Trustee makes abrupt departure

■ Citing personal reasons, longtime Plymouth-Canton school board member Roland Thomas resigned his seat Friday. The board will appoint someone to fill the remaining 1½ years of Thomas' term.

BY TONY BRUSCATO

tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

Saying only that the reason is "very personal," Plymouth-Canton school board member Roland Thomas Friday morning resigned from his position on the Board of Education.

Moments after voting in favor of hiring Berkley Schools Superintendent Kathleen Booher as the district's next superintendent in a special meeting, Thomas handed fellow trustees a one-sentence letter announcing his resignation.

"Effective January 1, 2000, I am resigning my position as trustee on the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education," the letter said.

After giving out the announcement, Thomas walked out of the meeting as other board members continued executive session.

In effect, it was the last meeting for Thomas. The school board doesn't meet again until Jan. 11.

Superintendent pact sets $125,000 salary

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Friday afternoon offered a contract to Berkley Schools Superintendent Kathleen Booher, 50, to become the district's next CEO.

And, if all goes well, the i's could be dotted and the t's could be crossed as early as next week.

"We sat down and compared notes," said Booher. "We'll probably get together next week to continue discussions. The track for closure is very soon."

School board President Sue Davis

and Trustee Mark Slavens met with Booher Friday afternoon in Berkley, offering her a contract. Davis is hoping to have negotiations wrapped up by the end of the year.

No one is officially saying how much Booher is being offered; however, sources indicate the contract is worth $125,000 a year. Errol Goldman, assistant superintendent for employee relations and personnel, said it's "safe to assume the offer is more than the $120,000 former superintendent Chuck Little made" before he left last July.

A scant turnout is expected in Canton and Plymouth for the Feb. 22 presidential primary.

Just 10 to 15 percent of registered voters are likely to cast ballots, according to local officials. Voters must register by Jan. 24 to be eligible for the primary.

"It's usually a very low turnout," Canton Clerk Terry Bennett said. "I guess people don't have an interest in it, generally."

Anyone may vote for candidates from any party.

While the ballot will not become official until Dec. 21, a number of Republican, Democrat and Reform party candidates are already certified. According to the Michigan Department of State Bureau of Elections, they

Township board gives developers final OK

Cherry Hill Village is a step closer to reality.

The massive development, which will include at least 1,300 homes on 338 acres on the township's far west end, was granted final approval Tuesday by Canton's Board of Trustees. Ground-breaking is scheduled for late spring or early summer next year.

"I think we have a really dynamic plan," said Biltmore Properties Vice President David Stollman. "I believe it will turn out to be what everyone wants it to be."

The Troy-based development firm will have spent nearly two years, and several million dollars on the project by the time the first shovel hits dirt. Canton Supervisor Tom Yack said Biltmore's hard work has paid off in terms of planning.

"It's probably the most complete (planned development district) submission we've seen," he said. "By far."

■ CHERRY HILL VILLAGE

Cherry Hill will be bordered by Saltz Road in the north, Proctor in the south, Napier in the west and Denton in the east.

Biltmore is incorporating the village's history, in terms of existing buildings and architectural styles, into the project.

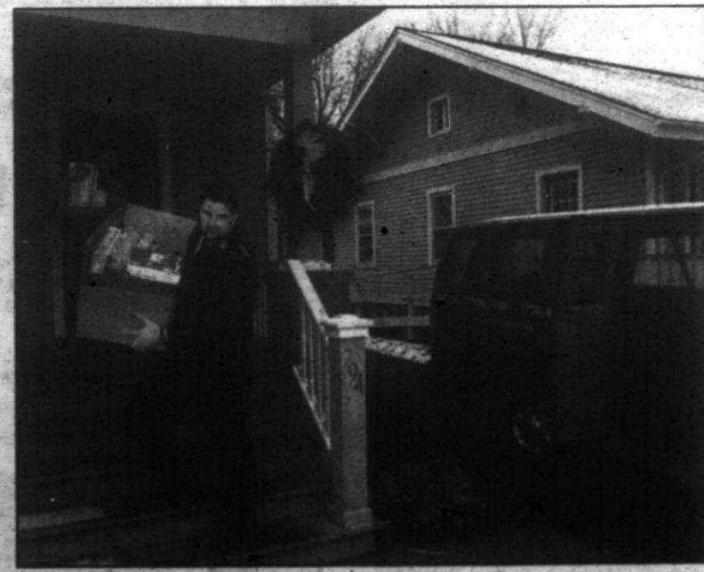

Cherry Hill School, for example, will be at the new village's center. The village church and cemetery will be important elements in the development as well. Biltmore was granted preliminary PDD approval in September. Several minor changes were made to the final plan.

An additional parkway was added. It will connect a wooded square near the village's core at Cherry Hill and Ridge roads to a large park in the southeastern part of the development.

A conscious effort has been made to preserve open space in Cherry Hill, according to developers. A system of parks, greens, squares and bicycle

Salvation Army, Observer end another campaign

The Observer office in Plymouth no longer looks like the toddler aisle at Toys 'R Us or the canned goods section at your favorite supermarket.

That's because another Cheer Club campaign has wrapped up. And thanks to generous readers of the Plymouth and Canton Observers, disadvantaged area families will have a merry Christmas.

The Salvation Army van pulled up to the Observer office Thursday to collect dozens of packages donated by readers since the Cheer Club campaign started Nov. 22. There were toys, games, dolls, hand-knitted scarves, gloves and blankets, as well as store-bought winter clothes and enough packaged food to last well into the next millennium.

The donations will be distributed to families in Plymouth, Canton and Northville throughout the holiday season.

The Observer wishes to thank all who donated to this year's campaign and became "members" of our Cheer Club. Contributions in the last week have come from:

Canton police corner, ticket Peeping Tom

A 35-year-old Canton man was arrested for being a Peeping Tom early Thursday morning.

According to township police reports, officers went to the 2000 block of Briarfield at 6:40 a.m. on a call that the man was looking through the window of a home on the street.

Canton officers found a man walking down Briarfield near the home. After asking what he was doing, officers searched the man and discovered a digital video camera.

The 35-year-old man told police that he had passed by the home six to eight times hoping to "catch a glimpse" of an 18-year-old girl in her window. A witness said a man had been watching the home for months.

Police issued the man a citation for being a disorderly person - Peeping Tom. He now has a 35th District Court appearance date of Jan. 14 in Plymouth.

Police don't believe the 35-year-old man is the same man involved in three Peeping Tom incidents in Canton last month.

Larceny
A compact disc player was reported stolen from the car of a 29-year-old Canton man either late Monday or early Tuesday.

Someone smashed the driver-side window of the 1997 Chevy Cavalier to get at the stereo, which was valued at $240, police reports said. The incident occurred in the 7000 block of Meadowbrook.

MDOIP
About $1,400 worth of damage was done to a 21-year-old Canton man's car Monday.

Someone used a hammer to smash out the rear and passenger-side windows of the vehicle, a 1987 Oldsmobile. Several body panels were also smashed, reports said.

Fraud
A fake $20 bill was discovered at a Michigan Avenue gas station Wednesday.

Reports said the bill was exchanged for service, although the type of service wasn't specified.

Retail fraud
A 41-year-old Grayling man was arrested for trying to shoplift at $75 coat from Mejer Wednesday.

Police reports said the man went into a fitting room and then concealed the jacket. The 41-year-old man then tried to leave the store but was stopped by store loss prevention officers.

Canton Police later discovered three outstanding arrest warrants for the Grayling man.

Home invasion
A 20-year-old Canton man and his girlfriend were the victims of a home invasion late Tuesday.

The couple were unloading groceries at their home in the 1700 block of Reesey when two men came in behind them, reports said. One of the suspects, who was described as 5-foot-10-inches and 180 pounds, pushed the Canton man over his couch saying, "You ripped off my boy, now your son is ours."

Reports said the 20-year-old man got up, punched a second suspect and ran out of the apartment. The two suspects eventually caught up with him, but no further punches were thrown.

discuss why, but not now," said Thomas. "It's too emotional to talk about it."

"I thought about this for about a week," he said. "It has nothing to do with my colleagues, the new high school or the hiring of Kathleen Booher, whom I fully support."

"Thomas would only say it was a 'situation that drove me to the decision.'"

"I made a commitment to myself and the community that when I couldn't be objective as a board member on certain issues I would step down," he added. "I'm very principled."

Thomas has spent two stints totaling 15 1/2 years on the board. He was appointed to fill a vacancy in July 1982. In June 1983, he was re-elected and served three consecutive four-year terms. After taking a couple of years off, Thomas ran again and was elected in June 1997 to a four-year seat.

"I'm just shocked," was Trustee Judy Mardigan's reaction. "Roland brings a lot of experience to the board."

"None of us had any previous knowledge," added Trustee Liz Givens. "He'll be sorely missed."

A couple of board members expressed hope Thomas would reconsider.

"He's a seasoned member of the board. I hope he reconsiders, but I'll respect his decision either way," said board member Darwin Watts.

"He gives us a history of what has happened in the district, which is especially helpful to new board members and the new superintendent," said Trustee Steve Guile. "I hope he reconsiders."

Thomas will be leaving with approximately 1 1/2 years left on his term. The Board of Education will appoint someone to fill the vacancy until the June 2000 school board election. The remaining year will be filled by voters.

ized soon, Booher said she would be able to start her new position some time in February.

In a 7 a.m. board meeting Friday, trustees voted 7-0 to offer Booher a pact. The vote came one day after teams of school board members and community leaders visited Berkeley schools in an all-day site visit to find out more about Booher before officially offering the contract.

"I met with board members, various staff, assistant superintendents, business leaders ... and everyone was extremely positive about her," said Slavens.

"They talked about her leadership qualities, her vision. She's also very good at involving the schools with the business community and local government."

"We tried and tried and tried to find negatives about her, but we couldn't," said trustee Liz Givens. "I don't think we learned anything new, but we reaffirmed that she's an excellent leader, she knows how to deal with people, gets things done efficiently and people enjoy working with her."

Davis said many in Berkeley noted Booher's high standards.

"She has high expectations and everyone is expected to work to the level she expects," said Davis. "She's visible in the community and the parents love her. And I heard over and over about her great communication skills."

Pioneer Middle School Principal Tom Owens was one of those who participated in the site visit, and told board members he's excited at the possibility of working with Booher.

"We heard that she's an independent thinker, does things logically and is a technology leader," said Owens. "One of the comments we heard is that she lets teachers color outside the lines."

Booher said if she signs the contract, she'll move into the district with her husband, Steven Bassett.

"I think it's important to be in the community where the school district is," said Booher. "I'll be relocating."

Interim Superintendent Ken Walcott said that while his contract with Plymouth-Canton ends in mid-January, he may be able to help fulfill the superintendent's duties until Booher comes on board.

2-year Sheldon shutdown may be avoided

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER
sbuck@e.homecomm.net

Officials from Wayne County Public Services, the City of Plymouth, and Plymouth Township agreed Monday to study alternative measures to a two-year closure of Sheldon Road at the railroad crossing.

A railroad bridge is being built there next year.

The county will provide a report at the end of the third week in January.

"The report will look at options that were discussed with the county relative to the bypass road," said Jim Anulewicz, Plymouth Township director of public services. "There are a number of physical limitations to the site, such as engineering factors, soil condition, etc. The report will include these factors in the analysis and the evaluation of the various options. The intent of the analysis will be to eliminate and/or reduce the closure period for Sheldon Road to a minimum time period. The cost/benefit ratio will also be included in the analysis."

The Plymouth Township board is expected to discuss this report at its first public meeting in February.

According to Wayne County officials, the only potential route for a temporary bypass road is director of engineering for Wayne County Public Services. Negotiations are expected to be reopened with REDICO.

"We want to minimize the impact," said John Roach, public relations spokesperson for Wayne County Public Services. "We are putting forth a good faith effort."

The county will look at ways to stage the construction before it needs to close Sheldon Road totally, Roach said.

"If all parties don't agree, the project won't happen," Roach said.

The county plans to construct a railroad bridge at the railroad crossing. There are 15 railroad crossings in Plymouth and Plymouth Township and the new railroad overpass and Sheldon Road underpass are expected to provide more convenience for motorists who are frequently held up in traffic that backs up from the railroad crossings.

Amber Alert links police, media on kidnappings

BY MATT JACHIMAN
STAFF WRITER
mjachiman@oe.homecomm.net

A planned link between law enforcement and the electronic media is designed to foil child kidnappings in Michigan in their early stages.

Amber Alert, through which a police agency can, with a single fax, inform all radio and television stations in its area of a child abduction, has proven successful in Texas and California, its proponents said Thursday.

