Morton Taylor paving planned

Morton Taylor Road in Canton is slated for improvements in 1995. The work, which could be a widening to four lanes, would relieve the traffic congestion on Lilley and Sheldon roads.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Morton Taylor Road, from Warren to Ford, is on Wayne County's schedule for paving in 1995 to relieve traffic volume and congestion on Lilley and Sheldon roads.

"What we're trying to do now is do it in a way to preserve a ribbon of trees along the middle there," said Wayne County Commissioner Bryan Amann, who confirmed the planned extension of Morton Taylor.

Amann is thinking that perhaps a four-lane boulevard could be built from Warren to Ford to save the trees that stand in the middle of the property. "Some trees would have to go for curb and gutter," he said.

The Wayne County project would be financed with 80 percent federal money and 20 percent county money. "It is unlikely they can get federal funds to do a boulevard," said Tom Casari, Canton Township engineer. Boulevards are considerably more expensive to build.

"We're in a preliminary stage to see if the county is interested in a plan to save some trees," said Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack.

Engineering plans will be drafted in 1994. And it's expected the plans will call for a two-lane road. Amann said he believes the initial plans also call for turning lanes. Right-of-way for the planned roadway has already been obtained.

"We understand the need to do it," Casari said.

Amann said plans for Morton Taylor were expected long into the future. But Sheldon Road, in particular, has become a problem. "We've got a real

Arnold Schwarzenegger would be proud of the young athletes at New Morning School. Members of the school's Running and Walking Club are hardly among the sedentary set he's trying to reach with his message of physical fitness and good health.

Several days a week after school, more than two dozen students and 10 or more adults head out together for a two-and-a-half mile walk and run through fields and along a bike path near the Plymouth Township school. In four spring and fall sessions of eight weeks, the club has logged more than 800 miles.

Change sought for road

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

First things first.

Before northwest Canton homeowners officially submit their request to Wayne County to designate 3.25 miles of roads in their rural area as natural beauty roads, they have another request.

"We needed to clear up Joy Road as a primary road," said Mike Olin, president of the Northwest Canton Homeowners Association, which will make the official designation request.

But according to state natural beauty road laws, the designation cannot be made on a county primary road. That's what Joy Road is. Canton Township officials have already sent a letter to Wayne County requesting that Joy be declassified as a primary road. Plymouth Township — Joy Road serves as the border between the townships — officials are expected to do the same.

"The decision is an entirely noncontroversial thing," said Wayne County Commissioner Bryan Amann who is working with the homeowners to get the designation.

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack agreed. "It really doesn't affect the road at all."

Once the road has been declassified, the homeowners will send in their extensive data on the area that boasts natural vegetation, wildflowers, tree canopies and interesting terrain.

"We decided we are submitting all four roads in one package," Olin said.

The area targeted for designation — it would be a first for Wayne County — includes Napier Road, from Ann Arbor Road, south to Warren; Joy from Ann Arbor Road to Ridge; Ridge from Joy toward Warren; and Gyde going east from Ridge. Canton, Plymouth and Superior townships have given their support to homeowners' efforts. Superior shares the Napier Road boundary.

Homeowners presented their case for the designation to Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara in October. "I really commend what you have done. And I think we would like to help you," McNamara told homeowners.

The designation can be done as an executive order out of McNamara's office, Amann said. "The way we have discussed it, we won't make it a county commission thing," he said. "Maybe we will have the county commission adopt the county executive order."

The primary intent of natural beauty road designation is to preserve the native vegetation and scenic beauty. Yet the designation cannot prevent development. The designation is allowed under state law. Unlike Oakland County, Wayne County does not have a natural beauty ordinance.

CANTON CONNECTION

Bake sale

The Canton Place Apartments for Seniors will host a bake sale and lunch 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4. The public is invited.

Residents are baking goodies for the holidays and thought this would be a perfect time to sell their wares. All proceeds will go to the Resident Association to which all residents belong.

Lunch will be available as well, including hot dogs, chips and soda. The sale and lunch will be in the lobby and community room of the apartments on the southwest corner of Ford and Sheldon roads.

Santa on wheels

The Canton Chamber of Commerce retail committee is sponsoring a Santa on Wheels program this holiday season to remind Canton residents and those from surrounding communities that Canton is the best place to shop.

Santa will be stationed in a recreation vehicle in the parking lots of a number of shopping centers in Canton. Photos with Santa will be available. The chamber's business directory also will be passed out free of charge.

Santa will be at Harvard Square, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and F&M Plaza, 2-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4. On Sunday, Dec. 5, he will be at Coventry Commons, 1-3 p.m. Santa will be at Canton Corners, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Golden Gate, 2-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 18. On Sunday, Dec. 19, Santa will be at Newtowne (Kmart) 1-3 p.m.

Open house

Santa Claus will visit Keller & Stein Florist and Greenhouse 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 4-5, when you can have a free picture taken with St. Nick.

Keller & Stein is also sponsoring an open house Friday through Sunday, Dec. 3-5, at 42158 Michigan Ave. The public is invited to stop by for a cup of hot cider and take a peek at Christmas displays and ideas.

Canton police investigate vandalism at local home

BY JILL HALPIN
STAFF WRITER

Canton Township police are investigating the recent vandalism of a Sunflower subdivision home and say it may be gang-related.

The owners of the home, located on Bartlett Drive, awoke on Nov. 21 to find their home, truck and surrounding areas covered with blue, orange and yellow spray paint. In addition to obscenities, vandals signed their artwork with the initials "ICP," which stand for "Inner City Posse," the homeowner said.

'This is horrifying. Someone told us that this 'ICP' is a gang out of Detroit. This is like something that would happpen in Detroit,' said the resident, who asked not to be identified. She believes that it may be a case of local kids emulating gangs from the city.

Although Canton police said they are not familiar with the initials "ICP," they will continue to investigate ties. "We view any spray painting of gang graffiti as a serious incident. We don't view any of this malicious destruction of property as 'copycat crimes,'" said Tammie Colling, Canton Township police community relations officer.

The homeowners, who moved to Canton five years ago from New Jersey, discovered the destruction to their property when they looked outside to check the weather at approximately 11 in the morning. They are estimating that the vandalism occurred sometime after 2 a.m. on Sunday.

"We are shocked. I have never heard of anything like this happening in Canton. They talk about New Jersey, but things like this never happened there," said the resident.

Skaters glide along to success

Carrie Wolak, junior skater from Livonia, Jennifer Katulski, novice skater from Livonia, and Richard Brown, pair skater from Canton along with partner Tara Esshaki will compete at the Midwestern Championships in Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 8-11.

The skaters won third, third, and second places, respectively, after final round original and technical programs. More than 525 skaters from seven states participated at the Regional Competition held at the Carmel, Ind., Skadium from Oct. 30 through Nov. 6.

The next competition is the National Championships at Cobo Hall and Joe Louis Arena in Detroit Jan. 1-4.

The Plymouth Figure Skating Club sent 21 skaters to this year's Regional Competition with five out of the 22 making it to final rounds.

Wolak and Katulski are coached by Teresa Romano McKendry and Gerry Williams. Wolak is a repeating 1993 Regional and Midwestern Champion and National Competitor.

■ Final Rounds finishers: fifth, Erin Sutton, Northville; fourth, Katie Doyle, Northville; eighth, Janell Feiler, Canton.

Thai restaurant coming to township

Canton Township Board members voted Nov. 23 to approve a request for a Class C liquor license from Ladavalaya Sripinyo, owner of the Thai-Bistro restaurant. The restaurant will be located at 45620 Ford Road between Canton Center Road and Beck Road in the Kennedy Plaza Phase Two Shopping Center.

"We are very excited and pleased. This will be the first Thai restaurant in the Plymouth-Canton area," said Sripinyo, a nurse at Cottage Hospital in Grosse Pointe. Sripinyo came to the U.S. more than 25 years ago. The Thai-Bistro will be her first venture into the restaurant business.

The full-service restaurant will serve a variety of ethnic Thai dishes as well as some American favorites. The restaurant is scheduled to open in January 1994.

TREATING THE PAIN OF ARTHRITIS

Ideally, treatment of inflammation should end the pain that accompanies arthritis. Experience shows that drugs, heat, injections and physical therapy rarely work that well.

Physicians treating a joint condition include pain medication in their plan. However doctors are forced to be as careful with their choice for analgesia as they are in deciding on an anti-arthritis regimen.

It is important to avoid narcotic drugs as arthritis often continues for the foreseeable future. Even if the individual takes these drugs sparingly, the repeated need for relief may bring on the habit of daily use.

The physician must avoid pain medication that leaves the person sleepy or blunted in reaction time. The pain of arthritis can strike during the day when the individual needs mental faculties fully functioning, and walking/dexterity abilities at as high a level as possible. At such times, pain medication that acts as a tranquilizer or as an anti-anxiety drug is likely to cause as trouble as relief.

Finally the doctor must provide a medication, which if by necessity is taken 2-4 times a day, will not put the individual at risk for stomach ulcers, liver failure, or kidney insufficiency.

The restrictions above explain why your doctor uses acetomenophen (tylenol) or propoxyphene (darvocet) for pain relief.

Community's hunters score during annual firearm season

For nine days, Jerry Putin Jr. of Canton stalked the woods of Delta County in the Upper Peninsula.

COMMUNITY Buck Pole

"All I saw were does, no bucks," he said. "Finally, I decided to use my doe permit."

He and his father, Jerry Putin Sr., of Ensign in the Upper Peninsula reported their success in the field to the Buck Pole. The senior Putin shot a spike horn buck.

Meanwhile, Richard Johnson of Canton shot a buck near Onaway.

Jerry Schoenfeldt of Canton bagged a button buck with a bow on Nov. 14.

Dick Johnson of Canton bagged a 3-point buck with a firearm on Nov. 17 and a button buck with a doe permit on Nov. 19.

Bill Magee of Plymouth Township killed a three-point buck Nov. 17 near Norway, Mich., in the Upper Peninsula.

The Observer reports the names of successful hunters in its Buck Pole column, a regular feature through the deer season. For more information, call Jeff Counts, the editor, or Kevin Brown, a reporter, at 459-2700.

We will also take pictures of you with your deer. Our offices are open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday and are located at 744 Wing, south of Ann Arbor Trail and east of Main in downtown Plymouth.

Members of club pitch in

The Plymouth and Canton Observer Cheer Club is under way!

By 3 p.m. Friday, six folks had stopped by our offices to donate toys or food for our third annual drive to help needy people in Plymouth and Canton, coordinated by the Plymouth Salvation Army.

New Cheer Club members are Mark Simpson of Canton and his three children Elise, Jeffrey and Courtney; and Eugene and Gloria Hammonds of Canton.

Joining the Christmas Cheer Club is easy. Just bring a new, unwrapped toy, canned good or boxed food to our office at 744 Wing south of Ann Arbor Trail and east of Main.

We also ask that you leave your names, but that's not necessary. We just like to print the names of Christmas Cheer Club donors.

Last year during the holidays, we received donations from about 220 generous folks in Plymouth and Canton.

The idea for the club is that no child should be without a gift on Christmas, and no family should go hungry.

Joining is easy. Membership is open to anyone who can take the time during the holidays to stop by our office and drop off a donation.

We'll continue to collect items through mid-December. That's when they'll be turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution to needy kids and families in our area.

So grab a canned good, boxed food or new, unwrapped toy and stop by our office. Bring the kids.

And Merry Christmas!

Lottery winners will be notified during the week of Jan. 4-7, 1994.

Car accident leaves two young men dead

Two Plymouth men were killed Wednesday when the car in which they were riding spun out of control and struck a tree in Superior Township.

Darin E. Bell, 20, and Rodolfo A. Castillo, 21, the driver of the car, died from injuries sustained in the crash, the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department reported.

Castillo, a sales person for Vic Tanny, died on his 21st birthday.

The crash occurred at 10:02 p.m. as the two were riding in the car heading east on Geddes Road west of Hickman Road, a sheriff's department spokeswoman said.

The driver apparently lost control of the car while rounding a curve, crossed over the roadway and then back across, striking a tree, the spokeswoman said.

Bell died at the crash scene, while Castillo died shortly after at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, the sheriff's department spokeswoman said.

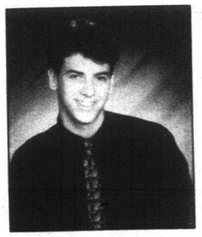
Bell, a 1992 Plymouth Canton High School graduate, was a student at Eastern Michigan University and worked as a customer service engineer for IBM in Southfield.

He was born Oct. 28 in Wyandotte. He left Strongsville, Ohio, in 1978 for Plymouth.

Funeral services for Bell were at 11 a.m. today at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, with the Rev. M.W. Seymour officiating.

Bell was a member of First United Methodist Church. He was good with computers, loved to snow and water ski, was a musician and was interested in photography.

Survivors include his parents, Larry and Eva Bell of Plymouth; a sister, Tricia Fox of East Lansing; grandparents Grace and Harry Fry of Camden, Ind.; grandmother Valerie Matthews of Princeton, Ky.; and several aunts, uncles and cousins.



Darin Bell

Funeral arrangements for Bell were by the Schrader-Howell Funeral Home of Plymouth.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital center for mental health and chemical dependency, Box 995, Ann Arbor 48106; or to the Humane Society of Huron Valley, 3100 Cherry Hill, Ann Arbor 48105; or to First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, 45201 N. Territorial Road, Plymouth 48170.

Castillo was born Nov. 24, 1972, in Garfield Heights, Ohio.

Survivors include his parents, Frank and Ada Castillo of Plymouth; two brothers, Frank and Eduardo Castillo of Plymouth; and a grandmother, Alicia Castillo of El Salvador.

Funeral services for Castillo were Sunday at Vermeulen Funeral Home in Plymouth. Burial will be in El Salvador.

Elaine Yagiela, New School director, is a skilled runner and triathlete who originated the idea.

"This goes back to the fall of 1988 when we did long-range planning with parents and kids. Physical fitness and wellness was one of the three curriculum areas we wanted to create as exemplary," she said. "We wanted some things we could do quickly that wouldn't present the roadblock of dollars, but that would create that sense of spirit and groupness. We don't have enough kids for a basketball team, but running fits well with our approach. Every kid can fit in as a winner."

For a time, Yagiela held back, putting out feelers for someone who would lead the running club a couple days after school. Yagiela did it a few times, and "Now I wouldn't not do it. I enjoy it," said Yagiela, who is gearing up for a marathon in Texas.

Children have given Yagiela — a stand-out athlete who several times has finished atop her age group in triathlon competition in Michigan — a new perspective. "I've learned you can't rush them," she said. "They charge out, but the way back is slower. The kids pick up caterpillars, look at milkweed pods and just enjoy being out there."

On the group's last walk of the season, Megan Wolvin, 10, of Redford found a caterpillar that looked like a tiny piece of curly rubber and carried it back to school with her.

