A Canton woman charged with stabbing her husband to death last January will spend 11 to 20 years in jail.

Kinnari Sutariya, 20, received the maximum sentence Thursday from Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Bruce Morrow. She pleaded no contest to second-degree murder on June 16.

Kinnari Sutariya

Sutariya stabbed her husband nearly two dozen times Jan. 22 at the couple's Canton apartment. Ramesh Sutariya, 28, died from massive internal injuries.

"No sentence is going to justify what occurred," said Rharat Sutariya, a cousin who grew up with the victim. "But now we can get on with our lives."

The couple had been married Dec. 24 of last year in India and returned to the United States Jan. 10. According to defense attorney Andrea Lyon, it was an

Family struggles waiting for builder to finish job

BY SCOTT DANIEL
STAFF WRITER
sdaniel@oe.homecomm.net

Building a house can be a trying experience under the best of circumstances.

Financing, overseeing construction and selling the old home are just a few of the usual hurdles. Norm and Cindy Mackay have an added responsibility – namely, the care of their 20-year-old disabled daughter.

The Canton family has been living out of hotels for the past few weeks while their 2,000-square-foot condominium at Cherry Hill Pointe is being completed. According to Norm, the unit was supposed to be done by the end of June.

"It's like a bad situation-comedy," he said. "They said they had specific projects to get specific things done by certain dates. But that day would come and things wouldn't get done. There was no explanation."

It has made caring for his daughter, Jessica, much more difficult. The 20-year-old, who endures daily seizures and is mentally impaired, functions at the level of an 18-month-old baby.

Cindy Mackay said her daughter needs constant care. Providing that type of assistance in a hotel is very difficult.

"She has no clue where she is," the mother commented. "She hasn't slept in her bed in a week."

"If there's one thing she needs," Norm added, "it's stability. She has no idea of what's going on in her life."

Cherry Hill Pointe is located at the corner of Cherry Hill and Lotz roads. Phase one of the development calls for 18 buildings and 66 total units on just more than 18 acres, Canton Community Planner Jeff Goulet said.

Bloomfield Hills-based JAC Construction is building the Mackays' condo. Repeated attempts by the Observer to contact the company for comment were unsuccessful.

Canton Building Official John Weyer said the township has received one other complaint against JAC at Cherry Hill Pointe. He said it was similar in nature to the Mackays'. Weyer said the firm doesn't have a long track record.

"It's first time they've built in our community," he added.

The Mackays came to Canton from East Lansing in 1996. After deciding to Summer jobs a tough sell, managers say

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER
hneedham@oe.homecomm.net

Canton employers looking to attract and keep employees are turning to creative ways of doing so and looking beyond just the wages.

Only an estimated 3.2 percent of Michigan residents are unemployed, forcing employers to come up with creative ways to make sure some of the remaining 96.8 percent of the people are working for them. In Canton, the 1999 unemployment rate was slimmer still – an estimated 1.5 percent of a township workforce of nearly 34,000 was unemployed, according to figures compiled by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

Canton Township, the township's sixth-largest employer, is looking at what other governmental entities are paying seasonal employees, vital for traditional summer jobs such as groundskeeping, golf course and park maintenance. The township is also looking at raising pay to attract more workers.

"We find that we have a high turnover with seasonal employees," said Julie Morse, personnel analyst with Canton Township. "It's just real hard to find responsible and committed people to fill temporary positions."

A majority of seasonal employees are 16 to 19 and work in a variety of areas, including parks and recreation, grounds, and maintenance.

Seasonal job openings listed on the Canton Township Web site included cart/ range attendant, Pheasant Run Golf Club – grounds, pro-shop assistant (salesperson) and seasonal laborer.

Financial know-how is campaign key: Bovitz

■ 11TH DISTRICT COUNTY COMMISSION

BY SCOTT DANIEL

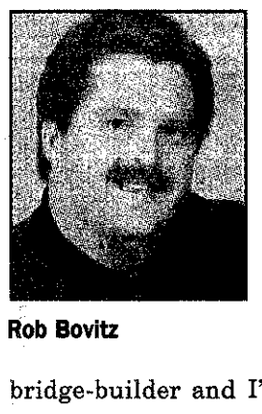
Financial expertise, accountability and energy – those are three elements Rob Bovitz plans on bringing to the Wayne County Commission as its 11th District representative. The Canton Republican believes he has the ability and moxie to serve effectively.



Rob Bovitz

"I'm a bridge-builder and I'm accountable," the 39 year old said. "I realize in Wayne County you can't go in as a commissioner and be partisan in nature on every issue."

Bovitz said he's well aware the commission is made up mainly of Democrats. He's also mindful of the power County Executive Edward H. McNamara – one of the state's most powerful Democrats – wields.

"He's the county executive," Bovitz said. "There are times you have to work together."

Bovitz will square off against fellow Republican township resident Fred A. Bolden in the Aug. 8 primary. The win-

Jail term ordered in fatal crash on I-96

BY SCOTT DANIEL
STAFF WRITER
sdaniel@oe.homecomm.net

A 20-year-old Canton woman will spend nine months in jail in connection with the death of a township teenager last year.

Sarah Cappuccitti was also sentenced to five years probation and ordered to pay restitution to the family of 17-year-old Alisha Roberson, who died Sept. 20 in an automobile accident on I-96 in Livonia. Wayne County Circuit Court Judge George W. Crockett III passed sentence Friday at the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice in Detroit.

"What you did was foolish," he told Cappuccitti. "You were the senior of all four persons in that vehicle. In many ways, you contributed to their continuing abuse of mind altering substances."

Stan Roberson, the teen's father, was "satisfied" with Crockett's sentence.

"All I wanted was for Sarah to have one full year to think about what she has done," he said. "The biggest thing she could do to make restitution to me, personally, would be to find God."

Cappuccitti was found guilty of negligent homicide by Crockett in May. She was behind the wheel of a 1988 Ford Tempo during the accident.

■ 'I know what I did was stupid. Alisha (Roberson) should be here right now. I shouldn't.'

–Sarah Cappuccitti, driver

The Canton resident apologized to Roberson's family Friday.

"I know what I did was stupid," said Cappuccitti. "Alisha should be here right now. I shouldn't."

She said Roberson was a true friend.

"Her heart was bigger than her body," Cappuccitti said. "She was a caring person."

Cappuccitti, Natalie Reynolds, Sarah Vitto and Roberson, all Canton residents, were headed eastbound on I-96 in Livonia at about 7:45 p.m. on Sept. 20.

Cappuccitti lost control near Newburgh Road after passing out. According to circuit court testimony, all four of the young women were inhaling "Dust Off," a chemical used in cleaning computers, prior to the accident.

The Tempo crossed four lanes of traffic, went up the southern embankment of I-96, through a fence, across the service drive and hit a tree broadside.

Roberson suffered massive internal injuries and died en route to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor. Cappuccitti, Vitto and Reynolds suffered lesser injuries and have since made full recoveries.

Roberson's mother, father and sister addressed Crockett before sentence was passed on Cappuccitti.

"Sarah killed the best friend she ever had," said Denise Roberson, her mother. "She is still living a life of party and drugs. Her lifestyle hasn't changed."

Alisha's sister said she never knew such pain existed.

"I can't imagine facing a greater loss in my life than losing Alisha," Amber Roberson added.

Cappuccitti could have received as much as two years behind bars. Crockett said he imposed probation so that he might keep a closer eye on her.

"I plan to exercise control over your behavior," he said. "As much as the law permits."

Cappuccitti will spend nine months in a women's jail in Hamtramck. She was assessed court costs and financial restitution to the Robersons.

Robber makes off with undisclosed amount of cash

BY SCOTT DANIEL

sdaniel@oe.homecomm.net

The DNN Bank on Sheldon Road was robbed of an undisclosed amount of cash Friday afternoon, according to Canton police.

A white male described as 45- to 50-years-old and heavy set walked into the bank at about 4:15 p.m., Sgt. Jerry Hardesty said. After placing a bag on the counter, he handed a teller a note saying it contained a bomb and that he would detonate it unless she filled a separate bag full of money.

She complied and the man, whom she said was wearing a hunter's cap, a green long sleeve shirt and gray pants, left. Hardesty said the man may have been driving a four-door, light blue mid-sized car.

"He's currently at large," Hardesty said.

Canton police arrived shortly after the man made his getaway. The bank and surrounding buildings were secured and evacuated.

Michigan State Police were called to the scene to dispose of the bag.

"We don't believe a bomb is in there," Hardesty said Friday afternoon. "But we're going to act in a cautious manner."

No injuries were reported as a result of the incident.

Police are unsure of the direction the suspect traveled after leaving the bank, which is at Ford Road.

Anyone with information about the robbery is asked to contact Canton police at (734) 397-3000.

COP CALLS

Four Canton teenagers were cited for possession and consumption of marijuana Thursday night, according to township police reports.

Police were dispatched to the 40000 block of Trails Court at about 11:30 p.m. on a report of teens "partying" in an empty apartment. A township officer spotted a group of 10 teens sitting on a patio of the apartment.

Reports said the officer began his investigation by talking to the teens. One, however, tried to run away. The officer tackled the teen and put him into handcuffs, reports said.

A second police car then arrived on the scene. A search of the teens revealed several with possession of marijuana, reports said.

A total of four teens were cited and will have to appear at the 35th District Court in Plymouth. Other teens were released, reports said.

Car damaged

About $200 worth of damage was done to a 39-year-old Canton woman's 1997 Honda early Wednesday morning.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH
ORDINANCE #2000-3

AN ORDINANCE FOR THE PURPOSE OF ESTABLISHING GUIDELINES TO CONTROL ELECTRONICALLY AMPLIFIED NOISE LEVELS.

THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

WHEREAS, That the Code of Ordinances of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, is hereby amended by adding sections, to be numbered 34-95, 34-96 and 34-97, which said sections read as follows:

Sec. 34-95 Electronically amplified sound systems in vehicles

No person operating or in control of a parked or moving vehicle, including motorcycles and mopeds, shall operate or permit the operation of an electronically amplified sound system in or on the vehicle so as to produce sound that is plainly audible more than 40 feet from the vehicle, except when a specific permit is first granted by the City Commission. The term plainly audible shall mean any sound that can be detected by a person using his or her unaided hearing faculties.

Sec. 34-96 Exceptions

The exceptions contained in subsections 34-90, 34-91, and 34-92 of the City of Plymouth Code of Ordinances shall equally apply to subsection 34-95.

Sec. 34-97 Violations and Fine Schedule

Any person who shall violate subsection 34-95, except when a specific permit is first granted by the City Commission or when one of the exceptions enumerated in subsection 34-96 shall be found to apply, shall be guilty of a civil infraction. The fine schedule for violations of subsection 34-95 occurring within one calendar year will be as follows:

First Offense -	$ 70
Second Offense -	$100
Third Offense -	$200
Fourth Offense and subsequent violations -	$500

NOW, THEREFORE, This Ordinance shall become effective twenty-one (21) days after final adoption.

Passed by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Wayne County, Michigan, this 17th day of July, 2000.

ADVANCEMENTS IN FOOT CARE – presented by –
Canton Foot Specialists

Dr. Steven Watson · Dr. Michael Lefkowitz
WHO SHOULD WEAR ORTHOTICS?
Orthotics are custom-made inserts which fit into your shoes. Superficially they look like arch supports and some actually provide minimal arch support. Orthotics actually change the way you walk. They allow the foot to supinate at the proper time in the walking cycle.
Orthotics are universally acknowledged as being useful in the treatment and prevention of many foot problems such as bunions, heel spurs, and shim splints.
Orthotics prescribed by podiatrists should be custom-made for your foot type and problem. Many over-the-counter devices are available, but their benefits are not reliable. Every foot is unique and a one-size-fits-all device doesn't usually provide much relief.
We specialize in non-surgical relief of heel pain.

Theater plan moving forward, officials say

BY SCOTT DANIEL
STAFF WRITER
sdaniel@oe.homecomm.net

The parameters of a "Partnership for the Arts" center in Canton are becoming clearer.

Indications are that a theater of 400-450 seats at a cost of approximately $6 million could be built in Canton's Cherry Hill Village. Supervisor Tom Yack said the theater is far from being a done deal, however.

"Until the board sees the numbers," he commented, "I'm not assuming there will be a commitment."

A feasibility/business plan study for the center, which would include drama, music and other cultural activities, is in the process of being completed.

The study was initially finished in May, but was sent back for "tweaking" when a potential main user for the center pulled out, Partnership for the Arts steering committee member Joan Noricks said. Final decisions about the size and scope of the center will be determined when the study is completed.

"We knew it would be a long process," Noricks said of the studies. "But we want to create a lovely theater for the community that won't be a white elephant."

It wasn't the center's first feasibility study. A 1998 work concluded that proper funding exists for a 500-800 seat center. It also gauged potential donors' interest in such a facility.

Last July, Canton trustees approved a second study. Its aim was to pinpoint potential users and establish a business plan.

The Plymouth Theater Guild has stepped forward as Partnership's main user. Yack said several profit and nonprofit organizations would likely use the center.

Initially, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra was going to share the building with the Guild. But Yack said it became clear that a theater large enough to accommodate both would simply be too expensive.

"It was going to cost $9 to $11.5 million for 700 seats," he said. "We decided to go back to something that was more affordable."

Thus far, about $4 million is committed to the project. Canton has pledged half that amount while $2 million more will come from local developers. The township is also pursing a state Department of Commerce and Industry grant, perhaps for as much as $750,000, said Yack.

He thinks any remaining funds needed to finish the center could be raised within six months. Canton trustees must first sign off on the plan, Yack said. That could come sometime next month.

The supervisor hopes the board will support the idea of a theater.

"The question is if the board is willing to look at cultural programming the same way they look at recreational programming," Yack said. "I hope they see it as an important part of the community. It's another element of the community you'd be providing services for."

arranged marriage.

In a district court hearing, Canton police Detective Lew Stevens testified that four knives were used in Ramesh Sutariya's murder.

One was found on the apartment's tile foyer. Stevens said the knife was bent at about a 90-degree angle.

A second knife was found in the living room next to a metal chair with rope tied to it. The knife, Stevens said, was broken with the blade adjacent to the chair and the handle a few feet away.

A third bloody knife was found in the kitchen sink and a fourth shoved to the back of a utensil drawer, Stevens testified.

During that same hearing, Wayne County Assistant Medical Examiner Leigh Hlavaty told the court that Sutariya was cut and stabbed a total of 22 times.

Several blows were delivered to the 28-year-old's head, back, chest and abdomen. Sutariya's lung had been punctured as well as his bowel.

Raj Sutariya told Morrow he was one of the first people to see Ramesh after the stabbing.

"The condition I saw my brother in," he said, "that memory is at the top of my mind. I can't focus on anything any more."

Lyon provided Morrow a long list of "mitigating factors" in the murder.

She wrote that Kinnari didn't want to marry Ramesh Sutariya, but was forced to because of Indian customs and traditions.

Lyon further stated that the young woman was in love with a man in India but couldn't marry him because of her family's wishes.

She wrote that Ramesh began applying extreme sexual pressure on Kinnari as soon as she arrived in the states.

Lyon stated, finally, that all of those circumstances caused the 20-year-old to commit an act entirely out of character for her.

"This is an aberration from her normal behavior," Lyon told Morrow.

Sutariya apologized to Ramesh's family.

"I wish I could turn back and change that day," she said crying and trembling. "I know I made a mistake."

Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Dan Less argued that Kinnari Sutariya simply wanted out of her marriage.

"Her intent was clear," he added. "She wanted him dead."

In handing down his sentence, Morrow told Sutariya her actions were not "acceptable." Probation guidelines recommended a sentence of 7½ to 11½ years.

Yash Sutariya, a cousin of Ramesh's, said Kinnari took his best friend away from him.

"He's not here because of someone that was selfish," he told Morrow. "She didn't care about anybody but herself.

"It takes a different kind of person to do what she did."

Ficano faces off with deputies in sheriff's race

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

Incumbent Robert A. Ficano and at least five of the six other candidates seeking to become Democratic Party nominee for Wayne County sheriff have a common concern: the department's future.

But the similarity ends there: Ficano, an attorney by training, believes the future must continue innovative programs like his Internet "cybercop" unit while the other candidates – four of whom are deputy sheriffs – want a return to more traditional law enforcement, with one of their own heading the department.

That's what surfaced in Observer interviews with Ficano, who is seeking a fifth consecutive four-year term as sheriff, and five of the others in the Aug. 8 primary election.

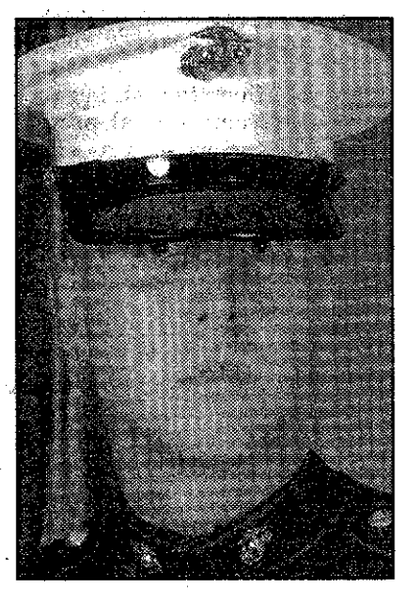
Ficano, sheriff since being appointed in April 1983 to fill a vacancy, faces Deputies Brian Keating, Richard LeGreair, Darron McKinney and Marvin Taylor, plus private security specialist Darren T. Yarbrough and a sixth candidate, Ronald Smith of Detroit, in the primary. All but Smith responded to interview requests.

The Democratic field is second largest in the last 10 years: In 1996, eight ran in the primary.

If Ficano wins Aug. 8, he will face Republican challenger Timothy Beck, a Detroit businessman, in the November general election.

Citing county budgetary problems – the county has a nearly $11-million deficit and all departmental budgets are tight – Ficano says he is concerned "whether law enforcement is going to be a priority."

Robert Ficano



Brian Keating

Darron McKinney

Ficano says his department – which among other things operates the three county jails, protects the courts, patrols secondary roads and county parks and assists municipal police as needed – can't function properly on the proposed budget.

The $6 million the county would add to his previous $105.5-million budget "is misleading," Ficano says, because it only covers the contractual pay raises for the 900 deputies and civilian staff.

'Core issue'

"It does not address the core issue" of the court-ordered staffing levels at the county jail, which his department lacks the funds to meet and which is costing about $2 million a year in overtime, Ficano says. He says only trained deputies can be used there.

The proposed budget would cut 17 narcotics deputies, he says. "You can't talk about closing down crack houses when the people that make the arrests" are being eliminated, he says.

He's concerned that "some real innovative programs we have launched out on" may not continue.

These include the Internet Crime Task Force; the High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area program involving churches and local enforcement agencies in conjunction with the federal government; the Juvenile Reality program which shows teenagers the possible results of misbehaving by taking them through the jail and morgue and even an experimental program that gets jailed "deadbeat dads" into jobs after their release.

Defends 'cybercop'

Ficano defends his Internet "cybercop" program, noting it not only goes after sexual predators and pedophiles, prostitutes, drug traffickers, online gamblers and the spread of the date-rape drug GHB, but also visits area schools to educate children, teachers and parents about protecting themselves.

He says the "cybersex" unit costs "a pittance – $300,000 a year." It has arrested 20 and seen four convicted.

Ficano says his relationship with his deputies is "actually very good" but warns the department will monitor their "appearance, attendance and actions ... We're not always going to be your friend" when it comes to "the integrity of the department."

Deputy Brian Keating of Dearborn Heights, who works in the jail booking area, says the jails are so overcrowded that 15 inmates are released daily. "They're out there laughing at the system," he says.

He suggests turning empty hospitals into minimum security detention centers. Ficano says remodeling expenses are too high, but Keating says, "You can't put a price tag on people's safety."

If elected sheriff, the 15-year department veteran would put inmates on continual cleanup around Detroit and have them tear down crack houses.

He'd also have more deputies go after burglars, car thieves, robbers and drug dealers instead of increasing cyber patrols.

Morale low

He says department morale is low and needs a sheriff trained in law enforcement who will "stand up" for deputies and work to retain them. He also feels Ficano's administration is "top-heavy" with appointees who could be cut to save money.

Deputy Darron McKinney of Detroit, who works in the courts and recently received a commendation for catching, while off-duty, a purse-snatcher who attacked two nuns, agrees with Keating on the morale issue.

He says only deputies graduating in the top five at police academies get on road patrol; the others "go back to the jail" to work.

He says the administration is top-heavy, with appointees who have "no police experience" giving orders to deputies.

He supports an enforcement focus: "We need to meet the (state) mandate" for basic law enforcement, he says. If elected, "I will get out and do police work," he vows.

McKinney also believes in being proactive: He founded the Brown Bears, a volunteer musical act that visited schools, bringing children a message of respect for elders and good behavior, and he wants to see the GED program brought back for those on short sentences.

Bears disbanded

move, the family decided to stay in the township.

They picked Cherry Hill Pointe because of its ranch-style designs. Cindy said JAC was very accommodating in designing a unit that would function well for Jessica. She and Norm were also looking forward to having more space for themselves.

"We've never had an entire floor to ourselves."

The couple put their first down payment on the condo last September. JAC told them initially the unit would be completed this April.

Construction went well at first, Norm said. The framing of the building and other work was completed before the end of last year.

Building virtually halted during the winter months. Work didn't get back into high gear until late spring, Norm explained.

After several tries, he finally got JAC to give him a completion date. When Mackay learned that it was the end of June, he was able to accept a bid on his current residence. He closed on May 10.

"I told them we had 60 days to vacate," Norm said.

When the end of June arrived and work wasn't finished, he explained his circumstances to JAC.

"They told me they were doing the best they could," Mackay commented. "I said, 'that's not good enough.'"

By July 10, he was forced to move Cindy and Jessica into a hotel. If delays continue, the 20-year-old will not be able to attend special classes. Cindy said Jessica must have a permanent address for the Plymouth-Canton School District to pick her up for the class starting July 23.

"We can't stand on the side of I-275 and have them pick her up," the mother said angrily.

Cindy said Jessica hasn't been the same since they were forced to move into the hotel.

"She's a lot more bored," she commented. "She's not eating as much. There's also been some regression in her behavior."

Mackay said she feels helpless.

"I feel like I'm banging my head against a brick wall," she added. "I could do it if I didn't have to take Jessica into account for everything."

Problems: The Mackays have moved to two different hotels since selling their house and have a $40,000 construction loan tied up in their yet-to-be-completed condominium.

