Post office plan returned to sender

U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers is frustrated and angry over a recent announcement that Canton is off the list for a full-service post office this century. She and other political leaders say they plan to do battle to change that decision.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Unless there's a mix-up somewhere, federal postal authorities have now taken Canton off the list of communities in line for a full service post office.

That latest decision was met with frustration and anger by Detroit area postal authorities, congressional representatives, Canton officials and the local business community.

"We had no knowledge the Great Lakes area had turned down this project," said an embarrassed Vernita Martin, manager for Detroit district postal services. "No one has contacted us." The Great Lakes Area office has jurisdiction over planning for new facilities in the Detroit area.

Martin answered questions at a public hearing hosted by Democratic U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers Saturday in Canton Township Hall. "We were not aware it was scrapped, nor do we accept that it has been scrapped," Martin said.

Rivers presented a a letter from Jon Leonard, legislative affairs representative for the U.S. Postal Service, which announced that the Great Lakes Area postal headquarters has no plans to proceed with a full-service post office before 1999.

"In government, that means no," Rivers said, about the apparent delay. She said she will talk with Leonard early Monday. "I think we are ready to go to war."

While Leonard's letter went to Rivers — following her response to another recent letter that said 'no' to Canton's request — Martin was not informed by postal authorities.

The recent letters follow a March announcement in which Canton was placed 12th on a list of 38 projects with a full-service post office to be built in the township in 1997.

Gray, windy skies and ominous rain clouds didn't stop Target employees from volunteering Saturday morning to clean up the historic Cherry Hill Schoolhouse grounds.

"It will probably snow on us," said Randy Craig, team captain of the Canton Target's Good Neighbor Program. "But we try to make this as much fun as possible."

Once a month, employees volunteer through the Good Neighbor Program somewhere in the community. Craig contacted Kathleen Salla, Canton volunteer coordinator, to see what needed doing in the community in April.

"Kathleen contacted me and said, 'Have you got anything for them in April?' " said Canton trustee Melissa McLaughlin, Canton Historic District Commission member.

Sure enough, it's that time of year when the grounds of the schoolhouse at Ridge and Cherry Hill needed some sprucing. "Usually it's 'moi,' " McLaughlin said. "So we are just picking up the leaves and sticks and getting the weeds out."

Eight Target employees, some with their children, hustled to clean up the yard as the skies Saturday morning grew darker. "I thought it would be interesting to check out the school. I drive by it a lot and I wanted to see it," said Canton resident Jill Hughes, Target employee and volunteer.

Issue prompts concern

Don Galazin has had enough with state legislators whittling away at individual rights.

"They can walk into anybody's house and really they don't have to have any due process," Galazin said. "I don't like this idea that we are going to a police state."

Galazin's source of anger is House Bill 4367, a Michigan version of RICO — the Racketeering Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act. The state House passed a watered down version of the bill in March.

The parts that remain in the bill are those that continue to bother Galazin, not to mention Republican state Rep. Deborah Whyman of Canton, who opposed the measure in March. The bill has not yet been reported out of committee in the state Senate.

The bothersome part of the bill is that those found guilty of racketeering could be ordered by a court to forfeit any property involved in or derived from an illegal activity, such as smuggling untaxed cigarettes into the state or dealing in food stamps.

The action would be a civil forfeiture, which requires a preponderance of evidence, rather than the criminal procedure where proof must be beyond a reasonable doubt, Whyman said.

"This is just a profit center. This is civil forfeiture. It is taking property without due process," Whyman said. "I think our Constitution is clear on property rights. When we deviate

Theatre Guild production highlights suspense

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

When you go to the Plymouth Theatre Guild's production of "Deathtrap," you will be taken back to the days of old-time radio suspense and romance.

"I used to listen to the radio a lot with my grandpa," said director Lisa Brandow of Novi. "I would listen to the creepy shows. You could hear the creaking doors. It was the old suspense."

Brandow decided to bring that era back to the local theater with "Deathtrap," which debuts at 8 p.m. April 28 and 29, May 5, 6, 12 and 13. The Sunday, May 7, performance will be at 6 p.m. Tickets are $8 at the door for adults, and $7 for youths. The production will be at the Water Tower Theatre, 41001 W. Seven Mile Road. For more information, call (810) 349-7110.

"Deathtrap," written by Ira Levin, is about successful playwright Sydney Bruhl, who is struggling to overcome a dry spell and will go to any lengths to improve his fortune. Bruhl sees a possible break when he receives a script from a promising student named Clifford Anderson.

There's more: add a sweet, but quick-witted wife, Myra; a clever attorney named Porter; and an eccentric psyhic, Helga Ten Dorp. The result is a suspenseful, thrilling plot that twists and turns with cleverness.

Though written in the 1960s-70s, the production, under Brandow's di-

Students help resolve conflicts

BY M.B. DILLON

Helping children be peace makers is a top priority at Fiegel Elementary School in Plymouth Township.

Fiegel recently hosted graduation ceremonies for 15 "peer mediators," who were chosen based on their listening skills and ability to sort out issues and arrive at solutions.

The students received three days' training at Wayne County's intermediate school district. They received additional training from Fiegel principal Barbara Young and Fiegel's peer mediation coordinator Peggy Schneider.

"Using words and discussing solutions as the way to solve conflicts is the message we hope to instill in our students," said Schneider. "Peer mediators have been an important part of this process for the past year."

Since their selection last spring, Meaghan Kalinowski, Jennifer Curran, Scott Lytle, Erin Lynett, Shawn Campion and Matt Fiorenzi have been on the job.

"As peer mediators, these youngsters sit down with two children who are having a conflict and help them to arrive at a win/win solution. The peer mediators must be good listeners, able to sort out the facts as each child tells his/her side of the issue," Schneider said. "The mediator then elicits solutions from the disputants and assists them in choosing a solution which is best for all involved."

Meaghan Kalinowski said, "I think that I was most helpful when I was outside (as a mediator) on recess. I've been nice and I haven't fought."

Joey Urban, Angela Lee, Lauren Zimmerman, Chelsea Cook, Craig Fletcher, Mike Caruana, Steven West, Janelle Broadway and Mike Lanius will be available as fourth- and fifth-grade mediators next year.

"I want to help Fiegel Schools' kids solve their problems in words and be a good help to Fiegel School," said Joey Urban. "I want to show kids there is always a way to solve a problem peacefully. I will take this job seriously and I will do my very best."

Lauren Zimmerman said "I wanted to become a peer mediator because it sounds interesting and it would be a good experience. I can help people by listening and helping them solve their problems."

Mike Lanius said "I wanted to be a peer mediator to help the school be a better place."

Teachers, playground aides and the principal refer students for mediation. Students also may sign themselves up when they need help. "We use a small room called the Mediation Station as a quiet room for the mediation process. Often times, what an upset child needs is to vent his or her side of the story and to really fell they have been fairly listened to," said Schneider. "With these role models promoting peace, we hope to motivate all students to make positive choices when faced with a conflict. Hopefully, students will think before they react and realize the best way to solve a problem is to express anger or frustration in a non-violent or unhurtful way and to use words to bring about peace."

New Wayne-Westland school chief eager to start work

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

For the first time in 29 years, a Wayne-Westland school superintendent has been selected unanimously by a school board that has high hopes of ending the divisive politics that tarnished the district's image.

The seven-member board gave sweeping praise to South Lyon schools chief Duane Moore, the lone Wayne-Westland superintendency finalist who stood up under intense scrutiny when local officials visited his district.

"I have not heard one negative thing about Dr. Moore, and that made me feel good," said board member Francis "Bud" Winter, who also surveyed South Lyon coffee shops, golf courses and restaurants to gauge public opinion about Moore, 53.

The board's vote during a special session Thursday evening marked the first time that a Wayne-Westland superintendent had been selected unanimously since 1966, when Harry Howard was appointed, Winter said.

"I'm just really gratified in the confidence that (the board) has shown in the school system and what I might be able to contribute to it," Moore said Friday evening. He said he was "pleasantly surprised" by the 7-0 vote.

"My message was that if I came (to Wayne-Westland), we were all in this together," Moore said. "I'm excited, and I'm looking forward to working in the district."

The last three top officials began their jobs on a 4-3 board vote — a razor-thin vote of confidence that shifted for current Superintendent Larry Thomas when less-supportive board members were elected during his tenure. He is being forced out when his three-year contract expires June 30.

The board and Moore still have to reach a contract agreement, a hurdle that the board hopes to clear by May 8 with help from its attorney.

Moore said he is "optimistic" of reaching an agreement with the board. His starting date isn't yet known.

The Wayne-Westland job will be Moore's fourth superintendency. The district serves a small portion of Canton.

Moore's current salary in South Lyon is $89,975, in addition to a $7,167 tax-sheltered annuity. Thomas is earning $110,000.

The gap between the two salaries should give the board room to negotiate a contract, board President Mathew McCusker said. Moore's pact will be for at least three years, the board decided.

Moore had been one of seven semifinalists for the Wayne-Westland job. But he emerged as the sole finalist after five candidates withdrew and after the board eliminated a sixth person.

"I feel confident that he is the person for our district," board member Richard LeBlanc said.

Moore has the qualities that board members wanted, such as leadership experience, interpersonal and organizational skills, integrity and the ability "to generate trust and confidence," LeBlanc said.

Board member Patricia Brown said she believes that Moore can "bring this school district back together again."

Board member Debra Fowlkes agreed and said, "I think he can pull the community together, the employees together and all of us on the board together." She said she supported his selection "wholeheartedly."

Even though Moore was the only finalist, board member Vicki Welty said she believes he would have been chosen for the job even if there had been 10 finalists.

Board member Laurel Raisanen supported Moore "without reservation," though she said she still believes that the board didn't give Thomas a chance to succeed.

Raisanen and Welty are the only two board members who were on the board when Thomas was hired in 1992.

With Moore's selection, Winter said the board and the community need to stop pointing fingers and placing blame for the district's problems, including a burgeoning budget deficit. Instead, Winter called for unity to improve the district.

Moore will face many challenges other than striving to erase a $2 million budget deficit that officials say could mushroom to $6.4 million by next year. The district also is preparing this fall to implement new school attendance boundaries and a middle school structure.

Jane Kuckel, assistant superintendent for instruction, pledged that cabinet members "will do everything we can to make it a smooth transition" when Moore begins his job.

Officials link Omnicom sale to improved cable service

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Cable TV viewers in Plymouth and Canton can expect better service and quicker response when service is interrupted, or when billing questions or complaints arise, says Plymouth City Manager Steve Walters.

The improvements are expected as a result of the sale of Omnicom of Michigan to Continental Cablevision of Southfield.

Omnicom has served Plymouth, Canton and Hamtramck.

"It appears that all issues have been resolved, and are now subject to a limited amount of review to complete a proposed franchise," Walters told the city commission. "It is expected that the franchise will be presented to (the commission) by the first meeting in May, which would allow the hearing and adoption process to be completed by mid-June."

Walters predicts the franchise agreement will be "much more demanding" than the expired 15-year agreement with Omnicom. "This has a lot more performance standards in it than the kind of franchise granted in 1978," he said.

While the agreement won't address rate regulation, it will concern "customer service, and consumer protection issues such as response time standards for responding to outages, customer complaints and billing complaints," said Walters.

"This is almost like going from having nothing in the way of standards and performance measures to having fairly sophisticated ones."

Construction of a new fiber-optic system will begin before the transfer to Continental is completed.

"It is projected that approximately 100 miles of the 600-mile existing system will be rebuilt and activated by January 1996, and that the entire system will be rebuilt before the end of 1997," said Walters. "The design concept has been upgraded from 78 channels to 110 channels. This is being driven by the market competition from satellite services and Ameritech."

Attorneys are reviewing for the city an amendment that will address the entry of telephone companies into the cable television business.

"We want to look at the whole legal situation concerning regulation," said Plymouth Mayor Doug Miller.

Continental Cablevision is the third-largest cable operator in the nation, with more than three million customers. It's also the third-largest operator in Michigan, serving more than 209,000 subscribers in 31 communities throughout the southern Lower Peninsula.

Continental spokesman Richard Weigand said, "We look forward to serving these communities and making them a part of the Continental family."

CEO foresees changes in health care delivery

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Here's the latest joke out of California: How do you get a hold of a cardiologist? Shout, "Hey waiter."