"I do a little bit of running and walking," said Megan, an ice skater whose sister, Cassie, 8, and mother, Linda, also walk with the group. "Usually after I do exercise, I feel more energetic."

With his children, Jeff, 8, and Jennifer, 18 months, Art Durow of Plymouth Township has logged between 55 and 60 miles since September. The pace has been leisurely. "Jennifer likes to pick up pine cones and smell flowers along the walk," said Durow, adding that he and his son both enjoy themselves too. "It's good exercise, and a good substitute for TV. If we weren't doing this, we'd probably be doing something less healthy."

Colleen Rieckhoff of Canton walks with her son, Nicholas, 4½, who says he walks because "I like to. It's fun."

Said Kathleen Rembacki, 9, "I just go to get my exercise and have fun."

Man charged in assault

A 31-year-old Canton man faces felony charges in connection with the sexual assault of a 23-year-old woman, Nov. 18.

Raymond Earl McQueen was arraigned before 35th District Magistrate Eric Colthurst on one count of first-degree criminal sexual conduct, a felony carrying a maximum penalty of life in prison, Nov. 19. Colthurst entered a plea of not guilty on McQueen's behalf. McQueen remains in the Wayne County Jail on a $50,000 cash bond.

A preliminary exam on the charge is scheduled for today in 35th District Court.

The woman who works at a bar in a nearby community met a man with whom she left to play pool at another establishment. Afterward, she believed the man was driving her back to where her car was parked, but instead he took her to his home, said Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer.

"He took her to his house, making up an excuse," Colling said.

At the house, the man asked if she wanted to see his camper. When in the camper, the man drew a knife on the woman and assaulted her.

problem there and we need an alternate roadway."

Yack actually doesn't expect construction to start on the road for sometime. "I'm always very cautious and throw in another year."

Meanwhile, the Michigan State Police believe the 40 mph speed limit on Morton Taylor, Ford to Saltz roads, is good, despite complaints from residents who live along the roadway. Residents in August asked that the limit on the residential road be reduced to 25 mph.

"They think it's the appropriate limit," Amann confirmed.

Amann is hoping that once the new section of Morton Taylor is in, the state police will reconsider the speed limit. Because lower speeds are given greater consideration when near school property, Amann and township officials are considering dedicating township property along Morton Taylor to the school district.

"Apparently it can have some influence if a school is on the road. Actually this is a park or open area and we could dedicate it to the schools to limit the speed," Yack said.

Group protests war toys

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER

For the eighth consecutive year, WAND (Women Acting for a New Direction) has tried to call attention to what its members see as a link between war toys and violence in the United States.

"War toys glorify violence," said national WAND president Arlene Victor, who was one of about 60 people to picket the Toys—R—Us outlet on Telegraph Road south of 11 Mile in Southfield.

She said WAND traditionally pickets from 11 a.m. to noon on the Friday following Thanksgiving, customarily the busiest shopping day of the year. The one-hour protest is more a symbolic attempt to educate customers, not to impede their shopping.

"We want people to think twice before giving war toys to children when they're so young and impressionable," said Victor.

One store clerk, who asked not to be identified, had a different view, however. "They (protestors) stick around until the media get here, then they split."

Carrying signs such as "Stop Militarizatin of Children for $$$," "Santa Doesn't Drive a Tank," and "Peace Begins in the Playground," the protesters picketed the entrances and distributed literature. One pamphlet recommended nonviolent toys — such as building blocks, erector sets or fingerpaints — as alternatives.

The protest was peaceful, with no interference with customers, said Toys-R-Us spokesman, Michael Cullen, inventory control manager. "As long as the protest didn't interfere with customers, we had no problems."

WAND is not a pacifist organization, said Harriet Benjamin. Nor do its members advocate unilateral disarmament.

"But we want to promote nonviolence," she said. "And we want to start with the children."

May Davidson said she has been part of the WAND protest for several years. "I think the message is starting to get across," she said. "There may not be any studies to show it, but every year we get more and more acceptance. More and more people tell us they wouldn't have anything to do with war toys."

Several shoppers agreed. Jackie Montgomery of Birmingham, for example, said she agrees war toys promote conflict and aggression. "I think there's a definite link between toys and violence," she said.

Demita Tuff of Wayne had similar thoughts as she shopped for her youngster. She said she was previously opposed to war toys, but the protest served as a reminder. "War toys glorify violence instead of negotiation," she said. "I don't buy them because there are so many better toys available."

Shopper Connie Abrams of Birmingham said the protest did not influence her shopping patterns because she does not believe in a direct link between war toys and violence.

Choirs set to perform at county light show

The Wayne County Parks System's "Festival of Lights," open for business through Jan. 9, is a huge hit with the public so far, parks officials report.

The 4.5-mile-long light show along Edward Hines Drive features gigantic displays of animated snowmen, a North Pole village, larger-than-life skiers and ice skaters, a Loch Ness monster and lots of other lighted displays.

The show is a fund-raiser for the parks department. A $5 donation per car is requested.

Parks events coordinator Anastasia "Tessie" Pitses said that things couldn't have fallen in place much better than they have. "I've never felt so great about a special event," she said. "Our whole staff is just flying high."

Participants can view the show by driving down Hines Drive from the intersection of Hines and Merriman to Outer Drive or Warren Avenue.

The hours of operation are 7-10 p.m. seven days a week, weather permitting. There will be no show on Christmas. Cars may approach the intersection of Hines and Merriman from any direction except through Hines Park.

Pitses reports that 1,400 cars drove through the light show on Tuesday alone, and donations topped $12,000 in the first two days. Although the "requested" donation is $5, Pitses said some people were more generous. "We're getting people who are handing 10s and 20s and saying, 'Keep the change,' " she said.

County Executive Edward McNamara was honored with the first ride through the light show, bringing along his children and grandchildren to appreciate the aesthetics.

Grandson Andy, 4, sat on the county executive's lap and surprised grandpa with how well he behaved. "That's the first time the kid has been quiet since he was born," McNamara said.

Commuters who use Hines to get to and from work should note that the road will be closed to regular traffic from 6:30 to about 10:30 p.m.

At the end of the line, light-show patrons may park and shop for ornaments in the gift shop at the Warrendale picnic area.

The cost of all these holiday lights and ornaments, which come from Bronner's in Frankenmuth, comes to $250,000. Parks officials believe they can gather sufficient donations from light-show patrons to pay off the five-year loan the county took out to buy the decorations.

On the next three Saturdays, Dec. 4, 11 and 18, light show patrons may listen to choirs singing Christmas music at the Warrendale picnic area. The Hicks Memorial COGIC Mass Choir will perform Dec. 4. The New Mount Morlah Missionary Baptist Church choir will perform Dec. 11. Northwestern High School's Mixed Vocal Ensemble and Girls Glee Club will perform Dec. 18.

Drew Carey

Comics joke with an aim to help center

BY BOB SADLER
SPECIAL WRITER

One is on the verge of big-time comedy success; the other refers to himself as "a baby on the scene."

One hails from Cleveland; the other grew up in Michigan's Upper Penninsula.

Both still look like their high school yearbook picture — one by choice, the other simply because not much time has elapsed.

And now, they will appear on the same stage together, as part of a Dec. 6 benefit for the Epilepsy Center of Michigan at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle in Royal Oak.

Drew Carey, wearing his crew cut, glasses and dark suit with thin tie, looks like he could have been a volunteer for the 1968 Hubert Humphrey campaign. He is one of the stars of the upcoming NBC series "The Good Life," and will headline the benefit, "The First Annual Laugh Revue."

Born and raised in Cleveland, Carey has been practicing the stand-up craft since 1985 — and now, his star is truly on the rise. "The Good Life" has been billed as an " 'Odd Couple' for the '90s." NBC has high hopes for the show, which is currently slated for NBC's mid-season schedule and may premiere in the enviable post-Super Bowl time slot.

In addition, Carey also recently appeared in an October Showtime cable special, "Human Cartoon." In addition, he is a veteran of several guest appearances on "Late Night with David Letterman" and "The Tonight Show." In fact, it was Carey's appearance on "The Tonight Show" with Johnny Carson that served as his big break.

"Friends who were there told me Carson was laughing so hard that he had to hold on to his desk so he wouldn't fall out of his chair," Carey said in an interview with "The Hollywood Reporter." "He called me over at the end of the set, sat me down and kept me there the whole show. Within weeks, I was turning down offers I would have crawled across broken glass to get before that appearance."

In contrast to Carey and his national notoriety, Joel Zimmer of Plymouth is definitely the "baby on the scene" he proclaims himself to be. His

Luddites: Proud of uniqueness

■ It probably wouldn't be polite to say they're unconventional, just because The Luddites defy musical pidgeonholing. Whatever, the group has found unique a style they enjoy.

BY MARK GALLO
SPECIAL WRITER

You can't call it folk rock, not in the conventional sense. Convention and the Luddites are complete strangers. Sometimes they bring to mind bands like Poi Dog Pondering or Throwing Muses, but don't think you have them pegged. They do a drop-dead perfect rendition of Jonathan Richman's "Nature's Mosquito," a hilariously twisted new country original called "My Ex" that sounds like Austin's Jean Caffeine a bit, and another original, "Lucy and the Dervish," that features a harmonica-trombone duet.

Live, you'll usually find them augmented by Frank and George Schuster. If they aren't available, the horn section from the local skasters the Exceptions are employed. This is not a ho-hum band that's crawled into a warm and fuzzy little musical pigeonhole.

■ STREET BEATS

— Bassist David Giovannucci, who used to front Happy As Clams and is a possessor of one of the two Ph.D.s in the group (he and harmonica player David Turner are biologists), calls their sound "minimal" and "big acoustic."

Lest anyone make a false assumption that this is a bandwagon-hopping "unplugged" thing going on, a movement which he says they predated by a couple of years anyhow, guitarist Michael Levitt matter-of-factly proclaims that the Luddites "don't sound like anything you've heard before."

Lisa Pisarkiewicz-Goedert, a photography/arts major at Wayne State (where the core members came together a few years ago) and a classically trained vocalist who used to do lead throat chores for synth-rockers Liquid ID, calls the Luddites a "theatrical" and "anti-machinery" conglomeration. Summing up the band, she says: "They write good songs and they don't take themselves too seriously."

"We kind of like each other," she adds.

That last statement is almost the band manifesto.

According to Giovannucci, who calls the Luddites "the laziest band in Detroit," the appeal of being a member is "as much social as it is art."

They rehearse sporadically, but may only play a couple times per month.

"We're a pretty casual lot," Giovannucci said with typical understatement. "When we play, it's fresh. We have a good time."

That's apparent by their growing legion of fans, who have taken them out of the coffeehouses, where Giovannucci says the band took up half of the available space, to "playing bars now, which is kind of a new venue for us."

Percussionist Alfredo Berdayes praises the band for its "total freedom," pointing out that "there is no one ego that dominates." While he allows that his congas, bongos and timbales "probably took it into a slightly different direction," it's the "great collaboration" of the members that he feels creates their uniqueness.

All the songs are "designed for the lineup of the band," according to Levitt, which also adds to their unique allure.

Giovannucci, who doesn't offer any obvious influences, says "stylistically, we're all over the place." He does, however, point to Paul Simon, Elvis Costello and John Hiatt as the sort of people of whom he aspires to "emulate their freedom." Given the country, acoustic rock, jazz and folk elements, not to mention the occasional bluesy licks that pop up here and there, the Luddites certainly seem to have worked themselves into a one-band niche.

"I have a deep passion for a lot of different kinds of music," says Stuart Tucker, the latest addition to the Luddite lineup. The former drummer with Nova Ovens still plays the traps for a handful of local blues bands, like Chicago Pete, Little Mac Collins and Back Door Blues, so his resume is as impressive as you'll find hereabouts. His taste in music is also something to trust. When he came on board, he knew full well what he was getting into.

"They're lots of fun," he says of the band. "The fun never stops."

The fun slowed down a tad in November so they could concentrate on recording. By the time of their Dec. 3 Finney's show, they expect to have an eight-song cassette ready. When they return to Alvin's on the WSU campus later in the month, they'll be putting the finishing touches on a CD that they hope to have in the hip local stores by Christmas, or the beginning of the year.

As Stuart Tucker sees it: "They're a bunch goofballs, but they really know how to play. It swings."

Indeed.

The Luddites will perform Friday, Dec. 3, at Finney's Pub, 3965 Woodward, Detroit. Call 831-8070 for more information. They will also play Saturday, Dec. 18, at Alvin's, 5756 Cass, Detroit. For more information, call 832-2355.

Musicianship important to Tony Toni Tone

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Three years ago, Tony Toni Tone redirected hip hop with their clever musicianship interwoven with catchy lyrics.

The 1990 album "The Revival" produced three hits — "Whatever You Want," "Feels Good," and "It Never Rains In Southern California."

With their new record, "Sons of Soul," they took it a step forward. This time they hired a steel guitar player to play on the album — something not exactly standard in rhythm and blues or hip-hop music.

"He was spooked," singer Raphael (Ray) Wiggins said about California guitarist Peter Corant. "He's in his 60s or something. He never played on this type of music. When he got the tape and listened to it, he was surprised . . . really shocked."

With the Tonys' track record, it's no surprise that the Tonys ventured onto this turf. Drummer Timothy Christian Riley said the Tonys' musicianship is a nod to the past.

"We pay homage to the tradition of R&B because we are a self-contained band that really plays, appreciates and understands the rootsiness of the music. But we are of the hip-hop generation. So it's just a natural part of our mentality to create much the same way rappers do," Riley said.

■ The movie captures the tackiness of Florida well, with Canadian tourists buying bags of overpriced souvenirs or dancing in one of the local meat markets. There's also an appropriately embarrassing scene at a MTV-style "best buns" contest on the beach.

"I got out of Manning without getting beat up or pregnant, which is something," says the young woman played by Ashley Judd in "Ruby in Paradise." She leaves her tiny Tennessee mountain town for Florida, where she lands a job in a seaside gift shop.

The movie that follows, like its heroine, wanders rather aimlessly through life in the Sunshine State. While Ruby discovers some piece of mind by film's end, viewers may find themselves wanting more from this low-key slice of life.

An admittedly "small" film playing exclusively at the Main Theatre in Royal Oak, "Ruby" is an exercise in understatement. Granted, not every movie has to climax with an earthquake, but writer/director Vincent Nunez goes out of his way to show us the mundane.

Ruby does her job dutifully, dusting off the display counters and stocking beach towels and sunglasses for the upcoming busy season. She meets regularly for lunch with an ambitious fellow co-worker.

Off the job, Ruby writes in a diary, musing on life, love, and the reasons why we get out of bed in the morning. She comes to profound conclusions about women after dropping by a topless bar, desperate after being turned down by every business short of McDonald's.

Despite all this helpful exposition, it's still a mystery what her life back home was really like. She mentions grandparents, a mother who died not that long ago, and even hints at a boyfriend, apparently the same one who throws a boot at her before the opening credits.

