Cheer Club

The holiday season is here and so is the Plymouth-Canton Observer Cheer Club.

Opening the Cheer Club to new and returning "members" is one of our favorite holiday traditions. Please join us by bringing donations of new toys and canned or boxed food to our office at 794 S. Main in Plymouth during business hours.

The items will be collected until Friday, Dec. 14, when we turn them over to the good folks at Salvation Army. They'll distribute the items to needy people in Plymouth, Canton and Northville.

The idea is to make the holidays special for everybody, not just the lucky families where people have plenty to spend.

So if you're out doing your Christmas shopping and have a few minutes to look for another toy or maybe a gift of warm clothing, your thoughtfulness will be appreciated.

When you bring your donations by our office, we'll ask you to leave your name and city/township of residence. That's because we like to print donor names in the paper while the Cheer Club drive is on. Of course, you may remain anonymous if you prefer. Each year, we've recorded around 200 donors to the Cheer Club from Plymouth and Canton.

Happy Holidays! Please keep our Cheer Club in mind.

THE WEEK AHEAD

Holiday closings

The Canton Township municipal offices will be closed Thursday, Nov. 22 (Thanksgiving), and Friday, Nov. 23. Essential services (police and fire) will be on duty. Regular business hours will resume on Monday, Nov. 26.

The Canton Library will close early Wednesday, Nov. 21 (at 6 p.m.), and will be closed Thanksgiving day. Normal hours will return on Friday.

Planning ahead: Here are some upcoming holiday events:

- Chamber of Commerce holiday party at Keller and Stein Florist and Greenhouse Friday, Nov. 30, 7-9 p.m.
- Brunch with Santa at the Summit is Dec. 2 and Dec. 9.
- Holiday dinner dance sponsored by Leisure Services is Saturday, Dec 1.
- Santa's Elves workshop is Dec. 1 at the Summit; drop your child off for a day of swimming and holiday crafts while you shop.
- The Canton Historical Society bake sale is Dec. 8.

Drivers: Buses in bad shape

By Tony Bruscato
Staff Writer
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

Plymouth-Canton school bus drivers are warning school officials the buses they drive to transport students are in extremely poor condition.

"The Plymouth-Canton school district transportation bus fleet is currently in a state of disrepair," said bus driver Del Templeton. "We have buses that have well in excess of 100,000 miles, and some are approaching 200,000 hard-driven miles on them. The overall integrity of our bus fleet is in question."

■ 'The overall integrity of our bus fleet is in question.'

– driver Del Templeton

It's not the first time bus drivers have warned the board of education. Two years ago operators gave the same kinds of alarms about the age and safety of the buses they drive.

The district needs about 100 buses on the road each day to handle all the elementary, middle and high school routes. The fleet has a handful of stand-by buses available in case some don't start, are being inspected by the state, or remain in the garage for needed repairs by the district's eight full-time mechanics.

However, many times those backup buses are pressed into service leaving no reserve vehicles available. And, in the winter when many buses won't start, the lack of reserve buses forces drivers to double-up on routes, which results in students being picked up late and being tardy for class.

"We're working extremely hard to address the problem," said Melvin Latnie, the district's transportation director. We need to replace some buses in the fleet, that's for sure. We're

Caring caregiver

You can tell this heroine loves children

Kori Anusavage sat on the floor surrounded by toys and the seven children who were playing with them. While she held the story book with one hand, she steadied a 2-year-old who was jumping on her lap until another toddler clamored to snuggle with "Miss Kori." Through the overwhelming affection, Anusavage continued to read the book to the other children.

It's her patience and her love for the children at the home-based daycare that prompted Anusavage's employer, Debbie Kurliak, to nominate her an Observer Everyday Hero.

EVERYDAY HEROES

Kurliak, who has operated Debbie's Daycare in Canton for 15 years, gave Anusavage an assistant caregiver job four years ago. Kurliak credits her assistant with enabling her to care for up to nine children in the daycare.

"If Kori wasn't here, I couldn't do things the way I do them now. At least half of these kids would just have to go somewhere else. I couldn't bring a stranger in here and expect them to love the kids and care for the kids the way we do it now," Kurliak said.

Daycare is the only career Anusavage has considered. She has cared for children nearly every working day since she was 16 years old, starting out working after school at a daycare center.

"Sometimes I'll start to think I could do something else. But then one of the kids will give me a big kiss, or say my name for the first time, and I know that this is what I'm supposed to be doing," Anusavage said.

She begins her day at 8:30 a.m., and for nearly every minute until she quits at 5:30, she's swept up in snacks and diaper changes, crafts and dancing, breaking for frequent hugs, and occasional emergencies and toy disputes.

■ TRIAL COVERAGE

A Canton man accused of killing his estranged wife and her boyfriend was bound over for trial after a preliminary examination at the 35th District Court in Plymouth Friday.

Brian William Sewell, 32, was arrested Sept. 19 in connection with the shotgun homicides.

His wife, Nikki Sewell, 30, and Ricky Jones, 32, of Ypsilanti were found dead shortly after 2 a.m. Sept. 19 in the Sewell's Mott Road mobile home. Both died of injuries caused by multiple gunshot wounds. Sewell was found in her bedroom, and Jones was found in the Memorial service will honor lost loved ones

■ Not only is grieving more difficult in light of Sept. 11, anxiety can also work its way into the mix.

L.J. Griffin Funeral Home will next week, as it has done every November since it opened in 1994, host a community-wide memorial service. Perhaps now more than ever, the community needs to come together to work through loss, according to David Griffin.

The service will be held 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 29, at the funeral home at 42600 Ford Road.

"Especially since Sept. 11, people need this type of service. We've all had some type of emotional loss since the terrorist attacks," he said.

People who have lost loved ones in recent years are particularly vulnerable since September, said The Rev. Drexel Morton of Saint Michael Lutheran Church of Canton. Morton will officiate at the memorial service.

"Certainly the first year after you've lost a loved one is the acute year. After that it is can be very hard especially on anniversaries or over the holidays," Morton said. "But grief comes in waves, so very often when there's a new loss, it reawakens old losses. As a nation, we've all experienced this loss either directly or indirectly."

The service's theme will be, "Where was God in all of this?" said Morton.

"I can tell you where He was," he added. "He was holding us up. He came to the aid of all of the souls."

Not only is grieving more difficult

Man who jumped dies; hotel holdup suspect is sought

A 47-year-old Canton man who was critically injured after hitching a ride on the back of a truck Tuesday died Thursday morning.

The man jumped off the back of the flatbed truck near I-275 and Ford Tuesday afternoon.

According to police reports, the man left district court in Garden City some time after 11:15 a.m. Police believe he was attempting to walk home from the court, but don't know the exact point at which he got on the back of the truck.

An eyewitness told police the man simply jumped off the back of the truck when the truck drove onto the southbound I-275 ramp. He landed on his back and head, and suffered massive head injuries.

The driver of the truck did not stop after the man jumped, Canton Police Sgt. Todd Mutchler said. The driver may not have known the man was on the vehicle.

The man died at Annapolis Hospital. He suffered brain-death Nov. 14 before the decision to take him off life-support equipment was made.

Hotel robbery

An undisclosed amount of cash was stolen from a Michigan Avenue hotel Wednesday.

According to police reports, a suspect described as a black male, 6-feet tall, approximately 30 years old, wearing a flannel shirt and ball cap, came into the Days Inn at Michigan and Lotz Road shortly before 8 p.m. Holding a 4-inch knife in his right hand, the man ordered a clerk to "empty the cash drawer."

The clerk complied, but then was sprayed in the face with a substance believed to be pepper spray. Reports said the thief then made his escape on foot. A police K-9 unit was called to track the suspect, but the track ended at the hotel's southern parking lot.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call Canton Police Department at (734) 394-5400.

Garden City driver bound over for trial in fatal crash

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER
cmarshall@oe.homecomm.net

Shannon Howe, surrounded by supportive family members, faced Judge Ronald Lowe of 35th District Court in Plymouth at a preliminary examination Friday.

Howe, 20, of Garden City was charged with leaving the scene of an Oct. 28 fatal accident.

Benjamin Cebina, 20, of Ypsilanti died of massive head injuries after he was struck by a vehicle in the early morning on Oct. 28. He was walking alongside Warren Road near Lotz after leaving a party.

Howe had been playing cards at home with 13 friends before the crash. Just after midnight, the crowd left the house. Some headed to a Westland bar, and Howe took her sister home, testified Angela Grodi, 27, Howe's roommate.

When Grodi returned home just after 9 a.m. Oct. 28, she found her roommate crying on the sofa.

She appeared "upset, very, very upset," said Grodi.

"She told me on her way home last night she hit something," Grodi said. "She wasn't sure what it was."

When Grodi inspected Howe's truck, it was evident she had hit either a person or an animal.

The windshield had been damaged, and where it was cracked, there was hair embedded in the glass. The front quarter panel was dented and the hood was slightly dented and raised.

Grodi called their neighbor, Robert Fruit, whose cousin is a Westland police officer.

"We called to see if he would call his cousin to find out if there were any accidents," Grodi said.

Fruit came over to look at the truck, and Grodi moved the truck from its parking spot on the street into the garage.

"I moved it so she could go retain a lawyer," Grodi said.

Fruit testified he called his cousin, who later gave him the news there had been a fatal crash early that morning.

"I told Angela what my cousin had just told me, and we all just broke down and started crying," Fruit said.

According to the Wayne County Medical Examiner's report, Cebina died of head injury, and the manner of death was an accident.

Howe was bound over for trial at Circuit Court in Detroit.

She is out of jail, having posted bond.

"Basically what we know is there was an accident," said Howe's attorney, Jonathan Jones, outside the court room. "The prosecutor is a very professional person and did her job accurately, proving there was a crime and she established there was probable cause my client committed the crime."

Grodi said (outside court) after she testified that she could not say whether Howe had been drinking the night of the accident; she said she knew for certain Howe was not visibly impaired.

"She didn't stop because she was scared to death. She's 20 years old, alone and it's pitch black out there. She was just scared," Grodi said.

If convicted of leaving the scene of a serious injury accident, Howe could serve up to five years in prison, or pay a $5,000 penalty.

BY LILLY EVANS
SPECIAL WRITER

Adray Camera is hoping more people in the area are going to be saying "cheese" since they opened their third store in the metro area on Canton Center and Ford roads in Canton.

Paul Martin, supervisor for the family-owned business, says he isn't the least bit concerned about department store competition in the area because shopping at a specialized store has some definite advantages.

"Everybody from professionals to photo hobbyists can shop Adray's and ask the staff questions. One of the advantages is we are able to explain features and recommend products."

Martin has a bachelor of arts degree in photography and worked three years in the Dearborn Adray's. In addition, the Canton sales staff is either professional photographers or longtime hobbyists.

After the first of the year, area residents will be able to become savvy when Adray's starts offering free photography classes taught by the manufacturers.

The rear of the store is in the process of being set up as a high tech classroom where Canon, Nikon, Sony and Mamiya will be holding a variety of classes and seminars.

The classes, which are offered only in Canton at this time, will be on a variety of topics: 35mm, digital, lighting, lenses and techniques.

Martin boasts an in-store film processor/printer and a technician, preferable to the automated processors in other stores he feels.

The technician will be able to adjust the color and brightness of pictures and give tips on improving your photography skills.

"The most common problem tends to be when people take a picture with the light behind the subject and it becomes a shadow. Anything else we can usually fix on the machine," Heather Hill, a lab tech at Adray's said.

They will still be able to offer one hour and overnight service. They also offer use of the digital work station, the Kodak Picture Maker.

The original Adray Appliance Photo and Sound in Dearborn has been serving customers since 1955.

George Bednar, vice president and general manager of all the Adray stores, has worked at the original store for 25 years out of the 46 years it has been in business.

"We were happy with the Dearborn store. We called ourselves 'the one store chain' and never gave any thought to expanding."

He went on to say, after the infiltration of large appliance and electronic stores "we decided it was time for Adray's to branch out, so we took a major part of our business and created Adray Camera."

Bednar said Adray's has been successful in keeping its long-time customers and getting new ones.

"We have a faithful customer base, match competitor's prices and get new customers through community relations. We sponsor youth hockey and baseball and donate to local charities, which creates a certain loyalty," Bednar said.

"We are able to hold our own against the big guys."

The Camera stores began in Troy in 1998; Canton opened this fall and an Ann Arbor location will open in 2002.

Adray's Camera sells digital cameras, digital video, 35 mm cameras, binoculars, telescopes, dark room and lighting equipment and other accessories.

The stores sells about 60 percent digital and about 40 percent film cameras.

Martin said some of his Canton customers said they were happy to see Canton Adray's open because they no longer have to drive to Dearborn to shop.

Store hours include Sunday noon to 5 p.m. and Monday and Friday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Hours on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturday are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

At least 3 school board seats available this June

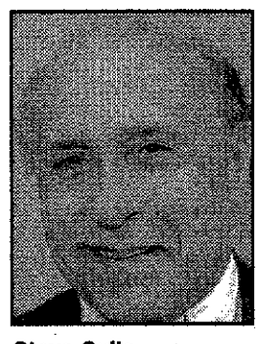
BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

Plymouth-Canton school board treasurer Steve Guile made it official Tuesday night: he'll be stepping down from his post Nov. 30.

Guile, who had been Westland's downtown development director, will become city manager in Beaverton, Mich.

"I'd like to thank Superintendent (Kathleen) Booher for her vision and leadership during some very difficult times, the Core Team and the teaching staff for their dedication and commitment to change, and board members for their personal dedication to the community and their commitment to creating a quality educational atmosphere," said Guile. "Most of all, I would like to thank the community for providing me with the opportunity to help, in some small way, shape the future of the community."

Guile was elected to the board in June 1999, and will be leaving with 1.5 years left in his four-year term. Board President Elizabeth Givens said nominations to fill Guile's seat through June will be posted for 20 days from the resignation date. The trustees then will interview those interested in the board position and select a replacement.



Steve Guile

Three seats

The departure of Guile means there will be three board seats to fill in June.

The four-year terms of Susan Davis and Darwin Watts will end. Davis, who will have served eight years on the school board, has already announced she will not seek re-election. Watts has yet to indicate if he will run for a second term. The election to fill Guile's board seat will be for the remaining one year of his term.

Board liked Guile

Board members were complimentary of Guile's tour on the Board of Education.

"You brought a unique perspective to the board, and it's always been very helpful and valuable to us. You'll really be missed," she said.

"(Steve) brought a great calming influence," added Trustee Mark Slavens. "We've had a lot of controversy the past couple of years, and you've been a leader."

Guile said he's confident the district is in both good hands, and good shape.

"You should be proud of what this board has done," he told his colleagues. "It's taken on a large responsibility over the last few years to improve the educational quality. There are still challenges ahead, but I feel happy in leaving the board in the situation it's in now, moving forward financially and fiscally."

bedroom closet, according to police reports.

The following information came out in court Friday:

The Sewells had been married six years, and during the last year, the marriage had been troubled.

"He and his wife were both seeing other people," testified friend and neighbor William Kasperski. "He would call me on the two-way phone and ask if there was someone at the house."

Brian Sewell had not been living at the house for a few weeks because he had been charged with domestic violence, Kasperski said.

"He told me he tried to strangle his wife," said Kasperski. "He said he just lost it."

Night of the shooting

The night of the shootings, Sewell had called Kasperski repeatedly to inquire if there was anyone at his wife's home.

Kasperski's son, William Kasperski Jr., answered the phone once. Sewell asked if he would go across the street to see if Nikki Sewell was with another man; the younger Kasperski knocked on the door and asked her for a cup of sugar.

Kasperski Sr. said Sewell called several times, and asked him to go pound on the bedroom window.

"I told him I did but I didn't really do it. He told me he knew she was home and there was someone else there because he had gone by the house earlier and heard them," said Kasperski. "I said, 'Can't you get it? She's with someone else and she doesn't want you.'"

Some time after midnight, Kasperski Jr. heard five loud booming noises coming from the Sewell home. He ran outside and saw someone running from the trailer carrying a long, dark object.

It wasn't until after daylight Kasperski heard from Sewell again, when Sewell called him on the cell phone.

"I think what he said was that they were dead. And he said he was in Ohio," Kasperski testified. "What he said is he killed them.... He said he didn't know what he should do, turn himself in or kill himself."

When asked if Sewell thought himself crazy, Kasperski testified: "He said, 'The bitch drove me crazy.'"

Word traveled fast

Word traveled fast the morning after the murders. Jim Smith, a friend of the Sewells, said when he heard what had happened he tried to call Sewell on his mobile phone. To Smith's surprise, Sewell answered.

"I asked him what happened, and he said he had walked in on them and ... lost it. I think he said he shot them and he asked if she was alive," Smith said. "I didn't have the heart to tell him she was dead."

Smith heard from Sewell a few hours later. Sewell called and asked Smith to come pick him up near Ford and Gottfredson roads. Smith called the police and said he was going to pick up Sewell.

"I was going to take him to his mom's. If (the police) wanted him, they could just get him there," Smith said.

"I told him if he had a gun, put it in the back of my truck and he said he already got rid of it."

Shortly after picking up Sewell, police caught up to Smith's truck and Sewell was arrested without incident.

Sewell was bound over for trial at Circuit Court in Detroit. He is being held without bond.

If convicted, he faces life in prison without the possibility of parole.

addressing the shortage."

Latnie said the number of new buses purchased will depend on the growth of the school district, and the effect the addition of Plymouth High School will have on transportation needs.

"In the short term, we have the ability to rent buses from other districts," said Latnie. "We have a contingency plan for winter, and in case we get hit unexpectedly with state inspections."

Latnie said he's submitted a report to the Board of Education "giving a clear indication where we're at right now, and detailing the needs of the future."

The 1999 bond, which was used to build Discovery Middle School, contributed $3.4 million to purchase 43 buses, according to figures from school board president Elizabeth Givens. She also noted there is a three-member committee which is preparing information for the board concerning immediate bus replacement.

"In the past, our buses were almost always bought out of bond money, and we're trying to analyze the alternatives," she said. "It's very difficult to raise capital funds for bonds to be used for buses. So, we're looking at other ways to increase our bus fleet."

Many school districts have scheduled bus replacement programs with money from the general fund. Plymouth-Canton administrators, because of tight financial circumstances, have yet to find available money in the budget to spend on new buses.

Despite the physical condition of the buses, Latnie is insistent they are safe for children to ride.

"Absolutely, the buses are safe, without question," he said. "We wouldn't put a bus out there that wasn't safe."

"Whether she's raking leaves into a huge pile, having really wet water play days, drawing chalk pictures, conducting music class, letting you play beauty shop on her hair, or helping children learn flash cards and ABCs, she's always there when we need her," Kurliak said.

It's not the physical demands of her job Anusavage finds the most challenging. It's trying to explain to her own 4-year-old son, Christian, that he sometimes has to share his mom.

