Police force expects changes

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

How Canton police help residents and businesses in the community to meet problems of the 1990s is on the wings of change.

"We will give the officers the authority to do things that are non-traditional. Law enforcement of the '90s is different than the '80s, '70s, '60s," said Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro. "People expect the police to do more. We have always been a 24-hour crisis agency. We can now be a conduit for problem-solving."

Canton Township police are in the process of changing the way things are done. In about 60 days, officers will begin responding to calls in a manner more in tune with the 1990s.

In about 60 days, police officials are expected to unveil a new way of doing things — commonly known as community policing. The strategy allows police to do more than react to criminal incidents and calls for help.

"We saw that our police officers were becoming completely reactive. We have fallen into it. A lot of it is because there is a lack of time."

When problems — gang-related incidents, family troubles and other incidents — surfaced at the low-income Canton Commons Apartments in 1993 — police realized there was a missing link in how they provide their services.

"I realized that what was occurring was not just a law enforcement problem," Santomauro said, referring to the apartments.

Community policing gives patrol officers the authority to solve problems they encounter while on patrol. Officers can directly tap into community resources — fire department, parks and recreation, social services, schools — to address problems.

When businesses complain about youths skateboarding in parking lots, police today respond by asking the Line dancing will benefit playscape

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Dance and exercise your way to fun while giving help to the Canton Community-Built Playscape at a country and western line dancing fund-raiser 7-10 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, at East Middle School, 1042 E. Mill, Plymouth.

Fran Mintz of Jazzercise in Canton will teach participants country and line dancing and then give everyone a chance to practice their newfound skills. Admission is $5, which will go to the playscape.

"I'll break down the steps for them. We'll do about four dances. I'll work with the adults on the popular ones, like the tush push and the achy breaky," Mintz said. "I'll have simpler dances for the kids. Don't be afraid to bring your kids. There is something for them to do."

Participants will have an opportunity to take a break and just observe others dancing, as well. Young Country radio will donate T-shirts and other promotional items for the fund-raiser.

Residents of all ages are invited to attend the event, organized specifically for the playscape effort. "No experience is necessary to participate," said Jan Pickard, playscape volunteer. "Come out and it will be fun."

Pizza and pop will be available. Organizers also will be selling the playscape's T-shirt bearing the official name — Heritage Hideout — and logo.

Organizers have been scheduling a number of fund-raisers for the playscape that will be built in Heritage Park. Organizers have about $40,000

Performers: The Plymouth-Canton Park Players will perform "Wild Oats" at 8 p.m. Nov. 17-19 at Plymouth Salem High School auditorium, 46181 Joy Road. Above, cast members Gabe Burnstein (left) and Amy Law rehearse a scene. After the play there will be a "Chili Chuck Wagon Dinner Event." For ticket information, call 416-7723.

Memorial service

The L.J. Griffin Funeral Home will have a memorial service at its Canton Chapel, 42600 Ford Road, west of Lilley, at 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17.

The invitation is open to anyone who would like to gather with other families and friends in memory of a loved one who has died recently or in the more distant past. If you plan to attend, call the funeral home, 981-1700.

Economic club

The public is invited to attend the Canton Economic Club at which Bill Ballenger, publisher of "Inside Michigan Politics," will speak at noon Wednesday, Nov. 16, at St. John Neumann Catholic Church, 44800 Warren, Canton. Ballenger will analyze and comment on the results of the election. Tickets are $12. Reservations can be made by calling Joan Noricks at the foundation, 981-3002.

The Canton Goodfellows will provide a canister for donations at the registration table. The Goodfellows provide food and clothing to needy Canton residents at the holidays.

Chamber events

A business to business mixer will be hosted by the Canton Chamber of Commerce 5-7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15, at Mountain Jack restaurant, 2100 N. Haggerty Road. The mixer is sponsored by attorneys Ronald and Richard DeLamieulleure. Tickets are $6 for members, $12 for non-members.

The chamber is also hosting a grand opening of Piccadilly Petal'er at 5 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17, at the store, 42047 Ford Road in the F&M Plaza. Owner Ray Mierzejewski said his store specializes in cut flowers. He is celebrating his one-year anniversary at the new store.

The chamber and Canton Township will host the Third Thursday Update at 7:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 17, at Palermo's restaurant, 44948 Ford Road in Canton Landing shopping center. The event is free and includes a complimentary continental breakfast. This month's topic, "DDA Update," will be presented by Canton Supervisor Tom Yack.

For more information about chamber functions, contact Linda Shapona, executive director, 453-4040.

Goodfellows make plans to help the needy

BY JOANNE MALISEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

The Canton Goodfellows are gearing up for the holiday season by lining up volunteers and accepting donations to ensure that there is "No Child Without a Christmas."

The focus is on the Goodfellows' annual paper sale — 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3 — from which the organization raises money to provide 82 food baskets for needy families and toys for 156 children. Families are identified by the Salvation Army in Plymouth.

"Every child will get at least one toy," said Nancy Spencer, Goodfellows president.

The paper sale is the only fundraiser sponsored by the organization. Volunteers are needed to sell the papers at 23 locations in Canton. Anyone who would like to sell papers should call Spencer, 397-8875. Volunteers may also show up at Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 3.

"I would appreciate a two-hour block of time. But whatever they want to give is appreciated," Spencer said.

From the donations received, the Goodfellows will be able to buy toys for the kids, as well as provide a traditional Christmas dinner of turkey and the fixings in the food baskets. Children at East Middle School will again collect food donations for the baskets, as will Dr. Robert Potter, a Canton chiropractor.

Again this year, women in the community will buy or make clothes for dolls that are donated for the Goodfellows effort. The annual doll judging contest is scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday, Dec. 9, at Canton Township Hall where the dolls will be displayed.

Donations of food, socks, underwear and mittens will also be accepted for the effort. Items may be dropped off to the receptionist on the first floor of township hall. If you are making a large donation of items or a cash donation, contact Spencer first.

Deer crashes through window

Listed below are some of the Canton fire and rescue incidents reported during the past week, as well as fire safety tips and programs available free to the community. Year-to-date runs for the Canton Fire Department: 3,073 (compared to 3,070 total in 1993). In the past week, the department had 101 runs.

■ DEER GOES THROUGH WINDOW

With the help of the Canton Fire Department and Critter Control staff, a 5-point buck was released to the wild after the deer crashed through the front window of a house in the 44000 block of North Spring just before 5:30 p.m. Nov. 7.

Firefighters were called to assist Canton police and Critter Control in capturing the deer after it entered the house, where it caused damage to furniture, walls and the ceiling. The deer, which was slightly injured when it crashed through the window, was bleeding from its face.

Three tranquilizer darts were used to help calm the deer. Finally, two firefighters and Critter Control employees wrestled the deer to the floor and removed it from the house. Owners of the home were not injured.

■ HOUSE FIRE

No one was at home when a fire broke out in a bedroom of a home on Roundtable West shortly after 3 p.m. Nov. 7.

Firefighters were called by a neighbor who saw smoke coming from the second story of the house. When firefighters arrived, not much smoke was visible from the outside. When they entered the house it was filled with smoke, particularly the second story.

Firefighters discovered that the fire started with a waterbed. The bed was destroyed. The majority of damage to the house was from smoke. Firefighters removed the smoke and ventilated the house with pressure fans.

■ SAFETY TIP

Residents are reminded that should their clothing catch on fire, they should use "Stop, Drop and Roll" to extinguish the fire.

The method involves stopping what you are doing, dropping to the ground and rolling until the fire is out. "The more you run (when your clothes are on fire), the more you fan the fire," said firefighter Mike Caruso.

■ PROGRAMS OFFERED

Canton residents and businesses are reminded that a number of programs are available to them for free from the fire department.

Programs include CPR and basic first aid classes, juvenile fire setzers, babysitter awareness and tours and department presentations.

■ CPR/First Aid: Groups may sign up for training for adult, infant/child and first aid classes. Groups can be as small as three to four people. Most of the classes are about four hours. Participants receive a card that says they completed the course. The only cost to participants is the purchase of a $12.72 book. For more information, contact Sgt. Jim Davison, 453-4114.

■ Juvenile fire setzers: This is a program for youths whose parents, teachers or school principals are concerned about fire setting, or pulling fire alarms or abnormal fixtures with fire. Firefighters meet with parents and children. "We let them know the importance of fire alarms, who would be left in danger if the department had to respond to a false alarm," said firefighter Greg Teller, who works in the program. If counseling is needed for the child, a referral is given. For more information, call fire prevention, 397-5348.

■ Babysitter awareness: These are sessions for youths interested in babysitting. Information is provided explaining what to do in cases of emergency, as well as basic first aid. For information, call fire prevention, 397-5348.

■ Classes and tours: Groups, homeowners associations and businesses interested in learning fire prevention and fire safety, such as the use of extinguishers, may contact fire prevention, 397-5348.

■ MAN HURT IN FALL

A man in his mid-30s was injured when he jumped over a retaining wall near the on-ramp to I-275 at Michigan Avenue and fell 30 feet just before 10:30 p.m. Nov. 5.

Firefighters had to drive the rescue unit onto the nearby bike path to reach the man who was transported to Annapolis Hospital with possible leg and hip injuries.

Chamber elects new leadership

The Canton Chamber of Commerce announced the results of its recent election for executive board officers.

In 1995, chamber president will be Janet Volant of First of America; vice president of operations, Kaye Woodcock of KB Products; vice president of membership, Carol Folker of Key Services; vice president of government relations, Phil Lajoie of Norrell Temporary Services; vice president of business and economic development, David Pifer of Fairfield Inn by Marriott; vice president of community development, Virginia Hauck of Canton Place; and treasurer/secretary, Scott Koll, CPA.

