Gas franchise prompts deadlock

The Canton Township Board of Trustees is in a deadlock over whether to grant Consumers Power a natural gas franchise. Vacationing Trustee John Burdziak may be the key in a future vote whether MichCon will have local competition.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Township Trustee John Burdziak may hold the future of Consumers Power in Canton in his hands.

With Burdziak on vacation and absent from Tuesday's board meeting, the remaining six board members voted 3-3 on a recommendation to deny Consumers Power a natural gas franchise in Canton. The motion failed for lack of a majority.

Voting to deny the franchise were Trustee Bob Shefferly, Clerk Terry Bennett and Supervisor Tom Yack. Voting to reject the denial were Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter, Trustees Melissa McLaughlin and Phil LaJoy. The board is expected to vote again once Burdziak returns. "I wouldn't stand behind Roberts Rules (of Order) to deny another vote," Yack said. "That's dumb."

Currently, the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. has the sole Canton franchise and opposes Consumers' request.

Consumers already serves natural gas customers in Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Westland and Wayne. However, MichCon has the gas franchise in every other community abutting Canton.

MichCon also has gas lines installed throughout Canton Township and is in position to provide service to future subdivisions and businesses.

Consumers area manager Bill Pike told the board Tuesday that competition between his company and MichCon would benefit everyone. Consumers would attempt to serve the same future customers that MichCon hopes to get.

Foundry honored by Ford

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

A small foundry in Canton is standing up and being counted.

"This plaque is not just for one individual or two, it's for everybody," said Ed Schwall of Ford Motor Co.

Schwall and other Ford representatives presented officials of Metaltec Steel Abrasives, 4155 Joy, with a plaque and flag for successfully passing the rigorous Q-101 audit Thursday.

The Q-101 is a quality audit that Ford uses for its suppliers. Metaltec passed the audit in December 1994. The audit rates a company in 20 areas of its business, including quality systems, customer satisfaction and continual improvement.

"It allows Metaltec to not only continue to fulfill its commitment to its current supply, but to bid on new products," said Martin Schen-

If you're a bowler and always dreamed of going up against a professional, your chance is coming Oct. 29 through Nov. 2 during the Ladies Pro Bowlers Tour — Lady Ebonite Classic — at Super Bowl in Canton.

"It is a nationally televised event. It is a major event on the Ladies Pro Tour," said Randy Gutowski, manager of Super Bowl, 45100 Ford Road.

ESPN will tape the tournament 6-8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 2. This is the first time the Ladies Pro Bowlers Tour has come to Canton.

The event begins with a 9 Pin No-Tap Pro-Am Tournament Sunday, Oct. 29, when amateurs can try their skills among the professionals, such as Aleta Sill of Dearborn, who is the all-time money winner in the women's professional bowling tournaments. Other pros will include Cheryl Daniels, who just won the U.S. Open, and Marianne DiRuppo of Dearborn.

"The amateurs can come in and bowl with three professional bowlers," Gutowski said. "This will bring a lot of visitors to Canton.

The professional tournament will begin Monday, Oct. 30, and run through Thursday, Nov. 2. Men and women bowlers are invited to sign up for the Pro-Am tournament. A separate Pro-Am has been scheduled for youths.

Roseville woman's body found in park

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The naked body of a Roseville woman was found at 10:40 a.m. Friday in the woods near the southeast corner of Hines and Haggerty in Hines Park.

The preliminary autopsy report indicates that Debbie A. Linkewitz, 36, was strangled to death, said Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano.

Linkewitz appears to have been beaten and killed before her body was dumped in the park, Ficano said.

There is no evidence of drug or alcohol use, Ficano said, but a toxicology report, which would indicate that, has not come back yet.

A Roseville police spokesman said Saturday that the Wayne County Sheriff's Department detectives are handling the case.

Tire tracks leading to the vicinity of the body seem to indicate that someone drove off the road and dumped the woman's body out, Ficano said.

The tracks were being examined to determine what kind of vehicle was used to transport the body, Ficano said.

The coroner believes Linkewitz died sometime after 10:40 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 11, Ficano said.

Linkewitz's body was discovered by a pedestrian on a nearby path.

The pedestrian flagged down a passing car.

The car's driver phoned the Parks Division of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, Ficano said.

Linkewitz was last seen, Ficano said, by her sister, Lynn Marie Amy-Linkewitz, on Saturday, Oct. 7, when the two of them patronized the Encounters Lounge in Roseville.

Linkewitz leaves behind a 10-year-old child, Ficano said, who is in the custody of his grandmother.

Two or three other bodies have been found in Hines Park since 1984, said Nancy Mouradian, Ficano's chief of staff.

Newcomers Club offers way to make new friends

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

When Melanie Hopper and her family moved to Canton from St. Louis two years ago, they were pretty much alone.

"We had no relatives, no friends up here," said Hopper, the new president of Canton Newcomers Club.

She had heard about the club and joined. "It got me through my first Michigan winter. It helped me feel at home. I made a lot of friends," Hopper said.

You don't have to be brand new to the area to join the club. But if you are, it's the place to be if you're interested in meeting new people and getting involved in a host of interesting social, civic and charitable activities.

"It's a big misconception that you have to be new. It's not even necessary that you're a Canton resident," said board member Kristy Engle, in charge of publicity.

The Newcomers Club as of June had about 125 members. By September, 13 new members, nine from the new Fairway Pines subdivision hopped aboard.

"The membership has been growing as quickly as Canton is growing," Hopper said. "Canton is a transient community. A lot of people up here don't have friends and family as a support."

The club, which meets at 7 p.m. the first Wednesday of each month at the Sunflower Clubhouse, 45800 Hanford, is designed to acquaint women in the community with each other through many activities. The club also publishes a newsletter.

While club members do things out in the community, there's plenty of activities within the organization. For moms and kids, the club offers a monthly outing, as well as a play group Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays at a member's home. There's also a babysitting cooperative.

While the club helped Hopper meet new friends, it did the same for her two children. "At the time they were both pre-school. The club allowed them to socialize with other kids."

The club also is open to women who stay at home with their children and women who work outside the home. Since she joined, Hopper went out to work and continues to benefit from club activities.

"There really is something for everyone," Engle said. "And it's not just a women's club. But that is all we do see. The men get involved in the couple's social activities.

"It's such a nice way to meet people in all the different subdivisions," Engle continued. "If you have a child, it's a way to learn about all the different schools."

The club also offers a Ladies Night Out, a couple's social event, an arts and crafts night for adults. "We do dinners. They do a variety of things so they can please and attract everyone," Engle said.

At the monthly general meetings, the club has speakers or activities. In October, a line dancing lesson will be given. "We do fun things. We do informative things. We've even done self-defense," Engle said.

Prospective members are allowed two activities before being asked to join. Dues are $20 a year, which includes the summer play groups.

The club also gets involved in charitable efforts. The biggest fundraiser raises money for Community Hospice. Efforts for the fundraiser begin in February. The club also works with First Step. At each meeting, members who bring food, goods or a cash donation are given an extra raffle ticket for the door prize.

The club also was given two names of families who needed help. "Last year we were able to help a young gal go back and get her diploma. You don't think the little things you do can make a difference," Engle said.

Coming up for the club is a yet unscheduled newcomers tea, where new members will get a chance to talk to other members. Also scheduled is a Halloween party for moms and tots on Oct. 27 at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Participants must pre-register by calling 416-8664.

For more information about the club or to join, call Hopper, 451-2297, or membership and welcoming officers, Heidi Bartes, 416-0284; Tracey Cade, 981-4915; Barb Baronaitis, 207-5124; or Deanna Cote, 981-3274.

Field trip mulled

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Students and staff at West Middle School don't know yet whether they'll be going to Toronto on a long-anticipated field trip the weekend of Feb. 28.

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education withheld approval pending answers to questions regarding insurance, and whether it's a field trip directly tied to the curriculum.

"I'm curious about the field-trip designation," said Trustee Mark Horvath. "This is a trip that's going to occur during winter break. What are we doing for kids who can't afford this? I think it's a great thing for kids, but I don't think it's anything that involves us.

"If it's during a time when there is no school, and if it's part of the curriculum and nothing is being done for the other kids, I will vote no," he added.

Trustee Susan Davis also raised questions. "I have the same concern," she said. "There are a considerable (number of) kids who can't afford to go. If this is considered a field trip, it's not fair. It's not happening during regular school time, so why are we voting on this?"

Trustee Jack Farrow likened the trip to a boy scout trip to Isle Royale. "This might fall into the same category," he said.

Tom Tattan, director for instruction, said nothing is being done for students who can't afford to go. "It's supplemental to the curriculum," he said.

Superintendent Charles Little said, "Questions of inequities arise throughout the district. There are those who can pay, and those who can't."

Trustee Carrie Blamer raised questions about insurance. "As the daughter of an isurance agent, I think we should be the named insured, as well as held harmless," she said. Blamer noted that the district is insured "only for $1 million, when a figure of $50 million might be more appropriate. For anything over that $1 million, they can come back to us." Blamer recommended the school district carry insurance of $10 million.

PUBLIC LIBRARY: NEWS AND NOTES

The following are some news and notes from the Canton Public Library.

EVENING BOOK DISCUSSION
The Friends of the Canton Public Library coordinate and host the monthly informal book discussions at 7 p.m. in the library meeting room. No registration is required. The books selected by the group for discussion are: Monday, Oct. 16, "Coma" by Robin Cook; Monday, Nov. 20, "Nobody's Fool" by Richard Russo.

SAND ART
Children in third through sixth grades can create a small sand terrarium at the Sand Art Program. Multi-colored fine sand can be layered to create a beautiful landscape. The class is 4:30-5 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 7, and 7-7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 8, in the youth activity room. Registration begins 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 31, by phone or in person.

AMELIA BEDELIA
Come enjoy Children's Book Week with Amelia Bedelia. This storytime is designed for children in grades one and two and includes stories, songs, refreshments and a chance to help out your friend, Amelia Bedelia. It will be 4:30-5:15 p.m. and 7-7:45 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15, in the youth activity room. Registration begins 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 8, by phone or in person.

THE MACGUFFIN
The MacGuffin is a nationally recognized literary magazine published three times yearly by Schoolcraft College. Original fiction, poetry and graphics from local, national and international sources make up the magazine. Come hear editor Arthur Lindenberg discuss people's dreams of being published and his search for good tales. Also enjoy original author readings from The MacGuffin 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 7, in the library meeting room. Registration begins 9:30 a.m. Monday, Oct. 30, by phone or in person.

Volunteers sought

The maintenance committee of the Heritage Hideout playscape in Heritage Park needs help reinforcing the amphitheater Saturday, Oct. 21.

Volunteers are asked to bring cordless drills and rakes. Other tools will be supplied. Volunteers also will be asked to help put up fence pickets that bear donors' names.

Let the committee know if you are interested by calling Debbie, 981-0814. Work will begin at 8 a.m. and continue until dark.

Economic club

The public is invited to hear Wayne County Commission Chairman Ricardo Solomon speak at the Canton Economic Club at noon Wednesday, Oct. 18.

The luncheon will be at the Summit on the Park community center, just west of Canton Center. Tickets are $15. Reservations should be made by calling Joan Noricks, executive director of the Canton Community Foundation, 981-3002. The foundation hosts the economic club.

Program extended

Canton's current contract for composting pickup services with Canton Waste Recycling has been extended to serve the community through the week of Dec. 10-14. The decision to extend the compost season was made to help residents who are finishing work in their yards this month and into November.

Residents are reminded that the prohibition on plastic bags for compost continues. The compost must be placed in 30-gallon reusable containers and marked "compost" or in 30-gallon brown paper compost bags, which are available at hardware and home improvement stores.

Two final Canton cleanup weekend dates are scheduled in November and December. The program will be held Nov. 10-11 and again Dec. 8-9. The hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays, and 8 a.m. to noon Saturdays. The cleanup is designed to allow residents to bring to the CWR site on Van Born those items not normally picked up during curbside pickup. Residents can also bring recycling materials on those dates.

For more information, call CWR, 397-5801.

Planning commission

The Canton Planning Commission will meet at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 16, in the board meeting room of Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. The meeting is open to the public.

Serving U.S. all in family

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The U.S. military is downsizing nowadays, but not in the Powensky family.

Kari, 18, joined the Navy in June 1995.

All three Powensky kids considered college, their father said, but didn't like what they saw when they visited friends at the University of Michigan and Michigan State University. All the students were "drinking beer and playing volleyball," Powensky said they said. "You go into the dorms and it's party time all the time."

The kids said they'd probably fall in with that crowd, too, then told dad, "We don't want to waste your money."

Employment opportunities were no better. "They went looking for jobs and found all they could do was flop burgers at McDonald's or pump gas at Mobil," Powensky said.

Keith, who graduated from Plymouth Canton High School in 1992, was the first to join.

He is an aviation electronics technician stationed in North Carolina. Recently married, Keith just re-enlisted for five years.

Chris was the second Powensky to enlist, but not before he proceeded a fair distance into Schoolcraft College's culinary arts program.

"I was quite frankly shocked," said Mike Powensky to hear Chris had suddenly joined the Marine Corps. "I know about their boot camp and how hard it is."

"He wanted to prove a point," his mother said.

When Chris returned home for the first time, he had lost 30 pounds, and his parents hardly recognized him. "He looked like he was straight out of Auschwitz," Mike Powensky said.

"I looked at him and thought, 'Oh my God! That's Chris!'" Audrey Powensky said.

Kari graduated from Plymouth Canton this year and went immediately into the Navy. She endured boot camp at Great Lakes Recruit Training Command in North Chicago, Ill., where her nickname was "Polish Sausage." She currently attends cryptologic technician school in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Kari returned home for a surprise visit three weeks ago while her mother was in the bathtub. Mike Powensky took his daughter upstairs and sent her unannounced into the bathroom. His wife, Powensky said, "filled the tub up full of tears."

Does military service run in the Powensky family?

Not exactly.

"I come from a family of 14, and not one went in the service," Audrey Powensky said.

Mike Powensky's father was in the Navy during World War II, and Mike was a ground pounder in the Army 1965-67.

He earned $87 a month in the Army, but chose to return to civilian life, Ford Motor Co., and $97 a week.

Proposed gas tax increase loses support of trustees

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Canton Township trustees unanimously rejected a proposed resolution Tuesday, Oct. 10, to support an increase in the state gas tax.

The resolution was put on the board's agenda at the request of the Conference of Western Wayne, which represents 18 western Wayne County communities.

The state government's 15-cent gas tax has not been raised since 1984.

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack said that any proposed gas tax increase should be put on a statewide ballot. "I happen to think the people should vote on it, even if it's one cent," he said.

Trustee Melissa McLaughlin said the call for a gas tax increase "is premature and possibly could have a negative impact if we vote to approve this resolution at this time."

Trustee Robert Shefferly noted that Canton Township voters have rejected a millage request for road work and therefore probably oppose a gas tax increase, too.

"We already asked our residents what their opinion was, and it seems to be no," he said.

Yack said Wayne County's position paper on the proposed gas tax increase wasn't worth showing to trustees. "I didn't even include it in the packet because it was so biased from the Wayne County point of view," he said.

In other action, the board voted unanimously to do the following:

- Hire Tom's Landscaping and Nursery of Troy for $57,220 to plant trees along Warren, Palmer and Sheldon roads. The U.S. Small Business Administration's Natural Resource Development Program pays 40 percent ($22,888) of the cost. Planting is expected to be finished by Dec. 31. Other bidders were Crimboli Nursery of Canton Township ($102,355), Action Landscape & Sprinkler Systems of Canton Township ($64,448) and Michigan Turf of Taylor ($69,780).
- Pay $18,624 for a 1996 Ford Crown Victoria to be used by an additional building inspector who will work for the Building & Inspection Division of the Municipal Services Department. The township gets a $400 discount on the car under an state government early order incentive program.
- Agree to continue an Office of Drug Control Policy grant that pays the salary and fringe benefits of a police officer to patrol the Canton Commons low-income apartment complex. The grant is for $39,479 and is supplemented by $26,320 from the Canton Township government. The police officer is Keith Lazar, who was recently chosen officer of the year by the Canton Township Rotary Club.
- Pay $11,013 to Pond's Painting to paint the outside of the Travis House, an historic house being restored on Ridge Road. The paint job is expected to be finished by Oct. 31.
- Approve the final plat for the Fairway Pines subdivision No. 2 on 65 acres on the southwest corner of Canton Center and Cherry Hill. Biltmore Properties plans 156 lots with up to three houses per acre.
- Approve the tentative preliminary plat for Woodwind Estates subdivision on 22 acres south of Palmer and west of Lilley. Harmony Homebuilders plans 44 lots with up to three houses per acre. The developer must now gain final preliminary plat and final plat approvals.
- Reappoint Bruce Patterson and John Blumenshine to the Election Board of Canvassers for terms expiring Dec. 31, 1999. The other Board of Canvassers members are Joan Palmer and Daniel Amann.
- Hired Conventional Carpet Installations of Sterling Heights for $3,587.25 to replace tile floors in two cells of the Public Safety Department's lock-up. The current flooring, installed when the building was erected in 1985, is worn out, according to Public Safety Director John Santomauro. The Carpet Workroom of Plymouth bid $6,806.
- Continue to be the pass-through agency for state government grants to the Western Wayne Narcotics Unit.

Chamber program's goal: develop leadership skills

Leadership Canton, sponsored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce, is off and running with its second class.

Nineteen people were selected by a steering committee of chamber members to participate in the program's 1996 class. The nine-month program began with an overnight retreat at Weber's Inn in Ann Arbor. The retreat was sponsored by Detroit Edison, Metaltec Steel Abrasive and Ameritech. The program runs October to May.

"The purpose of the program is to train new and existing leaders of our community for challenges and opportunities," said Linda Shapona, chamber executive director.

"The class will refine their skills and maximize their commitments to the community, organizations and their employers," Shapona continued.

Participants are treated to monthly sessions covering topics such as education, the criminal justice system, government and social services. Field trips, reading and workbooks are part of the program.

As did the first Leadership Canton class, the second one will work on four projects. For more information about the program, call the chamber, 453-4040.

Kids learn how to help at home

Fifth-graders at Hoben Elementary are given the opportunity to put dinner on the table. School counselor Peggy Schneider is holding after-school cooking classes for interested students. Thursday, Oct. 12, marked the first class where students learned to make an easy lasagna meal for their whole family. The second class will be held Thursday, Oct. 19.

For a fee of 50 cents per child, students will:

- Learn nutritional information, as well as what to include in a low-fat, balanced meal.
- Experience group cooperation as they prepare the meal and enjoy eating together.
- Gain confidence in their ability to help around the house.
- Feel a sense of accomplishment as they contribute to the welfare of the family.
- Discuss and use proper table setting and table manners.
- Reinforce sharing of domestic responsibilities by all members of the family.

On the Fridays after their cooking class, the students will host a low-fat luncheon with the food they learned how to prepare. The luncheon menu includes Ray's easy lasagna, orange fluff, carrots and celery sticks and lemonade.

"The rationale for starting the class was helping young people feel like they are helpful, contributing members of their families. Hopefully, the students will gain confidence in their skills and in themselves and foster the sense of giving to others," said Schneider.

Even if the township board approves Consumers' request, the utility must still gain approval from the Michigan Public Services Commission, which is "not easy to get," Pike said. "All we're asking is to be given an opportunity."

MichCon spokesman Paul Ganz argued that Consumers would have to duplicate existing MichCon lines to serve future developments in western Canton Township. This could pose a safety hazard, he said, when construction crews damage gas lines and no one knows whose lines they are. "Common sense tells you that the more stuff you have in the ground the more potential you have for confusion," Ganz said.

Township Engineer Tom Casari agreed. Granting Consumers a franchise "puts another utility out there we have to reckon with every time we go out to do a water or sewer repair," he said.

In a memo to Municipal Services Director Aaron Machnik, Casari said "there would be mass confusion and chaos" if Consumers gets what it's asking for.

Kirchgatter spoke in favor of Consumers. "I don't understand why this board would want to vote to deny this," Kirchgatter said, because the Michigan Public Services Commission has the final say anyway.

Shefferly, who was the only board member to oppose the Consumers franchise at a meeting last month, spoke against it again Tuesday. "I can't see our roads being torn up as a plus," he said. "It just doesn't seem like a good deal right now."

Ganz said the battle for Canton is part of a larger struggle between Consumers and MichCon in the areas where their franchises abut.

MichCon, he said, has obtained franchises in several townships originally served by Consumers alone, including Freedom and Sharon townships in Washtenaw County, Brighton Township in Livingston County, Lyon and Commerce townships in Oakland County.

MichCon has applications pending before the Michigan Public Services Commission to move in on Consumers in Salem, Northfield and Dexter townships in Washtenaw County, Waterloo Township in Jackson County and Unadilla Township in Livingston County.

del, Metaltec quality and manufacturing director. "It is one of the biggest things we've been able to accomplish."

Metaltec manufactures what are known as BBs or steel abrasives that are used in foundries to clean castings that come out of sand moldings. They are also used to peen springs, which are used to improve the life of the springs, Schendel said.

"The basic process is the atomization of molten steel through the use of high-pressure water. The molten steel is dropped onto the water to make the BBs," Schendel said.

The next step for the foundry, which has 42 employees and operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week, is to successfully complete the ISO-9002 audit. "That will allow us to supply the world market," Schendel said.

Passing the Q-101 audit is a coup for the company, which supplies BBs to Ford Motor. The audit is designed to ensure quality among Ford's suppliers. The program was started in the 1980s.

"There was a time in the 1970s when we needed to catch up," Schwall said, referring to quality in the automotive industry. "We persisted and in that persistence I think we've seen better products today."

Metaltec prepared for two years for the Q-101 audit. Preparations included employee training, capital equipment expenditures and internal and external housekeeping.

Metaltec was purchased by its current owners about 4½ years ago. "We saw a lot of potential with it," said Gary Wood of Metaltec. The company also received state training grants to help with its investment of quality and employees. "There are significant investments we are making in people," Wood said.

Production also has increased from 19,000 tons manufactured when the company was bought to about 31,000 tons, Wood said.

"For the adult Pro-Am, it's a guaranteed $100,000," said Diane Voight, who with her husband, Mark, owns Super Bowl. The pro tournament offers a total $75,000 purse, Gutowski said.

Even if you don't want to bowl in the Pro-Am, you can watch not only that competition, but the pro tournament throughout the week. Bleachers will be put up in Super Bowl for visitors.

"They will see some very exciting games," Voight said. "It's going to be fun. You don't have to be a top-notch bowler to participate."

A portion of proceeds from tickets sold to those who want to watch the tournaments will be given to Special Olympics. Everyone who participates in the Pro-Am will be given a special souvenir jacket.

■ 'You don't have to be a top-notch bowler to participate.'

Diane Voight

Voight said Super Bowl pays to bring tournaments to the 60-lane center. "It's important to the community to bring in name events. It's good for community status and bowling center status," Voight said. "Even though you pay, if you don't do a good job, the tournament won't be back. We hope they will return for a yearly tournament."

The Michigan Ladies State Tournament also was at Super Bowl October 1994 through June 1995.

Gutowski and Voight say they guarantee a great time for all participants and visitors. "The pros make sure everyone has a good time. They will walk around and mingle and sign autographs," Voight said, referring to professional bowlers during the Pro-Am.

During the professional tournament, however, silence is expected. "This is their livelihood. These ladies work out daily. They bowl 18 games a day to qualify," Voight said.

Added Gutowski: 'They actually bowl in a week what we bowl in an entire season."

For more information and tickets, call Super Bowl, 459-6070.

Goodfellows dolls available

The Canton Goodfellows will distribute dolls to be dressed in doll clothing by residents 1-5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 19, in Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. The dolls are given to needy Canton children as Christmas gifts.

Dolls that are dressed in handmade outfits will be entered in a judging in early December, said Nancy Spencer, Goodfellows president.

Anyone who wants to participate may pick up dolls from the township hall or may call Spencer for more information, 397-8975.

The last was Mary Evelyn Busby, 39, of Detroit, who was found strangled in the Plymouth Township section of Hines Park a year ago this month.

