Proposal A
How did Canton vote?

For election results call the Observer hotline 953-2017 starting 8 a.m. Wednesday, March 16.

Heavy vote turnout expected

Proposal A is expected to draw between 30 and 60 percent of the voters in the Plymouth-Canton area to the polls on Tuesday. Requests for absentee ballots are running high.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The Proposal A ballot issue should draw more voters than usual for such an election, municipal clerks in Canton and Plymouth say.

Plymouth city clerk Linda Langmesser predicts a good voter turnout Tuesday, evidenced by the number of people picking up absentee ballots.

"We have a little higher number than usual. The response is very good compared to the last state election," she said.

"I think there's going to be a real good turnout. People are really involved, they want to cast their vote," she said. Langmesser predicted city turnout at about 30 percent of registered voters.

There were 761 requests in the city for absentee ballots by 11 a.m. Friday.

"I haven't really had people tell me which way they're going to vote. I think they're confused, their minds seem to be changing daily," Langmesser said.

Absentee ballots can be picked up at city hall today and must be voted in the building — and in emergencies can be requested on Tuesday. Polls open at 7 a.m. Tuesday and close at 8 p.m.

City voters in precincts 1, 4 and 5 vote at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Voters in precinct 2 vote at Starkweather Center and precinct 3 voters vote at Central Middle School.

Loren Bennett, Canton clerk, predicted a 50-55 percent turnout for the election — high compared to the 44 percent turnout for the June 1993 ballot proposal.

Students at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park weren't born when music of "The 1940s Radio Hour" was popular. Nor, for that matter, were many of their parents.

"But that's all the more reason to do it," director Gloria Logan said of the upcoming production by the Park Players, students at Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools. "It's wonderful music, and it's music these kids don't know.

"This music is too wonderful to be lost, it really is. This is music that I don't think is lost on anybody," said Logan, who was born in 1948, a bit late to hear the Big Band sound, which she identifies with her parents' generation.

The ninth- through 12th-graders present a musical each spring, working under Logan's direction. She opted to do a show which features elements of patriotism this year, "from the flag on down."

"This is a bit of a flag-waver." The show, which features an oversized radio studio for a set, provides comedy without poking fun at somebody.

Performances will be 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 18-19 and 25-26, in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School, on Joy west of Canton Center in Canton. Tickets are $5 for general admission, $6 for reserved seating. For ticket information, call 416-7723.

Culinary arts students will present a dinner theater evening Friday, March 18, under the sponsorship of the Educational Excellence Foundation. The dinner will be 6:30 p.m. in the Salem Rock Cafe, foilowed by

Gang problem targeted in new ordinances

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

To clamp down on gang activity in Canton, minors' use of spray paint and beepers is now restricted.

"I think these ordinances are unique to the times we are in. The reality is the gang situation does exist. Special situations call for special laws," said Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro.

The township board adopted the new regulations that prohibit the possession or sale of spray paint to anyone under 18 years of age. That includes using spray paint, as well as paint or other pigments, for graffiti.

"We are having an increase in graffiti," Santomauro said. "I think we are being proactive in holding some of this off."

Neighborhoods and businesses in Canton have been the target of graffiti from gangs or gang "wannabes." "Some subdivisions are sending out notices for residents to be aware," said Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer.

Graffiti has been found on fences, traffic signs, walls and park signs in neighborhoods. The amended ordinance also entitles any owner who has to remove graffiti to restitution.

"This (graffiti) is free advertising for the gangs. It shows control," Colling said, urging residents and business owners to immediately remove any graffiti.

Graffiti is considered a gang tool. "It tends to perpetuate the myth of gangs. It establishes their turf. And it adversely affects the community's perception of its safety."

Colling asks residents and business owners whose property is damaged with graffiti to call police. "We would like to read it. It would tell us what gangs are here."

Colling and Brenda Plecha, a family life education manager for Family Service, will provide information to businesses at the Canton Chamber of Commerce member luncheon at noon Wednesday, April 6. For reservations, call the chamber at 453-4040.

The amended ordinance also prohibits beepers, also used by gang members. Anyone under 18 may carry a beeper or telephone pager other than for employment with the prior consent and supervision or a parent or legal guardian or with written consent of the public safety department. Spray paint also may be used under the supervision of a parent or legal guardian.

Barnaby leads Observer group

Steve Barnaby has been named publisher for the Observer Newspapers by acting general manager Dick Brady.

Barnaby, a Plymouth Township resident, was formerly managing editor of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. Before that he worked as community editor of the Farmington, Westland and Garden City Observers.

"As a member of the Observer & Eccentric Management group, I had the opportunity to work with Steve on a regular basis," Brady said. "We work well together."

Barnaby is a graduate of Wayne State University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in journalism.

He serves on the board of directors of Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills.

"I'm looking forward to working with the Observer team in serving the residents of some of the finest communities in Michigan," said Barnaby. "In future months and years, our readers and advertisers will experience even better service than they have in the past from all of our departments."

Judicial race has new face

Karen Woodside

Karen Dunne Woodside, Wayne County assistant prosecuting attorney, has joined the race for the 35th District judgeship.

Woodside, of Northville, works in the appellate division handling appeals of felony convictions and appeals and advises police on criminal and constitutional law issues. Before joining the prosecutor's office, she was in private practice.

"I bring diverse experience and strong community commitment to the judgeship," she said. "I plan to see that the efficiency and impartiality of this court continues. The district court is often the first and only level of court experience that many people ever encounter, and I will work to ensure that the experience is as positive as possible."

Woodside has served as a Northville Township planning commissioner and serves on the township Economic Development Board of Appeals. She has served as an assistant girls softball coach, been active in parent-teacher organizations, chaired seniors and veterans service projects and is a religious educator at Our Lady of Victory Church.

In 1989 she received a Distinguished Service Award for her work as a special assistant prosecutor in the Wayne County prosecutor's office juvenile court division.

The court serves greater Plymouth, Canton and Northville. She is married and has two children.

Thai restaurant opens in Canton

The public is invited to attend the grand opening of Thai Bistro on the northwest corner of Ford and Canton Center roads from 5-7 p.m. today.

A $5 donation per person will be devoted to the Canton Community Foundation. A ribbon-cutting ceremony will be conducted by the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

Owners Lek Promthong and Lada Sprinyo will provide a sample of the restaurant's dishes.

Homeowners elections

The Canton Homeowners Advisory Council will meet at 7 p.m. tonight in Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road.

Elections will be conducted for the advisory council's treasurer and secretary. Homeowners association officers and residents are encouraged to attend the monthly meetings.

Audience sought

If you are interested in participating in a studio audience for "Wednesday Report Live" at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 16, contact Bill Joyner, who will host the show, at the Canton Community Foundation, 981-3002.

The one-hour show will feature a panel discussion about gangs and violence at the Plymouth Canton Education Park. The panel will include Canton High School Principal Tom MacKenzie, school administrator Tom Tattan, Plymouth City Commissioner Dennis Shrewsbury, student leaders, and Observer editor Jeff Counts.

Gang information

The Central Middle School PTSO is sponsoring a meeting, "Gangs In Our Community; Be Informed; Learn the Signs; It Is Closer Than You Think!" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 17, in the Central Middle School cafeteria, 650 W. Church, Plymouth. The public is invited.

Business to Business

The L.J. Griffin Funeral Home under construction on Ford Road, west of Lilley, is sponsoring the Canton Chamber of Commerce 'Business to Business' gathering from 5-7 p.m. Tuesday, March 15, at Mountain Jack's restaurant on Haggerty, south of Ford Road.

For more information contact the funeral home at 522-9400, or chamber at 453-4040.

St. Pat's party

The public is invited to join the Carriage Park Senior Community on Canton Center Road to celebrate St. Patrick's Day. Entertainment will be provided by Ron Walker on the keyboard and lots of "luck of the Irish" goodies. For more information, call general manager Renee Kwasny, 397-8300.

Roadway designation nears reality

BY JILL HALPIN
SPECIAL WRITER

It's as good as done.

Wayne County may have its first official natural beauty roads as early as May, county officials told a jubilant group of northwest Canton homeowners. The group gathered Wednesday for a public hearing on their request for the special designation for the 3.25 miles in northwest Canton.

"Based on what I've seen here tonight, my recommendation (for the designation) will be positive," said Ed Siemert, Wayne County engineering director.

He told homeowners he will make his recommendation to Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara within 30 days. Chances are good that McNamara will issue an executive order to put the natural beauty road designation into effect.

"He usually goes along with his staff's recommendations," Siemert said.

The roads targeted for designation include Napier Road, from Ann Arbor south to Warren; Joy Road, from Ann Arbor to Ridge; Ridge, from Joy to Warren; and Gyde Road, east to Ridge. If the designation is approved, signs would be placed along the roadways.

The intent of the designation is to preserve the scenic beauty of the road as well as the lush vegetation. Although Oakland County has a number of designated beauty roads, this is a first for Wayne County.

The designation prevents any changes to the road that may affect its character, said Mike Olin, Northwest Homeowners Association president. "I'm ecstatic to think this is finally going to happen," he said.

Siemert told homeowners that the only opposition on record is Detroit Edison, which has expressed concern about its line maintenance.

If McNamara approves the recommendation, county officials said they plan to post 25 mph speed limits on the gravel roads, which now have a 55 mph limit. A portion of Joy Road also would lose its primary road status, which means the county would receive less money from the state for its maintenance. Under a local road status, the road would receive less maintenance than would a primary road.

Homeowners began working on the effort more than a year ago and have thoroughly documented the vegetation, wildlife and topography of the area, including flowering dogwood, American chestnut and Virginia bluebells, as well as deer, weasel, screech owls and heron. The area is bordered by Plymouth and Superior townships, which also gave support.

Olin thanked county officials who helped with the effort. "The sailing was much smoother than we expected. We were told we might get some support, but you know what they say about fighting city hall," Olin said, thanking Wayne County Commissioner Bryan Amann and McNamara.

"Our society needs a place where people can feel the natural world," said Fred Andres, a Canton resident involved with the designation effort. "Having a natural beauty road is like being able to see a rainbow every day or a blue sky with clouds floating across it."

Appeals encouraged

Because of impending changes in the state property tax system, state Rep. Deborah Whyman urges area homeowners to challenge their latest assessment if they believe it's inaccurate.

Property owners have the opportunity to appeal assessments every March. Two Canton Tax Boards of Review are currently hearing appeals. This year, however, is more important because property taxes will be set relative to the most recent assessment under the upcoming ballot proposal or legislative backup plan.

"It's critical that homeowners take action this year to ensure they maximize their property tax cut," said Whyman, a member of the House Taxation Committee.

The boards are accepting walk-in appeals 9-10 a.m. Tuesday, March 15, and 9 a.m. to noon and 1-5 p.m. Thursday, March 17.

'Home Alone' case reported

Protective Services is expected to investigate a "home alone" incident in Canton that was reported to police March 8, according to a police report.

When police arrived at an apartment complex, they found a 9-year-old boy outside without shoes and dressed in blue jeans and a sweat shirt. Responding to police questions, the boy said his mother was not home, he didn't know how to get ahold of her and he didn't know where he was supposed to be.

A neighbor told police that she often watches the boy and his younger brother. Another neighbor said she has heard the two boys home alone before.

Assault reported

A 15-year-old boy and his 16-year-old friend told police they were skateboarding in a shopping center parking lot on Ford Road when the owner of a restaurant drove his car toward them at a high rate of speed, according to a police report.

The youths told police they were skateboarding when the owner of the restaurant told them to leave the parking lot. They watched the owner get into his vehicle and park it near the restaurant. He went into his business and returned to the vehicle a bit later when he drove toward the youths.

One of the youths said the vehicle came so close that it knocked the skateboard out of his hands.

A witness in another part of the parking lot told police she saw the vehicle speeding through the lot but didn't see it near the youths.

Dangerous weapon

Police were called to the high schools to recover a knife with a more than three-inch blade March 7, according to a police report. Possession of the knife is illegal and a violation of school policy. The knife was apparently discovered when a friend of the student who owns the knife was using it outside the building.

Property destroyed

Canton police were called to the high schools to pick up a Swiss army knife and container with a residue of what is believed to be marijuana. The two items were turned over to police to be destroyed.

Fashion show done for fun

Just for fun.

That was the purpose of a first-ever fashion show sponsored by the Canton Women's Forum Wednesday night in the Cherry Hill Schoolhouse.

"We have done a series of meetings. They have mostly been serious topics. We felt we needed to have a balance between the serious and thoughtful stuff and something that is just plain fun," said Melissa McLaughlin, one of the forum's founders.

The program, which is expected to be annual, was simple. Community leaders and their daughters modeled the latest fashions from Winkelman's of Canton.

Barb Yack of Canton Place Apartments for Seniors served as the fashion show's commentator.

"They each picked two outfits from Winkelman's. One was casual. The other was a bit more formal," McLaughlin said.

The 12 models included Mary Amann, Jean LaJoy, Jan Cepela, Debbie Zevalkink, Gloria Janks, Linda Shapona, Terri Bennett, Wendy Bennett, Denise Patterson, Phyllis Patterson, Lynette Hauck and Beth Yack.

"We tried to make the evening springy despite the snow outside," McLaughlin said, referring to the evening's snowstorm. "It was a lot of fun."

Readers to gather

To celebrate "March is Reading Month," Lowell Middle School will host its first annual "Prime Time Breakfast" at 8 a.m. Thursday, March 17, for the school's students, parents and staff.

Participants are asked to bring reading material to read silently from 8:05-8:25 a.m. A continental breakfast will be served from 8:25-9 a.m. in the cafeteria.

Each school day from 8:05-8:25 a.m., students and staff at Lowell participate in Prime Time Reading. The students and staff read self-selected material during this 20-minute period. The student council currently provides funds to purchase a newspaper for each classroom.

In addition to the Prime Time Reading program, students at Lowell also are participating in a "Reading At Night" program. Students who take part in RAN sign a contract which states they will read for pleasure each night at home. Parents also sign the contracts to confirm that the child has read for the designated time period.

Graffiti has been found on fences, traffic signs, walls and park signs in neighborhoods. The amended ordinance also entitles any owner who has to remove graffiti to restitution.

"This (graffiti) is free advertising for the gangs. It shows control," Colling said, urging residents and business owners to immediately remove any graffiti.

Graffiti is considered a gang tool. "It tends to perpetuate the myth of gangs. It establishes their turf. And it adversely affects the community's perception of its safety."

Colling asks residents and business owners whose property is damaged with graffiti to call police. "We would like to read it. It would tell us what gangs are here."

Colling and Brenda Plecha, a family life education manager for Family Service, will provide information to businesses at the Canton Chamber of Commerce member luncheon at noon Wednesday, April 6. For reservations, call the chamber at 453-4040.

The amended ordinance also prohibits beepers, also used by gang members. Anyone under 18 may carry a beeper or telephone pager other than for employment with the prior consent and supervision or a parent or legal guardian or with written consent of the public safety department. Spray paint also may be used under the supervision of a parent or legal guardian.

Graffiti, threats of violence, and intimidation remain the tools of gangs or gang wannabes in the area. Canton has joined forces with Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Plymouth-Canton Schools, and social service agencies to develop strategies for putting the lid on gangs and their activities.

Gangs and wannabes first became publicized in the area with troubles at the Canton Commons apartments on Haggerty in 1993. Police mobilized efforts to address problems there, including working with the complex's management.

"We learned from the Canton Commons experience to involve different components of the issue. We realized there was a greater need to involve the schools, businesses, and social-service agencies," Santomauro said.

Colling said police agencies now recognize that gang problems cross many types of boundaries. "Although the police continue to educate themselves, it's essential that the community educate itself."

Colling and Santomauro encourage parents to take charge of their children. "For us, Westland Mall is a hangout for the kids," Colling said. "We encourage parents not to let their kids hang out at the malls." She suggests parents check up on their kids when they say they are going somewhere.

Santomauro reminds parents that they must take responsibility for their children. "Gang activity is a community problem, not just a law-enforcement problem. It is not the responsibility of the schools or law enforcement to raise children. You are accountable as parents."

With the help of the gang task force, law-enforcement agencies and schools are able to share information. Field interview cards are used to compile information about particular youths, and that information is shared.

the 8 p.m. show. For dinner theater information, call 459-5572.

The show is set at Christmas time in 1942 New York City, and features a cast of 16. Cast members have been rehearsing since late January.

Musical numbers will include "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," "How About You?," "I've Got a Gal in Kalamazoo," "I'll Never Smile Again" and "Black Magic."

In addition to the cast, more than 20 students will perform in the orchestra. Those musicians will be onstage, rather than in the orchestra pit as is customary.

Building the set of the fictitious WOV-AM has been a technical challenge for the young thespians. "We have to make it know for the entire two hours of the performance," presenting another challenge, Logan said.

Students had to learn a number of dances for the show, including the jitterbug, waltz and, in some cases, tap dancing. It's possible those dances could surface at this year's proms.

"You never know," Logan said with a smile. "I would hope."

Cast members for "The 1940s Radio Hour" are: Mike O'Karma, appearing as Pops Bailey; Mike McConnell, Stanley; Brian Sage, Clifton A. MARGARET HOUGH

Services for Margaret Hough, 88, of Niles, previously of Plymouth, are at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, April 30, in the Shaw Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, Plymouth.

She died Thursday, March 3. She was active in establishing the Community Chest, now known as the United Way, in Plymouth. She was instrumental in establishing the visiting nurse program as part of the Community Chest. She was also one of the founding members of the Plymouth Symphony. She was involved with the interior design and was active in decorating the Educational Wing, Shaw Chapel, and the Sally Eaton Nursery at the First Presbyterian Church in Plymouth.

She is survived by one son, Cass S. Hough Jr. of Kalamazoo; one daughter, Emily Hough Egan of Buchanan, Mich.; five grandchildren, Alan Hadsell of Walnut Creek, Calif., Margaret Hough Hadsell of Niles, Wesley Cass Hough of Santa Monica, Calif., James E. Hough of New York, and Susan Hough Harris of Overland Park, Kan.; three great-grandchildren, Christopher Harris of Overland Park, Caitlin Harris of Overland Park, and Lily M. Alberts of Nashville, Tenn.; and two step-great-grandchildren, Christina Polilli and Robert Polilli of Walnut Creek, Calif. Her brother, Dr. Wesley G. Reid, and a great-grandson, David Hadsell, died previously.

Memorial contributions may be given to Hospice at Home of Berrien County, a local hospice organization, the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth, or a charity of choice. Arrangements were made by Schrader-Howell Funeral Home.

Gender gap

Girls still lag behind in math and science

COMPARING SCORES

Here's a comparison of male and female MEAP (Michigan Education Assement Program) scores for the past two years from the Plymouth/Canton Community Schools. Math is tested in grades 4 and 10 only. Science is tested in grades 5, 7, 8 and 11 only. Numbers show the percentage of students with passing scores.

Despite efforts to stem the trend, boys are still outpacing girls in math and science in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, as measured in the 1993 state standardized test called the MEAP (Michigan Education Assessment Program).

Gaps in scores are closing, thanks in part to the school district's Girls Excel in Math and Science conference. This year's GEMS conference, open to public and non-public school girls, is set for 8:30 a.m. Saturday, April 16, at Canton High School.

What's being seen locally mirrors a national trend, said Ellison Franklin, math and science curriculum coordinator for the school district and GEMS coordinator.

