Builders plan market studies

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Developers of two proposed shopping centers — one expected to have an Arbor Drugs store — have been asked to conduct market studies to determine the potential for success.

Canton planner Jeff Goulet said developers for the proposed Cavalier

The developers of two proposed shopping centers, Cavalier Corners and Century Commons, have been asked to do market studies to determine how successful they'll be in finding tenants for those properties.

Corners and Century Commons shopping centers have been asked for the studies to determine whether the centers are warranted, based on market conditions.

"They have to provide justification that they will be able to lease the space," Goulet said.

The requests stem from the fact that land where the shopping centers are proposed is part of planned unit development (PUD) agreements dating back years.

PUDs allow developers to meet older ordinance requirements (in place when the PUDs were recorded), rather than today's ordinances that have stricter requirements for setbacks and landscaping, for example.

"They have received our revised comments," Goulet said, referring to developers Andrew Ansara and Sam Arabbo.

Ansara is the developer for the proposed 25,000-square-foot center on 8.1 acres on the northeast corner of Cherry Hill and Sheldon roads. Ansara's plans for Cavalier Corners, formerly known as the Cherryhill Shopping Center, are larger than the original plan for an 18,000-square-foot center. A second anchor, approximately 7,200 square feet, is apparently planned for the center, Goulet said.

Century Commons, west of Haggerty, north of Palmer, is proposed by developer Sam Arabbo. The center apparently does not have a commitment from Arbor Drugs. Acreage for both parcels is zoned commercial.

Music fills local parks

BY JULIE BROWN

When summertime comes, Plymouth-Canton parks are alive with the sound of music.

The Plymouth Community Arts Council presents concerts noon to 1 p.m. Wednesdays in Kellogg Park, through Aug. 24. Downtown Plymouth's Kellogg Park is also the site for the 8 p.m. Thursday concert series of the Plymouth Community Band, continuing through July 28.

Canton's summertime concert series began July 7 in the Heritage Park amphitheater, near the Township Administration Building. Concerts are at 7:30 p.m. Thursdays, continuing through Aug. 25.

The July 14 concert in Canton featured Doug Jacobs and The Red Garter Band, performing Dixieland-type music. "They're very well-known around the Detroit area," said Bob Dates of Canton, recreation supervisor for Canton Township. The group performed in Canton's 1993 summer concert series.

The series is sponsored by Canton Township Parks and Recreation and by Woodland Meadows Landfill. All concerts are free, except for the Thursday, Aug. 18, performance featuring The Shirelles. The opening act will be George Bedard and The Kingpins. Price is $6 per carload.

Brothers, township sparring

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Canton Township Public Safety officials and owners of Burda Brothers fireworks disagree on the type of fireworks and manner in which they are being sold from the Michigan Avenue company.

"They are making retail sales of fireworks from their location. We are at disagreement whether the sales are legal or not," said Canton Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher.

The Burdas successfully filed a restraining order against the township late July 1 to prevent police from obtaining a search warrant of the premises, 47725 Michigan Avenue, or from stopping the sales.

"There was no real time to respond," Rorabacher said, adding that he received a copy of the order at 4:20 p.m. July 1 just as Wayne County courts were soon to close for the Fourth of July holiday. "We were legally restrained from taking action over that weekend."

Rorabacher and Fire Marshal Art Winkel stopped at the wholesale company before the order was issued and asked the Burdas to stop selling what fire officials believe are illegal fireworks.

"They were very professional. They had a different point of view," Rorabacher said.

Fire officials also checked with other vendors. Only one of them had illegal fireworks, Rorabacher said.

The Burdas and their attorney Hugh Davis did not respond to the Observer's inquiry.

Also at issue is the retail sale of fireworks from the Burda site, which is believed to violate township zoning ordinances that prohibit such sales in an industrial district. No notice of violation or ticket has yet been issued.

Both sides are at odds over the interpretation of the state fireworks law, which allows the sale and use — without a permit — of only a limited type of fireworks, such as sparklers, fountains and smoke bombs.

Illegal fireworks are generally considered anything that moves, spins, leaves the ground, emits a report or shoots. Illegal fireworks include firecrackers, torpedoes, skyrockets and roman candles.

"We have a different interpretation of the law," said Public Safety Director John Santomauro. We will let the Burda's attorney present their case to the prosecutor. If the prosecutor's interpretation doesn't change, they (Burdas) will have to comply with the law. We don't have the option of what law we will enforce. We will enforce equally," Santomauro said.

The fireworks are being sold retail through an association. Customers are asked to join for $1 the American

Child find

Parents are invited to have their children fingerprinted by Canton police during Kid's Night 5-7 p.m. Monday, July 18, at McDonald's restaurant, on Ford Road, east of Canton Center Road.

Police will give parents the fingerprints to keep on file in their homes. "We don't suggest people bring their infants because it is difficult to fingerprint them," said Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer.

Playscape meeting

The public is invited to the next meeting for the Canton Community Playscape at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, July 21, in the south pavilion, just south of the amphitheater in Heritage Park.

Playscape organizers are still in need of residents who would like to volunteer for the effort. If you're interested, contact Christine Donaldson, 397-5909, Lynne Eckardt, 454-9745, or Jan Pickard, 416-9428.

Cookbooks for sale

The first-ever "Grandma's Favorite Recipes," compiled by Canton Place residents and friends, is available for sale at Canton Place for Seniors Apartments on the southwest corner of Sheldon and Ford roads. The recipe books are $5. If you are interested, you may call Ginnie Hauck or Barb Yack at Canton Place, 981-6420. Recipe books cannot be mailed.

Mettetal meeting

Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport users are invited to attend a meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, July 21, in the EAA Chapter 113 facility at the airport, to discuss proposed airport rules and regulations and airport improvements and five-year development plan. If you have questions or want to submit comments in writing, contact Randy Collier, MDOT-Bureau of Aeronautics, 2700 E. Airport Service Drive, Lansing, Mich. 48906. Phone: (517) 335-8521.

School district setting new goal

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton school board members are seeking input from the community as members discuss goals and objectives for 1994-95 at a workshop set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 18, at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

A prime goal is enhancing communications between the board and the public. Education wants to examine "how can we better include the community in decision-making about education," said community relations director Richard Egli. "That's one of the goals (Superintendent) Dr. (Charles) Little has talked about; how can we be more inclusive of the community in arriving at the goals we're seeking for young people."

The board also will brainstorm on cost containment, student achievement, student housing, and the establishment of a citizens advisory committee.

"A goal is helping the total community better understand what's happening in education generally, and specifically in the district itself," said Egli.

"We are making some major gains in terms of way we educate students today. Most people don't recognize education has changed or what's really taking place."

The district faces a lot of unknowns in preparing studies for the future, he added. "Twenty years ago, we could predict that people were going into factories. Students sat in straight rows of seats because they were going to be working in straight rows of machines in the factory. We knew a smaller percentage would go to college, do other things. Now we're told students will change careers about every decade."

Contest planned for Playscape

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Canton youths are invited to participate in a contest to develop a name and logo for the volunteer-designed Canton Community Playscape targeted for Heritage Park.

Anyone younger than 18 may enter the contest by sending their ideas for a logo and accompanying name for the wooden playscape. The winner will be awarded a $100 gift certificate at Play It Again Sports in Canton.

Playscape organizers will announce the winner on or near the day volunteers will get together in the fall and work with a Leathers Company architect to design the playscape that can range from 10,000 to 20,000 square feet. Canton Township gave organizers a maximum $30,000 to help pay for the architect.

Anyone who would like to submit entries should send them to Christine Donaldson, 43764 Yorktown, Canton, Mich. 48188.

"We really haven't figured up a site yet," Donaldson said, about Heritage Park. The final decision will probably be made when the Leathers architect arrives and checks out available sites in the township park.

Some examples of names of other playscapes in the country include: Imagination Station, Frisco's Funstastic Funground, Kids Space, Hanover at Play and The Mystic Maze.

"Most of them have little images that go with them," Donaldson said.

The public is invited to attend the playscape's next meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, July 21, in the south pavilion in Heritage Park. The process used to design and build the playscape will be discussed, as will be the need and role of volunteers.

Organizers are still seeking volunteers. For example, volunteers will be needed when the playscape is built, as well as for child care during the three- to four-day construction period. Commitments for food donations are coming in for the construction period. Volunteers will be needed to help serve food.

Volunteers also will be needed for the children's committee. Designs already have been received from kids involved in township parks programs. Before construction week, a phone bank will be set up to encourage volunteers to come out, Donaldson said.

Any business that would like to donate money or materials to the playscape effort is encouraged to do so by calling Donaldson, 397-5909, or Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, 397-5380. "We've approached some of the businesses already."

Organizers raised $420 from a Jazzercise fund-raiser sponsored by Fran Mintz July 9 in Heritage Park. Playscapes generally range in price from $65,000-$85,000.

Anyone who would like to volunteer should contact Donaldson, or Lynne Eckardt, 454-9745, or Jan Pickard, 416-9428.

Pet adoption program planned

The Michigan Animal Adoption Network (MAAN), a non-profit group that uses computer technology to aid lost and homeless dogs and cats, will hold an open house/pet-adoption program at the Canton Pet Supplies Plus store at 43665 Ford Road on July 23.

Founded earlier this year by a group of volunteer animal rescue workers, MAAN operates the world's first computerized adoption network for dogs and cats.

The pet adoptions are run much like a human dating service. People call MAAN's toll-free number and describe the kind of pet they want, in terms of its breed or breed type, age, sex and size; then MAAN draws on its computer database to match callers with the animals that best fit their descriptions.

On Saturday, MAAN will exhibit over 30 dogs and cats available for adoption at the Pet Supplies Plus store.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Listed below are some of the construction projects, including residential and commercial developments, as well as road projects, that may interest Canton residents. This column will be published intermittently to keep residents abreast of development in the community.

• Several projects are planned this summer in the Palmer Road/Lotz area to accommodate development of the nearby Brookside number 5 private subdivision: a new storm sewer is being installed along the north side of Palmer along with a water line; along the south side, a sanitary sewer is being installed; the paving of Palmer Road, Lotz to Hannan, and replacement of the bridge in that area is scheduled to begin in August with restoration work planned for spring 1995.

• A temporary concrete batch plant will be operated by Tony Angelo Cement Construction in the area of Palmer and Canton Center roads. This will be a central site used to mix and provide concrete for roads for several Canton subdivisions under development. The subdivisions include Pinewood, Nowland Estates and Glenmary number 4. The contractor has received a permit to operate from June 29, 1994-Sept. 1, 1994. Temporary roads will be installed off of Canton Center for incoming traffic and Palmer Road to remove materials.

• A public hearing is scheduled for Aug. 8 before the Canton Planning Commission to discuss a proposed Canton Mini Mart, Inc., a gas station at the southeast corner of Cherry Hill and Lilley roads. The project would be on 1.95 acres and would include a 1,590-square-foot building. Also scheduled for Aug. 8 is a hearing to consider revision of the final preliminary plat for the 55-lot Pinewood subdivision for a variance to the Subdivision Control Ordinance.

• Kmart Corporation is proposing a special land use for their Ford Road store to expand their garment shop area. It is tentatively scheduled for a planning public hearing, Sept. 12.