Florida has its own man troubles in store for Ruby. Against her better judgment, she sleeps with a handsome playboy named Ricky (Bentley Mitchum), who also happens to be the boss' son. When she tries to break off the relationship, he threatens her with her job.

Mike (Todd Field) works in a nursery and, for a while, looks like a real catch. Then he starts to show his gloomy and condescending side, and we weigh with Ruby the comfort of an intimate relationship and the compromises that will inevitably follow.

Ashley Judd (of the famous country music family) follows the movie's aesthetic well, forcing you to read into long stretches of silence and reflection. Though Judd has been praised for her subtly shaded performance, I'm still not sure if she's acting introspective or just plain dull.

The movie captures the tackiness of Florida well, with Canadian tourists buying bags of overpriced souvenirs or dancing in one of the local meat markets. There's also an appropriately embarrassing scene at a MTV-style "best buns" contest on the beach.

Ruby has her own shortcomings, but we relate completely to her stupid moves and small conquests. She finds in Florida the kind of opportunities she couldn't find at home. For that we should celebrate.

baby-faced look lends immediate credibility to that statement.

Since getting his comedic start at the University of Michigan a little over two years ago, Zimmer has graduated on to performing in clubs and colleges around the country.

But when he gets on stage Dec. 6, this Upper Penninsula native will remember his real childhood. At the age of 18 months, he had a generalized tonic-clonic, formerly known as grand mal, seizure. His parents were not aware of what was happening.

It wasn't until he had a second seizure that he was diagnosed with epilepsy and put on medication. A third seizure followed soon after, but eventually, the medication brought the seizures under control. Zimmer took his last dose of medication when he was 14.

Epilepsy is a serious matter in anybody's life, but Zimmer can find humor in looking back.

"During school, I used to get out of class to take my medicine every day," Zimmer recalled. "The nurse couldn't open the childproof cap on the medicine, so she'd ask me to do it."

Sandwiched between Carey and Zimmer on stage for the benefit is Westland's Jim McLean.

"The First Annual Laugh Revue," a benefit for the Epilepsy Center of Michigan and starring Drew Carey with special guests Jim McLean and Joel Zimmer, will be Monday, Dec. 6, at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, 269 E. Fourth, Royal Oak. Tickets are $25 per person or $40 per couple and include a pre-show reception, featuring Metro Detroit Pizza. Patron seating at $35 per person and includes complimentary wine and cheese, V.I.P. seating and a special souvenir. Group discounts are also available. For reservations, call the Center at 351-7979.

He called me over at the end of the set, sat me down and kept me there the whole show. Within weeks, I was turning down offers I would have crawled across broken glass to get before that appearance.'

"What we do, however, rather than sample records from the past, because we are real musicians we choose to recreate the feel, the vibe, the overall attitude of what was going on then," he added.

The name "Sons of Soul" reflects that.

"You have James Brown who is the Godfather of Soul, you have Aretha Franklin who is the Queen of Soul, you have Ray Charles who is the Genius of Soul. Without them and so many others . . . we wouldn't be able to create the music we create. We're their children," Raphael Wiggins said.

"We just put the name with the music. It's the vibe we created while we were recording."

Although Raphael Wiggins doesn't play instruments live, he and his brother Dwayne played guitars, bass and keyboards on "Sons of Soul."

Their shows with Janet Jackson — Saturday at Joe Louis Arena in Detroit and Sunday at The Palace of Auburn Hills — will feature a number of non-traditional touring musicians including horn players and a violinist, Wiggins said. That just confirms Raphael Wiggins' basic philosophy about his band.

"Music is more important than vocals," Raphael Wiggins said.

Tony Toni Tone opens for Janet Jackson at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4, at Joe Louis Arena, 600 Civic Center Drive, Detroit. Tickets are $29.75. For more information, call 396-7600; and at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5, at The Palace of Auburn Hills, I-75 and Lapeer Road in Auburn Hills. Tickets are $29.75 and $50. She can't end her dead-end relationship

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear Barbara,

I don't know how I'm going to start explaining this, but here goes.

I'm 30 years old and I've been going out with this one guy rather exclusively for the past six years. He has been very good to me and loves me with a passion and loyalty I've always appreciated, but I just don't think I'm "in love" with him and never have been.

I have told him this, and I really hated to because it crushed him and broke his heart, yet he still chooses to see me and go out with me, although not quite as frequently as we used to. I have always been kind of unsure about that since I know he still harbors secret hopes and dreams that I may someday "change my mind" and want to marry him. I know I never will.

It's just been hard to totally "drop" him because he acts so nice and happy to be with me. I can never find the heart to tell him I never want to see him again. (We have had many fun times together, and I care about him and hate hurting him.)

OK. Here's the rub. Two weeks ago I met another guy and started talking with him, and boom, it was almost like we were instant soulmates! We clicked and got along fabulously and neither of us could believe it!

However, this guy lives in Florida and was only visiting our state for a high school class reunion. (We went to the same school, believe it or not.)

Naturally, we'd like to see each other again, and I would like to fly down there for a week around Christmas. We'll see what happens and take it from there. Both of us are looking forward to it.

Now the hard part. I've never mentioned this new guy to the "boyfriend," mostly because it all happened so quickly and because he lives so far away. If he lived around here, I surely would have told him about him and informed him that I would be going out with him. I don't like being secretive.

Please give me your opinion on this situation. Thanks, Barbara.

Sincerely,
Tanya

Dear Tanya,

Thank you for communicating your powerful inner feelings. My response may seem to you to be too simple for such a complicated problem. However, since we were children we were taught that you can't have your cake and eat it, too. This principle still holds true. It behooves you to be honest with your friend of six years.

Tell him the truth in as kindly a manner as you can; it then becomes his responsibility to solve the problem. If he needs help getting on with his life without you, he should find an experienced psychotherapist. If you can't handle the separation on your own, it would be helpful for you to seek counseling, too.

I can understand your feelings of responsibility for this man's happiness and self-esteem. However, if he really would feel suicidal then there is sickness in his relationship with you that requires treatment.

Just one more word of warning. The relationship with the man in Florida is of too short a duration and occurred under too unusual of circumstances to be sure that it is as wonderful as you now think. Further, information is needed in order to have a more accurate understanding of him and of your relationship with him.

Good luck, keep in touch. Your experience may be of value to other readers.

No gimmicks, just good music

■ LIVE REVIEW

Best Kissers in the World, Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac, Thursday, Nov. 25.

Just as the Seattle music scene started sounding stale, Best Kissers in the World comes along without the two G's — gimmicks and grunge — and throws a wrench in that theory.

The Seattle quartet — led by former Pontiac resident Gerald Collier — kicked off their thunderous set with their hit song "Pickin' Flowers For" off of their MCA debut EP "Puddin.' " The next 1½ hours the band ripped through songs off their latest album "Been There" including "Miss Teen U.S.A.," "Bleeder," "Present At Your Party,"and "Four Letter Name for Lame." Collier's powerful voice — which resembles the range of Kevin Cronin of REO Speedwagon's voice without the cheesiness — carried well over lanky Jeff Stone's hypnotizing guitar solos, Dave Swafford's aggressive bass and Tim Arnold's driving drum rhythm. Best Kissers momentarily drove away from their "love gone sour" themes to do a rocking cover of "Hot Child In The City."

Best Kissers is one of those bands that program directors have a hard time with. They're sort of alternative rock, sort of tongue-in-cheek pop/rock; with a little album rock credibility thrown in. If more radio stations take chances and start playing this band, Best Kissers could have a hit album on their lips. Their Thursday night show definitely proved that.

Area GOP to host Senate candidates

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The three announced Republican candidates for U.S. Senate have been invited to appear 5-7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8, for a fund-raiser by the Wayne 11th Republican Congressional Committee.

The candidates — Carl Pursell of Plymouth Township, Ronna Romney of Bloomfield Hills and Spencer Abraham of Auburn Hills — will be given about five minutes for speeches; then they'll answer questions and mingle with guests.

The event will occur at Bobby's Country House on Five Mile Road between Levan and Farmington roads in Livonia. The cost of admission is $20. For reservations call Audrey Greenleaf at 464-4229.

A fourth potential Republican candidate, Judy Miller of Bingmingham, has expressed interest in the Senate seat, but has not formally announced her campaign. If she announces in time, organizers say Miller will be welcome at the fund-raiser.

The race for this Senate seat opened up when Democratic incumbent Donald Riegle announced he won't seek re-election. To date there are three Democratic candidates and one Libertarian, plus the three Republicans.

Romney was the latest of the Republicans to announce her candidacy, taking the plunge on Nov. 9.

Romney, 50, is the former daughter-in-law of former Gov.

Carl Pursell

Ronna Romney

George Romney. Lately the 1961 Birmingham Seaholm High School graduate has been best-known for a radio talk show on WXYT from August 1992 until this month, when she quit to launch her campaign.

Long active in Republican party politics, Romney has never held elected office, but worked as co-chair of the Reagan/Bush finance committee in 1984. She has also been a regular commentator on "CNN & Company." Her other television appearances have included "The Larry King Show," "Good Morning America," and she was a political analyst for Detroit's Channel 7 during the 1992 presidential election.

Both The Detroit News and Crain's Detroit Business have called Romney one of the most influential people in Michigan.

Romney has also written a book called "Momentum: Women in American Politics Now."

Pursell, 60, was the U.S. House member representing the Plymouth and Livonia areas from 1977 until last January after choosing not to stand for re-election. He was noted for being one of the few representatives to maintain a primary residence in his district. Pursell also served as state senator for six years and county commissioner for two years.

Pursell is a graduate of Plymouth High School and earned his bachelor's degree in history and political science and his master's degree in education administration from Eastern Michigan University.

Pursell also taught school for six years in Ypsilanti, Taylor and Livonia and operated an office-equipment business and a real-estate business in Plymouth.

Abraham, 41, was first among both parties to declare his candidacy for the Senate. Born and raised in Lansing, Abraham graduated with honors from Michigan State University and Harvard Law School.

He was state chairman of the Republican party from 1982 to 1991 and is largely credited with resuscitating the Republican Party in Michigan. When he started that job, the party was $500,000 in debt and in the minority in the state Legislature. The debt was cleared up quickly. A Republican majority in the state Senate materialized in 1985. A Republican governor was elected in 1990. And the Republicans drew even with the Democrats in the state House last year.

In 1990 Abraham went to Washington, D.C., to be Vice President Dan Quayle's deputy chief of staff.

A biography sheet distributed by Abraham's campaign staff describes him as "a conservative who balances philosophy with practical management."

The Libertarian candidate for Senate is Jon Coon, a resident of Henderson.

Democrats running for the Senate seat are state Sen. Lana Pollack of Ann Arbor, Macomb County Prosecutor Carl Marlinga, and probably William Brodhead, a former U.S. representative from Bingham Farms who hasn't officially announced yet.

POINTS OF VIEW

Ordinance benefits Realtors and the public . . .

In the end, area Realtors will prosper at the hands of a Southfield ordinance they dislike.

The ordinance, aimed against blockbusting, forbids real estate companies or their sales people from soliciting homeowners who have put their names on an anti-solicitation list.

The state Realtor's Association, which opposes discriminatory practices, disagrees, saying it can police its own. And rather than being a case of preventing blockbusting, they say the ordinance is unfairly directed at a certain industry, that it violates the constitutional issue of free speech and that it can be misapplied.

The ordinance, which has been on the books since 1978, has been in the news lately:

■ Earlier this month, the Southfield City Council toughened the law's penalties, mandating a minimum fine of $200 plus court costs. Before, penalties could range from a suspended sentence up to $500 and up to 90 days in jail.

A suspended sentence will no longer be allowed under the new measure, which will take effect later this year.

One councilman, Eli Robinson, led the move for the mandatory fine after he was solicited twice. One of those solicitations resulted in a $75 fine; the other earned a suspended fine.

■ The same week in the first-ever bench trial on the ordinance, Century 21 Elegant Homes in Lathrup Village was ordered to pay fines and costs totaling $700 — one of the largest penalties assessed since the law has been on the books.

Although there have been more than 60 convictions in the 15 years the law has been in effect, all have been the result of real estate companies or brokers pleading guilty or no contest. And sentences have been left to the judge's discretion.

JUDITH DONER BERNE

Just as interesting, 46th District Judge Bryan Levy also ordered the firm to have company officers or employees perform community service.

Yet both prosecutor and judge agreed it wasn't a deliberate violation of Southfield's ordinance, but rather that the agent involved had been poorly supervised.

■ The next week, in the first jury trial on the ordinance, Century 21 Today of Redford was assessed a $100 fine, $500 court costs and a year's probation. And they are due back on three more violations in the coming weeks.

The truth is, none of the fines are going to make much of a dent in profits. But the community service component, if properly devised, might help the agents involved understand more about the heart of the Southfield community they're selling — especially if they don't live there.

Both the law's new teeth and the sentence's bite send the message that the Southfield community really is serious in its efforts to retain an integrated community. It puts the real estate industry on alert that non-intent can't be an excuse in such a fragile situation.

In the long run, it will profit the real estate industry, too. Instead of falling home values, it can sell stable neighborhoods where the houses are in demand and command high prices.

But it's not just a real estate industry problem. After all, most of what they do serves us — their clients. We must share responsibility with them.

I always remember Laura Norberry, head of the former Birmingham Women's Center who moved from Birmingham to Southfield some years back. She longed to be part of a more diverse community. She has recently moved again — to another Southfield address.

When we reach Norberry's level of maturity, diverse neighborhoods will be where we move to — not away from. And Southfield, in this suburban area, can be the leader of the pack.

. . . but Realtors plan to fight solicitation rule

GUEST COLUMNIST

WILLIAM P. DEACON

■ The Realtors and various membership groups have coalesced to take on the city of Southfield and its restrictive ordinance banning real estate solicitations, and the fight promises to be a long battle that could take years. The real estate membership groups and offices would feel differently if Southfield's ordinance had uniformity to all types of solicitation.

How many times are we at home eating dinner with our family or just plain relaxing when the telephone rings, and to our dissatisfaction, it is someone trying to sell us something or conducting a survey?

Sometimes we are actually interested, and yet other times we are merely courteous and, at the right moment, we disengage ourselves from the discussion by explaining our lack of interest or concern. These telephone calls may be harmless enough, and even if we are not interested in the subject matter, the slight inconvenience is not really so terrible.

On Dec. 20, 1991, the former President, George Bush, signed into law the Telephone Consumer Protect Act (TCPA) setting forth various rules identifying restrictions as to when telephone solicitors may call homeowners as well as commercial telephone users.

In addition to various other rules and regulations, TCPA requires the telephone soliciting entity to maintain a "do-not-call-list" so that, in the even a homeowner does not want to be called in the future, they are then placed on a "do-not-call" list and no further calls are to be placed to this homeowner.

