Mohamed Afify is reopening the former LaShish as LaSharm.

Vacancies continue to plague prominent shopping plaza

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Back in March, things were looking good for the Centre Village Plaza: tenants were in place and the aging church that sat north of the plaza had been demolished.

Then, the popular Middle Eastern restaurant chain, La Shish, closed its doors around metro Detroit leaving a prominent spot open in Centre Village, which sits near the southwest corner of Ford and Canton Center roads.

Now, nearly eight months later, another eatery, La Sharm, is set to take La Shish's place, but two additional restaurants, CiCi's Pizza and Mariachi Restaurant, have closed. their doors, leaving noticeable vacan- same chefs," he said, adding that

The company that owns the plaza, Stuart Frankel Development Company, was saturated with inquiries immediately following La Shish's closure and didn't expect the space to be vacant for too long, but Darren Frankel says the economy began to weigh in.

"Take a look around," he said, adding that the company is "very relieved" about La Sharm, which is expected to open this weekend.

La Sharm owner Mohamed Afify of Troy had no affiliation with La Shish, but said his menu will reflect roughly 90 percent of what they offered.

"We're not connected, but we'll have the same food and some of the

he hopes to woo the former eatery's loyal customers. "I think we'll do good."

Debbie Barns, the office manager of Sharper Vision, which is located inside Centre Village, said she is thrilled about La Sharm's arrival.

"I hope it helps the plaza," she said, adding that the development has had its share of comings and goings in the last several years. "Gateway Computers is gone, Dearborn Music is gone and now CiCi's is gone."

The buffet-style pizzeria shut its doors less than two months ago and an orange sticker dated Sept. 23 from the township's ordinance department has been placed on a window. The sticker warns that all signs must be removed from the space.

"Dozens of people a day go there" thinking it's still open, Barns said.

"There was no announcement." Mariachi, which opened in May 2007, was the brainchild of Angel Silva Gomez. The Puerto Vallarta native opened the restaurant with his wife, Jennifer, and later created another spot in Plymouth, Mariachi

Dos. Both restaurants are now closed. With vacant spaces on both sides of La Sharm, Afify said he is optimistic about the future.

"I'm happy here," he said, noting that the owners of La Shish had left much of the space's ornate dining area in place. "We are going to see how it goes."

Hundreds of kids show up for annual Trick or Treat Parade

BY TIFFANY L. PARKS OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Thousands of costumed little ones took over Summit on the Park Thursday for the annual Trick or Treat Parade.

In case you missed it, there was a hippie, a spider, a blue M&M, a couple bottles of ketchup, a karate champ, Batman, a New England Patriot, a baby chicken, bumble bees and several Oompa-Loompas.

"This is what it's all about," said Leisure Services Director Ann Conklin as children and their parents snaked through 17 candy stations at the Summit.

About 2,000 children age 10 and under were expected at the event and less than an hour after the parade began, the kids had formed a line that extended outside the building, where a juggler, disc jockey and pair dressed as salt and pepper shakers entertained the crowd.

While they waited, some kids adjusted their masks and the mother of one princess gave her daughter's perfect

Mock vote gets Tonda students involved in election

BY TONY BRUSCATO OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Students at Tonda Elementary will be holding their own presidential election Monday, the results of which may be a precursor to the Tuesday, Nov. 4 general election.

And, like any other voter, 9-year-old Colton Borke of Canton Township has the facts to make an informed decision on who he wants for president.

"I know (John) McCain has seven kids and (Barack) Obama has two," said Colton, a Tonda fourth-grader. "I think I'll vote for McCain ... but I don't know why."

The school's Library Media Specialist, Donna Sarrach, declared this the Year of the President at Tonda. Each week during library time Sarrach has discussions with the K-5 students about the presidential election, the civic responsibilities of a U.S. citizen and helped each to register to vote. District voters asked to approve two ballot measures

BY PEGGY WALSH-SARNECKI GANNETT NEWS SERVICE

Voters in the Van Buren Public Schools district will be asked Tuesday to approve a millage for a new Belleville High School and changes in a millage passed in 1998 to pay for improvements to other schools.

The Belleville-area district serves about 6,580 students and has nine K-12 schools and three specialty schools. The district boundaries include the southwest portion of Canton Township.

The new high school would cost up to $79 million and raise taxes by 2.98 mills. On a home with a taxable value of $100,000, that would be $298

The proposal for the 1998 millage would reduce that millage 0.13 mills, to 1.13 mills.
The owner of a home with a taxable value of $100,000 would save $13 per year.

Taxable value is half or less than a house's market value.

The new high school would be built in stages on the site of the current school. Only the music wing, auditorium and cafeteria would remain. Those areas were built in the 1990s, and reusing them will save an estimated $8.5 million in construction costs. The rest of the school was built in 1926 and renovated following a fire in 1956. Students would be moved into the new building as each section is completed.

rized to build two elementary schools, Edgemont an Rawsonville, and add med centers and gyms to Elwell Haggerty elementary school However, since the millage passed, property values in school district have increase

The new school would add about 132,000 square feet and hold about 150 more students. It would have 24 more classrooms and a media center almost double in size, plus more gym space and an enlarged pool.

The sinking fund millage originally passed in 1998 at 1.28 mills and was authorized to build two elementary schools, Edgemont and Rawsonville, and add media centers and gyms to Elwell and Haggerty elementary schools. However, since the millage passed, property values in the school district have increased. The millage has generated a surplus of $4.6 million that is not needed for the original purpose and continues to generate revenue that can't be used for anything other than the projects already completed.

"When they calculated this back in 1998, they calculated it on the tax that was being collected from property back then," said Paul Henning, district communications specialist.

"Over the last 10 years, our property values have gone up."

The district is proposing lowering the millage and changing the purpose of the sinking fund, so the surplus and other revenue generated can be used for repairs.

"It's a win-win situation," said Kelly Owen of Belleville, who has children in the second, fifth and seventh grades.

The bonds were refinanced at a lower interest rate two years ago and can't be paid off until 2015.

McNamara Has Not Delivered!

THE TRUTH FROM THE DESK OF TOM YACK

October 31, 2008

Dear Friends,

I am writing you to address the issue of our roads. Our current commissioner Kevin McNamara claims to have $23 million coming to Canton for new roads. This just is not true. He is using projections through the year 2030. This is misleading at best! McNamara clearly has not delivered.

Sincerely, Tom YackCanton Township Supervisor

The TRUTH on a couple more troubling issues:

Canton Township has sent $8.5 million to the County over the past 12 years in a recreation millage, and $7.9 million has been given to other communities. Detroit sent $20 million and received $31 million back. Did Detroit get our $7.9 million?

No Kwame endorsement

In the interest of accuracy, I am writing in response to Mr. Roesers' Oct. 23 letter to the editor in which he erroneously claimed that I solicited former Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick's endorsement of my candidacy for 35th District judge. I can only assume that he made an honest mistake considering the fact that I am endorsed by Wayne County Prosecutor Kym Worthy, who as we all know successfully prosecuted Mr. Kilpatrick's case with the utmost class and dignity. As a district court prosecutor I couldn't be more proud to have the endorsements and support of Ms. Worthy, the state's chief law enforcement official, Attorney General Mike Cox, and over 60 Judges.

For the past 25 years I have served in the United States military, prepared to defend the rights and freedoms of this nation's citizens. Among these is our right to support a political candidate of our own choosing.

It saddens me that someone would steal yard signs in apparent disagreement with a differing political position. This despicable act performed in the dark of the night is as un-American as anything I can imagine.

To the persons who have been steeling Senator McCain signs, please stop and think about the terrible price he and so many of our nation's heroes have paid to protect the rights of every citizen.

The only race drawing any interest this year is the race for treasurer. Incumbent in his position for 32 years, faced 10 opponents in the Democratic primary, including a strong bid by county Commissioner Phil Cavanagh of Redford.

On Tuesday, Wojtowicz faces Plymouth, former Wayne County auditor general.

As county auditor, Dunleavy released a scathing audit of the Treasurer's Delinquent Tax Revolving Fund in 2004. In the audit, Dunleavy says that Wojtowicz would not cooperate and supply information. Dunleavy raised questions about the department's accounting practices, awarding of no-bid contracts and other "irregularities." Wojtowicz said the audit was politically motivated and procedures have improved.

