District, critics spar over actual school bond cost

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

The old adage is "you can't believe everything you read."

Plymouth-Canton Schools officials agree with that when it comes to the millage rate listed for the first bond proposal on Tuesday's ballot. Oddly enough, that's the only thing critics agree with the school district about when it comes to what the real millage rate will be if the proposal is passed.

The first bond question for $95.4 million asks voters to approve .86 mills (86 cents per $1,000 of taxable value) for building expansions, a new middle school and a Career and Technical Center at the high school park.

The second proposal for $24.8 million, or .22 mills, would build a theater and a varsity soccer field at P-CEP, a swimming pool at Plymouth High School, an auxiliary gym at Salem High School and improvements to the baseball and softball fields at Canton High School.

While the combination of the two ballot questions asks voters to approve a total of 1.08 mills, school officials have advertised they will only levy .6 mills if the first bond is passed, plus the .22 if the second bond is passed, for a total of .82 mills.

"The state requires the bond language on the ballot to say how much you would levy for just that one issue," said Patricia Brand, the district's assistant superintendent for business services. "The millage rate actually goes down because the higher the taxable value of the school district plus the reduction in total debt (previous bond issues), means less millage we'll have to levy to meet the principal and interest obligation of the bond issue."

Brand said taxpayers will be obligated for a maximum $117, or less, for the next 25 years if the both bonds pass.

"I expect it to go down over time," Brand said.

However, Plymouth Township Treasurer Ron Edwards has been telling his constituents the district isn't telling the truth.

"Based on their estimates, the numbers come out to be an average of $211 a year, not the $117 they portrayed to the public in information sent out," Edwards said. "They can't take the reductions in payments from previous bond issues and use it as a reduction against this one. They're misleading the public."

The bond issues have sparked interest in the communities on several fronts, including discussion on how the district plans to pay operating expenses for new construction. And, while there has been no organized effort against the bond, nearly 300 "Vote No, There's a Better Way" signs have been added to the landscape to combat "Vote Yes...Still on the Grow" signs by the Citizens Election Committee.

Superintendent Jim Ryan said the bond campaign has been "frustrating."

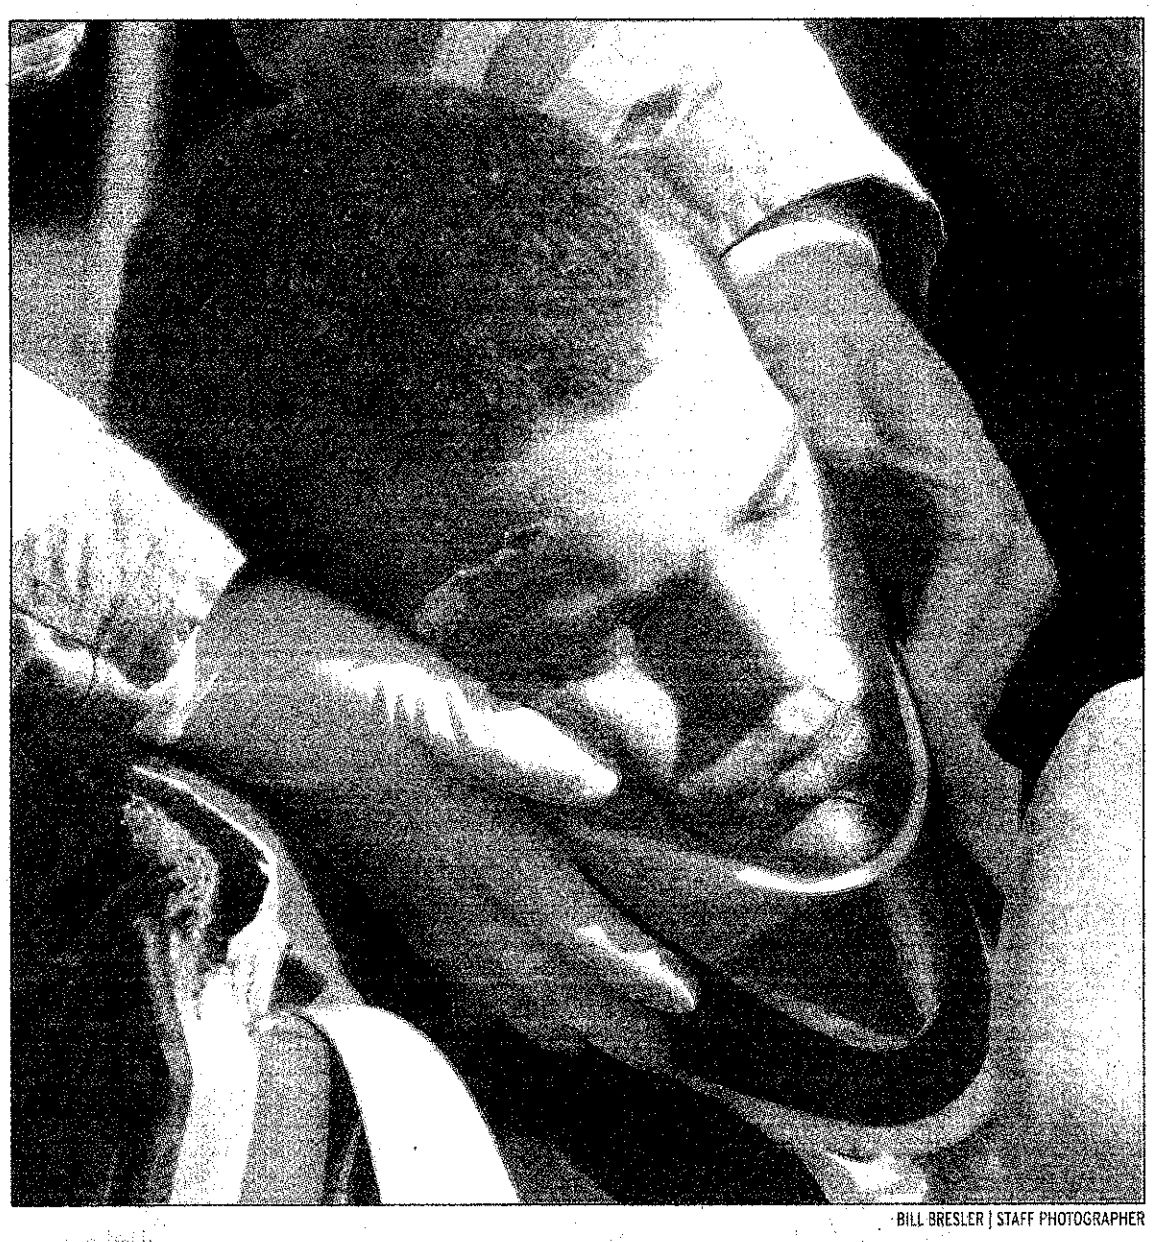

"People in this community understand the importance of good schools, and that becomes the war on Tuesday," said Ryan.

"People who understand schools are an important part of the fabric of a good community, will they get out and vote? Or, will we have a low voter turnout and the small group against the bonds be able to carry the day?"

There are eight school board candidates vying to fill two open seats in Tuesday's election. They are Mark Christenson, Dianne Gonzalez, Brandon Hynes, John Jackson, Larry Martin, Cheryl McKoy, John Nichols and Steve Sneideman.

The polls are open 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

SADD hopes mock crash gets the message across

The Plymouth-Canton Schools high school prom was held Saturday, and Salem High School Principal Jerry Ostoin was hoping not to get a call like the one he received the morning after prom in 1974.

"My first year here, I got that phone call," remembered Ostoin, who still gets visibly upset when talking about it. "Four kids were killed in an alcohol-related accident. It was heartbreaking going to four different funerals.

"You're constantly talking to kids about drinking and driving," he said. "But sometimes, kids will be kids."

Nearly 2,000 Plymouth-Canton juniors and seniors were given the message Thursday morning in dramatic fashion.

Four of their classmates were riding in a car when it veered off the road and crashed into a tree. Canton

Township wastes no time with 2 layoffs

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER

Just hours after the township board approved the proposal to lay off employees, the pink slips started landing on the desks.

The township board of trustees voted 5-2 Tuesday to eliminate 11.5 positions – mostly in the building and inspection department – in response to a slowdown in residential building, and the decreased revenues the township collects on building permits. The resolution to reduce staffing levels stated that the jobs would be eliminated no later than June 30. But two jobs were cut the day after the vote.

Two non-union positions – the Neighborhood Coordinator position and the Deputy Building Official position – were eliminated the following day. The employees in those positions were notified at 2 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. that their jobs would be eliminated effective May 12, and they were placed immediately on paid leave until that time, according to Administrative and Community Services Director Dan Durack.

"When the lay-offs were presented it was stated that the two non-union positions would be eliminated as soon as practicable," said Municipal Services Director Tim Faas. Administrators chose May 12 as the date the jobs would be cut.

"What we chose to do is rather than have them work during that period of time, was to put them on (paid) administrative leave," Faas said. "When you know your (lay-off) date is that close, it's hard to come in and do the job, and it's also very hard on the rest of the staff. Plus, having the extra

Top police officer known for empathy, consistency

BY CAROL MARSHALL

It's a tough job, police work. It's also sometimes a dangerous job. And it's a job which can make staying cool and professional pretty tough some days. But Canton Police Officer Tim Wright was recognized Thursday for his high level of professionalism and compassion even in the most difficult cases, as he was named by the department Officer of the Year.

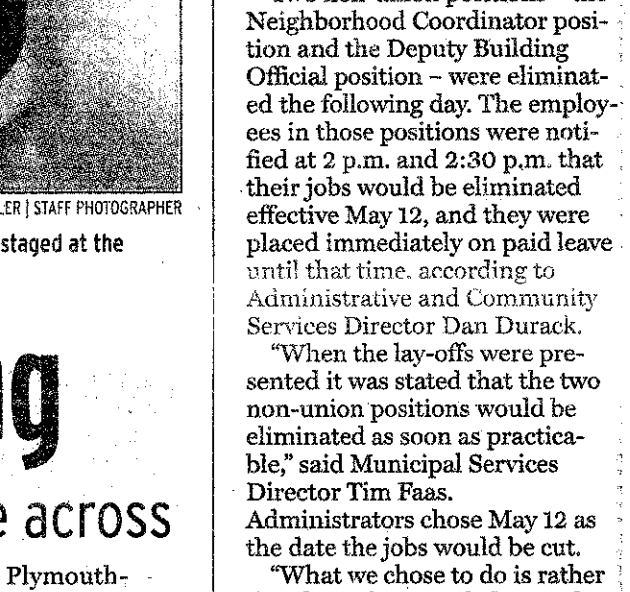

Wright, who in 2005 finished a four-year rotation as a detective and has recently returned to road patrol, handled high profile cases and daily assignments with a high level of "compassion and empathy," said Director of Public Safety John Santomauro. At the same time, Wright was consistently "methodical, technical and exact" in his investigative methods, while also supportive of crime victims, offering them kindness during troubling times, he added.

It's not an easy balance to strike, Santomauro said at the 20th Annual Canton Police Department Awards and Citations Ceremony.

Statistically speaking, police work takes a toll on those who do it, according to Santomauro, who said that police officers have a high rate of alcoholism and substance abuse, and regularly rank in the top five professions, in terms of suicide rates.

And very few people really understand what it means to be a police officer.

"This is the only occupation that I'm aware of with such unique and traumatic life experiences,"

Canton's Officer of the Year is Timothy Wright.

Santomauro said of the issues regularly encountered by police officers.

Robin Bush was also recognized as Civilian of the Year. Bush has been a dispatcher for the department for 16 years.

Canton Asthma and Allergy will conduct free asthma screenings May 1 at Ricardson's Pharmacy, which is located at 42433 Ford Road. The event is part of the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology's Nationwide Asthma Screening Program, a public service campaign designed to help adults and children with breathing problems find out if they are at risk for asthma.

Adults attending the screening program will answer a standard 20-question Life Quality to determine if they might have asthma or if their asthma is under control. Children under the age 15 take a special test called the Kids' Asthma Check.

In addition to completing the questionnaires, participants will take a special lung function test that involves blowing into a tube, and they will meet with an allergist to determine if they should seek a thorough examination and diagnosis.

For more information about the screening program, call Canton Asthma and Allergy at (734) 394-2661.

time off gives them a jump of two weeks where they can go look for other opportunities."

The balance of the layoffs are union positions, and they were notified April 27 that their last day of work in those jobs will be June 30.

However, there will be opportunities for some of those employees to fill vacancies created by an early retirement incentive program, which was approved April 25 by the township board, said Faas.

"The reality is that there will be in the clerical staff, and potentially in AFSCME (American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees union), other vacancies that get created by the early retirement incentive, and union employees affected by the lay-off may be able to fill those," Faas said. "But on the non-union side, we don't anticipate there will be positions created that the two non-union employees can fill."

He said that there are some non-union positions that may be vacant after the early retirements, specifically noting two foreman positions in public works, but those jobs require a special operator license, which neither the neighborhood coordinator nor the deputy building official have.

Canton resident Charles Mott had urged the township board not to eliminate the neighborhood coordinator position, which was filled by Kris Sanders. Sanders had contacted Mott after having been dismissed from duties.

"The Canton Homeowners Advisory Council will dearly miss her," Mott said.

police and fire arrived to find one teenage girl dead, thrown out of the vehicle because she wasn't wearing a seat belt; two others critically injured, with one taken by ambulance treatment and another, who would eventually become paralyzed for the rest of his life, transported by helicopter; with the driver facing a second-degree murder charge after failing a breathalyzer test.

The incident happened at the P-CEP football stadium. Fortunately, it was a mock demonstration by Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) to show the effects of drinking and driving, just days before the weekend prom.

Salem senior Elena Sokoloski of Canton Township was shaken.

"It was so real, and I knew some of the people (high school actors) in the car," said Sokoloski. "I was thinking 'What if that was me?'

"I know a lot of people who plan on drinking after prom," she said.

"They think it's cool and they're being rebellious."

Alex Poe, 17, said SADD recognizes prom is a time of heavy drinking by teens.

"We're just trying to raise the awareness of what drunk driving can do," said Poe, of Canton.

"People make bad decisions, and we're just trying to show this is what can happen if you make those kind of decisions."

Canton Officer Gina Brooke covers Alex Rabe's 'corpse' during the mock crash staged at the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park Thursday.

Poe said he can still remember an accident last year, in which a friend was killed by a drunk driver.

"It was shocking," he said. "When you're a teenager, you don't think about dying."

Eighteen-year-old Christine Bedenis of Plymouth Township, who said she doesn't drink, is hoping her friends who do will get the message from the realistic accident scene.

"Showing them in the most extreme form will make them think a little more about what they're doing, and how it affects other people," said Bedenis.

"Hearing people talk about their drunk stories is kind of annoying."

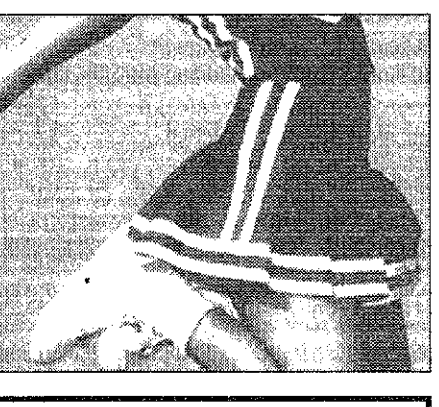

SADD President Brad Wiley said they won't be able to change the habits of all teens, but if they can get to one or two ...

"Unfortunately, even after this assembly, there will still be kids who will drink and drive, and show up to prom drunk," said Wiley, 17, of Canton.

"Hopefully, a couple of them will second-guess themselves before they do."

Savitskie says....