However, this "do-not-call" list is only applicable to that particular company so related entities and/or other entities stand unaffected, and this homeowner may be solicited or contacted for purposes other than the initial contact.

Respecting needs

TCPA's focus was to respect the needs of business while recognizing the rights of privacy of citizens; as such, these lists have to be reviewed prior to telephone calls being commenced by the soliciting company. Although telephone solicitors may find TCPA overly restrictive, at the very least it is a law that is uniform to all telephone solicitors, no matter what their trade, calling or profession. By virtue of this uniformity, the law is fair.

The City of Southfield has enacted Ordinance 9.383, which provides for homeowners to place their name on a list with the City of Southfield. This ordinance strictly prohibits only real estate salespeople to solicit these homeowners by telephone, mail or otherwise, in an attempt to see if the homeowner would like to sell their home. This law is not uniform in that the only persons prohibited under this ordinance are real estate salespersons. Thus, any other professional, paraprofessional, tradesman, handyman or person selling a service or item has the ability to solicit homeowners.

The City of Southfield claims that its restrictive ordinance is reasonable because it attempts to prevent "blockbusting," a technique whereby residents start selling their homes because the area is increasing with minority residents (in this case, black residents). However, this argument by the City of Southfield is greatly flawed when one realizes that there are Federal and State Civic Rights Acts and Fair Housing Laws, which already strictly prohibit such activity.

Until recently, Southfield's ordinance proved to be a mere nuisance to the real estate profession because if a salesperson violated the ordinance, he/she was given a small fine and/or placed on probation and the matter was closed. Because the ordinance was a mere nuisance and because the fine imposed was usually small, the ordinance was never challenged and a seemingly unconstitutional ordinance has stood for approximately 10 years. However, now the City of Southfield and its legal department shall be challenged in the courts as to the constitutionality of this ordinance.

More punitive

Several months ago, a real estate salesperson pled guilty to violating this ordinance and the judge in the matter imposed a relatively small fine. This time the law department for the city was not satisfied and one of its attorneys wrote a letter to the state of Michigan Department of Licensing requesting that a review be made of this person's license when it came up for renewal.

To make matters worse, the Southfield City Council was not satisfied with the city ordinance and has enacted an amendment to this ordinance calling for mandatory sentences against violators because the council felt the judges in the 46th District Court were not taking these matters seriously.

The judges of the 46th District Court responded in writing to the council and said that its proposed ordinance amendment would, in effect, restrict judicial discretion in imposing sentence on violators of this ordinance. Consequently, the judges were against this ordinance amendment.

Some think the City of Southfield has gone too far with this amendment and the real estate profession is now striking back with promises of constitutional challenges. The Constitution of the United States, as well as the Constitution of the State of Michigan, proclaim equality for all. The First Amendment grants protection of freedom of speech to all persons, while the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution grants equal protection for all citizens, thereby prohibiting restrictions on any group or class of people.

In fact, Southfield Ordinance 9.383 ostensibly violates both the First Amendment as well as the Fourteenth Amendment by restricting only real estate salespersons from soliciting residents of Southfield who put their names on this special list. Any other person or entity may solicit Southfield residents.

Going to court

The Realtors and various membership groups have coalesced to take on the City of Southfield and its restrictive ordinance banning real estate solicitations and the fight promises to be a long battle that could take years. The real estate membership groups and offices would feel differently if Southfield's ordinance had uniformity to all types of solicitation, as does the TCPA. That law, in addition to the Civil Rights laws and Fair Housing laws, already regulates the very solicitation at issue.

Unfortunately, Southfield's ordinance has no degree of uniformity as it singles out a group of licensed professionals, and the city is banging hard to enforce this ordinance to which there is absolute impuissance by real estate sales people until a court of law deems the ordinance unconstitutional.

Perhaps the intentions of the city to spare residents from unwanted solicitation was well meant; however, as the old saying goes, "the road to hell was also paved with good intentions."

Fundraiser features former Bush labor secretary

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

When former Secretary of Labor Lynn Martin was growing up in Chicago, she was a Democrat.

"Mayor Daley didn't let them in," Martin said of Republicans. "He didn't think we needed them." Martin, now on the faculty at Northwestern University, joked that she didn't even see a Republican until she was 19.

But Martin changed parties and went on to serve as an Illinois state legislator from 1977 to 1981. She went to Washington to represent the 16th Illinois District from 1981 to 1991 in Congress.

The former labor secretary in the Bush Administration, Martin, 53, was the featured guest last Tuesday at a campaign fund-raiser for Livonia native John Schall.

Schall, a former White House staffer and aide to Martin, now lives in Ann Arbor and is seeking the Republican nomination for Congress in the 13th District, which includes Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southeast quadrant of Livonia. The winner of the GOP primary will face U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, in November 1994.

During her speech, Martin described working the precincts in Chicago. The everyday concerns of voters — finding jobs, adequate health care and the like — are what matter.

"We forgot a little bit how to win elections, and we're starting to get those memories back. That's what the Republican Party has to do again," the former public schoolteacher said. She joked about her Chicago aunt who voted a straight Democratic ticket last November, "even though she has been gone 10 years."

Martin, who was 1988 Illinois co-chairwoman for the Bush-Quayle presidential campaign, spoke to about 125 Schall supporters in the Burton Manor.

Earlier that day, Martin spoke in Ann Arbor, discussing the "glass ceiling" that women in management face.

During her evening appearance, which attracted a number of prominent Republicans, she encouraged those attending to think about the country's future. "The next generation of Americans, that's what elections are really supposed to be about."

In her former congressional district in the northwestern corner of Illinois, "Money that goes to Chicago, that's what we call foreign aid." That part of the country served as the site of one of the Lincoln-Douglas debates in the mid-19th century.

Abraham Lincoln's opponent was trying to reach a compromise position on the issue of slavery, and cited his belief in the U.S. Constitution and its emphasis on states' rights.

Lincoln cited the Declaration of Independence statement "that says all are created equal. A stunning moment in history," Martin said. She's still moved by the thought that someone defined that more than 100 years ago.

"The basic decency and goodness of the American people" are what matter, she said.

Cathy Soave of Livonia enjoyed Martin's speech.

"She impressed me," said Soave, a communications specialist with Benchmark Resources in Troy. "I'd like to see more of her, I'd like to hear more from her."

Loren Bennett, Canton Township clerk, was also impressed. He agreed that political leaders need to be out talking to people, and that leaders should set high standards.

"Government can't do everything for everybody," Bennett said. "We should empower people to accomplish their fullest."

Martin, who has two daughters, was introduced by former U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth Township, who is seeking the GOP nomination to the U.S. Senate.

Pursell praised Martin, with whom he served in Congress, saying "she began to go after the congressional system of perks."

Following her 1991 appointment as labor secretary, Martin made committee presentations on labor issues which impressed Pursell. Martin also had the distinction of helping George Bush, then vice president, prepare for his debate with Democrat Geraldine Ferraro during the 1984 campaign.

Republicans were concerned about Bush having to debate a woman, a first in presidential campaigns. Martin stood in for Ferraro during the practice sessions. She later went on to the Bush Cabinet "to provide some leadership for women in America," Pursell said of Martin, who serves on the board of Ameritech and other corporations.

Former Bush Administration labor secretary Lynn Martin appeared last week at a campaign fundraiser for Livonia native John Schall, who is running for the GOP nomination from the 13th District.

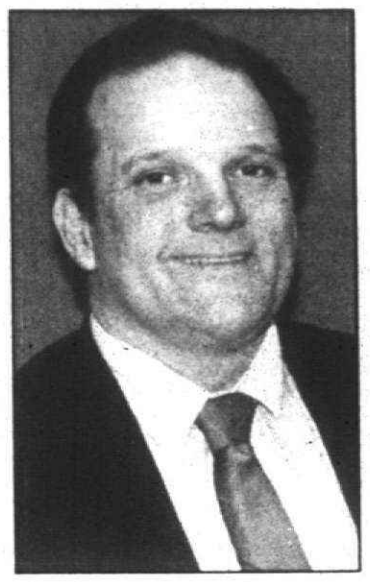
Prof battles cancer, wins state honor

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER



■ Bio medical engineering instructor Larry Scharmen found the return to teaching to be therapeutic. His list of accomplishments was enough to snare a prestigious award: The Outstanding Educator Award from the Michigan Occupational Deans Administrative Council.

A few years ago Schoolcraft College employees were saddened by the thought that bio medical engineering instructor Larry Scharmen was about to die.

Scharmen had a cancerous lump in his abdomen the size of a basketball. Chemotherapy left him with virtually no hair and 60 pounds underweight, his trousers held up by nothing but suspenders.

"Everybody was praying for him and hoping for him, but it didn't seem like the odds were with him," said one college administrator.

Scharmen's boss, assistant dean Fernon Feenstra said, "We never gave up on him, and he never gave up on us."

A healthy looking man of 44 years now, Scharmen still gets choked up when he contemplates the experience. The lump is still there, wrapped around a kidney, but it's small now and the cancer has been in remission two years.

Scharmen figures he owes his life to the fact that his family doctor left town to set up practice elsewhere. Scharmen had complained of stomach pain to this doctor, only to be told it was just indigestion.

The next doctor Scharmen hired recommended a CAT scan and the cancer was noticed in time to save Scharmen's life.

The experience wasn't all bad though. Scharmen had a rare opportunity to see from a patient's point of view how the bio medical equipment he specializes in works. Doctors, he said, freaked out when he demonstrated a knowledge perhaps surpassing their own of the machines he was hooked up to. "A lot of the equipment they worked on me with, I knew," he said.

Out of the classroom for four months while during treatment, Scharmen found the return to teaching to be therapeutic indeed. Before long he had strung together a list of accomplishments that, when coupled with all he'd done before, was enough to snare a prestigious award: The Outstanding Educator Award from the Michigan Occupational Deans Administrative Council, which was given to Scharmen and two other Michigan teachers in October.

"It makes you feel good to be recognized sometime," Scharmen said.

Jahan Azizi, a bio medical technician at the University of Michigan Hospital, was one of Scharmen's first students at Schoolcraft in 1985, the year Scharmen arrived from an 11-year tenure at Walled Lake Schools.

"He's one of the greatest teachers I had," Azizi said. "He's good at simplifying tough material and he makes you feel worthwhile. He's more like a role model."

Plymouth resident John Wheeler recently earned his bio medical technology degree under Scharmen's tutelage and now works for the L.N. Stevens Co., repairing physical therapy equipment. Wheeler claims Scharmen as one of his favorite teachers. "He's real energetic," Wheeler said. "And he really cares about his students."

With that in mind, it's not surprising to see that Scharmen maintains files on all his former Schoolcraft students. As the college's bio medical coordinator, Scharmen supervises an internship program that puts 12 to 22 students in hospital internships maintaining bio medical equipment every semester. "Quite a few of them get hired where they do their internships," he said, and the average starting pay is $28,000 per year.

Raised in Utica, Mich., Scharmen discovered early that he possessed God-given mechanical ability. "I can remember fixing engines as early as about age 7," he said, recalling the lawn mowers he repaired.

He graduated from Oakland University with a physics degree, working his way through college by testing new equipment at Control Data in Rochester. That led to teaching the operation of the same new equipment and Scharmen had found his calling.

He began taking education courses at OU and eventually landed at West Bloomfield High School, where he helped start that school's electronics program.

Since 1985 Scharmen has been at Schoolcraft and figures he'll be there until retirement. His 19-year-old daughter, Amy, is a Schoolcraft student, although the family lives near Howell, and son Wes, 17, plans to begin college soon. Both Scharmen offspring aim to become engineers, like their father.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Secret's out: Momma's pumpkin pie, shortbread

I hope your holidays are progressing smoothly, both in and out of the kitchen. Here are some of the questions (and answers) that have been popping up this holiday season.

Diana from Southfield is looking for a homemade replacement for a product called "Pan-Eze." You simply brush this mixture over bakeware for a practically non-stick effect.

"The Pillsbury Complete Book of Baking" recommends ¼ cup shortening and ¼ cup all-purpose flour, blended together until smooth. Keep the mixture in an airtight container in the refrigerator. It will last for 6 months. Use this mixture for recipes that call for greasing and flouring any pan.

Sandy Gilbert from Rochester requested a recipe that ran a few years back for my Momma's pumpkin pie. I found this one that ran three years ago, and it's still the best pumpkin pie you'll ever sink your teeth into (just don't tell Momma I gave out the recipe).

MOMMA'S PUMPKIN PIE CRUST

1¼ cups all-purpose flour
Dash salt
Pinch sugar
12 tablespoons (1½ sticks) cold butter
Ice water

Sift the dry ingredients. Using a metal fork, cut in the butter in small chunks to make a crumbly dough. Add a few drops of ice water until dough begins to stick together.

Wrap dough in plastic and refrigerate for 30 minutes. Sprinkle counter with flour and roll out dough to about ⅛-inch thick. Place in a prepared pie pan (Momma uses Pyrex) and pick bottom with fork tines.

For pumpkin pie, prebake crust in a 400-degree oven for 15 minutes.

PUMPKIN PIE FILLING

2 cups pumpkin puree (canned or fresh)
½ cup light brown sugar
½ cup dark brown sugar
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon allspice
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
Pinch salt
⅔ cup heavy cream
⅔ cup whole milk
4 eggs (at room temperature)

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Pour into prepared crust and place in a 375-degree oven for 30-35 minutes. Cool on a wire rack before cutting to avoid a soggy bottom crust. Makes 1 pie.

Nina Gregory from Canton called to request an authentic Scottish shortbread recipe. I was paging through some cookbook mail and came across this recipe from a Toronto cookbook store. It was the winner of their 1992 shortbread recipe contest. I made it, and thought I'd died and gone to heaven.

SCOTTISH SHORTBREAD

1 cup butter, room temperature
⅔ cup fructose (Fruit sugar available at some grocery stores and all health food stores)
1 cup cornstarch
1¼ cup all-purpose flour.

Cream butter and fructose until very light and fluffy. Sieve the cornstarch and flour together and gradually beat into creamed mixture. Knead until smooth.

Press this mixture into a 12-by-8-inch square pan. Smooth top and mark into shortbread "fingers." Prick with a fork. Bake at 325 degrees for 50 minutes.

If shortbread begins to brown too soon, turn oven down to 300 degrees. Recut fingers and sprinkle with fruit sugar while warm. Cool in pan.

Rita Judge of Livonia bought a pie on election day that I donated for my kids' school PTA fundraiser. She liked the pie so much that she requested the recipe. This Fudge Pecan Pie is sinful and loaded with calories. But it's also easy to make and great for a holiday buffet.

See more Larry Janes' family-tested recipes inside. To leave a message for Chef Larry, dial 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then mailbox number 1886.

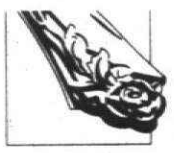
FOLLOW 'Nutcracker' TO Land of Sweets



Make your child's sweet dreams come true this holiday season by visiting the land of the "Nutcracker." The Sugarplum Fairy reigns in this magical land of bonbons, chocolate, and cookies. Your children will love the story, and the sweets that are a part of it.

