Decision looms for banned book

By Brad Kadrich Observer Staff Writer

The committee reviewing the appropriateness of Toni Morrison's Beloved for use as an Advanced Placement literature text is expected to announce its decision Friday.

Supt. Dr. Jeremy Hughes said at Tuesday's Plymouth-Canton Board of Education meeting the committee met for a second time Tuesday, but members wanted a little more time to consider the issue. Committee members are considering information and comments they heard at the initial review meeting Jan. 10.

At issue: Whether Beloved should continue as a textbook in the AP English classes despite the use of graphic sexual con-

"The committee has finished their work," Hughes said. "They will take an anonymous vote and the decision should come Fri-

If committee members are looking for opinions, they got an earful from another crowded board meeting room Tuesday, where about a dozen people went to the podium to voice support for the AP English program as a whole and both Beloved and Waterland in particular.

Christine Yancy of Plymouth, whose daughter is currently in the AP English class, said her daughter found the books challenging and a key part of the course work. She said the whole point of the AP course was to challenge students to think.

"I am adamantly opposed to having great books pulled out of the hands of students who want to be academically challenged," Yancy told the board.

Tim Roraback said the book was not only appropriate for teaching to AP students, but pointed out its reputation among scholars is also good. He cited a New York Times poll that asked prominent book reviewers their opinion on the best work of fiction in the last 25 years.

"If the Pulitzer Prize isn't enough for you ... care to guess which book topped the list?" Roraback asked rhetorically. "It was Beloved."

Meanwhile, Graham Swift's 1983 novel, Waterland, faces a similar review, which Hughes said won't be scheduled for "probably two or three weeks." Hughes said part of the issue was obtaining copies of Waterland for committee members, since reading the book is part of the committee's charge.

Waterland remains removed from the curriculum pending the

Diverse crowd hails King's legacy

Only 8 years old, Shelbi Hogan of Canton sounded more like a seasoned scholar than a young child when she shared her feelings about Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"He was a very generous man, and he helped so many people in so many ways," she said, standing next to proud parents Nathan and Sharese Hogan. "It took a lot of courage for him to do all those speeches and boycotts. He had so much courage."

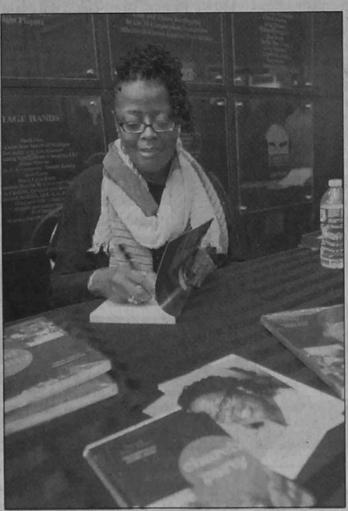

Moments later, the Hogan family moved inside Canton's nearly packed, 400-seat Village Theater at Cherry Hill and watched as Shelbi's sister Shavonne, 11, shared the stage with youngster Sofia Greggio to recite King's biography - his rise from segregated schools to become the youngest Nobel Peace Prize winner before he was assassinated April 4, 1968, outside a Memphis, Tenn., motel.

"I'm so proud of her," Sharese Hogan said later of Shavonne's role in "Building Bridges: Canton Celebrates Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'

Canton man faces murder, torture counts

By Darrell Clem Observer Staff Writer

A Canton man who had what police called "an intimate relationship" with a slain Romulus man is facing a Jan. 25 court hearing to determine if he should stand trial on charges of first-degree murder, felony murder and torture.

Michael Joseph Sutton, 41, was arraigned Friday in 34th District Court amid allegations he killed 57-yearold Frank Jones, whose son found im lying face down in his bathroom Jan. 7 with his hands tied behind his back Sutton and his head covered by a plastic bag. Jones's death was caused by blunt force trauma, according to the Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office.

Canton Police Detective Sgt. Dave Schreiner said township police found Jones's 1999 Ford Mustang the day after his body was discovered. The car was found in the Walmart parking lot on Ford Road, but Schreiner said Romulus authorities handled the investigation because Jones's body was found in his Sutton lived in the Autumn Ridge apartment complex near Cherry Hill and Lotz roads, local authorities said. He remains jailed with a $1 million bond as he awaits his court hearing.

Romulus police called Jones's death a brutal slaying, and authorities provided a glimpse of how the investigation led them to Sutton.

"Physical evidence found at the crime scene and on the suspect at (the time of) his arrest, along with phone and data records indicating an intimate relationship, led police to their suspect," Romulus Police Chief Robert Dickerson said.

