Accused INS officer waives exam

MA Canton man will be arraigned in circuit court on child pornography charges. Police say the defendant was involved in a Texas-based Internet pornography ring.

BY CAROL MARSHALL STAFF WRITER cmarshall@oe.homecomm.net

A high-ranking Immigration and Naturalization Services officer from Metro Airport will be arraigned in Wayne County Circuit Court on charges stemming from his alleged involvement in a nationwide child pornography ring.

Canton resident Bryce Michael Hall, 51, attempted to hide his face from cameras during his preliminary examination Monday. The exam at the 35th District Court followed charges of distributing and possessing child sexually abusive material.

He is being held at the Wayne County Jail on a $1 million cash bond.

"He had a passport and access to flight," said Canton Police Sgt. Charles Raycraft of Hall's high bond. "But the charges have absolutely nothing to do with his job."

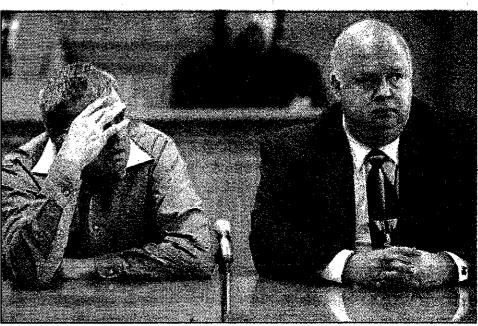

Raycraft said the investigation has turned up some of the most shocking evidence he has encountered.

"He had a lot of e-mailed photos showing young boys and girls engaged in sex with each other, sex with adults and in various stages of nudity," said Raycraft. Many of the children in the photos were 5-, 6-, and 7-year-olds.

Raycraft said while Hall has an extensive assembly of photography and video equipment, police have no way of knowing whether he took the photos or not, or whether any of the children photographed were local.

Hall was arrested after a four-month investigation by the Canton Police Department, which included a search warrant executed at the suspect's

One of the two workers injured in a 25-foot fall at the Plymouth High School construction site died from his injuries Monday.

Jeff Copeland, 35, from Sterling Heights, was critically injured when he fell while working on the roof of the new building, which is being constructed at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park, at Canton Center and Joy roads. Reports indicate he was also hit by a piece of structural steel as he lay on the ground.

A second worker, Paul Webb, 24, of Jackson, was released Sunday from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. He suffered a fractured wrist, as well as facial and hand lacerations, in the mishap.

The incident occurred last Thursday afternoon when a bundle of steel was being placed on the unfinished roof.

also have therapeutic qualities. They contribute to a sense of relaxation and security and help make a home a sanctuary from daily stress. In this respect, a bouquet of flowers boosts morale. Flowers are mood elevators in that they have been found to change the mood of a room. For example, according to one study, sitting in the presence of yellow chrysanthemums made people more talkative. When making your color selection, begin with your primary room color and coordinate it with tone-on-tone arrangements. If you are interested in something with a bit more punch, work with sharply contrasting colors. And, don't forget the containers, which serve as "supporting actors" to flower arrangements.

Discovery students learn about Holocaust

BY PAUL HURSCHMANN STAFF WRITER phurschmann@oe.homecomm.net

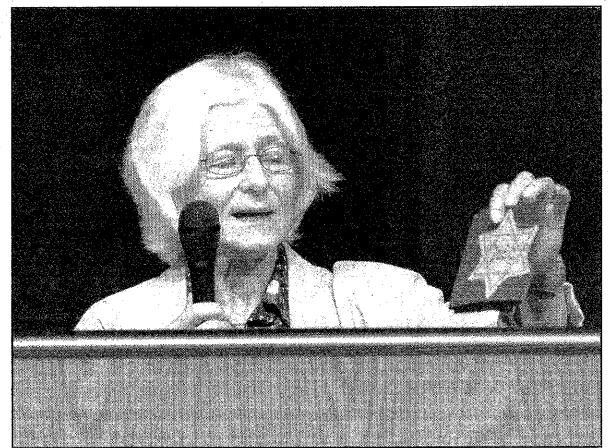

For most children today, Anne Frank is a symbol of the horrors of World War II. Yet she remains a fictional representation to most of the young people who are required to read her Diary of Anne Frank as part of their curriculum.

For Irene Butter, Anne Frank remains a vivid memory and a vision of a real person who was suffering much the same way she was as a child in the concentration camps of Germany during World War II.

Butter of Ann Arbor spent part of her afternoon Thursday recounting her experiences as a Jew during the Nazi regime for the eighth-grade students at Discovery Middle School in

After being captured by the Germans in Amsterdam where they resided, her family wound up in the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp back in her native Germany. There, Butter befriended Hanneli Goslar, the same girl who was Anne Frank's friend and is often mentioned in her diary. Butter related a memory of meeting Anne Frank through a segregation fence within the camp and attempting to help her by giving her some clothing.

'When we greeted Anne through the fence," Butter recalled, "she had no clothing, only a blanket wrapped around her." That was the only encounter she had with the famous diarist, but one that lives on in her memory and

Murder-suicide rocks area trucking firm

BY KURT KUBAN STAFF WRITER kkuban@oe.homecomm.net

In the early morning hours Tuesday, Sandy Robinson made a frantic call to a Plymouth Township 911 operator from her office at Penske Trucking and Leasing. She told the operator that her former husband, whom she desperately feared, was there with a gun.

Moments later the operator heard two gunshots. And then there was silence.

Detroit resident John McGhee, 30. used a .380 caliber handgun to shoot Robinson before turning it on himself.

Plymouth Township police officers were immediately dispatched to the location at the corner of Eckles and Schoolcraft. but it was too late.

Both the man and his wife were dead, each shot once in the head.

The incident, which occurred about 5:30 a.m., was the final act of a turbulent relationship between the two. According to Officer Jamie Senkbeil of the Plymouth Township Police Department, McGhee refused to let go after their brief marriage had ended recently.

Robinson, a 34-year-old Taylor resident and mother of two, had two personal protection orders issued against McGhee, including one for stalking, according to police.

McGhee rented a room Monday night at the Motel 6 on Ford Road near I-275 in Canton Township. When police searched the room Tuesday, they found a letter he penned entitled "Last Words Note," in which he scribbled a few words to family members, apologizing for being a bur-

Hal Helterhoff, Penske's vice president of corporate security. said even if there had been security, McGhee probably would've gotten in because he was an employee at another Penske facility in Dearborn and was once a driver at the Plymouth

"These are the tragedies you think about all the time, and then it happens and you feel so bad about it. We just feel so bad, and our sympathies go out to all the family members," he said.

According to Helterhoff, Robinson was very well liked by her co-workers, and was in "very good spirits" when she started her shift at 5 a.m. Tuesday. He said the company will bring in a grief counselor to speak with any of Penske's 20 employees.

Helterhoff said the incident wouldn't necessarily make the company add security.

"We will look into all aspects of our operations, from top to bottom. But we live in a free society. You don't want too many badges or barricades to get in the way. But we will definitely take a look at what can be done,' he said.

Lt. Robert Smith said the police department is still investigating the incident.

"There are a number of things we are still trying to determine, including ownership of the gun. At this point, we don't believe it was issued to him (McGhee)," he said Tuesday.

Bonkowski and his younger brother had an argument Sunday evening, according to Van Buren Police Officer Kenneth Floro. Bonkowski left the house on foot shortly after 11 p.m. to cool off, he said.

"It was typical boy stuff. They had a little spat, and he left to blow off steam," Floro said.

Police believe after investigation Bonkowski was struck by the car shortly after he left the house.

The driver, who turned herself in to police after seeing stories on television about the crash, will likely be charged by the end of the week.

2001 SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE BOARD CANDIDATES

Three six-year terms will be filled in the Monday, June 11 Schoolcraft board election.

Employment: Computer systems architect, DPM Consulting Services Inc., Troy Family status: Wife, Laura; children, Thomas, 6, Education: master of science degree in computer information science, University of Detroit Mercy and Monterey Technologic, Mexico, 1994; currently working toward master of science degree in pubic administration at Western Michigan University.

This is the 100th anniversary of community colleges. At one time, Schoolcraft was known as "Haggerty High." How would you define the community college for the 21st century?

Community colleges should: provide an educational experience enabling students to transfer to other institutions of higher education: provide occupation and technical learning opportunities to improve student employability; offer development training and learning opportunities for the business and industrial community services including cultural. social and enrichment opportunities for lifelong learning.

Public school districts are feeling the financial pinch, what with the Impact of Proposal A and the state's under-funding of special education. Are you concerned there could be a spillever effect on Schoolcraft?

I'm not concerned that the effects of Proposal A will slow down getting additional funding, But, I am concerned that we as taxpayers are not making sure that the K-12 schools and colleges in Michigan that receive tax dollars are not demanding that each dollar spent is being used wisely and efficiently.

While on the subject of money, are there any facility or technology upgrades needed, and, if so, how should they be paid for?

I feel after reviewing both campuses that the library is the facility that needs the most upgrades and renovations done. We should be providing a world class learning environment and it starts with the library. I would first look at funding improvements through business partners, grants, our Congressman for special education funding and then the general budget.

responsible. In some years there are more than a thousand costly school elections across Michigan. Consolidation will save schools money and allow them to spend more time and resources on children. By requiring that school governance and finance issues appear on the general election ballot, Michigan will create a more accountable school system that better reflects the desires of Michigan citizens.

What is your opinion about the possibility of consolidat-

I am running for trustee of Schoolcraft College because I have the experience to do the job; a pro-active vision for the office based on conservative principles, with both a teaching and management background, as well as a well-structured education. I understand the dynamic of the board and each member and I feel I will offer a fresh perspective.

Why did you decide to run

Our mission has expanded. Community colleges began as transfer institutions. Career programs were added followed by Continuing Education and Business Development Training. Our enroilments soared as we attracted students of all ages. I see the 21st century as a continuance of the above with the addition of television and Internet courses. Teachers will be involved in direct learning rather than a principal source of information.

I believe the public schools in our specif ic Schoolcraft district are doing a good lob because of committed staff members, administrators, parents and school boards. Funding for K-12 is a concern of all of ours, however, we at Schoolcraft will teach all of the students who graduate from a K-12 district who come to us. We will tutor when necessary and give them whatever academic support they need to be successful.

Considering the length of some ballots, I believe the most optimum change should be the use of the absentee ballot for all of the electorate. In a recent election in Plymouth Township for a millage renewal, 2,000 absentee ballots were sent out, approximately 1,750 were returned. Each of the township's 17 precincts have nearly 1,600 voters registered, yet the highest voter turnout in one precinct was 44 voters.

Community colleges are really about opportunity. Community colleges must continue to be the vehicle that help individuals realize and develop their potential and increase their ability to think critically and creatively. Because of its outstanding administration, faculty and staff, Schoolcraft continues to be responsive to multiple community interests, including students, businesses, the K-12 system and seniors and is deserving of increased funding The role of community colleges should always be to provide high quality, convenient and affordable education to all who desire its benefits. As business and technology changes, so must the curriculums. Community colleges in the 21st century must work together with business to predict areas of employment

As a trustee, that concern will always be paramount. Schoolcraft must aggressively defend its current levels of finances while seeking alternative sources of funding through government and private benefactors

With a new technology center being built, Schoolcraft needs to redefine itself. Schoolcraft, with the proper curriculum, funding and associations, can become as associated to technology as it is now associated to culinary arts. Technology business leaders need to be brought to the table with the administration to develop curriculums to provide these industries with well-trained and certified employees.

Fiscal responsibility is a "hallmark" of the residents of western Wayne County. As a trustee I would seek to save money for Schoolcraft College and all of the dis trict's municipalities and schools. I believe that overall a savings may exist for school elections to be added to municipal elections. A study and a model would need to be researched before a final decision would be made. Many school elections take place across

The men were employed by McGuire Steel Erection Inc. in Green Oak Township. Owner Dan McGuire has been unavailable for comment.

Meanwhile, the Consumer and Industry Services Agency, a division of the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Administration, continues its investigation, which is expected to take several months.

"We will complete our investigation and discuss the findings with the employer and any union representatives," said Maura Campbell, spokeswoman for the agency. "We'll then take a look at the history of the company and determine any penalties or citations. The company will have a chance to appeal any decision."

According to Campbell, McGuire Steel had 13 citations issued against it for serious safety violations during the past six

Ken Jacobs, the executive director of support services for Plymouth-Canton Schools, said MIOSHA investigators "made two suggestions and we've accomplished both of them, including an assessment of the structural integrity of the affected area. The site was turned back over to us Monday."

McCarthy said it's his company's policy to hold weekly safety meetings at the site for the staff of McS/EV, as well as the foremen of the sub-contractors involved in the project.

"Each Tuesday we go over specific safety plans to keep people focused," said McCarthy. "We invite the foremen and hope they share the information with employees during their own safety meetings. This is a graphic example of why safety is so paramount."

McCarthy noted other areas of the high school construction project were not affected.

"I'm not a big believer in that but certainly enough folks are,' he said.

Kelley explained safety should not be a deciding factor, as the towers are designed to collapse on themselves if they should fall over, and recent FCC studies have proven the towers do not emit dangerous levels of radiation.