The Mackays were schedule to close on the condo Friday, but were left in the dark when JAC representatives didn't show. Norm Mackay said he was considering canceling the entire deal.

ner will face incumbent John J. Sullivan of Wayne in November.

The 11th District encompasses the townships of Canton, Van Buren, Huron and Sumpter as well as the cities of Belleville, Romulus and Wayne.

Bovitz, a newlywed, works as a certified public accountant. He thinks that know-how will be an invaluable tool on the commission.

"The county needs someone like me who brings financial expertise and audit experience," said Bovitz.

The commission, which watches over the budget process in Wayne County, currently lacks members with financial backgrounds, he added. He plans to sit on the commission's audit committee if elected.

With the backing of former 11th District and current state Rep. Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, Bovitz thinks he has a solid chance of beating both Bolden and Sullivan.

"The last two years Sullivan has sat in meetings," he said, "But he never speaks up. He doesn't vote on key issues."

■ 'The last two years (Commissioner John) Sullivan has sat in meetings. But he never speaks up. He doesn't vote on key issues.'

–Rob Bovitz

The Democrat, Bovitz adds, has not been accessible or visible in the communities he represents. Sullivan also hasn't worked with state legislators, he adds.

"Why hasn't he been a bridge between the state and county?" Bovitz asked.

He thinks he has the right ideas for county government.

Bovitz said he sees "plenty of opportunities" to reduce the size of government. Organizational efficiency is the key, he adds, not higher taxes.

"I'm by nature anti-tax. I think there are alternative ways of funding.

"You can lower taxes and have the same services. I'm not out to shake-up the county, but if there's waste I'm out to find it."

Besides governmental efficiency, Bovitz sees Metro Airport as another key issue.

"It's not world class in terms of image or operations."

He thinks the addition of a new Northwest Airlines terminal will help. Bovitz said it will increase revenues at the airport, which should in turn allow for further improvements.

"The money will be there. I think the midfield terminal is a step in the right direction."

He also believes economic development is on the right track in the 11th District. Bovitz thinks development, which has exploded in Canton, will move to Van Buren, Belleville, among other communities. He sees his role as a facilitator.

"If I can help I will. If you're pro-business, you're not necessarily anti-worker."

Bovitz is a Trenton native. He said he's already familiar with much of the district.

Seasonal wages of current Canton job postings range from $5.25 to $7.50 per hour and part-time wages from $6 to $21 per hour.

"We keep (seasonal job postings) up all year," Morse said. "We're just always accepting applications."

Competition for employees can be stiff.

"It's a real challenge offering (employees) reasons to work for us as opposed to an organization down the street," Morse said. The township considers other municipalities to be the primary competition for workers, not private-sector employers such as fast food restaurants and retail stores.

"We have considered more actively recruiting for these positions," Morse said, adding that they've also looked into boosting the pay.

The job picture is looking a little better in the private sector, said some local employers.

In fact, one retailer said it's closed its doors to new employees – at least temporarily.

"Our (now-hiring) sign is about to come down," said Kelvin Hill, executive guest services team leader at Target, 43670 Ford. The sign read "Now hiring: Join our team."

Hill said the company hasn't had to take any drastic steps to woo employees.

"We've just kind of let the company name speak for itself," he said. "Target has a lot of programs geared toward schooling and encouraging flexible hours."

Employees also receive in-store discounts on merchandise, he added.

Wage minimums vary from department to department, Hill said, and are based on experience in addition to many other factors.

Laura Robbins, service lines manager at Meijer, 45001 Ford, said it's always a struggle to attract adult employees.

"It's not so much of a problem in the summer," Robbins said. During this time, the age 16-19 set fill jobs in a variety of areas, including bagging, bottle room, ice cream and pizza service.

Robbins said the prevalence of $7-$10-an-hour retail jobs means Meijer has had to look beyond wages to draw workers. Some perks include medical benefits for part-timers working at least 21 hours a week, flexible schedules to accommodate school, and leaves of absence – which allow college students to keep seniority when they go away to school.

The negative aspects of retail jobs include evening, weekend and holiday hours, she said.

Roughly 70 percent of Meijer employees are represented by a union. Most are members of the United Food and Commercial Workers union, which represents 1.4 million retail food, meat packing, poultry and food processing employees in North America.

"We've tried upping the pay a little bit," Robbins said.

Hospice of Michigan has named Lee Ann Myers, of Canton, as controller.

Myers comes to Hospice of Michigan from Mercy Continuing Care, a subsidiary of Mercy Health Services, where she was director of reimbursement and compliance. Her areas of responsibility included long term care, home care and hospice. Prior to her eight years with Mercy, she was an accountant with Deloitte & Touche, focusing in health care clients. She is a certified public accountant and has a degree in business administration from Bowling Green State University.

Join us for some medical merry-making on August 1st from 4-7 p.m. at our brand new U-M Canton Health Center, located at 1051 N. Canton Center Rd.

County launches senior drug card

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

Wayne County has begun mailing enrollment forms for its new, free County Card prescription drug discount program to the county's 400,000 senior citizen residents.

Forms also are available at county libraries, senior centers and at all CVS pharmacies in metropolitan Detroit. CVS is the national drugstore chain participating in the program, which is scheduled to begin Sept. 1.

Modeled after a similar senior discount drug program in Macomb County, Wayne County's County Card will offer resident seniors 60 and over from 5 to 30 percent off on prescription medications.

Average savings are estimated at 20 to 30 percent and "unlike other programs, every single purchase will receive a discount of at least 5 percent," said Trisha Stein, executive director of Wayne County HealthChoice, which is administering the card program.

All seniors need to do is sign and return the enrollment forms and the county will mail them their County Card, according to Stein.

The cards are good at the more than 250 CVS pharmacies statewide and also will be honored by the chain's 4,100 pharmacies nationwide.

In addition, seniors will be able to receive prescription discounts through some mail-order services. Such discounts are expected to be even greater than in-store discounts, according to Stein.

Seniors can call 1-800-777-1023 for answers to enrollment and prescription questions. The telephone service operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week, said Stein.

"I'm pleased that the County Card program has come together," said County Executive Edward H. McNamara in announcing the program Wednesday. "It will make a big difference to thousands of seniors in Wayne County."

McNamara, concerned about the high cost of prescription drugs, especially for seniors living on fixed incomes, had asked Deputy County Executive Michael Duggan earlier this year to develop a program to ease the burden.

Skyrocketing prescription drug costs, up to $2,000 a month in some cases, has created a huge demand from seniors across the country for help.

"Big health care companies get huge discounts from pharmacies," said Duggan. "By banding together, we're going to get the same discount for our senior citizens."

Duggan is credited with initiating the HealthChoice and the PlusCare programs, which provide health insurance to low-income families and indigents.

HealthChoice, the county-run small-business medical insurance program, pays an annual $8 per member fee to PharmaCare of Rhode Island, which is coordinating the program with CVS, according to Stein.

PharmaCare, a pharmaceutical benefits manager, has contracts with health maintenance organizations nationwide and also with the Department of Defense.

HealthChoice is maintained by funding from Urban Hospital Care Plus, a nonprofit which arranges health care benefits for the uninsured in Wayne County.

Engler signs bill cutting phone rates; Ameritech may sue

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

Michigan telephone customers are in for a break on rates now that Gov. John Engler has signed a bill intended to spur local phone company competition into law.

The cut in fees will include elimination of the $3.28 access fee, or "end user line charge," and a new requirement that the phone company consider calls to adjacent calling areas as "local" calls rather than "local toll" calls.

The breaks should show up on bills in September, unless Ameritech files suit. Company officials have indicated to the Michigan Public Service Commission that they are considering legal action. The company estimates the cost of the elimination of the access fee alone at $157 million annually.

Lawmakers did away with it when they passed House Bill 5721 on the grounds it mirrored a fee already assessed under federal law, essentially double dipping Michigan customers. The bill also eliminates a similar access charge of $3.50 assessed to GTE customers.

"The main goal of this legislation is to increase competition for local phone services, which will provide more choices for consumers," said Rep. Mary Ann Middaugh, R-Paw Paw, at the signing of the bill Monday, July 17. Middaugh along with Rep. Marc Shulman, R-West Bloomfield, crafted the bill.

Shulman initiated the proposal because previous attempts to deregulate local phone service in Michigan failed to produce real competition.

Along with eliminating the $3.28 charge and the requirement for free calls to adjacent areas, the bill restores the authority of the PSC to oversee telephone service providers. It will make the PSC the "competition cop," according to proponents, to encourage competition against Ameritech and GTE by upstart companies.

but it got no support from the sheriff and disbanded after four years, McKinney says.

Deputy Richard LeGreair of Detroit, also assigned to the courts, calls for "more visibility" by sheriff's deputies on the streets and says he doesn't think enough effort is spent in protecting the elderly and seniors.

Deputy Marvin Taylor of Detroit, a former radio disc jockey who ran for Detroit city council in 1993, says more officers on the road would reduce road rage. The department is "not visible enough as a deterrent."

Darren T. Yarbrough, the non-deputy, is a former Army Special Forces weapons officer who works with deputies in his role as supervisor for the tactical enforcement group of Hunters International. The firm contracts with Wayne County to assist in finding those who fail to appear in court and also provides personal protection teams.

He calls for, among other things, a step up in patrols to stop drug and firearms traffickers and would develop a juvenile boot camp similar to that in Oakland County.

He also says the sheriff's department lacks official accreditation and would get it through the Commission for Accrediting Law Enforcement Agencies, which he says recently granted accreditation to the Ann Arbor Police Department.

McCotter says state needs a poet laureate

STAFF WRITER

rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

Bob "Night Moves" Seger as Michigan's state poet?

That wasn't necessarily who state Sen. Thaddeus G. McCotter of Livonia had in mind when he announced recently that he is penning legislation to create the post of state poet laureate.

But Seger's inclusion among possible choices communicates the idea behind the bill, says McCotter, who was inspired to write after learning that Michigan – which has a state bird, flower and stone – is one of only 13 states without an official poet.

The first-term Republican suggests the state's poet laureate be appointed by the governor, serve without compensation the length of that governor's term and be required to maintain a Michigan residence.

The state's bard would serve in a host of ceremonial occasions, McCotter says, and also help facilitate a deeper appreciation of poetry throughout the state.

The senator, who got strongly into literature as a collegian, waxes both poetic and political about his proposal.

"Poets live to reveal and convey the rich tapestry of our human experience," he explains. "As a conservative who believes people must always apply a reasoned understanding of human nature and history to governmental issues, I believe it is time (that) we legislators give (poet Percy Byshhe) Shelley's 'unacknowledged legislators' their due."

Bringing up Seger, says McCotter, "made a lot of people think about the role of poetry" in their everyday lives, "a lot of people who never thought about it" before.

"Song lyrics are verse," notes McCotter, citing as proof the lyricism of 19th century English poet Samuel ("Rhyme of the Ancient Mariner") Coleridge.

"When it's at its best, it is poetic," McCotter says. "Seger's songs describe a way of life of many people. Many people can relate to his lyrics."

McCotter cites Seger's "Feel Like a Number" protest song and says he's inclined to put the lyrics on the desks of his fellow legislators when they enact a law.

"People feel like cattle," he says. "Anything we can do to stress the primacy of the individual over government, we want to do. By emphasizing poetry, we stress the primacy.

"The qualities of sympathy and empathy in this society can always be enhanced," McCotter says. "Also, we can get government officials to know there's more to life than just passing laws."

But why Seger?

"All we did was just show the range of poetry we have from Michiganders," says McCotter, who also suggests Jim Harrison, the best-selling Lelanau author ("Legends of the Fall") and Ypsilanti-born bard James Osterburg, along with Ann Arbor's famous rock 'n' roller.

State Sen. Thaddeus McCotter: R-Livonia

Gasoline prices fall in state

Prices at gas pumps across Michigan have declined for a fourth straight week – down 42 cents per gallon since June 19, according to AAA Michigan's weekly "Fuel Gauge" survey. The statewide average for self-serve unleaded is currently $1.658.

This week's average is 12.9 cents lower than a week ago ($1.787). The per-gallon price is now the lowest it has been since the first week in June, but still 46.4 cents per gallon higher than a year ago at this time.

In the metro Detroit area, the average for self-serve unleaded is $1.721 per gallon, down 13.3 cents from a week ago, but 55.6 cents higher than a year ago. The metro Detroit average has fallen 42.4 cents in the last four weeks.

Statewide, the Auto Club survey found per-gallon prices ranging from $1.459 to $1.839.

Michigan's boaters also will find some relief at the pumps. The statewide average for no-lead gas dropped 6.6 cents from last week to an average of $2.253 per gallon, and the average diesel price is down 3.2 cents at $1.654. Those averages are up from last year 66.3 cents and 34.4 cents respectively.

Metro-Detroit-area marinas are reporting averages of $2.262 for no-lead gas, down 11.8 cents from last week, and $1.736 for diesel, down 1.5 cents from a week ago. A year ago, the no-lead average in Metro Detroit was $1.555 and the diesel average was $1.341.

AAA Michigan's weekly "Fuel Gauge" surveys 300 gas stations and 100 marinas.

Center takes applications

The Learning Center at Madonna University in Livonia is currently accepting applications for its fall term, which begins Monday, Sept. 18. Since enrollment is limited, parents/guardians must submit an application form before Monday, Aug. 7. Early applications will allow sufficient time for an assessment of each student before classes begin.

The tutorial sessions are designed for students from the first through 12th grades who are experiencing difficulty in reading and its related skills. Individual or group instruction (two students) is available.

Classes run from Monday, Sept. 18, through Thursday, Dec. 7.

For more information, call (734) 432-5586 or Sister M. Duane, director, (734) 432-5585.

Ambassadors selected

Among the six current and former North American Hockey League players chosen to try out for the U.S. National Junior Team are three with ties to the Compuware Ambassadors.

The most recent Ambassador is goalie Craig Kowalski, who was instrumentall in the the team's run to the 1999 Gold Cup Junior A National Championship. A two-year veteran of the Ambassadors, Kowalski has committed to attend Northern Michigan University in the fall.

Steve Jackson, a forward from Bloomfield Hills who was also part of the Ambassadors' 1999 title team, was leading the team in scoring at Christmas last season with 17 goals and 30 points when he left to join the Michigan State University squad.

Rob Globke, from West Bloomfield, was another forward who played for the Ambassadors in 1998-99, scoring eight goals and adding 14 assists. Jackson and Globke are both members of the U.S. National Under-18 Team.

Hockey classes/leagues

•Adult hockey skills training: A class designed to help train and develop either men's or women's hockey skills is scheduled for four Sundays in August at the Arctic Pond in Plymouth. Cost is $125 per player, which includes all four two-hour sessions.

These sessions are for adults, and will be from 7-9 p.m. on consecutive Sundays — Aug. 6, 13, 20 and 27. To register call or FAX name and address to John Wilson at (248) 471-0658 or E-mail to john@rspi.net.

•Fall/Winter Hockey Leagues: The Rockets (over 21), Plymouth Masters (over 40), Golden Eagles and Golden Blades (over 50) hockey leagues are now forming. Check out the league web site at www.rspi.net, or to register call or FAX name and address to John Wilson at (248) 471-0658 or E-mail to john@rspi.net.

Hockey auction

A used hockey equipment drive and silent auction, to benefit the Detroit Police Athletic League's hockey program, is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 5-6, at the Arctic Pond Arena in Plymouth. Equipment donated and funds generated will help to benefit the PAL's hockey program.

Sponsored by the Ice Dog AAA Hockey Organization, the Arctic Pond Arena and DC Sports, the aim of the drive is to bring hockey to the boys and girls of Detroit. Equipment donated should be in useable condition with no missing parts.

Those interested may call the Arena at (734) 207-9663.

Disc golf

A new golf course opens in Wayne County and all the top political officials show up, right?

Well, yes — and no. True, Wayne County executive Edward McNamara will be on hand when this course opens Thursday. But the course he'll be dedicating is in Cass Benton Recreation Area in Northville, and it's for disc golf.

A game that combines hiking and golf, the new 18-hole, par-65 course is on Hines Drive between Six Mile and Seven Mile. It will be open from dawn until dusk at no charge.

"This is a challenging course," said McNamara. "We have had a lot of positive feedback from players of all levels."

The course's dedication is scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday. For more information on this or any other Wayne County Parks event, call (734) 261-1990.

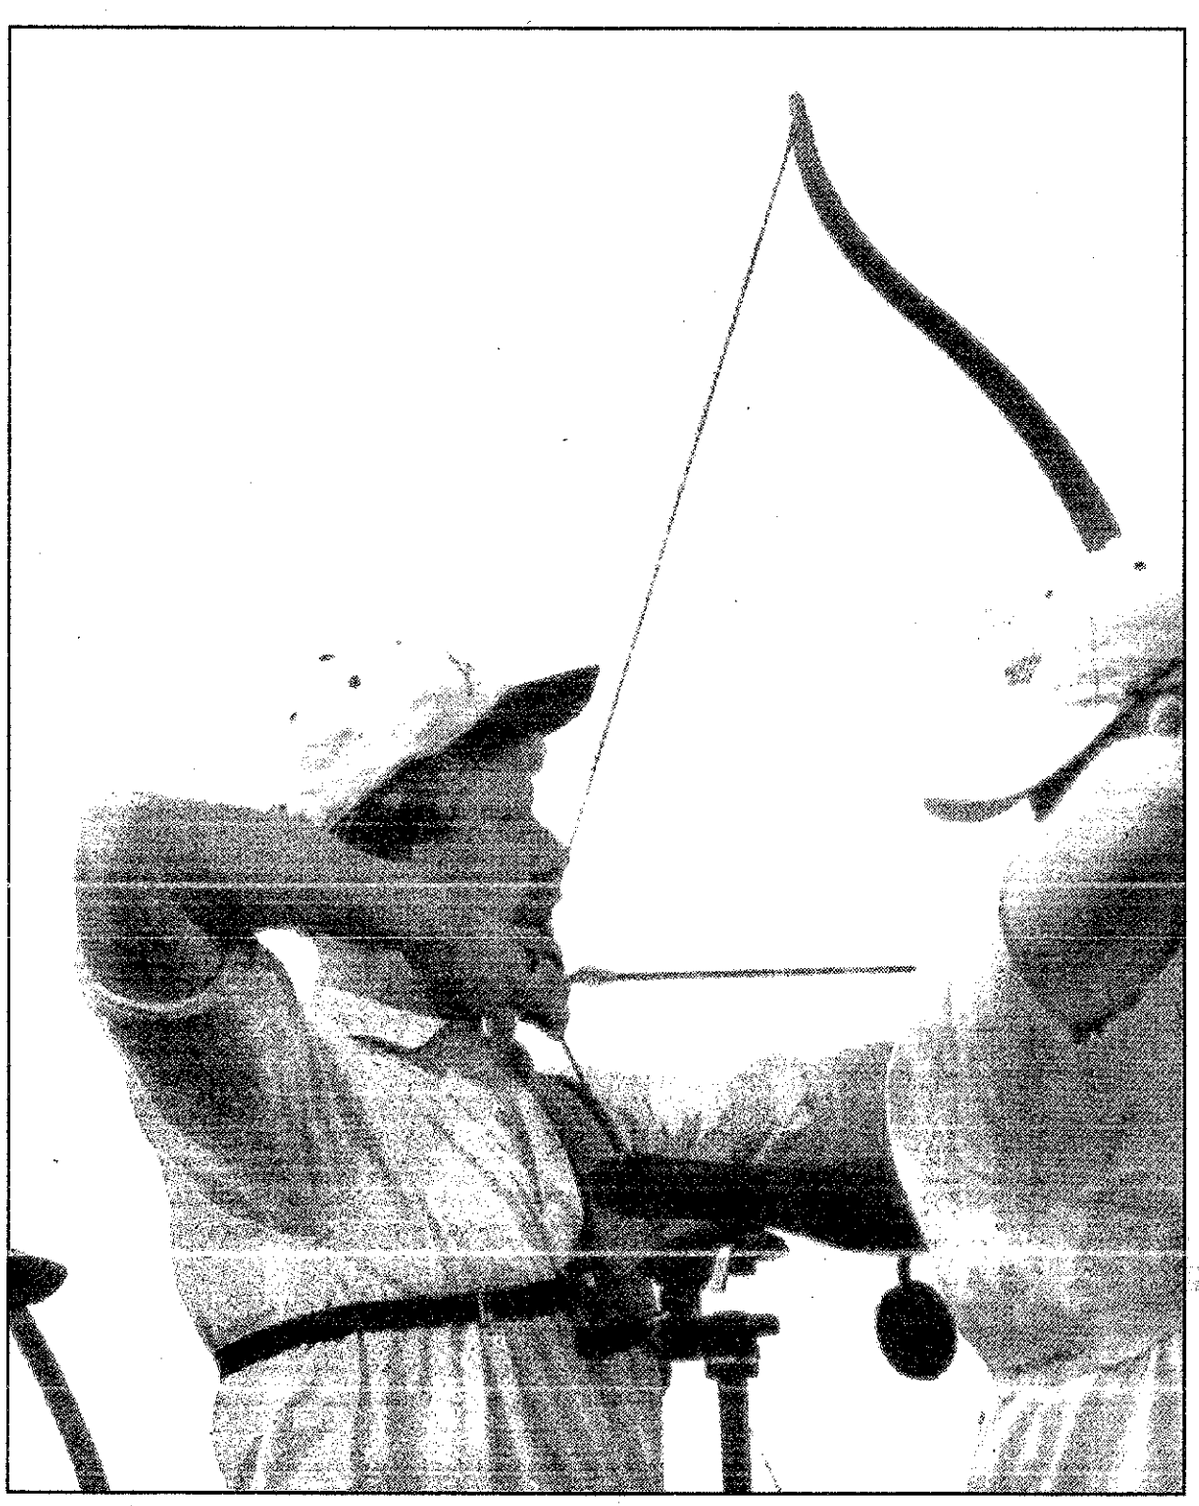
National tournament returns after a year away



BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

After a year's absence, the National Target Championships are returning to Heritage Park in Canton.

In 1997 and 1998, the National Archery Association of the United States visited Canton for the week-long event and thoroughly enjoyed the visit, according to Bill Kellick, NAA communications and media relations manager. But then their contract wasn't renewed.

"They didn't want to last year," Kellick said. The NAA took its tournament to Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, for last year's target shoot.

Whatever the reasons were for not bringing the archers back in 1999 were reconsidered this year. The NAA and the township have signed a three-year deal that will extend through 2002.

Which means some of the brightest stars of the archery world — and one whose fame generates from a different medium — will be on hand next Sunday when the 116th version of these championships get underway.

