Deal close with Mission Health

It appears that Mission Health still plans to buy township land and build a medical center at Canton Center and Summit Parkway. The township planner believes that medical facilities may be allowed in the area which includes Pheasant Run Golf Club and surrounding neighborhoods.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The Mission Health medical center planned for the corner of Canton Center and Summit Parkway has come a step closer to reality.

The Canton Township Board voted 7-0 Tuesday, Nov. 14, to "acknowledge" Community Planner Jeff Goulet's conclusion that medical facilities are allowable on property within the Pheasant Run Planned Development District.

A week before, on Monday, Nov. 6, the Canton Township Planning Commission voted to "acknowlege, but not necessarily agree" with Goulet's conclusion.

As Canton's chief planning official, Goulet has authority to make the close calls on language in planned development district agreements. A PDD allows developer flexibility in a plan and allows the township more control of how that plan is developed.

In this case, Goulet concluded that "a medical facility could reasonably be considered to meet the intent of providing community facilities."

The township's negotiations for the sale of 14 acres of public land to Mission Health are incomplete, but Municipal Services Director Aaron Machnik is "fairly comfortable saying that we'll be able to put together a deal. We'd like to have been done a month ago, but we're still talking."

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack said the medical center "fits in beautifully with the whole community" and would complement the Summit on the Park community center, perhaps offering the opportunity for joint ventures.

Take a 'holiday walk' into history

Start your holiday season with a walk through Canton's history.

The Canton Historical Society presents its 1995 Christmas tour, "A Canton Country Christmas," 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 2.

"Canton has a lot of interesting history that people aren't aware of," said Bernadette Van Lenten, chair of the event and owner of the Willow Brook Inn Bed & Breakfast, one of the seven stops along the self-guided tour.

Society members are hoping the tour will become an annual event. It is a fund-raiser to benefit a pole barn that is being built at the historic Bartlett-Travis house on Ridge Road. The barn will be used to house antique farm equipment.

Tickets are $12 in advance, $15 at the door and $10 for senior citizens. Tickets are available at most Canton florists, the Willow Brook Inn, 44255 Warren Road, and the Canton Historical Museum at the corner of Canton Center and Proctor roads, immediately north of the township administration building.

Guests will drive themselves to the seven historic buildings, including the Godwin-Flora House, Truesdell-Weldon House, Huston-

Substitute teachers are in short supply

BY M.B. DILLON

The Plymouth-Canton School District is having trouble finding enough substitute teachers to cover for absent teachers.

A $45,000 automated phone system — recently approved for purchase by the Board of Education — should make it easier for teachers to call in sick, and allow substitutes to be contacted sooner.

But beyond the computerized system, there's a problem with a shortage of substitutes throughout Wayne County, as well as an absenteeism rate that can stand improvement, school officials said.

"Instead of saying a decrease in absenteeism, we want to say we value good attendance," said Superintendent Charles Little. "We have about 3 percent who have perfect attendance. If we can boost that to 8, 9 or 10 percent, that would be a big help to the school district in terms of having the first team there."

■ 'Instead of saying a decrease in absenteeism, we want to say we value good attendance.'

Charles Little
Superintendent

School officials declined to say what the absenteeism rate is among teachers, and how it compares with that of other employee groups.

The district spends $400,000 per year on substitute teachers.

Little said he proposed to members of the teachers' union that "if there is an absence in their building and they cover it, we could pay that building the money, and they could buy things needed for school work. We haven't had much acceptance of that. It's just one idea we had; we'll come up with some others."

It's hard to say whether the potential savings would amount to enough to hire a teacher, Little said.

Chuck Portelli, president of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association, said the topic of substitutes surfaced at a recent monthly meeting with administration. "We don't have enough. But it's not just our district; it appears to be a Wayne County problem," said Portelli.

Pay for Plymouth-Canton substitutes was recently raised from $55 to $60 a day. South Redford and Farmington pay $75 a day, while Northville pays $50, Portelli said.

Non-probationary Plymouth-Canton teachers receive 10 sick days per year. Tenured teachers receive 12 sick days. After five years, they receive 15 sick days. For teachers with a catastrophic illness, an emergency 30-day sick bank is available. PCEA members can carry over up to 180 sick days from the previous year.

Students grab community spirit

Fiegel Elementary School hosted its third annual Harvest Festival in conjunction with Omnicom and "Make a Difference Day," a national program.

Eight elementary schools in Plymouth and Canton are involved with the Harvest Festival, as well as the Plymouth and Canton chambers of commerce with the "Baskets Filled with Love" program, said Judy Evola, director of school district community relations.

Fiegel has collected 30 cases of canned goods for the Salvation Army, said Principal Barbara Young. The school wanted to do it as as service project to celebrate the fall season and to help needy families.

The Harvest Festival came at just the right time for the organization, as Salvation Army's food banks are currently at 35 percent capacity, said Lt. Randall Van Landingham, who made presentations on the need for a food drive to all grade levels. This is coming at a time when there are between 800 and 900 needy people during Thanksgiving and Christmas, he said.

"We wanted young people to do things and develop a sense of connection to the community," Van Landingham said, which "goes hand-in-hand with the community. It's good to see them involved."

Each wing of the school does a creative theme and has different art projects displayed, Young said. This year's theme is "The Yellow Brick Road" from "The Wizard of Oz," with many students making 8-foot dolls of the Scarecrow, Dorothy, the Cowardly Lion and the Tin Man.

New growth puts pinch on local school district

With residential growth booming in Canton and Plymouth townships, could a new bond issue or millage proposal be far behind for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools?

So many new residential developments are planned for Canton Township that when he saw the Canton planner's list "my heart stopped. It looked like panic," said David Rodwell, Plymouth-Canton associate director for research and technology.

Rodwell presented growth projections at Monday's Board of Education meeting, and said that Plymouth-Canton's existing schools won't be able to handle the added enrollment.

"In the next three to five years, we are going to see an estimated 750 homes go in in an area bounded by Cherry Hill on the north, Canton Center on the east, and Beck Road on the west. Development could start within three years and could end within seven years," he said.

The new homes will increase student enrollment in the Lowell Middle School and Bentley Elementary attendance areas very fast, Rodwell said.

"An area bounded by Powell on the north and Ann Arbor Road on the south and adjacent to Napier Road on the west will have 301 lots," impacting Pioneer Middle School and Isbister Elementary, he said.

"An area bounded by North Territorial on the north, Napier on the west and M-14 on the south will have 78 lots. This area is now under construction," he said.

Students in the new subdivision will be in the Central Middle School and Isbister Elementary attendance areas.

Two new subdivisions are planned for land south of Cherry Hill and west of Beck. The Fairways West development plans 287 homes, while 750 residences are proposed for the Central Park development.

It's hard to say exactly when the new housing units will be built and occupied. "If interest rates stay low or go lower, that will create a window of opportunity for builders, and they will take advantage of it," said Rodwell.

"If building slows down, we may not see the numbers as quickly. What we really need to do is look at the new subs going in and ask ourselves, how are we going to accommodate schooling for those new subs?

"Bentley, Isbister, Eriksson and Lowell will have more students than they can handle," and homes in their attendance areas are currently under construction. "Tonda, Isbister, and Allen are currently at capacity," he said.

"The (already developed) Allen and Farrand attendance areas are experiencing growth with families who have young children."

Rodwell hopes that a "community committee will review this data. It should begin to review this data immediately. I'm hoping the committee would make recommendations by March 1996, for the long term, and for the short term by January 1996."

Board President David Artley said the board will consider the matter at its next meeting, set for 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 27 at Fiegel Elementary School.

Adjustments in current attendance boundaries will provide a temporary resolution to the student housing concerns, Rodwell said. "Hopefully, these changes will last for two years. These changes will be discussed with families and Realtors in January and February of 1996."

As attendance boundaries are redrawn, the district would like to maintain the current kindergarten-five, six-through-eight, and nine-12 grade configurations, Rodwell said. Other priorities are maintaining the length of the current school day; maximizing the number of students who attend their neighborhood school; reasonable class sizes; and balancing instructional programs among buildings.

"Tanger Center can be used as an aid to relieve some of the housing concerns anticipated form new homes and neighborhood changes," Rodwell said.

"High school enrollments will increase as families move into the district. This will make it more difficult to house current high school programs. The current ninth grade is the largest K-12 grade."

Special care is being taken this year to preserve art and music classrooms at the elementary level so that they are not swallowed up for use as regular classrooms.

Plymouth Fall Festival, Old Village Apple Fest, Calhoun County Fair, Penrickton Center for the Blind and the Hawthorne Learning Center.

Senior Center Assistant Coordinator Patricia Tanski said band members also enjoy performing at nursing homes (where "the crowd really appreciates them so much") and for kids. "They love to perform for Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, you name it. Kids are real responsive to their music."

The band's next public performance will occur 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 30, as Canton Township officials light the holiday tree at the Summit.

Currently, the band consists of 32 Canton Township residents. Led by band director Bernice Russian on piano, they play kazoos, washboards, sandpaper blocks, bells, whistles, maracas and a banjo.

In their new country/western set, the band performs songs like "Don't Fence Me In," "Sioux City Sue," "Red River Valley," "I Got Spurs" and "Oh Lord It's Hard To Be Humble."

P.J. Donovan jokes that, because of that song, "I've become very conceited since I joined the band."

Donovan is one of seven male members of the band, having joined five years ago, and enjoys the camaraderie. "I've got 30 ladies looking after me," he said. "I'm spoiled. In our new program, one lady gets to slap me in the face. Other than that, I'm getting along with everybody."

"The nice thing about P.J.," said Katheryn Boehmer, who gets to slap her friend, "is that he substitutes for people who aren't here. He does a good job."

Donovan also serves as chauffeur for four other band members who don't drive, including 94-year-old Ed Rach.

The band's luncheon Tuesday was perhaps a bit more raucous than one would expect from a group whose youngest member was born in the Hoover Administration, but the comradeship and shared purpose seems to keep these folks young beyond anything science can explain.

"We're a wild bunch of fun-loving seniors," said the band's maestro, Bernice Russian, who also plays the organ at St. Michael Church. "They're very active and flexible. They're great to work with."

"The township should be very proud to have an organization like this," said Senior Center Director Diane Neihengen. "They were named the ambassadors of goodwill a long time ago."

Russian's middle name, Neihengen says, "is fun," and the band members back her up.

"I watched her get up and dance at the Western Conference for Senior Citizens," said Juanita Gurley of Bernice "Fun" Russian. "She's an excellent dancer."

"A lot of rhythm," observed June Shipley. "Oh yes, she's got it."

Russian, noted Jean Kowalski, is a wonderful teacher, too. "She's very patient," Kowalski said. "She's got to be."

The band, Tanski said, is always game to accept new members. To join, you must be a Canton Township resident and at least 55 years old.

Attorney offers insider's view of capital

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Canton Economic Club members were treated last week to an insider's view of Congress by Teresa Brooks, director of Dykema Gossett's National/International Health Care Practice.

Brooks spoke at the club's regular monthly luncheon meeting Wednesday, Nov. 15, at the Summit on the Park community center.

Washington, D.C., Brooks said, "is truly 67 square miles surrounded by reality.

"Some people call it a bordello where every four years you get a new piano player. After last November's election, however, we got a whole new band, and that band is saying that the piano player is out of tune. The band leader is not Spike Jones, but rather it's Newt the trumpeter."

Although Brooks talked for more than an hour, the audience was pleased with what it heard.

"I thought (the speech) was bright, intellectual and made common sense; something that's lacking in this debate," said resident Mitch Howard.

"She presented it as if you were in a civics class," said Ronald Parz. "It was very, very informative. I'm glad I was here, and the lunch wasn't so bad either."

Resident Catherine Johnson, however, was disappointed, "I wish (Brooks) had talked more about insurance issues and less about politics," she said.

Referring to President Bill Clinton's health care reform attempt of 1993, Brooks said politics and "a lack of presidential leadership" were responsible for the plan's failure.

"Health reform died the day that Sen. Jay Rockefeller from West Virginia told the chairman of Prudential Insurance Co. that there was a special place in hell for him because he came out and announced that the business roundtable would not support the Clinton plan," she said.

The Clinton plan may have failed, Brooks said, but the health care "revolution" continues, fueled by "cost-conscious employers. Providers realize they're being challenged like never before to cut costs to the employers while maintaining quality and positive outcomes."

The new Republican Congress, Brooks said, has stirred the political pot considerably this year, but Michigan has lost most of the clout it once had when Democrats ruled.

"Michigan went from a powerful delegation with chairmanships and key positions on House commerce, House education and labor, House appropriations, House ways and means, House government operations, Senate banking and Senate finance to no chairmanships.

"John Dingell went from being a kingpin of the House, chairman of energy and commerce with a legendary staff of 135 persons, to the ranking minority member of the House commerce committee with 35 staffers."

Tensions are high in the current Congress, Brooks said, in part because Republicans are doing things to Democrats that Democrats did to Republicans when they were the majority party.

"I remember when some Democrat chairman wouldn't release any information (to Republicans) regarding the legislation they were working on until the last moment," she said. "The Republicans are doing the same thing. The polarization of parties has led to many days of testy hearings, finger pointing and bitter words between members."

House Speaker Newt Gingrich has held his forces together, well, Brooks said. "He has managed to keep a very eclectic group of Republicans together to pass major legislation.

"In 1990, when he was a backbencher, he was described as a fly in the ointment, the monkey in the wrench and a pain in the ass. He hasn't changed very much since those days."

Indeed, Brooks said, "Had Moses been as diligent about enforcing the 10 Commandments (as Gingrich was with the Contract With America) we'd probably all be in heaven today."

Canton Township is looking for "a few good men and women" to fill a number of temporary, seasonal and intern positions, largely because of the Pheasant Run Golf Course and Summit Center, said Administrative Services Director Dan Durack.

Peering into the TV camera at a Township Board meeting Tuesday, Nov. 14, Durak said, "We have a lot of openings for part-time work. Come on down. We're looking for a few good men and women."

Applicants may also call 397-5432 to inquire about the jobs.

Following is a list of the new jobs and the pay range for each one:

- Aquatic center attendant, $5 to $6.50 per hour.
- Birthday party assistant, $5 to $5.50 per hour.
- Birthday party host, $7 to $9 per hour.
- Building attendant, $8.50 to $10.50 per hour.
- Enrichment program instructor, $7 to $9 per hour.
- Fitness center attendant, $6 to $8 per hour.
- Fitness coordinator, $10 to $12 per hour.
- Fitness instructor, $18 to $20 per hour.
- Front desk attendant, $5.50 to $7.50 per hour.
- Head lifeguard, $7 to $9 per hour.
- Kids corner attendant, $5 to $5.50 per hour.
- Kids corner coordinator, $6 to $8 per hour.
- Lifeguard, $6 to $8 per hour.
- Preschool program instructor, $7 to $9 per hour.
- Sports instructor, $7 to $9 per hour.
- Swim instructor, $8 to $10 per hour.