"Nationally, women are underrepresented in science and math fields. We think that is fine if women are making an informed decision that this is not a career option that meets their particular needs and lifestyle. But there is a concern that women are not aware of options and opportunities in math and science. So it's the goal of the GEMS conference to provide information for middle school girls on math and science."

Women who work locally as athletic trainers, air traffic managers, biotechnology, media arts and patent attorneys, technology consultants, math teachers and structural engineers will volunteer their time at the conference. Also speaking will be a financial planner, airport engineer, science writer, weather forecaster and a naturalist.

Franklin said research shows "that at the elementary level, boys and girls have comparable competence in their ability to perform in math and science. In middle school, both these groups have a dip in confidence.

"At age 15, boys begin to recover from that lack of confidence. Girls do not recover statistically at the same rate. We're concerned about that.

"From our own de-segregated data, we note that girls' enrollment in higher level math and science courses has been disproportionately low compared to the population and the number of males in those classes," she said.

Interviewing girls has resulted in some answers as to why, Franklin said.

"One factor is encouragement from significant adults, which is why we insist a parent or interested adult attend the conference with the student. Adults have a great impact on choices a girl makes academically."

University of Michigan psychologist Harold Stevenson has studied why some students excel in science and math. Some of the most effective ways to boost children's achievement include making it clear to children that doing well in school is important. "Parents can show that they place a high priority on studying," said Stevenson. "Children are keenly aware of their parents' attitudes toward education and unless parents convey the message that they really view learning as important, children can't be expected to act as if it is."

Franklin said research shows boys more often choose science classes because of their career direction. "Obviously, if girls haven't had science since ninth grade, or took photography in 10th grade as a substitute, their scores in 11th grade wouldn't be competitive with boys in their third year of science."

Local MEAP results show that boys outscored girls in every category with the exception of seventh and 10th grade reading. The accompanying chart shows the percentage of Plymouth-Canton students that passed portions of this year's MEAP test.

Boys outscored girls by seven points in seventh-grade math, by nine points in eighth-grade science, and by 13 points in 11th-grade science.

Math scores for 10th graders for both boys and girls were low, with just 30 percent of girls passing and 36 percent of boys passing.

To register for GEMS, call Franklin at 416-3005. Subsidized by the American Association of University Women and the Educational Excellence Foundation, the GEMS conference will cost $5 per participant. Graphing calculators will be given away as door prizes and written materials will be available for everyone taking part.

Madonna University readies annual auction

Hey bidder bidder: Chuck DuQuet of DuQuet Jewelers in Farmington (left), Sister Lauriana of Madonna University and Dennis Kapp of Martin Universal Design pose with some of the stuff Madonna will auction off Apri 29.

They call it the "Around The World" auction, and with more than 700 donated items available for bid, Madonna University could just about string them all together and circle the earth.

The auction is set for 5:30 p.m. Friday, April 29, in Burton Manor, 27777 Schoolcraft Road in Livonia. Tickets are $60. Call 591-5063 for reservations.

The purpose is to raise money for Madonna's scholarship endowment fund, which already contains $1.4 million. The interest income of about $100,000 a year buys partial scholarships for about 50 students every year, said Leonard Wilhelm, vice president of finance.

Last year's auction cleared more than $200,000 after expenses, and this year Madonna personnel hope to top $250,000.

Rose Kachnowski, the special-events coordinator for Madonna, said 719 items had been donated for the auction as of March 9. Many of the items, Kachnowski said, were donated because the auction's co-chairmen worked hard to solicit donations.

The co-chairmen are Chuck DuQuet of DuQuet Jewelers in Farmington and Dennis Kapp of Martin Universal Design in Detroit.

A brief tour of the list of items to be auctioned finds the following:

- Mickey Mouse ears signed by Annette Funicello.
- A golf game with ex-Tiger pitcher Milt Wilcox.
- A fishing trip on Lake Erie with Sister Lauriana.
- A Red Skelton painting.
- A trip for four to the Oprah show in Chicago.
- Lunch with Sonny Elliott.
- Lunch with Ernie Harwell.
- A Hungarian dinner with Joe Falls.
- A guest appearance on Madonna's TV show.

Also available are a great number of sports items autographed by Al Kaline, Steve Yzerman, Sergei Federov, Alan Trammel, Ted Lindsay, Thomas Hearns, George Foreman, Terry Mills, Bobby Hull, Wayne Gretzsky and Chuck Daly.

Plenty of vacations are up for bid, too. Some of the destinations are Denver, Bermuda, Los Angeles, London, Hawaii, Toronto, Italy, Charlevoix, Poland, Washington, D.C. and Disney World.

A few of the less expensive items include a bean bag bear valued at $10, a walleye fish pillow ($10), a book called "The Joy of Painting" ($13.95), golfer boxer shorts ($16), one dozen toothbrushes ($25), and five washes at Northville Car Wash ($35).

At the end of the evening, there will be a drawing to determine the winner of a 1994 Cadillac Sedan DeVille donated by Don Massey. No more than 500 raffle tickets will be sold.

State senator opposes additional public boat launches

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, is mobilizing lakefront property owners to oppose more state-owned public boat launches.

"The Department of Natural Resources claims it uses criteria in picking sites," said Dunaskiss. "I think their policy is: If they can find land, they try to purchase it."

Dunaskiss also is eyeing a moratorium on state launch site purchases.

Michigan United Conservation Clubs is "very much opposed to that attitude," said executive director Tom Washington.

"The lakes belong to the public. They belong to the people. The fish belong to the people. Yet they'll want the state to stock their lake and maintain a fishery.

"His effort is clearly in response to his constituents who don't want the great unwashed public out there. Oakland County is notorious for that 'I've got mine' attitude. But you'll see a dock with eight, 10, 12 different boats that belong to the owner's brother, nephew and uncle," said Washington. He recalled past "racial overtones" in the 25-year-old issue.

■ 'The Department of Natural Resources claims it uses criteria in picking sites . . . I think their policy is: If they can find land, they try to purchase it.'

Sen. Mat Dunaskiss

Dunaskiss will chair a subcommittee of the Senate Natural Resources Committee to develop criteria for boat launches and put them into law. "We want to hold a public hearing in Oakland County and another in the west part of the state," the senator said.

Subcommittee members will include Sen. David Hongiman, R-West Bloomfield, who represents the western lakes districts of Oakland County, and Sen. Chris Dingell, D-Trenton, known for pro-hunter legislation.

"We want to put together some kind of weighted formula. What is the usage of a lake? How many homes are there? Is there already public access? How deep is the lake?" Dunaskiss said.

He told of an Oakland sheriff's marine patrol boat being damaged twice when it hit stumps in a shallow lake.

DNR boat launches in Oakland County are on Middle Straits Lake, Commerce Township; Proud Lake near Wixom; Heron, Holly, Crotched, Crystal, Holdredge and Wildwood Valley lakes in the Holly Recreation Area; and Graham Lake (south) and Trout Lake, in the Bald Mountain Recreation Area.

Other boat launches are operated by the state Waterways Commission, which issues a separate entry pass; Huron-Clinton Metroparks; and Oakland County.

To contact the subcommittee, call Dunaskiss' office in Lansing at (517) 373-2417 or in Oakland County at (810) 738-2417.

Local voters to weigh merits of sales tax or income tax hike

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

Voters who cast ballots in Tuesday's special statewide election will determine whether schools will be financed with an increase in the sales tax or the state income tax.

Revenues are expected to be the same under either plan, replacing school funding previously raised through the property tax.

Voting will take place at local government — not school — polling places. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Under Proposal A — which is favored by Gov. John Engler and would raise the sales tax by two cents on the dollar — the state would levy a 6-mill property tax. Under the back-up statutory plan, 12 mills would be locally levied.

State Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, says the Wayne County vote will weigh heavily in the success or failure of Proposal A, adding that things look good for the governor. Republican Proposal A backers say they need a minimum 30 percent of the county vote. So far, Whyman says her district is 45 percent in favor of the sales tax increase.

The Plymouth-Canton school board hasn't favored either plan, as per-pupil revenues will be the same under either.

If you own a $100,000 home in the Plymouth-Canton district, you'll pay, if Proposal A passes, $415 in property tax; down from $1,780. (The amount includes 6 mills plus 2.3 debt retirement mills). Under the back-up statutory plan under which 12 mills would be locally levied, you would pay $715.

If you own a $200,000 home, you'll pay $830 in taxes under Proposal A and $1,430 under the statutory plan. That's down from the $3,560 the owner of a $200,000 home currently is paying in property tax.

Telephone callers list reasons for Proposal A support

If calls to our telephone survey are any indication, Proposal A will pass by voters in Canton and Plymouth.

We asked residents to call us with their comments.

In Canton, we received six calls, five yes and one no. Here are the comments:

■ Yes, it will lower my property tax. In reading the Canton Observer, Roland Thomas, (Plymouth-Canton school board president) is not taking issue to either side. I think he is talking out of both sides of his mouth. He said, "We are not taking a position." Later on he said, "Both are bad for schools." To me that is a position.

■ Yes, all the people that wanted it to be turned down, the cigarette people and the MEA, and they have a purpose for that.

■ Yes, because I don't want an increase in income tax, and the sales tax doesn't bother me that much, plus the fact that Proposal A has a few guarantees it's going to hold our tax base down, once it is established, — once a surplus of money comes in from anywhere, if it ever happens, the school is going to be worried about it and try to get their hands on all they can get anyway.

■ Yes, I like everyone paying the sales tax. 2) I don't want any more additional income tax in Michigan.

■ Yes, because the teacher's union opposes it. In most anything that the teacher's union opposes, I would be in favor of, because rarely are their proposals ever in the interests of the people.

No vote

■ No, I am not in favor of either the ballot plan or the backup plan, I don't want the constitution changed to have Proposal A in it. I am hoping with the backup plan, it can still be changed. I don't think either plan is good for either the schools or the people of the state. I think property taxes are still the best way to go for schools because you do want to have better school districts. That's why people buy into certain areas. That's why I bought in the Plymouth-Canton area. I knew it had a good school system. Whether or not I pay more taxes is up to me as an individual taxpayer and I will continue to look at the school districts when I buy another home.

Plymouth calls

In Plymouth we received four calls, three yes and one no. Here are the comments:

■ Yes, because in terms of raising money, each have a certain amount of quality to them in achieving the objective. However, it is better to tax on the consumption side rather than on the income side, production side, better for the economy and in the long run, better for everyone.

■ Yes, because I don't want the other plan, the high income tax would mean less take-home pay in our paychecks and young families just can't afford that. We are already being taxed to the limit and more tax being taken out of the paycheck is just too much. I'd rather see the 6 percent; that way everyone would pay the same. Michigan being a tourist state, let some of the tourists help with the burden of paying the taxes.

■ My name is Gary Cieniuch. I support Proposal A because it caps assessments and it will make tourists pays a sales tax which will help our schools.

■ No, because so much of the funding sources are unpredictable and unstable. I don't think it is going to work out the way all the projections are planned.

"There's significant interest in this one," he said. Voters can vote absentee on Monday at Canton Township Hall, and only by emergency on Tuesday, when polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Bennett said voters should remember this is a state election and not a schools election, and those unsure of where to vote should call the clerk's office at 397-1000.

Marilyn Massengill, Plymouth Township clerk, said, "I think we'll have better than 50 percent (of registered voters.) I wouldn't be surprised to see 60 percent."

Massengill said that as of 2:30 p.m. Friday, 2,268 absentee ballots had been issued, compared with 1,857 absentee ballots issued for the June 1993 ballot proposal election.

"They vote in their township precincts, not the school precincts," she cautioned Plymouth Township voters.

Absentee ballots can be picked up Monday but must be marked at township hall by 4:30 p.m. Absentee ballots can be cast Tuesday only in an emergency. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

S'craft students tutor Detroit kids

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

■ 'The process of helping someone else learn something helps you learn it better.'
Debra Piper tutor

Students at the Inkster Youth Living Center and the Golightly Vocational Technical Center in Detroit are getting extra academic help in the form of tutoring, thanks to a new program of Schoolcraft College.

Dubbed "Project Seed," the program dispatches college students to the Detroit locations to tutor children of all ages in any area in which they need help.

Doris Montgomery, the Golightly culinary arts department head, said of the tutors: "They're great, wonderful, a godsend."

And the kids? "The kids are much more interested in their classes," Montgomery said. "It's really been a big help."

Sylvia Dimaguila, the youth center's youth assistance coordinator, said 10-12 kids avail themselves of the Schoolcraft tutors Monday through Thursday. There has been "a lot of positive response from the parents," she said. And "grades have gone up."

Schoolcraft's Learning Assistance Center employs more than 30 tutors, who each spend two hours per week at Golightly or the youth center.

Half the tutors aim to gain the 100 "pre-teaching" hours required of prospective educators, said faculty facilitator Linda Talbert. The rest of them tutor for other reasons, some because it just feels good.

The program began in September 1993 as a four-year federal grant of $100,000 kicked in. They started with Golightly, then spread to the Inkster youth center when tutors outnumbered available jobs, Talbert said.

Canton Township resident Debra Piper is one of 11 tutors from the Observer area. The 42-year-old mother of three boys is training to be an accounting clerk, so the tutoring experience is not a requirement for her degree.

She tutors because she enjoys it and believes in volunteerism.

In fact, Piper has completed the tutoring requirement for college credit and now tutors for no benefit other than personal satisfaction.

It means something to Piper that she helps the disadvantaged children at the youth center get a leg up on life. "It makes them feel valued," she said.

The program calls for tutors to occupy a room at the youth center for two hours and help kids with whatever homework they're stumped by.

So the tutors never know what subject they'll be asked to cover. "Sometimes we don't know the answer to a problem and it's embarrassing," Piper said. But "the process of helping someone else learn something helps you learn it better, (too)."

Other local Schoolcraft College students who tutor include Kristi Hawn, Sarah Pfile and Clayton Campbell, all from Canton Township. Also Matt Cooper and Trish Blevins of Livonia, Brad Erisman and Terri Hudson of Garden City, Jason Koch of Westland and Janet Breest and Dawn DeGraffenreid of Plymouth.

Now the Clinton administration has decided to spend its education dollars in a different way, and Schoolcraft's $100,000 grant has been severed after $35,000 was received. Learning center director Sirkka Gudan said this doesn't necessarily mean the program will wither and die, but may continue if money can be found in the budget.

Nowicki offers bird program

Observer nature columnist Tim Nowicki will present a free program called "Birds and Their Sounds" at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 25, at the Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium.

Nowicki will show slides of birds found locally and will imitate sounds they make.

Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks Nature Center. His column appears weekly in the Observer Newspapers.

Society looks for foster families

The Methodist Children's Home Society is looking for foster families for children up to the age of 14.

The Society contracts with Wayne County to put kids in foster homes until they are adopted. To hear more about being a foster parent, call LaTonya Shephard at 531-4060.

Area students serve internships

Several area residents are among 23 University of Michigan-Dearborn students serving political science internships around metro Detroit.

During the semester-long internships, students spend two days a week at their jobs. They get six hours of academic credit for their trouble.

Kevin Werner of Canton Township works in Chrysler Corp.'s governmental affairs office in Highland Park.

Kari Domanski of Garden City works for state Rep. Tom Alley, D-West Branch, in Lansing.

Tanya Abdelnour of Livonia and Timothy Kierschke of Westland work in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office in Detroit.

Roger Hosn of Livonia works at Ford Motor Co.'s urban- affairs office in Dearborn.

Curtis Case of Plymouth works at Pursell Associates of Plymouth.

Kenneth Kalousek of Westland works in the Livonia office of U.S. Rep. Joe Knollenberg, R-Bloomfield Township.

PROPOSAL A... the better package

Vote YES on A Tuesday, March 15

Last summer school operating property taxes were eliminated as the primary source of funding K-12 education. Two legislative alternative revenue sources are being offered: Proposal A and a statutory plan. We can pass Proposal A by voting YES, or do nothing and settle for the statutory backup plan.

PROPOSAL A

INCOME TAX DECREASE/SALES TAX INCREASE
A .2% reduction in income tax and a two-cent sales tax increase

6 MILL HOMESTEAD PROPERTY TAX

FUTURE ASSESSMENT INCREASES
Capped at the lower of 5% or inflation rate

75% LEGISLATIVE MAJORITY VOTE
Needed for future increases to school mills

OR

INCOME TAX INCREASE
Increased from current 4.6% to 6.0%

12 MILL HOMESTEAD PROPERTY TAX

FUTURE ASSESSMENT INCREASES
Not capped or otherwise safeguarded

50% + 1 LEGISLATIVE MAJORITY VOTE
Needed for future increases to school mills

Please let your friends and family know this is an either/or election decision. A return to the former system or hopes of another plan are not among our options. Make getting to the polls on March 15th a #1 priority! YES on A

ST. MARY HOSPITAL

You share the same body, the same life-giving nutrients for nine months. Each of you affects the other in countless ways.

Why is it then that many hospitals treat you and your baby like completely unrelated people?

OUR NURSES SEE THEM AS STILL BEING ATTACHED

You stay in your room. Your baby stays in the nursery. And you're each cared for by a different nurse.

A better way

At St. Mary Hospital we offer a better way to begin. A personal nurse takes care of you and your baby together to encourage the best possible start. So your nurse can tell how your comfort level, moods and medication may be affecting your baby. And how your baby's behavior influences you. This new way of caring is called mother-baby nursing.

Mother-baby nurses

With mother-baby nurses, you can learn by watching the nurse care for your newborn at your bedside instead of out of your sight in a nursery. If you have a question about your baby, the nurse can answer it immediately. You won't have to wait for the "baby nurse."

The Miracle of Life Maternity Center at St. Mary Hospital has mother-baby nursing all the time. More support, more education. It's a better way of caring.

To learn more about the benefits of mother-baby nursing call 313-591-2882. Ask for a free brochure, tour, or physician referral.

Jamian targets mall smokers

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Smoking will be restricted in mall commons areas under a House-passed bill on its way to the state Senate.

"We weren't sure when we introduced it, but we had 100 phone calls — 98 supporting and two against," said the sponsor, Rep. John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township.

"Most support came from people who walk the malls and mothers with children. A problem was teenagers who hang out in malls and smoke. A mother told us of one teen who dropped a cigarette ash on her baby.

"Several malls in the state already are smoke-free," said Jamian, co-chair of the House Public Health Committee. "At first they were fearful of competition. Then they said it was one of the best things that ever happened. They've had more compliments."

If adopted, the bill would apply to mall commons areas — corridors, lounge sections, restrooms. Restaurants are covered by a separate law. Individual stores are not affected.

Jamian accepted an amendment allowing malls to establish separate smoking rooms with separate ventilation systems so that smoke will not be recycled into the mall.

The House Wednesday approved the bill 83-15. All area representatives voted yes except Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, who voted no, and Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, who was absent for cancer treatments.

"This legislation infringes on free enterprise and restricts the private property rights of business persons and entrepreneurs," said Kaza in a formal protest. "It sends yet another market signal to entrepreneurs that Michigan is a hostile environment for business.

"As an asthmatic, I understand all too well the problem of second-hand smoke. But I question whether this bill is necessary. Five malls in Michigan have already banned smoking on their premises," Kaza said. "Mall owners and operators are aware of their customers' preferences."

Jamian disagreed.

"They're like town squares. They're public places," he said pointing to their art exhibits and public programs.

