Burda Bros. face felony charges

Wayne County Sheriff's Department raided the homes of two Canton businessmen and allegedly found bogus permits to sell illegal fireworks in Michigan.

> Owners of Canton-based Burda Bros. Inc. are facing felony charges for allegedly counterfeiting permits to sell fireworks deemed illegal in Michigan.

Efim and Oleg Burda were arraigned Friday in 34th District Court in Romulus on charges of criminal enterprise and uttering and publishing. The felony charges carry 20 and 14-year sentences, respectively.

According to Wayne County Sheriff's Department Chief of Staff Nancy Mouradian, the brothers were taken into custody after a search warrant was executed on the brothers' Oakland County homes.

More than 300 fake permits were seized by county deputies from the Orchard Lake home of Efim Burda. Business records as well as a sub-machine gun and two hand guns were taken from Oleg Burda's West Bloomfield condominium.

The brothers now face a preliminary examination in connection with the charges on July 17 at the 35th District Court in Plymouth. They are currently free on personal bond.

"If probable cause that the crime was committed is found," Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Ray-mond Walsh said, "they will be bound over for trial at circuit court.

Mouradian said the Burdas were issued legal permits by Mussey Township in 1997 and Milton Township this year to hold professional firework shows.

The permits were to allow them to use fireworks illegal for sale to the general public. Instead of conducting the shows, however, the brothers allegedly photocopied the permits to make counterfeits.

These counterfeits were then sold publicly for $1 as memberships to the "American Fireworks Users Association," Mouradian said. The brothers contend that the membership makes the sale of bottle rockets, firecrackers and Roman candles, among others, lega!

While that issue may be open for debate, making and selling alleged permit counterfeits isn't, according to authorities.

Driving schools prepare for new state laws

Parents entrusting their children with driving educators this summer can breathe a little easier.

Changes in state law, which became effective June 1, now require checks on criminal and driving histories of instructors before they're hired. As of Friday, driving records must be posted by public and private schools as well.

This comes on the heels of sweeping graduated system where teenagers go through a more extensive classroom and road program while earning three different licenses.

Area driving schools generally favor the changes. But some are displeased with a lack of warning about certain moves.

"We received a letter from the state on May 15 notifying us of the changes in rules for teachers," said A & A Driv young people may obtain driving ing School Program Coordinator Phyl-

All driving instructors must now have state and federal criminal history checks done, said Canton Police Officer Leonard Schemanske, who runs his own driving school on the side. Driving records must also be checked and posted at the school.

Too many gas stations prompt planning denial

Citing environmental concerns, the Canton Planning Commission declined to recommend approval for a gas station/convenience store at the corner of Michigan Avenue and Haggerty Road Monday night.

Commissioners voted unanimously to deny a special land use request to parcel owner Shelly Odish for a Marathon service facility. With seven gas stations either existing or approved for Michigan Avenue, Commissioner Melissa McLaughlin saw no need for one more

"Why locate in this environmentally sensitive area?" she added, noting the proposed station's close proximity to the Rouge River. "It seems to me it's not worth the risk to locate a gas station there.

Plans for the station were fine, McLaughlin said. But she was concerned about potential contamination to the river from a spill or runoff.

"It's location, location, location," she told project representatives.

It wasn't the proposal's first time before township officials.

The special land use was initially considered by the planning commission on April 7 of last year, but was recommended for denial for similar reasons. The measure went to the Township Board of Trustees a few weeks later and again was denied. A new application was submitted to the plan-ning commission on Nov. 3 of last year and was equently tabled. At that time, commissioners requested a detailed marketing study be conducted to show a need for the service station, which would be located at the northwest corner of Michigan Avenue and Haggerty Road. Richard LaRowe of Tech Express represented Odish at Monday's meeting. He said there would be a need for the station with increased traffic on Michigan Avenue because of Ford Road congestion.

Rain runoff problems, which have caused flooding on the 1.8-acre parcel in the past, would also be eliminated, LaRowe said. A storm water retention pond would be created handle LaRowe also argued that the service station was consistent with other development in the area. He added that the Marathon station would be attractively built and have plenty of space for operations at the site.

"We think it would be a nice-looking building," LaRowe said. "We certainly don't think we're overbuilding the property." Commissioners didn't dispute that point. But positive. "I think it's great," Alsobrooks said. "It's giving the kids a lot more practice time. More practice time means better-prepared drivers." Under the old system, drivers could get a license with as few as four hours on the road. Now students get a total of 50 hours behind the wheel before receiving a level three or unrestricted driver's license.

"I'm very much for the changes that have been made in the system," said Schemanske. Drivers go through a nine-step system before getting an unre-stricted license. Here's a run-final operator's license.

Teens as young as 14-years 8-months-old are eligible to start the program. As part of "segment " beginners must spend 24 hours in the classroom, six hours behind the wheel and pass a written exam.

After receiving a level one license, the student is allowed drive only with a parent or designated licensed adult over 21. Students must hold the level one license for at least six months before moving up.

Before receiving a level two license, drivers must complete 50 hours behind the wheel, including 10 at night, be at least 16-years-old, pass on- and offroadway tests and go 90 days without an accident or violation. It's important to note that note only six behind the wheel hours are with instructors. The remaining hours come with parents supervising. With a level two license, students may drive without supervision except from midnight to 5 a.m. Drivers must spend six months at this level as well.

Level three is the final step Students must be at least 17 years old and have 12 consecutive months of accident/violation free driving before earning their

The company charges $40 for the follow up program, which is six hours in the classroom and helps prepare students for license level two. A & A offers an $8 discount to students continuing from the first phase of its program to the second.

Schemanske charges $240 for 24 classroom hours and six behind-the-wheel hours. Route 66 charges $240 for similar services and $35 for the follow up program.

Q & A? Q: How do I attract butterflies to my garden? A: The key to attracting butterflies is planting the right flowers. The colors (lots of reds and oranges), scents and nectar combine to draw in the butterflies. Also, work in a birdbath or pond, place rocks or stones that the butterflies can sun themselves on, and never use insecticides. Planting these flowers will hely attract butterflies to a garden: Brazilian Verbena, Blackeyed Susan's, Purple Coneflower, Asters, Goldenrod and Budlea. Source: the Detroit News

Wetlands concern planners, delay condos from approval

If you're going to build condominiums in Canton, form may count just as much as function.

That was the message the Canton Township Planning Commission sent Monday to developers of an 83-unit project on Morton Taylor Road. Commissioners voted unanimously to table the story, full-basement units," said project architect Leonard Siegel of Farmington Hills-based

A variety of concerns with the project were voiced by commissioners. Bob Wade objected the density of the development. He noted that 5.6 units would be built per the plan's medium density label. The commissioner also didn't like the fact that said Siegel said the north end of the property contained 1.3 acres of "low quality" wetlands. Mitigating the wetlands and adding it to 5.5 acres of "high quality" wetlands in the southern portion would enhance the environment, he added. "We see that as a plus," Siegel said. "Not a detriment. Gustafson, meanwhile, wanted garage plans changed. Instead of placing them in the front of the units, they should be located to the side or rear, he said

Siegel understood the commissioner's desire for aesthetically-pleasing condominiums. But he said it would likely drive up prices.

Developers of "Cobblestone Village" want units in the $150,000 range. Changing designs to accommodate side garages would likely push the price nearer to $200,000.

