Kindergarten program expands learning opportunity

BY TONY BRUSCATO

Four-year-old Lauren Cartwright of Canton Township was buzzing around her classroom at Gallimore Elementary Tuesday, playing with hand puppets, sorting items in the sand table and helping her classmates.

"Everybody that needs to wash their hands, I turn on the water for them ... and get their paper towels," Lauren said proudly. "The teacher doesn't have any pictures on her refrigerator, so I painted a frog for her. It's got my name on it."

While Lauren went about her business of playing, what she didn't realize is that before going to afternoon kindergarten at Isbister Elementary, she's getting more learning opportunities in the morning Kindergarten Crew program.

It's the 12th year for Kindergarten Crew, which previously was a child care program. But, this year it's been redesigned for parents who want their children to learn important skills before or after their half-day kindergarten class.

"This is the first year that we've had a formal connection to the school but also getting reinforcement in a less structured environment."

Kindergarten Crew is available to all kindergartners in the district, but is held at only eight of the 15 elementary schools. Students like Lauren are dropped off in

Canton Theater get final touches

BY DOUG JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

Technical Director Chris Kurtz mounts a clamp on stage lights as finishing touches are put on the new CHV Theater.

It was smiles all around Tuesday as furniture was being moved into Canton Township's new Cherry Hill Village Theater.

Years of hard work and 15 months of construction effort came to fruition this week as Canton officials began giving press previews of the interior of the theater.

All the work points to a Saturday, Sept. 11, gala grand opening as guests will be treated to performances, a tour, hors d'oeuvres and several food stations. Black tie is optional for the 8 p.m. event.

Theater-goers will see art works on the lobby walls, deep maroon carpeting and beautiful, classical lighting fixtures.

What strikes the visitor first is the stunning tri-colored dark cherry woodwork throughout the vestibule, lobby and the theater itself, a contemporary look with classical elements of old-fashioned theaters.

The vestibule will feature a huge painted mural whose content will celebrate the arts but whose exact configuration is being kept secret until the big opening next week.

"Many, many people have worked years to develop the arts in Canton," said Ann Conklin, the township's Leisure Services director. "This theater is really their vision. To watch it develop has been spectacular. It is going to be phenomenal for our community."

Conklin said the theater was "an intimate house. There is nothing like it around here."

Among the happiest people, of course, is Jennifer Tobin, Canton arts coordinator, who is in her new office at the back of the theater. Tobin left her post with the Rotary leader praises involvement

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Being dyslexic, Jim Ives knows the challenges of learning to read.

Illiteracy is just one of many topics the district governor for Rotary's District 6400 touched on during a Monday, Aug. 30, visit to the Canton Rotary at the Roman Forum.

"Illiteracy is a major problem worldwide," said Ives, who visited with wife Diane. "By giving someone a chance to read we're giving them a chance to flourish."

Ives, who belongs to the Dearborn club and owns an extermination business, is making the rounds to different clubs, having visited Plymouth A.M. the week before Canton. He's praising Rotarians for their community involvement and exhorting them to do more.

"You have a lot to celebrate. You've done a lot," he told the 18-member Canton Rotary. Ives cited such club projects as a Rotary centennial clock in the works for Heritage Park and a Youth Exchange student being hosted.

Rotary International, founded in 1905 by Paul Harris in Chicago, will mark its centennial next year. Some 70,000 are expected to gather June 18-22, 2005, in Chicago.

"It'll be quite the event," Ives said. There's also a district conference earlier that month in Cincinnati, and clubs are being asked to meet Wednesday, Feb. 23, to observe Rotary's 100th year.

Polio eradication has been a major Rotary emphasis, although Ives isn't sure a polio-free world will be achieved by the target year of 2005.

"We are very close and we will continue on this initiative until it is done."

He cited other health issues, such as drinking water access. "The lack of safe drinking water is a major source of illness in the world," Rotarians are being urged to continue efforts to fight polio and to provide safe water. Ives described a water filtration system in use in the Dominican Republic and Haiti that is inexpensive and provides great benefit.

He also encouraged club members to boost membership, noting that the organization's base is aging and with that comes attrition. Ives urged support of Rotary International's Foundation.

"It is about the money because without the money we can't do it."

The district governor also encouraged family involvement in Rotary. He said artist Michelangelo showed great determination in painting the Sistine Chapel for the pope.

"Michelangelo committed himself to the point of exhaustion. Let's paint a beautiful masterpiece this year," he concluded, presenting an artist's palette to club President Lisa Kennedy.

Canton Rotary meets 12:05 p.m. each Monday (not Labor Day or other holidays) at the Roman Forum on Ford Road in Canton. Information is available from Kennedy at (734) 414-9902.

"We are looking for people that want to make a difference in their community and their world," she said.

Ives' visit the previous week to Plymouth A.M. also went well. That club meets 7 a.m. each Tuesday at the Plymouth Cultural Center. For information, call Bob Scoggins, president, at (734) 455-9565.

SULLIVAN PICNIC

Wayne County Commission Vice Chairman John Sullivan is hosting his fifth annual family picnic for constituents on Friday, Sept. 10.

In addition, the Wayne County Sheriff's Office will be bringing a mounted unit and a motorcycle unit to the picnic.

"The kids like seeing the Sheriff's horses, while their parents like looking at the Sheriff office's Harley-Davidson," Sullivan said.

To RSVP for the event, please call Commissioner Sullivan's office at 224-0944.

STRENGTH TRAINING FOR DIABETICS

While there is research to demonstrate that aerobic endurance training increases insulin action, thereby helping those with Type II diabetes, most patients with the disease are overweight and unlikely to take up endurance training. More recent research, however, shows that strength training improves the effects of insulin in the muscles of patients with Type II diabetes as well. When research investigated the impact of strength training three times weekly, for six weeks, on insulin action in Type II diabetics, they found that strength training both increased muscle mass and seemed to enhance the effects of insulin. Thus, strength training is an effective alternative to endurance training for the Type II diabetic.

It is not always easy to know how to best care for yourself. Partnering with an experienced physical therapist is a great way to educate yourself about your problem and possible solutions, and start feeling better! Students, teachers, parents survive 1st day

STAFF WRITER

The first day of school can be terrifying for students.

But, when it's the first day of school in a brand new school district, it can be doubly overwhelming.

Anna Charara said she was mindful of both those issues because her family recently moved to Canton Township from Tampa, Fla. So, for her five children — two at West Middle School and three at Gallimore Elementary — she tried to make the morning routine easy going.

"They were anxious and a bit nervous about going back to school because it's a new school and everything is new to them," Charara said. "We got up a little earlier than usual this morning so they could take their time."

Samuel Charara, 14, said the day started a bit apprehensively, but that feeling didn't last long.

"I was a little nervous, but not that much," said Samuel. "After the first class, it was easy. You follow the same kids and make friends easily."

Kaitie Langefer, 11, of Canton and her friend Madelin Burgett, 11, of Plymouth Township, were classmates from Bird Elementary, just across the street from West, saving their first day as middle schoolers.

"At the beginning my heart was kind of racing," admitted Langefer. "It's a new school and we were afraid we'd get lost, or the lockers wouldn't open."

"But, after the first class we kind of chilled," she said. "Switching classes is a lot better than staying in one classroom."

Harrison Michels, 11, of

JIM JAGDFELD | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

West Middle Schoolers fill the halls on first day back to school.

Plymouth Township, said mostly "there was a lot of talking from the teachers" on the first day. And, despite being young and fit, Michels admitted he was a bit tired, even though classes were only a half-day.

"It's different waking up at 6:30 in the morning instead of 10," he said.

Across the district, at Bentley Elementary in Canton, parents waited patiently outside for their children to close out the first day.

"I think it's more nervous for moms because you're worried they're not going to go in the right place, go in the right door or find where they need to go and then get upset," said Sarah Roberts of Canton, who was meeting Andy, her fourth-grader.

However, Andy appeared no worse for wear.

"We had recess and told each other about ourselves," he said. "I told them I traveled to 10 different states."

Justin VanFleet said he was apprehensive about meeting his teachers, Delores TenBroeck and Catheryn Pumper.

"I didn't know what my teachers would be like, what I was supposed to do, and what they expected me to do," said Justin. "But, they were really nice. I like them."

The first day of school for teachers is all about making students excited and comfortable about the upcoming school year.

"We laugh a lot and smile a lot, and make them feel like this is their special place," said first-grade teacher Cheryl Zuzo. "They have to really love coming to school because if they're not comfortable or happy emotionally, then they'll have a hard time learning."

While older generations may have been afraid of the trip to the principal's office, Bentley Principal Jerry Meier said it's much different now.

"Teachers for the younger grades bring their students to the office to meet everyone, and then take them around the building to make them feel comfortable," said Meier. "We also try to walk around and greet the students before class starts."

The first day of school can also be challenging for bus drivers.

"We're just like one of the kids; we're all going back and it's something new," said Patty Sancho of Canton, waiting to take Bentley students home. "It's exciting and nerve wracking, making sure they get on the proper bus and take them where they need to be. It's a big responsibility."

For the most part, the first day of school went well, according to Plymouth-Canton school officials. The only mishaps, three children got off at wrong bus stops and needed help getting home.

"The first day is a little hectic," said Meier. "By the end of the week we'll be running quite smoothly."

the morning for Kindergarten Crew before attending afternoon kindergarten; or attend after their morning kindergarten.

While many Kindergarten Crew students are in their home schools and stay in the same building for kindergarten, others are shuttled to schools where they attend kindergarten.

Diane Fontana of Plymouth Township enrolled her daughter, Samantha, in the program last year, and uses it for 5-year-old Joe this year on days she works.

"The program was recommended by several moms in my neighborhood who had children go through the program," said Fontana. "Some of their kids liked it better than kindergarten. I like that it's within the Plymouth-Canton school system and they are with friends from their class and our neighborhood."

"The teachers are friendly, loving and take great care of the kids," said Fontana. "They get acclimated for first grade, and get a feel for what's going on, like eating lunch in the lunchroom with the older kids."

While Kaczmarek has been with Kindergarten Crew for six years, teacher Colleen Jones has seen the program evolve to what it is today from its start 16 years ago.

"It just keeps getting better every year," said Jones. "We add more sites, and we have more district help for our programs."

"Socially, emotionally, physically and academically ... it's all better for them," she said. "They're learning to read by the end of the school year, and they can write their names. It's phenomenal what they can do."

Kaczmarek said the staff develops weekly lesson plans, and there's usually a theme for the week.

"They're doing a lot of work with fine motor skills, so they might do finger plays or lacing activities," she said. "They could be doing songs to help with rhyming and verbal skills. In the sand table they're playing, but actually learning sorting skills."

"They're really learning through osmosis, and they don't know it," said Kaczmarek.

The teachers all have degrees in elementary education or related fields. And, with two teachers in a classroom of no more than 20 students, the worst case scenario is a teacher-student ratio of 1:10.

The cost for Kindergarten Crew is cheaper than many preschool and day care centers. It costs $16.75 a day to attend either the morning or afternoon session, with an additional $7.25 for early drop off at 7 a.m. or pick-up by 6 p.m.

Parents interested in Kindergarten Crew can call Kaczmarek at (734) 416-6194.

A Wal-Mart security person told her there had been a couple of similar incidents recently.

An employee of a construction company told police someone stole power tools and other building items from a condominium under construction in the 44000 block of Heather Lane.

He said the tools were in a garage attached to the condo. Petty cash was also stolen from a desk in the garage.

The incident occurred between 5 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The money was gone and the back door was open.

Chiropractor's event 'backs' up troops

BY JACK GLADDEN
STAFF WRITER

It's a new twist on commemorating Sept. 11, but for Canton chiropractor Dr. Alexander J. Tomko it makes sense.

On Saturday, Sept. 11, from noon-3 p.m., he's celebrating Health and Freedom Day at his clinic at 7276 N. Sheldon Road (Sheldon and Warren).

He'll be offering a complete consultation, examination and report of findings for a $25 donation. That's a $100 savings off the regular price and there's no further obligation.

Additional family members can receive the offer for $10 per person.

All the money will be sent to the USO and used to buy care packages for armed forces members stationed in Iraq. Each package costs $25.

Tomko's goal is to raise $2,500 for the packages.

"I just came up with the idea," he said. "My brother-in-law is in Iraq right now and with all the security, it's hard for people to send them packages. The USO can send them for $25 per package. We're trying to raise enough money for 100 care packages."

When Tomko came up with the idea, he was slightly frustrated to find that there was no USO chapter in Michigan.

He finally located one in Cleveland, Ohio, and made arrangements to get the packages sent once he raises the money.

In addition to the exam and evaluation, Tomko plans to have some raffles from local businesses. Food and refreshments will also be served.

Tomko, who operates Michigan Specific Chiropractic, has had an office in Canton for four years. Office hours are Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to noon and 3-6:30 p.m. Saturday hours are 10 a.m. to noon.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON OBJECTIONS TO FIRE AND POLICE PROTECTION SPECIAL ASSESSMENT LEVY

Notice is hereby given that the Charter Township of Canton Board of Trustees will hold a Public Hearing pursuant to Public Acts 33 and 181 of 1951, as amended, for the purpose of hearing objections to defraying the expenses of the Fire and Police Protection Districts by a Special Assessment levy to be spread on the tax rolls effective December 1, 2004.

On August 27, 1977, a Police Protection Special Assessment Levy was approved by the voters and at the September 13, 1977 Public Hearing, the Board of Trustees for the Charter Township of Canton approved the creation of a Police Protection Special Assessment District for the entire Township.

The Fiscal Year 2005 estimated Fire and Protection budgets submitted by the Public Safety Director and the Administration are as follows:

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Salaries & O/T	$4,440,825

Plymouth man faces charges in truck heist

BY JACK GLADDEN
STAFF WRITER

A 25-year-old Plymouth resident faces multiple charges after a Canton man's pickup was stolen Tuesday afternoon.

Canton Police said a 47-year-old Canton resident left his keys in his truck, a 1998 maroon Ford F-150, and left the engine running while he went into the Sunoco station and Ford and Haggerty about 5 p.m.

While he was standing at the counter in the station, he noticed a semi-truck with the driver motioning to someone outside, according to police Sgt. Todd Mutchler.

"He put two and two together and went outside," he said.

"He saw a man get into his truck and start to drive away."

The Canton man managed to get partially inside his truck on the driver's side, but the thief started punching him and accelerating. The man was pushed out of the truck which headed north on Haggerty.

A few minutes later a Canton motorcycle officer spotted the vehicle on Joy Road at Holly Drive. He followed the vehicle to Joy and Newburgh in Westland, where the truck pulled into a service station.

The driver was arrested without incident and lodged in the Canton police jail pending charges.

The owner of the truck suffered a broken left arm and other minor injuries during the incident. He was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

Mutchler said the Plymouth man could face a variety of charges, including car-jacking since force was used in the theft.

"This incident should serve as a reminder to people," Mutchler said.

"In this day and age no matter where you are, Plymouth or Canton or wherever, when you get out of your car turn it off, lock it and take your keys with you."

Couple gets prison time in carjacking

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A couple who robbed a 73-year-old Westland woman and took her car outside of a local strip mall will spend a decade or longer in prison, after admitting their guilt in Wayne County Circuit Court.

John Edwin Herman, 44, of Westland will spend 10 to 20 years in prison after pleading guilty to armed robbery. Lisa Jeanne Meyer, 49, of Canton will face 11 to 20 years behind bars for carjacking.

The couple robbed the victim of her purse and her car outside of a Kroger-anchored strip mall on the northeast corner of Michigan Avenue and Merriman. The incident happened late morning on Friday, April 23.

Herman made a written confession to police Westland Police Sgt. Tom Harris that he and Meyer had planned to take a bus to Detroit to buy heroin, until they saw an opportunity to take the victim's 1999 Mercury Tracer.

