COMMUNITY LIFE

The darkest, best Halloween

t was a dark and stormy night. And before that, it was a dark and stormy day. Explosions were heard, and the power went out. When night finally fell, blackness devoured everything.

Standing third from the road was the house, darkened like all the rest. The wind rattled its shutters and howled past its eaves. Cold rain pelted its sides. Those sleeping in the rooms up stairs neither felt the cold nor heard the winds Their slumber was deep and abiding.

But downstairs, in the very back of the house, bathed in the eerie light of a single candle, she stood. She plunged her hands over and over again into the froth, foamy dark liquid in the sink. She laughed nervously to herself.

Suddenly, a creak in the floor. She looked up from her task and saw out of the corner of her eye a white, ghostly shape by the clock. The dying embers of the fireplace and the solitary candle shed but meager light, not enough for her to discern what she was facing. Her heart skipped a beat.

The ghost took a step and then spoke, "Mom, aren't you done with the dishes yet?

Yes, that was me at the sink. And, yes, that was Tony, my oldest, dressed in ghost-white thermal underwear. He had come downstairs to check on me, bless his heart, on the Halloween night just past. It was a night for many a story. That was one. Here's another:

"The feast, sumptuous and elegant, lured the lovers to the candlelit table that late October eve. They savored the food. They savored one another's presence. He gently blew a kiss to her,

Cemetery has space for living

A cemetery is a place for the dead, but when Ed Wensley bought an abandoned cemetery in the 1950s, he decided to make it a place for the living as well, so much so that 900 people tour it each year.

BY DIANE HANSON

"People don't think of being in a cemetery when they come out to our grounds," explained Ed Wensley, owner of United Memorial Gardens in Plymouth Township.

Indeed, a glance around the 111 acres bordering the M-14 expressway and Curtis Road gives the impression of a beautiful park filled with some impressive granite, marble and bronze sculptures and wooden buildings. With the flat grave markers, perhaps the only give-away evidence of a cemetery from a distance is the mausoleum.

Caring for the deceased, but catering to the living, was more of what Wensley had in mind when he took over operation of the five-acre cemetery in 1953. Opened in 1929, by the time Wensley stepped in it had been abandoned and was overrown with weeds.

"Because I was a Christian, I wanted to develop a unique ceme-tery," Wensley said. "I wanted our cemetery to be a Christian ministry along with a cemetery."

By 1959, when he actually bought the property, it had been enlarged to 10 acres. Of the current 111 acres, 70 are developed into the tranquil gardens designed for all faiths and races.

Perhaps the most impressive structure on the property is the replica of the Old Testament Tabernacle which was built in 1985.

"When we built it, that was the first duplication of the Tabernacle in the world," Wensley said. "Everything is right to full scale, cubit for cubit.'

Windows along one side of the Tabernacle allow visitors to view the inside, the Holy of Holies, including such replicas as the Ark of the Covenant, the Tablets of the Law, the Table of Showbread and Aaron's rod.

"We're privileged because we can look inside," said Don Murphy, counselor at the cemetery. "People of biblical times couldn't."

Near the Tabernacle is a fullscale replica of the Brazen Altar that was used for offering sacrifices and the Laver where the high priest purified himself before entering the hallowed structure.

The poles surrounding the structures mark The Holy Place as specified in the Bible but the 7-foot-high curtains that once hung from the poles were too difficult to maintain and had to be removed.

Impressive sculpture

One of the impressive marble sculptures at the gardens is a duplication of "The Eyes of Christ" which won first place as the outstanding sculpture at the 1981 Art and Sculpture Fair in Carrara, Italy. Christ's eyes on the two-sided sculpture appear to follow the admirer while walking past and illustrate the inscription, "The eyes of the Lord are in every place keeping watch upon the evil and the good."

Other large sculptures include one of the Holy Koran and one of the Holy Bible. An early American prayer chapel is nestled beside a pond that doubles as a refuge for ducks and swans.

Speaking of Wensley, Murphy said, "He's really a very unique man because he has a depth of feeling for people." That's obvious in the Praise Gazebo Wensley had built on the property.

You don't have to bring your songbook," said Murphy. "We've got the songs on stone. You can put 100 people in there and everybody sings.

ARC: 'Island' for disabled

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO .

When The ARC of Northwest Wayne County opened its doors at Redford's Little Red Schoolhouse in 1979, its organizers wanted families of the developmentally disabled to feel comfortable

Situated in an industrial area, The ARC was fenced in on its "own little island" in the middle of factories and light manufacturing buildings. Financially, the organization was comfortable.

Now thanks to an increase in funding for Detroit Wayne County Community Mental Health Board, The ARC is nestled in the heart of the Redford community, having moved into the former Evangelical Presbyterian Church office building on Five Mile Road on Aug. 29.

The move has boosted its presence in the community. Neighbors see the sign and stop in to see what The ARC is all about. Developmentally disabled adults walk from their homes to the spacious, newly renovated building to sign up for ac-

"Our mission is to build inclusive communities through support, advocacy and information. This puts us where the people are," said executive director Sylvia Kloc. "Being a nonprofit agency we're very frugal and careful with our money. Money doesn't come easily so we want to use it in the most efficient way possible. Buying a building made the most sense."

It works out well for clients, too. With this building. The ARC is able to house a majority of its programs under one roof.

"The space we had really wasn't suitable to our needs. Primarily, the reason we moved is because we operate another program — a Lekotek pla library that serves families with special needs, said Kloc, who has worked with the organizatio since 1984. Previously, the Lekotek was housed across town in the Redford Community Center.

The Lekotek, which comes from the Swedish word for "play library," is offered to families who have children with developmental disabilities Families can borrow toys or schedule an appoint ment to come in and play with them. The more than 2,000 sanitized toys are stored in the new

"We deal with more of the fun end of playing. not so much the therapeutic," said ARC associate director Chris Lerchen who runs the Lekotek.

