Recruiter takes on task of selling Air Force mission, career

BY BRAD KADRICH STAFF WRITER

Tech. Sgt. Adam Hessler spent the first 15 years of his U.S. Air Force career walking flight lines, guarding aircraft and standing guard over his country as a member of the Air Force's security forces.

Now, Hessler is looking at it from the other side, responsible for finding new recruits to do the work after taking over new duties as the primary recruiter for the western Wayne County areas.

Hessler, 33, mans the Air Force office at the recruiting center on Ford Road in Westland. It's a different experience for a lifer who has spent 15 years traveling to various bases.

"I'm used to being at a base, so it's interesting not to be in that environment," Hessler said of his new assignment. "This community has accepted me and my family. So far, it's been a great experience all around."

Although being a recruiter isn't something he'd thought much about, being a military man has been on Hessler's mind for a long time. A Lake Orion native, Hessler figured he'd follow his brother's military march (his brother joined the Army) after graduating from Lake Orion High School in 1990.

He'd never been out of Michigan and college, he said, wasn't an option at the time. Having grown up, like many kids, valuing police officers as role models, the military security forces seemed like a natural step.

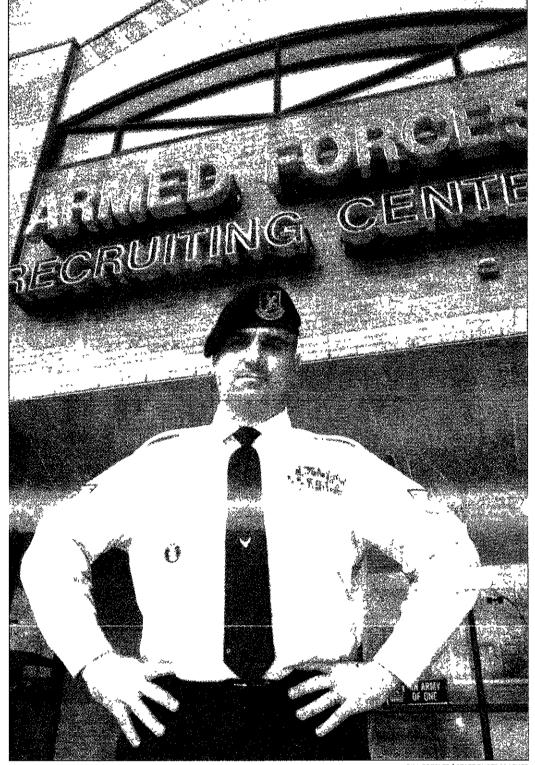

one of those role models when I was growing up. I just started looking at all my options, and it was a way to do some things I wanted to do."

He's had three different tours at bases in North Dakota, spent some time at the Pentagon and was sent overseas to Korea. After 14-plus years in security forces, a trip to the Noncommissioned Officers Academy at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla., changed the direction of his career.

"They talked a lot about giving back to the Air Force," Hessler said. "I really love my job, and the Air Force, and I wanted to give back to it."

During a second tour at Minot AFB, N.D., Hessler decided to apply to retrain as a recruiter. After being accepted, he moved his

Nurse fired for turning in thief

By the time Chaunta Horton showed up at work the night of Oct. 3, a crime had already been committed. The party store just down Michigan Avenue from Oakdale Recovery, where Horton was an employee, had already been robbed. The evidence was already at the scene. And the suspect was already back at Oakdale, a drug and alcohol abuse treatment center. Horton found him drunk, and trying to wash the mud from his telltale shoes.

It was Horton, a Belleville resident, who called Canton Police to report that the man fit the description of the suspect they were looking for. And last week she was recognized by the township Board of Trustees for making a positive impact on the community.

But Horton's employer was less than impressed with her actions that night, and two weeks after the burglary and subsequent police investigation; Horton was fired from her job.

The night started out like most others, Horton said. She reported for her midnight shift, and because the night shift at the 45-bed facility runs with a small staff, she set the alarms on the doors. She did rounds — a quick head-count to be sure that all the residents were there. She says they were.

"There were a lot of people hanging around the somen has the grays and the grass are trying to hook up, which sometimes happen, so we have to keep our eye on that," Horton said.

COPS COME KNOCKING

At 12:15 a.m., Horton said she met with staff to get the verbal report from the afternoon shift, and was interrupted by Canton Police officers.

Even that's not unusual, Horton said. The facility has occasional visits from the police, either for incidents inside Oakdale, or for investigations of incidents in the area. Officers told her about the break-in at the party store. They said there was blood at the scene, so she should be on the lookout for someone with cuts or scratches. There were muddy footprints at the erime scene, so she was to watch for someone with dirty shoes. And there was a partial case of beer at the store, so she agreed to do a quick search to see if any of the resi-

State trooper injured in freeway accident

BY KURT KUBAN STAFF WRITER

A Michigan state trooper was pinned in his patrol car and suffered a broken rib after being rammed by a cargo van near I-275 and Ford Road during a snowy Thursday morning commute.

Trooper Billy Davis, a 26-year state police veteran, had just pulled over on the south-bound I-275 exit ramp to investigate two vehicles that had spun off the road into a ditch when the van collided with his car about 9:10 a.m., according to Lt. Monica Yesh, commander of the MSP Metro South Post in Taylor.

"He pulled up to investigate two separate accidents. He had just gotten all the information from the two drivers and was filling out some paperwork when the van hit him on the driver's side door," she said.

Because of the way the van collided with the squad car, rescuers could not open the door to get to Davis, and he had to be extracted from his vehicle with the Jaws of Life, according to Yesh.

Canton fire transported Davis to University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor, where he was treated for a broken rib and other minor injuries. He was released sometime after 5 p.m., said Yesh, who wasn't sure how long Davis would need to recuperate.

"He has a pretty sore back and shoulder," she said. "When he feels like he can come back to work, he will be back on the job."

The driver of the van, Elias Agini of Sterling Heights, was issued two traffic citations — one for traveling too fast for conditions and one for no insurance.

Yesh said her troopers were busy with a number of weather-related accidents during Thursday's commute.

"There's no real way to determine how many accidents we had because some drivers were able to get themselves out of the snow and drive away. But it's safe to say we had a lot of accidents that morning," she said.

Late one morning last week, 12 toddlers gathered in the basement of a Plymouth church. They took off their hats. They took off their boots. And they tried for a few minutes to sit still, until they got the cue that it was OK to start singing and dancing.

"So many niños today!" said Jennifer Manriquez, greeting her young students with smiles and hugs. The students began to clap and sing the Welcome Song before the day's lesson, which was Felix Navidad.

Village Theater looking to heat up winter with a variety of shows

BY CAROL MARSHALL STAFF WRITER

The Village Theater at Cherry Hill is preparing for its last blast of 2005, and looking forward to a happy new year in January.

"We are almost done with events for the rest of the year, but we do have one more the night before New Year's Eve," said theater director Jennifer Tobin.

The event, Tribute to the Stars, will bring together a host of tribute artist who will imitate celebrities such as Tina Turner, Barry Manilow, Neil Diamond, Ray Charles and Diana Ross.

"The guy who plays Jack Nicholson is my favorite. He's almost better than the real Jack," Tobin said.

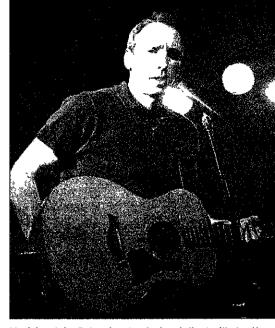

Guests are invited to join the stars and be part of the act by dressing in their very best starworthy attire.

"We want people to dress up and look, and act, like their favorite celebrities," Tobin said. "We have so many events where you can wear blue jeans to hear a symphony, and people just want to dress up at this time of year, so we thought this would be the perfect event to do that."

Coming up in January are the Donna Holman Trio, and the Gratitude Steel Band. The latter is billed as a mix of Mother Africa, Jamaica and the United States, and blends the harmonies of steel pans, electric guitar, drums and percussion.

Pianist Robin Spielberg, who will play the Village Theater on Jan. 6, is known for theatrical storytelling.

Musician John D. Lamb, a 'rock storyteller,' will play the theater on Jan. 26.

"We think people really need that kind of thing in January. When the snow is falling outside and it's cold, listening to music that warms you up is a good thing," Tobin said.

All of January is piano month at the theater, a new promotion during which Tobin hopes the Endowment for the Arts can begin raising money for the theater to buy its first Evola Music will loan the theater a piano for that month so the theater can highlight local young musicians who will be able to showcase their talent by playing in the vestibule outside the theater.

Tobin is looking for youth piano players interested in participating, and also inviting piano teachers to inquire about special pricing for events during that month. Three of the events feature Canton musicians at the keyboard. Neil Donato will take to the stage Jan. 8 to perform pop, jazz and classical numbers. Andrew Song will perform on Jan. 25, entertaining classical music lovers with selections by Chopin. And Dimas Carabello will fuse together a virtuoso piano recital with a fiesta as he performs Latin American music along with European piano pieces.

"It's amazing that all three of these artists, who are brilliant and talented, have been right here in Canton, right under our noses. It's so exciting to be able to have them here at the theater," Tobin said.

Also during piano month will be a performance by Robin Speilberg, and also by boogiewoogie blues man Mr. B, also known as Mark Braun.

For more information about the theater schedule, or to buy tickets, call the Village Theater at Cherry Hill at (734) 394-5460. To inquire about teacher rates, or about volunteering to play in the vestibule, call Jennifer Tobin at (734) 394-5484.

District files deed for Miller Woods

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton Schools Superintendent Jim Ryan has done a good deed — literally. On Wednesday, Ryan filed a 15-year-old deed restriction on 10.2 acres of the Miller Woods nature preserve in Plymouth Township, protecting it from future development.

However, it wasn't as easy as it seemed, as Ryan's efforts to file the deed restriction last month were stymied because of an error in the legal description of the property.

"We asked legal counsel to proceed and we quickly discovered the original declaration of restrictions was not in recordable form," Ryan told Board of Education members Tuesday. "Counsel also discovered an error in the legal description of the property, and they went ahead and corrected the error."

The school board approved an affidavit acknowledging the changes, and Ryan filed the deed restriction with Wayne County the next day.

The original document was approved by the Board of Education in 1991 for the woods portion of the 40acre site purchased in 1968; however, no one ever filed it with the county.

When the school board began discussing the possibility of selling the beechmaple climax forest, wetlands and wildlife sanctuary on Powell Road between North Territorial and Ridge the Friends of Miller Woods began putting pressure on the board to file the belated document. "I'm glad we didn't just attempt to file it because the county wouldn't have accepted it in the condition that it was in," said vicepresident Judy Mardigian. I know it's taken us awhile ... but it was always our intent to file the deed restriction. It just had to be done property with the i's dotted and the t's crossed."

Marcia Fowler, a member of the Friends of Miller Woods, said supporters of Miller Woods can breathe a bit better with the filing of the deed restriction.

"We're grateful the board followed through on filing the deed restriction," said Fowler. "We're hoping that since the deed restriction has been properly recorded, we could discuss with them what else we might do to preserve some of the property around the woods.

"In terms of wildlife and ecology to the property, it's important to consider not just the 10 acres as a nature preserve," she said. "If the board is really serious about maintaining the integrity of the woods, there needs to be some property around the woods. The woods doesn't end with a boundary line of 10 acres."

Student assaulted with knife

Canton police are investigating a Dec. 8 incident at the Canton Charter Academy, after a student at the elementary school there said he was assaulted by a teenager carrying a knife.

The school's principal called police on Dec. 12 to report the incident.

According to police reports, there had been a choir concert at the school on the evening of Dec. 8. At some point shortly after the concert ended, a boy had said someone tried to kill him outside the school.

The boy told police that he walked outside and a teenage boy asked him, "How's it going?" then grabbed him by the collar and held a knife over his head in a threatening man-

Police questioned the suspect's mother, who said the teenager, a student at Plymouth High School, had told her what happened. He said he had been outside playing with the knife, and a group of young kids saw him.

However, five witnesses corroborated the victim's story. Police are investigating. It is against the law to possess a weapon on school property. Prostitution complaint

Canton police arrested a prostitute Dec. 13 at the Barbu motel, 4700 Michigan Avenue.

According to police reports, the department has recently received numerous complaints about prostitution at the motel.

At approximately 11:30 p.m. Dec. 13, an officer saw a woman standing near the

COP CALLS

Michigan Avenue entrance to the Barbu, and she matched the description he heard during roll call that night.

He said he saw a man stop his car and let the woman out the passenger door. The officer followed the car, and stopped the driver when the car straddled two lanes of traffic.

The driver of the car told police he had picked up the woman because he was lonely. The two talked and she asked if he could help her out. The more they talked, the more he began to realize that she was asking for up-front payment for sexual favors.

He told police he didn't give her money, and he didn't have sex with her, but he did drop her off at the motel.

Police later questioned the woman, who admitted that twice that day, she had sex with men, in exchange for money, which she used to buy food and cigarettes. She said she had made $40 in two transactions that day.

She was arrested for prostitution and will appear at the 35th District Court in Plymouth on Dec. 27.

