A presidential election will do it every time. Canton's clerk expects a big 70 percent turnout Tuesday, when polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Voters should be ready to wait in line. There will likely be more than 22,750 voters casting ballots in the township.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

Canton Township Clerk Loren Bennett expects a 70 percent turnout when voters head to the polls Tuesday, Nov. 3. That means approximately 23,000 of the township's 33,219 registered voters are expected to cast ballots. Actually, Bennett is estimating a range of 22,750 to 23,250 voters.-"And I think that's realistic. There's a tremendous amount of interest in this campaign," Bennett said. His office also is gearing up to handle about 5,000 absentee ballots for this presidential election. A high voter turnout has a lot of meanings, not to mention that voters should be aware there could be some waiting in line at the polls, which open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. After the 1988 presidential election, Bennett conducted an informal poll to see just how long a wait at the polls voters believe is reasonable. At that time, voters said 20-25 minutes.

'I'm doing the best I can," Bennett said, about this year's expected wait at the polls.

In addition to the fact that a presidential election always brings out more voters, Canton voters will have a lengthy ballot to get through at the polls.

Vote absentee

To avoid long lines at the polls altogether, voters can still vote absentee. Applications for absentee ballots are available until 2 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 31, at the township clerk's office, 1150 S. Canton Center Rd., south of Proctor Road. The office will be open 9 a.m.-2 p.m., Saturday.

Voters who wait to-that last minute to get an application and a ballot are encouraged to vote right then and there. Bennett said his staff is getting 100-150 calls daily requesting absentee ballots. Voters are encouraged to vote as soon as they get the ballot.

Related story this page

They do not have to hold onto it until the end (8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 3). I encourage them to return them quickly," Bennett said.

Those who choose to wait to cast their ballots at the polls Tuesday are encouraged to review ballot issues, as well as for whom they wish to vote before entering the booth. It could save time for themselves and other voters.

Township employees cannot explain to voters any of the four state ballot proposals or the Canton proposal to change the merit ordinance. But a "problem resolution person' will be on hand at each of the township's 15 voting locations, which include 24 precincts. That person can provide copies of the proposals for a quick read.

"The person will almost be a like a greeter. They'll help people make sure they are at the right place. They will have a map and you can just tell them where you live," Bennett said.

Avoid long lines

To sidestep long lines, voters are asked to avoid the polls when they open at 7 a.m., as well as at lunchtime and 5 p.m. and later — often the only times the work crowd gets a chance to vote.

Whyman jabs Kosteva over term limits

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

In a last jab before the election, Republican challenger Deborah Whyman called incumbent Democratic state Rep. Jim Kosteva a "poster boy" for the term limitation movement this week.

"Everytime I turn around, I see his name and his face being advertised with taxpayer dollars," Whyman said in a press release.

Whyman, who is seeking to block Kosteva's longterm incumbency in the 21st state House District, said voters received a booklet explaining school financing from Kosteva's Lansing office in October. His office this week, Whyman charged, mailed a voter guide explaining the state ballot proposals. In response, Kosteva said "it's too bad" Whyman has to resort to such unfounded charges when so many other problems, such as unemploy-

"I don't have any objection to using resources to educate voters on the ballot proposals," Kosteva said. "In neither publication was there any mention, hyping and absolutely no self-promotion of myself contained in these brochures. It's unfortunate she (Whyman) is opposed to keeping taxpayers informed.

Whyman said that Kosteva's activ-

But Whyman also criticized Kosteva for mailing the voter guide less than two weeks before the Nov. 3 election. The state House, she said, forbids legislative mailing within 30 days of an election. Kosteva said Tuesday that about 80 of the 110 state representatives mailed out the ballot proposal newsletter.

"Kosteva's office allows him some power over the purse strings of state tax dollars. As he gets closer to the election, he seems more and more willing to use this power to drive up his name recognition," Whyman said. Kosteva says he "strictly adhered" state Republican Central Committee. Kosteva said he plans to spend about $100,000 on the race.

Whyman also criticized Kosteva's use of money in his officeholders expense fund, which he used to buy a leased car. Kosteva said he has done nothing wrong.

OEF money, Kosteva responded, is not tax money, but contributions, of which he used $8,500 for charitable, civic or local causes in 1990-1992. OEF money is regulated by state law and Internal Revenue Service regulations. Kosteva said his OEF records are open for public scrutiny.

Band parents want pay for play scrapped

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

Yellow-jacketed Plymouth Canton Music Boosters balked en masse at Monday's school board meeting at the newly-enacted "pay for play" require-

In addition to making cuts and pinkslipping employees, the board of education launched a pay-for-play policy, charging $60 per high school student per sport or extra-curricular activity in an attempt to save money.

With a standing-room-only crowd of boosters supporting him, band parent Jim Vassallo protested the policy, reading from a statement by Pat Liljestrand, who heads the boosters.

"We feel that the band program has a unique history of always paying for play in areas which should be paid for by the schools," said Vassallo. Many band parents have received notices from the schools, reminding them they have not yet paid the fees. The band boosters' fees would net the district a total of $12,000. The booster organization's records show that the boosters have paid more than $14,000 this year for uniforms; a sound system; percussion equipment; repair and maintenance fees; drum major training; and uniform cleaning.

Parents have paid $1,985 in competi tion fees and $2,531 for props and nonmusical equipment repairs. Not included in listed expenses are color guard uniforms and props; a computer and copy machine purchased with the choral music boosters as well as marching and sectional instructors.

"The board does pay for a part of the director's salary and $4,500 for instruction, from which we pay our assistant director and part of the percussion staff," said Vassallo Parents also pay $200 per child for band camp; and $195 per child for buses, food and lodging at regional, state and

The Fiesta Bowl trip, for which band members have been raising money, is expected to cost each family $868. Parents also pay for uniform cleaning, marching shoes and gloves, and a uni form deposit. "I think the intent of all band parents is to raise the issue of equity. Let's look at it across the board. Are we talking airness?" asked band parent Bill Myers. Instruments are another cost assumed by parents. Trumpets can cost up to $3,000, and "our son's trombone, even though we paid only $1,000, lists for twice that," said Myers. "Prices of those instruments are just astronomical."

Many schools the band competes against have their entry fees paid by the district. "That never happens with us. We raise the entrance fees. Boosters pay them for any competition we want to go We've been paying to play for a long time," added Myers, "There are jus some people who are questioning the $60 figure. How do you come up with $60? All we are interested in is a question of equity.

The pay-to-play policy came as the latest in a string of disappointments for the two-time national championship marching band. "When we approached the administration on paying for the additional uniforms because of the increased size of the band, we were refused," said Vassallo.

"When we asked for approval to accept an invitation to perform at the Hula Bowl, we were told that 'it wouldn't look good' for the band to go to Hawaii at a time when the district has financial problems, even though no district funds would be used for the trip.

"We have also brought many honors for achievement to the district, and you proudly list them in the yearly achievenent reports," said Vassallo. "We ask that you recognize that the Plymouth Canton Music Boosters have exceeded the assessed amount of pay for play.

Trustee Dean Swartzwelter was the only school official to respond. He asked administration to look into equity in all extra-curricular athletics and activities.

Award-winning owner is really into the fence biz

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

Frankie Middleton has fences in her blood. "I'm here permanently. I'm here from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and later, and on Saturdays. I haven't gotten a vacation since I started," said Middleton, owner of Better Built Fences on Michigan Ave., between Sheldon and Canton Center roads.

Fences and everything about them are a big part of Middleton's life. In fact, one day while driving with her husband, Elmon, to Toledo she made him hit the brakes. "You've got to get off here," Middle-ton told her husband. "There's a fence I've got to

The photograph of that fence now rests handily in a binder full of examples of fences Middleton's company can provide. "Everytime someone tells me

I can't do something, I do it." And it's worked. Middleton's well-known company is bigger than she ever expected and she was honored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce with the annual Athena award Oct. 7. The award is designed to recognize, encourage and celebrate the achievements of women in business and the professions. "I want to thank all the people who made me what I am," Middleton said of the award.

But in her characteristic straight-forward style, Middleton will admit she "lost it," when she found out she won the distinctive award. Her sister, Rose McClug, who works with her, nominated Middleton for the award. "I heard her talking. But she called it something else. I was surprised. There's been people here a lot longer than I have.' Middleton, secretary of the Canton Chamber of Commerce board of directors, actually never expected to start her own fence business. She had put in 12 years at another nearby fence company. Differences sent Middleton out the door, but not before she learned the business inside and out.

A bookkeeper at the company, the late George Klotz, preceded her leaving. "He said, 'You can start your own business.' So I did." She'll be honest. She wouldn't do it again. But now that she's where she is, she's staying, despite a tough time in the beginning. With little money, she opened the business in her Westland house and later moved it to different locations before settling in at the Michigan Avenue address. In addition to Klotz, who died two years into her new business, Middleton got plenty of help from other professionals who stood behind her, offering her installment payment plans for signs and landscaping. "George, who had cancer, always said, 'if only I can see you on your feet before I die,'" Middleton said. And he did.

Middleton isn't your average stay-in-the-office kind of boss. Getting in the trench is her style. "I like being out with the people more than being in the office. That way you know the job." At first, Middleton said she didn't have any credibility in the business. She started advertising in the Yellow Pages. Then local newspapers put her on the front pages. "I've done 32 fences in one subdivision alone," she said. Now she's getting ready to expand her business to an adjacent lot. Her youngest of two sons, David, 23, is right by her side. Quality is a big thing for Middleton. So are American-made products. "I don't mess with any junk." The actual cutting of wood for the fences, including intricate designs are done on site. And she says she makes sure her employees, generally 13 during the busy season, know what they are doing. "I tell the guys to do it right."

But it hasn't always been easy. And sometimes it still isn't. Middleton recalled one of the first commercial jobs she bid on. "I expected a man," she recalled the man with whom she was trying to do business say to her. She never got the job.

She saw him again not much later. "You're still in business?" he snarled. Her response was simple: 'I'm going to be in business a long time."

He later called back and gave her a small job even though he didn't understand why she, the owner of a fence company, was driving a car instead of a truck. "The commercial business is harder on me. You really have to make them know you know what you're doing," Middleton said.

Competition and pushing just that little bit harder is fun for Middleton who is determined to maintain her success despite any criticism. "People call me now.

Proposal C win could mean closer schools-towns alliance

BY M.B. DILLON STAFF WRITER

If Proposal C, the governor's Cut and Cap tax plan, passes Nov. 3, an uneasy alliance is expected to be forged between Plymmouth-Canton Community Schools and the local units of government in the district.

The proposal, which the schools oppose, could place the Plymouth-Canton district back in formula. Currently, the school district is out-of-formula, and not entitled to general state aid.

Freshman school board member Jack Farrow told trustees Monday night that he met with Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, who is proposing that the school board, Canton, Plymouth and Plymouth Township establish a "community cooperation committee."

The committee would "explore ways the school and the three major communities could work together to achieve common goals.

"There is much that can benefit all of us, working together to save money and deliver better services to people," said Farrow. "It might warrant a workshop or a part of a workshop in the future." The idea received a lukewarm reception.

"In three previous workshops with local governments, we have expressed willingness to purchase in volume; we've offered to purchase fuel jointly since no one uses more fuel than us; we've offered them the chance to use our negotiated prices; I could go on and on with the things we've offered, and we have yet to have any local unit of government come in to talk to us," said school board treasurer Dean Swartzwelter.

"Until there is something concrete, it doesn't warrant us all getting together." Superintendent John Hoben said there was an occasion when the city of Plymouth entered a joint purchasing agreement with the district. School board president Roland Thomas said the-achools have leased land to Canton and Plymouth for $1: offered its facilities for community events

AN OPEN LETTER TO ANYONE WHO LOVES THEIR FAMILY AND THEIR COUNTRY

THE PEROT 92 CAMPAIGN WOULD LIKE TO ASK YOU A SIMPLE QUESTION:

DO YOU WANT YOUR CHILDREN TO LIVE IN AN AMERICA CRIPPLED BY DEBT, WHERE THE STANDARD OF LIVING IS MUCH LOWER THAN WHAT YOU ENJOY TODAY?

THE NATIONAL DEBT IS ALREADY A MONSTER .... AND ITS GROWING. THIS DEBT LOAD HAS THE POTENTIAL TO DESTROY OUR ECONOMY. BUT, IF WE ACT NOW, WE CAN FIX IT.

THE LIFE BLOOD OF OUR NATION IS BUSINESS .... YET BUSINESSES ARE LEAVING OUR COUNTRY. THEY DON'T HAVE TO ... WE CAN FIX IT.

