More than 200 people who attended the second of three Plymouth-Canton Schools vision meetings Monday night had an opportunity to "vote" on what they want for the district in the next 5-10 years.

Among the priorities of district residents for Plymouth-swimming pool at Plymouth High School. Adequate heating and ventilation systems.

Seamless access to technology, with support.

Physical equity for all the high schools.

Listed as top priorities for the middle schools:

Remodeling of classrooms. A new middle school in Canton to serve the population growth. Air conditioning in all middle schools. Facility equity in all the middle schools.

Listed as major necessities for the district's elementary schools:

Air conditioning in all buildings.

Remodeling older classrooms to be equitable with newer schools.

Additional classroom space to meet population growth (in southwest Canton).

Safe, convenient and segregated bus, auto and pedestrian zones.

Separate gyms and multi-purpose areas.

"I'm looking for equity between the schools, that the facilities are even, such as air conditioning and storage," said Jean LaPointe of Plymouth, who teaches at Tonda Elementary. "Buses are real important. Right now we don't have afternoon buses for field trips."

Canton group has money for students

The Canton Community Foundation has more than $20,000 in scholarships available this year for qualified applicants who are resi-* dents of Canton, Plymouth or Plymouth Township.

The 29 scholarships range from $300 to $2,000. About half are for $500.

Most of the scholarships are available to adult non-traditional students as well as high school seniors, said foundation president Joan Noricks. "As more and more adults are returning to school, many of them apply for and are recipients of these scholarships. We are unique in that sense."

Since the program began in 1990, when five were given out, the foundation has awarded $190,000 in scholarship money.

In the beginning the scholarships were all from the foundation itself, she said, but five years ago Noricks approached other organizations that were offering scholarships and offered to let the foundation serve as an umbrella group.

Canton not hurt by cuts

BY JEFF COUNTS STAFF WRITER

State budget cuts won't have much effect in Canton where the community grows by about 8 percent a year.

That growth offsets any according to Tom Yack, supervisor.

The state legislature recently approved $337.4 million in cuts to help the state prop up a budget deficit created by a sagging economy.

"It didn't come as a shock," said Yack. "The governor tried to cut revenue sharing before by $3.5 million."

"It's not going to be a big deal for us," he said, adding there won't be any changes or staff reductions.

the state's ailing revenues did prompt Canton officials to rethink capital projects, he said. The township won't be constructing a new building for the parks department.

Yack said state budget cuts will create more problems for decline in state revenue sharing, fully-developed communities or ones required to make infrastructure improvements.

He was critical of the state budget because spending wasn't cut for prisons, education and the city of Detroit. He pointed out that Detroit receives $350 in state revenue sharing for every person, while Canton receives $27 per person.

District hires Ryan for school job

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday, December 12, 2002

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

A2 (C)

In what can be termed the worst-kept secret in the Plymouth-Canton school district, the Board of Education voted 7-0 to take the "interim" tag away from the title of Superintendent Jim Ryan.

In a multi-goal evaluation that gave an average score of 4.3 out of 5, the board unanimously recommended Ryan be appointed the district's superintendent.

The board will begin discussions on a four-year contract with Ryan, who currently earns $133,700. A final evaluation of Ryan for the 2002-03 school year will be completed before May 1.

There was no lack of accolades for Ryan, who has served as the interim superintendent since July when Kathleen Booher resigned her position.

"He has true characteristics as a leader ... he is fair ... he is honest ... and most importantly he is a brave man," said Trustee Marcy Staley. "We are a tough community, and it takes someone with courage to take those calculated risks and to help us see through all of those things that come our way."

Jim brings out the best in the district, in his core team and the best in the board." added Trustee Joanne Lamar. "The sense of calm that we didn't used to have in this district is there now."

"I am thrilled at how united we are as a team, and how united we are with you," said Treasurer Judy Mardigian. "It's a tough job ... but I know you have everything that it takes to do an excellent job as our superintendent, and I am grateful to have you."

Ryan is no stranger to the top position in a school district, having served as the CEO in both the Reed City and Waverly school districts in the past. He was hired nearly 18-months ago as Plymouth-Canton's deputy superintendent, a position that will now be filled with the elevation of Ryan.

Ryan admitted he didn't have any worries about getting the job. However, he wanted to make certain the Board of Education knew it wasn't just about him.

"My only worry was I wanted to make sure they know there are other people that do the work," he said. "I didn't want too much credit. It's important for them to know it's a total team effort.

"You want it to be a good match, and the board keeps demonstrating over and over again we're moving along in a pretty positive relationship," said Ryan. "I work for them. I'm not their boss."

Ryan said he and his core team will now sit down and talk about what needs to be accomplished before the end of the school year.

"I think we're going to focus on the big issues, with number one being the high school renewal, with the bond issue and the vision planning 1-A." said Ryan. "Budgeting may be next because if we don't get the (state) foundation increase that was budgeted, and the retirement rate goes up, we could be looking at a serious deficit."

Canton approves property rezoning

BY JACK GLADDEN STAFF WRITER

Canton trustees approved two rezoning requests and a special land use amendment at an abbreviated board meeting Tuesday night.

A request by Tim Yerebeck to rezone 2.25 acres on the west side of Beck Road between Ford and Saltz from rural residential to single family residential was approved.

A second request from Danny Veri of Livonia Builders was approved to rezone 10 acres on the east side of Beck from rural residential to single family residential.

Both rezonings were in conformity with the township's future land use map of the comprehensive plan. Township staff noted that the request was also in conformity with land use patterns emerging along the west side of Beck.

A request from the owner of Canton Mini-Mart, the Mobil station on the southwest corner of Lilley and Cherry Hill, to extend hours of operation was also approved.

When the station was granted special land use approval in 1994 it was conditioned on the basis that the operating hours be limited to 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Attorney Bryan Amann, representing the station owner, said the request to extend hours to a 24-hour operation was based on safety issues and providing service to the area. Board members noted that the nature of the site has changed since the original approval was given, citing the development of the Holiday Market shopping center adjacent to the station.

In other business the trustees voted to reappoint Judith Glotfelty and Pam Swiderek to three-year terms on the Council for Community Excellence effective Jan. 1, 2003. They voted to appoint Sandy Granowicz to a three-year term on the council.

Jeff Smith was reappointed to an additional two-year term on the Community Development Block Grant Advisory Council. The fivemember council reviews requests for CDBG project funding, makes recommendations to the board of trustees, holds required public hearings and offers overall guidance to the CDBG program. All members are Canton residents.

Goodfellows come up $4,000 short in drive

BY JEFF COUNTS STAFF WRITER

A case of "what's going around" and the inability to hawk papers on the streets has left the Canton Goodfellows $4,000 short this year.

Our top paper seller, John Burdziak Jr., was out with a sore throat," said Nancy Spencer, Goodfellows president. "He usually came back with $500. It was a big hit."

The drive was short of paper sellers, with just 20 showing up for the sale on Saturday, she said. "On top of that, we can't sell papers in the street anymore. The Canton Public Safety Department stopped us from doing that.'

The inability to get the papers to people was a bit frustrating, she said, adding that large retailers don't give the Goodfellows access to their stores.

"we're begging and pleading with people to make donations."

The group made $3,200 this year. And that money won't go far to help the 342 persons from 150 needy homes, she said.

She attributed the large number of needy people on the list to the economy.

"Last year some of these people were on the edge, and this year, because of layoffs and other situations, I think many got pushed over the edge."

The paper sale is the largest one-day community fund-raiser the organization holds each year.

The Goodfellows did receive donations from Wal-Mart, Sam's Club, Bob Evans and Holiday Market this fall.

The holiday baskets include food, toys and a $25 gift certificate for each kid.

The organization also accepts donations by check. Make it payable to Canton Goodfellows, 1150 S. Canton Because of the shortfall, Center Road, Canton MI 48188.

Canton man charged after police chase

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday, December 12, 2002

COP CALLS

A 26-year-old Canton man was charged with fleeing and eluding and commission of a felony with a motor vehicle Tuesday after leading Canton Police on a high-speed chase late Monday night. He was also charged with being a secondtime habitual offender.

The incident began about 11:30 p.m. when a man driving a 1985 Chevrolet Monte Carlo was stopped by a Canton Police officer on southbound Haggerty near Cherry Hill. The office noticed that the car had broken brake and tail lights and a missing trunk lock.

After checking the man's ID, the officer discovered he had a misdemeanor warrant for his arrest out of Westland for failure to appear on a loitering charge. As the officer attempted to arrest the man, he sped of northbound on Haggerty.

A pursuit followed with the man driving about 70 miles per hour on Haggerty to Ford, then west on Ford to Sheldon. He turned south on Sheldon, then west on Cherry Hill and north on Canton Center.

The chase ended at an Amoco Station at Cherry Hill and Canton Center, when the suspect pulled into the station and surrendered without further incident.

SAFE CRACKING

Two Dearborn Heights men are facing the possibility of life in prison after about $20,000 in cash and credit card receipts were stolen from LaShish Restaurant in Canton on Dec.

A 31-year-old man was arraigned Sunday on a charge of safe breaking and breaking and entering. He is being held on a $25,000 cash bond. A 17year-old suspect is expected to be arraigned on similar charges.

Two holes were cut in the safe to gain entry, police said. A portion of the money was later recovered from the home of the 31-year-old man, who was a cook at the restaurant.

Burglary suspect

Police released this picture taken from a video security tape of a man who broke into the Sav-More Drug Store on Hanford east of Canton Center last week. The man, who broke in through the back door, was in the store for about 10 to 12 seconds. Nothing was reported missing. "We need help identifying this suspect," said Canton Police Detective Mike Steckel. "He's a suspect in several other break-ins at local businesses." Anyone with information is asked to call Canton Police at (734) 394-5400.

ROBBERY

A 31-year-old Canton man was robbed of an undisclosed amount of money Tuesday evening after making an ATM withdrawal from a Ford Road bank.

Two men approached the man as he sat in his car adjacent to an ATM at Standard Federal Bank. One of the pair pointed what appeared to be a handgun at the Canton man and demanded money. Police said the man handed over the cash he had withdrawn and the suspects fled on foot.

They were described as black males, ages 16 to 18, both wearing blue pants. One of them was also wearing a brown and red coat.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call Canton Police at (734) 394-5400.

MONEY SCAM

Police are looking for a white male in his late 30s or early 40s who scammed a Pizza Hut employee out of a small amount of eash Sunday.

(C) A3

The man entered the restaurant about 2:30 p.m., spoke with a manager and claimed to be an employee of Murray's Discount Auto store across Ford Road.

He told the manager that Murray's safe was on a timed lock and he needed to borrow a small amount of cash. The man gave the manager a set of car keys as collateral. When the manager gave him the money, the man left in a gray vehicle westbound on Ford.

The manager became suspicious and called Murrary's, where she learned that he did not work there.

He was described as weighing about 190 pounds and having black/gray hair.

Canton Police Sgt. Todd Mutchler said a similar incident occurred recently at another business.

Anyone with information about the incidents should call Canton Police at (734) 394-5400.

A high priority is air conditioning installed in school buildings throughout the district.

"When the weather conditions inside the school is 104 (degrees) and it's a sheet of heat, that affects learning and productivity," said Kathy Dascenzo, a kindergarten teacher at Bird Elementary.

The Canton Cruisers had plenty of representatives looking for a new pool at Plymouth High School. "We have a hundred kids on our waiting list, and that's a problem," said a Cruiser coach.

And, Central Middle School continues to be a topic of discussion

Laura and Robert Simpson of Plymouth Township, who have children at all levels in the Plymouth-Canton school district, believe the Plymouth community is losing it's identity, which is why they want Central to remain viable as a school. "It's right across from the main Plymouth library, and kids can go there after school where there are more opportunities and resources," said Laura Simpson.

"Plus, Central's athletic facilities have better tennis courts than the high school, they've got a football field, they've got baseball fields, they've got a pool," said Robert Simpson. "Why tear it down when it's already got it. How much is it going to cost to replace it somewhere else?"

However, some teachers are questioning the feasibility of Central as it is today.

"Teachers are very isolated in that building, and if it continues as a school we really need to look at a major restructuring to make a viable learning environment for students and a good place for teachers to work," said Marry Ann Foss of Plymouth Township, a seventh and eighth grade teacher.

Wayne-Westland to seek tax shift in vote

BY SUE MASON STAFF WRITER

Voters in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools have a Feb. 18 date with the voting machines, after the Board of Education at its meeting Monday approved a request for a special election.

Residents will be asked to approve a 1 mill-tax levy to create a sinking fund to continue the work being done on school buildings and maintain the improvements already done as part of the $108 million bond issue that was passed in 1998.

The 1 mill, which is $1 of every $1,000 in the taxable value of property, represents debt millage from 1992 that was refinanced for five years as part of the '98 bond sale. Its expiration will lower the district's indebtedness slightly from the 5.14 mills in '98 to 5.13 mills, assuming the sinking fund 1 mill is approved.

The district is projecting no real change in the tax rate because of the expiration – just a shift in taxes going for a bond to taxes going for a sinking fund.

"We're very conscience of not adding any additional burden to taxpayers, but the committee in 1997 told us loud and clear they never wanted us to allow our buildings to get in the condition they were in (again)," said Superintendent Greg Baracy. "We're not asking for any more than what we're currently paying. For a $100,000 home that's about $44 a year or

Under state law, districts can ask for up to 5 mills for 20 years for a sinking fund. However, Wayne-Westland is asking for 1 mill for 10 years.

THINKING ABOUT NEW FURMACE

ent for business, told the board. bond request. "One mill is a very prudent and reasonable amount to ask for," he said. "It is a cost effective way to finance repairs."

TIGHT CONTROLS

A sinking fund is even more stringent than bond funds. It can't be used to pay salaries or benefits or hire new staff. State approval also is needed to spend the money.

"Bonds are audited at the end of five years after you get the money, while a sinking fund is audited every year," Martin said. "You can spend sinking funds on many of the same things, except buses and hardware." If the district doesn't spend the money according to the law, if it's found it's not used in the way it was designed to use, the district "must cease and desist the sinking fund immediately," Baracy added.

According the ballot language, the money would be used for the construction or repair of school buildings, improvement and development of sites and the purchase of real estate for sites for school buildings.

There also is language that would allow for the purchase of school buses and technology, if state lawmakers approve a revision of the law. That revision has been approved by the House of Representatives, but has yet to clear the State Senate.

The district has been exploring the idea of a sinking fund for several months. According to Baracy, it comes from the work done by the bond committee in 1997.

That committee looked at what needed to be done and came up with a list of renovations and needs that topped $250 million. That was pared down and the most pressing needs and priorities were included in the $108 million

Baracy believes the district has done several things to establish credibility with residents, including refinancing the 1992 bond, which saved taxpayers $1 million a year, and delivering on the promises made during the 1998 bond election. "We did all we said we would and more," Baracy said.

GOOD SUGGESTION

In making the motion to approve the request, Trustee Mathew McCusker told his fellow trustees that he didn't "want to see us go back to where we need $108 million for repairs."

"I think the administration's suggestion for one mill is a good suggestion," he said. "We've done extremely well with the $108 million. Everything has gotten done and only those things in the bond book got done."

The board voted 7-0 to approve the request and most members verbally voiced their support for it.

"As a person who was deeply involved in the bond issue, I see the need to protect the district's investment," said Trustee Skip Monit. "Now that the bond work is close to completion, it's an important aspect to provide this. I don't appreciate the additional burden of taxes, but it will well worth it down the road."

"I had to do a lot of thinking about this," added board Vice President Cindy Schofield. "I don't like taxes like you. I have rental properties and this will affect me, but I had to put that aside and think what would be best for this school district. We've gone many years putting Band-Aids on problems and I don't want to go back there. If we don't do this, we're going to be in the same position of five years ago."

Two Canton police sergeants recently completed Eastern Michigan University's Staff and Command School.

The 10-month school, which began in February, focused on personnel management, incident command, organizational behavior and budgeting. Scott Hilden and Mark Schultz participated in this year's school.

"One of the most useful aspects of the course was to meet and talk to people from all the other police agencies," said Hilden, a 10-year Canton veteran. "I found it helpful to compare how they do business with how we do business. We had the opportunity to share a lot of real-life experiences with people in the profession."

Schultz said he learned numerous ways to improve himself as a supervisor.

"We also learned that there's no one best way to supervise," he said.

Graduation ceremonies were held in recently in Ann Arbor. Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro, an instructor in the course, was the keynote speaker.

Students spent one week each month attending courses. Officers had home work and a term paper to complete.

Baby's death sparks awareness of foodborne bacteria

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA STAFF WRITER

A6 (C)

The birth of a new baby is supposed be the most joyous occasion in a couple's life. For Livonia's Angela Babosh, it was the start of a personal nightmare.

On Christmas Eve of 1996, Babosh delivered a baby girl named Morgan Faith. Two days later, the infant died of a foodborne illness called listeria monocytogenes.

Now almost six years later, Babosh was invited to speak at a national listeria summit in Washington, D.C., meant to improve safeguards on the food supply.

If she had been betterinformed of the effects of this common bacteria. Babosh believes, her first child might have survived.

"I'd like people to be more aware of the bacteria so they can protect themselves," Babosh said.

She and her husband had never heard of listeria.

She knew not to smoke, not to drink and to avoid caffeine, but Babosh never knew that foods like lunch meats, unpasteurized dairy products and hot dogs could contain harmful amounts of Listeria, making it lethal to an unborn child. Smoked fish and cheeses can now be added to that list, as well as some fruits and vegetables.

Babosh has since become an expert on the topic. When she became pregnant for the second time - her son is now 3 years old - she joked she would live on saltine crackers. Her family is quite conscious of most foods in lemon juice, to kill any harmful bacteria. And her son has never tasted a hot dog.

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday, December 12, 2002

"I avoided all of what I was told the 'bad' things were, but it didn't matter," she said at the summit. "I lost my baby."

Babosh is a member of STOP. Safe Tables Our Priority, a national victim's group based in Vermont. She read about STOP in a newspaper article and became involved a year later.

"By that time it had been a year and a half, two years after the incident," said Babosh in a recent interview. "I had already gone through the grieving process."

But she wanted to help spread the word on the dangers of listeria. She hopes her story will be heard by other mothersto-be.

"Unfortunately - there is literature," she said, "but none of it ever really gets through."

She believes there is more information about listeria now, but it has taken years for it to reach the public.

"Six years ago, my doctor was just astounded," said Babosh. "I was bound and determined to at least get it out there."

Through STOP, Babosh has met other parents whose children survived despite the harmful bacteria, but they will not live normal lives. These children often experience bleeding on their brain, which could lead to cerebral palsy or other serious problems. Morgan Faith Babosh was her blood and she couldn't fight it. Every year as the holidays approach, the Babosh family must live with that memory.

"Almost nobody understands that 76 million people each year are getting sick with foodborne diseases, and that many become seriously ill and die, until it happens to them or a loved one," said Karen Taylor Mitchell, executive director of STOP.

People like Angela, who have the courage to stand up and say 'This is what happened to me' are the ones that can demonstrate how important it really is to clean up our food."

A nonprofit organization, STOP's mission aims to prevent suffering, illness and death from food contaminated by pathogens.

According to STOP's board president, Nancy Donley, those most at risk for acquiring foodborne illnesses like listeria include children, the elderly, individuals with a weak immune system, and pregnant women.