Snake, cats stolen

A Canton man called police after someone broke into his home on Old Michigan Avenue, and stole three cats and a snake.

According to police reports, the man said between 11 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Dec. 13, someone broke into his home. When he returned home, he found someone had taken his television, a Play Station 2 game console, DVDs, his three cats and a boa constrictor.

Badge taken

A Canton firefighter called police after he discovered someone had stolen his chrome badge right from his duty coat. He said the theft must have occurred between Dec. 5 and Dec. 12, according to police reports. His coat had been hanging in the clothing storage room during that week.

The badge is worth $30. There were numerous tour groups that were in the station during that week.

Dog at large

Canton police captured a stray dog running through a neighborhood on Dec. 13, just before 9 p.m.

According to police reports, an officer spotted the large great Dane, which was running loose on Brighton Lane. Officers asked around the neighborhood to see who the dog belongs to, and one resident said he had called Varmint Police animal control service on a couple of occasions, but the dog always ran away before they arrived.

Officers found the dog's owner, who said she was unaware that the dog was at large. Police found the dog and turned it over to the owner, who was ticketed for dog at large and for having an unlicensed dog.

Disaster training aimed at drawing Corps volunteers

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Disasters come in many forms, from hurricanes in New Orleans, explosions at an industrial plant or an apartment fire that displaces residents.

When they occur, the Salvation Army leaps into action to help not only the victims, but first responders.

"We respond to any type of disaster: flood, tornado, hurricane," said Ross Myers, who supervises the 13 mobile canteen units for eastern Michigan - from the Mackinac Bridge to the Ohio/Indiana border from his office at the Plymouth Salvation Army. "We're there to support the people in need, as well as fire and police and anyone on the scene that can't get away for food and drink."

Myers and his volunteers are on call 24 hours a day. There are nearly 30 volunteers on the Royal Oak Corps, and more than a dozen at the Corps in Dearborn Heights.

The Plymouth Corps has only eight, and Myers is hoping to gain more after an all-day training session Jan. 14, paid for with a homeland security grant.

"We'll get them acquainted with the canteen and how it operates, and teach them how to respond to an emergency," said Myers. "If we can get them trained, they can step in and know exactly what to do."

Myers is looking for people who can be called at a moment's notice, like Jeff Jones of Plymouth Township, who has been a Salvation Army volunteer the past three years.

"I had worked as a volunteer for Salvation Army working with distribution, and also the Adopt-A-Family program during the holidays," said Jones. "As I was getting ready to retire, Ross said he had an 'opportunity' for me.

"He was looking for people to work in dispeter son in added iones I had the one and he had the need, so here

Jones said he's been called out in the middle of the night Plymouth Township DPW garage to many places in metro

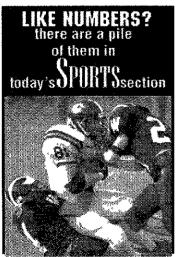

"I remember being awakened on Christmas Eve night for a condo fire in Northville," said Jones, "and saying 'Merry Christmas' to people in the Volunteers will be trained on the history, mission and structure of the Salvation Army, the types of incidents they could be sent on, and determine where they could best serve the Salvation Army.

"Not everybody can do warehouse work, food handling, spiritual care," said Maj. Bill Hogg, commander of the Plymouth Salvation Army Corps. "We'll go through the incidents, and find their niche.

"We always need volunteers, and what these classes do is give us a bank of people to be called upon when something comes up," he said. "We need people who are flexible and understand they will be stepping out of their comfort zone. It's not 9-5 work."

For the retired Jones, being available anytime the phone rings wasn't a problem.

"It's a case of having time once I retired, and wanting to give something back to the community," said Jones, who worked for Ford Visteon in Saline. "There is a lot of reward and satisfaction in that."

Auditions set for Lions Clubs Band

The Lions Clubs of Michigan are séeking area high school students to participate in their annual Ali-State Band program.

The Internationally acclaimed youth activity has represented the Lions of Michigan for nearly 30 years at the International Association of Lions Clubs International Convention. Since its inception, the Lions of Michigan All-State Band has had more 300 Michigan communities represented by area musicians.

Our program strives to provide our members with musical and sociological growth, travel and education and exposure to serving those less fortunate, the motto of Lions Clubs," said Roger Weyersberg, director.

He added that the Lions Band program is developed to compliment the students' own music program and to return them as "improved performers through excellent music literature and high-quality instruction."

We also strive to have the students return as better leaders in their own program," said

Weyersberg.
The band program seeks individuals of all performance levels, including visual and drill teams. The band will conduct its annual auditions on Saturday, Jan. 14, at Haslett High School.

It will hold a rehearsal weekend in April and May and, prior to departing on its 10-day tour, the band will hold band camp at Michigan State University June 22-25.

This year's band tour will take students to Gettysburg, Hershey and Philadelphia, Pa., Boston and Salem, Mass., and Cleveland, Ohio.

"Our tour is directed by the location of the International Association Convention, which is scheduled for Boston June 29-July 4," said Brian Shepard, chief executive officer of the Lions Band Program.

Past tours have taken the band to such locations as Hong Kong, Tokyo, Sidney, Beijing and Honolulu.

"The band has provided past students with travel experiences that many may never have had a chance to do otherwise" Shepard said.

Performances include such venues as hospitals or public parks. The band also will perform in the International Parade and have an opportunity to perform in a mass band concert with other Lions Band programs attending the convention. Students are responsible for their portion of the tour cost. Students pay for no administrative cost of the program. This year's tour cost is $1,875. The tour cost includes all meals, including rehearsal weekends, lodging, and transportation while on tour and travel uniforms.

For more tour information or an application visit the Web site at

Regional Chamber launches economic project

The Detroit Regional Chamber announced Thursday that it is launching a first-ofits-kind initiative called "Design Regional Detroit" to develop and implement a blueprint for achieving long-term economic prosperity in Southeast Michigan.

"Design Regional Detroit' is a two-year collaborative project that will marshal the resources and talents of the best minds in the region to chart a decisive course for the next 10 to 20 years and beyond," said Chamber President and CEO Richard E.

"This is a massive, unparalleled undertaking. It's ambitious in outlook and bold in scope ~ and it's long overdue," Blouse said. "Other metropolitan areas across the country have experienced tangible results through similar initiatives. It's time we did the same. We don't have the luxury of sitting back and simply ietting it happen

Edsel B. Ford H will serve as champion of the project. Blouse praised Ford for heeding the call to serve as the project's official champion.

I ne fact that a community leader and business icon has agreed to take on this critical role underscores the impact and significance of this project," he said. "This is an unprecedented opportunity to shape our future, and I commend Edsel Ford for stepping up and making this commitment for our future.

"Design Regional Detroit" will take an inclusive, broadbased approach and will seek to include established as well as emerging business leaders. Furthermore, it will yield a specific action plan with a long-term vision for the area's future. The goals for the initiative include:

- Identifying regional priorities which offer the great economic and social benefit to the
- greatest number of people ■ Provide measurable objectives for sustained economic
- growth and prosperity ■ Create strategies to meet those objectives
- Design specific indicators for monitoring and evaluating progress Although the Chamber is spearheading the initiative "Design Regional Detroit will emphasize inclusion by engaging and involving a wide range of diverse people, organizations, geographical locations and sectors including business, government, labor, civic, religious and nonprofit stakeholders. Ford will lead an advisory committee of energetic, hard-working leaders who, as he put it, "are willing to roll up their sleeves and make things happen."

In his role as champion, Edsel B. Ford II, board director and consultant at Ford Motor Co. and former COO of Ford Motor Credit, will provide leadership for the initiative and involve a broad group of stakeholders and advocates from across the region. This role is a natural extension of Ford's deep commitment to the community. He previously served as chair of Detroit 300, which planned the city's 300th anniversary celebration, and currently is the former chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago-Detroit Branch and chairman of the National Advisory Board of the Salvation Army.

"As a member of a family that traces its roots in this community back more than 150 years, I'm thrilled to have the opportunity to work with the Depoil R gronal chamber and all the tricebolders or this a relatively short period of time, but I'm confident the meaningtui project," said Ford. "We have a lot of work to do in results will benefit the future generations in Southeast Michigan, who are depending on the outcome of this collaborative effort."

Once he gets his feet wet, his superiors believe Hessler will be a good fit. His biggest challenge, according to his boss, could be answering questions about the Iraq war. The Air Force doesn't have a huge presence other than flight crews, though, so it shouldn't be much of an impediment.

"Answering the Iraq question will be his biggest challenge," said Tech Sgt. Donna Williams, recruiting flight chief for the metro Detroit area, stationed in Livonia. "That question comes up a lot in school visits, even though we don't have a huge presence over there. But (Hessler) will do fine. He's very sharp, very intelligent."

School visits are something Hessler is getting used to, because he spends a lot of time there. He's responsible for recruiting in Plymouth-Canton, Wayne-Westland, Romulus and Van Buren schools, and it's something he enjoys doing.

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, December 18, 2005

Much of that time he spends dispelling the myth everyone in the Air Force flies a plane. In truth, Hessler said, only about 4 percent of Air Force members fly.

"Everyone thinks the Air Force just flies," Hessler said. "When they find out 96 percent of us do other things, they're enthusiastic, because they think the only way to get in is to be able to fly."

Hessler signed on for a three-year tour as a recruiter, and he's not sure what he'll do when that time is up.

"I love this, but I loved the security forces, too, and I miss that," Hessler said. "My original plan was to do this for three years, then go back to my original job. But I love this, so who

Can drive aids breast cancer patient

While Plymouth resident Jennifer Hayse continues her fight against breast cancer by getting treatment in Israel, friends and supporters are trying to help back home.

The "Jen Possible Community Can Drive" started Friday and runs through Dec. 23 at Bellavino Market on Ann Arbor Road (at Lilley) in Plymouth and at Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish School in Plymouth.

Hayse, a 34-year-old mother of three, has been in Israel since mid-November in an effort to fight her breast cancer. Hayse expects to be there another several months and will miss the Christmas holiday with her children.

Members of the Plymouth-Canton community are being asked to bring redeemable soda cans to either location to raise money for the Jennifer Hayse Family Assistance Fund. The treatment Hayse is undergoing in Israel is not covered by health insur-

Cans can be dropped off at Bellavino 8 a.m.-7 p.m. every day, and at the OLGC School, 1151 William, 8 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday-Friday. "She has great hopes this treatment will save her life," said Cindy Peterson, one of the people organizing the can drive. "We hope the community can unite together to help this special family in their time of need." Peterson said the JenPossible team also wanted to thank Bellavino, OLGC, FedEx Kinko's and the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for their assistance.

dents had beer bottles.

Before returning to complete reports, she said she took a group of residents out for a cigarette (she had to take them out because opening the door would trip the alarm system), then returned to her paperwork for a few minutes.

Normally Horton doesn't do rounds on the side of the building that houses men. But since the police asked her to keep her eyes open for a suspect, she asked a male staffer to accompany her so that she could do rounds on both sides of the facility.

Horton found what police were looking for. In one of the rooms were beer bottles. She conducted a breath test of every client, and found that seven were inebriated, and one refused the test. She found one resident's muddy shoes in the off-limits laundry room. The owner of the shoes had cuts on his arms, like police said the culprit would have.

She called a supervisor, and told her what was happening, and after she said she got a nod to do so, Horton called the police and the suspect was arrested.

LONG SHIFT

Horton said there was a lot of commotion that night — a fight among two of the residents had erupted at one point, and the facility had a late-night admission — and she didn't finish her shift until nearly 10 a.m. In the days after the incident, she asked if she had written the reports properly and if the matter was handled acceptably, and never received any negative comment, Horton said.

At least she didn't hear anvthing bad until two weeks later, when she was informed she was being fired. Horton said the reason for her dismissal was for failure to secure the facility, staff and clients. Yet, by the time she arrived at work, the client suspected in the crime was in the facility and he was not able to leave after Horton arrived.

"On midnights, no one can get in or out without tripping the alarm," Horton said. "It doesn't make any sense to me." In the four years Horton worked at Oakdale, she'd never been reprimanded she said. She was never late, and didn't call off work except when her father died. She thought she was an exemplary employee who loved her job.

A spokeswoman for Hegira Programs, which owns and operates Oakdale, said there's little the company can disclose about Horton's termination.

"Because of personnel issues and confidentiality, all I can say is that Ms. Horton was dismissed. She was dismissed for performance issues," said Carol Digiuseppe, Hegira director of programs.

RECOGNIZED AS HERO

Horton is still trying to figure out what she would like to do next. Part of her wants to just find another job as a licensed practical nurse. Yet another part of her believes that what happened to her is wrong, and her husband has asked her to consider filing a wrongful termination complaint.

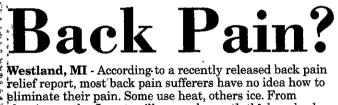

The Canton Township Board of Trustees recognized Horton last week for acting in a way that made a difference in the community. The trustees were shocked by Horton's revelation that she'd been fired after the

"I am personally crushed by what happened to you," Township Supervisor Tom Yack

But Horton has a hard time harboring ill feelings toward her former employer, and considers herself blessed for the opportunity to have worked there.

