Growth spurs precinct changes

The booming growth in Canton is prompting changes in voting precinct boundaries to accommodate new registered voters in time for the 1996 elections.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

The continuing growth in Canton is prompting changes in the township's voting precincts to accommodate new registered voters.

"It's the primary motivation for changing two precincts," said Canton Clerk Terry Bennett. "State law says you can't have more than 2,500 registered voters in a precinct."

That means that the existing precincts 16 and 19 are over the top. Changes have been made to those precincts, including adding two new ones for a total of 26 precincts in Canton.

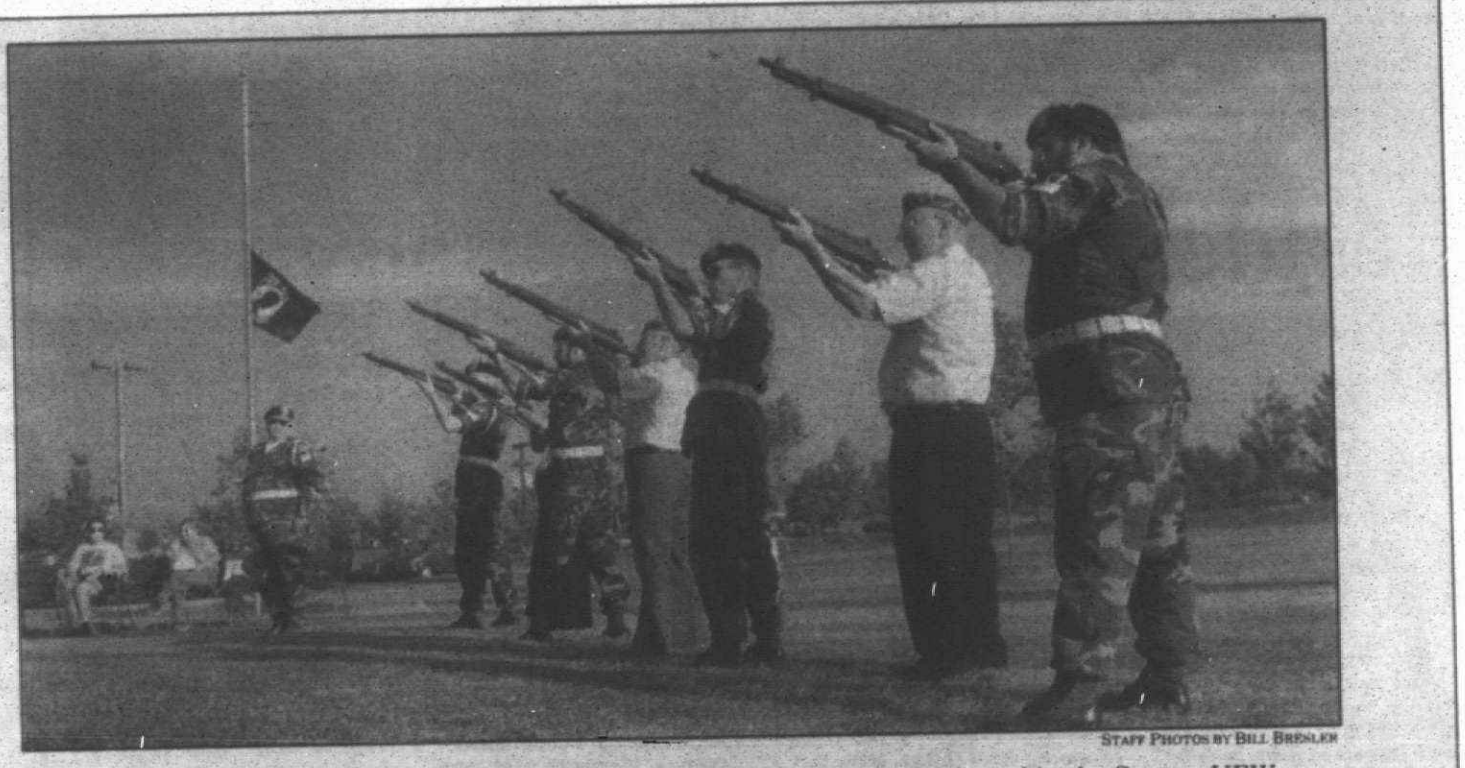

The new precinct 16 includes 1831 voters and is bounded on the north side by Cherry Hill, the south side by the Plymouth-Canton/Van Buren school districts boundaries, on the west by Sheldon Road, and Morton Taylor on the east. Voters within the changed precinct will cast ballots at Bentley Elementary School.

The remainder of the existing precinct 16 will become the new precinct 26. The new precinct is bounded on the south by Cherry Hill, east by Sheldon Road, and the Plymouth-Canton/Van Buren school district line.

The existing precinct 19 has been divided in half at Hanford Road. "State law says we must use certain things, like roads, to design boundaries. We can't arbitrarily draw a line," Bennett said.

Voters in an area bounded by Hanford, Beck, Warren and Canton Center will remain in precinct 19. The south half of existing precinct 19 will be merged with part of the old precinct 8 for a brand new district — precinct 25. The new precinct is

Veterans recall World War II's end

Frank Riordan clearly remembers looking out of the fire control tower aboard the aircraft carrier USS Hancock-CV19 in Tokyo Bay when General Douglas MacArthur and Japanese dignitaries signed the treaty ending World War II.

"They were right in front of us," said Riordan of Canton, who left the aircraft carrier nine days later, having reached the rank of chief petty officer by the time he was 22.

There was no doubt that Riordan knew he was witnessing history. "It was the biggest dish on my plate," said the retired vice president of The Levy Company.

"Japan has never officially apologized," said Riordan, who received a presidential citation and a number of other medals for his service.

Ralph Smith of Westland, who like Riordan is a member of the Canton Veterans of Foreign Wars, served on the U.S.S. New Mexico, a battleship also in Tokyo Bay the day of the treaty signing.

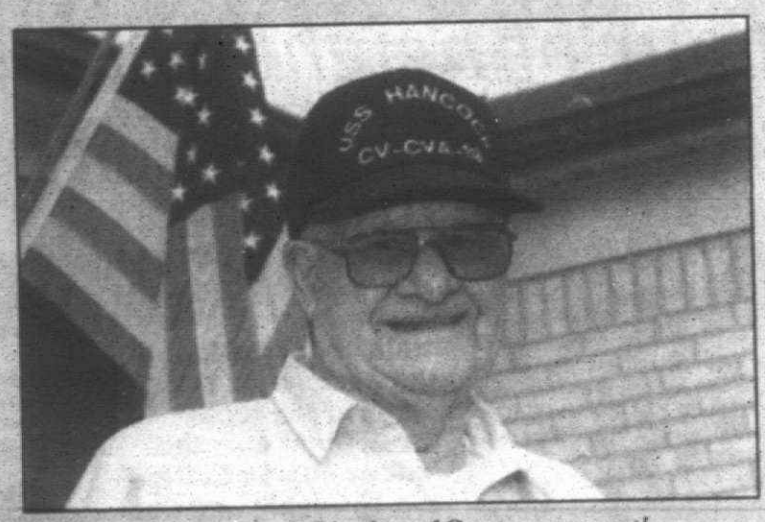

"We couldn't see it. We were in the bay, but about five miles out," Smith said.

Riordan, Smith and other veterans participated in a ceremony Thursday evening at the Canton Veteran's Memorial in Heritage Park to honor the end of World War II.

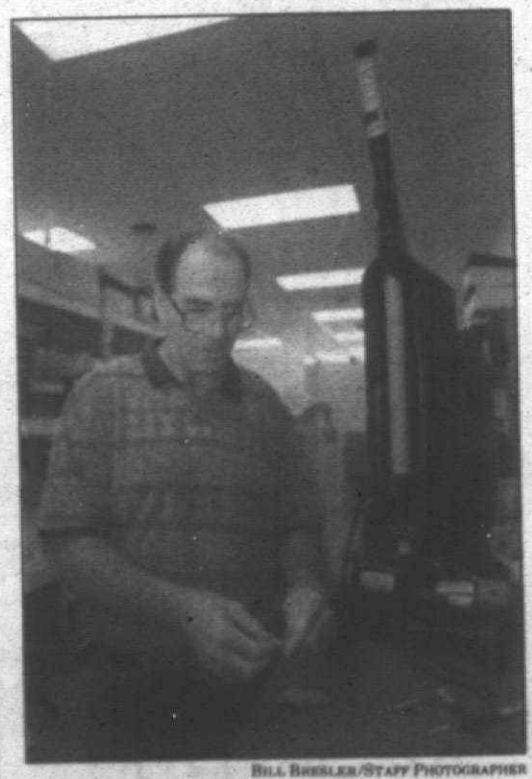

"We gather here to commemorate the end of World War II," said John Spencer, Canton VFW Post 6967 quartermaster. "It took the great resources of our nation to turn the tide."

Members of the Plymouth-Canton Vietnam Veterans served as honor guard for the ceremony that concluded with a 21-gun salute and

The bread is baking at Sorg Electric Repair Co.

It's repairman Otto Sorg at the bread machine, as he tests out the results.

"This bread is not correct," Sorg said. "It looks like those wrinkled dogs, the shar peis."

It's not always the cook with the problem, it can be the unit itself, Sorg explained.

Sorg spends his life taking things apart, and in Sorg's home few things get thrown out.

Sorg fixes everything that is electrical at his repair shop located at 8589 N. Lilley in the Golden Gate Shopping Center, which is across the street from Mettetal Airport in Canton.

"We sell a lot of reconditioned vacuum cleaners and accessories and parts," Sorg said. "The small repair business has gone to the wayside. There's not a lot of money in it. It's not a profession that you can go in and make a million dollars and retire."

About 50 customers a week tell Sorg their woes. "We do everything from electric shavers, VCRs, microwaves to TVs," he said.

"The rule is that if you can repair something for half the price of a new one, do it," Sorg said.

There are many good vacuum cleaners that cost $200-300 that should be repaired rather than replaced, he said. "They will outlast a new one."

Sorg services uprights, canisters, hand-held, Shop Vacs, shampooers, buffers, polishers, and bags/belts/hoses.

Sorg strives for realistic repair evaluations. He knows that if he doesn't, the customer will be back with the product.

He also gives advice. "It's good to get your VCR cleaned at least once a year if you use a lot of rental tapes," he said.

Sorg doesn't do home servicing but he does repair toasters/ovens, coffee makers, irons, blenders, mixers, fry parts, hair dryers, food processors, electric shavers, saws, drills, routers, sanders, grinders, lawn edgers, trimmers, mowers, weed trimmers, shop motors, sump pumps, pool pumps and all types of fans.

"Anything that we sell or recondition, we offer a guarantee from 30-90 days, depending what the product is," Sorg said.

Parts, cords, batteries, switches, fuses and the like are stocked. "We do a lot of antique lamps and glass shade work and I do repair work on stained glass," Sorg said. "Master Lighting and Brose Electric send their customers to us." Splane Electric does also.

Sorg Electric Repair has been in its location almost four years. "I have 20 years experience in the repair business," he said.

Oversight spotted

School district closer to learning about Salem tax break

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

The Plymouth-Canton School District is a step closer to learning how a group of taxpayers received what appears to be an unauthorized, 21-year tax break.

Indications are that due to an oversight, the taxpayers have not been assessed the same debt retirement — 2.08 mills — being levied against the rest of the district. The taxpayers, however, have been paying the same amount of operating mills levied elsewhere in Plymouth-Canton.

The taxpayers — about nine families and a handful of companies — own property along Napier Road between North Territorial and Five Mile roads in Salem Township. Historically, the area was part of Northville schools. A 1974 transfer placed the Washtenaw County parcel in the Plymouth-Canton school district.

Retired Plymouth-Canton Superintendent John Hoben recalls that according to the agreement reached in 1974, "those homeowners would be responsible for the debt they incurred while part of Northville schools, and assume new debt in our area. They were paying two different entities, the way I understood it. They should be paying the 2.08 mills."

However, a review of Salem Township tax records by the South Lyon Herald newspaper revealed that the property owners have been paying 1.04 Northville debt retirement mills, but no Plymouth-Canton debt retirement mills.

Ray Hoedel, Plymouth-Canton's retiring associate superintendent for business, met with Northville school officials to investigate the matter.

"We've got a call into the treasurer of Salem Township. We just want to check the tax bills and parcels of land to see exactly what was charged," said Hoedel.

"We, or Diane (Barnes, director of finance), will discuss with our attorney the way to conclude this whole thing based on what we find out from Salem Township. It will probably be brought to closure in in anywhere from 30-90 days."

■ Indications are that due to an oversight, the taxpayers have not been assessed the same debt retirement — 2.08 mills — being levied against the rest of the district. The taxpayers, however, have been paying the same amount of operating mills levied elsewhere in Plymouth-Canton.

The district is responsible for notifying units of government whom to tax. The schools also inform local governments as to the amount of the summer and winter levies.

"We don't think they (Salem Township) were notified, but we haven't verified that," said Hoedel. "That's why we have to talk to the treasurer."

Hoedel said it's too soon to say how much money is involved, or whether it can be recovered.

"We can't verify that until we see what the state equalized valuation is on all those parcels. All we have is the original SEV for those parcels. Back in 1974, it was $160,000, and $160 for each mill. We don't have the details or a breakdown. But our whole levy, including the existing levy, is only 2.08 mills."

The taxpayers in question wouldn't have been responsible for Plymouth-Canton debt millage until 1986, when the district passed a bond issue. Voters passed another bond issue in 1991.

In 1986, the debt retirement levy was 3 mills. It dropped to 2.86 and then 2.3 before being lowered to the current 2.08 mills, "so it's no big thing. Not much money is involved," said Hoedel. "I'm not going to guess at the amount right now."

Plans call for the district to "start collecting in the winter levy. That's what we will do." As to whether taxes can be collected retroactively, Hoedel said, "we won't know until we talk to our attorney. We are going to do some analysis of existing debt versus any new debt and take into consideration any refunding we did of old debt. We'll determine from that the amount of the levy they should be paying or should have been paying."

Barnes said she gets her instruction about whom to tax from the Wayne County assessor's department, because the district is primarily in Wayne County.