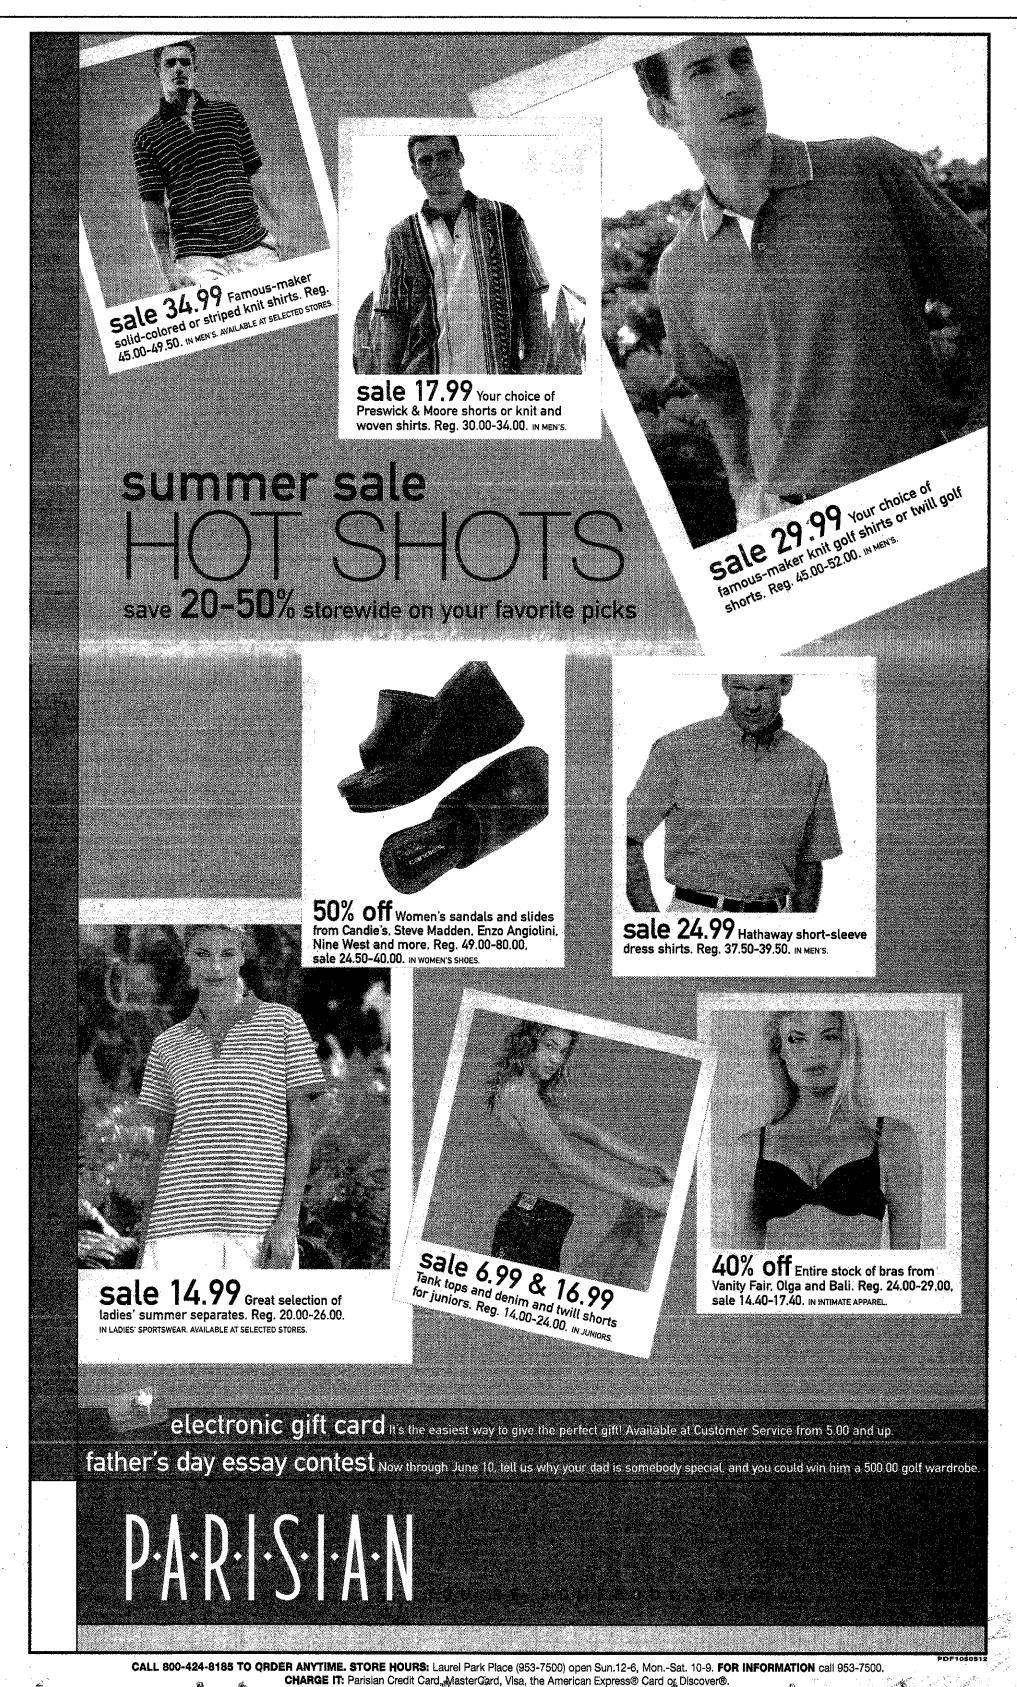

"Aesthetics is tough," Kelley said. "Once you get above the tree line a tower is a tower."

Kelley stated the towers are appropriate in residential areas because they are used by residents the same way people use home telephones.

Commission chair Gustafson disagreed.

"Cell towers are an inappropriate use in a residential area. Period," he said.

The planning commission unanimously denied the request.

But every bit as important as their academic skills is the other lessons they've learned, said Brown.

"Building a school on some principles and values in addition to having great academic education is something of value to us,' she said.

The school was the first built by the dioin 35 cese years, Brown said. It's unique in that it belongs to no parish, though students must be members of one of the three Canton parishes - Resurrection, Saint Thomas A' Becket and Saint John Neumann - or Saint Kenneth in Plymouth. The parents pay on top of tuition a onetime fee to help fund the building's construction.

"The parishes are certainly supportive, but they are not obligated to give us any amount of dollars," Brown said, adding the churches each agreed to pay the diocese for part of the school during the first five years.

A challenge every bit as great as constructing the building has been forming an identity, a process that continues to evolve.

"Everybody except

One part of the school's identity that's already emerged is a strong force of parents who volunteer their time and expertise.

"We have about 100 parents who regularly volunteer their time and are very active in the school," Brown said.

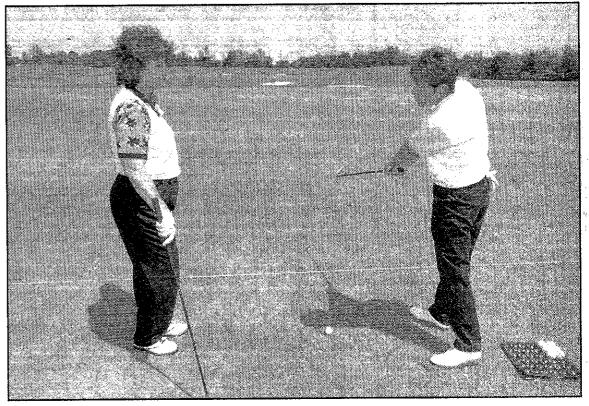

Brown explained the parents have been instrumental in the school's good start on its library, having already gathered more than 5,000 books. They've also organized pretty good volleyball, baseball, soccer and cheerleading teams.

Brown said they help partly for fun, partly for duty and partly because of tradition.

"Catholic schools have always been such a tradition in the church that people want that for their own children," she said.

The first round of graduates will continue their education at nearby Catholic high schools. All eight of them took their entrance exams in November and heard from the schools in January.

According to Van Buren Superintendent Larry Tabor, the first phase of the project, to begin Wednesday, consists of removing asbestos from the site at 3110 Grove Road in Ypsilanti. Once that is finished, workers will demolish the school, which is more than 50 years old.

"The project will consist of a couple of phases, but the demolition should be completed some-time in July," Tabor said. The building will be replaced by a new school, which the district is in the process of constructing on the same property.

The new building is nearly completed and will be ready when students return in late August.

With a price tag of $5.6 million, Tabor called it a "state-ofthe-art modern facility," which will have many benefits over the old building. First of all, it is larger and can accommodate more students. Currently, there are approximately 450 students enrolled at Rawsonville.

In addition to having art and music facilities, the new school will also have a gymnasium for athletic activities. At the old school, gym classes were held in the cafeteria.

The building also features Internet and cable television access in every classroom, which Tabor believes are important teaching tools.

Tabor said everyone is looking forward to getting into the new facility.

"I think everyone will be happy with this new building. Enthralled even. It has been a community effort right from the beginning. Community members helped with the design and have been involved with every step since," he said.

Voter participation in forum was pathetic

.0001643.

That's the percentage of the 73,000 voters registered in the Plymouth-Canton school district who bothered to show up at a candidates' forum last week at Plymouth City Hall.

All four candidates showed up for the forum, which was sponsored by the Observer Newspapers and the League of Women Voters. Here was a chance for voters to ask any question they wanted of the people who want to be elected to help shape the future of our community's children.

And 12 people showed up.

We'll grant that moving the forum from the Plymouth District Library to City Hall may have affected attendance. The library is more easily accessible to the public, but it's not like City Hall is in the boonies. It's a big building right next door to the library, and it has doors and everything.

And we grant that some people watched the forum on cable television, since Comcast taped it and aired it this week. But was it enough to make a difference?

History suggests not.

- In June 1998, 2,705 ballots were cast, but 720 of those were absentee votes, meaning only 2,685 actual voters bothered to attend the polls, which are generally open 13 hours for voters' convenience.
- In June 1999, a banner year around here for school board election attendance, a total of 3,812 ballots (997 of them absentee) were cast.
- 🖀 Last June. 2,030 voters actually stepped into the precincts, while another 876 cast absentee ballots, for a grand total of 2,906 votes.

Why don't people care?

It can't be a lack of information. These elections are an annual rite. Voters are bombarded with information ranging from individual mailings to the kinds of forums conducted last week. The school district peppers voters with information about precincts and schedules, both in their newsletter (mailed to every home in the district) and in newspaper adver-

■ For Stirsman

As principal of Gallimore School, I would like to endorse Sheila Stirsman for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools board.

Sheila has been the publicity chairman for our school. She is highly organized and a pleasure to work with. She is creative and always willing to explore issues to seek solutions. She is extremely hard working and devotes hours to being sure what she does, she does with professionalism.

I believe she would bring a fresh viewpoint to the Board of Education and work toward continuing the tradition of high standards in our district. Don't forget to vote June 11.

Codes 1710 and 1720 have taken into account departments that run undermanned two firefighters per engine. The proposed code reads that engine companies staffed with less than four cannot start an interior attack until a total of four firefighters are on scene. So in other words National Fire Protection Association is not saying that you have to up your station manning. It says that you should not start an interior attack until you have the manpower on scene. This is for safety reasons.

I know that change is difficult, especially when it is being forced on us. But no mater what change is going to happen with or without us, we should work with it and make it better for us.

Comments misleading

Lately it seems everyone has something to say about the proposed fire codes 1710 and 1720 ("Fire chiefs say new standards are unrealistic," Canton Observer, May 27).

This is good, but I find a lot of the comments disturbing.

It is true that some states will force departments to comply with the codes. But the majority of this country's departments are not held to this.

Without codes like 1710, where would we be? Still wearing rubber coats, not because the products are not on the market but because of money. We are able to use the codes and other standards to force the hand of big government to provide us with the means (money). How would you get that fire department budget passed if it were not for established standards? Why

Move unconstitutional

The referendum to throw out the law that reforms concealed firearms licensing procedures is a sham. Both Attorney General Jennifer Granholm and Wayne County Prosecutor Mike Duggan, who were parties to its preparation, surely knew that the Michigan Constitution forbids referenda negating statutes that contain appropriations.

The anti-self-protection (ASP) people knowingly violated the Constitution with a referendum, which would have immediate effect, instead of a constitutionally mandated initiative. An initiative could not take effect until a November 2002 vote, and the ASPs feared that the 16 months of experience with a fair, state-wide law allowing people to protect themselves would demonstrate that their dire predictions of disaster were without founda-

So the issue is in the hands of the Michigan Supreme Court, which will hear the facts on June 13. If they find for the plaintiffs, who seek to have the ASP referendum thrown out because it so clearly violates the Constitution. then we shall see whether the big money from out of state will be willing to risk another $400,000 to buy the signatures for an initiative. With the recent failures of big money to support nation-wide ASP organizations, it is quite likely that the Granholm-Duggan group with its cute little name, lacking any grass-roots support, will decide to fold its tent and quietly sink into oblivion.

"You forget (the buildings) used to be very productive citizens of the community," Clarkson said May 19 to the AAUW at the Clawson Steak House. She noted homeowners get a credit on their Michigan income tax for restoration costs. The 50-year mark is the standard for historic designation. Clarkson, a Highland Park resident, urges those interested suburbanites to work with local historical societies to save structures for the future. "First, realize what you have." Libraries are helpful, too, she said, and the National Trust for Historic Preservation (www.nthp.org) is a good source, along with the statewide group, the Michigan Historic Preservation Network. The latter, based in Clarkston, is "helpful but understaffed."

Detroit's building boom of the teens and 1920s left some structures that were outdated but could be renovated, such as livery stables.

Clarkson advocates "mixed use" of former factories where manufacturing has left transforming into loft living. Such endeavors have their place in the suburbs, too, where interest in historic structures is strong. A number of suburban schools have buried time capsules, and it's both fun

Land use is a complex topic, not easy to cover in a newspaper editorial, but as we celebrate Detroit's 300th anniversary, we should remember the historic value of many of our community buildings. It shouldn't always be out with the old and in with the new.

Even some newer communities, such as Westland, offer much in terms of historic value. Let's celebrate our history, and our historic buildings, taking pride in where we have been.

Sprawl issues affect the details of our lives

My home is along the M-14 corridor that links the suburbs of western Wayne County with the relatively undeveloped areas of Livingston and Washtenaw counties. Once placidly rural, signs of development are cropping up all over.

The rich guy from Oakland County has just moved into his 14,000-square-foot starter home at the end of the road, complete with a gatehouse and a jet d'eau and a pair of mute swans in his pond. A new subdivision complete with an inviting picture of a country landscape at the entrance - is going in just north of two new and truly hideous big houses, complete with gingerbread on every available surface. And a local family proposes to rezone their 360-acre farm to develop it

None of this is big news to anybody who has looked around recently. Dirt is being scraped everywhere you look, whether it's for a new subdivision or mall or merely a trophy mansion.

The pressure of development has led to much hand-wringing about "sprawl" and numerous mind-numbing discussions about how to combat

On the one hand are the pro-development folks, who never saw a development proposal they didn't like. Trumpeting slogans about private property rights and sneering at tree-huggers, they reflexively support any proposed development, preferably with a rationalized public subsidy "to gain revenue for the local tax base."

On the other side are anti-development folks who never saw a development they didn't hate. Chanting slogans about preserving farmland and green space, they fight losing battle after losing battle as sprawl encroaches daily on diminishing rural areas.

Caught in the middle are local governments, especially zoning authorities, who have master plans and an obligation to follow them but who are terrified of being sued to the breaking point should they deny developers the rezoning or use permits they seek.

Here are three starting points for a commonsense approach to this tangled subject.

Plainly, neither the automatic pro-development nor the reflexive anti-development position can contribute much to useful discussion of this issue. A constructive re-framing might be for everybody to recognize that in many areas growth is inevitable, so the discussion really ought to revolve around how best to manage the growth that is certain to come. For example, my friend, former state Senator Lana Pollock, who runs the Michigan Environmental Council, talks sensibly about "smart growth" – meaning managed growth.

Michigan's Constitution puts a big barrier in the way. We are a "home rule" state, which means in practice that municipalities and, especially, townships, are free to adopt whatever zoning ordinances they wish, regardless of what their immediate neighbors happen to do. That means that a 200-acre shopping mall can be plunked down next to a determinedly rural township, and there's nothing anybody can do about it.

