Bush visit seeks swing votes

The presidential election season opens early in Canton and Plymouth, with a visit by president George Bush scheduled for Tuesday. Some say the attention being paid Canton by state and national politicians is bound to benefit Canton.

BY SUZY PARKER
STAFF WRITER

The most obvious reason for President Bush's scheduled visit to Canton on Tuesday, most local political and community leaders agree, is to boost the campaigns of local Republican candidates for the redistricted area.

But local leaders also say it represents both parties' growing awareness that the election will be won in suburban areas like Canton.

"The fight is following the flight," says Canton Community Foundation Director Bill Joyner. "People are moving to the suburbs and as long as the votes are out there, that's where the battleground will be."

With Michigan considered one of the five swing states in the national election, Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton made his bid for the suburban vote last week when he held rallies in Battle Creek and Waterford.

In Canton on Tuesday, Bush is scheduled to hold a rally in the early afternoon in the Heritage Park Amphitheater. From 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 today, the 5,000 tickets available for the rally at no charge will be distributed at the Canton Township Clerk's office.

The key to Michigan, Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack says, could very well lie in the hands of Canton.

"They know that coming to Canton will have a spill over effect into the whole county," Yack says.

Securing Canton's alliance, however, might not be that easy, said state Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton.

"I find Canton to be very individual," said Kosteva, who is running against Republican candidate Debbie Whyman in November. "It's people who don't hold strong political affiliations. One only needs to look at its political history to know that."

Before 1970, Canton Township was a more rural area with a little more than 10,000 residents which tended to vote the Democratic ticket.

"Canton has many of its roots in the West Side of Detroit," Kosteva said. "Many current residents' mothers and

Canton residents Bill and Terry Maynes' eyes were glued to the double doors as passengers on Northwest's Flight No. 30 from Seoul, Korea, passed through customs and entered the international terminal at Detroit Metropolitan Airport on Tuesday.

They knew the representatives from the Americans for International Aid and Adoption (AIAA) would depart from the plane last, but still the Mayneses looked on nervously, waiting for AIAA representative Heather Fuller to appear with Katrina, the three-month-old Korean baby girl they were adopting.

"Do you know who's coming?" said Terry Maynes, leaning over and speaking quietly into the ear of her 4-year-old son Dustin, who the Mayneses adopted through the same agency just four years ago.

"My new baby sister," Dustin responded with wide eyes and a big smile.

For Bill and Terry Maynes, now 34 and 32 respectively, the arrival of Katrina signified the completion of their family. Married in 1979, the Mayneses tried for six years to have children of their own. They went through the usual battery of tests, but doctors could find no reason for their difficulty in conceiving a child.

Finally, they decided to adopt, but there they encountered obstacles as well. Working through a social service agency could take as long as seven years, Bill was told. A private adoption agency, while much faster at placing children in homes, could cost as much as $20,000 to $30,000.

"We had already been married seven years," Terry Maynes said. "We didn't want to wait another seven, and a private adoption was just too expensive."

Women ponder pitch

Canton resident Kay Baldrica, 49, says it's about time politicians take the voting power of women seriously.

"I think they're beginning to realize women will carry out their promise to support the candidate who supports their views," she said. But she's not sure they're taking the right approach.

At the Democratic National Convention last month, presidential candidate Bill Clinton and his wife Hilary quickly aligned themselves with the Pro-Choice camp.

In Houston, Republican convention organizers let first lady Barbara Bush and a host of other women, including Detroit's Mary Fisher, kick off President Bush's "family values" campaign he will bring to Canton on Tuesday.

Pleased the two parties are putting in bids for the women's votes, high-school teacher Baldrica said such a narrow appeal to women may prove to be their downfall.

"When they start focusing on only one issue, such as abortion, I think they'll start losing women's votes because we're more sophisticated than that," Baldrica says. "We have a lot of concerns beyond abortion, such as wages, health benefits and child support."

Administrative assistant Shirley Clapper from Canton considers herself one such independent voter. With no predetermined party affiliation, Clapper, 58, says she votes for a candidate by issue, but agrees that taking a stand on abortion as a way of reaching women is not enough.

"In my work I deal a with a great number of senior citizens," said Clapper, who works for Charter Bus

Canton becomes battle ground for House race

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

State Rep. James Kosteva called it "a real championship fight." Deborah Whyman compared it to the World Series.

So you see, these two candidates for the 21st district state House seat can't even agree on a metaphor for the campaign.

Kosteva is the incumbent Democrat, having held the seat since 1984. But Canton's political stance has since moved to the right, and the district was redrawn this year, adding a few more Republican voters to the campaign ball game, or prize fight.

Ergo, Kosteva seems to be running like a challenger this year. Almost every day he's out knocking on doors from 4 p.m. until sundown, guided by a list of "good consistent voters" with records of regularly casting ballots. He said he can reach 50-70 voters a day in this way.

Kosteva also plans "a number of mailings between Labor Day and November," and he's stockpiled more than 1,000 campaign signs to spread around the district beginning in late September.

But all those additional Republicans have not run to the campaign of GOP candidate Whyman. Interestingly

DARE Donations

The Canton Chamber of Commerce raised $610 for the local Drug Abuse Resistance Education program.

The money was gathered through a raffle whereby the 108 participants in the chamber's Aug. 4 golf outing bought $5 raffle tickets. The five winners received DARE sweat shirts.

Hunting classes

The Canton police department is offering a free hunting safety class again this year on Sept. 20 and 27.

The free class will run from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. both days and be taught at the police department by Chris Mayer.

EMU Canton night

The Canton Community Foundation and chamber of commerce have combined their considerable resources to stage a "Canton night" at an Oct. 3 Eastern Michigan University football game against Miami University.

Anybody with $10 to spend may meet with the rest of the merry makers at 4 p.m. Oct. 3 in the township hall parking lot for a car caravan bound for Ypsilanti.

The proceeds for the event are earmarked for the Canton veterans memorial fund. For more information, call Linda Shapona at 453-4040 or Bill Joyner at 454-5427.

Goal growth

Speaking of the Canton Community Foundation, director Bill Joyner reports that the response to a recently announced fund-raising drive has been so promising that he increased the goal from $100,000 to $250,000.

TEAM 100 had 14 members when the Observer last reported on it in the Aug. 13 issue. As of last Thursday the foundation had 55 volunteers to conduct the fund-raising activity between Sept. 2 and 23. Joyner hopes to ultimately have 100 volunteers or more.

Teachers union official pessimistic about talks

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A union leader representing Wayne-Westland teachers is pessimistic about a possible pay raise settlement before school starts next week.

Negotiators remain at odds over a salary increase, but they are expected to return to the bargaining table Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"We cannot report any progress," said Robert Kowalczyk, executive director for the 900-member Wayne-Westland Education Association. "I have nothing positive to say."

Teachers are scheduled to report to work next Monday — one day before students return to class.

Barring a breakthrough in contract talks, the WWEA is expected to meet at 6:30 a.m. next Monday. But Kowalczyk refused to say whether the session might revolve around a possible strike.

"I have no comment," he said.

Kowalczyk denied rumors that union leaders have refused to budge from a salary increase of about 6 percent for the current year, which marks the third year of a three-year contract.

"Your figures are incorrect," he said.

Teachers received an 11.9-percent raise for the first two years of the contract, but third-year raises are to be negotiated. Insurance coverage for teacher legal fees also is being negotiated.

No bargaining sessions between WWEA leaders and school officials have been scheduled past Thursday.

"Am I optimistic? No," Kowalczyk said, when asked if he expects a settlement before school starts.

The school board's chief negotiator, Bill Taylor, associate superintendent for employee services, could not be reached for comment Friday.

Neither side has revealed separate proposals that they have offered.

Unless a settlement is reached, the WWEA's executive committee "will review an alternative course of action," Kowalczyk said, though he refrained from saying teachers might consider a work stoppage.

Teachers had authorized a strike before they received a contract settlement in February 1991. The two-year, 11.9-percent raise averted a strike, but caused a controversy in the district.

That agreement emerged as the school board simultaneously considered deep cuts in school programs. Those cuts were averted when voters approved a 7.75-mill tax increase in June 1991.

Since the furor over those raises erupted, six of seven school board members have been replaced. Four were defeated in elections, and two stepped down on their own.

Kowalczyk's comments last week marked the first time that WWEA leaders had publicly stated that they are pessimistic about a contract settlement by next Monday.

Bargaining teams earlier had set an Aug. 10 deadline for reaching an agreement. But they agreed to extend talks through the end of the month, in hopes of achieving a consensus by the start-up of school.

Unlimited in Detroit. "I've seen seniors go from existence living to a poverty state. Now I want to vote for someone who is going to change that — and I do think it's time for a change."

Republican Plymouth Township Supervisor candidate Kathleen Keen-McCarthy, however, does not believe her party has made a bid to women solely on the basis of the abortion issue.

"I think the Democrats are making pro-choice their major issues, but the Republicans are simply saying there's a broader spectrum here involving the whole family," says Keen-McCarthy. "What's interesting, however, is that suddenly those issues that women have been talking about for years are becoming the focus of these campaigns — family and quality of life."

The credit for the clammer to garner support from women, says Canton resident Tillie Schultz, 69, goes to Barbara Bush. Schultz also thinks the first lady will go a long way in swaying women to the Republican ticket.

"She's a down to earth person and I think a lot of women identify with her," Schultz says. "I think she's a role model for all women and I think some of the men should try to measure up to her as well."

Canton resident Carol Hay, 37 and president of her company, United Software Solutions, acknowledges that both parties are pursuing women as a political power base in the 1992 campaign, but fears the attention is too good to be true.

"Half of me says it's about time," she says. "The other half of me says it's because they see us as their route to success . . . my fear is that they're using us."

fathers worked in the auto industry, who had Democratic roots."

In the 1980s these people began to move to Canton, supervisor Yack said, finding the comfort of the suburbs and the appeal of Ronald Reagan.

What's clear is that Canton Township residents are often ticket splitters. They may vote for one party on the local level, Congressman William Ford says, but they're likely to vote the other on a national level.

Supervisor Yack agrees.

"I think it has less to do with party affiliation and more to do with local issues," said Yack. "In the 1980s residents were concerned with growth issues such as land use and commercialization so they voted the candidates that spoke to them."

No matter which party gets Canton's votes, the township is likely to benefit from the attention this fall, Yack said.

"We will get a chance to share our concerns," he said. "And hopefully after the election they will be translated into action."

They also looked into some religious agencies, but not being of the same denomination, there were no opportunities with such organizations. Finally, a friend of Terry's referred them to the AIAA, and the application process which would bring Dustin to their family began.

They filled out a preliminary application and then a social worker visited and conducted a home evaluation. Finally, after the FBI concluded its investigation of the Mayneses, a common event in international adoptions, the Mayneses were approved. In all, the process took 10 months, $6,000 and the Mayneses had their first child.

Even when the Mayneses adopted Dustin, they knew they wanted another child. Bill and Terry both come from large families, and they didn't want Dustin to be an only child. But it wasn't until last September they decided the time was right. So the Mayneses began the application process again. By January they had the papers filled out and turned into the AIAA. Even though they had worked with this agency before, the organization conducted as thorough an investigation as the first time, including fingerprinting and an FBI interview. Also, a social worker who conducted the second evaluation even questioned Dustin about his home life.

■ Seven months and $13,000 later, Bill and Terry got the call telling them they had been approved and their baby girl was on her way.

Seven months and $13,000 later, Bill and Terry got the call telling them they had been approved and their baby girl was on her way.

At the airport, Terry said she was still quite nervous, even though she had gone through this experience before.

"I'm excited. I want to get her and hold her," Terry said, starting every time the double doors swung open. "But I have the general fears that any parent does. I want to make sure she's healthy and OK."

Finally, AIAA representative Fuller walked out with Katrina and placed her in Terry's arms.

"Oh my baby girl," Terry whispered, her eyes filling with tears as Katrina smiled up at her.

From his father's arms, Dustin leaned over and kissed Katrina on the forehead. Then Bill Maynes and the remaining 25 friends and family who gathered there that afternoon lined up to welcome in likewise fashion the new edition to the Maynes family.

enough, Kosteva has received overt, covert and inadvertent support from several Canton Republicans.

It's already been noted that township Supervisor Tom Yack won't actively support either candidate, a tacit endorsement of Kosteva. Now Canton Big Boy owner and self-described "staunch Republican" Mitchell Howard has thrown his support to Kosteva.

Howard said he's writing a letter of support that Kosteva may use any way he sees fit in the campaign. "Two or three other (Republicans) might join me in that respect," Howard said.

Whyman, on the other hand, has a big fan in Gov. John Engler who personally promised to speak at a fund-raiser on her behalf in September or October. She began going door-to-door last Wednesday, plans to mail information to voters and has more than $40,000 to spend. "I believe I have a message that people like," she said.

To support her assertion, Whyman can point to an Aug. 4 primary campaign victory over Dan Calabrese by a margin of several hundred votes. But she can't count on the support of her fellow Republican.

Calabrese said he's "not going to take an active role in this race," but nevertheless criticizes Whyman. "I'm not entirely confident that she's a well-rounded enough person and steady enough on all the issues," he said. "I'm not entirely convinced she knows what she's doing."

Although Calabrese doesn't support Kosteva, either, his criticism is much less severe. "People don't feel that (Kosteva) is dishonest," he said. "And he has been there when you needed a question answered or when you needed a problem solved."

Asked why the Republican support has come his way, Kosteva said that "a good part of the work we do in the legislature is non-partisan. Ninety percent of the votes we cast are not Republican or Democrat, liberal or conservative."

Calabrese attributed it to a set of priorities that say politics run second to pragmatism. "It's true that Canton is a very Republican community," he said, "but it's also true that the people are loyal to the community first."

Edsel Ford set to speak at Canton economic club

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

There's a Ford in Canton's future, and his name is Edsel.

He's scheduled to speak at the Canton Economic Club's Sept. 16 luncheon at the Geneva Presbyterian Church on Sheldon.

Maybe it shouldn't come as a surprise that a scion of the Ford empire, a veritable prince among Michigan royalty, would deign to bless the economic club with his presence, considering that President George Bush is planning a Canton visit Tuesday and Gov. John Engler is expected to swing by in September or October for a GOP fund-raiser.

But with high-profile, heavy hitters like Ford planning speeches here, can Cecil Fielder be far behind?

Interestingly enough, Ford's impending arrival does not surprise economic club president Bruce Patterson. "People are knocking the door down trying to get to speak to the economic club," he said.

Indeed, Engler is the sole invitee to economic club speakerdom who declined the honor, Patterson said, and he's already coming to town for a different reason. Besides, Engler addressed the club two years ago.

But why is this particular monthly engagement such a plum for orators?

"We offer them a forum in western Wayne County that makes it possible for them to speak (to people all over this area)," Patterson said. "And there're a large number of important people who reside or work in that area."