Anusavage's son also is part of one of the things she enjoys the most about her career choice.

"I have always been able to be with him every day. As a single mother, I have a lot of stress and responsibilities. But worrying about him and wanting to be with Christian more isn't one of them because I get to bring him with me every day," Anusavage said.

Anusavage has considered jobs outside the daycare, and for two days before last Christmas, tried to work at a large toy store for some extra money.

"I spend all day with kids who cry. That's what kids do. But when I saw grown men and women freaking out over Christmas presents, I knew I just couldn't handle working there one more day," she said.

Although the thought of going home at the end of the day with a small paycheck, covered in glitter, glue and baby food is not appealing to some, to Anusavage it's a natural state. "This is where I'm supposed to be. I see the parents who drop their kids off or think about someone working in an office somewhere and I know I just couldn't do that. It wouldn't fit. It's not who I am."

Entrepreneurs learn about opportunities at Metro

BY TIM SMITH
STAFF WRITER
tsmith@oe.homecomm.net

Prospective small business owner Huong Do listened intently during Monday afternoon's Local Outreach Forum for food, beverage and retail concessions at Metro Airport's new midfield terminal. Then, she took a spot in line to find out more about available opportunities.

Do and other prospective airport businesses in attendance hope to submit a business proposal that might land them a spot inside the glistening Edward H. McNamara Terminal. The facility will boast about 120,000 square feet of concessions space, second most among American airport terminals. But Thursday's decision to delay the grand opening from Jan. 20, 2002 until the spring – or later – will give her and other entrepreneurs more time to follow through on their plans.

Northwest Airlines – the airport's hub carrier and developer of the $1.2 billion facility – met with airport officials and decided the much-anticipated terminal won't be ready in January. A delay in completing electrical work, largely due to the original electrical contractor quitting the job in October, is the primary reason behind the setback.

"I really want to have a space in the new terminal," said Do, a Downriver resident waiting in line to speak with Metro Airport's Myrna Mendez to have some questions answered about how to submit a Request for Proposal in time to be considered. "I would like to open either an American fast food or Oriental fast food restaurant."

Mendez, director of concessions and quality assurance for the airport, later said she was encouraged that many small, local business hopefuls – including those owned by minorities or women such as Do – are looking to win slots.

In the RFPs will be specifications for design, construction and business operation plans.

"Part of the RFP asks prospective bidders what the schedule would be that they are proposing," Mendez explained. "They send the requirements that we have in the RFP. And based on that, they have to give us a design and construction schedule. Our aim is to be operational with those as soon as possible."

Good mix

Also in attendance Monday was Kevin Kern, real estate manager for Ann Arbor-headquartered Borders Books & Music. He said Borders would satisfy airport goals that concessionaires provide a mix of big-name national draws and local businesses.

"We'd like to be there," Kern said. "We feel we're a strong local (corporation) and we're internationally known. ... The problem is (in two available areas) they already have bookstores."

But Borders could eventually find a home at the airport. There will be a future 19-gate expansion of the midfield terminal's west concourse, perhaps over the next 18 months, that would allow for many more concession opportunities.

Openings in five food/beverage areas and two retail areas are available, to plug gaps left behind after the airport's primary concessions firm dropped out of consideration for the new terminal.

Mendez said the firm, Select Service Partners, left due to "financial reasons" and not the Mandated enhancements to security and a contractor squabble are at the heart of why the highly anticipated Jan. 20, 2002, opening date for Metro Airport's midfield terminal is in jeopardy.

Instead, the $1.2 billion facility probably will open sometime in the spring, although a spokeswoman for Northwest Airlines Friday would only say that the matter was "under review." The review will determine exactly when the Edward H. McNamara Terminal will open, said Mary Beth Schubert, of Northwest's corporate communications office in Minnesota.

"We are evaluating and are under review right now," Schubert said. "We'll (then) brief government officials and the news media in the near future."

According to Schubert, the review was prompted by "requirements for additional security" following the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, as well as a delay in construction caused by the replacement of electrical contractors.

Schubert said she could not comment about the other reason for the expected delay, calling it a "contractor issue."

It was reported that the original electrical contractor for the midfield terminal quit the job in October, and was replaced by several other contractors, who could not catch up to the original work schedule.

"They (Northwest) made the call on this one," Len Singer, a spokesman for Metro Airport, said about the airline's review of when the terminal might now open.

The terminal was first scheduled to open Dec. 9.

in light of Sept. 11, anxiety can also work its way into the mix.

"Events like this bring home the thought that death has become so predominant in our lives. I could touch any one of us sooner than we think," said The Rev. Leonard Partensky, a retired Westland priest, who will also officiate at the nondenominational service.

Griffin said the funeral home, the first family-owned and managed in Canton, began holding the annual memorials as a service to the community.

"It's our way of giving back to our community," Griffin said. "It's just one more thing we need to do to help the families, not only at their time of loss but after. We just need to offer everything we can for them."

Ban on meeters and greeters shouldn't hurt concessionaires

BY TIM SMITH
STAFF WRITER
tsmith@oe.homecomm.net

If concessionaires must build on the other side of security checkpoints at Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport's new midfield terminal, will enough business come their way? Apparently yes, potential airport businesses were assured Monday.

At the new Edward H. McNamara Terminal, the loss of so-called "meeters and greeters" will not have a significant impact, according to officials from Northwest Airlines and the airport, who last week met with businesses looking to land valuable retail space inside the soon-to-open facility.

The terminal – being built by Northwest Airlines, the airport's hub carrier – will feature 12 security checkpoints, with all restaurants, bars and retail shops to be located beyond those stations.

That means only ticketed passengers will have the chance to shop or dine at the myriad concessionaires expected to fill up 12,000 square feet of available space. The Federal Aviation Administration, in a decision made following the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, ruled that only ticket holders may venture past the checkpoints into areas where family and friends traditionally went to send off or welcome travelers.

Still, the loss of sales generated by the "meeters and greeters" will be minimal and be more than offset by passengers getting to the airport much earlier and therefore having "dwell time," additional minutes and hours waiting for departures.

"Most money is spent post-security," said Judy Byrd, a consultant for Chicago-based Unison-Maximus, a company that traces national airport trends. "If there has been a dip in sales (since Sept. 11), it has been more on the pre-security side than the post-security side. ... People are nervous to get clearance before they can really relax and dine."

Byrd, talking to a number of prospective retailers looking to open businesses at the midfield terminal, added that the initial worry about losing sales from the meeters and greeters is easily being dispelled. She said the meeters and greeters make up about 10 percent of the overall market at airports, but only 3-4 percent of sales.

The FAA mandate also is not worrisome to Metro's hub carrier, Northwest Airlines, which is in charge of building the new terminal.

During Monday's Local Outreach Forum at the Crowne Plaza Hotel, Northwest's Director of Design Tom Gunn said it made better sense to keep the initial floor plan in place and not relocate businesses to the pre-security portion of the facility.

A primary reason for that is because the larger percentage of Northwest passengers flying into Metro will stay inside the terminal while awaiting connecting flights elsewhere.

"For a hub operation," Gunn said, "leaving it exactly where it is now is the only thing that makes sense."

Sept. 11 terrorist attacks which have plunged the air travel industry into a serious slump. Metro Airport Director Lester Robinson estimated that business is now at about the 60-percent level.

Robinson also told about 150 forum attendees at the Crowne Plaza Hotel that the midfield terminal was to open on Jan. 20 "unless the building project manager (Northwest Airlines) lets us know otherwise in the next week or so."

That did happen. According to a Northwest press release issued late Thursday, the airlines will continue to "review the schedule for the new Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport midfield terminal project to establish an appropriate opening date."

The review was "prompted by requirements for additional security and a delay caused by the replacement of electrical contractors."

Livonia, MI 48154
A MEMBER OF TRINITY HEALTH

St. Mary Mercy Hospital will be surveyed by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO) on November 26, 27, and 28, 2001.

The following information is offered in accordance with JCAHO policies.

Public Notice

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations will conduct an accreditation survey of St. Mary Mercy Hospital, Livonia, Michigan.

The purpose of the survey will be to evaluate the health system's compliance with nationally established Joint Commission standards. The survey results will be used to determine whether, and the conditions under which, accreditation should be awarded to the organization.

Joint Commission standards deal with organizational quality of care issues and the safety of the environment in which care is provided. Anyone believing that he or she has pertinent and valid information about such matters may request a public information interview with the Joint Commission's field representatives at the time of the survey. Information presented at the interview will be carefully evaluated for relevance to the accreditation process. Requests for a public information interview must be made in writing and should be sent to the Joint Commission no later than five working days before the survey begins. The request must also indicate the nature of the information to be provided at the interview. Such requests should be addressed to:

Division of Accreditation Operations
Accreditation Service Specialist
Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations
One Renaissance Boulevard
Oakbrook Terrace, IL 60181

The Joint Commission will acknowledge such requests in writing or by telephone and will inform St. Mary Mercy Hospital of the request for any interview. The system will in turn notify the interviewee of the date, time and place of the meeting.

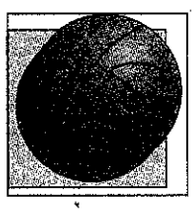
Agape gets 1st district title



It took some time, some disappointments and hardships, but last Friday Canton Agape Christian's girls basketball team won its first-ever state district title. Now the Wolverines head for the state regionals.

Finally, they got what they wanted.

The Canton Agape Christian girls' basketball players had labored to no avail, trying to obtain that elusive title — a state district championship.

Plymouth Christian Academy had been Agape's greatest nemesis. PCA had twice beaten the Wolverines by a point in district play. Not this year, however — Agape disposed of the Eagles in the district semifinals.

Last Thursday, Detroit Urban Lutheran stepped in to take its shot at the Wolverines. Agape had beaten the Vikings during the regular season, but that didn't mean much now, not with a district title at stake.

And for a half, Urban Lutheran gave Agape all it could handle. But when Wolverines' leading scorer Amy Henry finally got her first points of the game, drilling a three-pointer with seven seconds left in the half, it was bad news for the Vikes.

Henry's trey boosted the Wolverines' halftime lead to seven points; by the end of three quarters, it was 12, and by game's end it was nine, 41-32. Which meant Agape had captured its first-ever district championship in the 12-

Rocks hold off Chiefs to gain a district crown

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

You kept waiting for it to happen, that point in a pivotal game when the emotion begins to wane for one team and the other capitalizes, running off six or eight or 10 points.

It's called the turning point, and it could come at any time in the game. Even though the lead it produces could be trimmed considerably before the final outcome is posted, in the end that single streak has been a decisive factor.

When Plymouth Salem met Plymouth Canton in a Class A state district championship match in girls basketball Friday at Canton, that moment never arrived. Neither team backed down; neither team's effort slackened.

Which is why the game wasn't decided until Courtney Jarman's three-point jumper from the wing came up just short, bouncing harmlessly off the rim as the buzzer sounded to give Salem a 42-39 win over the Chiefs.

"I knew it would be a very competitive game," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "It always is."

The Rocks, now 22-0, advance to the regional at Southfield-Lathrup where they will play West Bloomfield, which surprised Bloomfield Hills Lahser 51-49 Friday. The 14-8 Lakers lost 45-39 to Salem in the first week of the season.

In Monday's first regional semifinal, Rochester Adams (21-1) will meet Birmingham Marian (19-3) at 6 p.m.; Salem and West Bloomfield follow at 7:30 p.m. The regional final will be 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Canton bows out at 14-8.

Although Salem led most of the second half in Friday's district final, the gap was never more than six. The Rocks took a 32-30 lead into the fourth quarter, then extended it to 36-30 in the first minute of the period. The Chiefs, however, were not about to pack it in.

Trailing 40-34 with five minutes left, they scored five-straight points — the last two on a Briana Wolcott basket — to make it a one-point game with 2:54 to go.

That's when it really got nerve-racking.

The Rocks had a half-dozen chances to put the game away, all of them coming at the free-throw line. In the end, however, it was their defense that provided the difference.

It started with 1:03 left and Kelly Jaskot at the line for Salem. She missed the front-end of the 1-and-1, but MaryLou Liebau rebounded and was fouled. Liebau made 1-of-2, boosting Salem's lead to 41-39 with a minute to play.

Canton's Katie Cezat missed a jumper, ultimately leading to another free-throw chance for Jaskot. She missed again, but the Rocks kept possession following a jump-ball call. With :22 to go, Shannon Miller was fouled and went to the line for two shots. She missed both, which meant that Salem was 1-for-6 from the line down the stretch — thus far.

It also meant the Chiefs had the ball, trailing by two. Following an inbounds pass with 12.4 seconds left, Jessie Johnson tried to dish the ball to Kristen Lake. That's when Amy Szawara stepped in to make the game-clinching play.

"I just had a feeling," the senior guard said of her steal. "All that was going through my mind was 'Grab the ball and hold it tight.'"

Szawara stepped in front of Lake and took the ball away, forcing Lake to foul her with 7.8 left. Szawara made 1-of-2 at the line, which left the Chiefs relying on Jarman's 20-foot jumper from the wing.

"They have a great team," said Canton coach Bob Blohm. "They have good balance, they can defend, and they can rebound.

"We played well tonight. We played hard. Getting beat by a team like that is no disgrace."

Actually, it very easily could have been a major upset. Salem was up 7-2 after Szawara's three-point play with 4:17 left in the opening period, but Canton scored the next six points and led 10-9 entering the second quarter.

After that it was parry-and-thrust basketball, neither side able to assert itself. Perhaps Salem's biggest advantage in the game was provided by Jaskot, who had eight steals.

She and Liebau each finished with

Soccer champs utilize local talent

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

If there's a lesson the University of Detroit Jesuit soccer team has learned well over the past few years, it's how to handle adversity.

So when the Cubs found themselves trailing Rochester Adams 1-0 at halftime of their Division I state final Nov. 10 at Bloomfield Hills Andover, they weren't about to panic. This is a team that won the Catholic League championship in 2000, the same year league rivals Birmingham Brother Rice and Warren DeLaSalle ended up sharing the state title.

U-D Jesuit rebounded from that halftime deficit with goals by Dan DePaulis and Jacob Zammit, Zammit's game-winner coming with 5:10 remaining, to edge Adams 2-1 and claim its first-ever state crown.

The victors: U-D Jesuit's state soccer champs, including Plymouth's Jim McClain (with trophy) and Tom Lindquist (second from right).

Few gave the Cubs much of a chance against Adams, which had lost just once this season until the final. After winning the title, U-D Jesuit was 18-6-2.

And they were more than a bit pleased with the win. "There were definitely some happy campers," said U-D Jesuit coach Kevin Tuite.

Certainly this team, which includes Tom Lindquist, Jim McClain and Sean Brennan, all from Plymouth, has had to shoulder its share of frustration. Last season, the Cubs were in a district that also featured Livonia Stevenson and Brother Rice, both ranked in the state's top five.

Pair of perfect friends

TEN PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Sam and Pete are best friends.

They stick together and enjoy a fine friendship. They even bowl together in the Sheldon Road Men's League Monday nights at Plaza Lanes in Plymouth.

It is a group comprised of employees of the Sheldon Road Visteon Plant and on team No. 7 Pete Russo is the No. 2 bowler while best friend Sam Loiacano follows him in the order.

On Oct. 29, both Pete and Sam rolled concurrent perfect games in their team's third game.

Pete, with his 180 average, was leading the way for Sam, who carries a 231 average.

About the seventh frame Sam said to Pete, "Are you pushing me?"

After Pete rolled the last strike, the place erupted with lots of yelling and high fives. Pete refers to that as "my fifteen seconds of fame."

Sam still had to bowl the tenth frame — and you know the rest of the story.

Even with the two 300 games, the team's margin of victory was only 100 pins. It had lost the first two games of the night.

Pete and Sam, both southpaws, had also bowled together in the Pro-Am at Taylor Lanes last month and both were using new Storm Trauma balls they had each received for participating in that popular PBA event.

•The idea of a single membership organization (SMO) has been put on hold as far as the upcoming ABC National Convention in March, at Billings, Mont., is concerned.

This concept first surfaced at the 2001 ABC convention in Reno, Nev.

Most of the delegates initially embraced the concept. Because there were some bumps in the road to reality there will have to be further studies to determine what the benefits would be for the bowlers of ABC (men), WIBC (women) and YABA (youth) to have their various groups consolidated into one single membership unit. Also included would be Bowling USA.

It is hoped such action would result in more efficiency at both the national and local levels.

It will not be placed on the 2002 agenda as the concept will require a lot more study and investigation before it can be put to a vote of the national body of delegates.

•In the most recent Mid-States Masters competition at Continental Lanes in Roseville, Derek Verant of Wixom won the 198 division, 209-207, over Ryan McCallep of Auburn Hills.

Among the top qualifiers were Dave Jacobs of Canton (4th), Albert Gulledge (11th) and Ben Fulton (22nd) of Southfield, Brian Moody of Livonia (16th) and Lew Ansara of Farmington Hills (45th).

The next 198 division event will be the Christmas Special at Super Bowl in Canton. Call tournament director Al Bielawski at (313) 365-8449 for more information and entry forms.

•The Greater Detroit Bowling Association has elected Roy Biggs of Canton to the position of fourth vice-president.

In the natural progression of officers, Biggs will become president of the GDBA in 2006. He has been an outstanding director, serving on or chairing several important committees which make things better for the nearly 60,000 bowlers who enjoy sanctioned bowling and the services provided by the association and ABC.

•The GDBA will hold its 89th annual championship tournament March 21-April 21, at Astro Lanes, in Madison Heights.

This event will honor past president Michael Munson. The team event, with a 90 percent handicap from 1,100, will pay $5,000 for first place and $2,500 for second.

Doubles and singles prizes will be according to the number of entries and are handicapped at 90 percent from 220. Organizers will get back $10 per team based on a minimum of ten teams.

Prize fee is returned 100 percent. Reserved spots must be paid by Feb. 22.

The GDBA 39th annual Masters Tournament is scheduled to be held at 300 Bowl in Waterford. Qualifying starts Feb. 2-3, with match play beginning Feb. 9-10.

The 10th annual Senior Masters is slated for Classic Lanes Qualifying begins Jan. 19-20, and match play begins Jan. 26-27.

Entry forms will soon be at all bowling centers within GDBA jurisdiction.

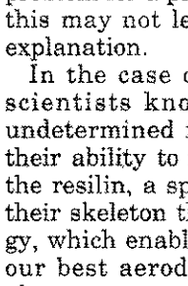
There isn't always a logical reason in explaining nature

NATURE NOTES



TIM NOWICKI

As many know by now, things are not always what they seem to be, or "logic" does not always explain something.

Take the bumblebee. According to aeronautical engineers, they should not be able to fly. Yet in spring very large females, that spent the winter in a sheltered location, are seen searching for a new nest site.

So despite our best educated analysis of the situation, it does not always give us the right answer.

