Sacha hopes to find enough qualified members in Canton to open a local American Legion Post. Most Canton veterans currently belong to posts in neighboring communities. An organizational meeting is planned for 1 p.m. Saturday, April 11, at the Canton Public Library.

Members wanted: Henry

The American Legion wants you. Area veterans are trying to establish Canton's first American Legion post and only 15 new people are needed for the township to qualify. That shouldn't be too hard considering Canton has nearly 70,000 residents

"We have only about 10 percent of the eligible veterans in our organization," according to Canton resident Henry J. Sacha, American Legion alternate national committeeman working with state commander John M. Mella to increase membership throughout the state.

"Canton Township, in addition, a growing metropolis, must have numerous residents eligible for membership in the American Legion," Sacha said.

Since there isn't a local post, some residents belong to groups in area communities, like Plymouth and Westland. The national organization identified 66 Canton residents who are assigned to the headquarters post in Lansing, which means they are dues-paying members, but they don't attend meetings at a specific post.

The only requirement for eligibility in the American Legion is to have served in active duty during war time and to have received an honorable discharge.

"We won't get many people from World War I," Sacha said. Time of service

A developer's request for $3.2 million in Downtown Development Authority money to kick-start the planned mega-mega devel-opment at Ford Road and I-275 is meeting some resistance.

Canton's Down-town Development Authority isn't sold yet on a partnership with private backers of a $150 million mega-development at the southeast corner of I-275 and Ford Road.

In fact, the DDA may not have the extra $3.2 million in bond capacity to get the project off the ground.

A multiplex theater, several hotels, restaurants, retail center and apartment complex are proposed for the 124acre site.

DDA members debated for two hours Wednesday whether to kick in $3.2 million in public assistance. Burton Katzman Development Company would use the money for an interior roadway network and waterway management system.

The issue was tabled once again, despite a recommendation from a DDA subcommittee to go ahead with the financial contribution.

"At first blush I was against this... But this site is going to do nothing but hop," said DDA member David Khoury.

The Bad Frog Tavern will face Michigan Avenue in the place of a previously-planned Happy Days restaurant, owned by Jonathan B. Pub. The commercial area is bordered by Michigan, Geddes and Canton Center where First Federal Bank, Dunkin' Donuts/Baskin Robbins and Metro Power Sports are located. The national restaurant chain is known for serving up Cajun-style food and Bad Frog Beer, which is the catalyst for the taverns. The beer label includes a drawing of a frog making a one-finger salute.

Area residents will be able to take advantage of a variety of free and low-cost health screening services from simple blood pressure checks to a variety of preventative lab procedures. Health stations throughout the building will be open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The stations are staffed by medical professionals and community volunteers

This is the second year Canton has hosted a Health-O-Rama site, one of dozens throughout southeastern Michigan during April and May. The statewide project is run by United Health Organization, part of the United Way.

Local sponsors are Canton Township, the Canton Chamber of Commerce, Saint Joseph Mercy Health System and the Observer Newspapers

"It fits in well with the Summit because most of what we do is health- and fitness-oriented," said Debra Bilbrey-Honsowetz, Summit manager

St. Joseph Mercy, meanwhile, provides many of the medical experts staffing health stations, some coming from the health care provider's new building adjacent to the Summit.

Little wants district administrators and the school board to take a look at moving the E.J. McClendon Educational Center in Plymouth, as well as the bus transportation yard on Lilley Road. to the Centennial Educational Park in Canton, where the high schools are located.

Between them, the school district's main office and transportation facilities house about 70 employees.

Other a ripple effect caused by the job transfers, Canton won't see much in the way of new revenue with the changes, Supervisor Tom Yack said Friday. School property doesn't count on the township's tax roll.

"They're (school officials) in a better position to know whether it's the right thing to do in terms of making things more efficient," Yack said. "But the effect on Canton will really be pretty negligible."

Little also announced plans to seek a bond issue for construction of a new middle school on at Hanford and Canton Center roads. The building would be the first middle school in Canton, which is by population the district's largest community.

When Lucy Morris began teaching for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, "Ike" Eisenhower was in the White House, Lakepointe Village in Plymouth Township was sprouting up and the Cold War chilled relations between Soviet republics and the United States.

After a 40-year tenure that included John F. school had "a great location."

Gains anticipated

Although the district would be vacating some of its Plymouth space, city officials believe the changes could result in some gains for that community as Little's proposals include looking at alternatives for Central Middle School, a facility which was built in 1919. The district could decide to replace the building, renovate, or close it down.

While most board members spoke in favor of studying the proposal, trustee Roland Thomas cautioned against alienating residents of Plymouth ... especially if it were determined Central Middle School would be closed.

"I would hope that would be a process involving the City of Plymouth," said Thomas. "There is a significant impact this could have. And quite frankly, whether it's real or perceived, think it's important that constituency is real clear. We can't abandon their needs for use of those facilities.

School district officials say many of the proposals may take as long as 10 years to implement, if the plans proceed as designed.

Plymouth City Manager Steve Walters noted, if it does happen, there could be a great opportunity for the land-locked city to put more property on the tax rolls, as well as increase recreational facilities.

"It's not like Plymouth wouldn't still be part of the district," said Walters. "Right now all that property is tax-exempt, and other uses would increase our tax base.'

Least impact

Walters believes the McClendon Educational Center on Harvey Street and the bus yard would have the least impact on residents, and a positive effect for the city.

"The school office building approved by district voters last would most likely be turned into some sort," said Walters. "It would then contribute to the tax rolls."

Downtown Development Authority Director Steve Guile said "that property could also be used for a corporate office., or maybe even high density residential.

The bus yard presents a number of possibilities for the city.

"There are a lot of opportuni ties at the bus yard, especially since there's not much on the property now," Walters said. "It could be commercial, industrial, or maybe even some residential." Walters told the Observer there has always been some interest in the recreational facilities at Central.

"Because of the age of the building, we've always known that something could eventually happen to it," he said. "Our real interest would be the recreational facilities, especially since the play field is adjacent to the Cultural Center. We're always looking for additional soccer and ball

Walters also believes the city might even be interested in saving the gymnasium and pool thereby increasing the city's recreational facilities.

Guile notes the parcel of land which houses Central "is an excellent piece of property, especially since it's next to the core of downtown. It's an excellent site for a condominium project, or maybe an apartment complex."

While city officials are envi sioning what could happen, they are quick to point out there are a lot of factors yet to be determined by school officials. "We're content to being a good neighbor to the school district," said Walters. "If they need to make those changes to make the district run more efficiently, then we can live with that.

could be a win-win situation." Unlike the growing townships around the city which have large tracts of yet-to-be-developed land, any piece of property in Plymouth is like a gold mine. Property that's only two o three acres is a golden opportunity for us, compared to our neighbors," said Walters. "We'll look at any changes ... not as anything negative for the city, only as potential opportunities."

next door. We participate because it fits in with our overall goal of being part of the community we serve," said Sally Bailey, site administrator for the Canton center

The hospital has helped staff ther Health-O-Rama sites over the years in several metro

Detroit communities, she said. Health-O-Rama officials originally approached Canton last year after the popular Westland Center site withdrew. The Sunday event drew about 180 participants. Overall, 28,349 people took advantage of Health-O-Rama services at 100 sites throughout Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, Sanilac, Lapeer, Livingston, Washtenaw, Genesee and St. Clair counties in 1997.

Local planners are hoping to crease participation this year holding Health-O-Rama on a Saturday and adding such serices as shuttle buses running om area housing complexes.

"I think the previous exposure f having hosted in once before will help. People will be more aware of Health-O-Rama and what we offer," Bilbrey-Hon-sowetz said. In addition to a variety of free tests - blood pressure, vision, height and weight – a number of lab evaluated screening tests will be offered for discounted fees. These include a 23-profile blood panel; ovarian cancer; prostrate cancer; ulcers; and ake-home test kits for colorectal cancer and HIV.

