have that much money," she said. "They need these smaller things so they don't take up so much room.

FAA leaves townships up in air over Mettetal Airport

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Plymouth and Canton townships are still interested in Mettetal Airport.

The question is: Will the feds let them have it on local officials' terms?

It's been nearly eight months since Plymouth Township abandoned its lone effort to get federal and state grant money to buy the airport in favor of joining Canton to start a new joint effort to obtain the airport.

A key element of the joint proposal, which could be a sticking point with the Federal Aviation Administration, calls for Canton to have the right to review the airport operation in 10 years and close it if the airport isn't succeeding.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP Supervisor Gerald Law and Canton Supervisor Tom Yack say they're waiting for, the FAA to decide if it can accommodate that request.

Will the FAA go for it? "I have no feel for that whatsoever," Yack said. "I would expect to hear from them in the near future."

Law said he expects to hear from the FAA at least sometime this year. It could take that long, Law said, because "it's difficult for a large bureaucracy to change things."

Plus "they only have X amount of dollars in their trust fund," he said, for paying for small airport purchases.

"The chain of command is just unbelievable there. When you attempt to do something out of the norm, it takes a while. We're just waiting to hear back from them."

Should the FAA not decide sometime this year, Law said the owner "might try to market his property."

"My philosophy on the entire thing from day one was I thought it would be a reasonable idea to look at keeping it in the community, but only with Canton as the lead entity," he said.

If maintained as an airport, "you're hopefully looking at something that will benefit the community 10 or 20 years from now," Law said.

AT THE MARCH 24 meeting of Plymouth Township trustees, the township administration reported that the township has spent $53,970 so far on legal fees related to the airport acquisition. The township expects to be reimbursed for these costs out of airport proceeds if the FAA approves a grant to allow Plymouth Township and Canton to buy it.

Some township residents who oppose airport involvement questioned Law on money spent related to the airport. Law said he didn't have a figure, but additional fees for consulting related to the airport have been billed by other firms.

Law said the state has agreed to pay those bills and that payment should be made in the next few weeks.

Drunk driving suspect kicks cop

An alleged drunk driver proved a handful for Canton Police Thursday. According to police reports, the driver, a 28-year-old Melvindale woman, fled from police and assaulted an officer.

The incident began with a broadcast report from Westland police about a drunk driver on Ford Road. A Canton officer spotted the described car, which nearly struck the police cruiser as it passed.

The officer followed the vehicle, which weaved in and out of its lane, to Sheldon Center, where it stopped. When an officer approached, the car sped off. The vehicle was stopped a short time later. Police described the driver as near hysterics, screaming and cursing.

She was taken to the police station, where she kicked one officer. She was ticketed for drunken driving and driving without a license. Police linked the woman with seven arrest warrants under her name and an alias.

THEFT: A construction worker reported the theft of over $2,000 worth of equipment from a Canton building site last week.

According to a police report, the stolen material included five insulated windows and a power generator from a new home on Glengarry.

campus news

Three Plymouth Canton High School seniors received the Presidential Recognition Award Scholarship at Albion College. Each are in the top five percent of their high school graduating class, have a high school grade point average of a 3.9-4.0, and a composite ACT score of 29 or above or a composite SAT score of 1200 or above. They are: Stephen Sedore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Sedora of Plymouth; Holly Quick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald D. Quick of Plymouth and Pamela Kramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kramer of Canton.

Jason Crain, son of Jim and Audrey Crain of Plymouth, is a freshman infielder on the Alma College Baseball team. Jason is a 1991 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and a business administration major at Alma College.

Ben Standish of Plymouth has successfully completed a 15-week training program at American Marine Institute. He is now qualified as a certified technician in the marine service industry. He is engaged in a five-week study at American Watercraft Institute and will graduate as a Certified American Watercraft Institute Technician. He is a 1989 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and is the son of Mark and Jan Standish of Plymouth.

Bhavin Shah of Canton received the Charles V. Hagler Memorial Scholarship from the Automotive Hall of Fame. Shah is currently enrolled at The University of Michigan, majoring in business administration. He was chosen as a recipient based on outstanding academic performance, work-life experience and sincere desire for a career in the automotive industry.

Catherine Cutler, daughter of James and Barbara Cutler of Plymouth, has the lead role in "Kind Lady," a spring play at Bethany Lutheran College.

Brian Riggs of Canton is a culinary arts major at Johnson & Wales University. He is participating in the school's Cooperative Education Program at the Hyatt Regency Beaver Creek, Beaver Creek, Colo. He is the son of Fran Riggs of Canton and Ken and Carol Riggs of Canton. Riggs is a 1990 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School.

Kids give aid to homeless

"We should do something about it," she added. "That's not right. They should be able to be put in a place where they can be taken care of."

THIRD GRADER Jason Tomb saw the project's practical side. "They don't need big things, because they have to carry them. So our moms didn't have to spend a lot of money. We just had to get little things," he said.

Sherrie Pridemore said the center's needs for hygiene items and food is especially acute this year, due to the economy and the cutting off of General Assistance for many people. Donations are welcome, she said. Anyone wishing to help may call her at 961-9075.

With just one full-time staff person and a team of volunteers, the center feeds an average of 130 people twice a day, five times a week.

In addition to breakfast and lunch, the center offers a daily 11 a.m. worship service and runs an enrichment program for children in a nearby elementary school, Pridemore said.

"People think the homeless have always been that way, that they grow up in the ghetto and never get out," she said. "We see a lot of people who get mixed up with drugs and alcohol, and it virtually costs them their lives.

"We have men and women, black and white; we have them as young as 18 years old coming in for services, all they way up to senior citizens in their 80s."

Pridemore, who is new to the center, said she was told to expect a drop-off in requests for help as the winter neared an end. "But there's been no change in our numbers," she said.

The center is affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention. Funding comes through the Baptist State Convention of Michigan and the Greater Detroit Baptist Association and the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

District changes bring challenges can or Democratic. It's probably a little more Republican."

ANOTHER POTENTIAL candidate is Artley, a nine-year school board veteran who will announce his intentions today. Artley has been condominium hunting, because he lives in Canton's northeast corner, outside Kosteva's district even after redistricting.

"I think Jim Kosteva is going to have a tough race this time because people are looking for a change," Artley said. He added that Republicans can win the seat "with the right candidate."

He also said Kosteva may be vulnerable in Canton because of some of his school finance votes. School funding will be a major issue, Artley said.

Kosteva has won four elections in the current district. He captured 61 percent of the vote in 1990 to defeat Republican Dolores Carmichael, a political novice who spent little money campaigning. It was a year that Democrat James Blanchard was defeated by Republican Gov. John Engler. In Canton, Kosteva polled 57 percent.

One Republican politico said Kosteva shouldn't be underrated.

"I think Jim Kosteva is a pretty strong candidate no matter where he runs," said Canton resident Bruce Patterson.

Plymouth commissioner to run against Rep. Goss

Plymouth city commissioner Jerry Vorva is coming out swinging in announcing he will run against state Rep. Georgina Goss in the Republican primary in August.

"Goss has not only supported but has created the environment spawning cronyism, patronage and nepotism," Vorva charged. "The arrogance of power has not served us well at all."

Vorva was defeated last August by Goss for the state representative post.

"In last year's election I raised the issues of the Western Townships Utilities Authority and insider information," Vorva said. "We need to wipe the slate clean and rid our community of those that are willing to operate only for their personal interests."

Goss, a former Northville Township supervisor, served about two months as head of WTUA before she was elected to the state House. Some work for the authority was performed by those with family or business ties to former or current Plymouth Township officials, and critics have alleged cronyism.

"It is my intent to wage a full, all-out campaign," said Vorva, a former Plymouth police officer.

'Little jewel box'

Restored Old Village house offers eclectic mix

By Janice Jones
special writer

The day James Stine moved into his turn-of-the-century home in Plymouth's Old Village he gave a dinner party. When Stine and his guests got up from the table, they went to work removing all the wall-coverings and most of the carpet in the house. It was the beginning of a labor of love for Stine.

In the five years he's lived there, he has redecorated the place from top to bottom, inside and out, with an eclectic mix of old pieces that he has bartered for, found in trash hoppers, received from friends, or purchased from local craftsmen.

The end result is an exciting example of how to turn an old house into a comfortable, yet elegant home on a tight budget.

"This house is my little jewel box, full of items that others have thrown away," Stine said.

Stine, a purchasing manager, has taught classes in interior design at Schoolcraft College. The house gave him a canvas on which to exercise his decorating skills.

IN THE LIVING ROOM and throughout much of the interior, Stine has painted the walls colonial red, to match the exterior of the house. In the middle of the living room stands a large trunk rescued from a trash hopper, that serves as a coffee table. On one wall is a pair of green wooden shutters with the outline of a crescent moon cut in. Stine is planning to install them on an outhouse he plans to build in the backyard for garden tool storage.

The plaster ceilings were removed by an artist who once used the house for a studio in order to open up the house to the light. The original one inch wooden slats with rough cedar installed between the supports makes for an unusual and dramatic living room ceiling.

Near the front door, and suspended upside-down from the slat and cedar ceiling is a large, papier-mache dalmatian that greets visitors, eye-to-eye.

"I ran out of floor space, that's why Sparky's up there," he said.

A dog sitting on the ceiling seems a novel idea, but somehow it fits into the imaginative decorating scheme.

The dining room features a turn-of-the-century oak buffet given to Stine because the person who had it thought it was junk. It turned out to be a valuable antique.

On top of the buffet is a basket of old portraits. "I call them my adopt-a-family," Stine said. "I don't know who they are, so I give them names and create a history for them."

ONE DINING ROOM wall displays a hay fork Stine found buried in the backyard. The light fixture over the dining room table is an old oil lamp converted to electricity.

The kitchen has the original wooden cabinets, and a large butcher block table that Stine acquired from a friend who found it walled in beneath a formica countertop when he was renovating Bill's Market in Old Village.

The door from the kitchen to the dining room was an old exterior door with small glass panes.

"I saw a man carrying it to the trash in Dearborn, so I stopped and grabbed it," Stine said.

At the bottom of the door, one glass pane has been removed, so that Stine's three cats can walk through when the door is closed.

The house has the original horsehair plaster walls and hand-blown glass windows with occasional bubbles.

"When you clean the old glass it sparkles. New glass doesn't do that," he said. Stine has rebuilt most of the cottage storm windows for the home's 27 windows by hand.

Stine has made some interesting discoveries in the midst of his redecorating projects. When he tore out a wall he found the space full of ash. He believes some of the lumber used to build the house came from a burned-down mill that sat across the street.

Stine, who once bred St. Bernards, was very surprised to find a cast iron statue of a St. Bernard inside a wall.

WHEN REDECORATING, Stine said, "I've saved a spot of every piece of wallpaper that was taken down. I love the house, and I don't want any part of it to get lost."

Homeowner James Steine and a friend, Tudy Licht, sit in the living room of the restored Old Village home.

Near the front door, and suspended upside-down from the slat and cedar ceiling, is a large, papier-mache Dalmatian that greets visitors, eye-to-eye. "I ran out of floor space, that's why Sparky's up there," said James Stine.

Stine's eclectic brand of decor continues outside the house onto the grounds. The backyard garden of the home is a bewitching blend of "finds" turned into art objects and integrated into the landscape to create a feeling of whimsy.

At one time the house was owned by a horticulturist, and when Stine moved in, the backyard was so overgrown that he had to remove some trees. In doing so he discovered the outlines of an old rock garden, which he has restored.

A slice of old tree trunk standing on edge and highlighted by a garden light, makes an artful background for plants.

Original bench-style bleacher seats from Tiger stadium provide a restful place to enjoy the century year old Lilacs and Mulberry trees.

An old door painted colonial red, and hinged to one of the trees, opens the garden to the imagination. "I have a lot of little kids visit and they like to open the door and run through, like a magic land door."

The feeling of the Stine home is best summed up in the title of an antique book that is held open by a stuffed rabbit dressing in the red and green color scheme of the house. The title reads, "Making Home Happy."

James Stine has an eclectic mix of items in and outside of his home.

Box Bar owner's garden cafe idea grows on Plymouth officials

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

A grand outdoor cafe just off of Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth is planned by Box Bar owner Chip Falcusan.

A waterfall, ponds, gazebos and wrought iron fencing are part of the redesign of the bar's current parking lot.

But to build it, Falcusan will need approval from the city's planning commission and city commission.

And because the first estimate of the cost "was very expensive," he said that cost will have to come down before he can begin construction.

He plans to go before the city planning commission in May to seek approval. Russ Webster, owner of the Penniman Deli in downtown Plymouth, won planning commission approval last month for the city's first outdoor cafe.

THAT CAFE, still awaiting city commission approval, is planned for a deck extending from the front of the deli.

Some city officials believe the outdoor cafe idea could be great for Plymouth, as it could bring a little excitement downtown, where some prominent stores have closed in recent months.

Falcusan's plan is the most elaborate one so far for an outdoor cafe. If he does it like he plans to, it could be difficult to top.

"I think it's fantastic," said Downtown Development Authority member David Pugh. "It's the kind of message sender we want — It's a great development."

Falcusan hopes to create the atmosphere of a New Orleans courtyard.

"We want to block out the hotel in the back, so when you step into this area you're in a totally different world."

While he would lose seven or eight parking spaces by building the outdoor cafe, Falcusan said he would gain four or five spaces along Ann Arbor Trail.

Construction would take five to eight weeks, meaning he could build it this year if approval comes quickly. "It could help create an atmosphere to encourage restaurant business in Plymouth," he said.

His outdoor cafe and others wouldn't steal business from competitors downtown, Falcusan said. Instead, such cafes would draw people to Plymouth to eat, rather than the Ann Arbor Road-I-275 area or other areas.

"You need some diversity, something to kick-start the business a little bit," he said.

Schools to sell 4 land parcels

Four parcels of school-owned land could soon be on the tax rolls.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education agreed Monday night to sell the parcels located in Canton and Plymouth Townships. They range in size from 15 to 50 acres.

The proceeds will be placed in a capital improvement fund earmarked for land acquisition for future schools, and major improvements such as roof and equipment repair and replacement, said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

The sites include:

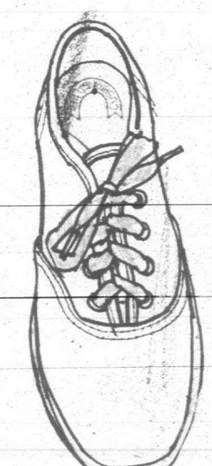

- 17 acres adjacent to Plymouth Township Park known as the Amrhein property. Valued at $70,000 per acre, the land is north of Ann Arbor Trail and west of Glenview behind the Glenview subdivision. Plans call for the township to extend its park.
- 49 acres on the south side of Cherry Hill east of Lilley. Referred to as the Truesdale site, the land is divided by a drainage ditch into a 10-acre parcel and a 39-acre parcel. It's valued at $21,000 per acre.
- 15 acres on the south side of Proctor west of Canton Center. Formerly part of a nursery, the acreage is landlocked by township-owned land and has no water or sewer. It's been appraised at $5,000 per acre.
- A 27-acre site to be appraised by April 20 on the south side of Joy between Beck and Ridge known as the Gyde property.

It was decided to sell the land because the locations aren't well-suited for new schools, said Dick Egli, the district's community relations director.

Funds from the land sales, by board resolution, may not be used for operating expenses, even though a $4.3 million revenue shortfall is projected for next year. "We are in a financial jam because Lansing is moving too fast, too soon," said Hoedel. "But it would not be my recommendation" to use proceeds from the land sales to decrease the deficit.

"The reason is, you don't want to sell property to get you through your day-to-day operational needs. That's really short-sighted," he said. That's not saying the board won't have to take a hard look at finances, Hoedel and Egli agreed.

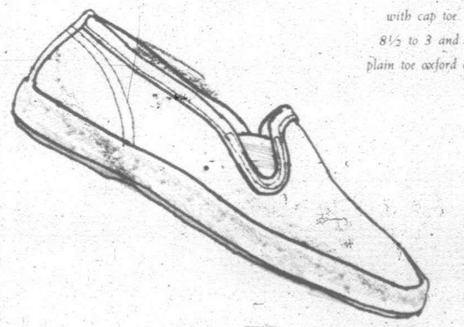

The board of education reserves the right to reject or accept any bids in the best interests of the school district, Hoedel said.

St. Mary, Beaumont hospitals become partners

A working partnership has been agreed upon between St. Mary Hospital in Livonia and Beaumont Hospital of Royal Oak and Troy.

The agreement will enhance and expand health care delivery in Livonia and its surrounding communities, said Sister Mary Modesta, president and chief executive officer of St. Mary Hospital.

The affiliation will allow both hospitals not only to continue independent operations and governing boards, said Modesta, but will develop a liaison committee to undertake joint planning and program development.

THE AFFILIATION does not constitute a merger or acquisition, Modesta said, as both St. Mary and Beaumont will remain independent hospitals — administratively and financially.

With the assistance of Superior Consultant Co. Inc. of Farmington Hills, an extensive request for affiliation began in May 1991. Beaumont was selected from a group of major health care providers.

"We are taking a proactive role and an innovative solution to strengthen the services at St. Mary Hospital," said Modesta.

One of the goals and criteria presented to the potential affiliate was to preserve the mission of the Felician Sisters at St. Mary Hospital and ensure long term growth and development.

"The Catholic values of St. Mary Hospital will be preserved by our support and commitment to infuse medical talent so St. Mary Hospital can become a strong partner in a network of like-minded organizations," said Kenneth E. Myers, president and chief executive officer of William Beaumont Hospital.

Beaumont operates two hospitals in Royal Oak and Troy with a total of 1,118 beds.

