Teachers vote down new deal

■ Plymouth-Canton teachers Wednesday turned down a one-year contract recommended by union leaders. The deal would have kicked in at the expiration of the current contract in August.

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

After two days of voting, Plymouth-Canton teachers turned down a one-year tentative contract agreement which would have gone into effect at the end of August, when the current three-year pact expires.

"We're stunned," said Joann Gustafson, chief negotiator for the Plymouth-Canton Education Association, which represents 1,000 teachers. "The PCEA leadership and the bargaining team are very disappointed."

According to Plymouth-Canton Education Association President Chuck Portelli, teachers at the very top of the 11-year pay scale, along with first-year teachers, would have received a 3 percent wage hike. Teachers in between, who are in their second through 10th years, would have gotten a 1.75 percent increase. It takes 11 years, plus a master's degree, for a Plymouth-Canton teacher to get to the top of the wage scale.

The new contract would have affected 950 of the PCEA members. The other 50 union members are Adult Education and ESL (English is a Second Language) teachers, who are not on the same pay scale. Portelli said they would have received 12 percent wage hikes, but is quick to point out their top wage

Township crime drop outpaces U.S. average

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER
cmarshall@oe.homecomm.net

Despite continued growth in Canton, last year the township realized a dramatic decrease in Part I crimes.

Part I crimes – serious crimes such as burglary, murder, rape, larceny and auto theft – numbered 1,867 last year, compared to 2,569 in 1999. The drop represents a 27 percent decrease.

"This decrease is far greater than what the national average is in terms of Part I crimes," said Canton Township Public Safety Director John Santomauro. He added auto theft plummeted by 30 percent and larcenies by 28 percent. Most notably in the latter category was the decrease in construction site larceny.

Plotting crimes

Santomauro said construction site larceny is unlike other types of larceny, which has dropped largely due to a strong economy. He said unfortunately most of the perpetrators work in the construction industry.

Further, construction site thieves typically are involved in multiple crimes, so when police make a few arrests, the larcenies decrease dramatically.

"You would think they would increase," Santomauro said, citing the township's growth and expansive development as reasons. "But they've gone down because we've aggressively started targeting construction sites where we anticipated (criminal) activity or where there was reported activity."

Santomauro said the department examines larcenies, then plots them according to day of the week, time of day and location of the crime. The information is then used to predict when more crime will occur.

Doctor's book details mission for sports safety

BY BRAD KADRICH
STAFF WRITER
bkadrich@oe.homecomm.net

Ask your average 12-year-old what he wants to be when he grows up, and you get the expected answers — fireman, policeman, super hero.

Not with Dave Janda. After his grandmother died when he was 12, Janda decided he was going to be a doctor. Years later, not only is he a leading orthopedic surgeon, but he's a published author and a tireless advocate for the prevention of sports-related injuries.

And it all started with his grandmother.

"My grandmother was misdiagnosed and died," said Janda, an Ann Arbor-based doctor who also keeps offices in Plymouth and Canton. "I committed myself to becoming the kind of doctor who wouldn't make the fatal mistakes her doctor made."

Along the way, Janda, who played sports and sustained his share of injuries as a youth, has tried to pave the way to safer playing fields and athletic experiences for youngsters. He's also taken on HMOs, the insurance industry and sporting goods companies he believes are worried more about the bottom line than broken bones.

To further the latter, Janda founded the Institute for Preventative Sports Medicine, leading studies to prevent sports injuries, particularly to student athletes. His first study came on the softball fields of Ann Arbor, where data showed the use of breakaway bases would reduce injuries by 95 percent and reduce related medical costs by 99 percent.

Four hopefuls vie for open school board seat

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

Four candidates have filed petitions to run for the one open seat on the Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education June 11. The seat became open after incumbent Roland Thomas announced that he wasn't seeking re-election.

Turning in petitions were Fred Libbing and Tom Wysocki, both of Plymouth, as well as Veronica Fox and Sheila Stirsman, both from Canton.

"I'm retired after 30 years with the school district and feel I can offer some insights, as well as stay connected with education," said Libbing, 62, who taught English before a 30-year career as a high school counselor at the old Plymouth High School, as well as the current Salem and Canton high schools.

Libbing said if he's elected, ending the disparities associated with Proposal A is at the top of his list.

"I've long thought there have been disparities from Proposal A," said Libbing. "I hope we can work through that with state Representative (John) Stewart, who is sympathetic to the district's needs. The other districts around us get nearly a thousand dollars more per student than we do."

Libbing also lists the opening of the new Plymouth High School, as well as communication with staff, as top priorities.

"The people I talk to say the current communication at all levels just isn't enough," he said.

Libbing has had two boys graduate from Plymouth-Canton Schools, noting "they had a good experience there."

Sheila Stirsman said because her daughter is a kindergarten student at Gallimore Elementary, she wants to be involved in the future of her education.

"I've always had a desire to get involved, and with my daughter starting school it's a good time to get started," said Stirsman, who participates with the Gallimore PTO. "She is my main motivation to run for school board.

Man wanted in assault, MDOP

Canton police are seeking a warrant for a 20-year-old Detroit man after he allegedly assaulted his 19-year-old former girlfriend and threw a brick through the window of her parents' home.

Police were called to the woman's home on Riverside, where she lives with her parents and her one-month-old baby.

She told police her former boyfriend had come over to visit their son, and while he was there, asked to speak with her privately in the bathroom.

While in the bathroom, she said he began strangling her. The fight continued, and the woman was able to convince the suspect to leave the house.

After he left, she said he threw a landscaping brick through the window of the home, and another through her car window.

Five people were in the home at the time of the assault.

The suspect has six warrants for his arrest, including two from the Canton Police Department for domestic violence.

COP CALLS

Phony firearm

A Canton police officer got a big scare, and extra points for grace under pressure last week when he was confronted with what he thought was a gun in his face.

Early Saturday morning, the officer saw a Chevy Blazer straddling two lanes. He also noted an obstruction – a pair of fuzzy dice – in its rearview mirror.

He pulled the driver over near Haggerty and Warren roads. He asked the driver, a 17-year-old Westland man, to produce his license, registration and proof of insurance.

The teen told police his license had been suspended. When the driver opened his glove box, the officer saw a large, bulky, L-shaped, shiny metallic object. The officer said it appeared to be the butt end of a handgun.

The officer asked the driver what was in his glove box, and the teen smirked, reached into his glove box and pulled out the object.

"Holding it in a manner that one would hold a handgun, (he) swiftly rotated his body in his seat and pointed the object right at me," the officer wrote in his report.

Following the officer's demand, the Blazer's driver dropped the object in his lap. It wasn't a gun, but rather a chrome handlebar bracket from a bicycle.

The driver laughed "and thought it was funny" that he had frightened the officer, according to the report.

He was taken into custody, and was issued citations for lane straddling, driving while license suspended, obstructed vision and no proof of insurance.

Doggie damage

Last Thursday, Canton police were called to a Comet Court residence regarding a very large, four-legged, unwanted visitor.

The man who called police to his home said his neighbor's dog frequently visits his yard. The dog is friendly, he said, but he had to put his foot down when the animal jumped through his screen door and damaged the door and bay window in his house.

Police took the dog home and detained him until his owner came home. The dog owner said his children must have accidentally let the dog loose. He was ticketed for having an animal at large, and will appear in court in May.

The same is true of traffic enforcement, he said, and the department uses a similar approach to beef up patrol where it's needed most.

The result was a 12-percent increase in traffic citations issued last year. The department wrote out 18,225 citations in 2000, compared to 16,182 the year before.

The targeted traffic enforcement meant a small decrease – 1 percent – in traffic accidents.

"That amount may be small," Santomauro said. "But we see it as a dramatic decrease, because what we had expected to see as more people drive through Canton was an increase in accidents."

The type of traffic accidents also changed, as there were more "fender benders" and fewer serious or fatal crashes in 2000.

"That's directly correlated to how much rural area there is in the township," Santomauro said. As the rural roads give way to development, the number of higher-speed, serious injury accidents occur.

However, hit-and-run accidents on public property increased by 37 percent, from 108 in 1999 to 148 in 2000.

Case closed

The department also closed significantly more cases by arrest in 2000 than it did in 1999. Last year, 1,115 cases were closed by arrest, compared to 816 the previous year, representing a 37 percent increase. The figures mean that the department closed half of its cases by arrest. About a third of the cases were closed administratively when officers or detectives came to the end of the investigation and exhausted all leads, said Canton Police Sgt. Alex Wilson.

Another 17 percent were closed by exception, he said. Most cases that are closed by exception are let go because a victim decides not to prosecute. Still others are closed due to unusual circumstances, such as the death of the suspect, Wilson explained.

One area of investigation that realized very significant increases was the number of juvenile cases, which leapt from 147 in 1999 to 215 in 2000. The number of juvenile petitions nearly doubled from 86 in 1999 to 166.

The reason for the increase is twofold, Wilson explained. Changes in legislation now require reporting of certain incidents – such as physical or verbal assault – on school property, so police are called more often than they once were.

Further, in the wake of several serious violent incidents at schools nationwide, there is a heightened awareness of juvenile activity, Wilson said.

Local patrols

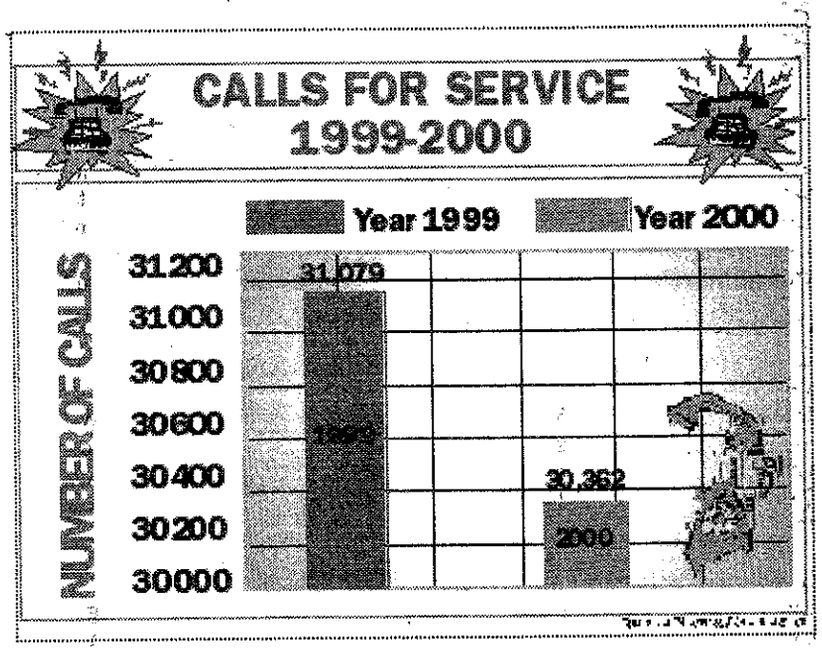
Santomauro credits most of the good news and solid numbers to officers on the street and the department's commitment to community policing.

Community policing, he explained, is a philosophy the department adopted about five years ago, and breaks the 36-square-mile township into small sections, with officers assigned to most of the time in the same section of the community. The philosophy has evolved and has become even less centralized and administratively based and has become more community-based.

"These are bright officers that know these areas and work these areas," Santomauro said. "We believe in letting the practitioner on the street work their own areas."

Further, he said, 85 percent of the department's personnel works the streets. In most departments, 60 percent patrol the community.

"We believe officers need to be in scout cars working the roads," he said.



Santomauro said while the crime statistics are solid signs that the department's efforts are paying off, that's no reason to rest.

He said average response times grew a minute longer – from eight minutes in 1999 to nine last year. To address the issue, the department is hiring six new officers, a slightly higher number than Canton would normally hire in a year.

"We use these stats as benchmarks," Santomauro said. He said the next set of numbers he's eager to examine will be shoplifting crimes as several major retailers and new shopping centers are constructed in Canton.

Volunteer duty: Dr. David Janda, discussing therapy with patient Bruce Andres of Livonia, gives 20 hours a week to the Institute for Preventative Sports Medicine, which he founded 12 years ago.

According to Janda, the study showed that breakaway bases would prevent 1.7 million injuries and save $2 billion in health care costs if every field in the country had them.

"When I testified before Congress, I asked them to guess how much we spent on that survey, and the guesses ranged from $500,000 to $5 million," Janda recalls with a smile. "The truth is, that survey cost us $1,000. That's not a lot of bang for the buck, it's a sonic boom."

But Janda worries HMOs and insurance companies are becoming so pervasive in today's medical world that cost savings are going to be the only concern, and that cost cutting will be done by rationing care.

"HMOs and insurance companies are usurping patients' rights," Janda declares. "I think they're placing patients at considerable risks."

The base study was the first, but not the only, study that convinced Janda doctors are putting too much emphasis on treating injuries and not nearly enough on preventing. For instance, he learned in one study that lighter weight baseballs could prevent injuries when players are hit by a pitch. He also suggests "heading" drills for soccer teams be done with a beach ball, not the standard soccer ball.

Janda says many people believe sports injuries are the most under-recognized illness in the country. According to his studies, there will be 12 million injuries among athletes 5 to 22 years of age. His book includes a 20-point checklist he says would "prevent 2,500 to 3,000 injuries in Plymouth" alone.

"Most of the injuries are preventable," Janda said. "What I hope the book will tell people is not to believe everything you see, hear and read. You've got to check it out."

Divine inspiration

Janda has been checking it out for 12 years, donating 20 hours a week. He started the Institute after a stunning experience he had in a hospital room when his then 11-month-old daughter, Allison, was stricken with what they feared was a bone marrow illness.

Worried it was leukemia, Janda knelt in prayer and told God he'd gladly change places with his sick child. Instead of that, Janda heard a whisper: "Don't stop your research. Establish an institute. Focus on prevention." A short time later, Allison opened her eyes.

It was a story right out of the Kevin Costner film, Field of Dreams. Janda understands, but brushes aside, skepticism about the event.

"Some people might not believe it, but it happened," he said. "I never shared the story except with my immediate family. But I thought it was important to put the book in perspective."

Since then, he has devoted a large portion of his life to the institute. Funding has been a major problem, because the institute won't accept money from some companies and doesn't ask for any government funding.

"Taxpayers shouldn't fund research," Janda said. "Getting funding has been a nightmare. Many people talk the talk, but when it comes time to walk the walk, they're AWOL."

One notable exception has been General Motors, which jumped in with both feet when Janda approached the company with his idea for a study of chest-impact injuries. Dr. David Viano, the principal research scientist for GM, readily accepted Janda's challenge to help.

"GM jumped right in," Janda said. "I have to give them all the credit in the world."

Janda plans to continue his life's work, charging parents, grandparents and community activists to become involved.

"I'd like to think this is a mission in my life," Janda said. "That day changed my life, and I like to think it changed other people's lives by what I'm doing."

scale is $24,000. Those two groups of teachers had been pressing for parity with their counterparts.

"They don't get the pay or recognition they should," said Portelli. "They do the same teaching job, but don't receive the same teacher's pay. We couldn't get them there this year."

Tom Cotner, who was a PCEA negotiator for 20 years and the chief negotiator for the current pact, said the proposed contract failed to treat all teachers equally.

"There wasn't enough total money, and it wasn't equally distributed," said Cotner. "Only two of the 11 steps received the bigger increase, while we all will be working an extra day (next school year)."

However, the PCEA leadership felt differently, noting they wanted to be more competitive in the two steps.

"This is the best place to put the money," said Gustafson. "It's not hurting the people in the middle."

In fact, union representatives point out teachers receiving the 1.75 percent pay hike, combined with a step increase, are really getting pay hikes between 4.7 and 9 percent. It's obvious, however, most teachers who voted didn't see it that way.

"We're not really sure where we go from here," said Gustafson. "We'll have to go back to the bargaining table, but I'm not sure what that will get us. It's anybody's guess."

Figures released by the PCEA show a first-year teacher, who under the current pact earns $34,734, would have jumped to $35,776. A teacher at the top of the scale, with a master's degree, is currently paid $67,700. The new contract would have increased that salary to $69,767.

Portelli said the contract was basically a one-year extension, with only a limited number of issues discussed at the bargaining table at the request of Superintendent Kathleen Booher.

"It's not a good time to go for a multi-year agreement," said Booher. "We need to get our new executive director for human resources on board and start a more comprehensive process with the person who will be with us long term."

The two sides began bargaining in January, and reached a tentative agreement March 29.

Q: What is the "Big Wind?"

A: On April 12, 1934, the highest-velocity natural wind ever recorded occurred in the morning at the Mount Washington, N.H., Observatory. Three weather observers, Wendall Stephenson, Alexander McKenzie and Salvatore Pagliuca, observed and recorded the phenomenon in which gusts reached 231 miles per hour, "the strongest natural wind ever recorded on the earth's surface." The 50th anniversary was observed at the site in 1984, with the three original observers participating in the ceremony.

The library recently began using a new wireless system that requires a special tag in each of the library's approximately 175,000 items. Library staff began inserting these tags early last summer, but some items, especially popular titles that are usually out, haven't been tagged yet, and patrons using self-checkout would be stopped in the process when an untagged item was encountered. Library managers are working hard to get the remaining items tagged so that self-checkout can be turned on.

"Everything seems to run pretty smoothly, and I don't see any particular issues," added Stirsman. "Besides a few hiccups, such as some issues pertaining to the new high school, there's no one issue I want to change."

Stirsman said her Web design and desktop publishing business gives her opportunities to be available for school issues during the day, when most others are working.

"I want to get involved," she added. "Even if I'm not elected, I will seek out other ways to be involved with the schools."

Veronica Fox said she'd like to become the first African American on the Board of Education. While she didn't get into the school board race because of the controversy surrounding the Black History Month letter published in the high school newspaper, she said it was a catalyst in her seeking office.

"Because of that issue, it brought me to the realization that as a parent I need to participate more," said Fox, 43, a substitute teacher. "I started teaching to make a difference and have a positive influence on our kids. But, I realized that as an African American parent I hadn't done enough. This is a way of becoming involved.

"We need to get more parents to participate in their kids education," she added. "We also need to encourage more African Americans to participate in the process. By working together we can make the school district better on all counts."

Fox said that because of the district's size and diversity, she believes it can become a model for other schools throughout the country.

"We have a diverse school community and we need to move forward," she said. "I think we've been stagnate for some time."

Fox is a parent to a freshman and senior, and is caring for a nephew who is a seventh grader at Discovery.

Tom Wysocki is known to many as the former president of the Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters. Now, he wants to use that experience on the Board of Education.

"I've prepared a lot over the last seven years with my kids in high school," he said. "I've become familiar with the operation, and there looks to be a lot of challenges and opportunities in the next couple of years."

Wysocki's top priority, if elected, will be the district's finances.

"Funding is always going to be a problem, especially with Proposal A," said Wysocki. "It will be a challenge to keep a rein on finances.

"I'm more of a team builder in addressing problems," he added. "Our school district has a lot of diverse skills, and we need to bring them together to make it a better district."

Wysocki has a son who is a senior in the district. His daughter is a graduate of Plymouth-Canton Schools.

The last day to register to vote in the June school board election is Monday, May 14.

Nodwell unopposed in bid for 2nd term

Van Buren school board trustee Ralph Nodwell will run unopposed in the June 11 election.

Nodwell was the only candidate to file for one open seat on the board by Monday's 4 p.m. deadline, district officials said. While a write-in campaign is possible, the lack of a declared opponent virtually assures re-election for Nodwell, 67, to a second full term on the board.

"I think it (the lack of competition) shows that people are confident in the job myself and the other board members are doing," Nodwell said before Monday's school board meeting. "People know all the effort we put in, behind the scenes as well as here at the meetings."

Nodwell was appointed as a trustee in 1996 and won election in 1997.

He said he is pleased with the progress the district has made in the 5 1/2 years he has served on the board, noting the construction of two new school buildings, and hopes for similar results during his next term.

Nodwell said his long-term goals for the district include a new high school and improving sports programs.

Center wins honors

The Salem High School Career Resource Center has been cited as an "example of excellence in a high school career center", by the Michigan Department of Career Development.

Vicki Bonner, coordinator of the Salem Career Resource Center, presented tips on creating and developing a career center at a recent conference at Marygrove College, entitled "Tools for Professional Counselors in Urban Areas."

AS SPRING BLOSSOMS

As hyacinths uncurl below and fruit trees form sprays of pastel blossoms above, we cannot help but feel a note of excitement and optimism at the coming of spring. This is an unpredictable season, however, with warm spring breezes one day and cold gusts the next. To preserve the excitement of the urgent activity of green shoots and tiny buds, it helps to bring blossoms indoors for display. Sprays are available in pale white, soft pink, and deepest rose, depending on the type of fruit tree they come from. By arranging cut stems of blossoms in the home, we can fully appreciate their sculptural beauty close at hand as well as admire the tiny florets as they continue to sprout.

Bring the beauty of a fresh spring flower arrangement into your home or office, and watch the whole world seem to brighten. With such a great selection and a wonderful staff waiting to help you, its no wonder HEIDE'S FLOWERS & GIFTS is celebrating over 100 years in business. We're also your source when you need Easter plants, flowers, and gifts. We're located at 995 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, and you can call us at 453-5140, or visit our website at www.heidesflowers.com. Look for our next article in two weeks.

HINT: Spring is also the time to display tulips in all their elegant shapes and sumptuous colors.

Physical Therapy UPDATE

Presented by Hands On Center For Physical Therapy

JOINT EFFORT

Research seems to confirm the suspicion that injury to a joint may predispose a person to osteoarthritis later in life. The study by researchers at Johns Hopkins University began between 1944 and 1960, when more than 1,300 medical students were asked if they had suffered any fractures, tears, or dislocations of the knee or hip. Years later, when the average age of the study's participants reached 61, it was found that 14% of those who had suffered a knee injury during their high school or college years developed osteoarthritis of the knee (compared with 6% of the non-injured doctors). Supervised balance training and strength and flexibility exercises can help avoid arthritis by preventing further injury and keeping the joint aligned.

If you've been ignoring those twinges and aches, now's the time to stop and take stock of your long term health forecast. Ask your physician for a referral to the HANDS ON CENTER FOR PHYSICAL THERAPY, located in Plymouth, at 470 Forest Avenue, Suite 20, As licensed physical therapists with more than 10 years of experience successfully treating joint and muscle pain, we can provide an accurate diagnosis, and provide the correct therapy, which may include massage, electrical stimulation, ultrasound, and hot and cold packs. For more information, please call 455-8370.

P.S. Injuring a joint can lead to arthritis by disrupting its structural integrity and leading to the breakdown of protective cartilage.

OBITUARIES

MARY E. WEBER

Services for Mary E. Weber, 54, of Plymouth, were held April 10 at St. Thomas a'Becket Catholic Church with the Rev. C. Richard Kelly officiating. Burial was at St. Hedwig Cemetery.

Marie E. Weber

Mrs. Weber was born Aug. 23, 1946 in Detroit and died April 6 in Plymouth.