Dickerson attributed Sutton's

Chamber stalls president search

By Darrell Clem Observer Staff Writer

A 10-member panel has suspended its search for a new Canton Chamber of Commerce president as the chamber moves to rein in spending, rethink its business model, reverse declining membership and plan for its biggest fundraiser of the year in April, board Chair Kim Scartelli said.

In the meantime, onceretired chamber President Dianne Cojei and former business manager Joane Keisel have agreed to continue their interim leadership following the departure of former President Tracey Rettig, who ended a brief stint last November, and two other office employees, Scartelli said.

"We are really running a lean office right now," she said, "and Dianne is doing a fabulous job.' The 10-member search committee had once hoped by mid-January to replace Rettig, who had been hired as Cojei's successor and who resigned after 10 months on the job. Rettig's job performance left chamber members divided, though she cited family reasons and furthering her education as reasons for leaving.

About 25 people had sought Rettig's position, and Scartelli said Tuesday that once the search continues, those applicants likely will be contacted "to see if they're still interested."

Scartelli said the search team decided to delay its mission rather than rush the process.

"We want to have a proper transition," she said. Scartelli cited several issues facing the chamber: · The organization plans to "double up on some staff" for now, rather than facing increased expenses by bringing on new employees and keeping the interim staff in place during the transition. "We looked at our budget," Scartelli said, "and our cash flow for the next few months is low. We don't want to take on too much when cash flow is low."

 The chamber has embarked on plans for its annual fundraiser and auction April 28 at Livonia's Burton Manor, after which Scartelli said chamber officials will reassess where the organization stands.

· Chamber leaders also plan to focus on trying to rebuild membership, which Scartelli said has gradually declined from roughly 700 members to

"Over time we know we can't continue to run with the same (business) model we have in the past," she said. "We're all business people, and we're running a business.

· The chamber intends to "take a hard look at programming and see what our members want," Scartelli said.

Cojei has said she is willing to help the chamber through its transition, though she has said she isn't interested in returning to the full-time job she left in late 2010.

Scartelli said she believes the chamber board's decision to suspend the presidential search for now is a good one, considering all the issues the organization is facing.

"It's a good fiscal decision," she said.

It reigned as a diverse crowd rose to sing America the Beautiful and Lift Every Voice and Sing, often called the black national anthem. It reigned as the New Hope Church choir, directed by Marcel Robinson and Isaac Pippen, drew warm applause for performing spiritual songs.

It reigned as a screen above the Village Theater stage showed a portion of King's "I Have a Dream" speech in Washington, D.C. And it reigned as keynote speaker Deborah Smith Pollard - an associate professor of English literature at the University of Michigan-Dearborn and host of Strong Inspirations, a gospel music program on WJLB-FM (97.9) — traced the role spiritual songs had in the civil rights movement.

Also an author who earned a doctorate degree from Michigan State University, Pollard worked with MSU to create an exhibition on display in the Village Theater lobby. Pollard said gospel music helped fuel the ideals of the civil rights movement with Neither attack dogs, fire hoses nor guns could crush the determination of African Americans and their supporters, Pollard said, and gospel music played a significant role.

"Raising the roof through music raised their spirits," she said, closing her speech by having the crowd sing

Canton's Winter Market - a place to buy seasonal goods, support the area economy and beat the winter doldrums - returns for a third year as organizers and vendors prepare for what could become another attendance-shattering turn-

An offshoot of the popular warm-weather Canton Farmers Market, the winter version has been confirmed for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. for three Sundays - Feb. 12, March 18 and April 22 — inside the historic Cady-Boyer Barn, in Preservation Park on Ridge north of Cherry Hill.

Christine Laming, owner of her Canton home-based Jam by Hand business, expects to sell 15-20 flavors such as hot pepper jelly, raspberry jalapeno jam and peach berry

"I will definitely have the Michigan apple butter," she said.

Like other vendors, Laming returns to Canton's markets because her loyal customers look forward to buying her products.

"I'm getting a lot of return business," she said.

Hot spot

Laming is among some 20 vendors who make Winter Market a hot spot on cold days.

Market manager Tina Lloyd said the attendance spiked 50 percent from 2010 to 2011, climbing from 1,000 visitors to 1,500. Some are return patrons, and Lloyd expects a large turnout for the 2012 season as well.

