Canton hopes for answer in dispute

BY KURT KUBAN STAFF WRITER

 $Canton\,Township\, officials\, were\, left$ stunned Thursday, after IKEA officials announced they were calling off plans to build a superstore on Ford Road at Haggerty.

The Swedish furniture giant backed out of the deal to buy the old Super Kmart site because of a dispute about shared parking spaces with an adjacent property owner.

According to IKEA spokesman Joseph Roth, negotiators for LBS Partners LLC, which owns the ABC Warehouse property to the west, waited until the last minute to raise the amount they were asking for a shared easement. Without that agreement, Roth said it didn't make sense to close on the 19 acres it had agreed to purchase from another party.

'We are seriously disappointed. We would like to think we can still get something worked out, but at this point we have terminated the pur-chasing agreement," Roth said. "We need to have a certain amount of parking spaces for a store of this size. If we can't use that parking lot (in front of ABC Warehouse), we can't justify building at the site." The original announcement from

*he very first graduation ceremony of the Canton Young Marines, which took place Monday at Summit on the Park, featured all the pageantry you might expect from a military event. There was a color guard, a bagpipe player, and plenty of reverence for the American flag.

None of that was lost on the 10 pint-sized graduating recruits that were being honored in front of a large group of family andfriends. The event marked the culmination of 26 hours of drill instruction over the course of 13 weeks, in which they performed some physical training, but mostly learned about the history of the U.S. Marine Corps and the importance of inner values and respecting others. The Young Marines is a national organization sponsored by the U.S. Marine Corps. It is open to children from age 8 to high school seniors. The only requirement is that the recruits be in good standing at school. According to Commander Charles Volker, a retired Marine who helped organize the unit e Young Marines is not a recruiting tool for the Marine Corps. Rather, he said, it teaches kids to be respectful of others and to have confidence in themselves. It also teaches them to lead a drug-free lifestyle, he said. This program gives the kids confidence. It builds up their morale,' said Volker, one of five former Marines who acted as drill instructors for the group. 'We make them go home and clean the dishes for their moms, and make sure they say 'sir' and 'ma'am' when talking to adults. It's a great program. We're really proud of this group."

And right now, they're knee-deep in a major robot construction project. Soon their robot, Carlson X. will be ready for the First Robotics Great Lakes Regional competition at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, March 11-12. If they do well there, they'll be invited to go to the national competition in Atlanta April 14-16.

The team is completely run by the students and divided into four sections: electrical, mechanical, software and pneumatics.

The kids work really well, said Jay Obsniuk, robotics instructor at Salem High School and the faculty advisor for the team. "The kids do all of the Members of the Canton Newcomersknow a good charity when they see one. The group, which is more than just the welcoming wagon for Canton's new residents, picks a charity each year to help.

Last year, the group chose Everyday Miracles, which is a support p u p for local families that have children with autism. The Newcomers presented a $1,120 check to the organization earlier this month.

According to Nicole Pulik, a fund-raising chair for the Newcomers, the group chose Everyday Miracles after realizing that many programs for autistic children aren't covered by insurance.

"When you have a child with autism it's an emotional and financial drain," said Pulik.

The Newcomershave about 90 members, almost entirely female. Most have small children. In addition to providing welcoming materials to new Canton residents, the Newcomers is a social, civic and charitable organization. Pulik said the group raised the money for Everyday Miracles at a November silent auction.

"A lot of our members have their own businesses and donated proceeds from sales. And we had 20 local companies donate items that were auctioned off," she said.

The Newcomers will be having another fund-raiser in March to help First Step, the Canton-based shelter for the victims of domestic violence. For more information about that fund-raiser, call Newcomer president Kathy Smith at (734) 983-0460.

The Newcomers are always looking for new members. The group meets on the first Wednesday of the month at the Sunflower subdivision clubhouse. Members don't have to live in Canton.

Zamboni driver keeps skaters off thin ice

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Ron Baase has never laced up a pair of ice skates, but he calls the Plymouth Cultural Center ice rink his home.

For the past seven years, Baase has been a fixture driving the Zamboni around the Cultural Center rink for 10 minutes each hour, after skating practice, hockey games and open skates.

"I don't skate, and never had before in my life," said Baase, recognizing the irony. "I still don't skate, and don't get out and try."

However, Baase said he does enjoy getting out on the Zamboni, cleaning and resurfacing the ice at the Cultural Center. It started as a part-time second job to earn extra money. But, several years later Baase gave up his trade as an automo-

"It's a blast, I love it," said Baase, who resides in Garden City. "After the first few months it got tiring. But, when we started giving the Zamboni rides to kids, it got me excited again. Putting the little kids on your lap and letting them steer. That put the fun back in it."

While it looks quite easy, Baase said driving the Zamboni is a tough job.

"It's got studded tires, but it still slides:' said Baase. "And, while you're driving you have to turn on the water that cleans the ice, and making sure you're laying the right amount of ice-it" On Wednesday, Baase and the Plymouth Cultural Center were hosts to the STAR (Serving the American Rinks) regional program for Zamboni drivers and rink operators. It's a non-profit organization started by USA Hockey and the U.S. Figure Skating Federation to bring more uniformity in training Zamboni drivers.

Director Dave Wescott said there's a lot more to know than just stepping on the pedal and taking off down the ice.

"It's hard to see over the front of the machine, especially when you're close to the boards on the first lap," said Weswtt. "The driver is looking down, and that's why it's important that no one else be on the ice.

"And, there are a lot of levers to be aware of in controlling and clearing the ice," he said. "while it's fun to be out there driving around, keep in mind it's a dangerous piece of equipnothing to with the fact he soon will have a brand new Zamboni to drive.

"Even when I was in charge of the ice at the Palace, I always loved to come hack here," said Baase. "I get to know our customers by name. It's like family. "I got into this profession because it's fun, and that's the way I like it," he said.

With great insight and a healthy dose of levity, Complaints of a Dutiful Daughter chronicles the various stages of a mother's Alzheimer's disease and the evolution of her daughter's response to the illness. Born out of love and frustration, filmmaker Deborah Hoffmann's directorial debut weaves together old photographs, home movies, and modern video footage to create a heartfelt, exceedingly intimate look at the enduring bond between two people. He served as a platoon sergeant in the U.S. Marine Corps during the Vietnam War. He said the Young Marines is a great organ ization, because the graduates learn the same kind of values taught in the real Marines.

"The defining moment of my life was my time in the Marine Corps. Maybe all these kids won't go on to become Marines, but they have developed core values. which carry with you all yo~:life," he said.'

Canton resident Michael Murray, a Marine, who is currently on active duty also ,attended the ceremony and was impressed by the dedication and commitment shown by kids who graduated.

"They have learned the learning experience, according to Amanda Tripp, a 10-year-old Livouia resident, who joined with her brother Matthew, because she likes military history. "I think the most important thing we learned was selfencouragement, and not to give up," she said.

Volker, a Canton resident, said the next Young Marines class will probably begin in March. He said this is the only chapter in Southeast Michigan, so he is trying to draw recruits from the entire area.

"Tm hoping to build this big enough to have, 40 to 50 graduates during a session," he said. For more information about the Young Marines, contact Volker at (734) 981-5059.

Approaching tax deadline keeps business thriving

Tax time

Liberty Tax Service recently opened in Livonia, just in time to provide help in tax preparation services. Owner Donald Luschas said tax services are the primary focus now through that ever-present deadline, April 15.

Typically, services are charged per tax form. But Luschas, of Novi, hopes to attract new customers to his business with a special offer. Senior citizens may come in and have their taxes done for free, and other customers will be charged a flat rate of $50. The offer is available through March 20.

We offer the best services around, and we're very friendly," said Luschas.

In addition, the business is licensed to handle first and second mortgages, long-term investments, life insurance and annuities. Liberty also participates in Toys 4 Tots and a cell phone donation program supporting soldiers.

It is located at 31098 Five Mile, on the northeast corner at Merriman. The number is (734) 427-1099..

Accent on community

Redford-based Advertising Accents will celebrate 20 years in business on March 17. Owners Tom and Sandy Krause started out in the advertising specialty business with what they refer to as "hard good giveaways." Think logo coffeemugs and logo merchandise. Since then, the business has expanded to include silk screen services and embroidery. They create logos and all sorts of signage.

Mayor Jack Engebretson. "There's been a lot of turnover at that site with all kinds of different restaurants through the years, which is amazing because Max & Erma's is right across the hallway and they are thriving.'

The closing caught some employees by surprise when some of them reported for work last week and noticed the doors were shut. A number of them called Livonia City Hall looking for an explanation.

SUNDAY PERSPECTIVES

e na GOP still searching for right Senate candidate

ere's what you can say about Oakland County Sheriff Mike Bouchard's race for the U.S. Senate: It was short. It was sweet. It drew rave reviews. Nobody ever laid a glove on him. And then it was over.

Earlier this week, eight days after announcing that he would mount a major challenge to freshman Democrat U.S. Sen. Debbie Stabenow, the Oakland County sheriff announced he was, ahem, dropping out, due to mysterious and unspecified health problems, which he said were not life-threatening. "I am extremely disappointed at this unfore-seen development." the 48-______ ild Republican said in a statement after a series of medical tests.

Though nobody doubts his word, some wicked gossips were wondering whether part of / Bouchard's problems might be a sudden case of cold feet.

couldn't even find a candidate to in Ú.S. Sen. Carl Levin. In th d an unknown state legislator named "Rocky" Raczkowski ran id was с.

Five years ago, Stabenow, now 54, narrowly defeated then-U.S. Sen. Spencer Abraham, who had been elected in the Republican landslide c 1994, even though she was outspent by almost two to one.

Traditionally, Michigan voters either toss their senators out after a term, or embrace them 'til he decide to leave or their teeth fall ou

In some respects, Stabenow ought to be vulnerable. No major legislation has been linked to her name, though her supporters say that there is little she could accomplish as a freshman of he minority party. en

Her name is not yet a household word, and sl has ei ei the looks ic charisma of Gov. Jennifer Granholm. Yet voters seem to feel comfortable with the senator, a motherly figure who put herself through Michigan State University partly by singing gentle folk ballads.

She's won favorable attention by leading a series of highly publicized bus trips taking seniors to buy cheaper medication in Canada.

So who will Republicans run against her? The two announced candidates aren't ready for prime time: Bart Baron, a perennial candidate, and the Rev. Keith Butler, a former Detroit councilman who now lives in the suburbs.

Increasingly, the party is focusing on Peter Cummings, a very, very rich real estate developer and the son-in-law of Max Fisher, the legendary Republican money man. Cummiugs, now 57, is perhaps best known as the former chairman of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Outside Detroit, however, he isn't known at all. He has never run for anything, is uneasy with the press, and is a completely untested campaigner.

To be surc, New Jersey elected a U.S. senator a few years ago (Jon Corzine) who spent $63 million, mostly his own money, to essentially buy the seat. But that seems unlikely to work in Michigan. George Romny, the former head of the former American Motors Corp., did come out of the ii world to be elected Michigan's governor back in the 1960s.

But he had blazed a trail just before that as leader of the state's constitutional convention, and had been a very visible corporate leader in a state where the auto industry was the culture.

Republicans, who tried to make an issue out of Granholm's Canadian birth, also would have to explain why Cummings, who is also a Canadian, didn't even bother to become a U.S. citizen til 1984.

Probably the strongest candidate the GOP could field is U.S. Rep. Mike Rogers, a trim, handsome former FBI agent who holds Stabenow's old Lansing-based congressional seat.

Rogers, 42 this year, is a fast-rising star from Brighton who has proved adept at fund raising. Put in charge of money efforts for House Republicans in the last election cycle, he boosted the take from $141 million to $175 n on. This year. Speaker Dennis Hastert assigned him to the House Intelligence Committee, a clear sign of trust and favor.