"Now more than ever, our government should be doing everything possible to eradicate preventable foodborne disease," said Donley.

out of Canton's budget.

That action averted a tax increase for residents. If the cuts had taken place, the township would have be forced to hike property taxes by 0.8 mills. The township tax rate is 1.51 mills. If it were increased to 2.31 mills, the owner of a $300,000 home would pay an extra $120 in taxes.

Nearby in Plymouth, both the city and township were hoping to absorb state revenuesharing cuts without raising taxes or cutting services. Plymouth Township lost $89,00 and the city about $36,000.

Officials from both communities said there wouldn't be any cuts to services or staff reductions.

But while Canton residents won't see any changes in township services, students from the community who attend Schoolcraft College will be the charter of the village evolve. "It will also give the village more open space. We can use the open space to create more of a sense of community."

One change would be the use of the lower Rouge River as a park area, with residences facing it, he said.

Increased density would also provide a more diverse mix of homes, with brick and other color schemes.

"We'd have pockets of brick to break things up."

Planning commission members raised questions about sewer capacity, water and traffic created by having more residents in less space.

Changes may be needed to sewer lines, Stollman told the members, but traffic shouldn't be a problem because there are enough roads and access roads to nearby major arteries.

The township is conducting a sewer-capacity study, but the results won't be known until late February.

The concept of the village was a mixture of architectural affected.

The school's budget took a 2.5 percent hit by the state, according to Marty Heator, the school's director of marketing. The community college was to receive $12.7 million in state funding, but will now receive

$318,000 less. "We knew that cuts were coming, so we put the brakes on a lot of new spending on the budget this year," said Heator. "Now that we have a final figure from the state, we can get more focused." A team of Schoolcraft administrators met last week to begin reviewing ways to adjust the budget. Heator said no one solution was chosen, and all options will be considered. Much like local governments, budget cuts have come at an already difficult time for the school."

"This latest cut is part of a trend," Heator said. "And it's that trend that really concerns us. We operate efficiently, well within the standards for community colleges of Michigan."

styles and sizes, ranging from condos in the village core to single-family units on so-called estate lots in other areas of the village. With parts 1 and 2 of Phase 1 nearly completed, the developer, Biltmore Properties, is ready to start work on parts 3 and 4.

The Village Edge area is zoned for four units per acre, not six.

However, developer say the single-family homes on estate lots aren't selling as fast as the firm had hoped.

Part of the problem is the high quality of the development and the ensuing costs, the firm said.

When the units went on the market, they were more expensive than had been expected, Stollman said.

Homes in the village are $30,000 to $70,000 more than in other communities in Canton, he said.

When approving the increased density, commission chairman Vic Gustafson told the developers: "You are people of integrity. We haven't been disappointed in what you havedone."

The vote was unanimous.

"I'm just going to wait for another one to open up," she said.

Hauck really didn't intend to stay on the job as long as she did. She came to the senior center after leaving a job as the youth director at her church, St. Michael Lutheran of Canton.

OUR VIEWS 'Interim' tag gone, Ryan eyes future

The Plymouth-Canton school board Tuesday night unveiled perhaps the worst-kept secret in district history when it removed the "interim" tag from Superintendent Jim Ryan's title.

For those of you who have been living under a rock since the summer or are just returning from months in the Australian outback, Ryan was hired on an interim basis to replace the departing Kathleen Booher, who left the superintendent's post to take a job with the state.

The board at the time agreed to hire Ryan, who had been brought in by Booher as her assistant, and review his performance in December before deciding whether to hire him permanently or go through the search process for a new schools chief.

But it became quickly apparent board members were enamored of Ryan, and rightly so. He said all the right things, was aggressive in his approach to problem-solving and, most important, obviously wanted to be here. That was a key, particularly since Booher spent much of her time in the district looking for another district.

In our opinion, Ryan has proven in his short time on the job he deserves the full-time shot. He's been an excellent communicator with staff and residents, he seems to have a solid vision for the future and he's pragmatic about it.

For instance, he recognizes – much to the chagrin of the folks here in Plymouth – the bulk of growth in the district is coming in Canton; therefore, he realizes, something must be done about getting those children to school.

Ryan knows that to get anything substantial done in the district, he's going to need to pass a bond proposal, and he's already laying the groundwork for it. His longrange plan looks a lot like the program Booher outlined in what one local publication dubbed her "master plan," a much more sinister name for it than the plan implied.

The difference is Ryan has already shown his willingness to have the public involved. Right or wrong, Booher was perceived as too much a behind-the-scenes operator. Ryan has shown no such inclination.

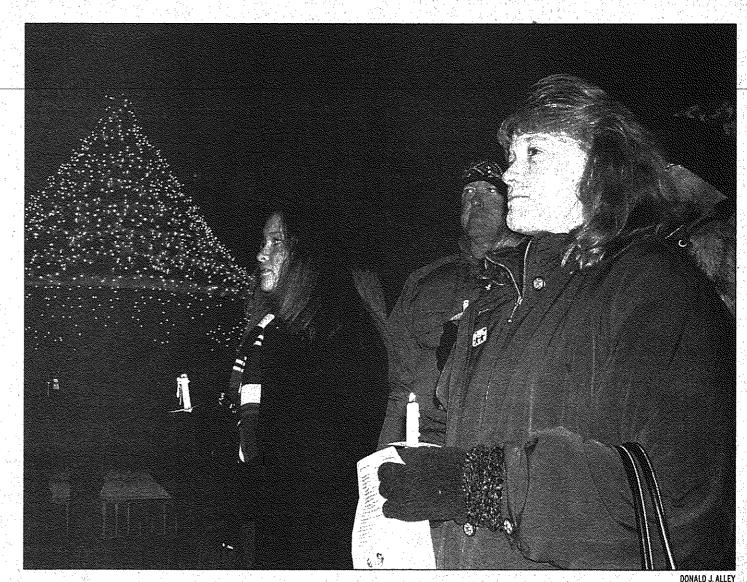

Ryan needs to figure out what to do with Central Middle School. He needs to figure out whether a pool at the new Plymouth High School is a viable desire. He knows a new elementary school is going to be needed at Cherry Hill Village; now he's got to figure out how to convince voters to pay for it.

The district has challenges and, with the interim tag removed, they've got the right person to address them. Ryan got the full-time gig because he showed he's open to ideas, and particularly open to dialogue with the residents of his district.

He'd do well to remember that now that the interim tag has been removed.

Thanks for support

I am writing to thank everyone for their support in the recent election. I truly do appreciate all of the hard work that the numerous volunteers and supporters put in on my behalf. I would also like to thank everyone who took the time to vote, whether you voted for me or not. Your input is vital to our democracy.

It has been an honor to serve as the commissioner representing the 11th District for the past four years, and I pledge to continue to do my best on your behalf during the next two-year term. My door and phone line are always open to you, and I would be happy to discuss any county issues with you. I would also like to wish everyone a happy and safe holiday season. I hope that this has been a good year for you and your family, and I hope that 2003 brings you even more joy. Again, thank you for your support.

Are we to assume that coach Baechler is recruiting every good football player in the Plymouth-Canton school district? Because, if the only reason to explain the success of Catholic Central football is recruiting, then surely that must explain the success of Canton football.

Lastly, Mr. Risak makes the statement "Restrict private schools to recruiting ... sorry, I mean drawing.. obviously indicating that private rules recruit players, which is a clear violation of MHSAA rules. If Mr. Risak has any evidence (either actual or circumstantial) why has he, or anyone else, not presented it to the MHSAA? I can only conclude that Mr. Risak is either a "liar – sorry I mean a fiction writer" or a coward. If he has no evidence, then he is writing fiction. If he has the evidence and has not presented it to the MHSAA, then he is a coward for not acting on his convictions. As an alum of Catholic Central, I am not only insulted but amazed that a publication such as the Observer & Eccentric would allow Mr. Risak to write such an article. While I do not agree with his opinion, I do not object to Mr. Risak writing his opinion on private schools being able to draw students from a wide area. I do object, and am very offended by, his statement indicating that Catholic Central recruits football players. I would expect that a publication such as the Observer & Eccentric would ensure that if one of their writers presents something as fact they would present the evidence to support the claim. If I am wrong and Mr. Risak does indeed have such evidence, I would immediately respond to him with an apology. If he does not have any such evidence, I would expect that he apologize to the entire Catholic Central community, as well as to every private school.

Truck enforcement should be kept local

We have to hand it to folks in the trucking industry – they're persistent.

They've gone through the courts twice now trying to wrest control over motor carrier enforcement from the hands of city officials. Judges have ruled in favor of local enforcement both times, and we hope now the industry will just keep trucking along.

Two years ago, cities prevailed in state appellate court when truckers fought their authority to collect fines. The most recent lawsuit, a class-action filed to recover fines paid since 1996, was tossed out of U.S. District Court after cities in Ohio won a similar case.

The industry contends some municipalities use motor carrier enforcement as a "cash cow." Leaving enforcement authority with the state patrol, said Walter Heinritzi, Michigan Trucking Association executive director, would make the whole system more "consistent."

He's right. With the Michigan State Police in charge, enforcement would be consistent. It would also be virtually non-existent, because the state patrol simply doesn't have the resources to do the same job local law officers are doing now.

How important is motor carrier safety? Consider this: According to the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration, last year, more than 5,000 people died and 131,000 were injured in large truck accidents.

Let's face it – under the best of conditions, driving a semi is a tough job. If the truck driver has been on the road too long, if his load is too heavy, if his vehicle's not safe, his rig is a disaster waiting to happen.

We're not trying to indict the entire trucking industry, which has made a concerted effort toward improving motor carrier safety. It simply makes sense to have more specially trained officers keeping track of those few companies that allow sleepy drivers and overloaded trucks.

CC doesn't recruit

This letter is in response to the column written by C.J. Risak regarding private schools, and his claim of recruiting. Mr. Risak makes the analogy of MSU playing UCLA and MSU can only draw players from Michigan while UCLA can draw players from around the country. Mr. Risak failed to complete the analogy. UCLA players are also required to pay $6,000 per year to play, while the MSU players pay nothing. Also the facilities at MSU will be far superior to those used by the UCLA players.

Claiming CC's football success is based solely on the fact they are a private school able to draw students from a wide area leaves one with many questions.

First, how is Farmington Hills Harrison so successful? They are subject to the same district limitations as other public schools, yet they continue to dominate high school football. Could it possibly be coaching and a rich football tradition that the current and future players strive to uphold?

Second, how do you explain the fact that in the four largest divisions in football, no private school, other than Detroit Catholic Central, is able dominate as CC has? Divine Child, Brother Rice, DeLaSalle, Country Day and others have not been a football juggernaut the way CC and Harrison have.

Third, if private schools can recruit (as Mr. Risak claims), why have they not had success in basketball, soccer or wrestling? CC wrestling, once a powerhouse program, has been an aboveaverage program at best the last 10 to 15 years.

Fourth, how does Mr. Risak explain the success of the Canton football program over the last few years? Comparatively speaking, the success Canton has enjoyed to that of Salem's is far greater than that of CC compared to an average high s this is being written, Gov. John Engler is preparing to leave office after 12 years as undisputed king of the political hill, but leaving a state budget barely in balance after exhausting vir-tually every accounting gimmick available. For her part, Democrat Jennifer Granholm is about to become Michigan's first woman governor, but faces an enormous projected deficit for the coming fiscal year and a Legislature controlled by Republicans.

Gov.-elect Granholm could surprise critics

Most media pundits have already reached the conclusion that the Granholm administration is in deep trouble. The general argument goes like this:

dous. The Budget Stabilization Fund has been drained, the recession continues to sap state tax revenues with no clear upturn in sight and the kind of cuts Gov.-elect Granholm will have to make will surely anger everybody in sight.

Granholm may be governor-elect, but she's pretty much without Democratic allies in Lansing. Sen. Ken Sikkema (R-Wyoming) will lead the state Senate; Rick Johnson (R-LeRoy) will be Speaker of the House; and fellow Republicans Mike Cox and Terri Lynn Land will be attorney general and secretary of state, respectively.

The criminal investigation launched a couple of weeks ago against Granholm's patron, Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara, had a bunch of FBI agents waving subpoenas at everybody in sight, including a fair number of people she had considered appointing to major positions in her administration. Despite U.S. Attorney Geoffrey Collins' reputation for integrity and fair dealing, this probe could run on and on and on, a la the Whitewater investigation that dogged President Clinton for years.

No wonder Bill Ballenger, editor of Inside Michigan Politics (and a savage, long-time Granholm critic), concluded last week that Granholm would be a weak governor, hemmed in by the opposition, "especially if she has no program, no mission that's been certified by the voters."

My own reaction? It's far too early to project the demise of the Granholm administration, especially before it has even taken office. My thinking is rooted precisely in the factors the pundits are using to predict woe for Jennifer Granholm:

Budget. No doubt it's very bad. But a terrible budget situation provides a Granholm administration with a wonderful opportunity to conduct a fundamental and sweeping review of the operations and costs of state government. A far-reaching, cost-cutting, special interest-bashing, results-oriented agenda could be just the thing a Democratic governor needs to disable critics and assemble a new coalition of support, Republican dominance. OK, the GOP won virtually everything in the November election, but what's the party going to look like in a year or so? Consider Oakland County, once reliably Republican. County Executive Brooks Patterson, astoundingly cast as a moderate interested in pitching the big tent, is engaged in fierce civil war with a bunch of right-wing fundamentalists led by Tom McMillin of Auburn Hills and outgoing state Rep. Bob Gosselin of Troy. And incoming state Republican Chairman Betsy DeVos is a handy symbol of a party that may be conservative, but not likely particularly compassionate.

FBI investigation. So Granholm won't have the freedom to appoint "persons of interest" such as her campaign manager Dave Katz and others to big jobs in Lansing. She's already said she would appoint on the basis of merit, not past connections. Maybe the investigation will give her the opportunity to reach out beyond the usual Democratic suspects and bring in capable outsiders. My sense is that Granholm, a selfdescribed moderate, will wind up governing from the center by both personal preference and political necessity.

Don't get me wrong. I think the Granholm administration has a tough row to hoe. But I also think it's both unfair and premature for the pundits to write off any prospects for success before she even takes office.

Plymouth mayor pro tem contemplates suit against litigation-happy magazine Brad Kadrich olleen Pobur can't do much right now but shake her head and try to shrug off the weight of everyone hoping she'll sue the pants off of Your Community Crier, the news magazine she believes libeled her.

That hope springs eternal now - from the police department, where one lieutenant can empathize with Plymouth Mayor Pro tem Pobur. It comes from businesses that have felt threatened, that believe they've put up with enough. And it comes from the halls of City Hall, where a $100 million lawsuit could be tossed out, replaced by a libel suit legal observers believe would have a good chance of winning.

Pobur, the news magazine's favorite punching bag the last couple of years, feels the pressure, if not the obligation, of everyone hoping she'll be the one to take on a rich, powerful doctor, who owns the Crier, in court.

"I don't know that I feel an obligation (to stand up for others)," Pobur said this week. "But I do think this is the most egregious offense he's done to me."

She's talking, of course, about the story that appeared in the local news magazine two weeks ago attempting to connect Pobur with the investigation into county executive Ed McNamara. "FBI raids home of Mayor Pro-Tem Colleen Pobur," the pagethree headline screamed.

Beneath it was a two-paragraph claim that the home of Pobur, former director of concessions at Metro Airport, was raided by federal and state agents as "part of the sweeping investigation of the McNamara political machine."

No sources cited, not even anonymous ones. No attribution. Just the one simple statement.

The one simple, untrue, statement.

We'd heard the story. We called the FBI. We called the state police. We called the U.S. District Court. With three easy phone calls, we determined the story to be unfounded. The "raid" never happened.

By virtue of her position as mayor pro-tem, Pobur is a public figure. In Plymouth, she's a very public figure, a lightning rod for controversy in her time on the city commission. She's been the target of negative press much of that time, some of it (when warranted) from this newspaper.

The standards about what you can say and write about public figures differ from those of everyday citizens. Newspapers can generally get away with printing rumors and innuendoes about public figures. But there still has to be some basis in fact in what gets reported. Newspapers aren't allowed to just make stuff up.

That's what Pobur says was done here, and it's tough to argue with her. This is a news magazine, after all, that once offered a $10,000 reward for dirt on city officials. And it was an unattributed story. Reputable newspapers doing that kind of story would at least attribute such a fact to anonymous sources, so their readers could believe they'd done their homework and were protecting their sources. Is anything that noble being done in this case? Pobur doesn't think so.

"For all the drama (the city) attracts, you have to wonder where it all comes from," she said. "Most of it is generated by that publication."

To his credit, and to be fair, it must be pointed out the news magazine's publisher told us they "double and triple check" their sources. But a top corporate attorney, who has advised a major newspaper operation on libel matters for 15 years, took one look at the story and told us, "I wouldn't want to have to defend that."

Want to know how bad it looks? The former editor of the news magazine, who wrote negative stories about Pobur ad nauseum during his tenure, wrote a letter to McNamara, with a copy to Pobur, apologizing and distancing himself from the practice.

We're not trying to be apologists for Pobur here and, frankly, she isn't looking for any. Just because the FBI hasn't come calling yet doesn't mean they aren't going to come calling, and Pobur knows it. The investigation seems to be targeting county employees who worked on Granholm's campaign, and none worked harder for the governor-elect than Pobur.

The problem, as she sees it, is that no one knows for certain where the investigation is going or who's going to get snared in its net.

"The fact is, they're investigating the airport, and I worked there for four years," Pobur said. "I don't have anything to hide."

So where's the damage? To her reputation, according to Pobur, who is trying to plan her next professional move. Many think she'll end up working in Lansing, but she also has attractive offers in the private sector. Either way, having the public (and prospective employers) thinking she was the target of an FBI raid can't do her much good.

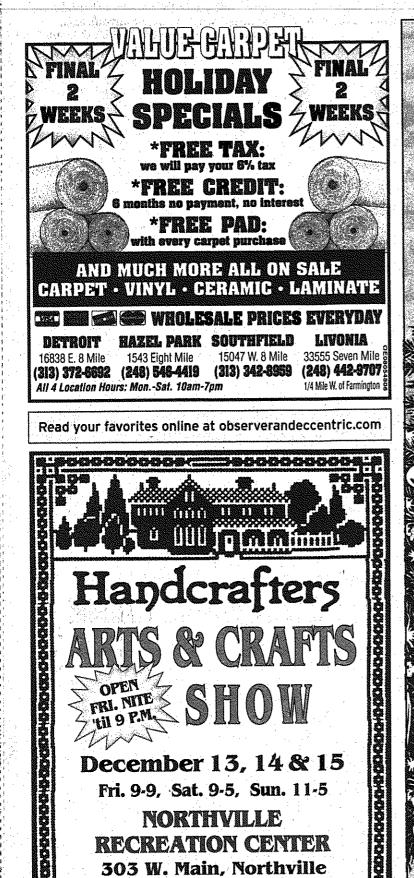

After all, as she aptly points out, "the FBI doesn't raid the homes of law-abiding citizens. It carries a negative connotation."

It's a negative connotation for which she may try to make the news magazine pay. Pobur is contemplating a lawsuit, though with a week-long vacation and the holidays coming a decision might wait until the first of the new year. There are also financial considerations.

