District cracking down on students' risque attire

BY BRAD KADRICH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Ginny Shpakoff of Plymouth isn't sweating Plymouth-Canton school officials' decision to more stridently enforce the district's dress code.

Canton High School freshman Alexis Eberlin of Canton was sent home for wearing short shorts to summer school, but was OK wearing this T-shirt with sweats.

Unlike other students who think the code detracts from their rights to freedom of expression, Shpakoff, a junior at Canton High School, said the decision has no real effect on her.

"I came here from a Catholic school, so I'm used to it," said Shpakoff, who transferred from Divine Child in Dearborn. "My closet doesn't really have much in it that would (violate the code) anyway."

After months of committee meetings and discussion, Plymouth-Canton officials have been stressing the district's dress code during summer school, which ended this week. Gone will be low-riding pants, exposure of undergarments,

Police say former youth leader molested young boys

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Former Canton resident Frederick Pindzia has been charged with six counts of criminal sexual conduct (CSC) after police discovered more than 100 photographs of nude boys and young men at his Sumpter Township residence.

Pindzia

Pindzia, 58, previously lived on Canton's Marlowe Street.

Canton Sgt. Rick Pomorski said township police were led to his home after interviewing a teen male who said Pindzia assaulted him seven years ago. The two came in contact when Pindzia was a youth mentor.

Pomorski declined to say what organization Pindzia, also a former Boy Scout leader, represented at the time.

"I have to give the victim a lot of credit," Pomorski said. "It can be very difficult at times to do the right thing so I give him all the credit in the world."

The teen spoke to a school counselor about Pindzia and last week, the counselor reported it to Westland police, who then contacted Canton detectives.

In addition to the photographs of boys ranging in age from 8 to 15, officers found homemade videos featuring young males at Pindzia's home.

"We believe he established a pattern of criminal activity," Pomorski said, while encouraging other victims to come forth. "The more information we get, the better."

Three of the counts against Pindzia are for first-degree CSC and the final three counts are for second-degree CSC. His preliminary exam is scheduled for Aug. 4 in 35th District Court in Plymouth.

Anyone who recognizes the defendant and may have allowed him to be alone with a young boy for any period of time is asked to call (734) 394-5209.

Loving Luna

When dad refused to get new dog, daughters convince him to raise leader dog

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

No amount of begging could have convinced Brittany Knoll's parents that she wouldn't be too busy her senior year of high school to take care of a dog.

"When we moved back to Canton and got settled in, it felt like something was missing," said Brittany's mother, Jennifer Knoll. "But even though Brittany is nuts about dogs, no matter the breed or color, we knew she was going to be too busy so my husband said 'no.'"

That's when the Salem High School senior suggested that the family raise a puppy for Leader Dogs for the Blind.

"As soon as my husband began thinking about it, that's when No. 2 and No. 3 jumped on the band wagon," Knoll recalls referencing her youngest daughters, Tina, 14, and Laura, 12. "And then they all jumped online."

The Rochester-based Leader Dogs program has paired more than 13,000 dogs with sight and hearing-impaired individuals since Lions Club members created the organization in 1939.

The Knoll family, who lived in Canton prior to Douglas Knoll getting a 10-year relocation to Ohio, returned to the township a year ago. They learned of the program through family friends that had raised a puppy two years ago.

"After we decided to go for it, we got a call in January that it could take up to a year to get a dog so I told Brittany not to expect this to happen too fast," Jennifer Knoll says, while About a month later, the family learned of a Labrador retriever that had been born Jan. 27. Luna, now 6 months old and 40 pounds, has been with the Knolls since March.

"On a scale of one to 10, she's an 11," Brittany chuckles.

The Leader Dogs program (www.leaderdog.org), which graduates about 300 person/dog teams a year all over the globe, is designed for a volunteer family to socialize a puppy for around a year to help prepare it for future duties.

Luna is being taught to keep all four feet on the ground and not seek attention. Leaders dogs aren't allowed to play fetch, have chew toys or snuggle on furniture.

"There are some things we can't do with her, but it feels nice to know that Luna will help someone one day," Tina said.

Laura attends the monthly puppy counseling meetings with her mother. In a few months, the family expects to learn the date of when Luna has to be returned.

"It's still early, but I think it's going to be hard," said Jennifer Knoll.

A growing mountain

Drive down Canton Center Road near Palmer and you'll see what looks like a mountain of soil growing by the day. It's really just part of the St. Joseph-Mercy Canton Health Center expansion project. Located at 1600 S. Canton Center Road, the hospital is adding 56,000 square feet of space, which will essentially double the size of the current facility. The plan is to add minimally invasive surgery suites, imaging facilities and a cancer center. If all goes according to plan, the imaging center will open in January and the cancer center will be complete in September of 2009.

"The Car Wash-A-Thon" is one of the biggest fund-raisers of the year," said Scott

Ragland, president of the 2008 Plymouth Canton Music Boosters. "The money raised helps the kids with participation fees to be in the band, including uniforms, instruction, and the cost to attend band camp in August. The car wash itself is fun for the kids and parents alike."

blouses with revealing necklines, short shorts and other clothing the district deems a distraction to the educational process.

Penalties range from a Saturday detention for the first offense to a three-day, out-of-school suspension for a fourth offense.

Administrators are quick to point out this isn't a policy "change" — they say the same policy has been in effect since 1993 — as much as it is an attitude adjustment toward enforcement. They shrug off complaints they're stifling students' expression and call stricter enforcement of the code "a matter of respect."

"The changes are about more consistent enforcement," said Casey Swanson, a Plymouth

High School social studies teacher who served on the dress code committee. "In our buildings we talk about respect — for individual students and for themselves. Dress is a big part of that."

The committee included teachers, administrators, students and parents. In addition to committee discussions, Swanson said he conducted an anonymous survey among freshmen, and the results showed the way some students dress "is a distraction."

But not everyone agrees.

Evan McGuire, 18, a Plymouth High School senior who lives in Plymouth, called many of the rules, such as a ban on large belt buckles and colored contact lenses, "ridiculous."

"They say the larger belt buckles are 'potentially dangerous,' but really isn't almost anything potentially dangerous?" McGuire said. "In all honesty, anything you're wearing doesn't harm others. I don't see why you shouldn't be able to wear it."

The decision was made to start enforcing the code in summer school as a means of gauging its impact when school starts. It's the second straight year they've done it; last year, the district banned cell phones starting in summer school.

According to summer school principal Pat Fitzpatrick, who is also the interim principal at Salem High School, some 15-18 students were referred to the school office, mostly for short shorts and saggy pants.

In fact, Fitzpatrick bought a spool of clothesline for those students found not wearing belts.

"You get kids who try to test the policy," said Fitzpatrick. "The majority of our students understand why we need to increase our enforcement. For the most part, the kids have been cooperative."

Cooperative, perhaps, but not everyone understands or agrees with the shift. Taha Siddiqui of Canton, a freshman at Canton High School, said except for clothing highlighting drug or alcohol use, for instance, students should be allowed to dress in their own style.

"I understand all the hubbub," he said. "Kids should be allowed to dress freely, because that's how they express themselves, show their own opinions. Lots of kids speak through their clothes."

Choosing the right mortgage depends on buyer's situation

Dear Rick: I'm in the process of buying a new home. What is the best mortgage to get right now?

Congratulations on the purchase of a home. In regard to mortgages, the issue is what is the best mortgage for you. One of the problems we have had over the last few years is people failed to realize that the best mortgage isn't necessarily the one that has the lowest initial payments. After all, many people that had adjustable-rate mortgages (ARM) have found that their payments have shot up, causing them financial difficulty.

The key issue is how long you plan to be in your home. If you plan to stay for five years or longer, I generally lean to a fixed-rate mortgage. If your plan is to stay less than five years, then one of the adjustable-rate years — by going into one of the fixed-rate mortgages.