Mortgage Tip #5:

"You don't need perfect– just two out of three"

"Any time you apply for a mortgage, three big factors come into play: your credit score, your income and your assets. And, even though you may be weak in one of these areas, it's not necessarily a deal breaker.

If for example, your credit score is low, you may still acquire financing based on the strength of your income history and savings. If you're retired or on a limited or fixed income but have a good credit rating and considerable home equity, you may still qualify.

With so many loan program available, chances are you'll qualify for one–if you have two out of three. After all, nobody's perfect."

Mark Savitskie knows what he's talking about.

Canton truck driver part of deadly crash

A 37-year-old Canton truck driver was injured and hospitalized following a crash that killed four university students, including an 18-year-old female from Gaylord, as they traveled from Taylor University in Fort Wayne, Ind., to the college's campus in Upland, Ind. A 53-year-old university employee was also killed in the accident, and another four people were injured.

Robert Spencer was the driver of a 1996 Freightliner semi-tractor trailer loaded with baking flour. According to Indiana State Police reports, at just after 8 p.m. April 26, the truck crossed over a grassy freeway median on I-69, then sideswiped the van in which the students were riding. The crash tore through the entire van's driver's side, causing several of the van's occupants to be ejected from the vehicle. All five people were pronounced dead at the scene by the Grant County coroner.

Two of the van's occupants were flown to Parkview Hospital in Fort Wayne, while two more were taken to Marion General Hospital in Marion, Ind. Spencer was also initially taken to Marion General, but was later flown to Parkview Hospital. According to police reports, the driver and front seat passenger of the van were wearing seat belts, but the remaining passenger's seat belt usage could not be determined, due to the severity of the crash.

Indiana State Police motor carrier inspectors will conduct a detailed mechanical inspection of the semi-tractor trailer as a routine requirement. Although it is not suspected in this case, Indiana state law requires drivers of motor vehicles involved in serious injury or fatal crashes to submit to a mandatory blood draw to determine whether alcohol or drugs were a factor in a crash.

The accident is still under investigation and will be turned over to the Grant County Prosecutor's office when completed for its review.

Among those killed were Whitney E. Cerak, 18, of Gaylord. Student Laura J. Vanryn, 22, of Caledonia, Mich., was injured in the crash, and airlifted to Parkview Hospital.

An open letter to DFCU Financial

MEMBERS

We are extremely disappointed to learn that a small group of members has submitted a petition to recall our Board of Directors, which is a reckless and irresponsible act that is putting our credit union and our jobs at risk.

We, the employees of DFCU Financial, believe in and fully support our Board of Directors and management – and we say this of our own free will.

As employees who work hard each day to earn your trust and meet your financial needs, we hope you will take a moment to read how we feel about this risky and dangerous proposition. Below is just a sampling of what some of us have to say:

I am proud to work under the direction of our CEO, his management team, and the Board of Directors. It is through their vision that DFCU Financial has become what it is today. I am ecstatic to be a part of such a well-run organization. I am appalled that a few members are trying to sabotage what the employees and members of this credit union have worked so hard to accomplish. Please Vote No!! No Change – No Recall!! Save my career that I have worked so hard to build under the unprecedented guidance of the current management team!

Deanna Iaquinta – 6 years

I have always felt very privileged to be working here. The last five years have been the most exciting. I can't help but be proud of the leadership DFCU Financial has right now and see that the future is full of growth for all of us. Thank you to our CEO for your insight and for the many strides we have made with you as our leader. I look forward to what the future brings us.

Julie Lelekatch – 18 years

I have been a member for 32 years and an employee for 12 years. I am very upset that a small group of members are trying to recall the Board. The credit union is running at its best with the current Board and executive management team. This is not just my credit union; it's my job, my livelihood. I just hope people will take the time to think about what recalling a Board really means and vote NO CHANGE NO RECALL!

Kimberly Belanger – 12 years

I have been an employee with DFCU Financial for almost three years. Under the current leadership, we have reaped the benefits of upper management's expertise. Recalling our Board would be a grave error. Our jobs, as well as members' assets, are threatened by underlying motives of the former Board of Directors. The truth is coming out, and you as members will make the right decision.

Sharon Zalmanowski – 3 years

I see a credit union managed by leaders and visionaries, not followers and self-serving interests. I see a credit union that cares about its members and employees foremost. I see a credit union that stands on a foundation of strong principles, sound business practices, and honest and fair leadership. I see a credit union that makes me proud to be an employee and a member.

Nancy Urbin – 2 years

I have worked here for about four years, and I wouldn't want to work anywhere else. DFCU Financial has opened many doors for me, and I love this place. It just keeps getting better! We have a great team and a very strong Board and president in place!

Andrea Yoder – 4 years

The integrity of our CEO and our Board is impeccable. I have worked for several CEOs and have never had one who could call me by name after our first meeting. It is a joy to come to work every day and know that I am working for a company that truly cares about its employees, their families and the community as a whole.

Peggy VanOoteghem – 2 years

We aren't only employees of the credit union; we are members as well. We care deeply about the future of our jobs and our credit union.

When the time comes to vote to recall our Board of Directors, we implore you to vote NO. By doing so, you guarantee that the credit union you have come to depend on will continue to be here – and we'll still be here – to serve you and protect your money.

Most sincerely,

DFCU Financial Employees

Man stabbed

On Saturday, April 29, at 1:45 a.m. Canton police responded to the UAW Hall located at 48055 Michigan Ave. on a cell phone call from a person inside the hall reporting gunfire. Officers arrived and observed a large crowd of people running to their vehicles and leaving the parking lot in a hurry. Officers found spent bullet casings and a puddle of blood in the lot but no victim.

A check of area hospitals revealed a 20-year-old man from Ypsilanti Township being treated at the hospital for nine stab wounds to the body (none of which are life-threatening). Detectives from the Canton police interviewed the victim who stated that he was assaulted in the parking lot after performing on stage at the hall. There are no reports of anybody being shot but several witnesses observed a male shooting a handgun in the air causing people to flee the area.

The case remains under investigation.

Humane Society offers $20,000 in case of killed animals

The Humane Society of Huron Valley is offering a $20,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of whomever is responsible for killing, decapitating and dumping several dogs in Superior Township.

On March 16, a female Rottweiler was found bound by her feet with duct tape and decapitated.

By March 27 three other decapitated dogs, including another Rottweiler, a Terrier, and a Lab mix, and five other dead dogs that appear to be linked to the case, had been found.

All of the dogs were found in close proximity to each other in Superior Township.

To date, there has not been a match of pet owners to these dogs.

The issue of trapping and illegal dumping of wild animals, initially thought to be related to this case, is being separated out and handled by the Department of Natural Resources.

"We believe this is a very serious case of animal cruelty," said Julie Curtis, cruelty investigator for the Humane Society of Huron Valley.

"We've received well over 300 tips. We are working intensively with the detective from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and the Department of Natural Resources to get this case solved as quickly as possible."

"We are deeply touched by the outpouring of support shown for the pain and suffering of these animals and the work of HSHV to stop the person or persons responsible," HSHV executive director Tanya Hilgendorf said.

"Although this has been a very disturbing case for the local community, neighbors may be comforted to know that we are getting calls of support and encouragement from across the country."

Last week, actress/comedian Brett Butler offered to do a Public Service Announcement on animal cruelty and the Doris Day Animal Foundation donated $2,500 to the investigation.

Humane Society of Huron Valley officials are also reminding the community that animal cruelty is common.

Abuse and torture of innocent animals, dog fighting, animal neglect and abandonment is a daily occurrence. HSHV has done more than 1,300 investigations of animal cruelty in Washtenaw County over the last five years, and helps almost 9,000 animals in its shelter each year, many of which have been abandoned, abused and neglected.

To offer information on this case, call the HSHV tip line at (734) 662-5585, Ext. 127.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Vote no

I hope the taxpayers of the Plymouth-Canton school district have enough sense to see through and past the obviously politically motivated gesture of increasing the fees for use of the Central Middle School recreational facilities. While certainly justified, correct and overdue, this well-timed but poorly disguised attempt to demonstrate financial responsibility by the board and Supt. Jim Ryan cannot cover up the giveaways of school district assets to special interest groups.

The most outrageous example was the deed restriction requested by Mr. Ryan to provide a few dozen homeowners a nature area buffer to their properties known as Miller Woods at Powell and Ridge roads. Then to compound this damage to the asset value of this property, owned by all the taxpayers in the district, Mr. Ryan and the board saw fit to take this property off the market even though the state has made it clear that no school will be approved for this property, a fact Ryan has freely acknowledged.

And if this egregious mismanagement of a district asset was not enough, earmarking $12.9 million to be dumped into a decaying Central Middle School with its serious structural and environmental deficiencies (for historical preservation?) must be met with a resounding NO. The only way voters in Plymouth-Canton can show Mr. Ryan and the board they must be represented, and manage the assets of the district in the best interests of all the taxpayers, is to vote no on the bond proposals May 2.

Ryan and the board have demonstrated they are incapable of managing the current assets of the district, incapable of projecting sound financial decisions, and therefore cannot be trusted to administer any additional monies.

Thomas P. Gamache

Choose team players

Over the last decade, I have worked to elect a number of school board candidates and have been an interested observer of school board politics in Plymouth-Canton. Here is what I have observed:

1. Every school board member and candidate shares a common goal of doing what is best for the kids. While they often differ on specifics, no one pushes for something they believe violates this goal. This assures they are "all the same" and we should be glad they are.

2. Every person elected to the board quickly learns they have little individual authority. They are one of seven votes that must take into account parents, teachers, administration and the communities at large.

3. Citizens who get involved to make the district better are what sustain and invigorate board members through their terms. Citizens who bring only criticism and negativity without viable suggestions for improvement are every board member's bane.

4. School board members distinguish themselves less by what they do on the board and more by how they behave after their terms are over. Whether they leave voluntarily or because of electoral loss, former board members define their individual legacy by their post-board behavior.

When you boil all this down, what remains is one fact. The most effective board members are the ones who are team players before, during and after their terms in office. That is why I am voting for John Jackson and Steven Sneideman. Even before being elected, they act in a manner that shows they understand a board member's role and will be valued members of the Plymouth-Canton community school board team.

Please vote May 2 and, when you vote, choose the two people you would want on your team.

Bond a big deal

In reference to the Plymouth-Canton Schools bond issue, is this a big deal? I hope so. Our kids are beginning to suffer from advancements in facilities and technology elsewhere.

Is this too big? Not compared with what I had. I am a graduate of the old Plymouth High School (now Central Middle School). We were relatively tiny, but were well-equipped. And most of us progressed well as good citizens, able to fit in with higher education and employment requirements. We were up to date then, but times have changed markedly; more and better facilities are mandatory now.

Can I afford this? It is only a few bucks, really; I can afford it, and I am retired. A small bit to keep up with educational needs, and what about the effect on property value? Also, think of the relationship with building southeast Michigan economically. We must raise the standards for capability of kids in our community. We must be careful not to cut off our noses to spite our faces.

Hugh Harsha

Governor lauded

I would like to applaud Gov. Jennifer Granholm for appointing women to judgeships in southeast Michigan.

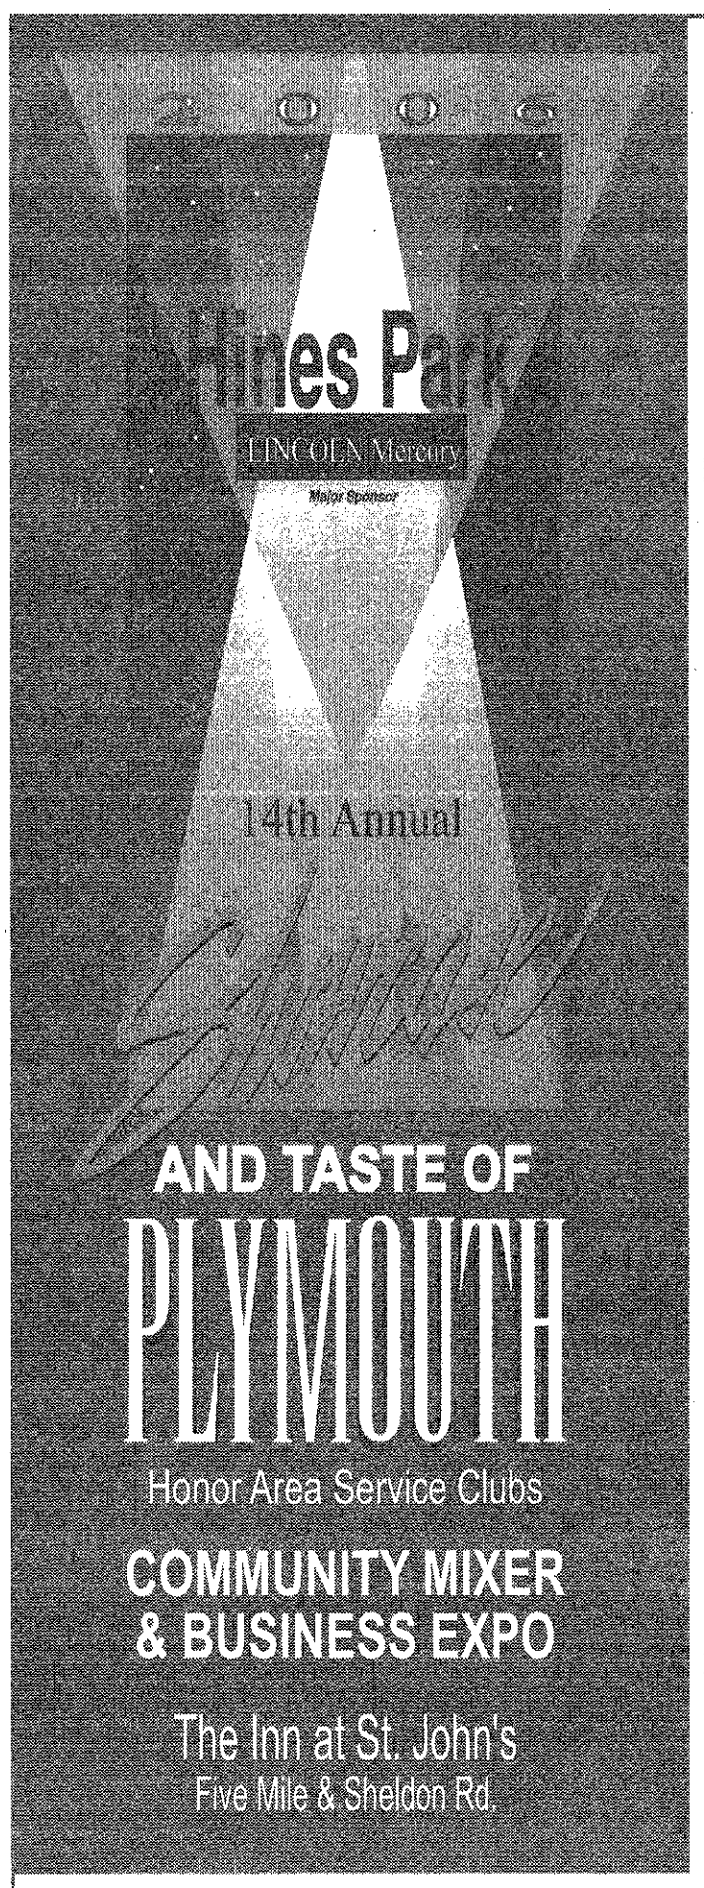

Just in the past month, Gov. Granholm appointed Judge Deborah Servitto as Appeals Court Judge for the 2nd District, serving the counties of Macomb, Oakland, Shiawassee and Genesee.

Additionally, Gov. Granholm promoted an outstanding district judge, the Honorable Deborah Ross Adams, to the Third Circuit Court. And she also appointed assistant prosecutor Ruth Carter and assistant general counsel Cylenthia LaToye to be judges of the 36th District Court.