Sweet dreams - "and visions of sugarplums danced in their heads." Make your child's dreams come true this holiday season. Visit the Land of Sweets, a kingdom ruled by the Sugarplum Fairy in "The Nutcracker," Tchaikovsky's classic ballet which has been delighting audiences for over 100 years.

Denise Kwas of Livonia enjoys baking, and learned a lot about sugarplums and sweets working on the Sugarplum Reception being hosted by the Michigan Ballet Theatre Company after the matinee performance on Saturday, Dec. 11. (See related story). She even found recipes for Russian teacakes and bonbons, which are represented in the ballet.

Kwas' daughter, Sarah, will be performing with the Michigan Ballet

Jewish community nourishes kosher food pantry

BY ANNE LEHMANN
SPECIAL WRITER

Think of Hanukkah, and two things come immediately to mind - menorah candles and potato pancakes or latkes.

Although most Jews gather with friends and family to share these traditions, which this year will be celebrated from sundown Dec. 8 to sundown Dec. 16, there are 5,000 people throughout metropolitan Detroit with little to celebrate. They are unemployed, elderly, new immigrants, disabled, working poor, and people who live below the poverty line and often go hungry.

For these people there is Yad Ezra, which means "helping hand" in Hebrew. The only kosher food pantry in the state, Yad Ezra has distributed hundreds of thousands of pounds of food since opening in February 1990.

According to Gary Dembs, co-founder and past president, the pantry was begun when a study revealed that nearly 3 percent of Jews needed assistance. "Our feeling was that we couldn't let even one Jewish person go hungry because kosher food wasn't available or because an individual felt uncomfortable asking for or collecting edibles. These were the people we targeted," Dembs said.

"The recognition that the hunger problem affects all people has really brought the Jewish community together," said Jeannette Eizelman, Yad Ezra's executive director.

For more information about volunteering or donating to Yad Ezra, call 548-Food.

Reform, Conservative and Orthodox synagogues have food collection bins in their lobbies and participate in the annual High Holy Days food drive. Additionally, student volunteers from area Hebrew schools do community service, while whole families and individuals young and old distribute food, stock shelves, and sort and deliver food to those unable to make it down to the pantry.

For example, Geri Rosen of Southfield, her husband Hal and their 14-year-old son Jacob spend several hours each Sunday working at Yad Ezra. They became involved when their son, about to become Bar Mitzvah, chose the emergency food pantry for his "mitzvah" or good deed project.

"Children learn by example. We weren't going to just drop him off and leave," Rosen said. "So here we are two years later, feeling very gratified about being able to help out."

Nutritious staples such as beans, rice, peanut butter, flour and sugar line the shelves of the warehouse in Oak Park. Donations add diversity to the basic list, so that there are different things available at various times.

This includes specialty items provided for the Jewish holidays. For example, last year during Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, apples and honey were available. Last year, Hanukkah candles were distributed along with the year-round staples of potato latkes and applesauce. "Maybe this year we'll be lucky and someone will donate sour cream," said Eizelman.

Yad Ezra works closely with the Food Bank of Oakland County. According to Eizelman, if unkosher food is offered to them, it is taken to the Oakland County Food Bank. "We never refuse an offer," said Eizelman.

The favor is returned when there is a surplus of kosher items. "There is an incredible cooperative spirit among hunger activists throughout the community," Eizelman said.

The annual food drive this year gleaned close to 30,000 pounds of food, but Yad Ezra also has been creative in developing alternatives for fund-raising.

For example, in the past year many families celebrating their Bar and Bat Mitzvahs opted to decorate their tables with festive food baskets in lieu of expensive flowers. These reusuable centerpieces serve a dual purpose - they look beautiful and help those in need.

In addition to providing food Yad Ezra offers referral services for those individuals with additional needs.

GATEAU BONBONS

⅔ cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
½ teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon finely grated lemon rind
2 cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon baking soda
Orange marmalade
Easy Creamy Icing (recipe follows)

Mix first six ingredients until light and fluffy. Measure flour by dipping method or by sifting. Blend dry ingredients; add to butter mixture; mix well. Chill.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Using ¼ dough at a time (keep rest refrigerated), roll ⅛-inch thick on lightly floured board.

Cut 1-inch rounds. Place half the rounds on lightly greased baking sheet. Put ¼ teaspoon marmalade in center of each. (For larger bonbons: cut 1½-inch rounds; fill with ½ teaspoon marmalade.)

Cover with remaining half of rounds; seal edges with floured finger. Bake 8 to 10 minutes, or until edges are browned. When cool, frost with tinted icing. Makes 7 dozen 1-inch bonbons.

EASY CREAMY ICING

1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla or other flavoring
1½ teaspoons cream or 1 tablespoon water

Blend sugar, salt and flavoring (try lemon, almond, or peppermint flavoring for variety). Add cream to make icing easy to spread. If desired, tint with a few drops of food coloring. Spread on cookies with spatula or pastry brush.

Recipe from "Betty Crocker Cookie Book."

RUSSIAN TEACAKES

1 cup butter or margarine
½ cup sifted confectioner's sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¼ cups all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup finely chopped nuts

Mix butter, sugar, and vanilla thoroughly. Measure flour by dipping method or by sifting. Stir flour and salt together; blend in. Mix in nuts. Chill dough.

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Roll dough into 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased baking sheet. (Cookies do not spread). Bake 10 to 12 minutes, or until set, but not brown.

While still warm, roll in confectioner's sguar. Cool. Roll in colored sugar or confectioner's sugar again.

Recipe from "Betty Crocker Cookie Book"

SWEET SUGARPLUMS

¾ cup raisins
¾ cup dried apricots
½ cup chopped dates
½ cup walnuts
1 cup blanched almonds
¼ cup orange juice
Confectioner's sugar

In blender or food processor, combine fruit and nuts. Pulse until coarse. Add orange juice and pulse until mixture sticks together.

Roll into 1-inch balls, then roll in confectioners' sugar. Refrigerate. Makes 24.

Recipe from "Family Fun Magazine," November 1993.

NEW MEXICAN HOT CHOCOLATE

½ cup sugar
¼ cup cocoa
1½ cups cold water
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
6 cups milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
Whipped cream for topping

Combine — sugar, cocoa, water and spices. Cook over medium heat; add milk and scald. Stir until smooth.

Add vanilla and top with whipped cream. Sprinkle with dash of nutmeg and cinnamon or serve with a whole cinnamon stick. Makes 6 servings.

If Mexican chocolate is available, substitute 2 sections Mexican chocolate for cocoa.

Recipe from "Comida Sambrosa," by Irene Barosa Sanchez and Gloria Sanchez Lund.

Theatre Company at the Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium in Livonia Dec. 11-12.

Sugarplums have been around since the 17th Century. "The recipe we've chosen is made with dried fruit in honor of the Sugarplum fairy," said Kwas. "The Dance of the Sugarplum fairy is a highlight of this ballet."

Mirlitons are flutes, and the dancers who dance to their piping are said to be made of marzipan, which is almond paste formed into shapes. The fruit shaped marzipan in the photo was supplied by Kemnitz Candies on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

"We carry it year-round," said Cindy Smith, daughter of store owner Audrey Hamlin. "It brings back memories of grandma."

To refresh your memory, "The Nutcracker" tells what happens to a young girl, Clara, after she receives a nutcracker doll on Christmas Eve from her godfather.

That night, Clara finds herself in a strange world. The nutcracker, is transformed into a live soldier and battles mice, which creep out of the shadows. Clara helps him defeat the mice by throwing her slipper at the Mouse King. She faints and the Nutcracker takes her to a snowy forest.

When Clara awakens, she discovers the Nutcracker has become a handsome prince. Guided by a brilliant star, they are brought to the Land of Sweets.

Act Two of the ballet takes place in the Land of Sweets where the Sugarplum Fairy rewards the young girl and her nutcracker prince with sweets.

There's a bonbon dance. They drink tea which is represented by a Chinese dance. Kwas learned that tea was often used in the past to flavor creams and confections. Coffee is represented by Arabian dancers.

Spanish dancers represent chocolate which was introduced to Europe in the 16th century by Spaniards returning from the New World.

In the movie version "George Balanchine's The Nutcracker," now playing at metro Detroit movie theaters — the Nutcracker prince is portrayed by Macaulay Culkin.

Whether you plan to see the movie, or the stage version, get into the spirit of "The Nutcracker," by sharing a cup of hot chocolate and some cookies from the Land of Sweets with your kids. Tell them the story, and they'll be dreaming sweet dreams.

Lentils add hearty flavor to traditional Hanukkah meals

MEATLESS LENTIL CHILI

1 pound lentils, rinsed
4¾ cups water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup dried onion, minced
½ teaspoon garlic powder
¾ teaspoon chili powder
1¼ teaspoon paprika
1¼ teaspoon cumin
1 16-ounce can red kidney beans
1 16-ounce can diced tomatoes
1 16-ounce can tomato puree

In a 5-quart pot bring water to boil. Reduce heat to low boil. Add lentils, salt, onion, pepper and seasonings and simmer for 40 minutes or until lentils and vegetables are tender.

Add kidney beans, tomatoes and tomato puree and continue cooking 20 to 30 minutes until flavors are blended. (Adjust amount of chili powder to taste).

ITALIAN STYLE LENTIL CASSEROLE

1 pound lentils
1 quart water
1 tablespoon oil
Salt to taste
3 cups tomato sauce, Italian style
½ tablespoon garlic, finely chopped
½ tablespoon oregano, crushed
1 green pepper cut into 1-inch cubes
3 cups bow tie pasta cooked and drained
12 ounces (about 1½ cups) Parmesan cheese, grated

Wash and drain lentils, add water, oil and salt. Bring to a boil. Simmer gently 15 minutes. Add tomato sauce, garlic and oregano. Continue cooking until lentils are tender, but still holding their shape.

Add green pepper and pasta to lentils. Adjust consistency and seasoning. Pour into greased 9 by 13 by 2-inch pan or individual baking dishes. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Place in oven heated to 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until cheese is lightly browned and lentils are hot.

Creamy dessert has place in history

The history of the cheesecake, the ultimate milchig (dairy) dessert, can be traced to Hanukkah celebrations during medieval times.

According to Joan Nathan, a Jewish cooking expert and the author of "The Jewish Holiday Kitchen," during the Middle Ages it became customary to eat cheesecake in memory of the widow Judith. Legend has it that Judith served the Assyrian general Holofernes cheesecakes and wine which he feasted on so heavily that he fell asleep. Judith beheaded him and saved the Jews from death.

"Of course, those cheesecakes were nothing like the ones we know today," said Nathan. Her research shows Judith's versions were probably rather lumpy and tasted more like savory cheese pancakes because they were made from the curd of soured cream that was hung from a bag and allowed to drain. "The cheesecake's taste and historical significance, however, grew over the years," said Nathan. "The Jews carried cheesecake recipes to all the places of their wanderings."

Today, some Jewish families honor Judith by serving cheese latkes (pancakes) during Hanukkah while others prefer rugelach (a cream cheese cookie). Another option is a more traditional baked cheesecake. Though not made with traditional ingredients, Light Pumpkin Praline Cheesecake is both deliciously indulgent and in keeping with our more health-conscious diets thanks to lower-fat dairy products and a wholesome wheat germ crust.

Whereas the classic graham cracker crust relies on butter for its flavor and crunchy texture, this wheat germ crust uses just a small amount of melted margarine in combination with an egg white and brown sugar.

Low-fat cottage cheese and egg substitute replace the traditional cream cheese and whole eggs to reduce the amount of fat and cholesterol in the filling. To duplicate the smooth, creamy texture inherent in higher fat cheeses, the cottage cheese is pureed in a blender or food processor. The remaining filling ingredients are added in two parts, and the mixture is blended again.

To allow time for the flavors to fully develop, bake the cheesecake early in the day, or even the night before, cover and refrigerate. The garnish — pecan halves and a drizzle of lite maple-flavored syrup — is as elegant as it is easy.

LIGHT PUMPKIN PRALINE CHEESECAKE

Crust
1½ cups wheat germ
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
3 tablespoons margarine, melted
1 egg white, slightly beaten
Filling
One 16-ounce carton (2 cups) 1 percent low-fat cottage cheese
½ cup canned pumpkin
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
Dash of ground cloves
Dash of ground nutmeg
½ cup egg substitute or 4 egg whites, slightly beaten
20 pecan halves (optional)
2 tablespoons lite maple-flavored syrup

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly spray 9-inch pie plate with no-stick cooking spray or grease lightly. For crust, combine wheat germ and brown sugar. Add margarine and egg white; mix well. Press mixture onto bottom and sides of prepared pie plate. Bake 8 minutes; remove from oven.

For filling, place cottage cheese in blender container or food processor; cover. Blend until smooth. Add pumpkin, brown sugar, vanilla and spices; blend well. Add egg substitute; blend just until all ingredients are combined. Pour into crust. Bake 40 to 45 minutes or until center is almost set. Cool completely. Refrigerate 3 hours or overnight.

Just before serving, arrange pecans on top of cheesecake; drizzle with syrup. 10 SERVINGS

TAKING THE LOW-DOSE ROAD

Many people have latched on to niacin supplements as a means of lowering their blood cholesterol levels. Studies show that people who took an average 1,300 milligrams of slow-release niacin daily were able to raise their levels of high-density lipoprotein (HDL, the "good" cholesterol) by 18 percent. At the same time, their low-density lipoprotein (LDL, the "bad" cholesterol) levels decreased by 13 percent, and total cholesterol decreased by nine percent. Many other studies have touted the use of megadoses (more than 2,000 mg.) of niacin to achieve beneficial effects. However, as these higher doses are more likely to cause negative side effects, we would say why use megadoses when the 1,300 mg. dose worked so well in the studies?

The GOOD FOOD CO., an alternative supermarket, offers an array of healthy vitamins and supplements along with quality natural foods. Most nutritionists and health experts agree that Americans should increase their consumption of complex carbohydrates and naturally occurring sugars (such as those found in whole grains and fresh fruits and vegetables.) Our staff always is willing to answer any questions you may have about a given product. If you like, you can call us at 981-8100. We are conveniently located at 42615 Ford Rd. Hours are M-Sat. 9-9 and Sun. 10-6. So give us a try — we offer great food at a great price! Happy Holidays!

Be sure to take some time out from shopping to attend our Grand Opening Celebration & Taste Fest in Canton.

P.S. Moderate niacin supplementation should be utilized along with a low-fat diet and exercise to reduce cholesterol levels.