If you decide on a fixed-rate mortgage, the next issue is the term of the loan. In most cases, I prefer 30-year fixed-rate mortgage rather than a 15-year fixed-rate mortgage. Interest rates on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages are near historic lows, so take advantage of it. After all, for many people after they deduct the interest on their taxes, a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage is costing approximately 4 percent or below.

In addition, the 30-year fixed-rate mortgage allows greater flexibility than a 15-year mortgage. For example, if you had a 30-year mortgage and you wanted to turn it into a 15-year mortgage, all you have to do is make extra payments on your mortgage. In a 15-year mortgage, the only way to turn it into a 30-year mortgage is to refinance.

Some mortgages — throughout the life the loan — give the option of changing terms. However, I am leery of some of these mortgages. Many are gimmicky and have a variety of hidden fees associated with them. I like to keep things simple and that is why I lean to the traditional 30-year fixed-rate mortgage.

It is important to know the cost of the mortgage. Too many people just shop interest rates. That is a mistake. You need to understand the various fees involved. One loan may have a lower interest rate, but higher fees that offset the advantage of a lower interest. Fees are not standard in the mortgage industry. Some mortgage companies are very creative. Ask if they have an origination fee.

Best of luck on your new home. I recommend you to deal with a qualified mortgage person and don't be afraid to ask questions.

Even as the bullfrogs sing, winter approaches

Humid July nights belong to bullfrogs, largest frogs of Oakland County.

Snow's on the way. In just a bit more than three months, about the time pumpkins ripen and loitering turkey vultures hitch rides south on vanishing rising thermals, morning frosts will silence all summer singing insects.

Oakland Naturally

Jonathan Schechter

And then a few days later, snow flurries fly. And so on these hot days of mid-July, I'd say it's time to celebrate our fleeting summer season, the hot sultry days of July, as Planet Earth continues her orbit around the sun.

This is the season of nature's way that provides so much to see, sense, eat, feel, hear, touch and avoid. As I sit and type on my screened country porch in the morning moments just after the sun has filtered through the pines, working my second cup of iced coffee, a house wren just yards away explodes into its daily repetitive song and tail flicking routine.

I pretend it's a greeting to me, but in reality he is stating unequivocally, "This land is mine!" "This land is mine!" And in the not so far distance, another wren sends the same message of territorial patrol.

I think back to last evening, when moments after dark with the near full moon rising, and mosquitoes on the other side of the screen, I sat in the same chair, watching fireflies flicker among my scraggly wildflower meadow among the sweetly scented wild evening primrose - a night blooming plant - and purple cone flowers I established to replace a good size hunk of boring lawn.

The gentle breezes have set black-eyed susans, daisies, clematis, morning glories and cone flowers into a nodding motion, attracting swallowtails and a single monarch butterfly. Ruby-throated hummingbirds zip in for sips of nectar and then return to the limb of a dying crab apple, a tree full of life: red squirrels, gray treefrogs, visiting woodpeckers and the occasional nuthatch.

Give the day another few more hours of temperature rise and I know a trio of turkey vultures, habituated to my peculiar behavior and activity, will circle effortlessly overhead and descend to my feeding platform to plunge their beaked heads into a fly-covered bloated carcass of a road killed opossum, an offering I provided a few days ago. Twenty-four hours in the hot sun made for the perfectly putrid marinate method. If you were enjoying breakfast, scavenging is part of nature's way and turkey vultures are the best of nature's sanitation engineers. They would think our eating habits are bizarre.

And if you know your wild edibles, this is the moment in time when wild black raspberries are at their best, day lily petals freshen salads and black walnuts begin to swell. I keep an eye on ripening blackberries along train tracks. Raccoons and birds do, too.

Back to porch moments: Cicadas call with their chain saw-like buzzing song weeks ahead of their norm, a signal that tells me this day will swelter. And mourning doves send their July messages, a tune a bit like a gentle rendition of the call of the great horned owl.

Moments of waning July are everywhere. Awesome ice cream at Cooks Farm Dairy, with cows watching you. (Seymour Lake Road in Brandon Township.) Young buck antlers in velvet. Poison ivy vines head high along tree trunks. Skin-tearing stinging nettle waist high. A time of great plenty for street-wise coyotes, but nothing defines late July more than the distinctive low rumbling, long-carrying croak of the bullfrog, the largest of Oakland County's frogs and the last to breed. Their tadpoles, yet to emerge, will over-winter under ice, and reach maturity next spring, after the snows yet to come, melt away.

Sheriff says proposed budget cuts harm public safety

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Evans

Wayne County Sheriff Warren Evans says public safety should be the county's top priority and a proposal to cut his budget by 10 percent would harm public safety.

"Protecting public safety is probably the most important thing that any government can do," Evans said in an interview with the Observer. "Clearly, the county has responsibility for the prosecutor, the sheriff and the courts and it is a major function that has to be a higher priority than some other things."

Wayne County Executive Robert Ficano has proposed a budget that would cut 10 percent from all department budgets for 2008-09 to deal with a projected $33 million deficit.

For the sheriff's department, Ficano has proposed cutting the sheriff's 2007-08 $96 million general fund amount by $9.6 million.

"Basically the sheriff has increased his budget over the last five years," said Vanessa Denha, a spokeswoman for Ficano. "He has requested a $7 million increase over last year, even after we asked people to make cuts. We've made cuts (in the executive's office) and we're just asking all the electeds to do the same."

The Wayne County Commission is scheduled to approve the 2008-09 budget by late August. Evans made a PowerPoint presentation to the commission is making his case with the public that his budget problems are being misrepresented by Ficano.

Evans argues that retroactive salaries and benefits in a collective bargaining contract and underfunding for overtime are two key factors for a reported $17 million in overspending on this year's budget.

Evans said the county negotiated a collective bargaining agreement with the employees of the sheriff's department without budgeting for it.

"Our budget for this year was cast in stone a year ago. We warned at budget hearings and everywhere else that there had to be some contingency," Evans said. "It was in binding arbitration. The county and the unions agreed to the economic package, so it was not binding arbitration thrust upon the county."

Evans said he was not part of the negotiations, a point disputed by the executive's office.

"He had somebody from his office at those meetings. He was part of that whole process from the beginning," Denha said.

OVERTIME UNDERFUNDED

On overtime, Evans said the department has always been underfunded for overtime, even going back to the time of the previous sheriff, Robert Ficano.

"You never know how many officers are going off sick, you don't know what emergencies are going to come up," he said. "But you do know a general trend, what the overtime is going to be. It's never budgeted for and you're always running a deficit immediately."

Evans said overtime has run as high as $9 million and as low as $6 million (of a $131 million budget).

This year, it was budgeted for $4 million.

Evans said that he is concerned that under Ficano's plan 238 deputies and four civilians would face layoffs. Options would include closing the Hamtramck Jail or releasing pretrial felons to reduce the jail population and lay off officers.

Evans said the county has a jail capacity of 2,600 and the proposed cuts would reduce that number by 800. He said the present jail capacity is inadequate for the need.

REPEAT OFFENDERS

"Most of our offenders are repeat people who have been in jail more than once," Evans said. "In this economy they are not getting a job when I release them. They are going to up the crime rate considerably when they go back to do what they do best."

Evans said he understands the need for belt-tightening but argues that other departments and other projects are less important.

"I have tried to help with belt-tightening. I have closed floors in our existing jail to try to help balance the budget," he said.

Denha said the sheriff's department may have to do some layoffs but she suggested there were other options.

"He doesn't need to run the (police) academy. He can use the community colleges in our area that offer programs," she said.

She said the department's kitchen and food services run two to three times more than Oakland and Macomb counties.

"There are ways to cut his budget," she said. "We're happy to sit down with him and help him cut his budget."

Evans said $42 million of the $96 million he receives from the general fund comes from a dedicated public safety millage and should not be factored into the proposed 10 percent budget cut.

LETTERS

League criticism unmerited

The League of Women Voters of Northwest Wayne County sponsored a candidates forum for those running for the Canton Township treasurer and trustees on July 16th, and was criticized because one of the members who helped with the forum is a supporter of one of the candidates.

