Attention grabber: *Community morals and values – that was the topic which interested a number of parents, civic leaders, educators and religious and community group members last Thursday evening at Summit on the Park in Canton. Dozens attend rally for youth

■ Some 175 residents from three communities, including Canton, turned out Thursday to launch a new initiative to encourage better character values among youth — and adults.

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack said his goal was to "reel in" members of the Plymouth and Canton communities to buy a community-wide program that builds character in youth.

Attendees of a Kick-Off Rally for the Community Youth Initiative last Thursday said they were sold hook, line and sinker on the idea.

The function piqued the interest of about 175 people who showed up at the event at the Summit on the Park to see what it was all about.

"I don't think anyone can say this will not help our children," said Janet Volante, manager of First of America Bank and mother of two.

"I think it's a great idea," said Paul Szwejkowski, president of the Canton Lions football team for kids ages 8-14.

Szwejkowski said he sees more and more confrontations on the football field, not only between kids, but parents arguing with other parents, coaches and referees. "I've even see kids jump in to confront adults," he said.

The rally began with the Plymouth Canton High School band the Bongo Boys and Bongettes revving up the crowd. It ended with a handful of community leaders discussing the core principles of character.

Using a national program as its base, the Canton, Plymouth and Northville communities have combined efforts to address character development in a way that benefits youth, but focuses on adults. Called "Character Counts," it emphasizes six "pillars of character," including:

- trustworthiness
- respect
- responsibility
- fairness
- caring
- citizenship

Concerns in Morton Taylor area expand

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

Residents along Morton Taylor between Ford and Saltz were back in Canton Township Hall last week, attempting to block a property rezoning at the southeast corner of Ford and Morton Taylor next to Realty World.

For the past few months the Morton Taylor residents have been trying to get the speed limit lowered from the posted limit of 40 mph.

That issue arose when a 24-year-old bicyclist was killed by a motorist on Sept. 9. Although police determined speed was not a factor in the accident, a request was made to Wayne County to conduct a speed study. Morton Taylor is a county road.

Now, the residents have joined forces again to block the rezoning of a nine-acre vacant lot currently zoned local shopping (office). Farmington Hills-based developers Cunningham-Limp want the property rezoned to community shopping.

The difference would be one stand-alone building opposed to a strip of two or three shops, said Canton Senior Planner Judy Bocklage. The property is owned by Blue Cross/Blue Shield.

"If you put up a building with access to Morton Taylor the natural route is going to be down Morton Taylor . . . It's going to hurt everything we've done so far," said resident Ross Gerard.

Wayne County has posted temporary 25 mph speed limit signs, which is a highly unusual practice. Gerard said the rezoning of the Blue Cross

Speak out on schools on Nov. 23

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Residents' last chance to offer input regarding Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' plan to build new schools arrives Saturday, Nov. 23.

The Community Forum, the third in a series of three, is set for 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Pioneer Middle School, 46081 Ann Arbor Road.

The second forum, attended by fewer than 100 people, was Monday evening at Pioneer.

■ 'Our intent is to get input from the community. We need a feel for what the community feels needs to be done.'

Mark Horvath
–School board president

Welcoming the participants to the discussion and dinner were Plymouth-Canton school Superintendent Charles Little and Board of Education President Mark Horvath.

Conducting the forum were representatives from Roy G. French Associates of Port Huron and Rochester, and Perkins & Will, a national firm that builds schools around the world.

The consultants, for a $35,000 - $65,000 fee, are helping the district plan the bond issue, proposed for the March ballot, and building local support for it.

"Our intent is to get input from the community. We need a feel for what the community feels needs to be done," said Horvath.

No issues remain: Unique business to relocate

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

A thriving new business is coming to Canton, but one that wasn't included in the township's zoning code.

"By the year 2000 all human remains will be disposed by cremation. It's a coming trend," said David Thoms, president of CSM, Cremation Services, Inc.

CSM is planning to move into a building in Rose Industrial Park on Ronda, near Haggerty and Koppernick. But before the company could secure the deal, it had to ensure the business could operate within the township's industrial zoning district.

On Monday planning commissioners had the stiff task of deciding where exactly a crematorium should be located. Cemeteries are required to locate within agriculturally-zoned areas. Funeral homes must locate in office or regional commercial (C3) districts.

But where exactly do you put a crematorium?

"I have a problem with this in a business area — in an office park," said planning chair Vic Gustafson. "I'd feel a little uncomfortable owning a business next door and seeing a couple of stiffs being wheeled in."

■ PLANNING COMMISSION

Commissioners decided light industrial zoning would be appropriate since the product is processed through the use of very high temperatures similar to a metal treating facility. A cremation takes two-to-three hours to complete, said Thoms. Crematoriums also have a chimney stack that sits four-to-five feet above the roof line.

"It's odorless and colorless. Its EPA approved," assured Thoms.

Commissioners decided to place one restriction on the zoning code for crematoriums: Inside deliveries are mandatory.

Visit new arena

The Canton Economic Club hits the road on Wednesday, Nov. 20 to tour the new Compuware Arena — home of the Detroit Whalers — on Beck Road between M-14 and Five Mile in Plymouth Township.

Lunch will be served at noon in the arena restaurant. Tour and presentation by representatives of the Whalers will follow.

The new $20 million 4,300 seat arena is home to the Detroit Whalers, of the Ontario Hockey League.

Cost is $15 and reservations are needed. Call Joan Noricks at (313) 981-3002 for reservations.

The Canton Economic Club is a project of the Canton Community Foundation and sponsored this year by the Rudolph Libbe Co. and the Observer Newspapers.

Bell-ringers needed

What if the Salvation Army only had one red kettle and bell ringer this holiday season?

To collect enough money to allow the Salvation Army to assist the people in Plymouth, Canton and Northville in their time of need, the lone bellringer would have to ring the bell all day long, every day for two years.

This task, however, must be completed in 22 days. The Red Kettle Drive will begin on Nov. 29 and continue through Dec. 23.

Can you or your organization help?

Members of 45 organizations in our tri-community area as well as many individuals have already volunteered to help but many time slots are still empty.

The most pressing need is for volunteers who can man the Red Kettles between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday. To volunteer contact Martha Schultz at The Salvation Army at (313) 453-5464.

Crimes against seniors targeted

PUBLIC SAFETY

The Canton Public Safety Department has launched a new team-building effort with Canton seniors that is expected to help prevent and reduce crimes targeting the senior population.

Officer Gorden "Lew" Stevens met with seniors several weeks ago to announce the effort and establish an agenda for the partnership.

The team-building effort includes exchanging information between seniors and the police and officers making regular visits to senior groups to inform them and hear their concerns.

Public Safety Director John Santomauro met with seniors at Royal Holiday Estates recently to discuss crime prevention tactics. Sgt. Joe Bippus, who heads the department's Special Enforcement Unit, visited the senior center at Summit on the Park.

"A large percentage of victims, scam victims, are seniors," said Stevens, the department's crime prevention officer and organizer of the team-building effort. For this reason, Stevens will continue to arrange presentations for seniors to advise them of the multitude of rip-off scams that victimize them daily.

Anyone interested in arranging a crime prevention presentation for seniors or other groups should contact Stevens at (313) 397-5344.

called on others to discuss youth-related issues in February 1995. The committee included members representing the school district, civic organizations, business community, churches and social agencies.

The common thread was the belief that kids lacked character development, said Dale Yagiela, executive director of Growth Works and a committee member.

"Young people are the way they are today because of what we adults failed to do," he told the crowd. "... There's a lack of stewardship. We want to be our child's friend when the need is to be a child's parent."

Plymouth police Chief Robert Scoggins talked about trustworthiness and how the community places trust upon him to hire someone trustworthy to show up on residents' doorsteps. Judge John MacDonald of the 35th District Court talked about respect and the respect of person and property, of elders and of the law.

The speaker list also included: Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Superintendent Dr. Chuck Little, Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro, Tri-City Assembly of God pastor the Rev. Rocky Barra and Plymouth Salem High School teacher Deborah Trapp.

After the event First of America manager Volante talked to Chamber of Commerce director Carleigh Flaharty about how businesses can get involved with the Youth Initiative.

"We're not sure yet, but I do know everyone will benefit from a program like this. There would be a lot less stealing and a lot less vandalism," she said.

Flaharty said simply practicing what you preach at the office and at home is a start.

Building costs concern groups

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Community groups including scout troops and the American Association of University Women aren't happy about the fees charged to use Plymouth-Canton school buildings.

Canton's Peggy Seery, a longtime Huron Valley Girl Scout Council officer, said fees "are prohibitive, and you can be bounced at any time."

Scout leaders launching their annual cookie sale were being charged $60 to use a school for two hours, she said.

A scoutmaster and troop leader, Seery's husband Frank said, "Twice within the last six years, they closed the schools strictly as a response to a millage defeat. Their response is to punish the community. The first time they closed them, they put 1,200 scouts on the street with no explanation other than, 'We have to save money and we're going to do it.'"

School officials deny the charge. "These groups are being asked to contribute to help defray the ever-increasing costs of operating these buildings," said Judy Evola, community relations director.

The Plymouth-Canton AAUW awards scholarships to prospective female college students, raising funds with a book sale and spring play. Most members are from Plymouth-Canton, and they'd like to perform locally. But for the third year, the AAUW play will be elsewhere.

"The big cost for the play is the cost of renting Salem's auditorium and paying the crew," said the AAUW's Mickey Edell-Cotner, a speech pathologist in the district. "They do an outstanding job and deserve every penny, but the cost became prohibitive for us."

The AAUW needs to make a few dollars, or there's nothing left for the scholarships, she said. To use the auditorium, non-profit community groups pay $250 for four hours. Evola said that 12 scout troops are using schools from 3 p.m.-6 p.m. for an annual $10 fee.

Eighteen troops use the buildings from 6 p.m. - 10 p.m. They pay the $10 fee, plus "half the listed usage fee of $15 per hour for an elementary school gym or cafeteria; $25 for the kitchen, or $5 per classroom," said Evola.

The fees aren't in keeping with the intent of those who built the schools, said Esther Hulsing, a school board member from 1954-1972. "They were to be neighborhood schools, to be used by the community as well as for school functions," she said. "Our neighborhood schools were to be community centers."

Frank Seery, whose scouts now meet for free at a church, says. "I was ready to start a recall I was so angry about this.

"Things haven't changed, and I think it stinks," he said. "There's no concern for the community."

John Birchler, assistant superintendent for business, empathizes. "But it's one thing to build the buildings, and a whole other thing to operate them, especially with the funding changes under Proposal A," he said.

Community groups, especially non-profit ones, are charged less, he said. But fees still don't cover costs, said Birchler, who doesn't see changes in the offing.

Frank Seery suggests trimming administration. "When there are more non-teaching personnel than teaching, you should take a look at how things are set up. All schools have to do is teach children, nothing else."

If the status quo remains, look for the AAUW's "Pinocchio" production March 20, 21 and 22 at Garden City High School.

COP CALLS

Larceny

A book of "Surprise Package" lottery tickets were stolen from Maria's Party Store, 115 Haggerty. The owner of the store reported the book of 92 tickets worth $460 stolen last Thursday afternoon.

Indecent exposure

A 16-year-old Canton boy is scheduled to appear in court for indecent exposure for an incident which occurred about 2:15 p.m. last Wednesday on a school bus to John Glenn High School, police said. The student allegedly dropped his pants at a passing car traveling on Palmer, east of Canton Center. The motorist reported the incident to the school and the boy admitted to the incident, police said.

Breaking and entering

Thieves broke into two homes last week in the Morton Taylor and Palmer area while the occupants were sleeping, stealing cash from the owners' purses and wallet.

In both cases the sliding glass door was pried open, police said. The residents on Fairfax Drive reported the incident 6:30 a.m. Thursday. The purse, wallet and pager were thrown by the side of the house, but $140 in cash was missing. The break-in on Woodcreek Lane was discovered Wednesday morning. About $20 in cash was stolen. The purse was also found nearby.

In another incident, two televisions, valued at $600 and a compact disc stereo system, $200, were stolen from a duplex on Ford Road. The resident left the house between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. last Thursday to pick up his paycheck from work. When he returned he found the items stolen. The house was left unlocked.