Other directors who were elected are: Tom Adamusik, Regal Construction; Lee Bittinger, Re/Max Crossroads; Bob Boyer, Boyer's Meat Processing; Bob Carrigan, Alphagraphics; Dr. Tom Gerou, chiropractor; Mike Gerou, attorney; David Griffin, L.J. Griffin Funeral Home; Bruce Guastella, My Generation Jewelry; Gene Kafia, Uniglobe Port to Port Travel; Scott Koll, CPA; and Mel Morris, Mel's Auto Clinic.

Editor's notes:
Listed below are some of the construction projects, including residential and commercial, as well as road projects, that may interest Canton residents. This column will run intermittently to keep residents abreast of development in the community.

The following road projects are planned or under way in the township this year:

- Design work is under way to widen Canton Center Road. From Cherry Hill north to Ford. It will be a five-lane road to help handle additional north-south traffic. The Wayne County project is being financed with 80 percent federal tax money and 20 percent county money. The project is expected to be bid and begin in 1995 with completion in 1996.
- The paving of Summit Parkway has been completed. The new road is a boulevard that runs west of Canton Center Road as an extension of Palmer Road. The parkway will lead to the new Summit on the Park community center, the Pheasant Run Golf Course and some homes in the neighborhoods surrounding the golf course.
- The paving of Palmer Road. Lotz to Hannan, is almost completed. It includes installation of a new bridge on Palmer. The project is financed through a special assessment district.
- Construction of the passing lane on northbound Canton Center at Hanford is expected to begin the week of Nov. 7 and be completed in approximately two weeks.
- Work is continuing on the Ford Road resurfacing from Napier to Marlowe, just east of Sheldon. Work on the state-owned road is being done by the Michigan Department of Transportation. Work is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

■ Streetscape: Brick pavers are being installed in Canton's Downtown Development Authority project on Ford Road, Sheldon to Morton Taylor. All trees for the project are planted and installation of the decorative limestone cap on the brick walls has begun. Pedestrian light poles are expected to be installed in late November. With the exception of some perennial plantings, most of the DDA project could be completed this year.

■ New subdivisions: Two more Sunflower subdivisions between Canton Center and Beck roads are being proposed through the planning process. Developers are requesting tentative preliminary plan approval and a conceptual design approval for Sunflower 12, which would be south of Hanford, and Sunflower North, south of Warren.

■ Industrial development: Daink Clutch has proposed a 52,250-square-foot building on a five-acre site south of Koppernick, west of Hagerty. Ratiff Trucking, south of Michigan Avenue, east of Beck, is considering a 2,425-square-foot addition on its building. Both projects have been before the planning staff's design review committee for consideration.

For more information about projects, call planning services, 397-5390; infrastructure and new subdivisions, call engineering services and public works, 397-5400; for building-related and ordinance issues, call building and inspection services, 397-5400. Pastor organizing new congregation in Canton

STAFF WRITER

For too long, the Rev. Ken Bieber saw his former church changing biblical interpretations to fit the 1990s.

"The church had become too secular, too pluralistic," said Bieber, the pastor for Canton's new church of the Risen Lord, a mission of the Charismatic Episcopal Church of North America. There is another parish in Sterling Heights.

If you're looking for the new church, you won't find it — yet. For now members are meeting in each other's homes for worship services. "Eventually we hope to rent an existing building and then build one."

Not too long ago, Bieber contacted the Charismatic Episcopal Church. "I was told I would be received and was asked to lead a new parish," said Bieber, who with his wife, Diane, has three grown children.

Bieber wasn't always a parish priest. At 39 years of age, the former sales manager went to the seminary. "I had a growing relationship with Christ. It seemed the Lord was calling me to be ordained."

Bieber attended the Trinity Episcopal School for Ministry. He served as vicar and rector at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Bridgeport, Mich.

Like the Episcopal Church, the charismatic church also has bishops. "But we are not a splinter of the Episcopal Church. The Charismatic Episcopal Church — CEC for short — began in June 1992, founded by three charismatic churches in other parts of the country. There are now approximately 100 congregations around the country."

"They began to hunger for more of what the church could be," Bieber said of the CEC's founders. "The CEC looks for understanding of the Scriptures."

Bieber said the CEC gives a place for those who are stifled or are tired of what he calls the liberal trends such as rejecting the Bible or changing the meanings of the Scriptures.

The CEC has blended three streams of worship: the historical/sacramental liturgies and symbols of the traditional church, evangelical, which is accepting the Bible as the word of God, and the charismatic experience of the Holy Spirit, Bieber said. "All of these things are meant to lead to the worship of God," he added.

Though not mandatory, church members are expected to participate in the charismatic experience either by speaking in tongues, operating in the gifts of the Holy Spirit, such as in healing, and prophesying, Bieber said.

"There are clear teachings on sexual behavior and abortion to name a few issues. This is a church of values," Bieber said. "This church is not afraid to say Jesus is the Lord."

Anyone who might be interested in the church or would like to attend worship services should call member Bill McNeill, 397-1553.

Sculpting: Peter Rockwell, son of artist Norman Rockwell, puts finishing touches on a sculpture to be included with the Plymouth Playscape Project.

Canton Chamber of Commerce will host annual holiday party

The Canton Chamber of Commerce will again host a holiday party for its members and to collect donations for Gene "Santa" Reeves, who helps various children's charities.

The dinner dance at 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 2, will be at Fellows Creek Golf Club. The event will include hors d'oeuvres, dining and dancing. The chamber acknowledges the following event sponsors: Alphagraphics, Silver Sounds Professional DJs, McCabe Funeral Home, KB Products, Boyer's Meat Processing and First of America Bank.

The 92-year-old Santa Reeves has spent the last 59 years collecting money for various children's charities, such as the Dorsey School for the Blind and charities for retarded children and foster grandparents.

The chamber will collect donations for Santa Reeves throughout the year.

Anyone who is interested in attending the party and donating to the charities should call the chamber, 453-4040.

The chamber will sponsor "Santa on Wheels" for children in the community. Santa will be stationed in a recreational vehicle in the parking lots of a number of shopping center in Canton in December. Photographs with Santa will be available and a package full of goodies from area merchants will be given to each child who stops by.

Santa will be at the following locations on the following days:

- 1-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3, at the Golden Gate Shopping Center on the corner of Joy and Lilley.
- 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4, at the Coventry Commons Shopping Center on the corner of Joy and Morton Taylor.
- 1-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 10, at Home Depot on Ford Road, east of I-275.
- 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 11, at Canton Corners Shopping Center on the corner of Ford and Lilley.
- 1-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 17, at Harvard Square Shopping Center on the corner of Ford and Sheldon.
- 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 18, at New Towne (Kmart) Shopping Center on the corner of Ford and Sheldon.

Artists' hands help bring this play sculpture to life

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Norman Rockwell's son Peter and grandson Tom started work Tuesday on the Plymouth Playscape Project.

As Plymouth and Canton high school students looked on, the two chiseled bits of stone from a block set toward the rear of an art classroom. There, the steady "plink-plink" of hammer against chisel was broken only by the sound of bits of stone landing on floor tiles.

Real work on the large wooden play structure for kids at Plymouth Township Park won't get started until next spring, after volunteers have completed efforts to raise nearly $100,000 to build the structure.

But the Rockwells were in town last week to create a stone "protoscope" or model sculpture to be included with the finished playscape.

"It's a talking head," Peter Rockwell explained.

Once the sculpture is installed, a length of PVC pipe will be attached to one of the mouths chiseled into the stone, so kids can speak into the pipe at one end of the play structure and others can hear their voices coming from the stone.

"It will have three mouths, four eyes, five noses and two foreheads — it may have three chins," Peter Rockwell said, smiling.

"The idea of doing faces with more than one nose and more than two eyes goes back so far nobody knows," he said, adding it's often a theme in ancient sculpture.

It was Tom who got father Peter involved with the Plymouth Playscape Project, as Tom works with Leathers and Associates, consultants to the playscape project.

Because Peter Rockwell had already designed a sculpture in the township park a few years ago, son Tom explained he decided to call his father to see if he'd like to create another, to go with the playscape.

Peter Rockwell lives in Italy, where he does sculpture and art restoration projects. Tom lives in Ithaca, N.Y.

What's it like to be the son of a famous artist?

"What's had about it is people often expect my work to look like his," Peter Rockwell said. "The name recognition thing, that's handy," he said.

"As an artist, sometimes I'm frustrated that people don't look at his paintings as paintings," Rockwell said, explaining that the subject matter of his father's paintings is often the focus for the public.

"It isn't that Norman Rockwell painted middle America," his son said.

For information on volunteering with the playscape committee or donating money for the project, call Kim Mizzi at 454-4829 or Marybeth Yanik at 454-9614.

Yule walk scheduled

Wrap yourself in the warmth of Northville at the annual Christmas Walk, from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20, in the downtown shops and restaurants decorated in the Victorian tradition.

Enjoy the sights and sounds of a hometown Christmas and times past. Merchants and townspeople welcome visitors with free holiday treats and Christmas carols. Local organizations prepare traditional fare including figgy pudding, Music Boosters' famous pumpkin bread, cider, hot chocolate and much more. The Northville Garden Club will sell fresh evergreen roping and wreaths.

Victorian Santa will be present for the little ones and horse and carriage rides will be available.

already, including $30,000 from Canton Township.

It's expected that about $80,000-$90,000 will need to be raised. "It depends on how much donated materials we get from the community," said playscape organizer Christine Donaldson, who brought the possibilities of the playscape to the community's attention.

The playscape is proposed to be about 14,000 square feet. But the size will depend on how many volunteers turn out to help build the structure next spring, Donaldson said.

She received a design for the playscape from architects John Dean and Dave Isanello of Robert Leathers and Associates. The architects met with hundreds of elementary school children in October to develop the design.

"These kids are so excited about it," Donaldson said. Canton's playscape will feature a castle maze with a spiral staircase to a tower, as well as a bouncing bridge, twisted slide, fort, swings, tires and a tot lot.