The systems can make the public, including motorists who are listening to their vehicle radios, the eyes and ears of the police shortly after a kidnapping is confirmed.

"We think this is a really terrific program," said U.S. Sen.

Spencer Abraham (R-Mich.) on Thursday. "It'll give us one more tool to be as effective as we can."

"It should be effectively implemented in every corner of this country," said Mark Klaas, the father of a 12-year-old, Polly Klaas, who was abducted in California in 1993 and later murdered.

Abraham, Klaas, Michigan State Police Sgt. Greg Jones and others joined Livonia Mayor Jack Kirkey and Police Chief Pete Kunst at Livonia Police Department headquarters Thursday to announce the program. Amber Alert of Michigan president Robin Trumbull said the system should be up and running by March.

With Amber Alert, named after 9-year-old Amber Hagerman of Arlington, Texas, who was kidnapped and killed in 1996, police fax descriptions of the child, his or her abductor and any vehicle involved to Michigan State Police, along with other relevant information, once they confirm an abduction has taken place and the child is in danger.

State police then notify the media in that area. Radio stations are to interrupt programming to broadcast the information, while television stations can display it in a "crawl" across the bottom of viewers' screens.

"By activating Amber Alert, we create a net," Jones said.

The system has been successful in two cases, Trumbull said. In one, a motorist spotted an abductor's pickup truck minutes after a broadcast and called police. In another, an abductor who heard his own description on the radio got scared and returned the child.

"It's much more effective when you've got 10,000 people looking for a perpetrator" as opposed to a dozen or so law enforcement officials, Trumbull said.

Kunst said the system would save critical time in the case of child abductions. Right now, he said, a detective would have to be pulled off the case to notify all broadcast outlets individually and explain the details.

"In a critical incident, such as an abduction, time is of the essence," Kunst said.

In order to prevent abuses, a standard set of criteria would have to be met before a case could be broadcast on Amber Alert, Jones said. The exact criteria have not been finalized, he said. Klaas said that when his daughter was kidnapped, it was decided the information should not be for the media. Therefore, it was not broadcast to police in the field because it was feared the media would be monitoring the police radio frequency.

Two sheriff's deputies unwittingly helped the abductor 20 minutes after the kidnapping, Klaas said.

"They helped him pull his car out of a ditch and sent him on his way. Unbelievable," he said. Trumbull said Amber Alert of Michigan has applied for non-profit status and is accepting donations. Trumbull, of Battle Creek, can be contacted at (616) 964-7100 or (616) 789-1302, or via e-mail at amberalertofmi@

Klaas said his organization, the Klaas Kids Foundation, will match, up to $3,000, donations to Amber Alert of Michigan.

Madonna launches adult nurse practitioner master's program

Anticipating the future career needs of nurses, Madonna University in Livonia will offer a new master's degree and certificate program with an adult nurse practitioner specialty. The program, which begins in January 2000, prepares nurses to diagnose and manage primary health needs of adults.

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, future career opportunities will be best for nurses with advanced education and training, such as nurse practitioners. Overall, the Bureau predicts that employment of registered nurses is expected to grow faster than the average, or 21 to 35 percent, for all occupations through the year 2006.

"The adult nurse practitioner specialty provides the advanced practice nurse with the knowledge to make sophisticated health management decisions," said Dr. Mary Wawrzynski, dean of the College of Nursing and Health. "The training is vital, since an increasing number of complex procedures, which once were performed only in hospitals, are being carried out in physician's offices and clinics."

The adult practitioner specialization will be offered as a master of science in nursing degree, as well as a post-master's certificate for nurses who already possess a master of nursing degree.

Upon completion of either the master's degree or the certificate, students will have the educational theory and clinical practice necessary to take the National Adult Nurse Practitioner Certification exam through the American Nurse Credentialing Center and become licensed as a Nurse Practitioner in the State of Michigan.

Students enrolled in the program will benefit from the expertise of faculty members who are active nurse practitioners.

"The nursing faculty are pleased and excited to now offer the adult nurse practitioner specialty and post master's certificate. The nurse practitioner specialty will allow our graduates to work in multiple practice settings, offering comprehensive primary health care in collaboration with other health providers," said Betty Dornbrook, assistant professor and a nurse practitioner.

Dornbrook will coordinate the program with Deborah Dunn, also an assistant professor and nurse practitioner. Assistant professors Gail Lis and Therese Jamison, nurse practitioner, will teach in the program along with Dunn and Dornbrook. For convenience of students, classes will be scheduled in the evenings and other suitable times.

"We recognize that students who enroll in the program will most likely be working adults, so we have designed the program so it can be completed on a part-time basis," said Dr. Edith Raleigh, dean of graduate studies.

The Madonna University nursing program was established in 1962 and is one of the largest four-year nursing programs in Michigan. At the graduate level, the College of Nursing and Health also offers a master of science in nursing with specialties in nursing administration, adult health: chronic health conditions, as well as a dual degree in nursing administration and business. The adult practitioner post-graduate certificate joins two existing certificates for the nurse educator and nurse entrepreneur.

Business panel gives upbeat forecast for metro economy

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

After nine years of economic expansion, one of the longest periods of growth in U.S. history, a slowdown could actually prove some welcome relief.

"There is going to be a mild pullback, there is no question," Larry Yost, chairman and CEO of Meritor Automotive, told members of the Detroit Economic Club Monday, Dec. 13, during its annual Economic Outlook Luncheon. "For those of us that are in the (auto) industry, it is expected. Not only expected, it is welcomed ... We look it as an opportunity to get some breathing space ... It is time for us to get back to basics. There are a lot of things we need to work on, time to market, time to customer. And given all the over-stimulus that we have all been putting in, it is really important that we get back into balance our work and families, because people have been spending too much time at work."

Still, that "pull back" won't necessarily be recessionary. Yost explained that while initial projections for the year 2000 had been that the economy would see at least one quarter of "negative numbers," the belief now is that overall the economy will grow 3 percent for the year. He said he could only describe that as "robust."

That was the consensus of the remainder of the panel, selected by the Economic Club to give a look ahead at business, jobs and spending for the coming year ... at least one more year of growth before any slow down is anticipated.

In fact, Eugene Miller, chairman and CEO of Comerica Bank, said the biggest danger to the U.S. economic outlook is that "federal spending is accelerating in anticipation of the election next year. The markets no longer look kindly at election year."

Tim O'Brien, of O'Brien Waterford Construction in Pontiac, told the Economic Club he foresees a 7 percent growth in the construction industry in the Detroit area, surpassing the national expectations for the building industry. In the Detroit area, construction will continue to be dominated by "mega-projects," like casinos and sports stadiums in Detroit, he said. "Housing starts will likely decline by about 7.5 percent. Despite that drop, the decline in units represents a number similar to what was the entire market only a few short years ago."

The biggest obstacle to construction is a shortage of labor, O'Brien said. Floyd Hall, chairman, president and CEO of the Troy-based Kmart Corp., said that even if there is a slow down in the economy generally, an "anticipated increase in the population in the Detroit metropolitan region" will bring retailers here more customers.

The real challenge to retailers, he said, will be the growth of e-commerce, purchases made over the Internet. It won't be additional spending, he concluded. The money spent on purchases made over the World Wide Web will be money transferred from more traditional "bricks and mortar" retailers. But, he predicted, as more traditional retailers enter the e-commerce arena, there will likely be a shakeout of companies doing business on the Web. Kmart, for instance, plans to jump into sales over the Web in the coming year, he said.

Miller said he believes the current booming economy can be sustained into the next century, as long as business and political leaders remember what brought us to this point.

Miller said the Federal Reserve's "focused resolve" at keeping fluctuations in interest rates down has had much to do with that growth.

Additionally, four factors have contributed to the length and strength of the current economic boom - declining inflation and a strong dollar, streamlining of businesses, both through mergers and internal cost cutting; waves of new technology; and increased globalization of trade.

If businesses and political leaders remain focused on those areas, Miller said, it should be "more of the same" for the economy in the future.

 ■ Republicans Gary Bauer, George W. Bush, Steve Forbes, Orrin Hatch, Alan Keyes and John McCain.
 ■ Democrat Lyndon H. LaRouche Jr.
 ■ Reform candidate Donald J. Trump.
 Voters will also be able to cast an uncommitted ballot in each party if none of the candidates capture their fancy.

 In the city of Plymouth, 6,900 residents are registered. Clerk Linda Langnesser thinks the primary's timing will have a lot to do with the number of voters cast.
 "A lot of people go south for the winter," she said. "It's usually a pretty low turnout."

 The city had a 13-percent turnout in the 1996 primary.
 "I think it will be in that range again," Langnesser said. "I wouldn't expect anything more than that."
 Plymouth has shrunk from five to four voting precincts. Central Middle School will host precinct No. 3, while the rest will be at Plymouth's Cultural Center.
 Plymouth Township, meanwhile, will have one new precinct and a total of 17 in February.

The new precinct will be at Temple Baptist Church. The precinct is bounded by Beck and Napier roads running east and west, Ann Arbor Trail and North Territorial running north and south.
 The township has 20,000 registered voters. Deputy Clerk Sandy Growth declined to predict what the primary turnout will be but said, "we expect it to be low."
 In Canton, 12 percent of registered voters participated in 1996. Bennett expects similar numbers this time. More than half likely will come from absentee voters.
 "We have a pretty strong and active senior population," Bennett said, noting that senior citizens comprise the bulk of such voters. "We've made out 9,000 (absentee) applications for people over 60."
 Turnout will likely be hurt by families on spring-break vacations, she added.
 "That's our experience," Bennett said. "People tend to clear out during spring vacation."

Canton has four new precincts. Bennett said it's likely two more will be added after the 2000 elections.
 More than 140 elections workers will operate the township's 30 precincts. Bennett said she has enough people for February's election but still needs help for August and November.
 Each precinct typically has three workers: a chairman, vice chairman and inspector. Pay ranges from $125-$145 for the day.

 center. According to Biltmore, the idea is to have many residents within walking distance of downtown shops and restaurants.
 "Estate" lots will be larger and located at the development's perimeters. Some will feature wooded enclaves.
 Community planner Jeff Goulet said Cherry Hill Village will be developed in phases over at least five years.
 Phase one, Stollman said, would include 289 units. The phase would spread from the village center east to near Dentoft Road.
 The phase would include a variety of housing types, said Goulet. Density will be limited to four homes per acre throughout the development, he added.
 Biltmore will go before Canton's Planning Commission next month with phase one plans.

1.6 million to travel over the Christmas holidays

An estimated 1.6 million Michiganders - 17 percent of state residents - have travel plans for the upcoming Christmas/New Year holiday period, according to a AAA Michigan survey. The number represents an increase over last year, when 1.4 million state residents made holiday travel plans.
 Although 71 percent of travelers surveyed plan on visiting relatives, only 37 percent of those traveling will remain in Michigan. Popular destinations outside Michigan include Florida (18 percent), California (13 percent) and Indiana (13 percent).
 Six percent of respondents indicated they have special travel plans related to the celebration of the New Year 2000.
 "We anticipate busy travel volumes - on land, sea and air," said AAA Michigan Director of Vendor Relations and Travel Support Larry Dickens. "We're booking cruises and land packages this season. As usual, we urge travelers to plan ahead and remain calm when things get crowded."
 Other survey findings:
 ■ The average trip will include three travelers and last eight days - three days longer than the average Thanksgiving weekend trip - and the average amount spent will be nearly $850.
 ■ Eighty-four percent of the trips planned will be inside the United States, with 27 percent of those trips exceeding 100 miles.
 ■ Most of the Michigan destinations will be in the Lower Peninsula (93 percent), and these are most likely to be in the northwest (23 percent), southwest (10 percent) and central (19 percent) regions.
 ■ Seventy-two percent of all trips will be by car, truck or van. Thirty-two percent will travel by air, an increase of six percentage points over last year.
 Michigan motorists can expect to pay about 39 cents more for a gallon of gas this year.
 Nationwide, a near-record 44.6 million Americans are expected to travel during the Christmas/New Year holiday - the second-highest number for any holiday period. Growth in travel for this period has increased 63 percent since the beginning of the decade. Approximately 35 million people plan to travel by auto this holiday period, while 9.6 million will go by plane, train or bus.
 The official 78-hour Christmas holiday period begins at 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 23, and runs to midnight Sunday, Dec. 26. The 1999-2000 New Year holiday period (also 78 hours) begins at 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 30 and runs to midnight Sunday, Jan. 2.
 During last year's 78-hour Christmas holiday period, eight persons died in Michigan in eight fatal traffic crashes. None of the crashes were alcohol-related, and restraints were not used by two of the victims who had belts available.
 AAA Michigan urges motorists to allow extra time, buckle safety belts, get plenty of sleep and avoid alcohol (for a complete list of non-alcoholic drink recipes, visit News & Info at www.aaamich.com).