Garry Faja, CEO of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ypsilanti, told the joke to the Canton Economic Club Wednesday to illustrate a new pattern of health care delivery that is on the horizon.

One of those patterns is retraining specialists, such as cardiologists, to become primary care physicians. Faja said the country will see incremental change in health care reform, following defeat of President Bill Clinton's reform plan in 1994.

One of those reforms will be letting the private sector market reform health care through what is called managed care, which exists today in the form of health maintenance organizations, such as Selectcare, HAP, and M-Care.

The primary care physician is at the base of such a system. The physician basically is in charge of your health. He or she decides what diagnostic tests you need or whether you need to see a specialist.

"By the 21st century, a new pattern of delivery and financing will be here," Faja predicted.

Incremental changes expected with the current 104th U.S. Congress include managed care, changes in anti-trust laws to allow hospitals to join forces, limits on malpractice awards, medical savings accounts, individual responsibility for health and tax incentives for long care insurance, Faja said.

Focus will turn to Medicaid and Medicare programs, which were not addressed in Clinton's plan, but are considered such expensive programs that contribute to the federal deficit.

"Most of the growth occurs in mandated entitlement programs," Faja said, such as Medicare for the elderly and Medicaid for the indigent.

The effort will be to look at the private sector to address those programs. By 2001, the Health Trust Fund, which finances Medicare, is expected to be bankrupt. "We've got to address this," Faja said. "In the private sector, growth has slowed more than the outlay for public programs."

He also noted that with Medicare, one-third of the costs come from patients' last six months of life. "There are going to some moral, ethical problems society will have to deal with," Faja said.

Addressing Medicaid will be more difficult because state and federal money supports the program. "If you're going to attack this problem, it will be big," Faja said.

In addition to incremental changes through the Congress and a focus on entitlement programs, Faja said market forces will play a large role in reforming health care.

Along with managed care comes what is called capitation. Simply, that means a health care provider will get a certain amount of money, such as from an insurance company, to take care of its members.

"That is supposed to motivate people (health care providers) to keep the members healthy," said Jim Frenza, public affairs and marketing officer for the Catherine McAuley Health System, of which St. Joseph Mercy is a part. The McAuley Health System has joined forces under a joint operating agreement with Providence Hospital and Medical Centers to form Mission Health.

Reforms will force hospitals to close and reduce the number of available hospital beds. Changes also will illustrate the lack of primary care providers and the overabundance of specialists, Faja said.

He also explained Mission Health, which has been eyeing a location in Canton to build a new health care facility. Mission Health includes St. Joseph Mercy, Providence Hospital, McPherson Hospital and Saline Communtiy Hospital.

"We think this is a step toward addressing the future," Faja said. "We are trying to examine everything we do and how we do it."

Oklahoma City tragedy frightens people close to home

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

The bombing that tragically took the lives of dozens of adults and children in the Oklahoma City federal building last week has shaken those who work with children in Plymouth-Canton.

"I'm upset about the whole incident," said Plymouth-Canton school Superintendent Charles Little. "I want our young people to feel comfortable. I think the president is correct; I don't want our district to be intimidated by it. I won't stand for it."

"It's really gotten me down, how they chose the day care to get," said Cindy Woods, a security officer at Plymouth Salem and Canton high schools. "That's the worst way of getting to people. It's really sad that whoever these people are, they had to kill a bunch of innocent kids to make a point.

"You think you're safe just about anywhere and you're not," she added. "It's very frustrating to realize you can't prevent something like this."

Little said the ever-present possibility of a violent attack presents a dilemma for the school district.

"We want the schools to be welcoming and friendly, but they have to be safe," said Little. "How do you politely ask a stranger if they've checked in at the office? How do you word the sign in the window? The vast majority of people are wonderful, but there are those who aren't. It's a tough PR issue. You think of all the traffic in school — short of locking all the doors, I don't know what you do."

Mike McCauley teaches a hands-on government class called Close Up at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park. "When you see these babies and individuals splattered and crushed, you get very upset about it and very sad.

"After the first couple days, you just get so angry and so furious; my blood is a little steamed.

"Then there's the whole idea that it could only be people from another nation that could do this," he said. "I don't know if that is true. There are people in Michigan who might act like terrorists. In Michigan, we all bump into those individuals. They have a lot of anger in them. They think everyone is out to get them, including Big Brother, which is insane."

McCauley predicted that when the culprits are identified, it'll become clear that their message was political. "They wanted to prove they can hurt the federal government," he said.

In schools where Little has worked in the past, there've been evacuations due to bomb scares. He's familiar with schools that have installed metal detectors. "I know of schools that have changed their schedules to accommodate the metal detectors," he said. "I'm concerned about the whole issue, and have been for a long time. I don't know what to do to combat that, short of putting someone at every door. It's a dangerous thing, and an important thing."

School candidates air views

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Residents who gathered at Uncle Frank's Coney Island Thursday night were given an early chance, compliments of the Community Democratic Club, to hear candidates for Plymouth-Canton school board and the Schoolcraft College board.

Voters will elect two of 10 candidates for two four-year seats on the Plymouth-Canton board in the general election June 12. Two millage proposals also will appear on the ballot; a renewal of 18 non-homestead mills and a property-tax increase of 2.3 enhancement mills for two years.

Plymouth-Canton candidate Sheryl T. Khoury, a 25-year Plymouth resident and a Plymouth Salem High School graduate, is president of the Plymouth Library Board. She said she's learned a great deal about the community and the schools while on the library board and on the job as a substitute in Plymouth-Canton schools.

Khoury said the millages "need to pass. The most important thing people need to know is that it (the 2.3-mill levy) will be only for two years, to pay for textbooks, teacher training, and some computer equipment.

"I plan to be the first board candidate who will not campaign on the issue of 'We need to save money for the economies of scale,'" she said. Plymouth-Canton has been frugal, she added.

"We need to be more responsive. There is parental dissatisfaction with developmental education," Khoury said. "If money isn't available to lower class size, we will have to look at alternatives."

David McCarthy has lived in Plymouth Township for six years. Retired from Clinton Township where he was senior commander of fire services, McCarthy said he's been "either a student or a teacher all my life. I've also been in the service of the community all my life. To serve on the school board would only be a natural continuance.

"The future of our country lies in K-12 education," he said. "In not too many years, these children will be our leaders. How we prepare them will determine the course of our country and world."

McCarthy said every student should be "educated to the maximum." A non-practicing attorney, McCarthy said he has "zero tolerance" for any kind of gang activity.

Daniel Dunnigan of Canton is the father of five school-aged children. He said one of his primary goals on the school board would be "to make sure the best ideas can surface. The school board should provide a forum where all perspectives can be considered.

"We need to focus ever-increasingly on the basics of math, science, and communication skills, both written and oral," he said.

"Our children have benefited from excellent teachers, and they've benefited most when expectations have been high. While students learn at their own pace, there is a certain minimum level of learning that must be accomplished."

Dunnigan, who supports the millages, said "direct parental involvement is critical.

"School finances are a scarce resource, and have to be treated as such."

A full-time homemaker, Paul Schrauben is a six-year Canton resident with two preschool-aged children.

"I'm a member of the initial Leadership Canton group," he said. "It introduced individuals to what the township and community can do, and to what we can do for the community."

Schrauben decided to run after attending several school board meetings.

Schrauben, who also supports the millages, said "the most important thing you can give a child is education. I want to ensure that it continues to improve in quality."

Jeffry Phillips of Plymouth has three children, two in the school system.

Phillips said his manufacturing job at Detroit Diesel entails "knowing about jobs. I know the direction where technology is heading.

"We need to make sure we have the finances to deal with class size," he added. "We are using programs not suited to our large class sizes.

"I think we can bring up test scores," he added. "I think we also need to focus on local control of the curriculum. We don't want the state dictating to us through funding and accreditation. Parents are the ones who know what students need to know.

Guest speakers were U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor, and Plymouth-Canton Superintendent Charles Little. Rivers spoke about the "very nasty, very mean" first 100 days in Congress.

Little said it's crucial that the district pass the millages if Plymouth-Canton is to keep pace.

Schoolcraft candidates who spoke included Brian Broderick, Harold Greenleaf, Mary Breen and Stephen Ragan. The four are running for three seats.

The Community Democratic Club encompasses Plymouth, Canton, Northville, and the portion of Livonia that is in the 18th Congressional District. The club meets at 7:30 p.m. on the third Wednesday of the month at varying locations. For more information, call 453-5781.

Canton school hosts Fun Fair Friday

Miller Elementary School will be hosting a Family Fun Fair 6-9 p.m. Friday, April 28, at the school.

The Fun Fair is a family night of entertainment that includes many carnival-type games. Some of these are: cake walk, pop walk, duck pond, Pog game, face painting, limbo contest, basketball toss, putt-putt, ring toss, football throw, pie in the face and many more.

Most games will cost one or two tickets. Game tickets can be purchased the week before the fair at the price of five tickets for $1. The night of the fair, the price will be four tickets for $1.

There will also be a raffle held starting at 7:30 p.m. There are more than 30 prizes to be given away, and ticket holders need not be present to win. The raffle items were donated by local merchants. The grand prize is one week's use of a pop-up camper. The second-place prize is a limo ride and brunch for two at the Gandy Dancer in Ann Arbor. The third-place prize is a New Home sewing machine. Additional raffle prizes include 18 holes of golf at local courses and a set of junior starter golf clubs.

also a Target employee and volunteer, brought her two older sons to help with the cleanup. "It's good for them to see mom in action."

The Target employees' effort coincides with National Volunteer Week, April 23-29. "Cheers to Volunteers" is the metro Detroit's theme to honor volunteers this year.

Last year in the Canton community, volunteers of all ages helped more than 40 organizations and projects. "Their extraordinary efforts, and those of volunteers everywhere, are a challenge to make a difference in the lives of others," said Salla, whose job is to match volunteers who want to work with organizations that need help.

The schoolhouse cleanup worked out perfectly. "Randy said he is interested in historic school buildings. He recently got a book about Canton's schoolhouses. This is ideal. It's a meaningful experience when you can match up volunteers with their interests," Salla said.

"The only person who can approve the project is (U.S. Postmaster General) Marvin Runyon," said Martin, a Canton resident, adding that the Canton post office project would cost more than $5 million.

Despite the disappointment, Martin, Rivers and township officials said they will not give up. "We have to determine why," Martin said, referring to the latest federal decision.

She suggested that answers be obtained immediately from the Great Lakes area postal authorities, namely who denied the request and on what criteria. Martin also suggested a meeting with the decision makers.

"I believe it will be critical that you and U.S. Senator Spencer Abraham and everyone on that level let Marvin Runyon know you are concerned about getting a post office in this area," Martin said. "Somehow I have to get them to reconsider from the Great Lakes area."

Martin said that petitions boasting thousands of signatures, as well as letters — referring to problems with businesses unable to get bulk mailings from the Canton service center in North Harvard Square, as well late deliveries to both commercial and residential addresses — were forwarded to Washington, D.C.

"We are space deficient there already. There is a twofold need already," Martin said, referring to the Westland Post Office, which covers Canton Township. "As far as I am concerned, Canton is still a priority."

Carol Felker, a former postal official, now a Canton business owner and Canton Chamber of Commerce member, said more postal employees and more space are needed to adequately serve Canton Township.

"The business community is in dire need," said Linda Shapona, chamber executive director, referring to the 1,200 businesses in the township.

from them we create an opportunity for corruption."

Whyman referred to a Wall Street Journal article about a rancher suspected of having illegal drugs in his house. Police raided the house and in the process shot the man's wife. The man apparently did not have illegal drugs.

"If you're caught littering they can take your car. If you're riding your bike where you shouldn't be, you can lose your bike," Whyman said.

Galazin points to what he believes is an irony. Today you can get a concealed weapon permit. But with the House bill, police will be able to walk into your house and confiscate what they want without due process, Galazin said.

"It's OK if they want to go after the racketeers. But they slide these little things in. These decisions of what to take will be up to individual police officers. People can laugh but this kind of thing happened in Nazi Germany."

Republican state Sen. Loren Bennett of Canton is equally perturbed with the proposed measure. "I think it's a good idea gone amuck."