Historically, our courts have been led almost exclusively by male judges. Gov. Granholm is beginning to bring balance to our courts. Her actions are needed and will result in a better, more inclusive court that more accurately reflects our state's population.

Thank you, Gov. Granholm.

Feikens warns that disputes over water rates must end

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

Warning that political squabbles over water and sewer rates could severely damage efforts to maintain the region's aging water infrastructure, federal District Judge John Feikens urged area political leaders to end their bickering and cooperate.

Feikens, who was appointed in 1977 to oversee the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department's compliance with the federal Clean Water Act, was the keynote speaker Thursday at an all-day forum on water issues co-sponsored by DWSD and the Southeast Michigan Conference of Governments.

"I foresee that if Detroit and the suburbs stay in this stalemate, the financing that is needed for repair and maintenance of the infrastructure will disappear," he said.

Feikens said Detroit's dramatic growth following World War II and the sprawling suburban development that followed the interstate highway system in the late 1950s has created enormous pressures on a water and sewer system that now serves almost half of the state's population. Feikens' role in overseeing compliance with the Clean Water Act has expanded into every aspect of DWSD operations, including the ongoing disputes over rates charged to suburban communities and the handling of contracts by the department.

State Sen. Laura Toy, R-Livonia, has twice sponsored bills to create an oversight authority to give suburbs more input on rates and contracts. Both times the measures were vetoed by Gov. Jennifer Granholm.

Feikens said he believes the racial tensions between the city and suburbs have been a contributing factor.

"My work with the Civil Rights Commission made me aware of tensions in that area," he said. "In recent decisions, the DWSD system, vital as it is, has received challenges from suburban communities who have no say in its ownership. This will not be solved by legislation or litigation, but only by cooperation."

Feikens said Detroit needs a governing system "worthy of this gift," the area's rich water resource.

"Suburbs and city need each other. This long-running dispute over water rates must end," he said.

Feikens called for a bipartisan approach. He praised the leadership of William Ford Jr. and Tim O'Brien of Ford Motor Co. in their work with the Southeast Michigan Consortium for Water Quality. He also praised former Republican Gov. William Milliken, a member of committee to recommend ways to end the city-suburban disputes, as a model of bipartisan leadership.

"Keep your powder dry and think of ways we can assure the region's future together," Feikens said. "By the end of September, I expect a report and recommendations. They will work in ways that are constructive and cooperative."

Feikens also praised the current management of DWSD under the direction of Victor Mercado.

Feikens' concerns about the water system's infrastructure were echoed by lunchtime speaker Jack Hoffbuhr, executive director of the American Water Works Association. He warned that most pipes in the water system will soon be wearing out.

He said money has been pumped into government-mandated treatment programs, which have changed over time to meet changing health and safety concerns. Meanwhile, not enough money has been invested in replacing piping.

"We should have been talking what was happening to their equity," he said.

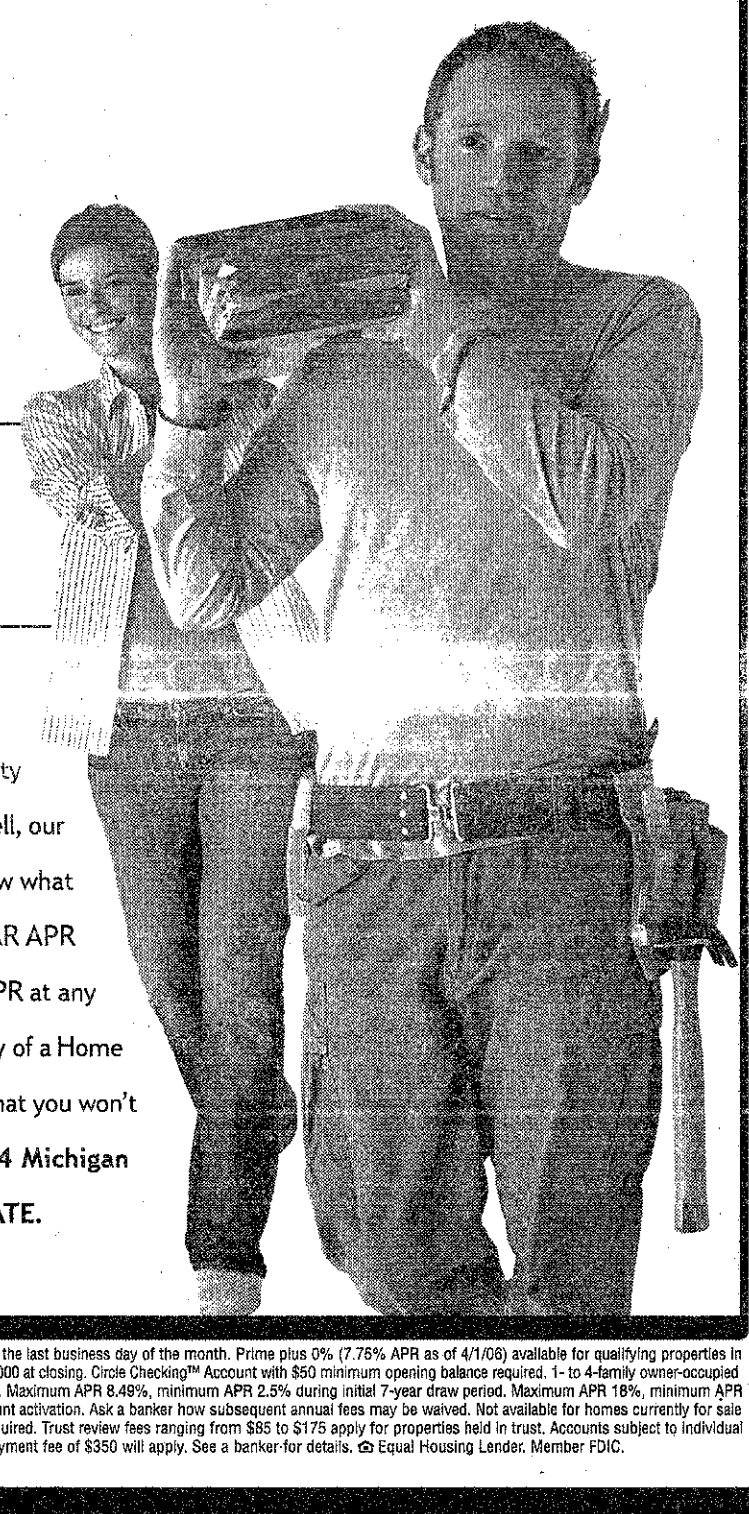

He said water rates are too low. He said the rates don't reflect adequate funding for repairs and rehabilitation. He added that rates will have to go up to "support sustainable delivery of reliable service."

The Partnering for the Future forum was held at the Ford Conference and Event Center in Dearborn. Concurrent sessions covered security issues, developments in operations and regional collaboration.

ANOTHER LOOK AT FOOT PAIN

A painful foot gets your attention immediately. Being unable to walk is a nuisance at best and a catastrophe at worse; you don't put off seeking out a specialist. However, there is much about the pain that allows you to gain an idea of what is happening, and even take measures, on you own, to alleviate the problem.

The first question to ask yourself is "where is the pain coming from"? If the pain starts on the inside of the first toe, on top of the foot, or on the outside and back of the foot, consider your shoes as the source. Feet only grow wider as you grow older. The shoe you wear may not have adjusted to your age; your pain comes from pressure on the foot.

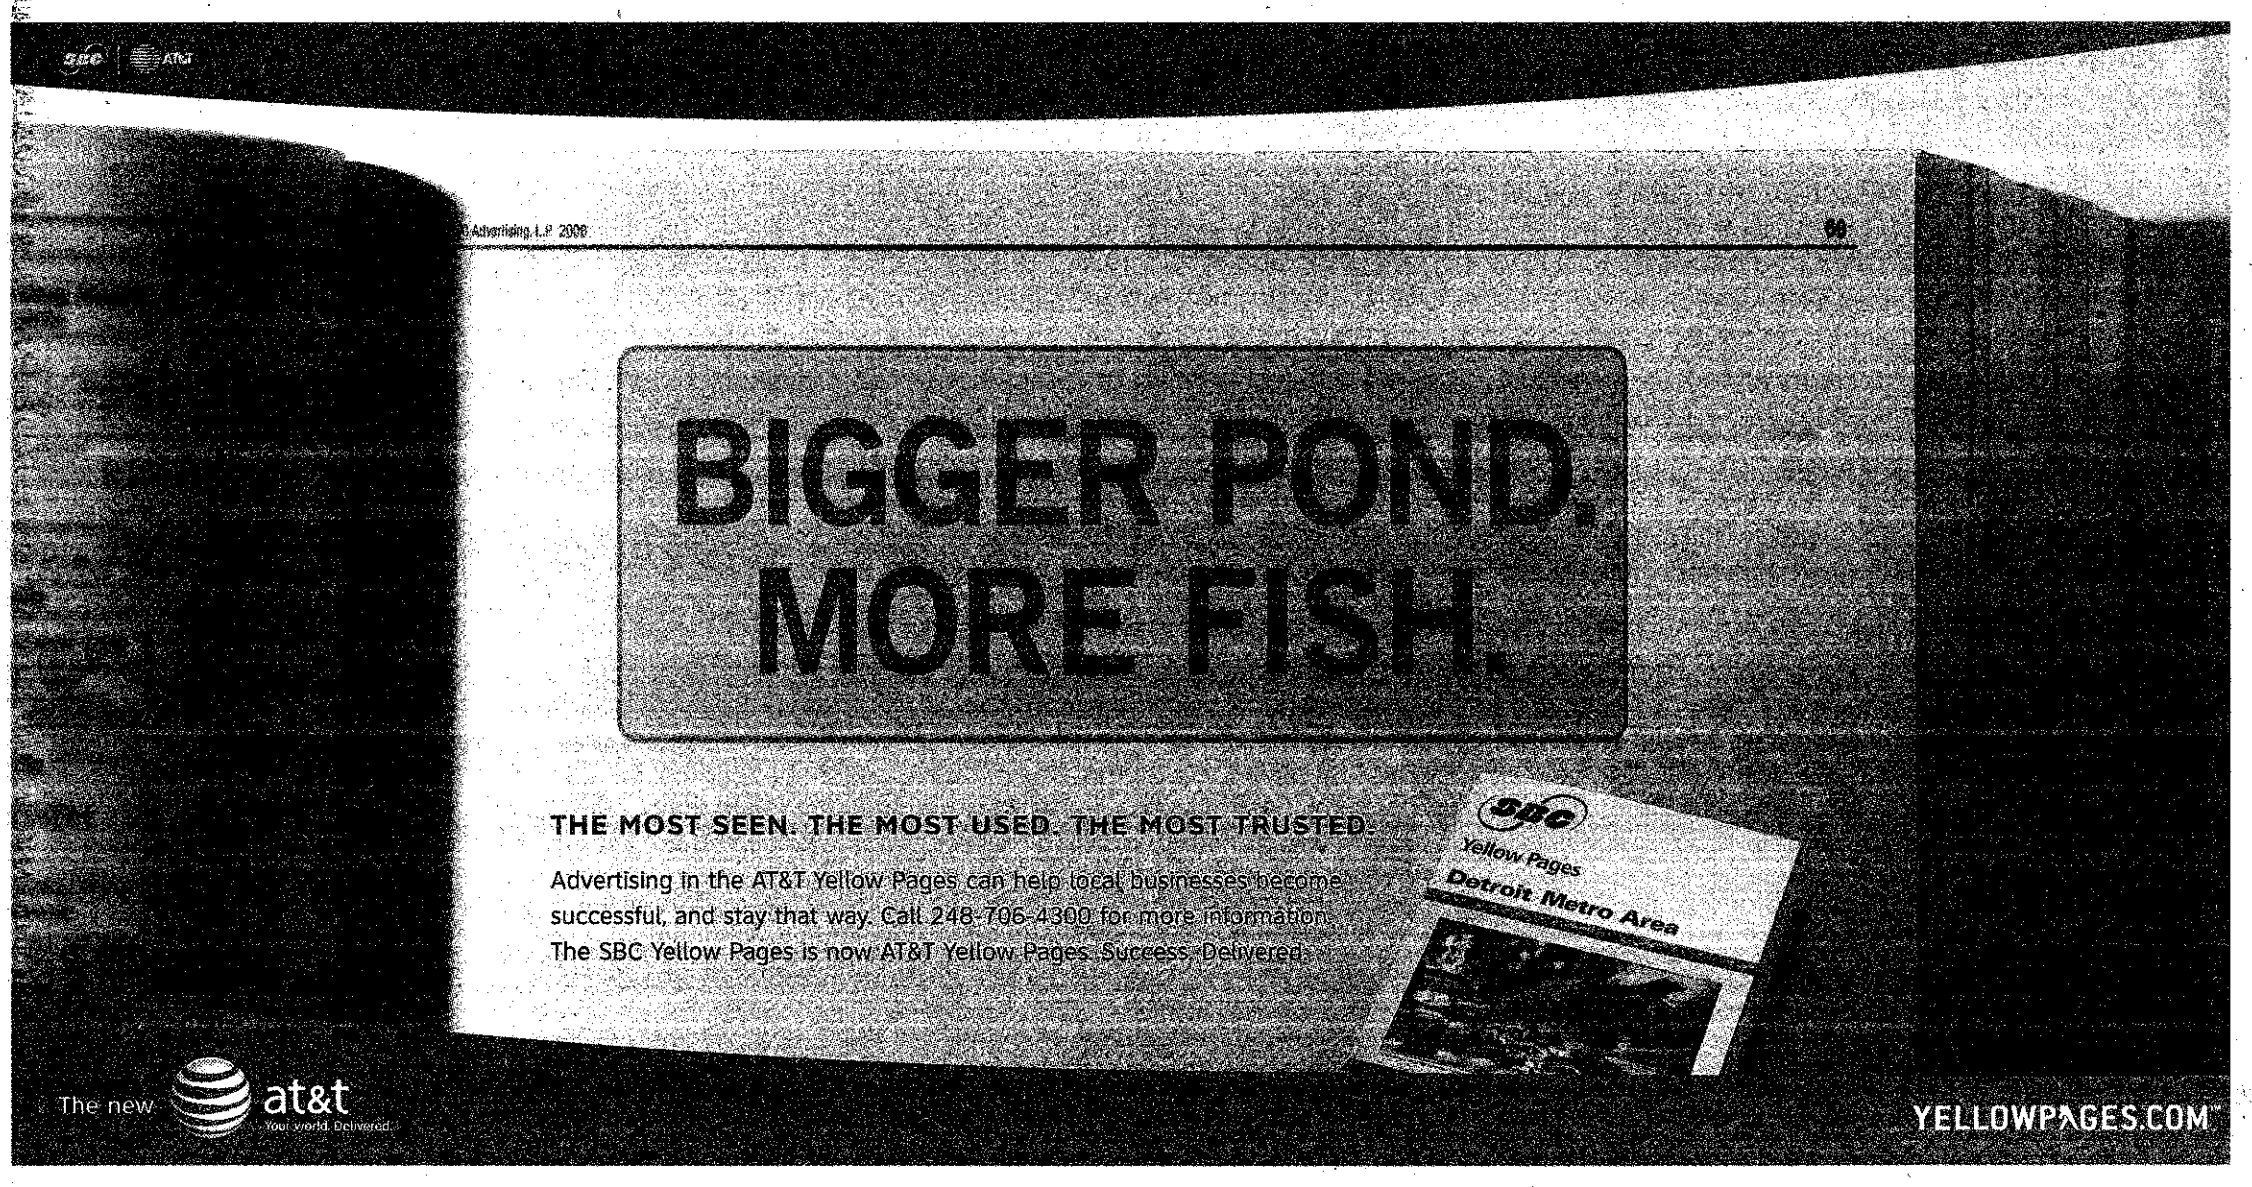

The next question to ask is: What is the state of your health? If you are a diabetic, your pain may be a reflection of diabetic neuropathy. If you have poor circulation your foot pain could represent difficulty in the blood supply to the foot area.

