Canton ranks first in county, 20th in nation

BY CAROL MARSHALL STAFF WRITER

When the numbers were released last week, they confirmed what many Canton residents already know: Canton is a safe place to live.

Last week Kansas-based research group Morgan Quitno Corporation ranked Canton as the 20th-safest community in the nation.

"That's really huge," said Public Safety Director John Santomauro. "Not just Canton's numbers, but when you look at Canton along with comparable communities in Wayne County."

Canton's crime rate is 18 crimes per 1,000 residents, which is not only safe by Morgan Quitno's standards, but even safer than Canton was in 2003, when the rate was 22 per 1,000 residents.

Canton's ranking as one of the safest communities in the country is based on the FBI 2004 crime statistics of communities with populations exceeding 75,000.

The methodology used for determining America's Safest Cities involves a multi-step process. For communities with a population of more than 75,000, Morgan Quitno gathers figures reported to the FBI for six crime categories including murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary and motor vehicle theft. These totals are then plugged into a formula that measures how each community compares to the national average in each of the six crime categories.

The Canton Police Department did an internal analysis using the same FBI fig-

Tammy Moyer and Joe Krogman of the Salvation Army loaded Cheer Club donations at the Observer office last year. This year, donations should be taken directly to the Salvation Army headquarters on Main Street.

Program aims to bring holiday cheer

Plymouth and Canton residents once again have the opportunity to bring a little holiday cheer to needy families and children in the area by donating to the Cheer Club.

Cheer Club is a partnership between the Plymouth and Canton Observers and the Plymouth Salvation Army, which services Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville and Belleville.

The idea is to provide nonperishable food and other household necessities, along with new, unwrapped toys, for the Salvation Army's pantry and Christmas adoption program.

That program has helped provide a Christmas for hundreds of needy people over the years who might not otherwise have been able to provide one. Last year, some 2,000 toys were collected.

"The Christmas program is an integral part of our outreach effort," said Kelly Boelter, the Salvation Army's Red Kettle Campaign coordinator. "The items we receive from the Cheer Club are a key factor in being able to do what we do."

Operation of the Cheer Club has undergone one change: Items to be donated should be taken directly to the Salvation Army, rather than being dropped at the Observer offices on Main Street.

The change was designed to get the donations into the hands of those who need them

"We're honored to partner with the Salvation Army on the Cheer Club," Plymouth Observer editor Brad Kadrich said. "We felt making this change would make the program easier to manage and

DIVISION 1 STATE FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Plymouth High School student Jackie Londberg and Canton's Marie Stuebben cheer for Canton during the Chiefs' 31-21 loss to Rockford in Saturday's Division 1 state championship game.

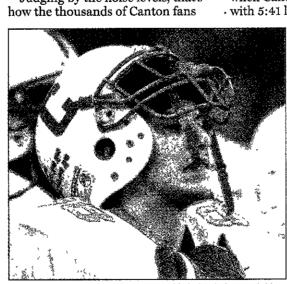

BY BRAD KADRICH

Early on in Saturday's Division 1 prep football state championship game between Canton and Rockford, fans in the area wanted the Chiefs' student cheering section to sit down. Since that wouldn't be Chief-like, the hundreds of students wearing redand-white did the next best thing: They moved to another section at Ford Field. And stood. And cheered. Then cheered some more, even in the waning minutes, when it became evident the Rams were going to deny their beloved Chiefs their first state championship. Rockford won the game,

"Doesn't matter," said Canton senior John Donaldson. "It's tradition to stand up and cheer as loud as you can, no matter how it's going. This is our school."

Judging by the noise levels, that's felt. The cheering was loud at the start of the game, it got louder still when Canton took its only lead, 14-7 · with 5:41 left in the first half, and it was still loud as the final whistle sounded and the Chiefs' faithful had to watch Rockford fans celebrate their second straight title. Ric Lang, whose football career ended when he broke a hand as a freshman at Canton High School in 1977, sat in his fourth-row seat - when he wasn't bouncing out of it to cheer — and watched his team battle. Except for a stint in the military, Lang said he hasn't missed many games since graduating in 1981. On Saturday he and his wife, 1983 Canton grad Trina, hoped to see the school's first title. It didn't happen, but that didn't dim Lang's enthusiasm.

"I love being with this team, whether they win or lose," Lang said. "I'm a big supporter of the team and the community. It's great they got here."

That's what Canton wrestlers Brian Brubaker and Ryan Schnettler thought, too. They were among more than a dozen wrestlers who painted their faces — Schnettler tried painting his arms, too, but it didn't quite work out — to support the football team, which also carries several wrestlers.

"We go to all the games, but we added the face paint for today," Brubaker said. "Those are our teammates out there."

Power and performance

Fitness center caters to the motivated athlete

BY CAROL MARSHALL STAFF WRITER

Walk inside Velocity Fitness Center and you're not going to find the amenities you would find in the typical health club. There's no juice bar. No sauna. No comfortable lounge with tasteful mood lighting.

But then again, the athletes who come to Velocity aren't looking for your average work-

"We focus on power and agility, and sports performance," said Gary Staub, owner of Velocity Sports Performance.

The 10,700 square foot facility, located upstairs in the Arctic Edge building on Michigan Avenue, west of Belleville Road, is designed specifically for the intensive training required by young athletes who want to improve their performance on the field, on the ice, or on the track. The facility is quipped with a 30yard turf area (not just for football players, but also for exercises which help soccer. basketball and baseball players), a 50-yard indoor track, and a full complement of free weights.

Power, speed and agility are the goals of the Velocity train-

"Hitting a machine just is not the same movement as you get in real life," Velocity performance coach Dave Ziemba said. "We focus on more dynamic movement that requires balance and coordination as well as strength."

When Velocity opened earlier this month, a trainer who has worked with professional athletes was there on the job.

Dennie Taft, a former Detroit Tigers' strength and conditioning coach, left his job with the ball club in exchange for working in the community where he lives.

"Working for the Tigers was a good job but it took a lot of time from my family, and I had to travel so much," Taft said. "When I started looking for something out there, I came across Velocity, and their philosophy is so well meshed with my beliefs that I felt comfortable making the move. We want to work with kids and develop them to be not only better athletes but also better people."

One of the philosophies of the program is a guarantee that a young athlete will be faster upon completion of the program.

"Any athletic activity requires speed," Staub said. All of the coaches at Velocity are certified and have college degrees.

That's what differentiates us from the rest," Staub said. "We

"I was looking for a franchise where I could apply my passion for sports," Staub said.

So about 14 months ago, he found information on Velocity. He considered a few locations, but chose Canton due mainly because there was space available within a regional sports complex.

About half of Velocity's clientele is made up of young athletes, age 12-18, though the center will work with children as young as 7 years old.

It's a reality of life that every young athlete must do more and go to extra lengths in order to compete, Taft said, but it's also a reality that in order to avoid sports related injuries, athletes of all ages need special training they often don't get at team prac-

"Are we promoting elitism? Absolutely not," Staub said. "I just think we've become such a closed-door society and kids don't get the same kind of activity they used to We also know so much more about the science of sports and performance and injury prevention."

The education comes at a price, with the average class running $20-$30 per client per session. But when Taft considered the immense benefits that come with sports ability, he said it's worth every cent.

"When a child is physically active, you create success in the rest of his or her life," Taft

Township to phase in water rate increases

BY CAROL MARSHALL

Some time next year, Canton residents will start paying more for their water. It's inevitable, according to township officials. It's just a matter of phasing in the increases now or waiting for the increases to come all at once in a few years. The township hired consultants to report on the water billing structure in the township when it became clear that Canton couldn't charge what it charges, maintain its sewer system, and allow for capital improvements of the system. "It's obvious that we can't do nothing. If we do nothing we're going to be in an awful lot of trouble in the very near future," said Trustee Melissa McLaughlin at a board of trustees meeting earlier this month. "Having a reasonable plan to maintain the base, and maintain the infrastructure. only makes sense. When something happens, and it will, the cost is going to be huge. This is a systematic structure at a reasonable rate."

Plante and Moran consultant Frank Audia said what happens in communities that don't change their water and sewer rate structure is a "rate shock," in which rates jump 50-60 percent suddenly.

"Tomorrow I have to go to one Downriver community that is going to have a 22 percent rate shock this year and will have similar increases over the next few years to get it right," Audia said.

That community did not allow for increases in its rates to cover the cost of infrastructure improvements. Often those communities subsidize such improvements or even the water and sewer charges from the regional provider, Detroit Water and Sewerage Department (DWSD), until there is a dangerously low - or empty - water and sewer fund balance, Audia said. Currently, 65 percent of the money Canton bills for water goes directly to DWSD. But by

2013 the percentage will be 76 percent, said Mark Beauchamp, a consultant with Utility Financial Solutions, a firm which was hired by Plante and Moran.

In order to avoid the rate shock, Canton will phase in its additional water and sewer Water consumption charges will not increase for 2006, according to Municipal Services Director Tim Faas. But after the Township Board of Trustees adopts the new structure, rates will increase by 7.75 percent per year for five

"That will help us offset the expenses that Detroit charges us, plus the money we need to run the system," Faas said. He added that Canton has not increased the rate since the summer of 2003.

Sewer rates will also increase, from $3.15 per 1,000 gallons to $3.30 per 1,000 gallons, and then 9.5 percent increases each year for five years, Faas said. The township recently improvement and detention plan, which is being designed approved a $45 million sewer

Another component of the planned rate changes is for home owners who live in houses built before the 1980s, Faas said. Some 10,000 of such Canton homeowner are still connected to the township's sanitary sewer, rather than to sump pumps. As a result storm water from their property runs directly into the sewers, and creates an additional need for capacity in Canton's sewer system. Those customers will be charged an additional $2.18 per month, if the plan is approved by the board.

The average Canton household uses 9,000 gallons of water each month, said Finance Director Tony Minghine. A user who uses 9,000 per month will be paying an additional $5.70 per month, starting later in 2006, after the plan is implemented. Those who are still connected to the sanitary sewer will pay an additional $2.18 per month on top of that.

It's official

After much speculation, Costco announces it's coming to town

BY CAROL MARSHALL STAFF WRITER

Canton township has officially begun to pave the way for the latest in a lineup of national retailers that are making a home in Canton. The Canton Township Board of Trustees unanimously approved an amendment to the township's future land use map for the site that will be the new Costco location.

The parcels of land, just west of the Canton Center and Michigan Avenue intersection, had been designated light industrial, and the board approved a change to the future land use map to designate them general commercial.

The night before the board approved the amendment, the planaing commission also approved a rezoning for the property and approved a planned development district for the Costco project. "This area is undergoing a lot of commercial activity," said Township Supervisor Tom Yack.

When the planning commission recommended the amendment to the future land use map, there was no citizen comment, and the recommendation passed unanimously.

Costco is purchasing property from two current businesses, Best Block and Mobil Lounge. According to municipal services director Tim Faas, Costco also has the option to purchase an adjacent parcel of property for the development of the new warehouse store,

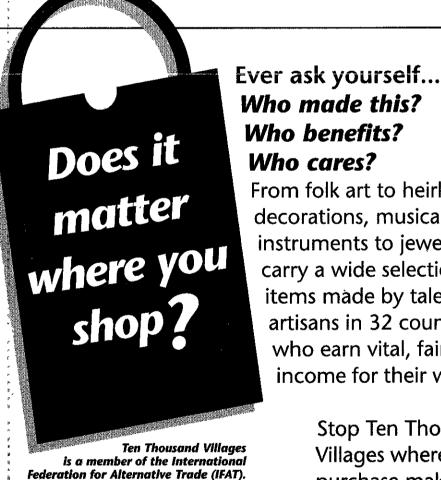

The Costco deal is a big win for the community and store alike, according to Trustee Karl

"When you talk about masters of marketing, Costco is one of those," he said. "You can't have a better target market than members who pay a fee every year to shop at your store. And of course this area provides an attractive demographic, in terms of income."