Anyone who would like to voice their opinions about the bill may call Whyman at 1-800-555-5021 or Bennett, (517) 373-7350.

MICHIGAN JOBS TEAM

SC commencement to feature Valassis president

Nearly 800 students will receive diplomas in the 30th commencement ceremony at Schoolcraft College on Saturday, May 6.

Approximately 144 students will be receiving liberal arts degrees. The second highest number of degrees — 94 — will be conferred upon registered nurses. Sixty business degrees will be handed out, 43 criminal justice degrees, 40 business administration diplomas, and 30 accounting degrees. About 20 students per program will receive technical degrees.

Amy Scharmen, the only female receiving an associate degree in engineering, will graduate with a 4.0 grade point average. The daughter of Schoolcraft engineering professor Larry Scharmen, she is headed to the University of Michigan to pursue a bachelor's degree in engineering. Her mother, Barbara, also works at Schoolcraft part time.

David Brandon, president of Valassis Communications of Livonia, will be the commencement speaker at the ceremony, which will begin at 6 p.m.

Brandon, who has headed Valassis since 1989, took a family business with 75 employees and $30 million in sales to a Fortune 500 company with 1,200 employees and $661 million in revenue.

Valassis has succeeded in remaining the leader in the free-standing insert market, the colorful manufacturers' coupons that are inserted in newspapers.

Brandon is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He was recruited out of college by Procter & Gamble in 1974 and was quickly promoted through the ranks.

He joined Valassis in 1979 and again was promoted to increasingly important responsibilities.

Brandon is a trustee of St. Mary Hospital and was recently appointed to the Central Michigan University Board of Trustees.

Honorary degrees also will be presented to state Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford Township, and Ellen and Robert Thompson of Plymouth.

Bankes, in her fifth term as a Michigan legislator, helped to establish the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft and became one of the first volunteers at the facility.

Robert Thompson is the owner of Thompson-McCully Co., a "Belleville-based company that supports a lot of good causes," said Schoolcraft spokeswoman Saundra "Sam" Florek. "They're very modest people who've never wanted recognition."

Ellen Thompson has volunteered with the Salvation Army, serving on the advisory board and capital campaign. The Thompsons have also donated money to the Schoolcraft Foundation.

Schoolcraft will also honor Livonia businessman Kevin Crute and Bertha Kelly of Livonia at commencement with the "Distinguished Alumni Award."

Kelly graduated from Schoolcraft in 1979 and has been a campus minister there since 1984. The licensed psychologist also has a bachelor's degree and master's degree from Wayne State University.

Kelly is co-director of the Newman House on campus and co-director of a marriage preparation program. She is the organizer and director of a community holiday food basket program.

Kelly was nominated for the award by Schoolcraft business teacher and counselor Lowell Cook, who wrote "Bert continues to be a woman who respects people and who is committed to help them in improving their lives. She has been a major factor in helping many students follow in her footsteps as successful graduates of Schoolcraft who continue to make a difference. She has been described by many here as a quiet and effective doer who makes a difference and who empowers others to do the same."

Crute, a Northville resident, attended Schoolcraft 1976 through 1981. In 1986, he formed Crucam Inc., a Livonia company specializing in computer-aided development of "computerized numerical control cutter paths" for the mold and die industry.

Crute serves on Schoolcraft's Advisory Committee for Manufacturing & Production Planning.

In her nominating petition, Schoolcraft spokeswoman Florek said Crute has "taught classes in the related instruction curriculum, including machining theory, machining laboratory and operation courses. Through Crucam, he has been a partner in the School-to-Work Transition Program and has been instrumental in developing cooperative off-site training for Schoolcraft students within his company. He is providing Camax software that his company uses for our students to be experienced with new technology. He also provides apprenticeship programs for Livonia Public School high school students."

Dentistry in the 90s
by Herbert M. Gardner, D.D.S. & Martha P. Zinderman, R.N., D.D.S
UNIVERSAL PRECAUTIONS
Dental patients may rest assured that the dentist takes extensive precautions to eliminate any possibility that any infectious disease will be transmitted during dental procedures. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the American Dental Association have set down "universal precautions" that require all dental staff involved inpatient care to use appropriate protective garb for each patient visit. In addition, a recent study in the Journal of the American Dental Association reveals that virtually all dentists sterilize their handpieces between patients by using specific heat sterilization procedures outlined by the CDC. Disposable items such as needles and saliva ejectors which cannot be sterilized are discarded in special containers.
Rest assured that your visits with us are safe. At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES everything possible is done to protect you from infection. No one should avoid the dentist because of fear of injection. If you have questions about infection control in this office (located at 19171 Merriman Road), please ask us. We believe that an informed patient contributes to the care process. Please call 478-2110 to schedule a convenient appointment. Smiles are our business. Hrs. Mon.-Tue. Thu. & Fri. 8-5, Wed. til 9 pm. We provide dentistry without fear, "twilight sleep intravenous sedation."

Teen benefits from generosity of many

By Joanne Maliszewski

Greg Unger Greg, 14, of Canton, who has cystic fibrosis and is in need of a double lung transplant.

The Unger family is overwhelmed.

"We have tried to find out who all these people are," said Bill Unger, referring to contributors who have rallied around his son, Greg, who has cystic fibrosis and is in need of a double lung transplant.

When the Ungers — Bill, Greg, and mom, Barbara — first hooked up with Children's Organ Transplant Association to help with fund raising, their goal was $100,000. In just a few short months, more than $125,000 has been raised to help the Ungers with medical costs associated with the transplant, which will be performed in July in St. Louis.

"It is so totally overwhelming," Unger said. "We're getting even more support now than when we first started. You think it would be dying down."

Greg was diagnosed with cystic fibrosis when he was six months old. Cystic fibrosis is a genetic disease that primarily attacks the respiratory and digestive systems. Cystic fibrosis produces an abnormal accumulation of mucus in the lungs and other organs that suffocate and starve the victim.

Before Greg has the lung transplant, he will be having sinus surgery in Detroit. "His health has been pretty stable," Unger said. "He's had a couple colds but he is all right."

Contributions for Greg were raised through numerous fund-raisers, including two benefit hockey games hosted by the Canton police and fire unions. Firefighters and police officers squared off with the Detroit Red Wings Alumni in February and March. The two games raised $27,484.34 for Greg. The games were organized by firefighters Mike Caruso and Jim Davison and police officers Rick Pomorski and Leonard Schemanske.

The police and fire unions want to thank all who contributed and supported their efforts to help Greg, who is a hockey lover and Red Wing fan.

rection, will be set in the late 1940s. "It is so brilliantly written that it creates so many images," Brandow said. "People will feel they are watching old theater."

She will use the techniques that made old-time radio so suspenseful, particularly with sound effects. She will also have two death scenes that will have you gripping your seat rather than covering your eyes.

Unlike today's films, the guild's "Deathtrap" will take you back to the days of suspense, instead of horror, and romance, instead of sex.

"What makes this so unique is what we are doing with sound and lighting," Brandow continued. "It will be full of emotion."

"Deathtrap" also will feature period costumes, provided by Mary Lynn Kuna of Plymouth, known for her costuming in the guild's "The King and I."

"She found some authentic patterns and made some of the costumes," Brandow said.

The production has come to life in just less than five weeks. Auditions were in early March, with rehearsals following. "It could not have been put together any better. It will be great," Brandow said.

Scary business: "Deathtrap" tries to revive the suspense of old-time radio. Above, Kristin Curle, who plays Helga the psychic, demonstrates what playgoers will see.

An Italian/Polish festival is planned 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, July 15-16, in the Warrendale picnic area of Hines Park, Dearborn Heights. Italian and Polish food and entertainment featuring a special operative program with the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan are to be featured.

The Battle of Monguagon will be re-enacted on Aug. 19-20 in Elizabeth Park in Trenton. This War of 1812 battle — unlike the real McCoy — will be surrounded by puppet shows, fashion shows, games, artillery demonstrations, cooking demonstrations and more.

"Somewhere in Time" is also planned 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, Sept. 17, for Elizabeth Park. Participants will relive the 1920s. Antique auto displays, trolley rides, riverboat rides, musical entertainment, old-fashioned children's games and refreshments will be featured.

Finishing off the season will be a Halloween festival 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 28, in the Nankin Mills picnic area. Costumed characters, games, entertainment and hayrides will be offered.

In-line skates available in park

Wayne County Parks has teamed up with MGM Bicycle & Fitness Equipment and Rollerblade to bring in-line skating to "Saturday in the Park" activities.

Every Saturday from May 6 to Sept. 30, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., in-line skates, helmets, pads and other gear will be available for rental as part of the new "Roll in the Park" program.

The new activity is part of Saturday in the Park, when Wayne County closes Hines Drive to traffic from Outer Drive to Ann Arbor Trail so families can play care free — and car free. The skate rentals will be available at the Nankin Mills picnic area, located on Hines Drive east of Farmington Road in Westland.

The Roll in the Park program is a perfect opportunity for people that never tried in-line skating. MGM staff will be available to assist beginners, as well as provide lessons consisting of basic and advanced techniques, fancy turns and twists, safety tips and more.

For information, call 261-1990.

County library wins federal grant

LINDA BACHRACK

The cosmetic buys are budget wise!

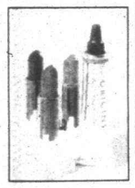
Do you often feel like a cosmetic counter hostage? Consider the following make-up mishap . . . .

Needing a quick make-up application lesson, Diane Bauman of Royal Oak stopped by the Chanel counter for a complimentary session. "I learned some good techniques and was pleased with the results," she said, "but I felt obligated to make a purchase." Bauman convinced herself that an eye pencil would be a practical and inexpensive investment. She agreed to purchase the liner and was shocked when she signed the charge for $24. Sound familiar?

Budget boosters

Women are sometimes intimidated by department store or boutique cosmetic counters because they see dollar signs as soon as they linger at one of the slick, enticing displays. I searched the beauty aisles for $10 and under finds. Yes, you can be pretty and practical without compromising quality. Origins is an innovative cosmetics company dedicated to total well-being. Founded in 1991 on a commitment to earth, animal and the environment, the unconventional company debuted it newest store-within-a-store concept recently at Hudson's Oakland Mall store in Troy. The entire line is accessible for your inspection; nothing is under glass. And Origins "guides" answer questions as you make choices based on your needs. Best of all, many of the skin care, color and sensory therapy products are priced at $10 or less.

Find Pure Cream rinseable cleanser ($8.50), Well Off eye makeup remover ($10), Spot Remover to clear up acne blemishes ($10) and Lip Remedy for dry cracked lips ($8). All 30 Lip Colors are $1 each, as is Original Skin Concealer, Just Browsing brow shaper, Eye Pencils, Fringe Benefits mascara and Pinch Your Cheeks blushing gel.



For on-the-spot relief, massage a few drops of Origin's Peace of Mind on your temples or the nape of your neck ($10) and relax or energize with essential oil soaps ($8).

Priced right

A tour through the Saks Fifth Avenue cosmetics department in the Somerset Collection, Troy, uncovered more affordable face-makers. Prescriptives color-charted eye shadows are $10 each and Clinique's shadows are $9.50. Also at the Clinique counter, find nail polish ($6.50), lip liners ($9.50), and Eye Zone sunblock ($10).

M.A.C. lip pencils are rated number one by many make-up artists. Try Chicory for summer, only $9, at the Somerset Collection boutique.

Finally, I checked out Lori Karbal's in Birmingham and found some unique vanity table items, including "Samfong" Japanese face powder ($6, and a personal favorite), Kiehl's lip balm ($4.98), Renoir makeup sponges ($4.75), French complexion mitts ($10) and Pre de Provence oatmeal and calendula soaps ($5-$7).

A Walker Warning

This note concerns a recent column: I reported on an infant walker in my baby shower story a few weeks ago and immediately received a note from Marilyn Burkhardt, a registered nurse and an associate of Dr. Neal Weinberg of Canton. She apprised me of the dangers associated with infant walkers. According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, between 20,000 and 30,000 infants are injured every year in their walkers, and most injuries are sustained when a child falls down the stairs.

Most infants injured in walkers are between seven and 10 months of age. If you choose a walker, it is your responsibility to learn to use it safely and to monitor your baby at all times to protect him/her from injury. Both the academy and Burkhardt warn that you are taking a risk simply by placing your baby in an infant walker.