Far from home

Exchange students deal with being away for the holidays

BY RENEE SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITER
rskoglund@oe.homecomm.net

For hundreds of area foreign exchange students, this holiday season will be their first away from home. They will think about family and friends back home, but, thanks to host families, few will be homesick. They look forward to participating in American holiday customs and sharing a few of their own.

Ha uskaa joulua!

If Satu Rehumaki, 17, a foreign exchange student at Plymouth Canton High School, were spending the holidays at home in Oulu, Finland, she would head to the sauna on Christmas Eve morning. It's a Finnish tradition. "It's to get clean for the new year," she said.

She would attend church with her family in the late afternoon and sit down around 6 p.m. to a feast of ham and several vegetable casseroles. Afterward, there would be a visit from Santa Claus, or Joulupukki, who, according to Rehumaki, comes from Finland.

"Ya, he lives there, in Lapland." This year, Rehumaki may play a few Finnish Christmas carols for her host parents, Ken and Mary Beardsley. She has studied classical music for 10 years, and the Canton Rotary, which sponsored her visit, rented a piano for her. Of she may attempt once again to make Finnish meatballs with her host dad. Their initial effort for a school project was less than successful.

"It was like meatballs with dill relish in the middle," said Ken Beardsley. "After we stiffened it up to make it stick, I wasn't sure it was Finnish."

Mutlu Yillar!

Melis Mani, 18, a senior at Churchill High School in Livonia, comes from Ankara, Turkey. She has settled into the home of Ron and Deanna Gaffne, compliments of the Livonia Rotary's foreign exchange student program. She will be with the Gaffnes through the holidays before moving on to two more host families.

Although Mani is a veteran traveler - Luxembourg, France, Italy, Spain, Greece and Bulgaria - this is her first stay in the United States and her first time away from home for New Year's Eve.

Turkey is predominantly a Muslim country, so the holiday emphasis is on Dec. 31 rather than Dec. 25, said Mani. On New Year's Eve, after exchanging gifts and eating a big dinner of stuffed grape leaves, rice and spiced chicken, she and her sister, Bercis, 21, go out with friends.

"We don't sleep that night," she said, smiling. Sounds like a typically American way to celebrate, except for one unusual tradition.

"In Turkey, five minutes before the new year, people change their underwear for new ones, like new red ones. They think it will bring good luck to them and it will bring their money in the new year."

When told by the Gaffnes that she had to make a Christmas list, Mani at first drew a blank. However, she's a fast learner, and certain CDs soon came to mind by groups such as Scorpions, Cranberries, Shania Twain and Smash Mouth.

Finding home: Students Anne-Katrin, Anna Oliviera, Camara and Soeren Roesporff study the globe.

"We sat down and came up with about 30 things," said Deanna Gaffne.

Froehliche Weihnachten! Glaedelig Jull Fells Natal!

That's "Merry Christmas" in German, Danish and Brazilian Portuguese.

Anne-Katrin Grosse, 16, of Germany, Soeren Roesporff, 15, of Denmark, and Anna Oliviera Camara, 17, of Brazil are foreign exchange students at Garden City High School. It's the first time they have been away from home for the holidays.

In the Grosse household, Christmas Eve celebrations began early in the day with a birthday party for a cousin. Afterward, the family visits the graves of their grandparents. By 5 p.m., they're in church, where Grosse plays the flute and takes part in a Christmas play. Her oldest brother remains at home to prepare dinner and trim the tree.

Upon returning home, Grosse and her other brother wait outside until her parents ring a bell announcing that all preparations have been completed. Only then can the younger children enter and see the Christmas tree for the first time.

The evening is filled with games, story telling, singing and music, with Grosse playing the flute and her brother the guitar. Celebrations continue for a few days. The family dines at a special restaurant on Christmas Day, and on Dec. 26, Grosse's mother roasts the traditional goose and serves it with red cabbage and chestnuts.

Christmas is always festive, since it's the only time Grosse's oldest brother is home. "That is the most important thing I'll miss on the holidays: playing games with my big brother."

Roesporff lives in Valloe, an old, small town south of Copenhagen that has a castle and an ancient church. Uncles, aunts and cousins come over to share Christmas-Eve celebrations.

"We pretty much cook all day," he said. "We have duck with potatoes and a special salad. As a dessert, we eat ris a la mande. That's rice and cream with cherry sauce. We put an almond ring in it. We always say, 'Whose got the almond?' When you have it, you try to hide it."

After dinner, the family lights the candles on the Christmas tree. "It has to be a real tree and real candles," said Roesporff. "And then we just sit and have fun and open the presents. It takes pretty much all night."

In Brazil, it is not the custom to have a big Christmas tree or lots of decorations. "We don't have Santas in all the places," said Camara. The emphasis is on the Christmas Eve meal, which is eaten quite late. Camara, Grosse, and Roesporff are amazed at how early Americans eat their main meal.

"You can only eat at 11:30 p.m. or midnight because that's Christmas," said Camara. "Before we eat we have champagne and wine." Her father usually supplies the wine, "because he doesn't know how to

PSC warns to check your phone bill

Do you routinely review your monthly telephone bill and its itemized charges? If not, the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) recommends that all consumers begin checking their monthly bills as a matter of routine.

Telephone bills have become more complex and sometimes may include unfamiliar and even inappropriate or incorrect charges. Therefore, it is wise for consumers to become familiar with the charges their telephone service provider assesses to their account monthly.

A monthly bill will always include charges for basic local exchange service. Other charges may include:

- Costs for optional services, such as a second telephone line;
- Long-distance charges from other companies;
- Voice messaging services;
- Inside-the-home wire maintenance contracts; and
- Customer calling features (the specific names for these services can vary from company to company).

It is a good idea to review your bill monthly to ensure that charges appear only for the services you ordered. If a charge does not appear to be correct, call your local telephone company and request an explanation.

Upon request, the company must provide a complimentary copy of the rate schedule applicable to your usage. Note, however, that the MPSC does not regulate the rates and charges for optional services, and the charges may change without notice.

Unfamiliar charges that may appear on your monthly local and long distance bills and are required by state or federal laws:

- Federal/State Subscriber Line Charges - covers the cost of the local telephone network, with a maximum charge of $3.50 each for a single line and $6.07 for additional residential lines (business line charges are higher).

■ Universal Service Fund, or School/Library Internet Charge - helps provide technology to libraries and public schools, and varies by telephone company.

■ 9-1-1 Surcharge - covers the cost of operating the local emergency phone system.

■ State and Federal Taxes

■ Cellular Phone and Paging Charge - allows cellular phone companies to assess long-distance charges for calls made to cellular phones and pagers; these charges may include long-distance charges and air time.

■ Primary Interexchange Carrier Charge (PICC) - covers the costs of long-distance, interstate, and intrastate telephone networks for use of the local telephone company's network. Charges may vary between telephone companies.

■ Local Number Portability Charge - covers the cost for customers to keep the same telephone number under certain conditions.

For questions regarding the above charges, call your local or long-distance telephone company.

Some actions you can take to protect yourself:

- Always review the summary of long-distance calls and verify that you or someone in your household is responsible for those listed on the bill.
- Immediately contact the telephone company and request an investigation if you don't think you are responsible for a particular call. Because of the changing nature of the telecommunications industry, there may be charges for other telephone services on your bill that are not addressed in this alert (e.g., returned check charge, minimum long-distance calls charge, etc.). If you have questions about other service charges appearing on your bill, contact the telephone company. Always follow up with a letter and keep a copy for your records. Remember basic local service cannot be terminated for non-payment of non-regulated service.

For more information related to your monthly telephone bill, call the MPSC at (800) 292-9555, write to the MPSC Communications Division, Service Quality Section, P.O. Box 30221, Lansing, MI 48909, contact the commission at <http://cis.state.mi.us/mpsc>, or fax the agency at (517) 241-6217.

Chiefettes place 3rd

The Plymouth Canton Chiefettes finished third in the varsity High-Kick Division II competition at the Mid-American High School and Collegiate Dance Team Championship held Nov. 14 at Saginaw Valley State.

High-Kick state champs the past two years, the Chiefettes were the grand champions at the Mid-American Pom-Pom Summer Camp last July at Grand Valley State in Allendale. The squad also received honors such as most congenial, senior kick line-second place, and peppy pom squad.

Anyone interested in seeing the award-winning routines should plan on attending the Chiefettes Variety Show Saturday, Jan. 15 in the Salem HS auditorium.

Bray is all-tournament

Mark Bray, a senior guard at Hope College and a Plymouth Canton HS graduate, was named to the all-tournament team last weekend as the Dutchmen finished third in their own Hope College Tournament.

Bray scored 20 points in a 96-87 loss to St. Xavier (Ill.) last Friday in the opening round, then added 16 points in an 82-72 victory over Trinity Christian (Ill.) in the consolation final.

For the season, Bray is second on Hope in scoring, averaging 11.1 points a game, and he leads the team in floor shooting (56.8 percent) and three-point shooting (46.2 percent). Bray is second in assists (2.6 per game).

Hope is 4-4 entering the Christmas break.

Canton can't stop defending champs

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

One thing a team doesn't want to do is go into the lair of the defending state champion and lay an egg — which is what Plymouth Canton did last Thursday when it visited Ann Arbor Pioneer. At least in the first half.

Half-time of Thursday night's Plymouth Canton-Ann Arbor Pioneer basketball game served a dual purpose.

The 10-minute intermission gave players on both teams a chance to catch their breath after 16 minutes of up-tempo action. More importantly, it allowed time for the rim on the Pioneers' end of the court to stop rattling following a series of gym-rocking, alley-oop dunks by senior swingman James Bridgewater.

Led by Bridgewater's above-the-rim heroics, the defending Class A state champions ran away from Canton, 72-56, to improve their record to 3-1. The 6-4, 180-pound leaper emphatically jammed home three perfect feeds from backcourt running mate Garrett Quinn in the first half on his way to an 18-point night.

"No, it's not a set play," a grinning Pioneer coach Brian Townsend said, referring to the pass-catch-slam sequence his team pulled off four times against Canton (Ryan Sidney also had a dunk).

"But we teach the kids to run through the lane without the ball, and if it's there, the guards know to make the (alley-oop) pass. Tonight, it was there — at least in the first half.

"Canton turned up its defensive intensity in the second half and didn't allow us to do much."

The difference between the first half and second half was like night and day for the young Chiefs, who fell to 1-2 with the setback. After looking tight and mistake-prone early — they committed 13 turnovers and trailed 40-19 at the half — the Chiefs regained their poise and confidence, and outscored the Pioneers 37-32 in the second half.

"We came out in the second half and decided to play like we're capable of playing," said Canton coach Dan Young, referring to his inexperienced, yet potential-packed team. "I liked the way we competed in the second half. We didn't back down."

If he'd had his preference, Young

Promising start Canton, Salem both looking good

BY C.J. RISAK

Expectations were modest, but results certainly weren't at the season-opener in gymnastics for both Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem.

Those two hosted Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ann Arbor Huron Thursday at Canton's Phase III gym. Going into the quad meet, Canton coach John Cunningham had hoped his team would start this season scoring in the 130 range and end it in the 140s.

Salem coach Melissa Hopson, trying to cope with the loss of one of her top scorers in Melissa Drake (foot ligament injury), didn't have numbers in mind. She just wanted to use the meet as a barometer, to see what needed to be fixed.

Both coaches got what they wanted, and a bit more. "I felt really good about it," said Cunningham after his Chiefs finished first in the quad, scoring 133.1 points — equal to their best score of last season. "I was remembering where we left off last year and where we were beginning this year."

"We're definitely several marks up from where we finished last year."

For Salem, the start wasn't quite as impressive on the scoreboard, but the Rocks did pretty well just the same, placing second with 128.95 points in what proved to be a down-to-the-wire finish. They were just ahead of both Pioneer (128.65) and Huron (128.5).

"I was pleased with the way things went," said Hopson. "There are a few things that need to be worked out, and will be with some more practices."

"I can't expect anything more for a first meet."

There was additional bad news for the depth-plagued Rocks. Emily Nicolau, a sophomore who was expected to help fill the gap created by Drake's injury, suffered a hyper-extended knee and is expected to miss about three weeks.

"She's one of our hard workers," said Hopson of Nicolau. "It seems we have that luck this year."