Mary began working for the 35th District Court in 1979 after working for Canton Township for seven years. She loved her job and the whole staff and had many enjoyable years with them. She was dear friends with the Plymouth and Canton Police Departments. "She was one of the most dedicated employees the 35th District Court has ever had, having served 22 years. She will be sorely missed. Our thoughts and prayers are with her family and friends," said Kerry Erdman, court administrator.

Judge James Garber delivered a eulogy at her funeral.

Survivors include daughter, Jill (Dr. Dennis) McCormack; brother, Robert (Mona Lisa) Sirwaitis; sisters, Janice (Gerald) Sallan; Pat Sirwaitis, Barbara (Paul) Gearns; and grandchildren, Isabelle, Colin and Ken McCormack.

Memorial contributions may be made to all Saints Catholic School or The Alliance for Lung Cancer.

Arrangements made by McCabe Funeral Home Canton Chapel.

Wanted: Young artists waiting for their 'Passport'

The Observer Newspapers, along with the Plymouth Community Arts Council, the Plymouth Historical Museum and the Plymouth Symphony, are sponsoring an art contest for the design of the mascot to represent the new Passport to the Arts & Culture program.

Passport to the Arts is an incentive program that provides all youth (K-12) with a passport to travel the world of culture and art available in the Plymouth community.

The contest is open to youth in grades K-8 in the Plymouth-Canton School District. Students are asked to design a mascot, an animal or character, to represent the Passport to the Arts & Culture. Drawings should represent a mascot traveling through the world of arts and culture (art, music, and history).

Only 8 x 11 inch pencil drawings will be accepted. Artists should label the backs of drawings with full name, address, phone number, school name, classroom teacher, grade and age. There will be a public display of the works submitted at Art in the Park (July 13-15). All entries become the property of Passport to the Arts and will not be returned.

The winning drawing will be adapted for use in publicizing the program and for the cover of the passport. The winner will be acknowledged at the inaugural Passport to the Arts & Culture Family Concert Aug. 3 in Kellogg Park, an event of the Downtown Development Authority's Music in the Air Series. Judges will include music director and conductor Nan Washburn of the Plymouth Symphony and State Rep. John Stewart, R-Plymouth Township.

Please deliver or mail entries to The Plymouth Community Arts council, 774 N. Sheldon Road, Plymouth, MI 48170. Call 734-416-4ART or e-mail plymouthsymphony@aol.com for more information. Deadline for entries is May 4.

The Passport to the Arts program is supported by the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs, a partner agency of the National Endowment for the Arts. For more information on how you can support this program or the Aug. 3 concert through a gift of money, prize incentives, time or energy, please contact Darlene Dreyer at the symphony office at (734) 451-2112 or e-mail plymouthsymphony@aol.com Please mail contributions and letters of support to Passport to the Arts, P.O. Box 6379, Plymouth, MI 48170.

Skills clinic on tap for youth baseball, softball

Now that spring is here, it's time to sharpen those baseball and softball skills. Canton's Recreation Division is sponsoring an All Skills Clinic for baseball and softball players to get them ready for play. The clinic is being held at Canton Softball Center on Saturday, May 5 from 12-5 p.m. and is open to boys and girls ages 7-14. Clinic instructors are Scott Dickey, Canton's Varsity Baseball Coach and Anne Robb, Girls High School Coach and Pitching Instructor.

The cost of $50 per person, includes five hours of professional instruction, a take-home drills sheet, contests, sports break, T-shirt, rules review and fun. There is limited space, so please register by April 27. Registration can be done over the phone by calling (734) 483-5600.

Transportation gets a low score

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

On a scale of one to 10, how would you rate southeast Michigan's current transportation system?

Asked that question a survey by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, residents of the region gave the system an average rating of just 4.19.

Condition of road surfaces was main reason for that dissatisfaction region-wide, although Oakland and Livingston county residents picked the lack of transportation for people who prefer an alternative to driving as the most serious problem. Road conditions still placed second there.

As part of its 2025 Regional Transportation Plan, SEMCOG conducted a Regional Transit Opinion Survey earlier this year. Some 1,404 residents of the region were questioned, but those interested in providing input can still submit responses to the survey on the planning group's Web site at www. semcog. org

The survey will be used to help create a "regional transit vision" in the 2025 Transportation Plan this October. Responses will be taken through June 1, according to SEMCOG Executive Director Paul Tait.

Preliminary results show that support for additional funding for public transit is highest where residents are least satisfied with the current network.

Current regular use of public transit is highest in Detroit, at 6.9 percent, and Washtenaw, 4.5 percent. But overall for the region, just 2.5 percent reported regular use of public transit. Nine percent said they had used public transit in the last 60 days.

Forty-two percent said they were "very likely" to use public transit if it was "clean, safe and inexpensive." Twenty-three percent said they were unlikely to ever use public transit.

Potential riders rated safety, 32 percent; reliability, 23 percent; convenience, 23 percent; and routes, 21 percent, as the most important factors in deciding whether to use public transit.

Residents said they would be most interested in using public transit to go to the airport, 48 percent; to go shopping or eat out, 47 percent; to attend a special event, 37 percent; to go to work, 34 percent; or participate in recreation, 33 percent.

Asked if they would support a tax increase for public transit, residents placed their likelihood of supporting a tax on average at 5.77 on that 1-10 scale. Detroit and Wayne County showed the highest support for a tax increase. Monroe County showed the lowest level of support.

St. Mary's and Madonna agree on teacher certification program

St. Mary's College of Ave Maria University and Madonna University have signed an agreement to offer a teacher certification program in secondary and elementary education starting in the fall.

Courses in the education major will be offered on the St. Mary's campus at Orchard Lake, taught by members of both faculties. Madonna will serve as the certification agent.

Dr. Robert Kimball, dean of Madonna's College of Education, said St. Mary's College is a "natural partner" in that it shares Madonna's commitment to "preparing teachers who are caring, competent and professional. We are looking forward to mentoring St. Mary's College as it becomes a state-approved teacher-training institution."

The long-range goal, said Dr. Thaddeus Radzilowski, president of St. Mary's College, is that "over a period of five or six years," St. Mary's will get the full right to certify teachers. He added that the agreement is important to St. Mary's as a source of new students and to fill a need in society for more teachers.

In addition to state-mandated courses for the certification of teachers, St. Mary's College will incorporate courses in ethical and moral training geared to preparing students for teaching in parochial elementary and secondary schools.

Dr. Radzilowski says Madonna University in Livonia was chosen as the mentor for St. Mary's because it has a state-certified education department and "had a successful track record" in this kind of process.

Easter egg hunt

Saturday's the day for the annual Easter Egg Hunt extravaganza hosted by the Canton Township Recreation Division.

This year's hunt in Heritage Park has a new format. Kids age 4 and under will search the park grounds for goodies at 9:30 a.m., ages 5-7 go off next at 10:30 a.m. and kids 8-10 years old begin at 11:15 a.m.

Egg hunters should arrive on time for their age group, rain or shine.

Treats include candy, surprise eggs and a few mystery items.

Gregory William DeGrand has joined the Canton Public Safety Department as a patrol officer. He is the department's 71st sworn officer.

DeGrand, 24, graduated from Michigan State University in May 2000 with a bachelor's degree in criminal justice. He graduated from Police Corps Academy at Ferris State University.

He's a Saline resident.

Meanwhile, after spending nearly a decade as a Public Safety Service Officer, Staci Reynolds has become a systems administrator within the department.

Reynolds, 32, will be responsible for all of the deparment's hardware and software systems.

They're superstars

Three Canton Observer carriers were recently honored by the newspaper for receiving straight-A marks on their report cards.

■ Jordan Bartkowiak, 10, attends Gallimore Elementary School, where his favorite subject is science.

■ Justin Desilets attends East Middle School.

Justin, 12, says his favorite classes are math and science. "This is my first year in middle school and I have to work very hard to get good grades," Justin says.

■ Kyle Sanders, 10, is a student at Tonda Elementary School. His favorite class is social studies and he enjoys playing golf, soccer, baseball and basketball.

"I like delivering the Observer because I like talking to my customers," he says.

Groups advised on how to apply for GreenWay grants

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER
pmurphy@oe.homecomm.net

Efforts to preserve green space in Metro Detroit — and maximize the benefits — took a significant step forward this week.

The Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan (CFSEM) on Monday laid out the ground rules and process for community-based organizations to get money for pet projects, such as linking the Rouge and Huron river water sheds, upgrading the 40 miles of bike paths along I-275 and acquiring land for the Clinton River Trail.

"We've been waiting for a long time," said Linda K. Davis a grant writer for Rochester Hills, who expects to seek at least one grant to acquire railroad property. The land would become part of the Clinton River Trail, stretching from Macomb County through Rochester Hills and Pontiac to Sylvan Lake.

"I'm anxious to learn what it's going to take for communities to apply and receive grants," said Al VanKerckhove, a bicycle enthusiast from Plymouth. VanKerckhove is active in the Plymouth Area Greenway project, and he's interested in establishing nonmotorized pathways.

"This is the beginning," agreed Deanna Magee, director of community services in Wixom. She said her community is looking for money to develop the 292-acre Wixom Habitat.

The pathways, green belts and habitats are envisioned as part of the GreenWays Initiative — an effort to link new and existing recreational facilities in seven Southeast Michigan counties. CFSEM is sponsoring the initiative, offering $25 million in seed money to groups over five years in the form of grants.

At Monday's meeting in the Novi Hilton Hotel, CFSEM outlined the process and guidelines for grant seekers. "It's a very dry process," said Daniel R. Duncan, chief planner for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, "but a very necessary one."

Duncan said the authority — in concert with organizations like the Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Commission — expects to apply for money for connecting five miles of trails at the Hudson Mills Park near Dexter.

The deadline for this first round of grant applications is June 1, with the awards to be announced in September. A second round of grants will open later this year — with a Dec. 1 deadline. Those awards will be announced next April.

"It's a very competitive process," said Mark E. Neithercut, CFSEM vice president who will review grant applications, "but there's no advantage in speed."

Rather than being among the first to apply, he said, organizations would be further ahead — and more likely to succeed — by being thorough. "They (applicants) must take the time to make a case for the importance of their project," said Neithercut.

There's no way of knowing how many organizations will be applying, said Neithercut, or what the individual projects will be. "Some organizations will partner up on mutual projects," he predicted, "and we'll look at each application very closely."

Anthony H. Feldhus, a Macomb County resident, predicted the GreenWays Initiative would prompt more cooperation between organizations — thereby maximizing efforts to preserve greenspace and maximize recreational opportunities. "That's a tremendous idea and a great incentive," said Feldhus, an engineer at the General Motors Truck Group in Pontiac.

The concept of the GreenWays Initiative is "intriguing," said Leon E. Berger, president and chief executive officer of Family & Neighborhood Services in Westland. "We work with numerous organizations," he said, "and most of them are intrigued, too."

Fred Dore, a Farmington Hills resident, said he and other members of the League of Michigan Bicyclists hope to upgrade the 40 miles of bike paths adjacent to I-275. "Those bike paths have been used a lot," he said, "but now they're deteriorating.

"This (GreenWays Initiative grants) is an opportunity to upgrade them," said Dore, an engineer at the Ford Motor Co.

Harry L. Salisbury Jr., project manager for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said he envisions grants being used in conjunction with federal or state moneys for projects like the Greater Detroit American Heritage River Initiative — which seeks to beautify and enhance the Detroit River and its tributaries, the Rouge, Ecorse and Clinton rivers.

Christine A. Vogt, a visiting assistant professor with Michigan State University, said the GreenWays Initiative will undoubtedly impact the quality of life for millions of residents. "We want to study that impact," she said.

CFSEM is able to make grants available, according to President Mariam C. Noland, because of donations from organizations like the McGregor Fund, the Kresge Foundation, the Carls Foundation, the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation, the Matilda R. Wilson Fund, the Whitney Fund, the Americana Foundation and the Frey Foundation.

Organizations can get more information, as well as help with the application process, by calling the Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan at (313) 961-6675, or by visiting the Web site at www.cfsem.org

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Voters: Get used to idea of more school buildings

School bond issue. There. We've said it.

Now Plymouth-Canton Community Schools voters can't claim they're surprised in the next year or so when talk of how to accommodate the district's still expanding population gels into yet another ballot proposal.

Our hope is that school officials will clearly demonstrate the need for any new construction or additional purchases and effectively communicate that to all residents. In turn, the Observer believes voters should honestly evaluate any proposal and its impact on the schools and the community before casting a ballot. If that sounds easy enough, remember, it hasn't always been the case in Plymouth-Canton.

But we're getting ahead of ourselves. Why would a district that is opening one new school per year though 2002 be talking about building additional facilities? In a word, growth.

A report by the district's Housing and Facilities Committee recommends that the school board review its property holdings to accommodate future growth areas, predominantly in southwest Canton and Plymouth Township, but also in neighboring Salem Township. "We're at capacity in some buildings, and we're especially concerned about the effects of The Hamlet subdivision and Cherry Hill Village (both in Canton)," said Marcy Staley, a member of the committee. "It's a puzzle, and it's hard to apply numbers we don't have yet. Until we get ahead of the growth curve it will be difficult to assess."

The committee is recommending the district look at building one additional elementary school and also keep an eye on acquiring additional property to expand in growth areas. That's on top of Discovery Middle School's debut last August, and the scheduled opening for Dodson Elementary next fall and Plymouth High School in 2002.

The committee's report is in the form of a recommendation and we note there's no timetable for additional construction or even a ballot issue. Based on previous experience, school officials will have to do their homework before going to voters though.

Growth patterns in Plymouth-Canton have led to a somewhat checkered history for millage and bond proposals. District voters rejected a pair of millage increases before Proposal A kicked in during the early 1990s, leaving Plymouth-Canton students on the short end when funding formulas were determined. And then there was the 1997 bond issue (to pay for the high school and Dodson), which passed by 96 votes and was contested in a nasty lawsuit.

Because the most rapid growth is occurring in some parts of the district, but not others, ballot issues tend to have a polarizing effect.

Because the most rapid growth is occurring in some part of the district, but not others, ballot issues tend to have a polarizing effect. There is also a history of vocal criticism from some corners, which forces school officials to make a credible case for any money-related request. Although words and actions sometimes become heated, we prefer that to the alternative – voter apathy – by a longshot.

And Plymouth-Canton voters have shown they will pull through for the district when there is a pressing need and school officials make their case. Livonia Public Schools reclaiming Lowell Middle School and the subsequent bond issue for Discovery being a recent example.

The next ballot proposal will be Superintendent Kathleen Booher's first experience in going to the voters of Plymouth-Canton. It's bound to be an educational one – for school officials and voters alike.

Taxing odometers example of low-mileage thinking

Few issues cause as much rancor among Michigan residents as the condition of our state's highways. It's almost become a lesser-of-two-evils type of question: Which do you despise more, orange barrels or potholes?

Even given the tremendous need for the funds necessary to bring our system of state and county highways up to date, the recent talk of an odometer tax levied against drivers on state roads seems like one of the silliest notions to come out of Lansing in a long time.

In case you missed news coverage of the proposed odometer tax, here's how it would work: The state Department of Transportation would somehow create its own global positioning satellite network, which would then track the number of miles driven by each vehicle and calculate a tax based on those miles.

So far, state officials have agreed to contribute $20,000 toward a $700,000, two-year study conducted by the University of Iowa and the University of Minnesota that seeks to identify alternative road funding sources. Eight other states are participating in the study.

Currently, state residents pay 19 cents tax on each gallon of gasoline they buy, which raises $943 million for the state's roads. That's admittedly a small portion of the state's $1.5 billion road budget.

The idea of taxing people an equitable amount for the services they use is a fair one. But with the gasoline tax already in place, those who drive more frequently than others do pay a greater share — especially persons who drive gas-guzzling SUVs and other vehicles that get poor gas mileage.

No, the concept of being creative to generate more tax dollars for roads is fine on the face of it. It's the Big Brother mentality behind an odometer tax that should cause everyone to take pause.

There's no doubt that between the government and countless communication businesses, the technology exists to track movement across the globe or, at the least, across the United States. What with cell phones and pagers and the like, it's probably not all too difficult to keep tabs on many people right now.

But just how do government officials plan on equipping vehicles with a device that would allow such tracking? Sure, a microchip could easily be installed that would send a signal to the GPS network. The question is, who does the installation and, more importantly, who pays for it?

It would be a giant leap to ask automakers to become partners in such a venture. Countless other mandates have emanated from the government over the years concerning safety and energy conservation issues. Of course, those costs have been simply passed on to the consumer.

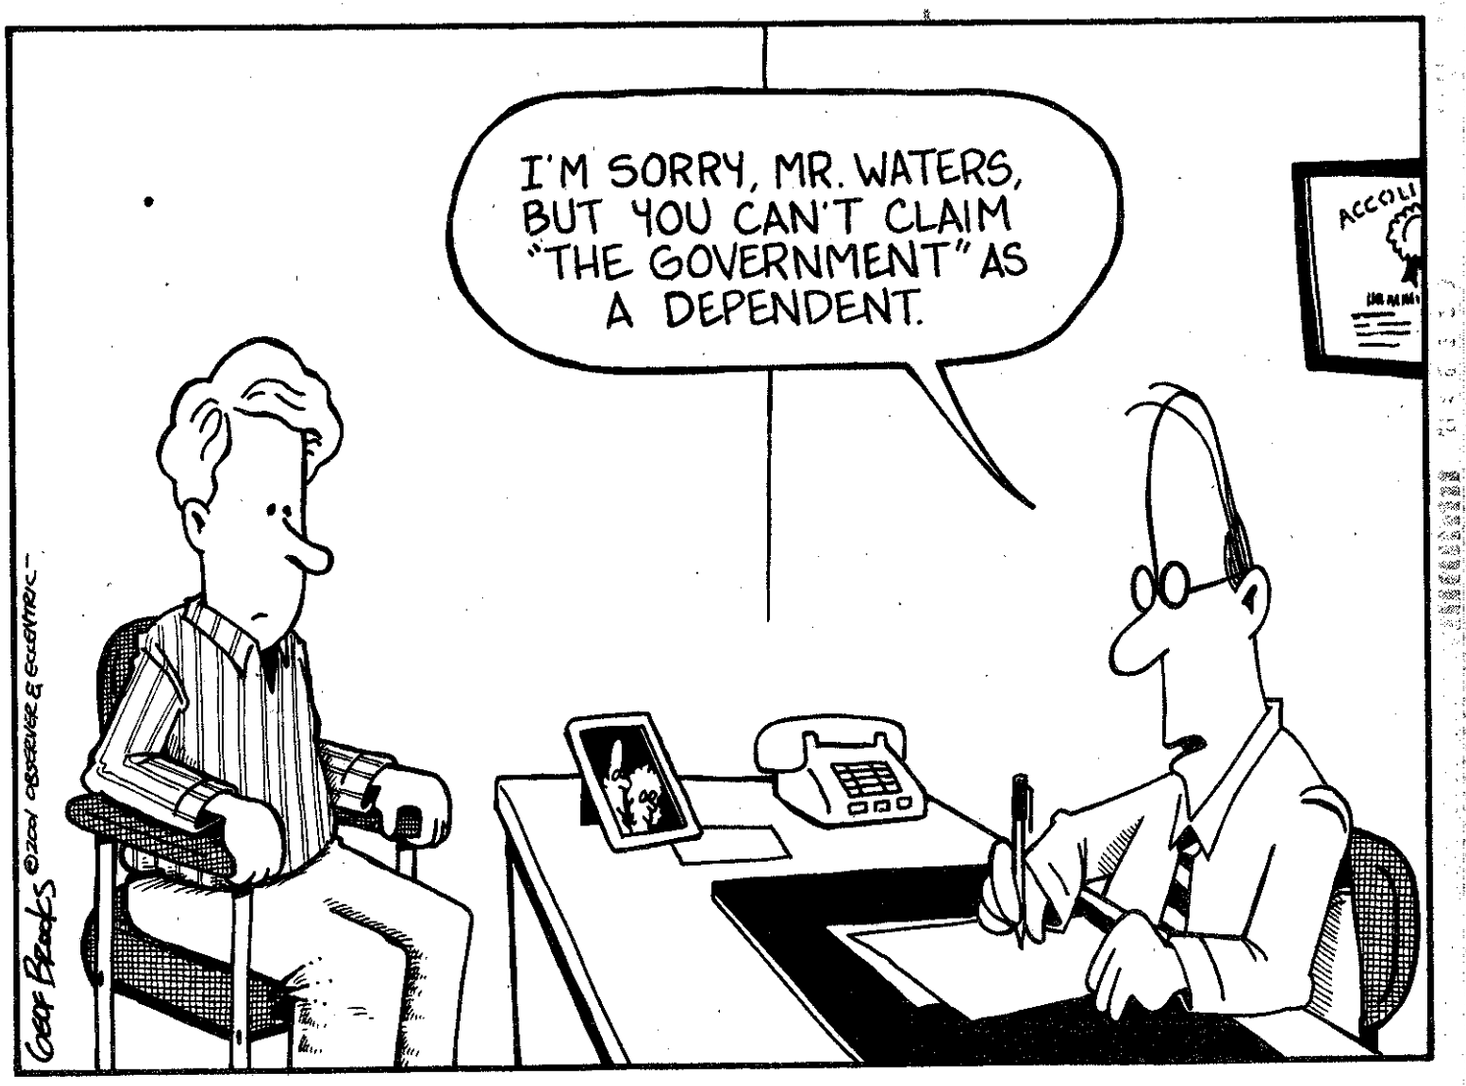
And who could forget the emissions test that was a requirement for vehicles in southeastern Michigan in order to obtain a new automobile registration each year? For several years, drivers were forced to take the time and expense to get a test that virtually everyone agrees did little to keep foul-running cars off the road.

One can only imagine the confusion and hostility that might arise if the state decrees that owners must pay in time and hassle for a microchip to be installed in their vehicle. What penalty might be administered to those who fail to comply? License suspension? Fine? Jail time?

Thankfully, state senators short-circuited the idea earlier this month. When considering the state's $3.1 billion transportation budget for 2001-02, they tacked on an amendment offered by Sen. Gary Peters (D-Bloomfield Township) ordering MDOT to spend no more money on the program. Senators accepted the amendment without opposition before passing the budget proposal in a 35-0 vote.

We've told our legislators time and again that the state's road network should be a top priority. Anything less detracts from Michigan's ability to attract new residents and businesses.

But an odometer tax is a concept whose time is never. State residents are taxed heavily enough when it comes to living out the credo of the Motor City.



LETTERS

Road to freedom

I have read with interest the letters from Patricia Courtney and Janusz M. Szysko regarding the Plymouth-Canton School administration's decision to allow the films Saving Private Ryan and Schlindler's List to be viewed and discussed by ninth-graders.

How can we best communicate to our youth that freedom was not "free." It was bought with the price of human suffering, courage in the face of terror, and loss of life in the battlefield.