Thirty-three years ago the group, then known as the Redford Association for Retarded Children, was formed to provide support for parents that was previously unavailable. Meetings, held at members' homes, center around issues like providing education for developmentally disabled children. Since none was available, they started their own school "Happy Horizons Training Center" at the Beech Road The organization moved into the schoolhouse in 1979 and changed its name in 1992 to reflect the modern views of people with disabilities. "We try to promote and help people to under stand that people are people first and secondary, they have disabilities," Kloc said. "They don't like the negative connotation that goes with the word 'retarded. "Our own name didn't reflect that."

As reflected in its name, The ARC serves other areas - Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, Canton and Garden City - but it's firmly planted in

"We're putting roots in the community," Kloc said. "It's important for people to realize that we're always going to be there.

Short cable contract needed

in a battle with Omnicom Cablevision over the length of a contract to provide

Officials want a three-year agreement, while Omnicom is pushing for up to a 15-year pact. It's in the best interest of residents for the township and city to prevail in the battle. When it comes to cable television, 15 years is

When it comes to changes in technology, tastes and the market, a 15-year cable contract may just as well be a century. The first issue is how cable television programs will be delivered. Such services could be done on telephone lines or even the new small, satellite

As for tastes, they can quickly change and being stuck with a long contract would make it difficult for government to force changes in programming.

The same is true for the market for cable services. Interactive television is one new service that viewers may demand in the coming years, and again government should be able to ensure that cable viewers' needs are met.

At the center of the problem of dealing with cable television operators is the question of lymouth city and township officials are | how they should be viewed. Are they a utility or a private service? What's troublesome is that Omnicom officials want the best of both worlds. They want to be viewed as a utility when it comes to their operation in the community, seeking some of the same immunity as Detroit Edison, but at the same time they want to govern their own rates as would a private business.

> And if the cable firm were to be granted a 15-year franchise with the communities, it would be given a monopoly that would keep out other firms seeking to provide cable ser-

To combat that, officials in Canton, Plymouth and Northville joined together and hired a cable television consultant to negotiate a basic contract with Omnicom That contract can then be modified to the individual needs. of the respective communities.

The Omnicom contract in Plymouth and Plymouth Township is up Dec. 12 and the time is getting close for an agreement or an extension of the old one.

Plymouth Township and city officials should stick to their guns on this one, pushing for a short-term contract.

Time to talk fuel tax increase

he 1994 campaign is over, and now it's time for Michigan Republicans and Democrats to talk about the issue they shunned like the plague for the past four years. Our roads and bridges are still in embarrassingly bad shape. Nothing short of a fuel tax increase can produce the revenue to do the work.

And Gov. John Engler knows it. His re-election campaign emphasized 11 tax cuts. "Tax." in his lexicon, was a dirty word. But late in October, he began to admit the truth of what western Wayne County drivers have known for several years, that a fuel tax increase "has to be an option."

Four years ago, Engler put Patrick Nowak, our Oakland County neighbor, to work as director of the Department of Transportation with orders to squeeze as much as possible out of the budget. Nowak followed orders, adding technology, privatizing some maintenance functions, and paring costs $115 million. MDOT has been resurfacing a record 1,000 miles of roads per season.

After 20 years of delay, the state opened up an expanded Haggerty Road in Oakland. Good - no question. I-94 near Metropolitan Airport was brought up to date, and a new surface was applied to much of I-275 in Livonia. Good - no question.

In Wayne County, CEO Ed McNamara applied blacktop to a lot of county mile roads, with informative billboards asking us to toler ate the interruptions. Good - no question.

Yet more is needed. Ford Road in Canton needs to have its traffic capacity increased. The Haggerty-Seven Mile intersection between Livonia and Northville Township is the scene of continuous commercial, office and hotel development and needs more attention. particularly with the huge exodus of traffic from I-275 nearby.

Traffic lights need a lot of attention. Wayne County is 30 years behind in installing delayed left-turn signals. We have yet to see computerized traffic signals that vary the length of red lights depending on the time of day.

It's the right thing to do for residents.

Most western Wayne mile roads have illtimed red lights that frustrate drivers, prompt them to speed up and result in many collisions. Although we've seen progress, the overall mount of money available from the state for trunklines, county roads and municipal The State of Michigan has owned the airport streets still is bad - no question. Wayne County was getting $28 million a year from a transportation economic development fund that was designed by Oakland lawmakers and has yielded Oakland $105 million a year. And anyone who has traveled the mid-Michigan farm belt knows their county roads are in better shape than county roads in the metropolitan area.

We can afford a fuel tax increase. Michigan's fuel tax burden actually has grown lighter over the years - 0.43 percent of personal income in 1982 versus 0.34 percent in 1992, according to Public Sector Consultants Inc. of Lansing. Fuel tax revenues went up 7.1 percent as our incomes rose 81.7 percent.

Chief reason is more fuel-efficient vehicles n 1978, federal CAFE (corporate average fuelconomy) standards were 18 miles per gallon for passenger autos. By 1992, the auto standard was 27.5 mpg.

Yes, more people are using light trucks instead of autos as personal vehicles. But even the light truck CAFE standard is 20.2 mpg, higher than the auto standard used to be.

We called on the state to quit its political posturing a year ago and raise the fuel tax. At that time, fuel prices had been flat around $1 a gallon for regular for a long time. That would have been the best time to act. But politicians' jobs are more important under the dome in Lansing than our road needs, so the job didn't get done.

Well, the election is over. Engler has his second four-year term and says he won't seek a third term. It's a no-risk proposition for him. He and lawmakers should do the job that everyone knows needs to be done: Hike the fuel tax, pour more into our transportation infrastructure, and quit worrying about political

Airport ownership

would like to take this opportunity to respond to your letter of Sept. 28, wherein you raise an objection to the "Coves of Canton" condominiums, question Canton's future development plans, and request notice of any developments and rezonings within two miles of the airport by citing the requirements of Act 92.

First, let me begin by saying that your letter and its tone reinforce why I opposed and continue to be opposed to state ownership of Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport. At the time Mettetal was an issue, I suggested that state ownership would lead to "big brother" trying to tell local government what to do. Your letter proves my point.

for just over a year and the Department of Transportation wants to be involved in and critique Canton's land planning. Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport continues to be a recreational airport serving predominantly non-Canton residents. I'll be darned if I will let the tail wag the dog. The State of Michigan in its infinite wisdom decided to purchase this undersized hobby airport in the midst of a growing community. I would suggest that the state has made its bed and it should learn to lie in it It should be pointed out that the parcel on which the Coves of Canton will someday sit was rezoned a full year before Mettetal was even purchased by the State of Michigan. It was rezoned to condominium use for solid plan ning reasons and is compatible with land use in the area. If the state has an objection at this point I would suggest it purchase the parcel.