Other Beaumont facilities include: a rehabilitation and health center in Birmingham; medical buildings in Royal Oak, Troy, West Bloomfield and Rochester Hills; a health care clinic in Ferndale; Shelby Nursing Center in Shelby Township; West Bloomfield Nursing and Convalescnet Center; Cherrywood Nursing and Living Center in Sterling Heights.

ST. MARY HOSPITAL is a non-teaching community hospital and its primary reason for seeking an affiliation is the recruitment and retention of top quality practitioners, including specialists and sub-specialist coverage that will enhance its provision of high-quality medical services to the community.

"Beaumont will benefit by associating with St. Mary Hospital as a partner in its tertiary referral network by the placement of its newly trained physicians in an area where they can continue referrals for high-risk patients," said Meyers.

Details of the agreement have not been finalized.

Both Modesta and Myers, backed by the support of their respective boards, view the agreement as a long lasting and mutually beneficial relationship.

St. Mary Hospital is a 304-bed acute care community hospital offering medical/surgical, intensive/cardiac care, oncology, obstetrics, mental health, chemical dependency, and 24-hour emergency care.

St. Mary Hospital also operates the St. Mary Hospital Family Medical Center in Livonia, St. Mary Health Care Center — Livonia, St. Mary Health Care Center — Northville, and Marywood Nursing Care Center and Marybrook Manor in Livonia.

Most of its patients come from Livonia with the second highest number from Westland. The hospital also treats patients from nearby Plymouth, Canton, and Redford.

Plymouth Symphony goes to movies for fund-raiser

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra is hosting its annual fund-raiser April 10-11 at Fox Hills Country Club.

The concert will feature the symphony, local guest conductors and the men's chorus, "Measure for Measure."

The theme of the evening is "Music From Movies."

The symphony will be joined by the chorus for some numbers.

The program includes Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," Rossini's "William Tell Overture," and Bock's "Fiddler on the Roof."

The guest conductors are Plymouth Symphony League president Sharyn Tidwell Friday night and Plymouth Mayor Robert Jones Saturday night.

Tickets for the dinner and concert cost $40 per person.

Seating begins at 6 p.m.

Tickets for the concert alone cost $25 and seating begins 7:30 p.m.

The concert begins at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available by calling 451-2112, or can be purchased at Beitner Jewelry, 904 W. Ann Arbor Trail, or Evola Music Center, 215 W. Ann Arbor Road.

New commission districts expected to pass

election '92

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

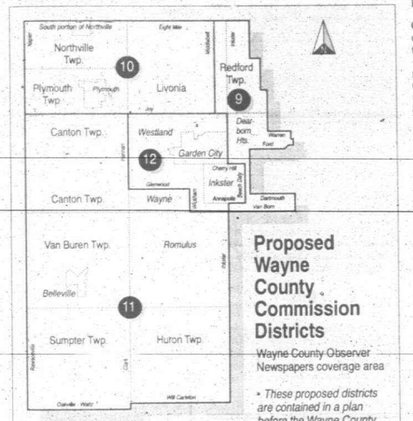

A showdown between incumbents Bryan Amann and Maurice Breen won't occur under revised Wayne County Commission districts expected to be adopted tomorrow.

The county apportionment panel is expected to adopt a compromise plan that puts both incumbents in separate districts.

Amann, D-Wayne, and Breen, R-Plymouth Township, had seen their home communities placed in the same district under an earlier plan rejected by the Michigan Supreme Court. Amann was among four commissioners who appealed to the high court to block the previous plan.

Both Amann and Breen said they were pleased with the revised plan unveiled last week.

"I like it," Amann said, looking at the district map. "I think everybody's going to be pleased."

Proposed districts shown: 9, 10, 11, 12

Proposed Wayne County Commission Districts
Wayne County Observer Newspapers coverage area

* These proposed districts are contained in a plan before the Wayne County Apportionment Committee. Committee members are expected to adopt the districts tomorrow.

TAMMIE GRAVES/Observer & Eccentric

Breen, the lone Republican on the 15 member commission, said his party could pick up as many as three additional seats under the revised plan.

"WE COULD pick up a seat in the Grosse Pointes, plus I think we'll be competitive in at least two other districts," Breen said.

The plan was filed by apportionment committee member Juliette Okotie-Eboh, a member of the Detroit planning department. It is backed by county leaders.

"It's fair and it's legal," said deputy county executive Michael Duggan, who represented the protesting commissioners before the high court.

"It's a compromise plan between a lot of people including the commission, the county executive and community groups," county commission chairman Arthur Blackwell said. "We got together to decide how best to meet the needs of people in Wayne County."

Here is how western Wayne districts would look revised plan:

- The 10th District, currently represented by Breen, remains almost the same, including Plymouth, Plymouth Township and most of Livonia, but loses a section of Livonia, east of Midlebelt.
- The 11th District, currently represented by Amann, also remains primarily intact, retaining Canton, but losing Flat Rock and Rockwood.
- The 12th District, currently represented by Kay Beard, D-Westland, stays in tact by including Westland, Garden City and Inkster.

Major changes are reserved for the 9th District. Redford remains in the district, but is joined by Dearborn Heights and Livonia, east of Middlebelt. The previous district included Redford and a section of Detroit.

Current 9th District representative Kevin Kelley won't be running for the seat this fall. Instead, he's challenging county Sheriff Robert Ficano in the Democratic Party primary.

The revised district "might have made a diffference four or five months ago," Kelley said.

"I have made my commitment to run for sheriff," he added. "But I am glad the new districts were drafted."

Apportionment committee members are expected to adopt the revised districts 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at the City Counfy Building, Detroit. The meeting, at the 13th floor auditorium, is open to the public.

Not everyone is happy with the proposed districts.

Steve Walker, of Latinos for Fair Representation, said the plan promoted segregation.

"YOU'RE CREATING an all-white, lily-white district that extends from Redford to Dearborn Heights," Walker said.

The group, representing Spanish-speaking Democratic Party members, filed its own plan with the reapportionment committee.

A competing plan was also filed by Kenneth Cockrel Jr. on behalf of New Detroit Inc. and the Wayne State University Center for Urban Studies.

Though plans would divide western Wayne communities more drastically.

The Latinos plan dvidies Livonia and Westland into seperate districts and creates a Redford/Garden City district.

The New Detroit/Wayne State plan divides Livonia, Westland, Dearborn Heights and Wayne into separate districts.

Neither plan is copnsidered likely to pass muster with the apportionment panel, who placed a premium on dividing as few communities as possible.

The panel includes county clerk James Killeen, county treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz and chief prosecutor John O'Hair, as well as Okotie-Eboh, the Democratic party delegate and GOP delegate Wendy Lamb.

New districts will be submitted to the state Supreme Court for final approval.

Public hearing set on new area code

A public hearing on plans to split the 313 telephone area code is scheduled 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 7, in the Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium, 32777 Five Mile.

A preliminary plan would split the area into north and south regions.

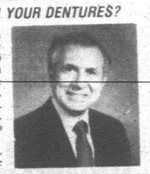

Detroit, the Grosse Pointes, Ann Arbor and Monroe would remain in the 313 area code. Other communities, including Farmington, Mount Clemens, Flint, Lapeer, Port Huron and Sandusky would receive a new area code.

Telephone rates wouldn't change, according to Michigan Bell. Calls that are local today would remain local after the split.

The split is necessary, Bell officials said, because the 313 area code is running out of available telephone numbers.

An additional meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 8, at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 W. 10 Mile.

Those unable to attend either meeting can comment by calling 1-800-831-8989.

points of view

Pursell not typical politician

Tim Richard

POLITICS ASIDE, Carl Pursell is the most unusual politician I've ever covered — a category that ranges from the Zolton Ferencys to the Dave Jayes, from Gus Scholle to Dick Headlee.

At 59, Pursell was eagerly planning another decade on Capitol Hill — maybe even a Republican takeover and a committee chair. But a U.S. Court of Appeals panel gerrymandered him into an impossible situation. The life-long Plymouthite wasn't about to turn carpetbagger and move to a favorable district. He won't run again.

What made Pursell unusual wasn't that he flew home each weekend and avoided booze, babes and bad checks. It goes deeper.

MOST POLITICIANS practice the art as they learned it in high school: federal government in one paper box, state government in the next box, local the next, private enterprise in that box. The ordinary lawmaker develops expertise on a committee that becomes his world.

Pursell adopted a problem-solving approach: What can the feds do? Where does the state fit in? How can city hall, the chamber of commerce and the press help? The walls came down when a Pursell committee focused on the Rouge River, Jackson's industrial development or elementary counseling.

Nothing like it.

Say "city" and the ordinary politician answers Detroit or New York. Pursell looked at cities, plural. One of the key regrets he and I shared about Coleman Young's tenure was that the mayor thought only about Detroit, not about the Royal Oaks, Northvilles and Adrians that have similar problems.

Quite a rarity.

IF YOU'RE a Democrat, you kowtow to the UAW, the teachers union or the public employees groups. If a Republican, you cultivate entrepreneurs.

Without question, Pursell is in the entrepreneur class, but he never forgot that he had worked in a plant in his youth and held a minor Michigan Education Association office as a teacher. His hands-on union experience tempered many votes as a lawmaker.

The ordinary congressman with a world-class university in his district would say his bailiwick is "home of the University of Michigan."

Pursell's boast, at one time, was that his district had more college students than any in the U.S. He respected U-M's scholarship and clout but looked out for the regional universities, community colleges and private schools that do the teaching.

IT'S COMMONPLACE for politicians to talk about the need for scientists and engineers and doctors.

Pursell thought nurses deserved a voice in health policy and scholarship money. He pushed a nursing administrator from U-M into a health policy post in the Bush administration. It made him a cult hero in the profession.

Scores of politicians have young, enthusiastic campaign staffs. I've covered dozens of conventions of four different parties, and Pursell was the only middle-aged politico who repeatedly helped young people get elected to party vice-chairs or nominated for state boards. To find Pursell at a GOP convention, you'd case the hall for a pack of mop-haired kids and look for the bald spot in the middle.

Absolutely the most unusual politician I've ever covered.

My guess, without consulting him, is that Carl Pursell isn't through with public service. A re-elected Bush may make him a deputy to Lamar Alexander in Education, or the Michigan GOP could tap him for the State Board of Education.

If so, don't expect him to become a turf-conscious bureaucrat. Most likely he'll punch holes in those governmental paper boxes.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional news.

Clinton keeps on losing credibility

Jeff Counts

IT WOULD BE nice to be able to believe a Democrat. Bill Clinton would have us believe he tried a marijuana cigarette, but he didn't inhale it. And by the way, it was in England, so it really didn't count.

It's not that we're trying to be the morality police. I would have thought more of him if he would have said he smoked marijuana and liked it, or even if he had said he inhaled it and didn't like it. But come on now, not inhaling.

We're newcomers to the lines Hot Springs Bill has been handing out. The good ol' boys in Arkansas have been hearing them for years. Their conclusion: "Clinton and his wife are as crooked as a barrel of snakes."

Personally, I hope they're not right. The other guy in the Democratic primary race has a glaze in his eyes that makes him look like he has been inhaling the stuff, and liking it.

But here's what one Arkansas boy has to say about Clinton. But first his qualifications. He's a railroad retiree who was born, raised and lived in Arkansas his entire life. He grows perhaps the best okra in the state and can pretty much fix any engine.

HERE'S HIS grievance list against Clinton:

- Clinton doubled taxes in 10 years, putting a sales tax on used cars. And this comes in a state where chances are more people are looking at used pickup trucks than at new Toyotas.
- His money is coming from the "well-to-do," not the middle class.
- His moral character is questionable.
- Miss Flowers isn't the only petal plucked by Bill.
- He environment, education, health and other services in Arkansas are well below most other states.
- He has never worked at a regular job, and in the words of one Arkansas boy, Clinton "is a professional politician."
- He has two answers for all questions: "I've done nothing wrong." Said my Arkansas source, Clinton should "make a collar for his neck and put his 'I've done nothing wrong' logo on it." His other logo should be "do-nothing Bush."
- The country is in bad shape, if he's the best we have to offer.

There are other things about Clinton, too. Arkansas is a state of only about 2.5 million people. That means there are more people in the metro Detroit area than in all of Arkansas.

The assumption here is that a bigger state is tougher to run and governing it would be a better test than running Arkansas. There's probably some truth to it.

There's another side to this.

Coming from a small state doesn't mean a guy isn't smart enough to run the country.

There's also the comparison of Arkansas to other states. It's unfair. Michigan has a 'Sugar Daddy' in the auto industry, and California has always been a gold rush state.

Arkansas has had rice, cotton and cattle. They haven't exactly been the boom businesses of the '80s or '90s. You just can't squeeze a Michigan-style welfare state out of Arkansas' red, rocky soil.

There's also the cost of living factor. When you look at the wages paid in Arkansas, it looks dismal. But then again you can buy a house for about half the price paid in Michigan or another industrial state. The taxes are also about half.

The real question for Democrats is who can beat Bush. Could it be the silver haired, silver tongued boy from Arkansas or the glazed eyed, born again populist from the left coast.

Chances are it's neither.

Tenure must keep only the top teachers

Doc Doyle

QUESTION: What are some of your experiences and observations of the tenure issue?

ANSWER: The perception of the public is that tenure means a permanency of employment without fear of dismissal. In reality, it is a process and procedure to be followed, yet a process that is cumbersome and time consuming.

A tenure case can put a teacher, rightly or wrongly, in a limbo for years at a tremendous cost to a district. Example: District A wishes to part company with 10 teachers. Cost for tenure process to the district is about $100,00 per teacher or $1 million to pursue cases the district may lose. That's $1 million that could be used for classroom materials and supplies.

Many school districts would rather give $50,000 to get rid of a teacher than go through the tenure process. Most teachers in this situation won't take this one time buy-out, but will go through the tenure process.

SOME DISTRICTS periodically shift poor teachers from one building to another. Most administrators believe shifting and hiding teachers to be professionally dishonest. However, I have seen moving a teacher to another building work well when that teacher had a building vigilante parent group out to destroy him. Some teachers need a new environment, a new start.

Other districts have a sophisticated teacher evaluation process but a poor or a non-existent teacher improvement plan. The evaluation instrument and the evaluation process should generate a plan for teacher improvement and not necessarily be a negative experience.

Believe it or not, education has improved in both selection and evaluation of teachers over time. Some of the practices in the 1950s and early 1960s, before teacher contracts, were absolutely gross and included:

- In the '50s, it was a practice of a few superintendents to give an incompetent teacher a decent recommendation provided the teacher agreed to leave the district. It was called dumping. This practice was totally dishonest, but worked because there were plenty of jobs available for teachers then.
- IN THE '60s and even the '70s, because of a teacher shortage, a few administrators I knew hired college graduating candidates over the phone, and mailed them a contract without seeing them or interviewing them in person. Today the teacher candidate screening process is far more sophisticated.
- And as in all professions, I remember a few better candidates being overlooked for weaker candidates, sometimes political appointments of a son or daughter of a powerful community leader or son/daughter of a neighboring school district administrator.

Today all tenured teachers should be thankful. The most job secure position I know of in this era of huge layoffs is teaching. As long as people keep producing kids, teachers have a job. There is no competition with foreign competition on issues of quality or style when a kid is born in a teacher's attendance area.

However, tenure does need to be revisited to ensure that we have and keep only the most professional, top quality teachers. That's what the vast majority of our teachers and administrators are.

James "Doc" Doyle, a former teacher/school administrator/university instructor, is president of Doyle and Associates, a educational consulting firm.

Senate Dems' auto insurance victory is short-lived

AP — Senate Democrats got a rare victory, but Gov. John Engler ended their celebration by vetoing a bill that would have revamped a key part of the state's auto insurance law and cut rates 15 percent.

The GOP-controlled Senate gave surprise approval to the bill Tuesday night with a 24-14 vote. That prompted shouts and applause from the usually downtrodden minority Democrats.

The House later gave final approval to the measure on a 94-12 vote and sent it back to the Senate for a procedural vote.

But Engler spokesman John Truscott said the governor vetoed the bill because it doesn't have enough cost savings to allow insurance companies to cut rates 15 percent. This bill is a sham, pure and simple," Truscott said.

The bill was designed to replace part of the auto insurance law that expired at midnight March 31. If it's not replaced, the segment of the law in effect before 1987 will be reactivated.

Insurance industry officials say that will mean rate increases of 15 to 20 percent for some outstate and suburban drivers, while city motorists will see their rates drop or remain steady.

DEMOCRATS GOT their rare Senate victory because three Republicans — David Honigman of West Bloomfield, Doug Carl of Utica and Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville — broke ranks with the usually solid GOP majority.

I'm sick and tired of the politics that get played between the House and Senate," Dillingham said after the vote. He added that he voted for the bill and led the GOP renegades because he believes it's the best compromise that can clear the House and the Senate.

Although they could get the bill passed, the Democrats couldn't muster the two-thirds vote necessary to give the bill immediate effect.

Senate Majority Leader Dick Posthumus, R-Alto, said the 15 percent rollback was a fraud because it would allow companies to get a rollback reduction if they prove they couldn't bear the full amount.

That means almost nobody in the state would see a rate rollback. I want to see a rate rollback that would be real come July 1," he said.

Posthumus said the bill had other problems, such as eliminating different rates based on age, which would have senior citizens subsidizing teenage drivers. It also would force insurance companies to offer coverage in Detroit, and that would send rates higher for the other drivers the companies insured because losses are higher in Detroit, he added.

House Speaker Lewis Dodak, D-Birch Run, disagreed.

I believe that there's true reform in the package," he said, adding the bill contains an actuarial panel to act as a safeguard in event companies complain they can't roll back rates 15 percent under the bill.

If he (Engler) wants to veto a 15 percent rollback bill, then so be it. He has to answer to the people of the state and explain to them why he vetoed a bill that would roll insurance premiums back in Michigan."