House Speaker Rick Johnson, by background a farmer from northern Michigan, has proposed a series of measures that would coordinate planning among neighboring government units. He deserves a lot of credit for willingness to break loose from a mind-set that places private self-interest over community values. While the Legislature is looking at that suggestion, some attention should also be given to immunizing zoning boards against frivolous lawsuits brought by deep-pocketed developers when things don't go their way.

Lastly, there are certain areas of the state that simply should be preserved from development. The Michigan Nature Conservancy, at 31,000 members one of the largest conservation organizations in the state, is in the process of unveiling a program that prioritizes threatened eco-systems according to hard scientific analysis. The Conservancy works with landowners who wish to place a "conservation easement" on their property, thereby preventing development for all time. It also helps fund outright land purchases and find conservation buyers who are prepared to buy and protect threatened areas.

Obviously, issues of sprawl are complicated, intensely local and often very difficult to resolve. They deserve higher priority in Michigan's public policy and political circles, if only because they affect so profoundly the intimate details of how we all live our lives.

Phil Power is a member of the board of the Michigan Nature Conservancy and chairman of HomeTown Communications Network Inc., the company that owns this newspaper. He welcomes your comments, either by voice mail at (734) 953-2047, Ext. 1880, or by e-mail at ppower@homecomm. net

In society today, safety is never a certain feeling

The movie Jaws used the catch line, "Just when you thought it was safe to go back into the water."

It's a frame of mind that apparently applies not only in Hollywood, but in real life. Only you'd have to rephrase it to, "Just when you thought you were safe." Period.

Sandy Robinson probably thought she was safe, closed in her dispatch office at Penske Truck Rental. For three years, she'd built a professional life there, getting close to co-workers, apparently trying to work through a troubled marriage.

On Tuesday, the trouble raised its ugly head in the worst way. Her ex-husband, John McGhee of Detroit, walked through the doors at Penske and made his way up the stairs. According to police, Robinson saw him coming and immediately picked up the phone to dial 9-1-1. At the same time, witnesses saw he had a gun and started yelling, to no avail.

The 31-year-old McGhee shot Robinson, then turned the gun on himself. According to police, the sound of the shots could be heard on the 9-1-1 tape. First the shot ending Robinson's life, then the shot that killed McGhee.

Then :.. silence. A deadly silence, as it turned out.

As always happens in the aftermath of tragedies like these, details came out rapidly.

The couple had divorced. Robinson had reportedly secured two personal protection orders against McGhee, pieces of paper that told him to stay away from his ex-wife, but had no real power. They never do.

McGhee was also a Penske employee. According to Tom Racette, Penske's district manager, McGhee had in the last few months been promoted from driver to a position in the logistics division out of Dearborn.

■ According to police, McGhee had rented a room at the Motel 6 at I-275 and Ford Road, where he left a suicide note saying he was tired of "being a burden."

Robinson reportedly had two children, one of whom was scheduled to graduate from a Taylor high school the same day her mother died.

There was no security system in place at Penske. Not that it would have mattered. According to Hal Helterhoff, vice president of corporate security for the Penske Corp., McGhee probably would have been able to get through the security system because he was also a Penske employee Predictably, not many people at Penske wanted to talk much in the wake of the incident. Robinson was described as a "fantastic person," well-liked and popular among co-workers. According to Racette, her personal problems never came up at work, at least not enough to send red flags about a possible attack.

But clearly, if police reports are accurate, Robinson herself felt like something could hap-

Murderous intent can't be stopped, not by a barricade and certainly not by a piece of paper fooiishly — and deceitfully — labeled as a personal protection pen. According to reports, as soon as she saw McGhee coming, she started yelling for him to "go away," while simultaneously dialing 9-1-1.

In the wake of Robinson's death, security issues will be re-examined, according to Helterhoff. But it didn't sound like too many changes would be forthcoming.

"Any time you have a tragedy like this you look at everything, top to bottom," Helterhoff said. "We live in a free society, so you don't want to see too many badges and barricades."

Unfortunately, in society today, badges and barricades are apparently needed more than ever. Or maybe a case like this proves they're not necessary. If McGhee was bound and determined to kill his ex-wife, depriving her children of their mother in the process, no barricade would have stopped him. He could just as easily have waited outside and shot her getting into her car, or going into her house, or stopped at a red light.

Murderous intent can't be stopped, not by a barricade and certainly not by a piece of paper foolishly — and deceitfully — labeled as a personal protection order.

It's a sad commentary on the times, but perhaps Robinson's death proves one thing, metaphorically speaking:

It's not safe to go back in the water.

■ National anthem banned?

I wholeheartedly agree with Rosanna Gulotta's commentary on the demise of patriotism in America ("Take a moment and examine reasons for Memorial Day," May 24). I avoid sporting events, as it is too difficult to tune out the indifferent noise that accompanies our National Anthem. Worse yet are the barbaric cheers when it ends.

I join Mrs. Gulotta in praise for those parents and teachers who are reciting the Pledge of Allegiance and singing the Star-Spangled Banner with children. However, while I hate to rain on her Memorial Day parade, it should be pointed out that the National Anthem can no longer be sung in its entirety in public schools! Teachers must go no further than the third stanza, for it is the fourth that declares:

"Oh, thus be it ever when freemen shall stand

Between their loved ones and the war's desolaon;

Blest with victory and peace, may the heaven-rescued land
Praise the power that hath made and preserved us a nation!

Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just,

And this he can metter 'In Cod is can truct'

Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just, And this be our motto: 'In God is our trust!' And the star-spangled banner in triumph doth O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave!"

If this isn't a prayer, neither is the Our Father! And as we all know, school-sanctioned prayer is illegal in public schools. What has become of our nation?

Rouge Rescue rained out at most sites

By STACY JENKINS STAFF WRITER sjenkins@oe.homecomm.net

Mother Nature wrinkled Saturday's Rouge Rescue river clean-up day with early-morning rain showers, but not all of the scheduled events were a total wash-out. Volunteers at at least two local sites braved the downpour and persevered until the sun actually peeked through the gray sky about two hours into the cleanup blitz.

More than 100 volunteers planted trees along the banks of Fellow's Creek, a Rouge River tributary cutting through the Sunflower subdivision near Warren and Beck roads in Canton Township. They planted about 175 flowering, canopy and evergreen trees on both sides of a half-mile stretch of the creek. The stream bank project marked the fourth annual River Day, organized by Canton Township's Public Works Division.

"This year, we're enhancing the creek," said Kelly Kelly, event organizer and Canton assistant township engineer. "It's very important for the whole health of the watershed. Enhanced vegetation helps promote stream quality, stream bank stabilization and enhanced habitat."

Several volunteers were students from Plymouth-Canton High School, who earned community service credits or extra credit for earth science classes. The students said they had more fun than they expected.

Becoming educated is what the Rouge Rescue events are all about, according to Joyce Murphy, from Canton's planning services department.

"This year, we're not so much cleaning up the river, but beautifying it and helping the stream beds while educating people about water quality issues," she said.

eif Asgeirsson doesn't mind growing his bright red hair a little long for the lead role in Oliver. Looking scruffy sis never difficult for the 10-year-old West Bloomfield boy especially if it means advancing his career on stage. Already he's two for two, auditioning twice and winning two roles, the most recent for Oliver. The heartwarming musical, presented by TinderBox Productions and directed by Nancy Florkowski of Redford, opens Saturday, June 9 at the Masonic Temple in Detroit.

Even though Oliver was only the second play Asgeirsson auditioned for - that didn't stop him from taking a stage name. He leans over and in a serious tone asks to be called Leif Halston.

Talented family

Talent runs in the family and he's taking advantage of it. Mother Pauline Martin is founder of the St. Clair Trio which recently released its new CD Old Acquaintances on Koch International. As a pianist, Martin concertizes across the U.S. and Canada. Older brother Erik, a cellist with the Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra, recently placed first in the Birmingham-Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra Junior Concerto Competition. "The seen my man plan and consider her a marty masician, said Asgensson who will some begin rehearsals for the role of Young Ramon in Madame X. The July performances, for which he'll be paid, will be at the Mendelssohn Theatre in Ann Arbor. "She's a good teacher. I took piano lessons from her and she helps with stage presence. I also get tips on being on stage from Erik.

Asgeirsson's acting and modeling studies at John Robert Powers in Southfield, and two years of tap at Cornelia's School of Dance in Keego Harbor, helped prepare him for the role of Oliver, an orphan boy on the road to a life of crime.

"I played the Mad Hatter in Alice in Oz in third grade and had to do imitations of John Wayne and Johnny Carson so the British accent for Oliver wasn't difficult," said Asgeirsson.

Although this is his first production outside of Roosevelt Elementary School in Keego Harbor, Asgeirsson is taking it all in stride.

"I think I was a little nervous but wasn't as nervous as my first audition," he said. "I wouldn't say it's all hard work because acting is fun. What I like about this company is you know everybody. And you learn how you should move on stage."

Role playing

Ruth Sable is enjoying her role as Mrs. Sowerberry, the undertaker's wife, as much as Asgeirsson is Oliver. A 15-year-old freshman at Thurston High School in Redford, Sable is tackling her first major role as well.

"It's really fun," said Sable, who's in her seventh play since sixth grade. "I'm making a big deal out of it so everybody has to come. Mrs. Sowerberry's mean and nasty and doesn't care for kids, the exact opposite of me. I like interacting with the little kids the best. They're so cute."

Acting is only one of Sable's hobbies. During winter, theater takes a back seat to playing basketball and junior varsity soccer as well as writing plays and young adult novels. Sable eventually wants to become an author.

"Acting helps a lot with writing," said Sable. "If I act out

Livonia-Redford Theatre Guild showcases original short plays

By KEELY KALESKI-WYGONIK STAFF WRITER kwygonik@oe.homecomm.net

Everybody's got an angle - a reason for doing what they do. Producing an annual festival of original one-act plays is a win-win for the Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford.

Audiences get to experience a mind altering night of theater, and the Guild gets the chance to attract new members.

"It's an excellent way of bringing in new talent, and a way of testing people out and recruiting them for larger productions," said Matt Ripper. "There's a lot of talent out there."

One Act-Stravaganza What: Festival of four original one-act plays written by local authors presented by The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford When: 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, 2 p.m. Sunday, June 15-17 and June 22-24 Where: At the playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly (one block south of Five Mile Road, across from Township Hall). Redford. Tickets: $10 adults. $8 seniors/students. call (313) 531-0554

The Guild's One Act-Stravaganza, which opens Friday, June 15, and runs weekends through Sunday, June 24. will feature four original plays written by local authors.

Glass Slipper: Size 8 1/2 by Jacquelyn Floyd is a romantic fantasy about a girl and her old boyfriend. She's trying to forget him, but he's still in her head.

So Close, written by Ripper, a Guild member, is a play about a storyteller, reason and humor set against the tale of Icarus.

"It's a psychological journey into the way we speak

baugh rehearse a scene from "So Close." and the way tales are created by reason and humor," said Ripper. "Reason can't exist without being funny because he's trying to make everything rational. Humor is always crashing in, and you need a rational mind to know where the joke is going.' Michaella Dionne of Livonia is directing So Close. She chose it because she thought it would be a challenge. "It's a romp through mythic arguments between reason, humor and the storyteller," said Dionne. "It will give the actors a chance to play many different characters in one short act. It promises to be a mental, gymnastic theater-going event."

perspective, how you play your hand, but give me something for my readers," I whine into the phone.

"OK," he says, "How about going to Catholic School and the experience. There are two kinds of people - Catholics and Publics."

I can relate to that - I was a Catholic School dropout.

Then he talks about family, and being one of nine children. "If you want to say something at the table you have to yell it out," he says. "Have you ever been with your family, looked around the room and thought to yourself, if I wasn't related to these people I wouldn't have anything to do with them?"

There are no large families anymore, he explains. People have two children - Brittany and Jason - and a dog with a person's name. "Like my dog George," I answer back. "You got it," he says.

Thomas is familiar to Trinity House Theatre fans, he performed there last year.

That show, he says was more stand-up comedy, this one is storytelling.

Concert follows one-man show

Singer-songwriter Christopher Williams will perform a special concert at Trinity House Theatre on 9:45 p.m. Friday, June 8.

Williams third CD "The Silence In Between," features an allstar cast of musicians including Willy Porter, Ellis Paul, David Hidalgo (Los Lobos), bassist Michael Manring, and drummer Jerry Marotta. He has performed on stage with Peter Himmelman, David Wilcox, Patty Larkin, Chris Smither, Dougle MacLean and many others.

The concert will immediately follow a performance from Comedian Bill Thomas. Those who attend Thomas' performance can stay for the concert at no charge

Tickets for the Christopher Williams concert are $5 and can be reserved by calling (734) 464-6302.

Trinity House Theatre is at 38840 West Six Mile Road, between Haggerty and I-275, in Livonia.

Offbeat

"I love Trinity House Theatre," he says. "I like the location and the fact that the people who run it want to do something different, a little offbeat. They've been very encouraging."

Then he asks me about Hamtramck, and for the name of a good restaurant and coffeehouse. Bill's an offbeat kind of guy.

He tells me that I should always seek offbeat things in my life; that it will make me rich.

He's toured with Jay Leno," Kenny G and others, and makes a living making people laugh even in corporate settings.

Revelation by David MacGregor of Livonia is a "kind of funny" play about a husband and wife. The husband is the Anti-Christ and doesn't know how to act.

"It's a comedy, but also a little thought-provoking, but not much," said MacGregor. "The husband finds out why he and his wife are getting ready to go to a dinner party. The wife is shocked and sympathetic, but then turns her attention to the dinner party and what dessert to bring. They're just a well intentioned, middle class couple, trying to figure it out."

Jeffrey describes his play as a dark comedy - rapid fire nonsense on the order of the Marx Brothers colliding with Saturday Night Live. The guy looks at funerals as a kind of entertainment event.

He was inspired by a news clip about a guy scamming elderly people in convalescent homes.

"It was so gruesome that it was laughable," Jeffrey said. "I went into the back room and wrote the play.'

Backstage Pass celebrates music

I've been asking readers of this column and viewers Detroit Public TV's Backstage Pass to vote for their favorite music acts presented over the first five seasons of the series.

Over the past several weeks.

By tallying a surprising number of e-mail messages, phone calls and even a few old-fashioned and fondlyreceived letters, we're ready to announce the winning performances to be reprised in an allmusic edition airing 5:30 p.m. Thursday, June 7.

Jazz category

It came as no surprise that Detroit legend Marcus Belgrave was a favorite in the jazz category. He's made five appearances on the show, each time performing with different artists. For the viewers' choice program, he'll be joined by the Jeff Haas Trio and Israeli violinist Miri Ben-Ari.