FUDGE PECAN PIE

½ cup sugar
⅓ cup unsweetened cocoa
⅓ cup sifted all purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups light corn syrup
3 eggs
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1½ teaspoons vanilla
½ cup chopped pecans
9-inch unbaked pastry shell
15 pecan halves for a garnish

Combine sugar, cocoa, flour, salt, corn syrup, eggs, melted butter and vanilla in a large mixer bowl; beat 30 seconds on medium. Do not overbeat. Stir in chopped pecans.

Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 55-60 minutes and immediately arrange pecan halves on top for garnish. Cool on a wire rack. For fullest flavor, cover and allow to stand for 1 full day before serving. Makes 1 pie.

Marcia Franklin of Troy called to ask if our files had any great recipes for homemade liqueurs. Not only do we have a file full of recipes, but the one for homemade Bailey's Irish Creme is so inexpensive, so easy, and it's ready in under a week. We made this and couldn't tell the difference!

HOMEMADE IRISH CREME LIQUEUR

2 eggs
1½ cups evaporated milk
1 teaspoon chocolate syrup
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
½ teaspoon lemon extract
¼ teaspoon instant coffee
¾ cup granulated sugar
1¾ cups Irish whiskey

Combine all ingredients in a blender and blend until smooth. Bottle and allow to mellow in the refrigerator for at least one week before serving. Store in the refrigerator at all times. Makes one-fifth. Must be consumed within 2-3 weeks.

HOMEMADE KAHLUA STYLE LIQUEUR

2 cups water
¼ cup plus 2 teaspoons instant coffee granules
3½ cups granulated sugar
1 vanilla bean, split
2¾ cups vodka
¾ cup brandy
¼ teaspoon chocolate extract
1 drop red food coloring

Heat water in saucepan. When hot, add coffee, sugar and vanilla bean and stir until dissolved. Boil for 1 minute, remove from heat and cool to room temperature. Pour vodka and brandy into storage container. Stir in cooled coffee mixture and the chocolate extract. Stir well. Cap and age in a dark, cool place for 3 weeks.

Strain through a cloth lined wire sieve over a large bowl. Repeat until desired clarity is reached. Stir in food coloring. Bottle, cap and allow to age at least 1 month.

Smart 'cookies' follow simple advice

AP — Baking cookies for your family is worth the extra effort, but when you're doing it on a busy schedule, you want guaranteed success. That's why it pays to know how to prevent the most common cookie baking problems.

Problem: Cookies are tough and heavy.

Solution: This can happen when the butter or margarine or shortening isn't adequately mixed into the sugar. To be sure, beat them with an electric mixer on medium speed about 30 seconds to soften it, before adding the sugar. Using high speed may sling the butter out of the bowl. Low speed isn't powerful enough to cream the butter or margarine as much as necessary. For really stiff batters, you may have to use a sturdy, free-standing electric mixer, rather than a hand-held mixer, to get the batter thoroughly mixed.

Problem: Cookies are too dry.

Solution: Dry cookies may contain too much flour, perhaps because the flour has not been measured properly. You'll have better luck if you use graduated measuring cups (plastic or metal) for measuring dry ingredients. Spoon flour into a dry measuring cup and level it with the straight edge of a knife or spatula. Another way to avoid dry cookies is to check the cookies a few minutes before the end of the baking time so they do not overbake.

Problem: Cookies spread into each other during baking.

Solution: Spreading occurs when the cookies are too large, or are not spaced far enough apart on the baking sheet. It is also possible that the dough is too thin, either from using too little flour or too much liquid. Another factor that can cause spreading is cookie sheets that are too generously greased or that are hot from the oven. Grease cookie sheets only when the recipe recommends it and wait for them to cool slightly before baking another batch.

Problem: Cookies have an uneven color.

Solution: Good air circulation in your oven aids even baking and even color. When you arrange the cookie sheets in your oven, allow 1 to 2 inches between the sheet and the oven walls and door. And, if your oven is small, don't put one sheet directly over another, as that also results in poor air circulation.

Problem: Cookies are too brown.

Solution: If only the bottoms are too brown, chances are the baking sheet was too close to the bottom of the oven or the cookie sheet was too dark or dull. When you're shopping for a cookie sheet, look for a shiny, heavy gauge aluminum sheet with very low sides or no sides at all. Avoid dark cookie sheets because they absorb heat and may cause overbrowning on the bottoms. If the cookies are too brown all over, either the oven is too hot, the cookies are smaller than the recipe specifies or the baking sheet was touching the sides of the oven.

Problem: Cookies stick to the baking sheet.

Solution: Sticking can happen when the baking sheet is not sufficiently greased or when certain high-sugar ingredients, such as candies or raisins, burn on the sheets. You can prevent sticking by removing the cookies from the baking sheet almost immediately. Non-stick cookie sheets can also help, although they can affect the cookie texture. The baked results are a little thicker, with very smooth bottoms. If you're using insulated baking sheets, expect cookies to be paler in color with a soft-set centers and thin edges.

LINDA BACHRACK

Let's wrap it up and do it right

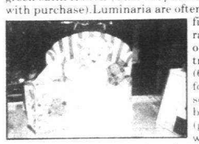
As you ponder your gift list this holiday season, don't forget to give some thought to the wrapping. Your presentation could be a present unto itself with a little imagination and a bit of ingenuity. You'll find that the pleasure of a beautifully wrapped gift is in the giving as well as in the receiving.

For simple yet distinctive wraps, embellish plain brown craft paper with a combination of jute and wired gold or red ribbon. To personalize, dip a pencil eraser in black paint and dot the package and the ribbon. Or cut a star-shape into the eraser and paint a golden celestial look onto your wrap. With very little investment in time or money, you've created a clever gift wrap that will stand out under anyone's tree.

If you need a little more inspiration for eye-catching wraps, look no farther than the window of Barbara's Paper Bag, 147 Pierce in Birmingham.

Venture inside to choose from the shelves of specialty ribbons, including wired metallics, gold rope, velvets, plaids, satins and printed Christmas designs. Of special note is the elasticized wired-ribbon in red or gold that can be shaped to your heart's desire.

Barbara's has all manner of gift bags, and a size to hold the largest stuffed bear or the tiniest jewelry box. I especially like the stocking-shaped bags decorated with scenes from Winnie the Pooh or The Nutcracker or sprinkled with snowflakes (large stockings, $3.25; small, $2.25).Mickey Mouse and his friends brighten assorted-shaped bags, and tissue paper is printed to match. Angels and Santas and peppermint sticks adorn still more bags. Fill with red, green and gold tinsel for a fun and festive look. Or opt for the traditional red plaid or Barbara's signature red-and-white-stripe paper with green satin ribbon (This wrap is complimentary with purchase).Luminaria are often difficult to find and Barbara's offers green or red Christmas tree-design bags (65 cents). Also found, a great selection of wine bottle bags (good for ties, as well as libations) and heart or star-shaped gift boxes covered in decorative paper. New this year are recycled transparent bags printed with holiday designs. They look great filled with solid color or plaid tissue ($4.75).



Once you've picked your paper or your bag, add a decorative touch with a holiday sticker — maybe a wreath or a silver bell, a snowflake or a Christmas tree.

If, by chance, you can't seem to find exactly what you want, Barbara's can special order personalized ribbons printed with a name or message ($22.80 for 100 feet) and custom bags in a variety of sizes and colors. Allow 10 days for your order.

At Twelve Oaks Mall, shop Scarlet Letters for artistic papers by Marcel Schurman ($2 per sheet) and enchanting gift bags by Mary Engelbreit, Gordon Fraser and Claire Bannister.

Most of the large specialty stores offer free gift boxes. Neiman Marcus tucks your purchase inside an elegant gold box with a red top; Jacobson's customers receive a shiny silver box. Simply add a gorgeous iridescent ribbon from the new Lee's Specialty in the Somerset Collection. The choices are endless.

That's a wrap!

Look good at parties this season

What to wear to holiday parties has always been a tricky decision. This year, separates and accessories are strong for the budget-minded, but it may also be the year to splurge on the glamorous gotta-have-it creations.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

At a recent Jacobson's holiday fashion show, some of the featured outfits came from the loungewear department.

Moderator Linda Gundersen, of the Laurel Park Place store in Livonia, urged guests not to overlook dressy robes, velour jumpsuits and roomy palazzo pants when getting ready for holiday events, especially those winter nights at home.

"Soft looks are very popular this season," she said. "Some designers reminiscent of the '30s and '40s. Evening wear is long, flowing. It clings to the feminine form."

Gundersen pointed out that the holidays are the time to buy fancier pieces of clothing because the selection of special-occasion dressing is so extensive and shoppers may not be able to find flounces and frills at other times of the year.

Sheaths and sarongs appear in almost all holiday collections in black, red and gold. Frog closures are back. Chain belts are added on. Many women like to pair a warm, decorated [illegible] with a velvet skirt or black, wool crepe slacks.

"Separates are great because they can be dressed up or down," according to Gundersen. "Long beads and big scatter pins can transform a basic look into something appropriate for a party."

James Revoir a sales consultant in the men's department said accessories can also help the male partygoer jazz up a regular suit or old sport coat. The quickest way, according to Revoir is with a new tie. He suggested the latest holiday designs from Neiman Marcus, Metropolitan Museum of Art or Looney Tunes, depending on one's frame of mind.

The Frops winner is off to New York

Susan Haight of Farmington Hills won a trip for two to the Big Apple next week, courtesy of Hamilton, Miller, Hudson and Fayne Travel Corp. for submitting the best gift list for hard-to-shop for Frops, Felicity and Fenton.

Runners-up were Doreen Walkuski of Livonia, Sara Cullen of Birmingham, and Carol Kronk of Farmington Hills, who also submitted clever gift lists.

Honorable mentions must go to a few other shoppers who really made it hard to pick the best, their ideas were also note worthy, Mary Jean Willette of Plymouth, Kathleen Thompson of Farmington, David Johnson of Garden City and Susan Thompson of Troy.

A big thanks to all readers who took the time to compose shopping lists and submit them for consideration. We're publishing the top four with the hope the suggestions inspire shoppers with gift ideas for the hard-to-please on their lists.

Winning ideas

Dear Sis, It is high time we put the last of the family gift lists together for the holiday season, (which invariably means I do all the work and you just send me a check!) including dear 'ol Uncle Fenton (as dull as a pair of safety scissors) and kind Auntie Felicity (who could bore the bloomers off Betsy Ross.) I would trade all of my presents this year to have them move closer to you instead of living in Farmington . . . Until then, here are some suggestions:

For Uncle Fenton: To keep up with the world around him, a year's subscription to the Observer & Eccentric (Livonia), a coupon for his annual car emissions test from March Tire (Farmington), a tour of the Morley Candy Factory (Mt. Clemens) with a souvenir box of chocolates, put $100 or less into the stock market with a broker like Carl Gill at First of Michigan (Southfield) to invest on Uncle Fenton's behalf, and perhaps the

For Auntie Felicity: She doesn't care for facials and manicures, but she does have her hair trimmed when she finds someone who will do exactly what she says like Joanne Colombo at The Headquarters (Livonia). And even though, "Don't call us, we'll call you," is her motto, a $25 Ameritech calling certificate could be applied to her monthly service fee. To tackle the dust bunnies rivaling Uncle Fenton for Auntie's affections, a quick cleaning by The Merry Maids (Farmington). To lock up her prized possessions, a safe deposit box at MetroBank (Farmington). Happy Holidays and send money! Susan Haight.

Other ideas

"Aunt Felicity is badly in need of holiday romance," wrote Sara Cullen of Birmingham. Here is her list: Gift certificate for one night at the Townsend Hotel, Birmingham, a red chiffon nightie and matching robe from Victoria Secret, Birmingham, a gold gift box of chocolate covered cherries from Gail's, Birmingham, a bottle of French champagne from Merchant of Vino, Birmingham, and scented bath oils and a natural sea sponge from Casewell & Massey in Birmingham.

"Old Uncle Fenton needs a new image," so give him a gift certificate for one ear piercing at Crowley's, haircut at Thomas D Salon in Birmingham, gift certificate for one free month of salon tanning at Birmingham Tanning Club, new jeans from The Gap, new denim shirt and southwest plaid vest from Caruso, Caruso in Birmingham.

Making memories

Doreen Walkuski suggested a heart-warming gift of winter memories from the J.C.Penney catalog, "put it on your charge, have everything delivered to their home and show up on Christmas morning with a smile, hugs and kisses and making grand memories." Her idea is to order two rocking chairs, his and hers pajamas, two folding tray tables, two comforters and puzzles to keep them busy through spring.

Carol Kronk set up her gift lists appealing to the five senses and five basic needs: "everyone eats, sleeps, cleanses, keeps warm and needs shelter," she wrote, her suggestions included flannel sheets, yule logs, toiletries, teas, potpourri pots, and the best for anyone, "a casserole, either prepared or just the fixings, with a recipe card and a new casserole dish from Cargo Express in Farmington or Williams & Sonoma in Troy and Livonia.

"I'm too busy to go shopping so I like the pieces I do buy to be able to stretch for different occasions," she said.

Susan Deacon and Julie Ryckman, both of Birmingham, agreed that in their lives, an event is either dressy or casual, there's no in-betweens.

"I need both kinds of clothing," Ryckman said, "It's hard to find one garment that can be worn everywhere. But I'm looking."

Beth James a Livonia teacher and her friends Marianne Buschma of Novi and Judi Alessandri of Livonia liked a classic-styled red crepe chiffon from the Ursula Collection at Jacobson's.

"It's something I could wear lots of places," James said.

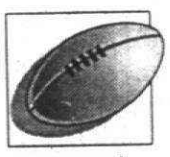
John Glenn can't stall Tractors

■ Westland John Glenn, making its first appearance ever in the state football finals, came up just short in the Class AA title game against Dearborn Fordson, 12-7.

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER



It was a sad ending to a glorious football season Saturday for Westland John Glenn at the Pontiac Silverdome.

With an offensive line averaging 264 pounds per man, Dearborn Fordson, aptly nicknamed the Tractors, captured the state Class AA championship, bulldozing to a 12-7 victory over the Rockets.

It was Fordson's first state title in four trips to the championship final.

The Tractors, who lost their season opener in overtime to Detroit DePorres, finished the season with 12 straight wins.

Glenn bowed out with an 11-2 record, losing only to a pair of state champions, Class A winner Farmington Hills Harrison and Fordson.

Freshman tailback Kamal Jaafar, substituting in the second half for the injured Ali Saad, scored the game-winning touchdown on a 1-yard run with only 3:08 remaining. The drive, covering 72 yards in 12 plays, consumed 7:08 of the clock.

"The number four kept coming up all week in practice," Fordson coach Jeff Stergalas said. "The kids reminded me it was our fourth playoff game, my fourth year as head coach and our fourth trip here.

"And now today we come back in the fourth quarter. Even when it was crunch time, our kids just kept saying, 'Don't worry coach, we're going to come back.' "

Using a hurry-up offense, Glenn made one desperate, last-ditch effort during the final three minutes of action.