Window peeper

A 29-year-old Redford man was issued a ticket for window peeping at the Crossings at Canton.

A tenant of the apartment complex called police about 6 a.m. last Tuesday after witnessing the man attempting to look into her window as he repeatedly walked back and forth in front of it. Then, she saw him look into two other apartment windows.

Police detained the subject, who admitted to police that he had a problem and was seeing a psychiatrist. He is scheduled to appear in court Dec. 5

Suspicious situation

A homeowner in the Morton Taylor and Ford Road area reported finding a doll with a burned head, missing left foot and cut up genital area lying on the front lawn about 8 a.m. last Tuesday. The resident told police she didn't have any enemies and it likely was a random senseless act, but wanted it reported because she has two small children.

Larceny

A 49-year-old resident on Porter Ridge in the Sheldon and Ford Road area reported having an insurance check for $233,280 stolen from the mail.

An envelope stamped by the postal service "delivered as is" was ripped open. Inside only a letter stating a check for the amount was suppose to be inside. The woman's husband recently died and her financial company sent the check.

Police directed her to call her insurance company to cancel the check and the post office.

The consultants need to know "what programs the community wants to offer. "If you tell us what programs you want, we will tell you what you need in terms of facilities," said August Battaglia of Perkins & Will.

The forums are intended to assess "where we are now, what our options are, and what should be included in a bond issue," said his colleague Ray Bordwell.

The consultants gave an overview of educational, demographic and technological trends, and showed slides of schools they've built.

Some of the facts presented:

• The world's population is growing at a rate of 2.8 people per second, with the fastest rate of growth occurring among people aged 65 and older.

• Future job growth will be in the service sector.

• Required skill levels will continue to increase.

In schools built by Perkins & Will, "We've looked at ways to make the buildings flexible, and accessible to the community after the school day," said Doug LaFerle of Roy G. French.

The firm has constructed schools in which gyms, locker rooms, cafeterias, libraries, field houses and classrooms are accessible from parking lots, and have been available for community use.

The district is fortunate in that "the people before you were forward-thinking and acquired land for schools," said LaFerle.

While the number of households in Canton is growing and enrollment is high, it was equally high in the 1980's. "Band-aid approaches were used to deal with the numbers," said LaFerle.

Participants broke up into small discussion groups. One parent, concerned about overcrowding at the high school, noted that projected population figures provided by a state-approved firm the district hired were faulty at best. "Who were they? I want my money back," she said.

Resident Jeff Phillips said, "I hope we can actually plan something, instead of going at it shotgun style like we have in the past. I worry that we are going to buy all these things that should come out of the general fund. We wait for a bond to catch up on what we should have spent all along."

"I want to make sure we are prepared for the future," said Plymouth Township nurse Joann Lamarr. "The community needs to be aware of things, even those with no kids."

"What troubles me is the demographic data they are using," said resident Ted Bohlen, who has studied the district's past bond issues.

"SEMCOG's numbers show the total population is increasing in southeastern Michigan. But it's increasing in households without children. In 2020, SEMCOG projects there will be a growth increase of 80.6 percent. But that's going to be among people aged 55-64."

In the 0-4 age group, the population is projected to drop 10.8 percent by 2020. A 2.2-percent drop is forecast for the 5-15 age group, Bohlen said.

"So while we are talking about population growth, we're not really talking about K-12. It appears the demand will be for health services, not schools.

Consultants are using erroneous information regarding bus purchases, he added. "They've been saying that no bus replacement funds have been available since 1986.

"The truth is that the school district on Feb. 24, 1992 purchased 23 new buses at $1.3 million, plus an option to purchase 20 more buses."

According to Thoms, the cremation business is a thriving one, as more and more families opt for the service rather than a conventional burial. About 40 percent of Michigan's deceased are cremated, although in the metropolitan area the number is about 20 percent. An inquisitive planning commission asked why business was on the rise.

"Land costs for one thing and environmental concerns for another. It's also very cost effective," said Thoms.

A conventional burial costs about $4,800 in the metro area and $6,300 outstate. Cremation costs $600-$800, he said.

"There won't be one popping up on every corner, like Arbor Drugs?" quipped Melissa McLaughlin, planning commissioner and township board trustee.

Thomas said no. The state regulates the number of crematoriums under the Mortuary Act statute, Thoms said. In the metro area there are three. Livonia and Royal Oak each have a facility.

Intrigued by some of the information, McLaughlin added, "Most people don't get involved until something happens and then its baptism by fire — no pun intended."

property "only muddies the issue."

"I think there's enough shopping strips on Ford Road . . . and some storefronts are empty as it is," said resident Rick Stiedham. "If this is the last lot left why not put a park there if Ford Road is going to become downtown Canton."

The project sponsor Donald Kegley of Cunningham-Limp was not in attendance at last Wednesday's public hearing. He also was not available for comment. The planning commission will consider the issue again at its Dec. 2 meeting.

The property had been zoned R-5 or single family residential since the 1940s. In 1988 it was rezoned to office. Most of the property along Ford Road is zoned community shopping.

The planning commission likely wouldn't be able to avoid putting an entrance onto Morton Taylor because of deliveries to the building, but it could limit access on Morton Taylor to right turns only, said Bocklage.

If the planning commission approves the rezoning, the builder also would be required to build a landscape buffer 40-50 feet wide to block the structure's view from the abutting McIntyre Gardens neighborhood, she said.

Election tilts state's high court to Dems

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Democrats will have a firm majority on the Michigan Supreme Court and a chance to block dismantling of the state education rules as a result of the Nov. 5 election.

Lansing has seen Democratic control of the House of Representatives before, but control of the high court and a 4-4 split on the State Board of Education are something new.

The Supreme Court, on paper, is elected on a nonpartisan ballot. Most candidates are nominated by political parties, though a few have collected petition signatures to run as independents.

Justice Charles Levin has been an independent – even maverick – voice on the Supreme Court for 24 years. He is scholarly but wordy, fond of writing one-man dissenting opinions that run longer than the majority opinion, known to write dissents that quote his own previous dissents. He is one reason the court often can't produce a four-signature majority opinion. He is considered "liberal" but not a vote Democrats can count on.

Levin turned 70 this year and was barred by the state constitution from seeking a new term.

Tilt on tort

Voters have:

■ Reelected Chief Justice James Brickley, 67, a Republican nominee and former lieutenant governor who was appointed in 1982 by outgoing Gov. William G. Milliken. Brickley lines up with conservatives on liability questions but often sides with liberals on criminal questions, such as striking down "basketball score" prison sentences. Brickley led with 1.3 million votes.

■ Elected Democratic nominee Marilyn J. Kelly, 58, a Court of Appeals judge from Bloomfield Hills. She was second with 1.1 million votes, beating out Republican nominee and Oakland Circuit Judge Hilda Gage with 942,000 and Appeals Judge William Murphy (D) of Grand Rapids with 894,000.

Speaking to the Democratic state convention that nominated her, Kelly boasted of her labor union support. Her decisions were targeted for criticism by the Michigan Chamber of Commerce.

For example, Kelly voted to allow an injured hockey goalie who wore no face mask to sue the ice arena. She wrote the opinion allowing a woman who claimed sexual abuse to sue her family in Southfield 41 years after the alleged incident (reversed by the Supreme Court). She wrote an opinion allowing an auto parts clerk to collect disability benefits on the ground that he might re-injure his neck if he lifted anything heavier than 24 pounds.

Kelly wrote an opinion allowing a man who was sitting in his Livonia yard and was struck by gunshots aimed at his truck to sue his home insurance company. And she wrote the majority opinion favoring a Westland addict who sued the drug store where he had illegally purchased drugs (unanimously reversed by the Supreme Court).

Kelly will join a majority that includes Democratic nominees Michael Cavanagh, Patricia Boyle and Conrad Mallett Jr. In the minority with Brickley will be Elizabeth Weaver and Dorothy Comstock Riley.

For the first time in history, Michigan will have a 4-3 female majority on the high court. The gender gap becomes apparent in criminal sentencing appeals, with the female justices tending to back prosecutors.

Dems ride Clinton coattails in bid for higher ed seats

By Ken Abramczyk
Staff Writer

■ Democrats for state board and other high education posts fared well in the traditionally strong Democratic communities, winning in Garden City, Redford Township and Westland. Republicans however ran strong and won in Livonia, Plymouth and Canton townships and the city of Plymouth.

Talk about some coattails.

The Democrats rode President Clinton's popularity to victory in races in the partisan races for eight-year terms on the educational and university boards.

Democrats Marianne McGuire and Herbert Moyer won election to 8-year terms on the state board of education with 1,714,650 and 1,598,528 votes. Republican Marilyn Lundy received 1,490,631 votes, and Republican Louis Legg obtained 1,353,386 votes.

Those totals came from 6,496,209 ballots cast in Michigan's 83 counties.

Democrats Olivia Maynard and S. Martin Taylor won election to the University of Michigan's Board of Regents with 1,566,032 and 1,429,670 votes. Joel Ferguson and Robert Weiss won election as trustees for Michigan State University with 1,484,237 and 1,476,419 votes.

Democrats Annetta Miller and Murray Jackson were elected to Wayne State University's board of governors with 1,512,666 and 1,435,593 votes.

In the nonpartisan race for the Michigan Court of Appeals, Maureen Reilly, Harold Hood and Robert Young Jr. won election to that court.

Here's a local breakdown of the state races:

State board of education

Democrats fared well in the traditionally strong Democratic communities.

Democrat Marianne Yared McGuire won in Garden City, Redford Township and Westland. McGuire received 13,072 votes in Westland, 5,561 in Garden City; and 9,323 in Redford Township.

Herbert Moyer collected 12,398 votes in Westland, 5,291 in Garden City, and 8,752 in Redford. He came in second in Westland and Garden City, but in Redford, Republican Marilyn Lundy squeaked past Moyer with 8,931 votes.

Lundy and Republican Louis Legg won in Livonia, Plymouth and Canton townships and the city of Plymouth.

Lundy received 22,852 votes in Livonia. Lundy garnered 11,336 votes in Canton, 6,327 in Ply-

SC officials to decide Seven Mile land sale

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

The firm that owns two office buildings at 7 Mile Crossing plans to leave the Detroit area and officials there want to sell the buildings.

And Schoolcraft College — the owner of the land on which the buildings sit — and its trustees will need to decide soon whether to sell part or all of 16 acres there.

That's the assessment Butch Raby, Schoolcraft's vice president of business service, gave to trustees on Oct. 23.

Several years ago Duke Realty Investments entered an agreement with Schoolcraft to lease property on 7 Mile near I-275 to Duke to house two buildings. Raby expects to talk with Duke within the next two weeks about that firm purchasing the land.

If Duke made an offer for the property and Schoolcraft accepted it, Duke could conceivably sell the buildings and the land in a single package.

Raby may receive a proposal from Duke in time for the Schoolcraft board meeting on Nov. 20.

The property is currently zoned for office, high rise and hotels. It has about 1,000 feet of frontage on Seven Mile and 400 to 500 feet along I-275.

The site has no deed restrictions.

Raby had the property appraised at $3.9 million using comparable data of seven different sites within a mile from the college.

A "leased fee estate" appraisal method estimated the acreage at $4.5 million. This method takes the lease payments in future dollars, then "discounts" them to today's values.

Ten years ago, the property was appraised at $150,000 an acre.

Raby's recommendation to the board on whether to sell or lease the property depends on the offer.

"If Duke is to offer enough of a premium, I would recommend to sell it to avoid some negatives of a long-term lease," Raby said. But he also warned the board that "if we sell the land, we lose control of the land."

Trustees may choose to hold onto the property, which probably will continue to grow in value, once the Haggerty connector is finished and Metro Airport is expanded. Land values have skyrocketed as the I-275 corridor develops.

"We looked at this years ago and realized that land was damn valuable," said trustee Mary Breen.

State paychecks topic of public hearings

The public will have a chance to sound off on the paychecks of state officials when the State Officers Compensation Commission holds two hearings before the year's end.

Invited speakers will be heard at 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 14, in Lansing. That session is in rooms A and B of the lower level of Capitol Commons Center, 400 S. Pine. The public will be heard beginnnig at 5 p.m.