Panel argues that money, interest groups undermine judiciary

BY HUGH GALLAGHER STAFF WRITER

When Edward Thomas ran for the Michigan Supreme Court in 2000, he estimates that almost $20 million dollars was spent in a campaign for three court seats.

"Why would anyone spend that much money for a Supreme Court justice seat that pays approximately $165,000 a year," he said during a forum Wednesday at Schoolcraft College. "It's because of the decisions that are made that benefit certain people."

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, November 2, 2008

The role of money and outside influence on the court were the topic of "A Fair and Impartial Michigan Supreme Court," sponsored by the League of Women Voters Oakland Area

The forum comes when incumbent Justice Clifford Taylor faces Judge Diane Hathaway in another expensive and politically charged judicial campaign for the Supreme Court. State Rep. Paul Condino (D-Southfield), chair of the House Judiciary Committee, was moderator for a threeperson panel: Thomas, a former Wayne County Circuit judge and currently Wayne County corporate counsel: Brian Dickerson, a columnist for the Detroit Free Press; and Rich Robinson, executive director of the Michigan Campaign Finance Network.

Michigan has an unusual method for selecting Supreme Court justices. Candidates run on a non-partisan ballot and can run as independents. but the political parties also nominate candidates for the courts. In this year's election Taylor is endorsed by the Republican party, Hathaway by the Democratic Party. Justices serve an eight-year

When a seat becomes vacant, the governor appoints a justice without having to seek legislative approval. During his time in office, Gov. John Engler appointed four of the seven justices, creating a strongly conservative court.

Thomas ran with the endorsement and financial backing of the Democratic Party in his race against Justice Stephen Markman. Thomas and the other Democratic-endorsed candidates lost in that election.

"Each of us lost by the same percentage basis. I believe it was because of the incumbent status, a tremendous advantage," he said.

Incumbents are identified by their title on the ballot.

Edwards said there are pros and cons for both appointing and electing justices. "I think back to one particular governor I had great faith in and that was Gov. Milliken," he said. "The way he went about picking judges for various courts was impartial, well thought out and fairminded. Some governors, and I'm not talking about anyone in particular, come in with agendas and pick judges that will follow what their agenda is and that's not good for the public in my estimation."

Brian Dickerson was less reticent about naming a governor with an agenda. He said he first realized that things were changing during the 1998 court election. He said he attended a Republican fund-raiser during which then Gov. John Engler said tort reform passed in the legislature and reinforced by conservative judges "made it much safer to do business in Michigan.

Dickerson said Engler saw judicial reform as an economic development tool. He said Michigan citizens have been adversely affected by the conservative 4-3 decisions of the current court.

"As citizens of Michigan you've all been a party to many, many state Supreme Court cases, and I will argue that, sadly, you've been on the losing side in many cases," he

Dickerson cited three cases that came before the court in which the court ruled against individuals and environmental interests in favor of business interests.

Rich Robinson's organization keeps track of campaign financing. He said large amounts of money are given to judicial campaigns "not for selfless reasons."

He said the 1998 campaign was the first "million dollar" Supreme Court campaign.

"The game changer was when different groups weighed in on the campaigns. We had not experienced these expenditures in past elections," he said.

He said one major change was the advent of "issue ads" in which groups advocate on a certain issue without exhorting a vote for or against a candidate, but strongly implying a positive or negative view of the candidate.

He said millions are spent in this way and the contributions are "off the book." He said many of these ads are anonymously funded.

Robinson and his organization are advocating full disclosure on who is paying for these issue ads, similar to requirements in federal elections; setting standards for when a justice has to recuse him or herself from a case where a major contributor is a party; and public funding for judicial races to avoid these conflicts.

"This is not a liberal or a conservative issue, this is an issue of impartial justice," he

He added, "I would say that the net effect of all of this, including the campaign that is going on today, is to undermine trust and confidence in a fair and impartial judiciary and we need to address this or have a further erosion in rule of law in this state."

LaJov knows the Canton community - its people, its strengths, and its challenges — as well as anyone. In addition to representing Canton in Lansing, he served for 13 years as a Canton trustee and has been involved in the community for many

In Lansing, LaJoy has been an active sponsor of bills, fought government waste and pushed for greater transparency of government spending. He also is the former chair of the House Transportation Committee, which means he has a clear understanding of issues impacting our roadways, something of great importance to Canton residents.

When you add up all LaJoy's experience, it points towards him being an effective supervisor. We highly recommend Phil LaJoy for Canton Township Supervisor.

Current Canton Clerk Terry Bennett and fellow Republican Melissa McLaughlin, who is running for township treasurer, are both running unopposed and will fill the other two full time positions once the new Canton Board of Trustees takes office after the election.

Here are our picks for Canton Township trustee

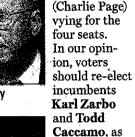

Canton voters have an interesting slate of candidates to choose from for Canton trustee. There are four Republican candidates (John Anthony, Todd Caccamo, Pat Williams and Karl Zarbo), one Democrat incumbents Karl Zarbo Caccamo, as well as elect newcomers Pat Williams and John Anthony. Caccamo

(Syed Taj), and has consistently fought to rein in the cost of township government, and he has displayed independence and the ability to speak out on issues. We think Caccamo, impacting the Canton community and government. With his background in commercial real estate management, he has provided an influential voice when it comes to development issues, particularly along Ford Road.

Anthony, a township resident since 1973, spent 25 years as a special agent with the FBI before retiring in 1993. Anthony brings a ton of experience to the table, especially when it comes to public safety. In fact, his main goal is to make sure Canton's Public Safety Department is wellfunded and maintains its excellent reputation. Williams. who has lived in Canton for 23 years, seems to have been groomed for the position of trustee. He is a past president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, board member of the Canton Lions Club, and a graduate of the Leadership Canton program. He has also served on Canton's Board of Review. He is also a small business owner and an accounts manager with Automotive Components Holdings, LLC, which is a Ford Motor Co. subsidiary.

Plakas is best choice for district court

Voters will have to choose between two strong candidates to replace retiring 35th District Court

Plakas

Judge John MacDonald. Jim Plakas and Joe Barone were the top two vote-getters during the August primary election, and now face each other for the six-year term, which pays $139,272. Voters can select only one candidate. We believe that candidate should be Jim Plakas.

Plakas seems to have been training for this particular job most of his career. He's been a prosecutor, a city attorney and a defense attorney. He's handled all manner of cases in a variety of courtrooms.

He comes from an experienced legal background, has a sound judicial temperament and has the backing of many

Todd LaJoy our pick for 21st House seat

Current Canton Township Trustee Todd LaJoy is running to succeed his father, Phil LaJoy, as state representative for the 21st District, which encompasses a large portion of Canton, as well as Van Buren Township and the city of Belleville. Voters would be wise to select Todd LaJoy, who is running against Democrat Dian Slavens and independent candidate Brian Cronan.

Having served as a trustee on the Canton Board of Trustees for four years, LaJoy is the only candidate in this race with legislative experience, and he is also a small business owner both attributes that will benefit him in Lansing. LaJoy, 35, also has good ideas that he plans to take to Lansing, including ways to help new small businesses succeed by giving them tax breaks for several years. He also says the new Michigan Business Tax needs to be reformed to help businesses succeed. He is also committed to reforming what he believes is a bloated state government.

Lajoy, who is a past president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, also has the right temperament to reach across the aisle and work with Democrats to help fix a

When you look at depth of experience, knowledge, and ideas of all three candidates, it is clear 21st District voters would be best served to select Todd LaJoy as their state representative.

Corriveau earns our endorsement

There were more than a few raised eyebrows two years ago when Democrat Marc Corriveau of Northville won a state House seat, the 20th District, which has been a Republicans stronghold. His re-election should come as far less a surprise.

Corriveau

Corriveau, who defeated Northville Township Supervisor Mark Abbo two years ago, faces Republican Jerry Vorva of Plymouth, a former 20th District representative, in the Nov. 4 general election. Neither had a primary challenge.