The Township Board unanimously approved the wage scale at its Nov. 14 meeting.

Join the community in giving Christmas cheer

It's Christmas Cheer Club time again!

Since starting the Plymouth and Canton Observers' Christmas Cheer Club five years ago, we've collected donations from about 200 generous people each year.

We've seen kids from Girl Scout and Boy Scout troops with arms full of toys for needy kids.

We've seen representatives of school groups and service groups with boxes of canned goods and more toys. And we've seen scores of families and individuals bringing in donations.

To join the Christmas Cheer Club, just bring in a donation of canned or boxed food, or a new, unwrapped toy. We'll begin collecting donations on the Friday after Thanksgiving.

When you come in, we like to ask that you give us your names — so we can print them in the paper. On December 14, the Salvation Army will pick up donated items, for distribution in Christmas food baskets and for kids.

Many food items are used to stock the Salvation Army pantry, which provides food for the needy year-round.

Salvation Army officials say that when buying toys for kids, most donors seem to focus on little starry-eyed tykes. But don't forget kids ages 10-14, who need a Christmas too.

Our office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, at 744 Wing Street in downtown Plymouth. If you have any questions, call us at 459-2700 and ask for Kevin Brown or Jeff Counts.

So if you can find the time, please donate to our Christmas Cheer Club!

Thanks — and Merry Christmas!

Parents say classes still too large

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

A group of parents in the self-appointed "Class-size Action Partnership" told the Board of Education Monday that class size is still too high in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, despite recent teacher hirings.

Studies show that students reach higher levels of achievement in smaller classes, say CAP parents.

Judy Mardigian, who heads up CAP, said there are 19 kindergarten classes in the district with 26 or more students. Sixteen second-grade classes contain more than the optimum 27 or fewer students; while 13 fifth grades have 30 or more students.

There are even more "hot spots" in the middle schools, Mardigian said. Sixty-two sixth grades have 30 or more students. There are 35 seventh and eighth grades with class sizes of 32 or more.

Average class size across the district is 27 students, compared with 23 students per class in Farmington Hills; 24 in Northville and Ann Arbor; and 25 in Novi. Livonia schools have 27 children per classroom, on average, CAP reports.

"In 1992-93, our class sizes went through the roof. We have come back up from 740 teachers to 799. Being up 59 positions has made a significant impact," said Mardigian.

"Last year and this year, we've averaged 27 students. But we are still relatively high. We do have some big problems in terms of hot spots."

Don Kronig of CAP told the board that he formerly lived in the largest district in the country, in Colorado, and class size averaged 23. "Our district wasn't especially rich or poor; it just shows it's doable if you make it a priority, and find creative ways to pay for it," he said.

"I feel this should be made a critical topic when we plan housing, student loading, long-range enrollment and during collective bargaining," Kronig said.

"We are at a crossroads. We have an opportunity to do a bang-up job for the education of our children," he added. "We can make education in the district a great experience."

Isbister Elementary parent Marion Krutty told the board that having taught in the past, she's aware that "every child over 25 completely changes not only the chemistry of the class, but what you are able to do. You really lose the opportunity to do the interactive teaching that the child really learns from.

"I'm hoping the community will set some written guidelines and goals for lower numbers," Krutty said.

Helene Neely has a kindergartner at Isbister. She said she was alarmed in August when 32 children were projected to be in her son's class. Fewer ended up in the kindergarten class, but "to say Isbister is at capacity is an understatement," Neely said.

"The school has a revolving music and art room, and two portables. The music and art teachers could do so much more with their own room. I urge you to be careful" with redistricting.

"We moved there so we wouldn't have to move our child from one school to another," she added. "It's very traumatic to be uprooted from your friends. It's hard enough to move when you're forced to."

Karen Anderson's two daughters also attend Isbister. "Hopefully, we can eliminate children having to move around too much. I want you to be aware of how difficult re-districting is for parents and for children, socially and emotionally," she said.

Trustees Mark Horvath and David Artley complimented CAP, and thanked the parents for their comments. "It's nice to see a full audience. I hope you'll be with us as the thousands of new homes are built in the district," said Horvath.

Said Artley: "School attendance is a complex issue. As you know, we don't often hear from people until there is a problem. From what I see, CAP is being a partner with the district and is making a proactive difference."

Take a peek at Canton's historic home tour

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

Here's a peek at what visitors to "A Canton Country Christmas" will see on the tour of five historic homes, two one-room schoolhouses and a church, Dec. 1:

■ Smith-Hoops-Johnson House: It is the second house built on the site. The Smith family, which was one of the earliest to settle Canton, arrived in 1830. Elements of the first house on the property were incorporated into the late Victorian two-story, which was erected in 1904. The house has three spindled, bracketed porches. Several outbuildings remain, including a smoke house, chicken coops, tool shed and outhouse.

Until recently, family descendants occupied and cared for the house. The current owners, the Johnsons, plan to open their home as a bed and breakfast. The house is designated as a historic site.

■ The Godwin-Flora House: Was built in 1849 by Joshua and Hannah Fitzgerald. The Victorian brick farmhouse has Gothic overtones. The Godwin family bought the farm in 1939 and remodeled the house with a bathroom and back porch. In 1988, the Flora family acquired the house and began a full restoration, during which the house burned. The family started all over with their restoration efforts.

Legend has it that the cellar of the house was a stop on the Underground Railroad during the Civil War and that it housed a still during Prohibition.

■ The Huston-McLaughlin House: Originally it was built by Reuben Huston and dates to the 1850s. It is an "Upright and Wing" style.

The house remained in the Huston family for generations until 1940. Henry Ford then bought the house as part of the property for his factory on the corner of Cherry Hill and Ridge roads. Total renovation of the house came in 1978. It was added as a historic site in 1983.

■ The Vetal Home-Willow Brook Inn: The Vetals bought the house, a semi-arts and crafts bungalow built in 1929, and moved it from the original location on Monica Street in Detroit to its present site in Canton on an acre grandparents gave in 1953. The current owners updated and decorated the house, maintaining much of the original character, and opened it as a bed and breakfast.

■ The Cherry Hill United Methodist Church: The building was built in 1881-82 of soft-fired brick made from Canton clay. It is in the Gothic Revival style and has a low central bell tower. In 1929, a rear addition was built and in the 1940s it was extended to accommodate the increased population that resulted from the Willow Run Bomber Plant.

The church was renovated in 1981 as a 100th anniversary celebration. The original arched ceiling was restored and the old pews were refinished. It is a Canton and state historical site.

■ Cherry Hill School: It was the second school built in Cherry Hill. It is a two-room schoolhouse that replaced a log structure on S. Ridge Road. The school was built in 1876 in the Italianate style. Originally of the same soft-fired red brick as the Cherry Hill Church, it was plastered over in the 1940s when Henry Ford extensively remodeled the building. The school served as a classroom for grades 1-8 and as a social hall until it was closed in 1962.

■ The Canton Center School-Canton Historical Society Museum: It was built in 1884 by Henry Sitlington of bricks made of Canton clay and fired by the Cobb family on their nearby farm. Its arched windows and brick column detail illustrate the Victorian and Gothic influences. The school originally had double front doors, one for the boys and the one for the girls. In the 1930s, an addition has made on the rear of the building.

It was closed in 1962, one of the last operating one-room schools in Wayne County. It opened in 1982 as the Canton Historical Museum. It is a Canton historical site and is on the Michigan State Register of Historic Sites.

McLaughlin House, Smith Hoops-Johnson House, Vetal House-Willow Brook Inn B&B, Cherry Hill Methodist Church, Cherry Hill School and the Canton Center School, now the Canton Historical Museum. Parking will be along the roadsides.

"All the homes will be decorated for Christmas," Van Lenten said. "There are a couple of businesses in town that will showcase the homes."

Visitors will get a sense of what Canton was like a long time ago when it was truly a farming community. Some of the buildings also have been renovated with preservation in mind, Van Lenten said.

For example, the Smith-Hoops House has not been altered, but is planned as a bed and breakfast inn. The Truesdell House is in the restoration process. Each building will have a historical society member on hand to discuss the history of the particular building.

But there's even more for guests. When they arrive at the Cherry Hill School there'll be a craft show, hosted by society members, waiting for them.

"It will be a mixture of everything," said Joan Palmer, society president, referring to the types of crafts that will range from Christmas ornaments to pillows, note cards and baked goods. The crafts are made by society members. Refreshments also will be served at the Cherry Hill School.

"We are also hoping to have a politicians' table. They have been invited to bring a specialty that they have baked, canned or cooked," Palmer said.

Visitors also will be treated to an antique doll collection at the Cherry Hill School. Students from Gallimore Elementary will make the decorations for the schoolhouse and a Christmas tree at the historic building.

Canton area businesses have jumped in to help the tour. Area florists will provide a floral arrangement for each home or building. Florists include Mrs. Bee's, Bartel's, Wesley Berry, Amour Flowers, Piccadilly Petal'er and The Flower Pot.

Restaurants also are participating by offering discounts (excluding drinks) to ticket holders on the tour day. Restaurants include: Rose's, 201 N. Canton Center; Thai Bistro, 45620 Ford Road; Mountain Jack's, 2100 N. Haggerty Road; Olive Garden, 41980 Ford Road; Applebee's, 43500 Ford Road; Himalaya, 44282 Warren Road; Izakaya Sanpei, 43327 Joy Road; Roman Forum, 41601 Ford Road; B.J.'s Bowery, 41275 Ford Road; Johnson's Family Restaurant, 42400 Ford Road.

Van Lenten chose the first weekend in December because it coincides with the national showcase of bed and breakfast inns during the first two weekends in December.

"When planning a home tour you start with the houses that everyone has always said, 'I'd love to go into that house,'" Van Lenten said. "Canton has lots of neat stuff. I already have four houses tapped for next year's tour."

Sick days can be used to take care of personal business. "We understand there are things related to personal business that can't be done on non-school days," said Errol Goldman, assistant superintendent for employee relations.

The 180-day sick bank is intended as "a type of insurance policy. Hopefully no one has to use a sick day, but they're there if they are necessary," Goldman said.

The district offers paid leaves for disability and maternity. Non-paid leaves are granted for career exploration, child care and other purposes, if the teacher receives board approval.

Judy Evola, the district's community relations director, said a recognition program is being launched for teachers with good attendance.

Little and Goldman are all for it. At Little's former school district near Buffalo, N.Y., "We did some things to recognize people who had good attendance, and it did help," he said.

"Any time you can improve attendance, it's better for everybody," said Goldman. "Parents are going to be happier, because there is no substitute in the classroom."

The district expects to make its money back on the automated calling system in two years.

Because the system is computerized, there will no longer be a need for the half-time person who currently comes in at 4:30 a.m. each school day to collect teachers' messages and call subs. Nor will there be problems with the tape machine malfunctioning, said Goldman.

The district plans to expand the system so that eventually, other employee groups may use it as well.

Canton youth severely injured in car accident

A 17-year-old Canton girl was severely injured in a two-car accident on Cherry Hill Road near Denton Road about 11 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 16.

The accident, described as "almost head-on" is believed to have occurred when a man driving an oncoming car reportedly veered into the girl's car. No other details about the accident were immediately available.

"They (police) are waiting for the blood alcohol to come back," said Canton Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher, referring to the man's condition at the time of the accident.

The girl was transported to St. Joseph-Mercy Hospital, where as of Friday evening she remained hospitalized with life-threatening injuries. Her 10-year-old sister, who was a passenger in the car, received minor injuries and was also transported to the hospital, Rorabacher said.

The accident victim lives on Mott Road, which is south of Geddes near the Van Buren Township border.

The man was transported to a nearby hospital, treated and released. No charges have been filed. The accident remains under investigation.

Rollover accident reported

Listed below are some of the Canton fire and rescue incidents reported during the past week, as well as fire safety tips and programs available free to the community. Year-to-date runs for the Canton Fire Department: 3,434; last year's total: 3,445. The past week's total: 80.

■ ROLLOVER ACCIDENT

A man was injured when he lost control of his car and rolled it over into an embankment Nov. 9 on southbound I-275 over Michigan Avenue. The freeway was closed while firefighters treated the man and MedFlight transported him to St. Joseph-Mercy Hospital, Ypsilanti.

Firefighters used the Jaws of Life extrication tool to cut the roof off the car to get the man out. He had major head and neck injuries.

■ OVERDOSE

A man was provided respiratory assistance by firefighters when he was found unconscious from a possible morphine overdose Nov. 9 at the College Park Mobile Home Park on Mott Road.

When firefighters arrived at the scene, the man was barely breathing. Firefighters transported him to St. Joseph-Mercy Hospital, Ypsilanti.

■ MAN INJURED

A man was injured when the car in which he was driving during a funeral procession was struck on the passenger side, Nov. 11, at Haggerty and Warren roads.

The man had neck and abdominal injuries. He was treated by firefighters and transported to St. Mary Hospital, Livonia.

■ CARDIAC ARREST

Firefighters responded to a call that a man was choking in a business in the 45000 block of Ford Road, Nov. 11. When firefighters arrived they found the man in full cardiac arrest.

Onlookers were providing CPR. Firefighters took over and used the automatic defibrillator to shock him. He was transported to Oakwood Healthcare Center, Canton. Later that evening firefighters prepared a landing zone at Oakwood for Survival Flight to take the man to the University of Michigan Hospitals.

Crafter featured

Linda Nixon, a Canton crafter, will participate in a three-day Arts and Crafts show Nov. 24-26, at Mercy High School in Farmington Hills.

Show hours will include a Friday night preview and sale beginning at 4 p.m. More than 150 tables of juried arts and crafts will be available from 4-8 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Admission for the Friday preview and sale is $4, and $2 Saturday and Sunday. Call (810) 476-8020 for more information.

Mission Health — a joint operating agreement of McAuley Health Centers (St. Joseph Mercy) and Providence Hospital — already has a medical facility in Canton on Ford Road at Lilley.

However, Mission Health doesn't own that building, said spokesman Jim Frenza, and won't necessarily continue renting it once the new building is up.

Plans for services the new medical center will offer are incomplete, but could include urgent care services, therapy and rehabilitation programs and office space for doctors.

If all goes as planned, construction will begin in mid-1997, Frenza said.

Mission Health is forming a "community advisory council" of Canton Township residents to help determine what educational offerings and services the new center will have.

Mission Health is also constructing a similar medical center at Newburgh and Seven Mile in Livonia.

SC board to meet with local legislators

By Beth Sundrla Jachman
Staff Writer

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees wants to meet with local legislators and educate them about the community college.

A legislative breakfast at 8 a.m. Dec. 1 at the Waterman Center on campus is where they plan to meet.

State Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton Township; Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville; Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford Township; Rep. Tom Kelly, D- Wayne; Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth and Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton Township, have been invited to the breakfast meeting with the trustees.

At Wednesday's board meeting, trustees worked on the list of issues they hope to discuss, including community college funding, the Headlee Amendment and the state cap on tuition.