Correctly explaining how something happens is the job of science. Scientists do not rely on the "logic" or "common sense" to explain a process or phenomenon, they tease it apart and test each aspect of it until all the parts verify each other. They certainly rely on their intuitive analysis of a problem for a place to start, but this may not lead to a correct explanation.

In the case of bumblebees, scientists know there is an undetermined factor affecting their ability to fly. Maybe it is the resilin, a special protein in their skeleton that stores energy, which enables them to defy our best aerodynamic principles.

Or, maybe its something we are completely unfamiliar with at this time.

Beetles too have a "handicap" that seems to defy our logic. All beetles have a hardened pair of front wings. When folded flat to their body, they cover the delicate membranous flight wings.

During flight the hardened wings must be raised high enough to allow the one pair of flight wings to propel it through the air. They do not aide in flight, in fact, they create resistance and drag while flying.

Despite this negative aspect of their wings, beetles are the most successful group of insects in the world. Fully one-quarter of all insects are beetles. Even though they do not help flight, they do not hinder it enough to counter act the protection they provide when not used in flight.

Birds are well adapted for flight, yet some new findings seem to fly in the face of logic. Scientists have calculated that 30 pounds is as heavy as a flying bird can practically be in today's world.

If a bird weighed more than 30 pounds, its wings would have to be too long and wide to be practical. Trumpeter swans weigh close to that 30 pound limit.

Light weight feathers, hollow bones, fused bones, fewer bones and air sacs are all features that reduce the weight of birds so they can fly. So it seems logical that the less a bird weighs, the better it can fly. Right?

Well not according to a recent study which demonstrated birds with more than normal amounts of fat flew more efficiently.

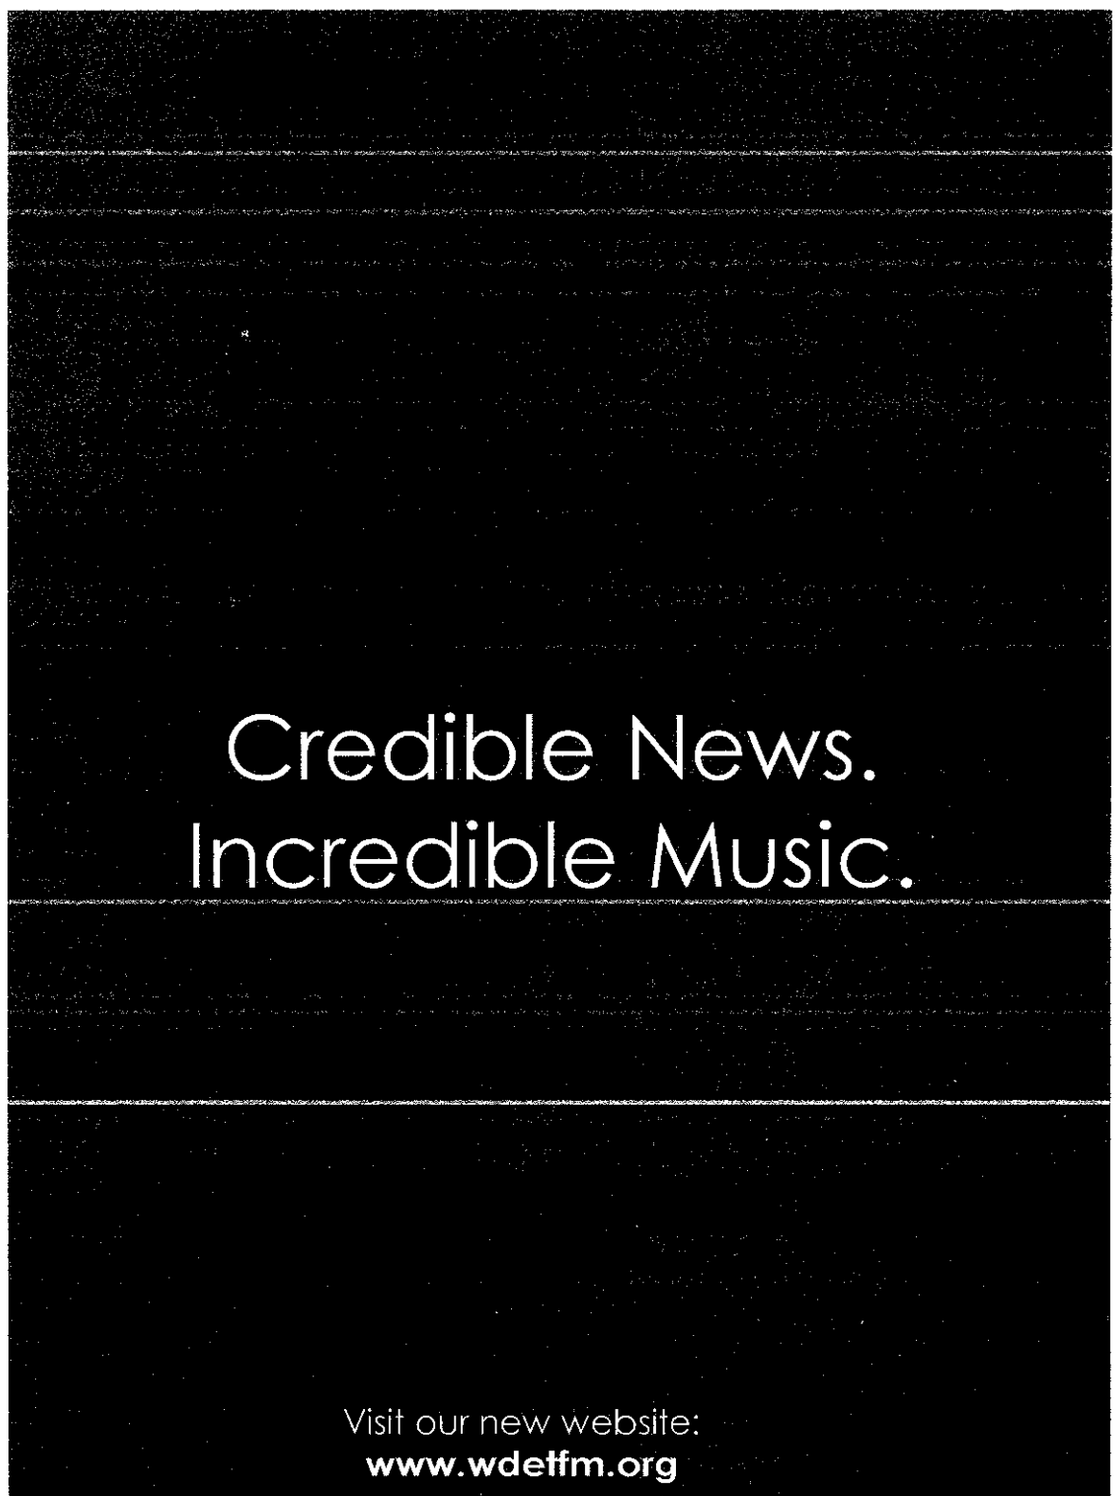
Logic would dictate that a heavier bird would be harder to keep in the air and require a greater expenditure of energy. At least the way I think of it, but that is not the case.

Incidentally, the "V" formation of flying geese has been proven to be a beneficial formation. Scientists have explained the formation as an energy saver for the geese flying behind the leader.

Updrafts created by the lead goose aides those following. The savings to those following has now been shown to be about 18 percent.

And if you were wondering, the lead bird does not lead all the time. Since they tire more quickly, other adult birds of the flock rotate into that position and set the course.

It may at times seem silly for scientists to experiment and test things that seem obvious to us, but there are many times when an intuitive "logical" [illegible] the correct one.



Fly fishing: It's a season that never really ends

JEFF MCGOWAN

It may be a strange time of year to start thinking about fishing, but for some fly fishers, the season never ends. Some anglers pick up shotguns or rifles in search of birds or deer to use for fly tying material. Others continue to steelhead fish all winter long. This time of year is when many trout bums close up their cabins and head home for the winter.

But just because the trout season is over doesn't mean that anglers give up thinking or talking about their sport. Fall and winter is a great time for beginners because they can catch the old pros hanging out at local fly fishing events.

Fly fishers who want to learn new techniques should plan to attend the Federation of Fly Fishers' second annual Fly Tying Exposition on Saturday, Dec. 1st. The Expo will be at the Ingham County Fairgrounds in Mason. Mason is of U.S.-127, a few miles south of Lansing.

Over 100 tiers will be demonstrating their methods and selling their flies from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Admission is $8 for adults and $5 for youths between the ages on 13 and 18. The fly tiers will come from all over the country and represent a broad range of talent and experience.

A few tiers come from the Observer readership area. The FFF Expo is a great opportunity to pick up the tricks of the trade. Tiers are always happy to answer questions. Call Dennis Potter at (616) 363-4966 for more information.

Another great way to learn about the sport is to visit the Michigan Fly Fishing Club. Anglers who wish to learn more about the sport are welcome to attend the meetings at Clarenceville Middle School on Middlebelt Road between Seven and Eight Mile Roads in Livonia.

The first meeting of each month usually features a guest speaker. Past speakers have included authors, guides, fly tiers, biologists, and members of other conservation groups. The second meeting of each month is an activity meeting. Activities include fly tying, casting, and rod building.

The Club has a collection of rods and fly tying equipment, so beginners only need to bring a willingness to learn.

Dues are only $35 per year and includes membership in the Michigan United Conservation Club. Members receive both the MFFC newsletter and the MUCC Michigan Out of Doors magazine.

Anglers who wish to further expand their knowledge are welcome to borrow books from the Club's library. The most valuable source of information about the sport comes from other members. Many members have been fishing for years, and all of them have an opinion about which techniques work the best.

The Club also sponsors various fishing trips throughout the year. Some trips involve rustic camping and salmon fishing, while others involve 1930's-era lodges and trout fishing. Occasionally, out-of state trips are planned. The Michigan Fly Fishing Club also sponsors the long-running Midwest Fly Fishing Exposition to be held in Southfield on March 9-10, 2002.

The Michigan Fly Fishing Club normally meets the first and third Wednesday of each month, although the schedule is subject to change due to scheduling conflicts with the school. Visit www.mffc.org for the current schedule. Meetings are at 7:30 p.m.

Jeff McGowan, a commercial fly tier and licensed guide, is a member of the Michigan Fly Fishing Club.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

ELKS HOOP SHOOT CONTEST

The Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation and the Livonia Elks will co-sponsor at hoop shoot contest for youngsters ages 8-13 Saturday, Dec. 8 at Clarenceville High School. Age divisions will be based as of April 1, 2002.

Registration for the free throw shooting event will be held prior to the 9 a.m. starting time.

Age-group winners can advance through three tiers of competition en route to the national finals. Local winners are guest of the Elks throughout their advancement and will cover their expenses.

For more information, call (734) 466-2410.

BASEBALL TRYOUTS

2002 tryouts for team 10-, 13- and 16-and-under teams playing a 50- to 60-game schedule will held in November.

For more information, call (734) 595-2975; (734) 516-3723; or (734) 953-0786.

BASEBALL COACHES CLINIC

Total Baseball, located at 30900 Wixom Road, Wixom, is staging a baseball coaches clinic 1-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 15. Space is limited.

Featured speakers include Toledo Mudhens manager Bruce Fields, Central Michigan University assistant coach Stephen Jaksa and Lee Bjerke of the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association Hall of Fame.

The cost is $35.

For more information, call (248) 668-0166 or register by email at totalbballwixom@aol.com.

GIRLS HOOP CLINIC

Registration is now underway for the third-annual girls basketball clinic at the prep girls basketball finals Dec. 1 in Mt. Pleasant.

CHAMPS (Cooperation, Hard Work, Attitude, Motivation, Participation, Sportsmanship) clinics target local female junior high/middle school-aged students and their parents in a morning-long workshop designed to provide game skills and life skills information. The CHAMPS clinics are free and are underwritten by Farm Bureau Insurance.

Enrollment in the CHAMPS Clinic is limited to the first 80 girls and their parents — parental attendance is a requirement. The clinic will take place from 8:30-11 a.m. in the Indoor Athletic Complex on the campus of Central Michigan University, just south of Rose Arena, where the four MHSAA Girls Basketball Finals will take place.

Applications have been sent to MHSAA member schools in the greater Mt. Pleasant area. An application may also be downloaded from the MHSAA web site: www.mhsaa.com.

All youngsters participating in the CHAMPS clinic will receive a t-shirt, and lunch will be provided for all players and parents. CHAMPS clinic participants and their parents will also be guests of the MHSAA for the Class D-A session of the Girls Basketball Finals that day, and the participating youngsters will be recognized on-court at halftime of the Class D championship game.

Registrations must be submitted by November 29. For more information, contact Dr. James Hornak, Department of Physical Education and Sport, Central Michigan University, SAC 194, Mt. Pleasant, MI, 48858, or by phone at (517) 774-6659. Or you may call the MHSAA office in East Lansing at (517) 332-5046.

INDIVIDUAL BASEBALL LESSONS

The Bernie Carbo Premier Baseball School will be individual and small group lessons in power pitching, hitting and fielding assisted by minor leaguer Mark Rutherford.

For more information, call Gordie Rutherford at (734) 421-4928.

HOCKEY CLINICS PLANNED

Suburban Hockey Schools will conduct three clinics (Learn To Stop, Backward Skating and Shoot To Score) on Friday, Nov. 23 at Suburban Training Center in Farmington Hills.

The Learn to Stop clinic will be 10-11:50 a.m., Backward Skating noon to 5 p.m. and Shoot to Score 2-3:50 p.m.

Players age 6 and older are welcome to sign up for any and all clinics. Classes will be limited to 32. Players will be grouped according to skill and experience level.

For more information or to register for any of the clinics call Suburban Hockey at (248) 478-1600.

HOCKEY PLAYERS NEEDED

The Farmington Hills Adults Hockey Association needs additional players for the current season in all three age groups – 18-and-over, over-30 and over-40.

The association has enough goalies; no more are needed. For more information call the FHAHA at 471-6004 and leave a voice-mail message.

In 1998, they reached the Division II state final and lost 4-0 to Grand Rapids Christian.

"The kids came to play," said Tuite, a Redford Catholic Central graduate (1986). "They knew they were capable of doing it. We felt we had a chance in each of the last two years to win it."

Of the three players from Plymouth, only McClain is a senior. A forward, McClain's biggest game came in the district final, in which he scored two goals and assisted on another in the 7-1 win over Garden City.

Lindquist, a junior defender, was one of U-D Jesuit's top marking backs. "He stepped up big time and earned a starting spot on defense," said Tuite. "He dealt with anyone coming down his side."

As for Brennan, also a junior, "he's a competitor," noted Tuite. "He contributed in a big way in the (regional) game against Ann Arbor Pioneer," a game the Cubs won 2-1.

A midfielder, Brennan also had the game-winning goal against Catholic Central in the districts.

All three have had to travel a long way to attend U-D Jesuit, and they've had to travel a long way to help the Cubs gain a state championship.

But it's been worth the trip.

year-history of the girls basketball program.

Agape, now 18-3, travels to Adrian Madison to play Adrian Lenawee Christian (22-1) in a Class D regional semifinal Monday. Urban Lutheran finishes at 8-13.

"They played a box-and-one (zone defense) and made it tough four our leading scorer to get shots," said Agape coach Chuck Henry, referring to his daughter Amy, a junior guard. "But the other girls stepped up and made shots. This is probably the first time all season (Amy) isn't our leading scorer."

Amy may not have scored a bundle of points — she was limited to seven — but she did a lot of other things, finishing with team-highs in rebounds with eight, assists with eight and steals with four.

"Obviously, we had to stop (Henry)," said Urban Lutheran coach Scott Erdman. "My girls knew they had to limit her to 10 points or less. I can't fault my girls, they played hard all night.

"For a girl (the Vikings' Nicole Kimbrough) to guard her the entire game, chase her all over the floor all night long . . . she did a great job."

While the strategy certainly kept Henry from beating Urban Lutheran, others stepped forward. "What they did wasn't anything different," said the Agape coach. "We've seen it before. But the people they put on her were much quicker."

Lisa Ther knocked down three jumpers in the first half, scoring six of her eight points, and Kelly Blackney scored five of her team-high nine points in the second quarter. Agape led 9-8 after one quarter, with its pressure defense wreaking havoc on the Vikings, something it did throughout the game.

The Wolverines forced eight first-quarter turnovers and 17 by halftime; for the game, Urban Lutheran had 28 turnovers. Agape committed 20.

Even when the Wolverines did get off a shot, it rarely found its mark. They converted just 17-of-60 floor shots (28.3 percent).

"We pressed them and made them turn the ball over a lot," said Chuck Henry. "And we did a good job on Desiree Mitchell — I don't know how many she got, but not nearly as many as she was getting."

Mitchell finished with a game-high 12 points. Kimbrough added nine.

For Agape, Blackney had seven rebounds to go with her nine points. A.J. Creps also grabbed seven boards for the Wolves.

The Wolverines expanded their 21-14 halftime lead to 27-14 before the third quarter was two minutes old. Urban Lutheran rallied with an 8-3 run to trim that deficit to 31-22 with 2:24 to go in the third, but baskets by Creps and Kelley Hays gave Agape a 34-22 lead to carry into the final period.

The Vikings failed to narrow the margin to single digits until Kimbrough's basket at the buzzer. By then it was too late to prevent the inevitable — an Agape district championship.

Twin Falls.

On Friday, Schoolcraft ran its record to 4-0 with a 90-84 victory over Hagerstown (Md.), 90-84.

Guard Javon Clark (Detroit Cass Tech) finished with 26 points to lead SC. He made six of 12 from three-point range.

Mike Williams (Detroit City) finished with 20 points, seven rebounds and six steals. Center Yaku Moton-Spruill (Westland John Glenn) added 12 points and five rebounds, but played only 16 minutes because of foul trouble.

Point-guard Rulon Harris chipped in with 11 points and nine assists, while 6-6 forward Emir Medunjanin had 10 points and eight boards.

Hagerstown (4-2) got 18 points and 12 rebounds from Jernavis Draughn.

The Ocelots shot 52.5 percent from the floor (32 of 61) and 63.3 percent from the free throw line (10 of 19). They were outrebounded, 52-37.

Against Southern Idaho, the Ocelots battled back from a 43-39 deficit to tie it and force OT, thanks in part to the strong outside shooting provided by Clark, who was 6-of-10 from three-point range, scoring 24 points; he also had seven rebounds and three assists.

Three-point shooting was a major difference in the game. SC converted 10-of-23 chances from beyond the arc (43.5 percent), including 2-of-3 in the overtime. Southern Idaho was 6-of-28 from three-point range (21.4 percent).

Williams led the Ocelots with 25 points and 15 rebounds; he also had four assists, four steals and two blocked shots.

Moton-Spruill added 18 points and six boards, while Harris finished with eight points, 12 assists and three steals.