The second will be held Tuesday, Dec. 3, in the Oakland County Commissioners Auditorium, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac. Invited speakers will be heard at 3 p.m., the public at 5 p.m.

No specific proposals are before the SOCC, a spokesman said. Currently, the governor is paid $121,166; lieutenant governor, $89,450; Supreme Court justices, $118,758; and legislators, $50,629.

Salaries of the secretary of state and attorney general are set by the Legislature. University boards set their presidents' salaries. Salaries of Court of Appeals and trial court judges are pegged to a percentage of Supreme Court justices'.

"Public hearings and our toll-free comment line open the process to everyone and make the commission easily accessible to the public," said SOCC chair William Hampton, a former legislator and retired Oakland circuit judge.

The toll-free number is 1-800-788-1766. The address: SOCC, c/o Department of Civil Service, 400 S. Pine, PO Box 30002, Lansing 48909.

Pay hikes will take effect unless rejected by the Legislature.

New U.P. park?

No legislation has been introduced to create a new state park during Gov. John Engler's term, says state Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills.

Kaza wants to change that with a bill to create Mt. Arvon-Mt. Curwood State Park in the Upper Peninsula's Huron Mountains west of Marquette.

Kaza said Mt. Arvon, at 1,979.2 feet, is the highest point in Michigan. The area "is one of the most rugged in Michigan. We need to do everything we can to encourage conservation and access for hikers," said Kaza.

Michigan's last state park was Thompson Harbor, established in 1988 by the Department of Natural Resources, not the Legislature.

Which principle?

A union principle and a constitutional principle may bump heads when the state Supreme Court hears a suit brought by Western Michigan University against the state, says Attorney General Frank Kelley.

WMU claims that "constitutional autonomy" exempts it from a state "prevailing wage" law. That law requires a state agency in a construction project to pay the average wage for a particular skill or trade in the surrounding community. It's usually the union scale.

"WMU cannot pick and choose the laws they decide to follow," said Kelley. "They seem to have no trouble taking the money appropriated by the Legislature, but when it comes to following the laws established by the Legislature, they claim that they are autonomous.

"WMU should be ashamed of its refusal to pay prevailing wages on this project that cut construction workers' paychecks by nearly 30 percent," said Kelley, adding he expects the case to be argued before the justices early in 1997.

How will it come out? Watch the Nov. 5 Supreme Court election returns for a clue.

Caseload up

Michigan trial courts saw a continued increase in case filings in 1995, chiefly due to a 10.5 percent hike in domestic relations filings, fueled by the filing of "personal protection orders."

Overall, circuit court filings were up 3 percent to more than 247,000, the Supreme Court Administrator's office reported. Divorce and paternity filings, 65 percent of the total, actually declined.

Civil suits were 23.6 percent of the total and criminal cases 24.4

Democrat S. Martin Taylor placed second, receiving 12,341, 5,242 and 8,510 in those same communities. In Westland Taylor beat Republican Deane Baker by nearly 4,200 votes.

Livonia, Canton and Plymouth voted Republican.

In Livonia, Deane Baker received 22,290 votes, and Michael Bishop obtained 21,084. Bishop received about 4,000 more than Maynard, the third place finisher in that city.

Canton followed that same script in the following order: Baker, 11,035; Bishop, 10,418; Maynard, 8,942, and Taylor, 7,901.

Plymouth Township's voters backed Baker with 6,342 votes and Bishop with 5,779. Maynard received 4,040 and Taylor 3,672. The city of Plymouth supported Baker and Bishop with 1,986 and 1,840 votes, followed by Maynard, 1,638; and Taylor, 1,430.

Other candidates included Libertarians William Hall and Calvin Matle and William Quarton of the Natural Law Party.

MSU trustees

In Westland, Ferguson received 12,834 votes. Weiss obtained 12,465 votes, while Republicans Colleen Pero and Dave Porteous finished third and fourth with respective totals of 8,042 and 7,416 votes.

Redford's finishers were as follows: Ferguson, 9,144; Weiss, 8,770; Pero, 8,261, and Porteous, 7,377. Garden City's vote breakdown was Ferguson, 5,696, Weiss, 5,426; Pero, 3,474 and Porteous, 3,236.

Of course, Canton, Livonia and Plymouth totals just about reversed that order.

Livonia backed Pero with 22,233 votes and Porteous with 20,068. Ferguson followed with 16,557 votes, while Weiss received 15,516 votes.

Canton voters supported Pero with 10,779 votes. Porteous received 9,831 votes, Ferguson, 8,412; and Weiss, 8,130.

Plymouth Township voters backed Pero as she received 6,293 votes, while Ferguson and Weiss received 3,769 and 3,601 votes.

City of Plymouth voters finished with the following totals: Pero, 1,951; Porteous, 1,875; Ferguson, 1,491 and Weiss, 1,435.

Other candidates included: Libertarian Brian Kluesner and Michael Miller, NLP candidate Becky Minnick and Worker's World Party candidate Ernesto Todd Mireles.

WSU Board

Again, Westland's totals reflected the same order of the state winners.

Miller received 12,687, while Jackson garnered 12,248 votes. Republicans Paul Fecko and Vernice Davis Anthony received 7,686 and 7,487 votes.

Redford's votes totaled: Miller 8,946; Jackson, 8,288; Fecko, 8,121, and Davis Anthony, 7,437.

Garden City's vote breakdown was: Miller, 5,446; Jackson, 5,149; Fecko, 3,652, and Davis Anthony, 3,287.

That order switched in the Republican strongholds.

Livonia's totals gave Fecko the victory in that city with 21,478 votes, followed by Davis Anthony, 20,146; Miller, 15,895, and Jackson, 14,490.

Fecko received 10,377 in Canton, followed by Davis Anthony, 10,134; Miller, 8,392, and Jackson, 7,810.

In Plymouth Township, Fecko won with 6,118 votes. Davis Anthony followed with 5,886. Miller and Jackson received 3,711 and 3,443 votes.

In the city of Plymouth, Davis Anthony was the top vote-getter with 1,870 and Fecko close behind with 1,867 votes. Miller received 1,461 votes and Jackson came in fourth with 1,383 votes.

Libertarian candidates were Thomas Jones and Stacy Van Oast. Durk Barton, from the Worker's World Party; and Key Halverson and Jane Walker Meade of the Natural Law Party also were candidates.

Court of Appeals

In the Michigan Court of Appeals race, Reilly won in Livonia with 24,437 votes, followed by Robert Young Jr., 19,483; MacDonald, 14,816; Kelly, 14,289, and Hood, 12,938.

Reilly won in Westland with 9,853 votes, followed by Young, 8,178; Kelly, 7,307; MacDonald, 6,088, and Hood, 5,819.

In Canton, that vote was Reilly, 11,399; Young, 8,557; Kelly, 7,572 and MacDonald, 7,448.

In Garden City, vote totals were: Reilly, 4,566; Kelly, 3,764; Young, 3,605; MacDonald, 3,230, and Hood, 2,643.

In Redford, Reilly received 11,170 votes, followed by Young, 9,027; Kelly, 7,417; MacDonald, 6,558; Hood, 5,925.

In Plymouth Township, Reilly received 5,645 votes, followed by Young, 4,551; Hood, 3,376; MacDonald, 3,246, and Kelly, 2,950.

can incumbents Marilyn Lundy of Grosse Pointe and Louis Legg III of Battle Creek were defeated. Lundy was elected in 1988; Legg had served since summer by appointment of Gov. John Engler.

Elected were Democrats Marianne Yared McGuire, a freelance writer and former substitute teacher from Detroit, 1.68 million; and Herb Moyer, 68, a school administrator from Temperance, 1.55 million. Lundy followed by 100,000 votes and Legg followed her by another 100,000.

McGuire, who refused to list her age, got the Arab slot on the ethnic-oriented Democratic ticket. Moyer, however, is likely to emerge as the leader of the Democratic group and be the foil to board president Clark Durant, R-Grosse Pointe.

There have been 4-4 splits on the board in the past but not with such ideological intensity. Durant in two years has sought to undo much of school curriculum and certification rules that had bipartisan support in the past. Lundy and Sharon Wise, R-Owosso, were his echoes.

Board member Dorothy Beardmore, R-Rochester Hills, has been an independent, sometimes voting with her party, sometimes seeking to tone down Durant, sometimes bucking him. She openly criticizes Durant's technique of working on board members one-on-one instead of engaging in broad discussion.

Democratic sweeps of two open seats each at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University will have an effect on Engler's educational policies.

WSU has issued but one charter to a public school academy; U-M and MSU have issued none. Engler is eager to have universities issue as many charters as possible. Democrats on the board won't go along, largely because so many applicants are private schools seeking state aid.

Dentistry in the 90s

PREGNANCY AND ORAL HEALTH

According toa report issued by the ADA titled "Women's Oral Health Issues", expectant mothers may expect to experience several conditions linked to their pregnancies. For instance, inflammation of the gums (gingivitis) occurs in an estimated 60% to 75% of all pregnant women due to an increase in progesterone, which dilates capillaries, dampens the body's immune reswponse, and alters the composition of bacteria in the mouth. As a result, certain bacteria are allowed to thrive which cause inflammation. Because this condition does not disappear after delivery, gingivitis should be treated with a visit to the dentist. In addition, a condition known as pregnancy granuloma (sometimes referred to as "pregnancy tumors") may occur during the second trimester. It is characterized by painless purplish blue growths that arise between the teeth. Some disappear after delivery, while others require surgical removal to prevent a buildup of plaque.

At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, we stress preventitive dentistry. Call 478-2110 for an appointment and together we'll decide if your problems are due to pregnancy. We invite your questions and we can offer important oral health guidelines for the entire family. We're located at 19171 Merriman Road, where we offer complete dental health services. Holiday display to light up Hines Drive

■ Wayne County's annual holiday LightFest will open nightly Thursday, Nov. 21 through Jan. 1, 1997, except on Christmas Day, from 7-10 p.m.

Commuters who use Hines Drive can expect to see holiday displays popping up soon throughout Hines Park.

Wayne County's annual holiday LightFest will open nightly Thursday, Nov. 21 through Jan. 1, 1997, except on Christmas Day, from 7-10 p.m.

Major new displays include a poinsettia ribbon arch sponsored by NBD Bank. The display, with almost 20,000 watts of electricity surging through it, will span the roadway. Visitors will drive right through the lights.

Drivers also will find Santa's reindeer actually jumping over their cars in a new display sponsored by the Friends of Wayne County Parks. A new Toyland at the North Pole scene will also greet visitors to Wayne County LightFest 1996.

AAA Michigan's Antique Auto Parade display features a waving Santa reminding drivers to play it safe during the holidays. As a special treat for AAA members this year, Michigan Living will feature a $1-off coupon good any night at Wayne County LightFest.

"We are pleased that Wayne County can provide this type of fun-filled family activity at the holiday season," said Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara.

"This event improves the quality of life in our communities. We appreciate our corporate sponsors, especially NBD, our newest sponsor, who help us accomplish that goal."

Traffic enters Hines Drive at Merriman Road in Westland and proceeds eastbound, one-way, exiting at Warren Road, just east of Telegraph in Dearborn Heights.

Food concessions, gift items and Photos with Santa are available at "Santa's Shelter" at the Warrendale picnic area at the exit. The concession and gift shop will be open beginning Nov. 21 but Santa won't arrive until Nov. 28.

A donation of $5 per car helps keep LightFest operating and pays for other Parks programs all year long. For more information or to arrange bus tours, call the Wayne County Park System at (313) 261-1990.

Natural gas revenue funds Metropark repairs

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

■ 'We have been very fortunate in non-development gas-oil leases located under Kensington Metropark. The royalty revenue from this new, temporary source of income has been dedicated to infrastructure repairs throughout the authority.'

William P. Sherman, –director, HCMS

Natural gas under Kensington Metropark is helping the 13-park system repair some of its 50-year-old facilities.

William P. Sherman, director of the five-county Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, revealed in the biennial report that drilling revenue has helped build up a special fund of $2.2 million.

"We have been very fortunate in non-development gas-oil leases located under Kensington Metropark," Sherman said. "The royalty revenue from this new, temporary source of income has been dedicated to infrastructure repairs throughout the authority."