ROSS PEROT OFFERS REAL SOLUTIONS FOR THE TOUGH PROBLEMS, INCLUDING HEALTH CARE AND JOB SECURITY.... AND MOST IMPORTANT: ROSS PEROT GETS THINGS DONE!

Please note that the "experts" you see or hear in the media are usually individuals that have party affiliations. An ex- senator or a former governor will always back their party's candidate and downplay an independent. Remember, Ross Perot has no party , so the media doesn't show us many "experts" who support his ability to win. However, even these "experts" often support the Perot programs and admit that Ross Perot has touched the hearts of the American people. Why then can't he win? If you feel he is right, then Vote! There are millions of you out there. Also, Ross Perot is on every ballot. His name may be in strange places and/or small print on some ballots. Don't be manipulated. Vote for the candidate that YOU want!

PLEASE CONSIDER YOUR CHILDREN AND THEIR FUTURE

THERE ARE MORE INDEPENDENT VOTERS THAN THERE ARE REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATS COMBINED ..... YOU CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE

ROSS PEROT CAN WIN .... YOU ARE NOT WASTING YOUR VOTE!

Sincerely.

here's been some confusion about school bus flashing yellow lights, red lights and when motorists are required to stop. Officer Tammie Colling of the Canton Department of Public Safety contacted Plymouth-Canton transporation officials and a safety representative to find out just what motorists have to do under federal regulations.

School buses are equipped with yellow flashing warning lights, red lights and a stop arm. When you see the yellow flashing lights, which the bus driver activates 200 feet before a stop, that means you can proceed with caution.

When you see the red lights and the stop arm lowered, you must stop at least 20 feet in either direction of the bus.

Whyman pledges

epublican candidate Deborah Whyman, candidate for the state House 21st District, said she has pledged support for a freeze on Michigan lawmakers' salaries. Her pledge is a response to an Oct. 22 editorial in a Lansing newspaper. "When economic times are tough, businesses do not give out pay raises. State government cannot be permitted to violate this principle. Today in Michigan, private-sector employees must deal with layoffs and cutbacks. Under these circumstances, a pay raise for state lawmakers is not justified. The lawmakers work for the people. In today's market, the people cannot afford to pay them more money," Whyman said in a press release.

She said some lawmakers may disagree with her opinion. "Many of these lawmakers have been government employees for all of their professional lives. As such, they may have difficulty understanding the fundamental economic principle behind the notion that employees cannot be given pay raises when the business falls on hard times."

Whyman said that the Lansing State Journal's challenge is suited to the Republican Party's desire to scale down government in Michigan.

"The base salary for lawmakers in Michigan is higher than all but three states," Whyman said. "Our lawmakers have failed to deal with many issues in a timely fashion: property tax reform, auto insurance reform. Neither their performance nor the present economic climate justify a pay raise at this time.

Electronic swami to aid traffic study

Predicting where traffic will be is going high tech in Canton. The township is looking at computer software that will tell officials where the traffic will be even before a subdivision goes in.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

Imagine finding out just how a new subdivision will affect traffic in the area before houses are built.

With certain computer software that's now possible and Canton Township trustees will pay $58,400 to Barton-Ashman Associates Inc. of Southfield to develop the computerbased transportation model. "That model will give you an idea of what type and where improvements need to be made," said Tom Casari, township engineer.

The transportation model, similarly used in Los Angeles suburbs, will give township staff an idea of what will happen when development, such as subdivisions, industrial facilities or strip shopping centers, are built.

"It helps to clearly identify where the impacts are going to be," said a Barton-Ashman representative. won't make the decision for you.

The model isn't just a bunch of numbers on a computer. When certain information is given to the computer, the model will provide a graphic of different sized and colored lines, which are streets, that show where the greatest effect from a development might be.

Township officials plan to use the model to determine needed road improvements and to set priorities for those improvements, as well as to assess the effect of future development.

For example, if trustees decide it's time for a third and fourth fire station in the township, the model can help determine where they should be built by determining which areas the station would best serve. The model can show traffic levels on certain streets as well as in certain areas.

When completed, the transportation model will include population counts as well as existing traffic patterns. It will also show trips per household and where those trips are distributed in the township. The model also is capable of being updated, for example, when census information changes.

Yack told trustees the model will be useful in justifying improvements to get state and federal money for read projects.

"I think it will also be valuable when going to the (Wayne) county (for road improvements)," Casari "Developers are interested in it said.

. To help pay maintenance costs for the model, the township would charge a fee to review any proposed develop-ment. "That way information generated through this great tool would be offset by those fees," said Tom Yack, township supervisor.

The city of Novi, for example, charges a fee for traffic impact studies when reviewing site plans. A proposal to charge traffic fees will be considered by the township board later.

"Costs can be anywhere from a couple hours staff time for a small development up to where you could pay a consultant to add data (to the model)," Casari said.

Traffic studies are conducted now when developments are proposed. But with the model, those studies will simply be a question of adding certain information to the computer. "The model would allow you to input data and get the information you need," Casari said.

Changing Canton merit law up to voters

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

It's not the most exciting item voters will be faced with on the Canton Township ballot Nov. 3.

But the proposal to amend the 1978 merit system ordinance is nonetheless important, despite it's position as last on the ballot.

"We just needed to update the language in the ordinance," said Dan Voyles, merit commission member.

The proposal contains five provisions. Voters must vote either yes to make the changes in the ordinance, or no, not to make the changes. Voters do not have the choice of voting yes or no on the individual provisions.

The purpose of the proposal is to clarify the ordinance to "reflect the township as it is today," said Dan Durack, director of township administrative services.

Voters must vote either yes to make the changes in the ordinance, or no, not to make the changes. Voters do not have the choice of voting yes or no on the individual provisions.

The first provision, which states that commission members should not be related to township employees or officials, is designed to "clear up any potential conflicts of interest," Durack said.

The anti-nepotism clause is designed "to maintain integrity," oyles added.

The second provision excludes sea sonal and temporary employees and union employees from the classified personnel system, which includes designated pay scales.

"Language was needed to clarify that employees represented by unions are not covered by the merit ordinance, they are covered by union contracts," Durack said.

The third provision would open the doors for the merit commission to fill vacancies from outside township hall. Currently, a position must be posted for internal applicants first.

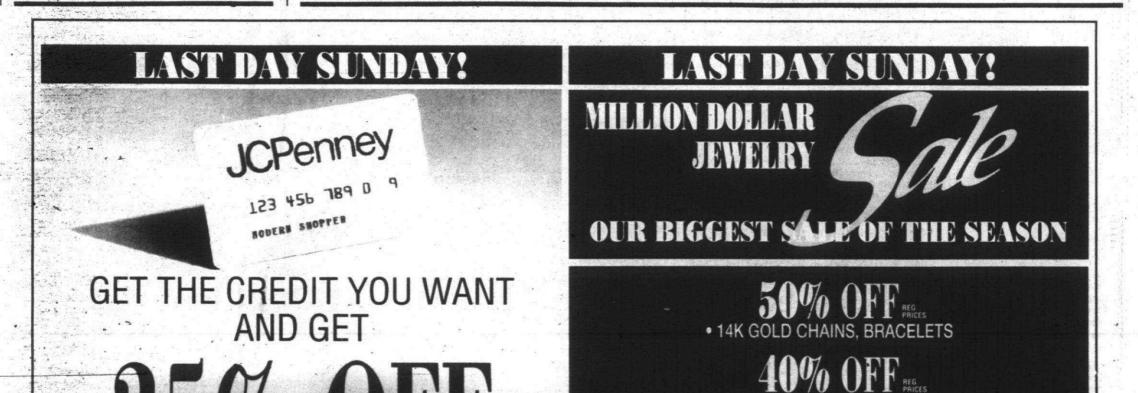

"There would be an option to go with internal promotions or to the outside. The commissioners would make a decision to go to the outside.

Internal employees could still apply. They would just have to compete with the outside world," Durack said.

The fourth provision would put in writing that the chief financial officer, directors of public safety, municipal services and administrative services not just the township supervisor would have hiring and disciplinary authority. "It's not conducive for the supervisor to be involved in everything," Voyles said.

The fifth provision simply would update language in the ordinance to meet current state and federal nondiscrimination requirements. Though the commission complies with such requirements, the ordinance does not specifically address changes in law, Durack said.

The merit commission has three members who have staggered six-year. terms.

School officials rap tax plans

BY MARIE CHESTNEY STAFF WRITER

Among Wayne County school district officials, it's tough to find anyone who will say a nice word about two of the proposals on the Nov. 3 ballot, Proposals A and C. School officials from districts as diverse as tiny Riverview to a goliath like Detroit all railed against the two property tax-cutting proposals Tuesday at a joint press conference held in the Livonia Public Schools' board room.

Observerland school districts that have united to oppose Proposals A and C are Livonia, Redford Union, South Redford, Garden City, Plymouth-Canton, and Wayne-Westland.

The uniting of big and small districts as well as in-formula and to reimburse. out-of-formula districts in Wayne County into a lobbying effort against the two proposals shows just how fearful K-12 educators hand," said Livonia Superintendare that at least one proposal might get a majority of votes Tuesday.

If both A and C should pass, the one with the most votes will go into effect.

The purpose of Tuesday's press conference was to tell voters just what to expect if either A or C should pass.

Murray Tobin, chairman of the South Redford School District's citizen finance committee, said the controversy over Proposals A and C reminded him of a statement President George Bush made about challenger Bill Clinton during one of the recent presidential debates.

"He said that if a politician we should trust him, then, well, cently passed 2.8 mill increase we should grab our wallet." Both A and C would limit the amount of growth in property tax assessments. Proposal C also would cut property taxes levied for school operations by 30 percent by 1997. The state would be required by the Michigan Constitution to make up the money districts would lose under Proposal C's 30 percent cut. There is no requirement to make up the revenue that will be lost due to the 5 percent assessment cap in Proposal A or the 3 percent assessment cap in Proposal C.

Several school officials Tuesday questioned the state's ability to follow through on its promise

"We believe the state will find ways to giveth on the one hand and taketh away on the other ent Joseph Marinelli Marinelli estimated Proposal C would cost Livonia schools $9 million in the first year and $96 million over the five-year-period. A loss of that magnitude, he said, can only lead to three options: higher local taxes, drastically cut school programs and services, or some combination of each. School officials are skeptical that the state of Michigan will see the extra growth needed in the years ahead to fund Proposal C.

It's been estimated that, by 1997, the cost to the state to pay for Proposal C will reach at least $1.5 billion

You could say they're jazzing up this year's dinner-auction to benefit the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

A new addition to this year's program - Friday, Nov. 6 at the Laurel Manor - is the jazz group Deported from Cozumel. And topping a list of items to be auctioned is a seven-day Caribbean cruise.

The Third Annual Dinner Auction is the largest fund-raiser for the chamber, which organizes several programs to promote Plymouth business.

"The money the chamber raises from the auction allows them to keep dues down," explained auction organizer Nancy Horst.

"This is our major fund-raiser of the year, it's a night for the business community to shine," said Fran Toney, chamber executive director.

"Everyone is working very hard o make this an event they forget," she said, adding, "The entire community is invited."

Other items to be auctioned this year include two airline tickets for travel anywhere in the continental United States, and use of a luxury resort condo in northern Michigan.

Still more items to be auctioned include a champagne hot air balloon ride, tickets to shows at the George Burns Theater, four

For U.S. Congress

Ford best for Canton district

hen it comes to politicians, U.S. Rep. William D. Ford isn't perfect He can appear arrogant and pompous at times. We disagreed with Ford and criticized him soundly for voting in favor of the Congressional pay raise.

Inspite of that criticism, Ford is an intelligent, highly skilled lawmaker attuned to the needs of the district. When examining the candidates for this race, we posed this question: Who is a leader, who has been effective or can be effective in Washington? The answer: Bill Ford

The Michigan Congressional delegation has been criticized for not "delivering" federal largesse to the state. Ford, however, has been effective in areas that count in western Wayne County, such as the new post offices in Livonia, Garden City and Westland.

Ford, along with his state Congressional colleagues, has taken the lead in providing money for the clean-up of the Rouge River.

Last year, Ford, along with other western Wayne Congressional lawmakers, was able to get $46 million for the continuation of the Rouge River Demonstration Project.

At the request of local elected officials in Canton, Plymouth and Northville townships, Ford pushed for authorization for federal aid for the Western Townships Untilities Authority, an environmental water project that will treat waste water before it goes into the Rouge.

As chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor, Ford was responsible for Congress' recent authorization of the Higher Education Act, which will channel billions of dollars of aid to students - including those from middle- and upper-income families planning on attending college and workers seeking retraining or better training for the job mar-

The new law, signed by the President in July, allows all students - regardless of income - to If you swallow the GOP rhetoric about "cleaning the House," you better have something better to offer. The field of challengers just doesn't offer anyone better for the newly drawn 13th District.

borrow the maximum federal guaranteed loan. Also under the law, a family's home equity will no longer be considered in determining a student's eligibility.

Ford expresses some very real concerns about the North American Free Trade Act's effect on jobs. He comes down on the side of reproductive freedom and has been a strong supporter of federal money for family planning clinics in the hope that women who have access to effective contraceptive methods will have fewer unintended pregnancies.

Ford faces four opponents on Nov. 3 - Republican state Sen. R. Robert Geake, Randall Roe, an independent from Ypsilanti, Paul S. Jensen, a self-described Republican running on the Tisch ticket, and Larry Roberts of the Workers League.

Ford was unopposed in the Democratic primary, and we supported Geake in the Republican race. Geake is a conscientious state Senator and has a superb record of attendance in Lansing. However, after examining the candidates' stands on the issues that matter in this race, we believe Geake can best serve his constituents in Lansing - not Washington.

If you swallow the GOP rhetoric about cleaning the House," you better have something better to offer. The field of challengers just doesn't offer anyone better for the newly drawn 13th District.

We recommend William D. Ford to voters in Livonia, Plymouth, Canton, Westland and Garden City on Nov. 3.

Bennett best in race for clerk

anton Township voters face a nearly full slate of local candidates in Tuesday's general election.

While Supervisor Tom Yack has no opposition, there are Democrats and Republicans vying for clerk, treasurer and four trustee slots. In the race for clerk, we recommend Loren Bennett, the incumbent. Bennett has transformed the clerk's office into an efficient, resident-friendly operation. He has emerged as a township leader and has played a major role in trash recycling and the handling of garden wastes.

In the treasurer's race, Bruce Phillips, the Democrat, merits election. Phillips has experience in government and business, serving as manager of Genoa Township before opening a video store in Belleville.

Also, he has been involved in the community,

On Tuesday, Nov. 3, the best choices for Canton Township are Bennett, Phillips, McLaughlin, Burdziak, Shefferly and LaJoy.

Don't forget county proposals

ocal voters will decide three ballot proposals on Nov. 3. We recommend a No vote on Proposals

1 and 3, and a Yes vote on Proposal 2. Proposal 1 is essentially a disagreement between the county commission and county executive on their interpretations of the charter. The proposal, a charter amendment calling for the county commission's approval of the executive's reorganization plan at least once each four years, is nothing more than the legislative branch's attempt to exert more control over the executive branch. The legislative branch should stop interfering and get on with its own duties.

We recommend a No vote on Proposal 1. Proposal 2 calls for Wayne County to return all money collected from the one-tenth mill for Model Youth Services System and not spent within one year to local governments for the purpose of providing local youth programs.

On Aug. 2, 1988, Wayne County voters approved a 1-mill jail tax for 10 years to build and/or operate a jail and to use at least onetenth of a mill to operate a juvenile work/training facility.

The new jail has been completed, but the county has not used the money to acquire a new juvenile facility. About $6.9 million from the one-tenth mill remained unspent as of July 31, 1992. The county could have returned the onetenth mill to the taxpayers by not levying the tax but it did not.

We recommend a Yes vote on Proposal 2. Proposal 3 seeks a 0.5-mill tax increase (50 cents per $1,000 of state equalized valuation) to support health services and mental health services to Wayne County's neediest residents.

Voters turned down the same proposal in the August primary by 137,240 to 94,868.

But voters didn't know enough about the issue then, its proponents say, and they're going to be asked again Nov. 3 for the same tax.-

We believe they knew enough about the plan to defeat it then. Given Wayne County's already high tax burden and the vague and poorly defined proposal, we recommend a No vote on Proposal 3.

Dems best for top county jobs

oters interested in county office elections will wade through a lot of names on the Nov. 3 ballot before they reach the races for county sheriff, county clerk, county treasurer and register of deeds.

Although all of the incumbents face opposi tion in the races mentioned here, none of the challengers has presented a clear and convincing argument for change. In fact, most have done nothing more than place their name on the ballot.

Sheriff

In the race for sheriff, Democrat Robert Ficano, the two-term incumbent from Livonia, is clearly the best choice. The challengers appear unprepared to deal with the administrative and political requirements of the job.

Clerk

Former state Rep. Teola Hunter is headed for the Wayne Couty Clerk's office. An intelligent, capable administration, Hunter's first priority is making sure the public is served by the clerk's office.

She has the administrative skills and political savvy to do the job.

Treasurer

The race for county treasurer pits former Livonia city treasurer Elaine Tuttle against longtime incumbent Raymond Wojtowicz. Tuttle levels charges that the county treasurer's off- merits re-election.

ice hasn't computerized to the extent it should and subsequently has caused delays and expenses to local government.

Tuttle's tenure as Livonia treasurer was often marked by controversy. She sued the city several times and lost. It cost the city time and mony. Although we believe that Tuttle has learned how to work in the system, county government can't afford to risk her election. Wojtowicz runs, an efficient operation under current budget restrictions. Voters should let Raymond Wojtowicz continue as county treasurer on Nov. 3.

Register of deeds

Forest Youngblood, a Democrat, is seeking his sixth term as register of deeds. The register of deeds is responsible for keeping up-to-date records on all parcels of property in Wayne County - one of the largest counties in the country

Youngblood supervises 90 employees and a $3 nillion annual budget. Approximately $7 million is collected annually by the department in fees. Youngblood runs an efficient office and

Circuit court

In the race for Wayne County Circuit Court Judge, we recommend Denise Page Hood, Jeanne Stempien and Robert Ziolkowski. Page Hood, a Detroit resident, is clearly outstanding in this race. She currently serves in Recorders Court. She has earned high praise from her peers in the legal community for her scholarship, judicial temperament and fairness. Western Wayne County voters will elect a Judge to the Michigan Court of Appeals First District, Wayne County Circuit Court and Probate Court.

Despite a hectic professional schedule, she remains very active in community and church groups.

Stempien, an attorney in private practice and a former school teacher, is a chairwoman of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees. Her 12years of experience litigating a variety of cases has prepared her for the complex cases of the circuit court. Her quiet, thoughtful demeanor will be an asset to the bench.

Stempien, a Northville Township resident, works hard, is fair and will make a fine judge.

Ziolkowski, a Detroit resident and judge in Recorders Court, has the experience, integrity and temperament to handle complex cases. A hardworking judge, he merits election to the circuit bench on Nov. 3

Probate court

For probate court, Nancy Diehl has the inteligence, enthusiasm and energy to tackle the iob. An assistant prosecuting attorney in charge of the child abuse unit, she has demonstrated how the system can be effective. She has received praise from her peers in the legal community and will be an effective judge. I believe that Bill Clinton stands for a "choice" that is so fundamentally wrong that it cannot be balanced by preferable positions on other issues, even if he were solid on them. #### Merit troubles

he people of Canton should real ize that if they vote in favor of the amendments to the Merit System Ordinance on the ballot, they will nullify the present ordinance, which was adopted to protect all emnlovees.

The first amendment is nothing more than a personal vendetta by the supervisor against a certain commissioner because she does not always agree with what he is trying to do, and her husband is employed by the township. This amendment would not permit a commissioner to be related to an employee. Is commissioner Don Voyles related to Ken Voyles, who was newly hired by the supervisor as his assistant?

The second amendment would remove all union employees from the merit system and leave just the 25 to 30 non-union supervisory personnel covered by the ordinance. They would then be the only ones who could name the employees representative to the commission. Of course they wouldn't be coerced by the supervisor to name who he wanted.

urge everyone to vote no on proposais A and C on the Nov. 3 ballot. These proposals seek shortterm political gain by mortgaging our future.

Although they sound like tax cuts, the effects of proposals A and C will mean higher taxes and less efficient government. The way to fix the problems of government is to elect good people who have the interests of the citizens at heart. Cutting funding will only drive good people out of government and result in a government which is incapable of serving anyone.

What I propose here consists of basially two parts:

The first part would consist of allowing a school district, by majority vote of its citizens, to remove all property taxes for schools from residential property and substitute an income tax on the residents of that district. The percentage income tax rate would initially be set to one-tenth of the present millage. For example, if a school district was levying 32 mills, the school income tax would be 3.2 percent.

This school income tax would be collected by the state, at the same time and using the same forms as the state income tax. All school income tax collected from the residents of a school district would be turned over to that school district; the state of Michigan would have no authority over the mon-

The second part would be to impose a statewide uniform school property tax on all non-residential property. The rate would initially be set to the statewide average school property tax millage rate (about 30 mills). No tax abatements would be allowed for school property taxes. One-third of the state income tax (1.5 percent) would be added to the money collected from the statewide uniform school property tax.

All-conference soccer

lymouth Salem seniors Chris Saline and Tom Baker and Plymouth Canton senior Mike Wdowiak were named to the All-Western Lakes Activities Association boys soccer team. Wdowiak and Saline are defenders, Baker a midfielder.

Salem players on the All-Lakes Division team were senior defender Jeff Kley, senior midfielder Ryan Phipps and senior forward Joe Perron.

Canton placed senior goalkeeper Ryan Henkel and senior defender Matt Daluisio on the All-Western Division team.

The Chiefs had the best overall WLAA record at 8-1-1. A complete list of the all-league and alldivision teams appears on the weekly stat page.

Bernthal stars for WMU

im Bernthal of Plymouth and a member of the Western Michigan University soccer team had two assists Thursday as the Broncos defeated Central Michigan 5-0.

Bernthal, who attended Redford Catholic Central High School, raised his season point total to 11, just behind team-leading Dan Edwards.

The Broncos, who lost 7-1 to Bowling Green on Sunday, are 6-6-2. They play their final game Friday against Valparaiso.

Canton girls honored

lymouth Canton coach Don Smith and his players on the 1992 girls soccer team will be honored at halftime of tonight's Canton-Farmington Hills Harrison basketball game in the Phase III gym.

Smith will receive an award from the United States Coaches Association, recognizing the Chiefs as one of the top 20 teams in the country last season.

Canton, the top-ranked team in the final Class A poll, was runner-up to Rochester Adams in the state tournament and finished with an 18-1-2 record.

Hawks win championship

he Michigan Hawks won the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association girls under-16 championship with a 2-1 double overtime victory last weekend over Livonia Youth Soccer Club United.

The Hawks, coached by Paul Scicluna and Ken Hamann, will represent Michigan in the Midwest Regional in Missouri next summer.

Members of the Hawks are Aimee Cousino, Michelle Fatute, Laura Fedrigo, Amy Marcoe, Angie Siggia, and Elizabeth Szkrybalo, all of Livonia; Jenny Bazzarelli and Mari Hoff, both of Canton; Kelly Lukasik, Plymouth; Kathryn Sobrero, Bloomfield Hills: Kari Westveer, Troy; Heather Huizing, Jessica Jones and Katie Kohl, all of Northville: Kelly Hamann, Milford; Muthoni

Plymouth Salem can win its second regional championship in boys soccer Saturday when it plays Redford Catholic Central at 3 p.m. Salem reached the championship game Wednesday with a not-so-easy win over Dearborn, 3-1.

was the Salem junior varsity coach at that time.

"They've been playing well toward Plymouth' Salem survived some the end of the season, but we've got all 11 starters back," said Perron, tense moments Wednesday against underdog Dearborn to reach the final who scored his second hat trick of the of its own regional soccer tournament. season and leads Salem with 18 goals. Senior forward Joe Perron scored 'We know what we have to do to beat all three goals as the heavily favored them." Rocks started fast and then held off

Perron scored two goals in the first 10 minutes against Dearborn (15-5-2), and it looked as if the Rocks were on their way to an easy victory. But the game was anything but that until Perron scored with 9:16 remaining to give Salem a two-goal advantage. "We came out real strong like we did Saturday (against South Lyon in the district final), but we got kinda lackadaisical and thought the game was over," Perron said. "We played lazy the rest of the half."

The Pioneers capitalized on a Salem defensive mistake to score their goal late in the first half.

Salem goalkeeper Paul Dood slipped trying to cover a risky back pass, leaving Dearborn's Manny Haratsaris with an easy angle.

The fired-up Pioneers then dominated the rest of the first half, and their momentum continued for much of the second as well. Dood made three key saves to protect the Salem lead.