The 3-D maze will have a center room with mirrors, as well as a cave and tunnels. The playscape also will have a pirate ship with a crew's nest. It will boast a bouncing star, spider web and climber, fire pole, tube slide and a fort to accommodate children in wheelchairs.

As a fund-raiser, organizers will offer portions of the playground, such as the maze, to be bought figuratively — for a certain donation. The buyers will have permanent markers with their names on those portions of the playground, Donaldson said.

Organizers are requesting donations of materials and equipment to build the play structure. Donaldson has a lengthy list of specific materials that are needed. For more information, she can be reached at 261-8928.

youths to leave. With community-based policing, the department's selective enforcement unit, for example, will work with patrol officers to seek not only immediate relief for the businesses, but a solution for the youths by working with parks and recreation and the schools, Santomauro said.

Today, patrol officers provide incident information to detectives, narcotics, auto theft, special enforcement unit or crime prevention. "In this loop of information, what ends up happening is that we react to things. This isn't solving problems," Santomauro said.

"We had not tapped community resources. We were literally forced to identify these resources."

The township will be mapped into districts in which patrol officers will operate as teams. The teams will be among those groups, such as detectives or crime prevention, to which incident information will be passed. If a neighborhood is having a number of larcenies from vehicles, the patrol team could meet with residents to talk about protecting property, for example, Santomauro said.

Community policing doesn't mean crimes in any way will be discounted. "This does not mean we will accommodate people who break the law," Santomauro said.

Police staff has been working on the community policing concept for more than a year. Their first step was to identify groups who are customers of the police department, such as residents, businesses and schools.

"One thing we didn't want to do was fall into a national trend unless it provided improvements for Canton," Santomauro said. Before community policing becomes a reality in Canton, police officials will meet with businesses, homeowners and other identified customer groups, such as schools and Neighborhood Watch groups.

"We see this as an evolving program. This program is not designed to provide an officer in each neighborhood. We will educate the public as to what they can reasonably expect from the program. We can't force-feed this. People have to buy into it," Santomauro said. "By finding long-term solutions to problems we will be a lot more effective in providing our services."

MADD readying red ribbons

The Wayne County Chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving has scheduled its red ribbon campaign kickoff for 9 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 22, at the county building, 600 Randolph in Detroit.

Guest speakers include Detroit Police Chief Isiah McKinstry and Wayne County commissioner Andrew Richner, R-Grosse Pointe.

The red ribbon campaign is organized to encourage drivers to tie red ribbons on their car antennas or door handles to symbolize their concern for the victims of drunken drivers. Red ribbons are available at the Wayne County MADD office, 515 N. Wayne Road in Westland.

Some 300 area honor roll students will be praised for their academic achievements in the 1994 Parade Honor Corps, a specialty unit in the 68th Michigan Thanksgiving Parade.

The Honor Corps will feature students from 86 public and private high schools in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Area school superintendents were asked to select outstanding students to represent their districts in the parade.

The Honor Corps will be ninth in a line-up of more than 100 parade units on the 2.2 mile route. The Detroit area Eagle Scouts and first class Girl Scouts will lead the students. Forty Honor Corps alumni, who marched in last year's parade, will return to join this year's honorees.

The parade will be televised on channel 4.

Friend of education

Keith awarded: The Michigan Occupational Education Association has named state Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City (at center), a "Lifetime Friend of Education." Association director Rick Perry said in a press release that "the 2,000 members who are career-technical administrators and educators selected Keith for his hard work and dedication to career technical education throughout his 22 years in the Michigan Legislature." Keith is the co-chairman of the House Education Committee and is retiring from the Legislature at the end of the year.

Many employees offered separation or early retirement packages; financial planning a necessity.

Many employees will need more than luck to make the most effective early retirement or separation decisions, says certified financial planner Chuck Bolans.

Many people take advice from well-meaning friends. The problem is that their situation could be significantly different from yours, and the results could be significantly different, too.

"Do you or a family member have the expertise to accurately evaluate the tax implications concerning early retirement separation packages?" asks Bolans. "Will you really be able to devise a plan to make sure your money lasts as long as you do?" Bolans continues. "It's no easy undertaking to implement an overall retirement program that will work to address these and the numerous other critical questions that can impact your retirement."

Bolans Financial Planning Group Inc. has specialized in helping people plan for financial security upon retirement since 1982. All members of the Bolans professional staff are Certified Financial Planners. For people who are facing retirement or separation, Bolans and his team of professionals can make an important contribution in helping them make the right decisions. "Personalized financial planning can help you get the most out of your retirement assets," says Bolans.

Bolans Financial Planning Group will soon be putting their knowledge to practical use in a free seminar. The seminar will address financial issues associated with early retirement and separation packages, including when to retire, what are the pros and cons of a monthly annuity vs. a lump sum payout, and tax planning to minimize taxes - now and in the future; how to deal with the new withholding laws; and how to deal on your lump sum before 59 1/2 without a penalty, to name a few.

The seminar will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, November 15, at the Wyndham Garden Hotel, 42100 Crescent Blvd., Novi and at 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, November 16, at the Somerset Inn, 2601 W. Big Beaver Rd., Troy. "Even if you don't normally attend seminars, you can't afford to miss this one," says Bolans. For reservations, call (810) 262-1466 or toll free, 1-800-444-PLAN.

Customers sharing same phone number

Ameritech has announced that customers in area codes 313 and 810 have begun to share the same phone numbers. The first duplicate numbers were issued in Livonia on Nov. 5. The numbers match those already in use in Byron, located near Flint in the 810 area code. Further duplicate numbers will be used routinely throughout the two areas.

Livonia's first duplicate numbers have been assigned to a business customer who uses the numbers mostly for an internal office system, according to an Ameritech press release.

The 810 area code was created and took effect Aug. 10. It is needed because southeast Michigan was running out of phone numbers.

The new area code will help meet the rising demand for personal pagers, fax machines, computer modems and cellular phones, which create an enormous need for new numbers.

More than three million new telephone numbers will be created by the 810 area code, enough to last 15-20 years.

Edison program aids low-income residents

Low-income area residents can protect themselves against the cold this winter through Detroit Edison-sponsored programs and other forms of aid that prevent electric service shutoffs.

"We urge customers with bill-payment problems to call us at (800) 477-4747 as soon as possible so we can help them avoid shutoffs," said Edison spokesman Bob Buckler in a press release.

Edison's programs range from energy education and conservation measures to financial assistance.

The utility also pledges to offer up to $1 million to help customers through donations to The Health and Warmth Fund and bill credits to qualified homeless shelters. THAW is a nonprofit organization of Southeastern Michigan community agencies, businesses and churches. It will give one-time energy payment assistance beginning Jan. 9 using donated funds.

When qualified low-income customers have exhausted other public and private community resources, THAW may provide last-resort energy assistance.

Donors can send checks or money orders to: The Heat and Warmth Fund, P.O. Box 1000, Plymouth, 48170. Donations also may be charged using VISA or MasterCard by calling (800) 866-8429.

President for a day

Schools should address sexual harassment issues

Question: When I was in junior high school back in the 1970s a few of the "guys" were constantly making sexual remarks and not keeping their hands at home. It really hurt, but back then we just didn't say much. Today I think I would. Is the issue of sexual harassment in schools now receiving proper attention? Is this now a legitimate issue in school settings? Are schools addressing the issue?

Answer: Katy Lyle, a high school student at Central High in Duluth, Minn., felt weird and violated and mentally hurt knowing her name was on the wall of a boys' bathroom stall. The word "slut" and other sexually explicit graffiti far coarser and cruder was visible. Katy finally got the nerve to tell her parents who tried to work through the system. After two years, the graffiti with Katy's name, cut into the metal wall, was still there. Nothing happened.

The parents filed a complaint with the Minnesota Department of Human Rights criticizing school officials' treatment of Katy's case. After three years, the Human Rights Department, in 1991, gained a ruling in Katy's favor and she was awarded $15,000 in compensation. This was the first monetary award in a school peer sexual harassment case in the country.

More importantly, according to Katy (who appeared on numerous talk shows), was that it made (peer) sexual harassment in school a more talkable issue. Changes did occur in the district's thinking including such a simple issue as directing the custodians to check daily for and remove offensive graffiti. How a school could leave the graffiti on the wall for three years is a bit too much to grasp.

You ask if this is now a legitimate issue and are schools addressing the issue. Some probably are and some probably have not had time (with everything else going on) to come up with a plan or simply don't see it as a priority yet... but they will.

Back in the good ol' days we simply went after the graffiti writers and had them scrub and/or paint the walls. And as I recall, as a former high school principal, the remarks on the girls' bathroom stalls were as gross with clear explicit language as was found in the boys' area. That's a point that also needs addressing.

All this notwithstanding, this Clarence Thomas-initiated issue is now with us. And in my opinion, I believe those schools that don't have a sexual harassment policy should develop one. Because sexual harassment is an issue whose time has come... like it or not. Take a few cases that have moved some school districts to come up with a policy.

In the Doe vs. Petaluma City School District (California), a girl sued her former junior high school for $1 million saying school officials ignored her complaints of sexual taunts from classmates for years. The judge ruled that the student has to prove school officials intentionally discriminated against her. The Superintendent, Chuck Cadman, said, "I welcome the judge's decision." The case is pending.

Jill Olson, a student in the Chaska, Minn., schools won $40,000 in 1993 when it was ruled school officials had created "an atmosphere that promotes sexual harassment." The girl, Olson, complained when she discovered she was one of 25 girls on a list being circulated around the school, girls who were supposedly the most sexually desirable (with an inference to... available) in her school. The judge ruled that school officials had created an offensive atmosphere that promoted sexual harassment.