• Planning commissioners July 11 approved a temporary preliminary plat for Sierra Heights subdivision south of Cherry Hill and east of Lilley. They also approved a preliminary plat for Foxcreek South, a 15-acre, 39-lot residential site condominium project west of Haggerty and south of Warren. On July 11, the township board approved final plat for Lyndon Village and Huntington Place subdivisions and Westbrook Plaza at Canton Center and Warren.

• Work is continuing slowly with the Canton-sponsored sewer repair project along the south side of Ford Road east of Sheldon. Although most of the work on the underground project is completed, it will take another three weeks to complete work and clean up the site, according to township engineers. Contractors encountered several delays since the project started earlier this year, including problems with de-watering of the underground during the spring rainy season and an underground obstruction that delayed the project.

• Work is continuing on Canton's Downtown Development Authority project on Ford Road, between Sheldon and Morton Taylor. A sample brick wall should be installed by the end of the month at Ford Road and Morton Taylor, while trenching for the project continues along the south side of Ford Road.

Information on any projects planned in Canton Township can be obtained by calling Canton Planning Services, 397-5390. Questions about infrastructure improvements, including subdivision development and water and sewer installation may be directed to Canton Engineering Services and Public Works at 397-5405. This became even more obvious to his mother a year later when Jay approached her with his summer savings, money he had made cutting lawns. Again, Jay's request was pretty unusual for a 9-year-old boy: "Help me buy a saxophone, and I promise I'll practice."

Toy or not, Jay's hard work paid off. The 1994 Plymouth-Canton graduate will attend the University of Michigan's School of Music in the fall on a full-tuition scholarship and has turned into an accomplished musician.

Drum major of the Plymouth Canton Educational Park Band, principal saxophonist of the U-M Youth Band and the high school symphony band are only a few of Jay's accomplishments. Active in a variety of student community activities, Jay was just 13 when he earned his Eagle Scout designation, making him one of the youngest recipients of the award in Wayne County.

"He is just so into the music. He plays at a lot of local fundraisers. All you have to do is mention music, and he just takes off," said Debbie. His love for music is evident to others, too. At high school graduation honors night students that he spends time teaching are anxiously awaiting his return.

"He is so great with the students. He takes so much time with them, trying to encourage and develop their music appreciation," said Diane Bauer of Livonia. Bauer's 12-year old daughter, Melissa, is one of Jay's students. "I've seen him inspire so many kids with his music."

Despite Jay's hard work, he still faces an uphill struggle. In January, Jay's father, George, was laid off from his job. Although he has started his own business, it still takes time to recover from such a financial setback.

And although Jay's college scholarship covers tuition, the housing, books and music are still very expensive. Instrument maintenance is expensive also and Jay currently spends at least $65 a month on reeds for his saxophone.

But for Jay, education is a priority. "We'll keep trying, and eventually things will get better. His education is the most important thing," she said.

Canton voter will head to the polls — again

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton is a far cry from the township of farmlands and one-room schoolhouses Irene Winkel remembers when she first registered to vote 60 years ago.

"We used to walk down Hanford Road and pick wild asparagus and wild grapes," said Winkel, who recently registered to vote on her return to Canton where she was raised. "The fields were just covered with wild flowers. You can't imagine it now."

She is nothing short of amazed at how the township has transformed in the years since she married and left Canton and more recently after spending 20 years in Florida. "I just can't believe it. There are such beautiful homes. They're huge."

At 82, registering to vote in time for the Aug. 2 primary is just as important as the first time she registered when she was in her 20s and her father was the township clerk. The first time she voted — for FDR — it was in the township hall at the corner of Canton Center and Cherry Hill.

Her father, Colburn Dennis, also was the owner of a general merchandise store. Originally he owned two stores, Winkel's mother, Mrs. Marshall Asch, Winkel, and her family lived in the upstairs flat of the store on Canton Center Road.

"He sold everything from crockery, farmers' overalls to food. It was the only store around for a long time," she said, recalling that Julien's store was at its familiar spot on Canton Center and Ford roads but was more like a restaurant in those days.

Winkel can recall all the farmers who have long been associated with Canton. She went to school with their children in the Hanford and Canton Center schools.

"The Palmer family grew the best corn in the state. In fact, Canton was known as the sweet corn capital," Winkel said.

She has fond memories of the one-room schoolhouses, which she attended through the eighth grade and then went on to Plymouth High School. "There was a big stove in the middle of the room. That's how we kept warm in the winter. Kids brought vegetables and meat from their farms. We made soup — actually the teacher did," Winkel said.

She recalls being in charge of her baby brother, also named Colburn — who took over the family store when her dad retired — and taking him to school. "I remember listening to the older kids in the school recite their lessons. I loved to read. From the third grade on I was reading everything."

And yes, like all the other kids, Winkel walked a

Local officials scoffing at stories on Tiger Stadium

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Local officials are giving little credence to rumors that a new Tiger Stadium could be built on county-owned property at Five Mile and Sheldon roads in Northville Township.

But Plymouth Township police Chief Carl Berry says it would be "one monumental headache" if it happened.

"It would probably cost us lots of money in overtime that we don't have," said Berry. "We don't have the facilities or the staffing levels to handle that kind of situation."

The site is among several in Wayne and Oakland counties being considered by Detroit Tigers owner Mike Ilitch.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy said she hasn't given serious consideration to it. "The township has always maintained that for the best interest of the entire southeastern Michigan community, it would be better for the stadium to remain in the city of Detroit. I think that (Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara) was always taken that position," she said.

"Rumors are rumors. I truly believe that with the new mayor and the improved sense of cooperation between the city and suburbs that it's in the best interest of all of us to have a dynamic, revitalized Detroit."

McCarthy declined to speculate on the potential impact of a stadium on the community. "I don't want to speculate; it gives credence to the rumor, and I don't think that's helpful to anyone."

The supervisor sees a suburban stadium as a negative.

"I would hate to see a decision made that would be detrimental to the whole community. Suburbs are strong when the city is strong. Look at Cleveland. Their new stadium has been dramatically beneficial to surrounding communities," she said.

If a stadium is built in Northville Township, "all the traffic and 40,000-50,000 people — will enter through Plymouth Township on Sheldon via the expressway," said Berry, adding that no one has contacted him with any proposals on how the situation would be remedied.

Pre-game trash wouldn't be as big a problem as post-game traffic. "Exiting would be a problem, because everyone leaves at the same time. In addition to the traffic, you have buses, accidents, pedestrian traffic, and obviously the other things that go with the stadium, like parking and concessions," he said.

"Along with it comes some crime problems; pickpockets, larcenies and auto thefts." Events at the Northville Downs race track could further complicate things, he said.

Berry agrees with McCarthy that the stadium should remain in Detroit.

"It's where it belongs. Detroit is staffed, and has the ability to deal with it. We don't," said the chief.

Plymouth Realtor Robert Baker said he doubts a Northville Township stadium "would negatively impact residential real estate values any more than the institutions of medium security that have been in the community for decades."

"If they could satisfy the traffic concerns, funneling people in and out efficiently, then I don't really see any measurable effect either way."

Baker doubts the site is being seriously considered. "I think it's a red herring to give the city of Detroit and the state Legislature a wake-up call to get something moving along for downtown Detroit."

Fireworks Users Association Inc. A permit, which is on the back of the association application, allows the customer to buy, possess and have the fireworks ignited. The permit was issued by Berlin Township, which is where customers are told they may take the fireworks to be ignited by an association representative, Rorabacher said.

"They (the Burdas) are of the position that this makes their fireworks legal," Rorabacher said.

A decision on the interpretation of the state law is up to Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Ray Walsh, who was on vacation and unavailable for comment.

"The Burda brothers' attorney says one thing. The Wayne County prosecutor says another thing. Obviously this is a difference of opinion. We don't want to be unfair to a Canton business," said Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack.

McNamara vows to serve full term if re-elected

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW

STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said people who claim he will not serve his full term if re-elected are wrong.

"Unless the good Lord decides I'm not going to stay on this earth, I plan to stick around for four years," said McNamara in an interview last week. "And there's nothing that says I won't run after that."

The former Livonia mayor, 67, has been Wayne County's chief executive officer since 1987. This year he seeks re-election. He is challenged by Detroit City Councilman Clyde Cleveland in the Aug. 2 Democratic primary.

Among McNamara's priorities for the next four years are improvements in public transportation, completion of Metro Airport renovations, a new Tiger Stadium in downtown Detroit, success for the new community development bank and an increase in the size of the county's family homeless shelter in Westland.

"All those things can happen in the next four years, no doubt about it," he said. "If we can't get it done in the next four years I don't deserve another four years."

Calling Metro Airport "the single most important economic generator we've got in the state of Michigan," McNamara opposed Cleveland's idea to impose a 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew at Metro.

"It shows what lack of knowledge Clyde has," McNamara said. "If you close that airport at 10 you no longer have a hub operation" which would cost many jobs.

Asked to name his accomplishments as county executive, McNamara cited the new jail, built in his first term, the new morgue, which he said will open within 60 days, the alternative workforce, a work program for non-violent offenders, improvements to Hines Park, Parkland and the Warren Valley Golf Course.

The critics

McNamara acknowledged the frequent criticism of him by county commissioners, tracing its genesis to the creation of the county executive position and the concomitant diminution of commission powers.

"Before I came along the commission was both the administration and the legislative body," he said. "And if you look back 19 years it shows what a lousy job they did, because they had a deficit for 19 years. What we've done is diminish the responsibility of "The auditor general is a political arm of the Wayne County Commission. If she functioned as a true professional person she'd do like every other auditor does; keep (the results) in house. You don't make it a public record."

Edward McNamara county executive

the commission. They now are no longer administrators."

One of McNamara's recurring complaints is the integrity of the county's auditor general, Ramona Henderson, who performs audits of all county departments to promote efficiency.

"The auditor general is a political arm of the Wayne County Commission," McNamara charged. "If she functioned as a true professional person she'd do like every other auditor does; keep (the results) in house. You don't make it a public record."

Henderson, said McNamara, goes easy on the clerk and treasurer departments in regard to auditing, but hits the executive branch hard.

"She makes excuses for breakdowns she finds there (in the clerk and treasurer offices). She indicates to her staff that we should know better, that we're screwing up. Until she learns to be a professional person, we're just not going to cooperate."

However, McNamara also acknowledged that the commission complaint that the commission is similar to his best about the auditor general. "I don't think it's that serious," he said. "I think we can work those things out."

Moonlighting

McNamara has also been criticized for employing people in county government who hold public office in municipal government. The implication, which McNamara denies, is that these people somehow do his bidding when serving on city councils and school boards.

He defends their right to run for public office, and if they represent him in any way, "I hope they represent good government."

"The people we attract here are political beings. They love politics and they want to be involved."

Although McNamara has enjoyed a long honeymoon with area media, a fair amount of critical stories have surfaced in the last two years.

McNamara said the unfavorable coverage has the potential to undermine confidence in his administration.

"Where you guys go wrong in my opinion is you don't give balanced stories," he said. "It's important that if we want to accomplish something in this county we have to have the respect and we have to have the confidence of the people we represent. If we don't have that we won't be successful."

Plans for both centers are not expected to be considered by the Canton Planning Commission until at least Aug. 15 if developers' plans are ready, Goulet said.

"They are in fairly good shape other than getting the market study," Goulet said, referring to Cavalier Corners. Planners asked the developer to change some architectural materials, for example.