His seat has been redistricted to make it entirely safe. Yet the U.S. Senate is a far bigger platform; Lyndon Johnson once compared the House and the Senate to the difference between chicken salad and chicken exhaust.

Should Rogers risk it all for a potential seat on the national stage? Last week, aides would only say "people were looking at it." Rogers has a considerable war chest, and might not need to make up his mind as early as some contenders. But he doesn't have all the time in the world.

Spencer Abraham spent $16 million in losi 1g five years ago. Expect Republicans to spend far more next year. If they don't beat Stabenow, there's the possibility Carl Levin will decide to retire in 2008, when he will be 75.

Or maybe not. At that age, after all, Strom Thurmond was just warming up.

ne of the nation's first land grant colleges, Michigan state University, founded to bring higher education to the working classes, is celebrating the 150th year of providing an excellent education to students around the globe.

Michigan is grateful and proud of the many contributions made by the 15 major universities and 46 independent colleges in our meat state.

As a parent of two daughters enmlled in our public universities, Western Michigan University and Grand Valley State University, I am personally aware of the financial responsibility and sacrifices that families make to put their child through college. Furthermore, I am encouraged by the challenge that Gov. Granholm has presented to us – to double the number of individuals in our state with advanced degrees in the next 10 years.

However, I am disheartened that higher education has experienced 15-16 percent cuts over the past two years and now the governor is poised to : even more. In 1975, tl tр d approximately 74 percent of the support to our institutions of higher learning; yet, in 2004 that support dwindled to 37 percent.

Rep. John

Stewart

For example, Eastern Michigan University's state appropriations per student in 2005 is $3,948. The Executive Order will reduce the state's appropriation per student to $3.867. which would be the lowest since the 1995-1996 school year. This declining public support will make our public institutions more dependent on private investment which may then dictate the mission and direction of our public universities.

As chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Higher Education, my primary goal is to achieve the highest level of "academic excellence and intellectual integrity? To this end, there must be an increase in funding as a result of the Cherry Commission. An economic impact study commissioned in 2002, the Michigan University Presidents Council, determined that every $1 invested in our 15 public universities generates $26 in positive economic impact. Furthermore, the study concluded that no other public investment in Michigan produces such a high rate of return to its citizens as post-secondary education.

There are about 1.5 million state residents with some post-secondary education. Measures which would entice them back into the classroom to complete their degrees would boost the state's economic growth and in turn create higher wages.

now check us out on the web.

Our universities work diligently to prepare the workforce as they carry on vital research to improve the quality of life for every Michigan citizen.

We must diversify our economy. Our future depends on the innovation that our universities and colleges provide. C iversitic can serve as the sparkplug to ignite this expansion. All moss Michigan from Oakland University to Michigan Tech in Houghton, the universities are driving our state's economy and job growth, e.g. research and development for the auto industry and other fields.

The vital research being conducted in our state universities, such as the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University, is being implemented in the marketplace. In the last five years, near-ly 95 companies, which are engaged in the life sciences, automotive technology and homeland security, were launched as a result of the creation of the Michigan Technological Tri-Corridor, a partnership between universities and private companies and research institutions.

Our universities work diligently to prepare the workforce as they carry on vital research to improve the quality of life for every Michigan citizen. Universities operate efficiently with the dollars given to them by the state and tuition paid by students. Partnerships have been created to reduce energy and purchasing costs with the goal of keeping schooling affordable.

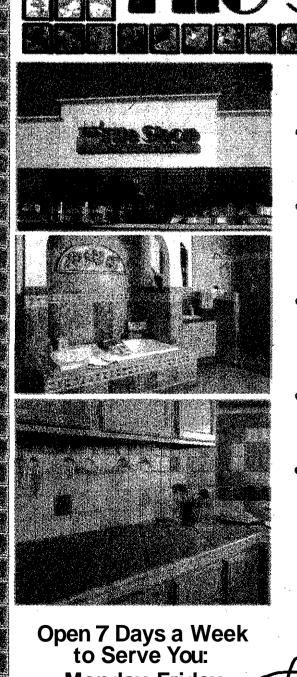

The state must increase, not cut, funding for higher education, as well as K-12.

What I want for my own two daughters is a -solid education which prepares them for personal future successes and provides them with meaningful opportunities to give back to their community. I want this for all Michigan citizens.

Finally, I thank you for the privilege and responsibility as chairman of the H i i e r Education Appropriations Subcommittee and I look forward to providing a forum for reestablishing the value of higher education in society and its role in economic expansion.

State Rep. John Stewart, R-Plymouth, represents a district that includes Plymouth. Northville, Wayne and the part of Canton. On Thursday, the state Senate easte rejected Gov. Granholm's executive order to reduce state spending by $227.1 million, including cuts to higher education.

announcement was shocking and "right out of the blue." He spent Thursday afternoon and evening acting as a facilitator, trying to repair the relations between IKEA officials and LBS principal partner Daniel Stem. IKEA attorney Bryan Amann, who is vacationing in Aruba, also made many calls trying to save the deal. Yack said even Wayne County offi-cials called his office to offer help.

"I've been going back and forth, trying to defuse-the situation and get both sides talking again: Yack said. "The problem is we're on the sidelines, because this is a dispute between two private parties.' But certainly we'll use our officeto try bring the parties together."

However, Yack stressed that ABC Warehouse is only a tenant of the property and has nothing to do with negotiations between Stern and IKEA. Yack also +fended Stem.

"The township has dealt with Mr. Stern on other projects and we have found him to be a tough businessman. He's got to protect his interests, just like IKEA has to protect its interests,"Yack said.

Stern did not return calls for this story, but was quoted in other media reports as saying he did not raise his asking price with IKEA, something Roth denied.

"Obviously there is a difference of opinion," Roth said.

In January, IKEA and the township agreed to create a planned development district for the former Super Kmart site. IKEA had agreed to build a two-stow 306,000-squarefoot store. IKEA was hoping to open the store sometime in early 2006.

Canton officials said the store would've been a destination location, attracting customers from not only metro Detroit, but also from other areas of Michigan, northern Ohio and even Ontario. Currently, the closest IKEA store is in Illinois. The retailer has a total of 22 stores in the United States, and did $1.7 billion in sales from those locations last year. The Canton store was expected to employ 300 workers, and 500 union construction workers to build the massive store, which was supposed to generate about $1 million in annual property taxes and about $5 million in state sales taxes. It was also expected to pump up the local economy, bringing in about $13 millior for local stores, gas stations and hotels: Roth said IKEA is still trying to find a location m the metro Detroit market. Melissa McLaughlin, a township trustee and member of the planning commission, said she was also shocked by the news, but wasn't giving up hope something could be worked out. She said the IKEA store would've meant so much for the community. "This would have been a huge regional attraction, and would have meant a great deal to our community, It would've spawned development, provided jobs and tax dollars. Just the Canton's wrestling team executed hundreds of successful moves during Wednesday night's Division 1, District 122 team tournament in the Phase III gymnasium.

But the Chiefs' most memorable hold may have been the one they collectively applied to the championship trophy minutes after their 41-22 victory over Salem in the final match.

Canton (23-9) earned the school's first-everdistrict team wrestling title in impressive fashion: by upending Livonia Churchill, the sixth-ranked team in the st e, and the Rocks, w had defeated the Chiefs handily earlier in the season. "I'm excited for the kids: said Canton coach Casey Randolph, gesturing toward his team as it posed for a photo with the popular trophy. "Winning this is the result of a lot of hard work and believing in each other.

'When I took over as coach three years ago, I recruited a lot of kids, including football players who had never wrestled before, and I told them how wrestling would help them for football. Well, they fell in love with wrestling and discovered what a great sport it is. This is a super group of kids. They decided before the season started that they were going to leave their own legacy at Canton. First, they set the school record for wins, and now this."

Salem () Tree V() d Canton deserved the trophy more than his team.

"They work harder than us," emphazed Woochuk. "Th wanted it more."

Canton moves on to Wednesday's Regional event at Temperance-Bedford High School, where it will take on the host Mules (30-3) in the semis. If the Chiefs win, they will face either Belleville or Saline in the finals. The semi-final match is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. with the finals slated for 7 p.m.

If an intensity-o-meterhad been available for the Canton-Churchillmatch, it likely would have malfunctioned due to overwork While both teams were pumped, it was the Chargers who jumped out to a 19-3 lead behind their talented lime-up of upper-weight performers. After Canton's Alex Amberg gave his team a 3-0 lead with a 4-1 victory at 160 pounds, Churchill reeled off four straight victories from defending state champion Manuel Schubert (171), Joe Bargerstock (189), Hafeez Qureshi (215) and Pat Draheim (275).

Canton's R Schnettler en Churchill's run and helped the Chiefs regain the momentum with a dominat ing 17-1 victory at 103. Alex Fowler won at 112 for the Chargers, but Canton put a chokehold on the victory by taking the next six matches to grab a 34-22 lead. Jay Fleischmann (119), Pete Bonneau (125), Corey Phillips (130), Ryan Webb (135), Alex Freitag (140) and Konrad Konsitzke (145) all won during the streak.

Move to Michigan works out well for athletic Fox

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

When Taylor Fox's family moved to Canton from the farming community of Batavia, Ill. four years ago, the seventhgrader was not a happy camper.

"It was tough leaving all my good friends: said Fox, currently a junior at Plymouth High School.

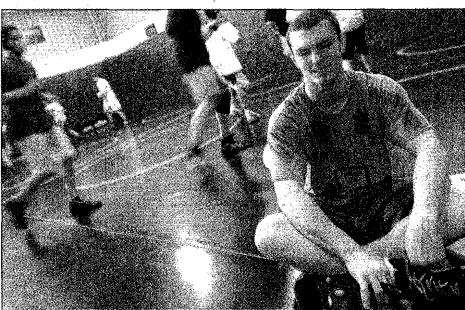

But Fox dealt with the life-altering transition like he handles even the slightest adversities on the football field and wrestling mat - he worked hard to turn the situation into apositive.

"It was hard at first, but I learned to adjust and meet new friends: he said. "Now I love it here. I have met a lot of new friends, I love the school, and I still see my old fiends at least every other month or so. Things have worked out great for me."

Batavia High School's loss has turned out to be a huge gain for Plymouth, which inherited a talented two-sport performer and stellar student when Fox's dad received a job transfer back in 2601. Fox was a two-way starter at offensive tackle and defensive end for the Wildcats' football team last fall and he currently owns a stellar 35-8 record for the school's wrestling team, which won its second consecutive district title Wednesday night.

Plymouth High School student-athlete Taylor Fox has made a mark on the football field, on the wrestling mat and in the classroom for the Wildcats. The junior has built a lofty 35-9 record so far PLEASESEE FOX 83 this season for the Plymouth wrestling team and has compiled a 36 grade-point average.

.500 before embarking on their current winning streak.

"It was a surprise," Canton coach Charlie Paye said of Smith's decision. "He told us the last time we played Wayne (a 42-39 Zebras' victory on Jan. 21). We really didn't expect it. Nobody on the team expected it."•

But Pave told his team state officials were not going to stop the season so Canton could cope.

"The kids really didn't have time to think about it," he said. 'We had to play.'

And play the Cl iefs h n Their sharpest, most crisp basketball of the season.

Canton missed its first shot of Eriday night's game — then dropped in its next five en route to a 17-15 first quarter lead. The Chiefs made four three-point shots in a row in the opening period, one more in the second and three more in the second Half.