Other problems including gout, types of arthritis like psoriatic or rheumatoid, or problems in the bottom of the feet such as plantar fasciitis need evaluation by a physician or podiatrist.

Often, your pain will not need medication or a procedure. Rather, use of supports, in the profession called orthotics. Will provide the foundation your feet need.

Generally, the medical community can care for foot problems. In part the reason is that feet are vital to function, and a foot problem gets prompt attention. In turn, immediate care is the best way to prevent later complications and impairment.

OUR VIEWS

Sneideman, Gonzalez get our nod in Tuesday's school race

With the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools facing large projected deficits, many observers believe the next four years will be crucial to the district's survival, which puts a lot of pressure on the district's Board of Education, which is losing two experienced incumbents.

We believe Steve Sneideman and Dianne Gonzalez would be the best candidates to fill the two, four-year seats.

Sneideman, a purchaser with IBM who lives in Canton, showed he's willing to "put his money where his mouth is" with his involvement on the district's housing committee. His twin daughters were redistricted from West Middle School to Pioneer and he spoke out against the move, though his family has since adjusted well to it.

When he read about vacancies on the committee, he got involved in the process, rather than just complain about it. Now he sees both sides of redistricting issues and is able to impart those perspectives.

He's been president of his homeowners association and he currently serves as the president of the Cruisers, the large youth swimming organization.

Sneideman

Gonzalez

Sneideman has put thought and effort into his school board run. He sat with district officials to obtain a better understanding of the budget and researched the district's MEAP performance and funding compared to comparable districts.

A Plymouth Township resident, Gonzalez would bring a varied perspective to the mix. She's a former teacher, having taught in Detroit Public Schools for 10 years. She's a mother to elementary school-age children and she and her husband run their own residential and commercial real estate company.

Gonzalez's interest in the school board was piqued last year when the district's housing committee recommended redistricting some students from Bird Elementary to Farrand. She said she was concerned the board would bow to pressure from a vociferous few, even though the committee had put months of effort into the plan.

Some of her thinking is different. She's one of the few candidates who isn't necessarily sold on the district's two-part bond proposal, scheduled for the May 2 election. She thinks the board should take more responsibility for coming up with cuts to battle a shrinking budget, rather than relying so heavily on the administration to come up with them.

Some think she's a one-issue candidate: Putting an elementary school at Miller Woods.

Although she did suggest the board chose the wrong spot for an elementary school, we don't believe that's her only concern.

With so many important issues facing the school board in the next few years, it's important voters make the right decisions May 2. We believe electing Steve Sneideman and Dianne Gonzalez would do the trick.

Vote 'yes' on both bond proposals

Plymouth-Canton school officials are asking for some $120 million in a pair of bond questions set to be on the ballot when voters go to the polls May 2.

Voters should give it to them.

When you've got teachers teaching off of carts (as is the case with the art program) and more kids in the schools than the buildings were meant to hold, there's a definite problem. The primary proposal, for $95.4 million, is designed to ease those conditions. But it will do much more than that. It will allow the district to build a second middle school in Canton, which produces the majority of middle schoolers. It will allow for the renovation and repurposing of Central Middle School, which most observers agree is past its prime as a primary education center. That, in turn, would allow the alternative education students, who currently use the dilapidated Starkweather facility, to move to Central.

If the first question passes, the money raised would improve and add classrooms at the elementary levels; leave the elementaries with their own art and music classrooms; remodel the Tanger Center; and give the district 10 new buses. It will only raise taxes 0.6 mills.

Perhaps the best part of the plan is the new Career and Technical Education Center, which would house existing career curriculums such as electronics/robotics, health occupations, culinary arts, engineering, graphics and informational technology plus new courses in construction technology and public safety.

The second part of the bond, for $24.8 million (0.22 mills), will provide for a theater and a pool at Plymouth High School, an auxiliary gym at Salem and upgrades at various baseball, softball and soccer fields.

Many observers have described these as "wants" rather than needs, but consider this: There are serious demands made on the district's two pools and two theaters (DuBois at Canton and Logan at Salem).

District officials were able to put the entire proposal together for less than 1 mill. With median home values in the district at $275,000, passing both questions would cost the average homeowner some $117 a year.

The district was wise in saying the second ballot proposal couldn't pass without the first one. It's like the first question is dinner, the second is dessert, and district officials don't want voters to spoil their dinner.

Considering the district's reputation for doing much more with less, and the fact it can get all this work done for less than 1 mill, we think voters should spring for dinner and dessert, and approve both questions.

Vote for younger voice

On May 2, our community will be asked to elect two school board trustees — a decision that will have a great impact on the future of our school system. The trustees will not only work to set the philosophy and goals of our district, but also debate important issues like curriculum changes, funding and cutting of specific programs, student policies and expectations, etc. By having a representative for the young generation of learners, our district will have the unique benefit of a balanced and diverse board that can positively represent every faction of this community. In order for the school board to truly work toward improving student achievement while encouraging and demanding excellence, having that representative is a must.

No one can deny that all of the candidates running equally value our schools and want very much to work together to protect and enhance them. But what I will offer is a different perspective and a young voice and vision for our schools. As always, please contact me. My cell number (734) 740-6605 and e-mail BrandonforSchooolBoard@yahoo.com are always available to you — the community who this board is supposed to represent.

'Trust' part of trustee

Next Tuesday, voters in the Plymouth-Canton school district will have the opportunity to elect two candidates school board. As you do your research into these candidates, think of what your vote will mean to you, your children and the other 18,000 children in the district.

What does a school board trustee do? Chooses what your children will study by directing and approving the curriculum; influences what university your child will attend or job he will get by affecting the quality of education offered; picks your child's friends by setting the attendance boundaries of the schools; changes how much you pay in taxes by proposing bond issues; increases the value of your house by keeping this area a desirable place to live.

After last month's League of Women Voters Candidate forum, there were complaints the candidates sounded too much the same. I find it heartening to hear people say that. We have eight candidates that care enough about the district to step into a part-time job that will take them away from family and friends for up to 20 hours a week.

So how can you decide who to choose for your votes? Think of the qualities or traits that a trustee needs. Did you notice the use of the word "trust" in trustee?

- Integrity — I have chosen to obey the sign ordinances in the district. That may not seem like much. However, how can I explain to my four daughters that breaking the law is OK as long as I get elected?
- Independence — I am not affiliated with any special interest group, board members or any other people who can try to sway my votes. I will represent the whole district, not any special group.
- Dedication — I have attended all the board meetings and workshops for over a year now. I have done my homework for this position. I do not have any political ambitions beyond making sure the Plymouth-Canton Community School District continues to provide the excellent education that it does today. This is not a professional development activity for me. I don't need "school board trustee" on my resumé. I need a quality education for my children and yours.
- Honesty and openness — I have been open and honest in all my interviews. For example, my honesty in asking questions about the bond stopped me from being endorsed by the MEA. The questions I've asked about the bond operating budget have to be answered, preferably before the election.
- Leadership — It takes four votes to pass motions on the board. I have worked in a team environment for almost 20 years. Collaboration, working together to find win-win solutions, is a way of life for me.

Remember these qualities as you step into the voting booth May 2.

The 26.2-mile adrenaline rush

110th Boston Marathon brings out the best in local long-distance runners

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

With 20 miles of grueling running behind her and Boston's treacherous "Heartbreak Hill" waiting to suck more life out of her aching quads, Canton's Chris Balch needed a pick-me-up approximately two-thirds through her first Boston Marathon April 17.

A pick-me-up is exactly what Balch received when she reached the peak of the notoriously steep incline, which has a nasty reputation of pushing runners past their breaking points.

"When I got to the top, I looked over and saw my husband and my kids standing there," recalled Balch. "My 5-year-old daughter and 6-year-old son were holding signs that said, 'Go, Go, Go Mom' and 'Go, Go Chris Balch.' That gave me the extra shot of adrenaline I needed to keep running hard."

Balch was one of several Plymouth and Canton residents who completed the 110th running of the Boston Marathon, which is considered the Super Bowl of long-distance running events. The race, which is held annually on "Patriots Day" in Boston, attracts the world's elite long-distance runners — and tens of thousands of fans, who line the streets of the course to offer unyielding support for the participants.

"It was exhilarating the whole time for me because of all the people lining the streets, cheering for the runners," said Canton's Soojin Koh. "I didn't anticipate it being as much fun as it was. In the three marathons I had run in before Boston, I had always hit the 'Wall.' Even though the course was probably the toughest I've ever run on, I didn't hit the wall in Boston because of the adrenaline rush I had the whole time."

Koh finished in 3:35, which was 25 minutes below her pre-race goal.

"When I rounded the last corner and headed down Boylston Street, I got really choked up," admitted Koh. "It's an amazing feeling with all these people cheering for you. When I crossed the finish line, I was thinking, 'Wow! They're cheering for me, and I'm not even a Kenyan!"

The area's top finisher was 25-year-old Plymouth resident Kevin Pline, whose 2:36.22 was good enough for 75th place among the male competitors and 86th overall.

Running in his first Boston Marathon, Pline benefited from some wise advice that was offered by several friends who had already run the race in previous years.

Big 2nd half lifts Spartans

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

Salem's girls soccer team had an answer for everything Livonia Stevenson kicked at them during the first half of Wednesday night's key Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division showdown.

But in the second half, the Rocks couldn't figure out Howe.

That would be Stevenson senior forward Kaitlin Howe, who struck for a pair of post-intermission goals, the first of which gave the hosts a 1-0 lead with 38:00 left in the contest. Howe controlled a slick pass from Kathleen Griffith just inside the 18-yard box and to the left of the goal. She then directed a slow, bouncing shot that barely eluded diving Salem goalie Jill Slabey and found the back-right corner.

Salem defender Tara Duncan's diving attempt to keep the ball out of the net was unsuccessful.

Four minutes later, Stevenson's Victoria Slavin took a pass from Ally King and broke through a trio of Rock defenders before beating Slabey with a crafty one-on-one maneuver.

Howe and Alana Avery contributed insurance goals for the Spartans, who improved to 7-1-2 overall and 1-0 in the WLAA's Lakes Division. Salem dipped to 2-3-1 and 1-2-1, respectively.

"Salem played very defensively to start the game," Stevenson coach Chris Pinta. "Each time we crossed midfield, they had six to eight back to defend, making it difficult to move the ball.

"In the second half, we changed some things around and began to play quicker, especially when switching the ball."

Whalers' Pisellini signs with Flyers

Plymouth Whalers 19-year-old right wing Gino Pisellini signed an entry-level contract with the National Hockey League's Philadelphia Flyers, Whalers' President, General Manager and Head Coach Mike Vellucci announced Thursday.

Terms of the agreement were not announced by the Flyers, who selected Pisellini in the fifth round (149th overall) of the 2004 NHL Entry Draft. Philadelphia had to sign Pisellini by this summer's 2006 NHL Entry Draft or relinquish his draft rights.

Wildcats win on Klonowski's key hit

PREP SOFTBALL

With two outs in the bottom of the seventh inning and the winning run standing on third base in Friday afternoon's pivotal Western Lakes Activities Association softball game against Livonia Franklin, Plymouth coach Val Canfield called a brief meeting along the third-base line with on-deck batter Kim Klonowski.

"I told Kim that there was nobody else I'd rather have up there than her in that situation and to get in there and make it happen," recalled Canfield. "Her eyes kind of lit up when I told her that."

Klonowski followed her coach's orders and ripped a game-winning single up the middle to score Madison Dresser, who had reached third on a laser-like triple up the right-center field gap.

"That was our best game of the season," said Canfield, whose team improved to 8-0 overall, 6-0 in the WLAA and 3-0 in the Western Division. "That was our first big test and the girls played well. I knew Franklin was a very good team coming into the game and I knew it would be a close game.

"We hit a lot of hard balls the entire game, but we were hitting the ball right at them. I was very impressed with Franklin's defense — especially their outfielders.

The Patriots fell to 7-5, 1-5 and 0-3, respectively.

Trailing 1-0, Franklin pushed across three in the third when Heather Jaroh doubled and scored when Brittany Taylor reached on an error. After Emily Garbutt walked, Taylor scored on Natalie Sanborn's fielder's choice. Jaleece Lavine then delivered an RBI single.

Claire Ostrowski earned the win for Plymouth, yielding five hits and one walk while striking out six. Kim Topolewski took the loss after giving up nine hits and two earned runs.

Dresser, Klonowski, Ostrowski and Beth Heldmeyer collected two hits each for the winners.

CANTON 8, CHURCHILL 3: On Wednesday, sophomore left-hander pitcher Hillary Payne shook off a shaky start to lead the Chiefs to their season-opening sixth-straight victory. The Chiefs are 3-0 in the WLAA. Churchill slipped to 5-5 overall and 3-2 in the league.

Payne limited the Chargers to two hits over the final four innings after yielding three runs and six hits in the first three frames.

Payne didn't walk a batter and finished with seven strike-outs.

"Hillary is coming off an injury, so we're working her back in slowly," said Canton coach Jim Arnold. "She seemed to get stronger as the game went on today.

"We're hitting the ball well. We had 16 hits Monday and we hit the ball well today off a very good pitcher (Bridget Long)."

The Chiefs bolted to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first when Brittany Scero led off with a triple and scored on Rachel Wade's groundout. Churchill tied the game in the second on Chelsea Wydick's RBI single.

Churchill grabbed a 3-1 advantage in the third when lead-off batter Amber Holod singled, advanced to second on a passed ball and scored on Caitlyn Sidor's double.

Alicia Czapski then brought Sidor around with a two-bagger to make it 3-1.

Canton took the lead for good in the third on Kim Beaudoin's two-run double. Beaudoin scored the eventual winning run when Alyssa Johnson's flyball was misplayed by the Chargers' outfield.

The Chargers were hampered by five errors.

"That's the worst defensive game we've had in two years," said Churchill coach Carrie Korican. "I think the sun had something to do with a couple of the errors in the outfield, but overall it was just a lack of concentration."

The Chiefs put the game on ice with three runs in the fifth when Lauren Delapaz led off with a double, was sacrificed to third by Rachel Beaudoin and scored on an infield error that allowed Kim Beaudoin to reach. Johnson then plated Beaudoin with a single. She later scored on a two-out single from Scero.

Scero and Rachel Beaudoin both had two hits for the winners. Delapaz went 1-for-1 with three walks, two runs and a stolen base.

Holod and Czapski both ripped a pair of hits for the Chargers.

Long took the loss after giving up eight hits and three walks while striking out four.

CHURCHILL 3, SALEM 0: Bridget Long tossed a two-hitter and Livonia Churchill (7-5, 3-0) scored all three runs in the fourth inning Friday to blank the host Rocks (4-5, 1-2) in a WLAA-Lakes Division game.

Long struck out 11 and walked six, outdueling Salem's Melissa Leach, who allowed five hits and two walks. Leach fanned three.

Cat Sidor's double started the three-run rally for Churchill. Two errors and a fielders choice followed as Sidor, Alecia Czapski and Julie Lewandowski each scored.

HURON VALLEY 11, PLY. CHRISTIAN 3: Michigan Independent Athletic Conference leader Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (4-0, 4-0) rolled to its fourth straight win Thursday over visiting Plymouth Christian Academy.

Winning pitcher Amanda Gruenewald gave up just four hits, walked three and struck out 13 in seven innings.

Melissa Bergemann provided the offensive punch by going 2-for-4 with four RBI. Emily Helwig went 2-for-2 with a pair of walks and one RBI.

Rachel Wiard went 2-for-3 with an RBI for PCA.

Christy Carnevale was the losing pitcher.