More than 550 archers are expected to compete for honors, including both the men's and women's U.S. Olympic teams, which will use the event as one of their final tune-ups for the Sydney Olympics.

Returning for the women's team is Janet Dykman, a national team member since 1990 and winner at the national target meet two years ago. The top qualifier at the U.S. Olympic Trials, Dykman was ranked 17th in the world and third in the nation entering July.

Also back is Denise Parker, who earned an Olympic team bronze medal at 14 in 1988 and who ranks as a five-time national outdoor and seven-time national indoor champion. Parker was 26th in the world and fourth in the nation (through June).

The third women's team member lacks the experience but not the talent. It's Karen Scavotto, an 18-year-old from Enfield, Conn., whose impressive resume includes four National Junior Olympic Target Championships, three National Junior Olympic Indoor Championships and holder of five junior national outdoor records and one national junior indoor record. Scavotto is ranked fifth in the world and first in the nation.

"They've got potential," said Kellick of the women's Olympic team. "They have an outside shot (to medal at the Olympics). They won the (Golden Arrow) Grand Prix of Turkey in April."

The U.S. men's team, which won the team gold medal at the '96 Olympics, is led by three-time member Butch Johnson. Johnson won the U.S. National Outdoor title in 1996 and 1997, and was the U.S. National Indoor champ six times, including 1995-99. Johnson holds the world records for an 18-arrow match (179), a 36-arrow finals total (344) and an indoor 12-arrow match (120); he is ranked 11th in the world and first in the country.

Joining Johnson is Rod White, another returnee from the '96 gold medal-winning squad and a two-time winner of the intermediate division title both indoors and outdoors. White is 76th internationally and tied for 16th nationally.

The third team member is Vic Wunderle, winner of the 1998 National Target title and twice the National Outdoor champ. Wunderle was the U.S. Intercollegiate champion three times, won four Junior National Outdoor titles and three Junior National Indoor crowns. Wunderle is ranked second in the nation and 15th in the world.

This tournament will be the final event prior to the Olympics for the women's team. The men will compete at the Grand Prix of Poland before leaving for Sydney.

Heritage Park will be open for practices Friday and Saturday. The Clout Tournament, in which archers shoot at a circle on the ground from great distances (men's compound, 185 meters; men's recurve and women's compound, 165 meters; women's recurve, 125 meters; youth, 110 meters), will be next Sunday (July 30) beginning at 2:30 p.m.

The premier event, the U.S. Open, will begin at 8:45 a.m. Friday, Aug. 4.

Now for some of those more familiar names, like Edward Barrowman of Garden City; Stephen Bernard of Canton; Jessica Carleton of Westland; Christopher and Melissa Evitts of Livonia; Jessica Mattson of Canton; and Jim and Jane Nick-

Please see ARCHERY TOURNAMENT, B4

Top shots: Among those who will compete at the National Target Championships in Canton are Olympic team members Butch Johnson (above) and Denise Parker (right). Each has Olympic team experience; indeed, both have won medals. Johnson was an integral part of the U.S. gold-medal winning team in 1996, and Parker won a bronze medal as a 14-year-old member of the 1988 team.

'Dogs can't catch Huskies

■ SUMMER HOCKEY

The Bulldogs trailed by four goals with less than a minute left in the second period. Even after Jason Basile scored to narrow that deficit against the Wolverines to 5-2 with 46 seconds left, the promise seemed short-lived when the Wolves' Jason Lawmaster (from Westland) answered with nine seconds remaining in the period, restoring that four-goal lead.

But the 'Dogs weren't ready to surrender yet. Basile scored again with four seconds left in the second period to make it 6-3 and ignite his teammates, who went on to outscore the Wolves 6-1 in the third period for a 9-7 victory in their Metro Summer Hockey League regular-season finale Thursday at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Alas, it wasn't enough to lift the Bulldogs into the top spot. They finished the season second at 9-1-1 (19 points), just behind the regular-season champion Huskies (11-1, 22 points).

The result finalizes the MSHL postseason playoffs. The Huskies, who played 12 regular-season games (the other six teams played 11 each), has an opening-round bye.

The Bulldogs meet the last-place (and winless) Broncos at 7 p.m. Monday; on Tuesday, the third-place Spartans face the sixth-place Wolverines at 6:30 p.m. and the fourth-place Lakers go against the fifth-place Wildcats at 8 p.m. All games will be played at the Cultural Center.

The Huskies meet the winner of the Lakers-Wildcats game at 8 p.m. Wednesday in one semifinal; the Bulldogs-Broncos winner plays the Spartans-Wolverines winner at 8 p.m. Thursday in the other semi.

The MSHL championship game is at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Cultural Center.

Brian Grant and Matt Grant (both from Livonia) each scored two goals in the decisive third period for the 'Dogs. Brian Wishart (Canton) and Troy Milam also had goals in the period; Ian Smith accounted for the Bulldogs' first goal of the game, midway through the second period after the Wolverines had taken a 4-0 lead.

Lawmaster finished with three goals to lead the Wolves; Chris Powroznik (Redford) and Wes Blevins added two goals apiece.

Karl Kliemann was in goal for the 'Dogs; Rick Marnon (Canton) was in the net for the Wolverines.

Wolverines 13, Broncos 5: A three-goal flurry in a five-minute span of the second period gave the Wolverines the cushion they needed Thursday against the winless Broncos.

A six-goal third period ensured they would keep it.

Dave Street, Chris Powroznik, Kyle McNeilance and Nick Lewarne each scored two goals for the winners. Other scorers included Frank Bourbonais, Jason Lawmaster, Joe Jones, Joe Kustra and Jeremy Motz.

The Broncos got goals from Matt Van Heest, Nick Anselm, Jason Asadoorian, Ryan McCabe and Erik Hawkins.

Mark Lavender and Rick Marnon split time in goal for the Wolves. Brandon Hothem and Brenden McMahon divided time in goal for the Broncos.

Bulldogs 14, Spartans 9: The Bulldogs broke loose in the last five minutes of the second period, outscoring the Spartans 4-1 in that span to break out of a 6-6 tie and cruise to the victory

Fusion keeper trying to battle his way back

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

There's no place like home to cure what ails you. Just ask Miami Fusion goalkeeper Jeff Cassar.

The former Livonia Churchill High product will have a rare opportunity to play in his home state when his team faces off against the Premier Development League Mid-Michigan Bucks, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at White Pine Stadium in Saginaw Township.

The Bucks, a group of college and post-college amateur players, are trying to move up the soccer ladder. They are co-owned by Livonia natives Dan and Jim Duggan.

What's at stake is a berth in the quarterfinals of the oldest running national soccer tournament, the Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup.

"I came in over the winter and played with my friends and we had a lot of fun at that indoor place in Wixom (Total Soccer)," Cassar said. "We just had a blast.

"I'm excited about coming here because I'll be seeing my family and friends. I still have a lot of friends in Livonia. I'm looking forward to it and going out with my family and friends afterwards."

The 26-year-old Cassar, who starred collegiately at Florida International, has endured a roller coaster career in the MLS, the country's premier professional league.

Injuries have taken their toll on Cassar, considered during his early years as one of the country's most promising keepers.

After starting the first seven games this season for the Fusion, Cassar injured his groin and lost his starting job to backup Nick Rimando.

Cassar has played in nine games, sporting a record of 2-2-4 with two shutouts and a goals against average of 1.16.

Meanwhile, Rimando has gone 5-6-1 in 12 games with a goals against average of 1.83 with a pair of shutouts.

Cassar also got caught in the crossfire of a coaching change when Ray Hudson took over for Ivo Wortmann.

"This season has been a major up-and-down," said Cassar, who played 15 games for the Fusion in 1999 and 21 in 1998 after coming over from the Dallas Burn. "Due to injury I've lost my spot and it's left a bitter taste in my mouth.

"I want to be the starting goalie, but the injury has enabled him (Rimando) to come in and take the job, and he's done well."

Cassar has endured nothing but injuries since he turned professional in 1996 when Dallas selected him in the first round (eighth overall) in the MLS college draft.

In 1997, injuries kept him from playing a single game with the Burn. In 1998 with the Fusion, Cassar finished 12-9 with a 1.95 goals-against average, but he was sidelined by a strained right quad for three games and missed six more games at the end of the season with a partially torn anterior cruciate ligament (which required post-season surgery).

Last season, Cassar started 12 games, but had his season cut short when he needed surgery again to remove a screw from his left knee.

"Right now I'm healthy, but I could be hurt by tomorrow," Cassar laments. "It's disheartening. My body has let me down."

Cassar likes the Fort Lauderdale area and is not demanding a trade. He and his wife Lee Anna have a 2-year-old daughter (Sloan).

"That part of my life (family) couldn't be better," Cassar said. "This is my home away from home. The players we have here are top class. We have some fabulous players, some of the best in the MLS. I love Miami, but the situation is I've got to be playing.

"It's been a crazy year. I'll just see how things go."

Fighting for a playoff spot, Miami is 7-10-5 in the MLS.

On Wednesday, the Fusion battled the host Burn in 100-plus degree temperatures to a 1-1 tie. The team then traveled Thursday to New Jersey to prepare for a game Saturday against the Metro Stars.

On Sunday, the Fusion will head to Saginaw.

"We're in a huge playoff hunt and every game is crucial," said Cassar, who hasn't gotten the word yet from Hudson whether he'll start Tuesday's U.S. Open Cup match. "We know it's going to be a battle because the players in their league (PDL) are trying to impress the coaches in this league (MLS).

Defender Jeremy Aldrich, a former Buck, has appeared in three games for the Fusion. Miami also features Diego Serna, Roy Lassister and Jay Heaps.

The Bucks, who battled the MLS Tampa Bay Mutiny last year in the U.S. Cup before losing 2-1, expect upwards of 5,000 fans to jam White Pine.

The Bucks are 15-2-1 overall, including a shocking U.S. Cup 1-0 win over the MLS New England Revolution last month in Foxboro, Mass.

The Bucks recently clinched the Great Lakes Division championship of the PDL for the fifth consecutive year.

Gates open at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday. Tickets are $10.

"I'd get there early," Dan Duggan said. "If we win, that will give us $10,000 in prize money and get us to the quarterfinals.

"We should be pretty confident, especially after what happened in Foxboro, but you really don't expect a team like ours to keep beating MLS teams.

"I'm sure the Fusion are going to take this game seriously. Our crowd is going to be wild and we hope that's an intimidating advantage."

Duggan also looks forward to seeing Cassar play.

"He is a money goalie and I think he'll play," the Bucks co-owner said. "I certainly hope so. If he's healthy, he's world-class."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Basketball camp

Schoolcraft College women's basketball coach Karen Lafata will conduct a pair of girls basketball camp at SC.

From 9 a.m.-3 p.m. on July 31-Aug. 3, there will be a camp for grades 7-12. Cost is $110 and includes a T-shirt and basketball.

For further information, call Lafata at (734) 462-4400, ext. 5249.

Autumn baseball

Space is limited as the Great Lake Autumn Baseball League is forming 12-and-under, 13-and-under and 14-and-under leagues.

Saturday double-headers will be from Aug. 26 through Oct. 7 at the Canton Softball Center and Heritage Park in Canton.

The cost is $1,100 per team (includes 10 games and playoffs, game balls, umpires and awards). The first six teams in each age group to register with full payment will be confirmed.

For more information, call (313) 724-1980.

Macker tourney

The Gus Macker 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament is scheduled for Aug. 19-20 at Heritage Park in Taylor.

Gus Macker Tournaments are held to benefit local non-profit agencies. Money raised from this tournament will benefit Community Care Services (CCS), a community mental health and substance abuse agency located in Lincoln Park, Belleville and Taylor.

Volunteers are needed to work as scorekeepers, "Gus Busters" (referees and court managers), as well as setup and cleanup.

Activities for the non-playing family members, such as a swimming pool, petting zoo, fishing pond and playground, are available for the families of those who come to participate.

Players must register by July 28. Brochures can be picked up at the Taylor Recreation Department or Sheridan Center. Teams can also register online at www.macker.com

For more information, call Gloria at 734-671-1515 or visit the web.

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

Art Ferguson is hoping the third time is the charm. He'll know for sure by Saturday afternoon.

Ferguson, a native of Rochester Hills, is competing today through Saturday in his third BASS Masters Classic. Largely considered to be the Super Bowl of competitive fishing, this year's Classic is being contested out of Chicago, Ill., on Lake Michigan and connecting waters.

With 46 of the world's best bass fishermen – including last year's champ, Davey Hite – going head-to-head, winning the Classic and the $100,000 stipend that goes with it is certainly no easy feat.

But when Ferguson says he's approaching the tournament with every intention of winning it, he's not making the statement in jest.

Ferguson's first taste of the Classic came in 1990 when he qualified through the BASS Federation. He was basically an amateur, competing against seasoned veterans.

"I remember that first tournament. I was just shaking," Ferguson said Tuesday night, from his hotel room in Chicago. "I didn't know what to do from one minute to the next. They keep you very busy here with press conferences, autograph sessions, meetings, sponsor appearances, things like that. There's a lot more going on than just fishing and it can be overwhelming at times.

"But it's a lot different this year. That was the 20th anniversary of the Classic and this is the 30th. Now I'm at peace with everything and my confidence is up."

Ferguson attributes that peacefulness and a big portion of his success to a strong religious belief, something lacking in his life until a year ago. When asked what the biggest difference was between his first berth in the Classic and this one he quickly responded, "Jesus Christ."

While his newfound spirituality has calmed his nerves and brought him peace of mind and confidence, hours and hours of fishing, through competition and guide services on Lake St. Clair during the summer and Florida's Lake Okeechobee in the winter, have refined his fishing ability.

Since that first Classic appearance 10 years ago Ferguson has logged better than 2,200 days on the water.

Ferguson placed 18th in last year's Classic, held on the Mississippi Delta in Louisiana, and is enjoying the best season of his career this year.

He finished fifth in the season point standings in the prestigious BASSMASTER Top 150 to earn a berth in the Classic. Not only that, but he's coming off his first professional victory, having won the final Top 150 event of the season in May on Alabama's Lake Wheeler.

"I feel pretty confident," he said.

Tuesday offered participants their final day of practice and 25 mph winds kept the anglers off Lake Michigan.

Most concentrated their efforts on the Calgag River, which Ferguson feels could prove to be an advantage.

"It wasn't a real productive practice day for anyone, but that could be an advantage for me," he said. "It didn't allow the rest of the guys a chance to go out and find fish. Because I'm from up here, I probably fish the Great Lakes more than most so that a benefit.."

Three other Michigan anglers – Kevin Van Dam, of Kalamazoo, Kim Stricker of Howell, and Phillip Jones of Holland – have also qualified for this year's Classic, giving Michigan it's largest representation ever.

The bass fishery in the waters around Chicago isn't anything like that of Lake St. Clair, according to Ferguson.

"They probably have less than one-percent of the fish that we have," he said. "They don't have nearly the amount of (bass habitat) that we do."

Because of that lack of fish, don't expect any record-breaking catches to win the tournament.

"We've been talking about that (the winning weight) and everyone feels it will probably take between 32 and 36 pounds to win it. I don't think it will be a tournament anyone will dominate. It will be close."

With things going his way, Ferguson is a solid contender for the top spot in this year's tournament. If the third time really is the charm, Michigan might just get it's first BASS Master Classic champion.

Old-timer? This senior has scores anyone would want

BY PAUL BEAUDRY
STAFF WRITER
pbeaudry@oe.homecomm.net

At 74, Jim Briegel says the only time he plays tournament golf any more is for sentimental reasons.

It's been a pretty good week for sentiment for the Redford Township resident.

Last weekend, Briegel, a four-time winner of the Ann Arbor Men's City Golf Tournament, came in sixth in the championship flight, just four shots behind winner David Ping — young enough to be his grandson.

On Monday, Briegel teed off in the Detroit Newspapers Tournament of Champions at Boyne Mountain's Monument Course, made Tuesday's cut and wound up winning the Super Senior flight by the completion of Wednesday's round.

"My wife keeps thinking that I punish myself for playing," said Briegel, a retiree from Brown-Brumfield Printing in Ann Arbor. "But I love it. I still hit the ball pretty long for my age."

The three-handicap does pretty well, too. Playing most of his golf out of Glenhurst Golf Course on Six Mile, he's shot his age 20 times this year and 37 times last year.

"Glenhurst is a short course, but I feel I'm playing poorly if I play there and don't shoot my age," said Briegel, who is a starter at the University of Michigan Golf Course two days a week. "I've only played two tourneys this year — both in the last week. I love the Tournament of Champions. I play more for the sentimentality of it."

Sentiment found him entering the Ann Arbor City Tournament at Leslie Park as he won the tourney in 1957, 59, 60 and 63. He shot a 79 on Friday, but the rain washed out the first round. Briegel came back with an 80 on the second day, but came back with 75 on the final day to finish sixth.

"If I'd have parred the final hole, I'd have shot my age," lamented Briegel, who didn't know until Thursday where he'd finished. "I had no illusions of winning it, so I took off right after I finished my round and headed up north. I didn't even stay for dinner because I figured if I ate, I would be driving up sleepy."

Monday found him in the first round of the T of C — an invitational run by the Michigan Section of the Professional Golfers of America. The tourney brings together winners of some 50 tournaments in the state — such as the Michigan Open, the Michigan Men's and Women's Amateur, the Michigan High School Athletic Association individual medalists.

The exemptions for the winners range from one or two years up to a lifetime one. Briegel earned his spot by virtue of Michigan Publinx Senior titles in 1979, 82 and 88.

"The first day I shot a 76, which I thought was a pretty good round, considering it was extremely windy for about the last 10-12 holes I played and the fact I didn't get to get a practice round in at the course," said Briegel, who was tied for 38th. "I was very fortunate to come in as well as I did."

Things changed on Tuesday a bit. Briegel golfed the first day from the white tees, but Super Seniors (age 70 and over) were supposed to golf from the shorter red tees.

"It hurt me a bit," said Briegel. "I still hit the ball fairly long and I didn't know where to hit the shots. I got myself in trouble and that was a whole new experience for me."

Still, his round of 78 left him tied for 68th overall and allowed him to make the cut into Wednesday's final round. And even though he carded an 84 on the final day, it was enough to win the Super Seniors division.

"I'd played for sixth-straight days and on the fifth day, I started feeling the fatigue," said Briegel. "I know by the final day, I was flat out tired."

River reveals secrets when a net is cast

TIM NOWICKI

I always have fun with groups participating in a pond study.

When people get a dip net and begin sampling the lake or stream bottom, they are always amazed at the things they find. Many times I am amazed, too.

Most recently I enjoyed the reactions of the students trying to catch some small fish along the shore and their wrinkled noses when they probed their fingers through the bottom debris to find some of the small "unknown" critters.

A neat bug

One student discovered a large mayfly nymph. It was about two inches long with a dark fringe of gills on both sides of the abdomen. This was the first time someone had captured one of these nymphs during a pond study.

It was a burrowing mayfly nymph that fishermen often call a wiggler. They serve as a nice tasty morsel for a fish.

Trout fishermen wait anxiously for the Hex hatch, which is when a large mayfly nymph transforms into a winged adult. During this transformation the adults rise from the nymph's burrows in tremendous numbers, providing a feast for waiting fish.

Many people recognize a mayfly adult, but because people don't spend much time dipping in the water with a net, they do not recognize these insects in their immature stage.

That is the excitement of exploring the underwater world. New discoveries of something common also intrigues people.

They have gills

Burrowing mayflies have gills that wave and create a current that draws water into the burrow. New supplies of water are needed to bring in dissolved oxygen. They also have branched tails that probably help to anchor them in their burrow.

Burrowing mayflies position themselves vertically in the mud or bottom debris. Their head is pointed upward. Well-developed tusks are designed to grasp food that comes within their reach.

In streams, the current brings a constant supply of food past the burrow. Those species in a lake must rely on prey happening within reach or prey being funneled into the burrow by their manufactured current.

Not all mayfly nymphs are found in burrows. Many nymphs are crawlers. Their well-developed legs allow them to hunt under and between rocks for suitable prey of smaller animals. Some are plant eaters, but most are predators.

There are some stream-inhabiting mayflies that have little attachment discs that allow the nymph to cling to a rock without being washed away by the current.

Mayflies that live in streams are often flat shaped. A flat shape allows them to be streamlined and allows the current to push them against the bottom debris. They have developed a body structure that requires the least amount of energy to survive.

Better at swimming

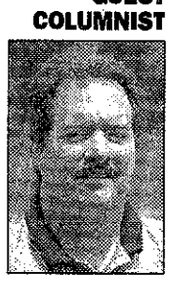
Other mayfly species are better at swimming. Their bodies produce a wave-like action that propels them through the water. There are even armored mayfly nymphs. A broad hardened shell protects the flattened body.

Looking into an environment that we often overlook can reveal some interesting discoveries, if time is taken to really look carefully.

Then, once the initial discovery has been made, learning more about the animal, or discovery, is even more satisfying.

Bring your calculator to try this chipping system

GUEST COLUMNIST



KEVIN LAFRAMBOISE

Everyone is always looking for that special club that will allow them to hit the ball farther.

What everyone forgets about is scoring. Many people come to me and say, "I need help with my driver," or "I can't hit my long irons." What everyone forgets is that chipping and putting is where you score.

If you spend one hour a week practicing on the driving range, then you should spend two hours a week chipping and putting.

When you practice chipping, work with the 7-iron through sand wedge or lob wedge. Most people make the mistake of using just their sand wedge.

One of the keys to chipping is getting the ball on the ground as soon as possible. If you have to carry a bunker, you will probably have your best success using a lob or sand wedge.

Other than that type of situation, you want the ball to roll to the flagstick. This is why I recommend the 'flight to roll' ratio, invented by Mike Adams.

The flight to roll ratio keys itself on the golf ball landing one step on the putting green every time. You determine what club to hit by using the following formula:

1. First you pace off how many steps it takes from where your ball is to one step on the green.

2. Then you pace off how many steps it takes from that one step on the green to the hole.

3. You then take the number of steps to the hole and divide it by the number of steps from your ball to one step on the green. For example, if it takes four steps from the ball to the spot on the green, then 20 more to the hole, divide four into 20 to get five.

4. The final step is to subtract that number from 12 to determine which club to use. For example, 12 minus five equals seven so you would use the 7-iron.

What this makes is an easier way to chip. If you are always landing the ball one step on the green, you must trust the club selection on the shot.