This was nonsense masquerading as intelligence," said Gary Mitchell, a spokesman for the Professional Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan.

I think it's a very bad bill. The legislators who voted for that ought to be embarrassed," said Doug Cruce, president of the Michigan Insurance Federation.

Cruce, a former state senator whose district included Troy, said letting the current law expire would be better and fairer to motorists than having to face the impact of the bill as it cleared the House and Senate.

Senate bill targets 'stalkers'

AP — Women victimized by "stalkers" — men who badger them, follow them, call them, and sometimes kill them — would get new protection under a bill up for debate this week in the Senate.

Under the legislation, Michigan could become the second state to make stalking a crime, punishable by up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

"Stalking is not an obscure or infrequent crime," said Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

Geake sponsored the bill approved last week by the Senate Judiciary Committee. His district includes Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton and Redford.

"NEWSPAPERS IN every town in America carry stories about stalkers, their brutal crimes and their victims," Geake said.

The bill would apply to male victims and female stalkers as well, but most victims are female and often the stalking is a product of domestic violence. According to Geake, one study estimates that one in 20 adults will be stalked in their lifetime and another said up to 200,000 people exhibit the traits of a stalker.

"Domestic violence is a pervasive problem in Michigan;" said Kathryn Young of the Department of Social Services' Domestic Violence Prevention and Treatment Board. "Stalking behavior is a form of domestic terrorism."

The bill was approved in committee on a 4-0 vote and is expected to clear the Republican-run Senate easily. Its fate in the Democrat-controlled House is unclear.

Geake said that his bill would put some teeth into court injunctions and restraining orders designed to keep the stalkers away from their prey but which are largely unsuccessful.

NOW, STALKING itself is not a crime. California has already passed a law criminalizing the act, and 26 other states are considering similar moves.

Libertarians to hold state convention

Libertarian Party presidential candidate Andre Marrou will be the main speaker at the state party convention, April 10-12 at the Courtyard Inn, 3205 Boardwalk, Ann Arbor.

Marrou was the leading vote-getter in Dixville Notch, N.H., traditionally the first city in America to cast in presidential primary votes. The former Alaska state legislator received 11 votes in Dixville Notch. President Bush finished second with 9 votes and Bill Clinton and Patrick Buchanan tied for third with 3 each.

The convention runs from 6 p.m. Friday, April 10, to 4 p.m. Sunday, April 12. Anyone interested in attending can call 278-3673 for details.

HOW TO PREVENT A FLARE OF ARTHRITIS
If anyone tries to sell you a medicine that prevents a flare or urges you to purchase a book that gives such information, don't buy!
No one knows how to prevent a flare.
No medicine formulated to date can act as well, nor will any joint injection given before inflammation occurs suffice to justify the injection cost or discomfort. Exercise is fine for muscles but does not strengthen joints against adversity, let alone prevent inflammation in those joints. Nor has research yet found any diet, vitamin, or food of particular benefit in preventing arthritic flares or promoting joint protection against such stress.
The problem is that science does not know what initiates a flare. The starting point is a sudden intensity in inflammation which in turn sets up and increases in the concentration of chemicals that irritate the joint. Pain arises from the irritation, and you hurt when you move. Impairment compounds when the inflammatory process causes fluid to accumulate within the joint. What you see and feel is then identified as "a flair." Why the inflammation intensifies is not known.
When you are struck by this cascade of events, it is not reasonable to ask yourself: "What did I do wrong?" You have enough to overcome, and do not need the added burden of guilt and remorse.

Restorations breathe soul back into city

By Simon Elegant
New York Times Syndicate

SOME YEARS ago officials at Singapore's Tourist Promotion Board noticed that most visitors found little to keep them on the island for longer than three days.

One of the main problems was that rapid development coupled with an almost fanatic preoccupation with cleanliness and order had leeched the city of the exotic atmosphere that tourists flew to Asia to find.

Large parts of the city looked like a tropical version of any one of the indistinguishable midsized cities spread across North America and Europe.

Pragmatic as ever, the island-nation's planners decided to do whatever was necessary to increase the length of the average visitor's stay.

The fruits of that decision are just beginning to blossom. Visitors will find not only a whole range of new attractions that take much from the designers of the various Disneyworlds, but also clusters of turn-of-the-century or older buildings that have been restored, giving a breath of historical soul back to this sometimes spiritless city.

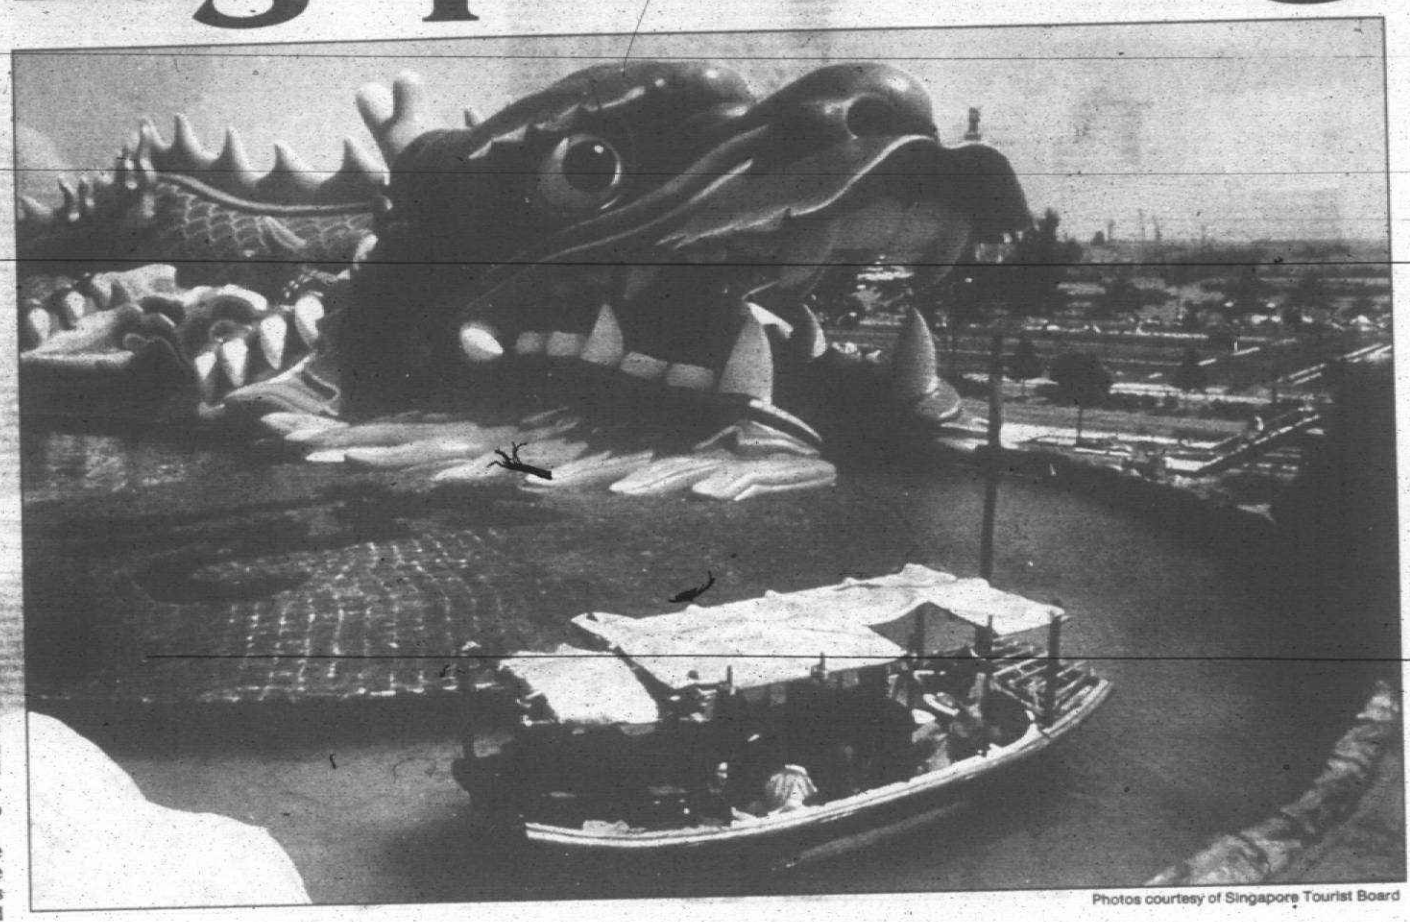

One of the finest examples of the time and money lavished on the city's architectural heritage is the 126-year-old neoclassical Empress Palace Museum, at the southern end of the Cavenagh Bridge in the heart of Singapore's colonial center. It reopened as a museum in 1989.

The museum is showing, through October, a dazzling display of artifacts from Tang Dynasty China and the Silk Road trade route through Central Asia that connected China to the West. It is open from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Admission is $3.65. For more information call 3367633.

Just a short walk from the museum are the other main remnants of the colonial administration, which lasted from the early 19th century until 1959: the Supreme Court, the General Post Office, the Victoria Memorial Hall, the Cricket Club and City Hall, all built around the central padang — the cricket and rugby field that was the invariable centerpiece of British colonial town planning.

Two other preservation areas, at Emerald Hill just off the Orchard Road shopping district, and at Tanjong pagar, adjacent to Chinatown, feature row upon row of restored pastel shop-houses — two- or three-story structures with living quarters above and shops at ground level that were the chief feature of old Singapore's architecture.

A stroll through the narrow alleys of Chinatown and into Tanjong Pagar — Temple Street, Pagoda Street, Smith Street, Sago Lane and Neil Road — past the Chinese medical halls with their sacks of spices and dried roots, wafting out heady, unidentifiable smells, past the riot of characters scrawled over every surface in bright red and green paint, cannot help but conjure up the spirit of Singapore's colorful past.

A 60-meter-long dragon is one of the giant statues at Haw Par Villa, an amusement park in Singapore, with multimedia theater shows based on ancient myths and legends.

WHAT TO DO

Though some three-quarters of Singapore's population is of Chinese descent, substantial minorities of Malays and Indians contribute to the richness of the city's festivals.

Later, on June 5, is the Chinese dragon boat festival, which commemorates Qu Yuan, an ancient poet and official who drowned himself to protest political corruption. A spectacular and noisy international dragon boat racing competition is held in the city's Marina Bay.

SIGHTSEEING

Tang Dynasty City, at 2 Yuan Ching Road, is a combination historical re-creation and movie studio in which copies of Tang Dynasty (A.D. 618 to 907) buildings are occupied by actors playing the parts of artisans, travelers, warriors, judges and the like.

Though only 40 percent complete, the complex is still worth a visit for its presentation of life during China's most glorious dynasty. The complex is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Admission is $9. For more information call 2611116.

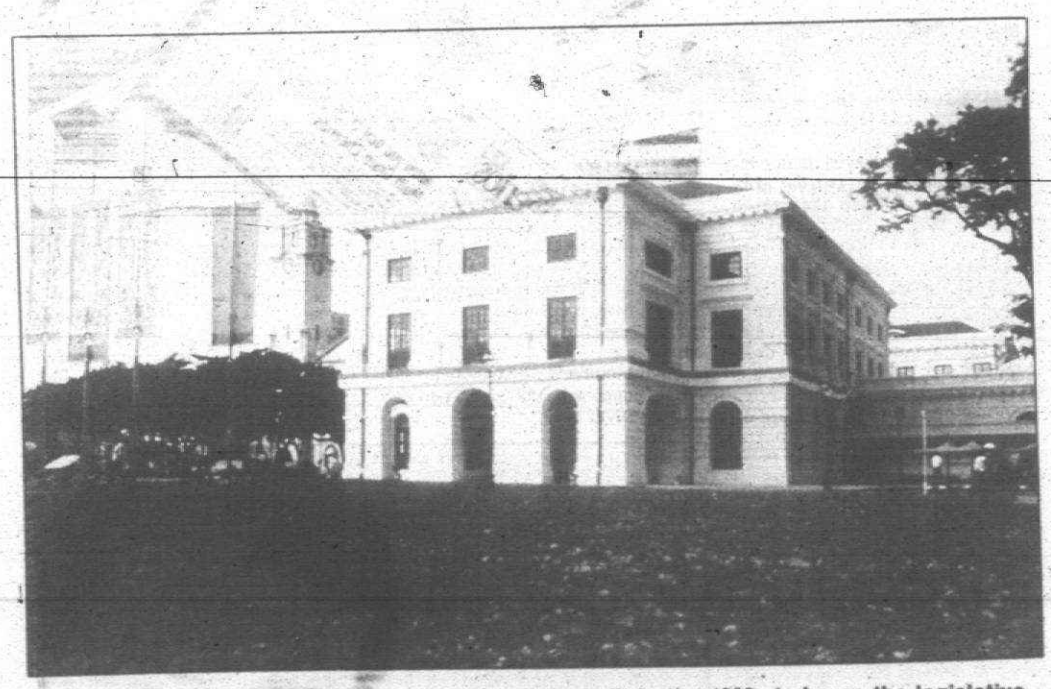

A similar idea is at work in the recently refurbished Haw Par Villa, at 262 Pasir Panjang Road. It is a kind of Chinese Disneyland, though on a smaller scale.

Haw Par Villa is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is $3.75. For more information call 7740300.

Sentosa Underwater World, on Siloso Road, Sentosa Island, opened its doors last spring. It centers around a huge tank containing many of the bizarre inhabitants of tropical reef — angelfish, stingrays, sharks, moray eels, the comical clown fish, the huge grouper.

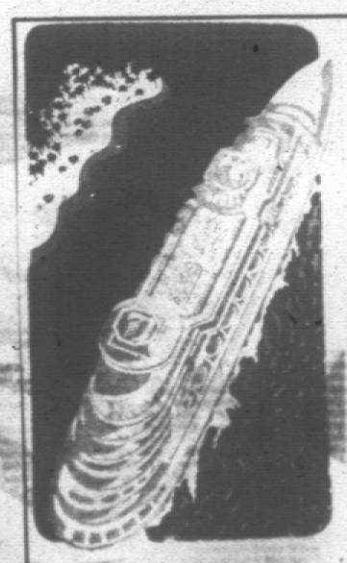

An acrylic tunnel that winds around the bottom of the tank allows visitors a view that comes as close as possible to duplicating the experience of scuba diving without getting one's feet wet. It is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Admission is $5.65. For more information call 2750030.

Another natural attraction is the Jurong Bird Park, on Jurong Hill. The park houses an astonishing variety of birds from all over the world, some 5,000 altogether, and puts on a bird show several times a day. The park is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Admission is $3.75.

The Empress Palace, by the Singapore River, was built in the 1860s to house the legislative assembly.

Shop smart to reduce grocery bill

Sure, I clip coupons. Yes, I buy in bulk whenever possible. But saving money at your grocers goes far beyond saving 20 cents on a jar of peanut butter, and buying an 80 load box of detergent instead of a 20 load box.

Without even trying, I can easily cut a minimum of 10 percent from my weekly grocery shopping trip by ripping out coupons from the weekend paper.

I'm certainly not a coupon fanatic, but I do get a certain amount of satisfaction seeing the cash register tape subtotal out at a little over $100, and then watching those coupons crediting the tape down to around $85 dollars plus change.

BUT IN addition to saving money, shopping efficiently also saves time. If there's one thing that really bothers me, it's standing in line for an extra 20 minutes just to save two dollars. Time is money, and the money you save driving around town looking for savings hardly ever equals the return on your investment.

Here are a few of the strategies that yours truly learned from my friend Heloise in her book "All New Hints From Heloise: "A Household Guide for the Nineties," (1989, by Heloise, Putnam Publishing Group).

When grocery stores offer double coupons, I check the newspapers for useful coupons, and when I see something I really use, I actually save more money by purchasing another paper, or asking friends and neighbors for unused coupon pullouts.

Detergent, cosmetics, razor blades and paper products will last indefinitely, and eventually get used.

If there's one thing I've learned in the 1990s, it is to read packages. I'm always comparing weights, volume, number of servings and costs per ounce or per pound when grocery shopping. I make it a point to shop on Monday mornings when I know the produce and meat over ordered and not sold from the weekend will be marked down.

LAST MONDAY, I picked up some short ribs just one day beyond their prime and made them for dinner that evening, saving myself more than two dollars per pound.

Heloise also suggests that when buying canned goods, the cheapest may not always be the best.

Generic canned vegetables may be all right for soups, stews and casseroles, but may not be as tasty or attractive when served as a separate course for dinner.

SURE, NATIONAL brands are more expensive, but last week, what started out as a potato soup turned into a luscious chowder with the addition of canned corn, a few onions, and some leftover cream from a recent Janes Gang celebration.

I double couponed some of those refrigerator breadsticks, and doctored them up with some Parmesan cheese and garlic powder, and our salad and dinner cost a whopping two bucks!

A FEW weeks back, one of our local retailers offered an incredible deal on eggs. Not having anywhere near the amount of space to store six dozen eggs, I spent five minutes breaking the eggs into freezer containers.

When the Janes Gang gets together for their annual Easter brunch, I told momma to put me down for a big egg casserole holding two dozen eggs for which I paid less than 50 cents.

Last, but certainly not least, my most recent savings are coming in through rebates. Three minutes at the rebate wall of my local store netted me about nine dollars after postage using items I knew I had purchased earlier.

Nothing monumental here, but the money helped top off the gas tank for the remainder of a busy week.

JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer

Neighbors Penny Francis (left) and Kayle Swider clip coupons and talk about the best buys of the week. Francis saves her grocery bags and redeems them at the grocery store.

Impact on the suburbs:
The shrinking Auto Industry

OVER THE course of a year, the average shopper will walk 4½ miles behind a grocery cart, said Lois Theileke, home economist for the Cooperative Extension Service.