Michigan malls attract 6.5 million adult visitors each month, according to a trade group. The federal Environmental Protection Agency said last year that 150,000 to 300,000 lower respiratory tract infections in children under 18 months are caused by passive, second-hand smoke.

Smoking is severely restricted or banned in state buildings and schools.

Bills would limit settlements

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan may see few "Michael Jackson settlements" once a popular package of domestic violence bills becomes law, a key senator says.

Sen. William Van Regenmorter said a prosecutor "could permit criminal procedures to continue in spite of out-of-court (civil) settlement."

Jackson, once the nation's most popular rock star, was sued for sexually molesting a teenage boy but settled out-of-court for a sum estimated at many millions. As a condition of settlement, however, the boy and his parents had to agree not to prosecute Jackson criminally.

"A magistrate may dismiss if the parties settle out of court," said Van Regenmorter, stressing "may."

The Republican from Jenison chairs the Senate Judiciary Committee, which produced three of the bills, which go to the House for hearings and passage. The other 11 bills already have been passed by the House but must be returned for concurrence in amendments.

Senators gave the bills votes of 36-0 and 35-0 without a protest. Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, was absent as he recuperates from an operation.

Junior League of Birmingham was credited with stimulating last year's package of House bills to punish domestic violence more severely and to make police and prosecutors treat complaints more seriously.

Among area sponsors:
■ Rep. Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake, sponsored a bill to allow courts to issue injunctions against threats of violence.

POINTS OF VIEW

Proposal A will benefit taxpayers, not Realtors

The organized opponents of Proposal A, Michigan Citizens for Fair Taxes, must think voters are really stupid. Now they are trying to get you to believe that Michigan Realtors are standing in line to collect $260 million dollars that is supposed to be given away by Gov. John Engler.

Taxpayers are being sorely misinformed if they believe the message provided by this group. In their efforts to misconstrue the elements of Proposal A, they are also denying taxpayers accurate data to help them make a well-informed decision when they go to the polls on March 15.

Realtors are not the "special interest" group benefitting from the $260 million tax break in Proposal A, as noted in the ads. What voters aren't being told is that although Realtors fought hard for that tax break, the money doesn't go to them. Every cent of the $260 million tax savings from the reduced property transfer tax goes directly into the pockets of Michigan taxpayers, particularly those who buy and sell homes.

I believe that the reduction in the real estate transfer tax, along with the entire Proposal A package, enhances housing affordability, and housing affordability is crucial to the state's overall economic strength. The economic ripple effect of housing is tremendous — it benefits the state's plumbing and electrical contractors, landscapers and the textile, lumber, appliance, paint and wallpaper industries and retailers, to name a few. According to the National Association of Realtors, on an average, every three home sales result in the creation of one job.

Don't be misled by those who aren't giving you all the facts. Not only is the group misinforming voters, it is blatantly illegally using the term Realtor, a federally registered collective membership mark which identifies real estate professionals who are members of the National Association of Realtors.

GUEST COLUMNIST

DONALD (JERRY) MCKEON

■ Every cent of the $260 million tax savings from the reduced property transfer tax goes directly into the pockets of Michigan taxpayers, particularly those who buy and sell homes.

This Realtor is committed to making Michigan a great place to call home and to preserving and protecting citizens' private property rights. Aggressively seeking tax savings for homeowners through the reduction in the property transfer tax is just one of the ways that Michigan Realtors have capably served the citizens of Michigan for more than 80 years.

To suggest that I have any more to gain than a good healthy business climate in Michigan is absurd. If you believe that the infinitesimally small increase in my sales commission resulting from a higher sales price (to cover this transfer tax) is my motive, then why wouldn't I want the originally proposed 4 percent real estate transfer tax to prevail?

The 4 percent transfer tax originally discussed, and later reduced to 2 percent, was a big bite out of a homeowner's pocket. Now when selling your home the bite will be reduced to ¾ of 1 percent. This is still a huge increase. The transfer tax, originally at $1.10 per thousand, will now be at $75 per thousand. That is an increase of nearly 700 percent. Isn't that enough for homeowners to bear?

We certainly need new ways to fund our schools. Taking some of the burden away from Michigan property owners by lowering the property taxes is a step in the right direction. However, to increase the transfer tax to anything beyond the already proposed ¾ of 1 percent is unfair to property owners, counter productive to a healthy housing market and a serious detriment to a prospering economy.

Donald (Jerry)McKeon is a Birmingham resident who is executive vice president/ partner at Hall & Hunter, Realtors. He is a member of the board of directors of the Michigan Association of Realtors, the National Association of Realtors and vice chairman of the State Board of Real Estate Broker and Salespersons.

School of real life teaches more than some colleges

Standing in front of a classroom of 45 students gave me a whole new respect for teachers. It was a mass media class at Central Michigan University. It was 10 a.m. and I had to fill an entire hour with my own voice.

My kids claim I could talk anything to death, including them. But somehow all those words that always seem to be roaming around in my head eluded me after about 10 minutes.

The topic was newspapers, but what I really wanted to talk about is what you don't learn in college. Yep, there are plenty of classes at our state colleges and universities, but none in what you have to know to get through the day.

It's not really the schools' fault. The professor teaching the class that I spoke to said the students see college as that place you have to go to before you go out into the real world. It's like being in limbo.

Anyway, around our office we have a running conversation about what they don't teach you in college.

Here's a sampling:

■ Smile at people. It really works. People will like you.

■ You can drink too much beer.

■ Knowing when to have the oil changed in your car will get you much farther than the knowledge of footnotes.

■ It's as important to have a balanced check book as it is to know how to find a square root, perhaps more.

■ Allow people to tell a lie without embarrassing them with the truth. I know, you've been to college and know that stuff, but you'll get farther by just standing and smiling when somebody inflates the facts.

JEFF COUNTS

■ Yep, there are plenty of classes at our state colleges and universities, but none in what you have to know to get through the day.

■ When somebody says, "Hi, how are you?" they really don't want to know.

■ Wearing a baseball cap backwards makes you look stupid.

■ Nobody cares if you have a master's degree, but if you can fix the leaking toilet, that does make a difference.

■ It's better to know where the rest areas are on a freeway than it is to know where New Zealand is located.

■ As the sign says, clean up after yourself, your mother doesn't work here.

■ Nobody really cares how much your college roomate drank before he or she threw up.

■ Just because you've dyed your hair purple doesn't mean you're a poet.

Those are just a few suggestions. With all the colleges and universities in our state, there should be some educators who can get off the high tech highway for long enough to design a course. Maybe they could call it, "What we should have taught."

There would be problems with such a course. Where would it fit into the world of higher education? Which department would claim it?

Chances are none would. And maybe that's the problem.

Jeff Counts is the editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspapers. It took him 25 years to learn the things he should have learned in college. He can be reached at 459-2700.

They want to be in with inn crowd

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Trend-setter: Bernadette Van Lenten would like to turn her house on Warren Road into a bed and breakfast inn — a first in Canton.

BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Something new could be coming to Canton: bed and breakfast inns.

"In a lot of communities they are really starting to mushroom," said Bernadette Van Lenten, who has asked the Canton Planning Commission to develop zoning regulations for bed and breakfasts.

"They are not really a home because they have guests and they really aren't a hotel. They are neither fish nor fowl," Van Lenten said.

Van Lenten and her husband, Michael, have long wanted to own and operate a bed and breakfast. "Our intention was to sell our house and buy a larger one for a B&B, maybe in Northville," Van Lenten said.

But on second thought the couple — who have taken a course on B&Bs at Schoolcraft College and completed an internship — decided to stay in Canton and hopefully make their dream come true in their own home.

"This is a community where it will be well-received," Van Lenten said.

Canton offers an ideal location — 20 minutes from Detroit Metro Airport and other attractions. The community also offers local events, such as the Liberty Fest. A B&B also could provide for special functions, such as housing a wedding party, a gift for an anniversary or just a special getaway weekend, Van Lenten said.

Planning commissioners gave township planning staff the go-ahead to draft ordinance criteria and regulations for B&Bs. "We would have to develop criteria for special land use and what residential district they can be in," said township planner Jeff Goulet.

Without a specific zoning ordinance in Canton, B&Bs right now would be considered hotels. "So they would have to be in a commercial zone," Goulet said.

Planning commissioners encouraged a proposed ordinance. "I honestly think this would be an excellent idea for this community, an ordinance, regulations for B&Bs," said commissioner Phyllis Johnson.

Commissioner Melissa McLaughlin lauded the idea. "This is another example of using it as a preservation tool," she said, referring to older and historic homes.

While Van Lenten was contacting planning officials about B&Bs, a Farmington Hills couple also notified planners that they are buying the historic Stuart Hoops house on Sheldon and also want a B&B.

"There won't be any problem with Canton supporting several B&Bs," Van Lenten said.

She believes her home on a partially wooded acre on Warren, between Lilley and Sheldon, is a perfect fit for a B&B, which she defines as a private residence that accepts paying overnight guests.

Their home is a four-bedroom, two-bath, 1½-story farmhouse that was built in 1929 and moved from Detroit to its current site facing the Willow Creek in 1935. The house has been completely renovated while maintaining its character, Van Lenten said.

Neither home that could become a B&B is in platted subdivisions. That's a good point, as far as planners are concerned. "People in subdivisions don't want to do B&Bs. It's not appropriate. It would be an intrusion. They work better in old Victorian houses and farmhouses," Goulet said.

Some items that will be taken into consideration when drafting criteria and regulations include parking, location and signage, Goulet said.

Van Lenten doesn't believe B&Bs will provide competition for Canton's existing motels. "This is different. It's like being able to step back in time. It's like going to grandma's house," she said.

B&Bs generally are preferred by businesswomen who travel. "They just feel safer," Van Lenten said. B&Bs generally take kids, and B&Bs have living rooms for guests' business meetings. Continental breakfast generally comes with the package.

"There's still a lot of legwork to do," Van Lenten said.

Scholarships offered

The deadline is nearing to apply for two Plymouth Rotary Club memorial scholarships.

Completed applications must be turned into counseling offices at the two high schools no later than Tuesday, March 15.

The Rotary Club is offering two $4,000 college scholarships to students attending Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools. Students must have a grade point average of at least 2.5 and plan on attending a four-year college or university.

Students are required to have two letters of recommendation to submit with their applications.

Applications are available from the student's high school counselor. For more information, call 455-1388.

Markets stock up on exotic vegetables

Excuse me folks, but was I sleeping when someone secretly stocked my favorite grocery and produce store with an abundant assortment of vegetables with exotic names like rapini, enoki, and jicama?

Exotic choices

At Chimento's market in Livonia, I almost stumbled over gigantic portabello mushrooms bigger than a Frisbee.

I remember having to drive to LaColomena/Honey Bee Market in in the heart of Detroit's Mexicantown for fresh chili peppers. Now Papa Joe's in Rochester stocks poblanos, jalapenos, habaneros, and other other varieties with enough firepower to light up the west side.

The jicamas were as abundant as coconuts at Nino Salvaggio's in West Bloomfield, while fresh raw horseradish was in great supply for Passover meals at the Shopping Center Market in Southfield.

I used to think that kiwi was exotic. Now, my produce market is a phone call away from ordering the gooseberries that my Uncle Earl would always request in a pie my sister Rose made with gooseberries gleaned from a northern farmer.

Either the popularity of iceberg lettuce is fading, or folks in Canton are on a Caesar salad kick. At Bob's Market in Canton, there were two feet of space for iceberg lettuce, and over six feet of space afforded romaine lettuce.

World markets

What's making all this possible? We might be on the information super highway, but overnight air transport and expanding world trade markets have opened the door to exotic mangoes from southeast Asia and mustard greens from India. Parsley root, originally from The Netherlands, is now grown exclusively in, get this folks, New Jersey!

Scientific researchers have found ways to keep a tomato shelf stable for almost 30 days. They've discovered a way to use the spores from morel mushrooms to be able to grow them year 'round in Mason, Mich.

Air express, world trade and scientific research certainly has helped expand our taste buds. The popularity of ethnic cuisines, a new appreciation of our own country's native regional products, and growing awareness of sound nutritional principles certainly must mean something to produce buyers nationwide, who are offering us more choices than ever before.

All of this is fine and dandy, and it certainly has expanded the taste horizons of the Janes Gang, but what about you?

Asking questions

When it comes to knowing the difference between arugula and zapotes, sooner or later the savvy shopper will have to begin asking questions.

Chances are nil that you might catch Julia Child on Good Morning America discoursing on tomatillos the day you need to buy a tomatillo.

Then again, if you think the kid at the store with an earring making $4.15 an hour will be able to help you choose a ripe loquat, you've been sniffing too many prickly pears.

Ask for the produce manager when you see something that intrigues you. Consider it a free lesson in world trade, local geography and the fabled art of uncovering the uncommon vegetable.

A good source is Elizabeth Schneider's "Uncommon Fruits and Vegetables," (Harper & Row, copyright 1986). Your local library is another logical source, and the new computer card catalog makes researching fast and fun.

When you see something new at the market, check it out and give it a try. Just think of all those things your mother made you try that are an important part of your culinary regimen.

First timers might want to pick up a jicama, peel it and slice it into sticks as you would a carrot. Chill for about 30 minutes and taste what you've been missing.

I just couldn't believe my eyes when I checked momma's recipe box and found a recipe using nopales, also known as cactus pads. The recipe came from her snowbird friend Jean. They're available locally at Mexican markets and can be bought fresh or canned.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Taste next week:

- Families prepare to celebrate the Jewish festival of Passover.
- Touted as softer than cabernet sauvignon, merlot is the stylish "in" varietal among premium red wine consumers.

MUSICAL FAMILY IN TUNE WITH IRISH TRADITIONS

■ Anna Gavin, a nursing student and mother of three boys, doesn't have time to fiddle around the kitchen. Her traditional Irish dishes are easy.

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

It's hard to believe the sumptuous dinner of baked Shannon salmon, steamed carrots, boiled potatoes, Irish minted peas and nutty blarney buns took Anna Gavin of Redford less than an hour to make. For a little holiday sparkle, she put mint-flavored ice cubes in glasses of apple juice for her family to enjoy.

"The salmon is delicious, different and quick," said Anna. As the busy mother of three boys and a second-semester nursing student at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn, she doesn't have time to fiddle around the kitchen.

Anna leaves fiddling to her husband, Mick, and son Mike, 17. Sean, 7, plays the bodhran, a goat skin Irish drum. Son Patrick, 15 is a gold medal gymnast and member of the boys competitive team at the Michigan Academy of Gymnastics in Westland.

Married for 18 years, Mick and Anna met at the Gaelic League Irish American Club in Detroit where she was giving tin whistle lessons.

Mick Gavin, the youngest of nine children who grew up in East Clare in southwest Ireland, comes from a family of musicians. He plays fiddle and button accordion.

Anna was born in Detroit and plays piano, guitar and tin whistle. Her father, a history professor at the University of Detroit, was raised in Corktown. Anna, who earned a fine arts degree from the University of Detroit, remembers childhood visits to her grandmother in Corktown, learning about Irish literature from her father, and going to basement parties where Irish musicians played.

Mick came to the United States as a musician, and later fell back on floorcovering, the trade he learned in Ireland, to support his family. Gavin, owner of Mick Gavin's Floorcoverings, spends his days taking care of business. In his spare time he plays the fiddle, passing his love of Irish music on to his sons.

"I enjoy it. It has made my life wonderful," said Mick, who performs with other musicians in the metro Detroit area.

Father and sons are busy rehearsing for an Irish festival of music, song and dance 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. Thursday, March 17, at the Bonnie Brook Country Club, 19950 Telegraph (between Seven Mile and Eight Mile) in Detroit. The price is $6; children are free. There will be continuous entertainment, a cash bar, and corned beef and cabbage dinners will be sold. For more information, call 537-3489.

"It's a family event," said Gavin, explaining how the annual festival began nine years ago. "We had a lot of calls over the years from people who wanted to know what was going on culturally on St. Patrick's Day."

Featured performers include Ed McGlinchey, John Sands, Charlie Wilkie, the Kitty Heinzman Ceili Dancers and members of the U.S. and Canadian Champion City of Detroit Pipe Band.

Music is just one way the Gavins have given their sons a taste of Ireland. Anna has learned how to make many of the dishes her husband cherishes, including steak and kidney pie.

"When we first got married, he didn't think dinner was dinner without potatoes," said Anna.

"I miss home-baked bread and fresh sausage," said Mick. "We had beef once a week on Sunday. My mother raised chickens and turkeys. We had a small farm and ran a little grocery store."

Trout, salmon and herring are part of an Irish menu, along with beef and lamb stews, and ham with boiled cabbage. Root vegetables - potatoes, carrots, turnips, parsnips and beets - are meal staples.

If you want to serve a traditional dish on St. Patrick's Day, serve ham with cabbage. "Corned beef was cheaper than ham, that's why they used it when they came to this country," said Mick. "Beef is an export item in Ireland. It's expensive."

I can't remember if it was St. Patrick or Patrick the bartender at my favorite Irish pub who coined the phrase "Everyone's Irish on St. Patrick's Day."

Unfortunately, not being Irish, I was led to believe that corned beef, cabbage, potatoes, green beer and Irish whiskey were Irish culinary traditions. The sole Irish cooking tradition passed on to me in cooking school was the simple process of making soda bread and scones, certainly classified as "no brainers" because they require basic measuring, not much handling, and no yeast to worry about.

But who says you can't teach an old dog new tricks? The Irish possess a culinary heritage of hearty, homestyle comfort foods that we all have grown to love, cherish and enjoy.

Our story begins at the Irish Import Shop at 5472 Shaefer in Dearborn. Owner Jack Derrig seems to have cornered the Irish market with his noted scones, fruitcakes, shortbread and "the only USDA-approved Irish sausage in the United States," says Derrig, host of his own Irish radio show on WMZK-Radio, 690 on the AM dial.

Visiting Derring whetted my appetite for more Irish foodlore. I found myself totally immersed in Irish food and customs when Julie Demery and Pam and Jerry Maloney invited me to share an evening meal of fine Irish smoked salmon, brown soda bread, an Irish fondue and ice cream with an Irish whiskey sauce.

CURRANT SCONES

2 cups white flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons sugar
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter
1 egg, beaten well
½ cup currants
1 teaspoon fresh grated lemon rind

Preheat the oven to 450 degrees. Mix together the dry ingredients. Work in the butter with finger tips as in making a pie crust.

Add beaten egg, milk, currants and lemon peel. Mix well. Turn onto a floured board and knead 6 times. Pat out on a board until ¾ inch thick. Cut with a round cutter. Place scones on a lightly floured baking sheet and bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Place scones on a rack to cool.

Here is the recipe for one of the dishes featured at the upcoming Grand Irish Buffet at the Botsford Inn.

BEEF POT ROAST WITH GUINNESS STOUT

3-4 pounds English cut roast (chuck, rump, etc.)
¼ cup white flour
½ tablespoons garlic powder
½ tablespoons fresh ground black pepper
2 tablespoons solid vegetable shortening
1 large bay leaf
3 large onions, sliced
2-3 bottles Guinness Stout
6-8 smaller onions
6-8 carrots
6-8 medium potatoes, peeled
4-6 tablespoons butter
4-6 tablespoons white flour

Combine the ¼ cup white flour with the pepper and garlic powder on a large plate. Roll the English cut roast through the mixture, flouring well on all sides. Melt the solid vegetable shortening in a large dutch oven and then brown the roast in the Dutch oven on all sides. Add the three large onions (sliced), two bottles of Guinness Stout and the bay leaf. Cover and cook for 3-4 hours at 350 degrees.