Costco designs each store specifically for its market, Zarbo added, something that will also benefit the community.
"Because it's a members-only store, it affords an opportunity to buy quality merchandise at an off-price," Zarbo said.

The Canton Community Foundation recently appointed four new members to its board of directors. The new members are Greg Schupra, Jean LaJoy, Dan Durack and Jim Demmer.

A Canton resident since 1985, Schupra is vice president and group manager of Comerica Charitable Services. With 24 years of expertise in the charitable gift planning arena, Schupra will help the Foundation focus on building their endowment to better meet Canton's future needs. He is a member of the Spring Arbor University Board of Trustees, a founding member of the Planned Giving Roundtable of Southeast Michigan and a member of the Council of Michigan Foundations.

LaJoy is a sales associate for Hallmark Cards, and a three time award winner for highest sales within the company. She is also an active member of St. John Neumann Parish. Having lived in Canton for more than 29 years and raised her family here, LaJoy has watched many changes take place in Canton.

"The Foundation has played an important role in our community for many years," LaJoy says. "I hope to make a positive contribution to the board as it works with the community to maintain an excellent quality of life for all residents."

Durack, Canton Township director of administration and community services, is a Michigan State University graduate and 26-year township employee. He is also involved with several professional organizations as well as the Canton Salute to Service. He has been involved with the Foundation for many years having established a fund in his sister's name after she was killed in an automobile accident at a young age. "Our family wanted to make something positive come out of our tragedy and established a scholarship fund for students at the Park," Durack explains. "Serving on the Board will give me another opportunity to give back to the community which has been so good to the

It is my desire to invest some of myself into the health and progress of the community in which my family lives and works," Demmer says.

Demmer is also a member of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, the City of Wayne Downtown Development Association, and the Detroit Automobile Dealers Association.

Joan Noricks, president of the foundation, said the new members will make a big impact on

Two business charged for selling booze to minors

The Canton Police Department's Special Enforcement Unit conducted an alcohol sales check last week. A total of three businesses were checked, with two selling alcohol to a minor.

According to police records, the two businesses that sold to a minor were Ruby Tuesday (45660 Michigan Avenue) and Mobil Lounge (45859 Michigan Avenue). Kroger (45540 Michigan Avenue) was also checked, but did not sell to a minor.

The Special Enforcement Unit has performed tobacco and alcohol compliance checks at local businesses for the past several years. The SEU utilizes a "zero tolerance" enforcement strategy when dealing with violations of tobacco and alcohol sales to minors.

The Thanksgiving Day winter weather helped bring a big snowy pile of holiday spirit to Canton, and there is plenty more holiday cheer to

Canton will make the arrival of the winter holiday season official Nov. 30 when it hosts its first tree lighting of the season at Summit on the Park, which will be followed by a second tree lighting Dec. 1. Both events are from 7-8:30 p.m. at the Summit, and both will feature visits with Santa at his workshop, as well as refreshments, musical entertainment, a cookie decorating workshop and carriage rides through Heritage Park.

Children who just didn't get enough time with Santa at the tree lighting can have brunch with him at the Summit on Dec. 4 and 11. Tickets must be purchased in advance. For more information, call (734) 394-5460.

If your little one (age 10 or younger) prefers to put it in writing, he or she can drop off a letter to Santa at the North Pole Express Mailbox at the Summit on the Park. The box is available in the lobby until Dec. 9. Santa asked, however, that you print your name and address clearly so that he can send a reply. And he promised he would reply to all letters, and his helpers will even take care of the postage.

Sounds of the holidays

Community chorus set for Christmas concert

BY BRAD KADRICH STAFF WRITER

For many, the holiday season kicked off with Thursday's Thanksgiving celebration.

For the Plymouth
Community Chorus, it starts
Dec. 10-11 with the chorus' concert, "Great Joy" at Northville High School.

The concert performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 10 and 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 11. The chorus, with more than 130 voices, will be performing both popular and sacred music to "fill your hearts with the poignant message of Christmas."

Tickets are on sale for $12 for the Christmas concert. Tickets can be ordered by calling toll-free (866) 924-4276 from 8 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday-Friday and 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday; print out the order form on the chorus Web site at www.plymouth-communitychorus.org or calling (734) 416-9885.

The Christmas concert is the latest performance for the chorus, founded by Bill Grimmer in 1973. From its original 12 singers, the chorus has grown to nearly 130 members.

Singers, roughly two-thirds of them women, come from as far away as Warren and Howell, with the majority filling the ranks from nearby Plymouth, Canton and Northville. They bring a variety of talents to the group, forming a chorus that sings an eclectic mix of contemporary and gospel music and even some show tunes.

The chorus, with more than 130 voices, will be performing both popular and sacred music to 'fill your hearts with the poignant message of How eclectic are they? The chorus even opened its annual Spring concert with the little-known Barry Manilow tune, "One Voice."

"Our guiding principle is entertaining the audience," said Michael Gross, who has been the group's director since 1979. "I program music based on what I think the audience wants to hear. The majority of the music (the audience) will know, but I throw some things in there they definitely do not know."

The self-supporting group performs two major concerts a year, one at Christmas and the other in the Spring. They also perform with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra and make appearances at events like the Plymouth Fall Festival.

The chorus also funds a scholarship program, established in May 1984 to help students pursue studies in the field of vocal music, an applied vocational career in the field of vocal music, academic study of voice or the study of voice for the purpose of organized recreational or community singing. Some recipients have chosen The Academy of Popular Vocal Arts, Interlochen and The Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp.

The group's funding comes from two primary sources: ticket sales and patron donations. They also make smaller amounts of money with efforts such as a refreshment booth at University of Michigan football games.

Operating on an $84,000 budget, the chorus only has two paid positions – director and accompanist. And the director's salary hasn't changed since 1984, when the chorus closed down the office it rented in downtown Plymouth and redirected that money to the director's salary.

That's OK with Gross, though, because he isn't in it for the money. Gross, the vice Troy, is in it – as are the unpaid singers – for the love of music.

"I've always loved choral music," Gross said. "When I pick music, I pick music I think will touch someone. It's reactionary."

Shoppers get quick holiday start in search for bargains

Unlike millions of Americans, Julie Garlit of Plymouth generally spends her day-after-Thanksgiving decorating her Christmas tree, rather than risk the crowds pushing through local stores getting an early start on holiday shopping.

But this year, Garlit had seen something she wanted, so she braved the cold and the crowds of downtown Plymouth and left the tree for

"There was a coat in one store I didn't want to be gone," Garlit admitted, though she said she wound up passing on the coat. "And, of course, I stopped in every shop after that."

Shopping was fairly brisk, even in a struggling economy, for many of the stores in Plymouth's downtown shopping area.

Sharron Cross has been at Plymouth's Maggie and Me for 27 years, and she said business Friday was "pretty good."

"This year's a whole different year because of the economy," said Cross, who does a "little of everything" at Maggie and Me. "So far, though, it's been pretty good."

It was pretty good all around the area, where the sounds of the season are already flowing through area shopping malls, creating a soundtrack for the buying frenzy. Christmas carols fill shops, restaurants and corridors, and places like Livonia Mall and Westland Shopping Center even offer live entertainment to brighten the experience.

"I think it brings about the festive atmosphere," said Bobbi Gelman, marketing director of Livonia Mall. The

"The two entertainment groups have been coming to the mall for a number of years now," said Mills. "Not only do the merchants ask 'When are they coming back?' but the shoppers do also."

That's just one way to draw in shoppers. Another invokes the spirit of giving. Westland Shopping Center, Westland Shopping Center, located at 35000 Warren Road, also functions as a drop-off center for new, unwrapped gifts meant as local Toys for Tots donations. In addition, mall visitors can stop by the Salvation Army's Giving Tree to find out what children in need might like for a holiday gift. Then, those gifts can be left at the security department for delivery.

The Community Hospice of Westland has placed a Tree of Memories at the shopping center, in remembrance of those who died this year. Purchase a gold angel at the mall or by calling (734) 522-4244.

And then of course, there is the requisite visit with Santa Claus.

The jolly old elf set up residence at Westland Shopping Center on Nov. 12 and will stay until Christmas eve, of course.

Kris Kringle's arrival at Livonia's Laurel Park Place came with much fan-fare.
Santa was escorted by U.S.
Army National Guardsmen on a Chinook helicopter when he showed up Nov. 5 at the mall, at Six Mile and Newburgh roads.

The stunt was part of a holiday effort to raise money for service members from Selfridge Air National Guard base and their families.

Laurel Park Place is asking those who bring their kids to see Santa to bring a gas card, phone card or money to donate to the cause.

Across town, Livonia Mall offers visits with Santa from noon to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Children receive a free gift with any visit. But they aren't the only ones expected to pose with the man in the red velvet suit.

This year, Livonia Mall is bringing back it's popular pet photo night. Pet owners can set up an appointment to bring in their dogs to have a photo taken with Santa on Monday, Dec. 5.

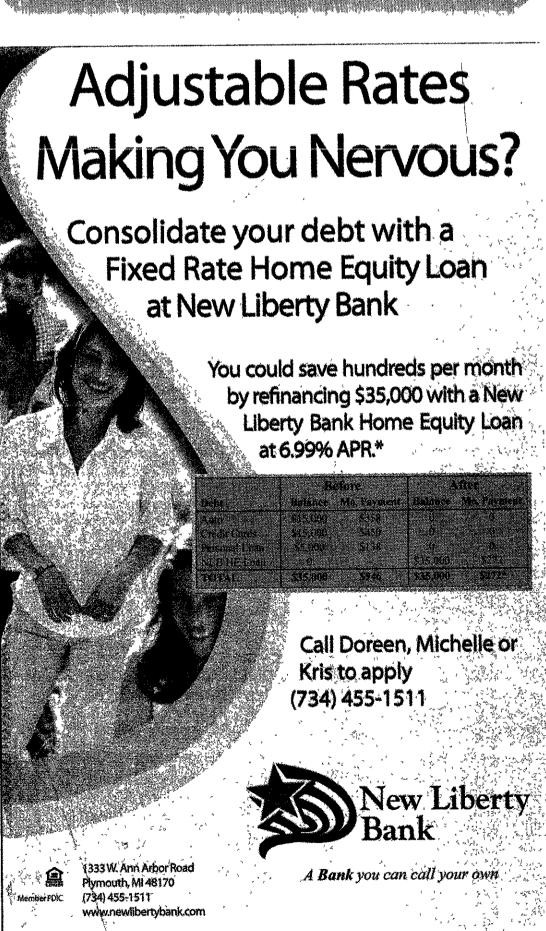

The mall is located at Seven Mile and Middlebelt roads and caters to clientele from nearby cities, including Redford Township and Detroit. Gelman said the mall is proud to cater to a wide demographic of shoppers in a family-friendly environment.

"We're full for the holidays," said Gelman of the mall itself. "I think people will be pleasantly surprised. We have decorated and we have lots of holiday tenants."

troubles aren't Livonia's fault

new round of criticism is being fired at Livonia in recent weeks because city voters approved a tax measure that will pull Livonia from the regional bus system.

In recent weeks, misguided media critics blasted city leaders and portrayed the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation as a victim because SMART is going to lose $2.8 million in annual funding from Livonia taxpay-

However, it was SMART's inefficiencies and apathy that motivated the Livonia City Council to place the issue on the ballot, which received approval from 55 percent of city voters.

The timing of the SMART election was not good for Livonia's public relations as it comes three months after some residents made comments about Detroit residents regarding the Wal-Mart Supercenter proposal at the old Wonderland Mall.

West Some media analysis in recent weeks tried to tie the SMART vote to the perception that Livonia is a racist community. This is unfounded as race had nothing to do with the debate leading up to the election. Opt-out proponents said their motivation was economic and they were tired of seeing large empty buses cruise through town. The most-vocal opt-out opponents were Livonia residents who use the park-and-ride program who were also concerned about local employers' ability to staff their businesses.