The League is nonpartisan and does not support or oppose any candidate. However, our members, as individuals, are not apolitical. Just as we encourage the public to become politically involved, so do we expect our members to be part of the political process. No individual member who supports or opposes a candidate, however, speaks on behalf of the League of Women Voters. As (dues-paying) volunteers, our members are committed to bringing nonpartisan information to the voters.

Each year, the League's board of directors renews a nonpartisanship policy, which restricts public support of candidates by key board members and those in sensitive voter service positions. A question screener, who sorts questions submitted by the audience and may clarify the grammar, toss out duplicates, etc., is not considered a sensitive position.

Complaints about the tone of the questions submitted by the audience and asked at the treasurer's forum have been levied by both candidates.

We take that to mean that both felt challenged. Both candidates are fighting hard for this position and should expect tough questions from Canton Township residents. Suggesting that a League member playing a minor role in this informational event may have influenced the outcome is unreasonable.

Paula Bowman
president, League of Women Voters

Disappointed with forum

I was totally disappointed with the lack of appropriate responses and questions that took place at the League of Women Voters candidate forum at the Village Theater. The debate for the treasurer spot between Joan Noricks and Melissa McLaughlin was more Oprah-like than getting into the issues of who is more qualified. Melissa McLaughlin seemed angry about the issue of accepting campaign contributions from her prominent contributors and backers, as being unjustified and a means of attacking her long-standing integrity. In my view the only way of convincing and removing any doubts from the voters minds is by simply not accepting any contributions, rather than giving long sanctimonious speeches.

The trustee forum was something out of the Saturday Night Live skit. Most of the questions and responses dealt with the subject matter of house foreclosures, unemployment, high cost of energy, and employment biases. These are all viable questions for the federal level, not for the local level government. I was hoping to hear more about the increasing high cost of trash pickup, frequent water bill increases, and why more of our money is being appropriated (double taxation) to do Wayne County's projects. Most of the candidates also felt that no amount of campaign contribution will sway how they vote.

Anthony Cauchi
Canton

Stop the personal attacks

Letter writer Emily Pondell ("Check campaign contributions," July 10) and treasurer candidate Joan Noricks have once again used innuendo, misrepresentations and untruths to advance Noricks' campaign. Pondell in two letters to the Observer and Noricks in public statements have implied that current township board members have received campaign contributions in exchange for special treatment.

I take great exception to their accusations. The comments are slanderous and unfounded personal attacks. Campaign donors are limited to a contribution of $500 over a four-year period, hardly big money. Most trustees raise a small amount of money for their campaigns with the rest coming from their own pockets.

Anyone who has watched the Planning Commission or Board of Trustees meetings has witnessed members scrutinizing every detail of each project and demanded the very best for Canton. For the most part, these individuals serve with little compensation. They serve because they have a deep dedication and commitment to the residents of the community. To impugn their character is nothing but a political cheap shot. Canton government has a well-earned reputation as a professionally managed and squeaky clean government. Canton planning commissioners and trustees integrity and performance is beyond reproach, if only the same could be said for Noricks.

As founder of the Canton Community Foundation I am deeply saddened at the lack of leadership and management skills exhibited by Noricks. The foundation's finances are in disarray, substantial donors have been driven away, income has plummeted, expensive software is yet to be implemented, staff retention is a problem, board communication is lacking, and board meetings are disorganized. If it were not for the hard work of foundation board members in raising funds and organizing projects the foundation would cease to exist.

Noricks' lack of experience, knowledge and skills can not be covered up by engaging in the politics of personal destruction.

Tom Yack
supervisor, Canton Township

Time to turn the page

I am amazed on how desperately candidate Melissa McLaughlin has tried to spin public perception during this race for Canton treasurer. She should ask herself has she favored developers in the past when citizens would be before the Planning Commission and the Township Board (she sits on both) to hear citizens trying to protect their quality of life and homes when suddenly development was next to them.

There were many times when the citizens were told (myself being one of them) "sorry, but you should have known this could happen." Now here is Melissa turning back to the same citizens asking for their vote for the treasurer position for which she feels entitled to for all her years of public service to Canton.

Her resume for the position is a person who has hung around and been a loyal supporter of the Tom Yack regime and has supported many spending sprees such as DDA lighting and brick pavers disaster, $250,000 public bathroom and many more examples. She truly believes that since she has provided all this service that she is "entitled" to the position and the $98,790 paycheck. Her goals include "purchasing new software" (more spending) and "revamping the Treasurer webpage." I see a person with not a clue or any plan other than to seek $395,016 from the Canton taxpayers over the next four years. I would not let her run an ice cream stand, let alone the financial responsibilities and experience that are needed to be treasurer and to ensure that the taxpayers dollars are not squandered as if the money just grows on trees.

I would have to say to the voters of Canton it's time we turned the page to a new chapter of hopefully responsible elected officials. I would send a message to Melissa McLaughlin on Aug. 5, "sorry, you should have known this could happen."

Daniel McCausland

Vote for Barone

In reading Judge Gerou's letter in the Sunday, July 24, Observer, describing the attributes of a great judge, it must have been written for Joe Barone.

Joe fits that description to the max. We definitely need a man like Joe in our court system. He is an excellent attorney who practices in our court on a weekly, if not daily, basis. He is knowledgeable and even-tempered, and he knows what will be asked of him as judge.

His family certainly stands behind him and supports him in his race for judge. My family and I are definitely voting for Joe and I would hope that everyone will join with us in our support for Joe Barone.

Kay Jasin
Canton

Barone is best

I believe Joe Barone is the best candidate for judge.

When my family needed expert legal advice, Joe displayed his honesty, integrity and willingness to work above and beyond what was needed to make sure we understood how the law is interpreted. He is active and committed to making this a community that we can be proud to live and work in. He is no stranger in the courtroom and is fair and just.

Please vote for Joe Barone, 35th District Court judge, he is experienced, involved and the best candidate for the job.

Robotics thanks

PCEP's FIRST robotics team 862, Lightning Robotics, would like to take this opportunity to thank the people who keep the team running smoothly.

First off, we would like to thank our main sponsor, Robert Bosch, LLC. Bosch not only supports us financially, but also provides us with mentors who are both our teachers and our friends; second, ITT Technical Institute; and last but not least, Reliable Business Computers Inc.

Without the help of these wonderful sponsors, we would not have been able to afford to build a robot and attend FIRST competitions last year. Lightning Robotics thanks each and every one of you and hopes you will continue to support our team for years to come!

As mentioned before, the mentors are a large part of our robotics family. They give up many hours each year to spend time with the team and to teach the students skills needed to design and build a robot in only six weeks. Among these skills, they teach both leadership and safety in a fun and interesting way. Without them, there wouldn't be a robotics team at PCEP.

Thanks again!

Exchanging of the flag

Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 528 Plymouth/Canton member Darrell Basman (left) presents a new flag to Tim Curtis, who traded in his worn out flag last week. Chapter 528, along with Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6695, are exchanging brand new American flags for flags that need to be retired. They will be at Cruzin' 528, the weekly car show the veterans host at VFW Post 6695 on Mill Street on Wednesdays from 5-8 p.m. Those interested should bring in the old 3'x5' flag and trade it in for a new American made flag for free until the first 100 are gone. Also, the veterans group will be collecting cell phones and accessories in conjunction with Lynn Dery from RE/MAX CLASSIC in Canton. Each cell phone or other accessory will be turned into an hour calling card to be used by our troops deployed overseas. The post, located at 1426 S. Mill in Plymouth, will be a collection point through the first Wednesday in September. For more information about either program, call Gary Bear at (734) 459-6700.

Deal will jump start infrastructure work in Village

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

The township has moved a step closer to finalizing an agreement for work inside the Cherry Hill Village residential development.

On Tuesday, the board approved the terms of an agreement that would take the place of letters of credit that are designed to guarantee the completion of specific items within the subdivisions. The terms must now be presented in the form of an agreement to the boards of the Cherry Hill Village and River's Edge homeowners associations. If approved, the agreement will be authorized by Township Supervisor Tom Yack.