Canton (13-6) held a 26-17 lead until Wayne rallied in the final three minutes of the first half, making four wnsecutive shots to trim the Chiefs' lead to 28-25 entering the second half. Guard J Houdek opened the second half by nailing a three from the left wing and David Calille made the first of four fast-break layups to expand Ganton's lead to 33-25 – then got ready for Wayne's inevitable

The Zebras (12-7) got consects from Jay 1: and Danny Walsh (a three) to pulled up to 33-30 with 4:15 left in the third quarter. Canton closed the quarter 12-5 and Wayne never got closer than six points again.

That's two years in a row they've l ed it t us -16points," coach Wayne Woodard of host Wayne said. "They played a pretty good game.

'They deserved to win. They came in here and took it to us. We're no longer king of the hill.' The Chiefs have a lot going for them right now. "Our goals were to win our division and win the conferid, "and we didn't ence," Pr get either of those two. Now we've got a chance to win the tournament.

"And if we play like this the rest of the year, we're going to be tough to beat. A team is going to have to play really good to beat us."

Their ball movement against the Zebras was beyond excellent. They played both zone and man-to-man against Wayne and did a mod job either way. "Maybe we depended on Julian too much," Paye said. "He was good down low and maybe our kids just stood around and watched him too much. Like sometimes we stand around and watch Andy (Cortellini) with the ball. But we're sharing the hall more now."

Paye starts two players with size - 6-foot-8 Kevin Thornton and 6-3 Andre Bridges. He rotates suable sophomores Ryan Waidman and Steve Paye with very little noticeable difference in efficiency.

"We've had other kids step up since Julian left," Paye said, "especially our three guards (Calille, Houdek and Andy Cortellini).

"We've moved Jason to the point on occasion to take some of tl pressure ff Andy and he's hit seven threes in the last two games. Calille has taken over and played really excellent basketball.

'We told Kevin he had to neutralize Gene Nix (on Friday night) and Kevin did a great job there.

The 6-7 Nix had 10 points eight in the first quarter and two in the second — while Thornton was scoring nine, including four when he rebounded and laid in two missed free throws.

Calille led the Chiefs with 19 points, Cortellini had 17 and Houdek scored 10.

Walsh scored 18 for Wayne, while DeVaughn Hill also bad 10 for the Zebras.

"This was the first game this year Rodrick Walker didn't score a point," Woodard said. "And Nix outscored Thornton, 23-8, the last ti we played. "Their guards played better than our guards. Cortellini really makes them go. He's hard to pin down.'

'Cats comeback bid falls short

BY ED WRIGHT STAR WRITER

With just under three minutes remaining in Friday night's Western Lakes Activities A iation t ment semifinal basketball game between Plymouth and Walled Lake Central, a few fans on both sides of the court put on their coats and filed out of the Central gym with the Vikings leading by 13.

Bad decision. What they missed were over two minutes of the wildest, most-intensebasketball action to unfold in the WLAA this season.

Central survived, 48-46. but not before withstanding a frantic, last-ditch comeback effort by the Wildcats, who frustrated their hosts with an in-your-face full-court press.

The victory propelled the Vikings into Wednesday night's WLAA championship showdown against Canton, which advanced by heating Wayne Memorial, 65-49 (see related story). Plymouth will take on the Zebras in the consolatiou game at 5:30 p.m. Both games will be played at Central.

"The first three quarters went exactly the way we wanted them to go," said Central coach Denny Butcher, whose team clamped down on defense and led 27-17 through three. "But Plymouth really came after us in the fourth quarter and they beat us a lot₂ with dribble penetration. They were very aggressive and they took it to us.

W e knew coming in this was going to be a very difficult game. They beat us last week (48-47 at Plymouth) and they beat the number-two seed (Westland John Glenn) to get this far, so they're a very good team. They don't do anything tricky, but they come at you.'

PREP BASKETBALL

Plymouth coach Tom Van Wagoner said he wuldn't have been more proud of his players - even if they had pulled out a dramatic win.

The kids showed a lot of character like they have all year," he said. "This team never quits. Im happy with the way we came back, but at the same time I'm disappointed we're not playing in the championship game Wednesday night. I think we're good enough to be there.

Van Wagoner said he thought the Vikings played with more purpose Friday night than they did during the Wildcats' one-point win on Feb. 11.

"It looked like they played with a lot more intensity: he said. "They blocked a ton of shots tonight. The first time we played them, we were able to get to the basket a lot easier.'

The Vikings led 42-29 when Brad Guldan completed a three-point play with 2:51 remaining. From then on it was pretty much all Plymouth, which reeled off a 10-1 run to trim its deficit to 43-39 with 1:39 to play. Junior forward Jim Wilbur instigated the rally when he drained two threepoint shots eight seconds apart.

Central built a 48-43 lead with 30 seconds left on a pair of Aaron Hakula free throws. However, Wilbur hit 1-of-2 free throws with 21 seconds left to cut the gap to four. A few seconds later, the Wildcats'vice-like, full-court press forced a turnover, which resulted in a pair of Josh Le Duc free throws to make it 48-46 with 15.4 seconds left.

On the ensuing in-bounds play, the ball bounced off the foot of a Viking player and out of bounds, giving Plymouth one more chance with 13.3 ticks left. The Wildcats got a good look with four seconds to play, but a potential gametying shot from three feet out bounced off the rim and into the hands of Central's Brad Berkhardt.

Central's David Jackson paced the winners with 14 points. Guldan finished with 11 and Berkhardt netted 10.

Wilbur (14), Le Duc (13) and DJ. Coleman (10) all hit double-figures scoring for Plymouth, which connected on just five of its first 37 shots in the contest.

'Coleman hurt us the first time we played them, so, defensively, we wanted to give him extra attention," Butcher said. "Our goal was to hold him under 12 points, which we accomplished."

Central led 8-6 after one quarter and 16-13 at the intermission. After scoring just 17 points the first three quarters combined, the Wildcats put 29 on the board in the final eight minutes

Plymouth was hampered by foul trouble all night. Le Duc sat out the final 5:34 of the third quarter after getting whistled for his fourth foul, and starting forward A.J. Davey missed a large chunk of the final quarter after fouling out with just over five minutes to play.

The Vikings hit 19-of-58 field goals (32 percent) and half of their free throws (9-of-18). Plymouth connected on just 22 percent of its field goals (13-of-58), but was solid from the line (17-of-26).

Both teams yanked down 39 reboy Is Davey led the Wildcats itl nine while Justin Goltz and Andrew Ueeck grabbed eight boards a piece for the winners.

FOX FROM PAGE BI TAYLOR-MADE LEADER

"The biggest thing with Taylor is that his leadership skills are tremendous,"said Plymouth wrestling coach Sam Amine. "The other kids on the team have so much respect for him and the way he works. He's one of those kids that gives 110 percent every practice. He never takes it easy. Some kids will coast then thry get a big lead, but be is never satisfied. He doesn't give in until he has a victory. Victories have been the rule rather than the exception throughout Fox's wrestling career at Plymouth, where he compiled a 27-3 record last year at 171 pounds. This year, among the 189-pounder's accomplishmentsare a thirdplace finish at the Saginaw Heritage Tournament and a sixth-place showing at the talent-laden Observerland meet three weeks ago.

"Taylor's biggest asset is probably his strength: said Amine. "When you combine that with his endurance and his work ethic, it's easy to see why he has been so successful.

"For the past few weeks, Taylor hasn't been feeling great. We're not sure what it is, but he still comes to practice every day and works hard, no matter what.'

RELUCTANT START

Fox reluctantly started wrestling in seventh grade at Batavia Middle School after being urged to try the sport by his friends.

"It just didn't look like it was very much fun," he said, reflecting on his mat beginnings. "But after I tried it and was on the team for awhile, I really enjoyed it. When we moved to Michigan at the end of my seventh-grade year, I found out they didn't have middle-school wrestling. But I got right back into it when I came to Plymouth.

"My freshman year, I knew the basics, so I actually had an edge on a lot of the kids on the team who were wrestling for the first time. I took my share of beatings as a freshman because I was wrestling against older kids, but I won my share of matches, too."

HISTORY BUFF

Fox's favorite class at Plymouth is also his most challenging

"It's probably my advanced placement U.S. history class." he said. "It's very hard there's a ton of reading – but it's very interesting, too.'

There was no hesitation in Fox's voice when he was asked who the most influential people have been in his athletic career.

"Without a doubt, my parents," said Fox, whose sister, Kalee, is a sophomore cheerleader at Plymouth. 'My parents got me into sports when I was young, and I'm glad they did. They're very supportive of everything I do and they're very involved with the boosters clubs."

Trade surplus Deal that brought Ward to Whalers was one-sided

www.hometownlife.com

Steve Ward felt shock and elation simultaneously one afternoon last September when he was notified that his hockey career was about to switch lanes

While at practice preparing for the season-opener a few days away against the Plymouth Whalers, Ward, then a member of the Samia Sting. was called off the ice and notified that he had been traded to the Whalersfor forward Jordan Grant and a ninthround pick in the 2005 Ontario Hockey League draft.

Like a bulldozing, blind-side check, the news caught the 18year-old defenseman off guard. "A few days before I was traded to Plymouth, I had a meeting with the (Samia) coach, and he told me that I was going to be a big part of their plans for the upcoming season," said Ward, smiling. 7 didn't get a lot of playing time the year before, so that was good news to hear. When I / found out I was traded, it was, shocking at first. The more I thought about it, though, I realized that the trade was going to allow me to make a fresh start with a great organization."

It didn't take lone for Ward to understand how beneficial the trade was for his career.

"Things couldn't have gone any better than they have,' Ward says now, six months later. "Im playing a ton, including on the power play, and I like my teammates, the coaches and the Plymouth area. It's been an awesome experience."

ral n 🛛 🛛 Ia Whalers nd coach Mike Vellucci would second that notion - especially considering Ward has thrived on the blue line for his team.

W e had been after Steve for almost a year (prior to the trade): Vellucci revealed. "He wasn't playing a lot in Sarnia because he didn't fit their style of defensemen. They like big, tough guys that like to fight, and Steve isn't that big (5-foot-11,180 pounds) and he's more of a skills guy, which is what we like. He is a great skater with a great shot.

"I really like his offensive ability. He's been a big part of our power play this year, and he will be next year as well. To tell you the truth, I don't thick we'd be where we are right now without him'

HOCKE

Heading into this weekend's games, Ward had compiled five goals, nine assists and 44 penalty minutes in 53 games. The numbers aren't flashy, but they're solid — much like the dependable Ward.

"Steve has really fit in with the team nicely" Vellucci said. "He gets along with all of his teammates, he's polite and he works hard. Since he didn't play a lot last year, this is really his rookie year, too, so he's gotten alot better as the season has gone on."

Ward was originally selected by Sarnia in the fourth round (70th overall) of the 2002 Ontario Hockey League Draft. After playing six games with the Sting in 2002-03, Ward netted three goals and eight assists in 43 games last season.

'Tm a puck-moving defenseman," Ward said, describing his style. "I like to think In the kind of player who makes s at plays and g the pick into the offensive zone quickly."

The well-spoken teenager said he'll never take the perks that go along with his current position for granted.

"It's neat – and kind of strange in a way - when a kid asks me for my autograph because it wasn't that long ago that I was asking players for their autograph." Ward said. "Even though I play and practice day in and day out, it's still very exciting for me. I realize how fortunate I am to be in the position I am."

Moving away from the comforts of home was difficult, but only temporarily, Ward said.

"It's tough moving away from your family and your friends, but you get used to it after a while," he said. "I've met a lot of new friends and I live with a great family in Plymouth, so that helps.

When I moved away from my family for the first time, I was a boy, but when I went bark home for the summer, I was a man because living independently made me a much more responsible person. I c take care of myself now better than if I never would have left hometo play (in the OHL)."

Rock icers earn dramatic draw

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

When does a tie feel like a win?