Freedom is a gift, not a right. The gift of those who chose to sign the Declaration of Independence, risking everything they owned, every personal goal they had, and their very lives so that we might live in a country governed by the citizens. Freedom was purchased at great cost.

I am humbled and overcome with gratitude when acknowledging the reality of the death of even one young man lying far from home and family in a grave in France or England. A young man with hopes and dreams and potential who gave it all up so that I could live freely to realize my hopes and dreams and potential. It is an awesome debt.

I'm not at all certain that the films mentioned in my letter will be the best way to help the children understand their responsibility to not take freedom for granted. I would be most happy if anyone has a better suggestion. This is an important topic and deserves our attention. It would be unfair to our children if we did not help them understand the road to freedom.

Duggan's judgment poor

On behalf of a group that advocates responsible gun ownership and backs harsh penalties for violent criminals who use guns to victimize others, I'm appalled that Wayne County's new prosecutor, Mike Duggan, let Detroit City Councilman Clyde Cleveland slide out of court with a slap on the wrist despite the evidence indicating that Cleveland savagely beat his wife with a gun, causing her permanent injuries.

Prosecutor Duggan ran on a platform of zero tolerance for gun crimes. He's been all over the state trying to make sure that no law-abiding citizen anywhere can ever obtain a concealed-weapons permit and he's repeatedly promised to prosecute gun owners for even the slightest offense. Yet when a horrible attack with a gun was made upon an elderly woman in his own county, Mr. Duggan saw fit the perpetrator a pass. And under the current CCW law, Mr. Cleveland will be eligible to receive a new concealed weapons permit in two years.

I have to wonder if the outcome would have been any different had Cleveland just been an average citizen instead of a Detroit City Councilman.

The injustice against Mrs. Cleveland cannot be remedied by our criminal justice system due to Mr. Duggan's decision to allow a plea bargain for her attacker. But the system which allowed this to happen can be corrected before it happens again. The new CCW law that our legislature just passed will take effect on July 1, and under its strict new provisions, Mr. Cleveland and other spousal abusers in Michigan can be permanently barred from ever obtaining a concealed weapons permit. This law needs to be allowed to take effect, and Mr. Duggan needs to back off from his crusade to overturn it in light of his involvement in the Cleveland case.

As for Mr. Duggan's decision to go back on his word to the voters and let Mr. Cleveland walk, the voters will have the chance to remedy that injustice when Mr. Duggan runs for re-election. I can only hope that the good people of Wayne County keep this incident in mind when they return to the polls.

Thank you

On behalf of the Plymouth-Canton Kiwanis Breakfast Club and First Step, we would like to express our appreciation of your interest in and coverage of our fourth annual Sweat Suit Drive. Our 2001 drive was our most successful with 238 sweat suits contributed throughout the Plymouth and Canton communities.

The information provided to the communities through your newspaper article by Alice Ashmore it gave a greater awareness of the needs of others. Many times a need can be identified but the ability to address that need is limited. We are pleased to have continued this program and see it grow steadily over the years. It has been expanded to include other Kiwanis Clubs and to the local chambers of commerce.

For us, the bottom line is helping in the community. Thank you for helping us do that.

Responsibility is ours

Another shooting, another bombing! Should we be surprised? Don't we see how our society is conditioning children for this and when it happens, we ask why?

Take some time to listen to some kids "play." What are they doing? Not only are they playing guns, now days they are playing with "toy" bombs. All you have to do is push a button and it blows up. This isn't just older children, this is children as young as 2 years old.

We allow our children to watch cartoons and movies, listen to music and play video games, all that promote horrible violence. We go out and buy them the "toys" to "play" with that promote killing and shooting. Then when they get mad at someone, they do what they've been doing all along, but just with the real thing. Every person or company that ever bought or made a toy or movie had a part in that killing, too.

Wake up people! Have you been a part of training children to be violent? Guns and bombs aren't toys. We shouldn't pretend to hurt people. You need to put a stop to all things that promote violence or else your loved one may be next.

Four seconds

Feb. 15, 2001: just another day. That's how it started anyway, for me and probably for a man and woman who "met me" that night.

Had plans for the weekend, two birthday parties next month, vacation this summer, I'm sure they had similar plans. We "met" that night when my train collided with their car at Jon Kronk and Lonyo, wasn't really even a train, just two engines going about 45 mph (still 500,000-plus pounds).

There are three different "eyewitness" accounts about what happened, but all three said they drove around cars that were stopped at the railroad gates. I had three bright lights (two of them flashing); blowing a horn that would give you a headache it's so loud. They had to see me.

Playing chicken, or just in a hurry? Doesn't really matter, they're both dead.

If they waited four seconds, I would have gone by, we would have never met, they could have done some of the things they had planned, and I wouldn't be thinking about it at least 10 times a day every day.

Four seconds.

The speed limit was 50, I complied with all the rules, I don't feel "guilty." I was just doing my job. I feel bad; for the conductor, who saw "a grapefruit-size hole where car passenger's forehead and brain should be," for the police, EMTs, and "clean-up crew" that had to investigate, measure, check, and clean up the scene, for the family members who will never be with them again.

But mostly for a 5-year-old little girl – the last thing I saw at the scene – a crying little girl hugging two adults, family members of the dead couple? Was she their daughter? What are they going to say when she asks, "Why did mommy and daddy die?"

"They were trying to save 4 seconds?"

I never really thought about what if there were no tomorrow. Now I think about it all the time, every time I drive my car through an intersection (will someone run a red and end my life now?), a heart attack while I take the trash out, is everything "in order." Like it or not, am I ready to die right now?

Everybody has been late or in a hurry when a train is coming. Most people have at least thought about "I can beat it." We don't win ties, but you do lose.

If you have to "think about" something, think about the 300 semi trucks that aren't on the road with you because of that one train, or, better yet, think about your kids, husband, wife, mother or father when someone has to explain why you're dead.

Four seconds.

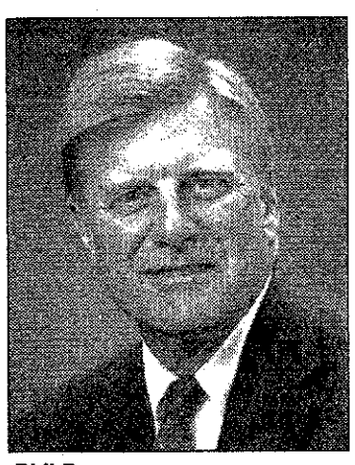
Economy: Sometimes it looks the darkest before sunrise

What an economic roller coaster!

The stock market plunges 200 points on one day and bounces up 400 points the next. Ford, General Motors and DaimlerChrysler all lay off employees, together with the entire parts supplier industry. The Michigan unemployment rate, which had averaged 3.5 percent during last year's spring quarter, rose to 4.5 percent in January, the first time it went above the national average in 69 consecutive months.



Phil Power

My own hunch is that things always look the darkest just before the sun rises. But don't trust my hunch. Instead, look to the economic forecasters. The Research Seminar in Quantitative Economics (RSQE) at the University of Michigan produces some of the best economic forecasts in the nation. Their forecast update for 2001 for the Michigan economy was released last week.

Although it makes for pretty dry reading, it's essential stuff for anybody who has a stake in what happens to our economy.

Here are the main points of the forecast:

■ Employment in Michigan will decline modestly through the rest of this year and begin a modest rise early in 2002. This means this year would mark the first consecutive quarters of job decline since 1990-91.

■ Unemployment is forecast to increase from 4.5 percent to 5.3 percent by the end of the year, with around 30,000 jobs lost during 2001.

■ The main cause is weakness in manufacturing, especially in the automotive sector. Auto production began to slide last summer and investment in industrial equipment is off, as well.

■ Growth in personal income, which increased at a healthy rate of 5.2 percent in 2000, is forecast to drop to 2.8 percent, the consequence of a weaker labor market, especially in the high-wage manufacturing sector.

■ The local rate of inflation is expected to drop from 3.6 percent in 2000 to 3 percent for 2001.

So, you may ask, are we in a recession? It's a near thing, as a recession is usually classified as two quarters of what the economists call "negative economic growth."

The folks at RSQE say the loss of 30,000 jobs in Michigan is "sufficiently modest to avoid being classified as a recession."

Certainly the RSQE forecast contains real grounds for hope, assuming one gets through this year. In 2002, employment should be picking up in the automobile industry and in construction. Wages and the number of hours worked in a week should be increasing, and so, too, should personal income. The threat of inflation should remain low, and there is a real chance that interest will come down another half point or so.

I talked to Joan Crary, one of the smarter economists around, who is largely responsible for the Michigan forecast. I asked her what advice she had for the ordinary person reading this column.

"Don't panic," she said. "The stuff coming down since the first of the year looks a little ugly, and plainly we're not in the boom times we enjoyed for the past few years. But compared to the recession in the early 1990s, this isn't bad. Unemployment will be nothing like what it was then, and even though people who have been laid off have suffered a big shock, most of them will have a much easier time finding a job than they did in the '90s recession."

In 2002, employment should be picking up in the automobile industry and in construction. Wages and the number of hours worked in a week should be increasing, and so, too, should personal income.

Crary also thinks the Michigan economy is in far better shape than it was a decade ago. "We're far more diversified than we were; we're less dependent on the auto industry. There has been considerable growth in the service sector and even in information technology. That said, Michigan is still heavily dependent on the auto industry, and that makes for ups and downs built into the very structure of our economy.

Crary's last words of advice? "Check the energy efficiency of your home this summer. Because the next heating season we're going to see natural gas prices going up a whole lot."

Internet reading requires heavy dose of skepticism

"The public needs to realize that they are not as free as they are led to believe. If the people of Michigan will submit and follow the laws set down by their leaders, they will get along just fine."

Pretty outrageous statement for an elected official.

The only problem is, the statement wasn't actually made, at least not by the guy to whom it was attributed, State Sen. Bill Bullard, R-Highland.

In fact, Bullard says the entire interview never took place.

Yet, there is was, posted on a Web site known as www.PoliticalThoughts.com – at least it was until Tuesday morning.

The 450-word Q&A was supposedly conducted by the "Freep's John Simon" on the topic of Bullard's support for making seatbelt use mandatory. Editors at the Detroit Free Press say there is no reporter at that newspaper by that name.

Two more interviews on the site appear to suffer similar problems. One was supposedly an excerpt from Talk of the Nation in which interviewer "J. Willliams" questioned Congressman Bob Barr, R-Georgia, on the topic of medical marijuana. But Brian Walsh, aide to Congressman Barr, says the interview is "entirely bogus."

Another except from Talk of the Nation, claims that "C. Fay, E. Voth and J. Bronson" where interviewed together on the issue of medical marijuana.

Calvina Fay, executive director of the Drug Free America Foundation, did appear on the National Public Radio show as recently as March 27, but according to Tracy Terry, spokesperson for NPR, Fay, Voth and Bronson have never appeared on the show together.

David Fitch, a resident of Hamburg Township near Brighton, is listed on Register.com as the administrator for Political Thoughts.com.

Contacted by phone, Fitch would not confirm or deny whether the interviews were real or hoaxes. He said he had received them by e-mail from the "GM Intranet" or from "Truck and Bus" and he simply cleaned them up and posted them on the Internet.

Asked if he felt he had an obligation to check whether the interviews really took place, Fitch responded only that "that's insignificant."

Fitch did at one point say "these may be tongue-in-cheek," but when asked what he meant by that, Fitch would only refer to the introductory paragraph of his Web site.

It reads: "With the explosive growth of call-in/interview shows on radio and television, PoliticalThoughts.com would think that every question on every topic would be answered to it's fullest. Unfortunately, that is not always the case ... Due to political correctness, interviewers avoid certain questions. Timidity on the part of the interviewer causes follow-up questions not to be asked ..."

Bullard's office asked Fitch to remove the post regarding the senator and as of Tuesday morning, all three interviews were gone.

But the problem of Internet hoaxes remains. In fact, there appear to be so many hoaxes on the Internet these days that it prompted an article titled "The Real Computer Virus" in this month's edition of American Journalism Review.

"This is the real computer virus: misinformation ... One of the things that makes the Internet so appealing is that anyone can pull things off of it. The other side of the coin is that anyone can put anything on it," Carl M. Cannon writes in the piece. "This poses a particular challenge for reporters who are taught in journalism school to give more weight to the written word (get the official records!) than to something they hear ... But the Web has both official documents and idle gossip, and reporters using it as a research tool (or even a tip sheet) do not always know the difference."

If true for journalists, supposedly trained in the art of separating fact from fiction, how much more difficult is it for the general public to determine what is real and what's made up on the Internet.

I've found two good sites, aimed at correcting misinformation carried on the Internet: www.scambusters.org and http://urbanlegends.about.com/ science/urbanlegends/

But nothing will replace each one of us using our own critical thinking skills when we read, on the Internet or anywhere else, and operating in the world with a healthy degree of skepticism.

Detroit Race for the Cure has meaning close to home

My daughter and I will be out of town for the April 21 Detroit Race for the Cure for breast cancer — a race we have run in for most of its 10-year span.

But, this year, in particular, our hearts will be here, even if our legs are not.

My sister was diagnosed with breast cancer just over a year ago. I have several friends who have been successfully treated, but it's the first time that breast cancer has invaded my family.

Birmingham Public Schools teacher Judy Kaye's diagnosis and treatment overlapped my sister's.

Judith Doner Berne

I know from watching my sister go through surgery, chemotherapy and radiation, what a terrific toll it takes. For months after the surgery, hair loss, nausea, fatigue and fear are constant reminders of what you would like to forget.

I saw her call on resources I didn't know she had and emerge a stronger person. Kaye, 54, has done the same.

This petite Canton resident has the big job of teaching high school special education students during the school year and serving as principal of the district's summer school. Although she obviously took some time off, she was back at work as soon as possible.

She attributes that to care she received at the Karmanos Cancer Institute in Detroit, which co-sponsors the Race for the Cure locally, and to the fact that she literally ran while awaiting surgery and through six months of chemotherapy treatment.

"My focus was to train for the surgery," she says. "I wanted aggressive treatment. I wanted to run and stay strong." After she had sufficiently recovered from the operation, "My goal was to run 1 1/2 miles a day — 10 miles a week. I felt I was going to win. I was strong and I was running."

She sees Race for the Cure as an opportunity to combine her love of running with the opportunity to give back. Last year, the Detroit race raised more than $1 million. Three-quarters went to The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation for national cancer research. A fourth remained in metro Detroit where it funded Karmanos' cancer genetics research, expanded its clinical trial recruitment, and helped provide follow-up care for uninsured women with abnormal mammograms.

"I was so grateful to the doctors and staff at Karmanos, I decided I would build a race team," Kaye explains. So she and two teaching colleagues — Gail Greene of Walled Lake and Sally Courville of Canton — mobilized the Birmingham educational community to participate.

Nearly 570 people strong, they will be hard to miss in their bright blue and gold Team Birmingham T-shirts at the race's new Comerica Park venue. They are the largest community group and their participation translates to more than $11,000 to cure and control breast cancer.

It's a schools-wide effort, although not sponsored by the district, Kaye reports. Ten Birmingham school bus drivers, led by Director of Transportation Jeanne Asch, made arrangements to work for free. The district allowed its school buses to be used for travel to and from the race, which offers separate 5K runs for men and women, a one-mile fun walk and a 5K co-ed walk.

Even more students would participate, Courville predicts, if the race weren't taking place during the week of Easter vacation. The race itself was moved downtown this year, because it outgrew its long-time location at the Detroit Zoo.

Courville has added reason for her advocacy. Her sister Cathy Pond, a Troy School District music teacher, also has breast cancer and went through a bone marrow transplant a year ago.

Unfortunately, most of us know someone who has been diagnosed with breast cancer. Although the fear is strong and the treatment difficult, early detection most often results in its cure. "If they find an answer for breast cancer," Kaye says, "it might unlock the way for all cancer."

Kaye, who has strong support from her adult children, is testimony to what early detection and strong determination can yield.

"If you exercise, rather than lying on the sofa, you move it (the cancer) through," Kaye believes. "I wanted to stay strong, eat, sleep, run, take the drugs that I needed, return to work and be with the people I love.

"It wasn't ever about my breast. It's about life."

Kaye daily runs her own race for the cure. On April 21, she and an estimated 30,000 more will run for us all.

CCW debate: Who should be allowed to carry a gun?

HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE

Ninety-eight percent of current holders of general permits to carry concealed weapons in Michigan are retired police officers.

"I'm very comfortable with a police office, who has served 20-25 years, carrying a gun on or off duty," said Wayne County Prosecutor Mike Duggan. "I think that's a good thing. I think 98 percent of those getting a general permit should be connected to law enforcement. I think that's right. He wants to change it because he thinks that system is wrong. That's the crux of the argument."

It's a pretty fair analysis of the issue.

State Sen. Bill Bullard (R-Highland) honed in on the same point during a recent discussion of Michigan's new "shall issue" CCW law.

It is an issue of "fairness," he said. "There is a lot of evidence that it is who you know. Whether you can get a permit depends on whether you have political connections. The Grand Rapids Press did a report that in Kent County, 98 percent went to people connected with law enforcement. In Ottawa County, nearly all 124 permits issued from 1993 to 1997 were to people who had law enforcement connections."

Bullard and Duggan were participating in a pro-con discussion of the new CCW law with editors and reporters of the HomeTown Communications Network Thursday, April 5.

Approved by lawmakers last December, the new law is set to go into effect July 7, but a petition drive to force a referendum election has been submitted to the state.

Petition can proceed

The Michigan Court of Appeals ruled April 10 that the referendum can proceed to the ballot despite a legal challenge filed by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs and the Michigan Coalition for Responsible Gun Owners. The gun-rights advocates contended the law should not be subject to a referendum, under the state Constitutional, because it contains an appropriation. Appeals judges disagreed and said the petitions circulated by the People Who Care About Kids Committee should be counted. MUCC attorney Peter Ellsworth has promised an appeal to the state Supreme Court.

Duggan headed up the petition drive. Bullard, a proponent of the CCW law, was a member of the legislative conference committee that wrote the final version of the bill before it was passed in December. The two explained their positions in the meeting with HomeTown editors.

"Some of us feel that since it is a right to own a weapon — it's in our Constitution and it's in the federal Constitution — that certain people under a permitting process should be able to carry weapons in certain public places if they feel they need to for their own safety," Bullard said.

"I believe you have an absolute right to own a gun for your own protection," Duggan said, "and that you ought to keep it at your house and keep it out of the park and away from my kid."

"When you say 'to bear arms,' under our constitution, it doesn't say bear arms in your own home," Bullard countered. "Many people think they have a constitutional right to bear arms in public right now."

"I'm not telling you the crime rate is going to jump 10 percent," Duggan said. "I'm telling you we are going to have more tragedies in which someone snaps and has a gun to reach for ... How many shootings is it going to take at a hockey game or at the mall before our kids are going to feel all that more engulfed by the culture of violence?"

'Shall issue'

The law passed by state legislators last December would reduce the discretion local county gun boards have when they consider CCW permits. Currently the law says boards "may issue" licenses when applicants can show a need to carry a conceal weapon.

The new law would make Michigan a "shall issue" state, as long as the applicant meets certain criteria. Applicants would have to be 21, have no history of mental illness, have no felony convictions, and take eight hours of firearms training.

The law creates a number of gun free zones, including day cares, schools, churches, casinos, sport stadiums and bars. The bill also allocates $1 million for the distribution of trigger locks and for public education campaigns.

"What I consider this bill to be is a 'shall issue' law, but not really," Bullard said. "There was language in it that says issuing a license to the applicant to carry a concealed weapon — this is the standard that the gun board has to find — it has to find that carrying a concealed weapon is not detrimental to the safety of the applicant or to any other individual."

'Village idiot'

That provision, giving local gun boards an open ended cause for rejection, came to be known in Lansing as the "village idiot clause."

But Duggan argues it does not give gun boards enough discretion to reject applications. The provision requires that gun boards show "clear and convincing evidence" that the applicant would pose a danger to himself or others to be rejected. Duggan said there would be a number of questionable applicants for which gun boards could not produce such evidence.

"The worst part is, if we don't have clear and convincing evidence in 30 days to turn it down, we have to issue it," Duggan said. "Every other state has 60 to 90 days to do background checks. In Texas, they have 180 days to do the background check. ... We are going to put 200,000 guns in the hands of people faster than any state in the country, with less review than any state in the country."

Bullard and Duggan disagree on the number of new CCW permits that will be issued as a result of the passage of the new law. Duggan said currently 20,000 general CCW permits have been issued, and he expects the number to rise to 200,000.

Bullard said state police estimates place the number of current CCW permits, of all kinds, at 52,000. Overall, the number will increase to just 125,000 under the new bill.

Effects unknown

Bullard said it is "inconclusive" what the effect on crime will be. While crime rates have been dropping in states that have "shall issue" CCW laws, and there are 31, rates have also been dropping in other states with more restrictive gun laws.

Bullard argued the incidence of gun accidents is very rare.

"In perspective, annually 500 children drown in residential swimming pools. Forty die in gun accidents. Since we have only 5 million households with swimming pools and 43 million households with guns, the risk to a small child is 100 times greater if you have a swimming pool than if you have a gun," Bullard argued.

But Duggan argues there is nothing wrong with the current system for reviewing CCW permits.

"My question is why," Duggan said. "What was the crying need that we were so unsafe that after a decade of 20 percent crime reductions that we need to go out and arm people to make us safer? This was driven by some well-financed special interests who want to sell more guns ... They are trying to extend the gun culture to the younger, next generation of suburbanites who don't see guns as a part of their lives. And the way they have decided to do that is the CCW push."

Airport elevator installed

Customers of Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport visiting the Delta Crown Room, American Airlines Admirals Club or Wayne County administrative offices can now ride to the Smith Terminal mezzanine on a brand new elevator.

In the past, the mezzanine was accessible only by one escalator going up and stairways. Handicapped persons and those with lots of luggage were obligated to use a freight elevator in the Smith Terminal, originally constructed in 1957.

To the find the new elevator, use the connecting corridor behind American Airlines ticket counter in the Smith Terminal. It is located between the barber shop and Express Gourmet.

For information or assistance within the terminals, look for one of Wayne County's customer service agents, wearing green vests, of call (734) AIRPORT.

Arbor group offers trees

Ten free shade trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during April 2001 as part of the nonprofit Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The ten shade trees are red oak, sugar maple, weeping willow, green ash, thornless honey locust, pin oak, river birch, tuliptree, silver maple and red maple.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time planting in April or May with enclosed planting instructions.

To become a member of the Foundation and receive the free trees, send a $10 contribution to Ten Free Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb., 68410, by April 30.

Detroit Music Awards 2001:

Slim Shady showed up, local acts reign supreme

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA, STAFF WRITER • PHOTOS BY BRYAN MITCHELL

If one word sums up the 2001 Detroit Music Awards, Livonia-reared rapper and award winner Paradime announced it with fervor "Hot. This is hot."

With that and a sincere thanks to some of the people who are helping him get his debut, Paragraphs off the ground, Paradime, also known as Freddie Beauregard, echoed what all in attendance were thinking and feeling. It was hot – mostly due to a sticky April heatwave and a severe lack of air conditioning at the State Theatre. Scorching live performances got things even hotter, though.