Some keys to work on to chip the ball better are:

- Open your stance slightly, aiming left of the target
- Your weight should be mainly on your left foot.
- Your hands should be in line with your left thigh, and the ball should be back in your stance off your right toe.
- The motion should be with your arms and shoulders, not with your wrists.

Remember to get the ball on the ground as soon as possible and apply the flight to ball ratio.

If you're having problems, remember to seek out your local PGA professional for instruction.

Kevin LaFramboise is the head professional at Western Golf and Country Club.

Metro Detroit bowlers make good showing in U.S. Open

AL HARRISON

Did anyone happen to see the $375,000 U.S. Open bowling tournament on Fox Sports Net last Saturday?

If you did not see it on TV, you would not have read about it in the Detroit dailies. That is a shame, for this is the most highly esteemed bowling event anywhere, and the prized jewel in the Triple Crown of bowling. None of the local TV channels showed it on the news or sports finals. They were all too busy with golf. Where is bowling? I am not talking about field hockey or quoits. This game of tenpins is the leading participant sport in the world.

The U.S. Open took place a week ago at Phoenix, Ariz., and many of our local shooters, were right up there with the finest competitors from Australia to Finland and points between.

Lisa Bishop of Belleville, Cheryl Daniels of West Bloomfield and Marianne DiRupo of Dearborn lasted well into the match play final round, with Bishop finishing 15th, Daniels 18th and DiRupo 19th.

Two-time U.S. Open winner Aleta Sill of Dearborn finished out of match play. On the men's side, an equal number of local participated, but only Finlander Mika Koivuniemi, who has taken up residence in this area, made it to match play.

All the televised matches were exciting. On the women's side, Tennelle Grijalva of Orange, Calif., a former Team USA member, beat amateur star Kelly Kulick of New Jersey for the championship and $35,000. In the men's competition, Robert Smith of California defeated veteran Norm Duke of Florida, 202-201 for the title and $25,000.

■ Lisa Bishop of Belleville, Cheryl Daniels of West Bloomfield and Marianne DiRupo of Dearborn lasted well into the match play final round.

Picture perfect weather draws crowds to fairs

The artists and crowds couldn't have asked for better weather when the Ann Arbor Art Fairs opened 10 a.m. Wednesday. With temperatures in the low 70s, painter Tom LeGault was painting fast and furious. By 3 p.m., all the finished works in the Plymouth artist's booth were already tagged with red sold signs. If you missed him in Ann Arbor, LeGault still has a full schedule of shows in the area including the Sugarloaf Art Fair at the Novi Expo Center Friday-Sunday, Oct. 27-29, and Art on the Lake 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 27, at Northfield Hills, Coolidge at Long Lake Road, Troy. Call (248) 641-9070 for information.

"This is some of the nicest weather we've had in a long time," said LeGault, his brush laying down the first few lines of a northern Michigan landscape.

Further down Main Street Livonia ceramists Barbara and Alan Gibson were taking time to straighten the abstract wall hangings filling their booth. Once the fair was over, the mother and son duo would begin working on commissions similar to the ones they had displayed in a photo album on the table.

Slaving away

"I've been slaving away to get ready for Ann Arbor," said Alan Gibson, who will exhibit his work along with more than 150 other artists 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 5-6 at the Novi Town Center. Admission is free. For more information, call (248) 347-3830 or visit the Web site at www.Art-Festival.com.

Irish music

A block down the street, the enchanting sound of Irish music could be heard as the young musicians known as Grupai Ceol played. Their performance included part of the set they'll play at the All-Ireland Competition the third week of August.

The hat sitting in front of them was filling up fast. Flutist Sean Gavin, fiddlers Jeremy Kittel and Megan MacLeod, harpist Colleen Burke, piper Tyler Duncan and Colleen Shanks (tin whistle) will use the money to help pay for their trip to Ireland. Last year, they placed second in the competition.

"Don't they sound great?" asked Mick Gavin, a Redford fiddler. Standing on the sidelines, Gavin beamed proudly as he watched his son, Sean, play.

New experience

This was the first time Judy and Leonard Poger visited the fair on opening day. In previous years, the Westland residents were working so they couldn't get to Ann Arbor until Saturday.

"I just love it," said Leonard Poger, a student at the University of Michigan-Dearborn and Garden City Observer editor before he retired.

"It's most pleasurable," added Judy. "It's a different experience coming on a Wednesday. You can tell by watching the people, they're very serious about buying."

BUILDING A BETTER WORLD THROUGH SONG

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

Josh White Jr. believes in peace, equality and freedom just as much today as he did when singer/songwriters like himself revived folk music to bring about social and political changes in the 1960s.

He learned the importance of these values at the knees of his father, the legendary Josh White Sr., and mother Carol. Born in 1940 in New York City, young Josh was quick to pick up on the racial and economic struggles his father sang and wrote about in the 30s and 40s.

In the late 1960s, he and a new generation of musicians, which included the British group, The Animals, discovered and popularized his father's – "House of the Rising Sun"– a classic tale about a young girl dying in a place of ill-repute.

White Jr. had sung the song many times with his father since joining him in a performance on a live Armed Forces Radio Show at age 4. By 1961, Josh Jr. was playing solo at the Cafe Gallery down the street from Baker's Keyboard Lounge, but never forgot his father's songs.

He took them with him to The Raven, first located in Birmingham and then Southfield, and onto the road where he performed them at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D. C. and in 12 countries during a 26 day tour of Europe with Richie Havens. But his most important gig was yet to come. In 1991, White Jr. would become an integral part of StoryLiving, the Detroit Historical Museum's educational outreach program that teaches youth about subjects such as the Underground Railroad. It became a mission for him to perform concerts for families and children in an effort to help build a better world.

Music in the Park

What: Plymouth Community Arts Council features Josh White Jr. as part of its concert series
When: Noon Wednesday, July 26
Where: Kellogg Park, Main Street, north of Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. For information, call (734) 416-4278

■ Josh White Jr. will kick off the Members First Series of concerts 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 8 at the Plymouth Community Arts Council. Tickets are still available, call number listed above.

Building a better world

In addition to singing the songs of his father, White Jr. will encourage audiences to cultivate friendships and read more when he plays the Music in the Park concert series sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council Wednesday, July 26, and the Waterford Cultural Council's SummerFest 1:30-2:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 5. White returns to Plymouth Friday, Sept. 8 to kick off the arts council's Members First Series of concerts. He will perform at The Ark in Ann Arbor on Friday, Oct. 6.

Life lesson

"The greatest lesson I learned not only from my father but my mother was how you look at and treat another human being," said White Jr. who sang his father's blues songs on the acoustic stage at Montreal Jazz Festival during Fourth of July weekend. "Look at them as individual human souls, no head higher or lower than yours. If a particular person did you wrong, it wasn't the race that did you wrong. Speak of equality in your music to remind people we're all the same. After everything my dad had been through in his life, he could have instilled a lot of hatred but he did not. And you can't just say something. You have to do it. They walked the walk."

Much of what he knows about his father today, White Jr. learned after his father's death at the age of 54 in 1969. Over the 2 years, he's spoken to legendary blues men and spent hours with Elijah Wald whose book, Josh White Society Blues, is scheduled for release in September. He realized when the U.S. Postal Service put his father on a stamp in 1998 that many people know nothing about these historical figures so White Jr. began making the circuit of schools to speak about his father.

Discovering history

"I learned a lot more about my dad after talking to Wald and it led to me discovering an old blues album of a black street singer he used to lead around," he said. "It's Josh White at 14 playing and singing with Blind Joel Taggert, so now I've heard my father in his early years. To me, that's a treasure. Growing up, there were not a lot of stories but I do remember visiting Leadbelly just before he died. I met Sonny Terry and Brownie McGhee for the first time after my dad died even though they saw me for the first time when I was born. There's some things I wish I could remember like a photo that shows me sitting on Paul Robeson's knee.

"It's our history. When I go to the schools it's because my father is one more person people should know about. There's recordings of my father standing up for human rights in the 30s and 40s. He and Paul Robeson stood up for it. It's never easy to stand up."

White Jr. is not about to let anyone forget that his father was blacklisted during the McCarthy era or that he was the first blues/folk artist to headline America's first integrated club, the Cafe Society in the village in New York. His recent recording, House of the Rising Son, by Silverwolf Records, keeps his father's music alive. His

The hours are long, the mosquitos biting like it's mid August, and the sun's burning their skin but local actors performing in the Michigan Shakespeare Festival are loving every minute.

Set among the trees of Ella Sharp Park in Jackson, the festival treats Shakespeare lovers to A Midsummer Night's Dream and Richard III in addition to The Toby Story, a zany version of Cinderella. The shows continue afternoons and evenings to Sunday, Aug. 6.

"When I first went out and saw the sight I thought it was just a stage in a field," said Casey Murphy, an Ann Arbor resident and graduate of Rochester High School. This is Murphy's second summer performing outdoors. Last year, he was an intern at the Eugene O'Neill Theater Center in Connecticut.

"Then I got a little sunburn. The mosquitos are bad here and we're always covering up in suntan lotion and bug spray but there's a nice backdrop of trees all around. There's something about being in an outside theater. There's sort of a purity to it. There's nothing else besides the audience and stage, not an ornate house, just the trees and sky."

Acting duo

Ariana and Keith Prusak couldn't agree with him more. They love the new stage designed like an Elizabethan courtyard theater. Like Murphy, the husband and wife acting duo perform in both Shakespeare productions. Murphy plays Lysander, one of the lovers romping through the woods in A Midsummer Night's Dream, and Lord Grey in Richard III.

"It's been less of a challenge and more of a joy," said Keith Prusak, a Livonia resident. "I don't want to say it's been easy but our director, John Neville-Andrews in A Midsummer Night's Dream, makes it easy. He's done Shakespeare around America and Europe. I always had an interest in Shakespeare even in high school at St. Agatha's in Redford. I thought Shakespeare had his finger on everybody's pulse. It's written in such a way that it can apply to anybody."

Ariana fell in love with Shakespeare while a student at Lutheran High School in Westland.

"My teacher was so on fire about Shakespeare it sparked us and rubbed off on us," said Ariana, "but the opportunities around here to be in Shakespeare are few and far between. That's why we travel 70 miles one way, happily to Jackson for eight-hour rehearsals six days a week."

Of course, Ariana and Keith would travel just about any distance to keep from playing parts where they kill each other. It seems, no matter what the play, (guess which parts they played in the SRO production of Dracula and Wait until Dark at the Plymouth Theatre Guild) Keith is always trying to get rid of Ariana. Married three years ago, the two first met while doing Arsenic and Old Lace at Eastern Michigan University.

In A Midsummer Night's Dream, she plays Hippolyta. He plays Philostrate. She's betrothed to Theseus, who she eventually marries, but it's Philostrate's job to keep her entertained.

"This time I get to be on the stage and not kill my wife but make her smile," said Keith. "It's a small but fun part. I'm just excited to be a part of it and to be surrounded by all this great excitement. Everyone puts their heart into it."

Heartless

Heartless is the word that describes the Duke of Gloucester, the villainous and murderous man trying to be king in Richard III. Directed by David Blixt, Richard III follows the Duke's bloody trail to attain the throne of England.

"We spent a lot of time on the final fight scene," said Prusak. "It has the look of a battle between all the male cast members, the forces of Richard against the crown's challenger Richmond. I learned so much, the physicality of it and to do it safely but make it look like you're trying to kill each other."

Murphy likes that scene as well. He plays Lord Grey, a good guy who comes back to fight Richard.

"It's fun but one interesting thing I've never done before is working on two shows at the same time," said Murphy, who's studying theater and Renaissance literature at the University of Michigan. He acted in "Much Ado About Nothing" at the Mendelssohn Theater in Ann Arbor in November. "You have to shift gears. "It's a big jump to make from a history play to a light comedy where you're running around the woods. It makes you grow as an actor. And I love live theater. There's an energy in theater that you don't have in related art forms."

pottery. Both Livonia residents are veteran fairgoers.

"The first time I went 20 years ago I bought a ceramic colander," said Chwalek. "I still have the first piece I bought. Going to the Ann Arbor fairs is like going to a museum. I like going back to the same exhibitors and just enjoy looking even if I can't afford their work."

"There's something for everyone and, if you can't find something, you shouldn't be here," added Myers enthusiastically. "We really like pottery. I didn't walk 10 steps and the first two booths I bought something."

By the end of the day, everyone, including myself, went home tired but looking forward to next year's fairs. There was plenty to see from lathe-turned wood vessels to pastel landscapes and beautiful glass bowls by Johanthan Philip Andersson of England.

As in every year, there were some gaudy and tacky things for sale, but the majority of tiles, paintings, sculpture, pottery, photography, jewelry, glass, and fiber were creative, one-of-a-kind artworks.

next recording, Josh White Jr. – Cortelia Clark, to be released in September by Silverwolf Records, recalls the era when his father, dressed in rags and shoeless, led blind singers through the streets as he panhandled for his next meal.

"It's a wonderful story about a young boy going out into the world for the first time with a black street singer," said White Jr. "That's how my father grew up. That was an incredible connection.

"My old man used to tell us five kids make sure you believe what you're singing. When you believe what you're singing it comes to life."

Stella Greene thinks that ability to reach audiences through his music is what makes White Jr. so popular in Plymouth. When the 60-year old singer isn't entertaining audiences at the arts council, he's in the Plymouth-Canton schools telling stories about the past.

Green and the rest of the arts council provide the grants to make it all possible. Earlier this spring, he spoke to 5, fourth grade classes at Miller School.

"It's part of the council's Cultural Diversity programming," said Greene, arts council director of development.

"He has a following – people who know who he is and appreciate his style. We value him and think of him as our jewel. He's performed for all age groups and everybody loved him."

Third day's a charm for Art in the Park

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER
lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

It looks like the decision to extend Art in the Park to three days was a hit with artists as well as the crowd Friday, July 14 in Plymouth. By noon, the official opening time, parking spots were few and far between as streams of people wove their way in and out of the more than 400 booths.

"People started coming at 10 o'clock and haven't stopped since," said Mary Taros, a Bloomfield Hills artist who was displaying her whimsical, full-size papier mache sculptures of people and animals on Main Street.

Over on Ann Arbor Trail and Forrest, the Village Potters Guild booth had customers waiting in line to pay for their tiles, bowls and vessels.

"I think it's great," said Ruth Price, one of the potters. "We've been selling already."

Unfortunately, Friday's hours had to be cut short due to an approaching storm, but that didn't bother print maker Michael McCullough who said he would rather be safely inside when lightning could strike.

He does several outdoor shows during the summer. Look for McCullough at Art on the Lake, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 27 at Northfield Hills, Coolidge and Long Lake Road, Troy, call (248) 641-9070 for more information.

"Moral was up and I did really good," said McCullough, a Farmington artist on Saturday.

Looking back on the three day event after she had a chance to rest and catch her breath, Art in the Park founder Diane Quinn couldn't have been happier about making the decision to extend the fair to three days. It was a great way to celebrate Art in the Park's 20th anniversary.

"I'm hearing lots of positive responses," said Quinn. "The whole weekend was crazy. We had great crowds. And we think the city commissioners will vote to have the fair open again on Friday next year."

Quinn has her fingers crossed. She's already inked in Friday-Sunday, July 13-15, 2001 on her calendar.

'Bodies in Motion and at Rest' enchanting collection of essays

"Bodies In Motion and at Rest"
By Thomas Lynch (W.W. Norton, $23.95)

VICTORIA DIAZ

"People sometimes ask me why I write," says Thomas Lynch in an introduction to these 20 essays. "Because, I tell them, I don't golf."

How lucky we are that Milford's literary mortician ("The Undertaking – Life Studies from the Dismal Trade") is more concerned with poetry and prose than with what's par for the course. Just how lucky is often apparent in this, his second volume of non-fiction.

Begin with the title piece, in which he mulls the question of "why we ... cease to be."

In considering this vast generality, he looks at the particular death of one George Horton, Milford cemetery sexton and longtime acquaintance of the poet himself.

As Lynch and his young assistant bundle up old George's body (he has died peacefully in his own bed) and bear it downstairs to the waiting hearse, no answers are discovered, of course. But, through Lynch's succinct prose, we feel as if can grasp the essence of George and his loving daughter, Nancy. And without being in the least ponderous, Lynch gives us much to ponder.

"Wombs," perhaps the most contentious piece in the collection, discusses Lynch's pro-choice stance on abortion, but adds a twist. If we have legally granted our daughters the right to terminate motherhood through abortion, he argues, shouldn't our sons also be granted the right to terminate paternal responsibility?

"If most of us are, as we are frequently told, pro-choice, oughtn't the courts to uphold this choice as well?" he writes. "Is Choice good for one and all or only one and half of the population?'

Startling essay

In a frank, even startling essay titled "The Way We Are," the writer explores his family's tendencies toward alcoholism.

We learn of one grandfather's early death, and of another who finally made a pact with God to stop drinking if his only son returned safely from the second world war. The son returned and, Lynch tells us, his father never drank anything stronger than Vernor's ginger ale again.

Lynch's own father dealt successfully with his alcoholism through Alcoholics Anonymous, as has Lynch himself. As he writes this essay, however, his son, who began drinking at 14, struggles with the disease. Repeated stints in detox units and treatment centers have yielded few hoped-for results. Now in his 20s, he appears to be "dying by doses."

Still, though, Lynch holds out hope, in facing the truth rather than hiding from it, and in remembering that, although most of Lynch's eight siblings suffer from alcoholism, each one has achieved sobriety.

Varied collection

The collection is nothing if not varied, and runs the gamut from deeply serious to murderously funny.

In this latter category, Lynch reveals his true feelings about his ex-wife's cat, who somehow ends up living (and living, and living) with him after the marriage falls apart. Even after a rather smug Lynch has ordered up a tombstone in eager anticipation of the aging feline's demise, the old cat latches onto life number 9, and hangs in there.

"There is nothing like the sight of a dead human body to assist the living in separating the good days from the bad ones," the writer assures us in "Sweeney Revisited," a wry and sepulchral commentary on how his friend and fellow poet found relief from the pangs of hypochondria. The "cure," we will find, has really nothing to do with medicine, and almost everything to do with Bill Gates.

Other topics

Other topics include Lynch's take on the Garden of Eden; how to deal with writer's block; "The American Way of Death"; fishing (especially in Michigan); funeral home conglomerates (leading to what Lynch calls "the McFuneral"); longer living through chemistry; the writer's Irish cousin, Nora (of whom we would like to read much more); morticians' conventions; book tours; and an end note on the millennium.

For some readers, the appeal of this collection may lie more in how the message is being delivered than the message itself. And, while the words here may not seem to soar with quite the same spirit as those in "The Undertaking," they remain a kind of true enchantment in themselves.

Victoria Diaz is a Livonia resident and writes about books, movies and theater for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

READING PROGRAMS

■ The summer reading program at Barnes & Noble in Northville is now under way. Designed to encourage children to read during summer vacation, kids in grades 1-6 are asked to read any eight books of their choosing and write short summaries on each. At the completion of their reading, children can bring in their summaries and choose a free book from a selection of 100 books in the store. Stop by the Barnes & Noble on Six Mile near Haggerty to pick up a form and find out more. Call (248) 348-0696.

■ Summer reading programs at the Plymouth District and Canton public libraries are under way with both children's and teen offerings. For children pre-K to teen years, the libraries are offering "Score Big With Books," highlighting the fun and excitement of sports. The 2000 Teen Summer Reading Program is "Hula Hoops and Hacky Sacks," a decade-by-decade look at the second half of the 20th century. Register and obtain more information for all programs at the readers' advisory desk on the main floor of the Plymouth library, 223 S. Main, or call 453-0750; in Canton, visit the library at 1200 S. Canton Center Road, or call 397-0999.

■ Gift certificates to Wonderland Mall, Buddy's Pizza, Borders Books, and other area stores will be raffled off weekly as part of the Livonia Public Library's summer reading programs, which continue through Aug. 12. Stop by any of the three branches – Carl Sandburg, Seven Mile near Middlebelt; Alfred Noble, Plymouth at Farmington; and Civic Center off Farmington east of Five Mile – and sign up for youth or young adult programs. Magicians, martial arts demonstrations and other activities are part of the fun. A display of various species of birds is set for July 11 in conjunction with the summer reading program.

LIFE DRAWING

If you're interested in drawing animals, especially the new prairie dog pups at the Detroit Zoo, the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center is offering a two-day workshop for adults and children with Pat Allen Aug. 5 and 12.

Nearly 30 of the energetic critters, weighing 1/2 pound each, were born throughout May and June, and emerged from their burrows six weeks later. At maturity, prairie dogs weigh two to three pounds and stand about a foot tall.

The cost is $50, members, $65 non-members. To register or for more information, call the art center at (248) 644-0866.

STORYTELLING RETREAT

Plymouth storyteller Debra Christian is one of the performers and presenters at the annual Storytellers Retreat Friday-Sunday, Sept. 8-10 in Howell.

The goal of the retreat is to provide an opportunity for storytellers, aspiring tellers, or anyone interested in storytelling and has a love of stories to gather together for a weekend of relaxation and sharing.

All are welcome to attend the workshops, discussion groups, and on-site performances. In addition to Christian, performers and presenters include Detroit blues performer Robert Jones, Judy Sima, Joann Ladd, and Yvonne Healy.

For more information call (734) 451-1128.

FREE PIANO CONCERTS

Give a fine arts flavor to the dog days of August with a series of free piano recitals 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 7 and Wednesday-Friday, Aug. 9-11 at Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile roads, Livonia.

Music director Donald Morelock and his students have just returned from a 3-week piano seminar at the St. Petersburg State Conservatory of Music. They will present a "Return from Russia" concert Monday, Aug. 7. Students include Sanjay Mody, a 13-year-old Birmingham resident who has accepted an invitation to play a concerto next summer in St. Petersburg's Yusupov Palace with the Yaroslav Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra.

On Wednesday, Aug. 9, a faculty recital will feature performances by Morelock and Schoolcraft artist-in-residence Eugene Bossart. Bossart is a nationally known teacher who created the University of Michigan Accompanying and Chamber Music program, and served as its director for 30 years.

On Thursday-Friday, Aug. 10-11, students from the summer piano school will perform with a professional string ensemble. Schoolcraft's piano school is one of the few opportunities in the country for young musicians to play with a professional ensemble.

For information, call (734) 462-4403.

GM funds new African-American Art center at DIA

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER
fprovenzano@oe.homecomm.net

Press conferences at the Detroit Institute of Arts are beginning to resemble weekly briefings.

On Wednesday, DIA Director Graham Beal accepted a $5-million donation to the museum's ongoing capital fund-raising campaign from General Motors. The money is designated to establish a new curatorial and resource center dedicated to African-American art.