"We can't play any worse and win, Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "They had speed but it was like they were nervous (at the start). That goal gave them confidence. When they scored and saw we had relaxed, they thought they could get back in the game.

Johnson, who had scouted Dearborn in the district, said he wasn't surprised the Pioneers played so well but thought Salem's edge in experience would be a decisive factor.

"When you get to the regional, it's a different ballgame," he said. "They think 'We've played well enough to get this far. Let's go a little farther." Salem all-stater Tom Baker didn't play in the first half but started the second - an indication of the urgent situation the Rocks faced.

Baker reinjured the ankle that kept him out several weeks last Thursday and didn't play in the 4-1 win over South Lyon. The plan was to rest him again in anticipation of the regional final, but Baker convinced Johnson to let him play at halftime.

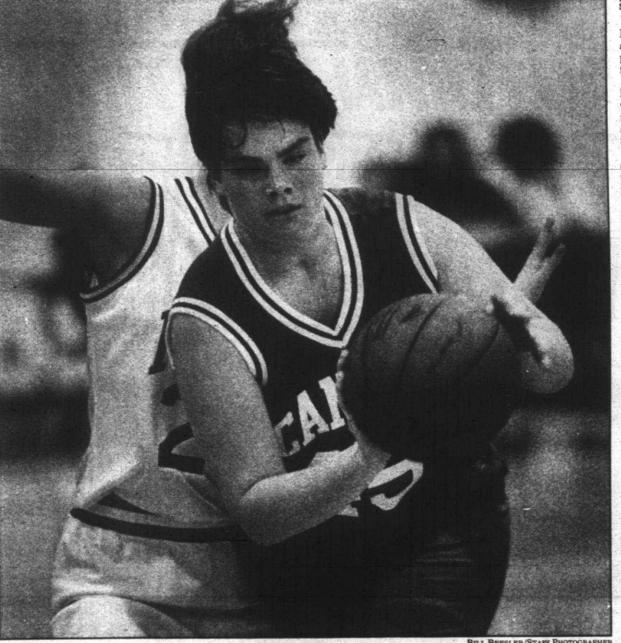

Baker left the game after Perron scored his third goal on a give-and-go from Mark MacInnis, who had two assists. Ryan Phipps had one.

"If you lose tonight, there's no to-morrow," Johnson said. "There's no sense being healthy for a game you're not going to play.

"He had a couple key headers and settled them down a bit. It might have helped. He got by without being injured and he got some timing back."

Welchans sparks Chiefs past Rocks

Salem, CC meet again in regional

The same athletic skills that made Plymouth Canton's Jori Welchans an all-state goalkeeper in soccer also produced an all-star basketball performance Tuesday.

The senior forward scored a gamehigh 14 points (her career best as well) and pulled down almost as many rebounds, leading the Chiefs to a 53-31 victory over host Plymouth Salem.

Welchans, who made her first varsity start, was an aggressive force on the boards and scored most of her points off rebounds.

"She has the ability to get the ball anywhere on the court because she has such quick hands," Canton teammate Stephanie Gray said.

"When somebody shoots at her in soccer, she has to react in a split second, and she goes and gets it. She plays on the basketball court the same way she does in goal on the soccer field."

Canton, which came up big after losing recent games to Walled Lake Central and Livonia Stevenson, gave the Rocks their first loss in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Chiefs are 8-2 in the league and 14-2 overall, Salem 9-1 and 9-7.

The best part of this game for me, from a coaching standpoint, is to see us get our energy back," Canton coach Bob Blohm said.

"Salem has been on a roll; they've beaten some good teams, and their players have upped their game. For us come in here and play at this level

Canton swimmers 8-0

lymouth Canton is still undefeated in girls swimming after winning its eighth consecutive dual meet Tuesday 99-87 over visiting Ann Arbor Huron.

Jill Mellis won the individual medley (2:15.32) and the butterfly (1:01.73) and helped the Chiefs win the medley relay.

Pam Pritchard, Mellis, Selena Bastine and Suzan Daoust combined efforts for a 1:59.75 time in the relay.

Canton also was first in the 200 freestyle relay, with Pam Yockey, Beth Berger, Daoust and Susan Pritchard finishing in 1:47.67.

Yockey won the 50 freestyle (26.9), Katie McWhirter the 500 freestyle (5:35.95) and Jill Barnes the backstroke (1:07.27).

The Chiefs will try to win the Western Division title at 7 tonight against host Livonia Churchill.

- one each Plymouth Salem scored two points at No. 1 singles and No. 1 doubles - in the Class A girls tennis championships Saturday in Midland.

Sophomore Jennifer Clack won her first match 7-6 (7-2), 7-5) over Traverse City's Gretchen Shaw. She lost in the next round to second-seeded and eventual runner-up Kiran Khanuja of East Lansing, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

The first doubles team of Melissa Kowalis and Natale Graves defeated Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central's Karen Dugan and Tara Simmons, 6-3, 4-6,6-4

The Okemos duo of Kapila Bhatia and Sarah Wessinger beat the Rocks in the next round, 6-3. 7-6 (7-1).

"Overall, I think we lacked the experience for that kind of tournament," Salem coach Judy Braun said. "Our second and third doubles never really played in a tournament like that. Our singles played in the (state) tournament last year but had played doubles."

The Chiefs distributed their points quite evenly as Amy Westerhold scored eight, Alyson Noune seven, Gray and Kelly Holmes six apiece and Christie Saffron five.

Senior center Cyndi Platter scored 12 points for Salem, but half came in the last quarter after Canton had built a big lead. Leslie Gotts added eight.

The Chiefs focused on stopping Platter and whenever possible tripleteamed her in the low post.

For the first time in four years, a playoff berth won't be riding on the outcome of the annual Salem-Canton football game Friday night.

That shouldn't dampen the players' enthusiasm or their desire to beat their arch rival.

"Any time the two teams play, there's a lot at stake," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "They call it the 'Pride of the Park.'

"When you have two schools on the same campus playing each other, it's a pretty intense thing."

Both teams are having average years, judging by their overall records. The Rocks are 4-4, the Chiefs

But the parity should increase the competitiveness between the teams, according to Canton coach Bob Khoenle, who sees irony in this year's game when compared to the last two.

"They had a good team, beat us and went to the playoffs last year," he said. "We had a good team, beat them and went to the playoffs two years ago.

"Neither one is going anywhere in the playoffs this year, and it's probably going to be a better game than the previous two.

Canton had never beaten Salem until 1988 when it won 21-14, and the teams have split the last four games

The Rocks won 25-6 in 1989 but just missed the playoffs. The Chiefs thumped Salem 34-0 two years ago and later made their first post-season appearance. The Rocks avenged that loss 43-6 last year and qualified for the Class AA playoffs.

"Unless some unexpected things happen, I don't see a blowout here," Khoenle said. "I think we're pretty evenly matched, and it will depend on a break here or there."

"I think they're stronger at some positions and we're stronger at others," Moshimer said. "The game will come down to who makes less mistakes and plays with the greater enthusiasm.'

The Rocks had won two straight before losing Saturday to playoff hopeful Livonia Franklin, 32-6. Salem lost to Farmington Hills Harrison (22-0) in the second week of the season while the Chiefs got their first win against Harrison (23-15).

After an 0-4 start, Canton has won three of its last four games. The Chiefs lost a close game to Class A playoff contender Northville (20-13) but then turned their season around.

Canton upset Harrison, lost to Franklin 28-0, blanked winless Livonia Churchill 18-0 and whipped Livonia Stevenson 41-0.

"We really had a tough schedule the first six games," Khoenle said. "All of that helped us. The kids are getting the feel of it and coming into their own. We could easily be 4-4 or 5-3 up to this point.

'Our team is young and because we won those games it raised our confidence. Winning is a great cure-all for everything."

Canton senior tailback Neil Haremski rushed for 143 yards and three touchdowns last week, pushing his respective season totals to 750 and eight. Beginning with the Harrison game, sophomore Brett Elledge has started at quarterback.

Salem senior linebacker Andy Szydlowski returned to action for Salem in the Franklin game after missing the last three with an injury. But senior two-way end Scott Helmstadter is doubtful because of a sprained knee Junior upback Rob Shepley had a big game (107 yards and two TDs) two weeks ago in Salem's 29-7 win over Stevenson and will play a key role if the Rocks are to be successful running the triple-option offense.

We have to make that go," Moshimer said. "If they can shut down our option game, that would be a big plus for them."

Area teams eye AA playoff berth Steelers in playoffs

BY BRAD EMONS and DAN O'MEARA STAFF WRITERS

This is the final week of the (6-2), is making a bid in Class Cprep football season, but for some Region IV. The Aggies are back in area teams, it's just the beginning.

The state playoffs are just around the corner with unbeaten Redford Catholic Central (8-0) already a lock in Class AA-Region But the picture is not so clear in Class AA-Region II. Adrian (7-1) and Howell (7-1) both will qualify with season-ending victories. Adrian closes out with Monroe (4-4) and Howell tackles Waterford Kettering (2-6). Also, the winner of Friday's Wavne Memorial (6-2) at Westland John Glenn (7-1) will also make it automatically. But if Glenn loses, the Rockets still have a chance. Knocking at slate. He is 86-31 overall, while the door will be Brighton (6-2), Garden City (6-2) and Livonia 33 for the year. Franklin (6-2).

Franklin, if it beats winless Trenton on Saturday, could qualify if these three things happen: Glenn beats Wayne, Saginaw Heritage (6-2) beats Brighton, and Taylor Truman (6-2) beats Garden City.

GC's hope is that Glenn beats Wayne, and Brighton loses to Heritage. The Cougars will eliminate Franklin from contention if it beats Truman.

If Glenn loses to Wayne, the Rockets need Heritage to beat Brighton, thus eliminating Franklin and GC based on the playoff point formula. Wayne, meanwhile, will be knocked out of contention with a loss to Glenn. Confused? Stay tuned.

OT soccer victory sends CC to final

BY C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER

So many chances. So few re

No, this is not a paid political slam of a certain office-holder up for re-election. It is an evewitness description of Redford Catholic Central's exploits in Monday's 1-0 overtime win over Ann Arbon Pioneer in the Class A regional soccer opener at Plymouth Salem. The Shamrocks had chance after chance after chance, but they couldn't score. Rich Walos, who seemed to be everywhere at once, set up a couple in the first half. But Matt Kopmeyer missed the net, and Jamie Heitert's header off Walos' corner kick was grabbed by Pioneer keeper Scott

The second half was a magnification of the first, only this time it was Walos who was turned away. First, his drive after a pass from Anthony Verrino was deflected over the net: next his direct kick went just wide; and then, when he finally put a shot behind Johnson, it was cleared by Pioneer sweeper Craig Coleman.

With 1:30 left in regulation, i happened again - a shot got past Johnson and was headed into the Pioneer net, until Coleman inter ceded. Who could have blamed the Shamrocks if they began to doubt that victory was in the cards for them?

It didn't take long to supply an answer. With 3:53 of the first 15minute overtime elapsed, a Walos corner was knocked out toward midfield. Walos retrieved it, heading it back toward the Pioneer net. Kopmeyer got off a shot that was stopped, but the rebound went to Heitert, and the junior forward put this one in.

"We had a lot of opportunities," said CC coach Phil LaJoy,

"I thought we got out of our style a little bit. The emotion of the game had something to do with that. We're an outside-inside team, but we got out of our pace. We'd like to have a few more touches (passes) before the shot. "At least we finally found a way to put one in."

Despite the Shamrocks' overall lominance, their failure to put one in the net threatened to reverse the polarity of their performance, with their frustration becoming a positive force for Pioneer. Heitert's game-winner ended that.

"I was very pleased with our team's effort," said Pioneer coach Bill Browning, whose team finished 12-7-3. "I thought we had the best scoring chance of the first half (Sean Seyferth's corner kick was headed by Dan Reed over the bar), but in the second half (CC) could have easily had three or four goals.

Browning didn't particularly like the Monday scheduling ("We just played a game every bit as intense as this on Saturday (a 2-1 win over Ann Arbor Huron). We had no break"), but he singled out Johnson and Coleman for their ef forts

Which weren't quite enough to beat CC.

Craig "The Tiger" Payne's prey didn't have a prayer Tuesday at Budweiser's Fight Night at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

And for Westland's Steve Dar nell, his prayer was answered from the judge's decision in his bout for the State Super Middleweight Championship.