This is much longer than usual. You want the meat to be "overdone" and fall apart when served.

During the last hour of cooking, add the carrots, potatoes, small onions and another bottle of Guinness if the liquid in the Dutch oven is low. When the roast is cooked, remove the vegetables and cover to keep warm.

Pour 4 cups of boiling water over the roast to add to the juice. Remove the roast, cover and keep warm.

Using remaining 4-6 tablespoons of butter and flour, make a roux by combining both and stirring them into the simmering liquid to make a gravy. The recipe serves 6-8 easily. Leftovers make a great stew.

Here's a great topping for ice cream, bread pudding or other Irish desserts.

IRISH WHISKEY SAUCE

1 cup sugar
⅓ cup water
1 cup very strong coffee
1 ounce Irish Whiskey

Use a heavy saucepan. Dissolve the sugar in the water and stir and continue cooking until the sugar caramelizes and turns golden (about 15-25 minutes).

The mixture will get very hot. Use a long wooden spoon to stir mixture as plastic will melt and metal gets too hot. When the sugar caramelizes, remove it from the stove and stir in the very strong coffee.

Suggestion: Place the pot in the sink as the addition of the coffee will make the mixture bubble and possibly boil over. Stir in the coffee mixture and when it cools, stir in the Irish whiskey. Makes about 2 cups.

nearby West Bloomfield are officers in the Detroit Chapter of the Irish American Cultural Institute, and have started an Irish cooking school. They also worked with Creon Smith, newly anointed innkeeper and owner of the fabled Botsford Inn at Grand River and Eight Mile in Farmington Hills, to create a traditional Irish menu for a St. Patrick's Day feast, 5 p.m. Thursday, March 17.

Featuring more than 158 years of history and hospitality, the Botsford Inn's grand Irish buffet will please and delight even the pickiest of diners with a choice of more than 17 items, priced at a reasonable $14.95 per person. Reservations can be made by calling 474-4800. Seating begins at 5 p.m. and will be on a first come basis.

"Traditional Irish food is a lot like the food the Botsford Inn serves," said Julie Demery. "Irish cooks use a home country type of menu — not fancy but very good — calling for real butter, milk or cream. And it's very important to use these ingredients as the food came out of a farming culture and these high-quality items were usually in abundance," she said.

Pam and Jerry Maloney are co-conspirators in the Irish cooking school and have put together a nice little cookbook promoting Irish cuisine. "Next year we hope to attend the famed Ballymaloe cooking school in Dublin" said Pam, an assistant principal at Levy Middle School in Southfield. For more information on the Irish cookbook and future cooking schools, call Julie Demery, (810) 540-6687.

"Authentic Irish music coupled with the good food and charm of the old Botsford Inn will be a special family night and a fun way to spend St. Patrick's Day," said Smith. He was quick to add that holding the Irish feast at the Botsford Inn is especially fitting because of the Inn's ties to Henry Ford, whose family immigrated from Ireland and treasured their Irish heritage. Henry Ford's father, William, came from an area named Fairlane in Cork, hence the title "Fairlane" throughout Dearborn.

The Irish feast will be served in the rear coach house, which features inviting stained glass, big wood beams and comfy surroundings.

If you haven't been to the Botsford Inn recently, you'll certainly appreciate what Smith, formerly of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, has done with the place. The Botsford was once a stagecoach stop between Detroit and Lansing, and history buffs will appreciate the fact that the inn is listed in National Register of Historic Places, largely because of its ties with the Ford family.

Gavin family shares treasured recipes

See related story on Taste front.

The salmon dish Anna Gavin made for our super supper feature was inspired by a dinner she and Mick shared in 1986 at the Old Ground Hotel in Ennis, County Clare. "We were there for a music festival," said Anna.

The dish is named Shannon salmon for the River Shannon where the famous salmon comes from.

BAKED SHANNON SALMON

6 salmon steaks
Spreadable margarine or softened butter
1 cucumber sliced thin
1 lemon sliced thin
Parsley for garnish

Spread salmon with butter on both sides. Wrap in tin foil. Bake at 400 degrees, (about 30 minutes). Garnish with cucumber and lemon slices and parsley. Salt and pepper to taste. Serves 6.

If desired, serve with a sauce made from 1 cup of plain yogurt, 2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice, 1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill or 1 teaspoon dried.

Here's a variation of Anna's recipe from "365 Ways To Cook Fish and Shellfish," by Charles Pierce (HarperCollins Publishers, copyright 1993) that cooks in the microwave.

MICROWAVED SALMON STEAKS WITH CUCUMBERS AND MINT

1 medium cucumber, peeled, halved lengthwise, seeded and thinly sliced
1 tablespoon butter
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 salmon steaks, 1 inch thick (6-8 ounces each)
1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint or ¼ teaspoon dried

In a large microwave-safe casserole, combine cucumber slices, butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Cook on High, stirring once, until tender, about 3 minutes.

Remove from microwave, arrange fish on top, and season with remaining ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Cover dish with microwave-safe plastic wrap and fold back one corner to allow steam to escape. Cook on medium 7 minutes. Turn steaks over and cook until fish is opaque in center, 5 to 8 minutes longer. Sprinkle mint over salmon just before serving. Serves 4.

IRISH MINTED PEAS

1 bag frozen peas
1 teaspoon dried mint
1 teaspoon sugar (optional)
Butter or margarine

Add peas, mint and sugar to boiling salted water. Simmer until tender. Drain, toss with butter and serve.

NUTTY BLARNEY BUNS

1 package of 6 puffed pastry shells

Filling:
8 ounces shredded mild cheddar cheese
2 ounces brown sugar, or to taste
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 half pint whipping cream or artificial whipped cream
Slivered almonds or crushed walnuts
Green frosting for garnish

Bake shells according to package directions. Cool on wire rack after cutting top off.

Whip cream into soft peaks. Mix cheese, brown sugar and lemon juice and fold into cream.

Fill shells and allow to set 15 minutes. Decorate with nuts, decorate tops with green frosting and top buns.

Series offers '365 Ways' to enjoy food

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

One of the most popular cookbooks on kitchen shelves today — "365 Ways to Cook Chicken," by Cheryl Sedaker — started out as an editor's nightmare — a stack of recipes in no particular order.

"I took the job as a free-lance project," said Susan Wyler, who now edits the popular cookbook series. Wyler stopped by the Observer & Eccentric office recently to talk about the newest book in the series — "365 Easy Mexican Recipes," by Marge Poore, (HarperCollins Publishers, copyright, Jan. 26, 1994, $17.95).

The "365 recipe" series started as a single cookbook when packager John Boswell presented the idea to HarperCollins publisher Bill Shinker. A book of 365 hamburger recipes published in 1972 had sold over a million copies. In 1984, Boswell decided to commission a book of chicken recipes because he believed chicken had become the "new hamburger."

With Wyler as editor, the series was born. When Boswell approached Wyler to copackage the cookbooks, she left her job at "Food & Wine" magazine, became series editor, wrote her book "Country Farmhouse," and started a company, King Hill Productions, which packages cookbooks with Boswell.

During our interview, Wyler pointed out the "reader-friendly" virtues of the series — the books are made with a lie-flat binding; both the preparation time and cooking time are listed at the top of the recipe, the type is large enough to read from a cooking distance, the cover is washable, the steps are numbered, and you never have to turn a page to finish a recipe.

"These cookbooks are designed to be used in the kitchen," said Wyler. "Our new book '365 Easy Mexican Recipes' has authentic recipes and flavors with supermarket ingredients."

Wyler is a careful editor who spends hours with the author going over every recipe with a "fine tooth comb," then it goes to a specially trained copy editor for another look-over.

Other titles in the series include — pasta, microwave recipes, one-dish meals, low-calories meals, barbecuing and grilling recipes, Italian, hamburger, chocolate desserts, snacks, wok, fish and shellfish, preparing for Christmas and cookies and brownies.

The series continues this spring with books containing "365" vegetarian, Chinese, cake and pie recipes.

"There's something communal about sitting around a table at meal time together," said Wylie who lived in Manhattan for nearly 20 years before moving to a country house in rural Pennsylvania. "I hope these books help people cook at home, and make it easy. The recipes won't take forever to make, and won't cost you an arm and a leg."

Here's a recipe from "365 Easy Mexican Recipes," to try.

CHICKEN TACO SALAD

2 tablespoons olive oil
1 pound skinless, boneless chickens breasts, cut into 1-inch pieces
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chili powder
1 medium head of iceberg lettuce, torn into bite-sized pieces
1 (8 ounce) can kidney beans, rinsed and drained
1 (4-ounce) can sliced black olives, drained
3 scallions, chopped
1 cup crushed tortilla chips
1 cup thick and chunky salsa
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese (about 4 ounces)
½ cup sour cream
1 large tomato, chopped
¼ cup chopped cilantro

In a medium skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat. Add chicken and cook, tossing, until white throughout but still juicy, 3 to 4 minutes. Add salt and chili powder. Cook, stirring, 1 minute to blend flavors. Remove from heat and set aside to cool slightly. (Chicken can be cooked ahead and refrigerated).

In a large bowl, place lettuce, kidney beans, olives, scallions, tortilla chips, reserved chicken, and salsa. Toss to mix.

In a large bowl, place lettuce, kidney beans, olives, scallions, tortilla chips, reserved chicken, and salsa. Toss to mix.

Divide Salad among 4 plates. Top each with a quarter of cheese, sour cream, chopped tomato and cilantro. Serves 4, prep time 15 minutes, cook 4 to 5 minutes.

Vegetable dishes offer exotic options

SCRAMBLED EGGS WITH NOPALES

2 tablespoons pine nuts (pignolias)
2 tablespoons butter
¼ pound nopales, de-pickered and cut into pieces
2 tablespoons green chili peppers, diced
7 eggs
Salt and pepper to taste

Toast the pine nuts over low heat in a skillet until lightly browned, stirring often. Set aside.

Melt the butter in a heavy frypan and stir in the nopales and cook over medium heat until tender crisp, about 4-5 minutes.

Stir in chili peppers and eggs, scramble eggs until desired doneness is reached. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Sprinkle with pine nuts and serve. Serves 3.

Nopales, also known as cactus pads, are available at Mexican markets and can be bought fresh or canned.

SAUTED FENNEL WITH LEMON

2 medium fennel bulbs, about 1½ pounds
2 tablespoons olive oil
¼ teaspoon salt, or to taste, optional
1 teaspoon fresh grated lemon peel
Pepper to taste

Trim and reserve the fennel leaves and cut off any top stalks and reserve. Quarter each bulb lengthwise; then cut each quarter crosswise in very thin slices.

Mince one tablespoon of the leaves. Heat oil in a large, heavy skillet; toss fennel slices to coat. Add salt and continue tossing over moderate heat until tender, about 8-10 minutes.

Toss with lemon juice and sprinkle with pepper to taste. Sprinkle with minced caps. Serves 3.

TOO MUCH PROTEIN

When it comes to getting enough protein in the diet, more is not better. In fact, Americans consume altogether too much protein for their own good. This protein overkill is largely born of the attitudes of muscle builders and dieters who equate eating large amounts of protein with building stronger muscles and greater health. It is also wrong to assume that eating meat better fulfills the body's protein requirements than does a vegetarian diet. The fact is that the average American eats 100 grams of protein, or two to three times the Recommended Dietary Allowance for protein. Vegetarians or not, Americans eat more protein than their bodies require. The advantage that vegetable protein has over animal protein is that it can contain less fat and is cheaper.

The Good Food Co., a natural food supermarket, is a great place to learn about non-meat alternatives. There are delicious and easy things to try both in the convenience food section of the grocery aisles as well as the freezer sections. We are also happy to announce the upcoming Great American Meatout which is enjoyed annually around the country to educate people about the dietary alternatives available to them. Call (810) 795-2706 for directions and more information about this wonderful event happening on Sat., March 19th, 11:30 - 4:00. The donation is $1.00; children are free.

P.S. The Great American Meatout will allow you to sample a variety of delicious meatless dishes. Eating too much protein can have a deleterious effect on those who have deteriorating kidney conditions.

Turn to speed-scratch cooking for fast meals

Getting a healthful, great-tasting meal on the table in a hurry used to be a challenge, but that's not true anymore. Enter speed-scratch cooking, the newest way to save time without sacrificing taste or nutrition.

Speed-scratch cooking really is very simple. Convenience products pair up with "scratch" ingredients that cook quickly and are nutrition-smart.

Handy convenience products these days can be found in every aisle of the supermarket. In addition to familiar standbys such as prepared spaghetti sauce and pizza sauce, canned beans, bottled salad dressing and frozen vegetables, there are fresh salsa, recipe-ready canned tomatoes with Italian and Mexican flavors, combination herb and spice blends, ready-to-use salad greens and other produce items, flavored rice mixes, instant couscous and instant rice, to name just a few. And, many products offer reduced fat and/or reduced sodium counterparts.

Among the scratch ingredients designed for quick cooking are boneless chicken breasts, fish fillets, ground turkey and lean tender cuts of meat such as pork tenderloin and beef sirloin. Wheat germ fits in this category, too, as a coating for chicken and fish and as an extender for ground meat and poultry.

And don't overlook quick cooking methods such as microwaving, stir-frying and broiling. Other time-saving tips include: buying combination ingredients such as shredded cheese for tacos and Mexican-style stewed tomatoes; using quick-cooking grains such as angle hair pasta, orzo and couscous; spraying pans with no-stick cooking spray to trim calories and shorten cleanup; cooking enough chicken, fish or meat for a second meal; and making meatballs or individual meat loaves.

Mini meat loaves with honey-mustard sauce take advantage of several speed-scratch techniques. These savory little loaves cook in the microwave oven in just 10 to 12 minutes. The green onions can be bought presliced from the supermarket salad bar, and many markets carry a prepared honey-mustard sauce. Lean ground beef gets a nutrition boost from wheat germ, a wholesome extender for ground meat and poultry.

Equally quick and great tasting are Cajun-style fish fillets. Convenient blackened fish seasoning from the supermarket spice section flavors the wheat germ and corn meal used to coat mild, farm-raised catfish fillets. To enhance their crispness, the fillets are lightly sprayed with no-stick cooking spray and baked at a high temperature. They bake in 5 to 10 minutes, just long enough to saute red bell pepper strips and thinly sliced leeks. Complete the meal with quick-cooking rice.

Other quick recipes are available free in the new brochure, Healthy Made Easy. For a copy, send your name and address to: Healthy Eating Made Easy, 332 S. Michigan Ave., Suite 900, Dept. N, Chicago, IL 60604. Offer good while supplies last.

Here are some recipes from the kitchens of Kretschmer wheat germ.

MINI MEAT LOAVES WITH HONEY-MUSTARD SAUCE

- 1½ pounds lean ground beef or turkey
- ¾ cup Kretschmer original wheat germ
- ½ cup chopped green onions
- ⅓ cup water
- ½ teaspoon salt (optional)
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 1 egg white, slightly beaten
- ¼ cup Dijon mustard
- 3 tablespoons honey

For meat loaves, combine first seven ingredients in large bowl; mix lightly, but thoroughly. Shape meat mixture into eight 3 by 2-inch loaves; place in 7 by 11-inch glass baking dish. Cover loosely with wax paper.

Microwave at high 10 to 12 minutes or until meat is no longer pink and juices run clear, rotating dish after 6 minutes; drain. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

For sauce, combine mustard and honey; mix well. Or, for added convenience, use ready prepared honey mustard sauce. Serve sauce over meat loaves.

Conventional oven directions: Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Prepare recipe as directed above; place meat loaves in 7- by 11-inch glass baking dish. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until meat is no longer pink and juices run clear. Yield 8 Servings

- ¼ cup Quaker or Aunt Jemima corn meal
- 2 tablespoons blackened fish seasoning
- 1 egg white
- 3 tablespoons water
- 1½ pounds catfish fillets
- 2 medium red or green bell peppers, cut into strips
- ½ cup thinly sliced leeks or green onions

Heat oven to 450 degrees F. Lightly spray cookie sheet with no-stick cooking spray. Combine first three ingredients in shallow dish. In another shallow dish, beat egg white and water until frothy.

Dip catfish fillets in egg white mixture, then in wheat germ mixture, coating fish thoroughly. Place on prepared pan. Spray fish lightly with no-stick cooking spray. Bake 5 to 10 minutes or until fish is lightly browned and flakes easily with fork.

While fish is baking, spray skillet with no-stick cooking spray; saute peppers and leeks over medium heat 3 to 5 minutes or until vegetables are crisp-tender. Serve vegetable mixture over fish. Yield: 6 servings.

Luscious chocolate mint cheesecake cuts a lean profile

AP — With the help of low-fat products, luscious chocolate cheesecake cuts a leaner profile. Low-fat cottage cheese and light cream cheese replace regular sour cream and cream cheese.

Chocolate wafers form the crust without any added butter. And, egg substitutes reduce some of the cholesterol usually found in cheesecake.

Overall, you can save save about 250 calories, 25 grams of fat and 110 milligrams of cholesterol per serving compared to a higher-fat cheesecake recipe.

CHOCOLATE-MINT CHEESECAKE

- ½ cup crushed chocolate wafers (about 7)
- 1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
- 8-ounce package light cream cheese (Neufchatel)
- 1 cup sugar
- ⅓ cup unsweetened cocoa powder
- 3 tablespoons creme de menthe liqueur
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup (4 ounces) frozen egg product, thawed
- 3 tablespoons miniature semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Sprinkle wafer crumbs evenly in the bottom of an 8-inch springform pan. Set aside.

In a food processor bowl or blender container, cover and process or blend cottage cheese until smooth. Add cream cheese, sugar, cocoa powder, liqueur and vanilla. Blend or process until combined. (The mixture will be thick, so scrape the sides of the container, if necessary.)

Transfer to a large mixing bowl. Stir in egg product and chocolate. Pour into prepared pan. Bake in a 300-degree F oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until cheesecake appears nearly set when shaken.

Cool cheesecake in pan on a wire rack for 10 minutes. Loosen sides of pan. Cool for 30 minutes more; remove sides of pan. Cool completely. Cover and chill for several hours or overnight. Makes 12 servings.

Everyone knows someone with diabetes.

Fourteen million Americans are living with diabetes. Unfortunately, more than half do not know they have it because diabetes can strike silently. Many will first learn about diabetes when they are treated for one of its complications – kidney disease, blindness, amputation, heart disease or stroke. Know the early warning signs of frequent urination, unusual thirst, extreme hunger, frequent infections or blurred vision. While there is no cure for diabetes, every day research brings hope. The American Diabetes Association is the nation's leader in the fight against diabetes – funding research, education and patient services.

14 million reasons to find a cure.

American Diabetes Association.

Until there's a cure, there's the American Diabetes Association.

MUSIC NOTES

CHRISTINA FUOCO

When people in the United States see Eve's Plum name for the first time, chances are they recognize it as resembling the name of the woman who played Jan Brady on the Brady Bunch. Abroad, few make the connection, although they have their own interpretation. That's fine to guitarist Michael Kotch.

"That's cool because then they realize that we're not some band with a totally obscure name."