Successories shops sell the 'right stuff'

Need some help motivating a weary staff? Want to let your son know he can make it if he tries? Successories sells the messages you wish to convey.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

After browsing through Successories, you leave thinking that anything is possible given half a chance and the determination to see it through.

Successories sells success via motivational prints, posters, books, tapes, awards and gifts to inspire personal development and encourage employee growth.

There are currently three metro-Detroit locations at Square Lake and Livernois in Troy; Laurel Park Place in Livonia; and Mack and Moross in Grosse Pointe. The Laurel Park store is the newest, replacing a "test sight" which operated through the winter holidays at Summit Place Mall in Waterford.

Kenneth and Diane Field, co-own the Michigan franchises with another husband-wife team Mike and Linda Good. The company's name implies winning, but exactly who is this new retailer on the block?

According to Field, the stores' goals are to provide a one-stop shopping source for personal and employee self-improvement materials. Other targeted shoppers include sales people and the self-employed who often work in a vacuum. Prints and plaques sport positive Go-get-'em messages cheering on teamwork and perseverance.

Some quote Theodore Roosevelt or Vince Lombardi. Many spotlight sports themes relaying wisdoms like, "Opportunity always involves some risk. You can't steal second base and keep your foot on first." Books and tapes mirror similar themes about focusing on a goal then scoring.

"Our market is really everyone — business people, schools, coaches, parents. Each one of us is bombarded with negative messages daily. That's why motivational seminars are always so popular," said Field, a Troy resident. "Everybody's looking for the answers."

According to Field, a recent study conducted at the University of Illinois proves that motivational posters can have an impact on employee performance. The study revealed that inspirational posters in the workplace improved productivity by 10 percent! However, Successories' best-sellers are how-to books and tapes aimed at parents trying to raise "positive" kids in the 1990s.

Field conducted his own studies on the worth of visual motivational messages by using his three children, 11-17 years, as guinea pigs. He hung a framed, 24 by 30-inch artprint at the bottom of the stairs so when his children reach for the light switch it's the

Where can I find?

We found it!

Here are readers' suggestions on where Jim Willoby of Birmingham can locate a programmable electrical timer.

Michelle Tucci called to say Radio Shack sells an eight event digital timer for $24.99. "It's wonderful," she stated. "I use mine all the time."

Al Freude of Farmington said he's purchased several excellent timers at both ACO and Damman Hardware stores. "If Mr. Willoby is an elderly man like myself, I recommend the timers with cords, not the ones you have to bend down to plug into the walls. The timers I use are on cords and sit on the tabletop."

Cindy Franklin of Redford reported seeing timers at F&M for $8.97. Four other readers claim to have seen the Willoby-described timer at Home Quarters and Builders Square. Thanks to all!

Here's the next shopping challenge from Irma Kelley of Bloomfield Hills.

"Quite a few years ago I acquired a fitted, quilted plastic cover for my card table which has a 48-inch diameter. The cover was elasticized and fit snugly making card playing more pleasant. It's wearing out, and I can't find a replacement anywhere. I've looked at Jacobson's, Hudson's, and several Hallmark shops. Can anyone help me out?"

If you know where Mrs. Kelley can find a replacement card table cover, please give Malls & Mainstreets a call at (810) 901-2567. You can fax a response to (810) 644-1314.

Petite size clothing is a must for tiny frames

Women who technically qualify for a petite size stand 5 foot 4 inches or less, and should buy clothing marked "petite" regardless of where they shop according to Jackie Corso, vice president and general merchandise manager for Talbots, a leading specialty retailer.

The clothing industry estimates that 55-percent of American women are "petite."

"Talbots is among well-known retailers who have expanded their merchandise assortments to include clothing for petites identical to styles available in misses' sizes," she said. "But still many women in this height category don't wear a petite size because they don't realize the difference between petites and misses-size clothing.

"Petite styles are not merely shortened versions of misses' styles. Petites have been scaled down proportionately to fit the entire contour of the petite figure."

Petite-fitted garments have the following adjustments: Jackets have shorter sleeves, higher armholes and waists, narrower shoulders and lapels. Blouses feature proportionately smaller details in cuffs, collars, pockets and more tapered torsos. Dresses have shorter bodices, shorter overall length, less volume in skirting and proportioned details. Trousers offer a shorter rise, shorter inseams and more tapered legs.

"What can make petite sizing tricky is that some women are only partly petite," Corso explained.

■ CLEVER CARDS COMING

Lori Rodgers of the Tomato Targets Card Co. has relocated herself and her business to Rochester Hills from Anchorage, Alaska. Rodgers welcomes inquiries from speciality card and gift shops that would like to feature her cards. The animal-art greetings contain humorous and clever puns so unique they've managed to turn up on The Late Show with David Letterman during the "Weird Cards" segment, and CNN News.

Rodgers cards can be sampled at LaBelle Provence in Birmingham, and Lytle's Pharmacy, Boxes and Bows, and Kees Aquarium in Rochester.

"The name Tomato Targets came from my other career as a vocalist and jazz guitarist," Rodgers said. "I started a graphics company in 1987 and in 1989 I introduced my first cards. The cards took off right away. I love working for myself. It's a luxury and fun. The company's success allows me to keep doing my art."

Rodgers, "40-something," said falling in love with a man from Rochester Hills brought her to Michigan after a two-year transcontinental courtship. She said she uses animals in her comics because they are "safe." When she dresses an animal and gives them human characteristics (like Barby Dog) she can make a point without offending anyone. Six Tomato Targets cards have won Louie Awards from the National Greeting Card Association based in New York.

Tomato Targets are in 500 stores nationwide. They celebrate Christmas, Friendship, Mothers' and Father's Day, Gratitude, Love, and Birth and are perfect for expressing apologies, acknowledging a divorce, or sharing a laugh.

"Studies show that 85-percent of all greeting cards are purchased by women," Rodgers said. Some of the card designs have turned up on T-shirts and frameable pellons. Suggested retail price, $2. For more information, call (810) 656-2270.

■ PATCHES REVISITED

One emerging fashion trend for women this spring and summer is patchwork garments. Designers in all price points are featuring dresses, jumpers, blouses and skirts made from fabrics of contrasting designs and colors "patched together." Insiders say the patchwork popularity originated in Chicago with area designers and quickly spread throughout the industry. Why this sudden demand for patchwork? One Southfield boutique owner said the look says "comfort" and "country" — two more very important concepts this season.

■ MODELING PROGRAM BEGINS

The Feminique Les Hommes Modeling School hosts a series of modeling classes for girls and boys, ages 6-19, from May through June at Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield. The workshops will be co-sponsored by Crowley's. For more details, call (810) 788-6813. All participants will model in a Summer Fashion Show on June 10.

■ RACING-RELATED RETAIL

Racing Posters and More, a store specializing in officially licensed NASCAR collectibles, apparel and novelties, has expanded to a new 1,000-square-foot location at 345 North Pontiac Trail in downtown Walled Lake. Owners George and Sue Hoult of Wixom, first opened RPM two years ago in a smaller building in downtown Walled Lake. RPM is closed on Sunday and Monday. Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday hours: 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday: 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Inquiries welcome at (810) 960-7347.

first thing they see while descending the stairs.

"It's all about instilling positive thinking," he explained. "I put it to the test and saw how it worked in my own household. It was effective on my children. I'm trying to make this a better world."

Field recently donated six of the posters to Livonia's Churchill High School. "It's amazing what teachers and parents can do to change a young person's life. You might not be able to reach everyone but if you can reach one, it begets two."

Successories' parent company, Celebrating Excellence, was founded in 1985 as a mail order company. Today it has grown to more than 100 stores across the country. Before opening the Successories franchises, Field, 41, worked as district manager for a tool company, He was actively "looking for growth opportunity" when he heard about Successories. For many years he read and believed in the philosophies motivational authors and speakers espoused. This led him on a personal search for excellence.

■ 'Did you know you can acquire two college years worth of information if driving 12,000-15,000 miles a year listening to tapes?'

Kenneth Field — Successories

Future plans include opening several more Successories stores throughout Michigan.

"Did you know you can acquire two college years worth of information if driving 12,000-15,000 miles a year listening to tapes?" he pointed out. He recommends "Lead the Field" by Erich Nightingale.

Spouting his beliefs is second nature to Field. Spending a morning with him brightens the rest of the day. "You have to live it. You have to believe it. When most people say it's partly cloudy, I say you find what you look for."

A resident of Farmington Hills who did not want her name published, said she likes to buy the motivational greeting cards at Successories for her school-age grandchildren.

"When I discovered these, I bought a dozen of them. I want the kids to know I'm rooting for them," she said. "The photographs are beautiful and the wisdoms, inspiring."

"Women who are short-waisted or short-legged, for example, may find a better fit by incorporating a petite size for either the top or bottom half of an outfit."

She offered the following tips to help all petites achieve a great look:

- Choose styles that emphasize longitude and balance. Vertical lines and tonal dressing will produce an elongated effect.
- Petites should avoid bulky fabrics, bold horizontals and large prints, which can be overwhelming.
- Always remember proportion. Petites can wear any styles as long as the fit is proportional to their figures.
- All garments should follow the natural curve of the body.
- Seek out specialized services for petites. Some stores offer petite wardrobing seminars.

Change what you eat to feel much better

Twenty-percent of Americans think they have food allergies. Experts say only 2 percent really do. Are the others just confused about what's really wrong?

While the experts debate this issue, studies show that eliminating certain foods from diets of hyperactive children calms them down. If you suffer from ulcers, stop eating acidic foods, and you'll feel better.

The most common foods people are allergic to are milk, eggs, soy, strawberries and shell fish. When some people eat these foods their immune system mistakenly identifies the food as a harmful substance, and begins its attack.

The immunoglobulin produced stimulates the production of histamine and other substances, which in turn cause reactions ranging from sneezing and tongue sensitivity to asthma or hives. The worst cases can result in shock.

As for the other 18 percent – those who do not immediately react to food with classic allergy symptoms – experts say they probably suffer from gluten enteropathy (the inability to tolerate gluten in wheat, rye, oat, barley and other grains), or lack sufficient quantities of enzymes needed for digestion.

People who claim to have food allergies, but show no visible immune system response, could be suffering from stress.

Stressful living

Practitioners of environmental medicine blame the very basis of civilization for our modern ills.

Our ancestors did not eat the same things every day because they couldn't.

Animal species passed through regions depending on migratory patterns. Flowers and grains bloomed at different times of the year. Problems began when we learned to how to grow and store grain and domesticate animals.

These days, we tend to eat the same foods and types of foods everyday. The result – with no extended break from many foods, we develop sensitivities to the things we eat most often. All this is fine and dandy and somewhat informative, but what can the person who claims to suffer from food allergies do to help alleviate the problems associated with a food allergy?

What to do

The only solution is to stop eating foods that you suspect are making you sick. If symptoms persist there are allergists, clinical ecologists and immunologists. But remember, they differ in their ideologies and methods of treatment.

Before contacting a specialist, keep a detailed food log indicating everything you eat for at least 14 days. Note any specific symptoms or problems that occur when eating the foods.

Should you choose to search out an allergist, ask for a referral from a local medical center or your family physician.

Look for an allergist who specializes in food. Food allergists can identify problem foods through testing, and might possibly prescribe injection therapy thereby allowing some patients to eat their problem food on a rotational basis.

Practitioners of environmental medicine, also known as clinical ecologists, say that ordinary chemicals in our environment make us sick; everyday foods can be toxins and contaminated food can be linked to such diverse conditions as depression, heart disease and arthritis. For a referral, contact a doctor specializing in holistic medicine or talk to the owner of a health food store.

Referrals to an immunologist can be obtained from an allergist.

There are also support groups that meet throughout metropolitan Detroit that offer innovative menus, recipes and a list of practitioners.

Contact you local hospital's director of patient information for a list of contact people. Many hospitals sponsor monthly meetings. Magazines like "Eating Well," and "Prevention," often offer helpful information.

If you think you're suffering from a food allergy, help is available for the asking. Do it today.

Thousands of people suffer from food allergies, or other diseases where the body mistakes certain foods for foreign particles. Local groups help families cope by providing emotional support, and recipes.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Going to a professional sporting event seems like a pretty harmless family activity. But for 7-year-old Michael Russell of Plymouth, it can be deadly. Michael's allergy to peanuts is so severe that the dust from the nuts could put him into a severe – and potentially deadly – shock.

