Money will flow in state rep race

The Republicans are targeting veteran State Rep. James Kosteva in the November general election. Spending on the race on each side could run over $200,000.

BY M.B. DILLON AND BARBARA WILSON
STAFF WRITERS

Deborah Whyman's victory Tuesday over Dan Calabrese marks the beginning of an expensive, high profile race for state representative.

Whyman, a Republican, in November will take on veteran Democratic state Rep. James Kosteva in a new 21st state house race.

"I expect each of us will spend about $200,000 or more on the race," said Kosteva who added that the Republicans have targeted the district.

"I expect to see the governor in here campaigning for her," he said.

"The race will reflect the state Republican party's desire to get a Republican majority in the House and give Engler complete control of the executive and the legislative branches," Kosteva said.

During interviews earlier this year both Calabrese and Whyman said Gov. John Engler would make appearances for the Republican winner of the primary.

The high spending fall campaign is the result of a new 21st District, created by redistricting which made the district much more Republican and put the political balance of power in Canton Township. The township is mostly Republican.

Whyman defeated Dan Calabrese 1,806-1,077 in Tuesday's primary election.

"I'm very excited by the primary victory," Whyman said. "The election was

Incumbents hold sway in trustee race

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Canton Republicans voted for the status quo Tuesday, nominating three incumbent trustees and one challenger to face two Democrats in November's general election.

Trustee Phil LaJoy was the leading vote-getter with 1,514. Melissa McLaughlin, a planning commissioner, won 1,405 votes. Trustee Bob Shefferly got 1,331 votes. And trustee John Burdziak took the fourth spot with 1,293 votes.

CANTON

Two other Republican trustee candidates, challengers Jim Panos and Catherine Tyree, got 1,148 and 700 votes, respectively, and are out of the race.

LaJoy, McLaughlin, Shefferly and Burdziak will face Democrats John Cleaver Sr. and Stuart Schuch in the November general election. Cleaver got 1,313 votes Tuesday and Schuch got 1,190. Only four trustees will be elected in November.

"It feels good," said LaJoy Tuesday night at township hall where he waited to see what would happen. "I just want to be part of the (township board) I don't care if (I come in) one, two, three or four."

LaJoy is the owner of a Norrell Temporary Services franchise in Ann Arbor and has been a Canton trustee since 1989. He spent $5,300 on his primary campaign.

McLaughlin, who said she was "surprised and pleased" to win the primary, is a 30-year Canton resident and serves on the historic district commission. She spent $1,000 on her campaign.

Clerk cleared of vote tampering charge

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

After an investigation by the Wayne County prosecutor's office, Canton clerk Loren Bennett has been cleared of an anonymous charge that he tampered with absentee ballots turned in for Tuesday's primary election.

Bennett himself requested the investigation after county elections director Ed Carey received an unsigned hand-printed letter alleging that Bennett was seen personally tampering with absentee ballots.

ELECTION '92

"After this detailed review, I find absolutely no evidence of any tampering," Carey wrote to Bennett. "On the contrary, I found the overall operation of your office to be of the highest degree of efficiency."

Keppen said Wednesday that "every ballot was visually checked for visual signs of tampering" and he and Cofell singled out 125 ballots for closer scrutiny, including all the envelopes that were taped shut.

"It's nearly impossible (to tamper with absentee ballots)," he said. "I just don't see any way."

Bennett said the prosecutor's office will have the anonymous letter dusted for fingerprints, but he doesn't expect anything to come of it. "Sometimes in politics you make enemies, and apparently I've made one," he said, adding that "it's impossible for me to speculate as to who may or may not have sent that letter."

The investigation, which ended at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, also set back elections workers. They didn't have the final voting results until 2 a.m. Wednesday even though the regular vote was entirely counted by about 11 p.m. Tuesday. Under normal circumstances, Bennett said, all votes would have been counted by 10:30 p.m.

"This is something I certainly didn't enjoy going through," Bennett said. "It was a grueling experience. But I feel good about it now that it's over."

On Carey's praise for the efficient operation of the Canton clerk's office, Bennett said, "Not many clerks have that kind of endorsement."

Music festival encore on key for Friday won with the support of family and friends and dedicated volunteers who were out there working for me."

Whyman, 33, is a data processing consultant for Ford Motor Co. who ran two years ago for the same office.

A pro-life candidate, Whyman graduated from Livonia-Bentley High School and earned a bachelor's degree in management information systems from Central Michigan University. She also has a master's degree in business.

The GOP state representative candidate is considered at a slight advantage in light of the legislative redistricting. The newly drawn 21st district includes more Republicans — 54 percent — than did Kosteva's old, 56 percent Democratic district. It includes all but a small portion of Canton east of I-275; the entire city of Belleville and townships of Sumpter and Van Buren. Removed from Kosteva's district were the cities of Wayne and Romulus.

A Canton homeowner for nine years, Whyman has stressed Michigan's need to decrease its dependency on the auto industry. Also, school financing is overly dependent on the property tax, she says.

"Michigan has the ninth highest business tax rate in the country. We need to improve the environment for business growth, thereby increasing jobs," she said.

Formerly Canton's planning director, Kosteva was first elected state representative in 1984 and currently serves on more committees than any other legislator. He is a member of the House Colleges and Universities Committee; the Conservation, Recreation and Environment Committee; the Housing and Urban Affairs Committee; the Education Committee and the Transportation Committee. He is majority vice chair of the Taxation Committee and chairs the Economic Development and Energy Committee.

Kosteva said he's committed to "devising a state budget that invests in, rather than borrows from, our future; developing an economic climate and regulatory attitude that nurtures developing businesses; cutting property taxes and revising the current method of financing education;" and "continuing to deliver quick, efficient and dependable help to constituents having problems with the state bureaucracy."

Kosteva said he would battle hard to raise campaign funding to fight his opponent and to get his message across to voters. Kosteva's more moderate stand on the abortion issue and his stand on the school financing question are expected to be targets in the campaign.

"The expectations are there for a dirty campaign," Kosteva said.

Whyman says "I won't be the first to sling mud."

Both candidates said they would welcome the opportunity to debate.

as a trustee, attributed her victory to a longstanding record of community service. "We've been involved for a long time in the community," she said Tuesday night from her home. "And a lot of (the support) is based on my record."

A Canton resident since 1969, Kirchgatter is married to Richard Kirchgatter, a Canton veterinarian and former planning commission member. Kirchgatter also served on the Plymouth Canton school board for eight years.

McCurley spent his Tuesday night at township hall watching the results come in.

"I wasn't prepared for not winning," he said when it was clear that he lost. "I worked hard at it. I gave it my best shot. I want to thank the voters and the people who helped me."

McCurley is the budget director in Westland, but fears he might lose that job if Mayor Bob Thomas isn't re-elected next year.

Shefferly, who was out of the race until the absentee votes were counted, is a retired Detroit News advertising executive and a member of the township planning commission. He spent less than $1,000 on his campaign.

Burdziak is a telephone engineering consultant and former planning commission chairman. He was appointed to the township board a year ago to fill a vacancy. Burdziak spent less than $1,000 on his campaign.

In the supervisor race, incumbent Republican Tom Yack ran unopposed and garnered 2,019 votes. He is also unopposed in the primary.

In the clerk race, Republican incumbent Loren Bennett and Democrat challenger Carol Bodenmiller were unopposed. Bennett got 2,037 votes and Bodenmiller got 1,679. Voters will chose between the two of them in November.

Keen-McCarthy wins

■ SUPERVISOR

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

They battled through the spring and summer — and what a finish!

While 759 ballots were spoiled when those voters crossed party lines on their ballots, township clerk Esther Hulsing said that even if a recount is called for, those ballots will remain voided.

"If they call for a recount, the same ones will be rejected," Hulsing said, adding the county elections division should color-code the ballots to lessen confusion.

"We're considering at this point to have a recount," McIlhargey said early Wednesday.

"We'll put our heads together and make a decision — we have 72 hours," he said.

"We fought a good honest clean campaign. We're certainly pleased with how our people conducted themselves, win lose or draw."

Township trustee John Stewart ran third, while attorney Stephen Boak finished a distant fourth.

"I won by 21 votes — I think they're all in this room," said Keen-McCarthy, 40, to a group of supporters gathered at trustee-elect K.C. Mueller's home.

"I thought I was going to win, but I can hardly believe it," she said, adding, "There were 2,713 people who said they were tired of the machine."

Keen-McCarthy was speaking of the Republican Party regulars who have in recent years dominated Plymouth Township politics and who backed McIlhargey after current supervisor Gerald Law decided not to seek re-election.

Slim pickin's in primary leave Canton voters cold

■ ELECTION '92

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

Many people who voted in Tuesday's primary election wished they had more to choose from.

"I didn't know half of them," Frank Ruhland said. "If I had known that (Supervisor Tom Yack was unopposed) I would have taken a crack at it myself."

Wallace McGhee considers himself a Republican, but he voted Democratic. "You don't have much choice anymore," he said. "Most candidates nowadays are propped up by special interests. I found myself going for names I didn't know much about. I was just voting for change."

Asked about the township candidates, McGhee said, "I wasn't an informed voter on the township side."

When Paul Yeagy was asked about the choices, he laughed and said, "They're dismal. This is one of the worst years I ever voted in. I get a bad taste in my mouth about the entire process. There's got to be a better way of doing it."

Shannon Russel voted Democratic, but, "I wish there were more choices," she said. "(When voting) you say, 'Well, which names have I heard of before?' "

Carol Gunberg said she wishes Yack and clerk Loren Bennett had some opposition in the primary. "We need more choices."

Linda Watson also voted in the Democratic primary, where there were no choices at all for township offices. "When I looked at that, I said, 'I'm not even voting in Canton. This is ridiculous.' "

Mary Gulick had an unusual method of choosing candidates. "I really didn't know a lot about any of them, so I just went with the incumbents," she said.

2nd time is charm for Vorva in race for state House seat

■ PLYMOUTH

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

Former Plymouth cop Jerry Vorva is going to Lansing.

Vorva, a Plymouth city commissioner, narrowly lost last August to Rep. Georgina Goss, R-Northville, in a special election for the state House seat vacated by Gerald Law.

But Vorva won in Tuesday's Republican primary, getting 54 percent of the vote in the newly created 20th state House district.

Upon learning of the victory, "I was overwhelmed," Vorva said at his downtown Plymouth campaign headquarters.

"I'm really looking forward to working with the other legislators and the governor," Vorva said. "I want to affect some positive changes," he said, adding he wanted to meet with freshman legislators to begin working to change the Legislature.

Vorva got 4,154 votes to Goss' 3,560 in the district. The redrawn district included greater Plymouth and Northville and northwest Livonia.

Goss defeated Vorva last year in a district which included north Canton and no portion of Livonia.

After congratulating Vorva at his headquarters, Goss said, "It has been a pleasure and a real privilege to represent the people of this district," adding she'd continue to work hard until her term expires in November.

Observers of the race viewed Vorva as a favorite after controversy over the Western Townships Utilities Authority rose this spring.

Goss served briefly as chairwoman of the WTUA board. Some criticized WTUA for not seeking bids on some contracts which went to area Republican party regulars, a group which Goss was identified with.

While Goss in her campaign defended WTUA as beneficial to residents in the long run, voters apparently shared anti-WTUA sentiment.

In Northville Township, where Goss served as supervisor and where newspaper stories and editorials questioned her role with WTUA, 1,244 votes went to Vorva and just 709 to Goss.

In Northville city, 83 voted for Vorva and 63 for Goss.

Vorva ran on a record of working to bring Plymouth's city budget under control, by reducing unneeded spending, and on a reputation of being a fighter.

Houses damaged by fire, arson suspected

Two houses on the same road were damaged by fire within 38 hours of each other, beginning last Friday with the destruction of a vacant $30,000 home at 39535 Lotzford.

Canton Fire Marshal Art Winkel said both are under investigation. No one was injured in either fire.

Firefighters responded to the first fire with three trucks at 9:52 p.m., five minutes after the 911 call came in. The fire was so large, Winkel said, that firefighters could see the flames long before they arrived.

The second fire occurred last Sunday. It caused $30,000 in structural damage to a $100,000 house at 40631 Lotzford, Winkel said, and $50,000 in damage was done to the house's contents.

The 911 call was received at 11:17 a.m., and firefighters were on the scene five minutes later with three trucks.

Shoplifter caught

Canton police report that a 39-year-old Lincoln Park man tried to steal five steaks from the Kroger store at Sheldon and Ford on July 29.

A Kroger employee told police he saw the man put $67.64 worth of steaks inside his shirt and pants, the police report said.

CRIME

The employee followed the man past several cash registers, then grabbed his arm. The man broke the employee's hold and ran away, dumping the steaks, the report said.

The employee ran after the man, caught him and took him to the office.

Asked if he knew anything about the theft, the man said, "Yeah, I was hungry and so I took those steaks," the report said he said.

Asked why he didn't buy the steaks, the man said he couldn't afford them. "I only have a buck," the report said he said.

Police found that the man has three prior convictions for retail fraud. The reporting officer requested that an arrest warrant be issued for first-degree retail fraud.

Illegal immigrants

Two illegal immigrants were arrested by Canton police last Friday afternoon on Michigan Avenue at Lotz.

The two men had been riding in a Mack truck with a woman and made an improper left turn, attracting police. The driver had a California identification card, but no driver's license, the police report said.

The woman, who had no identification, left the scene while the officer arrested her companions.

The driver, who has a Spanish name, and the male passenger were taken to a police department holding cell to await the arrival of a U.S. Border Patrol agent.

Break-in

A garage in the 48800 block of Cherry Hill was reportedly broken into last Friday night with more than $3,000 worth of goods taken.

Reported missing were four Homelite chainsaws worth $1,400, two John Deere lawn mowers worth $1,600 and a Sears air compressor worth $190.

The thief or thieves entered the garage through a locked back window.

Flag missing

An American flag worth $150 was reported stolen July 30 from a pole in front of Accurate Floor Covering on Joy Road.

The thief or thieves broke the aluminum pole in order to get the flag. The business owner told police that this is the second flag stolen from Accurate Floor Covering.

Driver stabbed in Sunday evening traffic dispute

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

A dramatic on-the-road dispute between two Westland motorists ended in a stabbing Sunday evening, city police said.

No one was seriously injured, and no arrests were expected to be made as a result of the 5 p.m. incident.

The man, 31, reported the other motorist, later identified as a 17-year-old Westland resident, passed him on the road, started making obscene gestures and then began slamming on his brakes while driving in front of him, nearly causing an accident.

The older driver, accompanied by his two children, became angry because he believed the teen had placed his children in possible danger due to his erratic driving, police reports said.

The older driver followed the teen until they reached the intersection of Ford and Venoy, where both cars were stopped by a red traffic light. The older man then got out of his 1986 Plymouth and confronted the younger driver, who was in a 1983 Plymouth, police reports said.

The two began swearing at each other, and the older driver reached into the teen's car and grabbed him. But the teen then grabbed a knife that he had in his car and stabbed the older driver in the left upper arm, police reports said.

The older driver told police he retaliated by using his car keys to puncture the teen's right forearm and scratch him in the face. In turn, the teen tried to stab the older driver in the chest, causing only a superficial wound, according to police reports.

The teen then drove away, southbound on Venoy, and the older driver went to the Westland police station to file a report on the incident.

During a subsequent investigation, police talked with the teen and learned that he had used a 7-inch pocket knife with a 3½-inch blade during the stabbing, according to police reports.

Westland police presented evidence to the Wayne County prosecutor's office, which decided not to issue a warrant for the teen's arrest, Westland police Sgt. Mark Stobbe said Monday.

Councilman whiffs on tax money issue

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Although he's opposed to taxpayer money being used to build a new stadium for the Detroit Tigers, a Westland City Council member struck out Monday when he tried to build team opposition among his colleagues.

The council balked at member Glenn Anderson's suggestion to pass a resolution officially opposing any use of taxpayer money to pay for a new stadium.

Anderson called it "reprehensible" that taxpayers could be expected to help pay for a professional baseball stadium, but he agreed to drop the resolution when it encountered opposition during Monday's council session.

"I'm not going to be obstinate about it, but I do feel strongly about it," Anderson said, in agreeing to drop the proposal.

Some cities have adopted similar resolutions, but most council members appeared to believe Monday that it's too early for the council to adopt a strong stance. Exact financing terms for a new stadium remain uncertain, they said.

Moreover, the council appeared hesitant to adopt a resolution amid a whirlwind of changes for the Tigers, including Mike Ilitch's decision to buy the team and current owner Tom Monaghan's firing Monday of Tigers president Bo Schembechler and board chairman Jim Campbell.

Most council members sided with Councilman Kenneth Mehl, who said it's possible that "any proposal" could emerge in relation to financing a new baseball stadium.

Anderson's resolution called for opposing "any proposed financing package that will utilize any taxpayer dollars from any source" for a new stadium.

It also would have supported initiating an election to amend the Wayne County charter to prohibit the county "from collecting any tax or fee for the payment of bonds for the purpose of financing and constructing a new professional baseball stadium."

Despite Monday's decision, the council hasn't ruled out considering another proposal in the future.

Curmi, Griffith, Mueller, Arnold win

PRIMARY

There will be a new look to the Plymouth Township board of trustees come November.

Incumbent trustee Ron Griffith, a Schoolcraft College administrator, finished second with 2,041 votes or 16.48 percent.

Also winning election to the board were Realtor K.C. Mueller with 1,827 or 14.75 percent, and businesswoman Kay Arnold with 1,802 votes or 14.55 percent.

Assistant to the township clerk Marilyn Massengill scored an easy victory over Denise Radtke, a longtime aide to U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell. Massengill got 2,239 votes or 61.21 percent to Radke's 1,419 votes, or 38.79 percent.

Incumbent treasurer Mary Brooks was re-elected, as she ran unopposed.

Trustee candidates who failed to win election to the board were Plymouth District Library Board member Carol Davis, finishing fifth with 1,715 votes or 13.85 percent; businessman Joe Van Esley with 1,517 votes or 12.25 percent; and incumbent Abe Munfakh with 1,353 votes or 10.93 percent.

Curmi's reaction to winning was "elation — Thank God it's over."

He credited "my friends, my wife, all the words of encouragement."

"It will be time for a new vision, we'll all be working together to bring some harmony and trust back to township government," he said.

"I think I took some of a hit on the incumbency, and the WTUA (Western Townships Utilities Authority) thing," Griffith said. "I was also supportive of the Mettetal thing," he added.

Most criticism of incumbents and candidates backed by Republican party regulars centered on the WTUA project and some WTUA contracts let without getting bids.

Some also criticized the township board's backing of a purchase of Mettetal Airport in Canton with federal funds, also supported by Griffith.

Several township residents leaving the polls after voting said they wanted a change.

"I'm voting for a lot of new people," said John Thomason. "I'm tired of the old regime and the old ways. The old regime did a number on us."

Bob Hayton said after voting, "I tried to go with ones more or less against some of the tax issues," adding, "I didn't want the taxes on the airport."

No candidates have filed by the filing deadline last month to face the winning candidates for trustee and clerk. They'll run unopposed in November.

Stempien wins spot on fall court ballot

A Schoolcraft College trustee and former Livonia resident are among the top six finishers in Tuesday's Wayne County Circuit Court primary.

The top votegetter was Recorders Court Judge Denise Page Hood who received 60,594 votes. The others were Diane M. Hathaway, 46,864; Detroit Recorders Court Judge Robert L. Ziolkowski, 42,368; Jeanne Stempien, chair of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, 39,045; attorney Joseph V. Brennan, 39,040; and John W. Callahan, a former Livonia resident, 37,620. (For a complete list of finishers, see election chart at left).

Page Hood, 40, appointed to Recorders Court in 1990, was elected to a six-year term in that court in 1990. She is a graduate of Columbia University Law School and a Detroit resident.

Hathaway, 38, an assistant prosecuting attorney in Macomb County, is a graduate of Detroit College of Law.

Ziolkowski, 47, lives in Detroit. He is a graduate of Detroit College of Law.

Stempien, 46, of Northville Township, has served on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees since 1987. She is an attorney in private practice in Livonia.

Callahan, 45, is a section head at Plunkett & Conney, one of the state's largest law firms. A graduate of Catholic Central High School and a former Livonia resident, he now lives in Detroit.