A survey by Kraft Light Naturals of 1,000 consumers nationwide found an average shopping trip is 42 minutes.

Grocery shopping requires a lot of time and energy. To get the most from your workout, plan ahead and shop smart.

Mary Bugis of Beverly Hills pulled out all of her coupons when area grocery stores advertised double coupon up to $1 in November and December. Some stores also offered a free turkey if you bought a certain amount of groceries.

On Nov. 21, Bugis went shopping at Farmer Jack. She redeemed 51 coupons that added up to $53.46 in savings on a $153.34 grocery bill and got a free turkey worth $8.55. Her total out-of-pocket expense was $91.33.

"I cut coupons out every week and save $20 to $21 regularly" she said.

"When I heard they were offering double coupon up to $1, I started a special envelope for coupons over 50 cents. We were having a party so I bought more than I usually do."

Bugis stocked up on coffee, juice, sponges, noodles, paper products, canned goods and and other nonperishables. "I'm still using laundry soap that I bought in November," she said.

PENNY FRANCIS of Livonia saves in lots of ways. She clips coupons, which include newspaper coupons for discounts at restaurants like Bill Knapps, scouts the paper for specials, triple coupon offerings and double coupons up to $1 and compares prices.

At the grocery store, she'll ask for a paper bag. "A lot of the stores will give you five cents for every bag you take back," she said. "If I take back four bags, that's 20 cents in my pocket."

Eighty percent of the coupons redeemed are for grocery items. Coffee, detergents, dog food and cereal coupons are redeemed most often, said Theileke.

To save with coupons, you've got to clip them and organize them; many people don't.

A 1989 survey showed that consumers in the Metro Detroit area took advantage of less than three percent of their potential savings. Clipping coupons adds up to an average savings of $35 per week times 52 weeks in a year that equals $1,820.

The average time spent organizing and clipping coupons is one hour. The average number of coupons used per month was 26, but some people used over 100.

A follow-up survey of the state of the economy and its effect on coupon usage by NCH Promotional Services found that during the current economic slowdown, consumers consider it essential to increase their coupon use.

Manufacturer's distributed 292 billion coupons in 1991, a 4.5 percent increase over 1990.

IN RESPONSE, consumers redeemed a record number of coupons last year, 7.46 billion. Consumers have also changed their buying habits.

The study found that over three-fourths of the 500 men and 500 wom-

Italian chef marks anniversary

Chef's SECRETS

Vito DePalma, owner of DePalma's at 31735 Plymouth Road in Livonia, works hard to make people feel welcome in his restaurant.

DePalma's is a family place. His wife, Giulia, makes some of the desserts. Her unbaked cheesecake topped with strawberries is very popular. Son Paul and daughter Gracie also work at the restaurant, managed by Raymond Borden, DePalma's nephew.

While Vito's in the kitchen, Borden is in the dining room making sure guests are comfortable and happy with their meals. The restaurant is celebrating its fourth anniversary with a variety of specials, making it an affordable night out for families on a budget.

There's an "Early Bird Special" served 4-6 p.m. Monday through Friday, priced at $6.75, which includes dessert, and six anniversary entrees for $4.95 served 4-6 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Anniversary entrees include a choice of soup or salad, coffee and tea.

Although he received no formal training as a chef, DePalma has been cooking since childhood. He came to this country from Italy at age 14 and learned how to cook from his parents. "It's all I know," he said.

He worked at different restaurants, country clubs, and hotels before opening his own restaurant Clairpointe in Grosse Pointe.

He moved to Livonia in 1980, sold the Clairpointe and opened DePalma's in 1988. Everything including the pasta and bread is homemade. Entertainment 7-11 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. For information, reservations, call 261-2430.

Who does the cooking at your house?

"My wife."

What's a normal dinner at your house?

"Down to earth food. Pasta with primavera sauce, good hearty minestrone, assorted cheeses, salad."

What's your favorite food?

"Veal and pasta."

Worst experience as a chef.

"We catered a party and served Chicken Parmesan. It was served in layers in a dish, people thought it was lasagna and took big pieces. They ran out and called for more."

Best experience as a chef

"Being in business for four years at DePalma's. People said we wouldn't make it because there's too much competition. We did."

Favorite herb or spice

Basil.

Name five things in your refrigerator at home.

"Provolone cheese, salami, prosciuto, fruits — oranges, pears and apples, rabini, it's a form of broccoli that tastes in between spinach and broccoli, asparagus, garlic."

Favorite piece of cookware at home, and at work.

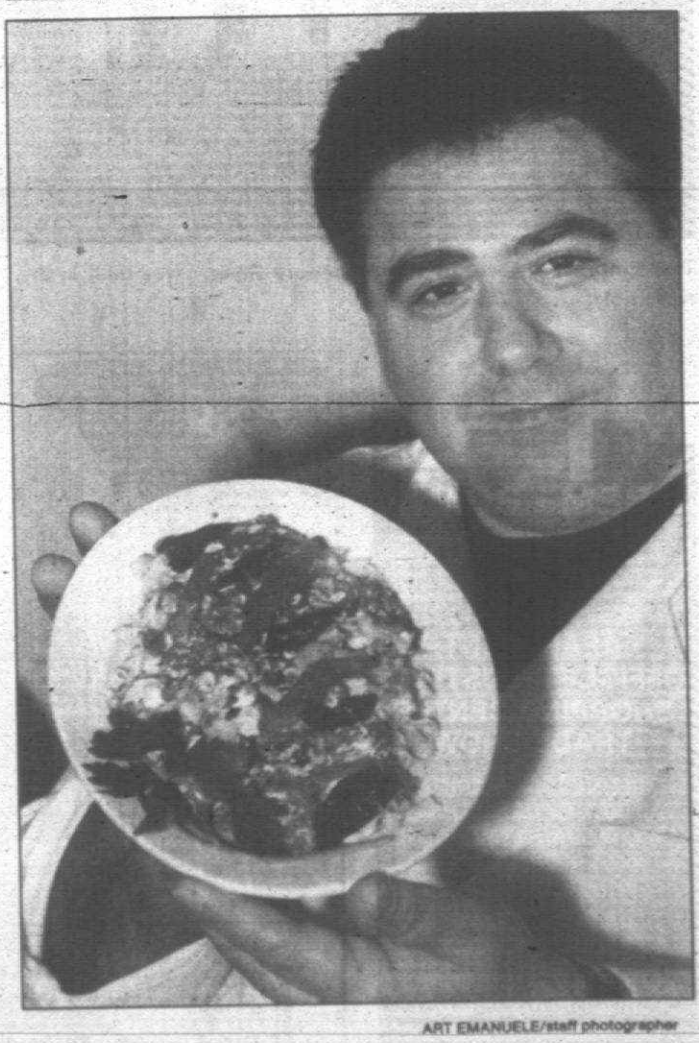

"Sautee pan."

If you could cook dinner for anyone, who would it be, what would you serve?

"Lee Iacocca. I would serve an appetizer of fried calamatti, Italian olives and cheeses, Italian egg drop soup, Pasta Campagnola, sauteed veal with a touch of garlic, sun dried tomatoes, prosciuto, black olives, cheese, wine sauce, bouquet of asparagus with red roasted pepper, special homemade torte for dessert."

Money saving tip

Buy a whole chicken, cut it up and freeze it for more than one dinner. Bake the chicken legs with potatoes, carrots, celery and onions for one dish, use the breast for another, save the bones to make a broth for soup.

Healthy meatloaf has Southwestern flavor

One first prize winner in the second annual Quaker Oats "It's the Right Thing to Do" Recipe Contest gave a healthy new twist to an American classic — meatloaf.

Ellen Burr from Truro, Mass., was determined to make a meatloaf that even her husband would enjoy when she created Zesty Zuni Turkey Loaf.

The Pueblo Indians were the inspiration for this good-for-you meatloaf. Burr starts with a mixture of ground turkey, picante sauce, corn and spicy seasonings, adding egg whites rather than whole eggs and oats instead of bread or cracker crumbs.

Whole grain oats stretch 1½ pounds of lean ground turkey to serve eight while adding fiber and contributing to the loaf's moist and tender mixture.

A no-cook yogurt sauce flavored with chilies and cilantro replaces the butter and flour-based sauce in Burr's original recipe while carrying out the Southwestern theme.

ZESTY ZUNI TURKEY LOAF
Loaf
1 cup Quaker oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1 cup picante sauce or salsa
2 egg whites, slightly beaten
1½ pounds ground turkey
1 seven-ounce can whole kernel corn, drained (about 1 cup)
½ teaspoon ground cumin
½ teaspoon ground coriander
½ teaspoon dried oregano leaves
½ teaspoon ground sage
½ teaspoon dried thyme leaves
½ teaspoon celery salt (optional)
2 tablespoons toasted sunflower seeds* (optional)
Sauce
1 8-ounce carton nonfat or low-fat plain
1 4-ounce can chopped green chilies, drained
¼ cup finely chopped cilantro
1 teaspoon lime juice

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Spray 8x4-inch loaf pan with no stick cooking spray or grease lightly. For loaf, combine oats, picante sauce, egg whites, turkey, corn and spices; mix lightly. Press into prepared pan. Sprinkle with sunflower seeds, pressing lightly. Bake 1 hour or until cooked through. Let stand 5 minutes before slicing. For sauce, combine yogurt, green chilies, cilantro and lime juice; mix well. Serve with turkey loaf. 8 servings.

*Or, substitute pepitas (shelled pumpkin seeds).

Smart shoppers clip coupons

en surveyed said they are now more careful when checking prices in the grocery store.

Since most families spend about a fifth of their disposable income on food, it pays to shop with a strategy.

"Don't shop when you're hungry or rushed," said Linda DeVore, registered dietitian at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. "You'll probably spend more."

Thieleke recommends planning meals a week in advance, making a list of the foods you need, taking an inventory of your pantry, checking newspapers and magazines for food specials, coupons and recipes, and comparing food prices at different markets. Shop where the values are better.

FILE YOUR coupons in an organizer, and keep it in your car for last-minute shopping tips.

At the store, do your shopping quickly; buy only what is on the list. Buy what you need and will eat without wasting food.

Learn to recognize a real bargain. Ask yourself — "Do you need it?" "Can you use it before spoilage occurs?" Words like "jumbo" and "economy" can be misleading. Sometimes buying three small packages instead of one large one can save you some money.

Home-cooked meals usually cost less than those that are ready to serve, but some convenience foods, such as cake and pudding mixes, save time and money.

Plan your storage, especially if you're buying large quanitities of meat," said DeVore.

It's tempting to stock up when chicken is on special, but "make sure you will repackage and freeze it in usable portions immediately. It's not a fun job, but important in decreasing bacteria growth and saving your investment."

The Redford Coupon Club meets 7 p.m. Monday, April 13 at Redford Union High School, 17711 Kinlock in room 104. Bring your coupons, for information, call, 538-0306.

Chef shares Pasta Campagnola recipe

PASTA CAMPAGNOLA
(presented by Chef Vito DePalma)
1 cup loosely packed roasted red bell peppers recipe below
½ cup part-skim ricotta cheese
2 cup extra virgin olive oil
2 tablespoons capers, drained
2 cloves chopped garlic
¼ teaspoon dried, crushed red pepper pinch salt
1½ pounds fettuccine or linguine

Coarsely chop peppers and blend all ingredients, except the pasta, to a thick consistency. Cook the pasta until al dente. Strain pasta, then toss mixture with pasta in a warm bowl until well covered. Garnish with finely chopped parsley or fresh basil.

ROASTING PEPPERS

Place peppers under a very hot broiler, turning every few minutes until entire surface is charred black. When cool enough to handle peel off black skin. Remove stems and seeds, then chop.

U.S. owned Banfi produces high-tech Italian wines

The corporate profile of Banfi is straightforward. Banfi entered the winemaking field in 1978 after achieving its mark as an importer.

Founded in 1919, the company introduced the American palate to many of Italy's classic wines and what now may be called the phenomenon of Riunite Lambrusco, which in its mid-1980s stride turned over more than 13 million cases annually.

While Riunite was capturing the palates of many as a young, fresh, fruity pour, Banfi's owners, Americans John and Harry Mariani, were making a huge investment in Tuscany's Montalcino region. They had a dual purpose: to expand their wine line with Banfi-produced world-class Italian wine and to impact the movement to modernize the Italian wine industry.

TODAY, WITHIN the shadow of the medieval fortress town of Montalcino, the Mariani brothers are harvesting rewards from their 7,100-acre Tuscan estate. A broad spectrum of Banfi wines are produced in one of the most modern wineries in the world. It's not just high-tech, it's super technology from computerized crushers to the latest refrigeration units.

focus on wine
Eleanor and Ray Heald

Crowning the estate is a restored medieval castle, now called Castello Banfi. Origins of the castle can be traced to the Longobards, a people of Viking descent who occupied the area in the 9th century.

Winemaking is in the able hands of Dr. Ezio Rivella, one of Europe's most-respected winemakers. "The Marianis gave me only one job," contends Rivella. "Their stipulation was to produce the best wines in the world and prove that the Italians can match the finest the world can offer." Rivella does admit to an occasional sleepless night!

BANFI'S MONTALCINO location puts it in the winemaking heart of Brunello di Montalcino, one of Italy's most-prestigious red wines. Only 10 percent of the estate acreage is devoted to brunello. "There's no chance that we'll flood the market," Rivella maintains. Knowing that this wine retails with a $38 ticket, you can better understand this statement.

Banfi owns another winemaking estate in Italy's Piedmont. Wine's produced there carry the Banfi Cellars label, while those produced in Montalcino are labeled Castello Banfi.

We recently tasted through the complete Banfi product line and found the following bottlings especially interesting. Like all things Italian, whether it's shoes, leather or wine, the price tag is steep, but the quality is impeccable.

1986 BANFI Brut ($22.50) is produced by the classic Champagne method from 55 percent pinot noir, 40 percent chardonnay and 5 percent pinot blanc. The latter grape varietal adds grapey notes and seems to hold the other two varietals together while contributing a charming bouquet with roundness and richness. It's fruity, dry and elegant.

Introduced to the U.S. in late 1991, Principessa Gavi Vigna Regale ($20) comes packaged in a very dark bottle to protect the delicate nature of this white wine from damaging ultraviolet light. This Piedmont white is produced 100 percent from the cortese grape in the Regale vineyard within Banfi's Principessa estate. With a slight spritz to heighten the lively fruit, the wine finishes crisp with a hint of oak.

The connoisseur wine, newly introduced by Castello Banfi, is the 1989 Collalito ($33.75). The interest in wines produced from 100 percent syrah has heightened worldwide. Banfi's is the first Italian syrah to enter the fray in the competitive U.S. market. If you're familiar with the red wines of the northern Rhone, made from 100 percent syrah, comparison with the intensely colored, deeply flavored, peppery, spicy Collalito is in order.

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

1989 Castello Banfi Centine Rosso di Montalcino ($10) was the value-oriented wine of the recent Banfi wine tasting. Brunello is Italy's most legendary wine, but for many the taste of a young brunello is far too massive with overpowering woody elements. It's also very expensive. A Rosso di Montalcino is produced from younger brunello vines. Banfi's sports intense berry fruit with chocolatey nuances. It's fruit intensive with just the right cedary oak complements. It's perfect served with steaks, roasts or any grilled meats. Cellaring the wine a few years will reap handsome taste rewards.

Kosher wines for Passover

Hagafen Cellars produces well-made kosher wines in California's Napa Valley in time for Passover this year (April 17-25). Hagafen has released a dry Red Table Wine. Available at $7.50 per bottle, it is flash pasteurized and designated mevushal.

Red Table Wine follows in the same tradition as the other Hagafen wines which are designated "kosher."

The 1991 Hagafen Pinot Noir Blanc ($8) is a flavorful, off-dry rose style wine, for those preferring a touch of sweetness.

All wines in the Hagafen portfolio (of which we only mentioned two) are certified kosher for Passover and the remainder of the year by Rabbi Dr. J.H. Ralbag of New York and bear the Triangle K symbol. They are available locally. If your wine shop does not currently carry Hagafen wines, they can be ordered by your wine merchant from the distributor Viviano Imports. Delivery can be made in a day or two.

Peachy ham slice perfect for Easter

AP — Would you like to serve ham for your Easter meal without the prospect of endless leftovers? Consider cooking a smaller cut. The speedy microwave recipe below uses a ham slice that will comfortably serve six adults. It's so fast that you can almost wait until dinnertime to cook it.

Still hankering for that huge holiday ham? Then tuck this recipe away. You can cut off a 1¼-inch-thick slice from your ham to make this recipe later.

PEACH-GLAZED HAM SLICE
One 8¾-ounce can peach slices, drained
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1½- to 2-pound fully cooked ham slice, boned and cut 1¼ inches thick

For glaze, in a blender container combine peach slices, honey, lemon juice and cinnamon. Cover and blend until smooth.

Place ham in a 10- by 6- by 2-inch microwave-safe baking dish. Cover with waxed paper. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 8 to 10 minutes or until heated through, turning ham over and brushing with glaze after 5 minutes.

Pour remaining glaze into a 2-cup glass measure. Cook, uncovered, on high for 1 to 2 minutes or until heated through, stirring once. To serve, spoon glaze over ham. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Low-wattage oven directions: For ham, cook for 14 to 16 minutes on high, turning and brushing with the glaze after 8 minutes.

Ground turkey dishes stretch food dollar

Last week, a major retailer offered ground turkey at incredible savings! Since ground turkey is rather tasteless by itself, I used the following recipes to make it more appealing — and the Janes Gang loved it!

See Tastebuds on Taste front.

HOMEMADE TURKEY SAUSAGE
1 pound ground turkey
1 egg
¾ teaspoon ground sage
½ teaspoon rosemary, crushed
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon marjoram, crushed
¾ teaspoon thyme, crushed
dash salt

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Shape into patties if desired and cook.