The victim has voiced relief that the couple will spend time in prison, Harris said.

"She's fairly happy," he said. "She wanted them to go away for awhile."

Herman will not be eligible for parole until 2014; Meyer, 2015.

Their decision to plead guilty averted a trial and possible convictions that could have sent them to prison for life. The victim had easily identified them and was expected to be a strong witness, much like she was during a preliminary hearing in May in Westland 18th District Court.

"She was excellent on the witness stand," Harris said.

The victim wasn't injured during the carjacking, but she was told that she would be killed unless she cooperated, Westland Police Sgt. James Dexter said in April.

After taking the car, the couple fled east on Michigan Avenue, slammed into another vehicle at Telegraph Road, continued to flee and eventually led police on a high-speed chase along I-94 from Pelham to Livernois.

The several-mile chase ended when Dearborn police officers blocked the getaway vehicle at I-94 and Livernois, arrested the couple and recovered the victim's purse, Dexter said.

Prior to the incident, Meyer had recently been released from prison after serving several months for an earlier attempted carjacking.

Her criminal history also includes fleeing from a police officer and possession of cocaine, according to a Michigan Department of Corrections Web site.

Herman also had served time in prison for theft-related felonies.

Plymouth Community Arts Council 18 months ago to become the head of the theater and the arts coordinator for the township.

"As we bring each individual or small group in for a preview, there are a lot of 'oohs and aahs.' There is plenty of 'wow factor.' It takes my breath away," Tobin said.

"The is a comfortable but elegant theater. This is a dream come true for many, many individuals and many groups."

First-time visitors will see a very impressive, 400-seat theater, a high proscenium arch framed in wood, and two side "performance decks" where other stage business can take place. The stage is about 40 feet wide and 30 feet deep.

Tuesday technicians were setting and hanging the stage lights under the direction of the theater's technical manager, Chris Kurtz.

"This is a beautiful facility," Kurtz said.

Todd Nemecek, architect with TMP Associates in Bloomfield Hills, has been point man for the architectural firm and has been on site most days since last May's groundbreaking.

"The building has gone up pretty fast. I think it's a nice theater even though this is relatively small building. It will have a great look," Nemecek said. "Those seats in there are some of the very best theater seats you can buy. The wide aisle will make this very easy on the audience."

In addition to the main theater there are traditional dressing rooms, a "green room" for stars to use pre-show before coming on stage, and two classrooms, one of which mimics a stage area and is suitable for full rehearsals. Also, a scene shop/storage/delivery area is in the back corner of the 30,000-square-foot building.

The theater was built with $7 million in private funding, including a $1 million from Biltmore Homes, one of three prime builders of Cherry Hill Village. The township came in with $4.5 million.

The theater's first season is already a full one with commitments from name acts like The Association and The Capitol Steps, as well as local groups such as Orchestra Canton and The Spotlight Players.

The township's Leisure Services motto is "Creating Community" and Tobin sees the new theater as an example of that.

"There is something for everyone in our inaugural season."

OUR VIEWS

'Yes' vote best for school plan

Taxpayers in the Plymouth-Canton school district, many of whom have money troubles of their own, might not want to hear what district officials have to say about the impending Sept. 28 special election.

But we think they should listen anyway.

Unless you've been living under a rock somewhere, you know school officials are putting a two-part pitch for money on the Sept. 28 ballot. The first question is simple: a renewal of the district's 18-mill non-homestead millage. That levy accounts for 22 percent of the district's operating budget, a tax on business last renewed in 1995.

While you may grouse that the district should find other ways to fund its programs, or that you already pay too much taxes, or that you don't even have students in the district, the fact is that with no real desire among state legislators to change the way schools are funded, this 18-mill levy is not only crucial, but irreplaceable. We believe supporting it is a no-brainer.

The second question is dicier, not because the district doesn't need it, but because it'll be tougher for the public to swallow. The district hopes to convince voters to pass a $109 million bond issue it will use to, among other things, make improvements at existing buildings and build a new elementary school in Cherry Hill Village.

While voters in Canton should be elated — it'll be the fourth consecutive building the district has built in Canton — the decision might be a little tougher for Plymouth residents who may feel their tax dollars are being used in Canton, with no direct benefit to them.

While the building of the Cherry Hill Village elementary is the most visible piece of the bond issue, the bulk actually goes to repairs to the Plymouth schools that need them. The district's Bond Steering Committee spent months identifying and prioritizing needs, and the district plans repairs or upgrades to every building in the district built before 2000. All the buildings in Plymouth fall into that category.

We would also argue money spent in the district — whether it's north or south of Joy Road — upgrades the quality of a school district, which in turn helps keep up the property values of homes in both communities.

It's a district that's already bursting at the seams, despite the building of three new buildings in the last several years. The biggest growth in the district is coming in Canton, and the new elementary school will help ease the burden of over-crowding.

District officials have shown they can be trusted with the money — their last three projects have come in on time and under-budget. We believe residents should trust them one more time, and vote yes on both questions.

Tip hat to Labor Day

In presidential election years, Labor Day in Detroit was a major event. National media would be out as the Democratic candidate made it official. Harry S. Truman, Adlai Stevenson, John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson launched their campaigns in Cadillac Square at the conclusion of the Labor Day parade.

Now the campaigns begin long before Labor Day, the parades are over and union members would rather not be in downtown Detroit during a three-day weekend.

But we must remember, especially in Detroit, where unions have played such a vital role in creating a more just, prosperous and progressive society.

The U.S. Department of Labor Web site says it all began with McGuire or possibly with Maguire. One version says Labor Day was the brain child of carpenter Peter J. McGuire, a cofounder of the American Federation of Labor. Another version credits Matthew Maguire of the International Association of Machinists. In any case, by the early 1880s, many communities were beginning to celebrate a day in September for Labor (rather than May 1, which had been appropriated by the more radical socialist factions).

In 1894, after years of often violent confrontations between labor union members and company forces, Congress made the first Monday of September a legal holiday.

The timing of the holiday makes in a perfect coda for the summer season. And every working person deserves that final taste of summer sunshine.

But they also might reflect on why they work under safe conditions, enjoy a living wage, have medical coverage, get to take two, three or more weeks of vacation, have paid sick days, maybe have tuition reimbursement or a health club membership. Most of these are because of advances first fought for and won by labor unions, setting a standard for others.

Picture wasn't harassment

I think that I have waited long enough, at the request of Jennifer Trombly-Richards, to have Gov. Granholm, Detroit Police Chief Bully-Cummings, U-M President Coleman, MSU President Simon or Sen. Stabenow to respond to her ridiculous accusation against the principal of Plymouth High for violating, what her first letter said was against her Title VII Civil Rights (discrimination) and in her second letter she said that it was a "sexual harassment" violation, where she wasted valuable newspaper space by writing the definition of sexual harassment (funny thing, she doesn't even work at the high school so how she can be personally harassed is beyond me).

This prompted me to go to the experts. I questioned 34 attorneys, paralegals and para-professionals and asked them, when showing them the picture that was in this year's high school yearbook of the principal dressed in drag on stage at a fund-raiser, if by viewing this picture, did it violate their Title VII Civil Rights and would they consider it sexual harassment, creating a hostile work environment?

Not to my surprise, not one of these experts felt that this was any violation at all. Most of them laughed. One even said it reminded her of her Cub Scout Cubmaster at one of their camp outings. She thought the picture was very humorous.

There were a couple who said they felt the picture was in poor taste. Jennifer Trombly-Richards has every right to not like the picture in the yearbook. And she also has the right to convey her dislike to the public in the media.

However, she has no right to accuse our dedicated principal of any illegal wrong doing when in fact there has been none. Oh, and by the way, Ms. Richards, the school system does have a code of conduct for the staff, as most places of business do. And I personally feel it is adhered to by most of our dedicated educational professionals.

You don't like the picture? Fine. You don't have to. Now, let's move on.

Arts budgets

I read that Plymouth and Canton arts people are watching Lansing as state budget talks begin.

Apparently ArtServe, a Michigan arts advocacy group, has issued "alerts" this summer warning that the proposed $11.8 million in state grants for arts and culture may be eliminated or cut drastically. Plymouth Community Arts Council Executive Director Stella Greene said groups like hers have to "send a message to Lansing almost daily."

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, which begins its 59th season in October, is also afraid of the budget woes. Two years ago, the PSO got $24,000 from the state, last year it was cut to $16,000.

In the past four years nearly 115,000 more people in metro Detroit have joined the ranks of the poor. More people are lining up at already strained food pantries and the state's welfare offices.

Jennifer Tobin, performing arts coordinator with Canton Leisure Services, apparently believes Canton has been fortunate in finding millions in private funding for its Cherry Hill Village Theater, set for a grand opening Sept. 11.

You know what I'd like to find?

Some 165,000 Americans back home from Iraq, my borders secure, a new local government, job opportunities, a return to Republican values, utility, gasoline and food prices, reasonably priced and well built homes — in a word — prosperity.

Canton wasn't fortunate to find that money — it was cleverly arranged with garbage importers, unscrupulous developers, corrupt local officials, a juggernaut bank and citizens that will clap and shed a tear on Sept. 11, but never ask why.

Men, women matter

This is in response to the letter to the editor by Janusz M. Szyszko in the Aug. 19 edition of the Canton Observer. In it he states: "Banning same-sex marriage falls into the same category as the Prohibition Amendment: unnecessary, ill-advised and downright silly." Further: "Same-sex marriages will have absolutely no impact on any of us or on our daily lives. It is a non-issue."

I beg to differ with him! Why then did 482,590 people sign a petition to have the Federal Marriage Amendment appear on the November ballot? The "will of the people" will define marriage, not the courts. And the people are not ready to allow elitist courts to convert the foundations of their state Constitutions into radical, unrecognizable forms on the whims of activist judges.

Voters understand the need for real tolerance but also understand that children need both a mother and a father to raise them. This is a basic principle for a self-governing republic that sustains itself by passing on its values to future generations. Where is the other side's tolerance for the millions of people who hold to such time-honored wisdom?

Marriage is not about "who you sleep with" and it's not about personal choice, fulfillment and benefits. In marriage, both men and women matter.

Extend firearms ban

I was somewhat surprised recently to receive in my mailbox a "Congressional Update" from Congressman Thaddeus McCotter touting his effort at ensuring homeland security and ensuring household security. No doubt McCotter's intentions are good, aimed at keeping the public safe and secure. However, the publication failed to mention an important aspect of our safety and a piece of legislation that McCotter failed to support.

The provisions of Title XI of the Federal Violent Crime Control Act of 1994, which banned the manufacture and importation of firearms defined by Congress as assault weapons, and of high-capacity magazines, are due to expire next month.

President Bush promised during the 2000 campaign that he would support an extension of the ban, and still says that he will sign an extension if it reaches his desk. However, he has done nothing to facilitate passage of the bill, which remains stuck in the House with little likelihood of being addressed (some would call that a flip-flop of his campaign promise, to use a favorite term of the Bush campaign).

A few months ago, I wrote Congressman McCotter about this important issue, urging him to protect our communities and our children from dangerous weapons by supporting the extension of the assault weapons ban. McCotter's response was disappointing, noting only that the ban defines assault weapons based on cosmetic and ergonomic features that "affect the weapon's appearance but not the weapon's lethality." I admit, the ban is not perfect. But the way to make our communities safer is to improve the existing ban, not to ignore it and let it expire.

U.S. Department of Justice statistics show that since 1994, when the ban went into effect, the firearm crime rate has dropped dramatically, from six victims per 1,000 residents in 1994 to 1.9 victims per 1,000 residents in 2002. Opponents of the ban might argue that this decline is not because of the assault weapons ban. But do we really want to find out by letting the ban expire? According to the Children's Defense Fund, a child in this country is killed by a firearm every three hours. Do we really need to put more weapons back on our streets? I don't think so.

Rogers possibly biggest rising star in state GOP

Mike Rogers not only was invited to the Republican National Convention four years ago, he was offered the chance to speak. But he turned it down.

"I figured that with my race so close, that would take a week away from the district, and I couldn't afford that," he said. Some may have thought the former FBI agent crazy, but the numbers suggest he was right.

That year, he won the closest Congressional race in the country, by a razor-thin margin of 88 votes in a Lansing-area district Al Gore carried with ease.

Fortunately for him, the GOP-controlled Legislature promptly redrew the lines to give him an easier time. (He now represents a district that stretches from the Oakland County suburbs to rural areas west of Lansing.)

Two years ago, he coasted to re-election with 68 percent, and this year is not expected to have problems defeating an unknown and underfunded former Dennis Kucinich supporter.

"So, yes, I'm going to the convention this time," he laughed.

"But I must have offended them because they didn't ask me to speak."

He was kidding, of course; he knows perfectly well that he was invited to address the convention to give him a little visibility as an underdog in a tough race. And although there is no suspense in this week's gathering in New York, he looks forward to it. He believes that even if candidates are no longer chosen in smoke-filled rooms, conventions are still vitally important.

"It is a place where everyone gets to see who is who," he said, where party members from around the nation get to see both famous figures and rising stars, and listen to speeches that may actually contain some ideas.

Though Rogers is a free-market conservative, he isn't happy that the networks no longer show very much of the conventions.

"Of course, I'm a politics junkie. I watched a lot of the Democrat convention," and says he thinks Republicans who ignored it did so at their peril.

Though he'll be behind the scenes this week, don't be surprised if Mike Rogers plays a much bigger role in future Republican conventions. He is, at 41, perhaps the Michigan GOP's biggest rising star.

A lifelong resident of Brighton, a town halfway between Detroit and Lansing, he has dream candidate potential. After graduating from Adrian College and stints in the U.S. Army and FBI, he came home to run a construction business he founded, and run for state Senate.

He is handsome, trim, articulate, liked and respected — and is widely considered the Republicans' best (and perhaps only) hope of defeating freshman U.S. Sen. Debbie Stabenow when she runs for re-election two years from now, though he doesn't seem to be lusting after her job.

"I'm not sure that would be a promotion," he says cautiously.

"You know, the thing that has surprised me (about being in the House) is that you can actually get things done, if you do your homework and are interested in honest debate. Everybody told me you'll have to wait 10 years to do anything, and I haven't found that to be true."

In most cases, he has been a strong Bush supporter, preferring to argue with the administration behind the scenes. One notable exception is on China, where he has publicly attacked the president for failing to go after that nation for its notorious "money laundering" of funds obtained from corruption and bribery.

Rogers has been given a seat on the important Energy and Commerce Committee, and has been included on four fact-finding trips to Iraq. (He is convinced that despite obvious mistakes early in the occupation, "you can see the signs of real progress" everywhere.)

He was also tapped as finance chair of the National Republican Congressional Committee, a sign of respect from senior party members; the committee soon began raising record amounts of money.

Yet despite all that, he says he is genuinely concerned about the nature of politics in this country. "Too often, we aren't really talking to each other anymore, except to throw rocks as big as houses at each other," he said.

"We have too many people in this country who don't want to talk about politics at all, except to say that all politicians are no good. Well, what kind of message does that send our kids? How does that help people get involved?"

Though he could probably win re-election without campaigning, he says he'll debate his opponent at least once. I met with him after he spent the morning being "beaten up" at a senior men's club whose members aren't happy about prescription drug prices. And, he says, he makes a point of going to talk to students at Michigan State University.

"They vote against me — oh, by about four-to-one," he laughed. "That's a good reality check for me."

One wonders if we'd get more sensible legislation if more politicians spent time with people who disagree with their views.

Local Scouts would benefit from Mackinac Island camp renovation

Mackinac Island is known for its fudge, horse-pulled carriages, centuries of history and spectacularly peaceful evenings.