White, Stephens top appeals court race

The district includes six counties: Wayne, Washtenaw, Lenawee, Livingston, Jackson and Monroe.

White, 37, has been a judge for the past 11½ years. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, she lives in Detroit.

Stephens, a graduate of Emory University Law School, has been on the circuit bench since 1985. She also served on Recorders Court 1982-1985. She lives in Detroit.

Judges on the court of appeals are elected from three districts.

The court of appeals hears civil and criminal cases.

Three-judge panels hear cases in Lansing, Detroit, Grand Rapids and Marquette. The panels are rotated to encourage statewide uniformity in rulings.

The decision of a panel of the court of appeals is final except in those cases in which a decision is reviewed by the Supreme Court.

Judges are elected for six-year terms.

Salary is set by the state legislature. A judge of the appeals court is now paid $102,346 per year and is provided with an automobile. They also are eligible for health care benefits and a state retirement plan.

Maher, Diehl will vie for probate seat

Canton Township resident Cathie B. Maher and Nancy Diehl, head of the child abuse unit in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, will face each other this fall in a race for a seat on the Wayne County Probate Court.

Other finishers included: Robert McClinton, 36,058; Kathryne O'Grady, 23,953; and Nicholas J. Tsalis, 20,606.

Maher, who is married to current probate Judge Martin Maher, is a private practitioner with an office in Plymouth, she holds a law degree from the University of Detroit-Mercy.

Diehl, holds her law degree from Wayne State University. She lives in Detroit.

Geake prepares to take on Ford in fall challenge

By Sue Rosiek
Staff Writer

■ Geake believes a grass-roots campaign can work, and he's working "to amass an army of volunteers." He pledged to stage a positive, upbeat, issue-oriented campaign in the fall — just like the primary.

Jobs, the economy and health care are the issues that will shape Republican state Sen. R. Robert Geake's campaign this fall against veteran Democrat William D. Ford.

Geake, 55, of Northville Township, won his party's nomination by slightly more than a 2-1 margin over his closest challenger. Geake polled 10,791 votes. Second in the six man field was Raymond Tanter, a professor at the University of Michigan who received 4,706 votes. Burl Adkins, a businessman who was making his fourth try to win the GOP bid, received 3,601 votes.

Others in order of finish were Plymouth resident William Steele, 1,627; Glen Kassel, a Westland insurance man, 1,005; and Herbert Scott, of Canton Townhip, 981.

Ford, who was unopposed, received 28,299 votes.

Although he was one of six contenders in the GOP primary, Geake said he was "running against Bill Ford from the very beginning."

"The primary was just a way station to the general election," said Geake, who has represented the western Wayne portion of the new district in the state Senate for the last 14.5 years. Before that he served as a state representation from 1973-1977. Geake holds a doctorate from the University of Michigan in eudcation and psychology.

Asked how he plans to unseat Ford, Geake said he'll use a grassroots campaign because "I can't outspend him."

The GOP winner plans to paint Ford as a tax and spend liberal who is part of the problem in Washington today.

Geake believes a grass-roots campaign can work and he's working "to amass an army of volunteers." He pledged to stage a positive, upbeat, issue-oriented campaign in the fall — just like the primary.

Geake has high name recognition among western Wayne voters and was encouraged by the results in the neighboring 11th Congressional District where businessman Joseph Knollenberg defeated state Sen. David Honigman and former judge Alice Gilbert.

Honigman and Gilbert financed their campaigns largely from personal assets they reported at $3 million and $2 milion, respectively. Knollenberg relied on a grassroots campaign. He estimated his campaign had nearly 1,000 workers — many of them abortion opponents.

Geake said the pro-life voter turnout in the 13th District definintely helped him on Tuesday. But when asked how his anti-abortion stand would play in the general election, Geake said voters are concerned about more issues than abortion.

Ficano calm in wake of tough primary win

BY WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

Relief was the prevailing emotion at Sheriff Robert Ficano's post-campaign gathering, while for Kevin Kelley, the music played on.

Judging from prevailing emotions, it was difficult to tell who had won and lost Tuesday's bitterly fought Democratic primary for Wayne County Sheriff.

Ficano's gathering at a Detroit UAW hall was a happy, though low key, affair.

There was no victory speech from the victorious incumbent and, as midnight passed, only a small group friends and supporters remained.

"I think people took an overall look at our record and saw our strengths," said a relaxed Ficano, dapper in a dark suit and pattern tie.

Sheriff since 1983, Ficano, a Livonia resident, enters the fall campaign a prohibitive favorite against Republican nominee Dennis Malin and Tisch Party candidate Daniel Tackett of Taylor.

Though the primary had been considered close, a strong showing in Detroit boosted Ficano to a comfortable 3-2 margin over Kelley, a former Redford Township-area county commissioner. Fellow Democrat Chuck Nemeth of Dearborn finished a very distant third.

Mudslinging continued right up to the day of the race, with Kelley blasting the incumbent in a series of pointed campaign ads that may have backfired. Ficano, meanwhile, made issue of Kelley's 1978 arrest in a college scuffle.

Despite the controversy — and outcome — Kelley said he wouldn't have done anything differently.

"I went to bed the other night thinking whether there was anything I would have changed and there's nothing I would have," Kelley said outside his gathering at Club 246, Detroit. Inside, disco music blared, balloons fluttered and several hundred supporters lingered though the race was all but conceded.

Though rumored to be headed for a post on Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara's staff, Kelley made no formal announcement about his future.

"I wouldn't rule out running for office again, but there was some strain in the party over my running this time," he said.

A McNamara-related campaign fund provided major financial backing to Kelley's campaign.

Though relations between the executive and sheriff have been strained, Ficano was downplaying that issue in the wake of his victory.

"I'm willing to work with Ed McNamara as long as he respects the office of sheriff," Ficano said.

Likewise, Kelley said he carried no lingering animosity for Ficano, despite the last minute surfacing of the 14-year-old campus incident.

"You can't be bitter," he said. "I learned that in college."

Judges headline Madonna legal classes

Judges Fred Mester and Gene Schnelz of Oakland County Circuit Court and Judge Patrick Duggan of Federal District Court will be among the faculty for 14 legal assistant courses being offered by Madonna Univerity this fall.

A new course, "Special Problems in Law: Environmental Law — Hazardous Waster Management," will focus on the storage, transportation and disposal of hazardous wastes. The workshop will be held 6-10 p.m. Fridays, Sept. 18 and Sept. 25, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays, Sept. 19 and Sept. 26. The course will be taught by Mary Urisko, a local attorney and assistant director of Madonna's legal assistant program.

"Special Problems in Law: Arbitration and Mediation," conducted by Detroit attorney Richard Dimanin, will concentrate on assembling facts to present a case before an arbitration panel or mediation tribunal.

The workshop will be held 6-10 p.m. Fridays, Oct. 16 and Oct. 23, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays, Oct. 17 and Oct. 24. It will include preparation of mediation summaries and a mock arbitration hearing.

Michigan Eyecare Institute
At The Forefront Of Ophthalmology
The Michigan Eyecare Institute is known for its pioneering breakthroughs. Staffed by specialists who have developed and refined the latest medical techniques, the Michigan Eyecare Institute specializes in treating and eliminating disabling eye disease.
As founders of The Michigan Eyecare Institute, Dr. William Myers and Dr. Mark Rubinstein have been at the forefront of Ophthalmologic breakthroughs. They were the first Ophthalmologists in the state to develop or utilize:
• YAG laser surgery for treatment of secondary cataracts
• Nova Curve lens, designed especially for the YAG laser surgery
• Excimer laser surgery for treatment of glaucoma
• Radial Keratotomy for correction of nearsightedness
These laser surgeries are fast, virtually painless and they require no hospital stay or recovery time.
The founders of Michigan Eyecare Institute conduct courses in surgery and have lectured on their state of the art surgical techniques to other physicians throughout North America, Europe, Russia and the Far East. If you are nearsighted, farsighted, or suffer from cataracts or glaucoma, Michigan Eyecare Institute can help.

Road trip

At its July 28 meeting, the township board approved spending $2,000 to send two unnamed cable committee members to a Sept. 9-13 conference of the National Association of Telecommunications Officers and Advisors in Irving, Texas.

The cable committee members will network with other cable officers and obtain up-to-date information on the cable industry.

Dare to help

Canton Township has received a $13,922 state grant to fund its Drug Abuse Resistance Education program.

Through the DARE program, uniformed police officers go into classrooms to talk to students about the dangers of drug abuse. The program also employs role-playing methods to teach children about self-esteem.

"DARE helps to reinforce the message that drugs are not a substitute for self-worth," said state Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton. "As a parent and a lawmaker, I greatly appreciate any effort to give our children the chance to learn the horrifying truth about drug abuse."

Contestants sought

Applications are now being accepted for the Miss Michigan Teen All American Pageant to be staged Oct. 24-25 at the Days Hotel Conference Center in Southfield.

All judging is on the basis of poise, personal interview and beauty of face and figure. Applicants must be between the ages of 13 and 19 as of Aug. 1, 1993, never married and a legal resident of the U.S.

To apply, send a recent photo along with your name, address, phone number and date of birth to Dept. B, Miss Michigan Teen All American, 40 Central Park South, Suite 14D, New York, NY 10019.

For more information, call 1-304-242-4900.

Walker Van Dyke, 17, used to enjoy rowing on Phoenix Lake, the impoundment behind his house on Edward Hines Drive that straddles Plymouth and Northville Townships. No more.

"The deepest part is four feet deep," said a disillusioned Van Dyke, who a year-and-a-half ago made a 4-by-8 sign that said "Help Save the Lake," and propped it up on an island formed by silt build-up.

"When we were trying to get out to the island to put the sign up, we couldn't even get out there. The water is six inches deep. When I looked on the bottom, I could see geese footprints," said the Plymouth Township resident.

The lake's problems are numerous. Not only is it filling up with silt and sediment in the aftermath of a dam break a year ago, it's contaminated with lawn fertilizers and untold chemicals. Over-development and sewer overflows have caused voluminous run-off, creating soil erosion along the Rouge, ruining fish habitats and causing sediment build up in the man-made impoundments along the river.

The muddy shores of Phoenix Lake are strewn with plastic bags and lids, fast food containers, rusting cans, rags and other trash. The water is murky and still, so it's surprising to see Canada geese and an occasional blue heron stalking about.

Van Dyke and other concerned residents are frustrated at the inaction of government officials and the owner of the broken Waterford dam in Northville Township. They grow more so as the problem worsens.

Silt in lake: Walker Van Dyke stands next to the sign he erected in Phoenix Lake in an attempt to draw attention to pollution problems.

"This lake is pretty much dead," said the Redford Catholic Central High School grad. "This lake doesn't need a sign; it needs a tombstone."

Van Dyke said he went to take the sign out recently because nothing has happened since the dam off Six Mile road broke last July. "When I put my hands in the water, they were burning from all the lawn fertilziers and chemicals in this lake. That makes me mad, because people would rather have green lawns than a good lake," he said.

Systematic inertia

Feed store worker saw area grow from farms to suburbs

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

It was Monday morning at Saxton's Garden Center and Harland Smith was trying to take time out to speak with a visitor about what it's like to be retiring after 45 years working at the same place.

"Harley, there's a fellow out here who wants to replace the water pump he has that just died," said a co-worker, wondering if Smith knew if the store sold that particular pump. Smith answered in the affirmative.

There were more interruptions. "Harley, 'Do we have any Kelthane?'" asked Bill Saxton. (Saxton says he's "not quite there" in the longevity department. "I've only been here 43 years," he said with a laugh. Smith's younger brother Gordon was a real lightweight, having worked at Saxton's only 25 years through 1982.)

After he got the Kelthane, Smith said to Saxton about a customer he noticed in the store, "Give Mrs. Demel her yellow spout for her gas can."

You get the feeling employees at Saxton's are glad their garden equipment and supplies manager will continue working Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Saxton says it feels like his family is losing a brother. "He's been around that along. It's been a pleasure to have him. He has done a good job for us over the years," he said.

"One thing about Harley, if he said he was going to be there, he was there, and always ahead of time. You never had to worry about the door getting opened or deliveries. It got done. That's kind of rare now, the way employment is going."

Indispensable

"Harley's one of a kind," Saxton said. "How many people work in the same place for 45 years? He has so many people coming in, just because he's here. They want advice about their shrub, trees, bushes or flowers, and he can give it to them."

Smith shrugs it off. "You go to some seminars, you read a pamphlet here, a book there. And then you can say, 'That's what happened to that tree.' You remember that, that's all."

Smith, who grew up in a family of five on 10 acres at Ford and Hix in Westland, attended Plymouth High School before leaving school in 1944 to join the merchant marines at 17.

Why the merchant marines? "I was just bored, and I saw it in the paper," he said.

Smith was sent to New York for six weeks' training and then to Houston, Texas before being shipped on a fuel tanker to the Philippines shortly after World War II ended. Smith was a "messman," scrubbing pots and pans and washing dishes for 35 men eight hours a day. His 18 months in the service also took him to New Guinea, Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, where Smith remembers incredible 35-foot tides.

When he got home, "a friend said to me, 'Go up and help Dean (Saxton) until you find what you want to do. So I came up til I found what I wanted to do," said Smith, laughing.

Smith started as a delivery boy, helping the Saxtons selling and taking delivery on what amounted to about 30 tons of feed per week, mostly for poultry. "All these subdivisions were farms," said Smith, who drove a flatbed stake truck, dropping off corn, oats, egg mash, broiler feed and chicken starter feed at farms from Plymouth to Redford. "We had people raising chickens in Livonia," recalled Smith.

Retiring: Harland Smith started out working at Saxton's Garden Center 45 years when it was a feed store. It was a temporary job until he decided what he wanted to do with his life. But it turned out to be more than temporary.

Life at Saxton's became a little more interesting in 1949 when Smith noticed an attractive young woman named Dorothy Richwine had begun working next door at her grandmother's insurance office. A whirlwind romance ensued and the couple married in 1951, but not until after the Army found Smith. "They drafted me during the Korean War," said Smith, who worked as a cook at an army base in Battle Creek during his two-year stint.

The Smiths, who in retirement plan to do more traveling in their motor home, have two daughters: Margaret, an occupational therapist in South Dakota, and Bernice, a restaurant manager in Plymouth Township, and three granddaughters.

Smith's advice to young people deciding on a career is to "do something that you like. I think that's the main reason (the job was rewarding.) It may not pay the big bucks, but if it's what you like, I think that's the main thing. Because if you like it, you will pick up on whatever it is."

Taiwan students visit

East met West in July at Madonna University as 25 students from Taiwan gathered on the Madonna campus for a three-week stay to complete requirements for a master of science in administration degree.

The Taiwanese won the game by 20 points. Twelve of the students currently are physical education instructors in community colleges in their country.

"A township committee has tried to get the owner to re-establish his dam, which he refuses to do. The dam is on private land and a lot of the problem is that the state is requiring him to — instead of constructing the dam at a level to withstand a 100-year rain level, to construct it at a 200-year rain level. The price of a new dam would go up in quantum leaps. Add that to the problems with economic conditions for builders, and they're somewhat reluctant to do anything," said Henning. Thus far, efforts to secure funds from another source have been unsuccessful, he added.

Gari Sipple is a homeowner whose land backs up to a tributary of Phoenix Lake. Sipple says he and many Northville Township residents are angry about the sludge build-up that's driven away wildlife and made canoeing impossible.

"People can now walk out on this sludge," he said.

Even worse was the disappearance after the dam broke of the lake which anchored the Lakes of Northville development.

Sipple said he participated in a meeting with representatives from the state Department of Natural Resources and Wayne County Parks; County Commissioner Maurice Breen; Jim Murray of the county's public works department; homeowners and Frank Jonna of the Jonna Corp., owner of the dam.

"That meeting was Aug. 28, 1991. That's how long and slow the political process is," said Sipple, who's working on obtaining a county grant to address the problem.

"It's affecting the beauty for us, but it's affecting the environment for everybody. If this kind of thing can be allowed to happen here, it can happen anywhere," said Sipple. "We'd like the state of Michigan or Wayne County to come to our aid and allow this to be dredged. We're not trying to make it a beauty spot of Michigan; we're just trying to bring it back to its former state."

Government's hands tied

David Kenaga, an aquatic biologist with the DNR, said Michigan lakes including Phoenix suffer the effects of non-point source problems due to farming activity, development, road run-off, and discharges. "What happens if you don't have some type of coordinated remediation (clean-up) effort is that it just doesn't get done," he said.

Lansing-based DNR aquatic biologist Dr. Elwin Evans said the state "doesn't have a remediation plan for any private or even county structure. If they want to improve some of the impoundments and waterbodies under their control, they have to apply for a permit. If private money is being spent, we can tell them whether their plan will succeed or not. But the department, unless they owned it, wouldn't remediate it."

Deciding who is liable for problems in an impoundment caused by soil erosion, run off and overflows upstream "is kind of a sticky problem," he said.

New respect

Canton earns its place on map

For years Canton Township has suffered from the Rodney Dangerfield syndrome, lack of respect.

But now the community has sent that syndrome into remission with an injection from state Rep. James Kosteva.

Canton Township is on the map. Yep, no longer will folks in Plymouth be able to turn up their noses when their neighbors to the south talk about their community.

Sure, there may be some quibbling about the type face. The words Canton Twp. on the 1992 version of the state map are in a lighter type face than that of Plymouth.

But the upshot here is that Canton has arrived. Strangers will no longer question if it's Canton, Ohio; wags will no longer call it East Ypsilanti; or South Plymouth.

But there are some serious benefits to all this.

The township will be easier to find, which means firms receiving deliveries will be better served. Firms have complained that trucks, especially those arriving in metro Detroit from other areas often have a difficult time finding Canton. Being on the map will help solve that.

But the designation from the Michigan Department of Transportation didn't come easily. It took some arm twisting and head banging on the part of Kosteva.

The state transportation department puts together the official state highway map and has jurisdiction over what goes on it. The state Legislature has no power in the matter.

It's something that makes sense. If politicians had control of the highway maps, chances are we would end up in Escanaba when we really wanted to go to Kalamazoo. Remember, these are the folks who have been trying to fix school financing. It would be too dangerous to hand over our roads to these folks.

But back to Kosteva. He hit the transportation department over the head with a two-by-four about two years ago when he introduced legislation to allow the state Legislature to change the map.

Well, as the legislators were about to vote on the bill, a state highway official called Kosteva and offered a deal. The bureaucrats would be willing to put the names of all townships with a population of more than 25,000 on the map.

This one does nothing but make sense. There are towns in Michigan that have long been on the map that have nothing in them but a gas station and a bar. And chances are that the pumps ran dry during the oil embargo in the early '70s and the tap ran dry about the time Carrie Nation was wielding her ax.

But back to the political deal. It was struck and thankfully Canton ended up on the new state map. But perhaps better yet, state legislators won't have control over the state maps.

Canton residents won on both accounts.

Rights denial debases society

Freedom is no joking matter.

That's why we hope those who were amused by the recent remarks made by Oakland County executive candidate Phil Marcuse take another look at what kind of society is best for themselves and their children.

Marcuse, in a desperate attempt to gather some badly needed last minute support for his failed candidacy, appealed to the basest nature of society by attacking his opponent, Betty Howe, on the basis of gender.

This misguided law clerk apparently believes that women's leadership skills qualify them only for duties performed in the home, and that just by being born a male, he is more qualified than his opponent to be an elected public servant.

It would be easy enough to laugh off such foolishness. But we only have to look around us to see how serious the denial of equal rights for women has debased our society.

This court jester of Oakland County politics represents a far deeper threat.

The cavalier attitude toward rights exists in the most influential of places, from corporate boardrooms to the floor of the U.S. Senate. These leaders, who make decisions on the basis of expediency, to preserve their own power bases, consistently forfeit the rights of those who are often unable to defend themselves.

And this savage war of inequality has too often been waged against women.

The truly strong in our society must consistently and continually speak out against these inequities.

The entire structure of our armed forces has been shaken by revelations of sexual abuse and harassment.

The now infamous "Tailhook" convention, where several women Naval officers were fondled and abused, only serves to make us more aware of the long journey we have to travel before equality can be obtained.

