Driver faces homicide charges in grisly crash

BY ALEX LUNDBERG
STAFF WRITER

A 24-year-old Adrian man has been charged in connection with the grisly freeway crash that killed five members of a family Sunday night. A Redford girl was killed in the crash and her sister is still in critical condition.

Michael Gagnon was arraigned Wednesday morning on five counts of aggravated vehicular homicide in Toledo Municipal Court. Bond was set at $1.25 million. Police reports said he had three times the legal amount of alcohol in his system at the time of the accident.

Gagnon had been drinking in a bar in Oregon, Ohio, Sunday when he left to get food at a Taco Bell, Toledo police reported. Restaurant management called police to warn them that a visibly intoxicated man had left the store in a car.

Before police were able to intercept him, Gagnon got onto I-280 going the wrong way in the southbound lanes, police said.

Meantime, 36-year-old Danny Griffin Jr. of Parkville, Md., was driving a minivan home from visiting family for the holidays in Michigan and heading south on I-280.

According to police, the two drivers tried to swerve, but Gagnon's pickup sideswiped the Griffins' vehicle and tore the right side doors off. Several victims were thrown into the road.

Four were pronounced dead at the scene. Killed were 10-year-old Jordan Griffin of Redford, and 36-year-old Bethany Griffin and daughters, 7-year-old Lacie Burkman and 10-year-old Haley Burkman, all of Parkville, Md. Eight-week-old Vadi Griffin was later pronounced dead at St. Vincent Hospital.

As of Wednesday, Beu Burkman, 8, and Danny Griffin Jr. were listed in stable condition and Sidney Griffin, 8, of Redford was in critical condition.

Charlotte Tripp, a friend of the Griffin family, said Danny Griffin was in town to visit his father and daughters with his family from Maryland.

Sidney was removed from a respirator Tuesday, Tripp said, and further treatment is being considered.

"She has blood on her brain and a lacerated liver," Tripp said. "She possibly has a broken foot as well, but they aren't going to do an X-ray until later. The doctors have said all of her injuries are healable."

Both Griffin girls attended Grandview Elementary School, where their mother, Jodie, is a paraprofessional. Tripp said the tight-knit school community is trying to support the family.

The girls had been going back east with their father and his family, Tripp said, to spend a few days before the end of winter break.

SPECIAL FUND-RAISER SET

A spaghetti and pizza dinner fund-raiser to help the Griffin family after its loss will be held at 6 p.m. Friday, Jan. 18, at Grandview Elementary School, 19814 Louise, just west of Middlebelt and north of Seven Mile in Livonia. Bob Evans, Munchies Pizza, Westborn Market, Jet's Pizza, Gordon Food Service and The Deli — all of Livonia — are supporting the event.

Tickets are $12. They're available at the school after Jan. 7 or by calling Charlotte Tripp at (248) 471-2075.

Charities report: Need is great, so is generosity

BY MATT JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

With the needs in some communities greater than last year, officials at area charitable organizations are keeping their fingers crossed as they total the results of holiday fund-raising.

Preliminary numbers appear to be on track, most say.

"I think we're close. God bless the people of the area," said Kelly Boelter, coordinator of the Plymouth Salvation Army's 2007 red kettle campaign.

"We did real well. We did a lot better than what I anticipated," said Hank Cable, chairman of the Garden City Goodfellows. "With the economy, I was a little bit leery."

The Plymouth Salvation Army, Boelter said, had a fund-raising goal of $205,000. The group had bell-ringers at 19 different sites and, on many days, had all sites covered, she said.

"Yet again, I was blown away by the generosity of the folks in this area," Boelter said.

The Goodfellows — the No Child Without a Christmas people — didn't have a goal in Garden City; they just hope for enough to pay the bills, Cable said. He figures the group raised around $17,000, a little more than last year.

"The people that gave very generously this year," he said.

However, Cable said, requests for help nearly doubled over last year. The Garden City Goodfellows assisted 95 families, with about 225 children among them, this year, he said.

In Livonia, Goodfellows president Bill Heaton estimated the group raised a little more than $100,000 — about the same as last year. "I think we did quite well," Heaton said.

Livonia Goodfellows provided a Christmas for 736 children in 281 families, he said. Children get toys and families get donated, nonperishable food and vouchers to shop for food and clothing. Some families — those that appear to have the greatest needs — were also "adopted" for Christmas, Heaton said.

NEEDS GROW 'ALL THE TIME'

"The needs are just tremendous out there, and they're growing all the time," said Marie Morrow, president of the Plymouth Community United Way, which had a $1.3 million goal when it began its annual campaign in August. The campaign continues, she said.

The United Way in Plymouth also worked with local companies, service groups and individuals on holiday food drives, which, Morrow said, proved successful.

"It went very well. People were very helpful," she said.

As in Garden City, the Canton Township Goodfellows don't set a fund-raising goal. "We just pray to be able to fulfil the kids' wishes and get the food," said president Nancy Spencer.

Spencer estimated the group raised about $17,000; she credited the Chamber of Commerce and the business community for their support, and Meijer, Sam's Club and former resident Jamie LaGrow, who won $10,000 at a poker tournament, for sizeable donations.

The Canton Goodfellows assisted 240 households, including 569 children — both records, Spencer said.

The group also works with individuals and groups to "adopt" needy children for the holidays, she said. "Everybody pitched in and it just worked beautifully," she said.

MONEY STILL COMING IN

Requests for assistance from the Westland Goodfellows were up this year, said president Jim Rachwal. Last year, the Goodfellows helped over 225 families with more than 600 children among them, according to the group's Web site.

Rachwal didn't have a fund-raising total for 2007, but said revenues were up thanks to the involvement of Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers, plus fund-raisers by the Westland Jaycees and the Wayne-Ford Civic League.

The Wayne-Westland Salvation Army set a goal of $135,000 for its red kettle campaign and mail solicitations, and Capt. Matt O'Neil thinks that goal will be met.

"We had a lot of good donations in our community," O'Neil said. Money is still coming in and some of the red kettles are still out, he said.

About 650 families sought help from the Wayne-Westland Salvation Army, O'Neil said. That's up about 100 over last year.

SMART General Manager Hayes Jones talks about the future he sees for the regional bus system.

SMART boss has vision, road map for bus system

BY STACY JENKINS
STAFF WRITER

Hayes Jones wants people to ride the SMART bus system, even if it's not their only option.

Most riders of the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation bus system do so because they do not have a vehicle or they're unable to operate a vehicle due to physical limitations.

"But there are people who have options," said Jones, general manager of SMART. "I want to create an atmosphere where choice riders feel comfortable riding SMART. We want to provide a level of service they're accustomed to."

That service includes prompt, reliable bus schedules throughout the communities serviced by SMART.

"I don't want our citizens to stand at a stop and not know if the bus will arrive and if the bus will be on schedule," he said.

Easy access to bus schedules via the Internet is also a necessity, he said. SMART will unveil a program to make that a reality in 2008 through its www.smartbus.org Web site. Jones said riders should be able to map their bus route via the online schedule.

"It's those kinds of services," he said. "Time is money and we can't afford to have our customers standing at a bus stop wondering when it's going to come and if it's going to come."

CONTIGUOUS SYSTEM

Jones, who took over as general manager in July, wants to see continuity in the system. Currently, all of Macomb County is serviced, at varying levels, by SMART, because a countywide vote was taken. In Oakland and Wayne counties, however, the "opt-in" vote is taken community by community.

The vote authorizes the county's regional transportation authority to levy a millage for SMART service. Past concerns such as the alleged lack of transparency, communication and responsiveness

An immigrant's story

Urgent Care founder bet his future on a new medical concept

BY KURT KUBAN
STAFF WRITER

It was 10 years ago when Mohammed Arsiwala found himself at the crossroads. The immigrant from India, who had earned his medical degree from Wayne State, was working at Providence Hospital's medical facility in Livonia, when Providence decided to shut the center down for financial reasons.

Arsiwala, who was living in Livonia at the time with his wife and a new baby, found himself out of a job. He had to decide what he was going to do, and he had to do it in a hurry. Instead of looking for another job at a hospital, Arsiwala decided to gamble on himself and an idea he had of creating a new type of practice called 'urgent care' — kind of a mix between a traditional doctor's office, a clinic and a hospital.

He sold his home to help finance the venture, which he called Livonia Urgent Care. It was, and still is, located in the same building that housed the Providence medical center at 37595 Seven Mile Road.

Although there were some bumps in the road, Arsiwala said it took about two years before the business was a success. He subsequently opened eight other locations, including Western Wayne Urgent Care in Canton, which opened in May, and now has 168 employees.

"I lost my job, and decided I wanted to go into practice for myself. We just kind of grew from there," said Arsiwala, who has since moved from Livonia to Northville.

Arsiwala says he has about 80,000 patients at the nine centers, including 27,000 at the Livonia location alone. Business has been so good, Arsiwala is planning on opening 18 more facilities over the next three years in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

"When I started, this model was not there. Now there is a boom of urgent care facilities. That's because it's a good model," Arsiwala said.

Arsiwala describes urgent care as "a step above the doctor's office, and a step below the emergency room."

The facilities, which employ board certified doctors, offer a wide range of medical services for both children and adults, including diagnosing and treating illnesses and accidents. They also have a full service lab, offer chest pain evaluation with EKG, can treat broken bones, sprained joints, and fix cuts with staples or stitches, as well as offer flu and tetanus vaccinations.

In fact, they do just about everything short of primary care, according to Arsiwala.

"We don't do primary care, so we don't compete with primary care providers. We support them by sending patients to neighboring doctors," Arsiwala said.

The Urgent Care centers are also an inexpensive alternative for people who don't have insurance, a fact of life that is becoming more prevalent in Michigan as people lose jobs. At a couple of the Urgent Care facilities, including the one in Canton, Arsiwala offers a $50 examination for uninsured patients, which includes time with a doctor, X-rays, basic labs, a urine analysis, and EKG test.

Arsiwala said far too many people wait to get medical treatment until they visit the emergency room at area hospitals, which is not good for them or the hospitals.

As Arsiwala looks back at the success of the risk he took, he is happy he bet on himself when he was at those crossroads a decade ago. He calls it his "immigrant story."

"We're a Michigan-based company, and I'm so proud of it," he said.

The Urgent Care facilities, which accept most insurance providers including HAP and Blue Care Network, are open 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week, every day of the year (including holidays). For more information, visit www.michiganurgentcare.com.

WAYNE NEWS BRIEFS

Seniors get wired

Westland seniors will have the opportunity to access the Internet from their homes at no cost through a new program being offered at the William P. Faust Public Library.

On Monday, Jan. 7, the library will unveil its program which enables senior residents to obtain free dial-up Internet access through the facility. The connection is made possible through 123.net, a network which provides stable connectivity by way of multiple Internet uplinks.

"This program will serve to lessen the digital divide of those who have access to information and those who do not," said library Director Cheryl Napsha.

In order to take part in the program, residents age 50 and older must visit the library's reference desk to set up an account.

While this program is only open to Westland residents age 50 and older now, all residents will be able to obtain Internet access through this program in April. Call the library at (734) 326-6123.

Christmas fire hits home

A Canton house was burned by a Christmas Day fire that officials say started on the stove.

Shortly after 2 p.m. Tuesday, a 911 call led firefighters to a home in the 1300 block of Hampshire. When fire crews arrived, they could see light smoke coming from the home.

Wearing protective gear, firefighters entered the home and found the kitchen fully engulfed in flames. They quickly extinguished the fire.

According to fire officials, the fire damage was limited to the kitchen/dining area, with smoke damage throughout the home. Damage is estimated at $60,000 for the structure and $35,000 for the contents.

Officials ruled the fire was accidental.

A 58-year-old female, who was able to get out of the home and call 911, was the only occupant at the time of the fire. She was transported by the fire department to St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia for minor smoke inhalation. There were no other reported injuries.