SMART ANGERED CITY

Like many municipalities in recent years, Livonia officials are looking for ways to make ends meet with its tight budget. Anticipating little support for a tax increase, officials found SMART to be expendable since less than 1 percent of city residents use the service.

The approved tax shift plan will generate more revenue for the city without any tax increase. Instead of sending 0.6-mill in taxes to SMART, Livonia taxpayers will send 0.5-mill to city hall to produce $2.4 million a year for a local bus system for senior citizens and disabled persons, and for new police cars, public facility repairs and other capital improvements.

The origins for a Livonia revolt against SMART started in 2001 when city leaders pleaded with SMART officials to upgrade the service so more residents would use it and justify SMART's existence in Livonia. After appeasing Livonia leaders to stay on board, SMART announced plans to increase the tax levy from 0.33-mill to 0.6-mill before the SMART renewal election in 2002.

That infuriated city officials because they learned of the tax hike after the city council's opt-out deadline passed. While 53 percent of Livonia residents voted against the 2002 tax renewal, Livonia was stuck in the system for approved the renewal.

LITTLE ÜSE

As the city council escalated opt-out talks this past spring, SMART officials appeared indifferent. They made no passionate pleas for Livonia to stay on board as the city council discussed the proposal at a public meeting in May.

As the opt-out campaign gained steam, research produced more evidence for proponents.

■ Some Livonia officials said it would cost less than $2,8 million a year to pay for daily cab fare for all who need public transportation to reach their jobs in Livonia.

■ There are already 53 other communities in SMART's jurisdiction, including all towns west of Livonia, that do not participate in the system. Some of those Canton, Plymouth and Northville residents come to Livonia to use the park-andride system, but they don't pay any taxes for it.

■ SMART's cost inefficiencies are fueled by competition with the Detroit Department of Transportation (DDOT). Buses from both systems race to bus stops to compete for riders and fares. Both systems send buses to Livonia as a DDOT bus makes a regular stop at Millennium Park located at Middlebelt and Schoolcraft.

All of Livonia's council members said they support a functional public transportation system. However, they added it's tough to support SMART's fragmented, inefficient organization during these difficult economic times.

BIG PICTURE

It's up to the Michigan Legislature to come up with an efficient transportation system that fairly disburses costs and services. It's also up to lawmakers to come up with a better way to finance local units of government as the state's biggest cities, such as Livonia, have lost millions in revenue-sharing grants in recent years because of the state's economic troubles.

Only state lawmakers have the authority to restructure DDOT and SMART. Democratic U.S. Sen Debbie Stabenow recently garnered $100 million in federal funding to come up with such a plan.

Media scrutiny should be directed to this process, and not on calling Livonia voters short-sighted" because its residents decided not to throw money at an inefficient bus system they

It's unfair to single out Livonia when there are 53 neighboring communities that are not involved in SMART. Critics need to look at a much bigger picture when considering ways to revamp metro Detroit's public transportation system because it needs lot more than Livonia's tax dollars.

It seems that everyone is latching on to the idea that reading becomes more fun and more meaningful if the experience is shared, discussed and debated with others.

In Topeka, Kan., they've been reading Julie Otsuka's When the

the state reads the same book, they read Alfred Lansing's Endurance: Shackleton's Voyage this year, which would seem to be a subject that Alaskans wouldn't want to be reminded about.

Here in Michigan, there seems to be a real desire by the promoters of these community reads to use them to bridge our racial and cultural divides. In Ann Arbor this year they read Amin Maalouf's Leo Africanus, in Chelsea it was Naomi Shihab Nye's Habbi, in Lansing and Muskegon Christopher Paul Curtis' children's book The Watsons Go to Birmingham. Others have taken a different approach, in Southwest Michigan they read Homer Hickam's Rocket Boys and in Traverse Peter Hamil's Snow in August.

The idea, of course, is to get people talking about books. The books aren't always about "serious" issues or currently compelling ideas. They might have a regional appeal or they might just be a fun read. Some books are current, several communities have been reading Khaled Hosseini's The Kite Runner. But East Lansing read Ray Bradbury's Fahrenheit 451 in 2002 and Mary Shelley's Frankenstein in 2003. In Ann Arbor they've been promoting science by letting residents choose from several science books for the 2006 community read. Even the pre-schoolers have a statewide community read. Several books are currently in the running and a vote will decide which book the little tykes will be listening to.

In this spirit I would like to propose a high school read for the metro Detroit area.

I know the objections to this idea already. Students are burdened enough with lots of reading, especially those on the college track. They also have to apply to colleges, take tests, keep some semblance of a social life and, in rimy cases would part-time job

While the decline of the auto industry and a stubbornly sluggish economy are causing misery throughout the area, it is race that still fuels a lot of discussion, concern, uneasiness

Last year Kevin Boyle's Arc of Justice: A Saga of Race, Civil Rights and Murder in the Jazz Age won the National Book Award for nonfice tion. Boyle tells the story of Ossian Sweet, a black doctor, who moved his family from Detroit's Black Bottom to a bungalow in a working class white section of Detroit in 1925

Sweet realized he would be faced by a white mob, as had others before him in other white sections of the city. He, his wife and friends were armed when a white mob formed outside and began throwing rocks. A shot was fired , from the house and a man was killed. Sweet, his wife Gladys and nine others were charged with murder.

The NAACP took on the case as a cause celebre, a chance to stand up for the rights of black Americans to live wherever they could afford to live and protect their property. They hired the famous trial lawyer Clarence Darrow to head the defense.

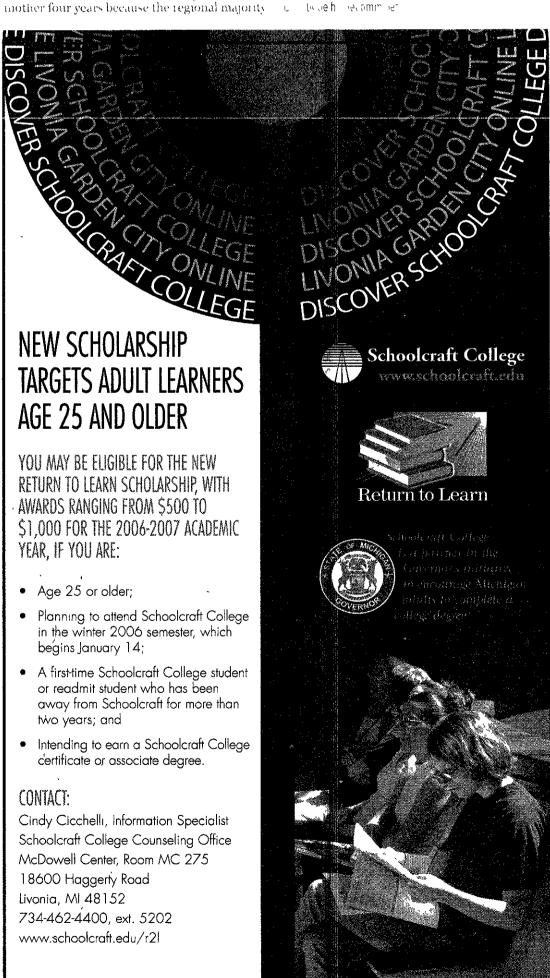

Boyle's book, now in paperback, recounts the migration of black Americans from the south to the north, lured as were white Americans from the east by jobs in the auto industry. He describes the special place of a new and rising black middle class and the special burdens on what W.E.B. Dubois called the "Talented Tenth." He also describes a Detroit in the 1920s that was heavily influenced by a resurgent Ku Klux Klan, but also had a concerned group of white progressives led by Judge Frank Murphy.

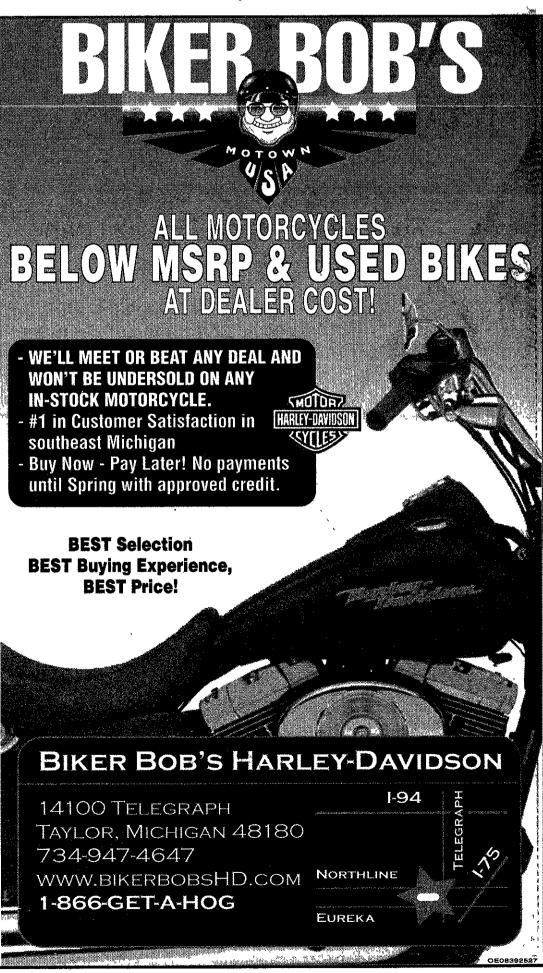

The book is brilliantly written, with wonderful portrayals of NAACP president and poet James Weldon Johnson, his successor Walter White and the great, and complicated, Darrow. Best of all, he describes the elements that have helped create our sadly divided and antagonistic metro area.

It is a book that every high school student should read, discuss, understand to appreciate why the place they call home is what it is.

New memorial pays tribute to fallen police, firefighters

STAFF WRITER

Hundreds of police officers and firefighters from communities all over Michigan came to Pontiac Monday to witness the unveiling of the Michigan Fallen Heroes Memorial on the north end of the Oakland County administrative campus.

The memorial features a firefighter and police officer, cast in bronze, kneeling before granite tablets engraved with the names of police and firefighters lost in the line of duty since 1864.

There are currently 761 names on the memorial and more will be added on an annual basis as more pass away and more are discovered historically. Since the unveiling of Phase I of the project in September of 2002, 19 police officers and firefighters have been added to the list.

The event, emceed by WOMC deejay Dick Purtan, featured prayers, remembrances by families of the fallCounty Sheriff's deputies and a performance of Amazing Grace by the bagpipers of the Metro Detroit Police and Fire Pipe and Drum Corps.

County Executive L. Brooks Patterson said his years as a prosecutor and as the county's lead administrator has given him many opportunities to meet and interact with police and firefighters in Michigan.

"I've witnessed firsthand the courage of public safety officers," he said. "Everyday these men and women place themselves in harm's way. The people of Oakland County are proud of the quality of life here and that is enhanced by the police and fire departments serving here."

Equal to their courage, he said, is that of the families left behind by the tragedies inherent to public safety work.

Oakland County Sheriff's Chaplain William Waldmann said there are a number of support groups for families of the fallen both on the local and

"They take care of one another," Waldmann said. When the incident is new they're very tight and they keep in touch throughout."

Eton Rapids Township Supervisor Linda Wilbur came to the unveiling Monday. Her husband, township Fire Chief Richard Wilbur, died in the line of duty nearly two years ago. She said the monument in Pontiac was a great tribute to him and others like him.

"I had been to the state (firefighter's) memorial in Roscommon and the national memorial (in Maryland)," Wilbur said. "This is nice, it's certainly a lot closer to home."

She said she's received a lot of support from groups connected with the national and state survivor's groups. Since visiting the national memorial, she's been talking to others via e-mail.

"It's nice to know you're not the only one having the same problems and feelings," Wilbur

ROCKFORD 31

State Football Finals - Division 1

Chiefs battle to the end

Big second half helps Rockford defend title

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

Rockford successfully defended its Division 1 football title Saturday afternoon at Ford Field, but not before it was pushed to the absolute limit by never-say-die Canton.