Osteoporosis (bone density) creening will also be available for a fee Health-O-Rama also offers free ounseling and referral services for men's and women's health issues, mental health, nutrition and medication. Organizers hope to offer dental and podiatry services through local health care providers. And if you're in good health but just a little stressed, you can

With shuttle, all roads lead to Health-O-Rama

Can't get to Canton's Project Health-O-Rama? Well, depending on where you live, Health-O-Rama may come to you. Organizers of this year's event are planning a daylong shuttle service from area senior complexes, mobile home parks and the Canton Commons apartments on Haggerty. Two vans, donated by Enterprise Rent-A-Car, will make continuous loops around the township beginning at 10 Pointe mobile home parks; a.m. Saturday, April 25. Free rides will be offered to and from Summit on the Park for health screening services.

"The idea is to make sure that everybody who has a need or who wants to get to Health-O-Rama can, regardless of whether they have their own transportation said Debra Bilbrey-Honsowetz, Summit manager.

Preliminary plans call for one route covering the eastern portion of Canton and a second on the west side. Tentative stops include the Canton Place, Waltonwood and Fellows Creek senior apartments; Royal Holiday and Academy Canterbury Mews and Canton Commons apartments.

Kids learn lessons for life

eather Hughesian, a sixth-grader at Central Middle School, couldn't have chool, couldn't have been happier if there was a dance scheduled Wednesday afternoon at the school gymnasium.

The only thing that could top the music she heard was the instruction given by coach Steve Moreland, the director of campa and clinics for the Detroit Pis-Moreland was there giving a Team Player Basketball Clinic, which is part of the Pistons' Partner Program. The 1 1/2-hour session is a followup to a Jam Session the Pistons had for the entire Central Middle School student body earlier this year. The Pistons also had a Central Middle School Night at a recent game at the Palace as part of the program Playing on the jam box as the Central Middle School students entered the gym was Space Jam, a series of songs from a science fiction movie about Michael Jordan and friends Bugs Bunny and Marvin the Martian. "Marvin the Martian - he's the best," said Hughesian, whose love for Space Jam equals her love for basketball.

The series of drills and instructions given by Moreland were just as inspiring. Moreland teaches the students shooting, ballhandling, passing and defensive drills in an entertaining, yet nformative manner He stresses winning attitudes first and doesn't just have the students going through the motions. He makes them sweat. "It's the bomb," Hughesian said. "He's enthusiastic and he makes me work hard. I like to work hard." Even the defensive drills were fun, her friend, Renee Cline, a sixth-grader, added. Moreland even had the attention of a student on the injured list - Pat Cox, who couldn't participate because he was on crutches, the result of a hockey njury Cox still received his Pistons' shirt, an autographed picture of star Grant Hill and a certificate of participation for showing.

"He's out here injured, let's hear it for him," Moreland said as the students gathered around at the end of the clinic.

Moreland and his wife and children lived in Plymouth in the early 1980s and he is familiar with the basketball staffs at Plymouth Canton and Salem high schools. He could see the interest in the sport starts in the middle schools

"By practicing in the sixth through eighth grades you put yourself in the position to play at

Salem and Canton and there is not any group of better group of coaches in one community than Bob Brodie and Fred Thomann (at Salem) and Bob Blohm and Danny Young (at Canton)," Moreland said. "I can already see young players committed at a young age. They must have visions of playing in varsity programs Moreland gives all facets of the game equal time but shooting is his specialty. Last fall, he worked with Hill on his shooting technique when the Pistons' star was struggling with his shot.

At the Jam Session, also led by Moreland, he talked to the Central student body about the mportance of self-esteem, being a team player, reading ("read to succeed," he says) and keeping positive peers.

He reminded one of the students to wear his new shirt while working out - the words Team Player are etched across the front.

"What does 'Team' mean' Moreland asked. " 'Together Everyone Accomplishes More.' Moreland signed the backs of their new shirts as the students were getting ready to leave for "You don't have to kneel for me," said the 6-foot-5 Moreland, sitting in a chair. "I'll kneel for you because you're special.

S'craft eyes tuition hike

Schoolcraft College students can expect to see a $1 increase in tuition and fees this fall semester.

Since that increase falls below the rate of inflation, students can claim it as a tax credit.

College administrators proposed Wednesday to trustees that students who live in the district should be charged $54 per credit hour. That total includes a $1 student activity fee incorporated in the tuition total and an increase in the technology fee from $1 to $2 per credit hour.

This year they paid $53 total per credit hour, consisting of $51 in tuition fees, a $1 student activities fee and a $1 technology fee.

For an in-district student with 12 credits that means a total bill of $648, up from $636. The college district includes the school Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth-Canton and part of Novi school districts.

The $1 fee increase constitutes a 1.8 increase in total tuition and fees for resident students. "This is well below the 2.3 percent increase which the state has set as a limit to qualify for the Michigan college tuition tax credit," said Butch Raby, vice president of business services.

Students who live outside the district will pay $76, up from $75, per credit hour.

The tuition proposal was released with a $41.3 million budget for 1998-99. Trustees also scheduled a public hearing on the budget for 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 22, in the board's conference room in the administration building. The tuition rates will be set once the budget is approved along with the millage rate. Some of the budget highlights:

Raby predicts that enrollment will increase less than 1 percent.

The 1.8521 mills will generate nearly $16.5 million in property tax revenue, up 5 percent over last year's $15.7 million.

■ Gov. John Engler has proposed no increases for community colleges, Raby said, but the state House has proposed 1.5 percent.

Raby distributed a comparison of tuition at community colleges for the 1998-99 school year which showed a $2 increase at Henry Ford Community College to $53, a $1 hike at Macomb Community College to $53.50, and $1 increase at Washtenaw Community College to $53.

Ragan and Board President Patricia Watson commended Raby for his work on the budget, which holds the "base" tuition rates at the same level as last year.

Hearing set on college millage rate

The assessment for Schoolcraft College will cost taxpayers slightly more this year, but only from the growth in the taxable values of homes and businesses. The millage – which is used to

The college's board of trustees received news of the proposed rate Wednesday from Butch Raby, Schoolcraft's vice president for business services. That means a home with a sales value of $100,000 or a taxable value of $50,000 will pay $92.61 this year. "They should see about a 2.7 percent increase on their tax bills, so if they paid $100 last year, it will be about $102.70," Raby said.

The Schoolcraft district includes the school districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth-Canton and part of Novi school district.

The college board of trustees has to meet state statutory obligations on the budget and taxation, so they approved Wednesday a resolution of "an intent to levy the full 2.27 mills ... as may be modified" by provisions under the Headlee Amendment, which limits increases of property tax collections by governmental units to inflation. Headlee and the increase in taxable values of homes will roll back the millage to 1.8521, according to estimates.

The millage will be set after a public hearing on the $41.3 million budget. Trustees scheduled the budget hearing for 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 22.

The college's state equalized valuation for the entire district is estimated at $8.94 billion for 1998-99.

County library for disabled moves to Westland April 1

Wayne County's Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped moves Wednesday, April 1, from its Van Born Road location in Wayne to a new facility in Westland.

Patrons will find several advantages to the new location:

The building is located on the more accessible Michigan Avenue, meaning patrons can use public transportation to get to the library.

A separate room is set up for patrons to work with computers and adaptive equipment.

The 120,000 "Talking Book" tapes will now be more conveniently stored on movable shelving

ing. "We're ready for the next century with this building," said Edward McNamara, Wayne County executive. "I am pleased we are able to upgrade services to the many residents who rely on them. And everyone should be reminded that the service is free."