Canton Township will continue to meet its statutory and ordinance requirements insofar as notice of rezoning issues is concerned. Typically the State of Michigan will be notified when a rezoning is considered within 300 feet of the airport's property line.

It is my understanding that Act 92 of the Public Acts of 1993, the "Seller Disclosure Act" requires that the seller make certain disclosures to the purchaser. These disclosures include everything from disclosing an inoperable garbage disposal to disclosing that a landslide had occurred on the parcel. This act is surely designed to create more business for attorneys and clog our court system. It is also my understanding that Canton Township has no duty to enforce any provisions of Act 92 and we will not.

I would suggest that the hue and cry relative to the Coves of Canton has more to do with a desire on the part of the State of Michigan and Mettetal pilots to lengthen or shift Mettetal's runway to the south. As before, Canton will strenuously resist this effort. public. Thomas J. Yack, Canton supervisor

A question

ARKIE HUDKINS

ur article in the Observer regarding the coming out of a Plymouth-Canton public school band teacher seemed to well chronicle his reasons for the public proclamation of his homosexuality. His story was also published in the Oct. 11 edition of The Detroit News.

I question why the teacher feels that he has to come out at all. My wife and I cannot recall any teacher we ever had proclaiming their sexual identity in the classroom or out of the classroom. My best friend who is a teacher and two of my sisters who are teachers also advise that they have not felt compelled to proclaim their stance on the issue. I am further advised by a relative whose children attend West Middle School that the teacher's sexual orientation was long suspected and according to her, not worthy of undue note. I have never felt it necessary to introduce myself as a heterosexual.

The teacher chronicles his childhood frustrations with coming to terms with his sexual identity and advises that his reason for coming out is to help the school kids deal with their sexual frustrations. Why does his orientation make him uniquely qualified to do this? I would hope that the school board carefully examines the teacher's credentials in order to assure the public that the teacher does not base his ministrations sole ly upon his personal experiences. Better yet, I would hope that the Plymouth-Canton school board would take the position that the teacher is a band director and not a guidance counselor

The teacher also advises us that he has been lobbying the public schools for years to include references to sexual orientation in ntract language. Why is this neces Does some greater agenda exist on the teacher's part?

I find it regrettable that the teacher feels it is necessary to bring the issue of his sexual orientation before the public and its children

Honoring those who served

Veterans should be aware of monument placement needs

thought I'd be writing another letter oncerning veteran monuments in the Plymouth-Canton community. But here

I'd like to quell a misconception. The Korean-Vietnam War monument in Kellogg Park was not erected by the Plymouth-Canton Chapter 528 of the Vietnam Memorial Association, a now defunct nonprofit corporation.

Many of the members of that associa-tion subsequently founded the Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 528, but the Vietnam Veterans of America were not the ones instrumental in the erection of the present Korea-Vietnam Monument in Kellogg Park.

Letters have recently been written con-these letters there appears to be one main theme, to insure the monuments receive the proper respect due them and to protect them from whimsical handling.

Duane Johnson, in his letter published Oct. 26, and Robert Schomberger, in another letter, brought these points to the public's attention

Johnson was correct in citing that the Plymouth Rock War Monument has been moved three times, that the cannon now in Old Village was also moved from Kellogg Park. Johnson failed to mention that the Civil War Monument and even a Peace Pole also were moved from their origina sites within the city. Obviously such being moved at the whim of some person

Carl Adler of the VFW, in a letter, reerred to the military part of Kellogg Park. Here is another misconcept The eastern part of Kellogg Park has never been officially declared a military park by the city of Plymouth and without such a designation, the monuments there are subject to movement at any time.

The monuments are unprotected and could be moved based upon the passage of a motion at any city of Plymouth Comission meeting.

What has not surfaced in any of these letters is that on March 11, the city commission approved the movement of the Civil War Monument from Riverside Cemetery, back to the city and also the establishment of a military park.

Part of the decision was based upon written, documented support of such a project from Patricia Moore, principal of Central Middle School; Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 528 president William Hayes; the Plymouth Historical Society and Passage-Gayde Post 391 of the American Legion. In addition, Plymouth Township's Beasley Zalensy Post 112 of the American Legion has, in writing, supported the project.

If Johnson and the VFW are opposed to the movement of the Civil-War Monument, how can they encourage the movement of the monument that is at Central Middle School? Wasn't the service of World War I veterans as important as Veterans of the Plymouth-Canton community should become aware of the facts surrounding this issue.

Straightening out court problems major issue

r was discussed by candidates in the ust-concluded 1994 campaign.

How to pay for them. How to deploy the judges. And how to fix the Friend of the Court office which handles child support payments under the direction of circuit judges.

"Those are very good questions. It's going to be a very active issue," Gov. John Engler told me during an interview late in the campaign.

The courts have three separate problems, in the same way that the publicschools issue of recent years was several problems - such as too little money in some districts, poor quality, high property assessments, and abuse of union power. We'd best solve all three court issues at once.

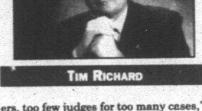

1. Money for outstate courts. Public Act 438 of 1980 set up full state funding of Wayne County Circuit Court, Detroit's 36th District Court and Detroit Recorders Court. Full state funding of other courts was to follow. But a recession brought the state treasury to its knees, and the outlying 82.5 counties never got their money.

In the last budget, outstate lawmakers tried to insert a little money for suburban and outstate courts. In a couple of weeks, lawmakers will wrestle with the problem again. But remember: Engler has whacked $1.8 billion out of an $8 billion budget in his first term, so there's not a lot of cash to pass out.