Ricky Clemons topped Southern Idaho with 27 points, six assists and six steals. Josh Williams contributed 20 points and 11 rebounds.

Schoolcraft met 5-3 Midland (Tex.) on Saturday night in the final game of the three-day tourney.

•MADONNA 72, DURHAM, ONT. (MEN) 57: Mike Massey poured in a game-high 26 points Friday as Madonna University (3-1) beat Durham (Ontario) in the first-round of the Fanshawe (Ont.) Tournament.

Tony Jancevski, a 6-foot-9 center from Plymouth Salem High School and Schoolcraft College, added 14 points. Noel Emenhiser had 11.

Kevin Kirulek led the Lords with with 14 points, while Adam Farra and Nelson Loura chipped in with 10each.

MU led 37-24 at halftime.

•OLIVET NAZARENE (Ill.) 92, MADONNA (WOMEN) 74: Erica Martin and Lanita Thomas each poured in 22 points Friday as hot-shooting Olivet Nazarene (Ill.) downed Madonna (2-1) in Friday's first-round of the Huntington (Ind.) Tournament.

Kathy Panganis (Allen Park) led the Lady Crusaders with 31 points on 11-of-21 shooting from the field. She was 6-for-6 at the foul line and grabbed seven rebounds. Lindsay Simmon added 16 points and nine rebounds for MU, which trailed 46-33 at halftime.

Nazarene shot 55.4 percent from the floor (36 of 65), including 13-of-20 from three-point range.

Stacy Maurer added 12 points and 12 rebounds for the winners. Shelly Broughton also had 12 points.

Nazarene outrebounded MU, 44-42.

Salem-Canton from B1

12 points; Szawara had 10. All are seniors. Lake led Canton with 12; Wolcott scored 10.

Coaches rely on seniors to make big plays in big games. At game's end, Canton had one senior on the floor (Jarman); Salem had four.

"Last year, their seniors were better than ours," said Thomann. "This year, ours are better."

At least most of the time. They didn't look too good at the line down the stretch, making just 2-of-8 (and missing the front end of two 1-and-1s).

"That's probably what we'll be doing first thing when we meet at 10 a.m. tomorrow," Thomann said. "We've said all along, making your free throws will allow you to be a champion."

Round One is now history, with the Rocks gaining the district championship. Round Two starts Monday.

Quite a 1-2 punch

Churchill, Stevenson girls dominate all-Observer squad

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

The Livonia Churchill girls cross country team was put to the test this season and coach Sue Tatigian's Chargers once again received high marks.

Pushed by neighboring Livonia Stevenson, a perennial power in the area, Churchill came away with champions in five meets while placing four on the first-team All-Observer squad.

"We showed a lot of resiliency to win our conference (the Western Lakes) for the second year in a row and improve our finish in the state meet (Division I) from 13th to ninth," said Tatigian, who was named Observerland Coach of the Year for the second time. "It was one of my most enjoyable seasons coaching because it was fun to see the girls improve throughout the season."

Churchill also captured the Livonia Public Schools, Wayne County, New Boston Huron and Monroe-Jefferson invitationals.

Tatigian is a 1985 Stevenson grad who is a former All-Area runner who later competed in both track and cross country at Michigan State.

The 34-year-old Tatigian began her coaching career at Livonia Franklin before moving to Churchill in 1996 where she has guided the Chargers to four Western Division crowns and two WLAA championships.

Regional champion Stevenson also made its presence known by placing three on the first-team.

FIRST TEAM

Susan Duncan, Sr., Liv. Churchill: The three-time All-Observer pick was the area's top finisher at the Division I state meet (16th) with a time of 19 minutes, 8 seconds, a personal best.

Duncan also is a two-time Western Lakes Activities Association champion and set the league course record this year at Kensington Metropark in 19:28.

This fall, she also took firsts at the Livonia Public Schools, Monroe-Jefferson and Wayne County meets. She was runner-up at the regional and South Lyon Invitational.

The three-time state qualifier and two-year team captain also took fifth at New Boston Huron (19:43), seventh at Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard (19:35) and eighth at West Bloomfield. She is a three-time Churchill MVP and has the fourth-fastest Charger time on the Cass Benton Park course.

Duncan is also a two-year All-State Academic pick (3.914 GPA).

"I have been blessed to have coached Susan the last four years," Churchill coach Sue Tatigian said. "She's a kind, hard-working and serious student-athlete who has had a stellar high school cross country career because of her amazing work ethic. She will graduate next June as one of the most successful and decorated distance runners in the history of Churchill."

Lisa Montgomery, So., Liv. Stevenson: Montgomery ran under 20 minutes eight times this season with an average of 20:15. She improved her best time at Cass Benton to 19:44 and had a season-best of 19:27 at Gabriel Richard.

She repeated as regional champion, placed fifth in the WLAA and took 50th at the state meet.

"After an outstanding first year (where she placed 29th in the state), Lisa came back her sophomore year with an equally strong showing," Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg said.

Danielle Lewis, Sr., Liv. Stevenson: Lewis ranks 12th on Stevenson's all-time best list at Cass Benton (20:14) and is 11th on the all-time list (19:44).

The soccer player also finished ninth at the WLAA meet, fourth at the regional and was the Spartans' top finisher at the state meet (39th) with a time of 19:44.

"Danielle is a runner with first-class sprinter's speed with the endurance to run distances — in other words — a cross country coach's dream," Holmberg said. "She ran for only two years, but has some impressive statistics."

Nicole Renaud, So., Liv. Churchill: A first-team All-Observer pick for the second straight year, Renaud took seventh in the WLAA meet (20:15), fifth at the regional and 73rd at the state meet (20:06).

She was also runner-up at the Livonia Public Schools, Monroe-Jefferson and Westland John Glenn Freshman-Sophomore invitationals. Other finishes include fourth at Wayne County (19:57) and South Lyon; 10th at Gabriel Richard (19:43 personal best) and Huron (19:51); and 19th at West Bloomfield.

"Nicole is a fun athlete to coach because of her enthusiasm and confidence level," Tatigian said. "She mentally and physically prepares herself for each of her races and really thrives on competition. She really stepped up her level of racing this year and was very consistent throughout the entire season."

Renaud carries a 3.75 GPA in the Math, Science and Computer program.

Sara Pilon, Jr., Liv. Stevenson: The three-time first-team All-Observer pick placed third to help Stevenson win the regional and was 65th at the state meet (20:02).

She posted consistent clockings between 20 and 21 minutes with a season-best 19:33.

"Sara was a gutsy competitor for Stevenson, she gave everything she had in every meet," Holmberg said. "She will be a senior captain on the 2002 Stevenson team."

Nicole Schmidt, Fr., Liv. Churchill: The ninth-grader excelled in her inaugural season by placing 64th in the state meet (20:01), sixth fastest among freshmen after an 11th-place showing at the regional.

In the Glenn Frosh-Sophomore meet, Schmidt took fourth (20:21). She also finished eighth in both the WLAA meet (20:19) and Jefferson Invitational. She posted a personal best 19:59 at Gabriel Richard (14th overall) and was 16th at Huron.

"Nicole is blessed with a great amount of natural talent and ability," Tatigian said. "She really learned how to race this season and stepped up her level of competitiveness as the season progressed.

"She is one of the most successful freshman I have had the pleasure of coaching. I look forward to watching her continue to develop into a phenomenal runner."

Sarah Westrick, Jr., Liv. Churchill: The two-time, first-team All-Observer selection made All-WLAA for the third year in a row with a fourth-place finish at Kensington in 19:59.

She also took fifth at Wayne County; sixth at both the Jefferson and the City meets; eighth at Huron (19:50); ninth at the regional; 13th at Gabriel Richard; 20th at West Bloomfield; and 89th in Division I.

She is an Academic All-Stater with a 3.875 in the Math, Science and Computer Gifted program.

"Sarah had a tremendous season despite recovering from pneumonia last spring in track, which cut short her season," Tatigian said. "I was impressed with how she rebounded this fall and was able to physically and mentally prepare for the season.

"Sarah is a natural leader and a great role model for the younger athletes on the team."

Angie Matthews, Sr., Luth. Westland: In Division IV, Matthews took 19th place with a time of 20:15. She was also regional medalist with a third at Belle Isle and took second in the Metro Conference meet.

Her best time was 19:40 at the first Metro Conference jamboree. She is a three-time regional medalist and three-time All-Metro honoree and is an academic All-Conference honoree with a 3.690 GPA.

She made second-team All-Observer twice.

"Angie had to overcome a lot of adversity the past two seasons," Lutheran Westland coach Dave Brown said. "This year she missed two weeks in the middle of the season with a badly sprained ankle.

"But she deserved the success she achieved because of her work ethic. She only missed one day of running the entire summer and is the hardest work in practice I've ever coached."

Christine Metry, Sr., Farm. Hills Harrison: Metry was the Division 2 regional champion at Ann Arbor Pioneer, and she finished 71st in the state meet with a time of 20:27.9.

Metry, who also qualified for state a year ago, was voted the most valuable runner on this year's Harrison team.

She was a medal winner in the Oakland County meet, had a personal record of 19:49, was named to the academic all-state team and earned WLAA all-division honors.

"Christine was very dedicated to the team and sport," coach Mark Babcock said. "She prepared hard in her performance. She had a tremendous year and plans to run in college. She is one of the best I've ever coached."

Choral lovers unite in song

Choral music and the holidays just seem to go together. No matter your religion, it's a time for celebrating and rejoicing with family and friends.

Wayne State University music professor Malcolm Johns knew this 35 years ago when he decided to bring the community together with a concert after the riots of 1967. Johns won't be conducting this year's program. He died April 21, but his legacy lives on. At noon on Tuesday, Nov. 20, the community will gather for the "Salute Concert to Downtown Detroit" featuring the Wayne State University Symphonic Chorus & Orchestra at Old St. Mary's Church in Greektown.

"After the riots Mac (as he was fondly known) was trying to use music as a healing and communication throughout the community," said Dennis Tini, chairman of the WSU music department. A Farmington Hills resident, Tini will conduct this year's concert. "It evolved into many types of music from our diverse community – Polish, Belgian.

"It's a celebration, traditionally the beginning of the Thanksgiving and the holiday season and meant to welcome the holiday season. It's a wonderful, Victorian Gothic church, a beautiful church. People should come down. A free will offering will go toward a Malcolm Johns choral library at Wayne State for students and faculty to use his literature."

What: The 35th annual Salute Concert to Downtown Detroit featuring the Wayne State University Symphonic Chorus & Orchestra. Voluntary offering.

When: Noon Tuesday, Nov. 20

Where: Old St. Mary's Church, 646 Monroe St. at St. Antoine in Greektown, Detroit.

Call: The music department at (313) 577-1795.

Tini is expecting nearly 2,000 celebrators to pack the historic church especially since this year's concert honors Johns who was an internationally known conductor, church musician and organist. Johns taught at Wayne State University 44 years and served 14 years as emeritus professor giving clinics and conducting.

The program includes the last movement of Bach's B minor Mass and Dona Nobis Pacem (Grant Us Peace) in honor of the victims of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks as well as Southfield pianist Matt Michaels and vocalist Gordon Finlay performing a love song written by Johns for his wife, Marian, in 1949. Choral selections by Brahms, Mozart, William Bolcolm and African-American composer Moses Hogan will also be performed. Soloists singing with the orchestra and chorus are Frances Brockington, Dorothy Duensing, Finlay and Norah Duncan IV.

"We're encouraging people to come early. We're expecting people from all over the state," said Tini, who's been a part of the festivities since 1978. "The goal is to bring everybody together as one through music. The audience gets to sing together.

Celebrated potter cherishes human connection

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

John Glick steadily moves the treadle of the potter's wheel back and forth with his foot as he's done for the last 37 years at Plum Tree Pottery in Farmington Hills. His excitement over winning the Governor's Michigan Artist Award from ArtServe Michigan appears muted but that's simply the internationally known ceramist's style.

Glick calmly and philosophically responds to life events and his craft. In his acceptance speech, Glick revealed a long-held idealism that an artist's journey is about discovery, creation, hope, and possibility. Glick treasures the fact he's touched so many people with his work — that through the simple act of forming clay he brings happiness to others.

What: John Glick's showroom for functional and sculptural ceramics

Where: 30435 W. 10 Mile, between Middlebelt and Orchard Lake roads, Farmington Hills

When: Hours are 1-5 p.m. Wednesday-Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday; hours also by appointment. Holiday hours 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily Dec. 18-23. Call (248) 476-4875.

Looking around the showroom at Glick's functional and sculptural ceramics, it's easy to see the beauty in owning hand-made wares. Built on the site of a working farm from the 1850s, the space features platters, tea pots, bowls, tiles, cake plates, platters, mugs, stoneware jugs — objects to soothe the bumps in life. Glick believes it's more important now than ever to add a little joy to people's days.

Places: The sculpture, Cloud Study, recalls John Glick's trip to China.

"I was in New York the week of the tragedy giving a seminar and was traumatized and scared afterward even when I came home," said Glick who received the award Tuesday, Nov. 13, at the Detroit Institute of Arts. "People are emotionally shocked, spiritually shocked. They're buying a cup because it's about hope, the possible, the real. The human connecting part is the most enduring. A part of myself goes into all of my work.

"I'm very excited about the award but I've had enough rewards over the years. I have a diverse community of supporters who come here anytime for a personal special gift for someone or themselves. It's a wonderful connection with people loving what you do."

Glick tells stories about people he's affected over the years. One of his favorites is 22 years old. Glick was giving a tour of his studio to a group of Brownies and before they left he gave them all something to remember their day by. One of the girls' mother, who'd never heard of the pottery, came in and became a regular customer because of her daughters stories.

"The girls grew up loving handmade work because of those experiences," said Glick. "Now they have children. They come here, three generations. It's a family tradition. Their biggest treat is giving each other my work. What touches me is the fact it knits their family together."

Just like his customers, Glick is moved by owning clay works. His home is filled with dozens of pieces by other artists. He says it puts him in touch with "all those different voices every day."

Glick never dreamed as a student that like them he could make a living creating utilitarian objects. He'd read about folk potters in Korea and Japan passing on their skills from one generation to the next. Nearly 40 years later he's running a successful business and eager to tell your g artists that it is possible to make a living doing what he does. As a student at Wayne State University in the late 1950s, he was inspired to become a potter by teachers, students and family.

"It was my parents believing in me, people believing in me," said Glick. "My parents never said this

Sharon Bida broke both legs on a trip to Mexico in February, but that didn't stop her from creating a sculpture for the Artists Among Us/Poets Among Us exhibit on view in the second floor gallery at Madonna University.

The Plymouth artist believes in sharing her feelings and the fourth annual Wayne County Council for Arts, History & Humanities show gave her the opportunity to do so while undergoing months of rehabilitation so she could walk again.

The welded steel abstract titled Inside of Us uses lyrical line and a circle symbolic of the universal requirement to seek sustenance from outside ourselves. No man is an island especially rang true for Bida and she wanted to communicate that.

BOOKS

Former resident has a good 'Point'

Point Deception
by Marcia Muller
(Mysterious Press / Warner Books, $23.95).

VICTORIA DIAZ

"Things look different when you're scared."

Thus begins this new mystery novel by former Ann Arborite Marcia Muller, creator of the popular series characters Sharon McCone, Joanna Stark and Elena Oliverez.

Don't expect to meet them in "Point Deception," however. We are introduced, instead, to Northern California sheriff deputy Rhoda Swift, who lives and works in a strange spot haunted by its past. Rhoda is haunted, too, although she's trying to make a "normal" life for herself as the story opens.

In Soledad County, 13 years earlier, six people (including two children) were massacred, and the crime remains unsolved — thanks, in part, to snafus committed by Rhoda. Now it appears that a serial killer has begun to strike again. A beautiful stranded motorist is found strangled, and shortly thereafter, two long-time citizens of the area are found dead in remote parts of Cascada Canyon, where the original murders took place. As Rhoda tries to unravel the mystery, it looks as if the killer is no passing stranger. The residents of the fictional county entertain "fears and suspicions that a monster ... (lives) among them." And so do we.

Enter Guy Newberry, a New York journalist, who comes to Soledad County in order to write of the earlier massacres. And, ironically, Guy is haunted too. He soon becomes involved in solving the murders and begins to begins to develop more than just friendly feelings for Rhoda.

Suspects seem to emerge from behind every rock or tangled stand of pampas grass along this section of the fog-shrouded coast. As readers, we begin to look askance at almost everybody, including the violent-tempered cop, Wayne Gilardi, abalone poacher Alex Ngo, the eccentric Basque named Gregory Cordova, and even Rhoda's reclusive father, Jack Antolini.

Muller does her usual bang-up job of keeping us enthralled with her story of a community that has been scarred and changed by terrible violence and tragedy. She imparts a strange feeling of ghostliness to the place and its inhabitants, illustrating how evil might affect the behavior of everyone it touches—even the innocent. This not only adds punch to the impact of the story overall, but is ultimately the book's main, thought-provoking strength. (Her exceptionally well-informed word pictures of this place also keep us engaged in the story.)

Though not highly dimensional yet (maybe this will develop in future novels), Rhoda is empathetic and likable enough, with her mixed feelings toward her hard-drinking father and her coworkers, her devotion toward her canine pal, and her bravery in the face of hideous terror.

If the same can be said for the haunted and lonely, but ever-capable and talented, Guy Newberry, therein lies one of the problems with the novel. It's as if Muller never quite makes up her mind who has the lead role here. Consequently, the effectiveness of each character seems really less than it might have been.

This is certainly not enough to write things off, however. "Point Deception" will leave many readers hoping they'll see more of this pair in the future.

Dickens Olde Fashioned
Christmas Festival
November 23, 24, 25
December 1,2,8,9,15,16,22,23
Saturdays 1-7pm, Sundays 1-5pm

Every weekend is full of family fun. Set in the days of Merry Olde England, you'll see and hear the sights and sounds of Christmas. Come mingle with the Dickens characters right out of one of Charles Dickens' Victorian tales. Witness the occurance of Marley's ghost, Bah! Humbug! with Ebenezer Scrooge and be entertained by Old Man Fagan's little urchins!

Food merchants dressed in period costumes will serve hot & hearty delights. Local shops are filled with gifts for everyone on your holiday shopping list. Experience traveling musicians, carolers, jugglers, and Father Christmas among the strolling Dickens characters. After strolling through 40 specialty and antique shops, you"ll find a carriage ride the perfect ending to a fine day!

CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS PARADE
The parade features Santa, his live reindeer, floats decorated in the old fashioned look keeping in tradition with the Dickens era. After the parade, the reindeer will be in a tent next to Joseph's Oak Shop on Saginaw St. for the children to get an up close look.