"We have not been getting any breakdown of those parcels," said Hoedel. "We have not been getting that detail for several years. It could have been brought to our attention by Salem at any time. They didn't call us, and we never looked at bills."

Gary Evanko, director of the assessment and equalization for Wayne County, says his office concerns itself only with Wayne County land. "My reporting ends at the county line," he said.

Salem Township Treasurer Dick Rhinehart, who sends out the tax bills, said he depends on the schools for information about tax rates. He said he was not aware of a problem with the transfer district.

Residents offer budget advice

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

The Plymouth-Canton school board will have help from the community in managing its $90 million budget.

The board last week named six citizens and three board members to the District Finance Advisory Committee.

Their job will be to "review the budgeting process and general operations to identify and recommend improvements in the budget, budget format, business operations and budget process."

Joining the current members (Judy Mardigian, Frank Wenker, Robert Jones and John Spencer) will be Paul Schrauben of Canton and Del Templeton of Plymouth. Schrauben ran unsuccessfully for school board in June.

The citizens will serve on the committee with board Vice President Mark Horvath, Treasurer Mike Maloney, and newly-elected Trustee Carrie Blamer.

Schrauben's and Templeton's names were drawn at random. Both will serve three-year terms.

Maloney suggested that the committee postpone full-scale operation until the new assistant superintendent for business and operations is hired to replace the retiring Ray Hoedel.

"Since we are going to have a new assistant superintendent for business and operations and the committee is also looking into business operations, it might make sense for us all to come up to speed together," said Maloney. That would enable the committee to, among other things, get a better handle on "how we peg various costs for services provided by contractors," he added.

Board President David Artley said, "We're looking for an opportunity to gain consummate expertise. The superintendent may bring in other staff from time to time, and we may have the PCEA (Plymouth-Canton Education Association) or the PCA (Plymouth-Canton Administrators) participate."

Artley said that unlike last year when meetings were not posted, the committee will abide by the Open Meetings Act.

"The meetings will be posted, and anyone who wants to come listen can come listen. There will be other citizens present. Meetings will be open and are public. And minutes will be available," Artley said.

Meetings will be monthly, at a standard time to be determined.

Jones, a Plymouth city commissioner, says the committee "evaluates as much as possible various items as we look at the budget, revenue and expense situation. We brainstorm to see if there are any areas where we feel some economies can be met."

Suggestions are evaluated by administration, and those with the most merit are recommended to the board.

"Last year, we tackled some health care and election items with some success," said Jones.

"We looked at health care, and the administrative costs seemed high to one of our members who is in that field. We were able to do some renegotiations.

The committee also looked at the joint purchasing of election equipment, with the city and township for dual use, he added.

Transportation is another area the committee is exploring.

"We've looked at the possibility of doing some transportation for some other districts," Jones said. "Possibly, down the road, it could save the district some money. This district has one of the lowest transportation costs around."

Jones has two grandchildren who attend high school at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

Tour of neighborhoods and facilities designed to promote public funding

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Local government officials fear that programs helping low-income families, senior citizens, battered women and the disabled could be threatened by a federal proposal to eliminate the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Some U.S. legislators, however, say the plan would dismantle an outdated, bureaucratic giant and allow money to be shifted directly to states and local communities, empowering them to do a better job.

On a bus tour last week through Westland, Livonia, Canton Township, Redford and Dearborn Heights, representatives of U.S. Sen. Spencer Abraham, R-Mich., and Gov. John Engler accepted an invitation to see programs and services that local officials fear could be threatened.

Abraham is a co-sponsor of the still-pending Federal Housing Reform and Local Empowerment Act, aimed at abolishing HUD.

As hosts, local officials pointed out low-income neighborhoods, senior citizens centers, once-ailing commercial areas and a battered women's shelter, among other places, that have been aided by the federal dollars.

Specifically, the tour focused on programs and services that depend on Community Development Block Grant money. Local officials are hoping to sway federal opinion on programs that they say work.

"We want to be sure informed decisions are made," said Mike Ager, Canton resource development manager. "One of my main concerns is that the decision-making stays at the local level. Right now the money comes to Canton Township and Canton Township makes the decisions of how to spend it."

In the latest CDBG allocation, Canton received $432,000, while Westland received $1,318,000compared to $1,175,000 for Redford and $563,000 for Livonia.

■ 'We want to be sure informed decisions are made. One of my main concerns is that the decision-making stays at the local level. Right now the money comes to Canton Township and Canton Township makes the decisions of how to spend it.'

Mike Ager
Canton resource development manager

"The goal isn't to cut out the programs," Laurie Bink, Abraham's aide, told local officials. "The goal is to cut the bureaucracy in getting the money to you."

Local officials, however, say they are concerned that the proposal isn't specific on how the revamped program would be run. Moreover, they have grown to trust the federal program, but they are wary of letting state and local governments handle it.

"If it goes to the state, I hope it is just as a pass-through," Ager said.

Block grant money is used in Canton to help low- and moderate-income families, as well as senior citizens and handicapped residents. Annually, a portion of the money is given to local social service agencies, such as Growth Works and the Salvation Army.

"The question is if HUD is eliminated, where will the money go?" Ager said. "Right now the money passes through HUD. They come out and make sure you're spending the money correctly."

Ager said for next year block grant money is proposed to be cut 13 percent. "It is only a proposal now. We could live with some cuts. We just want to see the program preserved."

Stops on the Aug. 28 bus tour included:

■ Canton Commons Apartments, a 450-unit, federally subsidized housing complex where CDBG funds have been approved for a softball field. A Salvation Army summer day camp also is aided by CDBG funds, another attempt by local officials to improve conditions. The complex has had its share of gang problems, said Mike Ager, the township's manager of resource development. A police officer also was assigned to the complex, with assistance from a community reclamation grant.

■ The Redford Community Center, a converted elementary school that provides such services as lunch for eligible senior citizens, a camp for low-income children and after-school computer accessibility for students. Rochelle Katz, director of housing and community development, said CDBG funds assist the center.

■ Coventry Place, a Redford senior citizens housing complex for which CDBG dollars were used to buy the land. The property was sold to Volunteers of America, which spearheaded the 59-unit complex.

■ Westland's Friendship Center, lauded by Bink as "the best" senior citizens center she had ever seen. The center, which provides meals for homebound seniors, recreation, legal advice and other services, was praised for its use of volunteers, but it still depends on CDBG monies to pay for its paid staff.

■ The Carver subdivision, near Van Born and Middlebelt in Westland, where officials want to use CDBG dollars to rehabilitate a neighborhood plagued by boarded-up houses and drug and gang problems.

■ Westland's Norwayne neighborhood, where CDBG loans for low-income housing improvements would likely be halted if cuts were made in the federal program.

■ First Step, a shelter that helps abused women and their children in 35 communities.

■ Various Livonia neighborhoods, such as one northwest of Plymouth and Inkster, where homes and streets are being improved on an ongoing basis to spruce up aging neighborhood.

Also on the tour, delegates saw a Redford home that was made accessible for two handicapped children with use of CDBG monies.

Bink and another Abraham aide, Anthony Spearman-Leach, told local officials they were impressed by the tour, but said there are misconceptions about what Abraham and others want to achieve.

"We're committed to senior citizens and low-income housing," Spearman-Leach said at one point during the tour. Statements suggesting the contrary "are absolutely not true."

Abraham has said the bill, through vouchers and block grants, would give states and local governments the power to design their own programs, rather than having them depend on HUD, which he said is outdated.

Spearman-Leach said HUD cuts would streamline programs and save taxpayer dollars.

In a statement about the proposed changes, Abraham said, "I believe this legislation will help Detroit and other urban areas of my state by moving the resources and regulations out of Washington and returning authority and responsibility to local governments and families."

Last week's bus tour showed that Abraham, and others supporting the changes, have far to go in convincing local officials.

Band members ready for demanding season

By Diane Hanson
Special Writer

Members of the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band are marching to the tune of the same drummer.

The 180-member band and color guard performed part of their program, "Prophecy of the Earth," Saturday at the end of the week-long band camp at Camp Kohana near Traverse City.

"The music, I think, is probably some of the most demanding music that Plymouth has had in recent years, as is the visual program," said marching band director David McGrath. "There is going to be a very high number of drill charts. They're going to be moving a lot."

"Prophecy of the Earth," a four-chapter story taken from a tone poem by David Gillingham, has been adapted to the marching band.

With powerful and foreboding music and interpretive dance, the band portrays an altered earth. The second part of the program features a ballad signifying a memory of a former radiant earth. The final portion of the 11-minute program brings the spectators to the present state of the earth and ends on a major chord, a note of optimism that there is still hope for our world.

"I've not seen the staff this excited," said Jim Vassallo, president of the Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters. This is Vassallo's seventh year with the band and sixth year as camp director. He was amazed at the level of excitement among the creative staff of Lorenzo Medrano from Chicago, who directs the color guard; drill writer Mitch Rogers, from Chicago; and Don Hill from Indiana, who arranges the musical score.

"This was the best camp we've ever had," Vassallo said. "Without a doubt, the kids were phenomenal. Never have I seen them this far (into the program). I think this group has a chance to do something that none of our other bands have been able to do the last couple of years. They're going to perform at a level that is beyond expectations. I really believe that."

Part of that excitement and enthusiasm, according to Vassallo, must be credited to McGrath, who is the new director for the marching band. "We're very impressed with him," Vassallo said.

McGrath was hired by the school district as director of music at the Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools last June and will teach symphony band classes there as well as directing the marching band.

Amy Boerma was hired as associate director of music and will teach varsity and concert band classes, teach a piano class, and serve as assistant band director for music with the marching band. Patrick Ruddy will remain as assistant band director for marching.

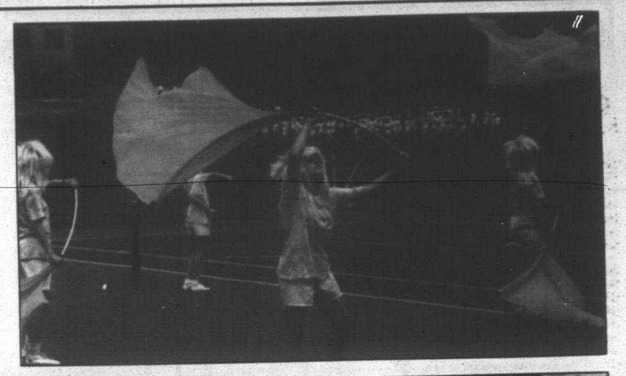

McGrath, a 1983 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and former member of the symphony and marching bands, began organizing the marching band with week-long day camps at the high school in June and August.

"I'm incredibly excited," he said after the week at Camp Kohana. "All the kids are so enthused. It's just incredible. They're tremendous kids, just tremendous. You'd have to be up here to understand how hard they work all week. It's just an amazingly focused group."

The Plymouth-Canton Marching Band is the only outside group allowed to use the private Christian Science camp facilities, according to Vassallo. The camp is nestled against the Lake Michigan shoreline in the beautiful Sleeping Bear Dunes area of the Leelanau Peninsula.

While the band members enjoy swimming in Lake Michigan and nightly entertainment and dancing, it's not all fun and games. Practice begins at 8 a.m. and continues until 8 p.m.

"Having gone through this program, I myself have a really high level of expectation and a high level of standards that I expect (to be) achieved," said McGrath.

New director hits high note with colleagues, students

By Diane Hanson
Special Writer

There's a new music man at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park high schools, and he's striking a very harmonious chord with students, staff and parents.

David McGrath has been named the new director of music at the high schools. He replaces James Griffith, who held that position for 38 years before retiring.

But McGrath isn't an unfamiliar face. A 1983 graduate of Plymouth-Canton High School, McGrath played the trombone as a member of the symphony band and marching band.

McGrath credits Griffith for his musical career and had nothing but kudos for his predecessor.

"I have just such tremendous respect for him," McGrath said. "My experiences in the symphony band over four years are what thrust me into pursuing music as a career.

"His shoes are impossible to try to fill. He's just an amazing man and it's a real honor to be taking over for him. It's just amazing. I can't even begin to describe the emotions I'm feeling. I feel very fortunate to be here."

McGrath will take on the responsibilities of teaching the symphony band classes as well as directing the 180-member, award-winning Plymouth-Canton Marching Band. McGrath conducted two marching band camps at the high school during June and August and completed a week-long camp with the marching band at Camp Kohana near Traverse City.

The band will perform "Prophecy of the Earth" at school functions, football games and competitions this fall.

"The students got a lot done in that week," said McGrath. "It's amazing how hard they work. I've been very pleased with the response on the part of the students and the parents and the staff. But the kids are the bottom line. They're the ones that have to get out there and perform the show on a weekly basis. It's the hardest working group of kids I've ever seen and ever worked with. They're a joy to work with."

The Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters were equally as pleased with McGrath.

"We're very impressed with him," said Jim Vassallo, president of the music boosters.

McGrath grew up in Canton and his parents — Albert and Joyce McGrath, who now live in Howell — remain band supporters.

"They still have their black and yellow Plymouth Marching Band booster jackets," McGrath said. "They'll be carting those out to shows."

This will be McGrath's ninth year of teaching. He taught in Flat Rock, Gibraltar and the Huron Valley Schools, where he was director of music at Lakeland High School in Milford.

The new associate director of music at the high schools and assistant marching band director of music, Amy Boerma, a Chelsea resident, graduated from the University of Illinois. She taught two years in Mt. Clemens and was in charge of the band and choir programs at the high school. She taught two years in the instrumental program at Chelsea Middle School.

Although very happy with her job at Chelsea, in coming to the PCEP program, she said, "It was an opportunity I felt I could not overlook."

Boerma is a third-generation band director. Both her father and grandfather were band directors and it seemed very natural for her to follow in their footsteps.

"I actually never wanted to do anything but this," Boerma said of being a band director. "It never occurred to me that there was an option."

She will also take on the responsibilities of varsity and concert bands as well as teaching a piano class.

Boerma and her husband, Scott Boerma, band director at Novi High School, are longtime friends of the McGraths. Ironically, neither Boerma nor McGrath knew of the other's application at the PCEP until both were called in on the same day to sign contracts.

Precinct changes

bounded by Hanford, Cherry Hill, Canton Center and the township boundary on the west.