Siegel said it would add little perceived value for buyers. Gustafson said other amenities could be added to the units to account for the higher prices and add "bang for the buck" for customers.

Residents adjacent to the project raised concern about buffering. Commissioner Cathy Johnson said it may be in the best interest of developers to purchase the two homes.

She added that it didn't seem right to have single family homes so close to a big development. Siegel said the homeowners will be contacted if appropriate approvals are received from the town-

Commissioner Melissa McLaughlin was confident all issues could be addressed and that the project would go forward.

"If we can get these things worked out," she said, "I think it'll be a good project for the community.

Airport rehab boosts local economy

The administration building at Wayne County's Willow Run Airport - part of a historic World War II B-24 Bomber plant - will be getting a major facelift, thanks to a grant from the Michigan Jobs Commission and a pledge from Willow Run tenants to add more than 100 new jobs over the next two years.

The $1 million grant was announced Tuesday. It will be used to upgrade the building's facade, replace windows, establish new entrances for airport tenants and improve the office air conditioning system. Wayne County will supplement the grant with $100,000, and another $200,000 to upgrade landscaping and signs.

Willow Run Airport is a key economic contributor for Wayne and Washtenaw counties, said Edward McNamara, Wayne County executive.

This project is a cooperative effort involving both counties, the state of Michigan, and eight Willow Run tenants who agreed to add more than 100 jobs at the airport. It simply wouldn't have been possible without commitment and cooperation of all parties involved."

While Willow Run is owned and operated by Wayne County, the airport sits on the Wayne-Washtenaw county border. As a result, much of the airport's marketing and development efforts have been joint ventures between the two counties. "This long-standing partnership was important, because Washtenaw County was eligible to apply for a state Community Development Block Grant to fund the renovation project," McNamara said.

Willow Run was eligible for up to $1 million under the grant through the Michigan Jobs Commission to fund the building improvements. State Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsi-

This year's parade had approximately 75.

"I think 100 would be a good number of entries," said Hill. "The parade this year took 75 minutes to pass by. That's a good time ... you wouldn't want to get much longer than that." Hill believes the parade idea is picking up steam. "There were more people on Main Street who decorated their homes and businesses this year," said Hill. "That allows for people in the community to know there's something different going on.

While he's always looking ahead, Hill allowed himself to reflect a bit on this year's parade.

"I'm ecstatic! It's a real feelgood kind of event, family orient-ed," said Hill. "The parade ran very, very smoothly. From the staging area to the disband area, I think it went like it was supposed to. We learned a lot from last year.

"I thought the three '50s bands on the floats came off beautifully," noted Hill. "It gave a nifty sense of big time to the parade." Hill said the parade costs more than $30,000 to put together, with all of it paid by sponsors. Financial support was wonderful," noted Hill. "It's not hard to get the money because people want to get involved." What were some of the favorites? "The Beautification Committee and their flowers with the bee buzzing about got a lot of comments," remembers Hill. "As well as the special olympians float. I hope they come back next year.

"I liked having Scooby Doo, Miss Michigan and the governor. We should be proud that so many people thought enough of our event to participate."

That includes the 100 volunteers that help Hill get it all together.

When asked what he would do without them, Hill paused .... then laughed ... "without them, I'm in trouble."

One of those is Steve Panko of Brighton, who was one of several people who was guiding the ice cream cone balloon until it sprang a leak.

"So far it's not hard. We practiced right here in the parking lot for five minutes on how to control it," said Panko before 7:30 a.m. parade began. "If I have to put down my coffee, then I'll be upset."

Bob McClure, a bagpiper from Highland, said it was hard following the horses because "it's hard to stay in step with poop all over the road.'

While it stormed most of the night, it never rains on a parade. That was no exception this year as the sun peaked out during the event.

"I was up in the middle of the night when it started lightning,' said Hill. "However, we did start eight minutes late because of the train."

"This is a lot of fun," said Plymouth Police Chief Bob Scoggins. "But don't get me started on that train."

Banner-holder Robert Caumsgil of Canton said "I liked walking in the parade and being a part of it."

"I love the drill teams and dancers," said Angela Arbitter, 8, of Plymouth.

Cliff and Rita McClumpha of Canton said it was their first parade in a long time, "with the drill teams our favorites."

"I just like watching parades, just like a kid," said William Hornbeck, 79, of Plymouth.

"We have two groups of people we have to please when we put on a parade," said Hill. "The people who watch the parade, and the people who are in the parade. We want their memory of the Plymouth parade to be better than any other parade so they'll come back."

Kids have fun messin' around in mud

More than 300 Wayne County children were an absolute mess Tuesday as they frolicked, raced and played in the mud in Hines Park.

But it was all in good fun at the Perrin picnic area in Dearborn Heights as Wayne County parks officials mixed more than 200 tons of topsoil and over 20,000 gallons of water to create the messiest playground in Wayne County for the annual Mud Day.

Youngsters aged 12 and under from several communities throughout western Wayne County were separated into age categories for wheelbarrow races and "Mud Limbo." At the end of the day's events, Amber Kittle, 11, of Lincoln Park, was crowned "Ms. Mud," while Raymond Heitchue, 12, of Detroit was named "Mr. Mud."

The Wayne County Fire Department from Detroit Metro Airport was on hand with hoses to aid in rinsing mud off the children.

And they're off: More than 300 kids and adults took part in Wayne County Park's Annual Mud Day on Tuesday at the Perrin site along Hines Drive.

Muddy smile: Cheyenne Garlow, 5, of Northville, appears to have a good time crawling in the mud.

Fun time: Kendra Seesholtz, 8, of Plymouth was among those enjoying Mud Day.

The Michigan Equity Growth Trust

Robert W. Baird & Co. To hear a Senate Republican tell it, the House "gutted" the bills, endangering public safety. The Michigan House on June 16 approved a package of bills designed to keep offenders behind bars for at least their minimum sentences. The votes ranged from 99-2 to 102-0 and 104-1 - almost unanimous.

House minority leader Ken Sikkema, R-Grandville, said that if the House hadn't acted soon, the GOP would have asked for special orders to move the bills which had languished for months on the House calendar.

"There was no reason, whatsoever, to delay action," said Rep. Michael Nye, R-Litchfield. "I am glad Democrats finally got the

Drilling bill OK'd

The Senate approved 32-1, with four not voting, a House-passed bill to limit oil and gas drilling and production in residential areas with populations grater than 70,000 - a victory for Farmington Hills.

Sen. Bill Bullard Jr., R-Milford, said it was the first time the Legislature has been able to restrict where oil and gas ompanies can drill in relation to highly populated areas.

The bill was pushed through the House by Republican Andrew Raczkowski of Farmington Hills and Democrat Nancy Quarles of Southfield

Bullard got the bill discharged from the Senate Economic Development Committee and brought to the Senate floor. The bill is now on Gov. John Engler's desk for sign-

It limits the distance around residential areas where oil and gas companies can drill. It also provides explicit, new health and safety regulations of noise, odor and fencing. The state supervisor of wells may immediately suspend drilling operations where health and safety concerns exist.

Voting ves were Loren Ben nett, R-Canton, Bob Geake, R-Northville, George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn, and Alma Smith, D-Salem

The lone nay vote was cast by Dave Jaye, R-Macomb County. Four outstate senators were absent.