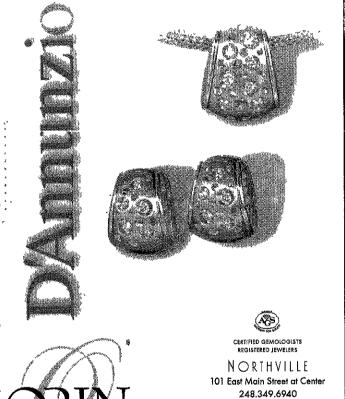

"I'm just blessed in every way, really. I have a wonderful husband, a wonderful family," she said.

were doing could be invaluable to them in the future, according to one student's mother, Plymouth Township resident Beth Ineson. The children are taking classes from Manriquez, a Canton resident, who teaches Spanish to toddlers and preschoolers and their parents. It's Manriquez's goal to give the youngsters the knowledge base they need to grow up bilingual.

"It's important in the world we live in," Ineson said. "Most people in the world communicate in languages other than English, and our second language in this country really is Spanish. Even if it's just to be sensitive and compassionate to others, knowing how to speak Spanish is valuable.'

Ineson's 2-year-old son, Jack, has been in the classes since he was 10 months old. Her 15month-old daughter has now joined big brother in the class-

Manriquez started teaching classes three years ago, when her daughter Emily was a baby. A former high school Spanish teacher who is raising her own children in a bilingual household, she recognized the value of teaching language to very young children.

"At this age, they're like a sponge and you have a real window of opportunity to teach them. she said of her youngest

When she first started teaching, her classes met in her Canton living room. But they grew so fast and became so popular, she started renting space in a Plymouth Township church.

Recently, Manriquez has expanded the scope of her classes a little further by producing a video, "Bilingual Fun, Spanish for Children.

"I never expected this to make a lot of money or anything. I mostly wanted to do it for my students to use as a learning tool at home. But it's been really taking off. It's selling very well," Manriquez said.

The key to success for her students is repetition at home, which the DVD helps students

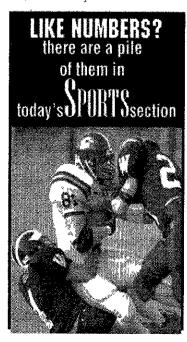

"If it's reinforced and repeated at home, these kids will grow up bilingual," Manriquez

The video is the first in what will be a series of videos, structured by theme, just like Manriquez's classes. The first video focuses on colors, numbers, animals and action verbs. They, like the classes, include music and interactive activities.

Classes are held at the First Baptist Church of Plymouth. The cost is $100 for nine classes. For more information, visit online at www.bilingualfun.com, or email Manriquez at jennifer@bilingualfun.com.

The Salvation Army Red Kettle Drive donations off 30 percent

The Salvation Army Eastern Michigan Division's Red Kettle Christmas Campaign is currently $625,000 short of its targeted pace and is on track to fall short of the $7 million goal by at least 29 percent.

To date, the campaign has brought in $2.66 million, just 38 percent of the total $7 million needed to maintain current service levels in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties in 2006.

The Salvation Army's $7 million goal represents real need as reflected by the fact that Detroit has been ranked our nation's poorest city. In Michigan alone last year, 1.2 million people relied on the Salvation Army for basic assistance like food, shelter, and clothing. The Salvation Army's tremendous outreach, including programs serving the elderly, homeless, addicted, and even pregnant teens, is only possible through the use of the funds raised during The Salvation Army's Red Kettle Christmas Campaign.

"Imagine what Detroit will be like next year if we have to

'We've got our own tsunami here at home 365 days a year. The Salvation Army helped so many around the world through tremendous disasters this year. But I'm worried that we won't be able to help our own community, which is facing a critical

Students reach out to Latino families

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Alicia Maturen, Jane Spiteri and Andrea Stuecheli all teach Spanish at Plymouth High School.

But, it may be the precepts about life that will be the biggest lesson of all and earn students an 'A' this semester.

Nearly 70 Spanish students from the three classes adopted more than two dozen families from Latino Family Services in Detroit, and on Friday delivered two busloads of food, clothing, toys and other Christmas gifts to people less fortunate than themselves.

When the teachers first explained it, everyone's eyes opened up," said Ally Ciotti, 16, of Canton Township. "I felt depressed for the rest of the day because so many people don't have what we took for granted. The next day, people were bringing in clothes, toys, everything."

This year's goal was to double the 13 families Maturen's and Spiteri's classes helped last Christmas. With gifts that included simple necessities, students assisted 119 people from 29 families seeking support for the holiday season.

"Sometimes the moms wouldn't list anything for themselves, but wanted things for their kids," said Maturen. "Some asked for food and underwear. One wanted a bed, and we found a used one.

"I want students to understand these aren't poor people somewhere in Mexico who live in boxes," she said. 'They're poor people who live only 20 minutes away."

Students picked up the lesson quickly, collecting clothes, blankets, coats, food and toys.

Plymouth High Spanish students Hanna Bentley, Lauren Koehler and Amy Shoemaker wrap gifts for clients of Latino Family Services in Detroit.

'To realize there are people so close to you that don't have anything," said Ciotti. "It's really important that you reach out to them."

For Katie Fiedler, 16, of Plymouth Township, it was a real eye opener.

"We're giving to families who are less fortunate, and who won't receive any gifts for Christmas unless someone helps them," said Fiedler. "It really opens our eyes to see how much we have.

"I think it's kind of cool you're helping Spanish families with kids from a Spanish class," she said. "It's a connection, so when you actually go visit them, you can use your Spanish and it brings it together for you."

Students did get to visit with the families they collected necessities and gifts for, which is one reason why Maturen started the program

"That's a challenge for them because a lot of the families don't speak any English," said Maturen. "Last year, they were translating through some of the four- and fiveyear-olds who spoke English."

Alicia Villarreal, president and CEO of Latino Family Services, says without the help of people like Plymouth-Canton Schools students, there would be many families who wouldn't have Christmas at all. "It's really nice when youths come together to support families during the holidays," said Villarreal. "It's a strong statement of compassion and caring and giving.

"It's making a difference in someone's lives," she said. "You see tears from people who didn't know if they could meet the needs of their families this year."

Spiteri said she's not surprised by the generosity of Plymouth-Canton students.

"Teenagers really are compassionate, kind and considerate," said Spiteri. "They're always fund raising to help out in the community. They're amazing in how they come through."

Friends strike deal to purchase Penn Theatre

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

When Brian West saw the flyer about efforts to save the Penn Theatre in downtown Plymouth earlier this year, he was curious about the future of the landmark that's been standing across the street from Kellogg Park since 1941.

"I researched the Penn on the Internet, and there was a posting by Jennifer (Philpot-Munson) about efforts to save the theater," said West, 37, the creative director for an advertising agency. "I thought maybe I could provide some kind of marketing and advertising support."

West, who lives not far from the Penn, wandered to the Coffee Beanery, where nearly 50 other people gathered to talk about what could be done to save the historic theater, which — at the time — was being threatened with demoli-

"There was a lot of brainstorming," remembered West. Our main objective was to reach as many people as we could, let the people know the building was in danger of being demolished. We had no ideas, at that point, what might be done."

A core group went on to start the Friends of the Penn, a preservationist group whose purpose is to save the Penn from the wrecking ball, and remain a viable venue for Plymouth's family entertainment.

Be careful what you ask for. After months of negotiations, Penn co-owner Chris Knight announced he and his partner, Pat Tortora, have agreed to sell the theater to the Friends for $1.2 million.

"They have to see if they can raise the money," said Knight, who reportedly paid $975,000 for the old theater. "If they can raise it, a deal has been struck."

The Friends of the Penn have two months to determine if they can come up with the money. Not only to take ownership, but refurbish the theater, which has been dark for nearly two years. The group put down a $10,000 deposit.

"We have 60 days for due" diligence to evaluate where we are with fund-raising," said West. "Our hope is we're able to do what we can to secure the building without having a land contract."

Preliminary estimates indicated the group needs about a million more than the purchase price to renovate the the-

An agreement to purchase the building is only the first step.

"Our advisory board has told us we have a solid plan," said West. "We're not only trying to save the Penn, but make it a first-class venue for affordable entertainment in the center of downtown.

'We're going to encourage a harmonious relationship between all the arts and community groups, so they know we are trying to re-open the theater for the entire community, not just as a movie theater," he said. "By doing this, we will help secure Plymouth's future as a first-class visitor destination."

West is quick to point out that the Friends of the Penn "haven't done anything yet," because the deal hinges on fund-raising, some of which they hope to get from the 3,000 subscribers to the group's e-mail updates.

"The theater has not been saved, it's merely the first obstacle that's been cleared," said West. "But, it's no denying this is a good thing."

The Plymouth Community Arts Council has been approached about contributing financially to the Penn Theatre

"That has been discussed by our board, but we have not yet committed," said Stella Greene, executive director. "We're exploring all options. Certainly. being downtown and centrally located is a benefit for us and all non-profit cultural programs." Knight, who remembers going to the Penn to see movies as a child, is hopeful) the Friends can come up with

"We (Knight and Tortora) hope they do it, they are a good fit for Plymouth because they will keep it a theater," said Knight.

"Financially speaking, we[?] could have done better tearing it down," he said. "But, being we both grew up here, we wanted to maintain the theater as the center of town."

Rotary yule party packs them in

BY JULIE BROWN STAFF WRITER

Erma Thompson and Larry Slavin were all dressed up with someplace to go last Sunday afternoon.

The Canton residents and friends were waiting at the Plymouth Cultural Center for the doors to open for Plymouth A.M. Rotary's sixthannual senior Christmas party.

"I think it's lovely, Thompson said. "I think it's very nice."

Slavin agreed, and appreciated the help of the hardworking Youth Leadership Plymouth and Interact students. (Interact is Rotary's high school program.)

"It's nice that they have it. This one I look forward to," he said. "Those teenagers are so energetic. They want to help so much."

The 200 seniors came from Tonquish Creek Manor in Plymouth, Independence Village in Plymouth Township and the community in general.

"We have lots of entertainment," said organizer Steve Alexandrowski, a Rotarian. There was singer/songthe Central Middle School eighth-grade girls' choir under director Janine Grady, storytelling by Judge Ron Lowe of the 35th District Court, Miss Harriet's Dancers under the direction of Miss Terry, and Dr. Tom Clark as pianist/soloist. Evola Music of Canton furnished the piano, said organizer Bob Scoggins, who came up with the party idea years

"We do it to honor our seniors in our community for all they've given to us. We want to honor them with a special night at Christmas time," said Scoggins, retired city of Plymouth police chief and past club president.

The Youth Leadership Plymouth and Interact students do an excellent job, Scoggins said, and seniors respond well to the presence of young people. "It's that energy they bring," he said.

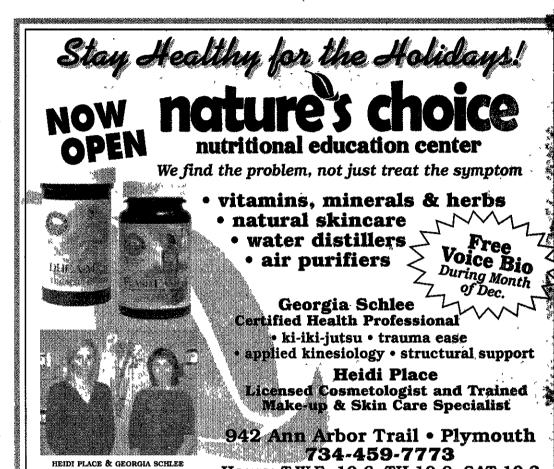

Santa wrapped things up Sunday with a visit and singing of Christmas carols.

Alexandrowski and Scoggins find the party has been a popular event. The party helps "show them how them," Scoggins said. "We keep them in the spirit."

Rotarians again contributed to the success of the event with such varied tasks as decorating, helping to serve meals and cleaning up. Rotarian Nick Schultz of Sealant Equipment & Engineering made a contribution, along with Ruth Martin of Remerica Hometown One and Bill Pratt of Management and Tax Services. Larry Bird of Gabriala's in Plymouth provided gifts at cost, and fellow Rotarian Kathy Hosten, who does catering, made the fancy

"It's an especially hard time of year for many seniors," added Alexandrowski. "I'd sav it's one of our best projects. I don't think anything else we do reaches so many people."

Plans are already under way for next December's event, offered free of charge to seniors attending. Plymouth A.M. Rotarians continued their holiday endeavors Wednesday night by hosting a party for Infant and Preschool Special Education Program families at Tanger Center.

Senate candidates face off at 'showdown'

BY ALEX LUNDBERG STAFF WRITER

Everybody matters.

Republican candidates to challenge Democrat Debbie

Stabenow next November faced off Dec.5 at the "Showdown in Motown." The Rev. Keith Butler, Jerry Zandstra and Oakland County themselves to voters and air their thoughts on the issues of the day.

Sheriff Michael Bouchard attended the candidate forum hosted by the 9th Congressional District Republican Party, to introduce

The forum was moderated by

The forum was moderated by Republican National Committeeman for Michigan and RNC Vice Chair Chuck Yob, who kicked off the roundtable with a question any Republican could score with — whether or not the budget could be balanced with a tax increase.