When you're down 3-0 on Senior Night – like Salem's hockey team was Friday night - and you battle back to knot the game at 3-3 with a lastsecond goal.

The Rocks' final regularseason home game ended in dramatic fashion when Adam Gillikin's second goal of the night with 1.9 seconds left. capped a tenacious rally.

The draw left Salem with a 9-11-3 record heading into Friday night's Western Lakes Activities Association crossover game.

"It was a good game," said Salem coach Fred Feiler. "We had a nice crowd for Senior Night. Our seniors really played hard. It wasn't a win, but it felt like it after trailing 3-0. And it probably felt like a loss for Northville."

Following a scoreless first period, the Mustangs tallied a pair of second-period markers

Dino Barnebie scored first with 13:28 left.and Don McKinnon made it 2-0 just 9.5 seconds before the second b ter nissio 1.

Northville's cushion grew to 3-0 with 6:52 left in the game when Joe Vitale lit the lamp, but the Rocks didn't give up.

A Craigen Bauldry shot found the back of the net with 4:45 remaining, and the comeback was on.

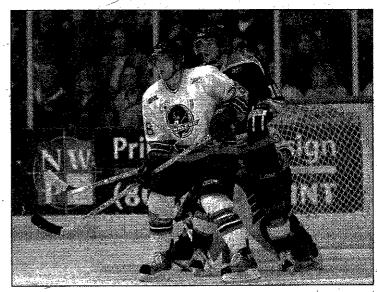

"That goal really got everybody going," Feiler said. "Everybody on the bench got up and started to make some noise."

Salem's deiicit was cut to 3-2 with 2:27 remaining on Gillikin's first goal, which was assisted by David Carey and Brooks Belhart.

W e pulled our goalie with 49 seconds left and got the puck into their zone, but they iced it three or four times,' said Feiler, describing the scenario that led to the tying goal. "During the last few seconds, we put a lot of pressure on their goalie, but he made three or four nice saves. When Adam swred, he didn't have a lot of room because it was iammed up in front of the net, but he made a nice play on it.' Carey assisted on Gillikin's tying goal. Feiler praised the effort of goalie Brandon DeMars, who made "at least 40 saves" Feiler estimated. Doug Ozog played strong in net for the Mustangs.

U.S. Bowling Congress ready to assume command in March he big transition is well under way as the US. Bowling Congress is shaping up and taking on the functions of the American Bowling Congress, the Women's International Congress, Young American Bowling Alliance and USA Bowling. The old familiar ABC

Allev Logo with an eagle atop block letters ABC is pretty Harrison much gone. It has been replaced by a red. white and blue star with an image of a bowling pin within the star and the new name right below. It's a strikingly clean design and we will see a lot of it soon.

By Aug. 1 of this year, most of the changes will have been made as the ABC. WIBC and YABA will gradually disappear.

The USBC brand promise is: Ensuring the integrity and protecting the future of Americas biggest sport for competitive and recreational bowlers.

USBC's mission statement include: The U.S. Bowling Congress, the governing body, provides programs and services, protects the integrity of the sport and enhances the bowling experience.

More information can be found on the Web site bowl.co. Roger Dalkin, former ABC executive director is now at the helm as chief executive officer of USBC.

By 2006 the names of all tournaments within the USBC will he changing while the formats and traditions will remain the same.

For example, the ABC Championship will become the USBC O 1

The USBC Convention will be March 13 at Baton Rouge, La. with delegates from area associations on hand (this previously was the ABC convention). It coincides with the USBC Open national tournament, which will now be under the new banner, formerly known as the ABC. It will also be tied in with the Hall of Fame induction ceremonies.

W h e n the last-place team goes up against the first-place team, exactly 24 places apart in the standings, expect the unexpected.

My squad was holding onto a first-placetie in the Mayflower Men's Wednesday Senior Classic The opposing team looked l i e anything but a last place team as its anchorman, Steve Karakula, fired an 803 series, to lead a three-game sweep, and it was bye-bye first place.

Both teams were hitting the 1-3 pocket real good, but Karakula was able to carry his hits while everyone else was leaving the ten-pin or the seven on seemingly good hits.

If you watch the pro bowlers on TV, that can often the difference. The pros all can hit the pocket, but the winner i usually the one who can get them all to fall on us one ball.

Round is the shape of a bowling ball, and that is good. Round is not a good shape for a bowler, and that is something that a lot of us tend to be in our own physical shape. We can think up all kinds of excuses, like not enough time, can't get to the gym, etc ...

Now there's that 20-minute workout "Blitz," which is open. in Livonia and Canton. It's a good way to get rid of the round and feel better at the same time. There's plenty to gain without all the pain.

The Blitz features a workout circuit for men, especially appealing to the more mature among us who need it most. It is patterned after "Curves," which has been serving the women successfully for many years. The exercise machines are v resistance due to the hydraulic action, so a 20minute circuit session three times per week is recommended No sweat suits, no showers, just quick, convenient and reasonably priced.

Phil Hawn of the Livonia location is offering all bowlers aone-week free trial, no obligation, just come in.

He guided me through the circuit, I found it to be quite workable for myself with absolutely none of the soreness the next day. A person can go at his own pace, more resistance or less depending on how fast he goes.

The benefits are good for all muscle groups and it is quite aerobic as well.

"Just show your sanction card and your first week is :free," Phil says. . Paul Seymour of the Canton location extends the same offer to all bowlers.

www.hometownlife.com

The health benefits of the Blitz are there for men of all ages. However, it is very suitable for the older guys since it is not stressful or physically demanding like the routines at most conventional gyms and health clubs.

Observer staff writer Linda Ann Chomin wrote all about the Blitz in the Sunday, Jan. 9, 2005 edition of the Observer. If you saved the paper, it appeared in Section C.

The Canton Blitz is located at 8577 N. Lilley Road (Call . 734-459-1405 for more information.) Meanwhile, the Livonia Blitz is at 18760 Middlebelt Rd. (Call 248-427-9770 or visit www.timetoblitz.com for more information.)

Beyond his stunning accomplishment on the lanes, Weber was bowling's greatest ambassador. He promoted the sport on an airplane, on a beach and through numerous appearances on the David Letterman shows.

During his lengthy career, Weber set many records, some of which may never be broken.

He never refused an autograph or invitation to appear at various bowling functions. In the past three years, bowling has lost three of its greatest ever — Earl Anthony, Joe Norris and now Dick Weber.

Books help us learn to live in peace

he book caught my eye as I perused the shelves downstairs at the Plymouth District Library. Robert Schoen's What I Wish My Christian Friends Knew About Judaism (Loyola Press, Chicago, 2004) was well worth my time the few days it took to read.

The book also drew rave reviews from Publishers Weekly which, in its starred review, says, Written in a breezy, conversational style and laced with humor, this primer on Judaism delivers precisely what the title indicates. ... What is truly remarkable about this compendium is its thoroughness and lucidity. Scboen manages to touch briefly on practically all aspects of Judaism. ..."

Some of the book wasn't new to me. I knew a bit about keeping kosher, having worked as a high schooler in the restaurant at the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield. Even so, Schoen's descriptions of Jewish dietary laws shed a great deal of new light for me.

Schoen's background is interesting. You might expect a rabbi to have penned such a book, but Schoen is definitely a layperson. He's both an optometristand an accomplished musician (parts of the book deal with music used for Jewish services and the role of the cantor).

Much of my childhood knowledge of Judaism came from Sydney Taylor's stellar "All of a Kind Family" books in which five young Jewish girls, joined by a brother, grow up in a loving home in early 20th century New York.

Those books are great for teaching grade schoolers, especially girls, about Judaism. Together with books such as Schoen's, there's a wealth of information for those of all ages.

Schoen's book got me to thinking about Islam and Hinduism, two other dominant world religions about

Local movie makers sold on metro Detroit area

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Five years after graduating from Churchill High School in Livonia, Thomasita Hatfield was on her way to study special effects makeup in L.A. when former classmate Todd Brunswick called.

Three children and a name change later, Tommy Brunswick and husband Todd are preparing for the world premiere of Mr. Jingles, their third horror film on Feb. 24, at Emagine Theatre in Novi.

Like a growing number of filmmakers from Canton, Westland, Garden City, and West Bloomfield, the Brunswicks would like to make pictures in Hollywood someday, but for now they're inspired by sights and sounds in the community. Local filmmakers are content to write, direct, produce, and act in their love stories, comedies and horror flicks right here. Mr. Jingles was shot in Livonia Canton and the Maple Grove Cemetery in Westland. For information about the premiere, call (734) 844-0300. 'We're Hollywood outsiders," said Todd Brunswick, a 35-year old Canton resident who made his first films for a Livonia auto supplier. Both have taken odd jobs to make ends meet during nearly five years in the film industry. "It's totally unglamorous. Ninety-five percent is business. The fun part is making the movies." Shooting Mr. Jingles took only eight days compared to nine months of planning, casting and securing investors for the slasher movie about a killer clown. Their first two films, Biker Zombies and Lurking Terror, taught them production shortcuts. Efficiency is an important selling point when trying to attract investors for a Crossbow 5 Entertainment film. They're hoping past connections they've made in the industry will lead to larger projects. Mr. Jingles cost under $100,000 and was privately funded. Right now they're looking for investors for upcoming films The Dumping Ground, Writer's Block and Corpse of Carnage. The good news is the horror segment of the industry has grown 23 percent in the last year according to American Film Market statistics.

"It's very tedious hard work," said Tommy Brunswick. "To stick with it it's kind of crazy. It's that passion or vision, you can't stop it."

you can't stop it." Sam Khaleghi and Rockey Black come from different worlds yet have the same desire to bring creations to the screen. Ever since Khaleghi of West Bloomfield and Black (Westland) met at the premiere for Emineni's 8 Mile, the two have been on the same wavelength when it comes to movie making. Both have acted in, written and produced everything from horror to the comedy Approaching Midnight to the romantic drama In Love with Lust, directed by Darren Brown of Detroit. Locations were local - LaBasha Restaurant, Harrison High School and Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills as well as homes in Bloomfield Hills and Westland.

"We're trying to expand the local community of filmmakers," said Khaleghi, a 21-year old public relations student at University of Michigan-Dearborn. "We said let's keep it here. All the resources are here, the actors, directors."

"You're seeing more independent films made here because it's cheaper to make," added Black, who played a supporting role in 8 Mile. We're working on making this spot the next Hollywood. We have the big city, the forest, the river, everything we need here." ODD JOBS

Both realize that making Detroit the next Hollywood isn't going to happen overnight. Like the Brunswicks, they He's also acted in commercials for DOC and Toyota. Sara Stepnicka isn't about to quit her day job as manager of Guilio's restaurant at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn. Besides keeping food on the table, the position provided her and fiance Anthony Vallone with a location for the police station scene in The Mongol King, a senal killer thriller Their Vallonicka Films was going to shoot inside the Ypsilanti police department until Sept. 11 happened. It forced them to find another site in addition to Ypsilanti and the University of Michigan campus in Ann Arbot. Vallone was studying psychology of film and Stepnicka was in the theater program at Eastern Michigan University. Before long, he was writing the film and both were playing the next targets of the killer. So far, the film was selected for the Smmash Film Festival in Minnesota last October and the Bare Bones International Film Festival in Oklahoma in April 2005. Mongol King qualified for Bare Bones because it was shot for less than $8,000. The film is available for $14 from www.themongolking.com, Amazon.com or customflicks.com.

'We wouldn't have been close to getting it done except for the hundreds of people who helped us," said Vallone, a 30-year-old Garden City resident who together with Stepnicka is giving back to the community. We're trying to bring another film here and we're trying to start a nonprofit for underprivileged children to be involved with film making. We're finishing up the proposal now.?