Quarterback Brian Morrison, who was 10 of 20 on the day for 137 yards and one TD, hit Jeromey Cosby out of the backfield for 16 yards and Bryan Besco for 28 more to move the team down to the Fordson 38.

Rally falls short

The drive stalled as Fordson's defense stiffened after Morrison failed to connect on three of four passing tries.

"It was an outstanding game, but of course I wish it had turned out differently," Glenn coach Chuck Gordon said. " We really had an unbelievably tough road to even get here. We had to go through a pay-to-play thing ($167 per student, per sport), and we didn't even know if we'd have it until August 2nd when our school board OK'd it.

"For these guys to get to this point, continue to work and train hard under the adverse circumstances, is credit to this group. It's just a great bunch of kids who play hard and are great to coach. It's a special team. It's a group I'll really miss."

It was a defensive struggle all the way.

Glenn opening drive

The Rockets had only two possessions in the opening half.

They marched to the Fordson 9 in the first quarter, but were denied when Ron Byers tipped Morrison's throw at the line of scrimmage. The ball was picked off by Michael Saad, who returned it to the Fordson 34.

"You like to go down there and score because you don't get a lot of chances against a team like Fordson," Gordon said. "Against them you've got to capitalize."

In the second quarter, Fordson drove to the Glenn 13, but Nasser Salame's 30-yard field goal attempt sailed wide.

Glenn scored with 1:14 to go in the half on a 12-yard fade from Morrison to Derek Besco.

The throw was directed to the corner of the end zone where Besco beat Fordson defender Brain Wroblewski for the catch. A 38-yard run by senior tailback Tariq Horne (101 yards in 19 carries) and a key third-down and 17-yard pass from Morrison to tight end Mike Bint, set up the score.

Glenn leads at half

Following Brian Kolb's extra point, Glenn went into the dressing room at intermission with a 7-0 lead.

Cosby then returned the second-half kickoff 37 yards, putting the Rockets at their own 43.

But Horne, who had 67 first-half yards, could muster only 5 on three straight carries as Glenn turned the ball over on downs.

"They stepped up their defense a little more in the second half," said Horne, who gained more than 1,000 yards for the year. "Whatever adjustments they made were successful."

Fordson seized the moment, answering with a nine-play, 78-yard scoring drive.

Fordson's 1st TD

Michael Saad took it in from 5 yards out with 3:53 left in the third quarter, but Salame's extra-point attempt was blocked by Glenn's Dave Irwin as the Rockets clung to a 7-6 advantage.

"We had talked about coming out for the second half and mounting a touchdown drive," Gordon said. "Looking back, I can't really point to that as a turning point because we punted the thing out of there.

"But Fordson is a big, powerful team. There are two things they do extremely well. The can line up with their size and just mash you, or they use a lot of misdirection plays and have the quickness to complement it."

Fordson defense holds

Early in the fourth quarter, Glenn took the ball all the way down to the Fordson 28, but were denied on fourth-and-8 as Morrison's pass, intended for Derek Besco, was broken up.

Fordson began its game-winning drive with 10:16 to play.

The Tractors made three quick first downs, but got a break when the Rockets were penalized 15 yards for pass interference. On the play, Ali Barakat's pass was fired well past the intended receiver.

Two plays later, Barakat fumbled at the Rockets' 12 after gaining eight yards on a quarterback draw but was able to fall on the ball to keep the drive alive. Jaafar scored three plays later to put Fordson ahead for good.

"You know when that big offensive line comes off the ball that they mean business," Gordon said. "We needed a big play in there, a fumble recovery or something, but nothing bounced our way today.

"Looking back, we gave them too much yardage on first down. That's the most important down because that dictates what you can do on second and third."

Big clumps of yards

With Fordson churning out big chunks on the ground, Glenn's secondary found itself tackling more than covering.

"It was a physical game and I guess we didn't play as physical as they did," said Irwin, a 5-foot-8, 150-pound senior.

"They were pretty big," senior Jake Henry said of Fordson. "They just cleared the way. You could see it coming, even though they were quick and used good fakes, but it was tough to get to with those blockers in your face."

Rockets only big play away

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Westland John Glenn senior defensive back Dave Irwin got his helmet on the football, but he couldn't get his hands on it.

With Glenn leading 7-6 midway through the fourth quarter of Saturday's Class AA state championship at the Pontiac Silverdome, Irwin caused Dearborn Fordson quarterback Ali Barakat to fumble at the Rockets' 12-yard line.

But Barakat recovered his own fumble after gaining eight yards on a quarterback draw and three plays later, freshman tailback Kamal Jaafar scored from 2 yards out to cap a 78-yard drive and give Fordson its first state championship, 12-7.

"I stuck my helmet in on the ball and it popped loose," said Irwin, who blocked an extra point attempt after Fordson's first score in the third quarter. "When I looked at the pile-up, I saw (teammate) Jake Henry on the bottom and I thought he had the ball but then I heard the referee say 'Blue ball.' "

Barakat, who also directed a 12-play, 72-yard scoring drive in the third quarter, said he just happened to be in the right place at the right time. The Tractors also got help earlier in the winning drive when Glenn was penalized for pass interference on an overthrown pass on second-down and nine from the Rockets' 38.

"The guy (Irwin) hit the ball with his helmet, it bounced, then came right back," Barakat said. "I went after it and wasn't going to let go. The refs said, 'Blue's got it,' and the other team was saying, 'We got it.' "

Glenn coach Chuck Gordon said the significance of the pass interference penalty was "huge."

Jaafar finished with 10 carries for 92 yards, gaining 23 yards on five attempts during the winning drive. The Tractors needed a strong effort from Jaafar in the second half with starting tailback Ali Saad on crutches after hurting his knee in the first half.

"I told the freshman he's got to pick it up — and he did," Fordson coach Jeff Stergalas said.

The 19 points were the fewest scored in a Class AA final game and that's just the way Fordson likes it. Glenn quarterback Brian Morrison completed a Class AA championship game record 10 passes in 20 attempts for 137 yards and led the Rockets to Fordson's 28 early in the fourth quarter, but a fourth-down pass intended for Derek Besco inside the 10 was knocked down.

Glenn also reached Fordson's 38 in the last minute after a 28-yard pass to Bryan Besco but four straight incompletions ended the Rockets' hopes of a first state title.

"We like to put the game in our defense's hands," Stergalas said.

Fordson gained 205 of its 225 total yards on the ground. Glenn tailback Tariq Horne finished with 101 yards on 19 carries but had only 32 yards on 10 carries in the second half.

The Rockets had 92 yards on 24 carries, a 3.8 yards per carry average.

"When we had the ball, we were very confident," Morrison said. "We work the two-minute offense a lot so we're not surprised when we have to use it. This last season was fun, the best time anyone can have. It was an awesome season, but it has to end on a note like this."

Murphy selects Alabama

Shay Murphy, a senior at Plymouth Canton High School, has accepted a gymnastics scholarship to attend the University of Alabama.

Murphy had also visited Kentucky, Nebraska and Michigan and turned down a visit to Michigan State after she had decided to sign with the Crimson Tide, who were runners-up to national champion Georiga earlier this year.

Alabama coaches David and Sarah Patterson learned of Murphy through Dana Dobransky, a former club teammate with Blakes Acronauts who competed for Alabama.

"I didn't know how badly they wanted me," Murphy said. "Everybody told me good things about Alabama, and I had a really fun time when I went there for my trip.

"It was like I always wanted go to there. I was really excited when I found out they really wanted me."

Murphy, who finished 23rd in the Level 10 Junior Nationals earlier this year, is best on the balance beam and floor exercise.

"I'll do whatever helps the team because in college it's the team that counts, not just individuals anymore," she said. "If I have to do two events to help the team, that's what I'll do. I don't want to do an event and bring the team down. I like them all, but I like floor and beam the most."

Schoolcraft steals a win

If only it was like this every game . . .

Midway through the second half, Schoolcraft College was trailing. But the Ocelots' coach, Dave Bogataj, could sense a pattern evolving — one his team just might be able to take advantage of.

"We fell behind by nine in the first couple of minutes in the second half, then we cut it to four," Bogataj said. "I turned to my assistant coach, Mitch (Fyke), and to Kim (Kotlewski, the trainer), and said, 'If we can keep it close and play two minutes of defense, we can steal one.' "

That turned out to be the script. SC overcame a nine-point deficit in the last two minutes to shock host Glen Oaks CC 96-95 Tuesday.

There were plenty of heroes for SC, which evened its record at 3-3. At the forefront was Todd McNeil, the 6-foot-7 sophomore center who burned Glen Oaks for 38 points on 15-of-22 shooting — including the biggest basket of the game, the go-ahead score with four seconds left.

But McNeil would never have been in that position if not for Steve Whitlow. With the deficit at nine and just two minutes left, Whitlow drained a three-pointer from 22 feet as the shot clock ran out. Glen Oaks, which was hardly shy putting up shots, missed and the Ocelots responded quickly, with Whitlow again hitting from three-point range.

The nine-point cushion had shrunk to three, with 1:40 left.

SC went to a press and Abu Hamilton got the steal. Fouled driving to the basket, he converted both free throws and with :52 to go the difference was just one point.

More pressure on defense resulted in an SC foul, but Glen Oaks could not convert either free throw. The Ocelots missed on their possession, with Glen Oaks retrieving the rebound — and running the ball. An unnecessary driving layup proved disasterous when McNeil held his ground, blocking the shot and snatching the loose ball, then calling timeout.

Figuring Glen Oaks would expect Whitlow to take the final shot, Bogataj had him imbounds the ball to Hamilton, who sped past the startled Glen Oaks defenders before dishing off to McNeil for the game-winner.

McNeil also led SC in rebounding with 12. Whitlow contributed 24 points, nine boards and four assists, and Hamilton had 21 points and five assists. Schawn Brown paced the Ocelots with six assists and combined with Melton Stoudemire, Ricky Mitchell and Mark Cady to help them handle Glen Oaks' press.

Donnie Hackworth netted 32 points for Glen Oaks (2-2). Kyle Hamlin had 19 and Scott Hall 16.

Madonna falls to 0-5

A poor first half proved, once again, to be the downfall for Madonna University's men's basketball team, which lost 112-79 to Shawnee State Tuesday at Madonna.

"We did improve our free throw shooting slightly," said Fighting Crusader coach Bill Sharpe, "but all the other categories were dismal. We didn't get 100 shots and we didn't shoot 40 percent from three-point range. It was a poor shooting night for us. We shot about 33 percent from the floor.

"And we played like chumps again in the first half."

Which is why Shawnee State led 60-31 at the break. The second half was fairly even (52-48, Shawnee), but by then the outcome wasn't in question.

Mike Slone paced Madonna with 26 points. Brandon Slone had 15 and J. Dimes had 12. For Shawnee, Darius Williams popped in 42 points and Randall Pennington had 25.

Hawks earn another state championship

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

■ FOOTBALL

Farmington Hills Harrison is considered a small football team, but the Hawks always have an equalizer with 230-pound junior Nick Williams in their backfield.

The Hawks (11-2), led by one record-setting effort and a near-miss from Williams, came up big again Friday in the Class A championship game.

Williams rushed for 168 yards on 28 carries to lead Harrison to its sixth state title and fourth in six years with a 12-9 victory over Midland in the Silverdome.

The number of attempts is a Class A record, bettering the 27 by Traverse City's Mike Nadlicki (1988) and East Lansing's Randy Kinder (1991), and his rushing total was one shy of the Class A record held by Midland Dow's Scott Alexander (1976).

"Anybody who's human would say he'd like to have the record," Williams said. "But I'm happy with what I got. We have plenty of great players, and all of us have had our day. I'm just very proud to be a state champion."

Despite its lack of size, Harrison relied on a power attack with Williams at tailback during the playoffs, and the Hawks used that approach again to defeat Midland (10-3).

"The last third of the season, with the exception of the Brother Rice game, he's done very well, and the line has really blocked well," Harrison coach John Herrington said.

"We also moved Brock Gove into the backfield. He's never carried the ball, but he's given us an extra blocker. We call (wingback) Brendan Cotter our deep guard, and he's done a great job of blocking, too."

"I didn't think (the Hawks could run power so effectively), but (assistant coach) Steve Dollaway kept saying 'You're going to run power and they're not going to stop Nick.' We really don't have the big linemen to power them, but we do have Cotter and Gove to help them."

Williams, who scored the Harrison touchdown on a 1-yard run, was hampered late in the regular season and didn't play against Rice because of an Achilles injury.

"It still hasn't healed completely," he said. "Everybody kept telling me 'It's in your head and block it out.' I said 'I can't keep it from holding down my season and keep us from winning the state.'"

The Hawks started well and took charge early with their power attack, but they were their worst enemy at times and probably should have had more than a 3-2 halftime lead.

The latter was the case in the third quarter when Midland capitalized on two roughing-the-punter penalties to score its only TD.

"We played with a lot of enthusiasm, but we didn't play real smart at times," Herrington said.

The Chemics controlled the ball for the first 8:18 of the period and went 78 yards in 16 plays to take a 9-3 lead on Brent Wallace's 16-yard pass to Dave Twomley. Harrison defensive back Dave Hensel got a hand on the ball in the end zone but tipped it into the grasp of Twomley.

Harrison responded with a 70-yard drive on its next possession to regain the lead (10-9) after Gove kicked the extra point. Williams dashed 46 yards to the Midland 14, leading to the TD with 10 seconds left in the third.

"I thought 'OK, we've got plenty of time, let's keep our composure (after the Midland score)," Herrington said. "I stopped my impulses to throw deep and get it back right away — 'just do what we've been doing well' — and Nick popped one outside."

The Hawks faced another crucial test when Midland's Joe Danna downed Chris Stanton's punt at the Harrison 1-yard line with 8:58 remaining.

With Williams running the ball, the Hawks used six minutes of the clock and drove to the Midland 41. On third-and-seven at the Harrison 15, Joe Pesci passed 13 yards to Kevin Bryant, who made an acrobatic catch for the first down.

"I think the biggest play of the game was when we hit Bryant with the pass on third down," Herrington said.

"In high school football, chances are good they're going to score something on you in that situation. So we had to do something on that drive, or it would have been all over."

"There were times we could have gotten field position and didn't," Midland coach Gary Jozwiak said. "That very first series, when they were on the 1, is where you have to do it. That's where you have to stop them, and we couldn't seem to come up with a play."

The Hawks punted from the Midland 41 and let the defense do its part. A penalty and a Tim Bares sack for a 12-yard loss pushed the Chemics back to their 8.

Stanton ran out of the end zone, giving up a safety and accounting for the 12-9 score instead of punting from there.

The ensuing onside kick bounced out of bounds at the Midland 33. The Hawks failed to get a first down, giving the Chemics one more play with seven seconds remaining, but the pass was incomplete.

Harrison drove to the Midland 8 with the opening kickoff, but Pesci's pass was incomplete after he mishandled the snap on an intended 25-yard field goal by Gove.