Municipal Services Director Tim Faas said officials will move quickly in an effort to finalize the agreement.

"We are on the fast track because come September, we actually need to be paving," he said.

The terms of the agreement, hashed out by township officials, Biltmore (Cherry Hill Investors, LLC) and Comerica Bank, outline the funding of projects such as road improvements, sidewalk installation, tree planting and replacement and landscaping.

Faas said the estimate to complete all of the work inside the three phases of the Village and River's Edge is $920,000. The letters of credit are worth about $403,000.

When the township pointed out the shortfall to Biltmore and Comerica Bank, Faas said the response was, "Let's work it out."

"Many developments are having this same problem. The cost of work is going up, up and up and some just walk away, but they view (the Village) from an asset standpoint," he said. "Bankers aren't developers and they are legally only responsible for $403,000, but this has been really positive all along."

Through the agreement, Comerica would be expected to lend Biltmore $520,000 immediately to complete all of the roadwork in the developments.

The remaining $400,000 would come from the future sales of undeveloped parcels. For every parcel sold, 10 percent of the net proceeds would go into an escrow account. If the $400,000 isn't generated after four years, Biltmore and Comerica Bank will come to an agreement on funding the balance.

Faas said the township isn't responsible for any of the funding.

"For the residents, this is what we feel is in their best interest," he said. "The driving force has been the incomplete roads in phase one and two of the Village. The roads have been sitting for so long that the base has gone bad."

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

SMOKING INCREASES GUM-DISEASE RISK

Aside from all the other smoking-related health risks, research shows that smokers are more likely to develop gum disease and to have more serious cases than nonsmokers. Bone loss, gum recession, and tartar (hardened plaque) all contribute to gum disease and are common among users of tobacco. If the excessive plaque is not removed, the gums become infected and pull away from the teeth.

Researchers believe that nicotine and other substances in tobacco may weaken the body's immune response to harmful bacteria and reduce blood flow to the gums. As the bacteria in plaque attack the tissues and bone that support the teeth, the stage is set for loosened teeth and tooth loss, also more common among smokers than nonsmokers.

Breaking the smoking habit now can greatly reduce your risk of developing severe gum disease and its resultant tooth loss in the future. One of the most important things we can provide you with is education. Teaching you proper oral hygiene, however, is only the first part. The rest is up to you. We'll help you keep an eye on your dental health beginning with a thorough oral exam. Call us at 734-453-9413 for an appointment at 496 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Ste. 201, Plymouth. New patients are always welcome.

Redford Rebels' baseball coach Bruce Corner (left) and his son, Brian, a catcher for the Rebels, have been on the same teams often over the past decade. For them, family and baseball are top priorities, but not necessarily in that order.

Father-son connection's a hit

BY TIM SMITH
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

They might be Corner-ing the market on bonding through baseball.

But Redford Rebels' coach Bruce Corner and his 17-year-old son, Rebels' catcher Brian, don't seem to be too upset about it.

In fact, starting with the Redford American Little League Red Sox during the late 1990s right up until this summer with the Rebels, the Redford Township father and son have been virtually inseparable thanks to being together on one baseball team after another.

"We've got to spend a lot of quality time out here on the diamond, both before, during and after practice," said coach Corner. "We talk about things besides baseball because we do have that time together."

"We go to practices and games three, four or five times a week, driving to and from, there's a lot of time together to talk about life and school and a lot of things that are important."

According to Brian, who recently graduated from Redford Thurston (where he batted .417 his senior year while earning first-team All-Observer honors), it's been "cool" being coached by his dad so many of the past 10 years.

"I enjoy it because not

ON THE CORNERS

Family: Bruce and Kathleen Corner of Redford Township have two children, 17-year-old Brian and 14-year-old Bridget. Brian — a 2008 graduate of Redford Thurston — is entering his freshman year at Henry Ford Community College; Bridget will be a sophomore at Redford Thurston, where she was on the 2007 varsity girls swim team.

Back in the day: Bruce coached his son beginning in the late 1990s with the Redford American Little League Red Sox. From there, the father-and-son combo also were on a RALL Junior League squad and with Thurston's junior varsity team in 2005-06.

Future: After the Redford Rebels finish play this summer, Brian will play in a fall baseball league and also gear up to try and play at Henry Ford. Meanwhile, coach Corner is interested in being an assistant to varsity head baseball coach Bob Snell at Thurston and will again coach his son with the Rebels in 2009.

Challenge: Bruce also has interest in donating or coaching players with physical or mental handicaps through the Challenger Division of North Redford Central Little League.

"I've been fortunate enough to have a healthy child play ball," he said. "And if I could ever donate my time and efforts to those people that go out there and do that (Challenger), that's something I would like to do."

'Boot' Camp

Ignition clinics draw waves of energetic youngsters

BY ED WRIGHT
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Life could not have been much sweeter for the 52 kids who dashed and darted around the two side-by-side grassy soccer fields that were set up at Pembroke Park in Livonia Thursday afternoon.

The sky was blue, the humidity was low, the enthusiasm was high and — most importantly — the young athletes were being supervised by their heroes — members of the Detroit Ignition professional soccer team.

Pembroke Park was the site of one of several week-long camps the Ignition hosts throughout the summer across the state.

Along with lending its name to the clinic, the two-year-old ultra-successful franchise offered players like Dreo Callahan and Ryan Mack to serve as instructors/coaches.

"All's we hear when the kids get home from the camp is, 'Drew Callahan did this today; Ryan Mack did this — I want to do this like Ryan Mack did today,'" said Mark Warner, the head coach of a Livonia YMCA U11 team. "The kids are having a blast because the Ignition players are so enthusiastic about what they're doing.

"And the kids aren't just having fun — they're learning important skills. This week is something they'll remember the rest of their lives."

Mack said the primary objective of the five three-hour sessions is to inject as much soccer knowledge as the Ignition can in a fun, fast-paced environment.

"One day we'll work on finishing, one day we'll work on dribbling — we try to touch on all the basics," said the former Birmingham Seaholm soccer standout. "It's fun for us because the kids are so enthusiastic and you can tell they want to get better."

The fact that the league the Ignition competed in the past two years — the Major Indoor Soccer League — folded earlier this summer has not affected the popularity of the summer camps.

"We have approximately 1,800 kids registered for the camps this year compared to 1,200 last summer, so it's still a popular thing for the kids," said Michelle Green, the Ignition's director of communications.

Greene said the Ignition will play this coming fall in a restructured league. Details of the changes will be released sometime in mid-August, she said.

Mack said there were a few anxious moments amongst he and his teammates when word of the MISL's demise spread. However, he's encouraged by the information he is hearing from reliable sources regarding the 2008-09 indoor season.

"They've assured us there is going to be a team, we just may start a month later than we did the first two years," said Mack. "When we first heard the news about the league folding, everybody wanted to know what was going on. But they've guaranteed us we'll have a team for sure, the league will just be structured a little differently."

everybody gets to go out and play ball with their dad," Brian said. "Not many kids get that opportunity."

"He's helped me a lot, he works hard to help me try to make that next step in baseball. Everything he tries to do is for me."

Probably the only times the elder Corner was not at the helm of his son's team were Brian's junior and senior seasons at Thurston — coached by Bob Snell.

him. "I've probably learned as much from him (Brian) about coaching as anybody else because of our time together," Bruce said. "He gives me that insight, because we're always talking baseball."

"... If he's not going to be a player I think he'll be a coach."

On trips to and from the baseball field, Brian might offer suggestions that could help the Rebels improve their lot in the Midwest Alliance Travel Baseball League.

Their might be suggestions about the batting order or where to play somebody in the field on a particular day.

"He has insight on injuries and insight on the pulse of the team," Bruce Corner said.

This week, Brian will take that penchant for extra effort and try to make a solid impression on the baseball coaches of Henry Ford Community College. He is looking to latch on for the 2009 season.

"He's got the capabilities to make it," Bruce said. "But he has to play up to his capabilities because it's the next level. Everybody's going to be better at the next level just like they are here (in travel baseball)."