It is beyond me to understand how a principal is supposed to know there is a list circulated around the school. I doubt any of the boys ran up to the principal and said, "Hey, man, see the list we got." But times have changed... principals are supposed to know now or get sued??? Conversely, we may have been too insensitive in this area. As part of the good ol' boys generation, we did believe boys were using inappropriate language they were using in movies. It's more just hurting someone with words than sexual harassment. I disagree. Even a beginning student in this issue knows that sexual harassment "isn't about sex" it's about intimidation and power, power over women in this case.

DOC DOYLE

If a school district doesn't have a sexual harassment policy, I believe it's a board agenda issue that should be discussed. No little 7-year-old girl on a school bus should be subjected to the treatment our little 7-year-old girl, in this column, experienced.

ment... which included threatening phone calls, constant in-school taunts and continual demeaning school wall graffiti. "She has no strength left and feels worthless," her mother said. Today, we can't take some of these guys out in the woodshed and straighten them out. Because that's another lawsuit.

Consider little Chelzie Henta, a first-grade student in Eden Prairie, Minn. Some sixth-grade boys, on the school bus, used words for her like "b...". The 7-year-old child asked her mother what the boys meant when they said she should have oral sex with her father. Where do these children get these mindsets? It's not part of any school curriculum. Of course it's not the language children constantly are exposed to on TV... in movies... how old-fashioned that thinking is!

The Superintendent of Eden Prairie, Gerald McCoy said, "We tell the boys the language they are using is inappropriate. It's more just hurting someone with words than sexual harassment." I disagree. Even a beginning student in this issue knows that sexual harassment "isn't about sex" it's about intimidation and power, power over women in this case.

Schools should address the issue and develop a school policy. "The fear of legal action is very real, as it should be. But what schools don't realize is that, by not addressing the issue, they increase their liability," said Susan Strass, author of a curriculum guide called "Sexual Harassment and Teens." To which one board member in Eden Prairie at a meeting said, "if we let every student know what their rights are in every situation, we're going to lose big money."

If a school district doesn't have a sexual harassment policy, I believe it's a board agenda issue that should be discussed. No little 7-year-old girl on a school bus should be subjected to the treatment our little 7-year-old girl, in this column, experienced.

In 1994 it's like: Georgie, Porgie, Puddin and Pie, Kissed the girls; they didn't cry! When Georgie, Porgie came out to play a sexual harassment subpoena was on its way. This is the real world!

Voters change very little in state political makeup

BY TIM RICHARD STAFF WRITER

What changed? Some 3.1 million Michiganders went to the polls Tuesday after being inflicted with multi-millions of campaign ads. They changed very little in state and local government.

Governor? They kept Republican John Engler with his promises of stable school funding and lower taxes. No change. Secretary of state? Most people don't know what that office does, as even GOP winner Candice Miller admits, and are unaware of how political ideology makes a difference.

Attorney general? Democratic "Eternal General" Frank Kelley is still there, starting his second one-third of a century. No change.

State Senate? It's still 23-16 Republican. The parties traded one seat, the GOP losing Gil DiNello of Macomb County, Democrats losing the seat of the retiring Bill Faust, D-Westland, to Loren Bennett, R-Canton. Very little change.

State House? Republicans netted one seat, by Jim Ryan of Redford Township, to take 56-54 control. Actually, they have had a philosophical majority for at least four years because many Democrats voted conservatively on abortion, tax cuts and auto insurance reform. Little change.

Supreme Court? Justice Conrad Mallett Jr., a Democratic nominee, led the ticket. The GOP hung onto the seat of retiring Republican Robert Griffin. The highest court is still 3-3-1. No change. State Board of Education? Ah, here is where Republicans can put their stamp on Michigan's most important governmental function. Here is the body that will approve core curriculum standards that were decreed as part of Proposal A.

ANALYSIS

Here is the body that will approve school accreditation standards. Here is the body that actually will implement many of the "quality" slogans that filled the air.

The State Board of Education has the constitutional duty of leadership and supervision of public education — not the Legislature, not local school districts which have no "home rule" power.

Going into the election, the board was 4-4. Republicans picked up two Democratic seats. On paper, it's 6-2 Republican. The philosophical break down, however, is a bit different.

Two holdover Republicans with extensive public school backgrounds — Dorothy Beardmore of Rochester (elected) and Katherine DeGrow of Eaton Rapids (Engler appointee).

Four doctrinaire conservative Republicans with no background in public school decision-making: Gary Wolfram, economics professor from Hillsdale College, a hotbed of anti-government ideology, an Engler appointee; Marilyn Lundy, a Detroit whose background is Catholic social services and who doesn't believe students should have the existing constitutional right of free speech; newcomer Sharon Wise, a Republican district chair and co-owner of an Owosso well-drilling business; and newcomer Clark Durant, attorney, former Reagan administration official and founder of a private school in Detroit.

Two holdover Democrats — Barbara Roberts Mason, a teachers union official, and Kathleen Straus, head of a private school in Detroit but with a background in public school lobbying.

"Policy should dominate process" — that's how Engler described the GOP's nomination, and his support, of Wise and Durant this year.

In short, step 2 in the reform of Michigan public schools, the quality step, is likely to be dominated by state board members lacking public school board background. Ironically, it's a body that Engler and the anti-public school forces have advocated abolishing.

Meanwhile, the evangelical "Religious Right" actually suffered a blow with DiNello's downfall. DiNello chaired the special Senate committee that wrote a scathing attack on the Michigan Model for Comprehensive Health Education. His hearings provided for charges that the health curriculum taught Satanism and promiscuity, and attacked parental authority.

And he was the lone Republican incumbent defeated Nov. 8.

Roads need work, report says

Michigan needs to spend an additional $8.9 billion — or $900 million a year for 10 years — to make needed repairs to its county road, street and bridge system, according to a report by The Road Information Program.

Other findings of the TRIP study include: There is no funding for 90 percent of needed county road reconstruction, and more than $3 billion is needed for traffic capacity improvements.

The report, based on a statewide survey of Michigan's county road commissions, found that almost three-fourths of Michigan's paved county roads are in need of resurfacing or reconstruction repairs because they are in either poor or fair condition.

In addition, 39 percent of county bridges are deficient and also in need of repair. "This report shows what Michigan motorists know from driving every day on roads throughout the state," said County Road Association of Michigan spokesman Jim Little. "There is a critical need to make repairs to this state's roads and bridges immediately."

Of the $8.9 billion backlog of unfunded road and bridge repair needs, the report found that $593 million is needed for bridge improvements, $1.1 billion is needed for road resurfacing, more than $4 billion is needed for road reconstruction, and more than $3 billion is needed for traffic capacity improvements.

As repair needs on the county system increased considerably, travel on county roads grew 42 percent over the past 10 years to 27.86 billion vehicle miles of travel in 1992, the last year data are available.

Michigan's county road system is the fourth largest in the nation. The Road Information Program is a private, nonprofit research organization that researches, evaluates and distributes economic and technical data on highway transportation issues.

Counties only have funding to repair 6 percent of deficient bridges in the next year.

Insurance chief says reform try heads back to Lansing

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan voters said no to auto insurance reform and a Constitutional Convention but approved limits on inmates' appeal rights and a funding plan for state parks.

Proposal C, a law to cut auto insurance costs and premiums, was rejected 251,937 to 138,818, after a brutal advertising campaign between insurers and business groups (for) and the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association (against).

Proposal C's support gradually slipped as trial lawyers' ads hammered home the message that "No means No" — a reference to 1992's Proposal D, also defeated by voters.

"We'll be moving back to the Legislature for new reform meaasures," said Doug Cruce, president of the Michigan Insurance Federation and chief lobbyist for them. "We look forward to seeing MADD pressing forward to end cooperative negligence lawsuits in our auto insurance system. Never again should drinking drivers or others who cause accidents be allowed to file lawsuits."

Trial Lawyers petitioned for a referendum after Republicans in the Legislature, with help from a dozen or so Democrats, passed Public Act 143 of 1993 to cut insurance premiums 16 percent in return for limits on personal injury benefits, fees to health care providers and rights of at-fault drivers to sue.

Even with their gains in the Legislature, Republicans are in no better position to pass a similar law in 1995-96 because of the risk the Trial Lawyers again will petition to place it on the ballot.

It was the second straight ballot victory for Trial Lawyers, who opposed the 1992 Proposal D, placed before voters by a petition drive sponsored by AAA Michigan.

Turndown

Proposal A, the every-16-years call for a state Constitutional Convention, never had strong public support and was turned down 268,567 to 99,682.

The next chance voters will have to rewrite the state's basic document will be in 2010. The current constitution was adopted in 1963.

If it had been approved, voters within six months would have been asked to elect delegates from their legislative districts. The Con-Con could then offer voters a totally rewritten constitution or a series of amendments.

Proposal B, adopted 290,764 to 88,628, will amend the constitution to limit the right of convicts who plead guilty (or no contest) to appeal their convictions or sentences to the state Court of Appeals.

It's expected to reduce the Court of Appeals' caseload by 25 percent, according to legislative backers who put it on the ballot. State court officials have been asking for dozens more appellate judges because of the current caseload.

Critics said it was dangerous to tamper with essential rights. They also argued that fewer defendants would plead guilty and that more trials would result. But opponents never mounted a campaign against Proposal B.

Most popular

Proposal P — for "parks" — was the most popular with voters, winning 283,515 to 89,192 support. Former Gov. William G. Milliken was honorary chair of the movement sparked by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Proposal P will amend the constitution's financial article to establish a "Michigan State Parks Endowment Fund" to be fed by expanding the existing Natural Resources Trust Fund, funded by revenues from oil and gas leases of state lands. The parks endowment can be used to operate and maintain Michigan's 75-year-old state park system but not for land acquisition.

The endowment fund is expected, in time, to provide enough guaranteed support for state parks that the Department of Natural Resources won't need to lobby the Legislature for its operating budget. State funding of the parks fell from 80 percent of their budget to 20 percent since 1982 as Lansing put more money into welfare, schools and prisons.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Specialty birds get highest marks in poll

Now that I think back on it, we were born and raised on chicken and ground stew beef, except of course, on Fridays when we ate macaroni and cheese.