The Canton Township Board of Trustees approved a site plan for the 25,000-square-foot Westbrook center, on the northwest corner of Canton Center and Warren, Tuesday.

The approval comes after a number of meetings at which Sunflower residents contested the center and demanded that the township block its construction.

But at the planning commission's urging, developer Mario Tartaglia, township planning staff, and residents who will be affected by the center, got together and worked out concerns.

Arbor Drugs, which will serve as the L-shaped center's anchor, will give $7,500 to 11 Sunflower residents to landscape their side of a 12-foot wall — to be tinted a natural color — that will separate them from the shopping center.

As requested by planning commissioners, the center will have decorative lighting at its two entrances on Canton Center and Warren.

Planning commissioners had asked Tartaglia to consider connecting the center and the existing First of America bank, which will share the corner with Westbrook. The hope was to reduce the number of entrances onto Canton Center and Warren roads.

Sunflower residents consistently expressed concerns about the traffic at the intersection, which features a 7-Eleven convenience store on the southwest corner and Oakwood Medical Center on the northeast corner.

"First of America is still considering whether to provide the connection," Township Supervisor Tom Yack said.

Music

"We did some research and got them through a connection with one of the talent agencies," Dates said. The Shirleys, known for such classic tunes as "Mama Said" and "Soldier Boy." "That'll be a real nice show."

On Thursday, Aug. 25, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will perform at Canton's Heritage Park. Concert series organizers urge those attending to bring blankets and lawn chairs. Food is sold.

Blankets and lawn chairs are also needed for the Plymouth Community Band concert, which began this year on June 23. The group has some 50-60 members who perform 8 p.m. each Thursday through July 28.

"The group has existed for 35 years now," said Carl Bettishill of Plymouth, band director. Band members perform throughout the year, with the summer the highlight of the performing season.

The summertime concert series started in 1959, and have been of time, said Bettishill, who's been director since 1979.

Wayne County sheriff
likes Geiss for Congress

David Geiss, a Wayne resident and Democratic candidate for U.S. Congress in the 13th District, has announced the endorsement of Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficino.

The 13th District includes Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southeast quadrant of Livonia.

The other Democratic candidates are state Rep. Lynn Rivers of Ann Arbor and Fulton County, Dennis Fassett of Belleville, Glen Kassel of Wayne and Cynthia Wilbanks of Ypsilanti.

Commissioners like Abraham

Wayne County commissioners Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Andrew Richner, R-Grosse Pointe, have endorsed Spencer Abraham in his bid for the GOP nomination in the U.S. Senate race.

McCotter also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Abraham's opponent in the Aug. 2 Republican primary is Bloomfield Hills resident Ronna Romney.

Abraham said in a press release he was honored to have the commissioners' support.

Ronna Romney endorsed by Kirksey, Vorva, Juarez

By RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

In her quest for "the big banana," as she called Michigan's open U.S. Senate seat, Republican candidate Ronna Romney visited Livonia recently to reveal in the endorsements of area officials.

Dressed in a blue business suit topped with a red, white and blue tie, Romney entered the Livonia Chamber of Commerce office to accept the praise of state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, state Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, former Livonia schools administrator Jack Kirksey and Garden City Councilman Ed Juarez.

Also supporting Romney, but not at the press conference, are Schoolcraft College Board Chairman Steve Ragan, Livonia treasurer Robert Bishop, Grosse Pointe Shores Mayor John Huettner III and Dearborn City Council President Nancy Hubbard.

Romney, a Bloomfield Hills resident, is competing with Spencer Abraham of Auburn Hills for the Republican nomination in the Senate race. The primary vote is Aug. 2. The Democrat candidates are William Brodhead of Bingham Farms, U.S. Rep. Bob Carr of East Lansing, Joel Ferguson of Lansing, state Sen. John Kelly of Grosse Pointe Woods, Macomb County Prosecutor Carl Marlinga of Sterling Heights and state Sen. Lana Pollack of Ann Arbor. Juarez said he used to listen to Romney's radio show on WKYT and decided to support her as soon as she announced her candidacy. "I was so eager when she announced, I said, 'I have to contact her. I have to support her,'" he said. Juarez added that Romney has a "common sense approach" to issues as opposed to "looking at the political correctness of things."

Vorva said that Romney understands what average people want. "Ronna is one of those few people that are listening to what they're saying," he said. "Ronna has captured the feelings. She understands it. We're looking for something different. We want to change the status quo, and that's what Ronna is about."

Geake said Romney has "energy and enthusiasm" and "I think she's going to save us this year."

Kirksey told Romney that the secret to winning against the Democrats in November is to "get the most dynamic candidate out of the primary, and that's you."

Romney reports spending about 90 percent of her time raising money. She said she has $700,000 so far, but expects to be outspent by Abraham.

She also said that four U.S. senators support her publicly and more are in the pipeline. Those in support now, she said, are senators Orrin Hatch and Robert Bennett of Utah, John McCain of Arizona and Alfonse D'Amato of New York.

Romney added that she is "part of the Ronald Reagan legacy" and, given her druthers, would prefer to face Pollack in the general election.

Parked outside the chamber of commerce office was Romney's campaign bus, a red, white and blue former school bus with large photographs of the candidate peeking out the windows and a public address system blaring patriotic music.

Romney allowed that campaigning agrees with her. She's learning things about herself and having a ball. "Everybody should run for the U.S. Senate once," she said. "What an experience!"

State Chamber of Commerce rates Senate, House members

The Michigan Chamber of Commerce has released the Job Providers Index for the 1993-94 legislative session, and announced its legislative endorsements for the fall elections.

The Job Providers Index provides the business community and other interested parties with a measure of how each member of the Michigan Legislature voted on a range of economic issues of importance to employers.

The Chamber's positions on these issues were established by Chamber members and communicated to the Legislature. Any legislator who earned a cumulative rating of 70 percent or better on the 1991-92 and 1993-94 Job Providers Index automatically receives an "earned endorsement."

State House

■ Rep. Lyn Banks, R-Livonia, 86 percent.
■ Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, 86 percent.
■ Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, 95 percent.

Senate

■ Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, 83 percent.
■ Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, 95 percent.

Board salutes Maxwell

A volunteer in the athletic department for more than 26 years, Russ Maxwell has been named as an outstanding volunteer by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and the "I Care" Committee.

Maxwell was born in Plymouth and has lived here for all but eight years of his life when he lived in Livonia. He graduated from Plymouth High School in 1950.

Maxwell said, "I was taking my 6-year-old son home one night when I saw the lights of the football stadium turned on and we went to see the game. I've been hooked ever since."

Athletic Director Paul Cummings lauded Maxwell's assistance. "He takes care of parking, meets and greets visiting teams and helps the officials to get situated. He's been with us so long and helps us so much that most teams think he's part of our staff," said Cummings.

"You can count on him for games, tournaments and any other activities where he's asked to help."

Assistant Athletic Director Jim Finn said, "When you look in the dictionary under 'dependable,' there's probably a picture of Russ Maxwell."

Maxwell was recognized recently as the "I Care" Volunteer Recognition Night as the longest serving volunteer in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Among his many acts of volunteerism was his service as president of the Football Booster's Club in 1972.

If you haven't, you may not recognize us.

We've added some great new features:

- complete access to the Internet and every Internet feature—Gopher, FTP, Telnet, Internet Relay Chat, email, WWW, etc.
- lots of local phone numbers so that reaching us is a local call from nearly anywhere in Michigan
- a new menu-driven, easy-to-navigate interface

And all of our original features are still going strong:

- stock quotes
- electronic editions of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers
- local chat and discussion areas
- free and unlimited email

You can access On-Line! with just about every communications software—PC or Macintosh.

All of this costs a bundle, right?

Nope, doesn't even come close.

How does $9.95 a month sound? That's the tab on a one-year subscription. Six-month subscribers pay $14.95 and On-Line! runs $19.95 by the month.

Of course, there are never extra charges for connecting to "special" areas or exceeding a pre-set quota time limit.

Red Cross honors Observer editor

Sue Mason, Suburban Life editor at the Observer Newspapers, recently received the Buddies for Life Award from the Southeastern Michigan Blood Services Region of the American Red Cross.

The award is presented to a news person in southeastern Michigan who has displayed continued dedication to maintaining an adequate blood supply in times of need.

"When Sue Mason covers a story about blood for the Observer, it is never a halfhearted effort. Red Cross has had the pleasure of working with Sue Mason for a little more than a year and in that time she has demonstrated all the ingredients that comprise a top-notch reporter. She is objective, yet maintains a concern for her community and the issues that affect it," said Belinda Pickle, spokeswoman for the Southeastern Michigan Blood Services Region of the American Red Cross.

"Sue has the ability to take a complicated subject and make it easy to understand for her readers. She always shows enthusiasm in her reporting and this shines through in her writing. Most of all, Sue is a reporter that cares about her community, and this is what separates her from others."

Mason, a graduate of Wayne State University, edits the Suburban Life sections in Livonia, Redford, Westland, Garden City, Plymouth and Canton.

She joined the Observer nine years ago as a reporter. She worked as a general assignment reporter in Westland and then as an education writer in Livonia and Redford before being named an editor in January 1988.

Before joining the Observer, Mason worked as editor of Associated Newspapers.

Last year she received awards for writing and editing from the Michigan Press Association and the Suburban Newspaper Association.

Married, Mason and her husband share their Westland home with two English setters, Beanie and Willie.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Swedish popovers and other reader requests

The warm weather hasn't kept people out of the kitchen. In June I received more than 60 calls from readers seeking answers to questions, copies of recipes from previous issues, and hard-to-find recipes.

■ Marilyn Began of Southfield searched high and low for a recipe that uses an ebleskiver pan she recently acquired. This recipe came from my friend Jean, who loves to make ebleskivers, those indescribably delicious Swedish popovers.

EBLESKIVERS

½ cup butter, melted
3 eggs, separated
1 cup whole milk
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground cardamom
Butter to grease pan
Optional fillings: Apple sauce, jam or powdered sugar for sprinkling on top

In a large bowl, blend together butter, egg yolks, milk and sugar. In a medium bowl, combine dry ingredients. Stir into egg yolk mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff and gently fold into batter mixture.

Heat ebleskiver pan at medium low heat until a drop of water sizzles when applied.

Spoon ¼ teaspoon of batter into each cup. Drop 1 rounded tablespoon of batter into each cup and cook over medium low heat for 1 minute. Turn ebleskivers over gently using a skewer or basting needle and cook one additional minute. Remove from pan and fill with filling of your choice. Makes about 2½ dozen ebleskivers.

■ In the spring, Martha of Redford requested a recipe for Hawaiian Bread. We received three different recipes from helpful readers. The best one came from Paula Maake of Huntington Woods, who sent along a copy of a recipe reprinted many moons ago in "Sunset" magazine.

PORTUGUESE SWEET BREAD (HAWAIIAN BREAD)

½ cup instant mashed potatoes (granules or powder)
½ cup boiling water
½ cup sugar
¼ cup instant non-fat dry milk powder
½ cup butter or margarine
2 packages active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (about 110 degrees F.)
4½ to 5 cups all purpose flour
3 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon lemon flavoring
1 egg, beaten

In a small pan, beat instant potatoes into boiling water. Stir in the sugar, dry milk and the butter. Allow to cool to about 110 degrees F. Meanwhile, in a large bowl of an electric mixer, dissolve the yeast in the warm water. Blend into cooled potato mixture. Add 2 cups flour and beat to blend. Stir in the eggs, salt, vanilla and lemon flavoring until thoroughly blended. Then beat in 1½ cups more flour.