One of the not-so-well-known attributes of the island is a summer Scout service camp that is unlike any other Scout camp in the country, and annually involves Scout troops from Livonia, Canton, Beverly Hills, Bloomfield Hills and Detroit.

For 75 years, the Mackinac Island Scout Service Camp has given Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts from across Michigan the opportunity to serve in a high-profile capacity as Fort Mackinac tour guides, stewards of the flags above the fort and other historic buildings and honor guards for the governor. They also perform various other service projects in and around the fort.

Groups of some 60 Scouts visit each summer week and collectively perform some 30,000 hours of volunteer service between Memorial Day and Labor Day each year.

Adolescents participate in various types of camps each summer with activities that are instructional and create lasting friendships. In Boy Scouts, most summer camp experiences involve tents, hiking, merit badges and fun in the great outdoors. While traditional summer camps present provide opportunities for growth, bonding and thrills, the Mackinac Island Scout Service Camp adds many unique elements that cannot be duplicated.

The island is a museum of American, British, Canadian and French history. The island introduces youngsters to life in the pre-automotive era. The island offers serene natural sights and sounds that elevate the bonding and sentimental memories for youngsters, compared to traditional camps.

The camp challenges youngsters to learn that history and become proud servants of Mackinac's attractions, which draw tens of thousands of visitors each summer. The camp gives many scouts unforgettable memories and lessons that resonate into adulthood.

Former President Gerald Ford was one of the original eight Eagle Scouts who served in the camp's inaugural year of 1929. As president, Ford visited the camp during a 1975 visit to the island.

Others who served at the Scout camp include former Gov. James Blanchard and state Rep. John Stewart, R-Plymouth.

Also, I am one of those Scouters who continue to find ways to remain involved in the camp that's had such a lasting positive impact. I was involved as a Scout and young adult from 1984-94, when the camp evolved into an annual highlight for me personally.

After nine years away from regular service, my bonds to the camp motivated me to take advantage of an opportunity to return to duty these past two summers as an adult leader with the southeastern Michigan Boy Scout contingent.

The group is a collection of top Scouts from Troop 271 at St. Michael's Church in Livonia, Troop 1536 at Canton's Fiegel School, Troop 194 at St. Gregory's Church in Detroit, Troop 1029 of Our Lady Queen of Martyrs in Beverly Hills, Troop 1036 at Kirk in the Hills Church and Troop 1037 at St. Hugo's Church, both from Bloomfield Hills.

The Scouts and leaders were on the island from July 31-Aug. 7. The Detroit-area group has served on the island for 63 consecutive years, the longest tenure of any group in the camp's history.

The Mackinac Island camp has impacted many Scouts throughout its 75 years. While the years helped build an adored tradition for many scouters, time has also worn down the Scout Barracks, which has served as the camp's headquarters for 70 years.

Like so many state programs in recent years, the government's financial struggles make it tough to adequately fund needed repairs to the Scout Barracks. The building needs about $500,000 to repair its antiquated electrical, mechanical and plumbing systems, address structural weaknesses and replace aging kitchen equipment and bunks. With no state funding in sight, Mackinac State Historic Parks aims to raise the money to repair the building so it provides a safe, well-equipped facility to maintain the camp that benefits many young people for years to come.

Tax-deductible donations can be made to Mackinac State Historic Parks, which runs Fort Mackinac on the island and Colonial Michilimackinac in Mackinaw City. The address is P.O. Box 873, Mackinaw City, MI 49701. For more information, call (231) 436-4100 or visit the Web site at www.mackinacparks.com.

Go green, go blue: New store has to serve two masters

BY DOUG JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

Tim Howell expects to be working on his birthday. He is the general manager of the new Wolverine & Spartan and More Shop which opens tomorrow.

And his birthday is Oct. 30 and that is the day of THE game, the annual football battle between the University of Michigan and Michigan State. The store left its Ford Road location behind McDonald's a few months ago and has been closed while the family adjusted to the death of the founder, Joseph Zawadski, longtime South Redford teacher and coach.

Howell's mother-in-law, Merrilee Zawadski, owns the new Canton store and three Buckeye/Wolverine stores in the Toledo area.

Howell's wife, Anne Howell, who graduated from Plymouth Salem in the early 90s, is assistant buyer for the stores. He and his wife live in Westland and hope to open one or two more Wolverine/Spartan stores out towards Howell or Brighton.

The new Canton store is in the shopping center at Joy and Morton Taylor (just north of the ACO store). A grand opening is set for Friday, Sept. 3 at noon.

"We wanted a bigger store, a cleaner store, and we wanted to be more visible, and, most importantly, we felt it would be wise to be closer to Plymouth," Howell said.

Howell figures between the four stores the operation inventories about 12,000 separate items, and will likely add more in the future.

Like the state of Michigan on game day, the store is divided down the middle.

"On the right as you enter is Wolverine stuff, figuratively closer to the U of M. On the left is Spartan stuff, just a bit closer to Lansing," Howell says with mock seriousness.

A split Spartan/Wolverine banner hangs in the middle of the store. "Families buy the split stuff all the time," Howell said. "Split license plates, too." Best customers for the split items: A man and wife went to different schools, or a family has one offspring at U of M, and one at State.

Howell, ever the diplomat walking the fine edge of sports mania, says Spartans buy more stuff because Wolverines can find more items in this area because of the proximity of the U of M to Plymouth and Canton.

"But, Wolverine fans spend more money," Howell said. The store features Spartan and Wolverine novelties, stadium seats, and all sorts of clothing. One of the more expensive items is a Spartan Hawaiian shirt which Howell assures is actually from Hawaii. Other expensive items include coats and golf bags with the school's logos.

"Customers can get a sense of belonging here no matter which school they went to," Howell said.

Howell himself went to U of M in Dearborn.

The weeks before Christmas and the few days before the U of M/State game are the stores busiest.

The store will be open all three days over the Labor Day weekend. Regular hours will be Monday through Wednesday 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Thursday and Friday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturdays 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday noon to 6 p.m. The store's address is 43319 Joy but it actually faces Morton Taylor. Phone is (734) 416-0690.

Tim Howell is opening the Spartan/Wolverine store Friday at noon. It is in the shopping center at Morton Taylor and Joy roads.

Plymouth learns from 43-30 loss to Ladywood

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

School officially started Monday morning for members of the Plymouth girls basketball team.

But the Wildcats were taught some valuable lessons on the basketball court Tuesday evening in their 43-30 loss to Livonia Ladywood.

"We'll definitely look back at this game as a learning experience," said coach Richelle Reilly, whose squad dropped to 1-1. "We took too long to foul in the final three minutes and we committed too many turnovers throughout the game. Our defensive rebounding was solid for the first three quarters, but we let down a little in the fourth."

Ladywood (1-1) applied a game-long, baseline-to-baseline press on the Wildcats, which forced them to alter their style of play, Reilly said.

"Ladywood's press made us play at a little faster pace than we wanted to," she said.

Despite the win, Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski said her team needs to work on its shot selection.

"We were not very patient," Gorski said. "We'd make one or two passes and then shoot. We need to get back to being more patient on offense."

Ladywood led 11-7 after one quarter and 21-18 at the half. Plymouth closed the gap to 25-23 with eight minutes to play, but the Blazers slammed the door shut in the fourth, outscoring the hosts 18-7.

Junior forward Jeanine Moise played strong inside, netting 15 points while pulling down 12 rebounds. Fellow post player Kim Olech tallied nine points and a game-high 21 boards.

Colleen Flaherty finished with four points and 11 rebounds.

Blazer Jamie Rhodes stuck a dagger in the Wildcats' fourth-quarter comeback hopes by scoring 12 of her team-high 14 points in the final eight minutes. Rhodes swished all five of her fourth-quarter free throws.

Erica Yost also played a stellar game for the Blazers, recording nine points, five steals and five assists.

"We didn't shoot that poorly," Reilly said. "But we had a lot of possessions in which we didn't even get a shot off due to the turnovers. The turnovers limited our opportunities to score."

Plymouth returns to action Tuesday when it travels to Southgate Anderson.

Salem QB completes record-setting effort

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Salem senior quarterback Jeff Lake ran through the Pinckney defense and straight into the Rocks' record books Friday night and Saturday afternoon.

He didn't stop until his name was positioned alongside all-time great Rocks QB Rich Hewlett, who racked up just about every Salem rushing record during his glorious high school career in the late '70s.

Lake turned in a Hewlett-like effort against the Pirates in Salem's season-opening 35-7 victory. The first-year quarterback scored a school record-tying four touchdowns while rushing for 212 yards, the third highest total in Salem history.

"That was a great performance, especially since it was the first varsity game that Jeff played quarterback," Salem coach Bob Cummings said. "You can't compare Jeff to Rich Hewlett because Rich put up big numbers game after game, but Lake had a great game tonight.

"Jeff actually played well on both sides of the ball (Lake played safety on defense). He only came off the field for a few plays the entire game."

Lake's touchdowns were diverse, to say the least. With the Rocks leading 7-0 and 9:24 left in the first half, he bolted 80 yards to the end zone on a keeper.

After Pinckney answered with a TD of its own to make it 14-7, Lake re-established the Rocks' momentum when he avoided three would-be Pirate tacklers and scrambled 22 yards to paydirt with just 36 seconds left in the first half.

A lightning delay forced the second half of the game to be shifted to Saturday afternoon, but it didn't slow down Lake, who scored his third touchdown when he was on the receiving end of a 19-yard half-back pass from Kevin Bradley to extend Salem's lead to 28-7.

The senior quarterback's final tally was more conventional: a 1-yard sneak.

Chiefs' secondary set for second straight tough test

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Canton's secondary will face its second stiff test of the season tonight when it travels to Walled Lake Central to battle the pass-happy Vikings.

The Canton defensive backs passed their initial test last weekend when they stymied Ann Arbor Pioneer's wide-open offense, which threw 28 times in the Chiefs' 26-6 weather-delayed victory.

The game was delayed by lightning Friday night with 11:42 left in the fourth quarter and Canton ahead, 20-6. The Chiefs closed the game Saturday with a potent mix of grind-it-out offense and stellar defense.

David Neu, Julian Smith and Jake Powers recorded interceptions for the Chiefs. Smith returned his pick for a TD to put Canton up 13-6 early in the third quarter.

Like Canton, Central will bring momentum into tonight's Western Lakes Activities Association opener. Led by senior quarterback Justin Goltz, the Vikings outscored Milford, 41-35, Friday night. Three of Goltz's 15 throws went for TDs.

"They looked great in their first game," Canton coach Tim Baechler said, after reviewing Central's opening-night game film. "They're a good team with an effective passing game."

Baechler said his team struggled with typical first-game mistakes against Pioneer, which led 6-0 at halftime Friday night.

"We need to be more consistent on offense," Baechler said. "With the offense we run, if one player doesn't do his job, the entire play breaks down. We need more consistency from our offensive line. Offensively, I would say we were adequate against Pioneer. We had a few fumbled snaps; we jumped offside a few times; we were just out of sync."

"I thought our special teams and defense played well against Pioneer. We had a couple of new kids — Deshon McClendon and Scott Steffes — who really stepped up. Deshon did a nice job returning kicks and filling in for our starting running backs, and Steffes played well in the defensive backfield."

Junior Andy Rossow was the Chiefs' top rusher against Pioneer, picking up 82 yards on 12 carries. Julian Smith had 45 yards on 10 rushes.

Canton outgained the Pioneers, 235-210, in total yards.

Kickoff is slated for 7 p.m. today.

Canton soccer team notches first victory

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Following six consecutive "close-but-no-victory" decisions to open the season, Canton's boys soccer team broke into the win column Tuesday night, edging Walled Lake Western, 2-1.

The Chiefs are now 1-3-3 heading into Wednesday's home match against Walled Lake Central.

With the game knotted at 1-1 and approximately 15 minutes left in regulation, Canton's Garrett Fishaw fired a throw-in into the box in front of the Western net. Senior Adam Stanko pounced on it and drilled the ball past the Warriors' goalie to give the Chiefs a 2-1 lead.

Strong play in goal from Steve Mischung (four saves) and the rest of Canton's defensive corps preserved the win.

Senior Adam Pitt gave Canton an early 1-0 advantage when he scored an unassisted goal midway through the first half.

Western pulled even five minutes before halftime.

On Monday, Canton dropped a 2-0 decision to highly rated Warren DeLaSalle. The Pilots broke a scoreless tie with five minutes left in the opening half before adding an insurance goal midway through the second half.

Mischung was credited with nine saves for the Chiefs.

Gapa Robb lauded

Canton resident Ann Gapa Robb will be inducted Saturday into the Hillsdale College Athletic Hall of Fame.

Following a stellar athletic career at Dearborn Divine Child, where she was an all-state softball pitcher and all-Catholic basketball player, Gapa Robb received an athletic scholarship to Hillsdale in 1984.

Her accomplishments at Hillsdale include earning all-GLIAC first team softball honors a record four times. Gapa Robb was Hillsdale's first 20-game winner with a 0.87 earned-run average and five no-hitters.

In 1988, Gapa Robb was named the NAIA District 23 Pitcher of the Year.

She is the school's fourth all-time leading scorer in basketball and is eighth on the charts in rebounding.

For the past 15 years, Gapa Robb has taught social studies at Wyandotte Roosevelt High School. She lives in Canton with her husband, Steve Robb, and two children, Kylie and Joey.

Whalers open camp

The Plymouth Whalers opened training camp for the 2004-05 season Wednesday at the Compuware Sports Arena, with two intrasquad scrimmages today and two Friday.

"I'm real excited to get started," said Plymouth head coach Mike Vellucci, who also serves as the team's president and general manager. "We have a young, aggressive team this season with some quality veterans to help out. It should be an interesting season."

The Whalers open the preseason at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Compuware Sports Arena against the Windsor Spitfires.

The scrimmages are open to the public.

FOOTBALL

Bradley scored the only non-Lake touchdown, an 80-yard run with 3:59 left in the first quarter.

Salem's Joey Alva was perfect on all five of his extra-point attempts.

Bradley didn't get his name etched in the record books, but he, too, gave the Pirates fits, rushing for 130 yards on 12 carries. Salem fullback Cam Schambre was also effective with 80 yards on 17 rushes.

Salem outgained Pinckney, 486-172, in total yards.

"It was a good effort all around for us, especially since we had to battle through a lot of adversity," Cummings said. "It seemed like every time we'd get some momentum going on Friday night, something would happen to slow us down."

The first adverse situation occurred in the opening moments of the second quarter, when the Rocks picked up 9 yards on a first-down run.

However, a 25-minute delay ensued following the apparently harmless play.

"After we had already run a play, the refs realized they had marked the ball on the wrong spot," Cummings said.

"Pinckney's coach argued that the ball should be re-marked and that the play shouldn't count."

Both coaches and the refs conferred for several minutes before the officials ruled that the play would stand.

The next adverse condition was the overnight lightning delay.

"I thought that might be a problem for us, but the kids dealt with it fine," Cummings said. "On Friday night, we had some big plays, but on Saturday, we had several long drives, picking up 5 or 6 yards at a time. The long drives were important because they kept Pinckney's offense off the field."

Stephen Lahane excelled on defense for Salem, recording 10 solo tackles. Ed Evers and Mike Conley also earned praise from Cummings for their play on the defensive side of the line.

Cummings hopes the momentum from the win carries over to tonight's contest against cross-campus rival Plymouth.

"They played Churchill extremely tough Friday night, so we know we're going to have our hands full," Cummings said.

Kickoff tonight is set for 7 p.m. at the PCEP football field.

Wildcats upend Central, now 4-0

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Life is good for the Plymouth boys soccer team, which extended its season-opening unbeaten streak to four Monday afternoon with a 4-2 victory at Walled Lake Central.

The 4-0 Wildcats (2-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association) ousted Livonia Franklin, 7-0, on Saturday.