The Rams (12-2) walked out of Ford Field with the championship trophy for the second consecutive year after outlasting the Chiefs, 31-21. Canton's most successful season in school history ended with an 11-3 record.

"Even though the season didn't end like I wanted it to, I'm very proud of this team," said Canton senior quarterback Shawn Little. "It was great playing with all these guys. No one ever quit. These guys are like my brothers and this team is like a family."

Canton coach Tim Baechler said his team wasn't intimidated by the Rams' impressive credentials.

We thought we were going to win this game, Baechler said. "They came in with a lot of braggadocio and flair, but I guess they earned that. We didn't think they were as good as they thought they were, but it turns out they were."

The game's turning point unfolded mid-way through the third quarter when Rockford's defense stuffed Canton running back Deshon McClendon on a fourthand-1 play at the Rams' 34.

Less than two minutes later, Rockford converted a fourth-and-8 play from Canton's 41 on a middle screen pass from quarterback Jon VonEschen to Callan Sherd that went to the Chief 25. Three plays later, VonEschen scrambled in from 21 yards out to give the Rams a 21-14

"We had to go for it on fourth down," Rockford coach Ralph Munger said. "We came here to win, not lose. The kids made a big play when we needed it."

Rockford padded its lead to 24-14 on Mark Schlaudt's 23-yard field with 7:48 left in the game. The kick was set up by Jeremy Jones' 43-yard punt return to the Canton

The resilient Chiefs rebounded with an 11-play, 71yard scoring drive to slice their deficit to 24-21 with 3:31 left. Sophomore running back Dalton Walser finished the drive with a 15-yard run on an option play.

Canton's onside kick on the ensuing kickoff was recovered by Rockford at mid-field. Two minutes later, Zach Breen sprinted in from 11 yards out to seal the win.

Canton outgained Rockford, 300-289, in total yards and won the first-down battle, 16-12. "Canton's line was huge and physical," said Rockford linebacker Charlie Haglund, who finished with 15 tackles. "That was the most physical high school football game I've ever played in."

Bennett's engine runs non-stop

BY ED WRIGHT

It wasn't difficult locating Salem's Jake Bennett on the soccer field this past fall.

He was the mid-fielder sprinting sideline-to-sideline in pursuit of the ball and any opposing player who may have possessed it. The tireless

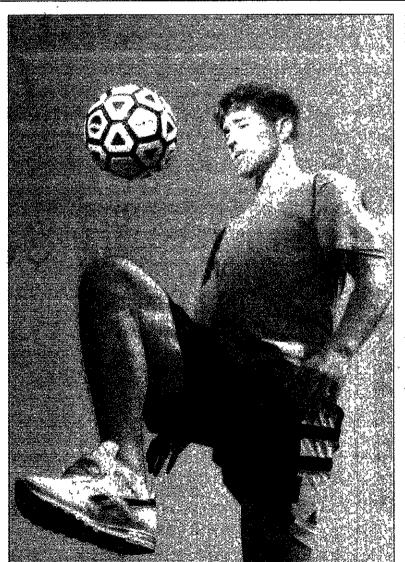

Bennett defined the phrase "nonstop competitor" as he was one of the main components in the Rocks' spectacular 14-6-4 season.

"Jake covered the most ground of anyone on our team," said Salem coach Ed McCarthy, referring to his four-year letter-winner, who was named to the 2005 All-Observer boys soccer team. "He was all over the field. When the game was over, there was no doubt which player on the field had worked the hardest. It was on Page B2.

Richters named top soccer coach for '05

As a player, Richters played on back-to-back state championship teams in 1985-86 during his junior and senior years. In 1984, the Spartans were runner-up his sophomore season. Richters went on to play at Yale University where he earned All-Ivy League honors as a defender his senior year followed by a sevenyear stint (1991-98) in the indoor professional ranks with the Detroit Rockers. He returned to his high school alma mater as varsity coach in 1998 where he replaced Walt Barrett and has continued the tradition of fine soccer compiling an impressive eightyear mark of 137-21-11.

This was Stevenson's most successful sea-Boys Soccer team son under Richters as the Spartans finished 23-1-1, losing only to eventual state champion Warren DeLaSalle in the Division I state semifinals. During the regular season Stevenson was ranked No. 1 and earned both Lakes Division and Western Lakes Activities Association championships, as well as winning both the district and regionals. For his efforts in 2005, the 36-year-old Richters has been selected by the Observer sports staff as Coach of the Year.

"We had a high level of character and above all else we came together as a team this season, maybe better than some in the past," said Richters, an English teacher at Stevenson. Richters spends his off-season coaching club soccer with the Michigan Wolves, along with his family, wife Amy (Trunk), a former soccer standout at Farmington High and University of Massachusetts; son Lukas, 5; and daughter Maia, 3.

Former Salem basketball player Kelly Jaskot 3 turned in an outstanding performance for the University of Detroit Mercy in U of D's Nov. 22 game against the University of Kansas.

Jaskot tallied a team: high 19 points in just 20 minutes in the Titans' 70-68 loss to the Jayhawks. The senior was 4-for-8 from three-point range and 3-for-3 from the charity stripe.

The loss dropped U of D. to 1-2. Kansas improved to 2-0.

Schoolcraft's women's basketball team is ranked. No. 1 in the National Junior College Athletic 30, Association Division II basketball poll, following .a 3-0 start to the seasons,

According to Lady Ocelots assistant coach Marty Simmonds, it is 🗔 🛷 believed to be the first time Schoolcraft's women cagers landed on top of the list.

"Both myself and (head coach) Karen (Lafata) aren't sure we're the best team in the country yet," Simmonds said. "But we are off to a great start and thrilled to be ranked No. 1."

Schoolcraft is at the top of the poll with 60 points, followed by Genesee (N.Y.) Community College (56 points), Kirkwood (Mo.), CC (52), Mesa (Ariz.) CC (48) and Carl Sandburg (III.) College (44). Kalamazoo Valley CC is ninth with 28 points.

Simmonds said the highest previous rankingfor the Lady Ocelots was, No. 3 in a 1998-99 preseason poll.

Spartans' quartet headlines All-Area boys soccer team

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, November 27, 2005

Mitch Hildebrandt, Jr. GK, Liv. Stevenson: The junior, a first-team All-Area pick last year, finished the year with a 19-1-1 record, including 11 shutouts and only 11 goalsagainst, third all-time on the Stevenson charts.

"Mitch definitely has special qualities as a goalkeeper and as a person," Stevenson coach Lars Richters said of the first-team Division I All-Stater. "He's able to do special things like in our game with Ann Arbor Huron in the regional final when had shut them out and scored the game-winner (in the shootout).

"We're fortunate to have him come back another year because he has the opportunity to go out as one of the best keepers every in this

Erik McKee, Sr. Def., Canton: McKee is a two-time first team All-Observer performer. He earned All-WLAA kudos for his hustling, always-around-the-ball efforts for the Chiefs' defense. His talents were so highly respected by coach George Tomasso that he was moved up to forward during the closing minutes of Canton's 1-0 loss to Saline in the district tournament. Only an outstanding save by the Hornets' goalie prevented McKee from tying the game at 1-1.

"Erik has a high level of talent combined with a lot of soccer knowledge," Tomasso said, "He's probably the most knowledgeable when it comes to our defensive system (flat four) of anyone on our team. He's a great leader and he will be missed next year."

Derek Herrmann, Sr. Def., Redford Thurston: The Eagles' team MVP and co-captain "managed the field" exceptionally well from his sweeper position, said head coach Kevin Spier, whose squad finished second in the Mega Conference's Blue largely thanks to solid team defense (1.0 goals-against average).

Hie's a great tackler, he's got great speed, he clears the ball, passes well and he's excellent in the air," Spier said. "We only had one goal on a corner kick scored against us all year because he was always heading the ball out." Beyond that, Herrmann's determination and leadership skills were outstanding. "He inspired other players to improve their game and he was the heart of the team." Herrmann, an All-Mega Blue first-team selection, contributed two goals and two assists on the offensive end.

"Luke made some incredible strides this year," Richters said. "He had an incredible year in terms of goals and assists, but he's not concerned about personal glory. As good as he is, his consistency and value to the team can only be measured in his selflessness."

Jake Bennett, Sr., MF, Salem: A four-year letter-winner, Bennett was an All-WLAA performer who also earned honorable mention All-State status. He scored six goals and racked up eight assists from the mid-field position.

"Jake was our-central mid-fielder and he was probably best defensive player in the mid-field," said Salem coach Ed McCarthy. "He also provided a lot of offense from the midfield. He was a high-energy player and a workhorse for us. He was also our hardest-working player.

Jason Gillow, Sr. MF, Liv. Churchill: The senior center-midfielder earned All-Western Lakes and honorable mention All-State honors in Division I. Gillow finished the year with 13 goals and six assists.

"Jason was the captain, the quarterback of our team," Churchill coach Reid Friedrichs said. "Everything came through him. He was our MVP and offensively was our most dangerous player. He made things happen.

Bobby Merritt, Sr. F, Liv. Stevenson: The senior, who scored an areabest 29 goals and added 15 assists. earned All-WLAA and second-team All-State honors in Division I.

"Bobby was one of the most dangerous one-on-one players in the area and state this year," Richters said. "He greatly improved his finishing ability and it allowed him to have a good senior year.

"He's getting interest and he'll end up at a Division I school."

Colin Rolfe, Soph. F, Plymouth: Only a sophomore, Rolfe was the Wildcats' leading scorer, tallying 10 goals and six assists. Rolfe's efforts earned him several post-season honors, including WLAA All-Division, All-District, All-Regional and honorable mention All-State.

"Colin has tremendous skills on the ball," said Plymouth coach Jeffrey Neschich. "His knowledge of the game and the experience he has acquired from playing for his club team and the ODP (Olympic Development Program) brought a lot to our team.

A look back at Chiefs' golden season

Listed below is a game-bygame recap of the Canton football team's 2005 season.

■ Week 1: Canton 42, Ann Arbor Pioneer 12 — The Chiefs open with a statement-making victory over highly respected Pioneer. Led by junior Deshon McClendon's 127 yards, Canton rushed for 370 yards and threw for 48 more.

■ Week 2: Canton 24, Walled Lake Central 20 - Playing in their first game in over two years without senior quarterback Shawn Little, the Chiefs withstand a late Central rally to improve to 2-0. The game wasn't sealed until senior linebacker Marwan Faraj pounced on a fumble with just over a minute to play with the Vikings driving.

■ Week 3: Walled Lake Western 21, Canton 14 (OT) -The loss was the first WLAA setback for the Chiefs in over three years. Canton moved the ball, entering the "Red Zone" five times, but could not finish drives.

■ Week 4: Livonia Franklin 13, Canton 7 — The Chiefs fell behind the resurgent Patriots 13-O before linebacker Jeff Piper returned a fourth-quarter fumble 51 yards to make it close. However, Franklin's swarming defense hung on for the win.

■ Week 5: Canton 55, Wayne 7 The Chiefs took out their frustrations on the overmatched Zebras, sprinting to a 41-0 halftime lead.

n Week 6: Canton 35, Northville 0 — The Chiefs improved to 4-2 with a thorough white-washing of the host Mustangs. Little and McClendon both had big nights for the Chiefs offense while Faraj, Piper and Sweda made several big plays for the defense.

■ Week 7: Canton 42, Plymouth 7 — In a much-anticipated showdown with crosscampus neighbor Plymouth, McClendon rushed for 144 on 18 carries to lead the Chiefs to their third straight win. Canton led just 7-0 at the half before scoring TD's on its first three drives of the second half.

