Liberty Fest lights up Canton

Spotty weather can't drown out weekend fun

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER
cmarshall@oe.hometown.com

Liberty Fest organizers say despite the occasional rain shower, last weekend's event was a success. "It was a terrific event, a really great weekend," said Leisure Services Director Ann Conklin. Recreation Supervisor Bob Dates reported the crowd was the largest in festival history, but he could not yet report on how many attended. Flexibility was the key to having a great time, Dates said. "You just have to be flexible," he said. "It goes with having an outside summer festival."

All festival events were canceled Thursday night due to the weather. Saturday, a shower had craft vendors rolling down their display tent

A Canton boy broke his wrist, and two other children were examined for injuries after a Liberty Fest mishap Sunday afternoon.

An 11-year-old boy broke his wrist after the Bungee Run, one of the inflatable attractions, began to tip over and he fell off, said Canton Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher. The boy was taken to Oakwood Health Systems for treatment.

Road construction woes shutter diner

Central City will re-open after project; other businesses feel pinch too

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER
cmarshall@oe.hometown.com

The Canton Center Road construction project has claimed its first victim. The casualty is not an unfortunate construction worker or distracted motorist. It's cash.

Central City Diner, located north of the road closure at Ford Road, closed its doors for the duration of the project.

"They've got me pretty well plugged off," said the restaurant's owner, Dennis Bye. "When we only had 10 or 15 customers all day on a Monday, I thought there's no point in staying open."

At different times during the project, the restaurant's driveway has been blocked, motorists have been ticketed by police, and Wayne County road signs discourage would-be customers from driving south of Warren Road, Bye said.

Restaurants, which rely on walk-in or impulse spenders, are suffering more than their neighbors said Bye, who also owns Action Landscape and Sprinklers.

"With the landscape business, I don't have to go out with a net and catch the customers," he said.

At the very end of no-man's land, closest to the road closure, sits Canton Ice Cream Center.

Canton families joins in at Czech festival

BY CARA PLOWMAN

cplowman@oe.hometown.com

The 20th annual Sokol Slet tumbled into Dearborn this week to exhibit local and international gymnasts. One Canton family is sending their two daughters to the mats to compete in the world-wide forum.

The Sokol organization was created in Czechoslovakia and has spread into the United States, Canada, Poland, Hungary and Romania. The festivals, or slets, feature activities such as dancing, volleyball, basketball and swimming, in addition to gymnastics, which is very popular in the Czech culture.

This year's festival will be held in the Detroit area for the second time, at Edsel Ford High School Stadium at Rotunda and Pelham roads, Dearborn.

The last slet was held in Prague, Czech Republic.

Sokol is an international society, with members of all nationalities, created in 1862 to promote Czech culture and physical fitness. Founded in 1875, Sokol Detroit, a branch of Sokol, is one of metro Detroit's oldest organizations.

The Gazdags, from Canton, have two daughters competing in the slet today. Melissa, 7, and Stephanie, 10, will both be vying for medals in the vault, uneven bars, high beam and floor routine.

With parents Lori and Russ watching, the two are looking forward to competing. The family isn't Czech but appreciates the training the girls get at the Sokol center in Dearborn.

Startled tenant chases intruder from apartment

A Canton woman called police early Sunday morning when she found a half-naked intruder in her Brookpark apartment.

The woman was sleeping on the sofa at 1:25 a.m., and her 12-year-old daughter and an 11-year-old friend were sleeping in the daughter's bedroom.

The woman woke to use the washroom and was startled to see her 15-year-old neighbor standing behind the door, wearing only a T-shirt and shoes.

The boy told her he was hiding from someone, and she screamed at him, demanding he leave.

The teen lunged at her and grabbed her. The woman's daughter rushed from the bedroom and tried to get the teen away from her mother.

The suspect escaped, climbing from a bedroom window.

When police questioned him, he said he was hiding from men who were trying to steal his cell phone.

The police, who were reported to have investigated several complaints the boy had unlawfully entered other neighbors' apartments, called a local youth home to have him admitted.

Prescription fraud

A 25-year-old Plymouth woman was arrested June 22 after she purchased a bogus prescription for the pain killer Vicodin.

The woman was nabbed outside of Richardson's Super Drugs, 42433 Ford Road after a quick-thinking pharmacist alerted police to the fishy prescription.

The woman admitted to calling the pharmacy, posing as a doctor's receptionist and ordering the narcotics for a fictitious patient.

She told police she ordered the fraudulent prescription because she has a toothache and needed to take something for the pain.

Short-order crook

A cook was investigated for embezzlement after he allegedly stole $855 from his employer, a Canton restaurateur.

COP CALLS

The suspect, a 28-year-old Detroit man, was seen taking the cash from the register.

It was his last day of work, according to his employer, who said he was fired for poor performance.

The suspect claimed he only took just over $400 because his employer had not paid him enough and owed him the money.

The kind-hearted restaurant owner told police he doesn't wish to press charges, and the two of them are square.

Obscene driver

A Belleville mother hopes to see a foul-mouthed man in court. The woman told Canton Police an unknown man verbally assaulted her outside the Canton Public Library last Friday.

She pulled into the circle drive in front of the library in order to drop off a book. A pickup truck blocked her path, so she asked the driver of the truck to move, according to police reports.

When he didn't respond, she honked her car horn.

The pickup truck driver then launched a series of nasty verbal assaults at her, in front of the woman's 11-year-old daughter, who heard every four-letter word.

Another woman exited the library and got into the truck. As the man drove away, he continued to yell obscenities at the mother.

The woman wishes to prosecute and identify the alleged assailant.

Pops and robbers

Canton Police investigated an attempted larceny at Pheasant Run Golf Club last Tuesday.

A club manager reported someone unsuccessfully attempted to pry open three soda machines on the west side of the clubhouse.

One of the machines had been tipped over and dragged 10 feet before the suspects gave up on their heist plans.

Guile include the controversy surrounding the expansion of the high school sports complex involving North Pointe subdivision residents and Canton Township, as well as the tensions caused by an opinion published in the school newspaper concerning Martin Luther King Day.

"I'm very pleased with what she's done for the district," added board member Mark Slavens. "She's put together a great central administration staff, and I see a new mood there. She did well in all areas of the grading, which included personnel, communication with the community, and curriculum."

Trustee Elizabeth Givens said

Booher's review will be discussed at the board's July 10 meeting, at which time the board of education will unveil Booher's goals for the upcoming school year.

Meanwhile, the school board also approved pay increases of 2.76 percent for non-affiliated personnel, which mainly includes administration and staff at the E. J. McClendon Educational Center.

Physical Therapy UPDATE

Hands On Center
Presented by Hands On Center For Physical Therapy

GOLFERS, WATCH YOUR BACKS

While smooth - swinging professional golfers suffer more hand and wrist injuries than low-back injuries, the average golfer's flawed mechanics make his or her back more susceptible to injury. The golf swing stresses the back in three ways: downward, forward and twisting. This sliding, front-to-back - shearing motion. A comparison of professional and amateur golf swings shows that amateurs' swings put 80% more lateral and shear load on their spines than the professionals' more polished swings. And, whether you're a professional or amateur golfer, the peak compressive load that your swing exerts on your lumbar spine is equivalent to eight times your body weight. Thus, golfers have good reason to perfect their swings and condition their bodies properly. If even the thought of picking up a club makes you wince, maybe it's time to ask your physician to give you a referral for physical therapy, rather than give up on actively enjoying the game.

PHYSICAL THERAPY: we provide a wide range of treatments, including orthopedic and neurological therapy, to ensure maximum performance and recovery. To schedule a consultation and exam, call 455-8370. You'll find our offices located in Plymouth, at 470 Forest Avenue, Suite 20. We offer day and evening appointments. Most insurances accepted.

P.S. Most right hand golfers injure muscles on the right side of their backs (particularly the paraspinal muscles that stabilize the vertebrae) because their right sides drive their bodies through the clockwise motion that powers the swing.

tarps, and delayed the opening of the Fun Zone and Sports Den for a little more than three hours.

But the rain didn't keep visitors away for long.

"I don't think the weather deterred anybody from coming out," Conklin said.

The rain also didn't keep volunteers from completing ahead of schedule a new playscape during the festival.

The project to construct the playscape began Thursday evening and wrapped up Saturday night.

"We were going great guns Friday and Saturday, so even though the rain slowed us down for a while it didn't put us behind."

"Weather permitting, the safety surface will be poured on Thursday, and it could be open for use this weekend."

Another Liberty Fest success story was the first Canton Project Arts Canton Celebrates its People ethnic festival Saturday.

"We were delighted. We had great attendance," said Canton Project Arts Chairman Richard Dionne.

The celebration held during Liberty Fest featured seven noncommercial displays in the Project Arts tent as well as four hours of musical entertainment on the amphitheater stage.

"To our great surprise, we discovered our tent was too small," Dionne said. "Isn't that wonderful that was our biggest problem?"

He said the foot traffic through the tent was heavy throughout the weekend, and the amphitheater entertainment attracted a surprising number of viewers, especially when the local performers took the stage.

"People said they've never seen as many people gathered for a performance early in the day," Dionne said.

Dionne said he's certain the event will return in some form next summer.

"We'll be evaluating how things went over the weekend, but my sense is we're certainly going to want to continue."

"As a rule, most of my business is people driving by that say, 'Oh, look there's an ice cream place. Let's stop and have one,'" said Brian Basierbe, owner.

The construction project hit his business hard before the road closure, but the problem has grown worse.

"Business was hurting before but it wasn't devastating me. Now I'm, hoping I don't lose money every day," said Basierbe.

Bye broke the news of the restaurant closure to his dozen employees Monday.

"They're all going to have to go out and get other jobs, so then I will lose the few employees I already have now. I'm going to lose double on this project," he said. Most of the employees are part-time workers, who will not qualify for unemployment. Two cooks are full-time employees, but Bye said they're not likely able or willing to wait for unemployment checks.

"They can go out and get new jobs tomorrow, and I'll have to start all over when we open back up," he said.

The Canton Center Road businesses may fare better if the road signs were more customer friendly, said Bye.

"In Farmington, when there was a big road construction project, there were signs that said the businesses were still open for customers," he said, adding the signs on Canton Center Road discourage drivers from venturing to businesses.

Crow's Nest owner, Domenic Tassielli, agreed.

"There's nothing out there to tell local traffic we're open," Tassielli said.

"My business is open, but the signs say the road is closed 200 feet before my business," said Basierbe.

Complicating an already difficult situation, Canton Police officers were ticketing motorists who ventured south on Canton Center Road on June 18, Tassielli said.

"A regular customer came in the other day to pick up an order and told me he was worried about getting a ticket down here," Tassielli said.

"That was the dumbest damn thing I've ever seen," Basierbe said. "I had a customer that came in to buy a cone, and she got a ticket."

Canton Ice Cream Center will remain open for the duration of the project.

"We're kind of past the point now where we could close," Basierbe said.

The Crow's Nest will not close during the construction project, even though daytime and dinner business have decreased dramatically, Tassielli said.

"We're still doing OK with our night business, so we'll just hang on through the summer," Tassielli said.

Q and A

Q: In a deck of playing cards, do the kings represent actual kings from history?

A: According to the United States Playing Card Company, (the largest manufacturer of playing cards in the world), the King of Clubs is Alexander the Great, (leader of the Greek Empire), the King of Hearts is Charlemagne, (King of the Franks and Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire), the King of Diamonds is a replica of Julius Caesar. The King of Diamonds is the only king in profile because it is said the only picture of Julius Caesar was the profile used on Roman coins.

■ Dog Days! Traditionally, July 3 - Aug. 11 are the hottest days of the year in the Northern Hemisphere. Popularly believed to be an evil time "when the sea boiled, wine turned sour, dogs grew mad, and all creatures became languid, causing man burning fevers, hysterics and phrensies." Originally the days when Sirius, the Dog Star, rose just before or at about the same time as sunrise (no longer true owing to precession of the equinoxes.) Ancients sacrificed a brown dog at the beginning of Dog Days to appease the rage of Sirius, believing that star was the cause of the hot, sultry weather.

His 8-year-old brother was also examined after he complained about ankle pain.

The 20- by-30-foot inflatable toy tipped after a gust of wind lifted it from the ground, Canton Police Lt. Rob Cripe said. Four children were playing on it at the time.

"It looks like it wasn't anchored properly," Cripe said. "It wasn't anchored at all."

The other inflatable attractions he examined were anchored and outfitted with tie-down straps.

"It was a freak accident. It was a very unusual situation, a freak of nature," said Kevin DeVries, owner of Planet X Inc., the company contracted to provide the inflatable games.

The game was not tied down because industry specifications don't require it, DeVries said. The company is looking into going over and above specs in the future, he said.

"This is very unfortunate. We are a safety-conscious company and have had no incidents at all over the five years we've been in business."

The Bungee Run is the least likely of any of the games to be tipped over by the wind because it's only four-feet to nine-feet tall, DeVries said.

A 4-year-old boy was also examined after he fell from the Bungee Run.

"He wasn't injured, but I think he was scared to death," said Rorabacher.

After the incident at 3 p.m. Canton Recreation Supervisor Bob Dates issued the order to deflate the other attractions.

"I decided we should close them down just as a precaution," Dates said.

"The accident was unfortunate," said Leisure Services Director Ann Conklin. "We try to minimize the risk the best we can, but sometimes these accidents happen."

To prepare for emergencies, festival volunteers were equipped with hand-held radios on which they could communicate with each other and with police and fire personnel.

Emergency Medical Services personnel drove a utility cart through the crowds for the duration of the festival, Conklin said.

In addition to the three children who fell from the Bungee Run, four other people were treated or examined for festival-related injuries, Rorabacher said.

Two Canton girls, ages 6 and 8, were examined after they complained of irritated eyes after the fireworks. The girls had some fireworks debris in their eyes, Rorabacher said.

A township employee reported minor injuries after he fell from the new playscape which was constructed during the festival, Rorabacher said. The township employee was working on the new playground equipment with volunteers and fell off.

A 58-year-old man was taken to a nearby hospital during the festival when he complained of chest pains.

"As far as emergencies go, the weekend was pretty uneventful," Rorabacher said. "Any time you get that many people in one spot, there's bound to be a few incidents."

Other township events, such as the annual soccer and softball tournaments typically require about 10 emergency medical runs, he said.

"When you think of all the possible problems you could have with that many people being in one place, everything went very well."

Bill goes up for Denton paving work

BY CAROL MARSHALL

cmarshall@oe.homecomm.net

The Canton Township Board of Trustees approved an award for the Denton Road paving project, despite its inflated price.

The $2.6 million project will cost $786,452 more than anticipated. It will pave Denton Road from Cherry Hill to Geddes Road.

Canton Township will pay for the entire project, except for inspection and testing, which will be paid for by Wayne County.

"Typically, this would be done on an 80-20 split," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, explaining that the township would pay the larger share and the county would pay the balance.

This project, however, did not fit into Wayne County's plans, explained Municipal Services Director Aaron Machnik. Despite multiple conversations with the county, Machnik said the county would not offer more financial support of the project.

"That's a lot of money," said Yack. "Especially since we don't get any (state or federal) road funding."

The money to finance the project will come from the township's Community Improvement Fund, which is generated from landfill royalties, sale of property proceeds and trash disposal funds which are not yet being spent.

Canton requested bids last March, and received only one, from L. Loyer Construction.

Their price was higher than anticipated.

"This price is probably at the higher end (compared to other construction companies)," Machnik said.

The township could have chosen to open the project for rebid or postpone the project until next year, Machnik said.

"Assuming you could get a better price, you still would probably have higher construction costs by waiting until next year," Machnik said. Additionally, the officials had hoped to have the project completed before residential construction projects get too far under way, he added.

The project will likely begin by the end of July and may be completed by the end of October.

"We do have some degree of confidence we will see asphalt down this year," Machnik said.

since she was two, said her favorite event was the floor routine because "I do everything good except for the back somersault." She added that she likes competing. "I've only had two medals, but I'm trying it the best I can."

Stephanie, who's been in Sokol for five years, said her favorite event is the uneven bars. Right now she is competing at level four, one of the highest levels in Sokol competition, with gymnasts who are older. She hopes to coach gymnastics later in life.

"It's very good for their self esteem and confidence," Lori said. "I like to watch them compete. It always brings tears to my eyes, especially when they get their medals. It's a very proud moment."

Mike Cortis, a volunteer for Sokol Detroit, helped organize this year's festival. He expects about 10,000 Sokols to show up.

chairman of the membership committee, said crowds can also expect polka music, authentic food and good family fun.

The organization is half civic (originally created in 1862 as a means to fight for democracy in Czechoslovakia) and half athletics, he said. "A sound mind and a healthy body is a prominent saying among our organization ... Everybody works out and practices," said Cortis, from Novi.

Sokol is run entirely by volunteers. As a result, membership and training is relatively cheap. Russ said Sokol is affordable and was a great way to keep his daughters involved. "Our idea is to keep them busy ... If you don't give them something to do, they'll likely get into trouble."

This year's Sokol Slet runs through Sunday. Admission is $10 adults, $5 under 16.

Sokol Detroit's Cultural Center is in Dearborn Heights on W. Warren Road between Telegraph and Ann Arbor Trail.

Madonna University dedicates Diane DiPonio Wing for nursing

With the addition of the new Diane DiPonio Wing to the Angelo DiPonio Building at Madonna University, the College of Nursing and Health continues to broaden its reach.

Housed in this wing is the national office for the Transcultural Nursing Society, a worldwide organization established in 1974 to promote culturally congruent care. Offices for the hospice education department are also part of the new renovation.

The wing, designed and constructed by Monal Construction and Allen and Laux, was made possible due to the generosity of Mrs. Margaret DiPonio and the Angelo and Margaret DiPonio Foundation, in memory of the DiPonios' daughter, Diane, who died at the age of 39. The DiPonio family has been a major benefactor of Madonna University for many years. In 1991, the building, which houses Madonna University's College of Nursing and Health, was purchased due to a $1.2 million gift from the Angelo and Margaret DiPonio Foundation to honor the late Angelo DiPonio, who was head of Greenfield Construction Co. in Livonia and served two consecutive terms on Madonna's board of trustees.