Busby's husband, Bethel, told police his wife was a crack addict and prostitute.

WORD OF MOUTH

Kissing may be a very good way to express affection, but recent research shows that it also carries the potential to spread gum infection amongst kissing partners. That is the conclusion reached by a new study from Finland's University of Helsinki. Other less likely ways to convey the harmful bacteria from one mouth to another include the shared use of food implements. In light of this new information, couples who are plagued by recurring gum infections should be treated simultaneously by their dentist for the problem. Paying attention to one's own oral hygiene is also a good idea for parents of newborns and young children. Doing so will serve to reduce the chances that unwanted oral bacteria will be passed on to children as a consequence of being kissed by their parents. Gum disease is a particular problem for adults, much more so than cavities. If the problem is allowed to progress, it can lead to the destruction of ligaments and bone structures that hold teeth in place, resulting in teeth lost to advanced gum disease.

Plymouth-Canton band marches off with awards

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

The sun sparkled off the silver and brass instruments as 19 competing bands from across the state performed at the 22nd annual Michigan Invitational Marching Band Tournament at Atwood Stadium in Flint on Sunday, Oct. 8.

Host band Flushing High School performed in exhibition. Bands competed in Flights I, II, III and IV which are determined by the enrollment size of the school, not the size of the band.

Marching off with a bevy of awards, the 180-member Plymouth-Canton Marching Band once again swept the field of competitors taking all four caption awards in Flight I competition for Best Percussion, Best Winds, Best Marching and Maneuvering and Best Color Guard.

The band's performance of "Prophecy of the Earth" additionally captured the first-place trophy for Flight I competition and the Governor's Trophy for overall highest score of 89.1.

The Governor's Trophy was established in 1975 as a traveling award that represents the governor's support of high school marching bands.

Second place in Flight I competition went to Troy Athens with a score of 71.0. Carman-Ainsworth from Burton took third place with 47.6 points. Fourth place went to Grand Blanc with a score of 45.3 and Saginaw Heritage High School took fifth with 40.4 points.

Of the seven bands in Flight II competition, Lakeland from White Lake took first place with a score of 82.4 along with Flight II caption awards for Best Marching and Maneuvering and Best Color Guard. Second place went to Harrison from Farmington Hills with a score of 81.5 and caption awards for Flight II Best Percussion and Best Winds. A score of 63.2 brought Farmington High School the third-place award.

In spite of the impressive win by the Plymouth-Canton band, members and band directors didn't feel it was their best performance so far, although freshman bass clarinetist Erica Davis had to admit, "I feel pretty good about winning."

Associate director Pat Ruddy said, "It was actually a very tough week because of the rain and we put in a lot of changes. Some of the new stuff we worked on turned out real good and some of the old stuff we hadn't reinforced wasn't so good. It wasn't up to our potential so we'll go home and try to work on that."

Lara Nagy, a junior bass clarinetist, admitted, "We could have really done a lot better."

In spite of the performers' feelings, the Plymouth-Canton show still wowed the appreciative audience and, apparently, the judges as well.

Undaunted by a performance that may not have been up to the high Plymouth-Canton standards, the self-critics already have plans for next time.

The consensus was, "We're going to do a lot better. We're going to do really good. We're going to get focused and we're going to work really hard. We're going to win!"

Ruddy admitted that it was not at all unusual to have a down time. "I told the kids it wasn't our best but we'll take it and learn from it," he said.

What are his plans for this week?

"Practice hard!"

Lots of thanks: Don Dignan, director of the Plymouth-Canton Vietnam Veterans Chapter 528, couldn't be happier with the results of a fund-raiser at Lighthouse Car Wash on Ford Road in Canton. Dignan thanked owner Mike Neubauer, who lent the facility to the vets to raise money for groups such as Canton Literacy Council, Salvation Army, Michigan Homeless Veterans Foundation, the VVA Scholarship Fund and VA Hospitals. In the photo, (from left) vets John Bresnahan, Bill Hayes, Dale Luebke and Joe Agius, wash cars. The chapter raised just under $1,100.

Musicians show their stuff, garner second-place honors

SPECIAL WRITER

"I feel great!" said trumpet player Dave Hester, a sophomore at Plymouth Salem High School.

That pretty much summed up the sentiments of the 180 members of the Plymouth-Canton High School Marching Band when they captured second-place honors at the Bands of America Mideast Regional Championships Saturday at the University of Toledo's Glass Bowl stadium in Ohio.

Preliminary competition started at 8 a.m. on a recent Saturday for 30 of the region's top high school marching bands from Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois and New York. By the opening of the evening's finalist competition, the field had been narrowed down to 10 of the highest scoring bands. Judging was based on music performance, visual performance, general effect music and general effect visual.

The final performances from the 10 bands were seven- to 11-minute presentations of moving musicals, dramatic and interpretive dance, creative color and costuming, and demanding marching maneuvers.

Although still nearly two minutes short of completing their program, the Plymouth-Canton band seized the second-place position with a total point score of 83.45, edging out last year's Bands of America Grand National Champions, Marian Catholic from Chicago Heights, Ill., with a score of 83.25. Top score of 87.5 went to Lake Park High School from Roselle, Ill.

Fourth through 10th places went to Webster High School, Webster, N.Y., 82.45; West Genesee, Camillus, N. Y., 81.55; Mona Shores, Muskegon, Mich., 77.3; Farmington Harrison, Farmington, 73; Reeths-Puffer, Muskegon, Mich., 72.45; Westerville North, Westerville, Ohio, 72.05; and Lakeland, White Lake, Mich., 71.55.

"They did a great job tonight," said Plymouth-Canton band Director David McGrath, of his award-winning performers. "They're catching fire. The level of improvement in the last two days, just from this afternoon's performance until tonight, was absolutely astounding. I've never seen a group improve that much in one day."

He attributed the improvement to the dedicated hard work of the band members and a goal orientation toward learning rather than winning.

"As long as the kids are giving 100 percent all the time and as long as they're learning along the way, then we're successful," McGrath said. "What place we take, it just doesn't matter. But the thing is, the placement and the success and all that just falls into place when everything else is being focused upon in the right way."

That dedication and philosophy were echoed among members of the band after the awards ceremony.

"We were totally into our show," said Eric Riddering, a tenor saxophone player and junior at Plymouth-Salem. "We totally knew what we were doing."

Jail and Bail

JIM JAGDFELD/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Test for auto emissions goes the way of the Edsel

State Capitol capsules:

Motorists in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties won't have to give their cars annual auto emissions tests (AETs) after Dec. 31.

Gov. John Engler and Secretary of State Candice Miller called the 10-year-old program "misguided." Drivers pay $10 for the tests before they can get their vehicle registration tabs for the license plates.

Some 1,400 AET test stations, mostly run by auto service stations, will be shut down. Some 1.3 million vehicles a year have been tested.

Safety course

Snowmobile owners in southeastern Michigan can get a free home study course from the Department of Natural Resources.

To earn a certificate, operators must complete two-hour courses, class review and test. The study packet can be obtained by calling DNR's southeastern Michigan district headquarters 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 16-30 at (313) 432-1285.

The review and test will be held at 9 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 12, at the Lake Erie Metropark nature center, 32481 W. Jefferson, Rockwood.

License break

Nonprofit recycling centers can receive a financial break on license plates under PA 129, recently signed into the law by the governor.

Rep. Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, sponsored the measure at the urging of the Rev. John Toth of the Presbyterian Church of Dimondale. Recyclers now will pay $10 for the state "Y" plate for license plates for nonprofit organizations. The special plate is valid for five years.

Currently, recycling centers pay an average of more than $50 for auto plates and $96 for truck plates. The law is already in effect.

Burial benefit

Families of employees who die as a result of work-related injuries would get greater workers' compensation under a Fitzgerald-sponsored bill passed by the House and sent to the Senate.

House Bill 4500 increases the maximum allowable burial expense to $6,000 from $1,500, a figure set in 1969. "While burial expenses have continued to increase, the compensation for families of deceased workers has not," Fitzgerald said.

Big collection

August collections from 13 of Michigan's major taxes were 5.5 percent above collections in August of 1994, the Senate Fiscal Agency reported.

Collections were $1.3 billion. Unemployement in the summer months was 5.1 percent versus an even 6 percent in the summer of 1994.

Changes made to zoning standards

Canton Township trustees unanimously approved several changes to the township's zoning ordinance Sept. 26.

The changes include the following:

■ Dead-end streets, previously limited to 300 feet in length, may now be 700 feet long, unless the subdivision has a minimum lot size of one acre or a density of one house per acre. In that case, dead-end streets may be 1,000 feet long.

■ Regarding fast-food restaurants, the following requirement was approved: "Accessory uses and facilities, including but not limited to interior or exterior playgrounds, shall be architecturally integrated with the primary structure, and the height and bulk of said use or facility shall be dimensionally in proportion to the primary structure."

■ The existing requirement for a minimum of 50 percent face brick on residential buildings has been extended to include commercial and office buildings. And the following sentence was added: "The office portion of an industrial/warehouse building shall be a minimum of 75 percent face brick."

■ "Utility substations" were added to the list of things that must be screened from view by evergreens on at least three sides. However, "specific screening requirements for utility substations will be determined on a case-by-case basis by the township depending on the particular character of the area where the substation is proposed to be located."

Finances given 5-day review

A Pennsylvania-based management consulting company is conducting a five-day review of Canton Township's finance operation.

Township trustees voted unanimously Oct. 3 to hire Bartell and Bartell to work with Michigan-based Plante & Moran, Canton's auditor, to do the job.

Although "we had already been talking about doing something" to fine-tune the township's money-handling apparatus, said Administrative Services Director Dan Durack, the recent resignation of Financial Services Manager Susan Kopinski made the time ideal for such a review.

If Bartell and Bartell recommends changes in the financial services manager job — which now includes supervision of accounting, purchasing, water billing and payroll — a replacement for Kopinski can be hired after the changes are made, Durack said.

Bartell and Bartell were to begin interviews with eight to 14 township employees, including Kopinski, who is serving out her notice. Kopinski took a job with county government at Metro Airport.

In a letter to Durack, Bartell client services director Victor Dickinson said the project should take no more than five days to complete and cost taxpayers no more than $6,000.

Bartell conducted a similar study for Canton Township in 1989, Durack said, but studied the entire township operation.

This study is "a small follow-up of just finance," Durack said.

Radio station to observe 25th anniversary

WSDP, 88.1-FM, will celebrate its 25th anniversary in 1997. Plans are under way for a celebration that will reunite staff members.

The station is owned and operated by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The station signed on the air Feb. 14, 1972.

"Hundreds of staff members have passed through WSDP's studios since 1972," said Bill Keith, station manager. "I know many of them feel a special tie with the station and would look forward to getting together with old friends."

WSDP's management is compiling an alumni mailing list. Former staff members or family should send current addresses to the station. Please include year of graduation. Address all correspondence to: WSDP, 46181 Joy Road, Canton, MI 48187, Attn: 25th Anniversary Reunion.

"Our record of former staff members is incomplete. We especially need to hear from staff members that were with the station from 1972-78," said Keith. "We would appreciate any help in tracking down addressess."

Former staff members can contact the station at 416-7732.

Bank or Credit Union: What's best for you?

Each October credit unions all around the world celebrate International Credit Union Week. What's all the fuss? After all, isn't a credit union just like a bank?

In short, the answer is no.

Last year alone, over 90,000 people in Michigan joined a credit union for the first time. At the end of last year, more than 3.8 million Michigan citizens (more than 40% of the state's entire population) were credit union members. Why? The quick answer is that credit unions are—for most people, most of the time— a better deal than banks.

Is there really any difference among financial institutions? Consumer groups, such as the Consumer Federation of America, have for years been advising consumers to join a credit union. A recent study on bank and credit union fees done by the Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) starkly demonstrates some of the differences between credit unions and banks.

The contrast in the PIRG study of fees for a range of services is quite striking. Need to stop payment on a check? The average fee at a bank is $13.57 while credit unions charge $8.01. Covering an overdraft check? The average bank fee is $14.43 while the average credit union charges $5.52. "No fee" checking? The bank average is a $2.94 monthly charge with 9 free checks and then 20¢ per check. The credit union average is 27¢ monthly charge with 19 free checks and then 1¢ per check. Some difference.

"The bankers still have their hands buried deep in our wallets," stated Ed Mierzwinski, Director of the PIRG Consumer Program. "Consumer bank fee increases once again defied gravity, rising at twice the inflation rate from 1993 to 1995." Mierzwinski cited the rising cost of an interest-bearing NOW checking account. In 1990, a consumer had to leave a $135 balance in his interest-earning NOW checking account to cover fees. By 1993, that had risen to $725. By mid-year 1995, the required balance had reached $1,123.

Then there are the rates for savings and loans. According to June 1995 figures, banks charge 9.56% for new car loans while credit unions charged 8.49%. Banks charged 18.21% for credit card loans and credit union charged 13.14%. For savings, banks paid 4.92 on a one year certificate and credit unions paid 5.97%. The numbers go on and on in that fashion. It is no surprise that educated consumers often chose credit unions as their primary financial institution.

The reason for this difference lies in the different structures and purposes of banks and credit unions. Banks are businesses created to make money from their customers and give it to their stockholders. Credit unions are member-owned financial cooperatives which exist to provide services. Any money earned beyond the cost of operation just goes back to the members, usually through lower interest on loans, higher interest rates on savings, or lower service fees.

There are times for banks, of course. Credit unions serve individuals but most don't serve business. If you are a corporation seeking a line of credit, a business wanting a loan to build inventory or developer seeking a few million to construct a new subdivision, credit unions won't be much help. If, however, you just want a car loan, a checking account, an ATM card or other individual services, you might want to look into a credit union.

1994 BANKS VS. CREDIT UNION FEE COMPARISONS

Fee Type	Average bank fees (including 0's/no fee)[1]	Average credit union fees (including 0's/no fee)[2]
Nonsufficient funds/NSF (for check returned)	$18.03	$13.95
Overdraft (for check covered)	$14.43	$5.52
Stop-payment	$13.57	$3.01
ATM Issuance	$1.33	$ .65
Annual ATM	$4.43	$ .63
Cashiers check	$2.86	$1.31
Money order	$1.79	$ .84
Certified check	$6.02	$1.85

FACTS ABOUT CREDIT UNIONS

(Statistics based on 1994 year end NCUA call reports)

Membership:
Michigan credit unions have 3.8 million members, which means more than one out of every three Michigan citizens is a credit union member. Nationally, over 67.4 million Americans belong to a credit union. To find out about joining a credit union, call 1-800-474-JOIN.

Assets:
In the past decade, assets held by Michigan credit unions have grown from $4 billion to over $14.8 billion. Across the nation, credit union assets have reached over $298.9 billion.

Insurance:
All Michigan credit unions are insured by the federal government up to $100,000 per member account through the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund (NCUSIF) administered by the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA). The credit union insurance fund is the safest of all federal deposit insurance programs. It is fully funded by the credit unions themselves and has never needed, accepted or borrowed a cent of taxpayer money.

Loans:
Although each Michigan credit union establishes a loan policy tailored to the needs of its members, certain general trends are evident. Only one half of one percent of loans from Michigan credit unions can be classified as "commercial" in nature.

What makes you so special?

To your friends and relatives, it could be just about anything - your dimples, those freckles on your nose, the way you use your hands when you talk. We like those things about you, too. But when you belong to a credit union, you're special for an entirely different reason. You're a member, the keystone of our business. Every product we offer, every service we provide, is carefully crafted to meet your unique needs. You can expect a degree of personal attention and a dedication to your satisfaction far greater than you'd receive at any other banking institution. Because your credit union isn't simply a place you bank. It's where you belong.

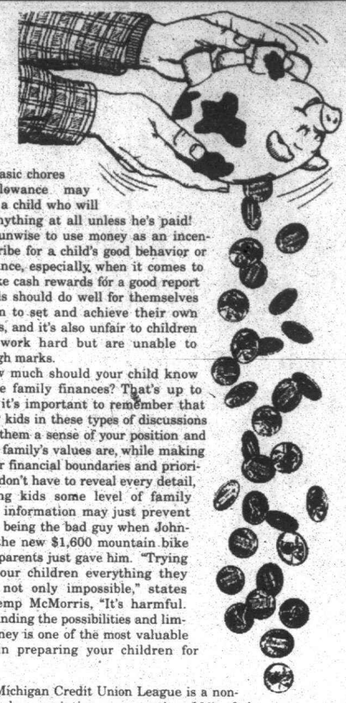
TEACHING KIDS ABOUT MONEY



With the new school year in full swing, children throughout Michigan are studying everything from computer science to English literature to international economics. But how about those practical life skills that schools can't always impart to their students?

—"The importance of education has never been more important," says Allan Kemp McMorris, Chairman of the Board for the Michigan Credit Union League (MCUL). "So much is being demanded of schools these days that it's usually up to parents to help their kids understand the ABC's of money - one of the most important lessons in life," McMorris says.

Allan Kemp McMorris

Teaching basic money management skills to children has never been more critical, according to McMorris. Statistics indicate that teenagers alone spend more than $80 billion a year, yet fewer than half (42%) know the basics about credit, checking, savings accounts or auto insurance. "Children who are taught early to become regular savers and responsible borrowers are far better prepared for adulthood than those who are not exposed to basic financial concepts," according to expert Bobbie Shocket Lazarz, Director of Member Education for the CUNA Mutual Insurance Group (CMG).

MCUL and CMG have developed the following tips and guidelines for parents who want to teach their children about money.

Under Age 5

Set up a coin bank at home to help the little ones learn how to identify different coins and how to count money. Introduce the concept of money by giving children small change to spend occasionally when you go to the store. Set limits on the type of item to be purchased in order to save time and minimize conflict.

Ages 5 to 10

This is the time to begin a weekly allowance program to offer hands-on money management experience. Set down the terms of the allowance - how much, and when it will be distributed. Saving habits for youngsters of this age group are reinforced by reaching goals, so encourage the child to save for, and then buy something he really wants. Another good technique is setting up three coin banks, labeled "Spend," "Save" and "Share." Encourage children to contribute a portion of their allowance and cash gifts to each of the coin banks. When the "Save" bank is full, take the child to your local credit union or bank to open an account. Many financial institutions have special programs for children; be sure to inquire. The "Share" money could be contributed periodically to a charity or nonprofit organization of the child's choice.

Ages 11 to 14

Bring children on shopping trips to show them what things cost. Let them help compare product quality, prices, return policies and warranties. Encourage children to use their own savings to buy "beyond the basics" clothing and accessories. Warn them against the dangers of impulse shopping. At this age, encourage your kids to take on odd jobs, such as babysitting, yard work or pet care, to earn extra money. These should be tasks beyond the realm of a child's regular household duties. This is also a good age to introduce the concept of investments. Consider purchasing a share or two of stock in a company the child picks (perhaps Disney or Mattel!) and then monitor progress together by checking the daily newspapers.

Ages 15 to 18

Start discussing savings plans with your children to cover larger goals, such as the purchase of a car, or the child's contribution to his college fund. You might set up a seasonal clothing allowance for kids in this age range. This fund should be separate from regular allowance; after setting spending guidelines and limits, let the child make his or her own choices. Consider helping your teen to open a share draft or checking account, if he has shown adquate signs of fiscal responsibility. You might also consider letting him use your credit card, or co-signing for a card in the teen's name, again based on your own judgment of his readiness.

Other Tips

When it comes to allowances, use your financial situation and your child's maturity level as guidelines. Spell out the details on paper, so there's no confusion. If a child overspends, do not reimburse him. Do review the terms of the allowance agreement periodically to see if adjustments are needed. Do not link the allowance to the performance of regular household duties. Children ought to contribute to the household simply because they are members of it; linking basic chores with allowance may result in a child who will not do anything at all unless he's paid! It's also unwise to use money as an incentive or bribe for a child's good behavior or performance, especially, when it comes to things like cash rewards for a good report card. Kids should do well for themselves and learn to set and achieve their own standards, and it's also unfair to children who do work hard but are unable to attain high marks.

How much should your child know about the family finances? That's up to you, but it's important to remember that including kids in these types of discussions can give them a sense of your position and what the family's values are, while making clear your financial boundaries and priorities. You don't have to reveal every detail, but giving kids some level of family financial information may just prevent you from being the bad guy when Johnny sees the new $1,600 mountain bike his pal's parents just gave him. "Trying to buy your children everything they want is not only impossible," states Allan Kemp McMorris, "It's harmful. Understanding the possibilities and limits of money is one of the most valuable lessons in preparing your children for life."

The Michigan Credit Union League is a nonprofit trade association representing 90% of the state's credit unions. Some 3.8 million people, or 40% of Michigan's population, are credit union members. CUNA Mutual Insurance Group is owned by credit unions and their members in 52 countries. It provides policy owners with innovative insurance and finance-related products, and is the leading provider of credit insurance in the world.

SAVINGS MYTH

"You probably say it every time a paycheck comes: "Next time, I'm going to set aside some money for a rainy day." It's a sincere yet oft-broken promise we make to ourselves whenever we look at the state of our savings accounts and think about that summer cottage, a shiny new car or school tuition for the little one. Saving money isn't a habit everyone is born with; it's a skill you need to cultivate.

Start with desire and a positive frame of mind and then consider this common misconception about saving money outlined in a recent edition of "Everybody's Money," the consumer publication for members of America's credit unions.

Never spend saved money - it should stay in a savings account.
Funny thing about money - the only thing you can actually do with it is SPEND IT! The question then becomes when to spend it, on what, and how much should be spent. Would it better to buy that new suit with your credit card and pay interest on your purchase, or would you rather cover the cost from money you set aside awhile back for that very purpose? That $50 you've been socking away every month will get spent eventually, and if you don't spend it in your lifetime, someone else will get the chance to do so. The point of saving money is to spend it at some point in time.

Five Ways to Find a Credit Union To Join

If you already belong to a credit union, you know about the exceptional financial services and treatment you find there. If you don't belong, or know friends or family members who don't belong to a credit union, but would like to, here's how to find a credit union to join:

1. Ask the boss. Often you'll find out when you're hired that the company sponsors its own credit union, or is a Select Employee Group (SEG) that provides access to an existing credit union. Employers consider the credit union an employee benefit that help workers avoid financial problems and build savings, while being able to borrow money at fair rates. Many employers offer direct deposit of part or all of your paycheck to the credit union. This services helps you save regularly, make efficient deposits to your checking account and even make loan payments.
2. Poll your family members. If your employer doesn't sponsor a credit union, perhaps your spouse's employer does. Or a parent, brother or sister, or child might work at a company sponsoring a credit union. Most credit unions allow credit union members' families to join the credit union also.

Different credit unions may define "family," differently though. At some, members of your immediate family—spouse, parents, and children—are eligible. At other credit unions, family may include extended family members, like cousins, uncles, and aunts.

Full-family membership makes it possible to introduce your children to prudent money management using credit union services at an early age. And, sharing a credit union account with your spouse makes household money management practical and convenient.

3. Quiz the neighbors. Many credit unions have a "community" field of membership, serving a region defined by geography rather than by employment or some other association. Ask friends in the community if they know of a credit union you may join.
4. Read the yellow pages. Some credit unions never or rarely advertise, so you might not know about them unless you look them up in the phone book. (Although word of mouth is a powerful messenger for credit unions, too.)

And, sometimes a credit union that originally served only employees of a meat-packing plant, for example, expands its field of membership to other companies over the years.

A credit union with an expanded field of membership often changes its name to signal its new "field." But don't assume that the credit union that always served, say, air force base employees still only serves base employees.

A yellow pages display ad may state a credit union's field of membership. If not, at least you'll know what number to call to ask about membership eligibility.

5. Call us. The Michigan Credit Union League, offers a service to help you find a credit union by calling (800) 474-JOIN. You'll hear an electronic message that asks for some information that will enable us to help you find a convenient credit union you are eligible to join.

Credit unions are for everyone, but the law places some limit on the people each may serve. The federal or a state government grants a credit union's charter, which defines its "field of membership." That may be an employer, a church, a school, or a community.

Anyone working for an employer that sponsors a credit union, for example, is eligible to join that credit union.

The point is, many folks in the United States are eligible to join a credit union but don't realize it.