■ Week 8: Canton 41, Walled Lake Central 33 — The Chiefs trailed 27-7 at one point in the first half before storming back to overtake the host Vikings. The victory improved Canton's record to 6-2 and clinched its sixth consecutive playoff berth. After a 1yard TD run by Little and O'Shaunessy's extra point gave the Chiefs a 34-33 advantage, McClendon sealed it in the final minutes when he bolted 55 yards to paydirt then picked off a Central pass in the end zone.

Week 9: Canton 33, Salem 12 — Two of Canton's smaller players - 5-foot-8 Chris Woudstra and the 5-6 McClendon — put up big stats against the cross-campus Rocks.

Woudstra rushes four times for 54 yards and hauls in a 76-yard TD pass from Little, and McClendon tallies 136 yards rushing and three TD's.

Playoffs (round 1): Canton 42, Monroe 34 — The "Comeback Kids" overcome an early 20-7 deficit to rally for a thrilling victory. The Chiefs rolled to 429 yards on the ground and did not throw a pass.

McClendon had his most productive night of the season, gaining 255 yards on 20 attempts. Matt Sweda had a huge night, too, rushing for 116 on just seven carries. Canton led for the first time - 21-20 - when Sweda found the end zone from 13 yards out and O'Shaunessy drilled the extra point with 1:47 left in the first half. ■ Playoffs (round 2): Canton 🖎 63, Detroit Cody 34 — The Chiefs' offensive juggernaut was in high gear against the Comets '" as Canton racked up 508 total yards. Rossow was the main man, picking up 138 total yards and three scores. ■ Playoffs (round 3): Canton 🗚 48, Detroit King 21 - The Chiefs earned the school's first Division 1 semi-final berth when they handily trounced King thanks to 450 yards on the ground. Canton's defense — led by Jeff Piper, O'Shaunessy, Konrad Konsitzke and Rossow - shined, containing King's high-powered offense for most of the night. ■ Playoffs (round 4): Canton 35, Macomb Dakota 21 - The avi Chiefs orchestrated their third ${<}^{\circ}$ impressive comeback in five weeks when they overcame an $^{\sim a\,s}$ early 14-0 hole to earn a berth in the Division 1 state final game against Rockford.

■ Playoffs (final): Rockford 31/ Canton 21: The most successful season in Canton history ends 🚐 with a loss to the defending Division 1 state champion Rams always Jake."

While Bennett can dribble the ball with the best of them, he could also get physical when the situation demanded physicality.

"One of Jake's best attributes is his aggressive style of play," McCarthy said. "His defending skills are outstanding."

IN THE GENES

Bennett inherited his toughness from mentals camps are "designed to two main sources: his brothers and his wrestling background. Both of Bennett's older brothers, Geoff (Salem '98) and Andrew (Salem '02) were high school wrestlers. Their passion for the sport rubbed off on their younger brother, who has excelled on the mat since his freshman

> Last year, he was within one victory and a single point — from advancing to the Division 1 state meet.

"I work at the school store and there is a lot of food around, so it's going to be hard keeping my weight down this year," Bennett joked. "Having two older brothers in wrestling really got me interested in it. If they wouldn't have been involved in wrestling, I don't know if I would have got into it.

Bennett wrestled at 145 last season, but said he will be dropping to 140 this year.

Although he thoroughly enjoys seeking pins and full-nelsons during the winter months, soccer is still No. 1 in his athletic book. He picked the game up as a secondgrader growing up in Indiana and has never stopped playing.

"I love soccer more than anything," he said. "I like it so much, I plan on playing in college."

PRODUCTIVE FRESHMAN

Bennett caught the Rock coaches' eyes early on in his high school career. After starting his ninth-grade season on the Salem junior varsity, he was promoted to varsity around the mid-season point. It turned out to be a memorable half-season for the 14-year-old.

"We made it all the way to the state final game against Rochester that year," Bennett said. "That was probably the highlight of my career at Salem. I got to play in all the district, regional and final games. There aren't a lot of freshmen who can say that."

Bennett posted huge offensive numbers for a mid-fielder, tallying eight goals and 10 assists.

"I thought we did all right this year," Bennett said. "We didn't lose any of our big games, except for the district game to Huron (1-0)."

Bennett shared some unusually strong chemistry with one of his teammates this season - his brother, Tom, who is a jun-

"I played mid-field and he was a forward, so I had to give the ball up to him a lot." Bennett said, chuckling. "It was fun, though, being on the same team with my brother. It gave us a chance to talk a lot."

THANKS, MOM

Sheryl Bennett, mother of Jake, Tom, Geoff and Andrew, is one of the hardestworking soccer moms he knows, Bennett

"She deserves a lot of credit," he said. "With four boys, she was always taking one of us to a game or something, especially when we were younger. We still have a calendar hanging up that shows who's playing where and when."

Bennett's academic skills match his athletic prowess. He's earned a solid 3.4 grade-point average and is "70 percent sure" he's going to attend the academically challenging Kalamazoo College next fall.

"They've already offered me a chance to play soccer there, so I'm definitely interested," he said. "I have some friends who go there now and they've told me good things about the school."

Whalers acquire Cunningham

Plymouth Whalers President, General Manager and Head Coach Mike Vellucci announced the acquisition of center Evan Brophey and defenseman Wes Cunningham along with a fourth-round draft choice in 2006 from the Belleville Bulls in exchange for center Cory Tanaka and Plymouth's second-round draft choices in 2006 and 2007.

"It's tough trading Cory," Vellucci admitted. "He is a great hockey player and a quality individual. In making the trade, we had a chance to acquire two of our needs — a number one center and another experienced defenseman. You have to give up quality to get quality.

"I can speak for our entire organization that we will miss Cory. We wish him the best."

The 19-year-old Brophey is Belleville's leading scorer with nine goals and 17 assists in 22 games. Originally selected by the Barrie Colts in the second round (37th overall) in the 2002 Ontario Hockey League Draft, Brophey was acquired by Belleville last season and has scored 63 goals with 85 assists for 145 points in 213 career games in the OHL. Brophey was taken in the third round (68th overall) by the Chicago Blackhawks in the 2005 National Hockey League Entry Draft.

Brophey could return to Plymouth next season as an overage player.

'It's tough trading Cory. He is a great hockey player and a quality individual. In making the trade, we had a chance to acquire two of our needs - a number one center and another experienced defenseman. You have to give up quality to get quality."

Whalers president Mike Vellucci

Cunningham, 18, was originally drafted by Owen Sound in the second round (23rd overall) of the 2003 OHL Draft and acquired by Belleville last season. Cunningham, who has two goals, four assists and 26 penalty minutes this season, has four goals, 26 assists and 138 penalty minutes in 140 career games in the OHL.

Tanaka, 17, was selected by Plymouth in the second round (29th overall) in the 2004 OHL Draft and scored 10 goals with 11 assists for 21 points and 49 penalty minutes in 67 games last season. This season, Tanaka has two goals with three assists and 20 penalty minutes in 21

Whalers win on Collins' goal

Dan Collins' team-leading 19th goal at 2:05 of overtime capped a comeback for the Plymouth Whalers as they defeated the Sarnia Sting, 4-3, in overtime in an Ontario Hockey League game played Wednesday night at the Compuware Sports Arena.

Plymouth (13-7-1-2) rallied from deficits of 2-0 and 3-1 to come all the way back for the victory. The loss was the six straight for Sarnia and dropped its record to 10-13-0-0.

John Vigilante and James Neal recorded one goal and one assist each for Plymouth. Steve Ward scored the other Whalers' goal while Vaclav Meidl chipped in with three assists. Richard Clune, Jamie Fraser and Chad Painchaud scored single goals for Sarnia. Following a scoreless first period, Sarnia got goals 1:34 apart in the second period from Clune (left wing in tight at 10:08) and Fraser (snap shot from the slot at 11:42). The Sting led 2-0 after 40 minutes. Vigilante cut the Sarnia lead to 2-1 at 1:18 of the third period, but Painchaud scored on a short-handed breakaway at 5:39 to improve the Sting's lead to 3-1.

Neal cut the Sarnia lead to 3-2 when he roofed a shot from the right wing doorstep of the Sting goal at 9:09 and Ward Jaig scored 1:41 later at 10:50/ of the third period whenM he wristed a loose puck , i'm through traffic in front of therov Sarnia goal to tie the game at 3-3,598

Collins gave Plymouth its only lead at 2:05 of overtime when he took Meidl's pass on the left wing in the Sarnia zone and . best Sting goaltender Parker Van Buskirk with a shot from the lower rim of the left circle. .Ove

The game marked the debut of two new Whalers — center Evan Brophey and defenseman Wes Cunningham — acquired on Wednesday from Belleville along with a fourth-round draft choice in 2006 in exchange for center Cory Tanaka and two second-round draft choices. Brophey and Cunningham played regular shifts and did not score.

Despite graduation losses, Canton icers are optimistic

BY ED WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

Graduation hit the Canton hockey team like a steam-rolling check into the boards during the off-season.

But the absence of several of the Chiefs' key players from last season's solid 15-7-3 effort — Mike Kondratek, Brian Wioncek, Reece McCabe and Tony Hylko, to name a few — hasn't dampened the enthusiasm of this year's young and inexperienced team, according to second-year head coach Mike Behen.

"We lost 90 percent of our minutes and 90 percent of our scoring from last year's team to graduation," Behen said, "but the kids we have returning are very motivated and they are working very hard. We're very young, but we're getting better every day. I expect us to be very strong by the end of the season."

Leading the Chiefs onto the ice for the 2005-06 season will be a trio of senior captains: Brett Giacomino, Kevin Tollison and Kyle Kowalski. Giacomino and Kowalski will help pace the Canton offense while Tollison will anchor its defense.

"Brett Has great offensive instincts," Behen said. "He will provide us with a lot of our goals this season. He's a good leader, too. He was a big part of organizing our off-season program.

"Kevin is going to have a giant year, absolutely giant. He has to in order for the team to do well. It's his time to shine. We moved him to defense this year and he played great in our first game (a 4-2 loss to Chippewa Valley). He's a good captain, too, because he's all for the team

"Kyle was voted captain by his teammates and it was well-deserved. He's one of our hardest workers and he does a lot of the little things that players need to do to win."

Leading the Chiefs' offensive lines will be seniors Pat Gallagher, Andy Barylski and Sean Ruman; juniors Brad Barath, J.P. LaFontaine and Jesse Plepsch; and sophomore C.J. Wies.

Plepsch and LaFontaine are both first-year players who should have an instant impact in the scoring department.

"They've both been pleasant surprises for us," Behen said. "Jesse is one of those kids that looks like he could be a prospect.

"Brad Barath is one of those kids that comes to every practice ready to work. He gets better every day and I'm expecting a lot out of him. And Pat is going to have an enormous year for Replacing Hylko in front of the net for the Chiefs will be senior net-minder Nick Basel and sophomore Kevan Swanberg, who will split the No. 1 duties, Behen said.

"Nick has only played goalie for about a year," Behen said. "He'll stop the puck, but he's still learning technique. Swannie is a gamer. I've been very impressed with him. He's one of those kids who, by the time he's a senior, will be an All-State type of player, or at least AllConference."

Among those players manning the blue line for the Chiefs will be senior Shane Roring and freshman Donnie Barlow.

Salem wins opener of holiday tournament, 3-2

The final game of the 2005 Salem Thanksgiving Invitational hockey tournament will have some hometown flavor.

The host Rocks advanced to Saturday's championship game when they dispatched Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern, 3-2, Friday night at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Salem will take on Chippewa Valley, which ousted Canton, 4-2, Friday afternoon. Due to deadline restrictions, the results from Saturday's title showdown will appear in Thursday's edition of the Observer.

Salem, which improved to 2-Owith the win, broke a scoreless tie when Kris Brant scored on an assist from Steve Heisler at the 10:42 mark of the second period. The Rocks doubled their lead to 2-0 with 57 seconds left in the period on Heisler's goal. He was assisted by Evan Meibers and Jason Sharrow.