For all around cooking, you just can't beat a good ground stewing beef, and it's available just about anywhere. But when it comes to making great chicken, some of the birds I've purchased at my local grocery store left much to be desired.

In September, "Cook's" Magazine conducted a very unscientific test on America's number one meat. Chicken is numero uno because consumption has doubled over the past 20 years. Each and every man, woman and child in the U.S. eats somewhere's in the neighborhood of 70 pounds of chicken per year. What "Cook's" did was pit four of the top-selling supermarket chickens against some of the most widely available premium chickens.

You guessed it, out of a field of nine entries, the supermarket chickens took fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth place.

Premium chickens

The top four birds were specialty brands. "Because chicken is so perishable, until fairly recently it was a local product" said Jack Bishop the author of the article, who along with some of the best known chefs and foodies in the country, judged the contest.

For the uninitiated, what makes a poor-tasting chicken deals with everything from the feed it is fed to their temperature after processing and during shipping. When a bird is rushed to market the way the "big boys" do it to keep costs down, the consumer usually suffers the consequences. But what makes a really great chicken? The folks at Bell & Evans (rated numero uno by the taste testers at "Cook's"), says that in addition to formulating the best feed, Bell & Evans ships their chickens loose on ice in 40 pound boxes and not prewrapped.

The folks at the oldest chicken company in America claim that problems begin to arise when prewrapped birds cannot "weep" - a natural process whereby blood and fluids slowly drain from the birds. Problems in taste and texture happen when the bloods and fluids from the birds coagulate and freeze in the chicken, something you can actually taste when comparing chickens.

Taste comparison

I located one of their highly touted birds and put it up next to a whole chicken from a metro Detroit grocery store that cost only 59 cents per pound. The differences in appearance, texture, taste and aroma were astounding. Bell & Evans chickens, priced at about $1.59 per pound are available locally at: Byrd's and Martin's Butcher Block in Livonia, and at the Long Lake Market in West Bloomfield.

The chicken receiving second place honors went to the folks at Empire Kosher who market a fresh young broiler at about $1.99 per pound. You can locate these chickens at all Shopping Center Markets in Southfield, West Bloomfield and at the Food Emporium in Livonia.

Folks in search of a more healthy chicken will certainly appreciate the positive third place showing of the D'Artagnan Fresh Free Range Chicken available via their catalogue for about $2.95 per pound plus shipping and handling. All D'Artagnan chickens are raised without antibiotics, growth hormones or stimulants and are fed only organically raised grains.

Even if you don't like chicken, request their catalog, it's one of the best for mail order specialty foods. You can reach them at 1-(800)-327-8246.

Sandra John, general manager of The Good Food Company in Canton, said that just because a brand advertises "Amish" type chicken doesn't necessarily mean that the bird is free range. The Good Food Company sells only Frankenmuth chickens which are naturally free range. The Good Food Company also is in Troy.

If you are relegated to purchasing chicken that might not be the best that money can buy, it's a good to know that whole birds fare better than cut up birds. Look for a broiler, fryer or a roaster and save the stewing hens for chicken soup. Fresh chicken will keep in the refrigerator for 2-3 days. If you have to purchase frozen chicken, watch for "freezer burn," that brownish skin area that is evidence of dehydration or improper storage.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Taste next week:
■ Food is an important part of the "Festival of Lights."

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT
SPECIAL WRITER

From his office window in Milford, Christopher Schmitt can look outside to see a flock of his chickens.

"You learn a lot watching chickens," said Schmitt, a Farmington Hills resident who owns a successful engraving components company that sits amid the birds on 27 acres in Oakland County.

Schmitt and his wife, Trizi, this year bought a chicken processing plant. They are now working hard to market their Frankenmuth Poultry Co.'s low-in-fat chickens.

The Schmitts may be on to something. Their chickens, which are finding their way into Detroit-area supermarkets, average 3.25 grams of fat per serving when cooked, compared to 15 grams for most other supermarket chickens.

Their chickens are regularly inspected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to insure Frankenmuth Poultry's healthier bird claims are true.

Schmitt said his plant is the smallest chicken-processing plant in the country. Its output of 6,000 chickens a week compares to industry-leader Tyson, which produces over 20 million per week.

The secret, said Schmitt and the company's marketing director, Joe Bosse, is in the feed. It includes a molasses-based product, along with corn, cracked soy and alfalfa.

"We don't use any antibiotics, hormones or meat by-products," said Bosse. The drugs are used by many farms to produce a meatier and healthier chicken faster.

Frankenmuth Poultry chickens are raised on farms within 30 miles of the plant and are "free range" birds - though they live indoors on concrete floors they can walk outside.

Frankenmuth Poultry's feed produces a less-fatty bird. The chickens are grown slower - eight weeks compared to the 38 to 42-day average elsewhere in the industry.

"We're the only ones in the U.S. where you can see 'extra-lean' on the label," said Schmitt. "That's of 54 poultry processing plants."

Schmitt bought the farm from Les Dale who experimented on feed improvements as part of his doctorate studies in poultry science at Michigan State University. Dale, who earned his doctorate degree in poultry science from MSU has over 15 years experience. Dale produced a feed that lowered a chicken's body fat to less than 10 percent. The Schmitts, with help from Dale, lowered that to less than five percent.

The chickens taste better and are more healthy, Schmitt said. It produces less grease on the barbecue or in the oven, Bosse said. The challenge is to make their chickens available to more consumers and to make some money doing it.

"They taste different altogether than the chicken you're used to," said Tom Shather, 67, who runs the meats counter at The Roadside Market in Plymouth. "These taste like the chickens I used to have when I was a kid, and I'm almost 70."

Court reporter lays down the law for dinner

BY RENEE SKOGLUND
SPECIAL WRITER

Bob and Debbie Beebe of Canton measure their commute to work in feet rather than miles. They each have offices in their home. Debbie is a freelance court reporter, and Bob is a veteran sales manager for Alberto Culver.

"I go the basement at 9 a.m. and come up at 6 p.m.," said Bob, who spends half of his time of the road, servicing accounts in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

"Debbie goes to her office at 9 a.m. and comes out at around 4 p.m. to start dinner."

"Five. I usually come out at 5 p.m.," Debbie corrects. She acknowledges the advantages of freelancing out of her home. "I can knock off a bit earlier, come in the kitchen and start something, then go back to my office," she said.

However, like her husband, Debbie also spends time "on the road." There are many long afternoons spent in lawyers' offices taking depositions. "It's not a set schedule," she said.

The Beebes are a blended family, with two out of their four adult children living with them. Debbie's daughter, Melissa Lenzner, is a 21-year-old senior at the University of Michigan who recently returned from a year's teaching assignment in France.

Bob's son, Steven, also 21, is a competitive weightlifter and senior at Eastern Michigan University. Although members of the Beebe household go their separate ways during the day, they strive to come together at the dinner hour - whenever that may be.

"Sometimes we might not eat until seven o'clock, but I feel it's an important thing for a family to sit down and eat together. We've done that since we got married," said Debbie.

She uses only fresh ingredients, doesn't prepared and freezes any dishes ahead of time, and seldom uses a Crock-Pot. What's her working woman's secret to producing well-balanced weekday dinners?

"There's no way to say how I manage," she said. "I just do it. When I get home from work, I make dinner. When dinner is ready, we eat."

The Beebes have a business agreement when it comes to preparing the main meal: "She cooks, and I clean," said Bob. "Ninety-nine point nine percent of the time, Bob does the clean-up," Debbie confirms.

However, shopping is 100 percent Debbie's responsibility. She limits it to once every two weeks.

"I write a grocery list. I have a menu plan for the following two weeks. I get exactly what I need and hope I don't have to go back in between."

Shrimp, rice, oat crisp help make Super Supper

SHRIMP AU GRATIN
 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
 1/2 cup chopped onions, sliced
 1 pound uncooked shrimp, peeled and deveined (may use frozen)
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon dry dillweed
 Pinch of pepper
 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
 1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese
 1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese
 Parsley, fresh or dried, to taste
 In medium skillet, melt 1/4 table-spoon butter. Add onion and saute. Add mushrooms and shrimp and cook 5 minutes or until opaque. Do not overcook. Remove from heat. Stir in salt, dillweed and pepper. Turn into a buttered 2-quart cas-erole dish.
 In small skillet, melt remaining butter and stir in bread crumbs. Sprinkle bread crumbs, cheeses and parsley evenly over the shrimp mix-ture. Bake at 400 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until cheese melts. Do not overcook or shrimp will become rubbery. Serves 4.

BEEBE RICE
 1 stick margarine, melted
 1 1/2 cups raw rice
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) French onion soup (undiluted)
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) beef broth (undiluted)
 2 small cans (7 ounces) stems and pieces mushrooms, drained
 Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Melt margarine and pour into a 1 1/2-quart baking dish. Add rice and mix into soup. Add mushrooms and stir. Bake uncovered for one hour mixing occasionally. Cover if rice appears to be getting dry. Serves 4.
 Recipes from Debbie Beebe.

