In fact, the state Department of Natural Resources' air quality division has not yet received a formal permit application for the incinerator. ## Study sings praises of firefighting setup

By Joanne Maliszewski

Canton's current full-time Fire Department with its own ambulances costs less than switching to full-time and on-call part-time firefighters with private ambulances, a new study

"This is where I have to admit the surprise came in for all of us," said Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro. "We knew we were providing a high level of service, but we didn't realize how cost-effective this system was in comparison to alternative models.

A study of fire and emergency medical services was unveiled publicly Tuesday night before the Canton Township Board of Trustees. walked into this very objectively," Santomauro added. "This wasn't Santomauro added. done as the result of a problem. We wanted to see which model would best serve the community."

Canton staff members, including Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter and Trustee Bob Shefferly, were charged with comparing the Fire Department's current method of providing fire suppression and emergency medical services, including ambulance transport, as well as appraising alternative methods of providing service.

From that study there were a lot of things that we learned," Santomauro said, adding that the next step is a strategic plan for the future.

Models studied by the committee included the existing department that has full-time firefighters who provide fire suppression, emergency medical services, a host of fire-prevention ac-tivities and inspections, and who op-erate four ambulances out of two fire A second model studied was a com career firefighters and "part-paid" firefighters who are on call. In this scenario, a private company would be hired to provide a floating ambulance that would serve Canton but would not be stationed here.

A third model studied included full-time and on-call part-time fire-fighters with two ambulances dedicated to Canton.

"We have the equivalent to that now, but it's under Canton (Township)," said Kirchgatter, referring to the dedicated ambulances.

Committee members took three factors into consideration when studying the models: level of service provided, cost of services and community acceptance. They also studied models on the basis that levels of service had to be maintained and no personnel layoffs would result.

This study was done for Canton. This is not a report card for other communities. Canton is a unique community and we offer a unique level of service," Santomauro said.

What township Financial Services Manager Susan Kopinski discovered in the financial analysis of the three scenarios is that as the years go by, revenue would not keep up with the rate of expenditures for fire and EMS services based on the current 3.10

In her analysis, Kopinski built in state equalized value (property assessment) growth and increases in salaries and fringe benefits. She also showed the revenue effect for all three scenarios, including the effect on tax-proposed tax-cut plan or bill of rights for the middle class. Key elements of Clinton's proposal are a $500 tax credit for children 12 years old and younger, a family tax deduction of up to $10,000 annually for college tuition, and higher income limits to qualify for individual retirement ccount deductions.

The plan, if adopted by Congress as presented, would take effect January, 1996, and phase in over a five-year period. W.J. Sheehy, associate dean in the college of management at Lawrence Technological University in Southfield, wasn't exactly dazzled. "From a tax point of view, a

than Clinton's plan does. "Maybe it's time to leave some of this money in the taxpayers' pocket," he said

However, Knollenberg has no wish to fire the Capital elevator pperators, who often make the difference, he said, in getting to the House floor in time to vote. "You have to have an elevator operator to get you there on time," he said.

Rep. elect Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor, who also represents Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southwest quadrant of Livonia, will replace departing Rep. William Ford on Jan. 5.

Unlike most of the Republican candidates this year, Rivers didn't run for election hollering for tax cuts. In an interview last week, she stopped short of advocating tax cuts, but said, "I have no opposition to a tax cut."

Rivers' chief concern regarding tax cuts is that the concomitant spending cuts will hurt people. "When you begin to cut the budget, those cuts are probably going to be painful to someone," she said. "Some of the cuts could be devastating for working families." Asked for examples, she cited potential cuts in small business loans, student loans and changes in Medicare benefits.

"Sometimes taking care of one problem means creating a problem in a different area," she said.

Rivers added that being forced out of power in Congress might be good for Democrats in that adversity will make them think hard about what they stand for.

"A lot of the reform we're seeing is being applauded by both parties," she said.