The credibility of the U.S. Supreme Court has been undermined. During the Clarence Thomas confirmation hearings, a majority of U.S. senators thought male bonding was more important than justice.

The horrendous numbers of crimes committed against women because they are women — rapes, spouse abuse, sexual harassment and discrimination — exist only to sap this country's strength.

The frantic battle against equality launched in recent years by a frightened reactionary right wing must be halted lest we all sacrifice our freedoms.

For any of us to be equal, all must be equal. That's a value missing on today's American landscape, a value which, if adopted, could go a long way toward solving many of this country's ills.

Support AIDS research

Unfortunately, the first introduction to AIDS came to most of us as an apparent gay disease caused by homosexual activity. Many of us, myself included, said: "Let them dance to their own music," and gave little attention or sympathy.

It is now obvious that the AIDS virus has infiltrated every sector of humanity from infants to the aged, male and female, mainly through blood transfusions and even marital sexual relations. Today, everyone is a possible candidate for this dreaded disease, and we clearly need an answer or solution to this killer disease soon. Denying support to research and eradication of AIDS is tantamount to self-destruction.

Bush is a fighter

As a veteran of the Korean conflict, I have a couple of thoughts pertaining to the election of our next President and Commander In Chief.

In Bill Clinton, we have a pot smoking, draft dodging Viet Nam protester. In contrast, using Gen. Douglas MacArthur's words "Duty Honor And Country" we have George Bush's record as a navy combat pilot that was outstanding.

So the American People have a real choice in voting for President and Commander in Chief.

Expense is tax exempt

We have enough trouble in the world without the type of "disinformation" from people of (Phil Power's) position. (He) certainly knows that a business expense is deducted from gross income and is exempt from taxes. Unless your tax rate is 100 percent, the taxpayer does not "pay for the write-off," as (he) clearly stated they do.

Negative advertising rages on

Reflections on Tuesday's primary elections . . .

Michigan's political system is changing.

Not through voter anger, although there's plenty of that, but through the old-fashioned mechanisms that have driven our politics for half a century. Population shifts, mainly from cities to suburbs, and the redistricting that comes every 10 years, have given Oakland and Wayne County suburbs larger counts in the 1990 census than the city of Detroit.

Consider Michigan's delegation to the U.S. Congress. Population losses cut our quota of representatives from 18 to 16. Redistricting, plus tough primary fights, plus age, plus frustration lead six congressmen unexpectedly to decide to retire.

Among these were some seriously senior members, like Bill Broomfield, Bob Traxler, Dennis Hertel and Howard Wolpe. It will take another generation for Michigan to regain the clout in Washington it has today.

Likewise, the clout held in Lansing by inner cities is eroding under the steady pressure of population shifts to the suburbs.

The entire state House was redistricted this year. The biggest primary fights took around the periphery of Detroit, where districts were pushed out, putting into sudden retirement a series of previously secure, white, Democratic reps.

The political system is still in crisis, but don't for a moment think that this primary has been without consequence.

Negative advertising is still all the rage.

We had mudslinging in the 11th Congressional District (Dave Honigman versus Alice Gilbert). We saw character assassination in the 7th (favorite Joe Schwartz versus long shot Brad Haskens). And we experienced real attack politics in the race for Wayne County Sheriff (Bob Ficano versus Kevin Kelley).

We saw literally obscene television advertising on behalf of John Mangoopoulos, a (fortunately) unknown Republican running against favorite Dick Chrysler for the GOP nomination in the 6th Congressional District. The spot showed men kissing, aborted fetuses and a naked boy.

After this systematic assault on our public sensibilities, one is tempted to ask, why? The answer is clear: Negative works. And until it doesn't, politicals will be tempted to use it.

The sanctimonious two-faced media monster is loose once more in the land.

On one hand, editorial writers grandly tut-tut about negative ads, while the news side plays up the mudslinging and resolutely refuses to cover any of the serious issue positions of the candidates. The Detroit Free-News Sunday paper was the worst, heading page one coverage with a roundup devoted entirely to mudslinging.

Ask any candidate about his or her success in getting the media to cover an issue-oriented campaign, and you'll get one mad candidate.

Conclusion: We in the media ought to clean up our own act before we dump on the politicians again.

Here's the scoop on state spending priorities

The squeaky wheel gets the grease — and the news coverage. So let's see how much we really know about what has happened to Michigan's economy and state spending over the last decade.

1. True or false: Two-thirds of Michigan's population increase during the 1980s went to prison.

2. State spending on prisons grew nearly 300 percent in the last nine years. Would you be right or wrong in concluding prisons are the biggest part of the state budget?

3. True or false: We'd be better off if the state spent as much on public health programs as it does locking up people in prisons.

4. Let's see if you can rank these categories in Michigan's $20 billion spending plan:
Health programs
Higher education
K-12 school aid
Social services

5. Gov. John Engler generated a lot of controversy for eliminating most of the General Assistance welfare program and cutting aid to the arts, and we've heard schools moan about the "Robin Hood" state aid bill. But let's see if you can rank the departments that took the biggest percentage cuts from fiscal 1991 to '92 in the general fund: Agriculture
Commerce
Education
Labor
Management and Budget

6. Looking at the period 1981-91, would you say the following statement is true, false or blatantly false: "The best cure for welfare dependency is a job."

7. Public schools in Michigan get $2 billion from the school aid fund. If the State Lottery were abolished, how much would the school aid fund lose?
A. 90 percent
B. 50 percent
C. 20 percent.

TIM RICHARD

8. Which department of state government disappeared in 1991? Civil Rights
Licensing and Regulation
Military Affairs

9. Michigan's total population was 9.3 million in the 1990 census, virtually stagnant from 1980. Meanwhile, enrollment in 15 state universities:
A. Fell 8 percent.
B. Remained flat.
C. Rose 8 percent.

The answers are gleaned from "1991-92 Fi$cal Dige$t," prepared by the staff of the Senate Fiscal Agency:

1. True. Michigan's population rose a trivial 33,000 to 9.3 million. The number in Department of Corrections facilities rose more than 22,000 to top 37,000. Thus, two-thirds of our population increase went to prison.

2. Wrong. Although spending on prisons grew 292 percent from $231 million to $905 million, prisons rank only as Michigan's fifth highest priority.

3. False. Of last year's general fund budget, 13.8 percent went to health programs, 11.5 percent to corrections.

4. Social services, nearly 30 percent; K-12 school aid, 14 percent; health, 8.8 percent; and higher education, 6.5 percent.

5. Percentagewise, the biggest losers were Commerce, 42.4; Labor, 30.8; Management and Budget, 30.4; Education (the state staff, not school aid) 18.6; and Agriculture, 16.4. In short, the Lansing bureaucracy was cut to preserve public services.

6. Blatantly false. From 1981-91, total employment in Michigan rose 687,000 to nearly 3.9 million, but the AFDC welfare caseload rose from 191,000 to 205,000 — welfare cases went up even as employment rose. The welfare caseload has a life of its own regardless of what's going on in the general economy.

7. C. 20 percent. The Lottery contributes $456 million to a $2.3 billion fund.

8. Licensing and Regulation. With 500 employees, it was absorbed mostly by the Department of Commerce.

9. C. Higher education's full-time equated student enrollment rose 8 percent to 216,000. Actual head count rose 12 percent to 263,000.

Reports show seniors can still start college studies

Question: I am a 52-year-old high school graduate who has not been in a classroom in 34 years.

I want to go to college this month but doubt I can keep up with all the young students. My memory is not as good as it once was, and I don't know if I will be able to retain information for tests. I am afraid I will be embarassed in a class of younger students. Should I give it a try?

Answer: Get a college catalogue today, see a college counselor now, buy a back-pack for books and get going. Too many gracefully aging adults question their ability to keep pace with the young.

Look at the research! One study, a six-year longitudinal study by Dr.(s) Warner Schaie and Sherry Willis of Pennsylvania State University found it is not age that determines one's mental ability but the amount of mental stimulation a person receives. These researchers were not looking at 30 and 40 year old people. They tapped into those people who have experienced rain and sunshine for 64 to 95 years.

They found that any mental functioning that had declined in an aged person could be reversed once that senior citizen was stimulated by new, enriching learning experiences. The researchers had only a couple of 90-plus year olds, but plenty of 60-, 70- and 80-year-old students.

Frankly, as a former part-time community college and university instructor, I found my mature 50 and older students didn't have as many hangups as some of their younger classmates who were seeking their nitch in life. Most of my seniors had experienced a full measure of life and death, and once in the classroom were not, from my perspective, intimidated by a college instructor. Indeed, I often learned as much from them as they learned from me.

You have made an inference that alll seniors over 50 are out of the college mainstream. Look at the facts! The City University of New York has more than 6,000 students over age 65. The once experimental Harvard Institute of Learning in Retirement (now 14 years old) has 440 students between the ages of 50 and 90.

DOC DOYLE

■ One study, a six-year longitudinal study by Dr.(s) Warner Schaie and Sherry Willis of Pennsylvania State University, found it is not age that determines one's mental ability but the amount of mental stimulation a person receives.

Going back to school may have little to do with getting a degree for many matured adults. Often retired people go back because they have more free time and want some mental stimulation over and above their last golf score.

Contact your local community college or a college/university that has programs which reaches out for the non-traditional student. You are fortunate because both community colleges and universities in this area now have decentralized satellite campuses all over the area that are very convenient for students of all ages. Meet with a college counselor to determine your high interest area.

Senior citizens should ask themselves some basic questions such as: "Do I wish to audit the class for no grade?" "Do I wish to seek a college degree?"

You want a liberal arts degree, it seems, just to get a degree and to be a college graduate. Go for it. If you start now, in a couple of years you will say: "I can't believe I'm this far along toward my degree. If you don't start now, in three years you will say: 'I wish I would have gone back.' "

Do it now and forget about your age, young man.

I've got you by a few years and I'm going back to take anthropology and comparative religions (the closer I get to my maker, the more interest I seem to have in these areas.) See ya' on campus.

O'Hair, Hunter are winners, voters say no to tax increase

BY WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

It was the upset that wasn't.

Late reporting suburban districts secured victory for incumbent Wayne County prosecutor John O'Hair in one of the most narrow county primaries in recent memory.

Challenger Virgil Smith was close to declaring victory as heavy early returns gave him a 70/30 percent lead in the Democratic primary.

"It was close, but I was confident I would win," said O'Hair, prosecutor since 1983. "If I lost, it would have been for all the wrong reasons."

O'Hair openly accused Detroit Mayor Coleman Young of getting Smith to join the race due to anger over O'Hair's prosecution of former Detroit Police Chief William Hart.

Smith, however, said the race centered on O'Hair's reluctance to plea bargain cases that eventually were lost in court.

When the final votes were counted, the tally stood 88,050-83,307 in O'Hair's favor. The primary victory virtually assures O'Hair of re-election. No Republicans or third-party candidates filed for the post.

Smith was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

In other county races of note:

- Former state representative Teola Hunter captured the Democratic nomination for county clerk. Hunter received 66,252 votes to lead the 11 candidate field. Former county commissioner David Cavanagh was a distant second with 36,151.

Hunter will face Republican nominee John Reilly and Tisch Party candidate S. Renrick Hume in the fall. Reilly received 18,193 votes, leading a three-candidate field that also included former Canton clerk Linda Chuhran. Hume received 669 votes in running unopposed. Longtime incumbent James Kileen is retiring.

- County voters said no to a proposed 0.5-mill increase for social service programs. Criticized as vague and heavily opposed in the suburbs, the measure failed by a 3-2 margin. No votes were 137,240 to 94,868 yes votes in the lone county-wide ballot proposal.

- Incumbent county Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz and county Register of Deeds Forest Youngblood also were winners in contested Democratic primaries. Wojtowicz will meet Republican nominee Elaine Tuttle in the fall. Tuttle is a former Livonia city treasurer. Youngblood will face GOP rival Evin Fobbs.

Plawecki claims narrow victory in 9th District commission race

BY WAYNE PEAL
STAFF WRITER

By a whisker, Michelle Plawecki of Dearborn Heights edged Thomas Lawton of Redford Township in the Democratic Party primary for the 9th District Wayne County Commission seat.

Polticial newcomer Plawecki defeated fellow newcomer Lawton by 230 votes in a race that featured four other candidates.

"I think this shows what a good organization and a clean campaign can do," said Plawecki.

Lawton said he was considering asking for a recount.

"I might, but it would be a pro forma thing," Lawton said. "I wouldn't want it to seem vindictive. I did pride myself on running a positive campaign."

Lawton was leading vote-getter in Redford, as well as the Livonia portion of the district.

Plawecki ran a strong third in Redford, also home of fellow candidate Garth Christie.

"I think I did particularly well in Redford, considering I was a first-time candidate she said. "We're going to campaign hard there in the fall."

Plawecki received 3,888 votes to 3,658 for Lawton. Christie received 1,634 votes — most from Redford where he is a township trustee — in finishing third.

Plawecki will meet Republican nominee Roger Handy of Redford in the fall. Though the district is considered Demcoratic, Handy drew 4,765 votes in running unopposed.

In a season of negative campaigning, Plawecki had to defend herself from charges she changed her name for political advantage. Formerly Michelle Vejcik, the 25-year-old Dearborn Heights resident is the stepdaughter of 20th District Judge Edward Plawecki — an unsuccessful candidate in Tuesday's primary for the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The name change was largely an issue in Dearborn Heights, where Plawecki was nonetheless the leading vote-getter. It was linked to a long-running political rivalry between the Plawicki family and the family of fellow candidate Shaun McLachlan, son of the former Dearborn Heights city clerk.

Sparky remembered for CATCH devotion

I can vividly recall, for instance, Gordie Howe slamming into the corners at the Olympia — elbows high — and somehow coming out with the puck.

I still picture Hall of Famer Al Kaline retreating into that right field corner, fielding the ball and whirling to throw the runner out attempting a double.

And there are so many more.

What memorable thoughts.

All of which leads to Sparky Anderson.

A different memory

I wonder how I will remember the garrulous Detroit Tigers manager - a certain Hall of Fame candidate and one of the most prominent field bosses in club history.

Sure, I'll probably remember his provoking conversation with Kirk Gibson just before the Tigers outfielder blasted that monumental home run into the upper deck against San Diego in the '84 series. I'll recall his orchestrated walks to the mound and back, carefully skipping and twisting over the third-base line.

But there will be another way I'll remember Sparky, and it has nothing to do with his on-field exploits.

It has to do with charity — specifically, CATCH.

Caring Athletes Team for Children's and Henry Ford Hospitals (CATCH) undoubtedly is one of the most widely known charities in Detroit. Sparky was the brainchild behind this program and has played an instrumental part in building it to the point where it requires its own organizational chart with a Board of Trusteese, Executive Committee and Executive Director.

CATCH directs money raised from different events for such projects as building wheelchair ramps, rewiring homes to accommodate certain life-saving machines or simply purchasing toys and playroom equipment for the children's sections at both Henry Ford and Children's hospitals.

CATCH's Executive Director Jim Hughes — you may remember his as sports editor for the Rochester and Troy Eccentrics — relates one particularly touching story.

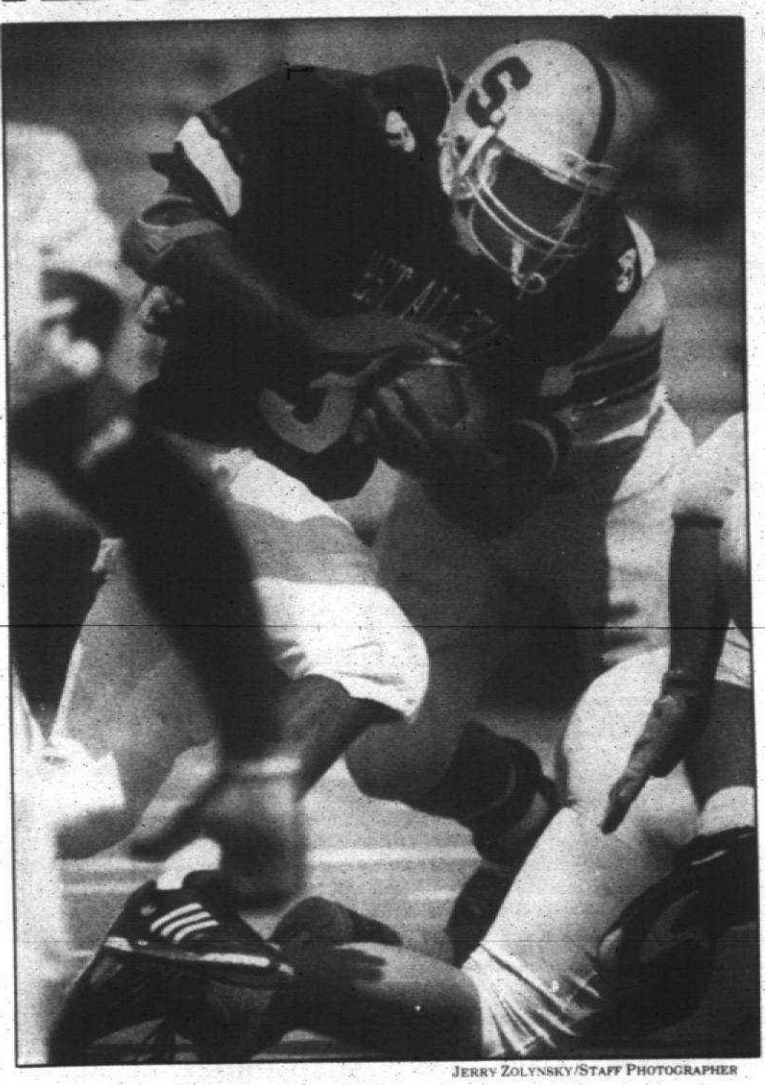
Area all-stars on short end, 21-0



JERRY ZOLYNSKY/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Top rusher: Leon Hister was the leading ground gainer for the East all-stars with 40 yards on eight carries Saturday.

The East all-stars couldn't produce a victory despite the efforts of former Observerland standouts Roy Granger (Harrison) and Leon Hister (Plymouth Salem).

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Granger was always danger, but the West turned out best in the 12th annual Michigan High School Football Coaches Association All-Star Game Saturday at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing.

The East squad, featuring several players from Observerland including Farmington Harrison All-Stater Roy Granger, could not match the muscle and brawn of the West team in a 21-0 defeat. (The series is now tied 6-6.)

"Nobody is going to put their head down because they have their college careers ahead of them," said the 5-foot-8, 172-pound Granger, who will attend Grand Rapids Junior College in the fall. "I thought we could take it in, but they (the West squad) were big up front.

"I thought we could take it in. It would have been closer if not for the penalties, but that's how it goes."

Granger, who broke several rushing records as a tailback last season for state Class BB champion Harrison, was back in his old familiar pass-catching role where he played for the Hawks as a sophomore and junior.

He provided what little offense the East had, catching a pair of passes from his flanker spot for 40 yards to go along with a 34-yard kickoff return to open the second half.

But the West, led by Notre Dame-bound Paul Grasmanis (nine tackles/two sacks), a 6-3, 260-pounder from Jenison, kept the East out of the end zone all afternoon.

After a scoreless first half, the West implemented a power-I attack with Cheboygan's Shannon Scarbrough, a 6-3, 225-pound bruiser at fullback, plowing behind the likes of Michigan State recruits Matt Beard (6-3, 258) from Lansing Sexton and Dave Kehr (6-7, 269) of Grandville.

Scarbrough, who led all rushers with 54 yards in 14 carries, capped a couple of long West drives with touchdown runs of 3- and 1-yard. Jim Gilmer, a squatty tailback from Ontanogan, scored on the game's last play, bouncing off an East tackler and reversing his field for a 25-yard TD run.

Moshimer's offense

"In a game like this you try to make it a wide-open, fan-type game," Moshimer said. "We had the wishbone in on a couple of goal line situations, but we never got close enough to use it.

"We had hoped they (the West) would stay in the I-back stuff and keep throwing, not that power set where Scarbrough ran it down our throats. Give them credit, they were a big, strong team."

Salem's Leon Hister (college undecided) led the East in rushing with 40 yards in eight carries, including a long run of 23.

As for the rest of the Observerland contingent, the game provided a week of learning, good fun and camaraderie.