"Most people leave the Winter Market with something in hand," she said. "More people

Jewelry heist

A Canton woman notified police after she realized jewelry was missing from her apartment on Sandhurst, northwest of Ford and Lotz roads. Police look the report about 7:45 p.m. Jan. 10.

The woman told police she was missing a wedding ring, a watch and a necklace/bracelet set. She said she had last seen them two weeks ago.

She said there didn't appear to be any damage to her apartment door. She checked with her two sons, who said they hadn't had any visitors.

The woman told police she didn't recall leaving her door unlocked.

Warrant arrest

Police arrested a man about 9:45 p.m. Jan. 10 on warrants out of Dearborn for possession of cocaine, larceny and tampering with a motor vehicle.

Police initially stopped the man as he walked across the road at Ford and Haggerty because he matched the description of a homicide suspect. A subsequent background check, however, revealed he was wanted on the warrants. He was turned over to Wayne County authorities.

A Canton teen is facing trial in Wayne County Circuit Court following allegations he phoned in two separate, fake pizza orders and robbed the delivery drivers after they showed up outside homes northeast of Palmer and Lotz roads.

Patrick Allen Reid, 18, could face penalties ranging up to life in prison if he is convicted of two counts of armed robbery, two counts of unarmed robbery, two counts of larceny from a person—all felonies—and one misdemeanor for possession of marijuana.

Reid was ordered to stand trial after he voluntarily waived his right Friday to a preliminary examination in 35th District Court — a deci-guilty plea has been placed on record for him.

The latest robbery occurred, police said, when a bogus pizza order was made shortly after 8:30 p.m. Dec. 30 by a caller who gave an address in the 1600 block of Brookdale Drive, on Canton's southeast side.

A Domino's Pizza driver, while standing on the porch of a house where it appeared no one was home, was approached by a masked man who demanded money and implied he had a gun in his pocket, police said. The assailant took the driver's cash and fled the scene, but a quick investigation by police led officers to a suspect who lived on a nearby street.

A similar incident happened shortly after 10 p.m. Nov. 19 in the 1700 block of Iman Drive, where a Jet's Pizza driver told police he was robbed of cash and his cell phone by a masked man who walked up behind him, pushed him and revealed what was described as a shiny object.

Reid remained jailed as he appeared Friday in court. He has two separate bonds totaling $60,000/10 percent, meaning he would have to post $6,000 for his release.

arrest to a collaborative effort between Romulus, Canton and Michigan State Police.

"We are very pleased there is a suspect in custody for this violent and senseless murder," MSP Capt. Monica Yesh said in a statement, commending "the dedication and professionalism" of police and saying authorities
"send our condolences to the family of the victim — who must be going through such a difficult time right now."

Jones lived in the 15600 block of Springhill in Romulus and was a registered sex offender. There were no indications of forced entry at his home, and belongings including his car had been taken.

A statement from Romulus police didn't elaborate other than to say that Jones and Sutton had "an intimate relationship."

Jones had served three years in prison.
According to the Michigan Department of Corrections, he spent time behind bars for child sexually abusive material or activity. He was released in August 2009.

'He's with God'

Family plans memorial to honor missing son

Observer Staff Writer

A week since her son, 27-year-old Kent Morton, fell into the Detroit River, Fawn Salvatore still calls him on his cellphone. It rings and goes into voicemail and she tells him, "I love you, I love you."

She knows he will never hear her words again. She has come to grips with the fact that while he survived a 150-foot fall from the Ambassador Bridge where he had been working, he succumbed to the river's chilly water and seven mph current. He was last seen near the Bob-Lo docks south of the bridge, and the search for his body continues on downriver.

'You know how they say people never survive the fall, I think I know why he survived," the Garden City resident said during an interview Tuesday. "He swam and put his hand up. I know he did that for his daughter Makayla.'

Known as Morty to his friends, Morton will be remembered at a memorial gathering Sunday afternoon at the John Santieu and Son Funeral Home in Garden City. Officiated by the Revs. Earl Duncan and Jordan Duncan of Morning Star Church, the memorial will have music, including the singing of his mother's favorite song, I'll Fly Away, and comments by his friends and his brother Shane.