The new office, a one-story red-brick building, located at 30555 Michigan Ave., across from the Kay Beard Building near Merriman Road, is a former credit union. The 7,500square-foot building will house seven librarians and five student assistants.

Residents of Wayne County who are unable to read standard printed materials as a result of a permanent or temporary visual or physical disability qualify for service. This includes individuals who are unable to hold or turn pages of print books.

Persons with reading disabilities qualify if they are certified as having a physical disability by a medical doctor.

Both individuals and organizations, such as schools and nursing homes, may enroll in the Talking Book program. The library also has 200 descriptive videos available. A narrator describes what is happening; closed captions indicate the dialogue.

How people apply: The Wayne County Regional Library staff will be glad to send residents an application for enrollment in the program. Residents complete the application and have it signed by a "certifying authority" and mail it to 30555 Michigan Ave., Westland, Mich. 48186.

Persons who are visually or physically disabled may have the application signed by a doctor, optometrist, visiting nurse, counselor, etc. Persons who are reading-disabled must have the application signed by a doctor of medicine or osteopathy.

"The layout at our new building is so much better," said Pat Klemens, Wayne County librarian. "We plan to hold a grand opening soon to show the public just what a great facility it is."

To request an application, call (734) 727-7300 or call toll-free at 1-888-968-2737.

Choose chicken for quick, easy nutritious meals hicken is mild flavored, easy to digest, quick and easy to fix, economical, tastes good, and is good for you. Chicken is served around the world. It is the meat of choice for Mexico, France, Italy, Spain, Russia, Japan, China, India, West Africa, and the United States.

There are endless ways to cook and serve chicken. Unfortunately, every once in awhile, the safety of eating chicken makes headline news.

There are two types of bacteria that we usually associate with raw chicken: salmonella and campylobacter. These organisms can be killed by heat or their growth inhibited by refrigeration.

Always cook chicken thoroughly. The juices should run clear, not pink. On a meat thermometer, white meat should register 170°F and dark meat 180°F. If you don't have a meat thermometer, cook the chicken until it's "falling off the bone."

Storage

Chicken is very perishable and should be kept refrigerated or frozen. When buying chicken, choose packages with little or no liquid on the bottom. Avoid buying any chicken where the package is torn: If the bird has not been stored airtight, it has probably lost moisture. Just-bought chicken can be stored in the refrigerator for about two days. Always place a plate or tray under refrigerator-stored chicken to stop the possible dripping juices from contaminating other food.

If you find that you can't use the chicken in two days, freeze it. Maximum freezer storage time for wellwrapped chicken is one year (for uncooked) and six months for cooked chicken dishes.

Never defrost a chicken on the countertop at room temperature. Place the stil-wrapped chicken in the refrigerator to thaw. Whole frozen chicken will require 12 to 16 hours to thaw; Pieces will need four to nine hours. If you have planned ahead when you initially froze the chicken and packaged only what you needed or packaged pieces separately, you can cook the chicken frozen without thawing. Add 15 to 30 minutes additional cooking time for frozen chicken dishes hen Char Kerman and her family gather to celebrate Passover, which begins at sundown on Friday, April 10, Pineapple Kugel is one of the dishes they'll pass to one another.

"It's a recipe my mother always used when I was younger," said Kerman who recently moved to Clarkston from Bloomfield Hills. "It could be served for dessert, it's very light."

Kerman and her family, husband Brian, and three grown children, Sean, Staci and Jodi, will be together for Passover. "I set a beautiful Seder table," she said. "We have the traditional Seder plate with bitter herbs, shank bone, charosis, parsley, roasted egg, and salt water."

There will be matzah and a cup of wine for Elijah, and they will retell the story of Passover - which commemorates the liberation of the Jewish people from Egyptian slavery, and exodus of the Jews of Israel from Egypt. Seder means "order" of the service. It is a ceremonial dinner marked by the retelling of the story of the Exodus from Egypt through prayers, songs and ceremonial foods.

Charosis, a sweet mixture of chopped apples, nuts, cinnamon and wine, symbolizes the mortar made to hold together the bricks the Jews produced while slaves in Egypt. Karpas is a green vegetable, usually parsley or celery used to symbolize spring and renewal. It is tipped in salt water, which symbolizes the tears of the Jews in Egypt. A roasted or hard-boiled egg is placed on the plate as a token of grief for the destruction of the temple in Jerusalem. A special cup of wine is placed on the Seder table for the prophet Elijah, the messenger who will foretell the coming of the Messiah. During the service, there is a time when the door of the house is opened and Elijah is invited to enter. During their Seder, the Kermans will read the Haggadah, which means "the telling" of the story or narrative. The head of the houseves as the leader of the Seder, directing the reading of the Haggadah. Everyone present participates. No leavened bread is eaten during Passover, and certain other foods containing yeast or other leaving agents are forbidden by Jewish law to be eaten at this time. In their haste to leave Egypt, there was no time for bread to rise.

If you have to cut up a chicken, wash your hands before and after touching the bird. Wash the cutting board, utensils and work area with hot soapy water. Any of the juices or bacteria from your hands or equipment could be spread to other foods. Be very cautious and very clean when fixing chicken. Never marinade chicken on the kitchen counter; Always marinade in the refrigerator. Throw the marinade away or, if you plan to serve it, boil it thoroughly. Better yet, make a new batch that does not have any of the raw chicken juices in it. Always rinse the chicken before cooking

Cooking chicken in the microwave does not kill harmful salmonella and other bacteria. The reason is that microwave ovens heat food through molecular friction. This leaves the surface temperature too uneven to kill bacteria.

Cook the chicken in a regular oven at 350°F until the meat thermometer reads the right temperature or until the juices run clear. When cooking chicken, remember that white meat cooks more quickly than dark.

Fat savings

There is a fat savings if the skin of chicken is removed. Chicken skin is almost pure saturated fat, so removing it cuts the fat almost in half. Poultry is a good source of the B vitamins, zinc, magnesium, and a high-quality protein food. Chicken is a shortfibered meat, and that makes it easy

Simplicity is the beauty of "Pomodoro Veneziana," Ristorante Cafe Cortina's Venetian style, garden fresh tomato sauce now available at the restaurant, and local specialty markets.

This is the sauce I remember waking up to Sunday mornings," said Rina Tonon who owns Cafe Cortina, an elegant Northern Italian restaurant in Farmington Hills. "It's so Italian. My mother would begin making it early in the morning.

Customers have been asking the Tonons to bottle and sell their tomato sauce for years.

Adrian, Rina's son, got interested in the concept of bottling and marketing the family's tomato sauce. and did some research. One of the people he talked to was Jim Hiller of Hiller's Market, who encouraged him to develop the product.

About the competition

In its third year, the Michigan Culinary Food & Wine Extravaganza, attracted 800 foodies ooking to sample food and wine pairings created by Metro-

Detroit's top chefs. The event, held annually at Mac & Ray's harborfront restaurant in Harrison Township, benefits the Michigan Culinary Team and Scholarship Fund. This year's event raised more than $50,000.

The goal is to provide funding for Metro Detroit high school and trade school students who plan to pursue a culinary educaion at the college level," said Birmingham restaurateur Norm LePage, who has been instrumental in planning the Food &

Clean out, restock medicine cabinet

With the cold and flu season just about behind us, now might be a good time to clear the clutter in your medicine cabinet. "It's amazing how fast a stock-pile of medicine can grow, especially over the winter months," said Christyne Lawson, M.D., family practice physician at Providence Hospital. "But you can easily and inexpensively be ready for any minor injuries or illnesses by getting rid of expired medicines and stocking the shelves with the ssentials that every home needs."