The redrawn precinct 8 will be bounded by Hanford on the north, Joy on the south, the township boundary on the west and Beck on the east. "The precinct is now smaller than it was," Bennett said.

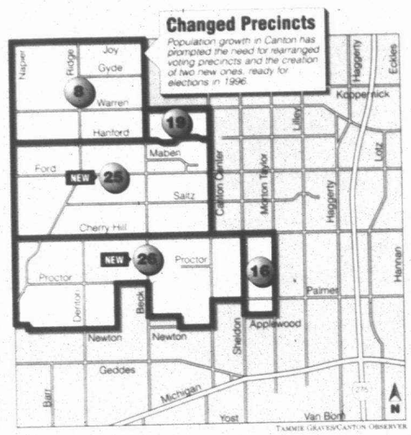

While precinct 8 will vote at the new Resurrection Church, the new precinct 25 will vote at Canton High School. Precincts 19 and 11 will vote at Tonda Elementary School, while precincts 26 and 20 will vote at Canton Township Hall. Only precinct 2 will remain at the Canton Recreation Center on Michigan Avenue.

"With the new precincts we have coordinated with the Plymouth Canton Schools polling places for school elections. But that is not consistent throughout the township," Bennett said.

"We tried to look at the development map and at growth patterns. So in precincts 8, 25 and 26, we have space to accommodate new registered voters and for some period of time we won't have to make modifications," Bennett said.

The township Elections Commission has approved the changes already. The Township Board has been notified of the changes, Bennett said.

"This is really a growth prompted issue," Bennett said. "As fast as we are growing, it is likely that the new precinct 26 will get a division line in the near future."

Only voters whose precincts have been changed will receive new voter registration cards. Those who are not affected by the changes will not receive new cards.

Bennett said work began on the changes shortly after she was elected clerk in April. "We didn't want to make the changes during the election cycle," she said.

In 1996, voters will go the polls a number of times, beginning with the March 19 presidential nominating primary; Aug. 6 state and township primary; and Nov. 5, presidential and township election.

Sorg was born in Austria. His stepfather was a displaced refugee from Yugoslavia. "When we came over from Austria on a ship, we were on the ocean for 11 days and my mother was deathly seasick for 10 days out of the trip. So they gave her a small cabin in the front of the boat. She remembers that there was a small fan in her cabin that wasn't working and I climbed up there to try to fix the fan to make it comfortable for her." The family settled near Philadelphia when he was 8.

Sorg has a lifetime of taking things apart.

In the electronic field, it's important to keep current. Sorg has two technicians, Rick Hilton of Belleville, and Mike Spore of Brighton. Paula Stubblebine of Canton is the office manager. Sorg and his wife, Linda, are Westland residents.

■ 'We sell a lot of reconditioned vacuum cleaners and accessories and parts. The small repair business has gone to the wayside. There's not a lot of money in it. It's not a profession that you can go in and make a million dollars and retire.'

Otto Sorg

Sorg was trained as a licensed technician. He is also an authorized repair center dealer for several companies, including Mr. Coffee, Bissel, and Royal Dirt Devil vacuum cleaners, among others.

Turnaround repair time is about three or four days and Sorg admits many customers want repairs done yesterday, so to speak.

He puts a high priority on some items like restaurant equipment that is needed quickly. He also does dehumidifiers and carry-in air conditioners. He's also sensitive to those warm weather needs.

"Just because something is old doesn't mean it can't be fixed," Sorg said. "Just like people, as they get older they become more valuable."

He tries to restore antiques in a way that preserves their original look.

"I've always been mechanically inclined and inquisitive," Sorg said. "I enjoy the satisfaction of taking something that doesn't work and getting it to work again. Landfills are full enough."

We want your opinions

With the hunting season coming up, the Canton Observer wants to know if its readers want the newspaper to continue the "Buck Pole" that is published throughout the season.

Traditionally, the Observer has published the Buck Pole as a means of allowing area hunters to publicize their kill. Some readers have complained they are offended by the Buck Pole, as well as accompanying photographs. On the other hand, it's an opportunity to publicize local residents and their sport.

This is your hometown paper. Let us know whether you want the Buck Pole to continue or not. Write to us by Sept. 15. Please include your name and why you feel one way or another.

We'll let you know what readers decide. Send your comments to Joanne Maliszewski, editor, Canton Observer, 744 Wing St., Plymouth, Mich. 48170.

taps. Spencer read the names of the three Canton men who lost their lives during World War II: Robert Johnson, Frank Padget and Jack Prieskorn.

"We honor their service to our country in the defense of freedom," Spencer said.

The treaty ending the war in Europe was signed Aug. 15, 1945, while the treaty ending the war with Japan was signed Sept. 2, 1945. Both Smith and Riordan were recognized during the ceremony.

Smith admits he didn't think much of history at the time. "We never thought about it. We just thought of getting it over with."

Like Riordan, Smith enlisted in the Navy — after Pearl Harbor was attacked. "My brother enlisted the next day. I waited. I had a good job with GM Truck and Coach. Then I decided I, too, would go."

Also like Riordan, Smith traveled throughout the Pacific Ocean. But Riordan actually began his war before the United States entered the world war in 1941.

He started his tour on the Ranger in the North Atlantic. "I spent 2½ years of my five in the Navy working on the Lend-Lease for England and Russia," said Riordan, who has a piece of the Hancock's wooden deck planking. He also recalls three kamikazes slamming into the Hancock. One of them hit the flight deck, while another hit while the Hancock was fueling a destroyer and both ships took damage.

Riordan still receives a newsletter about the Hancock. In it runs a continuing log of the Hancock while on duty in the Pacific. There's not much he doesn't remember when he reads it over.

"I had a bird's-eye view of everything on that flight deck."

Rouge expected to be open to canoes next year

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County residents can look forward to canoeing on the Rouge River next summer if all goes well with a project begun this month to clear 40 logjams by mid-October.

Mike Duggan, the chief deputy of county Executive Ed McNamara, has been put in charge of the project.

"We're going to have canoes and fishing on the river as soon as next spring," Duggan said.

Using crews comprised of people from parks and public services departments, plus 10 jail inmates from the county's Alternative Workforce, Duggan plans to clear "40 logjams in 40 days" between Newburgh Lake in Livonia and Nankin Lake. Work begins Tuesday, Sept. 5, near the dam at the east end of Newburgh Lake.

"By late October that river will be clean of logjams from Nankin Lake to Newburgh Lake," Duggan said.

Once a person sees how bucolic a canoe ride down the Rouge is, Duggan said, it's hard to believe one is still in Wayne County.

Friends of the Rouge Director Jim Graham agreed. "It's really very pretty there, and I think most people don't think about that," he said. "It doesn't make sense that we have to go 100 miles north to put a canoe in the water."

Beyond next year, Duggan hopes to open the Upper Rouge for canoeing from Wilcox Lake in Plymouth Township to Merriman Road in Westland.

By 1997 all of the combined sewer overflows west of Merriman are expected to be capped.

Newburgh Lake, with tons of sewage in its sediment, is scheduled to be dredged in the winter of 1997-98. Swimming, however, won't be safe for another 10 years, Duggan said.

More than 100 sewage overflow pipes dump waste into the Rouge and its tributaries with every hard rain. In 759 tests on the Rouge from April to October 1994, the water met state standards for full body contact just 20 times.

It is also hoped that by 1998 the Lower Rouge, flowing through Canton and Westland, will be opened for canoeing.

"We only go as fast as the combined sewer overflows are cleaned up," Duggan said.

County Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, is pleased with the project.

"I'm delighted," she said. "It's a project that is going to be a wonderful recreation asset. (The Rouge) is a resource we really need to take advantage of."

Graham is also glad that Duggan is helping. The Friends' annual cleanup effort pulls tons of debris from the river every year, but can't get it all.

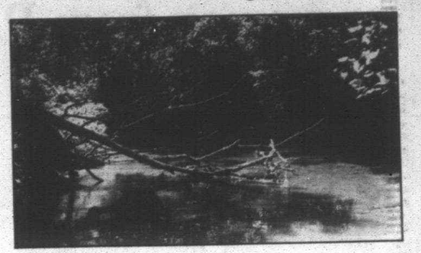

"We can only get to a fraction of (the logjams)," Graham said. "There are so many that are not easily accessible for volunteers."

Also chipping in is the federal government's Rouge River National Wet Weather Demonstration Project, a $1 billion-plus, 20-year endeavor begun two years ago.

Much of that money is going for the construction of 11 basins to catch the overflow from combined sewer systems.

The last basin is expected to be completed by the end of 1998, reducing sewage in the river by 33 percent.

"Most people have never known the Rouge as a place for recreation," McNamara said

SMOOTHING THE ROUGH EDGES
When teeth sustain minor fractures and chips, the best way to repair them may be to simply smooth their rough edges. Cosmetic contouring usually calls for a minimal amount of tooth reduction without the need for an anesthetic. However, in the event that a smile line would suffer by having a tooth shortened, contouring would not be appropriate. Because the aging process naturally flattens the smile line and reduces the vertical dimension of the mouth, the dentist would not want to contribute to an aged appearance by grinding down any teeth. Instead, it would be a better idea to fix the chip or fracture with bonding, rather than reduce the tooth height with contouring.

Bee sting almost a killer for woman from Plymouth

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

An allergic reaction to a bee sting nearly killed a Plymouth woman Aug. 26, and she wants to alert the public to the potential dangers, which increase at this time of the year.

"If that had been my child I would have never known to react," said Leslie Haas.

As far as Haas knew, she was mildly allergic to bee stings as eight years ago she was stung twice. "I went to the emergency room, I took a little Benadryl and it went away. They said I had a slight allergic reaction," she said.

It was at 5 p.m. on that recent Saturday, while at Murray's Lake in Superior Township, that Haas, 37, stepped on a bee and was stung. "They nest this time of year in the grass. I didn't know that and I stepped on it," she said.

"I went to get some ice, then I decided to just stick my foot in the cooler. I said to my friend 'I've been stung by a bee.' I sat down for just a second, and I could taste metal in my mouth.

"I walked to a crowd of people, about 50 feet away. I asked for a phone. I said 'I'm having an allergic reaction to a bee sting.'" Haas said.

A man started walking to get help. "I said 'Could you have him go quicker, I'm failing fast,'" she recalled. Haas said she tried rubbing ice on her chest, then began vomiting.

"All of a sudden, I could feel everything closing up" due to swelling, she said. She put a piece of ice in her throat to keep her windpipe from closing. "I heard an ambulance coming, they stabilized me and sent me to St. Joe's (Hospital). It happened in all of three minutes," Haas said.

"Fall is the worst time because they burrow in the ground and that's why you should always wear shoes.

"And it's real important that if they do get stung, they need somebody to know they've been stung. A lot of times people go into this shock and they can't find a bee sting," Haas said.

The emergency crew treating her at the lake gave her oxygen and started an IV. "I never lost consciousness. They took my blood pressure and gave me a shot of adrenaline to counteract it," she said.

She was kept at the hospital overnight and released the next day. A doctor told her she came very close to dying.

"I'm just really lucky everybody responded real well," Haas said. She thanked the Huron Valley Ambulance workers who responded to the call, Tom Alhinson and Tom Borden, and the members of the group at the lake, called the "COC's."

"They helped save my life. I was lucky someone had a cellular phone."

She also thanked the Superior Township firefighters who responded to the emergency call, Ron Smith, Jamie Conklin, Jerry Dunn, Kevin Freeman, Brad Patton, Bill Toth and Robert Konarske.

Now, Haas has to wear an alert bracelet and carry adrenaline pills, in case she should get another bee sting.

"I feel there's a reason for this to happen to me, if it's only to make other people aware of the dangers," Haas said.

"You absolutely need emergency medical care within minutes," she said.

Township officials seek aid in controlling sign problem

Signs promoting garage sales, new housing developments, and some large "help wanted" signs at area businesses are causing concern in Canton. Officials are calling on the community to help improve visual standards by cleaning up these signs from street corners and thoroughfares.

Canton building official John Weyer said that limited use of these signs was not as visible at one time, but that recent growth in the community has magnified the problems and made the sign use unacceptable. Most violate the township's sign ordinance.

"Although we understand the need to promote these events and new developments, sheer numbers of new subdivisions and businesses, combined with these promotional efforts, have caused a problem," Weyer said.

Many of the problems are occurring on weekends when builders are showing new homes and homeowners are cleaning out garages and hosting neighborhood sales. Signs are posted on major street corners, at entrances to subdivisions and throughout the community. The township is now receiving numerous complaints, Weyer said.

Other problems are being seen in front of some businesses where "help wanted" signs have continued to grow in size, contrary to the township's sign ordinance.

"If we continue to see a problem, enforcement on weekends may become necessary," Weyer said, asking for community cooperation. If problems persist, township ordinance inspectors will begin working extra hours on weekends to remove signs and possibly issue citations.

Builders have already been notified of the problem, as has the Canton Chamber of Commerce. Homeowners associations also will be contacted.

Residents or businesses with questions may call the Canton building and inspection services division, 397-5400.

December trial date set in killing of Canton resident

A murder defendant, accused of killing a Canton Township woman who stumbled upon an illegal gun sale at a Westland apartment complex where she worked, has been scheduled for a jury trial Dec. 6.

Keith Lamont Burns will face life in prison without parole if convicted of first-degree murder in the death of Boonshoun Andrews, 50.

He also could face a mandatory two-year term if convicted of a felony firearms charge.

Andrews was strangled and pistol-whipped on the head, and she was found at 9:15 a.m. March 29 at Hunters West apartments on Yale, north of Hunter and west of Wayne Road. She was lying face down near a first-floor, indoor swimming pool.

Burns admitted that he was selling a 9mm gun to another man when Andrews was killed, Westland police Sgt. Tom Kubitskey testified during an April preliminary hearing in Westland 18th District Court.

But Burns said he didn't kill the woman, according to testimony. Police have rejected Burns' claims that a second man killed Andrews.

Teachers to meet with parents

Supreme court: State has no duty to fund courts

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

One burner on the court reform stove was turned off Aug. 23 when the Michigan Supreme Court ruled against local governments that had sued for state funding of their trial courts.