"We want to be friendly . . . we want them to come back," said Richard W. McDowell, president of Schoolcraft College, but he also hoped to get issues important to the college across, especially funding concerns.

"There's no way we as a board are going to convince the state to change funding," said trustee Stephen C. Ragan. But he hoped there is a way to show legislators the importance of getting money to "programs that are working."

Ragan said if he were a legislator he would want to know what could be done to make the job easier for those in the trenches.

But, "We're also looking at a legislature that has taken up a dramatic number of issues," Ragan said.

McDowell said he hopes to answer the question of why the state should invest in Schoolcraft.

Board treasurer Richard DeVries said he wanted legislators to walk out saying first, that they are glad Schoolcraft College is in their district and second, that the community college system is a great thing.

"One thing I hope comes out of this is when Dick (McDowell) calls on the phone they know who he is and respond positively," board secretary Carol M. Strom said.

"We need to do this (meet with legislators) on a regular basis," McDowell said.

Schoolcraft College is at 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile roads. It serves the schools districts of Livonia, Clarenceville, Garden City, Plymouth-Canton and Northville.

SC board, secretaries break off talks

By Beth Sundrla Jachman
Staff Writer

Talks have broken off in the negotiations between Schoolcraft College and its secretaries' union.

The board of trustees went into closed session Wednesday night to discuss the situation, and the president of the union hopes more talks can be scheduled.

Saundra Florek, dean of marketing and research at the college, said there are many issues at stake and she isn't allowed to comment on them.

The three-year contract expired June 30 for the 58-member Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel.

The issue boils down to money, according to Belinda Eleson, president of the union of secretaries and clerical workers, which has been continuing to work without a contract.

"They are not offering very much," she said of the 2.5 percent raises offered by the college. "I know the other groups on campus have done better than that."

"We aren't asking for the moon," she said, adding she isn't at liberty to say what the union wants, but that the college knows.

"The bottom line is that we want to be treated fairly," she said.

Florek said the college is treating the union the same as others. "They were offered exactly what the other unions were offered, and they have turned it down," Florek said.

The other unions settled contracts this year for 2.5 percent

Host families sought for foreign students

High school students from around the world are anxiously waiting for an American family to volunteer to host them. These students will arrive in mid-January to attend school for the second semester.

Each student has been carefully screened and speaks English. They have their own spending money and medical insurance. These teen-agers need a host family to provide them with a bed, meals, love and guidance. The hosting family does not need to have children of their own.

Hosting an exchange student enables Americans to have a positive impact on how the world looks at our country and its people. While the exchange student learns, the host family has fun while gaining cultural understanding. Students and host families form ties that often lead to life-long friendships.

Three teen-agers currently waiting for an American family are:

■ Natalia, a 15-year-old Jewish girl, who is very talented in classical ballet.

■ Carolina, a 16-year-old Catholic girl who loves to play soccer and volleyball.

■ Paulo, a 15-year-old Presbyterian boy who plays piano, soccer, and tennis.

These three students and many more are sponsored by International Education Forum (IEF). For more information call, Lynne Levenbach at (313) 453-8562 or (313) 453-6851.

ANNA C. BOUTON

Services for Anna C. Bouton, 91, of Plymouth will be Friday, Nov. 17, in the chapel of Woodlawn Cemetery, in Detroit.

She was born June 4, 1904 in Bluff City, Tenn., and died Wednesday, Nov. 15, in West Trail Nursing Home, in Plymouth. She married James E. Bouton in 1922 and moved to Detroit in 1935, and raised their family, a son, James, and daughter, Betty. Following her husband's retirement in the late 60s, she and her husband moved to Clearwater, Fla. to live out their golden years. After her husband's death Mrs. Bouton returned to Michigan and eventually resided in Plymouth. She learned to play the piano and harmonica by herself and brought many hours of pleasure to family and friends with her music. She regularly entertained everyone at the nursing home, too, where she resided.

She is survived by her daughter Betty F. Tarpinian; five grandchildren; and 13 great-grandchildren.

Public is invited to Boarshead Festival

The Music Ministry at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church is pleased to announce the Second Boarshead Festival and Feast at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 9, and 5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 10, in the church at 1160 Penniman, Plymouth.

Music is under the direction of Michele Johns, faculty of the School of Music at the University of Michigan,

The program, which includes a cast of more than 250 performers, will feature traditional carols and legends of the birth of the Christ child. The Counsellors Chorale, the Guitar Group, the Singsations Youth Choir, and six bell choirs will perform, in addition to a brass ensemble and musicians on period instruments, including recorders, psaltery and lute.

Guests will find the church transformed into a medieval English great hall, festooned with banners and Yuletide greens. Those who attended last year's sell-out performance will recall the procession of the Yule log, the roasted boarshead, the colorful Beefeaters, royalty, jesters and two dance troupes.

According to Johns, "Last year's premiere sold out very quickly in response to many people in the Plymouth-Northville-Canton community who wanted to experience this very special Yuletide program. Once again we are gathering performers, musicians, visual artists and technical crew to produce an even better show in our newly renovated space."

Sue Lindquist, director of children's music and veteran of many children's liturgical and dramatic productions, feels this lavish program will delight all who attend.

Following the festival on Sunday evening only, 250 tickets will be available for the Boarshead Feast. Guests will find the adjacent school transformed into the king's castle, where a four-course, sit-down dinner of smoked loin of pork with dried cherry demi-glace and all the trimmings.

Tickets for the festival on Saturday or Sunday are priced at $10 each. Tickets for the festival and feast on Sunday are $25 each. For ticket information, call 453-0326.

Farmland disappearing: should we preserve it?

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Visualize an entire township — 36 square miles.

Now visualize 3.7 townships.

That is how much Michigan vacant land is being developed each year.

Most of that land used to be farmed. It used to produce corn, tomatoes and beef; perhaps beans, cherries, blueberries, cucumbers, potted geraniums, lilies.

You're going to have to bring in food from greater distances. It won't be as fresh. If you bought a house on a former farm, you're already spending more time in your car driving to work: 16 minutes in 1953, 27 minutes in 1994.

Take a 10-year period, 1982-92, because that's the period picked by the Governor's Farmland and Agriculture Development Task Force. If Michigan is losing 3.7 townships a year, then in a decade it has lost 37 townships.

That's more than all the land in Livingston County (16 townships) and Washtenaw County (20 townships) combined. What used to be meadows and cropland, mostly, is now Wal-Marts, offices, homes with very large lots, churches.

Over the course of 90 years, the picture looks like this: In 1920 Michigan had 19 million acres of farmland; today, 10 million acres; by the year 2010, just 8.3 million acres. All of Oakland and Wayne counties will be developed.

Farm folks

Turn to the people on the farm. Most farms (87 percent) are family-owned.

Certainly there are fewer people living on farms, and the farms are larger.

But consider their age. In 1992 the average age of farmers was 51.9.

In that key decade of 1982-92, the number of farmers older than 65 increased 7 percent. The number under age 35 decreased 55 percent. In short, the young folks aren't going into farming.

What will happen when those farmers die or quit? They're selling to developers, investing on Wall Street, and clipping coupons in retirement. But their sons and daughters aren't growing food and flowers.

The governor's commission and Michigan Society of Planning Officials say that should be changed. People need food, open space, open vistas. They say farming ought to be preserved.

The $$ catch

There's a financial catch. One governmental agency or another would pay farmers to stay on the land and not sell to developers, say the officials.

Where will the money come from? Here's a clue. Not even the study by 14 business, farm, conservation and community leaders appointed by Gov. John Engler was paid for by government. Five foundations and Michigan State University paid for it. If there isn't state money to pay for the study, how will it subsidize farmers to stay on the land?

David Skjaerlund, a farmer with a doctorate, was chief staff man for the study. He works for the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Some familiar names were on the panel: Dr. Martha Seger, former Oakland University economist; Elaine Skarritt, Milford Township clerk and past president of the Michigan Townships Association; Dr. Gordon Guyer and Roland Harmes, former heads of the Department of Natural Resources; Tom Washington, head of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Skjaerlund recently spoke to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, the seven-county planning agency. He said the biggest losses of farmland are in Oakland, Wayne and Washtenaw counties; the three counties around Grand Rapids; and the Traverse Bay area. Some 70 percent of the lost farmland is in the southern lower peninsula.

The governor's panel held public hearings in each of those areas and visited Pennsylvania for a look at its farmland preservation program.

Skjaerlund's good news: "Commodity prices doubled in the '80s," which of course helps farmers survive. His bad news: "People are moving to rural areas anyway."

What to do?

Some policy options don't involve sbusidizing farmers:

■ Smaller lot sizes. "Some townships want to control growth by requiring five to 10 acre lots," said Skjaerlund. The planning officials' report said, "A recent study linked the Subdivision Control Act of 1967 with accelerating rates of land fragmentation in many rural areas and a dramatic increase in the number of 10-acre or larger building sites."

■ Easier assessing. The pro-farmer groups want farmland assessed for property taxes on the basis of its use today, not on the basis that the farmer may sell it for a computer plant tomorrow. That is a dramatic turnaround from 20 years ago when planning experts were saying land should be assessed on its potential use, in order to force re-development.

Skjaerlund argued that farmers deserve a property tax break because "those pigs and hogs don't need schools and police protection."

■ Fewer nuisance suits. "Non-farming residents in rural areas often view agriculture operations as incompatible with their lifestyle," said the governor's panel. It advocated strengthening the Right to Farm Act, inhibiting nuisance charges against farms. The Legislature already is working on those bills.

Some policy options will require heavy-duty governmental action:

■ Transfer of development rights or TDR. An unspecified governmental agency would assign development rights to farms in a "preservation area." Farmers may sell their DRs to developers, "who then may use these rights to build at higher densities than allowed under current zoning guidelines."

The governor's panel doesn't discuss the foreseeable problem: What does Town Hall do when subdivision associations storm in protesting the developer's plan to put up a high rise between their patiosand the sunset?

■ Purchase of development rights or PDR. This is "a means of compensating farmers for their willingness to accept a deed restriction on their land that limits future development of the land for non-agricultural purposes."

In an understatement, the governor's panel admits that "funds may be limited." Skjaerlund observed, "In other states, eight or nine farmers sign up for every one for which there is money."

LOOKING FOR PATCHES

In addition to an examination of the teeth, a close inspection of the soft tissues of the mouth is part of a comprehensive oral exam. Among the things that the dentist or hygienist is looking for are leukoplakia. This generic term applies to any type of white patch that occurs inside the mouth which cannot be rubbed off. In some cases, these patches represent calluses or other benign conditions. In others, leukoplakia are associated with smoking and regular, heavy alcohol use and are considered to be a precancerous condition. Smokers and heavy drinkers may have tongues with white or brown coatings that are common manifestations of leukoplakia. Most oral lesions do not indicate a serious problem, but those that do may become life-threatening conditions if left untreated. It is a good idea to schedule an appointment with the dentist to properly evaluate the status of leukoplakia.

MET reopens, license rules changing for young drivers

Capitol capsules that affect young Michiganians:

Families can enroll their future college students in the Michigan Education Trust (MET) between Nov. 27 and Dec. 15 this year.

The pre-paid tuition savings plan for students in public colleges had been closed by the Engler administration since 1990.

MET was begun in the mid-1980s by then-Gov. James Blanchard, a Democrat. State Rep. Pat Gagliardi, D-Drummond Island, House minority floor leader, praised the Engler administration's decision but criticized the high cost of new contracts.

"The cost of a four-year contract will be $19,808, which as twice as high as when the program was introduced in 1988," said Gagliardi. "The MET board also has abolished the previous payment plan, demanding that families come up with nearly $20,000 up front for each contract.

"No middle-class family can afford to come up with $20,000 in cash . . . to purchase one of these contracts." He said MET becomes "just another investment option for the rich and a zero option for the middle class."

MET has three contract plans with these tentative prices:

Full benefits contract — full tuition and mandatory fees for students enrolled in Michigan public colleges; or a refund to a private or out-of-state college on behalf of the student. Price: $4,952 per year or $19,808 for four years.

Limited benefits contract — up to 105 percent of the weighted average tuition of state public four-year universities toward tuition and mandatory fees; or a refund to a private or out-of-state college on behalf of the student. Price: $3,765 per year or $15,060 for four years.

Community college benefits contract — full tuition and mandatory fees for students in public two-year colleges; or a refund to a four-year college — public, private or out-of-state — on behalf of the student. Price: $1,531 per year or $3,062 for two years.

To enroll in the MET program, contact any MET office of the Michigan Department of Treasury between Nov. 27 and Dec. 15, 1995 for an application form. Or write to Michigan Education Trust, PO Box 30198, Lansing 48909. Phone number is 800-MET-4-KID or 800-638-4543.

New driver bill

Rep. Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston, is sponsor of House Bill 4763, which the House passed by a 3-1 margin. It establishes a three-tier licensing system for new drivers:

Level 1. Participants must be at least 14 years and nine months of age and have parental approval. They must have passed the first segment of driver's education, a vision and knowledge test. A level-one license is valid at any time a parent or guardian accompanies the young driver.

The driver must log 50 hours of driving, including 10 at night. He or she almost must complete a second phase of driver education, be crash-free and violation-free for 90 days before applying for the second level.

Level 2. At 16, the driver can obtain a "provisional" license. Students must pass a driver performance road test. They are limited to driving from 5 a.m. to midnight unless accompanied by a parent or traveling for work.

Level 3. At 17, drivers become eligible for the final tier, without restrictions, if they have been crash-free and violation-free for six months.

raises, a one-quarter percent raise in retirement benefits and a half-percent raise in fringe benefits for a total of 3.25 percent, Florek said.

But Eleson said the other unions also got other increases in benefits built into their contracts that aren't being offered to the secretaries.

Faculty settled a four-year contract in 1994; food service settled a four-year contract this year; physical plant workers signed a one-year contract in August; the administrative staff, executives and classified workers settled a one-year contract this year, Florek said.

The secretaries are the last union on campus to settle, and they are always the last to settle, Eleson said. Last time the union went a year and a half without a contract, she said.

"I wish they'd settle. They are such a nice group of people," Florek said.

The union doesn't plan to strike. "Our intent is not to make things difficult around here. We want to make things run smoothly," Eleson said.

"We would like to be able to work things out," she said.

The union last went on strike in 1978 when members went out with the faculty union. Since that time the unions have settled at different times, Eleson said.

The secretaries' union is attempting to merge with the college's 45-member support personnel union of skilled maintenance workers to gain more leverage.

The secretaries' salaries range from $26,000 to $30,000, Eleson said.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Rich goose festive fare for holiday dinners

I know I'm rushing it. I couldn't help but get into the holiday spirit, especially after walking through my local Sears store the week before Halloween and seeing Christmas decorations in full regalia.

This year, the Janes Gang is in for a traditional holiday treat. Remember when Mr. Scrooge finally discovers the meaning of Christmas and when throwing open his window on Christmas morn, summons a boy and orders him "to get to the butchers and purchase the biggest, fattest goose in the window?" Well folks, this year we're going to cook our goose. Literally.