The Salvatores wants everyone who attends the event to wear orange, Kent's favorite color and a reminder that he graduated in 2001 from Garden City High School

"Everything with him was orange," his mother

KENT MORTON

A memorial gathering for Kent Morton will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 22, at John Santeiu and Son Funeral Home, 1139 Inkster Road, south of Ford Road in Garden

Mr. Morton, 27, died Jan. 11. He is survived by his daughter Makayla Morton, parents Fawn and Mario Salvatore, father David Morton, siblings Shane Morton, Amber Morton (Josh), Bret Morton, Sarah Minich (Jason), fiancee Kristi Waltsgott, grandparents Robert and Sandra Zube, Juanita and Mario Salvatore and Marge and Delbert Morton and seven nieces and said. "I want everyone to wear orange, even if it's a dirty T-shirt, I don't care. Don't dress up, except Shane will. He'll wear a suit with an orange tie. We're even letting off 100 orange balloons."

Planning the memorial has brought some normalcy to the family, whose anguish was seen and heard in the media's coverage of the search. They spent four days at the river's edge and another day protesting in front of Cobo Hall when the Detroit Police Department switched its attention from their son to the North American International Auto Show.

On Tuesday, they sat in the family room of their Garden City home, waiting to hear if something someone saw in the shallow waters off Grosse Ile might be Morton's body. Bad weather in the morning had delayed a search by Coast Guard helicopter and boat.

Like his dad

Mario Salvatore has worked for Seaway Painting of Livonia for 28 years. Morton started working there when he was 17 doing "little jobs." When he was hired two years go, Morton decided he wanted to work outside, unlike his father, who prefers interior painting.

"He loved it, he wanted the to do bridges, he wanted to be outside," Mario Salvatore said. "He loved doing bridges, even though it's dangerous work.

"He admired this guy here," said Fawn Santore, patting her husband's hand. 'That's why he became a painter like his dad. He wanted to do what his dad

Mario Salvatore was working on a job in Lansing when the president of the company called to tell him what had happened. It was a half-hour after Morton had fallen. The workers on the bridge had "called 9-1-1, the Coast Guard and everyone else" and then his boss.

"He told me he had fallen off the bridge and hadn't been found," said Mario Salvatore, who then called his wife.

"He called and told me and I knew he was gone, we both knew he was gone," Fawn Salvatore said.

Kent Morton was with his daughter Makayla when she competed in a cheer competition in Macomb County earlier this month.

The Salvatores know very little about the circumstances of the accident. They do know the man working next to him tried to grab him and catch him.

"He feels real bad," Fawn Salvatore said. "He looked for a piece of wood or something to throw him. He was his friend."

His hometown

Morton, like his mother, grew up in Garden City. He swam for a club team for 10 years and at the high school. As an adult, he played softball every year. He also stuck close to his hometown. When his marriage ended, he and Makayla lived with the Salvatores until he purchased a home last year that was just five blocks away.

"The reason he worked was for Makayla, the reason he took that job was to get a house for her," said Maureen Duncan, a close family friend. "Makayla was his life. He was always involved with Makayla. If Makayla was there, Kent was there."

He was with Makayla when she cheered with Young Champions at a competition in Macomb County a few weeks ago. He was suppose to be at Morning Star Church that evening to see her receive the awards she had earned in the church's Pioneer pro-

"A couple days before this happened, he painted her room because she wanted it to be hot pink. He was an awesome dad," Duncan said.

Morton also did a lot of painting for others, including at the church. He never charged for the work, he just did it.

Engaged to be married, he told his parents New Year's Eve that his fiancee was pregnant.

"He was so excited about the baby," Fawn Salvatore said. "And Makayla was so excited she was going to be a big sister."

Fawn Salvatore volunteers at Memorial Elementary 1-2 Campus and cared for Makayla after school. She saw Morton everyday. The last time was last Tuesday night.

"He would tease me, when he'd leave, he'd joke with me," she said. "He always said, 'I love you, mom.' I'd always tell him to be safe."

The Salvatores are amazed at the people who are helping the family. Randy Patzer, owner of the Garden City ACE store, has set up a bar code so people can make donations while checking out or buy paper slips that are hanging up around the store. Canisters, provided by the Garden City Goodfellows, are being put out in businesses like Plato's and McKay's Party store on Inkster Road.

Memorial Elementary 1-2 Campus is holding a bake sale at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 31, and the Westland Jaycees are doing a bowling fundraiser. Morning Star Church also has been accepting donations for the family.

"Many people have come to the church to make donations," Duncan said.

As the wait goes on, Fawn Salvatore said it's the family's strong faith that holds them together, although she admits she has her moments. Son Shane has "been their rock through all of this," talking to the media when she knew she couldn't.

"He's worried that I can't do this, but I can," she said. "I know where Kent is. He's with God."