Schoen's book, which includes sections on the Holocaust and Middle East conflict, ends with a plea for understanding and tolerance among the of all faiths. His excellent book concludes that we're all in this together, and need to learn to share our planet peacefully.

Certainly, learning about each other's beliefs and traditions is an important part of that. If you're unsure of where to start, why not check with your public library, just like I did?,

You'll end up learninga thing or two, and enjoying yourself at the Same time.

Author captures tales of Cadillac assembly line workers

Lolita Hernandez writes about workersat the Cadillac Clark Street plant in her new book, 'Autopsy of an Engine.'

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAR WRITER

Lolita Hernandez planned to work at the Cadillac Motor Car Co. plant on Clark Street in southwest Detroit for only a little while aft arr i her psychology degree at University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. She ended up staying 21 years until the complex completely closed in 1994.

It was a gradual demise for the Cadillac Clark Street assembly line, which was considered the most modern automobile complex in the world when operations began in 1927. Clark Street produced cars jointly with Fleetwood. At its peak in the mid-1970s, nearly 10,000 people worked in the foundry, plating operation, engineering facility, warehouse and waste treatment center. Although she compares the factory to a black hole, it's obvious Hernandez's love for the assembly line workers is what inspired her to write Autopsy of an Engine and Other Stories from the Cadillac Plant.

She says there's a little bit of her and her co-workers in each of the 12 short stories. She'll read some of them, then answers questions, at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March I, at the Madonna University library in celebration of Women's History Month.

"I started working in the plant out of politics. I was in a left-wing group and wanted to raise the level of consciousness," said Hernandez, who began writing in the 1970s and earned a master of fine arts degree from Vermont Writing School of Norwich University in 1993 as the plant was in the process of closing down. Nothing is ever all bad or good. We were a family in a sense. It was good money. Working conditions weren't always real swell, especially back then, hut I try to convey how we creatively lived through all that. We had feasts at the plant at holiday time. There was so much warmth and dignity. I don't miss the work. I miss the people. You learn how to swing with the motion of the part or line."

That rhythm comes out in the book as poetic music as Hernandez triples words and creates melodies from the sounds on the line. Although she spent only five years on the line, Hernandez has worked for the auto industry for 32 years. After the line moved to Livonia in 1979, she became a trades person at Cadillac Engineering; when it closed, she went on to her present job for the UAW-General Motors Center for Human Resources in the plant maintenance program aimed at producing a safer work environment while maintaining quality products. Along the way she raised

Along the way she raised two children – Pedro, 27, a graduate of Princeton University who now works as a stand-up comic in Los Angeles, and Demecina Gray, her 20-year-old daughter who's now in her final year of art school at the Art Institute of Chicago.

"People don't know much about working in a factory," said Hernandez. a 57-year-old Detroit resident. "I've had people thank me for telling them

Youths become easily hooked on tobacco

r. Joseph R. DiFranza is a family doctor and a professor of family medicine at the University of Massachusetts Medical School.. He's been studying tobacco and youth access to tobacco for over 20 years. In a 30-month study, even DiFranza was shocked at the results of his Hooked On Nicotine Checklist.

The test was given to 679 seventh grade students. Here. are the results.

Students who answered even one question "yes" were 29 times more likely to fail at their first attempt to quit.

Students who answered even one question "yes" were 44 times more likely to still be smoking at the end of the study.

Students who answered even one question "yes" were 58 times more likely to be smoking daily.

In other words, nicotine addiction isn't defined by how much or for how long a person smokes, Nicotine is an addiction when it: is hard for a person to stop.

According to DiFranza, "Youths become hooked, or dependent, on tobacco much more quickly than any one had previously imagined. It also takes much less tobacco to get hooked than we had thought. There does not appear to be any threshold of nicotine intake in terms of cigarettes per day for dependence to start."

DiFranza's study is important. There will be more research, and more hard data on how much - actually, how little - cigarette smoking leads to nicotine addiction. In part, however, DiFranza has rediscovered what has long been known about another addiction, alcohol.

Have your adolescent take the Hooked On Nicotine Checklist. What you now know and what your teen will learn, could helife-saving. The Hooked On Nicotine Checklist

1. Have you ever tried to .quit, but couldn't? 2. Do you smoke now

3. Have you ever felt like you were addicted to tobacco? 4. Do you ever have strong cravings to smoke?

5. Have you ever felt like you really needed a cigarette? 6. Is it hard to keep from smoking in places where you are not supposed to, like school?.

When you tried to stop smoking ... or, when you haven't used tobacco for a while'... did you find it hard to concentrate because you couldn't smoke?...did you feel

The Michigan Department of Treasury reports that 118 percent fewer cigarette packs were sold in July, August, and September of 2004, compared to the same period last year. The Michigan Distributors and Vendors Association recently claimed that state cigarette retailers and wholesalers had experienced a 25 percent drop in the sale of cigarettes since the tax was increased by 75 cents on July first. Clearly the health goals associated with the passage of the tax increase are likely to be achieved usino either figure.

Further support for this outlook is the fact that the Michigan Tobacco Quit Line reported over 1.000 individuals called for information on how to quit smoking during the month of October. This was a 91 percent increase over the previous October. The Ouit Line number is (800) 480-7848. Nowadays, children don't necessarily spend their summer playing with other neighborhood youth.

With that reality, choosing the right camp is even more important.

That's why Elaine Sturman is proud to present the annual Super Summers for Kids: A Camp and Activity Fair.

"Nowadays, children don't live close together anymore and play in the street," she said. "You have to find an environment that is safe, nurturing and fun for them in the summer."

-Super Summers for Kids is set for 11 am. to 3:30 p.m. Sunday. Feb. 27, at the Birmingham Public Schools Corporate Training and ConferenceCenter in Beverly Hills.

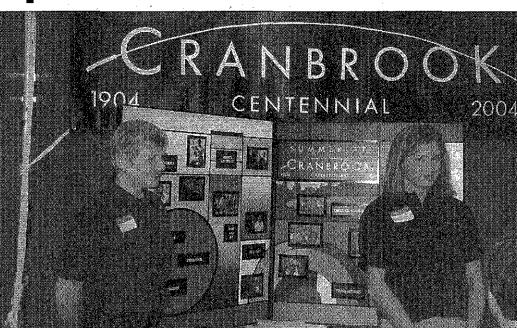

The 16th annual went, which is free, will again feature a variety of day and overnight camps from throughout southeast Michigan and Canada

"It will showcase over 70 camps," said Sturman. "It's 'onestop shopping I provide a venue to talk to program directors, get brochures and see videos and really get a feel for what the program is.

Over 1000 families - or 3,000 to 4,000 people - attend annually, she said. "It's the only camp fair in this area, and by far the biggest?

"It far exceeded my expectations, because we were able to see the whole spectrum of summer activities that are available for the kids," she said. "Being a grandparent, things have changed significantly. I didn't realize there were so many specialized camps.'

Her grandsons ended up with a day camp in science and computers for part of the summer.

Robin Fenberg of Birmingham said the camp helped her choose the Roeper day camp for her daughter, Rachel, 7. The camp offers diverse activities, with campers choosing what they want to do each day.

"She loved it," she said of how her daughter liked the camp. "It's a wonderful event," she added of the fair.

The fair is divided into day and overnight programs. Some camps, such as YMCA, offer both Sturman noted.

Think about giving the gift of life

A ll of us expect that if we're ever in an accident or develop a serious illness and need blood, it'll be there. Unfortunately, while there's a continuing need for donated blood, only a fraction of people who can give blood actually do.

We have the same problem when it comes to organ donation. About 80,000 people await a life-saving transplant and, sadly, 18 die every day because a donor isn't found on time.

Im not saying that donating blood or organs is for everyone. Certainly some people have good reasons for not doing so. (Religious beliefs come to mind.) But I am saying that we all need to think about how we can"pitch in" to help meet the community's health needs And donating blood and pledging to be an organ donor are great ways to do that

Dietitian offers tips for healthy eating

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Are you a Standup Suzy or Sam? Eating on the run can pack on the pounds just ask registered dietitian Gail Posner. It's just one of the bad habits the registered dietitian regular ly tries to curb in clients at her Healthy Ways Nutrition Counseling office in West Bloomfield. Over the last 20 years, Posner's identified certain unhealthyeating patterns and problem foods again and anain so she d to name the personalities d€ Bag or Box Barry or Barb, Fast Frank or Fra, P: tty Party. She currently is working on a book about the offenders to help them detect and reduce unnecessary calories. If you're a Stand-up Suzy those two extra crackers every day can add up to six pounds in a year.

"Stand-up Suzy may be the number one bad habit" said Gail Posner. "We consume so many extra calories by "grazing, walking through the kitchen, grabbing a piece of a few crackers in the cupboard." P(provider

P(provides a creative solution to the problem after evaluating a client's eating practices during an hour-long intervi on the first vi. If you're a stand-up eater, sit down.

"Move the grabby-type foods – pretzels, dried cherries, a bowl of grapes to an inconvenient location," said Posner. "Keep cereal above the refrigerator. Keep grapes in a covered dish in the back of the fridge, ice cream in the basement freezer."

Don't give up the chocolate just limit the proportions. Instead of eating a candy bar, try to curb your craving with two Hershey's kisses.

"Chocolate does have health benefits: said Posner. "It's not the enemy in the right amount. I think chocolate is part of life. It includes components that release serotonin for a calming, soothing effect but you only need 1- to 2-tablespoons of chocolate or two Hershey's kisses. Wa 20 minutes, I use the analogy of a headache, you don't take pain reliever or medication and five minutes later take another because it isn't working. It 1 time. The craving should pass."

Weight loss isn't the only reason Posner's clients come to her. About 20 percent want to eat healthier, the other 40 percent have health issues such as diabetes, arthritis and high cholesterol. All can benefit from controlling portions and exercising. Posner recommends both.

"I'm seeing a more preventive approach," said Posner. "They're t waiting till they're overweight or have a health issue. People are much more aware and interested in nutrition and using a registered dietitian as a trainr. I'm seeing parents concerned with nild habits and clients who in the last couple of years have increasingly grown confused about what to e at They say, I give up. Do I not eat fats, protein."

Posner eats six small meals a day, everything from pasta to bread. Downsizing portions is more important than the types of food consumed. In addition, she drinks 64 ounces of Barry Ho en ov na he advice sinc Oct. 30. The retired chief judge for Oakland County originally went to see Posner on his doctor's advice after a blood test revealed an elevated sugar count. Howard didn't want to eventually have to take medication for diabetes. Posner evaluated not only eating but exercise patterns and the fact that political and bar association events put him at high risk for overeating. Howard doesn't eat the hors d'oeuvres now because if he starts be can't stop. If he's going to have a drink, he might start with a Bloody Mary then go non-alcoholic for the second drink.

"I've lost 20 pounds: said Howard, 56 of West Bloomfield. "It's an individualized program based on likes and lifestyle. It's easy to follow. It's adaptable. If you have a craving for pizza, you can eat pizza You just have to nit the amount that you eat.

"Im reorienting the eating and drinking, controlling portions. Gail gave me simple tips. If you look at the palm of the hand that is the amount of meat you should eat or cut a tennis ball in half. That would be the amount of starches you can have. With salad dressing, choose dear over cloudy. The same with soup."

Can you spot yourself in one of the unhealthy eating personalities mentioned below? Registered dietitian Gail Posner says it's a good beginning.

Once she's identified unhealthy eating patterns and problem foods in clients at Healthy Ways Nutrition Counseling in West Bloomfield, the next step is easy. She develops an eating plan tailored to their lifestyle. For those who decide to go it alone, she offers the following advice.