Those who have never cooked a goose are in for a treat. The meat is surprisingly firm, almost chewy to the bite, yet it is also moist and not at all tough or stringy. Both the breast and the legs are dark, in the manner of duck, but unlike duck, a goose has no gamey or tallowy undertones.

Actually, the first impression of many people is that goose tastes a lot like roast beef, and perhaps it is this rich, beefy quality that makes the bird so satisfying and festive. Goose, however, does have a problem. Although the meat itself is not fatty, a thick layer of fat lies just below the skin. As a consequence, the skin, which looks so tempting, often turns out to be too soft and greasy to eat. Furthermore, I have, dear readers, stumbled upon a technique that not only roasts but also renders.

First off, before we begin discussing the cooking technique, lets talk about where one actually finds a goose nowadays? You might be lucky enough to find a frozen goose at one of the grocery stores around town. Certainly, smaller local butchers who sell a good chicken will probably take orders; but for the freshest and most realistic purchase, bundle up the family and head for the Eastern Market in Detroit.

There, at Capitol or Charlie's Poultry, a live fresh goose can be had, in addition to the sights (and smells) of "how it used to be."

If you indeed must rely on the purchase of a frozen goose, simply leave the goose in the refrigerator for 36 hours to thaw naturally. Dressed geese can weigh as much as 14 pounds although weights over 12 pounds are rare in American markets. Heavier geese, in my opinion, gain much more in fat and bone mass than they do in meat, so choose a bird in the eight-10 pound range for optimal results.

Preparation tips

The last time I prepared a goose, I found it handy to have access to a pair of small pliers to remove the few quills that break off during dressing. Wash the bird completely inside and out. Using a trussing needle (a crochet needle, thermometer point or carving fork can be substituted), prick the goose skin all over, especially around the breast and thighs, holding the needle nearly parallel to the bird to avoid pricking the meat.

Fill a large stock pot 1/2 full with cold water. Cover and bring to a rapid boil. Using rubber gloves to protect your hands from possible splashes of boiling water, lower the goose, neck end down, into the water, submerging as much of the goose as possible until "goose bumps" appear, about 1 minute. Repeat this process, submerging the tail end, if needed. Drain and pat the goose dry. I prefer to do this and allow the goose to sit, uncovered, in the refrigerator for 24 hours before roasting for a gloriously crispy skin.

If you choose to stuff your goose, you can pack a handful of stuffing into the neck cavity and sew the opening shut with a trussing needle and heavy twine. Pack the remaining stuffing into the body cavity, pressing it firmly, and then sew the body vent shut, again with a trussing needle and heavy twine.

To cook the goose, place breast side down on a wire rack set over a deep roasting pan in a preheated 325 degree F. oven. Remove the goose from the oven and pour off most of the fat from the roasting pan, being careful not to disturb the browned bits on the bottom of the roasting pan.

Turn the goose breast side up and return to the oven to roast until drumstick flesh feels soft and the skin has puffed up around the breast bone, approximately 1 1/2 hours later. Remove the roasting pan and bird from the oven.

With the bird still on the roasting rack, return to the oven and raise the oven temperature to 400 degrees F. Crisp the skin for 20 minutes. Allow to stand for at least 30 minutes before carving.

LOSING WEIGHT SLOWLY LEADS TO SUCCESS

Editor's note: Sandra Dalka-Prysby, 50 of Birmingham, needed to lose 150 pounds and get fit. "I feel that I am going to die if I don't do something," she wrote "Family Circle' magazine. The magazine responded with the services of a registered dietitian and nutrition specialist who has been helping her since January, 1994. In addition, she's been working out daily thanks to the generosity of Beverly Hills Racquet and Health Club.

BY SANDRA DALKA-PRYSBY
SPECIAL WRITER

"Slow but sure" started out as the motto for my weight loss/get fit program, and it has become a way of life. By going slow but sure, I have reached my half-way point. I have lost 75 pounds!

One of the biggest reasons for my success is the "good" foods that I have discovered along this journey. They're not only healthy, but they're tasty.

In previous diet attempts, it was the boring foods that brought my efforts to a standstill. Variety is the secret to staying motivated.

My nutritionist, Muriel Wagner, has stressed the importance of choosing different foods daily and trying new recipes on a regular basis.

In previous weight loss efforts, I didn't do this. I figured out a daily menu and followed it day after day after day. No wonder I gave up so soon.

I am on an 1,800-calorie, low-fat/high carbohydrate daily food plan. It's not a diet, it's a food plan for life. A diet, according to Wagner whose office is in Southfield, "is something you do to lose weight as fast as you can so you can go back to eating the way that you did!"

This time around I am doing all the things that help guarantee success. I shop for the "right" foods and I spend time in the kitchen preparing meals that are not only excellent for my new way of life, but are also good for the family.

This food preparation takes time and eats into a busy schedule, but it's well worth it for the whole family. The kids now eat "green and yellow things" (zucchini and squash) that were previously foreign to their diets.

Fast foods are now 15-minute start-to-finish stir-frys versus a drive to hamburger and pizza establishments. Oh sure, the kids still have hamburgers and tacos once in a while, but not to the degree that they did in my "unhealthy" life.

Luckily, I have good friends that totally support my program. One friend, Trish Battersby of Beverly Hills, introduced me to a wonderful baked potato meal that is totally satisfying. Others prepare dishes for me, such as coleslaw, with vinegar and sugar sweeteners instead of with creamy fat-laden salad dressings. This support is helping me succeed.

Previously, I was never successful on a diet. I always gained back what I lost, and then some. But I am successful now, and I plan to go all the way!

The reason for my resolve is that I feel so very, very good. It's not just the 75 pounds and going down four dress sizes. It's not just the compliments that family and friends constantly bestow on me. It's the way I feel. There's a bounce to my step and I can keep up with my husband and three kids, ages 12, 14 and 16.

Less than two years ago I was well over 300 pounds. I had no energy. I was unable to enjoy family outings that included any type of physical activity. I would sit in the car, smoke cigarettes (my two packs of cigarettes a day are now gone) and read a book while my family investigated various attractions that involved walking. I wasn't an active participant. My family was missing me, and I was missing living. Thank heavens, that's all changed.

Changing my diet and adding exercise is giving me life – a whole life.

I may have 75 pounds to go, but I am a lot closer to my goal for total fitness than I was last year. I'm half way there!

Tips for a healthy holiday

Have a healthy snack, such as fruit, salad or vegetable soup so that you are not starving when you arrive at a holiday event where food is served.

Stay away from the food table at parties. If you don't see it, you won't be tempted to eat it!

If you're hungry at a party, send your husband or a trusted friend to get a plate of healthy foods for you.

Wear a belt under your clothes or something a little tight at the waist to remind you that you should watch what you eat. If you eat too much, these "warning" devices will become even more uncomfortable.

When you're entertaining during the holidays, make sure you have healthy snacks such as vegetable trays, pretzels with specialty mustards and low-fat popcorn.

Make your own holiday treats. Make pumpkin pie for your family, and something low-fat, but special for yourself.

Wine Selections

Red wines from France's southern Rhone remain a value in a market of escalating red wine prices. Their generous fruit and peppery spice will enhance Thanksgiving dinner.

- 1991 Domaine Mireille et Vincent Cotes du Rhone $7
- 1994 Domaine de l'Espigouette Cotes du Rhone $7
- 1993 Domaine de L'Oratoire Saint Martin Cairanne $10
- 1994 Domaine des Amouriers Vacqueyras $10
- 1990 Domaine le Mas des Collines Gigondas $13
- 1992 Domaine du Pegau Chateauneuf-du-Pape $17

An American enhancement to your Thanksgiving dinner would be a California Nouveau. There's none better than 1995 Beringer Nouveau Gamay Beaujolais $5 – light, fruity and delicious.

Thomas Fogarty wines from California's Santa Cruz Mountains are at long last available in this market. They are excellent and include:

- 1992 Reserve Chardonnay $19
- 1994 Chardonnay $17.50
- 1992 Pinot Noir $22
- 1994 Gewurztraminer $13.50

Chardonnays for sipping on their own or as complements to salmon, swordfish, scallops, pork, turkey or chicken dishes and polenta with grilled mushrooms.

- 1993 Raymond Chardonnay $15.50
- 1994 Kenwood Chardonnay $14
- 1993 Edna Valley Vineyard Chardonnay $13
- 1993 Hess Select Chardonnay $10
- 1994 Canyon Road Chardonnay $9
- 1994 Columbia Crest (Washington state) Chardonnay $8

Sauvignon blancs make delectible pairings with oysters, goat cheese and grilled chicken.

- 1994 Raymond Sauvignon Blanc $9.50
- 1994 Kenwood Sauvignon Blanc $9.50
- 1994 Flora Springs Sauvignon Blanc $9.50

Chappellet is Napa's Vouvray on the Hill

FOCUS ON WINE BY RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

In 1967, when Donn and Molly Chappellet and their children moved from Los Angeles, a scant three dozen wineries were up and running in Napa Valley – most of these survivors of Prohibition. Back then, these producers were dubbed old-timers. Chappellet was only the second winery to be built new since Prohibition.

In retrospect today, Chappellet Vineyard is an old-timer. A lot of water has run over Conn Dam and through Lake Hennessy, both visible from the almost hidden winery, atop Pritchard Hill in the northeastern sector of Napa Valley. The modern history of winemaking in California has been written since the Chappellet's ushered in the new era of California winemaking pioneers. By 1969, the Chappellets were geared up for their first harvest, having terraced hillside parcels to grow estate grapes.

With a current ban on hillside grapegrowing in Napa Valley, the Chappellets have a prized 120-acre site, a little less than half on terraces with the remainder sloped vineyards. The best grapes in the world grow on steep hillsides.

"Since the beginning, my parents have focused attention on making food wines," Jon-Mark Chappellet told us. "Back then, it wasn't the buzzword that it is today. We haven't jumped on the next fad; that would be a denial of our history.

"Now, our winemaker Phillip Titus focuses on what we do best with our estate, hillside-grown fruit. He takes a subjective view of quality and blends it with our traditions. We're mindful and focus on our customers in the market without being sucked up by crazes."

One look at Chappellet's wine portfolio tells you that Jon-Mark's comments are not some dream trying to be lived out in the wine business. When's the last time you drank a superior chenin blanc? A what blanc? Chenin, dry chenin blanc with origins in France's Loire Valley where it's called Vouvray.

Chappellet's 1992 Chenin Blanc $9 is fruit generous and dry with balanced acidity and a vanilla component from 25 percent barrel fermentation and the same percent barrel aging. Maybe we should start referring to Chappellet as America's Vouvray on the Hill. Try the wine with grilled whitefish or seared scallops.

Then there's Old Vine Cuvee $12. The label doesn't say chenin blanc, but it is. This winner from 31-year-old vines has been 100 percent barrel fermented and undergone partial malolactic fermentation, the same winemaking tricks used to make the chardonnay you like. "We're left to be a standard bearer for chenin blanc in California," Jon-Mark said. "We take it seriously." We'll drink to that!

And Chappellet's not done impressing you with what it can do with chenin blanc. There's a delicious dessert style named Moelleux.

ROAST GOOSE WITH PRUNE & APPLE STUFFING AND RED WINE GIBLET GRAVY

Roast Goose:
1 roasting goose, 8-12 pounds
gross weight — (Neck, giblets, wing tips and excess fat removed, rinsed, patted dry with skin pricked all over
Salt and fresh ground black pepper to taste

Brown goose stock:
3 tablespoons reserved goose fat, patted dry and chopped
Reserved goose neck and wing tips, cut into 1-inch pieces; heart and gizzard left whole, all parts patted dry
1 medium onion, peeled and chopped
1 medium carrot, peeled and chopped
1 medium stalk celery, chopped
2 teaspoons sugar
2 cups dry red wine
½ cup chicken broth
6 large parsley stems
1 large bay leaf
1 teaspoon black peppercorns
½ teaspoon dried thyme

Prune & Apple Stuffing:
(6 ounces (1 cup) pitted prunes, chopped
½ cup cream sherry
8 ounces white bread, cut into cubes (about 4 cups)
½ cup reserved goose fat, patted dry and chopped
3 medium onions, peeled and chopped
3 medium stalks celery, chopped
3 medium (1½ pounds) Granny Smith apples, cored and chopped
6 ounces ham, minced (about 1 cup)
2 tablespoons fresh sage, chopped (about 1½ teaspoons dried)
Salt and fresh ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg
Red wine gravy:
1 recipe brown goose stock
½ cup cream sherry
½ cup chicken broth
2½ tablespoons melted goose fat from the roasting pan
2½ tablespoons flour
Salt and fresh ground black pepper

For the goose: Fill a large stock pot ⅔ full with water and bring to a boil. Submerge goose in boiling water. Drain goose and dry thoroughly, inside and out. Set goose on a rack and refrigerate, uncovered for 24-36 hours.

For the stock: Heat the fat over medium heat in a large saucepan until it melts, leaving small browned bits. Increase heat to medium high; heat fat until it begins to smoke. Add goose pieces and giblets to fat; saute, stirring frequently until meat turns a deep mahogany color, about 10 minutes. Add onions, carrots, and celery; saute, stirring frequently until vegetables are browned, about 10 minutes. Stir in sugar, continue to cook, stirring frequently until it caramelizes and begins to smoke.

Pour in wine, scraping pan bottom with a wooden spoon to dissolve brown bits. Add chicken stock, parsley, bay leaf, peppercorns and thyme. ring to a boil and then lower to barely a simmer and cook, partially covered until stock is dark and rich, about 2 hours.

For the stuffing: Soak the prunes in sherry in a small bowl for at least 2 hours, preferably overnight. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees F. Spread bread cubes over a large baking sheet; bake, stirring occasionally until cubes are lightly toasted but still soft inside, about 10 minutes.

Heat fat in a large skillet over medium heat until it melts, leaving small browned bits. Leaving 2 tablespoons of fat in the skillet, remove and set aside remaining fat. Increase heat to medium high. Add onions and celery and saute until vegetables are softened, about 5 minutes. Scrape vegetables into a large mixing bowl. Return skillet to burner and add 2 tablespoons reserved fat.

Add apples, saute until golden and soft but not mushy, about 5 minutes. Add apples to onions and celery. Stir in ham, sage and ¾ teaspoon each of salt and pepper, cloves and nutmeg, along with prunes, unabsorbed sherry and bread cubes. This can be done a day ahead, covered and refrigerated.

Warm slightly in an oven before stuffing the goose.Adjust the oven rack to a low-center position and preheat to 325 degrees F. Stuff and truss the goose.

Season goose skin liberally with salt and pepper. Place goose breast side down on a wire rack set over a deep roasting pan; roast for 1½ hours. Remove goose from oven and bail out most of fat from the roasting pan, being careful not to disturb browned bits on the bottom of the pan.