Among the invited guests attending the dedication of the new wing on Tuesday, May 8, was Margaret Leininger, founder of the Transcultural Nursing Society. Leininger expressed her deep gratitude for the new office and said, "Madonna University is a caring institution. Its mission, like that of the Transcultural Nursing Society, is to serve. It is fitting that the international Transcultural Nursing Society's office has its home here," said Leininger.

Madonna University's Dean of the College of Nursing and Health Mary Wawrynski said, "We, at Madonna University, are extremely blessed to have this beautiful structure which further enhances our commitment to educational quality and service to society."

Established in 1962, Madonna University's nursing program is one of the largest four-year programs in Michigan. Nationally renowned for its high percentage of graduates passing the board examinations on the first attempt, the nursing program has broadened its curriculum to prepare students for the expanded roles within the community. Madonna University's College of Nursing and Health offers the only formal hospice education program in the United States at the bachelor's and master's levels.

Gun owners show support for concealed weapon law

BY ALICE ASHMORE
STAFF WRITER
aashmore@oe.homecomm.net

A decision is expected late this week from the Michigan Supreme Court on the fate of the state's law that would allow the carrying of concealed weapons (CCW).

About 250 gun owners gathered Monday in the Livonia Civic Center Library at a public meeting of the Michigan Coalition of Responsible Gun Owners to express their support for the law.

"Folks, I am expecting a good decision," said Ross Dykman, the executive director of MCRGO. "I think we are on the winning side. We are right and we are numerous. I expect a decision probably by the end of the week."

If upheld, the law is slated to go into effect on July 1. Thirty-two other states have already enacted CCW laws, he said.

The meeting drew several area politicians who expressed their support for the CCW legislation, including state Rep. Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia; state Sen. Chris Dingell, D-Trenton; Westland City Council member Eileen DeHart; Livonia City Council candidate Don Knapp; and Redford Township Trustee Miles Handy.

"It is good to see so many influential people come out," said Richard Dillard, MCRGO Wayne County Chapter chairman.

McCotter urged voters to be ready in 2002 to vote for candidates that support gun ownership rights.

"Your opponents are unconstrained by the truth. Prepare for November 2002 to defend your rights," he said.

McCotter added, "The overwhelming feeling is a total absence of an intellectual element to the other side. It is totally fear based."

He urged members to "keep the high ground" on the CCW issue.

Knapp, who characterized his campaign as a grassroots effort, told the audience, "I want to make it where we don't have a politician (who) tells us what is good and bad for us."

■ 'Your opponents are unconstrained by the truth. Prepare for November 2002 to defend your rights. The overwhelming feeling is a total absence of an intellectual element to the other side. It is totally fear based.'

R-Livonia*

Sen. Thaddeus McCotter: R-Livonia, supports gun-legislation.

Dingell said that opposition to the CCW bill is worried that more guns will lead to more crime.

"Their 'Chicken Little' shrieking will be shown to be baseless," Dingell said. "You have a right to own a pistol and do reasonable things with it."

Macomb County along with nine other Michigan counties have CCW laws in place, Dingell said. "Out of 20,000 permits issued, they have only revoked 12," he added.

Dykman said that CCW opponents "scare the soccer moms and senior citizens by saying they're going to be shootings in parking lots."

Handy said this was the first MCRGO meeting he had attended.

"I just think it is important to protect the Second Amendment," he said. "There are a lot of falsehoods about this law."

"This is a personal issue for me - I'm a sportsman."

One man, who identified himself only as a federal law enforcement officer, said, "I'm for people having guns. That is what the Constitution established; but, I'm all for prosecuting criminals too."

Charles Harris, 24, of Westland is a supporter of the MCRGO. "I think they are supporting a good and righteous cause. They need to keep up their efforts."

Hillary Carey, 23, of Ann Arbor is undecided on the issue.

"I came to hear the opinions," she said.

"I was a little disappointed with some of the comments. There were a few low digs."

She said of the MCRGO, "I don't support it, but I do appreciate their responsible attitude."

John Levis, 58, of Livonia is a MCRGO member. "I've been involved in shooting sports as long as I can remember," Levis said.

"I'm active in this group because I like their approach to gun ownership."

The CCW issue will be crucial to re-election to the state Legislature in the 2002 election, Dykman said.

"We elected our public servants to go to Lansing, and told them we wanted this bill passed," he said. "Everyone who stood firm on CCW was re-elected."

Dykman is confident that the CCW law will be upheld.

"Before it is all said and done we are going to make Michigan the most gun friendly state in the country. We're going to be the envy of Vermont and Florida," Dykman said.

Wayne County Mud Day is July 10

Mud Day returns to Wayne County 11 a.m. Tuesday, July 10. Children, ages 12 and under, are invited to participate in one of Wayne County Parks' most popular events at the Nankin Mills Area of Hines Park.

Wayne County mixes more than 200 tons of topsoil and over 20,000 gallons of water to ensure that the mud is just right and a muddy time is had by all. Youngsters will be separated into categories based on age, to participate in "Mud Limbo" and the wheel barrow races. At the conclusion of the event, Mr. and Miss Mud will be crowned.

To ensure that parents and children are prepared for this day of dirt, it is suggested that parents make sure that children are wearing old clothes and shoes. Children also need to bring a clean change of clothes. An on-site clean up area will be provided. The Wayne County Fire Department will be on hand with hoses to aid in rinsing mud off the children. Parents are also advised to bring a supply of towels, as there are no showers on site. Worried about how to transport the old clothes home? Don't panic, plastic bags will be provided to ensure that all dirty clothes are properly contained for the trip home.

"It's an opportunity for the little ones to get dirty with Mom's permission," said Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara. "They really enjoy it, after all, how often does that happen?"

The Hines Park Nankin Mills area is located on Hines Drive, east of Ann Arbor Trail in Westland. This event has been co-sponsored with the Westland Parks and Recreation Department.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON - STUDY SESSION OF JUNE 19, 2001

A study session of the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Canton held Tuesday, June 19, 2001. Supervisor Yack at 7:00 p.m. called the meeting to order.

Members Present: Bennett, Burdzyak, Kirchgatter, Lajoie, McLaughlin, Shefferly, Yack

Members Absent: None

Staff Present: Aaron Machnik

Others Present: James Connelly, Mick Blunden, George Hathaway, Representing DTE Energy, Tim Faas, WTUA; Glen Shaw, John McLennahan, Doug Shaw, Bill Griffin, Erin Powers

Mr. James Sharp of 5270 Barr Road addressed the Board asking for assistance with a problem related to the sale of his home on Barr Road. In March of 1994, Mr. Sharp began contacting the Ordinance Department, making a complaint regarding a parcel across the road related to junk cars and trash on the homestead sites. The case was closed upon clean up of the location. Most recently, the case was reopened in the ordinance department by a complaint made by Mr. Sharp in May of 2001. Mr. Sharp said that he was tired of being a low priority for Canton and is seeking a legal council to solve the clean up a problem. He has been told that he must sue both the property owner and Canton Township.

Director Machnik indicated that it was the impression of the inspector is that the house was being vacated. Violations have been issued to the residents of the rental unit. There is information that indicates that the parcel has been very recently sold to a developer who seeks to demolish the two buildings on the parcel. Director Machnik outlined the process for demolition. Mr. Sharp agreed to provide information regarding this issue to Mr. Machnik. He thanked the Board and indicated he expected to see some kind of action within 30 days.

Supervisor Yack said that over the course of the last couple of years, the deregulation of electric service has set some new standards for the generation, distribution and sale of electric power. In 1998 at the time our franchise with Detroit Edison expired Canton Township felt it was wise to look at the whole service issue. Our Counsel has recommended that we adopt an Electric Franchise Ordinance. This ordinance would allow us to regulate those who provide power and sell power in the Canton Community. Mr. Mick Blunden of DTE Energy indicated the public will have the opportunity in January of 2002 to choose which company they buy their kilowatts of power from. He said that the DTE has issues with the draft ordinance related to length of the franchise and the cost of the franchise fee. Mr. Hathaway responded by saying that the franchise fee had to reflect actual administrative costs and could not be a way to create additional revenue.

Trustee McLaughlin indicated that restoration of the right of ways has been a serious problem and was compounded by the cable industry. Mr. Connelly responded that the issue is a serious one for DTE as well. They pay permit fees to Wayne County for road cuts and feel this draft ordinance language equals paying twice for the same guarantee of service. The Public Service Commission regulates the electric business and our ordinance is a duplication of the oversight of the Commission.

Mr. Faas reviewed the Business Plan for WTUA. There are 7 prime objectives are in the business plan. They include meeting an aggressive flow metering program, building pumping stations for redirection projects, buffering population projections with and addition 1 mgd of capacity; looking at capital alternative for service; negotiating the expansion of YCUA; negotiating the sale of RVIS capacity and communicating the business plan. Four secondary objectives for WTUA are developing a plan for flow separation related to the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township; indirectly dealing with non-point source pollution or storm water management issues; keeping and eye on the combined sewer overflow issues/ cost's and attempting to secure the rights to the institutional capacity still available in the RVIS system for our partners in WTUA. Mr. Faas explained the process for the expansion of YCUA and its benefits for the WTUA communities. Proposed construction to begin in 2003. The expansion will be completed in 2006. Canton Townships cost will be about $47,000,000.

A review of the assessing process was described by Mr. McLennahan. He said that a software program called Equalizer was placed in the Budget for 2001. The cost of the Software is $13,000. It is estimated that $5,700 is needed for the download of information in our present data base to the Equalizer software program. Equalizer software will require hand entry of all the information that is presently on the hand written inventory sheets for each property. There are presently more than 24,000 of those. That cost is around $150,000. It must be done by individuals who are familiar with the assessment process and language used by the profession. This process will take about two tax seasons to complete. Many other communities in Wayne County are converting to this software program. It is the industry standard. There are additional software components available for purchase that can be used in the treasurer's office and in the building department. Motion by Bennett, supported by McLaughlin at 10:20 p.m. to adjourn. Motion carried unanimously.

The above is a synopsis of the study session which followed the regular board meeting on June 19, 2001. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular board meeting of June 26, 2001

Incident shouldn't deter effort to expand festival

Sunday's Liberty Fest accident – an inflatable attraction that tipped injuring three children – is startling for a couple of reasons. First, it shattered a decade-long safety record of no serious incidents marring Canton's annual summer festival. Second, it revealed a gap in the way safety issues are addressed by festival planners and participating vendors.

We hope for a speedy recovery for the 11-year-old Canton boy who broke his wrist when he tumbled from the Bungee Run; his 8-year-old brother who hurt an ankle; and their family. Another child, 4, was shaken but not seriously hurt.

Still, the Observer hopes the mishap doesn't significantly change the festival's recent efforts to broaden its appeal to older kids and their families, something the Bungee Run and other inflatable games were designed to do when they were added several years ago. The reality is that without them, Liberty Fest is closer to a weekend craft fair and car show, with food concessions and a little entertainment thrown in.

That mix might be a good warm-up for Saturday night's fireworks show but hardly something that competes with the myriad of summer carnivals in nearby communities such as Belleville, Westland and Livonia.

The 20-by-30-foot inflatable wasn't tied down, as others were, which is why it tipped following a gust of wind, Canton Police Lt. Rob Cripe said. But Planet X

Inc. owner Kevin DeVries, whose company provided the inflatable games, said the Bungee Run wasn't anchored because industry specifications don't require it. At a height that ranges from 4 to 9 feet along the length of the game, it has a relatively low center of gravity, he said.

"This is very unfortunate. We are a safety conscious company and have had no incidents at all over the five years we've been in business," he added.

In the future, we believe safety requirements for festival attractions should be set by the township or Wayne County, monitored by local officials, and spelled out in contracts signed by vendors. This is similar to the approach adopted for food vendors, which require either township approval or an inspection from the county health department, depending on their complexity.

We note the rest of the festival was uneventful in terms of medical emergencies. Two complaints from girls of irritated eyes after the fireworks; an adult volunteer who fell of the playscape during the refurbishing project; and a man who was taken to a nearby hospital after complaining of chest pains. That's not bad when you consider that the festival, which typically draws 50,000 or more over four days, turns Heritage Park into a "suburb" of Canton.

So while evaluation and action after the incident is a must, drastic change clearly isn't necessary.

Racial profiling bills come up short in Lansing, D.C.

Something certainly needs to be done about racial profiling – the propensity of some police officers to stop motorists for DWB (Driving While Black). But that something definitely isn't the Michigan Racial Profiling and Report Statistics Act (HB 4927), or its federal cousin, the Racial Profiling Act of 2001. That bill was introduced in Congress this spring and co-sponsored by Rep. Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick, D-Detroit.

Before we dissect the flaws of both proposals, we should note that racial profiling is a serious and complex problem, despite years of denial by law enforcement agencies that have only recently changed their tune. With the shifting racial and ethnic makeup of western Wayne and Oakland counties, the potential for increasing abuse of constitutional rights by police is magnified. African Americans may have been the most prominent group to speak out on this deplorable practice. But those of Arab, Asian or Hispanic decent have been victimized as well.

The solution, which won't be easy to come by, will require a carefully crafted mix of education, training and disciplinary actions aimed at law enforcement agencies where problems persist. All of these factors, we note, are addressed in the proposed state and federal legislation.

So where did our lawmakers go wrong? Well, the devil this time really is in the details. And you can add in the fact that political appeasement, rather than careful study, seems to be the motivating factor in both cases.

Let's take the Michigan House bill, introduced last month by Rep. Samuel Thomas, D-Detroit, first. It's main component is a mandatory requirement for a detailed report – in addition to the standard police report – regarding the race and ethnicity of all vehicle occupants. The report, which can be filed on paper or electronically, is required for all stops by all law enforcement agencies, whether or not a citation was issued. Copies for public access must be kept at the local police department for three years and a quarterly compilation of reports is to be turned over to the state department of civil rights.

Under the legislation, the civil rights department will issue an annual report. It also has the power to determine, based on the number of complaints and other factors, whether any police agency may be required to document activities beyond the three-year period.

When we say the proposed legislation requires a detailed report, we mean it. HB 4927 spells out no less than 20 items for each vehicle occupant that must be recorded by the officer "during or immediately following" the stop. The items range from identifying the "race, gender, ethnicity and approximate age of the driver and any passengers" to whether forfeiture proceedings were subsequently instituted against the vehicle.

Farmington Hills Police Chief Bill Dwyer, who is president of the Michigan Association of Police Chiefs, estimates that officers in Farmington Hills make 50,000 traffic stops each year. If the average vehicle carries two occupants, that would mean 100,000 additional reports filed annually in just one community.

Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro maintains that comparing the race and ethnicity of vehicle occupants to the residential makeup of the community isn't necessarily valid.

Reporting requirements aside, the collection of data would normally prove valuable. In this case though, the interpretation of that data leaves many questions unanswered. Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro has said that comparing the race and ethnicity of vehicle occupants to the makeup of the community, frequently done in the past, isn't relevant in large, suburban communities. The makeup of the commuting population is often vastly different than the residential population.

The proposed federal legislation, on the other hand, is all about money. It would "ban" the practice of racial profiling and withhold federal road repair funding from states if they fail to record the race of people detained by law enforcement officers. Congress is expected to dole out nearly $250 billion in funding for road, bridge and freeway projects next year.

Around here, we call that throwing out the baby with the bath water. Local projects such as the $7.5 million CSX-Sheldon Road bypass in Plymouth – paid for with a combination of local, county and federal money – could be jeopardized because of poor police performance on the other side of the state.

Lastly, in this age of increasing concerns about privacy, the question of whether or not residents want their local police department and state government to have still more personal information within easy reach is a legitimate one. We note that neither of the proposed measures contains language limiting how that information is to be used or who will have access to it.

■ CCW may have helped

In Brad Kadrich's article on the Plymouth shooting ("In society today, safety is never a certain feeling," Observer, June 7) why wasn't the right to carry a concealed firearm mentioned?

Sir, you mention that a piece of paper (PPO) did not save her; neither did calling 911. If she had the right to carry a concealed weapon, perhaps she might still be with us.

I know this is a touchy subject, but having the right to protect ourselves, and our loved ones is not a touchy subject, it's common sense.

■ Gun education works

The latest study for TV gun control "study" claims that education doesn't work. It sure makes you wonder.

Since the Eddie Eagle program has taught more than 12 million grade school children to avoid guns ("Stop, Don't Touch, Leave the area, Tell an adult") and it has been shown to be effective in changing behavior, this latest "study" by researchers who have a long history of questionable anti-gun "research" sure does make a person curious.

Are these gun control groups interested in safety, or merely in advancing their political agenda?

Isn't it interesting that education works for sex education, for drug education, for anger management, for all other areas, but if you ask self-appointed anti-gun doctors, education does not work for gun safety.

Only removing guns from a home will work.

Why did the Million Mom March (MMM) turn down an offer to give away free gun locks, and then drum out the MMM volunteer who suggested it.

According to the National Safety Council, which has no ax to grind in this debate, the number of children killed in gun accidents is now below 190 per year. Not the "12 kids a day" malarkey the gun control groups spout, and the number has been dropping for decades. Gun owners are doing something right.

You will know a person, and a group, by what they do, not what they say. Gun owners have been on the front line of gun safety education for a century, and it's working. All of the sudden, the gun-control lobby and their anti-gun doctors tell us that education doesn't work, that they are the gun safety experts, and that we simply have to lock up our guns or turn them in? And when offered the chance to give away free gun locks, they turn it down?

Something doesn't add up here, and it's the phony math and the bogus "studies" of the gun-control lobby.

■ Racial profiling

I applaud Attorney General Jennifer Granholm and Rep. Samuel Thomas on the three-part legislation to ban racial profiling. Evidenced is thought in the legislation. Funding for sensitivity training and review of complaints by a third party are positive pluses. It is past time that racial profiling was eliminated in Michigan and elsewhere. I urge complete support for House Bill 4927.

■ Approach short-sighted

I have read with interest recent articles in the Observer regarding the projected budget shortfall for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

There has likewise been much public discussion of the inequality of state funding for the PCCS district compared to neighboring districts such as Livonia, Ann Arbor, and Northville. The candidates for the board of education were on record supporting efforts to secure increased per pupil funding from the legislature, but appeared to be against attempts to address this problem locally by means of local enhancement millage proposals.