"Everything is coming together for us," said coach Jeff Neschich.

Junior Sean Dillon paced Monday's win, scoring twice and assisting on a third goal.

"As always, Sean played very hard and made a lot of things happen for us," Neschich said.

Ali Youssef and Colin Rolfe scored goals to put the Wildcats up 2-0 before the Vikings dented the lead with a marker just before halftime. Andrew Koet and Dillon were credited with assists on the two first-half goals.

Dillon seized the momentum back for Plymouth when he took a pass from Koet and beat the Central goalie to make it 3-1.

After the Vikings cut the lead to 3-2, Rolfe assisted Dillon on the game-icing goal.

"Jim Wilbur and Nick Plescia played a fabulous game at mid-field for us tonight," Neschich said.

Robert Lovelace and Nick Siekirk split time in net for the Wildcats.

Plymouth jumped all over the Patriots Saturday, scoring early, late and often.

Koet led the way offensively, netting three goals. Wilbur drilled in a pair while Justin Sheridan and Dillon added one each.

Andy Sasinowski recorded three assists.

The unbeaten goalie duo of Lovelace and Siekirk shared the win, each playing a half.

Tigers roar, 1-0

Belleville stayed perfect, downing host Dearborn Heights Crestwood, 1-0, Monday night.

The Tigers' loan goal came off the foot of Sean Payne, who scored mid-way through the first half after taking a pass from Paul Devine.

Belleville goalie Joe Shamanski was flawless in goal, knocking away six Charger shots.

"Joe handled the ball very well tonight," Belleville coach Ron Held said. "He played solid."

Held also commended the play of Chris Rowe, whom he called, "the quarterback of our team."

The Tigers peppered 13 shots at the Crestwood net, but could only light up the scoreboard once.

"We had opportunities to score a lot more, but their goalie was very talented," Held said.

Agape victorious

The Wolverines (1-3) broke into the win column for the first time this season with a 4-1 victory over Monroe Lutheran South.

"We played real well tonight," said Agape coach Aaron Carr. "We controlled the ball and kept it in front of us, which is what I like to see."

Josh Osborn paced the Wolverines' attack with a pair of goals. Deven Boitiaux and Ron Pummill netted one goal each. Boitiaux and Eric Shoats both tallied an assist for the winners.

Wolverine goalie Will Plentowski had a strong game in net, stopping eight South shots.

Carr also praised the effort of sophomore striker Jack Anleitner.

"We had some tough losses early this year, but the kids responded well tonight," Carr said.

The Wolverines travel to Calvary Christian this afternoon.

Eagles fly

Ben Welton's goal in the 64th minute carried host Plymouth Christian Academy (5-0-1) to a 1-0 non-conference victory over Lutheran High Westland (3-1) Tuesday.

"It was pretty evenly played, but we had an unfortunate mix up in the corner to a wide-open guy up front and keeper never had a chance," Lutheran Westland coach Rich Block.

Goalkeeper Kevin Greening made six saves for the Warriors, while Matt Saagman turned away seven for the Eagles, who have yet to give up a goal this season.

Salem's road warriors take A.A. Huron crown

Even 'Big Linda' can't argue with final prep grid picks

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

With its first four games on the road, the Salem girls basketball team hasn't just been a road warrior early this season.

They've been a successful road warrior.

Salem was crowned champion of the Ann Arbor Huron Season Opening Classic Saturday night after it knocked off the host River Rats, 49-39.

The Rocks are now 3-0 heading into Tuesday's non-conference showdown at Brighton.

"It's a good start for us because two of the three teams we've beaten — Huron and West Bloomfield — are very talented basketball teams," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "Huron is probably the top team in the Ann Arbor area and West Bloomfield has one of the best programs in the state."

The Rocks exploded out to an 11-4 first-quarter advantage and 29-16 halftime lead due to their ability to break the River Rats' press — and because of the inspired play of Teresa Coppiellie, who pumped in 12 of her game-high 14 points in the opening 16 minutes.

Salem also played stellar defense against Huron's top two scorers, Thomann said.

"Kathryn Wheatley, Alyssa Guerin, Becky Ward and Keiyanna Arnold did a nice job of shutting down Huron's best players," Thomann said. "Coming into the game, the two girls had averaged a combined 35 points a game and we held them to 21."

Ellen Canale netted 10 points and dished out 6 assists. Also scoring for the Rocks were Guerin (7 points), Ward (6) and Arnold (4).

Agape starts strong

The Wolverines pushed their record to 2-0 Monday night with a 39-18 triumph at Petersburg-Summerfield (0-2).

Agape led just 7-6 after the opening eight minutes, but blew the game open with a 16-1 second-quarter run. The Wolverines led 31-13 after three quarters.

Danielle Henry had a strong game for the winners, netting 13 points. A.J. Creps posted 9 points and 12 rebounds.

"A.J. is a strong post player and is physically strong inside,"

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Agape coach Chuck Henry said.

Sophomore Brianna Chrenko added 8 points for Agape.

Melissa Tansel and Megan Gray led Summerfield with 5 points each.

Agape hit 9-of-18 free throws while Summerfield struggled from the charity stripe (2-of-12).

Tigers roar

Since the opening practice more than three weeks ago, Belleville coach Kevin Edwards has stressed to his team the importance of tenacious defense.

On Tuesday night, the Tigers (2-1) proved his point, hustling their way to a 44-27 win over Wayne Memorial (0-1).

"This is the first game all season that we came out from the start and played good defense," Edwards said. "I've told the girls all along, if you come with the strong defense, you can play with anybody."

Taylor Manley not only led the Tigers in scoring (14 points), she also was the team's primary defensive instigator, Edwards said.

"She didn't start tonight because I haven't been happy with her defensive effort," Edwards explained. "But tonight she came to play. She was our best defensive player out there tonight."

Erica Brewer also turned in a strong performance with 12 points and 8 rebounds. Tia Lewis played a strong floor game, scoring just 2, but dishing out 6 assists.

Ladwan Jones led the Zebras with 11 points.

Belleville led 15-6 after one quarter and 29-12 at the half. The Zebras narrowed their deficit to 33-20 after three stanzas, but 13 was as close as they could get.

I will leave the same way I came in four and a half years ago — with a true story.

A couple of years ago during the fall season, one area cross country coach was notorious for refusing to call in his team's results — even though his team was the best in its league. Results would come in occasionally, but not consistently, and we'd run what we'd get. (Memo to parents: Like every other newspaper, we rely on coaches to call in the results for most events. So if you don't see it in the paper, there's a reason.)

One day, I got an e-mail with the name "Big Linda" in the address (but no name signed to it — imagine that) complaining about the lack of cross country from her son's school, how other schools in the area always got more coverage and how our paper is a joke.

A few months later, I received an e-mail from someone who did sign his name, explaining that he lived in another state and how thankful he was that we covered his son's basketball team.

The most satisfying part? As near as I could determine, the compliment came from Big Linda's ex-husband.

It is at this point you may wonder what this has to do with this week's grid picks. Nothing, and everything, thank you.

For better or worse (and always better when it comes time to pick in the playoffs, much to the chagrin of Brad Emons), this is my final grid picks column — my farewell to a place I've enjoyed working, people I've enjoyed covering and an area that I've loved living.

Come Tuesday, I'll be starting over in Birmingham, Ala., covering preps and some other things for a daily paper there. It's not an easy decision, but sometimes you have to make a move, no matter how much you know you'll miss where you've been.

I'll miss all of it — from covering a CC playoff game on a crisp, fall afternoon at Hilbert Junior High to a cold walk to the gym at Garden City in January.

There are several coaches I'll miss working with — to mention them isn't possible because I'd hate to leave one out — although former Westland John Glenn coach

Grid Picks

Paul Beaudry

Chuck Gordon has to be happy I'm moving in the opposite direction from his northern retirement home.

I will miss tracking down one basketball coach at an area establishment while he indulges with the rest of the staff in some postgame R&R. Or having one swim coach call me after every meet while she eats with her team at the Senate Coney Island.

I'll miss the coaches — quotable and quiet, printable and persnickety. I'll miss the kids — regardless of their emotion or talent.

And I'll miss the events that are great fun, not because of the level of talent, but the measure of enjoyment that the competitors bring to the field or court — specifically, the Redford Junior Olympics and the annual basketball game between the faculty and students at the Burger Center for Autism.

It's not an easy decision to leave. I'm thankful you've let me into your homes and lives since 2000. I'll miss all of the places, all of the athletes and all of the people.

Yes, even Big Linda.

And I am leaving on a winning note with the best record of the bunch. An 11-2 mark for me leads the pack with Brad Emons and Ed Wright a game behind at 10-3. Starting next week, Tim Smith — currently our Southfield and West Bloomfield sports editor — will take over in Redford and Garden City and will take over my picks.

Can I leave a winner? We'll see.

THURSDAY'S GAMES

(All games 7 p.m. unless noted)
G.P.W. Liggett (0-1) at Luth. Westland (0-1), 4 p.m.: Neither team was impressive in its opener. Liggett was thumped by Cranbrook 39-6, while Lutheran Westland was spanked by Clarenceville. Something has to give, and my feeling is that will be the Warriors. PICKS: Liggett — Beaudry; Lutheran Westland — Wright, Emons.

Wayne (0-1) at Churchill (1-0): Last season, Wayne came out of the blocks hotter than a pistol and stayed that way for the first six weeks of the season. Could a win over Plymouth last week and Wayne this week send Churchill off to the same type of start? PICKS: Wayne — Emons; Churchill — Beaudry, Wright.

Franklin (0-1) at Stevenson (1-0): Don't read anything into Franklin's starting with a loss — a two-point deficit to always tough Oxford. But the Spartans came out of the blocks strong, too. And they'll stay that way for a while. PICKS: Franklin — Wright; Stevenson — Beaudry, Emons.

Northville (1-0) at John Glenn (1-0): Northville edged always-tough Saline, but John Glenn steamrolled Detroit Chadsey — a team slated to win the PSL's Division III, Glenn rolls again. PICKS: John Glenn — Beaudry, Wright, Emons.

Canton (1-0) at Walled Lake Central (1-0): Two more solid teams that beat two solid teams in their opener. While Central's win over Milford was impressive, even more impressive was Canton marching into Ann Arbor and stopping the Pioneers. PICKS: Canton — Beaudry, Wright, Emons.

Plymouth (0-1) at Salem (1-0): Forget last week, this is the one that matters for both schools. The Wildcats would love nothing better than to post their first win against their neighbors at P-CEP. And the Rocks would feel much shame if they let the 'Cats get their first win at their expense. It will happen, but not today. PICKS: Salem — Beaudry, Wright, Emons.

Belleville (0-1) at Lincoln Park (0-1): I have no specific reason to pick Belleville. But I can't pick against Bob LaPointe. If it was athletic director Mike Colletta, it would be a no-brainer. The Tigers haven't opened a season with back-to-back losses since 1996. And the team that ended that streak? Lincoln Park. PICKS: Belleville — Beaudry, Wright, Emons.

Taylor Kennedy (0-1; 0-1) at Redford Union (1-0; 1-0): Don't read much into the first week's results. RU's win came against Dearborn Heights Robichaud, which really hasn't been a solid team since Avery Brown played his ninth semester there. And Kennedy is coming off a one-point loss to arch-rival Truman. PICKS: Kennedy — Beaudry, Wright; RU — Emons.

Cranbrook (1-0, 1-0) at Clarenceville (1-0, 1-0), 7:30 p.m.: Funny part about this game is that the league champ will be decided in Week 2. The 'Ville hasn't lost a Metro Conference game in its last 45 and hasn't lost to Cranbrook since 1994. Nothing changes. PICKS: Clarenceville — Beaudry, Wright, Emons.

FRIDAY'S GAMES

Det. East Catholic (0-0) at Bishop Borgess (1-0), 4 p.m.: It's the league opener for both schools and the division for the Spartans. I don't care if the win came against Detroit Old Redford Academy or Gary's Old Towne Tavern, Borgess looked pretty good Saturday. PICKS: East Catholic — Emons; Borgess — Beaudry, Wright.

Monroe (1-0) at Garden City (0-1), 7 p.m.: Welcome back, coach Hudkins, although the Cougars won't exactly be excited to have the former Clarenceville coach come back to the area — not after Monroe won 28-7 over Temperance Bedford and Garden City was easily handled by Allen Park. PICKS: Monroe — Beaudry, Emons, Wright.

Thurston (0-1) at Ypsilanti (0-1), 7 p.m.: It took two days for Thurston to finally lose its opener to Southgate. The Braves had no such problem, falling quickly and quietly to Jackson, 35-16. Thurston should win, but that little voice is speaking up one last time. PICKS: Thurston — Wright; Ypsilanti — Beaudry, Emons.

SATURDAY'S GAME

Redford CC vs. London (Ontario) CC at RU's Kraft Field (Hilbert M.S.), 7 p.m.: OK, we've established that the Shamrocks have problems with teams from other states. They will have no problem with a team from another country. PICKS: Redford CC — Beaudry, Emons, Wright.

Cornerstone upsets Madonna spikers at UM-Dearborn

Madonna University, ranked third in the preseason NAIA poll, hit an early season bump in the road Saturday courtesy of a familiar foe from the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference.

Cornerstone University, ranked No. 15, rallied from a 2-1 game deficit to upset the Crusaders in the University of Michigan-Dearborn Early Bird

COLLEGE VOLLEYBALL

Invitational, 30-23, 17-30, 26-30, 30-18, 15-7.

MU captured four of five matches in the two-day, round-robin tournament, which started Friday. The Crusaders are 5-1 overall heading into this weekend's Grand Canyon College (Ariz.) Invitational.

Sharyse Bush, named to the All-Tournament team, led MU in hitting with a team-high 26 kills in the loss to unbeaten Cornerstone. Also in double figures in kills included Natalja Tinina (22), Caryn Inman (14) and Livonia Franklin's Tera Morrill (10).

Freshman Jacqui Gatt (Livonia Churchill) and Bush each had a team-high 25 digs, while Morrill added 24. Setter Ashley Frost finished with 57 assist-to-kills.

On Friday, Madonna defeated WHAC foe Spring Arbor, 30-13, 30-15, 30-14, and College of the Ozarks (Mo.), 30-12, 30-28, 30-14.

On Saturday, the Crusaders downed previously unbeaten Indiana Wesleyan, 30-17, 30-20, 30-20, and St. Francis (Ind.), 30-21, 30-13, 30-25.

Bush, a senior transfer from Mott Community College via Flint Central High School, had total of 91 kills in five matches. Tinina (Riga, Latvia) and Inman added 72 and 61, respectively.

CC drops grid opener, 15-14

BY PAUL BEAUDRY
STAFF WRITER

Quick quiz: Name the last time Catholic Central's football team lost a season opener.

Quick hint: Members of the current squad weren't born yet.

Quick answer: There are no quick answers to Saturday's 15-14 loss to Downers Grove (Ill.) South at the Silverdome, but the last time CC dropped the season opener was in 1984 with a 21-14 loss to Traverse City.

The Shamrocks held a 14-0 lead in the second quarter but couldn't hold on, as the Mustangs outgained CC in total offense - 291-181 - and managed a touchdown in the final minute to provide the win.

CC scored in both of the first two quarters as Eric Vojtkofsky capped a 69-yard drive with a 4-yard TD run in the first quarter and Ed Moore returned an interception 57 yards for a second-quarter touchdown. Kevin Horal had both extra points.

Downers Grove South came back right before half as Alex Sandberg had a 1-yard touchdown run and Sean Wunderlich added the extra point.

It stayed that way until late in the fourth quarter - and after a CC punt landed on the Mustangs' 1 - it looked like it would end that way.

But South mounted a 99-yard drive, capped by Sandberg's 5-yard run with 53 seconds left. Drew Burdi then hit Wunderlich with the 2-point conversion to give South the win.