Chef's secret: for a spicy Italian sausage, mix ¾ teaspoon basil, ¾ teaspoon oregano and ¼ teaspoon red pepper flakes with a dash of salt and pepper.

APPLE SAUSAGE AND SWEET POTATO CASSEROLE
2 large sweet potatoes
½ pound seasoned bulk turkey sausage (see recipe above)
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (21 oz.) apple pie filling
¼ cup chopped nuts, optional

In a lightly greased eight inch square baking dish, slice sweet potatoes; arrange sausage over top. Sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Spread apple pie filling over all and sprinkle with nuts, if desired. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

- CHILI CASSEROLE
3 cups cooked rice
1 cup tomato sauce
1 onion, chopped fine
dash salt and pepper
2 teaspoons chili powder
¼ teaspoon ground cumin
2 cups cooked ground turkey (regular or seasoned)
1 cup meat broth or liquid bouillon
1 can refrigerated biscuit or breadstick dough

Combine rice, sauce, seasonings, onion, meat and broth. Pour into a well greased casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for about 30 minutes. Place biscuits or uncooked breadsticks on top of casserole. Return to the oven and bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes or until biscuits are done. Serves 6.

Versatile beef makes rush-hour dinners easy

Rush-hour dinners don't have to be a hassle if you cook once on the weekend and freeze the makings for several meals.

For just a couple of hours' time, you can serve great home cooked meals to your family — in a hurry during the week. How? With Triple Batch Beef — a versatile beef mixture that serves as the base for three different dishes.

WHEN YOU have spare time, make Triple Batch Beef and freeze it in portions for later. It's simple — pieces of beef chuck shoulder, arm or blade pot roast are cooked with garlic and onion until tender. It's super easy, too, because once the simmering starts, it cooks unwatched.

Freeze each portion in one-quart containers, leaving "headspace" in the containers to allow for expansion during freezing — about one inch should do it. Label each container with the contents and date. For fastest freezing, arrange containers in a single layer near freezer walls, leave space between containers for air to circulate. Once frozen, containers can be stacked.

Then, when time is at a premium, you have the basis for three scrumptious main dishes which can be prepared and served in under half and hour!

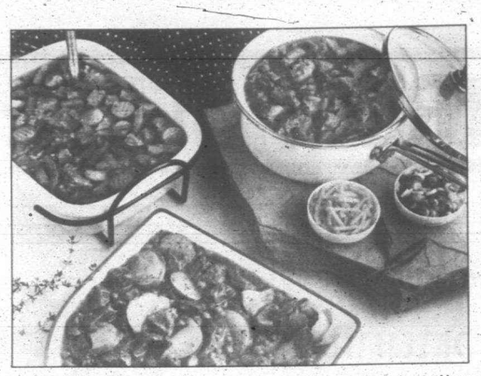

Simply pull out a container the night before, and place it in the refrigerator to thaw (or you can do it in the morning before work). When rush-hour strikes, you're ready to make a delicious soup, stew or chili with the addition of just a few other ingredients in less than 20 minutes.

FOR A new twist on an old favorite, Weeknight Beef Stew is fast and flavorful — just add sliced red potatoes, peas, oregano and lemon juice to the beef mixture. Or, for a winter warmer on a chilly night, Quick 'n Easy Beef Barley Soup fits the bill. The beef, barley, green bean and carrot soup tastes like it's been simmering for hours instead of just 15 minutes! And, by adding on-hand ingredients — chili powder, kidney beans and prepared salsa — to the beef mixture, you've got a hearty 20-Minute Beef Chili, just right for a Saturday night supper.

TRIPLE BATCH BEEF
Preparation time: 15 to 20 minutes
Cooking time: 2 hours to 2 hours, 20 minutes

4½-pound boneless beef chuck shoulder, arm or blade pot roast, cut into ¾-inch pieces
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 cloves garlic, crushed
2 medium onions, coarsely chopped
1½ cups water

Heat oil in Dutch oven over medium heat. Add beef pieces (¼ at a time); cook and stir until beef is browned. Remove beef from pan; season with salt and pepper. Set aside. Cook garlic and onion in same pan until onion is lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Return beef to pan; add water. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover tightly and simmer 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Skim off fat. Place about 2 cups beef mixture into each of three 1-quart freezer containers. Cover containers tightly and freeze. Use beef mixture in the following recipes. Yield 6 to 7 cups cooked beef.

Cook once for three meals. When you have Triple Batch Beef in the freezer, you have the makings for three different, delicious dishes when there's no time to cook.

WEEKNIGHT BEEF STEW
Preparation time: 5 minutes
Cooking time: 15 minutes

1 container (2 cups) Triple Batch Beef, defrosted
2 medium red potatoes, cut into ¼-inch thick slices
⅔ cup water
1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup frozen peas
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons cornstarch

Place beef pieces and cooking liquid, potatoes, water, oregano and salt in medium saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low to medium-low, cover tightly and simmer 10 to 12 minutes or until potatoes are tender; add peas. Meanwhile combine lemon juice and cornstarch; stir into beef mixture. Bring to a boil; cook and stir 1 minute. 4 Servings.

QUICK 'N EASY BEEF BARLEY SOUP
Preparation time: 5 minutes
Cooking time: 15 minutes

1 container (2 cups) Triple Batch Beef, defrosted
3 cups water
1 tablespoon instant beef bouillon granules
¼ cup quick cooking barley
1 cup each frozen cut green beans and sliced carrots

Place beef pieces and cooking liquid, water, bouillon granules and thyme in large saucepan. Bring to a boil; add barley, green beans and carrots, stirring to combine. Return to a boil; reduce heat to low to medium-low, cover and simmer 12 minutes or until barley is tender. 4 Servings.

'Top 10 Almanac' has fun food facts tidbits

Keely Wygonik

Is it spring yet? I keep waiting for the weather to warm up. If flowering crocuses, aspargus for 99 cents a pound, and rhubarb in the produce sections of most grocery stores are any indication, warm weather can't be far away.

Speaking of rhubarb, on May 11 we'll be featuring this vegetable, first cultivated in China for its purgative medical rootstalk. Called a nuisance by some gardeners and a delicacy by cooks, is it any wonder that rhubarb is also a slang term for a heated argument? If you have a rhubarb patch, or know someone who does, like to eat rhubarb, or want to share a recipe, call me at 953-2105.

TRIVIA BUFFS, and list makers will love "The Top 10 Almanac" by David Kaestle, published in March by Workman Publishing, New York, New York ($5.95). With over 140 lists in two dozen categories, the almanac is a compendium of contemporary American life.

The categories are music, movies, television, books, magazines, papers/comics, radio, theater, home video, sports, gaming, business, advertising, technology, attractions, shows, kids' entertainment, consumer products, eating and drinking, crime, travel, college, politics, earthwatch and opinion.

Surprise your family and friends. Here are some fun facts for foodies — Of the best selling grocery store items, only two were real food: Kraft cheese and Campbell's soup. Marlboro cigarettes reprised as the number-one grocery store seller. Almost 3,000 new condiment products were introduced to food store shelves in 1991.

The most popular speciality drink last year? The Seabreeze. Mix equal parts vodka, grapefruit juice, and cranberry juice. Serve over ice in a tall glass.

Hamburger restaurants were the leading eating-out places in the country, and McDonald's ranked number one, outselling its closest competitor, Burger King, by nearly 3 to 1.

PAM SHORTER of Livonia sent this recipe for Strawberry Cake. "I made this recipe last year for Father's Day and everyone liked it," said Shorter. "The recipe came from a cookbook I got in Floria, Hillsborough County Extension Homemakers.'"

STRAWBERRY CAKE

1 package white cake mix
3 eggs
3 tablespoons flour
¾ cup oil
½ cup water
1 box (3 oz.) strawberry gelatin dessert
1½ cups strawberries chopped

TOPPING

1½ cups strawberries, chopped
1 container Cool Whip (9 oz.) size

Mix cake mix, eggs, flour, oil, water, gelatin, and strawberries together. Pour into greased and floured 9-by-13-inch pan. Bake at 350 F. for 30 to 35 minutes. Let cool before icing.

Mix chopped berries and Cool Whip and spread over cake. Keep refrigerated.

Betty Crocker tip of the week: Kids need more than three meals to keep their bodies growing strong and healthy. Encourage snacks that pack in nutrition, as well as good flavor. Include milk, hot chocolate, fruit-flavored yogurt, whole grain bagels or English muffins made into mini-pizzas, small boxes of raisins and string cheese in their diets.

A 'golden' opportunity that's not for my butt

By Lynn Waldsmith
special writer

I'd better get to work on that screenplay. Not only because it holds the promise of fame, fortune and freedom from the grind of a daily job, but it's probably the only way I'll ever get to see the Oscars.

Oh, sure I watched them on TV last week as did millions of viewers across the globe. But just once in my life, I'd like to be at the Dorothy Chandler Pavillion in Los Angeles on Hollywood's most glamorous night of the year, rubbing elbows with the creme de la creme.

I thought I had my wish this year.

You see, the people who produce the Academy Awards show — ABC Television — hire everyday people like you and me to be "seat fillers." It may not be a glamorous title, but a seat filler's responsibility is to fill the seat of an Oscar winner when he or she walks up to the stage and makes an acceptance speech.

The idea is to create the appearance of a capacity-filled auditorium when dozens of stars have vacated their seats to accept awards or pose for photographs backstage. When the award winner returns to his or her seat, the seat filler moves on to the next empty seat.

Having learned of this a month before the Oscars and figuring my seat could fill a seat as well as anyone else's, I jumped at the opportunity. First, I called the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences.

"I'D LIKE to apply for the seat filler position," I said. OK, so it didn't sound very glamorous, but when you're talking admission to the Academy Awards, you tend to forget your pride.

The Academy transferred me to ABC who transferred me to the Academy's Board of Governors (whatever that is). The person there told me that only ABC employees are eligible to be seat fillers "for security purposes." Then again, he said, he really wasn't sure. Call ABC.

After several more calls, I eventually was in touch with ABC's Office of Guest Services. Yes, they said, seat filler applications will be accepted on a first come-first served basis and, no, you don't have to be an ABC employee. BUT ABC employees get preference.

Desperate for some leverage, I explained that I was a reporter. Do members of the media get preferential consideration too? The voice on the other end of the line sounded suspicious. The Academy frowns on media coverage of seat filling activity, he explained.

"What kind of reporter are you? Broadcast or print?"

"Print."

"Oh, that's fine. Nobody reads anymore."

He went on to explain that applications would be accepted over the phone on a specific date. Only on that date, he emphasized, and absolutely no letters, faxes or in-person requests would be accepted.

I CALLED on the designated day at the designated time. Not suprisingly an obnoxious busy signal reverberated in my ear. Though I knew it was hopeless, I kept trying once every 20 minutes. About five hours later, the call actually went through.

"I'm calling about the seat filler position," I said. A very bored-sounding person asked for name, address and telephone number. The Academy looks for people who are "willing to work hard and follow instructions closely," he said.

Was he kidding? What could be so hard about sitting down? If you are chosen for a seat filler position, he continued, you would attend the event at your own expense, and you must wear attire appropriate for a black tie function. Yeah, yeah.

Another thing. Seat fillers must show up at 11:30 a.m. on the day of the Academy Awards, even though the show doesn't begin until 6 p.m. Pacific time. I guess they figured that after standing around for six hours you'll be plenty anxious to run to the nearest empty seat.

So when do I find out if I'm a seat filler? In about a week, he said. How many volunteers do you need? About 100. How many people have called? Hundreds. Oh.

So much for my short-lived hope to mingle with the papparazi. But a girl can dream, can't she? Even though this year's Oscar night has passed, I keep having this re-occuring dream . . .

A GQ-ish looking guy with a clipboard gives me the nod. My first seat-filler assignment. Am I really prepared for the tremendous responsibility? These shoes are killing me. I walk briskly (trying to mask my star-struck expression with what I hope passes for a suave look of sophistication) to an empty seat in the eighth row.

Tripping over a few feet along the way, head down, mumbling "excuse me" to the knees of royalty, I finally stumble into a vacant seat. There. Mission accomplished. Glad to know I've done my part to save ABC from the embarrassment of an empty seat by embarrassing myself.

Oh my God, I don't believe it! On my right is Jodie Foster. "Jodie," I whisper, "I'm a big fan of yours. You were brilliant in 'Silence of the Lambs,' though I must say I liked you better as a blonde. You're a shoo-in for best actress."

Jodie politely smiles and turns away, so I turn to see who's sitting on left. Yulp. It's her co-star from "Silence of the Lambs," Hannibal the Cannibal, I mean, Anthony Hopkins. I know he was only acting, but the man gives me the creeps. I smile at him nervously. He licks his lips.

Members of Live include bassist Patrick Dahlheimer, lead vocalist Ed Kowalczy, drummer Chad Gracey and guitarist Chad Taylor.

Live gets serious in songs

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

When even U2 has turned down the notch on the dour face meter, Live's penchant for seriousness could only be attributed to youthful naivete or a poorly caculated career move.

Give them time.

"A lot of people say that," said bassist Patrick Dahlheimer, whose band performs Sunday at the State Theatre. "At this point that's the way it is. Maybe I'll look back a year from now and things will be different."

At least the intensity is harnessed in an indeliable form on the Pennsylvania quartet's spirited, uncompromising debut release on Radioactive "Mental Jewelry." Lead vocalist Ed Kowalczyk sings with an emotionally drenched fervor, reflecting a sense of urgency throughout the 12-song effort.

Reoccuring images of pain and angst are a common thread lyrically, which seemingly belies Live's age and experience (the oldest member is 21).

Unlike similar outfits — The Alarm for example — who sustain themselves on emotion as much as musical substance, Live contends it's not under the mistaken belief that music can render change in a complex world.

Rather, the band addresses all the pangs of anxiety and the dire necessity of succeeding associated with constantly re-examining the unalterable state we find ourselves in. At this point, the psychic fallout from that is more appealing to Live than how to conquer the feelings of uncertainty.

SINGS KOWALCZYK in the opening number "Operation Spirit" with undaunted fury: "Heard a lot of talk about my spirit/Heard a lot of talk about my soul/But I decided that anxiety and pain were better friends so I let go."

While it is admirable for a band to explore such personal feelings at such a tender age, it still begs the question: Is anyone interested?

College/alternative music appears cloistered in an array of cold-techno heartbeats and frivolous flutters of pop at the moment. Which in itself seems to be a reaction to the constant serious expression purported by U2, Simple Minds and Tears for Fears during the '80s.

"There's plenty of that stuff (care free music) to listen to. There's enough of that," Dahlheimer said. "I don't have a problem with people doing jovial, frivolous stuff."

Live may very well be a reaction to the reaction. Undoubtedly, the consciousness of U2 and alike outfits played somewhat a role in the band's upbringing.

Drummer Chad Gracey, guitarist Chad Taylor, Kowalczyk and Dahlheimer started playing covers of the aforementioned acts in the early '80s, winning a talent competition in middle school.

BUT IT was the breadth of their own songs that later attracted Radioactive Records president Gary Kurfirst to sign Live and send them to producer and Talking Heads alum Jerry Harrison.

Harrison produced "Mental Jewelry," capturing all the energy and emotion but also reflecting the diverse elements from atmospheric funk to torchy folk in the band's rock driven sound.

"There's a lot of different things going on there," Dahlheimer said.

Not unlike the present, which has Live touring with Public Image Limited, Big Audio Dynamite II and Blind Melon in a 25-city, cross-continent tour sponsored by MTV "120 Minutes" and Hyundai.

Dahlheimer said there was a bit of awe at first performing with the likes of former Sex Pistols' member and PiL leader Johnny Lydon and Clash alum and BAD founder Mick Jones — perhaps two of the most influential people for an earlier generation of music. Now performing on the same bill with them is just an everyday thing.

In a way, the lineup might reveal some of the old masters giving way to the new. Dahlheimer chews on the notion for awhile.

"It could be," he said. "Who knows?"

Live performs along with Public Image Limited, Big Audio Dynamite II and Blind Melon on Sunday, April 12, at the State Theatre in Detroit. Tickets are $20. For information, call 961-MELT.

Awards to recognize Motown's musicians

The impetus for the Motor City Music Awards is a noble one. Undoubtedly, though, it's the glitz of such an event that always garners the most attention.

Glamour as well as recognition will be featured as members of the Detroit music community congregate for the inaugural awards presentation 7:30 p.m. Sunday, April 12, at Music Hall in Detroit.

The ceremony is designed to reward the accomplishments of today's up-and-coming artists while honoring those who were instrumental in establishing Detroit's rich musical tradition.

Motown great Smokey Robinson and comedian Mike Ridley will co-host the extravaganza. Robinson, along with Howard Armstrong and noted CKLW music director-Rosalie Trombley, will also receive a Lifetime Achievement Award.

Noted presenters scheduled to appear include Bob Seger and members of the Silver Bullet Band, Alice Cooper and Was (Not Was).

Those aforementioned celebrities will help present awards in rock/pop, blues, country, R&B, rap, classical and gospel categories, which are voted on by nearly 2,000 industry professionals. Six awards will be decided by public ballot.

THE MOTOR CITY Music Awards is the culmination of four years of planning. The annual event is organized by the Motor City Music Awards Foundation, which is made up of a cross-section of those involved extensively in the music community — promotors, radio personnel, record company executives and journalists.

"In any event, organizing the first one is a little difficult," said Michael Watts, executive director of the Motor City Music Awards Foundation. "But we've generated a lot of good will and community. That's our goal — to create a sense of community . . . "

All proceeds from admission costs (tickets starting at $25) will benefit music related causes in the Detroit area. The primary beneficiary from this year's event is Music Hall, which is undergoing major renovation. Money raised will be matched by a Challenge Grant from the Kresge Foundation.