Eve's Plum was in town to play the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor March 11 with a band with an equally intriguing name, Tripping Daisy.

Usually record companies have to beg radio stations to play singles by new acts. With Cry of Love, their label had to tell them not to play their song "Peace Pipe" until the band was ready. "Radio jumped on it," lead singer Kelly Holland said.

"They embraced it right away. We had to tell them 'Don't play it just yet'."

Cry of Love and their label wanted to make sure that their marketing and touring strategies were set first. Since releasing "Peace Pipe," Cry of Love has been repeatedly been told of their uncanny resemblance to early 1980s bands. Holland isn't insulted the least bit. After all, "rock 'n' roll is an apple that doesn't fall very far from the tree." Bands copy each other and add a personalized tinge to it, he added.

Cry of Love played Harpo's on Friday, March 11.

Blind Melon proved at their Wednesday, March 9, show at the State Theatre in Detroit that they are more than a one-hit wonder. Blind Melon, performing their best Detroit show to date, was able to keep up the energy of the near-capacity crowd longer than the length of their acoustic hit "No Rain." The band sounded fuller and seemed more confident on stage — especially lead singer Shannon Hoon show frequently joked around with fans. (Although most of what the soft-spoken Hoon said was inaudible.) During previous stops to the area with acts such as Neil Young, Guns 'N Roses and Public Image, Ltd., the band and its music tended to get lost in the venues. This time around Blind Melon's music sounded fuller while Hoon's vocals and Christopher Thorn's acoustic guitar came across clearly. The 1½-hour show also included a near-perfect rendition of "Tones of Home."

Reading through the lyrics of Carter the Unstoppable Sex Machine's latest album "Post-Historic Monsters," you'd think that they were telepathic. In the song "Commercial Suicide Part 1" the band writes "Throw your Gameboys in the fire. Bono (of U2) ain't the new messiah. Michael Jackson is a liar." "With that line, it was written before we knew anything about his supposed activities," vocalist Jim Bob said about the song. He thought to use the word only because it "rhymed with desire."

When Carter USM comes to St. Andrew's Hall at 8 p.m. Sunday, March 27, fans will notice an additional member — a drummer. Previously the band used recorded drum tracks during its live show, something that went over well in the United Kingdom but caused controversy here. "Everyone accepts it," he said of UK fans. "In the States, musicians and fans didn't like it. They felt we were cheating and somehow wrong. . . . Now I can't see how we never had one." The New York band Lotion opens the show. Call (313) 961-MELT for more information.

Unsigned bands are eligible to win a gig in Japan through the 1994 "Soundcheck — The Yamaha Music Showcase," which begins in the summer. Bands in any genre that play originals and are not signed to a nationally distributed record label are eligible to enter.

Last year, East Lansing's The Verve Pipe won the national contest and played at MusicQuest, an international pop and rock showcase in Japan. To receive an entry form, call Soundcheck at (800) 451-7625. The deadline is May 31.

Grant Lee Buffalo is a band that is definitely benefitting from a general admission seating policy. The band will open for Pearl Jam at the Masonic Temple in Detroit on Saturday, March 19, and at Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor on Sunday, March 20. Fans are expected to rush in to the venues to secure good seats shortly after the doors open — plenty of time before Grant Lee Buffalo hits the stage.

Grant Lee Phillips, the jangly alternative rock band's guitarist and vocalist, never thought about it like that.

Fishbone — It's in the 'Swim'

■ Last year was an eventful year for Fishbone — some of it good, some of it bad. But it's been the release of their album "Give a Monkey a Brain and He'll Swear He's the Center of the Universe" that has broadening their ska-based following.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

The flurry of activity is overwhelming Angelo Christopher Moore, lead vocalist/saxophonist for Fishbone.

Answering the phone in his Richmond, Va., hotel room, Moore doesn't sound quite together.

"I got chicken in my hand; the phone's tangling up . . . all kinds of confusing (stuff)." He drops the phone and momentarily gets his act together.

He picks up the phone and begins chatting about the last year. For Fishbone, it has been an endless stream of events — good and bad.

They released the album "Give a Monkey a Brain and He'll Swear He's the Center of the Universe" to critical acclaim. The syndicated rock radio station Z-Rock picked up on the single "Swim," broadening their primarily ska-based following.

■ STREET BEATS

During the summer they co-headlined the Lollapalooza Festival and afterward gigged around Europe with Stone Temple Pilots and the Mighty Mighty Bosstones.

Behind the scenes Fishbone bassist Norwood Fisher faced charges for allegedly kidnapping the band's former guitarist Kendall Rey Jones from a religious group. Fisher was later acquitted.

That incident, Moore said, is now filed away as part of the band's ongoing transformation process. With Jones' heavy metal influences in tow, the California band has slowly folded hard rock in with its ska sound.

"It's been a big progression; it's been a transformation. We've transformed into something," he said. "We just play different kinds of music. On each album, there's a different focus on different kinds of music."

John Bigham eventually replaced Jones and Fishbone collectively proved — musically and theatrically — during Lollapalooza that they were one of the most dynamic bands around. During their opening song, "Swim," Fishbone dropped their curtain, adorned with their trademark fish, while repeatedly shouting "The pool is open." A cartoon-like mechanical fish flapped its jaws and flew above the band.

Upon hearing that "Swim" was one of the highlights of Lollapalooza, Moore's spirits are lifted.

"Yeah? Cool. This time we won't have the (mechanical) fish but we're still gonna have 'The pool is open,'" he said like an anxious child trying to earn approval.

Their tour, which comes to St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit on Saturday, March 19, will primarily feature material from "Give a Monkey . . . " — unless bassist Fisher is convinced otherwise.

"They might get a pinch of the old set, so if you have any requests you're going to have to ask Norwood. He takes care of all that. It's hard for me to get in a request and I'm in the band."

After the tour, the band is taking a well-deserved break. There is preliminary talk about Fishbone's next album, but it's "up in the air." According to Moore, their label, Columbia, wants them to do a greatest hits package featuring remixes of older songs and a few covers.

"We want to do all originals. . . . They can't lose what Fishbone has to offer them."

Fishbone performs with Kyuss and Biohazard at Saturday, March 19, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Tickets are $11.50 in advance. Doors open at 9 p.m. Must be 18 with ID to enter.For more information, call (313) 961-MELT or (810) 645-6666.

Steve Gornall gives Motor City the blues

Blues man: Steve Gornall is gone, but his Blue Collar Blues Band is still playing in the Detroit area.

BY MARK GALLO
SPECIAL WRITER

Guitarist/vocalist Steve Gornall and his high-energy Blue Collar Blues Band have been local fixtures for years. From Sisko's to Mr. Lou's to Sully's, where they supplied my first taste of live music for the year, patrons have been lined up and geared up for Gornall's revved up take on the rockin' blues.

None of the acclaim that's come his way, most especially since the release of the extraordinary "Steve Gornall & The Blue Collar Blues Band" disc on the local Blues Factory label, has gone to his head. Like most overnight sensations, he's been at this for awhile.

In the early 1970s, his band Nature, which was the pride of Livonia and opened for local illuminaries like Bob Seger and Ted Nugent, gave him his first taste of fame. He traces his enthusiasm and involvement, however, back to the seventh grade, when he and Robert Noll, another of the main players in the local blues community, started jamming.

Noll went to Chicago and worked with legends like Albert Collins and Big Twist. Gornall spent a decade in the trenches of the Hollywood cutthroat Top 40 and rock world of the 1970s-80s, where he worked with "whoever would pay" him. Among those were Paul Warren, former Doors keyboardist Ray Manzarek and Richard Marx, with whom he appeared on that bastion of pop music, "American Bandstand." By the time he got back home, he was ready to dive head-first into the honesty of blues music.

The Blue Collar Blues Band, anchored by drummer Vinnie Scalabrino and bassist Tim Garrick, and featuring the secret weapon of harmonica playing icon Kenny Welk, is a band that burns in a big way, and frontman Gornall is as a tight bundle of music energy.

Wearing a wide variety of influences on his sleeve, from Duane Allman to Stevie Ray Vaughan to Buddy Guy, Freddie King and Eddy Clearwater, he's a wholly unique player in his own right. A writer of classical proportions, he's absorbed the past 30 years of rock and blues guitar heritage, distilled it and alluded to it all over the new disc.

"All You Gotta Do," for instance, has an opening right out of Jimi Hendrix's "Belly Button Window," while "Daddy's Little Girl" takes the Chuck Berry highway and "Red Hot" works a CCR "Born on the Bayou" groove into the introduction. On "7-11 Sunset Strip," the band works in a style that would do Little Charlie and the Nightcats proud, and "Heart on the Ground" comes straight out of an Otis Rush bag. But cuts like "Runnin'" and the incendiary instrumental that is "Busy Guitar" more than adequately demonstrate, Gornall is a wholly unique picker. It's a style that's turned many a sleepy club into an SRO hot spot for years.

Unfortunately, he has been growing weary of the local scene. By the time you read this, Gornall, one of the baddest guitar players Detroit has ever called their own, is West Coast-bound once again. While he's quick to praise Blues Factory for all they've done for him, he does not want his reputation to begin and end in a handful of clubs in the Detroit area, and on a small label that only has so many resources available for promotion.

His plan is to look up old connections and acquaintances, like John Mayall and guitarist Coco Montoya, and see about getting signed with a big label with a big budget — at least big enough to support a national tour, either in clubs or as an opening act in the arenas.

With Gornall in California, the Detroit blues scene certainly is feeling the loss of a vibrant link.

■ Wearing a wide variety of influences on his sleeve, from Duane Allman to Stevie Ray Vaughan to Buddy Guy . . . he's a wholly unique player in his own right.

The remaining members of the Blue Collar Blues Band have hardly slipped under the back porch, though. They will continue to perform.

The Blue Collar Blues Band will perform Friday, March 18, at the Sports (A-50s Bar & Grill), 166 Maple, Wyandotte (285-5060); and Saturday, March 19, at Sierra Station, 15110 Mack, Grosse Pointe Park (822-1270) for more information.

"That's true. I've gotten to shows just as the opening band is bowing and saying, 'Thank you.' I'm sure that they will bail as soon as we leave," the affable Phillips said. "But then again I'm not always grounded in reality."

The band took a break from recording its follow-up to "Fuzzy" when it became clear that they were going to do a few Midwestern dates with Pearl Jam. Both area shows are sold out.

With the release of the album "Modern Life is Rubbish," Blur is hoping that their fans will be able to see their musical focus a little clearer. The English pop band feels the public got the wrong idea about them after they released their 1991 album "Leisure" and the single "There's No Other Way." It's "something with not a great deal of depth," the disheveled lead singer Damon said matter of factly during a press conference at Chicago's Cabaret Metro club. "Modern Life is Rubbish" is lyrically more mature and musically sound. The opening track "For Tomorrow" features the Duke String Quartet under Blur's lush Beatlesque harmonies. The band also retreated to the vocal style in the shamelessly addictive "Sunday Sunday" and "Chemical World."

It doesn't take long to figure out the band's opinion of modern rock. (Start with the title "Modern Life is Rubbish" and the harmonies.) "We made a conscious decision to remove ourselves from all possible comparisons. Here we are now, in our own pigeonhole."

'Gilbert' searches for an audience

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

■ MOVIES

You can't accuse Johnny Depp of wimping out on film roles. The pretty boy actor whose name sounds like it was developed by a Hollywood agent has starred in John Waters' "Cry Baby" and Tim Burton's "Edward Scissorhands," among others.

Add to the list "What's Eating Gilbert Grape," an offbeat and often moving new film which will hopefully stick around long enough to find an audience.

Depp's Gilbert is a teenager with way too much responsibility. He works at the local grocery not so much for the job opportunity but because he can lug home several bags of groceries each night to feed his 500-pound mother (Darlene Cates).

She can't cook or even move from the couch to eat, so Gilbert and his two sisters literally bring the dinner table to her. While he loves his mother, Gilbert shares the town's fascination with her freakishness and even hoists neighborhood kids up the window to get a gander.

On top of this, Gilbert is saddled with Arnie (Leonardo DiCaprio), his almost 18-year-old, mentally handicapped brother. The boy has a bad habit of climbing the local water tower until Gilbert, usually surrounded by a gathering crowd of townspeople, can talk him down.

Depp, sporting long hair and an almost visible weight on his shoulders, looks at home in the delapidated farmhouse in Endora, Iowa. He gains a new perspective from a worldly and beguiling young woman, played by Juliette Lewis, who stops in Endora while her grandmother's travel trailer is stalled for repairs on the outskirts of town.

Lewis, the young actress so memorable in Scorsese's "Cape Fear" and Woody Allen's "Husbands and Wives," gives the role a mystical quality. She inspires Gilbert to live a bit for himself and not just for others.

Stealing scenes from Lewis and a whale-sized actress is no easy task, but Leonardo DiCaprio is so uninhibited and all over the place that you can't take your eyes off of him. He has copped an Oscar nomination for best supporting actor and, if there's any justice at all in Hollywood, he'll win.

"Gilbert Grape" is the latest from Swedish director Lasse Hallstrom, whose bizarrely titled "My Life as a Dog" was an equally unusual account of childhood that developed a minor cult following. Halstrom turns America's heartland into a place that is both bracingly realistic and also decidedly surreal.

Endora, according to the film, is a small town on the brink of commercialization. The locally owned grocery where Gilbert works is constantly threatened by the monster supermarket across the street, where assistant managers bustle through the aisles and a tank full of live lobsters attracts customers to the meat department.

Gilbert's best friend, a local lawncare guy, dreams of owning a Burger Barn, which he considers "on the cutting edge of the fast food industry" because it uses Canola oil for the fries. His other buddy, a mortician's son played by the ever-quirky Crispin Glover, drops less-than-subtle hints about elderly relatives in the hopes of bolstering a sagging family business.

Although it wanders sometimes aimlessly, "Gilbert Grape" is a slice-of-life movie that will probably stick with you a little longer than most. It has an engaging sense of humanity that is at once tragic, life affirming and unforgettable.

"Betty" (France — 1992), 7 and 9:30 p.m. March 18-19. In this recent work from French storyteller Claude Chabrol, a drunk and homeless woman turns up in a not-too-elegant bar and finds herself involved with an older, upper-class man.

"The Missing Hitchcocks," 4 and 7 p.m. March 20. Hitchcock directed the short films "Bon Voyage" and "Aventure Malgache" in 1944 to support the French resistance, but the British found them way too dark and perverse. Banned upon release and then "lost" for 50 years, these rare examples of wartime propoganda are a must for fans of the famed master of suspense.

Pier Paolo Passolini double feature — "Salo, or the 120 Days of Sodom" (Italy — 1974) and "Arabian Nights" (Italy — 1975), March 18-20 (call for show times). Two films from the controversial director. Shot in Yemen, Iran and Nepal, "Arabian Nights" is a lavish, spirited adaptation of the ancient text. "Salo" recasts the writings of the Marquis de Sade in a Fascist villa during the waning days of World War II.

"The Scent of Green Papaya" (Vietnam — 1993). This Cinderella story about a Vietnamese servant girl in 1950s Saigon has been nominated for a Best Foreign Film Oscar.

"A Streetcar Named Desire" (USA — 1951). Elia Kazan's still-stunning version of Tennessee Williams' most famous play arrives with four additional minutes intact. Although the changes aren't as earth-shattering as the McCarthy-era censors would have liked you to believe, it's still a treat to see the young Marlon Brando on the big screen.

"Six Degrees of Separation" (USA — 1994). Based on John Guare's award-winning play, a savvy young man (Will Smith) poses as Sidney Poitier's son to cajole his way into the home of a Fifth Avenue art dealer and his wife (Donald Sutherland and Stockard Channing).

"Schindler's List" (USA — 1993). Steven Spielberg may finally get his Academy Award for this story of Oskar Schindler (Liam Neeson), a war profiteer and Nazi crony who saved the lives of more than 1,000 Jews during the Holocaust.

Greens are keen for spring scenes

Think St. Patrick's Day, think the Trinity, think the shamrock leaf. Though it may seem oddly circumspect, when I think of St. Patrick's Day, I think primarily of color — green beer, green leprechauns, green clover and ultimately, green attire.

As a retail writer, I attach new meaning to every holiday. Easter inspires bonnets, Valentine's Day conjures rose-strewn gifts and, alas, St. Patrick's Day affords the opportunity to preview spring fashions in shades of green.

Luckily, green is in for spring. And amazingly, those who attach names to colors in the fashion industry have outdone themselves with the usually generic green. Forget hunter or emerald or olive. The new greens are as vivid as spruce or lime or apple, as soft as leaf or willow or meadow, and as pungent as basil or pine, sage or spearmint.

Greens of spring

Imagine a linen jacket the color of seaweed, a pear-hued straw hat or a silk jacquard vest in jade. A day of window-shopping will reveal all of these greens and more.

I discovered a wide-brimmed spring green picture hat by Oscar de la Renta at Jacobson's and a new selection of palm green handbags at the Coach leather goods store in the Somerset Collection. Designer David Dart interprets linen knit jackets, long vests and crinkle skirts in bay green at Hudson's. I joined shoppers at two area boutiques to uncover the newest green garb. At Maggie & Me, 924 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth, the original designs are always fun and imaginative. The outfit pictured pairs a willow green floral vest ($88) with moss-colored shorts ($52). The black T is trimmed and tied at the shoulder with a contrasting floral print ($38). Pockets combine vintage fabrics for a contemporary look that bespeaks a bygone era.

"All of the clothes here are whimsical, creative, feminine," said a woman named Katie from Ann Arbor. "They inspire you to go back to your wardrobe and use bits of things to create new things, an environment." Katie tried a plaid skirt in aqua, turquoise and yellow, trimmed in peach satin ribbon and lace.

Pink with green

The newly opened Fini of Farmington, a romantic boutique at 33318 Grand River, is a vision in pastel greens and pinks. The walls are sponged in soft pink paint, and a mint green sofa sits atop a lavender rug. Dressing rooms are opulently draped in pink and green floral fabrics.

"I love this store," gushed Mary Gooden of Detroit. "It's just what I've been looking for. Nice clothes and nice prices." Her friend, Sharon Brown, agreed as they browsed through the racks. Sharon's favorite outfit was an Indian cotton batik bustier, bolero and pant ensemble in emerald green splashed with bright flowers and gold beading ($110). "That's mine," she said. Other standouts include a pine green Edwardian velvet-and-lace party dress with a jeweled bodice, a sueded rayon tunic and palazzo pants in pale celery ($129), a rose-patterned and tiered gauze dress, overrun with leafy green vines ($99), and a pastel green lace tunic and crinkle skirt ($99). Accessorize with a charm necklace, bracelet and earrings finished in an antique green wash ($24.99/set).

Think flora and fauna and fruits and herbs when looking for your new spring wardrobe. The most enviable green? Sage, definitely.

Mary Matalin talks politics in Hudson's fashion show series

When Hudson's announced that Mary Matalin would be spring's guest speaker for its Challenging the Future series, the phones began ringing and the event sold out in two days. Matalin's presentation didn't disappoint the crowd.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Mary Matalin is a lot of things, and that's why Detroit-area women drove to Hudson's Oakland Mall store March 5 to hear her speak at an 8 a.m. breakfast event.

Matalin didn't disappoint them.

Her material came from the 1992 presidential campaign where, as George Bush's deputy campaign manager, she emerged as a vocal and controversial defender of the president and his policies.