Ice fest, turning 30. helped to shape Plymouth's image

By Matt Jachman Observer Staff Writer

You can thank a 43-year-old television news magazine for inspiring a local institution, the Plymouth Ice Festival, that now also has some years — going on 30

Festival founder Scott Lorenz says he was inspired 30 years ago by a segment of CBS's 60 Minutes that spotlighted the Sapporo Snow Festival, a giant display of snow statues and ice sculptures in Japan's fourth-largest city.

"This was incredible, because they had these giant ice sculptures that were as big as a building," Lorenz said Monday, recalling the 60 Minutes episode.

Lorenz, then general manager of the Mayflower Hotel, which was owned by his family, envisioned staging a similar event in downtown Plymouth. He approached his father, Ralph, with the idea.

"You're crazy. It'll never work," was the response, he said. Then-City Manager Hank Graper said the same thing, according to Lorenz.

Quick first launch

But Graper got back to him shortly with an assist: he had mentioned the idea to a few people, and suddenly had some sponsors and a budget. And Ralph Lorenz, too, offered help, suggesting his son get in touch with the chefs who taught ice-carving at Schoolcraft College. After contacting Midwest Ice, a Detroit supplier dating from the 1920s, they were in

"We put the first one together in 45 days," said Lorenz, who owns a public relations firm, Westwind Communications. The first show had a dozen or two

The festival grew steadily in the 1980s, and Lorenz said he tried to continually improve it, traveling to ice shows around the country to glean ideas, flying to Japan to attract top carvers, signing big sponsors such as Northwest Airlines, and adding sculptures that let the festival branch out from Kellogg Park into a number of downtown streets.

At its peak in the late '80s, Lorenz said, there were about 200 sculptures on the streets and a few dozen in the park.

The public was drawn to it, the media loved it, and the festival put Plymouth on the map for a lot of people, Lorenz said.

"As far as publicity and exposure for the town, nothing else comes close," he said.

30th on tap

The 30th annual Plymouth Ice Festival is scheduled for Jan. 20-22, and producer Sam Walton said the foundation built by Lorenz and others, as well as the show's loyal following, has gotten it this far.

"It's a testament to patrons and promoters," Walton said recently of the festival's longevity. "The momentum that's been developed has just been fantastic, and that's what's gotten us 30 years down the road.'

Walton, whose Signature Professional Group is producing its third festival, is billing it as a family friendly event with more ice and more activities than the last one.

"The ice is obviously a big draw, but we're trying to offer something for everybody," Walton said.

That includes a petting zoo, wintertime sports activities and equipment demonstrations, the extension of the Fire & Ice display into a second evening, a video game center from Play First Mobile Gaming, a live show by the Radio Disney cast and expanded competition opportunities for carvers at the college level. Plus, there will be more ice sculptures -130 and counting, up from about 115 last January and about 100 in 2010, Walton said.

The festival has landed McDonald's as a major contributor, with a $15,000 grant. The fast-food giant will be sponsoring a major sculpture, helping support (along with the Sun & Snow sports shop) the winter sports activities and giving away samples of its gourmet coffee drinks.

14 compete for Michigan's Distinguished Young Woman honor

Teens from Westland and Plymouth-Canton will be among the 14 hopefuls participating in the 54th annual Distinguished Young Women of Michigan Scholarship Program Saturday, Jan. 28, at Saline High School.

Fourteen contestants from around the state of Michigan will compete for more than $10,000 in college scholarships and the chance to represent Michigan at local event throughout the state and at the national finals in Mobile, Alabama.

The scholarship program is based on academic scholastics, leadership, physical fitness and talent. Brianna Shareff and Maria Idunate of Westland and Allison Zylka of Plymouth will compete in the program which starts at 6 p.m. They were winners at their local programs and have now advanced to the state scholarship program.

At the state program, contestants will perform on stage in an opening number and compete in a performing arts talent routine, a physical fitness routine and self expression. For their talent selections, Shareff, the Distinguished Young Woman of Wayne-Westland, will perform a lyrical dance to "Tonight." Idu-

Auto show gets rave reviews

A world of great vehicles, connectivity and interaction awaits families and auto enthusiasts at the 2012 North American International Auto Show. The show runs through Sunday and continues to draw thousands of enthusiasts.

"Nearly every display here at NAIAS features an interactive family-oriented element," said show chairman Bill Perkins. "The more than 500 vehicles are fantastic to look at and sit in, and with today's emphasis on connectivity and advanced technology, the exhibits take the show to the extreme. I've said all along, this show will educate, astonish and entertain. And it's doing just that."