Metal goddesses: Broadzilla's Rachel May sang her heart out at the Detroit Music Awards. The band won Outstanding Hard Rock Artist / Group.

Sights and sounds

Motown legend and distinguished award-winner Barrett Strong, dressed head to toe in befitting royal blue, stirred the crowd with a rendition of I Heard It Through The Grapevine. Broadzilla shook the stage and later took home the award they most deserved – Best Hard Rock Act. The Atomic Numbers may have lost out in the Live Performance category to local reggae darlings Immunity, but the band earned an unofficial honor when it kicked out the anthemic rock song, Who Killed Rock and Roll?

Undoubtedly, the hottest debate circulating at the DMA's surrounded the appearance of a man named Marshall Mathers. Eminem proved that a Grammy Award and critical acclaim wouldn't stop him from performing to his hometown crowd with D-12. With songs like Pistol Pistol and Purple Pills, The bombastic hip hop sextet were an unmistakable highlight during an evening otherwise lacking drama.

Eminem didn't even step out to accept his two giant awards, Outstanding National Album – The Marshall Mathers E.P. and Outstanding National Single – The Real Slim Shady. Still D-12 roused the award-weary audience. This was no surprise to those in attendance, like Aaron Warshaw, of Spectator Records. "I think they're the next big thing out of Detroit," he said. "They already are."

Two-timer: Paradime, also known as Livonia native Freddie Beauregard, clutches onto his two Detroit Music Awards during the pre-show activities last week.

The DMA Network

But the real show unfolded far from the stage. The event fostered mingling among friends, musicians and record industry-types from the 5 p.m. start of the pre-party until long after the midnight hour.

"It's good being able to mingle and network with these people," said Mark E.P., Paradime's D.J. While he would've liked to perform, as the band did last year, Mark E.P. was content to collect the awards instead – for Outstanding Hip Hop Artist/Group and Outstanding Hip Hop MC. "I think we deserve it. We put in a lot of hard work and we put in a lot of time."

Paradime couldn't wait to grab the awards. "We're happy to be recognized," he said, his eyes beaming behind yellow-tinted shades. "We love

Farmington resident has fun selling out to 'eBay of Pigs'

BY KEELY WYGONIK

What: The Second City-Detroit's new revue "eBay of Pigs"
When: Now open for previews. Show officially opens 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 25 for an open run. Performances 8 p.m. Thursday-Sunday, and 10:30 p.m. Friday-Saturday

Tickets: $15 Thursday and Sunday, $20 Friday-Saturday, call (313) 965-2222 or (248) 645-6666

At the end of the day, Kirk Hanley's face muscles hurt. Not that he's complaining, his problem is a good one to have – Hanley spends his work day laughing, a lot.

The Farmington resident is busy working on "eBay of Pigs" his second mainstage production at The Second City Detroit, which opens Wednesday, April 25.

"We are having a great time," he said. "This is a terrific cast of people to work with. They're very generous, giving performers, creative, they want what's best for the show."

For Hanley, there's nothing like being able to write your own material, and he does a fair amount of that with cast members Keegan-Michael Key, Antoine McKay, Maribeth Monroe, Cheri Johnson and Jeff Fritz.

"We make each other laugh, and find each other to be some of the funniest people we know," said Hanley.

No intermission

Unlike other shows, this one directed by Joe Janes with music director John Edwartowski, runs 75 minutes, with no intermission.

Following a trend started by the "Vagina Monologues," Hanley said the shorter format allows patrons more time to make evening plans, and helps the cast.

"An intermission saps the audience's energy," he said. "We've got to keep the energy going. We're trying to connect everything together."

As the name suggests, "eBay of Pigs" is about buying and selling things. Of course the premise is sometimes silly, often absurb.

Kirk Hanley

One scene takes place on a submarine. Contributors to George W. Bush's campaign get to ride on the submarine, and launch a nuclear attack.

Musical numbers are a part of this show, and Hanley plays trombone in a band, something he hadn't done since high school.

"At first I was resistant to the idea, now I'm kind of really enjoying it," he said. "I even got my trombone repaired."

Because "eBay of Pigs" has kind of a spy feel to it, the cast went shopping for late 1960s vintage clothing.

"I have a leisure suit," he said. "I do like it, at first I wasn't so sure. Everyone ended up with something fun."

A lot of scenes take place in the new casino. "We're taking a look at Detroit's 300th birthday," said Hanley. "So what's going on?"

As you might suppose, "eBay of Pigs" is about winning, about people going after the things they want and romance.

what we do."

It's that passion and sheer belief in the music that formed a common link among all in attendance. The audience seemed focused on one another, instead of being fixated on the stage.

From antics of Detroit's Second City cast members, like Farmington Hills native Pj Jacokes and his trusty guitar, to the furious beats of Intuit-Solar's DJ Assault (who won Outstanding Hip Hop DJ) and sonic streams of Sean Deason spinning beside the stage, there was plenty to keep the show moving. Somehow, though, the bulk of the crowd migrated around the theater. Unlike last year's smashing success, the show did not sell out.

The award goes to...

Another big winner last Friday night, The Brothers Groove, was nominated in some rather unusual categories. Bassist and Clarkston native, Jim Simonson quipped "What is Jazz?" after nabbing the award for Outstanding Jazz Group. It seemed the voting public had just as much trouble fitting this funky trio into a solid musical category as The Brothers Groove has describing its own experimental sounds. The band walked home with four shiny awards, which included Outstanding Jazz Recording for Clamp It Down, Outstanding Jazz Vocalist for Chris Codish (who tied with Rochester's Sheila Landis) and Codish for Outstanding Blues Songwriter.

"We were nominated for nine," said Codish during the show. "I'm very glad. The record was something I'm very proud of." Whatever you call it, the band gave an astonishing performance as always.

Also gaining attention after eight years of performing its special brand of ska, Superdot got a nod for Outstanding Ska Act. "We've had millions of disappointments," said Superdot's Bobby Barnes, a Waterford resident. "This made up for it."

Dave Feeny of Ferndale's Tempermill Studio was on hand and in rollicking form to present the award for Best Recording Studio, an honor he has received so many times, he was ineligible for a nomination this year. "I've won it so many times, they've changed the name to The Tempermill," he joked. "I'm here to present The Tempermill award."

Forbes Brothers

A band known to sweep the Country categories each year, The Forbes Brothers, proved you can't keep a good band down. With close to 20 wins under its belt coming in this year, the Forbes Brothers was also ineligible for a nomination in the Best Country Band category. But its members managed to walk home with three awards anyway: Ron Jacobs won the Outstanding Country Vocalist category. Guitarist J.C. Whitelaw took home an Outstanding Country Instrumentalist award. And brothers Scott and Dennis Forbes won the Outstanding Country Writer award.

Dennis Forbes was particularly proud of this win for song writing, a talent close to his heart.

Behind the curtain

The organization of the show itself provided fodder for barstool conversation. Jackie O, a Livonia resident and member of Stroker Ace, was assisting at the press table prior to the show. "From what I've seen, it seems to be very together." she said before heading off to check out some of the performances.

Erik Kluiber, a Rochester Hills native and member of the band Inner Recipe, was patiently awaiting The Atomic Numbers' segment. He noted how the awards show has changed over the years. "It's getting more and more professional," he said.

Photographers and journalists, though, grumbled about the ban on any camera use after 11 p.m. Backstage access seemed more restricted than in the past. Even last year's host, Kid Rock, spent much of the show at his front table as a spectator.

It all comes down to a celebration of live local music. Pre-show emcee Peter Shorn said it all when at the start of the show he announced: "Everyone who gets on this stage is a winner. Everyone who made it out to the Hamtramck Blowout and Mid By Midwest that's great."

But he reminded the crowd that local musicians perform every night of the week in metro area clubs and they deserve support all year long.

Who knows what to expect in 2002. The Detroit music scene just keeps getting hotter.

MUSIC

Give yourself a lift, enjoy a Dixieland jazz concert

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER
kwygonik@oe.homecomm.net

"Sh sh, sh..." word is getting out, Monaghan Knights of Columbus Hall is a great place to listen to Dixieland jazz.

"Our February Mardi Gras concert was the best over the last three years in terms of attendance," said Bill Knowles of Farmington, president of the New Windsor/Detroit Jazz Club.

The April 22 concert promises to be just as spectacular. It will feature vocalist Kerry Price, and the Chuck Moss Paint Creek Jazz Society – Pete Siers, drums; Mike Karoub, bass; Chuck Shermetaro, piano; Ray Heitger, clarinet; Tom Saunders, cornet; and Chuck Moss, trombone.

"This is the best representation of traditional Dixieland jazz in our area," said Knowles. "Ray Heitger plays every Friday and Saturday night at Tony Packo's in Toledo."

Fun kind of music

Performing in these concerts is something Price loves to do.

"It's just a fun kind of music," she said. "It's life giving music, it's joy."

Price grew up in a house where there was always a stack of music on the piano. Her parents exposed to a variety of music, everything from dance band to classic. She started playing the piano at age four, and developed the ability to play by ear.

In college she learned that being able to play piano by ear, and read music were good things to know. The fact that she could sing was an added bonus.

Price sang in bands, and then got a job in a sing along pizza place where she started learning about traditional jazz and classic blues.

It spoke to her soul, and she began studying the music and its history.

At Detroit Country Day School she taught middle and high school chorale, and developed a history of jazz class, which furthered her knowledge and appreciation of the music.

"It's very relaxing, it's very fulfilling," she said. "I've been doing it since 1965, and have gotten to know a lot of neat people."

Her current daytime gig is working as an accompanist at the Detroit High School for the Performing Arts where she plays standard choral repertoire. She also plays keyboard at Pilgrim Congregational Church in Bloomfield Hills, directs the adult and children's choirs, and is the accompanist for Brazeal Dennard Chorale.

She's looking forward to the April 22 concert. Come "if you need a lift," she said. "Even the bluesiest blues were sung to get out of the blues. You'll be seeing music being created on stage. It's totally improvised. We know the tunes, we know the keys, you do the best you can. It's fun. You see it there, and then it's gone."

Price, who also performed at the February concert, is trying something different. She'll sing with the band, and then her own sets.

"I've invited some instrumentalists to come," she said. "The audience will get a different sound. It allows me to pick musicians who know the tunes. You can just do 'Bill Bailey' and 'A Good Man is So Hard to Find' so many times. We try to do something different."

You'll hear a variety of traditional jazz, everything from the 1890s to the 1920s. "I like to find new songs that sound old," said Price. An example is "Cornet Man," from the stage version of "Funny Girl."

During the concert, Price says, "there can be spots you'll remember all your life. When it gels it can be an exhilarating feeling. It's like life, sometimes it works, and sometimes it doesn't."

'Just Visiting' takes on modern times

BY JAY M. GROSSMAN
STAFF WRITER
jgrossman@oe.homecomm.net

■ Put Crocodile Dundee in a time travel machine and you'd have a similar outcome.

An international blend of slapstick comedy and romance, the new film Just Visiting accidentally transports a 12th century French nobleman and his loyal servant to the 21st century, where they grapple with such newfangled inventions as automobiles and indoor plumbing.

French film stars Jean Reno and Chistian Clavier, along with original director Jean-Marie Gaubert, reprise their roles in this American version of the 1993 French blockbuster Les Visiteurs.

Here, the action takes place in modern Chicago. Reno plays Count Thibault of Malfete, a man desperate to turn back the hands of time after he falls under a witch's evil spell and kills his fiancee.

English actor Malcolm McDowell of Clockwork Orange fame plays the wizard whose time-travel potion mistakenly transports Thibault and his servant, Andre, to the far future instead of the recent past.

Moviegoers will recognize Reno from recent action flicks, Mission Impossible and Ronin. This is the first English language film for Clavier, an immensely popular actor in France who's often compared to Peter Sellers.

Christina Applegate from the hit TV series Married . . . with Children performs admirably in a duo role as the fiancee Rosalind and one of her descendants, Julia, who helps the French duo when they land in the 21st century. Matthew Ross (American Psycho) plays her greedy, manipulative fiancee.

Lost in Just Visiting is a sense of irreverence that you find in an Austin Powers or Monty Python flick. There are some true laughs, such as when Andre serves his friends 'mints' that he discovered at the bottom of a urinal ("It smells just like the forest!")

But a number of other scenes felt a tad trite and predictable. Put Crocodile Dundee in a time travel machine and you'd have a similar outcome.

Nevertheless, you can't help but smile when Andre and his new American girlfriend drive off to Las Vegas at the end of the movie with Sonny and Cher singing "I Got You Babe" in the background. The scene strikes a sincere note that many a romantic comedy fails to hit.

Worthy of a matinee or video rental, I'll give Just Visiting three boxes of popcorn out of five. Fun to watch, but it could use a little more butter for some flavor.

Awestruck: Christian Clavier (left) plays Andre the servant and Jean Reno is Count Thibault of Malfete, as they take in the sights and sounds of the 21st century in "Just Visiting."

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Scheduled to open Wednesday, April 11

JOSIE AND THE PUSSYCATS

Josie, Melody and Val are more interested in creating their own home-grown rocker chic fashions and singing their own kind of music than following the latest trends. When they're suddenly discovered by a band manager, Josie and the Pussycats are on their way to the top. Based on the popular Archie Comic. Stars Rachael Leigh Cook, Tara Reid and Rosario Dawson.

KINGDOM COME

This soulful comedy takes place over the course of three days. The action turns on a family who set aside their conflicts when they gather to bury their not-so-dearly department patriarch. Starring Whoopi Goldberg, LL Cool J, Jada Pinkett-Smith, Vivica A. Fox, Tamala Jones, Ellen Cleghorne, Darius McCrary, Clifton Davis, and Cedric the Entertainer

Scheduled to open Friday, April 13

BRIDGET JONES' DIARY

Bridget (Renee Zellweger), 32 , decides it's time to take control of her life and start keeping a diary. Now, the most provocative, erotic and hysterical book on her bedside table is the one she's writing. Despite her efforts to get her act together, she finds herself caught between two men – one who's too good to be true and a man who's so wrong he could be right. Stars Renee Zellweger, Hugh Grant and Colin Firth.

COMPANY MAN

The story follows the nerdy 1960s Connecticut high school grammar teacher who stumbles into becoming a legendary international spy hero in an effort to avoid his nagging wife. His misadventures contribute to his meteoric rise in the CIA, which ultimately send him to Cuba where he's involved in a plot to overthrow Fidel Castro. Starring Doug McGrath, Sigourney Weaver, John Turturro, Denis Leary, Alan Cumming, Ryan Phillipe, and Anthony LaPaglia.

Scheduled to open Friday, April 20

THE LOW DOWN

Frank is in his late 20s, and he becomes restless as he realizes that his life purely revolves around friends and work. He is aware of a need to move his life into another gear, but while he knows something must change, he is not sure what or how. Some of his friends are settling down, and he knows he is expected to follow suit sooner or later. Frank's indecision comes to a head when he meets Ruby, whose optimism and fresh approach to life and its problems slowly yet dramatically affect him. Stars Aiden Gillen, Kate Ashford, Dean Lennox Kelly, Rupert Proctor, Tobias Menzies, Samantha Powers and Deanna Smiles.

Nolan's 'Memento' will keep you guessing

BY RICHARD S. HANSEN
SPECIAL WRITER

First of all I want to make a promise: I will not ruin this movie for any reader that has not seen it. It's got twists like The Sixth Sense and turns like The Usual Suspects.

Suffice it to say you don't want to know what happens until you're watching the movie. Then again, you're either going to love it or hate it. Like anything else that's "different," opinions will be split no matter how tricky the plot twists are.

Memento concerns itself with Lenny (Guy Pearce), a man searching for the murderer of his beloved wife. But there's a catch (actually there are a lot of catches...) Lenny has no short-term memory. He knows who he is and where he's from but every so often, and whenever he goes sleep, he loses all knowledge about what has happened to him since the head trauma which caused his condition.

As one might suspect this makes it quite difficult to track a killer — forgetting all your clues every few minutes. Lenny is careful to take Polaroids of key people and places, scrawling simple notes on them so he has an easy access guide every time he wakes up. When clues to his wife's brutal rape and murder materialize, Lenny tattoos them on his body, which not only personifies the drive of his quest but also creates striking images for the camera.

Memory loss: Guy Pearce stars as Lenny, a man searching for his wife's murderer in "Memento."

Hooked yet? There's more.

The movie is told in reverse. The first scene is the last. Thus we watch Lenny's quest unfold backward learning more about him and his motivations as the plot journeys on toward its beginning. The audience is captured by learning about how Lenny's relationships with the other characters developed, by learning who's helping him and who's lying.

Interested or baffled? If this description doesn't pique your interest, the film never will. It is, however, the best kind of mystery – one that can catch you off guard even though you already know the end.

By choosing to structure the film in this manner, director Chris Nolan has created something tremendously hard to follow. He forces the viewer to pay close attention and stay involved.

When key memories begin slipping away from Lenny, you too feel desperate, horrified and even frustrated. Not only because Lenny is back to square one, but because as an observer of his obsessive quest you must struggle to regain footing just like he does.

Unfortunately, Nolan has chosen style over substance. Some of the plot twists and character motivations are pretty thin. But it's incredibly difficult to tell. Thus when the reasons for character's actions seem strained, it's hard to put your finger on why because you're so wrapped up in trying uncover what's going on.

You can't help but feel the story wouldn't be half as satisfying if it were played in the correct order. That isn't the point. Nolan is more concerned with commenting on the subjectivity of memory and how it effects our life decisions than he is in giving Lenny's friends and enemies rock solid motivations for their actions.

Regardless of Memento's successes as a well-plotted mystery, it should be celebrated for the uniqueness of its structure and design. We could all do with a few more movies that break the mold.

CD REVIEWS

Black Rebel Motorcycle Club

BRMC

Hailing from England, the B.R.M.C. have dropped on our sweet shores one of the most aggressively psychedelic records in recent memory. Sounding like the perfect mix of the Jesus & Mary Chain, Love & Rockets and early Verve if only they had been recorded in an acid fueled frenzy in Frisco during the '60's, B.R.M.C. have managed to channel the analog trip of our collective musical past to fill our futures with soaring choruses and distortion.

The only thing that will keep this from being the hit it would have been 10 years ago (when people actually listened to bands that sounded different from one another) is the spotty production. While the fuzzed out guitars, tripped out effects and low-in-the-mix vocals will be honey to the ears of aficionados of psyche-rock, it may take a little easing into for the uninitiated. Either way B.R.M.C. is perfect for zoning out in the middle of the night or a road trip on a sunny day.

Highly recommended.

No More Shall We Part

Nick Cave & The Bad Seeds

Following in the footsteps of 1997's Boatman's Call, and seemingly ignoring the raucous, comedy/horror of the 1996's Murder Ballads, Nick & Co. turn in the tenderest album of their 20-year career. Characterized by sparse arrangement and backed by lush strings, Nick delivers his dependable lyrical directness while crafting songs both tender and heartbreaking.

Many songs begin quietly, building over extended track times and gaining in claustrophobic atmosphere. Cave has never been one to beat around the bush lyrically and the Bad Seeds backing music provides a potent metaphor paralleling Cave's songs about crippling relationships and love torn asunder. Relief is however provided in the gentle and compassionate love songs God is in the House and Love Letter.

While perhaps not the best place to start for those curious about Nick and his Bad Seeds (that would be the recently released Best of or the impeccable Tender Pray), No More... stands as yet another elegant accomplishment in a long and generally overlooked career.

DINING

Extra! Extra!

Read all about it as Detroit area restaurants make grade in national magazines

BY ELEANOR HEALD
SPECIAL WRITER

Diners and restaurateurs in metro Detroit have long lamented a lack of recognition from national periodicals specializing in food and restaurant news. This seems to have turned a corner. May the trend continue.

Restaurant Hospitality magazine, a monthly national publication of Penton Foodservice Network based in Cleveland, Ohio, selected a restaurant "dream team." Editor-in-chief Michael Sanson said he wanted to put the spotlight on those who work in the trenches; not the celebrity chef types, but those who deal directly with restaurant goers.

Personality key

Believing that personality is the key because it shapes a customer's experience, Restaurant Hospitality editors chose Mickey Bakst of Tribute restaurant in Farmington Hills as dream team maitre d'. Sanson wrote, "Tribute with its opulent decor, cutting-edge cuisine and soaring check averages has all the makings of a stuffy place. But there's no chance of that with Bakst at the helm."

Well served: Rick Rubel sits among the selections of wine at No. VI Chophouse that help make him dream team sommelier, according to Restaurant Hospitality magazine.

With wine representing more than 20 percent of total sales at Novi's No.VI Chophouse, it's no accident that Sanson's group chose Rick Rubel as dream team sommelier. "He's created an award-winning wine list and constantly educates himself about wine trends," Sanson remarked.

All was quiet on the award scene in January and February this year. But it awakened like spring in March when Bon Appetit magazine praised Ferndale's Assaggi Mediterranean Bistro in its "The Restaurant Reporter — Top Tables" feature on where to eat out now around the country and around the world.

Assaggi

Citing Assaggi as "a new, casual spot, boasting unusual art and a lot of charm," the credit passed to "Randy Firestine's open kitchen with imaginative cuisine featuring Spanish, Greek, Provencal, Middle Eastern and Southern Italian flavors."

National recognition for an area restaurant open less than a year has encouraged Assaggi's proprietors Josie Rotondo and George Gise. So much so that they've now opened for lunch from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., Tuesday through Friday.

The menu, while shortened for mid-day, includes popular items from the dinner menu, most less than $10.

Last, but certainly not least, in the spring issue of the Quarterly Review of Wines, which has a significantly large subscriber base in addition to being found in every guest room of Ritz-Carlton hotels nationwide, Tribute scored again.

In each issue of the magazine Edward and Mireille Guiliano write a "Wining and Dining" feature, which in the spring issue hails "Top Tastes of 2000."

In the same company with haut de gamme Paris and chic New York City restaurants and bistros, the Guilianos' "Meal of the Year" was created by Tribute's Executive Chef Takashi Yagihashi, pictured in the feature along with a panoramic view of the restaurant's dining room, wine room and bar.

You can read about the incredible menu in the magazine, and in fact, ask Takashi to re-create it for you. The Guilianos express that "He is a young genius who is totally dedicated to doing his very best every day, and he's also friendly, humble and beams to see your spoken or unspoken reactions to his unusual creations."

Recognition

Bakst said: "This recognition is very important to all the staff at Tribute. While the Guilianos credit Takashi, his Chef de Cuisine Ann Spillman and pastry chef Michael Laiskonis by name, we all feel proud. And I have to say quite honestly, their mention of me means more than any recognition I've received in my career."

And what did the Guilianos say? "Mickey knows how to pair better than any sommelier. The man could have been a great diplomat, psychologist, actor, conductor, walker and much more."