Lemonade Larry doesn't realize the calories hidden in sugary drinks. A tall glass of lemonade (12 ounces) can contain 120 to 150 calories. One glass a day instead of water can amount to 12 pounds a year. A bottle of Sunny Delight or. Snapple is 240 to 300 calories.

"I encourage clients to switch to a lower sugar, healthier product such as vitamin water which has 1/3 the calories of Sunny Delight," said Posner. "The goal is to get them to switch to water."

Dehydrated Dana confuses thirst and hunger. One of the first questions Posner asks is is she eating the recommended nine to 11 servings of fruits and vegetables each day. Fruits and vegetables are 90 percent water and in addition to supplying vitamins, hydrate the body and provide a satiated feeling.

"They think they're hungry when it's thirst," said Posner. "I train people to distinguish the difference. Before eating an extra snack try a glass of water. Wait five minutes then ask 'Am I still hungry?"

Fast Frank (or Fran) eats so fast he doesn't realize he's full. If you don't spend at least 20minutes eating a meal or snack, you're not leaving enough time for the brain to realize you put food in your stomach.

"Chewing sends signals to the brain to indicate satiety or fullness. How many don't chew, but inhale," said Posner. "I teach fast eaters to slow down and take small bites the size of a nickel. Load meals with vegetables. There's more to chew.

'During a party or long dinner some of my clients report having two to four drinks.'

Gail Posner registered dietitian

A six ounce glass of wine contains 125 calories. A large martini is like drinking two to three drinks or 300 calories. Frozen drinks like daiquiris and margaritas are 300 to 400 calories a serving.

"During a party or long dinner some of my clients report having two to four drinks. That adds up to splurged calories."

Posner says start the evening with a non-alcoholic drink like Perrier or a Virgin Bloody Mary then have an alcohol drink. The third round go back to an alcohol-free drink.

Clean Plate Charlie always empties his plate. "Don't treat yourself like a garbage can. Listen to your body," said Posner. "Restaurant portions are for 6-ft. football players. Adjust the portion to your height."

Grab and Go Gina doesn't plan ahead. When she gets hungry, she's very hungry. The solution is to plan ahead and have vegetables or a healthy snack with you to tide you over.

"You don't send your kids to school without lunch. Take as good care of your body," said Posner. "Pack dried fruit, peanut butter sticks in the trunk or glovebox."

Bag or Box Barry or Barbara takes a bag of chips or pretzels to the family room or computer, sits down and eats till they hit the bottom.

"The healthy way is to take one serving. Check the label to see what that is. Put the box away," said Posner. "Don't put cereal on the kitchen table. By putting it away you're more likely not to take extra helpings.

Such multi-tasking demands versatile lighting in kitchens. Gone are the days when a single 100-watt fixture centered in the kitchen's ceiling was sufficient for lighting needs.

"I see people every day who are saddled with ni light in the ildle of the kitchen." says Dan Blitzer, consulting director of education for the American Lighting Association. "This means that everywhere around the perimeter, where most of the work is done, it's done in one's own shadow. To make matters worse, the fixture is usually undersized."

Lighting experts agree that you should create a lighting recipe for your kitchen that complements the size and use of the room. You should also determine which lights will be functional and which will be decorative. A lighting professional may be able to create the right mix for your home. Here are some items to consider:

■ Kitchen table – The kitchen table is a family focal point. A decorative pendant fixture, operating with a dimmer control, will provide sufficient lighting for this controlled area.

Sink and stove areas – Recessed downlights assure even illumination. Install them over the stove and sink areas to create adequate task lighting for cooking and cleaning. When you add new lights over the sink or stove, the whole area comes alive," says Barry Levett, owner and president of House of Lights in Mayfield Heights, O o. "Those are the areas where homeowners spend lots of their time."

■ General room lighting – Functional fixtures will provide welldiffused general lighting perfect for moving about the room safely, peering inside drawers and cabinets, and performing chores. The latest looks revolve around recessed lights and low voltage, industrial styles, often with a metal finish.

Cabinets and countertops -Placing lighting above and below cabinets can illuminate countertops for more functional task lighting. These types of lights have gone from optional to necessary with the advent of larger kitchens. Available in slim, energy-efficient designs such as miniature track light o lov vol age ar systems, under-cabinet lighting quickly and casily lights up countertops. Halogen is quite popular in these areas, offering consumers a whiter, more accentuating light. It adds drama to the kitchen, electrifying countertops and making food look better.

Similarly, over-cabinet lighting is also popular. It emphasizes tall ceilings and complement cabinets that don't reach the ceiling. Installing lighting fixtures within this area can give a more spacious feel to a smaller kitchen.

■ Office space - The kitchen "office" or workspace is the latest trend in need of good lighting. Sometimes these are desk areas for paying bills or copying recipes. More often than not, however, they include a space for a computer. Remember that the computer itself is ill i t, so you need only light the paperwork. While your task lighting here depends upon your cabinet lavout and computer location, a fluorescent fixture will work well.

Creating the best lighting design for your kitchen is just like cooking a great meal. You have to have the right recipeand the proper ingredients. You should also plan your work in advance, and consult with lighting experts to determine the right fixtures for your needs.

Beautiful kitchen makeovers done on a budget

(NAPSI) – Having a brighter, more beautiful kitchen doesn't have to break your budget. The followingtips can provide a recipe for inexpensive, kitchen makeover success.

You can update cabinets without replacing them. The easiest update is to refinish or paint them. New knobs and hinges can help pull together a new look. Replacing just the door is less expensive than replacing the whole cabinet. Or you can remove the doors and go for a "country kitchen" shelving look.

Freshen up your walls with a new coat of paint. A painted or wallpapered border eah define your kitchen's look or yon might want to add some molding to give a bland kitchen more detail.

Not ready to replace appliances? You may be able to replace the fronts of some dishwashers and refrigeratorsto match your cabinets. Or you may be able to paint your appliances with appliance paint.

A color theme is an important part of making kitchen elements seem less haphazard. If you're handy with a sewing machine yon can start by making curtains in an appealing fabric and use the same fabric to make other accessories. Keep decorative elements and cookware-from your tea kettle to your tea towels-in the same color theme. An inexpensive do-it-yourself flooring option is self-adhesive tiles. They're easy to install and come in a wide range of colors. For less than $10, you can get burner covers in a dozen patterns and colors. You can even change your burner covers to reflect the changing seasons. For more information, visit

Energy program benefits homes, owners

(NAPSI) - Building a new home can be one of the biggest and, often, most challenging decisions a person will make. There are so many things to consider throughout the process. Once you have picked the lot and have decided to move forward with the planning and design of your new home, you will need to make some very serious decisions. Who will build your home?

Will the design and layout fit your needs? Can you meet those needs financially? Will your new home be safe and durable? Knowing you have considered all of the options carefully, will your new bome provide the peace of mind you and your family expect?

lt's morelikely to if you plan ahead and participate in a voluntary new construction program. The program evaluates each new borne based on the principles of what is called "applied building science" and the recognition that a home is an integrated and interactive system. This system, which is designed, built and tested to meet program standards,

Returning From Active Duty, One At A Time

It isn't easy to imagine what life islike for a person on active duty. Glimpses of television news or scenes in a movie offer not much more than reality TV. The amendment to the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) signed into law on December 10, 2004, requires companies to notify citizen-soldiers of their employment rights. A mini-industry of vendors, both legal and HR, has sprung to the aid of companies, hut such standardization doesn't tell the whole story. Companies must do more. They must remember that each member of the National Guard or Reserves is an individual. Soldiers, Marines, airmen, sailors and members of the Coast Guard are first and foremost individuals, retrining.

David St. Germain, executive director of the Massachusetts Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve (ESGR), a national committee headquartered in Arlington, Va., says that employers tend to follow USERRA or go beyondit.

"A lot of problems we're having result from lack of communication between employer and reservists, and vice-versa, and lack of knowledge of what the law requires," he states.

"We try to gain information from the reservists to find out who the employer is. Then we pry open the lid calling the employer and offering him participationin programs, for managers and business owners." He speaks of reservists who failed to notify employers and "just show up at the plant."

Bryan Zawikowski should know about these returnees as individuals. Heis general manager and division director of Lucas Group's Military Division, which places more than 1,000 military veterans in corporations per year. His company has offices throughout the United States and in Berlin.

"Most returning reservists have a job that's still available --- or-a similar one," Zawikowski says, "and the company is willing to take them back, but they don't necessarily want to go back.

Part of this has to do with improving economic conditions. The grass seems to be greener elsewhere. The bond with fellow employees (in some cases) is gone; so they're returning to a job as opposed to career." Heindicates that an employee who left unhappy is most likely not to return. Serving on active duty can create a clean break for them.

"Then again, some can't wait to get back to their companies," he adds.

CIRCUITOUS ROUTES There's a great deal of discussion about how multiple jobs affect the American worker. But there's less about reservists with jagged service records caused by changing needs of the American military. Jeremy Burkes, currently of Fayetteville, NC., is in transition, finally available to work full-time in industry this month. He's looking for a position in th central U.S. after three years with the Army Reserve, more than three years with the National Guard during college, then three years of active duty, a three-month break, National Guard for more than a year, active duty for two years, all of this by age 30. Value in his pronouncedability to adapt can't be underestimated by civilian employers, who often have to counter employees resisting change. WilMitchell, currently of Denver, Colo., is a Naval Academy graduate who subsequently served in the Marine Corps, then worked in a-Fortune 100 company before deployment after 9/11.

He chose not to return to his previous employer, a decision totally unrelated to his feelings about the company Mitchell was worn out, in need of abreak. He'd been gone long enough to have forgotten his boss's telephone number; so he used the company Web site to find a number for HR

HR understood his need for a rest, he recalls "There was nothing negative. They asked me to send a letter of resignation."Mitchell took that rest and is now seeking an operations management position to capitalize upon on his management experience. (At 32, he's led 60 people or more at a time.). He values the Marine Corps's belief that "there is nothing more important than taking care of those who work for you." Experienced with teamwork, "I can police up after myself, too," he comments.

USERRA does standardize a process -- for people who can't be standardized.

Buick's New LaCrosse Sedan Delivers Prestige, Power, Comfort

Advertising Feature

Anne Fracassa

Avanti NewsFeatures

By Anne Fracassa Avanti NewsFeatures

This all-new 2005 Buick LaCrosse is a replacement for the tried-and-true Regal and Century sedans that graced our roads for so many years. And the replacement is fresh, new and truly refreshing.

The LaCrosse seats up to six adults and is a front-wheeldrive midsize sedan that has a bit of luxury built into it. It's got comfort, it's quiet as a field mouse and can handle just about any road situation yon can throw at it.

Powered by a totally responsive 240-horsepower 3.6-liter V6 with variable valve timing mated to a four-speed automatic transmission, the LaCrosse CXS can surprise you with its quick response. The other two models (the CX and CLX) come standard with General Motors' 3800 3.8-liter V6 with a four-speed automatic transmission.

Buick calls it "Quiet Tuning." Throughout the body, powertrain and a suspension that's smooth, yet agile, you can t el hear it turn over when you start it. Road noise is nearly non-existent. Handling is superb in everything from dry roads to snow-coverid slushy messes.

The only thing that will make you turn up the stereo is if you've got the heating and cooling on full power. Otherwise you hear nothing.

Although I immediately installed an aftermarket remote start system on my primary vehicle, I'm pleased to see more and more manufacturers starting to have factoryinstalled remote starting systems. On Lacrosse, it marks the first time a Buick has such a system. It's something that's totally invaluable, whether it's the dead of winter or the height of summer. You can start the vehicle and warm it up or cool it down before yon slide into the fmnt seat. Invaluable.