To them, "welcome to the wonderful world of credit unions!"

CHEF LARRY JANES

Farm-raised catfish is utterly delicious

I'll admit that I'm a bit prejudiced about Great Lakes fish. I grew up in Wyandotte, and when we didn't have tuna noodle casserole on Fridays, Momma either pan-fried fresh Lake Erie perch or we piled into the 1962 Chevy Nova and headed for the perch fish fry at the local Dom Polski hall.

When perch wasn't on the dias, there was always a large fillet of walleye, or a couple of pounds of bass or lake trout buried in the freezer. All of the fish was caught in an old 13-foot Fiberglass boat that was originally aqua, and now painted red. If memory serves me correctly, Dad won the boat in an all night card game at Uncle Johnnie's house.

Many an early morning five a.m. alarm sounded to wake me so that I was ready and waiting to help Dad hook up the boat to the car for the five minute drive to the Wyandotte boat docks. Then there was a 20 minute boat ride to where the Detroit River opens its mouth and empties into Lake Erie. When we caught an occasional channel catfish or carp, it was immediately thrown back with absolutely no desire to eat. My, how times have changed.

Aqua culture

With the advent of aqua culture (the science of raising water-based animals in a controlled environment) every time I walk into my local fish market or grocery store, I'm noticing a bigger space being afforded catfish. Rightfully so, I guess, because the U.S. government calls aqua culture "the fastest growing segment of U.S. agriculture."

None of this is more evident than seeing millions of acres upon acres of catfish ponds viewable from 20,000 feet while flying over Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama. More catfish is produced in the United States on a yearly basis than all other farm-raised fish combined. Furthermore, catfish consumption has more than doubled since 1985 with the average man, woman and child consuming more than a pound per person, per year. I'll admit to the fact that I ate (with the emphasis on "ate" and not "enjoyed") a channel catfish on my last fishing expedition with the boys. But up until recently, the thought of purchasing catfish for dinner from my local fish monger never really crossed my mind.

Mike McNamara, owner of the Plymouth Fish Market sells 25-40 pounds of catfish per week and claims that his western-suburban market is beginning to prefer catfish over cod, mainly for the light flavor, no smell and excellent pricing.

"Cod and scrod are getting more difficult to obtain and when I do get my hands on them, the price is getting higher and higher" said McNamara who was frying up a batch of catfish for a waiting Unysis employee on his lunch hour when I called. McNamara also said "the secret to preparing good catfish is not to overcook it."

The Plymouth Fish Market suggests customers quickly pan-fry catfish fillets that have been lightly dusted with bread crumbs or seasoned flour in a little butter or oil.

Dietary differences

So what is it that makes farm-raised catfish the preferential choice of fish consumers? One of the main differences between farm-raised catfish and wild catfish is their living conditions.

Farm-raised cats are raised in a quality controlled environment of clay based ponds filled with fresh water pumped from underground wells. Farm-raised cats are fed a "gourmet diet" of puffed, high protein food pellets (a mixture of soybean, corn, wheat, vitamins and minerals) that give the fish a very mild, almost sweet taste. Because the food pellets are "puffed" they float, giving farm-raised catfish a cleaner food source, unlike their distant cousins, notoriously known as "bottom feeders."

After 18 months from hatchery to pond, the fish are harvested with seine nets and loading baskets and are transported alive to processing plants in aerated tank trucks. Once they reach the processing plants, the whole production takes less than 30 minutes from start to finish. Approximately 50 percent of the crop is frozen for agricultural export while the remaining is packed on ice and air freighted to your nearest wholesaler who then distributes his catch to local markets and fish mongers.

BUSY MOM BRINGS HOME LIGHT Pasta

STORY BY KEELY WYGONIK • STAFF WRITER

Rush – that's what most of us do. And after we've survived the rush hour – there's another rush – making dinner.

"Pasta is a good choice for busy families," said Rose Reisman, author of "Rose Reisman Brings Home Light Pasta," (Robert Rose, Inc.; September 1995; $16.95). "It's economical and versatile."

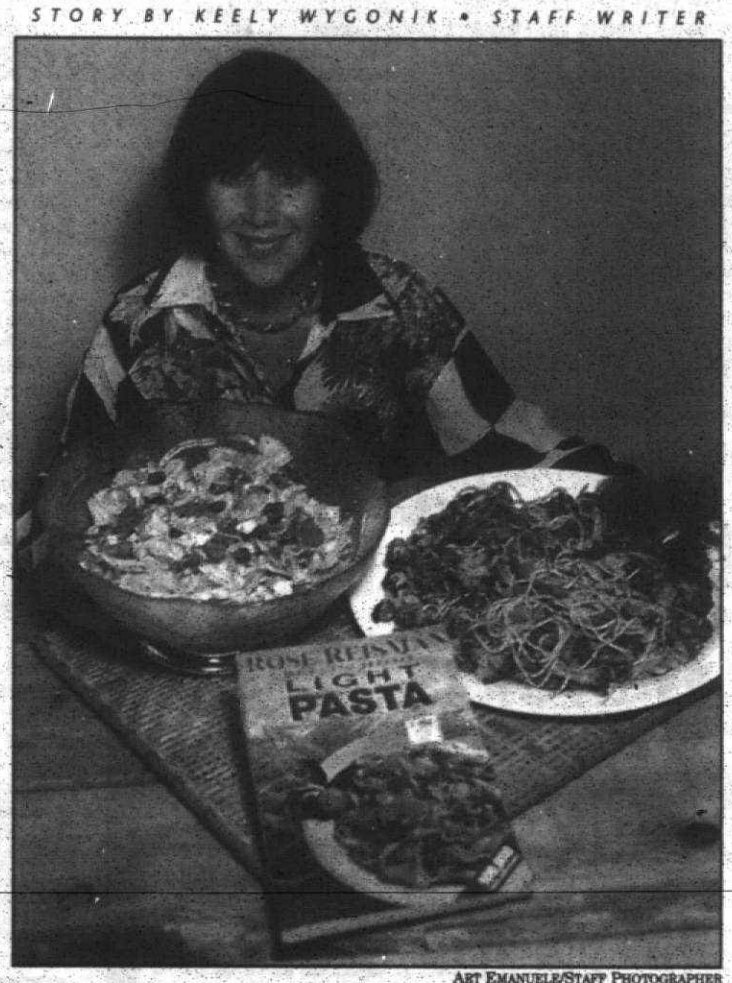
Married, and the mother of four children ages 4, 7, 9 and 11, Reisman takes readers beyond spaghetti and lasagna with healthy dishes that can be prepared in 30 minutes or less.

"You can make the pasta the night before," she said during a visit to the Observer & Eccentric offices in Livonia. "But rinse it in cold water. Coat it with three tablespoons of cooking water or sauce. You can store it at room temperature, or put it in the refrigerator. After work, cover the bowl with Saran wrap and microwave on high for one minute. If you put the pasta in the refrigerator the night before, it could take a little longer to reheat. Heat the sauce and toss with the pasta."

Generous servings of tips make Reisman's book even more appetizing. Every chapter and recipe has them.

There are tips for stocking a pasta pantry, preparing soup, salads, fish, chicken, meat, and vegetables. Very busy cooks will appreciate the make ahead recipe suggestions.

"One of the mistakes people make when they cook pasta is they don't use enough water, and they don't wait until the water boils to add the pasta," she said. "Cook pasta in a large pot of boiling water. Use 12-16 cups water for each pound. Cook pasta "al dente,' or firm to the bite. Do not add sauce to pasta until just ready to serve, or pasta will absorb the sauce, leaving the appearance of not enough."



ART EMANUELE/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Pasta light: Cookbook author Rose Reisman presents some of the pasta dishes featured in "Rose Reisman Brings Home Light Pasta."

Reisman also encourages readers to try different shapes of pasta. "They taste differently," she said.

These recipes are low in fat, but yet many contain a sprinkling of cheese. "They're allowed," she said. "I don't use diet cheese in my recipes. I find that people who use diet products are not satisfied and they're binging somewhere else. It's OK to keep fat in your diet, but keep it to a minimum."

Her suggestions include sauteeing chicken in a non-stick pan sprayed with vegetable oil. Using Cheddar, feta, goat, Swiss and other strong cheeses in recipes. "Most Greek salads have eight ounces of feta cheese on them. Two ounces is plenty," she said. "In light pasta cooking, the key is lowering the amount of cheese used, not eliminating it."

Her passion for light cooking stems from her belief that lifestyle and eating habits play significant roles in health for all ages.

REISMAN TAKES READERS BEYOND SPAGHETTI AND LASAGNA WITH HEALTHY DISHES THAT CAN BE PREPARED IN 30 MINUTES OR LESS.

"My children eat very little meat, and they'll be a lot healthier," she said.

"Englightened," is the word Reisman prefers to use when talking about low fat cooking. "Everyone is so used to hearing low fat and light. This is about substituting great flavor for fats."

A portion of proceeds from the sale of "Light Pasta" will go to the Y-ME National Breast Cancer Organization, a Chicago based non-profit organization whose patient advocacy programs have provided information and support for breast cancer patients and their families for 15 years. Call 1-(800)-221-2141 for more information.

A resident of Toronto, Reisman holds masters of fine arts and business administration degrees. In 1991 she launched the "Rose Reisman Brings Home" series which includes "Spa Desserts," "Pasta Dishes," and "Light Cooking," and began raising money for the fight against breast cancer. Through the "Rose Reiseman Brings Home" series, North American breast cancer groups have received more than $275,000 in funding to raise awareness, support women with cancer and aid in research.

COOKING TIPS

- Prepare the sauce while the pasta is cooking. Plan ahead so the sauce will be completed at the same time the pasta is cooked.
- If reheating leftover pasta, add more stock or tomato sauce to provide extra moisture.
- Use meat sauce with larger, heavier pastas, such as rigatoni, large shell pasta or tortellini.
- If vegetables are to be cooked in advance for a pasta dish, they can be steamed, microwaved, blanched or boiled. Stop cooking vegetables when they are tender-crisp and still retain their color. Drain and rinse with cold water to prevent overcooking. Add to pasta. Overcooked vegetables are dull and soft, and most of the nutrients are lost.
- After cooking manicotti or cannelloni pasta shells, drain, rinse with cold water and cover until ready to use. To stuff easily, slice shell to open and lay flat. Place some filling over top shell, close and place seam side down in baking dish. These shells can be refrigerated up to 1 day ahead, then baked.
- Cook tomato sauces, covered, on low-medium heat, to avoid letting the liquid evaporate. If the sauce appears too thick when reheating, add more stock, water or pureed canned tomatoes.
- Plum tomatoes are the best tomatoes for making a fresh tomato sauce. They are drier and meatier and make a denser, more flavorful sauce.

FOCUS ON WINE
BY RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

Spanish wine myths need to be dispelled

Spain, one of the world's great wine regions, has remained in hiding due to ethno-centric traditions, lack of capital and bulk wine production. A Civil War that ended as World War II was beginning in Europe, destroyed the Spanish economy. Low-yielding wine grapes, those that made the best wines, were ripped out in favor of lesser varietals with higher yields. Only a decade ago, Spain was Third World status with its wine industry dominated by co-ops and negotiants. But much has changed. Prized estate wines are being recognized and myths about Spanish wines need to be dispelled.

Images of Spain's sand and sun may make you think that Spain is hot. Actually, more than half of Spain falls within Continental and Atlantic climactic influences and is cool. Vineyard altitudes average over 2,000 feet. Great grapes are grown at cooler, higher elevations.

Much of what the world knows about the best Spanish wine estates comes through the efforts of Steve Metzler and his Seattle-based company Classical Wines of Spain. His internationally known wine portfolio is recognized for integrity. We caught up with Metzler recently, and were impressed by the wines he currently represents.

Brand names, grape varietals and regions may be unfamiliar, but a taste of the well-priced wines will be reassuring. Enjoy the dry whites in place of sauvignon blanc and the reds as a change from merlot or cabernet sauvignon.

Sherry is making a comeback as an aperitif. Hidalgo La Gitana Manzanilla $10 is the standard of excellence. In Seville, it outsells all other dry sherries. Manzanilla should be fresh. The newest lot has arrived from Spain. Look at the lot number on the label. If it says 12/5 this means it was bottled on the 12th day of 1995. This is old stock bottled last January. You want to try a much later day in 1995 and drink it within eight months of bottling.

Oysters or crab are delicious with 1994 Morgadio Albarino $18. Albarino is a rare grape variety, and the Spanish contemporary of Viognier, the "hot" white from California.

■ 1994 Carchelo Monastrell $7 is a light, fruity, dry red that is great with spicier food. Monastrell is the French grape mourvedre. You'll be pleasantly surprised by the Spanish style at a popular price.

■ 1992 Guelbenzu EVO $8 is one of Spain's most acclaimed wines. It's 70 percent cabernet sauvignon, 15 percent merlot and 15 percent tempranillo aged one year in 100 percent new French oak. If it were French, it might be called the producer's grand vin.

■ And then there's Rioja. The 1990 Lorinon Tinto Crianza $9 is an estate-bottled classic Rioja Alta with plummy fruit and spice. By law, a Rioja labeled Crianza has been aged 12 months in oak, but this wine was aged 18 months, approaching the minimum for a Gran Reserve.

Those who know Spanish wines know Pesquera from Bodegas Alejandro Fernandez. They are 100 percent tempranillo from the hands of a master. Tinto Pesquera is aged a minimum of 18 months in oak, but Reservas and Grandes Reservas from great vintages are aged in barrel 24 months and longer. The 1991 Pesquera Reserva $16 is a wine unique in the world. Delicious now, it will age into the next millennium.

In addition to Spanish estate-grown wines, look for a fabulous Spanish olive oil, Almazara Luis Herrera Unpressed Extra-Virgin $11 for a half-litre. Herrera has the smooth fruity character of French olive oil from Provence and the pepperiness of great Tuscan olive oils. It's unbeatable at the price.

CATFISH ANTIPASTO

2 cups water
8 ounces catfish fillets
4 ounces Cheddar or Monterey Jack cheese, cut into cubes
4 ounces Calamatta pitted ripe olives, drained
1 small zucchini, sliced ¼-inch thick
1 cup canned artichoke hearts, drained, halved
⅔ cup white wine vinegar
½ cup olive oil
3 green onions, finely chopped
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon dried basil, crushed
¼ teaspoon pepper

In a skillet bring the water to a boil. Add catfish fillets. Return to a boil; reduce heat. Cover and simmer for 5 minutes. Remove from water. Cool slightly. Cut into bit sized pieces.

In a large plastic bag or non-metallic bowl, combine cheese, olives, zucchini and artichoke hearts. Add catfish. In a small bowl stir together vinegar, oil, onions, garlic, sugar, basil and pepper. Pour over catfish mixture. Seal bag tightly. Cover and chill for 6 hours or overnight, turning bag occasionally.

To serve, allow mixture to stand at room temperature for about 15 minutes. Drain mixture and arrange on lettuce covered plates. Makes 4 servings.

CLASSIC PAN-FRIED CATFISH

¾ cup yellow cornmeal
¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
4 catfish fillets, about 1½ pounds
Vegetable oil for pan-frying

Combine cornmeal, flour, salt, cayenne pepper and garlic powder. Coat catfish with mixture, shaking off the excess.

Cover the bottom of a 12-inch skillet with vegetable oil. Heat to 350 degrees F. or medium heat. Add coated catfish fillets in a single layer and pan-fry until golden brown, about 5-6 minutes, depending on size. Remove and drain on paper towels. Makes 4 servings.

CATFISH FAJITAS

2 pounds catfish fillets
1 cup lime juice (about 5-6 fresh limes)
3 cups mesquite or hickory wood chips
1 large onion, sliced and separated into rings
1 large sweet red pepper, cut into strips
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
8 flour or corn tortillas, warmed
Salsa, sour cream or guacamole and lime wedges, optional

Place fish in a large plastic bag. Pour lime juice over the fish. Seal and marinate in the refrigerator for 1 hour.

Soak wood chips in enough water to cover for 30-60 minutes. Drain wood chips. In a covered grill, heat coals for a medium-hot heat. Sprinkle wood chips over preheated coals. Lightly brush grill rack with cooking oil.

Place catfish fillets on grill rack. Cover and grill directly over medium hot coals for 5 minutes on each side.

Meanwhile, in a large skillet, cook onion, pepper strips and garlic in butter or margarine until just tender. Stir in salt and pepper. Cut grilled catfish into chunks. Toss with onion mixture. Fill tortillas with catfish mixture. Serve with salsa, sour cream, guacamole and lime wedges. Makes 4 servings.

These days, pasta means more than spaghetti

Recipes from "Rose Reisman Brings Home Light Pasta," (Robert Rose, Inc; September 1995)

SWEET POTATO, WHITE BEAN AND ORZO SOUP

2 teaspoons vegetable oil
1 teaspoon crushed garlic
1 cup chopped onions
½ cup chopped celery
3 cups diced sweet potatoes
½ cup diced carrots
4 cups chicken stock
1 cup canned white kidney beans, drained
½ cup orzo or small shell pasta
1 cup 2 percent milk
Chopped parsley

In large nonstick saucepan, heat oil; saute garlic, onions and celery until tender, approximately 4 minutes.

Add potatoes, carrots and stock. Cover and simmer on medium heat for 20 to 30 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Puree in food processor until smooth. Pour back into saucepan; add kidney beans and pasta. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes or until pasta is tender.

Add milk. Heat, then sprinkle with chopped parsley. Serves 6.

RIGATONI WITH THICK CREAMY BEEF TOMATO SAUCE

1 pound rigatoni
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
2 teaspoons crushed garlic
1 cup diced onions
½ cup finely diced celery
½ cup finely diced carrots
12 ounces ground beef
½ cup dry red wine
½ cup 2 percent milk
1 can (28 ounces) tomatoes, crushed
1 tablespoon tomato paste
1½ teaspoons dried basil
1 teaspoon dried oregano
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook pasta in boiling water according to package instructions or until firm to the bite. Drain and place in serving bowl.

In large nonstick saucepan, heat oil; saute garlic, onions, celery and carrots until tender, approximately 5 minutes. Add beef and saute until no longer pink, approximately 4 minutes.

Add wine and cook on high for 2 minutes. Add milk and cook for 2 minutes. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, basil and oregano; cover and simmer on low-heat for 20 minutes or until sauce becomes thickened, stirring occasionally.

Place in food processor and puree in batches just until still slightly chunky. Pour over pasta; sprinkle with cheese; toss and serve. Serves 6-8.

To make ahead: Refrigerate sauce up to 2 days ahead and reheat gently, adding more milk if too thick.

SPINACH CHEESE TORTELLINI

Sauce:
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
1 teaspoon crushed garlic
1 cup finely diced carrots
1 cup finely diced zucchini
1½ cups chicken or vegetable stock
½ cup chopped fresh or (1½ teaspoons dried) basil
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Cook pasta in boiling water according to package instructions or until firm to the bite. Drain and place in serving bowl.

Make the sauce: In small nonstick skillet, melt margarine; add garlic, carrots and zucchini. Cook until tender, approximately 8 minutes. Add stock and basil; simmer on medium heat for 5 minutes. Puree in food processor on and off for 30 seconds. Pour over pasta. Add cheese, and toss. Serves 6.

Spaghetti carbonara need not be high fat

AP — Low-fat spaghetti carbonara is a contemporary version of a traditional recipe. This creamy egg-and-cheese-based dish is traditionally flavored with bacon. The recipe below cuts the fat by using egg substitute and turkey bacon.

Despite the whittled-down fat and cholesterol content of this recipe — which weighs in at under 30 percent calories from fat — this dish has maintained the richness and flavor of the classic recipe from which it was adapted.

LOW-FAT SPAGHETTI CARBONARA

1 pound spaghetti or thin spaghetti, uncooked
6 ounces turkey bacon, finely chopped
3 cloves garlic, crushed
⅔ cup dry white wine
1 cup egg substitute
⅓ cup fresh parsley, chopped
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste

Cook pasta according to package directions. While pasta is cooking, cook the bacon and garlic in a small saute pan over medium-low heat until the garlic is aromatic and the bacon is lightly browned, about 3 to 4 minutes.

Add the wine, increase heat, bring the wine to a boil and cook until it has reduced by about half. Pour mixture into a large serving bowl and let it cool for 5 minutes. Stir in the egg substitute and the parsley.

When pasta is done, drain it well and add it immediately to the bacon mixture. Add Parmesan cheese and toss quickly. Season with salt and freshly ground pepper and serve. Makes 4 servings.

These award-winning recipes are quick, easy

The contest challenged consumers nationwide to test their culinary creativity with farm-raised catfish — the country's fifth most popular fish.

Contestants were asked to submit an original, easy-to-prepare recipe featuring farm-raised catfish which could be prepared in 30 minutes or less (including preparation and cooking time) with readily available ingredients. Each dish was judged on its taste, creativity, ease of preparation, cooking time and appearance.

The winners, one from each of six regions in the country, received prize packages, and a $1,000 check from the Catfish Institute.

Oven Fried Catfish With Pineapple Chutney

1 pound farm-raised catfish fillets
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup evaporated skim milk
⅔ cup corn flake crumbs
2 teaspoons canola oil
Pineapple Chutney
1 can (8 ounces) crushed pineapple
½ cup chopped green apple
½ cup chopped red pepper
3 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
¾ teaspoon curry powder
¾ teaspoon mustard seeds

Heat oven to 450 degrees F. Spray baking pan with non-stick coating; set aside. Sprinkle catfish with lemon juice. Dip fillets in milk, then roll in crumbs. Arrange fillets in prepared pan; drizzle with oil. Bake about 8-10 minutes or just until fish flakes easily. Garnish with chutney.

For pineapple chutney: In small saucepan, combine all the ingredients; simmer, stirring 5 minutes. Serves 4.

Recipe submitted by: Richard Michael Rizzio, Troy, Mich.

Orange Rosemary Poached Catfish Fillets

1 tablespoon cooking oil
2 tablespoons diced red onion
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
¼ cup fresh orange juice
¼ teaspoon grated orange zest
¼ teaspoon dried rosemary, crushed
1¼ pounds genuine U.S. farm-raised catfish fillets
Orange slices for garnish (optional)

In larger skillets, heat oil over medium heat and cook onion for 5 minutes, until soft but not brown. Sprinkle on salt and pepper and add orange juice, orange zest and rosemary; stir and cook for one minute. Add catfish. Lower heat to medium low. Cover tightly and cook for 8-10 minutes, until fish is opaque.

Remove catfish to serving plate and spoon sauce from skillet over. Garnish with orange slices if desired. Serves 4.

LOIS THIELEKE

You don't have to wait until New Year's Day to start keeping a resolution. You can begin anytime. And you don't have to do everything at once. If you begin now and add one new healthy habit a month, you'll have significantly improved your family's well-being by a year from now.

Month 1: Commit to the bean routine — serve legumes more often. Dry peas and beans are an excellent source of fiber and other complex carbohydrates. They contain nutrients that most Americans don't eat enough of, besides being a low-fat source of protein. Beans are economical, easy to cook and are valuable to your good health. Start slowly, if you're not used to eating beans, eat small servings initially, then slowly increase your intake to help reduce bean bloat and gas discomfort.

Month 2: Downsize protein portions. Most Americans eat more protein than they need. Limit your consumption of trimmed lean meats, poultry and fish to 5 to 7 ounces per day, and you'll be more likely to keep fat and cholesterol in check. A 3-ounce portion of meat is about the same size as a deck of cards.

Month 3: Count fat grams, not calories. People who eat a high-fat diet tend to gain more weight than those who eat the same number of calories from lower fat foods. Small changes can make a big fat difference. Check labels for the fat grams. Serving leaner meats and low-fat dairy foods and using a healthier cooking method will keep you on a lower fat diet.

Month 4: Adopt the "five-a-day" approach to better health. The National Cancer Institute estimates that approximately 140 million Americans — almost half the population — eat fewer than the recommended five servings of fruits and vegetables a day. What are they missing? Fruits and vegetables provide much-needed vitamins, minerals and fiber and no cholesterol. Almost all are naturally low in calories, fat and sodium. Eat two fruits or vegetables at each meal, plus snacks and you will get more than the recommended amount.