Said Ford: "Canton is a growing community with a lot to offer and good family values. It's also Ford country and has given strong support to Ford. This is an opportunity to thank the community for its support and to show support for area Ford dealers."

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack sort of agreed. "(Canton) represents the kind of market that Ford Motor Co. would like to prosper in," he said. "See what happens when you get your name on the map? People finally know we're here. It says a lot about Edsel Ford that he has the time to speak to citizens in western Wayne County."

Neither was Canton Chamber of Commerce director Linda Shapona surprised about Ford's visit. "There's a lot going on out here that ties in with the auto industry," she said. "It's a pro-business area."

Even Plymouth people are noticing Canton's economic club. Plymouth City councilman Dennis Shrewsburry is a regular at the monthly meetings.

"The reputation of the economic club is growing not only countywide, but statewide, too," he said. "This is the kind of thing that makes Plymouth and Canton a vibrant community. Anybody who wants a ticket (to see Ford) can call me up," at 451-0475.

Woman ponders differences between U.S., El Salvador

BY SUZY PARKER
STAFF WRITER

Ever since she returned from a two week humanitarian aid trip to war-torn El Salvador last June, little things keep happening to Plymouth Township native Jane Lindamood that remind her of the difference between that Central American country and the United States.

"I went to the mall with a friend shortly after I returned, and it was strange to see all this excess we have compared to the devastation I had seen over there," she said.

Lindamood was part of a five-person contingent that dispensed medical supplies and aid for the Salvadorans caught up in the country's decade-long struggle to eject the existing military dictatorship and replace it with a representative government.

During the trip, which was sponsored by Detroit-Windsor Refugee Coalition and Salvadoran Humanitarian Aid, Research and Education (SHARE), the delegation spent four days in the city of San Salvador holding clinics on Post-Traumatic Stress Syndrome for the guerrillas returning home from years of fighting in the mountains. Through the clinics, the group hoped to prepare the fighters for the difficult adjustment to daily life.

While there, Lindamood said they also had an opportunity to tour the city. But what she found was different than she had expected.

"The pictures you see on television are always of the slums, but there were some very modern sectors where the wealthy land owners and international businessmen live," she said.

The slums, however, were very sad and frightening, she said. The only sewage system available in the desolate areas is a ditch running through the city known as "The Stinking River". The houses, constructed of almost any materials available, are virtually piled on top of each other, she said.

■ 'The children over there are begging to learn, but the schools don't have the resources.'
Jane Lindamood

Armed soldiers

The most difficult thing to become accustomed to, Lindamood said, was the sight of armed soldiers at every turn. In that city, uniformed soldiers with machine guns even directed traffic.

"One time we were watching a street corner show and all of a sudden I realized that wherever I looked there were soldiers around us watching," she said. "It set me off balance because as an American that's something I'm not used to, but to these people it's just a fact of life."

After four days, Lindamood's group then moved into the mountains along the Honduran border. For five days they met with and dispensed medical supplies to the guerrilla fighters and refugees struggling to cross the border into Honduras. Lindamood remembers one particular day when she and the others made a two-hour hike up the mountains, following the footsteps of thousands who took that path to seek refuge in the neighboring country. That single experience, Lindagood said, clarified for her what the lives of Salvadorans struggling for political freedom have been like for the last 10 years.

"When we got to the top, we were all so exhausted," she recalled. "To think we felt this way after only two hours and the refugees hike like this for days and weeks on end, fearing that if they're stopped they'll be killed. That experience brought it all into focus."

Year of interest

For Lindamood, this trip was the culmination of many years of interest in the Central American's civil war and a desire to help in some way. She first learned about the situation from her teachers at Plymouth-Canton High School when they would discuss current events of the mid-1980s.

When she went to Western Michigan University in 1986, she attended a church which had a sister parish in El Salvador. Often she would hear the reports from the sister church about how it had been taken over by the government to be used as a military outpost and of other events in the war. Money and time constraints always kept her from making the journey, however, until last year when she became a teacher with the Marshall school district. With her summers free and a steady income, Lindamood finally was able to save up the $1,800 needed to make the trip.

Now she has decided her recent trip was only enough to get her feet wet and has hopes of spending future summers in Central America.

In the meantime, she expects to struggle once again with the differences between between life in El Salvador and in her own country when she returns to teaching this fall.

"The children over there are begging to learn, but the schools don't have the resources," Lindamood said. "Here, an education is so available and free for the taking and it's abused and ignored."

Mettetal goes down in flames

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Mettetal Airport won't be saved by federal money, according to a Federal Aviations Administration official.

"It's over as far as we're concerned," said Peter Serini, FAA Detroit airports district manager.

That's the strongest language spoken so far to signal an end to the effort started two years ago to buy the tiny Canton airport.

Plymouth Township and Canton signed an agreement a year ago to jointly seek an FAA grant so they could buy and run the airport.

The townships put several conditions into the joint agreement, including a clause letting Canton out of the agreement after 10 years. Observers, and even officials who voted to create the joint agreement, said it was unlikely the FAA would accept such a provision.

And FAA officials said they couldn't recall the FAA giving a grant to buy an airport with such restrictions as part of the deal.

Plymouth Township trustees agreed Tuesday to set a deadline, Sept. 8, for the Federal Aviation Administration to approve the joint operating agreement signed by the two townships.

The Canton board of trustees at their July 28 meeting also voted to accept Plymouth Township's request to set the Sept. 8 deadline for hearing from the FAA on the joint grant request.

"We'll send that on and see what response they have," Plymouth Township supervisor Gerald Law said.

But Serini said the FAA decided to reject that language earlier this year.

In a May 22 letter, state bureau of aeronautics deputy director William Gehman wrote, "We have informed the townships, both verbally and in writing regarding FAA rejection of the suggested 10-year language."

Still, the Plymouth Township board of trustees is scheduled to meet on that deadline day, Sept. 8. If no word of approval comes from the FAA by that day, "Then the joint operating agreement of the two townships is considered terminated," Law said.

Yet, he added that Plymouth Township can't by itself dissolve the agreement with a vote, suggesting that the Canton board must also vote to dissolve the joint agreement to buy Mettetal.

■ The townships put several conditions into the joint agreement, including a clause letting Canton out of the agreement after 10 years. Observers, and even officials who voted to create the joint agreement, said it was unlikely the FAA would accept such a provision.

Trustee Smith Horton commented that when the two townships created the joint agreement last summer, he thought it was "something the FAA would never agree to."

The saga began in 1990, when the Canton board of trustees rejected an effort advanced by some citizens to buy and run the airport.

In August 1990, then Plymouth Township supervisor Maurice Breen announced his intention to seek a federal grant to buy the airport and have Plymouth Township run it.

Breen said his interest was motivated by a desire to maintain a high quality of life in the area, and keep industrial development away from Plymouth Township homes just across Joy Road from the airport.

But a group of citizens organized to fight the effort, claiming residents would eventually pay local taxes to support the airport operation, even though Breen and township trustees said they planned to spend no local taxes on the airport.

Plymouth Township sought to create a joint airport authority with the city of Plymouth, angering a group of anti-airport residents in the city.

In November 1991, a city ballot proposal over the airport was soundly defeated, and so were some city commission incumbents who supported the airport purchase.

Literacy council reaches out

BY LEONARD POGER
STAFF WRITER

David Alexander wants western Wayne County communities to know that adult illiteracy is a problem.

To get the message out, the new executive director of the Western Wayne County Literacy Council plans to establish relationships with governmental agencies, churches, businesses and community groups.

"Literacy is everyone's business," said Alexander, a Redford Township resident whose organization is based in Garden City's Marquette adult education center.

"I want to promote the public's awareness of the problem and encourage help from different avenues," said the man who replaced Debra Hoffman, who left in late July for another position after serving three months as the council's first executive director.

Alexander, who comes to the private, non-profit council from a fund-raising position with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, said in an interview that money isn't the group's only need.

The council also needs more students, volunteer tutors and a larger office.

Both donations of money and office space from local building owners are tax deductible.

Talking about potential students, Alexander said many non-reading adults "try to hide and get through life the best they can." If residents know of people having difficulty in reading, they should call the council at 427-6644.

"I want to make the (tutoring) environment comfortable and convenient," said Alexander, who also stressed that students' confidentiality is maintained.

The council, which marked its 10th anniversary this year, has about 50 volunteer tutors who put in a combined 2,700 hours last year working with 50 to 100 students.

The council hired its first executive director with the help of a state education department grant.

Alexander cited national studies that conclude that about 20 percent of adults are functionally illiterate. Also, adults can improve their reading scores by about one grade level after 35 to 45 hours of tutoring.

Studies show that children whose parents are functionally illiterate are twice as likely as their peers to also be functionally illiterate.

The council plans two upcoming workshops for tutors, Alexander said. The workshops are scheduled for 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sept. 12, 19 at the Canton Township Public Library, 1200 Canton Center Road, between Cherry Hill and Michigan Avenue.

A nominal fee will be charged to volunteer tutors to cover the cost of workshop materials, council membership and certification.

Volunteers should call the council office at 427-6644.

The new council executive director, who said he is "between 30 and 40," was born in Michigan and raised on Detroit's west side. He attended school in Virginia and Michigan and obtained a bachelor's degree in public affairs from Wayne State University in 1989.

Before working for the Detroit Symphony during the past year, Alexander also was a production assistant for Music Magazine, based in Hollywood, Calif.

His background includes being a writer and editorial assistant for Record Profile Magazine, based in Southfield, writing feature stories and editing a national music publication.

Alexander also worked as a volunteer tutor in Detroit, helping students with reading, writing and social studies.

More recently, he was a volunteer tutor in the Redford Union School District, helping junior high students with their reading.

Chinese restaurant coming to downtown Plymouth

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Move over country ducks — They'll soon be serving roast duck downtown.

In the former Cloverdale restaurant, just a few doors down from those shops where country ducks are the rage, a restaurant specializing in Chinese nouveau cuisine plans to open.

Ann Arbor restauranteur Khee Kwok said he plans to open "in six or seven months."

Kwok is one of several restaurant owners who say they're interested in moving into some vacant Plymouth store fronts.

By last week, there were four inquiries from restaurant chains interested in the former Taco Bell restaurant on Main Street, according to the city building department.

To the southwest, Mr. B's Plymouth Grill has received city commission approval for locating in the former Holly By Golly's building on Ann Arbor Road.

There are several Mr. B's barrestaurants in metro Detroit, including Rochester and Royal Oak. The establishments tend toward a sports bar theme.

According to the application presented to the city commission, the Plymouth Mr. B's plans to have karaoke entertainment. The owners were unavailable for comment on other plans for the business.

Kwok has hired an architect to redesign the inside of the former Cloverdale restaurant.

Ken West, city engineer, said he's had discussions with architect Dean Sakamoto about the former Cloverdale building. "He's coming up with concepts to present to the owner of the restaurant," West said.

At the Cloverdale site, payment for parking credits — something that has deterred some restaurant developers from locating downtown — won't be a problem, as the building is already zoned as a restaurant.

All that's needed, West said, is a building permit for remodeling.

"Part of what they need to do is take paneling out," West said, to examine the building structure.

The architect has expressed interest in creating more windows, and reducing the number of seats in the restaurant, West said.

Kwong said he plans to lease the building.

"We'll have nouveau Chinese cuisine," he said, such as pasta dishes with sea clam sauce and roast duck. "It looks like Italian style but it's like Chinese," Kwong said.

West said most fixtures from inside the building.

Shooting death probed

Canton Township police are investigating what is reported to be an accidental shooting that left a 17-year-old resident dead.

Eric Douglas Lohrmann was shot in the head early Sunday morning as he showed friends how safe his .38-caliber Smith and Wesson revolver was, according to witness reports.

Lohrman reportedly brought the gun to a party at the Stony Brook apartments on Joy Road. The other eight people attending the party said Lohrmann placed the gun to his head and pulled the trigger. He was dead immediately, according to reports.

An autopsy will be performed and the shooting remains under investigation.

Rep. Ford: Trade pact not a better idea

BY LEONARD POGER
STAFF WRITER

The proposed North American Free Trade Agreement will cost more jobs in southeast Michigan, U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Ypsilanti Township, predicted at a suburban Rotary Club program Thursday.

He pointed out the problems of many companies shifting operations and jobs to a 60-mile-wide strip along the U.S.-Mexican border to improve profits.

An example is Ford Motor Co. shifting the production of its former Mercury Lynx model to Mexico where it now builds a more expensive model, called the Tracer. At the same time, the company continues to assemble its Escorts for a $2,000-lower price tag at the Wayne plant on Michigan Ave. at Newburgh.

The shifting of jobs is to increase profits, not to hurt people, Ford said.

But he made it clear that he opposes the agreement that is designed to provide tariff-free products among the United State, Mexico and Canada.

"I cannot support any agreement which sanctions job flight south in pursuit of cheap labor and ignores the workers and communities left behind," he said.

Convention fires up brother-sister team

HOUSTON — The Englers, the Peros, the Dunaskisses, the Chryslers, the Greenleafs — Michigan Republican politics is full of couples.

A rarity is the brother-sister act of L. James Hall and Yvette Charles.

"In 1986 Jim recruited me as a precinct delegate. He was then city director in Southfield," said big sister Charles, 45.

She now has his old job, recruiting delegates for 50 precincts, doing grass-roots work for Republican candidates organizing people for literature drops.

Hall, 35, is the state party's second vice chair. "We do outreach in the African-American community. We sponsored a dinner three weeks ago with Tony Brown (PBS talk show host) as speaker. We had 500 African-Americans from Oakland and Wayne counties. Gov. (John) Engler was there, and all the elected officials we could get.

"Our message was political independence. We are not a one-party people," Hall said.

At this convention, Hall is a delegate at-large. In 1988 he was a delegate from the old 17th Congressional District, Charles is an alternate from the new 12th District.

"In the last year," she said, "Jim got me involved in state committee meetings. I'm now on the issues committee (which writes the state party platform.)"

"Yvette is an extension of my outreach efforts," said Hall.

They also have an AAA Michigan connection. Hall has an agency in Farmington Hills. Charles is a customer service representative in Dearborn.

"I started in 1979 with the (George) Bush campaign when it was led by then-Gov. (William) Milliken," said Hall. "I was a Bush delegate to the state convention.

"I got interested in '80," said Charles, "I was widowed in 1979 and joined Space, a widows group. They suggested that to meet people, we go to the Republican convention in Detroit. After that, Jim recruited me."

Ford: trade pact to cost local jobs

BY LEONARD POGER
STAFF WRITER

The proposed North American Free Trade Agreement will cost more jobs in southeast Michigan, U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Ypsilanti Township, predicted at a suburban Rotary Club program Thursday.

He pointed out the problems of many companies shifting operations and jobs to a 60-mile-wide strip along the U.S.-Mexican border to improve profits.

An example is Ford Motor Co. shifting the production of its former Mercury Lynx model to Mexico where it now builds a more expensive model, called the Tracer. At the same time, the company continues to assemble its Escorts for a $2,000-lower price tag at the Wayne plant on Michigan Ave. at Newburgh.