"(Suing) is very expensive, and these guys litigate for recreation," Pobur said. "(But) it's a winnable case."

It may very well be, but that's for the courts to decide. There are people lining up in the hope Pobur finds the financial wherewithal and intestinal fortitude to find out for sure.

Reyes' chilling story is just one of many I've heard while writing about fund-raisers and benefits for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. I'm making my list just like I do every year. How could I not after learning about men, women and children without homes? Something as small as a teddy bear, blanket or socks can brighten the life of someone less fortunate than myself.

I'm lucky because my more than 12 years as an arts & entertainment reporter for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have introduced me to organizations that are working to help feed, clothe and house those struggling to survive. Now I want to share their needs with you. But there are organizations in all of our communities that help people living on the streets and those leaving their homes in the middle of the night to avoid abuse. Find out what they do. And while Dennis, an engineer for Ford Motor Co., typically has that week off of work, the family plans do change from year to year.

ART, MUSIC AND MORE

At the Detroit Institute of Arts, public relations manager Pamela Marcil says holiday week is the busiest of the year because so many families attend. During this week, the DIA is open every day, including Monday, Dec. 23 and 30, and Tuesday, Dec. 31, and there are extended hours most days.

Each year, the DIA tries to program around the special exhibitions, and since the highly regarded Degas and the Dance is currently on exhibit through Jan. 12, 2003, programs include storytelling "Stories that Dance," "Performance in the Galleries" and a special performance of The Nutcracker at the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History.

"On our Friday nights (the museum is open until 9 p.m. every Friday), the crowd is diverse in every area, not only racially and ethnically, but also in all different age groups seniors, teens and families," said Marcil.

And during holiday week, diversity is also the theme. There are performances of African and African American folktales by Miz Rosie; the Detroit Puppet Art Theater - one of the city's cultural gems presents Cinderella with music by Tchaikovsky, and the Peter Sparling Dance Company performs Les Parisiennes, which brings to life the 19th century paintings of Edgar Degas.

All events are free with museum admission, and a complete listing is available on the DIA Web site (www.dia.org) or by calling (313) 833-7900.

Though there are few Wayne State University students around during vacation week, the Cultural Center really teems with life during this time. At the Children's Museum, which moved last year from its house across from the DIA to its relations manager Leslie Williams says many events are planned.

"The museum is open noon until 4 p.m. with make-and-take crafts and a 1 p.m. planetarium show of the winter sky."

Also featured are several exhibits including "Feel Like a Kid Again" featuring artwork of Detroit elementary students, and a Native American exhibit called "First People, One with Nature."

Williams said that the museum will be decorated for the holidays, including Fiesta time, which is celebrated in Mexico.

CELEBRATING ETHNICITY

For Kris Femminineo, the celebration of different cultures has become an annual tradition during vacation week. "When I was working in the Detroit schools. I learned about Kwanzaa from the kids I taught. I thought it was such a wonderful celebration of spirit that I started teaching my daughter, Sara, about the holiday last year when she was 3," she said.

This year, Femminineo plans to expand the education and celebration to her whole household, which includes her husband, Tony, her father, Phil Berger, and her four stepchildren who attend Guardian Angel School in Clawson and Bishop Foley High School in Madison Heights. And a trip to the Cultural Center may be on the docket for the family as well.

At the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History, vacation week will feature two photography exhibits with works by Chester Higgins Jr. and Ernest C. Withers. And The Nutcracker is at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 30. The muse-

Livonia Churchill alumna stars in Shear Madness, The Foreigner

BY KURT ANTHONY KRUG CORRESPONDENT

Robin Lewis-Bedz didn't have an epiphany about acting in the theater. It was just something she always wanted to do.

"I gravitated towards theater early on. I just enjoyed doing it. I felt I could earn a living at it," she said.

The actress, 29, who currently is in Sheer Madness at the Gem Theatre in Detroit, was active in the Creative and Performing Arts Program (CAPA) at Livonia Churchill High School, where she graduated in 1991. She went on to receive her bachelor's of fine arts degree in theater from the University of Detroit Mercy. From there, she studied in the Professional Actor Training Program at Ohio University, where she earned her master's of fine arts in theater While at Ohio University, she interned at the Cincinnati Playhouse in the Park in Cincinnati, OH, where she starred in Miss Julie and Rough Crossing. Additionally, Lewis-Bedz specializes in children's theater and improvisational comedy. She's also an expert in juggling and has a green belt in karate. The oldest of three children, an open-ended run at the Gem, reality within that." she is the understudy to the roles of Barbara DeMarco and Mrs. Schubert until mid-January.

MYSTERY-COMEDY

One of America's longest-running comedies, Shear Madness, which is filled with countless double entendres and sexual innuendo, takes place in a unisex hair salon. The story centers on hair stylist Tony Whitcomb and his customers talking about the eccentric pianist who lives above the salon, who later ends up murdered with a pair of barber scissors.

Things get interesting from there as the audience votes on who the murderer is and the thespians play out that scenario accordingly. Shear Madness director Matt Callahan also localized the play, making references to Grosse Pointe, Inkster, and other cities within the Metro-Detroit area.

Originally written as Scherenschnitt by Swiss playwright Paul Portner in 1963, Marilyn Abrams and Bruce Jordan transformed it in 1979 from a serious murder mystery to a mystery-comedy.

"Shear Madness' is a big farce," Lewis-Bedz said. "You have to find the ultimate core of

After her run with Shear Madness ends, Lewis-Bedz is looking forward to performing in playwright Larry Shue's The Foreigner, which will run from late-February to late-March at Meadow Brook Theatre, at Oakland University's campus in-Rochester.

The Foreigner is about a shy man named Charlie who doesn't say much. His friends tell people he's foreign and doesn't understand English. People freely talk about others in front of him, oblivious to the fact he understands every word. Lewis-Bedz plays Catherine, the female lead, who befriends Charlie.

LENGTHY RESUME

The actress has performed at the Purple Rose Theatre in Chelsea, the Jewish Ensemble Theatre in West Bloomfield, Second City in Detroit, as well as the Cincinnati Playhouse in the Park and Meadow Brook. She has appeared in The Tropical Pickle, Let It Be, All My Sons, Dance Like No One's Watching, The Day We Met, Measure for Measure, and A Christmas Carol.

"Whatever I'm working on at the time is my dream project. I've met so many great people, who are fun to work with and learn from," Lewis-Bedz explained. "Every show presents it own unique set of challenges. The longer you're in this business, you have different challenges. There are days when you show up and you're tired. You have to depend on the other actors to support you and engage you in order to be in the moment, so it's fresh. I'm always learning."

Lewis-Bedz has no Broadway dreams; she likes the work she's doing now, saying that she finds it fun and challenging. In fact, ence; it's true art.

"You don't revisit a scene in film and do it differently than when you (revisit) it eight times a week on stage. That's just not as much room to do that in film.

she lived in New York City for under a year and found it too crowded. "There were way too many people. It got very claustrophobic," she recalled. In addition to appearing on the stage, Lewis-Bedz had a bit part in Chelsea resident Jeff Daniels' film, Super Sucker, as Bobby Jo Bartholomew. "(Daniels) is no different than working with anyone else. He's just a regular guy who's very down-to-earth. He cares very much about the work and the art. He's very fun and accessible." However, she prefers theater to film because she said there's something magical about performing in front of a live audi-

Young vocalist focuses on true meaning of the season with A Classical Christmas

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Tired of Jingle Bells and Frosty the Snowman and ready to hear music that brings out the true meaning of the season? Popular songs are good for getting in the mood to celebrate the holidays but the week leading up to Christmas should be a time for reflection. What better way to start the process than by listening to Franz Schuberts and Bach's Ave Maria, Cesar Franck's Panis Angelicus, Mozart's Ave Verum Corpus. Beethoven's Sonata in E flat Major and Pietro Yon's Gesu Bambino along with favorites

National Board of Review picks The Hours as top movie

BY CHRISTY LEMIRE AP ENTERTAINMENT WRITER

NEW YORK (AP) — The Hours, starring Meryl Streep, Julianne Moore and Nicole Kidman, is the year's best movie, according to the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures.

Based on Michael Cunningham's Pulitzer Prizewinning novel, the film follows three women in three eras who are all tied to Virginia Woolf's Mrs. Dalloway.

Moore also won the board's best-actress award for Far From Heaven, in which she plays a 1950s New England housewife who learns her husband is gay, then begins a relationship with her black gardener. Campbell Scott was named the best actor for Roger Dodger, in which he stars as a shallow womanizer. The group's supporting actor prize went to Chris Cooper for Adaptation.

Kathy Bates won best supporting actress for About Schmidt, in which she plays a bohemian divorcee. Philip Noyce was the group's director of the year for two films: The Quiet American and Rabbit-Proof Fence.

The documentary honor went to Bowling for Columbine, Michael Moore's examination of America's gun culture. Pedro Almodovar's Talk to Her was the board's choice for best foreign film of the year. The Spanish film follows two men who are in love with women in comas in the same hospital.

Completing the list of the top 10 movies for 2002: Chicago, Gangs of New York, The Quiet American, Adaptation, Rabbit-Proof Fence, The Pianist, Far From Heaven, Thirteen Conversations About One Thing and Frida.

* B3

The National Board of Review awards represent the first step in anticipating Academy Award winners, but they're usually not in step with what Oscar voters prefer.

Last year, board members chose Baz Luhrmann's revisionist musical Moulin Rouge as the best movie; the Academy Award for best picture went to Ron Howard's A Beautiful Mind, a far more traditional pick for its inspirational themes.

The National Board of Review, made up of teachers, writers, actors and movie production workers, will award the winners at a ceremony Jan. 14, 2003, in New York.

Ensemble goes back in time to prove It's a Wonderful Life

An ensemble cast and crew will perform a radio play-style production of It's A Wonderful Life Saturday-Sunday, Dec. 14-15 and Dec. 21-22 at The Second City, Detroit.

Director-actor Marty Bufalini of Grosse Pointe leads the group, which includes actors Tim Wolf of Royal Oak, Tommy Ventimiglio of Chesterfield Township, Brian Taylor of Plymouth, Carrie Fisk of Grosse Pointe, Michelle Hooks Stackpoole of Harper Woods, Aaron Letrick of Clinton Township, Steve Sabaugh of Sterling Heights, among others.

The group transports the audience to a 1940s-style radio studio when radio shows were performed live before a studio audience, with the aid of minimal set decor and show preparations. The crew in Bufalini's production creates 98 percent of all sound effects live, using mechanical devices. Actors recreate footsteps, a half-size door on wheels provides door effects, bells are rung, a water tank is used for water effects and a wind machine creates the wind. Performances are 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 14, 21 and Sunday Dec. 22 and 5 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 15, at The Second City Theatre, 2301 Woodward, Detroit. Tickets are $14 for adults and $9 for senior citizens and students. They're available at The Second City box office, Hockeytown Authentics (without service charge), in Troyand at all Ticketmaster locations. To charge by phone, call The Second City at (313) 965-2222.

FUN IN ANN ARBOR

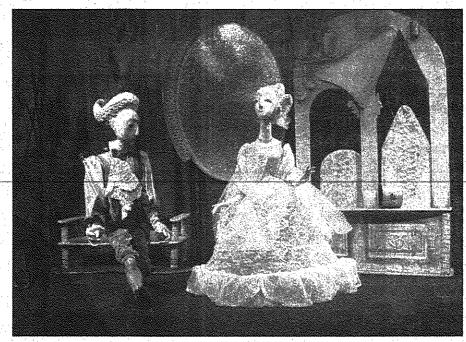

For those who want to venture a little further from home, Ann Arbor is a great destination during holiday week. Finals are over, students are gone, and the city is at one of its prettiest times.

At the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum, "The Big Freeze" hits the museum just in time for holiday fun. From Dec. 26-30, kids can make their own ice cream and learn the science behind how salt and ice make cream freeze. There are also liquid nitrogen demonstrations, and kids can make their own Eskimo snow goggles. And from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 4, 2003, world champion ice sculptor Ted Wakar will create one of his world-famous carvings.

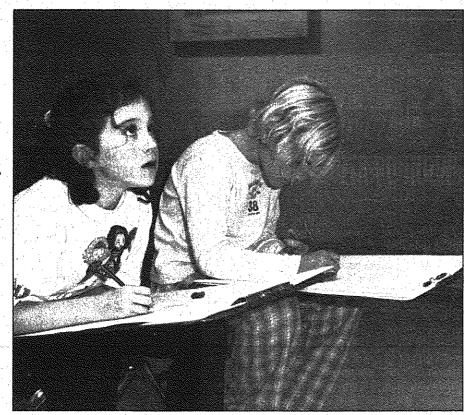

The museum also has a wonderful toddlers' and infants' area where little ones can learn what it's like to be a firefighter (the museum is actually part of an old firehouse) and don aprons to explore the water area. For a complete listing of events, check out www.aahom.org, or call (734)

995-5439. Ann Arbor is also home to the Exhibit Museum of Natural History where the exhibit "Native Fishes of the Great Lakes Region" is showing through Jan. 10, 2003.

Watercolors of regional fish are included along with an exhibit that compares modern collection methods with archival samples dating back to the start of the museum's collection, which began in 1882. It's a bit heady, but that serious scientist of yours will love it. The museum's fish collection contains more than three million specimens. The museum's Web site is

STAR TREK NEMESIS

The cast of Star Trek: The Next Generation returns on a diplomatic mission to initiate peace with the Romulans. But upon arrival to the alien planet, the crew is faced with a threat that could lead to the Earth's destruction, and Picard meets his most danger ous adversary yet, a surprisingly personal nemesis. Stars Patrick Stewart, Jonathan Frakes, Brent Spiner, LeVar Burton, Marina Sirtis. Directed by Stuart Baird. (Paramount) Rating PG-13 DRUMLINE

Set against the high-energy, highstakes world of show style marching bands, the story tells of a talented street drummer from Harlem who enrolls in a Southern University, expecting to lead its marching band's drumline to victory. He initially flounders in his new world before realizing that it takes a more than talent to reach the top. Featured players include Nick (Whatever It Takes) Cannon, Orlando (The Time Machine)

Jones, Zoe (Crossroads) Saldana, Leonard (He Got Game) Roberts. Charles Stone III helms the comedy, marking his feature directorial debut. (20th Century Fox) Rated PG-13 EVELYN

Based on true events, Evelyn tells the story of real-life Desmond Doyle and his young children, Evelyn, Maurice and Dermot. Struggling to raise his kids alone in Ireland in 1953, Dovle is devastated when the power of the Church and the Irish courts take his children away and put them in orphanages. Vowing to reunite his family, he enlists the help of his friends and together they attempt to do what has never been done. Featured players include Pierce (Taylor of Panama) Brosnan, Julianna (The Man from Elysian Fields) Margulies, Aidan (Stolen Summer) Quinn and Stephen (Feardotcom) Rea. Bruce (Double Jeopardy) Beresford helms the drama. (MGM/UA) Rated PG. THE HOT CHICK

A popular but shallow and mean-spirited teenaged girl wakes up one day in the body of a 30-year-old man. In the process of trying to figure out how to switch back, she comes to realize her shortcomings. Featured players include Rob (The Animal) Schneider, Matthew (Cheaters) Lawrence and Michael (The Glass House) O'Keefe. (Touchstone Pictures) PG-13.

MAID IN MANHATTAN

Jennifer Lopez stars as Marisa, a maid in a fancy New York City hotel. While trying on a wealthy woman's dress, a handsome rich man mistakes her for society woman. Marisa goes through a transformation when she falls in love with the British man. Featured players include Ralph Fiennes as Christopher, the British gentleman, and Natasha Richardson as Christopher's girlfriend. Of the story, "She soon finds herself gaining insight into the life of a man she might otherwise have judged from a distance. When he real identity is revealed, however, the truth sets in about the disparity of their lives." Wayne Wang directed the modern re-telling of Get with the beat and see Drumline, a story about a talented street drummer from Harlem who hopes to lead a university marching band to victory. The film opens in theaters on Friday, Dec. 13.

Cinderella. (Columbia/Revolution Release) Rated PG-13 PERSONAL VELOCITY

Based on Rebecca Miller's acclaimed book of short stories, Personal Velocity tells three tales of women who have reached a turning point on their lives. Kyra Sedgewick is Delia, a spirited working-class woman from small town New York who leaves her husband and sets out on a journey to reclaim the power that she has lost. Parker Posey is Greta, a cookbook editor who is "rotten with ambition" and struggling (not too hard) with issues of fidelity to her kind, but unexciting husband. Fairuza Balk is Paula. a troubled young woman who takes off on a journey with a young hitchhiker after a strange, fateful encounter on a New York street. As each of the three stories unfold, the film follows its characters as circumstances force them into an awakening of their inner selves and an emergence on their own life's paths. (MGM/UA)

Jack Nicholson stars as Warren Schmidt, a man who is set adrift following retirement and the sudden death of his wife. Uncertain about his future as well as his past, Warren packs up his 30-foot Winnebago to set out on a journey across the Nebraska. plains to attend his daughter's wedding to a waterbed salesman. But every step he takes seems wrong, and Warren seems destined to end his life as he lived it: a failure. But along the way, Warren recounts his journey and shares his observations with an unexpected friend - a poor Tanzanian boy he is sponsoring for 73 cents a day. In his long letters to the boy, Warren begins to see himself and the life he has lived with new eyes. Also featured in the drama are Kathy (Dragonfly) Bates, Dermot (My Best Friend's Wedding) Mulroney and Hope (Mumford) Davis as Warren's daughter. (New Line) Rated R. ADAPTATION

The story centers on screenwriter Charlie Kaufman's attempt to adapt The Orchid Thief a best-selling novel by Susan Orlean about a dealer of rare orchids, into a movie. The plant dealer, clones the orchids and then sells them to collectors at outrageous prices. Featured players include Nicolas Cage as Charlie Kaufman, Meryl Streep as Susan Orlean and Chris Cooper as John Laroche, the orchid thief. Spike Jonze directed the comedy. (Sony Pictures) Rated R.

COTS

Instead of receiving gifts for herself in celebration of her 50th birthday, Beth McKeown asked for diapers and tube socks. Friends and family filled a van and she couldn't be happier. McKeown sees on a daily basis how much these simple items mean to the mothers and residents living at the homeless shelter on Peterboro in Detroit. For more than 20 years, COTS (Coalition on Temporary Shelter) has not only taken people in from the streets and given them shelter and food but turned their lives around.

A transitional program permits residents to stay for up to 24 months while looking or training for a job, or going to school to earn a GED. In 2002, COTS filled more than 4,000 jobs with homeless people. Clean used business attire is always needed for residents to wear to job interviews. "It's hard to tell if the depressed economy has had any effect on homelessness because we're full all the time even in summer. There are just not enough shelter beds," said McKeown, COTS marketing manager. "We always need blankets because the shelter still can be chilly. Donations are down so food (canned goods) would be more than welcome or if someone wants to give ham or turkeys. "We always need disposable diapers, new men's and women's underwear, toothbrushes and toothpaste, deodorant. Our large microwave in the lounge area for permanent residences went on the fritz so if anyone has one City in that time of Tammany Hall and Boss Tweed. The two gangs at the heart of this film are the Dead Rabbits and the Native Americans. Amsterdam Vallon is the son of the Rabbits' murdered leader, and he vows vengeance on the man who killed him, Bill "The Butcher" Poole. Stars Leonardo DiCaprio, Cameron Diaz, Daniel Daythey're not using we'd love to have it."