Lawson says that all prescription and over-the-counter medicines, including creams and ointments, that have passed their expiration date or are not in their original containers have probably lost their effectiveness and should be discarded. Also, medications not clearly labeled should be thrown away because they could be mistaken for something else.

Lawson suggests the following items for all household medicine cabinets: Band aids, bandages, gauze and tape in various sizes; antibiotic ointment; ther-

INJURED CARE CAN BENEFIT LEARNING PROPER

FIRSE AID 101

he fundamental idea of first aid is the initial administration of care following an injury or illness. And while everyone isn't a nurse or paramedic, there are some basic measures that can be taken immediately to benefit the victim before professional medical attention can be sought. One of the most important considerations is to remain calm. Thorough actions can mean the difference between stabilizing the patient or causing further harm. Performing first aid procedures in a panicked state increases your risk of misjudgment and does nothing to reassure the victim.

Livonia dispatcher Fran Toth said remaining composed when calling 911 quickens the process and helps medical personnel en route be more knowledgeable of the situation. "If people are getting hysterical we tell them 'You have to calm down,' said Toth a 12year veteran of the dispatching department.

Toth said having information of the victim's condition is important as the dispatcher will need to know if the individual is conscious or breathing — then make an assessment if intervention (such as CPR, Heimlich maneuver) is necessary

When it comes to first aid for the treatment of minor and common injuries, there are many misconceptions about remedies that actually hinder the healing process. According to Lt. Clint London, Garden City Fire Department paramedic, basic first aid can be administered following an injury or illness prior to the arrival of professional help. London also encourages persons to take a first aid and/or CPR course through their local American Red Cross, American Heart Association chapter or hospital to improve their understanding of practical medical treatments.

Minor burns

One of the most popular misunderstandings about burns is that butter or oil can be administered to soothe the pain from a minor burn. False. London said butter, oils, grease, ointments and lotions are not a good idea because they might induce nfection and be more painful. Also, ice and burns don't mix. The ice won't do anything for the pain but make it worse. First, make a determination as to the degree of the burn and whether you should call 911. As with any injury or illness, paramedics, emergency medical technicians and hospital personnel are trained to care for the sick and should be contacted if you are unsure about a course of action. Get help mmediately.

However, if the injury is minor you can take some degree of intervention, then seek medical attention from your primary physician, hospital or urgent care facility.

The symptoms of a burn include redness, pain and swelling. Typically, the skin will become moist and oozing blisters will appear within several hours. Carefully remove clothing from the burned area if it isn't stuck to the skin. Flush with cool water, cover the burn with sterile bandages and seek medical attention. London, a 10-year veteran of the Garden City Fire Department, said one of your biggest worries relating to burns is the danger of infection. Thoroughly wash your hands with soap, avoid coughing on the affected area and bandage the burn with loose, sterile dressings (not adhesive bandages). Avoid putting pressure or causing friction to the burn and do not disturb blistered skin.

Minor cuts Minor cuts typically show signs of pierced skin with bleeding and pain. If the cut is deep and bleeding appears heavy, apply gentle but firm pressure and call 911. If the cut is minor, bleeding should cease in a short me. Apply pressure to the area and rinse thoroughly with mild soap and water. Make an effort to keep the soap out of the cut to avoid further irritation. Apply a sterile bandage and follow up with a physi-

ian, depending on the severity of the cut. London said the use of tourniquets to stop blood flow actually puts the victim in danger because the device cuts off circulation and blood flow - possibly leading to the loss of a limb. "In my years on the job I have never once had to use a tourniquet," said London. "Tourniquets are used in last resort situations." London instead suggests direct pressure be applied to the wound and elevation. If the cut is on the arm or leg raise the wounded area higher than the heart to slow bleeding. Bandages should be changed regularly to keep the area clean and dry during the healing process.

Electric shock

Symptoms of electric shock caused by exposure to an electrical current include burns at contact points, muscle spasms, unconsciousness and difficulty breathing. Call for help immediately. If the source of the electricity has not been turned off do not touch the victim with your bare hands. The body can conduct electricity from one person to another. Insect bites/stings

Indications of a bite or sting include itching, redness, pain and swelling. If the victim is allergic and having difficult breathing and swallowing, call 911. I there is no known allergy attempt to gently remove the stinger (do not squeeze area of bite or sting with tweezers). Wash with soap and lukewarm water and apply a cold compress. Follow up with a physician. Monitor the site for the next 24 to 48 hours for nfection (inflammation, pain, redness). Seek additional medical treatment if necessary.

Broken bones Evaluate the severity of the broken limb including whether bone is protruding through the skin. Seek medical attention right away. If no bones are showing, find the position of comfort or create a homemade splint to secure the arm in hopes of minimizing the bones from moving together. If bone has broken through the skin, make sure the victim is as comfortable as possible until help arrives and cover the open area with a sterile bandage. Do not breathe or cough on an open air wound.

Poisoning

Call 911 and poison control (1-800-POISON-1) if you suspect poisoning. The Poison Control Center will advise you on a course of action. Be prepared to tell the center, if you know, what the victim consumed that led to the poisoning. Symptoms can include unconsciousness, convulsions, difficulty breathing, sweating, vomiting and diarrhea. Poison Control might advise you to collect vomit and urine if possible for testing by the hospital. Remain calm when speaking to the Poison Control Center to expedite treatment. Poisons act fast and you should, too. Shock Shock, a life-threatening and deteriorating condition, is the effect of any sudden disturbance or agitation of the mind or emotions that can lead to very low blood pressure and the rapid shut-down of the body's vital functions. London said shock can occur from a traumatic disturbance and stress following an injury or accident. "If someone goes into shock that's an indication something is seriously wrong," said London, who advised getting help immediately. Symptoms of shock can include pale, clammy skin; general weakness; rapid, shallow breathing; rapid, weak pulse; and confusion caused by the loss of blood and body fluids (due to hemorrhage, burns, dehydration, severe vomiting, diarrhea). Other causes:

Severe pain, heart attack, toxicity (blood poisoning), spinal injuries, overwhelming fear. Intervention is necessary to treat a shock victim until medical help arrives. Depending on the severity of other injuries, control bleeding and treat the victim by having him/her lay back with legs elevated. If you suspect a head or back injury, do not move the victim. Keep the victim warm and comfortable and monitor breathing and pulse rate. Remain calm Just as important as a smoke detector, flash light, and fire extinguisher can be to your safety so too are first aid kits. Many area stores and medical supply retailers sell prearranged kits that include many necessary items for basic first aid in the event of minor injuries. No kit should ever take the place of calling 911 if you are unsure about an illness or injury.

However, a first aid kit can include several items (see chart) to treat minor injuries. In the event of an injury or illness remember to check the victim for a Medic Alert bracelet for a pre-existing condition, allergy or illness. This is important to know when calling 911, as is remaining calm. The Livonia dispatcher said special dire tions about the victim's location should be relayed to the dispatcher including if doors to a residence are locked or specifically where the victim can be found (upstairs, basement, backyard, vehicle, etc.) to benefit the rescue team. Basic first aid should never take the place of treatment by a physician or professional med-ical personnel. Keep in mind first aid has its limitations. London said 911 should be con tacted if you are unsure about anything to

Seinfeld-mania, television devotee sites clog cyberspace

B8

Seinfeld MIKE mania has captured cyberspace.

Start with the site that bills itself as the "Seinfeld-est Spot on the Internet" (http://www.seinfeldiest.com/). As soon as you log on, you start hearing a MIDI sound file of the shows theme song. From there, you can move to a downloadable archive of tiny little video clips from some of the favorite episodes.

world episodes. trans-

The site is filled with trivia from the show, including an interactive quiz about silly moments from past shows or bizarre relationships between characters. But where most of the action is these days is on the 'Say it Isn't So!" section that details the latest news about the final episode and what may or may not happen to the stars.