Ex-Salem star paces Marauders' victory

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

For a rookie player in the Great Lakes Soccer League, Jeff Gold sure draws a lot of attention.

Gold (Plymouth Salem), a member of the Redford Marauders, had several roles during and after a 3-1 win over the Michigan Blazers in a Division I semi-final playoff game Sunday afternoon at Bicentennial Park.

Gold's busy day included a confrontation with the Blazers' Lamarr Peters, a goal and the job of taking the nets off the goal posts after the game.

"I'm a rookie here, so I guess it's my job (to take down the nets)," said Gold, who plays at the University of Wisconsin.

The Marauders will play Flint Bud Light for the championship at 4 p.m. Sunday at Bicentennial. Bud Light won its Sunday semifinal 2-0 over the Ann Arbor Hattricks.

The Blazers stayed tied with the Marauders 1-1 midway through the second half despite losing two players to red-cards early in the game.

The first to leave was Peters, who got a yellow card for taking down Gold with an illegal hit seven minutes into the game and a red card minutes later for jostling with Brady Ericson (Livonia). Peters originally was not given a red card by the referee for the fracas with Ericson, but the linesman overruled and handed Peters an ejection.

Peters was so outraged about the overruling that he had to be pulled away from the linesman by coach Wally Barrett.

Maybe Barrett should have come out of retirement for a game.

"I'm not saying what Peters did was right, but this is my complaint: the center-referee didn't take charge," Barrett said. "If my team loses because they didn't play well, that's one thing. But to have it taken away from you before you have a chance is extremely frustrating."

The Blazers' Brian Thiel (Livonia) got a red card before halftime and Adam Pichler (Livonia) received one late in the game to leave his team with eight players.

"What's amazing was we kept the fans entertained with only nine guys on the field," Barrett said. "We went out fighting."

The Marauders broke the 1-1 tie midway through the second half with a goal by Bob Hayes (Livonia Franklin). Gold scored the third Marauder goal late in the game and it was satisfying since he wasn't thrilled about being blind-sided by Peters.

"I think (Peters' hit) was planned," Gold said. "I had a feeling he wanted me to know what kind of game it was going to be. They wanted to send a message and my goal was my answer."

The Marauders' John Brennan almost broke the tie early in the second half but his shot hit the crossbar behind Blazers' goalie Mike Sheehy (Farmington).

Kurt Will (Livonia) of the Blazers had a scoring chance in the second half but his header sailed wide of the Marauders net, which was manned by Brian O'Shea (Livonia Franklin).

Walter's preps for national tourney

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

Walter's Appliance will be minus its top pitcher Dave Wood, but help is on the way as the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League champs embark on their second trip in four years to Johnstown, Pa. for the All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament.

Because of Wood's unavailability (fractured ankle), manager Mike Keller was able to draft one additional roster player among four LCBL pickups.

Wood, a righthander with a 5-0 record and a league-leading 1.37 earned run average, suffered a season-ending ankle injury playing right field in an opening-round playoff loss to Delwal.

But the Henry Ford Community College product will still make the trip as a coach.

Hard-hitting Aaron Mach of regular season LCBL champion Little Caesars will fill the void in right. He was second in the league with a .388 batting average.

Also added to the roster by Keller and assistant coach Harv Weingarden is Caesars first baseman Mike Giacomantonio, the league's top home run hitter.

Two pitchers from LCBL playoff runnerup Delwal have also been acquired — Todd Boike, a righthander, and Derek Wirebaugh, a lefty.

"Our players felt Boike was the best pitcher they faced this year," Keller said.

Rival manager confident

John Moraitis, manager of rival Caesars, believes Walter's will take a strong team to Johnstown.

"Those fields are made for hitting," he said. "They (Walter's) have a lot of good hitters in their lineup. And with the hitters he (Keller) has, and with good pitching, he could win it."

Walter's last reached the AAABA tourney in 1989, finishing fifth overall at 3-2 with players such as Joe Sturtz (Indiana University), pickup Art George (ex-Evansville) and Rick Karcher (minor leaguer in Atlanta's system).

"Every team has a different character," Keller said. "On paper we're better offensively and defensively, but we all know paper doesn't win ballgames.

"At the beginning of the summer we felt this was a good team on paper, and we felt the kids we had could do it because we had a lot of good ballplayers from last year."

Jeff Pendell (.366), Walter's third baseman, is the lone returning member left from that '89 squad.

This year's lineup is solid throughout with the likes of Eric Stover and Jeff Schaffer (.348) behind the plate; RBI league leader Jason Gabel at first; Joe Brusseau at second; and league batting champ Paul Pirronello (.395) at short.

They are joined by outfielders Craig Overaitis (.348) and Kevin Young (.362).

"I'd say that Jeff Schaffer adapted well to the Collegiate League right out of high school (Livonia Franklin)," Keller said. "But that really wasn't a surprise."

Playoff recap

Walter's, ironically, was nearly ousted from the LCBL playoffs before it even started, losing the opener to Delwal, 8-3, before bouncing back in the loser's bracket to beat Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury (10-5), Caesars (7-6) and Delwal twice (7-4 and 9-7).

And during five-day double-elimination tourney, pitchers Lou McKaig (1-0), Bryan Pfeiffer (1-0), Steve Ross (1-0) and Sean Henkel (two saves) came through in the clutch.

Add starter Mike Coleman, to go along with Wirebaugh and Boike, and Walter's looks formidable on the mound heading for Johnstown.

"I thought the talent among the four (playoff) teams this summer was pretty equal," Keller said. "There was a lot of parity because we all battled close during the regular season. We just wanted it and by chance it was us.

"We want to make sure we represent the City of Livonia and the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League as best we can."

Caesars, meanwhile, begins action today in the National Amateur Baseball Federation College-Division regional tourney in Sterling Heights (Bishop Gallagher complex).

Moraitis said he may add three LCBL players to his tourney roster.

Among those mentioned are pitcher Scott Rodgers (Hines Park), home run co-champ Tom Kretschmer (Delwal) and pitcher Mark Temple (Delwal).

SPORTS SHORTS

Items for the Sports Roundup should be submitted by 5 p.m. Tuesday (for Thursday edition) and 5 p.m. Friday (for the Monday edition).

■ CUBS WIN TITLE

The Cubs won the World Series championship and finished the season with a perfect record (16-0) in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League A Division. The Cubs defeated the Yankees 2-0 and 13-2 in the best-two-of-three series in early July.

■ PUBLINX GOLF

Dennis O'Leary of Dearborn Heights defeated Szilagyi, the defending champ, 5-and-4. A.C. Burks of Detroit won the title 3-and-1 Saturday over Bill McDonald of Troy.

■ SWIM PRACTICE

Plymouth Canton will begin preseason practice for it's girls swimming and diving team Monday, Aug. 10. Practice starts at 9 a.m. and ends at noon. Call coach Hooker Wellman (453-2036) for information.

The Plymouth Salem girls will begin practice Wednesday, Aug. 12, and will have the same hours.

■ SOCCER TRYOUTS

The 1977 Plymouth Kicks under-16 boys Little Caesars Premier soccer team will have tryouts 3-5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, at Pioneer Middle School, 46081 W. Ann Arbor Rd. For information call Paul Kogut (455-8175) or Jerry Deren (462-3608).

Kings, Spartans play for MSHL title

The Metro Summer Hockey League championship will be determined tonight between the Kings and Spartans at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Face-off is at 8 p.m.

In the split, two-tier playoff format this year, the regular-season champion Kings and Spartans finished with 3-1 records in the Bakes Division. The top two teams play for the title.

The Windy City Division, which consisted of the bottom five teams during the regular season, had its final game Wednesday.

The Huskies, Bulldogs and Wildcats had 3-1 records in the playoffs, and a goal differential was needed to break the deadlock.

The Huskies (plus 20) and Bulldogs (plus 15) passed the test while a 14-6 loss to the Bulldogs on Tuesday proved costly for the Wildcats (plus 9). The Wildcats could have lost by as many as five and still advanced by having scored more goals.

The Canadiens finished 2-2 in the Bakes Division, the Broncos and Wolves 1-3. In the Windy City standings, the Falcons were 1-3 and the Lakers 0-4.

To reach the championship round, the Bulldogs got three goals apiece from Vic Decina and Brian Lindstrom to defeat the Wildcats Tuesday. Scott Wright had four assists, Decina three and Lindstrom two.

Paul Neito had two goals and two assists for the Wildcats. In another Tuesday game, the Kings trounced the Broncos 19-3 to clinch a berth in the Bakes final.

The Spartans, who were fourth in the regular season, clinched the other Bakes position by routing the Broncos 11-4 Monday.

Scott Lock, Max Westphal and Paul Tachkevitch scored two goals apiece for the Spartans. Tachkevitch also had two assists and Lock one.

Jody Pemberton had a pair of goals and one assist for the Broncos. In another Monday contest, the Huskies dominated the Lakers 19-4.

Michael Johnson scored five goals and had two assists Sunday as the Canadiens beat the Wolves 14-4. Joe Bonnett added three goals, Scott Johnson two goals, Matt Corriveau one goal and five assists.

■ HOCKEY

The Wolves were weakened by the loss of wing Tim Osborn, who left Friday to play hockey in Sweden.

Chris Freeman and Rick Bernard had a pair of hat tricks Sunday while leading the Falcons to a 14-8 win over the Lakers. Freeman also had two assists. Darrell Mason scored four goals for the Lakers.

In the closest of the final playoff games, the Huskies edged the Bulldogs 7-5 Sunday.

The Huskies were led by Mark Chappelli with two goals and Scott Wozniak with one goal and two assists. Decina had two goals and two assists for the Bulldogs, Lindstrom one goal and two assists.

"The competition was a step up, pass-blocking was a little easier for me, but not doing it all winter made it tough," said Westland John Glenn offensive lineman Jason Hagelthorn, who is bound for Central Michigan. "We had a good offense, but just needed a little more time."

Farmington's Matt Siskosky, a late addition to the East squad, teamed up with Hagelthorn on the offensive line.

"I came in a day late," said Siskosky, who is headed for Yale. "I had been working out and heard that I was an alternate, but I had no clue I was going to play.

"We screwed up some assignments, but being with the players was a lot of fun."

Hagelthorn and Siskosky, however, can claim one crown.

"When it comes to Euchre, we're the best," Hagelthorn said.

"Nobody can beat the Western Lakes (Conference) when it comes to Euchre," added Siskosky.

Good experience

Redford St. Agatha defensive back Cardell Davis, who will attend College of DuPage (Ill.), was thankful for the opportunity to play.

"I met a lot of new guys and we had a great time practicing," he said. "It was tough (the game) because the running backs were bigger. Everybody was bigger."

The game also featured Redford Bishop Borgess defensive tackle Justin Gugala, who is headed to Eastern Michigan.

Moshimer's assistants at Salem — Jim Jarvey, Tom Garrett and Mark Gregor — also worked the game.

"It was a nice experience, and the kids thought so, too, " Moshimer said. "Even though the outcome was not the way we liked, personally I had a great week."

Granger, who did not meet NCAA Division I academic entrance requirements, said he plans to return to Spartan Stadium in two years.

"They (MSU) have stayed behind me and I'll be back," he said. "What I'll remember about this game is that we got killed, but I'll be back (10 years) with the fellas for the (players) reunion."

It centers around a father whose child was dying of cancer. The father didn't have any paid time off from work. He took the time off anyhow and spent the final precious days with his son before he died. It turned out CATCH paid one month rent for the family.

Upcoming CATCH events

This is not just a public relations gimmick by Anderson. He sincerely is interested in the welfare of young children. Besides, Sparky doesn't need any PR manager. He creates enough publicity on his own.

Sparky will be on hand at some important CATCH events slated for this area.

This Saturday, Aug. 8, the Southfield Civic Center will host: "CATCH the Stars." It's an autograph show from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. featuring the likes of Cecil Fielder, Steve Yzerman, Tony Phillips, Alan Trammell and Willie Horton, among others.

Tickets are $5 and can be redeemed at the athlete's table. Each autograph will cost $5. During the show, a limited number of sports related items will be auctioned off.

It seems to me that paying for these autographs is a much more worthwhile cause than paying for an autograph at all these mercenary card shows throughout the area.

On Sept. 14, the Major League Baseball Players Alumni Association Golf Outing will be held at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club. Each foursome plays with a Major League Baseball Player or other local celebrity.

Try and catch one of these events if you get a chance. Maybe you can add an off-field sports memory to your collection.

The Marauders played without Dan O'Shea, who is out with a leg injury but not contemplating retirement. Also missing was John Gentile (Livonia Churchill), who is touring Europe with a team.

Steve McCaul (Redford Catholic Central) made a successful return to the lineup, getting an assist in his first action since breaking a leg last fall at Michigan State University.

"He's the most explosive player in the league," O'Shea said of McCaul.

Divisions II and III

Jelisco and the Ann Arbor Chillers will meet in the Division II final at 2 p.m. Sunday at Bicentennial. Jelisco beat the African Stars 3-2 in one Sunday semifinal and the Chillers blanked Casey's Eye Jacks 3-0 in the other semi.

The Division III final will pit the Plymouth Blast against the Red Wings at 1 p.m. Sunday at Bicentennial. The Blast beat Zacateces 2-1 in a semifinal and the Red Wings beat the North Oakland Blizzard 2-1 in a semi.

Good Ol' Days make comeback

AL HARRISON

When is the last time you laced them up and went bowling for a mere 50 cents? I'll bet it's been awhile — like a decade or two.

In August, local bowling centers will be running a promotion that they've been doing for several years entitled, "The Good Ol' Days."

As part of this campaign, most local proprietors will turn back the clock and roll back the prices to 50 cents per game. In addition, there will be discounted items at the snack bar.

This promotion is the brainchild of the Bowling Proprietors Association and has several benefits.

It allows those who have never bowled a chance to try the sport, it gives league bowlers a chance to polish their skills, and it's an opportunity for the bowling centers to test their equipment.

Most bowling centers are running the campaign Aug. 9-16. Rates may vary from one house to the next.

- Last week, the first National Team Challenge took place at Cherry Hill Lanes.

A unique feature was the Baker Scoring System. For those who are not familiar, the Baker System is like a batting order in baseball.

The leadoff bowler rolls the first and sixth frames, the second bowler rolls the second and seventh frames, and so forth.

This is really good for team bowling because individual records never appear. If you happened to watch PASS last Wednesday, this tournament aired right after the Detroit Tiger-Chicago White Sox baseball game.

The Detroit area was the first of 12 stops for this tourney. The winner in each city goes to the national finals next June in Reno, Nev.

For those who couldn't watch the action, Goebel Light defeated Kelley's Pro Shop of Omaha, Neb. The winning team pocketed $3,000 and will travel to Reno.

Second place went to Cherry Hill North, which consists of Larry Walker, Paul Grauzer, Troy Stus, Gene Stus and Mike Torchia.

Another team from our area, Ansara's Big Boy, finished fourth. The team was made up of Lou Ansara, Bob Chamberlain, Tony Stipcak, Nunzio Marino, Steve Basczuk and David Mahaz.

The next stop on the tour, Syracuse, NY, can be seen on PASS Sunday at 4 p.m.

EXERCISING OPTIONS

MYRNA PARTRICH

I have been reading more about you lately. I know you are familiar with all types of exercise. Do you recommend yoga and does it really work?

A few months ago, at one of our weekly business meetings, my partner Barbara and I decided that yoga was the only exercise other than swimming missing from our program. When considering the practicality of building a swimming pool, we ultimately decided on yoga.

The next day, in walked Jonathan Kest, a yoga expert.

I thought it had to be a joke. Was this man sent down from heaven?

The theory of yoga is basic and easily understood. Yoga is considered a natural solution to body abnormalities, whether mental or physical. Kest's father was no longer able to practice oral surgery due to a debilitating chronic back pain.

Yoga played a major role in his father's recovery. Many experts in mental health highly recommend yoga to release stress and gain control over one's emotions.

Kest describes the differences: "Hatha Yoga is the science of yoga that deals with the physical body. It is the form of yoga that is most popularly known. It consists of postures which stretch and strengthen the body and of breathing and relaxation techniques.

"Meda yoga enlightens the mental factor in yoga. So in addition to stretching and strengthening the body, Meda yoga develops the faculties of concentration, awareness and balance of the mind, emphasizing the deep connection between mind and body.

"Meda yoga is a powerfully calming exercise using meditation and yoga to develop the concentration, awareness and balance of the mind and to increase the flexibility, strength, balance and stamina of the body.

"Through a series of movements based on classic yoga postures, observation of the natural breath and conscious awareness of bodily sensations deep-seated tension is released both physically and mentally."

Kest finds himself to be a positive catalyst in helping people change their lives. He studied and practiced yoga and meditation in India, London, Hawaii, California, Massachusetts and Michigan. He graduated from the University of Michigan studying human physiology and psychology. He is a member of the Yoga Association of Greater Detroit and a member of the International Association of Yoga Therapists. He now devotes his life to the practice and teaching of yoga and meditation, helping people face all the tensions and problems of life in a calm, balanced way.

Thank you Mr. Kest!

Now here is how it goes. Throw away those tranquilizers and sleeping pills. This really works. When I am finished with yoga class, I feel like I have just experienced a massage. How's that one for you?

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company in Bloomfield Hills and an appointee to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and to the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Please send your questions to: Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009.)

Here's how to cure slow drains forever. Professional plumbers know the real problem is not in the U-shaped trap. It is in the pipes behind the wall and underground -- the other 99% of your plumbing system.
NOT the Problem
It starts with a deposit of grease or soap film. The same film that leaves a ring around your tub or sink. In time daily deposits form a black, smelly layer of gook. As the gook gets thicker your drains run slower and slower.
Now, without calling a costly rooter service, you can remove this gook with Plumb Clean®.
Amazing Plumb Clean® contains safe, natural bacteria. As they multiply they move from the trap to the sewer or septic. Since they use the gook for food they literally eat your pipes clean.
Revolutionary Plumb Clean® is so simple and safe even a child can use it!

JIM RIDER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Eating Out

One of the best kept lunch spot secrets is the Summer Tea Room at Oakland University's Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester Hills. Open 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, the tea room is like the luscious fruits and vegetables of summer. You can't wait until they arrive, and are sorry to see them go.

Hurry, time is running out. The tea room will close September 4. It's a great place to meet a friend and "catch-up."

The tea room's menu has changed quite a bit since Cregar Enterprises Executive Gourmet, Inc. won the Meadow Brook account for catering. Chef Steven Machlay cooks up an ever changing menu of creative soups, sandwiches, salads and entrees sure to please every palate.

"This is an elegant house. It deserves food that reflects the surroundings," said Machlay, a graduate of Andover High School, Bloomfield Hills who planned to be an actor and studied at Wayne State University. He worked in restaurants to pay his expenses, and decided to switch careers.

"I like the business. I get to be creative and expressive. I enjoy working with my hands," he said.

Machlay's father and stepfather are both in the restaurant business. His father, Jim owned a small family restaurant in California, and is now in the pizza business. His stepfather, Richard, owns Cregar Enterprises, and his brother Michael is a vice president in the company. But, like a lot of people who become chefs, Machlay started out as dishwasher.

With plans to be an actor, he moved to California and worked with his father Jim Machlay in his family-style restaurant. While in California he completed a three year culinary program, and later attended the Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, New York.

He stayed in New York for a year and worked at a number of restaurants before moving back to the Detroit area. Machlay worked at the Money Tree restaurant in Detroit and was a sous-chef at the Whitney in Detroit before he joined Cregar Enterprises.

"Originally they served hamburgers, sandwiches and salads in the tea room," said Machlay who is working to upscale the menu a little. "A lot of families and kids come here, so I didn't want the prices to be too high," he said.

The menu is constantly changing. Usually there (are) two cold entree salads, a burger, a couple of sandwiches, a pasta, fish and meat dish.

"My main emphasis is fresh," said Machlay who enjoys being a chef and takes pride in his work. "I like to educate people about food." For example, he put some enokidake mushrooms in the vegetarian sandwich. "It wasn't on the menu, people ask 'what is that?' they learn something new about food."

Machlay's enthusiasm and sense of adventure with food shows in his menu. Cranberries were added to a chilled Borscht (beet soup) to add a fruity, summery flavor. The angel hair pasta with broccoli, cauliflower, red pepper, Bermuda onion, sun-dried tomatoes and rosemary cream has pistachio nuts in it.