2. Deployment of judges. At present Michigan has four kinds of trial courts: 179 circuit judges, for major civl trials, divorces and criminal cases; 107 probate judges, for probating of wills, juvenile cases, neglect and adoption of children; 29 recorders judges, who handle criminal cases in Detroit; and 259 district judges, who handle small civil cases and misdemeanors. "In some communities, we have too many judges for too few cases: in others, too few judges for too many cases,' Engler said. The political problem is that the Legislature won't eliminate judges' jobs where there are too few And Engler won't agree to adding more judges in places like the Northville-Plymouth-Canton district or the Farmington-area district unless judges jobs are eliminated elsewhere. "We've created no district judgeships since

A lot of legal scholars think we need only one "trial court." Just do away with the artificial jurisdictional boundaries between them. "Any solution," Engler agreed solemnly, "involves sorting out the jurisdictions.' It may not be so difficult. For years, our district judges have been aiding the circuit judges in the county seats; the circuit judges have been helping out on the Court of Appeals. A single "trial court" would allow pooling of work asignments for our judges. 3. Friend of the Court. State Sen.

Robert Geake, R-Northville, was bombarded with hundreds if not thousands of complaints from people who deal with the Friend of the Court over child support collections and payments. He held a series of 10 public hearings across the state.

FOCs report to the chief circuit udge. It's hard for a citizen with a complaint to voice it to a judge, the way he can holler at a city council or county board meeting under the Open as much attention to FOC as they do to operations they get to scrutinize.

Geake's solution: Put FOC under the direction of county boards, not judges. Judges shouldn't try to be administrators anyway. I'm sure Geake is 100 per cent right.

But circuit judges, being vain, are likely to balk at any reduction of their jealously guarded authority. The way out, obviously, is to reorganize the Friend of the Court at the same time we set up a single trial court, and do that at the same time we solve the problem of full state funding of the tri-

Single-issue groups block progress on state concerns

he election of 1994, certainly one of the most tumultuous and angry in my memory, is finally over.

Now that the votes have been counted and the dust is settled, I sense three major underlying trends which will drive the evolution of our political system for years to come.

1. Our political and governmental system is now so complex, so filled with checks and balances, so vulnerable to blocking vetoes by determined single-issue groups that it is now nearly impossible to get anything significant done. No wonder most voters feel helpless and frustrated.

Consider just two recent examples, one large and one small. Charter schools are among the most promising innovations in Michigan education. When the people of Michigan passed Proposal A, they authorized creation of a number of experiments, from the dubious (the Noah Webster Academy, a home school network) to the admirable (the academy at Wayne State University, aimed at inner city youth).

Predictably, those with most to lose from a less monopolistic school system sued. And last week Circuit Judge William Collette threw out the baby with the bath water by ruling that all charter schools are unconstitutional, necessitating endless appeals and probably killing ome of the most promising starts.

A teacher friend reports that students in her lass no longer don costumes for Halloween beause a small group of parents protested to the chool board, claiming that Satanism was being ctioned when kids dressed up. 2. Political relationships have evolved from he concrete and personal to the abstract phemera of the 30-second TV spot. No wonder nost voters feel manipulated and alienated. In the pre-TV days, campaigning was conucted up close and personal, with candidates valking door to door, making their speeches beore audiences of real people, trying to answer

No longer. Speeches are out; 30-second spots ere in. Events are staged for media consumption; questions are prescripted. How many can-tidates did you get a chance to look in the eye luring this campaign? Not many, I'd bet.

All this produces inevitably a disconnect be-tween voters and candidates whose persona sists almost entirely of electronic image. They're not the same type of day to day people is you or me," said a warehouse worker quoted the New York Times. "They're in a completey different world. They aren't somebody you would want to socialize with."

3. Enough people feel frustrated enough with the workings of the present system to provide the preconditions for a political realignment.

One of the striking things about this year's election was how well Jon Coon ran as the Libertarian candidate for the U.S. Senate. Third party candidates typically do very badly in our political system, but Coon's showing this year suggests the same kind of yearning for something new that produced all those votes for Ross Perot two years ago.

I wouldn't be surprised to see fundamental stresses shake in Michigan's political system over the next few years. Gov. Engler may have won a landslide, but he'll have a tough time governing in the center and simultaneously keeping the Religious Right in the GOP. And there are plenty of Democrats who think their party will remain brain dead as long as it is as dominated by organized labor as it is today.

Who knows? We may wind up with a Republican Party controlled by the Religious Right, the Democratic Party run by organized labor and liberals and some kind of coalition between moderates of both parties uneasily occupying

By Mark Fisk Special Writer

An explosion of new coffeehouses is transforming the cultural geography of metro Detroit.

Boasting non-alcoholic menus and spacious, friendly atmospheres, java houses provide a creative and affordable alternative to bars.

Many are modeled after similar tablishments in New York and Seattle, where European-style cafes are an important part of cultural

Historically, the coffeehouse has served as a forum for social transformation and artistic expression. Accordingly, most coffeehouses in metro Detroit offer poetry readings, live jazz, acoustic guitar performances and classical music concerts. In addition, some display paintings and photography by local

If the taste of coffee is the prob-lem, you're still in luck. Many cof-feehouses provide a variety of ciders, teas, milk and honey drinks, yogurt drinks, Italian and French sodas and freshly squeezed fruit juices.

increasing each year, competition has become cutthroat. Many people in the business have stories about how their "original formula" for a coffee drink was stolen or imitated of the highlights: Outback Cappuccino Bar, 370 S. Main St., Plymouth, (313) 453-0445.

Aptly named by owner Denni Englehart, this cozy little coffeehouse is located "out back" of the Little Professor book store and the Chameleon Art Gallery in downtown Plymouth. Using their custom-made "chameleon blend," Outback serves a variety of tasty hot and cold coffee drinks. The Cafe Renoir is a delicious blend of espresso, steamed milk, raspberry syrup and whipped cream. Plymouth's first coffeehouse has two tables reserved for smokers.