Also found here is bogus synopsis of the yet-to-be-taped final episode called "The End." While the online script is not bad and indeed did fool a lot of Seinfeld fans for a couple weeks, it is, insist show producers a fake.

Think this is a bit much? There's a whole web ring (http://www.seinfeldiest.com/ring s/rings.html) of related sites devoted to the sitcom. At last count, there were links to no less than 49 other sites. Among some of the more unusual:

A fan's online "Shrine to infeld S е

There are even more sites devoted to The X Files. My count with the Alta Vista search engine returned almost 300 sites devoted to that show of the bizarre. Try Fox's site (http://www.thex-files.com/) for the official line - just do a

Another show with an amazing cult following on the Internet is Mystery Science Theatre 3000, or MST 3K as it's referred to on the Net. This wacky take off of bad science fiction flicks airs on the Sci-Fi Channel on cable and has over 200 sites. The official site can be found at http://scifi.com/mst3000/.

The multimedia capabilities of the Web are also heavily utilized by these TV sites. My favorite online source for audio files and sound clips is called The Sound A rchiv (http://www.betabase.com/sound s/).

And if you want to capture your own sounds, there's a Web site (http://www.dancopublishing.com/x-files/howto.htm) that shows you how to do that, too.

Here are some of the more specialized and unusual. Sites devoted to television shows.

Cop TV Shows from the Mining Company (http://coptv.miningco.com/) - And you thought COPS was all there was? This site chronicles dozens of them, offers mailing lists and online bulletin boards.

LinxNet television Index (http://www.linxnet.com/tv.html) Whew! This is the most extensive program guide you'll find, linking you to detailed information about almost every program out there.

TV Game Shows of the W 0 r 1 (http://www.dcs.qmw.ac.uk/~chid gey/Humour/GameShow.html) -This is a British site that describes mythical game show offerings from other countries and manages to spoof all game shows everywhere.

Freshwater Fishing Shows (http://fishing.miningco.com/libr ary/weekly/aa060997.htm) - I had to include this because, well, I had absolutely no idea that there is so much cable space that there are currently more than a dozen shows devoted to ... fishing. My favorite name? "Go Fish," which airs in Georgia.

There was a survey that came out in this week's edition of Advertising Age magazine that measured the dramatic effect the Internet was having on television viewing. Nearly 22 percent of the 100,000 Web users surveyed by investment bank Hambrecht & Quist and ad network LinkExchange said they regular-ly sacrifice TV for surfing time.

Another survey I read last fall said the average Net surfer cuts their weekly TV viewing by six hours. I wonder how many of them are scrolling through TV sites on the Web.

SHOP CREDENTIALS: The State of Michigan requires two things as a minimum in order to perform automotive repairs. First, the shop must have a repair registration number with the state. Second, any technicians performing automotive repair within that shop must be state licensed. The state has eight categories for automotive repair licensing. A technician that is licensed in all eight categories is called a "Master Technician." Although the state mandates and requires technician licensing, this does not necessarily mean the repair shop has the qualifications to repair your vehicle.

In my opinion, you should find a repair symbol. 455 This symbol stands for Automotive Service Excellence. The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence was founded in 1972 as a non-profit, independent entity dedicated to improving the quality service and repair through the voluntary testing of automotive technicians. Shops that display and hire ASE technicians are within the highest degree of certifications within our country.

GOOD REFERENCES: Talk with people you know and ask them if they could recommend a shop. Ask them whether they were satisfied with the work they had done and whether they feel they got value and good service for their money. You may also check with agencies such as the abetter Business Bureau, your state or local Consumer Affairs Department or Motor Vehicle Department to make sure the shop you select has no significant outstanding complaints against them.

CONVENIENT LOCATION: Whenever possible, deal with a local shop where the personnel will get to know you and your vehicle. Always try to find a shop that has abilities to repair any type of mechanical problem that may arise. Ideally, you would like to find a shop that can perform your oil changes and regular scheduled maintenance as well as replacing a motor or transmission if required. Lastly, if you find a shop that is not so geographically convenient, if they want your business, they will accommodate you to or from your home or workplace as good customer service.

FAIR PRICING: Find out your shop's hourly labor rate to get a general idea of the prices you can expect. In the Detroit Metro area, a fair labor rate will range from $60.00 to $70.00 per hour. A shop that employs ASE technicians may be at the higher end of the scale. Keep in mind that this is only a guide and it may be ultimately less expensive to pay a little more for the services of a more experienced technician at a better equipped shop. YOU GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR!

PROFESSIONAL APPEARANCE: A clean and orderly shop is a good indication that people take pride in their work. Employees should be in uniforms and the customer should never have a problem trying to determine who works there, along with persons being in charge.

CUSTOMER RELATIONS: To a great extent, your satisfaction will depend upon how well communication is relayed. Does the Service Advisor treat you with courtesy and listen to your explanation of why you are bringing your vehicle in? Do they make certain that they understand exactly what work you want done? Are they careful to ascertain how much you are willing to spend and when you need your vehicle? Do they offer you courtesy transportation? Do they clearly explain, in nonprofessionals' terms, what is wrong with your vehicle and choice if any? Is your vehicle returned washed and free of any grease marks?

These are just a few of many questions that should be addressed. Good customer relations also depend upon good record keeping in the sense that all questions about maintenance and warranties are easily dealt with by a shop where personnel have access to your vehicle's history. Again, this is the importance of dealing with just one shop. Ideally, a shop should have computerized customer records. In summary, a superior shop will educate their customers about what a truly professional service facility is all about. Then, and only then, the customer will realize what separates the paparazzi from everyone else.

Thompson along with two dozen other members of the Livonia Artists Club will exhibit their works Saturday-Sunday, April 4-5, in the lightfilled atrium of the Livonia Civic Center Library. The show is dedicated to club founder Olive Harrington, who died last year.

St. Genevieve Choir director Laverne Lieberknect agrees with the adage that music is universal. No matter what a person's race or creed, everyone understands the emotion written between the lines.

While working on a master's degree in choral conducting at Wayne State University in 1991, Lieberknect came up with the idea for the St. Genevieve Choir to present a Good Friday concert. Once the concerts became reality, Lieberknect's dream was to build a choir consisiting of singers from a multitude of religions and choral organizations to perform the annual program.

This year the St. Genevieve Interdenominational Festival Choir will present John Rutters "Requiem" with the Livonia Symphony Orchestra under conductor Volodymyr Schesiuk Friday, April 10. The singers represent more than 25 Lutheran, Catholic, Methodist and community choir groups from St. Genevieve, St. Michael's, Newburgh United Methodist Church, United the Livonia Civic Chorus, Christ the King Lutheran Church, Madonna University Chorale Singers, and Schoolcraft College, to name a few. "We decided to open up membership to anyone who wanted to sing," said Lieberknect. "We only get together about six weeks before the Good Friday concert. It truly is interdenominational and music is the international language.

Written in 1985 by Rutters, the 40-minute "Requiem" was not styled as a setting of a Requiem Mass (otherwise known as the Mass for he Dead) as laid down in Catholic liturgy. It was taken from several different texts including the Requiem Mass and the 1662 Common Book of Prayers. The seven sections form an arch-like meditation on themes of life and death. The first and last movements consist of prayers on behalf of humanity. Movement two and six are psalms. and three and five, personal prayers to Christ. The central Sanctus affirms the divine glory of Christ. When Lieberknect attended a music workshop with Rutters a few years ago, the composer revealed that he'd traveled to Paris to research Faure's "Requiem" before returning to Cambridge, England, to write his own. The choir has performed both requiems. This is the first time with a symphony orchestra. In past years, a chamber orchestra and harp provided accompaniment. "I think a lot of people come because it fits in with the Easter theme and makes Holy Week and Easter special," said Lieberknect. "And what makes this day concert attests to the choir's popularity and the commitment of its members. This is the fourth time, Bill Scruggs will sing Rutters "Requiem" with the choir. Scruggs joined the St. Genevieve Choir 39 vears ago.