A bit unexpected was the pick in the pop/rock genre, with Edwin McCain's performance of his huge hit, I'll Be, selected. Voters reached back a couple of years to pluck this goodie. Also making the list of favorite musical moments were gospel's Angie Smith and Don Mayburry and a tremendous recent performance by jazzman Joshua Redman.

Ready for the top vote getter? The Backstage Pass crew was pleased with the choice because it is an outrageous one. The Original Parliament delivered pure funk along with much spectacle, and it was rewarding to discover that the excitement we were experiencing in the Channel 56 studio had been effectively transmitted to the small Getting a music performance to sound and look its best on television is an art in itself. Deftly handling the sound on Backstage Pass is music producer Ron Pangborn. Meeting the challenge of capturing the mood of the performance, whether sultry jazz or frenzied funk, is the specialty of director Tim Danielian.

"With a group like Parliament,

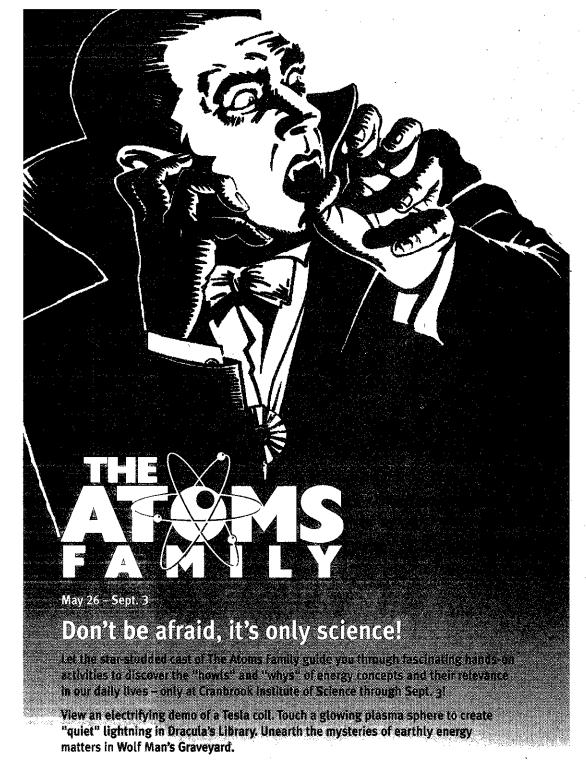

I encourage our camera operators to have a little fun, because that's what I intend to do. Shoot from a weird angle. Zoom in on the wild hat or the flying feet. Because flash is an essential part of the act, when we try something new, it seems to work," says Danielian, who just captured his third Emmy from the Michigan Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for multi-camera studio direction on Backstage

Practicing restraint

Part of Tim's expertise is the ability to practice restraint. "When you have someone like the immensely talented Joshua Redman wowing everyone during rehearsal, you realize that every decision you're going to make in the control room must complement the performance. I'm in constant communication with audio technicians and camera crews to make sure our production enhances the music and doesn't distract."

You can get an earful of outstanding music from both national and local artists, and an eyeful of Tim's work on the June 7 special edition of Backstage Pass, or by directing yourself to the video vault on www. backstagepass. org.

Payne, vocalist Fran Healy and guitarist Andy Dunlop are collectively known as Travis, a group of Scottish lads set to redefine the world of sentimental post-Britpop with their latest effort, "The Invisible Band," on Epic Records. This record, due out June 12, follows the critically acclaimed "The Man Who," which spawned radio singles like the shout-along "Why Does It Always Rain on Me?" and the anthemic feel-good song of 2000, "Turn." This time around, though, Travis takes it down a notch. The first single, the aptly-titled "Sing," shares that familiar blue sky-bright side quality common to Travis, but much of the record shows a more subtle side of these four art school grads. A true highlight is "Flowers In The Window," a song the band performed last fall at Pontiac's Clutch Cargo. See Travis open for Dido this summer when the tour comes to the DTE Energy Music Theatre July 5. Call Ticketmaster at (248) 645-6666 for details.

Coldplay ready for warm welcome

been interested in music since as long as I can remember," sáid Guy Barryman, speaking in a leisurely tone from his home in England. The bassist for the latest, greatest Britpop export - Coldplay - has been playing music since he was à teenager.

The difference is, now the whole world can hear him.

Raised on radio

Barryman was born in Scotland, but raised in Kent, England, where he discovered a penchant for record collecting early on. "I guess I started collecting records when I was 14, probably very bad records. I can just remember (that feeling) when you found the (perfect) record. You put a lot into it. It's different when you're a grown up. As (kids), you go out and find it like

Now Barryman and his bandmates Jon Buckland (guitar), Chris Martin (vocals) and Will Champion (drums) are making the records for young collectors to treasure. Coldplay's debut Parachutes entered the record charts at number one in their native England – a dream most musicians will never realize. It also spawned the mega-hit radio single, Yellow, which has since boosted the band to the top of Britpop royalty and made Coldplay a household name on either side of the pond. Coldplay shares its throne with the likes of Radiohead and Travis - offering an emotive soundtrack that leaves its mark on anyone willing to listen.

Push play

Coldplay began in 1996, just four college friends. "We were living in the same halls, little rooms with 600 people ... in Central London," said Barryman. "There were a lot of musicians. We would jam with guitars in the room. Me, Chris and John got together and started writing songs. We needed to find a drummer. We talked Will into playing drums. He picked them up really quickly.

An accomplished musician who proved talented at guitar, bass and piano, Champion had never played drums before joining the band. He got behind the kit before the first gig - an unsigned band festival in Manchester called In the City in 1998 and never left. Soon after, Coldplay released its first 6-song EP, Safety on the English label Fierce Panda. Another label, Parlophone snatched up the promising foursome and released a second EP, 1999's The Blue Room, which revealed Coldplay's first single, Shiver. A drifting song of devotion with lyrics like "I'll always be waiting for you," the song made it onto Parachutes as well.

On tour

Though it seems things came together quickly for the young band, it didn't feel that way, said Barryman. "We've worked so hard for 4 years now." He remembers crowds growing from 50 to 700. "It just began escalating, up and up." It hasn't slowed Coldplay has embarked on its first headlining U.S. tour which stops at Detroit's State Theatre today, June 7. The band will be accompanied by Grandaddy, the hand-picked choice to open these shows. "If they had phoned us, we'd be out there in a flash," said Barryman, a fan of their music.

So far, audiences in the United States have been good to Coldplay. "In America people are more up for it, there's a bit more energy." he said. "We always get a warm response from the crowd. Europe is more laid back, like their judging you."

The judgment on Parachutes is in, and it's an undeniable hit. Mixing melancholy with hope are songs with the gentle rush of Spies, the moping piano that trails Martin's apologetic voice on Trouble and the sentimental reassurance of Everything's Not Lost. The record was completed in nine weeks over a period of six months. The band went into the studio assuming it would only take a couple weeks, but Barryman said, "We didn't want to put something out until we were 100 percent happy with it.

Coldplay

'We were really quite hard on ourselves. When I look back, we worked really hard. We were in the studio until 1-2 o clock in the morning."

Along for the ride was producer Ken Nelson. "He became a fifth member of the band," said Barryman. "He was mixing stuff up. He's such an easy-going, helpful lad. We're going to continue to work with him.'

It wasn't easy to find a producer in the beginning. "We met so many people and they all wanted to put their stamp on it," said Barryman. "A lot of producers are doing it for themselves. We knew what we wanted and what we didn't."

Look how they shine

On Parachutes the band had but one objective. "We just wanted to create atmosphere really," he said. That melancholy essence spills from the record's second single. Yellow. "It was an obvious single. There was no real reason for debate. It was very sort of poppy, catchy.

Barryman remembers the creation of this song clearly: "We were in the studio in Wales, an old converted farm. We went outside and looked up at the sky. I've never seen so many stars in the sky, as far as I could see. Chris went inside with a little idea. We bashed it out really quickly."

Though he plays the songs each night on tour, Parachutes seems like a distant memory to Barryman. He's focused now on new songs. "It's always nice when you have new songs to play. They're a lot more up tempo. It's just getting a lot stronger. It's much more coherent. I'm really excited about it."

Coldplay will return to the studio with Nelson in August to record the follow-up to Parachutes. New songs like Murder, God Put A Smile on Your Face, A Rush of Blood to the Head and Warning Sign are expected to make the cut. "They're really more powerfulsounding songs," said Barryman.

Coldplay fans are waiting patiently.

Coldplay performs with openers Grandaddy, 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 7, State Theatre, Detroit. Tickets for the all ages show are $21.75. Call (248) 645-

The makers of Pearl Harbor have good reason to expect practically every American to turn out for their movie. After all, they took the trouble of listing most of us in the credits.

"Hunting for your name in the 10-plus minutes of end credits would be far more productive than watching the nearly three hours of dreck that precedes them.

Pearl Harbor may well be the ultimate modern example of Hollywood bloat and bilge. Producer Jerry Bruckheimer and director Michael Bay flung $135 million -$135 million! - at their subject and produced a dumb, soulless behemoth that delivers the cinematic equivalent of shell shock.

For all the 118 actors listed, the movie offers almost no sense of authentic humanity. The faces the filmmakers plaster on their characters are as flat and stereotyped as those on war-recruitment posters.

The Bay-Bruckheimer formula of treating people as secondary to explosions worked just fine in The Rock and Armageddon. Those movies bordered on liveaction cartoons.

· But Bay and Bruckheimer are now dealing in something bigger than a terrorist siege on Alcatraz or even a planet-killing asteroid. Their subject is real, fresh in the collective memory and vital in recent world history.

You can't tell the story of Pearl Harbor without blowing a lot of things up, but with so much money to burn, the filmmakers could have channeled a little more to script and character development.

Ben Affleck is at his most boring as Rafe McCawley, who trains as a fighter pilot with childhood buddy Danny Walker (Josh Hartnett, going toe-to-toe with Affleck for dullness).

Rafe falls for Navy nurse Evelyn Johnson (Kate Beckinsale, who gives an uncharacteristically numb performance). Their romance is shattered after Rafe is presumed dead in the Battle of Britain, where he'd joined a U.S. squadron.

Both now stationed at Pearl Harbor, Danny and Evelyn commiserate. Next thing you know, Evelyn's friends are telling her to move on with her life, that it's been all of three months and she needs to get back into circula-

Guess whose arms she circulates into? And guess who turns up alive in Pearl Harbor barely a day before the Japanese attack?

The script by Randall Wallace is forced and foolish, an epic soap opera.

The first half of Pearl Harbor is spent on Rafe and Danny's tedious friendship and their monotonous relationships with Evelyn. There's no spark between Beckinsale and either leading man, while Affleck and Hartnett never muster any kinship, as friends or rivals.

Supporting players include Jon Voight as Franklin Roosevelt, Alec Baldwin as Col. Jimmy Doolittle, and Cuba Gooding Jr., Dan Aykroyd, Mako and Tom Sizemore, all pretty much phoning in roles that have little dimension.

The star of Pearl Harbor is the 40-minute attack sequence, a

In fact, the owners of the home, Kathy LeClaire and Christina Gassner, gave up numerous camping trips to stay in their own backyard. Why go anywhere when you can open your back door and see all of nature's glory unfold including wildlife and lush greenery?

Their home is one of eight on display in the garden walk, sponsored by the Redford Township Beautification Committee.

Livonia's beauty

In Livonia, a hedge of fairy pink rose bushes gives passers-by a hint of the majesty that lies ahead at a home on Myrna, north of Five Mile Road, east of Hubbard.

The front yard presents a rainbow of flower beds carefully planted for more than three decades by Zenobius and Oksana Stelmach. A row of lively pink honeysuckle and white hydrangea welcomes visitors.

When a breeze rustles branches, the aroma from lily-of-the-valley and a multitude of flowering trees is overwhelming. Along the front of the property, Stelmach points to the mounds of perennials he so carefully tends.

A special botanical project is hidden among the white cress, pink and white bleeding heart, snow on the mountain, irises, silver dollars, peonies and an assortment of ferns and hostas.

Stelmach grafted rose branches from the fairy bushes and carefully covered each to protect their roots. Some will take, others won't.

His conversation is fertile with the attributes of what nature does to the garden

"After a day's work, a relaxation for me was to transplant something. I just enjoyed it," said Stelmach, who is retired from his job as a professor at Highland Park Community College where he taught chemistry and biology. On 1.25 acres of land, Stelmach has planted hundreds of trees including a multitude of spruces and pines. White and arving shades of purple lilac bushes decorate the back yard among forsythia, aster, lamb's ear and berries.

Oksana makes jellies from the berries and Stelmach uses them on his bread every morn-

When the Stelmachs bought the house in 1962, there were just eight apple trees on the lot. Four of the eight are still thriving. A pigeon coop, with mostly rollers and one "homer" bird, lies above a two-story shed tucked in the back of the property.

Stelmach's home will be among seven gardens on display during the Livonia garden walk.

Planted in Plymouth

In Plymouth, it's only fitting that Ann Warren should have an English garden, as she was born and raised in England.

Living in the United States for 32 years, Warren has managed to make room for hundreds of old perennial favorites, such as large flowering peonies, wisteria, iris, regular and miniature roses and scores of day lilies showing their blooms among wavy borders. She has lived in her Plymouth home for 22 years, but she started her garden just 12 years ago. The tall delphiniums are her favorite.

"Some years they're really good, and some years they're not, and we just wait to see what comes up."

Awesome: A hidden

"I tend to overgrow," Warren said. "But when the bulbs die down. there's something that comes right

A large deck loaded with pots planted with petunias, pansies and assortment of other annuals is a focal point. But it's the decorating nuances, such as a tiny stone patio with a garden swing and the tastefully placed arbors, that make the biggest impression on visitors.

Her advice to new gardeners is to get plants from friends and family who are dividing their overgrown perennials.

"That's a cheap way to get started. I'm always giving stuff away."

Plant flowers that you know are successful, she added.

"Some things just don't do well here," Warren said. "We've got shade along the back, and it's very hard to get things to grow back there. Some things just don't make it and you have to try something else until it will."

Greenmead benefits

All proceeds from the Livonia garden walk will go to the historic village, explained Janet Bennett, chairwoman of the Friends of the Development of Greenmead. The money will be earmarked for renovations to the Judge Blue home so that it can be used as a conference center and reception room. The homes on the Livonia walk range in style from pristine and manicured to free-flowing and packed with flowers.

Taking pains not to reveal the locations of the homes before the walk, Bennett said: "One is on a ravine lot. She has a nice mix of perennials and annuals with interesting features, such as a patio with a long swing.