New special events have been added, including the main floor NAIAS Parade of Cars and Stars, which has been pleasing thousands of onlookers twice daily. Led around the inner loop of the show floor by police motorcycles with flashing lights and sirens, three luxury vehicles - an Aston Martin, a Bentley and a Chevrolet Corvette drive slowly around the show as thousands of digital cameras flash. The parade will be repeated at 3:30 and 7 p.m. Thursday through Sunday.

Other activities include coloring contests in the Cobo Center Food Court; Detroit Tigers Winter Caravan; and live musical entertainment. In Michigan Hall, the Pure Michigan Ride and Drive test track remains open throughout the show, enabling visitors to take a test drive in an electric or hybrid vehicle.

Tickets are $12 for adults, $6 for children 7-12 and $6 for senior citizens. Children under age 6 are admitted free when accompanied by a parent or guardian. For more information on the show, visit naias.com.

Observer: Tell us about your business, including the types of services and/or products you feature?

Clearly You: Clearly You is not a hole-inthe-wall facial studio, we share 3,200 square feet of medical office space providing a safe and confidential environment for our clients. We have 2 dedicated treatment rooms, semi-separate waiting area and skin care product boutique featuring unique products such as TanTowels and Eyeslices.

Observer: How did you first decide to open your business?

Clearly You: We decided to open our own business because patients kept asking Dr. Bekker who in the area he could refer them to for cosmetic improvements. We decided to keep the patients inhouse and increase our services to accommodate their requests.

Observer: Why did you choose Canton?

Clearly You: Clearly You started out with one small treatment room and a corner niche for skin care products. Clearly You quickly outgrew its space and we began looking for a place of our own three years ago. We finally found a brand new building in north Canton that was convenient for our Plymouth and Canton clients.

Observer: What makes your business unique? Clearly You: We have a fun boutique with unique retail items and offer interactive events such as the Caribbean Beach Party and Ladies Night Out. We were the first in the area to offer Latisse, the FDA approved treatment to grow longer, fuller lashes.

Observer: Do you have a funny tidbit or story to share with our readers about your experience so far as a small business owner?

Christa Bekker: Being a small business owner is a challenge but the rewards have been great. Our business is very family oriented, most of our patients and clients have seen our kids in the office helping out and being a part of the move to Canton. We hope to become more involved with the high school complex, as

Area florist honors

Lori Morrison was talking to an out-of-state colleague recently and, during the course of the conversation, hatched an idea she hopes helps recognize "every day" people who go "above and beyond" in every day life.

Once a week for the rest of the year Morrison, who owns Ribar Floral in Plymouth, will deliver a bouquet of flowers to one deserving person in the Plymouth-Canton community who has "done a good job.'

Nominations can be made by anyone, and anyone from the local area deemed by the nominator to be worthy, can be nominated.

"It could be your mailman, an exceptional waitress, a co-worker, good Samaritan, or anyone you think is deserving," Morrison said. "All you have to do is fill out a nomination form, and the entries will be reviewed by the staff and picked from that week's submissions."

Morrison knows flowers are sent to express emotion; in fact, she said, it has become her "calling card" over sending a thank-you card.

People love to receive flowers ... It's one of the joys of this business, to see people get so excited when the delivery is made," Morrison said. "If you want to make someone's day, if you want to say thank you for a job well done, if you want to recommend the services of one person to another, then it is time to pay a compliment. The wonderful thing about gratitude is that it multiplies."

Ribar Floral owner Lori Morrison with Domenic Tassielli, the owner of The Crow's Nest on Canton Center Road in Canton, who was the first week's winner in Ribar Floral's promotion.

Each week's winner will receive a bouquet of flowers free of charge. The first winner was Domenic Tassielli, the owner of The Crow's Nest on Canton Center Road in Canton, whose "kindness and sincerity with his customers is something that goes above and beyond," Morrison said.

Morrison said she posted the idea for the promotion on her Facebook page, and the response "was overwhelming." She plans to post the weekly winners, and other information about the promotion, on the store's Facebook page and in the store.

To nominate someone, e-mail ribarfloral@ aol.com (the subject line must say Good Job Bouquet). Forms are also available in the store, located at 728 S. Main in Plymouth. For more information,

Getting to know your cell phone plan

By Jon Gunnells

ou can't surf the web, watch the news, or refresh your Twitter stream without hearing talk about the next round of superphones.

The Apple iPhone4s, Motorola Droid Bionic and even some new Blackberry units have been making headlines recently for their 8-megapixel cameras, 1GHZ processors and 64gb on board storage.