It came from experiences on her new weeknight talk show, "Equal Time," where, with co-host Jane Wallace, newsmakers of the day air insider views. And it came from her three-month-old marriage to Bill Clinton's campaign manager, James Carvell.

"I love this guy," she said defending her marriage to the opposition. "I'm crazy for this big-taxing, big-spending, redistributionist demagogue."

The good-natured putdowns continued when she was asked about the Bushes. "I had lunch with President Bush recently. And he looks fit and tan. He still refers to Clinton as 'What's His Name.' I really like the Bushes. They are good citizens . . . true public servants.

"Despite the rigors of politics, they managed to raise five kids who turned out great. They are not of this era, however. Bush wasn't a good speechmaker. He didn't understand TV.

"He told me that Barbara was ready to publish a book on her memoirs. Barb's making all this money now, he joked. 'And she's waving this independence in my face.' "

But the meat of her message was to warn the audience of the dangers of emerging "Junk Journalism," which Matalin blamed for the "firing" of George Bush.

"The lines between hard news journalism and tabloid journalism are blurred," she said. "Reporters in the print media are trying to compete with the electronic media, and they can't get the news out as fast as television or radio can. So they are turning to news analysis and opinion reporting to sell their papers."

Running with the pack

Matalin said a "pack mentality" exists in newsrooms where the same viewpoints are reinforced in papers across the country by editors because, "How can we run a story about Bush that's positive, when it's running on the wire services that Bush is having a bad day?"

She cautioned that when stories about various national health plans are published, they are often about who's for what plan, instead of the contents of the plans or their ramifications.

"You think you are getting news," Matalin said. "But what you are getting is horse race and poll stories. Who's on what side? Who's winning?"

She insisted her views weren't sour grapes and quoted from an article by

Strong sales bring stars to Wonderland

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Wonderland Mall went Hollywood last week, awarding its top stores "stars" in the Livonia center's Walk of Sales.

Each winning store received a plaque with its name on a Hollywood-style star set on a faux granite background.

The awards banquet was held at Hawthorne Valley Golf Club in Westland.

Corey's Jewelry Box led the winning stores with sales up 43.4 percent over 1992. Assistant manager Susan Carroll of Southgate credited the sales increases with "monthly promotions and a big demand for gold jewelry."

"We also never let a customer go unacknowledged," she said. "If we are busy with someone and a new shopper walks up to the counter, we always say 'Hello' and tell them we'll be right with them. It's a little thing, but it leads to sales."

Cynthia Beydoun of Dearborn Heights manages the Hit Or Miss store, which also took home a star for sales increases, up 16.4 percent over last year. She suggested that dollars spent training sales staff in customer service are dollars wisely spent.

"Maybe a customer doesn't buy a whole lot one day," she said. "But they will be back if they are treated right and merchandise suggestions political journalism guru David Broder, who also warns about the trivialism of substance by today's media."

Kraft's crowd: The gals from the office (Kraft General Foods in Farmington Hills) bought a row of tickets when they heard Mary Matalin would be speaking. They are: Cheryl Fogel of West Bloomfield (left), Eva Reame of Northville, Eileen Leggatt of Lathrup Village and Marge Thompson of Royal Oak.

Matalin said the country's best minds are forced to communicate complex issues to the public in 9-second sound bites that can make the 4 p.m. evening news deadlines.

"This has led to the media giving a very cynical public a very distorted picture of our society," she said. "Yet in order to preserve democracy, we need participation by citizens who are informed and interested."

Matalin rocked the crowd by revealing that reports of Clinton's $200 haircut that allegedly stopped air traffic for two hours were untrue. "The incident never happened," she said.

And she insisted that an incident where an editor claimed Bush was so out of touch with the masses that he didn't know what a grocery scanner was also never happened.

Check it out

"So I leave you with this advice," Matalin said. "The next time you want to boot out a school board member or remove a state representative because of a reported incident, call up their office and find out if what you read or heard really happened."

Her views were appreciated by sisters Ruth Rosetti of Shelby Township and Connie Cowper of Clarkston.

"I think she's so intelligent and refreshing," Rosetti said. "I like her show on CNBC. She's wonderful. I just wish she would have told us how to get the truth if we can't depend on the media."

"But she did," Cowper said. "She gave you something to think about while you're reading or listening to the news."

Judy Elliot of Farmington Hills came to hear Matalin with some friends from the Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn.

"I appreciated her perspective on how information is given and received today," she said. "She certainly gave us all something to think about."

Practical programs

Hudson spokeswoman Chris Morrisroe said that's what Hudson's semi-annual Challenging the Future series was all about. Of course, the department store wants to show its seasonal merchandise to the audience most likely to buy it, but it also wants to give customers interesting programs that affect lifestyles.

"Matalin was brought in through the Washington Speaker's Bureau, and she will eventually address all three of our markets — Detroit, Chicago and Minneapolis," Morrisroe said.

"These programs are targeted to win the loyalty of career-oriented customers who, in response forms, indicate that these are the kinds of programs and fashions they want to see."

Morrisroe said shoppers have asked Hudson's to bring in Oprah Winfrey next.

After Matalin spoke, a 134-outfit spring fashion show hit the runway, including a large-size model for the first time. Morrisroe said customers want to see real people wearing real clothes and Hudson's is glad to oblige, "because that's what we're all about," she said.

After the show, (and a boxed breakfast that included a pastry basket filled with fresh berries, a tart with imported cheeses, and a cinnamon scone with flavored butters), guests made their way through Hudson's with coupons for discounts and cosmetic makeovers.

Hudson's also used the occasion to debut the new espresso bar on the second floor. Caffé Gió. This new European-style deli and coffeehouse features drinks and light menus-to-go as well as cappuccino, expresso drinks, Italian sodas and desserts. There is counter seating for five. Four new coffee flavors are served daily.

are made to them. The customer is number one, that's it."

She said Hit Or Miss sales were greatest in woman's running suits, adding, "We had the prettiest joggers in the best prices."

Another winning store, Athletic X-Press won a star for sales increases of 5.6 percent. Chris Holmes of Westland manages the store.

"We had great sales last year because we sell merchandise that is really hot these days with people of all ages. Athletic apparel is really cool," Holmes said. "Of course, the winter jackets sold well and also Nike Air and Fila shoes. But the best merchandise won't move without customer service and sales staff willing to listen to the customer's needs and desires."

Other honorees included Famous Footwear, up 20 percent; Harmony House up 6 percent; Accurate Remodelers, up 28.5 percent; Mainstreet Video, up 48.1 percent; Arby's Restaurant, up 8.8 percent; and General Nutrition centers, up 18.7 percent.

Dunham's was also honored for sales, up 0.3 percent.

A similar program was held for Westland Shopping Center Merchants with strong sales in 1993.

Westland's dinner was held at the Hellenic Cultural Center. These honorees included: Woman's World, The Gap, Naturalizer, LeRoy Jewelers, Walden Books, Musicland II, Lafayette Coney Island, Coffee Beanery, That's Sharp, General Nutrition Centers and Kohl's.

The Internet

A worldwide web linking more than 14,000 computer networks, from giant mainframes to desktop PCs. Designed originally for research and technical uses, it's not very user-friendly. But that's changing as more casual users hop on board. Hook up through:

• WORK OR SCHOOL.
If your company computer network has access to the Internet, ask to share in the connection. College students often can get a free account through school.

•COMMERCIAL ON-LINE! SERVICES OR BULLETIN BOARDS.
Some offer only electronic mail connections. Others, like Delphi and the WELL, offer full Internet connections.

•INTERNET ACCESS PROVIDERS.
A number of companies allow you to connect up for a fee, from a few dollars an hour to $50 a month or more. Several books, including The Internet Companion and Connecting to the Internet list these companies. Or call InterNIC, an Internet information service, at 800-444-4345, for a list of providers.

THE MAIN TOOLS FOR NAVIGATING THE NET.

•ELECTRONIC MAIL (E-MAIL):
Electronic messages transmitted - usually in a matter of seconds - from one user to another via the Internet.

•FILE TRANSFER PROTOCOL (FTP):
Allows you to copy a file from another computer to your own. Good for acquiring games, pictures, computer programs or documents.

•TELNET:
A means of tapping into a remote computer to gain access to its publically available files as if you were directly connected. Particularly useful for perusing library card catalogs or large databases.

•ARCHIE, GROPHER, WAIS, WWW, VERONICA:
Popular search tools for sifting through the vast amount of information on the Internet.

WHAT'S ON THE INTERNET?
Government documents, library catalogs, databases, computer software, games, bulletin boards, discussion groups and an electronic mail system that offers virtually instantaneous worldwide communication.

There's not a directory of everything available on the Internet. There's just too much. But here's a sampling:

- •Library of Congress card catalog.
- •Daily White House press releases.
- •Weather maps and weather forecasts.
- •Schedules of pro basketball, hockey, baseball and football teams.
- •Weekly Nielsen television ratings.
- •CIA World Map.
- •ZIP code guide.
- •National Family Database.
- •Project Guttenburg, offering complete texts of many works of literature.
- •Alcoholism Research Data Base.
- •Guitar chords and tablature.
- •U.S. Government addresses, phone and fax numbers.
- •The Simpsons archive.

Ford Motor Co. helps local students explore careers

Ford Motor Co. is helping nearly 300 area high school students explore career opportunities as automotive scientists and engineers through an interactive educational program.

The objective of Ford's High School Science and Technology Program is to provide students and teachers with an increased awareness of technical careers and the importance of science and math in industry.

Throughout the year students from 100 local schools attend educational workshops at various Ford facilities. Sessions are on select Saturday mornings and focus on current topics in the areas of chemistry and physics, automotive materials, electronics, engines, transmissions and manufacturing. A typical day's agenda includes lectures, tours of Ford labs, scientific demonstrations and hands-on activities.

"We are in our 10th year of hosting this program, which is run on a total volunteer basis," said program coordinator Steve Lucchetti. "Ford is proud of the program's success and its outstanding participation by both students and employees."

Prior to each workshop, teachers are encouraged to invite several of their students to attend the latest session. Workshops are also open to select students from the Detroit Area Pre-College Engineering Program, an educational outreach program for students preparing for careers in engineering.

In addition, advanced students attending three of this year's six sessions are eligible to compete for summer internships, in which they assist Ford engineers and scientists with active research and engineering projects. The Ford Research Lab also sponsors summer fellowships for high school teachers through the Michigan Industry Initiatives for Science and Mathematics Education, a program administered by Michigan State University. Ford's High School Science and Technology Program was recently honored as one of the best industrial education programs in the country by the Industry Research Institute. The IRI is a worldwide association that focuses on corporate research and development programs.

Injury alters perspective

He stood in front of his team's bench, watching the warm-up, the same stoic look on his face.

Almost emotionless, it always seemed. Now, of course, we know differently.

Bob Brodie is not without feelings, although at this particular juncture he might have been — simply because he was drained. Nearly two weeks of constant worry over your son's welfare will do that to you.

It all seemed so unreal. Three weeks before Friday's Class A district final, Brodie's Plymouth Salem basketball team was at Westland John Glenn for its final regular-season game. The Western Lakes Activities Association tournament would begin the following week; a win against Glenn would secure the top seed for Salem.

Brodie was sitting in his customary spot, at the head of the bench, watching silently. The bleachers at Glenn run down to the floor, with the bench occupying the first row; seated right behind him was his 13-year-old son, Joe.

Joe was always around, it seemed, doing the little things kids enjoy doing: fetching basketballs (sometimes shooting them), collecting sweats, handing out water. An eighth-grade student and three-sport athlete at Flat Rock's Simpson Intermediate School, he was called the Pebble by the bigger and older Rocks he patronized.

"He's a real gym rat. He's been a ball boy since he was this-high," Bob said, his hand held a yard above the floor.

As a Christmas present, Joe received a special gift from his parents: ski lessons at Riverview Highlands. This is not an Olympic-type resort. It's often been referred to as Mount Trashmore, for good reason — it's a landfill.

On Feb. 24, the day before his dad's team was scheduled to open its WLAA tournament run against North Farmington, Joe was making use of his present. No one really knows what happened then; the best that can be pieced together is that Joe lost control on the icy slopes, plowed through a retaining fence and ended up near a creek, where he was discovered about 15 minutes later.

His neck was broken, his shoulder separated. His chances of surviving were not good. He was airlifted from Wyandotte's Riverside Hospital to Motts Children Hospital in Ann Arbor.

After a worrisome first couple of days, Joe pulled through. And his parents were there, with him. They waited through the 6½ hours of surgery he underwent four days after the accident, when a piece of his hip bone was transplanted together with a titanium rod, both fused into his injured neck, where they will remain the rest of his life.

Bob missed three games. He returned for last Wednesday's district semifinal against Plymouth Canton, but it wasn't the same.

"I'll tell you, I'm here in body but my mind's in that hospital," he said. "This gives you a different perspective on things. Suddenly the game's not so important anymore."

How could it be? How could a game possibly compare?

And yet the game still means a lot to Joe. The recuperation and rehabilitation he faces is considerable. He has a halo screwed into his skull, to prevent him from moving his neck; it will stay there for four months. Nerve damage in his neck has kept him on a liquid diet (he can't swallow), and his speech is slurred. He can't move very much.

Yet, he was able to give his dad a message to deliver prior to Friday's game. "He told me to tell the guys they were going to win," Bob said.

Joe was right. Salem won with a second-half surge, rolling to a 60-38 triumph over Livonia Churchill. The district trophy the victory earned was given to Bob, with a directive from his team: Take it to Joe, set it by his bed.

It's been a long two weeks for Joe's father: A lot learned, a lot lost. He's learned how important a family is, but the lesson aged him quite a bit.

There's more, however. It was easy to sense the pride he felt in his son and the courage he has shown. "He's a tough little kid," Bob said, time and again. "Doctors said one reason he's still alive is his athletic ability and his strength.

"That's why the prognosis is good. He's a fighter."

Sitting in the Northville locker room after Friday's win, Brodie paused for a moment to reflect. "He's a very lucky young man."

Joe's not the only one. Bob has a coaching staff that's done everything possible to keep a team together, and they did it well. He also has a team that thinks of "the Pebble" often; his initials are still taped to their jerseys for every game.

But best of all, Bob still has Joe. And that's lucky.

Anyone wishing to send a card to Joe Brodie can address it to the Sixth Floor, East Wing, Motts Children Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Salem finishes 3rd at state

■ Plymouth Salem put in the effort, but it wasn't quite enough to secure a second straight team title Friday at the state gymnastics championship. The Rocks finished third — less than 1½ points out of first. Canton's Katey Gilles did what she's been doing all season: winning the all-around.

BY MARTY BUDNER
STAFF WRITER

The state gymnastics team championship meet Friday night at Westland John Glenn High School turned into a real Dutch treat.

Holland High School survived a terrific tussle from both Birmingham Seaholm and Plymouth Salem to capture its second state gymnastics team title. The Dutch finished with 145.25 points, followed by Seaholm at 144.30 and Salem at 143.80.

Plymouth Canton and Bloomfield Hills Lahser tied for fifth at 137.50. Rochester was 11th overall in the 12-team field with a final score of 135.00.

Individually, Plymouth Canton's Katey Gilles won the all-around championship with a score of 37.80. Seaholm also had to settle for second in all-around as Jamie Brous tallied a 37.40. Lahser's Shanyn Lancaster was third at 36.95.

The state final, which started in the early afternoon and finished late into the evening, promised to be an exceptional fight involving three regional champions — Holland, Seaholm and Salem. And that's exactly how the meet evolved.

Holland and Salem had a slight advantage over Seaholm since each of those schools had five Division I

Rocks hit bottom against Mercy

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

■ VOLLEYBALL

Going to the state volleyball finals has become old hat for Livonia Ladywood coach Tom Teeters, but it will new experience for most of his players.

The Blazers made quick work of Ferndale (15-3, 15-1) and Catholic League rival Farmington Hills Mercy (15-6, 15-0) to win the Class A regional crown Saturday at Berkley.

Ladywood, 38-5 overall, will face the Bay City Western regional champion at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the state quarterfinals at Portage Central High School.

Teeters, who won state crowns in 1988 and '89, is back in the final eight after a one-year absence.

"A few of our kids were there two years ago, but basically it's new kids, new reactions and new fun . . . it makes it all worthwhile," Teeters said. "I never get tired of it."

Some teams, however, are tired of seeing Ladywood, especially Mercy, which lost to its Central Division foe for the fourth time this season.

Mercy reached the championship game with a 15-7, 9-15, 15-12 upset of Plymouth Salem in the semifinals. The Marlins then looked like a hot team as they jumped out to a 6-1 lead in the opening game against the Blazers.

But Ladywood regrouped and took control, reeling off 29 consecutive points to win the match.

"Mercy was serving real tough, but from our experiences in the past, we've been behind before and come back," Teeters said. "We were used to it. There was no panic. We just had to do a better job of serving and serve receiving."

Anne Poglits, the 6-foot-3 junior, led Ladywood with 11 kills after finishing with 13 against Ferndale.

Stacey Judd, a 5-9 sophomore, added four kills against Mercy.

"Judd has really come on the last week-and-a-half," Teeters said. "We have two hitters now when she's up front. Her percentage of kills are really high."

Kristy Walker added seven aces on the day, while setter Renae Rozell contributed four. Against Mercy, Walker led with eight digs, while Rozell collected 15 assists.

Mercy started the day by upending Salem, as 5-11 senior Christiane Grant had 13 kills and five blocks. Jill Higgins, who was moved to the right side attack after the Catholic League playoffs, added seven kills. Sophomore Jamesea Emerson, who had the game-winning kill, finished with six.

"We've had a new lineup and changed everything since the Catholic League playoffs," Mercy coach Peggy Spengler said. "Jill is very comfortable on the right side even though she's a great passer on the left side. She's found a home.

"We've done well all season defensively, but our offense has let us down."

It was a downer, meanwhile, for Salem, which bowed out with a 38-7-6 overall record.

Paula Dombrowski had 10 kills in the losing cause, while Karen Gundry and Jamey Viau added six and five, respectively.

"We beat them at Schoolcraft (Invitational), but it seemed today we couldn't get a break," Salem co-coach Brian Gilles said. "We never really got into the flow. We never really got that big block all day."

Mercy also frustrated Salem with several key digs.

"They did things other teams couldn't do against us," Salem co-coach Allie Suffety said. "Serve reception gave us trouble and we passed balls out. We got too excited and our back row overplayed some balls.

"But the kids played well and we're happy with the season."

Riding a wave of momentum, underdog Mercy appeared to mean business during the early stages of the championship match against Ladywood.

But the tide quickly turned.

"We've been having some inner team turmoil early in the season and thought we had it taken care of by the end of the season," Spengler said. "But all the sudden it reared its ugly head again. And when it happens, we're just not the kind of team we should be. A lot of it has to do with our confidence level. We can't have people getting on each other."

Rocks rein in a district title

BY C.J. RISAK

■ BASKETBALL

What Plymouth Salem needed at halftime was some sort of energy transfusion. Something to get their collective engines jump-started. Rocks' coach Bob Brodie had spent much of the first half searching for that missing ingredient, but had come up empty.

This was no meaningless game. A Class A district basketball championship was at stake.

Livonia Churchill, winner of just seven of its previous 21 games, had a 23-21 lead over 18-3 Salem at the break. "We were trying to penetrate," said Charger coach Tom Lang. "When we penetrated, good things happened."