DOWNTOWN DECORATIONS
Decorations on shops in downtown Holly reflect the decorations popular during the time of Dickens in England. There are lights on trees, buildings and lamp posts, cedar garlands on buildings and light posts, also decorated with bows in burgandy and gold. In the middle of downtown is the big Christmas tree decorated with the handiwork of Holly children.

is what you should do. So I started thinking is it possible to do this? Then I heard about Wayne State having a student exhibition in the basement of the DIA and went running over to see if I could help install the show. It's pretty powerful your school having a show in the basement of the DIA."

Glick was hooked on becoming a ceramist. Today he's well-known for plate-shaped wall pieces which are colorful landscape paintings on clay. Many of them can be found in the permanent collection of not only the Detroit Institute of Arts but Renwick Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., Cranbrook Art Museum in Bloomfield Hills and numerous places around the world. But he's never forgotten what it was to be a struggling young artist. For many years now Glick's given a one-year assistantship to under-grad and graduate students.

"I teach by example," said Glick who frequently puts in 10-hour days. "It's a wonderful relationship that happens. The assistants see evidence of community when they're in the showroom.

"It's my commitment to the field. I recently gave a tour for students from Northern Michigan University. I told them it's 37 years of skills, accumulated equipment. I started with practically nothing. Everybody starts slow. But it's never stopped being challenging, never becomes repetitious. It's very much about creative play. I get to play with intriguing, sometimes surprising things."

Back in the studio Glick trims plates for a commissioned dinnerware set. Glick's home is a collectors dream — cupboards filled with his handmade dinnerware, stacks of mixing bowls alongside the stove.

"I glaze each one individually choosing from 50 some glazes with 20 some decorative colors on top," said Glick.

"It's absolutely energizing that way. It comes from my personal roots. I don't even know what's going to happen when I start sometime. I'm constantly asking what's next? What if I use a different glaze? I compare it to a jazz musician improvising. This is like this jazz riff. It's this free playfulness thing coming out."

Glick's sculptural work is more thought out. Abstract pieces such as Cloud Study recall a trip to China. Frequently his drawing and image making is influenced by Japanese woodblock prints. A Mantel series features pears created after ones on his backyard tree.

"My work is functional and sculptural," said Glick. "I don't just sit and do one thing. I'm doing someone's dinnerware set and these at the same time. The sculpture is functional in a very pleasing way."

Just like his formative student years, Glick's never forgotten the city which helped make his dream of becoming a full-time artist possible. It was here Glick established his Plum Tree Pottery in 1964.

"I'm grateful to the city of Farmington Hills," said Glick who's lived in the area since the late 1950s and in 1977 was named Artist-in-Residence by the Farmington Area Arts Commission. "They really make it clear. It's a community that welcomes dance, theater. It's a welcoming community for the arts."

The inviting atmosphere of Plum Tree Pottery makes it easy for the city to support artists like Glick, said Nancy Coumoundouros, cultural arts coordinator for the cities of Farmington and Farmington Hills. Glick regularly opens his doors to community-based organizations for tours and in turn the city is featuring his work at the City Gallery in the Costick Center in Farmington Hills through Jan. 4. For more information, call (248) 473-1856.

"The city of Farmington Hills is so proud of John," said Coumoundouros. "During this month when he receives the award, it's important to celebrate John. He always gives so generously of his time and is always willing to share his experience and talents.

"I have purchased several pieces of his and give them away as gifts. There's a richness of color. He blends his color so beautifully. There's a warmth about his work that reflects him as person."

Glick's quiet demeanor and warmth comes through all of the work now on display in his showroom. His doors are always open. Just look for the historic sign. If it's not during regular business hours, Glick will arrange a time. He's always eager to touch others with his work.

Detroit Artists Market and Detroit Contemporary gallery. "It represents how we live inside ourselves. Our lives are contained, but we need other people. My husband, Chuck, helped weld part of the work. I've had the help of a lot of people since the accident."

Bida represents the level of commitment by artists to their craft. That's the purpose of the Wayne County Council for Arts, History & Humanities exhibit — to showcase serious artists. There's none more dedicated than Detroit artist Gilda Snowden, who won Best of Show. Snowden painted two abstracts acrylics, Blue Tornado and Red Tornado. Squares in the center of the canvas denote the eye of the storm.

"I wanted to make them look like a diptych. I thought they looked as if they related," said Molly Lindner, director of the Exhibit Gallery at the university. Lindner, who earned a Ph.D. in art history from the University of Michigan and teaches modern art at Madonna University, installed the show.

"On the other hand I'm isolating three of the paintings. These big splashing paintings are eye catching and I don't want them to get lost among smaller pieces. I put them in cases to show detail and because the connection between some of these smaller art pieces is interesting."

Variety is definitely key to the show jurored by James Tottis, acting curator of American art at the Detroit Institute of Arts. Comic book fans will be taken with Anthony Bacon's red, black and white Spider Man. There are several colorful works in the show including Justine Mucha's abstract. The Redford resident arranges her line like so many coils of color.

Pop art is sure to be a favorite for viewers looking for bright, fun paintings. Mary Ewald's Deep Clean incorporates unconventional images such as an orange Tide bottle while another of her works feature Superman and Scottie dogs.

Political art is a little heavier. Jason Phillips Weight makes viewers ponder the African-American man dragging a huge object covered with an American flag.

Michael Cooper's mixed media work asks if schools are becoming battlegrounds.

"There's a cross section of different genres of art – abstract, representational. There's something for everyone," said Robert Maniscalco, president of the Wayne County Council for Arts, History & Humanities and owner of Maniscalco Gallery in Detroit where the exhibit debuted in September.

As part of Artists Among Us/Poets Among Us, writers in the area put down in words their feelings about the paintings, drawings, sculpture and mixed media.

"I did a similar exhibit, Destiny of Spirit, on painting and poetry at my gallery several years ago, but this is the first time for poetry in the Artists Among Us exhibit," said Maniscalco.

"Next year we hope to have musicians connected to the exhibit in some way. This year we had poets perform their writings at the openings. The experience is magical. If people would like to read them, it's $10 for a catalogue with the money going to the Wayne County Council for Arts, History & Humanities.

"There will also be a book available during the exhibit so people can write a poem about a piece. It provides a poetic access to the art work, and the art work provides a poetic access to the words. It's an ARTnership that Wayne County Council is trying to nurture and foster."

"The council has experienced growth over the last couple of years. The goal is to try to pull together the efforts of some 575 arts organizations in Wayne County- theater companies, galleries, art centers to build a visibility for the arts in Wayne County and pull together so we have greater impact in the community."

"We're inviting alumni to take part in the celebration, church musicians/friends of Malcolm. He left a legacy of 65 years of church music in the area as a music director and organist. He was a fantastic musician, an incredible inspiration to people. It's a most joyous time to celebrate the season, to give tribute to Malcolm's legacy and to see our community participate together in a wonderful celebration of choral music."

State Rep. John Stewart (R-Plymouth) is proud to be one of the WSU alumni taking part in the concert at Old St. Mary's Church and special rehearsal for alumni and friends, including members of the Plymouth Oratorio Society, 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 19, in the Choral Rehearsal Room, 2402 Old Main on the WSU campus.

Stewart will guest conduct two hymns. He remembers seeing the 1967 riots and believes now, after the Sept. 11 terrorists attacks, it is time for reflection, that "music has the unique power to bring people together and transcend all cultures. Music can lift the soul and bring comfort to the people of our nation."

"I'm inviting all the legislators and judges to the concert," said Stewart, who will also speak at the concert.

"We're going to pause and say thanks and do it with the depths of choral music. I personally think Downtown Detroit will stop for a moment of introspection. We want to bring something back to Detroit. It's the best

Tickets are $7, $5 students/seniors. Call (248) 522-3667.

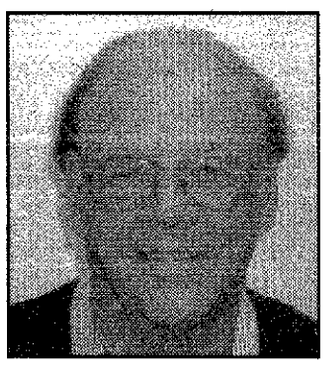
The Good Doctor is a series of sketches adapted by Simon from the work of 19th century Russian playwright Anton Chekhov.

Directed by theater artistic director Carol King, the production's 20-member cast is made up of both students and community residents.

Ask the Orthodontist

"A Little Bite Here and a Little Bite There"

Many people, particularly children, habitually bite or suck their upper or lower lips. As a chronic or constant problem, this leaves lip biters with dry, chapped, swollen lips and often a characteristic red ring around their mouths. This habit can also result in the upper front teeth not making proper contact with the lower teeth, creating a space between them. As a consequence of biting or sucking the top lip, the front teeth may even be pushed in. When the condition becomes severe, orthodontic intervention may be called for.



First, however, as with thumb or finger sucking, the habit which led to the poor bite, must be corrected. The orthodontist may provide some helpful options for remedying the habit. In the meantime, parents should keep a lookout for this (and other) problems in an effort to correct them early. Many times an inappropriate habit may be due to an underlying occlusion problem, which is how the upper and lower teeth are related together, or even possibly the relationship of the upper and lower jaw bones. Other times it is possible that the habit can create mismatches between the jaws or exaggerate them.

The best time to begin orthodontic intervention or treatment will vary depending on the type of severity of the problem. The orthodontist has the training and the experience to determine the best and most effective treatment. It is best to allow an orthodontist specialist to perform an exam to determine ideal timing of the correction.

You may see or write us at our office for any topics you would like discussed in this biweekly column. The office is located at 35200 Schoolcraft in Livonia (734-261-8860)

Urban elements

Palladium symbolizes downtown Birmingham's new direction

BY NICOLE STAFFORD
STAFF WRITER
nstafford@oe.homecomm.net

A decade ago, downtown Birmingham went to bed at sundown on most nights.

Today, there's a hustle-and-bustle on mid-week nights.

The cafe crowd flips through newspapers and surfs the Internet on lap-tops.

Teenagers gather on the sidewalk to hold court and gossip before catching an early flick.

Couples stroll by shop windows to work off calories from an in-town dinner.

Families pack the Coney Island restaurants to grab a speedy meal.

There's no question downtown Birmingham has changed. But last week's opening of the Uptown Palladium Theater at the corner of North Old Woodward and Hamilton, marks a turning point for the shopping district.

Jacobson's spokesman Fred Marx probably put it best while conversing with patrons at the theater's grand opening benefit: "This is no small town."

Like most downtown districts and metropolitan cities, Birmingham hasn't lost all its small-town character. It's just that in today's increasingly competitive and more global marketplace, a more urban atmosphere appears to be the best way for Birmingham to survive.

Bright lights, big city: The grand opening of the Uptown Palladium Theater Wednesday brought a flurry of activity to downtown Birmingham.

Looks aren't everything

The mere physical presence of the three-story, 73,500-square-foot Palladium complex awakens urban sensibilities. The Willits condominium project, just around the corner from the new 12-screen theater, only amplifies the emerging metropolitan ambiance.

Of course the impact of both projects is more than physical.

Downtown entertainment and in-town housing are hallmarks of the urban experience, both of which tend to increase the level and time span of foot traffic. And at least one downtown business, Java Hutt Cafe, at 207 South Old Woodward, foresees the future: The coffee house is open 24-hours a day.

Add to the pot a balance of retail, restaurant, entertainment and residential uses and "what you've got is a town that's being used 24-hours a day," says John Heiney, Birmingham Principal Shopping District executive director, adding, "I think the trend is definitely towards stores having later hours."

Although Heiney was hesitant to describe Birmingham's evolution as urbanization, saying, "I guess it's more urban," the principal shopping district's materials speak for themselves.

It's new walking map and directory contrasts Birmingham's "Big City feel" against "pedestrian-friendly streets filled with upscale shopping ..."

The principal shopping district also recently announced plans to link its Internet site, www.enjoybirmingham.com, with CitySearch.com.

Retail perspective

Most downtown retailers embrace the idea of endowing Birmingham with urban characteristics. Many insist it's a matter of survival.

That's partly because the target customer for downtown merchants is a cosmopolitan one. "From a retail point of view, our customers are getting on planes and going to urban cities to shop," says Cheryl Daskas, a local retailer and principal shopping district board member.

Merchants need to attract shoppers from outside the community, too, says Geoffrey Hockman, local businessman and principal shopping district board chair. "We cannot live on our immediate market. We also need a regional draw."

Ultimately, Birmingham's evolution doesn't – and shouldn't – hinge on labels like urban and cosmopolitan, but rather on market conditions, adds Hockman. "Yes, the town is evolving to what one would say has a more urban feel. ... Are we a large city? No. Do we want to evolve into a downtown that offers retail, entertainment, restaurants, professional services and residential? Yes."

Beauty gift sets make for painless holiday shopping

DISCOVERING BEAUTY

MARY ANNE TOCCALINO

The holidays are upon us.

It's the time of year for which I can't wait. The time when shopping is necessary. And, yes, the time when we run around looking for perfect gifts for the ones we admire, appreciate and love.

The holiday season is also the time of year when cosmetic manufacturers pull out all the stops to get our attention, but most of all, our dollars.

They tempt us with packaging and wrap-and-go gifts. They package pampering products aimed at everybody's wish list. All you need to do is add a bow or stuff a stocking, and you're ready to go.

To help make your holiday shopping easier, here are my favorites among the gift sets I've encountered during recent shopping trips.

■ Jaqua Girls Nail Voodoo Kit: Inside a silver bucket, you get everything from toe dividers to nail decals. It's all you need to give yourself and your friends a perfect pedicure. I think it's a great gift for the sorority girl in the family.

■ Benefit Bathina Sweet Satin Shave: The cute canister alone makes the purchase worth it, and the rich shaving cream is irresistible. It makes legs feel soft as silk.

■ Pupa Blue Angel makeup kit: An adorable holiday gift, it contains powder and cream eye shadows, blush and sparkle lip glosses and more. The kit is like five gifts in one.

■ Covergirl Outlast Lip Art: Containing long-lasting lip color plus stencils, this kit will bring out the makeup artist in anybody.

■ Wrapped in Heaven: The trio set of Angel fragrance, body wash and body lotion comes with a sequined scarf for the holiday wardrobe.

■ Lancôme Paris Le Petit Trunk: The pink faux ostrich trunk comes with a matching brush holder and contains four makeup brushes, Bi-Facil Eye Makeup Remover, Amplicils mascara in black, Poudre Blanc Neige Light-Reflecting Compact Powder and a sample of Miracle parfum.

Look for these and other cosmetic gift sets at local department and drug stores. Sephora, which has locations at the Somerset Collection in Troy and Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, carries an assortment of cosmetic packages.

Also, Neiman Marcus has several exclusive beauty gift sets, such as Hard Candy's clear glitter gel cosmetics bag, which includes an eyeshadow brush, pencil sharpener, eye base pencil, nail polish and lipstick. What a package!

For more sophisticated tastes, Neiman Marcus' golden compacts with rhinestones and heart motif by Irving W. Rice & Co. surely will do the trick.

I'm not only excited about giving these ready-to-go gifts, but also hope to receive a few myself . Like most people, I enjoy pampering.

Now head out and get your shopping done, so you can enjoy and love family and friends this holiday season. Happy Holidays.

A Michigan ghost town for all seasons

BY RANDY KARR
SPECIAL WRITER

While not as instantly evocative as Saugatuck or Grand Haven State Parks on Lake Michigan, Lake Huron's Port Crescent State Park, near the tip of Michigan's Thumb, is worthy of being counted among the state's great travel destinations. During the summer, three miles of fine sandy beach and the largest sand dunes on Michigan's Lake Huron shoreline await the visitor.

The fall season brings a blaze of color across the maple and oak forested dunes and possible glimpses of migrating raptors overhead. Walking and cross-country skiing reward winter visitors with solitude and reflection time. Spring is celebrated when shades of green emerge while winter's white melts away.

Port Crescent State Park occupies the site of an old sawmill town. In the mid-1800s, Port Crescent thrived as a lumber and salt town situated near the mouth of the Pinnebog River. Steam powered saw mills lined the riverbank, employing hundreds of residents. Others worked in salt blockhouses, evaporating water from brine and filling barrels with salt.

As the lumber and salt business grew, families moved in. A two-story wooden school, Lutheran church, company store, hotel and tavern lined the town's several streets.

The Pack Woods Saw Mill added a 120-foot brick chimney to the main mill, and increased production by salvaging thousands of trees burned by a fire that swept the Thumb in 1871. It was a boomtown period. People thought Port Crescent would continue to prosper and grow — until 1881, that is.

On Sept. 5 of that year, the townspeople witnessed a fireball lighting up the afternoon sky. A one hundred-foot wall of flame blazed across the peninsula destroying all the Thumb's timber resources. The lumber mill, forced to close, was dismantled, and along with the 800-foot dock, shipped to Oscoda. The salt factories closed because the process of evaporating water from salt brine required firewood — and there was none. People left, taking their houses with them to neighboring communities.

In 1894, the last building was moved to a nearby town. Only the old steel bridge, a brick chimney, and nearby cemetery remained. Port Crescent became a ghost town.

In the 1950's, the state of Michigan purchased the abandoned town-site and razed the crumbling chimney, leaving the lower section as an eight-foot high monument. This landmark is the beginning point of a walking tour through old Port Crescent.

To reach Chimney Monument, turn off M-25 five miles south of Port Austin, and enter Port Crescent State Park Campground. Ahead, you will see the red brick chimney, a sand mining cart, and the Old Pinnebog River Channel.

Abandoned homestead sites dot the forested dunes on the other side of the river channel. To get there, walk past three docks extending from the riverbank, and continue to the lakeshore where the meager flow of the Old Pinnebog River enters Lake Huron. To avoid confusion, the original town switched its name from Pinnepog to Port Crescent and the other town switched from Pinnepog to Pinnebog.

A crescent-shaped bay curves between Flat Rock Point to the east and Hat Point to the west. In 1844, Walter Hume built a trading post here and called his settlement Pinnebog.

Exploration on foot

From the lakeshore, take the trail going up the side of the dune through the dune grass. After another dune climb, you will reach a bluff overlooking the Port Crescent town-site. During the town's heyday, children gathered here to watch workers on the river struggle to free up spring's enormous logjams or guide floating logs into sawmills lining the riverbank.

In the mid-1930s, the flood-swollen Pinnebog River overflowed into a sand mining pit up stream from Port Crescent. A torrent of water cut through the mining pit, creating a new river channel to Lake Huron. It was from this sand pit that Henry Ford shipped sand to Ford Motor Company to make glass for the Model T.

Port Crescent State Park is many things to its visitors — alluring beaches, lakefront camping, hiking trails, and the perfect setting for watching radiant sunsets over Lake Huron. It is a chance to walk through a town-site with the ghosts of Port Crescent's past. Above all, it is a magical place where the Thumb's hinterland meets-up with the alluring vistas of Lake Huron.

Holiday foods can comfort us during these troubled times

The holiday season brings with it the most traditional and endearing American comfort foods. In these times of stress and conflict, these are foods that we rely on to bring us a sense of satisfaction.