Gove nailed a 35-yarder after the Hawks were stopped at the Midland 18 on their second possession. The score stayed 3-0 until Midland's Steve Markey tackled Pesci for a safety late in the first half.

Harrison outgained Midland 170-101 on the ground and 230-153 overall. Pesci completed five of 14 passes for 60 yards and Wallace five of 17 for 52.

Jason Granger had 22 yards on five carries for Harrison, and Rob Bauer rushed 22 times for 87 yards to lead the Chemics.

Marian halts Mercy's tournament run

BY MARTY BUDNER
STAFF WRITER

■ BASKETBALL

A few minutes after an exhausting 18-point loss to Birmingham Marian in last week's regional championship game, a bewildered Mercy coach Larry Baker sat at the end of his team's bench trying to figure out exactly what went wrong.

After all, the Marlins had entered the title game with a seven-game winning streak that included a stunning regional semifinal upset victory over Plymouth Canton. Even though Mercy had lost twice to Marian during the regular season, Baker felt his team was playing its best ball of the season and were well prepared for the Mustangs.

Not so.

When it was over, the Marlins lost by the biggest margin of the season to their Catholic League rivals. Marian was in control all the way and strolled to a 56-38 triumph at Southfield-Lathrup High School.

"The kids were very excited about playing and really were looking forward to it," said Baker. "I just think that when Marian came out as strong as they did we got worried immediately about them getting away from us and it kind of fed into a panic situation out there.

"We've been turnover prone this year and tonight we kind of reverted a bit. Mary (Marian coach Mary Lillie-Cicerone) has done a phenomenal job with this team and they played with a real killer instinct. They deserve a lot of credit for setting us back on our heels.

"Frankly, we were really a hot team," he said. "Coming off the big upset, I thought it was a big advantage for us, not a disadvantage."

Employing its normal full-court defensive pressure, the Mustangs forced nine first-quarter turnovers en route to a 14-8 lead. The Mustangs held a 12-10 second-quarter scoring advantage and led 26-18 at halftime.

The third quarter proved to be the difference.

Marian held Mercy scoreless through the first six minutes of the quarter in hiking its lead to 41-18. The Mustang offense was keyed by two triples from junior Julie Storen. Defensively, Marian forced 12 turnovers and held Mercy to just seven shots.

"We played really aggressive defense, we got out on their shooters and we covered the key well," said Cicerone. "The kids just hustled their butts of out there.

"We stayed in our trapping zone. It worked against them two times before so we weren't going to change anything," she said.

Judy Stuart, a senior center, paced the Mustangs with 14 points. She also contributed nine rebounds, five steals and three assists.

"Judy has played hard all year," said Cicerone. "In big games like this she comes up big for us. She just works so hard to get everywhere on the floor."

Ever-improving sophomore guard Brandi Bentley scored a dozen points to accompany five steals. Storen finished with 14 points and four steals.

"I was a little worried about complacency," said Cicerone. "I was so glad we watched that (Mercy-Canton) game so we knew this was a different Mercy team. But we ended up beating them by more than we did the first two outings

"We were very poised. We were all nervous but the kids played well," she said. "We were after it and smart today. When you play tough teams you have to be ready and play tough."

Mercy, which finished with a 12-13 overall record, did not have one player reach double-figure scoring. Glenda Lee and Amanda Northcross paced the scoring with six points each.

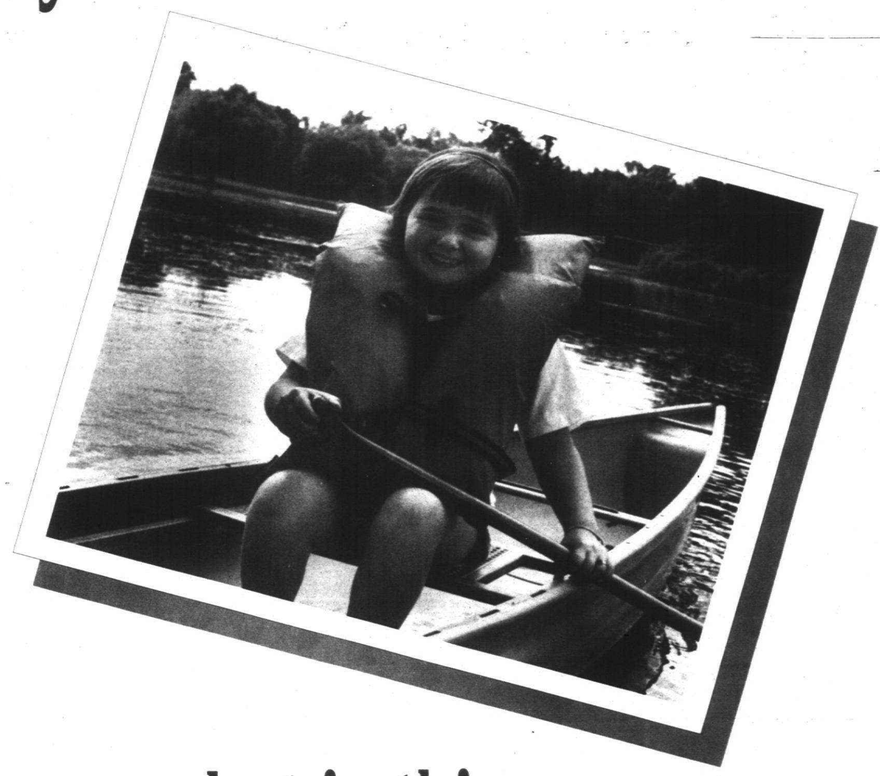
A picture may be worth a thousand words,



but in this case, only two are important:

"Thank you."

Without your generous support many needy people in our community would have no one to turn to for help. On behalf of the 1.7 million people in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties whose lives will improve because of your generosity, we thank you.

Still the best way to show you care.

Hume Cronyn stars in CBS' new 'Hall of Fame' drama

By John Crook

Hume Cronyn plays Sam Peek, an elderly Georgian whose devotion to his wife transcends death, in "To Dance With the White Dog," a Hallmark Hall of Fame production airing Sunday, Dec. 5, on CBS. The drama, adapted from Terry Kay's 1990 prize-winning novel, co-stars Jessica Tandy as Cora Peek, along with Esther Rolle, Christine Baranski, Amy Wright and Frank Whaley as other friends and family members.

Filmed last August and September near Americus, Ga., the TV movie opens in 1966, at Sam and Cora's 50th wedding anniversary. While Sam has spent those years tending to his pecan orchard, Cora has raised their four children.

Seven years later Cora dies, and Sam finds himself bedeviled by his well-meaning daughters, who worry that he can't make it on his own. A fiercely proud man, Sam insists on living alone, surrounded by his memories. His daughters' fears appear to be confirmed when their father begins to report visits from a white stray dog — which no one else ever seems to see. Sam welcomes the animal gladly, seeing the dog as a companion who will help him work through his grief and loss.

As the story nears its climax, Sam loads his walker, and the White Dog, into his rusty truck and sets off to revisit the location where he and Cora spent "the best day of my life." During this poignant journey, Sam comes to appreciate how fulfilling his long life actually has been.

Cronyn says the story first came to his attention two years ago. "(Producer) Patricia Clifford sent me Terry Kay's book and asked me if I'd be interested in playing Sam Peek," he recalls. "I wrote back immediately and said, 'You bet!' I thought it had the potential to be a wonderfully affirmative story about people facing death, which is so terrifying for a lot of people. You know, there's a line in 'Peter Pan' where Peter says, 'To die must be a great adventure.' I love the potential behind that thought, and I felt we could deal with that whole concept here."

The actor says he found himself haunted by the book, as time passed with no further news on the movie. He approached Hallmark, but for various reasons they initially turned down the project. He did pique the interest of Susan Cooper, with whom he wrote the award-winning play that became the "Hall of Fame" production "Foxfire."

"In thinking about the (novel), which opens with Sam mourning the death of his wife... I felt their relationship was just central to the whole story and would be much stronger if you saw them together before she died," Cronyn says. "Susan agreed with me and wrote it that way. We took it to Jessie and said, 'This is a smaller part than you've been playing recently. What about it?' She said, 'I'd love to do it!' So, to that extent, I was (involved in the development). I was just in the wings, nudging."

Kay, who has pronounced himself moved and satisfied with the TV movie, acknowledges that he based his novel on actual events in the lives of his own parents. "There was a grand romance of life between them," the author writes. "And there was a White Dog."

Both Cronyn and Tandy have made some of their most striking impressions with Southern projects: he with "Foxfire," "Conrack" and "The Dollmaker" (which he co-wrote with Cooper); she in "A Streetcar Named Desire" on Broadway," and "Driving Miss Daisy" and "Fried Green Tomatoes" on the big screen. Cronyn insists that there is no grand scheme in this.

"(With 'White Dog,') you have a writer who was born, grew up and was a journalist in England, Susan Cooper. You have Jessie, who was born and started her whole career in England. Then," he adds drily, "you have that colonial castoff Hume Cronyn, who was born in Canada. It's pure coincidence, I think, that we've gravitated so often to stories about the South."

To some extent, so is the frequency with which Cronyn and Tandy have worked together. Both, he says, are wary of the traps. "I fight to keep scripts from being too sentimental, or mawkish... I don't want to create an image of 'Oh, there are the dear old cronies again.' So we choose carefully. This time, I think we've chosen well."

HOROSCOPE

By C.C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 19)
A friend will give you a new lease on life. You will begin to feel the weight of responsibilities at home. Money worries should subside for a while.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20)
Your stubborn attitude could get you in trouble at home and work. Take a glance inward to see where all your troubles lie.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
Creative endeavors will take off in full force, and things will begin to go your way for once. Someone close to you has important information for you.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)
Take a break from your hectic schedule and enjoy the simple things in life. A domestic problem could get out of hand, if you are not careful.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)
You may seem a little out of sorts for a while, but things will come together for you soon. Try not to worry so much about what other people think.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)
You may have to cancel some long-awaited plans, but the alternative will be much more exciting. You will be in the right place at the right time.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
Do not let the many stresses of life make you ill. You have the power to change your life for the better, and it is time you did so.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)
A love relationship may be suffering from neglect and you had better get it back on track. Show your great appreciation of someone close to you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)
Push away bad influences and get on with what is most important. Use your imagination to get you out of a difficult situation.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)
You may have romantic feelings toward someone you do not know very well. Take your time, and do not jump into anything too quickly.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
There are people who are skeptical about the changes you have made in your life, but do not let these people get you down.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)
You may be able to obtain an article you thought was unavailable. A message concerning a loved one will surprise you.

TRIVIA QUIZ

Who played 'The Gunfighter'?

BY STEVEN ALAN MCGAW

Questions:

1. Identify the star who played the title role in the 1950 psychological Western "The Gunfighter." (Bonus: Name the eventual Oscar winner who made an early screen appearance as a bartender in the film.)

2. This veteran of TV's "The Addams Family" played the title role in a 1971 TV movie titled "Evel Roy Slade." Name the actor. (Bonus: The same performer took over, for one episode, the recurring role usually played by an actor/impressionist in a popular TV series of the mid-1960s. Name the show, the role and the regular player.)

3. Justine Bateman delighted no one with her work in this 1988 flop. Name the film. (Bonus: How was the film retitled for its network TV debut?)

4. Name the Seven Dwarfs.

5. Who starred in the 1988 docudrama "The Ann Jillian Story"?

Answers:

1. "Hideous Corpus."

2. John Astin, best known as Gomez Addams, played Slade. He also made a guest appearance in "Batman," subsequently playing the Riddler for seven regular stints as the Riddler for series regular Frank Gorshin.

3. The dismal "Satisfaction" was called "The Girls of Summer" when it aired on NBC.

4. They are Dopey, Bashful, Sneezy, Happy, Grumpy and Doc.

5. Surprise! It was Ann Jillian playing herself.

LET'S TALK

Leslie Neilsen mystery solved, Jenna von Oy info and an R.F.D. snafu

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I am a big fan of Leslie Neilsen. I think I've seen almost everything, movies and television, he has ever appeared in, but I know there are some things I haven't. I remember a thriller he starred in during the late '70s or early '80s, but I don't remember the title. Could you please help me? –G.L., San Angelo, Texas.

A: Judging by the list you enclosed of Leslie Neilsen features that you have seen, I believe the movie you are looking for is "Creepshow" from 1982. Neilsen starred in one of that film's vignettes, playing a jealous husband who buries his wife and her boyfriend up to their necks in the sand. He makes the two lovers watch each other on TV monitors as the tide comes in. Fear not, just desserts are meted out to Neilsen.

Q: Can you please give me some information about Jenna von Oy of "Blossom," who plays Six? Where is she from? What else has she done in her acting career? Where can I write to her? –A.C., Beaumont, Texas.

A: Jenna is originally from Connecticut. She made her motion picture debut in the Academy Award-winning "Born on the Fourth of July," in which she played Suzanne, the younger sister of Tom Cruise's character. Jenna has made numerous appearances on television series such as "Kate and Allie" and "Tales from the Darkside." She also has been featured in the daytime dramas "Guiding Light," "As the World Turns" and "Loving." You can write her C/O Lippin Group, 270 Park Ave., Suite 550, New York, N.Y. 10169.

Lisa Rinna gets what she wants from life

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Lisa Rinna, who portrays sexy Billie Reed on "Days of Our Lives," works hard and plays hard. She is a determined young woman whose motto is: "If you want it then go get it, and believe in yourself."

"I really do believe that," Rinna says. "We can make our destiny, and we do not have to sit around being miserable thinking about what we do not have. You have to live life."

Rinna says the Reginald Denny trial in Los Angles helped her learn something about herself. "This is a guy who really forgave the people who hurt him. I cannot tell you what it was like for me when I watched him walk up and hug the mothers of the men who beat him and practically killed him. He wasn't bitter or seeking revenge. It was amazing."

Rinna is part of the dynamic soap opera supercouple, Bo and Billie, and that means long hours before the camera. But the actress says she doesn't let the pace of daytime get her down.

"It helps that I really like the people I work with," Rinna says. "I've seen other actresses let the work really get to them. To portray some of these parts convincingly you really have to rip yourself open, and it takes a lot out of you. If I have to I'll ask for a few days off when I think I need it."

Rinna makes the most of her time away from the "Days" studio. "I spend time with my boyfriend (Harry Hamlin)," the actress says, but she is hesitant to say much about the relationship. "Everybody knows about it, but you like try to keep some things private."

Rinna grew up in Oregon where she learned to love the outdoors. "I really enjoy working out; I love to go for long runs. My body needs it sometimes to relieve the stress. I also enjoy going to flea markets and hunting for antiques. But one of my favorite things to do is make chocolate chip cookies," Rinna says.

The actress has a loyal fan following and says she thinks her fans would be surprised if they saw the real Lisa Rinna. "When I'm not working I hang out in jeans and a T-shirt, and I don't wear makeup. I don't like all that stuff. Pretty much what you see is what you get."