The district includes both Plymouths (city and township), the Northvilles (city and township), the City of Wayne constituents in mind, and we believe he's done that. He'd barely gotten his seat warm when he and other legislators had to tackle issues such as removal of the Single Business Tax (he believed eliminating it without a suitable replacement already in hand was a mistake) and the huge deficit in the state budget. Say what you want about his decisions, but Corriveau took into account what his constituents wanted when he cast his votes. And one of the things we like best about Corriveau is his willingness after those votes to put himself out there to explain his thought process.

Corriveau has the ability to work without regard to party lines. He talks regularly to the elected officials in his district, many of whom are Republican. and most of whom speak well

We believe Marc Corriveau has earned re-election in the Nov. 4 general election.

McNamara gets our nod for county commission

The race for the Wayne County Commission's 11th District seat is one of the more intriguing local match-ups on the Nov. 4 ballot. It pits incumbent Democrat Kevin McNamara, who is serving his first term but has been around the political scene his entire life (his father was former Wayne County Executive and Livonia Mayor Ed McNamara), against Republican Steve Johnson, who has never held political office, but is also well connected (his stepfather is developer Glen Shaw, who also owns the Wayne County Appraisal Company).

Both men bring plenty of positives to the race. However, we believe the voters of the 11th District, which encompasses Belleville, Canton Township, Sumpter Township, Van Buren Township, and the city of Wayne, would be best served to re-elect Kevin McNamara.

McNamara, 51, has lived in Canton for 12 years. The former Schoolcraft College trustee serves as vice chair of the Commission's public safety, judiciary and homeland security committee, and is also a member of several other committees. He has fought hard to make sure Canton gets its fair share in road funding, something of great importance to Canton residents. He is the first to admit he would like to see Canton get more, but he is fighting to get a piece of a shrinking pie with dozens of other communities.

The main reason we support McNamara, however, is his ability to navigate the political waters of Wayne County government. He knows how things get done. An example is the recent budget battle with County Executive Bob Ficano, in which McNamara and some other commissioners were able to spare a number of layoffs that would have had a negative impact on western Wayne County.

OBSERVER STAFF WRITER

Following 47 minutes and 55 seconds of goal-line-to-goal-line action, Friday night's Division 1 playoff game between Plymouth and Canton was decided by the oldest football practice ritual known to man: the tip drill.

With Canton clinging to a 35-28 lead, the clock winding down and Plymouth setting up shop at the Chief 31, Canton's David Wilcox tipped a Matt Skubik pass into the arms of diving teammate Nick Sweda's arms at the 7-yard line with 0:05 left.

The interception — Sweda's second in as many weeks — put a cap on a Halloween night encounter in which electric plays were good and plenty.

"That could have been the last game for the seniors, so we had to play our hearts out," said Sweda. "We were in a cover four, my man went out, I backed up deeper than their deepest, (Wilcox) tipped it and I caught it. It feels great to "Plymouth's a great team and we knew they'd play well tonight. We just came out on top at the end."

Canton's 35-28 triumph propelled the 9-1 Chiefs into Friday's 7 p.m. District final at home against Saline (7-3), which nipped Ann Arbor Pioneer, 37-36

"Our defense played so hard all night, it was nice to finally get a break," said Canton coach Tim Baechler. "We've been talking about creating turnovers - stripping the ball, getting deflections - and we got a big one at the end tonight."

Plymouth closed its season with a 6-4 mark.

touchdown pass and some solid defense to build a 21-0 lead less than 14 minutes into the game. But the 'Cats kept clawing back before eventually knotting the game at 28-all when Terrance Guthridge scored a 4-yard TD on a toss sweep with 5:38 left.

"When we were down 21-0, we kept telling the kids that there's a lot of time left and not to quit," said Plymouth coach Mike Sawchuk. "They never quit.

"Tonight showed why football is such a great game and why you can learn so much about life by playing Guthridge was a one-man wrecking crew for the Plymouth offense, gaining 181 yards on 35 carries. Half of the elusive senior's yards came on a 93-yard scoring sprint that closed the Wildcats' deficit to 21-7 with 10:39 left in the first half.

"Terrance is our bread and butter," said Sawchuk. "You have to run the football against Canton if you want to have a chance. You have to take time off the clock and keep the ball away from them, and I thought we did a pretty good job of that."

Canton's balanced, run-dominated offense churned out 345 yards compared to Plymouth's 251.

Junior fullback Adam Payter led all Chief rushers with 109 yards on 13 carries. Sophomore Davion Stackhouse netted 84 on 13 runs while junior quarterback Kevin Delapaz ran for 64 yards and passed for 78.

Salem cross country third

The Salem girls cross country team placed third in the Lakeland Freshman-Sophomore Invitational, which was held Oct. 28 at the Lakeland Educational Campus.

Milford won the event with 104 points, followed by Pinckney (120) and Salem, which compiled 127 points.

Two Salem runners medaled: Victoria Tripp, who placed ninth in 20:30, and Kelly Kerwin, who crossed 12th in 20:34.

Also contributing to the Salem cause were: Phoebe VanHoof (28th in 21:14), Allison Walker (31st in 21:24), Autumn Burin (47th in 22:01), Amanda Beyer (53rd in 22:16) and Mackenzie Rogers (71st in 22:45).

Parents of eighth-grade girls looking for role models for their young daughters would benefit from finding the blueprint Ling and Determan have etched throughout their fouryear stay at Salem.

Both two-sport athletes - Ling plays tennis along with running cross country while Determan excels in cross and track - the seniors have managed to accumulate 4.0-plus grade-point averages along with earning National Merit Scholar semifinalist status - just two of 15 Salem students to do so - by finishing in the 99th percentile in a standardized test taken their junior year.

"I honestly don't know how they do it all," said Salem coach Dave Gerlach. "You can stereotype most kids that run cross country as intelligent and self-motivated, but these girls are the extreme. You have to be very, very, very motivated or you wouldn't be able to do what they do. They question a lot of things we do at practice - not in an unrespectful way, but in a curious way, like Why do we do it this way and not that way?' They'd both make great coaches some day.'

The key to Ling's multi-leveled success is organization.

"As dorky as it sounds, I wouldn't be able to do all this without my planner," she said, smiling. "I have so much going on, I need to write everything down.

"To keep up with everything. I don't get to hang out with my friends as often as I'd like and I probably don't get as much sleep as I need, but I love everything I'm doing. I wouldn't change anything."

Judging by her resume, a future in politics may be on the horizon for Ling. She's president of the National Honor Society and vice president of Salem's Student Council.

"I like being involved," she said. "I don't know if I'd like to get into politics, but I definitely wish I was born three months earlier so that I could vote next week."

When tennis — the sport she's been competing in the longest - got switched to the spring last year, it opened up a door to cross country in the fall for the personable Ling, who has registered a personal-

best 5K time of 20:36.4

trails in the past two years, she readily admits.

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, November 2, 2008

"If you would have told me two years ago that I'd be able to run eight miles without stopping, I'd have said you need to be on some strong medication," she said, laughing. "Our coach does a great job of coming up with a training calendar so that we can all improve like we do.

"I've never experienced so much pain in my life since I've started to run cross country. It's taught me to push through no matter what."

Believe it or not, Determan is as busy as Ling. Her schedule is stocked with AP classes, she's involved in student council and NHS, and she runs every day.

"For me, running is a stressreliever," she said. "When I have a million things going on, I need to take at least a halfhour a day -more during cross country season — to run so that I can get my mind off of things."

How does Determan get through the "wall" that crops up at times for all long-distance runners?

"What helps me when I'm racing in meets is trying to stay up with other runners," she revealed. "In practice, I tell myself the more it hurts now, the less it will hurt in the actual races.

"Running is applicable to the situations we face in life. We have a joke here that says for every 100 crappy days of running, you'll have three amazing days. That's the way it is in life, too. Everybody will have a few rough days, and then the next day they'll find a $10 bill on the sidewalk." Heading into this weekend, Determan's name was listed 10th on Salem's all-time record board thanks to a 19:44.8 she ran at the Haslett Invitational. There's a good chance she may get bumped off the board, however, by one of her teammates who competed at Saturday's Division 1 state meet on a relatively flat course.

"I have bittersweet feelings about it," Determan said. "Above all, I want to see her do really well at the state meet, so I hope she beats my time in that way. But it sure would be nice to stay on the board, too."