Hopefully, you have a favorite metro Detroit restaurant. When you have a chance to praise it publicly or in a survey, do so. Metro Detroit area restaurant professionals work hard to please you.

And if you are not pleased, you should tell them. How else will they know?

Brighten Up!

Spring colors can brighten your home

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

If you want to brighten up your home for spring, you probably want to learn what colors work well for your home interior.

That means taking a look at the rooms in your home and being objective, according to Carol Youd, a senior designer at the Hudson's design studio in Westland.

"Sometimes we are so busy, we really don't take time to look at our home, so you should try to take a long objective look with a fresh eye," Youd said.

For other homeowners, having a fresh eye can also mean using Feng Shui, the fine art of placement and balance to create a peaceful, harmonious and healthy environment.

Achieving balance

"Feng Shui is all about achieving balance," said Lynn Meadows, a Feng Shui consultant. "In some situations we may want more 'yang' or active furnishings, or in others, we may want more 'yin,' which is peaceful and quiet."

Perhaps the room needs something as basic as a fresh coat of paint, said Carol Cousineau of Sherwood Studios in West Bloomfield. "Many builders use a shasta white on the new homes, which tends to look dingy," Cousineau said. "Now is a good time open up the windows and paint."

Homeowners should "lighten up" a little for spring, whether they shop for furniture, visit a local interior designer or stop in a design center showroom.

It's time to evaluate

Before they start, homeowners should evaluate their rooms. "Decide what it is that is pulling the room down," Cousineau said. "Maybe the artwork is getting old. The carpet may need to be cleaned along with the fabrics and the drapes."

"Homeowners should measure areas they want area rugs or artwork to occupy,"Cousineau said. "They should keep a list and carry those measurements with them for those occasions when they see a piece they may want to purchase."

Earthtones and neutrals remain the order of the day for homeowners along with a little bit of gray-greens or sage colors, Youd said.

The background color is a vital part of the total picture. "Your wall color is one of the largest areas of color in the room," Youd said. "(Homeowners) use very light neutrals. They like these colors because it looks very open. They come back and want to add color in artwork and accessories."

Accessories help residents dress up a room. A new pillow for a sofa, rugs or an artificial fern plant allows a room to breathe new life after the winter doldrums.

Even adding a single chair can help.

"An accessory has to be important to you and is something you enjoy," Youd said.

"Big" is the word for accessories, Cousineau said. "Large candlesticks have a nice bold look to them. Colored glass can brighten up the room." Silver can accessorize gold and gold "never goes out" of style, Cousineau said.

Meadows said homeowners should rid the room of clutter as clutter takes away energy. When using mirrors, make sure they reflect something pleasant in the room.

"When you see a chair, it reminds you of your grandmother's chair," Meadows said.

Area rugs add color

"Adding a new area rug can get a little color in the room," Youd said. Area rugs also are popular. Many chains and local family-run furniture stores offer the rugs in a variety of styles and colors.

Imported rugs from around the world fill store shelves. Area rugs can be selected from a variety of sizes to fit a room properly.

"You want an area rug to define a space or define a focal point," Youd said.

Large rooms with several windows don't convey much color. "Even with white carpeting, there often aren't any items to add color to the room," Cousineau said.

She said rugs can be ordered custom-made at the West Bloomfield store.

Great rooms in new homes present a problem because they are so large. "It takes some research to find the right piece," Youd said. "You want something with some height to it." Homeowners often fill the area above, topping a large armoire with a plant or artwork.

"Often we just collect (accessories), make additions and just let them gather into a bunch. Again, take a fresh look at your tabletop, console and curio."

Sort out old pictures and replace with new. Add new fresh colors to your accessories. Art can accentuate colors and moods.

"Artwork can be freshened up with new matting and framing," Youd said. A narrow frame can "date" a picture. Today's frames have grown wider, she said.

Meadows said art can be incorporated into Feng Shui. "Pictures can be very symbolic. What it symbolizes is very important."

Plants and flowers can help a room flow and ease the eye, particularly when another door is opposite the room entrance, which tends to draw people in and out of the room. "Plants are a wonderful life force," said Meadows.

Soothing nerves

Aquariums can calm and soothe frayed nerves. A heavy object, such as a statue, can anchor a room, Meadows said.

Cousineau loves to cut fresh flowers to brighten up her kitchen. Peonies and lilacs have relatively short seasons, but dahlias bloom all season. "They make magnificent cut flowers," Cousineau said.

Homeowners may focus on windows this spring to draw the natural light of the sun into the room.

"The trend is window treatments," Youd said. "But you see people going back to drapes, because they like the softness and the warmth of them. You also get more insulation from drapes than you do from just a blind."

"You don't have to do the whole room over. Sometimes one or two pieces will give you a newer fresher look." Of course, reupholstering a single chair can present a new look, but sometimes that can cost as much as a new piece.

Using Feng Shui for interior decor is a "personal practice" and should be adapted to people who use it, Meadows said.

"We have gotten so removed from nature, we get in our cars and drive to work or school," Meadows said. "When is the last time you took a walk in the park or sat by a river?

Specialty tools can be hidden treasures

Unexpected problems can occur even in the best planned do-it-yourself projects.

In such situations, the right specialty tools can be hidden treasures in your toolbox.

For example, the Craftsman Screw Remover kit takes the frustration out of extracting screws with stripped or damaged heads. Just chuck the 1/4-inch hex-shank screw remover bit into a reversible, variable speed 3/8-inch power drill. Set the drill on low speed and reverse. Place the screw remover in the center of the damaged screw, start the drill and apply downward pressure until the bit grabs the screw. The edges of the bit will dig into the screw's head and begin the removal process. The three-piece set covers screw sizes from No. 6 to No. 14 and accommodates Phillips, slotted, Torx and other common screw heads.

Do-it-yourselfers, especially auto enthusiasts, also can repair or renew damaged, nicked or burred threads on common sizes of nuts and bolts with the Craftsman 40-piece Master Rethreading Set. Up until now, comprehensive rethreading sets have not been readily available from retail outlets. The set cleans and repairs existing threads, rather than cutting new threads, which helps avoid the danger of cross-threading.

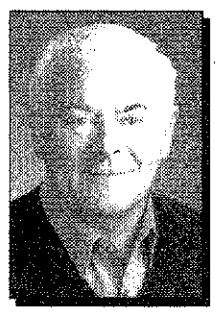
Magnetic pickup tools can save the day when fasteners, tools and other ferrous metal objects must be retrieved from hard-to-reach places.

The Craftsman Lighted Magnetic Pickup Tool sends a narrow light beam into darkened areas to help find the targeted object, and can lift up to five pounds.

The ingenious tool has a telescoping stainless steel wand that extends from 8 1/2 inches to 31 3/4 inches.The tool's magnetic head is rotated to turn the light on and off.

Association finally proposes revisions to dryer vent code

APPLIANCE DOCTOR



JOE GAGNON

An article that recently appeared in the Appliance Service News in Chicago should have made headlines across the country.

In early January, the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers proposed a revision of the National Fuel Gas Code and submitted it to the American Gas Association. The revision specified that clothes dryer exhaust and transition vents used in residential applications shall not be constructed of coiled-wire foil or plastic material. The proposal also emphasizes that dryer vents must be installed in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions.

Venting about metal

AHAM recommends that vents should be constructed of rigid sheet metal or corrugated semi-rigid sheet metal. The current code does not contain material requirements for exhaust and transition vents. Without specific requirements, manufacturers are concerned that inadequate materials will be used.

Coiled-wire foil and plastic venting material can create a problem because both are susceptible to damage from bending or crushing during installation. Damaged vents can reduce airflow and result in the dryer cycling on its back-up safety devices. Coil-wire foil and plastic venting material is also susceptible to tears and punctures.

That is how the story appeared. Now I will rewrite the story the way I see it.

AHAM is made up of representatives from the appliance manufacturing end. This group has proposed a new code to the American Gas Association, which is responsible for standards across the United States. AHAM is asking that plastic and tin-foil vent line used on dryers be prohibited in this country.

What wasn't said

Officials fail to mention that the construction codes of Michigan banned its use back in January 1992. They also didn't mention that dryer fires occur at the rate of 15,000 per year in this country and that most of these are due to improper venting. They never informed us that several lawsuits have been lost by manufacturers due to these house fires. They didn't tell us that for many years the instruction book with a clothes dryer showed us how to install it with the use of flexible vent line. They didn't tell you that the safest way to install a clothes dryer is using the old fashioned solid aluminum vent line.

They should have said – "AHAM apologizes for not joining Joe Gagnon some 15 years ago when he went on his crusade to ban plastic and tin-foil vent line. Even though the Product Safety Commission and Underwriters Lab saw it his way, we were many years behind in reaction. His actions have saved lives and tragedy from occurring and we now believe this proposal will do the same for the rest of the country."

Maybe they should urge the retail stores across America to do what a hardware retail chain in Detroit has been doing for years. Damman hardware stores posted a sign near the dryer vents which states that plastic should not be used for clothes dryers. Maybe AHAM should have apologized for the delay.

I wish that someday AHAM will listen to what consumers have to say. At a recent seminar I asked the attendees if they thought major appliances were made better today than yesteryear. Almost all of them broke out into laughter. I wished that AHAM could have heard their response.

Just imagine, how many lives could have been saved across America if AHAM and the American Gas Association were right there beside me when I did my first ABC Television appearance years ago, it would have a great number. I'm complaining, but happy. They finally jumped on board. Stay tuned.

Joe Gagnon can be heard on Newstalk 760, WJR-AM, every Saturday and Sunday mornings. He is a past president of The Society of Consumer Professionals. His second book, "The Words and Wisdom of The Appliance Doctor" is available in book stores. His phone number is (313) 873-9789.

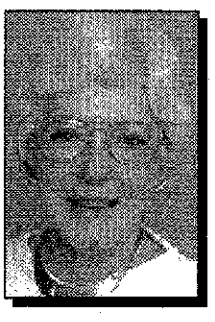
GARDENING

Pansies stand up to cold weather, so go ahead and plant

GARDEN SPOT



MARTY FIGLEY

If you want bright and happy flowers right now in your garden, grow pansies. These happy-faced flowers can stand up to cold, snowy weather better than any other annual, and they are in the stores now.

Pansies, violets and violas are all in the same family and have the same flower structures, but they vary a lot in their other features, so it is most difficult to classify them. For the sake of simplicity, this column will concentrate on those that flower in the spring.

Pansies are produced in series, such as the Ultima series, and the colors are vast.

Choose the colors you want very carefully because often the plants are offered in mixtures, which can be quite pretty, especially in a window box.

But if you have dreamed of a particular color theme, it would be best to buy separate colors. The plants may be blooming when you find them, so the selection will be easier.

This year Goldsmith Seeds Inc. has introduced the "Accord" pansy (viola wittrockiana) series in three new colors.

You might want to try "Accord Black Beauty." This deep, dark purple flower appears black when cast against a green backdrop in bright sunlight.

The other two new colors are "Accord Purple" and "Accord Purple Picotee."

This is strictly a wholesale company; the plants can be found at garden centers. Be aware of the variety names and ask your clerk for early-blooming pansies.

Here are some other combinations for an early spring garden.

"Springtime Lemon Splash" is pale yellow with a splash of deep, deep purple. Combine it with a permanent planting of large yellow daffodils, such as "King Midas," and maroon-leaved heuchera "Stormy Seas" to create an unforgettable show.

The long-established bicolor yellow and purple "Jackanapes" is often the traditional color associated with pansies and can be combined well with many other plants.

It's often difficult to plant pansies close enough to cover the ground before the heat does them in, so have an idea of a late-blooming annual to fill the bed when the pansies are gone.

Rich, moist, well-drained soil high in organic matter is preferred by these beauties. They also like full sun, but partial shade is satisfactory.

To dye for

If the youngsters are getting anxious for the Easter Bunny to arrive, or if you want to experiment with a different way of coloring eggs, read on.

Boil cut-up dye plants (listed below) in water to cover in an enamel or stainless steel pan for a minute or two, then simmer for about a half hour. Strain the contents.

Carefully drop dry, hard-boiled eggs into the hot dye, to which you have added one teaspoon of vinegar to help the dye adhere to the eggs. Don't add vinegar to the onion skin dye.

These lovely eggs will be pastel rather than bright. Sometimes you may get a stronger color by boiling the eggs right in the dye. It's fun to experiment.

Here are some suggestions:

- Blues/purples — Red cabbage; red onion skins; the following juices: blueberry, blackberry, cranberry and purple grape.
- Reds/pinks — Cooked beets, steeped for several hours; raspberries; cranberries; blackberries.
- Greens/yellows — Spinach or carrot tops; yellow or brown onion skins.
- Browns —Coffee grounds; walnut hulls or bark; cayenne powder.
- Red/brown — Red onion skins.

CALENDAR

■ Art Van Furniture is a local sponsor of the 2001 Detroit's Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer RACE FOR THE CURE®, presented by the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute. It will take place Saturday, April 21, at Comerica Park. Entry forms for the race are available at all Art Van stores now through April 20, while supplies last.

■ Haberman Fabrics, 117 W. Fourth in Royal Oak, presents a variety of home decorating classes. They include the three-session "Beginner Plus Pillow," Mondays, April 16-30 ($45). Preregistration is required. Call (248) 541-0010 or visit www.habermanfabrics.com

■ Discover the principles of the ancient Chinese art of feng shui (pronounced "fung shway") at a free event 6:30 p.m. Thursday, April 26, Art Van Furniture, 5053 Dixie Highway in Waterford. Reservations are suggested; call (888) 619-2199. Find out what the excitement and fascination is about and how feng shui can transform your business, home and well-being. You will have the opportunity to ask questions of feng shui consultant Lynn Meadows.

■ The Detroit Artists Market Sales Gallery, 4719 Woodward at Forest in Detroit, features tiles, vases and bowls by ceramic artist JoAnn Aquinto this month. Aquinto earned her bachelor of fine arts degree in 1990 from the Center for Creative Studies. She oversaw a large scale tile installation at the People Mover's Millender Center Station project for Pewabic Pottery. The prices of her tiles and vessels range between $12 and $100. Sales Gallery proceeds provide revenue for participating local artists and general operating support of DAM's exhibition and educational programs. Call (313) 832-8540, Ext. 13.

■ Homeowners may learn how to lay their own brick patios, walks and driveways in a one-hour class 3 p.m. every first and third Saturday of the month now through September at Brickscape Gardens in Northville. Registration fee is $5 per person, refundable with any brick purchase. Call (248) 348-2500 to reserve a spot and for more information. Brickscape Gardens is on Brickscape Drive, which runs north off Eight Mile just east of Novi Road.

■ Public tours at Oakland University's Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester are given year-round 1:30 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Sunday. The hall is closed most holidays, and tour hours may change during special events.

Admission is $8 for adults, $6 for ages 62 and over, $4 for ages 5-12, free for ages 4 and under. Reservations aren't required. Call (248) 370-3140 for more information about touring the hall and the Knole Cottage playhouse, or visit www.meadowbrookhall.org

Lecture focuses on how windows can be treated

Michigan Design Center, the marketplace for interior design professionals, invites the public to meet and hear Lady Caroline Wrey, teacher, author and leading authority on window treatments and accessories, 6:30 p.m. Thursday, April 26.

"Much more than just something to keep the daylight and the neighbors at bay, curtains and drapes are potentially one of the most interesting and versatile aspects of the interior decoration of any home," Wrey says.

Highlights of the evening's lecture will include the basic reasons for curtaining a window; how to guarantee the success of a perfect window treatment; and a slide presentation of stunning window treatments.

A book signing will follow the lecture. Light refreshments will be served.

For reservations, consumers can send a check for $25, made payable to Michigan Design Center, to Michigan Design Center, 1700 Stutz Drive, Suite 25, Troy, MI 48084, by Friday, April 20.

Reservations will be held at the door. For more information, call (248) 649-4772.

Wrey is the daughter of the 15th Earl of Lindsay and was raised in London and Kilconquhar Castle in Scotland. In 1982, she began her curtain and drapery business, designing window treatments in England, France and the United States.

In addition to teaching a variety of courses on making soft furnishings and accessories all over Britain and America, she has become a best-selling author with inspirational styling ideas in books such as The Complete Book of Curtains and Drapes, Designs for Window Treatments, The Complete Curtain Making Course, Secrets for Successful Entertaining and Finishing Touches.

Her books show projects ranging from simple, no-sew accessories to luxurious window treatments illustrated with detailed, step-by-step photography.

Wrey is married to George, Sir Bourchier Wrey and they live in London with their three children.

MDC is at 1700 Stutz, north off Maple between Crooks and Coolidge roads in Troy. MDC showrooms sell to the trade only.

Consumers interested in products from the showrooms may contact Designer On Call by phoning (888) DIAL-MDC Monday through Friday; or visit www.michigandesign.com

CREATIVE LIVING

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

Someone once said that the difference between conventional and panoramic photography is the difference between looking at a city through an office window or from a rooftop.

Panorama cameras replace the normal views of conventional lenses and offer sweeping vistas that go beyond the reality of traditional photography. Viewers are immediately struck by how different panorama photographs are and how much information they contain.

Panorama cameras have been around for many years, some even dating back to the 1800s. Then, as now, they come in many varieties.

Some shoot moderate panoramas while others rotate a complete 360 degrees Fahrenheit. They are available in many price ranges. The most affordable and popular are the disposable Kodak and Fuji models, which are found everywhere cameras are sold.

The price averages about $11 and you get 12 shots with each, the prints being twice the length of a conventional picture. While the camera is disposable, you retain the negatives for any desired reprints.

More sophisticated panorama cameras can cost thousands of dollars and are used mostly by professionals and very serious amateurs. They are available in fixed or rotation models.

When using a panorama camera, place yourself in a "vista" mode and select subjects that lend themselves to panoramic photography. A vast mountain range, a meandering river, a dramatic seascape or a spectacular city skyline all would be exciting subjects.

Always keep the horizons level, and place them low in the viewfinder with a dramatic sky and high in the viewfinder with a plain sky. For scenic shots, place foreground subjects in the composition for added interest.

Don't overlook the possibility of vertical panoramas. The long vertical waterfall or the tall stand of trees could be just the right subjects for upright shots.

So widen your panoramic vision by getting into a panoramic frame of mind.

Monte Nagler is a fine art photographer based in Farmington Hills. You can leave him a message by dialing (734) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then 111, then N-A-G-L-E-R. His fax number is (248) 644-1314.

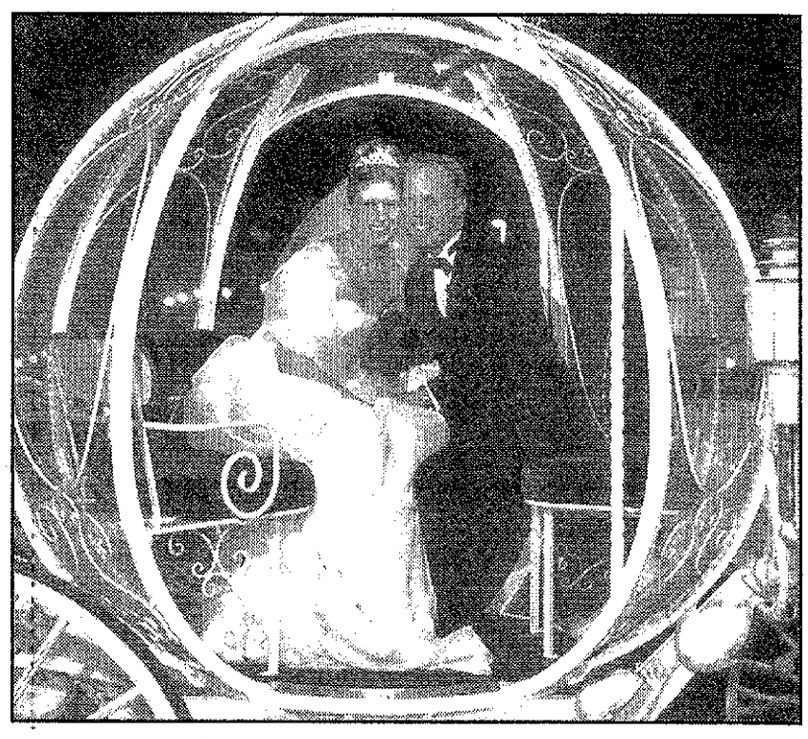
WEDDINGS & ANNIVERSARIES



Adler-Hollingshead

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Adler of Livonia, announce the marriage of their daughter, Amanda Kay, to Heath Allen Hollingshead, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hollingshead of Selma, Alabama.

The wedding took place at Walt Disney World, in Lake Buena Vista, Florida, on Dec. 27, 2000.

The bride, a graduate of Livonia Stevenson High School in 1995 and of Michigan State University in 1999, is a Web and Technology Specialist at Walt Disney World.

Her husband, a graduate of Virginia College, is currently pursuing a second degree in Computer Animation.

Mayle

Gordon and Barbara (Brooks) Mayle of Morgantown, West Virginia, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple lived in Westland, and later Garden City for a total of 42 years. They moved to Brookhaven, a small community in Morgantown, West Virginia 3 years ago.

The Mayles have three children: Cheri Skingley of Bemis, Kent (Carole) Mayle of Fairview, W.V., and Cathy (Jerry) Gohl of Garden City.

The Mayles retired from their jobs 4 years ago. Gordon worked at Semta Transportation and Barbara worked at Garden City Hospital. Both love flowers and gardening. They have two pet dogs, Tiny and Susie. The Mayles are involved in church activities at Living By Faith Church in Brookhaven.

They celebrated the anniversary at Warren Valley Golf Club among 75 friends and family members.

ENGAGEMENTS

Roccos-Zambiasi

William and Cecilia Roccos of Rochester Hills announce the engagement of their daughter, Jennifer Lynn, to Robert Joseph Zambiasi of East Lansing.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of University of Michigan - Ann Arbor and works for the Michigan Senate as a policy advisor on family law issues.

Her fiancé, son of George and (the late) Jacqueline Zambiasi of Plymouth, is a Michigan State University graduate and works for the Michigan Senate as assistant Majority Counsel.

An October wedding is planned at St. Andrews Church in Rochester.

Duda-Belcher

Nicole Christine Duda and Brian Michael Belcher of Livonia wish to announce their engagement.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Robert and Christine Duda of Brighton and is a 1993 graduate of Stevenson High School. She is employed as an administrative assistant at Warner, Cantrell & Padmos Inc. in Farmington Hills.

Her fiancé, the son of Butch and Donna Belcher of Livonia, is a 1991 graduate of Churchill High School. Brian is employed as a senior engineer at Roush Industries in Livonia.

Learn to control, stop panic attacks

Spring is commonly thought of as a time of renewal ... shedding the old and putting on the new. But for people who are filled with fears, their deepest desire would be that they could escape their worries and anxieties for a new spirit of serenity and calm. "If only spring would bring that," they say.

Carol's first attack with fear began suddenly and for no apparent reason. She described the incident as a body eruption, with physical symptoms that included sweating, shaking, nausea, dizziness, tightness of the chest, inability to think clearly, heart palpitations and hysteria.