Capuchins seek donations

The Capuchin soup kitchen, which has reached out to the hungry and needy people of Detroit since 1929, has a new location for the soup kitchen warehouse, according to director Father Jim Leary.

Renovated just in time for the holidays, the warehouse is at 1620 E. Grand Blvd., south of I-94 off Mt. Elliot (in a former Farmer Jack store).

Rick Samyn, Capuchin, and Roy Hoelscher, who direct operations of the warehouse, are looking for donations (both new and used in good condition) such as clothing, toys, games, books, sporting equipment, household items, furniture, appliances and other non food items.

Donations may be brought directly to the warehouse, using the entrance on Medbury and east of Mt. Elliot.

Call (313) 925-1370 for more information or to arrange for a pick up by the soup kitchen.

The Capuchin ministries of the Province of St. Joseph also include the Capuchin soup kitchen at 1760 Mt. Elliot which serves breakfast from 8:30 until 9:30 a.m. and a hot lunch from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The Capuchin sanex, located a block from the soup kitchen at 1264 Meldrum, is a food pantry which distributes groceries to families in need.

Usually 200 or more baskets of food are provided daily by the annex. Clothing is also available. For details, call 313-579-1331. A rehabilitation program for indigent men suffering from drug or alcohol abuse is operated by the soup kitchen at Jefferson House. This residential program is located at 8311 E. Jefferson in Detroit. For more information, call 313-331-8900.

According to its 1993 annual report, 276,635 meals were served at the Mt. Elliot kitchen; 30,600 food baskets were provided, which meant 765,000 meals prepared and 36,334 interviews were conducted to direct clients to appropriate services and agencies.

There's nothing finer than fresh oysters

can't imagine spending a holiday without including some form of oyster in my culinary repertoire. Sucking down good oysters to me is like a great wine to a oenophile, a sharp knife to a butcher or a sunny 80 degree day to a mailman; they are much appreciated.

But not everyone shares my enthusiasm. The world is full of people who would cringe at the sight of a bowl of clam chowder, let alone allow the feel one gets when sliding a fresh shucked Belon down one's gullet. Oysters are definitely an acquired taste, and if you haven't coerced your friendly fish monger into bringing in a dozen exotics, I can't think of a better way to reward oneself for making it through the holidays.

The oyster market has grown considerably and due to over harvesting and poor quality control, the cost of exotic fresh oysters is increasing rapidly. Quality exotic oysters with names like Belon, Golden mantels and Kumamotos can cost as much as $1 a piece and when you think about it, that's one heck of an expensive taste.

Less expensive and more common Eastern oysters are usually what you get in bulk form at most fish markets and retailers. If you think those are oysters, well, you obviously haven't had the real thing.

Bulk shipped Eastern oysters come from warmer waters south of Cape Cod and the warmer waters in the Gulf of Mexico. The warmer waters make the oysters spawn and they become milky and tasteless and even at their best, should only be used for stews and chowders.

Generally speaking, the colder the water, the better the oyster. Ergo, if you were to draw a line from Cape Cod to San Francisco, any ocean water north of these two points are the breeding grounds for a great oyster. The saltiness of oysters can vary quite a bit, generally from mild to strong

Exotic oysters usually have a full sweet flavor with a delicious flinty overtone.

Tasty morsels

Surely the best way to enjoy them is on the half shell with just a tiny squeeze of fresh lemon. For your information, only gutless novices swallow them whole and yes, they are (or should be) still very much alive when eaten.

If the shells gape and do not close quickly in handling, discard them as well as those with any Exotic oysters have flavors and tastes unique unto themselves. The Belon, for example, was only raised in the heavily iron laden waters of northern France and recently were introduced to oyster farms off Maine and California. Because the water in which they are raised has a heavy iron content, their flavor is sweetly metallic.

Tiny Olympias from northern Washington state are briny and have a fresh crisp taste.