I mentioned the LaCrosse was available in three distinct trim levels -- the well-equipped CX, elegantly appointed CXL and the performance-rated CXS. They're EPA rated 20 mpg in the city and 29 mpg on the highway. Gas prices aren't a concem here.

Quiet as a field mouse, the LaCrosse is. Improvements 2005 Buick Lacrosse. Vehicle type: Midsize sedan. Power: 3.8-liter V6. Mileage: 20 mpg city/ 29 mpg highway. Where built: Oshawa. Ontario, Canada. Price as tested: $32,750.

have been made obvious by rebound damper bumpers for improved cushioning, returned power steering systems for improved response, stabilizer bars that are larger and an all-new aluminum engine cradle and mounting system for quieter powertrain performance.

The new four-wheel-disc braking system is larger and more durable and are mounted on 16-inch wheels (17-inch wheels are on the CSX). StabiliTrak is standard, giving it maximum traction control in emergency situation or low traction conditions.

It takes the worry out of driving. No matter how and why yon depress the brakes, it independently applies a braking force and any corner of the vehicle, which interprets your desired driving and accelerates or decelerates the vehicle. So if you're starting to fishtail, the StabiliTrak applies the outside front brake to straighten out the vehicle. If you're understeering, the rear brake is applied to help turn the vehicle It's Il computer-generated and is connected to the r I rdanti-k I bralin ste traci rion of the LaCrosse is $s = B_1 c$, with fit \Rightarrow Tł curves and the familiar Buick signature look -- not sporty or flashy in the least. It is elegant, as all of Buick's vehicles. There are chrome accents everywhere and the front fascia is remarkably understated.

On the inside, however, you'll find that luxury appointments are the norm, not the exception. Everything has soft leather throughout, wood grain accenting and a feel of comfort.

The legroom on the LaCrosse is wonderfully refreshing and front and rear hip room is also premium. Five-passenger models have a large center armrest with a deep console and leather shifter, while the six-passenger models have steering-column-mounted shifter and a seatback that can be converted to a center console and armrest.

The standard equipment list is lengthy and includes remote keyless entry, power driver's seat, automatic programmable power door locks with lockout protection, power windows with express-down on the driver's side, six-speaker stereo with CD player, full interior illumination with delayed entry and exit lighting and premium leather seat surfaces on the higher level models.

Stuffvou can add includes heated front seats, steeringwheel-mounted audio and climate wntmls, stereo upgrades, MP3 player, and XM satellite radio.

Safety issues are taken care of with the use of dual-stage front air bags, safety-cage structure and interior engine components that directs impact away from the passengers and-driver.

OnStar is available on all models and comes with a one: year subscription. PASSLock theft deterrent system with engine immobilzer is also standard.

You can also opt for the side curtain air bags. The LaCrosse also has a rear parking assist system that tells you when there's an object behind the vehicle. It's extremely sensitive, too.

In one sentence, the Buick LaCrosse is a fine work of art and function.

Student designs

2 By Wensdy White

ho knew Detroit had so many budding fashion designers? I recently had the honor of sitting on a panel of judges at Detroit's first-ever student fashion show competition, and wow - was I impressed with the talent in this town. The fashion show was part of Artrageous -- a huge fund raising gala Artrageous -- a hugo for Fancluh Arts Foundation held Jan. 29 at the American Center Building in

WSU,

Outrageous

Southfield. It was spearheaded by Virginia Sullivan, a transplanted New Yorker who counts working as a professor at the Fashion Institute of Technology among her long list of achievements in the fashion world.

Sullivan put out a call to schools in the area with fashion design programs -Cranbrook, College for Creative Studies, Wayne State University and International Academy of Design & Technology.

She asked them to nominate up to 20 fashion design students each, who could enter garments in up to three of four categories.

Then, Sullivan invited yours truly to judge the contest, along with herself and Susan Howes, Fashion Editor of HOUR Detroit.

Artrageous – which brought together artists, musicians and chefs from the area's finest restaurants — was a great event, but I spent most of it backstage examining racks full of clothing.

Many of the pieces were made from custom patterns. Some featured couture detail ing and were constructed from fabrics dyed by the students themselves.

The students modeled their clothing during a runway show, and four of them walked away with prizes for their work. Winners in each category got $250, along with a $500 grant for their schools.

as the cliché says - everyone who participated was truly a winner. All of the students got exposure for themselves and their schools, experience with a live runway show, next year. Because if Virginia Sullivan has her way, the Artrageous Wearable Art Fashion Show will be around for a long time to come.

The Dancing Eye Strikes a Lake Front Pose

shine with her creative spirit, spunk and sense of humor. An artist herself, she conceived the business name one morning sitting at the breakfast table. She laughs, "I was looking at one of my pieces, and it resembled a dancing eye!" Hence, the inception of the Northville gallery – now celebrating 10 years in business.

With its origin as mainly a tile shop, the Northville Dancing Eye expanded its horizons in 2001, and opened a second store "Across the Street, filled with novelty tees, purses, vests, belts, ponchos, scarves, boutiqueline jeans and other accessories.

The galleries delight with hand made jewelry, greeting cards, candles, soaps, ceramics, journals and nightlights. Metal sculptures, mobiles and shadow charms mesmerize, along with other personal gifts and home accessories And check out the cute tees, clothing and adornments for bahy, too.

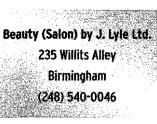

Schierloh says, 'Tiles are how people first discovered my business. It's a niche." And find fabulous tiles in many sizes, colors and themes. Aesthetically pleasing, they adorn fireplace surrounds, wood floors, brickwork, gardens, backsplashes or showers.

For gift giving, tiles make great coasters, soap dishes, paper weights, trivets, framed wall art, or personalized keepsakes — for milestones, for baby, or even etched with corporatelogos.

the pioneers of Willits Alley with the opening of his salon, Beauty (Salon) by J. Lyle Ltd. His brother Simon Tomkinson, an architect, helped with the cutting edge design.

An internationally trained hair stylist for over 12 years, Lyle formerly worked and trained others at Bashar Salon in Birmingham.

With metro area roots, he was horn to English parents, and he and his family lived in France during part of his youth — so he learned the ways of the world early on.

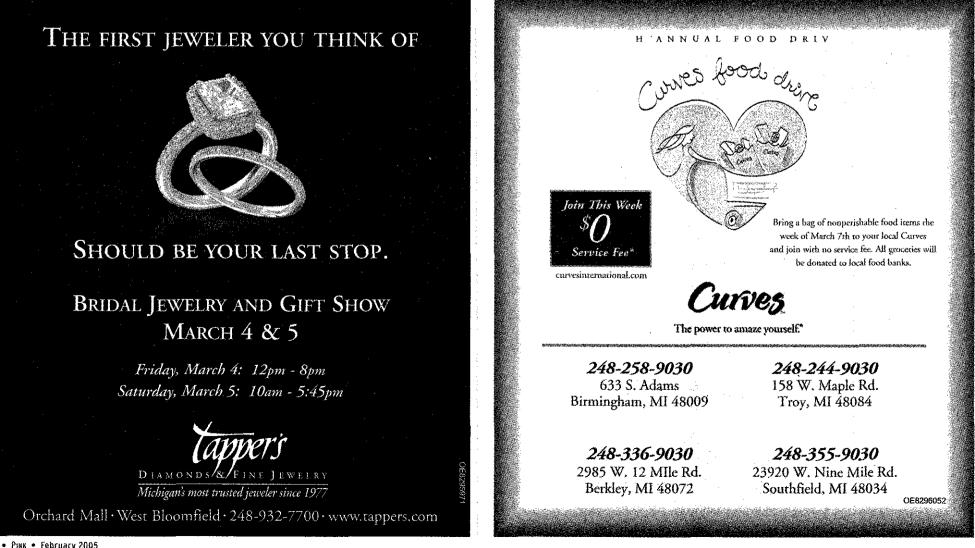

Lyle provides a comfortable feel with cool design elements and a blend of chic and grit, or as he puts it, "a spice of life concept — making people beautiful with an edge."

With his select group of talented stylists, he adds, 'We're not an ultra-modern or a mega-salon. We have four stations, and create an intimate feel. We're serviceoriented, and hope to bring happiness to people's lives. We want to have fun — and fun's infectious!"

One employee, Jonathan Toben, is a "go-to" man who'll gladly pick up lattes or feed meters for clients.

Lyle stresses the importance of a skilled, professional, friendly and helpful staff. And he feels that a good fit of personalities is key to success.

"The shop really expresses 'me' and what I hope to offer. There's nothing like it anywhere in town!" he said.

Romance

Reigns at New York Fashion Week

ust as we are tiring of cool-weather clothing and trying to get a handle on spring styles, designers are thinking fall all over again. The biggest names in fashion unveiled their latest collections at New York Fashion week, Feb. 6-11. So what's on the runway for Fall 2005? Rich, sumptuous fabrics featuring metallic threads and beading, ethnic embroidery, patchwork and brocade showed up in several collections. Red, raspberry, cranberry and plum spruced up otherwise neutral fall palettes. And proportions grew - reflected in full, belowthe-knee skirts. Some designers harkened back to a romantic, literary past with petticoats, camisoles and vests. It's definitely time to retire the overplayed poncho. It seems certain to be replaced by either a slouchy cardigan or a short, hoxyjacket. Here's what some featured designers showed during Fashion Week:

Diane von Furstenberg

Inspired by the Russian Revolution, Diane von Furstenberg sent a mix of folkloric embroideries and military details down the runway at her show. A wool jersey peacoat was paired with a gypsy-style chiffon petticoat as von Furstenberg straddled masculine tailoring with femininity and romance. The predominant prints were a graphic circle jacquard and chevron stripes. Agold pantsuit, worn with a cowl-neck sweater, was afresh evening look. Von Furstenberg also offered several new versions of her signature wrap dress.

Luca Luca

Designer Luca Orlandi used a beautiful, luxe-looking gold silk brocade for a pleated skirt. A purple embroidered silk velvet tank was the perfect complement. However, other skirts had a balloon shape, which might prove difficult for many women to wear. Orlandi also showed an olive silk brocade coat with a portrait collar that was stunning.

DKNY

Donna Karan created a cool, sophisticated1920s scene at the lounge of The Algonquin Hotel, a historicliterary hangout. Mannequins – one in a gray flannel strapless dress with green tulle underneath, another in a silver tulle ball gown – "greeted" guests at the door, while others inside were posed on couches and tabletops in soft velvet jackets, lace-trim full skirts and Art Deco-style silver tops decorated with sequins.

Tracy Reese

Tracy Reese used brocade and printed fabrics for her portrait-collar jackets. Reese's collection had a definite art deco edge, with beaded fringe hanging from the front of a camisole paired with a sweater and slim skirt. A gold collar coat with a blouson top and orchid gold film embroidered skirt also evoked the 1930s, as did the gold metallic peep toe shoes with ankle straps.

She was so in tune with fashion s the Couture Group of the New York Dress Institute voted her one essed Women in the World. She shared this honor with such as the Duchess of Windsor and actress Olivia De Havilland. She hoto appear in Vogue magazine where the highly respected Cecil graphed her.

de and blue-eyed, F i n e was a beautiful woman who knew scented her slight frame and pale features. Firestone was very flattered her natural beauty – she liked pale colors like blues and ld not overshadow her fair coloring. Often F i n e would signers to make certain gowns for her or would look at design hange them to suit her needs. Some of these sketches, which more resemble works of art, will also be shown in the museum

"She had a really great eye for design," Bryk says. "She just knew what she looked good in and I think that helped in creating clothing that looked just smashing on her." Firestone had a love of French culture (acquired while she studied abroad as a teenager) and often sought out designers who dealt in French couture.