Plymouth Coffee Bean, 884 Penniman, Plymouth, (313) 454-0178. The more original of Plymouth's two coffeehouses in terms of decor, the Coffee Bean conjures up rustic images of country stores and bait shops. In what used to be a furniture warehouse, Coffee Bean owner Pam Haase combines modern technology and rural charm for an atcious blend of espresso, steamed nology and rural charm for an attractive, unfinished quality. The Coffee Bean is set up like an antique house with sofas, pillows, old chairs and bookshelves. The "Beanof-the-Day" rotates daily, so you can try your favorite coffee drink in a variety of different blends ranging from Sumatran to Hawaiian. There are poetry readings, and acoustic guitar concerts on weekends. No for what it's worth, he fashioned the screen's most aithful adaptation yet of Mary Shelley's classic horror novel. He has also created his own monster, a lumbering, overwrought mass of camera movement and posturing that can sometimes startle you with its energy. Call it an ambitious experiment gone awry.

His Victor Frankenstein, unlike the brooding loner of Shelley's book, is a handsome, popular young man ready to conquer the world. His professors are shocked by his interest in unorthodox scientific theories, but one man (an umazing turn by John Cleese) takes him seriously.

Obtaining his "raw materials" rom graveyards and hospitals,

Kenneth Victor fashions the monster (Robert DeNiro) in an attic laboratory stocked with primitive electrical instruments. The creature, raised skyward by pullies, shuttles across the ceiling before landing in a fluid-filled sarcophagus. Branagh shows the monster's first steps in an endless series of shots that certainly convey the creature's awkwardness but also grate on the audience. When the loctor shuns him, the monster the end, but this is Branagh's begins his legendary rampage.

Full of energy and enthusiasm, this "Frankenstein" overdoses on everything, but subtlety (quite a claim from the one critic who actually enjoyed Francis Ford Cop-pola's "Dracula"). Branagh blends a classical approach t costumes and settings with MTVstyle jump cuts and camera movement, best shown in his chronic overuse of 360-degree setups

Method monster with a believable mix of violent rage and a capacity for "more love than you could ever imagine." When all else goes wrong in the movie, DeNiro perfectly conveys the empathy that the author intended. Shelley purists will have trouble with a major story change near

Pub abruptly closed its doors Wednesday
Oct. 19. Owner Paul Judd sold the bar to Dejohn Mafale, formerly of the Whitney, Rattlesnake Club and Park Place restaurants. # dt's hangs on to Michigan roots

They honed their skills nightly, playing their original music in bars around East Lansing. Now, the dt's have a publishing/development contract and are on to making demos, doing tours and looking for record contract.

By TODD WICKS SPECIAL WRITER

If it helps, think of the East Lansing music scene as a baseball field with dozens of players, most knowing that once school is over their playing days are, too. But there are others with a dream of making it in the big leagues, who try very hard to catch the scouts' eyes with their talent.

Now take the dt's, slogging it out night after night, playing original music in bars to crowds geared toward Top 40 cover bands. That is, until this year. Now you could say the dt's are headed for the minors.

Last March, the four-man group from East Lansing signed a publishing/development contract with Warner-Chappell Music.

"Basically, it means they pay for demos and tour support," said Tom Taylor, the band's singer/guitarist. "They take care of what you need as a band, but it's not like we've gotten ting the band be seen."

It certainly didn't hurt the dt's who recently finished a tour of California that included stops at the legendary Whiskey and Roxy clubs-to be picked as semifinalists in Musician magazine's Best Unsigned Band competition in July.
"We honestly don't know how we ere entered into that," Taylor said. "I don't know how it all turned out, but whenever you're written up in a major publication, it definitely helps Warner-Chappell is also serving a more important function for the

"Beyond the money, they shop us around to labels and try to get us get involved with the right people," he said. "That's the main thing, that

In fact, the band - which also includes bassist Blair Darling. drummer Randy Farlin and guitarist Marc Nischan - already has at least an offer from an independent label that we can go with," Taylor said. "Right now, we're just waiting to see if something else happens."

When asked if he preferred a major or independent label, Taylor sounded

"There are pros and cons to both," he said. "There are a lot of crappy bands on big labels and a lot of crappy bands on small labels, too. A lot of big labels pay for bands because they think you're going to be the next Nir-

"To me, it depends on if the labels you hook up with is into your music. That really matters."

More recently, the dt's (described by Taylor as "if Husker Du and Crowded House had a baby, it'd be us.") have demoed 11 songs for their forthcoming album.

"We've gone way over budget as far as demos," Taylor said. "(We record) at White Room Studios in Detroit. They like our band, and since they know where our money's coming from, they don't have to worry about getting paid.

Although slowly working their way to the big time, the dt's have no plans on leaving East Lansing. "We're staying here," Taylor af-firmed. "We've been out to California, seen it, and honestly don't like it too much. We're all Midwestern people at heart, so we'll be around for awhile." For awhile, it was doubtful that the dt's would be the first generation of East Lansing bands to get a record "There are a lot of bands that get more press, have more notoriety The Verve Pipe, Groove Spoon, the Hannibals," cited Taylor. "There's always been bands more popular than us in town. I don't know if we're not as accessible for what . . . but I don't feel bad about being the next big thing. It's better than nothing."

The dt's play the Blind Pig, 206-208 Nov. 19, with Whirling Road. Call (313) 996-8555 for more information. The band will return to Ann Arbor on Monday, Nov. 21, to play Rick's, 611 "If the indie thing pans out, which Church St. For more information, call

Robb Roy refocuses on making music

Enjoying success in the Detroit music scene in the late '80s was nothing new to a band called Robb Roy. The five-piece rock ensemble had even made some waves in a national talent search in 1989 and piqued the interest of some major record

However, as the '90s dawned, a recording deal did not materialize, and Robb Roy disbanded to work on other projects. End of story? Hardly.

Robb Roy was to turn Detroit on its ear again. Reformed earlier this year as a tighter four-piece ensemble, the band is releasing an EP this month—something that never happened during their previous incarnation. Collectively, Robb Roy acknowledges that they made some mistakes before, and now they're determined to get down to the business of making music appealing to the masses.

And they plan to do it on their own terms.

"We didn't give it (major success) a chance to happen," said Michael Kudreiko, a Livonia native and the band's guitarist. "Things happened at the wrong time for us. We realized after being apart for a few years that we should get back together."