Storage tips

The best way to store fresh oysters in their shell is to keep them relatively cool (about 39 degrees F.) This can best be accomplished by filling a cooler with ice and setting a colander or strainer on top and slightly buried into the ice.

Since oysters are alive, under no circumstances should they be kept in a sealed or tied plastic bag or completely closed cooler. If you received them fresh from a reputable dealer, oysters may be kept stored in this way for up to three days.

To serve, scrub the oysters with a wire or plastic brush under cold running water just before shucking. Never allow the oysters to soak in any amount of liquid.

To shuck, wrap a disheloth around your holding hand so that the oyster can be held firmly and also to protect your hand should the oyster knife slip. With the rounded part of the shell facing down, find the hinged end of the oyster and attempt to push the tip of an oyster knife into it, between the shells. It is not necessary to plunge the knife completely inside the oyster, but just to be able to get the point into the hinged area between the shells.

Now here is how you can tell a pro from a novice. Once the tip of the oyster knife is embedded, simply twist your wrist while holding the knife securely: pretend you're tuning in a stereo Usually two or three good twists will break the hinge seal.

According to AAA, alcohol is a factor in nearly 10 percent of crashes that cause injury.

BY KEELY WYGONIK STAPP WRITER

Don't worry about drinking and driving. Toast 1995 with festive alcohol-free drinks.

Explore the possibilities. Robin Ray of Farmington Hills, second place winner in AAA Michigan's "Zero Proof Mix-Off" Dearborn Regional Contest created Garbo's Glow with yogurt, banana, raspberries, ginger, lemon juice and a splash of soda.

According to AAA, alcohol is a factor in nearly 10 percent of crashes that cause injury and about 5 percent of crashes that result in property damage

"During last year's Christmas and New Year's holiday period, 27 persons were killed in 26 traffic crashes statewide," said Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager. "Eight of those victims lost their lives in alcohol-related crashes."

Alcohol also adds lots of calories at a time when rich holiday foods are already padding our waistlines, says the American Institute for Cancer Research.

To give holiday hosts some alternatives, AAA pubishes a "Great Pretender's Party Guide." This year's 14th annual guide has a Hollywood theme and features 15 drink recipes by Michigan residents, including, Ray, who were selected as finalists in three regional "Zero Proof Mix-Off" contests held in October. Finalists drinks were selected based on taste, appearance and adherence to the contest's silver-screen theme.

at AAA branch offices or by calling (313) 336-1500, also contains favorite alcohol-free drinks of some Michigan-based celebrities including vocalist Anita Baker.

Here are some party planning tips from AAA and the American Institute for Cancer Rearch.

Schedule a short cocktail hour and serve measured drinks. Offer a good selection of non-alcoholic beverages.

Serve food early to guarantee your guests don't drink on an empty stomach. Foods rich in protein such as meat, cheeses, and vegetables will help slow the absorption of alcohol into the bloodstream.

Give the party another focus such as preparing special appe-tizers (make your-own taco or fondue), playing a game, ex-changing gifts or singing songs. This is also a good way to get people to interact without drinking, instead of tempting them to resort to alcohol because they may feel uneasy about not knowing each other.

Old acquaintances gather to greet the new year

BY SANDRA DALKA-PRYSBY

It was the early 1970s when two young newlywed couples - neighbors in an apartment complex - shared their first New Year's Eve together. Now, more than 20 years and five daughters later, these two couples continue the tradition of ringing in the New Year together.

A strong friendship and good food made the end of each year a special time for Tom and Marge Kress of Troy, and Brian and Rita Dates of Beverly Hills.

"It's Brian's clam chowder that has held us together," said Tom. "It's the best New England clam chowder that my wife and I have ever tasted. It's worth waiting a whole year to have it."

The chowder is traditionally the start to the couples' New Year's Eve meal, he said. "And we usually have lobster as the main course." This year the couples are also having twice-baked potatoes and Caesar salad.