"We can't go to Tiger Stadium or Joe Louis Arena where they sell peanuts. (People) throw peanuts at each other and Murphy's Law would say that the peanuts would be thrown at my son," said his mother Anne Russell.

Michael is one of thousands of people who suffer from food allergies, or other diseases where the body mistakes certain foods for foreign particles.

Allergies are different from intolerances, according to Dr. Michael Rowe, an allergist who practices in Novi. Allergies are caused by specific types of antibodies formed against the food, while an intolerance means the body doesn't get along with the food.

"It's not usually associated with life-threatening illness," he said.

Michael Russell doesn't even have to eat peanuts to make him ill. Smelling or touching them can put him into anaphylactic shock during which his throat or bronchi can swell, or blood pressure may drop. He could also lose consciousness or die. According to the National Institutes of Health, about 50 anaphylactic cases per year end in death.

When her son was an infant, Russell recognized Michael's eczema as a sign that he may have food allergies. So she avoided feeding him the most allergenic foods to children – peanuts and other legumes, chocolate, eggs, milk and soy – until he was 15 months old. (Adults react primarily to shellfish, peanuts, tree nuts such as walnuts, fish and egg.)

Still, the former pediatric nurse at the University of Michigan hospitals, learned the hard way. "I let him have some scrambled eggs and he went into hives about a half hour after he ate them. The same with chocolate milk."

His most severe reaction came about a year later when she gave him his first taste of peanuts.

"At age 3/4, I gave him a lick of peanut butter for the first time and he went into immediate anaphylaxis and nine minutes after he had a lick of peanut butter he was in the

SUPPORT GROUPS

There are many organizations that offer support to those with food allergies or Celiac Sprue. Here are some of them:

The Southeastern Michigan chapter of the Food Allergy Network will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 24, at the Arbor Health Building, 990 W. Ann Arbor Trail (between Harvey and Main Street), Plymouth, when allergist Dr. Michael Rowe will talk about anaphylactic reactions; and at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 22. For more information, call Anne Russell at (313) 420-2805.

The Tri-County Celiac Sprue Support Group's next meeting is at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 8, when a panel of chefs from the Greater Detroit Restaurant Association talk about "Place Your Order" at Southfield Presbyterian Church, 21575 W. 10 Mile Road, Southfield. The group has also scheduled a potluck picnic for Sunday, June 25, at Kensington Metropark. The contact number for that group is Marsha Campbell at (810) 477-5953.

The Celiac Sprue Association/United States of America, Inc., can be reached at P.O. Box 31700, Omaha, Neb., 68131-0700. (402) 558-0600.

National Institutes of Health is at 9000 Rockville Pike, Bethesda, Md., 20892.

The Food Allergy Network national headquarters, 4744 Holly Ave., Fairfax, Va., 22030-5647. (703) 691-3179 or fax (703) 691-2713.

Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, 1125 15th St., NW, Suite 502, Washington, DC 20005. (202) 466-7643 or fax (202) 466-8940.

HELPFUL TIPS

It can be frustrating dealing with food allergies or diseases like Celiac Sprue. Here are a few tips from the Tri-County Celiac Support Group and the Southeastern Michigan chapter of the Food Allergy Network.

- Always wear a Medic-Alert bracelet and fill out emergency care cards.
- Talk with the servers or, if possible the chefs, at restaurants and explain your condition to them. Many of them will be cooperative and even welcome the challenge of cooking an allergy-free or gluten-free meal. Some restaurants let Celiacs bring in their own pasta.
- The presence of peanuts, soy and other allergans can send a child into shock. Make sure homes, restaurants and other places the child may visit are free of these foods.
- Make sure that friends and families of those with anaphylaxis carry emergency medications at all times.
- Inform teachers, the school nurse and principals of your child's condition. If your child has Celiac Sprue, provide the school with gluten-free snacks and crafts. Neon stickers placed on lunchboxes, and school files indicating allergies or Celiac Sprue can be especially helpful.
- Use self-sticking postage stamps or a damp sponge to adhere them to an envelope if you have Celiac Sprue.
- Call airlines or train services ahead of time to order a special meal. Bring your own snacks with you.
- Try to cook most of your meals at home.

ALTERNATIVE BAKING INGREDIENTS

White Rice Flour: Milled from polished white rice, this has a bland flavor and is often combined with another gluten-free flour. Finely ground white rice flour gives more lift to baked products. 7/8 cup rice flour equals one cup of wheat flour.

Brown Rice Flour: A bran-flavored flour milled from the unpolished rice, it is high in nutrient value and good for baked goods where bran flavor is desired. 7/8 cup brown rice flour equals one cup of wheat flour.

Rice Bran: This is obtained from polishing brown rice and is sometimes added to cookies, muffins and some breads. It rates high in minerals, vitamin B & E, protein, and fiber.

Sweet Rice Flour: Made from "sticky rice," it is a good thickening agent for sauces that are to be refrigerated or frozen because as it inhibits separation of the liquids.

Rice Polish: This is a soft, fluffy, cream-colored flour made from the hulls of brown rice. It causes muffins, breads and cakes to be lighter. Like rice bran, it has a high concentration of minerals and B vitamins.

Potato Starch Flour: A very fine white flour with a bland taste, excellent for baking when combined with other flours. This is also a good thickening agent for cream soups but it must be mixed with water first, and you should use about half the amount you would need of a wheat flour. Potato starch flour produces better baked products than potato flour. 5/8 cup potato starch flour equals one cup of wheat flour.

Potato Flour: This is a heavy flour with a definite potato taste. It can often be replaced with Potato Buds or mashed potatoes.

Tapioca Flour: A very light, white, velvety flour obtained from the cassava root, this gives a bit of "chew" to baked goods such as English muffins, French bread, and pizza crusts.

Soy Flour: A yellow flour having high protein and fat content, this has a nutty flavor. 1/2 cup soy flour plus 1/2 cup potato starch flour, or 1/2 cup soy flour plus 1/2 cup potato starch flour equals one cup of wheat flour.

Cornstarch: A refined starch obtained from corn. It's good for thickening for puddings and fruit sauces.

Corn Flour: A flour milled from corn, this can be blended with cornmeal when making cornbread and corn muffins. 1 cup corn flour equals one cup of wheat flour.

Xanthan Gum: A powder milled from the dried cell coat of a microorganism called Xanthomonas campestris grown under laboratory conditions. Baked goods that include xanthan gum hold together better and do not have a grainy texture.

Guar Gum: A powder derived from the seed of the plant Cyamopsis tetragonolobus. Be aware, however, that it is sometimes used as a laxative and it can cause distress to some people whose digestive systems are sensitive.

½ cup salt
1 cup gluten-free flour mix (see below)
1½ teaspoon methylcellulose
1½ teaspoon xanthan gum
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
Gluten-free flour mix
2 cups rice flour
⅔ cup potato starch flour
⅓ cup tapioca flour

In a wide-bottom pan, bring water to boil; add salt, stir until dissolved. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients. Knead together when cool. Keep in plastic bag or tightly sealed container.

From Jim Lyles of the Tri-County Celiac Sprue Support Group.

GLUTEN-FREE BROWN AND WHITE BREAD

2 teaspoons active dry yeast
1 cup brown rice flour
1⅓ cup white rice flour
2¾ teaspoons xanthan gum
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup non-fat dry milk powder
1 tablespoon margarine or butter (melted)
1 extra large egg well beaten
1½ cup warm water

Place all ingredients, except the warm water, in bread pan and press start. While the machine is kneading, gradually pour in the water. If the dough does not mix well, use a rubber spatula to assist it occasionally. After the baking cycle ends, remove bread from pan, place on wire rack and allow to cool for 1 hour before slicing. Tri-County Celiac Sprue Support Group suggests wrapping each slice in plastic, and freezing it. (Makes a pound) emergency room being treated," she said.

Melissa Hopper of Troy has lived with food allergies for 18 years. She gets the same reaction to peanuts.

"I can feel my throat closing up. My eyes tend to puff up. . . . My whole system goes wacko on me," said Hopper who also lives soy-, bean-, and egg-free.

A handful of doctors tried to figure out why Marcia Campbell of Farmington Hills was iron deficient. Their efforts proved fruitless, so as a last-ditch effort, she was referred to Dr. Thomas Alexander at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. Through blood work and a small intestine biopsy, he diagnosed her with celiac sprue.

"(It's) a disease where the immune system mistakes the gluten part of the wheat grain and other similar grains for a foreign protein and sends inflammatory cells to basically destroy the foreign protein. Instead of that it actually destroys the lining of the intestine," Dr. Alexander said.

The destruction of the small intestine's villi, where nutrient absorption takes place, causes malnourishment. Other symptoms of celiac sprue include diarrhea, swollen stomach, bloating, excessive gas, and weight loss, according to Dr. Alexander. Children who suffer from celiac disease will stop growing; once wheat is introduced into their diet, he said. In either case, it is rare.

Soon after Campbell was diagnosed, Dr. Alexander persuaded her and one of his employees who suffers from celiac sprue, Kathy Davis of Auburn Hills, to start the Tri-County Celiac Sprue Support Group.

"As a physician it was not that difficult to make the diagnosis. The unfortunate thing was for the patient to follow the diet and to be able to find something that's palatable. That was the push behind the group," Dr. Alexander said.

To make things easier on newly diagnosed celiacs, the support group offers an information packet that includes intensive shopping guide, contact numbers for food manufacturers and pharmaceutical companies, a sample menu, list of "allowed" flours, a directory of local health food stores, and a list of gluten-free foods at fast-food restaurants.

There's a simple treatment for food allergies and diseases like Celiac Sprue.

"Avoidance is the number one recommended treatment for food allergies," Dr. Rowe said. In some cases, the treatment lasts a lifetime. Fish and nuts allergies stick with you while children tend to outgrow egg, milk, soy and wheat allergies.

Contamination and hidden sources of the food can make that difficult. For example, peanuts and nuts are often ground up in tortes, or used to flavor coffee. Although the cooks and servers may say that an item is legume free, some fried foods are prepared in peanut oil.

For celiacs, their diet must be wheat-, rye-, oat-, barley-, millet-, buckwheat- and tritacale-free. That means no pizza, cereals, breading, crumb toppings, croutons, pastries, pasta, malt or malt flavoring, sauces or gravies, unless it's made with "allowed" flours like corn, rice, potato, or tapioca. Gluten can also be found in vinegar, caramel food coloring, sulphites, MSG, cheese mixes, medication, postage stamps, lipstick or balms, Play-Doh, soy sauce, corn chips, or rice cereals.

Anne Russell and Melissa's mother Linda Hopper started the Southeastern Michigan chapter of the Food Allergy Network for the same reasons as the founders of the Tri-County Celiac Sprue Support Group. Living with these sorts of problems or people who can not eat certain foods can be rough.

"Our goal is to help provide education to the families that are dealing with this and are coping with this. You don't know what you don't know and there's a lot out there to know. We also provide a forum for emotional support and also allow the kids to let to know other people (who have allergies)," Russell said.

Try making some of these great-tasting garlic recipes

See Chef Larry Janes' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

Everyone knows the medicinal effects of garlic. You'll love the great taste!

GARLIC GREEN BEANS

1 pound green beans, ends trimmed
Boiling water to cook the beans
1 cup water
2 cloves garlic, unpeeled
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon olive oil
Dash salt and fresh ground pepper to taste

Place the beans on a steamer rack over the boiling water. Cover the pot and steam the green beans for 5-7 minutes or until they become tender-crisp. Rinse the beans briefly under cold water to preserve their color. Cover to keep warm.

While the beans steam, in a small saucepan, bring 1 cup of water to a boil, add the garlic and simmer for 5 minutes. Drain, peel and mince the garlic. In a large bowl, combine the garlic with the remaining ingredients. Add the warm green beans and toss the beans in the dressing until they are well coated.

If desired, heat gently before serving.

Chef's secret: these are also great chilled! Serves 4-6

GARLIC SOUP

4 cups chicken or vegetable broth
½ cup dry white wine
12 cloves garlic, peeled
2 onions, peeled and quartered
1 rib of celery, quartered
¼ cup dry sherry (optional)

Combine all the ingredients except the sherry in a saucepan and over high heat, bring the soup to a boil. Reduce the heat, cover and simmer for 1 hour. Check the pan from time to time and add a little water, if needed.