IN THE FRAY

There won't be many players — whether at Henry Ford or with the Rebels — who know more than Brian about what makes them tick on the diamond.

For Brian, it's being a catcher.

"You're in every play," Brian said. "It's an important position and I like that responsibility that you've got to be good and you can't let anything get by you."

But that wasn't his first position of choice when he started playing for the RALL Red Sox.

Bruce said his son played the outfield in those early days although Brian claims he actually was a third baseman on the day he first donned the catching gear.

"I think I was at third base," Brian said. "There was a pick-off, the kid ran home and I threw it in there and had him out."

"The kid slid into him (the catcher) and all I heard was the catcher going 'Oh, my leg.'"

Since the team's other catcher already was disabled, the Red Sox were in a bind.

"So my dad's looking around 'Who do I got to catch' and he asked me if I could go in there," Brian recalled. "He threw me in there, and I never looked back. I just took over at catching."

For every year since, he's been the always-dependable backstop. The coach on the field. He'd have it no other way.

And neither would his dad.

Rams remain undefeated

The Michigan Rams improved their Livonia Collegiate Men's Baseball League record to 24-9 on Tuesday with a 12-0 pasting of the Trailblazers in a game played at Bicentennial Park in Livonia.

James Bertakis earned the victory with four innings of shutout ball. He allowed just three hits while striking out one and walking one. Brett Spencer was near-perfect in relief, yielding just one walk and no hits while whiffing five over the final three innings.

Brad Sullens suffered the loss for the Trailblazers.

Offensively, the winners were paced by Aaron Wick, who went 4-for-4 with two RBI and two runs scored, and Brad Herman, who ripped four hits and scored three runs for coach Rick Berryman's squad.

The Rams outthit the Trailblazers, 16-3.

The Rams' big inning was the fifth when they scored five runs on five hits.

Kil's Tae Kwon Do students shine at National Junior Olympics competition

BY ED WRIGHT
OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

If the Detroit Lions experience as much success at Ford Field this season as students of the Canton-based Kil's Tae Kwon Do Center did earlier this month, they're probably bound for the NFL playoffs.

Ten athletes who train at the Canton-based Kil's placed among the top three in their age brackets in either the sparring or form divisions at the National Junior Olympics championships held July 6 in Detroit.

Among the titleists was 10-year-old Canton resident Marissa Provine, who faced a potentially unsettling situation when she stepped into the ring for the first-place sparring bout in her age group.

"I had to fight against my best friend in the finals," said Provine, who will be a sixth-grader at Pioneer Middle School in the fall. "One thing we've learned is that once you step into the ring, you're competitors, not friends. But as soon as the match is over, you're friends again."

Provine defeated one of her fellow classmates at Kil's — Genna Liu, who moved to the United States from Beijing, China in 2007.

Canton resident Sarah Walsh, a senior-to-be honor roll student at Salem High School, captured two medals at the national championships — a silver in forms and a gold in sparring.

"This is like another family to me," said the 16-year-old fourth-degree black belt, as she looked around the Kil's facility during a class. "It's hard work, but it's fun, too, and I like competition."

Walsh's career goal is to become a nurse, but that won't prevent her from abandoning Tae Kwon Do — a sport she's participated in for the past 11 years.

"I really want to open up my own studio some day," said Walsh. "It's definitely something I want to keep doing."

Walsh's younger brother, Ethan, also enjoyed a successful experience at Ford Field, kicking his way to a pair of medals — one gold and one bronze — at the national tournament.

"Ethan's been a great workout partner for me," said Sarah Walsh. "And he's a great brother."

Twelve-year-old Canton resident Shantanu Madaboosi, who will be a seventh-grader at Pioneer in the fall, has been attending classes at Kil's since he was 5.

"My parents encouraged me to try it when I was young; they said martial arts was not a choice — I had to do it," said Madaboosi. "It's been great for my self confidence and discipline."

"My friends at school joke around and say, 'Don't mess with Madaboosi,' but I would never get in a fight. We're taught to walk away or try to break up fights. One of the most important things I've learned here is self control."

Madaboosi earned a second-place medal in sparring at Ford Field.

A pair of brothers — Vincent and Drake Coy of Brighton — also medaled as did Valentin Najjar, who racked up a third-place showing in sparring.

Surviving treatment

Image Recovery Center helps cancer patients feel better about themselves

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
OGE STAFF WRITER

One bad experience left Ann Marie Dahl devastated about her appearance. It was difficult enough to survive breast cancer without dealing with the horrified expression of a professional who was supposed to help her.

Dahl had been through two surgeries and was seeking a prosthetic. She ended up wearing baggy clothes for the next eight years, unwilling to put herself through another ordeal. Then her sister, Nancy Scobie, an R.N., suggested she visit the Helen Palmer Image Recovery Center at St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia. The center helps boost patients' self-esteem by dealing with changes in their appearance due to treatment for illnesses such as cancer. Before the center opened in late October the staff received intensive training at the Image Recovery Center at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. Services include everything from free consultations to prosthetics and bras, hair styling and wigs, skin care analysis, and massage therapy. Medical massage and Reiki soothe symptoms like fatigue, pain and discomfort.

"I heard of a place to go for my chest to look more normal. You go in feeling bad enough," said Dahl of Canton. "I work for an attorney's office so my appearance is important. At the center I was fitted for a prosthetic and bra. I was so impressed with the time and care they took making sure what I wanted and needed."

Scobie can't say enough about her sister's experience at the center.

'DIFFERENCE IS INCREDIBLE'

"The difference is incredible," said Scobie who works at St. Mary Mercy Hospital. "She was so down before. After her first appointment she was just thrilled."

Dahl only wishes she'd known about the center before her surgery and hopes one bad experience doesn't stop other women from seeking help.

Claudia Gering was lucky that she learned of the center during a talk about cancer at St. Mary Mercy Hospital. Gering had been receiving chemotherapy at Saint Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor since January. Clients of the Image Recovery Center need not be patients of St. Mary Mercy Hospital. Before having surgery a week ago, Gering was fitted for a postsurgical bra with a pocket for a drainage tube. The Canton woman also scheduled a noninvasive manicure and pedicure designed for patients vulnerable to infection.

"I'm so impressed with the center and the kind, caring staff," said Gering, who especially wants to look nice for her daughter's wedding in August.

CHILDREN, TOO

At age 10, Molly Modes doesn't have to worry about her appearance, but fatigue from the nephrotic syndrome and FSGS kidney conditions she battles. The Livonia girl has been coming to the center for Reiki to restore her energy. Discovered in Japan in the early 20th century, the therapy is a method of hands-on healing. Reiki can reduce pain and induce relaxation in addition to increasing energy.

Since starting Reiki in December, she has missed only one soccer game with Fire, a Select Soccer team through the YMCA in Livonia. Her mother, Meg, says Molly comes out of the hourlong sessions with rosy cheeks.

"It's warm (from the practitioner's hands) and I usually fall asleep," said Molly Modes. "I feel like I'm sinking into the mattress."

A medical massage from Jane Kaleski, who also does the Reiki, not only helped relieve the discomfort Nancy McGue felt as a result of scar tissue from a double mastectomy, but pain caused by fibromyalgia. A breast cancer survivor, McGue has taken advantage of fitting services as well. The Plymouth woman has $850 worth of prosthetics in a closet from a prior purchase.

"They were too heavy," said McGue. According to Carrie Davies, McGue's complaint isn't that unusual. There are so many different styles of prosthetics that a woman can end up with the wrong one. At the center, Davies takes measurements after giving the patient a tour of all the available merchandise first. Special bras, swimsuits and camisoles are available as well.

"It's about empowering them and seeing them feel better," said Davies, a clinical specialist who coordinates the center.

It's also about starting or continuing treatment uninterrupted, according to Dr. Harmesh Naik. The St. Mary Mercy Hospital oncologist regularly tells patients about the center's services.