At present, this approach is unrealistic. Although Proposal A has resulted in a budget shortfall for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, the district's foundation grant is sufficient to cover its operating expenses.

Unfortunately, rapid population growth and the cost of doing business in southeastern Michigan have made these funds insufficient. Legislators from other districts are unlikely to support measures to raise the foundation grant for PCCS and the several other suburban districts with financial difficulties resulting from Proposal A.

The discrepancy in funding between the Plymouth-Canton District and neighboring districts resulted from the failure of Plymouth-Canton voters to pass three millage proposals in the years preceding Proposal A. Consequently, although Plymouth and Canton are prosperous communities, their schools are under-funded compared with the schools of neighboring districts. Although Proposal A was designed to correct these discrepancies over time, it will be many decades until funding in these districts is equalized.

Currently, Representatives Godchaux (R-Birmingham), Patterson (R-Canton), Hart (R-Grand Rapids) and Stewart (R-Plymouth) are co-sponsoring legislation that would allow Plymouth-Canton and similarly situated districts to raise funds through a local enhancement millage.

This legislation would allow districts to hold a 1 mill enhancement, not to be shared county-wide, and would offer Plymouth-Canton voters an opportunity to reclaim responsibility for their children's education.

Over the long term, it may be also possible for legislators to rewrite the Proposal A formula to aid districts which, like Plymouth-Canton, entered 1993 in a negative funding mode, and which have experienced subsequent financial hardship due to rapid population growth.

■ Central's fate

Regarding Mr. Bruscato's article on Central Middle School:

Central Middle School is the property of the Plymouth Canton Community Schools. The school board should properly decide if it is worth the expenditure to maintain this old building. If the school board decides to keep up Central, that is all well and good. If the board decides to close the school and sell the property, that is well and good too.

If Mr. Byers wishes to have the facility where it is regardless of the school board's decision, then let him raise the money to purchase the building, and to renovate it, from the taxpayers in Plymouth who will benefit from it.

■ Pobur not to blame

I'm writing in response to stories printed in the Detroit Free Press on June 5 and the Plymouth Crier on June 8. The information in the articles is false and unfairly attacks the professional reputation of Colleen Pobur, former director of airport concessions for Wayne County.

The articles state that the county responded to the problems at the airport by transferring Colleen Pobur to the county parks department. This is absolutely untrue. We were very fortunate to have Ms. Pobur lead the effort that created the Metro Airport Midfield Concessions Program. Her new assignment reflects our decision to utilize her talents on another key Wayne County program, nothing more. Her record at the airport speaks for itself.

Under Ms. Pobur's leadership, Wayne County achieved an incredibly successful competitive proposal process that produced the Midfield Terminal concessions program, widely recognized as one of the most successful programs in the nation. Over one thousand firms and individuals participated in this fair and open solicitation – an overwhelming response by any standard. Ms. Pobur designed a program that accomplished all of the county's goals in an environment and industry where everyone said it could not be done.

The concessions program leads the industry in diversity with almost 50 percent of the shops' and restaurants' revenues going to minority-owned and women-owned businesses. It brings an unprecedented level of quality and customer service to Metro Airport by offering a wide variety of local and national products and by guaranteeing that concessionaires cannot charge more for food or merchandise at the airport than they do at off-airport locations. The concessionaires are paying for over $30 million worth of construction while returning one of the country's highest concession fees to Wayne County.

Wayne County would never have achieved these results without Colleen Pobur's professional integrity and her unwavering commitment to building the best airport concessions program in the country through fairness, a completely open public process and the highest ethics possible.

Results of term limits is not a pretty picture

A constitutional amendment limiting terms in office for state legislators was approved by 59 percent of Michigan voters in 1992.

Representatives were limited to three terms (six years), effective in 1998, when nearly the entire membership of the House turned over. The two-term (eight years) limit for the Senate will take effect in 2002.

Supporters argued limiting terms would get rid of careerists, who made an entire career of being elected over and over again. Professional politicians would be replaced by "citizen politicians," who would bring new ideas to state government, do what's right and limit interest-group influence. I confess that I was one of the people who made those arguments.

We now have had three years' experience with one house of a term-limited legislature. What does the evidence show? It's not a pretty picture. Instead of encouraging citizen politicians, term limits appear to have provoked a frenzy of political ambition, with legislators obsessed with running for the next office "up" once their term is over. Far from bringing ordinary citizens into the process, term limits have worked perversely to increase political churn.

New ideas? Not so you'd notice. In fact, most legislation introduced amends bills previously passed. Better connections between state government and ordinary folks? Because legislators don't have enough time to gain expertise and experience, they have become more dependent on bureaucrats, lobbyists and staff members.

Here's a concrete example, gleaned from a knowledgeable and experienced Lansing hand whom I've known and trusted for years but who wishes to be anonymous:

Last year, a leading member of the House walked into the negotiations for the budget for fiscal year 2001 complete with an armload of demands that had to be met in order to get agreement. These demands were for millions in pork projects solely in that representative's district. From this event arose something called a "leadership agreement," which means that to get approval, enough pure pork has to be fed into the process to satisfy members of the legislative leadership.

It's still going on. This year, tucked into an obscure corner of the proposed budget on community health, emerged another "leadership agreement" that would dump $2 million into an Arab cultural center in West Bloomfield, which just happens to be in the district of one of the leaders.

As my source says, "This isn't public policy, it isn't advocacy for an issue or a program, which is the way budgets and appropriations used to be worked out. It's pure distillation of pork, under the packaging of a 'leadership agreement.' And the people who are doing it don't know any better because they have no experience with the way a sane and responsible appropriations process works."

As someone who was originally a supporter of term limits, I have concluded the notion was a bad idea whose time had come. As a practical matter, a legislator in office for only six years is not going to learn enough about what's going on to be effective. And a legislator who spends most of the time figuring out how to run for the next office is not going to be particularly courageous or responsible.

My Lansing sources say the budgeting and appropriations process now going in the capital as become chaotic because House members, with no experience in crafting a tight budget in hard economic times don't know what they're doing. And most people who have anything to do with Lansing simply sigh and roll their eyes at what will happen in 2003, after the experienced members of the Senate have left.

What's the solution? Some say term limits should be repealed. Others say they should be lengthened to, say, 12 years.

Either way, we need start a public discussion about changing this bad law. I'd urge readers to call their local lawmakers and ask them to come clean about how they feel about how things are going now with term limits. Most, if they're being honest, will say the present system stinks.

GOP unbothered with sportsman-like conduct

You've probably read the news stories about parents behaving in an unsportsmanlike fashion at little league ball games. Moms and dads get riled and turn their wrath on umpires, coaches, other parents and sometimes even players.

It's a shame, but in my experience — I have two boys who spent many evenings this spring at local ball fields — it's extremely rare. In fact, it's apparently unusual enough that it still warrants news coverage.

Compare that to poor sportsmanship in the state Capitol. That barely raises an eyebrow these days.

Any 9 year old knows that when you are way ahead, you don't just run up the score. That's when it's easy to be a good sport, when you can shrug off a wide strike, a bad call, even a few easy runs.

Little leaguers know this, but does the Republican leadership in the Michigan House of Representatives? Apparently not.

The issue was apportionment — the once-a-decade process of redrawing district boundaries following every census count. The GOP already has this game in the bag. Republicans control the House and the Senate. They have a Republican in the governor's office. And if it is inappropriate to say we have a Republican Supreme Court, it would also be untrue to deny that the justices are philosophically aligned with the conservative party.

Wouldn't this be the perfect time for Republicans to show an extra measure of sportsmanship in the redistricting process? Wouldn't this be the time to throw the process wide open, for all to see. Wouldn't this be the time to make sure everyone gets to have his say?

So, is that what Republicans did? Anything but. Instead, they hid their plan until the last possible moment. They denied they even had one up until moments before they voted final approval.

Rep. Andrew Richner, R-Grosse Pointe Park, introduced what can only be described as a stealth apportionment plan Thursday, June 14. The bill was literally blank. It contained no description of districts. It contained no maps.

At a hearing the next Tuesday, scheduled by Elections Committee chairman Rep. Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, Democrats put their plan on the table for public viewing. But Democrats also made a tactical error, making a motion to approve their plan. That gave Republicans a chance to escape the committee room without ever having to show theirs. They jumped at it without hesitation.

By Thursday afternoon, June 21, Richner had a 403-page bill ready to go for consideration on the floor, complete with maps. And they had built a consensus in caucus, 57 of them in agreement to support this suddenly produced bill.

They quickly tossed out the Democratic plan they'd approved in committee and replaced it with Richner's stealth plan. Then they voted final approval for it as fast as they could — no time for messy analysis by the opposing party, no time for any unseemly commentary from the public.

Republicans apparently expect us all — Democrats, the press and the public alike — to believe they didn't have the plan done one week earlier when Richner introduced a blank bill. They apparently expect us to believe it wasn't done two days earlier for the committee hearing.

The process of apportionment has long been dysfunctional in Michigan. In 1982, the state Supreme Court tossed out a section of the state constitution that assigned the job to an apportionment commission. The court said the commission was unworkable. And it was right.

But the justices ordered state lawmakers to come up with another system, and what they came up with was to let representatives and senators draw their own districts.

It is an obvious conflict of interest, but one state lawmakers conveniently ignore.

Bills were passed last year that they swear will make apportionment fair this year. But if the recent actions of the House are any indication of how this process will proceed, it is clear it's still dysfunctional.

I hope the justices of the Supreme Court will see that when it gets to them — as it always does — and order that apportionment be taken out of the hands of the state House and Senate.

Religious Right views its doctrines under gov attack

The "religious right" is hardly conservative. Rather, it seeks the tools of government to promote its doctrine and the assets of government to pay for its work. The religious right is authoritarian.

Tim Richard

Until this month, the religious right has lost one case after another in the courts for 20 or so years. First it sought "parental" (read: fundamentalist minister) control of the literature curriculum in the South. Next it sought — and still seeks — to have the biblical fundamentalist tale of creation taught as science in public schools.

Last year the issue was a "nonsectarian" prayer before a football game in the Santa Fe district of Texas — as if God were going to take sides between the Cougars and the Panthers. The U.S. Supreme Court saw through that one, striking down the prayer policy on a 6-3 vote.

The three dissenters were the high court's three most authoritarian justices — William Rehnquist, Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas. In his fulmination, Rehnquist echoed the wildest of the religious right arguments, contending the majority ruling "bristles with hostility to all things religious in public life." Read the opinion. Rehnquist is imagining things.

But that's the essence of the religious right appeal. It sees religion — especially Protestant fundamentalism — as under governmental attack. It's revealing to see who represented Santa Fe in arguments before the Supreme Court: Jay Sekulow, of the Rev. Pat Robertson's American Center for Law and Justice.

In May the Supreme Court dealt the religious right another blow, again on a 6-3 vote with Rehnquist, Scalia and Thomas dissenting. The court decided against taking a case asking whether a granite marker display of the Ten Commandments in front of the Elkhart, Ind., city hall violated the constitutional prohibition against government establishment of religion. The city had lost in the lower courts, so the Supreme Court effectively upheld those decisions.

The authoritarian three said they would have taken the case and found nothing wrong with the monument's display. Their dissent was unusual because justices rarely write dissents when the majority decides against taking up a case.

Finally, however, the Supreme Court gave the religious right a victory in a case from a public school in Milford, N.Y. A youth group called the Good News Club asked to hold after-class prayer and Bible study meetings. No, said the school board — civic and social groups like the Scouts are OK, but not a worship service.

The Supreme Court ruled 6-3 in favor of the Good News Club. Thomas wrote the opinion, joined, of course, by Rehnquist and Scalia. They also were joined by two of the court's moderates — Sandra Day O'Connor and Anthony Kennedy and the liberal Stephen Breyer.

Thomas wrote the kind of opinion the religious right loves: "When Milford denied the Good News Club access to the school's limited public forum on the ground that the club was religious in nature, it discriminated against the club because of its religious viewpoint in violation of the free speech clause of the First Amendment."

Whoopie! said the Rutherford Institute, which argued the club's case and promotes the view that government is "hostile toward religion." You've heard of the Rutherford Institute in Michigan — the folks who argued that a portrait of Jesus in a school hallway wasn't a governmental promotion of religion.

The Supreme Court majority held the public school was discriminating against the Christian youth club's right of free speech. The school permitted Scout and 4-H groups to use the building after hours but said it was rejecting the Good News Club's request on the ground that it wasn't discussing child rearing, character development and morals but was in fact giving religious instruction.

Well, the religious right won a fairly narrow victory, but it did win. After years of trumpeting that government was hostile to religion, it found a case to support its view. But you have to expect they'll be back. They have lots of hate in their hearts, and lots of lawyers, and they'll file lots of cases. And government has lots of money and buildings that the RR would like to control.

But mostly they'll lose.

Bill would require police tape confessions

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

Confessions in felony cases would have to be videotaped by police, under a new bill just introduced in the Legislature. But a failure to tape a criminal's statement would not lead to dismissal of the charges.

Rep. Alan Sanborn, R-Richmond, introduced House Bills 4958 and 4959, requiring videotaping. The bills are the result of issues raised in the wake of the Justin Mello murder case in Macomb County. Two men, ages 18 and 20, were held for six months based on their confessions, which they later claimed had been coerced. But eventually charges were dismissed when a third man, already in jail for a multi-state crime spree, confessed to the killing.

Prosecutor Carl Marlinga however maintained that the confessions were not coerced and has urged videotaping as a way of showing evidence that interviews were conducted properly by police.

Sanborn said the purpose of his bill is to support police, to be able show that confessions were not coerced when they are called into question later. But as a former probation officer, he recognizes that there may be problems with such a requirement.

"We will be working with policy agencies to make sure this is workable," he said. "We don't want to require tape recording of every arrest. That would be implausible."

Sanborn sees a number of potential problems with his bill that need to be ironed out. If there is a requirement to tape confessions, will that make other confessions not on tape less credible in court?

Already in the bills is a provision that specific states statements and evidence are not to be excluded from court if police fail to tape interviews with suspects.

Sanborn said he does not want a bill that would require officers to carry additional equipment around with them while on patrol.

He said he also recognizes that smaller police departments may not have the funding needed to purchase new videotaping equipment. If state money cannot be allocated to the purchase of equipment for those departments, then a requirement might turn into an unfunded mandate for local units of government.

Sanborn said he hopes to get input from police departments and agencies over the summer.

Bikers rally for repeal of state helmet law

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

"I'm over 21. I don't need the government to tell me how to dress. I don't need the government to tell me what to eat and I don't need the government in my house," said Angel Burton-Ristau of Waterford.

She's the communications director for the Michigan Chapter of American Bikers Aiming Toward Education (ABATE) and the comment was her explanation of her support for a repeal of Michigan's mandatory motorcycle helmet law.

An estimated 500 bikers gathered on the Capitol steps in Lansing Wednesday, June 6, and chanted "Let those who ride decide" in support of House Bill 4823. It would lift helmet restrictions for experienced riders.

The bill won approved from the House Transportation Committee in an 11-5 vote and now moves to the House floor for consideration. Sponsored by Rep. Gene DeRossett, R-Manchester, the legislation would lift the helmet restriction for riders over age 21 who have two years experience on a motorcycle or have completed a safety course.

Also speaking in support of the bill were Rep. Andrew Raczowski, R-Farmington Hills, and Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield. Raczowski, Reps. John Stewart, R-Plymouth, Glenn Anderson, D-Westland, and Bob Gosselin, R-Troy, are co-sponsors of the bill.

"This is about restoring personal freedom and responsibility," said DeRossett. "Experienced adult riders should have the option to choose not to wear a helmet. It should be their decision alone."

According to DeRossett, motorcycle fatalities have not dropped since the mandatory helmet law went into effect 25 years ago.

Some 30 states do not require helmets, including all of Michigan's border states.

Peters, himself a biker, told the crowd that the first thing he does once he's crossed the state line is take off his helmet "because there is no other feeling like it in the world."

Helmets no help

DeRossett also argues some research shows helmets may actually contribute to accidents by cutting down on visibility, hearing and trapping heat, leading to rider fatigue.

"I think I would probably still wear one myself," said Randy Raines of Onondaga, a biker among the crowd rallying at the Capitol steps. "But it should be my choice."

He noted that the law does not require moped riders over age 19 to wear helmets. But testing has not shown helmets to be effective at preventing injury at speeds over 13 miles per hour, he argued.

A Plymouth man, who would identify himself only by his biker name, "Popeye," argued that it is an issue of personal freedom.

"If you are a good rider, it isn't going to matter," he said of the question of safety. "You have to drive defensively, but I've put 200,000 miles on my bike without a problem."

Various lawmakers have attempted to overturn the rule 19 times. ABATE attorney Larry Katkowsky said he has challenged tickets written by police to riders without helmets, on the grounds the Michigan State Police has not properly formulated rules on what constitutes an approved helmet as is required under the 25-year-old law. He said judges typically toss out tickets written by police in the counties of Huron, Iosco, Arenac, Clinton and Montcalm and the cities of Wayne, Westland and Wyandotte.

COME ENJOY COOL NIGHTS

BARBECUE, FIREWORKS AND FUN AWAIT YOU IN PONTIAC

BY SHARON DARGAY
STAFF WRITER

More fireworks. Added children's activities. Plenty of barbecue. And the best news about Pontiac Cool Nights Festival this weekend is the admission price — it's free.

From the Pointer Sisters concert on Friday night to the final burst of pyrotechnics on Sunday, the second annual Fourth of July party will keep families in the holiday spirit through three days of free, fun activities.

"I think the Cool Nights sets itself apart from other festivals by giving people what they want for Fourth of July," said Jon Witz, founder and festival producer. "There are three nights of fireworks — the highest in the sky tradition. We have barbecue, which you think of for Fourth of July, and outdoor concerts."

"Some festivals are about fireworks. Some are about food. I think this festival is about everything."

And from a music standpoint, you can't get more culturally diverse."

Witz counts 14 different music styles in the three-day line-up of local and national acts, which include The Pointer Sisters, George Clinton and the P-funk All-stars and The Romantics.

Festival organizers added children's activities to this year's schedule, hoping to turn the food and music fest into a family party.