Avoid triggers

She confessed that it was so scary and intense that she immediately began to worry that it might occur again, which compounded the problem. Psychologically people are so "freaked out" by the attacks, they begin to practice avoidance, which they believe will forestall further episodes.

They avoid more and more situations which might cause them trouble. Carol began to avoid the grocery store, her volunteer job, movies and even parties she was invited to. Her home became her refuge and her husband became the courier to get food and necessities for the family.

For Carol, this happened over the course of months, but it can often happen more slowly or occasionally more quickly. Her husband served as her support person and patiently understood when to step in and usher her out of a situation where she thought she might "lose it."

Though he brought temporary relief to the problem, she always felt like the potential for attacks had a choke-hold on her. It became such a struggle that it got to the point where she couldn't tell whether she was coming down with the flu or on the verge of an attack.

Upon visiting a therapist, she discovered that what she had been experiencing was panic attacks. The therapist explained that her stress level had reached an explosion point and that her body's protective system had seen fit to step in and give her a message that the stress and anxiety in her life were out of control.

The therapist helped her see that the attacks were "learned behavior" and correlated them with the person who uses a cell phone. "Have you ever noticed," she asked, "when a person is on a cell phone, they learn to talk on the phone in a place where there is the least amount of static and break-up, usually by windows? We learn this cell phone behavior early-on so that we can hear the person at the other end. Pretty soon we are standing in a corner where the sound waves will not be obstructed."

The therapist went on to explain that sometimes our learned behaviors are not the most helpful to use and thankfully, everything that is learned can be unlearned. Carol was thrilled to hear this because she was beginning to think that something about her was wrong and that she might be a hopeless neurotic.

People who develop panic disorders often were sensitive babies who reacted to loud noises, bright lights, heat and cold and often medications. Some grew up without the benefit of positive role models in their lives. Separation anxiety may also have played a part in their lives when they were small. They would have been inordinately fearful when their parent left them alone — feeling that they might never return.

'In your Easter bonnet, with all the frills upon it ...'

Designer creates classic Easter bonnets and more

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
STAFF WRITER
scasola@oe.homecomm.net

Walking into M'Lou Millinery feels a little like snooping around your grandmother's attic. That is, of course, if your grandmother lived her life like an Audry Hepburn movie – surrounded by gold guilded mirrors, plush feather boas, antique tables and vintage hat boxes.

The Plymouth boutique, tucked among the shops on Forest Avenue, holds treasures for young and old inside its pale pink painted walls. From hand-woven baby bonnets fit for a proper Easter celebration to dazzling tiaras a bride-to-be would fall in love with and vintage brooches you'd swear came from your mother's jewelry box, the space caters to women of classic taste and infinite curiosity.

Day and Night Caps

The shop's owner, Stephanie Guittard Scigliano of Plymouth, custom makes many of the hats she sells. A native of Bloomfield Hills and graduate of Cranbrook Kingswood High School, she has been sewing since as far back as she can remember.

Surrounded by fabrics and sewing machines all of her life, Scigliano admits, "I've always been a total accessory fiend. I always liked to wear hats."

She began making her own hats after graduating from Washington & Lee University, where she studied painting and sculpting. "My little studio apartment couldn't handle my 4-by-6 foot paintings," she said, laughing.

Scigliano inherited a barrage of books about hats, hat-making and hat history from her great aunt and soon realized she was spending an awful lot of her time on her hobby. Pursuing a career in creating and selling hats and accessories seemed almost natural.

"My grandmother was a really good seamstress and her sister was a costume designer," said Scigliano. In March 2000, she opened M'Lou Millinery and filled it with – as the sign reads – "Treasures that will go to your head."

For customer Sally Bund of Ann Arbor, it's well worth the drive. "I've known Stephanie for many years," said Bund, who stopped at the shop Tuesday for a special hat to wear to an upcoming family wedding. She wouldn't think of trusting the task to anyone else.

"Her mother and I are friends," said Bund, trading one straw hat for another until she found one she likes in the Plymouth store. "I've admired (Stephanie's) work for many years. She's very artistic. She does so many beautiful things. She can work with so many people and meet their needs."

On this particular April afternoon, Scigliano is working with Bund and her friend, Jacqueline Yocum, to create just the right hats for them.

Yocum, a Toledo resident who is currently undergoing chemotherapy at University of Michigan Hospital, came to M'Lou Millinery to choose the style and color for a hat she'll feel comfortable wearing.

"I just can't walk into a store very often and find the style, shape and the color," said Yocum.

Part of Scigliano's mission when she opened the store was to offer beautiful, quality hats that don't "cost an arm and a leg," she said. Some of her clientele are undergoing cancer treatments and searching for a hat they are comfortable with, one that won't call attention to the effects of therapy. She's sensitive to their needs.

"She made my first one," said Yocum, who had just come in to pick it up. "She had to adjust the rim and she did it right on the spot."

A Hat for All Seasons

Hats at M'Lou vary each season. During the winter months, Scigliano makes and carries more wool and cashmere hats. In the summer months she offers a variety of large-brimmed hats, her favorites made of dupioni silk. Sizes and styles cater to babies, children and adult women – and offer warmth, sun protection and style.

Scigliano keeps busy making custom-made orders for her customers and said she's usually working on five to eight hats at all times. She needs at least two weeks to create a hat, but has always been able to meet her customer's needs.

Spring is a busy time of year at M'Lou – Easter bonnets and all. She's also expanded the variety of children's clothes and accessories she carries. Just inside, shoppers will find a baby crib full of hand-made sweaters and tiny outfits.

This spring also marked her first major show, at Henri Bendel in New York City. She sold several pieces and has piqued the interest of buyers and clients on the East Coast.

Mad for Hats

Scigliano is inspired by colors and fabrics when she creates hats. She also looks to fashion magazines, like those stacked neatly around her work area, and classic movies to spark ideas.

Her own favorite hat is a little blue horsehair braided number that dates back to the 1920s. "That whole flapper look, I love," said Scigliano.

From California, with love: Brother celebrates relationship with sisters

BY RENÉE SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITER
rskoglund@oe.homecomm.net

My Uncle Bill, my mother's youngest brother, has lived in California a long time. A widower of four years, he no longer flies in to see his five sisters still living here in Michigan.

That's all right. They don't mind. They know he loves them. He sends them See's Candy (the best!) throughout the year and an occasional note, sometimes accompanied by a check so they can have a treat on him. In turn, they call him a "big spender" and talk about his generosity and the days, decades ago, when he was a sharpshooter in the Marines.

Uncle Bill outdid himself the other night. He demonstrated his long-distance love in a way that made his sisters — Virginia, Margaret, Mary, Jo and Louise — feel like Cinderellas.

On Tuesday, April 3, a white limousine picked up each sister and whisked her away for a night at the Whitney in Detroit. The sisters were to order anything they wanted to eat and drink, Uncle Bill had told them. His credit card number was theirs for the night. The evening was in honor of his wife's birthday.

My mother, Margaret, was dressed hours before the limousine arrived at her Redford Township home. Her cane and wheelchair were ready to be tossed into the limo's trunk, per Uncle Bill's instructions to the driver. She was the last one to be picked up.

"Fix my scarf," she said to me. "I want to show off all its colors."

I fixed it.

"That's not right. Do it like you did the last time I wore it."

The scarf finally "fixed," she resumed her wait. "Jo said she's ordering a fillet. Louise will probably order one, too. I'm going to have Dover sole. That's what your dad and I always ordered," she mused.

The limo pulled into the driveway at 6 p.m. with my four aunts arrayed in their finest. There was my Aunt Virginia in one of her marvelous hats and my Aunt Jo, a size 2, in a stunning peacock blue suit with a short skirt that showed off her legs. Aunt Mary and Aunt Louise, hair newly cut and curled, looked gorgeous, too.

"I could go all night," said Aunt Louise, the designated sister-in-charge. "I hope they can. If anyone complains about their bowels, I'm sending them home in a cab, hijacking the limo and heading to the casino. I have started to wear purple."

Admittedly, I felt a bit jealous. Here was a group of ladies, age 70 to 84, all dolled up and wits sharpened heading to the Whitney. I wanted to go.

"You can't," my mother had told me days before. "This is for the Sand sisters. (My mother always evokes her maiden name when declaring family solidarity. When I was growing up, the pecking order of families in the United States, according to my mother, was the Rockefellers, the Kennedys and the Sands, of which there were 12.)

I called my mother the morning after The Big Night. She didn't get home until after midnight. She said her knees had completely stiffened during the three-hour trek to deliver each sister to her front door — from Utica to Warren to Southfield and finally Redford. That included one emergency restroom stop at a local gas station.

"It was a beautiful evening," my mother said. "They didn't have fillet or Dover sole, so we all ordered lobster tails. Did you know everything is a la carte? We all had asparagus, and Virgie ordered three desserts."

They also shared a bottle of champagne — "It was called 'hyper piper' or something like that," said my mother — and a couple bottles of wine.

However, the highlight of the evening came in the form of a sealed letter given to each of the sisters. The letter was from Uncle Bill. In it, he thanked them for their years of friendship with his wife, Ardys. He asked them to forgive him for any hurts he may have ever caused them. And he asked them to always forgive one another.

He also enclosed a check, a sizable one, so they could treat themselves to something special.

They already were treated to something special. It came from California, with love.

Tile commemorates mothers

Starfish Family Services, an Inkster-based, nonprofit human service organization, is inviting people to replace the traditional Mother's Day gifts of flowers and chocolates with a gift that will truly help mothers in need.

For the second year in a row the agency will host its "Make a Difference on Mother's Day" project. For a donation of $100 — made in honor or memory of an individual's mother or mother figure in their life — Starfish Family Services will issue a limited-edition 4"x4" commemorative ceramic tile. The beautiful tile will be delivered to each special recipient along with a personalized note card from the donor, in time for Mother's Day.

■ For a donation of $100 — made in honor or memory of an individual's mother or mother figure in their life — Starfish Family Services will issue a limited-edition 4"x4" commemorative ceramic tile.

Special tribute

The unique pale green tile was designed for the "Make a Difference on Mother's Day" project by Royal Oak artist Marty Blackwell and is being handcrafted at Motawi Tileworks in Ann Arbor. This is the second in a series of three tiles, only 100 are being commissioned for this special offering.

Proceeds from the "Make a Difference on Mother's Day" project will go to Starfish Family Services programs that help mothers in need including:

■ After Baby Comes - program provides practical and emotional support to first-time mothers and fathers.

■ Even Start West - offers a change for single, low-income mothers to earn their GED and realize their role as their child's first teacher.

■ Safe Stay Crisis Nursery and Family Respite Center - provides respite and crisis support to single mothers, foster mothers, grandmothers and other mothers who need a safe place for their children to stay while they work through a crisis or take a "time out."

"This beautiful tile is a tribute to all mothers, but particularly the mothers we work with at Starfish Family Services," said Ouida G. Cash, chief executive officer. "Many of these mothers are challenged by poverty, illiteracy, domestic violence and other obstacles that hinder their ability to provide a warm, safe and enriching environment. Starfish Family Services' programs help struggling mothers create families that build happy, healthy and memorable childhoods."

What We Need In Life...

For someone to be content, joyful and at peace in this life, they need the following: faith and trust in God, to love and be needed, meaningful work, and something to look forward to. One could argue that this is only the tip of the iceberg, and that there are many other things that should be included if we are to be content with our lives, such as good health, money, etc. There are relatively few people in life with perfect health or a lot of money, but true happiness is indeed a blessing from God. Our awareness and gratitude for all the good things that have been given to us should bring joy and happiness to our hearts, and we should always give thanks to our Heavenly Father for how much He loves us..

May the God of hope fill you with joy and peace in believing, so that by the power of the holy spirit you may abound in hope. R.S.V. Romans 15:13

SC golfers sparkle

The Schoolcraft College golf team competed in three tournaments in a four-day span that started last Friday, and the Ocelots progressed in each one, placing second at both the Tri-State University/Community College Invitational Saturday and at the Henry Ford CC Invitational Monday.

Monday's Henry Ford CC tournament was held at Dearborn Country Club, and 10 community college teams competed. Lansing CC finished first with a 315 stroke count; SC was second with a 318 and Muskegon CC was third at 329.

Low scorer for the Ocelots was Nikos Markellos (from Redford Thurston) with a 77, which earned him a tie for third place overall. Brian Harnos (Garden City) was next best for SC at 79, followed by Richie Romero with an 80 and Derek Lineberry (Plymouth Canton) with an 82.

Saturday's TSU Invitational, played at Zollner Golf Course in Angola, Ind., featured nine teams, with Lansing CC again placing first with a 311. SC tied with Kalamazoo Valley CC for second at 318, followed by the Muskegon CC 'A' team at 319.

Harnos topped the Ocelots with a medalist-tying 74. Mark Doughty (Plymouth Salem) was third overall for SC with a 76, followed by Romero and Markellos, each with 80s.

In their season-opener — the Kalamazoo Valley CC Invitational Friday at the Gull Lake View-Stonehedge North course, the Ocelots finished fifth out of 12 teams with a 319.

Romero tied for third overall with a 73. Next best for SC was Markellos with an 80; Lineberry with an 82; and Tom McCall (Garden City) with an 84.

The Ocelots next travel to the St. Clair County CC Tournament, to be held at Port Huron Country Club Tuesday.

Ambassadors ousted

The Compuware Ambassadors couldn't take advantage of their home-ice advantage in the opening round of the North American Hockey League playoffs, losing two of three games to the Cleveland Jr. Barons at Compuware Arena.

The opening game was the pivotal one, Cleveland winning 5-4 in overtime Friday. Jim Slater got the game-winning goal for the Barons.

On Saturday, the Ambassadors knotted the series at 1-all with a 4-2 victory, with Mike Walsh's power-play goal serving as the game-winner. Ryan Lessnau, Jason Paige and Andy Greene also scored.

But Sunday's game was no contest, with the Barons rolling to a 6-0 triumph. Peter Harrold and Brandon Kalenlecki each scored two goals for Cleveland, while Freeman Falloon stopped 34 shots to get the shutout in goal.

Cleveland plays in the NAHL best-of-three semifinals in Sault Ste. Marie against the Soo Kewadin Casino Indians this weekend.

Strikers/Goalkeepers

Several Detroit Rockers are putting together an advanced striker/goalkeeper camp for players 11-16 years old, aimed at developing both goal-scoring and goal-stopping skills.

The camp will feature the best strikers and best keepers in the region. Among the Rockers who will be present are Maciano Boumann, Matt Knowles and keeper Alan Placek.

The local camp will be from 9:30 a.m.-noon July 16-20 at the Ford Sheldon Plant. The cost, if you register before May 1, is $145; after May 1, it's $165.

For more information, call the Rockers' offices at (248) 366-6254.

Umpires wanted

The Canton Umpires Association is looking for people interested in being baseball umpires with the CCJBSA league.

Weekly hours vary, training and major equipment is provided. Applicants must be at least 14-years-old with some knowledge of baseball.

For more information, call Greg Angel at (734) 981-3007 or Dave Giove at (734) 981-3427, or by email at wdivgreg4@aol.com.

Anyone interested in submitting items to Sports Scene or Sports Roundup may send them to sports editor C.J. Risak, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI, 48150, or may FAX them to (734) 591-7279.

Early goal crushes Canton

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

Soccer? This was more like a chess match.

First of all, Wednesday's game between two of the top teams in the state — Livonia Stevenson and Plymouth Canton — was by no means the final chapter of this story. There's a chance these two teams could meet twice more before this season draws to a close.

So this regular-season game between two of the frontrunners in the Western Lakes Activities Association was perhaps best viewed as a feeling-out process, because if they do meet twice more, it will be for far bigger stakes.

A bit of experimentation would best be done in this early-season meeting, then either stored away for future reference or discarded.

Stevenson's moves worked — at least better than Canton's. And that's why the Spartans grabbed a 1-0 triumph at Canton.

Stevenson improves to 3-1 overall, 2-0 in the WLAA. The Chiefs are 2-1-1 overall, 1-1 in the conference.

The only goal of the game came early, when Stevenson's Lindsay Gusick served the ball in deep to Melissa Dobbyn. She crossed it to Danielle Lewis for the finish, and the Spartans had the only goal they would need just 6:09 into the match.

Stevenson took advantage of a disorganized Canton defense that struggled to find its marks early in the match. Chiefs' coach Don Smith had shifted things around for this game, putting attacking midfielder Amanda Lentz back at sweeper and assigning Janine Guastella, the usual sweeper, to mark Gusick.

"It started out really well for us," said Stevenson coach Jim Kimble. "I thought they had trouble handling our front line.

"We liked the matchup we had on top. We had started with Gusick in the midfield, but when we saw that matchup we moved her closer to goal. It was Lindsay's call — she wanted that."

While the Spartans adjusted quickly and took advantage of Canton's disarray, the Chiefs had trouble getting anything going, particularly with Lentz back on defense.

"They came out after us," said Smith.

Whalers take 3-0 lead over Windsor

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

It was there for the taking.

In a one-minute span of the second period, the Windsor Spitfires had wrestled control of their Ontario Hockey League playoff game away from the host Plymouth Whalers and seemingly assumed command.

The Spits had scored three goals in that time, going from a 1-0 deficit to a 3-1 lead with 7:47 left in the second period. The importance of that lead cannot be minimized; Windsor already trailed two-games-to-none in the best-of-seven series. A win on Whaler ice would mean a victory in tonight's game in Windsor could tie the series.

After Shawn Mather's goal put the Spits up by two goals, Whaler coach Pete DeBoer called timeout.

"I really wasn't (concerned)," DeBoer would say later. "I know that sounds cocky and arrogant, but I knew this team would work its way back into the game.

"I knew we'd get it back."

He didn't know when — or rather, how quickly. But he knew his Whalers, who had overcome a 2-0 Windsor lead in the second game of the series, would manage it, and they did.

Plymouth knotted the score with two power-play goals before the second period was over, then won it on a pretty setup by Stephen Weiss, resulting in a shorthanded, game-winning goal by Chad Wiseman in the third period that gave the Whalers a 4-3 triumph.

And a 3-0 lead in the series. Game Four is at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Windsor Arena.

"We've come from two-goal deficits twice now," said DeBoer. "We had carried the play up to that point. But they got some momentum, and they're a momentum team."

Although the Whalers may have relinquished command for a short time, they refused to give it up for long.

Eagles edge Agape twice; Chiefs rule

Not an easy situation to enter into.

Plymouth Christian Academy's baseball team wasn't just going into a double-header against its city rival last Saturday. The pitchers the Eagles would face were both coming off of no-hitters, hurled the previous weekend.

"They were good pitchers, too," said PCA coach Don Shumaker. Good, yes — but so were the Eagle pitchers, who limited Canton Agape Christian to six runs in the two games in sweeping the twinbill, 4-2 and 5-4 at Griffin Park.

The two wins kept PCA unbeaten at 3-0. Agape fell to 2-3.

In the first game, Shumaker used three pitchers in subduing Agape. Travis Yonkman started and worked three innings, allowing two runs (one earned) on six hits and two walks, striking out four. Mark Erickson took over and tossed three scoreless innings, giving up just two hits while fanning two. Clay Welton worked a scoreless seventh to get the save.

Conlon's pitching keys Canton win

Katie Conlon was near-perfect Monday in leading Plymouth Canton's softball team to its second-straight win, 5-0 over visiting Livonia Franklin.

The win gave the Chiefs a 1-0 mark in the Western Lakes Actitivities Association; they are 2-0 overall. Franklin is 2-1 overall, 0-1 in the WLAA.

Conlon surrendered just one single, in the seventh inning by Jeniee Dannunzio; she did not walk a batter and struck out 11.

Nikki Zabkiewicz took the loss for Franklin, giving up five runs on five hits and two walks, striking out three.

Six infield errors were instrumental in the Patriots' defeat. Canton made one error.

The Chiefs scored three runs on fielder's choices. Megan Coultas also contributed a run-scoring single; she had two hits in the game. Jonelle Brown, who led off the first inning with a double and eventually scored on Pam Hudson's groundout, also had two hits.

John Glenn 6, Salem 5: Westland John Glenn (1-4, 0-1) earned a WLAA-Lakes Division triumph Monday over visiting Plymouth Salem (0-1, 0-1) as Shelly Hein had a two-run single.

Jennifer Lack added two hits and three RBI for the victorious Rockets, while Abby Massey contributed an RBI double.

Kelly Jaskot and Katie Kelly each had two hits for the Rocks. Dawn Allen added a double.

Winning pitcher Ruth Kieltyke gave ups seven hits and five walks in seven innings. She struck out three.

Losing pitcher Kristen Miller went six innings, allowing seven hits and three walks. She struck out five.

Ladywood 2-0, Gabriel Richard 1-2: Livonia Ladywood (1-1 overall) opened its 2001 season Sunday by splitting a double-header with host Riverview Gabriel Richard (5-1).

Base running errors cost Ladywood in the opener.

Losing pitcher Shelly Moros gave up five hits, one walk and struck out seven. Meghan Wilkinson had an RBI single.

In the nightcapt, winning pitcher Pam Smart went the distance in posting a two-hit shutout. She struck out eight and walked only one.

Wilkinson had a triple, double and RBI. Shawn Fallon also had two hits.

GIRLS SOCCER

Salem starts WLAA by edging Northville; Canton clubs Central

In a battle that was even tougher than anticipated, Plymouth Salem freshman Jordan Falcusan scored in the second half and the Rocks' defense did the rest in a 1-0 victory over Western Lakes Activities Association rival Northville Monday at Salem.

The Rocks improved to 2-1 overall, 1-0 in the WLAA.

Melinda Briones set up Falcusan's goal. Jill Dombrowski earned her second shutout of the season in goal for Salem.

"They're a strong team," said Rocks' coach Joe Nora. "They field a really good side. We were just able to put one of our chances in the net and Jill was able to stop all of theirs."

Last Saturday at Salem, Troy Athens — the defending state champs and currently ranked No. 1 in the state — got two first-half goals and kept Salem off the board in posting a 2-0 triumph.

"We had one (goal) called back in the second half," said Nora. "It was a good call (offsides), but I thought it deflated us a bit. We had plenty of chances in the second half. I thought we dominated play."

Canton 6, W.L. Central 0: Plymouth Canton made short work of Walled Lake Central Monday at Central.

"It was a good game to get us ready for Livonia Stevenson on Wednesday," Canton coach Don Smith said.

The Chief held a 4-0 lead at halftime of the WLAA game. Amanda Lentz scored three goals and had two assists while Anne Morrell had two goals and two assists.

Kara Marsh scored Canton's other goal while Allison Mills had one assist.

Brianna Wolcott made three saves in goal for the Chiefs.

Canton 2, Seaholm 2: Plymouth Canton and Birmingham Seaholm fought to a draw in a non-league match Saturday at Seaholm.

The Maples, ranked third in Division II (Canton is third in Division I), and the Chiefs were tied at 1-1 at the half. Amanda Lentz scored Canton's first goal, assisted by Melanie Dunn. Stephanie Johnson got the second, with an assist from Kara Marsh.