Between them, Determan and Ling have earned just one non-A grade in their threeplus years at Salem, which leads one to ask: How to they do it?

Wildcats post impressive win on 'Senior Night'

Plymouth's volleyball team closed its regular season with a bang Thursday when it defeated Walled Lake Central in four games on "Senior Night."

In a match that featured close scores throughout, the Wildcats won 25-23. 15-25, 26-24 and 25-24, to improve their record to 17-16-4 heading into next week's Division 1 District tournament.

"We started off pretty slow — maybe it was the jitters of 'Senior Night' - but the girls pulled it together in some pretty close games," said Plymouth coach Kelly McCausland. "I was proud of our seniors for refusing to lose.

"The underclassmen also stepped it up by putting the ball to the floor during the tight games. The whole team contributed to the win, but I am still looking for our offensive and defensive puz-

Canton's three-game sweep of Howell Thursday night improved the Chiefs' record to 33-8, placing them just one win from the school's single-season wins record total of 34, which was set in 1997 - head coach Jen Barnes' senior year.

The Chiefs won 25-15, 25-17 and 25-19 thanks to a versatile effort from Jordan Kielty, who racked up 23 kills, four blocks, 17 digs and three aces.

"I know we've been in and out of our line-up in the last few weeks because of injuries, but we're back to our regular line-up and it started to look comfortable tonight," said Barnes. "We served aggressively and played strong at the fluke, though, because Jeff is a very talented bowler who not only is very good, but had an unusual streak of "hot" shoot-His game scores were: 300-

236-300-290 the following

Jeff had shot one 800 previously, and the second 300 game was his ninth perfect game. To take another perspective, almost every ball rolled must be a strike.

He had 33 strikes in the 864 set. Jeff started out quite young, in fact he was a thirdgrader when they had an afterschool bowling program for the kids.

His Dad, Jeff Brown, Sr., gave him good coaching and later on he had advanced work with Michelle Mullen, Aleta Sill and Lisa Bishop from the pro shop at Country Lanes in Farmington Hills.

Asked about his equipment, Jeff said, "I use a 15-pound Ebonite — 'The One' — which I think is a terrific ball. They came out with it a couple of years ago, dropped it last year, and just started making them again."

Jeff is hoping his hot streak stays with him a while longer, as he has a shot at bowling with the pros when they come to Taylor Lanes starting on

Nov. 9, as he won a spot to bowl in the qualifier, a possible entry after winning the sweeper at Taylor.

Jeff says, "I'm not thinking about turning pro right now. My real job is with Wal-Mart."

for adults and $10 for youth bowlers 17 and under. This has been the "Pet" Project for Laura Zain, who has been dedicated to the cause for many years and has raised a lot of money for this worthy cause.

The squad times are: 9:30 a.m., 1 p.m., 4:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. with the special Pet Cadet squad for youngsters during the 9:30 a.m. time slot in which bumpers will be available for the little ones in which a parent must be present.

Registration forms are read-attention to post-championship medal ceremonies, but it was hard to ignore the one that took place following last Saturday's Salem-Saline boys soccer Regional title match.

It was hard to ignore because it seemed to take nearly as the long as the actual game, which the Hornets won in overtime.

After lining up in numerical order about 15 yards from the spot where Saline's athletic director was handing out the medals — and with the disappointed Salem players looking on in the 30-degree late-October chill — one by one, the 25 Hornets walked at a snail's pace to retrieve their hardware in what appeared to be an

"It looked to me like they were trying to rub it in our faces," someone very close to the Salem soccer team told me moments after the incident.

Now, if I'm a sophomore or junior in Salem's soccer program, I'm going to lock that entire scene in my memory bank.

And if my team was fortunate enough to face Saline in next year's state tournament, I would unlock the memory bank minutes before the game and -BAMM! - I'menergized with a bonus dose of motivation.

And if my team won, I would encourage all my teammates who remembered what happened the previous year to jog when they picked up their medals because — as every player's mother has reminded them since birth – two wrongs don't make a right.

■ On a personal note, I was a little apprehensive about signing up my 7-year-old son to play tackle football this fall.

I wasn't worried about him getting hurt as much as I was with him being overwhelmed by the four-days-a-week practice/game routine, the rigorous (for a 7-year-old) conditioning and all the other demands that go along with playing tackle football. I didn't want him getting turned off to the sport at such a young age, and then never playing again. Much to my delight, the opposite happened. He loved it. He made sure he had his pads and practice uniform on every day 45 minutes before the start of practice - even though we live just a 15-minute drive from the field.

And the other day he said something I never thought I'd hear come out of his 7-yearold lips: "Dad, you know what my favorite parts of practice are? wide-base blocking and form tackling.

While he may never win the Heisman trophy, it appears my son has acquired the same love as I have for the best character-building sport known to man, and for this. I thank his Plymouth-Canton Steelers junior freshmen coaching staff — Paul Hult, Harry Walkley, Rick Convertino, Jason Kaye and Bob Lynn — five guys who obviously understand how to introduce a 7-year-old kid to football.

impressive possession came up pointless when Canton senior cornerback Donnie Barlow swooped in from the left edge to block Kyle Brindza's 47-yard field goal attempt.

Three plays later, Delapaz lofted a soft pass to Kiere Daniels, who raced 65 yards down the sideline to paydirt to give Canton a 7-0 advantage.

Canton's fans got a treat from a trick play two minutes later when Satish Subramanian fielded a booming Brindza punt at his 15 before handing the ball to Arron Boudreaux at the 17. Following a crushing block by Wilcox, Boudreaux sped 83 yards to the end zone to put the Chiefs up 14-0.

"We've practiced that play all year and we've tried to run it in games, but a lot of times the punt will either go out of bounds or it will drop short," Baechler said. "When he boomed the punt, I thought, 'Here's our chance.' The blocks were set up well and Arron made a great run."

The Chiefs extended their lead to 21-0 on their next drive (five plays, 44 yards) when Delapaz scored on a 6-yard keeper.

Plymouth cut its halftime deficit to 21-14 thanks to Guthridge's end-to-end gallop and a 44-yard fumble return for a TD by senior cornerback Kelly Waite.

Payter busted loose for a 47-yard TD run on a fullback trap play with 7:40 left in the third quarter to double the Chiefs' lead to 28-14.

The Wildcats answered on their next drive, a 13-play, 60-yard doozy, that was climaxed by a 1-yard TD dive by Guthridge to close to within 28-21 with 23 seconds remaining in the third quarter. A leaping 19-yard catch by Zach Hamed on a fourth-and-6 play kept the drive alive.

A Plymouth specialteams unit made a huge play moments later to set up the tying touchdown. On fourthand-5 from the Chief 32, Canton punter Dan Stoney pulled the ball down and ran, however, he was stopped well short of a first down thanks to a heads-up tackle by Tony Rhodes.

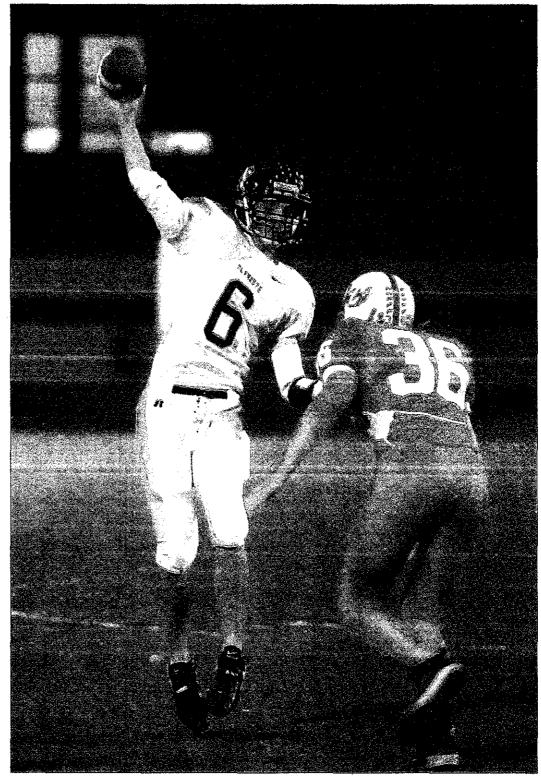

Nine plays later, Guthridge scored on the toss sweep to even the game at 28-all. Plymouth converted another pivotal fourth-down play on the game-tying drive when Ronnie Goble hauled in a 16-yard spiral from Skubik on fourth-and-8 from the Canton 34.