"There isn't a deficit because revenues are too low," Zandstra said. "It's there because federal government spending is out of control. It's time to return some kind of fiscally responsible leadership to Washington."

Butler agreed, citing items like the $450 million bridge project in Alaska as signs that Congressional pork projects are the problem. The bridge funding initiative was championed by Republican Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska.

Bouchard said the only thing higher taxes would do is tank the economy.

While all three candidates echoed traditional Republican themes — anti-abortion, antigay marriage, gun rights and lower taxes — they all said they'd support Arizona Sen.

John McCain's anti-torture legislation. President George W. Bush has promised to veto the measure.

"There are a variety of (interrogation) methods that don't use force and with the proper training, you can bring forth information," Bouchard said.

Butler said the United States has to do everything it can to protect the nation, but not things that are outside the law. Zandstra said torture says more about the torturer and sends a message to the world about who we as a nation think we are.

On the topic of curbing illegal immigration, the three agreed that it was at its heart a national security issue.

Bouchard said the problem of illegal immigration highlights failings in border control in general — you can't really protect the country if you don't know who's there. Zandstra said the police have all the technology they need to do the job, all that's lacking is the will to use them.

Republican Senatorial hopefuls (from left) Jerry Zandstra, Rev. Keith Butler and Oakland County Sheriff Michael Bouchard echoed mainstream Republican themes as they addressed the 9th Congressional District Republican Party at Cross of Christ Lutheran Church Tuesday. One of the three will face Democratic Sen. Debbie Stabenow in the upcoming November election.

"But if you come to this country, it's you that has to be the one that changes."

The economy, both at the state and national level, was of concern to the candidates.

Zandstra said Michigan has 22 percent higher costs of doing business than any other state in the nation and therefore the state's tax structure must be changed. Butler agreed, saying Michigan's economic woes could be chalked up to taxation, litigation and regulation.

"In government, if it grows, tax it. If it moves, regulate it," Bouchard said. "We've got to incentivize and get rid of regulation. When you look at the global economy, we don't have a level playing field here."

The candidates agreed that a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision to allow eminent domain property forfeiture for economic redevelopment was a serious breach of the public trust and proof that the court needs justices who respect property rights.

The big question of who has what it takes to beat Sen. Debbie Stabenow rounded out the discussion.

"At the end of the day, we all want to beat Debbie," Bouchard said. "I've won 14 elections in Oakland County and when Bush lost the county, I got 64 percent of the vote. I have the base that's proxen to wit

Stabenow is valuetable on economic issues," Zandstra said. "The ideal Republican candidate is going to be strong on social issues, but also understand how the economy works."

"(Republicans) lost nine of 10 elections because we haven't drawn enough Democrats to vote for us," Butler said. "To beat Stabenow, we have to get votes where she gets votes. I've done that."

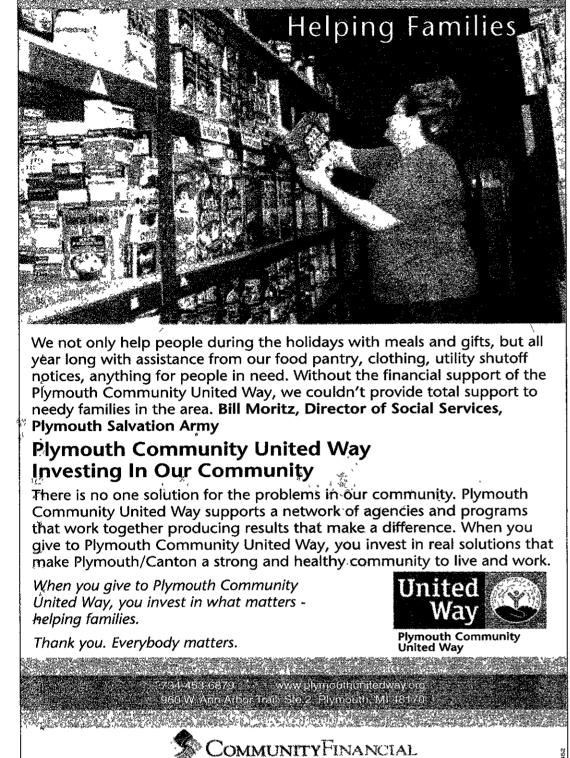

Bill Walker of Bloomfield Township was in the minority at the roundtable. He was one of the approximately 200 attendees who didn't know who he'd vote for.

"I think all of them bring something to the party that could beat Stabenow," he said. "It's so far in advance of the election, it's hard to tell how it would go."

He said a lot of the outcome of the race next November, whoever ends up being the candidate, will have to do with the party's fortunes on the national scale.

Yob said the party has to work harder to bring home the bacon in Oakland County. The county hasn't delivered for a Republican presidential candidate since Ronald Reagan was in office.

"For some reason, we can't deliver the vote for the top of the ticket," Yob said. "This is a diverse population a lot of people are coming up from Detroit"

It's only a nightmare, it's only the phantom ghost of Christmas yet to be, but depending on how negotiations go in Gongress the FBI may continue to be engaged in lethal combat with my wife and other dangerous librarians for the next four years..

Gallagher Who knew that behind those glasses and conservative dress lurked the seeds of our destruction.

Or at least that's what some FBI agents seem to think.

The House voted Wednesday 251-174 to reauthorize the USA Patriot Act, following a House-Senate Conference agreement Dec. 8 that makes most provisions of the act permanent and extends two controversial provisions - on roving wiretaps and the library cause celebre Section 215. U.S. Rep. Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, joined his Republican colleagues in voting for the renewal, despite having voiced reservations about some provisions on several occasions.

Sixteen provisions of the act are set to expire by Dec. 31 so congressional action is needed. On Friday the Republican leadership in the Senate was unable to get the 60 votes needed to head off a filibuster. The cloture vote was 52-47. Now intense negotiations begin to provide more safeguards for our liberties in the wake of a New York Times story Friday that the President authorized illegal spying on people in the United States without judicial warrants following 9/11.

Section 215, which allows easier access to business records including bank records, bookstore sales and library records, has become a rallying point for the nation's librarians. Supporters of the act argue that investigative agencies such as the FBI need to see these records to fight terrorism. Opponents say this is an unnecessary invasion of privacy and a potential danger to free expression by allowing government monitoring of what people read.

The section allows investigators to obtain "any tangible thing (including books, records, papers, documents and other items)" as long as they are sought in connection of a "terror investigation."

The Justice Department says the law has never been used against libraries or bookstores, but that's no guarantee that it wouldn't be used. The American Library Association and civil liberties groups have been fighting since implementation of the act to protect library and bookstore records and to end the frightening "gag rule" that prohibits anyone who receives a Section 215 order from talking about it with anyone.

The conference compromise allows a recipient of a 215 order to speak with an attorney and challenge the order before a judge. The FBI will be required to present facts that show they are conducting a "terror" investigation, but it still allows a lot of leeway for random investigation.

New documents released under the Freedom of Information Act show the frustration of FBI agents seeking warrants from the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court and one agent zeroes in on the true culprits.

The memo which is now a badge of honor for librarians everywhere reads: "The inability of FBI investigators to use this seemingly effective tool has had a direct and clearly adverse impact on our terrorism cases. Quite frankly, agents have spent the last two years screwing around with weak NSLs (National Security Letters) or using made up 'voluntary' NSLs literally begging people to give us information in our terrorism cases The fact that this new FISA tool has languish(stet) for two years - with no likely usage in the future - is nuts. While radical, militant librarians kick us around - true terrorists benefit from OIPR's (Office of Intelligence Policy and Review) failure to let us use the tools given

This memo from 2003 has been exhibited by some as a testimony to the restrictions that keep overzealous FBI agents from acting. Others might also see in this memo how easy it is for government agencies to see themselves as above the law, above the Constitution and kicking and screaming to be allowed to use their powers in the "war on terror," which becomes anything they

J. Edgar Hoover used his investigative powers in fights against Communism and organized crime to maintain himself in power and blackmail elected government officials. The FBI history, storied as it is, has this dark cloud that rains a warning when they are given too much power.

Terrorism, like Communism and Nazism before it, are terrible things, because they threaten our freedom, "our way of life." The president is always saying that "our way of life" is what terrorists are trying to destroy. Librarians and others argue that if we destroy our own freedoms, we help the terrorists get what they want.

Sacrificing freedom for safety is a poor bargain. My wife is thinking about wearing a T-shirt with "Radical Militant Librarian" on the front and "We kicked the FBI's butt" on the back. Tom Paine would be proud.

New drunken driving rule is unfair to the accused n Jan. 1, 2006, a new court rule will go into effect that will require the majority of Michigan drunken driving cases to be resolved by trial or plea of guilty with-

This is a significant change in the law, because it formalizes and shortens time limits that already exist, and does so squarely at the expense of the rights of the drunken driving accused. In fact, one may argue that as a consequence of passing this new rule, the Supreme Court has inadvertently compro-Constitution it is meant to uphold. This is because such short time limits make it extremely difficult and in some cases impossible for the accused to obtain a fair trial.

Our state and federal constitutions both provide that every person who is accused of a crime has a fundamental due process right to know the facts upon which the prosecutor claims the law has been broken. In the context of drunken driving, the necessary information includes, at a minimum, the narrative reports prepared by the police who arrested the alleged drunken driver, any videotapes that may exist and all the information required to show that the equipment used to test the motorist's breath or blood was working properly.

Obtaining this information takes time, in many cases several weeks, and sometimes even months.

Nevertheless, it is only after all of this necessary information is obtained. reviewed and analyzed that a defense attorney and his or her client can determine if any of the motorist's rights have been violated by the police, or if the breath or blood test is unreliable or inaccurate.

There are many reasons why problems with chemical testing may occur, but without adequate research time it is not possible to know if the results can or should support a conviction. Then, if problems that adversely impact the accuracy of the breath or blood test are uncovered, these problems must be brought to the attention of the court. This process is called "motion practice" and requires that written arguments be presented to the judge and prosecutor and sometimes that testimony be taken from witnesses in court. Motion practice requires additional time, usually several more weeks or months. Once this process is complete, then - and only then — is it proper to set a case for trial. If the case is immediately set for trial, there will be no time to for the defense to complete this necessary pretrial investigaz.

tion. Devising a system that will assure that ${}^{{}^{i}_{6}}{}^{i}{}^{a}$ the accused will obtain this information. quickly enough to satisfy the court rule will require that police departments and prosecuting attorney offices hire more staff to process and disseminate the required information. Realistically, the costs involved in such an endeavor means that necessary staff additions are unlikely. Technology might solve the problem as well, but this represents an even bigger financial investment.

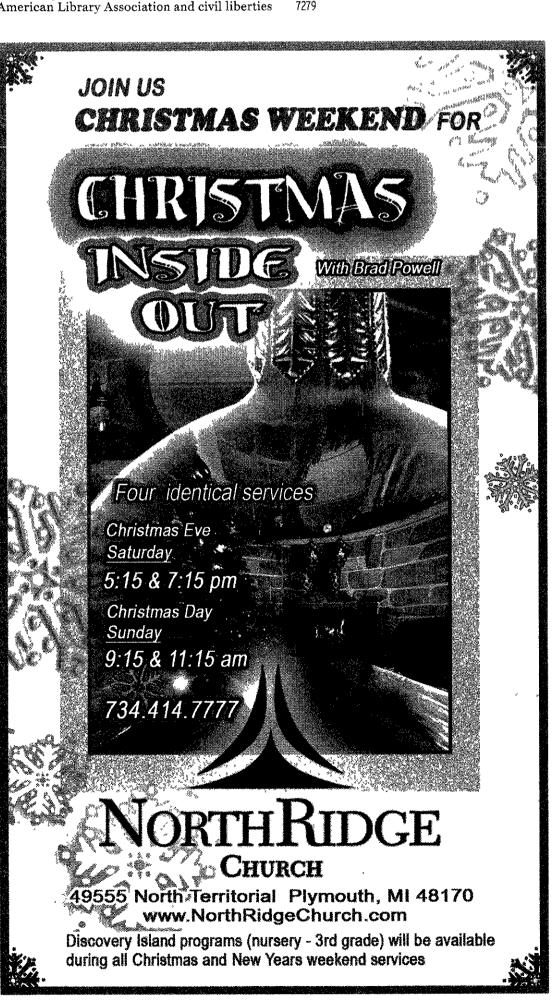

In response to these problems, the district judges are likely to simply set cases to trial long before all the facts are known to the drunken driving accused and, in so doing, place the burden of compliance back on the accused. In other words, the burden. will be placed exactly where the Constitution dictates that it does not belong.

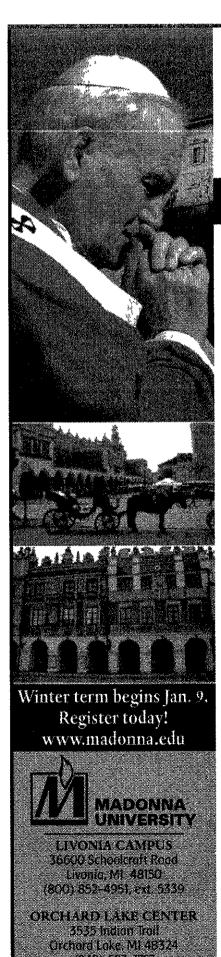

The court rule has not yet gone into effect, so it's not entirely clear what the overall effect will be, but it is very likely that this severely abbreviated judicial process will cause extreme pressure on the drunken driving accused to simply plead guilty to the charges. This situation places the accused in an untenable position, because the rule essentially requires that the drunken driving accused make the most important decision they will face in, their case, which is the decision to plead guilty or go to trial, long before they have all the necessary information. The end result will be either the drunken driving accused pleads guilty when, in fact, he of she is not, or be forced to go to trial with-out adequate information or preparation.