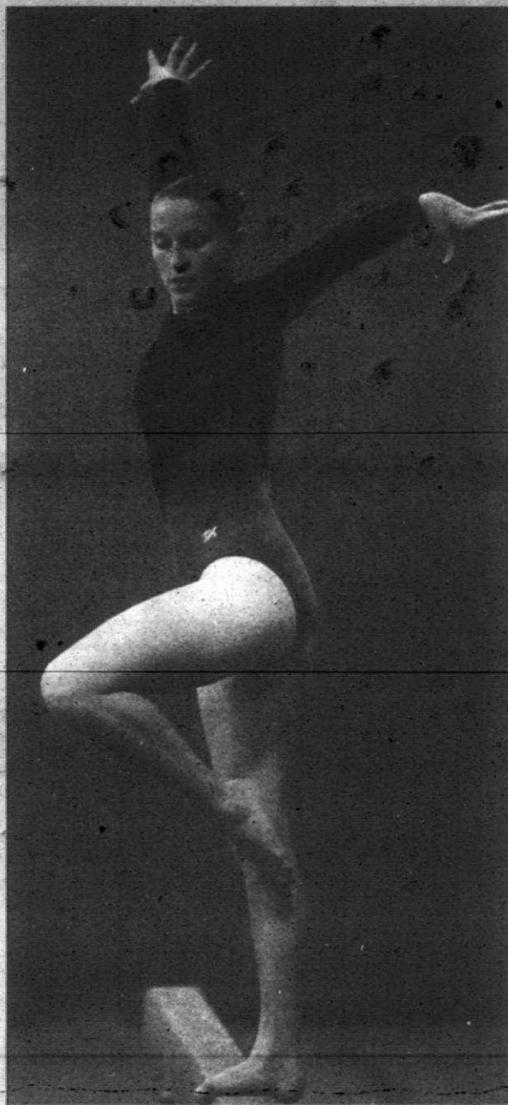

Still, there was plenty for both coaches to be pleased with. April Aquinto, a junior at Salem, posted the best all-around score of 35.1, and Amy Driscoll, a junior at Canton, was next best with a 34.75.

Third on the all-around list was Canton senior Liz Fitzgerald at 34.35, followed by Salem freshman Bethany Bartlett at 34.15.

Aquinto was first in the balance beam with an 8.8; she tied for second in the vault with an 8.5, and took second in the floor exercise with a 9.2. Aquinto was fourth in the uneven parallel bars with an 8.6.

Driscoll, who has been plagued by injuries for the past two seasons, turned in a solid performance for the Chiefs. She won the floor exercise with a 9.3, took second in the bars with an 8.95, and was fourth in both the vault (8.4) and beam (8.1).

and so got off to a late start in the preseason, seemed in good shape. She was second in the beam (8.55), tied for second in the vault (8.5), fifth in the floor exercise (8.95) and sixth in the bars (8.35).

Bartlett, in her first varsity performance, had both ups and downs. The Salem freshman won the vault (8.85), was third in bars (8.75), fourth in beam (8.1) and ninth in floor exercise (8.55).

"She's very hard on herself as a competitor," said Hopson of Bartlett.

The difference in the meet wasn't so much each team's top scorers, but rather "the depth factor," according to Cunningham, noting that five of his six competitors in the floor exercise scored 8.0 or better (Kristen Schilk, sixth with an 8.8; Lauren Christiansen, 8.35; Jill Rakovitis, 8.15).

"The kids were pretty consistent," he noted. "But we're still not where we want to be."

Noting Salem's losses to injury, Cunningham added, "I think they would have been right with us, duking it out."

"We had a nice meet, but by no means was it our best. We've got lots of room to improve."

Hopson got more than what she was looking for in the meet. First, what she was looking for: "The beam is still a key for us," she said. "Once we keep our feet on the beam instead of on the ground, we'll be better."

"The bars were a pretty good event for us, considering it was our first meet."

Then there was what she wasn't looking for, but got anyway — a second-place finish: "That was exciting to see, when we placed second. I didn't really set anything as a team goal."

Cunningham is confident his Chiefs will reach the goal he set for them by season's end and be scoring consistent-

Rocks romp past Huron; Chiefs stall

There were no double-winners in individual events for Plymouth Salem's boys swim team in its season-opening dual meet at Ann Arbor Huron Thursday.

Guess that's the bad news. Not that it really is bad. Because the only reason the Rocks had no double-winners was that they didn't any. They dominated their non-league foe in posting a 131-75 victory.

"Not a bad opener," admitted Salem coach Chuck Olson. "We moved some people around from our blue-and-white meet, and we got to swim everybody."

"Huron's a good team, so I was very pleased we were able to win so handily. We were getting ready for the Western Lakes Relays on Saturday, and we wanted to see as many different guys as possible."

"It worked out well for us."

Salem had individual winners in four events: Mike Johnson won the 50-yard freestyle (24.00). Ben Czialo was first in the 100 butterfly (58.15). Brian Mertens claimed top honors in the 500 free (5:00.86) and Jason Rebarchik was best in the 100 breaststroke (1:12.24).

In the 200 medley relay, Eric Lynn, Rebarchik, Czialo and Aaron Shelton were winners (1:46.70), and in the 200 free relay Mike Johnson, Mark Witthoff, Ryan Kappler and Dan Jones captured first (1:35.10).

The Rocks took a 1-0 dual-meet record into yesterday's conference relays meet, which Salem hosted. Their next dual meet is Jan. 6 against Novi at Salem.

Canton crushed

It was an inauspicious start to Ed Weber's career as Plymouth Canton's swim coach.

The Chiefs managed just one win in losing their first dual meet of the season, 137-49 at Dexter Thursday.

"We got shellacked," was Weber's

WRESTLING

Canton gains 2 more dual meet victories

The surprise is over. But the shock waves continue to rumble.

Plymouth Canton's wrestlers joined everyone when they beat Plymouth Salem in their opening dual meet. But that was two weeks ago.

On Thursday, the Chiefs once again proved this was no flash-on-the-mat deal by traveling to Lansing to do battle against East Lansing and Lansing Everett. The result: A pair of victories, 63-23 over Everett and 54-27 over East Lansing.

The two dual-meet wins boosted Canton's record to 4-0.

John Pocock, wrestling at 140 pounds, and Joe Faraoni, at 145, both collected a pair of wins via pins. Pocock defeated Everett's Amir Davis in 1:32 and East Lansing's Robert Foltowski in :44; Faraoni was a winner over Everett's James Jalinas in 1:03 and East Lansing's Cameron Patterson in 1:50.

Other double-winners for the Chiefs were Kyle Pitt at 103, Doy Demstick at Press can't keep Agape from gaining its 1st win

The strategy employed by Westland Huron Valley Lutheran was clear: pressure Canton Agape Christian into making mega mistakes.

It didn't work. Agape handled Huron Valley's pressure with ease, scoring mega baskets off of its own route to a 73-38 non-league victory in a game played at Marshall Middle School.

"We started hitting some shots," said Agape coach Keith Anleitner. "That was the difference."

"I'm proud of the way our kids played. In the first quarter, we played real good defense, and we started to shoot well because of that."

The Wolverines evened their record at 1-1 with the win. Huron Valley slipped to 0-3.

Agape led 20-4 after one quarter and never retreated. "They pressured us the whole game and we went through it like butter," said Anleitner. "They guys liked that. They got into a flow."

Chief among those who took advantage of the Hawks ill-fated pressure was senior guard Julian Wettlin, who led Agape with 25 points. He also had eight rebounds and eight steals.

Paul Anleitner, a junior guard, contributed 21 points and seven assists, and sophomore forward Josh Anthony added 10 points for Agape.

Huron Valley got 10 points from Alan Kleinke, a junior forward, and seven from Jeremy Husby, a senior center.

Agape extended its lead to 36-11 by halftime before throttling back a bit in the second half to outscore the Hawks 37-27.

O.L. St. Mary's 71, Redford CC 40: Considered the top team in the state regardless of class.

around the rim and out. Pioneer's Ryan Sidney grabbed the rebound and pushed the ball upcourt to guard Brian Young, who nailed a high-arching three-point shot to put the home team up 49-34.

The Chiefs never drew closer than 15 points until the game's waning moments.

Waidmann put on an impressive show in the paint for the Chiefs, pouring in 19 points and pulling down nine rebounds.

"Jason is really turning into a great player," Young said. "And he's improving every game."

After a slow start, the Chiefs' biggest outside threat, Mike Major, warmed up and finished with 15 points, including three triples.

The Chiefs hits 19-of-54 shots from the field (35 percent) and 13-of-19 free throws (68 percent). The Pioneers shot a sizzling 55 percent (25-of-45) from the floor and 76 percent (16-of-21) from the free-throw line.

Both teams had trouble taking care of the ball. Canton tumbled it over 17 times while Pioneer committed 20 miscues.

A.A. Huron 65, Salem 58: Defense was lacking for Plymouth-Salem Thursday at Ann Arbor Huron, that translated into a third-straight setback.

"They led pretty much wire-to-wire," said Rockets' coach Bob Brodie, his team now 0-3. "It was a fast-paced game. There were too many easy baskets and too many easy shots."

"Offensively we were OK, but we're having trouble stopping teams. We have to do a better job stopping teams."

Salem trailed 20-16 after one quarter and 39-34 at the half. The River Rats, who got their first win after two losses, pushed their advantage up another point with an 11-10 scoring advantage in the third period.

Matt McCaffrey had a solid game for Salem, scoring 25 points and grabbing 12 rebounds. No one else scored in double figures.

For Huron, Imani Wilson led the way with 18 points and John Burris scored 14.

The River Rats were 4-for-4 at the free-throw line (Salem was 4-for-8), forced 18 Rock turnovers ("That's too many," noted Brodie) and outboarded Salem 35-22.

John Glenn 47, Adrian 45: Don't be surprised if Michael Franks turned out the lights when he left Westland John Glenn's gymnasium Tuesday night — he did everything else for the Rockets in the last 2:17.

BOWLING AND RECREATION

Bearly possible: Bear range stretching south

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS
A surprise encounter with a Michigan black bear has landed a Thumb-area bow hunter in a world of trouble.

That day, The bear was found dead the following morning. "Basically the hunter claimed she was fearful and did not know what the bear would do," explained Haines.

The DNR estimates that Michigan's bear population is growing at an annual rate of approximately six-percent in the Lower Peninsula and five-percent in the Upper Peninsula.

When she's ready to reproduce again in the spring, she'll get real aggressive with her cubs, especially the young males who will leave the area and venture out on their own.

Gift-giving is no problem for those who love nature

NATURE NOTES
People who enjoy the natural world and the outdoors are not hard to buy for during this gift-giving season.

The Huron-Clinton Metro Park Authority has a ring of parks that surround the city of Detroit and its suburbs. There are many places in them to hike, bike, fish and swim.

Outdoor enthusiasts also need to be comfortable. I think a lot of people don't enjoy the natural world because they are not prepared for it.

Anglers and hunters are urged to report your success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to: Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009.

All types of balls available for the 'different' bowler

TEN PIN ALLEY
Dear Santa: With less than a week 'til Christmas, is it too late to wish for a new bowling ball?

Reid, vice-president of marketing for Ebonite. "Not only have we been too caught up in a technology to improve scores of a small percentage, the real serious-bowlers, the industry simply overlooked the millions of recreational bowlers."

Nieman qualified 23rd and Potts made match play by one pin in the 52nd spot. Other qualifiers from O&E Cities: Chuck Saperstein, Birmingham (2nd); Mike Wiatr (4th), Scott Allen (9th), Al Anderson (12th), of Westland; Bob Worley (11th) of Livonia; Glenn Swiney (17th) and Tom Brisbey (38th) of Redford; Allyn Madden (26th) of Southfield; Bob Maki (29th) of Canton and Earl Pugh III (50th) of Garden City.

Early power-play goals carry Chargers

Every hockey team now has a loss in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Livonia Stevenson was the last to fall from the ranks of the unbeaten Wednesday as Livonia Churchill skated past the Spartans at Edgar Arena, 3-1.

power-play goals and that put us on our heels," Harris said. "Our power-play struggled and that short-handed goal (by Turri) killed us. Special teams killed us."

Stevenson's inability to work its power-play was a key factor in the defeat. "We dug a hold with two

Williams, who has started all seven Churchill games in place of All-Stater Ryan McBroom (groin injury), was sharp all

A speaker casualty: Too loud

BY BRAD EMONS

Was it live or was it Memorex? Livonia Stevenson hockey coach Mike Harris stopped the blaring music Wednesday night at Edgar Arena, but may have run afoul of his administration.

The Detroit Audubon Society is affiliated with the National Audubon Society, which is an active environmental organization. The National Wildlife Federation is active in the state through its affiliate, the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Officials then stopped play and made Churchill administrators pack up the equipment. A Churchill student, who operates the system, plays a variety of tapes during interludes of action during the Chargers' home games.