After Brindza drilled the

After Brindza drilled the ensuing kick-off into the end zone, Canton constructed a run-only, 11-play, 80-yard drive that ended with Delapaz's 1-yard sneak into the end zone. Stackhouse accounted for 38 yards on the drive, including a 20-yard run that took the ball to the Plymouth 39.

"We wanted to feature the left side of our line on that drive because that's where we have two seniors — Justin Sneddon and Todd Turfe," Baechler said. "Plus, we wanted to run away from (Plymouth linebacker) Ronnie Goble's side. He's a heckuva football player and he was causing us all kinds of problems over there."

Trailing 35-28, Plymouth took over on its 45 with 40 seconds left thanks to a strong

Lead can cause health problems in children

Lead exposure can cause serious and permanent damage to the health of young children that's why the Oakland County Health Division is trying to increase awareness. Most often children are poisoned by lead dust and lead paint in homes built before 1978. However, children can be exposed to lead by a number of household items and materials including toys, old painted furniture, glazed pottery, dirt and soil from flower pots, charcoal, and imported spices and food additives.

"While there is much recently publicity about toys, lead dust from house paint remains the main source of lead poising in children," said Kathy Forzley, manager/health officer of Oakland County Health Division. "The only way to be sure that a child does not have lead poisoning is to have them tested."

Lead can cause reading disabilities and attention and motor coordination problems in children. Signs of lead poisoning include tiredness, headaches or irritability. In most cases there are no obvious symptoms to indicate that the child has been exposed to dangerous lead Lead poisoning in children is preventable. Here are some tips to keep your kids safe.

Keep toys out of the child's mouth. Wash your child's hands, bottles, pacifiers, and toys often.

Look for and remove sources of lead in places your child lives and plays. Keep floors, window sills, blinds, and other surfaces dust and dirt free.

Throw recalled toys or items away, or return to the manufacturer as directed. For a complete product recall list, visit www.cpsc.gov.

rus line from Bunny Sanford's School of Dance kick up their heels Friday, Nov. 21, at Laurel Manor in Livonia. The nearly two dozen dancers, ages 15 to 19, perform in front of a silhouette of New York City, the theme this year.

Dance has always been popular as witnessed by the hundreds of little girls taking classes and performing in recitals locally, but lately more adults seem to be interested in a variety of styles thanks to the television hit, Dancing with the Stars. Last year's fund-raiser had just about everybody tapping their toes.

"Last year I set things up for the silent auction and had the opportunity to watch the dancers perform and it was just superb," said Patrick Beckley, vice president of the Livonia Symphony Society, the governing and fund-raising arm of the orchestra.

APPLAUSE, APPLAUSE

'The kick lines should bring as much applause as the tangos and cha chas last year. Dressed in gold shimmery costumes with tails for the chorus portion of the show, the young dancers change into bright red vests and shorts with bowler hats for the jazz section. The show is definitely up tempo with music selections ranging from Give My Regards to Broadway to Hello, Dolly and a Salute to the Big Bands. Angie Hahn directed and choreographed the dancers in the chorus line and Le Jazz Hot. Hahn has been teaching 21 years at the Livonia studio celebrating its 35th anniversary.

"It's a fantastic show," she said. "The chorus line production is like a Rockette-style number. It gives them the opportunity to do a professional show in front of an audience in case they want to continue on to become a professional dancer and it's a great chance to perform with the symphony and have live music.'

KEEPING IN SHAPE

In recent years, the Livonia Symphony has made an effort to reach out to the community just as Bunny Sanford and her students do. The dancers perform in local nursing homes. People of all ages love to watch them move to the beat of the music.

"Dance keeps them active, in shape. We have a lot of male dancers big into sports in high school, soccer, football," said Hahn. "It helps give them the coordination to excel at their sports. It gives them such a good base. There's a community spirit about them. A lot are on homecoming courts and in the Honor Society."

Nikki Fata isn't nervous about performing in front of the crowd since the dancers have been practicing for more than two months. The 16-year-old Westland girl has been taking classes

Holiday fair offers gifts that keep on giving

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN O&E STAFF WRITER

If you're looking to give something different for the holidays don't miss the Alternative Christmas Fair on Saturday, Nov. 15, at Hope Lutheran Church in Farmington Hills.

The show promises to be bigger and better than ever with 45 charities selling everything from jewelry to teddy bears, hand-carved items, food including soup and dessert mixes, and even chickens and goats. While fair goers can't take the animals home for a price they can help Heifer International provide food and income for families in need. All purchases at the fair keep on giving by supporting organizations including Make-A-Wish Foundation of Michigan, Haven, Donate Life Coalition, Detroit Rescue Mission, Special Olympics Michigan, and Lutheran Child and Family Services, to name a few.

Jessica Beamer of Farmington stresses the fair is an ecumenical event. St. Fabian Catholic Church in Farmington Hills is once again working with Hope Lutheran. Volunteers from both churches bake cookies for the fair.

"This is not a fund-raiser for either church but a gift of service for the community," said Beamer, fair coordinator. "In 35 hours of selling time over the last seven years we raised $150,000 for the charities. They leave with that money."

Beamer especially likes to shop at the event every year.

"I like to buy handmade gift bags to put my items in, gifts for teachers, school staff, piano teachers, the people in my life I like to honor," Beamer said. "For some charities you might leave with a card saying you bought a school kit going to a child around the world. I always call them double gifts. They're for someone but you're helping someone too.

"Last year M.I.N.D.S. (Mental Illness Needs Discussion) brought a professional photographer and took photos for Christmas cards,"

The children at the Boys & Girls Republic in Farmington Hills have been making jewelry for weeks to get ready for the fair. The nonprofit offers a group home setting for abused, neglected and troubled youth who would otherwise be in foster care.

"The kids sell the things they make themselves — candy babies filled with candy, pens with flowers on top, hairpieces," said Latisha Early, representative. "Once a week we do crafts. It's very therapeutic when they're very stressed and having a bad day. They enjoy being creative."

The fair gives Julie Connoyer an opportunity to meet people from other social service agencies. Connoyer is community outreach coordinator for Seedlings Braille Books for Children in Livonia. The nonprofit sells holiday greeting cards as well as Braille jewelry and books to provide low cost reading materials for blind children around the world. For $10, supporters receive a holiday tribute card informing the recipient a book has been inscribed in their name.

"People feel Braille is only for blind children. Our books tell children there is another reading medium out there besides print. We have cute holiday books this year, one with a hand puppet, and all of the books are in print and Braille," said Connoyer.

SISTER MARY HONORA BUZA, RSM

Sister of Mercy, Teacher (Farmington Hills, MI) - Sister Mary Honora Buza, RSM, a Sister of Mercy for 67 years, died on October 27, 2008 at McAuley Center, Farmington Hills. She was 86. She was born on February 7, 1922 in Hawks, Michigan, the youngest of 17 children of Joseph and Louise (Rant) Buza. She was named Elizabeth at her baptism in St. Dominic Church, Metz. After joining the Sisters of Mercy in Detroit in 1941 she received the name, Sister Mary Honora, and made perpetual vows on August 16, 1947. Sister Mary Honora earned a bachelor's degree from Mercy College of Detroit and a mas-ter's in elementary education from Notre Dame University. During her more than 30 years in Catholic elementary education, students in Howell, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Hazel Park, Bay City, Manistee, Temperance, Berkley, Cheboygan, Traverse City, Detroit, Posen, Dearborn, Wyoming and Rogers City, Michigan and Tucson, Arizona, knew Sister Mary Honora as a teacher who cared for them and who helped them to succeed. By 1975, health problems forced Sister Mary Honor to assume less physically demanding ministries as a teacher's aide, tutor and office assistant. In 1993 she moved to Mercy Bellbrook in Rochester Hills where she assisted other elderly persons as a companion and spiritual friend. In 2003, she retired to McAuley Center for a time of prayer and reflection. Sister Mary Honora is remembered for her gentle, generous spirit. In spite of numerous physical challenges she was always gracious and grateful. She enjoyed good conversation, reading, and a lively game of Scrabble. She is survived by many nieces and nephews and by the members of her Mercy community. A welcoming service took place on October 29, 2008 at McAuley Center, Farmington Hills, followed by a prayer service that evening. Mass of the Resurrection was celebrated on October 30, 2008 in ial at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield. McCabe Funeral Home, Farmington Hills, is in charge of arrangements. Memorial contributions may be made to the Sisters of Mercy Ministry Fund, 29000 Eleven Mile Road, Farmington Hills, MI 48336.