Bond rating lowered

The Garden City Public Schools ongoing budget woes has taken a toll on the district's bond rating.

Standard & Poor's Rating Services revised its outlook for the district's BBB+ issuer credit rating from stable to negative, citing Garden City's "weakened financial position following years of financial imbalances."

The negative rating is based on the district's weak general fund balance reserves and limited financial flexibility, declining enrollment projections and an above-average debt burden, according to S&P.

The school district is in the second year of a three-year deficit reduction plan aimed at erasing a budget deficit projected to be $2.1 million at the end of fiscal 2007-2008. It expects to have a balanced budget by the 2009-2010 budget year.

New Year good time to get finances in order

A happy, healthy and prosperous New Year to all.

At the start of the year people make New Year's resolutions and by the end of the month they are long forgotten. However, one New Year's resolution that should be kept is to get one's financial house in order. The benefits are both economic and psychological (you get peace of mind). Now is a great time to dedicate yourself to making sure your financial affairs are in order.

There are four main areas on which to focus — estate planning, taxes, risk management and investments.

In estate planning area, it is important to review your will, trust and power of attorney to make sure each is up to date and which is a listing of where assets and important papers can be found.

Money Matters

In the area of taxes, always remember the goal is to be smart. If you are saving for a child's college education, take advantage of the Michigan Education Savings Plan (MESFP) which allows one to deduct contributions and at the same time have all income grow on a tax-free basis.

In addition, it is a good idea to get reacquainted with any employee benefit programs. Taking advantage of retirement savings accounts or even flexible spending plans can save a substantial amount of money.

In the area of risk management, this is the time to review insurance on your house or car and also to shop your coverage around. You'd be surprised how much you can save by receiving competitive bids. In addition, check deductibles to determine if they are appropriate. Raising deductibles is one way to lower premiums.

Review life insurance coverage from a couple different angles. First, do you still need life insurance?

Life insurance is not an investment and it should not be purchased as such. If you don't need life insurance, don't keep paying for it. I know many people in the insurance industry like to tell customers their policies are paid up and so there is no reason to cancel. The reality is if you don't need the insurance, cancel the policy. And finally, review your goals and objectives to make sure your investments match. Investors who do not have a game plan are those that fail.

Getting your financial house in order is not easy and it is not something you can do once and forget about it. We live in a time where everything changes and we have to respond accordingly. The consequences of not keeping your financial house in order can be severe. As you start the New Year, spending time on personal finance will help make 2008 the best year ever.

Rick Bloom is a fee-only financial adviser. Observer & Eccentric readers can submit questions at money matters@hometownlife.com. For more information, visit Rick's Web site at www.bloomassetmanagement.com. You can hear Rick noon to 3 p.m. Sundays on WDTK 1400 AM.

CRIME WATCH

3 nabbed in gun-waiving

A Redford resident said three teenagers came to his house asking about a stolen jacket, and one of them waved a gun around, according to a police report. It happened at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

While an officer was taking the report, the 17-year-old victim saw the suspects drive by again. Officers followed the suspects to a car wash, where three people were arrested — two were 17, one was 19. Each was wanted on outstanding warrants. Police did not find the gun, described as a silver revolver with a wooden handle.

The victim said he recognized one of the men from school. He denied knowing about a stolen jacket.

Tools stolen from church

Someone broke into Christ Lutheran Church, 14350 Wormer, and stole a chest of tools worth $500, according to Redford police. The thief was able to force a door open, police said. No other areas of the church were damaged.

Purr-fect pets abound at Humane Society

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Once Christmas was over, thoughts turned to pets for a number of western Wayne folks, including Sam Leggat of Redford.

"Looking for two companions of the feline species," he said Thursday at the Michigan Humane Society's Berman Center for Animal Care Adoption Center. He'd had a cat that died in the spring; Leggat had rescued that cat from a co-worker.

"They're fun, they're entertaining," he said while looking at the cats up for adoption. "I've grown up with them."

Leggat has a roommate but no kids, and noted "Dogs are more needy than cats." He does consulting work, and finds cats suit him well. He'd had some work done on his house, and wanted to avoid exposing a pet to dust.

Leggat was in a day earlier and spied a cat that was adopted. "Good for him," he said.

The Michigan Humane Society got right down to business after Christmas, with the center in Westland open for pet adoptions. It's at 900 N. Newburgh in Westland, at Marquette, and can be reached at (734) 721-7300.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The MHS also operates adoption centers for pets in Rochester Hills and Detroit. The Web site is www.michiganhumane.org.

Tim Bury of Westland brought daughter McKenzie, 10, and son Travis, 12, to the Berman Center Thursday. "We were donating some supplies," Tim Bury said. "We always walk through when we come here."

The Bury family has a dog, Holly, a yellow lab, at home, so they weren't looking for another pet. "They wanted to see the dogs and cats," Bury said of his kids, a Stevenson Middle School seventh-grader and Patchin Elementary fifth-grader.

Tim, who works at a steel mill in Plymouth in computer entry and as an uncoiler operator, likes having a pet. "It teaches the kids responsibility," he said. "They get a companion out of it." Holly, about a year old, is also a watchdog.

Martha Tibai, 5, (from left) and her sisters Michelle, 10, and Megan, 8, of Wayne visited the Michigan Humane Society in Westland and had the chance to play with a cat named Chubs, who was up for adoption.

The family donated a collar, and hamster supplies: "We figured we'd make good use of it," dad said.

Barb Lungaro of Canton was at the Westland shelter with son Shawn, who works in a machine shop. Their family has four dogs, two cats (Barb's daughter's pets) and a cockatiel.

"We're just looking around for dogs," said Shawn Lungaro, who'd like a small dog. "We usually stop and look around here."

"Just fun to have around the house," he said of pets. "My mom treats them like they are kids."

His mom was excited to find a gift at the Humane Society, a plaque that read: "There is always room for one more dog." She loves her pets.

"They don't talk back to you and they love you unconditionally," Barb Lungaro said. If you're down or sick, your pet will stay by you.

She doesn't have any trouble with her pets and has never hit them. "I raise my voice and they know, don't they? I love my animals."

Lungaro encourages new pet owners to spend a lot of time with the animals, and to make sure vaccines are up to date. She has a veterinarian here and one Up North by their place in Gladwin.

"If you want to have a healthy pet, you've got to take care of it," she said.

Taniya Hanspard of Livonia brought son Andre Roberts, 12, to the Westland shelter. He's a seventh-grader at Emerson Middle School, and she's an engineer with Siemens VDO in Dearborn.

"We had a dog a few years ago," she said. "We loved him so much." That golden retriever got away, and she thinks another family kept him.

They'd been thinking about a new dog for several months, and have done research on pets. "Now we know a little more about the behavior of the dogs," she said as Andre visited with Ripley, a dog, in a "get acquainted" room.

MHS spokeswoman Stephanie Baron noted just after the holidays can be a great time for a new pet. "It just depends on what your holiday activities are," said the owner of two cats. "If you're done with entertaining, you can welcome a new pet; otherwise, it's better to wait."

"It's enough of an adjustment for the new animal to be in the home," she said, without a lot of party guests around.

Chubs, a domestic shorthair cat, was popular with visitors to the Westland site. "He's about nine months old," Baron said as she played with Chubs. "He's a purr machine."

She encourages the whole family to come in to adopt. "We try to match up lifestyle of the animal with lifestyle of the person," Baron said. Once a pet's home, adjustment will take some time.

Stephanie Baron of the Michigan Humane Society receives a big kiss from Ripley, a one year old Labrador retriever mix that is up for adoption.

Some animals end up at the shelter due to moves or financial difficulties. "Some people have babies and it doesn't mix with the baby," Baron said, emphasizing it's not their fault and the good fortune of animals having a second chance at a home.

There are adoption fees for MHS animals, who arrive at the shelter consistently throughout the year. Animals are spayed or neutered as part of the adoption package.

Forms at the shelter tell people what the animal needs from them, and what current social skills the animal has. The Humane Society offers Pet Education Center classes at Westland and Rochester Hills, as well as off-site locations, for animals with problems like urinating on the carpet.

"You get to know your dog a little better which is nice, too," Baron said.

Fire destroys construction business

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

Earl Hall said ringing in the new year is supposed to bring "optimism and a fresh approach."

Both will certainly be key for Hall after fire destroyed the building housing his company, E.G.H. Construction, and Van Buren Electric on north Mill Street near Amelia in Plymouth late Tuesday night.

Plymouth Community firefighters were called to the building about 11:30 p.m., and remained on the scene until about 6:30 a.m. Wednesday morning. The fire department was aided by crews from Northville and Northville Township.

"I was surprised to see it this (Wednesday) morning and find the office completely destroyed," said Hall, who noted he was notified of the blaze about an hour after firefighters responded, but decided not to go watch it burn. "It was a sick feeling, it's a total loss."

BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

The Van Buren Electric and E.G.H Construction company in Plymouth suffered damage in the New Year's fire Tuesday night.

Hall said the fire is more of an inconvenience as his construction company remains in business, and he's already had offers of office space from several people.

"It's mostly an inconvenience of having to deal with relocation and setting up a new office," Hall said.

"Fortunately, no one was hurt in the fire, or any firefighters were injured."

Hall said no cause for the fire has been determined, "but it doesn't look to be anything intentional."

by SMART have led to some communities opting out of the system.

Livonia recently opted out, creating a gap in coverage between West Bloomfield and Farmington Hills, to Detroit Metro Airport, for example.

"There are serious concerns about the situation we're in," said Steve Brock, Farmington Hills city manager, who serves on the Oakland County Transit Authority, formed via Public Act 197 to collect the tax for the SMART service. "What if West Bloomfield opts out — we become a peninsula."

Novi and Canton are not in SMART, so there is a west-to-east disconnect. The opt-in or opt-out structure creates a checker board for SMART routes.

"When you have those misconnections, you don't truly have a regional service," Jones said.

To change that, Jones said it's up to the municipal leaders and the county commissions in each county to make that change.

"My hope, as general manager, is to share the vision," said Jones, who noted he wants to work with the counties to create a strategic plan. "We need a road map, where we are at and where we want to be."

HIGH DEMAND

By 2030, the senior population is expected to double, creating a greater need for transportation services, Jones said. "Our connector program and our community partnership program are growing by leaps and bounds," he said. "But it is very critical that we find a way to expand our services."

Ridership was up in 2007, Jones said, noting about 11 million people used the SMART system.

"This year is the first time in history that our ridership is going through the roof," he said. "We had to cut $2 million from our budget, yet ridership has gone up."

High fuel costs are likely prompting people to ride the bus, he added.

"If we continue to grow the way we are growing now, we'll need to find ways to support this growth," Jones said.

SMART general manager Hayes Jones

A RENAISSANCE MAN

Jones has experience in business management, public service, government, politics, education, entrepreneurship and even the Olympic Games.

Before being hired as general manager of SMART in July, Jones, 69, of Pontiac, was director of Economic Development and Community Affairs for Oakland County, where he focused on business retention and expansion. He was also senior adviser for Automation Alley, where he organized global trade missions for small- to medium-sized businesses.

Prior to working for American Airlines and Pro Air for a combined total of 20 years, Jones was a school teacher at Denby High School in Detroit. He took a leave of absence when he was appointed to the Youth Empowerment Project by Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanaugh.

He accepted an appointment in 1968 from New York Mayor John V. Lindsay to be the city's first recreation director.

His experience also includes owning J&J Airport Services, a baggage service operation.

The political bug bit him in November 2006, when he ran for an unexpired term in the Michigan House of Representatives representing Pontiac and Auburn Hills. He lost the following election to the two-year term by 84 votes.

Jones is also an Olympic champion. He brought home a gold medal from the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo in the 110-meter hurdles. Four years earlier, he competed in the 1960 Olympics in Rome and brought home a bronze medal in the same event.

Jones is married to Rhonda and they have two children and three grandchildren.