PLYMOUTH 16, JOHN GLENN 1: On Wednesday, junior Claire Ostrowski recorded her third no-hitter of the season against the Rockets, who managed their only run in the first following a walk, a wild pitch and an error.

Ostrowski struck out six and walked three.

The Wildcats ran away with the three-inning, mercy rule-shortened contest by scoring five runs in the first, nine in the second and two in the third.

"We were totally in control of the game from the beginning," said Plymouth coach Val Canfield. "Except for the one error, we played a top-notch game."

Contributing multi-hit games for the winners were Madison Dresser (2-for-3), Ostrowski (2-for-3, four RBI), Beth Heldmeyer (2-for-3, 1 RBI, two stolen bases) and Erin Ondusky (2-for-2, two RBI).

PLYMOUTH 8, A.A. HURON 0: On Thursday, Claire Ostrowski hurled a two-hitter to lead the Wildcats to their sixth-straight victory.

The Wildcats, who bashed 11 hits, opened the game up with five runs in the second and single runs in the fourth, fifth and seventh.

Ostrowski struck out three and walked three.

Offensively, Plymouth was led by Danielle Bondy (2-for-4, RBI), Madison Dresser (2-for-4, stolen base) and Kim Klonowski (3-for-4, two RBI, triple).

Rocks drop Chargers thanks to Ritter's gem

Josh Ritter threw a complete-game, two-hitter Friday as Salem (5-7, 2-1) downed host Livonia Churchill (5-7, 0-3), 6-1, in a WLAA-Lakes Division game.

Ritter struck out seven and walked only one.

"He mixed up his pitches well, he's not overpowering, but he used a good off-speed pitch that kept us off-balance," Churchill coach Ron Targosz said. "It was nothing fancy, but they (Salem) got the key hits and we didn't."

Losing pitcher Steve Merlo also went seen innings, allowing nine hits and two walks while fanning five.

Merlo had an RBI single in the third inning, while John Rodeman added a single in the fourth.

Jon Pomorski, Kevin Weingrot and Kyle Kelly each had two hits for Salem.

NORTHVILLE 4, CANTON 2: Junior pitcher Bryce Jenney struck out 14 in a complete-game, five-hit victory over the host Chiefs. Kyle Gring turned in a strong effort for Canton, yielding just six hits, one walk and one earned run in six innings. The Chiefs were hampered by four errors that led to three Mustang runs.

Northville improved to 8-3 overall and 3-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division. Canton slipped to 8-6 and 2-1, respectively.

"That's the best game Kyle has pitched this season," said Canton coach Scott Dickey. "Northville has been scoring a lot of runs against everybody they've played, but he held them down and scattered six hits. I was especially pleased with how he pitched after the errors."

After grabbing a 1-0 lead with an unearned run in the second, Northville doubled its lead to 2-0 on Brett Spencer's solo round-tripper. Canton narrowed its deficit to 2-1 in the fourth when Corey Lewis reached on an error, advanced to second on a passed ball, stole third then scored on Justin Latin's suicide-squeeze bunt.

The Mustangs regained their two-run lead with an unearned run in the sixth, but Canton retaliated with one of its own when Shawn Little and Tarik Khasawneh strung together back-to-back doubles.

"Jenney may be the best pitcher in our conference," said Dickey.

Little paced the Chiefs offense with two hits, a run and a stolen base. Khasawneh, Gring and Brad Barath accounted for the other Canton hits.

JOHN GLENN 9, PLYMOUTH 8: In a WLAA crossover Wednesday, host Westland John Glenn (4-6) as Jerry Smith had the game-winning RBI in the bottom of the seventh to beat the Wildcats (6-7).

Smith went 2-for-4 with two runs scored and two stolen bases.

Ryan Lopez went 3-for-4 with a run scored to lead the victorious Rockets, who scored six times in the third inning and twice in the sixth.

Jake Murawski also added two hits and two RBI, along with a sacrifice bunt in the seventh.

Jeff Girgen, in relief, was in the winning pitcher. He gave up one run on one hit and one walk over the final 2.1 innings.

Plymouth's Nate McManus, who worked the final two innings, allowing three runs on four hits and two walks, took the loss.

PLYMOUTH 8, W.L. CENTRAL 6: The Wildcats notched a significant WLAA cross-over victory against the state-ranked Vikings by overcoming a 5-3 deficit with five sixth-inning runs. Brandon Winowiecki earned his first victory of the season, limiting Central to eight hits.

Offensively, Alex Harvey, Ben Kosmalski and Matt Barrera all had two hits for the winners. Tim Cross belted three hits, including a home run and double, for the Vikings.

"This was a big win for us," said Plymouth coach Chuck Adams. "Brandon Winowiecki did a stellar job on the mound for us today. He kept a good-hitting Central team off balance with his off-speed pitches mixed with a deceptive fastball he used in certain spots. I was really proud of the way we battled in this game. We came to play today and we never gave up."

CANTON 21, CHURCHILL 8: On Wednesday, the visiting Chiefs (8-4) unloaded for 21 hits in a WLAA crossover triumph over Livonia Churchill (5-6).

Jon Puskar led the Canton offensive attack, going 4-for-5 with two RBI and four runs scored. Chris Woudstra added two doubles and five RBI.

Losing pitcher Matt Luneack and recent JV call-up Steve Jones each went 3-for-4 for the Chargers, who sat our four starters for team disciplinary reasons.

Winning pitcher Caleb Larner worked 6.1 innings in relief.

DEARBORN DIVINE CHILD 12, CANTON 2: The host Falcons jumped out to an early 9-0 lead before coasting to a five-inning, non-conference victory. John Oakes delivered the big blow for the winners — an opposite-field two-run home run. Kyle Gendron went 2-for-3 for DC.

Senior catcher Tarik Khasawneh went 2-for-2 for the Chiefs, who finished with five hits. Sophomore Erik Wright took the loss for Canton.

MARATHON

"They warned me not to go out too fast," said Pline, an engineer at Ford. "There are a lot of steep downhills early in the race and they take a toll on your legs if you go out too fast. I ran at a pretty steady pace through the first 10 miles and it really paid off because I had a lot left for the end of the race."

Pline said he received his second wind when the race passed through the campus of the all-girls Wellesley College.

"There were students of the college lined up shoulder-to-shoulder for about a quarter-of-a-mile and they were yelling and screaming at all the runners who went by," said Pline. "That kind of got me excited about running again. I don't think I got passed by another runner the rest of the race."

For Canton resident Janis Haggerty, the 2006 Boston Marathon was her 10th 26.2-mile race — and arguably her toughest.

"I had some knee issues over the winter, so I wasn't able to train as much as I normally did," said Haggerty. "Half-way through, my quads were really cramping up and I was getting charley horses. But around mile 20, I saw my family and that really inspired me. I thought to myself, 'I spent all this time and all this money to get here — I'm going to finish no matter what.

"My time — 4:13 — wasn't as fast as I would have liked it, but I'll take it."

Haggerty said her spirits were buoyed by a series of Adidas billboards that were strategically placed throughout the course.

"The billboards were very inspirational," she said. "For instance, one said, 'Less than 1 percent of the people in the world will complete a marathon,' and another said, 'For every steep uphill, there's a steep descent.'"

Balch suffered a unique injury at this year's Boston Marathon.

"Most people that are injured suffer knee injuries or they hurt their legs in some way," said Balch. "Well I tore tissue in my forearm from giving spectators high-fives along the course."

WHALERS

worked very hard to develop into a good hockey player. He can be tough when needed and he was one of our leaders. Gino was also one of the best penalty killers this year and that's a credit to his hard work."

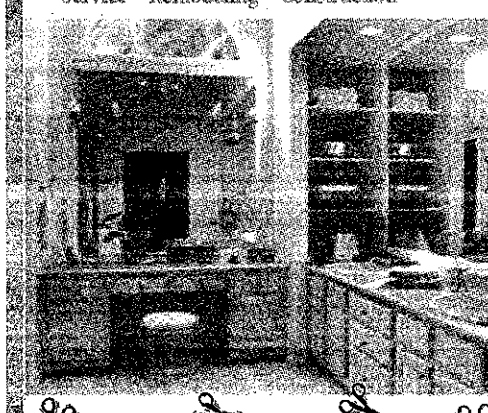

A native of Itasca, Ill., the Whalers selected Pisellini in the sixth round (116th overall) in the 2002 Ontario Hockey League Draft. Pisellini started his Whalers career with a bang, scoring in his first two games on Sept. 19 and 20, 2003. Pisellini also established himself as one of the toughest players in the OHL during his rookie campaign, when he netted 15 goals and 15 assists in 68 games. Injuries limited Pisellini in 2004-05, but he responded this past season by scoring 15 goals with 16 assists in 63 games.

Pisellini played well on a forward line this season with Andrew Fournier and Tom Sestito.

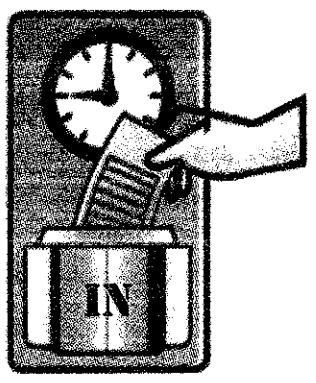

"We really enjoy going up against the other team's top line," Pisellini said in March. "We know we can give the team a lift by shutting them down. We can help some of our other lines, who can concentrate on scoring."

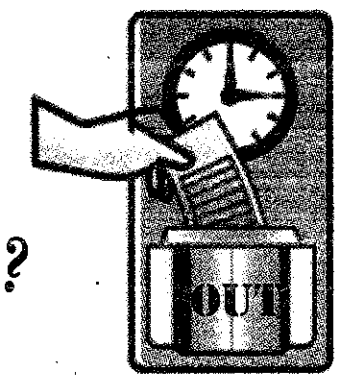

While Pisellini has been signed with the Flyers, Fournier (ranked 108th overall in the final Central Scouting rankings) and Sestito (112th) rate a good bet to be selected in the 2006 NHL Entry Draft this summer in Vancouver, B.C.

The Whalers are preparing for the OHL Draft, which will be held May 6. Plymouth will select 13th overall in the first round.

PCS lacrosse team falls, 4-3

The Plymouth-Canton-Salem boys lacrosse team suffered its first loss of the season Tuesday when it was edged by Farmington Unified, 4-3 in a double-overtime barn-burner.

The setback dropped the Warriors to 6-1; Farmington improved to 5-1.

"It was a tough game to lose," said PCS coach Mike Costello. "This is the second year in a row that Farmington has beat us by one goal. It could have gone either way. We had our chances, especially near the end of regulation.

"I was impressed with our second line of middies. Ben Feeley, Josh Shifferd and Ray Gilmore all played exceptionally well tonight."

Mitch French paced the Warriors' offense with two goals and an assist. Jared Ruark also scored for PCS.

Robbie Paige was on fire for Farmington, netting three goals.

Farmington outshot PCS, 25-21, while winning 8-of-12 face-offs. PCS recorded 37 groundballs to Farmington's 32.

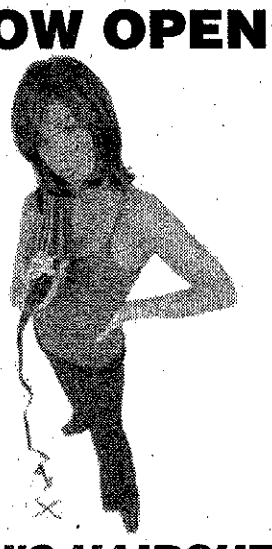

Neither team led by more than one goal the entire game. Farmington led 1-0 after one quarter. The game was knotted at 1-1 at the half and 2-2 after three quarters.

PCS returns to action Monday when it travels to Northville to take on the Mustangs. The opening face-off is set for 7 p.m.

Give teen a chance to mind the kids

I have three children between the ages of 2 and 7. They are the only grandchildren on my husband's side of the family and they are in great demand from the aunts, uncles and grandparents. Most of these individuals are great and I trust them completely. However, my husband's youngest brother, who is 16, is a different story. He is a bit of a rebel and he does whatever he wants to do whenever he wants to do it. My kids adore him and I know that he loves them just as much. The problem is that I do not feel comfortable letting him take my children anywhere. I know that he would not purposely hurt them, but I worry because he is kind of irresponsible and easily distracted and ... well, I'm not willing to take that kind of a chance. He has asked to take them out to the park or out for ice-cream and I always say, "maybe next time," but I really don't think that it will ever happen until he grows up a little. This has caused a bit of a rift with my in-laws and my husband feels trapped in the middle. What can I do to get myself out of this jam without putting my children at risk?

Denise, Livonia

I think that the solution to this problem is to allow your brother-in-law to prove his responsibility and maturity under "safe" conditions.
By this, I mean that you should invite him over to watch the children while you get your housework done or to come along to the store with you to help keep an eye on the children while you shop.
This will allow you the opportunity to observe him in action while you are still present and can come to the rescue if necessary.
If he proves himself capable under these conditions, move to the next stage and arrange a trip to the local park and "busy" yourself at a spot further away from them and continue to observe your brother-in-law.
Continue to create these types of situations until he earns your trust or proves himself to be "not ready".
Keep an open mind.
Rebel or not, he may prove to be more responsible than anyone expects, including himself.

Advancing AAUW

Group's new state president has local ties and big plans

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

When Mickey Edell was in college, she was looking for a field that would allow her to help others.

"I felt it would be very fulfilling to work with children and adults who were having communications difficulties," said Edell, a Canton resident and speech and language pathologist with the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. She works at Hoben Elementary School in Canton. "This is my 30th year in the Plymouth-Canton school district."

After college at Kansas University and a master's in speech pathology from the University of Iowa, she spent four years in the school district in Hartford, Conn.

She's finishing up her presidency of the Plymouth-Canton branch of the American Association of University Women, and is taking it a step beyond, assuming a two-year term as president of the state AAUW. Edell, a Kansas native, has been involved in Plymouth-Canton AAUW 17 years.