Month 5: Make an effort to eat seafood at least twice a week. Most seafood is low in fat and is an ideal replacement for fattier protein food. All fish and shellfish have special oils (omega-3 fatty acids), that some studies suggest may protect against heart disease. Be sure to observe any health advisories for eating local fish.

Month 6: Replace a standard-fat product with a low-fat one. These trades will save calories and fat. Switching from whole milk to skim milk for two glasses a day, for instance, will save you more than 50,000 calories a year. If everything else stayed the same, that would mean a weight loss of 14.5 pounds!

Month 7: Eat your antioxidants. Studies have shown that antioxidants such as vitamin C, vitamin E and beta carotene may reduce the risk of certain diseases, such as cancer and heart disease. Sweet potatoes, berries, peppers, wheat germ, spinach, carrots and squash are some of the foods high in one or more of these important vitamins.

Month 8: Give up rare "burgers." The well-done burger is in, rare is out. Avoid potential problems with ground beef and other ground meats that may have been contaminated during processing by cooking all ground meats thoroughly.

Month 9: Adopt a new approach to weight loss. Chronic dieters know that with each new diet, weight becomes harder to lose and easier to gain. Stop short-term restrictive dieting and instead develop a healthy lifestyle you can adopt permanently. Adopt a low-fat, high-carbohydrate food plan and combine with exercise.

Month 10: Add variety with one meatless meal a week. Most families eat the same meals over and over. A recent survey indicated that the average cook has a repertoire of 10 recipes. Add variety by experimenting once a week with a new recipe that uses a grain, rice or pasta base. Meatless meals highlight good-for-you complex carbohydrates.

Month 11: Help kids build nutritious habits. Studies show that 52 percent of teen-age girls spend two hours per week shopping for family groceries. It's never too early to teach children how to put together nutritious meals and snacks. Start by acquainting them with the Food Guide Pyramid, which emphasizes grains, fruits and vegetables and down plays fats and sweets.

Month 12: Update your cooking habits. Trade in high-fat cooking methods for healthier techniques. Microwave, steam, braise, broil, barbecue, roast, bake, boil, poach, stew or stir fry. Instead of basting meat with fatty drippings, use defatted broth, wine or juice. Substitute flavorings, extracts, herbs and spices for heavy sauces with a cream or fat base. Keep all your favorite recipes low in fat. After these monthly changes, you'll look and feel better.

Cookbooks for those who like it really hot

By Carol Deegan
AP Newsfeatures

Some like it hot and some like it hotter.

"Turn It Up!" by noted food writer Janet Hazen (Chronicle Books, $12.95) is the blistering companion to Hazen's best-selling "Hot, Hotter, Hottest."

With 50 all-new, fiery recipes, "Turn It Up!" is organized by the dominant heat-lending ingredient in each dish. Dedicated hotheads and ingenues alike will enjoy panfried potatoes and horseradish cakes, grilled chicken wings with two mustards and honey, and chocolate-coffee brownies with chipotle chilies.

Dave DeWitt and Nancy Gerlach visited pepper farms, sauce and salsa makers and habanero aficionados from the Yucatan peninsula to New Mexico for "The Habanero Cookbook" (Ten Speed Press, $17.95).

Each of the habanero recipes, including peach-habanero chutney, Caribbean chicken and marinated grilled vegetables, is hot. But those that are truly fiery are labeled "extremely hot," so the reader can always reduce the recipe's heat intensity.

Also of Interest:

"The All-American Chili Cookbook" by Jenny Kellner and Richard Rosenblatt (Hearst Books, $14.95 hardcover). This is the "official cookbook" of the International Chili Society in Newport Beach, Calif.

"Red Hot Gourmet"is a collection of 50 recipes from the Cole Cooking Group ($7.95). The cookbook contains fiery recipes from Southeast Asia, Mexico and other cuisines internationally known for pure heat.

Lucinda Hutson is the author of "Tequila!: Cooking with the Spirit of Mexico" (Ten Speed Press, $16.95). Hutson provides an armchair tour of Mexico's kitchens and cantatas. Among the recipes: pinata punch, "drunken cowgirl-style" beans and jalapeno carrot cake.

Victoria Wise is the author of "Mexico: The Vegetarian Table" (Chronicle Books, $19.95), with 90 recipes, including jicama and watermelon salsa, melon and potato soup, and candied gourd squash.

"The Best of Quintana" by Patricia Quintana (Stewart, Tabori and Chang, $22.50) contains 60 recipes and 60 full-color photographs by Ignacio Urquiza. All of the recipes have been tested for the American kitchen, and substitutions are suggested for the occasional hard-to-find Mexican ingredient. Quintana is the author of "The Taste of Mexico."

"Food From My Heart: Cuisines of Mexico Remembered and Reimagined" by Zarela Martinez (Macmillan, $14) is a collection of over 175 recipes. With menus and mail-order sources for ingredients. Martinez is the owner of Zarela restaurant in New York City.

"Healthy Mexican Regional Cookery" by Lotte Mendelsohn (Font & Center Press, $17.95). With 150 recipes, travel tips, shopping tips and charming anecdotal reminiscences of family and friends.

"Betty Crocker's Easy Mexican" (Macmillan General Reference, $16). Contains 130 "old-time favorites" and new South of the Border tastes.

"The Essential Mexican Cookbook" (Courage Books-Running Press, $12.98). Contains 50 recipes, 250 full-color, step-by-step photographs and introduction to the most popular Mexican ingredients. Edited by Heather Thomas.

Southwest Cooking

Chef Wayne Harley Brachman believes desserts should be fun. And in his new book, "Cakes and Cowpokes: New Desserts from the Old Southwest" (William Morrow, $23), Brachman takes the best of the Southwest, adds his own sense of humor and mixes up great-tasting, great-looking desserts.

"Mark Miller's Indian Market Cookbook" (Ten Speed Press, $27.95) features recipes from Miller's Coyote Cafe in Santa Fe, N.M. Each recipe is prefaced with insights into the region's culture, landscape, people and culinary traditions. The cookbook also includes full-color photographs, detailed instructions for common Southwestern cooking techniques and a helpful glossary of ingredients.

In Germany they call it Octoberfest.

Easy stroganoff: Ready in less than 30 minutes, this savory dish is sure to please.

Noodles and beef combine

Don't have oodles of time this time of year? Don't worry your noodle! When searching for simple supper ideas, remember that noodles are better with beef.

Never short on taste, this easy Beef Stroganoff recipe offers plenty of shortcuts. Quickly stir-fry strips of beef with garlic, then prepare an easy no-fail sauce made from a packaged gravy mix and fresh mushrooms. Serve over egg noodles to create a simply savory Stroganoff in less than 30 minutes.

Beef Stroganoff

1 pound beef round tip steaks, cut ⅛- to ¼-inch thick
4 cups uncooked wide egg noodles (approx. 5 ounces)
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, crushed
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ pound sliced (½-inch thick) mushrooms
2 teaspoons vegetable oil
1 package (¾ ounce) brown gravy mix
1 cup cold water
¼ cup dairy sour cream

Cook egg noodles according to package directions; keep warm.

Meanwhile stack beef steaks. Cut lengthwise in half and then crosswise into 1-inch wide strips. In large nonstick skillet, heat 2 teaspoons oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef and garlic (half at a time) and stir-fry 1 minute or until outside surface of beef is no longer pink: (Do not overcook.)

Remove from skillet; season with salt and pepper.

In same skillet, cook mushrooms in 2 teaspoons oil 2 minutes or until tender, stirring occasionally. Remove skillet from heat. Add gravy mix and water; blend well. Return skillet to heat; bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low; simmer 1 minute or until sauce is thickened, stirring frequently.

Return beef to skillet; heat through, about 1 minute. Serve over noodles; pass sour cream to dollop on top. Makes 4 servings.

Only you can prevent freezer burn

"When frozen meat, poultry or fish has been improperly wrapped or kept too long in the freezer — 'freezer burn,' may develop," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Michigan State University Extension of Oakland County.

Signs of freezer burn are a gray dried out appearance and texture, and loss of taste and quality.

Products that have freezer burn are safe to eat as long as the freezer has been working properly. "The issue is really one of quality," adds Treitman. "usually these items become tough, and are difficult to chew when cooked. It is OK to cut away the freezer burned areas before cooking, but often it is best to dispose of the product."

Tips to avoid freezer burn:

- use moisture and vapor proof wrappings, make sure the material is for "freezer" use.
- Do not use "margarine" or other "refrigerator" containers for long term freezing. They are not designed for freezer use and freezer burn may result.
- Make sure packages are air tight, press out excess air and seal with freezer tape.
- Wrap meats in meal sized packages. Wrap steaks, chops and ground meat patties flat, or stack them in layers separated by double thickness of freezer wrap.
- Pad any sharp edges with extra freezer wrap to prevent tearing or puncturing the package.

If you have questions on freezing food properly or on storage times or other food questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, (810) 858-0904.

To receive a "Freezer Storage Chart," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Michigan State University Extension Service, 1200 N. Telegraph Road, Dept. 416, Pontiac, Mich. 48341-0416.

Apples in cheddar pastry add new twist to fall classic

AP — Instead of serving traditional apple pie this fall, try apple bundles in cheddar pastry, served with a spicy syrup and a tangy yogurt sauce.

Sharp cheddar cheese and just a touch of mustard give the pastry an added "bite." The brown sugar syrup is contrasted with the tangy flavor of the yogurt sauce. The cheddar pastries can be prepared and frozen in advance, then baked individually or all at once.

Apple Bundles In Cheddar Pastry

For the cheddar pastry:
3 cups all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¾ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons cold butter, cut into pats
¼ cup solid vegetable shortening
1½ cups packed (6 ounces) finely shredded sharp cheddar cheese
8 to 12 tablespoons ice water
For the apple filling:
4 cups peeled, thinly sliced, tart apples, such as Granny Smith or Pippin (3 to 4 apples)
¼ cup packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 tablespoons butter, broken into bits
For the spicy syrup:
¾ cup packed brown sugar
¾ cup water
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter
For the yogurt sauce:
1 cup plain nonfat yogurt
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. To prepare the pastry and filling: In a medium bowl, combine flour, sugar, mustard and salt. With a pastry blender, two knives or your fingertips, cut in butter and shortening until mixture forms small clumps. Add cheddar cheese and work until mixture resembles coarse bread crumbs. Sprinkle the water, 2 tablespoons at a time, over the mixture and toss with a fork until the dough can be gathered into a ball. Knead once or twice in the bowl; refrigerate.

In a separate bowl, toss apples together with brown sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg; set aside.

Roll chilled dough on a floured surface and cut to make a rectangle 12- by 24-inches. With a knife, cut pastry into eight 6-inch squares. Place apples in the center of the pastry squares, dividing evenly, and dot with the 2 tablespoons butter. Fold up corners to form square bundles; pinch edges to seal.

At this point, pastries can be covered and refrigerated a day ahead of baking, or wrapped in heavy-duty aluminum foil and frozen (there is no need to thaw pastries before baking). Place on a greased baking sheet and bake in a preheated 375-degree F oven 25 to 35 minutes, until browned. Flecks of cheddar cheese give the pastry dough a distinct color.

To prepare the sauces: To make spicy syrup, combine brown sugar, water, cinnamon and nutmeg in a heavy saucepan; bring to a boil. Remove from the heat; add vanilla and 1 tablespoon butter; stir until butter is melted. To make yogurt sauce, stir together yogurt and brown sugar.

To serve: Place individual pastries on plate and pour several tablespoons of warm syrup over each warm pastry. Pass the yogurt sauce to spoon on top. Makes 8 pastries.

French onion soup is the clear choice for winter

Although thick winter soups — packed with beans and potatoes are a cold-weather favorite, sometimes a lighter, aromatic broth is more appealing. Perhaps you favor the warmth of a steamy, flavorful clear soup on a blustery fall day.

Clear soups are easy to prepare with the right ingredients. Whether you make your own stock or rely on canned broth or bouillon cubes, stock provides the foundation of flavor for soups — as well as for stews, pilafs and sauted dishes.

A simple vegetable stock can be prepared with three stalks of chopped celery, two chopped onions, three chopped carrots, two chopped cloves of garlic, ½ bay leaf and eight peppercorns (or ¼ teaspoon ground pepper). Combine all the ingredients in a large pot with two quarts of water and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and skim any foam from the surface. With the lid ajar, simmer 30 to 90 minutes, then strain through a sieve or colander. Season with salt if desired and cool in the refrigerator. This stock can be stored in the refrigerator up to four days or frozen up to six months.

It's important not to boil the stock, because boiling will cause the vegetables to break down and the stock to become murky. Keep to a simmer (tiny bubbles around the rim of the pot) to keep the stock clear.

Almost any vegetable is good for stock — the tough outer leaves of lettuce, stems and stalks of parsley and other herbs, pea pods, mushroom stems, leek tops and others. For clarity, avoid legumes and potatoes, as these produce a cloudy broth. Broccoli, cauliflower and dark, leafy vegetables tend to create an overpowering flavor.

You can enliven a commercial broth with the addition of a few tablespoons of minced onion, carrots or celery and a pinch of parsley or thyme.

This French Onion Soup uses low-sodium beef bouillon for a warm, elegant dish that's clearly delicious and easy to prepare.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

1½ cups onions, sliced
2 teaspoons margarine
6 cups beef bouillon (preferably low-sodium)
Ground black pepper to taste
6 slices French bread
2 teaspoons grated Parmesan cheese

Cook the onions in margarine for about 3 minutes over a medium heat in a saucepan. Add the bouillon and pepper. Simmer for 20-30 minutes, until the onions are tender. Sprinkle the cheese over the slices of French bread. Place them under the broiler to melt the cheese. Float the bread on top of the soup in a large soup tureen or individual soup dishes.

Each of the 6 servings contains 144 calories and 3.5 grams of fat.

Zucchini beef and pasta dinner needs just 30 minutes

AP — Back to school means sports, clubs, meetings and other activities that often leave time for only a quick weeknight dinner.

A one-dish meal with all-family appeal is just the ticket. Zucchini beef and pasta supper, on the table in 30 minutes, starts with lean ground beef.

Brown the beef with onion and garlic until the beef is no longer pink, then add broth, Italian seasoning, zucchini and uncooked bow tie pasta to the skillet. During the 15-minute simmering, the pasta cooks perfectly. What could be easier?

Whole-wheat rolls make an easy accompaniment; fresh fruit and a bar cookie round out the meal.

ZUCCHINI BEEF & PASTA SUPPER

Total preparation and cooking time: 30 minutes
1 pound lean ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, crushed
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Italian seasoning
⅛ teaspoon ground red pepper
2 cups sliced zucchini, ½-inch thick
1 cup uncooked farfalle (bow tie) pasta
2 plum tomatoes, each cut into 4 wedges
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1 3¾-ounce can ready-to-serve beef broth

In a large nonstick skillet, brown ground beef, onion and garlic over medium heat 8 to 10 minutes or until beef is no longer pink, breaking up into 1-inch crumbles. Remove beef with slotted spoon; pour off drippings. Season beef with salt; set aside.

In same skillet, add broth, Italian seasoning, red pepper, zucchini and pasta, pushing pasta into liquid. Bring to a boil; reduce heat to medium. Simmer, uncovered, 15 minutes or until pasta is tender, stirring occasionally.

Return beef to skillet and add tomatoes; heat through. Sprinkle with cheese. Makes 4 servings.

JOHN MONAGHAN

REVIEW

In the final hours of 1999, the streets of Los Angeles look like they've just heard the Rodney King verdict. Police in riot gear hold back crowds as they loot and burn everything in sight. Asian shop owners patrol outside their businesses with Uzis under their arms.

Through these streets walks (or maybe slithers) Lenny Nero, a greasy ex-cop who hustles more than just fake Rolexes from his briefcase. He specializes in a form of virtual reality so state-of-the-art and addictive that it sells like drugs.

It works like this: an octopus-like device lies beneath a hat or wig, wires dangling onto your scalp. Keep a Discman-style deck near you and it will record everything you hear, see, even feel. Lenny collects these slices of life for resale to "wireheads," who can now tap into someone else's cerebral cortex.

A great concept to be sure. But in "Strange Days," director Kathryn Bigelow and writer James Cameron beat the idea senseless for nearly two-and-a-half hours. What should have been (and sometimes still is) the best cyberfantasy of the decade becomes one of the year's most frustrating and ponderous films.

Cameron, the man behind the "Terminator" movies and last year's "True Lies," is not one for brevity. His story, co-scripted with former film critic Jay Cocks, has some of the worst dialogue you'll hear in a movie this year, a form of hard-boiled retro banter that would make Raymond Chandler wince.

Bigelow, who made the impressive "Near Dark," has some stunning moments behind the camera, right from the opening shot. Here we see a restaurant robbery take place through the eyes of one of the perpetrators, from the rounding up of customers to a chase across downtown rooftops.

While robberies and sex tapes are his most popular sellers, Nero draws the line at anything where someone is actually killed. He has a doozy on his hands, a graphic rape and murder where the killer has wired the victim so that she can feel his sensations along with her own pain.

Nero is played by Ralph Fiennes, the talented actor from "Schindler's List" and "Quiz Show." With oily hair falling to his eyes and garish neckties, he's out of his element as this urban loser and ex-cop. Even when he mumbles he's way too articulate.

No problem with Angela Bassett as the limousine driver Mace who comes through time and again for her friend. She disapproves of Nero's business, offering up of the movie's few good lines: "Memories are meant to fade; they're designed that way for a reason."

A flashback shows her coming home from work one day to find her husband led away in handcuffs while Nero watches over her son. It's one of the only moments in "Strange Days" where something is conveyed so briefly and effectively.

Of course this is primarily an action movie and it has its share of over-the-top sequences. What looks like a routine car chase, machine guns blazing from the follow car, ends with Mace and Nero trapped in a flaming limousine. Open the door and they know they'll be shot.

Familiar faces dot the supporting cast, from Tom Sizemore as the Nero's ex-cop friend to Juliette Lewis as his ex-girlfriend, now the property of a powerful music producer and club owner. He's basically an extension of the long-haired, gravel-voiced baddie in "The Crow," played by the same actor.

In a movie about seeing, the look is very important. Many of the scenes in "Strange Days" are well-designed in wide-screen, but Bigelow overcompensates for those long point-of-view passages by giving everything else more shots than necessary, at one point cutting an entire soliloquy between two slightly different angles.

"Strange Days" is far from the worst movie of the year, but it sure tries hard. Where most of Cameron's movies have been released on laser disc with additional footage in the director's cut, it might be worth a look at this one with a half hour actually trimmed.

Share your holiday recipes

Share one of your favorite family holiday recipes to win a pass for two to the preview screening of "Home for the Holidays," 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 2, at the Star-John R. Theatre.

The first 50 readers to respond will receive a pass for two to the screening.

After you've dug up your recipe. Reflect on holiday's past. Share a memory of a bizarre or funny holiday incident (25 to 50 words or less) to become eligible to win one of five prize packages consisting of a movie poster, apron, soundtrack and other surprises. Include the essay (no names of relatives please) with your recipe entry.

Deadline to enter is Monday, Oct. 23. Send or fax entries to: Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., Attn: Keely Wygonik, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 4815. To fax entries, call (313) 591-7279.

"Home for the Holidays," a Paramount Pictures release, stars Holly Hunter as Claudia Larson, a single mother who goes home every Thanksgiving to visit her family in Baltimore. A dutiful daughter always goes home for the holidays, even if she can't convince her own 15-year-old offspring to follow.

Giving thanks looks like a tall order this year, in light of the downward spiral Claudia's life is taking. In the span of 36 hours, she manages to lose her job, her coat and her cool. What Claudia doesn't expect to lose this Thanksgiving is this sense of dread and loathing — of wanting to be anywhere but home with the family.

"Home for the Holidays" is a comedy that honors the timeless holiday tradition of family gathers and reminds you of why you left home.

Canton swimmers 3-0

The Plymouth Canton swim team stayed perfect against competition in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division, but it took a strong finish in the final event to do it.

The Chiefs finished first and third in the 400-yard freestyle relay, and they needed both to beat Walled Lake, 95-91 Thursday at Canton.

The win upped Canton's dual-meet record to 3-0 within the division and to 5-3 overall.

The Chiefs trailed 87-85 entering that final race. The team of Angie Frost, Susan Fanning, Amy Sonnanstine and Terri Hanson won in 3:56.4; Meghan Dowd, Andrea Cizewski, Kate Jackson and Christine Kalymon were third in 4:09.0, their best time of the season.

Frost and Hanson also won two individual events apiece, with Hanson bettering the state qualifying time in winning the 100 butterfly in 1:01.9. She also won the 50 free (25.89). Frost's wins came in the 200 individual medley (2:26.5) and the 100 free (59.5).

Other Canton winners were Lisa Sabina in diving (203 points) and Fanning in the 500 free (5:48.26).

Canton hosts Northville at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Good switch

While playing soccer at Plymouth Salem, there seemed to be no doubt that Kelly Lukasik was an exceptional goal-scorer.

Problem was, when the Rocks would get ahead in a match, Salem coach Ken Johnson often would switch Lukasik to defense to let her mark the opposition's biggest offensive threat. And she did it well.

Or at times, Lukasik would go into the midfield, where she could put her passing skills to work. She did that well, too.

So when she signed to attend and play for University of Michigan, it really came as no surprise that she was listed as both a forward and a defender.

And it was also no surprise that, after playing her first eight collegiate matches as a defender, U-M coach Debbie Belkin decided to try Lukasik at midfield.

The result: Lukasik scored two goals — the first of her collegiate career — in the Wolverines' 5-0 win over Creighton last Sunday.

The victory ended a three-game losing streak for U-M and improved its record to 3-7-1.

Lukasik came into the match with just three shots on goal in the previous eight matches, then scored twice on three shots against Creighton.

More college news

Leah Hutko, a junior forward at Michigan State from Plymouth Canton HS, has collected two goals and three assists in the Spartans first 12 matches this season (6-5-1). She's tied for fifth on the team in goal-scoring and total points (seven). For her collegiate career, Hutko has 12 goals and 11 assists.

Another MSU junior, defender Kris Goff (from Plymouth Salem), has started all 12 matches for the Spartans. She has one assist. For her career, she has one goal and two assists . . .

Bowling Green State opened its hockey season Friday at home against Western Ontario with a new first-string goalie: Bob Petrie, a junior from Canton who was 11-5-0 with a 4.00 goals-against average for the Falcons in part-time duties last year.

In his two years at BGSU, Petrie has won 27 games. The Falcons were 25-11-2 in '94-95, finishing second in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association but just missing getting an at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament . . .

It's been a turnaround for Siena Heights College's women's soccer team. The Saints started 0-5, then have posted a 6-1-1 record in the past eight matches. Included in that total is a 1-0 triumph over St. Francis (Ind.) College Oct. 8 in Fort Wayne.

The only goal of the match was scored by senior midfielder Danielle Meyka, from Plymouth Canton, in the 30th minute. The Saints had 11 shots on net, while St. Francis had none.

Soccer tryouts

The Plymouth Soccer Club will have tryouts for its under-18 boys premier soccer team from 1-2:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 29 at Pioneer Middle School (located half-mile west of Sheldon on Ann Arbor Road).

For further information, call Armando Santos at (313) 453-5929.

Coed volleyball

A coed volleyball league is now forming, co-sponsored by Plymouth's and Canton's Parks and Recreation Services.

Play begins Nov. 17 at West Middle School. Cost is $200 per team plus $15 for each player who lives outside Canton Township or the city of Plymouth.

The season will last 14 weeks; the league will be limited to 16 teams. Registration for returning teams will be Oct. 20-26 and for new teams from Oct. 27 until Nov. 8, at the Canton Parks and Recreation Building, at 1150 S. Canton Center.

For more information, call 397-5110.

Salem runners wreck Raiders

Not much has gone right for either Salem or North Farmington this season. On Friday, it was the Rocks who turned things around, at least for one night.

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

After one game as the full-time tailback, the Plymouth Salem offensive line will tell you that Randy Mack understands who to give credit to.