But a couple of things changed in the second half. Salem turned up its defense a few notches, Churchill started to fade, and a game that was close for 2½ quarters ended in a rout — with Salem on top, 60-38, at Northville.

The win takes the Rocks to the Highland Park regional against an old nemesis: Detroit Pershing and Willie Mitchell, a lethal combination that ended Salem's season last year with an 83-52 pounding in the regional final. The game is 6 p.m. Tuesday.

"We're looking forward to it," said Brodie. "These guys want the opportunity to show they're a better team than they showed last year."

If Salem plays any part of Tuesday's game like it did in the first half against Churchill, Pershing will enjoy another lopsided victory. "My kids did exactly what I wanted them to do," said Lang of Churchill's first-half effort.

Brodie agreed. "It was hard for us coming off that emotional win (over Plymouth Canton in the semis)," he said, "and Churchill executed their game plan to perfection. They spread us out (defensively) and went inside."

Which is where Bill Morris did his damage. The junior forward muscled his way into the paint to knock down 10 first-half points.

But the Rocks adjusted, and the second half belonged to them. They recaptured the lead at the 4:17 mark of the third quarter on a basket by James McDonald; Churchill never regained it.

Indeed, the Chargers could not score at all. They managed just six points in the third quarter on 3-of-10 shooting, and were worse in the fourth period — Salem scored 17-straight points before Churchill countered with two free throws by Jeff Anderson with 3:53 left.

By then it was far too late. Salem had already finished the third quarter with an 11-2 run to take a 36-29 lead into the final period; the Rocks' 17-point run provided them with a 53-29 advantage. The Chargers didn't score

SPORTS ROUNDUP

■ CROWNING GOOD COUNSEL

Unbeaten and undaunted.

That's the record Plymouth's Our Lady of Good Counsel girls basketball team took into last Saturday's Catholic Youth Organization varsity (seventh and eighth grade) final against Holy Name at the Palace of Auburn Hills. It marked the first time Good Counsel had made it that far.

It was also a school record for wins — 21-0 entering the title match. Good Counsel made it that far in thrilling fashion, defeating Dearborn Divine Child 31-29 in overtime Thursday at Redford Catholic Central.

The team is coached by a Good Counsel alumnae: Jennifer Dyer. Team members are Jackie Connolly, Mary Ernst, Heather Guerin, Maggie Jallos, Anne Kijek, Laura Mathews, Cassie Moore, Christine Phillips, Cheryl Pinwowar, Anne Rucinski, Laura Schneider, Melissa Stacy and Elise Thornell.

■ SOCCER CHAMPS

The '82 Canton Express boys soccer team put the finishing touches on an under-12 division championship March 6, completing their indoor season at Total Soccer with a 7-0-1 record.

■ THROWING STRIKES

The collegiate playing career for Plymouth Canton graduate Kelly Holmes has started smoothly. The University of Michigan freshman softball pitcher has posted a 3-3 record, appearing in seven of the Wolverines' 11 games.

Holmes has two shutouts to her credit. She has allowed 10 earned runs on 27 hits and 14 walks in 44⅔ innings, striking out 17. Her earned run average is 1.57. Her shutouts — 2-0 over Oregon Feb. 20 and 1-0 over Washington Feb. 25. Both were two-hitters.

Michigan completed its spring trip to Arizona with a 5-6 record.

■ NEON TRYOUTS

Wanna play pro ball?

Any prospective pro indoor soccer players are invited to tryout for the Detroit Neon and head coach Andy Chapman at 11 a.m. Saturday at Oakland University's Lepley Sports Center. The Neon are the new team in town; they'll begin play this summer at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Players that interest Neon officials will be asked to fill out Continental Indoor Soccer League draft applications. The league draft will be April 13; league rules require teams to carry a certain number of local players on their rosters.

Those interested in trying out must contact Dave Baker at (810) 377-0140 by Friday to reserve a tryout space. Baker has directions to Lepley; players only need to bring indoor soccer shoes and equipment to the tryout.

■ MAJOR MEET

University of Michigan's Canham Natatorium will be the site of the Speedo Junior National Swim Championships March 22-26. The meet is expected to be one of the most prestigious events in swimming of the year, with future Olympians anticipated to be among the competitors.

It is the first time the meet will be held in Michigan. Preliminaries will start at 9:30 a.m. and finals will begin at 6 p.m. each day except March 22, when there will be timed finals only at 4 p.m. Tickets for adults are $4 for prelims, $6 for finals; tickets for students/children (12 and under) are $3 for prelims and $4 for finals.

All-session passes are $25 for adults and $18 for students/children. For further information, call the U-M natatorium at 747-0500.

■ RECREATION NEWS

The Wednesday Men's Golf League gets underway April 13. Sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Services, the 20-week season will be at Fellow's Creek Golf Course. The first half league fee will be $155, with the second half fee to be determined. Play begins at 5 p.m. each Wednesday. Registration is limited to Canton residents only, with a maximum of 36, starting March 17 at the rec offices, 1150 South Canton Center Road.

Three sessions of beginners golf lessons will be co-sponsored by Canton Parks and Rec and Mickey's Golf Range, located on Cherry Hill in Westland. The three five-session lessons will begin on Monday, April 18; Tuesday, April 19; and Wednesday, April 20.

CC sinks Henry Ford, 62-45

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

When Joe Daly watches University of Michigan basketball games the next few years, he'll remember Friday night.

Daly, Redford Catholic Central's senior center, helped contain UM-bound Maurice Taylor as the Shamrocks survived a fourth-quarter scare and beat Detroit Henry Ford, 62-45, for the Class A district title at Southfield.

CC (16-5) will play state-ranked Detroit Cooley Tuesday at Southfield. Tip-off is 7:30 p.m.

"When I see (Taylor) playing for U-M, I'll remember covering him tonight," Daly said, adding that Taylor will have little problem blending in with the sometimes vocal Wolverines.

"He did a lot of talking," Daly said. "He was saying things like 'I'm an all-American and I'm going to show you why.'"

Daly, with the help of Sean Gallagher off the bench, limited Taylor to 19 points on an 8-for-26 shooting performance. The 6-foot-

8 center added eight rebounds and seven blocks. Daly (11 points) and Gallagher (10) outscored Taylor and matched him in rebounds.

"Our plan was to go right at him and not alter your shot," said guard Andy Slankster, who scored a game-high 23 points — one short of matching his career-best.

"We didn't do anything special on him," Daly said. "We just wanted to help out on defense and contain him."

Taylor played the entire game in foul trouble and was forced to exit the game with 45 seconds left after crashing to the floor on a layup attempt. It was the third time Taylor needed assistance after a fall on the court. Taylor sustained an injury to his left shoulder, but the injury isn't serious.

CC coach Bernie Holowicki, who scouted Ford six times this year, said the Shamrocks' game plan for Taylor was simple.

"We just wanted to play him hard and lean on him," Holowicki said. "He's an awesome talent. We were worried when Joe picked up his third foul in the second quarter but Sean came in and did a good job."

The Shamrocks led 44-33 entering the fourth quarter, but the Trojans scored the next seven points to cut the lead to 44-40. CC regrouped after a timeout and outscored Ford 18-5 to end the game.

CC converted eight-of-11 free throws in the final three minutes and forced the Trojans to miss 12 of 15 shot attempts. For the game, Ford shot only 29 percent (18-62), compared to CC's 38 percent (21-56).

Daly played all but one minute of the second half with four fouls and Andy Kummer fouled out 31 seconds into the fourth quarter. Still, the Shamrocks survived with good bench play from Gallagher and sophomore guard Justin Hoener.

CC led 11-6 after the first quarter, as Ford committed seven turnovers and missed several easy shots. CC would have led by more if Taylor didn't swat away five shots.

CC led 26-14 at halftime but a different Ford team came out for the third quarter as the Trojans attacked inside. Taylor had 10 points in the quarter but CC maintained an 11-point lead heading into the final quarter.

"I saw them play twice this year and I don't think we underestimated them," Ford coach William Carter said. "You don't win the Catholic League if you're not a good team. I think they were tougher than I thought. We matched up well, but just made too many mistakes early in the game.

"If we didn't miss so many easy shots, didn't commit so many turnovers and converted some of our free throws early in the game, perhaps it would have been different. You can't fall that far behind to a team like CC and expect to win."

gymnasts and a couple Division II performers. Seaholm's entourage consisted of just four Division I standouts so there was no margin for error since the top four scores in each of the four events counted toward the total team score.

The Maples concluded their four rotations first and knew they had posted their best score of the season. Holland (balance beam) and Salem (uneven bars), on the other hand, were scheduled to go in the meet's final rotation so Seaholm was forced to sit and wait.

Holland needed its four top scorers to average 8.912 on the balance beam to win the title. And the Dutch performed superbly — scoring a 36.55 (a 9.13 average) on what coach Tim Lont called their "strongest" event to win the crown.

"Our gals have been strong on the beam all year so we liked being last (in that event)," said Lont, who also coached the team to its only other state gym title back in 1986. "It was nice to see the girls handle the pressure the way they did."

Seaholm placed second for the second time in school history. But veteran coach Sue Chrostek couldn't have been more satisfied with her team's effort.

"Our goal was to score a 144 — we thought that was reaching — and we thought if we did we would win the state meet," said Chrostek. "So we accomplished our goal and that's always the first objective of any competition. We can't be at all disappointed with our finish."

Chrostek said the difference in the meet was the number of performers Holland had compared to four for her team.

"The great advantage Holland had was that they could throw out scores. And they had two or three competitors more than us on every event, while we went with the absolute minimum," she said. "I think our girls really performed under pressure."

Brous, a freshman, registered scores of 9.30 (vault), 9.40 (bars), 9.45 (beam) and 9.25 (floor exercises) in finishing with a 37.40 all-around. Teammates Michelle Jalaba and Ann Loichle scored at least a 9.00 in three of four events. Jalaba missed in bars (8.95) and Loichle missed in vault (8.90). Liz Shuster was Seaholm's fourth competitor.

"It's been a clean effort from the very beginning and the team really pulled through today," said Chrostek. "It was great to see."

Salem's top scorer was Melissa Hopson, who was sixth all-around in Division I with a total of 36.85. Hopson had a 9.10 on the vault; 9.20 on the bars; 9.25 on the beam; and 9.30 in floor exercises.

Kristen Kosik (vault), Zoe Yockey (floor) and Alysia Sofios (bars) registered one score of at least 9.00. Kosik suffered a bruised a heel in her floor exercise routine when she stumbled out of bounds and that did not help Salem's chances, according to coach Johanna Anderson.

"That kind of rattled our girls. Kristen is usually a very strong vaulter and I think that hurt her," said Anderson. "But I'm pleased with our performance. It was a very close and exciting meet."

Canton's Gilles, a freshman, had a very strong meet. She posted a meet-high score of 9.65 off the vault en route to her all-around title. Gilles also logged marks of 9.50 (bars), 9.40 (beam) and 9.25 (floor).

Gilles thought she could have done better on her floor routine.

a basket until less than a minute remained. In the second half, they were 5-of-20 from the field (25 percent).

"We switched to a half-court trap and increased the intensity a bit," said Brodie. "And I think, in the second half, our kids did not want to be denied."

That trapping defense did more than force turnovers (Churchill had 10 in the last two quarters). Since Brodie had shuffled so many players into the game in the first half — "partially because I didn't think anyone was playing all that well, so I kept rotating until I found someone," he said — his starters were rested.

When they got into the game in the second half, with a more focused attitude, it took a toll on Churchill.

"Their half-court trap hurt us a little bit," Lang said. "But the big thing was they were fresher. When they went to that half-court trap, we didn't take care of the ball the way we should have, we didn't move (the ball) inside the way we should have. I think what all that stems from is — we were tired."

Morris ended up as the game's high scorer with 14 points. Ethan Jerome added eight for Churchill, which ended its season at 7-15. Salem (19-3) got 12 points from Adam Hammons, 10 from Joe Measel and nine apiece from James Head and Doug Herriman. Head was the Rocks' leading rebounder with nine.

"Had it been a three-quarter game, we could have won it," Lang said. Perhaps so. Certainly the Rocks better have learned a lesson, or their season will come to a crashing end Tuesday.

Shamrocks ice 1st state title

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Redford Catholic Central senior goalie Mike Brusseau missed the disappointment but not the celebration.

Brusseau, who did not play as a junior when CC lost in the Class A state final, helped the Shamrocks win their first ever state championship Saturday at the Flint IMA.

Brusseau stopped 31 of 32 shots as the Shamrocks dominated Midland and gave the Chemics their first loss of the season, 8-1.

A shutout would have been a fitting ending to Brusseau's spectacular season, but the Chemics scored with 12 seconds left as Josh Tauren slapped home a rebound after Brusseau stopped David Meinhardt from point-blank range.

Brusseau, who played for a Midget AAA travel team last year, joined his teammates in a victory lap around the ice afterward.

"Nothing beats this feeling," said Brusseau, who watched the Shamrocks lose last year's state final to Alpena, 2-1. "When you go all the way, you should have a little time on the ice to celebrate. It's good to know your last high school game, you win the state. Coach (Gordie St. John) is great. As soon as he came here, he picked up the team. He's an excellent coach."

■ 'We finally played our very best game and it was our last one. This team is real close.'
Jon Heady
Shamrock center

In the midst of the celebration, the Shamrocks doused St. John with a bucket of water.

"I've been around long enough to know to always have a change of clothes," St. John said.

The Shamrocks, who finished 24-1-2 overall, led 2-0 after one period and took a commanding 6-0 lead after two periods. The only competition remaining in the third period was the one taking place between the cheering sections.

It looked like CC won that battle, too, as its cheering section was a little more vocal than Midland's section of shirtless boys' fans.

Senior center Jon Heady and junior defenseman Eric Vaquera scored two goals each for the Shamrocks. Greg Vaquera, Jason Couture, Danny Hunt and Chris Gonzalez scored one goal each.

Ken Lauer and Jeff Lachapelle had two assists apiece. Heady, who also collected two assists, can finally give his aching foot a rest.

"A year ago was the worst feeling and now it's totally opposite," Heady said. "We finally played our very best game and it was our last one. This team is real close, like a family."

Heady wasted no time giving the Shamrocks their first lead with an unassisted goal at 1:18 of the first period. Eric Vaquera made it 2-0, scoring at 4:09 scoring on an assist from Ken Lauer.

Greg Vaquera scored on a power play at 4:42 of the second period, putting the puck past Midland goalie Jeremy Turner after a scramble in front of the net. Heady made it 4-0 less than two minutes later, taking a pass from Gonzalez on a delay penalty and burying a wrist shot into the net.

Couture scored on a backhand shot at 6:34 to put CC up 5-0 and Eric Vaquera scored on a shot from the point at 9:08 for a 6-0 lead.

Hunt and Gonzalez scored goals midway through the third period.

"The first time we got together we set up a goal to win our last game," St. John said. "I was concerned tonight but I figured if we got to the final they'll go out like gangbusters."

Shamrocks hold on in semis

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

The Redford Catholic Central hockey players forgot about being gentlemen on a night when the opponent featured a female goalie.

The Shamrocks couldn't stay out of the penalty box Friday night and it almost cost them before they held on for a 7-5 Class A semifinal playoff victory over East Kentwood at the Flint IMA.

CC led 6-1 after Jon Heady's goal at 13:29 of the second period. But the Falcons scored four unanswered goals, including three on power plays, to cut the deficit to 6-5 midway through the third period.

Lori Townshend, East Kentwood's celebrated senior female goalie, kept CC off the scoreboard for more than 14 minutes of the third period before Heady scored an empty net goal with 27 seconds remaining.

The win assured CC of a second-straight berth in the final.

CC was called for 14 minor penalties compared to six for East Kentwood.

One of CC's players was overheard saying "That was the worst officiated game I've ever played in" on the way to the dressing room.

"We won the game and that's all I care about," CC coach Gordie St. John said. "It got a little out of control, but I'm not going to throw the blame at that. Maybe it was us, maybe it was them or maybe it was the 'stripes' (referees). But the last two games, against Trenton and (Birmingham) Brother Rice, we had none of that (a rash of penalties).

"You get a four-goal lead, you shouldn't end up winning by two goals, especially when the last one is an empty net goal."

Heady and senior forwards Greg Vaquera and Jason Couture scored two goals each and junior winger Chris Gonzalez scored one goal for the Shamrocks. Mark Holdridge had a pair of assists.

The five goals were the most allowed this year by CC senior goalie Mike Brusseau.

Junior forwards Mike Slobodnic and Toni Lasorsa had two goals each for the Falcons and senior defenseman Martin Brutenic scored one goal. East Kentwood, seconds apart late in the third period.

East Kentwood gained some momentum as Slobudnic scored his first goal at 6:31 of the second period to make the deficit 4-1. But Couture scored at 9:00 for a 5-1 lead, followed by Heady's rink-length dash on a delayed penalty that ended in a goal for a 6-1 lead.

Heady picked up the puck up in his own zone, went around a defenseman at the Falcons' blue line and flipped the puck high over Townshend, who had gone for a fake.

The Shamrocks scored on seven of their 15 shots on goal but this was one of the few times Townshend looked out of her element.

"Our goal was to shoot on her to see how tough she was," Gonzalez said. "She held in there and made some big saves."

Mercy students to present 'Annie Oakley' musical

Students at Mercy High School in Farmington Hills are learning about the historical Annie Oakley as they prepare to present the classic Irving Berlin musical — "Annie Get Your Gun" — Friday-Sunday, March 18-20.

America's most famous marksswoman was immortalized in Berlin's 1946 Broadway musical and the 1956 movie starring Ethel Merman.

But some say the Annie Oakley of stage and screen bears little resemblance to the real-life Annie, who starred in Buffalo Bill Cody's Wild West Show in the 1880s and 90s.

The Mercy production will attempt to present a more accurate characterization of Annie and the play's other characters, who include Annie's husband and manager Frank Butler, Sitting Bull, and Buffalo Bill Cody.

"'Annie Get Your Gun' is an outstanding musical with one of the best scores in musical theater, but after 50 years it has become dated," said Roberta Campion, producer/director of the Mercy production.

"We found that some of the language used in the script is sexist and racist," she added. "We wanted to revise our production to make it acceptable to an audience in 1994, and we found we could do that just by making it more historically accurate."

Campion enlisted the aid of Oakley's great-niece, Bess Edwards, president of the Annie Oakley Foundation in Greenville, Ohio, where Oakley was born. Edwards is committed to restoring Annie's legend to historical accuracy and preserving it for future generations.

"Annie was not the brash, uneducated tomboy that Ethel Merman created on the screen," said Edwards. "She was actually very modest and refined. She was also one of the most famous women of her time and one of the best loved."

Now is the perfect time to revisit the legend of Annie Oakley, says Campion. Oakley — born Phoebe Anne Mosey in 1860 — was inducted into the National Women's Hall of Fame in 1993. Next month, the U.S. Postal Service will issue an Annie Oakley stamp as part of its new Legends of the West series.

"Annie Oakley is a superb role model for young women," said Edwards. "Despite extreme poverty and severe childhood abuse while living in a foster-type home, Annie resolutely faced contemporary prejudice and severe physical setbacks in her struggle to succeed.

"She was self-reliant. She campaigned for women's rights to hold paid employment, earn equal pay, and participate in sports. She set a fine example for women and helped change the American public's mind regarding appropriate sports and activities for women."