The shifting of jobs is to increase profits, not to hurt people, Ford said.

But he made it clear that he opposes the agreement that is designed to provide tariff-free products among the United State, Mexico and Canada.

"I cannot support any agreement which sanctions job flight south in pursuit of cheap labor and ignores the workers and communities left behind," he told the Westland Rotarians at its weekly luncheon meeting.

"I cannot support any agreement that doesn't include enforceable labor standards, health standards, environmental protection standards and public safety standards." said Ford, a 28-year House member seeking his 15th term Nov. 3.

There are 2,000 plants in the Maquiladora strip along the U.S.-Mexican border, with the average wage of a worker being less than $1 an hour with no union or pension rights, he said.

Typically, a worker in that area lives on a two-room shack without running water, electricity or car and has to work four days to buy a pair of blue jeans, he added.

That strip has 550,000 hourly workers, of which 75,000 work for auto companies, who have replaced people in the Midwest and New England, said the congressman.

"I will do everything I can to oppose the (trade free) agreement," said Ford, adding that Gov. John Engler feels it will be good for Michigan.

Ford, whose district boundaries have changed under the redistricting required every 10 years, said he now has more auto plants under his district than any other in the House. There are 15 Ford plants and eight General Motors plants in his district, which includes Garden City, Westland, Canton Township, the Plymouth community, the southwest section of Livonia and stretches west to Ann Arbor.

On another economic issue, Ford said that economists have said that technically the country "is in a 'mild recovery,' but people here would ahve stoned me and thrown me out. They (people) just don't believe it."

Schedule set for parent academy nights

A Parent Academy to provide important information regarding the developmental, social, emotional and intellectual growth of children is being offered once again this year for parents in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District.

From September to April, the Parent Academy will hold free monthly meetings on topics of interest to parents. The meetings feature professionals who share their expertise and answer questions. This is the program's second year of operation.

The program was formed by Bird Elementary School parents Dorian Soper and Sue Nisch, along with principal Claudia Kulnis. According to Soper, the program is designed to help educate parents.

"The purpose of the program is to give parents tools to help them enhance their child's skills for living," Soper said. "The unique aspect of the program is that it was created by parents and is designed for parents. The program concentrates on parental needs."

At the end of each meeting, parents complete a questionnaire to help identify areas of concern for future meetings. This year's meetings are based on parental requests given throughout the school district last year. Speakers at the meetings are donating their time to help the program.

All meetings will be held from 7-9 p.m. Thursdays in the Board Room of the E. J. McClendon Educational Center, located at 454 South Harvey Street in Plymouth. Following is the schedule of meetings for this school year:

- September 24: "Meet the School Board," an informal and personal way to get to know your board of education.
- October 22: "Upcoming Legislation Effecting the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools," hosted by Superintendent John M. Hoben.
- Nov. 19: "Divorce, Re-Marriage and Blended Families," will be discussed by social worker David Breeden.
- Jan. 28: "That Will Never Happen to My Child," a parent's role in preventing substance abuse, will be presented by Dr. Pamela Lemerand.
- Feb.18: "Peer Pressure and Social Interaction," a look at the pressures faced by adolescents. Speaker is Rick McCoy of McCoy, Cooper and Associates.
- March 25: "Healthy Childhood Self-Esteem: A Gift for a Lifetime," will be hosted by John Bernardo.
- April 22: "How to Talk So Kids Will Listen," a discussion on effective parenting will be presented by social worker Bill O'Connor.

Youth arrested in fatal stabbing

Northville Township police are investigating the Thursday stabbing death of a Meijer security guard as he tried to apprehend a suspect for retail fraud.

Michael Bebeau, 28, of Livonia was stabbed in the chest at about 11:25 p.m. near the check and jewelry counter after a suspect resisted, police said.

Police located the stabbing suspect in the store parking lot and arrested him. A male believed to be working with the suspect was also arrested and lodged at the Northville Township jail.

A not-guilty plea was entered Friday for the 16-year-old male arrested in the stabbing. Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court in Plymouth remanded the youth to juvenile court.

Goober survives switch from stage to 'Complete' CD

LARRY O'CONNOR

"The Complete Works of Goober & the Peas," Goober & the Peas: So much of what Goober & the Peas is about is visual: A lanky lead singer in a cowboy hat who looks like he's made up of spare parts kicking straw into the audience and backed up by his legion of cowpoke musicians searing mutated punk rock and country into our consciousness.

The joke is funny and we continue to howl.

Somewhat lost in all this has been the band's music, which has never really been held up for dissection. The release of "The Complete Works of Goober & the Peas" obviously changes all that.

Stripped away from all its hokey surroundings, Goober and the Peas' music is served on a musical plate unadorned. It's not bad and the guitar work, especially on the harder edged rock numbers, is brilliant. Yet the release misses the proper ambience at times.

Songs such as "Consider Me," which is sung in twangy reverence to Hank Williams Sr., have a stately grace about them while others like the usually scorching "Funky Cowboy" seems to lose some kick under the constraint of a studio. The crackle and spunk on the band's previously released EP was a far better showcase for anthems like "Hot Women (Cold Beer)."

The CD version of Goober and the Peas doesn't retain the charm.(Municipal Recordings, P.O. Box 20879, Detroit 48220)

"Death of Cool," Kitchens of Distinction: Sure, the Kitchens of Distinction owe their sound to a number of innovative 1980s bands — Joy Division, the Cure, Cocteau Twins and the Smiths to name a few. "Strange Free World," the band's 1991 debut on A&M, was still a captivating amalgamation of swelled up emotion, cloud bursts of guitar and shimmering textures that hinted at free jazz at times.

So the direction and mood of "Death of Cool" should come as little surprise. Patrick Fitzgerald, Julian Swales and Dan Goodwin tinker somewhat, experimenting with various guitar and vocal tracks and revealing a bit more of themselves through more introspective lyrics.

While retaining the radiant aspects of their music, Kitchens of Distinction come away sounding largely formulaic here. "Death of Cool" resembles the B-side of "Strange Free World."

The soft acoustic strumming and an easy rhythm may introduce a song such as "Mad as Snow." The glimmer of hope for any wholesale deviation is promptly squashed by the predictable crescendo of space-age pyrotechnic guitars, protracted to the point of sounding extraneous. (A&M)

"Stand So True," The Lovekings: This seven-song release is crafted in the best breezy heart-yearning pop intentions, the kind of stuff that made Elvis Costello a musical deity and Marshall Crenshaw a king of cool.

The Lovekings pursue this earnestly, revealing several strengths and betraying a few weaknesses along the way.

The sinuous, rhythm-infested guitar playing and the band's effervescent harmonies are the most endearing qualities of the Lovekings. Lyrically, the outfit also packs a good deal of punch while tackling the basest of emotions of love and unrest.

The frustration here is that these attributes never seem to fully reach fruition in the form of a simple, indelible pop song. "Melinda," featuring some great guitar work, is one of the catchier songs here as is the opening track "Lover's Lane."

The ingredients are there, but not always the right recipe. (The Lovekings, 7427 Middlesex, Dearborn 48126)

New project: In addition to singer/guitarist Khalid Hanifi, Kiss Me Screaming includes drummer Donn Deniston, bassist Tim Delaney and guitarist Brian Delaney.

Hanifi tries again with Kiss Me

There's a self-inflicted sense of urgency at the center of Kiss Me Screaming. It comes from it's founder, Khalid Hanifi, who has started in on his first musical project since his former band, Map of the World, broke up in 1990. And this new four-man outfit isn't losing track of where its going.

Khalid Hanifi has already watched helplessly as one of his bands sank into the abyss. He's determined not to let happen again.

Such a self-inflicted urgency burns at the center of Kiss Me Screaming, which is Hanifi's first project since his former band Map of the World broke up in 1990. The four-man outfit features a frontal twin-guitar attack and a satchel of aggressive yet melodic songs.

For the singer/guitarist, the group is the musical equivalent to the Phoenix rising from the ashes of Map of the World, a band that carved its own niche in area music circles.

Map of the World, a progressive guitar pop band fronted by Hanifi and his sister Sofia, signed with Atlantic and recorded an LP. Before the album was released, though, the A&R person who signed the band had left the label.

The person replacing him didn't like the album nor the band, according to Khalid. Subsequently, Map of the World was unceremoniously dropped from the label.

"It certainly gave me a renewed distrust for the corporate mentality, not that I didn't have one before," Khalid said. "I saw it and I was a pawn in its grasp, and that's not fun . . . I was bitter for awhile but I learned from it."

When the band broke up, Hanifi was left pondering for nearly two years what went wrong. He has some ideas, but he's more concerned about getting on with his musical career at the moment.

In Kiss Me Screaming, Hanifi joins Map of the World alums drummer Donn Deniston and bassist Tim Delaney along with guitarist Brian Delaney. Hanifi's sister Sofia didn't partake in this outfit ("It never came up," said Khalid, who shared songwriting duties with his sister).

As Tim's brother, Brian Delaney provides a sibling connection in Kiss Me Screaming. The former member of the Faithhealers and Scott Morgan Band also supplies a good deal of the verve as one of the band's two guitarists.

"He's found a unit that is able to come up with songs," Brian Delaney said about Hanifi. "He comes up with a blue print and we can hammer it out pretty effectively."

Kiss Me Screaming's songs are more personal in scopes than those of Map of the World, which intertwined political and social themes into melodic discourse. Khalid is in charge in the songwriting department of this band.

While numbers such as "Mutually Assured Destruction" would appear to fall into the neo-political realm, Khalid puts them more in personal perspective.

"I'm writing for myself as a performer," he said. "I wouldn't say it's more personal, but the person intended to sing the songs is me."

Kiss Me Screaming has performed a spate of the dates since April, including a gig at Lili's Aug. 14. There's talk of a CD being released sometime in six months to a year, but Hanifi is quick to add there's no hurry.

Unlike the past, Hanifi added he'll take more charge in the band's affairs instead of letting someone else doing it for them.

"It's difficult," he said. "There's so many people doing this. When you step away for one or two years like a I did, nobody remembers what you did and they don't care. You are starting from scratch."

Lack of interest calls for therapy

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear Barbara,

My husband and I have been married for two years. We are both happy and content. We are in our early 20s.

When we were dating, we made love all the time. At least it seemed that way. We couldn't keep our hands off each other. It was an exciting time for both of us. Since our marriage, our sexual interest has declined. At first it was four times a week and then shrunk. Now we make love once a week.

I read many articles in women's magazines about this topic. They say two-three times a week is average. I am worried. Does my husband and my lack of sexual interest mean there is something wrong with our marriage or with one of us?

Probably because we do not want to be behind the national average, sometimes we try to make love more often. But truly, the joy is not there at those times — it really isn't any fun.

Thanks for taking time to answer this question.

Muriel

Dear Muriel,

It is not normal to lose your sexual desire at such an early age; an age when many other women are just growing into their sexuality. Often women report that they do not even reach the ability to be fully expressive sexually until they are older and have been in a committed monogamous relationship for some time.

There is no material in your letter to explain what in going wrong in your marriage, but a couple's sexual interaction is revealing of their relationship. So, even though you state you are both "happy and content," the assumption is that there are some underlying problem of which neither of you is aware.

National averages are just that, averages, and cannot be applied to individuals. Your difficulty is not that you do not meet the average, but that you seem to have lost a sexual interest in each other.

Call a counselor who is experienced in sex therapy. If you cannot find one, send me your address and I will send you some names. Normally, through therapy couples change their relationship so that their natural desire will return.

Barbara

'April' will enchant fans of romance

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

Even by Harlequin standards, "Enchanted April" goes a bit overboard with its romantic intentions. Yet this flapper-era story about an Italian holiday and its effect on four very different women has the kind of passion and beauty that makes it almost work.

It's a rainy, cold London afternoon when Lottie (Josie Lawrence) gets the nerve to approach Rose (Miranda Richardson), a woman she has watched for some time. Lottie has spotted an advertisement in The Times for a small medieval Italian castle smothered in wisteria and sunshine and wants to take her new friend along to split the month's vacation rental.

When the 60 pounds plus housekeeping expenses prove too much for them alone, the women must enlist two additional women — one the wealthy and beautiful heiress Lady Caroline (Polly Walker), the other a crusty old Mrs. Fisher (Joan Plowright).

The obvious incongruity of the group leads to much of the film's comedy. Rose and Lottie arrive later than their housemates, who have quickly snatched the two best bedrooms. Mrs. Fisher takes over the best sitting room as well.

While Rose is easily put off by such rudeness and snobbery, Lottie remains undaunted. She is convinced that the atmosphere of the castle and its grounds will cast a spell on everyone. Broken marriage will be mended again and soon Mrs. Fisher will be inviting the other women to share the sitting room with her.

And sure enough, Lottie is right. The changes come subtly at first. Mrs. Fisher experiences feelings of restlessness and creativity that she hasn't had since childhood. Lady Caroline soaks up the privacy of the place, where there are no "grabby" men making demands of her.

Lottie and Rose, meanwhile, invite their husbands in the hope that the castle has for them the same heavenly effect.

For many viewers, "Enchanted April" will work similar magic. The scenery is indeed lovely and there are lingering walks through gardens and lazy naps on hammocks. You can almost smell the wisteria when a breeze blows in from the ocean.

Many of the performances are also strong. Miranda Richardson's Rose does indeed look like what her husband calls "a disappointed Madonna." Josie Walker's Lottie is intentionally wackier and New Age, while both women have a way of looking plain or extremely beautiful when the moment calls for it.

Polly Walker, in her film debut, always looks stunning as the bobhaired brunette Lady Caroline. She doesn't have the range to show the complex changes going on inside her so the movie relies on voice-over narration to tell us how she feels.

"Enchanted April" also has a bad habit of bonking an audience on the head with heavy symbolism. There's plenty of philosophical talk about the "inner person" which works better on the printed page than it does on the screen.

Director Mike Newell is best known for "Dances with a Stranger," a dark story of obsessive love set in the 1950s. He has too heavy a hand for such light and breezy romance.

GOP's 'clean House' drive targets Ford

HOUSTON — Many TV-watching Americans will need a civics lesson if E. Spencer Abraham and Guy VanderJagt are to succeed this year.

The two Michiganians co-chair the National Republican Congressional Committee, and last week unveiled a list of 100 House seats they plan to make competitive.

"The anti-incumbent wind is not a breeze," said VanderJagt. "It's a hurricane, and I'm living proof that every incumbent is vulnerable." After 26 years in Congress, VanderJagt, once a vice-presidential possibility and convention keynoter in 1980, lost his primary to a first-time candidate.

The problem: Few Americans know that Democrats even control Congress. The trade magazine Editor & Publisher reported a survey showed that only 10 percent of young, TV-watching voters knew it, and only 56 percent of older, newspaper-reading voters were aware.

Abraham said their polls showed only two-thirds knew Democrats control the House; only 11 percent came close to guessing they had controlled it 38 years; and very few knew "control" meant domination of committees and power to pick witnesses.