Sen. Bill Schuette, R-Mid land, who allowed the bill to be discharged from his committee, said "it is an initiative that cuts the right balance with interest to communities citizens, environmental con cerns, and the long-term interest of the oil and gas industries.

Teachers prepare for global economy

The teachers are looking for consistency within the middle schools to give more students an opportunity to study a particular language for five years before graduating from high school.

"We have a lot of students who take three years of a language at the high school to get into college," said Verna Anible, director of instruction. "We don't have as many who are participating in the fourth year of language

While Anible says it would be nice to have equal opportunities at the middle school level, the high school classes appear to be handling the need.

The teachers feel otherwise:

"We think there's a greater need than ever to have all the foreign languages in each school," said Large. "It will be an advantage in the marketplace. Other school districts are emphasizing language and technology. Here, it's only technology.

"The most frustrating thing is to have a school district this size that doesn't have a five-year language program in at least three languages," said Zaretti. "We'd like to have some exposure in sixth and seventh grades.

"In the global economy of the 21st century, it will become mandatory in many fields to know at least one, if not more, foreign language," added Large. "Students who are fluent in other languages will find open doors in the job market. They will have an extra skill which will give them the edge." Zaretti tells the story of auto executives who didn't understand why the Chevy Nova wasn't selling well in South America. "What they didn't know is that Nova esidents in the Cherry Hill-Canton Center neighborhood where a new Farmer Jack supermarket is planned have some legitimate concerns about the store's proposed 24-hour operation. But opponents of the project - who have been showing up in force for months as it has bounced from the township planning commission to the Board of Trustees - don't have a case if their goal is to keep large-scale commercial development from their neighborhood.

Commercial growth Farmer Jack follows evolution

H.S.

A14(C)

The most recent skirmish was last week when the board approved a special land use før the 55,912-square-foot supermarket and an adjacent 40,000-square-foot retail center on the southeast corner of Cherry Hill and Canton Center. The special land use is required for buildings larger than 40,000 square feet. Site plan approval at the planning commission and board levels is still required.

About 30 residents from the Pheasant Glen Condominiums, Kingston Estates and Pineview Estates subdivisions - some visibly upset - reiterated their complaints. The list included more traffic, parking lot lighting, late-night deliveries and the overall scope of the project. "This is supposed to be a bedroom community and I think we're turning into a community of insomniacs with three 24-hour grocery stores within a mile of each other," resident George Bakopoulos told the board.

Undoubtedly, Farmer Jack (owned by the national A&P chain), Meijer and Kroger see things differently. They see a growing market that is underserved. In a business where the profit margin is traditionally 2 or 3 percent, supermarket chains look to draw customers from the general region as well as the immediate neighborhood. Much of Canton's residential growth over the next five to 10 years will occur just south of the planned store, in new subdivisions along Beck, Denton and Geddes

In the suburbs, commercial growth is a natural follow-up to residential growth. It provides services that most residents - including those living in established neighborhoods demand. A more central location for Farmer Jack makes sense because of the way Michigan Avenue, a heavily-trafficked divided highway, cuts across the south end of the town-

The property in question is already zoned for commercial development and an Amoco gas station sits at the corner

There are things township officials can do to lessen the project's impact on nearby residents. The board has already agreed to limit delivery hours to 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Lighting that doesn't throw glare into adjacent homes and berms or walls can also be conditions of site plan approval

The long-awaited widening of Canton Center between Ford and Cherry Hill, which begins this month, will help alleviate traffic congestion

In the course of two decades, Canton has metamorphosed from a rural township on the western edge of Wayne County to a Major League suburb - with all the enhancements to quality of life that entails. That's one reason so many people are moving into the community. It's why supermarket chains are coming as

Cultivating metro area culture through regional cooperation

Once again, it seems that legislators are faced with determining the precarious relationship among politics, culture and regional cooperation.

Unlike discussions about regional transportation and shared water systems, the benefit from a thriving cultural scene in metro Detroit cannot be easily quantified. Yet arguably, a thriving cultural scene is as crucial an ingredient in improving the quality of life and economy as any basic governmental service.

on culture can be found in the public museums, exhibits and cultural events that provide a symbol of the values, social priorities and aesthetics that define our shared time and environment.

Apparently, when it comes time for elected officials to discuss public arts funding, however, they must face the ghosts of Mapplethorpe and Serrano, and the wrath of anti-tax zealots.

Perhaps it's time to get beyond reactionary attitudes and engage in a serious debate about regional funding to the arts. The funding mechanism is already in place. And there are plenty of examples of the profound success of regional arts funding in San Francisco, Denver and Chicago.

In late June, the Michigan Senate passed by a margin of 27-9 a bill to facilitate a .5 millage assessment on homeowners in the tri- . county area. An estimated $40 million in tax revenue would be earmarked for the area's 14 to support the arts. tier-one cultural institutions with one-third of the funds going to local arts groups.

The funding would provide a stream of operating money to the DIA, DSO, Cranbrook Institute of Science, Cranbrook Art Museum, Meadow Brook Theatre and The Detroit Zoo, among others. Basically, these cultural institutions would worry less about raising money to keep their doors open, and concentrate more on bringing world-class exhibits to our area. Unfortunately, the recent decision by supporters of regional arts funding to wait until after the Aug. 4 primary to introduce the bill in the Michigan House indicates that the self-interest of politicians, not the public ir terest, is being served.

Two years ago, a similar measure was overwhelmingly approved by the Senate. Shortly after it was introduced in the House, however, the intent of the bill was gutted and eventually floundered.

Perhaps it's time to get beyond reactionary attitudes and engage in a serious debate about regional funding to the arts. The funding mechanism is already in place. And there are plenty of examples of the profound success of regional arts funding in San Francisco, Denver and Chicago.

The most recent bill introduced by Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, addresses many of the concerns of those Oakland County commissioners who claimed the state's wealthiest county should have broader influence over the disbursement of tax revenue.

Supporters of the bill, including Detroit Renaissance - which spearheaded the drive claim that opponents of the bill are preparing to use the proposed millage increase against any incumbent who favors regional arts fund-

The rhetoric is absurd. Macomb County Sen. David Jaye called the proposal, "unfair, un-American and culturally elitist."

Opponents of regional arts funding like Jaye are obfuscating the true impact of the bill, rather than offering their own positions disfavoring the measure.

Simply put: The bill allows for voters to determine if they want their tax money to go

Let's talk facts: A homeowner with a taxable value of $150,000 would pay $37.50 a year if the arts tax were enacted. That's $3.10 a month, or 10 cents a day.

A board comprised of representatives from Detroit, Macomb, Wayne and Oakland counties would oversee the disbursement of tax revenue. And local boards would allocate monies to local arts groups.

Any proposal to enact a millage based on an approving vote of the people can't be labeled unfair or culturally elitist.

Obfuscating the issue of regional arts funding is irresponsible and short-sighted.

Inevitably, culture in metro Detroit cannot be bound by geography or parochial politics. It's time for a long-overdue discussion about our shared cultural interest, and regional cooperation.