Between 1885 and her death in 1926, Edwards said Oakley proved herself an outstanding athlete in trapshooting competition and shooting exhibitions.

"As the first well-known women sport shooter, she opened shooting ranges and matches all over the U.S. and Europe to women competitors."

Oakley also helped women in other ways. "She was widely known for her philanthropic work, especially for helping orphans, widows, and young women who wanted to further their education," Edwards said.

"In our production, we are working toward creating a character — played by senior Kathryn Hansz — who is nimble, loving and kind," said Campion, "but we have not changed the story line of Frank's male pride. If we did that, the play would not be. But we do intend to let the real Annie Oakley come through.

"Producing Annie Get Your Gun has allowed us to celebrate this extraordinary American woman and also to learn something about her life and times," adds Campion. "We are very grateful for the help Bess Edwards has given us and for her willingness to share her knowledge with us."

Edwards will present a lecture on Annie Oakley for the show's cast, crew and orchestra on Thursday, March 17. She also will attend opening night.

For Annie Get Your Gun ticket information, call 476-3270.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, You make me see everything & show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the Divine Gift to forgive & forget the wrongs that are done to me & You are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank You for everything & confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You, no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you, my Loved One, in Your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me & my loved ones. G.G.

Cellular Phone In A Dependable Car Enhances Driver Security

Highway crimes, most notably car-jackings and drive-by shootings, are challenging law enforcement officials. A motorist is highly visible and vulnerable in his or her vehicle.

"Safety devices available on new cars should go a long way toward reducing traffic accidents and personal injuries. But there's another type of risk a driver faces, the danger of personal attack when the vehicle is disabled. Under such circumstances, at the side of the road, at a stop light or even in a parking lot, a driver is very vulnerable. This is when the "good Samaritan" who claims to offer assistance may have more devious motives.

Another potential danger to anyone in a disabled vehicle is severe weather, where prolonged exposure to the elements can be life threatening.

Whatever the situation, a dependable vehicle and personal security go hand-in-hand.

Car Care Council lists the five most common causes of breakdowns on the road:

*Out of gas
*Engine stalls/won't start
*Dead battery
*Flat tire
*Overheating

All of the above are avoidable with common sense preventive measures, says the Council. These include:

*Regular inspection of tires to spot damage, unusual wear or under inflation that can lead to tire failure.

*A seasonal check and preventive maintenance of the cooling system, a frequent factor in roadside breakdowns.

*Periodic mechanical check-ups, especially when engine stalling, hard starting or other such symptoms signal trouble ahead.

If you are stranded, try to move your car to a safe location on the side of the road out of traffic. Turn on your emergency flashers. If at all possible, stay inside your car with the doors locked until help arrives.

A cellular phone is the best way to call for roadside assistance, concludes the Council.

For a free brochure detailing signs of engine trouble, send a stamped, self addressed envelope to Car Care Council, Dept. TU, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452

TIP: Watch the gas gauge. Get in the habit of keeping the tank at least half full at all times, not only to prevent running out of fuel but also to prevent condensation in the tank. Moisture in gas lines can freeze, causing the engine to stall.

Things You Auto KNOW!

True or False?

Tire pressure 8 pounds low can cause up to a 5 percent drop in gas mileage.

True!

The reason: Increased rolling resistance.

Maintaining A Showroom Shine

By Lyn St. James, IndyCar driver, Director of Consumer Relations and National Spokesperson for the Car Care Council; Consumer Advisor to Ford Motor Company, Author of "Lyn St. James Car Owner's Manual".

Besides the first robin, a sure sign of spring is seeing your neighbor armed with a bucket of suds and pile of rags washing the family car in the driveway. Not only is this a great way to enjoy the warmer weather, but the efforts to maintain a vehicle's exterior will pay off when you sell it. The first thing a potential buyer notices is a sharp exterior, evidence of a well-maintained car. No exterior will last forever, but there are steps you can take to substantially lengthen the lifespan of your car's finish.

The best way to keep the exterior of your vehicle looking new is to wash it frequently, preferably by hand. Consider the quality of your local water; if you have "hard" water, rings and film may be left on your car's surface. Because it is difficult to change the water supply, the next best thing is to dry the car before the water can evaporate.

Don't use detergent or common coarse soaps. Harsh detergents cause your car's paint to lose its residual oils. Use a nondetergent soap made especially for waxed surfaces or a liquid soap used for dishwashing by hand. Be sure the soap is diluted to the proper strength. In warm weather, wash in the shade with cold water, in cooler air, use warm water.

Use a nozzle with as much pressure as possible to dislodge dirt. Be sure to rinse the car thoroughly. Start washing your car from the top and work down. Abrasive dirt tends to flow down and away from surface parts. The best washing tool is a sponge, a car-wash mitten, or a soft towel. Whichever you use, keep it clean by rinsing frequently or replace it when it becomes dirty.

Protect the vehicle's finish by parking in a garage or under a roof whenever possible. Avoid parking under trees, as sap and bird droppings may damage the finish. If your vehicle is exposed to pollen or bird droppings, especially in hot and sunny weather, wash it as soon as possible. Do not allow spilled gasoline, antifreeze or windshield washer fluid to remain on your vehicle's finish.

Rinse your car with clear, cold water. Even clean rinse water can leave obvious water spots which may be difficult to remove. A soft terry towel is best for drying the car. A chamois will work well, but it can also drag dirt particles along with the water. Start drying at the top and work your way down.

Some areas of your car may require special attention. For instance, vinyl tops should be washed frequently using a brush and vinyl protective spray. Not only will regular cleaning safeguard the top from sun and pollution, it will allow you to inspect it for tears. Vinyl cleaners, not wax, should also be used on any rubber trim on your car's exterior. Don't neglect windshield wiper blades where motor oil residue can build up and reduce effectiveness. Wash your wheels and tires last by spraying water up inside the wheel wells and under the rocker panels where salt and debris may get trapped and cause rust.

A wax finish will remove harmful deposits from the vehicle's surface and help protect the finish. For best results, work in the shade or your garage. Always apply the wax to the pad, not to the car. Do not wax for the first 60 days after purchasing your car while its finish is especially fresh.

No matter how much you try to keep your car's exterior looking good, it's almost impossible to avoid chips and scratches. Automobile manufacturers have been expanding their efforts to maintain the beauty of your new vehicle after it has left the showroom. Ford Motor Company, for instance, instituted the "Nice Touch" program as part of its owner follow-up plan. According to Dwight Reed of Ford Customer Service Division, more than 2,000 Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers nationwide mail out a half-ounce tube of touch up paint to new car buyers within 30 days after a purchase. The lacquer automotive refinishing paint, an exact match to the owner's new vehicle, is an easy way to deal with knicks and scratches.

Pollution, effects of harsh weather, door dings, and even oxidation - exposure to air, are hazards every vehicle faces once it leaves the showroom. By taking the time to care for the exterior of your vehicle, you'll be able to minimize these threats to its finish. Not only will a well maintained exterior pay off during trade-in, but driving is much more enjoyable until that time.

For more information on maintaining your vehicle's good looks send for the free brochure "HOW TO KEEP YOUR CAR LOOKING YOUNG". Mail a stamped, self addressed envelope to Car Care Council, Department N, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Ignore Car Care And Face Consequences

"Reactionary Maintenance" Abounds

By Larry Yeager, Manager of Training/Technical Services, BWD Automotive Corporation

You have probably heard your dentist say, "If you ignore your teeth they will go away".

Without proper dental hygiene and regular visits to the dentist, it is very likely that someday you will be soaking your teeth instead of brushing them. The same thing can be said about your car. If you deny your car proper preventive maintenance and avoid regular car trips to a good technician, then, like your teeth, your car will go away.

Up until the mid 1970s, most car owners practiced preventive maintenance. This was largely due to the fact that as the ignition points wore out and lead in the fuel masked the spark plug, vehicle performance and economy began to deteriorate very noticeably. The car would then be brought in for the proverbial "tune-up". This tune-up usually took place about once a year or every 12,000 or 15,000 miles.

This was also a good opportunity for the technician to check for additional maintenance needs in areas such as the radiator and heater hoses, and coolant condition, the fan belts, the vacuum hoses, the fuel and air filters, the canister filter and the condition of the battery, the tires and the emission control and exhaust systems, just to name a few.

With the advent of electronic ignition and unleaded fuel in the mid 1970's, as well as the addition of computer controls in the early 1980's, the deterioration of the cars' performance and mileage is hardly noticeable. This, combined with the fact that there are very few full service gas stations left today (full service meaning that there is a knowledgeable person on hand to check under your hood as a form of preventive maintenance while filling the tank), causes most vehicle owners to practice what is called "reactionary maintenance".

Reactionary maintenance is when you continue to drive your car as long as it runs well, neglecting to raise the hood to check the oil or anything else. Then, the first time you notice a change in drive-ability, usually at 50,000 to 60,000 miles, you rush to a repair facility and want the problem fixed in a couple of hours.

Can You Do It Right Away?

And you often complain about the cost of repairs. It may sound a little harsh, but this scenario happens thousands of times each day across the country.

Today's cars need regular, preventive maintenance. Even though oil and gasoline have improved, and car manufacturers will try to persuade you that their product has improved, new cars still wear out. Actually, new cars are wearing out faster than old ones due to the lack of preventive maintenance.

If you want your car to last as long as the payments, dig the owner's manual out of the glove box. Turn to the "Maintenance Instructions" section and read it carefully. Pay particular attention to the page which discusses oil change intervals. You will note that the manufacturer differentiates between "normal driving conditions" and severe driving conditions".

Usually, severe driving conditions are defined as: driving through dusty areas, towing a trailer or boat, frequent idling or idling for long periods, and driving for 10 miles or less in freezing weather. Cars operated under these conditions should have an oil and filter change every 3,000 miles or three months, which ever occurs first.

Normal driving conditions occur if your driving does not fall in any one of the severe driving categories. However, less than 25 percent of the cars on the road actually qualify for the normal driving category. In addition, if your car is equipped with a turbo-charger, frequent oil changes are a must.

If the turbo becomes coked up, it could cost as much as $1,000 to replace it, and the factory warranty won't cover the bill if you can't show proof of oil changes at the factory-recommended intervals.

Engine coolant and transmission fluid are two more items that must be changed regularly to ensure a long life for your car. Engine coolant should be changed every two years and diluted with 50 percent water, as pure engine coolant will freeze at around 0 degrees Fahrenheit. This mix gives you the best cold weather protection and the best heat dissipation ability in hot weather.

The life of the automatic transmission fluid is basically determined by how hot the fluid has been during operation. (See the chart.) Since you have no way of really knowing how hot the fluid has been, an easy way to check is by pulling out the transmission dipstick and looking at the fluid. If the fluid is brown instead of red and smells like you just ran over a skunk, it needs to be changed ASAP! It is a good habit to have the transmission fluid changed every two years or 24,000 miles.

The high temperatures under the hood of today's cars take their toll on rubber and neoprene components such as radiator and heater hoses, fuel lines, and vacuum hoses. One of the main causes of breakdown is fan belt and/or radiator/heater hose failure. The best insurance against this catastrophe is to have the belts and hoses replaced every two years.

And while on the subject of rubber, I shouldn't forget to mention the tires. There is no reason why steel belted radial tires shouldn't last at least 70,000 miles or longer. It takes only three things to make this happen. 1) Have wheel alignment and balance checked once a year. 2) Keep tires properly inflated and check weekly. 3) Rotate tires every 6,000 miles.

Perhaps the key is to examine the tires once a week. If you notice any unusual tire wear patterns, have a good alignment shop check the alignment, the suspension components, and the tire balance. Tire wear problems do not fix themselves.

One final area which I would like to discuss is the battery. Most batteries are replaced on the first cold morning that the car won't start. The average life of a battery is three and one-half years. If you are driving around with a battery that is older than that, then you shouldn't be surprised if you are stranded at the train station parking lot or the shopping center when it is 10 degrees below zero and the wind is blowing at 20 mph.

Why not just replace the battery before this happens? That is what preventive maintenance is all about; looking, checking, and replacing automotive components before they fail.

You are probably thinking to yourself that preventive maintenance is too expensive to follow. On the contrary, would it be more expensive to replace the battery in your car before it leaves you stranded, or pay a service call and a new battery plus the inconvenience of being stranded? The fact is, preventive maintenance is cheaper in the long run than reactionary maintenance. The question that often remains is: "Where do I get the money for preventive maintenance?" Most people budget only for car payments, insurance, and gas.

All that really needs to be done is to keep close track of the miles you drive each week. Set aside ten cents for each mile that you drive and place this money in an interest bearing account.

At the end of one year, if you have driven 15,000 miles, you will have saved $1500 to spend on preventive maintenance. That will buy a lot of maintenance. Any money left over can either be left in the account to let your balance grow, or can be put towards the principal of your car loan. This will reduce both the interest you are paying as well as the number of payments.

Your car is a major investment, so why not take care of it? If you borrow $16,000 to purchase a car at 14 percent interest, and you pay this off over a period of four years, you will eventually pay almost $5,000 in interest. That's $21,000 that you pay out of your budget in a four year period.

If you practice preventive maintenance, your car will outlast your payment book. Then, if you keep your car for another four years and make those same car payments to yourself, you will have $21,000 to spend. I don't know about you, but I could think of all kinds of neat toys to buy.

Remember it is cheaper to look at, check, and replace components before failure than it is to drive your car until it drops. If you are not fixing your own car, there are thousands of repair facilities across the country that are very capable of performing the preventive maintenance which I have discussed in this article. Give preventive maintenance a try, and you will find yourself with money in your pocket.

Automatic Transmission Fluid Oxidation

Automatic transmission fluid provides 100,000 miles of service before oxidation occurs under normal operating temperatures of about 170°F. Above normal operating temperatures, the oxidation rate doubles (useful life of fluid is cut in half) with each 20°F increase in temperature.

The approximate life expectancy at various temperatures is as follows:

175°F	100,000 miles	315°F	50 miles
195°F	50,000 miles	335°F	25 miles
212°F	25,000 miles	355°F	160 miles
235°F	12,000 miles	375°F	80 miles
255°F	6,250 miles	400°F	40 miles
275°F	3,000 miles	425°F	Less than 30 min.
295°F	1,500 miles

This information clearly shows why transmission oil coolers and the various maintenance intervals are recommended for severe usage.

Above 300°F, the metal inside the transmission will warp and distort in varying degrees depending on the severity of overheat. Because this damage occurs and fluid life is so seriously impaired, rocking out of snow, mud or sand should never exceed a very few minutes.

Choosing Gasolines

Does higher octane premium gas mean more detergents to keep your engine healthy? Not necessarily, says the Car Care Council. In most cars, premium gas adds up to wasted money and resources.

For people who believe they're doing their cars a disservice by using less-expensive "regular" gas, the Council states that all grades contain engine-cleaning detergents, and most cars seldom need more than a good quality of regular, 87 octane fuel.

Exceptions to the rule:

- An older engine that has accumulated carbon in the combustion chamber, causing knocking or pinging under load. Higher octane can help, but sooner or later a more radical procedure may be necessary to remove carbon.
- Mechanical problems, sometimes due to a vacuum leak, overheating or emissions control system malfunction. Remedy: diagnose and correct the trouble.
- The engine needs attention. Remedy: have the engine diagnosed and serviced as required.
- The vehicle is designed for higher octane fuel. Remedy: use recommended grade of fuel.

Besides the cost factor, high octane gas requires more crude oil per gallon to produce. It also creates more toxic hydrocarbons, something the ozone could do without.

So the next time you're debating at the pump and decide to give your car a treat with some expensive, higher octane gas, remember that a better investment of your money may be in routine preventive maintenance services.

Things You AUTO KNOW!

True or False?
One worn spark plug can damage the catalytic converter on your car.

True! The unburned fuel that results from the misfiring plug is ignited inside the converter, an emission control device. The heat can become so intense as to melt the interior of the converter. Keep your car running right to save the expense of a new catalytic converter.

An Added Springtime Ritual: Change The Oil, Recycle The Filter

Springtime. Time to shake the winter doldrums. Whether you have traveled great distances over the winter or stayed home by the fire, it's important to make sure you perform a thorough inspection of your vehicle before heading out on a family vacation.

"Many times people neglect their vehicles over the winter due to the cold or the belief that the car is fine because they didn't use it that much," explains Gary Donahue, lead trainer for AlliedSignal Automotive Aftermarket. "However, sludge can build up in the engine and cause expensive problems down the road. The quickest, and easiest, way to avoid this problem is installing fresh oil and a quality oil filter."

Easy To Do

Changing the oil and filter isn't very complicated. Donahue explains that on many cars, the oil drain plug is easily accessible and can be removed without having to raise the vehicle. Likewise, the oil filter is easily accessible and can be removed either by hand or with an oil filter wrench.

"Any pan or basin with a capacity of a couple of gallons will give you plenty of room to handle the four to six quarts of oil contained in most engines," Donahue explains. "You get it to come out by simply unscrewing the oil drain plug from the oil pan at the bottom of the engine counterclockwise. It's always best to take the car for a short ride to warm the oil before removing. This will make it flow easier."

Once you've changed the oil, be sure the drain plug is in place, and add fresh oil. Make sure you use a quality oil. A quick check of your owner's manual will give you the recommended weight and quantity for your driving conditions.

Most oil filters on cars today are a spin on unit. They can easily be removed by hand or using a filter wrench, according to Donahue. After removal, make sure the oil filter base of the engine where you'll be installing the new filter is wiped clean. Then, before you screw the filter into place, coat the gasket with clean oil. Once the gasket contacts the base, tighten it according to manufacturer's instructions.

With the new filter in place, check the dipstick to be sure there's enough oil, start the car, and let it idle. Check for leaks while it's running, then check the dipstick again. You may need to add oil to make up for the amount that was pumped into the new filter.

You're almost done. With one major exception... what do you do with the old oil and oil filter?

Clean-up/Recycle

Properly disposing of the used oil and oil filter is not only critical to protecting the environment, it's being regulated in many states as landfills are becoming overcrowded. Recycling only 20% of all filters produced annually will:

- save nearly 400,000 cubic yards of landfill space;
- remove several million gallons of oil from landfills, and;
- recycle more than 34,000 tons of filter scrap which can be used to produce steel products.

Proper Steps

After you drain the oil, put it in a recyclable container that you can easily transport in your car to the recycling center. This can be a container made especially for oil changes, an old plastic liter soda bottle or other container that can be sealed to avoid spillage.

Once you've removed the old filter, and initially drained it of used oil into your collection pan:

- Drain the filter over an oil collection pan for approximately 12 hours to remove all free flowing oil.
- Put the oil from the filter into the plastic jug containing the oil from your car.
- Place the used oil filter in a leak proof bag or container and transfer it along with the used oil, to the nearest designated recycling facility.

The used oil and filter should be taken to your nearest recycling center that accepts used motor oil. Designated locations for recycling may be a local municipal drop off recycling center, a municipal garage or a business providing oil change services. Some of these facilities may also accept your used filter.

For more information on recycling efforts in your area, contact the recycling coordinator for your community or look under recycling in the Yellow Pages. For a brochure on the environmental benefits of recycling used oil filters write:

Environmental Manager, K, AlliedSignal Automotive Aftermarket, P.O. Box 7-546, Providence, RI 02940-7546.