But other burners are still generating heat in favor of state funding — heavy workloads in some courts, the outstate versus Detroit brawl, and a governor who holds tight purse strings.

"We lost all clout," said Douglas Van Essen, the Grand Rapids attorney who handled the appeal for the plaintiffs — the Michigan Association of Counties. His was the most pessimistic reaction to the high court ruling.

"We may end up doing it (state funding) anyway," said Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, who serves on both the Judiciary and Appropriations committees. "There is a lot of interest in state-funded courts."

At issue is the way state government picks up 30 percent of the tab for Wayne County trial courts versus 20 percent for the other 82 counties.

No new judges

Meanwhile, Gov. John Engler has used veto threats to block creation of new judgeships in Oakland County, the Farmington district, and the northwestern Wayne County 35th District Court until there's court reorganization.

The best known plan is one backed by State Bar leaders: a single "trial court" with state funding and new districts to replace circuit, recorders, probate and district courts.

Geake said a GOP Senate task force would issue a court reform recommendation before the party's Mackinac Island conference Sept. 22.

Attorney Thomas Kienbaum predicted "a showdown" on state funding despite the Supreme Court decision. "What if counties decide not to fund a court and shut it down? Is the Supreme Court saying, 'We can't enforce that either' ?" said Kienbaum, president-elect of the State Bar of Michigan.

Kienbaum fears outstate counties and local units could get sore at Wayne's favored treatment and cut out funds for their local courts.

'We've got it good'

But some in Oakland and western Wayne counties say their areas are better off without state funding and its Siamese twin, state control.

State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, said the local 35th District Court is a money-maker that communities in Northville, Plymouth and Canton don't want to surrender to state aid and control.

"It makes a $1.3 million profit. The locals use that money," said Law.

Statewide, district courts in a recent year spent $150 million and collected $125 million in fines and fees, recovering 83 percent of their costs. Other district courts' broke even, while others ran at a loss.

Said Law, a member of the House Judiciary Committee and former township official: "Show me a district court that isn't in the black, and I'll show you one that isn't well managed."

In other courts, however, the situation is different. Circuit courts (the state's general trial courts) generate revenue to cover only 11 percent of their costs. Probate courts cover only 7 percent of their costs.

"Right now, I'm sharing all my school tax money (under Proposal A) with the rest of the state," said Law. "I don't want to share my court money, too."

Law agreed with the high court and rejected the argument that the state has a duty to fund all lower courts. "It's just a statutory thing. (The state) hasn't fully funded revenue sharing or (aid to cities with) horse racing tracks. (The high court ruling) doesn't surprise me."

Trial courts cost a total of about $509 million a year to run. A full state takeover of funding would run an estimated $250 million, perhaps more.

It started in '80

The argument started almost as soon as the Legislature in 1980 passed a law heavily funding Wayne County and Detroit courts. The stated intention was to phase in state funding for the Wayne suburbs and the other 82 counties over five years. In the deep recession that followed, state funding never advanced.

In 1988 angry outstate politicos — 76 counties, 46 cities, 11 townships and one village — filed suit against state government in the Court of Claims. Van Essen's clients won partial victories in the Court of Claims (Ingham Circuit Court) and the Court of Appeals. But last week the Supreme Court reversed them.

"The Legislature did not intend to create a judicially enforceable private cause of action for money judgment against the state," wrote Justice Dorothy Comstock Riley in a 7-0 opinion.

"Moreover, the Michigan Constitution does not require the state to fund the entire cost of trial court operations . . .

"While strong arguments can be made that state funding would be a more desirable system of court financing, it is for the Legislature to determine whether to adopt such a system . . .

"Despite the fact that the courts have always been regarded as part of state government, they have operated historically on local funds and resources . . . Local financing of the courts does not violate the uniformity of taxation provision (of the state constitution) . . . The uniformity must be coextensive with the territory to which it applies (court districts). Thus, it is only necessary that a county or city tax be uniform through that county or city."

Law punishes teens who buy booze

A new law went into effect Sept. 1 penalizing minors who attempt to purchase alcohol.

"We view this as a major victory," said Associated Food Dealers of Michigan director Joe Sarafa in a press release. "In the past, there was no deterrent for minors; all responsibility for their actions lay with the retail establishment and its employees. That responsibility is now shared by the seller and the minor who will both be prosecuted if the minor is caught purchasing alcoholic beverages."

For the first offense, the minor will be fined up to $100 and may be ordered to perform community service and, at his or her own expense, undergo substance abuse screening.

For the second offense, the fine is raised to $200 and the minor's driver's license will be suspended for 90-180 days. Substance abuse screening may also be ordered in addition to community service and substance abuse prevention or treatment and rehabilitation.

Three-time offenders may be fined up to $500 and have their driver's licenses suspended for 180 days to one year. They may also be required to perform community service and participate in substance abuse screening, prevention and treatment.

The bill does not relax current penalty sanctions against retailers who sell or furnish alcoholic beverages to minors.

"Prior to this law, courts placed the entire burden of enforcement on the retailer," Sarafa said. "With little chance of punishment, minors who wanted to purchase alcohol would go from store to store until they were able to buy the products they desired."

Founded in 1916, the Associated Food Dealers of Michigan is the voice of Michigan's food and beverage industry, representing more than 2,700 retailers, wholesalers, distributors and manufacturers throughout the state.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Don't sweat over pie make yours a cool one

With the unusually hot weather we've been sweating over lately, I can't imagine why anyone would choose to spend an afternoon in the kitchen baking pies. For a refreshing alternative, try refrigerator or freezer pies, which can take just minutes to prepare.

Contrary to popular belief, today's prepackaged pie shells aren't really as bad as momma once said. Let's face it, on a humid day, who wants to make a pie shell anyway?

In all honesty though, you can make a wonderful crust in minutes with a food processor and package of Oreo's or other store-bought cookies. Of course, if you subscribe to the "eat one, use one" theory of baking, it can get a bit fattening, especially when coupled with the tablespoon or two of butter, margarine, flavored liqueur, coconut or chopped nuts that's needed to hold the cookie crust together. Even dieters can produce elegant mouth-watering crusts with graham crackers or fat free cookies.

Cookie crusts

Making a cool pie crust can be as basic or as elegant as the baker chooses. Most of the time, crushed cream-filled cookies can be pressed into a pie pan with minimal bother.

With the addition of chopped fruit, shaved chocolate, pre-toasted and finely ground nuts, a simple Oreo crust can take on an added dimension. Further upgrades include brushing the crusts with melted chocolate chips, or a healthy dousing of Bailey's, Amaretto or any coffee-flavored liqueur. As a matter of fact, when testing the recipes for this column, I discovered that brushing bottom crusts with melted chocolate and then chilling creates a perfect barrier against melting ice cream, pudding or mousse. Bottom crusts brushed with chocolate and chilled didn't get soggy after filling was added.

Fabulous fillings

As far as fillings are concerned, the simple addition of ice cream or more complex mixtures of egg whites, gelatin and whipped cream tend to top the charts as favorites. A simple crust can be filled with softened ice cream, drizzled with fudge or chocolate sauce and garnished with cherries. More complex fillings can be made with prepackaged puddings and basic mousse recipes. Add liqueur, flavorings, chopped fruit, nuts or other confections such as coconut, sprinkles and candy.

For optimum results, remove just enough ice cream from the freezer and allow it to soften in a bowl rather than removing the entire half-gallon carton. Once ice cream has softened, it has a tendency to crystallize when refrozen, so allow the ice cream to sit just long enough so that you can stir it. The ice cream should resemble soft serve ice cream.

Again, people concerned about their fat intake will probably want to substitute fat-free ice cream, frozen yogurt or sherbet. Sorbets are made with water and, best enjoyed by themselves. Mousse pies or chilled pies made with eggs require a bit more energy during the initial production stage but are well worth the effort.

Having a good mixer is tantamount to having a spectacular chilled pie. Make sure the gelatin and sugars are well dissolved and incorporated. Follow recipe directions. You will get a higher yield of whipped cream when the whipping cream is well chilled, and bowls and beaters are also placed in the freezer for an hour or so before beating begins.

Lighter mousse or chilled pies have a tendency to pick up refrigerator or freezer tastes easily, so be sure not to store them too close to last night's garlic-ladened pasta primavera in the refrigerator or that frozen walleye buried in the freezer.

If you're looking to serve a crowd, think about preparing one of my cool pie recipes in a springform pan. The recipes can easily be doubled or tripled, and you can line up ladyfingers, vanilla wafers, gingersnaps or whatever cookie you choose around the inside perimeter of the pan. When the filling is added and well chilled or frozen, simply spring open the pan and you have a glorious dessert that looks as good as it tastes!

Fall Harvest Fest

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

It's sweltering hot outside, over 90 degrees F., on a sunny, humid July afternoon, and baklava is baking in the oven at Holy Transfiguration Orthodox Church in Livonia.

At a huge wooden table in the center of the hot kitchen, barely cooled by a fan, parishioners Anna Smerechnak, Elaine Petouhoff, Helen Hall, Anne Hyrila, and Luba Smerechnak are laughing, and busily mixing dough for pierogi. A pot of freshly made beet soup is warming on the stove.

"How can you stand to cook in this heat?" I ask the women who are preparing food to be served at Holy Transfiguration's second annual Fall Fest on Sept. 10. "It's like taking a sauna bath while we're cooking," they laugh. "It's good for your skin, it smooths out the wrinkles."

No one wanted to take credit for their part in this festival. "Our volunteers are so faithful, they're a joy to work with," said church pastor the Rev. Michael Matsko. "We started out five years ago with about 25 families. Now we're about 90, and still growing."

Festival proceeds go toward a fund that was established to build a new church on the seven acre site. Holy Transfiguration was founded as a mission parish of St. Peter & Paul Orthodox Church on Gilbert Street in Detroit.

"They purchased the property out here to serve parishioners who relocated from Detroit," said Matsko. "We're a Heinz 57. We have parishioners of all nationalities – Russian, Serbian, Macedonian, Ukrainian, Romanian, and even Irish."

The current church building, at 36075 W. Seven Mile Road, built in 1959 doubles as an activities hall. It was formerly the United Church of Christ.

Leonard and Elaine Petouhoff who have lived in Livonia for 22 years are longtime parishioners.

"Every Sunday we'd get the kids together and drive to church. It was tough in the winter. Now we just go here."

The Petouhoffs helped organize the first festival last year, and also help with the cooking. Planning for this year's festival began right after last year's, which drew over 800 people.

All summer, the women meet at the church, sometimes three times a week, 12 hours at a time, to make cabbage rolls, sauerkraut, pierogi, baklava, bread, beet soup, and other dishes that will be sold at the festival. This year they added shish kebab with rice and pita bread to the menu, which includes hot dogs and sausage.

"Everybody has a favorite recipe, and that's what we use," said Elaine Petouhoff. "It's a lot of fun. Once you do it, and it's a success, the second time becomes easier, because the doubt goes away," adds her husband Leonard.

Before organizing the festival at Holy Transfiguration, Leonard and Elaine went to a lot of festivals to get ideas. "I looked in the trash cans to see what people were throwing away," said Leonard. "That's when I got the idea to serve our dinners in carry-out foam containers so people could take what they didn't eat home."

The boss: Volunteers enjoy teasing Elaine Petouhoff, who helped organize the first fall festival at Transfiguration Church with her husband, Leonard. They call her the supreme boss, because she helps keep everyone going.

On this hot day, Anne Hyrila of Plymouth is in the kitchen helping. Homemade kiefles are her specialty. Sisters Anna and Luba Smerchnak of Detroit are also lending a hand. "I dabble in everything," said Anna. "I wash dishes, and roll pierogi dough." Her sister made the beet soup that everyone is sampling at lunch.

"Elaine is the supreme boss, she keeps us going," someone teases over lunch. Elaine is quick to add, "There are so many that I help, and work so hard. I can't take credit."

Festival highlights include a bake sale with homemade goodies including sweet bread, entertainment and dancing, crafts, games and pony rides for children, and free golf lessons – bring your own club.

FOCUS ON WINE
BY RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

Gallo Sonoma varietals are a good value

If you've been in a wine shop lately, you probably noticed Gallo Sonoma varietals, well-priced just over $10. If you're old enough to remember Hearty Burgundy, the Gallo wine that beat the socks off every red in its price category years ago, you may ask, "How good are these Gallo Sonoma wines?" Our reply is very good! Gallo 1993 Sonoma Chardonnay ($11), has attractive aromas with solid fruit and oak accents. It finishes balanced and creamy.

Zinfandel lovers alert! Gallo 1992 Sonoma Zinfandel ($14) is dynamite with berry aromas and rich fruit flavors. To paraphrase an auto ad, "this is not your father's Gallo!"

The interesting part is that the scene for all this was set in 1938, when the Gallo brothers purchased their first Sonoma County grapes in Dry Creek Valley that is today, home to a number of stellar wineries. Since 1947, Gallo has been quietly making wine in Sonoma County at its Frei Brothers Winery facility. The wine went into Gallo blends made in Modesto, Calif. Since the 1940s, Gallo has also been slowly acquiring prime benchland vineyards in Sonoma County. Today, Gallo owns more than 2,000 acres in three premier winegrowing appellations: Russian River Valley, Dry Creek Valley and Alexander Valley. Now, Gallo is the largest vineyard owner on California's North Coast which includes Napa, Sonoma and Mendocino Counties. We bet you had no idea!

■ Summer has left us with some odd bins items to talk about. Joe Borrello, Michigan wine aficionado has written the newly published "Wineries of the Great Lakes" guidebook, (published by Spradlin & Associates, Lapeer, Mich.,

When potatoes are tender, drain, but save 1 cup water for dough. Mash potatoes, add onions, cheese and salt and pepper to taste. Cool potatoes. When cool form into balls the size of a large walnut.

To make dough: Combine water, egg, sour cream and salt. Add flour. Knead until dough does not stick to hands. Let rest for 15 minutes.

Take small amount of dough and roll out to desired thickness. Cut into circle and fill with potato filling. Pinch edges and drop in boiling water. Remove when pierogi rises to the top.

Can be frozen for later. Some people like to eat their pierogi boiled, others like to fry them in butter or oil with chopped onions. Recipe makes about 25 pierogi.