"All the kids had last year were the fireworks. We're excited to add the family programming," Witz noted.

Youngsters who stop by the arts and crafts zone can make funky hats and creative bead necklaces, decorate plaster figurines and shape candle wax.

Pontiac Cool Nights

What: A three-day festival of entertainment, food, children's activities and fireworks.

When: 4-11 p.m., on Friday, 11 a.m.-11 p.m., on Saturday and Sunday.

Where: Located at the top of the Phoenix Center and in Lot 9 (at the foot of the Phoenix Center)

Admission: Free

And they can ooh and aah with their families through three fireworks shows. Displays start at approximately 9:30 p.m., each night, preceding the national music acts.

"There's something for everyone. Our formula is to get corporate sponsors to pay for event costs. We make the food and beverages affordable and give the proceeds to charity partners," Witz noted.

Organizers apply the same formula to Arts, Beats & Eats, a late summer taste, music and art festival which will swing into its fourth year in July.

"We've given away a half million dollars to charity in three years at Arts, Beats & Eats. That's without charging anyone admission. And we make sure our food items don't cost more than $4.50. Drinks are $2," Witz said.

"I think the companies we have dealt with come back (for sponsorship) because they see us making a great event. Events like Arts, Beats & Eats show a track record. It shows we'll do the right thing at Pontiac Cool Nights."

General Motors is the title sponsor for Pontiac Cool Nights. Meijer, MotorCity Casino and AutoHahn Network are among the 15 corporations that underwrite everything from the fireworks to barbecue contest.

"I'm grateful for the sponsors we have. All of the sponsors came back from the first Cool Nights last year. The event costs $200,000-$250,000 to produce."

FESTIVAL

Echo & The Bunnymen, Spacehog invade TasteFest

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
STAFF WRITER
scasola@oe.homecomm.net

The sounds spilling from the New Center corridor at this year's Comerica TasteFest spell revival. From the modern-day glam of Spacehog to the post punk of Echo & The Bunnymen, Detroit aims to celebrate Independence Day the unlikely way — with a decidedly British flair.

Spacehog

Get out your glitter as this year's TasteFest delivers New York-based and U.K. bred Spacehog. The British quartet invade 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 3 on the Farmer Jack Stage. Influenced by legends like David Bowie, T. Rex and Roxy Music, Spacehog hit national acclaim in 1995 with In The Meantime. Still meandering the velvet goldmine of glam rock, the band's recent release The Hoggysy is supposedly singer Royston Langdon's idea of a tribute to his favorite flick — 2001 A Space Odyssey.

His brother and bandmate Antony Langdon admits, he's got no idea where the name came from. "It was my brother's bloody idea so I would have to Listen: Echo & The Bunnymen make an appearance at this year's Comerica TasteFest.

Comerica TasteFest

What: Features sights, sounds, treats and shopping by a plethora of metro area vendors.

When: 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday, June 30 through Tuesday, July 3; 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 4.

Where: Detroit's New Center Area, along West Grand Boulevard, between Woodward Avenue and the Lodge Freeway and adjacent to the Fisher Building.

Admission: No charge. For more information: Call (313) 927-1101 or visit www.tastefest.org.

answer these questions," he said during a phone interview from New York City. "I think he's completely loony. There is no connection apart from the title. It was going to be 2001: A Space Hoggysy.

With songs like the majestic opener Jupiter's Moon and the sarcastic commentary on American culture force-fed by This Is America, Spacehog doesn't hold back. The band formed seven years ago, and features the brothers Langdon along with fellow Brit's Jonny Cragg and Richard Steele.

"In 1994 we got the band together and we were rock stars by 1996," recalled Antony Langdon.

On The Hoggysy, he penned what will become the next single, At Least I Got Laid. "My songs are always pretty comedic," he said. "It's (about) a sad state of affairs, the gluttony of being in a rock and roll band and what that's like. It's the saddest thing in the world to say to someone."

This great spacecoaster has faced its ups and downs, though. Falling in and out of popular music favor tends to take its toll on Langdon. "We were big rock stars and then we were not big rock stars, it's a strange process," he said.

Whether its members are making headlines with their personal lives, as Royston Langdon has done since marrying actress and rock princess Liv Tyler, or for snatching up some fantastic tours, like the Brotherly Love Tour where the band opened for Oasis and The Black Crowes — Spacehog seems to be soaring again.

Please see TASTEFEST, B2

The band looks forward to playing more of its own material at TasteFest this year. "It's more of a job to try and win over the crowd," said Langdon. "We're a bit more gung-ho."

Echo & the Bunnymen

"Will Sergeant won't hesitate to tell you - he is and will forever be punk at heart. Sergeant, along with Ian McCulloch, are founding members of Echo & The Bunnymen. Known for songs like 1987's unmistakable hit Lips Like Sugar, Echo & The Bunnymen might be the only example of a group that can disband for a decade (1987 to 1997) and reform only to recapture its magic. The band will perform 7 p.m. Saturday, June 30, on the Farmer Jack Stage at TasteFest.

With the release of Echo & The Bunnymen's ninth record, Flowers, the future sounds as sweet as its past. So far, Flowers has won comparisons to the band's heyday, records like the acclaimed Ocean Rain. But Sergeant doesn't see it that way. "I don't get that at all. If people think it sounds like Ocean Rain, I think that's great."

A mutual friend and manager, Alan Wills introduced the musicians who would come to round out The Bunnymen: bassist Alex Germains, drummer Vincent Jamieson and keyboardist Ceri James. Each was plucked straight from the Liverpool scene to make an appearance on Flowers.

The line-up isn't all that's changed. The relationship between longtime collaborators McCulloch and Sergeant is now strained. "There have been dodgy areas," said Sergeant. "Just lately. We're sort of close but in a distant way. Its very strange really."

But time and experience bind them. As Echo & The Bunnymen head out on tour, the band will encounter a whole new generation of fans - some who aren't even familiar with its debut, Crocodiles, and some who didn't even know "Echo" once referred to a drum machine. But for Sergeant, time is of no concern. "I still think of myself as 18. Time to me is irrelevant."

Flowers takes Echo back in time with a tone of lush instrumentation. Like the musical equivalent of a child's security blanket or favorite toy, it is familiar, accessible and important. Listen to Make Me Shine or It's Alright and try to resist the melodies and sentiments this incarnation of Bunnymen stirs up.

In July Rhino Records will release a box set of Bunnymen material. Expect 72 tracks, "loads of it that has never been out on CD," he said. "It's for the collector. I consider me self a collector." Some of his most precious possessions? Bowie's Ziggy Stardust, The Beatles' Revolver, anything by the 13th Floor Elevators, answered Sergeant, looking around the walls of his home studio.

When he's not one of the main Bunnymen, Sergeant's spending his time doing live DJ sets under the guise, Glide. "It's an ambient, electronic thing," he said, and he's been doing it since 1997. For him, music might morph and change, but it will never fade away.

tion will challenge about a dozen restaurants to come up with winning ribs, chicken and chili and then award cash prizes for the best entries. The public will taste and rate foods from restaurants that include Big Buck Brewery in Auburn Hills, Hunter House in Birmingham and Memphis Smoke in Royal Oak.

Last year's winners, Bert's Market Jazz Club for ribs, Club House Barbecue for chicken and Big Buck Brewery for chili, earned trophies and cash.

The barbecue kicks off the festival at 4 p.m., Friday and runs through 11 p.m., each day of the event.

Witz estimated the Cool Nights crowd at 80,000 to 100,000 for last year's debut celebration. He's upping that figure to about 200,000 this year.

Pontiac Cool Nights also gave $5,000 to Habitat for Humanity last year. Food and beverage proceeds will benefit the charity again, this year.

"Habitat for Humanity is appropriate because they are building homes in Pontiac," Witz said. "They're a perfect fit for what we're doing."

Nine years ago the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Greenfield Village got together to Salute America with a series of patriotic concerts that also featured the U.S. Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus.

"I've played all nine," said Linton Bodwin of Beverly Hills who has played string bass with the orchestra since 1974. "The whole idea and popularity mushroomed quickly. The audiences have gotten to be really good sized."

Jim Johnson, manager of special events for Greenfield Village, is expecting up to 8,000 people a night for this year's Salute to America concerts, Sunday-Wednesday, July 1-4.

"It's a showcase, lots of people come in and it's an opportunity for us to sample an audience that doesn't come here. It's exciting," he said. "It's a real nice family event."

Bodwin agrees the concerts are a win-win for the Village and orchestra.

"There's a lot of good crossover publicity," he said. "People will be interested in returning to the Village and hearing us play again. The atmosphere is very unique and different than when we play at Meadow Brook. It's enjoyable to see all ages and sizes of people. It's just a terrific setting to play an outdoor concert in."

Bodwin also enjoys listening to the U.S. Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus.

"I enjoy the quality and professionalism of the groups," he said. "They're good groups and do some works with the orchestra."

Program highlights

This year's program will include selections by popular American composers, patriotic music and jazz, concluding with Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture.

"We'll be playing Olympic Fanfare by John Williams," said Bodwin. "Some Ellington and light classics. The U.S. Army Band and Chorus will join us for Scenes from World War II and

When: Sunday-Wednesday, July 1-4. Gates open 7 p.m. The Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus will perform 7:30-8 p.m. followed by the DSO at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets: $19 adults, $10 children, ages 5-12 in advance. No charge for children age 4 and under; $22 adults, $13 children, day of concert. Call (313) 576-5111, (248) 645-6666, or (313) 982-6001.

the 1812 Overture. It's a big favorite."

Fireworks follow each concert.

All seating is on the lawn and the audience is invited to bring blankets, lawn chairs, strollers and wagons. Concerts will take place rain or shine, and will only be canceled if severe weather conditions persist.

While enjoying the music, concertgoers can bring or purchase gourmet dinners and enjoy the historic atmosphere – from the dramatic entrance of the 1st Michigan Fife and Drum Corp to costumed presenters mingling with the audience. There will be a F-12 fly over from the Air Force on July 4.

Leslie B. Dunner, music director of the Annapolis Symphony Orchestra in Maryland, and former DSO resident conductor, will lead the orchestra. He is a guest conductor of many U.S. and international orchestras, and ballet and opera companies.

"I think Leslie Dunner has conducted most of the Salute to America concerts," said Bodwin. "We haven't seen him in a couple of years and are glad he's coming back."

The premier touring musical representative of the U.S. Army Salute to America: Ramón Parcels, Detroit Symphony Orchestra principal horn, chats with young concertgoers at the "Salute to America" concert at Greenfield Village.

Army, the United States Army Field Band has appeared in all 50 states and more than 30 countries on four continents presenting a variety of music. Band members are selected through highly-competitive auditions. They are led by Col. Finley R. Hamilton, who since 1997 has been assigned to the Department of the Army Staff Bands Officer in Washington, D.C., overseeing the entire Army Bands program.

Chorus

The Soldiers' Chorus is the vocal counterpart of the Army band. Led by Col. John C. Clanton, the chorus entertains audiences with its special arrangements and communities it has visited. The chorus has performed at Carnegie Hall, New York's Lincoln Center and the Hollywood Bowl, as well as with the National Symphony, the Dallas Symphony, the Cincinnati Pops and the Boston Pops.

New to the concert this year is a performance by the winner of the DSO's first National Anthem contest who will sing The Star Spangled Banner with the orchestra. Auditions took place on Tuesday, June 26.

Also new this year is a "Children's Dancing Zone" where little ones who are moved by the music can twirl and dance in their own separate area near the stage.

Festival organizers were inspired to create the area after observing how irrepressible the urge to dance is among the many youngsters that attend the concerts each year.

Prizes will be given for the most energetic, most expressive and most unusual dancing, and also for best Independence Day outfits.

Celebration at Greenmead

The 1st Michigan Colonial Fife & Drum Corps will present a concert 1-4 p.m. Sunday, July 8 at Greenmead Historical Park Newburgh at Eight Mile Road in Livonia.

Historic buildings will be open for touring. Admission is $2 adults, $1 for students, call (248) 477-7375.

'The Anniversary Party' looks at relationships

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
STAFF WRITER
scasola@oe.homecomm.net

When Jennifer Jason Leigh and Alan Cumming decide to dive into a project, there's no stopping them. Both actors have well-established careers, thanks to some unforgettable roles — Leigh as the menacing roommate in Single White Female and Cumming in the Broadway revival of Cabaret. Cumming won a Tony award for his stunning portrayal of the Emcee in Cabaret.

This time, they have joined forces to write, direct, produce and star in a film wrought with human emotion and wrapped in reality. The Anniversary Party opens with an extreme close-up on Joe and Sally Therrian (portrayed by Cumming and Leigh), a couple whose life appears to be coming back together, even while they're falling apart at the seams. The digital camera closes in on the lives of these characters, on the morning of their sixth wedding anniversary and on the brink of destruction.

Joe is a novelist about to embark on his first directing project. The book he wrote about his relationship with Sally is being turned into a movie. Sally is an actress. After a year-long separation, the couple has decided to work out their differences. They arrange an anniversary party to celebrate their renewed relationship and decision to start a family.

The story examines 24 hours in the fragile life of the Therrians through the eyes of their friends. Filmed over 19 days, The Anniversary Party boasts an all-star cast. Gwyneth Paltrow is actress Skye Davidson, who will star in Joe's film. Kevin Kline and Phoebe Cates are Cal and Sophia Gold, a highly regarded actor and his wife who's Sally's best friend. John C. Reilly and Jane Adams are Mac, the director of Sally and Cal's latest film and his actress wife, Clair.

John Benjamin Adams and Parker Posey are Jerry and Judy Adams, the couple's business managers. Jennifer Beals is Gina Taylor, a photographer and former girlfriend of Joe's. Michael Panes is Levi Panes, Sally's friend. Denis O'Hara and Mina Badie are Ryan and Monica Rose, the Therrian's curious neighbors who always seem to be on the verge of threatening a lawsuit.

The guests arrive, each offering insight into the lives of the Therrians. But one surprising gift unlocks moments of truth so powerful the characters' lives are left forever changed.

Memorable performances are given by Jane Adams — who portrays the hysterical new mother who bounces from one topic to the next without catching her breath. When her character, Clair, goes into Sally's closet and slips into a ritzy John Galliano gown, you can't help but laugh.

The most telling arrival comes by way of Jennifer Beals, who, while flirting with Joe in the doorway, is spotted by Sally. As the camera moves to Joe's reaction, he is standing before a photograph of Sally looking down, looking forlorn.

Mina Badie offers the perfect outsider perspective. As neighbor Monica Rose, she is constantly reminded that she doesn't fit into this A-list crowd of actors, directors and artists. But she wants so desperately to be accepted. As she and her husband Ryan, played brittle and stubborn by Denis O'Hara, stumble through the party and learn about the Therrians, so does the audience.

Drama: Alan Cumming and Jennifer Jason Leigh star as The Therrians in 'The Anniversary Party.'

The Anniversary Party engages the audience in much the same way as The Big Chill did in 1983. Both venture so closely into the realm of relationships — among married couples, friends and enemies — at turning points in life. Both are credited to John Bailey, director of photography. This is one to see this summer.

'The Anniversary Party' opens this weekend in metro area movie theaters. It runs 115 minutes and is rated R for nudity, language and adult content.

'Lara Croft: Tomb Raiders' should stick to video games

BY JAY M. GROSSMAN
STAFF WRITER
jgrossman@oe.homecomm.net

It's not easy playing a video game character. But Angelina Jolie pulls it off as this summer's hottest action hero in Lara Croft: Tomb Raiders.

Lara Croft, of course, is one of the most popular interactive video characters in history. She's smart, sexy and always on the lookout for adventure regardless of the danger.

And naturally she wears skin tight outfits that conveniently emphasize her bountiful . . . Well, you get the point.

Movie plot? A pure rip-off from Raiders of the Lost Ark minus Harrison Ford and any suspense. In 25 words or less, Lara Croft must find an ancient artifact that controls the hands of time so she can save the world. Thus it's a race against the bad guys to see who finds the artifact first.

Action movies these days, alas, are little more than a digital canvas of mindlessly assembled computer-generated scenes — and this one's no exception.

It's no wonder we're seeing a renaissance in martial arts movies like Crouching Tiger, Action: Angelina Jolie stars in the summer blockbuster based on a video game, 'Lara Croft: Tomb Raiders.'

Hidden Dragon and Time and Tide. At least we can somewhat believe the action in these movies.

Not so in Tomb Raiders, where our heroine dodges machine gun bullets and propels herself from one disaster to the next without hardly breaking a sweat, much less a believable scratch.

In one scene Lara and the bad guys are trudging through Siberia. All the guys are bundled properly in heavy coats, thick gloves and hats. Lara is wearing an unbuttoned outfit that would fit perfectly in the streets of Paris.

The movie industry is touting this dud as the summer blockbuster for 2001. The studio heads most likely assume that every adolescent boy who owns the Lara Croft video game will shell out money to see the movie. I'm sure they're right.

The one bright spot is Jolie herself, who brings a true sense of athleticism and panache to the part. At least on film, the woman throws a mean right hook.

Oh well. I give this movie one Nintendo stick and half a Pac-Man.

Meanwhile, Coleridge, incapacitated by his opium addiction, makes an ungraceful and noisy entrance. Featured players include John Hannah, Linus Roache, Samantha Moon and Emily Woof.

STRICTLY SINATRA

Ian Hart stars as Toni Coccoza, a small-time Scottish Italian club singer obsessed with Frank Sinatra. In the hope of finding international stardom, he falls in with a group of gangsters who take him under their wing and he begins to betray his true friends. STREET SCENE

Go glam: the 'poisoning' of my youth

STEPHANIE A. CASOLA

I blame it on my sister, my sister Michelle. She was the one who played me Twisted Sister and Quiet Riot videos over and over until I learned all the words. She was the one with the crush on Jon Bonjovi. Clearly it's her fault I got hooked on catchy pop and glam rock in my preteen years.

Here's the scene. The year is 1987. Michelle frantically calls me into her room to hear a song playing on the radio. From the first fuzzed out distortion-laden, power chords of Talk Dirty To Me, I was intrigued. What was this? Who was this? I had to know.