With a heavy mixer or by hand, mix in more flour to make a stiff dough, about 1 to 1½ cups.

Turn onto a floured board and knead 5 to 10 minutes or until smooth and satiny, adding more flour as needed. Turn dough over in a lightly greased bowl; cover and allow to rise in a warm place until doubled, about 1 hour. Punch down, allowing to rest 10 minutes.

Divide dough in half. Shape each half into a flattened round, about 8 inches across in a greased 9-inch pie pan. Cover lightly and allow to rise until almost doubled for about 35 to 45 minutes. Brush with beaten egg and sprinkle with a bit of sugar if desired. Bake at 350 degrees F for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool on racks. Makes 2 loaves.

■ Mrs. Kohl of Livonia wanted to know why her potato salad gets runny. She uses Miracle Whip, just like Momma does, along with mustard, celery, onions, cheese and other seasonings. Momma said to mix the potato salad after the potatoes are thoroughly cool and refrigerated.

Mixing the salad when the potatoes are still warm thins the salad dressing. I hope this works.

THE OLIVE GARDEN ITALIAN RESTAURANT

Pasta: Capellini Pomodoro, created by The Olive Garden Italian Restaurant, features angel hair pasta, fresh tomatoes, and freshly grated Parmesan cheese seasoned with basil and olive oil.

Pasta offers the perfect dinner solution for hot summer nights. Pasta can be served cold with vegetables in a hearty salad with, or tossed with a sauce of lightly sauteed garden-fresh tomatoes, basil and garlic.

BY BARBARA WILSON
SPECIAL WRITER

With more than 130 shapes to choose from, and fresh vegetables ripening in gardens, it's time to experiment with pasta salads and entrees.

Italians consider cold pasta to be an appetizer. In this country we have come to accept it as a healthful and filling meal that requires little work.

A good pasta salad or entree made with freshly picked, lightly sauteed vegetables, and hearty bread will satisfy the biggest appetite. Because dinner's a snap to make, you'll still have time to enjoy outdoor activities with your family.

The shape of pasta you choose will depend on the dressing. Frank Chimento, owner of Chimento's Italian Market on Plymouth Road in Livonia, says a lighter dressing is best complemented by a curved pasta or one with a hole in it. This will help the dressing cling to the pasta.

A pasta with ridges will also work well with tomato and oil-based pasta sauces or dressings, he said.

A heavier cream-based sauce can handle a straight pasta.

Specialty shapes are available, too. Chimento said he can order heart-shaped, flag-shaped and Christmas tree pastas, just to name a few.

Flavored pastas add extra flair to the appearance and taste of a pasta salad. Mama Mucci's in Plymouth specializes in vegetable and herb pastas.

Frank Mucci said pastas such as their sweet basil give cooks a head start on their salad, allowing them more time to experiment with vegetable add-ons and dressings.

Mama Mucci's will also be introducing a spicy red pepper pasta that has already received rave reviews at some local restaurants.

While a hot sauce is sometimes able to handle a mushy pasta, pasta served cold must be cooked just right. Mucci said to buy only pastas made of 100-percent durum wheat or semolina. These will hold up best for salads.

You should add one pound of pasta per four quarts of boiling water and not try to cook too much at one time.

"Pasta should be added to rapidly boiling water and should be tasted during cooking to make sure it is done," Mucci said. Pasta continues to cook even after it is taken off the heat so it is important to place it in a strainer and cover with cold water right away to stop the cooking process.

Mucci recommends putting a little salt in the water to keep the pasta from sticking and to toss pasta with a little canola oil after it is drained. The old tale about adding a little oil to the boiling water is malarkey, according to Mucci because the two liquids never mix.

The possibilities for pasta salad dressings are endless. Oil-based dressings are the most popular. Chimento says to use extra virgin olive oil because a smaller amount will be needed to cover the salad.

Chalk Hill produces flavor-dynamic wines

FOCUS ON WINE

turn around wine quality in a short period of time at a winery that, before his winemaking tenure, was making relatively undistinguished wines.

We're even more impressed today and want you to know the whole story about some of the most flavor-dynamic wines being made on California's North Coast.

Chalk Hill Winery, the only estate winery in the Chalk Hill appellation, is not a new kid on the block. Grapes have been growing (and wine has been made) on the property since the mid-1970s. After each visit to the winery during the 1980s, we'd leave with the belief that such a seemingly perfect steep hillside location with impeccably manicured vineyards should be making exceptional wine. But it was not.

It all came together in 1990, when proprietor Fred Furth hired Dave Ramey as winemaker. Ramey came armed with experience at Simi Winery and Matanzas Creek and fresh from a stint working in Bordeaux for the Moueix family at Chateau Petrus. His penchant for experimenting and curiosity for French winemaking techniques have paid off in some handsomely crafted wines showcasing complexity and character.

Ever the experimenter when it comes to winemaking, Ramey is not averse to using every winemaking tool available in the creation of each bottling.

"These tools can only be used with ripe fruit," he said. "Excellent vineyard techniques are essential to ensure quality. At Chalk Hill's 260 acres of estate vineyards with elevations ranging 200 to 600 feet, I choose chardonnay fruit from a variety of clones and sites with a multiplicity of exposures and soil types."

Once in the winery, Ramey utilizes vineyard blends, wild yeast, different barrel makers, barrel fermentation, malolactic fermentation and extended aging on yeast lees to make a more complex chardonnay. A proponent of wild yeast, Ramey quickly moved in this direction and has not used cultured yeast since 1991.

"I'm not ashamed to be straightforward about the fact that I use analyses of white Burgundies as a model in Chalk Hill's chardonnay production," he said. "Natural yeast fermentation consumes an overt buttery character of malolactic fermentation in chardonnay and makes the wine's flavors more balanced - more like a fine white Burgundy."

A recent tasting of the 1992 Chalk Hill Chardonnay ($17) proved Ramey's comments. Oak accents from barrel fermentation were balanced against fruit. There is a buttery character, but it's integrated, and the wine is textured and elegant in the mouth.

CHALK HILL WINERY

Winemaker: Dave Ramey, winemaker at Chalk Hill Winery, among one of his favorite winemaking tools - French-coopered barrels.

Sauvignon blanc, the other white from Chalk Hill, has benefited from many "chardonnay cellar techniques." It is barrel fermented, in Bordeaux-coopered barrels, with natural, wild yeasts and undergoes malolactic fermentation and remains on the yeast lees for about seven months. Don't misunderstand, the wine does not imitate chardonnay in its flavor profile. It just benefits from the tools.

The 1992 Chalk Hill Sauvignon Blanc ($16) is a happy blend of ripe tropical, melony fruit with the slightest hints of new-mown grass. It has tantalizing palate texture that is creamy, rich, full and flavorful. The bad news is that this wine is targeted principally for on-premise sales in your favorite restaurant — ask for it specifically and complement just about any seafood dish you choose.

This was the general consensus of our table as we sampled it with a variety of seafood at Charley's Crab in Troy. The wine made a perfect match to soft-shell crab, crab cakes and several species of broiled white fish. Yes, the wine's a touch pricier than many other sauvignons on the market, but there's none more stylish.

We compared the 1990 and 1991 Chalk Hill Cabernet Sauvignon ($18.50) side-by-side.

It was a head-said for the 1990 because of its overall bigness and Bordeaux-like flavors and she said for the 1991 for the brighter fruit expression and resolved tannins. You should still be able to find both wines — although the 1990 may take a search — and make a similar comparison.

At Chalk Hill, the cabernet is aged exclusively in Bordeaux-coopered barrels, 50 percent new each vintage, for a period of about 20 months. Shallow, gravelly soils on the estate are ideally suited for cabernet sauvignon.

Pasta

Faye Fitzgerald, a HeartSmart dietitian, recommends working with juice to flavor pasta salads without the fat.

Other salad dressing might incorporate yogurt or mayonnaise. If packing for a picnic, these are best avoided because of the bacteria that may grow as a result of exposure to the heat.

Basil is perhaps the most basic seasoning for pasta salad dressings. In the summer months, Chimento said only go for the real thing. The fresh basil is readily available and will make a big difference in the taste. Italian parsley is another flavorful addition to a pasta salad. It is more robust than the traditional curly American variety.

Mucci recommends going crazy with the vegetables. They make a dehydrated pesto sauce (available in area markets) that combines garlic, sweet basil, red bell pepper and spinach with a chicken stock for a wonderfully fresh dressing.

"Try all kinds of vegetables," Mucci said. "You might saute them or grill them before tossing them in. People too often go with the traditional vegetables, but there are so many great vegetables available this time of year."

He suggests experimenting with different types and colors of peppers and squashes along with the traditional carrots, broccoli and tomato.

"You want your pasta to be beautiful to the eye," Chimento said. "Most of the time you eat with your eyes before the food ever reaches your mouth."

If you'd rather leave the cooking to someone else, visit your neighborhood Olive Garden Italian Restaurant. Through Sept. 5, the restaurant will be offering several light pasta dishes on its new summer menu.

Reader-requested recipes for peppers, pan-fried bass

See Larry Jones' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

Eva Gent of Westland wanted to know about Goatstorn peppers, an elongated Italian roasting pepper that's she's growing in her garden. Gent wanted to know the best way to roast them.

Roasting peppers eliminates the bitter skin. Slice peppers in half lengthwise, remove the seeds and place peppers under a broiler or over hot coals to char and blacken the skin.

Place blistered peppers in a small brown paper bag to steam, and then run them under a faucet. The skins should peel right off. You can use them in sauces or purees.

Here's a recipe to try with roasted peppers.

PASTA WITH ROASTED PEPPERS AND PORTABELLO MUSHROOMS
1 pound pasta, cooked and drained
4 roasted peppers, skins removed, diced
1 large portabello mushroom, diced thick
3 green onions, chopped
1 tablespoon garlic, finely minced
3 tablespoons olive oil
1/2 cup fresh basil, chopped
Saute the mushrooms with the green onion and the garlic in the olive oil for 2-3 minutes. Add peppers and chopped basil. Mix well and toss to heat throughout. Place pasta over top and mix in pepper mixture.

Drizzle with a splash of olive oil, if desired, and a sprinkling of fresh grated Parmesan cheese.

Mrs. Gross of Troy wanted to know if you can dehydrate fresh tomatoes. All tomatoes can be dried using a food dehydrator, but the best ones are Roma tomatoes, which have less water and an intense flavor when dehydrated. Follow manufacturer's directions for dehydrating.

For a special treat, you might want to pack dehydrated tomatoes in sterilized jars and cover them with olive oil. Use these tomatoes in sauces, bruschetta, or toss them into chilled pasta salads.

Bob "Julius" Tassoni of Livonia wanted a recommendation for cooking some bass he and a few friends caught on a houseboating excursion. Bob chartered a 72-foot houseboat on Dale Hollow Lake and claimed the bass were rampant. Well, Bob, here's a recipe I know you'll want to share with all your fishing buddies. Maybe you can make it next year with your fresh catch.