"You look down the ravine and creek and she has a little vegetable patch. It's very charming. The woman has a real knack.' Another garden is at a recently built home on a cul-de-sac south of Six Mile Road and east of Middlebelt. "The lady in the home is a master gardener and she loves to talk about her plants," Bennett said. "She's bubbling over with enthusiasm, and I'm sure everyone will love talking to her and getting their garden questions answered." Another couple was recommended by their neighbors to be on the walk. "The lady of the home has pots hanging from the fence all over the yard. The interesting thing here is that interspersed in the beds she has figurines and carousel characters many of which she painted herself." In Redford, some the yards will take more time than others to walk through, said garden walk chairwoman Janet Watson. Watson's garden will be on the walk and features a waterfall pond with fantail fish that has earned her the nickname "Grandma Fishy."

The pond is home to frogs, tadpoles, water lilies and other plants to keep the water oxygenated.

Like most gardeners, Watson deals with varying soil and sun conditions.

"I have a lot of shade in my garden," Watson said, explaining that the area that gets the sun is used for perennials and an herb garden with clusters of lavender, sage, rosemary, parsley, thyme and basil that love the light.

In recent years, Watson added grasses. Her color scheme usually leans toward the blues and

Garden varieties

In Plymouth, Georgia Randinitis, president of the Trailwood Garden Club, described five homes featured in the walk as varied as the homeowners themselves.

One home will show how to successfully use potted plants to perk up areas.

Container gardening is becoming a new trend that allows gardeners to move the color where it's most needed depending on the perennials in bloom, she said.

"That's getting to be quite a big thing. Often times you have a yard that you can't have a flower bed in. And people are finding that they don't have time to take care of a major garden."

Gardening newcomers often think that once perennials are planted, there's nothing left to do but watch the color show, she said. They don't realize that the dead flowers need to be removed and that older plants need to be divided among a multitude of other upkeep chores.

She laughed a moment and added that there are some exceptions to that rule, such as peonies, which can be left "alone for about 10 years" and still

Several gardens at St. John's Golf and Conference Center at Five Mile and Sheldon roads in Plymouth will also be on display. Garden walk participants will learn about composting from another homeowner.

"She has a lot of knowledge about that for the average homeowner," Randinitis said. Refreshments will be served at one of the homes. Also, coinciding with the garden walk, the Plymouth Arts Council is sponsoring a floral art display by Nancy Walls Smith, a Plymouth artist.

If art feeds the soul, gardens nurture the gardener's nature. Probably the best gardening advice came from Stelmach, with wisdom cultivated from years of working the soil.

"If you get nervous and have high blood pressure, get yourself a garden. But if you're a quarreling person and get mad at the weeds, the garden is probably not for you. "You've got to like plants. If you don't like plants, nothing will come out of it."

your doorstep?
It's street

It's street
life! Whether it's the familiarity of your own town or
the unexplored streets

Did you know that one in a strange place, street life provides tremendous opportunity for you and your camera.

If you look through a photography book or at a collection of old photographs, you'll find some of the most interesting pictures are invariably of street life. This is largely because it is this aspect of our lives that most readily reflects the fashions, trends and lifestyles of a particular period.

lifestyles of a particular period. Store fronts have an identity of their own. Advertising signs, lampposts, even mailboxes are important features of the street and can be effective elements of a photographic composition.

A street is dynamic. Cars, buses and bicycles are all subjects with strong pictorial potential.

And, of course, there are the people. People walking down the street, people engaging in animated conversation, people standing on the corner — all wonderful opportunities for street life photography.

There is an almost irresistible appeal in people pictures and a subject preoccupied is easy prey to a photographer with a keen eye and a quick response.

A street market can be a treasure house of street life pictures. Market people are extroverts by nature and often have faces and mannerisms that can make great photos.

One of the problems that often occurs in street life photography is confusing and busy backgrounds. Try to avoid this by choosing a camera position that isolates your subject from the surroundings. Use a telephoto lens to frame your picture tightly and by using a wide aperture, distractions in the background will be kept out of focus.

To minimize problems with contrast, photograph subjects that are out of direct sunlight. Better still, an overcast day provides the best lighting for street life people pictures. Bright colors are more saturated and lighting on faces is more flattering.

Use a fast film in the 400ASA range, either color or black and white, depending on your preference. The faster films will enable you to hand hold exposures under most circumstances.

So there you have it! Become streetwise with street life.

Ancient art of bonsai still growing strong

GARDEN

Last year I received a beautiful 10year-old cotoneaster bonsai from Peter Evanoff of Southfield.

He and his

Roz, became late

wife,

personal friends as we shared information about the Four Seasons Bonsai Club of Michigan. Roz was an extraordinary publicity chairman for many years. Cotoneasters are in the rose family and very useful ornamental shrubs.

Although we don't know the exact species of mine, the glossy green leaves turned a maroon shade during the winter and it sported bright red/orange berries. Now the leaves have changed back to green and it is blooming with splendid tiny white flowers.

What a plant!

Peter trained my bonsai and presented it to me with the advice, "Water it daily in the growing season." That advice not only helped my plant to thrive but encouraged me to really look at it and enjoy it each day.

During the winter months it sat in a cardboard box that had the top and bottom removed, at the east corner of the porch, which protected it from strong winter winds. It received enough moisture from the snow cover and came through beautifully. I am so ever grateful for my gift and for my friends.

Beautiful bonsal: This beautiful cotoneaster bonsai was a gift from Peter Evanoff.

Art form

That leads me to telling you about bonsai. In Japanese, the word bonsai means "tree in a pot." Bonsai is an art form that uses both design and horticul-

Bonsai are created to look like stylized versions of natural trees in their various forms and environments. Pine trees on a rocky shoreline and the lone tree in a farmer's field have a representation in the long accepted bonsai

The modern art form of bonsai has roots that reach back to China in the third century B.C. Naturally dwarfed and twisted trees were collected from mountain tops and transplanted to pots for display. Gradually, techniques evolved to create and maintain the same effect on other trees.

During the cultural exchange between China and Japan of the 12th century, the art came to the Japanese. It was in Japan that bonsai was refined and elevated to its greatest potential. Most of the techniques in use today are the result of generations of Japanese refinement. The greatest myth about bonsai is that they are a specific kind of tree with a shape that they simply grow into. The distinctive bonsai "look" is actually the result of many years of work. Bonsai aren't simply grown; the bonsai artist has designed, pruned and trained the entire tree to achieve a work of art.

Show

Now to the show. The Four Seasons Bonsai Club of Michigan will have its 28th annual bonsai show and sale 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, June 9 (with demonstrations noon to 2 p.m., 3-5 p.m. and 6-8 p.m.); and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 10 (with demonstrations 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2-4 p.m.). The place: the Washington Square Building, at the corner of Washington and Fourth streets in Royal Oak. Admission is $3, free for under age 12.

Do plan to attend and eniov this beautiful ancient art of miniature Japanese trees at the exhibit, see a demonstration and become acquainted with the techniques.

This is a chance to buy bonsai pots, tools and accessories as well as live plants. In addition. there will be a bonsai raffle you may be the winner!

For additional information. visit the Four Seasons Web site at www.geocities.com/fsbcm or contact Todd Renshaw, president, phone (248) 585-9916, email scott13@wwnet.com

This year the show is taking place in conjunction with the Royal Oak Clay and Glass Show.

GOODGARDEN TIPS

Two innovative plant supports for trees, tomatoes, flowers and other plants such as peonies, ornamental grasses, dahlias and other tall plants are now available. The supports need a stake and are available in kits or sold separately.

Their green color makes them blend with the plant. They can be reused for many seasons. See them at www.tmateo.com; or call (812) 256-1069 or fax (812) 256-9344. The unusual Garden Park of Holly, 976 E. Maple in Holly, is open for tours each Thursday. Call Sandra Hilty at (248) 634-9300 during park hours (10 a.m. to 5 p.m.) for more information.

ART FAIR

Garden art designer strikes inspiration from antique iron

BY MARY KLEMIC

STAFF WRITER . mklemic@oe.homecomm.net

Wendy Lewis' inspiration for her garden art came out of surroundings of antique metal. Now she makes art and furniture for the garden out of antique iron.

About four years ago, Lewis was a volunteer at the Animal Orphanage fund-raising booth at the Royal Oak Farmers Market. She was surrounded by ornamental and antique metal items and noticed how lovely real flowers looked placed next to antique

Lewis had two thoughts, she said: "Why not design iron flowers from old iron?" and then, "Why not design benches for the garden using pieces of antique

Creative business

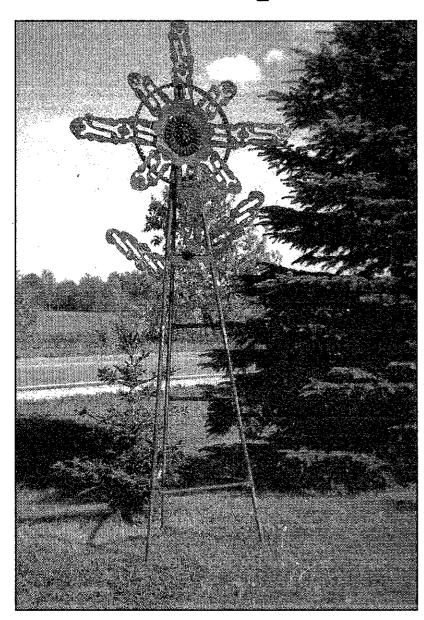

The result was her creative business, Wendy Lewis Designs, in which she transforms antique iron into such items as benches, planters, tables, credenzas, trellises and sculptures.

Lewis, who attended Seaholm High School in Birmingham, has displayed her work at the Grosse Pointe Designer Showcase Home '2000, the Antique Home and Garden Show in Southfield in March, the Royal Oak Farmers Market, and art shows such as Art on the Village Green in Franklin.

Lewis will feature more of her pieces Saturday-Sunday, June 16-17, at Art in the Sun, the 13th annual art fair on the streets of Northville.

Lewis' artistry can make gears into flower heads, and add graceful curves like elegant vines to the frame of a chair. The pieces may be painted, or left with the natural rust or patina shade

Many of them can be used in different ways. A towering sculpture makes a good base for climbing plants or hanging baskets. A credenza could be topped with glass or marble, or left open to become a giant planter.

Lewis, who has an assistant, learned to do her own welding. She spends two or three days a week in Beverly Hills, but works mostly at her farm near Sagi

Lewis' first passion is animals. She is still an active volunteer with Animal Orphanage, a nonprofit group that tries to place homeless cats and dogs in homes after they are spayed or neutered. She donates art work profits to the group.

(Hours for Art in the Sun are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Admission is free For mo information, call the Northville Chamber of Commerce at (248) 349-7640. For upcoming show dates or other information about Wendy Lewis Designs, call (248) 647-6734.)

Donations help Starfish make summer dreams come true

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON STAFF WRITER kmortson@oe.homecomm.net

Eight-year-old Onjaleese Warren is counting the days until summer camp. The Inkster elementary student spent eight weeks last summer at the Grow and Learn Summer Camp sponsored by Starfish Family Ser-

"I like playing. We had snacks and talked in different languages," said Warren who participated in the camp in 1999

Starfish Family Services is in the midst of writing grants and accepting donations to guarantee that children like Onjaleese get the opportunity to attend camp this summer.

With 35 percent of Inkster children living below the poverty level, and 40 percent coming from single parent homes, Starfish staff say those children are "among the most likely to be left home alone."

"Most of them would be hang-them from being alone." Essential skills

The Grow and Learn Summer Camp is offered at no charge to low-income families in Inkster who meet eligibility requirements (6-12 years of age, Inkster resident, income level) according to Greg Nicholson, development specialist at Starfish. The average cost for a child to attend camp for just one week is $135. In 2000, 85 children participated in activities designed to improve academic performance, prevent delinquent behavior, build personal skills and provide cultural and recreational activities.

ing out in our parking lot," said who also attends Starfish Family Services after-school program.

> Activities include cultural and academic enrichment, community service, foreign language (Spanish, Japanese) nutritional education/snack preparation, gardening, arts/crafts, field trips, recreational activities and alcohol, tobacco and other drug prevention education.

"Unfortunately some of the children are already being exposed to situations where alcohol and drugs are a part of daily living. They are at a crucial age when teaching them good refusal skills and how to make good choices is essential," said Ren-

Nicholson said the Starfish staff is diligently working to secure enough funding to accommodate all of the children who apply for camp. On average more than 120 applications are received and some children have to be turned away because Starfish doesn't have enough money to have the program fully funded.

"About double the amount of children apply that we are able to accommodate," said Rennie. "We are hoping to secure one to two grants that would fund the entire cost of the camp but we don't know if the sources just don't see the value of it yet or not. It's a very enriching program where kids who wouldn't ordinarily have the opportunity to be exposed to field trips get the chance to go to places like the Hands-On Museum in Ann Arbor, Belle Isle Zoo and Aquarium, Skateland, a wave pool and an IMAX theater."

For every donation Starfish receives whether it be from a private foundation or an individual, the Skillman Foundation, a private foundation supporting programs serving children, youth and families in the Metropolitan Detroit area, matches the contribution dollar for dollar according to Nicholson.

The Starfish development specialist said even a nominal donation goes a long way. "A $20 gift turns into a $40 gift with the matching funds we receive from the Skillman Foundation. It's a great opportunity to make a difference because those donations will add up very quickly," said Nicholson.

The staff from the Starfish Family Services agency also donate to the fund-raising campaign. According to Rennie $1.300 was collected this past Friday. "They really pull together for this program. They understand the value of it and they give of themselves to make it happen."

If you are interested in making a donation to Starfish Families Services Grow and Learn Summer Camp call (734) 728-3400 or send a check payable to: Children First, P.O. Box 64702, Detroit, MI 48264. Please indicate on the check that you want to help Starfish Family Services. The camp runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, June 25-Aug. 17.

JACQUE MARTIN-DOWNS

Survivors aren't just on television

Ashley, a precocious 11-year-old and native of Texas, decided one day that she wanted to write a fan letter to one of the Survivor contestants - Rodger Bingham.

Survivor, a CBS television show, aired this last winter for 12 weeks and had over 28 million weekly viewers rooting for their favorite participant.

Checking the phone directory, Ashley discovered that Rodger had an unlisted address, but she knew that the contestant hailed from Crittenden, Kentucky. The only listing for a Bingham in Crittenden was for a Wilbur Bingham. Armed with Wilbur Bingham's address, she unabashedly drafted a letter to Wilbur with hopes that somehow he would be related to the universally-liked Rodger Bingham, and further, that the letter would be passed onto her hero—Rodger.

This begs the question, why was the show Survivor so popular and what made Rodger Bingham, the 53-year-old farmer from Kentucky so likable with 11-year-olds like Ashley?

Reality television

For those who haven't followed the show, 16 people were picked from a possible 49,000 hopefuls to participate in a "reality-based" program that pits them against one another in grueling athletic and brain-teasing challenges in order to see who can outwit. Outlast and outplay the others.

All of the contestants actions and reactions in the "primitive" outback of Australia were videotaped 24/7. We learned from the show about characengaging because of the quality of people who participated ... like Rodger. I understand that more scoundrels surfaced in the original Survivor series aired last summer.