"That will be part of our generic advertising," said Tom Cole, their chief staff aide.

Abraham, a former Michigan GOP state chair, and VanderJagt, who as a lame duck plans to put all his time into the "change the Congress" campaign, unveiled their plans to the national press corps last week.

Their message is that Democrats have meant mismanagement, corruption, unbalanced budgets and obstruction of George Bush's programs in education, crime, jobs and movement toward a balanced federal budget.

Nine Michigan candidates are on their list of 100 districts that will be competitive this fall. Local contests:

11th District — Joe Knollenberg seeking an open seat in the district which includes part of Livonia and Redford Township against Democrat Walter Briggs IV.

18th District — John Pappageorge seeking to unseat 10-year incumbent Democrat Sander Levin.

13th District — state Sen. Bob Geake seeking to unseat 28-year incumbent Democrat Bill Ford in the district which includes Garden City, Westland, Canton Township, Plymouth, Plymouth and part of Livonia.

9th District — newcomer Megan O'Neill taking on incumbent Democrat Dale Kildee.

Outstate contenders are Philip Ruppe, seeking his old Upper Peninsula seat; Peter Hoekstra, who bested VanderJagt Aug. 4; and state Rep. Keith Muxlow, seeking an open seat in the Thumb area; and Sen. Doug Carl, challenging Democratic whip David Bonior in Macomb County.

Left out were Republican incumbents and those with hopeless races against such Democrats as John Dingell of Trenton, John Conyers Jr. and Barbara-Rose Collins of Detroit.

Abraham said the list could swell to 150 of the 435 House races. To be eligible, candidates had to win their primaries, raise $15,000 or more on their own and be rated by other House Republicans as having a chance.

Bach will get $1,000 seed money, issue research, survey work and candidate training, Abraham said.

Vander Jagt said the $1,000 checks will be "a signal to PACs that these are serious candidates."

In some races, said Abraham, the amount could grow to $58,000, the maximum permitted by law.

They refused to predict how many, if any, seats they would win. "It's possible we could lose seats. It's possible we can elect a Republican majority. Jerry Ford predicted we could see 150 to 200 new faces in the House next year, said VanderJagt.

TMJ PAIN

TMJ pain refers to discomfort in the jaw joint-anatomically called the Temporo-Mandibular Joint.

TMJ pain can travel down to the chin or up into the ear. The discomfort may be sharp, aching, intermittent or pulsating. You may have pain only while chewing, or the pain can be severe enough to wake you at night.

The differing features of TMJ pain depend on whether the jaw joint takes the brunt of the strain or if the muscles of chewing that surround the jaw are under the greatest stress.

In most cases the pain comes from a malocclusion of teeth or dentures. Another common source is from unconscious grinding of the teeth as a reaction to tension. These are the reasons why your physician, if he believes you have TMJ pain, will refer you initially to a dentist or evaluation.

However, TMJ discomfort can occur in rheumatoid arthritis, can be part of fibromyalgia, and may arise as a late reaction to a previous fracture or dislocation of the jaw.

Medical treatment may not be satisfactory. The anti-inflammatory drugs used for arthritis do not work well. Most physicians have little experience in TMJ injection and depend on dental colleques for this procedure. Surgery, while possible, is the subject of controversy.

Fortunately in most cases, time and nature intervene, and the initial distracting discomfort resolves.

POINTS OF VIEW

GOP gives state bigger play at convention

Houston — You asked me, or I might not have written this piece. A member of a Rotary Club audience wanted to know how a Republican National Convention differs from a Democratic conclave. A state Senate GOP staff member asked the same question.

- Michiganians are more prominent at the Astrodome podium — Gov. John Engler, Max Fisher, Detroit Councilman Keith Butler, outgoing Rep. Guy VanderJagt, Mary Fisher, young Michael Flory of Benton Township, Frank Stella, ex-President Gerald Ford. Democrats had no one from Michigan on the podium. Photographer Doug Ashley, at his eighth series of conventions, is working far harder in Houston than in New York.
- The top of the Republican ticket is giving Michigan consideration. The Clinton-Gore ticket didn't put Michigan on its initial bus tour. President Bush will be in Canton Township Tuesday afternoon; Vice President Quayle will be at the GOP state convention Friday evening in Grand Rapids.
- Gov. Engler is being given far more serious attention by the national leadership and the national media and more applause from his delegation than Democratic Gov. James Blanchard ever got in 1984 and 1988. That struck me as extremely odd because Blanchard had had more prominence as a congressman working on the Chrysler bailout and more exposure to the New York Times and Washington Post than Engler had had as a state legislator.

Already Engler is being gossiped about as national ticket material in a way that Blanchard never was considered. And yet Blanchard had better paper credentials and, in my view, more accomplishments than either Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis or Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, the last two Democratic presidential nominees.

- Michigan Republicans are hearing a higher level of speakers in their caucus than Michigan Democrats had in theirs. The GOP has heard Quayle, trade negotiator Carla Hills, chairman Michael Boskin of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, and

TIM RICHARD

House whip Newt Gingrich. Democrats heard Sen. Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia and a Nebraska congressman married to a Michigan woman; the name escapes me.

- Republicans are much more tired. They have more organized functions that run later. Their roll call Wednesday ran into the wee hours. They have a 40-minute bus ride from their airport hotel at the extreme north end of town to the Astrodome at the south end, the equivalent of commuting from Brighton or Howell to Detroit on 1-96. (Texas roads, however, are in much better shape because of Michigan's pathological aversion to raising the fuel tax.) Democrats had a 20-minute ride to the Garden but through heavy traffic.
- Republicans have no place to walk. Democrats had New York City; many were smart enough to take in the live theater.
- Democrats had the joy of seeing their candidate open up a 17-point lead in the polls after their convention; it later topped 30 points. Thursday morning Spencer Abraham, the former GOP state chair rising to national party prominence, said the gap has narrowed to single digits because "This convention has done its job."
- Democrats treat their delegates dreadfully, packing them in like sardines both in caucus and on the convention floor. Any corporation treating its factory workers like that would be hounded instantly by OSHA inspectors. GOP accommodations are more spacious, their delegates more accessible to each other and to reporters.

I respect both parties. They are ninetenths volunteers who will never get a penny of patronage. They intend to be civic improvers, just like the Garden Club and Lions. Among big-time columnists, mine is distinctly a minority view.

My dad taught me that. "If you're not a Republican or a Democrat, you're nothing," he said.

Despite the apparent glamor, national conventions are nowhere near as much fun as state conventions.

State conclaves last only a day and a half. Results aren't a foregone conclusion weeks in advance. They actually make decisions, nominating candidates for the Michigan Supreme Court, state Board of Education and university board.

You don't need to beg for credentials to attend next weekend's GOP convention at the Amway Grand in Grand Rapids or the Democratic gathering in the Cobo in Detroit.

Pay attention. You may see a real floor fight or two like the Hollywood movies. Your friends and neighbors who are delegates may actually make a difference.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional events.

Warrendale experiencing just another turf battle

It was probably 1963, but I still remember her standing on Warren in Detroit holding a rock. She was a BS girl, which was a social club of sorts. She was planning on using the rock on someone who belonged to the same social club as I.

We were all boys, her group was all girls whose antics would make "Thelma and Louise" appear as though they were on a church outing. These girls were the first feminists I met. They could do as much with a sharp hair brush as you could with a knife.

This girl was protecting her turf, a neighborhood called Warrendale, yep the one that may become the home of the Malcolm X Academy. Folks there are still protecting their turf. Nobody can blame them.

But back to 1963. The BS girls were the ladies auxiliary of the Warrendale Boys, a gang that roamed Warren Street in those days. Belonging to a different social club and being on Warren in those days often led to physical confrontations. And it could happen again.

There she stood in her short black skirt, white blouse, ratted hair, black purse with a can of hair spray and pack of Pall Malls sticking out, tossing the rock up in the air, catching it and telling us what she would do with it.

There was the boyfriend, in the Army of course, who would use us for target practice when he returned from basic training and Ranger School. Until then, she was well equipped to handle the situation.

She was believable.

JEFF COUNTS

■ This girl was protecting her turf, a neighborhood called Warrendale, yep the one that may become the home of the Malcolm X Academy.

Warrendale hasn't changed much. It's still a white, working class neighborhood where the men spend their days in factories and nights in the bars.

But now it's the Malcolm X Academy that's treading on the BS girl's turf. And now the ringer is racism. The white folks in Warrendale are being called racist because they don't want the academy on their turf.

Professionally trained sociologists are quoted in the papers, calling for racial harmony in Warrendale, and we journalists who practice sociology without a license drone on about the same thing.

Many of the folks in Warrendale are longtime residents who haven't given up on living in Detroit. They've got their turf and we should respect it. And that means the Detroit School Board.

Racism is a blight on us all, but putting the academy in Warrendale isn't the answer. It's one of those in your face things.

Chances are that in the old days in Warrendale, my friends and I could have walked right past the BS girl with the rock and nothing would have been said. But we were all looking for a confrontation.

And that's what's happening in Warrendale these days.

Jeff Counts is the editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspaper who usually makes a self-deprecating comment about himself at this point, but can't think of anything funny to say because there's no humor in what's happening in Warrendale.

City's Scot festival spirit

Edinburgh tunes bagpipes for international event

BY SUZANNE CASSIDY
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

In the mid-18th century, just before the city's Georgian New Town was built, more than 20,000 people lived in Edinburgh's old Town.

In the towering stone tenements lining the Royal Mile, the ancient street that slopes from Edinburgh Castle to the Palace of Holyroodhouse, the wealthiest occupied the middle stories so that they did not have too many steps to climb, but could be far enough away from the unsavory streets below.

Today only about 6,000 people live in the Old Town. Every summer, however, the 18th-century crowding is re-created — in a more convivial and salubrious fashion — when Edinburgh throws its arms open to the world for its three-week international festival, this year from Aug. 16 to Sept. 5. The festival attracts hundreds of thousands of people each year.

Like bursts of summer fireworks, the Edinburgh Festival and its wackier cousin, the Edinburgh Festival Fringe, set off explosions of color and sound that illuminate and enliven the cobbled, winding streets.

Events

A myriad of dance, drama, opera, concerts, lectures and art exhibitions is planned for this year's International Festival.

Rembrandt, Vermeer, Hals and company feature in "Dutch Art and Scotland: A Reflection of Taste" at the National Gallery of Scotland until Oct. 18, while the sculptures of Joan Miro will be shown at the Royal Scottish Academy until Sept. 20. Admission $6.

Tchaikovsky will figure largely in the festival this year (the centenary of his death is next year).

The Royal Concertgebouw Orchestra, conducted by Riccardo Chailly, will perform at Usher Hall at 8 p.m. on Aug. 31 (including works by Haydn and Beethoven) and at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 1 (Beethoven and Tchaikovsky); tickets $16 to $44.

The plays of the Edwardian dramatist Harley Granville-Barker and of the Glaswegian playwright C.P. Taylor, who died in 1981, dominate the festival's drama schedule.

Festival schedules and tickets are available at the festival office (21 Market St., near Waverley Station; 225-5756), open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

A booth in the parking lot of the National Galleries of Scotland on The Mound will sell some same-day tickets for half price from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

The 46th Edinburgh Festival Fringe, held during the same period as the International Festival, is bigger than ever: More than 1,100 different shows will be staged by some 8,500 performers from around the world.

The full Fringe program and tickets are available at the Fringe office (180 High St., on the Royal Mile; 226-5138), open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.; tickets from $1 to $74.

Sightseeing

Most visitors to Edinburgh stroll the Royal Mile. For a detour from the tartan-and-bagpipes trail, however, consider a walk along the Water of Leith, an 18-mile river, most of which snakes through the city.

For a leisurely three-hour meander start at the Scottish National Gallery of Modern Art (Belford Road; 556-8921), open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Saturday and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday; admission free.

The gallery owns works by Picasso, Hackney, Bacon and others; the grounds are studded with Henry Moore sculpture. There is also a cafe with an outdoor patio where one can lunch at reasonable prices on homemade soups, quiches and cakes.

A sign behind the museum points the way to the leafy riverside path, which leads to Dean Village, a onetime center of grain-milling. The next stop is St. Bernard's Well, a Doric temple built in 1789 on the site of a mineral spring.

From there stroll to Stockbridge, a former industrial village that now, on St. Stephen Street, is home to some of Edinburgh's most interesting antiques shops.

For refreshment stop at Bert's Bar (2-4 Raeburn Place; 332-6345). A few minutes away is the west gate of the Royal Botanic Garden (no admission charge; 552-7171), a good final destination on a Water of Leith walk.

Stockbridge is on the northern edge of the New Town, a trove of Georgian houses and elegant crescents. Begin any New Town tour at the National Trusts Georgian House at 7 Charlotte Square (225-2160), designed in 1791 by Robert Adam.

The house is beautifully furnished, and there is a 20-minute video on Georgian architecture and the family that once lived in the house. It is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, April through October. Admission is $4.80, $2.40 for children.

Ambiance: The Lothian district, near Edinburgh, Scotland, is known for its medieval ambiance and beautiful architecture.

Computer networks take byte out of travel costs

BY EVERETT POTTER
SPECIAL WRITER

Computers are changing the way travelers decide where they want to go.

Home computer networks such as Prodigy, CompuServe and Delphi give people with a modem and a telephone access to detailed information that once was the exclusive domain of travel agents and other professionals.

Customers can get reports on hotels and motels, ski conditions, the weather, food in Chinese restaurants, political conditions and health advisories — for hundreds of domestic and foreign cities.

Many of the networks feature travel clubs whose subscribers can "talk" with other people in nearby or far-flung places. They can get a feeling for a political situation, a storm that just passed or a low-priced hotel.

The computer networks offer access to travel information as just one part of the service. Subscribers can also access financial reports, games, news stories, reference libraries, sports data and other resources.

And while the number of subscribers is still relatively low, interest remains high.

"I'd say about a quarter of our subscribers use our travel features heavily," says Steve Hein, a spokesperson for Prodigy, which now claims to have 1.5 million subscribers.

Among Prodigy's travel features are weather forecasts for 100 foreign and 250 domestic cities, "best" and "worst" guides for in 12 major cities and restaurant reviews from the Zagat series.

Prodigy's Travel Club is a feature that allows subscribers to communicate with each other. On a recent day some of the "talk" was about Los Angeles and how safe it was to go there in the wake of the devastating riots.

The start-up kit for Prodigy is $49.95, but it's often sold at a discount price that includes a free month of use.

Thereafter, the monthly charge is $12.95. That is good for 30 electronic messages per month. Additional messages are 25 cents each.

For further information contact Prodigy Services Co., 445 Hamilton Ave., White Plains, N.Y. 10601 or call (800) PRODIGY.

CompuServe, which has 980,000 members, also has a wide array of travel information, including the Easy Sabre service.

"Our Travel Forum is very popular," explains Debra Young, a CompuServe spokesperson.