The fall harvest brings us the great winter squashes, fruits, nuts and berries eaten in North America for hundreds of years. The ubiquitous pumpkin serves as a symbol of the Thanksgiving table. The piquant tartness of cranberries acting as an acidic counterpoint to the luxurious richness of roasted turkey with gravy is a joy to the taste buds.

Traditional favorites

Traditional American holiday foods are my favorite foods to both cook and to consume. There is a certain virtue in the straightforward nature of this annual cuisine. Some folks like to stick with the strict traditional menus featuring the bird, stuffing, gravy, yams and brussels sprouts. Those cooks seeking the less mundane may try variations of this theme or create their own holiday foods. For instance, this year I am preparing a "tofurkey" (tofu turkey) for my vegetarian daughter.

Certainly members of different nationalities may add their own traditional ethnic dishes to the mix. There is certainly nothing wrong with a couple of large steamed lobsters and a nice oyster dressing to celebrate the holidays. Whether it is Mom's famous lasagna or beans and greens, it is all part of our American food heritage. Somehow it always tastes better when we are among our friends and family.

Thanksgiving evolved from a Puritan religious observance, which transcended into a sort of harvest festival. The first national Thanksgiving was declared by the Continental Congress in 1777 and then occurred intermittently in the ensuing years. In fact, the whole Puritan story about the settlers and the first Thanksgiving was not popularized until the middle of the 19th century.

In 1863, Abraham Lincoln declared that there be a national day of Thanksgiving. It was not an official national holiday until Franklin Roosevelt enacted a law.

Turkey dominates

Turkey may not have been the primary meat eaten during that first Thanksgiving feast, but it certainly is the dominant center of the plate item today. Ben Franklin was a big supporter of the turkey. "I wish that the bald eagle had not been chosen as the representative of our country," Franklin said. "He is a bird of bad moral character. Like those men who live by sharping and robbing, he is generally poor and very often lousy. The turkey is a much more respectable bird and withal a true original native of North America." (If it were up to Franklin, we might be eating eagle each November.)

Wild turkeys were plentiful in the states, and part of the tremendous bounty of wild game duck and shellfish. Our tradition of celebrating this holiday is really our connection to the first observance declared by the first governor of Massachusetts, who commemorated that first, horrible winter endured by settlers and probably celebrated it in the spring or summer.

It's often hard to separate fact and fiction about Thanksgiving. In any case, it is a great excuse to get the family together to share good fortune, good food and the chance to express our gratitude and humility for the bounty of our table.

Here are some traditional recipes for you to try. Don't be afraid to change them according to your

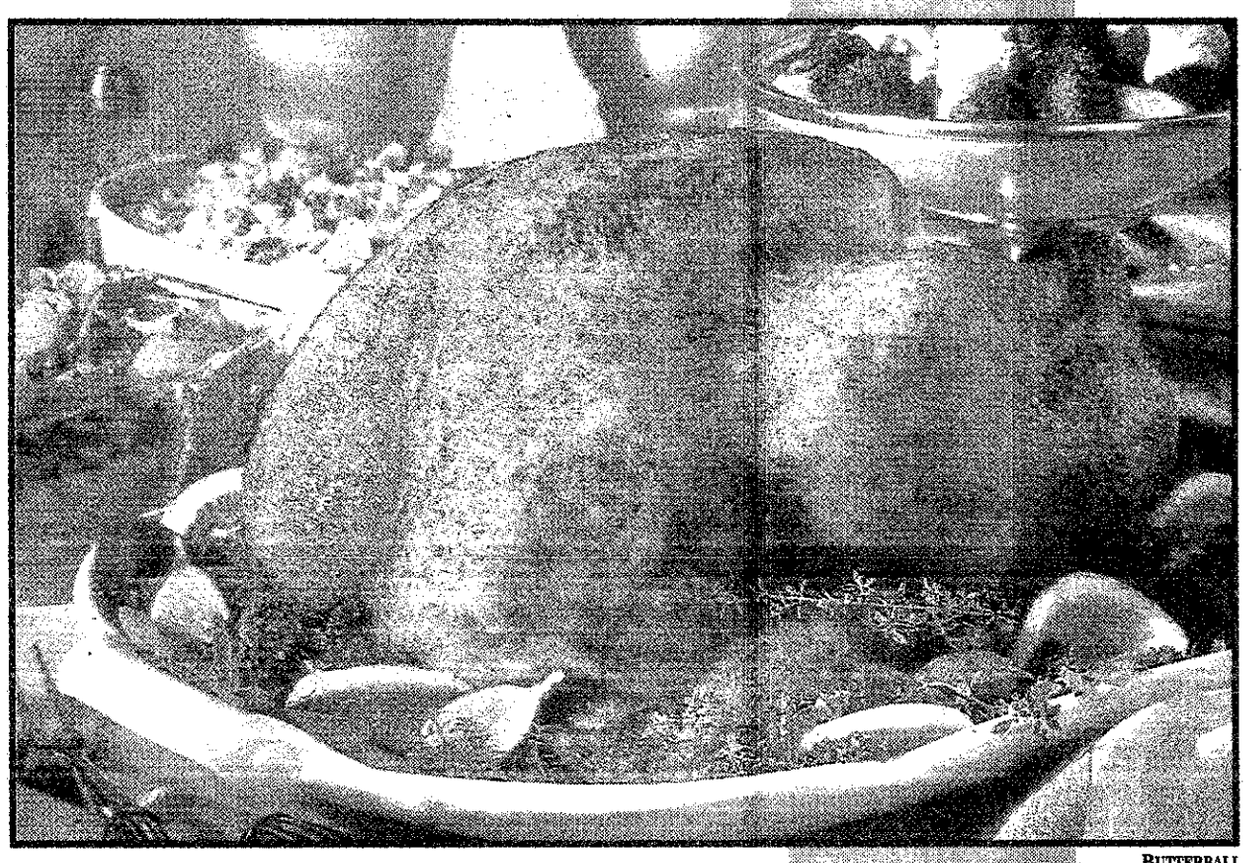
Don't mess with this traditional roasted bird



BUTTERBALL

Time for tradition: Most cooks and holiday hosts do not change any of their cooking strategies on Thanksgiving Day and stick with the traditional roasted turkey they fix year after year.

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK

Go ahead. Just mess with the Thanksgiving family tradition and you're liable to alienate some relatives.

Adventurous cooks may be tempted to spice or flavor up the turkey on Thanksgiving, but odds are they will rein in their imagination when it comes to roasting the turkey. After all, nobody wants to hear a sibling say, "We NEVER prepare a turkey like THAT!"

Traditionalists win

Chef Kevin Enright, instructor at Oakland Community College, thinks tradition generally wins out.

"It's kind of funny," Enright said. "It's a day when people really don't change their methods. People generally say, 'It's how we've always done it.' When it comes to roasting a turkey, most people just don't change what they do." Most people may change a dressing or gravy first before they change the way they cook the turkey.

In The Dean & DeLuca Cookbook, authors David Rosengarten with Joel Dean and Giorgio DeLuca indicate that there's little indication that Americans will ever give up their roast turkey on Thanksgiving, yet millions "grumble" about turkey's inferiority to other birds.

"Because the turkey's dark meat takes longer to cook than the turkey's white meat, most roast turkeys in the United States, we dare say, come to the table with dry, stringy white meat that has been overcooked while the chef's been waiting for the dark meat to cook.

"It's a great shame because the white meat – when cooked just past pink (at about 150°), when it still retains a great deal of juice, can be delicious indeed."

Many cooks swear by fresh turkeys, but they too need to be careful not to be too far ahead of themselves.

"A common problem is that people will buy a fresh turkey so it tastes better, but will buy it too much ahead of time," says Sylvia Treitman, educator of food nutrition and food safety for the Michigan State University Extension Services. Fresh turkeys can be stored in a refrigerator for no more than two days before freezing becomes necessary, she says.

When working with a frozen turkey, planning is essential to safe preparation because proper thawing ensures thorough cooking. Thawing, which should be done on a platter in the bottom portion of the refrigerator, takes 24 hours for every five pounds of turkey, says Treitman. "The problem is many people buy their frozen turkey too late or a few days ahead of time."

Basting time

Many cooks generally stick with the traditional butter baste every 15 minutes on the turkey, then baste with fat after the first hour of cooking. Some just leave it alone.

And then there are those who are working on their first bird. Enright has some tips that may seem obvious, but for those who don't have a clue, they will help.

"You have to make sure the packages are out of both ends," Enright said. That means a thorough check of the cavity for any loose neck or turkey parts that may be floating around, then a thorough rinse of the cavity.

"Season the inside of the cavity with chopped onions, celery, carrots and apple core or orange rinds,"

Enright said. "That will flavor it from the inside."

And what herbs can be used on the outside? "Most people like the standard sage, oregano or marjoram," Enright said. "Or you can use a mixture of mixed herb butter, using whole butter, fresh basil, oregano and parsley and place it between the skin and the meat of the breast." The herbs will infuse more flavors into the breast.

Larger turkeys (over 15 pounds) should be cooked 12-15 minutes a pound, and at a lower temperature at 325° F. A smaller turkey can be cooked at 350° F. To check it, put a thermometer into the thickest part of the thigh. Digital thermometers "work great," Enright said.

When the turkey is about 75 percent done, place loose foil tents on the breast and wings to prevent the skin from overbrowning.

Dean and DeLuca suggest cutting up the breast and consider serving it as a first course with a light gravy and white wine, then serve the dark meat later once it is cooked with a red wine and a darker gravy as a second course. The book also suggests brining the turkey for 12 hours or so, to keep the white meat juicy.

Irma Rombauer and Marion Rombauer Becker recommend in their cookbook, The Joy of Cooking, heating the oven temperature first to 450° F, then reducing the heat to 350° F, or 325° F for large turkeys. They also recommend wrapping the bird in a coarse woven cloth, soaked in melted unsalted butter or vegetable oil, to resolve the problem of cooking moist tenderness into two different kinds of meat.

Many chefs, including Enright, do not stuff the turkey before roasting the bird, so the raw turkey does not contaminate the stuffing. "One of the things we tell people is to prepare it separately," Enright said.

If you don't want to anger the family traditionalists by changing your preparation of the turkey, then tweak the side dishes a little. Or a lot.

Enright likes a stuffing made with almonds, apples and walnuts. Want a sweet gravy? Go ahead and add cranberries to it.

"I like sweet potatoes baked with salt and pepper, but you can cook them in a maple syrup with a brown sugar glaze," Enright suggests.

The meal should include a green vegetable and green salads with perhaps a cranberry vinaigrette, Enright said. "For dessert, you can try something different, like a pumpkin cheesecake, or an apple strudel which is excellent in the fall." Poached pears or apple or pear cobblers also are nice changes of pace.

After dinner, finish carving your turkey. "It should be carved in full rather than storing the carcass in the refrigerator," Treitman said. "And it should not be left out for more than two hours before it's refrigerated. That's a common mistake. People will leave the turkey out until midnight to let people nibble."

Poached Pears
stuffed with cranberry chutney

1 lemon, remove the zest
1 orange, remove the zest
4 whole pears (Bartlett or Anjou) peel, cut in half, remove the core
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup honey
1 teaspoon fresh ginger, grated
2 sticks cinnamon
1/2 cup maple syrup
1 cup white wine or water

Squeeze the orange and lemon. Combine all the ingredients, including the zest, except the pears. Bring to a simmer. Add the pears, cook in the syrup for about 20 minutes. Remove from the heat, let cool in the syrup. Serve the pears stuffed with the Cranberry Chutney with turkey or poultry. (See inside Taste for Cranberry Chutney and other Thanksgiving recipes.) Makes 8 servings.

Help your family reconnect during evening meals

SEASONAL SENSATIONS

DIANE REYNOLDS

The average household prepares and eats dinner at home five nights a week, despite busy schedules, according to a recent national survey.

It can be a challenge to eat at a leisurely pace during meals earlier in the day. Breakfast may be eaten in shifts as everyone races out the door. Lunch is often rushed in school cafeterias, workplaces and restaurants or while running errands.

Dinner at home offers a reprieve from this hectic pace. Plus, it allows families to reconnect, share the events of the day and savor the meal.

Enjoy a positive time

Young kids often arrive home, in their words, "starving." While you don't want dinner appetites ruined, a light, healthy snack can curb late-afternoon crankiness. Veggies and ranch dip, pretzels with dipping mustard or a low-fat granola bar are just enough to do the trick.

Turn off the radio, TV and computer when it's time to eat. Ignore the phone and let the answering machine do its job. Even if it's a quick dinner on a night when you have to head back out for activities, allow at least 20 minutes to eat and communicate the best parts of your day.

Don't forget that children eat more slowly than adults. Take the extra few minutes while they finish and enjoy talking and sipping some after dinner wine or flavored hot tea. The dishes will wait.

Surprising benefits

Children who routinely eat meals with their families tend to have a healthier overall diet. In fact, these kids eat more fruits, vegetables and calcium-containing foods. Less fried foods, saturated fat and soda pop is consumed compared to the children who don't often eat with the rest of the family.

Just because your child is not overweight doesn't mean he or she is healthy. Blood cholesterol levels can be at an unhealthy level at an early age, laying the foundation for poor adult heart health. Lack of plant foods (fruits, vegetables and whole grains) can lead to health problems.

Let's cook

Get the younger members of your household involved in selecting and preparing meals. Take them to the grocery store with a shopping list. The produce department is the best place to explore. Send each child to select one unfamiliar fruit or vegetable (it may be new to you, too). Check out cookbooks for preparation ideas.

tastes. The recipe for stuffing can be used to make a sausage stuffing as well.

Certified master chef Dan Hugelier likes to add some applesauce (for flavor and moistness) and a few whole eggs (for binding and the leavening effect). This recipe calls for dried herbs, but if you can get fresh, use double the amount and add them in the last part of the cooking process. Use this same recipe for vegetarian stuffing by substituting sautéed portabello mushrooms for any meat, and vegetable stock in place of turkey or chicken stock. (By the way, it is safer to cook your stuffing separately rather than stuffing it in the cavity of the bird. If you must stuff the bird, then pack it lightly and make sure that the internal temperature of the stuffing reaches at least 180 degrees.)

If you do not like chestnuts, try using some toasted walnuts or pecans. The recipe for cranberry chutney belongs to Helen Orloff, the dining room manager for Schoolcraft College's American Harvest Restaurant.

Even the master chefs agree that this is a great recipe that goes great with turkey, wild game or fowl. The recipe for pumpkin pie contains no eggs or cream. It's great for vegetarians and tastes as good as the more-traditional fattening version.

BASIC BREAD STUFFING WITH CHESTNUTS

- 8 cups of stale cubed white bread with the crusts left on
- 1 8-ounce stick of sweet butter
- 1-1/2 cups of small-diced onion
- 3 stalks of celery, peeled and small diced
- 1 granny smith apple peeled, cored and small diced
- 1 cup of cooked, peeled chestnuts broken into pieces
- 2 teaspoons dried sage leaves
- 1 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon dried marjoram
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 cup (or more) chicken or turkey stock

Melt butter in a pan and add onions, celery and apples. Sauté over medium heat until the vegetables are soft. Stir in the chestnuts, herbs, salt and pepper. Let the mixture cool.

In a large bowl mix the stale bread cubes with the cooked mixture. Add cold stock and mix well. (If you like to add egg to your stuffing, add it now.) Place the stuffing in a buttered baking dish and cover with foil. Bake at 325° F for 20 minutes covered and 20 minute uncovered.

Back home, wash hands together for 20 seconds. Give children age-appropriate tasks. Young children can wash produce (keep a stepstool handy), shape burger patties or meatballs, mix ingredients and set the table. Older kids can measure and chop foods, pour beverages and use a hand mixer to mash potatoes.

SIMPLE VEGETARIAN PIZZA

- 1 refrigerated or frozen pizza crust
- 1 1/4 cups flavored pasta sauce
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon dried basil
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 6 ounces part-skim shredded mozzarella cheese
- 2-3 cups of fresh chopped vegetables of your choice (Suggested vegetables include sliced mushrooms, chopped green or red bell pepper, broccoli florets, sliced tomatoes, chopped zucchini, sliced red onion, shredded carrots or chopped spinach)

Preheat oven to 450° F. Place crust on a cookie sheet or pizza pan. Combine pasta sauce with seasonings and spread on crust. Let everyone pitch in adding the vegetable toppings, then the cheese on top.

Bake on middle oven shelf for 7-15 minutes or until cheese is bubbling. Makes 8 slices. Serve with homemade fruit smoothies for a great quick meal.

Each slice contains approximately 200 calories.

When was the last time you had chutney?

A strong relish originating in India, chutney is usually eaten in small amounts to add flavor or to accent a meal. Ground fresh on a curry stone, chutney consists of a paste of raw ingredients, such as fresh ginger, mint, coriander (cilantro) leaves, sour fruits, Indian mango or coconut. These ingredients are considered "stimulating or refreshing to the palate."

Westerners generally add sugar and vinegar to their chutney, along with customary spices and fruit. Fruits may include mango, apples, raisins, pears and apricots or a mixture of fruits and vegetables. Along with sweet chutney, hot and sweet/hot varieties add to the fare.

Wisconsin Wilderness boasts award-winning gourmet chutney, created in Milwaukee. A leader in cranberry production, Wisconsin showcases its fruit in many award-winning products. The batch production method is used to make this chutney, which creates a thick rich consistency. If you are looking for a different twist to serving cranberries this year for Thanksgiving, you can find Wisconsin Wilderness Cranberry Chutney at Long Lake Market in Bloomfield Hills and at Holiday Markets in Royal Oak and Canton.

Try these easy Cranberry Chutney recipes:

- 1 (10-ounce) jar spread over 8 ounces cream cheese. Serve with water crackers.
- Coat the top of brie, wrapped in a puff pastry, and bake according to pastry instructions.
- Glaze your turkey by brushing chutney on for the last 15 minutes.
- Mix with whipped cream and serve with pumpkin pie.
- Top a cheese cake with cranberry chutney.
- For leftovers, spread cranberry chutney on sliced turkey sandwiches.

Holiday soufflé: Surprise guests at your Thanksgiving feast by serving a heavenly raspberry soufflé laced with custard sauce.

Surprise guests with holiday soufflé

Surprise guests at your Thanksgiving feast by serving a heavenly raspberry soufflé laced with custard sauce. They'll be so dazzled by the airy, creamy texture of this sensuous soufflé they won't miss the pumpkin pie. And you can take secret pleasure in knowing you've helped their waistlines and their health by serving a low-fat, low-calorie alternative to more traditional Thanksgiving desserts.

Whether savory or sweet, a soufflé is made up of two parts: a creamy base that gives the dish its basic flavors, and egg whites that have been stiffly beaten.