PAN-FRIED BASS WITH GREEN PEPPER CORN SAUCE
8-10 bass fillets

2 eggs, beaten
1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 green onions, finely chopped
1/2 cup dry vermouth
1 1/2 cups chicken broth
1 tablespoon green pepper, corns, drained
1 1/2 teaspoons fresh thyme or 1/2 teaspoon dried
2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
1/2 cup whipping cream

Dip bass fillets in beaten egg and then roll in seasoned bread crumbs. Melt 3 tablespoons of butter or margarine in a large skillet over medium heat. Saute bass for 2 minutes on one side, flip and continue cooking for 1 minute. Remove from pan, cover and keep warm.

Meanwhile, melt remaining butter in skillet and add green onions. Cook 2 minutes over medium heat. Add vermouth and bring to a boil and boil until reduced to a glaze, about 5 minutes. Add stock, pepper corns and thyme and boil about 10 minutes or until reduced to about 1/2 cup of liquid.

Whisk in mustard, remove from heat, stir in cream and season with salt and pepper, if desired. Simmer until sauce thickens slightly. Pour over bass and enjoy.

Chef's note: If you think this recipe is good with bass, try it with other fish or even pork tenderloins sliced real thin.

Toss pasta, vegetables for quick summer supper

See related article on Taste front.

CAPELLINI POMODORO
4 cloves garlic, minced
2 pounds plum tomatoes, seeded and diced
1 ounce fresh basil leaves, minced
1/2 cup extra virgin olive oil
3 ounces Parmesan cheese, freshly grated
12 ounces angel hair pasta, cooked
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
Cook pasta according to package instructions. Keep warm. Meanwhile, mince garlic and basil. Set aside. Seed and dice tomatoes. Grate Parmesan cheese. Heat olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Add garlic and cook until it turns white. Add tomatoes and pepper and heat through, stirring constantly, about 2 to 3 minutes. Tomatoes should not lose their shape. Remove from heat. Transfer hot, cooked pasta into a large bowl. Toss pasta gently with tomato mixture, basil and half the Parmesan cheese. Serve immediately and pass remaining cheese.

Recipe provided by The Olive Garden. Although this is a warm dish, it is a great summer main course because of its simplicity.

HEART SMART PASTA SALAD
1 pound rotini pasta
Boiling water for cooking pasta according to package instructions and 1/4 cup boiling water for cooking broccoli
8 ounces fresh mushrooms
1 cup broccoli florets

3 cups ice water for cooling broccoli
1 green pepper, seeded and diced
1 sweet red bell pepper, seeded and diced
2 green onions, including green tops, diced
1/2 cup olive oil
1/4 cup red wine vinegar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
1 teaspoon dried tarragon or dried oregano (or 1 tablespoon of either herb fresh)
16 cherry tomatoes, halved

Cook pasta al dente according to package instructions, eliminating any salt called for in the directions. While pasta is cooking, clean and slice mushrooms. Place in a non-stick skillet over medium heat and saute until mushrooms are tender and give up their liquid, about five minutes. Drain well and set aside. Either steam or microwave broccoli and once cooked plunge into ice water. Drain pasta and let cool 5 minutes. Mix pasta, mushrooms, broccoli, green and red peppers and onion in a large serving bowl. Set aside in refrigerator.

In a covered jar, combine oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, parsley, tarragon or oregano and shake well. Pour dressing over pasta-vegetable mixture and toss well. Chill about three hours before serving. Just before serving, add tomatoes. Makes 11 or 12 cups.

GRILLED CHICKEN PASTA SALAD
12 ounces pasta
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup olive oil
3 cloves garlic, crushed
2 tablespoons basil
2 tablespoons oregano
1 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 grilled chicken breast, boneless and skinless
1 zucchini, sliced 1/4-inch thick
1 summer squash, sliced 1/4-inch thick
2 cup thin sliced red onion
1 cup thin sliced red bell pepper
2 Roma tomatoes chopped
6 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
4 tablespoons chopped Italian

parsley, fresh
Cook pasta in 4 quarts of boiling water. Put two tablespoons of salt in the boiling water with pasta to prevent sticking. Cook pasta until al dente, about 4 minutes. Drain, rinse with cool water, toss with 2 tablespoons oil and refrigerate. Mix 1/4 cup olive oil, 1 clove garlic, 1 tablespoon basil, 1 teaspoon oregano and 1/2 teaspoon black pepper.

Pat chicken breast, zucchini and summer squash with oil mixture; grill (vegetables should only stay on the grill about 1 minute). Cook chicken into 2-inch strips, combine with remaining vegetables and place over pasta.

Combine remaining olive oil, garlic, spices and vinegar and pour over salad; toss lightly. Chill and serve. Serves 4.

Summery dishes showcase season's fresh vegetables

Here are some more summer pasta recipes to try.

SEAFOOD VEGETABLE PASTA SALAD
8 ounces uncooked spaghetti or vermicelli
2 pounds shrimp and/or scallops, cooked
1/2 cup coarsely chopped water chestnuts
1/4 cup snipped dill or parsley
2 medium carrots, shredded
10 ounces asparagus, blanched and cut into 2-inch pieces Break spaghetti or vermicelli into halves. Cook as directed on package without added fat or salt; drain. Rinse in cold water, drain. Prepare Ginger Dressing (see below). Toss dressing, spaghetti, seafood and asparagus in large bowl.

GINGER DRESSING
1/2 cup non-fat mayonnaise
1/2 cup plain non-fat yogurt
1 tablespoon light soy sauce
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
Dash of red pepper sauce
Mix ingredients together in small bowl.

HeartSmart recipe courtesy of Faye Fitzgerald.

RAVIOLETTI IN MUSHROOM-WALNUT CREAM SAUCE
12 ounces ravioli or tortelli, tri-colored
2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
8 ounces mushrooms, sliced
1/4 cup walnuts, chopped
1/4 cup heavy whipping cream
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
2 cups freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Cook pasta according to package directions. Meanwhile, heat olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Saute mushrooms and walnuts until mushrooms are golden. Add heavy cream and cook stirring frequently for 5 minutes until slightly thickened.

Turn heat to warm, and when cream stops simmering, add pepper and Parmesan, and stir until sauce is smooth. Do not boil. Drain pasta and place on a warmed platter or individual serving plates. Pour sauce over pasta and serve immediately. Serves 4 as an appetizer.

Recipe from The Olive Garden Italian Restaurant.

LINGUINI WITH MIXED SWEET PEPPERS
16 ounces fresh Olive Garden

linguini pasta or 12 ounces dried pasta
1 cup red bell peppers, cut 1- by 1-inch
1 cup yellow bell peppers, cut 1- by 1-inch
1 cup tomatoes, preferably plum type, seeded, jelly removed, cut 1- by 1-inch
4 medium garlic cloves, peeled and finely chopped
4 tablespoons fresh basil, finely chopped or 1 teaspoon dried basil
3 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
1/2 cup Parmesan cheese, freshly grated

Preheat two quarts of lightly salted water in a pan to a slow boil. Preheat a heavy skillet on medium heat, add olive oil and saute garlic until just white. Add all ingredients except pasta and Parmesan to the saute pan, blend well with vegetables. Add salt and fresh ground pepper to taste and serve.

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN

Sunscreens may not yet be available in pill form, but new research indicates that vitamin intake may well reduce the risk for the most common form of skin cancer. Specifically, a study presented at the American Society of Preventive Oncology showed that getting more than 100 international units (I.U.) of vitamin E daily was linked to a 70 percent drop in the risk of developing basal cell carcinoma. The survey of the vitamin-taking habits of 131 people with basal cell carcinoma also revealed that daily consumption of 5,000 I.U. of vitamin A cut the risk of this type of skin cancer by 90 percent. In fact, the study showed that vitamin supplementation of any type was associated with a 60 percent reduction in skin cancer risk.

With skin cancer on the rise, this arm ourselves as best we can against the harmful rays of the sun. Gone are the glory days of sunning ourselves for the sake of a tan. Come on into the GOOD FOOD CO. We are Michigan's largest natural food supermarket. Along with our fine food products we offer an array of vitamins and supplements. Give us a try—we offer great food at a great price! Savor a special steak duo from your grill

Spicy steak: Savor summer with steaks on the grill. Steak prices are down, and enjoyment is up when Peppery T-Bone Steak and Chili Corn are on the menu.

Savoring a steak grilled to perfection is one of the quintessential joys of summer dining. While the marriage of beef and the charcoal grill is a happy one, today's "backyard barbecuers" have discovered many more grilling options — even for the basics like T-Bone and top loin.

This summer when beef steaks are at their best price in years, experiment with some new ways to prepare them.

For example, go steak and corn on the cob one better. Grill T-bones and corn side-by-side and serve with a drizzle of zesty chili butter. The corn needs to soak in water about 30 minutes prior to grilling to help keep it tender and moist, but it's worth the 30-minute wait. Soak the corn while the coals are heating.

Grill steaks over medium coals to make sure they cook evenly. Many a backyard chef has had the experience of the coals being too hot — a steak can char on the outside before the inside is cooked. Another tip for foolproof grilling — brush plates on during the last few minutes of grilling as in Mexican Barbecued Steaks. This way, the steaks get the full flavor without burning the glaze.

While prices are low, stock up and fill the freezer. Properly stored, steaks can be frozen up to one year. Steaks should be wrapped and tightly sealed in heavy-duty aluminum foil or plastic freezer bags. You can help prevent freezer burn by pressing out as much air as possible from the package. Label each package with the name of the cut, the weight or number of servings, and the date. Freeze at 0 degrees F up to 12 months.

Recipes from the Test Kitchens of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

PEPPERY T-BONE STEAKS AND CHILI CORN

2 well-trimmed beef T-bone or Porterhouse steaks, cut 1-inch thick
4 ears fresh sweet corn, in husks
1 to 2 cloves garlic, crushed
1/2 teaspoon coarse ground black pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1/4 teaspoon ground cumin

Pull back corn husks from each ear of corn leaving husks attached to base. Remove corn silk. Fold husks back around corn; tie at end of each ear with string or strip of one of the outside corn husks. Soak corn in cold water 30 minutes. Remove corn from water; place on grid over medium coals. Grill 20 minutes or until tender, turning often. Meanwhile combine garlic and pepper; rub into both sides of beef steaks. Place steaks on grid 15 minutes before corn is done. Grill approximately 10 to 14 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness, turning once. Meanwhile in small bowl, combine butter, chili powder and cumin; mix until blended. Remove bone; carve steaks crosswise into thick slices. Serve with corn and seasoned butter. Makes 4 servings.

Recipe may also be prepared using beef top sirloin or sirloin steak; cut 1-inch thick; cook steak approximately 16 to 20 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness.

MEXICAN BARBECUED STEAKS

4 boneless beef top loin or rib eye steak, cut 1-inch thick
Glaze:
1/2 cup mild or medium prepared salsa
1/4 cup ketchup
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard

In small bowl, combine glaze ingredients; mix until blended. Reserve 1/2. Place beef steaks on grid over medium coals. Grill 12 to 16 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness, turning once. Brush both sides of steaks with remaining glaze during last 4 to 5 minutes of grilling time. Trim fat from steaks. Carve steaks crosswise into thick slices. Serve with reserved glaze. Makes 4 servings.