Roads are top priority

Taxes are probably the No. 1 issue on the voter's mind right now, and there are difficult decisions to make. Like most people, I do not enjoy spending any more money than I have to for services from the government or from private industry. My wife and I both work hard to make ends meet. The road millage request in this election should be approved. We need it badly. The roads simply cannot handle the volume of traffic in Canten. Accidents are being caused daily by drivers who simply run out of patience and jump lights or turn left too late on a yellow (or red). However, it is difficult for me to accept this is any more than a temporary fix. First of all, this tax is getting away from the principle that gas taxes should pay for roads. Those who use the roads pay for them. With this tax on property, homeowners pay for the roads. We can take some consolation in the fact that all funds generated are to be used in Canton.

However, we need to find out why western Wayne is being shorted in gasoline tax revenue either by the state or the county. Does the "formula" take into account the population, age of roads and the growth rate? Do we need to raise the gas tax to avoid further property taxes for roads?

I am running for county commissioner in the 11th District on the Democratic ticket. I hope to work constructively with the county executive and other county and state officials to find answers to these questions.

Thank You. Thomas Murphy Hartnett candidate, county commission 11th District, Democrat

Letter misinterpreted

Someone please explain to Bruce Patterson and Melissa McLaughlin the difference between an "article" and a "sentence." In her letter of June 18, McLaughlin claims I took "gratuitous swipes" at the Observer over "an article" she says was favorable to her boss. In his LETTERS own letter of July 2, Patterson also states that I criticized the Observer for the way the paper had written "an article" about him and his current campaign.

My letter responded to a 15-paragraph news story (newspapers run "stories"; magazines run "articles") covering all races in the Canton Observer coverage area. Patterson was mentioned in one sentence, as Patricia Fatyma's opponent in the race for the 21st District House seat in the Aug. 4 Republican primary. Does he seriously believe that having his name in one sentence makes him the subject of the entire story?

Or is it that he and McLaughlin (who was also mentioned in one sentence in the same story, yet does not appear to feel it was "an article" about herself) are attempting to mislead your readers, by implying a fulllength story praising him had run and that my criticism of it was a case of "sour grapes"?

In fact, my objection was to the verb "challenge," as its misuse could have led readers to the incorrect conclusion that the Observer was ceding an advantage to Patterson before any information on his opponent, Patricia Fatyma, could be disseminated to the voting public. (And the editor of the Canton Observer has since agreed with me that "challenge" was "a poor choice" of words.)

Patterson also stated that McLaughlin's response to my "attack" was an effort to pat the Observer on the back for the swell "position" it had taken in "the article" about him (again, an attempt to trick readers into thinking he has the paper's endorsement?), and that she was merely defending his reputation.

All I did was point out that he has never won an election in which he faced a viable opponent. I'm sorry if he sees a factual recitation of his win/loss record as an attack on his personal character. (I don't know him.) Personally, he may be a great guy; but as Wayne County commissioner, he's been less than impressive. We'll never know how much funding his incessant verbal brawling with the county executive and his fellow commissioners may have cost this district for roads or other projects. If he intends to stay in elective politics, he'd do well to develop a thicker skin and a sense of humor.

Finally, as to his claim that my letter was written at Patricia Fatyma's direction, I can honestly say that although she is my closest friend, I don't take orders from her nor am I her paid lackey. One might also note that while Patterson and his aide, "constituent coordinator" McLaughlin, were very careful to never name Patricia Fatyma even once in their letters (an old political trick, used by old politicians), I named him five times in my first letter, and even more than that in this one, probably, not a move a candidate would instruct me to make, were she calling the shots. Patterson and Co. are engaging in wishful thinking if they believe they can keep Patricia Fatyma's name out of print - either in the newspapers, or on the election ballot.

Watching legislation come to life not for weak get measures, that were being com-A colorful battle occurred when his is to let the members know," announced House majority floor leader Pat Gagliardi, "there will be no more vot-

The time was early last week. The Michigan House of Representatives had been in session little more than an hour and had acted on just a half-dozen minor bills. Yet the agenda was crowded with 162 pieces of legislation, and the list was growing by the hour as the Senate sent over its laundry. Many bills passed in one chamber would never receive a minute's consideration in the other. For example, Senate Republicans were passing across-the-board income tax cuts to take effect years down the road.

House Democrats were passing income tax cuts to favored groups that had voted Democratic.

Whoever said watching the legislative process was like watching the making of sausage was correct.

Republican Rep. Nancy Cassis of Novi was about to get a majority of green lights for her amendment to give immediate effect to a single business tax cut for company health care costs. The committee plan was to phase it in over 10 years; Cassis had the votes to go for broke immediately.

House Democratic leaders "cleared the board" - that is, halted the roll call vote and set aside the bill for the day. "Clear the board" can be a perfectly valid parliamentary technique when a situation becomes tangled and confused. In this case, Democrats sought to avoid the embarrassment of defeat

In other words, it's an election

Some 65 House seats, at least, will change hands. Each party is posturing to 1) make itself look good and 2) make the other party look bad. As of the first of July, the pipeline was clogged with bills, including bud-promised in conference committees. What's dangerous about this procedure is that all the bills get voted on in one, all-night session.

The bills aren't considered thoughtfully. There is a flood, not a flow, of work. Everyone is so eager to get the heck out of Lansing and do important things like run for re-election or look for a new job that measures get passed blindly. That's how the Engler administration sneaked through its evil, crippling amendments to the Freedom of Information Act during a post-midnight session in 1996.

Democrats, somewhat more so than Republicans, operate the chamber like a collective bargaining session when they're in control. In collective bargaining, you don't negotiate the health section one week, the promotions section the second week, wages the third, recalls the fourth, pensions the fifth, and so on - no way.

In collective bargaining, you cancel sessions because the chief negotiator has to attend his aunt's funeral, then dawdle for weeks or months. Finally, as the strike deadline nears, the two chief bargainers go out in the hall, bargain one section against another, cut a deal and sell it to their nervous committee members who will agree to anything in order to get home.

And so it is in the Michigan Legislature. Not only is it an election year, but the labor negotiations work habits are inappropriate for a legislative

Both sides play shady parliamentary tricks and make political charges. It's not new. I'm reading "Honor's Voice: The Transformation of Abraham Lincoln" by Douglas L. Wilson (Knopf, 1998). It's about his four terms in the Illinois House. Lincoln played some rotten tricks and penned some scurrilous stuff in his youth.

Another book, "A. Lincoln: The Crucible of Congress" by Paul Findley (Crown, 1979), tells how Lincoln operated during his one term (1847-48) in the U.S. House. You can tell by the titles that Lincoln transformed not only his writing style but his official behavior as he matured. Given the choice between the Pat Gagliardis and Abe Lincolns, on one hand, and the Ross Perots and Napoleons, on the other, we probably should stick with the Gagliardis and Lincolns Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events. His Touch-Tone voice mail number is (734) 953-2047, Ext. 1881.

This cherry pie recipe's a keeper

e are entering the cherry season, one of the great glories of a Michigan sum-mer. My ancestors grew cherries on th mer. My ancestors grew cherries on the old family farm. Two old photos are particularly striking.

One is a picture of my great-grandmother, Celestia Power, sitting on the porch of the old family farm in Elk Rapids, a tiny town near Traverse City. I suppose the picture was taken around the turn of the century as she is wearing the full-busted, long, cotton dress fashionable at the time. She's sitting in a rocking chair on an old-fashioned porch with Old Joe, the family English setter, sleeping on the grass below. The other is a picture of great-grandfather Eugene Power, in a white shirt and tie, dark suit and Panama hat, standing in the middle of his cherry orchard. He's surveying the newly planted trees, with a farm hand holding a pruning knife standing behind him.