Either way, the rule creates circumstances whereby our system of government $^{\prime}$ and ultimately our Constitutional freedoms are in danger of being undermined and 🚗 eroded, and for no other reason than base, expediency.

It is beyond question that drunken driving is a societal problem, and that because drunken driving is such an unpopular crime there will be no public outrage over the unrealistic time limits and probable Constitutional violations this new rule creates. What should cause public concern, however, is that when the rights of the criminally accused are placed into jeopardy, as they are with this rule, every citizen is endangered, whether he or she realizes it or not.

KVC courts four Western Lakes schools

STAFF WRITER

The Kensington Valley Conference is looking to expand and four members of the Western Lakes Activities Association appear to be on the "most wanted" list.

The Observer has learned that the KVC has already entered into preliminary talks and has approached WLAA members Walled Lake Central, Western and Northern, along with Northville - about joining for the 2007-08 school year

The KVC currently consists of eight schools bordering the I-96 corridor -Novi, Brighton, Pinckney, Milford, White Lake Lakeland, Howell, South Lyon and Hartland.

Two new schools, Howell Parker and South Lyon East, have already been admitted as members and will start KVC play within the next two years.

Bringing in the four WLAA schools would make the Kensington Valley a 14team conference.

"It's all preliminary, but they (KVC) wants a decision made by the end of the school year (2006)," Northville athletic director Bryan Masi said. "There are some attractive things and some things which would be hard to leave the WLAA.

"We share a lot of similarities as far as what they do and we do, which are a full complement of sports. We also are associated already in middle school sports, which is a natural. But you have to weigh everything. Everything is preliminary and we don't know which direction we'll go."

The WLAA currently consists 12 schools divided into two divisions including the Lakes: Salem, Livonia Churchill, Livonia Stevenson, Walled Lake Northern, Walled Lake Central and Westland John Glenn; and the Western: Livonia Franklin, Plymouth, Walled Lake Western, Wayne Memorial, Canton and Northville.

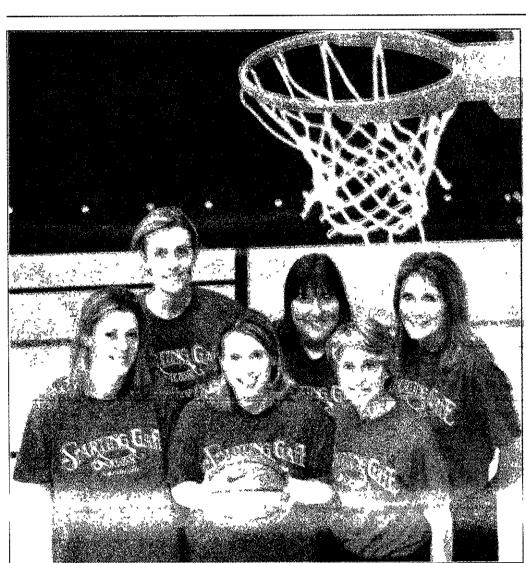

Walled Lake Central principal Dave Barry confirmed discussions between his district and the KVC will take place again in February when the principals meet.

'We were approached and they recently met with our athletic directors," Barry said. "But any decision by us right now is premature. They (the KVC) want an answer by the end of this year.

"As far as analyzing the pluses and minuses? What has to be considered are travel times, distance and transportation

"Also, there are comparable sports. The Western Lakes doesn't have bowling or lacrosse. There's also figure skating and snow boarding."

During the 2002-03 school year, the WLAA lost three members - Farmington, Farmington Hills Harrison and North Farmington - to Oakland Activities Association, which currently consists of 25 schools. The OAA became attractive to the Farmington schools because it grouped each sport individually into divisions by past performance and strength of schedule. They were replaced the same year by Wayne Memorial (from the Michigan Mega Conference) and two new schools, Plymouth and Walled Lake Northern.

Local women find full-court enjoyment while playing recreational basketball

With heavy snow falling at a relentless pace, driving from Canton to Ann Arbor on the night of Dec. 8 was almost as enjoyable as dribbling through a full-court press with roller skates on.

But the near-blizzard conditions didn't deter several area women from making their weekly trek down M-14 to play in a Thursday night basketball league coordinated by the Ann Arbor Community Recreation and Education Department.

Cousino triples its pleasure in 67-49 victory over Salem

Three-mendous.

That's the word that best describes Warren Cousino's long-range shooting during the first half of Friday night's game against Salem.

The Patriots (2-1) treated 20-foot bombs like they were layups, swishing 10-of-15 triples in the first half of their 67-49 road victory over the Rocks. The loss dropped Salem to 0-3.

"Cousino scored 87 in a game last week, so we knew they could shoot," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "When the other team is draining threes like they were in the first half, you know you're in for a long night. A couple of their long shots were uncontested, which I wasn't happy about. But for the most part, we were right there with them and the ball went in anyway."

The Patriot with the hottest hand was senior guard Danny Schmelzer, who went 6-for-7 from beyond the arc in the first half before finishing with a gamehigh 22 points. Schmelzer connected on four of his triples from a few feet behind the line with a Salem defender's hand waving a few inches from his face.

Cousino senior forward Joe Rivard also enjoyed a productive evening, netting 15 points. Nine of his points were the result of triples.

"We like to freelance on offense, but we're always setting screens and trying to get Danny and Joe open outside," said Cousino coach Brad Nettles. "We were definitely successful at doing that "It really is an honor to play against Salem because Bob is a coaching legend. It looks like he has some nice tools to work with this year. They play very

TRIPLE THREATS

Salem's basketball team was victimized by a pair of sharp-shooting, long-distance Warren Cousino players in Friday night's 67-49 setback. Following are some of the three-point stats from the game:

The Patriots' Danny Schmelzer buried 6-of-7 three-pointers in the first half alone and finished with 22 points.

Cousino's Joe Rivard went 3-for-6 from beyond the arc. He finished with 15.

As a team, Cousino connected on 10-of-15 shots from three-point land in the first half.

On the other hand, Salem struggled with its threes, nailing just 1of-17 shots from behind the line.

hard, but they're young."

The way the early portions of the game unfolded, it looked as though it was going to be a 32-minute barn-burner. When Salem's John Johnson filled the net with a 12-foot baseline jumper with 5:50 to go in the first half, the Rocks trailed just 19-17. However, the Patriots followed with a 20-2 run over the next four-plus minutes to build a 39-19 cushion.

At the half, the Rocks had outscored Schmelzer, 21-18, but trailed the

Mross's passion for the sport is shared by several of her 30year-old-plus teammates on the Arena Restaurant team, which competes in Ann Arbor on Thursday nights, and the Starting Gate squad, which will open its season in the Northville Recreation Department league in late January. They can all relate to the nearly indescribable love for roundball that can only be appreciated by someone who has felt the satisfaction of swishing a 15-foot jumper over the outstretched hand of an opponent, or finishing a threeon-two fastbreak by threading a perfect pass to a cutting teammate.

NOTHING COMPARES TO HOOP

"Basketball has always been appealing to me and it always will be," said Carrie Dickison, 33, of Plymouth. "I like playing team sports and being active. I'm still a competitive person, so going for a jog is nice, but it doesn't compare to playing basketball." After earning three varsity letters at Plymouth Salem during the early-90s, Amanda Hilden stepped away from organized basketball for almost 10 years before hooking up with Mross's Starting Gate team two years ago

"I really missed playing basketball, so I checked out some Web sites and I e-mailed a couple of parks and recreation departments," said Hilden, 30, whose maiden name is Tubaugh. "It was frustrating because I wanted to play, but I couldn't find any leagues to play in.

Finally, I hooked up with Lori's team through the Northville rec department. Once I started playing again, I realized how much I missed the competitiveness, the exercise and just running up and down the court. The sport helps keep me young.'

"Î'm probably better at softball than basketball," Mross explained, "but I like baskethall better because it makes me feel good. It's exhausting at times, but it's a great outlet for relieving stress and just having Childbirth did not delay this year's hoop season for Dickison and Hilden, who both gave birth in July.

"It's nice to have a night where I can get out and do something to stay in shape," said Dickison, the proud mother of five-month-old daughter Riley. "And it gives my husband (Marc) more time to spend alone with the baby. We already got Riley her first little basketball hoop, so it won't be long before she's playing."

"I was back playing a month Hilden, whose son, Coen, turns five months old this month. "The doctor said the best thing to do is get back out there and get active."

While the sport offers the women an abundance of enjoyment and exercise, there's a small degree of frustration involved when they get matched up against a team made up of early-20-somethings.

'We run into some very good teams whose players just graduated from college," Dickison said.

"And you can tell they've played together quite a bit. It can get a little frustrating when you fall behind by 20 points, but then you remember that it's just a rec league and we're out there to have fun."

YOUNG AS YOU FEEL

Mross said her teams aren't always made up of the senior players on the court.

"Last year in Ann Arbor, we played against a team whose players were all in their 50s." she said. "They didn't win a game, but you could tell they were having a great time."

All of the women said they'll play until their bodies tell them it's time to hang up their sneakers.

For Mross, that day may be a long time coming.

"I want to play until I'm 90," she said, smiling. "And when I get to that age, I'm going to organize the first nursinghome basketball league.'

Eppler helps Canton de-claw South Lyon

Nine months after suffering a stinging, last-second loss to South Lyon in a district championship game, Canton earned a little pay-back Friday night with a 55-34 victory over the

The triumph improved the Chiefs' record to 2-1 while South Lyon dropped to 1-3.

Canton received strong play from a trio of seniors: Andre Bridges netted a team-high 13 points, Andy Larsen netted nine and Rob Eppler added nine points and five steals while holding the Lions' leading scorer, Chad McMullen, scoreless. McMullen had tallied 26 and 33 points in his two previous contests.

Junior guard Eric Thornton also played well in a reserve role for the Chiefs, twining eight points, all in the fourth quarter. Junior forward Steve Paye chipped in with six points and nine boards.

Canton led 13-8 after one quarter and 24-16 at the break. The Chiefs extended their advantage to 41-24 after three quarters before cruising in for their second-straight victory.

The Chiefs return to action Tuesday at Ann Arbor Pioneer. Tip-off is slated for 7 p.m.

PCA 66, BAPTIST PARK 62: The Eagles scorched the net in the first half when they raced to a 38-25 halftime advantage.

The Wildcats cut their deficit to three late in the fourth quarter, but Plymouth Christian repelled the rally thanks to a key rebound by Scott Brandt and clutch freeshooting down the stretch from Matt Saagman and Trevor Zinn.

Zinn had a career night scoring 21 points. The sophomore drained 11-of-14 free throws and buried two long threes. Other key contributors for the Eagles were Matt Saagman (14 points), David Koscielny (eight) and Devyn Govan (eight points and a team-high six rebounds). Halston Hodges paced the Wildcats with 19 points. Robby Miller and Caleb Thompson both netted 14.

"Offensively, we did a good job of moving the ball and sharing the ball tonight," said PCA coach Doug Taylor. "We were getting good shots, and we were making them. Defensively, we made them penetrate, then we collapse on them in the middle. We did a good job of filling the gaps."

The Eagles canned 10-of-14 free throws in the fourth quarter and 23-of-33 for the game. Baptist Park was 15-of-24 from the charity stripe.

chipped in with seven a piece. Artie Tomlin was the top

Flyer with 13 points. "It was close for the first four or five minutes," said Belleville coach Mike Krogel. "Then we went on a run toward the end of the first quarter and we played well the entire second quarter. We were moving a little too fast early on and it led to turnovers. We weren't showing the patience we needed. In the second quarter, we turned it around and started getting more open looks."

Flip-flopping Penguins white-wash Mercy

What happens when you move Penguins out of their natural environment?

They keep winning — at least, that's what you could surmise from the results of the Plymouth-Canton-Salem Penguins' 7-0 victory Friday night over Farmington Hills Mercy at Livonia's Eddie Edgar Arena.

PCS coach Lori Callahan moved her forwards to defense and defenders to the front lines during the latter two-thirds of Friday's convincing victory over the Marlins. The move worked just like everything else

Callahan and the Penguins have tried during their 5-0 start.

"I thought it would be a good opportunity for the forwards to see what it's like to play defense and for the defensemen to play up, so we changed everything all around," Callahan said. "If nothing else, the girls learned how important fore-checking is." The players didn't seem to have a problem with the role reversals, Callahan said.

"Everyone was fine with it for the most part," she said. "No one complained. A couple came up to me and told that they'd never played the position they were playing, so I told them they could do it, and they did it."