CC had 155 yards rushing, led by Anthony Sabo with 13 carries for 65 yards. Nick Barrett had 10 carries for 38 yards, and Vojtkofsky had eight carries for 36 yards. Sandberg led the Mustangs with 48 yards on 16 carries.

Canton harriers hope hard work pays big dividends

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Based on their pre-season workload, it wouldn't be surprising if several members of the Canton girls cross-country team had to purchase replacement soles for their running shoes in the near future.

"We've been working very hard the past month-and-a-half," revealed Canton coach John Venning. "We had two-a-day practices since August 9, and the girls have put in a lot of miles. It's a tough group of runners."

The Chiefs finished fifth in both the Western Lakes Activities Association and the Division 1 regional in 2003.

The biggest void in Canton's line-up was created by the graduation of Sarah Stobbe, the team's no. 2 runner for most of last season.

Juniors Becky McCormack

and Lisa Clinton are the top two returners for the Chiefs, who were bolstered by the addition of first-year runner Jennifer Thomas. McCormack, Clinton and Thomas all medaled at the South Lyon Invitational Saturday.

"Becky, Lisa and Jennifer should be our top three runners this year," Venning predicted. "They're all hard workers and they should have a good year. With 34 girls on the team, we have good depth from top to bottom."

Other key returners are seniors Jessica Scott and Jen David, junior Kristin Ward, and sophomore Annie Murphy. Promising newcomers include Megan Hakala, Kayla Coleman and Beth Pruitt.

Salem

The Rocks are optimistic

heading into this season, and the optimism is warranted based on the number of quality runners Salem has returning from last year's talented squad.

Salem was fourth in the WLAA league meet, third in its regional and 16th at the state meet in 2003.

"Last season was one of the most successful in the history of Salem cross country," said Rock coach Dave Gerlach. "One of our main goals this year is to keep improving and finish as high as we did last year. I'm optimistic, but you never know. A lot of it will depend on injuries."

"We hold ourselves to high standards. The athletes, their parents and the coaches all have high expectations for this season. If we perform up to our potential, we'll be all right. The girls just need to relax and let their training and work ethic take over."

Three state qualifiers return from last year's team. Senior Laura Friedman has posted the fastest time - 19:30 - of the three. Sophomore Hannah Cavichio (19:35) and senior Lauren Kane (19:42) will also be looking to return to the state meet.

Other top veterans are seniors Danielle Malone (20:03) and Monica Przebienda (20:18), and junior Amanda Kassem (20:20).

Promising new-comers include Marisa Carpinelli, Sarah Kosteva, Nicole Widak and Rachel Gizicki.

"We have a lot of competition within the team, which is good," Gerlach said. "The girls enjoy running together and they push each other to get better."

Plymouth Christian

This year will be a rebuilding season for the Eagles, according to first-year Nan Reason, who has five girls to work with.

"We have just three freshmen and two sophomores, so we're pretty inexperienced," Reason said. "The girls we do have are making strides, though. No one ran on the team last year, so it's been kind of like 'Running 101' for us early on. I'm working on their distance skills as well as speed. I'm encouraged by what I've seen so far."

Freshman Armila Francis has turned in the best times in practices. Francis will be joined by freshmen Lauren Ahearn and Meg Tabbey, and sophomores Ashley James and Katie Wendt.

"Now that school has started, I'm trying to do some recruiting to see if I can get some more girls to come out for the team," Reason said.

PCA opens its season this afternoon against Lutheran Northwest at Nankin Mills.

Expectations high for Salem harriers

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Modest pre-season expectations evolved into sky-high results for the Salem boys cross-country team in 2003. Rock coach Geoff Baker hopes this year's results can match his team's lofty pre-season expectations.

"We really weren't expecting much last year," Baker reflected. "Then we were half-way through the season and we said, hey, we're not too bad. I think we surprised ourselves by winning the conference and then finishing second in the regional."

Salem qualified for the Class A state meet and fared well, finishing 21st.

Lead runner Adam Warner has graduated along with key contributors Brian Barnes and Brian Kutnick.

But with seniors Adam Kosteva and Scott Kysh, and junior Jimmy Walsh returning, the Rocks' cupboard is far from bare.

Kosteva, a co-captain, finished 96th at the 2003 state meet — an effort he should improve on this year.

"Adam had a lot of leg problems last year," Baker said. "He had a good summer of training and it looks like he's in good shape. He's definitely ahead of schedule compared to last year."

Kysh will share the captains' duties with Kosteva and senior Joe Rothert.

"Scott showed up in real good

shape," Baker said. "He's at the top of his game right now."

Returning state qualifiers Jimmy Walsh and Dan Kapadia, both juniors, give the Rocks plenty of depth. Junior Erik Dondzila and senior John Isreal will push the team's top runners.

"We're in a real tough regional with Northville, Novi, Catholic Central, Livonia Churchill and Livonia Stevenson," Baker said. "There will be six teams fighting for three spots."

Canton

Steve Cheek — a state qualifier the past two seasons — is the Chiefs' top returning runner. A senior, Cheek suffered through an injury-plagued 2003 following a sterling sophomore season in which he was clocked at a blazing 16:36, which was just 11 off Steve Debie's school record (16:25).

Despite the injuries, Cheek garnered All-Division and second-team All-Area honors.

"Steve's really been working hard this year and he's running more like he did his sophomore season," said Canton coach Bill Boyd.

Junior Ken Clawson was voted the team's "Most Improved Runner" last season, a feat he hopes to build on in 2004.

"Ken worked consistently hard this summer in an attempt to have a great junior season," Boyd said.

Boyd also has high expectations for sophomore Ben Norville, four-year runner Brian Zielinski, junior Evan Shepherd and junior Trey Wolfe.

"Evan is a hard worker who dropped his time more than six minutes last year," Boyd said. "And Trey has unlimited potential."

Plymouth

It's difficult for ninth- and 10th-grade boys to excel at cross country due to their lack of physical maturity.

Lee Shaw knows this firsthand after coaching the junior-less and senior-less Wildcat harriers last season.

"We were very young last season," Shaw said. "The effort was great, but the results weren't."

Shaw would like to see the Wildcats improve on their 10th-place WLAA showing from last season now that they have another year under their belts.

"We have 11 runners this year compared to seven last year, so that will help," Shaw said.

Leading returners for the Wildcats are juniors Nate Kostegian and Jeff Movsesian, and sophomores Patrick Slavens and Cristin Chagas.

New-comers who could make a mark on the Wildcats' fortunes include juniors Shayne Perkovich and John Zaccane, and sophomores Justin Mahill and Anthony Scaparo.

Plymouth Christian

First-year coach Nan Reason has a solid corps of returning runners along with a few potentially strong new-comers.

"We look good so far," Reason said. "Some of the kids worked out throughout the summer together, which helps. And we have three kids who play soccer, too, so they're definitely in shape."

Reason one of her goals is to see some of her runners crack the 18-minute mark.

Among those who can potentially attain that goal are John Wendt, Ben Welton and Caleb James, all of whom also play for the Eagles soccer squad.

They will be joined by key returners Jeff Davies, Matt Stephens, Brian Holychuk, Greg Seedott, Scott Brant and Matt Gates.

Home Buyers:
Shop for a mortgage before you shop for a home.

Getting a loan pre-approval is the smart way to shop for a home. It tells sellers that you're a serious prospect, and you know in advance the maximum mortgage you can afford. Make sure you get a commitment in writing.

The good news is it's easier than ever to qualify for a home loan. Lenders have many programs that call for dramatically reduced down payments—the biggest obstacle for first-time home buyers in particular.

Model home designers recreate family life

Mike and Susan aren't home now. And they won't be home later. Actually, they'll never be home. Well, that's not so surprising, considering that they never were here.

But isn't this their home? One of the Pierce Street houses built in Birmingham by Robertson Brothers?

Hasn't the house been made comfortably livable just for them? Isn't every piece of furniture just what and where they want it? Aren't those the draperies they always wanted? Isn't the baby's room as perfect as it was in their dreams? Yes, but...

Mike and Susan, you see, along with their toddler, Jacob, only exist in the minds of a group of interior designers who furnished and decorated the model home that Mike, Susan and Jacob would live in if they lived in a home. But they don't.

'A-Room-A-Therapy'

Paint Pourri™ by Scentco™ LLC turns latex or latex enamel paint into an air freshener. Empty a 1-ounce pouch of Paint Pourri into 1 gallon of paint and mix thoroughly, then paint as usual. The product was developed to provide a pleasant, long-lasting fragrance and to help neutralize odors, such as smoke, pets, mold, mildew, and the natural odor of paint. Paint Pourri is available in eight fragrances: Tropical Winds, Simply Citrus, Ocean Breeze, Soft Vanilla, Wildflower, Airy Fresh, Lavender Breeze and Simply Clean. Before adding Paint Pourri to your paint, scratch and sniff the fragrance label to be sure you like the scent. The product can be used in any room - including basements, garages, kitchens, sunrooms, family rooms, bedrooms, closets and laundry rooms - and in rental properties, hotels, apartments, public restrooms and locker rooms. "One thing we discovered is that people choose a fragrance to match the color of the paint," said Kevin Vick, president of Scentco. "A sunroom, for example, may be painted a vibrant blue color and people will pick out an Ocean Breeze scent to match. We call it 'A-Room-A-Therapy.'"

It is recommended that Paint Pourri be added to all coats of paint, with at least two coats applied. The scent should last for six to 12 months in smaller areas, four to six months in larger spaces. The fragrance level will be stronger during the painting process than after the paint has dried. If the scent is too strong, cover the area with untreated paint to lessen the effect. For a stronger fragrance, add another pouch to the gallon; for a milder scent, use less than one pouch. For more information, call (877) SCENTCO, fax (229) 228-6137, visit www.scentco.net or e-mail info@scentco.net.

Chair-ity

Talented interior designers, architects, artists and notable personalities are busy turning ordinary household furniture into unusual creations for the 10th annual Chair Affair, to benefit the Furniture Bank of Oakland County.

The event will feature an exciting live auction of these one-of-a-kind creations and - new for this year - artwork, travel and more.

A lively silent auction of art, sports items, golf and restaurant packages, and home and gift items will also take place.

Guests will enjoy a strolling buffet of sumptuous food by area restaurants, wine, beer, a martini bar and music.

Chair Affair will take place 7-11 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 2, at 30 N. Saginaw in Pontiac. Tickets are $100 per person; a reserved table for eight is $800. For information, call the Furniture Bank at (248) 332-1300.

The Furniture Bank is the only resource in southeast Michigan that provides furniture and appliances at no charge to more than 2,000 families annually. The money raised from Chair Affair is vital to help continue to address the growing need.

Major Chair Affair sponsors are MAC Valves and GMAC. Other sponsors include Baker College, Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Computware, Eastern Oil, Fox Run, Group Associates Inc. and TCF Bank.

Plan to establish that next family tradition

When I was a child, my family had customs that we repeated each year. I would like to create traditions for my family that will be special and important to them throughout their adult life. Any suggestions?

Domestic Planner
Diana Koenig

Establishing family traditions takes planning. As a homemaker, we are responsible for organizing a home and planning activities for the family.

Homemakers run several businesses at once: taxi service, chef, activity coordinator, financial advisor, cleaning service and nurse. We are responsible for the emotional security of several lives.

Establishing traditions is a valuable tool to help the family remain a healthy, connected group.

Traditions have become an ideal instead of a reality in today's busy society. Activities pull us in separate directions while careers separate families geographically.

It takes perseverance to establish and maintain family traditions.

A tradition is any activity that is periodically repeated, generally enjoyed, and eagerly anticipated.

The annual family reunion is a great tradition, providing the opportunity to socialize with distant relatives and share the activities of your lives. You can observe from year to year how the children grow and change. You can keep abreast of the latest family news. It also provides an opportunity to plan additional activities during the year.

Holidays are an excellent time to establish traditions. We usually have 'built-in' days off from work.

Since holidays occur every year by definition, you have an automatic reminder to practice your tradition. Memorial Day, Labor Day, and the Fourth of July are good holidays for an annual picnic, swimming party, or pig roast.

Christmas is made for traditions.

You can select a family picture and make copies to send as Christmas cards.

The photo can be taken any time. You could have a winter picture next to a snowman, a beautiful fall scene in a park, a beach picture, or a sports theme shot.

Birthdays are another time to celebrate a tradition.

Make a large, festive sign with balloons, streamers, drawings, and comments. On the eve of the birthday, after the honoree is asleep, hang the sign in his room or on his door. Prepare his favorite meal, and favorite dessert.

Set aside certain nights for traditional monthly events.

For example, on the first Friday of each month spread a blanket in the family room where you can sit while you eat popcorn, drink soda and watch a movie together.

Sometimes it is fun to establish traditions that provide a link with the past.

Enroll your children at a camp you used to attend.

Let them visit a relative's farm you visited every year when you were young.

You and your children can share stories and adventures about the same place. These traditions eliminate 'generation gaps.'

Take pictures of your activities and put them in an album.

Use a photo safe, scrapbooking album so you can write about the traditions and preserve the pictures for future generations to enjoy.

Create traditions! Think of something new and make it special for your family.

Maintain that small refrigerator

I received an e-mail recently from a California resident. It read: "I now live in Los Angeles and I moved here six months ago from Michigan. I hope you can give me some long distance advice on my apartment-sized Kenmore refrigerator. It will not produce any cold whatsoever. When I plug it in, it starts up fine, then there is a 'click' and the fan motor sound changes somewhat, but the refrigerator is not cold. (I think the compressor cuts off right away, at the sound of the click.) Any suggestions?

Appliance Doctor

"Thanks from a fan in California."

This e-mail gives me an opportunity to inform all readers of the importance of cleaning the condenser under the refrigerator on a regular quarterly schedule.

A dirty condenser will cause the compressor to overheat, which will destroy this component. Replacing a compressor today can cost a homeowner over $500. The more expensive the refrigerator is, the more likely you will have the repair done.

When a compressor is overheated, there is an overload attached to the compressor which will sense this, and prevent the compressor from operating. You can hear the click of the overload as it does its job.

A "locked rotor" in a compressor also will give you a clicking sound from the overload and in this case, you are sure to need a new compressor. It is also possible to get the click sound, when the overload itself is defective.

I have many times advised consumers to purchase a relay and overload kit from an appliance parts store and install the parts according to the directions. Many do-it-yourselfers discover that the refrigerator operates properly after installation.

I stress to you again, the most important thing you can do to maintain your refrigerator is to clean the condenser. Not only will you add years of life to the product you will save dollars in reducing the energy operating cost by many dollars throughout its lifetime.

Greg writes: "I have a 3-year-old gas dryer that squeaks constantly as it tumbles the clothes. The little squeak is now a constant medium-loud noise. Since I work out of my home, using a phone and computer in my open basement, the noise can be heard by my customers. I'm handy, but no expert."

"Could it be a bearing squeaking? How about some do-it-yourself advice before my customers won't talk to me? Thanks."

Clothes dryers use an idler pulley which is mounted on a bracket and moves on the belt to take up any slack. You will find it located next to the motor pulley and easily replaceable by a handyman or handywoman.

The idler pulley is a fast-moving replacement part in the appliance industry because most have a bearing inside the plastic pulley which takes a great amount of wear and tear. The bearing wear is primarily caused by the terrific amount of heat generated in that lower section of a clothes dryer.

Ronald writes: "It looks like chewing gum was left in a pants pocket and now is all over the clothes dryer drum. What is best way to remove all of this. I get a little paranoid when scrubbing with cleansers with the gas dryer."

You make a smart point, Ron, by being concerned about cleansers around a gas flame. I would suggest you turn the drum by hand so that you can place a sandwich bag filled with ice cubes on the area containing the gum. In many cases you can just peel off the gum after the ice cubes harden it.