Kensington is the largest (4,300 acres), most popular and one of the oldest parks in HCMA's system. Straddling the Livingston-Oakland County line and I-96 freeway, Kensington surrounds Kent Lake, a 1,200-acre impoundment of the Huron River.

Underneath it lies an ancient formation called the Antrim Shale that bears oil and natural gas.

David Moilanen, spokesman for HCMA, said drilling by West Bay Exploration Co. over the last two and one-half years has yielded HCMA a 20 percent cut of the revenue.

Instead of putting the money in the $42 million general fund budget, HCMA's board set up a "supplemental major maintenance reserve" fund, dedicated to large repair projects. The fund supplements the general fund's "major maintenance" account.

So far, said Moilanen, HCMA has completed a $150,000 repair job on Kensington's sewer and pump station. Second project, scheduled for 1997 and beyond, will be a $2.5 million replacement of the water system at Metro Beach Metropark on Lake St. Clair in Macomb County.

Similar projects will be undertaken in future years, depending on productivity of the gas and oil wells.

West Bay has found natural gas at three sites:

■East of and outside the park property, southwest of Milford and Maple roads. The company drilled on a slant to capture reserves underneath park property.

■West of the winter sports area on the west side of the park.

■In an isolated and unused triangle of park property south of I-96, north of Grand River Avenue and east of Kensington Road. Some oil also has been found at that site, Moilanen said.

Early in 1996 another company, Wolverine Gas and Oil, drilled further north, under Kensington's group camp site between Dawson and General Motors roads. That exploration produced nothing.

HCMA has prohibited any development on its property, allowing only drilling and transportation.

HCMA was formed in 1940 by voters in Livingston, Oakland, Macomb, Washtenaw and Wayne counties. All its parks are located along the Huron and Clinton rivers. HCMA's unpaid, seven-member board has one appointee from each of the counties and two gubernatorial appointees.

To understand the Antrim Shale, think of Michigan's lower peninsula as a set of cook's mixing bowls. The newer, smaller bowls are in the center of the peninsula. The older, larger bowls are on the outside.

Look at the palm of your right hand and visualize it as a map of Michigan. The Antrim shale is the bedrock on the tip of your little finger, the knuckles of your first three fingers, and the thick muscle of your palm.

Professors Dorr and Eschleman, in their Geology of Michigan, tell how the Antrim shale was formed:

"In the Late Devonian, vast quantities of black mud were swept into the Michigan Basin from the east as a result of uplift in the Appalachian Region. These muds formed the Antrim Shale. . .

"The black muds, rich in organic matter, indicate deposition on a oxygenated sea floor where decay was slow. . . The Antrim Shale. . . is a sedimentary deposit that accumulated during a span of time that included parts of two geologic periods."

UM-D students will hold food, clothing drive for homeless

Nearly 100 marketing students at the University of Michigan-Dearborn are staging a food and clothing drive on Nov. 13-16 to help local homeless and underprivileged people.

People can donate canned goods and non-perishable items at M-D during that time. The goods will be forwarded to the Coalition on Temporary Shelter.

COTS is a United Way-approved charity that not only provides food, clothing and temporary shelter for the homeless, but also provides literacy courses, child-care services, and transitional housing.

Sponsors for the project are needed. Major sponsorship by local firms is possible through a donation of more than $1,000.

Once a major sponsor is secured, that sponsor is guaranteed that no other directly competing firm will be accepted as a major sponsor. These sponsors will be tied into promotional banners, as well as being listed as major contributors in publicity material.

Marketing students are using their business skills and education to make a positive impact in the community, according to Joseph Schwartz, assistant professor of marketing at UM-D.

For more information on becoming a sponsor, contact Schwartz at 593-1268.

Women need custom ski fit

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

During an appearance at Don Thomas Sporthaus in Bloomfield Hills last week, ski expert Jeannie Thoren told female skiers not to quit the sport if disappointed with their performance. It could all be a matter of ill-fitting boots and skis.

And the solution could be as simple as adjusting binding placement on skis and inserting heel lifts and orthotics in boots.

A member of the 1964 Junior National Ski Team and three-time winner of the Pin Binding Downhill in Sun Valley, Idaho, Thorn discusses equipment fit problems with women who ski at more than 50 clinics around the country every year.

"Women are dropping out of skiing at an alarming rate. It's a vicious circle. If equipment doesn't fit, she's no good at skiing," said Thoren, 50, who was inducted into The Women's Ski Hall of Fame last winter.

Jeannie Thoren

"Women are not small men. Proportions are different. Women are pear-shaped. Their weight is lower and further back on the skis. Thus, the need for equipment modification."

Since the late 70's, the Marquette-native has devoted her time to adapting ski equipment to better suit women's needs. Articles focusing on her research of anatomical differences between the sexes and how this relates to skiing and equipment have been published in national magazines such as Mademoiselle, Women's Sport and Fitness, and American Health.

As a ski tester for Skiing for Women magazine and a boot tester for Ski Magazine, she's tried all the brands during the 120 days a year she skis. To each clinic she brings 93 pairs of skis and 64 pairs of boots so that women will know how properly fitted equipment feels.

"In fact, it's only in the last ten years that skis have been designed for women," Thoren said. "And many boots still do not fit at the top because they don't take into account the calf muscle problem."

While not as important as well-fitted equipment, fashion takes its turn on the slopes to add pizazz to those skis and boots. As equipment design advances, look for ski wear styles to take a step back in time. Brighter colors along with a return of designs from the 50's to 70's (including those worn by the ski teams of the 60's) are in. Look for 1950's-inspired fitted jackets with narrow shoulders and shorter waists.

"It's a retro/nostalgic look whether it's stretch or fitted wear," said Don Thomas Sporthaus merchandise manager Lynne Bay.

As with all fashion this season, the animal print continues to reign. Nils ultrasuede jacket with faux fur leopard collar ($495) elegantly leads the pack.

For men, an orange pullover jacket with draw waist from Italy by Napapijiri ($450) will shine like a diamond on the downhill runs at Crystal Mountain.

"We're starting to see orange in ski wear as well as new stripy racing looks," Bay said.

Color is just as vivid at Bavarian Village Ski & Golf in Novi, Birmingham and Farmington Hills. "There's a lot of mango, bright yellow and red, hot pink, emerald green and royal blue as well as very elegant earth tones. And of course, brown is big in all segments of fashion this year," said Mary Curry, clothing manager at Bavarian Village's Novi store.

My favorite was a chocolate brown bomber jacket by Obermeyer, $215.

Brown Bear offers all-down jackets starting at $127 when warmth is more important than making a fashion statement. A one-piece suit from Bogner with a white top embroidered with flowers and deer and a cream bottom (from $700) is a work of art.

"We're back again to the shorter jackets where you can see the woman's waist," said Curry.

Ski lodge style: Nils makes a feminine version of the bomber jacket available at the Don Thomas Sporthaus in the Bloomfield Plaza.

Costume jeweler has heart of gold

Famed faux jewelry designer Kenneth Lane returned to his metro-Detroit roots last week to sign his new book and show off his latest collection at several Jacobson stores. His fans crowded the aisles.

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE
SPECIAL WRITER

Detroit-born and bred costume jewelry designer Kenneth Jay Lane has made his mark on the fashion world by faking it.

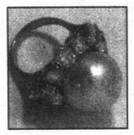
And, in fact, "Faking It" is the name of the book he's happy to sign for the steady stream of shoppers who stop to buy it on a recent Thursday at Jacobson's in downtown Birmingham. Stretched out along the store's jewelry counters are dozens of his signature pieces: bright and bold earrings, brooches and bracelets and, of course, three-strand faux pearl necklaces with art deco-style clasps made famous by Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis.

Yes, that's the necklace that sold for $211,500 at Sotheby's, sky-rocketing over its estimated $500-$700 value. A total of 47 of Lane's special, but yes fake, designs for Onassis went for over $1 million at the auction. At Jacobson's his pieces are priced from slightly under $50 to about $200.

Jacobson's customers like Connie Upton of Bloomfield Hills greet Lane wearing vintage pieces of his they've owned for years.

"This is my favorite," Upton says of the gray pearlized hollow blown pear brooch studded with rhinestones on her lapel. "I bought it before he was famous."

"He recognized it the minute she walked in," says her friend and Bloomfield Hills neighbor Rosemarie Weedman.



In his book, Lane describes the 1966 brooch as "the most successful design of all my Renaissance endeavors." He signs Upton's book, "To a peach of a pear."

She purchases three more of Lane's pieces including a strawberry (for summer wear) and ladybug pins. She demonstrates how the ladybug is primarily bright enamels, but then slides opens its casing to reveal a cluster of "diamonds" for evening sparkle.

Lane insists he didn't invent costume jewelry – that honor goes to CoCo Chanel

"Chanel legitimized costume jewelry to a very small group of women in the late 20's," he describes. "I revived it and legitimized it to a wider audience."

Not only was having Jackie as a client a boon to Lane's career, but he says she was also instrumental in his becoming an author. "Jackie Onassis when she was (an editor) at Doubleday always wanted me to do a book, he says. "I like to talk – to yap on."

He also likes to cook for his friends in his expensive, expansive New York apartment, go to theater, opera and the ballet. And he likes to work. As he details in his book, "Fortunately, I never dread going to my office. I really enjoy what I do and get an enormous thrill when a sample that I've been working on, sometimes for as long as a year, finally emerges in a state of perfection."

Home fires burning

Lane's aunt, Florence Seyburn of Southfield, is not the least surprised by her nephew's success.

"He was always talented," she reports from behind a stack of books she's having him sign for friends. When he was 14, she relates, he won a city-wide contest for the design of the tuberculosis stamp. "When he made book reports, he illustrated them."

And although he has a reputation for living the glamorous lifestyle of the rich and famous people for whom he creates one-of-a-kind designs, Seyburn says: "He also is very dear to the family. There is a warmth. We're very proud."

Seyburn reveals that he signed her book: "Darling Florence, my second Mommy."

"I wear his jewelry a lot," she adds. A mother of pearl butterfly dates from the 60's. "We all have early 'Kenny's.'"

Lane gave up architecture studies at the University of Michigan in favor of the Rhode Island School of Design. He traded Detroit (which he often Frenchifies as "Day-twah") for New York. And he obviously has never regretted it.

Travel around the globe provides inspiration.

"I've brought back wonderful ideas for jewelry from everywhere I've traveled." But he does so with an eye for playfulness and excitement.

"Minimalism is not much fun. Jewelry should be fun."

Local designer is a hit at Nordstrom

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Multi-cultural experiences combined with a historical perspective focused on ancient art, influence the batik of Chrystyna Nykorak.

Her work is so dramatic, it's come to the attention of Nordstrom and she will be the guest of a special show featuring her scarves from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23 at the Somerset Collection in Troy.

The Farmington artist studied the ancient craft of wax resist under British and Norwegian artists while living in Kampala, Uganda in the 1960s. Later, she lived in Saudi Arabia and other parts of the world including the Middle East. Today, Nykorak incorporates elements of these places along with a historical context into her batik silk scarves.

African lions, camels, giraffe, zebra, Crete bulls, dragons, horses, butterflies, flowers, and birds such as cranes appear on the colorful scarves.

"They're from my experiences and imagination. Nature always inspires me and the Egyptian influence can be seen in the birds. When I went on safaris in Africa I was influenced by the sky, the flight of the birds and flamingos filling the skies," Nykorak explained.

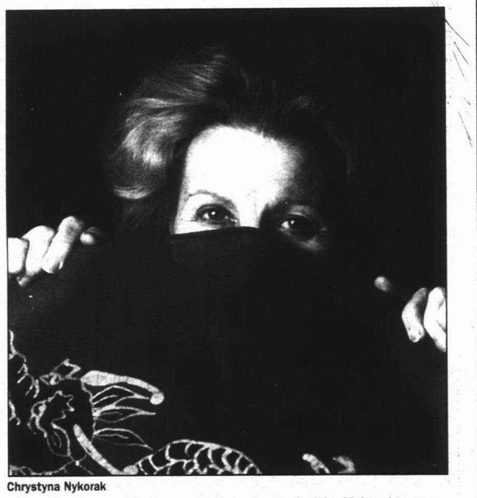
Using a charcoal stick, she sketches images such as sunflowers, irises, tropical fish, and Ukrainian folktale figures she refers to as "fantasy people on white hand-hemmed scarves." The word "batik" in Indonesian means wax writing.