Neither Churchill principal Rod Hosman or his counterpart at Stevenson, Dr. Dale Collier, were in attendance at the game. "But the two conferred about the matter Thursday morning.

Churchill administrators did not comment on the incident, but Collier said, "I'm investigating and handling the matter."

"The newspaper is not the place to air it out because I may leave myself vulnerable," Collier said. "But I've taken care of the situation and I'm waiting and watching for the cards to play out."

HOCKEY NOTES

Roemensky to U-M

Mike Roemensky, one of Compuware's top defensemen, has verbally committed to the University of Michigan. He will leave the Ambassadors at the Christmas break for U-M.

Roemensky is the second key loss for the Ambassadors. Earlier this month, forward Steve Jackson announced he will leave at the break to enroll at Michigan State.

"Mike will be missed, but this just shows the caliber of players, and the level of competition, throughout the NAHL that has prepared him for this opportunity," said Compuware GM/coach Mike Vellucci, who following last season sent 10 players to the NCAA Division I ranks.

"Michigan is one of the premier programs in the country, and the Wolverines coaching staff has full confidence in Mike's ability to step in and contribute right away."

"The same can be said for forward Steve Jackson, who is joining another premier program, Michigan State, after the holidays."

A 5-11, 175-pounder, Roemensky is in his third season with the Ambassadors. He played in 50 regular-season games for the league and national championship team in 1998-99; thus far this season, Roemensky has collected two goals and five assists in 18 games.

Junior stars selected

USA Hockey has announced the 20-player roster for the junior select team that will compete in the Viking Cup later this month at Augustana College in Camrose, Alberta.

Three members of the Compuware Ambassadors were among those chosen: defensemen Mike Roemensky and Andy Burnes, and goalie Craig Kowalski.

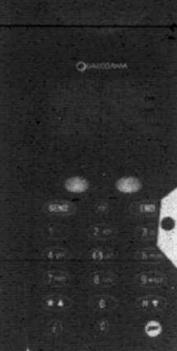

The USA junior selects will go against national under-18 select teams from the Czech Republic, Slovakia, Finland and Sweden; all-star teams from the Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan junior hockey leagues; and the host Augustana College Vikings.

The tournament format features preliminary round-robin games, followed by play-downs for the eight teams that survive the round-robin portion of the tournament. It all culminating in the Cup championship game Jan. 5.

The tournament begins Dec. 26.

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

1999 — a fruitful year for the arts

The end of the year is typically a time to assess our growth and set goals for the next 12 months. Several arts organizations and individuals deserve a pat on the back for introducing and encouraging the arts in our communities in 1999.

These supporters deserve praise for their commitment and working together:

■ The Michigan Jazz Festival Committee for producing its annual festival — which featured nearly 200 musicians at Schoolcraft College — and for hosting a series of concerts spotlighting the music of Stan Kenton, Woody Herman and Count Basie at Clarenceville High School in Livonia.

The committee also held a workshop at Clarenceville High School to nurture jazz skills in student musicians. They've already started planning their sixth annual jazz festival, which is scheduled Sunday, July 16, at Schoolcraft College.

■ Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack, Plymouth Symphony Orchestra president Don Soenen, the Canton Community Foundation, and Partnership for the Arts for their efforts to build a performing arts center in Canton.

■ Canton Project Arts for showcasing photography from a Focus: HOPE program that transcends barriers between Detroit area students. The workshops brought students together and promoted harmony by exposing them to people of diverse racial, religious and socioeconomic backgrounds.

■ The Livonia Arts Commission and the Verdi Opera Theatre of Michigan (based in Canton) for awarding thousands of dollars in scholarships to promising fine arts students. The students may or may not pursue a career in music, dance or painting, but they'll have formed an appreciation for the arts and, it is hoped, support arts in the future.

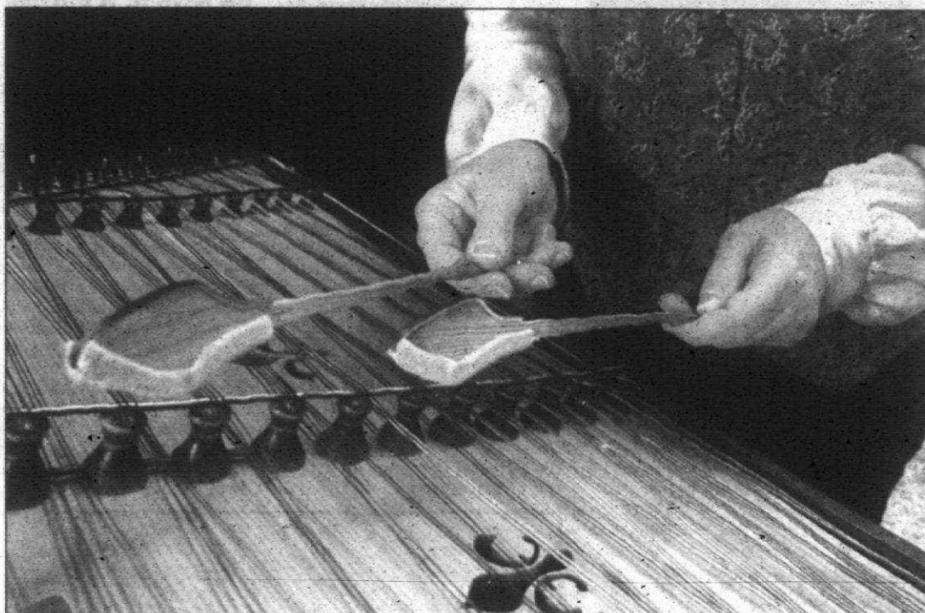

■ Jack Pierson, a former Livonia resident, and Matt Michaels, a Southfield pianist whose jazz trio plays at Ron's Fireside Inn in Garden City, for giving their time and expertise to high school and college students at the 20th annual Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival. The students took part in the educational programming led by Pierson and Michaels, a professor

Sweet Music

Musician cultivates ethereal sounds of dulcimer

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Charlene Berry taps out melodies on her hammer dulcimer as easily as if she were speaking. After playing the multi-stringed instrument for nearly 15 years, she's comfortable creating ethereal melodies.

Berry doesn't really need to practice her instrument to play a variety of music ranging from folk renaissance to modern. After all, she's performing at venues ranging from the Plymouth Historical Museum to art fairs every week. And come January she'll be passing on her knowledge by teaching dulcimer at Village Music in Plymouth.

"There's a nationwide revival of hammer dulcimer," said Berry, who originally played pipe organ.

"The sound of the instrument is so unique and pretty and not locked into any one style. People are more conscious of their history. They're looking back. That's why Victorian festivals and Civil War reenactments are so popular."

An advocate for the revival of this ancient instrument, Berry believes the soothing sounds of the dulcimer can bring peace and healing as well as set the tone for meditation. She frequently touts its benefits on her radio program, "Dulcimer World," heard 7-8 p.m. Fridays on WPON AM 1460.

A librarian at Madonna University in Livonia, Berry has intensely researched the dulcimer, a popular instrument during the lumberjack era in Michigan.

"The history dates back to biblical times when it was known as the psaltery, the gut-stringed instrument mentioned in the Bible," said Berry. "It was plucked in ancient times. During medieval times, they started using wire string. Stravinsky used large European type dulcimers. The dulcimer can play loud or soft. A harpsichord couldn't. The dulcimer lost popularity when the piano was introduced."

New Year Jubilee

On Dec. 31, Berry along with more than 50 musicians and performers will celebrate the New Year during a celebration in downtown Ypsilanti. The hard driving blues of Madcat & Kane, children's songs by Gemini, steel drum music by Nite Flight, LaRon Williams' African American folk tales, the Paul Vornhagen Jazz Ensemble, Mr. B's boogie woogie piano, and the comedy and magic of Boyer & Fitzsimmons will assist revelers in ringing in 2000 at the event, which is open to the public.

Berry's two CD's "Hymns of Prayer & Praise" and "Dulcimer Americana," which features selections including mountain, folk tunes and original music, along with her "Joy, Peace, Healing" cassette will be available for sale.

"It's a beautiful celebration in and around historic Depot Town," said Berry, who became "hooked on dulcimer" then joined the Silver Strings Dulcimer Society for support in learning the instrument.

Berry is looking forward to teaching classes at Village Music because she believes that learning to play dulcimer is a way of instilling self-esteem in people who thought they could never learn an instrument.

"Anyone can play one but no one can master it," said Berry, who also teaches dulcimer through the Clarkston community education program. "The music is very therapeutic and it helps to show students that they can play music."

With prices for student dulcimers ranging around $250 to $350, Berry recommends students rent their first instrument then shop around. Students have spent $600 for a dulcimer only to find out they're not interested in dulcimer after all or they don't have time for it.

"We thought it was an opportunity to offer something different and kind of historic in Old Village," said Norma Atwood, owner of Village Music, which also offers classes in Kindermusik, and private voice and piano. "The classes tie in with the third level of Kindermusik (ages 6-7) where they're learning dulcimer as part of trying to learn the basic instruments — percussion, string and wind. The fingering is a little difficult on the dulcimer but they're learning."

REPORT

Unprecedented findings could be catalyst for a cultural boom

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER
lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

It's still too early to assess the impact of a study coordinated by ArtServe, but local arts organizations are enthusiastic about utilizing the findings to increase audiences and funding for programs.

Released Monday, Dec. 6, by Southfield-based ArtServe Michigan, a statewide advocacy and networking agency for artists and arts groups, the study indicated the area already ranks high on the list of cities valuing the arts. ArtsMarket Inc., which conducted the in-depth analysis of audiences for cultural activities in the seven-county southeastern Michigan region, revealed 57.6 percent of households attend or participate in the arts. That's several points above the national average of 49 percent estimated by the National Endowment for the Arts.

The report, entitled "Southeastern Michigan Geodemographic and Database Analysis," is an exhaustive analysis of the audiences of 59 nonprofit regional arts organizations. It examines types of participation, and presents an empirical breakdown of the demographical segments who attend cultural events, including concerts, plays, exhibits at arts and historical museums and art associations. Funded by a $75,000 grant from the Southeastern Michigan Community Foundation, the analysis offers no easy solutions but requires arts organizations to intensely study its 400 pages, evaluate their current audiences and determine opportunities for expansion.

The estimate that 2.8 million people already support arts in the area is promising news to Plymouth Community Arts Council assistant director Betsy Calhoun. Calhoun provided ArtServe with the council's database, which was then plugged into existing demographics.

"The study as a whole has potential, but it's going to take us awhile to use it," said Calhoun. "We found that basically our audience is families. It will help refine our audience. They found that 24.8 percent of what's called successful suburbanites are supporting the arts. And that the total regional audience is higher than other parts of Michigan and the U.S."

The study is all part of the arts council's master plan to develop its audience. Stella Greene was recently hired as development director to help build corporate and individual support, membership and to apply for grants to

Growth opportunity
Mike Yeager was excited to learn that the results of the study strengthen the case for building a new performing arts center in Canton Township.

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack has long believed that arts and cultural participation is a major contributor to the quality of life in a community. Yack and Township treasurer Elaine Kirchgatterer founded Canton Project Arts to provide residents with the opportunity to attend cultural activities in their own backyard.

So the study's finding that people who live in Wayne County are affiliated primarily with local organizations is particularly encouraging. The study further showed that Wayne and Oakland county venues and organizations draw the bulk of audiences in the area and that Wayne and Washtenaw counties show the most growth opportunity.

"I think it's something that as time goes on will be beneficial in building an audience database," said Yeager, Canton Township liaison to Canton Project Arts, the township's official arts organization. "That's important in the cultural development in the township and will help with developing a performance arts center. We'll be able to plug into the database to find out what kinds of programs to bring into the center."

'We've been looked at as a blue-collar town, as not being sophisticated enough to appreciate the arts. For years, we've been looking for ways to make a convincing argument that the cultural industry is important to our way of life, and now we have it. A thriving culture is good economics.'

Barbara Kratchman
Executive director of ArtServe

Yeager appreciates ArtServe's ongoing commitment to provide workshops and consultations to help arts organizations determine how to use the findings of the demographic report. It will help Yack, Plymouth Symphony Orchestra president Don Soenen, the Canton Community Foundation, and the Partnership for the Arts to lead the effort in building the performing arts center in Canton.

A business plan, which is now in the works, will finalize the size of the theater, the cost and operating expenses. Yeager said the study's recommendation that arts organizations diversify programming in order to capture a greater market share is important for the survival of the performing arts center.