Northern knotted the score at 2-2 with third-period tallies from Luke Swardenski and Ben Biondo, but Salem won it with 3:16 to play when senior captain Dave Carey found the back of the net. Brant and Heisler assisted on the gamewinner.

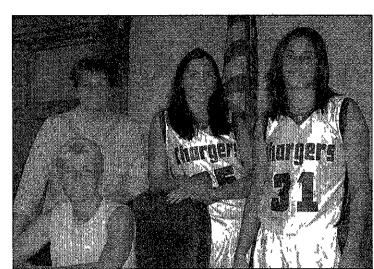

Ralph Aspenwall earned the victory in front of the net for the Rocks. Last week, Aspenwall was sensational in the Rocks' season-opening 1-0 victory over Troy.

CHIPPEWA VALLEY 4, CANTON 2: Brett Giacomino scored both goals for the Chiefs, who dropped their season-opener in the first round of the Salem Thanksgiving Invitational. Pat Gallagher and Kevin Tollison assisted on Giacomino's goals.

Sophomore net-minder Kevan Swanberg suffered the defeat in goal for the Chiefs. Canton out-shot Chippewa Valley, 29-23.

"I thought we played well, considering it was our first game of the season," said Canton coach Mike Behen. "We played hard, but we had a hard time getting things going offensively."

The Chiefs had two goals disallowed — one because it was ruled to be batted in the net while the other came a split-second after the referee had blown his whistle.

The next level

Got Game? Yep, got scores, too.

Respect privacy of your child

My wife and I are fighting about our jobs as parents. It all started when my 12-year-old daughter left her diary on her bed and I began to read it. When I told my wife what I had done, she was furious and accused me of being a spy on our own children. I don't think that what I did was so terrible. I found out some things about my daughter that I wouldn't have known otherwise. I did not read anything that made me feel angry or worried, in fact, I am really proud of the things that she wrote and how she is maturing. Still, my wife wants me to confess to my daughter and promise to never do it again. I don't want to do this and I can't say that I will never read it again because I found it very comforting to know these things about my daughter. Who is right on this one? Al, Dearborn Heights I do not doubt that you gained valuable insight into your daughter's thoughts and feelings by reading her diary. After all, she probably views her diary as the one place in the world where she can express herself without fear of anyone else intruding on these personal writings. Your unwillingness to confess your actions to your daughter suggests that you know that you were in the wrong. By reading her innermost and private thoughts, you invaded her space and deprived her of trust and respect. How can she develop a sense of privacy and respect for others if she cannot experience these things for herself? As a parent, it is your responsibility to help her develop these qualities and this cannot be accomplished if you are not willing to set an appropriate example. I am a firm believer that a bild has a mach night

You seem to be impressed by your daughter's maturity and thoughts and feel that there is no other way for you to gain access to this information. I can think of a much more effective and healthy way: talk with her. If you want to know what she thinks and feels, ask her. She will probably never confide all of her secrets to you, but the interactions will provide each of you with enough information about one another to foster a positive relationship. One last point needs to be made. I know that this will be difficult for you but I think that you do need to confess to your daughter. She will be angry with you, and she has every right to be, but it will be the first step on the way toward building greater trust and respect.

My nephew is 4 years old and has recently been diagnosed with ADHD. I don't think that he is old enough to be diagnosed in this way. What do you think? Pam, via Internet I agree with you, Pam, in most situations a 4-year-old is too young to be diagnosed with Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder. It is just too difficult to differentiate between problematic childhood behaviors and developmentally appropriate ones. To add to the confusion, a preschooler often lacks the verbal skills necessary to describe his own concerns and relies heavily Eileen Reddington doesn't want to draw attention to herself. She just wants to make sure everyone knows about the works on display at the Visual Arts Association of Livonia exhibition at St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia.

The 81-year-old painter is especially proud of her country scene with a red barn, but is quick to mention that Livonia artist Audrey Harkins won the Briget Mair Award for her watercolor Where Have All the Followers? - and Morand Zimmer took first place in the exhibit presented by the hospital's Committee for the Establishment of a Healing Environment.

It's obvious Reddington admires her artist friends whether they belong to VAAL or the Farmington Artists Club of which she is a member.

Reddington, who studied watercolor with Edie Joppich and Marge Chellstorp, majored in art at Madonna University where Sister Angeline taught her how to paint in oils. In Reddington's early years, she studied at the Toledo Museum of Art and Toledo University. Later, she exhibited at many fine art shows including the one sponsored by Canton

Project Art. "I like competitiveness," said Eileen Reddington, a Livonia resident who's been painting for more than 30 years. "I did Purple Harvest from a still life set up at Audrey's house. I take photos and paint from them or exaggerate an illustration in a magazine. It's impressionistic. I make it to represent a tree, but not exactly." In addition to being a member of various art clubs, Reddington is active in Livonia Friends & Neighbors, a group that takes over where the Welcome Wagon leaves off.

"We have meetings with guests, everyone from Al Weber, an artist, to someone to demonstrate candy making," said Reddington.

'We welcome new people." For more information about Livonia Friends & Neighbors, call Reddington at (734) 464-0422.

The VAAL exhibit continues to Dec. 2, at St. Mary Mercy Hospital, 36475 Five Mile at Levan.

VAAL is a nonprofit which provides a variety of art classes as well as the opportunity to exhibit. For more information, call (248) 919-

"The mouse is always their first role," said Jean Newell, Livonia Civic Ballet artistic director. "He's a rat and he's a king. He comes to life because of the little mice. The Rat King has to be energetic and acrobatic. We want it to look danger-

"But we don't want anybody getting hurt," adds Dawn Greene, Plymouth Canton Ballet artistic director.

NO TENSION

Although dancers are competitive people, it's obvious there's no tension between the companies. Each has been doing their version of Tchaikovsky's tale for more than 20 years, and each is different. The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Nan Washburn, provides the music for the Plymouth-Canton Ballet. All of the companies use more than 50 dancers to create their spectaculars.

'Our mice throw cheese at the Nutcracker," said Greene who's especially proud of one of the mice, her grandson Ian Smith, 7. A Canton resident. he's been taking ballet, tap and jazz since age 4.

first played a mouse at age 8. She's now a 16-year old Rat King in the Plymouth-Canton Ballet production. A student at Churchill High School in Livonia, she takes 9 classes a week at Encore Dance Academy in Westland.

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, November 27, 2005

"It's a new part for me," said Allen, who's been a cheerleader and played girls basketball at Churchill. "I like lots of challenges. It's a long scene. I prepare by making sure I know my part, make sure the Nutcracker and I are on cue so no one gets

David Rivera learned about taking safety precautions long before he danced the Rat King role last year, so he's not worried. Now 12, Rivera took fencing lessons three years ago at the Detroit Renaissance Club. What does keep him up nights is wondering if the little mice will be able to drag his body off stage, and whether he'll be able to light the flash paper for the pyrotechnics that mark his entrance. Last year, the flash paper and lighter didn't work the first two times.

"Last year it was difficult at 80 pounds for them to drag me off. This year I weigh 110 pounds," said Rivera, "but it's a lot of fun."

While Rivera enjoys participating in competitive sports, he wasn't quite sure about taking on the role of the Rat King. His sisters Sara, 14, and Bethany, 9, both hounded him until he did. Both have roles in the Nutcracker and study at Birmingham Dance Academy.

"My sisters were telling me why I should be Rat King, but I couldn't dance," said Rivera, who did learn the moves necessary to play his part.

FAMILY AFFAIR

All of the productions have nagging sisters and doting parents playing roles or working behind the scenes. Eric Johnston's wife Martha did all the art for the Detroit Ballet production. Francis Allen, Lauren's mother, makes sure she's on cue to add dry ice to the fog machine for the Snow scene. She is quick to downplay her part.

"Lauren was only 3 when I asked her if she wanted to do ballet and started taking lessons at the Y in Westland," said Frances Allen. "Every year she'd ask, 'mom can I do lyrical, can I do hip hop, can I add one more class.' She's competed since the age of 6."

Greene is equally quick to add that her daughter Dawnell Dryja is returning to the Sugar Plum Fairy role with the Plymouth Canton Ballet, but only for the Canton performances. Afterwards, Dryja returns to the Grand Rapids Ballet as a dancer and teacher. Dryja's husband Calin Radulescu, a professor at Grand Valley State University, plays the Cavalier.

The Livonia Civic Ballet brings in Olivier Munoz and Ana Lobe, both formally with the Cleveland/San Jose Ballet, for the production staged by Newell and daughter Arnell St. Juliana.

Eric Johnston, on the other hand, believes only in featuring dancers from his schools -Birmingham Dance Academy and Betty Johnston Dance Studio in Farmington Hills.

"It's our schools that are performing. Old alumni come back and perform. We have a few college kids, moms coming back and we have a new Sugar Plum Fairy, Sara Rivera, who's danced with me since age 4. That's especially meaningful," said Johnston, a 49 year old Farmington Hills resident. Johnston's been dancing in Nuterackers since be was 17 Over the years he's had roles in Cincinnati Ballet, Nati i ial

David Rivera learned about taking safety precautions long before he danced the Rat King role last year, so he's not worried. Ballet of Mexico and London Ballet Theater productions. This year he dances as the Cavalier.

"What special for me is seeing my young dancers doing the same parts that I did when I was a young professional and that they're from Detroit and doing as good a job as anybody around the world. You don't have to go to Chicago, New York, London or Paris to have an artistic evening. It's a great opportunity for people to go to theater and see ballet. Everyone is doing it on different levels, the same ballet that pulls at heart strings. You can see it live the way ballet should be."

Take precautions to prevent sexual assault ape is an unpleasant subject – even more so in dating relationships. We don't want to think about it. Please review the information below very carefully, and then discuss it thoroughly with your teen.

Although this crime is most often committed against women and girls, teenage boys are vulnerable, too. Most people find it unbelievable, but boys are at great risk because they do not even consider it a possibility and have no idea what to do. Young men are also less likely to report a rape because of the shame involved.

Not all rapes can be prevented, but taking some precautions can reduce the risk. Teach your son or daughter these rules:

- Know what your sexual limits and values are.
- No always means NO. It doesn't matter what the circumstances are. No means NO. It is never OK to force yourself on someone.
- Speak up immediately! Silence can be misinterpreted as consent. State your feelings clearly and firmly.
- Stay alert. Drug and alcohol use, besides being illegal, reduces a person's ability to evaluate potentially dangerous situations.
- Do what it takes to stay safe. Scream, yell, or get angry if you must.

SELF-DEFENSE STRATEGIES

Your teen's gut feelings about a situation may be the most important self-defense tool he or she has. Discuss these points:

- If a situation feels unsafe, it probably is. Stay calm, and do not panic.
- If at all possible, get away to somewhere safe and seek help immediately. Never stay in a situation that makes you uncomfortable, whether that is on a date or while walking home alone.
- Always have enough money for a phone call and a bus or cab fare home.
- Talk to the attacker about family and parents. You may make him see you as more than an object.
- Make a scene. Shout, "This man is bothering me!"
- Fight back. Fighting may stop the assault and create a moment to get away, or it may increase the attack. It is worth a try.

Do not let shock, anger, or embarrassment keep you from getting your teen immediate help. You can call a 24hour crisis line for help. Check your yellow pages under "Crisis Intervention," "Hotlines and Helping Lines," or call your local hospital.

1. Report the assault to the police in the city in which the crime occurred. This step should be taken with your teen's consent as soon as possible after the attack.

2. Seek medical attention. Avoid letting your teen bathe or shower until after the exam, and bring the clothes that were worn during the assault to the hospital.

Most insurance policies will cover the medical exam. If you are uninsured, you may be eligible for crime victim compensation. Your local rape crisis program or prosecuting attorney's office can help you file a claim.