A grilled strip steak is served with three peppercorn sauce. His pork tenderloin stir-fry — carrots, pea pods, bean sprouts, bok choy, broccoli and seasame seeds is served over coconut rice.

Many of the dishes are garnished with herbs and flowers he grows in his garden just outside the kitchen door.

The desserts which include homemade cheesecake, tortes and fruit flans are heavenly. Be sure you leave room.

State is home to many diverse species

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Careful investigation of the natural world allows investigators to see the diversity of life that surrounds them. Exploring the various groups of plants and animals can instill an appreciation for the various forms of life that share this earth.

For instance, when I ask people to tell me how many species of birds have been seen in Michigan, many think that their guestimate of 50 is too high. They are aware of a few, but most people do not realize that 370 species of birds have been seen in the state of Michigan. Some of those have only been seen a handful of times; but 230 species nest in the state. Birds that nest in the state are those that provide adequate time for observation.

Though most mammals are nocturnal and only become active at night, many people recognize several of the larger species found in the state. There are, however, approximately 65 species that have been seen in the state. Several of them are small mice and rodents that are both nocturnal, and hard to see because of their size. Sixty-five is still more than most people are aware of.

Michigan also harbors 10 species of turtles, two lizards and 17 species of snakes. Not all turtles seen are snapping turtles. Nine other species that range from the terrestrial box turtle to the small stinkpot frequent our lakes and forests.

For many years, it was thought that there was only one species of lizard in Michigan, the five-lined skink.

Recently, however, in the Saginaw Bay area, a small isolated population of six-lined racerunners has been found.

Snakes also come in various sizes and shapes in Michigan. One species, like the brown snake, does not get much bigger than large earthworms and is seldom seen except by the keen observer.

Michigan's location puts it in an area where there is a transition from northern coniferous trees to southern deciduous trees. There are 10 species of coniferous trees native to Michigan. Throughout Michigan, there are more trees and shrubs found than in all of Europe put together.

This diversity of plant life helps account for the diversity of animal life and the variety of insects that are found. In Michigan alone, there are 157 species of butterflies and skippers. Throughout the world, experts feel there are at least a million different species of insects. An overwhelming majority are neutral to man, if not beneficial. Only a very small proportion are detrimental to man.

One way to become familiar with the variety of life in Michigan is to visit some of the natural history museums. The University of Michigan has an excellent variety of Michigan animals on display.

Currently at the Cranbrook Institute of Science Museum, there is a marvelous display of insect diversity. There are mechanical insects enlarged as much as 94 times their original size. They are very accurate representations and move. In addition, there are several hands-on models to demonstrate how remarkable insects are. Along with the hands-on models there are several cases to illustrate the adaptations that make insects the most abundant animal in the world.

Knollenberg beats media blitz, Honnigman, Gilbert

By Greg Kowalski
Staff Writer

Joe Knollenberg's grass roots work and GOP party support fueled his upset victory over high-spending, embattled candidates Dave Honigman and Alice Gilbert in the 11th U.S. House District.

While Honigman and Gilbert battled it out on TV and radio ads accusing each other of job incompetency and insensitivity to the voters, Knollenberg generally stood back and stayed out of the fray.

And, with the backing of retiring U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, the Bloomfield Township insurance agency owner and GOP activist quietly won over voters. Knollenberg took 43 percent of GOP votes to Honigman's 30 percent and Gilbert's 27 percent.

By 11:15 p.m. Tuesday Honigman had agreed Knollenberg's strategy worked as he conceded the race to him.

Knollenberg put into practice the strong Republican campaign of promoting family ethics and a strict anti-abortion platform. And he used an army of relatives to support him.

Knollenberg's brother, Walter said, "I've never been involved in politics before. He didn't have a big budget to work with," he said of Knollenberg's campaign. Walter's wife, Ellen, and son, Erik, 18, also worked on the Knollenberg campaign making phone calls and passing out literature.

Knollenberg's son, Marty, said, "I think it went super. If anybody voted for Honigman or Gilbert, I can't figure it out. We got two candidates beating each other. That's not what the people want. We worked at the grass roots level."

Marty said the Knollenberg campaign, had far less money to work with than Honigman, who reported-ly spent upwards of $750,000 and Gilbert, with a campaign budget of at least more than Knollenberg's $169,000 spending.

Knollenberg said he concentrated on the new areas being brought into the district, such as Livonia and traditionally Democratic areas like Southfield and Redford.

But Knollenberg said he didn't write them off as non-Republican voters. "They are significant parts of the district," he said.

Those areas will also be key to Democrat primary winner Walter O. Briggs IV, who will get his wish and face Knollenberg in the election Nov. 3.

"Joe obviously has a lot of benefits for us," Briggs said during a victory party at the Whistle Stop in Birmingham where the Birmingham accountant predicted just after 9 p.m. that Knollenberg would win.

To win this fall, Briggs said he'll focus on getting the Democratic base of voters in Southfield and Redford, plus "persuadable voters" in Livonia, West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills.

While he won't get into a dirty campaign or one of personalities, Briggs said, "We're going to go on the offensive, but we're going to focus on areas of substance."

Republicans planned a unity breakfast for Wednesday morning to kick off the general election push.

Former judge Gilbert, whose prochoice position brought her into the race and is the opposite of Knollenberg's, didn't directly say Tuesday whether she would support him.

"The party will support Joe Knollenberg," Gilbert said, with the implication that she is part of the Republican party.

"I was the only candidate who did not say anything negative about Joe Knollenberg," she added.

Meanwhile, Honigman conceded the win to Knollenberg by saying, "I'll do all I can in November for Joe. I will back Joe."

Honigman, a three-term state Representative and first-term state senator, said he had no regrets.

"As my old high school wrestling coach said, 'suffering builds character,'" Honigman said.

LESSON NO. 3

"No matter if you're on the road to Rio or going just around the corner, without a safety belt my friend you're on the road to ruin."

"Ruin, is that a small town in France, Vince?"

"No, dashboard breath, what I'm saying is whether your trip is short or long, you should be buckled up."

LESSON NO. 4

"And Vince, folks should remind others to wear their safety belts too. Remember there could be a dummy in your car."

YOU COULD LEARN A LOT FROM A DUMMY. BUCKLE YOUR SAFETY BELT.

The shroud at the surface catches vapors and minute particles before sending them along to an attached filter trailer for processing.

"It's safer from the standpoint that something below the surface doesn't have to be exposed to the air," said Jim Brannigan, an environmental engineer with Millgard.

"Our economy of scale works that the more pollution there is to treat, the deeper it is and the more difficult the drilling, the cheaper it becomes for us.

"That's the beauty of it — the shear, raw power and mechanical mixing ability," Branningan said. "What our tool does is allow a path for any process that can remediate in place, pull up to the ground or micro encapsulation (mixing with concrete)."

So far, his company has dealt with a Super Fund project in the Houston area, a GM project in Indianapolis, a chemical plant project near Philadelphia and a government project near Columbus, Ohio, Millgard said.

He figures that his services would typically cost one-third to one-half less than excavating and landfilling.

"Of all projects out there today, our process would apply to 70 to 80 percent," Millgard said. "It would be very difficult in confined areas, where you have to go into buildings. Another would be an area that's very shallow.

"We will see probably 50 percent will be handled by solidification (mixing concrete with the contaminants). The rest would be a combination of biomediation (microbe ingestion) and soil venting (steam and hot air forcing vapors into the shroud)," Millgard said.

There are several levels of sales, said Jeffrey Jacobs, manager of marketing services for Millgard.

"Number one is the EPA. The purpose with that or whatever regulatory body is not to sell the process, but help them understand how it works and allow them to be in a position to approve (on a specific proposal)," Jacobs said.

"Engineering firms is the second level. A company needing a site cleanup will normally hire an environmental engineering firm. We want to get them to understand what we can do.

"The third level is the level of the customer itself," he said.

Millgard and a business partner — a subsidiary of Waste Management, the trash hauler — has pumped some $10 million in 3½ years from concept study to now, Millgard said.

"I never intended on putting that much money in. All of a sudden, you reach a point of no return. It will not have been a bad return," Millgard said.

While his foundation contracting company, started in 1963, generates sales of $25-$40 million per year, the potential for the environmental company "will be much more than that," Millgard said.

"This company very shortly will be doing a tremendous amount of work," he said. "Not only will we be operational in the U.S. but in Canada and very shortly we'll be operational in Europe as well."

THE Observer & Eccentric NEWSPAPERS
HOMELINE 953-2020

SUBURBAN BUSINESS LEADERS

Flo-Tec Incorporated of Plymouth, a supplier of non-woven materials to the liquid filtration industry, has appointed Timothy Yarnell to the position of vice president and general maanger.

Peter Sexton, John Zappitll, Dennis Nierman and Patrick Burdo, top sales representatives from Carrier Michigan Company in Livonia, were honored at the annual Inside Training meeting of the Carrier Corporation, the world's largest manufacturer of heating and air conditioning systems and equipment.

Kevin W. Henderson of Farmington Hills has been appointed manager of servicing carrier operations at the Amerisure Companies in Detroit.

Susan Safranski of Livonia, a school psychologist for Birmingham Schools for the past 13 years, has been elected to the position of western regional director of the National Association of School Psychologists.

The Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn recently promoted Holly Dawson of Plymouth to the position of national sales manager of the 308-room hotel. She will be responsible for handling all corporate accounts in the state of Michigan while taking on additional leadership roles among the ten member sales team.

TIME Magazine has named Tom Bohlander of Plymouth, the owner of Sunnyside Honda, a Honda dealership in Middleburg Heights, Ohio, a recipient of the 1992 TIME Magazine quality dealer award.

Valassis Communications, Inc. recently announced the addition of two new vice presidents to its manufacturing area at Valassis Inserts. Blaine G. Gerber was named vice president of the company's printing operations division, and Ronald L. Goolsby was named vice president of the company's Livonia Priniting division.

Plymouth resident Dan Hugelier, CMC, and culinary arts professor at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, was the lead judge at the American Culinary Federation Alaska Culinary Association third annual International Ice Carving Competition in Anchorage.

On-site waste treatment developed

A technology refined and patented by a commercial foundation contractor headquartered in Livonia could signal a new standard operating procedure when it comes to cleaning contaminated soil and water sites.

The concept is simple.

Instead of excavating and relocating contaminants to landfills, treat a problem right where it exists, maintains V. Dennis Millgard, president of Millgard Environmental Corp. and Millgard Corp.

It's more efficient, safer and cost effective, he said.

Millgard has developed a protective filtering shroud and adapted excavating drills on heavy-duty cranes to accomplish one of three cleanup processes — entombment, soil vapor extraction or microbe ingestion.

"This is without question the most important process to ever come along in the hazardous contamination remediation business," Millgard said. "We have patents on the shroud and tools, but we've also received a patent for the process itself."

The most likely candidates for Millgard's services are contaminated industrial sites and government properties like munition sites and military bases.

Drills are able to penetrate more than 100 feet deep, 12 to 15 feet in diameter, Millgard said. Concrete, microbes or steam and air can be sent down the shaft through the drill bit depending on contamination type.

Investment advice runs contrary to popular belief

George P. Schwartz, owner of a Bloomfield Hills investment counseling firm, prefers to follow a contrarian philosophy when it comes to putting his clients' money to work.

That means he doesn't like to follow the crowd.

Schwartz targets companies that have proven track records but have fallen out of favor temporarily with the investment community for one reason or another and are available at a discount price.

It could be product liability problems, a downturn in a market or an uncertain labor situation.

"I don't believe in being contrarian just to be obstinate," said Schwartz, 47. "If you can take a contrarian view of the world, the market, a particular stock, it's almost impossible not to make money."

Many investors who follow conventional wisdom buy too high and sell too low, Schwartz said. "They react rather than anticipate. They get enthused about stocks after they go up a lot and depressed after they go down."

George M. Richmond, a chartered financial analyst and investment counselor with J.D. Martin & Co., also is a contrarian.

"There's a factor in Wall Street known as emotions — fear and greed — that influences decisions a lot more than you want to admit," Richmond said. "It's very difficult to accept to buy when the outlook is worst and sell when the outlook is best. That's so hard emotionally to do."

Contrarians take a long-range view and make sure their stock picks have fundamental bases for support.

"It has to be a good company to start with. It can't be incompetent, dishonest management. If it's well-financed, well-managed and has a temporary problem, it's a candidate for acquisition," Schwartz said.

He prefers small capitalization firms, those with a value or annual sales of less than $1 billion, because he believes there's more room for growth. Schwartz also leans toward what he calls franchise companies, those that have a strong share of their markets.

Two past "franchise" favorites identified by Schwartz are MEDSTAT Systems (NASDAQ), which has one of the largest medical data bases in the world, and MBIA (NYSE), which insures municipal bonds.

"It's helpful to buy a stock when it's out of favor," Richmond said. "That way, you can buy on price weakness rather than chasing it when it's going up."

Richmond cited good buys on the down side of Kellogg (NYSE), temporarily hurt when oat bran cereal suddenly came in vogue, and ConAgra (NYSE), a packaged food producer that fell when investors started selling off on the belief that food stocks had peaked in price.

Schwartz started his own firm in 1980 after serving five years as a researcher at Roney & Co., 2½ years as a researcher at Manley Bennett McDonald and 6½ years as manager of the trust investment department at National Bank & Trust Co. of Ann Arbor.

He said he manages more than $100 million. Equity accounts must have a value of at least $1.5 million, fixed income $5 million. His fee is based on a percentage of assets managed, not sales commissions.

Taubman offers stock buy

If you've ever wanted to be in the shoes of Bloomfield Hills developer A. Alfred Taubman, you soon will have the opportunity to do so — in a manner of speaking.

Taubman's company has announced plans to offer 26.8 million shares of common stock in Taubman Centers Inc. that would enable purchasers to become owners of a shopping mall empire that includes 19 centers in 11 states.

It is anticipated that the initial stock offering will be priced at $12.50 to $14.50 per share.

"Structuring as a public company allows us to move forward without debt and go to public markets (for financing) in the future," said Christopher J. Tennyson, vice president of corporate affairs for the Taubman Co.

"The proceeds for the offering will be used to surrender the loan the company now has with GM and AT&T trusts," Tennyson said. "The motivation is to position the company to take advantage of acquisition and development opportunities as well as expansion opportunities."

When the sale is finished, shareholders will own about 33 percent of the company, Taubman and key associates 26 percent, and GM trusts 41 percent.

The 19 shopping centers in the offering include Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn, Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, Briarwood in Ann Arbor and Lakeside in Sterling Heights.

Morgan Stanley & Co., Alex Brown & Sons, and Dean Witter Reynolds will lead an underwriting syndicate which will offer shares in the U.S.

"We anticipate we will be able to offer shares sometime in September after review by the SEC," Tennyson said. "We expect these to be broadly traded. There are opportunities here for a strong return as well as growth."

Odors send messages to opposite sex

BY JOANNE SOBCZAK
SPECIAL WRITER

After several hours repairing a car, Jack Badgero doesn't have to run home and shower before meeting his fiancee. Angelette Wyrick could care less if Badgero ever buys a bottle of "Obsession for Men." She enjoys the fragrance of Badgero's eau de motor oil.

Wyrick isn't unusual in her response when coupling sex with the sense of smell. Even though we spend billions of dollars on perfumes and other toiletries to smell like roses, the natural animal in us may come out best right under our noses.

"There does seem to be a broad range of various odors that have an impact on humans; most sexologists would agree that odor serves as an erotic stimulus," said Dr. Dennis Sugrue, director of Henry Ford Hospital's Center for Human Sexuality in Farmington Hills. "There may be inherent odors that we biologically respond to, but most likely because of the way our brain is wired, we will pick up on odors that will signal certain mood experiences or recollections."

The natural scent still at issue is pheromone, a semi-chemical that has a specific effect on sexual behavior. These sex signals are found in many animal species. The controversy centers on whether or not humans have them and, if so, can we detect them.

According to laryngologist Dr. Jeffrey Weingarten at Providence Hospital in Southfield, 600 million years ago, the sense of smell was the first long distance sensory receptor to develop.

But with evolution, the increase in cranial capacity and a reduction in the facial structure, particularly the size of the nose, affected our sense of smell.

"It may be true to say that the sense of smell in a man has changed with the apparent increased dominance of the other senses," said Weingarten.

WILLIAM HANSEN /STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Unisex perfume: Perfumist and cosmetic consultant Michele Elle of Micele Cosmetics has come up with a unisex perfume, "Michel Renee," with oils so condensed that they are not altered by the body.

Of the five senses, the sense of smell may be the least researched. But it is one sense that can trigger our urge to eat or evoke memories of the past. The cosmetic industry is spending millions on it. And it's all because the nose knows.

BY JOANNE SOBCZAK
SPECIAL WRITER

He was 20 years old and the only crew member of a 51-foot charter sailboat in the Virgin Islands. He'd left Michigan and his grade school sweetheart to pursue a life at sea.

"I started thinking a lot about her," recalled Michael Josaitis. "We were keeping in touch by mail. I began to feel lonely. After reading over again a letter I received from her, I decided to stop at a drugstore on my way back to the boat.

"I noticed a bottle of 'Heaven Scent' . . . 'Heaven Scent' was her favorite perfume probably because it was inexpensive and she would have money leftover for her second greatest love, ice cream."

Sometimes people become enraptured by thoughts of long ago, just like those of the now 31-year-old residental renovator, based on a single olfactory experience. Studies have shown that we can recall a smell better in our long-term memory than we can words or images.

Dr. Dennis Sugrue, psychologist and founder of the Henry Ford Hospital Center for Human Sexuality in Farmington Hills, confirms the important yet mysterious connection between a pleasant memory and a particular aroma. For him, it's that cozy holiday feeling elicited when he smells a pine cone.

And that was certainly the case for Josaitis.

"I knew that if I could smell her, she would know I was there for her," he said. "It would also be like having her with me. So I sprayed a little of the perfume on my blanket and pillow, hoping it would take me back to Michigan."

Big investment

The cosmetic industry invests big bucks in aromachology, the study of the interrealtionship between psychology and fragrance technology, so it would be a mistake on their part to dismiss the impact scent has on the psyche.

"The nose, nasal physiology and the sense of smell are the most underresearched of our five senses," said Dr. Jeffrey Weingarten, an ear, nose and throat specialist a Providence Hospital in Southfield.

Aromas, he said, promote relaxation and alleviate stress, elevate moods, raise attention and task performance, enhance memory recall, improve self-esteem, modify sleep and enhance sexuality.

Aromatherapy, the use of therapeutic essences to alter the psychological or stress state, is prescribed to decrease anxiety and distress in medical patients. However, "unpleasant odors can also have a significant impact on moods. Scents can disrupt sleep patterns (peppermint) or enhance sleep patterns (jasmine)," he said.

When Chicago cosmetic executive Marilyn Miglin began researching the history of perfume, she discovered that in early Egyptian civilizations certain essences were considered "more precious than gold."

"These sophisticated people knew that perfume did more than make one

Class takes a 'byte' out of computers for kids

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

At age 4, Matthew Sweda displays a proficiency and ease with the computer that many users with ages in the double digits would like to have.

He and other youngsters ages 3-6 worked on computers in a recent Discovery Days class at New Morning School in Plymouth Township. The computer class was one of many offered this summer for preschool and school-age children at New Morning, a parent cooperative school.

"They've only been here three times, so they're doing pretty well," Marilyn Romack, a teacher and Discovery Days program director, said during a session last week. A number of parents helped out with the computer class.

Children used computer programs focusing on such things as shape and number recognition, eye-hand coordination, addition and subtraction. Some of the class time during the two-week session was spent on activities other than computer work.

Kids in other Discovery Days classes had just as much fun, making puppets, solving mysteries and enjoying other activities. Classes, for children ages 3-11, ended last week.

The summertime sessions attract students from the community who don't attend New Morning during the school year, said Romack, a Canton resident who teaches preschool and kindergarten at the school.

"It keeps them going. They don't get bored at home," said Romack, who has three children who've been through New Morning School. The emphasis at Discovery Days is on fun; there's no homework to worry about, and students don't get grades.