MELISSA'S APPLE OAT CRISP
 1/4 cup granulated sugar
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/2 teaspoon ginger
 Pinch of salt
 4 pounds tart apples (Granny Smith, Pippin, or Jonathan), peeled, cored and cut into 8 wedges per apple
 2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
 Topping:
 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1/2 cup rolled oats, uncooked
 1/2 cup chopped pecans
 Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Combine sugar, cinnamon, ginger and salt in large bowl. Add apples and lemon juice and toss to coat. Spread apple mixture in a shallow 3-quart rectangular baking dish. Sprinkle with topping. Bake 40 minutes or until bubbly. Serve warm, and if you wish, over vanilla ice cream.
 To make topping: combine flour and brown sugar in a bowl. Cut in butter with a pastry blender (or two knives) until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats and pecans.
 For sweeter-tasting apples, add an extra 1/4 cup of sugar. For a more buttery taste, add an extra table-spoon or two of butter.

about as many Frankenmuth Poultry chickens as regular chickens. He said Frankenmuth's whole fryers sell for $1.89 per pound, the others about $1 per pound.
 "You have people who just want to spend $1 a pound. The ones who are health conscious, who are looking at that... will buy the Frankenmuth every time. It's the young people who are the health conscious shoppers."
 Beebe said the company is working on a feed that would produce a chicken with less than three grams of fat per serving. Then, the USDA would allow Frankenmuth Poultry to label its birds "low fat."
 The company is also working to distribute its chickens throughout the Midwest and elsewhere in the country.
 Schmitt said orders have been rising each week as more super-markets stock Frankenmuth birds. One thing that hasn't happened: The company hasn't made money.
 To do that, Schmitt might have to watch his chickens just a little bit more.
 Among the stores that carry Frankenmuth Poultry chickens are: Vic's Fruit Market in Southfield, Shopping Center Markets in West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills, Fisher's Market in Birmingham, and Hollywood and Holiday markets in Royal Oak. Frankenmuth Poultry Co. will ship their chickens for an occasional throughout the U.S. via UPS overnight service. For more information, call (810) 685-8572. See recipes inside.

While managing busy work and school schedules is not to accommodate special requests.
 "They're not honored," said Debbie, who boasts a repertoire of "over a thousand recipes." And, for complaints, while they're allowed, she's only had one over the years — her soybean burgers. "I made them totally from scratch. You know, cook the beans for hours and hours and hours, mash them up. I mean, I spent a whole day with this stuff, and they were gross."
 Debbie Beebe
 Melissa reserves her culinary talents for her fiance, Kevin Henderson, 24, a Canton firefighter. "I make desserts for Kevin to take to work. I make cakes and muffins and apple cobbler to go over ice cream."
 Debbie will soon be busy with plans for Melissa and Kevin's wedding next October. It will simply be one more thing to manage. In between taking depositions, she'll still do the meal planning, grocery shopping and the cooking. And Bob? He'll be to the clean-up.

 If you're looking for a healthy recipe the entire family will enjoy!
 Here's a basic recipe for a seasoned herb mix that can be made in advance.
 Cut up the chicken and dip in any liquid (i.e. milk, wine, juice, etc.)
 Roll immediately in this seasoning mix and place on a baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and then pop under the broiler till golden and crispy. You can prepare the chicken with the skin on or off.

Herb mix picks up flavor of chicken

There is a magnificent little restaurant that is a James Gang favorite: the M&M Cafe in Dearborn on Michigan Avenue at Schaefer just east of Montgomery Ward. We go wild over their lemon chicken. Although they're not too willing to part with their recipe, I've come close.
LEMON CHICKEN
 4 chicken breast halves, skinned and boned, slightly flattened
 1 egg yolk, beaten
 1/2 cup all purpose flour seasoned with 1 tablespoon Mrs. Dash seasoning mix
 1/4 cup olive oil
 2 cups sliced mushrooms
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 teaspoon minced garlic
 1/4 cup chicken broth
 1/4 cup dry white wine (optional)
 Dip the chicken breasts in the egg yolk and then roll in seasoned flour until completely covered. Shake off the excess flour. Heat olive oil in a large skillet and pan-fry the chicken breasts in the oil for 3-4 minutes. Turn chicken over and add lemon juice and garlic. Continue cooking for 3 minutes. Add mushrooms and broth and wine, if desired. Bring to a boil and immediately reduce the heat to a simmer. Simmer for 3 minutes or until chicken is cooked throughout. Serve over rice or pasta.

Golden treasures warm the season

It that glitters is gold. Gilded flourishes guarantee a festive look for the holidays. However, the shimmer of gold also gives sparkle to everyday accessories and its patina has captured the attention of the design world. According to the editors of "Metropolitan Home," people are giving up the shy, the neutral and the understated. The color wheel has spun, and bold gold is "in."

I scouted the malls and mainstreets for those treasures that glaze with a Midas Touch. The Markopoulos Collection of ornaments are handcrafted worldwide from original designs of archived antique baubles. Andrew Markopoulos is senior vice president of Visual Presentation and Design for Hudson's and his limited edition collection is culled from his extensive travels. The collection is available exclusively at Hudson's Oakland Mall store in Troy. More than 50 designs are featured, from hand-blown glass woodpeckers ($7.50) to giant balls and striped candy canes ($20). Metallic and matte gold, silver and matte white dominate the color scheme.

Some of my favorite golden ornaments include bunches of grape clusters ($30), spinning tops ($9), tiny horns ($6), chestnuts with beaded crowns ($5), starbursts ($10) and bells that dangle from tiers of beading ($25). The oversized balls are braided or glittered, striped or etched, and when massed, the effect is stunning. Envision several balls reflected in a crystal bowl — a memorable centerpiece!

Tables of Gold

Crate & Barrel in the Somerset Collection, Troy, provides the accoutrements for a gleaming holiday table. Drape the table in a Cellini brocade runner in a green and gold leaf pattern with gold tassels ($38.95-$44.95). Center it with an antiqued gold terracotta urn ($17.95-$26.95) filled with white roses and ivy. Surround the vase with golden pinecone candles ($5.50) and gold leaf fruit ($3.50).

Set the table with gold rim porcelain dinnerware ($135/16 piece set) atop lacquered chargers ($24.95). Finally, circle gold-bordered napkins ($15.95 for 4) with a gold tone maple leaf napkin ring ($7.95). To scent the buffet, scatter gilded leaves, berries, wood chips and pinecone potpourri ($9.95). The unusual shapes of Tivoli's matte gold picture frames set them apart from all others ($42-$50). A thoughtful gift any time of year, these graceful frames join an endless selection of museum-quality art.

Leaves at Truly Gifted, 515 S. Washington in Royal Oak. Miniature sculpted hand mirrors in individual pouches by Meryl Walitz are like intricate jewelry designs, and scented pillows entice with golden images from the Sistine Chapel ($13-$22).

Go for the gold For a special party favor or hostess gift, consider shiny gold papermarks from Ribbons, 239 S. Woodward in Birmingham. The flowers, fish and butterflies are enchanting ($15).

Jacobson's goes for the gold with a porcelain cherub bud vase from Two's Co. ($15) and a gold and white fringed damask accent pillow ($60). Stars and stripes decorative stationery and invitations, while a shiny gold box holds an exclusive cherub and star-adorned chocolate pinata filled with chocolate covered toffee bits by Gayles ($26). Sidney Krundall & Sons, jewelers in Troy, adds a golden glow to your home with brass coffee table and mantle clocks by Bulova. Choose from a miniature grandfather clock ($300), a French shelf clock with marble columns ($100) or a suspended grandfather clock ($185).

Peaceful kingdom rules center court

While most of us were getting the kids back-to-school, watching Big 10 football, and raking the leaves, one woman's been working tirelessly to create more than 136 lifelike animals for the Crystal Forest holiday exhibit at Twelve Oaks Mall. An estimated 3 million visitors will view her efforts before Christmas Day.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

It all began in August around the kitchen table. Then it grew to fill the garage. Next, it moved outside along a neighbor's circular driveway. Finally, it came to rest at a warehouse outside the city of Plymouth.

Ann Arbor-artist Ira Imbras-Jansen took a break from spray-painting the spots on a 18-foot-tall giraffe in the warehouse, to tell the story of how her kingdom of crafted wild animals will come to inhabit the twinkling Crystal Forest at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi at 7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20.

The exhibit's debut is a benefit for the Detroit Zoological Society featuring a Holiday Laser Light Show, musical entertainment, desserts, refreshments, photos with Santa, and a chance to meet the artist.

"After taking on the mall's project in the summer, I started making little cardinals, squirrels, and raccoons from pictures in nature books I had," explained Imbras-Jansen whose specialty is fashioning animals from fabric. "I studied rear, front and side views of the animals, then I designed a pattern on brown paper. I cut faux fur to fit, stitched the animal, and then stuffed it with Dacron polyester. The little guys were easy, but I needed some engineering help with the bigger ones."

George Fisher, a carpenter friend, built wooden frames for the giraffe, camels, ostrich, zebras, moose and reindeer quickly filling Imbras-Jansen's garage. The fabric fur skins were sewn onto the wooden frames and then hand-stuffed by the artist.

"I would like to say this was a labor of love," she explained, "but it was actually very hard, physical work. I cracked a rib one night while stuffing one of the animal's long necks. My arms would get so tired. I had a lot of stress, after all. I'm a grandmother of 62 years."

Ira Christine Imbras-Jansen was born in Kedainiai, Lithuania. In 1947, when she was 15, she immigrated to the United States as an orphan of the war. She left Lithuania at 9, and spent the following years in a German concentration camp.

Many years later, when her two children were toddlers, she became a soft-sculpturist to make them something "to cuddle up with." Her first order was for a fish and a turtle! Her artistic nature and an outlet in creating animals for children and later, libraries, offices

Laurel Park seeks groups for gift of trees

Nothing lights up the holiday season like a tall, sturdy tree decorated with things that sparkle, glitter and twinkle.

Laurel Park Place in Livonia wants to brighten the holidays for a local non-profit organization by giving away six beautifully decorated and lighted white trees valued at $50,000.

The shopping center has four 16-foot trees, and two 30-foot trees, to donate. These trees were used to decorate the mall over the past two years as part of the Victorian holiday theme.

"We are asking non-profit organizations to tell us, in 100 words or less, how they exemplify the holiday spirit 365 days a year," said Mike Buescher, assistant manager at Laurel Park Place. "We would also like to know how one or more of these trees would brighten their organization's holiday season."