The band, of course, was L.A.-based hairsprayed quartet Poison. I raced right out and bought the cassette, yes cassette, Look What The Cat Dragged In — and became instantly mesmerized by its cover photo. Divided into quadrants, I had Bret, Rikki, Bobby and C.C. in all their makeup splendor at my fingertips. I was too young to know much about The New York Dolls, T. Rex, Gary Glitter or Mott The Hoople. David Bowie had already shed his stardust to sing Let's Dance. So I had never seen anything like this. Androgyny and decadence coupled with pop rock, what was going on?

"It's just an image," I would tell my father during our many dinner table discussions about my new favorite music.

"They look like girls," he'd belittle, innocently mocking me in his thick Italian accent. His music of choice was opera, you see, and Luciano Pavarotti never once looked like a puff of cotton candy carrying a fluorescent pink B.C. Rich guitar. I'd never be able to win a musical argument.

But it didn't matter. My best friend understood why songs like Cry Tough could make you sing along and I Won't Forget You could make you weep. And we weren't alone. The debut record sold over 3 million copies and Talk Dirty To Me broke into the Top 10.

The numbers aside, it was the dawn of glam metal, the age of silver hoop belts, big hair and loads of eyeliner — for girls and boys. Barely a teenager myself, I went along for the ride and watched the scene grow as radio and MTV latched onto Warrant, Slaughter, Enuff Z'Nuff, L.A. Guns and Faster Pussycat. It was the end of the '80s and rock radio had come down to this.

More than a decade later, the summer is shaping up like a glam revival. Poison returns with its Glam Metal Slam, featuring all its original members. Motley Crue's original blond crooner, Vince Neil, brings on his own attack with The Voices of Metal Tour. Even Roxy Music has reunited. Suddenly I feel 14 again. I know I'm not alone. In preparation, might I suggest you do try of the following:

■ Buy a can of Aqua Net for old time's sake

■ Rent The Decline of Western Civilization Part II: The Metal Years — only the definitive documentary of our collective glam metal past by Penelope Spheeris.

■ Get your old Guns N'Roses shirt out of the basement, stick a lit cigarette in between the strings at the head of your Gibson Les Paul and drift into the beginning of Sweet Child O'Mine.

■ Paint black stripes on your face a la early '80s Nikki Sixx or Tommy Lee and blast Motley Crue's Shout at the Devil record until the neighbors threaten to call the police.

■ Debate over who was the best former host of MTV's late-night delight, Headbanger's Ball — the well-coiffed Adam Curry or former roommate of Faster Pussycat's Taime Downe — Riki Rachtman?

Finally, squeeze back into those old red leather pants and head down to the DTE Energy Music Theatre (the place you used to call Pine Knob) while Bark(ing) at the Moon just like Dweezil Zappa did in that Ozzy Osbourne video for a few concerts full of enough pyrotechnics and high leg kicks to make you Open

Up and Say Ahh like you did in 1988.

Poison returns with the Glam Metal Slam, along with Warrant, Quiet Riot, Enuff Z'Nuff, 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 4, DTE Energy Theatre, Independence Township. Tickets $18-$32.50.

Faster Pussycat returns with L.A. Guns, Deaf Union, Shrug and Ten Ton Diesel Head on Saturday, July 14, Harpo's, Detroit.

Bon Jovi performs with Eve 6, 7:30 p.m. Sunday-Monday, July 15-16, DTE Energy Music Theatre, Independence Township. Tickets $29-$68.

Roxy Music Reunion is 7:30 p.m. Sunday, July 29, DTE Energy Music Theatre, Independence Township. Tickets $27.50-$72.50.

CD REVIEW

Machine
Static-X

Static-X has been reinventing the industrial scene since the release of the now-platinum Wisconsin Death Trip in 1999. The band's latest record, Machine further darkens the aura that surrounded the quartet and refreshes this ever-changing genre.

The heavy influence of Ken Jay's drum commanded each song on Wisconsin but now sound more subdued on Machine. This time around, loud guitar sequences direct each track, steering the band away from industrial and closer to heavy metal.

Lead singer Wayne Static's voice has joined the ranks of Pantera's Phillip Anselmo and Rob Zombie. Bassist Tony Campos and guitarist Koichi Fukuda completed the line up on this record. But Fukuda quit the band after touring ended last year. Trigun by Static-X is a new release.

This is Not, the first single, offers a head-on collision of brutally honest metal when Wayne declares, "This is not my life/ This is not my home/ This is not me/ I hate this."

That explains why their motto is "More Evil, Less Disco!" See Static-X open for Pantera's "Extreme Steel Tour," along with Slayer, Skraper and Morbid Angel, 6 p.m. Saturday June 30, Cobo Arena, Detroit. Tickets $40. Call (248) 645-6666

"IT'S THE FILM OF THE SUMMER."
MAYBE THE YEAR.

With "A.I." Mr. Spielberg has produced one whale of an entertainment even the cynics are heralding as a filmmaking triumph."
-Rex Reed, THE NEW YORK OBSERVER

"Fascinating...bravura moviemaking. It's like nothing else Spielberg has done, though it calls to mind 'E.T.,' 'Close Encounters' and 'Empire of the Sun.' You will also along the way, think of '2001,' 'A Clockwork Orange'... It's a movie that makes us ponder: the very nature of love. 'A.I.' exhilarates, frustrates and provokes: it's the most ambitious Hollywood movie in sight."
-David Ansen, NEWSWEEK

"A love story, a prophecy and a fairy tale. 'A.I.: Artificial Intelligence' represents the collaboration and collision of two master filmmakers, Stanley Kubrick and Steven Spielberg. The film is bold, rigorous and sentimental by turns, and often all at once, as should be expected from a two-man movie where both have strong wills to match their great gifts."

Sean O'Callaghan's offers patrons a taste of Ireland

BY CARA PLOWMAN
STAFF WRITER

cplowman@oe.homecomm.net

Walls adorned with traditional Irish decor, including black and white photographs and mahogany shelves filled with small treasures and antique instruments, greet patrons as they walk through the front doors and into the bustle of Sean O'Callaghan's in downtown Plymouth.

The $5.50 pints of Guinness, a dark stout brew, flow out of the tap like water, and the servers are happy to talk about their favorite authentically Irish dishes and drinks.

There are 18 draught beers, mostly Irish brews, like Caffreys, Tetleys and Boddingtons, in addition to the moderately priced full bar.

A fireplace is perched in the center of the large room that is broken up into smaller sitting areas. Celtic knots dress the intricate stained glass windows, imported from Ireland. Large front windows light the bar area and give customers a nice view of the downtown flurry.

Owner John Callaghan named the "public place" after his grandfather, Sean, who also owned a pub. Callaghan, from Brighton, said that in Ireland, pubs are very popular.

"In the old country, people didn't really eat at home. In fact, they seldomly entertained at home," he said. "(Pubs) became an extension of their home." Callaghan described his restaurant as "a very typical Victorian pub."

Located on Penniman Road, west of Main Street, Callaghan said business has been great at the restaurant, which opened in May.

Along with his son Shane, from Plymouth, Callaghan has been working on the pub for three years. Along with business partners Sam and Kevin Khashan, who are brothers from Northville, the four purchased the lease last October and began the extensive design and remodeling process.

According to Callaghan, the small kitchen made for some slow service in the beginning, but has not been a problem since.

Sean O'Callaghan's

Where: 821 Penniman Road, just west of Main St. in Plymouth, (734) 459-6666

Open: 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. Monday-Friday; 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. Saturday-Sunday, 21 and over after 9 p.m.

Menu: Authentic Irish pub fare, including corned beef, rabbit stew, shepherd's pie and lamb shank. Daily Specials. Lunch and dinner menu. Full bar. Carry-out available. Average dinner costs $14.

Atmosphere: It feels like an Irish pub should — close quarters, Irish jig-band music playing, moderately noisy and lots to look at.

One of the most popular dishes served is the Shepherd's Pie, a traditional Irish favorite, Callaghan said. Thickly-cut roasted portabello mushrooms stew with shallots and creamed spinach under a golden mashed potato blanket. It's available with or without Guinness-basted beef. The dish is $12.75 without beef, $14.25 with it.

Corned beef

Corned beef is served in a number of dishes, including a corned beef melt (with spicy mustard and fontina cheese) and Niman Ranch corned beef dinner. Callaghan estimated that the kitchen uses about 1,000 pounds of corned beef a week.

Koreen Khashan, Sam and Kevin's sister, also works at O'Callaghan's, helping out as needed.

"(Customers) compare it to 'Cheers.' They go on about their business like it's their home ...

Servers
Joel John-son, Becky Vachow and Sarah Gregory display the Shepherd's Pie.

That's the way we want it to be," Koreen said. She encourages customers to mingle with each other and share tables.

The fish choice changes daily, so does the soup. Callaghan recommends the One And One (fish and chips served with meyer lemon caper tartar sauce), made with halibut.

The hearty soda biscuits are not to be missed. They are served before dinner arrives.

To finish the meal, there is a list of after dinner drinks and three desserts, Black 'n' Tan ice cream, Barm Brak and Michigan Rhubarb Gingerbread Upside-Down Cake, for $5.75 each. But the employees suggest not letting the experience end there.

"It's mellow; it's laid-back," said Jay Markley, a bartender. "Everyone's friendly. In general, it's just a nice place to hang out." Markley, from Plymouth, joked that he is sure a person can live off Guinness alone. "It's been proven."

Callaghan said there are only a couple true pubs in Michigan. He called the rest "Irish bars."

"If you notice, there are no shamrocks on the walls and no leprechauns. Our leprechauns are behind the bar."

Grand entry: The yard of Debora and John Kubik features a mix of garden art, antiques and, of course, flowers.

Starting from scratch

Humble beginnings lead to great beauty in Canton

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

In 1990, Debora and John Kubik moved into their newly-built Canton home. There was no landscaping, no trees, not even soil. They jokingly referred to their yard as Desert Storm, as sand blew everywhere.

"Topsoil from the farmers' cornfields was stripped away by the developer and replaced with sand, allowing them to build during the winter," Debora Kubik said. They soon planted trees, then shrubs, then added flower beds.

Eleven years later, the Kubiks now are the owners of one of the gardens featured on the Canton Garden Walk.

"I work constantly in the yard," she said. She jokes and laughs about her gardening, too. "Sometimes I forget I have kids, until they say 'Mom, I'm hungry.'"

"I go back there and I forget everything else during the day. It's a hobby that takes over completely, but I enjoy it."

Sue Kluz, who chairs the Canton Garden Walk with Judy Bloomquist, said the Kubik yard is "very cool." Uniqueness and a variety of flowers highlight gardens on the walk, Kluz said, and guests appreciate and respect the hard work of a neat and colorful garden.

Still, it is often difficult to get yards on the garden walk. Garden hosts put pressure on themselves to make their yards as beautiful as possible. Kluz said,

"It's difficult to get someone who is willing, because they go on these garden walks and they never think their garden is good enough, when, of course, it's beautiful," Kluz said.

Impressive yards

Kluz said all six gardens on the walk are impressive, including Sally and Jim Jarvey's. The Jarvey home is hidden in the woods with massive beds. The yard features a walled perennial garden, rock garden and a shade garden with more than 75 varieties of hostas.

Varieties of gardens and homes make the tour unique. An established ranch home at Palmer and Lilley will be featured, and a new home at Beck and Cherry Hill also will be on the list.

While properties and home sizes range, visitors will appreciate the homeowners' efforts in cleaning up their yards and each individual garden's beauty.

"Everyone loves flowers," Kluz said.

Walks help boost membership in the Canton Garden Club. The group started with 25 members in 1996, is up to 60 today.

The Kubiks planted trees such as crimson king crabapples; weeping cherry, mulberry and beech; white star magnolia, red sugar maple, honey locust, ash, bradford pear and pink flowering dogwood.

Next came the many shrubs, including hemlocks, arborvitae, blue spruce, boxwood, euonymus, forsythias, lilacs, hydrangeas, azaleas, weigela and viburnum.

Flower beds are added and enlarged every year. Among the perennials are astilbe, balloon flowers, bergamot, coralbelle, spiderwort, bell flower blazing star, gooseneck, blue lily turf, lambs ear, coreopsis, lily-of-the-valley, hollyhock, phlox, black-eyed Susan and tickseed. There's also canterbury bells, sun drops, cone-flowers purple, obedient plants, loosestrife, sage, salvia, lavender, bleeding hearts, lupines and foxgloves. You won't forget the forget-me-nots, bachelors buttons, columbines and daylilies. Annuals are planted for added color. Ornamental grasses accent the beds.

The love of antiques spills into the yard in garden ornaments. Iron fences, metal gates, pumps, farm tools, mail boxes, wooden boxes, wire baskets, tin pails and a barn door are all flea market and yard sale finds or rescued from the trash.

Husband John put in a water garden and designs the flower beds. Debora takes care of the flowers.

That love of gardening brings a constant awareness of flowers, no matter where or what they are doing. One day while driving on Ford Road she noticed a construction crew was working on the new Kroger store at Canton Center Road. She noticed many irises in the field, which she believed was once owned by English Gardens.

"I asked the (construction foreman) if I could dig up the irises and he said 'sure,' so I did," Debora said. "I embarrass my kids because we'll just stop when there are plants on Ford Road."

Walk in the yard and you'll see a huge arbor with an orange bugel vine, pond and massive flowers. Her husband made a path from bricks from old homes in Detroit. Another path features blue flagstone.

The Kubiks live on a court with five homes. The neighbors "just love" the yard, offering to help prepare it for the garden walk.

Jarveys create beauty

Sally Jarvey said variety is important in developing a garden. The Jarveys hosta collection grew in the last few years in their walled perennial section.

"It's like anything else," Jarvey said. "You try to bring variety into the garden. You really don't know their unique features until they've grown for about five years."

Husband Jim enjoys making wood furniture including a bench and two chairs as garden art, and birdhouses for the yard. The rocks and boulders also highlight the yard.

The garden features flowers and guests always ask where the Jarveys got the rocks. "Some of them already were on the property, others on farmers' fields. For a number of years, people just gave them away."

Her favorites include delphiniums, coneflowers, urbechcia, roses and light-flowering dogwood. Trees include conifers, Japanese maple and tri-colored beech.

The perennial garden features at least 100 perennials, including sweet peas, verbena, delphiniums and Sylvias, highlighted in among an arbor in the middle of the garden.

"It's enjoyable to let other people see your garden because we spend a lot of time in it," Sally said.

Watered down: This pond adds another dimension to the yard, while a birdhouse sits nearby.

Fenced in: Flowers, shrubs and other plants make a wonderful border along this fence in the Kubik's yard.

HOME WORK

Check these appliances this summer

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

JOE GAGNON

In the last few days I received calls from consumers who had problems with their clothes dryers. The dryer won't tumble or there is an odor coming out of the product.

In each one of these cases, there was a dead squirrel inside the mechanical component. To prevent this from happening in your home, you need to go outside and make sure the flapper is clean and closes all the way. This can best be accomplished by using a tooth brush confirming that the hinges are clean.

Service technicians are very busy these hot days cleaning out the condensers underneath refrigerators. The biggest reason why refrigerators break down during the summer and not the winter is because they can't take the heat of summer when the condenser is dirty and covered with lint, dust, and animal hair. Stop by a hardware store and purchase a refrigerator condenser brush, turn off the refrigerator, get the vacuum cleaner out and shake loose the dirt that is built up. A clean condenser can save you up to $10 per month on utility cost.

Take a walk throughout your home and look and see how many extension cords you have plugged in for different products. Check these cords by holding them in your hand and if they are hot, you could be in for a dangerous or expensive situation. Any extension cord used should always be of the same gauge wire that comes with the product used or even bigger gauge. When those little tiny extension cords are used you risk causing damage to the product or even a fire.

I don't think there is anything more beautiful than watching ants work. Their energy puts most humans to shame, but when you see these little guys walk across your kitchen sink, you want to scream.

Remember that your kitchen carries the food load for you and your family. An area so overlooked in the kitchen is under the dishwasher which is never moved except for service or replacement. Take the two screws off that hold the bottom kick panel and look under there with a flashlight. You will be amazed at how many little particles of food have been kicked under there for so many years. Another area that ants love is your garbage disposer which should be cleaned every few weeks. Fill it with ice cubes and let them sit for an hour and then turn it on. The little ants are doing what comes naturally, looking for food and water.

The washing machine washes best on the medium setting when the water mix equals 100 degrees. When the ground is warm, so is the cold water coming into your house or it is at least 30 degrees warmer than during winter. This means that getting 100 degrees during a warm water wash can be obtained by cutting down on the cold water line coming into the washer. Use a candy thermometer and get the water to as close as possible to 100 degrees and your clothes will come cleaner than ever before.

You only have a few days left with cool night time temperatures and maybe you should put that oven into self-clean cycle before it gets any warmer. Remember to use care and move things out of cupboards surrounding the kitchen range. That oven gets up to 1,000 degrees during self clean, enough to melt things and cause explosions of certain aerosol cans.

The older refrigerators have a plastic drain pan underneath and is behind the front toe plate. That pan is full of bacteria with a fan motor blowing those germs into your kitchen. Remove it and clean it with dishwasher soap and plenty of very hot water. Some drain pans have never been cleaned since the refrigerator was installed. How's yours?

Joe Gagnon can be heard on WJR-AM 760 every Saturday and Sunday mornings. He is a past president of the Society of Consumer Professionals. His second book, "The Words and Wisdom of The Appliance Doctor" is available in book stores. His telephone number is (313) 873-9789.

Do you need an electrical upgrade?

ASK DAD

HARRY JACHYM

When I discussed electric service in the class that I teach, I was surprised to discover how many homes in our area still have, by today's standards, insufficient service. I figured now might be a good time to write about upgrading residential electric service.

Let's start by reviewing a few electrical terms. Service refers to the amount of electric power available to be distributed in the house. A service panel is commonly called a fuse box, or breaker box. An amp is the amount of electricity, a watt refers to the amount of electricity used and volt is the unit of electric pressure. An upgrade is increasing the total number of amps that can be delivered throughout your house to meet or exceed your electric demands.

Upgrade in service

Homeowners often wonder whether they need an upgrade. Do you?