Wouldn't it be nice to theorize that this group is a microcosm of American society.

Survivors? Reality? What about those who are diagnosed with cancer? They too, are survivors. Suzanne Sommers, a celebrity with cancer, recently commented that cancer isn't for cowards. Isn't she right.

Lately, I have been shaken by the number of people I know who live in Livonia, Westland, Plymouth and other suburban areas who have been diagnosed with cancer. You may know these people. They could be your neighbors, relatives or family. Some are younger, some older, but I've noticed an overriding survivor trait of character and integrity in these friends. This debilitating, life-threatening disease seems to strike good and decent people. It is not the Rodger Binghams or these cancer victims of the world who necessarily win the game, but they are just good people, period.

But let us return to Ashley, the young lady who wanted to express her admiration for Rodger Bingham via Wilbur Bingham of Crittenden, Ky. She, like me, saw these stellar qualities in her favorite Survivor contestant, the senior member of the Kucha Tribe. Not one negative thing was ever said about Rodger because he never bad-mouthed or criticized other players. From talk show hosts to Monday morning pundits, everyone said what a good guy Rodger was.

And what did Wilbur Bingham do with the letter from the Rodger admirer? Well, Ashley made a good guess that her letter would end up in her favorite contestant's hands. Crittenden, Ky., is filled with Binghams who, as you might guess, are related to one another. Ashley would be pleased to know that Wilbur made sure Rodger got the letter.

Surviving a television show is not even comparable to surviving cancer but I've admired the personal qualities exhibited in many of the people from both groups. I am also proud to be married to a person with an equal amount of goodness, character and integrity — and coincidentally, Rodger's cousin.

Then you list the organizations, causes and service clubs Julie Patterson has been involved in, it's easier to list the ones for which she hasn't volunteered her time.

Patterson, 17, was nominated by her mother, Mara, to be the HomeTown Life section's Friday's Child for June. A junior at Plymouth Salem High school, Patterson has been serving people in and outside of her community since she was in elementary school.

"She was born on a Friday," said Patterson's mom Mara. "The definition of a Friday's Child fits her to a

From helping repair homes as part of an Appalachian service project her church sponsors, to delivering food for the Salvation Army and tutoring middle school students after school each week — Patterson says she wishes more people her age got involved in their community.

"I'd love to see more kids actively participate in some form of community service," said Patterson. "They don't know what they are missing. It's very rewarding to see how giving back makes a difference in peoples lives."

Striking a balance

In addition to being involved with the First United Methodist Church youth group, she was treasurer as a sophomore on student council (presently a delegate member), is the current treasurer of Salem Congress (she will be mayor during the 2001-2002 school year) and a member of Youth Empowerment Source.

"She's a teen with total leadership qualities," said George Hunger, director of youth ministries at First United Methodist Church on North Territorial Road. "She's very motivated, she gets very excited about projects and is very upbeat. She'll make a great leader someday."

The difference the Plymouth high school student has made in people's lives is immeasurable, says her mom. While you can add up her volunteer hours and the number activities she's busy with each and every week, Mara says her daughter reaps the benefits of volunteering as much as the people she's helping.

"I'm very proud of her. I think each and every person she meets, whether they are a child or an adult, has some impact on her. You can't be involved with all these difference organizations and not have it shape who you are. It amazes me that she can do as much as she can."

As an example of her sincere willingness to give, Mara shared the story of a recent family vacation they took to Brooklyn, Mich. Patterson previously attended a summer camp near their vacation spot and she decided to visit the camp and catch up with any friends that may still be there. During her visit she learned that the camp was now serving hearing impaired children from the Holly Ear Institute. After talking to the gentleman who runs the stables, she volunteered to help out over the course of the next week when they were hosting a camp for children with multiple physical challenges.

"Julie and I went to this tiny little library they have there so she could pick up a book on sign language and teach herself over the weekend to communicate better with the kids," said Mara. "That's why I admire her."

Patterson taught herself the alphabet and a few simple words and phrases before spending the remainder of her vacation at the camp helping the children ride horses.

"It was amazing. I loved it," said Patterson. "The kids taught me even more words during the week."

When asked how she finds time to maintain an above average GPA, swim competitively, baby-sit, teach arts/crafts at Vacation Bible School, coordinate the Plymouth Salem and Canton High School Prom Fashion Show, dance, kickbox, and be involved in fund-raising for Relay for Life, March of Dimes, Cystic Fibrosis and the Muscular Dystrophy Association, Patterson barely pauses.

"I look forward to it. It gets really nuts sometimes but you can always find time for things," said Patterson.

The Salem junior usually spends her summers volunteering on a mission trip through FUMC of Plymouth. This summer an opportunity arose for her to participate in an archaeological dig in Crow Canyon, Colo., with her anthropology class. Although the date conflicts with the Appalachian trip, Patterson has already made plans to go in 2002.

she and her parents, Mara and William Patterson, will be visiting several Michigan and east coast colleges this summer to narrow her choices. She hopes to pursue a career as a teacher or a school counselor.

"She's just that extra-mile kind of person," said
Patterson's mom Mara. "I admire that."

Hospice, convalescent center remember loved ones

Prayers and fond memories were shared May 15 during the National Nursing Home Week hospice memorial at Westland Convalescent Center. The annual event is hosted by Community Hospice & Home Care Services and serves to honor individuals who have passed away recently.

According to social worker MaryJo Vella, it gives both staff and residents of facilities, that deal with death on a daily basis, the opportunity to grieve and remember lost loved ones.

"It's a time for the residents, families and staff to reflect," said Vella. "Many times it isn't until the person's name is read aloud that others take the time to grieve. A lot of times we get caught up in our daily routines and we let the grief compound."

The Westland social worker shared the story of a WCC resident who approached her after the memorial and thanked her for the opportunity to commemorate his friend.

A memorial tree, thanks to a donation by Clyde Smith & Sons Nursery of Westland, was planted on the grounds of the Westland nursing facility. Hearts and ribbons bearing the names of those who died were placed on the tree and their names were read aloud during the "A Remembering Time" cer-

"It's very therapeutic. People stand up and tell stories and reminisce," said

Vella. "The idea behind planting a tree is that it's a living thing that goes on living and becomes part of the landscape."

About 60 people attended the spring memorial in the main dining room of

When someone does something nice for us, it is only right and proper to express our gratitude and appreciation to them. Oftentimes a sincere "thank you" may be all that is needed to let someone know that you are grateful for their good service or help. Sometimes we have a tendency to take our family and friends for granted, and we may not always express or show our appreciation to our loved ones for their help and support. Having an appreciative spirit is truly a blessing from our Lord, and having a thankful attitude is a blessing to everyone. It is especially important to be appreciative to our Heavenly father for all that He has done and continues to do for us. When we pray and thank God for His goodness, it deepens our love and draws us closer to Him. Being able to recognize our blessings and see God's goodness is beneficial to our well-being.

O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is Good: for His mercy endureth for ever.

Canton blanks Pioneer; Northville next

BY C.J. RISAK SPORTS EDITOR

cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

Well, the preliminaries are over for Plymouth Canton's soccer team. Now comes the real tests.

The Chiefs advanced to the Division I state regional final with a 2-0 triumph over Ann Arbor Pioneer Tuesday at Novi. Canton improves to 16-3-1 overall; Pioneer bows out at 15-4-2.

It was no easy task, beating Pioneer. But it was expected of the Chiefs, who came into the season as the state's topranked team. After losing two conference games, they didn't enter the postseason with such a lofty rating.

And from this point on, they won't be favorites - starting with Friday's match against Northville, the Western Lakes Activities Association champion and a 3-1 winner over Canton early in the season. The regional final will be at 7 p.m. Friday at Novi's Meadow Field.

"We're going to have to play tough," said Canton coach Don Smith. "We rise to the occasion when we have to.

"Once we got into the ball game tonight, we played well."

However, as Smith noted, it took the Chiefs nearly 20 minutes to get their game in gear against Pioneer, even though they had complete control of the

No contest: Canton rips John Glenn

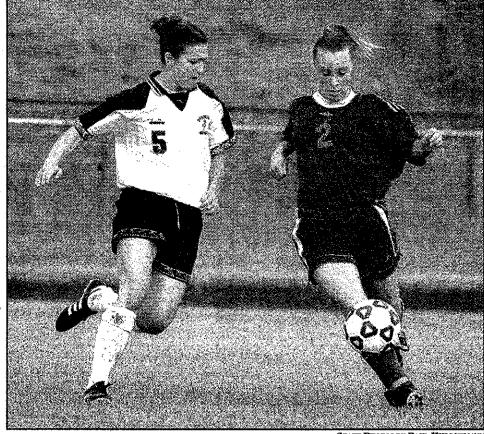

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

When a nearby severe-weather siren went off one minute into Saturday's Plymouth Canton-Westland John Glenn Class A district final game at Canton High School, the public address announcer assured the crowd that it was just a test.

The Chiefs (15-3-1) then went out and did their best impersonation of a fast-moving, high-pressure system and stormed the Rockets, 11-0, to advance to the regional bracket of the tournament which began Tuesday in Novi.

The game was called by the referees with 5:13 to play in the second half when lightning was spotted in the area. Since it was the third time the contest was stopped due to poor weather conditions, the game became official, according to Michigan High School Athletic Association rules.

Breaks are not something a team can count on to win a title, and for Plymouth Salem to stop Northville in Saturday's state district girls soccer final, the Rocks would need all the breaks to go their way.

They didn't.

The host Mustangs scored three times in the second half to pull away from a 1-1 halftime deadlock and post a 4-1 triumph. Their victory put them into Tuesday's regional semifinal against Dearborn. The winner of that match meets the winner of the Ply-

Canton falters in 7th

BY C.J. RISAK SPORTS EDITOR cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

Let's hope sport doesn't teach a lesson in life, for the sake of Plymouth Canton's baseball

Because if there was a lesson the Chiefs learned about life over the last couple of seasons, it's that most of what it has to offer is bitter disappointment.

On Monday, Canton started its run in the state district tournament by shutting down South Lyon, 5-0 in a game played at South Lyon. That put the Chiefs into the district final opposite the host team, Novi, which blanked Plymouth Salem 6-0 in the other semifinal.

For six innings of the final, Canton was in command. It took a 3-1 lead into the bottom of the seventh inning.

Then everything fell apart.

Two singles sandwiched around a walk produced one run for the Wildcats; the Chiefs did the rest with an error that scored the game-tying run and a wild pitch that allowed the winner to score, giving Novi a 4-3

Chapman scores at state

For Plymouth Canton, the scoring was solidfied - and it was all supplied by Jordan Chapman.

The senior standout, who's headed to Princeton University, accounted for all 13 of the Chiefs' points at Saturday's Division I Boys Track Finals, hosted by Rockford HS. His point total gave Canton a tie for 16th place in the team standings.

Chapman finished second in the pole vault, clearing 14-feet, 3-inches. The event was won by And Marzka of Port Huron Northern, who set a new meet record by clearing 14-6.

He also placed fourth in the high jump, clearing 6-4.

In the girls track finals, neither Plymouth Salem nor Plymouth Canton scored, although both came close. Canton's Meredith Fox narrowly missed placing in the top eight in the 400-meter run.

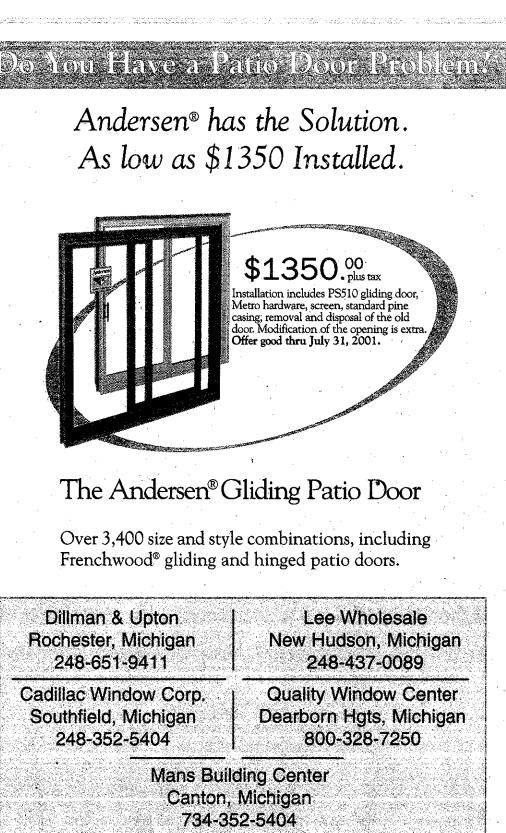

Salem's Autumn Hicks was close in the 400 as well, finishing 14th in 1:00.4. Hicks also cleared 4-11 in the high jump.

The Rocks best finish came in the 4x200 relay, with Hicks, Vicky Rozalski, Melissa Drake and Michelle Bonior placing 11th in 1:47.4. Perhaps their best chance at scoring was in the 4x100 relay, but a dropped baton during an exchange ended that Ashleigh Shear turned in a personal best in the discus for Salem, tossing it 113-5 to place 14th. And Bonior's 34-1 in the shotput placed her 17th.

"We did well — especially where we were seeded," said Salem girls coach Mark Gregor. "The girls competed hard. They had nothing to be ashamed of. They did their best."

No repeat: Farmington ousts Shamrocks

BY PAUL BEAUDRY STAFF WRITER pbeaudry@oe.homecomm.net

A year ago, Redford Catholic Central advanced to the Division 1 state finals in the Cereal City.

This year, the Shamrocks couldn't get away from Breakfast Drive.

CC struggled to score in the middle innings, then saw a seventh-inning rally come up short as the host Shamrocks were upset by Farmington in the district semifinal on Monday, 5-4.

"I thought going into this that the team that wins might not be the most talented, but the team who was the toughest," said Farmington coach Pete Finn, whose team will open regional play Saturday at home against Garden City by virtue of a 6-5 win over Livonia Stevenson in the finals.

thought we could play with CC because we'd beaten Harrison and De La Salle and I knew we could play."

The Spartans (18-10) had an easy time in the other semi against Redford Union, winning 9-2 in a game suspended from Saturday.

Farmington didn't hit well—scattering five hits against CC. But pitcher Tony Luttman kept the Shamrocks off stride and held them to just to just six hits, walking four and striking out four.

"He kept us off balance and pitched well," said CC coach John Salter. "We made it close at the end, but we've had to have quite a few comebacks lately and we came up short." against the Shamrocks, scoring three times on just one hit, but three walks, a sacrifice and two errors. Kyle Burcar started it off by reaching on an error and was moved to second on a sacrifice by Brian Bosler. Nick Hippler walked, then Pardonnet hit a double to right center to score Burcar. CC pitcher Charlie Haeger (7-2) walked Barenie to load the bases, then Chris Chesney hit a ground ball that was booted, scoring two more runs.