The only Penguin who stayed in her natural habitat was goaltender Kristie Kowalski, who recorded her fifth shutout in five "Kristie didn't have to handle a lot of shots, but she did a great job on the ones that did get through," Callahan said.

Edra Burris and Katie Zimmerman enjoyed an outstanding evening for the winners, notching two goals and two assists each. Single-goal scorers for the Penguins were Nicole Sensoli, Stephanie Murray, and Annie McTurner, who lit the lamp for the first time.

Dishing out assists were Kelsey Nikkila, Keely Kowalski, Murray, Lisa Ealy and Kristen Schwan.

Ashley Wrobel suffered the defeat in goal for the Marlins, who trailed 5-0 after one period and 6-0 after two.

The Penguins return to action Tuesday when they host Port Huron at the Arctic Edge. The opening face-off is set for 6:30

CHURCHILL 5, CANTON 3: Five different players scored Friday as Livonia Churchill (1-2-2) earned its first victory of the season against the visiting Chiefs in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover game at Edgar Arena.

The Chargers scored four times in the opening period and led 5-0 just 31 seconds into the second period on Ryan Osti inders goal from Zac Archer and Dave Graciak.

"The first period was a great period of hockey, we did all the right things," Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni said. "Then when you get a big lead like that there's a tendency to have a letdown."

Churchill, which outshot Canton 42-26, also got firstperiod goals from Cody Strong from Phil Wendecker (at 2:23); Keith Yackley from Matt Heinzelman (at 7:16); Steve Greco from Kyle Burke (at 10:48); and Heinzelman from Graciak (at 11:15).

Andy Barylski scored Canton's first goal from Kyle Kowalski at 8:34 of the second period.

The Chiefs added two more goals in the final period - Brett Giacamino from Pat Gallagher (at 2:31), and Gallagher from Donnie Barlow (at 8:27).

Churchill netminder Scott Lewan made 23 saves, while Canton used two goaltenders as starter Nick Basel gave way to Kevan Swanberg at the end of the opening period

Plymouth's gymnastics team is beaming with optimism

STAFF WRITER

The size of the Plymouth gymnastics team's roster is not the only thing that has grown by leaps and bounds since last season.

So has the level of optimism that surrounds the Wildcats'

First-year coach Diane Hodur, a former standout gymnast at the Michigan Academy of Gymnastics (MAG) in Westland, takes over a team that has expanded from four gymnasts to 18.

More importantly, the Wildcats have the stuff it takes to be competitive this season following a 2004-05 campaign GYMNASTICS PREVIEW in which they had no chance of winning a meet due to the scarcity of competitors.

"I'm very excited about this season," said Hodur, who excelled in club gymnastics at Eastern Michigan University after graduating in 2000 from Dearborn Heights Crestwood. "They want to learn. They want to be at practice. I don't have to tell them to give 100 percent because they're selfmotivated. I can't wait until the regionals and the league meet at the end of the year after we've added some difficulty to their routines.

Hodur remembers a few of her current gymnasts from her days as a competitor at MAG.

"I'd help them out when I was competing there," she said. "They were just little peanuts back then, but even then, you could tell they were going to be talented."

Hodur's top returner is sophomore Jordan Brodehl, who was limited by injuries to performing in just the uneven bars in Wednesday's seasonopening 141.325-119.450 loss to powerful Livonia Unified.

Even though she has a couple of injuries, she still got an 8.55, which was great," Hodur said. "Jordan has a lot of desire and she's probably the hardest worker on the team, which is

All-Observer girls basketball team shows the Midas touch

Lisa Ealy, 5-9 Sr. F, Canton: Ealy capped a spectacular high school basketball career by leading the Chiefs to a WLAA tournament title and a Class A district championship. She averaged 12 points and eight rebounds a game, but her biggest contributions may have been with the immeasurable things she brought to the Chiefs' attack, including hustle and leadership.

"Lisa is a great athlete," said Canton coach Brian Samulski. "She has a great ability to attack the basket, get to the rim and score. She's an awesome rebounder, too. Lisa did such a good job of getting to the basket that she went to the free throw line 169 times. She also defended the other teams' best players, including Rachel Folino, Teresa Coppiellie and Jeanine Moise."

Ērica Yost, 5-6 Sr. G, Liv. Ladywood: The senior point-guard averaged 12 points, five assists, three rebounds and two steals per game for the Catholic League A-B Division champions, who finished 22-2 overall.

Yost was Ladywood's co-Most Valuable Players and an All-Catholic League selection. She also earned All-State recognition in Class B. "Erica brought a lot to our team in terms of creating easy shots for her teammates, Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski said. "She got the ball up the floor in a hurry and put a lot of pressure on the defense with her ability to score as well as finding the open player."

Teresa Coppiellie, 5-11 Jr. F, Salem: Coppiellie, a two-year starter, was voted the Rocks' co-MVP along with Alaya Mitchell. She also garnered All-Conference recognition after averaging 11.9 points, 8.1 rebounds and 2.0 blocks per game. She posted solid shooting percentages: 49.8 from the field and 61.0 from the free throw

"Coming into this season, Teresa had already established herself as a tremendous rebounder and outstanding defender," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "This year, she proved to be a consummate player by scoring while doing the other things well, too. Next year I expect her to have an outstanding senior season.

Jeanine Moise, 5-11 Sr. C,

Plymouth: Moise, a two-time All-WLAA selection, teamed with Kim Olech to give the Wildcats one of the strongest inside games in the area. She averaged 14 points and 10 rebounds per game along with providing strong defense.

"Jeanine has been one of our most consistent players as far as scoring and rebounds the past four years," said Plymouth coach Richelle Reilly. "She's a very physical player who made great contributions to program."

Lindsay Fletemier, 6-5 Sr. C, Garden City: Fletemier capped off an exceptional prep career with 319 points (15.2 avg.), 209 rebounds (10.2 avg) and 99 blocked shots (five per game), establishing Garden City career records in all three categories.

According to Cougars head coach Barry Patterson, the 6-5 center "was without question the best player in our league. It wasn't even close."

Fletemier again earned selection to the All-Mega first team and is being honored as the Cougars' MVP.

"Lindsay's one of those rare athletes that come along once in a coaching career," Patterson said. "To have a 6-5 girl with good hands who can run the floor well, and has exceptional skills, that's probably a once-ina-lifetime thing for a coach in a high school situation. It's probably the equivalent to getting that 6-10 or 6-11 male athlete that comes in."

SECOND TEAM

Chice Booker, 5-6 Jr. G, Red. Thurston: The Eagles charged to the Mega Gold title (11-1 league record) in large part to the outstanding and sometimes spectacular play of Booker.

She averaged 21 points, five assists and four rebounds per game but also was a defensive dynamo with an average of four steals per outing.

For her efforts, teammates named her team MVP. She also was named to the All-Mega first

"She was our sparkplug all season," said Eagles head coach Bob Ostrowski. "When she was on her game, both offensively and defensively, she was a big threat and someone the opposition definitely had to be aware

Kathryn Berger, 6-1 Jr. C, Liv.

Ladywood: The Blazers' co-MVP (along with Yost) finished the season averaging 10 points, six rebounds and two steals per game for the district champions.

"Kathryn brought a little bit of everything to our team," said Gorski of the All-Catholic League selection. "She could score, rebound and most times, defended the other team's best post player. She is an extremely versatile player who was hard to take off the floor."

Becci Houdek, 5-8 Jr. G, Canton: Houdek proved to be a multifaceted star for the Chiefs, averaging nine points, five rebounds, four assists and four steals per game. She earned All-Conference accolades and was a key component in the Chiefs' march to a conference tournament title and district championship.

"Becci has the ability to do everything on the court," Samulski said. "She sees the floor really well and she has a natural ability to find the open player. "Defensively, it seems like her arms go on forever and because she anticipates passes so well, she pick up a lot of steals. Becci did a great job of leading the team on the floor, too."

Kim Olech, 5-11, Sr. F, Plymouth: Olech combined a soft touch around the basket with a tenacious rebounding style to average 12 points and nine rebounds this season. She bounced back from a serious knee injury early in her high school career to evolve into a post player that several small-college programs covet.

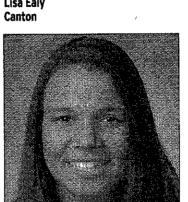

"Kim was the hardest-working player on our team," said Reilly. She really made a commitment to basketball, both with the time she spent in the weight room and in the gym working on her game. Kim had a big impact on the success of our program the past couple of years. She'll be playing somewhere next year."

Alaya Mitchell, 5-4 Soph. G, Salem: Mitchell made her mark for the Rocks in her first varsity season, averaging 7.8 points, 2.5 assists and 2.5 steals per game.

"Alaya had an outstanding year," Thomann said. "She really stepped up her game toward the end of the season. She didn't get to play this past summer due to injury, so next season, with a full year of playing behind her, she has tremendous upside."

Seven-footer James Davis and 6-7 DeMario Curry chipped in with 17 and 15 points, respectively, for the Ocelots, who led 52-36 at half-

Mechanics drop price of tickets

The Motor City Mechanics of the United Hockey League (UHL) announce that they have lowered ticket prices for the remainder of the season.

The reorganization comes after changing ticket prices throughout the month of December and noticing a welcome change in attendance.

Starting Jan. 1 the Mechanics who last season featured Garden City native Joe Burton - will be offering Section 1, 8, and 9 (on the blue line) at $15, all other reserved seats at $10 and bleacher seats (general admission) will be sold at $5. All groups over 20 will receive the group rate at $8 per ticket.

The Mechanics will also be selling season tickets for the remainder of the season starting with the game on Jan. 6 against Danbury. The 24-game season ticket includes all regular season home games from Jan. 6 through April 15.

The Mechanics' previous ticket prices were among the highest in the league but were priced competitively with other sporting and entertainment venues throughout the metro-Detroit area. Changing prices will make attending games more affordable for families. For more information or to purchase tickets please contact the Mechanics offices at (866) 997-PUCK (7825).

Charities in need this Christmas udrey and Carl Mattson have been delivering food and clothing to the poor for years but are still surprised by the need. Last week, the Livonia couple drove up and down Woodward and Third and had no problem delivering the sandwiches made by members of St. John's Lutheran Church in Redford. Among those they came upon was a homeless man with hands as cold as ice.

Michigan is a harsh place to live in winter, but most of us can retreat to the warm indoors. Others have shelter but little if anything to give their children for Christmas. Every year, the Mattsons and area nonprofits work to make the holidays brighter. The Mattsons have more than 150 requests from mothers whose children need clothes, food and beds. Brother Vincent Reyes has seen the number of families seeking help at the Capuchin Soup Kitchen go up this year as well. In the past, 200 families a day would request a Pantry Pack of food to feed a family of four for a week. The average now is 264. To help, call Reyes at (313) 579-2100. Ext. 203.

"The economy is affecting a lot of people," said Reyes. "They need canned and dry goods, blankets, men's underwear. clothing and shoes, and financial help. Like everyone else their heating bills are going up at least 50 percent. They could use gift certificates for grocery stores."

Reyes hopes to raise several thousand dollars at a photography exhibit and auction Jan. 14. It is part of the My Name Is project. For some time now Reyes has captured the images of the poor through his camera

Elizabeth Alexander never dreamed that one day her custom jewelry would end up on women's tennis stars Venus and Serena Williams.

The Livonia designer's path to the big time began humbly in a metal working class at Farmington High School at the age of 17. It wasn't until nearly 25 years later that her bead necklaces, bracelets and earrings would draw the attention of celebrities as well as shoppers at Marshall Field's in Twelve Oaks, Somerset, Lakeside, Oakland and Briarwood malls and Parisian in Livonia and Rochester Hills. Even the boutique in Illusions Salon & Spa at the Willits in Birmingham is carrying her lines.

Apparently women appreciate the concept of wearing sophisticated jewelry priced to fit nearly any budget.
Alexander's business continues to grow with the help of her husband, Karl Sipfle, a computer engineer. Together, they've hired a marketing firm in Los Angelas to make sure her designs are seen on everyone from tennis stars to celebrities attending the Grammy Awards.

"He is how we stay in business," said Alexander, who married in 2000. "He does everything from financial planning to picking up and delivering stock. I could not do it without him. I create and produce all of the pieces myself. We're about color."

Alexander's colorful designs are what first attracted Janette Noel, manager of the boutique in Illusions Salon & Spa at the Willits in Birmingham.

"It's made very well. It's very colorful. It invites you in," said. Noel, a Westland resident. "I have a couple of her pieces, a heart that has gold with a lot of fire in it, and a crystal and white pearl, double-strand necklace that I can wear in the day or evening. It's elegant, very smart. I can put on a black dress and have color. It's very youthful and mature, too.

They're timeless pieces."

Anna Kimler doesn't do as much baking or cooking for Christmas anymore. Born in Germany in 1929, she's limited by the amount of sweets she can eat because of her diabetes.

Kimler and her daughter Vickie did bake butter cookies and Lebkuchen, a spice cookie with honey and no fat or cho-

"In Frankfurt they decorated stores, book and grocery, and mother would bake cookies but we could not touch anything until Christmas Eve when the tree was trimmed," said Anna Kimler of Farmington Hills. "I didn't know about Santa and we had only a few gifts. Today we exchange presents and have a nice meal."