Payne, fighting out of the Livonia Boxing Club, won after his opponent quit at 2:06 of the second round with a broken jaw, while Darnell earned a hard-fought and controversial 10-round draw in the card's main event. Payne, sporting a new nickname and tatoo of a tiger on his upper back, improved to 7-1-1 since his return after a long layoff after a successful amateur career

"I am the tiger, they are the meat - come in the ring with Tiger, you will be beat," chanted the always-colorful Payne after the fight.

"Everybody talks about my added Payne, who weight,' weighed in at 286. "I used to be 372 and I'm 271 now. But forget about my weight. I came here tonight to deliver a message to all the heavyweights in the state. I am going to beat all heavyweights in Michigan and then the world."

Payne pummeled Detroit's Arthel Lawhorn (21-16-2) from the opening bell, using left hand jabs to set up his powerful right hooks. Payne, who knocked out Lawhorn's mouth piece in the first round, repeated the feat in the second round. As Lawhorn's mouth bled profusely, he turned away from Payne resembling Roberto Duran's famous "no mas" plea

After the fight, Pavne jokingly challenged Thomas Hearns, a ringside observer, to a future fight. Hearns declined with a laugh.

Payne was supposed to face Buster Mathis Jr., but the two might square off next month for the State Heavyweight Championship. If that falls through, Payne has his sights on a battle in North Carolina with Pinklon Thomas, the International Boxing Organization heavyweight championship.

Darnell (26-2-2) had his hands full with Detroit's Dorrell Van Horn (11-4-1). Darnell, one of Detroit's top rising boxers in 1986, is attempting a comeback at the age of 28.

Neither fighter could afford

Schools offer sophomores special testing program

Plymouth Canton and Salem high school sophomores will participate in a guidance and information program.

In responding to the need to help students get an early start in thinking about their post-high school options, the schools across the nation participating in the program this year.

There will be more than 5,000 high High school counselors will give the test to all interested 10th graders on

EDUCATION

8:15 a.m. Students must sign up in their respective buildings to be tested. Registration will run from Oct. 12 through Oct. 21. The cost of the test is $7 per student and payment must be made by check at the time of registration. Students can sign up in the career resource center of their school. At that time, students will receive a planning and preparation guide.

Canton Counselor John Seidelman said, "By taking the PLAN/P-ACTplus, students are given an excellent opportunity to experience what it's like to take a national college entrance test." The program consists of four major parts: academic test in writing skills, mathematics, reading, and science reasoning; an interest inventory; a study skills assessment; and a student information section. P-ACT-plus partic pants receive a comprehensive, easy-to-understand report of their results and an interpretive guide to help students and parents understand and use the information

The plan is also an excellent indicator of how students will score on the ACT Assessment Test taken by most college bound juniors and seniors.

Shared costs seen as partial answer to health care woes

A panel of those seeking answers to spiraling health-care costs suggests we need to rethink our positions on medical treatment, including how our society views death.

BY DOUG FUNKE STAFF WRITER

Higher co-pays and deductibles for users of medical services.

Higher "sin" taxes on alcoholic beverages and tobacco products with revenue dedicated to basic health care services.

Medical liability reform. A national consensus on where we're going with health care. Those were some recommendations from a panel including a legislative aide, a service provider, a labor leader and a benefits analyst during a recent symposium on health-care reform at Crittenton Hospital in Rochester.

"How do we get to the consumer in the most effective way and the cheapest way? It's a very spiraling process, almost a vicious circle of events, said Joseph E. Champagne, president and CEO at Crittenton.

Start with a big dose of reality, several panelists responded.

"Pay for use," said Michael Keogh, a benefits consultant in the private sector. "As unpopular as that may be, it will put us on the right track.' When someone pays very little or nothing for health care through insurance plans, there's a tendency to not worry about costs, he said.

'It can't be free'

"One problem is the relative insulation of the user from actual costs,' Keogh said. "You need to be responsible financially each and every time you use health care. You're getting something incredibly valuable. It can't be free."

Some 20 percent of all health care dollars spent annually in the U.S. goes to paperwork compliance and an additional 20-30 percent goes to defensive medicine practices of ques tionable value, said David Seaman, senior vice president of the Michigan Hospital Association.

"We need regulatory reform. We need to deal with issues like antitrust. We need medical liability reform in this country," he said.

"Finally, and most importantly, is medicalization of social problems," Seaman said. "American people are a relatively selfish breed. We want it when we want it. We don't want to ration.'

Consumers and providers share the blame, he added.

"We ought to be ashamed we spend so much money on invasive treatment at the end of a terminal illness. Americans can't believe death is a natural end of life.'

Health maintenance organizations would be one way for business to control costs, suggested Elizabeth Gertz, an aide to U.S. Senator Donald W. Riegle.

"Consumers have to take more responsibility not only for services and costs associated with health care. but also lifestyles," she said. "We need to have preventative care. We need to have primary care.

Gertz called for a sharing of costs and an imposition of reimbursement caps by government if prices can't be negotiated.

Insure everyone now?

'Twenty-five percent of health-care dollars go to wasteful or inappropriate procedures," said Edgar A. Scribner, president of the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO. He wants to see a national health plan that covers everyone now, then works out the rough spots as we go along.

Scribner said he couldn't understand how malpractice premiums could be so much lower in Chicago and Cleveland than in Detroit. The fastest growth in insurance premiums has come for managed, out-patient care services that originally were encouraged to cap costs, he added.

Health care was the major issue in 83 percent of all collective bargaining negotiations nationally in 1990, Scribner said

"These problems can be addressed through a national health care system," he said.

Jan Vermeulen, a benefits administrator for FANUC Robotics North America in Auburn Hills, who at tended the symposium, has encouraged her clients to not pay charges

JA shifts gears, broadens focus

BY R.J. KING SPECIAL WRITER

Why should a child struggle through math if he or she doesn't see a relationship between schoolwork and how products are priced, research projects are funded or accounts receivable calculated?

An organization that has undergone major changes in the last few years but is still encouraging business-to-student relationships is Junior Achievement (JA).

"When you get in a classroom and students start competing in groups, with each group trying to maximize the success of a common company, it gets very exciting," said Jeff Bergeron, a partner with the Big Six accounting firm of Arthur Andersen in Detroit, and a West Bloomfield resident.

Bergeron, recently elected chairman of the JA chapter of southeastern Michigan, a two-year term that concentrates on fund-raising and administration, said the organization has recently expanded from its original concept of teaching high school students to run miniature companies.

The group's focus now includes applied economic programs for middle and high school-aged students, a pilot program for potential dropouts as well as additional effort in recruiting young people from disadvantaged areas.

"The kids who get involved in JA want to get a jump start on college or the job market, either by their own initiative or their parents'," said Bergeron. "Some of the courses are what a student would face in college, so it gives those kids an advantage.

The JA chapter of southeastern Michigan has more than 40,000 students, most of whom come from metro Detroit. Thanks to financial support from 24,000 companies, teachers can' use JA programs at no cost to their schools. The middle school curriculum teaches basic concepts of business and economics to students while high school students start their own small companies.

"Once students are given the opportunity to see business success in motion, they begin to see a light at the end of the tunnel. If they stay in school and

Well, you're helping to change that. Your donation to the United Way helps support organizations like CareGivers, which provide in-home care and other supportive services for 12,200 elderly people in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties. The United Way supports 145 agencies. Nearly 90 cents of every dollar you contribute goes directly to work, since only 10.4 cents goes towards campaign and administrative costs.

Your contributions help the disabled, the abused and the homeless, right here. For Charlie and other elderly people, please give to the United Way. And help keep them in a house, not a home.

Squirrel has great memory when it comes to nuts

Their "tightrope" walking ability across telephone lines, their ability to jump from twig to twig, and their persistence in foiling our anti-squirrel devices are evidence enough that we are dealing with an amazing mammal.

Fall is the time when we often think about these industrious neighbors because they are busy storing nuts for the winter season Searching a lawn will often reveal several little holes where a squirrel has deposited a nut. Several months later, when fresh food keen sense of smell, and since supplies are scarse, they will dig they buried the nut, they could up a nut and use it for energy.

This is a procedure we are all familiar with, but let's look at this procedure a little closer. How do they find those nuts that they buried? They don't find all of them, because we have young oak trees sprouting every year, but they do find most of them.

For many years squirrels were thought to find their food by their sense of smell. Mammals have a leave an odor that would be detectable at a later date. It makes sense, but according to two separate studies, it's not the way they find their buried nuts.

They find them by remember ing where they buried them.

It may seem hard for us to believe that such a small little animal could remember where all those nuts were buried, but that exactly what the studies showed. They memorize the locato local landmarks. If those landmarks are moved, or covered with snow, their retrieval rate is reduced. That is one reason why we see some young oak sprouts in our yard.

This could be a hard winter for squirrels. Last year was a big mast or acorn crop which occurs about every three years. That means this year and next year, every acorn a squirrel buries will be essential for its survival.

Backyard feeding stations could be very helpful for these furry friends during the next two years. Providing cracked corn, whole corn, or sunflower seeds will help them survive through the cold winter season.

Remembering: It may seem hard to believe, but studies show that squirrels memor-

Livonia gallery plans to celebrate local art

about to wait for the economy to spring back and bring in more patrons. A believer in creating opportunities, Nelson's Gallery director Laura Hardy is planning her most ambitious promotional effort yet: "Art As Gift," a three-week celebration of the arts from a local perspective.

ith her livelihood at stake, she's not

Hardy's intent is not only to capture the winds of artistry in an exciting new way, but also boost interest in the 5-year-old gallery, 16376 Middlebelt, between Five and Six Mile, in Terrence Corners

The gallery offers fine art, posters, prints and custom picture framing. A typical month features the artwork of four artists, including an artist of the month.

Hardy has invited seven emerging metro artists to showcase up to a dozen pieces each Nov. 7-30 and to demonstrate their skills the first three Saturdays of November.

Their palettes span the artistic spectrum: Nov. 7 — noon to 2 p.m., Tom Dyer of Waterford, pencil portraits; 3-5 p.m., Janel Agar of Livonia, airbrushing. Nov. 14 - noon to 2 p.m., Jacqui Sulesky of Milford, watercolor; 2:30-4:30 p.m., Christine Wong of Livonia, Chinese brush painting.

Nov. 21 — noon to to 5 p.m., Greg Aylesworth of Royal Oak, mixed media; Gwen Dietrich of Canton, pastel; John Shannon of Wayne, hand-painted furniture art.

Wide-ranging quality

"Some of the artists are graduates of fine art schools, some are self-taught. But the quality is there for all," Hardy said. "I'm really excited. I can't wait. It's going to be a nice change - something a little different."

It won't be high-brow. Says Hardy: "We don't want it to be stuffy. We want people to feel at ease, to relax with cider and doughnuts, and to enjoy watching the artists work.

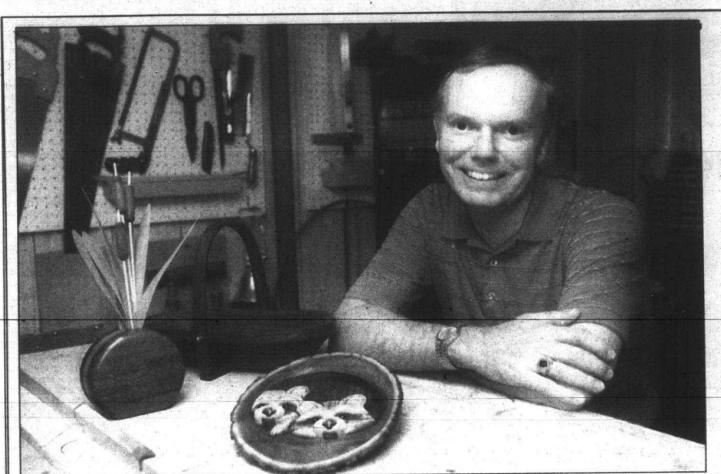

Dietrich, artist of the month in March 1991, looks forward to the camaraderie, exposure and personalized format.

"People can look over our shoulder to see how we create a piece of artwork. And that's important," she said. "It means more when you know what goes into making a piece of art.

She sees the artists working together not only to exhibit affordable original artwork in time for the holiday season, but also spark interest in the gallery.

A graduate of Parsons School of Design in New York, Dietrich likes to interact — even with folks whose knowledge of art is casual. "In terms of technique and subject matter, all feedback is valuable," she said.

The idea for a group exhibition came from some

Woodworker cuts way into art world

Livonia woodworker Jerry Jordan likes combining exotic and hard woods in his finely crafted chests, boxes, bowls and accessories. The selftaught artist brings his woodwork back to the Livonia Civic Center Library showcases.