"This will differentiate the DIA from other institutions," said Beal. "It's not enough to be a great encyclopedic arts institution. It's also about serving one of our main constituents, African-Americans."

At a press conference two weeks ago, Beal was on hand to accept a $7 million grant from the Kresge Foundation, and to reveal design plans for a 35,000-square-feet expansion. The DIA is approximately one-third of the way to its goal of raising $331 million by 2010.

In recent years, there has been a growing interest among museums to collect African-American art. The DIA – with a collection of 265 pieces, mostly works on paper – is considered among the leading museums in the country exhibiting African-American art.

The General Motors Center for African American Art will focus on scholarship and enhancing the DIA's collection.

Beal compared the new DIA department to the renown Yale Center for British Art in New Haven, Conn., in terms of specialized scholarship and potential for leading exhibits in the field.

The actual number of staff, resources and acquisitions budget for the center won't be determined until a curator is named to head the department.

A national search will probably take 6-12 months, said Beal.

"It's only fitting to have this at the DIA," said George N'Namdi, owner/director of the G. R. N'namdi Gallery in Birmingham, one of longest established galleries dedicated to the exhibition of art created by African-Americans.

Works of well-known African-American artists like Romare Bearden and Jacob Lawrence are included in the DIA collection.

"Now we'll be able to take a broader look at lesser known African-American artists like Al Loving and Ed Clark," said N'Namdi.

The GM donation provides the first evidence of Beal's vision and follow-through. Shortly after he assumed the role of director in October, Beal cited as a top priority the development of the museum's African-American art collection.

Hot, saucy Ann Arbor

SHOPPING TRIP

Imagine 1,000 angry bees rolling around your mouth.

Now light a blow torch to your tongue.

And don't forget to add a pinch of Hades to your lips.

Sound appealing?

For hundreds of Metro Detroiters like me, heaven is a throat-blistering, tongue-stinging bottle of hot sauce or salsa.

We splash the devilish condiments on everything from omelets to tacos, hamburgers to corn chips. We love the taste, the texture and danger of testing substances with such names as "Capital Punishment," "Satan's Revenge," and "Last Rites."

And many of us find our scorching paradise in Ann Arbor at Tios Restaurant's monthly hot sauce tasting.

It's a perfect way to start a Sunday afternoon shopping trip in Wolverine territory.

Tios owners, Tim and Harriet Seaver, open 80 or so bottles of hot sauce, relish, mustard and jelly, add baskets of corn chips and platters of palette-cleansing crackers with crab dip.

Depending on the season, a few dozen to more than 100 loyal hot sauce fans drift into the free four-hour tasting the first Sunday of every month. The eatery — which is open for regular business during the session — fills up fast. Tasters stand or crouch near the tables loaded with bottles, chips and sauce dribbles, as they jot down favorites.

I downed my 202nd hot sauce in June.

Purgatory Pepper Sauce.

The bottle's label assured that the thin, brownish liquid inside would reward any "garlic-a-holic" with a "hellishly hot, heavenly flavor."

I preferred the chili pepper theme socks I chose from a big box of prizes and wrote "slight bite, vinegary taste," in my little red booklet. The Seavers supply each sauce aficionado with a tasting diary that's stored in the restaurant between sessions. My journal dates back three years to my first sampling session.

The written record is a good way to keep track of favorites for future purchase. And it's a must for logging saucy milestones. The Seavers award prizes, starting with a T-shirt, for every 100 sauces tasted. Each successive grouping earns a choice of socks, apron, boxer shorts or hat — all with a chili pepper theme — and a place of honor on the Wall of Flame, the restaurant's shrine to gustatory valor.

Two chili peppers, made of poster board and sporting my name, hang with hundreds of others on the wall.

Ready to earn yours? Here are a few hints:

- Arrive at the start of the tasting and ask for a booklet.
- Buy a milkshake to help extinguish the heat. Water and soda pop tend to spread the burning sensation.
- Save the hottest sauces for the end of your session. Taste those sparingly.

Tios is located at 333 East Huron. (734) 761-6650. The couple opened a second restaurant last week in Ypsilanti.

After the hot sauce tasting, cool off with a walk around town and a stop at these favorite Ann Arbor stores which are open on Sundays:

Urban Outfitters, noon to 6 p.m., 231 South State. Cool clothing, hip accessories and got-to-have-it chairs, glassware, bath products and more.

Falling Water Books and Collectibles, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., 213 South Main. Expand your mind with books on everything from storytelling to Feng Shui, buy a totem or desktop waterfall and try on a power bracelet.

Chess Express, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., 220 South Main. Buy a new game board and pieces, play a few rounds of speed chess or sign up for a tournament.

Sixteen Hands Gallery, noon to 5 p.m., 216 Main. Fiber, glass, ceramic art, jewelry, greeting cards and more.

Market Basket in Franklin gets new look, gourmet food

BY JANET SUGAMELI
STAFF WRITER

The lunch crowd in historic downtown Franklin already knows the changes that have taken place inside one of the city's oldest markets.

People wait in line at the Market Basket for their triple-decker, reuben or roast beef sandwiches and for the prepared food. And soon they'll be able to watch the hand-tossing of pizzas and the spinning of rotisserie chicken.

"Franklin is definitely an upscale town now and this market is changing with the times," said Barry Sherwood, a customer who recalled going to the store as a youth.

In April, the Hakim family took over the Market Basket and changed the look, expanded the food line and added catering service as well as more prepared food and take-out.

"The market was tired, so we put in a new energy to get it rolling again," said Hakim sister Pat McCracken of Farmington Hills.

The culinary family of eight also focuses its attention on catering, which has been the family business for the past 20 years

The new owners have added hand-scooped ice cream, gourmet prepared foods, pastries and sushi. "We stress fresh," McCracken said.

They have also expanded the hours of operation from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

"Since the family has taken over the store, we put a lot of TLC (tender, love and care) into it," Hakim said.

Customer Deloris Weinstein Hall said she enjoys the service and warm, family environment of the newly revamped store.

"If you want something and it's not in the store, they'll order it for you," Weinstein Hall said. "They're here totally to please you."

Weinstein Hall said she even had the new owners prepare Passover dinner.

Among the market's specialty dishes are rotisserie chicken, raspberry chicken breast, kebabs and soups. It also sells such dishes as pasta, egg salad and specialty breads, liquors and wines.

The future also will bring more additions to the food selection. Chef Carl Hakim, formerly of the Market Square in Bloomfield, said he plans to add the "Franklin Grill to Go" into the market's line up. "There is going to be hand tossing of pizzas in the windows along with the rotisserie chicken spinning in the windows," he said.

In January the Hakims plan to remodel the store to make the floor plan more modern and open. The future plan also includes turning the to old stone-walled basement into a wine cellar.

Most of their catered and prepared foods are done at their partner store, Rudy's market, in Clarkston. Hakim plans to add more cooking facilities at the Market Basket after it's remodeled.

And there are a few tables outside the market to encourage a downtown atmosphere. "We're got night life in Franklin now," he added. "Or come in for lunch and eat outside on our cafe tables."

TRAVEL

Southern Indiana towns take you back to yesteryear

BY LIZ JOSS
SPECIAL WRITER

High gas prices and the thought of long car trips are enough to make many people look for getaways closer to home this summer.

Whether you're looking for an action-packed family vacation or a peaceful retreat, you can find it in the side-by-side towns of French Lick and West Baden Springs in southern Indiana.

You can tour the Eighth Wonder of the World, linger over afternoon tea, splash in a pool, ride horses, play golf on a nationally recognized course, indulge in a mud bath or ride the rails through some of the state's most beautiful countryside.

Tourists have flocked to this part of Indiana since the mid-1800s, when the two communities of the Springs Valley attracted people to "take the waters" from the area's natural mineral springs and gamble in fancy, illegal casinos. Eventually, more than 20 hotels flourished in the valley.

The French Lick Springs Resort and West Baden Springs Hotel were the top draws, known for their luxurious appointments, celebrity guests, accommodating staff and fine foods. The Depression brought an abrupt end to the boom. Though the French Lick Springs Resort stayed in operation, daily life in the Springs Valley grew quieter with the closure of many hotels and the conversion of the grand West Baden Springs Hotel into a college.

Today, however, French Lick and West Baden Springs are enjoying a revival that has attracted national media attention.

The most attention-getting development in the Springs Valley in the last few years has been the stunning restoration of the former West Baden Springs Hotel. Its justified claim to fame is an elegant domed atrium, 600 feet in circumference and 100 feet tall, that earned the title "Eighth Wonder of the World" when it opened in 1902.

Inside "The Dome," tour-takers marvel at the restored lobby, dining room, and vast atrium with its classical statuary, potted palms, gilded columns, stenciled and hand-painted walls.

You can tour West Baden Springs year-round including holidays, with tours offered every day of the week April through October. At 8 p.m. on the first Saturday of each month (April through October), "Twilight Tours" give visitors a glimpse of the dramatic look the place takes on at night, with the dome bathed in an artful sequence of changing colored light. A jazz ensemble will entertain tour-takers on occasional weekends this summer and fall.

Live like a hotel baron

The man who owned the West Baden Springs Hotel in its heyday was Charles Ed Ballard, who built his imposing French Lick home in 1915 high on a hill with a view of his beloved hotel. Today, you can enjoy Ballard's balcony view during an overnight stay at his restored home, Beechwood Inn. One of Indiana's most elegant bed & breakfast inns, Beechwood offers six guest rooms furnished in antiques, with modern comforts – telephones, cable TV, private baths – discreetly added.

Beechwood's owners also transformed Ballard's library, dining room, and solarium into an elegant restaurant for overnight guests as well as other visitors to the historic valley. In addition to lunch and dinner, the restaurant offers a seven-course tea (including three dessert courses!) at 2:30 p.m. and high tea in the British tradition at 5:30 p.m. (Call ahead, because reservations are recommended for lunch and dinner, and hours change seasonally.)

Downstairs is the French Lick Winery & Coffee Company, where you can tour the cellars and see how wine is made, partake in free wine tasting and select a souvenir.

When Ed Ballard wanted to escape the hustle and bustle of the thriving resort business, he retreated to his private hunting lodge on the edge of the Springs Valley between Paoli and West Baden Springs. Now known as Wilstem Guest Ranch, Ballard's retreat has been transformed into Indiana's only "dude ranch."

Ballard's 1919 lodge now has 10 guest rooms plus a kitchen, bar, living room and hot tub; and two- and three-bedroom cabins also dot the 1,100-acre grounds. Though the ranch is a working cattle operation, the staff emphasizes relaxation amid the peace and quiet. You can watching the grass grow from a rocker, spot a quail while hiking the grounds, play in the pool or ride horses – your own or one provided by the ranch – on the 36 miles of trails.

Resort living

The view from Beechwood also takes in Ballard's biggest competitor, the French Lick Springs Resort, which has been in continuous operation since 1834. A long, wide verandah lined with dozens of rocking chairs is your first enticement to leave the everyday world behind.

The resort's renowned spa and golf courses have remained a popular draw since early in the 20th Century. Spend an hour or a day being pampered with massages, mineral bath, facials and more, delivered by staff who learned their techniques from parents and grandparents who worked at the resort.

A great way to work up a sweat before hitting the spa is a round of golf on the Valley Links Course or the more demanding Hill Course, designed by the famed Donald Ross and site of the 1924 PGA championship.

Meanwhile, the kids can spend the day splashing in the pool, and the resort also offers bowling, tennis, horseback riding, archery or, in winter, a run down the slopes at nearby Paoli Peaks.

All aboard!

Both the casually curious and serious students of railroad history will enjoy the Indiana Railway Museum in French Lick's 1907 Monon Railroad passenger station. The historic depot houses the museum's collection, including diesel and steam locomotives, a rare railway post office car and a 1951 dining car.

Adults and children, alike, enjoy the ride on the historic French Lick, West Baden & Southern railway, a 20-mile, 1 3/4-hour train excursion through the scenic hills of the Hoosier National Forest, through limestone rock cuts and the 2200-foot Burton Tunnel. On special weekends, train robbers on horseback lend thrilling drama to the trip.

French Lick and West Baden Springs are a two-hour drive south of Indianapolis, three hours southwest of Cincinnati, but its seclusion and unique attractions offer a real escape from everyday life.

FOCUS ON WINE

RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

Discover La Rioja's best reds

Legendary Spain – history, culture, and treasures of the Moors. Land of sparkling white villages dotting hillsides. Olive groves and vineyards creating quilted patterns across the terrain. Bullfights, flamenco, and tapas – all are unique Spanish traditions. Today, some of its fabled red wines have the vibrancy of a new age.

Among Spanish grape varieties, tempranillo is king. Its highest virtue is an ability to age well in oak, holding its color, acidity, and supple tannin structure.

Bodegas Marques de Caceras earns the privilege of being called the first Bordeaux-like modern-era winery in Rioja, due to its founder Enrique Forner, who gained his experience in the Medoc.

"My father left our homeland with his family during the Spanish Civil War," Christine Forner said. "In the 1960s, he purchased two rundown Bordeaux chateaux, Larose-Trintaudon and Camensac. Restoring the reputation of these wines, brought the resources enabling us to return to Spain."

Marques de Caceras was among the first of Rioja's bodegas to move to a chateau system with vineyards surrounding the winery and away from red wines that had aged too long in barrel. To retain fresh fruit character in the wines, Forner shortened barrel-aging from a traditional three years to 18 months. It did not take long for other bodegas to follow today's leading exporter of premium Rioja.

Import Wine Picks

- Pick of the week: 1996 Marques de Caceres Rioja, Vendimia Seleccionada $13 is a great, value-priced Spanish red wine.
- Cellar selection: 1995 Antinori Pian delle Vigne Brunello de Montalcino $60 is still in infancy, but will offer pleasure in five to 10 years if cellared.
- Chianti Classico is superb with grilled meats. Try: 1997 Ricasoli Chianti Classico 1141 $15; 1998 Fonterutoli Chianti Classico $24; and 1996 Ricasoli Rocca Guicciarda Chianti Classico Riserva $20.

Inaugural release

Of all the Caceras wines, it is the recent inaugural release of 1994 Gaudium $80 that propels the winery into the 21st century. Bearing the Bacchus head from Chateau Camensac on the label, the wine was made from Rioja's older-vine tempranillo (75 percent) and cabernet sauvignon (25 percent) with limited yield and superb concentration.

"We've been aiming to create an elegant wine with power and structure for several years," Christine noted. "In 1994, efforts came together with one of Rioja's most remarkable vintages."

Just at the century mark, Bodegas Martinez (sold under the brand name Conde de Valdemar) makes an impact in the Rioja region. The 1995 Finca Valpiedra Reserva $25 is a depthfully colored, world-class wine. A blend of 90 percent tempranillo, five percent cabernet sauvignon and five percent graciano, it has complex layers of flavor intensity and a superbly rich finish.

Since Finca Valpiedra may be hard to find, we also recommend the 1994 Conde de Valdemar Reserva $15 from an outstanding vintage, with its splendid fruit profile, complexity from extended aging, multi-faceted finish, and good quality/price ratio.

Bodegas Breton is bent on showcasing a single, steep, terraced vineyard and Rioja Alta characteristics with its Dominio de Conte. The 1995, $35, a blend of 90 percent tempranillo and 10 percent graciano, spent 30 months in American oak barrels. It is hallmarked by dark plummy fruit and

Summertime Bounty

PLENTIFUL PRODUCE MAKES HEALTHFUL EATING EASY

NATIONAL CATTLEMEN'S BEEF ASSOCIATION/WISH-BONE ITALIAN DRESSING

Summer salad: Beefy Steak House Salad starring beef sirloin steak and Italian dressing makes a complete meal that's special enough for company. It's quick, easy and delicious.

Summer is the perfect time to make your diet more healthful. The season's bountiful produce makes it easy.

Whether you choose to exercise your green thumb in the backyard, or prefer to roam the local farmers' market, the irresistible array and terrific variety of fruits and vegetables make getting the recommended five or more servings a day delicious and fun.

In July, tomato plants are laden with the harvest. Low in calories, tomatoes are rich in dietary fiber, vitamin C, beta-carotene, potassium and iron. They also contain significant amounts of lycopene, a potent antioxidant that, according to the American Institute for Cancer Research, has been linked to lower cancer incidence in a number of scientific studies. Cooking tomatoes enhances the lycopene content by breaking down cell walls and making the phytochemical more available.

There are many ways to enjoy tomatoes – cooked in sauces, juice or soup, or raw in sandwiches and salads. If you're looking for new ways to use all those tantalizing tomatoes, here are some ideas from the American Institute for Cancer Research:

- For a simple and quick side dish, sauté a pint of cherry tomatoes in a tablespoon of olive oil until just soft; remove from heat and toss with two tablespoons of chopped fresh parsley and a pinch of salt.
- For a novel appetizer hollow out the top 1/4-inch of tomato halves, fill with pesto and thin onion slices, and grill in a foil pan. Sprinkle each with a bit of shredded Monterey jack cheese, chopped almonds and snipped fresh parsley.
- Make a colorful salad with diced cucumber, tomato, yellow bell pepper, peeled jicama, bok choy (white part only) and chopped red onion. Add chopped fresh parsley, cilantro or coriander. Toss with a mixture of olive oil, lemon juice, freshly ground pepper and hot pepper sauce to taste (optional).

For light a summer meal, consider Beefy Steak House Salad, a recipe from the National Cattleman's Beef Association. Skewers of grilled top sirloin steak, red bell peppers and bread cubes – all seasoned with a zesty Italian dressing mixture that doubles as both a marinade and a salad dressing – are teamed with romaine lettuce to make a complete meal. In this recipe, adding lemon juice, garlic, Parmesan cheese and Worcestershire sauce to the Italian dressing results in a taste reminiscent of Caesar salad.

If you're looking for something light and easy to make for dinner, that makes use of fresh picked vegetables, you'll enjoy these recipes.

BEEFY STEAK HOUSE SALAD

1-1/2 cups Wish-Bone Italian Dressing
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
5 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, 1-inch thick
1 large red bell pepper, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 small loaf Italian bread (about 10 ounces)
10 cups torn romaine lettuce leaves

KRETSCHMER WHEAT GERM

Great veggies: Flatbread topped with colorful grilled peppers, zucchini, and a sprinkle of freshly shredded Parmesan cheese, is a delightful way to enjoy summer vegetables.

For marinade, blend 1 cup Italian dressing, lemon juice, 2 tablespoons cheese, 4 cloves garlic and Worcestershire sauce; set aside. Cut steak into 1-1/4-inch pieces. In medium, shallow nonalumnium baking dish or plastic bag, pour 1/3 cup marinade over steak and red pepper; turn to coat. Cover, or close bag, and marinate in refrigerator 30 minutes. Refrigerate remaining marinade.

Meanwhile, cut bread lengthwise into quarters, then cut each quarter into 1 1/2-inch pieces. On four 11-inch metal skewers, evenly thread bread cubes; set aside.

For dressing, blend remaining 1/2 cup Italian dressing 2 tablespoons cheese and 1 clove garlic; set aside.

Remove steak and red pepper from marinade, discard marinade. On four metal skewers, alternately thread steak and red pepper. Grill, turning occasionally and brushing frequently with 1/3 cup refrigerated marinade, 8 to 10 minutes or until steak is medium rare to medium doneness.

Meanwhile, generously brush bread with remaining refrigerated marinade. Grill bread kabobs, turning occasionally, 4 minutes or until golden brown and toasted. To serve, toss lettuce with dressing; arrange on serving plates or platter. Top with steak, red pepper and bread. Garnish, if desired, with additional Parmesan cheese.

Makes 4 servings.

Cheer up your family with quick cherry cobbler

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

Tina Plush fixes a quick and easy recipe to what she described as the "perfect ending" to any meal, especially when family members get together.

"It's quick, easy and very, very delicious," she said. "My mother used to make it when I was younger and she got it from my grandmother. I helped her make it when I was a kid.

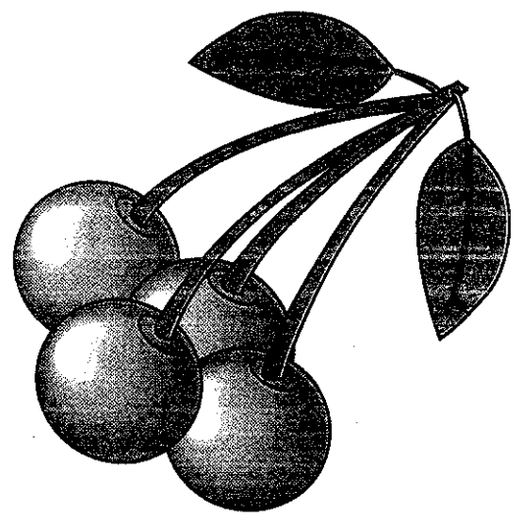
"Everybody brings something (to our family dinners), and that's what I bring."

Plush grew up in Plymouth and now lives in Detroit. Her mother, Frances Plush, still lives in Plymouth. Tina describes herself as an avid reader of the Observer Taste section.

"The thing is about this recipe is how simple it is to make and how good it is," Plush said. "You wouldn't think it takes 10 minutes to put it together."

OLD-TIME CHERRY COBBLER

1 No. 2 can (2 1/2 cups) pitted tart red cherries
1 tablespoon butter
1-1/2 cups biscuit mix (Bisquick)
1 tablespoon sugar
2/3 cup milk



1 tablespoon melted butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup boiling water

Preheat oven to 350° F. In medium saucepan, heat cherries to bubbling, stir in tablespoon butter and melt. Remove from heat and turn into 8-by-8-by-2 inch glass baking pan.

Combine biscuit mix and 1 tablespoon sugar. Add milk and melted butter, beat until well-combined. Spoon over hot cherries.

Mix 1/2 cup sugar, the cornstarch and cinnamon; sprinkle mixture evenly over batter. Pour the boiling water over all. Bake for 30 minutes or until topping is golden brown.

Serve with whipped cream, ice cream or it is delicious just by itself. Makes approximately six servings.

Celebrating 80-year-old tempranillo vineyards in the Rioja Alta is the inaugural release of 1995 Bodegas Breton Reserva $68. Aged 30 months in French and American oak, the wine is a selection of the best barrels that showcase an international style.

■ Bodegas Muga maintains its distinct house style by having oak present throughout the entire red winemaking process.