COTS, like all of the organizations, has other ways people can help. Buy a ticket to a benefit or volunteer a couple hours of your time. For information or tickets to the following COTS events, call McKeown at (313) 576-0219:

Michigan Design Center in Troy opens its doors to the public Saturday-Sunday, Jan. 25-26. Admission is $6 with the majority of the proceeds from admission and a cafe going to COTS.

Volunteers work in 3-hour shifts," said McKeown. "We're always seeking volunteers. We have opportunities in all areas. Once someone comes down and sees what we do they want to become involved.

SoupCity runs from 6-10 p.m. Monday, Jan. 27. It's thirdannual body and soul warming event at the Traffic Jam in Detroit. Enjoy signature soups from some of the top restaurants. Tickets are $20.

MASKorAIDE, a gala benefit featuring an auction of ceramic masks decorated by more than 200 artists and celebrities, Saturday, April 5 at the Ford Event & Conference Center in Dearborn. Tickets are $125.

FIRST STEP

If you love to dance, mark Friday, Feb. 7, on your calendar. That's when First Step holds its annual dinner/dance benefit to raise money to help women and children who are victims of domestic abuse. Violence in the home tends to increase during the holidays due to stress and increased use of drugs and alcohol. Many women and children flee in the middle of the night with only the clothes on their backs. Frightened children need cuddly teddy bears and stuffed animals to hold onto in the shelter.

A wish list is available by calling the Plymouth-based organization at (734) 416-1111. Here a few of the items needed: grocery gift certificates and phone cards, colored pencils for children, finger paint, trucks, toys of any kind except violent action figures. Women need new underwear, clothing and sweat suits, cosmetics (to help build self-esteem), household items and food, sheets, blankets and comforters. Teens need clothing, journals (also for women), books, painting supplies, calculators, backpacks, skateboards, roller blades, baseballs, mitts and bats, and gift certificates would be greatly appreciated.

CAPUCHIN SOUP KITCHEN

Reyes isn't forgetting about the homeless dying on the streets or the children served by the Capuchin Soup Kitchen. He's collecting dolls, teddy bears and games - and proclaiming "no child will go without a toy this holiday season." The Capuchins are planning to deliver 18,000 of them beginning Dec. 21. If you can help call Reyes at (313) 579-2100, Ext. 203 by Tuesday, Dec. 17.

'We've seen an increase in the number of people because of cutbacks," said Reyes. "We serve people who are not emotionally or mentally healthy. Many living on the streets are mentally ill. There's no place for them to live. We lose people during these cold snaps. They die. They're on the streets and the coroner picks them up and no one knows."

Art student sells life and gets a book deal in the process

BY REED DUNN AP FEATURES

John Freyer keeps things around a little less these days. He still shops at University of Iowa Surplus every Thursday. He goes there to see the "$1 million lasers that sell for $100," but he takes few things home "My shopping's changed a little bit since the project," Freyer said.

The project the 29-year-old University of Iowa graduate student refers to is www.allmylifeforsale.com, an online art piece that used eBay to clear out 600 items from his personal inventory. It earned Frever international recognition and a book contract highlighting some of the items and updates gathered from visits he made to the new owners of his old stuff.

A 16-city book tour to promote All My Life for Sale began last month.

Freyer is taking the semester off from school to promote his book. He is a class short of earning his master's degree, and he plans to return to college after his tour ends.

The Web-based art project started after Freyer spent summer 2000 working in New York, where his friends were raking in cash building catalogue Web sites for Martha Stewart and J. Crew. Freyer was frustrated with his work at the university, which included continued updates to an online travelogue, and he wanted his own piece of the dot-com pie. He considered quitting school and starting over in New York, but he had too much stuff.

He tried to purchase domain names, including yardsale.com and garagesale.com, but everything seemed to be taken. Then he stumbled upon the availability of the allmylifeforsale site.

"It was the name that really solidified what the project would be," Freyer said. "The word 'all' is pretty large."

He had a site, but no plan. Freyer hosted an inventory party in his Iowa City apartment, where friends spent the entire night tagging items they thought best showcased the frustrated artist's personality. A toaster, ashtrays, T-shirts, stillwrapped Christmas gifts and taco shells were among piles that would be auctioned off using eBay and the allmylifeforsale site. A few friends even tagged themselves.

Once items went up for sale in December 2000, the project began spinning out of control. An international media frenzy surrounded the idea.

Allmylifeforsale garnered the attention of the New York Post, Good Morning America and dozens of other major media outlets in its first few months. "The only publicity I did for this was I sent out e-mail to my friends," Freyer said. His homegrown project soon was listed among cool sites to visit in publications all over the world, and allmylifeforsale.com quickly reached more than 1.5 million hits daily - three times the traffic successful, similar Web sites were getting at the time. "The content on my site really defined what the project was like," he said. It was a project of memories.

There were pictures of the items and short scripts about each item's significance. As the second-hand merchandise sold, Freyer asked the buyers to send updates. Those were posted online, too.

The early success of the project led Freyer to visit his former possessions and the people who owned them. In July 2001, he took test trips to some New York-area buyers. He first met Jenn, a woman from Maine who bought his salt shaker filled with HyVee salt.

"There was this amazing amount of trust that was going on," Freyer said.

It was evident the traveling portion of the project could be a success, too.

Freyer returned to Iowa City and prepared a journey to act on some 100 invitations he $6,000 from the auction, including $1,165 the University of Iowa Museum of Art paid for the domain name.

"By the end of the sale part, I was pretty excited about the travel," Freyer said. His previous work included the www.temporama.com travelogue, which he revitalized and updated through his visits for allmylifeforsale.

He traveled from state to state, meeting strangers. His white Honda Civic was packed only with the essentials, including a tent for lodging.

"In the end, most people had me stay in their house," Freyer said. He stayed in the tent only once, and if truth be told, it was at one of his last stops in Texas, and only because he had not staved outdoors during the entire trip.

While in Texas, Frever realized he had only $300 left in his pocket, so he decided to return to Iowa City.

"It was interesting to see the things from my life being incorporated into their lives," Freyer said. "The goal was to reflect on these objects. The reason we hold onto things is because of our attachment to them." Today, Freyer lives with his fiancée, whom he met at his inventory party. The few possessions he did not sell on eBay or at a highly successful garage received during his sale. He had sale are stored in the basements of his friends' homes and at the university.

Many of the items he sold via eBay are in Iowa City, too. Friend and adviser Margaret Stratton owns the famous green pants, which Freyer wore when the two met in Syracuse, N.Y.; a can of chunky soup; a shirt and the artist's defining eyeglasses. His dining table sold for $61 to Sasha Waters, his fiancée. It sits in the couple's Church Street home, along with some items Waters bought at the garage sale.

Freyer was uncertain about what was next once he returned to Iowa City from Texas in November 2001. He had a book to write, which he did mostly through six weeks of rewriting the content he already had posted online.

His personality is the same, two years after he put his toaster and two front teeth up for sale.

"My perspective on place has changed," Freyer said. "For the first time in my life, I've made a commitment to place.' Part of that is because of

he has grown to love Iowa City, where he used to get $1 beers any night of the week.

* B7

"It's a great place to live – even with the Foxhead making their drinks $1.25." Frever said.

The young artist continues to work following the secondhand theme. He most recently bought a 1977 ambulance - on eBay, of course - and traveled a portion of the country, filling the ambulance with goods from thrift stores along the threeweek route. The video-based project ended with a screening of clips from the short trip, and a sale of the objects gathered along the way.

"He has an idea every five minutes," Stratton said. "He's incredibly prolific and he works really hard.

The proof is in All My Life For Sale. Freyer designed the 210-page book cover to cover, a commitment that matches his work with the University of Iowa Center for the Book. With the print catalogue in stores, Freyer feels good about how the project is ending.

"This is a way to put a period

EATING OUT

Westland eatery specializes in barbecued ribs, family atmosphere

BY MARY QUINLEY CORRESPONDENT-

B8

Once or twice a week, Art Woodruff shows up at Alexander the Great for a meal. Some days, he eats alone. Other times, he shares lunch or dinner with a family member, friend or business client

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday, December 12, 2002

"I feel comfortable at Alexander's." said Woodruff of Westland, who has frequented the eatery for more than two decades. He enjoys the food and the friendly, family-style atmosphere.

"The ribs and the broasted chicken are my favorites," said Woodruff, who has sampled just about everything on the menu including the "awesome" corned beef sandwiches.

In 1977, Alexander the Great opened in Westland. This year marks the restaurant's 25th year in business.

"We specialize in barbecued ribs," said Pauline Tomovski, who is a coowner with her husband, Tom. The ribs, the most popular menu item, are trimmed, seasoned, cooked on a rotisserie pit and then served with a "secret" sauce.

Rib dinners come with coleslaw or salad, choice of potato and garlic bread. Portions are plentiful. Choose either a whole slab for two ($18.95), a whole slab for one ($16.95), a half slab ($13.95) or a snack size of five bones ($8.95).

Be sure to check local newspapers for coupons that offer rib dinners for two people for $14.95.

Combinations of barbecued ribs and chicken and/or shrimp are available. Depending on the combo, prices are either $14.95 or $15.95.

The Monday-through-Friday lunch crowd has an option to order from a special menu between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m.

People are surprised at how much food there is," said Tomovski, who updates the items on the lunch menu every few months.

A Reuben Grill, Chicken Tender Salad, Mostaccioli and Tuna Pasta are currently featured for $4.95. The $6.95 lunch specials are served with potatoes, coleslaw and garlic bread. Some of the choices are Fish and Chips, the Half Broasted Chicken and the BBQ Rib Snack.

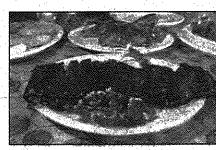

Appetizers include Shrimp Cocktail, Wingdings, Fried Pickles and Onion Rings. There are a variety of salads, several soup choices and a Kids' Klassics menu for the 10 and under customers.

A variety of seafood entrees, including Icelandic Cod, Breaded Shrimp, Broiled Cod and Orange Roughy, are available anytime. Meat lovers will find strip and rib eye steaks.

The Italian dishes of veal or chicken parmigiana, mostaccioli and spaghetti are accompanied by salad and garlic bread.

Looking for a gift idea for a special couple? Or perhaps you and your significant other need an evening out. Then consider Alexander's Moviegoers Special for $29.95.

The package provides dinner and a movie for two people.

Alexander's wait staff is taught to look at the customer's table and anticipate what the customer needs before he or she asks for it.

"The customer is the most important thing," said Tomovski. It's like entertaining at home, she said, "We feel that we provide that (at home) atmosphere."

Employee turnover is low. The reason for this, said Tomovski, is probably because she and her husband treat their employees like family.

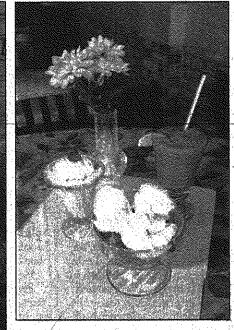

When the couple contemplated a name for their eatery they wanted to make reference to Tom's heritage in the Macedonia region.

So, they chose Alexander the Great, naming the restaurant after a conqueror that ruled as king of Macedonia more than three centuries

B.C. "We wanted to conquer the metro Detroit area appetites for barbecued ribs," said Tomovski.

Owning a restaurant came naturally to Tomovski. Her family has been involved in either the bakery or restaurant business. And, she said, her husband is a people person who likes to entertain. "What better place than a restaurant (for both of us) to work."

Holiday gifts for the decorating-obsessed

BY NICOLE STAFFORD STAFF WRITER

Home improvement and decorating are a job for some and a passion for others. Among the enthusiasts are the obsessed – those who live to rearrange, redecorate and rejuvenate.

The perfect holiday gift might be tuition for a degree in interior design or architecture. Short of that, there's a host of other – not to mention less expensive – resources and tools out there that amateur "professional designers" will adore.

They say learning is reading, so start at the bookstore. With current interest in home improvement and design at an all-time high, publishers are printing all sorts of decorating books from titles that cover the fundamentals like Christopher Lowell's Seven Layers of Design ($29.95, Clarkson Potter) to texts that explore particular trends and decorating styles like French Influences by Betty Lou Phillips ($39.95, Gibbs Smith).

Among those selling well at Borders are two other books by Betty Lou Phillips: French by Design ($39.95, Gibbs Smith) and Villa Decor: Decidedly French and Italian Style ($39.95, Gibbs Smith).

Other specialty home design books on Borders' best-selling lists are Bungalows by Louis Wasserman and Caren Connolly ($29.95, Taunton Press) and Cabin by Dale Mulfinger and Susan Davis ($34.95, Taunton Press).

Destined to become a classic is the New Decorating Book from Better Homes & Gardens ($24.95, Meredith), according to Borders' home decorating book buyer.

A timeless classic not on Borders' lists but worthy of consideration is Studies in Design ($45, Gibbs Smith) by Warriner, an Orchard Lake resident. "I got tired of keeping (cards) in cardboard boxes and drawers and things."

The patented albums display the covers and interiors of the cards in acid-free storage pages with clear plastic pockets. The cards slip into the pockets, which hold the cards in a way that allows them to be opened and read without being removed from the album.

Tab dividers are also included so the albums can be organized into separate sections.

Warriner gained a patent for the idea in 1998, while the album prototype was created in 2001. She has found the public's response enthusiastic.

"People are thrilled to have a way to preserve their cards," said Warriner, a field hockey coach at Cranbrook. "(The albums) are for any event — graduations, weddings, baby showers, birthdays."

The albums are available in two sizes: "Classic," 10 by 10 inches, with a capacity for more than 20 cards; and "Ultra," 10 by 19 inches, able to hold more than 40 cards.

The covers come in a variety of styles, including fabric, handpainted and with a holiday theme. Among the patterns are fruit, solid colors, animal prints and floral. Warriner is the artist who designs the covers.

Tips help avoid returns nightmare after holidays

RV ALICE RHEIN CORRESPONDENT

C2 *

Perhaps it comes as no surprise that out of five major department store retailers contacted to ask about return policies, only one (Marshall Field's) returned the call.

Stores are in business to sell merchandise, not receive it. Yet who hasn't gotten a holiday gift that was the wrong size, color or style?

And how about the horror stories of trying to return something? Everyone has one. There are tales of long lines, surly service, evil exchange policies and the dreaded "I'll have to get the manager."

There's even an Internet site called PlanetFeedback.com, a division of Intelliseek Inc., devoted to tracking customer complaints in an effort to help larger companies use the feedback to improve their bottom line. Enter in a company's name, and a list of letters pop up, many wrought with emotion.

But what about holiday gifts? There used to be the thought that if you returned items after the holiday, a store's return policy was a little more liberal. But don't count on it in this competitive market. Theft - or "shrinkage," as it is called in retail - is a milliondollar business. And unfortunately, it does affect us all. A return/exchange policy is just another way that stores try to control shrinkage, though it sometimes does little to help customer satisfaction.

SUGGESTIONS

When shopping this season consider these suggestions about gift returns:

Every department store and Internet site has a different return policy, so be aware of it before you buy.

And don't assume that the sales clerk who helps you at checkout knows the return policy. It may be his or her first day working as a temp to get a few extra bucks for the holidays.

It's better to ask at customer service, or check out a store's Web site, where return policies are generally posted..(Look under HELP if it isn't posted on the home page.)

If you take advantage of early sales, be aware that some companies have a 90 day or shorter return policy, even if it's a holiday gift.

Don't know someone's size or taste? Consider getting a gift certificate instead. Stores of every size and variety carry them these days, and it always fits.

While you might think it's somewhat impersonal, the person who won't have to return that awful pink ruffled shirt will thank you. Now everyone is happy.

Always get a gift receipt and tape it to the gift. Many stores, like Target, print them for everything, even when you're just stocking up on paper products. But if you don't get one, ask.

Keep in mind that if you pay for something on your credit card, a gift receipt doesn't guarantee that you, the receiver of the gift, will get what you want. Some stores will only credit the card back and not give a refund. You can usually exchange the item you brought in, but don't expect to get cash back.

If you lose a receipt for something you bought on a credit card, a call to the credit card holder can usually produce a receipt. Many stores, like Circuit City, keep track of purchases in their computer.

are impossible to return or exchange if opened, but can often be exchanged for the same item.

If a software purchase isn't compatible with your computer, you'll have to return it to the company with your receipt. It takes a while, and costs you the postage, but generally, you do get a refund.

Check your receipt before you leave the store. There are occasions when items are the correct price, but labeled wrong. When you try to return it, you'll run into trouble if the item title or SKU number don't match.

Try to keep your cool and don't bark at the person behind the counter. Otherwise you'll look like a jerk regardless of how right you might be. Ask for a manager and keep your remarks professional and courteous.

If you order items online and need to return them, you are stuck with the shipping cost. Period. If it was a mistake on the retailer's part (the wrong size or item sent), you can negotiate a refund, or ask to have a prepaid refund label sent, but otherwise, you pay shipping.

Music, DVDs and software SMALLER RETAILERS

Of course, a lot of return/exchange nightmares can be avoided by shopping at smaller retailers.

"We try to take away the frustration that's at the bigstores," said Bob Benkert, owner of the Claymore Shop in Birmingham. "That way, they'll keep coming back."

Benkert says that, as it is with many independent stores, the Claymore Shop return policy is fairly open.

"Most of our customers we've known for a long time, and if they return something, we try to replace it with something they like," he said. "We try to stay away from cash refunds, but we're open about

Larry Loiselle, owner of the Livonia Schwinn Bicycle and Fitness Center, says most small retailers have a point of view about returns different from that of the big stores.

"On the front end, we take more time to ask questions and get you what you want," he said. "The larger stores aren't in business to do that. It's all about sales."

While returns aren't something any store likes to do,

Loiselle says that he'll work with the customer to try to get the right item, or give a refund within a reasonable amount of time.

"A happy rider is a much better advertisement," he said.

Even for high ticket items like jewelry, independent store owners establish a relationship and a trust with the customer.

"Often the first question that comes out of the mouth is, 'Can it be returned?' " said Gary Astrein, owner of Astrein's Creative Jewelers in Birmingham.

Astrein says he gets about the same amount of return/exchanges a year, and he's pretty liberal about his return policy.

"We want people to be pleased," he said.

Indeed, there is something to be said about the pleasures of good customer service.

While you might get good bargains at the superstores, you establish a relationship with a small store owner. And when it comes to getting just what you want, you're more likely to have happy returns with someone you know.

Design build popular remodeling trend

One of the latest trends in the remodeling industry has been design build, especially for major remodels like kitchens, baths and room additions.

"Design build means homeowners work with remodelers to create projects to fit their budget and meet their needs," said Adam Helfman, president an and share a new second second gradients to the of Fairway Construction of Southfield, one of the local companies offering design build services.

"Good communication between the homeowner and remodeler is the essence of a successful project and design build gets that in place up front.

Typically, when homeowners want to remodel, they get a few bids. They may end up with very different bids because each remodeler proposes different ways to do the project, making it difficult to compare. With design build, the customer usually uses the remodeler to complete the job since the relationship has been developed. There is usually a design fee. Design build promotes cohesive design and customer satisfaction. Remodeling has been increasingly popular because many people would rather stay in their existing neighborhoods and people are buying older homes that need renovation.