An awards ceremony of such prominence is overdue considering Detroit's storied musical past with "Black Bottom" blues clubs, Motown, MC5, Iggy Pop, Cooper, Seger and Was (Not Was). Music communities such as New York, Toronto, Minneapolis and Boston already have similar music awards ceremonies.

Watts, who runs Plymouth-based Watts-UP, is certainly more than familiar with such grand-scale musical events. He's coordinated the annual Detroit Blues Festival, the Downtown Hoedown country fest and was involved in promoting concerts at Chene Park for four years.

ONE OF his goals is to make the Motor City Music Awards a weekend-long event. Area musicians are scheduled to perform the National Anthem before Detroit Tigers and Piston games that weekend.

Also, there is a jointly sponsored record and recording seminar presented by American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers (ASCAP) and National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences (NARAS) 1:30-3:30 p.m. Sunday, April 12, in The Radisson Pontchartrain Hotel's Versailles Room. Admission for the seminar is $10 at the door ($8 in advance) with all proceeds benefiting the foundation's projects.

As with the recently successful Rob Tyner benefit, the Motor City Music Awards marks another joint effort by a music community that has been normally fragmented through competitiveness.

"Because of the nature of the board, we were able to cut through that," Watts said. "The competition between the newspapers and the radio stations is a fact of everyday life. We said you have to put that aside for a cause that benefits the community as a whole."

The first-ever Motor City Music Awards take place 7:30 p.m. Sunday, April 12, at Music Hall. Tickets start at $25. For information, call 932-2510.

'Straight Talk' falls flat even with Dolly Parton

tickets please

John Monaghan

According to "Straight Talk," what the world needs now is a heapin' helpin' of good down-home common sense. And Dolly Parton, as radio talk show host Dr. Shirley, is just the gal to dish it out.

There's Dr. Shirley on trust: "If a guy wrecks his car every six months, you start to wonder about his drivin'."

On compatibility in marriage: "A fish and a bird may love each other, but where are they gonna live?"

On self-esteem: "Sometimes you just have to go out and blow your own horn."

Most of these golden apples of wisdom came from Shirley's daddy back in Arkansas. She left her small town of broken dreams and divorce to try her luck in Chicago.

On her first day behind the reception desk of a talk radio station, Shirley takes a wrong turn into a studio. The producer thinks she's a new host and puts her on the air. Of course, the Windy City loves her and within a week she's broadcasting nationally.

James Woods plays an investigative reporter for the Chicago Sun Times assigned to uncover her story. He falls in love with her instead.

SOUND FAMILIAR? It should, since the Cinderella story — and the message behind it — has been rehashed so many times in much better packages.

Dolly Parton

Yet for some audiences, "Straight Talk" really does work. Folks still love a story of dreams fulfilled in this land of opportunity, especially during tough economic times. The movie should have a "Made in America" sticker emblazoned on it.

It's just too bad that the humor doesn't develop much beyond an episode of "Hee Haw." Dolly gets one of her biggest laughs from an old saw about being "busier than a one-legged man in a butt-kicking contest."

James Woods, one of the grittiest character actors of the past decade, falls into more and more thankless roles each year. You can see him cringe while delivering his own dopey lines. My record for a relationship lasted 17 weeks, about the time it takes to grow a good lawn.

SCREEN SCENE

DETROIT FILM SOCIETY, Detroit Public Library, 5201 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call 833-4048 for information. ($4 individual admission; $25 series membership)

Double feature — "Johnny Belinda" (USA — 1948) and "Love Me Tonight" (USA — 1932), starting at 7 p.m. April 10-11. In "Johnny," Jane Wyman's portrayal of a deaf-mute girl clinched her an Oscar. "Love Me Tonight" is an inventive musical comedy featuring Maurice Chevalier as a poor Parisian with a song in his heart in love with both Jeanette McDonald and Myrna Loy. The lilting Rodgers and Hart score includes "Isn't It Romantic."

DETROIT FILM THEATRE, Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call 832-2730 for information. ($5)

"Raise the Red Lantern" (China — 1991), 7 and 9:30 p.m. April 10-11 and 4 and 7 p.m. April 12. In this Oscar-nominated film from the director of "Ju Dou," a woman becomes the fourth wife of a Chinese feudal master. When she becomes his favorite, she learns the meaning of emotional manipulation.

HENRY FORD CENTENNIAL LIBRARY, 16301 Michigan Ave., Dearborn. Call 943-2037 for information. (Free)

"It Came from Outer Space" (USA — 1953), 7 p.m. April 6. The '50s science fiction classic shown in 3-D. The Ray Bradbury adaptation has aliens crash-landing on earth and taking on the appearance of humans while making repairs on their ship. Special 3-D glasses will be provided.

MAGIC BAG THEATRE CAFE, 22918 Woodward Ave., Ferndale. Call 544-3030 for information. ($4; $3 students and senior citizens)

"Grottesco Shorts — The Movie" (USA — 1992), 8 p.m. April 6. Detroit's own Theatre Grottesco captured on film. Included are sketches from their original stage play "Grottesco Shorts," best described as a live-action cartoon. ($10 donation this film only.)

"Hear My Song" (Ireland — 1991), 8 p.m. April 7-8. In the spirit of "Local Hero," this sleeper hit from Ireland finds a London concert promoter trying to lure a famous Irish tenor and tax evader (Ned Beatty) back on the stage.

"Jimi Hendrix" (USA — 1973), 8 and 10:30 p.m. April 10-11. This rarely seen documentary about the life of the sainted guitar master includes concert footage and interviews with the people who knew and worked with him.

MAPLE THEATRE, 4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. Call 855-9090 for information. ($6; $3.75 twilight show)

"The Double Life of Veronique" (Poland — 1991). In this acclaimed new Polish film, two women are born on the same day, though in two different countries. Though they live worlds apart, they are identical in looks and talents, and share a unique bond, each without knowing the other.

STATE WAYNE THEATER, 35310 Michigan Ave. West, Wayne. Call 326-4600 for information. ($2; $1 children and senior citizens)

"Bonnie and Clyde" (USA — 1967), April 8-12 (call for show times). Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway play the Depression-era bandits in the classic gangster film from Arthur Penn.

"All About Eve" (USA — 1950), April 8-12 (call for show times). Bette Davis plays a popular theater star who finds herself being edged out of the limelight by an ambitious young actress (Anne Baxter).

Somebody up on stage is droning on and on. "I'd like to thank the Academy . . ." Loook, over there. Oliver Stone. Straining forward to be sure it's him. I tap the man in front of me lightly on the shoulder. "Mr. Stone, I was wondering if we could talk later. You see, I'm working on this screenplay."

Just then the person whose seat I've been keeping warm taps me on the shoulder. Time's up. Fortunately, my exit is a bit more graceful, and I make my way up the aisle to an empty seat in the 26th row.

This time I'm situated next to Susan Sarandon. "Susan," I whisper, "I'm a big fan of yours. You were brilliant in 'Thelma and Louise.' You're a shoo-in for best actress."

She thanks me and smiles. Then Barbra Streisand, who just happens to be sitting on the other side of me interrupts. "No offense, Susan, but you don't stand a chance. 'Thelma and Louise' is a woman's picture. Don't you know that Hollywood hates women? After all, my movie, 'The Prince of Tides,' was nominated for best picture, but I wasn't nominated for best director."

This mega-star turns to me with a pained expression. "Why do they hate me?"

I don't know what to say. What comes out of my mouth is, "You know, Ms. Streisland, I don't hate you. In fact, I'm a big fan of yours. But I've always wondered why is your name pronounced Barbra? I mean, why not Barbra?"

My last seat filling assignment takes me to row 14, where I wave to people like Jane Fonda, Warren Beatty, Bobby DeNiro (they call him Bobby in Tinsel Town), Dustin Hoffman, Cher, Meryl Streep and Jack Nicholson. Some of them merely give me a blank stare. Others smile and wave back, probably figuring they're supposed to know me.

We watch yet another musical number, followed by a tedious presentation of a lifetime achievement award. But when the representative from the accounting firms starts explaining the rules of voting, I'm simply done in by the day's exhaustive pace. As I nod off to sleep, my head finds a comfortable resting spot on the shoulder next to me. Suddenly, this person's elbow is jabbing me awake.

It's Liz Taylor. She glares at me. "You'll never sit in this town again!"

Guess I wasn't cut for the rigors of seat filling. But isn't that what seat filling is all about? Sitting? If I ever get to go to the Academy Awards, I want to do just that. Not play a game of musical chairs and humiliate myself among the beautiful people.

So, like I said, I'd better get to work on that screenplay . . . As for next year's Oscar night, I'll be content to curl up on couch, munch popcorn and stay glued to the TV.

Derrick McDonald of Canton earned a place on the All-Observer, first-team basketball squad for the second straight year. The senior guard helped the Chiefs achieve an 18-5 season.

THE NCAA has its Final Four, but the Observer Newspapers goes three better with its Final Seven, honoring the area's best boys basketball players.

The first-team is a mix of centers, guards and forwards, led by Redford Catholic Central's dynamic duo of Chad Varga and Bob Kummer, the latter of whom is making his second straight appearance on the first team.

The pair led the 19-5 Shamrocks to a share of the Central Division title and a Class A District crown before being ousted by Detroit Cooley in the Southfield regional final, 39-35.

Plymouth Canton, which finished unbeaten in 11 Western Lakes Activities Association regular season games, a Western Division title and 18-5 overall, also placed two players on the first-team, including Derrick McDonald, another repeat first-team choice. Canton also placed Hal Heard.

Rounding out the squad is Bill Malecki, who led Redford Union to a share of the Northwest Suburban League crown; Livonia Franklin's Keith Roberts and Wayne Memorial's Rick Barnes.

COACH OF THE YEAR honors go to Wayne Memorial's Chuck Henry, who led the Zebras to a 19-3 overall record; including a perfect 14-0 mark in the Wolverine A League. Wayne also captured the Class A district crown at Garden City.M

Henry has an impressive 158-44 record at Wayne to go along with six league championships and four district titles in nine years.

His career varsity mark is 235-98 in 15 seasons, which also includes stints at Dearborn Divine Child and Walled Lake Western.

"It was a good year for us winning the league (Wolverine A) and district," said Henry, whose team was eliminated by Detroit Public School League champion Cooley in the regional semifinals, 65-52. "We generally know we're going to face a PSL team in the regional, but I was not dissatisfied with our effort against Cooley. We played them tough. We were only down two at the half.

"It was a good year."

Introducing the 1991-92 All-Area basketball squad chosen by the Observer sports staff:

FIRST TEAM

Chad Varga, senior, Redford CC: The 6-foot-5½ center had a monster year, averaging 24.1 points, 10.5 rebounds and three blocks per game.

By scoring a total of 581 points, Varga broke the CC single-season scoring mark of 569 held by Mike Prince (1977).

Varga tallied a career-high 44 points against Redford Bishop Borgess and added 42 against Detroit Redford in the state tournament. He also had 36 in a regional semifinal win over 1990-91 defending state champ Detroit Southwestern.

Signed by the University of Richmond, Varga made rapid improvement only only 1½ seasons with Catholic Central after transferring from Dearborn Heights Fairlane Christian.

"He really elevated his game," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said. "Chad was an excellent leader for us. He was great in the weight room. Even during the season he was just outstanding.

"He has a good touch and can shoot the 17-footer. He's an electrifying player who makes big-time plays."

Varga, a Class A first-team All-Stater, will play in the annual Michigan-Ohio All-Star Game.

Bob Kummer, senior, Redford CC: The 6-6½ Kummer played a variety of roles for the Shamrocks, including a stint at point-guard.

Chiefs have talent to win WLAA again

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Nobody will be too surprised if Plymouth Canton should win another Western Lakes Activities Association championship in girls track later this spring.

The Chiefs, who won their second WLAA title in four years by a 56-point margin over Livonia Stevenson, remain an extremely talented team since many of their top athletes return, including three league champions.

"I think we're serious contenders for the WLAA championship again," Canton coach George Przygodski said, adding the first goal is always to win the WLAA Western Division title. The Chiefs have the last seven years, compiling a 34-0-1 record in division duals.

"We have as much talent as any group we've had, and we've had some pretty good ones. It's a matter of filling in a few pieces of the puzzle, staying healthy and getting lucky. There are a lot of other good teams in the WLAA. We're looking forward to getting started and seeing what happens."

The Chiefs, who had their first dual meet postponed Thursday because of cold weather, don't have a weak event. They have at least one and usually more accomplished athletes in each.

ATTEMPTING TO defend their WLAA titles next month will be junior Stephanie Gray in the high jump, junior Heather Pastor, long jump; and senior Kim Gudeth, 800-meter run.

Canton will miss graduated stars Aleah Collier, the WLAA champ in the shot put, and Ifeoma Okwumabua, the school record holder in the discus, most in the throwing events, though they also contributed to the sprint relays.

The Chiefs do return junior Selena Bastine, who threw the discus 104 feet last year and the shot 31-7 in a scrimmage this year. Senior Dawn Kersten and Gray lend support in those events.

Gray jumped 5 feet to win the high jump at the WLAA meet and had a season best of 5-3, good for second place in Observerland.

girls track

The high jump is one of Canton's strongest events with junior Amy Lanzon, the WLAA runner-up (4-10), and sophomore Ndu Okwumabua, who had the third-best jump (5-2) in the area.

The long jump is another solid event, according to Przygodski. Pastor's best jump was 16-1¼. Junior Kathy Koshizawa and sophomore Stephanie Stonestreet provide depth.

The middle and distance events are always a Canton strength, and this year will be no different with many key people returning.

GUDETH RAN 2:23.3 to win the 800 at the WLAA meet, a time that placed her second among area half-milers. Sophomore Jennifer Warnke does an outstanding job in that event, too, according to Przygodski.

The Chiefs have one of Observerland's top distance runners in sophomore Lana Boroditsch, an all-area cross country performer who was third in the 1,600 run at the WLAA championships. Her time of 5:26.9 was third best among area runners, and she also had a season best of 12:27.6 in the 3,200.

Junior Kelly Reeber returns and freshmen Laura McWilliams, Kathleen Landelius and Debbie Marulis gained experience on the cross country team last fall. Freshman Jennifer Barnes and sophomore Janie DeCourcy will help in the distance events, too.

"I think we have a good solid base and are going to do OK there," Przygodski said, adding the sprints will be a definite Canton strong suit.

Ndu Okwumabua "can run anything" and was third in the 100 and fifth in the 200 at the WLAA meet. Her best times of 12.8 and 27.1 were among the best in the area.

Seniors Alicia King and Michelle Dean, sophomores Shawn Champlin and Alison Haremski and freshmen Olive Ikeh and Becky Bockstanz are expected to help in the sprints, also.

Junior Christie Saffron is Canton's top quarter miler, finishing second in the WLAA with a 1:03.4 time. Freshman Meagan Baressi has the potential to do well in the 400.

THE CHIEFS have two of Observerland's top hurdlers in juniors Angela Fountain and Karina Kilpelainen. Junior Erin Olenech is another experienced hurdler.

At the WLAA meet, Kilpelainen was second in the 300 hurdles and fifth in the 100, Fountain fifth and fourth, respectively. Fountain's best times were 16.0 and 49.7, Kilpelainen's 16.1 and 48.4.

"With the hurdlers and returning sprinters, we're going to be able to run some quality relays," Przygodski said. "I think our sprint relays are going to be very good — perhaps the best we've ever been able to put together."

Salem alumnus assumes command of champions

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Geoff Baker's challenge in his first year as Plymouth Salem boys track coach is to keep the Rocks on top of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Baker, a 1982 graduate of Salem and longtime assistant, takes over for former coach Gary Balconi, who guided the Rocks to the WLAA title in his 17th season.

Balconi, under whom the Rocks were 9-0 in dual meets and 5-0 in the Lakes Division last year, became the Salem athletic manager last fall and had to give up his coaching duties.

"We'll still have the Balconi way," Baker said, referring to Balconi's positive, graduated approach.

"After you've been a student of his for nine years, you don't change anything. We're just lacking his leadership out there, and it's time for me to take over."

SALEM NOT only will be without Balconi but also 13 quality runners who helped make last season one of the best in school history.

boys track

Canton track, Page 3C

But the Rocks have plenty of talented athletes returning and should field another fine team despite the 86-51 defeat Salem was dealt by Livonia Churchill in its first dual meet Thursday.

"When you're on top, people want to knock you down," Baker said. "It happened today. But we're going to do some knocking back by the middle of the season."

Senior Leon Hister and junior Don Johnson are two of Salem's top returnees and will have a lot to do with any success the Rocks have this year.

Hister is the defending WLAA champ in the long jump and will help in the sprint relays. He won the league title with a 21-2¼ jump and had a season best of 21-3½.

Johnson is one of Observerland's best hurdlers and will make up for the loss of Jim Ramsay to graduation. He can be called upon to help in the sprints and long jump, too.

The latter will be one of Salem's strongest events with those two. Johnson jumped 20-4 last week, and senior Justin Fisher has jumped 19-9½.

ROB CASLER, the top thrower last season, is gone from the weight events, but first-year senior Bob Smith shows potential and the Rocks also have seniors Dan Kaczmarek and Dan Stevenson, sophomore Jeff Schumacher and freshman Rockland Johnson.

"We should be competitive, but we won't be a powerhouse," Baker said. "Along with everything else, we need warm weather to go outside and work the circle and hit the pad hard."

● SOCCER CHAMPS

The Vardar '78 III boys soccer team, led by MVP goalkeeper Todd Smith of Livonia, recently captured the Under-14 National Indoor title, March 27-29 in Atlanta, Ga.

Neil Williams (Brighton) of Vardar also earned MVP field player honors.