Mack, who has played most of the season at split end, rushed 35 times for 144 yards and scored all four touchdowns in Salem's 27-12 victory Friday over visiting North Farmington.

But the beneficiaries of Mack's performance were his offensive line.

"I'm taking the whole line out to dinner," the 6-foot-1, 155-pound senior said. "Where? It all depends on how much money I get from my parents."

Mack's performance was a bright spot for the Rocks, who have struggled through a mediocre season. Salem improved to 2-5 overall and 2-3 in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The Raiders, on the other hand, continue to spiral downward as they lost their sixth-straight game after opening the season with a 20-7 win over West Bloomfield.

North finishes in the basement of the Lakes with an 0-5 mark. The Raiders will entertain Livonia Churchill in next week's crossover. The Rocks host Walled Lake Western.

"The win gives us momentum going into next week's crossover, and then we finish against Plymouth Canton," Mack said. "We want to finish 4-5. That's all we can hope for."

As Mack led the offense, senior defensive back Kirk Craggs led the Salem defense. The 6-3, 170-pounder intercepted two Brad Rivers passes, broke up another in the end zone and recovered a North fumble.

The Raiders were able to strike first when Rivers found a wide open Richard Beal for a 53-yard touchdown pass on the game's first drive. Rivers completed 5-of-21 passes for 120 yards.

The 6-0 lead didn't hold up for long as the Rocks mounted a 15-play, 74-yard drive, capped by a two-yard dive by Mack. The point after by Brian James gave Salem the lead for good at 7-6.

"I knew Salem could move the ball," North coach Jim O'Leary said. "They scored 35 against Farmington and moved the ball up

Rocks edge Northville to qualify for Class A state finals

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Friday the 13th certainly wasn't bad luck for Plymouth Salem.

The Rocks used their greatest asset — quality depth — to its fullest extent at Friday's Class A Regional at Oak Pointe Golf Course in Brighton, and it was enough to qualify for the Class A state finals Friday at Michigan State's Forest Akers.

By a single stroke.

Livonia Churchill, which three days earlier won the Western Lakes Activities Association championship, finished a stellar week with a victory at the regional. The Chargers shot a 308, edging host Brighton (309). Salem was third with a 317 — one shot better than Northville.

GOLF

Plymouth Canton tied for 14th with Pinckney at 345. Other local squads in the 18-team field were Farmington, eighth (332); Westland John Glenn, ninth (333); Livonia Stevenson, 10th (335); Livonia Franklin, 17th (363); and Garden City, 18th (370).

"We've squeaked in two years in a row," said Salem coach Rick Wilson. "We're happy to be in. The guys wanted to go back (to state) and make a better showing than before."

Sharing medalist honors were Churchill's Chris Kiehler and Gary Kraus, both at three-over par 74.

Salem's scorers were Mike Hjelmstad, 76; Brian Fox, 77; Ryan Deschaw, 81; and Jeff Lear, 83.

And Ryan Andrzejewski? One of the best golfers in Salem history suffered through one of his poorest rounds, shooting 65-54/119.

When Wilson heard his score, he became very worried. He knew Churchill and Brighton were already in (the top three teams qualify for state); the final spot was up for grabs between Salem, Northville and Hartland (320).

"Hjelmstad was the last guy to come in," said Wilson. "We were all sitting there waiting. When Northville finished at 318, we knew Mike had to have a 76 for us to get in. And that's exactly what he had.

"The guy who was most relieved was Andrzejewski."

Andrzejewski's score puzzled Wilson. "I went out with him for a practice round Wednesday, and he shot a 74," the Salem coach said. "The saving grace was, we qualified. If we hadn't, he would have been devastated."

Canton was led by Scott Belisle, who shot 83. Brian Carlson had an 85, Erik Arlen finished with an 86, and Chris Wilson and Miles Meibers each had 91s.

"We've improved over last year," said Canton coach Tom Alles. "No question — in all phases of the game."

Multiple-winner: Who would know more about marathons than the guy who's competed in more than anyone — Doug Kurtis, six-time Free Press winner.

Kurtis IS marathon history

C. J. RISAK

If it isn't the first rule of journalism, it's one of the oldest: "If you want to get it straight, go to the source."

With that adage in mind, it makes perfect sense that the Plymouth Historical Society asked Doug Kurtis to speak on the subject "The history of the marathon."

I mean, considering Kurtis' background — having run in more than 170 marathons, with 38 wins (as of Thursday; those numbers were subject to change with Sunday's running of the Detroit Free Press Marathon, which Kurtis has won six times) — the feeling is he was there, at the very first one.

Certainly my suspicions were further aroused when he pointed out that it was uncertain who that first marathon runner was. In one historical account, the guy who ran from the plains of Marathon to Athens to announce the victory over the Persians was named Philippedes; in another, he was Pheidippides.

Philippedes could have been the guy announcing the victory, then toppling over dead, I thought; Pheidippides could have been Kurtis, running along with him and then telling the astounded Athenians, "C'mon, fellas, I'm just warmin' up."

You take a look at the diminutive Kurtis (he's about 5-foot-7, 128-130 pounds) and it isn't hard to imagine him garbed in a toga with a crown of fig leaves.

Of course, that's not what the ancient Greeks wore when they competed, Kurtis pointed out. In fact, they didn't wear anything at all. Indeed, it's puzzling to note that our society associates the basic principles of modern logic with ancient Athens when listening to Kurtis relate this:

"Ancient Greeks competed in the nude, but there were no audiences, only all-male judges, who were dressed in togas. This changed when a mother disguised herself as a judge so she could see her son compete and, when he won, in her elation to run to him and congratulate him, she lost her toga.

"After that, the judges were required to be nude as well."

Hey guys: Guess it makes no sense to dress the competitors, does it?

None of it makes sense.

But neither does marathon racing. Take the somewhat modern marathon. A couple of Frenchmen actually resurrected it, in time for the 1896 Olympics in Paris. The idea of long-distance racing quickly caught on; Boston had its first marathon that year, too.

And that distance — 26 miles, 385 yards? Another bizarre history. There really was no official distance for a marathon for a while. But for the 1908 Olympics in London, it was determined it would be a race of 26 miles.

The 385 yards, according to Kurtis' historical accounts, were added by royal decree. Seems the monarchy insisted the race go a bit further, to allow them to witness the completion. So the 385 yards was tacked on, finishing the race in front of the royal box.

Still, it was another 14 years before it was made the marathon's official distance.

Clearly, Kurtis enjoyed discussing the history behind what has become a focal point in his life, instead of the mechanics involved with it. Some of the famous names, from Frank Shorter to Rosie Ruiz (who ran only the last couple of miles of the '80 New York Marathon, then tried to pass herself off as the winner), are intertwined with his own life.

No challenge

Salem's too much for Stevenson

It was a week of few challenges for Plymouth Salem's basketball team.

If there was a message Rocks' coach Fred Thomann would like to deliver, it would be that few weeks will ever be this easy. In fact, if he had his way, there wouldn't be any at all.

Salem completely dominated visiting Livonia Stevenson Thursday — much the same way the Rocks reigned over Livonia Churchill in a 25-point victory Tuesday — in handing the Spartans a 69-28 setback.

The win improved the Rocks' record to 8-4 overall, 4-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Stevenson fell to 6-7 overall, 3-4 in the WLAA.

"We got on top pretty quick, and really did a nice job tonight," said Thomann, noting that everyone on the team played at least 10 minutes.

It was thorough domination; Stevenson never scored in double-figures in a quarter, while Salem's offense had quarters of 16, 13, 20 and 20 points.

Shellye Sills led the Rocks with 13 points; she also nabbed seven rebounds. Amanda Abraham netted 12 points, seven assists and five boards; Andrea Pruett totaled 10 points and seven rebounds; Angela Sillmon collected nine points and five steals; Janell Sterling scored nine points; and Kelly Simpson finished with eight points.

Stacey Nichols' nine points was best for Stevenson.

■ Canton 53, Harrison 26: What Plymouth Canton brought to Farmington Harrison's gym Thursday evening was a lesson in defense.

The Chiefs were tied with Harrison coming into the game. By halftime, that issue was decided; Canton led 22-12, a cushion that was more than the Hawks could make up in a quarter.

The most Harrison managed in a single period was nine points; the loss left it with a 5-2 WLAA mark, 8-5 overall. The Chiefs improved to 6-1 in the WLAA, 10-3 overall.

Perhaps as surprising as anything was that the Hawks managed to limit Canton center Sarah Warnke to just four points. Kristi Fiorenzi and Becky Vachow helped make up the difference, scoring 13 and 12 points, respectively. Amy Roble led Harrison with 11.

"Basically, they overpowered us," said Harrison coach Pete Mantyla. "They're a strong, athletic, physical team. (Warnke)'s a factor, whether she scores or not.

"We're still learning how physical we need to play to stay with a team like that, to play with a state-ranked team."

Canton aims for repeat

Another win, and now another showdown.

Plymouth Canton's 18-41 triumph over Walled Lake Western in girls cross country Thursday at Cass Benton improved the Chiefs' Western Lakes Activities Association record to 4-0. It also set the stage for yet another showdown for the Western Division title with Farmington Harrison.

Canton and the Hawks met for the same crown last year, with the Chiefs winning. They'll try to repeat Tuesday, when the two unbeaten teams meet in a 4 p.m. dual meet at Cass Benton.

"They have a very fine team," said Canton coach George Przygodski of Harrison. "They run well together as a pack. We'll have our problems breaking it up."

The bigger problem may belong to the Hawks, who will attempt to break up Canton's stranglehold on the division title. Przygodski has guided the Chiefs to seven championships in the past nine years, including the last two.

Becky Wolfrom paced Canton against Western, finishing first in 21:05. Other scorers for the Chiefs: Beth Knight, second (21:22); Jamie Vergari, fourth (22:02); Christiana Bradford, fifth (22:40); and Becky Uryga, sixth (22:56).

Salem girls

Walled Lake Central's five-person team wasn't much of a challenge for visiting Plymouth Salem Thursday.

The Rocks collected the first 12 places in completely dominating Central, 15-50, improving their dual-meet record to 3-1.

Leah Retherford led Salem, placing first in 19:59. Kristie Giddings was second (20:57), with Liz Peltier third (21:21), Kathy Yost fourth (21:24) and Mary Bisbrow fifth (21:41).

Salem runs at Westland John Glenn's home course at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Canton boys

A meet that Canton boys coach Mike Spitz envisioned as a major obstacle between the Chiefs and the WLAA Western Division dual-meet crown was cleared Thursday, with the Chiefs beating Walled Lake Western 24-37 at Cass Benton.

Canton improved to 4-0 in the division; Western slipped to 3-1.

The Warriors' Jason Astinall was first overall in 16:54, but the Chiefs put five runners in the next six spots.

Ian Bedford was second (17:07) for Canton, with Ryan Portrey fourth (17:52), Sanjay Sharma fifth (18:20), Jason Vergari sixth (18:23) and Shaun Moore seventh (18:29).

All the Chiefs need to do to clinch a first-place dual meet finish is to beat Farmington Harrison at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Cass Benton.

TEN-PIN ALLEY

The O.J. Simpson interview scheduled to air Wednesday night didn't occur and it's just as well as far as pro bowler fans are concerned as the Greater Detroit Open at Taylor Lanes was able to take center stage. Professionals Brian Voss and Justin Hromek turned in a memorable final as Voss defeated Hromek to win the title.

In addition to the Voss-Hromek matchup, a few area bowlers turned in some good results in the Pro-Am competition. Leading the pack was Jeremy Kapia of Westland, who took third place in the youth squad of the Junior Division: Jack Dahlstrom and Howard Davis, both of Redford, competed solidly in the Saturday squad.

Next year's event will take place in June at Taylor Lanes.

■ Several area seniors bowled well in the recent National Senior Bowling Association event which was held at Troy Lanes. Rochester Hills residents Gary Reghi (2nd), Bill Haynes (5th), and Ed Grant (6th) all bowled well. Livonia residents John Staricha (9th) and Bill Funke (16th), Ray Randall (4th) of Canton Township, Phil Horowitz (13th) of West Bloomfield and Bob O'Brien (15th) of Farmington Hills also bowled well. Michael Duncan of Harrison Township took top honors.

■ The NSBA has reached an agreement with Metrostaff Health Care Services and Award Skores Unlimited to provide a dual corporate sponsorship for the next fiscal year. This arrangement will provide for larger cash prizes in the tournament and a guaranteed prize of $1,200 for the champion. For further information regarding the NSBA, call (810) 626-8886 or (810) 358-3740.

■ In case you haven't been in pro shops lately there are a lot of new items on the shelf for cleaning and conditioning the reactive resin balls. I spoke to Paul DiLauro who distributes many of these products to many of the local pro shops and he indicated the two best sellers were "Squeaky Clean" and "Rev-It."

There is a need for a good cleaning agent as the reactive balls have a way of acting like a sponge and soaking up floor oil, waxes, dust and dirt. The products work well and restore the performance.

Rocks rule in 2nd

■ SOCCER

After a scoreless first half, Plymouth Salem soccer coach Ken Johnson made a few halftime adjustments that resulted in three second-half goals and a 3-0 victory for the Rocks over Northville Wednesday at Northville.

The win allows Salem to improve to 14-3 overall. The Rocks next host Livonia Churchill at 7 p.m. tonight in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover match.

"They were very tough in the first half," said Johnson of the Mustangs. "They were fired up and really flying around, until halftime.

"We made a couple of changes and went to three forwards."

Andy Makins, Mike Mezgec and Ronny Mashni each capitalized on Salem's more offensive style in the second half by scoring goals. Scott Loewe assisted on Mezgec's and Mashni's goals; Drew Drummond assisted on Makins' score.

■ Canton 3, W.L. Central 0: Ryan Meath popped in two goals, propelling Plymouth Canton to victory Wednesday against visiting Walled Lake Central.

"I wasn't playing a lot of kids because we have some people banged up," coach Don Smith said. The win improved the Chiefs' record to 11-4-2 overall.

Anthony Riemma also scored a goal, and assisted on one of Meath's. Other assists went to Scott Wright and Nick Wright.

■ Country Day 5, CC 1: Redford Catholic Central stayed close for a half, but after that Beverly Hills-Detroit Country Day rolled over the visiting Shamrocks.

CC falls to 9-4-2 overall.

Country Day, ranked No. 1 in Class B, got three goals from Tim Castillo, all in the second half. His penalty kick after a CC handball at the 46-minute mark made it 3-1.

"We just kind of died after that," CC coach Phil LaJoy said.

Maurice Ojeda and Steven Chang tallied the other goals for the Yellow Jackets, now 11-0-3 overall.

CC trailed 2-0 early in the second half when Tom Derhake scored on an assist from Dan Mulvihill.

"We just made mistakes and they capitalized," LaJoy said.

and down the field against Livonia Stevenson."

After Craggs recovered a North fumble at the Raiders' 41, Mack scored on a 1-yard scamper seven plays later to give the Rocks a 14-7 lead early in the second quarter.

The Rocks' option play wasn't effective, but Salem found success running the ball straight up the middle against the Raiders on the drive.

"Their defense really came after us and ganged up to stop our option," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. "Fortunately, we were able to power the ball at them."

Both teams exchanged turnovers in the second quarter. The Raiders wasted a golden opportunity when Rivers was intercepted at the Salem 5.

"That's been pretty much the story this season," O'Leary said. "We haven't taken advantage of the breaks given to us."

A bad snap in a punt situation gave the Raiders the ball at the Salem 19 with just over a minute left in the first half. This time the Raiders capitalized as John Lessway scored on a 8-yard jaunt on a fourth-and-goal play. The two-point conversion failed, however, and Salem clung to a 14-12 halftime lead.

Lessway gained 81 yards on 12 carries before leaving the game early in the second half with a hip-pointer.

Mack completed a 14-play drive early in the fourth quarter on a 4-yard run to make it 20-12. James' extra point was wide, keeping the Raiders within striking distance.

But the Raiders failed to score as they were stopped on downs and then fumbled a handoff on their next possession, which Salem's Kevin Grim recovered.

Salem put the game out of reach when Mack scored on another 4-yard carry with 2:57 left to play.

In all, the Rocks outgained the Raiders 231-228, but were able to capitalize more often on Raider miscues.

"I thought we played well defensively," Moshimer said. "We had two breakdowns on pass coverage — one time our back slipped and the other was just blown coverage."

Certainly, Kurtis is history-in-the-making everytime he runs one, which is so often it's truly unbelievable. The 43-year-old Livonia Stevenson graduate enters 15 or 16 per year; he ran the Twin Cities Marathon two weeks ago.

Hard to believe? Yes, but what the 60 to 70 people who gathered to hear him Thursday found even harder to accept was that he could do all that running and still have a full-time job (he does, as a computer systems analyst at Ford).

Almost as hard to believe, he's actually thinking of quitting. "Maybe two more years," Kurtis said. "It takes its toll, running this hard all these years."

Of course, the biggest question is: Why do it at all? After everything he's accomplished, why continue?

"I really, really enjoy what I do," he said. He added, "The wonderful thing about it is I've been able to travel the world to do it."

And now, he gets paid a certain stipend to run — an appearance fee, if you will. Which offers some incentive.

But not enough, at least not in my mind. I keep thinking of poor Philippides (or Pheidippides); the doggone run killed him, according to legend. Sounds like a logical reason to write the whole thing off as tragic, ancient folly.

Then a guy like Kurtis has to show up and rewrite history.

SC upends Mott

■ VOLLEYBALL

Schoolcraft College made apple sauce out Thursday of host Flint Mott, beating the Eastern Conference women's volleyball leaders in five games, 15-6, 11-15, 15-4, 12-15, 15-7.

"We knocked Mott out of first place and we put ourselves in control — we can dictate our position in the conference," said SC coach Tom Teeters, whose team is 18-15 overall and 5-2 in conference. "It was a big effort by our team.

"But we still must win every conference match. On the plus side, those matches are at home."

Freshman setter Andrea Greer was the team's top playmaker with 55 assists. She also He "Andrea was able to move the ball around and take advantage of their small (5-foot, 2-inch) blocking setter," Teeters said.

Hermina Angeles was SC's top attacker with 20 kills. Michelle MacRae added 14, while Tracy Sledz (Livonia Clarenceville) and Jamie Clark (Livonia Churchill) added 12 each. Clark also had 40 digs.

McRae led with six blocks. Stacy Sailus added five.

Crusaders win agin

Junior middle hitter Kelly McCausland (Redford Union) had 18 kills and 14 digs Thursday, leading host Madonna University to a 15-9, 15-9, 16-14 triumph over Siena Heights University.

"This was a match where we got a chance to get everyone in, and offensive, we hit the ball extremely hard," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham, whose team is 21-8 overall. "Our defense was set up to Siena Heights' off-speed type game, and that gave us a few problems.

"But I thought some of our younger players played well and got some game experience. I'm happy with the outcome."

■ The 6-2 Martin was named NAIA Great Lakes Section II Player of the Week after averaging 4.12 kills and 2.06 blocks per game as Madonna went 5-0 for the week. In 17 games, Martin recorded 70 kills with a .359 attack percentage, along with 35 blocks, 34 digs and seven service aces. She was also successful on 48 of 50 serves for a .960 percentage.

Tie gives North title over Stevenson

■ TENNIS

North Farmington and host Livonia Stevenson, scoring 22 points each, tied for first at last week's Western Lakes Activities Association girls tennis tournament.

But the WLAA championship trophy goes to North, which won the overall title based on a better dual-meet record during the regular season.

The difference was a half-point.

During the regular season, the Raiders and Stevenson tied 4-4 in their only meeting, but North finished 10-0-1 while the Spartans, who also tied Northville, 4-4, finished 9-0-2.

Third place was also a battle between Northville and Farmington Hills Harrison.

Harrison, 8-2-1 during the regular season, scored 16 points, while Northville, 8-0-2, finished with 15. See statistical summary.

"We've always done it 50-50 and that puts more pressure on you at the league meet," North coach Norm Staniszewski said. "We've been third in the tournament before and it costs you. It's more pressure than the duals.

"It couldn't get any closer. I don't like those close meets."

Sophomore Rachel Wool, the top seed at No. 4 singles, earned a three-set victory over Harrison's Lindsay Frank in the finals to clinch the team title for North.

"Rachel's been a steady player all year," Staniszewski said of the 10th-grader. "She was undefeated in the league and her only loss was to Bloomfield Hills Andover."

The Raiders also won the No. 4 doubles flight behind the efforts of sophomore Kristina Kraljevic and junior Elyse Lakritz. The North duo was also seeded No. 1.

North also piled up points by reaching the finals at No. 3 singles, No. 1 and No. 3 doubles.

Harrison's unseeded Brittany Maxey, a freshman, dealt North sophomore Sarah Hand her first WLAA loss in the finals at No. 3 singles, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1. In the semifinals, Maxey also upset No. 2 seed Amanda Kowal of Walled Lake Central, 6-2, 6-4.

"I thought we'd win at No. 3 singles, but they had gone three sets before and I knew it be close," Staniszewski said. "I knew we had a solid team because of the balance. Our No. 3 and 4 doubles teams gave us some depth.

"And our No. 1 (Lauren Jones) has played consistent tennis. She's always been a stalwart."

Clanton downed Stevenson sophomore Whitney Crosby in the finals, 6-7, 6-4, 6-1. Crosby, who is 17-3 overall, who lost earlier this year to Jones, gained a 6-4, 6-0 win over the North girl.

Sophomores Lindsay Pfeifer and Anita Plante, the No. 1 seeds, erased a 4-1 third-set deficit to beat North's senior duo of Erica Brown and Jennifer Panush for the No. 1 doubles crown, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4.

At No. 2, senior Kristi DiBasio and junior Pam Samsel, the top seeds, took the title with a 6-4, 6-4 win over Northville's Amanda Nelson and Sarah Johnson, avenging a three-set dual-meet loss.

At No. 3, seniors Kajal Badani and Andrea Khoury capped an undefeated WLAA season with a 6-2 6-0 win over North's Jenny Yen and Danielle Weisman.

SOCCER

Ocelots bouncing faltering Macomb

George Abuamsha is becoming quite a set-up man.

The Westland John Glenn High product assisted on three goals Wednesday, leading host Schoolcraft College to a 5-0 men's soccer victory over visiting Macomb CC.

"George has really been playing well of late," said SC coach Van Dimitriou, whose team is 8-2-2 overall and 5-0 in the Eastern Conference of the Michigan Community College Athletic Association.

LINDA BACHRACK

Are you sick and tired of hearing about business casual? Everyone seemed to handle "Casual Fridays" just fine. Then suddenly Fridays evolved into every day of the week and "Business Casual" became de rigeuer.

If you ask me, casual is casual. You don't need a guide to tell you that ripped jeans, Budweiser T-shirts and dirty sweats are NOT welcome in the work place. Just think neat, clean and pressed. For guys, it's business as usual sans the coat and tie. And as for women, I believe we always had enough fashion savvy to discern tasteful from tacky.

After hours ugly

The real dilemma comes after the workday is over. Do you routinely walk in the door, peel off your pantyhose, shed anything that is the least bit restrictive, and throw on a robe or a pair of old sweatpants? Seems like the sensible thing to do . . . But, I recently heard from a teenager who proclaimed that her professional mom embarrassed her with the aforementioned routine.She complained that her mom's apres work attire was so awful that she wouldn't let her friends come over after school. So, if you're a mom who doesn't have the luxury of flopping on the couch at 5 p.m.; if you have to entertain your kids' friends, or drive carpool, or pick up groceries or dry cleaning, what can you wear that's more attractive, but just as comfortable as your well-worn baggy stirrups or sweats?

Expect the unexpected

Start your search in the lingerie departments. Saks Fifth Avenue at Fairlane in Dearborn has jewel-toned velour separates and cute cotton dusters. At Neiman Marcus in the Somerset Collection, Troy, find zip-front Ruth Norman caftans in exotic designs, drawstring-waist pajama-like pants with coordinating tops that are way too pretty to wear inside the house, and sleek hostess tunics with matching pants.

In the Leisure Sportswear department at Neiman's, look for the reasonably priced Cotton Stuff separates. The cotton knits are available in elastic-waist pants and shorts, as well as skirts, jumpers and vests. The colors are pretty autumn hues of sage, putty, slate blue and beige.