BY JANICE TIGAR-KRAMER SPECIAL WRITER D to now, woodworker Jerry Jordan of Livonia hasn't considered himself an artist. It all started last spring when his wife, Lenore, spotted a notice in the Livonia city newsletter asking hobbyists to display their work at the library's Civic Center branch.

"I thought of Jerry's woodworking right away. Not many people can put wood together and make it look so pretty." she said. "I called the library and the first display opening was in August. That's Jerry's birth-day, so I thought, 'What a great present.

The display last summer was a pleasant surprise for Jerry Jordan (whose family escorted him to the li-brary on his birthday) and a treat for library visitors, who rarely left the display without mentioning the fine woodwork. 'People often comment on the showcases on their way out of the building," said Donna Grodeski, Civic Center Branch librarian. "So many remarked on the craftsmanship and quality of the woodworking. It was a beautiful exhibit.' Jordan's work, including detailed boxes, bowls, jewelry and accessories, made of exotic and hard woods. is on display again through November in the main floor showcases of the Civic Center Branch of the Livonia Public Library. The display of more than 40 pieces includes some new work made after the summer exhibit.

(Woodworking) is relaxing for me. It's what I like to do," Jordan said. "It feels good to share it at the library.

Jordan, 45, started woodworking in his grandfather's workshop at age 12. about the time he got his first toolbox. The two did rough carpentry work for years, making boxes and shelves from wooden grocery store crates.

"In talking, we thought it'd be really interesting for them to come back to the gallery to show their newer pieces and let the public watch them at work," Hardy said. "I've tried for probably a good year to see how I could put something like this together.'

Hardy decided which artists to ultimately invite to assure a diversity of art forms.

'It's been tough'

Over the past two years, strong competition from higher-end art galleries, a lagging economy and road construction on Middlebelt have combined against Hardy to deliver a triple whammy.

"It's been tough," Hardy said. "So we really do need to try some unique things to draw attention to us. I'm trying to let people know you don't always have to pay $5,000 for a piece of nice artwork. Who knows: A lot of our artists might be famous in 20 years. It doesn't hurt to check us out."

Fine art shown at Nelson's ranges in price from $100 to $1,200.

"I can't say business is up but it's definitely picking up," Hardy said. "The artist of the month is catching on, the mailing list is getting larger, more magazines are listing our shows. And people invited to shows by artists who are their friends now come back for other shows. It's taking time but we're catching on - we really are.

The November exhibition also will feature a variety of artists specially invited by Hardy: "My hope is to give them a little bit of recognition. Each will have at least five pieces.

These artists include Dan Collins of Canton, who sketches in pencil. "His work is very beautiful," Hardy said. "He has a unique style -- vivid colors, great detail. When you see his work, it makes you happy. That's how I can best describe

The spotlight also will turn to the photography of Mary Gilardone of Milford and Randy Lentz of Redford, the automotive gouache of Roger Hardnock of Westland and the oils on canvas of Diane Mitchell of Canton. Sheri Nudell of Farmington Hills will show fused-glass plates plus decorated mirrors and handmade jewelry with fused-glass accents.

Local collectors and residents can meet a sculptress for the Maud Humphrey Bogart Collection of limited-edition figurines 3-6 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 31, at Allie's Gift Gallery, 32630 W. Seven Mile, Livonia.

Bill Borden of Dearborn, a Cleveland Institute of Arts graduate, Ford Motor Co. industrial designer and nationally acclaimed watercolorist, judged the show in which Dunn took top honors along with first place in mixed media for another pastel portrait, "The Redhead."

About Dunn's Best of Show, he said. "All the elements of professional presentation are there: high quality of design, composition and color.

Born in Cuba, Dunn left in the mid-1940s to study fine art in the U.S. The pragmatic aunt with whom she lived suggested commercial art would ensure a stable income, so Dunn compromised her dream studying commercial art/retail at the Society of Arts and Crafts (now known as Center for Creative Studies) in Detroit. One of her professors there was the legendary Sarkis Sarkisian.

"I never figured out why, in those days, they separated the boys and girls enrolled in commercial art. The boys studied automotive, the girls, retail." Dunn said.

At the beginning of her fourth year at CCS, she accepted an offer of an illustrator position at J.L. Hudson's in downtown Detroit. After 15 years, Dunn shelved her advertising career to raise four children.

When the children reached age 4 or 5, Dunn began to free lance. For the

For Jordan, part-owner of a Livonia company that designs parts for materials handling ipment, woodworking is just a hobby. But since the recognition from the library exhibit, he has started to think about selling a limited-edition piece or two though a gift store or gallery.

"Right now, I don't sell anything. I'm too slow and too darned fussy. It would take the fun out of it (woodworking) if I knew I had to produce something to fill an order," he said. For now, the self-taught artist likes to experiment by combining two or three exotic woods in a viece and alternating the grain. He spends countless hours in the finishing stage, wet sanding and oiling each piece until it glows.

After drawing a plan and selecting the wood for a project, Jordan cuts out the pieces and does a 'test assembly.

After adjusting for a perfect fit, he sands the pieces and assembles with glue or pegs. He prefers an oil finish to stain or lacquer.

He uses oak, walnut or cherry to make a shapely comb with a large, turned handle; the "teeth" are made of padouk, an African wood. The pieces are glued together and sanded "until they fit like a cork in a bottle," said Lenore Jordan. A matching mirnough for a lathe, Jordan does - ror is made of small squares o wood cut the same size and set in diagonally. A covered chess board is made by alternating squares of oak and another hard wood. His small clam-shaped jewelry box opens and closes on a wood hinge.

The woodworker also likes to decorate surfaces with an inlay (a design set in a recessed area). He once used dental amalgam for stars in the top of a small box.

He also decorates boxes with a rounded, raised pattern called intarsia Each niece of wood that makes up the pattern is cut, rounded off on top by fine-sanding and glued down. The look is the reverse of an inlay.

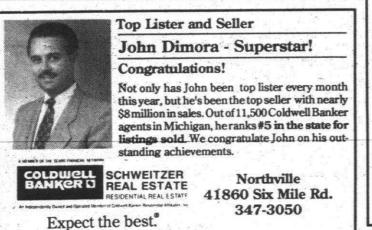

Jordan, a former South Lyon High School teacher, designs many of his projects. Other ideas come from woodworking magazines or from the stores that sell exotic woods: Wood Craft, Redford Township; Shopsmith, Canton; Woodworker's Store, Royal Oak; and Armstrong Millworks, Highland.

If he had more space, Jordan probably would make furniture and other big pieces.

A preview will take place 5-9 p.m. Friday, Oct. 30. There is a $5 admission charge.

"You have a lot of interest because it's an art form at the turn of the century," Abbott said in an interview at his Clarkston home. Carousel art collector Joseph Orlando of Livonia attended last year's auction. He has collected 10 horses over the last 10 years, including a Herschell-Spillman, Dentzel and Dare.

"I think of it as a big sculpture, a big piece of artwork. A lot of people think it's funny when they see one in someone's kitchen but it's like a painting, you can put it anywhere," Orlando said.

"Some of the carousel animals are prettier than others. It's like a painting: The beauty is in the eye of the beholder.

ectors. The Illions Coney Island style horse waits zebra, a cat and goats take center stage at the alongside a 1913 Dentzel topknot jumper horse, and a horse and a goat from the Boblo merry-go-round.

"They get smaller and plainer as they go in. This one was from the third row," Abbott said, pointing to the topknot.

The largest outside row animals, elaborate ly carved and decorated, off park machines command the highest prices, while smaller figures off portable country fair machines exact less

As Abbott opens one last door, a garage full of carousel animals come to life. A proud rooster in a trot catches a glimpse of visitors out of the corner of his glass eye. A cute little German horse fools the outsider into thinking that his mane moved, whisked by the wind.

The golden age of the carousel dates from 1890 to 1925, when a handful of European woodcarvers migrated to America in search of their dreams. Unable to find work in the furniture or architectural industry, they joined the lucrative amusement business, carving carousels

The average carousel horse consists of about 40 basswood and poplar pieces crafted try were primarily carved by masters Marcus in one of three styles: Coney Island, flamboyant with New York glitz; Philadelphia, realistic; and Country or County Fair, smaller and portable

The idea behind the 19th century American carousel wasn't new. In A.D. 500, Spanish crusaders played a similar game on their way across Europe. By the 1700s, the French invented "carousel," a competition where knights on wooden horses threw lances through golden rings.

At the turn of this century, 2,500 to 6,000 carousels whirled to the music of the band or gan; approximately 130 remain after fire floods and neglect took their toll. Even fewer carousels survive in Michigan. They are at the Henry Ford Museum at Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Historical Crossroads Village in Flint, the Grand Rapids Museum and Auto World in Lansing.

"A respectable indicator of their art value is that museums are starting to take an interest in them.

The fact that prominent art auction houses have gotten into the picture in the last three years serves as yet another indicator of the artistic and historical value of carousel art. While enthusiasts argue about whether figures are fine art or folk art, Sotheby's and Christie's East in New York have placed carousel animals on the auction block.

"Many authorities in the field consider

People from all walks of life fall for the sound and magic of the carousel. Abbott sold one horse to the late singer/actor Rick Nelson, and two horses to actor Charles Bronson.

"A female mail carrier buys one like clockvork every 18 to 24 months and a female draftsperson, one a year. One fellow had a house built to showcase 40 carousel horses and there are plenty of stories I could tell about the eccentrics, too," Abbott said.

"I think a lot of women buy them for nostalgia. The men buy them as a sculpture and because they're a heck of an investment."

Many carousel art collectors decorate their mes with the animals.

Home for this colorful ly carved carousel horse, now in the Abbott collection, was once the merry-goround on Boblo Island in the Detroit River.

Involve lawyer before signing purchase agreement

BY DOUG FUNKE

Good lawyers prevent problems from arising. That's why you should consider hiring legal representation when buying or selling a "The cost of an attorney in relation to the cost of the house is small," said Charlotte L. Wirth, a Redford lawyer. "It might seem like a lot at the time for people buying their first house, but if an attorney can find an error, it might save thousands of dollars."

When you buy a house, 95 percent of the time you aren't going to have a problem," said Tom Hardy, a Birmingham lawyer. "Everything will go through, people will be happy. What you're really looking out for is that 5 percent. The big thing today is disclosure of defects."

Even real estate sales professionals now recommend that buyers connect with lawyers early in the process.

"If an agent would counsel with a buyer and say, 'You don't need an attorney,' that would be a red flag," said Doug Stranahan, president of Century 21 Great Lakes, the franchising arm of the national sales firm.

"I've been in the business since 1976 in a number of capacities agent, manager, trainer and now administrator," he said. "I have always taken the posi tion that you provide counsel to buyers, make sure they understand that they're in a contractdriven transaction and should have an attorney review it," Stranahan said.

Buyers with any doubts about the process should hire a lawyer, said Gil Holliday III, an associate broker and president of the South Oakland County Board of Real-"We recommend them up front.

process without fear of in quate legal representation," he said.

Attorney costs in a real esta transaction can vary by several hundred dollars depending whether a lawyer just reviews documents in advance or actually attends a closing. So it pays to ask what you'll get for your money.

"Things I want to look at (for buyers) is the purchase offer, make sure that title work is correct," Wirth said. "I generally look at the closing package to make sure numbers are correct." For sellers without a real estate agent, Wirth would prepare the deed, order title work and draft closing documents.

This is a good example of why a careful draftsperson will include a provision with respect to the planting of flowers and shrubs in a condominium project. While most co-owners feel that they have a right to plant shrubs or floforcing that re- wers in front of their home, there quirement. is always a problem of aesthetic

3 named at R-G

Three appointments have been made at Ramco-Gershenson, a commercial real estate and property management company in Southfield.

Ed Eickhoff has been named vice president of leasing. In that capacity, he will oversee all leasing activities including predevelopment, merchandising of new and existing properties and acquisiitions, and lease administration.

Eickhoff joined the company in 1986 as a leasing agent. In 1990 he was named assistant director of leasing, and in 1992 Eickhoff was named director of leasing. Cloria Wallick was appointed director of risk management and land administration. She will oversee risk management functions and work on establishing relations with lending institutions. With Ramco for more than 15 years, she has been an administrator in the financial and insurance areas and was instrumental in setting up the company's risk management department. Katherine Ward-Darin was promoted from retail leasing specialist to assistant director of leasing. She will assist leasing agents in initial phases of tenant negotiations and coordinate tenant leasing activity with the construction department. She will also serve on the Michigan committee of the International Council of Shopping Centers. She joined the company in 1987 as retail leasing specialist.