Below are the prep girls soccer rankings through 4-9-01, as voted on by members of the Michigan High School Soccer Coaches Association.

TRACK AND FIELD

Rocks wreck Falcons; Chiefs rip Patriots

It wasn't an unqualified success, but Plymouth Salem's 81-47 dual-meet boys track victory Tuesday at Farmington was pretty darn good.

The win evened the Rocks' record at 1-1 overall; they are 1-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division. Farmington is 0-2 overall, 0-1 in the Lakes.

Individual-event double-winners for Salem, which won 11 events, included Mark Snyder in the shot put (51-feet, 3 1/2-inches) and discus (127-10); Rob Showalter in the 110-meter (15.8) and 300-meter (42.7) hurdles; and Donnie Warner in the 800 (2:12.7) and 1,600 (4:49.9).

The Rocks also got wins from David Hoskins in the high jump (5-8); Mike Johnson in the 400 (56.4); and Justin Hajduk in the 3,200 (10:24.7).

Chris Vraniak, Randy Bearden, Jason Poniatowski and Hajduk combined for a first in the 4x800 relay (8:59.1) and Tom Huls, Johnson, Donnie Edwards and Showalter teammed for a win in the 4x400 relay (3:48.7).

"It wasn't bad," said Salem coach Geoff Baker. "(Farmington) had some circumstances work against them. I saw some good things from our young guys."

One of the things that worked agains the Falcons came in the high jump. They could have, and perhaps should have, controlled that event, but none of their jumpers cleared their opening heights.

"That's why I don't want kids passing (on heights) too much," Baker said. Salem finished 1-2-3 in that event.

Also, a fault in Farmington's pole vault pit led the two coaches to postpone that event until Wednesday, when they would compete it at Salem.

Still, the Rocks' lack of sprinters hurt. "Their speed killed us," said Baker. "They swept us in the 100 and went 1-2 in the 200."

Canton stays perfect

BOYS TRACK

Plymouth Canton ran its overall dual-meet record to 2-0 by beating Livonia Franklin 92-45 in a WLAA Western Division meet Tuesday at Canton. The Chiefs are 1-0 in the division; Franklin is 0-1.

Jordan Chapman won three individual events for Canton and narrowly missed capturing a fourth. Chapman was first in the high jump (6-1), the long jump (20-5 1/2) and the pole vault (13-6); he placed second to Franklin's Ron Friend in the 300-meter hurdles (Friend: 42.3; Chapman: 42.7).

Eric Moten and Jerry Gaines added two individual wins each to Canton's total. Moten was first in the shot put (45-7 1/2) and discus (110-11); Gaines triumphed in the 200 (23.9) and 400 (51.2).

The Chiefs also got wins from Corey Walser in the 100 (11.5) and from Dane Kobus in the 110 hurdles (16.1).

Walser, Shardale Hearn, John Szlinis and Gaines were first in the 4x200 relay (1:36.5) and Brian Page, Aaron Schmidt, Tony Mize and Jon Mikosz captured the 4x800 relay (8:48.0).

Canton is now idle until April 21, when it travels to the Dearborn Elks Relays.

Chiefs shine at quad

It was a non-scoring meet, team-wise, but several members of Plymouth Canton's boys track team turned in solid performances Saturday at a quadrangular hosted by Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Also competing were Pinckney and Redford Catholic Central.

The Chiefs had their share of first-place finishes. Eric Moten won the shot put (46-feet, 3 1/2-inches); Brad Waidmann was best in the high jump (5-6); Ken Page was first in the long jump (19-9); Kevin Palmer took top honors in the pole vault (11-8); Jerry Gaines captured the 100-meter dash (11.1); and the foursome of Jordan Chapman, Page, Shardale Hearn and Gaines were winners in the 4x100 relay (45.7).

Other top performances by individuals came from Brian Page, a second in the pole vault (10-6) and a fifth in the 200 (24.1); Dan Driscoll and Jon Chapman, a fourth and a fifth in the pole vault (both 7-0); Dane Kobus, a second in the 110 hurdles (16.1) and a third in the 100 (11.8); Aaron Schmidt, a third in the 400 (56.0); Gaines, a third in the 200 (23.1); Hearn, a fourth in the 100 (11.9); Marty Kane, a fifth in the 1,600 (4:53.4); Justin Bailey, a fifth in the high jump (5-4); and John Szlinis, a fifth in the long jump (17-9).

Relays that were top-three for Canton were the team of Hearn, Szlinis, Ken Page and Gaines, second in the 4x200 relay (1:36.7); the team of Jordan Chapman, Brian Soash, Steve Kilijanczyk and Kobus, third in the shuttle hurdle relay (1:10.4); and the team of Schmidt, Tony Mize, Scott Gillen and Kane, third in the 4x400 relay (3:45.9).

CC dominates St. Mary

Redford Catholic Central won 15 of 16 events and all but six places in the entire meet as the Shamrocks routed Orchard Lake St. Mary on Monday, 113-15.

"I think it was a good gauge for us to see where we are and see where we need to improve," said CC coach Tony Magni. "Overall, we ran really well. We tried to work things around a bit. They wound up with one win, two seconds and three thirds."

Tom Grant led the way with individual wins in the 110 hurdles (15.1), high jump (5-9) and the long jump (20-4), while Brian Jacket took the discus (131-0) and shotput (43-7 1/4).

CC (1-0) also got individual wins from Randell Means in the 100 dash 911.3), Matt Daly in the 1,600 run (4:46.0), Brad Mathis in the 400 dash (54.7), Chris Meagher in the 300 hurdles (44.5), John DiGiovanni in the 800 run (2:10.2) and Dan Krawiec in the 3,200 run (10:10.0).

The Shamrocks also won all four relays – the 3,200 (DiGiovanni, Tim Henderson, Ryan Lowry, Kyle Jekot; 8:39.3), the 800 relay (Dan McMichael, Mean,s Mike Banaszak, Mathis; 1:36.4), the 1,600 (Meagher, henderson, Lowry, Daly; 3:47.8) and the 400 (McMichael, Banaszak, Mike Mach, Means; 47.3).

Canton clips Franklin; Salem rolls

A sweep of the four relays, combined with a pair of double-winners in individual events, carried Plymouth Canton to a 92-45 dual-meet triumph over Livonia Franklin in a Western Lakes Activities Association girls track meet Tuesday at Franklin.

GIRLS TRACK

The Chiefs evened their dual-meet record at 1-1; they are 1-0 in the WLAA's Western Division. Franklin is 0-1 in the division, 0-2 overall.

Meredith Fox and Milyne Matheny each won two individual races for Canton. Fox's victories came in the 100-meter dash (13.3) and 400 (1:02.0); Matheny was first in both the 100 (18.6) and 300 (56.3) hurdles.

Other individual winners for Canton were Sararh DiMeglio in the shot put (28-feet, 10-inches); Kristen Schilk in the long jump (14-7 1/2); Amy Driscoll in the pole vault (9-6); Christina Redd in the 200 (27.5); Sarah McCormack in the 800 (2:45.0); and Shiri Leventhal in the 1,600 (6:05.0).

Thea Bude, Redd, Cindy Rotramel and Schilk combined to win the 4x100 relay (56.1); Terra Kubert, Jessica Levely, Rotramel and Schilk teammed in the 4x200 relay (1:58.0); Pam Reasor, Ashley Boliard, Levely and Fox were winners in the 4x400 relay (4:41.0); and McCormack, Reasor, Leventhal and Levely triumphed in the 4x800 (11:10.0).

The Chiefs are now idle until April 25, when they run at Farmington Harrison.

Salem drills Falcons

Seventeen events. Seventeen first-place finishes.

That's what happened when Plymouth Salem hosted Farmington in a WLAA Lakes Division meet Tuesday, resulting in a 110-27 final score.

Salem is 2-0 overall, 1-0 in the Lakes. Farmington is 0-2 overall, 0-1 in the division.

Double-winners in individual events for Salem were Michelle Bonior, in the shot put (30-feet, 10 1/2-inches) and 100-meter dash (13.2); Autumn Hicks, in the high jump (4-8) and 400 (1:02.9); Jessica Shamberger, in the long jump (16-2) and 200 (27.1); and Stacey Schmedding, in the 100 (17.0) and 300 (51.8) hurdles.

Other individual-event winners for the Rocks were Lori Cairo in the discus (83-3); Jennifer Jedlike in the pole vault (8-6); Lisa Keski-Hynnila in the 1,600 (5:58.2); Jordan Falcusan in the 800 (2:38.2); and Lianne Griffiths in the 3,200 (12:52.9).

Heather Whittington, Jill Grey, Jackie Gauthier and Griffiths combined to win the 4x800 relay (10:54.2); Hicks, Susan Woodard, Melissa Drake and Shamberger teammed in the 4x200 relay (1:52.5); Bonior, Celena Davis, Drake and Shamberger won the 4x100 relay (52.5); and Hicks, Kara Dendrinos, Drake and Falcusan were best in the 4x400 relay (4:29.2).

The Rocks will compete at the Ann Arbor Pioneer "All-Comers" Meet Tuesday. They return to WLAA action April 26 with a dual meet at North Farmington.

Turnabout

Crusaders split with Spring Arbor, sweep Siena Heights

Madonna University salvaged a split of its Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference softball double-header Tuesday at Spring Arbor with a 6-5 victory in the nightcap.

A run-scoring double by Angela Litwin (from Plymouth Canton) in the top of the 10th inning proved to be the game-winning hit.

MU hurler Missy VanDoorn, who worked 8 1/3 innings before getting relief help from Kristie Givens, earned the victory. She is 7-7 on the year.

SOFTBALL

Kristy McDonald (Redford Thurston) led the winners with two hits and four RBI. Litwin, Meghan Quinn, Devon Fletcher and Pam Konwinski each added two hits.

Lea Woldyk led Spring Arbor with three hits, while Shawna Gautreau contributed three RBI.

Spring Arbor (13-18, 7-8 WHAC) won the opener, 5-0, scoring five times in the sixth inning to hand MU starter Jenny Tenyer (4-8) the defeat.

Winning pitcher Amy Frederick (8-9) gave up just three hits and did not walk a batter.

Gautreau had two hits and two RBI for the Cougars.

MU is now 11-21 and 4-8 in the WHAC.

Crusaders sweep Saints

Two lop-sided losses to Aquinas College can be hard to swallow, but Madonna University's softball team rebounded from that setback on Saturday to sweep another WHAC foe in Siena Heights on Sunday.

The scores of Sunday's games, played at Livonia Ladywood, were 11-5 and 2-0. Siena Heights fell to 10-11-1 overall, 6-3 in the WHAC with the defeats.

The Lady Crusaders prevailed in the first game despite committing five errors, which led to four unearned runs. Jenny Tenyer was the winning pitcher, giving up eight hits and three walks, with four strikeouts. Katie Peters took the loss for the Saints, allowing five runs (all unearned) on four hits and three walks in her only inning pitched.

Candace Morgan led Madonna's seven-hit attack with two hits and two runs batted in. Meghan Quinn added a triple and two RBI, and Angela Litwin and Stacie Wilson each had a hit and an RBI.

In Sunday's second game, Missy VanDoorn handcuffed Siena Heights on three hits and one walk, striking out five to earn the shutout. Jamie Rennert took the loss for the Saints, tossing a four-hitter with two strikeouts.

Pam Konwinski accounted for two of the Crusaders' hits (one a double), with one RBI. Quinn also had a single and an RBI.

Saturday's double-header in Grand Rapids was a disappointment for Madonna, with Aquinas beating the Crusaders 5-0 and 11-3. Aquinas improved to 22-8 overall, 6-0 in the WHAC.

Cassi Gragg was the winning pitcher in the first game, blanking Madonna on three hits and a walk. Tenyer took the defeat, giving up five earned runs on nine hits and a walk.

Lindsey Schab and Renee Bolitho each had two hits and an RBI for Aquinas.

The second game wasn't any better for the Crusaders. Aaran Bush contributed three hits and five RBI to the Saints' attack; Renee Bolitho had two hits and two RBI, and both Ronda Bolitho and Lyndsey Szczepanek had two hits and an RBI. Lisa Ringenberg also had two hits.

Quinn and Morgan each had hits and an RBI for the Thunderbirds.

The losing pitcher for Madonna was Kristie Givens, who started and surrendered six earned runs on nine hits and five walks in 3 2/3 innings. VanDoorn relieved but wasn't any better, giving up five earned runs on five hits in two innings.

Hayes gets a twinbill split for Madonna

■COLLEGE BASEBALL

Dale Hayes tossed a four-hitter at Tri-State University Monday to give Madonna University's baseball team a 3-1 victory in the opener of its doubleheader at Madonna Park.

Unfortunately, it was the Thunders' turn in the second game as Jason Meier tossed a four-hitter at the Crusaders in subduing them 13-1.

The split gave Madonna a 5-7 record in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference. Tri-State is 10-13-1 overall, and is also 5-7 in the conference.

Hayes (from Westland John Glenn) walked three and struck out eight, allowing one earned run in seven innings in the opener as he raised his record to 2-3. Greg Kuebrich took the loss.

Mario D'Herin (Livonia/Redford Catholic Central) had three hits in the win, with Nick Dedeluk (Redford Thurston) adding two hits and a run batted in and Mark Cole (Farmington/CC) getting two hits.

In the second game, Tri-State struck for four runs in each of the first three innings. Meier allowed one unearned run in five innings to get the win; Lance Siegwald took the loss for Madonna, giving up eight runs (six earned) in 1 1/3 innings while falling to 1-2.

Scott Hammer had three hits and drove in four runs for the Thunder. Mike Fudeleiner had three hits and three RBI.

Warriors rip Crusaders

Madonna University took a 2-0 lead into the bottom of the fifth inning Tuesday at Wayne State, but the Warriors struck for seven runs in that inning and went on for a 7-3 non-league victory.

Madonna fell to 8-17 overall. WSU is 15-9.

Joe Pruchnik (Lutheran Westland) had two hits, including a double, and drove in two runs to lead the Crusaders' offense. Chris Woodruff also had two hits, and Dave Kwiatkowski had a hit and an RBI.

Aaron Lawson got three hits for WSU and Jeff Biehl slugged a two-run homer.

Nick Dedeluk started and took the loss for Madonna, allowing seven runs (three earned) on eight hits and a walk in 4 2/3 innings. John Turrell got the win for the Warriors, surrendering two runs on two hits and two walks, with nine strikeouts, in 4 1/3 innings.

Madonna sweeps Saints

One day you're up, the next day you're down — or vice versa.

Madonna has had far more downs than ups this season, but on Sunday the Fighting Crusaders used an eight-run fourth inning to overcome a 7-1 deficit and defeat Siena Heights 9-8 in the first game of their double-header, played at Madonna Park.

Another big inning — a 14-run third — carried Madonna to a 17-3 triumph in the nightcap and a sweep of the twinbill.

Siena Heights dropped to 6-18 overall, 3-7 in the WHAC.

In the opening-game win, the Crusaders made the most of their six hits, getting a grand-slam home run from Matt Rigley (Redford Union) in their fourth-inning rally. Greg Young added a double and drove in three runs.

Ryan Andrzejewski (Plymouth Salem) got the pitching win, despite giving up seven runs (four earned) on 10 hits and two walks, with three strikeouts, in four innings. Mike Hayes (RU) got the save with 2/3 of an inning of scoreless, hitless pitching.

The loss went to Tim Pierce, who surrendered eight runs (six earned) on five hits and four walks in 3 1/3 innings.

Madonna broke out offensively in the second game, battering the Saints' pitchers for 18 hits. Roy Rabe (Livonia Stevenson) accounted for three of them, slugging a home run and driving in five runs. Devin Cole (Garden City) went 4-for-4 with a double and two RBI, Mario D'Herin (Livonia/CC) had three hits and three runs scored, and Dave Kwiatkowski (Plymouth Canton) was 3-for-3 with an RBI. Gary Linzell and Chris Woodruff (Livonia/CC) each had a hit and two RBI.

Joel Halliday (RU) was the winning pitcher, giving up three runs (one earned) on five hits and a walk, striking out two in four innings. Adam Stachurski got the loss for the Saints.

six hits and five walks (and one hit batsman), striking out eight.

Agape scored twice in the first inning, but PCA chipped away at the lead with single runs in the second and third to tie it and a two-run rally in the fourth that won it. Jim Morrison had two hits for the Eagles, driving in two runs. Erickson also had two hits.

David Donaldson, Mike Bommarito and Hough each had two hits for the Wolverines.

In the second game, PCA overcame a 4-2 Agape lead with three runs in the seventh inning, the tying and go-ahead runs courtesy of a Welton one-out double. Welton went 4-for-4 in the game with two RBI.

Ryan Johnson started for the Eagles, giving up three runs (two earned) on three hits, with two strikeouts, in 3 1/3 innings. Erickson pitched 1/3 of an inning and gave up a run before Welton came in to quell Agape's uprising (the Wolverines scored four times in the fourth).

Welton allowed three hits and a walk in his 3 1/3 innings, but did not give up a run to earn the pitching win. Josh Anthony started and took the loss for Agape.

Paul Anleitner and Hough each had two hits for Agape.

Canton 5, Franklin 1: Greg Neino ran his record to 2-0, stopping Livonia Franklin on two hits and three walks while striking out 13 in Plymouth Canton's Western Lakes Activities Association opener Monday at Franklin.

Canton improved to 4-1 overall, 1-0 in the WLAA. Franklin is 2-1 overall, 0-1 in the conference.

Losing pitcher Joe Ruggiero worked 6 2/3 innings, allowing six hits and two earned runs. He struck out five and walked one.

Russ Caid led the Chiefs' offense with three hits, including two doubles, two runs scored and an RBI. Jay Sofen and Brent Kwiatkowski each contributed two hits, including a double apiece, and an RBI and Mike Tomasaitis had two hits.

Ruggiero drove in Franklin's only run on a groundout in the sixth.

John Glenn 2, Salem 1: Junior Brandon Ajlouny tossed a five-hitter Monday as Westland John Glenn (3-1 overall, 1-0 in the WLAA) earned a Lakes Division victory over visiting Plymouth Salem (1-2 overall, 0-1 in the WLAA).

Ajlouny, who threw his changeup for strikes and had his curveball working, struck out 10 and walked just two.

Salem pitchers Chris Trott (three innings) and Mike Thackaberry (final four innings) combined to give up just two hits.

Ricky Verville scored both Glenn runs on wild pitches.

Salem's Chris Eicher had three hits, including an RBI single.

Canton 3-4, Novi 2-6: Nick Musselman's two-out, two-run home run in the sixth inning elevated Plymouth Canton past Novi in Saturday's first game, but the Chiefs' defense let down in the second, allowing two unearned runs to cross the plate as Novi won the nightcap.

Novi evened its record at 2-2 with the split.

In the opener, Matt Staley benefitted from Musselman's late heroics. Staley pitched superbly, allowing just two runs on four hits and two walks, striking out four over seven innings.

Other than Musselman's homer, the Chiefs only other hits were a double by Mark Hanson and singles by Oliver Wolcott and Brent Kwiatkowski.

In the second game, Musselman absorbed the pitching defeat. Dave Latin started for Canton and worked the first seven innings, giving up three runs on nine hits and a walk, striking out five. He left with the game tied at 3-3.

Musselman pitched the eighth and ninth innings and allowed three runs (one earned) on one hit and two walks to take the loss.

Russ Caid led the Chiefs' offense with four hits, two runs scored and an RBI. Jon Loos went 3-for-3 with a double, and Joe Kondratek had a hit and an RBI.

Agape 10, Macomb Christian 6: Sophomore right-hander David Donaldson pitched and batted the Wolverines to the win at Griffin Park.

Donaldson worked 6 1/3 innings and gave up all six runs but only one was earned. Junior right-hander Josh Anthony got the last two outs, both strikeouts.

Donaldson walked three and fanned six and gave up just three hits.

At the plate, Donaldson had a pair of singles in four turns at bat, driving in three runs. He stole three bases and walked once.

Sophomore Mike Bommarito went 2-for-4 with a single plus a double, scoring once. Junior Robert Hough had a single and a triple, scoring once.

Marcus Ossana went 1-for-2 and had three RBI. He also stole a base and had a sacrifice. Bobby Konrad singled, drove in two runs, walked and stole two bases.

Agape handed the loss to David Metzler, who worked only one inning. The Wolverines scored six in the third to overcome a 3-0 deficit and square their record at 3-3. Macomb Christian was playing its first game of the season.

CC 6, Fraser 0: Redford Catholic Central coach John Salter picked up career win No. 499 on Tuesday night thanks to a shutout of host Fraser.

"It was our best game of the year so far," said Salter as his team improved to 5-2. "We had some timely hits and it was a nice way to rebound after getting shut out by Brother Rice (on Saturday). Mike Wadowski had a nice job pitching, but he only struck out two batters so we had a lot of balls to handle."

Ryan Rogowski led the hitting attack with two singles and was hit by a pitch, before leaving the gave when he was struck on the cheek with the ball while diving back to second base on a pickoff throw from the catcher. Andy Smith replaced him and wound up with a bases-loaded single to score two runs. Anthony Coratti added a two-run double in the second inning, while Wadowski had an RBI single in the first.

Wadowski (1-0) took the win, walking three and striking out two in six innings, while allowing three hits. Jeff Niemiec came on in the seventh and set the side down in order after Wadowski gave up a leadoff walk.

On Saturday, the Shamrocks split with Brother Rice, rallying for a run in the bottom of the seventh for a 6-5 opening game win, but getting held to just three hits in the second game for a 5-0 loss.

"We hit pretty good in the first game," said Salter. "But we were handcuffed in the second game by Matt Petry. We didn't get a guy to third all game and only had two guys reach second."

Phil Marrone scored the game-winner in the opener as he drew a one-out walk in the seventh, took second on a wild pitch, third on a single by Dave Tovey and scored on a single by Wadowski.

Kyle Crapo, Charlie Haeger and Wadowski all had two hits for the Shamrocks, while Crapo had a double and a run scored, Haeger had two RBI and Wadowski had three RBI. Petry was 2-for-4 with a double, a run scored and an RBI.

Mike Shea took the loss for Rice, while Haeger (2-0) earned the complete-game win for CC with seven hits, four walks, five runs (three earned) and nine strikeouts.

Petry set down CC in the second game, allowing just three hits and a walk with nine strikeouts. Haeger had two of CC's hits, while Wadowski had the other. Niemiec took the loss, with two walks and six strikeouts in six innings.

Harrison 11, Churchill 2: Matt Zatkin raised his pitching record to 2-0 Monday as Farmington Hills Harrison started divisional baseball play with a rout of Livonia Churchill (3-3, 0-1).

The game was played at Churchill due to an inplayable field at Harrison, but Harrison was the home team as originally intended.

Zatkin pitched the first five innings; he scattered four hits, struck out two and walked three. Mike Sacha held the Chargers to one hit over the final two innings.