Freesport is another comfy cotton French terry linc that features yarn-dyed tops and bottoms with banded cuffs.

At Liz Claiborne in the Somerset Collection, getting cozy is easy and attractive in a red polyester fleece anorak, cotton striped turtleneck and black drawstring pants.Jantzen's take on easy-care casual wear includes embroidered tunic sweaters, country quilt turtleneck sweatshirts and pull-on corduroy, denim or cotton twill pants that are available at area Crowley's stores.

Finally, Hudson's encourages you to relax in style in a denim jumper and T-shirt, a Polartec shirt jacket and rib stretch pant or a plaid flannel shirt with a corduroy shirt jacket and stretchy roll-cuff pencil pants (most pieces under $40).

As for the man in your life — a recent survey revealed that most men watch television in their underwear . . . Well, give that guy of yours a little loungewear class with DKNY's black nylon and spandex boxing shorts and a white cotton long sleeve crewneck. This outfit has a "cabana attitude" rather than a couch potato look and it might inspire him to jog around the neighborhood or at least stroll the baby around the block, available at Saks Fifth Avenue).

Discount stores trade chic for savings

To shop (according to Webster's New World Dictionary) is to go from store to store looking for bargains or special items. Therefore, "real" shoppers frequent the discount emporiums.

Close outs! Manufacturer's over runs! Special purchases!

The sight and sound of these words sends shivers down the spines of bargain hunters everywhere. Locally, shoppers seeking the lowest prices find them in the aisles of these fun and fascinating stores:

Amazing Savings!: 14 Mile and Orchard Lake in Farmington Hills. Wild assortment of merchandise includes kitchenware, office supplies, paper party goods, tools, toys, cosmetics, silver and crystal.

New merchandise arrives daily. Manager advises customers to stop in two or three times a week. Buyers scour trade shows and pester manufacturers for low prices on close out merchandise. Shoppers see savings of 50 to 70-percent off retail.

Limited amounts of merchandise. No special orders. Prices are rock bottom. Amazing Savings is closed on Saturdays.

Tuesday Morning: Square Lake and Woodward in Bloomfield Hills; 14 Mile and Haggerty in Farmington Hills; 10 Mile and Meadowbrook in Novi. Based in Dallas, Texas. Open four times a year. Offers buy outs and discontinued products at savings of 50 to 80-percent off retail. Limited merchandise quantities. Manager advises customers to arrive "as soon as possible" after ads announce opening sales. Tuesday Morning operates seven days during sales. Closed Dec. 31 through Feb. 24.

Marshall's: Several area locations: Elizabeth Lake and Telegraph in Pontiac; Avon and Rochester in Rochester Hills; Orchard Lake in Farmington Hills; Southfield Rd. north of 12 Mile in Southfield; Novi and Roseville. With 500 locations across the U.S., the company's bulk buying provides bi[illegible]gs for customers in clean, orderly stores. Merchandise arrives by truck three times a week. Up to 60-percent off retail, (often higher on sale items). Also sells over-buys from stores like The Limited, Structure, as well as merchandise created especially for Marshall's.

T.J. Maxx: Numerous locations since 1977. Company suggests shoppers call local managers to see what days new merchandise arrives before shopping. Vendors and manufacturers offer T.J. Maxx great deals on over runs, discontinued merchandise, and special purchases. Company does not offer shipping, transfers or merchandise searches. Savings between 20 and 60-percent off retail price, more on clearance racks. Great source for saving on gifts and designer wardrobe basics.

Value City Department Stores: Warren and Newburg in Westland; Telegraph and Eureka in Taylor. New ads break on Wednesdays, best times to shop follow. Savings of 50 to 70 percent on housewares, clothing, shoes and furnishings. Low prices come from buyouts of over-runs and discontinued merchandise.

Designer Shoe Warehouse: Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield; Rochester Road between 16 and 17 Mile, Troy.

Emilia Castillo designs art for the table

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Suggest that silver-designer Emilia Castillo lives a dream-like in paradise, and she's the first to agree.

"I surely do have many blessings," she winked at daughters Alex, 11, and Christina, 8, who accompanied her on a recent visit to Neiman Marcus in the Somerset Collection, Troy.

From her "ranch" (read production compound with 300 employees) in Taxco, Mexico, the petite brunette and her daughters, design, manufacture, and sell tableware, trophies, sculpture and jewelry across the globe. Clients include The Vatican, Prince Charles of England, and specialty stores like Neiman Marcus.

Castillo and partner/husband Roberto Romo, talked about their craft and company over breakfast in the department store's cafe. Their charm would make you smile. Emilia's enthusiasm for her life and work, would make you envious.

"My daughters are third generation silversmiths and designers," she said with pride. "They have their own workspace in my studio and they love to draw and create ideas. Their jewelry line is a favorite with people around the world.

"Last year in Paris, we met an older woman who told us she wears the girls' pins because they are young and happy. Her trademark is to give our pins away as gifts."

Alex looked at her mother and asked to say a few words on behalf of her own designs.

"I love to draw them," she said with a shy authority. "I am working on some necklaces and pretty silver frames now, and candleholders that come apart to make three."

Emilia explained that four silversmiths are assigned to her daughters' drawings, charged with recreating the best ideas in metal. The pins, exclusive to Neiman Marcus, cost $30 to $80.

"My girls are fortunate to attend the school that has been provided at the ranch for the children of the craftsmen," Emilia continued. "The children wear uniforms, study computer, art, English, and Japanese. This year is the first to add high school. We have 65 students, some who may eventually become apprentices at our workshops."

"Everything we do is by hand, custom," Castillo continued. "We have resisted installing machines like other silver companies in the area. I try and tell them, 'You are putting local people out of business,' but they incorrectly believe I do not want them to grow or succeed. We are dedicated to our way because we see the prosperity that being part of our company brings to young Mexican families."

At the ranch the family enjoys horseback riding, natural waterfalls and tropical gardens — luxuries brought about by the town's natural silver deposits and the artistry of Emilia's father, Antonio, and uncles Coco and Chato, who were apprentices of American architect William Spratling in the late 1930s in Taxco.

Vacationing, Spratling came across the town's magnificent silver cathedral, erected to God in the 1700s as repayment for His gift of silver. Spratling recognized the artistry in the sleepy town's trade. He settled in the area to learn its techniques and create silver pieces, now collector's items.

■ 'When I designed this gift, I pictured a very serious man with many problems on his shoulders needing, like a little boy, to pull the tail, relax, have some ease from the tensions of the day.'

Emilia Castillo designer

The Castillo's met and married in 1978. Romo explained that it was a "shotgun" wedding quickly arranged by Emilia's father an hour after the pair returned from touring a site in Acapulco that would eventually become their award-winning restaurant "Madeiras." The restaurant was sold when the couple decided to focus all energies on becoming metalwork innovators.

Today the Castillos make one-of-a-kind silver pieces by request for governments and crown heads of state. They also make holloware, flatware, dinnerware and sculpture for the rest of us. Most pieces are silverplated, but sterling pieces are created for customers by special order through Emilia Castillo stores in Taxco, Paris, Milan and St. Barts.

Castillo said her crowning achievement came in 1992, when her company completed a cross for the interior of the Chapel of Guadalupe in the Vatican using 800 kilos of silver, donated by the people of Mexico. The chapel is near St. Peter's tomb.

She is also proud of a World Polo Masters trophy she fashioned for the government of Mexico (recently won by Prince Charles), and a silver iguana for the governor of Mexico which she uses to illustrate her design philosophy.

"The iguana's tail rattles and the body can be moved many different ways," she explained. "When I designed this gift, I pictured a very serious man with many problems on his shoulders needing, like a little boy, to pull the tail, relax, have some ease from the tensions of the day. I try to add humor to all my designs for this reason."

The Castillos continue to improve their craft, working high-tech materials into their designs and adding new color tones. Collectors have come to appreciate Castillo's unique process of fusing pure silver and porcelain, and her silverplate pieces fused with malachite. She promises to continue embellishing her pieces with inspirations from the tropical landscape that surrounds her — scampering iguanas, ephemeral butterflies and dancing fish.

Two malls will offer college scholarships

Laurel Park Place and Wonderland Mall in Livonia are speaking up for higher education.

The centers announced a first annual scholarship program for local high school classes of 1996, based on responses to an essay question. Winners will be selected by local educator judges.

Laurel Park Place and Wonderland Malls plan to award $2,500 in scholarships, divided among first, second and third place essay winners.

The first place winners will receive $1,500, second and third place winners will receive $500 each. Checks will be made out directly to the winning students with proof of enrollment at the college or vocational school of their choice. The scholarship awards can be used toward the purchase of books, supplies or the cost of classes.

The scholarships are based on the essay question "How will your college education benefit you and your community?" Principals and counselors will judge the essays.

In March 1996 there will be award ceremonies for the winners and their families at Laurel Park Place and Wonderland Malls. At that time, all winner will read their essays on stage in Center Court at both Laurel Park Place and Wonderland Malls.

Interested high school seniors can contact their school's office to pick up a scholarship program application. For additional information, students can contact their school's office, Laurel Park Place's Management Office at (313) 462-1100, or Wonderland Mall's Managment Office at (313) 522-4100.

■ COLOR ME, YELLOW!
Somerset Collection officials want shoppers and area residents who have called the shopping center complaining about "That awful color of Nordstroms!" to know that the building's yellow exterior is merely the insulation surface and NOT the finished product.

■ SAKS PRESENTS HERMES
The Hermes Fragrance Collection debuts this month at Saks Fifth Avenue Dearborn and Troy. The Hermes Collection has three fragrances for women: "Caleche," "Amazone," and "Parfum d'Hermes"; two masculine fragrances "Equipage" and "Bel Ami"; and two unisex sport fragrances: "Eau de Cologne" and "Eau d'Hermes". Products include perfumes, body powders, bath gels, soaps and cream lotions.

Also new: XS Pour Elle by Paco Rabanne, a feminine counterpart to XS for men. Customers are invited to sample these new fragrances, located on the first floor.

■ WHISTLE ON VIOLENCE
The Body Shop stores are selling a whistle through Oct. 21, with proceeds going to benefit victims of domestic violence and programs for violence prevention.

Henry Ford HEALTH SYSTEM

HENRY FORD WYANDOTTE HOSPITAL

ONE GOOD NAME DESERVES ANOTHER.

Innovations that continually improve the level of health care available to our community. That's what you find at Henry Ford Wyandotte Hospital. Now that we have built a partnership with Henry Ford Health System we can serve our community even better. And soon, we'll be building something else... a multi-million dollar replacement and expansion project to meet the needs of the Downriver community into the 21st century. Our new and expanded emergency room, operating suites, obstetrical suites and cardiac services are just a few of the areas that demonstrate this commitment to improving the quality of our services and facilities. While our name, size and resources grow, our focus remains the same: serving the Downriver community.

At Henry Ford Health System, our vertically integrated system redefines the idea of health care delivery. We remain committed to providing superior, comprehensive care to our own patients, which in turn raises the level of care available throughout the country. It's an exciting process that works because of the talent and resources behind it. And if your ambitions are as advanced as your talent, you can find your place within our system.

'95 Lincoln Continental gives Lexus a run for its money

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

CARMEL, Calif. — When Lexus came on the market five years ago, American luxury carmakers didn't really take the threat to heart. It was a mistake they later regretted.

Today, the battle to sell a state-of-the-art luxury car to demanding American car buyers isn't so clear-cut. The redesigned Lincoln Continental complicates everything. This car should prove to be one of Ford Motor Co.'s better ideas of all time.

But let's back up for a sec to get some perspective on the luxury car segment. When Lincoln-Mercury introduced the Mark VIII about 18 months ago, many thought the light bulb had burned out at Ford. The VIII didn't look, feel or act like a luxury car. It just didn't compete with Lexus and Infiniti. And the previous-generation Continental didn't rate, either.

But the lightbulb is back on in the heads of engineers at Ford's Lincoln-Mercury Division with this 1995 Continental, which should make its pricier import competitors shudder.

This is a Lexus LS 400 with a Lincoln nameplate on it.

The Continental's MSRP is $41,375, up from the previous model's base price of $34,375. Ford expects to sell at least 30,000 Continentals in 1995.

Keith McGee, vice president and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury Division, said the Continental was not built from the ground up.

"The Continental was built from the customer out," he said. "Our mission was to build the best front-wheel-drive luxury car in the world. Every aspect of Continental is personalized for the individual driver."

Herein lies the rub. Personalization for at least two drivers has never been done — by a domestic or foreign automaker.

Oh, sure, we've seen those little memory buttons on the driver's door that can recall seating and steering-wheel placement for two different drivers. But this sets everything. Or everything that you change when you get into a car to drive.

Lincoln calls it the Memory Profile System, and it's comprehensive. Each driver can set his or her own preferences for autolamp delay settings, inside and outside mirror positions, seat positions, instrument lighting intensity, easy entry and exit seating positions, ride firmness (plush, normal and firm), variable assist steering effort (low, medium and high) and even radio station presets.

The driver can also set on and off positions for the door lock confirmation chirp, automatic express-down driver's window, automatic door locks at 3 miles per hour and automatic tilt-down outside rearview mirrors that help drivers see better when they're backing out of a space.

All this can be programmed in the driver's seat by scrolling through a message center in the instrument panel. Once all the selections are made, the driver can set the program by using the key fob or by choosing the "driver 1" or "driver 2" buttons on the driver's door panel.

And if you just don't want to fool with it — as some mature drivers who aren't computer-oriented — it can all be set at the dealership at delivery, as many times as the owner wishes, said Fred Simon, project manager for the Continental.

"What we're doing is tailoring the car for each individual customer, and (that) lets us build a car around the customer," he said. "Such personalization of a car is the first of its kind in the industry."

The Continental is powered by an all-new InTech V-8 engine. It's Ford's first transverse-mounted front-wheel-drive engine and the first time the Continental has ever had a V-8.

The car's got a 4.6-liter dual overhead cam four-valve 8-cylinder that produces a more-than-adequate 260 horsepower. It has 62 percent more power than the 3.6-liter V6 it replaces, and has a zero-60 time of 7.6 seconds.

Due to its platinum spark plugs, the InTech engine can go 100,000 miles without a tune-up and is coupled to a beefy 4-speed automatic transmission, a computer-managed air suspension, load-leveling suspension and four-wheel independent suspension system.

Other changes on the Continental:

* There's a 5-disc CD changer in the center console (rather than in the trunk).

* A hands-free, voice-activated cellular phone is new. The phone is so sensitive that it can even detect your individual voice even if you have a cold. And, more importantly, it won't voice-activate a call during normal conversation. It only calls if you direct a command to make the call. This is an important feature because previous voice systems would dial "the jerk" if that was a keyword, causing embarrassment since the driver didn't really mean to call "the jerk" right now.

Anti-lock brakes, dual airbags, side-impact standards that meet the 1998 federal standards and 5 mph bumpers round out the safety package.

"The interior and exterior design enhancements make the 1995 Continental a more than worthy opponent for its import and domestic competition," said L-M GM McGee.

Creative Style at Expressions Custom Furniture

Rose Kelly fell in love with Birmingham. After serving as regional manager of Expressions Custom Furniture, the 80 franchise national furniture store chain, she visited the Birmingham store many times. When it became available for purchase in August, Kelly took the plunge and bought it. She is in the process of moving permanently to Birmingham from Paramus, New Jersey.

Expressions offers custom upholstered furniture and unique accessories delivered in 45 days. The electic store which emphasizes imaginative presentations of furniture and accessories - sells hundreds of styles of sofas, chairs, etc. which can be further modified by the customer. They can not only individualize the fabric, but can change other styling details as well as such as the arms, the skirt and an assortment of possible variations.

"Our customers will never see their exact couch or chair anywhere else," says Kelly. "And we emphasize the total look that the customer is trying to achieve. Sometimes people get new furniture and have a look in mind that they see in the store. But when they get it all home, somehow it doesn't look quite the way they imagined it. We offer in -home design consultation to help pull the whole look together for our customers. We want to replicate the feeling they got in the store. We know they are seeking to make a statemeant of style which is more than just furniture. That's where Expressions is different than the ordinary furniture store."

The female staff at Expressions, in addition to owner Kelly, includes Manager Nancy Kwik, four sales consultants and the bookkeeper. As of November 1, new merchandise and an entire new look that compliments the new merchandise, will be completed. This is the way Expressions presents all of its new collections as they come out during the year.

At Expressions even our plastic is beautiful. We offer our customers an Expressions credit card. This convenience allows our customers to charge purchases of fabric, upholstered furniture case goods or accessories and pay for them late. Expressions has over 750 fabrics ranging from canvas to plush cut velvets. Their luxurious pillows and throws make gret home gifts.

During the month of October they are having their greatest sale of the year the progressive furniture sale: Save 25% on your first upholstered piece, 30% on the second and 35% on the third.

Expressions Custom Furniture is located in Birmingham at 880 S. Woodward at the Hunter Split. Phone (810) 647-8882.

Hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Thursday 10 a.m.-8 p.m.; Saturday 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and Sunday 1 p.m.-5 p.m.

Rose Kelly of Expressions Custom Furniture.

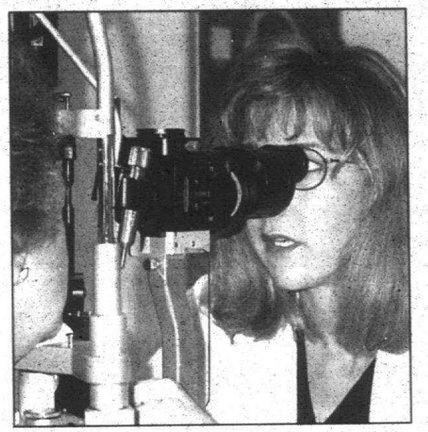
The Latest in Fashion, the Best in Care - Family Eye Care Does It All

"Eyewear is no longer just a medical appliance, it's a fashion accessory too," says Grace Gluskin, owner of Family Eye Care, who along with optometrist Dr. Lynn Miller and assistant Donna Warman, provide a comprehensive approach to all patients. With 25 years of doing business in Farmington Hills,



Dr. Miller does several tests as part of a comprehensive examination.

Gluskin has seen eyewear's evolution from function to include fashion. "You wouldn't wear the same clothes to paint the garage and go to a wedding," says Gluskin. "It's the same with glasses."

"There was a time little girls cried when they were told they needed glasses. Now many of them cry when they're told they don't need glasses." Today, glasses make a statement. In fact, in business, glasses can be a power accessory.

With over 500 frame styles, including designer lines such as Armani and Versace, the choices can be overwhelming. What sets Family Eye Care apart is that they offer more personal follow through to serve your fashion needs and eye health. With hours by appointment, patients get the full attention of Gluskin and her staff.

Some of the specialty glasses that Family Eye Care offers include safety eyeware for athletics, progressive lenses and sunglasses. One of the latest innovations is glasses made of metals that bounce back if they are crushed.

Family Eye Care also fits contact lenses.

The hottest new look in glasses is the retro look which features smaller lenses and wire frames.

"The scope of our care includes treating visual needs, as well as diagnosis and treatment of infections, inflammations diseases of the eye," says Dr. Miller. "Everyone should have a yearly eye exam to screen for silent diseases such as glaucoma and high blood pressure," she cautions, "because the health of the eye reflects the health of the whole body," Dr. Miller also points out that children's health is especially important because "visual problems may affect learning."

Donna Warman, Dr. Miller and Grace Gluskin help patient Pat Green choose new frames.

"We are proud of the personal service we provide," says Gluskin whose husband (now deceased) started the business. "We know our patients well. We see them every year and keep track of their needs.

Family Eye Care is located at 31154 Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills. Hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Evening and Saturday hours are available by appointment. Phone is 810-626-2111.

Special is the word to remember when thinking of Lee's Specialty at 4076 W. Maple in Bloomfield Hills, Solange Messelian, owner of the 20 year old stationery, invitation and gift store, is dedicated to helping each customer create a new and exciting invitation or special stationery. "We offer invitations for any occasion in any budget from birth announcements to weddings and everything in between," says Messelian. "Our stationery selections range from personal to corporate."

sSolange aims to satisfy a wide range of tastes with over 200 books of stock to choose from. She also works with customers to customize items so that they can create something unique. The staff of Lee's Specialty can produce custom orders in house or will assist customers in assembling their work at home. "If customers are willing to do some of the work themselves such as mounting parts together or tying and wrapping," explains Messelian, "we show them how, which saves them money and they have fun doing it."

The staff at Lee's Specialty takes time to sit down and help clients think through their goals and plans for the special event. In this way they help to come up with the best ideas for invitations and other stationery to make sure everything is well coordinated and the special event is unique, exciting and a great success.

Messelian has been the owner of Lee's Specialty for nine years, with the help of daughters Kristen Keoleian and Lauren Messelian. Just two weeks ago, they doubled their showroom space, moving next door to the original location. With the new showroom space, Lee's Specialty is able to show off a great variety of these gifts. Wonderful hostess gifts are available in every price range so that you always have something that "looks nice" when visiting friends and relatives. Lee's Specialty offer gift wrapping at no charge.

The specially trained staff at Lee's Specialty are equipped to handle the finishing touches for their customers from managing the guest list to hand cancelling and mailing the invitation. They also offer the services of hand calligraphers and a calligraphy machine.

"Special occasions are happy times but also very stressful times. We try to be as helpful as we can. We help find sources for other services our customers need for the occasions. We follow through so they don't have to. Actually we worry for them," says Solange.

Lee's Specialty is open 9:30-5 Monday through Friday and 10-4 Saturday. Call 810-646-6700.

Kiddlywinks, High Fashion for Kids At the At Home Store

Cindy Obron Kahn, former teacher, former New York children's retailer, and mom, has brought the perfect blend of experience to the extremely popular Kiddlywinks, children's apparel store, at 286 W. Maple in downtown Birmingham. Now in its 10th year, Kiddlywinks moved to a new, larger location 8 months ago from its former home just down the street on Maple. Though double in size, at 1,200 sq. ft., Kiddlywinks has stuck to Kahn's philosophy for being a comfortable, at home, kind of place to shop. In fact the couch is right there to plop down on and watch the large screen TV equipped with VCR. The decor strikes a balance between California open and airy and yet charmingly nostalgic; every spare nook housing not only apparel but wooden toys, bookends, clocks, picture frames, etc. "I've always wanted to make people feel like they could come right in and sit on the floor if they wanted to, and we were careful to keep that atmosphere in the new store," she says.

Former teacher, former N.Y. children's retailer & mom, Cindy Obron Kahn, owner of Kiddlywinks knows kids clothes.

Kahn shows clothes and specialty items from Europe, New York and the West Coast, focusing on what is the most unusual right now and then she quickly moves on. She's known for being ahead of everyone else with new styles for kids. "I buy not what I like but what I absolutely love," she says. "If something doesn't strike me the first time. I don't buy it. If I wouldn't put it on my kids (8 and 3), I don't buy it."

Her theory equates to a cross section of moderate and upscale lines including 100% cotton and mix and match. Sizes range from newborn to 14, while prices, she says, are "completely across the board."

"We're very friendly to everyone who comes in here," says Kahn. A significant part of making customers comfortable according to Kahn is treating them equally. "Whether it's someone who spends $1,000 or $20," she says, "we treat them the same way. Every customer is important."s

Azar Alizadeh Carries on a Family Tradition

Rug selling is in her blood. Azar Alizadeh, whose store bears her first name, is a tenth generation rug dealer who learned her trade by working in a store owned by her family in Europe. She came to the United States and started a small store and has been expanding ever since. Her husband, an engineer by profession, joined her in the business and now her Birmingham location houses 3,000 rugs. They have three other locations in Farmington Hills, Troy's Design Center and Grand Rapids.

Customers return to Azar's because they receive outstanding service and a unique variety of quality oriental rugs. "I pick each rug one by one," says Mrs. Alizadeh, "I don't buy in mass quantities and we carry some rugs with exclusive designs." She also points out that oriental rugs are surprisingly affordable because they last a long time and the expense is spread out over the many years of use. By way of example, an average price for a 4-foot by 6-foot hooked rug is about $200, or at the higher end, fine silk rugs run $2,000. "Also, many rugs appreciate in value over time. They are like works of art," she adds.