"Attitude is a big thing in cancer treatment, how long they can persist in treatment," said Naik. "Sometimes we have patients who say I don't want to lose my hair. I'm not going to get treatment, a grand daughter's wedding is coming up so I'm going to let my chemotherapy go for two weeks. They don't have to change their treatment plan if we can just provide some simple solutions."

"I had people tell me I have lost my hair and don't want to go out of my house, versus people who have self confidence because of the services. It's a tremendous morale booster. Women with breast cancer the self confidence has a tremendous effect on their daily routine. They have concerns about how their partner will see them."

CARING LISTENER

One of the most important services offered is support. Trysh Tyl is a two-year survivor of breast cancer so clients feel comfortable talking to her. A licensed cosmetologist, Tyl and Davies went through intensive training at Johns Hopkins to work with patients. She begins their first visit with a free consultation. After determining the stage of their treatment plan, she can offer a variety of services including free head shaving. She suggests not doing this at home as a nick in the scalp can introduce infection. The center also offers a free celebratory cut when hair begins to grow back.

"It's a sensitive situation and you have to be able to handle a lot of emotion," said Tyl, a licensed cosmetologist. "There are questions they won't ask their doctor. I can tell them how to care for scalp and skin, any mouth sores or issues during chemotherapy, eyebrow and eyelash loss, how to take care of radiated skin."

Kathleen Kittle had no idea hair falls out about two weeks after chemotherapy begins. Kittle is the St. Mary Mercy Hospital administrator who came up with the idea for the Image Recovery Center long before she was diagnosed with breast cancer. She was able to ask Tyl what she could put on her scalp. The center uses natural products and botanicals.

"We offer medical manicures and pedicures," said Tyl. "They get their own nail file and orange stick. We're very concerned about bacteria and sterilization because their cell counts are down."

Peripheral neuropathy patients wanted for study

Researchers in the Department of Physical Therapy at Oakland University are looking for Metro Detroit residents to participate in a new study which may improve the lives of individuals with peripheral neuropathies.

Peripheral neuropathy is a debilitating condition that often afflicts people with diabetes. Its symptoms include sensations of pain, burning, cold, tingling or numbness in the feet and lower legs. Sufferers often have difficulty walking because of the loss of sensation in the feet.

The study is trying to determine whether one of the common treatments for peripheral neuropathy is truly effective. This treatment, monochromatic infra red radiation (MIRE), is approved by the FDA and has been shown to improve circulation. Studies have also shown that it will reduce pain, numbness and tingling, and also improve balance and walking when given in conjunction with physical therapy. However, no researchers have ever investigated whether the MIRE or the physical therapy or some combination of the two treatments really works.

The study is open to all patients over 18 years old who have diabetic or idiopathic peripheral neuropathy. Volunteers will be assigned to one of two groups. One group will receive the MIRE (experimental group), while the other group will not receive this treatment (placebo group). Both groups will receive treatment three times a week for eight weeks.

For the experimental group, the treatment will consist of 30 minutes of MIRE and 60 minutes of exercises and gait training. For the placebo group, the treatment will appear the same, but the MIRE machine will not be delivering any infra red radiation. However, the placebo group will still receive 60 minutes of exercises and gait training.

There will be no cost to the patient. Treatment will be provided at any one of the eight Team Rehabilitation clinics in Metro Detroit including Livonia, Farmington Hills, Macomb Township and Clarkston.

To learn more or to make arrangements to participate, call Michelle McClellan at (248) 922-9280.

iPods, cell phones ease travel, but don't forget chargers

Is today Sunday? Feels like a Thursday. (Just joking. My editors forgot to tell me they were moving my column. Why am I always the last to know everything?)

A couple weeks ago I took my family to Chicago for what turned out to be a terrific vacation. One of the highlights was traveling by train, a long (six hours going, five hours returning) but mostly pleasant experience. Cheap, too.

Needless to say, I packed a fair number of gadgets: some for communication, some for navigation, and some for entertainment. Here's how they fared.

I made heavy use of Verizon's LG Voyager phone, which, when I first test-drove it several months ago, I unfairly dismissed as a poor iPhone clone.

The Voyager offers two features I really love: crackerjack GPS navigation and Mobile TV. The latter differs a bit from the streaming video that's long been a staple of Verizon's VCast service: It's live and prerecorded TV shows delivered over the old-fashioned airwaves.

For $15 monthly, you get instant access to 11 channels, including CBS, NBC, Comedy Central, and Nick. As long as you're in a major metropolitan area, it really is like having a little TV in your phone.

The service worked great in Chicago, and Nick came in mighty handy a few times when the kids were bored and driving us insane.

Alas, Mobile TV is available only on four Verizon models. It's also available on a couple handsets from AT&T, including the LG Vu—an impressive model in its own right.

The Voyager's VZ Navigator also proved invaluable. I often used it to determine the distance from one Chicago attraction to another, so we'd know whether to walk or take a cab.

Lots of phones have rudimentary GPS capabilities, but VZ Navigator (which recently added traffic updates) is in a class by itself. It's well worth $2.99 for a 24-hour period or $9.99 monthly.

BOOKS, MOVIES, GAMES

For entertainment I packed an iPod Touch for me and a Creative Zen Vision W for the kids. The latter I stocked with movies downloaded from Vongo and TV shows recorded on a media-center PC.

The iPod Touch was freshly upgraded with Apple's 2.0 software update, which opened the door to hundreds of new programs from the iTunes App Store.

You've probably read about this ad naseum already (as part of the iPhone 3G launch), so I'll just give you some highlights. With the eReader app (the same one I've used on my Palm for years), I was able to read books on my Touch.

I also downloaded the New York Times' eponymous app for more great reading. AOL Radio let me tune into hundreds of Internet radio stations. And killer games like Aurora Feint (free), Bejeweled 2 ($9.99), and Tap Tap Revenge (free) kept me thoroughly entertained.

Just one problem. The universal travel charger I packed to keep all these gadgets juiced—Callpod's Chargepod—didn't work for the Touch or Zen. I'd brought along their USB cables, but the Chargepod requires special connectors for those devices. D'oh!

Luckily, both players had just enough power to last the trip. And I still like the Chargepod, even if its power wart is disproportionately huge. All told, the right tech gear really can make travel easier and more fun.

Agree? Disagree? Shoot me an e-mail and let's discuss.

Phones like the AT&T LG Vu (pictured) and Verizon LG Voyager can double as portable TVs thanks to the impressive Mobile TV service, which costs $15 monthly for unlimited access.

Bakery builds on homey atmosphere

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

When Jason Lawrence and Natalie Feneck decided to buy a bakery in Plymouth there was never any discussion about whether family would be involved. Before the doors opened in January 2006, Jason's father Chester Lawrence had painted the back wall while wife Jan and son Jared helped Jason and Natalie clean the space soon to become Boulé Artisan Bakery.

Today, they're still working together to make the business a success. Jason and Natalie do the baking, while Jan works behind the counter waiting on customers four days a week. On Saturday mornings she's joined by Chester and Jared who man a booth at the Plymouth Farmer's Market a block away in The Gathering on Penniman.

"We're that kind of family, a hard working together type of family. It's what we do. It's what we've always done," said Jason Lawrence. "We all work. We know what it takes."

Some of the Old World-style Boulé breads require three days of labor, from growing the yeast to letting the dough rise then baking and cooling on racks. Boulé is the French word for round, but the bakery offers breads in all shapes and varieties, from cheese and fruit and nut specialties to multi-grain, rye, Italian, traditional challah, and French. Everything is hand made from scratch including sweet treats like all-butter cookies, scones, boulettes (bits of croissants tossed with cinnamon and sugar), and croissants with pieces of fruit or chocolate.

"It's a time consuming process," said Natalie.

"It's what bakeries have gotten away from and there's no addition of preservative," said Jason.

"We sell half loaves so the first slice tastes as good as the last," added Natalie. "Sometimes people get half of this loaf, half of that."

Customer service is number one on the family's list of priorities. Natalie, who grew up in Redford and attended Wayne State University, worked in restaurant management in Colorado so she knows what it takes to keep bread lovers coming back. Regulars can receive a free loaf of bread by having a card stamped after each purchase. After 12 loaves, the next one is free.