They look good enough to eat." Gerolyn Ellington and her sister, Terrell Belcher, both of Southfield, have heard that so many times that they are thinking of changing their home-based candle making business slogan to "good enough to eat." Their yummy looking products resemble pies, jars of jam, tarts and other delectables.

"We have to change our hook," said Ellington with a laugh.

Currently, their Mood Swing Candles name and slogan reflects another delicious thing about their product - the fragrance. "It will change your mood," they advertise.

"Our favorite and biggest seller is mixed fruit. I think it kind of takes people back. It's so friendly. You feel like you are at a park eating watermelon in the summer."

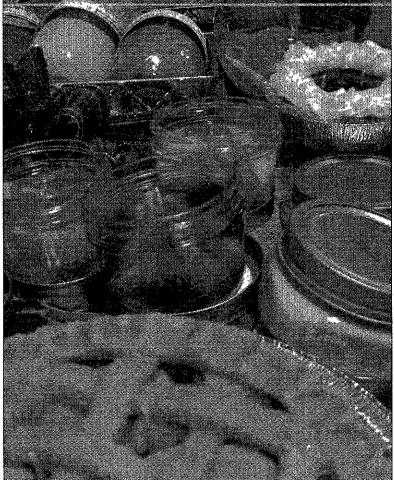

They will sell the candles when they co-host a show next week with several other area vendors of products and services.

The Pre-Christmastime Bazaar is 5-8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 19, at the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen Road, Southfield. A caterer will provide refreshments; there is no admission fee.

The candles cost between $5 to $30 and make great holiday gifts, she said. The pair started making the candles in 2003 and they soon became popular with friends and family. "It started as I can with the scent. A lot of people leave the scent on the top.

"The scent in my candles is all the way though. I take my time, I study. We always say, we put a lot of love into them."

Their products include gel and soy candles.

Ellington enjoys gel candles because items can be placed in them to make them look like a beach or a fruit jelly, and they last longer.

"For people concerned with anything in the air, the soy candles burn clean. Cancer patients like them," she

"The scent from both is incredible." As for Ellington, her personal favorite is a "raspberry lemonade that I call 'Sweetheart.'"

Women in government eye 'Commander in Chief'

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

On ABC's Commander in Chief, President Mackenzie Allen is the first woman to hold that office in the U.S. Local women in government are watching the show and have thoughts on the possibility of a woman president.

"I do watch it," said Westland Mayor Sandra Cicirelli. "I think it's a great show." She finds the interaction between the president, played by Geena Davis, and foes such as Speaker of the House Nathan Templeton (Donald Sutherland) interesting. "Sometimes politics can be very nasty," said Cicirelli, citing the fight between Attorney General Mike Cox and challenger Geoffrey Fieger.

Cicirelli expects U.S. Sen. Hillary Rodham Clinton of New York to be a contender for the 2008 Democratic nomination. It's a bit early to say for sure, added Cicirelli, whose office is nonpartisan. On the show, then-Vice President Allen was asked to resign by the dying president, causing a controversy over her presidency. Lyn Bankes of Livonia, a former state and county legislator, believes a woman will be seriously considered in the next 10 years, citing both Clinton and Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice on the Republican side. "Oh, absolutely," Bankes said of watching the 9 p.m. Tuesday drama. "I never miss it. If I'm home, I never miss it." She's more partial to another presidential drama, West Wing, which she finds deals more with inside politics. On Commander in Chief, the president and her husband have teenage twins and a younger daughter. Bankes, who's now working on the Phoenix Mill women's history project, believes a real-life woman president would be over 50 and either childless or with grown children. She noted that current U.S. Sen. Debbie Stabenow had younger kids when she worked in Lansing, but also represented a post in the administration. Bankes, a Republican, recalled how the country reacted to Hillary Clinton's involvement in the presidency.

"America did not want a copresident," she said. Bankes is excited to find Americans watching a show about a woman leader. She recently spoke to a service club and was asked by one man why a museum on women's contributions to local industry was needed.

"It blew my mind," she said. Westland's Cicirelli has found people accepted her as that city's first woman mayor, following some initial uncertainty. She praises such pioneering women in government as County Commissioner Kay Beard and former state Rep. Justine Barns. Gov. Jennifer Granholm's current problems are more of an issue of party politics, she said, than gender. "Our governor has been accepted." Cicirelli talked to Granholm at a recent fund-raiser and found that Commander in Chief producers had contacted her and the governor's husband.

"I thought it was interesting that they contacted her and Dan Mulhern, the first gentleman," Cicirelli said. On the show, presidential spouse Rod Calloway struggles to find his own role.

Commissioner Beard, D-Westland, has been out the Tuesdays the show has aired. "I've been wanting to watch it," said Beard, who's seen clips. She's served 27 1/2 years on the commission.

"I think it's well past the time the American people should look at the possibility," Beard said of a woman president. She noted women have moved into many other jobs once considered off limits. "I think it's time we have a

United Way raises over $63 million

United Way for Southeastern Michigan reported that $63,453,858 has been raised in the 2005 Torch Drive campaign.

The announcement was made by 2005 Torch Drive Chair Dr. Dieter Zetsche, Head of Mercedes Car Group and chairman-elect, Board of Management, DaimlerChrysler AG.

The amount is 4.6 percent less than the $66.5 million goal and 1.8 percent less than what was raised last year. More than 1,200 volunteers and contributors representing labor, nonprofits, individuals, and workplace campaigns gathered to hear the results. Emcee for the event was Steve Garagiola, anchor/reporter, WDIV Local 4, Vickie from Troy is an ice skater who trains at a facility that's kept between 36 and 40 degrees. She has a difficult time breathing through her program and wants to know if her lungs are being compromised.

Vickie, 'tis the season! Thousands of area residents are already hitting the local ice rinks. What we need to know is that when there's a major difference between outside air and your body temperature, the air passages constrict. There's also an increase in mucus production when we breathe freezing air. And, in cold climates, the air we breathe has to be humidified by the body. It's a good idea to wear a scarf over your mouth to preheat the air you are breathing. Also, if the problem is not asthma or allergy related, another suggestion would be to warm up an extra 20 to 30 minutes before your program. If you continue to have problems, it could be time to consult a medical expert. You don't want to take any chances with your health!

Holiday blues

Experts offer tips on surviving the season

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

The loneliness grew more intense with each loss. Within five years, Christina McAuliffe's father, fiancé, roommate and two grandmothers had died.

Whether sadness is brought on by death or stress caused by relationship issues, a child's behavioral problems, eating disorders or career-related issues, the holidays can be an especially trying time. McAuliffe chose to draw on support from co-workers and friends and to seek therapy.

Today, she's one of the graduate students seeing adults, children, families and couples at Madonna University's Psychological Services Clinic in Livonia. A licensed psychologist supervises the practicum student therapists and works along with them on cases. Help is readily available to all because fees are calculated on ability to pay.

"My family was far away and it was very traumatic," said McAuliffe, a Livonia resident in her 40s, "but the holidays can affect anyone. I have a high school friend who's going through a divorce. She needs a good friend to talk to."

Patrick Reid already told his sister he "would be there for her." The 61-year-old West Bloomfield resident knows the holidays will be difficult for her. Last year, she was in the hospital for open heart surgery and wasn't able to grieve the death of her husband, who died in September. As a student therapist, Reid is offering suggestions to those he sees at the clinic. Don't sit home alone. Visit an elderly neighbor or invite them for dinner.

Not everyone may have the support of family and, at this time of year, Dr. Robert Cohen says the loneliness can only add to the holiday blues.

"We already have the holiday ads with warm family images," said Cohen, the clinic's co-director. Cohen is in private practice in Farmington Hills and Ann Arbor. "Holidays have a significant impact on what we're feeling. Everyone seems to be having such a great time. Even if they don't feel sad at the holidays, January and February can be difficult in Michigan."

No matter the cause, the holidays can accentuate a person's emotional pain. At age 24, Bradley Sharp has several friends who are caught in the turmoil of Doute is planning ahead to reduce her stress this holiday season. She's awaiting the arrival of a second child she's adopting from Guatemala. The Livonia resident believes children can make the holiday more fun when you're not feeling overwhelmed.

CHANGE TRADITIONS

"People get in to things called" tradition and then it's not fun; they forget what the season is about," said Doute, who works in the hospital's community outreach department, which offers everything from weight management to programs for seniors, "They need to have a plan of what they want to do this holiday season, a positive family member or friend they want to spend time with, activities they don't want to do 🗧 because it does cause stress. It's all what they imagine.

"Think about what we can do to spend less money. Maybe borrowing a child to take on the Hines Drive light tour, taking them to see Santa Claus, go light watching through the neighborhoods or, if they are by themselves, visit an old friend, visit someone who's more needy like at a nursing home."

Doute offers a list of helpful tips, including going on the Internet and doing a search on coping with holiday stress.

"Try to be realistic," Doute said. "Families change and grow and traditions may need to change as well. Open up your mind to new ways of celebrating, calling people, exchanging e-mails and video tapes, reminiscing. Try to set the differences aside with those who tend to cause turmoil and set a budget and stick to it because that's more stress."

■ Don't be afraid to seek help. Though some think that shows weakness, it's actually a sign of strength.

Doute has already completed her shopping. She starts looking for gifts the day after Christmas when items are 50-75 percent off, so next year she can relax and enjoy the season. This Christmas Eve, she'll have Santa over to cheer family and friends, but before then she plans to spend plenty of time with her 2 1/2-year-old son.

"Decide what you definitely need to do and avoid others that may just tip you over the edge," Doute said.

WHEN THE CHOICE IS NO CHOICE

The trend today in therapy is to present you with the options for care of your arthritis, explain the benefits and drawbacks of each option, and let you decide on what course to choose. In eneral, this approach to therapy works well, as in many instances a number of drugs or treatments exist of equal effectiveness but varying cost and side effects.

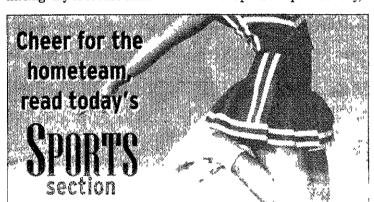

However, there is one condition where marking choice is not the proper way of determining.

treatment. I refer to osteoarthritis of the knees, when the x-ray reveals that the joint space is: "bone on bone." This means that the joint space is completely gone, and is comparable to the tire in which the tread has worn down to its base.

If this is the state of your knee, you have no choice but a joint replacement. There is no role for non-inflammatory medications, physical therapy or hyaluronic acid derivatives such as Synvisc Hylgan, or Starzi. The reason is that no medication can bring back cartilage when the damage is so extensive as to cause the joint structure to change to bone on bone Finally, the alternative to operation is not only pain and limited ability to move. The worse hazard is instability If you are walking on a knee with a bone on bone joint, then you are like someone walking on stilts. You are at risk for a fall. That fall likely will be untimely and expensive. You are better off to visit an orthopedic surgeon and determine who you want to do the surgery, when you want the surgery done, and to direct the arrangements for your responsibilities during your rehabilitation therapy. The alternative, which is no choice, is to fall and let chance dictate

Ask The Vision Correction Specialist Why is there such a wide range of advertised prices for Lasik?

We are dealing with your EYES your most precious sense. LASIK is a rapidly evolving, highly technological and very delicate procedure that requires careful and meticulous attention that can achieve excellent outcome. It's unfortunate that this wonderful procedure has been commercialized and marketed like a commodity by business entities. Do not trust centers that advertise fees that end with 99* with multiple disclaimers designed to lure people in only to be then upgraded with layers of additional fees for higher corrections, astigmatism, touch up insurance and in some cases even for the follow ups! Some centers use older obsolete laser technology or have a mobile laser brought in to cut costs. These are the same centers that delegate your care to other than the surgeon, in many cases you meet the surgeon on the day of your procedure, a little nervous?

Dr. Daniel Haddad believes that when a patient trusts their eyes in his hands they deserve his time and attention from the initial consult to the final follow up visit, while utilizing the latest technology available at fair and reasonable fees.