OUR VIEWS

BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Every community is targeting new businesses and retaining businesses. An example of redevelopment is the collection of new shops at Wonderland Village, on Plymouth and Middlebelt.

New year will require plenty of resolve

Often a time of optimism and resolutions, this new year begins with our state facing an economic recession pushed by the loss of jobs and mortgage foreclosures. Forecasters see more doom and gloom in 2008. Those of us with jobs and homes must increasingly realize our role in helping sustain our area's economy.

Whether it's visiting local restaurants from Livonia to Canton, shopping in downtown Plymouth or Westland, or even hiring a service company from Redford or Garden City, it's as important as ever to choose wisely the places we spend our precious dollars. Look at businesses that you'd want to keep around and choose those that invest in our community by who they hire, how well they serve, and what kind of corporate citizenship they display.

Livonia begins the new year with a new, though familiar, group of city leaders facing major challenges, mostly wrought by the difficult economy. We wish Mayor Jack Kirksey, City Council President Laura Toy, Clerk Linda Grimsby and Treasurer Dennis Wright success in trying to continue to provide Livonia with top-notch services and public safety protection amid the dwindling funding sources. Finding ways to retain and attract new businesses will be the key to the town's future.

We hope a new year brings a speedy resolution to the whistleblower lawsuit brought by a former controller against Livonia Public Schools and two top administrators. This is a serious allegation and the district says it's unfounded. A court decision on the issue should clear the air, one way or the other.

In Canton, township officials should continue to court retail and other businesses to move in along the Michigan Avenue corridor, which has seen a remarkable transformation in recent years and may someday rival Ford Road as the town's main thoroughfare. Ditto for Cherry Hill Village, which is finally starting to gain an identity for itself with new stores and some nightlife.

Let's hope the Plymouth-Canton Schools Board of Education can find a suitable replacement for popular Supt. Jim Ryan, who is retiring at the end of February. The new superintendent is going to have to deal with some big challenges, mainly cutting costs while trying to maintain small classroom sizes. Whoever gets the job, he or she will have some big shoes to fill and have to deal with huge expectations.

Political candidates in Plymouth and Canton townships should resolve to keep it clean. All the board seats in both towns are up for grabs this year. We're hoping the incumbents who get into the race, and their potential challengers, campaign on issues and keep personalities out of it.

The City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township need to resolve to settle the whole fire department issue. Individuals in both governmental bodies have said they believe a joint operation is the best option for both communities; however, when they sit down to negotiate, that thought seems to go out the window. Get it settled.

Garden City officials should continue to make local water and sewer improvements, while working within a five-year funding plan to remain solvent and avoid big rate increases.

Another big challenge for Garden City officials is to continue trying to attract new businesses to town, while encouraging existing business owners to keep their locations looking attractive.

Redford Union Schools are staring down a dismal financial future, with the projected increase in the district's budget deficit. Given all the cuts needed to trim the deficit so far and knowing there's so much further to go, we urge district officials the fortitude to face this new challenge in ways that least impact the classroom.

As Redford Township faces an election year for township offices and state offices, we have an early message for all candidates: Let's keep it clean, stick to the issues, and not focus on tearing down the opposition. People want to know what you can do or have done, not how badly you can smear the other side. And please, no hiding behind outside groups to actually sling the mud.

Westland officials should continue pushing to clean up the contamination at Central City Park, which is the crown jewel of city's park system. They should work with the state and county to get this resolved as soon as possible, so residents can once again enjoy the park.

Westland officials should also make it a priority to try and lure new businesses to the city, particularly to fill the vacancies near Westland Shopping Center.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bills are flawed

Regarding HR 1955 and S 1959, both versions of this bill are too flawed to consider making them law as they are written.

I am sick to death of hearing President Bush state that he needs to be able to spy on Americans to protect and keep them safe from terrorism. This has already gone on too long and is too far reaching to be acceptable by the American people.

Please let this type of activity revert back to being covered under the current FISA laws and protect the American people from the unnecessary loss of privacy they have already been experiencing since early 2001, when George W. Bush first took office.

All we need is the government now deciding that we are guilty of crimes not committed, based on faulty information from eavesdropping on conversations or misinterpreting anything written in e-mails or blogs on the Internet.

Seek information on candidates

We, at least some of us, will go on the 15th of January to the polls to cast our ballots. It will be for presidential candidates most likely chosen for us, promoted, and given the most exposure by those who control the mainstream news media and public opinion polling.

From past experiences, we can infer that the candidates who are the media's choices, when elected are likely to cater to the interests favored by those who are in control of the media that had been instrumental in their election, not necessarily to the best interest of the country. The voting public is hardly aware of the existence of other, truly worthy candidates who are largely ignored and often unjustly and purposely, it seems, detracted by the media. That is perhaps the reason why there is a dearth among hopefuls of good, capable, truly deserving persons willing to offer themselves as presidential candidates. Those of them who do, facing such formidable antagonists, likely stand not much of a chance of being elected.

Obvious promotion of a particular presidential candidate by controlled news media may be an indication to many of us that the candidate is perhaps not good to be our president. On the other hand, undeserved detracting from and largely ignoring of a candidate or candidates by the media may be a sign to us that he, she, or they are most likely to have desirable attributes, are worthy of being elected to the office of the president, and will do good for this country. The voting public, in order to make wise choices, should seek information about candidates from impartial, independent sources.

Reject socialized medicine

The lineup on the Socialist side, oops, the Democrat side is Clinton, Obama, Edwards, Kucinich, and Biden. Pick one, get the second free.

None of the above carries a card, but their socialist inclinations are sure. Socialized medicine, sometimes euphemistically called universal health care is their bag. No debates need to take place on the left. They all seek to bring our economy to its knees.

Given the election of one of the socialists, how far behind will nationalization for the top ten industries be.

No need to scoff. England not too many years ago tried the socialization or nationalization of the 10 major industries, fell into decline, thousands hungry, thousands out of work, wages at a low ebb. Margaret Thatcher reversed the nationalization when she became prime minister, placing the socialized businesses in private hands once again.

A healthy economic system developed soon after. People were working and eating. Once again, socialism proved inefficient. It doesn't have to happen here.

Neil Goodbred

Why are taxes going up?

I happen to be a senior citizen. I've lived in the same home since I built it in 1966.

My 2007 homestead property taxes have increased by about 2.5 percent over the last year. The taxable value, according to the city of Farmington Hills, has increased over last year about 3.6 percent. However, the actual value of my home has decreased from that of 2006. In short, I have to pay more even though my property is worth less.

I guess it has something to do with Proposal A.

Question: Is the state of Michigan or the city of Farmington Hills going to lower my assessment for 2008 to bring it in line with what it should be? Were all Proposal A homeowners in Michigan affected the same way? Don't hand me an explanation. Just tell the truth.

Kenneth Kemp

Real reform needed

Expanding term limits completely misses the point. We need real election reform and that means it is imperative that we adapt public financed elections!

Let's get lobbyists out of this "game" of politics all together. It is time we ended the corporate purchase of elections/politicians. On the national level that means per person we would spend only $6 a year to publicly fund each and every election for the House, the Senate and the White House. Compare this to the pork barrel projects that cost Americans over $200 a year per person (check www.just6dollars.org for more info).

It's not only practical but far more fiscally responsible to have the public fund elections (politicians can still collect small donations from supporters).

Yes, decreasing term limits will lead to more experienced congressmen. But look where that's gotten us — on a death track in Iraq! We don't need "experience" if it's going to blow our country straight to hell. We need fresh faces and open access for everyday folks to be able to run for office. Expanding term limits is a joke. If we want representatives who actually represent us (and not the lobbyists and corporate powers that be) then we need to publicly fund elections. Let's start thinking about some real electoral reforms here.

Two-party political system has stranglehold on our democracy

Finally! Iowa voters will go to the polls today, in what, thankfully, marks the beginning of the end of an incessantly long presidential primary campaign.

I don't know about everyone else, but for me this primary season has gone on far too long — so long that it has numbed a lot of voters to the whole process of picking our next president.

Kurt Kuban

Of course, that probably doesn't bother the leadership of either the Republican or Democratic parties. It is clear they aren't really interested in getting more voters involved in the process.

Case in point, look at the sad situation we face here in Michigan. The national leadership of both parties decided to essentially void our primary votes, because we — gasp — chose to hold our primary at an earlier date than they thought we should.

Whether you agree with it or not, the leaders in the Michigan Democratic and Republican parties decided to move our primary up and hold it before the Iowa Caucus and New Hampshire Primary, which are the traditional forerunners of the primary season. Their logic was to make sure Michigan had more of an influence on who the nominees would ultimately be. If we went first, the nation would take notice of the results, and force the candidates to address the state's economic struggles and other Michigan-specific issues.

The response of the national parties was swift and pretty brutal, even though Iowa and New Hampshire moved their dates up. The Democrats have stripped Michigan of its 156 delegates for this year's national convention, and the Republican Party will only count half of the state's delegates.

(Florida was hit with a similar penalty for scheduling it's Jan. 29 primary.)

So when Michigan voters, at least some of us, head to the polls on Jan. 15, it will really be a fruitless endeavor. Heck, there will only be four Democrats (Hillary Clinton, Sen. Chris Dodd of Connecticut, Rep. Dennis Kucinich of Ohio and former Alaska Sen. Mike Gravel) on the ballot, because all the other candidates decided it was best to go along with the party rules than to let Michigan voters have their say. Democrat candidate Joe Biden's campaign even referred to the Michigan primary as a "beauty contest."

Biden was partially right. The whole election process in this country has become a beauty contest — thanks to the Republicans and Democrats.

Just look at this primary campaign. How many times do we have to see the candidates answer the same questions? Of course, their answers change as pollsters tell them what they think the American public thought about their previous answers.

The two parties have essentially said to voters, abide by our rules or go somewhere else. Of course they have set up a system where there is nowhere else to go. They have essentially locked out any independent or third party candidates from the process. They don't allow third party candidates in any of their debates, and it is much more difficult to even get on the ballot for independents.

The question I have is how long will we as Americans watch the Republicans and Democrats flush our democracy down the toilet?

If they think the American people are happy with this system, they are mistaken. Look at voter turnout. In the 2004 presidential election, 64 percent of eligible voters decided to go to the polls. While that might seem fairly abysmal considering democracies like Australia and Malta (yes Malta) typically have a turnout of 90 percent or higher, it was actually the largest turnout we've had since 1968.

And in off-presidential elections, turnout is usually in the mid to high 30s. It is clear there is a growing disconnect between our electorate and our political system.

And just what have the Dems and Republicans done after the campaign is over? Their fervent partisanship has created a dysfunctional government that appeals to the far left and far right, while middle America is left in the dust wondering what happened to their government. And it's not just at the federal level. We in Michigan have had a front row view of the ugliness of Democrat/Republican partisanship.

I know, I know. People have told me time and again, a third party will never work, that our problems must be solved in the two-party system we have now. But there is something seriously wrong with our democracy, and our two-party system (or at least the two parties in it) is the main problem.

Our founding fathers never said anything about having to be a Republican or Democrat to get elected in this country. Yet, we are in a trap we don't seem to know how to get out of.

Think about that when you waste your gas and time to vote on Jan. 15. What a sad situation. Democracy indeed.

Here's hoping 2008 brings political results, not rhetoric

Promises, promises.

It's New Year resolutions time again. You know, those promises you make to yourself that are often forgotten or not acted upon until it is time for the following year's resolutions. According to Wikipedia, "a New Year's resolution is a commitment that an individual makes to a project or habit, often a lifestyle change, that is generally interpreted as advantageous."

Tom Watkins

During a recent presidential debate, the moderator asked the Democratic candidates to tell the audience their New Year resolutions. Predictably, we heard more campaign rhetoric from most of them. Gov. Bill Richardson got the laugh line of the evening when he said, "I am going to lose weight — again, this year!" As Wikipedia indicates, "many resolutions go unachieved and are often broken fairly shortly after they are set." Here are some promises or resolutions that I hope defy the odds and are not only made for 2008, but are implemented.