Jean Patou, Christian Dior and Cristobal Balenciaga were among the designers who made their way into Firestone's collection and will he shown in the exhibit. But, as much as she loved the French, she also recognized American designers like Peggy Hoyt, Sally Milgrim, Carrie Munn and Mainbocher.

"Peggy Hoyt was a Michigen girl from Saginaw who made good in New York City," Bryk says. "She has fabulous clothing going into this exhibit slinky, "20s chemises that skim the body, that have rhinestones on them, in bœutiful turquoise color, peach colors — just exquisite."

Firestone also was a frequent visitor to upscale stores like Salon Moderne and Bergdorf Goodman.

"I hope they'll be blown away by the beauty of theses things," Bryk says "I'm hoping that people will understand that these really are works of art that clothing isn't just something that you pull together or buy quickly – couture clothing is carefully crafted and exquisitely made."

Gowns, suits and dresses of silk, flannel, satin and other sumptuous fabrics will appear in the exhibit along with 200 pairs of Firestone's shoes. She took painstaking efforts to keep up her appearances — often ordering multiple matching hats, g/oves, shoes and purses in case any of them were damaged. This will be the first fashion exhibit at the Henry Ford Museum and the staff couldn't be more excited about it

"It is, as far as I can tell, in our 75-year history, our first real clothing exhibit ever," Bryk says, although the museum always has clothing on display

"That's the exciting thing. I don't think people think of us as having a permanent clothing collection so were excited that(this exhibit) will bring attention to that."

While F i n e 's interesting life is included in the exhibit; the real focus is on the couture.

"Really what the exhibit is showcasing are the fashions. The focus really is on these gorgeous dresses and that they are works of art created with a feel and a style and point of view in mind," Bryk says. "They were handcrafted to fit the wearer and to snit their tastes, figures and styles."

ASK THE JEWELER

My diamond is chipped. I thought diamonds were hard and couldn't break.

You are partly correct, diamonds are the hardest substance known. However we often confuse hardness with toughness. Hardness refers to a materials resistance to scratching, while toughness is the resistance to breaking. It is impossible to scratch a diamond with anything other then another diamond but it is possible to chip a diamond by simply dropping it on the bathroom floor. While the cutting styles of today's diamonds are designed to minimize the potential to chip, some diamonds will chip because of certain internal characteristics. In most cases the diamond can be re-cut with a slight reduction in size. When a large chip occurs it may be necessary to replace the diamond. This is one good reason to always carry insurance on your jewelry. Call or email us with all your diamond auestions.

ASK THE BEVERLY HILLS PLASTIC SURGEON

Dear Dr. Youn: What are some of the ways to plump up my lips but not look like Goldie Hawn in "The First Wives Club?"

-Tight Lipped Dear Tight Lipped, As you age, your lips usually get thinner. For patients who have never had anything done to their lips, I recommend Cosmoplast (collagen) injections. This is a very safe temporary "filler" which usually lasts for 2-4 months. Hylaform and Hylaform Plus can also be used to plump up the lips and both last longer than Cosmoplast (up to 4-6 months in some patients). I also perform fat grafting, where the fat of your tummy is placed into your lips. Because some of the fat can stay permanently, this may give a longer lasting and very natural result. I perform all of these procedures with topical and injectable anesthetics in the office.

What are "bio-identical" hormones, and why their sudden popularity?

Bio-identical hormones are chemically and functionally the same female hormones that your body makes. They are specially prepared by compounding pharmacists and when properly prescribed have significantly less side effects than "synthetic" hormones. They can be administered in a variety of ways, such skin lotions, as suppositories or drops. Bio-identical hormones are produced from soy & yams.

Why do some Centers advertise Lasik at $295.00 per eye, while most procedures usually cost over $1000.00 per eye?

ASK THE

LASER EYE

Those "discount" centers know what their service is worth! In fact, there is no $295.00 Lasik! That is a "bait and switch" technique that has been used by crafty salesmen for years. The "$295.00" fee is for minimal correction only (where you don't need Lasik) using obsolete lasers that no one would want used on their eyes. Once these naïve patients are in the door, they are upgraded to the "good laser" at $899.00 per eye. Using "ala carte" pricing, these Centers charge more for higher correction; an additional $299.00 per eye, for astigmatism add on $199.00 per eye and if you want one year insurance, free touch ups, an odditional fee of $199.00 required. Once all the "ala carte" fees are added on to their bill and multiplied by 2, the unsuspecting patient ends up with 10 x "$295.00" advertised price, bringing their total cost to $2950.00. Why would anyone trust their sight to a Center that gets them in the door by misleading them? At the LaserEye Institute, Dr Haddad believes in giving his patients over 15 years of experience and the best technology with personalized service at fair and honest fees.

NEW YORK – On the coldest of days, do you find yourself craving coffee? As a hair color? Antonio Vitale of Boston's Studio for Hair says he is seeing a lot of brunettes in Beantown.

A dishpan brown doesn't cut it, Vitale says. I tead, he suggests a warm shade, which looks best on long or chin-length styles.

Here are Vitale's other tips on getting the best brown:

use a color with red or gold undertones; green or blue will result in too dark or harsh a brown for most skin tones.

Hair color works best when it has some pigment to hold on to. Be aware that although your first coloring might look fine, it can fade quickly. The richness and depth of the shade will build in the second and third applications.

Have your colorist apply a color sealant immediately. It will close the hair's cuticle, correct PH balance and prevent fading. You can buy sealant to use daily at home, too.

Choose shampoos with "moisturizing" on the label.

Stylist Stacy London offers tips on achieving elegance

th her long legs and understated grace. Stacy London. host of TLC's What Not to Wear has an undeniably classic style. In her newfound role as spokesperson for Longines, she has been asked to comment on a subject that suits her to a tee - elegance. The luxury watchmaker recently commissioned a survey on elegance - what it is. who's got it, and where to find it if you don't. In an exclusive interview with PINK. London shared her thoughts on the elusive subject. "I think that after reading the Longines survey it reflected what I've always known - elegance is an attitude." London said "It manifests itself in style I think by attention to detail and being inventive."

کو ایک کراچرا کرا اور ایک ایک ایک ایک ایک ایک بخوالی کرا ایک ایک ایک ایک ایک

PINK: What's your definition of elegance? STACEY LONDON: There are two types of style in terms of fashion. There's the more iconic, traditional sense of elegance - black tie, tuxedos and ball gowns, hut I also think that when you look at the next generation and the younger celebrities that people look at in terms of Hollywood glamour and red carpet, there's an innovative type of glamour that wmes from the mix of high and low - great jeans with a diamond studded Longines watch, long jackets, Pucci print pocket squares, and that's considered to be as elegant now as a tux is. I think elegance itself is a kind of style, and its also knowing what's appropriate when. If the only time people could be elegant is at black tie events, I don't think that's what elegance is.

Stacy London, host of TLC's "What Not To Wear"

PINK: Who are some celebrities that you think are elegant?

SL: I hate to be cliché but Renee Zellweiger and Nicole Kidman are pretty fabulous. But then I love people like Christina Ricci and Scarlett Johanssen, Kate Beckinsale and Selma Blair. Scarlett Johanssen is like 19 years old, but she makes very smart choices when it comes to the way she presents herself – not just in a Calvin Klein gown, but in jeans and beat-up boots – that has a great deal to do with poise and presence. The way you carry yourself has a great deal to do with how you wear your clothes.

PINK: Can someone achieve elegance on a budget?

SL: You should never spend more than you have in order to achieve style. Style and elegance are attainable at any price point. If that's what you're after, I think it's attention to detail. We're lucky because here in America our knockoffs are good. They're cut well, they fit well and are reasonable in how much they cost. Not everyone is going to be able to afford $3,000 for a coat, but you really do have to develop an eye for what fits you best.

PINK: Can you offer some tips on 'what not to wear' if you want to be elegant?

SL: Nothing that doesn't fit you correctly. Trying to hide one's body is not elegant. That always will look clumsy. There are ways to camouflage body parts that you don't love, hut don't hide yourself in a sack. Proportion is very important. Small women – don't go big in accessories or clothing, and if you are larger, look for accessories your size. The same goes for prints. If you are small, stick with small prints otherwise you look like you've been swallowed by them.

PINK: For the most part. do you think Americans are elegant?

SL: Yes and no. I'm of the opinion, even hosting the show that I host, that Americans do have a great sense of style. It's a matter of themselves putting time and effort into it. As a country we're very busy people and it's very easy to let one's own style slide because it's not a priority as we're older because we have bills, marriage, our jobs. But the American sense of style is incredibly elegant. I don't think it's something you're born with, it's something you can acquire.

PINK: How do you achieve elegance in an instant?

SL: The most important thing is not who you're wearing but how you're wearing it. Labels and designers are important, but more important are being realistic about your body type and dressing accordingly, the fit of the clothing to the size of the accessory. I feel very strongly about accessories matching the stature of the person. You might do a fantastic big bold dress watch on a big guy, but you would want to do a delicate diamond set watch on someone long and lean. Long chandelier earrings on a woman who's taller, rather than a woman who's petite. There are some great big fantastic dutches. If you are a larger woman, don't use something that looks like it belongs to a 9-year-old PINK: Can you think of any anecdotes from your show What Not to Wear in which you helped someone achieve elegance?

SL: One was a woman named Amanda from Nashville. She was very young, dressed very much in the Grateful Dead style. They were touring all over the place and she wanted to be at every concert possible. But she had a natural grace about her, and by the end of the program she lookedlike a superstar.

Belinda was a mom of three girls, in her 40s, but again ultimately possessed that type of grace and nature elegance. We fixed her hair and put her in the right type of clothes and she blossomed.

WHAT IS ELEGANT?

Longines surveyed 1,777 people with household incomes of $75,000 to find out what they considered elegant. Here is what they said:

11 71 percent said elegance is an attitude, and 75 percent believe it can be acquired over time.

1 6 3 percent believe that elegance in America is dying out, but three in 10 people consider themselves elegant.

H For women, evening gowns ranked as the most elegant ensemble, with necklaces the most elegant accessory. For men. it was tuxedos and cuff links.

H Sean Connery and Catherine Zeta-Jones were considered the most elegant celebrities.

H Giorgio Armani scored as the most elegant designer. Older respondents also cited Christian Dior, Oscar de la Renta and Bill Blass, while younger groups favored newer brands, such as Prada. Marc Jacobs and Dolce & Gabbana.

Weddings, especially for women ages 24-34. along with gala fundraisers, are the most elegant events.

1 The survey showed that elegance is associated with luxury items like silk, expensive pursuits like equestrian events, and resort towns like the Hamptons.

■ The most eleqant part of the body is the eyes. followed by hair, neck, hands/fingers, lips and the curve of the shoulder.

I The Rolls Royce is considered the most eleqant automobile, followed by the Bentley, Jaguar, Mercedes-Benz and Aston Martin.

Fight the fashion doldrums

NEW YORK — It's the season of fashion doldrums. Fall clothes are looking a little "last season" and it's too cold to wear the spring styles stores are tempting shoppers with.

The January issue of Harper's Bazaar offers three ideas to spruce up your look: vests, petticoats, and black-and-white combinations.

The vest, according to the magazine, adds a tailored element to a casual look It can be worn alone or over a blouse. Kate Moss is shown wearing one over a lace top paired with jeans, and Gwyneth Paltrow uses a black one – with her bra peeking out the top – as part of a sexy outfit with fitted cropped pants and a bow belt.

Petticoats give a flirtatious kick to a cocktail dress or a tailored skirt. If you don't happen to have a petticoat handy, a tulle skirt will do.

Wearing black and white together will give you a jump on the spring trend of sharp color contrasts, advise Bazaar's editors. It's also one of the easiest combinations to pull off because it can be casual, office-worthy or formal.