Other members of Vardar, coached by Morris Lupenec, include: Scott Sersen, Jeff Tomlinson and Steve Williford, all of Livonia; Robert Vega, Westland; John Schack, Farmington Hills; Jeremy Stillings and Todd Stonestreet, Canton; Chris Charboneau and Craig Przygoda, Troy; Andre Ware, Southfield; Tim Castillo, Sterling Heights; Ty Fowler, Northville; Marko Jovanovic, Mount Clemens; Tony Moucoulis, Belleville; Sammy Piraine, Dearborn Heights; Ryan Wells, Ann Arbor.

● PRO CHALLENGE

A rare opportunity to see the Detroit Lions battle the University of Michigan Wolverines is set for 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 10, at Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor.

The Pro Challenge competition will match members of the Lions team against U-M athletes in seven events — volleyball, relay races, three-point basketball shooting, sit-ups, 3-on-3 touch football, 5-on-5 basketball and a slam dunk contest.

Lions players participating will be Jerry Ball, Lomas Brown, Barry Sanders, Willie Green and William White, as well as former Lion Carl Bland. The U-M team will include Elvis Grbac, Ricky Powers and Chris Webber.

Admission is $2 with proceeds going to Athletes in Action, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Pro Challenge.

● TENNIS LESSONS

Tennis lessons are being offered through Canton Parks and Recreation Services for six weeks from April 27 to June 5. The fee is $27 for Canton residents, $32 for non-residents.

People of all ability levels can sign up. Age groups are youth (7-12), juniors (13-17) and adults (18 and older). Certified professional Kristen Harrison will be the instructor. Call 397-5110 for information.

● GOLF LEAGUES

● Women who would like to play nine holes of early-morning golf without rigid league rules are invited to join the Thursday Group. An informational meeting is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Thursday, April 23, at Hilltop Golf Course. Play begins April 30. For information call 451-0575 or 455-9496.

● Senior citizens can play in a golf league Tuesday mornings, beginning May 5 at Fellows Creek Golf Course and continuing through Sept. 1. The fee is $12 plus weekly greens fees.

The league is open to any area golfer age 50 and older. An informational meeting is schedule for 10 a.m. Tuesday, April 28, in the first-floor meeting room of the Township Administration Building. For information call Canton Parks and Recreation Services at 397-5110.

● A women's Friday morning golf league will begin play May 1 and continue for 16 weeks at Fellows Creek Golf Course. Tee time is 9 a.m. until mid June when it switches to 8 a.m.

The fee is $12 plus weekly greens fees. There is no residency requirement. League members play nine holes each week and establish a handicap. Call Canton Parks and Recreation Services (397-5110) for information.

● SOFTBALL NEWS

● Canton Softball Center is accepting league registration for its 18-game spring season, which begins Tuesday, April 14. The team fee is $295. Men, women and coed teams are welcome. For information call 483-5600, Ext. 102.

● Canton Softball Center is accepting limited entries for its Early Bird Tournament to be played April 12-14. Four games are guaranteed. Men, women and coed openings are available. The entry fee is $95 plus a $7 umpire fee. Call 483-5600, Ext. 102.

● BASEBALL SCHOOL

The South Farmington Baseball League is sponsoring the Bernie Carbo Baseball School, 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 25-26, at Drake Field.

The cost is $55 per person.

Carbo is a Livonia Franklin High product and 11-year major leaguer who won National League Rookie of the Year honors in 1970. He also played in two World Series.

For more information, call Gordie Rutherford at 421-4928.

Area hoop stars honored

Bound for UNC-Charlotte, Kummer averaged 20.1 points, eight rebounds and four assists per game.

Kummer once had five dunks in a game. He also tallied a season-high 36 points against Orchard Lake St. Mary.

"He has a lot of college potential because he's so mobile," Holowicki said. "When he gets into a game, he gets demonstrative, and can make an electrifying block or dunk.

"He's very aggressive and has a good first step. Bob's a mean rebounder, too. He's an excellent leader on the floor and worked hard in weight room."

Kummer, who received Class A All-State recognition, is also a standout on the Catholic Central baseball team as a pitcher and designated hitter.

He is also an honor student, carrying a 3.5 grade-point average.

Hal Heard, senior, Ply. Canton: Virtually came out of nowhere after limited playing time as a junior.

The 6-5 forward averaged 16.7 points (shooting 57 percent from the floor) and 10.6 rebounds per game en route to All-Western Lakes Activities Association honors.

Heard was Canton's most consistent player throughout the year, scoring in double figures in 22 of 23 games, including a personal high of 25 against Walled Lake Western.

"Hal has a soft touch around the basket," Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner said. "He uses head fakes and pump fakes. He finds a way to score inside.

"I have to give Hal credit. He made himself a player over the fall and summer. He had an intense desire to succeed."

Having just turned 17, Heard's best basketball days may be ahead of him.

He carries a 3.4 grade-point average and scored a 23 on the ACT test.

"Hal's a quiet kid, a good student," Van Wagoner said.

Derrick McDonald, senior, Ply. Canton: One of the area's top clutch performers, the 6-1 guard was one of the major reasons why Canton earned a berth in the regionals.

all-area boys basketball

Despite missing four games, McDonald averaged 14.8 points, while shooting 47 percent from the field.

He scored a season-high 28 points, including 22 in the final quarter, in Canton's first regular season meeting against rival Salem.

"When it was winning time, Derrick took over," Van Wagoner said. "He is probably the best fourth-quarter player I've ever coached. When the game was on the line, he produced.

"He won us the Division championship in the fourth quarter at (Farmington) Harrison."

McDonald was also prolific at the free throw line, averaging 90 percent (65 of 72).

"He shot 200 to 300 free throws every day, and that's what it takes," said the Canton coach. "Derrick is a gym rat who's always playing ball. He's a tremendous scorer."

McDonald also shared Canton Defensive Player of the Year honors with teammate Owen Crosby.

Rick Barnes, senior, Wayne: A three-year varsity performer, the 6-1 forward was a tower of strength for the Zebras.

A great leaper, Barnes averaged 13 points and 10 rebounds per game, both team bests.

Barnes, the Wolverine A League's MVP, also hit 80 percent of his field goal attempts and 80 percent from the free throw line.

"Rick did a lot of the intangible things for us," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said. "He always played hard and had no real weakness, just a coach's dream.

"He was also a great offensive and defensive rebounder for his size. He also ran the floor well both on the offensive and defensive end, just a tremendous work capacity."

Bill Malecki, senior, Redford Union: The 6-2 guard was named MVP of the Northwest Suburban League and helped the Panthers to a share of the NSL crown along with Dearborn.

He tallied a season-high 37 points against Livonia Churchill.

In 17 games, Malecki averaged 20.5 points per game, hitting 51.5 percent from two-point range (103 of 200) and 38.8 percent from the three-point line (33 of 85).

Malecki also averaged 6.3 rebounds and 3.4 assists per game.

"Bill has been a consistently outstanding offensive player for the last three years," RU coach Tip Smathers said. "Bill uses his dribbling skills, jumping ability, and finger-rolls on drives to the hoop.

"Bill's jump shot has been a real weapon for us because he can shoot it from a stand-still position, or off the dribble. He can shoot it over defensive players and he can score from three-point range."

In three years, Malecki totaled 1,025 points, averaging 15.7 as a sophomore and 18.8 points per game as a junior.

Keith Roberts, senior, Liv. Franklin: Cat-quick at 5-7, the Patriot guard had an outstanding senior year racking up 409 total points for a 20.5 scoring average. He tallied over 800 points during his three year varsity career.

The All-WLAA pick also averaged 3.5 steals, three rebounds and three assists per game.

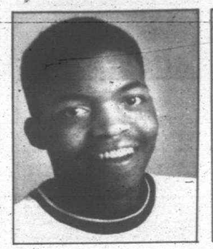

Roberts hit 40.3 percent from the floor (134 of 332) and made 37 three-pointers during the year.

The left-hander also hit 79.3 percent from the foul stripe (104 for 131).

"We knew the other teams would key on him and it showed in the way they defended him," Franklin coach Rod Hanna said. "They double-teamed him every time."

Roberts played mostly off-guard, but moved to point on occasion, finishing with a game-high 26 points in a district tourney loss to Wayne.

"Keith used his skills, with and without the ball," Hanna said. "In the open court he had good one-on-one skills. And for his size he was a good defensive player."

Rocks tie Spartans in soccer

Plymouth Salem's early-season soccer showdown with Livonia Stevenson ended in a tie Thursday while Plymouth Canton won its second game without a loss Wednesday.

Freshman Kelly Lukasik scored Salem's only goal with 15 minutes left in the game, which was postponed from Monday and played at Central Middle School because the field at Centennial Educational Park was under water.

Sophomore Mackenzie Emmett assisted on the Salem goal, which tied the score, and senior Jenny Emmett made 12 saves while playing the entire game in goal.

"Each team had a chance (to win the game)," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "It could have gone either way. I'd have to say the tie was a fair result."

Salem is 1-0-1, having defeated North Farmington 6-1 Wednesday, and the Spartans 2-0-1.

Stevenson led 1-0 at halftime on a goal by Ragen Coyne with an assist from Shannon Wilkinson. Goalkeeper Alicia Smith made 13 saves for the Spartans, who had two good chances to score in the second half, according to coach Mary Kay Hussey.

THE ROCKS also had other scoring opportunities. Shelby Carey hit the crossbar with a shot, and Michelle Cronan fired another wide of the net.

"It could have been 3-3," Johnson said.

In the Wednesday game, Kris Goff scored three goals and had one assist to lead Salem. Mandy Drummond had one goal and an assist.

Julie Thomas and Caryn Tatterton accounted for the other goals, and Erin Bagozzi, Carey and Cronan had single assists. Hadley Thurmon scored for North on a second-half penalty kick.

Canton upped its record to 2-0 with a 3-1 victory over Farmington in a Western Lakes Activities Association game. The Falcons are 0-1.

Colleen Connell had one goal and two assists to lead the Chiefs, who trailed 1-0 after Sue Gibson scored for Farmington.

All the scoring occurred in the first half, with Amy Tortora and Britta Anderson scoring for Canton followed by Connell's goal, which resulted from a pass by Danielle Meyka.

Jori Welchans was in goal the entire game for the Chiefs.

CHURCHILL 3, MERCY 2: Jamie Bewernitz tallied what proved to be the game-winner Wednesday as host Livonia Churchill edged Farmington Hills Mercy in a non-leaguer.

Melina Garrett assisted on the deciding goal.

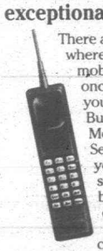

Churchill (1-0-1) led 1-0 at intermission on Aimee Cousino's goal from Erin Stacherski.

Dana Pososki made it 2-0 in the second half from Cousino before Heather Richards countered for the Marlins (1-1-3). Tania Macioce had Mercy's second goal.

Madonna splits DH in softball

Mandy Armstrong's fifth-inning, run-scoring double knocked in sister Megan Armstrong, giving Madonna University a 3-2 softball win in the second game of a doubleheader with host Aquinas Wednesday. The Lady Crusaders dropped the opener 7-3.

It was the first NAIA District 23 games for both teams. Madonna is 8-6 overall and 1-1 in the conference. Aquinas is 11-4, 1-1.

In the second game, Kim Supron's (Livonia Ladywood) first-inning double—accounted for Madonna's first two runs, scoring Megan and Mandy Armstrong.

Tracy Vachon was the winning pitcher, allowing four hits and striking out three. But it wasn't an easy game to finish; players had to rake snow off the field to play the bottom half of the seventh inning.

In the first game, Aquinas jumped in front with a four-run fourth inning. They added three more runs in the fifth.

KRISTEN WASIL was the losing pitcher for the Crusaders, yielding nine hits and one walk. Jodi Borowicz collected the win for the Saints, hurling a six-hitter; she fanned four and did not walk a batter.

Madonna scored its runs in the seventh inning when Megan Armstrong doubled to score Jill Burt and Kay Lee Davis, both having singled, and Holly Jondro, who reached base on a fielder's choice.

The opening of the District 23 portion of Madonna's schedule isn't easy; the Crusaders now must tackle defending district champ Siena Heights in a doubleheader at Ford Field Tuesday. Both Siena Heights and Aquinas are ranked in the NAIA's national top 30.

"I'd take a split against these two anytime," said Madonna coach Dave Racer.

Crusaders win NAIA ballgames

Finally, a game.

Madonna University's baseball team, idle since its spring trip to Florida ended March 8, opened its northern season the same way it ended its southern one — winning. The Fighting Crusaders swept a doubleheader from NAIA District 23 foe Siena Heights, 4-2 and 3-2, Friday in Adrian.

Bill Terski delivered a two-out, three-run double in the first inning to highlight the opening win. Jeff Pendell added a run-scoring double in the second. Terski had two hits in the game. Mike Hocking was the winning pitcher; he surrendered just four hits and three walks, striking out three.

Ernie Bowling, sitting out the second game with a sore back, got in one at-bat and made good on it — he lined a two-run single with two out in the fourth to score the tying and winning runs. T.C. Raptis, who had two hits, singled in Madonna's first run earlier in the fourth.

Dennis Hamilton tossed a five-hitter to collect the victory; he walked four and fanned five.

The Crusaders raised their record to 14-1, 2-0 in the district. They have a rematch with Siena Heights at 4 p.m. today at Redford's Capitol Park.

Chiefs plan to challenge N'ville

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Canton hopes to regain the division championship in boys track, but the Chiefs must overcome Northville and the loss of outstanding athletes for that to happen.

The Chiefs won the Western Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association two years ago but were dethroned by the Mustangs, who remain the team to beat, according to Canton coach Bob Richardson.

Furthermore, such individual standouts as Dean Benedict, Mike DeJarnett, Karl Wukie, Mike Ream and Josh Walaskay are gone from the team that finished third in the WLAA behind only Lakes Division powers Plymouth Salem and Westland John Glenn.

But the Chiefs, who were 3-2 in division duals and 3-3 overall, have enough quality athletes returning to be a possible contender again.

One of them is senior Craig Miller, a tri-captain with seniors Dave Washenko and Brett Kearney. One of the most versatile Canton athletes, he can run any event ranging from the 100-meter dash to the 800 run, including the sprint relays.

"WE HAVE A lot of flexibility with him, and we have to figure out where the best place is to put him and against who," said Richardson, who begins his fourth year coaching the boys and coached the Canton girls from 1979-85.

The Chiefs will miss Benedict and DeJarnett in the field events. Benedict was an all-area discus thrower who set the school record with a third-place toss of 165-7 at the state meet.

Leon Hister of Salem is the WLAA champion in the long jump.

Canton eyes WLAA repeat

Canton was third in the 400 and 800 relays in the WLAA, and Okwumabua and Kilpelainen are expected to keep the Chiefs strong in those events.

The Chiefs return three of the four runners from the 3,200 relay team that was third in the state as well as the 1,600 unit that qualified for state.

Saffron, Gudeth and Boroditsch were on the first-team, all-area 3,200 relay that posted the top Observerland time of 9:43.5. The fourth member, Amy Smith, is not competing this year.

Saffron, Gudeth and Okwumabua helped the Chiefs capture all-area, third-team honors and record a 4:13.3 time in the 1,600 relay. Smith was the fourth member of that relay, too.

boys track

Junior Tom Raven has thrown the shot put 40-plus feet and the discus 115.

"He's the top returnee that we know something about," said Richardson, adding junior Greg Giles and freshman Jon Gallinger will help in the weight events.

"We have some rebuilding and reworking to do. It was nice having Benedict but when he started he wasn't that good either and really came a long way."

DeJarnett was on the all-area third team in the high jump and holds the school record of 6-5. Seniors Mike Brennan (5-10) and senior Mike Corp got a late start after basketball season, and freshman Lenny Gardner was the middle school champion.

Wukie was an Observerland third-teamer in the long jump, but that should remain a strong event for the Chiefs.

Sophomore Neil Hunter jumped over 19 feet last year, and juniors Damon Collier, Leon Black and Neil Haremski, who was unable to long jump last year because of a back injury, are capable of doing as well.

DEJARNETT ALSO was the team's top high hurdler and finished fifth in the WLAA. Haremski and juniors Eric Tomei and Marques Nelson are the main hopefuls this year.

Kearney and Haremski, who was eighth in the WLAA, will set the pace in the intermediate hurdles following the graduation of Don Green.

"We won't be a force but we will be above average (in the hurdles)," Richardson said. "It may be that some people surface later after the weather warms up."

Canton lost its fastest sprinters in Walaskay and Dave Fedorko, but Collier, Kearney, senior Paul Chudyk, junior Micha Kollie and sophomores Rob Lemasters, Richard Crist and Hunter return. Junior Ben Lemon and freshmen Andy Ingersall and Mike Gurchak are first-year trackmen who could help.

Canton returns a "nice nucleus of 400 runners" in Miller (seventh in the WLAA), Kearney, Washenko and Kollie, according to Richardson, and sophomore Mike Erickson has potential in that event.

Miller and Washenko also can run the 800 as well as Senior Phil Greenshields, juniors Dave Yack and Dan Greenshields and sophomore Jeff Keith. Senior Jeff Najmowicz and sophomore Matt Demey are first-year runners with potential.

THE CHIEFS will miss Ream, who scored in both distance runs at the WLAA meet, and Nelson. But Yack, who was seventh in the 3,200 run, junior Shawn McNamara, Keith and senior Chris Burns should keep Canton strong in that area.

Canton's distance relays will be the strongest, according to Richardson, with Miller and Washenko returning from the 3,200 unit that was all-area third team. Chudyk has experience in the sprint relays.

Richardson will be assisted by Hooker Wellman, Jim Froozan and Mike Spitz, who returns to coaching after an absence of seven years. He was the Canton boys head coach from 1975-85.