Family legend has it that great-grandfather Power was one of the first farmers to plant Montmorency cherries (called "sours" to distin guish them from the dark red eating cherries, "sweets") in northern Michigan. For a time, they became the dominant crop in the region, thriving on the sandy, well-drained soil and the moderating influence of the lake. Even today, most land that hasn't been raped by the developers is.

in cherry orchards. My father remembered his first job was out on the family farm, picking cherries for 10 cents a lug. He thinks his father, Glenn, who started out as a surveyor, helped great-grandfather Eugene lay out the trees in straight lines.

I suspect it wasn't easy to be a pioneering farmer way back then. You couldn't be sure the trees, once planted, would thrive or bear well. And there was always the risk of a late frost nipping the fruit. And your capital, once lost, was so hard to regain!

But originality (often in practice hard to distinguish from mere eccentricity) always ran deep in the Power family. That was their way and the way of countless pioneer families like them. It gives me a feeling of family continuity to think of them.

And here's our family recipe for:

Montmorency Cherry Pie

For the crust 1 1/2 cups of all-purpose flour, plus additional for rolling

1/4 teaspoon baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt

1/3 cup lard

3 tablespoons unsalted butter 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening 2 tablespoons ice water 1 teaspoon white vinegar

2 eggs

For the filling:

4 cups pitted red sour cherries

1 cup granulated sugar 1/2 cup brown sugar

3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca

1/2 teaspoon almond extract 1/4 teaspoon mace

3 tablespoons butter, cut in small pieces

1 tablespoon kirsch (optional)

For the crust: Combine the flour, baking powder and salt in a mixing bowl. Add the lard, butter and shortening and mix with your fingers or a pastry cutter until mixture forms coarse crumbs. Whisk together the ice water, vinegar and one of the eggs. Add to the flour mixture and mix with a fork just until combined; do not overwork the dough. Refrigerate for 30 minutes.

For the filling: In a large bowl, combine the cherries, sugars, tapioca, almond extract, mace and optional kirsch, if desired. Allow to stand for 15 minutes. Preheat the oven to 425 degrees.

Roll out 2/3 of the dough on a lightly floured surface. Line a 9-inch pie plate with the dough and trim the edges. Place the filling in the pie shell and dot with the butter. Roll the remaining dough and make in to a lattice top. Whisk the remaining egg with 2 teaspoons of water and brush the egg wash onto the top.

Bake for 10 minutes, then lower the temperature to 350 degrees and continue baking for 30 or 40 minutes longer, or until the juices bubble up in the center of the pie. Cook briefly and eat warm

My father preferred vanilla ice cream with his pie. I'm more of a purist. Either way, it's a delicious way to celebrate Michigan cherries and the family that grew them.

Stanley comes to summer camp

More than 200 summer camp kids had the surprise of their lives when Detroit Red Wings defenseman Bob Rouse showed up at East Middle School with the Stanley Cup.

The cup made a 25-minute stop at the Plymouth-Canton Schools' Kid's Time Summer Camp. It seems the kindergarten through fifth-grade students had an inside track.

"I'm good friends with Bob and his family, and I just asked him if he would bring it to the program," said Kris Jaussi, summer camp direc-"We only had a short tor. time for all the kids to see it ... and they were very excited.

"We received a call at 10:30 a.m. from Bob's wife telling us he was on his way with the cup to visit our program," said Brigid Beaubien Costello, coordinator of extended day care programs for the district. Rouse and the Stanley Cup

Each class had time to visit with Rouse and the Cup, and take class pictures with one of sports' most coveted trophies. As for Jaussi, being with the Stanley Cup has become a part of her life.

HOOKED ON HISTORY

VIRGINIA BAILEY PARKER

Modern life makes us wish for simpler times

ost of us today are overcommitted. Certainly, I have to include myself here. We are always on the run with too many obligations to juggle. Men and women share some stresses, like the conflict of balancing job and family. Other pressures are seen as primarily affecting one sex. For example, a lot is said about the frustrations women experience professionally as they try to break through the glass ceiling. Conversely, men who have struggled to get to the top now struggle to stay there despite mergers, takeovers and waves of forced retirements.

Let's face it: Life is complicated. That's why we like to look back wistfully at earlier times when things were simpler, and life moved at a slower pace.

Let's consider a typical woman I have encountered. Her lifetime of pressures would be enough to sink any of us.

She had a sharp mind from girlhood on, but unlike young women today, she grew up when a woman's independent, outspoken mind met with disapproval. She eventually married and, as society expected, became a full-time mom. As a young couple, she and her husband labored to make ends meet. He traveled a great deal to build his career. She supported his efforts by functioning as a single parent.

Their joint efforts paid off. His business successes multiplied, and, in time, he advanced to head a major organization. With this came the social prominence upon which she thrived, although, like many, she lived beyond her financial means maintaining that lifestyle.

The couple seemed to love each other, but, as in all relationships, they had their personality differences. Both tended to be moody: she because of migraines while he struggled with bouts of depression, the result of a physical ailment.

Regrettably, her husband's professional success brought its own troubles when a rift threatened to tear the organization apart. His single-minded fight to hold it together tested his wife's loyalties because she was relatdents, had been waiting since 4 p.m. for the trio to emerge. With "MmmBop" painted on their faces, the girls held up a sign spelling out their feelings for Hanson - "Hot, awsoeme (sic), nice, sweet, outstanding, noble."

Prior to the concert's start, the pavilion was filled with screams, and other signs held by girls proclaiming their love of the Tulsa, Okla., boys. As flying beach balls landed on girls' laps, the teens grabbed pens and markers to write personal messages with phone numbers and e-mail addresses to Hanson hoping that the balls would end up backstage Brittany Young's saucer-sized blue eyes enlarged each time an audience screamed The 8-year-old couldn't believe that she was about to see the Hanson boys - guitarist Isaac, drummer Zac and Taylor - in person.

Teen crush: Canton residents Sarah Meyer (at right, with friend Jessica Daly) practically wallpapered her room with Hanson posters. While Stevie McEvoy took a more laid-back approach. Stevie, who lives in Garden City, is a concert veteran. Besides Hanson, she also saw her, Stevie Nicks, after whom she is named, and the classical concert "Bugs Bunny on Broadway.

ed to the rival faction. Nightmare of nightmares, one of her relatives was even a periodic house guest during this volatile time.

And if this were not enough, the woman lost many close to her. During the reorganization battle, the couple's beloved son died. The loss of a child is the cruelest fate for any parent. Even worse, the boy's death was the couple's second such loss.

Eventually, her husband thwarted the opposition, but a violent death denied him his taste of victory. She mourned profoundly. Unfortunately, she found no support group; nor did she later when fate dealt another crushing blow, and she had to bury yet a third son. To the contrary, she was criticized for her inability to cope with the overwhelming grief. Her eldest and sole surviving son - a mercenary fellow - finally forced her into a mental asylum.

Down but not out, this remarkable woman drew on an inner reserve of fortitude. Over the following year, acting with an uncharacteristic degree of independence, she arranged for her own legal defense and regained her freedom.

I wish I could say her story had a happy ending, but, sadly, she died far from home and nearly penniless.