Turn goose breast up and return to roast until skin has puffed and browned, about 1¼ to ½ hours longer. Increase the oven temperature to 400 degrees F.; transfer goose, still on its rack to a large jelly roll pan. Return to the oven to further brown and fully crisp skin, about 15 minutes longer.

Let stand, uncovered, about ½ hour before carving.

For the gravy: Bring reserved goose stock to a simmer. Spoon most of fat out of the roasting pan, leaving behind all browned roast particles. Set pan over two burners on low heat. Add sherry and scrape with a wooden spoon until all of the browned glaze is dissolved. Pour this mixture into the goose stock and simmer to blend the flavors, about 5 minutes.

Strain mixture into a 4 cup glass measure; allow to stand until fat rises to the top. Skim fat, and if necessary, add enough chicken broth to make 2 cups. Rinse out goose stock pot and return strained stock to it. Take gizzard and heart from strainer, chop fine and add to goose stock. Bring stock to a boil. Heat goose fat and flour over medium low heat in a heavy bottomed saucepan; stirring constantly with a wooden spoon until roux begins to color, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Beating constantly with a whisk, pour in boiling stock. Return saucepan to low heat, simmer for 3 minutes. Add chopped liver, simmer 1 minute longer. Taste and adjust seasoning, adding a pinch of salt and lots of fresh ground pepper. Remove trussing and spoon stuffing into a serving bowl.

Carve goose and serve with stuffing and gravy.

Serves 8-10.

Leftovers
Turkey means possibilities

PRNewswire — Every year after Thanksgiving many people find themselves in the same dilemma — a lot of leftover turkey and no original ideas on how to serve it up.

But there are ways to liven up the turkey doldrums during the holidays and throughout the rest of the year according to Franki Papai Secunda, author of "The Everyday Turkey Cookbook" (HPBooks; Nov. 1995; $11). In recent years turkey has given chicken a run for its money, becoming a year-round staple enjoyed for its great taste and nutritional benefits.

Don't limit leftovers to cold turkey sandwiches, try the following:

TURKEY DIVAN
1 pound fresh broccoli, florets cut into lengthwise slices
1 (10¾-ounce) can cream of mushroom soup
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
Dash of Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
½ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
2 cups chopped cooked turkey

Preheat oven to 300 degrees F. Grease a shallow baking dish. Arrange broccoli in baking dish. Mix soup, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, and nutmeg together in a bowl. Pour half of this mixture over broccoli. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons of the Parmesan cheese over the mixture. Arrange the chopped turkey on top and pour the remaining sauce mixture over all. Sprinkle with remaining Parmesan cheese. Bake 30 minutes or until bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

TURKEY AND ASPARAGUS PASTA SALAD
1 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
6 ounces tri-color spiral or twist pasta, cooked
2 cups small cubed cooked turkey
1 red bell pepper, seeded and cut into 1-inch squares
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
1 (10-ounce) package frozen chopped asparagus, thawed

In a large bowl, combine mayonnaise, mustard, lemon juice, pasta, turkey, bell pepper, salt, and pepper. Gently toss asparagus spears with salad. Cover and refrigerate 1 hour or overnight. Makes six servings.

LINDA BACHRACK

Editor shares tips for holiday decor

Planning a "Martha Stewart" holiday?

"No way!" you say . . . "Too perfect, too intimidating, too stressful to even ponder." The pages of "Martha Stewart Living" dazzle with entertaining and decorating ideas, but most of us just sigh and resort to our traditional centerpiece and our tried-and-true recipes.

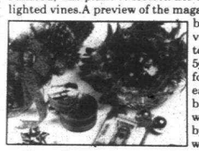
This year may be your time to shine. I am about to share some of Martha's simplest and most-stunning holiday decorating ideas. The source of these inspirational tips is Darcy Miller, senior associate editor of Martha's magazine.

Miller spoke recently to an enthusiastic audience at Hudson's in Twelve Oaks, Novi. a She was there, she explained, "to demystify entertaining." Though she admitted that some of her ideas were daunting, she coaxed listeners to "take from them whatever you feel, whatever you're comfortable with."

Lights, camera, action!

Miller began her slide presentation with ways to enhance the outside of your house. "Lights are festive and magical," she said.

Why not twine grapevine balls with tiny white lights and hang them in your favorite tree? (Available at O' Susannah and L'Esprit in Birmingham.) "A wonderful idea," said Robine Wright of Milford, who plans to festoon her tree with the lighted vines.A preview of the magazine's December issue revealed wreaths to symbolize all 50 states. Look for Michigan's easy-to-assemble, homespun wreath inspired by an autumn walk in the north woods.



Swag the door with an evergreen garland dotted with white lights and punctuate the greenery with a couple of bright red bulbs. Make an unusual garland by wiring bunches of pinecones to rosette shapes. Tie pinecones to the rosettes. Boxwood garlands make classic window surrounds, and tassels of balsam and fir accent the glass panes.

Inside, ropes of evergreen scent the entire house. Garland the doorways and mirrors using silver balls to add sparkle to the greenery. Or spritz some of the leaves with silver paint for dramatic effect. Silver, rather than gold, seems to be the color that shines this holiday season.

Natural wonders

Fruited branches also make wonderful garlands. Look for fig or quince. Wire olive branches into a heart shape for an unconventional wreath idea or string pinecones with vintage beads for eye-catching curtain tiebacks.

A mirror in Martha's house is "garlanded" with silver leaves made simply from aluminum cutouts.

For a classic mantle decoration, stick sprigs of evergreen into oasis to form a conical shape. Place in custard cups or miniclay pots and line the fireplace with your two-inch trees.

Need an easy doorknob decoration? Arrange roses and pine springs in a tin can and hang on door with twine or rope.

The best centerpiece ideas are the simplest ones. Sugar your favorite fruits and place in a crystal compote with some greenery. Fill a tiered cakestand with oranges or craft a natural table runner out of branches and pomegranates. Fill a vase with firm cranberries and red roses.

"Make sure the cranberries are firm or you'll have Hawaiian Punch," cautioned Miller. Throw some antique Christmas balls in a glass bowl and don't forget ribbons. Tie wired ribbon on the backs of chairs and on staircase bannisters.

Next week, watch for tabletop, gift wrap, and hostess gift ideas a la Martha, plus a visit to a new party planning shop in Birmingham — Festivities.

Gourmet grocery stores grow

■ Ed Jonna, Detroit's Merchant of Vino, was named Retailer of the Year by MarketWatch Magazine. It's been a good year for the gourmet grocer who is about to enter a new retail arena with three food emporiums opening around town.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

It's a good year: Ed Jonna shows off his new marketplace store in Rochester Hills. The aisles are full of tempting treats — "the best of the best."

Like the wine he's been selling for more than 30 years, Ed Jonna's Merchant of Vino stores get better as he ages — and he's the first to admit it.

Incorporating the fresh ideas and enthusiasm of sons Marc, 29, and Matthew, 23, and daughter Monica, 32, Jonna and his wife Juliette of Bloomfield Hills, are opening three new Marketplace concept stores, patterned after their highly successful 4-year-old Ann Arbor store.

"It all just sort of evolved," Jonna said, touring the two-month-old Rochester Hills store on Walton, west of Livernois. "We began selling wines in Ann Arbor, then we added gourmet foods, produce, sauces and groceries, and we knew we were onto something. We always wanted a store in Rochester Hills, so when this location became available, we went after it.

"Stan Frankel sought us out for the Somerset Plaza location on Maple, east of Coolidge in Birmingham. The spot was too good to pass up. We sealed that deal with a quick handshake. We're planning to open on Dec. 6 thanks to Comerica Bank. They believed in us and listened to what we were saying about grocery shopping of the future."

Jonna said the third Marketplace store at 12 Mile and Middlebelt in Farmington Hills came about because the lease on their Northwestern Highway store in Southfield is expiring. They will close that store in March 1996 when the Farmington Hills store opens.

The new Merchant of Vino Marketplaces are staffed and stocked to meet the food needs of today's busy, well-traveled, health-conscious consumer. Within the grocery are individual departments selling the best food products of independent vendors, both local and international.

Sales associates are experts in their fields, like Vince Giordano, manager of the meat department in Rochester, who learned to make sausage from his grandmother, and Pasquale Montella manager of produce, who grew up in the fruit and vegetable business in Brooklyn, and Chris Messler, a seafood chef, who heads up the fish counter. (When crablegs went for $6 per pound last week, Messler sold 2,000 pounds. He

Gone to the frogs

Hoppin' good fun: Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn recently dedicated a new, permanent attraction for children — The Frog Hop. The exhibit features a life-size game board designed by Ron Loch of West Bloomfield and Steve Henri of Farmington Hills, both with The Taubman Company. Children play on the equipment like human game pieces climbing on the 500-pound frog and balancing on the nine-foot long frog tongue. Find it in center court, open during mall hours. The dedication raised $5,000 for area charities.

Retailers expect a moderate season

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

The best gifts this year, according to a survey of the nation's leading retailers, will be anything that offers comfort, control or convenience to time-pressed, stressed residents of the '90s.

Shoppers will spend their dollars on items that add simple pleasures to life and precious minutes to hectic days. This theme replaces the "cocooning" gifts of the past three holiday seasons.

And retailers and consumers will head into the holiday shopping season with "cautious optimism," according to surveys by shopping center developer The Taubman Company and the accounting firm of Arthur Andersen.

Both companies held a joint press

recommends Trigger Fish as "the best eater.")

Marv's Meats Inc., are sold in the meat department. Godiva Chocolates has its first "grocery boutique" in the bakery, also home to bread and pastries from 20 different local bakers.

The Great Seafood Co. supplies fresh fish from east and west coast dayboats. Fish is flown direct six times a week. English Gardens operates a full floral shop at the market entrance. Marcel Shurman's greeting cards fill a rack near the bakery. Gourmet and organic grocery staples come from local companies like Germack and Billy Bones.

The deli department shares counter space with Juliette's first class 15-year-old catering company, offering dishes-to-go, dips, 35 different salads and gourmet gift baskets. Orders are taken for special occasion entertaining.

The coffee beans are stored in stainless steel drawers. A humidor in the front of the store houses the finest cigars from around the world. A small wine cellar stores "the good stuff" at the right temperature.

These state-of-the art grocery/departments surround center aisles filled with grocery items like sauces, condiments, pastas, cereals, baby food, organic dog food and yes, even toilet tissue.

The merchant's vino is strategically placed throughout the store, standing on shelves across from the food items they best complement. Sales associates are stationed in the aisles, ready with advice and suggestions for customers who wish to tap their expertise.

"We simply went after the best," Jonna explained. "We brought in the best products, the best people, the best prices. Five of our best-selling gourmet items are under $2 each. We got the products customers asked for so they don't have to leave our store and stop somewhere else for tissue or milk."

The Jonnas are positioned for the 21st century. They want to change the way you shop for food.

"Did you know that 85 percent of the food sold in America comes from four companies: General Foods, Nabisco, Kraft and G.P.C.?" he posed. "It's important to support the independents because they are the backbone of America. That's why we have the entrepreneur's products in our stores."

Ed and Juliette Jonna married 34 years ago on Nov. 26, 1961. They raised four children; three joined them in business. They have four grandchildren. Working long hours during the week and visiting their stores on weekends, leaves little time for the golf and travel they enjoy.

To relax, the Jonnas play cards every Saturday night with longtime friends, the Georges, who own Melody Farms.

Jonna was born on St. Patrick's Day in 1939, and grew up in a family five brothers, one sister in the Boston Boulevard area of Detroit. His father was also in the food business and was Jonna's inspiration.

"I remember a sign dad hung up in our Union Pacific market in 1949: We sell the best hamburger in the world. I said, 'Geez dad, come-on. The best in the world?' But darned if hamburger sales didn't skyrocket and along with them, the sales of buns and pickles. I tell my kids, 'A is good, but the A-plus is better. It will break your back, but the best is always worth it.' "

Jonna recently took the back seat in his business, giving the driver's seat over to his children. The Royal Oak and Dearborn stores became the property of his brother and longtime partner, John.

"Most family businesses die after three generations and I don't want that to happen to ours," he said. "Also, my wife and I have been working very hard for a very long time and we want some carefree years to enjoy."

He recalled the lean years when Merchant of Vino opened in Troy to such a slow start he had trouble making his house payment each month. He credits Detroit News writer Tish Myers with "getting it all started for us."

"She stopped in one night, saw our great selection of wines and wrote a big article about the store," he explained. "J.P. McCarthy read it and called me to talk about wine on his radio show. Ever since then, I discuss the holidays and entertaining with wine on WJR the Monday before Thanksgiving. I've been asked to continue my guest spots, even though J. P. has passed away."

Jonna is a local wine celebrity and there is always a Merchant of Vino wine table at charity fundraisers, courtesy of the Jonnas.

conference at Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn Nov. 15 to focus media attention on the busiest retail time of the year, the months of November and December, when according to Robert Taubman, president of Taubman Centers, retailers do one third of their annual business.

Taubman reported that national retailers predict sales of 3-5 percent over 1994, with Michigan consumers planning to spend an average of $77 for each person on their list compared to $58 last year. Those surveyed expect to buy gifts for 17 people, compared to 15 people in 1994.

The Andersen survey revealed that 31 percent of consumers will shop evenly throughout the season. Clothing is expected to bring the most sales, followed by toys.

Bond is back in 'Goldeneye'

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

By my account, the last really good James Bond movie was "The Spy Who Loved Me" in 1977. It's taken almost 20 years for the producers of this popular action series to live up to the promise that "Bond is Back."

KEITH HAMSHERE

Bond adventure: James Bond (Pierce Brosnan) and Natalya Simonova (Izabella Scorupco) leap to safety in "Goldeneye."

Pierce Brosnan (late of television's "Remington Steele") brings the appropriate look, attitude and tongue-and-cheek humor to Secret Agent 007. That "Goldeneye" is derivative, often stupid, and at least a half hour too long only puts it in the company of the series' best entries.

Bond's nemesis this time is a fellow agent (Sean Bean) left for dead almost a decade ago during a search-and-destroy mission in the former Soviet Union. This week's evil plan: to use a secret Russian satellite weapon to wipe out every bit of the electronic equipment in London.

The movie is cleverest at showing Bond's role in the post-Cold War. Boss M, played forever by Bernard Lee, is now a woman (Judi Dench) who finds Bond "misogynistic, sexist, and a fossil." We can't help but agree, but, like her, hope that Bond's next mission brings him back alive.

Even the action centers around the relics of Communism. Prominent vehicles include standard-issue tanks and helicopters. A Yugo shares screen time with a Q-modified BMW. One of the most atmospheric scenes takes place in a scrap yard for old Soviet statuary, crumbling heads of Lenin and Stalin.

The first 20 minutes of "Goldeneye" are alone worth the price of admission. Bond, chased by machine-gun wielding assassins, makes a spectacular jump off a cliff and toward an airplane plunging it into the mountains. You have to see the rest to believe it.