HOLIDAY SOUFFLÉ

Canola cooking spray
2 tablespoons plus 4 teaspoons sugar, divided
1 cup defrosted frozen, sweetened raspberries
1 tablespoon and 1 1/2 teaspoons defrosted orange juice concentrate, divided
3/4 cup low-fat milk (1 percent), divided
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/3 cup seedless raspberry preserves
1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
3 egg whites
Pinch of salt

Preheat oven to 400° F. Spray four 8- or 10-ounce individual soufflé dishes with spray oil. Dust inside of each with 1 teaspoon sugar and set aside. In small bowl, mix raspberries with 1 tablespoon juice concentrate and set aside.

In medium non-stick saucepan, whisk together 1/4 cup milk and cornstarch. Add remaining milk. Cook over medium heat until thickened, whisking constantly, about 1 minute. Stir in preserves, vanilla and juice concentrate until preserves dissolve. Remove from heat. Cover surface of custard sauce with plastic wrap and cool to lukewarm.

About 20 minutes before serving time, beat egg whites in large bowl until frothy. Add salt and continue beating until soft peaks form. While beating, slowly sprinkle in 2 tablespoons sugar. Continue beating until stiff peaks form. Gently mix 1/3 whites into raspberry mixture, then scrape it into the bowl of remaining whites. Fold in with rubber spatula until almost completely combined. Gently divide mixture among prepared dishes, filling each three-quarters full.

Set dishes on baking sheet and place on rack in center of oven. Bake 15 to 18 minutes, or until centers of soufflés are soft but not liquid and tops are lightly browned.

Remove soufflés from oven. Place each on a dessert plate. Cut into centers of each soufflé and spoon or pour on some custard sauce. Serve immediately.

Makes 4 servings.

CRANBERRY CHUTNEY

2 cups cranberries, fresh or frozen
3 apples, Granny Smith, peeled, chopped fine
1 small onion, minced
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon jalapeno chilies, minced
1 cup apple wine or white wine
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup raisins
1 teaspoon fresh ginger, grated

In a stainless pan, combine the cranberries and raisins with the wine until the berries pop. Add all the rest of the ingredients, simmer over medium heat for 15-20 minutes.

Makes 8 servings.

ALMOND STUFFING

1/2 pound butter, soft
6 each eggs, separated
1/2 loaf white bread, crust removed, cut in cubes
3/4 cup milk
1-1/2 cups almonds, blanched, sliced
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chives, sliced thin
Pinch nutmeg
Pinch white pepper

Cream butter and egg yolks together.

Soak the bread in the milk, nutmeg, pepper and chives.

Fold the yolk mixture into the bread mixture.

Whip the egg whites with salt to form medium peaks (not dry).

Fold the whites, almonds and the yolk mixture together.

Coat a baking pan with butter, put the dressing in the pan. Cover with a piece of wax paper, which has been rubbed with butter or sprayed with cooking spray.

Bake in a 350° F oven until crisp and hot inside or approximately 30-40 minutes.

Makes 8 servings.

CRANBERRY VINAIGRETTE

1 cup whole berry cranberry sauce
1/2 cup white wine vinegar
2 tablespoons honey
1 teaspoon black pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon orange zest
3 cups salad oil

Puree the cranberry sauce in a processor. Add all the rest of the ingredients except the oil to the processor, puree together for 1 minute. Drizzle in the oil until all of it is incorporated. Serve with Boston, and Frissee lettuce, garnished with orange sections and black walnuts. Makes 4 cups.

Casseroles, sloppy joes heat up chilly weather

CREAMY CHICKEN CASSEROLE

10 ounces uncooked medium noodles or pasta shells
2 cups any frozen mixed vegetable, thawed
6 medium green onions, sliced
8 ounces tub of garden vegetable fat-free cream cheese
1 1/4 cups skim milk (or plain soy milk, if preferred)
1 1/2 cups chopped cooked leftover chicken or turkey
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
Sprinkle of paprika

Cook noodles as directed on package. Meanwhile, spray a large nonstick skillet with cooking spray, heat over medium heat. Cook vegetables and onion for about 4 minutes, stirring frequently, until vegetables are just tender.

In a medium mixing bowl, blend cream cheese and milk together. Add to skillet, along with chicken/turkey, garlic powder and pepper. Heat through, stirring often. Drain noodles and stir them into the skillet mixture until combined. Sprinkle with parsley and serve hot. Makes 4 servings. Great served with a convenient bagged salad mix and dinner rolls.

Each serving contains approximately 280 calories.

Recipe courtesy of Diane Reynolds. See column on Taste front.

SLOPPY JOES

1 pound raw ground turkey or chicken
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1/2 cup frozen orange juice concentrate
1/3 cup water
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
6 whole wheat hamburger buns, split

In a large skillet cook the turkey, onion, and garlic until the turkey is no longer pink. Drain off fat. Stir in the tomato sauce, frozen concentrate, water, mustard, chili powder, and Worcestershire sauce.

Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer, uncovered, about 10 minutes or until a spoonable consistency, stirring occasionally. If desired, toast buns. Spoon meat mixture into buns. Makes 6 servings. Accompany with a mixed fruit salad or coleslaw from the grocery deli. Each serving contains approximately 244 calories.

HELEN'S BRANDIED CRANBERRY CHUTNEY

1 cup dark raisins
1/4 cup thin sliced dried apricots
2 cups dark brown sugar
1 cup brandy
1 granny smith apple peeled, cored, and small diced
1/4 cup candied ginger, chopped fine
1 bag of fresh cranberries, washed and picked through
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon dried hot pepper flakes

Mix first four items and place in 4-quart saucepot. Bring to boil and simmer for 5 minutes. Add apple, ginger, cranberries, lemon juice and rind. Simmer for 15 minutes.

Add pepper flakes stir and refrigerate. This makes 3 cups and, with the brandy, will last up to 6 months in the refrigerator.

VEGETARIAN PUMPKIN PIE

1 nine-inch pie shell (homemade or frozen)
1 pound firm tofu
1 pound canned pumpkin
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
1/4 cup vegetable oil
2 teaspoons ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
Pinch of ground cloves
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon real maple syrup

Preheat oven to 350°F. Place all ingredients in a food processor and puree until the mixture is completely blended smooth (3-5 minutes). Pour into pie shell and bake for 50-60 minutes.

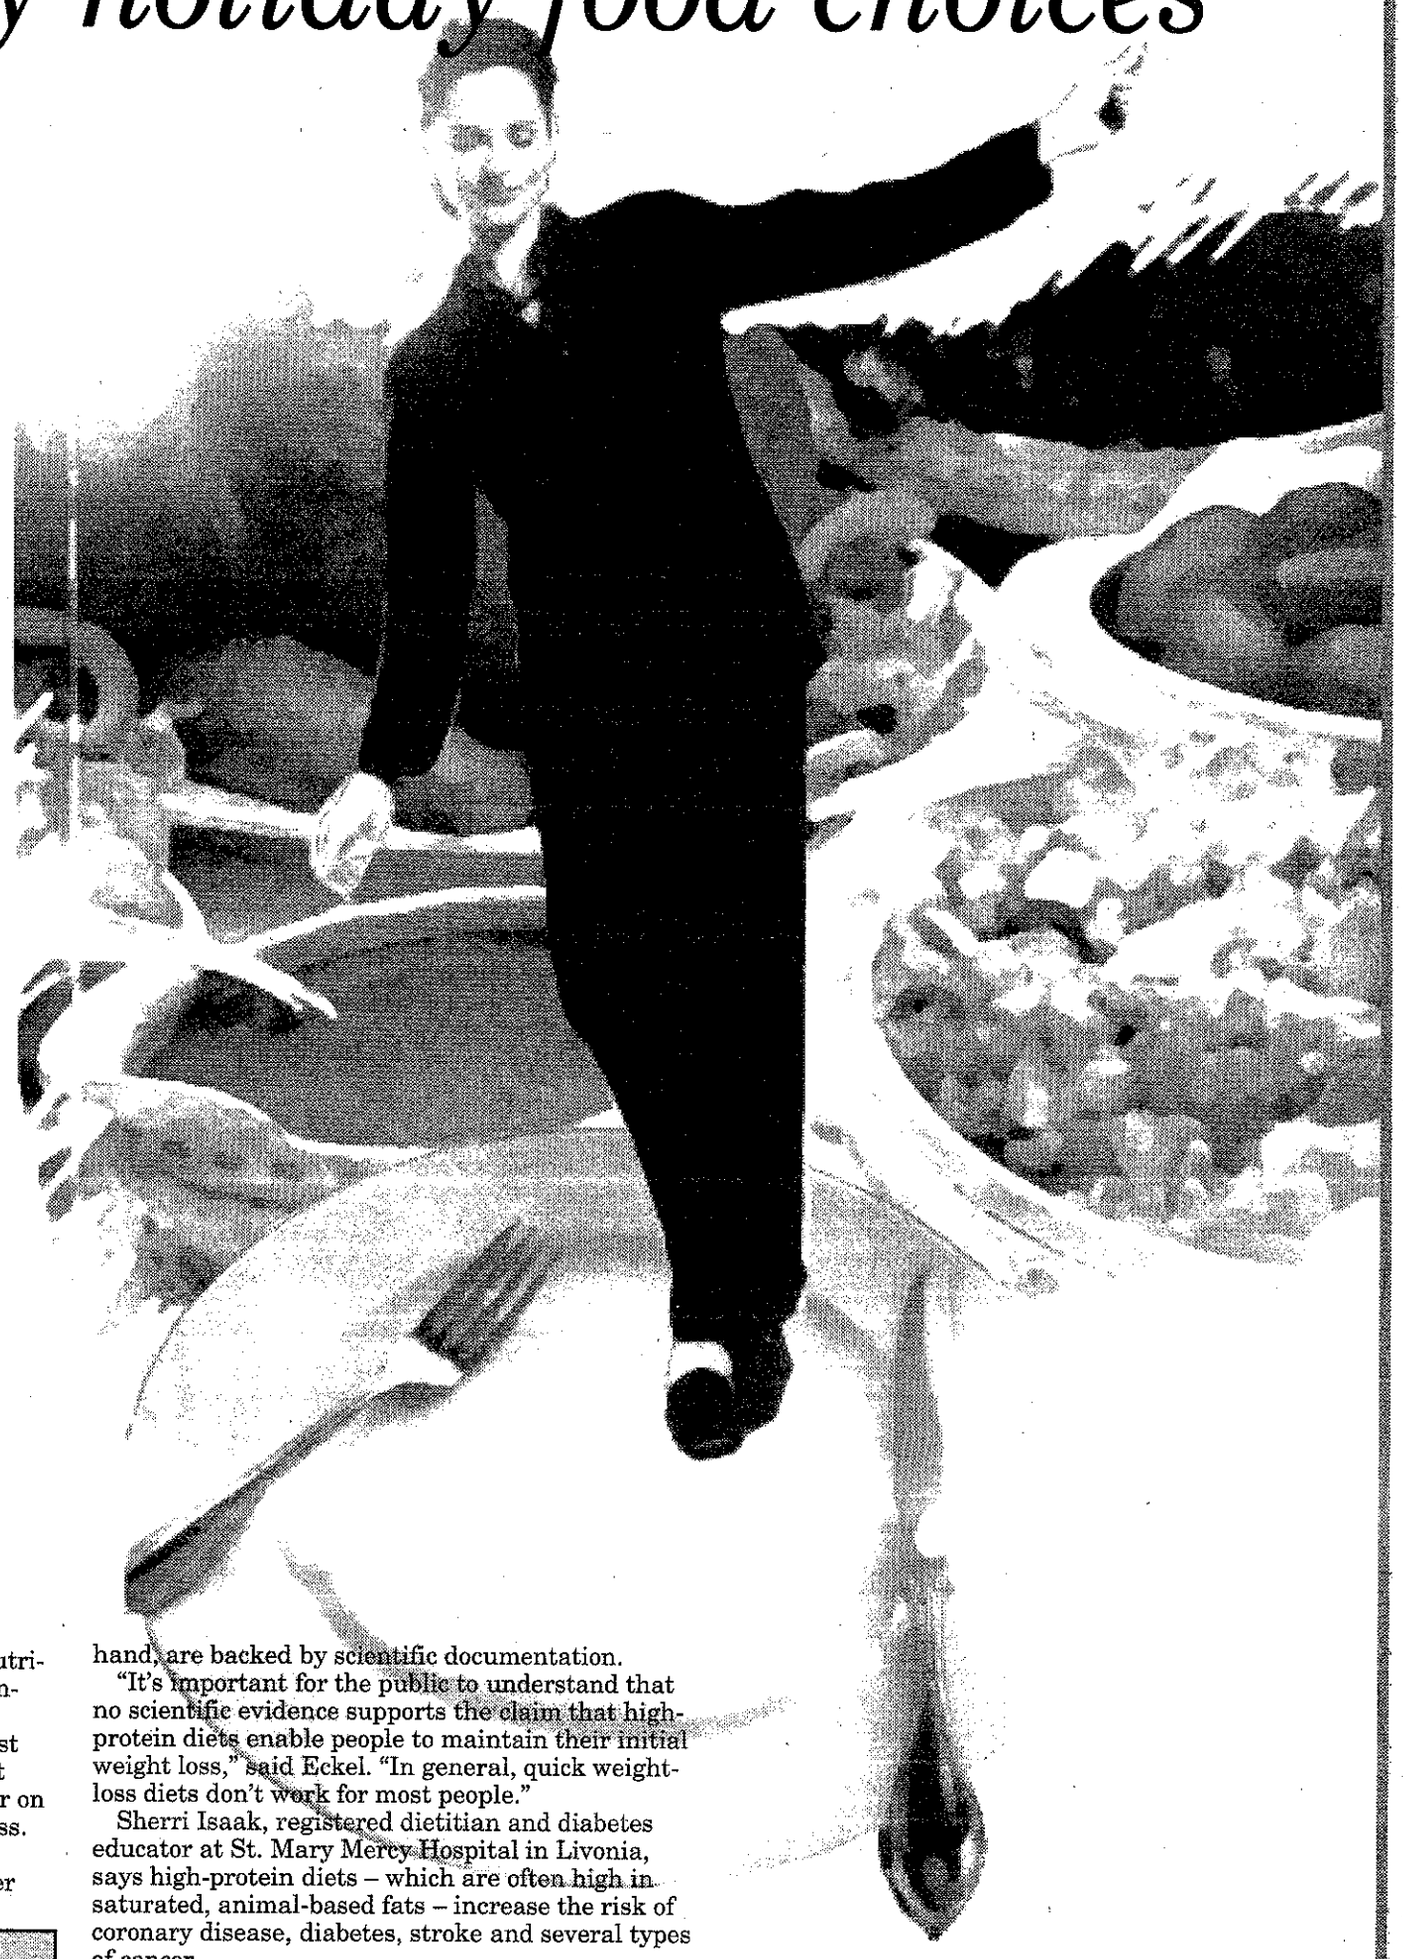
THE BALANCING ACT

Healthy holiday food choices

BY RENÉE SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITER
rskoglund@oe.homecomm.net



OK, let's be reasonable. Just how much weight do you think you can lose before the holidays ... five or 10 pounds? Think again. Thanksgiving is just days away, and all that gravy and pumpkin pie can adhere to your mid-section like a double roll of bubble wrap.

The answer? Relax. Indulge on some days and cut back on others, say nutrition experts. It's a matter of moderation and balance.

"I don't recommend losing weight ahead of time as a buffer zone," said Beth Thayer, a registered dietitian and coordinator of Henry Ford Hospital's Heart Smart program. "Just try to maintain your weight."

Social stress makes dieting during the holiday season difficult, she added. "There's a kind of self-forgiveness in the air. Family and friends keep saying you can start your diet in January."

Whatever you do, forget the fad diets that promise miracle weight losses, said Thayer. "Fad diets in general can restrict whole food groups. The first question to ask about these diets is how are you getting all your nutrients?"

Health risks

Unfortunately, come January, many post-holiday indulgers will be tempted to go on a high protein diet. While such diets may produce a quick weight loss, they have no proven effectiveness in long-term weight reduction. What's more, they pose potential health threats for those who adhere to them for more than a short time, according to an advisory from the American Heart Association's Nutrition Committee in Circulation: Journal of the American Heart Association.

The advisory specifically targets such popular "quick weight loss" regimens as Dr. Atkins' New Diet Revolution, The Zone, Protein Power, Sugar Busters and Dr. Stillman's Quick Weight Loss Diet.

"High-protein items may also be high in fat. Some of the diets increase fat intake and reduce nutritionally rich foods such as fruits and vegetables, which is not a good approach to meeting a person's long-term dietary needs," said Dr. Robert H. Eckel, immediate past chairman of the AHA Nutrition Committee and co-author of the advisory. "Many of these diets fail to provide essential vitamins, minerals, fiber and other nutritional elements, in addition to their high fat content."

One of the most compelling arguments against following a high-protein diet, said Eckel, is that these diets have not been documented to deliver on their promise of sustained, long-term weight loss. The safety, credibility and effectiveness of the revised AHA nutritional guidelines, on the other hand, are backed by scientific documentation.

"It's important for the public to understand that no scientific evidence supports the claim that high-protein diets enable people to maintain their initial weight loss," said Eckel. "In general, quick weight-loss diets don't work for most people."

Sherri Isaak, registered dietitian and diabetes educator at St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia, says high-protein diets – which are often high in saturated, animal-based fats – increase the risk of coronary disease, diabetes, stroke and several types of cancer.

"One of my major concerns is that you are limiting your fruits, vegetables and whole grains. You are not getting your phytochemicals, which are plant chemicals that actually have the capability of reducing the risk for cancer, diabetes and heart disease," she said.

In addition, many people can't metabolize protein effectively, especially those with kidney disease, liver disorders and osteoporosis, said Isaak. For diabetics, excessive amounts of protein could lead to kidney problems; for women, it increases the risk of osteoporosis by leaching calcium in the urine.

Still not convinced that a high-protein diet is not the best way to lose weight? Here's another reason to avoid them: Bad breath.

"The ketones (an organic chemical compound) your body produces give a breath odor of a cross between nail polish and over-ripe pineapple," said Thayer.

Common sense

If you throw away your common sense and go on a high-protein diet before the holidays, keep in mind it can drain you of much-needed energy. Such diets induce quick weight loss primarily through the loss of body fluids due to the diuretic effect of eliminating most carbohydrates. Glycogen, the form of sugar used by the body for energy, is lost in the muscles as well. The result is fatigue.

"At first people say they have more energy, but I think later on if you're not getting the carbohydrates, you're not as energetic," said Isaak.

Fortunately, it is possible to survive the holidays with lots of energy, little guilt and without resorting to fad dieting.