Marge said that when the couples first began celebrating, she and Rita planned elaborate

We would work on the meal for days and it would take hours to eat. The more complicated and elegant the meal was, the better. Now we keep the meal simple" Take dessert, for example. "We used to make sweet and rich delights like cheesecake and chocolate mousse. Now we serve champagne over lime sherbert. It's a light, fatastic-tasting dessert, and we have champagne left over for a New Year's toast."

Tom, who teaches at Oakland Community College, and Brian, a psychologist, have always played an important role in the annual celebration. Tom is usually assigned the salad, and Brian, in addition to making the chowder, is the securer of the lobsters.

"I got this task because I spent my summers as a child on the Massachusetts coast. This, according to the others, makes me an expert on

One New Year's Eve, when the weather was extremely miserable (drifting snow and freezing ice), the Dates arrived with the lobster in a traditional lobster pot and dressed in yellow slickers and other foul-weather gear.

"Their arrival certainly added a great deal of mirth to the evening," the Kresses said. Two years after the couples began their tradition, they had to break it. "Marge insisted on having her second child on

New Year's Eve morning in 1973," said Rita, with a smile. "She couldn't wait until our celebration was over.

That was the last time that the birth of a child interfered with the celebration. The Dates had their three daughters on other days.

"All five girls have spent many of their New Year's Eves over the years with us," said Rita. While the adults feast on seafood, the girls have chosen pizza and chips and dip.

"Also, the kids usually watch television as we." have a leisurely dinner. Then we all get together; and throw confetti at midnight," she said. What started as a romantic tradition for four and then a family tradition for nine, is returning to a quiet evening for its original participants as the five girls are growing up and planning New Year's Eve celebrations of their own.

The Kresses two daughters are: Jennifer, who graduated from the University of Michigan earlier this year, and Sandra, a junior at Arizona, State University. The Dates' daughters are: Stephanie and Courtney, both students at Birmingham Groves High School, and Lindsay, a fifth grader at Greenfield Elementary School.

With or without the girls, spending New Year's Eve together is a cherished tradition, said the two women, both elementary school teachers. "We can't imagine any other way to end the year and start a new year.

I recently discovered a wonderful body oil to spritz all over. It's Donna Karan's Bath & Body Mist from Neiman Marcus ($45). I'm told the Donna Karan fragrance line is selling like wildfire and once you smell it, you'll understand why.

Into the mystic

The candle in the picture is handmade locally by Coventry Creations. It's a Blessed Herbal Candle that recharges energy and strengthens the will with such potions as frankincense and dragon's blood ($12.95). The entire line of herbal candles is available at Lori Karbal et al, 554 N. Woodward. Rirmingham, Ask Lori to show you the Lampes Berger from Paris, pretty little lamps that burn

Two more of my bedside choices are Tea for One, a combination teapot and cup in white porce lain with heart shaped handles from Truly Gifted, 515 S. Washington in Royal Oak and Cynthia Carey's hand-painted and decoupaged trays at Bona & Gallery in the Orchard Mall ($175).

So, are you ready? You've gathered all the comforts - trays bearing teapots and snacks and flowers, warm pajamas and a snuggly blanket, books and magazines and a journal or diary, wonderful fragrances for your body, bath and soul. Remember the doctor's orders -- one total and complete, indulgent day in bed. Enjoy.

ometimes, the toughest lesson to learn is how to win.

Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team is finding that out now, and thus far this season the Ocelots haven't had many prime, firsthand examples. After Wednesday's 82-72 loss to visiting Highland Park CC, they had just one win in 12 games.

The lesson harvested from that defeat: Control the tempo and control your fate. SC did neither and lost.

"I told the kids at halftime," SC coach Dave Bogataj said. "I said, 'Guys, you're going at a pace they like. Continue at that pace and they'll like you even more."