RICE PILAF

1 cup rice
2 tablespoons olive oil
2½ cups broth (chicken or beef)
Salt and pepper to taste

Heat oil in skillet. Add rice, stirring constantly until brown. Add hot broth. Bring to boil. Stir. Cover and cook on low until rice is cooked. Add salt and pepper to taste.

BEET SOUP

1 ounce dried mushrooms
3 cups water
1 chopped onion
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 medium beets, chopped
1 carrot, chopped
1 stalk celery, chopped
6 cups boiling water
1 whole onion
1 bay leaf
10 peppercorns
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 tablespoons tomato paste
1 cup chopped cabbage

Simmer 1 ounce dried mushrooms in 3 cups of water for 1 hour. Strain through cloth. Save stock.

Sautee 1 chopped onion in 2 tablespoons vegetable oil until golden. Add chopped beets, 1 carrot, and celery stalk. Cook 5 minutes.

Add 6 cups boiling water, 1 whole onion, bay leaf, peppercorns, vinegar and tomato paste. Simmer 15 minutes. Add 1 cup chopped cabbage. Simmer 20 minutes.

Remove the whole onion, peppercorns and bay leaf.

Add mushroom stock and salt to taste. Cool to let flavors "marry." Serve cold or reheat. Add dollop of sour cream to each serving. Serves 8-10 people.

Wine

$15). Borrello briefly discusses each of over 130 wineries in the region from Wisconsin's Door peninsula across Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Ontario and into New York's Finger Lakes region. If you're planning a fall color tour and would like to stop at a winery, this soft-cover edition, available at Borders and other area bookstores, gives you everything you need to know in advance of your visit.

■ If you've experienced a corked bottle of wine, the musty, awful smell that develops from a poorly manufactured cork, relief is on the way. The first steps to solve the problem were taken by St. Francis Winery in Sonoma Valley's city of Kenwood. Several years ago, the winery changed from natural corks to a synthetic material trade-named Cellukork.

St. Francis did extensive experiments before making the change. Wines aged just fine, but consumers and restaurant wait personnel complained that they could not get the closure out of the bottle with conventional corkscrews.

The inventive society that we are has come up with a product that's superior to Cellukork. It's trade named SupremeCorq. Again, St. Francis took a wine problem by the proverbial neck and has changed to the new synthetic. You can be one of the first to open a bottle of wine with this new cork if you purchase 1994 St. Francis Chardonnay ($12). Hopefully, this yellow-tan cork will not be the whole attraction, the wine is terrific and an excellent value!

When something's good, word travels fast and Murphy-Goode Winery in California's Alexander Valley was swift to act. The 1994 Murphy-Good Pinot Blanc ($12.50) has a purple SupremeCorq closure. "Now, I am able to guarantee the quality of every bottle of our Pinot Blanc," said winemaker Christina Benz. If you don't know pinot blanc and you like chardonnay, try this one. It was 100 percent barrel fermented in a combination of 36 percent new French and air-dried American oak. The wine's interplay of fruit and oak is very harmonious.

■ It's Wine Shootout time again! Don't miss the area's best tasting of the year, 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Sept 12 at Glen Oaks (13 Mile, between Orchard Lake and Middlebelt). Rochester Hills Ye Olde Wine Shoppe owner Dennis Walsh has an imposing list of wines this year and a light buffet to accompany. All for $17.50 per person. Call (810) 852-5533 for reservations.

■ Go ahead — Pamper your palate 7:30-9:30 p.m. Mondays, Sept 18 through October 9 at the "Great Wines of the World" seminar at the Townsend Hotel in Birmingham. For reservations, call (810) 644-3443.

Add a chic pillow for instant design

When it comes to pillow talk, the folks at Drexel Heritage have the last word. In their glossy home design book, "Moments," the accent pillow is described as a "versatile animal."

"It can assume a sofa's stripes, an armchair's florals, or stand alone in bold, beautiful contrast. Accent pillows are the icing, but they can also be the cake, bringing style, sophistication and comfort to even the most reserved seats in the house."

A few plump decorative pillows can change the entire look of a room. Layered on a bed, propped in the curve of a chair or scattered across a sofa back, a bevy of downy-soft pillows give your tired furnishings a new personality.

Mix and match

A tip from the Drexel Heritage designers: Vary pillow sizes, shapes and even fabrics for a rich multi-layered effect. See the Drexel Heritage line of accent pillows including elegant tapestries and exotic animal prints, at Gorman's in Troy, Novi and Southfield. If you're searching for one accent pillow that makes a statement on its own, hurry over to The Print Gallery, 29203 Northwestern Hwy. in Southfield, where owner Diane DeCillis features fine art pillows by artist Barbara A. Wood. Wood's famous images of women are reproduced on corded canvas pillows. Her coveted designs include "Tea Time," "Pearl," "Solitaire," and "Tulips," ($35-$55.)

"I can't keep these exquisite pillows," says DeCillis. "They're selling faster than I can get them in." Definitely worth a look.

The Print Gallery also offers artful pillows from the old masters, including Boticelli, Michelangelo, Monet, Renoir and Van Gogh. More abstract images by Klee and Picasso are soon to arrive ($40).

Rustic charms

At the Eddie Bauer Home Store in Twelve Oaks, in Novi, pillows are tossed on beds and sofas to enhance the casual mountain lodge mood of the furnishings. Look for woven Kilims ($59) velvety corduroys ($22) and madras patchwork plaids ($22) that enliven ever-popular denim upholstery.

New colors and textures for fall at The Bombay Company in Twelve Oaks include throw pillows with names like Mambo, Trevi and Loden Feather. The designs are richly patterned with leaves and swirls, plumes and flowers and thistles. The pillows are edged in lush gold cording or thick fringe with tassels. Colors are warm and autumn-like, from subtle mochas to rich burgundies ($25-$35). Nothing is more inviting than a bed layered with coordinating dust ruffles, sheets and comforters. A toss of pillows finishes the composition, brings new pattern interest, and gives the room a decorator look. The Liz at Home system of bed design helps you define a style by offering a wardrobe of bedroom and bath fashions with mix and match versatility. It's the details that count, like the perfect accent pillows that pull together the entire look.

The Liz at Home patterns include florals, plaids and dots in pure whites, geranium, cornflower blue, clover and daffodil. Pillows are available in tied squares, rounds and neckrolls ($31.99-$39.99). Available at Hudson's.

I explained that I did not live near the Fairlane store, but I needed the socks quickly for a gift. Linda felt that I would not receive the socks in time if she sent them, and she proceeded to inquire about where I worked.

Surprisingly, she did not live far from my place of employment and

Collegiate sportswear sales take the field

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

The first hurrah of the college sports season echoed loudly over the gridiron in Ann Arbor a few Saturdays ago as the University of Michigan Wolverines beat Virginia 18-17. After the game, alumni, students and parents rushed the M-Den at Laurel Park Place in Livonia.

Sales of college-crested merchandise — everything from sweatshirts and mugs to Waterford crystal, Cross pens, and 24k gold-plated cufflinks — were booming.

The M-Den, with eight locations in Michigan including five in Ann Arbor, is the official retailer for the University of Michigan Athletic Department. (Not wanting to leave State fans offsides, a small area of the store is devoted to green and white wear emblazoned with the Spartan logo).

At one time when the M-Den was called The Rivalry, the merchandise mix was 50-50, but slower State sales led district manager Mark Hirth to alter the odds 90-10 in favor of Michigan.

"U of M wear is number one nationally as far as sales go. U of M people are crazy. They'll buy anything with an M on it," said Hirth of Farmington Hills.

"The authentic team uniforms are very popular from football to basketball to hockey. But now, people are starting to demand other things with the M on it. That's why we can put out a mail order catalog twice a year, because there are enough customers to support it."

Collegiate wear is big business nowadays for sportswear retailers. Purchases of gift items by parents and grandparents intercept more retail dollars than ever before especially in the fall when students head back to school.

Although Big 10 merchandise is at the top of the heap, smaller institutions of learning score their share of loyal customers as well. At The Basketball Court in downtown Farmington, Central, Eastern and Western Michigan University apparel outsells many of the major players.

"At Christmas we sold more CMU than U of M probably because you can't get them anywhere else," said Becky Thomas co-owner with husband Carl. Both are Central grads. "We try to target the lesser known schools because there are so many graduates and alumni in our area."

and memorabilia? Part of it is school pride, but for many it's bragging rights. It's a way to display their accomplishment — earning a degree, according to Thomas. One of the most popular items last year at the Basketball Court was the Michigan pullover starter jacket. Thomas said she expects this year's rising star to be the laser stitch caps frequently seen on the sidelines at games. She's betting Penn State holds the key to the winning retail game.

At Champ's Sports at Twelve Oaks, in Novi, alumni are number one when it comes to buying collegiate clothing and jersey's, but full size and mini helmets, boxer shorts, and hats sporting Florida State, Texas A & M, and Georgetown imprints also do well according to spokesman Kirk Grant. "With the jerseys, it's the status thing. It's collegiate wear that's good looking that you see on TV in the championships," he said. "Right now, it's U of M, MSU, Penn State, and North Carolina."

Add to that list Georgia Tech and UNC for the best sellers at Sports Mania in Livonia and Wonderland Malls, according to manager Rich Perrine.

"Everybody's buying sports stuff from little kids to college age to adults and grandparents," he insisted.

Paula Masalin, manager of Stadium Blvd. at the Oakland Mall in Troy, (also owned by M-Den) said sales of collegiate merchandise have taken the field edging out pro-items from the camps of the Detroit Lions and Tigers. The store has items split 70-30 in favor of Michigan over Michigan State.

"Fifty percent of the people who buy U of M apparel are fans. We're expecting our best sellers to be Michigan's Nike items because all of the players are wearing Nike uniforms," Masalin said.

But what about customers with dual allegiances? The families with members at rival schools?

"I recommend T-shirts and pennants split diagonally with the Wolverine on one side and the Spartan on the other," she said.

she offered to bring the socks to me at work the following day.

How fortunate for me — first to find the socks and then to get them hand delivered! Linda saved me a great deal of time to say the least. I might add that I am hardly a first time shopper. However, in my experience no one has ever "gone the extra mile" for me. I have never seen Linda; on the day she dropped off the socks I was in the classroom, and I have never spoken to her since. I know, though, what a wonderful person and valued employee Linda Kelly must be.

Linda has since been made a store manager and transferred to the Ann Taylor in the Briarwood store in Ann Arbor. An Observer & Eccentric canvas shopping tote is on the way to both Linda and Laurel.

Barker brings little magic to 'Lord of Illusions'

JOHN MONAGHAN

■ REVIEW

You'd think we'd catch on by now.

Whenever a movie character walks alone in a creepy place, the music stops and the action slows. Suddenly, from outside of the frame, a mysterious figure appears out of nowhere and the audience jumps a collective mile.

Such moments happen a good five times in Clive Barker's "Lord of Illusions," which plays not so much like a well-staged magic show as a ride through a creaky carnival spook house. The tricks couldn't be cheesier, but often we're scared just the same.

Scott Bakula, late of TV's "Quantum Leap," plays Harry Demore, a private detective attracted to "the dark side." He has just finished the exorcism of a young boy and now gets mixed up with a cult case involving the world's foremost magicians.

Swann (Kevin O'Connor) sells out glitzy, David Copperfield-style magic spectaculars — the kind where scantily-clad dancers circle Baroque sets. He was once the student of Nix (Daniel Van Bargen), whose authentic powers allowed him to levitate, juggle fire, and plant realistic illusions in the heads of both disciples and nonbelievers.

Nix is dead, buried deep, but Swann has good reason to believe that he is ready to stage a comeback. As the friends who helped kill Nix begin to die themselves, Swann must devise a way to protect himself and his wife from what could be the devil.

The remaining cult members sense his coming. Wiping their mouths from a meal of raw animal flesh, the believers tear out their hair, kneel on broken glass, and prepare for the coming of their savior.

You get the sense that Clive Barker is one sick puppy who enjoys coming up with this stuff far more than we do watching it. Movies like this should be fun, but the laughs in "Lord of Illusions" are mostly unintentional since Barker and company are so seriously intent on disturbing us.

Bakula tries hard as the ghost-busting gumshoe, but he doesn't seem tough enough or romantic enough to kick down doors or woo Swann's wife. O'Connor's Swann fares better. Reluctant to use the power he possesses, he walks around in a daze, like he's seen things that no man ever should.

Some of the best horror movies ("Night of the Living Dead," "Texas Chainsaw Massacre") can approach something almost mystical in their low-budget minimalism. Barker's medium-size budget only makes his movie look cheap, with much of the money spent on C-grade computer imaging.

Though "Lord of Illusions" is happily free of sadistic sexual content, the camera rarely turns away from gross-out effects, like tongues being severed or knives penetrating flesh.

The latter happens in one of the movie's few clever scenes, where one of Swann's illusions goes horribly wrong. We watch from the magician's point of view as heavy swords fall from the ceiling as he tries in vain to free himself from the rotating table he's strapped to.

The magic angle is a good one, though Barker fails to even hint at what lies behind the display cases of a magicians' repository where all the secrets are stored. In "Lord of Illusions" the popular writer/director barely gives us the illusion that he knows any more about magic than we do.

'Watch It' offers sharp views of men, women, relationships

BY LEANNE ROGERS

A group of guys sharing a house, spending their time partying and playing elaborate practical jokes on each other. Sounds like a frat house but in the enjoyable 1993 film "Watch It" the guys are all in their mid-thirties and a bit old for their lifestyle.

The title of the film comes from the game of practical jokes that started when several of the men knew each other in college. Nothing is out of bounds. The only rule to the game is that you can't get mad, you can only get even.

The owner of the house is Michael, played by Jon Tenney, a handsome but smarmy womanizer. A new addition to the household is his cousin John, played by Peter Gallagher, a guy who can't seem to settle in a career or even in one place for very long.