After a day of holiday shopping, the hotel's staff welcomes the weary with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres 5-7 p.m.

Talking Turkey: Marshall Loewenstein predicts that holiday retail sales will be great this season based on the fact that his turkey sales to businesses are at an all-time high.

This may be a record year for turkeys from the boss

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Loewenstein Poultry of Taylor, Mich., expects to deliver more than 300,000 gift turkeys from Thanksgiving to Christmas this year — a record for the 100-year-old family-run firm.

That's about 4-million pounds of white and dark meat, and that ain't chicken feed.

Owner Marshall Loewenstein uses his turkey sales as a barometer for forecasting holiday retail sales. This year, according to Loewenstein, retailers can expect shoppers to gobble up sales.

"The economy is good. People are working," he said.

and 1 percent steak. Surprisingly, only a third of the holiday birds are shipped for Thanksgiving. Two-thirds go out at Christmas.

"All kinds of businesses give employees turkeys for the holidays," Loewenstein pointed out. "Hospitals, car dealers, bowling alleys, factories, none of the auto companies, but many of the unions. It's a nice gesture and product cost is inexpensive."

"If your employer were to give you $20 for the holidays, you'd be insulted. But, if he gave you the centerpiece for your holiday family meal, well, that's pretty darn nice and appreciated."

Loewenstein said gift turkeys are usually 12-13 pounds ranging in price from $15 to $20. They are delivered to the workplace frozen, and boxed under the label "Chef's Pride." The turkeys are grown in Arkansas and Missouri to Loewenstein specifications. Left frozen, they will keep up to two years, according to the firm.

Every Whirlpool employee can expect a bird for their holiday feast. Likewise, Wolverine Worldwide employees will be getting turkeys.

Don Baugher, Whirlpool's manager of corporate group purchasing, said presenting turkeys to employees at the holidays is a longtime tradition at Whirlpool.

"Because a turkey is shared with family members, it's a great way to say thank you to families for sharing their loved ones with Whirlpool all year long," he said.

It's not too late to talk turkey for your business. Inquiries are welcome at 1-800-878-1800.

Healthy dessert: Chocolate Chiffon uses cocoa instead of chocolate for a lower fat content. It's delicious topped with fruit.

Healthy dessert fights fat craving

All the new reduced fat and fat-free food: salad dressings, cookies, dairy products — have made it easier for many people to cut the fat they eat to less than 30 percent of their daily calories, as health authorities recommend. However, it's important not to forget about eating wholesome foods that are naturally low in fat.

Research shows that people who replace high fat foods with naturally low-fat alternatives — such as lean meats, fruits and vegetables — actually reduce their craving for dietary fat. However, research also shows that processed low- or non-fat versions of fatty foods have pitfalls.

Some studies suggest that foods made with fat substitutes do not help people adjust their taste for fat, so that fatty foods remain tempting. Learning to enjoy naturally low-fat foods may be a better way to maintain a low-fat diet than relying on copies of high-fat foods that don't measure up to the real items (and that may have the same number of calories).

CHOCOLATE CHIFFON

- 1 1/2 cups skim milk
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 3/4 cup fat-free egg substitute
- 1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Pour 1/2 cup of the milk into a saucepan or the top of a double boiler. Sprinkle the gelatin over it, and let stand for 2 to 3 minutes. Add the remaining 1 cup of milk and cocoa to the saucepan. Place the mixture over low heat or hot water; stir constantly until the gelatin dissolves and the mixture thickens slightly, about 5 minutes.

Remove the pan from the heat and stir in the sugar and vanilla. Chill, stirring occasionally, for about 1 hour, until the mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat the egg substitute until foamy. Stir into the gelatin mixture, blend thoroughly but gently. Spoon into a 4-cup mold or individual parfait glasses. Chill until firm (at least 1 hour).

Each of the 4 servings contains 1 gram of fat and 205 calories.

Introducing the GOOD NEIGHBOR TEAM

A program to help "Keep The Heat On" this winter for needy people in the western suburbs of Detroit

The Good Neighbor Team is designed to provide furnace service and repair (non-emergency), and in some instances, parts and furnaces, to those who have no financial or other means of keeping their furnaces operating this winter. Up to 500 hours of service will be donated to those in need.

Indications that this program may be able to assist you:

- Marginal furnace operation
- Continuous failing of furnace
- Furnace no longer provides heat
- You have no financial means to repair furnace

Requests for service assistance will be monitored by the Salvation Army. Phone 313-953-2048 to request assistance on an automated answering service. Leave complete information, including name, address, and daytime phone where you can be contacted by the Salvation Army.

*This is not an emergency service.
This is not a heating bill payment program.
As a heating safety reminder, always call your gas company immediately if you smell gas.*

CANTON SPORTS SCENE

Recognized

Erin Bagozzi, a junior forward for Kalamazoo College's women's soccer team, was awarded honorable mention all-Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association for her performance on the Hornets' MIAA championship team. Seven Hornets earned post-season honors as Kalamazoo captured its sixth-straight title.

Raptors roar

The Plymouth Raptors, an under-12 boys soccer team, were champions in their division for the fall season. The Raptors had a 6-0-2 record, blanking opponents seven times. Team members are Brian Balfour, Pat Bechdol, Robbie Camann, Brandon Collop, Joseph Corte, John Hamerink, Will Hundley, Kevin Johnson, Nick Moore, Matt Nolan, Robert Richards, Albert Sibilla, Ryan Sczomak, Dustin South and Brandon Stern. The team is coached by Ron Sczomak, Bob South, Howard Hamerink and Bill Stern.

Cardinal standout

Saginaw Valley State's football team ended its 1994 season against unbeaten Ferris State Saturday, taking a 6-3 record into the game. One reason for the Cardinals' success: junior defensive lineman Steve Balog, from Plymouth Salem. The 6-foot-3, 245-pound Balog was sixth on the team in total tackles with 81½ entering the Ferris State game. He also led the Cardinals in tackles for loss with 10 and in quarterback sacks with 5½. His sack total ranked him among the MIFC leaders.

Spartan scorer

Leah Hutko, a sophomore forward on Michigan State's women's soccer team from Plymouth Canton, collected one assist in the Spartans' 4-0 Big Ten Tournament win over Northwestern. Unfortunately, MSU — the tournament's top seed — was eliminated by Minnesota, 1-0 in the semifinals. Hutko finished third on the team in scoring with seven goals and six assists. The Spartans ended up 12-5-2 overall.

Champions!

Nothing easy: That seemed to be both teams defensive philosophy in Saturday's state final. But Graham Wilk (white jersey) got clear in the second overtime long enough to head in the game's only goal.

By halftime of Saturday's state championship match, it was clear whoever scored first would win. That did not favor Canton, not against Warren DeLaSalle, a school that had claimed the previous two state titles in OT.

By C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Well? Why not an encore? Already 80 minutes of near-flawless defensive soccer had passed. Perfectly in tune? A symphony of soccer? Hardly. It was more hard rock than soft strains of a violin.

And when the encore had been performed, the outcome decided in the second overtime, one Plymouth Canton player stood near midfield — stripped of his jersey, hair matted with sweat, shin guards aghast — singing.

But it wasn't the blues, which one would have expected when realizing the situation facing the Chiefs. Going into overtime against Warren DeLaSalle in the state final was hardly an optimistic prospect, not considering the Pilots' history — two Class A titles the previous two years, both in OT.

History changed Saturday at Bloomfield Hills Andover when Graham Wilk saw his teammate, Todd Stonestreet, win possession of the ball just outside the DeLaSalle box. Stonestreet carried it to his right, moving slightly upfield as Pilot defenders retreated, looking for Canton players to mark.

Wilk started his run as Stonestreet struck the ball, lofting it toward the left side of the net where Wilk met it. His header was perfect — into the left corner, well out of DeLaSalle keeper Tim Lieckfelt's reach 40 seconds into the second OT.

Canton 1, DeLaSalle 0. The Chiefs collected their first-ever state soccer championship.

"This is the greatest feeling I've ever had," the senior midfielder said. But seeing Stonestreet line up that pass, knowing the situation, then watching as the ball floated toward him — what was he thinking?

Vikings rule point-poor Salem; Mustangs charge past Canton

By C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

What a Ken Butler-coached basketball team usually does defensively is play man-to-man.

But Friday night, his Walled Lake Central girls provided a perfect example of when it's the right time to charge.

The Vikings proved to be one major-sized obstacle for Plymouth Canton in the Western Lakes Activities Association tournament title game, hosted by Northville. The reigning champions of the WLAA took command early and never relinquished it in sut-duing Salem 52-37.

The victory sends the Vikings into the state district tournament against Milford (Monday at Central) with an 18-2 record. Salem ends the regular season at 14-6; the Rocks play Livonia Churchill Monday at the Livonia Ladywood district.

The difference in this game was Walled Lake Central's defense. True, Salem came into the final with the defensive reputation, but it was the Viking 'D' that turned the tide.

"We're usually man-to-man, but with our big kids inside we try to funnel everything inside," said Butler. "It's a zone, but it's doubling everything (out front). I mean, those kids really work on top. That 33 (Jeanna Stewart) is a helluva ballplayer."

Salem coach Fred Thomann might say that about most of the Vikings. The Rocks were simply overmatched. The had exactly one lead in the game — 2-1 after the first minute.

Salem simply could not get an easy shot. Any the Rocks attempted in the paint were, more often than not, blocked. At the end of the first period, they were 4-of-16 from the field (Central was 7-of-13) and trailed 16-8.

And it actually got worse. The Rocks were 3-of-15 in the second quarter to the Vikings' 5-of-8 — which is why the scoreboard favored Central by a 29-15 margin at halftime. For the game, Salem connected on 14-of-62 from the floor (22.5 percent) to Central's 20-of-44 (45 percent).