Nykorak brushes melted beeswax onto the silk then dips it into wet dyes or paints the dyes onto the fabric. This process is repeated several times with different dyes until the desired color scheme is achieved.

"Batik is based on the same technique at Ukrainian Easter eggs. The scarves each take about two weeks to complete due to a lengthy curing time for the dyes," said Nykorak, who is also membership director for the Livonia Chamber of Commerce.

As a child raised in a Ukrainian home, Nykorak's roots run deep. Her large-scale batiks are currently on display in an exhibition celebrating the 5th anniversary of Ukraine's independence at the Biegas Gallery in downtown Detroit. One of the works deals with the death of her father at the battle of Brody in 1944. Shortly after his death, the family moved to Germany, until immigrating to Detroit in 1949.

Nykorak earned a bachelor of art degree at Wayne State University. After marrying her husband, an architect with the United Nations Development Commission, she traveled to Europe and lived in the Middle East sketching ornamental designs of pottery, ancient Persian rugs and costumes. She has applied these to her batik, which contain primitive motifs influenced by Egyptian and African art as well as Ukrainian.



Chrystyna Nykorak

"We're really excited to introduce her beautiful work in the store for the first time," said Nordstrom spokeswoman Terri Rose.

Approached by Nykorak's representative Darlene McCoy of Fashions Unlimited Consulting to show the batik scarves, Rose and Nordstrom fashion accessories buyer Denae Paiva seized the opportunity.

"The opportunity to discover local talent is exciting," said Rose.

Good times offer retailers holiday cheer

PRNewswire – This year, retailers can look forward to a Christmas stocking full of cheer rather than coal, say industry experts.

The combination of stronger employment growth and high levels of consumer confidence will give consumers the "open-to-buy" status needed to empty retailer's shelves.

"Santa's sleigh will be piled high with such goodies as apparel and consumer electronics, fueled by an economy that is positioned to deliver solid sales and profitability growth to the retail sector this Christmas," predicted Carl Steidtmann, chief economist for Price Waterhouse's Management Horizons.

Overall, the firm predicts a nominal fourth quarter/holiday growth of 4.5-percent non-auto sales. This will be much better than the 2.5-percent growth last year, but not as good as the blockbuster Christmas of 1994.

"In part, our optimism stems from the strong economy and some of the improvements and corrections retailers have made," Steidtmann explained. "The combination of industry consolidations and store closings along with lean and mean inventories should make this Christmas season one of the least promotional in recent memory."

Deflation has plagued the retail industry the past two years. Prices have fallen across the board -- from apparel to consumer electronics; cosmetics to home appliances. And as prices drop so goes retail sales growth and profitability. The return of slight inflation (nearly 1-percent) among non-auto retail stores should contribute to improved profits compared to last year's overall flat prices.

"Another very good sign for Christmas this year is the strength of the stock market, especially retail stocks which are outperforming the market overall," said Steidtmann. "This indicates that the investment community not only feels good about holiday sales but also holiday profits."

"Despite all of these rosy conditions and predictions, there is one caveat for this Christmas," warned Steidtmann. "Retailers shouldn't overreact to the shorter number of shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas by starting to promote early."

Confronting the ups and downs of escalators

Dear Miss Etiquette: I love the skywalk at the Somerset Collection, but sometimes I get stuck behind poky people who block the moving escalator. What can be done about this?

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

The automated skywalk at the Somerset Collection is a grand and glorious thing, according to most shoppers – unless you're in a hurry.

When two people are standing abreast on the escalator, or standing with a baby stroller, the person behind is trapped, unless those ahead of them can be persuaded to move to the right, or part for a passer by.

Shoppers are calling for skywalk etiquette.

"It's mostly a problem when it's crowded," noted Georgia Reynolds of Ortonville, as she crossed the sky walk. "I'd also like a beep to signal the end of the moving walk. When you're talking, you don't notice the escalator's ending, and you could easily trip." (There are three segments of moving skywalk divided by three stationery links.)

Kevin Joliet of Livonia said the mall's automated skywalk should be run like those at the airport, slow movers should stick to the right."Maybe we need signs or something," he said.

Where Can I Find?

Linda May of Farmington Hills called to report that a great source for replacement bags for very old vacuum cleaners is B & D Vacuum in Southgate, (313) 282-9869.

S. Stein of Farmington Hills called to say she needs to find a disc for an Auto Bakery breadmaker from DAC Industries.

We're still looking for:
- someone who will alter old draperies to fit new windows
- a company that will "re-coat" old metal cooking pans with non-stick materials like Teflon.
- a source for typewriter ribbons.
- king-size flat sheets from Martex in the Trade Blanket pattern.
- a glass lid for a Corning ware browning dish.
- phone numbers for a Tricam Liquid Embroidery Distributor and a Face Swafford purse distributor.
- bed pillows manufactured under the name "Blue Heaven."
- a glass lid for a Guardian ware roaster.
- a Perez Prado recording of "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom."
- a shoe bag with a zipper.

If you've seen any of these items in your travels, let Malls & Mainstreets know and we'll print the answers. Please call (810) 901-2567.

Tips for happy first Thanksgiving dinner memories

Let's cut to the chase. This is one of those columns that you will definitely want to clip and save, especially if you have kids who are venturing out for the first time or know newly-weds.

It's a rather simple column, one based on the facts that there are a few rules that must be followed in order to prepare a good Thanksgiving turkey. I offer these tips based on the fact that I have heard all of the holiday horror stories. My own sister cooked her first turkey and failed to remove the bag of giblets and neck from the turkey innards. Momma didn't know whether to laugh or be totally embarrassed. I have talked to people who have sprinkled the bird with cayenne pepper instead of paprika, and have thrown an entire bird away because it had "this little plastic thing sticking out of the breast meat."

Fresh is better

In order to cook a good turkey, you have to start with a good turkey. Are fresh better than frozen? Does "Amish" mean anything?

As a general rule of thumb, fresh turkeys are better than frozen. Why? Usually fresh turkeys are naturally grain fed, are free range birds (they get to walk around instead of being locked in a cage and never seeing light) and are bred to have more breast (white) meat. Most cheap frozen birds are injected with steroids and hormones that induce growth.

Locally, Roperti turkeys in Livonia (313) 464-6546 are widely respected. Christine Roperti says her turkeys are all corn fed and that's what makes the difference. Roperti turkeys are running $2.19 per pound for a hen and $2.09 per pound for a tom.

"The hens are bred to have more slicing meat while the toms are bred to be bigger" said Roperti. But in all honesty, running a real close race to a Roperti turkey are the famed Pennsylvania Dutch Bell and Evans brand turkeys.

Bell and Evans turkeys have been the turkey for the president of the United States for the past 28 years. Folks who have tried a B&E bird claim they are the best. You can only find them at Colasanti's Market in Highland, Market Place Meats in Union Lake, Byrd's in Livonia and Papa Joe's (House of Prime) in Rochester. For the record, Martha Stewart only uses Bell and Evans turkeys. Ordering them early guarantees a bird as they will sell out due to limited production.

Check your oven

After you order and locate the perfect turkey, it's time to prepare and determine the cooking technique. A call to the national turkey hot-lines indicate that the biggest problem facing turkey chefs is that their oven temperatures are off as much as 100 degrees. Oven temperature can be checked by placing a hanging oven thermometer in the middle of the oven and set the oven at 325 or 350 degrees F. Once the oven has indicated that preheating is complete, check the thermometer. This is extremely important to check, especially if you have a self-cleaning oven, say the pros.

All turkeys should be roasted at 325 degrees F., but fresh turkeys need about 13 to 15 minutes per pound while frozen birds (defrosted) will require about 18 minutes per pound. The difference is that fresh, naturally fed turkeys have less fat. The next logical question is to stuff or not to stuff?

The pros generally recommend that you cook the turkey unstuffed. Once the carcass has been cleaned and patted dry, it can be seasoned and inserted with onions, apples and herbs but a stuffed turkey takes longer (about 30 to 45 minutes) to cook and makes for a moister stuffing. Personally, I rely on a good old fashioned meat thermometer. When the thermometer reaches 175 degrees F., it's done. I then allow about 20 minutes of standing time before carving. I always baste my turkeys every thirty minutes during roasting, first beginning with some canned chicken or turkey broth and then graduating to the pan drippings.

Instead of cooking my turkeys on a rack, I place thick slices of carrot and onions on the bottom of a shallow roasting pan to keep the bird out of the accumulated juices. I prefer to start my birds breast side down for the first hour or so and then upright them for the remaining cooking period.

Don't let the holidays go to "waist" *

BY PEGGY MARTINELLI-EVERTS
REGISTERED DIETITIAN

Thanksgiving is just around the corner, and the holiday parties, social gatherings and visits with friends and family follow right on its heels. This is the wonderful time of year when we enjoy special meals with the ones we love. But look out! it's also the time when pounds can easily slip on, as we make exceptions and indulge our palate on rich, high-calorie food and drink.

You don't have to succumb to the temptations of the hors d'oeuvre table to enjoy parties. Just try to remember to take everything in moderation, and you'll make it through the holidays without changing your dress or suit size. Remember, we don't want your relatives to say there's — "more of you to love" — this year!

It's important to make your food choices wisely. It's difficult, I know, with the array of wonderful food that is indicative to the holiday season. But you can do it.

Look for foods that are naturally lower in calories and fat. Fill up on them and just "sample" the high-calorie, high-fat items. For example, if you are having a traditional turkey dinner for Thanksgiving, choose a small portion of lean meat from the turkey breast and just sample tastes of dressing, gravy and desserts. Help yourself to seconds on salads (light on the dressing), cranberry sauce, plain mashed potatoes, plain sweet potatoes, and other vegetables.

At parties join a cheery group as far away from the buffet table as possible. Also, be careful not to imbibe too heavily in alcoholic beverages. Besides adding extra calories, they also tend to decrease our willpower making it more difficult to resist those additional hors d'oeuvres, or that big slice of pecan pie. It's always a good practice to choose a non-alcoholic beverage such as sparkling water with a wedge of lime, fruit juice or a diet soda.

Many people who over-eat do so on automatic pilot. This can really be a problem during the holidays as temptations and stress both increase. One suggestion is to make an extra effort to be aware of what goes into your mouth. Make each bite a special event. Study that pig-in-a-blanket carefully before you taste it. Don't just mindlessly plop it into your mouth. Notice its color, texture and aroma. Then take a bite and concentrate on its flavor, texture, and the satisfaction you receive as it is chewed and swallowed. If you don't totally enjoy it, don't finish it.

My friend's Scottish grandmother gave her some sage advice that I believe is particularly useful during the holidays: "better to go to waste than go to waist."

Exercise is important too. Sometimes we get so busy this time of year that our exercise routine is placed on the back burner. Remember to take time for yourself and enjoy a brisk walk, an aerobic tape, game of tennis, cross-country skiing, or any physical activity you prefer.

If it is your responsibility to do some of the cooking for holiday parties, be good to your guests and provide some low-fat, low-calorie choices. Above all, remember what the main focus of the holiday season is all about: making time to break bread with your family and friends. Try to concentrate more on the company of your loved ones, and less on the holiday cookies!

Good-for-you snacks

Entertaining this holiday season? Here are some suggestions for good-tasting, good-for-you holiday snacks and treats.

- Endive, celery and cucumber slices make great substitutes for crackers when assembling appetizers. Spreading these with low-fat flavored cream cheese instead of using a high-fat cracker reduces calories, adds fiber and looks good too!
- If you feel you must have a snack food, such as potato chips or tortilla chips, choose the low-fat versions, but remember they may be lower in fat than the traditional snack food, but they are still loaded with calories. Pretzels with mustard or seasoned air-popped popcorn are crunchy and satisfying.
- The old standby, shrimp cocktail, is always a crowd pleaser. A one ounce portion (3-4 large shrimp) provides 6 grams of protein and less than one gram of fat. While relatively high in cholesterol (50 grams) it has only .01 grams of saturated fat and totals only 28 calories.
Salmon, another favorite, is 45 calories for a one ounce portion. Salmon has 1.6 grams of fat, but less than a half gram of saturated fat, and is very low in cholesterol (12 grams). Enjoy these with cocktail sauce instead of tartar sauce. Better yet, savor the flavor with a little squirt of lemon.
- Always include a vegetable tray on your holiday buffet, or make sure your meal includes a few minimally cooked vegetable selections. If you provide a tray, don't spoil it with high-fat dip. Instead, make yours non-fat yogurt based, or use fat-free sour cream.