■ The governor will call for a "shared vision and common agenda" conference. This meeting will consist of the diverse interests that comprise our state, including Republicans and Democrats; business, labor and academia; nonprofits and those struggling to make a profit; city, suburbs and rural from Saugatuck to St. Clair and from Monroe to Menominee. The Henry Ford should be used as the conference setting, using the backdrop of Henry Ford, Edison, Firestone and other innovative entrepreneurs as inspiration for us to build a new Michigan. We need leadership that has us rowing in the same direction if we expect to move forward in the future.

Are their political risks of such a gathering? Of course. But the risks to all of us by not coming together and taking action are far greater.

■ The rhetoric in our state capitol about reforming and restructuring government will be more than lip service and real change will be acted upon. This will mean putting the needs of citizens, the people that pay the taxes, above the special interests that are well-represented in Lansing. The structure and overhead of our governments at the state and local levels exist as if nothing has changed when the contrary, that everything has changed, is true.

■ The statement that "I will go anywhere and do anything" to bring jobs to Michigan will include China, Russia and India, countries with more than three billion new capitalists/consumers with the fastest-growing, largest economies in the world. Here we are at the beginning of the eighth year of the 21st century and no statewide elected official has traveled to these countries to "bring home the bacon" for Michigan. With an unemployment rate of nearly 8 percent and good-paying jobs fleeing our state, a job reconnaissance mission seems in order.

■ Budgets are statements of priorities. Politicians on both sides of the political aisle make the claim that education is the most important investment our state can make to help prepare our people for the transformational, technologically-driven, global, knowledge economy. Yet funding for education at all levels has been cut and increases have not kept pace with rising costs for several years in a row. Voters need to hold our elected leaders accountable. Don't just "read their lips" when it comes to educational funding — "watch their hips." The bulk of all new resources invested in our schools goes to pensions and health care for employees. Actions do speak louder than words and the actions have not caught up to the rhetoric when it truly comes to funding education.

■ Efforts that have been made to diversify our state's economy will continue and intensify. Tapping life sciences, alternative energy, homeland security and other 21st century knowledge-economy jobs like Google and E-Prize hold promise for Michigan. The University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University together with our other wonderful universities, can and should be utilized to help jump-start new, creative, innovative and entrepreneurial ventures.

■ Our system of community colleges will be recognized for the value they add to help prepare our traditional and nontraditional students for this fast-paced, ever-changing world economy. A summit should be held with the leaders of the 28 community colleges, from the western edge of the U.P. to Monroe, to stimulate their thinking on ways their talents can be better utilized.

Change is the most talked about and least acted upon concept in Michigan today. As a new year begins, we have the opportunity to embrace and lead change. Will we allow another year to pass without making commitments with the corresponding action for real change?

Resolutions, rhetoric or results — which will prevail in 2008?

HOLIDAY HOOPS EXTRAVAGANZA

Ladywood blazes to Loy Norrix title

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

While millions of Americans were taking down trees last week, members of the Livonia Ladywood basketball team were firing up threes.

And when it mattered most the Blazers found the bottom of the net with their long-range bombs en route to taking first-place honors at the talent-rich Kalamazoo Loy Norrix Holiday Hoops Tournament.

Ladywood hung on to knock off previously unbeaten and state-ranked Benton Harbor, 54-47, in Friday's semifinal contest before slipping past the host Knights, 59-54, in Saturday's title game.

The two-day effort gave Ladywood a 6-2 record, an impressive trophy and a dose of invaluable confidence heading into Friday's home game against Regina.

"Going into the tournament, we knew that no matter who we played, we'd get two good games in," said Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski. "Benton Harbor was a much bigger team than we were — they had two 6-foot-2 forwards — and Loy Norrix was quicker than us, but we made some big three-point shots and played out-

Community's pressure cooks Salem, 52-33

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

When faced with the best Michigan has to offer Friday night, Salem's girls basketball team fared rather well.

At least in the first half.

Visiting Detroit Community, which is regarded as one of the state's elite teams regardless of class, ran its record to 10-0 with a 52-33 decision over the Rocks, who trailed just 25-17 at the half.

"They're a very, very good team — probably the quickest team we'll play this year," said Salem coach Fred Thomann.

The setback dropped Salem to 5-2 heading into Friday night's Western Lakes Activities Association contest at Walled Lake Central. The opening tip is set for 7 p.m.

Salem only led briefly in the game's opening minutes, but the Rocks played toe-to-toe with the Hurricanes throughout most of the first half. Community, which routinely blows teams out with its high-intensity defense and well-orchestrated offensive scheme, led just 21-17 with 55 seconds left in the first quarter after Salem's Victoria Brotz swished a long triple.

However, the Hurricanes countered with a 25-8 run that left Salem looking up at what proved to be an insurmountable 46-25 deficit.

Nya Jordan was the Hurricanes' MVP on Friday as she consistently earned inside position on the Rocks' post players, received the ball deep in the lane then converted several short spin-and-bank layups for 19 points. Jordan also hauled down a team-high 10 rebounds — four on the offensive end.

Pistons clinic

The Detroit Pistons will be holding a youth basketball clinic Saturday, Jan. 26, at Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church in Northville.

Coach Steve Moreland will conduct clinics for boys and girls in grades 1st through 3rd from noon to 2:30 p.m.; and for youngsters in grades 4th through 6th from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Each participant will receive an authentic Pistons basketball T-shirt free. Additionally, participants' parents will have the opportunity to purchase Piston tickets at a reduced price and be invited to attend along with their children the popular pre-game "shoot-around" at courtside at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Refreshments will be provided to all participants. Players are encouraged to bring a basketball and parents are urged to bring a camera.

The cost is $20 per child. Pre-registration is required by contacting Margy Burkhart at margy.burkhart@wardchurch.org or (248) 374-5932.

Motorcycle show

The Cycle World International Motorcycle Show will cruise into the Rock Financial Showplace as part of a 13-city nationwide series Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The show offers attendees an up-close look at hundreds of 2008 model street bikes, dirt bikes, cruisers, ATVs, concept bikes, customs and vintage bikes.

A new display this year will feature a collection of historical record-setting bikes, including the world's fastest motorcycle.

Additionally, motorcycle enthusiasts will have the opportunity to try out the latest gear and aftermarket accessories as well as experience action-packed entertainment.

Admission is $13 for adults and $6 for kids 6 to 11. Children under 5 are free.

For more information, visit www.motorcycleshows.com or call (800) 331-5706.

Panthers earn Grosse Ile crown

The Redford Union boys basketball team's first holiday tournament experience in coach Brett Steele's seven-year tenure proved to be a worthwhile one as the Panthers earned the first-place trophy of the Grosse Ile Holiday Tournament Saturday night with a 49-34 victory over the host school.

"This is the first time we've played in a Christmas tournament in my seven years, so it was nice that the kids were able to go out and play very well in both the games and win the tournament," said Steele, whose team improved to 4-3. "Hopefully, we can build on this now as we head into our league schedule starting Friday."

BOYS HOOPS

RU was paced by tournament Most Valuable Player Terrell Beard, a senior guard who followed up a solid 14-point effort in the first-round game with a 21-point night in the title contest.

Doing most of the inside damage for the Panthers was junior center Leonard Wernette-Leff, who poured in 10 points.

RU returns to action Friday when it hosts Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Ignition to host Cougars

On Friday night, fans of the Major Indoor Soccer League's Detroit Ignition can score two goals with one shot, so to speak.

Along with watching their favorite club battle the California Cougars in a game set to kick off at 7:35 p.m. at the Compuware Arena in Plymouth Township, backers of the Ignition can donate to a good cause as $4 of every $19 ticket purchased for the game will be donated to the Gobles, a Canton family that lost most of their belongings in a house explosion on Nov. 19.

The Ignition will also be holding a silent auction during the game to raise additional funds for the family.

Hollowell leads Chiefs over Chieftains in OT

BY ED WRIGHT
 STAFF WRITER

Baylee Hollowell had 20/20 vision Friday night — and as a result the Canton girls basketball team's three-game losing streak is out of sight.

Hollowell turned in a performance that was reminiscent of Canton all-time scoring leader Katie Cezat (Class of '04) when she overmatched visiting Okemos with 23 points and 20 rebounds to lead the Chiefs to a 39-34 overtime triumph in the Phase III gymnasium.

The victory — Canton's first since in almost three weeks — improved the Chiefs' record to 2-6. Okemos slipped to 4-4. "It's always nice to get a win," said Canton coach Brian Samulski. "This one's big because it should give us some momentum heading into our (WAAA) divisional play on Friday (at home against Wayne Memorial)."

"Okemos made a couple of runs, but the kids hung in there and kept battling. They showed a lot of confidence and poise." Sisters Marie and Kaylie Martin also turned in strong efforts for the winners as they both notched six points. Marie Martin added five rebounds as did freshman guard Mel Pickert, who also "did a nice job of running the offense," according to Samulski.

Canton surged to an 8-4 lead after one quarter and 21-16 halftime lead.

The Chieftains' Nicole Schero sent the game into overtime when she grabbed a rebound off a Hollowell blocked shot and deposited the ball into the basket as the buzzer sounded.

Kaylie Martin and Marie Martin converted hoops early in the extra session to put the Chiefs up, 35-31. Hollowell then sealed the win by sinking 4-of-5 free throws in the overtime.

Tracey Nogle paced Okemos with 18 points.

Canton was 7-of-11 from the free throw line while Okemos buried 6-of-12 from the stripe.

"I was pleased with our defense, holding a good team like Okemos to 34 points in overtime," said Samulski. "Actually, our defense has been sound all year. Now we just have to start picking it up on the offensive end."

standing defense.

"We had a couple kids who were injured and didn't even play, but some other players stepped up and played well in their place."

The Blazers set the tone for the weekend in the first half against Benton Harbor when they buried five triples. Ahson Szczypka, who finished with a game-high 19, accounted for two of the threes while Mary Fitzgerald also swished a pair.

Thanks in large part to the red-hot perimeter shooting, the Blazers raced to a 17-5 first-quarter lead and 31-15 halftime advantage.

The Tigers, who were ranked in the top five teams in Class A prior to the game, roared back to cut their deficit to 40-32 after three quarters, but Ladywood hung on for the big win.

Fitzgerald finished with 12 points for the winners. Bethany Williams led the Tigers with 18.

Ladywood hit 7-of-10 free throws while Benton Harbor connected on 16-of-25 from the stripe.

"They started to go to the basket more in the second half and, as a result, they went to the line 18 times in the second half alone," Gorski said. "They're one of the top five teams in Class A, so that was a nice win for us."

Ladywood's Alex Serowoky was the catalyst of the title-game victory as she poured in a game-high 20 points. Szczypka contributed 18 while Fitzgerald added 10 to the winners' cause.

Barbara Johnson led the Knights with 17 points.

The game was knotted at 14-all and 28-all after the first and second quarters, respectively. Ladywood grabbed the upper-hand by outscoring Loy Norrix 18-10 in the third quarter before holding on.

"We hit three threes in the third quarter to kind of break it open a little bit," said Gorski.

led a strong Community back court with 13 and eight points, respectively. The duo's defensive quickness also was instrumental in throwing the Rocks out of their offensive rhythm, especially in the second half.

Senior guard Alaya Mitchell was the lone Rock to hit for double figures with 10. Mitchell also added four steals on the defensive end. Sophomore guard Sara Stone added eight points and a team-high six points for Salem while junior forward Chelsea Davis chipped in with seven points. Brotz contributed five points and a pair of boards.

Salem's starting five — Mitchell, Davis, Stone, Brotz and Brett deBear — stayed on the floor throughout most of the opening three quarters until reserve Rachel Norman was inserted into the game with just over two minutes left in the third. Salem committed 14 turnovers, 10 in the decisive second half. The Rocks forced the Hurricanes into 12 miscues.