You can also use a product called ZUD available at many hardware and grocery stores.

Another great cleanser is Bon-Ami which was probably used by your grandmother. My mother used to use it to wash my elbows when I was a youngster. Good luck.

Joe Gagnon can now be heard on WWJ-950 and WXYT-1270. He is a member and past president of the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals. His phone number is (248) 455-7281.

It's Easy To Criticize...

Offering constructive criticism to others can be beneficial, but only if the other person is receptive to our comments. In teaching situations or during on-the-job training, constructive criticism is usually necessary to instruct and help a person develop a trade or vocation. However, correcting someone, even in a kind or skillful manner, can be very challenging, since we are never sure how the individual may react. Many friendships and families have been destroyed because someone has been overly critical of another person's words or actions. Knowing when we should offer our comments can also be difficult, and we should be fairly certain that our comments are truthful and necessary. It often seems so easy to criticize others because we mistakenly believe that we are without fault or are such experts on most everything. The Bible tells us that we look at the speck in our brother's eye, but we pay no attention to the log in our own (Luke 6:41). Faultfinding and being overly critical of others, especially behind their backs, are wrong and can become habit-forming. However, kind words are good for the soul and help to build a person up.

'Big pile of dirt' now learning ground

What was once a "big pile of dirt" at the Bowers School Farm on Square Lake Road in Bloomfield Hills has been transformed into a 150-by-40-foot permanent educational garden planted

Garden Spot

Marty Figley

"The farm is a public space and is a perfect site for such a garden," said Mark Seeley, farm manager.

The first phase of the garden was the hardscape, changing the contours of that "big pile of dirt" into tiers, held by a retaining wall. Also, steps and wide paths making easy access to the garden were placed.

Then the irrigation was installed, followed by the placement of the plants.

Several companies helped in the garden and were very receptive to being involved. They are the Picasso Landscape Co. of Highland, which installed the extensive stonework; Joe Hoffman Irrigation of Rochester; and Goldner Walsh Nursery Inc. of Pontiac, which provided the design, coordinated the planning with the families and supplied the plants, and will be involved with future phases of the garden.

Kathy Bell and Amy Schimmel Bessolo of GWN created the original design.

"I'm proud of being associated (with) creating a legacy to benefit this program in the community," said Tim Travis, president of GWN.

PROGRAMS

Moms and children attending a program at the Women's Survival Center of Oakland County worked diligently to plant the new Bird and Butterfly Garden at Bowers School Farm.

This Bird and Butterfly Garden is filled with plants that are very attractive to them.

For instance: purple cone-flowers, pink and blue butterfly bushes, blue baptista, silver Russian sage, pink-maroon sedum autumn joy, red cardinal flower, yellow black-eyed Susan, lavender, honeysuckle vines and various grasses (children like the texture).

Shrubs and trees that attract include serviceberry with white-pinkish berries, crabapple trees, plectruss, white or pink clethra and thorny barberry, where birds can be concealed and protected.

This new garden is the result of a grant awarded to the Women's Survival Center of Oakland County, in partnership with The Community Foundation for Southeastern Michigan.

The center offers programs for children ages 6 through 12 and their parents on a regular basis.

This particular program is titled the Great Outdoors "This Land is Your Land" Family Strengthening Project, and offers outdoor activities one Saturday a month and learning together events one evening a month.

Some of the activities are wildlife watching, gardening, camping, swimming, canoeing, fishing, hiking and outdoor sports.

All programs are free and include transportation and lunch.

Tahirih Ziegler is the project director and can be reached at (248) 338-4488, Ext. 4.

This school farm is in the Bloomfield Hills School District. Many outdoor activities are conducted at the farm, and this new garden will serve a useful purpose.

All programs are on a reservation basis and are scheduled through the office.

The farm is open 1-4 p.m. the third Saturday of September, October, April and May. Groups from two to four, up to a maximum of 60, at a time are welcome.

For more information, call (248) 341-6475.

If you wish to make a donation, your tax-deductible contribution is welcome to help complete the Bird and Butterfly Garden at the Bowers School Farm with the Women's Survival Center and The Community Foundation of Southeastern Michigan.

Make checks payable to Women's Survival Center of Oakland County and specify in the check memo "Butterfly Garden." Send checks to the Women's Survival Center

Oakland County, 76 Williams St., Pontiac 48341, or to Goldner Walsh Nursery, 559 Orchard Lake Road, Pontiac 48341.

For additional information, call Tim Travis at (248) 332-6430.

BOOKS

You might want to add two excellent books published by Lone Pine Press to your library.

The first, Roses for Michigan, Nancy Lindley and Laura Peters ($18.95), includes first-rate information that will help from selection to the most up-to-date care.

Lindley and her husband own Great Lakes Roses in Sumpter Township.

The second, Gardening Month by Month in Michigan, Tim Wood and Allison Beck ($15.95), gives specific information about chores to be done at the proper time.

The book is beautifully illustrated and gives straightforward ideas to keep your garden healthy and happy throughout the year.

Marty Figley is an advanced master gardener based in Birmingham. You can leave her a message by dialing (734) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone. Her fax number is (248) 644-1314.

On the go

Meals serve home-cooked flavor in a hurry

BY MARY KLEMIC
STAFF WRITER

There's fast food, and there's food you can get fast.

What's the difference? For the answer, stop by almost any grocery store and you'll find a vast variety of prepared meals. Shelves are stocked with multifaceted menus serving nutritious food, often with gourmet features.

"The average person eats out three times a week," said Mary Denning, owner of Mary Denning's Cake Shoppe in Westland. "People are running kids to soccer and they just don't have much time to cook."

Steve Blum, general manager of the deli and bakery at Busch's in Livonia, sees the same rushed customers.

"I think they're very busy and they don't have the time," he said. "They want good quality food and they don't want fast food."

Ready to eat meals - and related classes and other offerings - are a big part of research and development at Busch's, which has stores in Farmington Hills, Livonia and Plymouth/Northville.

Busch's calls such food "home meal replacements," or HMR. Tested HMR and their components can be found in meat and seafood cases, salad bars and dessert cases at stores.

"We try to gear for all customers," said Peggy de Parry, director of meal solutions for Busch's.

"We try to answer every particular need."

The National Restaurant Association's Restaurant Industry Forecast says that restaurant sales in the East North Central Region (Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin) will reach a record $53.6 billion in 2004, an increase of 3.8 percent over 2003.

Michigan restaurants are expected to post sales of $11.4 billion this year, up 3.9 percent from last year, according to the Michigan Restaurant Association Web site.

RECIPES

FLANK STEAK, BLUE CHEESE AND SPINACH SALAD

This is also a great salad using leftover steak. Or, cold sliced beef tenderloin would be a succulent, elegant alternative. You can cook the steak up to 24 hours in advance, but assemble the salad immediately before serving.

1 flank steak, about 1½ pounds
1½ cups bottled balsamic vinaigrette, well shaken
Kosher salt and freshly ground pepper
1 bag (10 ounces) baby spinach, washed and spun dry
1 head red leaf lettuce, washed, spun dry and torn into bite-size pieces

1 pint grape tomatoes
1 cup (about 4 ounces) crumbled blue cheese
½ small red onion, sliced into thin rings

Place the steak in a large nonreactive dish or resealable plastic bag with 1 cup of the balsamic vinaigrette.

Marinate, refrigerated, at least 2 hours and up to 16 hours, turning occasionally.

Heat your grill or a heavy-bottomed sauté pan to high.

Remove steak from marinade, pat dry and season with salt and pepper.

Cook about 5 minutes per side for rare to medium-rare. Don't overcook; flank steak can be quite dry and tough if cooked beyond medium-rare.

If you prefer well-done meat, choose another cut.

Let the beef chill, refrigerated, then slice the meat at an angle against the grain.

Immediately before serving, toss the spinach, lettuce and grape

A little local flavor

Michigan-made foods connect with residents

BY MIKE MURPHY
CORRESPONDENT

Diane Lynch is shocked when asked what keeps Sander's products alive in spite of a complicated maze of ownership over the past two decades and the disappearance of Sander's-owned shops in the Detroit area.

"Have you ever tried the hot fudge?" she asks.

The good news for hot fudge lovers and fans of dozens of other Sander's products is that Sander's, now owned by the Morley Candy Co. of Clinton Township, may mount a comeback by opening a small counter shop at Laurel Park in Livonia.

"It won't be a full-service fountain, but we will have all the Sander's fare that's still available today," said Lynch, marketing director for Detroit's most famous confectioners. "It's a brand that won't go away."

Her tenure as marketing director with Sander's began just before the company in 1985 sold its brand name and delectable recipes to the Connecticut-based Country

MADE IN MICHIGAN

Homes Bakers, then closed the original Sander's plant in Highland Park.

"Hopefully, (the Livonia location) will be so well-received that it's the catalyst for a full-scale parlor," Lynch said.

The decision to close the Detroit-area parlors and lunch counters was made by Tastee International in Utica in 1993, eight years after the company famous for Tastee-Freez franchises took over the operation of Sander's retail stores.

Sander's, Better Made, Faygo, Vernor's, Awrey's, Jiffy and Stroh's are all names that are synonymous with Detroit or southeast Michigan. The in-state and out-of-state demand for these products remains strong despite changing hands of distribution and ownership.

While in most cases, traces of family ownership are long gone, there are exceptions. Third- and fourth-generation Awrey family members continue to produce baked goods out

LORI'S MUSSELS

Small clams, such as little-necks (steamers) may be substituted for the mussels in this recipe. Choose mussels that are closed and aren't chipped. Discard those with broken or chipped shells or any that refuse to open when tapped. A loaf of crusty French bread is essential for dipping in the broth.

- 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pounds mussels
- 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 small onion, diced
- 1 tablespoon minced garlic
- 2 cups chicken broth or white wine or a combination of the two
- 1 can (28 ounces) diced Italian-seasoned tomatoes, undrained
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
- 1 yellow bell pepper, seeds and ribs removed and diced
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped fresh parsley

Remove grit from mussels by soaking them in a cold bath for 30 minutes and scrubbing the shells with a stiff brush. Scrape or put off beards, seaweed-like attachments that sometimes protrude from the shells.

In a large, deep sauté pan or Dutch oven, heat oil. Add onion and garlic and sauté until just translucent, about 4 minutes. Add chicken broth or wine and bring to a boil. Boil until liquid is reduced by half.

MONICA FOUTS | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Prepared dishes such as Mango Chicken are available at Busch's.

Add tomatoes with their liquid and red pepper flakes and simmer 5 minutes. Add yellow pepper and mussels. Cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, until mussels open. Discard any mussels that don't open.

Remove from heat, sprinkle with parsley and serve immediately.

Yield: about 4 servings (about 30 to 36 mussels).

PORK TENDERLOIN WITH DIJON AND BACON

- 3 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 2 pork tenderloins (about 1 pound each)
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh tarragon, or 1 teaspoon dried
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 4 to 6 slices good quality bacon

Preheat oven to 400 degrees Fahrenheit.

Evenly spread mustard over tenderloins. Sprinkle with chopped tarragon and black pepper. Wrap tenderloins with bacon and secure with picks if necessary.

On middle rack, roast tenderloins on a well-oiled baking sheet about 30 minutes or until temperature registers 150 degrees on an oven thermometer.

Let rest 10 minutes, slice into medallions and serve with juices.

Yield: 3 to 4 servings.

THAI SHRIMP PITA POCKETS

Great additions to this salad are $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped peanuts and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped fresh cilantro. Stuff "mini" pita pockets with salad for a savory appetizer.

- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup bottled peanut satay sauce
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons Thai sweet red chili sauce
- 1 teaspoon fresh lime juice
- 1 pound cooked shrimp, peeled, deveined and coarsely chopped
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water chestnuts, coarsely chopped
- 1 cup shredded carrots
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup minced scallions (white and light green parts only)
- 1 red bell pepper, seeds and ribs removed and diced
- 4 large (about 8-inch) pitas, halved

Whisk together satay sauce, mayonnaise, chili sauce and lime juice to make a dressing.

Combine shrimp, water chestnuts, carrots, scallions and diced pepper with the dressing. Chill up to 24 hours.

When ready to serve, fill each pita half with about 1 cup of salad.

Yield: 8 pita halves.

TEMPEH REUBEN ROLLUPS

- 1 8-ounce package soy tempeh with sea veggies, cut into 16 thin slices
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup 365 Organic™ Soy Ginger Sauce
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoon canola oil
- 4 whole-wheat tortillas
- 1 cup shredded Swiss cheese or non-dairy substitute
- 1 to 2 cups sauerkraut
- 365 Organic™ Organic German mustard
- Thousand Island dressing

In a covered skillet with a bit of water, gently steam the tempeh for about 30 minutes over low heat.

Marinate the steamed tempeh in the soy ginger sauce for 30 to 60 minutes.

Sauté the marinated tempeh strips in canola oil over medium-low heat, turning frequently until browned, about 5 minutes.

Remove from heat.

One at a time, warm one side of a tortilla in a skillet over medium-low heat, flip, sprinkle with cheese and warm until cheese just starts to melt, before tortilla gets crispy.

Place 4 strips of tempeh on each tortilla. Top with sauerkraut, Organic German mustard and Thousand Island dressing. Roll and enjoy.

Serves 4.

of the company's Livonia plant, while Better Made snack foods are produced in Detroit.

Better Made President Sam Cipriano, whose father was one of the partners who founded the potato chip company in 1931, said the secret to Better Made's success has been in its refusal to skimp on ingredients, a cost-cutting measure that he says is common practice for snack food giants like Frito-Lay.

"We've never changed or veered from our original recipe," Cipriano said. "We've been in Detroit all 74 years and we use a lot of Michigan potatoes. Michigan potatoes are the best, all the way. But it's a struggle, because you are at the mercy of the potato."

Although Better Made's retail distribution is limited to Michigan and parts of Ohio and Indiana, Cipriano said the company's presence on the Internet has eased the process of shipping Better Made products across the country and overseas.

"We get requests from Afghanistan and Iraq, every place where there's a military base," Cipriano said.

Lynch said Sander's products also travel over land and sea to former Michiganders via orders placed over the Internet.

"When we first put up our Web site, the third order came from Japan," Lynch said, explaining that the order was placed by a doctor who studied at the University of Michigan. "The shipping cost was more than the cost of the product, but he didn't care."

Cappelletti Pesto Salad is another food to go.

Kraig Johnson was able to quit his day job as a Web developer six weeks ago in order to devote all his time to Vernors.com and groceriesexpress.com. The two Web sites specialize in shipping Michigan-made products all over the world.

Last year, Johnson was able to turn over $60,000 in sales. He acquired the Vernor's domain in 1997 and explains that because of state-by-state distribution contracts between bottlers and soft drink distributors, Vernor's, now owned by the Pepsi Cola bottling company and bottled in Detroit's Pepsi Cola plant, is unable to sell its product over the Internet.

"They legally can't sell their product to the end consumer," Johnson said. "The name was just available in 1997. When I got it, I was just lucky."

Although Johnson's business consists primarily of filling far-flung orders for Vernor's, which he says heat up considerably during the holidays, he also makes available a wide range of Michigan-made products including food products and collectibles from Better Made, White Castle, Faygo and Sander's. He also ships Michigan cherries.

But his stock in trade is mainly with Vernor's. Johnson said the biggest demand for the curious tasting beverage comes from the East Coast, where soda pop giants have blocked the sale of Vernor's.

There are also newcomers who hope someday to become as linked to the Detroit area as the city's big brand-name hitters. One of them is Ferndale-based Garden Fresh Salsa, whose products have in the last year have taken 50 national and international cooking awards since the company got its start in 1997.