Things become a bit tense when John falls in love with his cousin's former girlfriend. With Michael's lack of maturity and some childhood grudges against

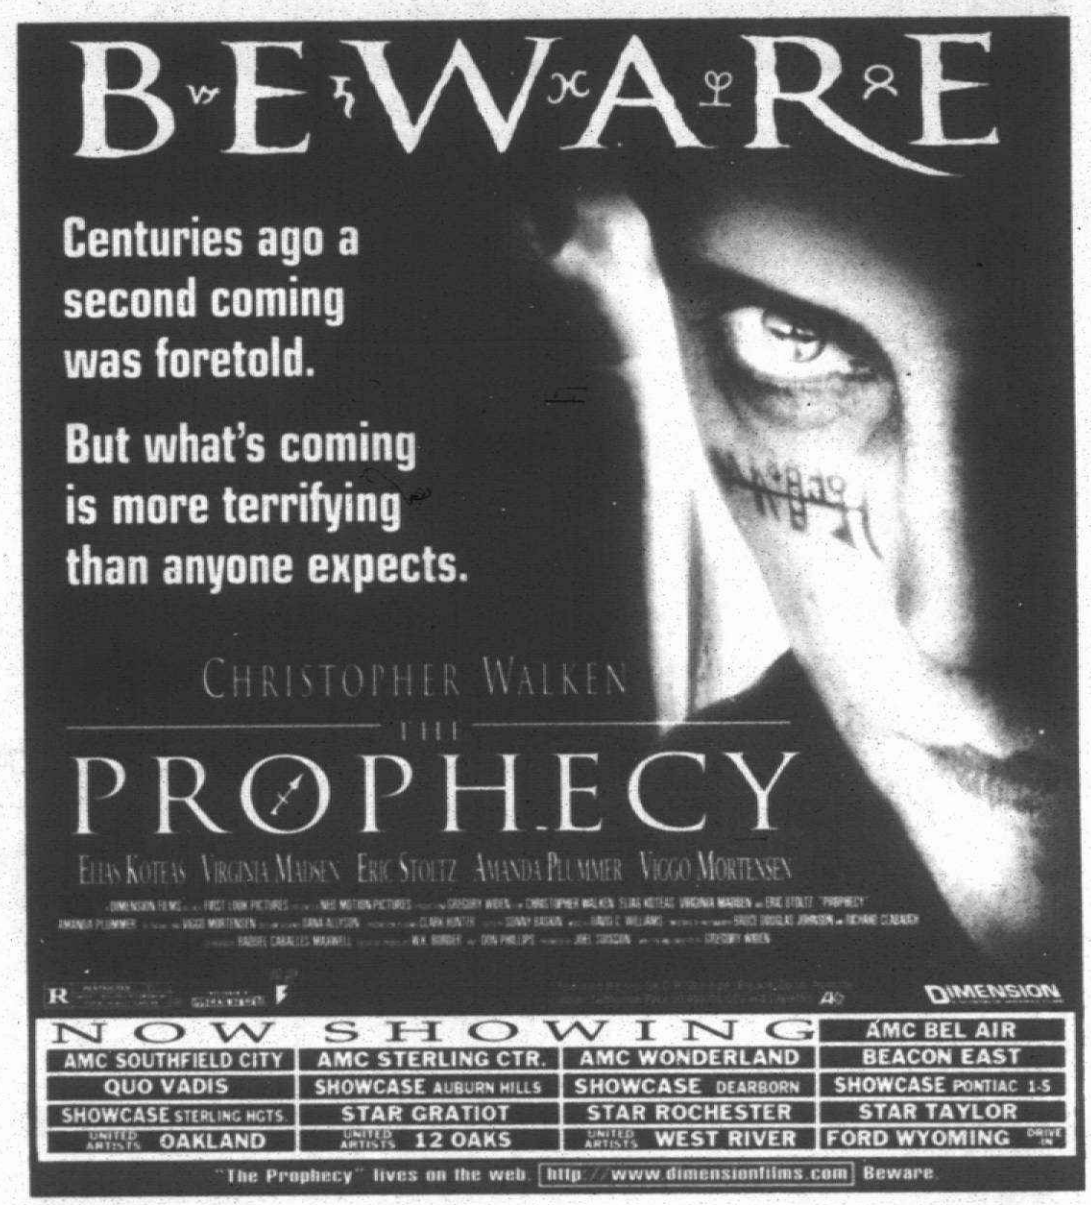

Peter Gallagher

John, he naturally can't resist trying to get back together with his ex-girlfriend, played by Suzy Amis. But then John doesn't help his situation by getting scared and being non-committal. A younger friend of the woman, who points out her consistently bad choices in men, accurately refers to the cousins as the Womanizer and the Non-Committer.

There are some pretty hilarious exchanges in the film about men, women, relationships and how to avoid them. One of the roommates — there is one in everyone circle of friends — waxes philosophically about why younger women are so attracted to guys who are jerks. Since he readily puts himself in that category, he describes himself as "human cocaine."

For all the humor, "Watch It" also makes some sharp observations about its characters and the way they approach life. Even at their worst behavior, the men still have some genuine emotion and pathos. Sometimes they just can't help but be immature jerks.

All of the performances are very good including John McGinnis as the philosophical roommate panic-stricken when he falls in love and Lili Taylor as a young woman wiser than her older and better educated friend.

Quirky 'Younger and Younger' lacks depth, whimsy and heart

BY LEANNE ROGERS

■ VIDEO

■ I like a film about unusual or eccentric people as well as the next guy but there needs to be more depth and feeling to make it work. Unfortunately "Younger and Younger" lacks any real feeling.

Jonathan Younger has a pretty cushy life — sleeping late, getting his newspaper and going out to breakfast, taking long naps and going out dancing. Unfortunately for his harried wife Penelope, that lifestyle leaves her doing all the work hunched over her desk at their storage business.

An inveterate womanizer, Jonathan thinks his life will be even easier after his wife dies of a heart attack. But Jonathan is in for a couple shocks — his wife keeps appearing to him and the business is soon headed down the tubes because he hasn't a clue about running the business. That's the basic scene for the 1995 film "Younger and Younger" — the title referring to the name of the business and to the appearance of Penelope, who looks younger each time she turns up.

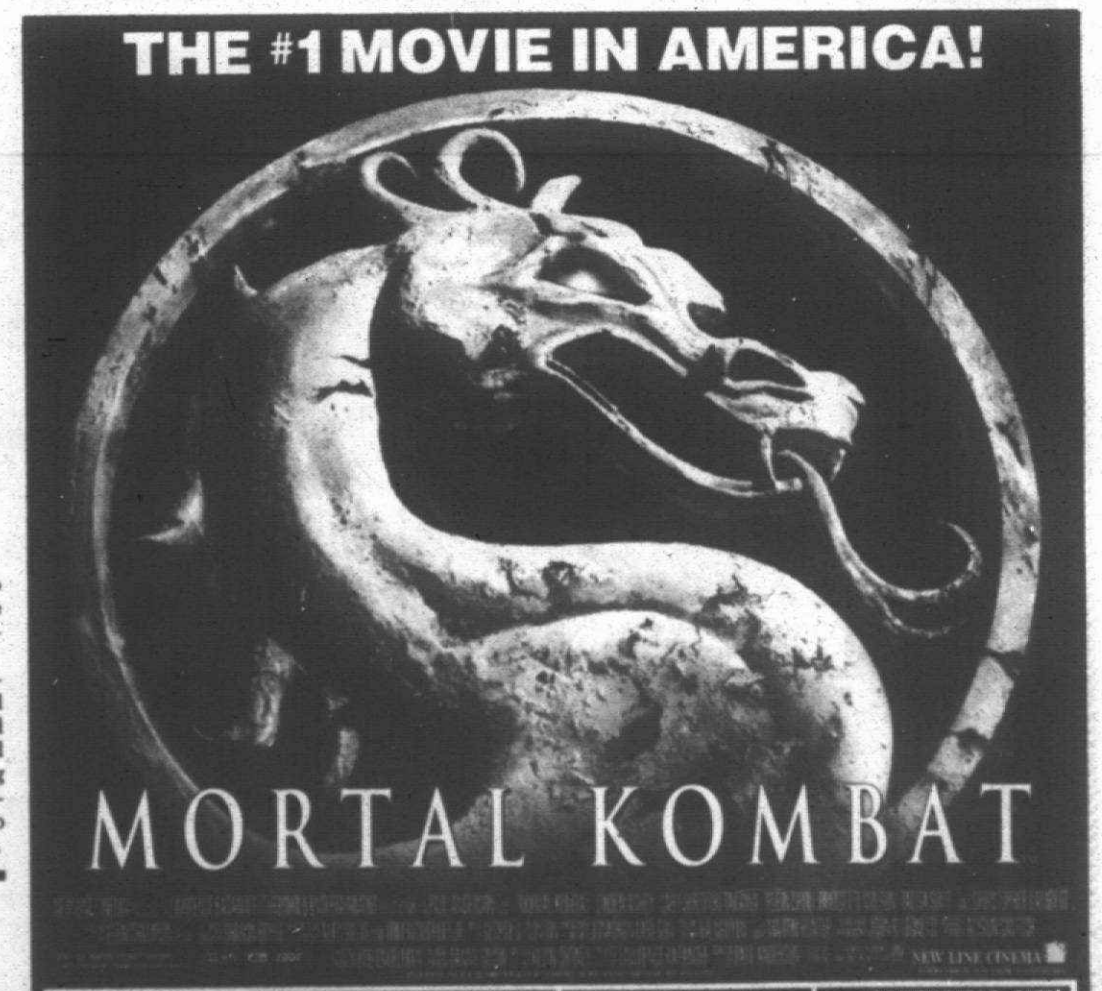

Donald Sutherland and Lolita Davidovich, the latter hardly recognizable under heavy makeup early in the film, play the couple who may or may not have actually liked each other when they married some years earlier. Or maybe Jonathan, a transplanted Londoner, married Penelope to get into her family's storage business.

I like a film about unusual or eccentric people as well as the next guy but there needs to be more depth and feeling to make it work. Unfortunately "Younger and Younger" lacks any real feeling. Writer/director Percy Adlon skewers any possibility for genuine emotion. When Penelope dies, Adlon has her death throes spinning like a dervish and convulsing in her wheeled office chair. It isn't funny or sad as the woman's death should be, it's just ridiculous.

The film is full of capable actors like Sutherland and Davidovich, along with Brendan Fraser as their son, Linda Hunt as one of their storage unit tenants and Sally Kellerman as a woman charged with murdering her husband. Unfortunately their efforts are pretty much wasted.

Jonathan eventually starts to feel bad about his wife's death but only after she starts looking young and curvaceous. He has treated her so shabbily when she was alive that it's kind of hard to understand why she still is interested in him or to care about how he feels. And I don't really need to have a lengthy musical interlude sung by Sutherland, who isn't famous for his singing voice.

Adlon's other films like "Sugarbaby" and "Bagdad Cafe" had quirkiness but also whimsy and heart which "Younger and Younger" totally lacks. Watching this film makes it easy to understand why it ended up on video with little or no theatrical release.

2 wins give Rocks a 3rd at WLAA relays

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

■ SWIMMING

Another year, another title . . .

Or so it seems to go for Livonia Stevenson's girls swim team. Is there anyone in the Western Lakes Activities Association capable of stopping this Spartan express?

Not at this juncture — meaning in this decade.

The season-opening WLAA Relays, hosted by Plymouth Salem Thursday, offer a typical example. By the mid-point of the event, coaches from the other 10 teams knew (if indeed they needed convincing prior to the meet) that Stevenson could collect top honors by almost any margin.

"Are you kidding?" answered Salem coach Chuck Olson, when asked who other than Stevenson last won the Relays. "I can't remember when they didn't win.

"It's been four years, at least (five, to be precise)."

Olson pondered the question for a moment longer, then continued. "They had that 'down' period a few years back. And we really enjoyed taking advantage of it."

It's unlikely any WLAA team will be able to reap such pleasure any time soon. The Spartans rolled to a first-place finish in the '95 Relays, sponsored by the Plymouth and Canton Rotary Clubs, scoring 262 points. Northville was second (226), followed by Salem (202), North Farmington (195), Plymouth Canton (181), Livonia Churchill (141), Farmington (139), Westland John Glenn (111), Walled Lake (108), Farmington Harrison (72) and Livonia Franklin (57).

The Spartans won five of the 10 relays, but — as if to prove their dominance — four of their firsts came in the first five events.

Tina Caranicolas, Becky Noechel, Julie Kern and Marti McKenzie combined for a win in the first event, the 400-yard medley relay (4:18.67). Noechel, Heather Dallas, McKenzie and Jordyn Godfroid teamed for a win in the third event, the 200 breaststroke relay (2:14.60).

Two wins in three races, and Stevenson's top swimmer — Anne Aristeo, a double-winner at last year's Class A finals — hadn't even competed yet. "You can put her with any other three swimmers, in any race, and they'll win," Olson said of Aristeo, with little (or no) exaggeration.

Tigers maul Salem, 42-0

Season openers are supposed to be optimistic. For Plymouth Salem, one could argue Friday's game against state-ranked Belleville was just that — because there's nowhere for the Rocks to go but up, that's certain.

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

No coach wants to remember a game like this. Not the winning coach. Not the losing coach.

Not only did Belleville put a hurt on Plymouth Salem Friday, but the Tigers did it in a fashion so dominating . . . well, let's put it this way: The Rocks have never before been so humbled.

"Never," said the only guy ever to coach Salem, Tom Moshimer, after the 42-0 home-field drubbing. "We've given up 42 points before and lost, but we've never been behind 42-0 at halftime before.