Distinct house style

Bodegas Muga maintains its distinct house style by having oak present throughout the entire red winemaking process. Two wines are standouts: 1991 Prado Enea Grand Reserva Rioja $35 and 1994 Torre Muga Reserva Rioja $50. Manu Muga explained that Prado Enea means the "house of Mr. Prado" in Basque. The rich, luxurious wine is a blend of 80 percent tempranillo with the balance mazuelo, graciano, and garnacha from over 30-year-old vineyards.

Torre Muga is made only in top years. Manu calls it "an innovative style displaying a European inclination to achieve wines with greater color, body, and tannin, but without ever losing the fundamental house style of Bodegas Muga." It is an impressive highly-perfumed melange of red fruit with powerful flavors and grand structure. Eminently ageable, it develops cigar box characters with airing in the glass.

The next vintage will be 1996, scheduled for release early winter 2001. Put this one on your calendar!

GRILLED VEGETABLE FLATBREAD

Flatbread

1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup Kretschmer original toasted wheat germ
1 package (1/4 oz.) quick-rising active dry yeast (about 2 1/4 teaspoons)
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon Italian seasoning blend
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup very warm water (120°F to 130°F)
1 tablespoon olive oil

Grilled vegetables

2 large red, yellow, orange or green bell peppers, or a combination halved
2 small zucchini or yellow squash, cut lengthwise into 1/2-inch thick slices
2 tablespoons balsamic red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon olive oil
2 tablespoons finely shredded Parmesan cheese

For flatbread, combine 1 1/4 cups flour, wheat germ, yeast, sugar, Italian seasoning blend and salt in large bowl of standing electric mixer. Add water and beat at low speed with electric mixer 30 seconds or until dry ingredients are moistened. Beat in 1 tablespoon olive oil. Continue beating at medium speed 2 minutes, until dough looks smooth and elastic.

Turn dough out onto lightly floured surface. Knead 1 minute. Shape dough into ball; place in greased bowl; turning once. Cover; let rise in warm place 20 minutes or until nearly doubled in size.

Meanwhile, for grilled vegetables, combine vinegar and oil in small bowl; mix well. Place peppers and zucchini on oiled grid. Grill over medium-hot coals 20 to 25 minutes, turn and brushing occasionally with vinegar mixture every 7 to 8 minutes. Remove from grill; cool to room temperature. Slice or coarsely chop.

Spray cookie sheet with cooking spray. Punch dough down. Pat dough onto cookie sheet into 12-by-7-inch rectangle about 1/4-inch thick. Top with grilled vegetables and Parmesan cheese.

Heat oven to 425°F. Cover flatbread loosely with plastic wrap and let rise while oven heats, about 15 minutes. Uncover bread. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Cool slightly on cookie sheet on wire rack. Cut into squares. Serve immediately. Makes 12 servings.

Cook's tip: To roast peppers and zucchini in oven, heat oven to 450°F. Spray jelly roll pan with cooking spray. Place vegetable-vinegar mixture on pan. Bake 45 to 50 minutes or until vegetables are soft and begin to darken, stirring every 15 minutes. Roasted vegetables can also be purchased in the prepared foods/deli area of many supermarkets.

FRESH TOMATO CHUTNEY

1 1/2 tablespoons mustard seeds
1/2 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons finely minced fresh coriander leaves (sometimes labeled "Chinese parsley")
1-3 small green chilies, chopped
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tomatoes, halved
1 small mild onion, such as Bermuda or Vidalia, halved

Place a small, dry skillet over medium heat and add mustard seeds. Toast seeds until they begin to pop. Take care to prevent burning by gently moving pan back and forth to keep seeds in motion. Remove pan from heat.

Place seeds, sugar, coriander, chilies, pepper and lemon juice into a food processor or blender. Mix until ingredients form a paste.

Add tomatoes and onions. Pulse on low speed carefully, until tomatoes are just barley broken down into small pieces. Be careful not to over-process – the tomatoes can quickly turn into puree.

Let stand at least 1 hour at room temperature before serving, although a longer period, up to 8 hours, is preferable for the flavors to blend and mellow. Chutney can be stored covered, in the refrigerator, for up to 3 days.

Note: Although a course brown sugar like palm, turbinado or demerara is recommended, white granulated sugar will give satisfactory results. Look for course brown sugar at health food stores.

Strawberries sweeten parfait

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A parfait may be a perfect ending to your feast. It is easy to prepare and can be served indoors or out – even as a picnic take-along if you have a cooler. Just prepare all ingredients beforehand and assemble when ready to serve.

STRAWBERRIES AND STRIPES PARFAIT

6 cups (2 pounds) whole stemmed strawberries, divided
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 of a frozen butter pound cake (10 3/4 ounces) defrosted
1 package (8 ounces) frozen extra creamy whipped topping, defrosted
1/2 pint fresh blueberries
1/2 cup shredded coconut, toasted
Additional whole strawberries and mint springs for garnish (optional)

In the container of a blender or food processor, combine 2 cups of the strawberries, sugar, water and lemon juice and process until smooth. Remove to a saucepan, bring to a boil and cook 3 to 5 minutes, or until color darkens, stirring constantly. Pour sauce into medium bowl; cool completely.

Meanwhile, cut the pound cake into 1/2-inch cubes. Halve remaining strawberries lengthwise and add to cooled sauce, tossing to coat.

In each of 8 parfait or tall stemmed glasses, layer 2 tablespoons strawberry mixture and 1/3 cup pound cake, 2 tablespoons strawberry mixture and 2 tablespoons whipped topping. Top with 2 tablespoons blueberries, 2 tablespoons whipped topping and 1 tablespoon coconut.

Garnish with whole strawberries and mint, if desired.

Makes 8 servings. Preparation time: 30 minutes.

Toss lots of fresh vegetables into favorite picnic salads

When you pack your basket or cooler, try some nutritious new food combinations as well as healthier versions of old favorites.

Summer's harvest can add color, flavor and a nutrient boost to potato or pasta salad. Into those picnic favorites toss in lots of cherry tomatoes, sliced zucchini, shredded carrots, fresh corn kernels or chopped bell peppers in red, orange and yellow as well as the more ordinary green.

■ Don't forget to take beans to the picnic. Whether they're baked beans, three-bean salad or chickpeas tossed into a green salad, they're a great source of low-fat protein and fiber.

Don't forget fresh fruit, which are good additions to many types of salads. Apples, peaches and cantaloupe are great in chicken and turkey salads, and chunks of papaya or mango work well in green salads that are tossed with a fruit-flavored dressing.

Salads take on new life with fiber-rich brown rice, bulgur, quinoa or couscous in place of pasta. If you use mayonnaise for these salads, reduce the amount called for and prepare a healthier version. Even better, replace the mayo with any combination of non-fat plain yogurt, or either a reduced-fat sour cream or mayonnaise that suits your taste buds.

Don't forget to take beans to the picnic. Whether they're baked beans, three-bean salad or chickpeas tossed into a green salad, they're a great source of low-fat protein and fiber.

If you're packing sandwiches, consider using whole-wheat bread. To give an extraordinary flavor to an ordinary picnic standby, spread bread slices with a delicious, wholesome roasted eggplant spread. You can buy it ready-made or easily make it from scratch.

Roast, then peel, seed and chop an eggplant. Place it in a blender or food processor with minced garlic cloves and fresh Italian parsley leaves, then purée until smooth.

Add olive oil, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce and pulse until well mixed. Season with pepper.

Instead of the usual sliced bread, fill whole-grain pita pockets with roasted slices of eggplant, zucchini, summer squash, red bell pepper and red onion

Use a spread made with plain non-fat yogurt, reduced-fat mayonnaise, fresh basil and lemon juice.

GARDEN POTATO SALAD WITH FRESH HERBS

6 medium russet potatoes (about 3 lbs.), scrubbed and cubed
2 medium carrots, sliced
2 small stalks celery, chopped
1 small onion, chopped
1 cup fat-free mayonnaise
1/4 cup skim milk
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley (see Note)
2 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dried marjoram or oregano
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
2 medium tomatoes, sliced

3-4 leaves fresh basil, slivered (see Note)

In a large kettle over medium-high heat, bring potatoes and enough water to cover to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer until potatoes are almost tender, about 15 minutes. Add carrots and cook 10 minutes more or until tender.

Drain into a colander and let stand until cooled. Transfer to a large serving bowl. Add celery and onion, stir to combine well and set aside.

In blender, mix mayonnaise, milk, 3 tablespoons of parsley, mustard, salt, marjoram and pepper on low speed until blended. Pour mixture over vegetables and gently mix in.

Arrange tomato slices, basil leaves and remaining parsley on top of salad. Serve.

Note: Chop fresh parsley and cut basil into slivers just before use.

Quick sandwiches have munch appeal

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sandwiches are American classics when it comes to fast food. But classics can adapt to suit different occasions and tastes.

Here are a couple of quick-tempo variations on the sandwich theme, equally handy to take on a picnic or to prepare for a quiet lunch at home. Both are made in minutes and are low in fat.

SMOKED TURKEY ROLLUPS

4 green onions, chopped
1/2 cup cucumber, seeded and chopped
1/2 teaspoon dill weed
4 flour tortillas
4 ounces smoked turkey

Combine cream cheese with onions, cucumber and dill weed. Spread each tortilla with 1/4 of the mixture, top with some smoked turkey and roll up.

Makes 4 servings, as an entree. The rolls may also be sliced across to make appetizers.

Nutrition information per entree serving: 216 cal., 11.5 g pro., 23 g carbo., 8 g fat, 1 g fiber, 30 mg chol., 542 mg sodium.

GRILLED PORTABELLA SANDWICHES

2 small (about golf-ball size) balls of fresh mozzarella cheese
4 teaspoons olive oil
4 tablespoons fresh chopped basil leaves or 2 tablespoons dried basil
1 tablespoon fresh-chopped chives
2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
2 portabella mushrooms, sliced into halves horizontally
1 large sweet red pepper, cut vertically in quarters, seeded
4 large sesame seed buns

Combine cheese, oil, basil, chives and vinegar in a blender. Blend until smooth, set aside.

Grill the mushrooms on grill or under broiler for about 3 minutes per side or until tender. Grill unpeeled peppers until tender, about 5 minutes per side; skin will be wrinkled and lightly brown. Slightly toast the buns on the grill and spread the mozzarella mixture evenly on the bottom of each bun. On this place a mushroom slice and a grilled quarter of red pepper, then cover with top of bun. Serve immediately.

Makes 4 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 211 cal., 7 g pro., 29 g carbo., 2 g dietary fiber, 8 g fat, 4 mg chol., 293 mg sodium.

"Bridges," a new support group for adults experiencing a loss through death, will be held the fourth Thursday of the month at Community Hospice & Home Care Services of Westland. Due to community need, the support group will be ongoing so a person may join the group as needed without having to wait for a new series to begin.

"Our experience with grief support groups pointed out the need for a place for grieving persons to have access to a support group as their need arises rather than living through months of grief until a new series starts," said Jan Hendricks, bereavement coordinator.

The group meets from 6:30- 8 p.m. in the CHHCS Plymouth office, 127 South Main Street. For more information, call (734) 522-4244.

Raising sons

Saint Joseph Mercy Health System in Ann Arbor will offer a new program called "Good Boys, Good Men: Raising Sons Today." The program is for parents and grandparents who are concerned about the message their sons and grandsons may be receiving about how to be a man.

The program is designed for those who want their sons to be gentle, yet strong; independent, yet respectful; and able to express emotions rather than anger. The program was created and is led by two social workers will teach parents how to continue building their sons' unique personalities and stay emotionally connected as they grow up.

An introductory session of "Good Boys, Good Men" will be held 7-9 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 1, at Saint Joe's Health Stop in Briarwood Mall, located just off I-94 at the State Street exit in Ann Arbor. The cost is $20 per person. For more information, call Health Stop at (734) 827-3777.

Emergency room

The Pediatric Emergency service at Oakwood Hospital & Medical Center-Dearborn now offers 24-hour, seven-day-a-week coverage. A board-certified physician will be available to assist parents and caregivers no matter what time they bring in a child.

"The pediatric physicians are all board-certified in pediatrics, and some are double-boarded in pediatrics and emergency medicine," said Corinne Victor, administrator for emergency services.

In the few days after July 4, 1999, Dr. Sharon McDowell, a physiatrist with the University of Michigan's Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, saw five patients with diving-related spinal cord injuries.

"People can go out drinking on their boat and dive off not knowing the water is shallow. They wake up in the hospital and can't move their hands and legs."

It is estimated 850 spinal cord injuries occur each year as the result of diving accidents, with nearly 300 happening at home in above- or below-ground pools.

According to the Michigan-based Foundation for Aquatic Injury Prevention, most of the nation's 100 million average recreational swimmers do not know the definition of "shallow" water. Interviews of hundreds of these swimmers by aquatic experts indicate the perception of shallow water is anything from 18 inches to four feet. Very few consider a depth of five feet shallow water.

Treating spinal injuries: Dr. Owen A. Perlman, department head, Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, Saint Joseph Mercy Health System, treats one or two diving-related spinal cord injury victims a year.

Predictably, most diving accidents occur during the summer months of June, July and August when temperatures are warmer and daylight lasts longer. Memorial Day, the Fourth of July and Labor Day, usually claim the most diving-related spinal cord injuries.

These are the "quad days of summer," says Ronald Gilbert, chairman of the FAIP.

In Michigan, lakes claim more spinal cord injuries than pools. People often believe that a sandy bottom means a soft landing, said McDowell. Not true.

"You'll hit it with force. You snap your spinal cord and can't get up again."

However, people in Michigan do have above- or below-ground pools, and these pools pose as much threat as diving off the side of a boat into shallow water. Statistics show that the majority of pool-related spinal cord injuries result in the paralysis of all four limbs.

Comprehensive study

In 1997, the University of Alabama at Birmingham Department of Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation undertook a comprehensive study of pool-related spinal cord injuries in the United States. The study was sponsored by the American Spinal Injury Association and the Orthopaedic Research & Education Foundation as an injury prevention effort.

According to the study, authored by Michael J. DeVivo, Ph.D., since 1973, diving mishaps accounted for 8.5 percent of spinal cord injuries in the United States, making it the fourth leading cause of such injuries. Diving accidents were outranked only by motor vehicle crashes, gunshot wounds and falls.

DeVivo developed statistics from a sample of 341 people enrolled in the National Spinal Cord Injury Statistical Center database whose injuries were identified as resulting from swimming pool mishaps. (Of the original 1,106 diving injuries recorded by the NSCISC, 631, or 57.1 percent, occurred in natural aquatic environments.)

A profile emerged of swimming pool-related spinal cord injuries:

■ The victims were almost always males between the ages of 15 and 25.

■ The neurological level of injury was almost always in the C4-C6 range. (These cervical disks are located above the prominent ridge – C7 – on the back of the neck.)

■ The injury was usually complete, meaning no sensory or motor function below the level of the lesion.

In addition:

■ Most injuries, 64 percent, occurred in below-ground swimming pools, while 36 percent occurred in above-ground pools.

■ Most injuries, 57.2 percent, occurred when diving into less than four feet of water, while an additional 38 percent occurred in water depths between four and eight feet.

■ Depth indicators were not present in 75 percent of the cases, and no warning signs were posted in 87 percent of cases. No lifeguard was on duty in 93.8 percent of the cases.

■ Alcohol use was involved in 48.9 percent of cases, but drugs were involved just 2.2 percent of the time.

■ In 44 percent of the cases, the injury occurred during a person's first visit to the pool, and in 27 percent of the cases, the injuries resulted from the person's first dive.

■ Ordinary dives accounted for 69.7 percent of injuries, followed by "unusual" dives at 16.8 percent, unintentional pushes at 6 percent, and other circumstances at 7 percent. Just 0.5 percent of injuries were caused intentionally.

■ Almost half of all injuries, 46.1 percent, occurred during parties. Fortunately, other people are present 97.4 percent of the time; otherwise, these diving accidents would result most of the time in the victim's death by drowning.

Brain injury

According to DeVivo's study, swimming pool diving accidents – unlike motor vehicle crashes and other causes of spinal cord injury – do not usually result in head injuries, nonvertebral broken bones or traumatic pulmonary injuries.

However, brain injury can occur, said McDowell. A bruise can be transmitted to the brain at the point of contact resulting in a "countercoup" effect wherein the brain continues to move forward, creating a vacuum in the back of the head. The brain then rebounds and hits the back of the skull.

The victim's head can also torque upon impact, causing the brain to twist and shear the fibers that connect the pieces of the brain. Blood fills the space between the brain and the skull, as well as inside the brain.

"The bleedings, as well as the bruising, can give you swelling and cause you to lose consciousness," she said.

Diving accidents can also result in minor or mild brain injuries, said Dr. Owen A. Perlman, department head, Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, Saint Joseph Mercy Health System. Such injuries may result in no specific loss of consciousness, a loss of consciousness that does not exceed 30 minutes, or a post-trauma amnesia that occurs at the onset of injury until the person regains consistent reorientation of their short-term memory, usually within 24 hours.

Minor or mild brain injuries often result in non-obvious effects:

■ Decreased attention span;
■ Processing ability impairment;
■ Irritability;
■ Inability to cope with social situations or relate to or get along with people.

"There is a higher divorce rate after minor brain injury," said Perlman. "People say, 'Why don't you shape up and do what you have to do.'"

Safe depth

Make sure the water is deep enough before entering head-first. The American Red Cross advocates a feet-first entry. A depth of 5 feet is considered safe for diving by most aquatic safety experts; however, small children, ages 4 to 8, are often taught to dive in shallow water less than 5 feet.

This presents a potential problem for Gilbert, who says children, as they grow older and bigger, may continue to believe that diving in shallow water is safe.

The practice of "steering up," a maneuver using the hands and back to avoid hitting the bottom in shallow water, is dangerous, said Gilbert. Interviews with hundreds of quadriplegics from diving accidents indicate the average recreational swimmer is unable to comprehend and execute this tactic.

"I'm totally against steering up," he said.

Sadly, a myth about diving accidents prevails:

"People say it can't happen to me," said Gilbert. "I say go to my Web page and look at the picture of Doug Heir. He was a lifeguard, and he dove into shallow water."

Do's

■ Do know the water depth before you dive.
■ Do plan your dive path.
■ Do be sure there are no submerged obstacles or surface obstacles.
■ Do hold your head up, arms up, and steer up with your hands.
■ Do keep arms extended and head and hands up during the dive.
■ Do practice carefully before you dive in.
■ Do swim and dive with a "buddy."
■ Do test the diving board for its spring before using.
■ Do remember that when you dive down, you must steer up.
■ Do keep your dives simple.

Don'ts

■ Don't dive into an above-ground pool or into the shallow end of a pool. Nine of 10 diving injuries occur in six feet of water or less.
■ Don't dive off the side of a diving board Dive straight ahead.
■ Don't dive from the edge across the narrow part of a pool without having at least 25 feet of clear dive path in front of you.
■ Don't run and dive. That can give you the same impact as a dive from a board.
■ Don't do a back dive.
■ Don't try fancy dives or dives with a straight vertical entry.
■ Don't dive at or through objects such as inner tubes.
■ Don't put diving equipment on a pool that wasn't designed for it.
■ Done dive from retaining walls, ladders, slides or other pool equipment.
■ Don't dive from rooftops, balconies, ledge or fences.
■ Don't dive from racing start blocks without direct supervision and the training o a qualified coach.
■ Don't dive into unfamiliar bodies of water. Remember, three of four diving accidents happen in natural bodies of water like lakes and rivers.
■ Don't swim and dive alone.
■ Don't drink and dive. The slowing effects of alcohol or drugs on reaction time can be extremely dangerous in diving.

Physicians honored for contributions to fight cancer

Dr. Philip J. Stella and Dr. Raymond Y. Demers, were recently honored for their dedication to the fight against cancer at the American Cancer Society "Light the Night Gala" at the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn.

Stella is a board certified medical oncologist and hematologist at the National Cancer Institute-awarded Clinical Community Oncology Program at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, where he is currently the principal investigator.

He is an adjunct assistant professor of medicine at the University of Michigan and research director for the University of Michigan Oncology Network. He has published over a dozen articles, and his research interests include clinical trials for breast, prostate and non-small cell lung cancer.

Demers is currently the director of the Josephine Ford Cancer Center at the Henry Ford Health System in Detroit. He serves on the Steering Committee of the Greater Detroit Area Health Council, Executive Committee of the Michigan Cancer Consortium and Michigan Environmental Science Board.

He has published more than 60 articles in referred medical journals and has obtained more than $5 million in grant funding to support research and educational projects. Currently, he is principal investigator in a study examining the effectiveness of prostate, lung, colon and ovary cancer screenings.

Stella and Demers were selected by ACS board members for their published works, clinical trails and their relationship with the American Cancer Society.

St. Mary Mercy offers 'Safe Haven' for newborns

St. Mary Mercy Hospital of Livonia recently joined the list of Wayne County hospitals designated as a Safe Haven for individuals who abandon their babies.

The Safe Haven for Newborns program gives a mother anonymity and immunity from prosecution if the child is left in the hands of emergency personnel at a hospital or police/fire department. The baby then can receive medical care and placement in a foster home for future adoption.

It is estimated that 57 children are abandoned across the country each day. The number of abandonments in the Wayne County area is on the rise, according to the Michigan League for Human Services. The number of abandoned children in Michigan has increased 48 percent over five years, reaching 1,136 in 1998 (the latest figures available).

The Safe Haven program provides a safety net in the interim. Call is (800) 552-1183.

PC MIKE

MIKE WENDLAND

You can vent your anger over high gas-pump prices on a couple of new Web sites.

GreenCar. org targets the Big Three automakers for their being ignorant of the need for fuel-efficient "green" vehicles. Anyone logging onto the site can send e-mails to Ford, DaimlerChrysler and General Motors and express outrage over American dependence on oil – and the more-acute problem of having to pay so much for a gallon of gasoline.

The group behind the Web site says the average fuel efficiency of 1999 model cars is just 23.8 miles per gallon, the lowest since 1980, reflecting the recent love affair many buyers have for large sport utility vehicles and trucks.

Says the Web site: "In the 21st century, our automobiles are still running on 19th-century technology – technology that pollutes our air, harms our health and threatens our children's future."

Another Web site, gasoline-protest. com, lets you see how bad Michigan is getting stung compared to other states. Also on this site, you can sign an online petition protesting the high costs.

Crackdown overdue

Better late than never. Finally, a coalition of federal and state consumer protection agencies, helped by similar groups in a half dozen other countries, are cracking down on the thousands of Web sites that have been running phony get-rich-quick schemes, work-at-home scams, dubious online shopping mall "investment opportunities" and a whole slew of other multi-level marketing come-ons and rip-offs.