Place all the soup in a blender and process until smooth. Return to soup pot and stir in sherry, if desired.

To serve: ladle into bowls and garnish with croutons, sauted sliced mushrooms or 2 teaspoons of olive oil. Serves 4

Rhubarb, asparagus delectable springtime treats

LOIS THIELEKE

Springtime in Michigan always brings some delectable foods and flowers to make your mouth water and add excitement to meals.

Rhubarb is a welcome spring fruit. Botanically, rhubarb is a vegetable but is recognized by most people as a fruit. The spring stalks of rhubarb are the most tender. Pink to red and all shades in between make rhubarb flavorful. Rhubarb's long celery like stalks are edible but the leaves and roots contain oxalic acid which are toxic.

Rhubarb, after picking and left at room temperature will wilt rapidly. Place in a moisture proof container and refrigerate. Rhubarb can be stewed, made into jam or jelly, used in coffee cakes, pies, cobbler, salads, cookies or into sauces for meat or poultry.

Rhubarb is extremely tart so it will need a lot of sugar unless you add another sweet fruit, such as strawberries or pineapple.

One pound of fresh rhubarb makes about two-and-one-half cups sauce or one bunch makes about four-and-one-half cups sauce. Two pounds will make a generous eight- or nine-inch pie. Rhubarb freezes well. Cut up and freeze in a moisture proof freezer container or bag.

Asparagus

Asparagus is another springtime delicacy, that is grown in Michigan. Most of the Michigan asparagus produced goes to processors so the fresh supply here is limited or comes from California, or comes from your back yard. Asparagus is a member of the lily family.

Shop for firm, fresh, crisp, bright green stalks. (There is also white asparagus that is picked as the tip breaks the ground.) Most of Mchigan asparagus is hand snapped above the ground so it is green. Asparagus tips should be tightly closed, compact and uniform in shape so it all cooks in the same amount of time.

When you get the asparagus home, separate the woody portion from the green stalk. The stalks will break or snap easily just below the most tender part of the stalk. Wash in cool, salt water to remove sand and grit. Pat dry and refrigerate immediately. You can also refrigerate spears upright with stem ends in water. Either way, it should keep a week. When asparagus is kept at room temperature rather than refrigerated, it loses about half the vitamin C within two days.

Cook asparagus quickly, overcooking makes it limp, discolored and bitter. Test the doneness with a kitchen tong, pick up the stalk, if it bends slightly, it's done. Drain and serve hot or plunge into cold water and then refrigerate to serve cold. Avoid heavy cream or butter sauce on asparagus, use instead a light lemon or dill seasoning so you can taste the asparagus. Leftover asparagus can be used in a soup. You can eat the stalks raw, but they should be very fresh. Asparagus can be frozen by blanching, then cooling quickly in cold water, draining thoroughly and freezing.

Edible flowers

To decorate the fresh spring dishes, edible flowers can add color, flavor and fragrance. Edible flowers can be used as a garnish or as a salad ingredient. If you are unsure of the safety of a flower or part of the flower, don't use it. Find a complete list of edible and poisonous flowers at the library or from a reputable garden center to make sure what you eat is safe.

Do not pick and serve flowers from a pesticide sprayed backyard or exhaust coated roadside or from a florist. You'll need to get edible flowers from a gourmet shop, a mail order company or your unsprayed garden. Only use clean flowers that you know for sure are edible. Gather edible flowers in the early morning, just after the dew is dried. They can be gently washed and patted dry, and held several hours. Dip in ice water to refresh before using. In a salad, only add edible flowers after all the other ingredients and dressing has been mixed, prior to serving, this keeps them looking fresh.

Some common edible flowers are, daisies, nasturtiums, geraniums, lavender, marigolds, pansies, roses, and violets. Nasturtium blossoms add a peppery flavor to salads and taste like watercress. Rose petals are a natural fragrant addition to fruit salad or sandwiches and lavender makes a delicate flavored jelly. Don't forget about the vegetable blossoms such as garden pea and squash, especially zucchini flowers. Some of these blossoms are large enough to stuff with cheese and deep fry, made like this, they are an Italian specialty.

Herb flowers like oregano, thyme and borage taste just like the herb. But remember, flowers from some herbs can have a laxative effect. Blossoms from apple, peach, plum, orange and lemon trees are fragrant and flavorful. Flower oils and vinegars are easy to prepare and use. Be sure to store them safely so they are flavorful and not moldy.

Flowers can also be crystallized and used as elegant decorations for desserts and cakes. Edible flowers are indeed beautiful, just make sure you know what you're eating.

Spring gives us new flavors and fresh garden produce that never taste as good as they do in the spring.

What to do about that 'stinking rose?'

It might stink, but is it good for you? The answer to this and other questions about garlic, also known as the "stinking rose," are happily answered by the "Garlic Information Hotline," a new service of the Garlic Information Center of The New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center in New York City.

The Garlic Information Center, a new component of the Hospital's Nutrition Information Center, opened in January. Now, consumers may dial 1-800-330-5922 (toll-free), 24-hours a day to receive a brochure containing almost anything you'll want to know about garlic, including fresh garlic, cooked garlic, garlic supplements, recipes and information about garlic's many potential health benefits, and more.

If consumers have specific questions, they may call the hotline Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to speak to a nutritionist.

In addition to the new Garlic Hotline, the Center provides services and information about current research exploring the potential role of garlic and garlic supplementation in preventing, treating and managing disease.

Collegiate notes

It wasn't like this in high school.

Of course, it couldn't have been. They don't offer the triple jump in high school track, but apparently it hasn't taken Ndu Okwumabua — a Plymouth Canton graduate — long to become a force in it.

A freshman at the University of Michigan, Okwumabua leapt 36 feet, 7 inches to finish third in the event at the University of Kentucky quadrangular meet April 15. Her effort helped the Wolverines finish second with 155 points, behind winner Southern Illinois (159.5) but ahead of host Kentucky (142.5) and Indiana (141) . . .

Saginaw Valley State remained atop the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference baseball standings entering last week, thanks in great part to its outstanding pitching.

Brian Paluk, a sophomore from Plymouth (Redford Catholic Central), is one of the staff's standouts. Paluk has made the most of his two GLIAC pitching appearances; he was 2-0, tied for third in the league in victories.

The Cardinals were 20-9 overall, 8-2 in the GLIAC — a game ahead of Oakland University through April 16 — and boasted the league's best team earned run average of 2.59 . . .

University of Detroit Mercy sophomore softball player Mary Jo Kelly (Livonia Ladywood) was named Midwestern Collegiate Conference Player of the Week after hitting safely in all four games.

She went 6-for-10, including a double, along with three walks and a .600 on-base percentage. Kelly scored the game-winning run in a 3-0 victory last week over the University of Dayton.

The Lady Titans are 7-19 overall . . .

Senior right fielder Lawrence Scheffer is second on the Titan baseball team with a .367 batting average. He has seven homers and 25 RBI in 25 games.

UDM is 13-12 overall.

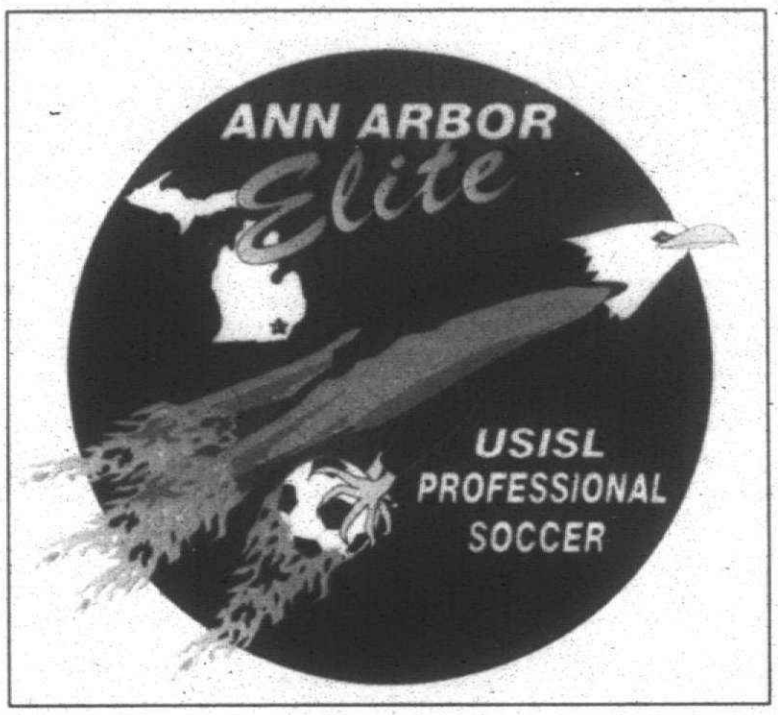
Buying club makes dream a reality



A local man has bought into the United States Inter-Regional Soccer League and stocked it with area players. The Ann Arbor Elite will be an amateur team in the otherwise professional USISL.

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

Wayne Worosz of Canton fulfilled a lifelong ambition when he purchased a franchise in the professional United States Inter-Regional Soccer League.

The Ann Arbor Elite will be stocked with mostly Observerland talent and play its home games at Holloway Field (Pioneer High School) in Ann Arbor.

The 49-year-old Worosz, a tool-and-die maker at the Ford Rouge Plant in Dearborn for the last 19 years, used $40,000 of his own money to get into the league.

"This is a dream come true for me, to own my own sports team," Worosz said. "I've been saving my whole life for this goal, to put a pro team together."

Nineteen of the 26 team members are former area high school players from either Livonia, Plymouth, Canton, Redford or Farmington.

"With all the tournaments my teams have won throughout the country, I firmly believe the soccer talent in this area is among the greatest in the entire United States of America, and I intend to prove it in this league," Worosz said.

About half of the players have college eligibility remaining; therefore, the Elite will compete as one of the 29 amateur teams in the USISL.

With 90 teams in the league, a USISL goal is to promote soccer at the grass-roots level, and each team is required to have at least three under-19 players on its roster.

"There are a lot older guys in the league, but this league is also a stepping stone for guys coming out of college to step right into the pro ranks and make a few dollars," said Worosz.

Committed to play?

Madonna opponents finding ways not to

C. J. Risak

Well, what did you expect?

It's spring, after all.

And this is still Michigan, where the weather is as certain as a major league baseball season.

If anyone was concerned about what possible trickle-down affect the pro baseball strike might have, well, now they know.

Lunacy has taken command.

The last week in the life of Madonna University's team will illustrate just what disarray the sport seems to be in.

If the contract between pro players and owners was handled in the same off-handed way our higher institutions of learning handle theirs, players would require prompt and immediate payment on every pitch.

Madonna and Wayne State were originally slated to play a single game Wednesday at 3 p.m. at WSU. Because a double-header between the two schools scheduled the previous week for Madonna's field was rained out, the teams' coaches, Madonna's Mike George and WSU's Rodger George, agreed to alter the arrangement and play two games Wednesday at Madonna.

Then something happened.

Observer sports editor Steve Kowalski learned Rodger George was considering bumping Stu Rose out as Henry Ford CC coach and taking that job next year. When Rodger George learned Kowalski's story would appear in last Thursday's Observer, he was on the phone to Madonna's Mike George early Wednesday morning.

According to Mike George, the WSU coach asked to postpone the game because he wanted to speak to his team about his possible departure before it came out in the paper. Mike George didn't like it, but he agreed.

It didn't take too long to find out what actually occurred. It was right there in one of the daily papers the next day:

Detroit Mercy 16, Wayne State 3

So how could the Tartars find the time to play U-D, when they couldn't play their regularly-scheduled game against Madonna?

According to sources at WSU, Rodger George had an explanation for this. He said in his call to Madonna's Mike George, he requested a delay so that he could, indeed, talk

Salem earns itself a split with 2nd-game victory

The Plymouth Salem baseball team split a double-header on Thursday against host Ypsilanti by winning the nightcap, 7-5.

Ypsilanti, 3-3 overall, won the first game 5-2.

The Rocks, 3-1 overall, used four pitchers in the second game, including sophomore starter Tom Demetsenare.