Community connected on 22-of-48 field goals (45.8 percent) and 5-of-7 free throws (71 percent) while the Rocks were 12-of-37 (32 percent) from the floor and 6-of-11 (54.5 percent) from the line.

Franklin cagers drop pair at L'Anse Creuse tourney

The Livonia Franklin boys basketball team may not have unwrapped any victories at last week's L'Anse Creuse Holiday Tournament, but the Patriots received a ton of valuable experience against top-notch competition.

Franklin dropped both of its games — 72-54 to South Lake on Thursday and 85-76 to Port Huron on Friday — to drop to 2-4 heading into Friday's WLAA Western Division contest against Walled Lake Western.

"These were our first real non-league games (the Patriots' previous opponents included WLAA foes Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Churchill and Plymouth), so it was nice to play some different teams in a tournament-type atmosphere," said Franklin coach Jeremy Rheault.

The Patriots were hampered by shoddy free throw shooting in the loss to South Lake as they canned just half of their 30 attempts. Senior guard Ryan Matthey turned in a stellar effort for Franklin, scoring a game-high 24 points. Kevin Percin (nine points) and Jeff Poole (eight) also played well for Rheault's crew. Quintin Jones led the winners with 21. South Lake led 16-11 after one quarter, 35-21 at the half and 57-35 with eight minutes to play.

"We didn't shoot well from the line and we had too many turnovers," Rheault said, assessing his team's opening-game performance. "We came out a little flat like a lot of teams do when they play in the holiday tournaments. We dug ourselves into a deep hole that we couldn't dig out of."

The Patriots' offense was hitting on all cylinders against Port Huron, but they couldn't slow the talented Big Reds.

Three Franklin players excelled on the offensive end: Matthey, who tallied 23; and Poole and senior forward Israel Woolfork, who both twined 20. Chris Cotton (26) and Sam Seppo (24) paced the winners.

Port Huron led a tight game from the get-go, extending a 22-18 first-quarter lead to 40-35 at the half and 59-56 after three stanzas.

"We played much better on Friday than we did on Thursday," said Rheault. "We were down 12 at one point in the first half, but battled back to take a one-point lead in the third quarter. Turnovers cost us tonight. To their credit, they played good defense and we didn't finish."

Matthey and Woolfork both earned spots on the All-Tournament team.

"Ryan was extremely aggressive in both games," said Rheault. "He made some very good decisions against Port Huron's zone and against South Lake he was able to get to the rim."

"Israel played outstanding defense in both games. He made some incredible blocks and he hit his open looks on offense."

Tars stifle Rockets' win streak, 62-47

State power Detroit Renaissance proved to have a little bit too much for Westland John Glenn Saturday night in the Detroit Public School League's Holiday Classic basketball tournament.

The Tars (7-1) handed the Rockets (5-1) their first setback of the 2007-08 campaign, 62-47, in a game played on the winners' home court.

Senior guard Keshawn Martin paced the Rockets with 16 points. Earl Hardison chipped in with 11 while senior guard Stefan Marken added six.

Paul Williams led Renaissance with 18 points.

The Tars let from the outset as they outscored John Glenn 11-7 after one quarter and 31-18 at the half. John Glenn cut their deficit slightly to 42-31 with eight minutes to play, but couldn't close the gap.

The Tars were near-perfect at the free throw line, canning 11-of-12. The Rockets hit 6-of-11 from the stripe.

CLARENCEVILLE 53, MELVINDALE 48: On Friday, Dec. 28, the Trojans were led by junior guard Jamie Stewart's 25 points in the Motor City Roundball Classic played at Oakland University. Six of Stewart's points came on three rim-rattling dunks. He also contributed seven steals.

Junior center Jeremy Gainer also played well for the winners, netting 17 points and 10 rebounds. Gainer was 5-of-6 from the free throw line in the fourth quarter.

Sidney Hall led Melvindale with 22 points.

Clarenceville led 16-14 after one quarter, 25-22 at the half and 36-32 with eight minutes to play.

"We led the entire game," said Trojans coach Corey McKendry. "Melvindale was scrappy and we came out flat; maybe it was the noon start. It's nice to win when you don't play well. We're starting to mature."

Chargers skate past Pats, 6-2

The Livonia Churchill boys hockey team defeated Livonia Franklin, 6-2, Friday, Dec. 28, at Eddie Edgar Arena.

The victory improved the winners' record to 9-1 while Franklin slipped to 3-5.

Churchill scored a pair of goals in each period as it outshot the Patriots, 36-14.

Scoring for the Chargers were senior forward Nate Milam, whose three power-play net-finders give him 24 goals for the season; Keith Yackley, Garrett Miencier and Cody Atkins.

Churchill goalie Derrick Daigneau recorded 14 saves while Franklin net-minder Austin Mesler registered 30 stops.

Ultimate Fishing Show returns

It's hard to believe a new year is upon us. With the changing of the calendars comes a brand new lineup of outdoor shows to keep us occupied over the next three months.

Outdoor Insights

Bill Parker

The first show of the season in the metro-Detroit area is the Ultimate Fishing Show - Detroit, which returns to the Rock Financial Showplace, 46100 Grand River Ave. in Novi, Jan. 10-13.

If you like to fish, this is the show to attend.

It's billed as Michigan's largest pure-fishing show and that fact would be tough to dispute.

This year's show features over 150 booths of fishing gear; 200 new fishing boats; outfitters and charter boat captains; a trout pond; a rock climbing wall; virtual fishing; conservation groups; B.A.S.S. Kids Casting Competition and much more.

Want to learn a new technique or a different strategy to catch your favorite game fish? Check out one of the show's 100 seminars by some of the best anglers in the world, including Kalamazoo's Kevin VanDam (bass).

Some of the other speakers are Kim Stricker (bass), Wayne Carpenter (bass), Gerry Gostenik (bass), Tommy Skarlis (walleye), Mark Martin (walleye), Mark Romanack (walleye/salmon), Lance Valentine (electronics), Mike Pittiglio (muskie), Bob Brunner (muskie), Pete Maina (muskie), Dan Donarski (outdoor cooking/U.P. fishing), David Rose (panfish), Dave Engel (salmon), Bill Bale (salmon) and Jerry Lee (wall-eye/salmon).

For the full seminar schedule visit www.UltimateFishingShow.com.

Show hours are 2-9:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 10; noon-9:30 p.m.

Friday, Jan. 11; 10 a.m. - 9 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 12; and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 13. Admission is $9 for adults, $4 for children six to 14, and free for children five and under. Discount coupons are available at Wendy's restaurants and online at www.UltimateFishingShow.com.

(Bill Parker covers the outdoors for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. Hunters and anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to: Bill Parker, c/o Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009.)

Monarchs rule

The Monarchs captured the Community Education Basketball League's girls 'A' tournament earlier this month, defeating the Storm, 38-35, in the title game at East Middle School. At one point, the eventual champs trailed 20-4 before battling back to post the dramatic win. Pictured (left to right) are Rachel Burnard, Robyn Mack, Kristin Klavon, Courtney Smith, Rachel Harrison, Kiersten Gunderson, Kelly Kerwin, Parisa Rashidi and Sarah Dean. Bowling Congress slates annual meeting Jan. 13

The Metro Detroit U.S. Bowling Congress announced that its annual meeting will start at 6 p.m.

Ten Pin Alley

Al Harrison

Sunday, Jan. 13, at Sunnybrook Lanes in Sterling Heights.

The meeting will include progress reports from the past year and elections of president, five adult members of the board, youth committee members and delegates to the United States Bowling Congress convention in May and state delegates to the respective state meetings. Two amendments to the MDUSBC bylaws will also be decided upon. All members of the MDUSBC are eligible and are invited to attend the meeting. Most of us just pay our annual dues and give in no further thought.

Perhaps there are things going on during the season that you wonder about but don't bother to follow up on or even ask questions.

This is your meeting. It is of the bowlers, by the bowlers and for the bowlers. Each league should be represented and it does not necessarily have to be a league officer. The Metro Detroit USBC Association is the single largest of all local USBC organizations anywhere in the United States and along with the large membership, they can have a positive influence on the rest of our bowling population. This meeting is well worth the time and the short trip to Sunnybrook Lanes, it may very well enhance your bowling experience by knowing what goes on beyond the lanes.

I have often tried to remind bowlers to bring in the balls from the car in colder weather. The freezing temperatures may ruin any bowling ball. I now have another reason to not leave it in the car at any time. This is from personal experience as my own vehicle was stolen a couple weeks ago, but they did not get my bowling stuff as it was safely in the house. The Dodge Caravan was recovered quickly by Detective Sgt. Crittenden of the Redford Police.

The high school varsity bowling season is well underway.

Reports are starting to roll in now and one particular standout was the performance of Jennifer Maples of North Farmington High. She bowled a 299 game, starting with eleven consecutive strikes and leaving just a single pin on her attempt for the twelfth strike. On the boys team, freshman phenom Ryan Turner is turning heads. Now bowling on the varsity team, Ryan destroyed an opponent recently with a 247 game, and he's only thirteen years old.

The 2nd Annual Metro Detroit USBC Queens Tournament was held a couple weeks ago at Beech Lanes in Redford. Many of the gals from O&E cities fared well, led by Jenny Long of Livonia, qualifying 14th with 846 total pins; Kim Cox of Southfield qualified 16th, 816 total; Anuca Felton of Canton, 19th with an 807; Betty Trimper of Redford, 26th with a 787; Kendra Hopson, 30th, 779; Angela Wilt of Westland, 33rd with 769; Julie Halstead of Redford, 38th, 756; Erica Sharp of Redford, 43rd; Aleta Humphrey 52nd, 698; and Kathleen Bishop of Westland, 688.

Al Harrison is a resident of Southfield and a member of the Bowling Writers Association of America. He can be reached by e-mail: tenpinalley@sbcglobal.net

It's a 'Dunn' deal

Wayne grappler takes gold at Salem tourney

Wayne Memorial wrestler Chad Dunn had a Saturday to remember at this past weekend's Salem Holiday tournament.

Dunn, the Zebras' 112-pounder, earned a gold medal and improved his record to 18-3 against a competitive slate of opponents.

Dunn, who was seeded No. 2 heading into the event, ousted No. 1 seed Dan Flowers of Dexter in the finals.

"Chad was losing 10-4 after two periods due to the excellent riding ability of Flowers," said Wayne coach Steve Vasiloff. "But Chad is excellent on his feet, so in the third period we had Dunn let (Flowers) up after every takedown. After three takedowns and a reversal, Chad put him on his back and scored a three-point near fall."

Dunn notched 11 third-period points to pull out a dramatic 15-14 victory.

Complete results of the tournament were not available to the Observer as of Monday night's deadline.

The Zebras' junior varsity squad excelled at the previous weekend's Salem JV Tournament as seven of its 10 competitors took home medals, including Darryl Ison (fourth at 103), Mike Wallace (third at 119), Tevin Hines (fourth at 135), Brandon Whittenberg (second at 145), Eric Butler (seventh at 189), Amanda Prough (sixth at 171) and Andy Morton (second at 285).

"This gives me hope for the future," said Vasiloff. "We were .500 last year as a team and this year we're 2-13. Last year we had 14 wrestlers; this year we have six. My lineup is mostly freshmen or first-year wrestlers."

MU women's cagers go 2-1

The Madonna University women's basketball team defeated Cedarville, 53-46, on Dec. 29. The victory improved the Crusaders' record to 5-9 while Cedarville slipped to 6-6.

Tabatha Wydryck led the Crusaders with 19 points. Salem graduate Alyssa Guerin chipped in with 11 points and six rebounds.

Christie Carrico led MU with 11 boards.

Alison Lemon led Cedarville with 14 points. Aubrey Siemon contributed nine points while Rachel Hurley had seven.

Madonna led 32-26 at the half.