"It's an on-line gathering place. If I'm going to Barbados, for example, I might send out a message asking about hotels and restaurants.

"I could easily get a response from a user in Barbados and even end up meeting that person when I get there. It's a worldwide service that can create computer pen pals."

Users have access to the latest U.S. State Department travel advisories. They can find out whether a visa is needed for a visit to a specific country.

The system also carries Worldspan Travelshopper, formerly known as PARS, the second most popular airline-reservations system.

The software and start-up kit for CompuServe cost $39.95. Thereafter, users pay $7.95 a month for the basic service or can elect a pay-as-you-go service and be billed just for on-line time plus a $2 monthly fee.

For further information contact CompuServe, 5000 Arlington Centre Blvd., P.O. Box 20212, Columbus, Ohio 43220 or call (800) 848-8199.

Delphi, which does not release the number of subscribers to its service, also offers Easy Sabre, Worldspan Travelshopper and the O.A.G. Electronic Edition. Delphi features a premium service as well, the Travel-Plus V.I.P. Club.

For further information contact Delphi, 1030 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, Mass. 02183 or call (800) 848-8199.

Chef cards lucky draw for Rainbow Connection

Growing up in Wyandotte, there were always things to do and places to go. Discovering crayfish down by the tracks, perch fishing off the old Boblo dock at Bishop Park or bothering old man Lotta down at his feed store where every corner held a surprise from a cat with kittens to a rooster, a hen and her brood.

On rainy days, we would sit and trade baseball cards, marbles and thoughts of how we'd look cruising up Fort Street in a candy apple red GTO.

I still have some old baseball cards, a woven bag filled to the brim with peeries and cat-eyes, and still wish for a candy apple red GTO, but my toys have gotten a bit more sophisticated.

Razor sharp knives of all shapes and sizes, a copper bowl purchased in 1969 that cost a week's worth of wages and still whips an egg white to heaven and back in a few short minutes and something I saw and "just had to have."

Lucky draw

I was lucky enough recently to pick up a first edition limited collector's set of culinary trading cards. The cards that read like a Don Russ baseball set are the brainchild of that inventive Michigan restaurateur, Keith Famie of Les Auters/Les Saison and Famous Chicken fame.

Each card highlights one of 16 of Michigan's award-winning chefs, featuring the likes of Jimmy Schmidt, Leopold Schaeli, Jeffrey Gabriel, Tom MacKinnon, Miłos Cihelka and other great chefs. The cards list the featured chef's training, favorite restaurant, awards, philosophy and favorite recipe.

The cards have been out all summer, and if purchases are any indication of success, the first edition limited collector's set will soon be history. Articles have appeared in many publications, including USA Today and The National Restaurant News about the trading cards.

Purchase requests have been coming in from all over the country. Rumor even has it that Famie is putting together a package to highlight chefs from Chicago, New York and L.A.

There's little doubt the cards themselves will be a collector's item, but what made it so easy to write the check was knowing that a percentage of the gross profits will benefit the Rainbow Connection, a nonprofit corporation that grants the wishes of children with life-threatening illnesses living in Michigan.

Rainbow Connection

Suzanne Jones, executive director of the Rainbow Connection and self-avowed "non-cook," said that last year more than 100 wishes were granted. Since its inception, the Connection has granted almost 1,000 wishes from terminally ill children between the ages of 3 and 18.

Asked how someone who can't appreciate cooking can get excited about a collection of culinary cards, Jones answered, "I may not like to cook, but I'm having a blast visiting each of the chefs in their restaurant setting and getting my cards personally autographed."

Rumor has it that Famie has put together a few signed and framed sets of the cards for local charities (including the Rainbow Connection). He hopes they will be auctioning off the personally signed sets to help raise money for various local charities. Seems that might be a bit easier on the pocketbook and the waistline, but you have to admit, what an excuse to dine out — and well!

Collection available

The collection will be available for $10.50 a set at many of the featured chefs' restaurants. In addition, sets can be purchased from Merchant of Vino, Les Saison's in Royal Oak, and all Kitchen Glamor locations.

If you can't get to one of the restaurants or sales outlets, you can get a limited set by calling or writing the Rainbow Connection at Box 81936, 308 East Street, Rochester, Mich. 48308-1936 or calling (313) 651-1261. The Rainbow Connection is a registered Michigan (501 C3) charity and your donations are tax deductible.

So if you remember swapping baseball cards and marbles and are looking for a grown-up way to play, enjoy and help out a very worthy cause. Pick up a limited edition set of the Chef Culinary Cards. Not only will they be appreciated and enjoyed by both home and professional cooks, the recipes are outstanding. By benefiting the Rainbow Connection, your purchase will help make children's wishes come true.

Warm fuzzies: Juicy summer peaches are tasty and good for you. Enjoy them now while they're in season.

Just peachy

Fuzzy fruit easy to love

■ Sweet, juicy peaches, second in popularity to apples, are a summer taste treat. Toss them in salads, cook them on the grill or bake them in a cobbler. Hurry, before the season ends.

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

"The Peaches are gorgeous this year," said Sharon Ashton of Ashton Orchards in Ortonville. "But the flavor is down a little. On a scale of 1 to 10, I'd say they're an eight or a nine."

If you like to can peaches, expect to spend a little more time preparing them this year. Because of the cool weather the pits are sticking. Ashton recommends canning quarters as opposed to halves.

Not all the farmers are feeling peachy keen. A May frost, hale storm and cool summer hurt the peach crop in some parts of the state. Some of the farmers I talked to bought peaches from other farmers to sell at their markets.

Ashton has peaches for sale at Ashton Orchards, 3925 Seymour Lake Road, Ortonville, (313) 627-6671.

Juicy Red Haven peaches are available at The Strawberry Patch, 1 mile E. of Milford between Burns & Duck Lake Road, 2375 Wixon Trail, (313) 685-1393, and at Blake's Orchard 7 Cider Mill, 17985 Armada Center Road, three miles north and four miles east of Romeo, (313) 784-5343.

I found a couple of u-pick farms nearby for people who prefer to pick their own fruit. Blake's Big Apple Orchard, N. Ave at 33 Mile Road, call (313) 784-9710; Brookwood Fruit Farm, north of Romeo on M-53, six miles, right on Bordman, ½ mile to apple storage building, (313) 798-8312, and Sylvan Orchard, one mile north of I-94 between Kalmbach Road, (exit 156) and Pierce Road (exit 157), on Cavanaugh Lake Road, (313) 475-1943.

Never buy soft peaches, said Ashton. Look for peaches that are yellow with a red of golden blush background color.

Avoid any that are extra hard or greenish, said Lois Thieleke extension home economist for the Cooperative Extension Service, Oakland County office.

"Picked green peaches will just get soft and wither. Peaches don't become any sweeter after they are picked, but ripening makes mature fruit softer and juicer," said Thieleke.

To ripen peaches, Ashton recommends putting them in a paper bag or open air basket. Close the bag and check it every day. Peaches will ripen evenly in a paper bag.

"Peaches are fragile," said Ashton. "After they're ripe, refrigerate them. They'll last about a week. Buy them as you use them."

Peaches are second to apples in popularity in the United States. Peach season ends about mid September in Michigan. Early apple varieties like Paula Reds are now available at some farms including Blakes and Ashton Orchards.

6 fresh basil leaves, chopped
salt
fresh ground black pepper

Bring a large pot of salted water to a boil. Drop the tomatoes in, a few at a time, for 10-15 seconds. Remove, run under cold water, slip off skin. Cut each tomato in half and squeeze out the seeds. In large saucepan, saute onions in oil. Stir in tomatoes. Cover and cook on medium-low heat for several minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer until sauce is thickened. Quick, easy to make pasta sauce is flavorful

WINNER DINNER

BETSY BRETHEN

Last week, cooks across the country celebrated the 80th birthday of one of America's most loved and revered French chefs, Julia Child.

A cooking teacher as well as the author of seven cookbooks, Child has taught more than one generation how to cook, and the joys that can be found in preparing and eating good food.

This week's Winner Dinner, Kathy O'Brien of Birmingham, is a big fan of Julia Child, and swears by her recipes. This week's winning menu includes an adapted version of Julia Child's tomato sauce. It is quick and easy to make and bursting with the fresh flavor of sun-ripened tomatoes. Served over pasta and accompanied by zucchini pancakes, a delicious bean salad and chocolate pots de creme, this dinner is one that is sure to bring rave reviews from all who partake of it.

O'Brien, like Child, has been an innovator in her own right. In the mid 1970s she was the first woman hired by Ross Roy, Incorporated, an advertising company, to work on an automotive account. She then went on to become a reporter for Channel 2 and eventually co-hosted the Morning Magazine show for four years with the late Gary Cubberley.

She had a stint working as a national reporter and producer for the Disney network, and in 1985 decided to put her years of experience to work and started her own business.

O'Brien Network, Inc. specializes in producing corporate videos and films for local companies for use in marketing and training. Her husband, Sam Harper, a graphic designer, is delighted to be working with his wife in her "woman-owned" business.

Peachy salsa, cobbler, summer delights

PEACH SALSA

1 cup peaches, fresh diced ¼-inch cubes
¼ cup red onion diced ⅛-inch
1 teaspoon japaleno pepper diced ⅛-inch
1-2 Tablespoons cilantro minced
1 teaspoon granulated sugar

Combine ingredients and chill for 24 hours.

From: "The Health Club Cooks," (Jewish Community Center of Metropolitan Detroit, 1991) recipe submitted by Peter Loren, Opus One.

PEACH COBBLER

4 cups peeled and sliced ripe peaches
⅔ cup plus 3 Tablespoons granulated sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon zest
1 Tablespoon fresh lemon juice
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1½ cups unbleached all-purpose flour
1 Tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup vegetable shortening
1 egg, lightly beaten
¼ cup milk
1 cup heavy cream, chilled
3 to 4 Tablespoons peach brandy or cordial

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Butter a 2-quart baking dish. Arrange peaches in baking dish. Sprinkle with ⅔ cup sugar, the lemon zest and juice, and almond extract. Bake for 20 minutes.

While peaches are baking, sift flour, 1 tablespoon of the remaining sugar, the baking powder and salt together into a bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles cornmeal. Combine the beaten egg and milk and mix into dry ingredients until just combined.

Remove peaches from oven and quickly drop dough by large spoonfuls over surface. Sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons sugar. Return to the oven for 15 to 20 minutes, until top is firm and golden brown.

Whip cream to soft peaks. Flavor with peach brandy to taste. Serve cobbler warm, accompanied by whipped cream. (Four to six portions).

Lowly eggplant stars in Italian dish

AP — The lowly eggplant is much loved on the Italian island of Sicily. There it stars in caponata (pronounced kap-oh-NAH-tah), an antipasto that stands as the hallmark dish of the island — and the benchmark of cooking ability. The careful blending of garden-fresh vegetables with vinegar, olives and capers results in a marinated ensemble that is delightfully versatile.

For an appetizer, guests can spoon caponata onto toasted pita wedges or crusty sliced French bread. For a salad, you can arrange it on a bed of torn fresh greens. Or pass it around the table as a relish for grilled chicken or fish.

CAPONATA

1 medium onion, sliced and separated into rings
¼ cup sliced celery
1 Tablespoon olive oil or salad oil
¾ pound unpeeled eggplant, cut into ½-inch pieces
½ pound yellow summer squash, cut into ½-inch pieces
1 small tomato, peeled, seeded and chopped
2 Tablespoons halved pimiento-stuffed olives
2 Tablespoons red wine vinegar
1 Tablespoon capers, rinsed and drained
1 Tablespoon raisins (optional)
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon pinenuts or slivered almonds (optional)
Toasted pita bread triangles and-or French bread slices (optional)

In a large skillet cook onion and celery in hot oil until tender. Add eggplant, squash, tomato, olives, vinegar, capers, raisins (if desired) and sugar; stir to combine. Simmer, covered, for 8 to 10 minutes or until eggplant and squash are tender. Simmer, uncovered, for 5 to 10 minutes more or until most of the liquid has evaporated. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Cool slightly.

Add nuts, if desired. Cool and serve at room temperature or cover and chill overnight. Let stand at room temperature before serving.

To serve as an appetizer, spoon the mixture onto pita triangles and-or French bread slices. Makes about 3½ cups (8 to 10 appetizer servings).

Lots of new convenience products to debut this fall

KEELY WYGONIK

You'll see more microwave convenience foods, refillable containers, and new products by familiar companies like Heinz on your grocer shelves this fall and winter.

On Aug. 20 I got a sneak preview of new products at the annual grocery products show held at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

The show of more than 100 booths displaying hundreds of the latest in retail grocery products was presented for customers of Livonia-based Foodland Distributors. Foodland was founded in 1984 and services 164 supermarkets in Michigan.

Browsing through the aisles, I was amazed at all the new products. Quaker Oats is introducing Oat Cups, oatmeal in individual cups you cook in the microwave.

Moms with young children will like Duncan Hines' new birthday cake kits. The kits, which will cost about $5, contain everything you need to make a novelty birthday cake — mix, frosting, and reusable pan. Some of the choices are Garfield the cat, Miss Piggy, and Kermit the frog.

Astro low-fat yogurt is packaged with a stir-in granola topping. Heinz, well known for ketchup and vinegar, is introducing a vinegar cleaning solution in a spray bottle. Comet Cleanser is also introducing a new cleaning product in a spray bottle. Refills are available for both.

If you're a big kid and love Gummy Bears, but are embarrassed to admit it, try the new Gummy Chevy's and Chevy Trucks. Another popular item at the show was the Crystal Pepsi, a clear cola.

Foodland Distributors and participating affiliated supermarkets are teaming with local schools to help supply books, computer equipment, athletic equipment and other materials.

"Cash for the Class" is a program that gives schools five cents for each UPC (Universal Product Code) symbol collected from Nature's Best, Homebest, Topmost and Bi-Rite brand products. These private label brand products are available at affiliated Foodland supermarkets.

Students simply bring the UPC symbols to their school, and Foodland Distributors will pay the school five cents for each symbol redeemed. The program will begin Sept. 1 and continue through June 30, 1993. The program is available to any class, grade K through 12, public, private or parochial.

Participating stores in the Observer & Eccentric coverage area include, Eight Mile Foodland, 18880 W. Eight Mile Road, Southfield; Larry's Foodland, 33151 Plymouth Road, Livonia; Palace Supermarket, 1942 Venoy, Westland; Union Lake Food Center, 8040 Cooley Lake Road, Union Lake; and Westland Foodland, 31313 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland.

Here's a tip for canning tomatoes from Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. The acidity level of varieties of tomatoes may be too low to assure a safe canned product. Therefore the USDA recommends adding 2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice or one-half citric acid to each quart of crushed, whole, halved or juiced tomatoes. Add directly to jars before filling them with tomatoes.

For pints use one Tablespoon bottled lemon juice or one-quarter teaspoon citric acid.