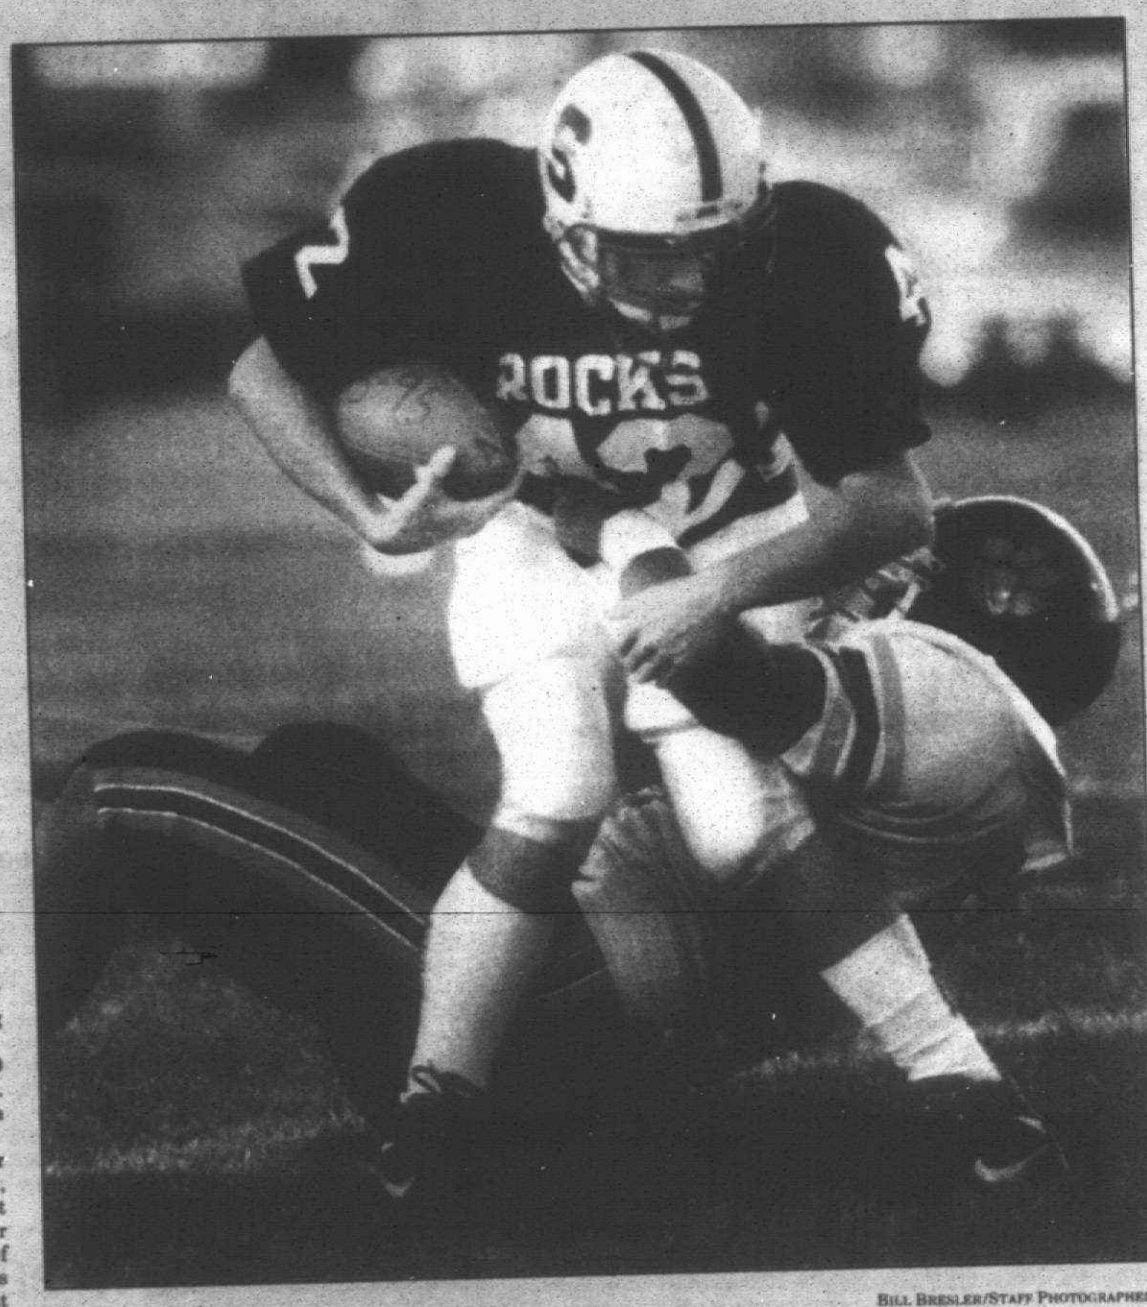

"It was a good ol' fashioned butt-kicking, is what it was. They had way too much foot speed for us. That might be the fastest team in the state."

What Belleville had was Ian Gold and Co. And any of the Co. would have sufficed, but then again, so would Gold. The 6-foot-2, 205-pound senior fullback totaled 177 yards rushing on 15 carries, scoring on runs of 13, 58 and 19 yards.

What Belleville had was 369 yards rushing on 41 attempts. That's an average of nine yards a carry.

What Belleville had was a junior quarterback standing 6 feet tall, weighing 160 pounds, who wasn't even the first-stringer. John Kroger directed the Tigers to 377 yards of offense, completing 1-of-2 passes (he really didn't need to try that many) for eight yards. Starter Nate Lewis was suspended from school and, consequently, the team.

Dragged down: Dirk Schmiedel started at quarterback for Salem against Belleville, but it was hardly a pleasant debut. His receivers dropped five passes in the first half.

Last-shot heroics

Fiorenzi's basket boosts Canton past Marian

By now, one would think every girls basketball coach in the state would know that Bob Blohm-coached teams are noted for applying the defensive clamps when necessary.

Perhaps Birmingham Marian didn't remember that last Thursday, when the Chiefs visited. Or perhaps the Mustangs couldn't do anything about it.

Whatever the reason, the result was painfully (for Marian, anyway) evident: The Mustangs put 39 points on the board in the first three quarters to build a 39-30 lead, then let it melt under the heat of Canton's defensive pressure.

The result was five fourth-quarter points for Marian (to 15 for the Chiefs) and a 45-44 Canton triumph.

The victory came off a broken play in the closing seconds. A travel on Marian's Brandy Bentley gave the ball to the Chiefs with 18 seconds left, trailing by a point. They tried to work it inside to Sarah Warnke, but the ball was knocked loose.

Warnke, however, dived and retrieved the loose ball, bouncing it back out to Kristi Fiorenzi. The 5-foot-10 junior nailed the open 18-footer with seven seconds left, and Canton had the winning margin.

"We led twice in the game," said Blohm, "on the first basket and on the last basket.

"That game was an adventure, I'll tell you. It was a wild one."

And the difference? "The key to the game was we hung around long enough," said Blohm.

Fiorenzi and Warnke each finished with 16 points and five rebounds for the 2-0 Chiefs. Melissa Marzolf contributed five points, four rebounds, four assists and some solid defensive work on Bentley, limiting her to 10 points. Sabrina Kassab netted nine for Marian (now 0-2).

■ BASKETBALL

Marian broke on top early, leading 11-5 after one quarter and 27-22 at the half. Despite getting some good opportunities in close to the basket, Canton could not close the gap until the last quarter — and, as it turned out, the last shot.

■ Salem 51, Adams 45: Plymouth Salem notched its first win of the season Thursday by knocking off visiting Rochester Adams.

The Rocks (1-1) broke open a 28-28 halftime tie by outscoring the Highlanders 12-5 in the third quarter.

Salem senior center Shellye Sills led all scorers with 17 points and nine rebounds. Freshman Andrea Pruett added 16 points and 11 boards.

Salem also received six points, seven steals and four assists from sophomore Amanda Abraham and six points from junior Janelle Sterling.

Adams (1-1) played without Mari McClure, its top player, who sat out with an injury. Shannon McCoy, a transfer from North Farmington, paced the Highlander attack with 13 points. Tamara Strong added 11.

"We did a good job on the boards," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "We also handled their press and their multiple defenses pretty well. The kids did a nice job attacking their defense."

Salem led 16-12 after one quarter, but Adams rallied to tie the game at the half. The Rocks took a 40-33 lead into the final quarter and held off all Adams rallies.

The Highlanders made 14 of 20 free throws, while Salem converted 11 of its 19 attempts.

■ PCA 42, Huron Valley 39 (OT): Junior forward Sarah Sumner scored 16 points and yanked down 15 rebounds Thursday, leading Plymouth Christian Academy (1-0) past Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (0-2) in overtime.

Amanda Clark's two free throws opened the OT session and PCA held on with a 7-4 scoring edge.

Lisa Erickson, on PCA's third putback, was fouled as time expired. She made one of two free throws to knot the score at 35-all at the end of regulation.

Michelle Ruth scored eight points for the Hawks, who made just 31.8 percent from the free throw line (seven of 22). Sara Tacia and Amy Mohacsi contributed seven points apiece.

PCA made 13-of-28 foul shots (46.4 percent).

FOOTBALL

A new beginning? Results the same; Spartans stop RU

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Stevenson head football coach Tim Gabel had just wrapped up his first-ever varsity win, 27-0, Friday night over Redford Union at Howard Kraft Field in Redford.

As the Stevenson players headed for the bus, Gabel flagged down a reporter from a distance.

That had to be another first — for a reporter. Usually it's the other way around.

Gabel couldn't wait to talk about the players who made his head-coaching debut a memorable one.

The Spartans, who graduated several standouts from last year's Class AA state playoff team, dominated RU in every category but punting.

RU junior punter Eric Scott lived up to expectations that he might be one of the best in the state, booming six for more than a 40-yard average. The Spartans never allowed Scott to try a field goal or extra point, limiting the Panthers to 96 total yards (55 rushing, 41 passing) and three first downs.

Stevenson senior defensive end Ryan Culloty sacked RU quarterback Joe Bernwanger once for a seven-yard loss and senior defensive back Tom Dumout intercepted a pass.

Another highlight of the night didn't involve scoring — it was a big-time block by senior Rob Drolet that flattened an RU player on a punt return in the third quarter.

"Wins are for the kids, as a coach, you feel losses for weeks," said Gabel, who was an assistant under retired head coach Jack Reardon. "This senior class has been overshadowed by that group (that graduated) their whole careers. They realized in the winter it's their turn. We sent 23 players to the CMU (Central Michigan University) Camp, and it's usually seven or eight. They're in a football mind set."

It looks like Stevenson football is alive and well, both from a public relations and coaching standpoint.

Junior tailback Gade Clark scored on a 54-yard run in the first quarter and led the Spartans with a career-high 198 yards on 19 carries.

Junior tailback Kurt Bearer had 46 yards on five carries, scoring on a 35-yard TD run. Senior quarterback Dean Bacheller (four of seven for 36 yards) threw a 13-yard TD pass to senior split end Jeff Backus and a 4-yard TD pass to junior swing back Matt Allison.

Senior fullback Rodolfo Pacheco, playing in his first game since transferring from Dearborn Divine Child, had 32 yards rushing on seven carries.

"He's a class guy, my victories will come," RU first-year head coach Glenn Scala said, referring to Gabel putting his reserves in midway through the third quarter. "That's a good football team over there. We had a lot of missed assignments, didn't do a good job of tackling. We're leaving here with our heads high."

The Spartans threatened right away, taking their first possession to the Panthers' 35 before a fourth-down pass was batted down.

RU failed to pick up a first down in three plays, but Scott's first punt was fumbled by the Stevenson return man, allowing the Panthers' Paul Horen to fall on the ball at the Spartans' 33.

Stevenson's defense stiffened and Jason Ward's catch on fourth-down and 14 fell shy of the first down by four yards.

The Spartans took over at their own 26 and three plays later, Clark broke through the line of scrimmage and went in untouched for the first score with 3:02 remaining in the first quarter.

Following another RU punt, the Stevenson offense took over at its own 32.

Stevenson capped a 14-play drive with a 13-yard TD pass from Bacheller to Backus with 4:59 left in the first half. Junior Jason Borregard's first of three extra points made the score 13-0.

The Spartans' offensive line of Eric Curl, George Murphy, Kevin Rosinski, Chris Arsenault and Matt Bartlett improved as the game went on.

"This is exciting, a big rush," said Curl, a standout both ways, according to Gabel.

Bacheller capped a nine-play, 87-yard drive with a 4-yard pass to Allison in the corner of the end zone on fourth and goal from the 4 with 3:43 remaining in the third quarter.

The Spartans scored in a hurry on their next possession, as Bearer rambled 35 yards for a score with 1:00 remaining.

The Spartans start play in the Western Lakes Activities Association at 1 p.m. Saturday at Livonia Franklin, Gabel's alma mater.

"(Franklin assistant coach) Chris Whalen is my neighbor, and (head coach) Rick Lee and Steve Frye are my friends," Gabel said. "I hope they go 8-1 every year."

What Belleville had was an offensive line that measured, from tackle to tackle, 265, 230, 215, 195 and 245 — which meant a sizable advantage to go with its far better speed and quickness.

"We didn't expect that," said coach Bob LaPointe, who guided the Tigers into the playoffs last season and a first-round loss to Westland John Glenn. "The last two years, Salem's always given us a heckuva fight. Two years ago they beat us.

"We added a couple of things and I don't think they were ready for it."

What the Tigers added were counter plays that allowed them to take full advantage of their superior speed. It showed on their first drive; after Joe Manuel returned the opening kickoff to the Salem 38, the Rocks' defense forced a third-down-and-6.

No problem. Gold sliced back through the middle on a counter to gain 20 yards and a first down at the Salem 13.

Again, the Rock defense stiffened, forcing a fourth-and-10. Again, no problem for the Tigers: Gold pounded his way into the end zone from 13 yards out, giving Belleville a lead it would never relinquish.

The only difference between the opening drive and the ones that followed was the amount of time consumed. They progressively got shorter.

It took the Tigers only three plays the next time they got the ball — a 7-yard run by Mike Williams, a 5-yarder by Gold, and a 58-yarder into the end zone by Gold, making it 14-0 with 2:58 left in the opening period.

On the second play of the second quarter, Williams topped his team's previous effort, finishing a two-play drive with a 34-yard scoring run.

And to add further insult to an already embarrassing situation, Gary Von Gerichten picked off a deflected Dirk Schmiedel pass and returned it 50 yards, to the Salem 24. From there, it required just one play, a 24-yard run by Williams, to make it 28-0.

The Rocks managed just one first down the remainder of the half. Belleville got two more TDs, although for Salem it must have been a bit of a moral victory to force the Tigers to take four plays to march 54 yards in the first, capped by a 42-yard Manuel jaunt, and five plays to go 34 yards in the second, with Gold getting his third TD on a 19-yard run.