In yet another nostalgic moment, Tina Turner screeches through the "Goldfinger"-style title song while the opening credits provide naked guns and gals in silhouette, longtime Bond staples. The movie doesn't waste any time getting back to the action as Bond plays a game of chicken with a red sports car on the cliffs near Monte Carlo.

Of course, there are at least two sexy women. One, a computer technician (Isabella Scorupco), is the only witness to the kidnaping of the Soviet weapon. Smart enough to see through Bond's shallowness, she nevertheless succumbs to his charms.

The femme fatale, named phonetically "On-the-Top" (or was that over the top?) and played by Famke Janssen, can crush a man between her legs. Perhaps the kinkiest Bond woman ever, she gets a perverse sexual rush from shooting up a roomful of people.

"Goldeneye" loses its luster in the last half hour or so, or maybe earlier, during a clumsily-filmed chase scene where Bond smashes through buildings in a tank. Though backed by the signature theme song, Martin Campbell's direction here has all the finesse of a monster truck rally.

The final showdown between Bond and 006 takes place in one of those massive mission control bunkers that might have been left over from a half dozen other Bond films. And while the villain, a sophisticated version of Batman's Two-Face, isn't especially memorable, he knows Bond well enough to remind him of "the screams of the willing women" he has been unable to protect over the years.

Though still just a stand-in for the sainted Sean Connery, Brosnan (with the help of a decent action director) has what it takes to thrust the Bond series well into the next century.

Wine from Front

The 1993 at $40 for 375mL has limited availability, but it's worth a search.

In reds, Chappellet leads with cabernet sauvignon. The 1991 bottling at $21 is lean, structured, ageable, yet agreeable now. Its blackberry, black cherry and cassis fruit complemented by allspice and bay spice notes is most attractive. The lengthy, stylish finish is complexed by hints of chocolate, cocoa, coffee and anise.

■ Comeback kid of the year. If you're a fan of Italian varietals, such as sangiovese, now being produced in California, then you need to discover Martin Brothers. This Paso Robles, California, winery made so so wines for oh so long that we had more or less written them off. For more than a year, new releases have been impressive to say the least. We didn't jump right out and wave the flag because consistency is important to us.

The latest releases show that things have changed for the better at Martin Brothers. We're very impressed by the quality, prices and uniquely styled packaging. Try: 1994 Sangiovese 11 Palio $12, 1993 Nebbiolo $10, and 1993 Zinfandel La Primitiva $10. Zinfandel is the only wine that has survived from Martin Brothers less tasteful years. It's delicious.

■ Champagne & Dessert Wine Tasting, 7-9 p.m. Monday, Nov. 27, Townsend Hotel, Birmingham, $25 in advance through Red Wagon Wine Shoppes. Call (810) 435-0719.

Ousted

The Siena Heights women's soccer team's season ended Nov. 10 in the semifinal round of the Great Lakes Regional Tournament with a 2-1 loss to host-team University of Findlay (Ohio).

The Saints, who advanced to the regional semifinal by beating Tri-State University 2-0 three days earlier in Angola, Ind., came out flat against Findlay. They gave up a goal 14 minutes into the match and trailed 2-0 before senior sweeper Ayana Nash (from Plymouth Canton) sent a long shot that got past the Findlay keeper, making it 2-1.

However, that came with just six minutes remaining, and Siena Heights could not get the equalizer. The Saints finish 12-8-2 overall after posting a 7-0-1 record in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference.

Tennis coaches hailed

Three coaches from the Western Lakes Activities Association were recognized as 1995 Regional Coaches of the Year (boys) by the Michigan High School Tennis Coaches Association.

George Croll (Livonia Stevenson) and Judy Braun (Plymouth Salem) shared honors in Region II, while Norm Staniszewski (North Farmington) was Region VIII Coach of the Year.

Livonia boxer triumphs

Rick Dufty of the Livonia Boxing Club won in his Diamond Gloves debut with a first-round knockout over Robert Nindy of Detroit Kronk in a super-heavyweight bout Nov. 10 at Detroit's Northwest Activities Center.

Dufty, a native of Caseville and student at Wayne State University, became the LBC's 12th Diamond Gloves champ in the past seven years.

■ The LBC will stage its Fight Night at the Olympia Gym, featuring 10 to 12 amateur bouts, beginning at 8 p.m Saturday.

Doors open at 7 p.m.

Advance tickets are available for $7. Tickets at the door are $10.

The Olympic Gym is at 28003 Eight Mile Road (off Grand River) in Livonia behind Arbor Drugs and Farmer Jack Shopping Center.

For more information, call (810) 442-7641.

Mazzoni new RU coach

Livonia Stevenson High product Pete Mazzoni was recently named as the first varsity hockey coach at Redford Union.

Mazzoni, a staff member at RU, will coach the team in its initial season during the 1996-97 school year.

His on ice experience includes a tryout with the Johnstown (Pa.) of the East Coast Hockey League and a free agent invitation to an International Hockey League tryout camp.

Mazzoni has served as an assistant coach at both Harper Woods Notre Dame and Allen Park Cabrini. He is currently coaching a Midget AA team in Redford. Mazzoni also hold intermediate and associate coaching certificates from the Michigan Amateur Hockey Association.

Jingle Bell run

The eighth-annual Max & Erma's Jingle Bell Run for Arthritis is set for Sunday, Dec. 3 at Oakland University.

Here's the deal: The race starts at 10 a.m. on the OU campus, with everyone in the field having tied bells to their shoes. There will be a 5-kilometer fun run, with awards presented to the top three finishers in three divisions, and a 1-kilometer walk.

Also, prizes will be awarded to the most creative and imaginative costumes, with runners encouraged to go beyond holiday themes.

Registration begins at 8 a.m., and costume judging starts an hour before the race. For more information, call Jeremy Zeltzer at (810) 350-3030.

Used sports stuff sale

Canton Parks and Recreation Services will sponsor its annual used sports equipment sale from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 2, at New Towne Plaza Shopping Center, located at Ford and Sheldon.

Those interested in selling sports or recreation items may bring them to the shopping center 6-9 p.m. Nov. 29 or 2-4 p.m. Dec. 1 to be priced and tagged. You set the price, you get the money (minus 15 percent to Parks and Recreation), volunteers do the selling (you need not be present). Money or unsold items may be picked up 1-2 p.m. Dec. 2.

Free Whalers tickets

Tickets to see Whalers hockey games at The Palace of Auburn Hills are available to interested groups.

And at no charge.

Currently available are tickets for the Whalers' 7 p.m. Thanksgiving Day game against the Peterborough Petes.

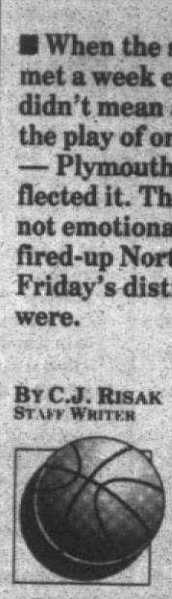
Any groups interested in these free tickets may call Dr. McCormack at 459-4458. He has up to 250 tickets available to nine Whalers games.

Anyone interested in submitting items to Sports Scene may send them to sports editor C.J. Risak, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI, 48150; or may fax them to (313) 591-7279.

Salem saved by free throws

■ When the same two teams met a week earlier, the game didn't mean as much, and the play of one of the teams — Plymouth Salem — reflected it. The Rocks were not emotionally ready for a fired-up Northville squad. In Friday's district final, they were.

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer



A week later, it was still free throws that made the difference between Plymouth Salem and Northville.

But this time it was different. The week before, Northville had sent the Rocks to the line three times in the final 1:25; the Rocks missed five-straight and were just one-for-eight in the game. The result: a loss.

Last Friday, the Mustangs led by a point when Salem's Shellye Sills stepped to the line, 1:10 still on the clock. Sills hit both, and Salem was back on top by a point.

It was an omen of what lay ahead. The Rocks shot eight more free throws in that final minute — and converted seven. Northville, which had been the district's hottest team, could not keep pace, finally succumbing 51-48 in Friday's district final at Novi.

The win puts the Rocks (now 16-6) into the state regional against Oak Park at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Berkly HS.

"We knew we'd get fouled," said Salem coach Fred Thomann.

Rocks end Blazers' season in semifinals

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

■ DISTRICT HOOP

It was close for a while.

Which must have made Plymouth Salem girls basketball coach Fred Thomann at least a little nervous. And conversely, it must have encouraged Livonia Ladywood coach Lisa McPhee.

Midway through the third quarter of Thursday's state district semifinal at Novi HS, the Blazers were within three points of the favored Rocks. This was a 5-14 Ladywood team challenging a 14-6 Salem squad, the same Ladywood team that Salem routed by 50 points in a pre-season scrimmage.

By the end of the third quarter, however, normality had returned.

The Blazers trailed by 10 after three, and never got closer than nine after that in losing 52-38.

Ladywood bows out at 5-15. Salem advanced to Friday's district final opposite Northville.

The reasons for the Rocks' closing surge varied. Thomann's view: "Ladywood's a fine team. (McPhee)'s done a good job getting them better as the season goes along.

"We're not at a point yet where we can dictate things."

OK. It's true, the team has just two seniors. Still, Salem's entire

Davey pursues new path to majors

By Richard L. Shook
Staff Writer

Erstwhile major league baseball player Tom Davey has a lot going for him, not the least of which is a willingness to change.

You'd be surprised at how many players there are in major league clubhouses with major league talent and minor league minds.

They've got mouths — that's for sure — but they're noticeably short in the hearing department. Their coaches will tell them something, but they're not listening.

Not so with Davey, late of Henry Ford Community College via Plymouth Salem, and the fifth-round choice of the Toronto Blue Jays in the 1994 free agent draft.

Davey is a pitcher at the Class A level for the Blue Jays. Two seasons ago he was a first baseman and a part-time pitcher for Henry Ford. Four seasons ago he was a first baseman at Salem.

"I pitched a little bit my sophomore year," said Davey, who at 6-foot-7 looks more like a first baseman than a pitcher but whose arm is livlier than his bat — and his bat wasn't bad.

"I started to pitch well late in the season. Then, in a couple of tournaments I threw really well. Some scouts saw me and Toronto drafted me."

Davey fought pitching for a long time. Too much down time.

"I was never serious about it," he said. "In high school we had a really good pitching staff. So they weren't going to waste time with me. Besides, they wanted me to focus on first base.

"I credit (Henry Ford) coach Stu Rose. He knew I had a good arm. But I was dead set against it. I wanted to prove I could get drafted at first base.

"I didn't like the idea of not being able to play every day. But he was a big catalyst in changing my thinking."

Davey hit well as a freshman. However, his sophomore year his power went up while his average declined. He was completing work on his Associate of Business degree when it began to dawn on him that it just wasn't good business to be stuck on first base.

He began to see that quite possibly the only way he'd reach the major leagues as a first baseman was through the business end of the game.

Hard thrower: Salem grad Tom Davey first thought his baseball future would be at first base. He's since taken it to the mound.

"I'm good," he thought, "but not that good." He categorized himself as a "dime a dozen" first baseman. "But there are not too many people who can throw like me."

So the switch was made.

Toronto dispatched Davey to Medicine Hat, an advanced rookie league, where he went 2-8 with a ton of walks. This season, though, he showed enough at short season St. Catherines to earn a midseason promotion to Hagerstown, where "I was 4-1 but walked a lot of people."

Davey recently completed seven weeks with the Florida Instructional League Blue Jays, where they tinkered with his mechanics to smooth out some roughness. Pitchers who are tall or have long arm motions often struggle with their control because there are more places where things can go wrong.

"They changed some things they felt needed to

Shamrocks win AA semifinal

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

Junior wide receiver Tim Steele made some acrobatic catches Saturday afternoon for Sterling Heights Stevenson, but Redford Catholic Central had a steal that was just as important.

With Stevenson trailing 14-7 midway through the third quarter and the ball on the Shamrocks' 6, CC sophomore cornerback Kevin Thomas intercepted a first-down pass intended for Steele in the corner of the end zone.

CC regained the momentum and returned to its punishing running game to win the Class AA state playoff football semifinal, 29-13, before a crowd of 5,000 at Mt. Clemens Chippewa Valley.

"Earlier in the game, he did an 'out' on me and made a diving catch (for a 10-yard touchdown in the first quarter)," Thomas said. "I knew he might go back to the same thing."

The win sends the Shamrocks, 12-0 overall, back to the Pontiac Silverdome for the AA championship game at 1 p.m. Saturday. CC won the crown in 1990 and '92 and also lost the title game there in '91.

Stevenson senior quarterback Mark Morris completed 19 of 30 passes for 228 yards, including nine to Steele for 130, and coach Rick Bye didn't second-guess his decision to throw inside the CC 10.

The Titans (11-1 overall) had a first down and goal at the Shamrocks' one after lineman Seth Sower picked up a CC fumble and returned it 21 yards, but were called for illegal motion to move the ball back to the six.

"We've gotten what we've got by doing what we do," Bye said.

It was the third time Stevenson was inside CC's 25 and failed to score. The Titans were stopped at CC's 24 midway through the second quarter when Mike Smiley, Milam Brooks and Judah May smothered Morris on a quarterback keeper for a gain of zero on fourth and two.

The Titans took their last possession of the half and drove 71 yards to CC's 9 following three catches by Steele. But sacks by Brooks and Smiley and a tackle by Smiley for a loss of five yards gave Stevenson fourth and goal at the 24.

A fourth down pass into the end zone on the last play of the first half was batted around a couple times and fell to the ground, leaving CC with a 14-7 lead.

"We've got a mindset about ourselves," said Mike Smiley. "I could see it in our eyes in the huddle. They've got names on the back of their jerseys. We've got 'Shamrocks' on the front of ours and that says it all. There were no individuals out there."

The Titans had 19 first downs to CC's 18, but the Shamrocks outgained the Titans, 284-48, on the ground.

Junior tailback Greg Alcala scored once and had 114 yards on 23 carries, while senior fullback John Spolsky scored two TDs and finished with 103 yards on 17 attempts. Junior quarterback Greg Call completed two of three passes, both to senior tight end Eric Gilbo, for 38 yards and also scored on a 13-yard run in the first quarter.

"We figured they'd come with an eight-man line, so we wanted dumps to Gilbo to loosen them up and break things open for Greg and John," Call said.

The Shamrocks sealed the outcome in the fourth quarter with two touchdowns and a safety.

Following a 16-yard Stevenson punt that gave CC possession at the Titans' 31, Alcala scored on a nine-yard run with 6:35 left to put the Shamrocks up 21-7.

The Shamrocks added a two-point safety when Spolsky sacked Morris in the end zone, but the Titans drove 72 yards and scored on a one-yard dive by junior tailback Andy Frank to cut the CC lead to 23-13.

The two-point conversion pass was knocked away and Spolsky busted through the Stevenson line for a 56-yard run with 1:32 left to provide the final CC points.

The Shamrocks scored in the first half on drives of 72 and 78 yards.

Call capped the first possession with a 13-yard run with 7:56 left in the first quarter. The extra point by Eron Kosmowski was no good, leaving CC with a 6-0 lead.