Builders seeking housing president

■ While builder associations realize there will be no miracle cure for the housing industry, they believe that staying the course with President Bush is more prudent than gambling on either Bill Clinton or H. Ross Perot.

BY GERALD FRAWLEY STAFF WRITER

Forget the polls, think about the economy. If the home building and construction industry has its way, it's President George Bush who will win the White House come Nov. 3, not Governor Bill Clinton or independent H. Ross Perot.

Lynn Egbert, executive vice president for government affairs of the Michigan Association of Home Builders, said MAHB endorses Bush because the association feels he will get the country moving again.

"What's good for the economy is good for builders," he said.

"We believe he believes the private sector, the business sector, will provide jobs and get the economy moving again.

"The other candidates have not shown that," he said.

This year's election features a fundamental difference, he said. Bush's philosophy is that if left to its own, the private sector will drive the economy.

Clinton's philosophy is that government can drive the economy forward through legislation, he said. The biggest knock against Clinton is his proposal to raise taxes. Any tax increase, Egbert said, is contrary to the building industry's best interests.

As for the independent candidate, Egbert said Perot's proposals are too drastic and not likely to encourage any building.

"There probably are a lot of builders who are leaning toward Perot," he said, but added such an inclination is based more on dissatisfaction with the current economy than any real proposals favoring the building industry. Bush wins on every criteria the MAHB uses to evaluate a candidate, Egbert continued. It is an economy under Bush that will boost housing starts and sales, ease the credit crunch, help first-buyers, encourage the multi-housing industry, balance jobs against the environment and protect the mortgage interest deduction.

The Construction Association of Michigan, likewise, has endorsed George Bush.

Fred Gee, CAM government affairs committee chairman, said after 10 months of evaluating legislative issues, it was determined Bush and the Republican Party best serve the industry interests.

"It's been a policy of the association to basically support those candidates that have a record of support for business in general or the construction industry in particular," he said. "The safest bet is Bush," Gee said.

"Whatever taxes or encumbrances are placed on the economy is eventually bad for the industry," he said. "George Bush best represents that philosophy."

Gee said while some of Clinton's proposals show promise — plans to rebuild the infrastructure, for example — the candidate has been short on details.

"Clinton does a lot of talking, but he hasn't come out with any real plans to do it," he said.

Perot was not selected for the same reason, he said.

Egbert of MAHB said the home builders endorsement has nothing to do with party affiliation. "Builders are conservative; George Bush is conservative."

Even in those instances where Bush and Clinton share views favorable to the building industry, Egbert said the president is the better choice.

"(Bush) was the first one out of the block."

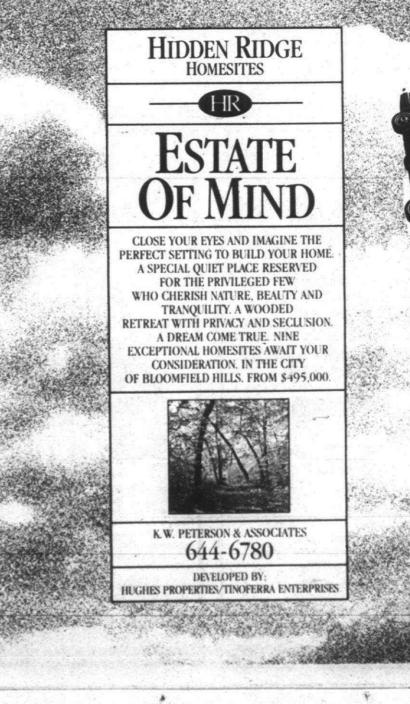

Egbert points to Bush proposal earlier this year allowing a $5,000 tax credit for first-time homebuyers. Bush also pushed for a law allowing people to tap into Individual Retirement Accounts (either the buyers themselves or a buyer's parents) to make down payments.

Those proposals, which were never approved by the U.S. Congress, would have been a big help to the industry, Egbert said.

Impressive structures: AIA Michigan jury was impressed by Harley Ellington Pierce Yee's Resurrection Cemetery Mausoleum and Chapel in Clinton Towship.

'Sense of presence' marks winners

Architectural firms here snapped up four of the six Honor Awards announced this year by the American Institute of Architects Michigan, a professional association.

Victor Saroki & Associates of Birmingham won recognition for the Merrill Park Townhomes in Birmingham. Harley Ellington Pierce Yee Associates of Southfield was honored for a mausoleum and chapel at Resurrection Cemetery in Clinton Township.

Luckenbach/Ziegelman and Partners of Birmingham was selected for the Chester Street parking structure in that community. Giffels Associates of Southfield was cited for an Amoco research and development facility in Alpharetta, Ga.

"Each jury is different based upon personalities and background," said Art Smith, a Southfield architect and design award chairman.

"Typically, for any award program they're looking for architecture with a sense of presence, responsiveness to its surroundings and program that seems to meet the client's needs and objectives.

"It's a fairly prestigious honor," Smith added. "It's received with a lot of admiration, I believe, within the profession. If you win an award, it's an opportunity to boast a little bit."

■ Merrill Park Townhomes — Seven attached singlefamily residences create the atmosphere of a street of row houses.

Each unit has a different combination of bay shape, brick detailing and stone accents. The project conveys variety, harmony and character of a traditional urban streetscape.

The jury commented, "Use of quality materials and successful recollection of pleasant and familiar residential architecture creates a delightful model for urban housing."

Housing from page 1F

Egbert also said many of Clin-ton's proposals for Federal Housing Administration reform have already been proposed by Housing and Urban Development secretary Jack Kemp, who was appointed by George Bush.

Similarities

According to the candidates election committees, both candi dates oppose changes to the mortgage interest deduction allowing nomeowner tax deductions.

Both candidates also support efforts to encourage lenders to make financing more accessible and ease regulatory bias against real estate loans. Clinton has proposed a network of development banks to lend in depressed areas.

Both candidates also favor easing passive loss rules for real estate professionals.

On Federal Housing Adminis tration loans, Bush favors reforms to strengthen FHA's financial strength and expand loan unlerwriting to the multi-housing industry; Clinton has proposed raising FHA mortgage insurance cap to 95 percent of an area's median price.

Both candidates have also stressed a need to balance eco- said. "The bottom line is we ennomic growth with environmental concerns.

of the three — Bush, Clinton or Perot — will will easily fix anything," he said., "People are not zeroing in on this. If he were to win, Clinton would quickly discover that running the U.S. government is not the same as running a state. Ditto for Perot.

"I don't think (Perot) understands the complexities of working in Washington." Despite his success in business, Perot has never had to deal with an inflexible U.S. Congress.

"Bush has tried to accomplish worthwhile goals, but his hands have been tied by Congress," Gee dorsed him because we agree with his thinking."

Parents need fair hand for disciplining

As a child I can still remember the firm voices of both my parents Ethel and Major Carter, saying to me after I did something inappropriate, "Now you'll have to be punished." The word punish scared me more than the actual punishment. Feeling sorry for myself, not necessarily for my actions, I would imagine myself being locked in a basement with not a bag of cookies to call my own. Then I would think about how thirsty I would get.

However, as a child my ability to overdramatize a situation, as most young children often do, certainly didn't result in my loving parents actually doing such a horrible thing to me or my four sisters.

Usually, the punishment was a swift spanking during my early years, and later during adolescence throughout my teens withholding of privileges. This would also be accompanied by consistently long, long lectures, which at this age defined punishment.

Parents today through parent education, TV, radio, newspaper media, publications and handson experience should recognize that spanking is considered an appropriate self-servicing method of discipline. Spanking does indeed temporarily stop the undesirable behavior, but what does is teach the child? To be physically subjected to adult temperament and control?

All dressed up: Exhibit focuses on first ladies

■ When it comes to style, some of the most closely scrutinized are the country's first ladies. Often what they wear is noticed more than what they do while living at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. Now, there's an exhibit of what they wore for those all important inaugural balls.

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

Presidents have come and gone through the years, and the same can be said of fashions.

That's evident from looking at the new Plymouth Historical Museum exhibit, "The First Ladies of Fashion." The exhibit, which will continue through late January, includes 14 reproductions of inaugural ballgowns commissioned by the Republican Party in the early 1970s. "It's a wonderful exhibit," said Donna Keough, exhibits chairwoman for the Plymouth Historical Society, which operates the museum. "We're very lucky to have it."

The gowns were commissioned by the GOP, but wives of Democratic presidents are represented along with their Republican counterparts.

"We're doing our best to stay above it all," Keough said of partisan politics. The ballgown collection belongs to the Frankenmuth Historical Museum's Joan Deer Collection. Fabrics and designs were selected to be as close to the originals as possible, and are based on the original gowns at the Smithsonian Institution.

First Ladies represented in the local exhibit are: Martha Washington; Dolly Madison; Louisa Adams; Sarah Polk; Abigail Fillmore; Julia Grant; Helen Taft; Florence Harding; Grace Coolidge; Lou Hoover; Eleanor Roosevelt; Lady Bird Johnson; Patricia Nixon; and Rosalyn Carter. The exhibit's gowns cover the time span from 1789 to 1980.

Dr. Weldon Petz, a retired educator and supporter of the Plymouth Historical Museum, and his wife are friends of the two men who coordinated design and research for the project. Petz had mentioned that the gowns were available for an exhibit.

"We thought it would be very appropriate. They're just wonderful," Keough said. She's found it interesting "to see the change in fashion over all these years. It gives you an idea of the progression of fashion."

The two Frankenmuth men who coordinated the project did a great deal of sketching at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.; photography of the original First Ladies gowns there wasn't allowed, so they had to rely on such sketches, Keough said.

Canoelyweds: Two months after they married, Valerie and Verleen Kruger took the honeymoon of lifetime with their twoyear, ninemonth twocontinent canoe trip.

Canoeists pursue dream on 21,000-mile journey

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

If a husband ever wanted to give his new wife a honeymoon to remember, Verleen Kruger hit the jackpot. Two months after they married, the couple set off on the trip of a lifetime — from the top to the bottom of the western hemisphere in a canoe.

Labeled "canoe-lyweds" by journalists covering their trip, the Krugers started their trek in May 1986 at Tuktoyaktuk on the edge of the Beaufort Sea in Canada's Northwest Territories and ended two years and nine months later in March 1989 at Cape Horn Island at the tip of South America.

"There was never a time I wanted to quit," Valerie said. "There were times I wanted it to end and times I didn't think I could go on, but I never wanted to quit.

"I had gone on this trip to push my horizons; I had gone to have the courage to face change, so it was more than an adventure or a cance trip."

The Krugers opened the 29th season of Livonia Town Hall Oct. 21 with a two-hour presentation on the two-continent canoe expedition, entertaining the audience with stories and slides of their trip. But the presentation went beyond the standard travelogue, since much of the tale evolved from the squares of quilt made with material Valerie collected during the trip.

Colorful expression

"One of the difficult portions of this trip was leaving home," Valerie said. " I was leaving so much behind that I wondered how I would express myself, so I began collecting fabric."

With the help of a quilting group, Valerie fashioned three quilts, one depicting a map of the western hemisphere and the route the canoeists took. The second is made of bright colored fabric from Caribbean countries and so named the Caribbean quilt. The third is the story quilt, fashioned from tradition quilt squares, each depicting a portion of the trip.

The bear claw square in the upper right cornerreminds the Krugers of their encounter with a bear along the Mackenzie River. Valerie had decided to put an apple in her sleeping bag for a late night snack, but a bear decided he wanted it, too. Her screaming sent the bear running, pursued by Verleen who wanted a photograph.

leen who wanted a photograph. "It was bare chasing bear," Valerie quipped. "Verleen was so excited about getting a picture, he didn't bother to put his pants on."

And rest assured the "bare" got a picture of the bear, which he proudly displayed during the slide presentation.

While Valerie kept journals, 37 in all, of the trip, Verleen documented it on film. His slide collection numbers 35,000 of which Town Hall guests saw a mere 280.

Residents of Lansing, the Krugers were designated citizen ambassadors for the state by then Gov. James Blanchard, did water quality tests for their

St. Maurice concert attracts contemporary singing groups

BY ARLENE FUNKE SPECIAL WRITEB

Johanne Hepp and the members of her singing ensemble want audiences to "feel the music inside. Hepp, a Canton resident, is co-director of the contemporary ensemble at St. Ives Catholic Church in Southfield.

On Sunday, the St. Ives group will be one of several contemporary church groups performing in concert at St. Maurice Catholic Church in Livonia. "We want people to tap into their own personal feelings," said Hepp, 25, a middle school teacher. "It can be whatever you want it to be." Eight contemporary music groups will be represented at the concert, which begins at 3 p.m. St. Maurice is at 32765 Lyndon, north of the I-96 freeway service drive and east of Farmington Road. Tickets, available at the door, are $3 each or $6 per family.