"We have to control the tempo. We did a great job of it against Henry Ford (a 77-73 loss Dec. 17). It can't be slow, it can't be fast, but we have to Bogataj's halftime warning came after his Ocelots played a pretty decent first 20 minutes. They trailed by just 48-43 at the break, and then only because the Panthers closed with an 8-3 run.

But Highland Park, which shot a dismal 39 percent (20-of-51) in the first half to SC's 54 percent (18-of-33), got off quickly to start the second, outscoring SC 10-2 over the first four minutes.

That gave the Panthers a 58-45 lead, something the smaller Ocelots could not overcome. The best they could do in the second half was trim the defi-

Mike Pichan and Mark Cady each scored 13 points for SC. Jason Maschke had 12 and Eric Powell scored 11; Powell led the Ocelot rebounders with 10, while Maschke grabbed nine.

After a solid first-half of shooting, SC cooled off in the second, hitting just 11-of-36 (31 percent). Highland Park was 13-of-37 in the second half (35 percent).

Aaron Turner had 25 points, 10 rebounds and three steals to lead the Panthers.

SPORTS

Great beginning: Salem's Tim Buchanan, just a freshman, swam in his first varsity dual meet Thursday against Canton and came away with wins in the 200 individual medley and 500 freestyle.

A stunning start

Salem swamps Canton in dual opener

A city rivalry is supposed to be high in energy and emotion, close in score. The Canton-vs.-Salem swim meet Thursday lacked the drama and tension of a close meet, but that could change come February.

BY C.J. RISAK

It wasn't much of a dual meet, re-

The first of the season for both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton, Thursday's swim meet showed why the Rocks are favored to repeat as champions of the West-ern Lakes Activities Association.

It also showed a Canton team whose peak performances are still in

"It's tough to watch your team get the crap beat out of them," said Chiefs' coach Clint Smiley. "But we're better than this. It's just real tough to go up against the league champ.

"Salem's one of the top 10 teams in the state.'

It certainly looked that way Thursday at Canton — Salem won going away, 134-52.

"They've been training real hard," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "No complaints.

"We're ready to roll." Too bad the Rocks will have to wait a couple of weeks to display their talents again in a dual meet. They looked in mid-season shape against Canton, with a pair of dou-ble-winners in individual events: Eric Seidelman in the 100-yard (50.10) and 200-yard (1:50.33) free-style, and Tim Buchanan in the 200 individual medley (2:11.46) and 500 free (5:15.78).

Indeed, Salem finished first in every event save one: diving, which the Chiefs swept with Jason Fowler the Chiefs swept with Jason Fowler taking first (278.75 points) and Daryl Ballios second (233.25).

The rest belonged to the Rocks. Their other individual event winners were Dave Bracht in the 50 free (24.13); Mark Dettling in the 100 butterfly (59.84); John McLenaghan in the 100 backstroke (1:03.14); and Andy Dettling in the 100 breaststroke (1:05.50).

The relays sweep started in the 200 medley, with McLenaghan, Andy Dettling, Buchanan and Bracht (1:47.49). Next came Bracht, Marc Levitt, Joe Ervin and Seidelman in the 200 free relay (1:36.22), and then Buchanan, Brent Mellis, Matt Martin and McLenaghan in the 400 free relay (3:41.03).

Salem's overall power made the Chiefs' performance look worse than it was. "I was real pleased with the times," said Canton's Smiley. "And I have to be real pleased with our

Fowler and Ballios bounced back from a subpar effort in the WLAA Relays meet, in which they finished second and scored more than 50 second and scored more than 50 points less than they did a year earlier. "They both agreed they were not as focused as they should have been (at the Relays meet)," said Smiley of his divers.

Smiley of his divers.

Smiley called Jason Stirling Canton's "iron man" after he swam the 200 and 500 free, finishing second in the 500 (5:44.17). And he was happy to have two medley relays clock "in the mid-1:50s," he said.