Salem defending champ in WLAA boys track/field

The high jump will be one of the weaker events after losing Jake Baker, K.C. Kirkpatrick and Cliff Lee. First-year junior Mike Slone, freshman Mark MacInnis and sophomore Dan Miller are the top prospects. Senior Steve Boudreau, a distance runner who hasn't jumped since he was a freshman, could help.

"All of them have potential," Baker said. "We just have to get outside and start working in the pits."

The hurdles are a question mark after Johnson, Baker said, but it could be a future strength since the next in line are all underclassmen. Other hurdlers are juniors Jamie Miller, Matt Homes and Brian Beauchene and sophomore Brian Herk.

The Rocks should be solid in the sprints with Hister and Fisher, who won the 100-meter dash Thursday in 11.59. Junior Todd Forbes, Rob Kenny and Mike Richard return, and Salem has a "good crew of sophomores" in Marcus Zevalkink, Andy Coburn and Jay Casey.

The Rocks lost Andy Rojeski and Joe Pawlusiak in the 400 and will look to sophomore Adam Bakowski and juniors Jamie Karmann and Rob Lackey. Plus, any one of the hurdlers can run the quarter, Baker said.

THE ROCKS are always strong in the distance runs, and this year should be no exception despite the loss of John Thomas and Mike Patterson.

Boudreau was the WLAA runner-up in the 3,200 run at 10:19.3, and junior Derek Cudini was third in the 1,600 with a time of 4:35.4. Senior Jayson McDonald can run anything from the 400 to the 1,600. He was seventh in the 800 and had a season best of 2:02.9.

Lackey, sophomore Mike Wooters, senior Matt Cifaldi, junior Justin Richardson and freshman Andy McDonald provide depth in the distance events.

McDonald, Boudreau and Wooters comprise three quarters of the 3,200 relay team, and Baker said his project is to make Lackey an 800 runner and the fourth member of the unit. Wooters and McDonald were on the relay that won the WLAA and earned second-team, all-area honors.

"We've been strong in the distance runs the last couple of years, and these guys are not going to be the ones who break the tradition," Baker said. "They're going to get on the track and keep it rolling."

Hister and Forbes represent half of the all-area 400 relay team that had a 45-second time; however, everyone from the third-team 800 squad is gone.

"When we get Leon and Justin in there and get the stick work down, we can be tough (in the sprint relays)," Baker said. "Plus, DJ runs the 400 and 800, so we can put together two pretty good sprint relays.

"Last year, out of that great team we had, no one made it to state. Some guys have a legitimate chance to get beyond the regional — Leon, DJ and possibly Steve, Jayson and the 3,200 relay."

Chargers top Rocks in dual

Don Johnson was a double winner for Plymouth Salem in its first boys track dual meet Thursday, but the Rocks won only three other events and lost to host Livonia Churchill, 86-51.

Johnson won the long jump at 20-4 and the 110-meter high hurdles in 15.5.

Salem's Mark MacInnis was first in the high jump (5-6), Justin Fisher the 100 dash (11.6) and Derek Cudini the 3,200 run (10:54.1).

Churchill swept the relays and got individual wins from Matt Giertych, pole vault (8-0); Chris Pelczar, discus (115-4); Aaron Dusso, shot put (42-10½); Sean Platt, low hurdles (44.2); Jeff Marcus, 1,600 run (4:55.1) and 800 run (2:08.7); Rich Cramb, 400 dash (55.6); and Derek Badrak, 200 dash (24.5).

HOROSCOPE

By C.C. Clark

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Your suspicions about a particular situation may be well founded. Don't neglect duties, especially in personal relationships.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
You should be happy where you are. You may come up against a great difficulty, but you have the power to see it through.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
You may fear a necessary change that could redirect your true path. Try to see the big picture and your life will gain new meaning.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Don't let your life be commanded by greed. You should know better than to let "things" come before those you love. Use your influence wisely.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
Try not to be defensive when hashing out problems with loved ones and co-workers. A little understanding could go a long way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
Health matters should take top priority for you and those around you. You will overcome great adversity in a specific area of your life.

LIBRA (SEPT. 23 - Oct. 22)
You may gain freedom from ties that have bound you so tightly. Remember that a positive attitude can carry you through almost any difficulty.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)
Don't be carried away by superstition, it will only hurt you. Keep an open mind to ideas presented to you. Your creative powers are in full force.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
You will be sorely tempted, but it is imperative you do not repeat gossip. Much relies on your keeping quiet about things you overheard.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
Your talent for juggling many things at a time will come in handy. Though the world is constantly changing around you, you will find peace within.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
There is great activity and energy in your life. Channel it in a positive way. You will find the power to help those less fortunate.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)
It seems so hard to make the right decision. It certainly isn't the easiest choice to make. Be discreet with a friend's secret.

FAMILY FAIRE

'Barney & Friends' will motivate kids

By Chris Carpenter

A prehistoric, cosmopolitan creature he may be, but this Barney has no friend named Fred with razor stubble, no wife Betty, last name Rubble. The latest Barney is a foam-rubber, purple-lycra dinosaur, former star of children's home video, future star of PBS' Barney & Friends, a weekday series premiering Monday, April 6.

Appearing on the playground in a puff of glitter and smoke, Barney is summoned whenever his little human buddies are in need of some serious entertainment, which, in the case of preschoolers, is every other second. Fueled by either a box of chocolate cupcakes or supernatural enthusiasm, David Joyner, the man in the Barney suit, and the show's young performers dance, sing and whoop it up in a classroom and schoolyard setting for the entire 30 minutes.

Program themes deal squarely with what it means to be 3, 4 and 5 years old, with little acknowledgement of adults, either as viewers or on-screen role models. In fact, anyone over the age of 7 will feel left out. This show belongs to the little ones; it's the private property of an age group that can claim few other things on television as their own.

Barney & Friends wins no prizes for pizazz, but it does make doers out of mere viewers and promote the value of friendship and imagination. Kids could do worse than follow the lead of this purple pied piper.

CBS' "Stompin" doesn't make the noise it should

Whitfield, Van Peebles head good ensemble

By Steven Alan McGaw

On March 12, 1926, in the middle of that cultural flowering known as the "Harlem Renaissance," the Savoy Ballroom opened its doors. Like the Cotton Club, the Savoy was a haven for black musicians, singers and dancers, and instrumental to the careers of entertainers like Ella Fitzgerald and bandleader Chick Webb. Its closing in 1958 truly marked the end of an era.

Now, the sophisticated ballroom comes back to life in "Stompin' at the Savoy," premiering Sunday, April 12, on CBS. Directed by Debbie Allen, the film is set in the years just before World War II and focuses on four young women whose lives are punctuated by cherished nights spent at the Savoy.

"During the Depression," says Actor Michael Warren, "the Savoy was one of those surreal places that, when you walked in, whatever was happening outside those doors ceased to exist." Warren appears as Calvin Hunter, a ruthless entrepreneur ("opportunistic slimeball," the actor laughs) who determines to romance Pauline, an aspiring singer played by Vanessa Williams.

Lynn Whitfield ("The Josephine Baker Story") plays Esther, whose romance with handsome restaurateur Walter Turner (Mario Van Peebles) is secondary to her fierce determination to open her own beauty salon. Jasmine Guy is Alice, a country girl in love with New York and a guy named Ernest, played by Darnell Williams. Vanessa Bell Calloway completes the quartet as Dorothy, a mild-mannered housekeeper unprepared for interracial romance with successful white actor Bill Jerome (John Di Aquino).

The Savoy, itself almost another character in the film, is the scene of several enjoyable musical sequences. When it came to choreography, Allen deferred to Norma Miller and Frankie Manning, two of the original Savoy dancers and founders of the New York Swing Dance Society.

Actress/singer Dawnn Lewis, a longtime Allen associate on "A Different World," appears as jazz great Ella Fitzgerald. For Lewis, playing the inimitable, innovative singer was an unforgettable experience.

"They were well into shooting," Lewis says, "and Debbie called me and said, 'I need a favor.'" Lewis admits that playing Fitzgerald was intimidating, particularly on short notice. Still, she leapt at the chance, and familiarity with the music was no problem. "As soon as I hung up the phone, I went over to my CDs and cassettes. I've got Ella forever."

In Warren's estimation, the "Stompin'" script written by Beverly Sawyer, "really warranted being a feature film." He credits Allen with assembling "an exquisite cast on a shoestring budget," and says costumers and art direction people "went to great pains to duplicate the period."

Costumes and period details, of course, do not a movie make. "Stompin' at the Savoy" is at its best when doing just that: swinging and dancing to the timeless music for which the club was known. Less engaging, however, are scenes advancing the four intertwining stories, which seem to lack energy and aim. Of the actors, only Whitfield, Van Peebles and Warren consistently deliver urgency and appeal.

LET'S TALK

Shelley Long gone from prime-time TV

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Will Shelley Long be appearing in any new television series? —Ann Shannon, Macon, Mo.

A: The actress, best known for her role of Diane on Cheers, has pretty much stayed away from television after leaving the hit show. She has starred in the films The Money Pit, Outrageous Fortune and Troop Beverly Hills, all of which show up every now and then on television. She will be appearing in a movie with Corbin Bernsen later this year called Frozen Assets.

Shelley Long

Q: My dad and I are big fans of Jean-Claude Van Damme. I was wondering if you had an address for him? —Cynthia Stapleton, Dayhoit, Ky.

A: Write to the Jean-Claude Van Damme Fan Club, P.O. Box 4149, Chatsworth, Calif., 91313-4149.

Q: I would like to know the address of Jodie Sweetin. She plays on Full House as Stephanie Tanner and I am a fan of hers. —Seth Urbanczyk, Hereford, Texas.

A: Write to the actress in care of Full House, Capitol Cities/ABC, 77 West 66th Street, New York, N.Y., 10023.

Q: My son, who has cerebral palsy, is a great fan of Garth Brooks. He's learned a lot of his songs and sings them all the time. Where can I write to him? I would greatly appreciate it if you could answer as soon as possible as he is going to be in concert near us soon. —Daniel Razo's mother, Cottonwood, Ariz.

A: For basic fan information, you can write to Garth Brooks Fan Club International, 27 Music Square East, Suite 172, Nashville, Tenn., 37203. But in this instance, I would suggest you write to him in care of Doyle-Lewis Management, 1109 17th Ave. South, Nashville, Tenn., 37212. This is his management group and they will probably be able to get you a faster response. Other fans, please use his fan club address as their office will no doubt turn the mail over to the fan club anyway. And if Doyle-Lewis Management is flooded with mail, it will only slow down the response time to this letter.

Q: I am writing to say that I would like to see the two television shows Matlock and In the Heat of the Night continue. Both are great family shows with a lesson for all of us ... a show the whole family can watch. —Mary June Grandaw, Menominee, Mich.

A: Enough noise was made about these two shows being canceled by NBC to prompt other networks to sit up and take notice. ABC has picked up Matlock and CBS will air In the Heat of the Night.

Q: Will you explain to me why the television stations have so many problems? They go off the air for a week with no explanation. This morning, the three major stations flashed off and on. This happens so often, I decided to write. The other stations have also had problems. —M.A., Madelia, Minn.

A: It sounds like this is not the problem of the actual television stations but a problem at your cable company, at least the stations flashing on and off. As far as the three networks are concerned, their signals reach your area by satellite transmission, and are then broadcast through the air waves by the local affiliate and/or sent out over cable lines by your local cable company. The networks' satellite feeds can be interrupted by various causes, but if more than one station is affected, most likely your cable supplier is having satellite reception or coaxial transmission difficulties. If you are not a cable customer, you may be having problems with your antenna or live in an area where the combination of elevated terrain and bad weather can cause poor reception. When local TV stations go off for a week or more, it's probably a problem with their transmitter. When these problems occur, call your cable supplier or the local stations involved.

'Y&R' star can't flee her evil character

By Candace Havens

Every week I get several letters from viewers of The Young and the Restless saying the same thing, "Make Sheila give Lauren her baby back." Of course they are writing about Nurse Sheila Grainger, who not only stole Lauren's baby, but her husband as well. She is an evil woman who will do whatever it takes to create her "perfect" family.

Likewise, the talented actress who portrays Sheila, Kimberlin Brown, receives the same kind of letters.

"I get a lot of mail asking when am I going to give the baby back and people telling me they love to hate me," says Brown. "But I've also received some strange letters. Yesterday, I received a photograph from a fan who had a tattoo on his arm of a baby with the name Sheila underneath it as a tribute to Sheila. He sent a really nice cover letter assuring me he wasn't crazy and explained why he did it, so I didn't feel so bad about it.

"Most people separate me from the character and are generally really nice," said Brown. "But I did get one letter from a woman who said if I did anything to the baby she was going to fly out here and blackmail me and she was serious. That one scares me a little bit."

In real life, Brown couldn't be more different from her character. She and husband Gary Pelzer live an idyllic life in San Diego, where they share a love of snow skiing, boating, scuba diving, golfing and traveling.

In fact, Brown and her husband had just come back from filming an episode of Lifestyles of the Rich & Famous in Antigua when I spoke with her. Even there she couldn't get far from Sheila. "Our show is in prime time there and many of them would say 'Hey, give back the baby,' but they were all really nice," said Brown.

While Sheila is in the midst of motherhood, Brown isn't sure when she'll want to have children. "We talk about it, but right now I'm really happy with the way things are."

Brown doesn't know if Lauren is going to get her baby back, but she promises there are going to be some big things happening to Sheila and those around her very soon.

STAR NOTES

Arthur at home with 'Strangers'

By Dan Rice

Flight attendant Mary Anne, the quirky girlfriend of Balki (Bronson Pinchot) on ABC's Saturday comedy series Perfect Strangers, is no dumb blonde. And neither is Rebeca Arthur, the actress who plays her.

"I prefer to call her a naive blonde," Arthur says. "There's a lot more to her than actually gets on the air. We only have 22 minutes to do a show, so a lot of things that show Mary Anne is not an idiot have to be cut out."

The Cumberland, Md., native, trained in dance, has had an unusual job history. After a disastrous stint as a bank teller and turning down the chance to be a Playboy bunny ("the hours were wrong"), Arthur hired on as a private investigator. Often she would pose as a high school student to track down runaways or to bust drug rings. "I really lacked street smarts, so I had to acquire them in a hurry," she says.

During this time the aspiring actress landed recurring roles on Search for Tomorrow and The Guiding Light. She moved to Los Angeles in 1984, and made her feature film debut in About Last Night.... A guest shot on Perfect Strangers won her widespread recognition and a regular role on the series.

Arthur enjoys the feedback she gets from the studio audience.

"I am a prisoner of instant gratification. I want my reviews and I want them now!"

Do it for someone you love...

BITS AND PIECES

Teen's contest entry will air 'Afterschool'

A fresh voice delivers a timely message. A Vietnamese-born high-school senior from New York City is the author of the winning story outline for an episode of ABC Afterschool Specials to be produced by Oprah Winfrey's Harpo Productions in the spring of 1993.

Seventeen-year-old Bich-Nga Nguyen, who lives with her family in Floral Park, Queens, competed in a writing contest sponsored by ABC in conjunction with Seventeen magazine. Her winning teleplay, which concerns racial prejudice and the proposition that every person can work to change it, was inspired by recent violence in Brooklyn, N.Y. Nguyen feels strongly about the subject matter.

"I felt it was something that needed to be dealt with, especially by teenagers," she says.

Bich-Nga Nguyen

The final conflict between good and evil will be waged on ABC. Robert A. Iger, president of ABC Entertainment, announced that the network will air a miniseries adaptation of Stephen King's sprawling novel The Stand, most likely during the 1992-93 season. The story describes the near-future in which a deadly virus has decimated the world's population, leaving the few survivors in opposing camps of purity and corruption.

'It's time we had a little talk.' One of the most difficult duties of parenting can be that discourse on "the birds and the bees." The Children's Television Workshop comes to the rescue with the 3-2-1 Contact Extra titled What Kids Want to Know About Sex and Growing Up, to air on most PBS stations Wednesday, May 13. CTW has made available a parent's guide on the subject, recommended as a primer to the program. To order the 24-page pamphlet (in English or Spanish), send $2.25, check or money order, to: Parent's Guide, Box 40, Vernon, N.J., 07462, or call 1-900-407-2000.

John Candy stars as a lovable ne'er-do-well in John Hughes' Uncle Buck, airing Friday on CBS.

Chris Rock (left) and Chris Farley add to the fun of Saturday Night Live, Saturdays on NBC.

Glen Campbell serves as co-host of The 23rd Annual Dove Awards, airing live Thursday on TNN.

TRIVIA, ETC.

Who played Poirot?

By Steven Alan McGaw

TIME OUT

First pitch on ESPN, last dunk on CBS

By Steve Paschal

The sports world shifts gears in radical fashion Monday, April 6, beginning with one of the most mellow and hallowed of baseball traditions, then accelerating to the fast-paced frenzy of the NCAA Basketball Tournament championship game.

The mere mention of "opening day" conjures up images worthy of Norman Rockwell's brush: the president throwing out the first ball, and a kid clutching a hot dog in one hand and a pennant in the other.

But you don't have to live near a ballpark to indulge in this yearly ritual of optimism and nostalgia, because ESPN kicks off its third year of regular-season Major League coverage with a triple-header of some quality traditional match-ups. First, the AL East champion Toronto Blue Jays take on the Detroit Tigers and home run king Cecil Fielder. Then it's on to Los Angeles, where the Dodgers and San Francisco Giants square off in one of baseball's oldest and hottest rivalries.

Finally, the lights go up for the battle between the New York Mets and St. Louis Cardinals, two teams intent on dethroning the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL East.

While the final innings are being played on ESPN, CBS Sports goes to the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome in Minneapolis where the only two teams left standing from the field of 64 clash for the NCAA men's basketball championship.