Do not forget to process all tomatoes according to the latest USDA recommendations. The Ball Blue Book 32nd has the latest recommendations and can be purchased at stores carrying canning supplies.

For more information, call 858-0904, weekdays, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Betty Crocker tip of the week: When washing jars for canning and freezing fruits and vegetables, use nonabrasive sponges and cleaners so that the glass remains smooth and undamaged.

Get on a roll with pastry dough

AP — Tender, flaky pastry makes a perfect partner to any pie filling. Yet, the truth be known, even the best pie crust makers can run into a snag now and then. Fortunately, these problems are easily fixed, with a few tips from our test kitchen.

To make crumbly pastry easier to roll: Add more water, 1 teaspoon at a time. Toss the flour mixture and water together a few more times or just until evenly moistened.

To prevent tough pastry: Use a pastry blender to cut in the shortening or lard until well mixed. All of the mixture should resemble small peas. Use as little cold water as possible to moisten the flour mixture. Toss the flour mixture and water only until all of the flour mixture is moistened. Use less flour when rolling out the pastry.

To keep the crust from shrinking away from the sides: Roll the pastry to an even thickness. Mix in water only until evenly moistened. Don't stretch the pastry when transferring it to the pie plate.

To prevent the bottom crust from becoming soggy: Use a dull metal or glass pie plate, not a shiny metal pan that reflects heat. Patch any cracks in the pastry with a scrap of the pastry before adding the filling. Be sure the oven temperature is accurate. If the temperature is too low, the bottom crust will not bake quickly enough to seal out the moisture of the filling.

To keep the top crust from getting soggy: Make several cuts in the top before baking to allow the steam to escape.

To prevent the pastry from blistering excessively: Lightly press a single-crust pastry into the pie plate so there are no air pockets underneath. Prick it with a fork. Make several cuts in the top crust.

To keep the crust from overbrowning: Cover the edge of the unbaked pie with a 12-inch square of foil at the beginning of baking. Fold the foil in quarters and cut a quarter-circle off the folded corner (about 3 inches from the tip). Unfold the piece of foil and place it over the pie, slightly molding the foil over the edge. Remove the foil about halfway through the baking time.

To prevent the pie from bubbling over: Add less filling to the pie shell. Place a pizza pan or baking sheet under a double-crust fruit pie to catch any filling that does bubble over.

Tips make kitchen chores easier

Here's a couple of handy tips. To keep fruits and vegetables fresher longer in your refrigerator, line the vegetable bin with paper towels or dry sponges to absorb excess moisture.

Corn silk can be removed more easily with the aid of a damp toothbrush.

Hard boiled eggs can be easier to peel if you plunge them into cold water, crack the shell and then roll the egg lightly between the palms of your hands.

Two managers receive praise

John Moraitis, the manager of Little Caesars, deserves some credit after he said Walter's Appliance "could win it" prior to the All-American Amateur Baseball Association 20-and-under tournament in Johnstown, Pa.

Many thought John was smoking those funny cigarettes, but he turned out to be a prophet.

Walter's, if you didn't know, went all the way to the finals before losing to New Orleans 9-6 in the title game. It was the best showing ever by a team from the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

Moraitis, whose club won the LCBL regular season title before being ousted in the playoffs, liked Walter's hitting lineup.

And bolstered by four additional players, including two pitchers from Delwal, Todd Boike and Derek Wirebaugh, Walter's increased its chances of winning.

It was a tremendous week for the guy they call "Stick," Walter's manager Mike Keller.

He celebrated his 38th birthday in the midst of the week-long run, which saw Walter's win five straight games after an opening round loss to Schenectady, N.Y.

The beauty of the 6-foot-4, pencil-thin Keller is that he puts no pressure on his players during the tourney. He takes a laid-back, but team-oriented approach to the post-season playoffs.

He's a guy who can even make light of himself.

Keller got a big kick out of a comment made by one of the Johnstown fans, who commented during a Walter's infield practice: "Who dressed up the fungo bat?"

It was a fantastic week for the Livonia team by all indications, highlighted by Craig Overaitis' dramatic, two-out, three-run homer to beat New Orleans on Friday, 8-7.

Several other players had big tourneys, including Livonia Churchill product Jeff Pendell, a third baseman who batted .481 and scored a tourney high 12 runs, along with Farmington's Kevin Young, who hit .433 with a tourney best six doubles and four triples. Reliever Sean Henkel of Livonia Stevenson won two games and saved another.

But it was a total team effort and hats off to a club which showed true grit.

Congratulations to Redford's Patrick Neaton, the Catholic Central graduate now playing for the University of Michigan. He was selected to play on the USA Hockey's 20-and-over team, which will play in a pair of tournaments later this month in Finland.

Another local hockey player, Dennis Smith, formerly of Livonia, recently signed a pro contract to play in Switzerland.

Smith, who attended Livonia Franklin before going to the Ontario junior circuit, played for Maine, a Boston Bruins affiliate, last season in the American Hockey League. He's also had stints with the Red Wings, St. Louis and Los Angeles farm clubs.

Larry Bird's retirement was no surprise and neither was his rise to stardom.

I saw him play for the Indiana High School All-Stars against the Russian Junior National Team in a game during his senior year in Indianapolis.

Nobody had heard of this guy from French Lick, but when the game was over, everyone was buzzing about the small town player with the bushy, blond hair.

My early-early preseason teams to watch (in no particular order — yet):

Prep football: Redford Catholic Central, Farmington Harrison, Westland John Glenn, North Farmington, Livonia Franklin, Plymouth Salem, Wayne Memorial and Garden City.

Girls basketball: Plymouth Canton, Livonia Ladywood, Plymouth Salem, Livonia Stevenson and Farmington Harrison.

Boys soccer: Livonia Stevenson, Plymouth Salem, Livonia Churchill, Plymouth Canton, Redford Catholic Central, Farmington and Livonia Franklin.

Now remember, don't call me up later in the season and say, "I told you so."

With the U.S. Open coming up, I'm wondering where Livonia's Carrie Cunningham will land in the draw.

Her world ranking has slipped to No. 85, but the drop was expected because Cunningham spent the summer playing Team Tennis with the Los Angeles Strings.

I caught her on SportsChannel one night playing a tiebreaker against Patty Fendick of Sacramento.

Cunningham, despite her petite frame, goes all out on every point, showing a lot of grit and determination.

Following her match, Cunningham's teammates, Jimmy Conners and John Lloyd, played doubles together.

Wondering if they were comparing notes on Chrissie Evert?

Rocks ready to roll in soccer

Plymouth Salem appears to have a quality soccer team once again, one capable of challenging for the Western Lakes Activities Association title as usual.

Soccer scene: Chris Saline (second from right) and teammate Jeff Kley (3) are Salem veterans who again will battle Canton opponents Graham Wilk (far left) and Jeff Fliss (17).

Opponents should not underestimate the Plymouth Salem boys soccer team because of the young players in its starting lineup.

The Rocks, always among the best Observerland teams, will start four sophomores — an unusually high number for them, said veteran coach Ken Johnson.

"The level of skill doesn't drop off," he said. "We didn't just go with the young guys because we had to.

"The sophomores we're starting play year round at a high level. We have a lot of depth; it's a well-rounded team."

Salem lost five starters (eight players) from another typically fine team that was 14-5-2 and ranked fifth in Class A.

The Rocks, who were fourth in the rugged Western Lakes Activities Association, upset Livonia Churchill in the district final but lost 2-1 to eventual state champion Livonia Stevenson in the regional when Travis Roy converted a penalty kick with 40 seconds left in the second overtime.

Salem returns nine players, including all-stater Tom Baker, and has added nine new faces to its roster. Johnson expects the Rocks to challenge for the WLAA title and receive another state ranking.

"We have a lot of new players, but all of them have talent," he said. "I won't make any promises, but we'll give it a good shot."

The Rocks lost their top scorer in John Truskowski, who had 17 goals and 21 assists while floating between halfback and forward positions. Salem, which alternates between a 4-4-2 and 4-3-3 alignment, also is minus Rich Andrusiak from the front line.

Senior Joe Perron, the third-leading scorer with 12 goals and five assists, does return up front and will be joined by sophomore Mark MacInnis, who had some varsity experience last year.

"(Perron) is looking good and playing like a senior," Johnson said. "I expect he'll be a leader up front, and MacInnis is mature for a sophomore."

Baker, the No. 2 scorer last year with 12 goals and 10 assists, anchors the midfield and is teamed with senior Ryan Phipps and sophomores Mike Kley and Scott Buczek, a natural left-footer who will play the wing on that side.

The Rocks also lost halfbacks Eric Stemmer and Brian Kirby to graduation while senior Brian Spuck, a member of the Vardar championship team along with Baker, moves to defense.

"Baker is a good leader in the middle," Johnson said. "He's a good tackler and defender when we need him, and he can push through the middle, too.

"Baker will be right in the thick of (the offense) with his hard shot. Each one can bust through and help the forwards. I can see five or six with 10 goals and the offense being spread around."

Spuck, who will play stopper, joins returning starters and senior fullbacks Chris Saline and Jeff Kley on defense. Junior Brad Jaskolski becomes the sweeper.

Kley and Saline played on the under-17 Canton Juventus state championship team along with Perron and Phipps.

The Rocks, however, will miss All-Observer defender Matt Lee, who was a fixture on defense for several years.

Heaton anchors line for Spartans

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

It wasn't supposed to happen like that.

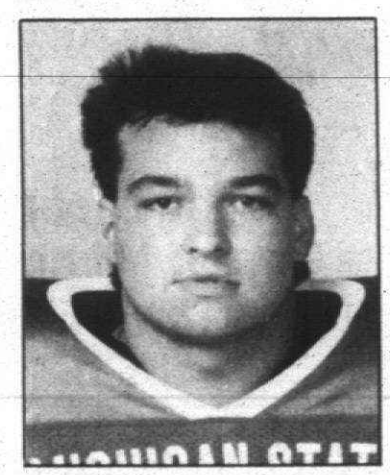
Michigan State's football team had established itself. The losing seasons were in the past, and were supposed to remain there. The Spartans had posted six winning records in a row and were coming off a Big Ten co-championship, their second title in four years.

With the number of player losses from that title team, another Big Ten crown wasn't expected in 1991. But MSU would still get its seven or eight wins and a fifth-straight bowl berth, right?

Wrong.

The Spartans lost their first five games en route to a 3-8 season, including home-field defeats to Central Michigan, Rutgers and Michigan. They got beat by Northwestern, too.

Hardly a memorable campaign. With an unproven quarterback (the job went to UCLA transfer Bret Johnson at first, but Jim Miller took over in game No. 4) and a mostly inexperienced line, the offense sputtered. MSU scored just 20 points in its first four games.



'I'm not going to say I played great, and I'm not going to say I played poorly. I thought I played consistently. That's the kind of player I am, the kind who plays consistently.'

Toby Heaton
college lineman

Toby Heaton suffered through all of it. The Redford Catholic Central grad from Plymouth started all 11 games; he was one of the two offensive line starters returning from the 1990 championship team, but he was in a different position, at left guard. Heaton had played there his first year, then moved to tackle as a sophomore.

"We had a lot of inexperience last year — a lot," said the 6-foot-6, 283-pound senior.

This season's team should return to its winning ways. Miller is entrenched at quarterback and the line has plenty of experience, led by Heaton, an academic all-Big Ten selection for three-straight years and honorable mention all-conference player last year.

As Heaton noted, experience is a must for a unit that has to work together to succeed. "If there's one mental breakdown, one miscommunication, one technique error on a play, a linebacker can bust through and it can be a two-yard loss," said Heaton.

Offensive linemen, it is often said, don't get noticed unless they fail. Since MSU's line struggled throughout '91, Heaton had to share in the frustrations.

"I'm not going to say I played great and I'm not going to say I played poorly," he said. "I thought I played consistently. That's the kind of player I am, the kind who plays consistently."

The line's troubles affected back-up center Jeff Graham, too, but by season's end he had other problems to tend to.

A Westland John Glenn graduate, Graham got in for 60 minutes of action in '91. Then he was diagnosed with

Shamrocks powerful as usual in football

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central's football schedule includes an entree from Canada: Windsor Brennan Catholic.

Because of a winning reputation, CC always has trouble filling its non-league schedule, but coach Tom Mach is excited about facing a team from across the Detroit River. Canadian football allows only three downs instead of four so Mach has a suggestion for the Sept. 12 meeting against Brennan.

"They get three downs, since that's what they're used to, and we get four," joked Mach.

CC doesn't play Detroit Public School League power Martin Luther King but the Shamrocks meet a pair of Toledo schools — St. John's and St. Francis — and Detroit St. Martin DePorres.

"Check the schedule the last 15 years and who's played the toughest schedule in the state? We have," Mach said.

A return appearance?

The Shamrocks finished 11-2 but failed in their bid to win two straight Class AA championships, losing to Saginaw Arthur Hill 13-12 in last year's final at the Pontiac Silverdome.

"I've got the film on the shelf," Mach said. "I've never looked at it and probably never will."

CC's chances of returning to the state final, as always, will rely on a big offensive line (that averages 234 pounds) and a rugged defense. The Shamrocks lost several two-way starters to graduation, including speedster Frank Yoakam and backs Dan Gusoff, Jeff Tibaldi, Brett Walter and Matt Roney.

But the Shamrocks return nine players who bench press at least 300 pounds and one of the strongest players is senior quarterback Chris Barbara. The lefty completed 35 of 80 passes for 613 yards, threw six interceptions and three touchdowns.

"Before we started practice, the three Joes (Joe Suhajda, Joe Herman and Joe Lopez) got the team together and talked about last year but we decided that's not going to be our focus," said Barbara, who bench presses 355 pounds. "That's over and done with. I'm not worried about stats, I just want to prove to myself that I can be a better quarterback."

Barbara won't have a guy like Yoakam to throw to, but he has a capable backfield. Senior Jason Krueger (5-11, 185) played some at fullback and will be No. 1 this fall. The tailback position will be filled by junior Fred Taylor (5-9, 160), senior John Raasch (5-8, 200) and senior Jon Wolfe (5-9, 175).

The leading receiver candidates are seniors Ken Rys, Brady Pankow and Chris O'Keefe, none of whom caught a pass in 1991. Barbara's experience will be key, according to Mach.

"His leadership, control of the kids and his ability to think on his feet are good," Mach said.

Many leagues need extra bowlers

10-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Anyone looking for a bowling league this season has plenty to choose from.

All through the area there are many fall leagues looking for a few good bowlers. There are usually a few holes that have to be filled in the lineup.

Mixed leagues are prevalent on the weekends, including Friday nights.

There are also several "E/O" mixed leagues in which they bowl every other week.

For the ladies who are able to bowl during the day, most houses have a wide choice of ladies competition at various skill levels. Some are in the mornings, noon or afternoon and many bowling centers have free baby sitting for these leagues.

Youth bowlers will find much of the action on Saturdays and late afternoons with a 4 p.m. or after-school slot.