Warm-up to leaner options for stew

BY LAURA L. SYKES
SPECIAL WRITER

A simmering pot of stew is a wonderful way to provide a nutritious meal. The only negative aspect of a stew is that it usually has a high fat content. Fortunately we have ways to remedy this problem.

First, we can look for leaner cuts of beef to put in the stew. A wise choice would be to use top sirloin. Another suggestion is to use 100 percent ground turkey meat. Ground turkey adds protein and flavor to the stew without the fat and cholesterol beef provides. One pound of ground beef has 1,400 calories, 120 grams of fat and 384 milligrams of cholesterol.

One pound of 100 percent ground turkey contains only 480.4 calories, 6.0 grams of fat and 220 milligrams of cholesterol.

Canned tomatoes add an unacceptable 2,905 milligrams of sodium to our recipe. By simply using a "no salt added" version we reduce the salt contribution of this ingredient to 140 milligrams. We also can eliminate the one-half teaspoon of salt. This contributes nothing to our recipes!

By making only three simple changes to this recipe we were able to eliminate 867 calories, 115.2 grams of fat, 27 milligrams of cholesterol and 456 milligrams of sodium.

Here are a couple of more turkey tips. Prebasted frozen birds usually need not be basted. Again, I prefer not to cover my turkey or use a cooking bag as it makes for a steamed taste rather than roasted. If I notice the leg or wing tips overcooking, I'll wrap them in foil.

Here are some Janes family favorites.

MOMMA'S TURKEY GIBLET GRAVY

The giblets from one fowl
2 3/4 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 medium onion, sliced fine
1/3 cup celery leaves
1/4 cup pan drippings from cooked fowl
4 tablespoons all purpose flour

Wash giblets carefully. Place giblets in a saucepan and add water, salt, onion and celery leaves.

Cover and bring to a boil. Reduce to a simmer and simmer slowly until giblets are tender, about 40 minutes. Remove giblet and strain the broth.

There should be about 2 cups of broth. Chop giblets into fine pieces.

Blend the turkey drippings and the flour together to make a smooth paste.

Whisk into broth. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until gravy thickens. Stir chopped giblets into gravy. Serve hot. Makes about 2 1/2 cups gravy.

MOMMA'S STUFFING FOR TURKEY

1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1 cup celery, finely chopped
2 medium sized onions, finely chopped
2 pounds bread (21 cups) cut into cubes and allowed to dry 6 hours
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon sage
3 eggs, beaten
1 cup turkey drippings
1/2 cup parsley, chopped

Melt butter or margarine and cook celery and onions until tender, about 8 minutes. Toss bread with dry seasoning in a large bowl. Combine celery and onion mixture with bread. Set aside. In a separate bowl, combine beaten eggs with turkey drippings and parsley. Pour over stuffing mixture and mix well.

Pour into a greased large baking dish or casserole and bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes to 1 hour or until lightly browned and cooked throughout. Makes enough stuffing to feed 8-10 people.

Anyone remember the famed glazed sweet potato casserole topped with marshmallows?

I found this recipe in mommas recipe box and still pleases all who partakes!

Here are some fall 'Cooking Secrets of the CIA'

AP — The following recipes for Fall Peanut Soup, Apple Sauteed Pork with Shiitake Mushrooms and Shallots, and Baked Stuffed Winter Squash are from the companion cookbook to the public television series "Cooking Secrets of the CIA," which airs nationwide on PBS stations every weekend.

FALL PEANUT SOUP

2 tablespoons unsalted butter
1 stalk celery, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
1 carrot, peeled and chopped
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
8 cups warm chicken stock
1 bay leaf
2 cups smooth peanut butter
1 generous tablespoon honey
1 cup heavy cream
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
Chopped peanuts for garnish (optional)

In a heavy 3-quart saucepan over medium heat, melt the butter and saute the celery, onion and carrot until the onion is translucent, about 5 minutes. Add the flour and stir until incorporated. Continue to cook and stir for 3 minutes.

Add the chicken stock; stir to mix thoroughly. Bring to a simmer; add the bay leaf and peanut butter. Blend thoroughly and simmer for 40 minutes, stirring frequently.

Add the honey; stir. Remove from the heat, strain and add the heavy cream. Adjust the seasoning with salt and pepper and garnish with chopped peanuts, if desired. Serve hot. Makes 12 six-ounce servings

APPLE SAUTEED PORK WITH SHIITAKE MUSHROOMS AND SHALLOTS

For the marinade:
1 1/2 cups apple cider
3/4 cup chicken stock
3 tablespoons Dijon mustard
2 whole cloves
3 cloves garlic, chopped
For the pork:
18 pork medallions (3 ounces each)
For the vegetables:
24 shallots
8 tablespoons (1 stick) unsalted butter at room temperature
1 pound shiitake mushrooms, stemmed and cleaned
6 tablespoons applejack brandy
3 tablespoons olive oil
6 sprigs fresh rosemary

In a glass bowl, whisk together all the ingredients for the marinade. Add the pork, making sure that it is well covered with the marinade. Cover and refrigerate for 2 hours, then remove the pork from the marinade; strain and reserve the liquid.

Meanwhile, boil a medium pot of water, drop in the shallots and cook for about 5 minutes. Immediately transfer them to a bowl of ice water to stop the cooking. Peel them.

Melt 2 tablespoons of the butter in a large nonreactive saute pan over medium heat; add the mushrooms and shallots. Saute until the shallots are translucent, about 5 minutes. Remove from the pan. Add the applejack and reserved marinade to the pan. Bring to a light simmer and continue cooking until the liquid has reduced by one-third.

While the liquid is reducing, heat the olive oil in another large saute pan. Pat the pork dry with paper towels and saute over medium heat for about 3 minutes on each side, or until thoroughly cooked and opaque throughout.

When the marinade and applejack mixture has reduced to a saucelike consistency, blend in the remaining 6 tablespoons butter. To serve, arrange some of the mushrooms and shallots, with 3 pork medallions on each of 6 plates. Spoon some of the sauce over the pork and garnish with a rosemary sprig. Makes 6 servings

BAKED STUFFED WINTER SQUASH

1 butternut squash
8 tablespoons (1 stick) unsalted butter at room temperature
1/4 teaspoon ground allspice
2 tablespoons plus 4 teaspoons brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 egg white, slightly whipped
About 1/4 cup milk
3 acorn squash
1/2 teaspoon grated nutmeg
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
1-3rd cup raisins
2 tablespoons sweet vermouth

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Peel and seed the butternut squash; cut it into eighths. Place in a steamer, cover, and steam until tender, 15 to 20 minutes.

In a large bowl, mash the squash and add 4 tablespoons of the butter, the allspice, the 2 tablespoons brown sugar, the salt, egg white and enough milk to make the mixture soft and fluffy. Set aside.

Melt the remaining 4 tablespoons butter.

Cut the acorn squash in half and scoop out seeds and fibers. Pierce the inside of each with a fork several times. Sprinkle each half with the nutmeg, salt, pepper, the 4 teaspoons brown sugar and about 2 tablespoons of the melted butter. Place on a baking sheet and bake for 20 minutes.

Meanwhile, soak the raisins in the sweet vermouth.

Remove the acorn squash from the oven and add one-sixth of the raisins to the cavity of each squash.

Using a pastry bag, fill each cavity with one-sixth of the butternut squash mixture. Brush with the remaining melted butter and bake 15 to 20 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

Split pea soup warm, nourishing treat on chilly days

With their robust flavor, stomach-filling ability and low cost, legumes (dried beans, peas and lentils) are one of the oldest and most universally used foods. Among legumes, split peas are favored by today's busy cooks because they require no presoaking and can cook in about the time that it takes to makes pasta.

This week, as National Split Pea Week, is the perfect reason to highlight the benefits of such an excellent source of low-fat vegetable protein. Supplying protein iron, split peas are also rich in fiber and carbohydrates and are low in sodium and calories.

One of their more important benefits may be have been discovered when several studies found that legumes such as split peas may help fight some cancers because of their high concentration of cancer-fighting substances.

Unlike many beans, split pea preparation is a snap. After a quick rinse, simply place peas in a sauce pan with double their amount of water and bring to a boil. Reduce the heat, cover and simmer 10 to 15 minutes, or until the peas are tender.

Split peas come in yellow and green varieties. While the yellow are milder than the green, they can be used interchangeably in recipes. Flavor split peas with onion, garlic, lemon, curry, thyme or dill, to make a colorful side dish.

Jazz up a rice pilaf or green salad by tossing in some cooked split peas. Make creative vegetarian dinners with pureed split peas as a filling for tacos or pita sandwiches.

Split pea soup is a warm, nourishing treat on cool days that makes it a perennial fall favorite. Traditional recipes call for carrots, onions and celery, along with a bit of ham, some savory and bay leaf.

Add spicy Indian flavor to your next batch of split pea soup by including cauliflower, and seasoning it with garlic, cumin, coriander, red pepper flakes and turmeric. Another variation, Mushroom Split Pea Soup, has a rich mellow flavor with only the light seasonings of onion, garlic, salt and pepper.

MUSHROOM SPLIT PEA SOUP

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 medium onion, chopped
1 teaspoon crushed garlic
3/4 cup yellow split peas
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 medium carrot, peeled and chopped
1 stalk celery, chopped
3 1/2 cups chicken stock
5 teaspoons low-fat yogurt (optional)
Salt and pepper to taste

Rinse the peas. In a large saucepan, saute onion, garlic, celery, carrot and mushrooms until softened, approximately 5 minutes. Add the stock and split peas to the pan and stir. Reduce the heat, cover and simmer for 40 minutes or until the peas are softened, stirring occasionally.

Cool the soup slightly before pouring the mixture in a food processor and pureeing until it is creamy and smooth

. Pour the soup into bowls and garnish with yogurt (if desired). Each of the 5 servings contains 172 calories and 4 grams of fat.

Clever ideas to add flavor to breads

(AP) Baking your own bread can help you eat a variety of foods, especially when you customize your loaves by including an assortment of tasty, nutrient-packed ingredients such as grains, seeds, dried and fresh fruits, and vegetables.

The following are some tips from the American Dietetic Association to add signature flavor or boost the nutritional quality of home-baked bread.

■ To add calcium, replace part of the water in your bread recipe with nonfat milk or plain low-fat yogurt. Or add a couple of tablespoons of nonfat dry milk.

■ If you're watching your salt intake, the salt can be reduced to 3/4 to 1 teaspoon per 3 cups of flour.

■ Enhance the flavor of your favorite bread by replacing part of the water with a pureed fruit or vegetable.

Try mashed bananas, applesauce, prune puree or canned pumpkin. Baby foods such as apricots, pears, peaches and squash are other convenient fruit and vegetable sources.

■ For additional fiber and texture, add grains such as oats, cornmeal, cooked rice, cooked wheat berries or whole grains.

Action Thriller: Geena Davis (Samantha Caine) and Samuel L. Jackson (Mitch Henessey) star in "The Long Kiss Goodnight."

'Long Kiss Goodnight' lacks credibility

BY BOB THOMAS
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

(AP) _ Would you believe that the federal government contains a secret spy cadre called Chapter that acts as a death squad to eliminate its former agents? That the group conducts terrorist attacks inside the United States and blame them on foreigners in order to win more funding for Chapter?

If you can swallow such whoppers and love to watch explosions and random killings, then "The Long Kiss Goodnight" is just the movie entertainment for you.

If, however, you prefer credibility in your plots and maybe a wee bit of humanity, stay away.

"The Long Kiss Goodnight" tells you something about today's movie business. Shane Black's screenplay set a record for its time when it was bought for $4 million.

The credits list six persons as producer or executive producer. The director and star are the husband-and-wife team Ronnie Harlin and Geena Davis, whose last expensive outing, "Cutthroat Island," sank immediately.