Good news for employers: over-65 crowd staying on job

(NAPSI) - Believe it or not, by 2030, one in five Americans will be age 65 or older. That means a good deal of the population — mainly the baby boomers - will be retired and enjoying golf, embarking on travel adventures, spending time with the family or finally taking that long-awaited cooking class. Or will they? Recent studies show that many Americans are staying on the job longer and pushing off retirement until they feel more comfortable with what's in the

In fact, a recent survey by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) revealed that 7 in 10 Americans plan on working past the age of 65. This is great news for employers because they won't have to worry about losing senior talent - those who have been on the job the longest. Also, employers looking to hire new employees will be able to pick from a more diverse and qualified talent pool.

However, two-thirds of the over-65 population will experience a disability, according to data from the U.S. Census Bureau. Perhaps the most common disabilities are those related to eyesight, hearing and hand movement. Accessible technologies can help people with disabilities, whether slight or severe, to continue performing on the job, send e-mail or search the Web, without a glitch.

"The maturing workforce is an important and talent-rich demographic that is unfortunately often overlooked by businesses," said Andrew J. Imparato, president and CEO of the American Association of People with Disabilities (AAPD). "With the help of accessible technology, workers can continue their career paths without worrying about agerelated disabilities becoming a barrier for success.'

To help support the maturing workforce and employees with disabilities, businesses are adopting innovative new technologies that can read aloud the content on a computer screen or magnify computer text so it's easier for employees to read. For users with hand tremors, IBM has developed an adaptor for a computer mouse that is designed to help people with hand tremors better control their computers.

Fracassa

By Dave Menard

If you're looking at an SUV, what exactly are you looking for? Some people just like a driving position that's higher than car height. Some want the extra room, some the extra towing power to pull their boat. And some actually want to take these "off-road" vehicles off-road. If you're in the first two groups, the 2006 Land Rover Range Rover Sport Supercharged (that's a mouthful) might not be for you, particularly if you're on a budget. On the other hand, if you're looking for something that puts the "sport" and "utility" in SUV, and can handle on- and off-road conditions, this might be for you.

Driving a Range Rover is not like driving most other SUV's. Sit inside the cockpit and you can see and feel the difference; it looks and feels more substantial. You know this one means business. The leather seats feature two level cushion heating, provide excellent driving position and are eight-way power adjustable. Instrumentation is complete and there's plenty of storage space in the front cabin. The Range Rover Sport Supercharged comes with a host of standard features - power sunroof, windows and locks, heated windscreen and washer jets, keyless entry, cruise control, integrated garage door opener, dual zone automatic climate control, and aluminum sunvisors. Surprisingly, the GPS navigation system is standard, as is the 550 watt, 13 speaker Harmon Kardon audio system. A rear seating area entertainment system and Sirius satellite radio are Outside, the Range Rover Sport just looks like it's made for more than a trip to the grocery store. It's tall, with nice lines and a boxy front end. Its single-piece tailgate design makes for a more rounded vehicle shape and allows for good aerodynamics. It comes with front and rear fog lamps, 20x9.5" allow wheels, footwell and puddle lamps, and chrome exhaust extensions.

The power train is impressive. The Sport Supercharged comes with a 4.2-liter, 32-valve aluminum V8. It's rated at 390hp and 410 lb.-ft. of torque @ 3500 rpm (0-60 in 7.2 seconds). It's mated with a six-speed automatic transmission with adaptive mapping and it shifts very well on its own, although you can do it yourself, if you like. Proving this is really an off-road vehicle, the Range Rover Sport Supercharged comes with a redesigned oil pump and better oil sealing for

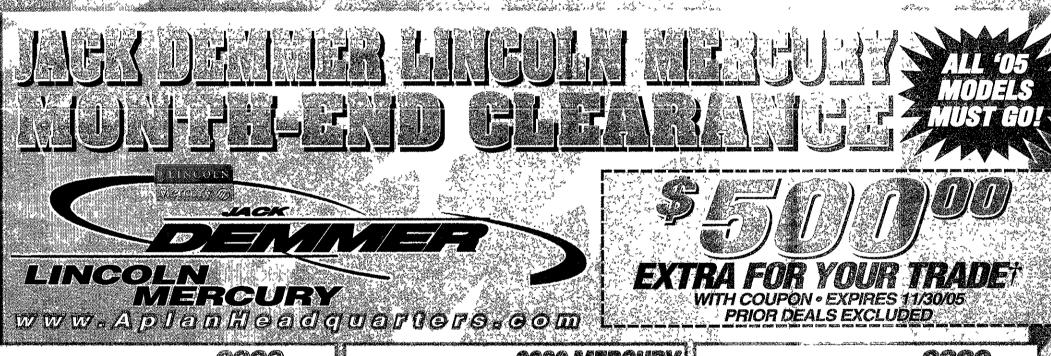

Also proving its worth as an off-road vehicle, the Sport Supercharged comes with what Land Rover calls Dynamic Response suspension control. This system uses a computer to automatically senses cornering forces and acts to optimize body control and handling (and automatically decouples off-road for greater wheel articulation). It also features electronic air suspension with automatic load leveling and multiple modes, heightadjustable, cross-linked air suspension, monotube dampers, and four-wheel double wishbones. It won't be mistaken for riding in a luxury car, but for what it's designed for, it's surprising smooth for city and highway driving

There's danger, both on- and off-road and the Range Rover Sport Supercharged has a full compliment of safety features. Four channel-terrain anti-lock brakes provide impressive stopping power, and the vehicle comes with Hill Descent Control. six airbags, and adaptive front lighting. Also, in the event of a crash, the vehicle goes into an "auto shut down mode" for the engine and fuels system, the doors automatically unlock, and the interior and warning lights come on automatically,

As I alluded to earlier, all this stuff ain't cheap. The 2006 Range Rover Sport Supercharged starts areas at just under $70,000. Add the rear entertainment system, and satellite radio and you're at $74, 500. Not for the budget conscious, but if you've cor got the dough and you need something to take you just about anywhere you need to go - roads or not – you might want to take a look at the Range Rover Sport Supercharged.

More women see real estate as viable investment option

(NAP$I)-According to a recent national survey, a growing number of women are getting into homeownership and real estate investing. The National Association of Realtors Profile of Home Buyers and Sellers reveals: ■ Approximately 21 percent of all home buyers are single women

Single women purchase approximately one in five homes, while one in 10 are purchased by single men.

for a total of 1.7 million.

- Single women purchase approximately one in five homes, while one in 10 are purchased by men.
- The single female segment of the home-buyer population accounts for 18 percent of all home buyers.
- More women (15.5 million) than men (11.8 million) live alone. Among these, women are more likely than men to own their homes (56 percent vs. 47 percent).
- Almost one-quarter of the nation's nearly eight million single mothers spend more than half their incomes on housing, compared with one-tenth of households headed by single fathers.
- Between 1994 and 2002, the number of unmarried females owning homes climbed from 13.9 million to 17.5 million.

"In today's climate, in which women are more career-driven, independent and financially savvy, they're recognizing what we discovered in our researchand that is, real estate is the most 'able' investment a person e in make. It s appreciable it veiagable, improvable and stable, said Dave Jenks, co-author of The Millionaire Real Estate Investor (McGraw-Hill).

A recent best-seller on The New York Times, Wall Street Journal and BusinessWeek lists, the book showcases one-on-one interviews with 120 millionaires who built personal wealth by making their money work for them, versus working for their money.

What's more, they did it all within the real estate market. The book de case a rele at the ere or mother or Mythunderstmanns deter some people from invest-

Tips for buying a home as an investment

I know real estate is a great investment, how do I go about finding a house?

that are on the market. Some things you want to look for are: what is the average market time and what is the average price. You then need to narrow your search even more. To find this information use a Realtor investment. It's who has access to this data. Find a particular subdivision and find out the market values of similar homes. What you are trying to find out is what homes are below market value. Once you find homes that are in this category you need to determine why.

One area investors look for are foreclosed homes. Banks are not in the business of selling homes, so often they price the homes below market value in order to get a quick sale. Usually the buyer's purchase agreement favors the buyer. However, when buying a foreclosed home the purchase agreement usually comes from the bank and therefore doesn't favor the buyer. There are also other hurdles to get through.

However, sometimes you can get good deals buying foreclosed homes

■ Often homes that are below market value need many repairs. It is therefore critical to carefully examine the repairs needed and the cost for doing them. It could be that the cost of doing the repairs will outweigh any savings you may receive because the house is priced less than similar houses. I highly recommend having a professional private inspection done. A house is usually one of the biggest investments most people have, so don't save dollars by not having a professional private inspection done.

Homes may also be below market value for a host of other reasons. It could be that the sellers are getting divorced and each party needs to quickly find a new home. Another reason could be that the seller died and that the home is being sold by the estate

Simple steps can bring energy savings

(NAPSI)-Home energy bills are expected to rise this winter, according to the U.S.

Department of Energy. Yet you can do a lot to keep costs down. And your electric utility company can help. It has free advice that can make your energy savings really add up. Start by keeping the cold air outside. Seal up leaks around windows, doors, pipes or other openings in your home. Next, make sure your furnace or heat pump is working properly. Clean the air filter every month. Arrange your furniture and draperies so they don't block heating vents, radiators or hot-water baseboard units.

Now, set the thermostat at 68 degrees when you're home, and 60 degrees when no one is home or during the overnight hours. Set your water heater temperature at 120 degrees. Use low-flow showerheads and faucets. Wash and dry full loads of clothes.

For more energy saving information, check out your electric utility's Web site or visit Edison Electric Institute at www.eei.org.

No need to swap for privacy in this model home

If you are searching for a floor plan that isolates the master suite for maximum privacy, you might want to consider the 2,194 square foot Swaps (335-210).

The master suite and the secondary bedrooms are on opposite side's of the house. This arrangement also provides privacy for any overnight guests and tones down the sound of teenagers playing their music a bit louder than you appreciate.

The eye-pleasing exterior trimmed in brick and fronted by a railed porch, will be a welcome sight to visitors.

Immediately to the left of the entry, is a small den that can be easily converted into a home office. There is room enough here for a computer desk, chairs and filing cabinets. This room is isolated to leave you undisturbed as you go about your work. A half-bath is located in the outer hallway.

The two secondary bedrooms are actually mini-suites. Each boasts a gull bathroom and plenty of closet space. These rooms can serve as guest quarters, or provide a private living space for aging parents or older children still residing at home.

A convenient utility room is down the hall and features a built-in ironing board and table for folding clothes.

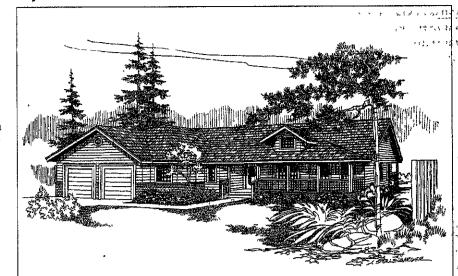

The family room/kitchen is an open area with multiple skylights to brighten the spacious breakfast nook. Kitchen features include an island cooktop, separate oven and walk-in pantry.

A formal dining room is near enough to make serving meals almost effortless.

The comfortable living room has a large bay window, and a big corner fireplace.

Family and friends will stay snug on long winter evenings while watching television, playing board games or just discussing the events of the day.

The isolated master suite is quite generous. Amenities here include a long vanity with twin basins, private bathroom, linen storage, and a sizable walk-in closet. There is also private access to a covered back porch.

The two-car garage, facing front, has an abundant storage area that can be transformed into a workshop for do-it-yourself projects.

For a study plan of the SWAPS (335-210), send $15 to Landmark Designs, Inc., 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Compact disks, with search functions are free of charge, to help you search our portfolio for you dream home ($5 shipping and handling will apply).

Or you may order or search online at www.ldiplans.com. Save 15 percent on construction plans by calling (800) 562-1151.