Be sure everyone in the house knows where the main shutoffs for water, electricity and gas are.

The electricity shutoff is usually in the panel (fuse/breaker box) but there may be a dedicated main away from the panel. Look for the electric meter outside the house. The main will be close to that point, inside the home. The gas shutoff i

In any disaster, irreplaceable items can be lost. Proper storage such as a safe or safety deposit box will minimize this loss to some of these items. We have insurance for those that are replaceable.

Appliance Doctor: When the dish-rack is made at the factory it is steel which is dipped into a large vat of the soft rubbery material which coats it and gives you a soft cushion for placing the dishes in.

Items placed inside a dishwasher should never have chips or cracks on edges because they can wear off the rubber coating. Eventually you will have bare spots all the way down to the steel wire rack and this can create marks on your dishes and fine china.

Local parts stores carry a dishwater repair rack product that comes in a little bottle with an applicator. Apply this product on the damaged part of the rack. Make sure you take an emery board or a piece of fine sandpaper and clean off the area first. Wipe it clean and away you go. Stay tuned.

Rockettes show was better than a nap

y 12-year-old niece, Hope, is a dancer, so in keeping with my "Uncle Bradley" persona, I have to maintain some semblance of interest in the things which hold a spark for my nieces.

Still, I was expecting nothing more than a twohour nap Friday night when Lisa and I headed downtown to the Fox Theatre for the "Radio City Christmas Spectacular" featuring those noted dancers, the Rockettes.

Despite Hope's assertion that the Rockettes are the pinnacle - the delirious young lady got to dance with them at an Eastland Center appearance - of the dance world, I wasn't really expecting much. We were actually on hand to listen to the daughter of a friend sing with her high school choir prior to the performance. Ashlee Boyer-Shaw and her choir-mates sang Christmas carols on the steps leading from the Fox lobby into the seating area, and they were wonderful.

To be honest, I didn't expect much from the rest of the evening. After all, how long can you watch two dozen women kicking their legs in a straight line? The actual show didn't hold a

BY DIANE HANSON CORRESPONDENT

Becoming a nun was the furthest thing from Dana Becker's mind. The 38-year-old New Yorker was a successful Park Avenue lawyer and always thought she would marry and have a family.

"I liked my life the way it was," she said. "There was just one thing that was missing."

Dana found the missing link and, just weeks ago, joined the Dominican Sisters of Mary, Mother of the Eucharist in Ann Arbor.

"This is heaven on earth," she said. For Ann Klein, thoughts turned to the possibility of becoming a nun at a very young age.

Home-schooled and one of 10 children in a devout Catholic family, Ann began nursing studies at Madonna University at the age of 15. Gathering information on the Felician sisters there for a friend who was discerning a vocation, Ann found herself drawn to the

RELIGIOUS RESURGENCE

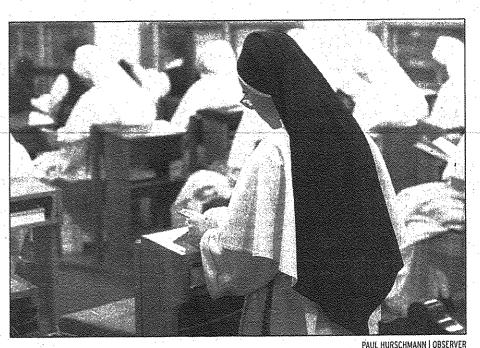

After a 40-year dearth in vocations, these women are part of a renewed and growing interest in religious life that has become evident locally in recent years.

Ubserver Life

And nowhere has it become more evident than in a new Dominican order in Ann Arbor, undoubtedly one of the fastest-growing orders in the United States.

The Sisters of Mary, Mother of the Eucharist was established in New York in 1997. The four founding sisters came to Ann Arbor that same year at the request of the Lansing bishop to staff and administer the Spiritus Sanctus academies, begun by Domino's Pizza founder Thomas Monaghan. There are now four of the K-through-eighth-grade schools, including one in Plymouth Township.

It wasn't long before the smiling sisters in their flowing white habits began to attract attention and new members. The growing community moved into a new 28-room motherhouse on Warren Road in Ann Arbor, February 1998.

whole lot of interest for me. Until it started.

The Rockettes themselves didn't participate in the opening number. Instead, young dancers soared across the stage in an entertaining number designed to get the show off to a rollicking start, which it did. The Rockettes then came out to the second song, and I thought to myself, "NOW we're talkin."

Apparently I think out loud, because several of the men in the audience around me started laughing, at least one admitting that he'd been thinking the same thing.

Going in, I figured I'd at least enjoy the Rockettes for the pretty standard reasons most males would enjoy them – they're very pretty, they have great legs, and there are a lot of them.

Watching them for the first 10 seconds convinced me of something else: They're extraordinarily talented. And the show was a lot of fun.

According to information in the program, the Radio City Christmas Spectacular dates back to 1933, when Radio City Music Hall began presenting 20-minute holiday stage shows with feature films. It changed in 1979, when Robert Jani created the live, 90-minute show.

The show at the Fox featured upbeat, standard holiday fare. There was a "Nutcracker" sequence, where a little girl dances with life-size Teddy Bears. "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" was an exercise in precision, with more than a dozen soldiers moving in complete harmony and synchronization.

That's the part that amazed me – the precision. I know their reputation is based on it, but watching it on television and seeing it in person provide two different realities.

My niece aspires to be a professional dancer and, at 12, she's allowed her dreams. She's already in "The Nutcracker" with the order. ne

"I knew that I wanted to enter a community with Eucharistic Adoration, a strong devotion to Mary, and complete allegiance to the church," she said. "Plus, I loved the Felicians' Franciscan spirit."

Two years ago, at the age of 17, Ann entered the Felicians' Livonia Province and is now novice Sister Clare Marie.

Sister Jackie Laster, a temporary professed, and Rose Nickson, a candidate, are both African-American grandmothers in their 50s who have been divorced and received annulments. With a strong desire to serve the poor, they are the newest members of the Sisters of Mercy, headquartered in Farmington Hills. "By spring 1999 it was too small," said Sister Joseph Andrew Bogdanowicz, one of the founding members and vocations director for the community. "We consider it quite miraculous."

With the addition of the seven new postulants in September, the sisters now number 38 and are bursting at their residential seams. Plans are in the works to build a new 100-room motherhouse.

"We need to make the house about three times the size of the one we are in now," said Sister Joseph Andrew. "My email is flooded daily with women inquiring about religious life and we will be at 100 in no time." The sisters also offer several retreats each year – a 24-hour, no-frills campout on a school gym floor with the sisters there to pray with and answer questions.

It was at just such a retreat that Sister Teresa Benedicta, 22, knew she had come home. Becoming a sister was not even on her radar screen while growing up in New Mexico.

"I always wanted to get married and I was going to have lots of kids and home school them, just like my mom," she said.

She was 17 and attending a Dominican retreat in Nashville before she saw a nun in a habit for the first time.

"It was also the first time that I had seen sisters who were young and happy, she admitted. "It made such an impression on me. I thought: That's what I want to be."

Nineteen when she entered the convent three years ago, she took her first profession of vows in June.

NEW GROWTH

Sister Mary DeSales Herman, vocations director for the Felician Sisters of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary Province in Livonia, remembers when vocations were abundant. She had just graduated from high school and was one of 13 who entered on Sept. 8, 1948.

"My desire to become a sister grew from the sisters who taught me," she said. The sisters' joyful warmth and caring inspired many young women, and classes often numbered 25 to 30, recalled Sister DeSales.

Novice and Postulant Director Sister Mary Anita Marie Louise Taddonio said there were some 800 Sisters in the Livonia Province in the 1960s. Now there are about 215 - 100 sisters at the motherhouse, including about 50 in the infirmary, and another 115 out in the community.

"But we have consistently had new vocations almost every year in our province," she said. "This year there are two new postulants."

And eight women from various walks of life ranging from the ages of 20 to in their 40s recently came to the Felician motherhouse for a discernment weekend.

"I haven't met one sister here who doesn't love her vocation," said Sister Mary Veronica Golbinec, 48, and a firstyear novice with the order. "That joy just seeps out of the walls."

She had fallen away from the church after briefly belonging to the Sisters of Notre Dame in Toledo 30 years earlier,

Canton woman hits a 'Fork in the Road'

PAUL HURSCHMANN | OBSERVER

BY JACK GLADDEN STAFF WRITER

For Sharon March of Canton, her Fork in the Road came in 2000 when she was diagnosed with breast cancer.

"I'd been sick for two years before I got diagnosed," she said. "I went to a lot of doctors and nobody could figure out what was wrong with me."

When the diagnosis was finally made, March had a double mastectomy and went through chemotherapy and radiation treatments. The experience led her to realize that there is much in life to learn and to celebrate – and she set about to bring people from diverse backgrounds together in a common setting to discuss and share their various beliefs and views.

play a hand of Liverpool Rummy in the recreation room at the Dominican convent in Ann Arbor.

She took some yoga classes and she, her yoga instructor and her friend, Maria Broxholm of Plymouth, would meet for just such discussions.

"At first, we'd meet at my company in Westland," she said.

She and her husband, Craig, own March Performance Manufacturing Co., which makes pulleys for high-performance cars.

But she wanted to expand the meetings to include more people and she needed a name and a meeting place for the group.

One day, while driving down Canton Center Road where Canton Center and Sheldon Center branch off, she got her inspiration.

"There was a fork in the road," she said. "And I said, "That's it, Fork in the Road." The name was born and she, Broxholm and friend Kathy Perryman of Canton filed papers with the state to incorporate Fork in the Road as a nonprofit organization.

"The element to the Fork in the Road was that I had a lot of friends from different backgrounds – Shamans, Muslims, Jews, Jesuit Catholics, Methodists," March said. "We have all learned lessons in life that we can bring to the Fork in the Road and share with other people."

productive life as a registered nurse and business owner. "I had total independence, a very good job, a beautiful apartment and car – all the stuff that you would think would make anybody happy," she said. "But there was something missing really big time. Number one – it was God."

In awe of how God has worked in her life, Sister Veronica began to reconsider a religious vocation and joined the Felicians in January.

The two new postulants are Deborah Ambrose, 41, and Meghan Madigan, 28.

Deborah was also a fallenaway Catholic who experienced a spiritual reawakening in her life, and Meghan came from a devout Catholic family of eight.

"The hospitality and the warmth and the invitation of the Felicians drew me in," said Deborah. "It is like being carried along in this warm current of love."

For both the novices and the postulants wearing a habit was a priority. While an option for Felicians, the Livonia Province has decided to wear the habit as much as possible "because it is a sign, a great witness," said Sister DeSales, adding, "but it is not the habit that makes the religious, it is the vows."

NO HABITS

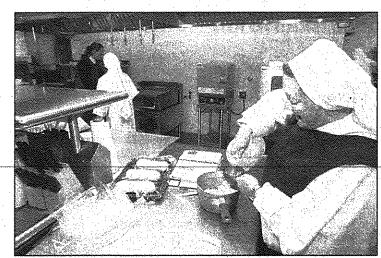

The Sisters of Mercy in Farmington Hills haven't worn habits for decades, although some of the older sisters still wear them, and the absence of habits has presented some challenges.

"Back in the early 60s there were thousands of sisters," said Sister Mary Ellen, the vocation minister for the Regional Community of Detroit and the Regional Community of Cincinnati. Now the Detroit area has 241 sisters with two temporary professed and one candidate (postulant).

"That's one of our biggest problems," she said. "There are fewer sisters in education and in hospitals, so our visibility is a little more of a challenge. And not wearing the habits, we're not as visible as we used to be."

They are working on more visible signs, she said, including wearing the special Mercy cross.

The Mercy Sisters take four vows. Along with poverty, chastity and obedience, they take an additional vow of service "because we are an apostolic community and our main charism is to serve the poor," she said.

Sister Mary Ellen specifically targets her vocations work toward young women 18 to 35, but one of the phenomena she has noticed is that there is a whole group of women that "we're not seeking, but are seeking us," she said. Those are the women from 36 to in their 50s. Another recent development, she said, "seems to be a trend with high school and college kids very seriously looking at religious life. We haven't had that happen for quite a while. They're very interested in service and community living and they have a desire for deeper spirituality."

Right now Sister Mary Ellen is maintaining contact with about 20 of those young women and has recently set up a chat room, by invitation only, called "Meet the Sisters of Mercy."

It appears that the recent difficulties faced by the Catholic Church haven't put a damper on religious vocations. People frequently ask Sister Joseph Andrew of the Sisters of Mary, Mother of the Eucharist if it has affected vocations in her order. She answers: "You're not kidding! If I thought I was busy before, now I'm really busy. The youth have come back with a stronger-than-ever determination. I just think God works in a way man can't figure out, and He's going to bring good out of anything."

Kathy Perryman, left, and Sharon March discuss the Fork in the Road group in the living room of March's Canton home.

The discussions can be about anything anyone wants to talk about.

In a brochure announcing the next meeting, March explained the idea:

"We don't care what your religious or ethnic background is," she wrote, "because the more diverse the better. We meet at public libraries and the only thing we ask is that during the meetings everyone keeps it simple and leaves their ego outside the door."

The first meeting was held at the Canton Public Library in October with about 25 people attending.

"There was one couple at our first meeting," Perryman said, "and the husband said he was just an observer, not a talker. Then something was said about fishing and Sharon said, 'We can talk about fishing and camping. That's a good topic.""

March said the man went on and on about his fishing hobby, being alone with his thoughts and meditating while befored. After the did cussion ended, he said, "This is the most I've talked in 15 years."

And that's the idea of the sessions, according to March, who's a Buddhist.

"It's to share ideas and ponder the possibilities of life," March said. "It's not a religious thing per se, but we're not afraid to discuss that. In Buddhism, it's called 'being in the moment."

March, who was born and baptized Episcopalian, said she's always been a Buddhist, she just didn't know it until about four years ago.

EASTERN PHILOSOPHY

"I started dabbling in the Eastern philosophy," she said. "The teachings are the way I have lived my life. When I was young we went to church but I was never connected with it. It didn't give you the opportunity to express your free mind. I think everybody should celebrate everybody's beliefs." She stressed that the group is not trying to convert anyone to anything and is not interested in money. There are no dues.

PAUL HURSCHMANN | OBSERVER

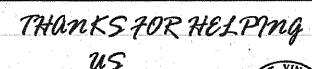

And the idea for meeting in libraries was to find a mutual meeting ground where everyone would feel welcome.

"I could go downtown in the inner city and go into the library and feel welcome and like I belong," she said. "Especially in Canton, we have a wide variety of people with different beliefs."

Fork in the Road met Dec. 11 at the Canton Library with the next meeting scheduled for 7-8:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 23, at the Dunning Room of the Plymouth District Library.

Anyone interested in joining or wishing more information can contact March at (734) 812-6863.

Capuchin Soup Kitchen needs toys Holiday shopping is difficu

Talk

Carrie

Tynan

The Capuchin Soup Kitchen needs help from Santa, lots of Santas, to make this year's Capuchin Christmas Toy Program a success. Its goal is to assist approximately 1,200 families by collecting an assortment of toys appropriate for children ages infant through 12.

Through the generous donations of many area businesses, churches and individuals, the Capuchins last year brightened Christmas for 1,150 qualifying families with food baskets. In addition, new and gently used toys were distributed to over 6,000 children. Is there a better way to celebrate the true spirit of the season than by making a child smile, ask program organizers.

Toy donations are currently being accepted. Distribution of toys and food will take place 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dec. 18 through Dec. 20 each day at the Capuchin Service Center, 6333 Medbury (off Mt. Elliott), Detroit. To arrange a pick-up, call (313) 925-1370, Ext. 100.

For information on how to donate to the Capuchin Christmas Toy Program, contact Brother Rick Samyn at (313) 579-2100, Ext. 211. Last week's newspaper ran an incorrect phone number, we regret any inconvenience.

New weight fitness center opens

A Texas-based ladies-only nutritional weight-loss and fitness franchise with over 100 centers in the western United States is coming to Livonia on Monday, Dec. 9, with the grand opening of Slender Lady, 32626 Seven Mile, in the Loveland Plaza.

Owner Laurianne Pressotto of Livonia is opening the first Slender Lady in Michigan.

"The goal of our company is to make a difference in our members lives by giving them a vehicle to fight obesity, high blood pressure, diabetes, fibermyalgia, depression and hormonal imbalances - all things that can be controlled by proper nutrition and exercise," she said.

Members of Slender Lady get a complete package called the of one-on-one nutritional counseling and a 30-minute circuit workout designed specifically for women.

The workout involves the use of eight hydraulic resistance machines designed to develop longer, leaner muscles, and women can "burn up to 650 calories a workout," said Pressotto.

According to Pressotto, the nutrition part of the program was authored by Dr. Georgia Kostas, director of the Cooper Clinic in Dallas, Texas, and President George Bush's private physician.

"Our program is designed to fit all women in all shapes and sizes," said Pressotto. "Our ladies lose an average of two pounds or more of body fat a "Balancing Act," which consists week and better than 92 percent of our members stay with us after their first year."

Pressotto considers herself fortunate to open a business in a community where she grew up, went to school, and is raising her own children.

"I have always been a people person, and my role has always been of a care-giving nature. I feel so blessed that I have found something that allows me to benefit others and to fulfill my own needs.... I am so proud to open my very first business in this great city, and I hope this will only be the beginning of a long and successful career with Slender Lady."

Doors open at 8 a.m. Monday, Dec. 9. For more information, call (248) 888-9960.

ven though holiday shopping can be fun, it can be very stressful for people with disabilities. Wheel chairbound people face barriers in stores and malls. Hearing impaired and deaf individuals deal with communication issues. I face several challenges with holiday shopping, such as noise Disability confusion in noisy stores. Plus I only buy what I can carry if shopping alone.

I usually go shopping first thing in the morning to avoid the crowds. It is easier to communicate and shop in less crowded places. I also shop with family and friends, who help me with packages, read price tags and communicate with sales associates. I always feel very comfortable with asking for help when I need it.

Under the American Disabilities Act public buildings must have necessary accessibility to meet the needs of the disabled. They must have automatic doors and ramps, and stores - including bathrooms must be equipped for wheel chair use.

Also many malls have valet services, and many department stores offer special services. Parisian has a personal shopper service where customers can call and give a list of needed items or make an appointment. Customers can come in to view and buy the merchandise, pick up their purchases, or have them shipped. Parisian also offers customers the choice of charging for items over the phone and having the purchases shipped by United Parcel services at a reasonable price. It has been my experience that the associates are always very willing to help customers with their shopping needs.

Marshal Fields offers personal shoppers and shipping services to customers. Last March they started a program called Field Express. Customers can make an appointment to receive one-on-one help with shopping. Both stores also offer gift-wrapping services at a charge for people like me who have difficulty wrapping presents. There are alternative methods to shopping the malls. Catalog shopping is convenient, but always read the small print about taxes, shipping and returns. The Internet also has a variety of shopping sites. Shopping on the Internet offers many benefits, such as easy-toread product information and time to browse different merchants without the hassle of noisy, crowded stores.