You should probably consider a service upgrade if you meet at least one of the following criteria: Your house is over 25 years old and has its original service, you have added air conditioning, hot tubs or other significant electrical devices, fuses blow frequently or breakers trip or multiple service panels are rigged together.

Most houses built before the '60s and many into the '70s were equipped with 60-amp service, which was considered sufficient, but today we enjoy more electric conveniences and appliances than ever before. Even some newer houses with 100-amp service may not be able to sufficiently meet the demands placed on them.

Go figure

This simple formula to estimate your power needs is fairly simple.

Add the wattage ratings of your major electric appliances, including power tools, entertainment equipment and computer systems. Get these figures from the chart or wattage rating plate found on the device. If the device shows the rating in amps, multiply that by 120 (volts) to get the watts.

Add the larger of seasonal devices, which will most likely be the air conditioning rather than heating. Add 3 watts for every square foot of living space in the home and at least two small appliance circuits (usually the kitchen circuits) at 1,500 watts each.

Now that you've tallied that, divide it by 240 (the number of volts coming into a home). That answer will give you the home's total amperage requirement.

A prime example

Let's look at an 1,800-square-foot house for example. The numbers are 5,400 watts for general lighting (3 x 1,800), two small appliance circuits 3,000 watts (2 x 1,500) and central air (5,000 watts). A washer and gas dryer equal about 900 watts, while a disposal, 500 watts.

Don't forget the kitchen with a microwave at 1,000 watts, the dishwasher's 1,200 watts and 600 for the frostless refrigerator. The entertainment system adds 375 watts and other TVs, sound systems and video games bring another 300 watts. The computer system adds 500 watts.

Outside you might have a pool with a 1 1/2-horsepower pump, 1,700 watts, and 2,000 watts for a small shop in the garage.

Adding these up comes to 18,875 watts. Dividing that by 240 comes to about 79 amps. The typical 100 amp service would be sufficient in this case but doesn't leave tremendous room for additional equipment.

If this house has a 60-amp service, problems could occur. An overworked electric system can be a fire hazard.

Don't DIY

Is this a DIY project?

It was not the intent to have anyone think this is a DIY project.

Service upgrades usually require changing the service panel and the electric meter, but don't even try this if you aren't competent with electrical work. It requires working with live wires at the service drop (or the wires coming from the electric company).

Even if you are the most stubborn do-it-yourselfer, this one is best left to the pros.

Harry Jachym, a licensed builder, lives in Plymouth and teaches building trades to high school students.

Clinics help with DIY projects

The Home Depot offers free "how-to" clinics every week for do-it-yourselfers. Clinics last approximately 30-45 minutes each and are taught by Home Depot associates who cover step-by-step instructions on how to tackle a variety of home improvement projects.

To register, contact your local Home Depot store.

June clinics include: Deck Prep and Stain, 10 a.m., Sundays; Low Voltage Lighting, 11 a.m., Sunday; How to Install Ceiling Fans, 7 p.m., Tuesdays;

Vinyl Siding, 7 p.m., Thursdays; How to Build Your Deck, 11 a.m., Saturdays, and How to Install Pergo Presto, 10 a.m., Saturdays.

July clinics include: How to Install Exterior Doors, 10 a.m., Sundays; How to Install Ceramic Floors, 11 a.m., Sundays; How to Install a Ceiling Fan, 7 p.m., Tuesdays; How to Install a Water Heater, 7 p.m., Thursdays; Pergo Presto Clinic, 10 a.m., Saturdays, and How to Build Your Deck, 11 a.m., Saturdays.

Got a remodeling project that has you beaming with pride? Let us know about it so we can share it with our readers. Write up a short summary describing the project and submit it to Ken Abramczyk, At Home Editor, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150 or e-mail kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

GARDENING

Reap a little inspiration from garden books

GARDEN SPOT

MARTY FIGLEY

Books can often inspire us to grow something new to us, add a feature to our garden or try a different style. Here are some that may do just that.

If you've ever wanted a small water feature and have some expertise with tools, look into Simple Fountains for Indoors & Outdoors, Dorcas Adkins (Storey Books, $26.95), which contains designs for 20 different types.

Whether you want a fountain of bamboo and wood or ceramic, stone, metal or concrete, Adkins provides thorough step-by-step instructions.

The ideas are innovative and fun—i.e., a mask of a real person makes a spouting fountain. In addition, a chapter is devoted to ponds and waterfalls. The illustrations and photos clearly show the correct procedures.

Also from Storey, The Family Butterfly Book, Rick Mikula ($16.95, soft), contains "projects, activities, and a field guide to 40 favorite North American species."

This colorful book invites you into the world of butterflies as Mikula shares his extensive knowledge.

Projects include raising caterpillars, hand-feeding the butterflies, the correct plants that entice them into the garden, water, etc., and even first-aid techniques! Featured are descriptions and photos of the most common backyard butterflies.

Take time to share this book with young and not-so-young children; it's full of good advice.

Guides

Houghton Mifflin has just released two first-class books (each $23) in its Taylor's Guides series. Both are carefully arranged with cross-references for quick access.

In the first, Perennials, Barbara Ellis describes more than 600 flowering and foliage plants in alphabetical order by botanical name.

Size, sun, shade and soil requirements, zones and a very short description as well as color photos comprise the first half.

The encyclopedia holds more detailed descriptions and includes the latest cultivars. The introductions give general care, diseases and insect problems, propagation, and buying information, as well as many good tips.

The second book, Shrubs, by Kathleen Fisher, has information about selecting and growing more than 500 ornamental and useful shrubs for privacy, ground covers and specimen plantings. It follows the same format as the first and also contains excellent information.

The Great Lakes Berry Book, A Falcon Field Guide, by Bob Krumm (distributed by Globe-Pequot Press, $11.95, soft), can be taken in the field while you search for all kinds of berries that grow wild in the area.

The 48 color photos clearly illustrate the plants in blossom and in fruit. Thoughtfully, poisonous berries are included. Many yummy-sounding recipes from jelly to mousse will encourage you to try something new that is definitely a Michigan product.

Old and new

Two books from Brooklyn Botanic Garden (each $9.95) are again written with the authority and style on which we have come to rely.

The first, Japanese Inspired Gardens: Adapting Japan's Design/Traditions for Your Garden, with guest editor Patricia Jonas, explains how to design such a garden with the proper placement of paths and rocks, how to incorporate water, and the Japanese technique of tree pruning.

Also featured is an encyclopedia of the best plants to use. Photos will inspire readers to explore a new dimension of gardening.

The second, Landscaping Indoors: Bringing the Garden Inside, guest editor Scott Appell, contains designs for new ways to display plants.

For instance, convert an armoire into a garden as was done in Victorian times, or set a window box inside the room. Another clever idea is to make an epiphyte tree (instructions included).

Information about soil mixes, watering and lighting as well as plant care and pest control is included.

About Astrological Gardening: The Ancient Wisdom of Successful Planting & Harvesting by the Stars (Storey, $12.95, soft), author Louise Riotte writes she wants to "set forth as clearly as I can the accumulated wisdom of the centuries regarding astrological gardening."

Marty Figley is an advanced master gardener based in Birmingham. You can leave her a message by dialing (734) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone. Her fax number is (248) 644-1314.

AP WEEKLY FEATURES

Just look at all the fruits, flowers and vegetables a garden offers this time of year. What a fine time to consider the benefits of gardening!

It's not always much cheaper to grow your own vegetables and flowers, so economics is not a very convincing argument for gardening. Unless, of course, you plan to eat a lot of vegetables or want an abundance of flowers — not such bad ideas.

Quality is where the rift between buying and growing widens, and it's in favor of growing. You cannot buy peas, lettuce, peaches, tomatoes, and most other vegetables and fruits from a supermarket that are as good-tasting as those you can grow. You can grow 10 varieties of peas in your garden, and eat them within seconds of picking. Homegrown flowers might not have the perfection of florists' flowers, but aren't a few imperfections what make homegrown ones so attractive?

Consider also the physical and psychological benefits of bending to weed and pitching manure as compared with jogging on a treadmill or doing push-ups. Just as Thoreau's wood heated him twice, first when he cut it and then when he burned it, so the garden provides health twice. Even before you harvest healthful fruits, vegetables, and herbs, you benefit from the physical exercise associated with growing them.

The garden also can be a great teacher. Close observation of plants and their environment can teach chemistry, botany, entomology, and pathology. Gregor Mendel formulated the basic laws of genetics in his monastery garden.

The garden teaches more than just science, though. In the 1888 classic "My Summer in a Garden," C.D. Warner writes that the garden teaches "patience and philosophy and the higher virtues — hope deferred, and expectations blighted ... The garden thus becomes a moral agent, a test of character, as it was in the beginning."

And like any good teacher, the garden offers rewards. Such rewards may be deferred, but they are sure to come.

Seminars scheduled at English Gardens

English Gardens conducts free gardening seminars for the public 7 p.m. Tuesdays at its Royal Oak/Troy store, 4901 Coolidge Highway, between 14 Mile and Maple (phone (248) 280-9500), and 7 p.m. Thursdays at its West Bloomfield store, 6370 Orchard Lake Road, north of Maple (phone (248) 851-7506).

The schedule includes Container Landscaping, by Candy Rosowski June 28; and The Basics of Perennial Gardening, by Heather Tomlinson July 3 and Jesse Trapp July 5.

Container landscaping is an easy way to enjoy plants and flowers on your deck, your patio or wherever you need a spot of color. The seminar on this topic will give information on planning, planting and maintaining flowers and plants in outdoor containers. Selecting plants, combining varieties and choosing containers will also be discussed.

CREATIVE LIVING

Use setting, light to create mood in your photographs

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

The appearance of a photographic subject will change significantly according to the light, weather, time of day, etc.

An old castle photographed against a gathering storm will more readily evoke feelings of a medieval landscape than if it were photographed on a sunny afternoon.

Often, a stark, gnarled old tree photographed from some distance away will appear more isolated and eerie than if photographed up close.

The important thing is to learn to become sensitive to how to create mood from the subject's locale and setting.

All photographs possess mood to some degree. But you, as a photographer, have the ability to add drama and mystery to the most ordinary subjects by balancing light, weather and point of view.

Rather than your photograph saying, "This is what I saw," try to get it to say, "This is what I felt."

Sometimes a building will look uninspiring until a particular light falls upon it. A row of trees may not excite until lit by emerging sunbeams against the dark backdrop of a receding storm cloud. Early morning mist will enhance a cityscape with an almost monotone of subtle color while the buildings tend to lose their sharp outlines, lending an air of romance to your shot.

Direction of light is of utmost importance. The best light often falls from the side or back so that textures and shadows are intensified.

Even the effects of a heavy rain can be used to good advantage. Become responsive to light reflected off a wet roof or reflections in a newly formed puddle. You'll get creative, mood-filled photos if you do.

In the photograph shown here of the Twin Pavilions in Sydney, Australia, I took advantage of the strong rock shapes in the foreground. You can see that I composed the picture so that the lower left rock would "point" to the Pavilions in the upper right of the composition.

Including some of the pond along with the weeping willow branches finishes off this pleasing photograph.

Develop your creativity by becoming more receptive to the elements that make up your picture. Be patient—you may have to wait for the right conditions—and shift your photographic thinking from the literal recording of a scene to an artistic expression of mood.

Flower power blooms at work

Work buddies, you got to love 'em.

The other day I brought in some pictures of Sarah, my 27-year-old daughter who lives in California and is getting married this October, and showed them to Kim and Stephanie, my favorite neighbors here on Cubicle Row. One of the pictures is of Sarah sitting shoulder-deep in a field of yellow flowers.

I love getting pictures from Sarah, but they sometimes make me sad because I miss her, I told them.

Don't be sad, they said.

Sure, easy to say, I thought. Here they are, barely on the brink of life, one single and the other a mother of a 2-year-old girl. The sadness of adult children moving away is far in their futures. I hope their sons and daughters stray no farther than the next town.

Shortly before I left for lunch, Kim asked me if she could borrow the "flower" picture for a short while.

"I'm having an artist do a picture of Grace (her daughter), and I want him to paint her surrounded by flowers," she said. "I want to make a copy of Sarah's picture and fax it to him as an example."

I never questioned the craft-loving Kim's motive. Sure, I said.

When I got back from lunch, I immediately plunged into a story. My peripheral vision closed down. It was more than 20 minutes before I noticed the large, framed print on my desk. There was Sarah in the flower field blown up to an 8 x 10 glossy and surrounded by a neat, blonde wood frame. I gasped. Suddenly my world was filled with yellow.

"We wondered how long it would be before you noticed," said the effervescent Stephanie, barely suppressing her usual handful of giggles.

Sarah Skoglund

I complimented Kim on her ability to fool me with a straight face. She and Stephanie had the picture enlarged at a local drugstore then bought a frame. They must have sacrificed their lunch hour.

"I was going to take the picture out of your tote bag," said Kim, "but then I thought it was better to lie than steal. I mean, what if you went to show someone else those pictures, and the flower one was gone. Oh my gosh, I would just"

It's fine, I said. I love what you two did.

Several people have commented on the picture. Sarah looks like you, they say. I guess she does. Looking at the picture still makes me a little sad, but mostly it makes me happy. It's like having a sunrise on the corner of my desk every day.

Truly, a good life is made up of random acts of kindness, both given and received. Thanks to Kim and Stephanie, my work buddies, I was on the receiving side. They're great neighbors, absolutely the best.

Felician Sister turns 108

Nun dedicated to religious community for 90 years

By KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER
kmortson@oe.homecomm.net

Sister Mary Ludmilla attributes her longevity to God's will.

"It's all up to God," said Sister Ludmilla, who turns 108 tomorrow. "It's God's will that I have lived that long."

The Felician sister was born on June 29, 1893, in Detroit. One of six children, her parents were born in Poland and regarded as hardworking, devout Catholics.

She was baptized as Anna Stender at St. Francis of Assisi Church in Detroit and attended Our Lady of Mount Carmel school. It was during her elementary years at the Wyandotte parochial school that she was first introduced to the teachings of the Felician Sisters.

She spent her first two years of high school at the Seminary of the Felician Sisters in Detroit and entered the aspirancy on June 24, 1910. Earlier this month she officially celebrated 90 years in the service of the church and the religious community according to Sister Mary Renetta, provincial minister of the Felician Sisters of Livonia.

With an infectious smile and a strong will, Sister Ludmilla continues to serve as a role model and a confidant to many who reside in the Provincial House.

"She is such a joy and a delight to be around," said Sister Renetta. "She's a very holy and spiritual person and she has a great sense of humor."

After entering the aspirancy Sister Ludmilla began teaching — a vocation that has proven to be one of the most rewarding aspects of her life. In 61 years Sister Ludmilla taught grades first through eighth in the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan — two years of which included serving as a principal and local superior of the convent.

At the start of her teaching career she was invested in the habit on Feb. 19, 1912, and was given the religious name Sister Mary Ludmilla. She made her first profession of vows the following year and final vows in 1919. She is one of the earliest vocations from Wyandotte.

"We must live for God alone. Whoever it is ... live for God," said Sister Ludmilla of her lifelong commitment to the church.

While she was teaching she took on extra responsibilities such as cooking, baking and caring for the sisters when they fell ill. "We just obey," said Sister Ludmilla. "We're doing what God is asking of us." At the time there were no trained nurses in the convent so her nights were occupied by taking charge of the infirm. During her service she saw many sisters die from tuberculosis.

"She was always active," said Sister Mary Bertha, local minister of St. Joseph Angela Hall where Sister Ludmilla and approximately 52 other nuns live in the infirmary of the Felician Provincialate. "She has such a strong sense of obedience to God and to the service of the nuns ... to please them. She is active in mind and very observant."

vant."

At the age of 107 Sister Ludmilla enjoys a peaceful life of prayer and reflection. She assumed residence at the Provincial House in Livonia in 1989, immediately accepting assigned duties and participated fully in the ministry of prayer. A broken hip in recent years slowed her down physically and now she uses a wheelchair to move about said Nancy Franke, administrator of St. Joseph Angela Hall. "She's also a breast cancer survivor."

When she was moved into the infirmary, Sister Bertha remembers Sister Ludmilla saying that was a place "for the aged and for the sick," and that she would do "whatever they told her," when it came to living there.

Readers find happiness in love, marriage

COMPILED BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
STAFF WRITER
scasola@oe.homecomm.net

Coinciding with the release of Fine Line Features' The Anniversary Party, starring Jennifer Jason Leigh and Alan Cumming, local couples are speaking out and sharing their expertise in maintaining a healthy, happy marriage. In the film, Joe and Sally Therrian decide to throw an anniversary party to mark several important moments in their relationship: Their sixth anniversary, their decision to start a family and their reconciliation after a yearlong separation. Imagine a modernized version of The Big Chill set among fragile friends working in the movie business.

The universal message deals with lasting love, so the Observer Newspapers sought the answers to happiness in marriage from our own readers. Here are the responses, in their own words:

Kevin and Wendy Cousino of Canton: "My husband and I have been married almost nine years (together for 12) and have two children (Nick, 8 and Julia, 4). Our key to happiness is that we are best friends and we appreciate and value the other. Kevin and I have always known that we are a perfect match for one another. We choose to spend our free time going out with each other on "dates" because we have more fun together than going out with other friends. We have a lot in common and love to have long talks together. We each have respect for the other's feelings which is also key to a great relationship. Kevin works full time as a teacher and very much supports my staying home to raise our two children. We have a great family life and are both thoroughly involved with our children's lives, but make sure that we always have time for each other."

Christine and Rimas Mikstas of Plymouth: "I have found the key to happiness with my husband. We value one another and take the opportunity to laugh often. I tell my husband I love him about 20 times a day and he does the same. I make his lunch everyday and include a note to let him know I appreciate him. There are times when I wonder if he really reads the notes, but he quickly notices if I miss a day. I am expecting our first child and count our blessings; a home, jobs, family and friends, health. We are not always on time and we have eaten Kraft dinner because of an unexpected financial emergency but there's always a funny story behind everything. We don't have a $400,000 home or the money for a vacation this year but it doesn't matter. Look for us on the street discussing an issue loudly or laughing in tears. We have each other and that's the best gift to give everyday.

They say that truly loving someone means that you will forever let your heart walk around on the outside of your body. A love so true it risks exposure to everything."