On Dec. 28, MU dropped a 48-42 decision to Indiana Wesleyan University.

Guerin led a balanced Crusader attack with 12 points.

Caryn Inman added 10 and Carrico scored eight and grabbed a team-high seven rebounds. Brooke Amstutz led the winners with 14 points. MU led 23-21 at the break.

The Crusaders defeated Warner Southern College, 62-60, on Dec. 27.

The winning points came on Cali Crawford's pair of free throws with six seconds left.

PCEP gymnastics teams are beaming with talent

BY ED WRIGHT
STAFF WRITER

It may be a new season, but the forecast is a familiar one for the area's gymnastics teams: bright and sunny.

Canton lost several key performers — most notably All-Stater Alyssa Kelley — to graduation, but its shelves have been restocked with an array of talented freshmen.

Meanwhile, Salem should be much improved this season as nearly all of its key competitors return from last year's squad that barely missed qualifying for the state meet.

Following is a look at the upcoming season on the bars, vault, floor and uneven bars for the Chiefs and Rocks.

CANTON

The Chiefs graduated one of the school's best all-time senior classes — one that included Kelley, Kaitlyn Burns, Kate Staley, Courtney Ward and Chelsea Selden — but veteran coach John Cunningham is nonetheless optimistic heading into the 2007-08 campaign.

"This could be a very good team potentially," said Cunningham, whose teams have three top-seven finishes in the state meet the past three seasons. "I've been very pleased with how well the girls have performed at our first two meets. We have good depth at all levels.

"There are five very good teams in our region, so the girls are going to have to perform well to make it back to the state meet. Salem has everybody back, so they're loaded, the two Livonia schools are always good and Northville has a lot of girls back. We'll have to beat at least one of them to get back to the state meet."

The Chiefs will be led by senior captain Jessie Murray, who has been a solid performer her first three years at Canton.

Key juniors include Olivia Stephens, Sam O'Flynn, Amber Smith and Kate Carroll.

The Chiefs' top sophomore is returning letter winner Mallory Hudak, who Cunningham predicts could be a 36-point all-around as the year progresses.

Among the most-promising newcomers are freshmen Robyn Piwower, Cathy Huang, and Kali Pierce.

SALEM

The Rocks return four individual state qualifiers from last year's squad that barely missed qualifying for the state meet.

"We're looking good so far," said Salem coach Dana Driscoll. "We only lost one girl (Sarah Bugosh) to graduation and we added some good freshmen. The girls are working hard."

The Rocks will be led by three senior captains: Brittany Young, Autumn Collins and Katerina Kariotis.

"Brittany is a good, all-around gymnast, but her best events are probably the beam and the bars," said Driscoll. "Autumn is another strong all-arounder whose best events are the vault and the beam."

"Katerina has really improved her skills over the past four years. She's really worked hard over the summer."

The Rocks' best junior is two-time state qualifier Katie Koetting, who is also a top-notch diver for the school's swimming and diving team.

"Katie will probably be our highest scorer in most meets," said Driscoll. "She's very good in all four events, but the floor is probably her best and favorite event."

Jennifer Rice and Katherine Negele are also promising juniors.

Sophomore Kasey Wizchowski is a fast-rising all-arounder, according to Driscoll.

Police urge smarts to reduce break-in chances

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

You invest a lot in your home, and police agree it's worth your while to reduce the likelihood of a break-in.

"Make sure doors are locked," said Trooper Cynthia Edwards of the Michigan State Police North Post in Oak Park. "Having a door with a solid deadbolt is nice."

She said it's important to lock a sliding glass door, and you can do so by putting a dowel in the sill to prevent opening. Edwards also urges homeowners and renters to avoid high bushes by windows and doors.

"You want to keep all the areas around the windows clear," she said. Motion-activated or landscaping lights help to shed light on your home's exterior and reduce the chances of a break-in.

"Motion lights are very good," she said. "That's a good deterrent."

She also recommends putting items like lawnmowers and snow-blowers away in the garage, and keeping your garage door closed. It's important not to put things of high value by windows where they're visible, Edwards said.

"You've got to prevent their opportunity," she said of criminals, who tend to strike where it's easiest. You don't want to live in fear or be paranoid, but should be aware of your surroundings.

"Of course, alarm systems on homes are good," the trooper said. If you have a pet dog, that pet will bark if there's an intruder. If you can't handle pet ownership, there are even alarms that sound like a barking dog to scare intruders away.

Police officials agree Neighborhood Watch programs can go a long way in keeping neighborhoods safe. If you see something suspicious, report it on the non-emergency line to your local police department so it can be checked out, Edwards said.

"You've got to go with that instinct and call it in," she said. "You live in your neighborhood, you know what cars are familiar."

"You're not only looking out for your neighbor, you're looking out for yourself," she added. Edwards agreed those in more affluent areas shouldn't assume they won't be break-in victims: "You can't think 'It's not going to happen to me.'"

Also offering advice on break-in prevention is Sgt. Jeff Teeter of the Livonia Police Department.

"Reinforce your front and rear doors," he said, noting you should use a deadbolt that goes into studs.

Some thieves gain access to a home by smashing a rear door window and reaching in to the door lock. A decorative screen on the door can prevent such easy access, Teeter said.

"They have decorative screens out there some of the bigger stores may carry," he said. For a sliding door, he noted a piece from a hockey stick can be used to reinforce the doorwall.

Teeter said an audible alarm will alert a neighbor "and therefore scares the perpetrator away." Such a purchase can make a homeowner feel more secure, he added, and thus be worth the money.

"You probably just want to make your house look lived in," he said, which includes shoveling snow.

Some women who are home with small children during the day are reluctant to answer an unknown knock at the door. "Yell through the door so the person knows there's somebody there," Teeter recommended. By not responding, you may have the thief think no one's home and that he can kick the door in without notice.

"A good Neighborhood Watch group helps," Teeter added. "Be sure to call in suspicious stuff." Thieves break in to a large number of homes, so stopping them prevents a significant number of break-ins down the road.

Similar case upholds violation of the law

Q. I own four (4) units in a California condominium development and listed the units for sale with an auction company. The auction was "without reservation" meaning that each unit would be sold to the highest bidder. Approximately 10 bidders presented a $50,000 deposit which was required to participate in the auction. Two couples that owned units in the development were unhappy about the auction. On the day before the auction, one homeowner allegedly told another owner to wait until the day of the sale and see what he was going to do. On the day of the auction, each couple placed a "for sale by owner" sign in front of their units in violation of the condominium rules.

Robert Meisner

The auction took place as scheduled and all my units were sold, but the potential defendants removed their "for sale" signs immediately after my last unit was sold. I believe that the couples have tortiously interfered with my business relationship with each of the bidders since I lost money because of the "for sale by owner" signs. Also, they knew that I was offering all these units for sale, and that the auction was being held without reservation which would force me to sell to the highest bidder and they knew that without their interference that I would be able to sell the units for a substantially higher price. Do you think I have a cause of action?

A. I do, based upon a recent case out of the District Court of Appeals of Florida. On similar facts, the court noted that they had no legitimate reason for posting their for sale signs because their units were not for sale, and they removed the signs as soon as plaintiffs' units were sold. As a result, it appeared that the sellers were trying to sell their units in the same condominium so that twice as many units were for sale thereby depleting the price. Therefore, they tortiously interfered with the business relations of the plaintiff.

Q. I am thinking about buying a condominium in Naples and am wondering whether the downturn in the economy has affected sales there?

A. In many instances in Naples, the market is down 30 percent in terms of the asking price for a condominium. Of course, Naples was designated as the most overheated area with regard to real estate in the country and, therefore, the reduction in sale prices may not be as dramatic as you may think depending upon what you are willing to pay for a condominium. Obviously, it is taking longer to sell units, they are selling for substantially less and the investor market has basically dried up. This may be a good opportunity for you to consider buying a condominium in Naples, particularly if you are thinking about holding it for the long term.

SUDOKU

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

9						6
6		2		3
4		7	5			2		8
	3				8		4
	5				1	7
7					6	3	1	2
3								9

Level: Beginner

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

BUICK DESIGN, NISSAN ADVERTISING GROW BOLDER

Advertising Feature

CAReport

By Dale Buss

Expect future Buick vehicles to rip a big page from the success of its aggressively styled Enclave crossover and move quickly away from design-legacy rebrands such as its Lucerne and LaCrosse mid-size sedans.

Ed Welburn, GM's vice president of global design, said that Buick is shifting decisively toward "bold" and "dramatic" design statements such as Enclave while still trying to retain some "elegant" and "romantic" elements from its design theme over the previous generation. He said to expect more iterations of the sort of overstated approach used with Enclave, which is distinguished by cues such as big curves in the sheet metal, lots of chrome exterior trim, and huge, elongated headlights.

By contrast, Buick's two other current vehicles, the Lucerne and LaCrosse mid-size cars, are largely derivative in design of earlier Buick sedans, though they do present some design departures — such as the large grille on the LaCrosse. Buick is introducing a next-generation LaCrosse next year.

Welburn and Buick will further tip their hands somewhat about Buick's emerging design direction at the North American International Auto Show later in January, in Detroit, with the debut of a new Riviera concept car there and the return of the popular Velite convertible concept car.

Buick previously has pointed to the Velite concept, including its distinctive grille, as a big part of the design inspiration for the brand moving forward, including Enclave.

Meanwhile, it appears that Nissan may use the back gate to sneak into Super Bowl TV ads so that it can highlight its new Murano SUV.

Nissan says it has never advertised its vehicles on TV during the Super Bowl, but that may be changing in Super Bowl XLII on February 3. The company isn't denying reports that it may seek a significant in-game ad presence by making a large spot buy that would allow it to run many local advertisements on Fox TV stations and affiliates during the game. Spokeswoman Kathryn Fields called "rumor and speculation" an Advertising Age report that the bloc of local spots is being assembled for Nissan and that the company will use it to advertise Murano, its mid-size crossover vehicle.

The stylish Enclave is setting a new design standard for future Buicks.

Nissan may end up touting its 2009 Murano on the biggest stage of all: the 2008 Super Bowl.

The gambit would be interesting for at least two reasons. First, it would give Nissan essentially a first-ever presence during the Super Bowl even though it wouldn't be advertising on Fox Network, which is charging from $2.7 million to $3 million for every 30 seconds of advertising during the game broadcast itself.

Local ads are much less expensive than network spots and could help Nissan create the impression, among viewers in the affected metro markets, that its commercial is just another part of the much-celebrated parade of TV advertising that makes Super Bowl spots among the most-watched — and least-deleted by DVRs — of any during the year.

What's more, Nissan's purported interest in advertising during the Super Bowl puts it alongside Audi as a first-timer while the Detroit Three have turned lukewarm about advertising during the next Super Bowl. General Motors, for example, may have zero in-game advertisements during Super Bowl XLII compared with three last year; Chevrolet will run a spot during game-day broadcasting on Fox but hasn't yet decided if its single advertisement will run during or before the game.

In general, Fox is finding robust demand for Super Bowl ads in part because the TV-writers' strike promises a dearth of original drama and comedy programming in early 2008.

Food world will focus on safety, sex appeal in '08

BY J.M. HIRSCH
AP FOOD EDITOR

Americans are getting increasingly intimate with their food, and 2008 likely will see the relationship deepen.

That's because two forces — the proliferation of foodie culture and its obsessive desire for provenance, and growing worries over food safety — have combined to create a whirlwind of information about food and drink.

PREDICTIONS FOR 2008

What will you be eating next year? Food world authorities name some of their picks for the food trends of '08.

Food & Wine magazine

- Old-fashioned candy
- Wild American shrimp
- Muesli will become more popular than granola
- Chef-run noodle bars
- Barrel-aged beers
- Chardonnay from Oregon
- Haute frozen food

Mintel International Group (a Chicago-based market research firm)

- Functional waters (those with added nutrients)
- Virtually anything fair trade
- Ancient grains, such as amaranth, quinoa and teff
- Easy-to-understand nutritional labels

Baum & Whiteman Co. Inc. (restaurant consultants)

- More restaurants will accept takeout orders via text messaging
- Restaurants with ultraspecialized menus (such as breakfast cereal or grilled cheeses)
- Cocktails enhanced with functional foods
- Offal
- Korean food

Dictionary.