"We're very enthusiastic about what ArtServe and the Southeastern Michigan Community Foundation is doing," said Yeager. "In the future we'll be able to go back and refer to the study."

Gene Hammonds, president of Canton Project Arts, agrees with the study that the arts are definitely on an upswing. As Canton Project Arts president, he sees how far the organization has come since its founding in 1992. A fine arts exhibit in October, spring theater series and performances for youth offer a variety of arts activities for every age.

"Every year we try to take on one more project," said Hammonds. "In the year 2000 we'll have an art exhibit, theater or other cultural activity every other month." (And of course they're still looking for volunteers to make them reality.)

Tool for growth
Over the last two weeks, the ArtServe study has been received as the ultimate "told-you-so" tool for arts advocates.

The southeastern Michigan region can now point with pride to the findings.

"We've been looked at as a blue-collar town, as not being sophisticated enough to appreciate the arts," said Barbara Kratchman, executive director of ArtServe. "For years, we've been looking for ways to make a convincing argument that the cultural industry is important to our way of life, and now we have it. A thriving culture is good economics."

"A study like this will make everyone more self-sufficient and independent," said Kratchman. "It also provides information about why arts organizations should collaborate. So many of them share audiences."

Culture is regional
The Southeastern Michigan Community Foundation, established three years ago with $1 million from the Lila Wallace Foundation, is currently in the third year of a five-year, $4.5-million effort to fund local arts, ethnic and civic organizations working to cultivate culture in the metro area.

Not only are the empirical findings of the demographic report invaluable for nonprofit arts organizations trying to identify and build audiences in times of reduced public funding, but art advocates contend that the extensive analysis offers a compelling case that culture in metro Detroit is defined regionally.

This is a sign, perhaps, of the perceived wall crumbling between the city of Detroit and the surrounding suburbs.

"There's a tremendous level of cooperation across regional and county lines," said Larry Coppard, senior consultant at the Community Foundation. "We haven't seen the type of parochialism that has plagued other regional issues."

ArtServe's Kratchman predicts that the findings in the demographic analysis will help the campaign to pass a regional arts tax. Until now, discussions about the proposal have been contentious among Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties. The latest notion involves a half mill assessment on property in Oakland and Wayne counties. Tax revenue would finance the operating budgets for the area's 14 major cultural institutions. And each county would also receive a block grant to divide among local arts groups.

Dynamic changes
On the surface, cynics could contend that if arts organizations succeed at the business of marketing, then they might need even less public funding. That, according to Louise Stevens of Artsmarket Consulting, fails to consider the inherent difference between art and commerce and the utter upheaval of arts funding over the last decade.

"Arts organizations need to realize that the marketplace is dynamic," said Stevens. "They need to find ways to rebuild earned income and build awareness among contributors."

Typically, funding is derived from public, foundation or private donations, and revenue generated from ticket sales, referred to as earned income.

Largely because of the explosion in the entertainment economy, nonprofits have been forced to compete alongside for-profit venues.

"We'd like to believe that the arts can stand outside the marketplace, but they don't," said Stevens.

Consumers want value for their money. The days of boosterism and supporting the "arts" because it's the "right" thing to do are over.

at Wayne State University. In September, Pierson revived the Schoerlitz College Jazz Ensemble. Expect great things from him as he directs the ensemble in 2000.

Ken Gross and The Art Museum Project for the exhibit "Diversity: Victims and Survivors" in the Alfred Berkowitz Gallery at the University of Michigan-Dearborn. The exhibit combined Richard Kozlov's stark black-and-white paintings with selected interviews from the university's Holocaust Survivor

Oral Histories. The archival collection, assembled by history professor Sidney Boklosky, made visitors witnesses to the atrocities committed against Jews by the Nazis during World War II.

Artrain'USA for exhibiting works from the NASA Art Program and the National Air and Space Museum. Norman Rockwell, Andy Warhol and Peter Max were among the 250 American artists who interpreted space program activities for those of us who couldn't be on site.

The Detroit Women Writers for publishing their "Century of Voices" anthology. The book documents the accomplishments of local women writers during the past century.

The Plymouth Community Arts Council raised awareness of the plight of migrant workers by exhibiting the paintings of West Bloomfield artist Nora Mendoza. The works touched viewers with their depiction of life in the fields.

The singers and bell ringers from nearly one dozen local Catholic church choirs who came

New kids' books make ideal gifts

VICTORIA DIAZ SPECIAL WRITER

Want to make this final Christmas of the century truly memorable for that special youngster on your list? Any of the following books will prove to be a gift that continues giving, even as we move into the next millennium:

"Sector 7" by David Wiesner (Clarion Books, $16).

This enchanting picture book by the author/illustrator of "June 29, 1999" contains not a single word of text, but is nonetheless an extraordinary literary experience. Ever engaging, sometimes comical, and ultimately moving, "Sector 7" shows us an imaginative schoolboy who, on a "field trip" with his class visits the Empire State Building's observation deck. There, he meets a tompanionable compulsion who whisks him away to Sector 7, a magical place in the sky where clouds are designed and manufactured.

The concluding scenes of this book are truly exceptional, both in themselves and in how they are exquisitely linked to the preceding pages.

"Knock at a Star: A Child's Introduction to Poetry," by X.J. Kennedy and Dorothy M. Kennedy, illustrated by Karen Lee Baker (Little, Brown and Co., $10.95).

This newly-revised edition of "Knock at a Star" is all about the delights of words and wordplay.

In sections titled "What Do Poems Do?", "What's Inside a Poem?", "Special Kinds of Poetry," and "Do It Yourself," kids can enjoy becoming better versed with verse.

From anonymously written nonsense rhymes to the works of such greats as John Updike, William Carlos Williams, Robert Frost, Michigan's Theodore Roethke, and many more, this well-organized anthology more than lives up to its subtitle. Best of all, it's a book the entire family can savor together.

"The Very Noisy Night," by Diana Hendry; illustrated by Jane Chapman (Dutton, $15.99).

Little Mouse is trying to be brave, but the wind is making a frightful racket. Ditto for that spookily old owl, and a "burglar" bent on breaking into the tiny mouse house (said "burglar" is a tree limb, scratching at a window). Big Mouse ultimately succeeds in providing just the right touch of cozy comfort, however, and all ends happily in this charming bedtime mouse tale.

There's definitely nothing mousy about Chapman's artwork. It's as colorful and fun to look at as your granny's crazy quilt.

"Here Comes Mother Goose," edited by Iona Opie; illustrated by Rosemary Wells (Candlewick Press, $21.99).

In this fat volume, Wells' lively artwork adds new punch and pizzazz to such classic favorites as "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," "Pease Porridge Hot," "As I Was Going to St. Ives," and "Bobby Shaftoe."

Some verses - such as "What Are Little Girls Made of?" - have been freshened with a contemporary twist. Throughout, the zany cast of characters is headed up by dozens of our furred and feathered friends. Ducks, chicks, hamsters, kittens, bunnies, and (of course) geese abound.

"The Gargoyle on the Roof," by Jack Prelutsky; illustrated by Peter Sis (Greenwillow Books, $16).

Though tiny tots may be spooked (especially at bedtime), older kids will probably find this inventive collection a spine-tickling, rib-tickling delight. In verses like "Mother Gargoyle's Lullaby," "Bugaboo," "My Sister is a Werewolf," and "A Vampire Speaks of Grooming," Prelutsky displays his wonderful way with weird. Sis' oddly tinted illustrations add yet another turn to the bizarre bill, and hit the spot precisely.

"The Birchbark House," by Louise Erdrich (Hyperion, $14.99).

A National Book Award finalist, "The Birchbark House" tells the engrossing story of an Ojibwa girl growing up in the Lake Superior region in the mid-19th century.

For the legions who enjoyed Laura Ingalls Wilder's "Little House on the Prairie," this book may hold special appeal. It is Erdrich's "Love Medicine" first novel for young readers.

Resolve to rejuvenate your skin

New Years resolutions are made and are meant to be broken but a precious few should be kept.

The ones that can change your life - the way your look and, more importantly, the way you feel.

This time of year many of us are getting away to warm places and though we know we all look great with a tan, it's a fact that sun-exposure (even casual exposure such as walking the dog, or sitting looking out a window) causes age-revealing spots, crow's feet, and potentially deadly skin cancer.

Fortunately for the vacationing sun-worshiper, it's not too late to start behaving and taking care of ourselves. Skin repair itself through regeneration. By just using a strong sunscreen everyday and reducing the sun exposure to your skin, you will reverse some of the damage.

Find a formula that not only works with your skin type but also works with your lifestyle. Get formulations that won't upset an oily skin and won't clog pores of a very active person. Lotions work best for combination skin, and cream formulas will help in the hydration of dry skin.

Power peels are micro-dermabrasion treatments that have been used in Europe for years. This procedure is helping men and women in the United States experience remarkable improvements in their skin texture.

For those already showing signs of sun damage (fine lines around the eyes, sun spots and broken capillaries) and those concerned enough to start taking early precautions, the future looks bright.

I highly recommend Power Peels. Skin care specialist Carolyn Shy performs this procedure which does everything from brighten complexions to reducing fine lines and age/sun spots.

Power peels are micro-dermabrasion treatments that have been used in Europe for years. This procedure is helping men and women in the United States experience remarkable improvements in their skin texture.

An extremely effective age-battling at-home regimen includes topical antioxidants such as Vitamin C (the most concentrated form is L-Ascorbic acid which is present in Cellex-C and SkinCeuticals).

Another topical solution is Vitamin A (retinol) which accelerates cell turnover, evens tone and improves smoothness and texture. Vitamin A can be found in Giovanni's Anti Age Serum.

Also, alpha- and beta-hydroxy acids exfoliate dull sun-damaged surface cells. This procedure takes more time to see noticeable improvement but it's worth the effort in the long run. Antioxidants stabilize cells so they metabolize properly which can help prevent skin cancer in the future.

So while you're pledging your allegiance to New Year's resolutions keep in mind the long term rewards you can gain by keeping them.

Good health and good looks for years to come, is worth all the effort to keep your resolutions throughout the year.

Don't panic

There's still something for everybody on your list

BY NICOLE STAFFORD
SPECIAL EDITOR
nstafford@ec.homecomm.net

Everybody forgets. Everybody procrastinates. It's human nature.

That's why retailers and malls have extended their hours next week and are making sure shelves and display cases are stocked with merchandise that's easy to see, snatch and purchase.

In addition to offering a variety of services aimed at streamlining last-minute shopping trips, including gift-wrapping and valet parking, most retailers have stocked up on holiday favorites, from winter gloves and scarves to holiday ornaments to cashmere sweaters to decorative, scented candles and boxed fragrance collections.

Some stores and malls also plan to offer discounts to last-minute shoppers. At WonderLand Mall in Livonia, for example, 19 stores are offering 20 percent discounts through Christmas Eve.

Christopher Radko holiday ornaments, fragrance collections and cashmere clothing and accessories, from gloves to sweater-sets to evening wear, are last-minute shoppers' best bets, added Hillis. Both items appeal to women (since most last-minute shoppers are men) and are being carried in abundance by local retailers.

Other expert tips from Hillis included:

- Wearing comfortable shoes and lightweight clothing that will keep you cool
- Making a gift list with several ideas and a budget for each recipient before heading out to shop
- Taking advantage of retail services, which include gift-wrapping, package pick-up, valet parking and personal shopping services, for convenience and to save time
- Making sure to set aside enough time to accomplish your goals
- Spending a day at the mall, rather than just a few hours
- Planning to take an enjoyable lunch or coffee break
- Shopping with someone whose opinion you trust who will not rush you.

Information must be received by 5 p.m. Monday for publication the following Sunday.

WHERE CAN I FIND?

This interactive feature is dedicated to helping readers locate merchandise that's difficult to find through reader feedback. If you've seen or are looking for an item, call (248) 901-2555 and give a message with your name and phone number. We publish readers' requests for merchandise twice. TRAVEL

New York dazzles during the holidays

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE
SPECIAL WRITER

No city wraps itself up for the holidays quite like New York.

If you are traveling to the Big Apple anytime between now and New Year's, you are in for a treat.

The bright lights that always shine in Times Square are rivaled by the dazzle coming from streets and stores, plazas and parks throughout the city at this time of year.

Rockefeller Center is a traditional focal point of the holiday hubbub. The giant Rockefeller Center Christmas tree boasts 30,000 light bulbs on five miles of wire. This year's tree, according to the center's holiday hotline, is a 100-year-old, 100-foot-tall, 55-foot-wide Norway spruce, imported from Connecticut.