And yet, as optimistically as Smi-ley wants to view his Chiefs, there's no doubting one thing: They won't be able to match the overall power of Salem, although by spring the gap between the two teams should

Panthers claw their way past Schoolcraft

A new year, a new beginning. What else can Schoolcraft College's women's basketball team hope for after Wednesday's disappointing effort against Highland Park CC?

The Lady Ocelots opened the game by scoring the first 12 points, holding their visitors scoreless for seven minutes. After that, however, SC's will to win gradually began to disintegrate; within three minutes the Lady Panthers had erased the deficit, and five minutes into the second half they led by nine.

The final result was a 71-58 Highland Park victory. The loss dropped SC to .500 over-all, at 6-6. The Ocelots are 1-3 in the Eastern Conference.

"This is the story of our season, SC coach Ed Kavanaugh said after-wards. "We cannot put the ball in the Statistically, Kavanaugh's point is proven. In the second half, the Ocelots converted just 13-of-42 floor shots, a mere 30.9 percent — which explains why Highland Park pulled away so easily. The Panthers made 17-of-32 from the floor (53.1 percent).

Sure, size made a difference. Highland Park had 6-foot-3 Kisa Bradley patrolling the middle.

"She's the No. 1 junior college cen-ter in the country," said Panthers' coach Leonard Merchant.

The Ocelots did nothing to disprove that. Bradley scored inside and out, totalling 24 points — 17 coming in the second half — and 17 rebounds. She also blocked five shots, which intimidated SC's inside game.

And hurt the Ocelots in their most vulnerable spot — confidence. When their shots started bouncing out, they began to hesitate. Throughout the second half, the offense was almost entirely from the perimeter.

We had enough shots to win this ball game," maintained Kavanaugh. "We're just not finishing. Their confidence level is way down. Identifying the problem is one thing how to address it is another. "I wish I knew," Kavanaugh said. SC did finish the first half well, overcoming a five-point deficit with a 10-4 run over the last 3:14. Dawn Newlin scored five of her 11 points in that stretch to give SC a 29-28 halftime advantage

However, it should have been greater. The Ocelots missed seven-straight free throws and were just 4-of-12 from the line in the first half.

The Panthers' confidence grew as SC's shrunk. They outscored the Ocelots 24-7 in the first nine minutes of the second half, hitting 9-of-14 shots for a 52-36 lead.

The deficit never reached single digits after that. Amy Pietila led SC with 13 points; Shelly Sockow (from Plymouth Salem) had 10, with seven rebounds and three steals, Highland Park also got 11 points and 13 rebounds from Rhonda Canty, 10 points and 10 boards from Shawntis Gregory, four points and 10 re-bounds from Eurline Clapton, and nine points and six rebounds from

Tamara Owens. The Panthers had a commanding

67-44 advantage in rebounding. Which, combined with SC's poor shooting, spelled disaster for the

Helsinki Roccamatios offers unconventional AIDS drama

By PETE BUCCI

The Facts Behind the Helsinki Roccamatios, airing Thursday, Dec. 29, on CBC as part of the Adrienne Clarkson Presents series, takes an unprecedented approach to dramatize a tragedy.

The movie is based on a Yann Martel novella, which is the firstperson account of a man whose friend dies from AIDS. It was adapted, produced and directed by Robert Sherrin.

Michael Riley stars as The Author. Michael Mahonen plays his friend, Paul, who gets the disease from a tainted blood transfusion he received years earlier. They are both second-year students at the University of Toronto when the symptoms emerge.

They just ended up calling my character The Author, because there was no name given, Riley says. "And I think that's kind of appropriate, in a funny way, because he's kind of an everyman kind of a role. Everyone's suffered a loss - everyone's destined to at least."

Paul is soon hospitalized, not yet fully aware of the nightmare that lies ahead. During a hospital visit, the two friends decide to create an ongoing story about a fictional family, which they name the Roccamatios.