"We had two many walks and too many strikeouts," said Salter. "That was the whole problem right there. We had the bases loaded in the second inning and only scored one run. That doesn't help."

CC wasn't done yet. Dave Tovey reached on a fielder's choice and Kevin Entsminger was hit by a pitch. Luttman balked, to move the runners up a base, then Haeger singled to score Dave Tovey. Mike Wadowski hit a sacrifice fly to score Entsminger and cut the lead to

But that's as close as the Shamrocks could get as Finn brought in Bob Houchins to pitch to Jeff Schulz and got him to ground out to second to end the

"We were fortunate enough to have opportunities against Haeger," said Finn. "We had a couple of chances and played tough. But Luttman did well. He was high at the beginning and couldn't find his curve ball. But he stayed with it and eventually, the curve came around."

CC opened the scoring in the top of the first as Rogowski singled, stole second, was sacrificed to third by Dave Tovey and scored on Haeger's double off the fence in leftcenter.

The Falcons answered back in the bottom of the inning. Chesney led off with a walk, moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Picard and went to third when Luttman singled to center. Farmington went for a delayed steal and the throw to second bounded off a glove and trickled into the outfield, allowing Chesney to score and Luttman to go to third. A passed ball moved Luttman up and he scored on a groundout.

CC had its best chance to break the game open in the second inning. Phil Marrone reached on an error, Kyle Crepeau walked and Anthony Coratti singled to load the bases. Tovey hit a sacrifice to score Marrone, but the Shamrocks couldn't push any more runs home.

Both teams missed great opportunities to score. Corrati reached third in the third inning, but couldn't score. And the Falcons pooched a golden opportunity in the bottom of the frame with runners at second and third and one out. Haeger threw a wild pitch past Jake Viane and Ian Pardonnet got a late start coming home. Viane flipped to ball to Haeger to make the tag for one out, and Pardonnet struck out on that pitch to end the threat.

FARMINGTON 6, STEVENSON 5: As in the first game, the Falcons came away with enough late-inning runs and played solid defense to hold off later-inning rallies to wind up with the district title.

"(Farmington's) a good team. They've got the horses," said Stevenson coach Harvey Weingarden. "They've beaten us twice this year (3-0 and 11-0) and we hadn't scored on them until today."

The fifth inning proved to be the clincher for the Falcons, as they sent nine batters to the plate and scored four runs to break ahead for good, 6-4.

"We could have had problems if we hadn't scored, but the kids stayed with, it," said Finn. "We stayed focused and our chemistry kept getting better."

our chemistry kept getting better."

STEVENSON 9, REDFORD UNION 2:
The Spartans led 4-2 when the rains, came on Saturday and picked up where they left off on Monday – scoring three times in the fifth inning to break out to, a 7-2 lead.

"They just hit better than us," said RU coach Rick Berryman. "We just didn't hit their pitching. They brought (Dan Wilson) in on Monday and he threw hard. By the time we figured him out, the game was over."

Rabe took the win for the Spartans, while Chris Rigley (2-5) took the loss for the Panthers, who ended the season at 8-22.

Pete Pinto kicked off the game for Stevenson with a two-run homer in ther first inning, while Marsack was 2-for-4 with a triple, Zielke was 2-for-4 with a run scored and Brian Campbell, Wilson, Rabe, Williams and Dan Ross all sing gled.

Brandon Wiley and Joe Bakos singled, and scored a run for RU, while John: Hageman, Jason Dunning and Shawn. Meyers singled.

PCA reaches regional by stopping Agape

Clay Welton delivered when he had to — and in the bottom of the seventh inning of Monday's Division IV baseball district final played at Concordia College, he had his back to the wall.

Canton Agape Christian had loaded the bases with no one out in the seventh, trailing by two runs. But Welton responded by striking out the next three batters to preserve Plymouth Christian Academy's 6-4 triumph.

The district championship propels PCA into Saturday's Division IV regional hosted by Allen Park Inter-City Baptist. The Eagles, now 15-6, go against Taylor Light and Life, which is 23-1 and which defeated PCA 9-3 late in the season.

"The guys are looking forward to it," said PCA

The game-winning rally came in the sixth for PCA. Mark Erickson started it with a single; Travis Yonkman followed with a base hit, and Doug Parton then singled in the go-ahead — and game-winning — run. Brian Carnevale's fielder's choice made it 6-4.

Ryan Johnson and Eric Schultz each had three hits for the Eagles, Schultz — making his first start this season at second base — driving in two runs and Johnson one.

Agape got three hits, including a double to start the seventh, from Mike Bommarito and a single and a double from Rob Hough.

Welton allowed four earned runs on seven hits, two walks and two hit batsmen, striking out 11 to get the pitching win. The loss went to Josh Anthony, who surrendered six earned runs on 13 hits, two walks and a hit batter, striking out six.

PCA advanced to the district final with a 15-0 three-inning mercy of Dearborn Heights Academy of Business and Technology. Xander Younce allowed one hit and one walk in his two innings on the mound, with two strikeouts. Mark Erickson pitched one uneventful inning.

Johnson and Erickson each had three hits in the game, Johnson driving in two runs and scoring two. Younce and Carnevale each had a hit and three RBI.

The PCA-vs.-Light and Life game is the second of the day; the first features Southfield Christian against Dearborn St. Alphonsus. The winners of those two regional games will meet in the regional final at approximately 2 p.m. at Inter-City Baptist.

Eagles collect a rain-delayed district crown

Talk about long games.

It took Plymouth Christian Academy and Westland Huron Valley Christian more than 50 hours to complete their Division IV softball district final at Concordia College, and the margin was just a single run.

A two-run single by Michelle Phillips in the top of the sixth inning gave PCA the necessary margin to eke out an 8-7 triumph, pushing the Eagles to the district title and into the state regional tournament Saturday at Allen Park Inter-City Baptist.

PCA, now 12-14 overall, plays Taylor Light and Life at 10 a.m. Saturday. The winner of that regional semifinal faces the winSOFTBALL ner of the Southfield Christian-Inter-City Baptist game for the regional crown at 2 p.m.

Southfield Christian, ranked No. 3 in Division IV, figures to be the favorite. PCA lost twice to Southfield Christian this season.

The district final started last Saturday but was stopped by inclement weather with one out in the bottom of the first and PCA, which batted first, leading 4-2. The game was suspended until Monday.

The Eagles had a 5-2 lead entering the fourth inning but Huron Valley struck for four runs over the next two innings, knotting the game at 6-all entering the sixth.

And setting the stage for Phillips' dramatic hit.

Crystal Marti got the pitching win in relief of starter Lauren Terkoski, who worked the first four innings and surrendered four runs. Marti, a senior, allowed three runs but when called upon in the seventh, she responded with a 1-2-3 inning.

"I told her going into the inning, You're a senior, you have a one-run lead, this is for the district championship," said PCA coach Dan Hammar. "It's time for you to step up."

Huron Valley scored once in the bottom of the sixth and had the game-tying run at third before Marti quelled the uprising.

Terkoski contributed heavily at the plate, collecting three singles and driving in four runs. Amanda Saagman added a double and two singles, scoring three runs, and Phillips had two hits and two RBI.

Rachel Zahn took the loss for Huron Valley; she worked all seven innings, giving up eight runs on 12 hits.

"It was a long weekend," said Hammar, "but it was worth it at the end." PCA 12, Agape 2: The Eagles struck for 10 runs in the first three innings and rode the pitching of Lauren Terkoski to a five-inning mercy win over Canton Agape Christian in Saturday's district semifinal.

The two teams had split a double-header early in the season, both games decided by a single run. But this time, PCA used an aggressive brand of softball to put the Wolverines away.

"I think we had a tougher schedule," said PCA coach Dan Hammar. "We came out and jumped on them early. We ran a lot and stole a lot, and I think that surprised them."

Terkoski got the pitching win, allowing two runs on three hits and one walk, striking out three in five innings. Amy Henry took the loss for Agape, giving up 12 runs on 14 hits and seven walks, fanning two.

Terkoski was also formidable at the plate, collecting three hits and three RBI and scoring three runs. Andrea Lorion also had three hits, while both Amanda Saagman and Lindsay Pew each had two hits and two RBI. Michelle Phillips contributed a hit and scored three runs.

Agape got singles from Amber Cross, Margie Henry and Lisa Ther.

Northville, which improved to 17-1-1.

Salem's season ends at 13-5-1.

"It's about time some of that stuff paid off," said Northville coach Ron Meteyer of his team's restart scores. "We've worked a lot on that all season."

The Mustangs, who lost to the Rocks and tied Royal Oak Kimball in the first couple of weeks of the season, started to get their season on track when they beat Plymouth Canton 3-1 April 23.

They followed that with three wins over Livonia Stevenson, the last coming by a 1-0 margin in overtime in the district semifinal last Thursday.

"I think we were an overlooked team at the beginning of the season," Meteyer said. "We weren't rated — and that's fine. That just adds unnecessary pressure.

"We surprised some people but we knew what we had coming back. We were confident. I think the confidence of this team has grown tremendously — especially since beating Livonia Stevenson three times."

The Mustangs, who dethroned Western Lakes Activities Association co-champions Stevenson and Canton, won't sneak up on anybody now. Salem knew what it was up against in the district final; problem was, the Rocks didn't have the guns to fight the bat-character Maurica brailie, and see process Baron were out with injuries, and all-conference midfielder Marissa Sarkesian was at an ODP national camp. The Rocks did get forward Kellee Mullin, who had missed the first two games of the state tournament due to a leg injury, back.

But Mullin wasn't enough to offset Northville's numerous weapons. Other factors benefitted the Mustangs, too — they had the home-field advantage and the weather seemed to intervene in their favor,

"I think what put them over the edge was team speed and they always kept attacking," said Salem coach Joe Nora. "It was a game of finishing. We had just as many opportunities as they did. We just didn't finish them."

The game's first goal belonged to Northville, and it was a well-executed play started in the right corner by Larisa Fill. Her cross to the far post was knocked in by Michelle Manarina and, with 25:47 left in the first half, the Mustangs led 1-0.

The momentum, however, slowly started to switch. The Rocks became far more aggressive, pressuring Northville keeper Alex Katona incessantly. It paid off when Mullin finished a restart by Danielle Portelli; the Northville defenders proved slow to react, but Mullin wasn't, knotting the game at 1-1 with 5:23 to go in the half.

from the Chiefs' end. The senior forward got knocked down and seemingly out of the play, but Erica Aherns regained possession and looped a long shot from the left side that banged off the far post.

The rebound went to Amanda Lentz, positioned about 20 yards out directly in front of the Pioneer goal. Her shot was deflected by Goethel, but not smothered; Morrell pounced on the loose ball and pounded it into the goal for a 2-0 lead.

"She is a force to be reckoned with," said Pioneers' coach Chris Morgan of Morrell. "We didn't really play the game we can play." The reason: Morrell. "She's so fast, so strong," Morgan added. "If we had to do it all over again . . . I'll tell you this, any team that wants to beat (Canton) has to shut her down.

"Our defense played well. They did exactly what we wanted them to do.'

Pioneer's limited offense did get some chances. Twice the Pioneers put shots off the crossbar, vet Canton keeper Briana Wolcott remained unbeatable. It was her third-straight shutout in the playoffs.

"They just finished better than we did," said Morgan.

The Chiefs also had "more scoring opportunities," Smith felt. They'll need them, and they'll need to take advantage of them, to beat Northville.

"We've got to mark tighter," said Smith. Both teams have strong offenses, which means the team that plays better defense will advance.

Canton district

However, thanks to the dominating performance being put on by the Chiefs, no one on the John Glenn side of the field was complaining too loudly. about the early ending.

"When you play a team as good as Canton, you have to play your best game if you're going to have a chance," said Glenn coach Jerry Ponistowski, whose team bowed out at 4-0-4 overall. "Nine of our girls attended the senior prom (Friday) night, so we were tired. But they're a great team and they showed it today.

"But I was very pleased with our season. The girls worked hard and we advanced to the district final game, so we met a lot of our goals."

Although he was satisfied with the win, Canton coach Don Smith said he would have preferred to play in a more competitive game heading into the regionals. "A few girls are a little upset about their (lack of) playing time." Smith said, referring to the fact that he pulled most of his starters 20 minutes into the first half. "But it's good because several players were able to play a lot of minutes. I thought everyone played well today; no one stood out."

The stat sheet said otherwise. Despite playing only the first 16 minutes, Chief standout forward Anne Morrell drilled in two goals and assisted on another. Canton junior forward Stephanie Johnson also made her presence felt before exiting the game mid-way through the first half, scoring a pair of goals, includ-ing one on a header off a pass from Ashley Rosaen. The explosive due combined to put the Chiefs up 1-0 just 15 seconds into the game when Morrell controlled a centering pass from Johnson and boomed it past Rocket goalie Brittany Zywick.

Seven minutes later, Johnson made it 2-0 when she secured a pass from Mclanie Dunn, outraced the John Glenn defense and zipped a shot into the back of the net.

The Chiefs put the game away during the next 10-minute span when they tallied goals by Johnson, Morrell and Erica Aherns, Aherns' unas-sisted score came on a long, hooking kick from deep on the left wing:

Freehman mid-fielder Teresa Rutecki turned in an impressive performance for Canton, scoring two goals and assisting on another. Aherns, Danielle Shepard and Rachel Perry also scored for the Canton goalkeepers Briana Wolcott, Tarah Rhodes and Katie Maloni — getting about as much work as the Maytag repairman — combined for the shutout.

Canton outshot John Glenn, cludes its season at 16-12.

"I don't know what to say," an obviously distressed Scott Dickey, the Canton coach, said afterward. "We were in complete control and two unearned runs killed us. We had the game.

"We played great defense, we got great pitching. We played 13 great innings of baseball and then unfortunately we gave away the district championship against 2001, aiitit that time inning. "We've been like that all year long," said Novi coach Rick Green, whose roster included just three seniors. "They play with a lot of heart and mental toughness.

"The guys are just unbeliev-

Canton got a run in the first when lead-off batter James Wisniewski started the game with a single. Jay Sofen was safe on his sacrifice bunt when second baseman Pete Kobylarek's throw was wide, allowing Wisniewski to go to third. Brent Kwiatkowski's sacrifice fly delivered the run.

The Chiefs increased their lead to 2-0 in the third, and again Wisniewski got things started with a one-out base hit. After Sofen struck out, Kwiatkowski and Russ Caid both singled, Caid's blooper scoring Wisniewski.

Novi got a run back in the bottom of the third on singles by Matt Gorman, Mike Crawford and Adam Haberman, Haberman's coming with two out and scoring the run. But the 'Cats could do little else against Canton lefthander Mark Hanson, whose breaking ball was working superbly. The Chiefs made it 3-1 in the fourth, and it could have been much more. Novi starting pitcher Brandon Davis switched positions with Crawford, who was at shortstop, to start the inning, and the Chiefs got to Crawford quickly.