Not that "The Long Kiss Goodnight" doesn't have a few redeeming qualities. The killers have a cavalier air as they go about their business. The dialogue often crackles, despite occasional lines that evoke unsolicited laughter. The film's biggest asset is Samuel L. Jackson, who can view the events with a cynical humor as the only outsider.

The film begins with Samantha Caine (Davis) teaching school and keeping house with her husband and young daughter in a quiet New England town. Her only problem: She can't remember her past (amnesia is one of moviedom's oldest and most convenient cliches).

Her life is suddenly shattered when a crazed gunman breaks into the house with a monstrous gun and tries to kill her. Using skills she didn't know she had, she kills him.

Samantha can't imagine why anyone would want to kill her. But flashes from her past indicate she is in dire danger, and she leaves home to seek out the mystery. Along the way, she enlists Mitch Henessy, a former cop and felon, now working as an investigator.

The pair hit the long, dangerous road, tailed by the sophisticated killers of Chapter. They need to destroy her because of her knowledge of the agency's past misdeeds. The script indicates that the President (J.D. Spradlin) knows about the operation, and also that Chapter played a role in the World Trade Center bombing!

As Samantha and Mitch meet her pursuers and annihilate them, her past begins to return to her. She was Charlene (Charly), a trained killing machine for Chapter. Now she uses her training to destroy her former colleagues, by the dozen. Renny Harlin's movies suffer from overreach, and "The Long Kiss Goodnight" continues that tendency. The bombings get bigger, the corpses more numerous, the handguns become cannons, the Chapter's force becomes a small army. And Geena Davis makes Superman seem like a nerd.

I work hard for a living. And the personals work hard for me.

I don't have all kinds of time to be running around singles bars looking for the person of my dreams. Then a friend told me how she keeps her social life in gear. With the personals. Fast, easy, free... and it works. Their new features even introduced me to other advertisers who are just my type. Now that's my idea of finding love in the nineties.

Mari Hoff, a freshman forward from Canton (Plymouth Salem HS), moved into a tie for first place among U-M goal-scorers by getting a goal in each game. That upped her total for the season to seven, with one assist; she's tied with fellow freshman Amber Berendowsky for first in goals scored.

Hoff is also second on the team in total points scored with 15. She's already set a team record with shots on goal with 57.

Jori Welchans, a senior from Canton (Plymouth Canton), split time in goal with Jessica Jones in the Valparaiso shutout.

The Wolverines entered last weekend's Big Ten Tournament as the fourth seed; they played fifth-seeded Ohio State in Columbus, Ohio Friday.

•At the Big Ten Conference Championships in cross country Nov. 2 in Bloomington, Ind., the University of Michigan's teams fared well, the men finishing second and the women third.

Salem too much for Hawks

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK
STAFF WRITER

Hey, give Goliath a break! David can't win all the time, for goodness sakes.

Sure, it's a better story when the little guy wins, but the big guy swings a mean club.

Chalk one up for Goliath on Friday night, though, because bigger Plymouth Salem wore down game and gallant but outsized Farmington Hills Harrison, 40-30, to win the Western Lakes Activities Association girls basketball tournament.

"It isn't just that they're big," Hawks' coach Pete Mantyla said, "they're athletic and they take care of the ball.

"They're a really great defensive team. They're big, agile, keep their hands up in the air and the rebound well."

David -- oops, make that Harrison -- jumped out to a 7-4 lead with 4:49 left in the opening period. It didn't hit another basket until 2:22 remained in the half.

Meantime, Goliath (sorry, make that Salem), was pounding the boards and hitting 6-of-8 first period shots en route to a 13-7 lead.

The Rocks were 3-for-13 in the second quarter, but they held the Hawks to 1-of-8 shooting and led, 20-12, at the half.

"When it was 7-4 we went on a nice little run," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "They ran a set for (Amy) Roble and made a three. We never gave her any more chances like that."

Harrison, now 12-7, is well coached by Mantyla. Rather than have his girls try to do things they can't do, the Hawks coach emphasizes the things they do.

They run like rabbits, so he has them pressing just about all the time. And he runs his players in and out to keep them fresh.

And instead of trying to pound the ball inside, Mantyla emphasizes outside shooting.

"I was pleased with our handling of the ball," said Thomann, whose 17-3 team once again spread its scoring around, a team facet which can only help in the state tournament, "our ability to handle their pressure.

"That's how they beat Northville and Walled Lake Central, with their pressure and their ability to get layups plus their outside shooting.

"We didn't give them any easy scores. We knew we had to defend the arc."

The Rocks led, 28-19, after three quarters and were never really threatened after taking the lead in the first period.

Amanda Abraham scored 10 points and had 10 rebounds for Salem while Angie Sillmon scored eight and had five rebounds. Heather Guerin got half her eight points in each of the last two quarters and had four rebounds as well.

Jenelle Sterling and Laurel Weinman each scored five points "and played a solid, solid game," Thomann said. His team made 17 of its 45 shots (37.8 percent) and sank all four of its free throws in the final 65 seconds of the game.

Roble led the Hawks with 14 points, five in each of the final two quarters, while Mohogany Fletcher scored five. Harrison shot 24.2 percent (8-for-33) but 18 of its shots were from behind the 3-point line (it made five).

"Our kids are playing as hard as they can play," Mantyla said. "They're very coachable. We wanted to win it, but we feel we got a championship effort out of everybody.

"We look at this as a building block for us. It was a big game for our kids to be in."

"He's done a marvelous job of coaching that team," Thomann said. "This win will send us into the districts in good fashion. We've got a tough district -- Canton, Northville and Novi."

Salem did an excellent job of doing the things it had to do in order to beat a team it handled by 30 points the last time around.

It also got another nice WLAA first-place trophy to put in the case.

Tournament time?

There's just no way it can be November already

C.J. RISAK

Whoa, whoa, whoa -- what gives?

Somethin's wrong here. Someone's pullin' my chain.

Check the calendar. Check the alignment of the stars. Check that private soothsayer, the one whose voice changes every time you punch in his (or her) 1-900-CHARGME number.

The simple fact is, this cannot be November.

Just can't be. And I can offer proof.

If it were November, I'd have been shivering in my sneakers for the past week watching soccer games at faraway, unknown places -- like Behall Field in Jackson or at Okemos HS.

And I'd be reenacting another version of my season-ending clown act, the main feature of which is juggling. Heck, I feel like I've made more updated curtain-calls than any clown in history -- Bozo included.

All in trying to juggle a schedule that includes soccer playoff games in high school and college that, if not played on the same day, are often played on consecutive ones.

Remember, in the last two years either Plymouth Canton or Plymouth Salem have reached the Class A title match -- and won. But this year that streak ended Nov. 2 when Livonia Stevenson edged Canton, 1-0, in the regional final.

With Salem already eliminated by Canton, that meant the high school soccer season for both was -- gasp!! -- over!

Adding to this overwhelming feeling of disorientation were the college soccer developments.

For Schoolcraft's men's team, the script has always been the same, year after year, for more than a decade:

•Roll through the regular-season slate with little problem, posting an impressive record;

•Since no one in the region would offer a challenge, SC could make reservations for November's NJCAA Inter-regional Tournament in August. No need contemplating anything beyond that, however; the Ocelots would get to the Inter-regional, then choke.

But that all changed this year, too. SC barely reached the .500 level during the regular season, then failed to get past the Region 12 Tournament, losing in the first round.

The Ocelots' season was over before November started.

As for the SC women's team, well -- here's a side that played its last regular-season match on Oct. 20, and has not yet played its first post-season playoff game.

Talk about disoriented!

Now so far, we've just been talkin' soccer. But if this were really mid-November, wouldn't the girls basketball state tournament be ready to erupt?

The female version of March Madness?

So where is it? Was that really the Western Lakes Activities Association finals last Friday? Between Salem and -- who? -- Farmington Harrison?

If it were, where are the state district games this week? Why aren't Salem and Canton playing somebody? Anybody?

Bottom line is this: It's just too doggone quiet around here to be November.

No tournament finals at separate sites to wander to; no debates over what deserves top billing -- a regional final in soccer or a league championship in basketball; no trying to find photo space for all this stuff.

Cripe, I knew something was all wrong when our photo man, Bill Bresler, told me he actually had both days off last weekend.

In the middle of November?

Sabotage, that's what this is. Pretty good job of it too, with all the leaves falling and the temperatures dropping. Nice little extras to try to convince us we're already halfway through November.

Unfortunately, it won't work. Not with all this quiet.

Next year you'll probably try something really outlandish -- like putting Canton's or Salem's football teams into the state playoffs to keep our attention focused.

Northville zone leaves Canton's offense fumbling

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK

BASKETBALL

Plymouth Canton is having trouble against zone defenses, but one thing is sure, The Chiefs will get plenty of practice against them.

Not only from Coach Bob Blohm and his staff, but from everybody Canton plays from now on.

Northville, minus star center Gina Chiasson, threw a tough top-loaded zone against Canton on Friday night and beat the Chiefs, 30-24, to capture third place in the Western Lakes Activities Association girls basketball tournament.

"We've got a week off," Blohm said. "Maybe we can get something done in that time. I'm not disappointed with our effort.

"I think we're putting a lot of pressure on ourselves. We're not playing with a lot of confidence right now. Especially challenging the zone, attacking the zone and being patient against the zone."

Northville, 15-5, top-loaded its zone because it figured Canton, 16-4, wouldn't be able to get the ball down low consistently. The Mustangs forced the Chiefs to take outside shots, and they didn't fall.

Canton was 0-for two quaters -- the first and third. It was scoreless in the third period and made three free throws in the first.

"We made one point in the first quarter against Farmington, two against Salem and three against Northville. I hope that isn't a trend," Blohm said.

Most of Canton's shots were contested. But the ones that weren't didn't fall. The Chiefs were 5-for-11 in the second quarter but just 9-for-45 in the game. It didn't help that they were 4-of-12 from the free throw line, either.

Kristi Fiorenzi led the Chiefs with eight points but scored only two outside the second period. Kristin Lukasik scored six, Melissa Marzolf five, Nkechi Okwumabua three and Kristin Mayer two.

Northville had a game-high 13 points from its leading scorer, junior guard Lauren Metaj, six apiece from Christine Herndon and Karla Kalso plus five by Lyndsay Huot.

Despite going scoreless in the third quarter, Canton trailed just 18-16 after Marzolf hit a baseliner. But Northville got three straight baskets and the closest Canton could get again was 26-22 with 2:41 to go.

A steal deprived the Chiefs of an opportunity to cut the deficit to two points and Kalso sank two free throws to make it 28-22 with a minute to play.

"It's hard for us to get stuff down around the basket," Blohm said. "And we're not able to get to the free throw line enough.

"We need to spread the zone out, penetrate and score or pass the ball back out and score on the kickback."

Northville drilled Canton the first time they met this season, when Blohm suspended six players for a team rules violation but the absence of Chaisson took some of the luster from the rematch.

Chaisson missed this game with an ankle sprain severe enough to threaten to end her season.

Both Salem and Canton are idle this week due to a scheduling snafu. Blohm has Okemos coming in Wednesday is trying to involve Salem and Bishop Borgess to make it a four-way scrimmage.

Wanna bet he'll be looking at a lot of zone?

Hall of Fame inducts longtime star

TEN PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

The Greater Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame held its induction ceremonies last Sunday with a banquet at the Ukrainian Cultural Center.

Among the new inductees was Farmington Hills resident Jack Treloar. For Treloar, it was a well-deserved honor as he is the only member of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association to win a title in every event of the Association Annual Tournament – team, singles, doubles and all events.

He also won the GDBA Masters Tournament in 1972 and earned an ABC Tournament Title, winning the team All Events with the Goebel Beer Team in 1974.

His other titles include the Bowler's Journal 10-Game Singles in Long Beach, Calif. in 1972, the Michigan State Team Title in 1963, Michigan State All Events in 1974 and four Michigan Majors titles.

Treloar was a member of the GDBA No. 1 All City Team in 1964-65, 1969-70 and was captain in 1967-1968. That honor goes to the top male bowler in the city.

He has three 300 games, a high series of 802 and his best average was 225. He is still very active in bowling and doing pretty well, too, as his name appears frequently in this column's "Honor Roll."