The Hawks, who had 14 hits, were led Tim Doig (2-for-3) and Drew Stanton (3-or-4). Doig had a home run, a double and four RBI; Stanton had a double and two RBI.

Stanton also made an impressive defensive play at shorstop. With a runner at first and one out in the Churchill seventh, he made a diving catch on a line drive.

Nick Vitanis, Marcus Mencotti and Kevin Zerbo (one RBI) also had two hits apiece for defending champ Harrison (3-0, 1-0).

We are HOCKEYTOWN, home of the Red Wings®.
And this is playoff time. Time to fly the red flags from our cars. Forget the pastels of spring, ignore the blue skies of summer... this is our house, this is our town, and red is our color... wear it with pride. Blue is cold. Yellow is lukewarm. RED IS HOT. Red is the color of blood and we can smell it. So, get your red on and get with the program because around here, playoff hockey is the hottest ticket in town. And there's no better way to show your passion and your support of the boys who wear the winged wheel than by wearing a little red of your own. Wear it to the game, wear it to work, wear it to the local tavern where you and your buddies lose your voices when the red light behind the little goal on t.v. starts to glow.
Just wear it.
'Cause right now this is Playoff Hockeytown. And you, my friend, need to...
GET YOUR RED ON!

The first half of the game had all the makings of a defensive struggle, the only goal a power-play blast from the left point by James Wisniewski (from Canton), assisted by Cole Jarrett and Tomas Kurka, with 11:13 left in the first period.

That 1-0 lead stood up until Windsor found its range in the second period. A defensive lapse by the Whalers led to the Spits first goal; Ahren Nitel took a pass to the right of Plymouth goalie Rob Zepp and skated in unchallenged, knocking the puck past Zepp from right in front of the net to tie it at 1-all with 8:47 left. Steve Hildenbrand and Jason Spezza assisted.

Nineteen seconds later, Spezza — the OHL's second-leading scorer during the regular season — got loose on a breakaway from center ice and made a pretty play to beat Zepp between his pads, giving the Spits a 2-1 lead. Hildenbrand assisted.

With 7:47 left in the period, Mather pounced on a Whalers' giveaway in their own end and drilled it past Zepp, increasing Windsor's lead to 3-1. Craig Kennedy and Timo Helbling assisted. Three shots, three goals.

But instead of building something substantial on that surge, it served only to signify Windsor's end. A tripping penalty put the Spits' Tim Gleason in the box with 7:30 left in the second; 33 seconds later, Jarrett's shot from the point eluded Windsor goalie Mike Leighton and it was a 3-2 game. Wisniewski and Kurka assisted on the power-play goal.

With 5:10 remaining in the period, Windsor's Steve Ott went to the box for tripping, giving Plymouth another power-play opportunity. The Whalers cashed it in (they were 3-of-8 with the extra-man; Windsor was 0-for-6), with Kurka carrying the puck from the right point in close before unleashing a shot that found its target, tying it at 3-all with 4:25 left. Jarrett and Weiss assisted.

The momentum the Spitfires had gained was gone. Weiss made sure of it, ignoring his coach's demands to come off the ice for a shift change while the Whalers were shorthanded with 12 minutes left in the third. Instead Weiss skated in front of a Windsor pass and broke in free on Leighton, the closest skater to him Wiseman.

Instead of challenging the Spitfire goalie, Weiss dropped the puck back to Wiseman, who lifted it into the goal to make it 4-3 with 11:53 remaining. And that was good enough.

"We've taken our game to a different level," said DeBoer. "We didn't play well the last month of the season, and I think some people doubted us. They thought Sarnia would take us."

The Sting couldn't do it. And it looks like Windsor won't, either.

For the first time in this season's playoffs, the Plymouth Whalers found themselves trailing.

After one period Sunday at Windsor, the Spitfires were ahead of Plymouth 2-0.

That lead didn't stand up for long, however. The Whalers struck for four goals in the second period and that was enough to post a 4-2 triumph, giving them a 2-0 lead in the series.

Although Plymouth outshot Windsor 11-4 in the opening period, it was the Spitfires who found the net as both Shawn Mather and Steve Ott put the puck behind Whaler goalie Rob Zepp.

That all changed in the second period. Chad Wiseman scored twice in a 22-second span for Plymouth, one goal unassisted and the other assisted by Tomas Kurka and Stephen Weiss, to knot it at 2-2.

Weiss, who finished with three points in the game, got the go-ahead goal with 4:51 left in the second (assisted by Karl Stewart). Kris Vernarsky added a power-play goal, assisted by James Wisniewski (from Canton) and Weiss, 1:23 later to make it 4-2.

Zepp stopped 24 shots in goal for the Whalers. Mike Leighton had 29 saves for Windsor.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH
TUESDAY, APRIL 24, 2001
INDUSTRIAL FACILITIES EXEMPTION CERTIFICATE FOR METALDYNE CORPORATION

PLEASE TAKE NOTE: That a public hearing will be held on Tuesday, April 24, 2001, during a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Plymouth to consider a request from Metaldyne Corporation for an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate for their manufacturing facility. The request includes new machinery, equipment, furniture and fixtures to be installed within the facility. The facility is located at 47774 Anchor Court, Lot 17, Metro West Technology Park, Plymouth Township, Wayne County, Michigan.

The request is on file in the Township Clerk's Office where it is available for public perusal from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Any Township resident or member of any taxing authority within the Township of Plymouth shall have the right to appear and be heard. Written comments directed to the Clerk and received prior to the meeting will be considered. Following the public hearing the Board of Trustees may consider the request.

The public hearing, commencing at 7:00 p.m., will be held in the Meeting Room at Plymouth Township Hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, Michigan 48170, on Tuesday, April 24, 2001, during the regularly scheduled Board of Trustee meting. Telephone number (734) 354-3224.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON
FY 2001 CDBG ACTION PLAN
30-DAY PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD

Beginning April 9, 2001 and for 30 days thereafter, public comment will be accepted on the FY 2001 Canton Charter Township Action Plan. The Action Plan is part of the Consolidated Plan (mandated in 24 CFR Parts 91, 92, 570, 574, 578 and 968 (August 5, 1994/Proposed Rules), which replaces the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy (CHAS). The Action Plan will be available for public inspection during regular business hours in the Resource Development Division office, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, Michigan 48188. Comments received during the review period will be answered in writing and appended to the Consolidated Plan. The Action Plan must be submitted to the Department of HUD no later than May 15, 2001. The FY 2001 Action Plan and the Consolidated Plan stipulate that the expansion of the Human Services Center is the primary Plan priority. The Plan is otherwise consistent with previous community consolidated plans which state that the housing rehabilitation program is the only direct intervention housing program for Canton Township. Canton Township, when appropriate and after diligent review, will support applications by outside agencies to the Department of HUD for non public housing funds to alleviate the housing/support needs of low and moderate income residents and others who meet relevant federal criteria for housing need. There are no homeless in Canton Township supported by census data and the problem will not develop during the Plan period. Canton Township certifies that it will affirmatively further fair housing and that it is in compliance with a residential anti-displacement and relocation assistance plan as required and provided under Section 104(d) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

On April 10, 2001, the Board of Trustees, at its regularly scheduled public session, will be asked to approve the FY 2001 Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) programming recommendations of the Canton CDBG Advisory Council, adopted at the Council public hearing of March 28, 2001 to wit: First Step, $36,200; Growth Works, $10,500; Wayne County Neighborhood Legal Services, $10,200; Mediation Service, $2,500; Volunteer Coordinator, $6,500; Summit Scholarship Program, $2,500; Michigan Avenue Playground, $3,300 (multi-year); Human Services Center Construction, $275,000; Housing Rehabilitation, $20,000; Program Administration, $81,300; Construction Contingency, $10,000. Total: $458,000.

Questions or comments may be directed to the Resource Development Division at the above address or (734) 394-5194.

Charter Township of Canton Board Proceedings – April 3, 2001

A regular study session of the Charter Township of Canton Board of Trustees held Tuesday, April 3, 2001. Supervisor Yack at 7:00 p.m. called the meeting to order.

Roll Call
Members Present: Bennett, Burdziak, Kirchgatter, LaJoy, McLaughlin, Shefferly, Yack
Members Absent: LaJoy
Staff Present: Director Santomauro, Fire Chief Michael Rorabacher

Item 1 Presentation of Public Safety Monthly Reports
Director Santomauro explained that the Public Safety Department has designed and developed a more comprehensive police and fire monthly reports for review by the Board of Trustees. The monthly reports, originally designed fifteen (15) years ago, with moderate changes occurring during the years. Based on the capabilities of the new software, the department is now able to provide the Board with more detailed and complete information. Each year, a large sum of money is spent on Public Safety and these reports are provided to keep the Board of Trustees updated on all Public Safety activity. The data collected is used internally as a resource for public information, planning and development, as a gauge for bench marking, and for inquiries specifically in the area of police and fire activities. Further, the information contained in the reports is used during the budget process and as a document for strategic planning.

Item 2 Mettetal Airport Presentation/Discussion
Supervisor Yack explained that approximately eight (8) years ago, the owners of Mettetal Airport expressed interest in selling the property. The city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township showed an interest in purchasing the property with the Michigan Bureau of Aeronautics responsible for the local share, using Federal Funds to buy the facility. Canton Township then began discussions regarding this issue with the end result as the State of Michigan purchasing airport. The reasons given at the time were the number of small airports in southeastern Michigan that were closed. The small airports act as reliever airports for the large airports which have conflicts between the large and small aircraft. Fields like Mettetal were important in the transportation system within the State of Michigan.
A contract the State and Canton Township entered into a contract that addressed its operation to some degree, although it was a state owned airport. One section of the contract addressed modifying the runway which would require not only the State's approval, but also Canton Township Board approval. The Board of Trustees was approached by the Mettetal Advisory Board approximately six-seven (6-7) weeks ago regarding a resolution which they passed regarding a runway shift at Mettetal Airport.
Mark Noel, Supervisor of Project Management Group, Bureau of Aeronautics, Pilot, and Professional Engineer explained that the runway shift will make the airport more safe since it currently rests fifty (50) feet from Joy Road. It would bring the airport into compliance with new Federal Aviation Standards. This is not an expansion of the airport as the runway length remains 2,556 feet and will not be extended. This will also not permit larger aircraft to use the airport than those that use it now and will result in a negligible difference in the height of aircraft departing to the south. This will better protect the public using Joy Road as the current traffic count is 25,000 per day. Mettetal is a safe, efficient airport, a good neighbor, with a Fly Neighborly program and traffic patterns adjusted to reduce noise. It is a community asset-multi use where possible with an aviation education center and voting polling place and exciting plans for further community involvement. Mettetal has an obligation to the public, both the aviation users and citizens of the area (especially those that traverse Joy Road) to provide as safe an airport as possible. Last year, the Board of Trustees reviewed the airport track record, and noted over fifty (50) significant improvements made during that time. The Airport Advisory Board has asked the State and Canton Township to consider this safety enhancement. The state endorses the concept and recommends that Canton Township approve the following:
1. Purchase of the necessary property interests to accommodate the runway shift.
2. Shifting the runway to the south, approximately 250 feet.

The following is a list of the interested parties who addressed the board regarding this issue:

Bill Gehman	Daniel Herriman	Rosita Smith	Mike Stankov
Mark Noel	Chester Pietraz	Bill Bryden	Nancy Jenkins
Henry Moore	Bill Dillingham	Bob Zaetta	Mike Varga
Ann Hastings	Winona Hamlet	Helen O'Connell	Herb Williams
Russ Jenkins	George Whitton	David Loveland	Charley Damavoletes
Yvonne Amershek	Peggy Antal	Jim Miller	Vasilios Damavoletes
Greg Pappas
Hong Fang

Adjourn
Motion by Bennett, supported by McLaughlin at 9:50 p.m. to adjourn. Motion carried by all members present.
The above is a synopsis of the study session of the Board of Trustees held Tuesday, April 3, 2001. The full text of the approved minutes (including comments by those present), will be available following the next regular board meeting of April 10, 2001.

"They got to do what they wanted to do, they got an early goal and hung on."

For the game's first 25 minutes, Stevenson was in control. Gradually after that play evened out, with the Chiefs getting the best chances over the last 20 minutes against a defensive-minded Spartan squad.

And yet, Canton was out of sync throughout the match. The Chiefs best scoring chance came with 8:23 to go in the first half, when Anne Morrell took a pass in the Spartan zone and turned past defender Ashley Aja. With no one between Morrell and the Stevenson goal, Aja had no choice but to haul Morrell down, forcing a penalty kick.

But Morrell's attempt was engulfed by Spartan keeper Kathy Koch on a dive to her left, preserving the 1-0 lead. It was one of a half-dozen big-time saves the junior keeper would make in the match.

And would be needed, something her coach is well aware of. "We're very young on defense," said Kimble. "We made a major change there to help us, we moved Dana White from forward back to defense.

"It was good for us. Dana takes charge, she leads everyone back there."

No doubt the win was bigger for Stevenson than a veteran Canton team that's returns nearly everyone from its state finalist of a year ago. The young Spartans had something to prove, and they did just that.

Now the question is how Canton will react to the defeat. Smith said he wouldn't use that defensive set again anytime soon, simply because he wouldn't have to.

"We just tried it out," he said. "But I don't think we have to sacrifice (having Lentz at midfield). I think we can handle it."

The season hasn't started the way the Chiefs envisioned it, to be sure. They tied Birmingham Seaholm Saturday, and now this.

"I thought Saturday was a bit of a wake-up call," Smith said. "But then we didn't have a tough game after it."

They'll have plenty of them from here on out.

ROBERT M. MEISNER

I live in a detached condominium community, and our board of directors is like the Gestapo. Some of the residents are being harassed by a member of the board by having their cars stopped in the roadway or discovering that the board member is out of front of their houses late at night when they return from their jobs.

We are attempting to get a vote to remove this individual or the entire board.

Do we as a group have any recourse with these individuals if they refuse to leave the board after a proper deciding vote?

If a vote is taken that results in one or more board members being removed as provided in the bylaws, they have an obligation to remove themselves from the board. If they refuse to do so, they are in derogation of the condominium bylaws. You would have a good argument in circuit court to seek their removal as well as any other damages suffered by you or, derivatively, by the condominium association, if you bring a derivative lawsuit.

You should be concerned, however, as to whether you are following the proper removal procedure. You may also have an independent cause of action against the directors if you can prove they are harassing the members and are not enforcing the condominium restrictions uniformly and consistently.

Fighting the good fight

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRIT ER
dfunke@oe.homecomm.net

They're the front-line soldiers in an ongoing campaign to enforce fair housing laws and eliminate illegal discrimination in the rental and sale of property.

These scouts serve as anonymous testers, playing specific roles in an effort to check out complaints filed with the Fair Housing Center of Metropolitan Detroit.

"We had a gentleman who was seeking an apartment in one of our communities. He made an appointment by telephone. He was African American. Actually, he was African African. He learned English at an English school and sounded British.

"He said when he got there and rang the bell, the curtain opened, but no one answered.

"I went back there with him. We parked the car discreetly by a Dumpster so he couldn't be seen from the window but he could see. I rang the bell and sure enough, the curtain opened and they showed me the apartment."

– "Dave," 43, white male, Livonia resident and volunteer tester for the Fair Housing Center of Metropolitan Detroit.

(The names of all testers in this story have been changed to protect their identities. All other biographical information is correct.)

Dave said he's been involved in hundreds of tests since he started about 20 years ago. A friend at Wayne State University recruited him.

"Originally, I was temporarily unemployed," he said. "We're paid per test. You don't get rich. You get $25 per rental test and somewhat less (25 cents per mile) than the IRS mileage rate.

"I wasn't brimming with social justice," Dave said. "Why I continued? Cliff (Schrupp), Marv (Thomas) and Mike (Olshan – FHC staffers) have been at it since the beginning. I see them as fighting the good fight, so I support people who support the cause.

"After 20 years, I'm convinced discrimination exists and we still have to do this," Dave added.

Most tests with rental properties are set up to determine whether an apartment is available and what it takes to move in, Dave said.

"Sometimes I'm married, sometimes not. Sometimes I have kids, sometimes I don't. My income fluctuates," he said of his testing identities.

Actually, Dave works as a student adviser and is married with no children.

"I went on this test. The guy was really nice. He invited me in for Kool-Aid and cookies. He told me about all the plants around the trailer. He told me nothing was available. He was so nice, I figured he couldn't possibly have anything.

"Cliff Schrupp was doing that test with me. He went in five minutes later and told me he was 'sold' four or five different sites. Cliff is white."

– "Charles," 53, black male, Detroit resident and FHC tester.

A cousin got Charles involved as a tester 14 years ago. He's also a veteran, having participated in hundreds of tests.

"I stay involved for monetary reasons and just to see how phony people can be. It's amazing how you can go to places like this and people deny you," Charles said.

"I enjoy going into different apartments and apartment complexes. It makes me aware of what's going on, what's out there," he added.

Charles approaches the task matter-of-factly.

"We're given a role to play. We get very little background. You have to remember things. I just do the test, turn it in and that's it."

Charles is a computer consultant for the state and the divorced father of three daughters.

"I was asked to appear in court, I don't remember all the details. The Fair Housing Center won a lawsuit partly based on testing I did and testing others did.

"The Fair Housing Center was just very happy and satisfied. It made me feel so gratified that a few words and a conversation can lead to something so significant."

– "Anne," 37, white female, Berkley resident and FHC tester.

Anne, a social worker, also was recruited by a friend as a tester while a graduate student in college. Altruism did and continues to lay a big part in her decision to participate.

"I was interested in hunger and homelessness. I always believed racism and discrimination were wrong. It's a very bottom-line thing.

"It's easy to see this is still happening and it's unbelievable. You realize you're being part of something very important."

Anne said she gets still gets wound up before a test even after doing a couple hundred over a 10-year period.

"You have to think very quickly on your feet. It's very intimidating for me. You have to remember information, numbers. You have to be someone else."

"I'm truly not looking to find someone who's discriminating. I'm looking for an apartment," Anne said.

But she sees and hears.

"Red flags come up. Probably some people don't know the laws. But I assume some people who did know would do some things on the sly."

Anne is single with no children.

The Fair Housing Center always needs volunteers.

"We need testers of all different sizes, colors and shapes," said Marvin Thomas, testing and investigations coordinator. "We need folks comfortable being an actor.

"We tell them testers don't find discrimination. They need to be accurate observers. They need to do complete and accurate records."

Thomas can be reached at (313) 963-1274. Training is provided on an ongoing basis.

You can encourage fair housing

April is Fair Housing Month nationally in the real estate industry. The concept, apparently, still merits monitoring.

Nearly 150 complaints were filed with the Fair Housing Center of Metropolitan Detroit from Oct. 1, 1999m through Sept. 30, 2000, said Clifford Schrupp, its executive director.

The great majority, 107, involved rental properties. Avout half, 75, alleged racial discrimination.

While actual outcomes result over time, Schrupp offered a general assessment.

Ten percent of the complaints get filed as lawsuits. Ninety percent of those are settled in favor of the complainant before trial. The complainant wins two-thirds of the cases that go to trial.

"Another 20 percent or so, we gather some supporting evidence and they get resolved," Schrupp said. "We or the complainant work out some sort of resolution short of someone admitting discrimination.

"Seventy percent of the time we're not getting supporting evidence or not enough evidence to prevail in court or we don't get around to it due to lack of resources," Schrupp said.

Here are ways people can enlist in the cause of promoting fair housing for all:

■ "Challenge ideas and negative comments based on race, national origin or the disabled person group home that might be in the neighborhood. Don't be part of a message of division often circulated over the back fence, on the street, in bars or churches." – Schrupp.

■ "When they hear people say or do things that are discriminatory, bring it to their attention. It doesn't have to be aggressive. Say, 'It isn't cool' or 'We don't do that any more.' " – Emily C. Hall, lawyer and chairwoman, FHC board of directors.

■ "Follow the law. If they don't know the law, there's information available from numerous sources including us. A person not a housing provider, if they see a violation – harassment, vandalism – report it immediately to us (313-963-1274.)" – Michael Olshan, legal services coordinator, FHC.

Don't look too hard for a loan

MORTGAGE BITS

TIM 'TIMBO' PHILLIPS

Be careful next time you ask a dozen lenders to compete for your mortgage business as your credit scores may take a direct hit. Because your credit scores play such a vital role in your mortgage search, shopping hard is not good enough anymore. You must shop smart.

An important element used in determining your credit score is how many times potential lenders have "inquired" as to your creditworthiness. Too many credit inquiries may be an early sign of financial difficulties. When people reach their credit limits, they often reach out for more.

For cars and homes, credit scorers do not count credit inquiries completed in the past 30 days. They treat the ones completed within any 14-day window as a single inquiry. Thus, you can shop with due diligence for your new loan, just do it all in a two-week period. Though all inquiries must appear on your credit report, some will be scored as a group, not individually.

You can limit the number of inquiries posted to your credit report by limiting the breadth of your shopping. You will probably find your best mortgage deal by getting quotes from three or four sources. If you go for the baker's dozen, you will likely find that tripling your search will not yield triple the results.

Internet users beware that when you allow lenders to compete for your business online, you may unwittingly be authorizing a group of them to query your credit. In some instances, online mortgage companies simply pass along your personal information (and your authorization to check your credit) to competing lenders in your area resulting in multiple queries. Read the fine print if you shop online.

Many savvy mortgage shoppers elicit the help of mortgage brokers to do their shopping for them. Mortgage brokers usually have loan origination agreements with multiple lenders. Your mortgage broker pulls your credit report once, then goes shopping for you. You can make sure your broker's loan pricing and terms are competitive by having two of them compete, or by simply keeping apprised of current loan products and rates.

Tim "Timbo" Phillips is a mortgage loan officer in Plymouth. You may contact him at PhillipsHQ@ yahoo. com, or at (734) 797-5522 [24 hours]. Homebuyers should always consult a professional for guidance specific to their situation.

Ralph Manuel West joins REO family

Real Estate One, a family-owned company headquartered in Farmington Hills, has acquired Ralph Manuel West in that same city.

"We've been operating as sister offices for a number of years," said Dan Elsea, president of brokerage services for Real Estate One.

"By bringing the two together, we could extend the many Real Estate One services, providing the best in customer and client care while continuing to build the Ralph Manuel name," Elsea added.

Dennis Dickstein, who owned Ralph Manuel West and at one time Ralph Manuel Associates in Birmingham, joins Real Estate One as a vice president.

Real Estate One acquired Ralph Manuel Associates – and retained that name – in 1994.

The Ralph Manuel West office also will continue to keep its name. Established in 1964, it has grown to 45 agents with more than $130 million in annual sales.

The Real Estate One family now will consist of 34 company-owned Real Estate One offices in Michigan, including Livonia, Commerce, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Hills, Southfield, Westland, Birmingham, Plymouth, Troy, Clarkston and Rochester.

The company also includes Johnstone and Johnstone, Berridge and Morrison, Ralph Manuel Associates and now Ralph Manuel West.