Vincent W. Kotcher and Janna M. V. Hennika of Canton: "My husband and I have been married 13 years this July 16. The key to our happiness is also the foundation on which our marriage was built: Friendship.

"In 13 years, we have had our ups and downs. There have been disagreements, money problems, job problems, home repair problems, health problems. But on the basis of friendship, through which our relationship has thrived, the joyous moments have overshadowed those problems tenfold.

"Each July, we look back on the last year, and all those which came before, and remember our first summer together — when we were just friends."

Diane and David King of Livonia: "Listening. The key to happiness is hearing your husband when he's frustrated, depressed, or simply tired. Not always complaining about the day-to-day grind, but actually listening to his thoughts, hopes and dreams. If you're too busy complaining, or telling your thoughts, you don't always hear what's important. Just being there for each other every day makes all the difference in a marriage. Love grows because of the little things we do for each other."

Joy and Jim Vlcek of Westland: "Jim and I are in our 50's and we were married Sept. 9, 2000. Because this is our second time around, we understand that you can choose to find the positive in a person or what's going on that day or sink into the negative. We laugh often about every day things when we share our day together. One of my favorite sounds is the sound of Jim's laughter when we are watching a funny movie or TV show together.

"The day of our wedding, Jim spoke to me into the video camera and said 'Joy, let's grow old together.' Since we are on this journey together, I try very hard to keep in mind that we can fill the journey with endless days or we can try to make each day, for both of us, something wonderful."

Teressa and Andrew Allen of Livonia

"We have been married since 1989. We have two children, Evan age 10 and Roni (Veronica) age 9. One thing we always seem to fall back on is to 'remember you are a team.' When dealing with the children, siding with each other and not them, always seems to help. Of course, functioning as a family unit is very important. Being involved with your children at school and at home is important. I am a Girl Scout leader for my daughter's troop. My husband was the Cubmaster of my son's troop and is now an assistant Scoutmaster for his Boy Scout troop. Having all these things in common as a family unit just brings you together as a family. The pieces all fitting makes it difficult to work one without the other."

Catherine and Joe Allam of Livonia: "The key to happiness is amorphous. Now you see it; now you don't. Along the way every now and then it gets dark. Light comes again containing unimaginable joy because the dark is over. This pattern repeats itself over the years as the scenery and cast of characters change. What sees you through the dark times is the conviction that you will navigate because you want to, finding somehow the nugget that sustains love among the pebbles in your shoe. Do you ever fully grasp all of happiness? Well, now, that remains to be seen."

Married couples please send us your key to happiness in 100 words or less, write your best marital advice and send it to HomeTown Life, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, MI 48150, e-mail your story to scasola@oe.homecomm.net. Include your full names and city of residence. The first 25 entries receive a free pass for two to see The Anniversary Party at the Main Art Theatre in Royal Oak. Being Helpful vs. Complaining

It is a wise person who knows when and how to tactfully speak up about a situation that may need correcting. When a person is critical of almost everything, they may be looked upon by others as being a "complainer". There is a significant difference between grumbling and honestly trying to be helpful. Most businesses have a customer service department to handle problems and complaints. They usually do not call them "complaint departments" because they know that correcting problems and providing good service are beneficial to good business, whereas complaining denotes a negative tone. In addition, no one likes to listen to someone who is always complaining. The Bible tells us in Colossians 3:13, "Be tolerant with one another and forgive one another whenever any of you has a complaint against someone else. You must forgive one another just as the Lord has forgiven you." We should try to be more positive to reduce the stress in our lives; God wants us to work and live in harmony with those around us.

Do everything without complaining or arguing.
Good News Bible Philip 2:14

"That's how youthful she is," said Sister Bertha. "Even past the age of 100 she still found it hard to believe she was worthy of living there."

Sister Ludmilla's day begins at 6 a.m. in chapel followed by Mass and holy communion at 8 a.m. Franke says she enjoys two pieces of bread with butter at every meal and puts sugar on everything.

"At breakfast she is most gracious saying please and thank you for everything," said Sister Bertha, who describes Sister Ludmilla's personality as cheerful and giddy. "She still feeds herself and watches what everyone is doing during meal time. She relaxes people by her cool disposition and her godliness."

Long before television or radio, Sister Ludmilla was known for entertaining the sisters with skits, pranks and jokes, and she possessed a strong love of the arts. During her residence at a convent in Alpena she would use nearly empty paint tubes, old brushes and scraps of canvas to paint. She fashioned an easel on a chair and sat on the floor to sketch.

Lifelong commitment

In 1976, Sister Ludmilla began a second career at the age of 83. She accepted assignments at various local convents in the field of culinary arts and would prepare meals and baked goods for the sisters residing in parishes in Bay City, Hamtramck and Livonia.

Sister Cynthia Ann Machlik, vicar and provincial secretary of the Felician Sisters, said Sister Ludmilla was admired for performing a multitude of tasks and surprises for others "which gave her much joy."

"Her cheerfulness and readiness to help appeared to be her most valued traits," said Sister Cynthia Ann.

Sister Ludmilla will celebrate her 108th birthday surrounded by the women of the Felician Sisters whom she has both admired and mentored. When asked how she would like to be remembered by the Sisters and the religious community Sister Ludmilla said, "I'll be with God and with you. That's my hope for the future."

When Farmington opened the baseball season with a 6-5 victory over defending Division I state champion Warren DeLaSalle, it was a sign of good things to come for the Falcons.

It proved to be a special year for Farmington, which made its first appearance in the state quarterfinals and finished with a 27-10 record.

"We had a lot of big wins along the way — a lot of wins that build confidence," coach Pete Finn said.

"Beating DeLaSalle — that was a big one for us, because it taught us we could play with the bigger teams out there."

Along the way, the Falcons won the Lakes Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association, were runners-up in the WLAA, defeated 1999 state champ Redford Catholic Central en route to a district title and won their first regional crown.

Finn, who has a 44-22 record in two seasons at Farmington, has been chosen Observerland Coach of the Year for the job he did in leading the Falcons to a successful season in 2001.

"I thought we'd be competitive; I thought we would have a chance to win in most games," Finn said. "But you're always surprised when young players contribute as much as they do."

"Andy Brown pitched 44 innings as a sophomore, and Jeff Fischer played the entire year at shortstop as a freshman."

pler, Ian Pardonnet and Bernie Brown also deserve a lot of credit for the team's success, he added.

"You have to have a good senior class, not necessarily 10 or 12," Finn said. "We only had five, but they were very good seniors; they were leaders."

"When you have kids who stay focused all the way through, when they get out of school early and are coming back to play baseball, that makes it special."

While the other seniors were regular players, Brown was a role player but no less an important part of the team, according to Finn.

"He didn't play a lot, but he worked hard and Bill Tolstedt has upgraded the schedule for Schoolcraft College's women's soccer program this coming season. He believes he's improved the team, too.

"Last year at this time I was concerned with (replacing) all the people we lost," Tolstedt said. "And maybe a month ago I would have said I was concerned we were not going to be as strong as we were this past season."

"But now I feel we are going to be at least as strong as last year — and we were 22-1-3 and finished ranked fifth in the nation."

"We will have a stronger schedule, though. We're going to go home and away with the only team to beat us (score: 2-1) in the nationals, and that was Young Harris College of Georgia. I want to continue to upgrade our schedule."

"The national rankings are important because they get you noticed. It also shows the competitive level you're capable of playing at. Mainly what I want to do is prepare us for the districts, regionals and nationals. That's our goal."

The Ocelots return eight players from last season's team and have nine newcomers, along with four others Tolstedt is assessing on his Great Lakes Women's Soccer League summer team that could swell the squad to 21 players when the new season begins.

Key returnees include All-America Toni Perry and Katie Weber, two defenders selected off the squad to play on the All-National Tournament Team.

"Those two are key," the coach said. "Plus we've got Amy Dorogi (Canton) returning as goalkeeper, so we're pretty solid in regards to the defensive end of the field."

One of Weber's high school teammates at Troy Athens, Sarah McMasters, is joining the team after taking a redshirt season at Oakland University.

She also retains freshman eligibility. McMasters was an All-State high school player who is a good defender.

Christy Cole is a key returnee at midfield while outside defender Kristen Hait also is back.

Other veterans include defenders Aubrey Karavas, Erin Perkovich and Stephanie Shelton (Thurston).

Though the incumbent, Dorogi will face some competition for the starting goalkeeper's spot.

Jennifer Kitman has transferred to Schoolcraft from Spring Arbor, where she was redshirted last year so she retains freshman eligibility. She was an All-State goalkeeper at St. Clair Shores South Lake.

"She's coming in as the backup goalkeeper," Tolstedt said, "but she's really good so it's going to be quite a contest."

Tolstedt has bolstered his offense with newcomers.

"We graduated a whole bunch of our offense. Fortunately, however, we've got some placements coming in."

Two of the better ones are Krystn Freeman of Linden, a four-time All-State selection with 110 career goals, along with Chelsie Rustin of Dearborn Heights Crestwood, who has some 70 goals in the net and was an honorable mention All-State pick.

Midfielder Rachel Berezak of Plymouth Salem is joining the team along with Plymouth Canton product Leslie Hogan, who sat out last season with a torn ACL that has since been rehabilitated.

"We're lucky to get her," Tolstedt said. "She's an excellent young lady."

"We've also got a couple of other really strong players we think were overlooked by a lot of other schools. They were both pleasant surprises."

One is midfield defender Jenni Hewlett of Gibraltar Carlson, "who has been outstanding for us in our summer soccer league," Tolstedt said. She was an All-District and All-Region player.

The other midfielder who will bolster the Ocelots is Maria Wissman of Royal Oak Dondero, an honorable mention All-Stater.

"It's a good group," Tolstedt said. "Now, I'm not guaranteeing the same record as last year. But in terms of the strength of the team itself, I feel we're going to be as strong as we were last year."

And last year, the Lady Ocelots were plenty tough enough.

Four Whalers drafted

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK

It was a first for the Plymouth Whalers — two of their players drafted in the first round by National Hockey League teams and four overall.

Center Stephen Weiss was taken fourth overall in the draft by the Florida Panthers while incoming goalie Jason Bacashihua was taken later in the first round by the Dallas Stars.

"It's great," coach and General Manager Mike Vellucci of the Whalers said of two Plymouth players going in the first round.

"It just shows that kids who play in the OHL (Ontario Hockey League) and for the Plymouth Whalers are just excellent hockey players," he said. "It's great entertainment. And great bang for your buck."

"You get a chance to see these good players and possibly future NHLers up close."

"I'm happy for Weiss. He's a great player and an excellent person. It just shows the hard work and commitment he's put into his hockey career."

Incumbent Plymouth goalkeeper Rob Zepp was drafted in the fourth round by Carolina.

Zepp had been drafted before but was thrown back into the pool when a technicality voided his signing.

The fourth Whaler to go was defenseman Cole Jarrett, selected in the fifth round by Columbus.

In addition, Livonia's David Moss was taken in the seventh round by Calgary.

The left wing, who played at Detroit Catholic Central, was with Cedar Rapids of the United States Hockey League and still may wind up at the University of Michigan.

"It's a great experience to go to the draft and hear your name called," Vellucci said. "It's a great experience for the family."

"To see all those NHL guys ... like Wayne Gretzky sitting at the Phoenix table, it's an overwhelming hockey experience."

"You're growing up watching Hockey Night in Canada and the Detroit Red Wings on TV ... and all of a sudden you're looking at guys you look up to ... and they're all in the same room."

"The smiles on those kids faces was priceless."

Having Zepp drafted and facing the remote possibility that Bacashihua might elect to turn pro would not leave the Whalers without a goaltender next season.

The Whalers also have Paul Drew, whom Vellucci said "is a very good goaltender himself and will be fine. He will be going for the No. 1 job anyways."

Zepp could also return to Plymouth as one of the three overage players the Whalers would be allowed for next season.

Vet games: Canton's Everett Houk shown putting the shot at the recent National Veterans Golden Age Games in Dallas.

BY PAUL BEAUDRY

The object behind most games is to have fun in the competition.

That suits Everett Houk's trip to the 15th annual National Veterans Golden Age Games to a tee.

"I had a good time, let's put it that way," said Houk, who lived in Garden City from 1950-99 and now lives in Canton. "The competition is really good and its lots of fun. And the idea of competing to get a free trip isn't bad either."

Houk, along with 400 veterans from around the nation, spent a week earlier this month competing at the annual event, co-sponsored by the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Veterans of Foreign Wars and held outside Dallas, Texas.

The games were open to all veterans, age 55 and older, who are receiving care at a VA medical facility or state veteran facility — in Houk's case, the played well in tough situations," he said. "In a lot of ways, he showed what it's all about, which is playing for the team."

Finn, 34, teaches physics and chemistry at Farmington High. A native of Birmingham, he received his undergraduate degree from Michigan State and his teaching certificate from Wayne State.

Before taking the varsity post at Farmington, Finn was the head coach at Birmingham Seaholm for three years and the JV coach at Brother Rice for four years prior to that.

Besides playing summer baseball until he was 19, Finn later spent eight seasons with the Cass Angels in the Detroit Amateur Baseball Association, a men's fast-pitch league.

ALL-AREA FIRST TEAM

Justin Ockerman, senior, Garden City: He was only 5-5 but had two saves and a 0.80 ERA; he fanned 99 batters while walking only 26. In 61 innings, he gave up just 27 hits, and only seven of the 19 runs he was charged with were earned.

Ockerman, who signed with the Seattle Mariners, pitched eight complete games, two shutouts, a no-hitter and a pair of one-hitters to close out a fabulous career for the Cougars.

He was also a pretty hard target to miss when he played first base, being 6-foot-10. Ockerman batted .367 with eight home runs, one of which broke a scoreless tie against Westland John Glenn in the district opener. He had 22 RBI, walked 21 times and had seven doubles.

Matt Zatkinn, senior, Harrison: Zatkinn was the No. 1 pitcher for the Western Lakes Activities Association champs, and he ended his prep career with a 12-0 varsity record.

Zatkinn, who will pitch for Adrian College next year, was 7-0 this season, which included a six-hit shutout in the WLAA championship game.

He had an impressive ERA of 0.85 with 40 strikeouts, 19 walks 36 hits and just six earned runs in 49 2/3 innings.

"He never lost a game at Harrison, and he pitched all the big games this year," coach John Herrington said. "He finishes at Harrison with one of the best career ERAs and records."

"He moves his pitches around and keeps batters off stride. He's not an overpowering pitcher, but he's a very smart pitcher."

Brandon Ajlouny, junior, Westland John Glenn: The right-hander blossomed this season, finishing with an 8-2 record and a 2.23 ERA.

He pitched 66 innings, fanning 72 and allowing 37 walks. Ajlouny had seven complete games and one shutout. He never gave up more than two earned runs in any start where he posted an ERA of 0.91. In 10 starts, Ajlouny gave up just eight earned runs. Opponents batted just .185 against him.

"Brandon really stepped up as a leader for us this year," Glenn coach Todd Duffield said. "He also developed a good changeup."

Charlie Haeger, senior, Catholic Central: Haeger, already signed with the Chicago White Sox, compiled a 7-2 record with three saves for the Shamrocks.

In 67 innings, he gave up just 44 hits with a 1.88 ERA. Only 18 of the 28 runs he was charged with were earned. Haeger walked 49 but struck out 101.

He was also Catholic Central's second-leading hitter, batting .364 with 10 doubles and three home runs, plus a team-best 34 RBI.

"He's a good overall athlete," CC coach John Salter said. "He did well playing football last fall and had a great season for us."

Haeger could have gone to play baseball at Central Michigan had he not elected to turn pro.

Brian Campbell, senior, Livonia Stevenson: Campbell was Stevenson's team captain, an WLAA selection and three-year varsity starter.

During his career he threw out .587 percent of base stealers (37 of 63. He is headed to Central Michigan University.

"Defensively Brian is the best catcher I've ever coached," Stevenson's Harv Weingarden said. "He's good at handling pitches. He's smart. He called 98 percent of our pitches over the past three years. He's got cat-quick speed behind the plate with an exceptional arm."

Offensively as a senior, Campbell hit .341 (28 for 82) with one homer, 25 RBI and 22 runs scored. He had a slugging percentage of .402.

The All-District pick batted .374 for his career with 52 RBI.

Campbell also made first-team All-Observer last fall as a goalkeeper.

Tim Doig, senior, Harrison: A three-year varsity player, Doig was a big reason the Hawks won three straight WLAA championships and were 65-16 during that time.

Doig, who will play in the coaches all-star game July 9 at Comerica Park, batted .437 with 10 doubles, two triples, two home runs and 33 RBI.

He also walked 18 times, scored 40 runs and struck out just 11 times in 87 chances.

Doig, who will play at Oakland University next season, was 4-2 as a pitcher with 28 strikeouts, 10 walks and a 2.80 ERA in 30 innings. His career record was 12-2.

"Tim is one of the best RBI hitters we've had," Herrington said. "He was very dependable whether he was pitching or playing first base. He's an excellent baseball player."

Doig, who was a team captain in three sports, is third in Harrison history with 69 RBI and third in career batting average at .420.

Oliver Wolcott, senior, Canton: The senior shortstop made just one error in 94 chances this season and just 13 in four years as the Chiefs' sterling middle infielder.

Wolcott, who has signed with Michigan State, hit better than .300 in each of his varsity seasons capped by a .375 average this year.

He had four doubles, two home runs and drove in 15 runs this season.

"The strength of our defense was up the middle," Coach Scott Dickey of Canton said. "In my opinion Oliver was one of the finest defensive players in the area."

"He's an incredible kid and I was fortunate to have him for four years. He was one of the finest gloves to come along in the area in a long time."

Wolcott also carries a 3.90 academic average.

Drew Stanton, junior, Harrison: The junior shortstop had a big impact in his first season at Harrison and drew the attention of pro scouts from by Pittsburgh, Atlanta and Toronto.

Stanton, also an all-state quarterback, batted an impressive .560 with 12 doubles, three triples, three home runs and 48 RBI. He had 51 hits, stole 24 bases and scored 36 runs.

The first-team, all-state selection set single-season school records for hits, average and RBI. He also pitched 15 2/3 innings and was 1-0 with a 0.89 ERA.