To illustrate how unique each rug is, Mrs. Alizadeh recalled the story about a rug she had bought from an antique dealer and displayed it in her showroom. One day a woman came in, saw the rug and started to cry. It reminded her of one that had been in her grandmother's home. After some checking, it became apparent that this indeed was the same rug, and the customer bought it.

Among her clients are nationally-known celebrities, but what advice does Mrs. Alizadeh give for the average buyer? "They need to feel comfortable with the merchant, take their time, measure the space and decide what colors they want," she explains. "If a room is unfurnished, it is best to start with the rug. It is a basic piece that you can build around nicely. If you already have furniture, pick out one or two colors to work with," she advises. Azar's can help with in-home decorating services. They also offer customers the chance to take a rug home and try it out.

The Alizadeh's are dedicated members of their community. They recently received an award from Birmingham's Community House, honoring their involvement in benefit fundraisers and their work in race relations. They belong to the city's race relations task force and often host meetings in their home.

Azar's carries many kinds of rugs including contemporary, Tibetian, Dhurri, French needlepoint and traditional oriental designs. They also repair, clean and appraise rugs, and offer next-day delivery for purchases. The main showroom at 670 S. Woodward in Birmingham, is open Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sundays, noon to 5 p.m. Call 1-800-622-RUGS.

Early Education Expert Guides Adventures in Toys

Michelle Littman, a veteran special education teacher and former nursery school owner, knew she had the kind of experience to create an unparalleled toy store when she opened Adventures in Toys six years ago at 163 W. Maple in downtown Birmingham.

The fantasy like toy store, brimming over with every imaginable toy, is a regular stop for area parents and their children as well as customers who come from across the state to find just the right toy for the child in their lives.

Michelle's goal is to guide her customers to the developmentally proper toy for the youngster, so that the toy stays a great treasure full of long lasting play value. She is in the know about what is the latest and best in toys for children and has built a national reputation for being ahead of the "game." Michelle is also devoted to carrying the very finest tried and true toys that are beloved in every generation.

What is her secret in selecting toys? "I always trust the children," says Michelle, who is a veteran watcher of children at play. "They know good toys."

We try to educate our customers to the most valuable toy for their children and away from toys the children will tire of easily. "In fact, most people are astounded by the attention span children display when they are playing with a really good toy," says Michelle.

Michelle emphasizes that her entire staff has extended background giving guidance to children whether it be as a teacher, parent or grandparent and are more than willing to help.

Michelle is a resident of Birmingham and has worked in the area for nearly 16 years. She is grateful for the support of the local community for Adventures in Toys and values the ongoing relationship she has with customers. "We know our customers," she says, "and they count on us."

Adventures in Toys offers a registration service for birthdays, showers, and free gift wrapping is also offered.

Toys from all over the world are carried for everyone from infants to adults. Adventures In Toys has a truly remarkable selection in many categories including stuffed animals, dolls, crafts, art supplies, construction, sports, games, puzzles, puppets, childrens videos, CD ROMs, books, science, outdoor equipment, etc.

Michelle is proud of this variety as well as the superb quality of the toys that she sells. Bring the children in and experience the adventure or call (810) 646-5550.

On The Move - Women of Physical Therapy of Birmingham

Common goals in business and Physical Therapy brought together partners Julie Stork, Karen Parker, and Roxanne Johnson. These three women operate an advanced physical therapy center in downtown Birmingham. Traditional therapy, Craniosacral Therapy, Visceral Manipulation, Rolfing® (deep soft tissue program), Feldenkrais® (movement), and Massage Therapy combine to create specialized treatment programs for each patient. The quiet, tranquil setting of PTB provides the privacy needed for the techniques that are offered there.

Physical Therapy of Birmingham treats patients of all ages. Patients are referred by their physicians (M.D., D.O., D.D.S.).

"We do not want our patients to remain in therapy longer than necessary," states administator Julie Stork. "Therefore, there is a great deal of emphasis on self-management of pain and posture. Patients are educated in balance and coordination during their program."

Separate from physical therapy, PTB offers Fluid Motion® classes on Thursday evenings instructed by Joann Serota, Performance Enhancement Programs (to improve skills - sports, walking, sitting) and individual massages (by Deb Westley).

Physical Therapy of Birmingham is located at 700 N. Woodward, Suite 102, in the Maplewood Office Park. To arrange for these classes or to set up an appointment call (810) 647-5877.

Joie de Vie and Chelsea Antiques A European Corner in Birmingham

It's like walking into a little corner of Europe when you visit the two antique stores located at one address at 700 North Woodward - nestled among the charming galleries in Uptown Birmingham.

Joie de Vie offers authentic country French antiques, fine European pine reproductions and country accessories imported from France. Next door, Chelsea Antiques Ltd., is reminiscent of the Chelsea area of London which is full of eclectic antique shops. Chelsea Antiques offers authentic 18th and 19th century English and French furniture along with a full array of Chinese and Japanese porcelain, pottery and other accessories.

Joie de Vie is owned by Joy Clenet-Brearley and Valerie Braud-Walsh of Harbor Springs where two Joie de Vie stores are located, including the original which is located in a farmhouse that would sit just as well in the French countryside as a country road leading to Petoskey. Joy, originally from Franklin, Michigan, married a Frenchman and moved to France where she met her future best friend and business partner Valerie. Later both women moved to Michigan with their respective families. Pamela Evans is the in-house interior designer and store manager of Joie de Vie in Birmingham. "It was Joy and Valerie who really started the trend toward French country antiques in this area," she confides. The Birmingham Joie de Vie is replete with comfortable French country items ranging from tiny French soap, pottery and colorful flowered linens to farmhouse tables and authentic French armoire's plucked from real French Chateaus. Evans' decorating finesse was shown off and admired in this year's Detroit Symphony Show House and the Detroit Junior League Show House. Evans says that Joie de Vie has built a strong reputation among individual customers and designers for finding hard to get European antiques. The store offers its "Want List" which is actually a wish list. When a coveted item shows up on the European antique market, Joie de Vie gets it for the patient customers.

Chelsea Antiques Ltd. is owned by partners Francine T. McGuire and Norma B. Kestler. Interior designer McGuire met Kestler while both were working at Walter Hertz Interiors. Kestler, an avid antiques collector, and McGuire who had worked at another antique shop for over 16 years had often talked about the possibility of owning their own place. They feel like Chelsea Antiques Ltd. is a dream come true.

McGuire and Kestler take regular buying trips to England and Scotland and also get items from sources in the South, Midwest and Canada. The result is an elegant but comfortable and eclectic atmosphere in their store, showing off fabulous large pieces as well as small treasures.

Chelsea Antiques has been invited to design rooms in the Detroit Symphony Designer Show Houses for many years. Last year, its show house kitchen, featuring period antique chairs, chandeliers and one of a kind accessories, was featured in Woman's Day Kitchen and Bath summer magazine issue. Readers from Colorado, Arizona, Nevada and California called Chelsea Antiques which has, in turn, successfully placed outstanding pieces with these clients.

The extensive resources of McGuire and Kestler, at Chelsea Antiques, allow them to offer design services that are personalized and custom tailored to various clients' tastes.

Doll Hospital & Toy Soldier Shop Is A Family Affair

A 47-year-old, third generation family business dedicated to preserving traditional toys and learning activities is housed at The Doll Hospital and Toy Soldier Shop at 3947 W. 12 Mile in Berkley, (810) 543-3115.

Since children often don't see toys like these on television, a trip to The Doll Hospital can be an eye-opener. It's a wonderland of thousands of hand-crafted toys, made of wood or metal, durable and collectible, that have the ability to stimulate a child's imagination. Children may discover "new" toys that just happened to have delighted their great-great grandparents when they were kids.

Jim, Stacey & Kay of The Doll Hospital.

There are smartly dressed antique dolls from all periods, modern collectible dolls, metal-based, hand-painted toys soldiers, a doll house village and thousands of exquisite miniatures. Vintage-style trains, bears and Erector sets are also available.

Good service keeps customers coming back. Whether installing a large, wooden play system, restoring a doll, or assembling and painting a doll house, a genuine interest in customer satisfaction is evident among the employees.

Kay and Roger Parish first started the store in 1948. Ruth and Jack, their children carried on the tradition and now the third generation, Stacey and brother-in-law Jim run the operation along with Jim's wife Cindy and an experienced and caring staff.

The Doll Hospital and Toy Soldier Shop is completing their new wing. This expansion will offer you easier shopping and improved displays. They have literally hundreds of ideas of how to better present their traditional toy concepts to you and your kids. Watch for them in the months to come. The store is open Monday through Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Fridays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Innovative Invites and Cards are in the Bag at Barbara's Paper Bag

It may be close to Halloween but Susan Sivak, owner of Barbar's Paper Bag, the stationery and gift shop at 147 Pierce in downtown Birmingham, has her mind on Christmas. That's the busiest time of the year for Barbara's Paper Bag and Ms. Sivak is especially proud of the store's collection of holiday cards, invitations and other paper goods - which she believes is the best selection in the area.

Susan Sivak, owner of Barbara's Paper Bag in downtown Birmingham, already has her sights on the holiday season with a special selection of cards and gifts.

Susan bought Barbara's Paper Bag over ten years ago, and this year marks the 20th year since the founding of the business by Barbara Travis. Three years ago Ms. Sivak doubled the square footage of the shop by moving into the space next door. With the help of her brother Steve, an architect, the new store was gutted and completely remodeled.

"We attempted to create a cozy boutique–a place to shop, think and plan special events," she said. "Customers can stay as long as they like and there's plenty of room to sit down and comfortably spread out catalogues on large, accommodating tables."

Susan Sivak is a former court reporter who started working at Barbara's Paper Bag part-time in order to make contact with people who might need her calligraphy talents. This original interest grew into what is now a very successful stationery/gift store. Sue's goal is to stay in town another 20 years; serving the people in this area by offering exceptional service for all of the important occasions in their lives.

In addition to an extensive array of cards, invitations, announcements and stationery, Barbara's Paper Bag offers numerous gift items. Hours are extended through the end of the year–including Sundays. Call 642-3860 for more information.

Magnolias, the Yellow Shop on Maple - A Shopping Fantasy

Just into its second year in business, Magnolias, the pretty as possible gift and home accessory shop on Maple in Downtown Birmingham makes a visual statement that is an irresistible invitation to come in. The minute you see the bold yellow of the store front and two dog statues flanking the entrance, you gather this is an unmatched shopping experience and you won't be wrong. As owner Missy Christie says this is a store dedicated to all things beautiful. The ever changing selection of imaginative and pleasing items include fine antiques from around the world, hand-painted porcelains, china and silver. Then, of course, the couture pet department features special gifts for your favorite animal friend - like vanilla flavored doggie tennis balls.

This combination of ever changing accessories that range from $10 hostess gifts to $15,000 antique furniture - has already proven an astounding winner in the retail gift world. After a phenomenally successful first year, Christie, reports that sales for year two are ahead of last year by 45%.

Surrounded by all things beautiful, Missy Christie, owner of Magnolias.

A Birmingham native who lives just two blocks from the shop, Christie is proud of her success as a woman in business but not surprised. "All the women in my family are successful businesswomen although in very different arenas," she says. One sister publishes business resource guides in Prague, Czechoslovakia, another owns a custom knitting business and mother is administrative manager for the Federal District Court.

Christie also counts her roots in the Birmingham area community as a big contributor to her success. "I think Birmingham, Franklin, and surrounding area residents are a very supportive, dedicated group. They love to shop in Birmingham and if you give them good service and unique items they'll keep coming back."

"What this store proves is that not everything has to be discount. I think I'm showing that people will pay for service, a beautiful shopping environment and a pleasurable experience," she says.

Christie continues: "There is a fantasy quality about being in our store - a wonderfully stimulating experience dedicated to sparking our customers' imaginations. Our ever changing merchandise and ever changing ways of presenting items are designed to make new suggestions on how to set a table, decorate the home with accessories and just keep things always changing at home so they are more exciting and fun."

There are other touches to shopping at Magnolias, Lord Astor and Lady Petunia. These are the REAL dogs. In fact, there are Golden Retrievers who are so well behaved, they never get as loud as animated staff and customers. "They provide a kind of built-in babysitting service for our shoppers with children," says Christie, "and be assured these dogs have never broken a thing - although we have." Canine friends of Lord Astor and Lady Petunia musn't miss the pet bar outside; it's actually a water bowl.

It's Tender and Pure Elegance

Tender is a name that's hard to forget and brings to mind femininity, exactly what sisters Cheryl and Karen Daskas had in mind for their very modern, very refined ladies clothing store in the heart of downtown Birmingham.

Tender's direction is very fashion forward without being trendy, and focuses on individuality and creativity.

Sisters Karen and Cheryl Daskas have proven that at Tender in downtown Birmingham, women's fashions, can be forward without being trendy.

A large portion of the collections in the store are European, and very few, if any fashion merchants in Michigan carry the same lines as Tender. Whether you're looking for a suit or a sweater, anybody can successfully shop at Tender. Their sizes range from 2 to 12.

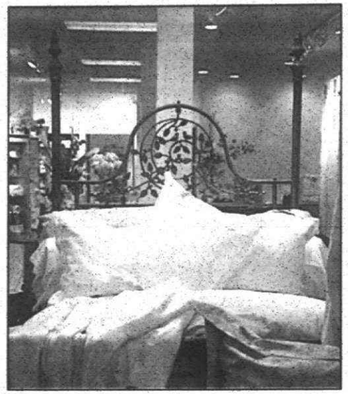
Ex-model Cheryl holds a degree in fashion merchandising and owned her own business for 10 years before joining forces with her sister Karen. Accomplished store owner, Linda Dresner was Karen's mentor. While living in New York, Karen managed her store.

Everyone at Tender believes in educating the customer and providing personalized service. Their customers know to come to Tender for what's new and exciting in fashion. Tender wants to make shopping at their store fun and they try to accomplish it in an upbeat atmosphere.

Tender is located at 271 West Maple and is open Monday through Saturday 10-6 and Thursday evening until 9.

A Touch of Lace Lends a Touch of Class to Your Home

Finer linens and accessories for the bed, bath and tabletop create a beautiful display at the brand new location of Touch of Lace, on 722 N. Woodward in Birmingham. A full range of pillows, comforters, sheet sets, towels, bathroom accessories, tablecloths, napkins and placemats are available for shoppers who are looking for the best merchandise in the fine European tradition.



Fine linens and accessories for the bed and beyond are available at Touch of Lace, 722 N. Woodward in Birmingham.

Partners Lauren Fisher, Sandra Seligman and Linda Weissman have been in business for eight years, a venture which they started by giving private showings that grew into establishing a retail location. They've been so successful that it necessitated their move to a larger space. "Now everyone will be able to better see what we have to offer. They'll notice new things they didn't know we had!" says Lauren Fisher.

Touch of Lace also features a large baby department with linens, bassinets, christening gowns and stuffed animals. A bridal and baby registry are available for brides- and mothers-to-be. Gift shoppers for all occasions will find much to choose from including robes, nightgowns, travel accessories, throws, needlepoint pillows, embroidered hankies and scented potpourri. Touch of Lace is a full-service store with home consultations available by appointment.

Touch of Lace is open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Gift wrapping and shipping are available.

La Belle Provence Promotes the Finer Things in Life

A better quality of life prompted Jennifer Tobias-Turner and Leslie Benser Luciani to consider changing their lifestyle from the corporate demands of practicing law to the creative challenges of opening their own interior design and home accessories business. La Belle Provence is a slice of France in downtown Birmingham.

"What we offer clients is a European, eclectic look, so that they can recreate this lifestyle in their homes," says Tobias-Turner, who along with her partner quit their law practices and travelled to France. "There we bought a trunkload of antiques and began to live out our dream," adds Benser Luciani.

La Belle Provence carries gift items from $5 and $20, to exquisite furniture, such as a $10,000 armoire that one may only dream about. A new addition is Mackenzie Childs' line of pottery, glassware and hand-painted furniture. Interior Designers Katherine Brocks and Cynthia Seidner help clients with as much or as little design help as they need.

La Belle Provence operates a second, seasonal store on Mackinac Island, managed by Alison Cram. Hours at the Birmingham store at 185 W. Maple are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday and Saturday; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday; noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Making a Woman Look Good at Harp's Lingerie

She can size a woman up just by looking at her, no tape measure required. Betty Harp started fitting women in bras nearly 48 years ago and now she is sizing up the daughters and granddaughters of her original customers. Her clients are loyal to her and have followed her to her successive locations in Hamtramck, Universal Mall and other places. They swear by her eye for making women look good.

"Measuring means nothing to me; I give it the eye treatment," says Mrs. Harp, "because you can't go by the size of the bra, it depends how it's out." Some of her loyal customers who have moved away, still get their bras from Harp's by mail order. Referrals account for much of Mrs. Harp's business and she has even fitted celebrities at her shop.

"When I started by business in 1947, I realized women needed this service. Now we carry the largest bra selection in the state of Michigan," says Mrs. Harp. With 60 different manufacturers supplying a wide range of merchandise, one is sure to find what they are looking for at Harp's Lingerie located at 265 S. Woodward, south of the Birmingham Theatre. Harp's carries long-line, short-line, push-up, front-hook, strapless, imported, prosthetic pocket, nursing, sports and wonder bras. The specialty shop carries up to size 60, in prices ranging from $15 to $30. They also carry hosiery, body shapers, and other undergarments. Harp's stocks bathing suits year round including the Gottex and Roxanne lines and mastectomy suits made in England.

Mrs. Harp says that the most popular brand of bras she sells is the Chantelle line imported from France. She also recommends body shapers because they distribute the flesh evenly and make clothes look good. Today, a well dressed woman needs a body shaper to wear under the tight fitting knit fabrics and clingy clothes that are popular. Another popular item at Harp's is the VaBien "all in one" garment.

Harp's is also one of the few stores that carrys beautiful lingerie for bigger women.

Mrs. Harp has nine fitters she has trained herself and supervises each fitting personally. She strongly recommends proper laundering and care of the customer's purchase.

Harp's Lingerie is open Monday through Saturday, 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursday until 8:30. They are closed on Sunday. Phone 642-2885.

Birmingham Bloomfield Credit Union Serves the Entire Community

Established in 1931, and now 5400 members strong, Birmingham Bloomfield Credit Union began as the Birmingham Teachers Credit Union. Now, any individuals, families and businesses in the area can join and benefit from a wide range of services with a minimum of fees.

The Birmingham Bloomfield Credit Union offers the same services as a bank, including checking, savings, loans, ATMs and Visa credit card accounts. There are also automatic payment plans for utilities and the like, direct deposit and payroll deduction plans, legal services and an audio response system that facilititates transactions via your touch tone phone.

Karen Patten, the Credit Union's marketing director, attributes their large client base to a friendly, neighborhood approach to doing business, and to members who have shopped around looking for a good financial institution. "We also promote from within the organization. One notable example is, Ann Beckman, vice president and assistant general manager, a 14-year employee, who is also the highest ranked woman in the organization," says Patten.

Birmingham-Bloomfield Credit Union roots in education are still a mainstay of the institution's business. Young students in grades six and seven, are introduced to a savings program called "Money Mimes." Special accounts are opened up for them for $25 or more, with free gifts given as awards as their savings increase.

The Credit Union has also set up an incentive program for new accounts. Open a $500 certificate of deposit, a business or individual is entered into a drawing for an Apple Computer that will take place December 15.

The Birmingham Bloomfield Credit Union's main office is 576 E. Lincoln, in Birmingham. Phone (810) 647-5958.

Wrinkles, Acne, Varicose Veins Get the Beauty Treatment from Dr. Lynn Sikorski

Dermatologist Dr. Lynn Sikorski treats skin disorders such as acne, rashes, cancer and psoriais, but the other half of her practice encompasses cosmetic procedures such as collagen injections, chemical peels, sclero (varicose vein) therapy, and the like. She graduated at the top of her class at Michigan State's College of Osteopathic Medicine, has been practicing dermatology for three years, and opened her own office-based practice less than a year ago.

She finds that more women are coming in with cases of adult acne, which Dr. Sikorski attributes to a more stressful lifestyle and hormone therapies for infertility, birth control and post menopausal symptoms. Most dermatology patients are women who may be more comfortable consulting a female doctor. "I may have a greater sensitivity to their concerns about their appearance while undergoing treatment," she explains.

Dr. Sikorski's office is located at 1932 S. Telegraph, between Square Lake and Orchard Lake Roads. Her hours are Monday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Tuesday, 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.; Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and Thursday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Selected health insurances are accepted. Unique Floral Arrangements Artistic Expressions by Patricia

If you stood in awe in the foyer of the Detroit Symphony Orchester's Designer Showcase Home (the Archdiocese/Salley Mansion) this year, you've already marveled at the work of Artistic Expressions by Patricia.

Patricia Ray, former interior designer and owner of Artistic Expressions, devotes herself to designing custom permanent floral arrangements for clients. Patricia's studio located in the Adams Square Mall in Birmingham is open to the public with an inviting fantasy of flowers, skirted tables, wicker, antique rugs, painted furniture, watercolors, unusual containers and all varieties of eye pleasing pleasures. It sets the stage for Patricia to sit down and help customers plan a one of a kind floral arrangement designed for a special spot in their home (or office). The arrangements use a creative mix of dried, silk flowers and completely unique containers that are provided by Ray or the customer.

Many of Patricia's efforts are commissioned by interior designers, but she is also doing a brisk trade of business with delighted store visitors. One of her most unusual commissions recently was a six foot long by two foot wide plate hanger suspended 12 inches from the ceiling. Patricia filled the top with dried and natural materials including flowers, corn husks, branches and more for an exciting dramatic look in the kitchen.

Patricia has noticed a tremendous increase in interest in permanent florals & wreaths. "The quality of materials has improved greatly in recent years and has contributed to the booming interest," she says. "And the great variety of unusual containers that can be used is appealing. Store visitors often find a special container they adore."

Artistic Expressions by Patricia is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and noon to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday. Call (810) 644-8349 to make an appointment.

Eleganza Does Whatever it Takes to Keep its Customers in Fashion

A busy woman can be in and out of Eleganza in 15 to 20 minutes and acquire a complete, coordinated outfit with the help of Sue Loussia and her staff who go to great lengths to provide exceptional service. And if they don't have what you are looking for, they'll get it. "We do whatever is in our power to assist our clients," says Loussia. The name of this women's clothing store means "elegant" in Italian and that's just what its owner provides–sophisticated and classic women's wear.

With a background in retailing, Loussia started a one-woman operation 12 years ago and has since expanded and moved her business to Eleganza's current location on Orchard Lake Road. She outfits women in career coordinates, casual and sportswear and evening ensembles. "Our customers want to stay in fashion and look stylish, but in a look that's right for them," says Loussia. Fashion shows are an effective way for Loussia to promote her store which she stages at country clubs around the area. Eleganza holds annual sales in fall and spring when they offer a good assortment of merchandise for added savings.

When asked about the new trend in business casual wear, Loussia advises that for $700 to $800 a woman can purchase cotton cashmere coordinates that will still give her a professional look. "By combining different pieces, such as a blazer, 2 pairs of pants, a skirt and 2 shirts, she can create a variety of outfits and look good without spending a fortune," says Loussia. For evening, she recommends cocktail suits. Fashion trends include understated earrings, narrow belts for trousers, colored leathers, chunky necklaces to offset simple, classic dresses and the growing popularity of hats.

For one-stop shopping that offers a woman everything from accessories to clothes to hosiery, visit Eleganza at 7415 Orchard Lake Road in Robin's Nest Plaza. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Thursdays. The store is closed on Sundays.

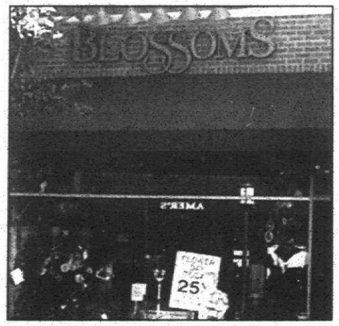
From Europe to South America, Blossoms Travels the World to Find Unusual and Beautiful Flowers

Lilies, tulips and irises from Europe, roses from Ecuador, and orchids from Thailand, are what Norm Silk and his partner Dale Morgan have to offer customers at their flower shops in Birmingham and Berkley. "We carry upscale, designer flowers--not your typical choices," says Norm Silk, president of Silk and Morgan, the owners of Blossoms.