Educators at the school don't give grades even during the regular school year, she said. Homework is givsmell pretty," said Miglin, who markets some 400 products nationwide. "They actually used fragrance to evoke behavioral responses."

Miglin was fascinated to learn that when jars thousands of years old were unearthed, the original oils retained their scent. The deciphered ingredients helped her formulate what she calls "the world's most precious perfume" — Pheromone.

Organic communicator

Pheromone is a term coined by scientists in 1959 as "an organic substance used to communicate." Today, medical practitioners use it to indicate a hormone-based chemical in animals which acts as a sex attractant. It is yet to be confirmed in humans.

A blend of 179 rare and expensive essences, the $400 an ounce Pheromone perfume contains Egyptian ingredients that were believed to be natural aphrodisiacs — spikenard (stimulates the psychic powers), olibanum (stimulates the olfactory senses), palm (warms the heart), juniper (calms the nervous system), myrrh (blood stimulant), lotus (fragrance for the bath) and Fo-ti-tieng (sexual stimulant).

"With an increasing interest in holistic medicine, aromatherapy is making a comeback," Miglin. "French therapists believe that the familiar scent of vanilla helps patients recall their earliest childhood memories."

Vanilla's aroma seems to be popular among medical professionals at one shop in Southfield.

"I get a lot of women in the health care industry who are very much aware how close they deal with patients and buy a fragrance that's toned down," said Greg De Cesare, manager of J.R. Tabacco Co. Their fragrance choice, he added, is "Dans La Nuit" by Worth, which has a heavy vanilla base.

De Cesare's store is a definite salt and pepper mixture of aromas — tobacco and perfumes — where more than 100 brands of men's and women's colognes, more than 50 designer perfumes as well as other bath and toiletries are available.

Nose knows

"The people who are the most knowledgeable cologne buyers are the ones who buy with their noses and not their pocketbooks," De Cesare said. "Body chemistry makes all the difference on how a scent reacts."

There are some — "Youth Dew" by Estee Lauder, Dior's "Poison" and "Opium" by Yves St. Laurant — that aren't affected by body oils.

If you really don't know how much you want to smell, there is a unisex perfume, "Michel Renee." Its oils are so condensed that they are not altered by the body.

"My scent is shear, fresh and clean due to the ingredients of lily pods," said local perfumer and cosmetic consultant Michele Elle of Michele Cosmetics. Her perfume is available at Flamingo Road Salon in Southfield. "It also produces a sexual awareness because of the beaver musk.

"A fresh clean bath scent creates a good feeling. Clean is sensual."

So does it really matter what you smell like?

Thinking of his romantic past, Josaitis reflects, "I wonder now, thinking of back then, whether it was just a coincidence that we knew each other or whether she was heaven scent."

Eyes have it

Using our eyes in combination with communication is the human method of selecting a partner. Thus, while dogs and other large animals sniff out their mate, beauty is still in the eye of the beholder for humans along with intellectual and emotional stimulation.

But both specialists insist that the theory of pheromones, while not definitely proven, should not be swept under the carpet.

Estrogen-stimulated vaginal secretions, copulins, are airborne and elicit a male response through the sense of smell. The secretions quite appropriately have been regarded as the primate sex attractant pheromones.

In humans, the production of copulins is cyclical and is at its maximum during female ovulation. And there is evidence that the apocrine glands in many animals produce secretions signal when females are receptive for copulation, Sugrue said.

"In humans, these glands are larger and give off more secretions during the reproductive stage of our life cycle than during childhood or elderly stages," he added.

The pheromone question is only one dimension of odor that affects sexual desire. There are other scents based on psychological conditioning that can help initiate romance.

Happy experience

"If you had a warm, happy experience with that odor as a child, experiencing that odor in adult life will trigger warm feelings perhaps even without a mental picture," Sugrue said. "Why for one person it's Schnapps, leather or motor oil has nothing to do with body secretions but with programming through classic Pavlovian conditioning of stimulus and response."

The theory is applicable to Wyrick, a 21-year-old projectionist at a Rochester movie theater.

"All my life my brothers and father worked on cars; I was always fond of the smell (of motor oil)," she said. "I don't like when a guy wears too much cologne. It seems feminine."

What Wyrick feels psychologically, according to Sugrue, is reassurance and comfortability associated with her home life. Physical attraction plus emotional security enhanced by an olfactory sense stimulus, heightens the already present state of sexual excitation.

So if our nasal love potion's a natural product of hormones, then why are men and women alike still flocking to perfume counters to find the "perfect air" to arouse their partner or attract a new one?

"It's a cultural phenomenon," Sugrue said. "A perfume in one culture may be a washout in another. But in our culture, I think perfume has a 'conditional' significance.

"If a man goes out on a date with a woman wearing a perfume and it's a pleasant odor, she is sending a message, 'I want to attract you.' Not only is there a biological effect, but there is a message of receptivity and a desire for closeness."

en to older students, primarily to prepare them for the work they'll face in high school after leaving New Morning.

Many parents looking for hands-on learning opportunities for kids turn to New Morning in the summer. In addition to Discovery Days, science camps, a math camp and an academic enrichment program are offered.

"I think it is very nice to have enrichment things in the summer. The kids have a lot of fun," said Colleen Connolly of Livonia, whose two daughters were in the Discovery Days program.

Each class had a maximum of 12 participants, so kids didn't have to worry about getting lost in the crowd. The computer class was particularly popular, said Connolly, who's working at the school this summer.

Another popular class was "Wiggles and Giggles," in which children ages 3-6 enjoyed finger plays, games and songs.

Such opportunities are particularly important for younger children, she said. Often, older kids have the chance to go to camp and do other fun things, but there isn't as much available for younger ones.

Discovery Days sessions were offered July 7-16 and 21-30 at the school on Haggerty. Classes lasted an hour and a half each day, just about right for younger children, Connolly said.

ENGAGEMENTS

Calhoun-McManus

An August wedding is planned at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

Gary and Judith Calhoun announce the engagement of their daughter, Carrie Elizabeth Calhoun of Canton, to James Francis McManus of Canton, son of William and Agatha McManus.

The bride-elect is a student at Eastern Michigan University. She will graduate in December with a degree in elementary education.

Her fiance is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, where he studied accounting.

WEDDINGS

Darr-Hohenshil

Wright and Debby Seaton. Junior bridesmaids were Lindsey and Kara Seaton, and flower girls were Lauren and Samantha Hohenshil.

Brad Darr was the best man. The groomsmen were John Fox, Doug Budden, John Hurley and Mike McElroy. Matthew Hohenshil was the ring bearer.

A reception was held at The Plymouth Manor.

The bride is a graduate of Western Michigan University, where she earned a bachelor of business administration degree, and was certified as a teacher through Eastern Michigan University. She is pursuing a master's degree in elementary education and is substitute teaching in the Hudson area.

Her husband is a graduate of Western Michigan University, where he earned a bachelor of business administration degree. He is employed as a sales engineer at Metalloy Corp.

Theresa Brackenbury was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Allison Darr, Sue Peterson, Vicki

SCHOOL'S OUT, but the doctor is in

...at St. Mary Hospital Health Care Centers

So why wait until the last minute to have your child's back-to-school physical? From now through Labor Day, September 7, our physicians will be offering special-rate physical examinations required for school, camp or sports.

Our physical exams are personalized and thorough. St. Mary physicians take the time to learn about your child, and give a physical exam so complete that even Mom will be satisfied.

FOR ONLY $25, your child will receive:

- A physical assessment by a personal physician.
- An evaluation of growth and development.
- A medical history (be sure to bring all immunization records).
- Vision screening
- Basic urine tests (Immunizations and additional lab tests, if required, will be an additional charge).

So now that school's out, it's time for your child's most important exam. It's a short trip to your St. Mary Hospital Health Care Center. Appointments can be made at your family's convenience at the location in your neighborhood:

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Lorene:

I am a 42-year-old female and right handed.

I would appreciate very much to have my handwriting analyzed in this paper.

Thank you so much.

M.K., Royal Oak

The entangled lines of handwriting and uneven pressure quickly draw one's eyes. This combination suggests one who is a veritable whirlwind of activity, nervously on the go. Her interests cover a broad spectrum. However, she may not be able to pursue them effectively as her energies are scattered in many directions causing her energy level to fluctuate. She might find life less stressful is she could stop the merry-go-round, get off and spend time prioritizing her activities.

Several signs suggest she may be running allay from some experience and/or person. Seemingly she is moving into the future with enthusiasm and a spirit of adventure. Still a need for security has her continuing some of the behavior patterns which proved to be successful in the past.

People play and important role in our writer's happiness. She is quite aware of the impression she makes on others. In her desire to create a favorable first imnpression she often comes on strong. And she is not above doing a little grandstanding to accomplish her aim.

She can express herself quite well, words and ideas flow. Augmenting this is a vivid imagination which verges on fantasy at times. A tendency to exaggerate the things she sees and hears without even realizing it seems quite possible.

Coping with authority figures may present a problem for her. She tends to be rather firmly based once her mind is made up. In matters of importance, she will state her opinion and then wants to move on. If necessary, however, she will argue her point rather than back down.

She seems to have an eye for the attractive. Taste in personal item would often include eye-catching styles. Something on the fancy side would probably be selected over a very plain or drab article.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, please write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are all helpful. And objective feedback is always welcome.

Wayne County readies for annual fair

It's hard to believe but summer vacation time is almost over, but there is still time to do something fun and different with the kids. Head to the Wayne County Fairgrounds Tuesday, Aug. 11, through Saturday, Aug. 15, for the 46th annual Wayne County Fair.

This year's fair brings a variety of entertainment and exhibits to see and things to do. There will be daily livestock and horse shows, bungee jumping for those with a taste for the daring, tractor and truck pulls and Figure 8 racing.

The Miss Wayne County Pageant will be at 7 p.m Wednesday, Aug. 12, and the Wayne County Homemaker of the Year Contest at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 13. "Do You Love Me?" That's the question Motown stars The Contours will be asking when they perform at 6:30 and 9 p.m opening night, Tuesday, Aug. 11, while a post-fair demolition derby will kick up the dust at 7 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 16.

You can cap off a day at the fair at the giant midway which will open Wednesday, Aug. 12, at 8 p.m. The pay-one-price is $9, $7 on Children's Day, Thursday, Aug. 13.

Thursday through Saturday, Aug. 14-15, the monster trucks will be there for the Monster Truck Shootout. See the big names of the big trucks — Big Foot, Heart Beat, Giant, Predator, Snake Bite and the Predator Tank — competing in the grand stand arena.

In the Open Class Building, there will be daily demonstrations — heirloom needlecraft Tuesday, Aug. 11, sculpture,wood burning, bobbin lace and Wilton cake decorating Wednesday, Aug. 12, dolls Thursday, Aug. 13, quilting and flowers Friday, Aug. 14, and all-day Craftsman Cove woodcarving Saturday, Aug. 15.

The fair also will have theme days — Agriculture Day Aug. 11, Senior Citizen's Day Aug. 12, Children's Day Aug. 13, Merchant's Day Aug. 14 and Family Day Aug. 15.

The fair will be open 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. everyday at the Wayne County Fairgrounds, I-94 and the Belleville Road Exit. Admission is $4, $5 after 5 p.m., for adults and $1 for children 6-12 years of age. For more information, call 697-7002

RELIGION CALENDAR

■ CABLE READY
By next week, "Within Reach," a production of the Westland Seventh-day Adventist Church, will appear as a weekly series on cable TV in the area.
The beginning series of Bible-based topics, "Cosmic Conflict," will explore age-old truths as they apply to modern life. Each week, the program will include health topics in a short segment called "Health Nuggets."
"Within Reach" will be aired at 8 and 11 p.m. Mondays and 3 a.m. Tuesdays on Westland's Channel 18. It also will be carried on Garden City's Channel 17 at 6:30 p.m. Saturdays.
The Westland Seventh-day Adventist Church is fairly new to the area and meets on Saturdays at the Grace Moravian Church facility, 31133 Hively, south of Cherry Hill in Westland. For more information, write to P.O. Box 858021, Westland 48185-8021.

■ CAR WASH
Members of Trinity Evangelical Presbyterian Church will hold a car wash 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 9, at Precision Tune, corner of Ann Arbor Road and Main, Plymouth. Proceeds will be used to support a short-term mission trip serving Haitians in the Dominican Republic later this month.

■ 'EYE OF STORM'
A special showing of Billy Graham's "Eye of the Storm" will be held 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 9, at Faith Community Church, 14560 Merriman, Livonia. The film tells the story of a journalist who immerses himself in his work after his wife's death, leaving his daughter alone and hurt. The public is welcome to attend. For more information, call 522-3570.

■ IN CONCERT
Acclaimed Christian vocalist Steve Green will be in concert 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 15, at Temple Baptist Church, 23800 W. Chicago, Redford. Since the release of his first solo record in 1984, Green's powerful tenor voice has helped define the sound of modern inspirational music. Tickets for the concert are available through the Temple music department or Christian bookstores in the metro area. For more information, call 255-3333.

In Concert: The songwriting/singing duet of Jim and Shirley Tubbs will perform at the 10 a.m. service Sunday, Aug. 16, at the Newburg United Methodist Church, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, Livonia. The couple have been presenting their musical ministry throughout the United States since 1984.

■ TIME CHANGE
The Mass time at St. Anne's Catholic Church, 23310 Joy, five blocks east of Telegraph in Redford, will be different Sunday, Aug. 9. Beginning that day, the 12:15 p.m. Mass will move to 9 a.m.

■ KING'S BRASS

■ LUNCHEON FUN
Main Street Baptist Church will host a senior citizen's "Pot Providence" luncheon 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 11, at the church, 8500 N. Morton-Taylor, south of Joy in Canton. First-time visitors are being encouraged to attend as guests of the seniors group. Church members and those who attend regularly should bring a dish or food item to share. The Rev. Michael York, the pastor, will lead a devotional time. For more information or transportation, call 453-4785.

■ THE CONTINENTALS
The Continentals will present a concert of contemporary Christian music 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 19, at Calvary Baptist Church, 43065 Joy, between Main and Lilley in Canton. The concert, "Yes! Let's Go," is part of the group's 25th anniversary world tour. For more information, call 455-0022.

■ MIDWEEK WORSHIP
Village Presbyterian Church of Redford is holding midweek worship services through Aug. 19. The informal services are 8 p.m. Wednesdays in the McCalmont Chapel of the church, 25350 W. Six Mile, Redford. For more information, call 534-7730.

■ 21PLUS
21PLUS, a gathering of singles in their 20s offered through the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, will have a movie night Wednesday, Aug. 12. Participants should meet 6:30 p.m. at the church, 200 E. Main, to visit a local theater. For more information, call 349-0911.

■ WOMEN'S AGLOW
Women's Aglow Fellowship, Farmington Chapter, will have Joy Barrow as its speaker 7:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 10, at the Farmington Hills Library, 32737 W. 12 Mile, between Orchard Lake and Farmington roads.
The wife of John Barrow, pastor of the Huron Street Tabernacle in Cheboygan, Mich., she has served as president of the Northern Area Aglow Board and vice president of the Michigan District Women's Ministries. She has ministered at retreats, conventions and local women's ministries and Aglow fellowships.
For more information, call Kathy Warras at 626-5955.

Crusade: When it comes to spreading the Word, the Rev. Daniel Strength used a style of bygone years. Pastor of Canton Calvary Assembly of God, he conducted a tent crusade. Here, he leads the congregation in song during one of the services.

Pastor takes message outdoors

Worshipers at Canton Calvary Assembly of God usually hold services in their church sanctuary. Last week, they decided to try something a little different.

A tent crusade was held Saturday through Wednesday, July 25-29, at the church. Members and visitors gathered in a large tent on the front lawn for morning and evening services each day.

"I was just really praying for a key to reaching this area with the Pentecostal message," said the Rev. Daniel Strength, the congregation's senior pastor. The tent crusade was something different from what many are accustomed to, and he knew that some would take notice and attend just out of curiosity.

"No one who has come has rejected" the message. "No negative response whatever. I'm really encouraged, I'm thrilled."

■ 'I was just really praying for a key to reaching this area with the Pentecostal message.'
Rev. Daniel Strength

The rallies held in the tent attracted some 150 visitors throughout the week, he said, along with many Canton Calvary members.

Children's crusades were also held each day.

The Zion Choir from Zion Bible Institute in Barrington, R.I., performed during some services. An Assemblies of God pastor from Jamaica, the Rev. Paul McDonald, spoke at a number of services.

McDonald, who was visiting the United States on vacation, serves as pastor of two churches. "We so much enjoyed his type of preaching," said Strength, who also did some preaching during the crusade. "He's just a fantastic preacher."

Church members believe in tangible manifestations of the holy spirit, such as speaking in tongues and interpreting those tongues. During the services, many worshipers shared their stories of trouble and triumph.

Strength, who became Canton Calvary's pastor this spring, has done similar tent crusades elsewhere for a number of years. He's "pioneered" churches, going into a community without an Assemblies of God congregation and establishing a church.

"People in the community that are hungry for the Lord would come in." The local crusade wasn't held specifically to build up the church's membership, but he was pleased with the attendance and knows some will join.

Tent crusades aren't held all that often these days at area churches, but Strength's a believer in their benefits.

"In America, we've become so sophisticated." Particularly in a more affluent area such as Canton, where so many have nice homes and new cars, there's a tendency to focus too much on things.

"We really forget where we came from. I think we need to be grateful, more grateful perhaps than we are."

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Helping out: Youngsters participating in the vacation Bible school program at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Livonia gathered up plenty of goodies for a good "buddy." The children collected household products for the Ronald McDonald House at Children's Hospital of Southeast Michigan in Detroit.

New bridge club opens to players

The Bridge Crowd
By Woody Boyd

The Bridge Connection at Farmington and 14 Mile roads in Farmington Hills propitiously opened its golden doors to some 200 of Oakland and western Wayne County's most enthusiastic duplicate dabblers Monday evening, June 22.

I can verify that the bridge world of Detroit's northwestern suburbs have been in anxious expectation ever since plans for the club were first introduced about four months ago. The club's principals, Linda and Jack Schechter of Birmingham, Betty and Woody Ott of Southfield, Linda and Art Golumbia of West Bloomfield and Pat and Bob Newman of Sylvan Lake, some months ago decided bridge needed a good free cup of coffee and a first-class duplicate club in the West Bloomfield-Farmington Hills area. And so came same after proper sanctions were forthcoming from the municipality.

Naturally this columnist was there to celebrate the festive occasion and play in one of the best club games I've entered in some time. It goes with the job that once you become a principal of a neighborhood bridge club your quiet life is no longer your own, and neither can you enjoy the isolation of an unlisted phone.

As Pat Newman and Jack Schechter, the club's gregarious greeters, said, "Someone's always calling for a reservation (788-1290) or to check a bid or question a playing problem, and that's fun and we love it." Such inquiries are most often deployed to the Golumbias, who are acknowledged to be one of Oakland's better duplicate partnerships.

Both Linda and Art are well trained, disciplined and have a keen imagination, and these are three of the game's most prized requirements. Add to that, good judgement and excellent technique and you have the makings for a pair of national champions.

In today's hand, we see the Golumbias at their bidding best, getting to a precarious six-spade contract that required a bit of Linda's mystique and the amount of at least an ounce of genius. Note how nicely they described their cards in a series of advanced que bids after Art's limit bid showing 18-19 H.C.P. Even though Linda had only 13 H.C.P., she was perfectly willing to explore slam and therefore her control asking four no trump.

When the drapes were drawn on dummy's 13, Linda's concern for the contract was considerable, but no one could notice because of her bland manner. Was the success of their cause to rest on Linda finding the trump king successfully finessed? Certainly there was no way to avoid the heart loser. So be it and at trick (1) she won the club ace in her hand.

Now the spade 10 and dummy's nine under when West played the deuce. A hidden instant of satisfaction followed, but that was short-lived. Next a small spade to dummy's jack. Cowabunga! The spade king couldn't be conquered when East showed out at trick three. Or could it? After what seemed like eternity, she decided there was one possibility, but the defender's cards had to be just right. (4), She played dummy's diamond jack to her king and back to dummy's club king. Next the diamond ace, queen following and pitching a heart. Trick (8) a small club ruffed with her spade seven. (9-11) The heart ace, king and 10 to East queen. The stage was now fortunately set for one of the beautiful plays in bridge and masterminded by a declarer who was just as attractive.