Pick your tomatoes for flavor

Choosing the right tomato for the right recipe can make a difference between a good dish and a great one, according to Jim Roach, general manager of the newly opened Dearborn Olive Garden on Ford Road near the Southfield Freeway. "Once you know a little about the common tomato types, you can select — and even inter-change — tomatoes to create new or unusual effects in summer dishes."

Commonly classified as a vegetable, the tomato is actually a fruit. According to Roach, the four tomatoes most commonly used for cooking are Beefsteak, cherry, Italian plum and Italian pear.

Beefsteak tomatoes are the largest, generally weighing more than a pound. They are sweet, with little acidity. These are most commonly used cut into wedges for salads; stuffed and baked; or simply sliced to complement a sandwich or burger, said Roach.

Cherry tomatoes, typically an inch or less in diameter, have smooth skins and tend to be sweeter than larger hybrids. Available year-round, they can be used for garnishes, eaten raw or baked.

LINDA BACHRACK

Sun soothers will aid summer skin

It seems that the message finally sunk in — all the way into the deepest layers of our epidermis. Even the die-hard sun addicts are worshipping beneath wide-brimmed hats and under shades layers of SPF 30. Those who baked on beaches or in lawn chairs or on beds in tanning salons are now aware of the risks — skin cancer and irreversible skin damage.

But an occasional day in the sun is too alluring to give up altogether. Though pale is fashionable, the feel of warm rays on our skin is energizing, especially after a cold, gloomy winter.

If you're feeling a bit parched and a little overexposed after a day in the garden or on the lake, the following "sun soothers" should help revitalize your body and your spirit.

Fun with fragrance

On the hottest summer days, a refreshing scent is as welcome as a cool breeze. Mimosa Pour Moi is the favorite of Linda Bloom of Bloomfield Hills. "The fragrance is exquisite," says Bloom of the L'Artrian Parfumeur scent from the French Riviera. Available at Lori Karbal et al, 554 N. Woodward in Birmingham ($70).

Lori Karbal, the owner of the skin care boutique that bears her name, recommends several products to nourish sun-dried skin. Kneipp's Camomile Bath Oil ($11) soothes and heals the skin while you languish in a relaxing tub. La Nature pamperers with its vanilla flower bath soak ($34), and Kiehl's Creme de Corps ($21.95) is a rich all-over moisturizer, the absolute best according to my teenage daughter who uses it every day.

For the lowdown on the entire which time-tested product line, stop by Lori Karbal 2-6 p.m. July 19. Representatives will be available to answer questions and demonstrate products.

Stephanie Burstein, a sophomore at the University of Michigan, didn't hesitate when asked her favorite sun-soother. "I love Seascape sea salts," she said. This revitalizer is almost as good as a day at the beach ($30). Also at Lori Karbal.

Help on the way
A few more must-haves: French Shea Butter for blistered lips ($4.50), pure Rosewater ($19) and Ophelia bath oil by Kias Me in the Garden, a luscious combination of vanilla and magnolia ($18). Tiffany & Co. created its Spa Collection this summer to de-stress your skin, hair and body with botanically based treatments. The clean, fresh floral fragrance is available in a Smoothing Body Scrub, Hydrating Body Milk, Purifying Body Soap, Conditioning Shampoo and Refreshing Body Mist, at the Somerset Collection in Troy, $15-$40.

Bloomie's Face and Body, 27859 Orchard Lake Rd. in Farmington Hills, offers a variety of services for summer-weary souls. Their exclusive Facial Firming Treatment ($50) refines skin tone, softens and diminishes lines and wrinkles and stimulates cellular renewal. "It's a great first step to help recover from sun damage," says owner Anita McCachren.

The Body Scrub ($65) is perfect for after vacation, as it removes dead cells, then moisturizes the skin with collagen and essential oils.

Facials soothe
Cecilia Allen of Bloomfield Hills has indulged in a monthly facial ($50) at Bloomie's for the past four years. "It makes all the difference in my dry skin," she says. "Summer is so hard on my face. Before I started the deep moisturizing facials, I had itchy, flaky skin."

Facialist Amy Regal, recommending two essentials from her product line — Aupfenfalten Balm cream from Germany ($38) and Dr. Renaud's Hydrafix, a moisturizer with aloe that doubles as a makeup fixative. Try refrigerating the Hydrafix for an icy sunburn cooler.

Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. You can leave her column ideas at 953-2047, mailbox 1895, or fax them to her at 644-1314.

Archer: City is open for retail business

More than 400 retailers showed up at the Ritz Carlton to hear Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer's hopes for a retail resurgence in Detroit. He got the nod from suburban developers who thanked him for making their jobs easier.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

"Detroit is open for business," Mayor Dennis Archer told a room packed with retail brokers, leasing agents, shopping center managers, marketing directors, security officials, architects, planners and bankers. "We need you in the city of Detroit."

Archer was the guest speaker at the annual Michigan Idea Exchange sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers at the Ritz Carlton in Dearborn, July 12.

"If you give us a fair, objective view," Archer told retail developers.

"You'll see things are changing... Police are out on the streets, neighborhoods. Safety and security is being restored. A pro-business team is working to expedite economic development matters. A task force is analyzing our licensing procedures, building permits and other city regulations. We're prepared to implement their recommendations. We want you to make a profit in Detroit."

Archer said the results of a land use study due in August should produce a blueprint of what the city should look like along the way.

Retailers study business stats at meeting

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Building permit numbers, buying power statistics, and consumer confidence ratings are the topics when retailers and developers get together.

Here are a few of the facts they shared during roundtable discussions and leasing confabs at a recent International Council of Shopping Centers meeting.

■ The metro-Detroit (seven county) area is the 7th most populated market in the United States.

■ The average household income in Detroit is $39,940. It's $48,030 in Oakland County. It's $33,290 in the U.S. (The metro-Detroit wages are higher due to the auto industry and its related manufacturing companies.)

■ Oakland County alone, has the buying power of 16 states. (That's the nation's smallest states.)

■ Most residents agree that the metro-Detroit suburb's are over-retailed. Farmington Hills, for example, has about 60,000 residents and 1.5 million square feet of retail space. That's 25-feet of retail space per person.

■ Conversely, the city of Detroit is considered to be under-retailed with about 1 million residents and only 2.5 million square feet of retail space. That's 2.5 feet of retail space per person.

■ Michigan ranks 9th in the nation in terms of the most new residential construction.

■ This is the retail decade of the Big Box User. Category superstores are opening around major shopping centers, expanding in regional markets across the country.

■ There are 38,466 shopping centers throughout the U.S. — a 15-fold increase over 30 years ago.

■ In 1992, 10 million people worked in America's retail industry.

Lane Davis puts her spin on classic designs

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

At the ripe old age of "early 30-something," Lane Davis of Springfield, Arkansas is embarking on her third, or is it fourth career?

Her private label fashions are sold in upscale boutiques across the country from a workroom staffed by 16 veteran tailors in Los Angeles. Locally, Roz and Sherm carries the Lane Davis Collection at Maple and Telegraph in Bloomfield Hills.

Davis came to town recently to host a fall trunk show, taking some time to talk about her jetsetting lifestyle and gorgeous fashions.

She is one of two daughters of Charles Davis, who has served Arkansas as a mayor, state representative and judge. Her good looks and size 4 figure landed her a lucrative modeling career in Dallas, but after graduating from the University of Arkansas, she headed to New York to study acting with Geraldine Page and Shelley Winters.

"I also worked in the city as an upscale real estate broker," she explained. "My boyfriend at the time was selling international properties so I got the opportunity to spend time in both Italy and France. There I met people like Valentino, Imran, and I became familiar with classic European craftsmanship. It is this type of fashion quality I have now in my own company."

Designing clothing comes easy to Davis who said she has been doodling designs since childhood. She moved to L.A. and became an apprentice to Manual fashion design to the stars (read Elvis Presley, Dwight Yoakum, Sylvester Stallone, The Beatles and Ronald Reagan) for over 37 years. Her designs developed a small, but exclusive clientele which brought her to the attention of John Paul DeJoria, the owner of Paul Mitchell hair products.

DeJoria offered to become a business partner after he got to know Davis' design plans and how hard work she was.

Davis and DeJoria took over the business of fashion designer Manuel, who moved to Nashville. They hired his tailors and built a workroom and luxurious studio.

Pulling out her fall collection at Roz and Sherm, Davis highlights the European craftsmanship behind each garment.

"Notice the hand-sewn Austrian crystal on this lapel," she says with motherly pride. "The material behind it is lightweight wool. This blazer can be worn all year long. It fits right over this dress and these slacks."

MALLS & MAINSTREETS

RETAIL DETAILS

Retail Details features the latest openings, closings, new merchandise lines, personnel changes and other news around the Malls & Mainstreets community. Mail submissions to: Retail Details, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 8005 E. Maple, Birmingham, 48009. Or fax them to (810) 644-1314.

JACOBSON'S MASSAGES

Jacobson's Salons now offer 30-minute Shiatsu massages for $25. In central merchants, a scalp massage is $5, a scalp and neck massage is $15, and the works, everything from the shoulders up, is $25.

According to the history of Shiatsu, the body's energy, "Ki," flows in central meridians through the body. This flow can be blocked at the nerve points, "Tsubo." By massaging correctly at these points, energy flows again to promote overall well being.

Additionally, two other special treatments are available with a massage, a light conditioning treatment and a intensive heat treatment.

SCHOOL CLOTHES

Hoping to get a jump on the back-to-school market, The Children's Place offers a "New Traditions Collection" at Twelve Oaks, Oakland Mall, Lakeside and Fairlane Town Center. The collection features kids' riding pants and barn jackets in brilliant colors.

WONDERLAND STAR

Greg Zweng was named Employee of the Month in May at the Wonderland Mall in Livonia. After proving his abilities during an internship from the November 1993, Greg was hired in June 1994 as an interior maintenance custodian. He was nominated by his supervisor for going beyond the call of duty during promotional set-ups, and for keeping the mall commons areas clean.

NEW AT LAUREL PARK

Rita Camero & One Hour Place in Livonia. The store offers lenses, flashes, batteries, film, photo albums, and of course, cameras. Dana Reams manages the shop.

A Disney Store is under construction at the shopping center with a fall opening planned. M-Den, formerly The Rival, opened June 30. The M-Den carries a selection of University of Michigan and Michigan State paraphernalia from sweatshirts to tiffany lamps and marble bookends. The shop is managed by Mark and Lisa Hirth.

The grand opening date for Parisian Department Store at Laurel Park Place is Monday, Aug. 1.

TOY GUIDE

Toys R Us has published a directory of toys evaluated by experts for "differently-abled" children. The guides are available in Toys R Us stores, free to interested shoppers. Co-authored by The National Parent Network on Disabilities, the guide is a resource to assist caring adults in selecting "off the shelf" toys for special children.

The guide has over 20 pages filled with more than 75 toys, each ability-coded for differently abled children. All toys meet the standards set by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. They have also been professionally tested by children with disabilities.

THE SALE

Mark McClellan owner of The Tie Man on Five Mile east of Middlebelt in Livonia, has reduced the price on all ties through July. The Tie Man has over 500 ties on display including cartoon, occupational, hand painted and sports designs.