Unfortunately, there are several scams on the Web, such as "free for a price" deals and getrich schemes. But as long as you follow safety guidelines you will have a good shopping experience.

* . C7

Before shopping at any Web site check its reliability with the Better Business Bureau. If it is not listed as a satisfactory member do not bother to browse. Check the Web site for a contact address and phone number in case a problem arises. Always read the customer satisfaction policies regarding returns and refunds, and note the shipping charges and delivery schedules before making an order. Use a secure site with a privacy agreement to ensure your protection, and make printed copies of all transitions. I recommend shopping at are amazon.com and yahoo.com. Both sites are very trustworthy and easy to navigate. The customer reviews of products are very helpful, and I feel safe visiting the sites.

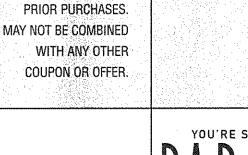

Holiday shopping should be about giving to people we love not being stressed out.

Throwing Stones....

The old saying that "people in glass houses shouldn't throw stones" is a picturesque way of saying that people shouldn't judge others for sins which they themselves are guilty of. This is the proverbial "pot calling the kettle black." It reminds us of Jesus' advice to take the log-out of your own eye before trying to remove the speck from your brother's eye (Matthew 7:4). We often seem to have a blind spot for our own sins, though we usually are quite aware of these same sins in our neighbors. Again and again, Jesus tells us to "Judge not," that you be not judged" (Matthew 7:1). Perhaps one of the most memorable examples of this in the Bible, is when a crowd brings to Jesus a woman who had been caught in the act of adultery. They put Jesus on the spot by saying that "in the law Moses commanded us to stone such. What do you say about her?" (John 8:5). Jesus' response is simple and beautifully compassionate: "Let him who is without sin among you be the first to throw a stone at her" (John 8:7). One by one, they went away, leaving no one to condemn her. Ultimate judgment is reserved for God alone, and while God was here on earth in the form of Jesus, He reserved his harshest wisdom for those who were hypocritically judgmental.

For with the judgment you pronounce you will be judged, and the measure you give with be the measure you get. R.S.V. Matthew 7:2

The following preamble and resolution were offered by Trustee McLaughlin and supported by Trustee LaJoy: WHEREAS, the Charter Township of Canton, County of Wayne, State of Michigan (the "Township") has determined to issue and sell bonds, in an amount not to exceed Fifteen Million Dollars ($15,000,000) for the

(A) It is unlawful for any minor under the age of sixteen (16) years, who is enrolled in a public or private educational program to be absent from school and found in a public place, as defined in subsection (B) of this section, unless the minor has one of the valid excuses specified in subsection (C) of this section. [amend eff 12/05/021

(B) For purposes of subsection (A) of this section, a minor is absent from school and found in a public place if said minor is found loitering, idling, wandering, strolling, playing, or aimlessly driving or riding about in or upon any public street, avenue, highway, road, curb area, alley, park, playground, or other public ground, public places or public building, place of amusement or eating place, vacant lot or unsupervised place, or any place open to the public during the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. of the same day when said minor's school is in session.

(C) The provisions of subsection (A) of this section shall not apply under the following:

1) The minor has in his or her possession a written excuse from the minor's parent(s), legal guardian(s), or other adult person(s) having the legal care or custody of said minor; 2) The minor is accompanied by his or her parent(s), legal guardian(s) or other adult person(s) having the legal care or custody of the minor; 3) The minor is on an emergency errand directed by his or her parent(s), legal guardian(s) or other adult person(s) having legal care or custody of the minor; 4) The minor is going directly to, or returning directly from, a medical appointment; 5) The minor has permission to leave campus and has in his or her possession a valid, school issued, off-campus permit; 6) The minor is going directly to, or returning directly from, a public meeting or a place of entertainment, such as a movie, play, sporting event, dance or school activity provided such meeting, event or activity is a school-approved activity for the minor or is otherwise supervised by school personnel of the minor's school; 7) The presence of the minor in said place or places is connected with, or required by, a school-approved or school-related business, trade, profession or occupation in which said minor is lawfully engaged; 8) The minor has graduated from high school or has fulfilled all requirements for high school graduation; or 9) The minor is in attendance at religious instruction classes in accordance with MCL 380.1561(3)(d). 10) The child is being educated in an organized educational program at the child's home by his or her parent or legal guardian in accordance with the Revised School Code, Public Act 451 of 1976, as amended.

(D) Violation of subsection (A) of this section shall constitute a misdemeanor punishable by a fine in the amount of fifty dollars ($50.00) for a first offense and one hundred dollars ($100.00) for a second or subsequent offense during the same calendar year, and or imprisonment for not more than ninety (90) days. The court may set aside the fine and/or imprisonment, or any portion thereof, if the fine is based on the minor's first infraction under this section and the minor produces proof satisfactory to the court that the minor has had no prior unexcused absences from school. (Ord 156(A) amend eff. 10/17/02)

SECTION 3. ENFORCEMENT PROCEDURE; PARENTAL OBLIGATIONS. (A) A minor cited for a violation under this Ordinance shall attend a court hearing and must be accompanied at the hearing by his or her parent(s), legal guardian(s), or other adult person(s) having the legal care or custody of the minor. (B) It is the obligation of the parent(s), legal guardian(s), or other adult person(s) having the legal care or custody of the minor, upon receiving notification from the court or the township, to attend any court hearing as described in subsection (A) above. Failure to so attend upon notification shall be a misdemeanor. (C) It is the obligation of the parent(s), legal guardian(s), or other adult person(s) having the legal care or custody of the minor, to ensure and monitor the school attendance of the minor as required by State Law.

Failure to do so shall be a misdemeanor. SECTION 4. VIOLATION AND PENALTY. Unless otherwise provided, any person, corporation, partnership or any other legal entity who violates the provisions of this Ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and may be fined not more than Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars or imprisoned for not more than ninety (90) days, or both, at the discretion of the Court. SECTION 5. REPEAL. All Ordinances or parts of Ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance, except as herein provided, are hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this Ordinance full force and effect.

SECTION 6. SEVERABILITY. If any section, subsection, clause, phrase or portion of this Ordinance is for any reason held invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed a separate, distinct and independent provision, and such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portion thereof.

SECTION 7. SAVINGS CLAUSE. The repeal or amendment herein shall not abrogate or affect any offense or act committed or done, or any penalty or forfeiture incurred, or any pending litigation or prosecution of any right established or occurring prior to the effective date of this Ordinance, as amended.

SECTION 8. PUBLICATION. The Clerk for the Charter Township of Canton shall cause this Ordinance to be published in the manner required by law.

SECTION 9. EFFECTIVE DATE. This Ordinance shall take full force and effect upon publication. CERTIFICATION

The foregoing Ordinance was duly adopted by the Township Board Trustees of the Charter Township of Canton at its regular meeting called and held on the ------, 2002, and was ordered to be given publication in the manner required by law.

purpose of paying part of the cost of acquiring and constructing certain public improvements respecting the Township's Administration Building (the "Project"); and

WHEREAS, Township intends, at this time to state its intentions to be reimbursed from proceeds of the bonds for any expenditures undertaken by the Township for the Project prior to issuance of the bonds. NOW. THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT:

The Township makes the following declarations for the purpose of complying with the reimbursement rules of Treas. Reg. B 1,150-2 pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended:

(a) As of the date hereof, the Township reasonably expects to reimburse the itself for the expenditures described in (b) below with proceeds of debt to be incurred by the Township.

(b) The expenditures described in this paragraph (b) are for the costs of acquiring and constructing the Project together with appurtenances and attachments thereto to serve the Township which were or will be paid subsequent to six months prior to the date hereof.

(c) The maximum principal amount of debt to be issued for the Project, including issuance costs, is presently estimated not to exceed $15,000,000.

(d) A reimbursement allocation of the expenditures described in (b) above with the proceeds of the borrowing described herein will occur not later than 18 months after the later of (i) the date on which the expenditure is paid, or (ii) the date the Project is placed in service or abandoned, but in no event more than three (3) years after the original expenditure is paid. A reimbursement allocation is an allocation in writing that evidences the Township's use of the proceeds of the debt to be issued for the Project to reimburse the Township for a capital expenditure made pursuant to this Resolution.

(e) The expenditures described in (b) above are "capital expenditures" as defined in Treas. Reg. B1.150-1(b), which are any costs of a type which are properly chargeable to a capital account (or would be so chargeable with a proper election or with the application of the definition of placed in service under Treas. Reg. 8 1.150-2(c)) under general Federal income tax principles (as determined at the time the expenditure is paid).

(f) No proceeds of the borrowing paid to the Township in reimbursement pursuant to this Resolution will be used in a manner described in Treas. Reg. B1.1502(b) with respect to abusive uses of such proceeds, including, but not limited to, using funds corresponding to the proceeds of the borrowing in a manner that results in the creation of replacement proceeds (within Treas. Reg. § 1.148-1) within one year of the reimbursement allocation described in (d) above.

(g) Expenditures for the Project to be reimbursed for the proceeds of the borrowing for purposes of this Resolution do not include costs for the issuance of the debt or an amount not in excess of the lesser of $100,000 or 5 percent of the proceeds of the borrowing, or preliminary expenditure not exceeding twenty (20) percent of the issue price of the borrowing, within the meaning of Treas. Reg. B 1.150-2(f) (such preliminary expenditures include architectural, engineering, surveying, soil testing and similar costs incurred prior to construction of the Project, but do not include land acquisition, site preparation, and similar costs incident to commencement of construction).

2. All resolutions and parts of resolutions insofar as they conflict with the provisions of this resolution be and the same hereby are rescinded.

ORDINANCE NO. 156 (B) TRUANCY ORDINANCE (amended effective 10/17/02; amend eff. 12/05/02

AN ORDINANCE PROHIBITING MINORS FROM BEING TRUANT FROM SCHOOL IN PUBLIC PLACES; PROVIDING FOR DEFINITIONS; PROVIDING FOR EXCEPTIONS; PROVIDING FOR ENFORCEMENT PROCEDURES, HEARINGS AND PARENTAL OBLIGATIONS; PROVIDING FOR PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATIONS THEREOF; PROVIDING FOR SEVERABILITY OF INVALID SECTIONS; PROVIDING FOR REPEAL OF INCONSISTENT ORDINANCES; PROVID-ING FOR PUBLICATION AND EFFECTIVE DATE.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. TRUANCY. The Township Board finds, determines and declares as follows:

There has been a general increase in crimes committed by juveniles in the Southeastern Michigan area. as well as throughout the nation. The increase in juvenile criminal activity is partly attributable to an increase in the juvenile truancy rate. School attendance is mandated by State Law until a minor reaches the age of sixteen (16) years. The Charter Township of Canton has been adversely affected by both the increase in juvenile crime and the increase in juvenile truancy. This Ordinance is designed to address truancy by minor students in public places. [amend eff 12/05/02]

SECTION 2. TRUANCY IN A PUBLIC PLACE; MINOR; EXCEPTIONS.

Item 8. Motion by McLaughlin supported by Burdziak to approve the resolution authorizing submission of a Historic Preservation Fund grant application for the research and writing of a manual/resource guide for the preservation of historic cemeteries in southeastern Michigan; and further authorize a grant match of $5,000 from the General Fund. Motion carried by all members present.

Item 9. Motion by McLaughlin supported by Shefferly to approve the 2003 Specialized Services Operating Assistance Program contract with SMART in the amount of $29,568. Motion carried by all members present.

Item 10. Motion by McLaughlin supported by Burdziak to approve the resolution authorizing the Township Clerk to publish a notice of intent to issue 2003 General Obligation Capital Improvement bonds not to exceed Eight Million Dollars ($8,000,000) for the purpose of paying part of the cost of acquiring and constructing certain capital improvement items related to the Township's Performing Arts Theater Building project. Motion carried by all members present.

NOTICE OF INTENT RESOLUTION

Hospital gathers harvest for needy

As many of Michigan's residents continue to suffer from the effects of hunger, community members like Garden City -Hospital are assuming the initiative to help alleviate this crisis. The member network of the Food Bank Council of Michigan aids more than 227,000 local citizens every week, and with efforts of Garden City Hospital for the 2002 Michigan Harvest Gathering, an additional 11,854 pounds of food were donated to the cause.

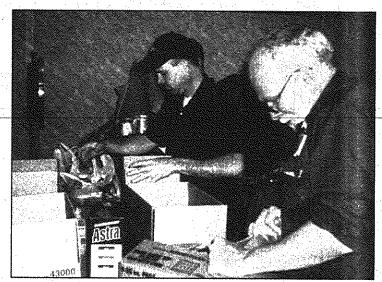

Garden City Hospital conducted a food drive from Oct. 28 to Nov. 11 for the Michigan Harvest Gathering, a statewide program that provides food and assistance to local residents in need.

"As health care organizations, it is our responsibility to not only help the patients who seek care in our facilities, but also to enhance the health of those who are less fortunate in our communities," said Gary Ley, president and CEO of Garden City Hospital.

For 12 consecutive year, the Michigan Harvest Gathering has assisted the Food Bank Council of Michigan and its 12 member regional food banks in providing for the state's hungry residents. The Michigan Health & Hospital Association has served as the primary sponsor of statewide campaign for the past five years. In 2002, approximately 120 MHA-member organization participated, raising a total of almost 278,000 pounds of groceries and nearly $27,000.

Combining the MHA's efforts with those of several large corporations, local agencies, state employees and myriad individuals, the statewide campaign raised about 680,000 pounds of groceries and more than $306,000 this year. Funds gathered during the Michigan Harvest Gathering were given to the FBCM food bank network to purchase perishable goods and help cover the cost of transporting these items to about 2,500 local shelters, food pantries and soup kitchens.

A 2001 report published by the national food bank network, America's Second Harvest, indicates that nearly 44 percent of those who benefit from these types of efforts are under the age of 18.

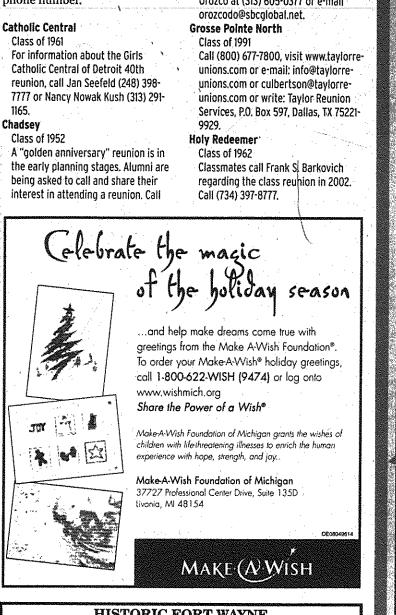

Harvest Gathering weigh-in are Chris Nagle, left, and Ted Fleszar weigh donations at the Harvest Gathering. Both are employees of the Maintenance Department at Garden City Hospital.

Approximately 40 percent of the Michigan homes that receive aid from food banks have at least one person who is in poor health.

The 11,584 pounds of food gathered by Garden City Hospital employees and volunteers will be given to the less fortunate through the Gleaners Food Bank.

"Our employees were elated to reach out to their local communities and help those in need. Garden City Hospital staff members believe in our mission to improve the health of others, and the Michigan Harvest Gathering is an effective means to do so." said Caroline, food drive project leader.

HISTORIC FORT WAYNE

The City of Detroit requests proposals from qualified construction companies for roof replacement on the historic 1939 Theater Building and roof repairs to the historic 1905 Guard House at Historic Fort Wayne. The theater building is a unique steel frame gabled structure with a plank roof suppored by purlins attached to steel trusses. The Guard House is a standard "T" gabled raftered roof. Both buildings have attached flat roofs protecting entryways. Plans and specifications are available for pick up at Historic Fort Wayne by first calling (313) 297-8373. Proposals shall describe the firm's experience with historic restoration and roof, demonstrate required qualifications, provide references from similar completed projects, and include a fixed-price cost for the work described. The winning bidder will contract with the City of Detroit Historic Designation Advisory Board and must comply with all applicable federal, state, and local laws, rules and regulations.

This project is financed in part by the NPS with funds administered by the State of Michigan Historic Preservation Office. Additional funds provided by the Detroit Historical Museums, Detroit Historical Society, Americana Foundation, Friends of Fort Wayne, and National Society of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots in America.

A one-time walk through of the buildings is scheduled for 2:00 pm, December 17, 2002 at Historic Fort Wayne, 6325 West Jefferson Ave., Detroit, Michigan 48209, (313) 297-8373.

Written proposals must be submitted by: 2:00 pm, January 7, 2003 and sent to:

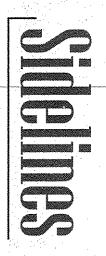

Deborah Goldstein, CLG Coordinator, HFW Roof Repairs, Historic Designation Advisory Board, C.A.Y. Municipal Center 2 Woodward Ave., Suite 204, Detroit, Michigan 48226, (313) 224-3487.

Hunters win

The Mullet Hunters 14-andunder in-line hockey team completed a full weekend at the Joe Dumars Fieldhouse by winning the Thanksgiving Tour Cup with a 4-3 overtime victory over the Devils.

Dustin Gazely's wicked slapshot from 35 feet resulted in the game-winning goal at 2:55 of the extra session. Gazely's goal completed his hat trick. The Mullet Hunters tied the score with less than five minutes left in the final period to force overtime. The semifinal against Tour Venom was another thriller. with Matt Wooster tying the game for the Mullett Hunters with two minutes left and then scoring the winner with less than a minute left.

The combination of Wooster and Gazely combined for 17 goals in six games played in the three days. Dustin Boose's goaltending was also a key factor for the Mullet Hunters; he faced 32 shots in the semifinal and 21 in the championship.

The Mullet Hunters team includes: Mike Hargreaves (Hartland); Ryan Lammers (Rockwood); Justin Price (Saline); Dustin Boose (Rochester); Dustin Gazely, Matt Wooster (Novi); and Brandon Egglesfield, Blake Butkovich, Nick Pesant and Kevin Tollison (Canton). But they lost their first two sets against Baptist, putting them on the brink of elimination. Lose another game and their season would be over.

The Crusaders refused to give in. They beat Baptist in the next two games 30-27, 30-27, and suddenly their match was in overtime.

"To win five-straight matches (in the tournament) is unbelievable," said Madonna coach Jerry Abraham. "And we fought like crazy to get back in it (against Baptist) after losing the first two games. It was 10-10 in the fifth game (played to 15 points) and I really thought we were going to do it. I thought this was going to be the year."

However, it didn't work out that way. A missed serve cost Madonna one point, and a couple of kills by Elele Ekadeli, a native of Kenya who was named the tournament MVP, led to a 15-10 loss by Madonna.

The Crusaders — who lost the first two games of the match 30-25, 30-18 — finished their season with a 48-4 record, tying for third in the NAIA. Baptist lost to unbeaten and top-ranked National American (41-0) in

Sillmon honored

Senior Angie Sillmon (Plymouth/Salem HS), a middle blocker for Western Michigan's volleyball team, was named Mid-American Conference West Division Player of the Week Nov. 25.

Sillmon helped lead the Broncos to a pair of critical victories in the final weekend of the regular season at University Arena. The wins over Bowling Green and Northern Illinois Nov. 22-23 helped WMU clinch a berth in the MAC Tournament.

Sillmon hit a combined 446 (33 kills, four errors, 65 attempts) in the victories, a team best. Her 33 total kills, including a career-high 17 versus Bowling Green Nov. 22, led WMU.