"A lot behind why we reformed was due to similarities in what people are hearing today with material we were doing years ago," added Graham Stra-chan, a former Livonia resident and Robb Roy's lead vocalist. "Groups like Toad the Wet Sprocket and the Gin Blossoms . . . We were doing that kind of stuff years ago. We wanted to rediscover our old material and actually record it because we never actually did any recording back then.

"We were making a lot of money, but we were spending it all on shopping to get signed (by a recording label)."
With bassist Kevin Pruett and drummer Perez

Morris rounding out the current lineup, Robb Roy spends evenings working at Kudreiko's primitive recording studio in the basement of his Dearborn home. Each member of the group seems to have made a clean break with anything that Robb Roy Graham Strachan and Kevin Pruett will hold a CD release party at Lili's in Hamtramck Friday, Nov.

"Our sound has gotten more focused," Kudreiko said. "By recording, we've been able to listen to what we're doing and be more critical about it, and then, decide where the band is headed. We don't try to write songs because we know what's going to sell. We write songs about what affects us."

Super Bowl-bound

he Plymouth-Canton Steelers junior varsity team used a costly turnover by the Canton Lions' special teams late in the fourth quarter Sunday to score the game-winning touchdown and advance to the Western Suburban Junior Football League's Super Bowl V.

A fumbled snap on a punt attempt gave the Steelers, trailing 6-0 at the time, the ball at the Lions' 1-yard line. Ian Winter scored on the next play, and Brad Wells booted the pivotal 2-point conversion kick for an 8-6 victory. The Steelers advance to play the Westland Meteors Sunday for the WSJFL JV title.

The Steelers' freshmen also advanced to Super Bowl V with a 7-0 triumph over the Westland Comets Sunday. Again, it took a final-quarter TD to secure the victory; Kevin Entsminger scored it. The freshmen Steelers play the Ypsilanti Braves Sunday for the championship.

Late goal puts Canton in final

Midfield control: Graham Wilk (in white) shows what Canton did the entire second half Wednesday - rule the midfield, which is why the Chiefs are in

■ If there was panic or desperation creeping into the thoughts of any of the Chiefs in last night's state soccer semifinal against East Lansing, they were disguising it well. Still, after so many misfires and missed chances, doubt had to be creeping in - until . . .

Nearly 75 minutes of playing time had elapsed, and pardon any of the Plymouth Canton soccer players if they felt that many opportunities had been missed

Fortunately, this Class A state semifinal against East Lansing in Jackson Wednesday was still scoreless. There were 51/4 minutes left; in the 15 minutes prior, Canton had somehow managed to miss a header from point-blank range (it went high) and a free kick taken just six yards in front of the Trojans' net (it missed).

And those were only the most obvious misfires. Finally, almost inevitably, luck changed sides. A hard shot was stopped by East Lansing keeper Jameel Chaudry, but he couldn't smother the rebound. Anthony Riemms reached it and bounced a shot toward the net that hit a Trojan defender.

This time, the break aided aided the Chiefs. The ball deflected into the goal for the only score necessary — a 1-0 victory that carries the Chiefs into Saturday's state finals against Warren De-LaSalle. Game time is 3 p.m. at Bloomfield Hills Andover.

Andover.

It's Canton's first trip to the final in boys succer, but it's no surprise. "I knew we had a lot of talent," coach Don Smith said. "It was just a matter of getting them to play together. I knew we could play with anybody."

The Chiefs have now proven it.

The ultimate reason for their success: Defense. Wednesday's shutout was their fourth in six state tournament games. When East Lansing, a team that matched Canton's size, came out aggressively, the Chiefs were caught off-guard.

Salem's defense stifles Canton

The Stone Age and the Ice Age both lasted for eons.

On Tuesday, Plymouth Canton coach Bob Blohm experienced the Brick Age.

"It seemed like forever," Blohm aid after his Chiefs lost to visting Plymouth Salem 39-29 in a nifinal of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs.

Canton managed only one point in a span of 10:49 beginning with 2:17 left in the second quarter and lasting until early in the fourth. In 14 possessions the Chiefs set-tled for a Jackie Nicastri free throw, allowing Salem to convert an 18-15 deficit into a 26-19 lead entering the fourth quarter.

Even with the dry spell, Canton atill found itself in the game. A 7-2 run by the Chiefs narrowed the margin to 31-28 with 3:52 remain-

BASKETBALL

"It didn't surprise me that they were in the game because we had trouble scoring ourselves," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "We had an outstanding third quarter and scored just enough to spread the score out enough."

Guard Kelly Lukasic took care of matters for Salem by stealing back-to-back Canton passes and putting the game away at the charity stripe. Lukasic made six of her seven free throw attempts in the game's final three minutes.

"Our defense is our game and it's what gets us going," Lukasic said. "We had trouble scoring to-night and needed the defense to step up and it did."

"I told the team that whoever wins at the free throw line usually wins the game, and that was true tonight," Blohm said.

Salem advances to Friday's finals to play Walled Lake Central, 55-51 victors over Northville Tuesday. Tip-off Friday at North-ville is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. The Vikings beat the Rocks 50-36 in the teams' only meeting this

"Walled Lake Central was the best team in our conference this season and the problem playing them is that they have no weak links," Thomann said. "They have a great interior game and four good perimeter players. For us to win, we'll have to be on the top of our game."

Enough snickering already. The six Fighting Crusaders who are returning from last year's woeful team have heard the sarcastic remarks: Things were so low, probably last in defense (allowed they've got to be looking up.

That's what happens when a team goes 2-30 - bad jokes to match their bad record. Things will be different this season Coach Bill Sharpe is cer-

Defense is key to Spartans' fate

BY BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

Jack Reardon knows something about defenses, at least when it comes to Livonia Stevenson High School.

He has been the Spartans one and only head coach since the school opened in 1965.

"We've had some good de enses over the years," said Reardon, whose career record is 168-96-1. "In 1987 we had an excellent defensive football team with Mike Nettie (Central Michigan) and Alan Pitts (Saginaw Valley State), but this one ranks right up there." Last week in the opening round of the state football playoffs, Stevenson held host Howell down in a 7-3 triumph.