Fresh flowers, silk flowers, and decorative accessories and garden items are among the offerings at Blossoms, a retail shop that attracts many women customers who decorate their homes and businesses with flowers. "Women in business often use flowers for recognition and as gifts for their valued clients," explains Silk. "For the busy person we offer the convenience of ordering by phone. Simply call one number, 810-548-7900 to order flowers from either location. We deliver to a large area, and can provide weekly flowers on a standing order basis for homes or offices," he adds.



Blossoms Birmingham location.

For walk-in customers, Blossoms at both locations displays a large variety of flowers in an open market atmosphere. Silk flowers are also a blossoming part of their business.

Planning a wedding or party? Consult their Party Blossoms store. Their clients include local hotels and clubs, and celebrities such as Martha Stewart and Aretha Franklin. Invitations and calligraphy are also available. Hours are by appointment only at Party Blossoms which is located within Blossoms 16,000 sq. ft. Design Center Building in Berkley in addition to Blossoms retail flower market. Call 810-548-8200.

Mesa Arts Gallery Collection is Innovative and Eclectic

Sisters-in-law Ellen and Sue Rontal share a common passion: art. The result is gallery filled with an eclectic mix of furniture, paintings, rugs, lighting, pottery and sculpture.

"There's a rhythm to our choices. We'll have a rug Show in October, followed by a big Jewelry Show in December, in time for the holidays. We specialize in anything beautiful, finely crafted and life-enhancing. Hand carved sculpture and furniture has personality. You can feel the sensibility of the designer in every surface. Art adds life to a home," says Sue.

Taking risks and seeing the results gave Sue and Ellen the confidence to trust their instincts and tastes. While continuing to treasure Native American pieces, they have grown in space and attitude by adding new artists from around the world to the Mesa Arts Gallery Collection. "We seek the unique, the unusual and the unexpected," says Ellen. "Every new artist lends a refreshing twist to the gallery. People appreciate art differently and we enjoy their response to what we have chosen. They say if you do something you like, you'll never have to work another day in your life. That's how we feel."

Ital Moda Brings the Latest Furniture in Europe to Michigan

If you are an admirer of the high contemporary look of European furniture design such as the Milan School, your European connection to what is the latest in Italy and France is located right at Woodward and 14 Mile in Bimingham at ITAL MODA. Two sisters, Nida Bahoora and Asma Haladu, joined forces bringing their mutual background in interior design and love for modern European furniture to this boutique. Importing the finest contemporary European furniture, accessories and companion pieces to Michigan.

As the exclusive representative in Michigan of some of Italy's hottest designers and France's Ligne Roset, ITAL MODA has earned a favored reputation among interior designers and individual customers since it opened two years ago. In addition to the modern European furniture ITAL MODA imports Indian accessories that compliment the contemporary European designs well.

"This furniture is like art itself," says Bahoora. "Many of our customers are art collectors who appreciate the classic, simple lines of the furniture. It is also very practical. Our pieces are slip covered so that the upholstery can be removed and easily washed or dry cleaned. Our European sofa beds are great for the back using slats instead of springs. These pieces are made of beautiful natural wood and fabric. Entertainment units are especially popular.

ITAL MODA offers complete interior design service including modern area rugs and window treatments as well as the furniture. Located at 4716 Woodward, hours are Mon. and Thurs. 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Tues., Wed., Fri. and Sat. 10 to 7 p.m., Sun. 1 to 5 p.m. (810) 549-1221.

Suzanne Hagopian's World of Rugs Takes Her to Exotic Locales

Following in the footsteps of her grandfather and father, Suzanne Hagopian, is the full-time buyer for Hagopian World of Rugs. Just returned from a trip to Turkey and Egypt, Suzanne observed the behind-the-scenes operation of a Turkish supplier, and visited her family's own looms in Egypt. While she would like to devote more time to designing rugs, she is a savvy, accomplished and well-travelled buyer.

Suzanne Hagopian of Hagopian World of Rugs.

Suzanne is also involved in advertising and media planning for the company and acts as a liaison between the managers and the sales staff. She credits two women, manager Ann Parker and sales consultant Rhoda Goldman, with making a success of Ghiordes Knot, Hagopian's Michigan Design Center location in Troy.

How much should someone expect to pay for a rug? "Making rugs is a labor intensive effort. For instance, to create an 8-foot by 10-foot rug takes 9 months time for four weavers. This doesn't include the time spent designing, spinning or dying the fibers, or the shipping to the States," Suzanne explains. On average, shoppers should expect to pay anywhere from $1,000-$4,000 for a hand-knotted 8-foot by 10-foot rug. Hagopian carries hand- and machine-made rugs, as well as carpeting.

Hagopian World of Rugs is located on 850 S. Woodward in Birmingham and a second store is located in Ann Arbor. Hagopian Rug Outlet is based in Oak Park. The Birmingham store's hours are Mon. & Thurs. 10-9; Tues., Weds., Fri. & Sat., 10-6; Sun. noon-5 . Phone (810) 646-RUGS. Cleaning, restoration and in-home design consultation are also available.

Women with special needs for a bathing suit due to a medical problem such as a mastectomy, colostomy, scarring or some other physical circumstance, can find a creative solution at Beach Bound Ltd.

Suits are made by seamstresses on the premises and it takes about one week. Prices range from $75 to $150 depending on the style. Hours are by appointment only. Call 810-645-6088. Beach Bound Ltd. is located at 725 S. Adams, in Adams Square Mall in Birmingham.

Deborah Field Cavanaugh of Hall and Hunter Matches Families and Homes in Bloomfield/Birmingham

A lifetime resident of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills, Deborah Field Cavanaugh, a Realtor with Hall and Hunter loves nothing better than finding a new house for people in her hometown. Licensed as a Realtor in Michigan since 1978, Deborah has sold over a million dollars worth of real estate in one year, many times over. What she really loves is to introduce newcomers to Michigan, and the beautiful Birmingham and Bloomfield area.

"People recently transferred, often have such a bad impression of the metropolitan Detroit area," she says. "I love nothing better than to introduce them to the magnificent homes availabe and the wonderful amenities throughout the metropolitan area. By selling people new homes, I often make friends for life."

Having grown up and lived in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area her whole life, Deborah Cavanaugh can help you find the perfect home

Having attended both private and public schools in the area, and having lived in Bloomfield and Birmingham, Deborah often finds herself referring to homes by the original owners name. She has seen many homes go through elaborate renovations.

It all makes me realize how lucky we are to work and live in such a great area - with a wonderful small town feeling. And that is what I try to get across to my clients.

Deborah can be reached through Hall and Hunter at 810-644-3500.

NOT FOR SALE.

DEBORAH FIELD CAVANAUGH OF HALL & HUNTER, REALTORS TELLS WHY IT'S BETTER TO HAVE YOUR HOME EVALUATED WHEN IT'S ABSOLUTELY NOT FOR SALE.

"Your home may be worth a lot more than you think it is. Then again, it might be worth much less.
It's a subject that people tend to get emotional about. Especially around selling time.
If you evaluate your home when you're selling, you may set your price too low because you need a quick sale or because your neighbor's house sold for a lower price than you expected.
Or you may set your price too high because of a strong personal attachment to your home or because you believe the market's strong.
Whether you're high or low, one thing is for sure, misjudging the value of your home almost guarantees you'll eventually get less than you really deserve.
That's why right now, when you're not selling, is the right time to get a rational, businesslike, objective evaluation of the current value of your most important personal asset."

AND WHY HAVE YOUR HOME EVALUATED BY HALL & HUNTER, REALTORS

1. IT'S FREE
An independent appraiser may charge you up to $250. I will give similar service at no charge.

2. IT'S A WRITTEN REPORT.
Many real estate companies will give you a verbal evaluation.
I will perform a comprehensive written analysis, taking into account all property and marketplace factors.
My opinion of value includes the good features of your home, and the not-so-good.
It will highlight similar properties recently sold with addresses, asking prices and, where possible, actual sellinging prices.

3. THERE'S NO PRESSURE.
I understand that you're not selling, and that's the reason you want your evaluation now.
It is precisely this lack of pressure on you that ensures the objectivity of your Hall & Hunter "Not For Sale" evaluation.
Please consider this to be my personal invitation to put my experience to work for you.
If you have had an evaluation done recently I'll be more than pleased to give you an update on the potential price of your home.
For a no charge, professional home evaluation, just call 644-3500 or mail the coupon below. You'll hear from me right away.

Designing Women in Royal Oak Meet Cyma Carn of Charles Furniture Warehouse

"What do you get at Charles Furniture Warehouse? Everything you get at a high priced, fine gallery but without the high cost," says owner, Cyma Carn, "How do we do it?; by keeping expenses down and passing the savings on to our customers." Charles Furniture Warehouse is located at 222 East Harrison, just off Main Street, between 10 and 10 1/2 Mile in Royal Oak. The showroom is immaculately clean, well-lit and organized. Furnishings for every room in the house are tastefully displayed in abundance.

Unique, affordable items are the norm at Charles Furniture Warehouse. Carn travels to furniture and gift shows four times a year always searching for the unusual. In fact, she reports from North Carolina's International Home Furnishings Market twice a year on WXYT Radio during Glenn Haege's "Ask the Handyman" show.

Standing: Pat & Susan. Seated: Jody, Cyma & Danielle of Charles Furniture Warehouse.

"We educate the customer about decorating choices and nuture their own creativity," explains Carn. We carry furniture by the leading manufacturers in the industry and offer a vast selection for both immediate delivery and special order.

Charles Furniture Warehouse offers gift items priced from $30 to $500 that are perfect for the upcoming holidays. From hand-painted jewelry armoires to lighting accessories, from wall art to accent tables, an experienced design and sales staff can help gift-givers choose something special.

This emphasis on customer service and satisfaction is a hallmark of Charles Furniture Warehouse, keeping ahead of trends and offering free in-store decorating advice and free delivery. Hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Fridays until 8 p.m.) and Sundays noon to 4 p.m. Parking space is adjacent to the store. Phone 810-399-8320.

Cyma Carn will report directly from the International Home Furnishings Market on Sunday, Oct. 22 at 11 a.m. on the Glen Haege "Ask the Handyman" show on WXYT Radio.

Build Your Dream House with Architectural Accents from Ballen Supply

Do you look through home decorating magazines in search of that unique look which will make your house stand out from the rest on the block? Julie Boyer is president of Ballen Supply, a Rochester company that specializes in architectural accents and accessories for upscale homes.

Julie Boyer, owner of Ballen Supply in Downtown Rochesters.

Decorative crown moldings, ceiling medallions and columns once found in historic homes are now available in reproductions made from a lightweight polymer similar in density to white pine or molded millwork. Also available are fireplace mantels, lamps and mirrors. Ballen also sells exterior treatments such as window headers, shutters, entry systems, ornamental gingerbread bracketry and other items to dress up a home. "These outdoor items will never rot and are maintenance free," says Boyer.

Do-it-yourselfers, builders, designers and architects buy their supplies from Ballen. Boyer discovered the appeal of these products while working with her father who is a builder. Since no one was distributing these lines she decided to go into business and located her showroom at 431 Main in downtown Rochester.

Visit Ballen Supply Mondays through Fridays 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursdays 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Saturdays 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; closed on Sundays.

Cruising the World

Cruise Selections, Inc. is a cruise only travel agency operated by Betty Swartz in Troy. Betty is Oakland County's first CLIA (Cruise Lines International Association) accredited Master Cruise Counselor and, as a specialist in the cruise industry, she aims to match the right cruise with the right person, to assure that her clients fully enjoy their cruise experience. After successfully being a cruise specialist in other agencies, Swartz decided to start her own service dedicated strictly to cruising, which she sees as a tremendous growth industry. She attends several national meetings each year, including seminars at sea, keeping up on the latest in the industry.

Betty Swartz of Cruise Selections, Inc.

Only 4 to 5% of the American population has tried cruising and 90 to 95% of those who have, want to go again according to Swartz.

"Cruises are a tremendous value as a vacation and are growing in popularity with families for that reason," she says. "There really isn't a corner of the earth that cannot be reached by cruise ship now," she adds. But what is really new in cruising is the added amenities and many brand new ships. Cruise ships are bigger than they used to be and now offer complete Broadway shows, CNN, fitness programs, and total family programming for 3 to 17 year olds, to name just a few added features.

Times have changed says Swartz. Now cruising is popular year round and among the young to old. Betty Swartz can be reached at Cruise Selections, Inc. at (810) 643-6868.

Annette's Unique Boutique Caters to the Intimate Fashion Needs of Women

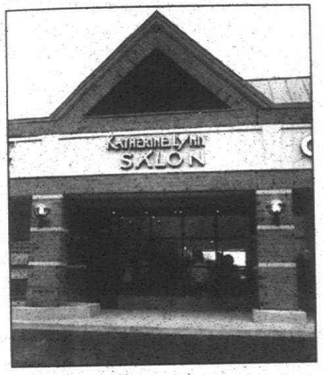
Katherine Lynn Salon Caters to Women and Men in Troy

When Katherine Kern-Goodvich decided to build the Katherine Lynn Salon in Troy, she picked the perfect location at Northfield Commons Plaza at South Boulevard and Crooks. She signed the lease two years before the salon actually went up. "My experience working for ten years in Troy beauty salons told me that this was an area where there was a need for the kind of services I could provide," said Katherine.

The salon, with a staff of nine, specialize in hair cutting and styling, coloring, manicures and waxing - often working together to pull off exactly the right look for the client.

"The sense of helping each other is unique for a salon," says Katherine. "We are all fashion oriented and extremely friendly and we love to work together as a team. It's a very positive, exciting atmosphere."



Katherine Lynn Salon offers a team of specialists working together to create the right look for its customers.

Katherine designed the bright purple salon herself, picking out custom cabinetry along with numerous design details, while her husband helped to build it.

One of the innovations, Katherine recently introduced was Men Only Night at Katherine Lynn Salon. This night dedicated to males, with no women customers allowed, takes place from 4 to 9 p.m., the second Monday of every month. "The special night gives men a chance to have services provided that might otherwise embarass them such as hair coloring, manicures and even pedicures. It was a great success!" said Katherine.

A Knit Shop Like a Dream

An avid knitter, Denise Norber, became frustrated when she couldn't find a yarn shop carrying the top quality yarns she preferred. Her frustration served as inspiration to open, ImaginKnit, a full service knit shop on Northwestern Highway in Applegate Square in Southfield. ImaginKnit offers a complete line of the finest medium to high end knitting yarns available. The store emphasizes quality and variety as well as elegant ambiance.

"Most knit shops are cluttered," says Norber, "ImaginKnit is the opposite. The store is designed to organize the yarns in the best way possible and still provide a warm and inviting atmopshere."

ImaginKnit sells yarn, patterns and also custom designs patterns. The store offers a variety of regular classes and the staff is willing to teach any aspect of knitting including finishing. They also provide finishing as a service as well as a custom knitting service. ImaginKnit sells one of a kind handmade sweaters and knitting machines. Day, evening and Saturday classes are available. Some classes have waiting lists.

Denise Norber owner of ImaginKnit & her expert staff can help the novice or expert design beautiful crocheted or knitted creations.

And how is the knitting hobby coming along for Norber herself? "I don't knit as much as I used to," she admits. "But I know more about the field than I ever did before thanks to the challenging creativity of my customers. I have a greater love for the craft than ever before."

ImaginKnit's central location brings knitters from throughout the state including Ann Arbor, Downriver communities and others. The store is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 7 p.m. on Thursdays. It's open Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Greis Jewelers From Russia With Love

When Gita Greisdorf came from Russia to Michigan, with her husband Gary in 1973, she never dreamed that they would someday be the owners of one of the finest jewelry stores in the metropolitan area. Today Greis Jewelers of Farmington Hills is known for carrying exquisite designer jewelry, name watches and fabulous diamonds. They are the exclusive representatives of the Italian maker, Leo Pizzo, and, along with only Neiman Marcus, carry Lagos jewelry in Michigan.

Gita Griesdorfs personalized customer service has played a big part in the success of Greis Jewelry.

Gita Greisdorf was a school teacher in Russia. Her husband Gary was a watchmaker. Faced with a new language, Gita gave up teaching. Instead she and her husband opened a fine jewelry store on Nine Mile in Ferndale. They survived by offering Gary's watch repair services to area jewelers. Over time they were able to take on some consignments of fine jewelry and built a small but dedicated clientele.

In 1974 the Greisdorfs decided it was time to move on. With the help of Gary's brother they were able to find a new location in a brand new shopping center on Middlebelt at 14 Mile (near Nino Salvaggio's Strawberry Hill Market) in Farmington Hills and this has been their home ever since.

Gita worked side by side with her husband, both pouring their hearts into the business. Son Jason now works along with them and a dedicated sales staff. Although the success of Greis Jewelers is a dream come true, Gita also knows it is the result of complete dedication and endless hours of work. She attributes their success to being totally honest with and friendly to all customers. As a testament to the good name they have earned, Gita treasures the gift of a leather diamond box given to the Griesdorfs by one of the most reputable diamond dealers in the area, just before he died.

Third Generation Takes The Floor At Edw Jones Floor Covering

a Edward Jones, could never have imagined that a woman would be managing Edw Jones Floor Covering, the floor covering business he founded 35 years ago. But he would undoubtedly have been very proud because the woman is his granddaughter, Beth Jones. Beth is the third generation of the Jones family, to operate the venerable floor covering business which is also serving many third generation customers.

Located at 707 S. Eton, Birmingham, (810) 644-4483 Edw Jones Floor Covering offers one of the most comprehensive selections of styles in floor covering available anywhere in the metro area. The huge selection of styles include carpet, area rugs, vinyl and prefinished wood floors.

Jane Jones & daughter, Beth.

"Our selection surprises customers," explains Beth, "because we have a relatively small retail floor space. Nevertheless it's all here. Moreover we offer not only an incredible selection, but the knowledgeable sales staff to guide customers through what may seem, at first, an overwhelmingly decision process.

"Floor covering is the single biggest investment homeowners make, in addition to the cost of the house itself," she says, "and it affects the entire look of the house. We understand that, and we work with our customers to plan and coordinate their floor covering to meet their needs, their lifestyle and their decor."

Jones customers come from all over the metropolitan area proving the success of her business philosophy of being customer driven, rather than manufacturer driven. The result is repeat business. "We want to serve our customers through their whole life as well as serving their family and friends. We believe our customers return because they trust us so completely."

Beauty Let Loose at Captured Glamour Photo Studio

International award winning photographer Carol Goren and her mother, business manager, Jean Goren own and operate the 3,000 square foot photography studio, Captured Glamour, in the Park West Plaza, 29499 Northwestern Highway, in Southfield. And glamour is what it's all about at the huge, elaborate Captured Glamour studio.

Photographer Goren has found her niche photographing each and every client to look just as wonderful as possible in photo portraits ranging from executive portraits all the way to provocative boudoir photography which has become the rage among loving couples who want to give their mate (or themselves) a once in a lifetime gift.

Goren is able to create the total glamour look with the help of numerous fully built sets, a make-up artist and 13 years of experience in coaching subjects to take the right pose and project the beautiful good feeling inside themselves. "Everyone's beautiful," says Goren. "I've learned how to capture that beauty on film for all time. Additional techniques that capture the beautiful moment include draping, flattering poses, special lighting, shadow effects and airbrushing.

Needless to say the two hour (or more) photography session that Captured Glamour offers is an ego boosting experience in and of itself. "There's no doubt, it's all Hollywood style show biz when we are working on someone," says Goren, "and they have a great time!"

Risque boudoir photography is now growing popular among men as well as women. Photography sessions must be made by appointment but some 1,000 photos are on display daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. Call 810-354-0080.

Women at the Top At Harmony House

Harmony House, the number one retailer of music in Michigan, is one of the state's greatest success stories. And as Harmony House has grown so has the role of women in the management of the company. Looking back, President Bill Thom, credits his father, Carl Thom, who founded Harmony House 49 years ago, for this phenomenon. "But it wasn't a conscious effort on his part," explains Thom. "It just happened because he always promoted whoever was the most qualified person without regard to sex."

This was second nature in the Thom household while the rest of the world seemed to play catch up. Bill Thom has maintained the policy since he took over the business five years ago. The results are heartening. Women in management include two of the four vice-presidents and two of the three regional directors as well as the accounts payable manager. In the 38 Harmony House stores there are 16 women store managers and 19 women assistant store managers. Harmony House always promotes from within so that all members of the management team have started from the bottom and worked their way up. They are: Sandy Bean, vice-president of advertising; Pat Matthews, vice-president of administration; Susan Ratliff, accounts payable manager; Janet Burke, regional director and Karyn Cross, regional director. The average seniority of all store managers at Harmony House is 10 years.

The many women in management have brought a very balanced, human touch to running Harmony House according to Thom. "Building good working relations with employees has been the secret of our growth. I am surrounded by successful women," he says with a smile, "and it makes my life great!"

Sandy Bean, Bill Thom and Pat Matthews help continue the growth & success of Harmony House.

Pamper Yourself at Carol Lewis Skin Care

Carol Lewis has built her skin care business steadily for more than 9 years. This month Carol Lewis Skin Care is celebrating 1 year in it's new location in a historic row house nestled in downtown Birmingham.

Because Carol and her staff of 9 have taken such good care of their customers, Carol Lewis Skin Care was Voted #1 by Detroit Monthly Magazine "Best Place to Rejuvenate" in Greater Detroit.

Carol Lewis was also profiled in Crain's Small Business Magazine earlier this year. She has been the keynote speaker for the American Business Women's Association and has been asked to do more public speaking for women's organizations and corporations. She is also a feature writer for the largest international trade journal in the skin care industry, and has monthly articles published on Health and Beauty in a local newspaper.

"Our company goal is to continue growing only at a rate in which we can continue to give the best personal service to you. We wil not outgrow our kindness," says Carol. "It's been qui te a learning experience growing from a single room facial salon where I did everything, to developing and working with a professional staff. It's exciting to meet so many of the new people who have discovered our salon. We were known as 'the best kept secret in town,' now we have blossomed into being recognized as the very best in town.

Carol Lewis Skin Care Salon offers Holiday Gift Certificates for Men, Women and Teens. Located at 386 E. Maple, Birmingham, Michigan 48009. Call 810-642-1570.

The Bead Works Experience

Bead Works, the bead store in Franklin Village is a unique place for women to create one of a kind accessories that make a statement about who they are. It offers an unparalleled range of beads collected from all over the world - waiting to become one of a kind necklaces, bracelets, pins, earrings, purse straps and more. Bead Works is also a great success story. It is the brainchild, of Ida Joyrich, of Franklin, and the late Ghinda Marrich. Bead Works opened its doors in downtown Franklin Village 12 years ago and through constant study and long days and nights has thrived. It has built a dedicated customer base (mostly women) who return year after year to pick their own beautiful beads, gem stones and specialty items and with the help of a friendly and talented staff put together custom jewelry.

Manager of the store is Janene Obad Samet who came to Bead Works 11 1/2 years ago as a high school co-op student and worked there while earning her college degrees. Her experience gives her a massive breadth of knowledge about folk cultures, African and Asian art, symbolism of jewelry and gemstones, all reflected in the beautiful beads offered at Bead Works.

Many beads are ordered in quantity from all over the United States, but others travel longer routes and come with many stories. For example, twice a year, Janene is visited by a Michigan native who now lives on the border of Pakistan and China. He travels Asia and the Mideast and brings hard to come by beads and tribal pieces steeped in ancient lore.

Bead Works also offers gift items like beaded boxes, frames, etc. and a complete bead restringing and jewelry repair service. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. The store is open until 7 p.m. on Thursday.

Janene Obad Samet, Kathy Mamat, Nadine Danner, and Ida Joyrich will help you design your own beaded creations or do custom designs & stringing for you.