"I don't think we ever let up," said Moshimer. "It was just that if any one of their backs finds a crack, they're gone. That athleticism they have in the backfield just took over the game.

"They've got an arsenal. You shoot one down and they got another one ready to go."

Salem, on the other hand, was weaponless. It might have helped to have starting quarterback Nate Gray, who suffered an arm injury in the previous week's scrimmage (he could return for Friday's game at Northville), available.

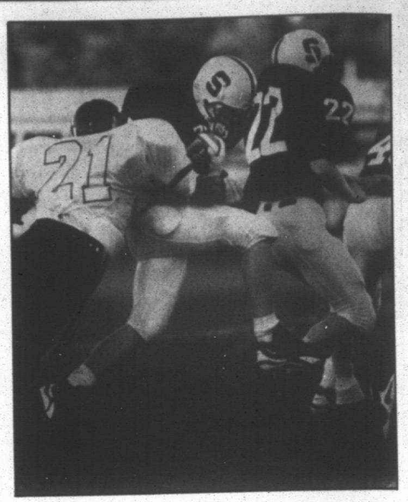

Not because Schmiedel can't throw; because he can't throw and catch. And the latter is what he would be doing (while playing wingback) if Gray were playing. Salem could have used some pass catchers — Rocks receivers dropped five passes in the first half alone.

Salem rushed for 40 yards and Schmiedel completed 3-of-11 passes for 36 yards, suffering two interceptions. The best offensive performance for the Rocks: fullback Matt Johnson, nine carries for 47 yards.

"I'm just going to say, we're not this bad," said Moshimer.

That's one promise that should be easy to keep.

Plymouth Canton's trip to Monroe was also fruitless. The Chiefs lost, 35-14. Canton coach Bob Khoenie was unavailable for comment.

Bounced: Randy Mack (with ball) had a solid night returning kicks and made one catch for 17 yards.

Soph carries Aggies to win

BY NEAL ZIPSER

CATHOLIC

Bill Matti's successor as Redford St. Agatha's tailback has some pretty big shoes to fill.

It appears, however, the shoes of the 1,600-yard rusher will fit like slippers on the feet of sophomore Zac Carino.

Carino, a transfer from Redford Catholic Central, gained 136 yards on 18 carries Friday, leading the Aggies to a 24-6 non-league victory at Livonia Clarenceville.

What makes Carino's performance so remarkable is that it was his first game as a running back. He was a defensive lineman on CC's freshman squad last season.

"I knew Bill was leaving, and that was one of the reasons I came here," Carino said. "I felt a lot of pressure, and I knew I had to play well. But I don't feel any more pressure after tonight."

Carino also excelled on defense as he collected two big sacks and another tackle for a loss in his first game ever at outside linebacker.

Carino had plenty of help from senior quarterback Mike Wilson. The 6-foot-3, 225-pounder scored on runs of 1 and 2 yards and tossed a 10-yard touchdown pass to junior Mike Simpson.

The Aggies opened the scoring, marching 68 yards in seven plays. Agatha had two breaks go its way — once when Carino recovered his own fumble for a 5-yard gain and another when Wilson completed a 20-yard pass to Simpson on fourth down, just before getting drilled by two Trojans.

The drive was capped when Wilson hit a wide open Simpson on a slant pattern from 10 yards. Wilson got the two-point conversion on a bootleg.

Wilson completed four of 10 passes for 61 yards. In total offense, the Aggies held a 223-141 advantage.

After being outgained in offense by 78 yards in the first quarter, the Clarenceville offense showed signs of life in the second quarter. But after driving 71 yards in 11 plays, the Trojans failed to convert on fourth down at the Agatha 9-yard line.

Clarenceville later drove to the Aggies 14, but senior quarterback Rob Ashton was picked off at the goal line by Agatha's Mike Fenbert.

"We played a bend-but-don't-break defense, and they really stepped up when they had to," Agatha coach Gary Tuz said.

Ashton completed only four of 14 passes for 49 yards. Junior Chris Lakner rushed 13 times for 45 yards and Bryan DeCaire gained 37 yards on four runs for the Trojans.

"I was happy with how Rob played, but he still has a lot to learn," Clarenceville coach Chuck Donaldson said. "One thing he's got to learn is to relax and not get so worked up."

The Aggies took advantage of a short kickoff to open the second half, and increased their lead to 14-0 when Wilson scored on a 2-yard sneak. Wilson found Carino in the end zone for the two-point conversion.

The Trojans had another scoring chance when Jim Vallimont recovered a fumbled punt at the Agatha 12. But three plays later they fumbled the ball back to Agatha's Mike Miller.

"We're real young and play with a lot of heart, but there were just a couple of times we couldn't stuff the ball in," Donaldson said.

The Trojans put together a 52-yard drive in nine plays, and closed the margin to 16-6 with 3:48 remaining. The score came on a 1-yard sneak by Ashton.

Clarenceville's on-side kick attempt failed and Agatha capitalized with a 40-yard scoring drive. Wilson's 1-yard sneak and ensuing pass to Simpson for the conversion ended the scoring.

"I think we still have to learn how to win, and I'm not sure how long that will take," Donaldson said. "They'll have to learn that one big play by the other team doesn't beat you."

Tuz was happy after the game with the play of his team, in particular his underclassmen.

"I've been concerned about our youth, particularly in the skilled positions," Tuz said. "We start two freshmen and two sophomores and have a lot of room for improvement. But I'm very pleased with the win."

Zebras blow early lead, tumble to Adrian

FOOTBALL

Wayne Memorial came up short in its season football opener Friday at Adrian, losing to the Maples, 28-18.

The Zebras dominated early, taking a 10-0 first-quarter lead on a 57-yard touchdown pass from junior quarterback Lorenzo Guess to senior receiver Richard Buford. Guess added the two-pointer with 4:15 left in the period on a run.

Mark Kennedy, who recovered an Adrian fumble earlier, came up with a sack for two-point safety to make it 10-0 in favor of the Zebras.

With 2:49 left in the second quarter, after a fumbled Wayne punt return, Adrian's Scott Peshkee scored on a 3-yard run and Brian McCullough added the first of his four consecutive extra points to cut the deficit to 10-7.

On the second play of the third quarter, Adrian took the lead for keeps when Brad Labadie ran a trap and raced in from 57 yards out.

The Maples scored again less than a minute later after another Wayne fumble. Quarterback Mark Bruggeman hit Ed Herr with a 27-yard pass.

Things got only worse for Wayne at the eight-minute mark when Rufus Tindall blocked a Wayne punt and recovered in the end zone.

"We had some missed assignments and we bottomed out once they went ahead," Wayne coach Chuck Howton said. "Once we got down 18 (points), we got our 'dobbers' down."

Here's a few tips on how to get ready for this bowling season

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

The bowling season is suddenly upon us, and perhaps some of us were not quite ready for the new beginning.

Sometimes a word to the wise is a handy thing to do, and while I do not claim to know more than anyone else about the sport, I offer some advice for my fellow bowlers.

Ray Krauter of Ray's Bowling Pro Shop in Westland Bowl says a common problem for those who put the ball away for the Summer is "It doesn't fit right," when they return. The size and span of the holes did not change at all. Your hand did, said Krauter.

The fact is that it may have just shrunk or atrophied a little from lack of bowling for three months. Ray says to get out and throw a few practice games for a couple of days and see if your hand doesn't just stretch right back to where the ball fits the same as it always did.

For those who gained or lost a lot of weight, you may have to have it plugged and re-drilled to fit properly. If your finger or thumb is just a fraction off, it could affect your release and take a lot of pins off your game.

He also suggests that you check the soles of your bowling shoes very carefully if they have been stored with the ball over the summer, as some of the lane oil which gets on the ball could work it's way into the the shoes.

If this happens to you, a good working over with a wire brush or Brillo pad will restore the natural finish and your slide will be as you would expect it to be.

Another thing to do is take an inventory of your supplies, if you use bowlers tape, easy slide or other such items.

Krauter does not recommend the use of a resin bag for bowling, there are better "grip" items on the market than resin bags and much less messy to have around.

If the lanes at first seem to be hooking a lot, or not very much, do not panic. They could have been resurfaced over the Summer and have more than the usual amount of oil to begin the season.

If you bowl in several different houses, you may choose to have a different ball that works best in each place.

I am not suggesting that you must have a dozen different bowling balls, maybe two or three would suffice, but in many cases, a different ball will seem to work better in different conditions. Unless you are a pro, it may take a while to figure it out.

Physically, if you have not bowled for a while, try a little stretching exercise before you hit the lanes.

Another thing you may want to do is keep a record of your scores. Most bowling centers have those pocket size scorecards on the counter and they are free for the taking.

I have kept them up since I started bowling in 1961 and can tell you exactly how many 200 games, 600 series and 700's I have had.

It's really pretty easy, and if you miss a week or so, the secretary has all your scores for the season. If you want to improve your game, the best way is simply to get out and practice, practice, practice.

Many houses have special rates at certain times which makes the practice sessions more affordable, especially if you happen to be a senior citizen. When you are on practice time, don't be shy about experimenting with a different "line."

That's something you may not want to try during league play, so check with your local bowling center on open play, especially for when they would have any special rates.

I suggest a visit to the local pro shop at the beginning of the season. You may want to have your ball professionally sanded or polished, depending on lane conditions.

At any rate it's a good idea to get to know your pro shop operator. He will give you the best advice. If they do any coaching, he may be just the person to see during practice time.

■ There is still time to sign up for the Pro-Am at Taylor Lanes in conjunction with the PBA Greater Detroit Open Pro Tournament. It is a chance to bowl with the pros, win some money, and come away with a new ball, the Red Zone from Brunswick.

Squad times are 1, 5:30, 8 and 10:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6th; also, 2:30, 5, 7:30 and 10 p.m. Saturday Oct. 7.

Youth bowling squads (ages 5-21) will meet at 3:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6.

Hurry up and get in on the action while there are still some spots open, as some of the squads are already full. For further details call (313) 946-9092.

Pontiac Sunfire burns up the road

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. — The news came suddenly and there wasn't time to get another car. The prospect of traveling hundreds of miles from Detroit to northern Tennessee overnight in a small car like the 1995 Pontiac Sunfire didn't seem too inviting.

After all, the Sunfire is a subcompact. And I'm tall. I like to have room when I'm in a car for more than a couple of hours.

Gomer Pyle would have yelled "shazammm!" if he could have driven a Sunfire instead of an Army jeep. Believe it or not, the Sunfire was a pleasant surrrprise, surrrprise, surrrprise, Sgt. Carter, because it logged an incredible 54 miles per gallon on the freeway, significantly higher than the 32 mpg estimate reported by the Environmental Protection Agency for this car. More on that later.

The Sunfire surprised me so much I actually looked forward to the trip back home.

It's new from Pontiac this year, replacing the Pontiac Sunbird (I owned a 1980 Sunbird in college, by the way, and it was a sweet car, too). The Sunfire replaces the Sunbird in the segment, but is clearly all-new from the ground up.

It's truly a Pontiac, with the Firebird's aggressive front end, that cute lighted "Pontiac" nameplate on the rear deck lid and gorgeous styling. It's not too aggressive, however, and can easily be a lady's car.

The Sunfire is powered by a standard 2.2-liter 4-cylinder overhead valve engine outfitted with a smooth shifting 5-speed manual transmission. Driven was the 2-door SE coupe, which is the base model priced at just over $11,000.

It performed well on the trip — which was mostly straight interstate driving. Exiting and entering the highway didn't produce any white knuckles, so it accelerated well, but didn't leave anyone in the dust.

The interior instrumentation is wrapped around the driver — almost to the exclusion of the front passenger. It's got full instrumentation, including a tachometer — sometimes something you only get on those higher-priced sports jobs.

The center console is well planned and includes cupholders, armrest and a side-mounted parking brake. Take out the ashtray, and you've got yet another functional cupholder.

Built in Lordstown, Ohio, and Lansing, Mich. (along with the Chevrolet Cavalier), the Sunfire's rear seating area is nearly non-existent, mostly because taller people tend to flat-out maximize the leg room in front. We jammed a cooler, some snacks, the road atlas and a AAA Trip-Tik (with some bad info), a ton of magazines and the laptop back there and it all seemed comfortable. There are rear heating and air conditioning ducts — also usually found in more expensive cars — for rear passenger comfort.

In the trunk, the two suit bags, a duffel, some toys to bring back for the girls and a few groceries fit nicely. The rear seat folds down, giving you a lot of room. Actually, that's probably the best use for the rear seat — as extra cargo room — and not to carry passengers. Your dog would fit back there, unless he's a German shepherd.

And the glove box: The thing can almost hold a 5-liter box of wine — without the box, though. Pontiac engineers say it's actually 4.9 liters. An average-size ladies purse (not mine, though) could actually fit in there.

Another good thing — the ashtray/lighter area has a little pocket for the lighter to be stored in. You know how annoying it is to hear that little lighter roll around somewhere when you've plugged in the cell phone? Well, this little pocket keeps it secure and out of your way. A nice touch.

Now ... Pontiac engineers say this is impossible. But we don't work for Pontiac so we'll tell you what we found: Our car totaled 54 miles per gallon on flat interstate driving in the neighborhood of 1,100 miles. The test Sunfire was especially fuelish going from Detroit to Dayton ($4 in gas) and from Dayton to Louisville (another $5 in gas).

From Detroit to Clarksville, we had put only $17 in the tank. The ride home cost us $22.75 in gas taking the exact same route.

In all, we paid $39.75 in gas money going from Detroit to Tennessee and back to Detroit. If we had flown, it would have cost more than $1,000 per person.

Official EPA numbers are 24 city and 36 highway. All I know is the car got great mileage.

The Sunfire comes in four flavors: The base SE coupe, the 4-door SE sedan, the 150-horsepower 2.3-liter Quad 4 GT model and the SE convertible.

All come standard with dual air bags, full instrumentation, a rear folding seat, anti-lock brakes, a stainless steel muffler and tailpipes, 100,000-mile spark plugs, a 15.2-gallon fuel tank and power mirrors.

Smart styling and the decent price make this a great small car. And if the base model is this good, imagine what fun the GT or convertible must be.

Anne Fracassa is senior editor of Avanti NewsFeatures.