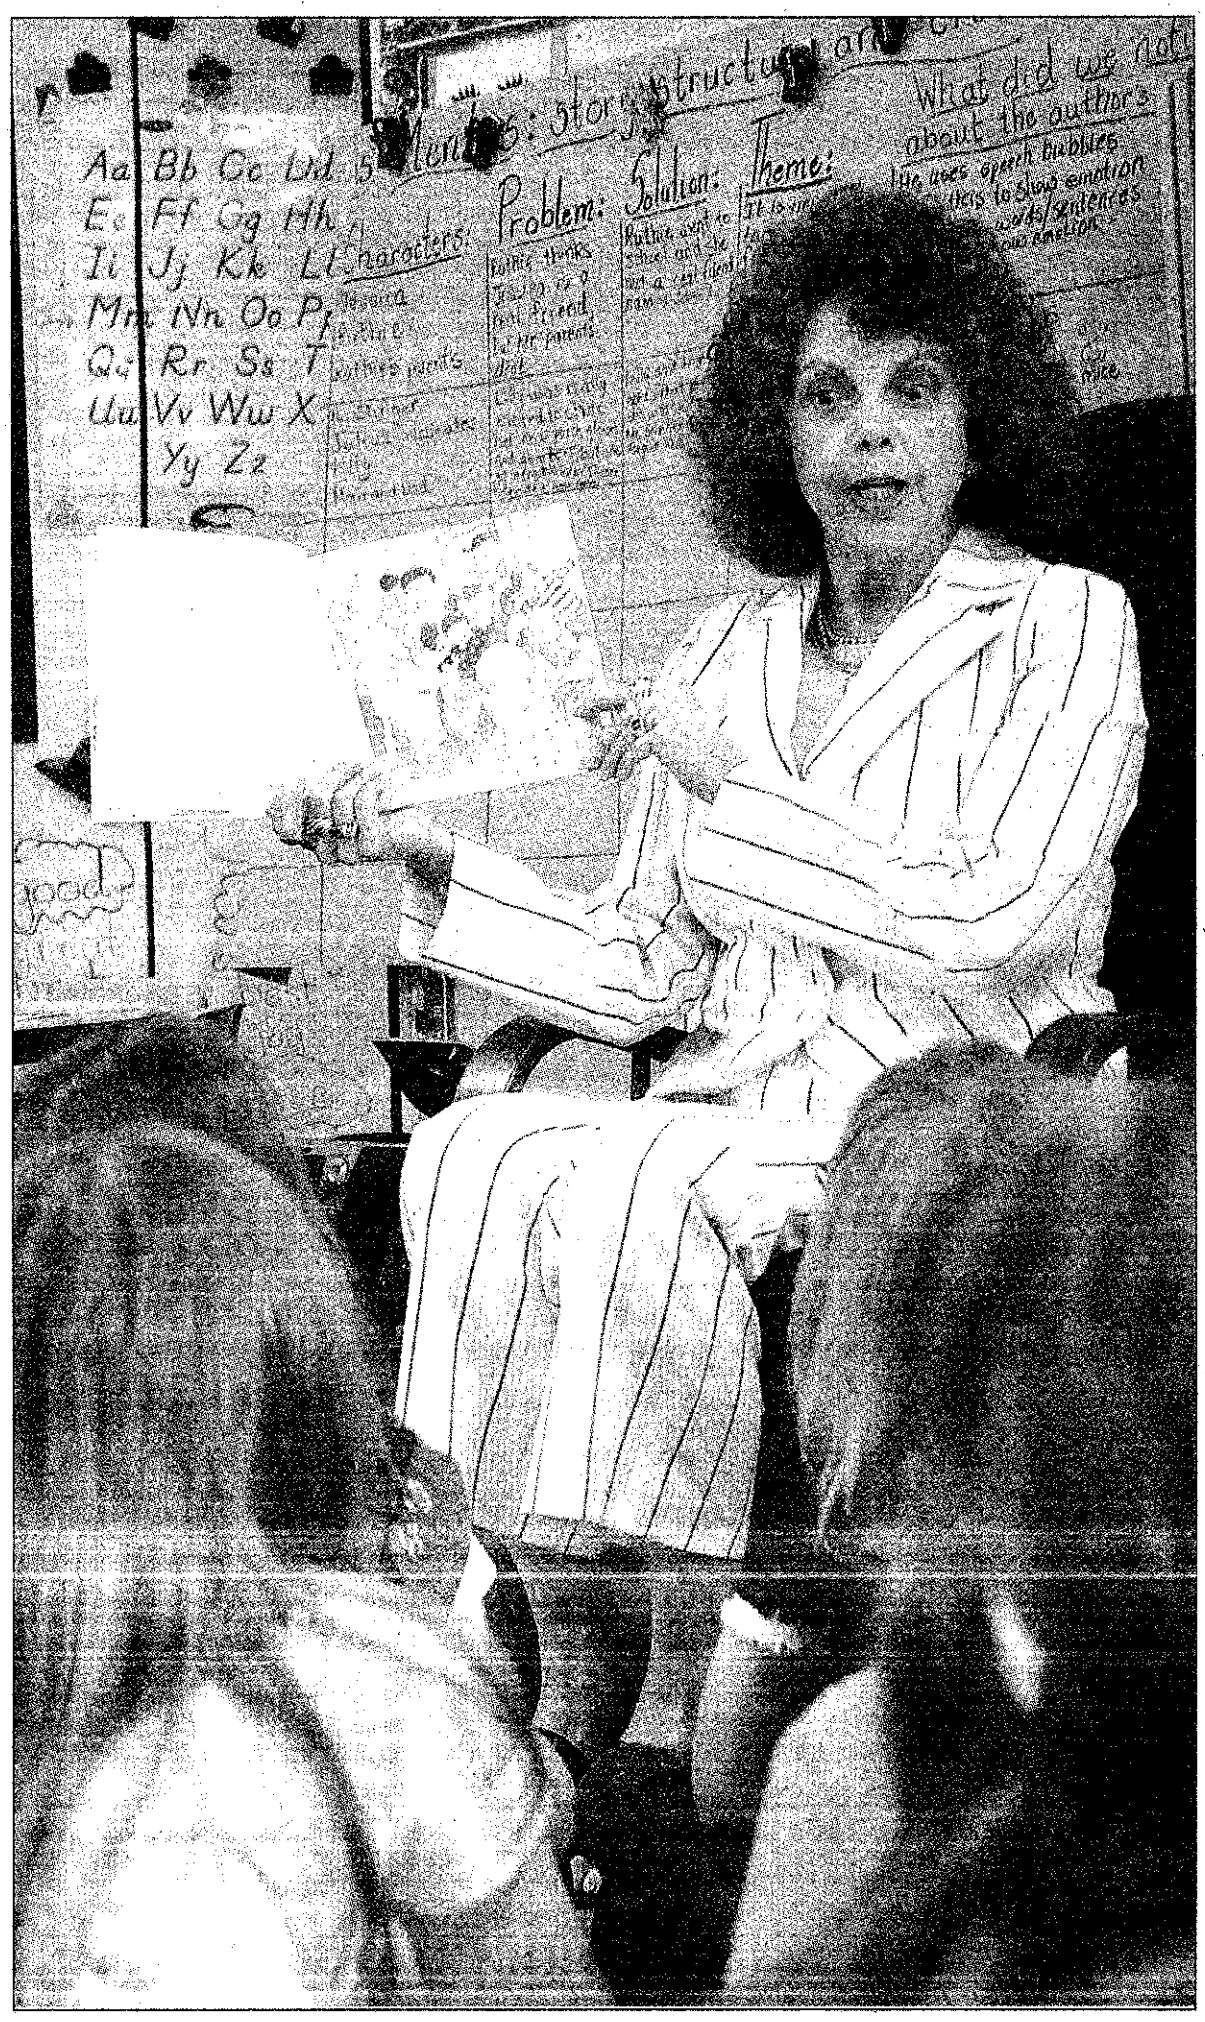

"I've been involved in the play both as an actor and director," she said of the annual children's production, which she has also served as business manager. "That's what brought me to the group."

She's served four years on the state board, including program vice president, communications director and one year as president-elect. July 1 is the official date for her state installation.

"To broaden the visibility of AAUW not only in the local community, but also at the state level" is among her goals. The association works for equity for women and girls, and has been involved in initiatives including gender equity in math and science, education in technology and transitions for women going back to school and seeking employment.

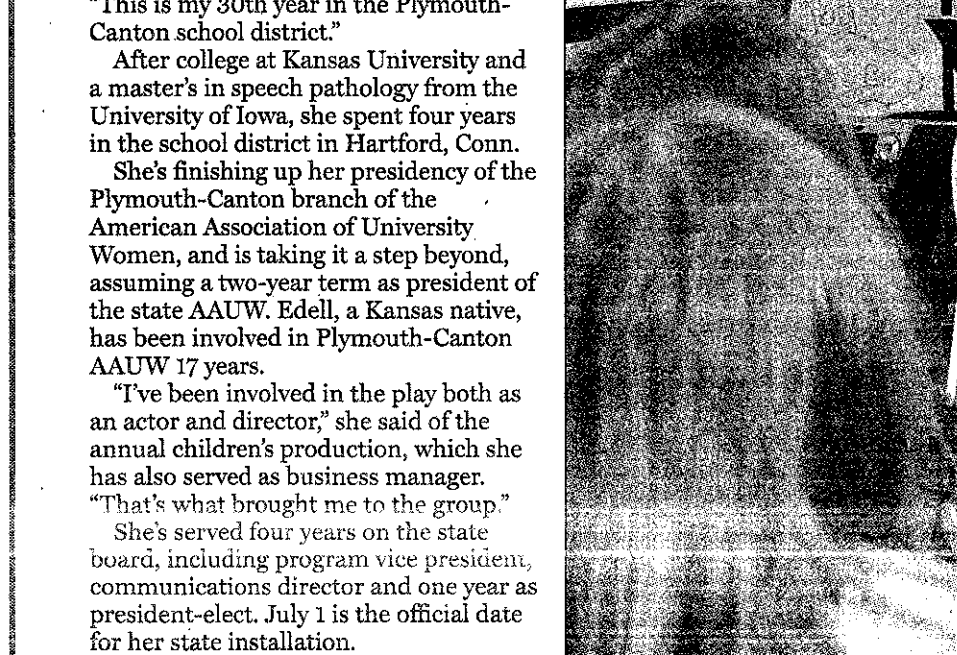

The first topic at this summer's board meeting will be "Education as the Gateway to Women's Economic Security," with programs to be filtered to the

Celebrating the arts

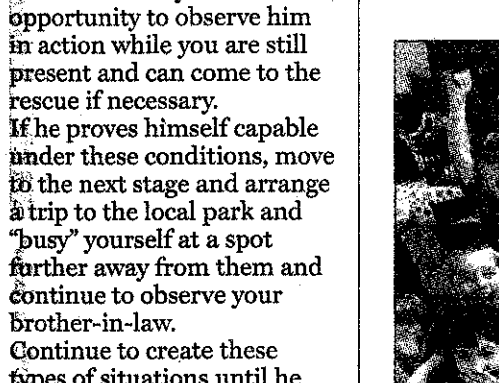

Regional festival spotlights abilities

Singers, dancers and pianists around town can hardly wait for May 5-6 to arrive. The excitement is contagious whether it's at a rehearsal for the children's choir at the Burger School for the autistic in Garden City, The Therapy Choir at Broe Rehabilitation Services in Farmington Hills, or the FAR Conservatory dancers in Birmingham. All are busy polishing their acts for the VSA arts Festival at Livonia Mall.

Everyone loves to perform before a live audience and the festival makes it possible for persons with disabilities. On Friday and Saturday, nearly 240 performers take to the stage in Sears Court at the 16th festival presented by the Southeast Region Committee of VSA arts of Michigan. The nonprofit is affiliated with VSA arts which was founded by Jean Kennedy Smith to provide disabled people with access to the arts in conjunction with the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. In addition to the festival, the Southeast Region Committee presents grants and scholarships for arts education throughout

EXPRESS YOURSELF

The Burger Choir kicks off the festival at 10:30 a.m. Friday, May 5. Along with performances, the festival features the VSA arts of Michigan touring arts exhibit, and hands-on art activities.

"Your typical autistic child does not express themself," said Susan Helmkamp, a Livonia resident who co-directs the Burger Choir with Michele Brown. "This allows them to. It gives them the experience of working and singing in a group, and the knowledge of performance etiquette."

The students at Burger love singing so much that the size of the choir grows every year. Six years before Helmkamp arrived at the school, choir was an extracurricular activity. Now music has been added to the curriculum. Interactive songs reinforce students' lessons in addition to encouraging self-esteem. This is the first time the choir sings outside the school.

"The festival broadens perceptions of what our kids can do," said Helmkamp. "Many kids that are not particularly verbal can sing. It helps them overcome the primary autistic impairments of communications and socialization."

"It's important to get them out for them to have more confidence in themselves," added Brown of Livonia.

STEPPING OUT

Before Len McCulloch formed the a capella choir at Broe Rehabilitation Services nine years ago, patients referred to themselves as brain damaged persons. Today, members boast of their celebrity status having recorded five CDs, appeared on four PBS television specials, and performed 134 concerts at schools, churches and homeless shelters. They're most proud of the safety presentations at schools. Right now The Therapy Choir (www.broe-choir.com) is busy getting out the "don't drink and drive" message before prom and graduation. On Tuesday, Karen DiChiera of the Michigan Opera Theatre, was working with members and providing accompaniment. McCulloch, a columnist for the Observer Newspapers, usually conducts the choir.

"Brain injury leaves you with a shattered self, said McCulloch, a psychologist and director of psychological services at Broe. McCulloch uses psychotherapy to help traumatic brain injury patients. "The choir and psychotherapy helps rebuild identity."

Roscoe Wade not only learned how to sing by joining the choir, but began to regain his speech after being hit by a car while crossing the street.

"I do know words," said Wade. "It's bringing back my voice."

A car accident in 1988 left Larry with a closed head injury. His road to recovery led to the choir four years ago.

"The public has no idea of what a closed head injury is like. They look at you like you're retarded," said Larry. "The choir develops my confidence for singing in public and reassurance that I can do it. (For the safety presentations) we go out into the community and talk. I don't feel put upon. It's a group effort."

Ann Manning joined the choir when membership was opened to volunteers in the community. She was hit by a drunken driver twice. Dempsey, her PAWS with a Cause dog helps carry her briefcase into Broe where she's vice president of community relations.

"The choir's made a terrific impact in awareness of brain injury," said Manning. "I see them light up when they talk about how to prevent a brain injury."

Timothy Broe sees the choir as a blessing. His company has treated more than 2,000 patients since opening its doors 20 years ago. He says brain injury is a year-round event and occurs every 22 seconds in the U.S. because of driving, swimming, sports, and pedestrian accidents.

COMMUNITY CONNECTION

"It gives them a sense of purpose," said Broe. "They're able to connect to the community."

Festival coordinator Connie Lott says the focus of the event has always been to reach out to the community. She's especially excited about this year's event because it showcases the largest number of performers in its history and includes students from Old Village School in Northville combining sign language and movement, and Thai, Mung, Irish and Chaldean music by the Jerry White School, the special education wing of Renaissance High School in Detroit. Returning performers include Scott Wightman of Highland singing country, and Amy Somerville playing piano. One of the new pianists is 48-year-old Raymond, who lives in the Community Opportunity Centers group home in Plymouth. He's been playing since age 14.

"We want them to join with us in celebrating the talents of individuals who face challenges in performing arts," said Lott. "It used to be 30 or 40 years ago that people who had mental, physical and/or emotional disabilities were not invited to be part of a larger society. Today we join hands and say we can learn from you and you can learn from us."

Margaret Hull is a little sad about not directing the choirs from Pontiac Schools this year. The students have been a staple of the festival since the beginning. They return without the Birmingham music therapist who retired in December.

"It's such a social day for students who participate in this event," said Hull, a Southeast Region Committee member. "They get to meet people they've never met before, get to use their social skills. It's one of the end of the year performances and they get to show off what they've been doing. It's the thrill of being able to be on a stage and do that especially when you're not at your own school. They're all excited about going to the mall."

Hours for the festival are 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, May 5, and noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, May 6, at Livonia Mall, Seven Mile and Middlebelt.

Mall spotlights local talent for National Music Week

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Every year Bobbi Gelman celebrates the arts during National Music Week by spotlighting talent in the community.

This year is no exception. An array of performers bring their talent to the stage at Livonia Mall May 7-13, after the for the Southeast Region kicks off festivities May 5-6.

"We started about six years ago to bring entertainment back to the venue to create more of a community center," said Gelman, the mall's assistant general manager.

"Recognizing arts out in the suburbs is hard. We have a lot of creativity and talent that needs to be showcased."

Gelman is especially excited about Ladywood High School's Angelic Chorale returning.

"They're just a wonderful example of today's young women, talented and focused," said Gelman.

Of course, she's just as enthusiastic about showcasing Strutters, a senior dance group; Charlene Berry who plays dulcimer; the Redford High School Madrigal Choir, The Renaissance Barbershop Chorus, Shades of Gold jazz trio, and a variety of acts including the choral group from Hilbert Middle School in Oakland County.

"They're welcome to call the office for information or pick up a program at the mall," said Gelman.

For more information, call (248) 476-1160.

What Is Leadership Canton?

The Canton Chamber of Commerce, along with Cleary College and the Charter Township of Canton, established Leadership Canton in 1994. The program was developed in an effort to ensure a continuing source of skilled and motivated leaders for the Canton community.