Senior citizens most often will find a midday spot available at special reduced prices and mostly one or two days a week available.

There are the prime-time spots on weekday evenings for the better junior and senior house leagues. This means that the bowling center runs these leagues which are aimed primarily at the better bowlers, with the top competition in the senior house leagues.

If you are looking for one of these leagues to bowl in, a men's senior house average would start in the 170s with some bowlers up around the 200 mark. A men's junior house would start around 145 and go up to the 180s. Ladies senior house averages would start at about 150 with the junior house at about 125.

These are often big money activities, most are scratch leagues and the averages could often run to the 190-220 range.

There also are many other leagues, such as fraternal organizations, church leagues and some very informal social leagues. For further details it is best to call the bowling centers in your area and decide for yourself.

The season is ready to start and there are some new friends out there ready to help you enjoy the bowling league this season. Do not fret if you are a lower average person, bowling uses the great equalizer, that being the handicap system.

For those interested, here are phone numbers for bowling centers in Observerland:

● Westland Bowl on Wayne Road had a huge success with its "Grand Re-opening" Aug. 16. They drew a big crowd of bowling enthusiasts, and the waiting list for lanes was filled from the opening of the doors until late in the evening.

The Capaldi family, who are the proprietors of Westland Bowl, left nothing to chance as they have done something very nice here. The interior and exterior are all new and the lanes have been resurfaced.

It is colorful, yet in good taste, and certainly lends a new ambience to their fine establishment. The regular old timers will not recognize the place and newcomers will be very impressed at how nice the bowling scene can be.

The owners and management of Westland Bowl invite any and all bowlers to come in and look it over, stay a while and do some bowling at the "new" Westland Bowl.

● If you happened to watch the late news Sunday on Channel 4, it was announced that there was a "raging fire" at a bowling alley in Livonia.

The report was slightly wrong. The fire they reported occured at Eddie's Place bar and eatery, which years ago was called Livonia Lanes.

Eddie's Place, located on Plymouth Road between Farmington and Merriman roads, was gutted and the damage was estimated at $200,000, police said.

■ The offensive line returns two starters, senior tackle Aaron Babicz (6-0, 230) and senior guard Dan Liebau (6-2, 235). There is a battle for the starting center spot between senior Todd Lackey (5-10, 225) and junior Nick Kallas (6-3, 230), while the right side of the line will be manned by senior guard Tony Randazza (6-1, 230) and junior tackle Doug Brzezinski.

The offensive line returns two starters, senior tackle Aaron Babicz (6-0, 230) and senior guard Dan Liebau (6-2, 235). There is a battle for the starting center spot between senior Todd Lackey (5-10, 225) and junior Nick Kallas (6-3, 230), while the right side of the line will be manned by senior guard Tony Randazza (6-1, 230) and junior tackle Doug Brzezinski. Senior tackle Mike Grzywacz (6-1, 270) could challenge for a starting job, according to Mach.

Brzezinski is the most intriguing lineman at CC since Toby Heaton.

"At his age and development, he's the biggest kid I can remember having," Mach said. "Heaton was bigger as a senior, but not a junior."

A stingy defense

The Shamrocks allowed only 133.3 yards per game last year and 97 points, an average of 7.5 points per game.

CC's 5-2 defense will be anchored by Suhajda (6-2, 245), who returns at tackle, and senior inside linebacker Joe Herman (6-0, 220). Herman was second on the team with 99 tackles, while Suhajda had 88½ tackles and 2½ sacks.

A newcomer expected to start at inside linebacker is junior Tate Dobbs (5-11, 200), who played last year at Livonia Stevenson.

Lopez and Krueger return as defensive end starters, while Babicz is the other starting down lineman. Lopez had six sacks a year ago and Krueger had 5½. Depth will come from Paul Nemzec (6-0, 235), Kallas and Grzywacz.

Cornerback is a concern, with Roney and Walter leaving.

"They were two of the best we ever had," Mach said.

Cornerback candidates include Pankow, Dave Morelli (6-2, 175), O'Keefe and Scott Lingolani (6-0, 185). The safety will be Rys and the monster back is Jeff LaChapelle (6-1, 190).

The Shamrocks graduated reliable placekicker Kerry Zavagnin, but soccer player Adam Borcherdt has been impressive in practice, reaching the end zone with kickoffs.

Senior Steve Gusfa has the edge at punter.

"The rest of the guys will have to step up," Johnson said. "We have some good marking backs. All of them are quick and strong, but we don't have the 6-footer. Past Salem teams have been giants in the back, but we'll make up for it with tenacity."

The goalkeeper is 6-foot sophomore Paul Dood (pronounced DOAD), a varsity veteran who played in 10 games after moving up from the junior varsity. He is an Olympic Development player as are Buczek, Baker and Spuck.

"He's a real goalkeeper so we're comfortable with him," Johnson said. "I expect him to be real reliable. The thing is he has good hands and he's tall, which helps."

The roster also includes senior newcomer Brian Wright (halfback), juniors Dave Stubblefield (keeper), Phil Shipley (defender) and Ryan Smith (forward) and sophomores Trevor Pruett (defender) and Doug Herriman (forward).

The Rocks, who lost a scrimmage game 6-0 to defending Class B champ Detroit Country Day a week ago, begin the season Thursday at home against Brighton. The Plymouth Invitational will be played Saturday at Griffin Park since work on the CEP field won't be done until later.

Cobras capture fast-pitch crown

The Canton Cobras won the Incredible Girls Fast-Pitch Softball League championship with a 16-2 record.

The Cobras finished the season Tuesday by sweeping a doubleheader from the Livonia Spitfires, 12-2 and 9-0.

Amy Rogissart and Heather Schafer had two hits each, including a triple, and two RBI in the first game. Rogissart also had four stolen bases and scored three runs.

Karrie Drinkhahn, the team's leading hitter with a season average of .561, was 2-for-2 and also had two RBI.

Jamie Sikora was the winning pitcher, scattering four hits, striking out six and issuing no walks.

Colleen Baker pitched a one-hitter in the second game while recording 13 strikeouts and walking just three.

Tina Schafer and Michelle Metzger led the offense in the second game with two hits each. Stacy Movinski had two RBI, stole three bases and scored one run. Metzger added one RBI and Schafer scored one run.

Other members of the championship team are Denise Butske, Laura Ciantar, Keri Jackson, Debbie Kearney, Heather Lagrow, Tracy Ligner and Lisa Nicastri. The Cobras are coached by Jim Arnold and Bud Schimmelpfenneg.

The league had its all-star game Saturday, and the Cobras were represented by Drinkhahn, Baker, Ciantar, Metzger and Tina Schafer.

Canton posted a .407 team batting average. In addition to Drinkhahn, other averages were Lagrow (.500), Heather Schafer (.455), Rogissart (.444), Ligner (.444), Metzger (.441), Movinski (.435), Kearney (.429), Tina Schafer (.378), Baker (.303), Ciantar (.300), Butske (.294), Sikora (.281) and Jackson (.261). Nicastri had only three at-bats and a .677 average.

Exercise won't cause arthritis

EXERCISING OPTIONS

MYRNA PARTRICH

I am 56, a runner and concerned with arthritis in my future. I don't have any problems yet. Will running promote a problem with arthritis?

Exercise in all forms has been proven good for arthritis. Physicians say that a runner's chance of developing arthritis is the same as in sedentary people. Because of the amount of runners out west, the University of California (San Francisco) and Stanford University have studied the situation.

They say exercise is good for the joints, even the pounding from years of running doesn't increase arthritis risk. Running doesn't even increase the rate of knee deterioration in runners who have arthritis already.

As we know, arthritis causes a narrowing of the space between bones as cartilage in joints break down. Bone spurs develop in response to inflammation, and hardening and thickening of fibrous tissue occurs.

If a person develops arthritis in their feet, knees, or hips, regular exercise will keep joints flexible and muscles strong enough to relieve some stress on joints. Strengthening your running muscles, therefore, will help if you develop any problems caused by arthritis.

You should be aware as long as running doesn't increase the pain in joints, there is no firm evidence that it will cause additional damage.

If you have been running for years and feel good and strong, I wouldn't worry. Are you concerned because of genetic predisposition? Do your parents have arthritis?

If so, what age did they detect the problem? If that is your concern, it is rightfully so.

Be aware you won't escalate arthritis by running. Try not to worry before you have to. There is always plenty of time for that.

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company in Bloomfield Hills and an appointee to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and to the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Coleman billed as star wide receiver

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

Funny, but George Perles has always — and probably always will — been known as a grind-it-out kind of football coach.

The running game suits his style. Pound it at your opponent and see who's toughest.

But since Perles has been coaching Michigan State, he has sent three top-notch receivers into the pros — in order, Mark Ingram (with the New York Giants), Andre Rison (Atlanta Falcons) and Courtney Hawkins (Tampa Bay Buccaneers).

Hawkins completed his reign as the No. 1 Spartan receiving threat last season, catching 47 passes. The question now is, who's next in line?

Perles believes it will be Mill Coleman. "He's very similar to Ingram and Hawkins," the MSU coach said. "I've seen enough to know that he'll go on to play professional football."

High praise indeed, and in one way surprising. Not that Coleman is the recipient; since his freshman year playing high school football at Albion to the two Class B titles he later guided Farmington Harrison to, Coleman has proven himself to be an exceptional talent.

But at quarterback, not receiver.

And yet, it now seems his future is as a pass catcher, not thrower. Playing split end last year, Coleman caught 16 passes (tied for third on the team) for 156 yards and one touchdown. He also rushed 17 times for 76 yards and, yes, he passed the ball, too — four times, completing two for 28 yards.

Coleman's ability was utilized on kick returns as well (7.0 on punts, 14.9 on kicks) and will be again this year. Indeed, the Coleman qualities the MSU coaching staff likes best are his versatility and intelligence. "He's got better hands than we thought, and he's smart," said Perles.

Added offensive coordinator Morris Watts: "The most foolish thing you can do is keep him off the field. Mill is an exceptional person. He's a leader, he's got a charisma about him.

"We're going to use all his talents. Anytime he gets his hands on the ball and he's behind the line of scrimmage, he's a double-threat. Yes, we will use him at quarterback in special situations, particularly at the goal line where we can utilize his speed."

Coleman's reaction to all this is, typically, to downplay it. "It's always good to be mentioned," he said. "Whatever they want me to do, I'll be happy to do it. I'll do whatever I can to help the team."

The Spartans will ask for a lot from a player who's small by college standards (just 5-foot-10 and 170 pounds) and lacking experience (sophomore eligibility).

Now that he's been at wide receiver — he'll switch to flanker this season — for a year, how does he feel? "I feel a lot more comfortable," Coleman answered. "I've been working on it all summer."

And how about part-time duty at quarterback? "I'll be happy to do that," he replied.

The one thing Coleman wants no part of is another outcome like last year's. The Spartans suffered through a 3-8 campaign, their worst since Perles took control.

"It was a new experience," said Coleman, who suffered through more defeats in one season than in his three years quarterbacking Harrison. "But you've got to deal with the winning, and you've got to deal with the losing."

If Coleman can come close to living up to the lavish praise heaped upon him, his team won't have to worry about the latter.

Hodgkin's Disease, an ailment that can cause the enlargement of several organs.

Graham missed spring drills, lost 20 pounds and ended up having his spleen removed. Still, he's slated to battle sophomore Mark Birchmejer for the starting position.

Graham — who's back up to 291 pounds and said he "didn't have any problem putting (the weight) back on" — insists he feels no after-affects. "I lost some strength, and I still don't have all that back," he said. "But I feel fine."

And he never gave any thought to quitting. Quite the contrary.

"I want to play more now," Graham said. "For a while there I wasn't sure I'd get a chance. I saw the doctor last week and he took some chest x-rays and said I was OK."

Then he added, "I don't really care what they say. Unless they tell me I'm going to die, I'm going to play."

That kind of attitude, combined with his experience (like Heaton, Graham is a fifth-year senior), are reasons why MSU expects to rebound this season.

"I've been practicing. I've had enough practice — four years of it," said Graham. "I just want to stay away from injuries."

Bowl games and conference titles are not topics of conversation this year, which could be a benefit. As Heaton noted: "If everyone tries their hardest and we win a few football games, then whatever happens, happens."

Whatever does happen, both Heaton and Graham hope this year is more memorable than last year was.

Madonna coach wants flag back

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

Madonna University baseball coach Mike George doesn't want to know who stole the American flag that was flying above the baseball diamond at Livonia Bentley High School.

He just wants it back.

The flag has special meaning for George. It had been used to drape the coffin of his late father, a World War II veteran.

"My dad was always a big baseball fan, and this was my tribute to him," George said. "It was my way of saying thanks to him."

The flag was taken from the flagpole between the Bentley football and baseball fields sometime between 11 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. Wednesday of last week.

Bentley will be the home field for future Madonna baseball games, and George and his staff have been working to renovate the facility.

"I assumed the flag was sacred and nobody was going to mess with it," George said. "If it didn't have sentimental value, I'd just go out and buy another one.

"But it can't be replaced, and I'd like to have it back, no questions asked.

"There was no marking or way of distinguishing it from another one, but the person who took it knows which one it is."

The person who took the flag or has it in his/her possession can leave it at the university, the Livonia Police station or the Livonia Observer office. Anyone with information can call George at his office (591-5029).

Morrison's goal to play full season

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

Steve Morrison hopes everything goes right for him this fall.

And it's not just because that, in the past when things seemed to be going so right, something went wrong. The thing is that when bad stuff happens, it happens on his left.

His left leg, to be precise.

Morrison is entering his third season as an inside linebacker for the University of Michigan. If the Birmingham Brother Rice product can get through the 12-game campaign (bowl game included), it'll be a first.

Morrison got into three games as a true freshman — ironically, because five others listed ahead of him on the depth chart were injured. He made six tackles against Michigan State, but missed the final seven games with an injured left calf.

Still, he won a starting position in spring drills prior to the 1991 season. He got off to a strong start, twice recording 11 tackles in a game (in wins over Boston College and Iowa) and intercepting three passes.

Then it happened again.

At Michigan State, Morrison gave chase on a screen pass. "The turf was wet," he recalled during Friday's media day in Ann Arbor, "and I took a helmet on my knee."

That the helmet belonged to a U-M teammate didn't matter; it broke his leg. His left leg, of course.

Is it just coincidence? If so, three times should be enough. In his junior year at Brother Rice, Morrison injured his left knee in the third game and missed the remainder of the season.

Such misfortune is frustrating. "It is, especially when the team is at an away game and you're sitting at home watching," Morrison said. "You don't feel like you're a part of the team."

So how did he react? "It got me really fired up to work out and get back in there," Morrison said. At least he got the chance to prove he was a fast healer — Morrison missed just four weeks last season, returning for the final two Big Ten games and the Rose Bowl against Washington.

Of course, when you're playing for the Wolverines you're rarely guaranteed a position. "We've got so much quality depth here, you've got to work your butt off to get in, then if you get hurt and miss a week you might not get back in," Morrison said.