Sillmon has posted a career year in her final collegiate season, establishing personal bests in kills (309), blocks (140), block solos (21), and block assists. She became the ninth player in program history to total over 300 career blocks and is among the top five all-time in blocks and block assists. Her .270 hitting percentage on the year is also a personal best. Sillmon was also named MAC West Division Co-Player of the Week Oct. 7.

Belleville blasts Rocks; Chiefs falter

It was not a good start to the season for Salem's basketball team. In fact, Tuesday's opener at Belleville started poorly for the Rocks and never really improved much, at least not in the second half. The Tigers eventually rolled to an 84-58 triumph in both team's first game.

BASKETBALL

"They're a good team," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "They shot the ball well and they're very athletic. "We were poor, at both ends of the floor — especially on defense."

Salem trailed 20-6 after one quarter, but did make a bit of a run in the second quarter, outscoring Belleville 20-16 to narrow the deficit to 36-26 at halftime.

"Which was nice," said Brodie. "We went into the locker room with a positive attitude. We said we played a lousy first quarter, now we have to come out and make a little run at them."

But the Rocks didn't. Instead, the Tigers forced a turnover and went on to hit three three-pointers en route to a 26-16 third-quarter spurt, which pushed their lead to 62-42 -far too large for Salem to overcome.

Dave Hoskins topped the Rocks with 22 points. Stevland Davis added 11.

Belleville got 26 points from Martin Samarco, including nine in the thirdquarter rally; 17 from Alex Davenport (eight in the third quarter); and 11 from Greg Bond.

Ed Weber denied nothing. He just smiled at the so-called "coincidences." Funny, isn't it? Salem's pool breaks down just at the start of the boys swim season, with the Rocks preparing to make a run at an 11th-straight conference crown. So who's No. 2 behind the Rocks? Who will gain the most if Salem's team falls a notch?

Well, that would be Canton. Before that, there was the suspicion surrounding the annual random lottery, during which it is decided what school each student will attend — a "Harry Potter Sorting Hat" sort of thing. And guess what? Of the 15 potential swimmers in the freshmen class, nine draw Canton. And just one draws Salem. Hmmm.

Then there's the Bill Faunce angle to this intrigue. Faunce has assisted Olson at Salem for years; he's also been an integral in helping organize the league meet. But Faunce, it seems, has now joined Weber at Canton as his assistant. Gone over to the other side, eh Mr. Faunce? No doubt all that the money available to him as an assistant swim coach at Canton was what lured him.

Wow. What intrigue. This could be the next "Survivor"-type series, it so interesting.

In all seriousness, Canton will be solid again this season. The Chiefs will be second only to Salem in the WLAA, once again.

And although they have lost some considerable talent from last year's 12th-

Time to talk about the "conspiracy theory."

Heck, I'd be paranoid. When your team has been so completely dominant, winning the last 10 conference championships with very few serious challenges in that span — then something suspicious happens that could lead to the end of your streak.

What's one to think?

Don't think Chuck Olson has gone quite that far overboard, but his Salem swim team has had to struggle the past week, lacking the one necessity a swim team needs: a pool to practice in.

"We're not practicing a lot, unfortunately," said Olson. "It's been out about a week. We're doing the best we can — we were at Central Middle School today for about an hour and 45 minutes."

That's about half as much practice time as the Rocks usually get, particularly at the beginning of the season when long workouts featuring lots of mileage are the norm. And it could have a serious affect on how the team develops.

There's more than that in Olson's negatives department. When the random selection process was made to see who would go to which of the three high schools, it was realized nine of the 15 potential swimmers would attend Canton HS, with five more going to Plymouth.

straight-sets in the final, finishing at 47-3.

Asked to rate his team's performance, Abraham said, "Absolutely exceptional. It got better as the tournament went on. We weren't at our best in the semis, but part of that was what (Baptist) was doing. Our passing was just a little bit off."

Madonna's attack throughout the tournament had been superb, thanks in great part to the serve reception and the passing from it, which led to some great sets by Natalie Sayre.

But the Crusaders struggled against Baptist. "They served very aggressively with hard, sinking floats, which took us out of our serve receive," said Abraham. "I think that was the biggest thing they did, was serve well.

"We never got in sync. They served so hard against us, it took us out of our offensive patterns."

Reach the Final Four in a national tournament and the differences in talent level are often so minute that the slightest of momentum swings can be decisive. "The kids said they were a little emotionally drained from the night before," Abraham recalled, referring to Madonna's 30-23, 38-36, 30-19 win over Westmont (Calif.) Friday night in the quarterfinals.

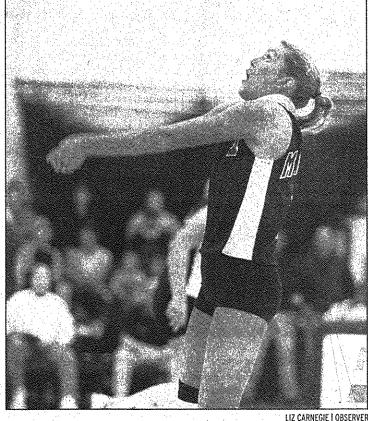

By the same token, the Crusaders' comeback in the semifinals did Baptist no good. "I think it did take it out of them," said Abraham. "They didn't recover."

Doing a favor for National American wasn't exactly what the Crusaders had in mind. But even though they didn't quite reach the final, it was a season to remember — the best in school history.

"I'll take a season like this anytime, with these kinds of players," Abraham said. "You never know how you're going to finish at a national tournament, and we had lost four starters and eight players from last year's team.

"We had a mixture of new players and returnees, and it was a good combination. It was had a chance with."

Laura Lesko, whose performance throughout the tournament was superb, led the Crusaders against Baptist with 18 kills (a .406 kill percentage). She also had 12 digs and three blocks.

Shelley Stanton, who had keyed Madonna's attack in the tournament, had 16 kills and four blocks but was limited to seven digs and a .115 kill percentage. "They really concentrated on stopping her," said Abraham.

Natalja Tinina had 10 kills; Tera Morrill (from Livonia Franklin) had nine kills, 16 digs and two service aces; Hayley Myers had eight kills and three blocks; Linsey Buche had four aces; Amanda Suder (Salem ished with 56 set assists. Ekadeli's 38 kills (.338) were good reasons for her being chosen as the tourney MVP. Stanton and Sayre were also chosen to the all-tournament team.

There will be some rebuilding to do after this season. Stanton — named the top player in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference and a strong All-American candidate — and Sayre and Myers all graduate, and Morrill is undergoing shoulder surgery today, which could take more than six months of rehabilitation.

But considering how Abraham rebuilt the team last year, well, anything seems possible.

Ocelots win 9th straight

Nationally-ranked

Schoolcraft College earned its first major road triumph of the men's basketball season Saturday night with an 85-70 victory against and previously unbeaten Lansing CC.

The Ocelots, No. 7 in the latest NJCAA Division I poll, then ran their overall record to 9-0 Monday with a 107-60 homecourt victory over Cornerstone JV.

Schoolcraft led 35-32 at halftime before pulling away from host Lansing in the second half. UNC-Charlotte signee Marcus Bennett led the Ocelots in scoring with 20 points.

The other four starters scored in double figures including Dion Sherrell (16), Torvoris Baker (14), Gary Johnson (13) and Andre Scott (12). Ronald Dorsey added nine points and six rebounds off the bench.

The 6-6 Baker, a transfer from Eastern Michigan University, grabbed a gamehigh 16 rebounds, while the 6-9 Scott snared 10 rebounds.

Johnson contributed five assists and four steals. He also hit 7-of-8 free throws. "It was our first big test early in the season against an undefeated team on the road," Schoolcraft coach Carlos Briggs said. "The first half we did not play with poise or patience, but the second half we settled down. We knew we could beat them if we played Schoolcraft basketball. In the second half we played with more poise andpatience."

Western Michigan University signee Levi Rost, who came in averaging 34 points per game, paced Lansing with 22 points and 11 rebounds. Luke McKenna chipped in with 11 points and 10 rebounds, while Lyle Hampton and Patrick Yelsik each scored 10 points. "Both Dion (Sherrell) and (Ronald) Dorsey did a good job on Rost with help from other guys on the court who shadowed him," Briggs said. "We didn't completely shut him down, but we were able to hold him 12 below his average." Schoolcraft made 29-of-55 shots from the floor (52.7 percent) and outrebounded the Stars. 31-18.

On Monday, six players scored in double figures in Schoolcraft's lopsided 47-point win over the Cornerstone JV. Dorsey led the way with 19 points, while Bennett contributed 18. Others in double figures included James Holmes (15), Johnson (14), Scott (12) and Baker (11).

SAGINAW VALLEY ST. 87, MADONNA 70: Sophomore Anthony Parker poured in a gamehigh 26 points in 35 minutes of action Saturday as host Saginaw Valley State (5-3) turned back Madonna University (4-4) in a 7, non-conference game at University Center.

Parker went 10-for-15 shooting from the floor, including 3-of-5 from three-point range. Junior Maurice Brown notched his fifth double-double of the year with 23 points and 20 rebounds. Sophomore David Williams added 12 points.

The Cardinals led by only one at halftime, 37-36, but outscored the Fighting Crusaders 22-11 to start the second half.

Noel Emenhiser led four MU players in double figures with 15 points. Chad Nadolni added 14 points and a team-high 13 rebounds. Dan 33 Kurtinaitis and Chris Behrns chipped in with 13 and 10 points, respectively.

The Cardinals dominated play in the paint, outscoring MU 46-28. They also held a 44-34 rebounding advantage. Saginaw Valley hit 51.4 percent of its shots from the floor compared with 43.1 for Madonna.

Madonna trailed 44-38 at the half, but connected on 35-of-65 floor shots (53.8 percent) and 5-of-12 three-pointers (41.7 percent) in the game. Central State was 35-of-74 from the floor (47.3 percent) and 4-of-8 on threes (50 percent).

The Crusaders also had a 43-32 edge in rebounding. The key difference: They committed 29 turnovers to 13 by CSU. Lindsay Simmon had a strong game for Madonna, making 13-of-21 floor shots in scoring 30 points. She also had nine rebounds and six assists. Jackie Pingston scored 14 points (3-of-3 on threes) and had three assists and three steals, while Courtney Rehbine finished with 11 points, 13 rebounds and four steals. Kelly Adams' 27 points paced CSU. KALAMAZOO VALLEY Ti, SCHOOLCRAFT 54: In a battle of last year's MCCAA conference champions Saturday, Kalamazoo Valley (5-2) rolled to the Schoolcraft Invitational title against the host Lady Ocelots (7-3) behind Erin Palmer's 15 points. Center Pam Wingate scored 22 points and grabbed six rebounds to lead the Ocelots, who trailed 37-20 at halftime. Crystal Pitman added in 10 points, while Tara Charles (Redford Bishop Borgess) con-

As a team, they shot fairly well hitting 491 percent for the game. They were led by Lindsay Simmon's 18points and 10 rebounds, but more impressive ac was her 8-of-12 shooting from the floor. Sarah Thomson added 12 points and Marwa Ayoub chipped in 10, while Nikki Blaszak and Courtney Rehbine had 11 each. SCHOOLCRAFT 70, SINCLAIR (OHIO) 60: In the first game of the Schoolcraft invitational Friday, the host Lady Ocelots made a tremendous comeback to hand Sinclair College (Ohio) its first loss of the season.

Schoolcraft trailed 35-31 at the half, but the second half was another story. It was all about defense and all Schoolcraft.

After shooting 41 percent from the field in $\frac{1}{2}$ the first half. Sinclair was held to just better $\frac{1}{2}$ than 25 percent in the second half.

Once again Schoolcraft was led by Wingate, who knocked down 10-of-16 for 23 points to go along with 10 rebounds. Pittman added 15 points, while Tiffani Pattilo had 11. Tara Charles dished out six assists.

"We played poorly," said Canton coach Jeremy Rheault. "We turned the ball over way too much and we didn't handle the pressure very well.

"I think we got outrebounded, too, and I'm not too happy about that."

The Chiefs trailed 22-11 after one quarter and 38-19 by halftime. The deficit was never single digits in the second half.

Brad Waidmann led Canton with 13 points. Steve Thornton added 11. Monroe got 17 points from Nick Notario, 15 from Pat Sharrow and 10 from Ryan Steele.

"We're just trying to get a feel, get an idea what our strengths are," Rheault said.

Agape 67, Deerfield 54: Now that's a dangerous backcourt.

Charlie Henry and Jordan Napier, both juniors, each scored 30 points to lead Canton Agape Christian past host Deerfield in both teams' season-opener Tuesday.

Although the final was fairly comfortable for the Wolverines. it wasn't that way until the final few minutes. Indeed, Agape led 13-10 after one quarter and 27-24 at halftime; after three periods, the gap was just 43-41.

Both Henry and Napier were instrumental in Agape's 24-13 fourth-quarter run. Napier scored eight points in the quarter, but Henry was perfect, going 4-for-4 from the floor, including 2-for-2 on three-pointers, and 4-for-4 from the free-throw line to score 14 points.

Deerfield never led in the final period. Jason Hdubik's 23 points paced the Minutemen; Zach Jones contributed 11.

Agape was 8-of-9 at the line, while Deerfield made just 13of-27.

St. Mary 64, CC 63: Orchard Lake St. Mary had Catholic Central's number during the football season.

One game into the basketball campaign, the Eaglets handed the Shamrocks another loss.

CC battled back from a 40-32 halftime deficit to tie the score in the fourth quarter, but fell been a three-shot foul, but they called a 1-and-1," said Coratti. "But overall, it was a good game."

Dan Waterstradt led CC with 13 points, while Jim Cash added 12 and Herberholz had 10. Jared Henderson and Derek Brooks had nine each. Dewayne Watkins led St. Mary's with 17 points, while Andre Ratliff had 16 and John Andrews had 10.

Wayne 70, Romulus 52: Senior guard T.J. McClain scored 18 of his 21 points in the second half to lead Wayne Memorial to a non-conference win Tuesday against host Romulus, Wayne trailed 26-25 at intermission, but put together a 25-11 third-quarter run as five different players scored to take control of the game.

Junior guard Genois Safford added 12 points, while senior forward Jonathan Raspberry also had 12 points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

"The third quarter we hit some shots, ran a little bit and did a good job rebounding," Wayne coach Wayne Woodard saið.

Ronald Coleman, a 6-foot-6 junior forward committed to Michigan, led the Eagles with a game-high 23 points.

"He (Coleman) is a good player, he really goes to the basket," Woodard said. "We worked hard on him."

Wayne made 25-of-31 free throws (80.6 percent), including 16-of-19 in the final quarter. Romulus was 21-of-28 from the line (75 percent).

Garden City 67, Franklin 45: Dave Loney led a balanced scoring attack with 15 points Tuesday as the Cougars (1-0) launched their 2002-03 season with a victory at Livonia Franklin (0-2).

Brian Burton added 12 points and eight assists. Carlos Alfaro and Chris Cappelli added 10 and eight points, respectively, as Garden City led 39-23 at halftime and 57-36 after three quarters.

GC jumped out to a 20-13 first-period lead.

The Trojans outscored Plymouth Christian 28-17 in the third and made it a brand new ballgame. By the time the fourth quarter rolled around, they had the Eagles on their heels, trailing by only one, 54-53. In the fourth quarter, Clarenceville made the transition from trailing to leading with a 24-point output, along with its best defensive stand of the game.

"We played really good defense," Murphy said. "It took had 17 points, while Josh a lot of heart for these kids to pull it off. We stepped up and played good basketball. We held them to 14 points in the fourth, that was their worst quarter."

Aiding in the defensive clinic the Trojans put on in the second half was sophomore Bruno Shkreli.

Clarenceville was led by the offensive outpouring of 6-foot-7 senior forward Glenn Garrant. He netted 24 points, grabbed 19 rebounds and dished out nine assists, missing a triple-double by one assist.

The Eagles were led by senior forward Clay Welton's 22 points; he also had 11 rebounds. Closely behind him was senior center Ben Pew with 20 points. Part of the reason Clarenceville was trailing at the break was the threepoint shooting of PCA's Dan Carty (15 points).

CC scrambled back in the second half and tied the score at 60-all. The Eaglets took a 64-62 lead with 10 seconds left and CC worked it around and Dave Herberholz was fouled with a little under two seconds left. A theory why you didn't see any deer during gun season

[®]he 2002 firearms deer season is in the books. Depending on who you talk to, success ranged from very good to as bad as it gets. Hunters who tagged a deer, and those who saw a lot of deer but for one reason or another chose not to shoot, boast of a very good hunting season. But there are tons of other hunters out there who feel the DNR is mismanaging the deer herd and that, in many places, the herd is devastated and deer numbers are way, way down. The reality is probably somewhere in the middle.

Abundant doe tags over the past several years has certainly had an impact on the deer herd. In areas of low to moderate deer numbers, high doe harvests impact the reproducnorthern Oakland County, for example, even the liberal Insights allocation of doe permits has done little Bill to curb the Parker deer numbers. During the early bow season (Oct. 1-Nov. 14) I saw countless deer, both does and bucks. Bow hunters, myself included, killed some of these deer, but let me assure you, we had little impact on the overall population size. The night before firearms season opened I saw no less than 11 deer come through my neck of the woods.

On opening day, and even through opening weekend, there were still plenty of deer to be seen. Then they all seemed to disappear. Hunters kill them all?

No way! Hunter pressure pushed them into a new set of habits.

Here's my theory on the disappearance of Michigan's whitetails.

Years ago, we didn't hunt does very much. One tag per hunter, or maybe two, resulted in a substantial kill, but the state's buck harvest was always higher than the doe harvest. Then, some 10 years ago or so, the DNR started harping, justifiably, about having to lower the deer numbers. The Department started issuing tons of antlerless deer permits and crop damage permits. We hunters started shooting does like never before and it wasn't long before the doe harvest eclipsed the buck harvest. It's been that way for several years now

While all this doe hunting has had an impact on the size and reproduction ability of the herd, it has also impacted the deer in a way hunters have never experienced.

Used to be, that after the first two or three days of the firearms season, the bucks would disappear. Made sense, since hunting pressure was directed at them and they were feeling the heat.

However, hunters would con-

Excludes special purchases

tinue to see does throughout the season - keeping their interest up while spending long hours on stand. There was always a chance that a rutting buck would be following one of those does.

But now the does are feeling all that hunting pressure, too. Lead is flying their way and today both bucks and does lay low after the firearms season begins.

Deer live in a matriarchal society in which the older, mature does lead the way. Bucks do their own thing and become mostly solitary runners during the fall, but does and fawns run together. When the matriarch doe starts feeling the hunting pressure that rises up on Nov. 15, she knows, having been through a season or two, how to survive. Past experiences dictate that the best way to survive is to remain in heavy cover during daylight hours until the intrusion ends.

We had a couple snow showers during the firearms season here in southern Michigan and the tracks in the snow on the mornings following these showers back up my theory. All three of the spots I hunted this year were littered with fresh tracks, but for a solid week, starting on Nov. 18, I never saw a deer on stand.

The reason wasn't because the deer were gone, or that they were all killed off by hunters. Quite simply, the does were just playing the same game bucks have been playing for years when firearms season begins - they turned mostly nocturnal.