"Every semester she's given three options on what she wants to do and she chooses orchestra every time," said her mother Linda. "Miss Julia teaches kids how to play together. She makes it fun and picks engaging music. She challenges them."

Julia Kurtyka makes Bach fun. She's routinely on both sides of the baton not only conducting the two LYPM string ensembles, but performing with the Birmingham-Bloomfield

Symphony Orchestra. "LYPM gives them the opportunity to play in a group ensemble and have the camaraderie," said Kurtyka of Livonia. "They're not only playing their part but other people's parts and fitting their parts in."

"There are a lot of entertaining songs you can play with a group you can't play alone," added Rachel Martin, 12. of Northville.

Dave Lindenmuth can't believe the philharmonic students have never heard the haunting music or seen the classic thriller, Jaws so he's hosting a movie party at his Livonia home this month.

"It's going to give them the feel and flavor for the music and to socialize a bit," said Lindenmuth.

As LYPM president, Lindenmuth is doing everything possible to inspire students to pursue music studies. His own son, Danny, 12, became interested in strings through Livonia Public Schools. He now plays with Kurtyka's two

A total of 112 students participate in the various ensembles for strings and woodwinds. The only criteria is that musicians must have taken a minimum of one year of lessons on their instrument. Half way through the season on Jan. 31, and at the close on May 16, the young musicians show off their talents in concert.

"We have an audition for placement, but we don't typically reject anyone. If a kid comes in with a skill set he or she could end up in the philharmonic," said Lindenmuth.

Linda Ignagni started playing violin with the ensembles at age 10 and eventually went to college only to end up returning to help string players in the orchestras.

Ignagni, now a grandmother, is devoted to students in LYPM. She teaches privately and performs professionally with her Doree string quartet and the Southern Great Lakes Symphony Downriver.

"They were a major support in shaping who I am today," said Ignagni, LYPM strings specialist. "Students have gone on to become performers, teachers, doctors, lawyers, scientists. We have mentors, too, that help.'

Lijun Deng can't praise the organization enough. Her daughter Kelly, 6, has been playing since age 4.

"We love music, the whole family," said Deng of Livonia. "She's really enjoying music from very little. Violin is like a toy of hers.'

Jim Jonah has as much fun as his daughter Jessie, 9. He joined LYPM at the suggestion of Kurtyka who believes a child is more likely to continue playing if a parent does.

"I'm learning along with her. I'm the big kid in the orchestra," said Jonah of Highland.

While learning to perform as a group encourages teamwork, Wilkins says it also improves grades. "It's inspired them through music to be a better student," said Wilkins, who earned a bachelor of music degree from the University of Michigan and is working on his teaching certificate at Eastern Michigan University.

Help people to help animals

There's still time to help Tail Wagger's USA, a local animal charity, raise money Saturday, Nov. 8, at Woodland Lanes in Livonia. The cost for the Tail Wagger's Bowl is $25 per person and includes bowling, lunch or dinner, commemorative gift, and lots of prizes. Participants will get an opportunity to visit with four-legged benefactors, hear compelling rescue stories and talk to pet owners who have received assistance from Tail

Wagger's USA. Founder, Laura Zain of Livonia said that "with the tough economic situation that we are all in, it is with high hopes that any amount of money can be raised for the animals that are in need of assistance." Zain also stated that if donations are available, Tail Wagger's USA will provide pet food for families that are struggling financially because of job loss.

"We want people to know that we are here to give assistance and by providing food, pet owners will have one less thing to worry about," said Zain. "Pets need to stay with their owners during these times and we are here to help".

Tail Wagger's USA is committed to helping people help animals. The goal is to be able to support dedicated pet owners who are in need of assistance along with providing necessary funding for those animals in emergency situations.

ARTHRITIS AND AGING -THE ROLL OF PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

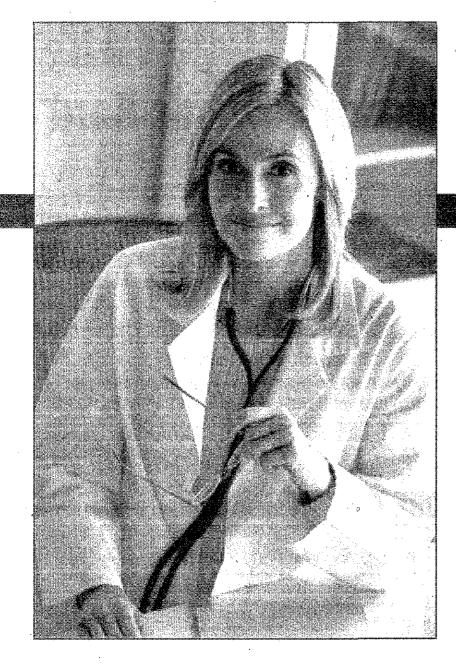

Measures meant to preserve health are not only for the young. In the area of arthritis, opportunities exist to prevent bone and joint damage even if you are age seventy, eighty or

The first preventive measure is remove all throw rugs from the floor. If the rug is beloved, hang it on a wall. Throw rugs slide and ravel up; walking on them is dangerous. As you age, your ability to maintain equilibrium when you lose your balance lessens and your righting reflexes may falter in case of a near fall. Throw rugs carry an increased risk of a slip and subsequent fall. A corollary to eliminating throw rugs is to stop wearing slippers. The name "slippers" indicates the danger this foot wear bring. If you are elderly and must arise at night wear shoes with rubber soles and heels Make sure that all stairs have good lighting and sturdy side rails. You must be particularly careful with basement stairs. Poor lighting, warped steps and absence of railings are too often the norm especially in older homes.

Elderly individuals should be careful what medication they take at night. A sedative or a pain reliever seems sensible, but think again. If you arise at night and are groggy both from sleep and a medication, you are at extra risk for a misstep in the hall or bathroom. Be sure to exercise. Treat it as vital for every part of your body. haina Allen fell in love with roofing three years ago while working on her first Habitat for Humanity house.

"When Hurricane Katrina hit we decided to do something. We drove down and worked on a house for a week," she said, recalling her trip to Biloxi, Miss., with her husband, Robb. "It was an unbelievable experience. That was my first experience with roofing. I love getting up there and nailing the boards on. I'd have to say roofing is my favor-

The Rochester couple will throw a block party next weekend in the hopes that some of their guests might also fall in love with roofing, hammering, painting or donating money to assist Habitat for Humanity of Oakland County, the nonprofit organization that enlists volunteers to build houses in Pontiac for the needy.

The Allens are among about two dozen Habitat supporters who will invite family, friends, co-workers - and in some cases the public - to simultaneous gatherings that collectively have been dubbed "The World's Biggest House Party," on Saturday, Nov. 8.

The parties mix fun — from beer-tasting to shoe shopping - with information about the organization and its volunteer opportunities.

Virginia Alan, a Bloomfield Hills resident and Habitat board member, said event organizers decided on the multi-party approach because it is unique.

"We were looking for a new idea for a fund-raiser, rather having another sit down dinner. which seems to happen every weekend," said Alan, referring to the fall social season of charity galas and fund-raisers.

"We thought if we could get individuals to have a party in their own home, invite family and friends, they could have a personal discussion about Habitat for Humanity." Alan

HANDS-ON EXPERIENCE

As manager of corporate giving and volunteerism at the Handelman Company, Alan became involved in Habitat for Humanity of Oakland County six years ago.

Like Shaina and Robb Allen, she has served on a volunteer building crew for several Habitat houses.

"Painting is my forte. I'm not too good with a hammer," she said, adding that Handelman employees joined other Habitat volunteers to build five homes since 2002.