You can read up on the newest phones and their specifications down to the screen size, phone and phone weight through a Google search.

What isn't easy is figuring out changes to your phone plan that could be necessary if you upgrade a to a smartphone from a basic cell phone device.

Over the past few years, carriers have made it a requirement for smartphone users to pay for data plans or unlimited texting plans. So whether you are buying a discounted Windows phone or a Blackberry in conjunction with your two-year service agreement, your smartphone may lead to additional

If you surf the web with your mobile device a lot, you will need a larger data allowance than the 200mb bottom-tier plan many carriers offer.

New customers can get a 2 gigaybte (GB) plan from AT&T for $25 per month, or Verizon for $30 per month. AT&T also offers a 4GB plan for $45 and Verizon for $50.

But what most people don't know is data overage charges aren't unreasonable — only $10 per GB at both AT&T and Verizon. So don't pay up for a plan, simply eat the overage charge if you use your phone too much in a given from their mobile network. If you are still worried about expensive data usage, Sprint offers unlimited everything plans starting at $79.99 per month. But don't be fooled by the small print - there's a $10 per month surcharge for certain smartphones, like the iPhone4s. Add in phone insurance, regulatory fees and tax and you could be paying closer to $100 but in fairness, that's likely much cheaper than whatever Verizon is gouging these days. If you think gouging is an unfair term to describe phone companies, consider this: In the past few years, AT&T and Verizon have removed unlimited data plan options for new customers because they say data is too expensive. Google, Amazon, Drop-Box and YouSendit.com, meanwhile, offer multiple GBs of free storage on the web for literally any nonpaying web customer.

Data isn't even the worst marked-up service on your phone bill. Depending on the carrier, your text messaging plan could be marked up near 4,000 percent.

Research has shown that text messages can cost phone companies as little as one-third of a cent, yet they charge around $20 a month for unlimited texting plans, $30 for unlimited family texting.

Customers can go without texting plans (if the company lets you), but then they will be charged about 10 cents per text about double what phone companies previously charged.

Why the increase? Companies are trying to get their cash before texting goes down the path of the typewriter and becomes obsolete.

Free messaging apps like BlackBerry Messenger have been around for more than five years, but they required confusing PINs and a separate interface to contact other BlackBerry owners for free.

The new iPhone4s, however, has built-in technology that sends text messages between iPhones through a program called iMessage - and it's completely free. iMessage will cut down on cell phone bills - maybe even yours. iMessage may even mean you can cut down your individual or family texting plan.

Or you could just visit the phone store and flex your cell phone plan knowledge until the service rep budges and gets you an unadvertised plan like 1,000 text messages for $10. A $10 plan would still be a ripoff, but less than you are likely paying now. With any luck, texting will become much cheaper when it's time to extend or change your contract

Note: Did you know most cell phone providers offer deep corporate discounts on monthly reoccurring charges such as minutes and data? Check to see if your company offers a discount and have the discount applied to your next

Books should be kept in P-CEP curriculum

The committee reviewing Toni Morrison's novel, Beloved, for its appropriateness as a text for Plymouth-Canton's Advanced Placement English course decided Tuesday it needed a little more time to make a decision, and that's all well and good.

In the end, though, we believe the committee should leave not only Beloved, but also Graham Swift's 1983 novel Waterland, in the curriculum.

Beloved underwent a committee review last week following a complaint from a Canton couple about what they called the obscene nature of some passages in the book. The same Canton couple - former school board candidate Matt Dame and his wife, Barb - made the same complaint that led to the banishment of Waterland from the classroom in a unilateral decision made by Dr. Jeremy Hughes, the district's superintendent.

Hughes was wrong to ban Waterland, and the nearly non-stop parade of teachers, parents and current and former students who've spoken out against the ban show we're not alone in our thinking. Hughes acknowledged he knew little of the district's process for taking such action, an admission which was a surprise - and a disappointment - coming from someone with his experience in charge of the state's third-largest dis-

Teachers have hailed the books as "beautiful" and "scholarly," and say they "fit into the district's themes of reaction to trauma and post-modernism and new historicism beautifully."

Teachers in this district are consistently lauded as high-quality, professional educators; shouldn't they be trusted to teach a text in which they believe?

Teacher Gretchen Miller correctly points out the AP English classes in which these books are taught are composed of juniors and seniors soon destined for life beyond the halls of the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park. The passages in the book, while distinctly graphic, are but a small portion of the text, and do not by their nature turn the entire work into pornography, as the Dames and a few others charge.