Each among us either has, knows or has read about similar struggles. This is when we long for the simpler times of yesteryear.

The woman in our story would disagree with our idea that the past was less stressful. She lived her life in the years surrounding the Civil War. Her name was Mary Todd Lincoln.

There are many like her for whom life is, or has been, fraught with immense difficulties. No decade, century, or era offers immunity. Nor have they altered what really counts.

Growth Works mentors hope to make a difference

At age 15, Mike Young went from regularly drinking with his friends and facing attempted breaking-and-entering charges to being named student of the month at his school.

And most of the change, his mom. Marcia, said, is due to the mentoring program at Growth Works, a local community service agency for 11- to 17year-olds.

Mike refers to his mentor, Jim Young, who is no relation, alternately as like a brother and a father to him.

"On the days that I miss my sessions with him, I really want to go," Mike said. "It's a really good program and it's helped me a lot.

In fact, the ninth-grade Plymouth Salem High School student wants to be a counselor.

"Tve been through a lot and I'd like to help other kids," he said.

Marcia Young is overwhelmed by Mike's turnaround, and she says the credit goes to Growth Works, which has also given her parenting advice and support.

"My son likes it so well that he wants to go back and help other kids," said Marcia, who lives with Mike and his older sister in Canton.

Mike needs a strong male influence, Marcia said, because his father, an alcoholic, died in 1995

"He bonded with Mr. Young right away," she said. "Mike writes little notes to himself about things that he wants to tell Mr. Young.

"Before that he was making gigantic moves backward. There for a while it was one thing after another, and each thing seemed to be getting progressively worse.

"Then it was suggested that he go to Growth Works. He's changed his friends and the way he's dressing. He's changed his attitude. Now he says I don't need to think about things that are wrong, because there are so many things that go along with it.'

Marcia is also struck by the empathy Mike now shows for other kids.

"It seems his niche is to help kids at school," she said.

Making a difference

Volunteers don't always know if their good intentions and hard work make a difference. But, at least in this case, it's obvious.

Young has been a mentor at Growth Works for seven years

Indians on rampage

The Michigan Indians, a 10-andunder Willie Mays-level baseball team based in Plymouth, rolled to the championship of the Fourth of July Invitational Tournament in Sylvania, Ohio, with six-consecutive victories including a 12-0 mercy-rule triumph in the title game against the Sylvania Mavericks.

The Indians outscored their opponents 80-17 in the tourney. In the vic-tory over the Mavericks, Shawn Dunford (from Westland) and Greg Marrone (Plymouth) combined to pitch a three-hitter, with Marrone, Nick Sarkissian (South Lyon) and Kyle Gendron (Plymouth) paced the offense with two hits apiece.

The six wins in this tournament, which also included teams from Indiana and Maryland, improved the Indians' overall record to 31-9.

Other Indians are: David Carey, Shawn Little and Craig Post (Canton); Eddie Duggan and Stephen Merlo (Livonia); Nick Sarkissian (South Lyon); Garrett Ruthig (Brighton); and Craig LaPlante (Whitmore Lake). The team is coached by Jim Gendron, Dave Sarkissian and Nick Marrone.

Rangers reign

The Canton Rangers, an under-10 boys select soccer team, finished first in the WSSL Select Under-10 Boys Division II last spring, posting an 8-0-0 record

In winning the title, the Rangers defeated teams from Novi, Farmington, Livonia and Canton.

Lafata is new SC women's coach

Just in time

Talk about a perfect fit - Karen Lafata wanted a college coaching position that would allow her to spend most of her time coaching. Schoolcraft wanted a proven basketball coach. They both got what they desired.

Anyone familiar with Schoolcraft College's athletic department is well aware of how things have changed for the better - in the past year. New coaches, new administrators, new financial support have all made the outlook for SC sports look promising.

The latest addition in the first of that trilogy is Karen Lafata, who replaces Ed Kavanaugh as SC's women's basketball coach. Kavanaugh remains as SC's athletic director; indeed, he was the reason Lafata left her position as Macomb CC's women's coach to take the SC position.

At first glance, it might not seem like a good choice. Lafata, who has coached for 25 years, lives in Warren and has coached in that area most of her career. At Macomb, she went 11-17 in her first season (1996-97), then developed a squad that won the Michigan Community College Athletic Association's Eastern Conference championship last year, going 25-9 and reaching the NJCAA Tournament.

So why leave a program on the rise to take a similar job at a similar school much farther away?

For Lafata, the decision was an easy one. "It's a great opportunity to work for Ed Kavanaugh, whom I have great respect for and whom I have known for 20 years," she explained.

"And there's Schoolcraft itself - the facilities are excellent. I'll be able to recruit the tri-county area better, and it's just a great area to recruit. With Ed, I know women's basketball will get a fair shake. And the situation that's happening there, with the (financial), support for athletics, made this an easy decision."

At Macomb, Lafata had to "do a lot of fundraising. I spent all my energy doing that.'

With SC's increase in athletic scholarship help, Lafata has been able to

SC will still sparkle on court Coach from page C1

Su When Ed Kavanaugh, a longtime women's basketball coach who built strong programs at Livonia Ladywood and at Schoolcraft Coldege, decided that "when it came time to start recruiting again, well, I could tell my heart wasn't in it", he knew it was time to step aside.

Kavanaugh had other responsibilities at SC as athletic director. He knew a coach who could step right in and make his program even better.

That person was Kathy Lafata who last year guided Macomb CC to the NJCAA Tournament. At Macomb. Lafata had to raise funds to build the Monarchs' program; at SC, Kavanaugh was juggling both coaching and administrative responsibilities.

By combining their talents, there's no doubt SC will be the better for it.

That gave Lafata a solid foundation to build upon. She wasted no time.

Lafata brought with her three members of her conference championship team at Michigan (but did not play) last year. "I'm very confident this team can be a contender," said Lafata. "We'll be sophomore eavy and experienced."

But that's not all the Ocelots will have. Lafata is bringing in three freshmen who should help immediately: 5-7 forward/guard Denise Willis, from Detroit Kettering, a second team all-PSL selection who averaged 15 points a game; 6-0 center Chanty Pratt, a 1994 Lansing Everett graduate who attended Ball State but never played; and 5-10 forward Gina Brooke, a 1996 Walled Lake Western graduate who went to Eastern

"That kind of rounds out our roster right there," said Lafata. "But we have room for a couple of others.

"I guess we could be a little bigger. But we'll be quick."

he Michigan Jazz Festival, returning to Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills Sunday, July 19, continues to be among the best bargains in town.

Admission? Forget about it. It's free!

Festival spokeswoman Midge Ellis reports the fourth edition of the annual festival featuring "old, straight-ahead, classic jazz" will sport four stages, 20 groups, four big bands, 178 musicians for 11 hours at the historic Botsford Inn on Grand River just north of Eight Mile Road. How can they do that?

Start with a grant from the Music Performance Trust Fund. Add the contribution of the Michigan Jazz Festival Board with a big assist from developer Morry Cohen and sponsorship of the American Federation of Musi-cians Local 5, the Lear Corp., Woodbridge Sales & Engineering, InmartGroup Ltd. and the Southeastern Michigan Jazz Association, and you've got $23,000 worth of jazz performed by local ousicians, and free admission for said, which makes the musicians somewhat nervous because the fans listen intently to the music. The players know that if they goof up it will be heard. "But they love it," Ellis said.