Case closed. "We can shoot," Salem's Thomann insisted. "We don't always shoot as well as we'd like to. They're just tough to play against. They got the good penetrators and the passers, and their post-up game is really solid. And they're athletic. It makes it tough."

"We've got no inside game. I wasn't displeased with our effort; our effort was excellent. And our concentration was pretty good. But in this game, you've got to make shots. We didn't make shots."

After Central, capitalizing on its more varied offense, opened the second quarter with a 9-2 run, Salem never got closer than 10. Whatever the Rocks altered at halftime made no difference: The Vikings opened the third quarter with a 13-2 barrage that gave them a 42-18 lead.

Not until the final quarter,

See BASKETBALL, 2C

Driven: Salem's Amanda Abraham (with ball) heads to the hoop past Central's Jacklyn Pihiewicz. Abraham scored six, but fouled out early.

when the verdict was already in, did the Rocks show some offensive life. It helped that two of their long-range three-pointers dropped through, earning half of their fourth-quarter points.

Chiefs, Rocks top-of-the-line

It's that time of year again. Yes, it's the holiday shopping season, which also happens to coincide with the state girls basketball tournament.

Northville 53, Canton 42: If Plymouth Canton could play an entire game the way it played the third quarter Friday against WLLA tournament host Northville, its record would be even more impressive.

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

You will be wondering which way to turn. One of life's roads may seem rocky at first, but you will soon see you are on the right path.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

You have worked hard on a project, and the results will be much better than you ever imagined. Your efforts will be recognized.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Things are changing, and you may need to make new plans. Give yourself some time to adjust to new situations. The shadow over your life is moving away.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

There will be a great deal of emotional stress at home and work. You will need to slow down and carefully evaluate these difficult situations.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

It is important to stick to your resolutions or risk losing everything you have worked for. Control your temper, especially when dealing with loved ones.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

There could be news about a marriage or some type of new relationship. At times it will be difficult for you to see that things are going your way.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

The right person could help you improve a project and bring you great success. This is a good time to plan a new business venture.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

Times are changing, and you have to come out of the past and live in today. A trip or special event may have to be postponed.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

You are spending too much time waiting for the worst to happen. It is not the end of everything; it is a new beginning for you.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

The phrase "he who hesitates is lost" applies more than ever to you right now. You know what is right. You simply need to gather the courage to do it.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

A quarrel could cause a separation from loved ones. All those concerned will be miserable. Do your best to straighten things out.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

There will be news of a marriage or birth. Creative ideas in the workplace will abound. Be ready to start something new.

Dalton red-faced over Scarlett promotion

By SUZANNE GILL

Few actors would willingly follow Clark Gable in the role of Rhett Butler, and Timothy Dalton turned the part down a couple of times before taking the plunge. The results are on view in Scarlett, an eight-hour miniseries beginning Sunday, Nov. 13, on CBS. Parts 2 through 4 air Tuesday through Thursday, Nov. 15-17.

Though Dalton was well-paid for his work in the sequel to Margaret Mitchell's Gone With the Wind, it was his performance before the press that was really demanding.

Dalton's strategy was to disarm with charm, to confess all and stick a pin in the whole inflated mythology of Scarlett O'Hara and the antebellum South. It proved to be a stunning miscalculation.

The beginning, however, was auspicious. In a small interview session with a dozen or so reporters huddled around the table in a Los Angeles hotel suite last July, Dalton first resigned himself to an imaginary skewering in the press.

"My blood is going to be all over the carpet in November," said the chain-smoking British actor with the Kirk Douglas dimple in his chin, a pouting smile playing about his lips.

So why did he take the role? "You've got to be crazy to do it," he signed. "You've got to be perverse, masochistic, self-destructive, stupid. Call it a challenge. Or say that you'd never be able to live with yourself if you didn't dare take it on."

At least he had done his homework. Dalton read both Gone With the Wind and Scarlett before shooting began.

"I don't think Scarlett's a very good book," he said without real fear of contradiction. But, he added, "Mitchell's book was dense with things I didn't know much about."

"In a naive way I kind of stupidly thought that maybe Clark Gable was just being wonderfully Clark Gable (in the 1939 film version of Gone With the Wind), and maybe Margaret Mitchell had written a very different Rhett Butler.

"But she hadn't. So I couldn't play him blonde, and I couldn't play him without a mustache. At the end of the day, I had to go and play Rhett Butler.

"I know there's a comparison, there's no question. But I can't compete, I can just do, and it'll stand or fall."

If this apology were not enough, there was another angle to play. Gone With the Wind, Dalton said was, at bottom, just a soap opera.

"I never saw this movie before four years ago, and what shocked me about it is, what an extraordinary soap opera the movie was."

Scarlett, he hoped the reporters would agree, was "a really good-looking, glossy soap opera that takes that story on."

With that, the interviewer was over. As a dress rehearsal it was very encouraging.

That evening, Dalton and his costar, Joanne Whalley-Kilmer, faced more than 100 members of the press, along with the miniseries' producer, Robert Halmi.

Dalton's opening words were prophetic. "There are things at work here that we can't even conceive," he said, adding later that he couldn't understand the fascination Scarlett O'Hara holds for women.

Failing to heed his own warnings, Dalton playfully waded into deep water.

"Another thing that honestly struck me is how his man could possible cope with — not cope, put up with — this b---, you know? I mean, she's a monster!

"Look at this woman: mean, selfish, ambitious, manipulative. Only a man desperately in love would kind of try and deal with that for seven years."

Swear language followed. Dalton was sitting on a powder keg, lighting matches. "The men in the room know what I mean," he declared.

The gloves were off, and vitriolic questioning followed.

In Britain, cultural icons are made to be mocked. No so in America. Flawed as they are, Scarlett and Rhett remain larger than life in the hearts of millions.

And if one press conference can be said to measure the mood of the country, Scarlett had better be very, very good.

Vitale's Slam, Bam previews NCAA season
BY JEFF PLASS

A fitting prelude to ESPN's 199-game NCAA men's basketball schedule is the Dick Vitale Slam, Bam, Jam College Basketball Preview, airing Tuesday, Nov. 15. The network's resident hoops guru takes viewers through a half-hour of basketball mania just one day before ESPN launches the 1994-95 season with George Washington University taking on Syracuse in the Preseason National Invitational Tournament. "What we'll do is basically take a look at the whole nation: preview, review, etc.," Vitale says. "We'll take a look at my top 10 teams. We'll talk about the conferences. I think this year the ACC could be the best conference. The problem is these teams wind up beating on each other and knocking themselves out. It should be a great season in the ACC. North Carolina looks like the team to beat on paper, but it's a balanced league. Any team could finish first, fourth or fifth." Another feature in the special is Vitale's preseason All-America team, with Damon Stoudamire (Arizona), Randolph Childress (Wake Forest), Rasheed Wallace (North Carolina), Michael Finley (Wisconsin), and Corliss Williamson (Arkansas). The show also focuses on Vitale's Diaper Dandies, highly touted players coming into the college ranks from high school.

STAR NOTES

Change in type of role proves Dawber's talent

BY AMY HIBBERT

Each role Pam Dawber has played has been sunny, pleasant and kind.

However, NBC's A Child's Cry for Help, premiering Monday, Nov. 14, will change this. Dawber stars as an emotionally unstable mother suspected of causing her child's illness.

"It was a wonderful role for me, because it's going to shake up those Mindy fans," Dawber comments.

The child's doctor (Veronica Hamel) suggests the mother might have Munchausen by proxy syndrome, a disorder in which a seemingly loving parent - usually neglected as a child - causes their own child's illness using a variety of methods and medications.

Family-oriented Dawber believes the film has a good message.

"I think that it just shows us how much attention our children need and love," she comments.

Dawber is happy about the opportunity to portray the mother.

"It was just a really great acting role," Dawber says. "I usually play the good mom that is having something done to her."

Having had the chance to experience many types of show business earlier in her career, her first priority now is her family, although she still enjoys acting.

Dawber looks for well-written roles that she would enjoy. "Otherwise, I'm real happy to go do carpool," she says.

Debrah Farentino stars as a futuristic colonist and mother in Earth 2, Sundays on NBC.

SOAP WORLD

Buchanan is back as Vicky on AW

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: Can you please tell me why Vicky was off of Another World for so long? —Mrs. Roy Love, Koach, Mo.

Dear Reader: Jensen Buchanan (Vicky) left AW to have a baby. She had decided at that time not to return to the show and stay home with the child instead.

A search for a new Vicky took place, but Buchanan changed her mind and returned to the role with the stipulation that she would not have to play Vicky's twin sister, Marley.

Buchanan says she decided to come back because her husband was accepted into a master's degree program at a New York university. The couple would have had to go for three years without any income, and it would have been tough on their financial future. She also says she missed working with her friends, and since she can take the baby to work with her, there was no reason not to come back.

Dear Candace: I just love Susan Lucci (Erica, All My Children). I think she is outstanding. If you look at her she is too skinny, short, her nose is long, her eyes too small and her mouth is too large. But when you put it all together it makes a beautiful package. She is a beautiful, talented, charismatic creature. Where, pray tell, can I write this glamorous woman? —Leon Schoichit, Farmington Hills, Mich.

Dear Reader: You can write to Lucci: C/O All My Children, ABC, 77 W. 66th St., New York, N.Y. 10023.

Dear Candace: Could you please tell me what happened to Harley and Mallet on Guiding Light? —Richard Mount, Berkeley, Mass.

Dear Reader: Harley and Mallet went on a honeymoon and never came back. The actors who played the roles, Beth Elhers and Mark Derwin, left to pursue careers on the West Coast in prime-time television and movies.

The couple were dating in New York but say they made individual decisions about moving to California. Neither of them landed a pilot for the fall season but will try again in the spring.

Send your comments to Candace Havens, Soap World, Features Dept., TV Data Technologies, Northway Plaza, Queensbury, N.Y. 12804. Because of the volume of mail received, personal replies cannot be sent.