"It's a very beautiful Requiem," said Scruggs of Livonia. "It's the beauty of the melody that's sort of haunting throughout the piece. It's a challenging piece of music, one of the more difficult ones because of the timing.

The setting for the "Requiem" is the 1300-seat St. Genevieve Church designed by architect Joseph St. Cyr. Livonia Symphony president Robert Bennett describes the church as "modest but elegant." The architecture gives a "warm feeling of being inside a giant parasol supported by massive wooden beams. The wide aisles and a gently sloping floor coupled with the unique ceiling/roof design creates an atmosphere of beauty and strength." According to Lieberknect, "because there's so much wood, the acoustics are just marvelous."

It's a piece of music that's not as depressing and maudlin as other requiems. It speaks of the spirituality of life. This could be a nice experience for people, much more emphasis on strings and woodwinds and very little brass. It's all in keeping with the time of year' In addition to the "Requiem" the orchestra will perform the first movement of William Albright's "Concerto for Harpsichord and clubs including the Visual Arts Ass ciation of Livonia, Farmington Artists Club, and Palette and Brush Club. So what sets the Livonia Artists Club apart for other area organizations of like minds?

"People enjoy the Livonia Artists Club because it's small and friendly and laid back," said Thompson. "For a small club, the Livonia Artists Club has many excellent, professional artists, and we have quite a few oil painters. Most clubs have a majority of watercolorists."

Spring collection: Dancers prepare to kick up a storm

Anne Bresler knew after the bright lights of Broadway cast their spell on her in third grade that theater and music were in her future.

She had gone to see the musical "Les Miserables." The dancing and singing proved so powerful that performing on the "big stage" has become the goal of this 15-year-old Churchill High School student.

In preparation for that day, Bresler rehearses several times a week for local performances. She along with the rest of the Dance Ensemble West company will present "Dance Collection -1998" Saturday, April 4, at Plymouth Canton High School's Little Theater.

The non-profit dance company's senior (ages 14-18) and junior (ages 10-14) divisions will perform an eclectic program encompassing everything from ballet to modern dance. All of the dancers study at Dance Unlimited of Plymouth

A senior company member, Bresler will dance the 11-minute modern ballet "A Simple Journey" set to the music of the Forrest Gump soundtrack, "Replaced By Everyday" to music by REM, and "The Roll Dance."

"I've always wanted to be a performer," said Bresler. "It's all I want to do. Dance Ensemble West has given me the opportunity to do that."

Bresler and Sarah Kwas, a fellow Dance Ensemble West member, have had a lot of late night rehearsals lately. Both are students in the Creative and Performing Arts program at Churchill High School and will dance in the allschool production of "42nd Street" April 2-4. They're also preparing with Dance Ensemble West to perform in the Michigan Youth Art's Festival May 7-9 in Kalamazoo. Dancers from all over Michigan recently adjudicated for the honor.

Bresler never seems to tire of the hectic schedule and neither does the 17-year-old Kwas, who plans to be an actress on Broadway Kwas will dance four numbers with Dance Ensemble West's senior company and by herself in "Fusion." She describes the choreography of the solo number as "an upbeat jazzy style of dance with ballet steps to

"I'm all right as long as I eat right and get a lot of sleep," said Kwas, a dancer since age 4. "I always want to dance. Dance lets me express myself. I love to perform."

Nine-year-old Rebecca Birman is looking forward to dancing with Dance Ensemble West's junior company for the first time. Her favorite number on the "Dance Collection" program is "I

BOOKS

Almost everyone in town knows about Sparkv Anderson, the winningest manager in Detroit Tiger histo Now with the book folks can get a glimpse into the values and thinking process of George Anderson, for whom Sparky is just a showbiz alter ego.

Anderson co-authored the book with Dan Ewald, a writer and Troy resident who formerly covered the Tigers as a sportswriter, then worked for the team as public relations director.

The book isn't specifically about baseball. It's a vehicle for Anderson to reveal a philosophy of life woven around some major events in his life. It's more a motivational book than a sports read. Ewald sets the stage in alternating chapters, then Anderson takes off in a first-person account that's pure Sparky. The thrust of the message probably reading along to Hillert's books each night. A few years after she began teaching in the late 1940s.

Hillert started "doodling" her own version of the "Three Bears" in a basic vocabulary. Her doodling turned into a series of primers for young readers, who learned about language while reading about playful bears, pigs and cats. Then, in the early 1960s, her first book written in the "Dick

Long before adults learned about cause and effect, empirical verification and the coherence theory of truth, there was simply a place called "the world." A place of wonder, mystery and enchantment. That was before adults

Funny bunnies hop into baskets at Eastertime

Hippity hoppity, Easter's on its way, April 12! If you've been hunting for things to put in kids' baskets, here are some ideas:

At the top of the list are Ty Beanie Babies. These soft, bean-filled critters are as popular as ever with boys and girls of all ages - even adults collect them. They won't rot teeth and make great stand-alone gifts or Easter basket

Enesco makes a line of pastel-colored, sbean-bag animals called Precious Moments Tender Tails. Some of the animals have already been retired. I found them for $7 each at McDevitt's Hallmark at Laurel Park Place in Livonia. Other Hallmarks carry them,

You can find bean-bag dolls of animated Disney characters at The Disney Store, for $6 each, some Warner Brothers characters at Jacobson's for $7 each, Rug Rats and Sesame Street characters at Crowley's for about $6 each, and a variety of bean-bag dolls at Target, $2.99 and up.

Just be careful about giving a beanfilled doll to any child under 3, because the beans could spill out and a child could choke on them, if the doll develops even a tiny tear.

If Beanies aren't your bag, then how about giving your child a famous bunny in the form of a book or stuffed animal. I know of seven (besides the Easter

There's Bugs Bunny, Winnie-the-Pooh's friend Rabbit, Buster from the popular "Arthur" books and PBS TV show, and the bunnies in the famous children's books, "The Velveteen Rabbit," "The Runaway Bunny," "Pat the Bunny," and "Guess How Much I Love You?" Look for these books at your favorite book store.

Try the Warner Bros. Studio Store for Bugs Bunny stuffed animals and The Disney Store for Pooh's Rabbit. I found Buster, Velveteen Rabbit and "Pat the Bunny" stuffed animals in the children's tment at Hudson's, and big "Runaway Bunny" stuffed animals for $15 at

You can buy a girl's handbag at Sears ($5 and up) and fill it with your child's favorite candy. (Now you can get big Reese's or Butterfinger chocolate bunnies! Mmm.) Most Hallmark stores sell Easter or

TRAVEL Zoo offers opportunities to explore Peru's rainforest

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAFF WRITER

The Detroit Zoo is offering some unusual travel opportuni-ties this year that will allow a traveler to visit an exotic location, experience high adventure and do a good deed.

As a result of an on-going primate census project in Peru, the zoo is seeking volunteers to help with an Adopt-a-School program to furnish supplies for schools along the Amazon River and its tributaries. The zoo also needs volunteers for its ongoing research and census programs.

Terry DeRosa, director of conservation and animal welfare at the zoo, said the primate census project began in 1993, first along the Rio Tapiche and then, also, along the Rio Napo. It is a joint project involving the Detroit and Dallas zoological parks, the Peruvian National University of the Amazon, Explorama Lodges, International Expeditions and Senor and Senora Roberto Rotondo

"When the river is high, you can paddle along and take a census from the trees, but when the water is low, it's hard to navi-gate the river," DeRosa said. "We wanted a second site along the Napo River which has the additional merit of having an Explorama lodge there, used by tourists who visit the rainforest. We use it as a research site and spend six months on the Rio Tapiche and six months on the Rio Napo."