Demetsenare lasted three innings and allowed two runs on four hits with no strikeouts and one walk.

"For a sophomore, we were real pleased," Salem coach Dale Rumberger said.

Ryan Andrezjewski pitched two innings of scoreless relief to pick up the victory. Andrezjewski allowed no hits or walks and struck out three.

Dan Quaine allowed no hits in the sixth inning before Ypsilanti scored three runs in the seventh off Brad Lear, who allowed one hit and walked four in his only inning of work.

The Rocks had taken a 7-2 lead into the bottom of the seventh, scoring two runs in each of the third, fourth and fifth innings and a single run in the seventh.

Senior Kaz Kurisu was 2 for 4 with a run scored. Seniors Bill Styles and Sam LaGrow and juniors Mike Brannan and Kirk Craggs each contributed RBI singles.

Sophomore Ryan Rumberger drove in a run with a sacrifice fly.

In the first game, Salem left eight runners in scoring position against Ypsilanti starter Mark Warren, who pitched a complete-game victory.

The Rocks left the bases loaded in each of the first two innings without scoring.

"Warren pitched a good game, he was in big jams and got himself out of them," Rumberger said. "Seven complete innings in today's weather and as little as people have played, that's impressive."

Ypsilanti collected five runs on four hits off Salem starter and loser Ted Bentley, who left after the third inning. Bentley also struck out two and walked two.

"He's a big, strong senior who needs to throw," Rumberger said. "He threw 60 pitches in three innings, that's how much he was running the count."

Salem relievers were Dan Hintzman, who pitched two innings of hitless relief and Lear, who pitched one scoreless inning.

Styles and Kurisu led the Rocks with two hits each. Lear had an RBI single and Styles scored one run.

The Rocks on Wednesday defeated host Walled Lake Western, 13-2, in a game called after five innings because of the mercy rule.

The Rocks collected 13 hits in support of winning pitcher Justin Morcis, who allowed five hits, struck out eight and walked none in moving his record to 2-0. Western's two runs were unearned.

Brannan, LaGrow, Craggs and Dan Quaine had two hits each. LaGrow and Craggs drove in two runs each and Quaine one.

Designated hitter Rumberger had one hit and three RBI. Aaron Leanhardt and Jason Gradinac each had one hit and two RBI.

Kurisu led off the game with a home run.

Team Elan skates to titles

After taking the lead in the short program, coach Jeannine Cullen and the 26 skaters of Senior Team Elan knew the gold medal was theirs to win or lose at the 1995 National Precision Figure Skating Championships held earlier this month in San Diego, Calif.

Skating in the final position of the 10-team field, the three-time silver medalist Senior Team won its first gold medal and seventh overall for the Detroit Skating Club's Team Elan, which includes six divisions divided by age and skill. The Juvenile team, coached by Traci Bozich of Ann Arbor and Brooke Sloan of Farmington Hills, won its second straight national title skating to beach theme music "By the Sea." Team Elan finished second in the Novice Division, third in the Open Adult Division and fourth in the Junior Division.

The Senior Team won the 2 1½-minute technical program and their "Comedy and Tragedy," 4 1½-minute long program finished second.

"We were skating last, so the pressure was there," said Cullen, the DSC Precision Skating Director who oversees the entire program and including her 1990 adult team, the Royals, has eight national titles. "They pulled it out with a great performance.

"Not to diminish the other championship teams, but this is the pinnacle of our sport," added Cullen of Rochester Hills. "We've worked very hard for four years and for the senior skaters this is the ultimate. This is what every skater dreams about."

Many skaters have won other titles in different divisions, but for Wendy Gill of Clawson, the Senior gold was her first in nine seasons with Team Elan. Sixteen of her teammates have skated four years on the Senior team (age 12 and over), including Jennifer Davis (Plymouth), Jennifer Freese (Rochester), Kelly Hodgins (Farmington Hills), Kyle Jones (Beverly Hills), Kristen Klenner (St. Clair Shores), Lisa Larive (Troy), Lisa Mackey (Troy), Andrea McCarty (Riverview), Kasi Patterson (Wayne), Rita Polidori (Dearborn), Amy Sak (West Bloomfield), Kristina Sak (West Bloomfield), Whitney Wallace (Bloomfield Hills), Tekla Warezak (Grosse Pointe), Andrea White (Clawson), Susan Eastman (Detroit) and Karen Felice (Pontiac).

Other Senior Team skaters include Emily Chase (Birmingham), Allison Dolehanty (Troy), Jeni Foust (Plymouth), Sara Jack (Rochester Hills), Kristina Koesters (Berkley), Nicole Ogden (Redford), Lindy Paterson (Bloomfield Hills) and Beth Swanson (Royal Oak).

Members of the national champion Juvenile Team (age 11 and under) include Becky Aidem (Rochester Hills), Colleen Botens (Berkley), Elizabeth Buckley (Sterling Heights), Amy Caudill (Plymouth), Nikki Davis (Pleasant Ridge), Jessica Edwards (Huntington Woods), Marissa Gaxley (Novi), Stefanie Glasgow (Rochester Hills), Sarah Hein (Plymouth), Kristin Hurford (Royal Oak), Courtney Iserman (Rochester Hills), Sara Knoth (Lake Orion), Tara Kramar (Lake Orion), Kristin Lang (Rochester Hills), Kaitlin Moxley (Rochester Hills), Carly Olsman (Huntington Woods), Melissa Raetz (Livonia), Chelsea Reeves (Harrison Township), Nicole Robertson (Royal Oak), Rachael Rozycki (Novi), Danielle Salvatore (Clinton Township), Rachel Silver (Huntington Woods), Joanna Small (West Bloomfield), Lynne Van-Heest (Bloomfield Hills), Brittany Williams (Detroit), Emily Willman (Plymouth), Megan Wright (Waterford) and Jilliam Zylinki (Harper Woods).

Omaha squad claims Cup

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Ted Baer came out to Cloverlanes in Livonia last Monday night to watch the All-Star Bowlerettes compete their season finale, the Scotch Doubles Team Tournament.

He particularly zeroed in on the Omaha Lancers, a team which he sponsors.

Baer came in from Omaha, Neb. not only to watch, but enjoy the victory celebration as his team, which is comprised of captain Marilyn Lueck, Darlene Marrow, Marianne DiRupo, Dina Manni-Jones, Jan Conner and Charlynne Gerbasi-Kruliski, came through with flying colors to take the Clover Cup, symbolic of the victory in this event.

The Omaha Lancers, a hockey team in the North American Hockey League, were in town to play the Detroit Freeze.

Now if you were to ask: Why does a hockey team sponsor a ladies bowling team 1,000 miles away, it is due to the enthusiasm of club owner Baer for both sports.

He was so impressed with Marianne DiRupo when she was bowling on the ladies tour in Omaha that he decided to sponsor her team.

The All-Star Bowlerettes league championship was won by Contour Power Grips, captained by Kathy Haislip of West Bloomfield. Other members included Aleta Sill, Cheryl Daniels, Lisa Bishop, Carmen Allen and Jeanne Gebbia of Garden City.

■ The National Senior Bowling Association held their April event at Mayflower Lanes in Redford, and the "Canadian Kid," Scotty Loughland, took his second NSBA title. He came from behind to defeat Dave Karaska in the championship match.

Livonian Ed Dudek took third place money, Tom Spada of Birmingham came in fifth, Redford's Jack Treolar finished eighth and Ed Malinowski of Livonia was 16th overall. The next regular NSBA tournament will take place on June 3rd at Taylor Lanes.

The association has now grown to a membership of 154, which means more entrants and larger prizes along the way.

For more information, call the NSBA at (810) 626-8886 or (313) 358-3740.

■ The Michigan Masters Wheelchair Singles No-Tap will be at noon Saturday, June 3 at Merri Bowl Lanes in Livonia.

It's a fund-raiser for the wheelchair bowlers and open to all bowlers.

The entry fee is only $9 per bowler.

Bob Calderon says "If you can't bowl with us, come in anyway as a spectator and join in the fun."

For more information, call Bob at (313) 522-4574 or Merri Bowl at (313) 427-2900.

■ Entry forms are out now for the Greater Detroit Open Pro-Am, a PBA tour event at Taylor Lanes.

The Pro-Am will be Friday-Saturday, Oct. 6-7 with the TV finals on Wednesday, Oct. 11. Entrants will receive a Red Zone Brunswick ball.

For more information, call Taylor Lanes at (313) 946-9092.

Former Rocket follows impressive footsteps

By BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

The Eastern Michigan University men's track program has an impressive lineage.

Olympians such as Hayes Jones, Hasely Crawford and Earl Jones come first to mind.

Carl Lowe is not there yet, but the fifth-year senior from Westland John Glenn has made quite an impact . . . and the best may be yet to come.

Despite injuries and sickness during the early outdoor season, Lowe has been productive as a middle distance runner.

At the SeaRay Dogwood Relays, April 7-8 at in Knoxville, Tenn., Lowe was a member of two first-place relay teams.

Eastern finished fourth overall in the 50-team field with 27 points. Only Seton Hall (38), North Carolina (34) and Clemson (31) beat out the Eagles.

Relay contributor

In the distance medley, Lowe ran a 400-meter leg, teaming up with Jason Bootroyd, Greg Rhymer and Paul McMullen for a first-place time of 9:45.74. The same foursome also captured the 3,200 relay (7:29.41).

Individually, Lowe took 10th in the 800 in 1:49.81, but that was well off his personal best of 1:48.91.

"Carl has got a lot of talent, a very talented athlete is the first thing that comes to mind," said EMU head coach Bob Parks, now in his 29th season. "He had to develop a work ethic when he came here. It's still not 100 percent, but it's better than it used to be."

Lowe was Mid-American Conference indoor champion in the 400 and was third outdoors in the MAC. He was also the anchor leg on EMU's first-place 1,600 relay squad (outdoors).

Standout at Ohio

On April 1, Lowe helped EMU win the Ohio University Outdoor Invitational with a first-place time of 48.46 in the 400. He also teamed up with Wayne Memorial product James Grady, one of EMU's top hurdlers, to win the 1,600 relay (3:15.69).

"I want to be MAC champion outdoors in the quarter; I've always seemed to come up short in that event," said Lowe, whose personal best is 47.3. "And in the 800 I'd like to qualify for the NCAAs."

Lowe would need a 1:47.5 to make it in the 800. The NCAA takes only the top 16 by time from across the country.

The former All-Observer standout is overshadowed on the EMU squad by Cadillac's Paul McMullen, the NCAA indoor champ at 800.

At the Dogwood Relays, McMullen ran a 3:39.40, breaking Earl Jones' EMU varsity record of 3:40.64. It was also a Dogwood record and met the NCAA qualifying standard.

McMullen leads way

"It's a good thing to see," Lowe said of McMullen's success. "At one time he was not good enough to make the traveling team. He was a (football) tight end in high school, but he dedicated himself. He takes time out to do it and brings a work ethic out to the track.

"He's been influential on me. Before, I was somebody who had more fun being on a relay team and winning, but he (McMullen) showed I could do it, and convinced me I could make the NCAA in the half (mile)."

Lowe has begun to see the light.

"It's been like a stepping stone," he said. "Somebody each year has pushed me. I was not used to going hard every day. In high school I could take days off, but here you run hard each and every day, and then on the weekends."

Lowe was expected to miss Saturday's quad meet at Michigan State because of the flu, but has his sights set on three other major outdoor meets this season — Drake Relays, Central Collegiate and the MAC Championships.

Early setback

"I got sick coming back from the Dogwood," Lowe said. "Our bus got stuck in Kentucky and it got overheated. I got real sick. The changing weather has affected me.

"At the Dogwood, it was 68, 70 degrees and people were running in T-shirts. Then we come back and it's snowing. I also have asthma.

"Plus I broke my hand during the indoor and I haven't had a real good base to work from."

Lowe, who plans to graduate this December with a double major in public law/government and urban regional planning, will continue running after he leaves EMU. He would also like to attend law school.

"I'll see how far I am going into the '96 Olympic Trials," he said. "I'll see how far I've improved, and I may go until the year 2,000 before hanging it up.

"I don't believe I've shown my all. It's been hard to juggle things here at school. I'll be the first in my family to graduate.

"I've basically had to do things on my own. The track, managing my finances, school and work have spread me thin.