The Rev. Larry Zurawski is going to his cousin's Livonia home for Christmas Eve dinner in the tradition of his Polish grandparents. A bit of hay will be placed under the tablecloth to represent the manager. The white tablecloth symbolizes the swaddling clothes in which Jesus was wrapped.

"It's usually a fasting meal, which means no meat, with some traditional foods like fish, pierogi, poppyseed cake, mushroom soup," said Rev. Zurawski, pastor at St. Damian's Catholic Church in Westland. "The important part is the wafer. The youngest member waits for the first star to appear then everyone holds the wafer and the oldest member starts and breaks off the wafer and we wish each other Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. For some it's a time of reconciliation. The wafer is not blessed bread but the symbol of Jesus, the bread of life. Bread is served at every meal. The wafer is an Eucharistic symbol and often sent in Christmas cards to people you don't see."

After dinner everyone goes to the Midnight Mass he'll be saying at St. Damian's. Earlier in the day of Christmas Eve, children re-enact the Nativity scene during a 4:30 p.m. mass for young people. On Christmas morning Rev. Zurawski says two more masses at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m.

"For Polish people, Advent, the season before Christmas, is very important to observe as a time of preparation," said Zurawski. "Christmas Eve begins the season that continues through January and the baptism of Jesus. Christmas Day is a time for visiting relatives. You really don't need an invitation. You just go and visit. There's lots of food and singing of Polish Christmas carols in Polish and English.

During the week between Christmas and New Year's feast days are celebrated. Jan. 1 is the Feast of Mary, the mother of God and world day of prayer for peace."

The Christmas season lasts from the feast of St. Nicholas on Dec. 6 to the Epiphany on Jan. 6 and then Candlemas on Feb. 2 for Rev. Gerry Bechard, pastor of SS Simon and Jude in Westland. His first language is French Canadian.

"The French will not put baby Jesus in the manger until Christmas," said Bechard who will say a mass for children at 4:30 p.m. as well as Midnight Mass on Christmas Eve. Later on Christmas Day morning he says a 10 a.m. mass.

"The French attend mass and eat a special meat pie, especially French Canadians."

Tough times: Church service eases pain of the season

Those coping with an illness or who've lost a loved one aren't necessarily experiencing Christmas joy this December. Even the demands of holiday preparations can take a toll this time of year.

"Not everybody's in the holly jolly spirit of Christmas," said Melissa Arquette, a member of Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton. To help people cope, the church will host a Longest Night Service 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 21, at Geneva, on Sheldon north of Ford (west side) in "All are welcome," she said. "We're encouraging the congregation to invite others as well." The service is open to all regardless of church background or lack of it.

This is the first year Geneva has offered a Longest Night Service, although Arquette, a Canton resident, noted that other churches have done so. The Wednesday, Dec. 21, service will include prayer, Scripture and music.

Following the short service, there will be light refreshments and time for fellowship.

Internet may be a threat to teen hen I came home from college for the holidays my father remarked that mostly he saw the back of my head! I'm nearly 6 feet tall and in my day fashionable clothes for girls of that height were non-existent! My attachment was to my trusty sewing machine!

Today, you may spend the holidays looking at your teen's back and head as he or she sits at the computer. Please give careful attention - this activity can be considerably more dangerous than a messed up seam!

Daniel Broughton, M.D., FAAP, a member of the Communications Committee for the American Academy of Pediatrics, writes: "One of the first things to understand is that being online is the same as being in public. While using the Internet at home may feel safe and secure, there are very real privacy

"Personal information can be obtained easily when children create 'member profiles' with Internet service providers on a Web site or in a chat room. 'Cookies' allow outside sources to see inside one's home computer. This information can be misused in a variety of ways, including marketing directed at children and by child predators."

Study links hair loss, heart attack

Rich from Milford e-mails telling us about his hair loss in recent years and wonders if there may be an underlying health concern.

Rich, many men experience male pattern baldness and current research shows that could raise a red flag. A newly released study looked at 19,000 men and showed that men with middle-aged baldness had a 34 percent higher chance of having a heart attack. The results were even more disturbing for men with baldness and high blood pressure. That group had an 80 percent higher chance of suffering an attack than men with full heads of hair and normal blood pressure. Factor in high cholesterol and the risk of a heart attack increases to a startling 300 percent! The reason for the link isn't exactly known yet. But until more résearch is done, men with hair loss should be extra careful to keep high blood pressure and cholesterol under control!

Insulin pumps change children's lives

> BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Katie Schremser-likes to sleep in just like any other teenager. Until age 12 she had to crawl out of bed to take an insulin shot at the same time every

A diabetic since before her second birthday, the 17-year-old Plymouth Salem High School student discovered it didn't have to be that way if she wore an insulin pump. At age 12, she was not only able to throw away her sleep schedule but rigid diet as well. The device administers a short acting insulin boost automatically once an hour, but she can trigger a bolus dose before meals and snacks or to correct high blood glucose levels. With Type I diabetes, the body is unable to produce insulin to maintain healthy blood sugar or glucose levels.

If I wanted to I could go out and get a frozen Coke and not have to worry about skipping a meal because it raised my blood sugar," said Schremser. "This whole world opens up when you use the pump. I'm even healthier. It helps you keep it in con-

The first big, chunky pump hung unattractively from her waist. Today's new generation of high-tech devices are about the size of a small cell phone and can be programmed easily. Before, Schremser had to calculate the dosage according to the number of carbohydrates she was about to eat. The pump saves her time which is of the essence with her busy schedule as a member of the student council, National Honor Society and PCEP (Plymouth-Canton Educational Park) Wind Ensemble.

Last fall, she competed with the Plymouth Salem girls swim team and last spring helped coach a middle school swim team in addition to teaching swimming at a local fitness club.

COLLEGE-BOUND

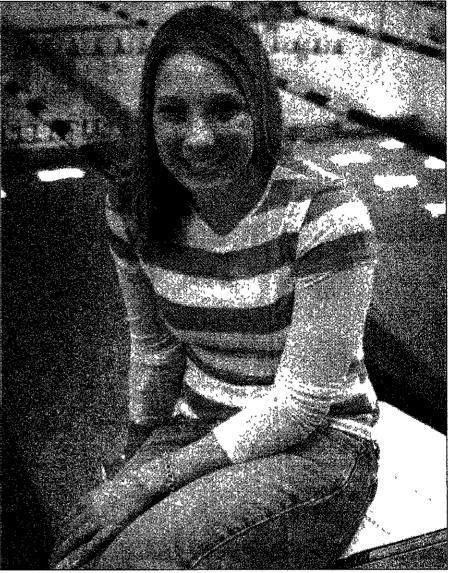

Schremser expects to be even busier next fall. She's been accepted to Purdue and the University of Michigan to study chemical engineering.

"It's a much greater challenge to par-ticipate in sports without the pump," said her mother, Gina Schremser. "The pump has simplified her life and made it much more normal."

Kari Ritter has seen the difference the pump has made in 7-year-old son Robbie's life even though he's only worn the device since April. Before that, the Garden City boy had taken injections of four different insulins twice a day since he was nearly age 4. Today, the secondgrade student swims, rides his bike and bowls in a league at Oak Lanes in Westland. The pump allows him to program activity before exercising or participating in sports. The only time he removes the pump is before jumping on a trampoline. He can even wear it in the shower because it's waterproof.

'Before he could eat only certain things," said Kari Ritter. "If he didn't, his blood sugar would go too low or too high. The pump means no more shots and his average blood sugar reading has gone down. The pump eliminated the need for long acting insulin. It mimics a person's pancreas.

"It's a new way of looking at diabetes. People think you can't eat sugar. The American Diabetic Association has said, 'a carb is a carb' so they're not as restricted. He doesn't feel excluded. It gave him a newfound freedom and he even knows how to program the pump."

Robbie has no problem reading food labels then programming in the amount of carbohydrates in the chips and cookies he snacked on between frames. He says he doesn't miss the shots and feels healthier.

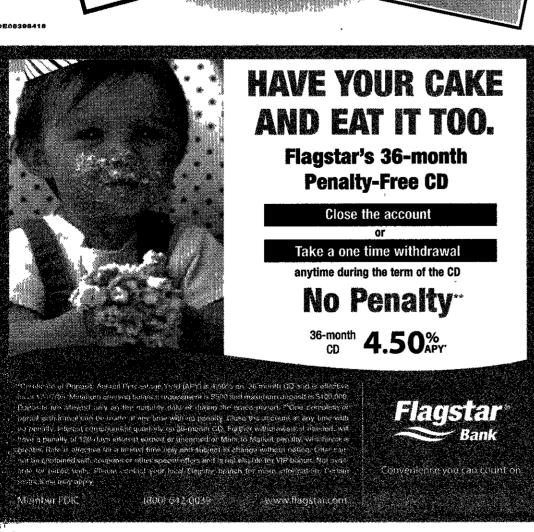

Ritter had been looking for symptoms such as thirst in her five young sons for years before Robbie was diagnosed. She was afraid they would develop the disease like her aunt who has lived with juvenile or Type I diabetes since age 7. Unlike Robbie, Karen Marvel grew up not eating sweets for 59 of her 66 years. The pump has changed her life.

"It really is a miracle. I carry it in my pocket and can take insulin at any time. I feel better and have a lot more energy," said Marvel, a Livonia resident who received her pump in August. "My sugar has gone down and my kidney function has improved."

Nugget Burkhart knows all too well that uncontrolled diabetes damages the kidneys and eyes. The nurse practitioner works in the University of Michigan pediatric endocrinology department's outpatient clinic which follows about 1,000 diabetic children, ages birth to 21. U-M started its pump program in 1998 after taking part in the Diabetes Control Complications Trial, which studied the use of the pump in ages 13 to 39 from 1983 to 1992. U-M and Burkhart now have more than 400 children on insulin pumps including Schremser and Ritter.

"The study proved that tightly controlling the sugar prevents diabetes complications," said Burkhart, an registered nurse with a master's degree in pediatric nursing. She's worked with diabetic children since 1983 and was hired to set up the U-M pump program. "If blood sugar is kept as close to the normal range as possible, the study showed it reduced kidney and eye damage by about 70 percent. "Today we have much better tools than ever before, very sophisticated technology, fast acting insulin. We know a lot more about the diet and counting carbohydrates. We have a goal of trying to control the blood sugar as well as possible and promote normal growth and development."

It's Burkhart's job to educate the children on how to use the pump so they can live as normal a childhood as possible.

"About 95 percent of what they do is self-management and they have to do it all day long, every day," said Burkhart. "They have to learn to think like a pancreas. We teach them technical skills, how to program the pump, load the insulin and care for the tiny Teflon catheter that goes in subcutaneously and must be changed every two to three days.

"They have so much to learn. After they begin using the pump, so many families tell us they got their kid back. They act like they used to act. They don't have mood swings and do better in school. These kids are an inspiration to all of us."

WHY DRUGS STOP WORKING

taking medication for, say, rheumatoid arithritis, and doing well. You sleep without disruption, can awake in the morning with slight stiffness that resolves after 10-15 minutes of activity. You go through your day without undue fatigue, and can enjoy an evening out when the opportunity arises.

Then over one or several days, everything changes pain disrupts your sleep, joint aching purses you throughout the day, and by evening you are too exhausted to do anything but sit on a couch.

You may conclude that you have become "immune" to the medicine that formally worked for you. Your doctor sees a more complicated situation.

You may be right in part, your medicine may no longer be doing its job. Most arthritis medicines work at the cellular level, often controlling intracellular channels that direct the entrance and exit of molecular solutions. Over time the body develops alternative channels that bypass what the drug counteracted. The result is return of inflammation. Another cause of pain is that your arthritis has progressed, you may hurt because your joints are worsening despite medication. Finally, the pain you experience may be the result of another condition other than the arthritis for which you are under treatment, as for example, new

The doctor sees his job as separating out these possibilities since each cause or their combination, requires a different medical response. At times, only changing your therapy in stages will uncover the reason for the flare in pain. You may need patience, just at the time you most want

Etiquette builds confidence in business

BY SANDRA ARMBRUSTER COMMUNITY EDITOR

So you're at a business meeting and about to greet a fellow guest. The guest is taken with a sudden urge to sneeze and does so - into his hand.

Then he extends his hand in greeting to shake yours.

Ew-w-w. Besides grimacing, what do you do?

You have some choices, according to Peter Post, who spoke to Troy Chamber of Commerce members at a luncheon.

Among them are refusing to shake hands; say you have a cold and decline to shake

The correct answer: Go ahead and grasp his hand.

"What etiquette helps us do (is handle) the difficulty in how to shake hands," said Post, the son of Emily Post, the mother of rules of etiquette in the U.S. Post now heads up his enterprise and speaks around the country.

The most important aspect of shaking hands is to do so confidently, he said. "That's the value of etiquette - it gives you confidence.

That confidence is built from standing up at eye level - even if you're a woman - to greet guests approaching a table and offer a firm handshake. "I can't tell you what a difference it makes," he said. "Acknowledging the person is

And don't be the first to take seconds from the dessert tray, he added.

Post offered other modern rules of etiquette to the chamber members, including returning e-mail messages. But do it carefully.