"It was much like a play," Riley says. "We had a platform on which everything was shot. If it was a hospital corridor, we'd bring the was a hospital bed or desk, we'd invaluable for an actor, especially something that has a definite emotional arc like that piece did," he says. "We could have done it as a play - not that I'd want to. It's a pretty harrowing thing to go through every night at eight o'clock."

The two use major events of the 20th century to devise new chapters in the Roccamatios saga. While they are citing the event, historical footage is seen in the background.

"I think it's ground-breaking television because nothing has ever been seen like this," Riley says. "There's been a lot of great AIDS pieces done, but this isn't strictly about AIDS."

The Roccamatio story is more than just a way to spend time - it reflects the feelings of the two friends as they face the grim reality of the disease.

As Paul's illness worsens, he focuses on darker aspects of history, pushing the family in similarly morbid directions. At one point, he insists Albert Camus was killed in a car accident decades before his actual death, painting a gruesome picture of the incident.

"Like history, you bend it to your own purposes," Riley says. "And Paul, as he gets more and more depressed, the historical events he chooses start to reflect that."

Paul's friend tries to change his mood, offering more inspiring aspects of history for his part of the Roccamatio story. When Paul uses Hitler's rise to power for 1933. The Author focuses on the birth of the grave, The Author, too, becomes obsessed with history's gloomier images. Through narration, he describes not only the emotions he is experiencing but how the situation affects Paul's parents as well.

"It was like working on Shakespeare, just in term of the language being used," Riley says. "It was very heightened, kind of poetic language a lot of the time. And the soliloquies the author has are classically structured."

Paul, however, has not completely given up. His wish is to complete 100 years of Roccamatio history before he dies. Therein, Riley says, lies an important message of the drama.

"There is hope, but the hope is at the very, very end," he says. "And it's not a happily-ever-after kind of hope, but it's a real kind of hope that loss and grief kind of need.

"I don't think it's about the dying. it's about the living and about bereavement and how one has to not circumnavigate it - you kind of have to go through it to the end. I think that's an interesting message."

Riley says he was surprised by the emotional power of the finished

"I think the piece, in a strange way, is larger than the sum of its parts," he says. "I couldn't have anticipated how much impact it had until I actually saw it together with the music and the images."

SOAP WORLD

Most soap viewers have long memories

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I have been watching The Young and the Restless for many years. The whole situation with John and Jill is ridiculous. I would like to know why nothing has been mentioned about Jill's affair with Jack several years Doesn't anyone remember that John left Jill the first time because of her affair with his son? Jill and lack made love in a cabin during a snowstorm and someone took pictures. John finally figured out that Jack had a mole just like the man in the picture.

The writers need to know that some of their viewers have long memories and we don't forget the details. -Leona Anderson, North Adams, Mass.

Dear Reader: This isn't the first time the writers have messed with the continuity of Y&R. They are also famous for having people simply fall off the face of the earth: One day someone goes out to get the mail, and they never come back. Remember Brett Hadley, who played Paul's father, Carl Williams? One day he was there, and the next he was gone. It is kind of scary when you think about it, especially since it has happened more than once on the show

Dear Candace: Could you please tell me what happened to the actress who played Dinah Lee on Loving? Why was she replaced? -D. Meyer, Shell Beach,

Dear Reader: Jessica Collins, who played Dinah Lee, left the show to pursue other interests. Since the character was in the middle of a major story line. the role was recast.

Dear Candace: I am a longtime fan of The Bold and the Beautiful, and I am tired of people writing in about what a tramp Brooke is. People keep saying that Brooke is a tramp and that Taylor was such a wonderful wife. Well, Taylor is the one who slept with James

Also, could you please tell me if Ronn Moss (Ridge) really did a porno film? One of those sleazy tabloids said he did. -Mrs. M.R.W.C. in Tenn.

Dear Reader: Moss was not available for comment, but a source close to the show says it is not true.