Stevenson responded with a 68-yard nine play drive capped by Steele's catch on third down and nine with 2:41 left in the first. The extra point gave Stevenson its only lead, 7-6.

The Shamrocks took the next kickoff and drove 78 yards in 15 plays to score on Spolsky's one-yard plunge. A 19-yard pass to Gilbo on fourth down and four at Stevenson's 35 kept it alive.

Ocelots a longshot at NJCAA tourney

■ VOLLEYBALL

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

Tom Teeters was lost.

Upon leaving the circular Novi High School Thursday night, it was easy to understand why. It was dark, and directions were difficult to determine.

Teeters had been at Novi to watch Livonia Ladywood play Plymouth Salem in a state district basketball game (Salem won, 52-38). Teeters coaches volleyball at Ladywood, and several of the Blazer basketball players play for him, too.

Chances are good Teeters (with the aid of Ladywood athletic director Sal Malek) found his way to his car. So there's no need to fret, Schoolcraft College volleyball fans; he'll be there to coach when the Lady Ocelots begin their run for the National Junior College Athletic Association Volleyball Championship today at Miami-Dade Kendall CC.

Teeters' Ocelots, all freshmen and a bit of a surprise entry, are seeded in the middle of the 16-team field at No. 9. They carry with them a 31-19 record, rather mediocre compared to most of the other teams in the field.

The seeding may seem high, but it was no favor to SC. "I would have rather been at 12 or 13," Teeters said.

The reason: The format of the four pools. The eighth and ninth seed are in Pool A, with the tournament's top seed and 16th seed. That means the Ocelots must go against two-time defending NJCAA champ College of Southern Idaho (from Twin Falls), which has a 59-0 season record, in pool play.

They also face eighth-seeded Sheridan College (Sheridan, Wy.) and 16th-seeded Bethany Lutheran (Mankato, Minn.). SC must finish in the top two in its pool (matches are best-of-three games) to advance to the single-elimination final eight (best-of-five games).

The Ocelots opened at 9 a.m. today against Sheridan (40-6 record). They play top seed Southern Idaho at 6 p.m. today, then complete their pool competition against Bethany Lutheran at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

The Final Four round begins at 1 p.m. Wednesday, with the championship match scheduled for 7 p.m.

Teeters has maintained his Ocelots, young and few in number (just seven on the team), are miracle workers, winning both the Eastern Conference and NJCAA Region 12 championships. But it will take a major miracle just to survive pool play here.

No team in the tournament has more losses than SC. Joining Southern Idaho in the favorites' circle is two-time NJCAA champion Miami-Dade Wolfson, sporting a 27-0 mark. No. 3 seed Kankakee (Kankakee, Ill.) is 52-2, and No. 4 Belleville (Belleville, Ill.) is 52-3.

Still, don't put anything beyond these Ocelots.

Kuk follows fast track to NHL

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

■ HOCKEY

Livonian Dustin Kuk is on the accelerated track when it comes to hockey, the same route which took area players like Al Iafrate, Mike Modano, Adam Burt and Chris Tancill to the NHL.

He is only 16, but mature beyond his years.

Instead of roaming the halls as a junior at Franklin High School, the talented Kuk is attending North Park Secondary School while playing for the Bramalea (Ontario) Blues of the Provincial Junior A circuit, a league which includes players as old as 20.

Through 20 games of a 50-game schedule, the Blues lead the league at 17-2-1 and are the No. 1-ranked Tier II team in Canada.

The 6-foot-1, 185-pound winger has scored 10 goals and added 22 assists.

Kuk laced up skates at 2½ and began playing organized hockey in Redford at age 5.

The master plan is for Kuk to graduate and receive his high school diploma one year early from the Livonia Public Schools and eventually earn a scholarship to somewhere like Michigan or Michigan State.

"It's been a big commitment, not only monetarily, but time," said Lawrence Kuk, Dustin's father. "But at some point you have to say, this is what he wants to do. And you have to look at what he's already gained. You go with it and satisfy their dream."

Kuk's immense talent is widely known throughout hockey circles.

He's played on a pair of national championship teams — in 1993 with GDP, a Pee Wee Major team; and in 1995 with the Detroit Little Caesars, a Midget team where he led the Michigan National Hockey League in scoring.

This summer, Kuk captained Team USA, which finished 2-2-1 in the World Under-17 World Championships in Moncton, New Brunswick.

Kuk is projected to go anywhere in the first three rounds in the Ontario Hockey League draft (later this spring).

"He's the protype pro winger, the power forward the NHL teams are looking for because he has good size, good hands and hockey smarts," Bramalea coach Lindsay Hofford. "He drives the net well and he's a hitter.

"But what separates him from the rest the bunch is his incredible work ethic and dedication to the game."

But unlike Iafrate (Boston Bruins) and Modano (Dallas Stars), who forfeited their college eligibility by playing in the OHL, Kuk is seriously considering an NCAA Division I program like Michigan or Michigan State.

Lawrence and Lori Kuk elected to send their son to Bramalea after Waterford's Mike York, who played last year for Compuware, went to Thornhill (Ont.) as a 17-year-old, and enjoyed his experience away from home.

York is now on scholarship at Michigan State and leads the Spartans in scoring.

"Talking to the Yorks made our decision easier because he played for Lindsay last year," Lori Kuk said. "The people are very warm there and everyone has been great to him."

And after years of traveling as a youth hockey player to places like Anchorage, Calgary and Quebec City, the change of scenery was nothing new.

Homesick? Not really, but Kuk yearns for a few things back home.

"I miss going to school and being with my friends (at Franklin)," he said. "And I miss watching my younger brother (Kyle) play.

"The school is different. It's more business-like. There's not as much school spirit.

"But everybody made it real easy for me. I live with the coach and his wife, and they've been great to me. Plus, my parents are up here constantly."

Kuk takes advanced courses in such subjects as English and economics, but his passion is hockey. He is so devoted that he has to remind himself to spend some quality time outside the game.

"I'll go out to a movie and try to get out once a week and do something with my friends," said Dustin, who counts Eric Lindros and Mark Messier as his favorite players.

Lady Crusaders go to 2-0; SC's men off to bad start

■ BASKETBALL

Everybody got a bucket as the Madonna University women's basketball team improved to 2-0 Wednesday with a lopsided 81-61 victory at Michigan Christian.

Katie Cushman and Dawn Pelc each tallied 13 points as all 11 Lady Crusaders scored.

Mary Murray and Jamie Heins each added nine poins, while Angie Negri chipped in with eight.

Erin Wiley and Francine Williams shared team-high rebounding honors with 10 apiece. Madonna outrebounded Michigan Christian by a wide margin, 55-32.

The Lady Crusaders, who led 41-19 at intermission, won despite shooting only 37.2 percent from the floor (32 of 86).

Becky Rogers paced Michigan Christian with 14 points.

■ Grand Rapids CC 103, S'craft 57: "We got waxed pretty good."

Glen Donahue's description of his first game as coach of Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team couldn't have been more accurate. The Ocelots were never in their opening game Wednesday at Grand Rapids.

True, their opponents were the Region 12 defending champions. But just as true, SC trailed by 22 (48-26) by halftime.

"We played just horrible," said Donahue. "We didn't play good defense, we didn't play good offense, we didn't shoot well."

Aaron Brown led SC's offensive effort with 14 points. Tim Burns and Naron Burks each scored 10.

Grand Rapids was led by Antwan Harris with 27. Art Norman had 18, Maurice Ballard 16 and Malachi Allen 13.

So the Ocelots took an 0-1 record into last weekend's tournament at Macomb CC. Grand Rapids is 1-0.

"Well, it's back to the drawing board," a disappointed Donahue said. "If we work hard, we'll be a better team by the next game."

In his own mind, Donahue couldn't see the Ocelots being much worse.

Observer's best: Salem, Churchill and CC dominate

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

Instead of a reward, the Class A boys golf state meet must have felt like a punishment for the teams and individuals who qualified.

Cold, wind and rain greeted the players Oct. 20 and 21 at Forest Akers Golf Course in East Lansing. Redford Catholic Central, Livonia Churchill and Plymouth Salem qualified from Observerland and the Shamrocks persevered the best with a fourth-place finish.

Kiehler

But whatever took place at the state meet, the players knew what they accomplished in the previous two months wouldn't be washed away from their coach's minds in one weekend.

CC and Churchill were led by strong senior classes and have three representatives each on the All-Observer first team.

The Shamrocks won the Catholic League championship after going 10-0 through the dual meet season. CC placed second in the Class A regional at the Pontiac Country Club.

Churchill won the Pinckney Invitational and was later crowned the Western Lakes Activities Association and Class A regional champion. Salem handed the Chargers their only dual-meet defeat during the regular season and placed third in the same regional at Oak Pointe Golf Course.

The following is a profile of each golfer on the first team:

ALL-AREA TEAM

Chris Kiehler, senior, Livonia Churchill: The four-year letter winner was co-medalist at the Class A regional with teammate Gary Kraus, scoring 74 at Oak Pointe Golf Course. He was medalist at the WLAA meet with a round of 76 at Links of Pinewood.

He had a 37.35 average with a low of 34 and four scores of 35. He tied for ninth at the Brighton Invitational with 76.

His only struggle came at the state meet, recording 83 on the first day at Forest Akers Golf Course in East Lansing.

"Chris had a dream season," coach Kirk Osler said. "He was a determined competitor at every event he played in and it showed in his results."

Dave Higham, senior, Livonia Churchill: Higham finished 13th at the state meet with a two-day total of 156 (75-81). He finished with a 79 at the regional and was tied for second at the WLAA meet with 78.

He recorded 75 to tie for fifth at the Pinckney Invitational. He led the Chargers with 74 at the Brighton Invitational and finished with a 38.14 average for nine holes.

"Dave has a great deal of talent in regards to ball-striking ability," Osler said. "He's probably the most-talented golfer we've seen at Churchill since Dean Kobane (who starred at the University of Michigan)."

Gary Kraus, junior, Livonia Churchill: Kraus rebounded from an 88 at the WLAA meet by tying Kiehler for medalist honors at the regional with 74. He also had a 79 at the state meet, which was four strokes off qualifying for a second day.

Kraus started the year strong, taking medalist honors at the Pinckney Invitational with a score of 73. He also helped the Chargers take fourth place at the Brighton Invitational with a score of 76 at Oak Pointe.

Kraus finished with a 38.84 average.

"Gary showed great potential as a team leader and ability to shoot low numbers," Osler said. "I'm looking forward to his return next year."

Chris Misiak, senior, Redford Catholic Central: The four-year letter winner was medalist at the Catholic League Meet with a round of 74 at Riverview Highlands. His most impressive round came early in the year at the East Lansing Invitational, where he was medalist with 71 at Forest Akers Golf Course.

Misiak, who had a 77.5 average for tournaments, took sixth at the Class A regional with 76 at Pontiac Country Club. He had a 38.6 average for nine holes. He had 83 at the state meet.

"Chris has been a steady, three-year player for me," coach Phil Heyer said. "He's a good all-around athlete and strong iron player."

Brian Karabelski, senior, Redford Catholic Central: Karabelski came on strong near the end of the season, leading the Shamrocks to fourth in the team standings at the Class A state meet with a second-place total of 149 (72-77).

His 72 gave him first place after the first round.

He had a 39.9 nine-hole average and played his strongest at the 18-hole tournaments.

He finished seventh at the Class A regional with 77, tied for ninth at the Brighton Invitational with 76, and 13th in the Catholic League meet with 79 at Riverview Highlands.

"He was a little down going into the last stretch of the season and he got it all together at the end," Heyer said.

Brandon DiPaola, senior, Redford Catholic Central: DiPaola made Class A all-state after recording a stroke average of 37.9 per nine holes and taking seventh in the individual standings at the Class A meet with a seventh-place finish of 154 (73-81). He also tied teammate Misiak for medalist at the Catholic League meet with 74 at Riverview Highlands.

He was ninth at the regional with 79 at Pontiac Country Club. He was 13th at the East Lansing Fall Classic (78-76) and third at the East Lansing Invitational with 78.

Also earlier in the season, DiPaola was 13th at the Pinckney Invitational with 78 and sixth at the Brighton Invitational with 73.

"Brandon was probably one of the finest players CC has had in 10 years," Heyer said. "He is an excellent putter. When he's missing 'shots,' he makes up for it with his skill on the green."

Mike Hjelmstad, senior, Plymouth Salem: Hjelmstad carded 78 to tie for second at the WLAA meet at Links of Pinewood. He had 76 at the regional to tie for fifth. The four-year letter winner had a dual meet average of 38.1 as a senior.

His lowest nine-hole total was 34 and he had two 35s. He shot 71 in the first-round of the East Lansing Fall Classic, and 85 at the Class A meet.

"He had a stretch there for five duals in a row he was one over par or better," Salem coach Rick Wilson said. "I think we'll miss a guy who was that consistent. The thing about Mike is he didn't make many mistakes out there. He didn't allow himself to have a real bad hole to blow him out of the round.

"He is a good putter, drove the ball and managed the course well."

be changed," he said. "I struggled for a while, but I caught on at the end."

They also taught Davey about the mental part of the game. And Davey seems to already understand what many major league players don't realize until its too late to get a fourth line on the back of their baseball cards.

"They worked a lot on the mental approach," Davey said. "How to handle yourself between innings, during games. I've always been a person who got mad pretty easy, but I'm getting over it."

It's okay to have the fire inside, but don't let it burn you up. Successful athletes direct their furies at beating the opposition, not getting mad at umpires, teammates or themselves.

"A lot of guys have similar talent," Davey observed. "But the guys who move up are the guys who handle it."

The Blue Jays, who are in the midst of the chaos that goes with a change in ownership, earn Davey's respect with their approach.

"They ask, 'What do you think you're doing wrong?' Then, when you tell them, they say, 'Yeh, but you're also doing this' . . ."

Toronto has indicated Davey should think in terms of starting for Dunedin (Class A Florida State League) next season and the pitcher is hopeful he'll be able to move up to Double A by midseason.

The Blue Jays are not all that dissimilar to the Detroit Tigers right now in that the opportunity for quick advancement is there — because there's not much in the major league clubhouse to block the way.

Good chance he's gotten the big adjustment out of the way, though. He's keeping his ear canals, and his options, open.

starting five was at least as tall as the tallest ladywood starter.

In other words, the Rocks' size advantage was enormous. But it wasn't until late in the third quarter that they really started taking advantage of it and going inside.

"We had to spread them out first," explained Thomann. "We had to make a couple of shots outside."

When the Rocks did go inside, it paid off. Ladywood trailed 24-16 at the half, but trimmed that to 30-27 with 3:29 left in the quarter, thanks to seven points from Katie Law.

That was as good as it got in the second half for the Blazers. Salem's inside game led to a 9-2 run to close the third period, with senior center Shellye Sills scoring six of those points.