Post cited the example of a worker who, at the end of a long day, replies to an e-mail with a few choice comments about his boss. But instead of replying to the sender of the email, the worker replies to all

Ouch. You could start working on your resume, Post said, but there is another option.

The reason answer (to this dilemma) is to go and talk to the boss and explain the situation and apologize," he said. "How you recover from business mistakes makes a big difference."

The quality of an e-mail is better than its length, and rather than fire off a hot one, it's better to write a draft and save it for later transmission, according to Post.

There were other pointers business persons may have already heard, like dress for chamber member. Etiquette consists of manners plus principles, Post said. "Manners are what you do and what you expect someone else to do. Etiquette helps you know what to do with confidence" and how to build relationships. Forget worrying about which fork to use, Post said, that's the easy part. The goal is for people to "think more about what to do before they do it."

'Bed Hogs' named Michigan Reads book

The Library of Michigan Monday announced Bed Hogs as the preschool book that captured the most votes for the March 2006 Michigan Reads! one-state, one-preschool-book program.

Written by local author Kelly DiPucchio (who grew up in Rochester and currently lives in Macomb Township), Bed Hogs is the engaging story of Little Runt, who grows weary of sharing a straw bed with his parents and siblings and kicks them out one by one. Only when he has the bed all to himself does Little Runt realize it's scary and lonesome without his family around him.

Four other librarian-selected books were in the running with Bed Hogs to be the 2006 Michigan Reads! title, including Imogene's Antlers by David Small; In the Small, Small Pond by Denise Fleming; Sheep in a Jeep by Nancy Shaw; and Stranger in the Woods by Carl R. Sams II and Jean Stoick.

"Who knew that something good would finally come out of all those years of sleep deprivation? I am absolutely thrilled that Bed Hogs has been chosen by my home state as the 2006 Michigan Reads! one-state, one-preschool-book winner," said DiPucchio. "As both an author and a parent, I am honored to be a part of a program that acknowledges the importance of early-childhood literacy in families. 'Hogs and kisses' to our wonderful Michigan libraries and to everyone who

"Congratulations to Kelly and to all the authors and illustrators whose work was selected to be a part of this year's Michigan Reads! ballot," said State Librarian Nancy Robertson. "The Michigan Reads! program aims to get people excited about sharing words, ideas and stories with our youngest readers. Bed Hogs is a terrific book around which libraries, parents and caregivers statewide can create meaningful reading experiences this coming March.

Michigan Reads! was launched in 2004 by the Library of Michigan in partnership with the Michigan Center for the Book to promote the value and benefits of reading early and often to preschoolers; to encourage family bonding through reading; and to increase awareness and usage of public libraries. It's the day she shops for people she's never met.

"It's very rewarding to provide for a family who doesn't have nearly as many things as we do," said the Troy resident, who's been adopting a family for Christmas through Southfield-based Volunteers of America for seven years. Even with Christmas only 10 days away, the organization is sending out an urgent plea for people to donate money or adopt a family for the holiday season.

"We've got a whole huge group of families who haven't been adopted," said Alex Brodrick, president and CEO of Volunteers of America of Michigan, who added that Volunteers of America will be working, and shopping, right up until Christmas Eve to assure as many families as possible can receive a Christmas.

You can do it: Selling during the holidays has up side

My house is for sale and with the holidays coming up things are slowing down, is it a good idea to sell during this time period?

The market does slow down during the holidays. However, there are certain advantages you have as well when you are selling in this season. Some of these are:

Less competition. Many sellers are afraid to sell their house during the holidays, as a result they wait until after the season.

Ask the Realtor

Michael Aldouby

Because of this there is often much less competition. This brings us to the basic law of supply and demand. The smaller the supply, the easier it is to sell your house. Serious buyers are still out there. Even though there are fewer buyers, the buyers that are out there are more likely to buy soon. This keeps you from wasting time with lookers, instead of buyers. The difference between buyers compared to lookers, is that buyers have money, motivation, and urgency. There are going to be fewer lookers out there in the wintertime who want to see your house because they want to get decorating ideas or because they are nosy neighbors.

No matter what the season there are people who need to buy because of their circumstances. There are still buyers who are getting transferred into the area. Also, people are getting married and divorced who need a new home. Many buyers want to be in their new home by the end of the year, as well.

■ The best agents are still working. Many people like to take off for the holidays. In the real estate industry though the best agents are still working. The way this can benefit you is that if you are working with top-notch agents there is a greater likelihood of getting the house sold in a smooth transaction.

■ Even though there is a mess it can be considered a happy mess. You may be concerned that because of holiday preparations your place may be more cluttered than normal.

Buyers realize this and are more forgiving of holiday clutter

Older couples would enjoy this 'full Monty' with its spaciousness

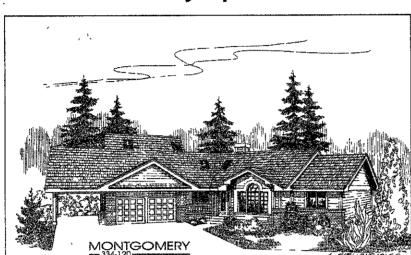

Brick detailing, along with attractive lap siding and a wood shake roof give the 2,264 square foot Montgomery (334-120) a rich exterior. This home is perfect for a retired couple that have frequent overnight visitors, or perhaps a family that includes an elderly parent. Whatever the makeup of the household, there is plenty of room here to accommodate.

The railed front porch leads you into the sky lit entry of this spacious first floor design. To the left is the vaulted formal dining room, where you and your guests can dine in sky lit comfort.

A large window brings in more light while providing a view of the front landscape. Opposite from the dining room is a generous living room, where after dinner coffee and good conversation is in order. A wide front window admits the sunshine when the weather is nice.

Angled to the right of the living room is a small bedroom that could serve as a home office or den.

Adjacent to this room is a luxurious guest suite. Here your visitors are sure to have a comfortable stay. Sky lit and roomy, this suite features a walk-in closet, huge bathroom with separate shower, toilet and vanity, skylight and oversized tub with glass wall enclosure. There is also private access to a small back deck, perfect for soaking up the sun on warm summer days.

The large, sky lit family room is the place for everyone to gather in front of the television or play board games while the built-in fireplace warms the festivities. Lots of shelf and storage space is available. The walk-through kitchen is situated so that the cook can easily prepare and serve meals. Vaulted ceiling, skylight, walk-in pantry, eating bar, and handy desk are some of the features. A half-bath and large utility room, with freezer, ironing board and storage complete the first floor plan.

The upper floor is given over to the master suite. Facing the rear and isolated for privacy, the entire back wall is windowed to present a broad view of the surrounding terrain. An attic provides extra storage

Throaty 2006 Ford Mustang GT Convertible Premium is a True Delight

Advertising Feature

CAReport

Anne Fracassa

By Dave Menard Avanti NewsFeatures

When it comes to car design these days, two concepts come to mind -- "retro" is in, and "everything old is new again." The trend to look back into car history for new models really started with Chrysler's PT Cruiser and is now spreading like wildfire. In addition to Chrysler, Dodge, Chevrolet, and Pontiac, to name a few, have gone the retro route. Ford, looking not to miss out on the trend, debuted a redesigned retro Thunderbird model in 2002, and followed up with another new take on an automotive icon a few years later – the Mustang GT. Yep, the original "pony car" is back, and driving the new 2006 Mustang GT Convertible Premium is an exercise in both fun and nostalgia.

The nostalgia starts when you take a look at the car. The design harkens back to the '67-'69 models, complete with C-scoops in the sides, three element tail lamps, and the galloping horse badge in the center of the grille. The GT version features large fog lamps in the grille, and the optional "pony package" gets you a custom grille with pony emblems and larger wheels. The GT actually comes with a choice of four different wheel and tire packages, including two packages that feature 18" wheels. You'll know right away it's a Mustang and you'll want to jump in and put this show horse through its paces. Turn the key and you'll hear the throaty growl of the 4.6-liter V8 engine that comes with the GT Convertible Premium (a V6 is available on other models). The V8 is rated at 300 hp and 320 lb.-ft. or torque, and sounds like it. This car just begs to be driven with a five-speed manual transmission; alas, my test car had the five-speed automatic. Not that it didn't perform. On the contrary, the car jumped off the line and shifted smoothly. It just seems somehow "wrong" to put an automatic in there. At any rate,

2006 Ford Mustang GT Convertible Premium. Type: Subcompact. Where built: Flat Rock, Mich. EPA: 17/23 (regular fuel). Base price: $31,145. Price as tested: $36,410

the V8 gives you great performance and still gets a respectable 17/23 mpg. Another bonus - unlike many cars in this segment, it runs on regular fuel. The steering and suspension are pretty good, too. There is some road feel (this is a sports car, after all), but the ride is comfortable and the Mustang handles curves very well. The front suspension features MacPherson struts with reverse "L" lower control arms and stabilizer bar, Anti-lock brakes and traction control are standard, and the traction control can be deactivated on the dash panel. Inside, the retro feel will hit you again. the cockpit and dash design are, again, based on the late-'60's Mustang models, complete with the dual round instrument cluster. Instrumentation is complete, including oil pressure, coolant temperature, and battery current gauges. The automatic transmission shift lever is a two stalk lever with a retro feel. The standard (on the GT Premium) leather-trimmed buckets provided good support. There's a good amount of leg room for the driver and front seat passenger; the rear seating area is not usable for seating anything except packages. One minor gripe - the center console is just a hair too close to the driver's right leg. On long commutes you'll begin to fell a pressure point on your right calf as it leans on the edge of the console. There isn't much in the way of trunk room, either, particularly on the convertible. To make matters worse in that regard, if you get the upgraded sound system on the Premium model, you'll find a huge speaker on the trunk which cuts the usable space even further.

Speaking of audio, the standard system on the GT Premium is an AM/FM/six-CD six-speaker Shaker 500 system, featuring 500 watts of peak power and about 250 watts of continuous power. You can upgrade to a Shaker 1000 nine-speaker system which will give you – you guessed it – 1000 watts of peak power and about 570 watts of continuous power. Lots of audio muscle for this muscle car. The Mustang GT Premium comes with air conditioning, cruise control, power doors, windows and locks, and rear window defroster.

The 2006 Mustang GT Convertible Premium starts at a little over $31,000. Add the automatic transmission, pony package, upgraded audio system, antitheft system and a few other odds and ends, and you'll hit about $36,000. Compare that to the $2360 base price of the first Mustang and ask yourself, "how much is that retro ride worth to me?" If you've got the dough, it's a trip that's fun to take. The 2006 small business forecast (NAPSI) — It seems small businesses are bracing for a big year. Two-thirds of small- and medium- sized business owners said they expect their companies to grow in 2006, according to an Administaff Business Confidence Survey — and that's just the start of what could be welcome news for employees. How will these companies invest and in what direction will they grow? Experts offer these predictions for 2006 business trends:

Forrester Research's Ken Vollmer writes that organizations are focusing on "integration-centric business process management" solutions. These solutions involve improving interactions between co-workers, customers and business partners. In plainer terms, this could mean that 2006 is the year of the all-inone device.

For instance, the C5510n MFP from OKI Printing Solutions is a compact color communications center that lets business teams copy, scan, print or manage documents from their desks or at the machine itself. The technology can be networked, allowing for multiple users and, just as importantly, one MFP can take the place of three or four other machines

■ Improved communications — The availability of color printing technology means the bar has been raised for small business communications. Professional-looking color documents will be the norm, with exceptional documents possibly giving companies a competitive advantage. That is once again where devices such as the C5510n MFP come in. It prints and copies in vibrant color at up to 12 pages per minute — the fastest of its class on the market — and enables end users to scan hard-copy documents or artwork.

Business meetings are expected to get a boost as well, with new types of software applications turning old-fashioned presentations into interactive experiences. New technology can be used to make presentation slides appear threedimensional or to add new types of graphics, animation and even music to projects.

■ More employees - 2006 may be a good year to work for a small- or medium-sized business. Sixty-four percent of respondents to the Administaff survey said they plan to increase salaries and 66 percent plan to hire new employees. What type of workers will be hired? Companies generally say they're looking for people who are comfortable with technology and with decision-making.

Those characteristics may lead to some good matches. Management consulting firm ECnow.com predicts that employer-employee relationships will "strengthen for the first time in years."

The art of networking starts now

(NAPSI) — If you plan to begin the new year with a job search, get ahead of the competition by refreshing your network now.

Networking is not about the size of your network, but about quality relationships. Genuine networks stem from friendships or business relationships, and holiday greetings offer a perfect excuse to revitalize your network.

Getting the ball rolling, making that initial call or sending the first e-mail is often the most intimidating step. If you don't call people, however, no one is going to call you. Once you start, networking can easily blend into your daily life. Set aside a few minutes every day to network and it will pay off when you least expect.

One important thing to remember is to get to know people at all levels of the business world. Keep their contact information, including personal information like birthdays, in one central location. An easy way to keep contacts current is with Plaxo, a free service that automatically updates contact information to ensure that people have access to their data anywhere and at all times. For more information, visit Plaxo.com.

Research has shown that as careers progress, new jobs are often referrals from acquaintances, friends, friends of friends, or fellow alumni.