"We always say we're from Detroit, the salsa capital of the world," said Garden Fresh Salsa's president and owner Jack Aronson.

"It always gets a big laugh, but we're proud to represent our state, especially in an area that's known as a southwest commodity."

prepared sandwiches and soups are just the beginning.

At Kroger stores in Birmingham and Southfield, rows of rotisserie chicken, packages of such meals as eggplant parmesan, and a sign proclaiming the day's roast (pork loin recently) are among the inspiration for dining ideas.

The beef tenderloin entree, and all soups and salads, are popular items at Holiday Market in Royal Oak, says sous chef Molly Sheckell.

Customers can select an entire meal, or side dishes. Items include a fresh-roasted half turkey breast, salads, chicken dishes and quiches.

"A lot (of the customers) are single people," Sheckell said. "We also have families where the kids have specific favorites."

At Whole Foods Market in Rochester Hills, a prepared food area displays a wide range of offerings, including fried chicken, spinach lasagna, Greek peasant salad, and wild mushroom "quichelets," which are tiny, two- or three-bite-size quiches.

"Chicken salad is popular," said Shawn Kozel, deli cook.

Among the categories in the Whole Foods catering menu are Great Beginnings (including baked goods, egg dishes and fruit), Lunchtime Anytime (including sandwich or salad box lunches), Casual Gatherings (platters and cheese trays) and The Main Course (beef, ham, salmon, turkey and chicken).

Other Whole Foods Markets are in Troy, West Bloomfield and Ann Arbor.

MADE FROM SCRATCH

Quick and easy, yet nutritious, meals are at hand. They are made from scratch and full of flavor.

"We're bringing people around the dinner table again... bringing the family back to the table," de Parry said.

Denning offers not just desserts and baked goods at her business; she sells pasties, chicken pot pies and pizza rolls, an alternative for the fast foods that are out there.

"Right now, there's just so many foods that aren't good for you," Denning said. "They have higher fat and higher chemicals in them."

Pasties are made from scratch, with no chemicals, "just salt and pepper, all white meat chicken in pot pies and sirloin in the pasties," Denning said.

"Pot pies are comfort food. Pasties are the same thing, up north. There's so many transplants (here) who lived up there, went to college at Michigan Tech and Northern Michigan University, they'll come in and want them."

"It's my mom's recipe. We're real proud of it." The recipe includes potatoes, onion, carrot, sirloin and pie crust for the dough.

"It must contain rutabagas," Denning said. "My uncle would say, 'The only people who put gravy on pasties are the people who don't like Wilkerson carries a load of rotisserie chicken to the display counter. Carryout foods run the gamut from chicken to salads at many markets and grocers.

the taste of pasties."

A food bar presents soups to go and casseroles at Busch's.

In Livonia, customers enjoy potato salads, macaroni salads, pasta salads and pesto salads.

The menu includes Greek orzo salad with feta cheese, tomatoes and Kalamata olives, Cappelletti pesto salad with three-cheese stuffed ravioli and low-carb cauliflower mash flavored with salt, pepper, chive, olive oil, butter and sour cream.

"Some people just don't like to cook," said Lori Curtis, guest experience manager at the Farmington Hills Busch's. "Others enjoy doing their own cooking."

All types of cooks can benefit from Busch's guest experience and meal solutions services. You can consult a guest experience staffer to pair a salad with a particular HMR, or find recipes to HMR you may have sampled.

At Busch's, recipe cards, cookbooks and cooking classes are available. Its Cooking Class Series shares tips and recipes on such areas as beef, seafood, poultry, and party platters and appetizers.

Busch's is in touch with customers to find and create new recipes. An example is the Eastern Indian population that is part of the Farmington Hills store clientele, said meal solution specialist N'Diva Arhm there.

FRESH. FOOD. IDEAS.

Get cooking with chardonnay

Small foods kids love make a nutritious lunch

Because it's made in a number of styles, chardonnay is not as easy to match with food as one might think. A dry, rich and opulent chardonnay enhanced by barrel fermentation, malolactic fermentation, extended lees contact and barrel aging will have different wine flavor descriptors, food flavor harmonies and cheese matches than a simpler, fruity chardonnay. Yet, any style of chardonnay pairs extremely well with tomatoes or corn. Chilled or warm tomato soup, corn cakes, corn chowder and tomatoes stuffed with bulgur and feta cheese are gustatory delights. For just about everything else there are two sets of chardonnay-style-dependent food pairing guidelines.

FRUITY CHARDONNAYS

Fruity chardonnays without significant cellar enhancement of barrel fermentation or lengthy oak aging frequently have the following wine flavor descriptors: apple, ripe pear, hints of tropical fruit and a citrusy finish. They are among the lowest in price. These chardonnays are well-suited to flounder, red snapper, trout and clams. Pork tenderloin, "the other white meat," can be pan seared, grilled or roasted. A fruit-based salsa with papaya, mango or tomatillos is delightful with pork tenderloin or grilled fish and a fruity chard. Rabbit and roasted game birds, especially spiced with tarragon, make a fine pairing. A fruity chardonnay pairs with veal or Chili Verde, Enchiladas and Chili Rellenos for a Mexican kick. Mild cheeses such as Havarti and Monterey Jack are great.

OPULENT AND OAKY

Tropical fruit, coconut, butter, rich, complex, toasty and oaky with vanilla-like flavors and lengthy aftertaste are descriptions of an opulent chardonnay. For top flavor harmonies, consider stronger-flavored fish such as monkfish, catfish, mackerel and bluefish sautéed

Focus on Wine

in butter or fish almandine; fried oysters and clams; shellfish (such as lobster, grilled shrimp or calamari), or chicken and veal with cream-based sauces. Flavorful mushrooms such as morels, truffles, chanterelles and shiitakes are sensational with an opulent chard. Soft cheeses such as Brie, Coulommiers and St. Honoré or stronger firm cheeses such as Cheddar, Emmentaler and Taleggio are the best bets.

GET COOKING

To test the "any chardonnay is great with tomatoes" theory, try our recipe.

PASTA WITH SUNDRIED TOMATO PESTO

- 6 tablespoons basil-flavored olive oil
- 1 teaspoon freshly minced garlic
- 1/2 cup sundried tomatoes packed in olive oil
- 1 tablespoon toasted pine nuts
- 1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar
- 2 medium fresh tomatoes, peeled and seeded
- 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese plus additional for garnish
- Salt and white pepper to taste
- 1 pound thin spaghetti pasta of choice
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh basil

In a food processor fitted with a steel blade, purée garlic, olive oil, one of the fresh tomatoes and the sundried tomatoes.

Through the feed tube with machine running, add pine nuts and balsamic vinegar. Process until smooth.

Chop the second tomato coarsely.

Pour purée into a bowl and fold in the chopped tomato and Parmesan cheese. Add salt and white pepper to taste. Reserve.

Cook pasta. Drain. Place in a warm bowl and toss with the prepared pesto. Top with additional Parmesan cheese and freshly chopped basil.

Serves 4.

(WMS) - School lunches hold a bad reputation, and sometimes rightfully so.

Many experts point to school lunches as being partly responsible for soaring childhood obesity rates. The numbers are "way scary" - as the kids say - with 15 percent of children ages 6 to 19 considered overweight, a figure three times what it was in 1980. Sadly, many overweight children turn into overweight adults, creating an America where experts predict nearly every person will be overweight by the year 2030.

Chef Chris Lauderdale, a registered dietitian and faculty member at The Art Institute of California-Orange County, says the news isn't all that bad.

"Due to pressure from parents and community groups, school lunches are improving," Lauderdale said.

Lauderdale cites the National School Lunch Program, administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which requires that lunches meet 1/2 the daily requirements for protein, vitamin A, vitamin C, iron, calcium and calories. Lunches may not contain more than 30 percent fat and 10 percent saturated fat, and must be in line with the Dietary Guidelines for Americans, which is based on the USDA's Food Guide Pyramid.

However, left mostly to states and local governments, it's difficult, if not impossible, to ensure that every school lunch cafeteria in the United States is complying with the program. And some healthy school lunch advocates say the requirements don't go far enough.

"Kids are starting to create bad eating habits at a young age, not only because of the limited variety of healthy options in the schools, but due to the soda and candy machines in many schools that help support extracurricular activities that usually suffer whenever there are school-budget cutbacks," said Joanna Townsend, a registered dietitian and faculty member at The Art Institute of Phoenix.

Is anything being done on a grass-roots level to offer kids healthier school lunch alternatives? One fresh-food pioneer, Alice Waters, executive chef and owner of Chez Panisse in Berkeley, Calif., has urged schools to devote some of their playground area to organic farming and to teach gardening as part of the curriculum.

"Schools would then be able to meet some of their students' nutritional needs themselves," and be budget-conscious in the process, says Lauderdale. Another innovative aspect of her program is to advocate for cooperative ventures between schools and farmer's markets to enable fresh, locally-grown produce to be available for school lunches.

Not every community in the country is fortunate enough to have someone fighting for healthier school lunches. One of the best ways parents can help their kids eat healthier is to pack lunches and snacks based on foods their kids already like.

Benita Wong, a culinary instructor with The Art Institute of Washington, recommends simple lunches or snacks like whole fruits and vegetables, and to pick ones that are small in size and easy to eat, such as grape tomatoes, baby carrots or plums. Prepare a yogurt or hummus dip to accompany fresh veggies, and then cut up whole wheat or low-salt pita breads to go with them. Instead of white bread, Wong says, try whole wheat, onion or Kaiser rolls.

Trail mix is another favorite. It's easy to make your own says Wong, using peanuts, raisins, popcorn, seeds, dried fruits or low-sugar cereals.

Besides eating healthier lunches and snacks, experts agree that kids and adults need to be more active.

The exercise goal most frequently cited is at least one-hour a day of intense exercise, like brisk walking. Consider walking with your kids after dinner as they scooter or bike ride. In the warmer weather, there's no excuse to slack off. You'll be setting an example for your children and encouraging a healthy lifestyle habit that can last them a lifetime.

For more information, visit www.artinstitutes.edu/nr.

TRAIL MIX

- 1/2 cup salted peanuts
- 1/2 cup miniature pretzels
- 1/2 cup plain popcorn
- 1/2 cup small, sweet chocolate chips
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup Honey Nut Cheerios

In a large bowl, combine all the ingredients. Mix well and store in an airtight plastic container or small zippered bag for individual consumption.

Makes 3 cups.

For a sweet and healthy snack, try the above quantities with this combination: dried pineapple, dried apricots, raisins, whole-wheat unsalted miniature pretzels, Multigrain Cheerios and plain popcorn. Or, add dried peas and corn to the mix.

HONEY-LEMON DRESSING

Serve this as a dipping sauce or sandwich spread.
1/4 cup honey
1/4 cup lemon juice (or orange juice if too strong)

Mix honey and lemon or orange juice completely. Makes about 1/2 cup.

YOGURT DRESSING

Serve as a dipping sauce or sandwich spread.

- 1 tablespoon currant jelly
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/2 cups yogurt, vanilla

Place jelly and lemon juice in a stainless steel pot. Put on low heat, and stir until melted.

Remove from heat, and cool slightly. Stir in sour cream and yogurt a little at a time. Chill until used. Makes about 2 cups.

HUMMUS (CHICKPEA DIP)

Serve as a dipping sauce or sandwich spread.

- 1 cup chickpeas, cooked or canned
- 1/4 cup tahini or sesame paste (you can also add some peanut butter)
- 1/2 tablespoon garlic, crushed (use more for a stronger taste)
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice (or water for a milder taste)
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- Salt, to taste
- Cayenne pepper, to taste

Puree the chickpeas, tahini paste, garlic, lemon juice and olive oil in a food processor or blender.

If it's too thick, adjust the consistency by adding a little lemon juice or water. Season with salt and cayenne pepper to taste. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

TOMATO SALSA

Serve as a dipping sauce or sandwich spread.

- 10 ounces fresh tomatoes
- 2 tablespoons fresh green chilies, such as jalapeno or serrano
- 3 tablespoons onion, minced
- 3 tablespoons fresh cilantro, chopped
- 1/2 tablespoon lime or lemon juice
- 1/2 to 1 tablespoon tomato juice
- 1 to 2 tablespoons tomato paste (add or subtract to thicken or thin mixture)
- 1 teaspoon salt

Remove the core and dice the tomatoes into very small pieces.

Remove the stem end, seeds and ribs from the chilies. Dice the chilies. Be sure to use rubber gloves for this step to protect your hands from the hot oils that come from the chilies. When finished, wash your gloved hands and remove the gloves to continue making the salsa. Dice the onion.

Mix together the tomatoes, chilies, onions, cilantro and lime or lemon juice. Add tomato juice and tomato paste to adjust the consistency to a thick, chunky sauce.

Add salt and season to taste. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Quick and easy recipes

(NAPSI)-There are a number of ways that busy cooks can save time in the kitchen. First, focus on recipes that don't have a lot of steps.

Next, look for simple creations that don't require a lot of ingredients. The more ingredients, the more time you need to gather everything together, and measure out the individual items.

Finally, choose time-saving ingredients. For example, if you're making a pie, canned pie filling is a much more convenient option than preparing fresh fruit.

So, the next time you're pressed to get dinner on the table, or need to put together a last second dessert, try these delicious quick and easy recipes that will leave you with a little time for yourself.

OLD COUNTRY COBBLER

Liability for claim is unlikely

We are the seller of a home and the purchaser has now claimed that we misrepresented the condition of the home. There was an inspection provision in the Purchase Agreement establishing that the purchaser would not rely on any statements by us as sellers but rather would seek an independent assessment of the condition of the property. Do we have any liability for the claim defects which the purchaser now sees?

More than likely, you do not, based upon recent decisions of the Court of Appeals. In a sense, the existence of a valid integration clause, that is, that all representations are not to be relied upon, make it unreasonable for plaintiffs to rely on any alleged representations not expressly included in the purchase agreement. More than likely, you would be entitled to obtain a dismissal of the lawsuit but should consult with legal counsel regarding the particular facts of your case.

We have an issue concerning our obligation to arbitrate a dispute under a building contract and I am wondering whether we have any loopholes that you can think of in regard to our building contract to get out of arbitration.

It is obviously difficult for me to comment without looking at your building contract. However, there is a concept which has been enunciated in a recent Colorado case where the court recognized the concept of the intertwining doctrine as it applies to the arbitration provision in the contract. The concept states that if an arbitration claim is joined with claims that are not arbitratable, that if the arbitrator would be required to review the same facts needed to establish the non-arbitratable claims, referral to arbitration should be denied and the court, as opposed to the arbitrator, should resolve all claims. That is something you may wish to consult about with an attorney of your choosing.

Younger seniors, more choices

Baby boomers set to redefine retirement housing

BY RITA BROWN
CORRESPONDENT

It's a fact. The U.S. Census Bureau states that, by the year 2020, more than 16 percent of Americans will be at least 65 years old, up from the 4.1 percent of U. S. residents that were 65 years old or older in 1990.

"I know that there's a large senior market," said Betty Clark, real estate agent and sales manager for Prudential Chamberlain Stiehl in Walled Lake. "It just hasn't hit our market yet."

The biggest challenge for the real estate industry may arise when the first of the baby boom generation turns 65 years old in 2011. The industry is addressing senior needs as the current senior market increases, and preparing for the impending onset of baby boomers as a senior citizen group; a generation that has historically affected each phase of their maturation process by redefining norms.

"The industry has even set up a designation, 'SRS,' which identifies agents who have taken special classes and are uniquely qualified to work with seniors," Clark said. She is also a part of the boomer generation.

WHO, ME?

"When it comes to growing old, we just feel that we're so much younger than our parents were at this age. We are in denial as baby boomers," said 51-year-old Lynne Martin, a Bloomfield Hills resident. "I know I am." With about 81 million baby boomers in the U.S., that generation has always been a challenging consumer demographic.