U-M coaches are hoping to get a full season out of Morrison this year. When he was in the lineup last year, he made things happen; he intercepted his fourth pass of the season against Washington, tying him for top honors on the team.

"The thing Steve does the best is he sees the whole field," said inside linebacker coach Jim Herrmann. "That's something you can't coach."

Morrison's strategy for dealing with his past problems is direct: Put them behind you and work even harder. One bright note: The injury his freshman year came early enough to allow him to redshirt. Now a junior, Morrison has sophomore eligibility.

"The injuries he's had weren't because he wasn't in shape," Herrmann said. "But I think, the way he's trained this summer . . . he's never worked out that hard. Hopefully, his bad luck has ended."

His weight is up 10 pounds, to 245, and he can still run a 4.9 40-yard dash. He has shown the ability, according to Heermann, perhaps to play professionally.

But first, he has to stay healthy. "I try not to think about getting injured," Morrison said. "It can be, psychological."

Mental anguish is something Morrison would rather deal with.

Notes: Morrison is one of four Brother Rice graduates on Michigan's roster. The others: Gannon Dudlar, a 6-foot-4, 265-pound junior defensive tackle; Paul Manning, a 6-4, 257-pound senior offensive lineman; and Marc Milia, a 6-3, 268-pound junior offensive lineman.

Slouching toward wisdom: 'Middle Ages' finds mark

By Suzanne Gill

Producer Stan Rogow calls the 1990s "the '60s without drugs." Pointing to political changes at home and abroad and the expectation of more change to come, Rogow observes, "it's not unlike something that was happening in the late '60s, only now it's happening for a lot more people."

It was that idea and a conversation Rogor had with former NBC entertainment chief (now head of Paramount studios) Brandon Tartikoff that led him to develop Middle Ages, an ensemble drama debuting Monday, Aug. 31, on CBS. The series moves to a Thursday time slot on Sept. 3.

The producer of Shannon's Deal, Playing for Time and The Clan on the Cave Bear, Rogow, like Tartikoff, is a man in his 40s. When Tartikoff, who midwived hits from Hill Street Blues to Fresh Prince, suggested a series about "guys our age," Rogow took umbrage.

"I said, 'I'm not interested in guys our age. Look at the way I dress, look at what I do for a living. It's not interesting to me.'"

In fact, Middle Ages includes people of all ages who are trying to keep their dreams from being buried in the debris of daily life. Peter Riegert (Local hero) and William Russ (Wiseguy) play lifelong buddies who've arrived at mid-life and are assessing their options.

Riegert, a family man and traveling electronics wholesaler, is suddenly haunted by his memories of a beautiful young woman who took drugs and jumped off a building 20 years earlier. Laughing, the vision tells him she can fly and so can he. But can he? While he is still wondering, the real woman (Ashley Crow) in his life reminds him that her existence, too, is something less than a fairy tale.

Russ is more impulsive, and, seeing the sexy 20-year-old lead singer he always wanted for his rock 'n' roll band, decides to quit his desk job, return to music and ask the young woman to marry him.

There's humor in Middle Ages, and hope, but only about as many car chases, shootouts, bikini-clad women and sunny days as there are in an ordinary life. Set in Chicago, the show captures both the energy and the dinginess of that great, sprawling city.

James Gammon co-stars as Riegert's single, 60-ish father-in-law, Dave, who is laid off by the same firm that employs Riegert. Dave survives a dark night of the soul to discover that he still has choices before him: He decides he'll drive a cab.

LET'S TALK

In the heat of the ratings; Arden never soaked in it

By Taylor Michaels

Q: My family and I are fans of the show In the Heat of the Night. Please tell us it has not been canceled. The last show of the season left Gillespie and Tibbs in quite a mess.

We have heard that Alan Autry, who plays Bubba, is Gene Autry's son. Is this true? Also, is Hugh O'Connor, who plays Jamison, Carroll O'Connor's son or related to him? —Mrs. Jim Manning, Winnsboro, Texas.

A: In the Heat of the Night appears to be a popular subject with many Let's Talk readers.

In the Heat of the Night avoided a number of contract disputes with NBC by moving to CBS for the fall. NBC has proclaimed a new marketing strategy geared to a younger crowd, but star Carroll O'Connor said recently the show was not canceled because of Heat's viewer demographics. As executive producer, he said he had trouble getting money for new episodes from NBC, so he went shopping and found a more willing banking partner in CBS. During the upcoming season, look for an emphasis on romance and a politically pertinent first episode.

Alan Autry is not Gene Autry's son. He was born Carlos Brown and became interested in acting after a brief career in professional football with the Green Bay Packers. However, Hugh O'Connor is Carroll's son.

Q: I am trying to recall the name of a movie starring Harold Gould and Tyne Daly. The story was set in a rest home for the elderly. The residents took over a train, and the rest of the movie dealt with their escapades. Can you tell me the name of this movie? —Maurice Mosher, Sun City, Ariz.

A: The movie you describe was a very respectable picture made for television in 1979. The title is Better Late Than Never, also starring Harry Morgan, Strother Martin, George Gobel and Donald Pleasence. Video Hound's Golden Movie Retriever claims it's on tape, but watch the box carefully. There's also a 1983 Better Late Than Never, David Niven's last film, which isn't nearly as good.

Q: I want to know where to write three stars of the now-canceled The Young Riders. They are Josh Brolin, Ty Miller and Anthony Zerbe. It was a show I really enjoyed, and I am very disappointed that it was canceled. —Cathy Hazelton, Archdale, N.C.

A: Try reaching Anthony Zerbe in care of Susan Smith and Associates, 121 N. San Vicente Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif., 90211, and perhaps you can reach Ty Miller and Josh Brolin in care Mahoney Communications, 345 N. Maple Drive, Suite 185, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90210. Incidentally, repeats of The Young Riders will begin airing on The Family Channel in September.

Q: My family has enjoyed Richard Jaeckel's acting for a long time. Could you please tell us about him and where we could write to tell him how much we admire him and enjoy his acting? —Doris Dickerson, Greensboro, N.C.

A: Jaeckel was born on Oct. 10, 1926, in Long Beach, N.Y. He broke into show business while working as a mailboy at 20th Century Fox. His Oscar-nominated appearance in 1971's Sometimes a Great Notion is probably his most noteworthy film role. His TV series have included Spenser: For Hire and Baywatch. You may write him in care of David Shapira and Associates, 15301 Ventura Blvd., Suite 345, Sherman Oaks, Calif., 91403.

Alan Autry

Q: Did Eve Arden play the role of Madge on the Palmolive commercials? —Gwen Boston, Newton, Kansas.

A: Our Miss Brooks may have also been many other things, but she was never the Palmolive lady. That honor belongs to actress Ruth Miner.

Send all questions to Let's Talk, Features Dept., P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009.

Wartime art collecting; kids gone wrong

By Dan Rice

During World War II, the Third Reich's "care and safekeeping" policy was initiated to protect important works of art in Germany and the countries it invaded. The actual effect, however, was to license the pillaging of art treasures by Nazi collectors, particularly Hermann Goering. Debuting Friday, Aug. 28, on A&E's Time Machine With Jack Perkins, Spoils of War documents the cultural rape of Europe that resulted from officially sanctioned looting by both Nazis and Allies, following trails of stolen art that lead to Russia and the United States.

The escalating crisis of female juvenile delinquency is explored in the Your Family Matters special Jennifer's in Jail, airing Wednesday, Aug. 26, on Lifetime. Susan Dey is the host of this one-hour documentary that profiles the lives of several young offenders and examines how the justice system handles such cases.

He said he'd be back. It's Schwarzenegger Week on Showtime, with weeknight showings of Arnie's best. It all begins with Stay Hungry on Monday, Aug. 24.

Growing up is hard to do. John Singleton's Oscar-nominated film, Boyz N the Hood, makes its HBO debut on Saturday, Aug. 29. Larry Fishburne, Ice Cube and Cuba Gooding Jr. star in this story of a South Central Los Angeles boy trying to stay on the right path in an atmosphere of drugs, violence and bigotry.

James Caan discusses his Honeymoon in Vegas in Tuesday's edition of Entertainment Tonight.

WEDNESDAY

Wednesday on HBO, Oscar winner Joe Pesci plays a con man who tries to marry identical twins in the "Split Personality" episode of Tales From the Crypt.

FAMILY FARE

'For Better, Worse' makes mediocre trip

By Chris Carpenter

If comic-strip characters could venture beyond the page, where would they go? Well, Batman went Burton — black and bleak — and The Addams Family went ballistic. But what about Lynn Johnston's characters from ...For Better or For Worse? Where would they go?

They'd pack up the wagon and go camping, naturally, taking a trip only slightly askew of their traditional path down the middle of the road. The Disney Channel premieres their out-of-suburbia shenanigans in a special titled For Better or For Worse: The Last Camping Trip on Friday, Aug. 28.

School's out, and son David, who's having a "major hormone attack," is primed for a weekend with the "babes" at a nearby lake. But David's best-laid plans crater when Mom insists that he accompany the family on a camping trip to the seashore. He's "bummed," but perhaps it is for the best. Any "babe" at the lake within earshot of his pseudo-surfer lingo would surely make waves to avoid his "major hormone attack."

The Last Camping Trip plays like a home movie from comic-strip land. It has it all — burned burgers, moody kids and goofy parents. Everything, in retrospect, that makes for a pretty forgettable family outing. - TV Listing Inc.

Wednesday's edition of MTV Unplugged showcases the talents of former Eurythmic Annie Lennox.

TIME OUT

ABC, ESPN cover Little League series

by Michael Scogin

ESPN kicks off coverage of the 46th annual Little League World Series from Williamsport, Pa., on Thursday, Aug. 27, presenting both the foreign and U.S. championship games. On Saturday, Aug. 29, the respective winners meet on ABC's Wide World of Sports to determine this year's champion. ABC introduces the game with a half-hour pregame show for the first time in its 30 years covering the Series.

Julie Moran, an ABC announcer covering the final game with colleagues Jim Palmer and Brent Musburger, says the spirit of the competition is what makes the event special.

"It has none of the commercialization and corporate sponsorship of pro sports," says Moran. "It's sport being played for the enjoyment of sport and it's just pure. It's like going back to the basics of why people play sports and what you get out of them."

The Series is the biggest event of the year in Williamsport, the only city in which the championships have ever been played, according to Bob Rolley of the Williamsport Sun-Gazette.

"It brings millions of dollars to the city and more than doubles our population on the day of the final game," Rolley says. "People here plan year-round for the week-long event, and thousands of people volunteer each year to help out in any way they can."

Another barrier broken; 'MacGyver' may escape cancellation

Television history was made this past July 22 when young Rebeka Sessions and her mother competed on Nickelodeon's top-rated game show, Family Double Dare. According to the Disability Rights Education and Defense Fund, Inc., Rebeka's appearance marked the first time a disabled person was a TV game-show contestant. It is ironic that Family Double Dare, which revolves around messy physical challenges, is the first TV game show to break the wheelchair barrier.

With a week to go before the prime-time Emmy Awards, some shows have already been honored for work well done. They're the winners of the annual Television Critics Association Awards, presented in just eight categories. Held during the critics' gathering each July in Los Angeles, the ceremony boasts short speeches and includes absolutely no musical acts.

This year's winners are, for Drama: I'll Fly Away; Comedy: Seinfeld; News: Frontline; Specials: Billy Crystal for the Academy Awards; Sports: When It Was a Game; Children: Peggy Charren, founder of Action for Children's Television; Program of the Year: Northern Exposure; and Career Achievement: Johnny Carson.

MacGyver* saves his life with only a ballpoint pen! Richard Dean Anderson may be bringing his resourceful MacGyver character back from the grave of TV cancellation through a development deal he signed with Paramount Network Television. Anderson and MacGyver supervising producer Michael Greenburg have formed Gekko Film Corp. and cut a deal with Paramount for Anderson to develop, produce and star in a series and telefilms, any of which could be a new MacGyver vehicle.

On Saturday, ABC offers live coverage of the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa.

SOAP TALK

Producer promises brighter 'Days'

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I am a big fan of Days of Our Lives, and so far it has been a terrific summer on the show. I am most happy about the fact that Jack and Melissa aren't on as much as they used to be. There have been times when I've had to turn off the TV because I was so disgusted with Jack and Jennifer. Thanks for the opportunity to speak my mind. —Days fan in Texas.

Dear Reader: While I know several readers of this column and fans of Days will disagree with your comment, I tend to agree with you. Don't get me wrong: Matthew Ashford (Jack) and Melissa Reeves (Jennifer) are terrific actors. But their dialogue really is the pits.

Unfortunately, the source of these misguided story lines is the producers and writers, and Days, along with several other daytime shows this year, has gone through a fair number of both.

When this happens, shows lose their continuity and many characters get pushed aside, because new writers want to make their mark on the show. Sometimes the characters are given dialogue and mannerisms that simply don't fit their established characters.

General Hospital is the perfect example of how changing producers and writers can cause havoc on a show. When GH brought Gloria Monty on board, she literally cleaned house, dumping characters that she had no interest in developing. Story lines were either wrapped so quickly no one knew what was happening or they simply disappeared. The fans didn't like what was happening, the ratings fell and Monty soon exited.

Enter Wendy Riche, GH's new executive producer. While she is trying to make her mark on the show by bringing together Holly and Bill, she has handled things differently, paying attention to character history and development. Unlike Monty, Riche has brought back the fun and intrigue that have made GH so popular.

Executive Producer Ken Corday of Days is aware of the problems his show has suffered and has promised a return to the core of the show: the Hortons and the Bradys. I expect when Jennifer returns from maternity leave, the story line and characters of Jack and Jennifer will be much more mature.

'Screenworks' makes impressive debut

By Steven Alan McGaw

Movies love dreamers. Perhaps because the industry was founded by men and women who staked their futures to a dicey enterprise, filmmakers seem drawn to stories of individuals who risk everything to realize the marvelous, magical (and, at times, maniacal) things they see in their heads.

Such a tale comes to the screen in The Water Engine, the debut presentation of TNT's Screenworks series. Produced in association with Steven Spielberg's Amblin Entertainment, Screenworks seeks to produce new material by America's leading playwrights. The Water Engine was scripted by Pulitzer Prize winner David Mamet.

William H. Macy stars as Charles Lang, a Chicago machinist who spends his evenings in a secret lab building his dream: an eight-horsepower engine that runs on water. When Charles tries to patent his amazing invention, his attorney (John Mahoney) enlists the involvement of wealthy businessman Lawrence Oberman, played by Joe Mantegna. Charles balks at the outright sale of his engine design and soon finds himself running from Oberman's thugs, ordered to nab the blueprints at any cost.

Macy carries the film with his intense portrayal of the naive inventor. Patti LuPone is sympathetic as Charles' blind sister Rita, and Mantegna is an icy menace as the powerful Oberman. Besides Mahoney, the fine supporting cast includes Treat Williams and Charles Durning.