HUDSON'S GRANT

On behalf of Hudson's, the Oakland Mall store manager Jean Sinclair recently presented several checks to benefit local non-profit programs. A check for $18,000 was awarded to support student musician performance during the Montreux Jazz Festival, a check for $25,000 was presented to Channel 56 to support the "Great Performances" series, and a $4,500 grant was awarded to the Arab-American and Chaldean Council to sponsor a high school drop out program.

LAUDER PROGRAM

Estee Lauder announced that it is the first cosmetic company to measure skin improvements with its multiple skin care products used together. In the company's "Power of Three" skin support system, (Fruition Triple Re-Activating Complex, Advanced Night Repair and an appropriate moisturizer) are integrated in a daily regimen. A three fold increase in skin is achieved according to clinical test results with improvement of up to 54-percent in some cases.

Fall traditions: When the weather gets chilly and the school bells ring, The Children's Place offers a new collection of barn jackets, plaid jumpers, vests and jeans.

"This blazer has hand-embroidered silk velvet trim. It travels beautifully, just what you'd expect from a couture separate."

With prices of $1,000 and $1,200 the blazers are investment pieces. Other items in the fall collection run between $145-$575.

Davis ignores the ups and downs of fast fashion, focusing on classic silhouettes that provide timeless elegance for her clients. She shows her flair in colors, offering midnight navy, ivory, cherry red, aubergine and cinnamon for the new season.

"And the styles can be worn by anyone," she insisted. "I design for Cher who is a size 4, and Winona Ryder who wears a size 18."

To relax, Davis, a country girl at heart, heads home to spend time with friends and family in Arkansas. She is single. She enjoys walking everyday for exercise.

"I'm really putting in lots of hours and wearing lots of hats right now to get this two-year-old business going," she said. "Eventually, I'd like to give American women products with the Old World quality that European women enjoy."

Archer said the results of a land use study due in August should produce a blueprint of what the city should look like along the waterfront into the neighborhoods. He said a lack of plans to shop in the city is a major concern, especially in the downtown area.

"Detroiters spend $3.6 billion inside the city annually, and $4 billion outside the city," he quoted statistics. "If I had money to invest in retail development, I'd invest in Detroit."

Removing road blocks

Addressing other concerns, Archer said he would like to see tax breaks to build up a tax base. He said the city is working with the Department of Natural Resources to win a reprieve from what he considers standards too high on environmental contamination sites in the city "that expect us to restore the soil to a pristine quality before the French arrived."

In the fall Archer said he would look at education in the city with an eye on creating a workforce that will support and serve new business. Archer said he would continue to push the state legislation for support for a Tiger Stadium within the city, and has filed an application for $100 million in federal aid through the Empowerment Zone program.

A top priority of his DART force (Development Assistance Response Team) is to expedite building inspections and work with developers to find vacant land and buildings to improve upon. He would support gambling in the city only if it were approved by ballot and under some controls by the mayor and city council.

Following his speech, a developer came forth to offer a testimonial to the cooperation he's received from the city recently. James Stokes of CB Commercial based in Southfield also supported the mayor's claims to a city with a new business attitude. "You'd get the runaround before," Stokes said. "You'd be sent department to department — a real zig-zag producing nothing. Now everything is streamlined. Someone shepherd's you through the system to get you what you need, answers, maps, documents and cooperation."

Stokes said he's currently representing House Quarters which is looking at sites for a superstore within the city of Detroit. Denny Moore vice president of leasing with Robert Alkens & Associates of Troy, owners of Meadowbrook Village Mall in Rochester Hills, among other properties, said the mayor's plans "would only benefit everybody."

"It was a great speech, professional. What we like to hear," he said.

Retailers from page 5B

In 1992, U.S. retail sales generated $750 billion dollars, or 56-percent of non-automotive sales. In a typical month, 177 million adults shop at shopping centers

MONDAY, JULY 18, 1994

CANTON
SPORTS
SCENE*Wolverine champs

The '82 Michigan Wolves won the Under-12 division of the Wolverine Soccer Tournament on July 10.

The Wolves, coached by Don Gemmell and Julius Pachy, outscored opponents 17-1 in their first three games. In the fourth game, the Wolves beat the NWO Tourney, an all-star team from Ohio, by a 2-1 margin. In the final, the Wolves won a 1-0 decision against the Fraser Strikers on Byron Vince's goal late in the first half.

Playing for the Wolves were Brandon Bethell, Curt Bonn, Jeff Budd, Tommy Eller, Matthew Epacs, Tim Haffey, Rob Nerenz, Frank Raburn, Josh Ray, Ryan Rzepka, Byron Vince, Tony Wampler, Michael White, Mark Willoughby and goalkeeper Joe Zawacki.

The Wolves also captured the Little Caesars Division II championship this spring with a 7-1-1 record.

Roadrunner run

Doug Kurtis' baby is having its 11th birthday party Saturday night in Northville. His baby, of course, is the annual Redford Roadrunner Classic.

"It was born in my basement 11 years ago, so yeah, I have always considered this run to be my baby," said Kurtis, who owns national marathon records for most sub-2:20.0 runs (74) and wins (37).

Kurtis and the rest of the Redford Roadrunners will be on hand Saturday to help organize the funning and running.

The Classic is for all levels of runners. There is the junior classic one-mile fun run/walk and the Classic 8K race for runners, race-walkers and wheelers. The race-walkers will be timed for the first time.

The 8K race costs $13, the others $8. Proceeds will benefit the Northville High School Scholarship Fund.

The race will begin on Main Street in Northville and finish at the Community Center. A party featuring a disc jockey and dancing will commence after the race. To attend the party alone costs $8.

For registration information, call Running Fit, 347-4949.

Wanted: Female golfers

The Foxy Lady Golf Classic is searching for women who want to tee off against breast cancer.

The third annual Classic, sponsored by the Detroit chapter of Eastern Airlines Silverliners, will be at Tanglewood Golf and Country Club in South Lyon Thursday, Aug. 11. Proceeds support the Michigan Cancer Foundation's breast cancer research, education and prosthesis development programs.

Cost for the Classic is $90 per person, and it includes golf and cart, breakfast, lunch and golfing contests throughout the day.

For information, call Beverly Wolfe at (810) 348-2454.

Softball registration

Canton Softball Center is accepting men's teams for its summer morning league. The season begins Monday, July 18. Double-headers are played 9:30 and 10:40 on Mondays. The 20-game season costs $495 per team plus umpire and game fees.

Call Bob at 483-5600.

Only one player returns to Schoolcraft College's volleyball team, which suffered through its worst season in Tom Teeters' coaching tenure last year. Among those chosen to rebuild the program are some familiar faces.

There are a couple of things one should know about Schoolcraft College's volleyball team:

■ Because Schoolcraft is a junior college, it is constantly changing. The lineup is never the same from year to year.

■ And with Tom Teeters as coach, the Lady Ocelots can never be counted on.

SC endured its worst season since Teeters became coach (again) in 1985. The Ocelots were 6-3 in NAIA Region 12 Eastern Conference play — suffering more conference losses last year than they had in Teeters' previous eight.

The major reason was the ineligibility of starters

Cornerstones: Schoolcraft College has been an NJCAA power for the past decade, and coach Tom Teeters believes Jamey Viau (above) from Salem and Janet Zabivnik (right) from Canton could help keep the Ocelots on top.

Piece by piece

A new cast must lead SC's return to prominence

Danielle Pfeffer and Kristen Barnes, which went undiscovered until the season was one-third over. That resulted in the forfeiture of some wins and cast a gloom over the remainder of the season.

Of course, it's worth noting that most coaches would savor a "gloom" similar to this — a 28-19 final record, 28-16 against NJCAA foes.

And yet, typically, Teeters is looking for something more this season. And it hardly matters that all but one of last year's players is gone.

"Adjusting, rebuilding, adding to... 'rebuilding' is an overused cliché for a junior college," the SC coach said.

The only returnee is Livonia Churchill graduate Julie Campau, a 5-foot-9 sophomore who played part time last season.

Everyone else is new — and, according to Teeters, the outlook isn't so dreary.

"Our size isn't bad, and our speed is represented by girls like (Shannon) Gottschalk, (Anne) Faba, (Jannel) Hemme, (Megan) Heslip and (Janet) Zabivnik," he said.

The somewhat smaller, more athletic teams are usually Teeters' best. The team he guided to the NJCAA national championship in 1988 did not have a starter over 5-10.

This team has some size, some quickness, some versatility, and — according to Teeters — potential. His first objective is finding a setter; he has a couple of candidates. Problem is, neither was a setter in high school.

Gottschalk, a 5-9 transfer from Henry Ford CC (and Clinton High School), is one possibility; Zabivnik, 5-5 from Plymouth Canton, is another.

Teeters sees Gottschalk as an all-around performer of exceptional ability. "I think we could play her anywhere," he said. "And she's a very good setter."

Zabivnik is "the fastest player we've got," Teeters said. "We're looking for her to really step in for defense." Zabivnik was an outstanding defensive player and outside hitter at Canton; Teeters believes she could add setting to her list of skills.

Hemme is a 5-9 transfer from Michigan State; she graduated from Livonia Ladywood in '92 and enrolled at MSU, but did not play there. "She was one of the unsung heroes on that Ladywood team," Teeters said. "She makes fantastic digs. Defense and blocking are her forte."

Heslip, 5-8 from Pontiac Oakland Catholic, boasts a "consistent arm swing and a good jump." Being left-handed helps, too.

And Faba, one of two Teeters' recruits from Harper Woods Regina, is a 5-7 leaper. "She has a great jump," said Teeters, "and a good arm swing. I think she's capable of playing very good defense. There's a lot of undeveloped potential there."

Those five account for just half of Teeters' recruiting class. There's also Jamey Viau, 5-8 from Plymouth Salem, whom Teeters thought "was Salem's top outside hitter. She was good even when they lost. She was their most consistent player — and very coachable."

And Vicki Rohrhaft, 5-10 from Wayne Memorial and another Henry Ford CC transfer. Rohrhaft sat out last year, so it may take some time for her to get into shape. "In high school, she had a good spin serve," said Teeters. "She has good height, good reach... she might be able to help."

Others Teeters has signed who could be of immediate help are Sarah McDowell, 5-11 from St. Clair Shores Lakeview, the "best player on a very weak team. Sarah's a sponge, she learns a lot. And she's fast, mobile, and she has good upper-body strength."

And Kendy Newman, 5-10 from Ida, was recruited by Ida junior varsity coach Nancy Ehlert, who played for Teeters. The SC coach compared Newman to Barnes: "She's very strong, and she's a better passer, better server (than Barnes)," he said. They need to work on her footwork before counting on her.

Then there's Brook Galichansky, 6-1 from Regina. Teeters ranks her as one of five candidates to fill the vacancy at middle-blocker, but she needs work on her speed and jumping ability first.

Even with all the losses, considering the variety of players he's recruited, one might believe Teeters is happy with his team.

Think again. "I'm never happy with it," he said. "I always see someone better."

"I see things we can make use of. I just hope we can get the right combination of size, strength and speed to take advantage of those skills."

SC officially opens training camp Aug. 8. The season starts at Concordia College Sept. 6.

A late rally sparks Wolverines — again

It appears certain the Wolverines' fate will be decided in stretch runs.