Veteran Motown drummer Howard "Pistol" Allen agrees with the second half of that. "We don't goof up," he said. "We've been playing so long that there's no such thing as making mistakes. We've had years and years of great people who love us. There's no way we can get nervous. It's just like sitting down and having a cup of coffee with you and having fun."

Perhaps feeling something like Col. Mustard in the board game Clue, Allen will do it with the drums in the ballroom at 12:30 p.m. with his quintet.

Allen, 65, has been drumming in the Detroit area since 1957 when he began "playing with everybody" at Baker's Keyboard Lounge on Eight Mile Road at Livernois. He joined the Motown stable in 1961 and stayed with the label, playing on upwards of 3,000 songs, through 1972 when the company moved to California and Allen stayed here.

still enjoys the process "tremendously.' Why?

"There are a lot of things now I do naturally that I used to have to really work at" Like what?

"Like playing really well." Nozero is a member of that army of musicians who have earned a living at it for many years but haven't quite become household names The Novi resident played as a studio musician on many old Motown records of the 1960s and '70s (That's his soprano sax solo on Marvin Gaye's "What's Going On?"), toured with Henry Mancini and Johnny Mathis, served as music director and bandleader at Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel for five years and cut 13 solo jazz albums. Last year he was inducted into the Legends of Jazz International Hall of Fame.

"It's been a hell of a life," he said. "Music has been very good to me. It has given me an interesting life. I'm doing what I believe I'm here to do."

fans.

Past festivals on the same location have packed Botsford to the point where organizers were probably grateful the fire marshal didn't turn up. More than 5,000 people attended in 1997.

This year they've gotten permission from Clarenceville Schools to use the high school parking lot on Middlebelt south of Eight Mile Road for supplemental parking. Shuttle buses will carry fans from the high school to the festival at 15-minute intervals, Ellis said.

Michigan Jazz Festival fans tend to be aficionados in the strictest sense of the word, Ellis

Allen expects his latest, yet unnamed, album to be on sale by the end of the year.

Another Motown contributor, sax player Larry Nozero will play at the Michigan Jazz Festival, too. Look for him and his quartet at 7:30 p.m. on the patio stage.

The quartet, consisting of Nozero, pianist Terry Lower, bassist Ray Tini and drummer Jim Ryan, performs every Monday night at DePalma's, a restaurant/bar on Plymouth Road west of Merriman in Livonia.

Nozero, 54, has been playing music for more than 40 years and is in Detroit-area stores now but has yet to be picked up for distribution nationally.

The quartet will perform some of the "Warm" material at the festival, but most of it is backed by a string section and isn't suitable for a bare-bones quartet presentation. "These are all ballads." Nozero said, "all romance. It's the first album I've done that's been like this."

The Michigan Jazz Festival begins at noon Sunday, July 19, and continues through 11 p.m. The Botsford Inn offers food and drink for sale throughout the event. For more information, call (248) 474-2720.

Pine Knob welcomes Metallica back to Michigan

Metallica

What: Performs along with Days of the New and Jerry Cantrell

When: 6:30 p.m. Friday-Saturday, July 10-11

Where: Pine Knob Music Theatre, 1-75 and Sashabaw Road, Independence Township Why: In support of its latest album "Reload" How: Tickets, $43 pavilion and $31 lawn, are available for the second show. For more information, call (248) 377-0100. Metallica's website is http://www.metclub.com.

Jason Newsted holds his breath every time his band Metallica takes a little time off.

"I still get surprised pleasantly each time we go back out after being home. At the beginning of this year, we took two months off and that's the longest time that we've ever taken away from the band since the band started," the bass player said.

Metallica took a few months off to get their personal lives in order. Guitarist Kirk Hammett married his longtime girlfriend, Lani, during a ceremony in Hawaii in January. Guitarist/singer James Hetfield and drummer Lars Ulrich both became fathers.

"It gave the band time to find themselves in their own little personal lives. Kirk went and got married. Everybody got themselves together a bit more."

When Metallica resumed its tour in support of "Reload" (Elektra), Newsted realized he didn't have a thing to worry about.

"There's only a few tickets that aren't sold at all. It feels good. We must be doing something right," Newsted said with a laugh.

"After being home, you wonder what's going to happen. So many bands have come and gone in that time. It changes so much. But all the seats are filled and everybody is singing."

The same will go for Detroit. Only a few tickets remain for the second of Metallica's two-night stand, Friday-Saturday, July 10-11, at Pine Knob Music Theatre in Independence Township.

The show, which opens with Jerry

Cantrell and Days of the New, will be a reunion for Newsted, he was born in Battle Creek and raised in Niles and Kalamazoo Newsted moved from Michigan 17 years ago at age 18. He resided in Phoenix, Ariz., in 1981-1986 during which time he played in the rock band Flotsam and Jetsam. When Metallica's original bassist Cliff Burton died, Newsted took his place.

Newsted still has family in the state and returns twice a year.

"It's usually at Christmas and I was there two weeks ago (in early May). I've got some ATVs (all-terrain vehicles) back there. I get crazy and become a kid again. I get the motorcycles out and do a Released in November, "Reload" is the second half to its previous release, "Load," which was originally scheduled to be a double album.

"We went in the studio to record 'Load' and we spent a lot of the time writing the songs. We wrote 30 songs all together. The initial plan was to record all of them," Newsted explained. "But we got a ways into the

Stripped down

Newsted explained that the Pine Knob shows will be much different from the show it put on at The Palace last year.

"We really went the full nine on that one. This is more of an outdoor summertime show which is usually more of a strippeddown situation. We're usually just trying to get a really cool light show happening and keep it pretty stripped down."

Newsted said Metallica digs deep into its library of 17 years of material for its live show. "We play a few really heavy ongs from each era of Metallica. You have to figure all the people coming to listen cover a span of 20 or 25 years in age difference. We have to hit them in that special spot that reminds of them of when they were high school or junior high and listening to 'Ride the Lightning,' the black ("Metallica")record, 'Enter Sandman,' or 'Nothing Else Matters.'

"If we hit that, maybe they'll listen to the next song that they didn't know before. We're trying to give everybody a special thing to hold on to. ... We've developed a set where it doesn't matter how many lights you have or how many bombs you have. What matters is what's coming out of the amps and what's coming out of your hands."

The paintings, which were stored in the museum's basement, will be displayed at the DIA for the first time in 40 vears.

The collection includes portraits of women from the 17th-19th centuries.