Other inductees were Dina Mannisi-Jones, the late Dale Seavoy in the "veteran's" category and Matt Fiorito of the Detroit Free Press as recipient in the "Meritorious Service" category. Mary Sanders received the Judge John D. Watts Award for support and promotion of bowling and the Thomas McKay Award went to the late Steve Cruchon, the founder of the "Bowler's Digest."

• Larry Geiger of Livonia bowls on Friday night in the Strike Force Men's League at Oak Lanes. He was going along pretty well last week, when up popped a Halloween Goblin in the form of a 7-10 split, or as we bowlers affectionately call it by its real name, "Snake-eyes."

It was a pocket hit after two strikes, and needless to say, Larry was a bit angry at his bad luck, but he huffed and he puffed and he threw his ball at the 7-pin.

The 7 then hit the corner and bounded back toward the 10, just kissing it enough to get it rocking, and it fell down just ahead of the rack coming down.

What an emotional swing, from being on a downer about the split, then making this rare spare which amazed his teammates and left the opposition with their mouths hanging open in disbelief.

Geiger also is our circulation manager at this newspaper. He will make sure that you get this edition right on time.

• There is still time to join the crowd and help strike out child abuse in the Fund-raiser at Cloverlanes on Saturday, Nov. 16. If you are unable to participate in the bowling, you can still help in a big way by making a donation to this very worthwhile cause when someone asks for a pledge or call Carol Eschbach (313) 862-1000 ext. 107 at Evergreen Children's Services.

Churchill woes continue

Football coach steps aside after posting just one win in 5 years

BY BRAD EMONS

FOOTBALL

Saddled with three straight winless seasons, Steve Naumcheff agreed to step down Monday as varsity football coach at Livonia Churchill High School.

Naumcheff, who inherited an 18-game losing streak when he took over for Herb Osterland in 1992, finished with a 1-44 mark in five years, the only win coming against Farmington in 1993.

Churchill principal Rod Hosman, along with athletic director Marc Hage, met with Naumcheff during an evaluation session of the program two days after the Chargers completed their season with a 28-7 loss Friday to Livonia Stevenson.

"We discussed it and all three agreed that the best thing was for Steve not to return," Hosman said. "He did not quit or was he fired. We all concluded it was in the best interests for everybody, it seemed, to be the time to seek a new football coach. It was time to make a change."

Naumcheff, who had contemplated making a decision regarding his status for quite some time, notified his players and staff of the decision on Monday.

"It probably goes back to last year," said Naumcheff, who was also the head coach at Livonia Bentley from 1979-84. "I had thoughts about what we were trying to do and what we wanted to get accomplished.

"It was a bottom line decision that was reached above board, and I realize they've got to look out for the program and the school. The consensus was not a 2-to-1 vote."

Hosman said he hopes to find a replacement for Naumcheff by the end of the calendar year or by the semester change in January. He plans to post the position to Livonia Education Association employees within a week.

Whoever takes over, the task is going to be formidable. Churchill is 1-62 during the 1990s. This season, the JV squad finished 0-9, while the freshman team went 3-6. Naumcheff, however, did carry four sophomores on the varsity squad this year.

"I bear a good bit of it," Hosman said. "It's my job to hire all the coaches and assistants, and provide all the necessary things, and then hope we win some games. My responsibility is not the Xs-and-Os, but I hire the coach and ask him to perform.

"Steve not only expressed the frustration of not winning, but he also felt he couldn't deliver something better even though I feel we improved some and were more competitive. It didn't translate into 'Ws,' but his program was academically successful and we were able to get a few kids scholarships. He did a lot of the right things."

Naumcheff refused to point fingers, knock anyone or alibi for a lack of success.

"I'm not Harry Truman, but the buck stops here," he said. "When I played football it was an honor, and it's a privilege to coach. High school football is an exciting sport to be a fan of.

"I just hope that by building an infrastructure in the program, the next coach, his assistants and the kids will enjoy some success. I don't want to disrespect the kids who came out and worked hard. I respect them because they were in the arena. They're too special to me."

Naumcheff, however, did have some handicaps during his tenure.

Prior to the start of this season, two key running backs transferred _ Todd Wilson to Stevenson and Cameron Mingo to Wayne Memorial. Wilson never played a down for the Spartans, suffering an knee injury, while Mingo was forced to sit out under the MHSAA transfer rule.

Naumcheff also took over when the Livonia Public Schools instituted a pay-to-play plan.

"We got off to a slow start and we never recovered," he admitted.

Hosman, meanwhile, would like to see the Livonia Public Schools implement a contact football in the middle school grades. The district currently runs an intramural flag football league.

"If I had my druthers I'd like to see a competitive program at the middle school level," the Churchill principal said. "Many of our kids have limited knowledge and it might be beneficial for us. A lot haven't competed other than little league football. It might be an appropriate program, not only because we're in a tough league (Western Lakes), but it's good for kids."

Patriots' Bauman decides: he'll be joining the Titans

RECRUITING

The University of Detroit Mercy added another big recruit Thursday when 6-foot-8 Matt Bauman of Livonia Franklin committed to the Titans.

Bauman, who averaged 19.8 points and 7.3 rebounds last season for the Patriots, joins 6-11 Walter Craft of Detroit Southwestern as early signees for the men's basketball program.

Both Bauman and Craft are expected to sign NCAA national letters-of-intent this week.

UDM, 18-11 last year with wins over Arizona State and Michigan State, is favored to win the Midwestern Collegiate Conference this season.

"The offer was just too hard to pass up," said the 215-pound Bauman, who passed up signing early with Wayne State and Michigan Tech. "UD's basketball program is on the rise and coach (Perry) Watson is doing a good job of recruiting great players.

"And being close to home definitely helped. I be able to play before family and friends, and I like the city, too."

Bauman attended grade school and middle school in Detroit before his family moved to an apartment in Westland. He is a four-year member of the Franklin varsity squad.

Last season he made All-Western Lakes Activities Association and was a second-team All-Observer choice.

Ironically, UDM didn't hesitate signing Bauman, who suffered a broken ankle during gym class on Oct. 29. The Franklin center, a four-year varsity performer, will be in a cast for a month and then undergo physical therapy.

"I just dunked it, came down the wrong way, and rolled it," he said. "It's worse than I originally thought. But I'd like to be ready for conference (Western Lakes) play."

Bauman is the first legitimate big man to play for the Patriots since All-Stater Kevin Kaseta led Franklin to a 22-4 record and a berth in the 1974 state Class A quarterfinals.

Kaseta went on to play at the University of Detroit with the likes of Terry Tyler, John Long and Terry Duerod.

This summer, Bauman was a member of the Motor City Mavericks, an AAU team which included Country Day's Shane Battier, who will sign with Duke; Redford Catholic Central's Marc McDonald, who will sign with Loyola of Chicago; Clarkston's Dane Fife and Garden City's Brad Buddenborg.

The Mavericks finished in the final four in four different tournaments including Virginia (first), Cincinnati (second), Las Vegas (third) and Washington D.C. (fourth).

"I basically relearned the whole inside game this summer," Bauman said. "Before I depended on my shot too much, but through the Mavericks and coach (Dan) Robinson (Franklin's new varsity coach), I've concentrated on going stronger to the basket and banging around inside."

Bauman, who has met ACT test score standards required by the NCAA, carried a 3.3 grade-point average last semester. He plans to study computer science and business.

Montero Sport may rate as best new truck on the road in 1997

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Riding along the twisting, turning road they still call The Apache Trail, you can see why scores of unsuspecting colonists were ambushed and killed by Native Americans.

If you would have traveled in a 1997 Mitsubishi Montero Sport back then, however, it would've been a whole different story. This all-new sport utility vehicle from Mitsubishi can take anything you can throw at it. This is a go anywhere, versatile and flexible vehicle that has the fine refinements of a grand touring car.

This Montero Sport is a departure for Mitsubishi, a company known for its higher-volume Eclipse, Mirage and Galant. The bigger and older Montero, the company's full-size sport utility vehicle, is expensive and has never been seen as a volume vehicle by anybody.

But the new Montero Sport is smaller than the Montero and is classified as a compact sport utility. It has the look, feel, ride and comfort of a large sport ute and even has many of the amenities of a large SUV.

Styling is very smart. From its aggressive front grille and stance to its distinctive rear taillamp treatment, the Montero Sport looks like it can't be tamed. But slip behind the wheel, and you'll feel totally different.

The interior is very user friendly and not at all confusing. Everything's in plain view and easy to reach, You can tell this vehicle was designed for the U.S. consumer.

"Research told us that sport utility buyers wanted the ability to go anywhere in their SUV, yet still expected impeccable on-road manners," said Michael Krebs, manager of product strategy for Mitsubishi. "Our goal was to develop a practical vehicle to take the kids to and from school on the weekdays and a family project and vacation vehicle on days off."

Montero Sport does that, and research shows that although 90 percent of today's sport utility buyers want an SUV to be capable of off-roading, only a fraction of those buyers actually go off-road.

And why should they? Here you're spending upwards of $30,000 — or even $50,000 — for an SUV and you're going to scratch it up — or worse — by off-roading in it? Yeah, right.

Mitsubishi engineers called the Montero Sport "civilized ruggedness." That it has. It is fully off-road capable, but it has the ride, performance and handling of a fine passenger car and is actually a better value than the Montero in many respects, even though it costs less.

You don't have any problems with room in the Montero Sport. Headroom, hiproom and legroom are quite adequate for the rotund or the tall. Even though there are assist grips for all passengers — even rear — you won't have any trouble getting in and out of the Montero Sport.

The Montero Sport is available in either 2WD or 4WD and you have two engines to choose from: A 2.4-liter single overhead cam 16-valve 4-cylinder (132 horsepower) on the base ES model or a 3.0-liter single overhead cam 24-valve V6 engine (173 horses) on the LS and XLS models.

Driving both, you'll see a bit of improvement in the V6's performance. If you're planning to do any hauling, plan on the V6 and outfit it with the trailer package. Towing capability on the 2.4-liter is 2,300 pounds, while the V6 can lug 5,000.

Both engines can be mated to a 5-speed manual or electronically controlled 4-speed automatic.

The first thing my 3-year-old asks when she gets in one of my test cars is: "Where are the cupholders?" There's no shortage on the Montero Sport. It has a whopping 12 cupholders strategically placed throughout the cabin.

The ES model's rear seat is a full folding bench. On the LS and XLS models, there is a 60/40 split folding rear seat. The base also folds forward, allowing the rear seats to fold flat. The front headrests can be removed and the front seats recline all the way back and can be used as a bed.

There are storage areas all around, including the traditional glove box, a box in front of the automatic shifter, console storage under the center armrest, two in the rear cargo area, two in the rear quarter panels, two in-floor storage areas and an accessory socket is on the right quarter panel as well.

Standard on all models is an overhead console unit complete with clock, map lamps, garage door opener, sunglass holder and a magnetic access card holder. If you opt for the sunroof, you'll still get an overhead console with clock, map lamps and sunroof controls.

On the safety side, dual airbags are standard, but ABS is an option. There are skid plates standard on all models.

The rear hatch is designed to flip out and a tailgate comes down. You can also choose whether to have the outside store your tire or have it equipped with the spare under the cargo area. Both rear treatments are radically different. I liked it with the outside tire storage. It just looked more SUV-like.

Mitsubishi has a winner in the Montero Sport because it offers sensible transportation for everyday driving and is a lot of fun if you really do go off-roading.

It may be the best new truck on the road this year, and with a base price of $17,700, the Montero Sport should sell well — especially where buyers are smart and sophisticated, as they are in Detroit's northern suburbs.

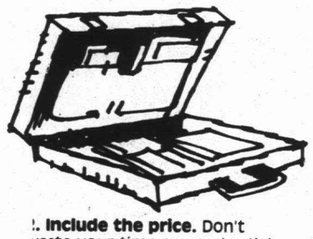
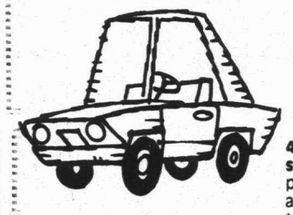
WRITE IT AND REAP!

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!



2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.



4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.