Hanson slapped a one-out double to right; an error by third baseman Eric Zorza put runners at first and third for Joe Kondratek, and the junior catcher responded with a run-producing double. But Davis saved a run with a relay throw to the plate that cut down Nick Musselman, who also tried to score on Kondratek's hit. It was Davis' second solid play of the inning; he opened it by going deep in the hole to retrieve Jon Los' grounder and then throwing him out at first. Without those two plays, Canton would have had three runs in with a runner at second and no one out. Still, it seemed it would be enough, with the way Hanson was pitching. After giving up seven hits in the first four innings, he did not allow a hit in the next two frames. A sparkling catch in deep right-center field by rightfielder Musselman certainly saved a run for Canton in

But the seventh got off to an ominous start, with Ross Hughes singling. Hanson then issued his first walk of the game, to Gorman, putting the tying run aboard with no one out.

He managed to strike out Crawford as he attempted to bunt the runners up a base, but Davis followed with a bloop single to right that scored a run. narrowing Canton's lead to 3-2.

Trey Simpson then hit a grounder that Kwiatkowski cut off at third; he tried to get the runner in a force at second, but his throw eluded Los and allowed the game-tying run to Dickey elected to walk Haberman and brought in Matt Staley to pitch to Zorza with the bases loaded and one out. But Staley's first pitch was in the dirt and skipped past Kondratek, allowing the district-clinching run to score.

Wisniewski and Kwiatkowski each had two hits for the Chiefs, Wisniewski scoring twice and Kwiatkowski getting a run batted in. Hanson took the loss, but he deserved better; he worked 6 2/3 inning, allowing four runs (two earned) on nine hits and two walks, striking out nine.

Crawford was the winning pitcher; he pitched the last four innings, giving up one run on four hits and one walk, with four strikeouts. Davis was the only Wildcat with two hits: he also had an RBI.

"It's very disappointing," said Dickey. "For three years in a row, I thought we were the better team in the district, and we came away with nothing."

How it happened will eat at the eight Chiefs who are juniors and the two sophomores until next spring.

Canton 5, South Lyon 0: Greg Neino tossed a three-hit shutout, walking three and striking out eight, and James Wisniewski and Nick Musselman each unloaded solo home runs to lead Plymouth Canton past South Lyon in a district semifinal played Monday at South Lyon. The game's location was switched after Saturday's district, scheduled for Novi, was weathered out. With the possibility of more rain Tuesday, it was decided to play one semifinal at Novi and the other at South Lyon Monday, with the district final at Novi also on Monday. Wisniewski's homer came as he led off for Canton in the first inning. The Chiefs added three more runs in the second on consecutive singles by Mark Hanson, Jon Los and Musselman to score one run; following a walk to Wisniewski, a single by Jay Sofen delivered two more. In the fourth inning, Musselman's homer made it 5-0. Neino did the rest after that, plowing through the Lions.

OUT! SALE IS FRIDAY FROM 10 A.M.

REAL ESTATE

Seller can't hide behind bad report

After we signed a purchase agreement, we had the house we were interested in buying inspected. The inspector did not find a roof leak. The seller's disclosure statement indicated that there was no problem with the roof not true. Do we have any recourse?

Possibly. The Michigan Seller Disclosure Act provides that even though a buyer is relying on the opinion of a professional inspector, the seller must disclose known conditions if they contradict the inspector's report. Every disclosure must be made in good faith. If the representation made to you was false or misleading, you may have a claim for silent fraud or negligence against the seller.

We are interested in buying a home from a family member. Do we have to have a real estate bro-

There is nothing in the law that requires you to have a broker or, for that matter, an attorney to assist you. However, you are well advised to have an attorney review your closing papers to ensure that the legal requirements necessary for the sale are met. It may be that you may need a separate attorney representing each party, as one attorney may be in conflict of interest in representing both parties. The attorney can also prepare a closing statement and other documents necessary. A real estate broker would be typically used if you are looking to find a home to sell or buy.

Who do you call?

Look for these in a Realtor when it comes time to buy or sell your home

By Doug Funke Staff Writer dfunke@oe.homecomm.net

It can be done - selling your home

But unless you have the expertise and time to set a fair price after doing comparable sales studies, advertise, screen prospective buyers to make sure they're financially qualified, show at all hours and at a moment's work, you may want to use a Realtor While commissions are negotiable (figure on paying 6-7 percent of the sales price here) and considered distasteful by some, it could be money notice, and expedite a lot of paper-well spent. So how do you find a good Realtor? "I'm kind of amazed, myself, at how many people will literally open a phone book and look for the nearest office," said Janice Grupido, broker/ owner of Countryside GMAC offices in Troy and Sterling Heights. Her suggestion: Get recommendations from friends, neighbors, family and co-workers, then interview several candidates.

"You're going to want to know their affiliations, experience level, what services they do and don't supply," Grupi-

Office support to handle lots of details also is important to know, she

Start on the Internet, then do a little legwork locally, advises Judy Walker, broker/ owner of Riverpoint Realty in Southfield.

"They should go to crs.com (Certified Residential Specialist). That will show the people ... who have attended workshops and classes beyond just getting licensing. They're absorbing information to keep on top of the

"Be aware of neighborhood Realtors who have a sense of what's going on and will do a bang-up job keeping you informed," Walker added.

A personal reference is the best reference, said Glenn Bianchini, broker/ owner of Century 21-217 in Oxford. "Probably 99 percent of the time it's word-of-mouth."

"The first thing is look at friends and relatives who have used a Realtor in the immediate area who are happy now," added Chuck Hromek, broker/ owner of RE/MAX Crossroads in Canton.

"Who's doing the most business in the subdivision as far as selling homes? "Look at the signs. If you see signs, stop and talk to people. Ask what they think of their Realtor."

It makes sense to interview several prospective Realtors before signing a listing agreement or a buyer's representative contract, the pros agree. Interview even if you happen to have a friend or acquaintance in the busi-

Interview several Realtors

"It doesn't take a whole lot to get a real estate license," said Pamela Ford, broker/ owner with Morgan, Moreno & Milzow in Clarkston. "Interview to see which one closest matches your standards. It (a home) typically is your most valuable asset.

"If you look for a presence in the marketplace - advertising, signs that with a personal recommendation leads you to at least a number of agents who do it professionally and not recreationally."

"Definitely make sure they have a marketing plan - what's on the market, what the competition is and what they've sold," Bianchini said. "Ask specifically what they're going to do to make the house available on the mar-

Realtors at the top of their game will dazzle during a listing interview

if they're prepared, Walker said.
"I make myself knowledgeable about the community, and it helps me put together an excellent program," she said. "When you can walk into an interview and bring out pertinent information including a beautiful picture of the house, it always impress-

Things that a Realtor should be prepared to answer during an interview, Walker said: "How well educated and versed you are, how long you've been practicing your craft, are you adept to a particular area?"

Brokers name names

While brokers will give out the names of their most prolific associates, top-producers may or may not be the best representative for a particular client. Some top-producers have assistants who deal with various parts of the transaction, so clients may not have as much direct contact with their Realtor throughout, Bianchini said. Walker said she's a big believer in the "intuitive gut-feeling" that often arises when a would-be client and Realtor click during the interview

Temperament does play a part, Grupido agrees.

"It has to be someone you can work with. It's an ongoing relationship, not just putting a sign in the ground ... someone who will keep in touch," she

"It doesn't have to be a brotherly relationship, but I would like it to be strongly professional," Grupido said. 'We're actually the orchestra. You should be holding the baton."

Cheap isn't always best where commissions are concerned, Hromek added. "Pay a marketable commission," he said. "Pay it and be happy. You only get what you pay for. That's what you have to look at."

Jumbo loan: Do math carefully

PHILLIPS

Late last year, the upper loan limit for conforming increased to $275,000 excellent news for borrowers just over the previous limit but below the new limit.
Affected borrowers would now be saving roughly $100 on their monthly mortgage

Saving $100 is like making an extra $130-

160 per month, depending on your tax bracket. Earning the same $160 residual income monthly requires a return on investment of 6 percent on $32,000. In short, when it comes to large investments like your mortgage, a seemingly trivial change can make a huge difference in a borrower's lifestyle and cashflow.

Again, I must emphasize the importance of making your mortgage decisions within the confines of a larger financial plan. In the case above, it may have been very appropriate for the borrowers to apply a limited amount of personal funds from other sources towards their home purchase to keep their mortgage loan amount below the "jumbo" limit of $275,000.

Very large home loans, especially jumbo mortgages, can be unduly expensive to unaware borrowers. Just as reducing the mortgage amount slightly can save hundreds of dollars, there are many other strategies that will help such borrowers save money in the long

One tactic is for jumbo borrowers to stay in the fixed stage of an adjustable rate mortgage. For example, if a borrower needs a $300,000 mortgage, he sees the opportunity to reduce his initial interest rate by one-half of 1 percent by using a 5-year ARM instead of a standard 30-year fixed-rate mortgage. By doing so, he saves over $6,000 in interest charges over the five years which more than covers the cost of his next refinance. He applies the remainder towards principle or invests it.

The downside of this gambit comes if the interest rates are very high when it is time to refinance. The counter-gambit, however, is to continue with a shorter-term ARM, say of the 3-year variety, to get the deepest discount on interest rates long enough for interest rates to recover.

That monthly savings can be very enticing even for the risk-averse bor-

Mortgage rates still 1 percent below last year rates

(AP) – Mortgage rates around the country rose this week but are still more than one percentage point lower than they were last year. The average interest rate on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages climbed to 7.24 percent, up from 7.20 percent last week, according to a nationwide survey released Thursday by Freddie Mac, the mortgage company.

Fifteen-year mortgages, a popular option for refinancing, went up to 6.78 percent this week, compared with 6.76 percent the previous week.

At the same time last year, rates for 30-year mortgages averaged 8.54 percent and rates for 15year mortgage averaged 8.24 percent. On one-year adjustable-rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 5.89 percent, up from 5.82 percent the week before. Last year, one-year ARMs remained at a nine-year high of 7.25 percent.

These rates do not include add-on fees known as points, which averaged around 1 percent of the loan amount for all three types of mortgages.

"The economy grew slower than expected in the first three months of the year, which seems to have carried over into the housing market in April.' said Freddie Mac's chief economist Robert Van Order.

"Both new home sales" and existing home sales fell in April from near record levels.'

KEEP YOUR DREAM HOME FROM BECOMING A NIGHTMARE

So, you're building a house — the home of your dreams. Here's how to keep that dream from becoming a nightmare.

Start early, Tom Tylutki, division president of Kimball-Hill Construction, one of the Midwest's largest and oldest building companies, suggests you follow a few sim-

Check with your local home builder's association to find a builder with a good reputation.
 Carefully look at model homes, then drive around to inspect homes under construction to make sure that the builder is delivering the promise of the models. 3) If you are buying in a develop-ment, drive or walk around the neighborhood. Stop homeowners and ask them how they like their houses.

Dig a little deeper. Was everything done on time? If something went wrong, how did the builder respond? How well did the builder communi-4) Look at the amenities promised. If they are not yet in place, ask the local building inspector about the company's reputation. You might even check out other developments that this builder has done. 5) Call the building department of the municipality. Ask about its inspection process. How often and how thoroughly is construction inspected? Usually municipalities look at the site before the foundation. look at the site before the foundation is back filled to make sure that the basement was put in correctly and that drain tiles are in place. Then someone checks the frame, plumbing and electrical. Many require a drain survey before allowing any sod.

6) Once your house is under con-will invite you to a pre-dry wall walk-through. Bring your purchase agreement, with options and any changes. At this point the frame and all the mechanicals, such as plumbing and electrical, will be in place. Compare this to your records. If you opted for an island in the kitchen with a cook top, are electrical or gas lines in place to handle that? How about the whirlpool tub? Look for ceiling light cans, outlets for fans, special cable or phone locations. Ask lots of questions. If you have some concerns, you can ask to come back for a second look after the changes

7) Your next official visit is the pre-conveyance walk through. This is done two to five days before your closing. The builder already will have inspected the house and may have a list of last minute items that need to be done. In any case, bring your paper work with you again, check it against the finished product.

Make sure any changes are completed.
This week, The Meyers Report went to some experts to answer readers' questions. Q. I have been paying private mortgage insurance for 15 years on my 30-year fixed-rate mortgage. I have been told that this monthly charge can be removed. How do I go about having this charged removed?

A. It sounds like you will have no problem removing the private mortgage insurance (PMI) charge, in part because after 15 years you should have paid down the principal to the point where you ove 75 percent or point where you owe 75 percent or less of the original loan. However, you did not say whether you have a conventional or FHA loan. The PMI charge cannot be removed from an

FHA loan.

After 15 years, there is little doubt that the value of your home has risen enough so that you have more than 20 percent equity in your home. Home appreciation alone can get removal of the need for private mortgage insurance coverage. Check with your lender.

Jim Lukas, vice president of Amcore Mortgage suggests you follow this simple process. First check your current mortgage balance, and get the appraised value and sales price of the house when you bought it. Next divide the loan amount into the original price or appraised value. This will give you your loan to value If you had been in the home for 10 years or less, your lender may have required you to get a new appraisal and use that to determine the loan to value ratio, Lukas said. If the loan to value ratio is 80 per-cent or less of the original loan amount, your next step is to write a letter to your mortgage holder. In the letter state the loan to value ratio, your original loan amount, the original appraised value and sales price of the house, and the date you took out the mortgage. Request the mortgage holder cancel the insurance and refund any balance held in the escrow account for purposes of paying the PMI.

by GARY S. MEYERS

Q. My husband and I are currently renting and would like to buy. Our problem is a shaky credit history. We have never filed for bankruptcy, nor do we intend to. We are slowly paying down and, in some cases, paying off our debt. Although my husband is an immigrant, I am a US citizen and have been employed by the same company for 15 years. I have access to a down-payment through my 401k, if necessary. My husband is employed by the Chicago Public School system as a teacher. Our combined income is approximately $70,000. Please advise if there is any hope for us to obtain a mortgage.

A. Yes, there is hope.
"But qualifying is dependent on how shaky your credit is," said Todd E. Grayson, executive vice president of South Central Bank and homeloanrate.com.
Grayson suggests looking at two programs for first time home buyers with low down payments: FHA and IHDA (Illinois Housing

IHDA (Illinois Housing Development Authority). FHA has more flexibility in the underwriting, requiring a low down payment and using credit scoring in a different way from conventional or sub-prime are lower than FHA or conventional Grayson believes that borrowing from your 401k for the down payment, will not be a problem, but there are concerns about your husband's residency. He suggests that you contact your local HUD office for a list of qualified pre-purchase

The IHDA program for first time home buyers requires a 5 percent down payment, but the interest rates