Teen's legacy

Book seeks to inspire readers to live a life that matters

BY SHARON DARGAY
O&E STAFF WRITER

A photo of Alex Graham graces the cover of the book that includes her journal entries as well as the life lessons she taught others during her battle with cancer.

Alexandra Graham inspired those around her every day as she battled cancer from 1997-99.

There was the oncology nurse, who noticed the 17-year-old West Bloomfield girl's spunky attitude and loving concern for others.

There were many friends, who watched their classmate continue to laugh and fearlessly embrace life, despite the loss of a leg and part of a lung.

There were family members, students, medical professionals and others who marvelled at her maturity, positive demeanor and unselfish attitude.

Their recollections tell the story of Alex's journey from diagnosis, through treatment, to the living legacy that has continued after her death, in a book co-written by her parents, Bill and Susie

Bill and Susie Graham talk about their book, "When One Door Closes: A Teen's Inspiring Journey and Living Legacy," which was inspired by their late daughter's battle with cancer.

Graham, along with H. Thomas Saylor, a Northville-area writer.

"When One Door Closes: A Teen's Inspiring Journey and Living Legacy," will be released Aug. 1 to local book stores, but can be pre-ordered ($24.95) through www.alexswish.com.

The Grahams plan to donate their portion of proceeds to the Make-A-Wish Foundation. Susie is a Make-A-Wish board member and Bill will ride in the organization's 300-mile bike tour, July 24-27, as he does every year. Together with Berline Advertising, Make-A-Wish fulfilled Alex's desire for a public service announcement about children with cancer. The PSA, which starred Alex and other young patients, began airing locally at first, and then nationwide, after her death in January 1997.

Craig Hane might not know the location of the next Barefoot Productions play but he has a dream.

Founded in October 2006, the theater company presents its next production, Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream, in the old Walker Buzenberg Furniture building in Plymouth Aug. 7-10 and 14-17.

"We want to become Plymouth's Purple Rose (a professional theater founded by actor Jeff Daniels in Chelsea)," said Hane of Plymouth Township. "We want to be able to hire professional actors to work alongside amateurs. My idea was to fashion it after Purple Rose with probably no more than 150 seats. We hope to have our own building in the next five years."

Barefoot Productions spent its first 18 months at the Plymouth Historical Museum but moved down Main Street to the old furniture building when scheduling conflicts arose.

"We just pay utilities, but it's still for lease. Every show we do we don't know where we may be doing it," said Hane. "We've planned the third season, but with every production we're just going to have to play it by ear."

Last season, two out of four productions had to be canceled when the theater company ran out of money. Last October, Barefoot Productions officially became a nonprofit so now they can take donations and hold fund-raisers like the wine tasting and auction in April.

"We're barely surviving from ticket sale to ticket sale. For the production of Stephen King's Misery we only had nine people in audience sometimes but then for Agatha Christie's Black Coffee we filled the house," said Hane who's been involved with theater for nearly 30 years.

Hane began doing plays in 1980 at Farmington High School before earning a bachelor of fine arts in theater and interpretation with a concentration in scenic design at Central Michigan

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

When: 8 p.m. Thursday-Saturday, Aug. 7-9, and Aug. 14-16, and 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 10 and 17

Where: 240 N. Main in the old Walker Buzenberg Furniture building, Plymouth

Tickets: $15, $10 students and seniors over age 60, and available at the door or by calling (734) 582-9688

University. Afterwards he worked in theater from coast to coast. Hane designs all of the sets for Barefoot Productions in addition to serving as artistic director.

"My love is directing. I've done probably about 33 productions and started a company in Santa Barbara," said Hane. "When I came back there was no live theater in downtown Plymouth. I have a strong drive to make the productions professional. I tell people when they audition that we're the most professional nonprofessional company you will ever work with. It's almost an off-Broadway experience."

Anne Cahalan joined the theater company because of Hane's vision.

She got to know him while the two were working in various community theater productions. Cahalan is producing A Midsummer Night's Dream.

"I'm excited to be involved," said Cahalan, whose father, Brian Cahalan, a teacher at Douglas Elementary in Garden City, is in the show.

"We want to have a theater for the community, but we're modeling after Purple Rose."

David Alexander, an English teacher at Fordson High School in Dearborn, has studied theater professionally with the Royal Shakespeare Company and Oxford University in England, and the Stratford Shakespeare Festival in Canada. He directs the Shakespeare production which has a cast of about 23. It is his master's thesis at University of Detroit Mercy.

Alexander used to run the theater department at Fordson and has acted with Dearborn Family Theatre, City of Dearborn Community Partnership, Westside Theatre Project in Dearborn, and University of Detroit Mercy Classical Theatre.

"I cut it quite a bit to make it as audience friendly as possible and for the same reason added a lot of music, spectacle. I wanted it to be engaging to little ones who might not get the language but are enchanted by what they're seeing and hearing," said Alexander of Redford. "We spend a lot of time laughing. Yes it's fun."

The Barefoot Productions season continues in October with Playing With Fire: After Frankenstein, a modern retelling of Mary Shelley's horror classic. In February, Barefoot Productions presents Same Time Next Year, a story of love through the ages.

The season concludes in spring with the mystery, Prescription Murder.

Pool party to benefit breast cancer research

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Stephanie Janiunas doesn't personally know anyone with breast cancer but that isn't stopping the Farmington Hills woman from raising money so she can participate in the 3-Day Walk for Susan G. Komen for the Cure in late September.

On Friday, Aug. 1 Janiunas is joining with Joe and Bob Dorsch, owners of Players Billiards, to throw an amped up Happy Hour called the Pink Ribbon Pool Party in Farmington. Ten percent of all proceeds go to fund breast cancer research.

Last year, Janiunas, 35, participated in the walk as an individual. This is her first time working with larger organizations like Players Billiards to help meet her goal of raising $10,000. Walk participants are required to raise $2,200 individually.

"Last year was fantastic, but such an emotional 3-Day," said Janiunas. "It's amazing. You're exhausted, crying and laughing. People come out in the hundreds and cheer you on. One man had tears streaming down his face. His wife had passed away (from breast cancer) and he still comes to every event."

In addition to the pool party, Janiunas is placing donation jars around Farmington.

"I'm hoping people will give me spare change or stuff that folds," said Janiunas, a marketing manager for a software company in Novi. "Over 85 percent of the proceeds go directly to breast cancer research and programs and stays in Michigan."

FIBROMYALGIA: FACT OR FICTION?
On occasions when I diagnose a patient as having fibromyalgia, I am met with responses like: "Then you mean nothing is wrong with me," or Doctor, you don't understand; I really hurt."
Such critical remarks about fibromyalgia from patients, assumes that the diagnosis means the doctor doesn't know what else to do.
A small number of physicians are skeptical that fibromyalgia is actually an entity. However, most of the medical community consider fibromyalgia a recognized disorder of the musculo-skeletal system.
Our reasoning is that the condition has features that distinguish it from other joint and muscle pains. These findings include a history of aching in multiple areas for months to years. Involvement of the shoulders, arms, neck, low back, hip area and legs. Patients often experience both fatigue and sleeplessness, headache, jaw pain, anterior chest pain, and constipation alternating with diarrhea. In many instances what initiates the condition is a fall, automobile collision, a fortunate escape from serious injury, or a prolonged period of personal distress.
Not all patients with fibromyalgia present so forthrightly. At times, the diagnosis is delayed when a patient does not exhibit most or all its features. In such instances, the doctor must follow the patient over time to distinguish between fibromyalgia, chronic fatigue and myofascial pain syndrome.

the mix. He originally went to University of Michigan for premed before deciding to go into the food industry. He and Natalie met through a mutual friend and have been together since 1991. The life partners lived in Colorado for several years before moving back to Michigan to be close to family. Jason was a baker for Whole Foods Market in Denver.