The Spartans (8-2 overall) will need another sterling de fensive effort this Saturday when they play host to Westland John Glenn (7-3) in a rematch for the Class AA-Region I championship. (Game time s 1:30 p.m.)

Stevenson came out a 13-10 winner in a Lakes Division pattle against Glenn on Oct. 7. The Spartans won the gam despite begin outgained 356-217 in total offense.

Glenn tailback Brent Washington had 183 yards in 24 carries, including a 73-yard touch down run. "He's been averaging 185 to 190 yards per game since he became healthy." Reardon said. "He's going to get his vards, but we have to contain nim from breaking the big run ike he did against Belleville

"Glenn dominated the line scrimmage in that game. They pushed everything back. We can't look just at Washington, because they have others who can hurt you.' The Spartans' defense, however, can put the hurt on others as well. Reardon's greatest asset is

With starting defensive end Craig Martin out last week with an ankle injury, Chris Arsenault, a 6-foot, 186-pound unior, came in and didn't miss defense these days after backup quarterback Ryan Phimister was switched to wide receiver.

Two-way starter Ben Lewis 5-11, 198-pound senior, anchors the other end. He also plays guard on offense.

Buckler, who also played split end early in the season, is now a full-time cover man. "Buckler is been outstand ing this year." Reardon said

"He doesn't get the recogni tion, but we always put then on the best receiver. The Spartans are wary Glenn quarterback Jamie

"I think he may be the best athlete on the team," Reardon said. "And when he plays safety, he hits people. He's a pure

"We have a lot of respect for their staff and their footbal program," Reardon said. "We nope playing at home is an ad vantage, but we've actually played better on the road. But the kids are happy it's a home

Planting trees isn't going out on a limb

ave you ever thought how dull our world would be without trees? We know that they are a vital part of this Earth and are important in Nature's scheme of things, but I wonder if we DO take the time to appreciate their full beauty.

This is a perfect time to plant a tree. Why not choose one that will be attractive in the landscape during all season long with new growth and color in the spring, nice leaf shape and form in the summer, a blaze of color in the fall and a lovely winter silhouette or interesting bark?

Many trees fit this category. Since we have just experienced a spectacular fall color show, here are some examples of deciduous trees and their autumn leaf colors.

Acer (maple) trees glow with shades of brilliant red, reddish green, yellow and orange. Look for Amur Maple, A. ginnala; Paperbark, A. griseum; Snakebark, A. capillipes; "Bloodgood" Japanese, A. palmatum "Bloodgood"; and Red, or Swamp, A. rubrum. Shadblow, Amelanchier arborea, syn. A. canadensis has red-orange or russet fall color.

"Heritage" River Birch, Betula nigra gleams with clear bright yellow leaves, as do other birches. Katsura, Cercidiphyllum japonicum has yellow to apricot-colored leaves, which smell of caramel. The Pagoda dogwood, Cornus alternifolia, turns reddish purple, while Flowering dog-wood, C. florida also turns deep red with orange-red berries the list goes on and on "The Four-season Landscape," Susan A. Roth (Rodale, $26.95), includes this information and much more about achieving year-round beauty in a garden. All types of garden plants are included. Information about siting, horticultural requirements, plant combinations and personal observations as well as the photographs make this a worthwhile book.

Putting down roots

Ed Eaton of Eaton's Nursery in West Bloomfield advises to plant only balled and burlapped trees at this time of year and planting can continue through December. He also suggests that you ask if the stock was dug the previous spring - this will ensure that a good root system is established before the tree is put in its chosen place. When deciding where to locate a tree, know what it requires to be healthy. Be aware of the amount of sunlight and shade, the soil pH and if there is sufficient drainage. To check, fill a hole with water and let it drain; refill it and if the water drains out at the rate of about one inch per hour, drainage is sufficient.

The latest planting instruction may differ from what you have learned. The planting area around the proposed transplant hole should be rototilled to a 10- to 12-inch depth three to five times the size of the root ball. The planting hole, in the middle of this area, should be two to three times wider than the size of the root ball and no deeper than the root ball. Break up the sides of the hole to encourage roots to grow horizontally.

STORYBOOK ART EXHIBIT

Celebrating children's book week

Remember when you were a child how a picture in a book could take your breath away and no one could tell you your dreams were too outrageous to come true? Revisit those carefree days at the children's book art exhibit coinciding with National Children's Book Week Nov. 14-20.

Linda Chomin - staff writer

It is a rare day when a dog makes headlines but Dylan the dalmation does just that when he scores the winning point in a soccer game between the penguins and skunks in "Dylan's Day Out" by Peter Catalonotto.

Dylan is one of a host of lively characters in an exhibit of children's book art from the Elizabeth Stone Gallery in Birmingham continuing through Dec. 24 in the Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery, Five Mile Road east of Farmington in Livonia.

As a special treat Elizabeth Stone in cooperation with the library's children's book services brings artist/storyteller Wil Clay in from Toledo for a Thanksgiving weekend program in the library's auditorium 2-4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 27. The 1993 winner of the Coretta Scott King Award for "Little Eight John" (with author Jan Wahl) will tell tales from the five published books he's illustrated. A book signing follows.

"He's a master at story telling. He has a magical quality about him. He's a sculptor who's well known, and a fine artist," said Elizabeth Stone, a former children's librarian at Cranbrook Schools Brookside in Bloomfield Hills.

Ernest Shephard's world of Pooh, Thomas Locker's "Land of Gray

Storybook art: Elizabeth Stone (above) brings the magic of children's book art to the Livonia Civic Library. The exhibit includes (top) Kenyan artist, Adrienne Kennaway's lion from a series of books. Also featured are the illustrations in "Mama, Can You Turn On The Moon" (center) by Betty Foltz.

Wolf" and the "Lazy Lion" by Kenya artist Adrienne Kennaway come to life in dozens of paintings, etchings, lithographs, posters and hand-painted wooden eggs by Russian artists. Exciting adventures and suspense abound here in stories such as Thomas Locker's "Ice Horse." While cutting a channel through the ice on the Hudson River the horse falls into the bone chilling water by accident. Will Max be saved in time? Find out by following the series of paintings on exhibit. All of these adventures plus the books in which they are found are available within the gallery's glass walls.