Habitat for Humanity of Oakland County generally builds about 12 houses annually. About half of those are constructed during "blitz" week in June. The others are built over 14-16 weeks. "The people who receive the homes are so deserving," Alan added. "It's so great when you see people get these homes," agreed Liz Pinto, a Troy resident who is cohosting a wine-tasting bash in Beverly Hills during the World's Biggest House Party. "And it's not a handout. They have to go through a process, get a mortgage and work 300 hours on the home. There's a lot of sweat equity they put into the home. "They have a nice, safe place to live. It makes you happy to be a part of it.

PONTIAC HOUSES

Allen said the organization has a waiting list of about 20 families waiting for a home. Home recipients must meet specific income guidelines and currently live in substandard housing or in a high crime area. Applicants can be from anywhere in or out of the state, but must be willing to move to Pontiac where the organization builds.

Allen invited a Habitat homeowner to speak at her block party in Rochester. At most parties, guests also will get a chance to sign a piece of lumber that's destined for a future Habitat

Angela Hospice gala dazzles guests

For Angela Hospice friends and supporters, the Diamonds and Denim gala held Oct. 18, at Rock Financial Showplace in Novi was an evening of dining, dancing, and donating to an important cause. More than 250 guests attended the benefit which combined casual denim with the glitter of diamonds for a fun atmosphere.

"Our guests enjoyed being able to come casual and just have a good time," said Barb Ioyan, Events Coordinator for Angela Hospice. "We gave out super-sized flashing diamond rings as favors and it was great to see them all lighting up the dance floor."

The evening began with hors d'oeuvres as the silent auction and art auction opened. A gourmet dinner was followed by chocolate mousse and a dessert bar. The Rick Lieder Band performed and the Proceeds from the event, totaling $80,000, will support Angela Hospice's programs of care for terminally ill children and adults as well as patients' families. The charity's next fund-raiser is the annual Tree of Life held at Laurel Park Place in Livonia. Providing an opportunity to honor loved ones during the holidays, the Tree of Life kicks off Saturday, Nov. 22, with an opening ceremony at 11 a.m., and will remain on display through Christmas Eve.

Observer & Eccentric columnist signs book at local literary fair

BY SHARON DARGAY O&E STAFF WRITER

If you're thinking of buying a condo, hold that thought.

You might want to get a word or two of advice from Robert Meisner, the "condo king," before taking the plunge into condominium ownership.

Meisner, whose Bingham Farms law practice specializes in community association and condo law, will make a brief presentation and will sign copies of his 2006 book, Condo Living, A Survival Guide to Buying, Owning and Selling a Condominium during the 57th Annual Jewish Book Fair, Nov. 5-16, at the Jewish Community Center, 6600 W. Maple, in West Bloomfield.

Abraham Foxman, author of The Deadliest Lies: The Israel Lobby and the Myth of Jewish Control, kicks off the two-week festival, at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 5. Tickets to his lecture, are $10 in advance for center members; $12 for non members and $15 at the door. Check www.jccdet.org for a full schedule of events, as well as admission prices on select presentations.

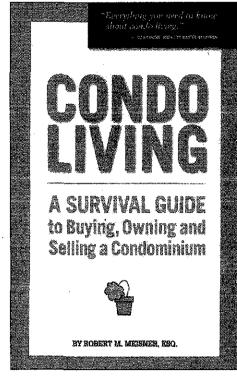

Meisner, a longtime columnist for the Observer & Eccentric and a co-architect of the state's 1978 Condominium Act, will present his book during a free local author event from 10 a.m.-noon, Sunday, Nov. 9.

His book is designed as a "survival guide" to buying a condo.

"I point out in the book the people don't understand what they are getting into. The condo association and board have tremendous power over how they live. It's not carefree living. I call it careful living," said Meisner, dubbed the "condo king" or "guru" in legal and development circles.

"A lot of people are sold on the concept that the condo association will take care of the amenities - you don't have to cut the grass — and that's true to some extent, as long as the association does what it should.

'Unfortunately, you have people who are unenlightened about running a condo association, on the board. Their iob is to run the association to make living better for everyone."

GETTING INVOLVED

But Meisner found that some boards spend as little money as possible or repair and maintain common areas and condo exteriors inconsistently. Some are reluctant to enforce deed restrictions — often because they've underfunded the association - and some take an overzealous approach.

"You need to watch how the board operates and participate in the association. I tell anyone who hires me, who wants to buy a condo, to get involved in the governance of the association. They have a lot of control over what you do and hopefully, you can take a leadership role."

Meisner said new condo owners sometimes don't understand the restrictions on their property. When they find out what's involved, they aren't willing to uphold them. Deed restrictions might include anything from a limitation on the number of pets allowed in a condo unit to landscaping in front of the home to prohibitions on barbecuing in the back

"You have a new brand of communal living that people aren't always able to adapt to from a supervisory or coowner standpoint," Meisner said.

But those who do may find social and recreational benefits and satisfaction from being involved in the condo association board.

"There are some socio-economic benefits in terms of living in a condo. The cost per square foot may be less in a condo," said Meisner, a West Bloomfield resident and condo owner. "There are theoretical benefits in terms of maintenance. There's an economy of scale."

Meisner said about half of his book is "straight talk" about condo living for prospective buyers.

The other half focuses on the association and "things people living in a condo should know.

The book is $24.95 and available through his office, 30200 Telegraph, suite 467, Bingham Farms.

THE MOST NATURAL REPLACEMENT

Andrea S.

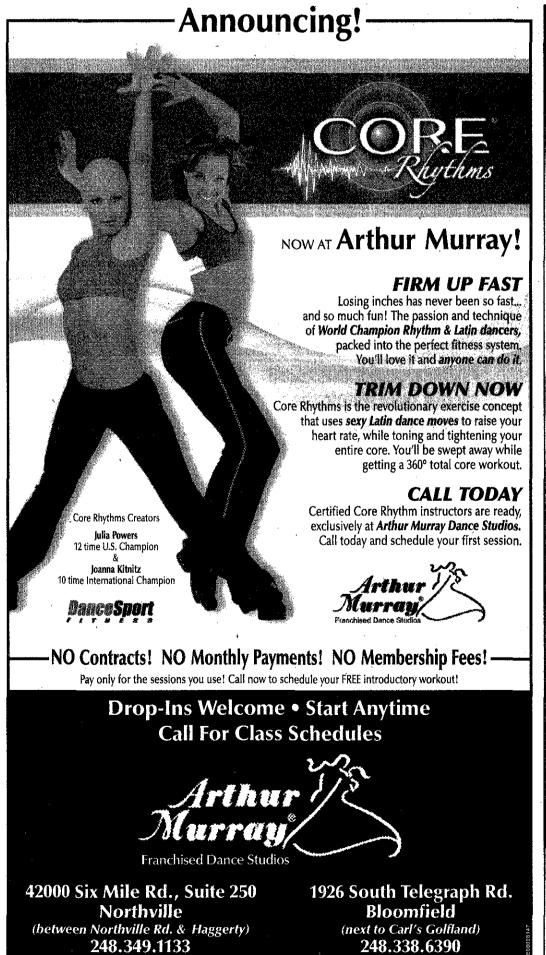

OPTION It is estimated that more than two-thirds of adults between the ages of 35 and 44 have lost at least one permanent tooth to an accident, decay, or gum disease. Thirty yeas ago, the only option for these people and others with missing permanent teeth would have been a fixed bridge or removable denture to replace the missing tooth (or teeth). More recently, however, dental implants are fast becoming the best tooth-replacement option for most individuals. Unlike fixed ridges, which attach to adjacent teeth, and dentures, which rest on the gums, dental implants are rooted directly into the jawbone. As such, they function like a natural tooth root to firmly anchor the replacement crown permanently in place.

Some dental implants have lasted more than 20 years, with a better than 90 percent success rate. Implant patients who practice good oral hygiene and have regular professional dental checkups can enjoy smiles that last a lifetime. Are you dissatisfied with your smile? Implants are one of the most exciting options available today to aesthetically and functionally improve your teeth. Call us at 734-453-1493 to find out more. Our office is located at 496 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Ste. 201, Plymouth.

Dental implants discourage the bone loss that otherwise accompanies the loss of a permanent tooth.