Now that the season has ended and the majority of hunters have left the woods for the year, deer patterns will soon return to normal. Once they stop bumping into hunters every time they turn a corner in the trail, the does and bucks will relax and get back into their normal patterns.

The DNR is trying to reduce the overall herd and in some areas, maybe too many have been removed. In most areas, though, there are still plenty of deer to be found. They're just wise to the ways of the whitetail hunters.

TOY DRIVE

High Velocity Sports in Canton will be collecting new, unwrapped toys for boys and girls between the ages of five years and under and 14 years and over now through December 20th. All toys will be donated to Children's Hospital of Michigan this holiday season.

"I can't imagine how tough it must be for a child to spend the holiday season in the hospital," said Bryan "Goose" Finnerty, managing co-owner of High Velocity Sports and director of coaching for the Canton Soccer Club. "If there is any way for us to alleviate even some of the discomfort for even one child, then I think the toy drive is worth it.

"Canton has always been a giving community and we expect an outstanding response."

As a token of appreciation for each donor's generosity, HVS management will give a coupon for a free box of popcorn and small pop at the HVS concession stand.

High Velocity Sports is located at 46245 Michigan Avenue (on the south side, just west of Canton Center Road) in Canton. A drop-off bin is located at the front office. For more information on the toy drive, please call (734) HV-SPORT or visit www.hvsports.com.

we are. And our goaltending is much improved."

Nagel, who averaged better than four goals a game in Salem's first five games, got just one goal against Northville. "They had guys draped all over him the whole game," said Feiler. "But that's OK. It opens it up for someone else."

Which it did. Proving they're not a one-man team, the Rocks got their six goals from six players - although it was Nagel who scored the clincher, despite having two Mustangs on top of him.

Bryan Young led Salem with a goal and two assists. The Rocks had the early lead thanks to a first-period goal from Rob Quigley (assisted by Young and Sean Leaym), but Northville rebounded with two scores early in the second period.

John Schultz tied it for Salem at 10:17 of the second (assist from Ryan Jones) and Young put the Rocks ahead to stay at 9:39 (assists from Nagel and Jones). Nagel got the fourth Salem goal at 6:44 of the second (assists from Andy Thackaberry and Aaron Cheesman).

Mike Barr's goal at 11:29 of the third period (from Quigley and Cheesman) pushed Salem's lead to 6-2.

Brandon DeMars was in goal for the victory, Salem's fifth in the WLAA.

On Saturday, the Rocks clobbered Walled Lake Western 11-

Anyone but Salem.

"Salem's going to be Salem," Weber allowed. "They have their leadership in (Ben) Dzialo. And (Livonia) Stevenson has some pretty big numbers. It should be interesting in our division between Northville and us.

"No one can count us out from being a threat."

Leading the returnees for Canton are senior Yuhei Uno, who was second in the WLAA in the 100 butterfly last season, and junior Joe Le, who scored at state meet in the 100 freestyle and was third in both the 50 and 100 free at the conference.

"We know what Joe's going to do," said Weber. "We know what Yuhei's going to do. For us to be successful, we need Sattler, Reasor and Faronia to step up."

That would be James Sattler, a junior who scored last year at league in the 200 and 500 free; Steve Reasor, a junior who scored in the 200 individual medley and the 100 breaststroke at league; and sophomore John Faronia, who scored at conference in the 100 back and 100 free, and has potential in the 50 free, too.

There are several others to watch, such as senior co-captains Scott Franke (breast) and Steve Kilijanczyk (diving); junior Jordan Champine (100 fly); There are a few freshmen who could aid the Chiefs, too. Nathan Phillips was the middle school champ in the 100 back, and Shogo Uno was one of the top butterflyers in the middle school.

junior Aaron Van Proyen 200, 500 free); juniors and twee brothers Kenny (breast) and Neal (fly) Brunner; and sophomore Kevin Cafarelli (diving). There are a few freshmen who could aid the Chiefs, 100. Nathan Phillips was the middle ;;+ school champ in the 100 back, and Shogo Uno was one of the top butterflyers in the middle school.

In fact, the younger Charles will be counted on to produce, if Canton is to stay on pace with Salem. There are only three seniors on the roster, with 11 juniors, eight sophomone and nine freshmen.

"How well we deal with the top teams (in the league whoever they may be, will depend on how the sophomores come through," said Weber. "And will any of our freshmen be league (meet) scorers.

'We're not at the top of the conference) yet, but we re still climbing: We're looking to continually get better."

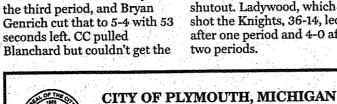

So far, the Chiefs have been doing just that.

NOTE: For the first time in WLAG history, Salem will not host the contenence relays. A problem with the Rocks' pool has forced it to be shut down and the relays moved to Northville HS The meet will be at noon Saturday cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net | (734. 19.3.2108

That left Salem with one freshman. And that's something that's never happened to Olson before.

"Never, ever," he said. "It's definitely going to change the complexion of things. Hopefully, it'll straighten out down the line."

The average class size for Salem is about 15. The dropoff left Olson with a depressed view of the future. "I think we're coming to the end of our string here," he said.

He then added quite quickly, "But this year we'll be OK." Indeed, the Rocks should be just fine for the next couple of years. In fact, they're good enough this year that, ask any other coach in the Western Lakes Activities Association, and they'll just about hand Salem the title.

Just about.

Considering the losses, that's rather amazing. Gone from last season's squad are Eric Lynn, who was first at the state meet in the 200-vard individual medley and second at state in the 100 backstroke (he also swam on two scoring relays at state), and Mike Johnson, who was in the top 10 at state in the 50 (tied for fourth) and 100 (10th) freestyle (he, too, swam on two scoring relays).

The top returnee for Salem is senior Ben Dzialo, who will be a team captain. An all-state and All-American swimmer for three years, Dzialo placed sixth in the 100 butterfly, 11th in the 200 free and swam on both scoring relays at last year's state meet.

"I'd say he's probably the best swimmer coming back in the conference," said Olson. "Whenever we have Dzialo, I think he can go after a couple of state championships."

Still, one swimmer won't win the conference title for an 11th time for the Rocks. Dzialo won't have that problem; he'll have plenty of help.

Nick Dixon, a sophomore, returns after winning the 200 individual medley and placing second (to Dzialo) in the 500 taincy with Dzialo, as will Matt Poniatowski, another distance freestyler.

Joe Aumiller, a senior who scored at the WLAA meet in both the 200 and 500 free last year, returns as well. So does Bill Clark, a senior sprint freestyler who scored in the 50 and 100 free at league; Matt Showalter, a may be difficult to match, an senior who was second in the WLAA in the 100 breast and qualified for state; Jeff Nevi, a senior who was in the top eight at league in both the 200 IM and 100 backstroke; Adam Sonnanstine, a senior who was in the top 10 at league in both the 200 and 500 free; Matt Vivian, a senior who matched that top-10 performance in the 50 and 100 free at league; Casey Johnson, a junior who was fifth in the 100 breast at conference meet; and Nick Yee, a senior who scored in the top six in the 100 back at league.

Others to watch include sophomore Penn Chou (a doeverything); sophomore Matt Jurcak (100, 200 free); senior Pete Skinner (distance free, fly); and sophomore divers Andrew Murowski and Brad Sokolowski.

The league title is certainly Salem's for the taking. The Rocks were fifth at state last season and third the year before, and while those finishes cirisak@oe.homecomm.net | (734) 953-2108

11th-straight conference crown is not out of the question particularly with the departure of the three Farmington-area high schools.

Observer & Eccentric | Thursday, December 12, 2002

"I'd be surprised if anyone in the league can swim with us," admitted Olson. "I think the league, quality-wise, is down a bit."

Canton figures to be first in line for a third-straight secondplace finish, although Livonia Stevenson is starting to rebuild its numbers, which could make it a contender.

Still, Salem remains the WLAA's top dog, and it will take more than a busted boiler in the pool to end the Rocks' streak.

NOTE: Due to the problems with Salem's pool, the WLAA Relays - which the Rocks have hosted, as well as the conference finals, since the league's inception - have been switched. Northville will serve as Relays' host at noon this Saturday.

Real Estate Inquires Robert M. Meisner

Approach varies for condos

I'm thinking about doing a highrise condominium over a retail area and have noticed in Chicago, by way of example, that there are a number of these developments which appear to be successful. What type of approach is usually given to this type of development?

My understanding of what has occurred on the Magnificent Mile along Michigan Avenue in Chicago is that a number of structures are developed as a combination of both retail and residential.

The first seven or eight floors of the building are devoted to commercial and/or other retail activities, with the balance of the building being residential with, of course, separate entrances from the ground level.

Generally speaking, the high-rise residential units are condominiums and are separate legal entities from those of the retail establishment.

The condominiums can be developed in airspace, which is now, of course, allowed as well in Michigan with the recent changes to the 2001 Condominium Act.

It's my understanding that these "condominium residences" have been extremely popular while being very expensive given the cost per square foot of the land and amenities.

Kids, flexible in making friends, may need assistance adjusting to a move.

Involve kids in move early

BY NORMAN PRADY CORRESPONDENT

You've found a beautiful family home in a wonderful neighborhood and you're excited about moving. But are you on the verge of making a big mistake?

That big mistake, according to a West Bloomfield psychologist, is that "parents forget to ask their children how they're feeling about the move. They don't talk about it and get the children's point of view.

BOOKS COULD HELP PROCESS

There are books about moving which can be helpful to younger children. Here's what Lara Sebert, family school coordinator, Blanche Sims Elementary, Lake Orion, recommends. Pre-kindergarten to age 5 - Berenstain Bears Moving Day, by Stan and Janice Berenstain.

do fine," he said. "Unfortunately, kids we get once the school year starts are mostly from split families with mom and dad living in different communities."

At Blanche Sims Elementary School in Lake Orion, making new students feel welcome is the work of the family school coordinator, a position held by Lara Sebert, who brings degrees in child development and social work to her job.

You can never be overly prepared ou may think I'm nuts for discussing springtime even before we've been slammed with our first major snowfall of the year, but in the mortgage business it makes perfect sense. Winston Churchill once said that "it is truly tragic when the times find a man unprepared." My plan today is to encourage you meet the upcoming home buying season fully prepared.

The four major areas of concern in most mortgage transactions are income, debts, assets, and credit. Borrowers with problems with any of these items may land themselves a less-thanoptimum loan product, or may even be declined for a mortgage.

The difference in interest rate, program qualification, documentation requirements, and processing time between borrowers with outstanding credit and those with bruised credit is staggering. With several months' lead time, however, even borrowers with credit issues can take prompt actions to repair and polish their credit reports to position themselves for a better mortgage.

Because job income and

"When you move," she said, "you're uprooting. Attachments and friendships and other changes have to be readjusted.

"The most important thing for a parent is to be observant for any changes – any kind of acting out, getting withdrawn, changes in personality or behavior. Changes in routine that might symbolize that the child is depressed or having trouble," Sills said.

Parents, she said, should help their children focus on new friends and how they can make new friends, while at the same time helping them stay attached to old friends.

"Keep an open line to old friends and family through email, letter writing and phone calls so they're anchored during the transition," Sills said. "If they're afraid they won't make new friends, ask them how they can meet new people and if they don't have ideas, help them work it through," she added.

"Maybe no one will like me.' Well, how did you deal with that before?"

Sills urges parents to be direct with their children about moving and don't simply tell them it's going to be so exciting. Address fears one at a time.

Identify decisions about moving, Sills advises, where the parents can accept the child's choices. "Not which house to buy, but what colors would you like for your new bedroom, for marked. From the real estate sales point of view about moving with children, "timing is always important about getting them enrolled in school," said Larry Van Zandt, broker, RE/MAX Great Lakes, Farmington Hills.

A top priority of families with children is the school system, including support staff and after-school programs, he said.

"We suggest they go to Web sites which many communities set up under their own names offering details about where the schools are, where the bus picks up and where the day care facilities are," he said.

When families are looking for a home, Van Zandt said, "we try to accommodate the buyer" about closing on the transaction at a good time for the children.

"Sometimes the seller won't agree," he said. "But in this market, a seller is more inclined to agree because there's a lot of product out there for sale. I think sellers are more receptive now than any time I've seen since 1984."

Van Zandt said he's never lost a sale because of timing problems, but he has because parents couldn't find the schooling they wanted.

For Carolyn Binder-Scopone, moving is "an issue I address at the beginning. Get the house listed in February or March, get it sold in April, close on the new house in May, get possesMove in plenty of time for school in September.

"If they move as soon as school is out, they have the whole summer in the neighborhood being outside to meet the kids," Binder-Scopone said. "Right when school starts it's harder on the kids to go in where they don't know anyone." A sales associate with Mayfair Realty in Livonia, she hasn't had any moving problems with children in her 24 years of selling – except for her own son, then 9.

"When we moved, he didn't want to leave our old neighborhood where he was born," Binder-Scopone said. "Shortly after we moved, he'd been taken back there one day to play with old friends and then we couldn't find him.

"He'd gone to our old house and asked if he could come in and go to his bedroom. The family called us."

At Garden City High School, newly moved-in students get special attention from the student council, said Jerry Perttunen, principal.

"Members of the council's executive board are assigned to new students to take them to classes, talk to them about school procedures, introduce them around to students and teachers and go to lunch with them for a few days," he said.

The host students elected to council by their peers are highly thought of and have the necessary social skills, Perttunen said. "It might take a week or so. The new students are apprehensive as we all are when making changes.

"If the family is intact, they fifth grade in a buddy system until they feel comfortable enough to venture out on their own," she said. "The buddies introduce them to other kids, and it's easier to make friends that way.

"Buddies are children who communicate well and are willing to help other kids. They're friendly, good students, role models," she said.

Sebert recommends that parents bring children to visit about a week before they start a new school.

"Walk them around, meet the teachers," she said. "We've had some parents just send them off on the bus.

"Parents should make time for the visit, and have conversations with their children about what to expect in the new situation. Maybe tell them personal stories from their own childhood.

"Encourage children to ask questions anytime they're unsure about something. Ask the principal or the teachers." Children should have a chance to say goodbye to friends they're leaving in the old neighborhood, Sebert said.

"Children need closure. Perhaps a going-away party. Notes to the teachers they've been with, or the principal, or the custodian or any person they felt connected with. Give friends the new address and phone."

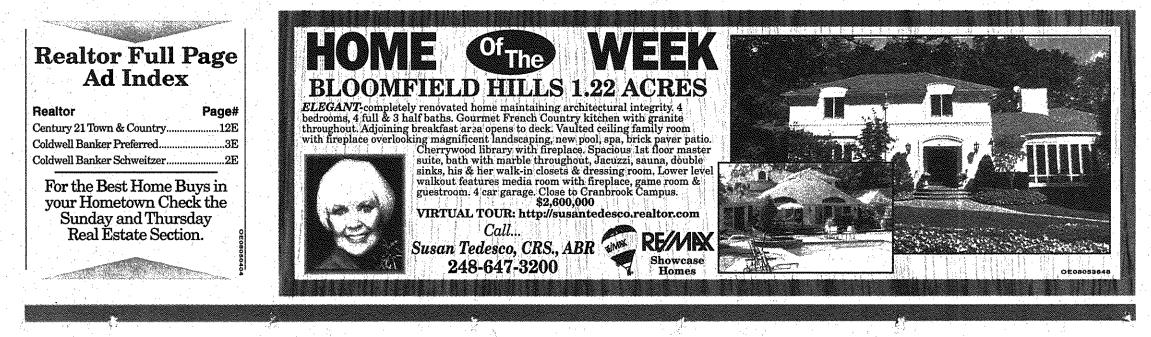

A child "at-risk," Sebert said, with learning problems, health issues or family disruptions which can further complicate the demands of moving needs special attention such as individual or group counseling she provides. consumer debt will play such a major role in your mortgage underwriter's decision, it is very smart to plan out how and when you make any other major purchases, and how you handle pending job and career changes.

I once had a young couple purchase thousands of dollars of furniture and appliances (and lease a new vehicle) within days after they completed a mortgage application. We got their mortgage done, but it would have been much easier and quicker if they had delayed those purchases until after they closed on their new home.

Having some verifiable assets can also make a big difference. Underwriters who see that you are spending your very last dime to get a property will likely balk at an approval. Most lenders want to see that you have a couple months' house payments "in reserve" in case you have a financial hiccup.

The best favor you can do for yourself is to talk to a lender sooner instead of later, even if you are still a few months off from a purchase. Good planning can save you a bundle in the real estate finance game.

Rentals for Olympics might upset owners this time

(AP) - Property near special events often results in big money for owners. But maybe not in this case.

Organizers hope to rent at least 3,000 private residences in Athens to visitors for the 2004 Olympics. However, the expected prices might disappoint those expecting big profits.

Most visitors will have to rely on private rentals. Nearly all the city's best hotel rooms and several cruise ships are set aside for the "Olympic family," which includes sports federation members and sponsors. Representatives of the two bank-led consortiums overseeing the program hope to rent at least 1,500 residences each.

Prices haven't been set for the rental program, which is to start early next year. But the projected rents might upset Greeks eyeing significant profits.

The consortium officials foresee average prices of about $29.40 to $34.30 a day for each bedroom. The costs for luxury accommodations near venues could be considerably higher.

Property owners also have sharply criticized government plans to impose a 10 percent tax on income from the rentals.

CLARIFICATION

A couple of figures need to be clarified in boards affiliated with Realcomp II, a multi-listing service.

The August figures cited were for all six boards, but only within Wayne County.

Finally, the number of active listings for August was erroneously reported at nearly 6,350. It should have been 7,765 and included Wayne County only.

Average U.S. mortgage rates up a bit

(AP) – Mortgage rates around the country moved up for the third week in a row, with rates on 30-year mortgages climbing to their highest level since late October.

E4 *

Even with the recent upticks, rates are still low enough to continue to keep the housing market healthy, economists said.

The average interest rate on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages rose to 6.19 percent for the week ending Dec. 6, Freddie Mac reported in its weekly nationwide survey.

That was up from 6.13 percent in the previous week and marked the highest rate the economy going this year. since the week ending Oct. 25 when 30year rates averaged 6.31 percent.

Rates had dropped to 5.94 percent for the week ending Nov. 15, the lowest level since the mortgage giant began tracking 30-year mortgage rates in 1971.

.For 15-year fixed-rate mortgages, a popular option for refinancing, rates increased to 5.60 percent last week, up from 5.57 percent.

Low mortgage rates this year have been feeding a refinancing boom.

The extra monthly cash consumers are saving by refinancing their mortgages at lower interest rates is helping to support consumer spending, which has been the main force keeping

"Consumer spending has kept the economy moving, and when initial holiday sales were better than expected, financial markets reacted with enthusiasm," said Frank Nothaft, Freddie Mac's chief economist.

Home sales - powered by low mortgage rates - are expected to post records this year.

In Freddie Mac's weekly survey, rates on one-year adjustable-rate mortgages increased to 4.21 percent last week, compared with 4.19 percent last week.

Mortgage rates don't include add-on fees known as points. Thirty-year mortgage loans and one-year ARMS each carried anaverage fee of 0.5 point this week. Fifteenyear mortgages carried an average fee of 0.6 point this week.

A point is 1 percent of the mortgage amount.