The four are featured in The American Girls Collection, a series of books set in different eras. An American Girls tea party, held the afternoon of Saturday, July 25, at Little Professor in downtown Plymouth, attracted a number of young enthusiasts.

Those at the bookstore enjoyed talking about the books they've read detailing the foursome's adventures. The newest series features Felicity Merriman, who lives in Williamsburg, Va., in 1774. Kirsten Larson, an 1854 pioneer girl, lives on the American frontier, having traveled with her family from Sweden.

The series includes the Victorian-era Samantha Parkington, an orphan living with her well-to-do grandmother in 1904. There's also Molly McIntire, who has many homefront adventures during World War II.

Crafts, musical entertainment and refreshments were enjoyed by all at the party. The girls dressed in their Sunday best, and some brought along their American Girls dolls.

Foster homes needed

The need is large and urgent: 30 foster homes for 30 Haitian refugee children who will remain in holding camps in Jackson, Miss., until such homes are available.

The young Haitian refugees to this country without parents or guardians. The typical Haitian young person coming to the metro Detroit area is a 16-17-year-old male.

Foster parents are asked to provide homes, a sense of security, and help in developing the young people's ability to eventually live independently. It is expected that the young people will be in foster care up until age 18-19.

LSSM will provide the educational, medical and legal services required.

To be licensed, families must meet state licensing requirements and be committed to providing care until the young person reaches independence.

BOB SKLAR

Her artwork reflects nature's landscapes

Art buffs can share that love for mirror images in her 35-piece series, "Reflections," which continues through Sept. 12 at Atrium Gallery, 109 N. Center, Northville. Her work ranges in price from $100 to $1,000.

The series was nine months in the making.

"I try to capture a feeling, a visual impression," says Demgen, who retired in June after 27 years of teaching Birmingham and Livonia students the art of using light, color and composition to paint broad-stroked scenes of nature and life.

"I'm challenged by the thought of reflective objects. You have to do a lot of it to be good at it."

Some of her pieces are illusions of reflections but most are realistic reflections of places she and her husband, Jim, have visited.

Demgen favors realistic water scenes — for example, two little girls in a rowboat on a calm lake in early morning — much like a spot near Baraga in the Upper Peninsula. "There's even a little motion in the water to show there's life there."

She'll demonstrate skills

The National Art Education Association member will demonstrate reflective painting techniques in watercolor, acrylic and oil from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 15, at Atrium Gallery. Completed pieces will be available to buy.

Gallery co-owner Heidi Eizelman likes the peace and tranquility that emerges from Demgen's brushwork.

"Barb uses good strong colors but adds a soft look to them," the Farmington resident said. "When we taught together in Livonia about seven years ago, I was hoping that one day, if I ever had a gallery, I could show her work because I admire her as a person and as an artist: her sense of feeling, down to the littlest detail, for everything she does."

To make her work realistic, Demgen scans the landscape when on the lake or road. "I try to re-examine what I think I'm accomplishing in my work. I always try to check back with nature, my teacher. You can't just rely on photographs in creating natural shadows and colors."

Painting reflections is partly scientific. "You have to figure out what's really being reflected," Demgen said. "Sand, dirt, algae and mist can subdue detail at a lake."

Compulsive and curious, she and her husband always seek out water when on vacation. The water stirs up an artistic grab bag. "I get all these images and put them in my mind so I can pull them out when I need them."

Six of Demgen's works will hang through summer at Artiques Gallery in Boyne City. Most of them are landscapes done at Lake Charlevoix.

Historic sites at Greenmead in Livonia, Greenfield Village in Dearborn and in small Midwest towns capture her fancy, too.

Sales and commissions excite and motivate her but Demgen says she's eager to donate works for humanitarian reasons.

Michigan Opera Theatre, the city of Westland, WTVS-Channel 56, the Scarab Club in Detroit and Michigan State University are among the beneficiaries. "I really believe in giving, in sharing."

Demgen no doubt is at peace when painting. That's why she takes a watercolor block and paper with her to the swim club, to her son's tennis and clarinet lessons, and on vacation.

Demgen dabbles in abstracts, portraits and still lifes. But realistic to impressionistic landscapes of Michigan, Maine, Arizona, Florida and Hawaii dominate her work.

Last summer, she created a large Arizona desert abstract with horizontal color bars representing light. "I had to prove to myself I could depict that beautiful expanse and blinding light."

"If I'm not painting, I'm not fulfilling my talent," said Demgen, who studied fine arts at Wayne State University and Marygrove College in Detroit. "I feel talent is a gift — the way you look at and interpret things. God gave me that rein. You need to have something in life you can do well."

After decades of brushstrokes, Demgen still finds them a thrill. "It's especially fun to see how your work has changed. And it's very fulfilling to have your skills achieve certain images, to get something right and have it liked by the public."

Library unfolds exhibit on art of origami

The ancient art form of origami hones inner concentration, creative and sequencing skills. Once China discovered paper, origami was practiced by Buddhist monks who brought its tranquility and magic to Japan in the sixth century.

If you've folded paper airplanes, kites, boats or hats, then like children everywhere, you've practiced the ancient art of origami.

Paper folding in every corner of the world, as simple as it seems, ranks as much more than a game. Spend some time learning about origami used in religious ceremonies, therapy and education.

Ponder the formation of a Nippon Origami Association in 1973 to spread peace and friendship through this traditional Japanese art form in an exhibit by the Ann Arbor Society 4 Origami (AASO).

Livonia Arts Commission presents 50 pieces of traditional and modular origami through Aug. 27 in the showcases on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

Jorge Pezzat, a folder since 1965, displays animals, birds and modular origami in brightly colored papers and foils along with fellow AASO members.

Winning photos capture Renaissance fest

BY JANICE KRAMER
SPECIAL WRITER

Since photographers Jim Probelski of Livonia and Alan Lowy of Southfield like friendly competition, every year they try to out-do each other in the Michigan Renaissance Festival's photo contest.

This year, the two made a clean sweep of the black-and-white category, though, as Probelski puts it, "I've knocked Alan down just a peg."

The annual festival is an authentic re-creation of a 16th-century English village with a staff of 700-plus outfitted in period costumes. Besides a king and queen and their court, there are jesters, jousters, magicians, damsels and an assortment of village characters whose job is to keep visitors "in a festive mood," Burkhard said.

Probelski, 52, a math teacher at Livonia Franklin High School and Schoolcraft College in Livonia, says part of the festival's fun is getting involved with the Renaissance players.

"The festival characters are enjoyable and they like acting for the crowd," said Probelski, who took first place in last year's color contest. "I try very hard to capture a feeling on film, so it feels good to win."

HISTORIC TOURS

Tours at Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village continue 1-4 p.m. Sundays. The village boasts the Simmons/Hill House Museum and 22 other historic buildings.

Tour admission is $2 for adults and $1 for seniors. School-age kids are admitted free. The village is southwest of Eight Mile and Newburgh. Enter off Newburgh. Parking is free.

WINNING FOCUS

Chuck Dujsik of Plymouth won an honorable mention in the Lansing Art Gallery's 15th annual photography competition. Juror was Linda Menger, associate professor of art and art department chairwoman, Delta College, Midland.

ARTISAN CALL

Crafters may still apply for a booth in the fifth annual Americana Craft Show Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 22-23, on the grounds of Livonia's Greenmead Historical Village, Newburgh and Eight Mile.

Show hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day at the Livonia Historical Commission-sponsored country show.

"What I'm looking for are crafts with a heritage flavor to them as well as quality," said Sue Daniel, commission chairwoman.

Crafters in four categories — wood, country, Victorian, textiles — can call the Greenmead office for details and an application: 477-7375.

Dutch Leonard's 'Rum Punch' hits the spot

BOOK BREAK

VICTORIA DIAZ

"I think I'm having trouble mid-lifing."

So speaks Dutch Leonard's spunky heroine in his latest tale, "Rum Punch," the 30th novel written by Detroit's resident master of crime fiction.

If you've been looking for a reading treat this summer, this colorful story of greed and gun-dealing, set among the sheltering palms of South Florida, should hit the spot.

Pushing 60, Max Cherry has grown disillusioned with his job as a bail bondsman and with his life as the estranged husband of a ditzy art dealer in one of South Florida's countless shopping malls.

Max, meeting her for the first time when he springs her from jail, promptly falls for the 44-year-old, quick-witted blonde (who surely has the worst cigarette-smoking habit of any heroine in the history of American fiction). Jackie likes Max a bit, too. But at the moment, she has more pressing matters on her mind.

The trouble is, in order to pack away some extra cash, she's been working for the bad guys, conveying payoffs from the Bahamas for illegal gun dealing. (She doesn't know it's for illegal gun dealing; she never asks what it's for.)

The other trouble is, the main bad guy, Ordell Robbie, is really bad. Once she's arrested, if she points a finger at him, Ordell will make sure she's history — and soon. But if she doesn't name him, the middle-aged stew will have to spend the next five years behind bars.

And so with her back to the wall, Jackie comes up with a plan that just might work to solve her problems. And you can bet the crafty scheme will involve the smitten Max Cherry.

Even though Max Cherry, in his own middle-aged way, is plenty appealing, the monstrous Ordell turns out to be more memorable here than the story's hero (although he's not quite so impressive as, for example, the razor-edged Elwin Crowe in Leonard's last novel, "Maximum Bob").

Decked out in comic book colors and aglitter with gold jewelry in the Florida sunshine, the imposing, stylishly pigtailed Ordell would seem at first almost like a character who's wandered out of an episode of something like "Batman." But the key word here is "almost." At heart, there is nothing funny about the "light-skinned black guy" (originally from Detroit), who, if you get in his way, would just as soon murder you as glance in your direction.

Members of the supporting cast in this highly cinematic tale include Louis, an ex-con (also from Detroit) whose time in three prisons has scarred him for life, plus the blue-jeaned officers, Tyler and Nicolet, who like "guns, beer, cowboy boots, air boats, hunting in the Everglades, and chasing bad guys," and aren't above noticing that, even at the doddering old age of 44, Jackie Burke still has a rather healthy amount of sex appeal.

Also sparking the action are Ordell's three girlfriends: bored Melanie, who's spent most of the past 17 years working on her tan; grateful Sheronda, who knows how to cook up some of the best collard greens and salt pork in town, and 63-year-old Simone, who thinks she resembles Diana Ross and "could write a book on the different ways to please a man."

Glassy skyscrapers, glitzy malls and expensive condos exist alongside the dilapidated housing of the poorer neighborhoods, where armies of roaches skitter underfoot in the dark rooms and West Indian reggae fills the night. Among the mangroves, you can just about taste the asopao di pollo, just about smell the mildew and all that suntan lotion.

With all of this, count on Leonard's usual, unfailing way with dialogue. Tell me, does this guy wire himself for sound each time he goes out into the world? Or stand on street corners and take notes? Or eavesdrop on other people's conversations all over the place? Or maybe just remember every syllable of every conversation he's ever heard or heard about?

When it comes to putting words into other people's mouths, absolutely nobody does it better.

Exhibit's focus: families

The Junior Leagues of Michigan announce the art exhibition/advocacy project, "Focus on Michigan Families."

The exhibition, juried by Detroit Focus Gallery director Mary Denison, will be Sept. 8-27 at the Scarab Club, 217 Farnsworth, adjacent to the Detroit Institute of Arts. Hours will be noon to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Sunday.

Reservations are required for the opening reception, 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 13. The reception will include educational activities for children. Tickets are $10 for adults, free for ages 18 and younger. For more information and reservations, contact the Junior League of Detroit, 32 Lake Shore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms 48236-3726, phone 881-0040.

The artwork chosen by Denison represents various social problems that the Junior Leagues are advocating for increased awareness and reform: children at risk, the elderly, health care, housing and homelessness, substance abuse and violence against women and children.

The show will include a catalog and resource guide. The catalog highlights 23 Junior League projects and features 23 photographs of the artwork, while the resource guide can be used to find social agencies in Michigan that address the problems of families.

After the Scarab Club exhibition, the artwork will travel to the other Junior League cities in Michigan.

"Traditionally, origami's folded out of one piece of paper. There's no cutting, no tape, no scissors," said Pezzat in an interview at his West Bloomfield home. "Most pieces are squared but you can fold from any shape — triangles, rectangles, even circles."

"I fold animals — giraffes, dogs, rhinos, elephants, turtles — and modular origami. A lot of things come off a base. Once you know how to fold a base, you can fold 12 to 15 things from a flower to a frog."

Japanese origami dates from the sixth centruy. Representations of animals, people and designs were created for ceremonial purposes. In the 1400s, Japanese mothers passed down to daughters the ability to fold containers for herbs used in medicine and cooking. As early as 1797, the classic instruction book, "Folding of 1000 Cranes," was printed.

"I'd like the reader to know that origami has use and function and they can have fun while they're creating," Pezzat said. "I fold whatever I can get my hands on: grocery receipts, Kleenex, wallpaper."

"It's a fun way to recycle paper. We have so much paper in our society. In one week, if you could save brochures, mailers, newspapers, gift wrap, you'd have paper to fold for a very long time."

Pezzat taught himself origami after coming across a book in the library. "The book intrigued me. It showed cubes that you make out of a single piece of paper and the interest by the children encouraged me," Pezzat said. "I always wanted to be a teacher. Origami allowed me to fulfill my dream."

Pezzat has taught origami at Roeper City and Country School in Bloomfield Hills, Gibson School for the Gifted in Redford Township and at the West Bloomfield and Plymouth libraries. "My goal is to teach blind children origami," Pezzat said.

Brought to Japan by Buddhist monks from China, origami plays an important part in Japan's educational process today, honing concentration and sequencing skills and prodding the imagination and creativity. Worldwide, educators use it to teach geometry.

In the Pezzat home, folding is a family affair. Judi and Jorge's 12-year old-daughter, Sarah, started folding around age 4. Son Daniel started at 5. He's now 14. "All you have to do is follow the diagram. Origami has a language of its own," Sarah said.

Although she enjoys its beauty, Judi shies away from origami.

"Jorge is pretty creative with it. You have to be able to visualize in origami. I can't visualize in three dimensions," she said. "Jorge is good at working with children, very good teaching and getting the kids to fold."

In the West, origami inspires magicians to become folders. "Houdini's Paper Magic," published in the 1920s, attracted professionals and amateurs.

Webster's Dictionary included the word origami for the first time in 1961.

"A lot of ideas I have come from different sources, different people. M.C. Escher worked in geometric shapes a lot," Pezzat said. "I prefer the modular origami. I like the pretty patterns that it has."

"Origami has taken me further than anything beyond my widlest expectations," Pezzat said. "I'm trying to combine art and science, origami to the geometric form, folding atom type structures and crystal formations."

Zen lies at the heart of nearly all Japanese art forms. Origami is no exception, symbolizing the Zen belief in the harmony of the universe, and of nature.

"Origami tends to be noncompetitive," Pezzat said. "There's more cooperation than competition."

Library hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 Friday-Saturday.

"Knight Fight:" Photographer Alan Lowy took second place in the black-and-white category of the 1991 photo contest for this action shot, taken in the festival's jousting area.

Lowy, 48, who has his own photography studio in Farmington Hills, has been photographing the Renaissance festival with Probelski for about six years.

"For us (Lowy and Probelski), the contest is a game and a challenge," said Lowy, also a winner in last year's contest. "It's fun for us to come up with different views of the festival and it's great to be recognized for it."

■ 'The festival characters are enjoyable and they like acting for the crowd. I try very hard to capture a feeling on film, so it feels good to win.'

Contest judges look for unposed shots that show interaction between the Renaissance characters and visitors to the festival, said Steve Haines, one of three Detroit News photographers who judged the entries.

"What wins is a photo with a human touch, one that shows candid interaction between people," he said. "Often, the visitors will follow a Renaissance character that they admire or can identify with and, if you can capture that on film, it makes a great photo."

Winning photographs will be on display through Wednesday, Aug. 12, in the lobby of the Fisher Building, on W. Grand Boulevard, Detroit. Cash prizes of $50 to $150 will be awarded to winners in the black-and-white and color categories on the Green Grove Stage at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 15, opening day of the 13th annual Michigan Renaissance Festival.

Rain or shine, this year's Michigan Renaissance Festival runs weekends and Labor Day, Aug. 15 through Sept. 27, on Dixie Highway, one mile north of Mt. Holly. Hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Admission at the gate is $10.95 for adults ($9.50 in advance) and $5.95 for children ($5 in advance). Children younger than 5 are admitted free.

Cranbrook shares legacy of founder George Booth

By Mary Klemic
Staff Writer

■ Booth chose some of the pieces for the Cranbrook museum collection. Others were made by the artists he named to Cranbrook's Craft Studios, which later became the art academy, between 1927 and 1932. Booth also donated money, his Cranbrook estate, and books on art and architecture to the artists community.

The exhibit celebrates the 60th anniversary of the founding of the Cranbrook Academy of Art and the 50th anniversary of the opening of the art museum in the current building, which was designed by Cranbrook resident architect and art academy president Eliel Saarinen.

"Perhaps the word 'museum' is a little too ambitious for the group of objects here," Cranbrook founder George Booth said of the international assortment of works for Cranbrook's original Museum Art Collection of 1930.

"But rather, it is a collection of material primarily suitable for the use of students and enjoyment of the people of the community."

That was a modest account of what was to become a magnificent embodiment of the idea of a community where artists could live and work.

The art collection is now part of an exhibit, "A Glorious Finale: The Arts and Crafts Movement at Cranbrook, 1927-1932," at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum, 500 Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills, through Nov. 1.

Booth was one of the leading proponents in America of the arts and crafts movement. He was a founding member of the Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts in 1906, and was instrumental in the formation of the society's art school, today the Center for Creative Studies.

Booth chose some of the pieces for the Cranbrook museum collection. Others were made by the artists he named to Cranbrook's Craft Studios, which later became the art academy, between 1927 and 1932. Booth also donated money, his Cranbrook estate, and books on art and architecture to the artists community.

The exhibit celebrates the 60th anniversary of the founding of the Cranbrook Academy of Art and the 50th anniversary of the opening of the art museum in the current building, which was designed by Cranbrook resident architect and art academy president Eliel Saarinen.

Adventures await

Viewing the display is embarking on a variety of adventures. It's a way of traveling around the world, as you see pieces from or reminiscent of Spain, France, England, Sweden and other countries.

It's a way of traveling through time, as works dating from the 18th century and a reproduction of a bronze urn from Pompeii are before you.

It's a way of exploring the tastes of a strong arts advocate from the early part of this century.

And it's a way of appreciating what Cranbrook was, is and will be: an extraordinary dream that continually and gloriously comes true, forever generating new dreams.

The "finale" in the name of the exhibit refers to an arts and crafts movement in this country, not to the work at Cranbrook. The work of the past 60 years at Cranbrook is a tantalizing suggestion of what could be offered there in the next 60 years.

Featured in the exhibit are pieces in medieval and classical styles. Intricate work is shown, from the smallest to the largest pieces. The broad media on display include stained glass, ceramics, textiles, furniture, silver and book binding.

Vase variety

An enamel and brass vase bears a colorful scene including a bazaar and minarets. A yellow, gold and blue vase with a money tree pattern is as bright as if sunlight is touching it.

Visitors can see a smoothly curved porcelain vase made by ceramics pioneer Adelaide Alsop Robineau, as well as a white glazed majolica figurine of the Greek goddess of youth and spring that was shown at the International Ceramic Exhibition in 1928.

A reading desk and bench commissioned by Booth is adorned with detailed carvings of fleurs-de-lis, monks and bishops reading and flowers. The thistles carved in the wood might have referred to Booth's son, whose nickname was "Thistle."

An embroidery panel of an angel with a lamp is so detailed that a rosy tint in the angel's cheeks and highlights in her hair can be seen. A two-piece, 18th century cabinet of wood, ivory inlay and gilt, traditional of furniture of renaissance Spain, features a multitude of elaborate drawers and compartments.

Marble Italian pilasters, some from the 13th or 14th century, have a quiet, stately air. An oil painting from the 1700s shows a young woman talking to an audience, her gestures echoing the dramatic scenes carved in the ancient ruins around her.