And you'll most certainly want to check out the windows of the big department stores: Barneys New York, Bergdorf Goodman, Bloomingdale's, Lord & Taylor, Macy's and Saks Fifth Avenue.

Innovative Christmas themes abound, but because this is also the turn of the century some stores have chosen to focus on the millennium.

Lord & Taylor looks toward the future through the eyes of children from around the world. Five of its Fifth Avenue windows recreate familiar landmarks from various countries and continents, with the sixth window a global tribute. Each features animated figures of children, dressed in fashions appropriate to their heritage.

Barneys New York, living up to its cutting-edge reputation, isn't content to confine its windows to one century. Entitled "Two Thousand Years of Talk," they pay homage to five icons of communication from the past 2,000 years. Each icon is represented by a seven-foot-tall head, made up of art surrounded by a variety of materials, with a mouth that constantly moves.

Cleopatra represents "Girl Talk" and is constructed from more than 1,000 bottle caps, many filled with the image of Hollywood beauty queen Elizabeth Taylor. Other talking heads are of William Shakespeare (Sweet Talk), Queen Elizabeth II (Tiara Talk), James Brown (Jive Talk) and Millennium Man (Cyber Talk).

Truer to the Christmas theme, Saks Fifth Avenue's windows feature an animated interpretation of a new book, "Auntie Claus," by Elise Primeval. The windows tell the story of Sophie, described as a rather precocious New York child. She learns the true meaning of the holiday spirit from her aunt, who turns out to be Santa's sister. Hand-sculpted figures are dressed in costumes made from velvets, fake furs and silks. (The book for children ages 4 to 8 was reviewed favorably last week by the New York Times.)

Displays at the Waldorf Astoria hotel reflect its history as "the largest and most opulent hotel in New York" at the turn of the last century. In the newly published book "New York, An Illustrated History," authors Ric Burns and James Sanders report on its relocation from Fifth Avenue and 34th to its present

Park Avenue site in 1931. The lobby, adorned with art deco murals and mosaics, is the setting for the re-creation in miniature of wintry street scenes from the Waldorf's past set against blow-ups of vintage photographs of the original hotel.

The windows at F.A.O. Schwarz toy store depict various adventures of beloved author E.B. White's "Stuart Little," obviously well-timed for the film that opens this month. And Tiffany & Co. continues its impressive run of highlighting spectacular pieces of jewelry in sophisticated wintry settings.

Much as I enjoy the windows, it's the street scenes that I really love: the delicately lighted trees on the grassy median of Park Avenue, with the limestone and brick facade of St. Bartholomew's Church (1919) as backdrop; the parade of candy canes on 57th Street west of Fifth Avenue; the golden snowflake-dangling high above Fifth Avenue at 57th Street.

Bake and be merry

Throughout the year we answer thousands of questions about food preservation, cooking, baking and canning from people who call the Michigan State University Extension/Oakland County Food and Nutrition Hotline. Generally around the holidays, the questions turn to baking. I hope the following questions and answers will help you with your holiday baking.

Q. How can I avoid crystallization of the sugar when making candy?

A. Make sure the sugar is completely dissolved before it reaches a boil. Stir the sugar and liquid together thoroughly. Bring the sugar syrup slowly to a boil, stirring occasionally. Cover the pan while the syrup is coming to a boil, the condensed steam will wash down the side of the pan and help prevent crystallization.

YOUR HOLIDAYS

On the 13th day of Christmas, my true love brought me beef!

Gregg Johnson of Canton is a beef-loving, grill-happy, deep-frying man who loves to cook for his friends. This past Thanksgiving he injected a 14-pound turkey with Cajun spices and boiled it in oil. The bird cooked in 45 minutes. If he gets enough requests, he might just deep fry another turkey for Christmas.

"When it deep fries, the spices kind of explode inside."

However, Johnson's first love is beef, especially steak, which he learned to cook when he was 9 years old.

"I loved steaks. I'd ask my mom to cook me steaks all the time, one for breakfast, one for lunch, one for dinner. She went out and bought a countertop broiler and left a few steaks in the fridge, and I was on my way, Jack. That was my starter kit."

Today, Johnson has perfected his mother's technique. He starts with a two-pound black Angus porterhouse, pokes both sides with a sharp knife to tenderize it, then sprinkles both sides with seasoned salt, pepper and some garlic powder.

Sounds ready for the grill or broiler, doesn't it? Wrong. Johnson always rubs a few pats of butter (real butter, buddy, not margarine) across the surface of one side of the steak for some extra juices, which he uses to sauté mushrooms.

Finally, for an extra, extra touch, he squeezes a bit of fresh lemon juice over the top. This is a man infatuated with flavor.

He broils his steak on high about eight to 10 minutes per side, flipping just once. "They're very tender and rare," said friend Terrie Poe. "I like mine well done, but he likes his rare. I always make him cook mine a little more."

Roasts

Although it's hard to beat a perfectly prepared steak for a romantic holiday dinner for two, premium roasts - ribeye, rib, tenderloin and top loin - are perfect for entertaining larger crowds. Select roasts that are bright cherry red in color without any grayish or brown blotches. They can be stored unopened in the refrigerator three to four days before cooking.

Try dressing up your Christmas or New Year's roast with a seasoning rub prior to roasting. A rub containing liquid such as oil or mustard is sometimes called a "paste." The result of this rub-down is a crusty finish after roasting and a juicy, tender roast. Always prepare these roasts by dry heat: Roasted in

RUB, CRUST AND PASTE

- Classic beef rub - Dried thyme leaves, minced garlic and cracked black pepper.
 - Mustard and parsley crust - Dijon mustard, fresh bread crumbs and minced parsley combined with fresh herbs, prepared horseradish, wasabi or grated Parmesan cheese.
 - Rosemary-blue cheese crust - Dried or fresh rosemary, chopped walnuts, crumbled blue cheese. Cook roast halfway, press on coating and continue baking.
 - Tropic island rub - Minced garlic, chopped jalapeno pepper, chopped fresh ginger, lime juice, brown sugar, dried thyme leaves, salt and ground allspice.
 - Chimichurri paste - Chopped Italian parsley, olive oil, white vinegar, minced garlic and salt.
 - Bouillon herb paste - Beef bouillon cube (crushed) or granules, olive oil, fresh or dried herbs.
 - Southwest paste - Finely chopped dried tomatoes, minced chipotle chiles in adobo sauce, minced garlic and oil.
- These rubs are equally good for less expensive roasts, such as round tip, tri-tip or eye round. Eye rounds are particularly good first marinated in red wine, herbs, garlic and onion for six hours or overnight. Prior to roasting, remove from marinade and coat with a mixture of cracked peppercorns (black, white, pink), crushed red pepper and salt.

Cookbook for manly taste buds

Is there a cooking-impaired man on your Christmas list? - If so, consider "Bake It Like a Man," an entertaining and practical cookbook that demonstrates the ability to bake, broil and braise has nothing to do with estrogen.

"Life under roof" is centered in the kitchen. It's where humans go for good news and bad, to celebrate birthdays, perform home surgery, and crack pecans," said Irish-born author David Bowers.

"All real human drama takes place in the kitchen. And for too long, it's been the sole domain of woman. But man has an equal right to the place, and it's time he asserted himself domestically."

Yes, guys, it's home-home-on-the-range time.

The index to "Bake It Like a Man" reads like a do-it-yourself home-repair manual: Men and

Some fizz for holiday bubbies

BY ELEANOR & RAY HEALD
SPECIAL WRITERS

Are you planning to open a premium bottle of champagne or sparkling wine this holiday season? Here's some fizz, ed.

Joy Sterling, marketing director of her family's Iron Horse Vineyards in Sonoma County, Calif., considers champagne a "subset" of sparkling wine.

"The word champagne is like Kleenex, a brand name that has become part of common speech," she said. "For the purist, Champagne is a geographic region of France, and only wine from there can legitimately be called champagne."

Call it what you will, the real difference between champagne and California sparkling wine is the fruit. California enjoys more sunlight hours, therefore the fruit is richer and more firm.

With practice, any man worth his T-bones can make Spaghetti and Meat-boulders (with freshly grated Pecorino Romano or Parmesan cheese, please), Stovetop Deep-Fried Turkey (how many can you get?), and the artery-busting Cadillac Mac and Cheese.

Although there's an entire chapter devoted to potatoes, this is far more than a meat-and-potatoes cookbook. Bowers goes into detail on the tools and techniques needed to produce just the right dish. Everything starts with a good knife, he says. Or a good cast iron skillet.

"If I had to choose only one frying pan, this would be it. A sea-lick of blue flame flaring toward the ceiling, you will want to flambé everything," said Bowers. He offers recipes for Whiskey Chicken, Steak Diane, Rotterdam Flaming Bananas, and even Glogg, the "viciously potent" Swedish Christmas punch.

There's even a whole section on baking bread, disproving the old adage, "Man does not live by bread alone." Bowers likes to make his bread by hand. Bread-making machines are for wimps, he believes.

Forget the new circular saw or orbital sander, girls. Don't even think about routers and planers. Get the man in your pantry something you'll both enjoy. "Bake It Like a Man."

an oven, uncovered without the addition of water.

Always use a meat thermometer since the internal temperature is the best indicator of doneness. An ovenproof meat thermometer is inserted prior to roasting and remains for the entire cooking time. An instant-read thermometer is not ovenproof; use it toward the end of the cooking time. Insert it long enough to get a temperature reading, about 10 to 15 seconds.

The USDA says beef roasts need only be cooked to medium rare or an internal temperature of 145 degrees F. Remove the roast when the thermometer reads 10 degrees less than the desired internal temperature.

For example, for medium rare doneness, remove the roast from the oven when the thermometer registers 135 degrees F. For medium doneness, remove the roast when the temperature registers 150 degrees F. During the standing time, the temperature continues to rise to reach the desired doneness.

Every magnificent holiday.

avorful. Champagnes have subtler fruit elements and often have higher acidity which is masked by sugar added in the dosage at final bottling. California fruit achieves balance naturally on the vine and can therefore be made drier than a number of champagnes.

While technically, it takes only three weeks to get bubbles, by law in the Champagne region, a non-vintage sparkler must be aged 18 months or the yeast in the bottle before disgorging when the yeast sediment is expelled.

Characteristics

Vintage champagnes must be aged three years. Longer aging on the yeast in the bottle impacts the three most important characteristics of any bubbly.

■ Bouquet: When the cork is popped, you should sense aromas such as freshly risen bread dough, toast or biscuits.

■ Texture: The wine should be creamy and rich with a soft bubbling action that lasts a long time in the glass.

■ Finish: Never plodding, but always with a lift at the end inviting the next sip.

Delicious dishes to beef up holidays

Red wine sauce: Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a skillet over low heat and add 1 finely minced garlic clove. Sauté 1 minute, making sure the garlic does not brown. Add 1/2 cup strong red wine; such as a Bordeaux or Cabernet Sauvignon. Bring to a boil and cook until the wine is reduced by half. Add 3/4 cup beef stock, 1 bay leaf, and 1/2 teaspoon coarsely crushed black pepper. Return to a boil, reduce the heat and simmer for 10 minutes. Just before serving, whisk in 2 tablespoons butter. Herb butter: Blend 1/2 cup softened butter with 1 teaspoon dried mustard, 1 minced garlic clove, 2 tablespoons each of fresh, finely chopped parsley, tarragon and chives; a few grindings of black pepper; and a splash of cognac or brandy. Place a dollop of the butter on top of each hot steak just before serving.

STEAK DIANE
2 6-ounce sirloin or strip steaks
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
1 tablespoon olive oil
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons cognac
3 shallots, minced
2 tablespoons medium-dry sherry
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard

With a mallet, pound each steak until it's about 1/4 inch thick. Season well with salt and pepper on each side. Heat a cast-iron skillet over high heat for several minutes. It should be very hot. Add the olive oil and 2 tablespoons of the butter. Seconds later, as soon as the butter is melted, slap in the steaks. Sear them for about 40 seconds on each side.

Very carefully, because the pan already is so hot, pour in the cognac and ignite it with a match. When the flames die down, remove the steaks to a warm serving platter and cover.

Reduce the heat under the skillet and add the remaining tablespoon of butter and the shallots. Cook, stirring occasionally, until they are transparent, 4 to 5 minutes. Stir in the sherry, mustard, Worcestershire and lemon juice. Heat until ingredients boil. Pour the sauce over the steaks on the warm platter and garnish with the chopped parsley. Serve immediately.

Cornea recipient sees miracle in donation

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER
kmortson@oe.homecomm.net

You wouldn't have to ask Katie Dougherty twice if she enjoys seeing her five grandchildren - there isn't a question the answer would be yes. But to Dougherty the doubt lied in whether she'd be able to "see" them for very much longer.