The Adopt-a-School program was started in 1994 by teachers who were staying at the Explorama lodges and is co-sponsored by CONAPAC and the ACEER Foundation, two non-profit institutions working for the conservation of the Peruvian Amazon Rainforest

"People who have visited the lodge, many of them teachers, saw the schools didn't have information about conservation, it wasn't part of their curriculum and they didn't have school supplies," DeRosa said. "In Peru, they teach by a rote method. If they don't have paper, it makes it difficult for them to learn."

Each April, when the Peruvian school year begins, Adopt-a-School delivers supplies to the 256 schools in the region. A school classroom can be adopted for $300, which buys enough supplies for a year. In 1997, the program raised $14,000 for 2,200 school children.

The Detroit Zoo is seeking 15 volunteers to deliver supplies. Five volunteers will be needed for each of three weeks, April 11, 18 and 25. The cost of volunteering is $1,700 plus roundtrip airfare to Iquitos, Peru. Volunteers will stay at the Explorama lodge, organize supplies (notebooks, pencils, folders etc.), deliver supplies by boat and have time to explore the rainforest.

In addition to delivering supplies, the program also reinforces a conservation message. Increased hunting in the rainforest has endangered many primate species and other animals. The area has several primates (pygmy marmosets, saddleback tamarins, moustached tamarins, night monkeys, red titi monkeys, white-fronted capuchins and others).

"Working with the uakaris (red-faced, bald-headed monkeys), we found animals getting deeper into the forest because of increased hunting pressure," DeRosa said.

He said many of the larger primates such as taipirs and anteaters are already gone.

"In December I went down there to see what was going on." he said. "There was a lot of hunting pressure. People are moving along the river, more villages are popping up. People claim a stake of land. That's what they do for a living, they go into the forest to find food for their families or to take to market."

DeRosa said when he was there in December, he found one village where they had created a community garden behind the school to grow food and raise domestic animals such as guinea pigs as food in an effort to relieve some of the hunting pressures. They are also taking the conservation program seriously.

"The process of delivering the school supplies is a big ceremony," DeRosa said. Local dignitaries attend and

In August, the zoo will send down an expedition to study bird, reptile and amphibian populations in addition to primates. For that expedition, the zoo needs 12 volunteers for two weeks. The zoo, in cooperation with the Dallas Zoo, is currently surveying a 250,000-acre, sparsely populated area north of the Rio Tapiche and Rio Napo areas for possible recommendation to the Peruvian government that it be set aside as a nature preserve.

DeRosa said the zoo wants "to be part of the process.

Participation in these programs does not require special skills. The zoo will train volunteers. Whalers vs. Bulls

The stage is set.

The Plymouth Whalers opened Round Two of their Ontario Hockey League playoffs last night, hosting the Belleville Bulls. Because Belleville had earned the home ice advantage, but couldn't host the bestof-seven series opener due to a prior commitment in its arena, the arrangement is a bit peculiar.

The Whalers hosted the first game last night. Belleville will be the site of games two and three, Tuesday and Wednesday (all games start at 7:30 p.m.), with the series returning to Plymouth for game four Friday.

The other series games are on an "if necessary" basis. Game five is in Belleville next Sunday (April 5), with game six at Plymouth April 7 and game seven at Belleville April 8.

For ticket information, call (734) 453-8400.

New Crusaders

This fall, Madonna University will open its first-ever season in women's soccer. Among the first two Lady Crusaders to commit to Madonna are Jenny Barker, from Livonia Stevenson HS, and Jennifer Dumm, from Fraser HS

Barker was the starting keeper on Stevenson's 1997 state championship team, earning all-Western Lakes Activities Association and all-state honors for 1996 and '97. She is now in her fourth year on the Stevenson varsity. In addition, her Michigan Hawks '80 team has won four state titles and one regional title in her eight years as a member.

Dumm, from Fraser, was all-conference, all-county, all-region and honorable mention all-state last year. She participated in the Olympic Development Program in 1995-96 and has been a four-year starter on the Fraser varsity. She has also been on the allacademic team since her sophomore vear.

Spring hockey leagues

Registration is now underway for recreational Adult Spring Hockey Leagues.

The Plymouth Rockets (over 20), Plymouth Masters (over 40), Golden Eagles (over 50) and Lady Rockets hockey leagues are now accepting sign-ups.

Games will be played at the Plymouth and Suburban Training Center (in Farmington) arenas. There will be 12 games over six weeks.

To register, call John Wilson at (248)471-0658.

GIRLS TRACK PREVIEW

Canton keeps hopes soaring

Things go your way long enough, and pretty soon you start taking them for granted.

Sports & Kecreation

Like winning. Can anyone imagine Farmington Harrison's football team with a losing record? Of course not.

Perhaps the dynasty at Plymouth Canton in girls track wasn't quite to that scale yet, but entering last season it was up there. Three straight league championships - that's what the Chiefs had accomplished through 1996.

Then last year, disaster - well, sort of. Canton dropped all the way to third in the Western Lakes Activities Association. To make matters worse (at least for the Chiefs), Plymouth Salem finished first.

Are the good times over? Has Canton's program started an unstoppable slide toward mediocrity?

Whoaa there. Slow down. Let's not bury the Chiefs before the season even opens.

Yes, certain elements that have graced the Canton program through the years will be missing this season. Like numbers - coach George Przygodski has fewer than 45 on the team, which is small compared to the number of participants in the program's heyday.

Przygodski can offer no single reason for the decline, other than losses due to graduation. Others have just opted not to compete.

"We got hit hard by graduation," said Przygodski. "That group scored a lot of points for us.

"We've got a pretty young group of kids. We have some veteran athletes, but

Please see CANTON GIRLS, D2

Salem girls seeking a repeat

You lose two of your top scorers on the track, and your entire crew of throwers has graduated, too.

Sounds like trouble. Sounds like a rebuilding year.

Anywhere else, maybe. But not for Plymouth Salem's girls track team.

The defending Western Lakes Activities Association champions lost Lisa Maul, their top hurdler and sprinter, and Nicole Bolton, their best distance runner. Also gone are throwers Jessica Ash (winner of the shot put at the WLAA meet), Angie Smith (two-time state qualifier in both the shot and discus) and Sara Vida.

But, according to coach Mark Gregor, the throwing events were among the team's deepest events last season. "We're real optimistic about our depth in those events," he said.

Success should follow - particularly with sophomore Tiffany Grubaugh returning. Grubaugh was third in the discus and sixth in the shot at last year's WLAA finals.

Joining her will be junior Paula Tomlin. "She didn't get much of a chance to compete last year because of the depth we had at those events," said Gregor.

There are others, so many that the No. 3 slot in each event is still up for grabs.

The same can be said for the high jump, long jump and pole vault (yes, girls will compete in the pole vault this season). Sophomore Aisha Chappell and freshman Autumn Hicks will fill the top two high jump spots. "I think they'll both be in the five-foot range," predicted Gregor. Tiffany Reiber, a junior, is the current No. 3.

Wendi Leanhardt, a senior who scored in the long jump at the WLAA meet last year, returns. A promising newcomer is sophomore Brynne DeNeen, a former club gymnast who ided to give another sport a shot This is her first year in track. "I don't know what her peak will be, but she's extremely strong," said Gregor. Michelle Wallon, a senior, is the leader in the newest of the girls events, the pole vault. Since there is no pole vault pit at CEP, she and the other candidates for that event will do all their competing on the road.

country last fall. "She's gotten stronger," said Gregor. "I'm looking forward to seeing how well she does."