Angie Sillmon joined Sills in a fourth-quarter burst that finished the Blazers off. The Rocks scored nine-straight (Sillmon six, Sills three) to increase their 41-32 lead to 50-32 with 2:56 left.

Ladywood's McPhee felt she may have aided Salem's two second-half surges. "Our starters looked tired," she said. "I had to make substitutions that maybe I shouldn't have. But you've got to do what you've got to do."

The Rocks, whose smallest starters were Sillmon and Nicole Van Hees, each 5-foot-10, have a tendency to wear opponents down. Against Ladywood, perhaps they could have done it a bit earlier.

The Blazers netted the last seven points of the first quarter to tie it at 9-all. Ladywood never did lead, but the Rocks — who lost their last two games in the final seconds — were not eager to put their opponent away.

"I was very happy with the intensity," said McPhee of the strong first quarter. "I hoped they'd be able to keep that intensity."

The best of the intense for Ladywood, at least in scoring, were Law and Stephanie Mussat, each netting 10 points. Erin LeSage contributed eight.

Salem got 11 from Sills (nine in the second half) and nine apiece from Sillmon and Laurel Weinman.

"It was the kind of game I expected," said Thomann. Then he added, "At least we're still alive."

■ Grass Lake 58, PCA 48: Poor free throw shooting ruined any hopes Plymouth Christian Academy entertained of advancing in its Class D district, hosted by Grass Lake.

The Eagles fell well behind before halftime of Wednesday's opener and, despite a strong closing period in which they outscored their hosts 21-10, the deficit was far too large to overcome.

PCA ends its season with a 9-12 record. Grass Lake advanced with an 11-11 mark.

Lisa Erickson and Kristine Zedan led the Eagles with 19 points apiece. Erickson added seven assists and seven rebounds; Zedan also had seven boards.

Grass Lake was paced by Jeana Frey and Sarah Kimball with 11 points apiece. Nicole Tuttle chipped in with 10.

Grass Lake jumped in front 16-4 by the end of the first quarter. It only got worse for PCA; by halftime, the gap had grown to 35-14.

While Grass Lake converted 12-of-18 free throws (66.7 percent), the Eagles made just 9-of-26 (34.5 percent).

Salem district from page 1C

"That's been a bugaboo of ours — we lost two games in the last minute because we didn't make our free throws.

"Tonight we did."

Thomann may not have thought his team did anything different in regards to free throw preparation, but one of his team captains did. "I have personally," said Sills, who had three of the misses down the stretch in the previous meeting. Last Friday, Sills was 4-for-4 in the fourth quarter while scoring six points.

"We've really been concentrating on them lately," Sills said. "A couple of weeks ago, we started working on some other things and kind of forgot about our free-throw shooting."

After losing two-straight games in the final seconds, the Rocks practiced, determined there would be no three-peat.

And in the final period, they were near-perfect, converting 10 straight and 12-of-13 in the quarter.

It was the kind of game in which mistakes could not be tolerated. Neither team ever led by more than six; it was 13-13 after one quarter, with Salem opening a 25-21 lead at the half.

The Rocks led 31-28 with 3:43 left in the third period, but Northville closed the quarter with a seven-point run to carry a 35-31 lead into the fourth.

The Mustangs' biggest advantage — six points — resulted from a Lauren Metaj basket with 7:02 to play. Salem quickly countered, using two Angie Sillmon baskets sandwiched around two Amanda Abraham free throws to tie it at 37-all with 5:11 left.

It was big play after big play the rest of the way. Northville scored four-straight, then Salem got five in a row, the last three a basket and a free throw by Andrea Pruett.

Northville's last lead came on two free throws by Gina Chiasson with 1:46 to go, putting the Mustangs up 41-40. Salem did not get another field goal; yet the Rocks made seven-straight free throws and 9-of-10 in the final 1:10.

Sills' 15 points led Salem. Sillmon contributed 10, with Pruett scoring nine and Nicole Van Hees eight. Northville was paced by Metaj and Leger with 14 points apiece; Chiasson added 11.

"That was the difference in the game," said Northville coach Pete Wright, his team finishing at 16-6, of Salem's free-throw accuracy. "Definitely. I thought Salem was very well-prepared. In the third quarter, we got rolling a bit, then they came back and got the lead.

Warm up for March Madness with a little November Neurosis.

Eight of the top teams from last year's NCAA tournament will be tipping off the season with a two day shoot-out at The Palace. Tickets are available at Ticketmaster outlets, The Palace box office or by calling 810-377-0100.

Ask Kim Johnson what she likes about working at Color Tile, and she'll tell you everything.

Helping people decorate their homes is very rewarding for Kim Johnson. If you have a flair for home decorating, we want to talk to you! With over 800 stores nationwide, Color Tile & Carpet is America's largest floor covering retailer. Our expanded product line means more choices for our customers and also means great opportunities for people who enjoy making a house into a home.

Salesperson/Manager Trainee

We are currently seeking a professional with a keen sense of style to determine customers' interior decorating needs and assist with product selection. This position will also provide decorating and installation information, as well as determine appropriate product quantities. Customer service is a high priority, both in customers' homes and in the store. A background in decorating is helpful and 1-2 years sales experience would be a plus.

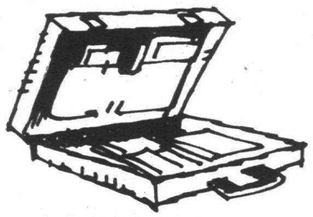
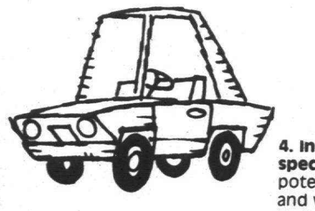
WRITE IT AND REAP!

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!



2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.



4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

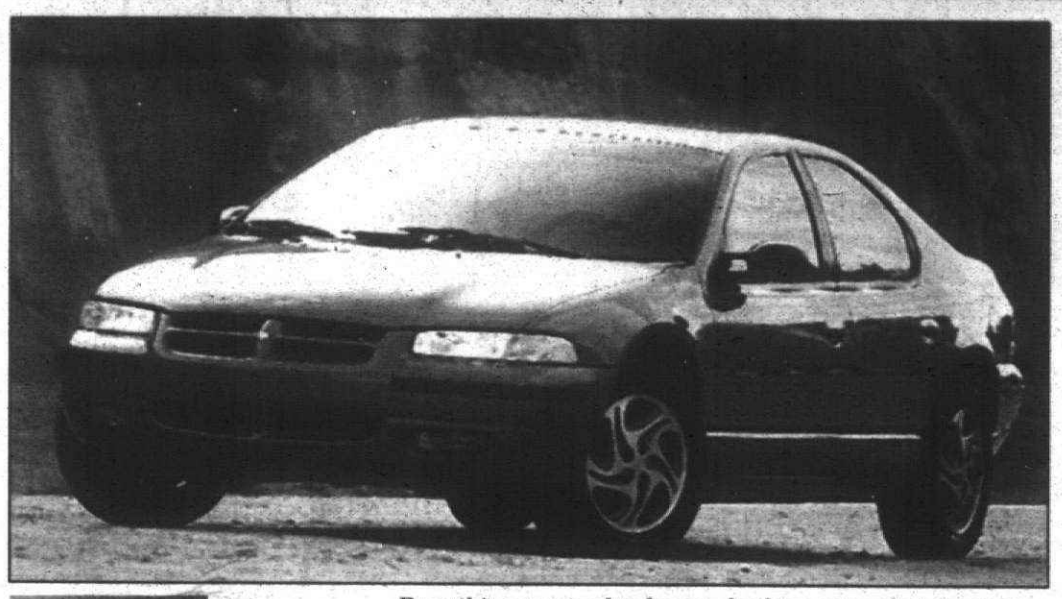
OK, OK. 1996 Dodge Stratus is a Hit with Moms

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti News Features



ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

It is the easiest car to put a toddler's car seat in, this 1996 Dodge Stratus.

Actually, that puts the Stratus in an elite class all by itself. Those of you out there with kids under 5 know exactly what I mean.

But you're the lucky ones. You see, I have to transfer those #$*&?! seats into a different car every week. Not fun. Even the kids complain.

With the Stratus, however, the seats are contoured so well to fit a toddler car seat that both my preschool-age girls can climb in and lock and unlock their seats all by themselves. A definite plus.

The Stratus, by the way, is Dodge's newest domestic entry into the compact segment. It replaces the Shadow but delivers a more upscale image than the Shadow ever did.

Dodge is hoping the Stratus, which is built in Sterling Heights, Mich., will wow the thirty something import intenders and those already driving imports who want to buy domestic again.

Hmmmm. Will it?

First introduced in May 1995 as a 1995 model, this 4-door, 5-passenger car has a lot of room for a compact class vehicle (the EPA classifies it as mid-size car; Chrysler calls it compact). Sure, Chrysler its "move the wheels out" stuff for the Stratus, too.

But the exterior of the car is deceiving — there's really a lot of room inside.

There was no problem getting in or out of the Stratus ES model I drove for either rear- or front-seat passengers.

The cloth seats are pretty comfortable for an entry-level car.

Interior packaging as a whole is smart and positioned well.

Everything you need to know about the mechanics is right up front in instrumentation.

The radio and HVAC controls are in the center. Under that is an auxiliary socket and a small pocket (that means no ashtray) and a larger pocket underneath with MUG holders (it's got a cutout for a real coffee mug) in front of that.

In back, there are a few juice box holders.

The map holders in the front doors baffle me. They are entirely too small to fit anything you would logically want to put in there, like a box of Kleenex, a Rolodex or crumpled up Super Size Burger King Coke cups.

You don't put those in your map holders pockets? I do.

Seriously, it's really small and would, basically, hold a couple, three maps ... and nothing more. That's on the wish list for the next Stratus freshening.

The remote keyless entry is kind of nice, but again, not functional. It unlocks and locks the doors.

Sorry. I need it to unhatch the trunk as well. If I'm getting keyless entry, that means keyless entry on everything, not just the doors.

If I gotta use a key to get into the trunk, that's not keyless entry, is it? At least there's a remote trunk release next to the front seat.

OK, enough nitpicking.

The cargo capacity (15.7 cubic feet) in the trunk held a whopping 10 bags of groceries — and a watermelon — during this evaluation. The rear seats also flip down, and that increases the cargo room and accommodates skis and other oversized, hard-to-fit stuff you need to shove back there.

Stratus can be outfitted with three distinct power trains to meet your needs: A 2.0-liter 16-valve DOHC 4-cylinder with a 5-speed manual transaxle, a 2.4-liter 16-valve DOHC 4-cylinder with a 4-speed automatic electronic transaxle and a 2.5-liter 24-valve SOHC V-6 with a 4-speed automatic electronic transaxle.

Standard equipment on both models of the Stratus is the 2.0-liter SOHC mated to the 5-speed manual.

The automatics are optional.

For 1996, Dodge has added a couple extra niceties — an optional sunroof and new interior and exterior colors.

Standard safety features on the Stratus include dual air bags, optional anti-lock brakes, front seat height-adjustable shoulder belts, an optional personal security package and an optional integrated child safety seat — so you don't have to have the toddler jobs if you don't want to.

The Stratus is also outfitted with side impact beams that meet 1997 standards.

The ES tested had speed-sensitive, variable-assist power steering, aluminum wheels and touring tires for added comfort on longer drives.

Targeted to compete the segment dominated by the Toyota Camry, Ford Taurus, Honda Accord and Mitsubishi Galant, the Stratus is aimed at people between 35 and 50 years old who want a well-equipped sedan.

"It sounds like a mission impossible to compete in this market segment and succeed," said Robert Lutz, Chrysler's president. "I'd call it just extremely difficult. Will it be tough? You bet. But I think we can easily sell 300,000 (Cirruses and Stratuses) every year."

Both vehicles were designed by Chrysler's Large Platform Team, with advice from IndyCar driver Emmo Fittipaldi.

Lutz said Chrysler's plan with the Stratus is to provide a safe car, outstanding value, breakthrough design and sports-coupe performance.

The jury's still out, but if Chrysler Chairman Bob Eaton's commitment to quality stays on track, look for the Stratus to drive the competition to its knees. With a little tweaking, the Stratus can achieve segment-leading status.

Heed Hot Tips For Cold Weather Driving

(NAPS)-Is your vehicle ready for winter? Take it to a professional mechanic or take a few minutes to look it over to make sure, suggests Shell Motorist Club (SMC). Here's what SMC recommends.

*Check the battery for loose cables and light-colored terminal corrosion.

*Replenish oil, antifreeze, windshield wiper solvent, power steering and brake fluids as necessary.

*Replace windshield wiper blades if they don't clean properly.

*Check tires for proper inflation and tread.

*Inspect lights and turn signals.

*Join an automobile club. Members have peace of mind knowing that the cost of tows or road service calls is covered in their membership dues.

For more information on Shell Motorist Club membership, write P. O. Box 60199, Chicago, IL 60660, or call 1-800-852-0555.

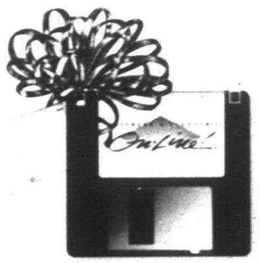
OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC

On-Line!®

The gift that's keeping this man up nights.



He loves it. At first he was doubtful, "Access to the Internet for a Holiday gift?" he murmured as his elves looked on.

Then he logged onto Observer & Eccentric On-Line! with his North Pole computer and went nuts. He was soon flying around the world faster than Rudolph and the rest of his reindeer could ever take him. He was surfing the Net into the wee hours.

Make sure your Santa knows you want your very own OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC ON-LINE!

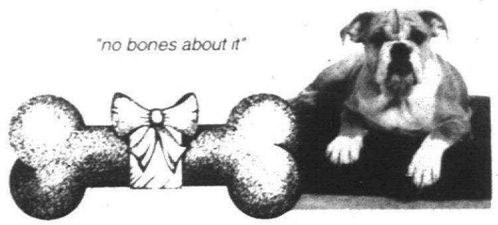
"no bones about it"



The Perfect Pet-Lover's Present

This holiday, give a really special gift to the pet lover on your list. Jill Andra Young Photography, this area's leading pet photographer, is now offering gift certificates along with a special treat package just in time for Christmas.

Our gift certificates start at just $ 48.00 for a studio sitting of a pet. You can select one that also includes individual prints or packages, tailored to your needs or budget. And remember, the gift of photography creates memories that will be cherished for a lifetime, long after the warm glow of the holiday fades.

For a limited time, along with each gift certificate purchased, you will receive a selection of Iams Pet Food products and promotional items for that special pet and pet lover. Boxes of Iams biscuits, biscuit canisters, flashlight keychains, discount coupons, and even Iams pet bandanas, all this free stuff adding up to make this a really special present for both pet and owner!

Actually, there are bones, too!!!

To make this a really tasty deal, we have teamed up with another well-respected name in the pet world: Iams Pet Foods.

If you need more information or would like to purchase a gift certificate, feel free to call or stop in our studio in downtown Plymouth.