An early flurry in the third period of Thursday's Metro Summer Hockey League game put the Wildcats in front, 11-9 with six minutes left. But the Wolverines weren't finished; they netted five goals in the last 5:34, including both the game-winner and an insurance score in the final :32, to post a 14-12 victory at Plymouth Ice Arena.

Tony Guzzo was the offensive star, pouring in six goals and assisting on two others. Jim Hubenschmidt added three goals and two assists, Scott Lock contributed two goals and six assists, Eric Bilyeu had two goals and two assists, Mike Kneiding had a goal and four assists, and Paul Schloss collected four assists.

The Wildcats got four goals from Jeff Mitchell, two goals and four assists from James Mitchell, two goals and an assist from Brady Priest, two goals from Matt Nihrenz, and a goal and two assists from both Bobby Davis and Ian Crockford. Dale

HOCKEY

Domas and Rick Lance chipped in with two assists each.

Three of the Wolverines four wins (against two losses) have resulted from come-from-behind efforts in the final period. The Wildcats slipped to 4-3.

■ SPARTANS 13, HUSKIES 6: The Spartans' eight-goal avalanche in the second period buried the Huskies Wednesday at Plymouth.

Vic Decina scored three goals and assisted on three others in the decisive 8-1 second-period assault to lead the Spartans (2-2-1). Kris Kane and Bob Nagy contributed two goals and two assists to the Spartan victory, and Tony Migliaccio had two goals and an assist.

Paolo Decina also scored twice. Steve Nelson had a goal and three assists, Dave Bevil had a goal and an assist, and Matthew Surowiec and Tim McConnell each had two assists.

For the Huskies (1-5), Damon Whitten had a goal and two assists, and Chris Smith, Tom Cole and Josh Wiegand each had a goal and an assist. Jason Schneider and James Wheaton also scored goals; Rich Kelly had two assists.

Gary Rye was in goal for the Spartans; Kris Kubalak was in the nets for the Huskies.

■ BULLDOGS 7, REDSKINS 1: Marc Chiapelli continued his scoring assault for the Bulldogs, notching three goals and an assist, to ignite the offense Wednesday against the winless Redskins at Plymouth.

The 'Dogs, behind the strong goaltending of Shawn Greene and Brian Guillery, built a 7-0 lead after two periods and coasted to their Bakes Division-leading fifth win (with one loss). Bobby Jones added two goals and two assists to the offensive output, and Patrick Hultman had a goal and an assist.

Steve Jones contributed two assists. Dustin Sventy and Jody Kaufman also scored goals for the 'Dogs.

Jack McCoy netted the Redskins' only goal, midway through the final period. Jeff Beasley and Stephen Trachteaud split time in goal for the 'Skins.

■ WILDCATS 14, HUSKIES 6: A third-period surge carried the Wildcats to a lopsided victory over the Huskies Tuesday at Plymouth.

James Mitchell netted four goals for the winners, three coming in their 7-1 third period. Matt Nihrenz, Brady Priest, Ian Crockford and Ben Blackwood each added two goals; Kevin Berger (Livonia Stevenson) and Rick Lance scored once apiece. Jeff Mitchell had five assists for the Wildcats, with Bobby Davis getting three and Priest, Blackwood, Lance, Matt Capaldi and Tyler Brush adding two apiece.

Dominic Catanzarite (Livonia Franklin), Josh Wiegand, Frank Grapey, Chris Smith and James Wheaton each scored a goal for the Huskies. Joe Sellers (Plymouth/Ohio State) had two assists.

'America's Junior Miss' doesn't have to shine in a suit

By SARA BENNETT

"Unfortunately, a majority of the general public's perception is kind of stuck back in the '50s," Daniel Funk says. "And whenever they hear about or see an event like this, they kind of have a stereotypical locked-in sensibility about what it is."

To what could Funk possibly be referring? Beauty pageants, of course!

The days of crowning smiling airheads are behind us, for the most part, and "America's Junior Miss," airing live Saturday, July 23, on NBC, is helping to keep the past where it belongs.

Notice that the could-be offensive word is not in the title?

"Pageant" isn't really even the right word," says Funk, co-executive producer. "I think that's a holdover."

The event, which has survived to see its 37th year despite an eight-year absence from television, still draws 50 attractive girls — that aspect will never change. But they're doing more with their talent, and they're competing for something far more worthwhile than a tiara.

"The girls who participate (all high-school seniors) in this (are there) for a single reason," Funk says. "And that is scholarships. There aren't as many scholarship opportunities nationwide for young women as there are for young men. It's a way for this program to offer these young women some aid and some assistance to help them reach, in many cases, very ambitious career goals."

One pageant winner off to an outstanding career start is former Miss America 1993, Leanza Cornett, co-host of "America's Junior Miss."

"I think the level of importance (of pageants) is certainly changing," Cornett says. "For me, it's what is still helping me get through college, and helped me start college three years ago. If it's a pageant that offers scholarship money, it can be very important."

Cornett, a reporter and substitute host for the syndicated "Entertainment Tonight," believes "the scholarship aspect of the Miss America Organization somehow gets lost in the age (of the contestants)," whereas "America's Junior Miss" makes the $30,000 first-prize scholarship the focus.

The contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, creative and performing arts, presence and composure and personal interviews. Missing from the event, and making it seem less like a 1950s relic, are the swimsuit and evening gown competitions.

Funk describes the girls as "well-rounded," and to bring the event into the 1990s, another category has the girls creating "their own workout routine. They were all given the same piece of music, and it's up to them to come down to Mobile (Ala.) prepared with a routine, which involves a lot on their part, (using) their creativity and their dedication."

Along with Cornett, 21-year-old Brian Austin Green ("Beverly Hills, 90210") serves as co-host — with a little less pageant experience than Cornett.

"Just because it's live, I'm a little bit nervous about it," he admits. "There's no room for error. I may just get up there and have no problem at all. Then again I may get up and get completely tongue-twisted and never work again. It could go either way."

Cornett, who interviewed Green a few months ago for a "Beverly Hills, 90210" segment that aired on "E.T.," isn't worried at all.

"The rapport between us, the chemistry, is really there," she says. "He has a wonderful sense of humor. I think it will be a lot of fun."

Remembering the entertainment aspect of the show, the co-hosts must keep the audience engaged. Cornett, a mature 23, fills the straightforward role. She's cool and composed on camera. Green's outgoing, affable demeanor should mesh nicely.

"We hope it will have a much more contemporary, 'hipper' feel to it so people will feel like it's a program of now," Funk says. "We don't want them to feel as though they're watching a program that was shot in the '50s."

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

There is a good possibility you will have to fight for what you believe in. Make inquiries to learn more about a new person in your life.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

There may be an opportunity to travel in your near future, but the trip may not be an easy one. A change in plans may leave you wondering what is going on.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Summon every bit of patience you have to get through this time of difficulty. You will be amazed by the results of your hard work.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

An important message is on the way, and you must listen carefully. It is important that you be discreet when telling something in confidence.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

There will be a chance to start over in certain areas of your life, but it will not be the easiest thing you have ever done. Move slowly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

There will be cause for celebration and much happiness in your life. Share your ideas and dreams for the future with close friends.

Goodwill Games doubly exposed on ABC, TBS

BY SARA BENNETT

Viewers unfamiliar with the Goodwill Games should tune in to ABC and TBS from Saturday, July 23, to Sunday, Aug. 7, to acquaint themselves with a premiere sports event.

The Olympic-like competition takes place in St. Petersburg, Russia. It was last staged in Seattle in 1990.

TBS coverage co-host Nick Charles wants to bring the Games to as many people as possible to increase visibility.

"I'd like to be viewer-friendly in terms of bringing these Games into people's homes," he says. "(As an anchor) you have to lend weight to this telecast, you have to swing it back and forth, take it out to venues. People want to see action."

"I want to be involved in a lot of the features because I think the human drama is an element that we could always humanize more. But the information has to come. It has to be a blend that way."

Charles believes the time has come for the Games, featuring athletes from more than 50 countries, to receive the attention and respect they deserve.

"I'm really miffed that more attention isn't paid," he says. "Perhaps the quality of competition could be better. It sure isn't bad. It's world-class."

According to Charles, the United States has its best chances of medaling in track and field and gymnastics.

All's fair in "Love & War," with Annie Potts and Jay Thomas. Mondays on CBS.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

There could be some problems with finances, but it isn't anything you can't handle. An older person may ask for your help.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

If someone comes charging into your life insisting on swift changes, tell them to take a hike. You have had enough change in your life for the moment.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

Someone close to you could cause you a great deal of difficulty. Do not let that person drag you down with them. You have purpose in your life.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

It is a good idea to keep your finances in order, but not to the point of obsessing about money. There are a great many more wonderful things in life.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

You may receive news of a wedding, or you will be involved in the bringing together of two people. Remember to step aside when your job is done.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

You will want to get away from your troubles, maybe even run away from them. The sooner you face them, however, the sooner they will go away.

HIGHLIGHTS

Susan Rutan and Brian Dennehy star in a rebroadcast of "Deadly Matrimony," a two-part movie beginning on NBC Sunday, July 17. Part 2 airs Monday, July 18.

The film was inspired by a true story that deals with corruption and murder at the highest levels of the Chicago Police Department and judicial system.

Dennehy plays a detective who is forced to risk his career, reputation and life after he stumbles across a deadly cover-up.

HIGHLIGHTS

Arnold Schwarzenegger is at full sprint in "The Running Man," airing on CBS Tuesday, July 19.

The film is set in the year 2019. Schwarzenegger plays a framed mass murderer who is forced to participate in a deadly game show in which criminals get one last shot at freedom.

Watch for standout Richard Dawson as the slick game show host.

The film is based on a novel by Stephen King and was directed by Paul Michael Glaser. Starsky of "Starsky and Hutch" fame.

SOAP WORLD

Frances Heflin dies at age 71

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: Could you please tell me what happened to the actress who played Mona on "All My Children"? She has always been one of my favorites, and a friend of mine told me she had passed away.

I've often wondered how such a kind character could have a daughter like Erica, and a granddaughter like Kendall. What a family they made. -J.F. in New York.

Dear Reader: Frances Heflin (Mona, "AMC") died of cancer on June 1 at age 71. At the same time her character was fighting the deadly disease, Heflin was waging her own real-life battle. She complimented "AMC" on several occasions for the accurate portrayal of her character's suffering with cancer.

The actress had played the strong, kind-hearted role of Mona since the show's beginning in 1970. Her character often lamented that she had felt so guilty about Erica's father leaving that she had let the girl get away with too much. She often blamed herself for spoiling Erica and causing the young girl to act so selfishly.

Erica continues as the show's No. 1 vamp. Since Erica's trial, mother and daughter had become much closer, and Erica was mortified when she discovered her mother had cancer.

Before "AMC," Heflin had a distinguished career in the theater. She appeared on Broadway with Marlon Brando in the original production of "I Remember Mama," and in London with Helen Hayes in "The Glass Menagerie."

Heflin had three children with her husband Sol Kaplan, a composer and conductor, who died in 1990. She was also the sister of the late movie actor Van Heflin.

She is survived by her children, all of whom followed their mother into the entertainment business. They are film director Jonathan Kaplan and actresses Nora Heflin and Mady Kaplan. She also had several grandchildren.

At press time there were no plans to recast the role, as the producers thought no one could ever take the place of Heflin in the role of Mona.