"Once I graduate, I'll get a job and concentrate totally on running."

Lowe is glad he chose EMU.

Path to Ypsilanti

"My high school coach (Richard Gordon) was an alumnus and he ran in the program," said Lowe, who in 1993 was a member of EMU's first-place 3,200 relay quartet at the NCAA Indoor Championships. "He's the reason I came here, and there's been no regrets. It's been a pleasant experience.

"If I hadn't come here, I'd probably have gone straight into the Army."

Parks, who formerly coached at Redford Thurston High School, has learned to appreciate the efforts of his fifth-year senior.

"We understand each other a lot better now," Parks said. "He's an enthusiastic sort and very intelligent.

"He's jovial, but sometimes he worries too much."

Don't worry, however; Lowe's bests may not be far away.

Season's best performance gets Lady Crusaders a split

■ SOFTBALL

The bottom-line results may have seemed a bit lacking — splitting a doubleheader with a sub-.500 team — but the performance by Madonna University's softball team Wednesday against visiting Saginaw Valley State could not have pleased Lady Crusader coach Jerry Abraham more.

"We played very sound for the first time in a while," said Abraham after his team and the Cardinals battled through a pair of 2-1 games. "Both of our pitchers pitched outstanding.

"That was probably the best we've played all year long."

The split left Madonna with a 14-12 record. Saginaw Valley is 12-14.

The Crusaders lost the opener, 2-1, surrendering two unearned runs. Lynda Weichel was the hard-luck loser, despite tossing a four-hitter. She walked four and struck out three.

Madonna, which connected for eight hits, got the lead almost immediately. Erin Comment doubled and Courtney Senger singled to drive her in in the first inning.

Saginaw Valley tied it with a run in the second, then pushed across the game-winner on a passed ball in the fifth.

Comment and Jennifer Pinter each had two hits in the game.

The Crusaders bounced back to win the second game by the same score, with Chris Riopelle twice coming through with key hits to drive in runs. The freshman second baseman followed a two-out walk to Angie Van Dooren with a run-scoring triple in the fourth, and then she singled after Van Dooren had tripled in the seventh to bring in the winner.

Riopelle was the only Crusader to have two hits in the game; she and Pinter had three for the doubleheader. Michelle Birchmeier (from Redford Thurston), Jenny Czach and Comment each had two hits in the twinbill.

Shanna Streng was the winning pitcher for Madonna, stopping the Cardinals on four hits and three walks (and one unearned run), striking out three.

to his team. Mike George refused, so Rodger George canceled and then accepted the opportunity to play NCAA Division I U-D.

Of course, sources have confirmed that Rodger George's explanation given to WSU officials is simply untrue.

Mike George said he never discussed a time change for Wednesday's games. And anyone who knows the Crusaders' coach — who spent all day Friday grooming Madonna's field in an attempt to make it playable that afternoon (more on that later) — knows he would do almost anything to get in a game.

Indeed, Mike George admitted he suggested to the WSU coach that he talk to his Tartars prior to the game, but still play it. Rodger George reportedly said there wouldn't be enough time.

But apparently there was enough time to play U-D.

Oh, by the way: When Kowalski was researching his story on Rodger George replacing Stu Rose at Henry Ford, he spoke with U-D coach Bob Miller. Miller mentioned to Kowalski his team was playing WSU Wednesday.

That was Tuesday night — long before any call was made to Madonna.

Certainly, Wednesday's scheduled game was no big deal to WSU. After all, Madonna is in the NAIA, a smaller school with less financial support, yet one that certainly would have given WSU all it could handle.

Clearly, the Tartars had nothing to gain by playing and everything to lose. A loss to U-D, as lopsided as it was, was far more palatable for NCAA II WSU than an embarrassing defeat to Madonna would have been.

One more thing: Don't expect to see this game rescheduled. Mike George vowed not to.

It proved not to be the only disappointment on Madonna's schedule. The Crusaders were supposed to play Concordia Friday, a game originally scheduled for April 6 but bumped by Concordia so it could reschedule a conference game for that date.

On Friday, the Cardinals showed up for their date, but didn't stay. Rain had drenched the field, it's true; the outfield was soggy. Mike George and all the players he could muster had been on the field "since 9 this morning," he said.

Their efforts weren't enough for Concordia coach Jay Biesenthal. He said the field was unplayable and took his team home.

I won't say Biesenthal was wrong. Parts of Madonna's field were puddled, no question; but in Michigan, that's part of the game.

There was no threat of more rain Friday afternoon; temperatures were in the mid-60s. As Madonna's George said, "We've played in worse."

I have to believe the Cardinals had, too. But they refused to on this day.

So that game was called off as well, adding fuel to the belief that craziness has indeed taken command of baseball — a sport that near-perfect weather or signed contracts cannot govern.

Ford post still undecided

Still no word as of Friday night from Wayne State University baseball coach Rodger George on whether he would remain at WSU or return to Henry Ford Community College.

George reportedly accepted the Henry Ford job earlier this month. According to Henry Ford Athletic Director Nancy Bryden, George had until Friday to submit in writing his acceptance and a letter of resignation from Wayne.

George coached Henry Ford for eight seasons before taking over at Wayne State in 1989.

George did not return phone calls Friday. WSU athletic director Bob Brennan was in Midland on Friday and unavailable for comment.

Bryden, who coaches the Henry Ford softball team, was on a road trip in Alpena and unavailable for comment Friday.

There were indications on Wednesday that George would remain at WSU.

"He told us he verbally accepted the job, but said most likely he's going to stay," said WSU sophomore catcher Jeff Schaffer, who graduated from Livonia Franklin. "I'd love him to stay, because I think he's a good coach."

The Elite will play a 21-game schedule, beginning Saturday night at Holloway Field, and have crossover games against some of the 61 pro teams.

Dominic Scicluna, the player/coach of the Elite, and Brian Thiel have pro experience as members of the Detroit Rockers and will be the only Elite players to be paid since they are already recognized as professionals.

Worosz chose amateur team status this year to protect the eligibility of his other players.

"They understand fully I had to make a choice between amateur and professional this year, and they're still playing for the love of the game," Worosz said. "It's also a higher level than they've ever played before."

In addition to his initial investment, Worosz figures he will have another $50,000 in expenses this year. For example, the home team must provide 10 hotel rooms for the visiting team.

Worosz is the sole owner and is looking for "advertisers or sponsors to step forward and help me out in even a small way; otherwise, I'll go under the first year," he said.

Sponsors can have their business logo on the purple-and-white uniforms for $5,000-10,000. A full-page ad in the team program costs $1,000, and advertisers also will receive that much worth of tickets.

Worosz hopes to draw 1,500 people per home game, which is the break-even point, he said. Admission will be $6 for adults and $4 for students (18 or under).

The Elite will play in the Central Amateur Division against the Grand Rapids Engineers, Sioux City (Iowa) Breeze, Des Moines (Iowa) Menace, Lexington (Ky.) Bandits, Louisville (Ky.) Thoroughbreds, Cincinnati Cheetahs and Minnesota Thunder.

The top four teams go to Sioux City Aug. 6-7 to play for the division title. The winner will compete for the national championship against other amateur division champs Aug. 15-16 in Richmond, Va. The final will be televised by ESPN on Aug. 16.

Worosz had wanted to base his team in Livonia since most of his players are from the immediate area, but the Detroit Wheels have territorial rights within a 50-mile radius of downtown Detroit.

The Elite will play the Wheels of the Central Pro Division twice — May 14 at home and July 29 at Pontiac Wisner Stadium.

While most of the Elite players are of college age, the oldest member is 31-year-old Henry Klimes, formerly of Farmington Hills and known to many in Observerland as an amateur soccer player and coach.

Fans might enjoy knowing there are no ties in USISL games. A shootout follows one 15-minute sudden-death period. Five consecutive players on each side get the ball at the 35-yard line with five seconds to take a shot.

FORD TRUCKS '95

Bronco Turns 30 This Year

Ford trucks have always been on hand for all the dirty jobs, the rough jobs, even the job of taking you to the opera in the evening. For 1995, there's no exception. Ford provides a truck for any situation possible — from people hauler to trailer hauler to haulin' butt just for fun.

Still leading the pack in full-size cargo and passenger vans, the Ford Econoline and Club Wagon now have driver's-side air bags as standard equipment and stanless steel exhaust systems. Ford will no longer offer the RV-stripped chassis version of the van.

The best news for Econoline and Club Wagon is the addition of a new 7.3-liter direct injection power stroke turbo diesel engine. It replaces the naturally aspirated engine.

This engine is also available on the F-Series pick-up

Road Test
By Anne Fracassa

trucks for 1995. Other changes on the F-Series include an Eddie Bauer version added to the F-150 regular cab and supercab styleside models, rear jump seats have been dropped as standard on the supercab and the F-Super duty commercial stripped chassis has been discontinued.

Now entering its 30th anniversary gracing American roads, the Ford Bronco remains the leading nameplate among all sport utilities. For 1995, an XLT sport model has been added, along with cab steps available with the Eddie Bauer version and all paint colors now have 100 percent clearcoat.

The Aerostar, Ford's only rear-wheel-drive minivan, has a number of significant changes this year, including side door intrusion beams added. The Aerostar wagon is available in only one trim model, XLT, and the van is only available as a two-wheel-drive regular length cargo van.

The Windstar, first introduced in March 1994 as a 1995 model, is Ford's first-ever front-wheel-drive minivan. Windstar has just a few changes, including a 3.0-liter engine that is now standard on the GL and the speed control/tilt steering wheel, which is standard on the LX.

Options added include a trailer towing package, there's now a seat/bed option, interior convenience group (includes a ton of storage bins), fog lamps, load leveling suspension and leather seating surfaces available on the LX version.

Still the best-selling line of compact pickup trucks in the U.S., the Ford Ranger has a host of changes for 1995. Anti-lock brakes, brake/shift interlock with automatic transaxle and a better engine cooling system is now standard. On the outside, there's a smart new grille in front.

On the inside, Ranger has a new instrument panel, the driver's-side airbag is now standard and there are new seat trims and styles. There's also a new 12-volt power point added to the instrument panel this year to accommodate cellular phones, radar detectors and the like.

Added to Explorer's 1995 lineup is a new, two-door model, Expedition, now that Mazda's two-door rebadged Explorer, the Navajo, is dead.

Ford hopes the Expedition, aimed at singles and adventurous outdoor types, will provide a sportier two-door look.

Outfitted with standard dual airbags, adjustable three-point front seat belts, 4-wheel anti-lock disc brakes, a new double wishbone front suspension to replace the old Twin I-Beams, rack-and-pinion steering for car-like handling, a superb new on-demand four-wheel-drive system called Control Trac, a new grille and rear taillamp assembly, it's clear Ford is ready to meet the demands of the 1990s buyers.

With the obvious aerodynamic grille change, Ford should boost appeal to younger buyers who like the Grand Cherokee but have found the old Explorer to be too stodgy and family-like.

The new suspension and rack-and-pinion steering provide a car-like handling experience. Larger knobs on the new dash are easier to use than the old Explorer's knobs. The horn is located in the steering hub, where it should be.

If you'd like to see a particular model tested or if you have a car question, send Anne Fracassa a message at AVANTI1054, Avanti's America Online mailbox. Or comment through the Internet at AVANTI1054@aol.com.

Is Your Car Ready for a Vacation?

The joys of spring! Doing those home and garden chores you've put off until the weather broke. Suddenly it's summer and you realize your faithful car has been deprived of attention, still running on dirty oil and aging spark plugs. It's filthy inside and out, including the cooling system.

Two reasons for maintenance neglect are the popularity of self-service gas pumps (which leaves underhood checks to the driver) and lack of understanding of what checks and services need to be done periodically.

Systems and components usually requiring seasonal attention include:

Cooling system
- Flush, drain and replace freeze.
- Test, inspect and replace needed parts.

Engine
- Diagnostic and tune-up services as needed.
- Oil and filter change (check all fluids).

Tires/wheels/brakes
- Rotate and inspect tires.
- Balance and check alignment.
- Inspect braking system.

Vision
- Replace/aim headlights
- Replace worn windshield wiper blades.

Appearance
- Clean and polish/wax exterior.
- Clean interior, repair/replace damaged or worn fabrics.