Participants meet once a month, from September through May. Each day-long session addresses a specific topic in the community and most sessions include guest speakers, tours of area facilities, and extensive networking opportunities with other students.

Leadership Canton students and alumni include participants from all facets of the community. Past participants include business owners, government employees, educators, managers and community volunteers. All participants share a common desire to gain a better understanding of leadership, and how to apply it to their community.

Community Project

Leadership Canton participants also work on a year-long group project that has a positive impact in the community. The project is assigned during the first session and provides participants with an opportunity to experience group dynamics and gain an understanding of how to put plans into action.

Rally4Canton is our community project. We hope it will grow and improve for years to come. For information on enrolling in next year's Leadership Canton program, please contact the Canton Chamber of Commerce: 734-453-4040.

STAR of study

Raloxifene winner of clinical trial

JOHN STORMZAND | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Marilyn Shahly especially worries about her increased risk for breast cancer when it's time for her mammogram.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Postmenopausal women at risk for breast cancer have even more reason to hope now that the initial results of a study show two drugs – tamoxifen and raloxifene – could reduce their chance of developing the disease by about 50 percent.

Dr. David Decker sees that as a major step forward. When he began seeing oncology patients in 1979, there were no drugs to prevent breast cancer. He calls raloxifene the winner of the latest prevention trial due to fewer serious side effects.

"Over the years the survival rate has dramatically improved," said Decker, an oncologist in the Rose Cancer Center at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Decker was principal investigator for the local Study of Tamoxifen and Raloxifene (STAR) that included 233 patients. Nationally, 19,747 participants were enrolled in the double blind study of postmenopausal women at risk for breast cancer. Neither the woman nor her physician knew if she was taking either a placebo, or 60 mg. of raloxifene (Evista) or 20 mg. tamoxifen (Nolvadex) daily during the five-year study. Raloxifene is used to treat and prevent osteoporosis in postmenopausal women, but not FDA approved for the reduction of breast cancer risk. Currently only tamoxifen is available for this purpose for pre- and postmenopausal women.

"Women who took part in this study had a 4 percent chance of developing invasive breast cancer over five years," said Decker of Troy. "The drugs decreased that to half. Women taking Evista (raloxifene) had a little less blood clots in the legs and lung, and uterine cancer. It's a small step forward, not a home run to prevent all breast cancers, but certainly a step in the right direction."

STAR is one of the largest breast cancer prevention clinical trials ever conducted, according to the National Cancer Institute, the part of the National Institutes of Health which sponsored the trial. The National Surgical Adjuvant Breast and Bowel Project (a network of cancer research professionals otherwise known as NSABP) coordinated the research. Marilyn Shahly was one of the postmenopausal women at increased risk. The Rochester Hills woman had undergone two breast biopsies. In late 2002, the last biopsy showed a pre-cancerous condition.

Dr. David Decker

In 1998 a NSABP prevention trial showed tamoxifen could reduce the risk of breast cancer by nearly 50-percent so Shahly was already considering taking the drug when her surgeon discussed the study with her. Shahly joined STAR in March 2003 and expects to receive a letter any day about her options. Women taking raloxifene will continue on the drug until concluding 5-years of treatment. Those taking tamoxifen can either continue taking the drug or choose to receive raloxifene to complete 5-years. Shahly still doesn't know which one she is taking.

"I worry about it (the risk of breast cancer) when it's time for my annual mammogram," said Shahly of Rochester Hills who retired from the federal government about five years ago. "On a daily basis I don't."

Decker says some women consider 4 percent as a high risk, some as a low risk. As with any drug, benefits and risks vary depending on personal medical history and must be weighed before a decision is made. Some of the side effects include hot flashes and an increased risk of blood clots. Women taking both drugs were up to three times more likely to develop blood clots than women not taking either drug.

Raloxifene does not increase the risk of developing cataracts, but tamoxifen does by about 14-percent. Both protect against osteoporosis and lower LDL cholesterol levels, says Decker.

In the study women who took raloxifene and were followed for about four years, had 36-percent fewer uterine cancers and 29-percent fewer blood clots than those on tamoxifen. Uterine cancers are a rare side effect of tamoxifen.

The next NSABP clinical trial will test raloxifene, the winner of the STAR study, against letrozole (Femara). Decker is currently looking for postmenopausal women at risk of breast cancer to volunteer. For more information, call (248) 551-4147.

"Femara is different than the previous two (drugs)," said Decker. "It works by lowering estrogen in postmenopausal women. We have reason to believe it has less side effects and works better."

In addition to breast cancer prevention studies, Beaumont Hospital offers the opportunity for individuals to participate in a variety of cancer clinical trials.

"The studies offer patients in this community, in a local hospital, the most advance treatments in the country," said Decker.

Work out after you eat a meal

Shawn from Roseville e-mails asking if a pre-breakfast workout is a good idea.

Shawn, the answer is probably not. In fact, working out before a meal can cause you to burn more stored carbohydrates and protein. If those energy stores drop, your metabolism will most likely drop with it, leading to weight gain.

Working out on an empty stomach can also lead to lower levels of glucose. You could risk breaking down protein energy needed by the body during a workout. In other words, you'll be defeating the whole purpose of the workout.

Remember, you burn the same amount of calories before or after a meal. The best rule of thumb is to remember to eat a balanced meal about an hour before working out.

If you have a health or fitness question you would like answered in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, e-mail Peter at www.peternielsen.com. Catch Peter daily on WDIV-NBC 4 & WWJ News Radio 950. Boutique to celebrate Breast Health Month

The Women's Health Boutique is hosting its annual Mother-Daughter Brunch 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, May 6, in Livonia. The event is free.

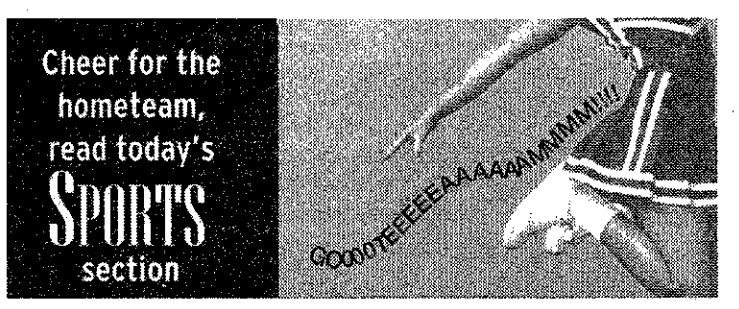

In addition to enjoying a healthy and nutritious brunch, participants will hear Rich and Karla Walker of Inner Excellence talk about personal training.

Michele Murdock, a representative of Camp Healthcare, will be on hand to answer questions regarding the custom fitted breast prosthesis from Radiant Impressions. She'll also provide information about self breast exams.

Gail Perry-Mason, author of Girl, Make Your Money Grow, gives financial advice and signs her book.

"The event is targeted toward mothers and daughters because Mother's Day is right around the corner and May is Breast Health Month," said Mariam Searcy, owner of the boutique which is next door to her companion business, Secret Rituals Day Spa. "We take every opportunity to encourage breast health and self exams."

Free screenings help diagnose asthma

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Dr. David Seaman is encouraging anyone who thinks they might have asthma to visit him for a free screening 1-6 p.m. Monday, May 1, at Richardson's Pharmacy in Canton.

Seaman is part of a nationwide asthma screening presented by the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology in May. He recommends children and adults with coughing, wheezing and shortness of breath stop by for a simple pulmonary function test that involves blowing into a tube. Seaman says asthmatics frequently describe their symptoms as "an elephant sitting on their chest."

"There are over 20 million asthmatics in the U.S.," said Seaman, the senior physician at Canton Asthma and Allergy with locations in Canton, Farmington Hills and Brighton. "Many people with asthma are undertreated. So many people self medicate rather than seek medical attention. Asthma is responsible for almost 5,000 deaths a year in the U.S. 9 million children suffer from asthma."

Seaman's seen an increase in the number of asthmatics since he began treating patients in Canton in 1978.

"The incidence of asthma has increased over the years for reasons we don't totally understand. Whether it's environmental triggers like pollution, it's more common now than it used to be.

"Historically we used to think of asthma as a spasm in the bronchial tubes. Now we recognize it's an inflammation in the bronchial tubes and treated with inhaled cortisone type drugs, but available only by prescriptions."

An asthma attack can be triggered by allergens such as pollen, dust, animal dander, drug and food additives, viral respiratory infections, physical activity, and cold air.

During the screening, adults who are experiencing breathing problems complete a 20-question Life Quality (LQ) Test developed by ACAAI. Children under the age of 15 take a special test called the Kids' Asthma Check that enables them to answer questions about breathing problems. Another version of the Check is available for parents of children up to 8 years of age to complete on their child's behalf.

In addition to screenings, asthma patients can talk with an allergist about their disease and how to control symptoms. To obtain a list of screening sites and dates, or to take online versions of the LQ Test and Kids' Asthma Check, visit the Web site at www.acaai.org.

Other screening local locations include May 11, at St. Joseph Catholic School, 715 N. Lapeer, Lake Orion, and May 19 at Orion Township Public Library, 825 Joslyn Road, Lake Orion.

The program is supported by AstraZeneca and has screened more than 90,000 people since it began increasing awareness of asthma.

branch level. Edell and others continue to work on the Michigan Civil Rights Initiative with One United Michigan and other organizations.

"Our mantra is it's not civil and it's not right," said Edell, who's working to defeat the initiative. She believes affirmative action for women and minorities remains necessary.

"There are many people who feel those battles have been won." She calls the initiative on the Michigan ballot this November "an insidious proposal" that would harm women and others.

"One of our main goals is to educate people," she said. "We hope that we'll be successful in those efforts." Polls show Michiganders evenly divided, she said, but Edell's concerned about initiative language being confusing.

Edell's been active in the Plymouth-Canton Education Association for some 30 years and has held a number of positions in the teachers union. She enjoys her daily interaction with students and staff at Hoben.

"I have no plans for retirement," said Edell, whose parents at 83 are still working, her mom doing taxes and her dad as a piano technician. "I still look forward to work."

Away from Hoben, she enjoys reading, theater and sewing. "Probably one of my most satisfying hobbies is cooking." She likes to try new recipes.

Edell encourages women and men to attend AAUW meetings, noting Dawn Parker is the contact for Plymouth-Canton, which has 89 members, and can be reached at (734) 207-5596. Nearby communities including Livonia and Farmington also have branches.

AAUW recently changed requirements to allow people with associate's degrees to join. "I think it is a very positive move on the part of our association," Edell said.

She won't be the only local face on AAUW's state board. Sharon Belobraidich of Plymouth Township, a retired Plymouth-Canton elementary teacher, will be program vice president the next two years.

"This'll just make my job that much easier," Edell said of Belobraidich, who's also looking forward to her new challenge, which will include convention planning.

"She does a good job at anything she does, an excellent job," Belobraidich said of Edell. "She gives it 150 percent. You can't ask for anybody better than that."

Artist to demonstrate portrait painting in oil

Three Cities Art Club presents a painting demonstration 7-9 p.m. Monday, May 1. Lin Baum, a Schoolcraft College art instructor, will show how to create a portrait using oils. This free event takes place at Canton Township Hall, located at 1150 Canton Center Road S, south of Cherry Hill in a lower level meeting room. Enter via the southeast entrance and the attendant will direct you to the correct room.

Baum is a figurative, social realist artist. Her alla prima oil paintings strive for a personal commitment to represent the human experience. Capturing the inner person is of primary importance as she explores the tradition of the psychological portrait. Baum works on location from life and in the studio setting. Her continuing "They Turn Heads" series is motivated by her personal experiences, social and political concerns and her faith. Baum seeks to affirm the value of the person through her art as she strives to give visual expression to the spirit in each.

If you are an artist or a want-to-be artist, you will find this to be an informative event. Light refreshments will be served.

Contact Marilyn Meredith weekdays by calling (248) 557-3800 or sending e-mail to threecitiesartclub@hotmail.com.

Skilled workers needed by auto industry

(NAPSI) — An auto dealership job may put you on the road to a rewarding career — particularly if you're a veteran. Military veterans have the skills and work ethic needed for many careers.

A new study by Harris Interactive estimates there are more than 100,000 career jobs currently available at auto dealerships across the country. The report also found that auto dealers hired more than 15,000 veterans since January 2004.

The study shows that a significant number of opportunities exist in sales, service, administrative/clerical and management positions. Regions of the U.S. experiencing the greatest employment needs include the South Atlantic, with over 25,000 job openings; the Midwest, with over 15,000; and the Pacific states, with over 15,000 openings.

"The pool of recent military veterans includes technologically savvy, motivated workers whose skills and military training and certifications are easily adaptable to a variety of dealership positions," said Alan Starling, chairman of Auto Retailing Today.

To learn more, visit the Web site at www.autocareerstoday.org.

Today's dealerships have become high-tech facilities requiring highly skilled staff and top-notch employees.

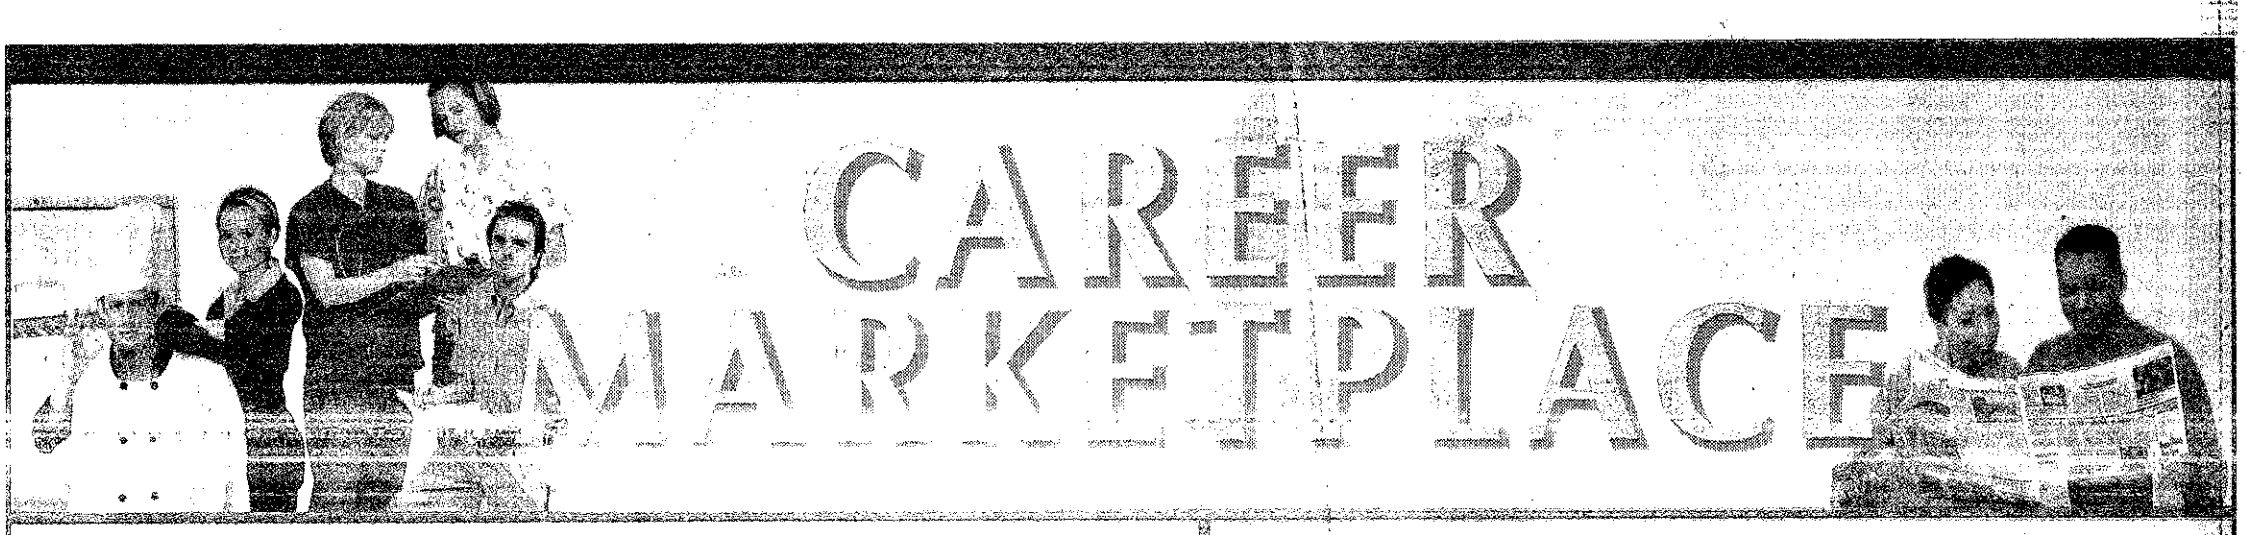

How do they do it?