The St. Maurice contemporary ensemble is hosting the concert. The other participating groups include the Good News Singers of St. Sebastian Church, Dearborn; Restore the Glory, St. Isadore, Clinton Township; St. Cyril Folk Group, Taylor; Contemporary Singers of St. Mary of Redford Church, Detroit

Others are the Psalm 150 Ensemble Jazz Instrumental Group, and the Levitical Singers of Rosedale Park Baptist, Detroit

"We really believe in contemporary music," said Joe Podorsek of Livonia, director of the St. Maurice ensemble. "We believe music is an important part of the liturgy."

Co-sponsoring the concert is the Association of Contemporary Liturgical Musicians. The Royal Oak-based group promotes the use of contemporary religious music

This style of music often uses less traditional instrumentation, such as guitars; vibraphones, drums and synthesizers. Lyrics are presented with a fresh interpretation.

The concert hopes to "turn people on to unusual music," said Podorsek, owner of a Redford vacuum cleaner shop. "It promotes inspiration and family values

Each group will present at least three songs, one of which is to have a Christmas or Advent theme. The St. Maurice ensemble, which numbers around 20 people, will present a rock-and-roll, bluesy song, the likes of which are "not often heard in a Catholic church," Podorsek said.

At St. Ives, Hepp shares directorial duties with Dawn Cibor of Southfield. During the concert, the 12-member group will sing a contemporary interpretation of "Silent Night," Hepp said.

"It's very simple and serene, something you can really feel inside," Hepp said.

Hepp, band director at Levey Middle School in Southfield, has belonged to the St. Ives contemporary group for around six years and has been its leader for more than three years. She plays the flute. Hepp's husband Chris, a designer for a computer company, is a bass player and also belongs to the ensemble

Other selections will include a bright, upbeat piece called "Lift Up Your Hearts," and a song about forgiveness, called "Change Our Hearts." The flute will be prominently featured during a piece called "Sing, Sing a New Song."

The Hepps, parents of an infant son, believe their music ministry has strengthened their marriage. Music can be a powerful evangelizing force, ac cording to Hepp. When people join the church because of its music program, "that's just the greatest," Hepp said.

The reproductions are very close to the originals, and visitors can see them at the Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main, rather than having to travel to the nation's capital. (Museum hours are 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2-5 p.m. Sunday.)

Gowns include a red velvet style, representative of one worn by Grace Coolidge in the 1920s. A beaded gown, representative of one made in the Philippines for Helen Taft, is also featured.

The political theme at the museum will continue through the holiday season, with members of the Trailwood Garden Club planning to decorate Christmas trees with items based on different eras. Presidencies of George Washington, Millard Fillmore, Ulysses S. Grant, Warren G. Harding and Franklin Deland Roosevelt will be highlighted.

Political memorabilia displayed isn't limited to those presidencies, but represents many eras, Keough said. Other museum mannequins are dressed in a variety of period clothing styles. Several antique coverlets are dis- mation, call 455-8940.

before the flood arrived and ended up eating, sleeping and living in the canoes for 14 days and nights because they couldn't find the edge of the river.

There was even a close brush with tragedy when Valerie's canoe capsized in the surf and she hit her head. A CAT scan showed no adverse effects and the Krugers continued on, saving the worse for last, where the Pacific and Atlan tic oceans come together.

Land's end

"Our last campsite was on the windswept islands before we made the six-mile crossing to Cape Horn Island," Verleen said. 'Cape Horn isn't that impressive unless you've paddle 21,000 miles to get there.'

'As soon as we made it to Cape Horn, the wind died down, Valerie added. "We made it the last five miles and the wind changed to a gale force wind." And on March 1, 1989, the Michigan flag flew over Cape Horn Island. The trip was more than an ad venture for the Krugers. Verleen found that "all things are possible with the help of God. "Sometimes I didn't think it was possible and we needed a miracle," he said. "Now, I look back and think the best is yet to For Valerie it was a learning ex-

University.

The trip was a cold one, so much so that while crossing Keweenaw Bay, the couple were rozen into their 17-foot canoes, which Verleen had designed. The canoes were "ultimate high tech," designed so that they could be hooked together like a catamaran

They became home for the ad venture that included breaking the British Royal Air Force record for paddling from the headwaters to the end of the Mississippi River in 19 days, no small feat considering Valerie is 40 and Verleen is 70

"We had a living room with wide open space and a kitchen that changed with every meal,' Valerie said. "We also had the spirit."

Verleen estimates that they each did 16 million paddle strokes during the trip. Their longest crossing came while island hopping in the Caribbean. It took 55 hours to paddle 90 miles. The most memorable part of the trip for Valerie also happened in the Caribbean at Black River Harbor.

Pilgrim's journey

"The best part was finding land and seeing it take shape," Valerie said. "As we got closer, I saw a native woman, waving to us. And as we got even closer, she wadded out and pulled us in. She didn't know who we were: she hadn't listened to WJR, hadn't read a newspaper, but she told us 'You're on a pilgrim's journey.'

And the "pilgrims" experienced a lot. While traversing the South American continent, Verleen was attacked by killer bees, an episode that was written up in a February 1990 edition of the National Enquirer

"I pinched one in my shirt and killed it and they swarmed all over me," he told the audience. "By the time I got into the tent, I had a half dozen stings."

Verleen's canoe design proved a Godsend when they hit the worst flooding in 100 years in Paraguay. They arrived in Asuncion the day

Mary Coram doesn't find her faith weakened by her visits to the Plymouth Court nursing center. In fact, spending time with the nursing home residents strengthens her faith. "They teach me a lot," said Coram, 29, of Plymouth. "They still know and trust in him, through everything they've been through. No matter what you go through, God is always going to be there for you.

"They're a blessing to me. When you see their faith and their testimonies," it's tremendously rewarding.

She's a member of Praise Chapel Church of God in Plymouth, and has led Bible study sessions at Plymouth Court each Wednesday morning since December 1991. Coram also eads a Friday Bible study each week at West Trail Nursing Home in Plymouth.

She's been leading Bible study at that nursing home for some time, and decided to look into volunteering at Plymouth Court as well. A woman from her church works at Plymouth Court, so Coram knew something about the acility's needs

"The Holy Spirit said 'Go.' The Holy Spirit gave me the conviction to come and do the Lord's work in any way I can." She heard that message one day when she was at home washng dishes Coram's children often accompany her on her visits. Son Raymond Charles is 19 months old. Daughter Angela Rose, almost 5, recently began kindergarten at Smith Elementary School in Plymouth; she comes to Plymouth Court when she's not in school.

"It's neat," Coram said of the interaction between the youngsters and the residents. "It orings back memories, their grandchildren, their upbringing. They watch over them."

Barb Alchalabi, activities director at Plymouth Court, appreciates Coram's contribu-"If it's out of tune, it doesn't matter," she tions. "Mary is wonderful," she said. "She always has a positive inspirational word to give to the residents. We have so many residents who request to come down every Wednesday for this

Other area churches also have volunteers who visit the center regularly. Congregations involved include: St. Kenneth's Catholic Church in Plymouth Township; Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church in Plymouth; theran Church of Plymouth Township.

MORAL PERSPECTIVES -----old forms often do not fit the new realities. 1 Si The church I serve which has a structure designed to maintain the past. No matter how REV. DAVID much we strive STRONG for new directions, the past structures of committees, rules and procedures drag us back. These rules and procedures are not without purpose. Remember what a wonder the assembly line was in the days of Henry Ford? I worked on the assembly line and I marveled at the way it produced cars. Parts dropped down from the ceiling. People worked from below, above and on the floor.

Even then, we workers knew came to quality. If you didn't get the screw or bolt all the way in, who cared, it was-good enough. Times have changed and so has the way cars are most effectively made. I realize that in my own work life, if we do not revise the structure of the church we will fail to attract and hold new ideas and new people. It seems at times that we hardly can get anything done that addresses the future needs.

In a recent book, "The End of the Cold War," by Michael Hogan, an essay by Harvard University history professor Ernest May makes my spine shiver.

May takes us to Washington toview the buildings that house the government. Look at where all the people in our government are working and you will understand what has happened to Washington.

Our world is Dominating force working in it. Even larger is the CIA building just outside town with more office floor space than the Pentagon. Even larger are the buildings that house the National Security Agency. Add to this the Department of Energy which is primarily managing the nuclear weapons of our nation. These huge complexes dominate our nation's government and effectively block progress on domestic needs. Our nation's defense agencies employ almost two-thirds of all federal workers. This is the structure in which the President of the United States works.

According to May, the President has little influence over this huge body of people in all these massive buildings.

May describes a government which is oriented toward one theme: the Cold War. It has so that all was not right when it dominated our government's at- candidates will hardly dare to adtention for so long May believes dress this issue. I compare it with the question of how we in a local church can change our structure to be relevant to our goals and visions.

There are rules, laws, books of procedure. There are committees and persons convinced that they are doing what is best for the organization

His argument is that while we as true. The challenge to our narisked nuclear war, it was necessary to win the cold war.

I cannot agree with this logic particularly as I remember the war in Vietnam. Whether we agree or not, the issue is how we will address this dominant emphasis in our federal government.

Family Issues from page 1H

In many cases this often results in abusive behavior on the part of the adult, and later the child through negative role modeling. Does it teach a child self-control or simply to obey out of fear?

A few questions

In order to promote as well as practice positive methods of guidance and discipline, adults must recognize that promoting positive self-esteem in children is key. Adults must examine themselves first. Ask yourself these questions

Do I have good self esteem? Do I feel good about myself as well as trust my decision-making ability?

Do I exhibited confidence and know why people like/respect me?

Self-esteem is developed through or closely related to a person's assessment of how he/she measures up to what other people expect. Adults should examine their expectations of young children and youth in such a way that is developmentally age appropriate.

If adult expectations are unrealistic and not age/stage appropriate, it is easy for a child to feel like they can't measure up. On the other hand, realistic expectations help a child to feel good about themselves and experience success.

According to Family Focus, a series of bulletins through Cooperative Extension Services of Michigan State University, run a check on your current expectations. Ask yourself these questions:

Why do I have this expectation? Where did it come from? Is it based on my wishes or my child's needs? Does it realistically fit this particular child - at this age with his or her temperament and background?

What purpose does it serve anyway?

Next, you should check your expectations for fairness. Revise your expectations as needed. Example: an eight-year-old child keeping his or her room clean AT ALL TIMES, with everything in place. Result: the child often hides clothes under the bed, in the closet, makes an untidy bed as well as leaves candy wrappers hidden throughout the room. The child gets scolded and privileges withheld often.

Most 8-year-olds are energetic and afraid that they'll miss something if they are bogged down cleaning and putting everything in perfect order. Children at this age are more interested in making friends, special clubs, secret code words and handshakes. They still need gentle reminders and praise whenever they do clean their room to the best of their ability.

Be realistic

Roadblocks to realistic expectations sometimes prevent us from being fair when disciplining or guiding children. We as adults may want our children to be that someone we want to be, living out our unfulfilled dreams and ambitions. Perhaps because you couldn't spend the night over a friend's house as a child, you feel it is an unnecessary experience.

We have to look at each child as a unique individual as it relates to promoting good self-esteem and discipline. Children should be given attention and praised when they do make strides and accomplishments. Children need reassurance and support not constant criticism, shame or ridicule. If a child's behavior is inappropriate, a positive disciplinary strategy would be to directly tell the child the appropriate behavior expected and assist in helping them to find alternative methods to responding in a more appropriate positive way.

Get point across

Guidance and discipline is teaching and helping children to develop self-control and good selfesteem. In addition, we must remember to promote keeping the self-esteem intact. What good is getting your point across, or even child to obey, if the result is a child feeling inadequate, silly, stupid or afraid to explore, moreover destroying that inner strength to try and make choices?

Positive guidance/discipline also includes avoiding the judg-ment pitfall. Example: a child five years old runs out in street to get ball and the adult starts to yell and scream at the child, using words such as you and stupid. First, name calling can do irreparable harm to a child's self-esteem.

sages as it points a finger and im-plies judgment. "I" messages are more appropriate. It directs the response to the behavior only not to the person. Example: "I'm so very angry. I've told you about the danger of running into the street."

Parents, remember guidance and discipline are long term. Strategies used should be consistent, developmental and again fair. Show love and support. After disciplining move on, show forgiveness not repetition or prolonged