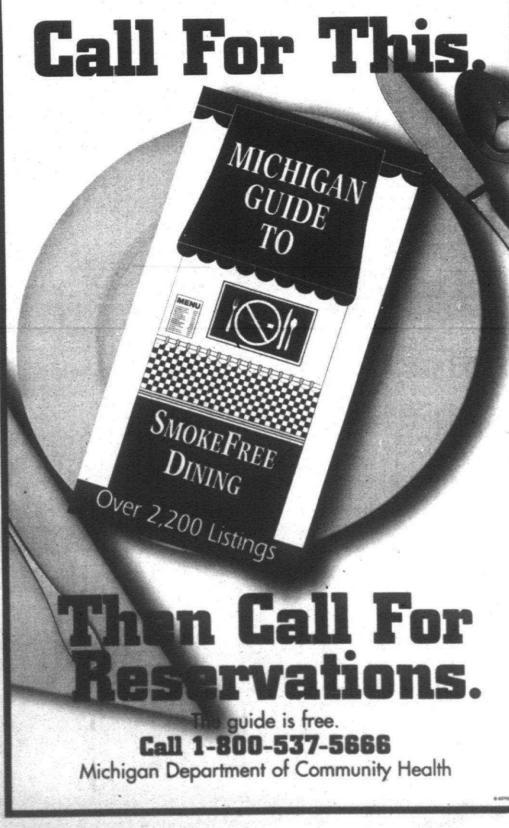

"The focus is on the feminine ideal in past European cultures," said Aimee Marcereau, curator of the exhibit. Included in that "feminine ideal" is strict attention to detail - fabrics, garments, hair styles, cosmetics and jewel-

The portraits, according to Marcereau, are snapshots of the time. Painters in the exhibit include Cornelis de Vos, Joseph Highmore, John Hoppner and George Romney. Until now, however, these

Shaw teases with provocative, funny 'Major Barbara'

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAFF WRITER

George Bernard Shaw's plays are multi-layered, complex and devious. And "Major Barbara" may be his most devious work of

""Major Barbara," at the Festival Theatre, is one of two Shaw plays being presented at this year's Shaw Festival in Niagaraon-the-Lake, Ontario.

As often in Shaw's plays, this is both a spirited comedy and a philosophical discussion. In this case all the good lines go to someone usually cast as the villain - a munitions manufacturer millionaire. But with irony, sharp wit and a total rejection of the usual pieties, Shaw's play argues against the scourge of poverty and the sham of any religion that accepts false conver-

Bahara is the older daughter of munitions king Andrew Undershaft. She has taken a position with the Salvation Army, partly to make up for her father's fortune.

Undershaft hasn't lived with his family for years because his wife threw him out when he told her that their son wouldn't inherit the munitions works. The son, a weak child of the aristoc-happy to live off the fortune.

Director Helena Kaut-Howson's production is stylishly prewell cast. All the rich insights presented with both humor and compassion and every startling and, on the surface, offensive argument rings with full clarity.

Jim Mezon's Andrew Undershaft is perfectly understated, a man who waits, listens and then pounces, but with a rare and practiced civility. Here is a man you can't help but like even though you despise so much of what he has to say. Mezon carries his body with a peculiar erectness and fusses with his clothes in the fashion of one not born to wealth but accommodating to it.

And what great lines. On the crime of poverty: "The worst of Nov. 1. crimes. All other crimes are virtues beside it: all other dishonours are chivalry itself by comparison. Poverty blights whole cities; spreads horrible pestilences; strikes dead the very souls of those who come within sight, sound and smell of it."

Colm Magninto English class society are er plays the working class bully Bill Walker with a telling conviction and self regard. Sharry Flett is amusingly domineering as Lady Undershaft.

William Schmuck's "forced perspective" sets are vigorous. The time has been updated from 1905 to 1950 to make the munitions operation a nuclear weapons factory. The sets move on a turn table that works well in the second act Salvation Army cityscape and in the shifting tour of the nuclear plant.

The updating is subtle but reminds us that Shaw is still relevant to our circumstances. "Major Barbara" continue until The Shop at Sly Corner

Fusion cuisine in the spotlight at Eurasian Grill

BY ELEANOR & RAY HEALD SPECIAL WRITERS

INING

E8*

We've all read stories about people coming out of retirement because they're bored. If you're still dreaming about retirement, you may wonder whether these accounts are fiction or fable. Eurasian Grill in West Bloomfield was born out of retirement boredom.

Eurasian's chef/owner David Lum spent 44 years in the restaurant business; the last 20 at the Rickshaw in West Bloomfield's Orchard Mall (now home to Shangri-La, owned by Nancy Chan). In his third year of retirement, Lum was bored silly and got back to what he loved the restaurant scene.

"In 1973 at the Rickshaw, I introduced the Detroit metropolitan area to Spring Lum recalled. "People Rolls,' wouldn't eat them. They wanted egg rolls. Now, they know Spring Rolls and they are a top seller on the menu.

"Fusion cuisine is hot on the West Coast and in New York City. It has made breakthroughs in Chicago. Satay bars are springing up in California and New York. This is the food culture that I want to expand in this area."

Lum describes fusion cuisine as the blending of flavors and techniques from both the West and East. There are, however, many variations in this interpretation. "But it is diversification

Eurasian Grill

Cost: First tastes $2-8.50; fusion dishes $13-20; Asian cuisine $7-14.

that makes this cooking style so exciting," he noted.

In naming his restaurant Eurasian Grill, Lum not only set the fusion tone, but also says something about his family. He's native Cantonese, married to Temple, a Canadian. Both are now American citizens making their home in West Bloomfield. "My kids are half-breeds." he jokes with his infectious laugh. "My food is like that."

His daughter Susan earned an architecture degree from the University of Michigan. She designed the 75-seat Eurasian Grill splendidly. Black and copper set the mood, best appreciated at night. Last month, walls were still stark, but Lum promised that family pictures were "being framed" and would soon be hung. A small, but well-stocked bar will soon have an extension with a 200-bottle wine rack. Wine aficionado patrons can have wines stored there especially for them. The menu appetizer section, referenced as "First Tastes," does not separate fusion from Asian, but the principal plates do. Enticements" are fusion and "Asian Cuisine" speaks for itself.

Intriguing fusion appetizers include mussels, reminiscent of France, Belgium or Spain, cooked in a wok with a spicy garlic sauce. Sea scallops, sauteed in a lime butter and wine sauce, are French influenced. Farmraised roast quail sinks its roots in several places, but becomes distinctly fusion with Asian Five Spice and hot chili oil.

Calamari Ahi blends Italian and Asian. These are healthy; like many of Eurasian Grill's dishes, not deep fried, but sauteed.

Dave's Famous Caesar Salad is made from the same recipe Lum used during his days at Trader Vic's and the Rickshaw - authentic to the hilt. No, wait, you can get it fusion with lox. Unique!

On to Enticements. Straight on, our eyes hit Indonesian Rack of Lamb, marinated and roasted over an open fire and Polynesian roast Duck with Asian star anise sauce. Abalone? As a declared endangered species from U.S. waters, it's impossible to find. Lum gets his imported from Australia and bills it "Down Under Abalone" and serves it with French lemon sauce.

Swordfish served with a spicy black bean sauce is enticing and then there are two Rickshaw throwbacks. Rickshaw Steak is New York Strip, nestled in a bed of mixed vegetables, and Mandarin's Delight is beef and chicken cooked in a wok with black beans and garlic.

Among the Asian dishes, Lum's favorite is Empress Chicken, chunks of chicken, sauteed with a variety of mixed vegetables, cashews and hoisin sauce. If you like duck with crispy skin, order Duck Macao with a very special sauce!

Four bottled beers are available, but Lum has found his clientele have a wine preference. They can choose from a very smart, one-page list. Lum's favorite wine on his list? 1995 Scassino Terrabianca, a Chiantistyle red wine, well-priced for enjoyment at $30. Eurasian Grill is also learning that its patrons are opting out of dessert, particularly in summer. But for sweet endings, there's a Mackinac Island Brownie with ice cream and chocolate sauce.