(NAPSI) — Twenty-six million moms work in America today. Although many moms may wonder whether it's really possible to do it all, a new book offers an insightful look into how well America's mothers are managing.

For women who want to build a career and those who must work for a living, This Is How We Do It (Hudson Street Press, $23.95) by Carol Evans, CEO and president of Working Mother magazine, transcends the guilt traditionally associated with being a working mother and focuses on the joy and fulfillment it can bring.

Drawing on original research culled from 500 working mothers and the magazine's nearly 3 million readers, 25-year tenure and best practices of the Competitive 100 Best Companies list, the book reveals specific, innovative, tried-and-true solutions of how working mothers across the country successfully balance family and career.

From altering the "one-size-fits-all" career track to better fit the shape of your own life to creating a network of working women within your community, readers can learn how to ask for-and get-what they need and companies will better learn how to provide it. The book is available wherever books are sold.

Park Avenue Lifestyle meets Woodward Avenue at Birmingham Place

Birmingham Place , has reached yet another milestone with over 85% sold. The project is well into its final phase of the condominium conversion and building renovation.

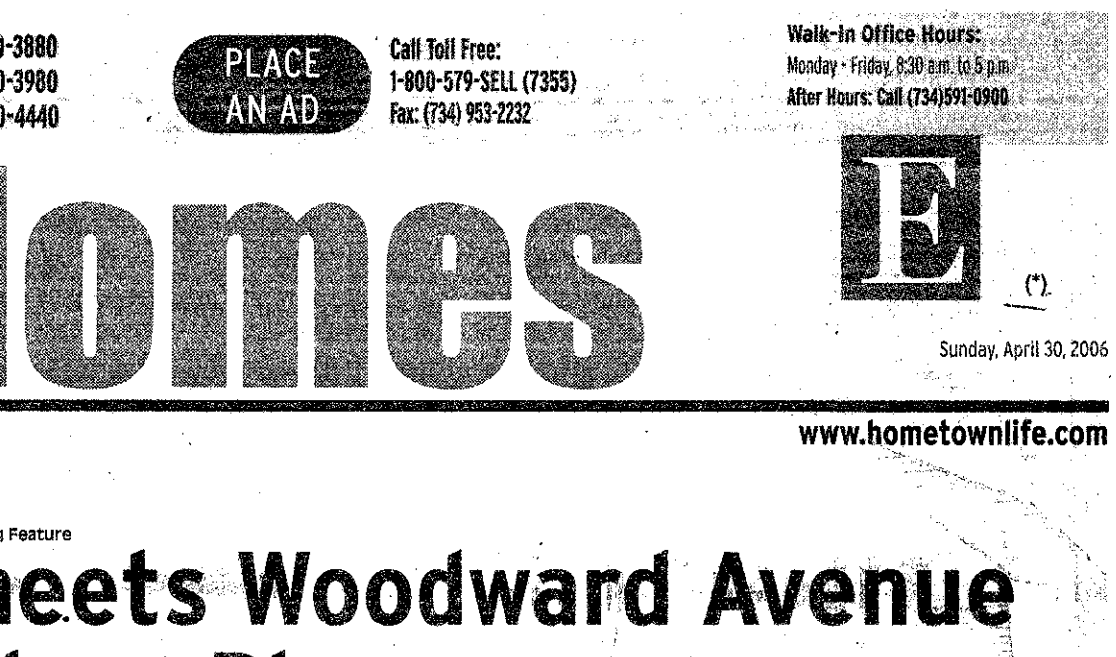

Standing 10-stories tall, Birmingham Place is a block and a half south of Old Woodward and Maple – the epicenter of what is arguably the region's most desirable city-suburb. A visit to the rooftop garden at Birmingham Place offers a breathtaking perspective on what a central location is all about.

Pomeroy Reinhart Stration Development worked closely with architectural firm Christopher Enright & Associates, design firm Silverman Design and venture partner Broder & Sachse Real Estate Services, Inc. to design 20 creative and engaging floor plans. The resulting units range from sleek and chic 600-square-foot studios to elegant 3-Bedroom/3-Bath penthouses surpassing 2,700 square feet – with designs to meet any taste in between. Prices start just under $200,000 and can top $1,000,000.

The breadth of floor plans and pricing is helping create a unique sense of community that is a rare find in today's condominium market. "We've had buyers ranging from young professionals to empty-nesters who could afford to live anywhere," says Jerry Reinhart President and CEO of PRS Development. "What's interesting is that we're attracting a microcosm of the city itself – different people with different interests, living in the same building and creating a vibrancy that's going to be very exciting."

Regardless of which end of the spectrum buyers are on, a luxurious lifestyle is part of the package at Birmingham Place. All units include elegant kitchens with maple or cherry cabinets, granite countertops and stainless steel appliances, sophisticated baths and new premium windows and door walls.

Residents will also have access to amenities that are as much Park Avenue as Woodward Avenue. Concierge services, valet parking, on-site car wash, dry cleaning delivery service and high-speed internet and WiFi are just a few of the many features that are likely to make owners feel as though they've moved into a five-star hotel – for life!

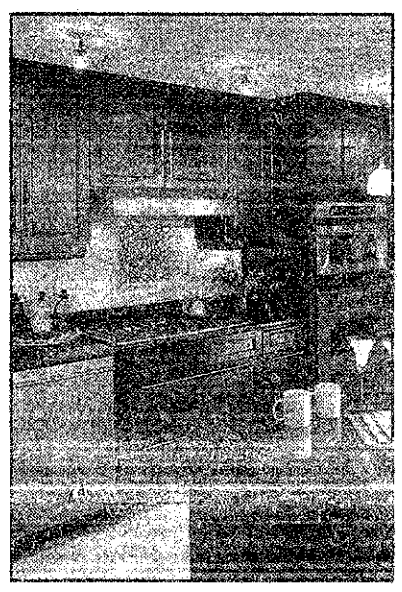

The city of Birmingham has long been one of the crown jewels of the Detroit-area real estate market with proximity to its downtown driving residential prices upward. That's a fact not lost on PRS Development and the residents of Birmingham Place who have already discovered its allure.

A lot of properties for sale in Birmingham advertise that they're a short walk from Town. At Birmingham Place, you're an elevator ride from Town.

Visit our models daily from noon to 6:00 p.m. or by appointment. For more information, contact the sales office at 34611 Woodward Avenue, Birmingham, MI 48009, 248-642-0900, or visit www.birminghamplace.com

Model combines contemporary, country

A wide country style porch, complete with railings and posts, gives the Lannie (401-35) the appeal of an old-style country home. However, the interior of this two-story home has a contemporary flavor.

Just inside the front door, a U-shaped stairway, with polished colonial wood dowel posts and banister, leads upstairs, visually separating the dining room from the family room. Due to its unconventional placement in the center of the room, a bridge at the top connects the stairway to the two upstairs bedrooms. Those two bedrooms share a bath. An extra vanity, which provides make-up space outside the bathroom, will be a sure hit with teens.

The stairs and bridge create lofty perches for watching and joining the action below, and are great for family announcements. For relaxing after dinner, the sunken parlor allows for private conversations or meditation.

The arched entry to the dining room from the kitchen makes it easy for the cook of the house to serve those formal meals. The kitchen, nook, and family room run together. French doors fill the family room with light and offer easy access to the deck for leisurely meals outside when the weather is inviting. A colonial fireplace for family photos and heirlooms is located off the large family room.

The study offers privacy to a small home business or the studious teen of the house.

The master suite has a large walk-in closet and an entrance, through French doors, to the deck for those sunny afternoons. The master suite has a private bath. The amenities include a custom tub, shower, and his and her vanities.

For a study plan (401-35), send $15 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 or call (800) 562-1151. Be sure to specify plan name and number. Compact disks, with search functions are free of charge, to help you search our portfolio for you dream home ($5 shipping and handling will apply). Or you may order or search online at www.ldiplans.com.

Michael Aldouby

I am going to sell my house. What are some common mistakes I should avoid?

Obviously it takes a lot effort and energy to avoid making a mistake than having to deal with the fall-out and correct it. Here are some common mistakes to avoid when selling your house.

■ The biggest is overpricing your house. It's a tough market. Because of this it's more important than ever to not overprice your home. The guide you should use are similar houses that sold in your area, this gives you the market value; houses like yours that are for sale, this information lets you know what your competition is like; and finally, similar houses like yours that didn't sell, which tells you what not to do. All this information can be given to you by your real estate agent.

■ Not fully understanding an offer. Other than the price there are other important elements to look for. You need to make sure that the buyer has been pre-approved. You don't want to take your house off the market for a month for a buyer who won't be able to get a mortgage.

Check to see that there is a significant earnest money deposit. You want to be sure that the buyers have an incentive to not change their mind during the period from the sale to the close.

Review the terms of the offer. It's important for you to know if the buyers must sell their current house before buying yours. See if there are any other conditions regarding the sale of the house.

■ Keeping important information from the buyers. You must disclose most problems regarding your house in the Seller's Disclosure Statement. If you intentionally mislead buyers in the statement you may be sued later on. Also, most problems will, most likely, be found in the buyers' private inspection. At that point, there will be a trust issue, and the sale may fall apart all together.

■ Not being completely honest with your real estate agent. Your Realtor has a responsibility to be completely loyal to you regarding the sale of your house. If you aren't giving your agent the whole truth you are keeping your Realtor from being able to do his/her job effectively. It's better to fully disclose potential problems to your Realtor and work together on solving the issues, rather than the issues popping up in the worst times.

■ Trying to sell your house directly to buyers. The way the system is set up is that there is usually a Realtor that represents the seller and one that is an advocate for the buyer. The seller and buyer, of course, are the decision makers. However, the Realtors' job is to make the transaction happen. This keeps emotions from mucking up the transaction. When there are sales involving hundreds of thousands of dollars people get emotional. It's up to the Realtors to get the job done, by being a buffer to the emotions that occur between seller and buyer.

2006 Volvo S60 R Sport Sedan Impresses

Dave Menard

By Dave Menard
Avanti NewsFeatures

2006 Volvo S60 R. Vehicle class: Sedan. Where built: Ghent, Belgium. EPA: 18/25. Base price: $37, 920. Price as tested: $43, 735

When you re in the market for a car that carries the moniker high performance do you look at a Volvo? Until recently, probably not. It s more likely that when you think of Volvo, you think of safety and high resale value. Volvo, I m sure, is happy to be known for those two things; now the company wants you to think of it when you re looking for high performance cars. The 2006 S60 R is one of the cars Volvo wants you to put on your high performance must-see list.

The S60 R was redesigned for the 2005 model year and, while you can still tell it s a Volvo, it s sharper and better-looking than previous models. The classic Volvo grille is still upfront, and the standard Xenon high-intensity headlamps are rectangular with rounded corners; they come with washers and automatic level control. Heated outside mirrors, fog lamps, 17-inch alloy wheels, and a rear spoiler are also part of the package.

Volvo has put a powerful engine inside this station wagon. It s a 2.5-liter five-cylinder DOHC turbo with twin intercoolers. It s rated at 300 hp and 295 lb.-ft. of torque. It s mated with a six-speed manual transmission and a six-speed automatic with autostick is available as an option. The automatic shifts smoothly and the car gets off the line quickly. With the manual, you can go 0-60 in 5.4 seconds — 6.4 with the automatic. It takes premium fuel and is rated at 18/25 mpg.

The S60 R comes with all-wheel drive and with what Volvo calls Instant Traction. It s fitted with a computer-controlled Haldex AWD system that gibes you up to 50 percent more torque to the rear axle when needed. While it s nice to have AWD when you need it, the ride and handling suffer a bit, and making a U-turn is a challenge. The front suspension system features MacPherson struts with asymmetrically mounted coil springs, electronically controlled hydraulic shocks and stabilizer bar. In the rear, it s a multi-link independent system with coil springs, electronically controlled hydraulic shocks, and stabilizer bar. Power-assisted, speed-sensitive rack-and-pinion power steering and traction control are standard. Ride and handling are good — not great, and there are three different suspension settings, none of which made a huge difference that I could feel. There s a bit too much road feel for me, and, as I mentioned earlier, the wide turning circle makes U-turns a challenge (watch out for the curb).

Inside is where the S60 R really shines. It s roomy, comfortable and full of standard equipment. The standard heated eight-way power adjustable leather seats come with lumbar support and are easy to adjust to a comfortable position. There s plenty of room for passengers and cargo; the rear seats are 60/40 fold down with a pass-thru to the trunk. The leather-wrapped steering wheel is adjustable, as well.

Dual zone climate control is standard, as are cruise control, power windows, locks and mirrors, rear defroster, trip computer, and cupholders in both front and rear.

The standard audio system in the S60 R is an AM/FM/CD system with 100 watt amplifier and six speakers. You can upgrade to a six-CD system with Dolby Pro-Logic sound and 350 watts of power. It sounds great but is poorly laid out, for US customers, at least. When you see a knob on the far right, you expect to use it to tune the radio, right? Not with Volvo; that knob is used to change from AM to FM to CD. To tune, you have to push an unlabeled button on the upper right. On the plus side, Volvo also offers an iPod attachment system. You plug your iPod into the cable and it charges the iPod and plays it through the audio system. Unfortunately, there s no iPod display screen built in and your iPod s screen won t display while it s plugged in. You have to remember what number playlist you re looking to play and select it from the radio unit. A little awkward, but it s a nice addition for iPod owners. A navigation system is also available.

As you would expect with Volvo s safety reputation, the S60 R has a lot of safety features. Inflatable side curtains are standard, as are a rear fog light, whiplash protection seating system, and side impact airbags.

The 2006 Volvo S60 R starts at a shade under $38,000. Add the upgraded audio system (which comes with a moon roof, for some reason), automatic transmission, metallic paint and optional 18-inch wheels and you re up to almost $44, 000.

There s a lot to like in Volvo s version of a high-performance sedan, enough so that you might think of that company the next time you re looking for high performance.

PERFORMANCE WHEN YOU WANT IT. A VOLVO WHEN YOU NEED IT.

YOU THINK ABOUT WHAT PEOPLE REALLY WANT IN A SPORTS SEDAN. YOU THINK ABOUT AVAILABLE TURBOCHARGED PERFORMANCE. A SPORT-TUNED SUSPENSION. A HEAD-TURNING DESIGN. YOU ALSO THINK ABOUT ALL THE OTHER CARS ON THE ROAD AND HOW QUICKLY A DRIVE CAN TAKE AN UNEXPECTED TURN. YOU THINK ABOUT THAT AND THEN YOU BUILD A SPORTS SEDAN THAT'S MADE FOR CORNERS, BUT ALSO THE OFF CHANCE LIFE THROWS YOU A CURVE. THE VOLVO S60. SEE WHAT YOU THINK.