But aging is a reality. And trying to define a lifestyle and provide acceptable real estate products, be they smaller, single residences, condos, apartments or active adult communities that maintain a mix of all the possibilities, is what the senior-specific housing industry is attempting to do.

As far as younger seniors choosing active adult communities, "I do see a trend," Clark said. A number of her friends in their early 60s have opted for living in Florida retirement villages.

Active adult communities have long since been a staple in areas which have traditionally attracted an older demographic.

Gloria Whan (biker on left), Bernard Lucas and Jytte Winn, take a break from their bike trip around the Fox Run campus to chat with Helen Weingarden and George Moy.

ic. Arizona, Las Vegas, Florida, all have cultivated age-restricted communities catering to a more active lifestyle.

Promoting an active senior lifestyle is what communities like Henry Ford Village in Dearborn and Fox Run in Novi are trying to accomplish.

Trying to fill the potentially lucrative real estate niche with the marketing of products to a self-described evergreen population is a challenge. Active adult communities of the southern and western states are, however, beginning to emerge in non-traditional areas like the Midwest.

SHIFTING PRIORITIES

Why consider an active adult retirement facility?

"What we find though is that most neighborhoods have changed because both husband and wife work and that doing everything you need to do to take care of a house is too much of a burden," said Tim Bracken, regional advertising director for Erickson Retirement Communities. "People would rather have the opportunities they have on our campuses than the maintenance." Less maintenance means more time for leisure pursuits.

"We are seeing more and more couples move to our campuses ... 50 percent come from within 10 miles, 25 percent from 10 to 25 miles, and the remaining 25 percent come from greater than 25 miles, with 12.5 percent coming from out of state," Bracken said describing the residents of their multi-state communities, which include Fox Run of Novi and the Henry Ford Village property in Dearborn.

These communities are designed to be attractive to an active senior population, but the facilities must also address the prospect of diminished future mobility. Active living communities are often linked to assisted living, as well as more involved care facilities. Assessing these facilities for their aging parents was the first time some baby boomers began to question when they, too may choose to take up residency in a senior facility, and at what level.

Younger, potential active adult community residents remain conflicted.

"I could see myself in a nice older community. I'm just not sure when ... I hope while I'm still young enough to enjoy all the amenities," said baby boomer Stephen Brookes of Lake Orion.

Amenities are a large part of what the new active adult communities promote — park-like campuses with golf, tennis, all the activities that an active senior could enjoy.

So what does this potentially unparalleled, impending spike in the senior sector mean for the already considerable $182.5 billion senior-housing business?

IMMENSE POTENTIAL

In 2003, it meant a 69-percent increase in the number of new assisted living units, nationwide; an impressive, but not unprecedented, escalation in response to their attempting to anticipate and meet the needs of an aging consumer. But the boomers are unlike any generation which has preceded them. Emphasizing an active, vigorous lifestyle may be the key. Changing the perception of what retirement could be is imperative to the successful marketing of the active adult campus facility.

A smaller housing rush in response to the 1990s increase in seniors (those 65 and older), left the industry with a glut of assisted living facilities, a situation the industry hopes to avoid this time around.

By providing facilities for more active, younger seniors, the senior housing industry may see an exceptionally lucrative future.

Big buys for the cash-shy

Homebuyers with very little cash — or very little desire to spend their cash — often use a high loan-to-value mortgage to purchase properties. Many refer to such home loans as "zero down mortgages" or "100 percent financing."

One advantage to buying a home using a very small down payment is that borrowers can really leverage their invested monies.

Buyers who put down $10,000 to purchase a $100,000 home that appreciates $5,000 per year would realize a 50 percent annual rate of return on their investment when they sell their property. If they were to purchase the same property with just $500, their annual return on investment would be 500 percent instead!

The FHA loan is a fantastic mortgage option for homebuyers with very small down payments. Qualified FHA borrowers can get up to 97 percent financing to purchase homes if the loan amounts do not exceed prescribed limits. These limits, however, are extremely accommodating, especially in high-cost areas in and around major cities.

Borrowers with badly bruised credit, those who need full 100 percent financing, and those requiring very large or "jumbo" mortgages, may not be able to use the FHA. However, there are plenty of lenders who have designed mortgage programs to fill these niches.

For those home buyers with reasonable or good credit, some lenders will grant loans (or loan combinations) totaling 100 percent of a property's value without deeply scrutinizing the borrowers' credit history or worrying about the loan size. In most cases, sellers may cover the closing costs, and borrowers are often not required to maintain property tax escrow accounts.

Zero-down lenders usually check to ensure that the subject property is worth at least the amount of the loan. So, you should count on adding a little extra time and expense for a "review appraisal" prior to final loan approval.

You should also expect to pay a higher interest rate on your new 100 percent mortgage. Zero-down loans make for more risky mortgages. No less, a higher interest rate may be well worth it if it allows your family to take advantage of increasing property values instead of increasing rents.

Mortgage rates creep up, 30-year still under 6 percent

BY JEANNINE AVERSA
 ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mortgage rates around the country crept up last week, although 30-year mortgages still were below the 6 percent level for a fourth straight week, Freddie Mac reported Thursday, Aug. 26.

The mortgage giant said that its latest nationwide survey showed that rates on 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages rose to 5.82 percent for the week ending Aug. 26. That's up slightly from the average rate of 5.81 percent.

"Mortgage rates were mostly unchanged this week, amid conflicting economic reports as to the strength of the economy," said Frank Nothaft, Freddie Mac's chief economist.

Rates on 30-year mortgages hit a high this year of 6.34 percent the week of May 13. Since then, rates — while bouncing around — have slowly drifted downward as economic activity cooled in the late spring and early summer.

For 15-year, fixed-rate mortgages, a popular option for refinancing, rates rose to 5.21 percent this week, up from 5.19 percent. Rates on one-year adjustable rate mortgages increased to 4.05 percent, compared with 4.01 percent.

The nationwide averages for mortgage rates do not include add-on fees known as points. The 30-year mortgage carried an average 0.7 point fee. Fifteen-year and 1-year mortgages each carried an 0.6 point fee.

A year ago, rates on 30-year mortgages averaged 6.28 percent with 15-year mortgages at 5.60 percent and one-year ARMs at 3.84 percent.

Economic reports released earlier this week showed that sales of both new and previously owned homes fell in July. Even so, analysts believe home sales are still on track to set new record highs for all of 2004.

"Our housing outlook remains positive and forecasts only a gradual rise in mortgage rates in the next few months, indicating another strong year for the housing sector," Nothaft said.

The Mortgage Bankers Association, meanwhile, said that refinancing accounted for 40.4 percent of all home mortgage applications filed, down from 40.7 percent the previous week.

July's existing home sales are off slightly from record

Existing single-family home sales slipped in July, but still managed the third-best pace on record, according to the National Association of Realtors.

Existing-home sales declined 2.9 percent to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 6.72 million units in July from a record pace of 6.92 million units in June; last month's sales activity was 8.6 percent above the 6.19-million unit pace in July 2003. The second-highest sales rate was in May of this year.

David Lereah, NAR's chief economist, said changes at this volume of sales are relative. "Prior to this year, the July sales pace would have been a real eye-popper," he said. "The fact is, it remains so. The present level of home sales activity is considerably above last year's record, and the new benchmark we'll set in 2004 is a significant contributor to overall U.S. economic growth."

According to Freddie Mac, the national average commitment rate for a 30-year, conventional, fixed-rate mortgage was 6.06 percent in July, down from 6.29 percent in June; it was 5.63 percent in July 2003.

NAR President Walt McDonald, broker-owner of Walt McDonald Real Estate in Riverside, Calif., said mortgage interest rates are only part of the picture. "The fundamental demand from entry level buyers, dominated by the second-largest generation in U.S. history — the children of the baby boom — will drive home sales over the next 10 years because this generation is entering the prime years in which people typically buy their first home."

The national median existing-home price was $191,300 in July, up 8.7 percent from July 2003 when the median price was $176,000. The median is a typical market price where half of the homes sold for more and half sold for less.

Housing inventory levels at the end of July were unchanged from June at 2.40 million existing homes available for sale, which represents a 4.3-month supply at the current sales pace.

Regionally, the existing-home sales pace in the South rose 0.4

percent in July to an annual rate of 2.77 million units, and was 11.7 percent above a year ago. The median price of an existing home in the South was $176,800, up 7.0 from July 2003.

Existing-home sales in the Northeast slipped 1.4 percent in July to a pace of 730,000 units, but were 4.3 percent above July 2003. The median existing-home price in the Northeast was $216,100, up 8.8 percent above a year ago.

Existing homes in the Midwest were selling at an annual rate of 1.39 million units in July, down 4.8 percent from June, but were 3.0 percent higher than the same month a year earlier. The median price in the Midwest was $157,200, up 6.6 percent from July 2003.

Home resales in the West declined 6.6 percent in July to an annual rate of 1.83 million units, but were 9.6 percent higher than a year ago. The median existing-home price in the West was $175,900, up 17.4 percent in the last year.

For years, potential home buyers viewed 15- or 30-year fixed rate loans as the be-all, end-all of the home mortgage spectrum. Not anymore.

According to a mortgage executive in Washington D.C., imaginative new loan options albeit sometimes not well understood have emerged as viable solutions for homebuyers. The new loans are evidence there is life loan life, that is beyond conventional mortgages.

"When our parents bought houses, they got a 15- or 30-year fixed rate loan," says Deb Levy of Bank of America. "That conventional wisdom was passed along to their kids. Young clients immediately tell me 'fixed rate, fixed rate' because that's what they've been told."

Fixed rate loans are easiest to grasp because the terms are cut-and-dried: a set term at a set rate. But with people tending to move more frequently and real estate prices escalating rapidly, many buyers feel locked down when they lock in long term loans even though relatively few live in a home long enough to completely pay a 15- or 30-year note.

These days, Levy is more likely to discuss hybrid, interest-only and combination loans with potential customers. The trio is some form of adjustable rate mortgage or at least offer an adjustable rate option.

A hybrid loan is part fixed rate and part adjustable rate loan. The first one, three, five or seven years is at a fixed rate. Thereafter, the loan converts to an adjustable rate.

The upside to hybrids is lower initial interest rates and monthly payments below a comparable fixed rate loan. Comparison tables at bankofamerica.com show a hybrid loan rate on a $100,000 mortgage can be one-quarter of a percent to as much as 2 percent lower. This translates to a monthly savings of more than $100. Levy rates these loans as ideal for homeowners who want to move home for lower monthly payments or those "betting they won't be in the house long enough" before the adjustable rate term kicks in.

The down side is uncertainty for homeowners. Rates during the adjustable term can fluctuate above fixed rates, thereby raising monthly payments. But rates could dip lower, too. There is a safety net of sorts; even if rates spike, adjustable rates are capped at the time the loan is made.

According to Bank of America's Levy, the "hot buzz product" in today's mortgage markets are interest-only loans.

The loans are as advertised; homeowners pay only the interest rate owed. For example, if principal and interest on a $100,000 loan amount to $583 per month, the borrower pays only the interest portion — $479 — each month. The borrower must eventually pay off the principal but, as with the hybrid loans, the homeowner is money ahead if they live in the home for a relatively short period.

So when is the principal paid back? Levy says interest-only loans are designed for borrowers with variable income streams — such as those who earn hefty quarterly bonuses — who can pay down chunks of principal when money is available. Inheritances or other financial windfalls can also be used to pay off principal amounts.

If you use an interest-only loan, you won't build equity in the home beyond the increase in market value of the home itself. A portion of your equity is earned as you pay off the principal amount.

Homebuyers looking for a low down payment and a way to avoid costly private mortgage insurance should check out combination loans. Until these loans came into being, borrowers needed to plunk down 20 percent to avoid PMI. Now, applicants with good credit can put down lesser amounts to avoid PMI.

These two-in-one loans blend a first mortgage and a home equity loan or line of credit. The mortgage portion can be at fixed or adjustable rates. The home equity portion typically acts as a second mortgage, and is at a somewhat higher rate. In the past lenders permitted home equity loans only after the client owned the home. Borrowers can avoid some fees and closing costs because of the dual nature of the combined loans.

The 2004 Dodge Ram 1500

Advertising Feature

Thursday DriveTime

BY DALE BUSS

Forget for a moment all the compacts and truck/SUV hybrids that are running around these days masquerading as pick-up trucks. The real pick-up trucks are vehicles like Dodge Ram and Ford F-150 that have been around for awhile, or have strong bloodlines, and still represent what any truck worthy of the name should be: big, powerful, and very load capable – maybe with a little bit of a mean streak.

The 2004 Dodge Ram 1500 that I've been driving around lately meets all those criteria like gang-busters. It's even a little difficult to climb up into, which I think – with apologies to shorter people and to those wearing skirts – is also appropriate for a truck.

I really appreciate the styling of the Ram 1500, which is the foremost exemplar of a bold, in-your-face design theme that Chrysler designers now are carrying throughout the rest of the Dodge line, including in the new Durango SUV. The most distinguishing feature of this sassy look is a massive grille, which covers a huge area of the front of the Ram in a four-armed cluster that could be a stylized horse collar – but is even much more macho-looking than that. It accentuates all the other aspects of the bigness and boldness of the vehicle. And rendered in the Flame Red color of the vehicle I drove, it's hard not to be noticed on the streets and byways.

But no matter what, trucks aren't much to look at. So where Dodge Ram really scores points for 2004 is with the addition of the famed 5.7-liter Hemi Magnum engine to the 4x4 Quad Cab SLT. Chrysler has fashioned this engine into a brand in itself by highlighting the powertrain in its advertising and making much ado about making it available in other vehicles such as Durango.

In the Ram 1500, the Hemi indeed seems to be meeting its billing: of making the vehicle the most powerful mass-production light-duty pickup on the market. The engine was named a Ward's Ten Best Engine last year and powered the Ram 1500 to awards such as Sport Truck Magazine's 2003 Truck of the Year. It provides the feeling of confidence and power that are vital for people when they're putting their truck to use. The new engine increased the Ram 1500's gross trailer weight rating by 550 pounds, to 9,200 pounds – a vital statistic for the many owners who use their trucks to haul their toys or work tools.

The 2004 Dodge Ram 1500 is big, powerful, and very load capable – with a little bit of a mean streak.

At the same time, while the Hemi Magnum is about 60 pounds lighter than the old Magnum 5.9-liter engine that it replaced, it is 10% more fuel-efficient. The 4x4 Quad Cab SLT that I drove is rated at 13 miles per gallon in the city and 17 mpg on the highway – still nothing outstanding in the mileage department. But that's not what you buy a truck for.

The Ram that I drove had the vehicle's standard 6.3-foot bed, but an eight-foot bed is available as well. I strongly would recommend paying extra for an eight-foot bed in this vehicle. For one thing, it gives the truck a balanced appearance; otherwise, as in the version I drove, the bed doesn't look long enough to offset the considerable real estate that is taken up by the second-row passenger compartment.

The limitations of the standard bed also came into play in some of the uses I made of the truck while I had it. Of course, it was no problem lifting a lawn mower into the six-foot-three-inch bed and finding room for it on its way to the shop for repairs. But when it came to hauling a box that housed a basketball pole, the only way to accommodate it was to open the sliding window in the center of the rear of the truck cab and have the pole project into the cab almost to the windshield. Another couple of feet on the bed wouldn't have been long enough to contain the entire pole, but it wouldn't have had to intrude nearly so far into the passenger compartment – an uncomfortable sensation.

And as long as you're going to be able to carry a maximum of six people in the roomy cab, it is great that Dodge has stuffed it with lots of amenities, ranging from a six-CD player to leather seats. For a list price of $37,160, with the Dodge Ram 1500 you're getting the whole package.