"He could be the best baseball player Harrison has had," Herrington said. "He has great baseball savvy and a quick bat."

"All his hits are hard line drives; he doesn't get cheap hits. And he has great range at shortstop and an outstanding arm."

Pete Pinto, senior, Livonia Stevenson: The shortstop batted .404 (36 for 89) with five homers, 31 RBI and 29 runs scored.

The team captain led the 18-10 Spartans with a .663 slugging percentage.

Pinto also made All-Lakes Division in the WLAA and All-District. The three-year varsity starter is headed to Henry Ford CC.

His career batting marks are .396 average with seven homers and 58 RBI. His slugging percentage is .543.

"Pete gave us three solid years," Weingarden said. "He was a wonderful clutch hitter, a guy who hits for power as well as average. He also has good speed as a baserunner."

James Melvin, junior, Redford Thurston: Melvin hit .417, had a .505 on-base percentage and slugged .560. He also took an occasional turn on the mound.

Melvin had 35 hits, including nine doubles and a home run, and drove in 25 runs. He walked 12 times and only struck out 14 times in 97 plate appearances.

He also excelled in the classroom, carrying a 3.5 grade-point average to earn all-academic district honors. Melvin was All-Mega Blue and all-district.

Dan Boulter, junior, Redford St. Agatha: Boulter hit .435 for the Aggies with a .942 slugging percentage.

Boulter belted eight home runs, drove in 35 runs and scored 32 times. He was selected to the All-Catholic team and the all-district team.

Chris Trott, senior, Plymouth Salem: Tied for No. 2 on Rocks' all-time list with a .495 batting average, just .003 behind the record Tim Dowd posted in 1987.

The 6-foot-4, 210-pounder slugged .791 with only nine strikeouts in 91 at-bats and had 12 assists from right field.

"He really took hitting to heart," Coach Dale Rumberger of Salem said. "He knows quite a lot about hitting and could carry on quite a conversation with a lot of hitting coaches now."

"He's as good a hitter as I've ever coached but I think this is just the tip of the iceberg. I think he's going to get better and better."

Trott's 45 hits this season was one better than Charlie Winstell's school record. He scored 35 runs, drove in 35 and pounded out 12 doubles, three triples and hit three home runs.

Trott, who carries a 3.56 GPA, is trying to decide between the University of Detroit-Mercy, Central Michigan, Toledo or Albion to continue his baseball career.

Plagued by a sore arm as a junior, Trott pitched 28 innings this season and went 1-3.

Ryan Rogowski, junior, Catholic Central: "Ryan was the kind of guy who got our offense started," Salter said. "He had 19 walks and only five strikeouts as our leadoff hitter."

"He runs well, throws well and hits the ball to all fields. Plus, he's a good bunter. He also brings good intensity to the sport from football and wrestling."

Rogowski hit .522, scored 27 times and had six doubles, plus a triple.

Tony Luttmann, junior, Farmington: After a strong sophomore season, Luttmann didn't see as many good pitches, but he still hit .351 and was the offensive catalyst for the Falcons.

He led his team with 30 RBI and 16 doubles; he had one home run and scored 27 runs. He became a better all-around player, learning to take a walk (15) when he wasn't getting the right pitches, according to Finn.

Luttmann was Farmington's top pitcher, too. He was 7-2 with 44 strikeouts and 21 walks in 42 1/3 innings. His ERA was 2.65.

"He made the all-conference team, because he had burned everybody a few times and opposing coaches knew who he was," Finn said. "His stats aren't as good as last year, but he made a lot of other players around him better because of his presence."

"He really takes his hitting seriously; he's very committed to it. He works as hard as any player I've had at hitting and baseball in general."

Chris Chesney, junior, Farmington: Chesney did a little of everything for the Falcons and has played every position except second base in two varsity seasons.

He spent most of the year in center field but also played third base, shortstop, left field and catcher, which is where he'll probably play next season.

Chesney was a much-improved hitter this year. Batting in the leadoff position, he hit a team-high .388 and had a team-best .592 slugging percentage.

The All-Lakes Division player hit four home runs and nine doubles, walked 23 times, scored 32 runs and had 27 RBI.

"He was up as a sophomore, and he fielded really well," Finn said. "He was always a sure-gloved third baseman, and he could track down a ball in the outfield. This year he worked hard at seeing the ball and made great strides."

"He has baseball instincts. That's something you want in players, and it's very hard to teach them."

Marco DiMichele, sophomore, Garden City: The lefthander Set school record with 104 strikeouts including 16 in one game.

DiMichele pitched two shutouts and a one-hitter against Livonia Franklin in the district championship game. He was 6-4 with a save and allowed just 34 hits in 58 innings of work. When he wasn't pitching, he played center field and hit .348 with four doubles plus a triple, 14 RBI and drew 10 walks.

Joe Ruggiero, senior, Livonia Franklin:

Few area athletes can claim first-team All-Observer honors in three sports — football, basketball and baseball — as Ruggiero can.

The 6-foot-2, 185-pound senior shortstop-pitcher batted .447 (38 for 85) with 22 RBI and 23 runs scored.

As a pitcher, Ruggiero went 5-2 with a 2.78 ERA. He worked 45 1/3 innings with 39 strikeouts and only 15 walks.

"Joe is a very gifted athlete," Franklin coach Jim Karoub said. "He makes big plays defensive and is a treat to watch when he's out there at shortstop."

"He's the kind of kid any coach would love to have on his team because he makes your job easier."

VA Hospital in Ann Arbor. There are six age groups in the games, broken into five-year increments, and the veterans compete within ambulatory and wheelchair divisions.

"We go different places each year," said Houk, who's competed in Topeka and Leavenworth, Kan., Leesburg, Va., and Syracuse, N.Y., and plans on going to next year's games in Los Angeles. "It's nice because of the competition. I've always wanted to get into it. Once you're there, you see people once a year you've met through the games and get close to them."

Houk, a retired meat cutter from Farmer Jack, competed in the pentathlon and croquet events. Unless a competitor finished in the top three in each event, their place is not revealed.

"But I did alright," said the 75-year-old Houk. "In croquet, three people competed against each other in each group. I finished second and the top one advanced."

Houk also competed in the pentathlon — made up of rifle shooting, shooting free throws, discus, shot put and hitting a softball off the tee.

"I shot the rifle pretty well, but didn't do so great at free throws," said Houk. "I was 3-for-10 and had never shot free throws before. For that matter, I hadn't done the discus or shotput before. In softball, you go three swings off a batting tee. The first one, I hit the tee so the ball just rolled off. I got the others about 80 feet. It was my first time in the pentathlon so I didn't figure on doing too good, but I did pretty fair."

While he didn't medal in these games, Houk has medaled in the past, picking up silver medals in croquet and 25-meter swimming last year.

"I didn't feel I had time to practice swimming or bicycling as I had in the past, so I didn't participate," said Houk. "But I'm looking forward to going to LA and getting back into swimming and bicycling."

For Houk, a World War II navy veteran who served on a submarine as a fireman 1st Class, the fringe benefits of the trip are as much fun as the competition.

"We always go on side trips," said Houk. "When we were in Leesburg, I went into Washington, D.C., twice and saw the monuments one time and spent the whole time in the Air and Space Museum of the Smithsonian another time."

"This is a great opportunity for me and all the vets," said Houk. You see people, you make friends, you get to compete and you get to have fun. It keeps you young."

CC's Moss drafted

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homedomain.net

Dave Moss watched the first round of the National Hockey League Draft Saturday on ESPN 2.

On Sunday, the 6-foot-3, 185-pound left winger from Livonia found out via the internet he had been drafted in the seventh round, 220th, by the Calgary Flames.

Word was the Flames were looking for skill players at the forward position during the later rounds — regardless of size — and the 19-year-old Moss fit the bill.

Moss, who scored 20 goals and added 18 assists last year for Cedar Rapids of the U.S. Hockey League, will be putting on a University of Michigan jersey before he goes anywhere else.

He signed with the Wolverines last month.

"I had talked to New York (Rangers) and Ottawa (Senators), but I never talked with Calgary, they haven't called me yet," said Moss, who was ranked 140th among North American skaters going into last weekend's NHL draft. "A year ago I never thought about being drafted. You're always surprised when you get drafted. A lot has happened the last few days."

Moss said playing last year at Cedar Rapids probably elevated his draft status.

"Playing there did a lot for me, it was a good situation," he said.

Calgary retains Moss's rights for at least two years.

"I'll go (to Calgary) whenever they feel I'm ready," Moss said. "It depends on my progress. Right now I'm trying to find a way to get into Michigan's lineup. I've got a lot of work ahead of me."

So what to the Flames envision for their seventh-round pick?

"He has good size, fairly good hands and good skating abilities for a big man," Calgary scout Larry Johnston told Randy Sportak of the Calgary Sun. "We're looking at a future down the road and hope he can develop into a pretty good player."

Summer is really here and there is so much going on it's hard to decide what & where to go!

"That's a situation that's going to have to play itself out over the summer anyway," Vellucci said.

The new Whalers' bench boss was a little surprised Bacashihua was taken in the first round.

"Usually," he said of last year's chief netminder for Chicago of the North American Hockey League, "a Tier 2 goalie doesn't go that high."

"But he's an exceptional goaltender. He's proven that year in and year out that he's one of the tops in the country in his age group.

"I'm happy for him. Now he has a lot of hard work ahead of him."

All four will likely sign and go to training camp with their respective NHL teams this fall.

"They'll work as hard as they can this summer. Try to make their teams, and if not, come back with a good attitude and get ready for camp next year."

Vardar wins 5; rules state club soccer championships

BY DANIEL STICKRADT
STAFF WRITER
dstickradt@oe.homecomm.net

A .715 winning percentage is fairly decent.

But when you look at it as a 5-for-7 performance, that's well above the average.

Those numbers can be attributed to the Vardar Soccer Club's performance at the recent Michigan State Club Soccer Championships held June 2 at Founder's Park in Livonia. Vardar, which had teams in the finals in seven different divisions, came away with state titles in five of the nine age divisions — and four of those squads represented the state of Michigan June 23-25 at the 2001 Snikers Midwest Regional Cup tournament in Springfield, Mo.

Five Vardar teams — U-14, U-18, U-13, U-17 and U-12 — all came away with state titles. The U-14 and U-18 teams defended their titles, the U-13 and U-17 won titles after finishing as runner-ups, and the U-12 team won its first state title in the youngest age group of the tournament.

Collectively, the Vardar championship teams racked up 35 victories in their 35 state tournament games and picked up an impressive 27 shutouts.

The Vardar champions also outscored their opponents by a combined score of 156-10. The U-13 team went 6-0 with six shutouts in the state tournament — the only team in any age division to do so.

Below are the names of each player of the Vardar state championship teams.

Broker should hold cash

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

I'm buying some property. The broker suggested that I make an earnest money deposit check payable to the title company and not his brokerage firm. Is this legal?

The Michigan Attorney General has said a real estate agent may not accept from a buyer an earnest money check made payable to a title company.

The attorney general determined that the purpose of a broker's custodial trust or escrow account is to protect the buyer's money while the transitory phase of the transaction is pending.

Since the broker cannot negotiate the check, he likewise cannot obey his legal obligation to deposit the check in a separate custodial escrow account maintained by the broker in the broker's name.

The broker should decline to accept such a deposit and, instead, direct the buyer to provide a deposit check made payable to the broker who can process it in accordance with the act.

While the attorney general didn't address initial sales of condominium units in the opinion, presumably the attorney general would agree that real estate brokers must continue to make certain that earnest money deposits for new condominium units are deposited with the designated escrowee pursuant to a written escrow agreement.

You should consult with your own attorney concerning what you believe to be appropriate in connection with this matter.

Engineers honor the best

See related story, E4

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER
dfunke@oe.homecomm.net

Real estate is more than raw land. People live and work in buildings.

ESD-The Engineering Society honored the architects and contractors of seven structures in Michigan this year with its 27th annual Construction & Design Awards.

Here's a brief summary of the winners as provided by ESD and the honorees:

■ Comerica Park, Detroit.

Owner: Detroit Tigers; Designer: SmithGroup Inc., Detroit; Contractor, Turner Construction, Detroit.

The ball park has 30,000 chair seats, 3,000 club seats, 2,000 suite seats and 5,000 bleacher seats with no posts.

The design brings what's happening inside the park to the surrounding streetscape and allows patrons inside an unobstructed view of downtown. The stadium also features a walking hall of fame, carousel, Ferris wheel, fountain, large scoreboard and varied food concessions.

■ Detroit Athletic Club renovations.

Designers: SmithGroup, Detroit, JPRA Architects, Bloomfield Hills, and Ford & Earl, Troy; Contractor: JM Olson, Saint Clair Shores.

The $25 million renovation to the seven-story structure downtown included work on the library, tap room and bar, main dining room and kitchen.

■ New Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Designer: Constantine George Pappas Architecture & Planning, Troy; Contractor: Roth Inc., Troy.

The church seating 375 and including a nursery, cry room and coat room was completed in 12 months. Insulation was placed in the cavity of limestone walls, insulated glass used. Just one tree was removed - at the owner's request.

Only fools lie on loan application

MORTGAGE BITS

TIM 'TIMBO' PHILLIPS

When your father said, "Honesty is the best policy," and your mother added, "If you lie, you are mostly hurting yourself," they really meant it.

Most borrowers are truthful most of the time, and people who quibble on their mortgage applications get in trouble.

Granted, completing a four-page loan application is not easy - I have never seen one that did not require minor adjustments. However, I am not talking about writing down a wrong credit card balance. That's an error. I am talking about lying.

At the Air Force Academy, we lived by a sworn Honor Code: We will not lie, cheat, steal, or tolerate any of these acts. During our training, we learned that lying actually consists of two parts. A person must write or say something false, and he must have intended to deceive somebody. If he did both, he lied.

If you are very lucky, being deceitful during your mortgage application process will simply get your loan denied. In fact, the penalties for falsifying mortgage documents can result in thousands of dollars of fines, imprisonment or both.

Even if you are successful in a loan, a lender can still call your loan due immediately if a post-closing audit reveals foul play. Failing to state relevant facts or withholding information can slow down the approval process and may get you in trouble, too.

Lenders use a variety of methods to verify the information contained in loan application packages. In most cases, you can count on them verifying employment, rental or mortgage history, and the source of the money to be used to buy the property.

If you recently retired, say so. If you are not going to live in the subject property, say so. If you defaulted on a federal loan that does not appear on your credit report, say so. If you bought a car the day after you completed your mortgage application, say so. Telling the truth will help you more than you know.

Consumer Mortgage Advisory #1: Faulty Looking for a mortgage?

Choose a known lender, who always has the funds and doesn't change the deal. Don't get caught at a closing with a lender who doesn't have the money to lend, or changes your deal. Never pay extra points or a higher interest rate than you were promised.

MEYERS ON MORTGAGES

UNDERWRITING SOFTWARE SPEEDS APPROVAL

by GARY S. MEYERS

Fasten your seat belts; you're entering the fast lane of mortgage approvals. And in the era of rapidly shifting interest rates, it's a good thing, because it's no longer the biggest, but the fastest who win the prize.

Over the last few years you've seen more and more references to the on-line mortgage application and pre-approval process that helps cut as much as several weeks off the time it takes to get a loan. What you may not know is that at the heart of this improved efficiency is a family of software products designed to not only speed things up, but also improve accuracy and fairness in approving mortgages.

One of the pioneers in this effort was Fannie Mae, the private, shareholder-owned company that purchases conventional and FHA/VA loans to help keep housing affordable for low- to moderate- and middle-income homeowners.

In order to stay strong, Fannie Mae maintains certain requirements of borrowers to ensure that loans will be paid off, thus preventing the need for foreclosure. Prior to the introduction of underwriting software, these criteria had to be painstakingly investigated in a process that would take as long as 90 days.

In 1995, however, Fannie Mae introduced a software package called "Desktop Underwriter," which allowed lenders to assess a borrower's risk factors more quickly and put the process into high gear.

"The underwriting process has been cut down drastically," said Raschelle Burton, a Fannie Mae spokeswoman. "And with the latest version, Desktop Underwriter 5.0, the process is not only faster;

it's more flexible as well."

What desktop underwriter does is crunch all of the numbers that used to have to be analyzed by hand, such as credit reports, bank records, risk factors and loan types. And because it is specifically designed for Fannie Mae's requirements, there is no interpretation or translation involved. It simply provides a recommendation to your lender based on the facts.

And what are the facts? "Desktop Underwriter evaluates both credit report and non-credit report factors," said Burton. "No single factor is the sole basis for Desktop Underwriter's recommendation. It weighs this information based on the amount of risk and its overall significance to the underwriting recommendation. This program is able to consider all of the information in a way that recognizes that a borrower's strengths in one area can offset risk factors in another area."

Once all of the numbers and conditions are loaded in, the software then boils it down to an assessment of your likelihood of repaying versus the ability to recover the value of the property should you default. In other words, is the loan worth writing?

Don't get the idea that your future is solely in the hands of a machine, though.

"Desktop Underwriter's recommendation is taken into consideration by the lender," said Burton, "but it is not the definitive element in the final decision. The final decision to approve or deny your mortgage loan application is always made by your lender."

"Desktop Underwriter applies the same criteria to every loan application it processes," said Burton. "This consistency and objectivity results in a fair and unbiased underwriting recommendation. Desktop Underwriter does not consider factors such as age, race, religion, gender, national origin, or marital status in making a recommendation."

"If the reasons the loan was referred are related to the borrower's credit," said Burton, "the system will provide specific messages on the information in the borrower's credit report that affected the recommendation. These customized messages are important and useful tools for lenders to use in providing guidance and counsel to their customers who may not yet qualify for a mortgage."

But underwriting software doesn't just recommend whether a loan is to be approved or denied. It can also look at factors surrounding the loan, the borrower, and the property to determine how easy it will be to get the loan.

So when you go to apply for a mortgage and you see your lender start cranking numbers into a computer, don't worry about the "heartless" machines running the show. They're making the job faster, easier, more reliable, and in many cases, better for you, the borrower. If there were problems issuing you a mortgage, you'd want to know, right? And if not, the process will move that much more quickly.