The 68-year-old Canton resident had been plagued with vision and eye-related problems for as far back as she can remember.

"I've been to see so many ophthalmologists I've lost count," quipped Dougherty.

Approximately 20 years ago Dougherty's lens in her left eye was removed due to a cataract.

The purpose of the lens is to focus images sharply on the retina. When the clouding or cataract occurs, the lens is no longer able to focus clearly onto the retina. After surgery, the eye is unable to focus because it does need a lens to function normally again. The alternatives are cataract glasses which are thick and heavy, a contact lens which is worn on the eye, or a lens implant or intraocular lens, which is an artificial lens placed within the eye.

Glasses were out of the question because she had such good vision in her right eye. "The doctor said I would have a thick lens on one side of the glasses and a regular in the other," said Dougherty. "My brain wouldn't be able to tolerate it."

The optician then tried a contact lens. "That didn't work either. My eye just couldn't acclimate to it." After two different contact lenses Dougherty gave up and settled for the loss of vision.

"I was totally blind in that eye after they removed the lens," said Dougherty. "I don't know how I drove all those years without getting in an accident."

"The 68-year-old also had no peripheral vision and no depth perception, making life somewhat frustrating."

"I would over estimate things when I walked because I couldn't tell how far I was from a step. I would drop things if people reached out and handed them to me and when I was pouring cream in my coffee I would pour it all over the table because I thought I was pouring it right into the cup. My husband was very patient."

Then in 1991 Dougherty received an artificial lens implant that restored vision to her left eye. Unfortunately, a common occurrence following this type of surgery is a detached retina. The condition was detected during a routine checkup and Dougherty was rushed to the hospital for emergency surgery.

"I didn't even have time to go home and pack a bag," said Dougherty.

In the past eight years the Canton senior has had cataract surgery in her right eye, once considered her "good" eye, and again a detached retina developed. An artificial lens was implanted just like the one in her left eye.

More bad news followed. The lens that was implanted in 1991 was being rejected by her eye and was rapidly deteriorating.

"They told me I'd have to have the lens removed and receive a cornea transplant," recalled Dougherty.

Gift of sight

In September of 1998 Dougherty received a cornea for her left eye from the Michigan Eye-Bank of Ann Arbor. She was awake during the procedure, performed by Dr. Roger P. Meyer of the University of Michigan Kellogg Eye Center. Meyer, a staff member of the Kellogg Eye Center and a professor of ophthalmology and visual sciences, removed the old lens and transplanted the donor cornea, the clear surface at the front of the eye.

A corneal transplant replaces a discolored segment of an impaired cornea with a similarly shaped piece of a healthy donor cornea. According to the Michigan Eye Bank/Midwest Eye Banks Transplantation Center, approximately 130 people in Michigan are currently waiting for a corneal transplant.

A year following the transplant Dougherty has 20/30 vision thanks to the cornea donation.

"People say to me, 'Let someone else donate,' but if everyone felt that way no one would donate. It's so important to get donors. I can see how, thanks to someone's unselfish generosity," said Dougherty.

Recently the 68-year-old became an ambassador for the Michigan Eye Bank in hopes of sharing her story with others and spreading the urgent news about organ and tissue donation.

Dougherty's first public appearance as a Michigan Eye-Bank ambassador occurred in the fall when she was the speaker at the Detroit Federal Executive Board's Ninth Annual Disability Awareness Training Seminar for federal employees.

Dispelling myths

Lisa Langley, a registered nurse and an 11-year professional educator for the Michigan Eye-Bank, said there are several aspects of organ and tissue

Special gift

While families gather during this holiday season, the thoughts of many of us turn toward giving thanks for the many gifts that we have received this year. To do so is to express our thanks in tangible ways even as we seek to find the perfect gift for the loved ones in our lives.

This year, the Michigan Eye-Bank asks you to consider giving a gift to someone that you may never meet. This is a gift that is so valuable it is beyond measure, encompassing, life, sight, and hope; yet it is virtually cost-free to the giver. It is a gift that is literally within the power of each of us to offer and makes a powerful impact on individuals, families, as well as communities.

By signing a donor registry card and telling your loved ones of your wishes to donate your eyes and organs after death, you could potentially give the gift of sight to one or more of the 130 persons in Michigan waiting for a corneal transplant. By donating your eye tissues to research (Gift of Hope) scientists are able to develop new surgeries and treatments to combat blindness. Through the Gift of Life, donated organs allow one or more of the 2,300 persons waiting for an organ transplant to continue living. However, signing the donor registry card and mailing it in is simply not enough; you must discuss your decision with your family and/or the person(s) representing your estate to ensure that your wishes are known. This is essential, because your loved-ones and/or person representing Power of Attorney ultimately make the final decision regarding donation. The Michigan Eye-Bank receives many letters from recipients expressing the joy that they feel after having their vision restored by a corneal transplant. The Gift of Sight is only made possible by the generosity of those who have consented to donation. Here is something very worthwhile to remember during this holiday season and every season: The Gift of Sight, Gift of Life, or Gift of Hope could be the most valuable gift that you may ever give/or may even receive yourself. — The Michigan Eye-Bank donation that people misunderstand, including whether their religion will allow them to become a donor after their death.

"All major religions approve of organ and tissue donation and acceptance," said Langley who, as a regional coordinator, works in conjunction with 30 hospitals throughout southeastern Michigan regarding the procurement and retrieval of tissue.

The registered nurse noted there is no cost to the donor family because the recipient's insurance takes care of the cost of procurement. "People also need to know that when eye tissue is removed, no matter what is removed, everything is replaced with something artificial." It's possible to have an open casket," said Langley.

Langley said talking about your wishes regarding organ donation may seem like an unusual topic during the holidays, but it's actually an ideal time. Signing the back of your driver's license isn't enough because it's not considered a legal document and ultimately your family makes the final decision.

"Giving the gift of sight to someone whose vision was robbed from a blinding eye disease is one of the most valuable gifts you could give and you may have to receive yourself one day," said Langley.

"Langley looks forward to having Dougherty speak at future engagements throughout southeastern Michigan. "She was very well received at the training seminar and she has a wonderful story to share as a successful recipient."

If you would like more information about organ and tissue donation, contact the Michigan Eye Bank/Midwest Eye Banks and Transplantation Center at (800) 247-7250 or (734) 764-3262. The MEBC has a Web site at www.mebc.org.

Organ donor list expands

MICHIGAN

Secretary of State Candice S. Miller recently announced that 100,000 names have been added to the Gift of Life Organ and Tissue Donor Registry in just one year thanks to the Department of State's new organ donor enrollment card program.

Only about 15,000 names were on the Gift of Life registry before the enrollment card program began in August 1998.

"The numbers say it all - our message about greater organ donor awareness is touching people's hearts, and they are responding by placing their names on the organ donor registry," Miller said.

Make donation wishes known throughout family

As holiday greeting cards start to fill mailboxes, many Michigan residents are finding an unusual surprise tucked inside. Michigan Donor Registry cards are being inserted into greeting cards by a growing number of people, according to The Gift of Life Agency, Michigan's licensed organ and tissue recovery agency.

"The greatest gift one can give is the Gift of Life," said Tammy Havermah, Public education director. "This year, we are being contacted by a significant number of people who want to send donor registry cards to their friends and family."

The Michigan Donor Registry is a computerized listing of Michigan residents who wish to someday become an organ and tissue donor. Donor registry cards are available through various health agencies, the Gift of Life Agency and at all Michigan Secretary of State branch offices.

Donor Registry is one way to begin a family discussion about donation. Family consent is always obtained before any organ or tissue recovery efforts begin.

The number of Michigan patients waiting for organ and tissue transplants continues to grow. Currently, over 2,500 Michigan patients are on the organ waiting list while thousands more await a tissue transplant. Each month nearly 20 patients will die needlessly while waiting for an organ transplant.

"You can help solve the organ donor shortage by simply encouraging your family and friends to communicate their wish to be an organ and tissue donor," said Havermah.

Growing in popularity

Online shopping is here to stay say experts, consumers

MIKE WENDLAND

One thing we've all learned from this holiday season is that shopping online is hot. But sorting through all those Web sites and trying to determine who has the best deal is not. To help make wise online buying decisions all year around, I've found some Web sites that offer up lots of e-commerce help.

All the surveys show the first thing consumers want is reliability in an online shopping site.

And the Web site that's getting all the best buzz for helping online shoppers find not just good prices but good service and delivery is www.bizrate.com. Its name describes precisely what Bizrate does. It rates online shopping Web sites. Type in the name of the online store you're interested in doing business with and it spits out an instant report on how that site meets various consumer needs, from ease of shopping to security, selection and shipping policies. The ratings come from thousands of online shoppers who are regularly surveyed.

Another great resource for evaluating online shopping sites is www.bbbonline.com from the Better Business Bureau. Besides receiving up practical tips about online shopping, you can search for Web sites that adhere to the bureau's reliability and privacy standards. You can even order up reports on businesses from across the country to see their track record with consumers.

After reliability, the next big issue for online shoppers is price. Who has the best deal?

The new www.ichoose.com Web site lets you download a little shopping helper program. It runs in the background while you do your e-shopping at any of the e-commerce sites. But before you click your mouse to make a purchase, that little program will download then goes out and searches hundreds of other online merchants that sell that particular item to let you know if someone else has a better price.

Another extremely popular comparison price Web site these past few weeks is www.pricewatch.com. You are not required to download any program here. It does comparison shopping with its own built-in Web-based search engine. To see how it works, I decided to price out one of those hot new Palm VII organizers.

But even aside from the fairness issue, I'm convinced by phone calls to my radio show and e-mail from my TV and newspaper reports that the online public loves online shopping. It clearly is going to only get bigger. And Web sites like the ones we just talked about make the convenience of online shopping even more convenient.

I predict that the millions of first-time Internet shoppers who bought gifts online this holiday season will remember the experience and buy more and more goods and services via the Internet all year around.

MALPRACTICE

When professional negligence is mentioned, there is an immediate association with medical malpractice in the minds of most people. However, physicians are not the only professionals who are required to perform professional work according to the best judgment and competence expected of persons in that specialty. While instances of medical malpractice have been widely reported in the media, such professionals as engineers, architects, and even caterers may also conduct their work in such a negligent manner that it results in loss or injury to their clients. The more fact that someone who is negligent does not necessarily give you the right to sue. Other elements must present themselves before a person has a chance to win a legal action.

COME TO A GRINDING HALT

In response to stress, many people grind their teeth as they sleep. Not only does this wear down your teeth, but it can also create a disturbance for bed partners, but it wears down both enamel. Bruxism may also weaken the bone holding the teeth to the jawbone where periodontal disease can occur. To prevent these adverse effects, the dentist can fabricate a custom-fitted mouthguard for teeth-clenching patients that prevents the teeth in the upper and lower jaws from contacting one another. As effective as mouthguards are in protecting teeth, patients who grind their teeth may also want to explore "youthful sleep," an end stress-reduction therapy.

Do you grind your teeth? Please feel free to discuss your dental concerns with us. Our mission is to provide unparalleled patient care and service, creating a positive change in our patients' lives, and thus in ours. At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, we stress preventive dentistry and recommend regular dental check-ups for all family members. We use the latest technology to ensure that you and your family have the best dental care possible. Come in and see what a difference we can make in your smile - and what a difference your smile can make in your life. We welcome your call at 478-2110 to schedule an appointment. Smiles that don't hurt offer "youthful sleep," an end stress-reduction therapy.

BEING OLD WITH ARTHRITIS PAIN

Being old and experiencing arthritis pain presents a difficult problem both for you and your doctor.

"For you, the difficulty is getting to the doctor when you need him.

For your physician the problem is one of prescribing appropriate medication. What he does not want to do is give you something that will make you dizzy, drowsy, or sleepy. That is why he is reluctant to order narcotic medications.

If you live alone, such medications are risky. A fall induced by narcotics could go unreported for hours. Since arthritis can last for years, the need for pain relief may last just as long. Reliance on narcotics brings tolerance of no addition, in time, a greater amount of drug renders less pain relief, while the side effects remain.

Use of medications such as acetaminophen and ibuprofen, often proves insufficient to resolve the pain you experience. Heat helps, but its effect is short lived.

If the pain comes from a joint, an aspiration of excess fluid in the joint and injection of a steroid preparation may help for days to weeks. However, obtaining the injection necessitates an office visit, and delay in getting to the office brings up the need for interim relief.

The reality is that no physician can turn to a text or article for a formula that outlines a reliable solution. What doctors search for is a combination of medications that you tolerate well, are not addictive, and which relieve your pain consistently.