WHAT'S BEHIND PRODUCT, SERVICE REPACKAGING

inspires new packaging for their products or services? Mildred L. I'm not talking about rewrapping food in bright new colors, but I am talking about businesspeople create the magic that reshaping it for a brave new market. Ask yourself first for indications that you might need to repackage. The most obvious of these is customer feedback. Curtis Bingham, president of Predictive Consulting

Group, Inc., in Littleton Mass., identifies four other

-- pricing pressure from competitors; product or service usage variances, depending upon the market served; -- a customer remark that pinpoints a benefit or value you've overlooked; and

- client contract renegotiation with you. Debra Ellis of Wilson & Ellis Consulting in Barnardsville, N.C., compiles and organizes sales and service information for clients. Her work was going smoothly with larger clients, but she sought a stronger pulled them back. I looked at downscaling the services (but it would) significantly reduce ROI, because these businesses need a comprehensive program, not bits and Repackaging began when Wilson & Ellis developed an online workshop, which saves clients from having to travel and leave their businesses to learn. The Multichannel Analytics Intensive Workshop showcases the firm's most popular services. The first is analytics, which helps people maximize existing customer, marketing and operational data to find growth and profitability opportunities. The second service is benchmarking. It provides snapshots of a company's health over time and helps business owners identify trends before they have a negative fiscal impact.

The workshop enables participants to use their own information from their company, not samples. "This was very doable with the Internet," Ellis remarks. "We ended up with the best of both worlds. Clients can see anomalies, while data manipulation is taken from us." Breaking the process into manageable segments with reasonable time frames, such as a week or more, her firm shows them how to interpret their data. The workshop transpires over eight to 12 weeks.

Harris Family Foods L.L.C., in Roswell, Ga., found its inspiration very differently. This company oversees the production of four Chet's Peanut Butter Breakfast and Dessert Toppings, with memories that stretch way

The two brothers and a sister grew up with few extras. One of their very favorite treats was the Sunday night ice cream, drizzled with a topping their father, Chet, made. Managing partner Tari Furey describes the moment of inspiration for herself and her brothers after their father died. "We stood around the kitchen," she says. "Randy wanted to honor Dad with something new."

They agreed to use their father's recipe to develop a new flavor. Brother Tim was in charge of product development for peanut butter topping with banana. Right away there was a hurdle over containers. The consistency wouldn't work with jars or tubes. It would "come out in huge globs," Furey said. Randy cased trade shows until he found a suitable container used by a juice

Ultimately, they maintained the product integrity they sought while adding unique flavors to peanut butter and putting it into a squeezable pouch to apply at breakfast and other times. This topping became known as Chet's Peanut Butter Banana Flavored.

The process of repackaging a service or product involves overcoming obstacles, large and small. Wilson & Ellis discovered a way to deliver their service in a new and innovative form to generate additional revenue.

You'll 'see way' into living in comfy Lawrence

The brick façade with brick cornices and the half-moon windows give the Lawrence (D2652) a very warm contemporary look There is a threecar garage that faces the left side, making this home ideal for a corner lot or the acreage that allows a sweeping driveway to the left. The Lawrence has 2,512 square feet of open living space.

The covered porch has wood columns that accent the windows behind. The door opens into an entry facing the great room and dining room. The dining room has a coffered 10-foot ceiling separated from the great room by decorative columns.

Great rooms are open and spacious and this room is no different. It has windows lining the rear wall that allowing the sunlight to warm the room. A two-sided fireplace separates the nook. An entertainment center is on the nook side and the wall behind is for the entertainment center facing the great room. Circular shaped, the nook is surrounded by windows and faces the eating bar in the kitchen. The kitchen runs along the walls on the left side with two pantry cabinets and a built-in desk. Behind a pocket door is the utility room with a sink, built-in ironing board, and a freezer. Adjacent to the utility is a half bath and a door to the garage, as well as storage and linen closets.

The right side of Lawrence is the sleeping rooms. Bedroom 3 can be a den with curio cabinets on the sides, and French doors to main part of the home. Alternately, if needed as a bedroom, the curio cabinets are replaced with a built-in desk and a wall closet. A full bathroom with a tub and single sink is accessible from both bedroom 2 and 3. In the hallway between the bedrooms is a linen closet. The master suite has a 10-foot ceiling with a door opening out to the back yard. Behind French doors is access to a beautifully designed master bath. A raised spa tub is in a half circle of windows with "his and her" sinks on either side with a vanity on her side. A large shower is also available. A door to the enormous skylit walk-in closet is at the end of the master bath.

For a study plan of the LAWRENCE (D2652), send $15 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 or call (800) 562-1151. Be sure to specify plan name and number. savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

2009 Traverse Is Chevy's Newest People Hauler

Advertising Feature

CAReport

By Kevin Koloian Avanti News Features

In perfecting the large crossover SUV design, General Motors Corp. has come up with a model for its bread-and-butter brand - Chevrolet. The 2009 Chevrolet Traverse, which is making its debut right about now, is an expressively styled, well-equipped crossover that will give customers people-hauling and cargo-carrying capability typically found in larger SUVs.

Crossover vehicles, which use the same type of unitbody construction as a car which makes them more fuel efficient than traditional truck-based SUVs, are nothing new. They have been around for 10 years. However until 2007, they were generally small-tomidsize vehicles. But GM changed all that when it introduced a slew of crossovers nearly as big as a Chevy Tahoe.

The 2007 GMC Acadia, 2007 Saturn Outlook and 2008 Buick Enclave sold well, so Chevy decided to get in on the act.

To ensure a successful design, Chevy borrowed styling cues from its acclaimed 2008 Chevy Malibu. The Traverse delivers the same refined details of the "2008 Car of the Year" and incorporates the bold front-end appearance found on all new

The Traverse's price is competitive with the tons of other crossovers flooding the market at about

There is only one engine available for the Traverse. GM's 3.6-liter dual-overhead cam V6, with variable valve timing, direct injection, and single or dual exhaust.

The single exhaust version will produce 281 horsepower, while the dual exhaust version will be slightly more powerful at 286 horsepower. Both will be mated to a six-speed automatic transmission.

The Chevrolet Traverse comes with front- or allwheel drive and will have a maximum towing capacity of 4,500 pounds. Fuel economy ratings haven't been announced for the Traverse yet.

Featuring upscale design elements that are usually reserved for higher-priced vehicles, it is Chevy's intention to offer people more bang for their buck. Some highlights include deep-set grille inserts with chrome-ringed trim, turn signals integrated in the outside mirrors, rear spoiler integrated over the tailgate window and bright dual exhaust

Specific sculpting in the Traverses body juxtaposes luxury design with small car feel. Its taut body lines and minimal overhangs are intended to convey the image of a smaller vehicle, reinforcing the Traverse's feeling of a large vehicle that drives smaller.

The Traverse lineup will include LS, LT and LTZ models with OnStar and Turn by Turn Navigation standard on all. The high end LTZ will come standard with 20-inch polished aluminum wheels. Available features will include a panoramic sunroof, rear park assist, a rearview camera, a power liftgate, rear DVD entertainment, a navigation system, XM satellite radio with realtime traffic, a Bluetooth hands-free cell phone link and heated and cooled front seats.

A capable people or cargo hauler, the Traverse's interior can be configured for seven or eight adults, including two front bucket seats, a 60/40-split second-row bench or two second-row captain's chairs and a 60/40-split third-row bench seat. Perforated leather seats and second-row captain's chairs will be available.

While the third-row bench can comfortably seat large adults, at just over 26 cubic feet the Traverse also simultaneously provides the bestin-class storage space behind it.

The second- and third-row seats will fold flat to open up 117.9 cubic feet of cargo volume, and the second-row will have a Smart Slide feature to allow easy access to the third row.

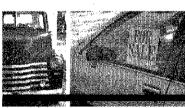

Standard safety equipment will include dualstage front airbags, front side airbags, curtain side airbags for all three seating rows, a tirepressure monitor, antilock brakes, traction control, and GM's StabiliTrak electronic stability control with rollover mitigation.

The Traverse is set to replace the Chevy Uplander, GM's sole surviving minivan, just as the Enclave and Outlook have already supplanted the Buick Rendezvous and Saturn Relay. With a lot of hope riding on it, time will tell if Chevy's new crossover can traverse the competition -- some of the stiffest coming from its corporate cousins. Kevin Koloian covers General Motors Corp. for