In all, about 1,600 fraud sites have been identified by the coalition so far. About 40 percent of them reportedly shut down or changed their pitches after being warned by the consumer agencies.

The ones that are still running are now being investigated for possible criminal charges. It's a start, I suppose. But I'd guess there are 5,000 other rip-off sites out there in cyberspace that are still trying to trick unsuspecting 'Net users into sending them money to make "fabulous returns" that inevitably turn out to be nothing.

Typical of the phony offers you can find on the 'Net are promises of income of $20,000 a month through vending machine business, $1,000 an hour from Web surfing, and $1 million through variations of pyramid schemes. Most such sites target stay-at-home moms, elderly people, disabled people and students who want to earn money from home.

Maybe the consumer agencies cracking down on fraud sites should have also looked at automotive Web sites.

An independent study by CNW Marketing/ Research says auto-related Web sites often overstate the price of a new cars by thousands of dollars and that some sites allow consumers to configure cars and options that automakers are unable to deliver.

The national study measured what eight Web sites claimed were the manufacturer's suggested retail prices and dealer invoice prices for 86 models against actual manufacturer's data. "Considering that nearly 40 percent of new car buyers use the Internet as part of their shopping process, such misinformation is horribly misleading," the study said.

Internet drug bust

There's a major crackdown under way against overseas pharmacies that are illegally using the Internet to sell powerful drugs – mostly tranquilizers, steroids and the sex potency drug Viagra – without a doctor's prescription.

Nearly two dozen people have been arrested in Thailand, another six in the U.S. The charges involve illegal exportation of drugs and marks the first time U.S. customs agents have succeeded in busting overseas drug peddlers.

These arrests are only a start. Dozens of other online pharmacies are still in business, as are lots of U.S.-based sites that use a doctor to read an online consultation form e-mailed by would-be "patients." Based on the e-mailed form, and, of course, a valid credit card, the doctor then writes a prescription which is then sent by snail mail to the "patient."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration is trying to put a halt this practice ... but so far without much luck. Michigan attorney general Jennifer Granholm is among many state law enforcement officials also trying to halt the sale of dangerous drugs online.

Free PC not a deal

Before you jump on the free PC bandwagon, be aware there have been a lot of complaints about some companies that bill your credit card and then don't deliver PCs for weeks or months. And if things go wrong with these freebie PCs, customer support is usually impossible to find. But what should we expect? Free service with free PCs?

Right now, I wouldn't recommend any of these so-called these freebie systems if it is to be your only computer. Most have only limited expansion capabilities. But as a second system, hey ... free is good. Just don't expect too much. I've been throwing cold water on these deals for more than a year now, and everything I hear from consumers here in southeastern Michigan has convinced me that I'm right in urging you to ignore the temptation.

Same goes with the free DSL service being offered around Detroit these days. The catch with this is you have to give your name to scads of advertisers who will bombard you with come-ons and sales pitches. Remember, as my Daddy used to say, you get what you pay for.

Mike Wendland covers the Internet for NBC-TV Newschannel stations across the country. He is the author of a series of Internet books. You can reach him through his Web site at www. pcmike. com and hear him Monday through Friday at 6:26 p.m. on NewsRadio 950, WWJ, and 4-6 p.m. n Saturdays and Sundays on TalkRadio 1270, WXYT.

Plymouth Financial Corp. initiates stock offering

The Western Wayne County area is one step closer to gaining a community-owned bank – something missing from the local banking landscape for nearly 50 years.

That's because Plymouth Financial Corporation (PFC) has received preliminary approval from the state of Michigan's Financial and Insurance Services division to proceed with a stock offering for New Liberty Bank of Plymouth.

PFC, also of Plymouth, is the parent company for New Liberty Bank. It is currently offering approximately 800,000 shares of common stock exclusively to Michigan residents, with the bulk of sales being targeted to residents of the Plymouth/Canton/Northville area. The new bank is expected to begin operation this fall.

The hallmark of New Liberty Bank will be its one-on-one personal service approach to full-service, retail banking.

"In an area of mass banking mergers, bigger was thought to be better," said Michael D. Weaver, chairman of Plymouth Financial Corporation and president and CEO of New Liberty Bank.

"New Liberty Bank is in a unique position to fill that niche. Our bank will be community owned, so that customers can be assured that banking decisions have their best interests and neighborhood issues in mind."

As part of its charter agreement, New Liberty Bank will acquire the downtown Plymouth branch of Peoples State Bank, which has current deposits of approximately $15 million. All of the local PSB management and staff are expected to be part of New Liberty Bank.

Weaver explained that NLB's board of directors represent Plymouth-area community leaders and residents. "Each one has a history with and commitment to Plymouth. They understand the needs of businesses, the needs of residents."

Weaver brings with him more than 21 years of banking expertise, including 17 years exclusively serving the Plymouth market.

For more information, contact Michael Weaver or William Graham at (734) 354-0516.

I think I can... I think I can...
I know I can learn without medication.

At Excel Institute, we believe learning difficulties can be treated and overcome. We throw out labels like ADD, Hyperactive and Dyslexic, and replace Ritalin® and other medications with unique methods for learning improvement. The results are dramatic. KNEE PAIN AND SWELLING THAT ISN'T ARTHRITIS

Some day you may experience knee pain and swelling but x-rays show nothing wrong. In such instances, the last recommendation your doctor will make is to give you a prescription for pain and assure you that everything is all right.

Actually, the opposite is true. Knee pains that are not explained as arthritis often have causes that are difficult to identify and hard to treat. The common culprits of such a problem are internal derangement of the knee and aseptic necrosis.

Internal derangement of the knee refers to a fray in the meniscal cartilage or a tear in the ligaments within and around the knee. You may have suffered an injury years ago but the effect of the damage may take time, even years, to make itself known.

Aseptic necrosis is a condition in which a small blood vessel to bone near the joint, becomes clogged or closes off. The result of death of that bone, and loss of support for the knee joint. Often the reason why this occlusion of the artery occurs is unclear, though oral cortisone, heavy drinking and recent injury are known as predisposing causes.

The pain and swelling from either aseptic necrosis or internal derangement can come suddenly, and from your view, seemingly with a cause. Standard x-rays may not reveal the diagnosis, instead you need imagining by MRI to definitively confirm or deny the presence of either of these conditions.

In both, neither rest, joint aspiration, or physical therapy will suffice, resolution requires knee surgery.

When is Shy Too Shy?

Answer the following questions based on the last 2 weeks or more.

YES	NO
❑	❑	1. I feel embarrassed or nervous when beginning conversations
❑	❑	2. I don't enjoy social events or being part of a group
❑	❑	3. I get anxious when giving a report or talking to a supervisor
❑	❑	4. I blush, perspire, my heart races in certain social settings
❑	❑	5. It feels like "severe shyness"
❑	❑	6. I feel nervous when I'm the center of attention

If you answered "yes" to 3 or more statements, you may be suffering from social anxiety, a serious condition affecting 20 million Americans. The Institute For Health Studies is currently looking for individuals experiencing the above symptoms to participate in a research study of investigational medication for social anxiety. If you are selected, all research related care and study medication are provided at no cost. Get answers and information about social anxiety.

Living with remodeling project

JOHN F. MALONEY

To keep from being overwhelmed by the noise, dust, and debris of a remodeling project, you have to plan ahead in two areas.

One is handling the construction project; the other is your altered family life.

Remove dust-sensitive items, everything from CD players to antiques. Set up a temporary kitchen elsewhere, possibly in the laundry area. Stop dust: seal off doorways, vents and stairways. Put in temporary floor coverings and doormats to protect the remaining floors and carpets. Be prepared to turn off your heat or A/C during any sanding. If you can, set aside a safe haven for yourself away from the commotion.

At a pre-construction meeting, set such parameters as where workers will park, their start and stop times, their use (or not) of your telephone or bathroom, and any presence of smoking or radios on the job. What areas of your home will be off limits to workers? How will security be handled? How will you assure that your children and pets stay out of the work areas and away from debris? Where will the trash container or, better yet, a trash trailer be kept? Will the access to your garage be blocked? How much clean-up will you pay for: pick-up, sweep-up or vacuum. Will your utilities be interrupted? How far ahead will you be warned?

Communication between you and your contractor is important. Who will be the contact people for daily decisions or emergencies? Who are the back-ups? Make a place in the house for a securely anchored notebook or clipboard where the contacts can leave messages for one another.

With such forethought, remodeling can be an adventure with a reward you'll love for years to come.

John F. Maloney has been a remodeler for 18 years, is owner of Boa Construction in Beverly Hills and is vice chairman for the Remodelers Council of the Building Industry Association.

Rolling, treed land will be home to sub

Buyer's choice: This four-bedroom colonial by Lenwal with three full baths and either one or two half-baths is just one of many options available to buyers at Heron Ridge.

The land, itself, is beautiful.

And with 2-1/2 dozen different floor plans offered by the three builders at Heron Ridge South in Canton combined, there are more than enough choices to satisfy almost any want or need.

Lenwal Building, A&H Builders and Lewiston-Crescentini Homes each will build 30 detached-site condominiums off Warren just west of Ridge in the initial phase of the development.

"It's a magnificent piece of land," said Jeffrey Brown, the developer. "It has a tremendous amount of roll to it, 11,000 trees on site. Tree removal is very selective.

"We've added to the natural landscape with day lilies, dogwood," he added. "There's five detention ponds with boulder walls. Lots for the Canton market are larger, a half-acre and up.

"It's in a very picturesque part of the township, a very quiet part of the township. The goal was to develop the site with as little impact as possible," Brown said.

"It's very tucked away," said Alvin Rubin, partner with A&H Building. "Lots are secluded. From inside, you can't see any major streets."

"It's well-located at the end of the township, not heavily trafficked," said Jason Lewiston. "You can get to commercial areas quickly and retreat to a very picturesque, almost Up-North feel."

Heron Ridge is close to but not on top of the M-14/ I-275 interchange.

"Briarwood is 20 minutes away, Twelve Oaks 25 minutes, 15 minutes to Metro Airport," said Stuart Cykiert, partner at Lenwal.

"Laurel Park is within 15 minutes, Ann Arbor is 20-25 minutes away, downtown Detroit is 35 minutes away," said Rubin, adding that the quaint downtowns of Plymouth and Northville are also close.

Heron Ridge is within the Plymouth-Canton school boundaries – "good MEAP scores," Cykiert added.

Lenwal offers 10 floor plans ranging in price from $360,900 for a ranch of 2,450 square feet with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $464,900 for a colonial of 3,900 square feet with four bedrooms and 3-1/2 baths.

A&H Builders presents eight plans ranging from $369,000 for a 2,442-square-foot ranch with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $439,000 for a colonial of 3,832 square feet with four beds and 3-1/2 baths.

Lewiston-Crescentini provides 12 plans ranging from $360,000 for a ranch of 2,300 square feet with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $475,000 for a 4,000-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

All three builders include as standard features in all their plans three-car garage, fireplace, first-floor laundry and basement. Also, separate tub and shower in the master, cooktop, oven, microwave and dishwasher in the kitchen, wood flooring in the foyer, hallway and half bath and carpeting throughout.

Brick and wood siding and architectural shingles are the primary exterior materials.

Lenwal includes granite counters in the kitchen and powder room at base price, A&H an extended 10-year warranty on waterproofing in the basement, Lewiston-Crescentini a double oven.

Lenwal and A&H extend wood flooring into the kitchen/ nook as a standard feature.

Lenwal has constructed two models.

The Wellington II, a colonial, features a dining room, living room, library, family room with cathedral ceiling, kitchen/ nook/ sitting room with pass-through wall and two half baths on the main floor.

The master has two walk-in closets and a two-sink vanity. A second bath upstairs has its own shower. Two other bedrooms and a full bath are up.

Base price is $429,900.

The Kirkwood, a story-and-a-half, features a computer closet within a study, dining room, living room with sloped ceiling, family room with cathedral ceiling and master with pan ceiling, compartmentalized commode, two walk-in closets and dual-sink vanity.

Base price is $433,900.

A&H also has erected two models, both colonials.

The Crestview contains a dining room, den, living room, family room with volume ceiling, kitchen/ nook with pass-through wall and an optional sunroom ($10,000).

The master features an extended sitting area, two separate vanities, a walk-in closet and compartmentalized commode.

Base price is $439,000.

The Windsor, a more open plan, has a den, living room, dining room, kitchen/ nook and family room down, a master with dressing area, guest suite with full bath and two other bedrooms up that share a bath.

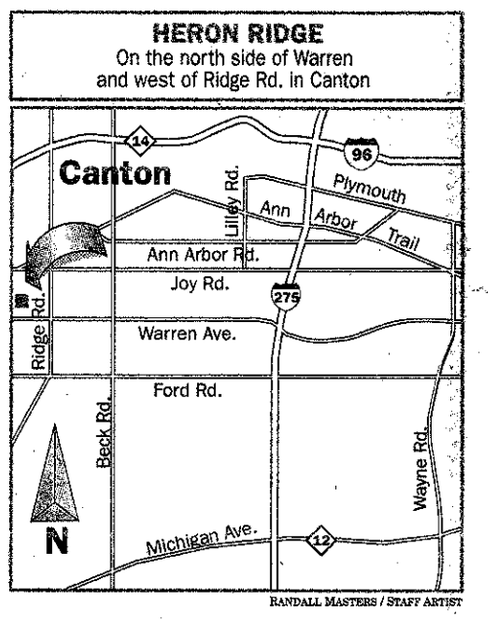
Base price is $409,000.

Lewiston-Crescentini has a colonial model under construction.

Heron Ridge is served by city water and sewers. There are no sidewalks. Most lots carry price premiums.

The property tax rate is $31.57 per $1,000 of state taxable value, half of sales price. That means the owners of a $425,000 home there would pay about $6,700 the first year.

The annual association/ maintenance fee is $425.



RANDALL MASTERS / STAFF ARTIST

The sales models for Lenwal, (734) 340-2103, and A&H Builders, (734) 340-2099, are open 1-6 p.m. daily, closed Thursdays.

Lewiston-Crescentini, (734) 354-8900, is selling out of Royal Pointe West while its model at Heron Ridge is under construction. Same days and hours.

OPEN HOUSES OF THE WEEK

The Heritage Meadows Grand Opening Weekend

Heritage Meadows is Triangle Development's newest subdivision in Hartland Township. This beautiful neighborhood is surrounded by abundant woods and open spaces that offer tranquility and relaxation away from the hustle and bustle of the busy city.

In this neighborhood, we offer six different floor plans to choose from: one three bedroom ranch, two plans with a first floor master suite and three colonials. These homes vary in price from $179,900 to $228,900 and range in size from 1,500 square feet to 2,400 square feet.

To see how wonderful these homes really are, join us on July 29 and July 30 for the Grand Opening Weekend of Heritage Meadows. The event will be held in our model from 12:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. on both days.

Heritage Meadows is located on Clark Road and M-59, just 1/4 mile east of US-23.

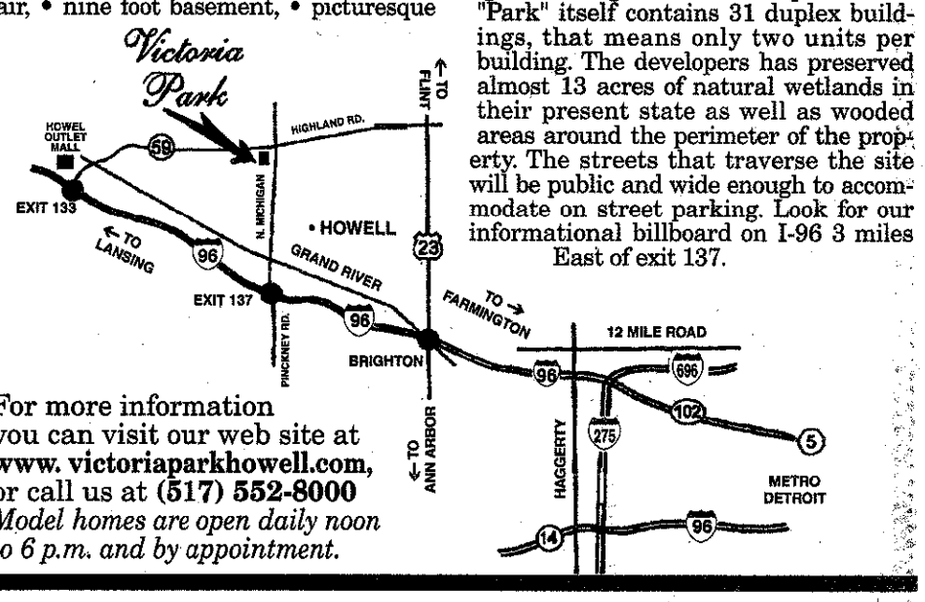
Victoria Park

If the convenience of a condominium is in your future, with value, craftsmanship and location a high priority, consider Victoria Park Condominiums at M-59 and Michigan Avenue in Howell. Victoria Park Development, Inc. is offering these outstanding duplex units with standard features that include • low monthly condo association fees afforded because of extensive city services, • city streets, • street lights and sidewalks, • concrete driveways, • large 1700 sq. ft. units to accommodate kitchen eating area, • generous master suites, • central air, • nine foot basement, • picturesque walk out units, • and no look alike buildings; each offers custom colors and stone work. One and two story units are available with up to three bedrooms and two and a half baths.



Victoria Park is just a mile from historic downtown Howell and a multitude of good restaurants and specialty shops. Michigan Avenue is tree lined with sidewalks and Victorian street lights turning into the development. The "Park" itself contains 31 duplex buildings, that means only two units per building. The developers has preserved almost 13 acres of natural wetlands in their present state as well as wooded areas around the perimeter of the property. The streets that traverse the site will be public and wide enough to accommodate on street parking. Look for our informational billboard on I-96 3 miles East of exit 137.

For more information you can visit our web site at www. victoriaparkhowell.com, or call us at (517) 552-8000
Model homes are open daily noon to 6 p.m. and by appointment.

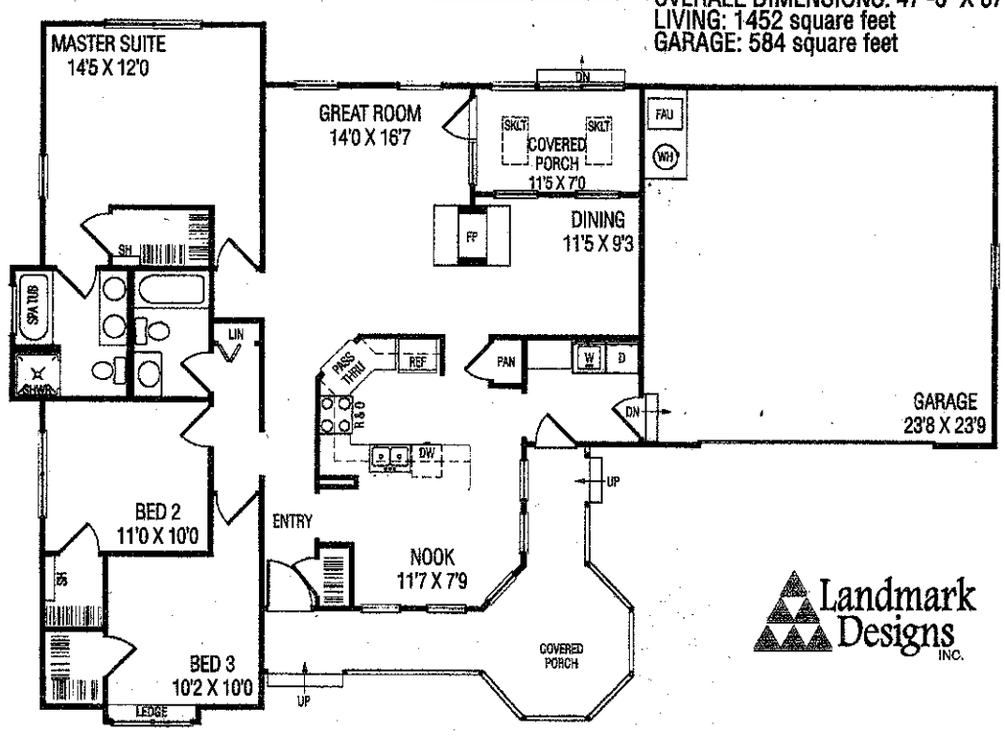
COPYRIGHT GARLINGHOUSE CO.
STERLING (G24-718)
OVERALL DIMENSIONS: 47'-0" X 67'-0"
LIVING: 1452 square feet
GARAGE: 584 square feet



The gazebo-styled front porch adds a special accent to the Sterling (G24-718). Curved windows in the garage, along with the ornate dormer trim and the trim along the roof line, have excellent eye appeal from the street.

A covered back porch with two skylights and stairs going down into the backyard adds more room and comfort outside.

There are two entries found off the front porch – one leading to the kitchen area (which is the formal entry) or to the washroom area located by the garage.

This helps with diminishing traffic for the expanded family and gives you more options to negate unnecessary runaround.

Located inside the entry bay is a closet large enough to keep all of the outdoor wear needed for your family.

To the left you'll find a fairly large nook with plenty of windows, which is practical for extra light on the inside.

■ The kitchen area is large and open, located next to the nook.

The kitchen area is large and open, located next to the nook. You can reach the kitchen area from the washroom, the great room or front entry way.

There is also a pass-thru provided in this kitchen located near the great room. This makes the kitchen accessible from more than one room and is very convenient for the medium- to large-sized family.

A fireplace is between the great room and the dining room. This fireplace is neatly tucked out of the way but not so that you cannot enjoy the firelight in both the dining and great rooms.

On the left side of the home you'll find the master suite with a large walk-in closet, a bathroom with a spa tub and dual sinks.

Bedrooms 2 and 3 both have large walk-in closets and a bathroom with a linen closet outside its door for more convenience to the average family.

There is a ledge seat found in Bedroom 3. This ledge isn't large enough to sit on but perfect for some favored collectibles, or may be used as a poet's book ledge.

This spacious home with 1,452 square feet, and 584 square feet for the garage, offers its owners many amenities and options.

For a study kit of the Sterling (G24-718), send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road East, Cottage Grove, OR. 97424 (specify plan name and number of kit).

For a collection of plan books, send $20, or save by ordering the kit and collection together for $34.95. For faster processing, call (800) 562-1151, or visit us on the web at www. landmarkdesigns .com

Glidden offers Web site

As many as half of Americans are now using the Internet as a resource for project planning and decorating ideas.

In response, The Glidden Co. has launched an interactive Web site, www.gliddenpaint.com

This site is an extension of Glidden's mood-based color system and language, providing home improvement information as well as tool and color suggestions to complete a project.