"It's wonderful. I just love it. All of it's very geared to children because it's from children's books," said Barbara Lewis, director of Children's Services at the Civic Center Library.

"There are some very talented artists whose main arena for their works is children's books. I think that a lot of adults who haven't looked at picture books in a while will be surprised by what fine work-manship this is, then, hopefully, they will come down to the children's book area."

Max, the imp of a rabbit by Rose mary Wells, will also be on hand to turn the gallery into a magical place this holiday season. Dressed in overalls decorated with ducks, his eyes seem to follow you wherever you go. Who would have thought that just a few years ago Max along with the other characters here were frowned upon because they were considered illustration, not fine art. But times have changed. Children's book art has come a long way. According to Money magazine, in the past few years prices for many original works by contemporary children's book artists have doubled, tripled, even quadrupled. It is, after all, fine art.

"In the last year or two, the trends been in getting back to the art of Russia because it has been so difficult to obtain. Russian illustra-

Designer creates fine jewelry with flair

When Cliff Holdampf studied jewelry making with George Landino at Groves High School in Birmingham he never dreamed it would become a business, but it has.

Two years ago he and partner,
Frank Kuszak opened Francis Jewelers, a custom design jewelry store in Plymouth. As chief designer, Holdampf creates fine jewelry- one-of-a-kind rings, earrings, broaches and pendants.

"I didn't want to be involved with the mass production manufacturing of 600 of the same rings. I find jewel ry to be a reflection of one's personality. I see my job as being an interpreter as well as a metalsmith Designing around someone's lifestyle is one of the utmost importance,"

said Holdampf, formerly of Westland now living in Farmington Hills. "I pay careful attention to customer's desires asking questions, what direction they wish the piece to take. I offer design configurations. Together we design a piece of fine jewelry.' By doing this Holdampf is assured of designing the correct piece of jewelry for a customer's needs.

"It's all right there and it's easier for them to use, " said Eric Stark, communications coordinator for the

through the satellite network by providing interactive programming two Mondays each month during its broadcast time. Viewers in different offices can participate in networkwide or regional exchanges via telephone or the real estate organization's online computer system. The first networkwide video conference is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday, Nov.

Most likely, the RE/MAX Detroit Metro Region will not invest in video equipment because it does not need to participate in regional interactive programming, Schneider said. Offices in the region are in close proximity to one another, making it easy for real estate agents to come together and fit regions that are more spread out, ider said. "These people probably don't get to see each other ofter and exchange ideas," she said. "I think when you see each other and talk to each other, it makes you fee more that you are part of a team."

For an office to plug into the network, its owner must sign a five-year contract with Broadcast International, the company RE/MAX contracted with to handle servicing and installa tion. The monthly rate billed to the owner depends on the size of the office's staff, not on how much of the programming is viewed.

On average, the monthly cost for an office to subscribe to the network runs about $230 to $250, Schneider said. That includes $60 a month for the actual satellite dish, an optional $40-a-month maintenance fee and about $130 to $150 a month for the actual programming, depending on the size of the staff.

At least 730 RE/MAX offices in North America signed up for the net-work before the Nov. 1 start date.

America, Mexico, the Caribbean and most recently in Europe.

Unlike Halley, who signed up for network services as soon as she found out they were being offered, Joe Durso, broker/owner of RE/MAX West in Livonia, decided to wait and see for himself what the network is all about

Durso called it a good idea. "But I want to see it functioning first and I want to weigh the value of it."

before committing to a subscription.

RE/MAX Satellite Network will air for an average of 80 hours a month between 10 s.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday. After the first of the year, plans are to expand to 120 hours a month of programming.

A similar network, the Real Estate Television Network, started up Aug. 1 in California, Unlike RSN, this net work is not affiliated with just one real estate organization and any office

I have been serving on an association board for several years and have perceived a grow-rights issue continues to evolve. through its directors, discharges its legal and fiduciary responsibilities, it will enforce the restrictions and rules and regulations in a uniform and con-

to thwart any claims that it is somehow discriminating against any coowners, either in the manner in which it enforces the documents, or based upon some prohibited classification such as race, color, creed, sex, marital status, age, etc.

Co-owners who refuse to live by the bylaws should be dealt with by the association through the proper procedures as embodied in a written procedural document prepared by the association's counsel for distribution to the co-owners. This bylaw enforcement procedure has proven over the years to encourage associations to follow a uniform and consistent policy. Certainly, associations and their boards must be mindful of not violating any civil rights laws. However, recourse by co-owners

How can I impress upon the board the need to get legal counsel

A. While it is not a frequent top thought of board members of condominium associations, it should be remembered that if they do not hire the best lawyer they can, that same lawyer could end up in position to be their adversary by representing individual co-owners and/or contractors who deal with the association, potentially in an adverse situation.

Simply put, you want the best lawyer on your side. Moreover, delay in retaining legal counsel may be an excuse on the part of the board to not want to expend monies on legal counsel and/or to never retain legal coun-

An all-sports lake, natural sandy beach and plenty of trees make an inviting site for a residential subdivision. It's proven popular with prospective buyers, the developer said.

Walter W. Tomyn, a civil engineer turned residential developer, believes he has struck gold with his first project - Lake Oakland Es-tates in Waterford.

The West Bloomfield resident offers lots ranging from $39,900 to $179,900 - some lakefront all with access to the water - on a 50-acre site off Walton east of Sashabaw. More than half already have sold.

Why drive all the way up north four or five hours when you can enjoy the same ambiance and wa-ter activities right here?" Tomyn

"We've got 56 lots. We left two parkways. The whole develop-ment was beautifully wooded. We took minimum trees down and replanted 125 trees. We did it to maintain natural aesthetics here," he said.

They're not out to beat They just view it differently. Gross: It's a negotiation. Can it be fixed or must it be replaced? If I had something 10 years old, now what do I replace it with?

Levin: It's a buyer/seller mentality. You as a buyer are going to look at everything negatively. Me as a seller. I view it and say 'Here's all the good points.' At what point would you get