A lush pattern fills a wool and tissue blanket with 13 parrots in green, rose, tan and blue. The blanket, dating from 1926, was inspired by Flemish and Persian tapestries.

Cranbrook detail

Cranbrook names and faces can be found in the exhibit. The rosewood and walnut table for the Saarinen House book room was designed by Saarinen and made by Swedish cabinetmaker Tor Berglund.

Work by Arthur Nevill Kirk, who became first director of the Metal Workshop at Cranbrook, features cloisonne, enamel, gems, silver and ivory. One of his cigarette boxes has a handle shaped like a tiny plumed helmet for a knight.

The plaster relief of football players from around 1930, the model for the bronze version at the east end of the athletic field at Cranbrook School, features actual team portraits. The players were called off the field during practice to pose.

The museum is open for general viewing 1-5 p.m. Wednesday-Sunday. Admission is $3 for adults, $2 for full-time students and senior citizens, free for children under age 7 and museum members. Docent-guided tours of the exhibitions are available for groups of 10 or more. For more information, call 645-3312. For tour information, call 645-3323 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday.

Selected art: You have to look closely to see the 13 parrots in the intricate work of this blanket, one of the pieces now on display in "A Glorious Finale: The Arts and Crafts Movement at Cranbrook, 1927-1932." The exhibit, at the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum in Bloomfield Hills, features items chosen by Cranbrook founder George Booth for the original museum art collection more than 60 years ago.

Quilts shown in courthouse

The Children's Museum Friends presents "Small Gems," quilts for cribs, dolls and walls, on display during regular business hours in the Oakland County Courthouse lobbies, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac.

The quilts were handmade by the Metro Detroit Quilt Guild to raise money to assist in maintaining the high-quality programs of the museum in conjunction with Detroit Public Schools.

Youth orchestras' auditions coming

Livonia Youth Philharmonic of Michigan will hold auditions for its 1992-93 season from 4 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, Aug. 25 and 27, in the Faith Lutheran Church in Livonia.

Young instrumentalists from the Detroit area are invited to audition. Rehearsals are on Saturday mornings and will begin Sept. 12. Auditions are by appointment only. To set an audition, call 261-5754.

This year, the Philharmonic has added a Concert Orchestra in addition to the Philharmonic Orchestra, and the Advanced and the Junior String Orchestras.

The Concert Orchestra will be directed by Derek Weller, principal bass player of the Michigan Opera Theater Orchestra and a member of the faculties of the Interlochen Arts Academy and the University of Toledo.

Andrew Sewell, conductor of the Scandinavian and St. Clair symphonies, directs the Philharmonic Orchestra. Melissa Gerber directs the Junior and Advanced String Orchestras. Gerber recently completed her doctorate in music at the University of Michigan and is a string specialist who has conducted viola workshops at Eastern Michigan University and the University of Toledo.

The four orchestras of the Livonia Youth Philharmonic provide an excellent opportunity for young instrumentalists ages 8-22 to gain valuable training in orchestral repertoire and technique.

Meadow brook to show art

The 16th annual Art at Meadow Brook show will take place 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 15-16.

The juried art exhibit is on the grounds of Meadow Brook Hall at Oakland University, Adams at Walton in Rochester Hills. Parking and admission are free. For information, call Meadow Brook Hall at 370-3140.

Art at Meadow Brook shows works of more than 100 artists from Michigan and out of state. Artists' media include painting, fiber, jewelry, sculpture, glass, photography, wood, graphics and ceramics.

The event is the annual outdoor fair run by members of Creative Council, a women's artist group started at OU 20 years ago.

This show takes place at the courtyard and gardens of Meadow Brook Hall. New gardens have been constructed on the grounds. Tours of the 100-room Dodge home and refreshments will be available for a charge both days.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Survey targets vacation market

Prices in many up-and-coming vacation areas remain relatively low, while the potential for appreciation will be better than normal over the next three years, according to a nationwide survey of brokers by Century 21 Real Estate.

The survey identifies 21 of the most promising vacation home markets around the country. They were selected based on location, low asking price and potential for high appreciation.

While some areas have recently experienced booms, others offer good investment opportunities because the recession has reduced prices to abnormally low levels.

Saugatuck is the only Michigan listing in the survey, and it ranked lowest in terms of appreciation.

"A two-hour drive from Chicago, Saugatuck is the quintessential throwback community," the survey said. "Its quaint streets and charming stores lure visitors from all over the Midwest. Currently, many families are vacationing along the town's lakefront cliffs and winding inlets. Fishing, boating, camping, hiking and biking are all popular sports that can be enjoyed here in abundance.

"The typical wood frame, two-story house comes with four bedrooms, two baths, screened porches, living room, dining room, fireplaces and is a quick car ride to Lake Michigan."

Most of the areas in the survey are expected to enjoy a surge in second home sales because of improved access to and from major cities.

For example, prices on Amelia Islandd, Fla., are expected to jump 10 to 15 perceant in the next three years because of a newly constructed highway bridge that connects the island to the Jacksonville area. The bypass cuts travel time to the city in half to one hour.

Other communities have emerged as alternatives to overcrowded resorts.

Buena Vista, Colo., for instance, has become so popular that local builders are struggling to keep up with demand. It is attracting skiers form Vail and Breckenridge.

While some areas have recently experienced booms, others offer good investment opportunities because the recession has reduced prices to abnormally low levels, according to Century 21.

Beware broker's proposed liability clause

I am buying some real estate. The broker for the seller has included certain provisions in the purchase agreement that indemnify and hold harmless the broker from any liability to the buyer and the seller. Is this a standard clause?

No. It is a provision that I have seen recently in several broker's agreements and I believe that it is neither reasonable nor conscionable. I would not agree to any purchase agreement where the broker tries to seek an indemnificaiton from any liability (from either the seller or buyer) that he or she may incur as a result of their negligence or other breach. Similarly, any such provision in a listing agreement should be deleted and you may wish to consider another broker when you see that type of clause.

The restrictions of our condominium association prohibit the placement of anything on the outside walls without prior consent of the association. One of the co-owners wishes to add an exterior screen door. The association is not inclined to allow that to occur. Is there any precedent in behalf of the association?

In a recent Ohio Court of Appeals case, the court upheld a similar convenant saying that it was sufficiently definite to exclude installation of an exterior screen door. The court determined that the trial court could reasonably have concluded that the owner knew and understood that this covenant applied to screen doors that was worded similarly to the one you have.

The court in that case took into consideration that the door would not be uniform with the rest of the complex and that the association believed that the risk of burglary and theft would be increased if the screen door was installed. Accordingly, the court of appeals upheld the trial court decision to reject the owner's application on the grounds of aesthetics and condominium security.

BUILDING SCENE

G

Condos added to Homearama

It'll be a parade of homes with a twist when the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan debuts its Homearama/Condorama Sept. 3-20 in the Vineyards subdivision on Ryan Road south of Hall Road (M-59) in Sterling Heights.

For the first time, detached and attached condominiums will be included with single-family houses in the same showcase development by Moceri Development Co. and Trinity Land Development. The fall edition is the 10th annual showcase of new idea homes sponsored by BASM, based in Farmington Hills. Roy Maly is show chairman, Attached condos will be priced from $130,000, detached condos at $150,000 and single family houses from $200,000. Thirteen homes will be open for public viewing.

Canyon Construction of Troy will be offering a four-bedroom, three-bath, 2,900-square-foot house priced at $229,900. The traditional colonial features a great room with round ceiling, quarter round windows and fireplace. Oak flooring and a built-in china cabinet are found in the kitchen.

The Sonoma is designed by Robert & Terri Kozloski. Interior design is by Cindy Chowanic, and Environmental Artists is the landscaper.

JAD Homes of Bloomfield Hills is offering two attached condos priced in the mid-$130,000 range. Both include private entries, kitchens with breakfast nooks and master baths with separate tub, stall shower and double vanity.

Ronald Mayotte & Associates is the architect, Perlmutter & Freiwald the interior designer and Torre & Bruglio the landscaper for both the Burgundy and the Angelica.

A split ranch single-family house is the work of J.B.A. Homes of Troy. It features a 12-foot ceiling in the dining room and a three-sided cove fireplace that divides the great room, nook and hearth room. The Franklin is priced at $232,500.

The Homearama/Condorama site is described as "spectacular" by Bernard Glieberman, BASM president. More than 55 acres, it includes open space, ponds, wooded and wetland areas.

The event is co-sponsored by Consumers Power, First Federal of Michigan and Detroit Edison.

Admission is $6 per person. Discount coupons for admission Monday through Friday are available through the co-sponsors and Lakeside mall. Hours are 3-10:30 p.m. weekdays, noon-10:30 p.m. weekends and Labor Day. Furniture and accessories of most models will be on sale the last day of the show.

Homearama/Condorama committee members whose residence or business is in the area include: Irvin Yackness and John E. Barber, Bloomfield Hills; Rosalie Lamb, Farmington Hills; Michael Garofalo and Richard Petersen, Livonia; James Bonadeo and Albert K. Marshall, Plymouth; Salvatore Palazzolo and Frank Moceri, Rochester Hills; John Altadonna, John Falzetta, Michael Falzetta and James Torrente, Troy; Milton P. Rotenberg, Bernard S. Glieberman, Richard C. Kravick, and Nancy Rosen, West Bloomfield.

Commercial building projects snubbed

■ A combination of high vacancy rates in existing commercial centers, tight lending policies and lack of builder interest has put the brakes on commercial development.

Little increase in commercial building activity has accompanied declines in construction loan interest rates and rates on post-construction take-out (mortgage) loans.

Many commercial builders are sitting on the sidelines because vacancy rates hover around 20 percent in offices, in excess of 10 percent in shopping centers.

Builders who dare to venture into overbuilt retail and office market find that they must pump more of their own money into projects than was required several years ago.

"The willingness of lenders to lend has been substantially tightened up," said Richard Roeser, president of Beachum & Roeser Development of Birmingham. "Basically, their ratio of reserve requirements makes it less desirable."

That set-aside requirement, which has risen from 3 to upwards of 8 percent of value of commercial construction loans from savings and loans, has driven First Federal of Michigan totally out of the market, said Donald G. Franck, commercial loan manager for that institution.

"It's a policy decision our bank has made," Franck said. "When we have to set aside $80,000 (on a $1 million loan), it's something you can't use for other purposes.

"We have gone totally residential," he added. "We'll do, on a very limited basis, subdivisions because that complements residential (mortgage) lending."

Besides, residential construction loans require only a 4-percent set-aside.

Commercial construction loans usually are pegged one to two percentage points higher than the prime interest rate — what institutions charge their most creditworthy borrowers. The prime was at 9½ percent in January 1991, 6 percent recently.

Construction loans, generally in effect 12 to 24 months, are repaid with take-out balloon mortgages ranging from five to 10 years issued by insurance companies and pension funds. Those rates currently are holding at about 9 to 10 percent, down slightly from 18 months ago.

NBD has money to loan, but isn't finding many takers, said David Fellingham, a vice president in the commercial real estate construction division.

"It doesn't make any difference what the rates are. When it comes down to it, there isn't much demand for office or retail at this time," he said.

If anything, NBD has scrutinized end-loan funding more in recent years than in the past, Fellingham said. And pension funds are making more demands on borrowers, requiring builders to pump in more equity.

"The key variable is availability of take-out funding — mortgages to take over after construction is completed to pay off construction," Fellingham said.

Michigan National Bank, headquartered in Farmington Hills, has "a limited amount of money available," said Farris Kalil, senior vice president in charge of commercial real estate.

"Because we have an over-supply (of buildings) already . . . there's not a lot of demand, first of all," Kalil said.

"No question banks are funding more conservatively. If someone were to come in and said they wanted to do a strip center but they had no tenants in advance — first off, no one is making that request, and if you did you probably wouldn't get a positive response."

Standard Federal Bank, headquartered in Troy, hasn't been in the commercial construction loan business in recent memory, said William Yaw, its spokesman.

"We're focused on single-family residential," Yaw said. "Our expertise is residential loans . . . and construction loans for builders who already have land loans in place."

"It's not to say there aren't any loans available for certain deals for certain builders, but the availability of construction loans has been reduced from five years ago," Roeser said.

Free training offered

Want to learn a building skill from the ground up?

Training opportunities are available in roofing, painting/drywall or masonry in a state-funded program offered by the Hazel Park School District in that community.

Suburbanites from throughout the metro area may apply, but there's one big catch. Applicants must be high-school dropouts or recipients of a General Education Development Certificate. Regular grads aren't eligible.

The next 20-week training program will begin Sept. 21. To register, contact school officials at 1-800-828-0080. Participants, expected to attend class four hours daily, may choose among morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

Trainees must select one area of concentration. There is no charge for the instruction. Trainees aren't paid while they learn.

"The intent of the program is to take one skill and learn that well, not jack of all trades," said Josh Stern, employment director. "The intent is to have a guy take a class and make a living at it."

Actually, 'guy' is a misnomer. Women also may apply. There is no maximum age, but a minimum of 18.

"We're going to be able to enroll around a minimum of 500 students," Stern said.

Jim Anker, adult education director in Hazel Park, said state funding guidelines restrict who may apply.

But jobs are available for those who finish the program.

"We have so many employers calling now, we don't have people to put in," Anker said. "I would say it's one of the most successful programs in the state."

"The key in any training fields with adults is job placement," Stern said. "We offer an employer a good worker who wants to work. One hundred percent of the people we placed in jobs started at $7 to $10.88 per hour. We have 1,000 contractors in the metro area we're working with one on one."

Trainees spend two hours daily in a classroom learning theory and two hours practicing in a lab setting, Stern said.

American Building Trades, a company based in Southfield, provides the curriculum, materials and placement services.

"I've been a contractor for 40 years," said Ron Stern, a director at American Building and Josh's father. "We're looking at putting together a coalition of government, education and industry."

Nearly all of 101 participants who finished the first group training were placed in jobs, Ron Stern said.

What's even more amazing about that figure is that many were the hard-core unemployed and regulars at homeless shelters. The Michigan Employment Security Commission helped transport some of those trainees to class and the first job.

"These people are totally disconnected from society," Ron Stern said. "You don't have dropouts in the suburbs you have in Detroit.

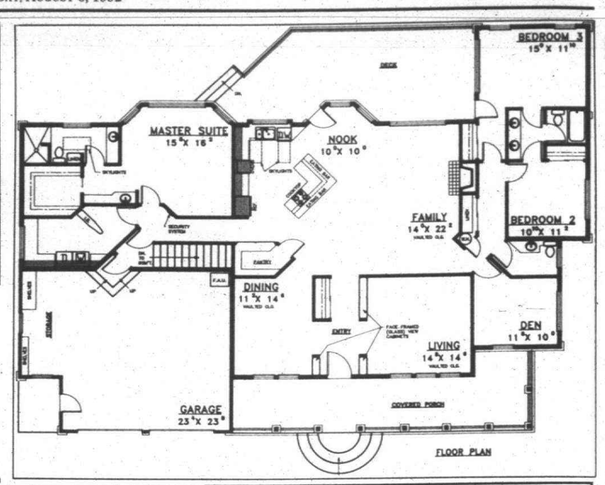
Living areas well defined



FLOOR PLAN

"A place for everything and everything in its place." A saying that fits the country-style Contessa.

Inspired by ideas for a reader, Landmark designers provided clear separation of living environments in this plan. Formal areas are at the center, with informal spaces at the back and formal rooms at the front. Bedrooms and a den are to the right; master suite and utility room to the left.

Dining room, living room and entry are vaulted, adding to the impression of spaciousness. Glass cabinets define the entryway without destroying the open feeling. The entire area is brightened by two dormer windows overhead, and it is richly windowed at the ground level.

The kitchen/family room windows line a long back wall expanded by a bayed eating nook. And with two skylights over the kitchen, electric lighting will rarely be needed during the day.

An L-shaped eating bar juts into the family room and provides extra counter space. From the built-in cooktop, meals are easily served to those at the counter or in the dining room. Shelves on one side of the walk-in pantry can be accessed through doors that open to the kitchen.

Witha wide bay window, the master suite is a bright and luxurious adult retreat with a walk-in closet and a skylit private bath. A second vanity is outside the bathroom in the dressing area. Controls for a home security system are in the adjacent hallway.

The utility room is larger than most. Features include a pull-down ironing board and ample counter space. The garage is extra room and comes with storage shelves.

For a study plan of the Contessa (332-022), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, Ore. 97402, including the plan name and number when ordering.

Yipes — stripes make a comback

Countering the current popularity of burgeoning floral wallpaper patterns is a quieter motif: stripes. Timeless in appeal, these wall coverings are inspired by items ranging from men's dress shirts to moire ribbons.

Not only are stripes fresh and crisp, they're just as comfortable in rustic cabin settings as they are in a room filled with traditional furnishings.

Indeed, the straight-edged quality of the stripe can bring a sense of order to a room filled with various florals and prints. "More and more consumers are asking for patterns, such as stripes, that lend relief from all the flower power," says Harold Imber of Wall-Tex Wallcoverings.

"Stripes can equal relief, and that's why nearly every wallpaper collection now offers at least one or two striped designs."

Just as stripes are used in couture to create the illusion of height or width, so too can they seemingly alter the dimensions of a room. To "widen" a narrow room, for example, try running the wallpaper horizontally. Likewise, stripes used vertically in a room with a low ceiling will appear to add height by drawing the eye upward.

The width of the stripe selected is crucial, however. If using narrow stripes in a large room, for example, the lines will tend to blend together. On the other hand, large stripes used in a small room can be overwhelming. For best results, choose a stripe with a scale that's compatible with the room's size.

Likewise, wall coverings that feature sharp contrast — such as black and white stripes — should be used with caution so they don't overpower a room. One good way to showcase these bolder designs is to place them below a chair rail, where they are below eye level.

If the blending of various prints, plaids, and solids is confusing, remember that any of them can be mixed with a stripe.

To mix several sizes of prints in one room, begin with common colors. Diversity in the scale of the patterns — tiny prints juxtaposed with larger motifs — also thwarts any heavy-handedness, as does the inclusion of at least one print with a dominant white, airy background.

For guidance, try this basic formula: one large-scale print, a medium stripe, a small dark print, and a small light print.

Keep in mind, too, that a vertical stripe needs a stopping point. If the space has no molding to stop the eye, it's important to use a border at ceiling level. If there's no companion border, create one by cutting off a 4- 5-inch-wide strip of the wallpaper and hanging it horizontally.

Cedar to the rescue of musty closets

Closets can collect more than clothes. They can collect mustiness, silverfish, and moths. Rather than shutting the door on the problem, consider taking action by lining closets with aromatic cedar, suggests Remodeling Ideas magazine.

The tart scent of cedar may smell fresh and natural to humans, but it smells like trouble to insects, especially moths. They will usually steer clear of cedar closets, but can be attracted to the clothing in an unprotected closet, where they will lay eggs. When larvae hatch, they may eat very small holes in fabrics.

Most hardware centers sell cedar planks and cedar flakeboard panels. The planks can be three-eighths-inch boards. Most planks are between 2½ and 4 inches and more difficult to install but provide an attractive, smooth, solid-wood look.

Flakeboard panels are created with light and dark cedar chips. They are usually one-quarter-inch thick and 4 feet by 8 feet, although smaller sizes are sometimes available. The finish is rough, and the panels should not be painted or sealed.

In general, cedar panels cost half as much as planks. To cover 50 square feet with planks would cost about $54. The same area could be covered with panels for about $28.

If adding a new closet or stripping an existing closet to the studs, consider closing it in with cedar. Cedar planks or panels can also be placed over existing drywall.

LEASE A LOT FOR A LITTLE.

JETTA GL $179 PER MONTH 48 MOS

Jetta GL

If the idea of getting a low lease rate while still getting all the car you want sounds appealing, Volkswagen would like you to meet the Jetta and the Passat.

The Jetta is a European designed touring sedan that comes with impressive options like air conditioning, automatic transmission and AM/FM stereo cassette. And does so at an affordable $179* per month.

If European driving and a roomy interior fit your lifestyle, there's the Passat GL. Its list of equipment includes air conditioning, AM/FM stereo cassette and power sunroof. All this and more for only $249* per month.