"Glidden's site focuses on practicality for do-it-yourself consumers," said Jeff Krejsa, Glidden's marketing manager.

"Gliddenpaint.com offers much more than product information. It helps consumers organize their project from start to finish and locate a store nearest them to purchase all necessary materials," Krejsa said.

When undertaking a big project, it's often difficult to know where to start.

And, finding ideas, inspiration and help can be frustrating. Glidden's Web site is divided into two sections - Beautify and Protect - to turn home decorating and improvement interest into action.

For more information about Glidden , call (800) GLIDDEN.

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"CHANGING FROM A LOOKER TO A BUYER"

Do you consider yourself to be actively in search of a home to purchase, or are you just looking? Most buyers were once people who thought of themselves as casual shoppers until the right house came along. This process of change can happen over night or after a long and careful study of the real estate market. Here are some of the situations that prompt people to convert to motivated buyers:

EXISTING HOME NO LONGER TOLERABLE

Some buyers don't want to move but they feel that their present housing is not suitable. Perhaps the kids have moved out or the family has become too large for the room available. Maybe the location is not as convenient for present needs as it was before. Sometimes a move will occur because the existing house lacks an extra bathroom or bedroom that has become very necessary.

A CERTAIN HOUSE BECOMES AVAILABLE

It is not unusual for someone to buy another home only a few blocks from their present property. Many present homeowners have their eye on a home they would love to own that they already have seen. Perhaps a friend's residence goes on the market in another area. There are, in fact, people who will move only if certain properties become available.

EMOTIONAL IMPULSE

I am a big believer in buying with your heart. Maybe the house has everything that suits a buyer's need. The question remains, however, do you like the place? Would you want to live there? Although a home purchase is a large ticket item, people do buy them on impulse. There are many examples of someone out for a Sunday drive who happens to notice an open house. Even though they had no intention of buying a home that day, they are committed to purchase Sunday evening.

ADVICE: Is it the time for you to become a homebuyer? You may not know how to answer this question because you don't have all the information you need. The best source of current data is your local Realtor®. He or she knows availability, values and financing. Ask him or her to look at your situation.

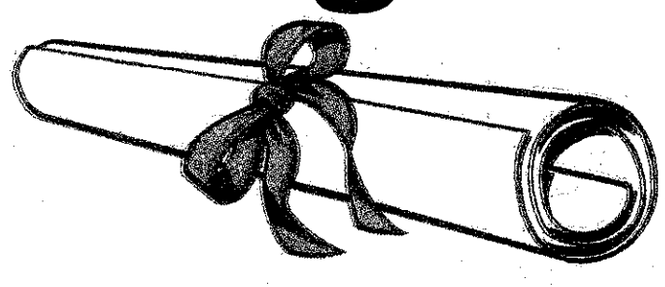
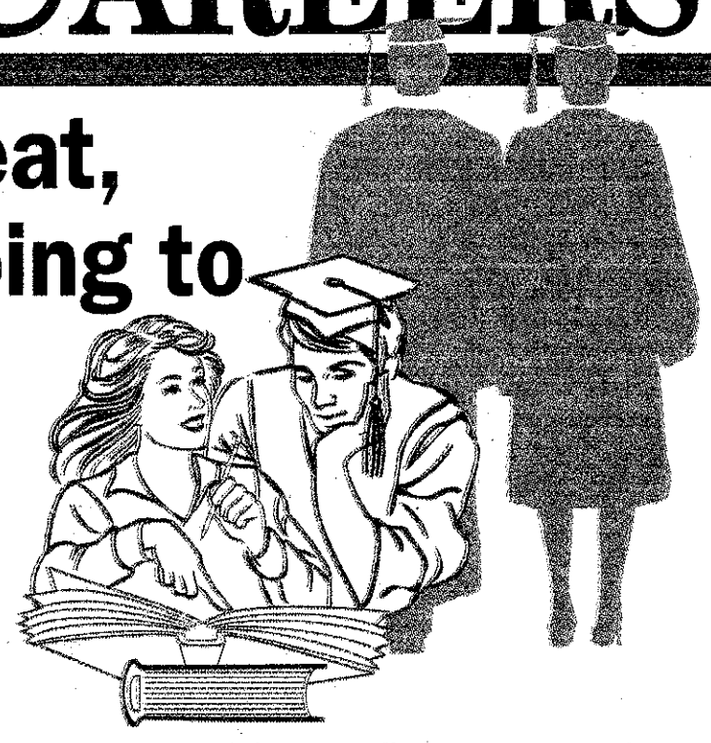
Job training's great, but my child's going to college





BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
SPECIAL WRITER

Some parents have dreams of their babies graduating Harvard Medical School. But the reality is that not everyone will.

So before high school graduation, some students should be steered toward high-tech and health-related jobs that are going unfilled, some folks maintain.

Parents of Michigan seventh through 12th graders who were recently surveyed believe job training programs are beneficial, but they expect their children to have higher goals.

Learning how college-age students choose careers is the goal of the Partnership for Career Decision-Making in Technologies and Health Sciences, launched in January by Ferris State University in cooperation with government leaders; as well as people in higher education, health science, technology and industry fields throughout Michigan.

"We're particularly interested in why health science and high-tech industries have so many open positions," explained Jim Thorp, communications specialist and Ferris State partnership coordinator.

Unrealistic career goals must be addressed before students become seniors, explained study volunteer Anne Rosewarne, president of the Michigan Health Council, a non-profit organization dedicated to health career work issues.

"I have seniors who who say they want to be trauma surgeons and they have 'C' averages, poor attendance and little science and math," Rosewarne said. "We don't want to discourage young people, but there is some place where realistic skill assessments have got to come into play. They're not going to jobs where there are good opportunities, longevity and good pay."

She also supports the idea of industry working closely with students.

"We're sending a large body of our students off to college with no idea of what they want to do for some wasted years," she said.

In the health field, Thorp said, the types of jobs that most often go unfilled are nursing, radiology, physicians' assistants and lab technicians. Employers are also looking for people in robotics, welding, lasers and computer intensive kinds of jobs.

Most of the randomly chosen 450 parents who were surveyed said two to three years of post-high school education is enough for career success. Seventy-seven percent said it was important children be willing to consider a two- or three-year job training program. More than half also said they didn't believe there was embarrassment associated with job-training programs when compared to four-year college degrees.

But, the story changed when these parents applied this logic to their children. In fact, 91 percent said their children needed to have a degree from a four-year college or university to begin a career, with 74 percent saying that while job training programs were important for children who need them, their children have the potential to achieve more.

Another important point that was learned from the survey was that parents play an important role in the decision-making process. About half saw

Reality Check: More Michigan students plan to attend college than actually do following high school

Teachers bring many skills to the table

Dear Mr. Hayes:
I have been an elementary school teacher for many years and am interested in changing careers. When looking at job advertisements, I find it difficult to assess what transferable skills I have and how to write a resume. Any suggestions?
Carol D.

JOB SEARCH

GEORGE HAYES

Dear Carol:
Teaching elementary school entails a number of skills that could be of interest to private sector employers, including: training, supervision, administration, event organization, public speaking, sales, project management and many others. It certainly requires creative problem solving, an ability to respond quickly and accurately to situations of varying types and skill in adjusting speech patterns to effectively convey concepts.

Years ago, I worked with a lady who had taken a sabbatical from conventional work to raise kids for a few years. When she came back, her resumé was packed with the new skills she had acquired: purchasing, inventory control, scheduling, budgeting and conciliation. She landed a job in the materials management field.

This is do-able, but the best avenue for you will be networking rather than the "visible" job market (ads and agencies). Employers are likely to pitch resumes that come in through conventional channels if they do not meet a narrow set of job specifications. But themselves as the single strongest influence.

This was the most surprising result of the study to Rosewarne, who stressed the importance of developing kid-friendly Internet programs that would give families more information about the job market.

"There are an incredible number of job training and associate degree jobs that are secure and they pay more than the liberal arts jobs," Rosewarne said.

While parents play an important role, it all centers around the students.

Another part of the study surveyed 17- and 18-year-olds. Sixty-seven percent said they planned to attend a four-year college.

Most said they believed there were good high-tech jobs available to people with less than four-years of post-high school education. A whopping 79 percent said they wanted to be educated in a variety of careers and that job training would be confining.

"Students are looking for flexibility with a four-year degree that they don't think they can achieve with less," Thorp said.

Some 93 percent said they planned to pursue post secondary education and 67 percent indicated they would attend a four-year college or university.

"Everywhere you go you're being influenced to look into college," Thorp said. "When you flip through magazines there are ads for loans for college. No one ever says: 'Do you need money for job training or technical training?'

Not that college is a bad thing, of course, but there's a definite mindset that's pervasive."

A final survey, due later this summer, will get input from middle school teachers, counselors, coaches and paraprofessionals.

All three surveys will be assessed and concrete ideas about changing perceptions about job training and technical fields are expected by August.

networking contacts tend to be more imaginative about where you might fit, either within their own organizations or in someone else's.

You might also consider some form of vocational testing to help identify areas of real interest and thereby develop a target field or industry.

One of the problems facing bright people is that they can be successful at almost anything. This is a "problem" in that the subject of passion or interest is frequently subordinated to ability. It's why the kid voted most likely to succeed can end up miserable.

Dear George:
Why doesn't everyone else realize the incredible skills used in teaching young children? I am not sure I understand your comment about the "problem" that bright people have. Please explain. In my case, you are correct about myriad interests and the high level of success at most-things I try. I don't want to be miserable! Where do I get vocational testing?
Carol D.

Dear Carol:
Here's the problem often experienced by smart folks:

1. I can be successful at virtually anything I choose (because I'm real smart). If I don't already have the skills required to do a job, I can certainly acquire them quickly. Therefore, I can pick almost anything on the career menu.

2. Lots of things are of interest to me (smart people usually have a broad range of interests). I could get a lot of pleasure out of several different, but totally unrelated careers. Of course, I am operating on impressions and don't have a lot of first hand knowledge about what many jobs entail on a daily basis.

3. Dang! If I decide to become an accountant, I will forego becoming a veterinarian. And if I decide to become a veterinarian, I will never know how cool being an architect might have been. What the heck am I supposed to do?

Many college placement offices provide vocational testing. Sometimes, you don't even have to be an alumna. No test will tell you exactly what you should be doing and every test should be taken with a grain of salt. But tests can be helpful in pointing out some general directions and possible areas to explore. There are many good ones, but the Strong Interest Inventory, Jackson Vocational Interest Survey and Kuder Preference Record come to mind.

At Randstad, our job is simple – we put people to work. And it's been that way for over 40 years. We're a worldwide leader in placing talented individuals in the right jobs.

Now, Randstad needs sales and management professionals to support our rapid growth and expansion in the U.S. We're looking for team players in virtually every field, including Office Talent, Industrial Talent, Technical Services, Creative Talent, Professional Resources, Outsourcing and Training.

With more than 500 locations in 38 states in the U.S., the greatest opportunities to be a part of this team are just around the corner. Sales and Management positions in your area include:

Business Development Manager
- Create and implement effective business strategies
- Market Randstad's talented people and analyze clients' needs
- Facilitate account qualification and lead generation
- Perform outside consultative sales

Agents
- Play a critical role as liaison between our employees and clients
- Qualify, interview and assess potential candidates
- Successfully match employees' career goals with client needs
- Perform inside consultative business development

The ideal candidate would possess a Graduate degree or equivalent life experience, and ten years of business experience.

If you have a desire to be part of a growing, successful team, we want to talk with you. We guarantee you won't find a better place to work – or a better way to put people to work.

As an international employment services leader, we offer an outstanding salary and benefits package. EOE.

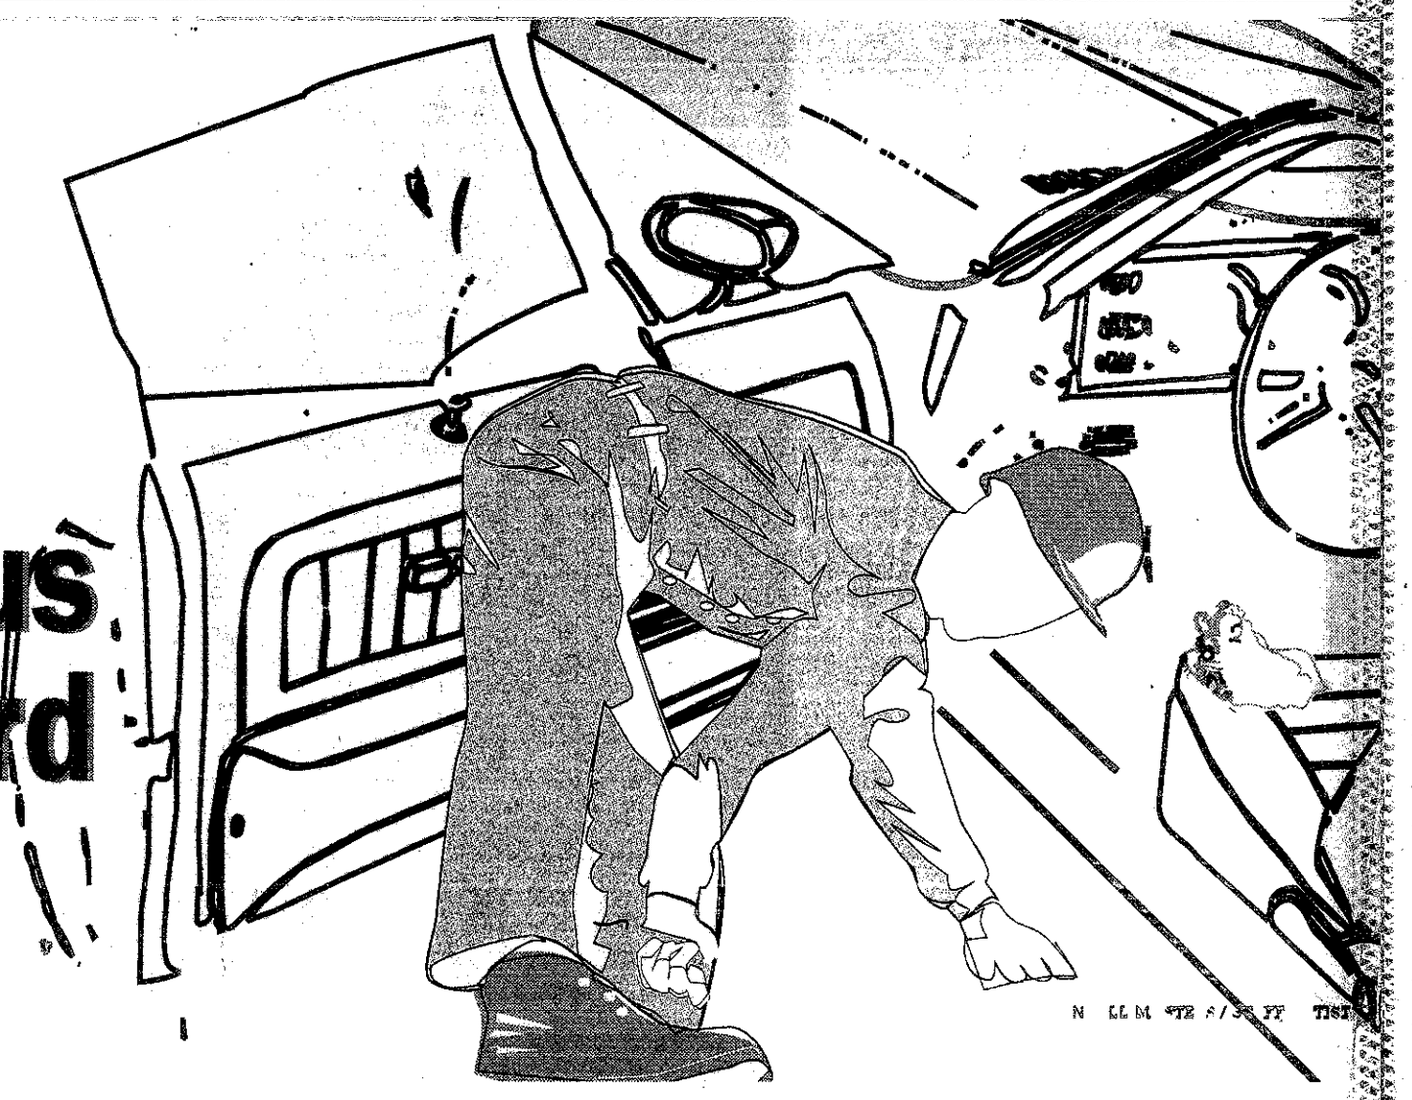
Hamster saved from disastrous dashboard death



BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE
STAFF WRITER

'Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house, not a creature was stirring, not even a . . . hamster. That's because the hamster was running around behind the dashboard of Dana Fortinberry's minivan.

Let's back up a few miles.

As Fortinberry tells it, she was en route to a babysitter's house to hide the future family addition until the big day. The hamster's "equipment," the cage, toys, etc., were stashed away at Clarkston Chrysler Jeep, a dealership owned by her husband, Chuck.

The rest of the story, as they say, made history — at least in the Clarkston family's home — where it has become a "treasured" holiday memory.

For obvious reasons, Fortinberry had already nicknamed the rodent "Squeaky," and was chatting with him while he scritch-scratched in a box, resembling a Chinese take-out container, in the front seat.

"I headed toward the house. All of a sudden, I didn't hear this scritch, scratch, scrich anymore." Panicking, Fortinberry pulled off the road and opened the box. Horrified, she found the hamster had chewed a hole through the bottom and escaped.

But to where?

"He was nowhere to be found — so I began searching the car. I was also looking for a squished hamster," she added.

Exasperated, Fortinberry pulled into the Chrysler service bay to check out the problem. It was important because it was the last hamster at the pet store and Christmas was right around the corner.

The service men surrounded the car. At one point there was a breakthrough. Fortinberry pulled out her CD player and a pair of beady eyes peeked out. She tried "to lure (the hamster) out with treats."

After several tries, she realized it was futile and the service men "ended up detaching the whole piece (of dashboard). When they pulled it off, we saw the little thing."

Fortunately, Fortinberry caught "Squeaky" just before he was about to high-tail it through an air vent. Victorious, she hoisted him high in the air.

By now there was a crowd gathering. "Everybody in the service bay erupted. The customers started yelling." Meanwhile, her boys were waiting at school to be picked up by their mother. She called Chuck, who arrived instead, explaining their mother's absence with a great punch line:

"Oh, she's got a squeak in her dashboard. She's getting it fixed at the dealership."

rence at dealerships. Except, most of the time, the rodent isn't a pet, but a common field mouse. They've helped many a customer solve the "knock" in their engines.

"They refer to them as varmints," said Pam Caldwell, appointment coordinator at Jack Demmer Ford in Wayne. "They come in and complain that their cars aren't running properly — because (the mouse) ate all the wires."

Jack Demmer dispatcher Mike Lapum agreed. "We do find varmints often under the hood quite a bit, especially in the spring and fall. It's mostly the people who live in the outer suburban areas," he said.

The mice find "a warm place for nesting" inside. Lapum refers to it as free room and board "People keep their dog food and bird seed in the garage. The mice have a place to live. Now they've got a place to eat."

Sometimes people start their cars, "and (the mice) get sucked into the exhaust. It can cause (the car) not to run," he added.

Other times, mice are found in the air filters. "They get in through the wheel well," said Rob Robinson, service advisor for Red Holman Pontiac/Toyota in Westland. "We once had a gentlemen bring his car in three times." After every repair and cleaning, the little critter would return.

"Finally, he got smart and put some mouse traps down," Robinson said.

A mouse nested in fuel injection wires "caused a misfire in the system," said Kendall Hensler, service advisor at Al Dittrich Oldsmobile-GMC-Aurora in Waterford. "The wires were functioning, but it was shorting out."

Field mice stories aren't the only tales told. Other strange and unusual incidents follow.

"One time a customer came in for a little rattle in the dash. It turned out to be these huge black walnuts inside the air vent," Hensler said.

Lapum reports foul odors. One time a customer "forgot" about the gallon of milk she bought at the grocery store.

It spilled in her Windstar. "It had a really bad smell." The vehicle had to be replaced with all-new carpeting. "We also took all the seats out and power washed the minivan. There was actually (spoiled) milk underneath the carpeting, between the carpeting and the metal."

Still, the smell remained. "She ended up trading it in," Lapum said, laughing. He urges customers to "check all groceries" before exiting.

Steve Glazer, assistant service manager at Al Dittrich, remembers a bird that "flew in and bumped his head on the dashboard. We found him under the carpeting," which left "a dead animal smell."

Then, there are careless incidents, like the customer whose kids turned on some power spotlights in the vehicle. "They burned a whole in his carpeting, an eight-inch circle," Glazer said. "(Their father) found it an hour later. He was lucky on that one."

He also mentioned people who "live in their cars," including a man who decided to fry breakfast on top of his engine.

"He was out cooking eggs on his motor in a little pan or piece of tin foil," Glazer said. However, that wasn't what burned the car. "He had his space heater plugged into the cigarette lighter and it tipped over. The car caught fire. It was totaled."

The odor was so foul the dealership have to replace the pad under the carpeting. "We also put the car on an ozone machine for four hours. It kills all the foul molecules in the vent." Glazer said the process also aids in eliminating the smell of smoke.

Lapum can't forget the time a customer brought in a car in which someone had vomited. Some of the substance worked its way into the air vents. "Every time they turned the heat on . . . ," Lapum said with a pause.

Customers have also been known to leave their babies' diapers on the dash, he added.

CRANBROOK TO SELL PRIME PROPERTY IN BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP

Cranbrook Educational Community will sell 2.52 acres of land located in the Township of Bloomfield in Oakland County, Michigan. The property is located on the South side of Manor Road with access off Harrow Circle, approximately one mile Northeast of downtown Birmingham. The land, located at 1277 Harrow Circle, is zoned R-3, single family residential with a minimum lot size of 22,000 sq. ft. The site includes a 1½ story residence, built in 1950, containing 1,677 sq. ft. of living area and an attached two-car garage. The Rouge River forms the property's Western boundary.

Cranbrook has developed a Request for Proposal (RFP) calling for a minimum bid of $1 million for the property. Interested buyers are asked to submit a sealed proposal indicating their cash bid along with any terms for the purchase of the property by September 8, 2000. Once all bids are received, Cranbrook will disclose bids and entertain counter-offers for a period of two weeks after disclosure.

A copy of the RFP can be obtained by contacting George Hedgespeth, Vice President of Finance and Administration at (248) 645-3111.