Nutritionists at Saint Joseph Mercy Health Stop offer the following tips:

- Don't skip meals. This only sets you up for overeating later.
- Eat something small before going to a gathering so you're not starving when dinner is served.
- Circle the buffet table first and decide which food you really want. Want something of everything? OK, but try to limit your portion size. Try one spoonful of stuffing, not half a plate.
- Have that piece of Grandma's pumpkin pie, but take a smaller piece. And try fat-free whipped topping.
- Load up on the high-fiber fruits, vegetables and whole grains. Food low in fiber will leave you feeling less full and satisfied.
- Continue your exercise regimen. It's difficult to get back on track once you stop.

Lastly, keep your perspective. One slice of pie at Aunt Mary's house didn't put the weight on. As they say, the proof is in the plum pudding. It was repeated overeating and lack of exercise that caused you to slowly but surely gain weight.

Healthy substitutions

"Another idea is to replace one of your traditional dishes with a new lower-fat dish each year. Before you know it, you will have a healthier traditional Thanksgiving meal," said Cheryl Bell, a registered dietitian with St. Joe's Health Stop. She offers the following substitutes:

Instead of:	Try:	Savings:
6 ounces light and dark turkey	3 ounces white meat only	8 grams fat, 200 calories
2/3 cup bread stuffing using fatty broth	2/3 cup bread stuffing using fat-free broth	10 grams fat, 90 calories
Mashed potatoes with 1 cup 2 percent milk, 1/2 stick butter	Mashed potatoes with 1 cup skim milk, 2 Tbsp. margarine	8 grams fat, 72 calroies
3/4 cup creamy fruit salad	3/4 cup fresh fruit salad	10 grams fat, 90 calories
Rolls with 1 Tsp. margarine	Whole wheat hard roll. 1 Tsp. light margarine	7 grams fat, 90 calories
1 slice pecan pie	1 slice pumpkin pie	18 grams fat, 230 calories

Serve the safest holiday turkey at your table

As the holiday season draws near, the Wayne County Environmental Health Department cautions home cooks to be aware that Salmonella, a disease-causing bacteria, is sometimes found in raw poultry.

"When raw turkey is stuffed, the bacteria from the turkey may be transferred to the stuffing," says Steve Tackitt, Wayne County Department of Public Health's Environmental Health Director. "Proper cooking kills this harmful germ and helps to eliminate food poisoning, which causes flu-like symptoms, headaches, diarrhea, vomiting, stomach cramps and fever."

The appropriate temperature to kill Salmonella is 165 degrees F. Because the stuffing is placed inside the turkey, extra cooking time may be required to reach this temperature.

"Use a meat thermometer to measure the internal temperature of the stuffing in the turkey," adds Tackitt. "Pop-up thermometers that come with some turkeys only measure the temperature of the turkey, not the stuffing."

■ Thaw frozen foods in the refrigerator or under cold running water, says the Wayne county Health Department.

Tackitt recommends that if you do not own a meat thermometer, then cook the stuffing separately.

The Environmental Health Division offers these other tips to prevent food-borne illness from striking your family during the holiday season:

■ Prepare food on clean surfaces, using a diluted bleach mixture to sanitize food preparation areas (2 capfuls of household bleach per gallon of water).

■ Wash hands with soap and water before and after food handling.

■ Thaw frozen foods in the refrigerator or under cold running water.

■ Never thaw foods, marinate meat or leave leftovers out at room temperature.

Holiday Turkey Preparation:

■ Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold.

■ Don't use the same knife to cut raw meat and poultry and chop vegetables.

■ Wash cutting boards and knives with hot, soapy water between uses.

■ Don't use the same plate for raw and cooked meat and poultry.

Pharmacist award

Karl Widak of Canton was awarded the Greatest Individual Contribution Award by the Michigan Society of Health-System Pharmacists at their annual meeting Oct. 5 in Novi. The award recognizes a pharmacy professional who has contributed the most to public health awareness. Widak received the honor for his efforts with Oakwood Health System to promote pharmacy through patient education.

Widak currently serves as the chairman of the Michigan Pharmacists Association Public Affairs Committee. He received his bachelor of science in pharmacy degree from Wayne State University College of Pharmacy & Allied Health Professions.

Nursing award

Gayle Groshko of Redford, an oncology nurse at the Oakwood Cancer Center in Dearborn, has received the Oncology Nursing Society's 2002 Excellence in Radiation Therapy Nursing Award. Groshko is a senior registered nurse in the center's Department of Radiation Oncology. Candidates for this honor are nominated by fellow ONS members.

Oakwood Cancer Center Director Omar M. Salazar wrote a letter recommending Groshko for the award, stating, "Ms. Groshko is one of the best radiation oncology nurses I have encountered in my professional career and one that truly represents the spirit of the Oncology Nursing Society and the specialty of radiation oncology."

"I am both honored and humbled," said Groshko. "I feel personally and professionally, oncology is the best of all areas to work. Each day I get to interact with patients and families ... The field is just exploding with new technology, new treatment regimens. It's so exciting to be here."

Groshko graduated from Providence Hospital School of Nursing in 1975. She obtained a BSN from Madonna University in 1994. She first worked for Oakwood in 1988 but left for a position at the Karmanos Cancer Institute, only to return shortly afterward.

Maple Manor

Maple Manor of Wayne, a senior retirement community, recently received a Year 2001 Keep Wayne Beautiful Award from the City of Wayne. The award is given to local businesses based on general appearance, landscaping and cleanliness. J & S Development Company had purchased the vacant property in June 1999.

"Because the building sat vacant for such a long period of time, it had become a local eye sore. The City of Wayne and its residents are certainly pleased with what we have done," said Bryan Neal, assistant director of Maple Manor.

RAYNAUDS PHENOMENON

With winter approaching, it is appropriate to consider an arthritic condition related to the cold. That condition is Raynaud's phenomenon. The features of this cold related problem are the sudden onset of white fingers with accompanying numbness that can last for moments to over an hour.

The reason for Raynaud's phenomenon is a hypersensitivity of small arteries in the hand such that in the cold, these arteries will constrict. The result is a sharp decrease in blood to the finger(s) involved. That loss of blood supply causes the finger to turn white. Prolonged loss leads to numbness, tingling, and a wooden feeling to the finger. The fingers don't move well and can't be used to grasp objects or handle a pen. Striking a computer keypad key becomes difficult. These practical problems bring you to a doctor.

Raynaud's occurs because the alpha-2 receptor that controls vasoconstriction of the digital arteries over reacts to the stimulus of cold. Patients with arthritic conditions such as systemic lupus or scleroderma also experience Raynaud's phenomenon. In these cases, the reason is different and the hand recovers much more slowly from an episode of Raynaud's.

The best treatment for Raynaud's phenomenon is to keep the hands warm. For some people it means wearing gloves when taking food out of the refrigerator or freezer. For most individuals with Raynaud's phenomenon, treatment consists of wearing gloves outdoors early in autumn and keeping that habit well into the following spring.

Drugs are available which dilate the digital arteries. However, these medicines have a high rate of side effects such as hypotension, so their use is limited.

Hartland Estates finishing with a bang

Rotondo model: This colonial of 2,580 square feet features four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

Joe Rotondo, a developer and builder, has saved the best for last at Hartland Estates.

The third and final phase of the detached site condominium community, off Cullen Road just north of M-59 about a mile and a half west of U.S.-23 in Hartland Township, features rolling topography and woodlands.

Construction on the 69 lots is expected to begin next spring.

"None of the lots here has a backyard neighbor. All have open space," Rotondo said. "There's a lot more trees, a lot of nice walk-outs back there.

"There's a lot of deer in here – pheasant, rabbit, quail," he added.

Visitors like what they see, said Tony Farrugia, sales representative for Rotondo.

"They're impressed with the openness of the floor plans and standard features they tell us are upgrades in other places, like three-car garage," Farrugia said.

"They like sidewalks and like that about 40 acres will be a common area. They're happy kids are still in the sub but can roughhouse or whatever they call it in the woods.

"Hartland is really growing. They have a really good school system here. City water is a really good draw."

"The biggest thing is what they're getting for the dollar when they sit down and compare. A lot of comments is the quality they're seeing is superior to other subs within the same price range."

"You're close to the expressway," said Rotondo, adding that a shopping center with a supermarket and pharmacy is under construction less than two miles away.

What you choose from Five plans are offered, with prices ranging from $279,900 for a colonial of 2,400 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $299,990 for a story-and-a-half of 2,600 square feet with three bedrooms and loft or four bedrooms.

All include at base price three-car garage, gas fireplace, separate tub and shower in the master, basement, dishwasher, wood or ceramic flooring in the foyer and carpeting throughout.

A new model under construction, the story-and-a-half of 2,600 square feet, features a den, dining room, great room with cathedral ceiling and a two-way fireplace connecting to the kitchen/nook.

The laundry, half bath, mud room and closet are off the garage and convenient to the kitchen/nook.

The first-floor master contains a walk-in closet and compartmentalized commode.

Two bedrooms upstairs share a bath. A loft also is up, which can be converted to a third bedroom. Base price is $299,900.

The model also features a bonus room and full bath upstairs, which can be had for a premium of $20,000.

Rotondo's current model, now listed as a spec home, is a colonial of 2,580 square feet.

It contains a dining room, den, great room with sloped ceiling, kitchen/ nook and half bath on the main floor.

The upstairs master contains a walk-in closet and two-sink vanity. Three other bedrooms and a second full bath also are up.

Base price is $289,900. The model, as is including landscaping, carries a price of $309,900.

Rotondo has a handful of lots remaining in the first two phases of Hartland Estates. Two other builders also are involved there.

Hills Development has eight specs either finished or under construction. They range in price from $279,900 for a colonial of 2,400 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $369,900 for a story-and-a-half of 2,500 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

Hills Development also has seven other lots on which to build there.

Diamond Edge Builders has 10 lots available, one spec and a model in Hartland Estates.

Six more plans

Basic plans range from $279,900 for a ranch of 2,050 square feet with three bedrooms and two baths or a colonial of 2,450 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths. The high-end plan at $306,900 is a colonial of 3,100 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

Phase 3 at Hartland Estates will be served by city water, septic tanks and sidewalks. It's in the Hartland school district.

The property tax rate is $23.91 per $1,000 of state taxable value, half of sales price for new construction. That means the owners of a $300,000 home there would pay $3,600 the first year.

The annual association fee, which includes snow removal from roads, is $150. Residents are responsible for their own trash removal.

Rotondo's sales office/ model, (517) 545-8044, is open 1-5 p.m. daily, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays, closed Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Diamond Edge's office/model, (517) 545-7540, is open 12:30-5:30 p.m. weekdays, noon to 5:30 p.m. weekends, closed Tuesdays.

Hills Development's office/model, (517) 545-9077, is open 1-6 p.m. weekdays, noon to 6 p.m. weekends, closed Wednesdays and Thursdays.

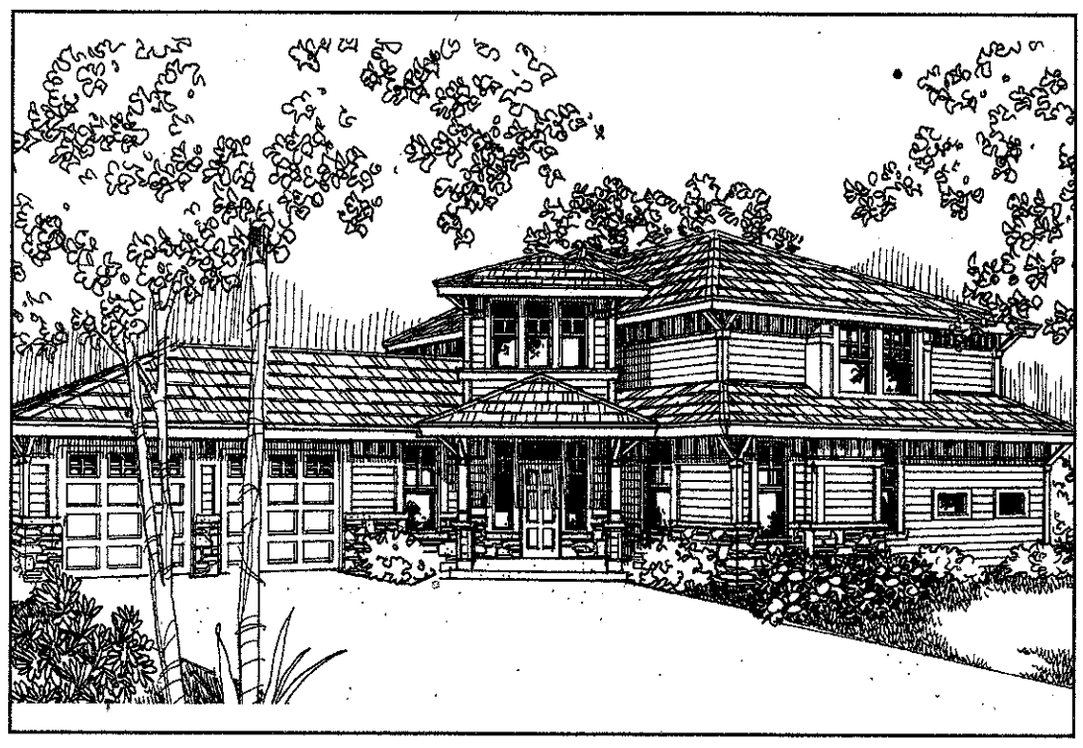
RE/MAX Above the Crowd!

RE/MAX Classic

Contemporary home reflects historical exterior

The Bowman (30-315) is intriguing in appearance. It's clearly a contemporary home, yet many of its exterior design elements hark back to the Craftsman era of the early 1900s.

You see it in the trademark window – multiple panes over large, single lower panes. The garage doors, too, echo this pattern, with a row of multi-paned windows capping the grid design below.



Other Craftsman-style features include stone veneer wainscoting and decorative wood corbels.

Entering, you step into a wide, bright foyer with a lofty two-story ceiling.

Double doors to the left open into a den, which could be used as a home office or a third bedroom, if desired.

On the right, graceful columns frame openings into the living room and dining room/ kitchen, linked by more columned openings to a roomy, naturally illuminated family room.

Sunlight spills into the living room through windows flanking the gas fireplace and another window on the side.

In the kitchen, cupboards and counters wrap around three walls, encircling a large central work island with a conversation bar bounding the dining room. Lazy Susan shelves make corner cabinets fully accessible.

Along the side wall of the kitchen/ dining room and family room, a parade of high transom windows crowns the lower windows, including the sliding glass doors that access a small covered patio.

The large utility room is outfitted with a deep sink, cabinets and a counter for folding clothes.

Bedrooms are upstairs.

Both the master suite and the second bedroom have walk-in closets and private bathrooms. But in the Bowman's master suite, the closet, sleeping area and bathroom are all larger. Luxury amenities here include a spa tub, oversized shower, dual vanity and enclosed toilet.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the Bowman (30-315) and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring more than 350 home plans is available for $15. For more information, call (800) 634-0123.

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"IGNORING THE DOCTOR'S ADVICE"

If you have a physical ailment, do you take your doctor's advice? I think most people do. This is often not the case, however, in the real estate business. Many people will ask for their Realtor's opinion on some issue affecting the sale or purchase of the largest financial asset in their lives, a home, but few will take it. Let me offer some common examples:

The Asking Price

Although a Realtor presents actual market facts about current listings and recent sales, many home owners don't was to hear it. They often decide, regardless of the facts, to ask a higher price than the market will bear.

Clean Up, Fix Up

A house only has one chance to make a first impression. Make it count! Be prepared to take the Realtor's advice. If the living room needs a fresh coat of paint, do it. If the kitchen needs a new dishwasher, buy one. Every home has the greatest chance to sell for top dollar immediately after it goes on the market if it is sharp and has little or no drawbacks.

Price Reduction

If the house is on the market a long time, it becomes unappealing to real estate agents and their buyers. It's old news. The most effective tool that can get showings going again is a reduction in the asking price. This is sometimes necessary because the house was improperly priced at the outset or the market has slowed and something dramatic must be done. As painful as it may be, your Realtor's suggested price reduction may be just what the doctor ordered.

ADVICE: Simply stated, if you are going to hire a professional, be prepared to take the professional's advice.

Consider living in dome house

With their futuristic, spaceship design on the outside, dome kit homes differ radically from the typical frame house.

"Geodesic dome homes are known for high energy efficiency and relatively easy construction," says Richard Roll, president of American Homeowners Association. "If you're the adventurous type, domes offer large living spaces and lower utility bills."

Domes offer can offer 5,000 square feet of available space in three to four levels, as well as 20-foot high ceilings, triangular skylights, lofts and other unique architectural features.

Geodesic domes can save you up to 50 percent on utility bills compared to a conventional frame house of similar size. What makes them so miserly is the shape – they have a smaller exterior surface area for transferring heat.

Airflow circulation is more efficient, too. Some dome owners don't even need air conditioning in the summer.

Domes are not only easy on your utility bills they're relatively cheap and easy to build. One common design, called hub and strut, involves color-coded steel hubs and lumber struts on the framing.

Another design employs precut foam panels with deep grooves at the joints. To create the framing, you lay steel reinforcement into the grooves then pour concrete over them.

The resulting structure is as strong as a fortress and good for hurricane and tornado-prone areas.

A more traditional or conventional appearance can easily be obtained by using vertical wall risers and room extensions.

PUBLIC NOTICE
The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare. Organizations will conduct an accreditation survey of Hoverground Corporation on Dec. 17-21, 2001. The purpose of the survey will be to evaluate the organization's compliance with nationally established Joint Commission standards. The survey results will be used to determine whether, and the conditions under which accreditation should be awarded the organization. Joint Commission standards deal with organizational quality of care issues and the safety of the environment in which care is provided. Anyone believing that he or she has pertinent and valid information about such matters may request a public information interview with the Joint Commission's field representatives at the time of the survey. Information presented at the interview will be carefully evaluated for relevance to the accreditation process. Requests for a public information interview must be made in writing and should be sent to the Joint Commission no later than five working days before the survey begins. The request must also indicate the nature of the information to be provided at the interview. Such requests should be addressed to:
Division of Accreditation Operations
Organization Liaison
Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare.
Organizations
One Renaissance Boulevard
Oakbrook Terrace, IL 60181
The Joint Commission will acknowledge such requests in writing or by telephone and will inform the organization of the request for any interview. The organization will, in turn, notify the interviewee of the date, time, and place of the meeting. This notice is posted in accordance with the Joint Commission's requirements and may not be removed before the survey is completed.

August has been sitting quietly in her cage while all the shelter visitors have been paying all their attention to the kittens. She has been so patient waiting for someone to notice her! This loving brown tiger striped Domestic Shorthair female was found stray and was brought to the shelter so that she might find a home. She is very affectionate and very well-mannered. She would make a terrific senior citizen companion pet or be a nice fit in a family home. She is already litterbox trained and will be spayed before making her way to her new home.

If you would like to offer this patient kitty a chance for a new life, visit the Michigan Humane Society Westland Shelter.