Even mainstream grocers are jumping on, offering and advertising a growing number of locally produced goods. The question is whether "local" will lose cachet once big box retailers co-opt it as they did organic.

VARIETAL

Where once it was enough to say where and how a food was produced, consumers now also want to know the specific varieties of ingredients and breeds of animals it was produced with.

As in, whether Macouns or Red Delicious were used to make an applesauce. Or which breed of cow produced the milk used to make a particular cheese, and olive oils pressed from specific varieties of olives.

FOOD SAFETY

Repeated recalls of meat and produce have drawn attention to the sluggish and outdated American food safety system, and the government has faced mounting calls for an overhaul.

That likely won't happen quickly. But unlike government, marketers work quickly. For example, some toy catalogs already labeled their products "lead-free" in time for the 2007 holiday season.

Expect food companies to be as nimble, touting new and increased safety measures. The issue (including demands for a streamlined and effective government agency to oversee the issue) also will get more headlines.

OTHER TRENDS TO WATCH FOR:

■ "Bad" foods fight back

Tired of being the nutritional bad boys, foods of questionable nutritional value are fighting back. The white bread industry recently ran an ad saying eating enriched white bread may help improve your memory.

Fat-laden foods also are joining the fray. Unilever-owned Hellmann's recently had an ad that admonished, "It's time to say no to fake food."

New jars of Hellmann's mayonnaise are labeled "Real." The butter industry is taking the same tact, with a holiday ad urging consumers to "Unwrap the natural flavor of real butter for holiday entertaining."

■ New "sugars"

Speaking of nutritional culprits, sugar had better watch its back. A growing variety of alternative natu-

And all signs indicate the storm is just starting. So here are some trends likely to influence what you eat in '08.

LOCAL FOODS

In marketing terms, "organic" has jumped the shark. Savvy food marketers today are latching onto the latest child of the natural foods movement — local — and are trying to take it mainstream.

As eco-sensitivity has grown, consumers have questioned whether eating organic grapes from Chile is a particularly "green" choice. Now people want to know how far their food traveled, and the closer the better.

Hence, the growth in farmers markets, community supported agriculture, restaurant menus bragging about local sourcing, and the naming of "locavore" as word of the year by The New Oxford American

How to avoid trans fats

BY LANA MINI
STAFF WRITER

As you make your New Year's resolutions this year, consider banishing bad fat from your diet. There's only one way to avoid the dreaded trans fats: take the matter into your own hands.

Both trans and saturated fats raise LDL ("bad") cholesterol levels and are linked to clogged arteries which increase the risk of heart disease and stroke, according to the American Heart Association. Trans fat is a type of fat formed when hydrogen is injected into liquid oils and made into a solid fat — like shortening or hard margarine. Food processors and manufacturers use it to extend shelf-life and some say give foods desirable taste, shape and texture.

But, without trans fats, foods taste good. Oreos, for example, removed trans fat from its cookies and studies show the taste didn't change.

So, you study nutritional labels for the words "zero trans fat" and think you're safe, right?

Wrong.

If the label says "zero trans fat," don't automatically believe it. If it contains the words "partially hydrogenated" or "shortening," then it has trans fat.

Here's why: According to regulations by The U.S. Food and Drug Administration, if "the serving contains less than 0.5 grams of trans fat, the labels shall express it as zero."

"Suppose a product contains 0.4 grams per serving and you eat four servings (which is not uncommon). You have just consumed 1.6 grams of trans fat, despite the fact that the package claims the product contains zero grams of trans fat per serving," says the public watchdog group www.ban-transfats.com. "Changing this rule is a high priority. We are working on it."

"Trans fat has received a lot of well-deserved scrutiny — at the same time, while it's critical that we continue to push aggressively to minimize its consumption, trans fat is just one part of the 'big fat picture,'" said Robert H. Eckel, M.D., AHA chair of Peanut butter powder?

Powdered peanut butter sounds like something only a person hiking the Appalachian Trail could love.

But PB2, as the new product from Tifton, Ga.-based Bell Plantation is called, isn't aimed just at the hiking set, and has real potential to win over the rest of us.

PB2 is an ultrafine powder made by roasting and pressing peanuts, a process that removes much of the fat found in traditional peanut butter. While you can simply reconstitute PB2 with water, this isn't where the product shines.

Instead, PB2 is perfect for tossing with warm oil or broth and hot noodles for a near-instant peanut sauce. It also can be used in baked goods, giving the luscious flavor of peanut to recipes such as banana bread and sugar cookies.

If you do want to use it on a sandwich, take the label's advice and reconstitute it directly with the jam.

NEW TASTES: PB2 by Bell Plantation is available at www.bellplantation.com for $11.96 for four 6½-ounce jars.

Gluten Free & Fabulous foods

A new company, Gluten Free & Fabulous, has announced their line of gluten-free foods.

The team at Gluten Free & Fabulous has made it their mission to revolutionize the gluten-free food industry and provide better tasting gluten-free foods to people with Celiac Disease. According to the Celiac Sprue Association, approximately 1 in 133 people have Celiac Disease or gluten sensitivities. Gluten Free & Fabulous foods satisfy the needs of those who must maintain a medically-required lifestyle free of wheat, barley, rye and oats. Products include Macaroni & Cheese with quinoa and rice flour noodles (6.5 oz./$3.95); Chocolate Chip Cookie Bites (6.5 oz./$5.95); and Karen's Kookie Krisps, a unique blend of sweet and savory ingredients that go great with dips, cheeses, peanut butter (6.5 oz./$5.95).

Gluten Free & Fabulous products are available at Vitamin Village and Meijer stores in Michigan, or online at www.glutenfreefabulous.com.

Make the most of your new Windows Vista PC

Did you find a new PC under the tree, menorah, or non-denominational holiday symbol this year? If so, chances are good it came loaded with Windows Vista.

Tech Savvy
Rick Broida

For anyone accustomed to Windows XP (or an earlier version of Windows), Vista can seem quite foreign. Let's look at some ways to fix, enhance, and embrace the new operating system.

MOVE YOUR STUFF

The real challenge in adopting a new PC is moving all your stuff — programs, data, settings, and the like — from the old PC. Vista comes with a utility called Windows Easy Transfer that promises to help with the move, though it doesn't migrate programs, just settings, contacts, e-mails and other data.

If you want something a little more robust, try Laplink PCmover (laplink.com), which will also copy over your programs and includes a USB cable for connecting the two PCs. It sells for $59.95.

I've tested numerous Vista systems over the past few months, and many of them have proven painfully slow — for various reasons.

If you bought a budget PC that came with only 1 gigabyte (GB) of RAM, I strongly recommend doubling it. Check with your vendor for upgrade options; an additional gigabyte should cost no more than $50, and it should give Vista a speed boost.

If your system seems particularly slow, try uninstalling the bundled security software. I say this based on experience: When I removed the preloaded security suites from three separate budget notebooks, performance improved considerably.

Yes, it's important to protect your system from viruses, spyware, and the like, so I realize this presents a conundrum. My advice: Read security-software reviews (check CNET.com and PCWorld.com) and choose a suite that doesn't seriously impact performance.

Meanwhile, consider turning off some of Vista's

Windows Vista comes with its own utility for migrating data from your old PC, but you might want to consider a more robust solution like Laplink PCmover.

its trans fat task force and professor of medicine at the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center at Denver. "It's equally important that we avoid increasing saturated fat in its place."

Try to replace trans fat-laden partially hydrogenated vegetable oils with oils high in unsaturated fats — monounsaturated and polyunsaturated — as stated in today's Circulation: Journal of the American Heart Association.

Here's what you should know:

- Fully hydrogenated oils do not contain trans fat. Partially hydrogenated oils do.
- Be careful when consuming products with labels from outside the United States. Sometimes they contain partially hydrogenated oil but it's not on the label, according to Bantransfats.com.
- In restaurants ask whether partially hydrogenated oil is used for frying, baking or in salad dressings. If they use vegetable oil, ask whether it is partially hydrogenated. Don't be shy.
- Polyunsaturated fat and monounsaturated fats are good fats.
- On average, American adults consume approximately 2.2 percent of total calories from trans fat and four to five times as much saturated fat a day — far more than the limits recommended by the AHA.
- To better understand the recommended fat limits and make smarter choices, visit My Fats Translator, on americanheart.org/FaceTheFats. Users can input their age, gender, height, weight and level of physical activity to learn their personal daily limits for total fat, saturated fat and trans fat consumption.

FOODS WHERE TRANS FATS ARE FOUND

The majority of trans fat can be found in foods made with partially hydrogenated vegetable oil. Look for trans fat in margarine, butter, cookies, crackers, chips, taco shells, snack foods, fried foods (including fried fast food, such as French fries and fried chicken), biscuits, doughnuts, muffins, pie crusts, pastries and baked goods.

Small amounts of trans fats are also found in some meat and dairy products, according to the AHA.

SAVVY COOKING

Here's a healthy recipe to satisfy your taste buds and heart by the American Heart Association.

GRILLED PORTOBELLO MUSHROOMS WITH COUSCOUS AND GREENS

- Serves 4*
- 4 whole portobello mushrooms
 - 4 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
 - Vegetable oil spray
 - 1/2 cup low-sodium vegetable broth
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 1/2 teaspoon turmeric
 - 1/2 cup couscous
 - 1/2 cup dried cranberries
 - 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon olive oil
 - 2 cloves garlic
 - 6 ounces fresh collard greens or kale or 8 ounces fresh spinach, chopped (about 4 cups)
 - 2 tablespoons water
 - 1 tablespoon light margarine
 - 1/2 red bell pepper, finely chopped

In the top of each mushroom, cut four slits, each two to three inches long and about 1/2 inch deep. Remove stems.

Place mushrooms, top side up, in a shallow casserole dish.

Sprinkle mushrooms with half the balsamic vinegar. Lightly spray top side of mushrooms with vegetable oil spray. Turn mushrooms over and sprinkle with remaining vinegar.

Lightly spray bottom side with vegetable oil spray. Cover container with plastic wrap and set aside. (Will keep in refrigerator for up to one hour.)

Combine vegetable broth, water, and turmeric in a medium saucepan. Bring to a boil over high heat, two to three minutes.

Stir in the couscous, cranberries, lemon peel, and salt. Remove pan from heat and let stand, covered, for at least five minutes, or until time to serve.

Meanwhile, heat a medium saucepan over medium heat. Add oil and swirl to coat bottom of pan. When oil is hot, add garlic. Cook for one minute, two to three, or until greens are tender.

Add the margarine and stir until it melts, about 30 seconds. Remove pan from heat and cover to help retain heat.

Grill mushrooms over medium-hot coals (or medium-high heat if using gas, electric, propane, or stove-top grill) for two to three minutes on each side.

Place mushrooms stem side up on serving plates. Spoon couscous on top of each mushroom. Spoon greens on top of couscous. Sprinkle with bell pepper. Serve warm.

unnecessary features, like the Windows Sidebar and Windows Aero. (Not sure how? A little Google searching will produce simple instructions.) You won't miss either one.

Finally, turn off Vista's incredibly annoying User Account Control, which pops up whenever you try to install a program, change a setting, or do just about anything else. Yes, it's there to protect you, but it will drive you insane in the process.

You can find simple instructions for deactivating UAC here: <http://tinyurl.com/2ehc5m>.

THE NEW START MENU

One of Vista's best assets is its search feature, which appears immediately above the Start button when you click it. Type a few letters into the box and Vista immediately begins to display matching results: applications, documents, Web favorites and so on.