Chester Lawrence, a practicing attorney in Dearborn, handled all of the legalities involved with the purchase of the bakery that also produces special orders for weddings, bar mitzvahs, funerals, and Jeff Zaks Catering in Plymouth in addition to baking 300 mini baguettes a day for Air France.

"There's two reasons I do it, to help my family and because my father and mother were in the bar/bowling alley business. I was always working with people," said Chester Lawrence. "It's all about family being together. Sometimes it's close, but if I didn't work here I wouldn't get to see Natalie and Jason as often as I do."

There's one major reason Jason and Natalie opened the bakery - Jared, Jason's younger brother.

"Ten years ago he was in a bad car accident and had a closed head injury. He's a part owner," said Jason. "We wanted to provide something for him, a more normal work environment. We knew the one place he'd be able to work is to be with family."

It's all about family for Jan as well.

"When they were opening the bakery I said please, please can I help," said Jan. "I wanted to do this so I can help my kids. How many parents have a chance to help their children realize their dreams?"

The business has grown beyond their expectations. Natalie and Jason greatly appreciate the support of the community. Although not directly involved with the bakery, Natalie is grateful to her parents as well. Sandy and Frank Feneck of Redford, care for the couple's 15-year-old Golden retriever, Bodhi, when they're at work.

"We feel lucky to be in a place like Plymouth," said Natalie. "We want to thank everybody who supported us. It's all been by word of mouth."

"Within three months of opening we could have had a major account but wanted to be a community bakery," said Jason. "There's such a bond in the community. We know 80 percent of their names."

Ila Marsee is a regular customer because of the sweets.

"I like everything," said Marsee of Plymouth. "My husband likes the lemon ginger and raspberry scones. The fruit bread with cherries is just fabulous for breakfast."

Dave Murphy has been coming to Boule at least once a week since the bakery opened. Every Friday he buys an extra loaf to share with someone to spread the word about the bread. He calls it Friendly Fridays.

"We buy maybe three loaves of bread a year elsewhere when desperate because we need to make sandwiches for the kids' lunches and we're out of bread on a Sunday night," said Murphy of Plymouth. "It's just a great quality bread. Jason is always experimenting but not making major changes. My brother up north is jealous. I just visited him and took bread."

The Plymouth Farmer's Market has been responsible for many new customers who later drop by the bakery.

"These are new people coming into town just for flowers and vegetables," said Jason. "They like coming to the market because it's a social thing. They enjoy grabbing a pastry and sitting in the park. They bring their dogs, their kids. It's the old world mentality of buying your food fresh daily."

The bakers of Boule buy their butter and milk fresh from Guernsey Farms Dairy on Novi Road. Even though the price of flour has tripled in the last 18 months, quality ingredients are essential.

It's just one of many positive actions that Alex inspired. The book details others — from the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life in West Bloomfield, to her eldest's brothers decision to donate a kidney to a child in need.

DO GOOD DEEDS
The Grahams hope When One Door Closes, with its inspirational quotes, Alex's journal entries and "life lessons" taught through personal stories, will inspire readers to "go out and make the world a better place."

"We're Jewish and there is an expression that comes to mind — repairing the world — tikkun olam," Susie explained.

"Repairing the world could be picking up trash," Bill added. "It could be smiling to a person who hasn't had a smile. It could be Habitat for Humanity. It's anything to make the world a better place."

"It's amazing what things beget. I think of our Relay for Life when it started with seven teams. And then some people that were there to watch the first year were on our team the next year. And then they started their own team and the year after that one of their members started their own team," he said.

"From little acts, you get people to take other acts to elevate their lives. It's about elevating their lives."

FIGHT FOR THE CAUSE
Susie, who took comfort reading inspirational books after her daughter's death, including works by Harold Kushner, author of When Bad Things Happen to Good People. His ideas resonated with her and inspired the couple to become involved in Make-A-Wish, the American Cancer Society and other causes.

"When you lose someone, the parents that do the best are the ones that fight back," Bill explained. "If you have a child that died of Cystic Fibrosis, get involved in the Cystic Fibrosis Society. Between Make-A-Wish and the American Cancer Society, it has given us power over what we had no control over."

Although Susie thought about writing her own book for several years, it didn't seem possible until Saylor walked into her stationery and gift store three years ago. He wanted to place his own book there on consignment, but avidly listened to her story about Alex.

GETTING STARTED
Susie, now retired from her business, discussed the book with Saylor over coffee.

"He said it sounded like something he'd like to get involved in," Susie recalled. "I loved that idea that he didn't know anything about it. I don't think he knew anything about the PSA."

Saylor interviewed dozens of Alex's friends, relatives and acquaintances, choosing about 80 personal stories, inspirations quotes and journal entries. Each brief chapter contains a life lesson.

"You can pick up the book and get something out of just a chapter or two," said Bill, who likens the work to a tapestry. "I've had many people say they like the bite-sized pieces. He did that by design."

The book title comes from a quote by Alexander Graham Bell: "When one door closes, another opens; but we often look so long and so regretfully upon the closed door that we do not see the one which has opened for us."

Danyelle's a triplex, but offers features of individual home

Triplexes are becoming extremely popular with landlords, as the cost of construction is less expensive. It also makes sense that there would be extra money with one more residence and would provide more housing. The Danyelle (407-52) has the advantage over a number of tri-plex plans in that each of these units has a single car garage on the front.

The two outside units each have 922 square feet of living space. There are two bedrooms, one of which is the master bedroom. It has a large walk-in closet and its own private sink and toilet.

The living room and the dining room run lengthwise of the modular and can be used as two rooms or incorporated into one great room. Because these units are only two bedrooms, it provides a larger area for use as a living/dining room. It also provides an area off the kitchen for each unit to have its own washer and dryer.

The kitchen has a good amount of counter and cabinet space. There is a walkway completely through the kitchen area into the utility and on into the garage. This makes unloading groceries an easier and dryer task. The utility room contains more cabinets and a long folding table along with the water heater for this unit.

The middle unit is slightly larger than the outer two with 958 square feet. The two bedrooms and the bathrooms are enlarged to provide more space. This unit is laid out opposite of the two outer units. The living/dining room area is on the left with the bedrooms on the right. With this arrangement, it provides an open courtyard effect between the two units that are facing each other.

The two units on the right have the bedrooms back to back with a soundboard between. The middle and left units have a shared living/dining room wall, which also has been designed with soundboard.

These units are ideal for a young couple starting out with only one child or with no children. The units are the size of a small home and have all the amenities that an individual home would have.

For a study plan of the DANYELLE (407-42), send $15 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 or call (800) 562-1151. Be sure to specify plan name and number. Compact disks, with search functions are free of charge, to help you search our portfolio for your dream home ($5 shipping and handling will apply). Or you may order or search online at www.ldiplans.com. Save 15 percent on construction plans using the code (LOE48) online, mailing, or calling (800) 562-1151.

North Star Home Lending will present a seminar series, "Everything you always wanted to know about today's mortgage market, but were to afraid to ask." In a free 10-part seminar series, North Star Home Lending will present industry leaders to address topics such as: how to qualify for a mortgage; where are home values going; how to lower your property taxes; getting the most out of your home; specialized financing including renovation, investment, and second home purchases

"We have been proud to support our community," said Bruce Rosenblat, president. "We appreciate being able to give back to our communities in this time of confusion. We are strong advocates of professional mortgage banking and unfortunately incorrect information is readily available. We feel that it is important to provide current and potential homeowners the ability speak with and learn from experts."

Each seminar will feature a 60-minute presentation by an industry expert on the highlighted subject with a 30-minute question and answer period following. Refreshments will be available.

The seminar series kicks off on Thursday, Aug. 7, at the Bingham Farms location with "How To Qualify for a Mortgage" at 7 p.m. and at the Taylor location on Thursday, Aug. 14, with "The Benefits of Government Lending" also at 7 p.m.

The seminar series will continue on the first and second Thursday of each month with a new topic. For additional information and or to RSVP, contact either (248) 594-9300 or (313) 827-0990. North Star Home Lending may also be contacted by e-mail at info@northstar-homelending.com.