They'll both run the 100-meters and 200-meters. Other possibilities for those events are DeNeen, Hicks (whose father, Gary Hicks, ran track at Redford Bishop Borgess and at University of Michigan) and Kristen Boies, a junior who "has worked very hard and gotten to the point where she'll help us."

They'll run the 100, 200 and 400. Leading the middle distance corps is Katie Bonner, a senior who placed seventh in the state in the 800 last season, breaking the school record set by Sarah Hamilton (now at U-M).

Bonner will be joined by Annemarie Veracruysse, a junior who's "been very impressive," and three other juniors: Becky Phelan, Shannon Will and Erin Kelly. They help make "middle distance one of our strong points,", said Gregor.

Evelyn Rahhal, a senior, and Alyson Flohr, a freshman, will com-pete in the 800 and 1,600. Both look very impressive.

In the 3,200, senior Ellen Stemmer and sophomore Rachael Moraitis return. Both have varsity experience; Stemmer was fourth in the 3,200 at the WLAA finals.

Salem scored at state in the 4x800relay, and with three members of that team back, the Rocks should do so. again. The 4x400 relay should be tough, too.

But what about the rest of the WLAA? Can Plymouth Canton, winner of the previous three league titles before Salem prevailed last season, recapture the crown?

It's possible. "I think (Livonia) Stevenson is very strong," said Gregor. "And regardless of what George (Przygodski, Canton's coach) tells you, his team'll be competitive. They may not look good on paper, but they i be ready.

Celebrity golf

Helping boys and men with developmental disabilities by playing 18 holes of golf?

Sounds good. And anyone interested can do just that by signing up to play in the fourth annual St. Louis Center Celebrity Golf Outing Monday, June 29 at the Fox Hills Country Club in Plymouth.

Proceeds from the tournament will aid those who call the St. Louis Center, a non-profit organization located in Chelsea, their home.

Cost is $350 per golfer, or $2,500 for hole sponsorship which includes 18 holes of golf for four people, lunch, dinner and prizes.

For further information, call the St. Louis Center at (734) 475-8430.

Softball sign-up

The Canton Softball Center is planning its 14th season of operation, with registration for the spring season beginning March 16. Play starts in April.

Cost for the 16-game season, which includes single games and doubleheaders, is $595 per team plus umpire fees. Game balls, USSSA registration and first and second place awards for each league are included.

Register in person Monday through Friday, 3-7:30 p.m., and Saturday 11 a.m.-4 p.m. with a $100 deposit at the Canton Softball Center, located on Michigan in Canton, or register over the phone with a credit card at (734) 483-5600, ext. 2 or 3.

Also, the Canton Softball Center will host USSSA Softball Tournaments every weekend beginning April 18 with the annual Early Bird Classic, which has a guarantee of four games for $125. For more information about this tournament or for a complete listing of tournaments, call (734) 483-5600, ext. 2 or 3.

Even with the loss of Maul in the hurdles, replacements await. Hannah

Long-distance threat: Ellen Stemmer, a distance runner who qualified for the state finals in the 3,200 meters last season, is one reason Salem is hoping to repeat as WLAA champions.

Watts, a senior, enters her fourth season of track. Reiber and Chappell will also run both the 100 and 300 hurdles, along with Kelly Van Putten, a junior "who's working real hard.

"We're going to make the hurdles one of our strengths again," promised Gregor, adding that "no one has jumped out yet like Lisa Maul did last year."

Two youngsters, sophomore Rachel Jones and freshman Michelle Bonior, are the top candidates in the sprints. Jones ran track last spring and cross

"We're going to take it one meet at a time and try to peak at the end of the season, like we always do.

With more than 70 girls out for the team, Gregor's biggest problem may be sorting things out. The Rocks will win meets without even trying, and come season's end, they'll be in the hunt for the top spot in the WLAA again.

Team of destiny?

Rocks have the right stuff to make a run at the title

No, it isn't the ideal set-up for a team searching for a Western Lakes Activities Association track championship.

Balance is what coaches like. Somebody decent in each and every event.

Geoff Baker doesn't have it quite that good. His Plymouth Salem boys track team is decent in spots, not so great in others.

But that's not an unusual situation for the Rocks. Just two years ago, Salem won the WLAA championship after scoring just five points in the field events.

"We scored 157 on the track, with about 90 of those in the distance events," said Baker.

If the Rocks are to find similar success this season - and Baker is confident they can - the path will have to be much the same.

The long (distance) way around

"I think we can win the conference meet," said Baker. "That's our goal, anyway. Our strength will be in the distance events. We'll rack up a lot of points there."

last year, mainly because of a lack of sprinters - in particular, Scott

The Rocks fell to third in the WLAA Kingslien, who suffered an ankle injury in the final dual meet prior to the WLAA championships. Kingslien,

Salem's top sprinter, missed both the conference and the state regional meets

"He was our horse," said Baker. "He's got some fire in him this year."

Kingslien, now a senior, is back at full strength. The best news is, he'll have a capable supporting staff of sprinters in senior Kevin Conte (who will also run middle distance) and juniors Mike Shull, Mark Sheehan and Chris Mason.

Shull in particular, a qualifier for the 55-meter final at the MITCA Indoor State Championships, should excel. "If he's not No. 1, he'll be No. 2," said Baker. "He wants to be one of the top guns

And can Lutheran Westland win its sixth straight Metro Connce title?

These questions and many more will be answered in what may become a surprising and unpredictable track season.

Westland John Glenn

Last season was one for the record books as Glenn won the Western Lakes Activities Association title and its first regional championship ever. The Rockets were loaded, led All-Observerland performer David Jarrett, who set the school record in the long jump (23-61/2) before finishing second in the state championship.

Glenn also lost some of the area's top athletes, including sprinter Steve Hester, distance runner Joe Woitowicz and thrower Mike Samples (state qualifi-

"A lot of our nucleus is gone, said coach Jess Shough, whose team has only four seniors. "I don't like to use the word 'rebuild.' but we have a lot of holes to fill.

One area Shough doesn't have to worry about is the 100-meter dash where senior Harden James returns. James set a school record in the event with a 10.7, and also won the WLAA and regional title.

Junior Reggie Spearmon is the only other returning sprinter for Glenn. Juniors Robert Fant, Javon Perkins, Devin White, Stevan Lawson and Kaven Hugley will provide the depth. Despite the loss of Jarrett, the

Livonia Franklin

Life without Paul Terek will be something the Patriots - and coach Dale Lee - will have to get accustomed to.

This will be Lee's first year in his four years at Franklin without Terek.

"He's left a huge gap," Lee said. "To lose an athlete of his caliber who can score points in virtually every event is tough. We had a good idea what he developed into when he was a freshman, but he exceeded all expectations to become the best pole vaulter ever in the state. And his versatility was very

Terek, now at Michigan State, set the state record last June at the Class A finals by clearing 16 feet, 6 inches. (He already owns the MSU indoor record as a freshman at 17- 3/4.)

"This is definitely one of the strengths of our team," Lee said. Any team in the state would be thrilled to have a thrower of Matt's ability."

The other strength will be in the distance with Burt, who will run the 1,600 (4:34.2 last year), 3,200 (10:05.8) and 3,200 relay. Burt is coming off a strong indoor season where he ran a peedy 4:36 in the mile.

He'll also run the 400, but whatever he competes in, he'll have plenty of company. Like Jon Little, a junior who was eighth at the MITCA meet in the 3,200 (he'll run the 1,600, too); Nick Allen, another junior who is capable of running anything from the 400 on up; Andy Briggs, a senior who placed second in the 400 in the WLAA last year; and juniors Bobby Cushman and ing is the hurdles.