As an added perk, you can launch programs without ever taking your hands off the keyboard.

Just press the Windows button, type the first few letters of the desired application (such as "pic" for Picasa), then press Enter to launch it. Don't like the new Start menu? Right-click Start, choose Properties, and then select Classic Start Menu. You'll lose the search function, but gain that familiar XP look and feel.

ADD A TV TUNER

The Home Premium and Ultimate versions of Vista come with Windows Media Center, which affords TiVo-like TV viewing, recording, and timeshifting. To take advantage of these features, however, you'll need a TV tuner.

Keep it simple: Plug in a USB tuner like the ADS MiniHDTV/USB or Pinnacle PCTV HD Ultimate Stick. I've got both on my workbench for testing; watch for detailed reviews in an upcoming column.

In the meantime, trust me when I say that once you've experienced TV — particularly, HDTV — on your PC, you'll be more than willing to forgive Vista its various transgressions.

ral sweeteners, from honey-like agave syrup to ultrasweet stevia, are crowding grocers' shelves.

Many of these products once were limited to the lower shelves of natural foods stores, but now are showing up in mainstream markets and in a growing variety of products (including soda).

Grocery stores get increasingly sexy

The '90s were all about grocers becoming either massive superstores — offering onsite banking, dry cleaning and enough varieties of bread, ice cream and frozen dinners to induce culinary stupor — or sparse warehouses.

Today, the trend is toward glamping up the grocery experience. You'll see lots of attractive displays of prepared foods, as well as a deconstruction of the traditional aisle layout in favor of a more open market feel.

Safeway, for example, says it is overhauling its markets (or opening new ones) as "lifestyle" stores, which sport larger departments, wood-like flooring, specialty food bars and soft lighting.

DONALD R. BORGESON

Donald R. Borgeson, 84, a resident of Naples, Florida and Bloomfield Hills, Michigan died peacefully following a long illness on December 28, 2007. The son of Walter and Florence Borgeson, Don was born on January 30, 1923. After growing up in Chicago, he enlisted in the United States Navy and in 1942 earned his gold wings at Pensacola. As a carrier based fighter pilot, Don flew combat missions in the Pacific and was a member of the squadron that escorted Air Force bombers on the first ever large scale air raid over Japan. After the war, Don attended Michigan State University where he met and married Cecile Ann "Cec" Grinnell. An active student, he was president of his class and majored in Business Administration. Throughout shared his enthusiasm for life, his varied interests and his incredible energy with his family. Adventure was always high on the agenda, so he led the family on frequent travels across the country. A licensed pilot, he flew his Piper Comanche for fun and family excursions and also explored the Great Lakes on Valkommen, the family's cabin cruiser. In recent years, the highlight of each year for Don (and for the entire Borgeson clan) was the annual family reunion that he and Cec hosted at Walloon Lake in Northern Michigan. Don also shared his talents and resources as a community volunteer, he helped build houses for Habitat for Humanity in Naples and recruited friends to join him each Christmas season in "ringing the bell" for the Salvation Army at the Pavilion Shopping Center. He even organized an informal luncheon club for Michigan friends who wintered in Naples call the ROMEOS-Retired Old Men Eating Out-where a seat at the head table was always reserved for him. Proud of his Swedish heritage, for many years, Don was board member of the Swedish Council of America. He also along time supporter and board member of the Detroit Zoological Society and an avid bird-watcher, a passion that took him, binoculars in hand, on numerous bird watching expeditions. Never content to sit on the sidelines of life, Don was a robust man, both physically and in spirit. He had a thirst for knowledge and never stopped learning and exploring. He convinced Cec that they should see as much of the world as possible, and as a result, they traveled extensively including major trips to what then were relatively remote and undiscovered places such as New Guinea, China, Costa Rica, Turkey, Japan, Kenya, New Zealand and the Croatian Coast. An accomplished athlete, Don played football in the Navy, enjoyed skiing in the Rockies and loved the camaraderie of golf. He was a member of the Royal Poinciana Golf Club and of Bloomfield Hills Country Club where he served as a board member and chair of many committees. Don is survived by his wife of 60 years, Cecile, three daughters, Bonnie (Mrs. Robert C. Larson), Brooke (Mrs. Kent Gray), Laurel (Mrs. Dennis Lemons), six grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and a host of extended family and friends who also loved him dearly. A memorial service to celebrate Don's life will be held at The Moorings Presbyterian Church in Naples at 11 O'clock A.M. on Saturday, January 5, 2008, followed by a reception. Memorial contributions may be made to the Detroit Zoological Society, P.O. Box 39, Royal Oak, MI 48068-0039, Attn: Ronald L. Kagan, The Salvation Army, 3180 Estey Avenue, Naples, FL 34104, Attn: Christopher Nind, or The Cecile A. and Donald R. Borgeson Education Enhancement Fund at the Eli Broad College of Business at Michigan State University, Michigan State University, 505 North Business Complex, East Lansing, MI 48824-1122, Attn: Cathy Hicks. Get out your suits and gloves, the polished look is back

BY SAMANTHA CRITCHELL
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

NEW YORK (AP) — OK, it's time to get serious.

Fashion this year is about a proper suit, long leather gloves, an oxford shoe or a power pump, and a structured handbag. It completes the 180-degree revolution away from the loose and care-free bohemian styles that were all the rage mere seasons ago.

The word that best defines the new look is polished — which is, of course, an old look.

"It really is a head-to-toe look with matching handbags and shoes. When was the last time we saw that?" says Sandra Wilson, accessories fashion director at Neiman Marcus. "We feel good about ourselves when we dress like this. It just looks right. There's no more messiness — I feel that's the period we're in right now."

It's a reaction we've seen before: In the 1990s, for example, grunge in the early part of the decade was replaced by super-sleek styles as we headed toward the new millennium.

"We're coming off several seasons inspired by the '60s and the youthful mod look was in — babydoll and trapeze dresses all summer long. It's fun, but designers are always looking for something new and so are shoppers. The answer is a crisp, polished look," says Nicole Phelps, executive editor at Style.com. "It's a little bit 1940s with a sharply cut, nipped-waist suit. It's a little '80s with the strong shoulder."

Designer Elie Tahari thinks it's style with staying power. "Fashion always has a cyclical nature with past trends inspiring new collections. It is hard to gauge how long a cycle will last in the fashion world but the more polished, clean look is a classic one that never seems to go away."

It is, however, a dressier look than many women who've been wearing denim, loose layers and funky, chunky jewelry are used to. But it shouldn't be hard to acclimate to: This is practically a ready-made uniform to put on in the morning. The only thing missing are the personal touches.

With a suit as the centerpiece — Phelps chooses a pantsuit while Lucky fashion director Hope Greenberg suggests a men's style blazer that can be worn with wide-

Polish your ensemble with long gloves and a sophisticated coat like this, a number with a shirred collar, from INC at Macy's.

Another wise purchase, she says, would be a gray dress. Women certainly showed their affinity with dresses this past spring when most retailers credited them for a boost in sales.

It's the color that's key this time around, not the shape or fabric. "It could be a heavier wool, wool jersey, even silk, just some type of sophisticated gray dress depending on what shape you are."

The nice thing about gray is that it's easy to coordinate accessories: brown, black, navy, hunter green, purple and burgundy all work.

Neiman's Wilson, thinks the most effective punctuation on an outfit will come from opaque tights; an elegant pump shoe — either peep-toe, round-toe or pointy-toe — but with a straight and substantial heel; a structured handbag in an exotic skin, gray or patent leather; a fur collar for the neck and red lipstick.

"The finishing polish in accessories would be a long glove," Wilson says. "On top of the glove could be a cuff bracelet."

And don't forget fall-favorite boots or, more important this season, booties, adds shoe designer Bettye Mueller.

"I like sort of a loafer stretch boot with a little heel or a low bootie that wraps around and is held with Velcro," she says. "You can put your pant inside of it or wear it with a dress. It's a little wide at the bottom so it stands away from leg. It's cool but polished. You look like you've made an effort," Mueller says.

Unlike other recent trends, such as the empire waists that don't flatter everyone or the teetering stiletto heels or chunky platform shoes that throw some people off balance, a neat appearance complement anyone — anywhere.

"I can't imagine a place where at least some elements wouldn't be appropriate," says Lucky's Greenberg.

The polished look also can go easy on that classy pocketbook you're carrying: "All of this is accessible. It's not just at the designer level so it's easy to find and all the pieces are easy to wear," Greenberg says. "You don't have to be especially tall or especially skinny. There are plenty of other trends when you do have to be those things."

leg cuffed trousers, a shorter skirt or a gray daytime dress — you wake up with a ready-made uniform. Just add your accessories.

"If you're afraid of the pant being too mannish, add a feminine bow-tie blouse, which are again pretty popular of something with a ruffle. Or, maybe a subtle metallic — that's a little less classic and a little edgier," says Greenberg.

Designer Tahari even thinks there is something sexy about this put-together look because it makes women feel confident. "My wife Rory is my inspiration, he says. "When she is dressing for an event, for instance, she usually bares a bit of her shoulders, décolletage or legs, never all at the same time. The best bet is to stay clean and tailored — slim fit trousers, a pencil skirt, etc. — and add sex appeal by wearing a blouse with an interesting neckline or even a sleeveless piece."

Greenberg envisions a style similar to Katharine Hepburn in "The Philadelphia Story."

"I think there's always an element every fall of classic, but I think that this fall, what makes it look modern, is it's a little less preppy and a little more sophisticated," she adds. "The twist to the blazer is that it's boxy, not fitted, and the shoe has a good substantial high heel."

Allure's Linda Wells predicts the face of '08

BY SAMANTHA CRITCHELL
AP FASHION WRITER

There will be three Cs the face of 2008 will need to know: color, cream and caffeine.

Linda Wells, editor in chief of Allure magazine, predicts those will be the beauty trends in the new year. They all lend themselves to a move away from the very ladylike style that dominated in 2007.

"The overall look isn't quite as prim and proper as we've seen in the recent past. You don't need a protractor to apply products," Wells says. "It's a little looser, you can use a little creativity."

COLOR

Color cosmetics is such a strong category right now, with market researcher The NPD Group reporting makeup leading the prestige beauty category for the first three quarters of this year — and a enjoying a 5 percent increase in sales from last year.

Growth will continue, Wells says, as fashion also delves into candy and sherbet shades for spring.

She expects women will be drawn to noticeable, not neutral, hues, including red matte lips and more color on the eye than we're used to seeing. "The colors sound intimidating — purple, orange, a peachy-yellow — but they will look really good. It'll be a sheer hint that gives you warmth," she says.

If you do go with the more pigmented eye shadows, Wells recommends a delicate rose color on the cheeks and lips. If you wear the bright red lips, tone down the eye makeup. "You don't want a lot of color on the rest of your face, that would be clownish."

CREAM

Applying a cream-based product, especially a cream eye shadow, allows you to easily control the intensity of the color. "You'll get a sheer wash," Wells explains. "It won't be vivid and frightening. It'll be just a hint."

Don't be afraid to use your fingers, either. It helps put the color where you want it and spread out the edges so it's not a harsh look.

For lipstick, Wells says, put it on straight from the tube. "Makeup isn't sitting on top of the face like paint. It has a more organic look to it," she describes.

If you do prefer pencils, brushes or sponges, don't be too perfect and embrace any smudges.

CAFFEINE

Caffeine is again causing a buzz in beauty circles. It's been used on its own as an ingredient for a few years to wake up tired eyes or stimulate skin cells.

What's new, says Wells, is that so many caffeinated products have also made their way into skin creams, gels and lotions, including green tea, ground coffee and CoffeeBerry, the fruit of the coffee plant.

"Caffeine has been found to fight wrinkles, calm redness, reduce swelling — because it's a vasoconstrictor. It's the most prevalent ingredient in cellulite creams, and is being used more and more in eye creams, face serums, and rosacea treatments," Wells says. "It's something people are talking about."