While we certainly don't encourage the use of pornographic material in our classrooms, we do acknowledge, as others do, that teenagers of this age and intelligence are exposed to far worse on television, in movies and in video

Parents of AP English students, who choose that advanced academic path, are warned that material taught in these classes is more mature in nature. Perhaps the district could go one step farther and alert parents to exact passages, in an effort to help parents and their students decide if the course is right for them.

Dame said he believes students should be given options, and said his daughter is given another text to read and excused from the classrooms while the books in question are discussed. He also said his daughter's grade in the class isn't being affected. That's the way to come up with a way for everyone to win. The student isn't exposed to material to which she or her parents object, and the rest of the students (and many current and former students have spoken vigorously in defense of the books) get to learn from authors, and teachers, they respect. One parent told the board Tuesday she was "adamantly opposed" to having great books pulled out of the hands of students who want to be academically challenged.

There are surely other texts that could be taught in these classes, other options to which teachers could turn to solve this problem. Substituting those for Waterland and Beloved would certainly be the easy solution.

It just wouldn't be the right one.

COMMUNITY VOICE

What would you think of a national ban on all cell phone use while driving?

We asked this question at Summit on the Park.

"I think it could be good (for texting), but I'm against the talking part of it. It's pretty convenient for some people who have to do business."

Josh Butler Canton

"If it's for texting, that's fine, but for talking on the phone, I don't think that's a good idea."

Tom Etienne

"I think it would be a good idea. It would eliminate a lot of distractions for drivers and cut down on the number of accidents."

Grant Bettner

"I think it's outrageous. I think it would be hard to enforce and kind of infringing on our rights."

Not 'banning'

The books under discussion should not be banned. It is time to take the heat out of this argument that is occurring in our school district.

Is every book that is chosen or not chosen for a district considered "banned?" It does not matter whether the words are beautiful, the text is valuable or the lesson is purposeful. Districts have to make decisions regarding texts based on several consider-

Some texts are eliminated from a classroom because they are too easy or too hard. Are those books "banned?" Banning books creates anger and heat on so many fronts. So the discussion should be what are the considerations for choosing a book in our school district. The first measure is, "Should minors have access to sexually explicit materials?" If one will look at the argument this way, the answer is simple: no. No sexually explicit materials should be available to any student age 17 and under no matter if it is metaphorical, beautiful or purposeful.

These are children, legally, and exposure to this material is a parental decision, not a district decision. Moreover, while these texts may have some significant literary merit and may be perfect in a college setting, the fact that these texts are sexually explicit precludes them from being presented to

The second measure is, "What are the AP standards for a text?" According to the remarks made by the teacher noted in the lead article Thursday, Jan. 12, she stated that she uses the materials to teach postmodernism and new historicism. These are very sophisticated subjects, but are not requirements for an Advanced Placement English Course.

AP tests are much like ACT tests in that they are both skill-based tests, but the AP test is significantly more difficult. It requires students to analyze complex texts for literary elements. Any content, such as the lesson that was mentioned in the article, is not required in any way for a student to pass the AP test. To be fair, the College Board, the company that creates the AP test, does recommend Beloved as a work of significant literary merit. However, the college board never has directed any school to teach it, and it offers numerous texts that do not have any explicit material.

Therefore, another text of equal literary merit could easily replace this text as there are many recommended by AP. So this teacher could easily choose another text and rework the lesson by choosing a more age appropriate text.

The third consideration is, "How does this text meet the new Core Curricular Standards and the current Content Expectations that have been adopted standards by the State of Michigan Department of Education?" Both of these standards are skill-based standards not content based standards. Once again, finding a text that is both sophisticated and complex is easily done. The state may recommend postmodernism be taught, but it is not mandated.

So let's stop the "banning" of books and start making a curricular decision that honors standards which are already in place. Now, the decision becomes an easy

Challenged books

I am a parent of a current Advanced Placement English student affected by the challenge to the books Waterland and Beloved. I attended the Board of Education regular meeting Jan. 10 (available on community access television) and the Complaint Review Committee meeting (Jan. 11, not available on community access television), and have read both books in their entirety. I have also reviewed the PCEP Program of Studies (2011-12), the course syllabus and even the Merriam-

Webster Dictionary. My conclusions:

· To call these works of literature "pornography" is simpleminded. You can't cherry-pick a couple of pages out of a lengthy literary work, and conclude that it is pornographic. Per Merriam-Webster, there needs to be an intent to cause sexual excitement. I don't see that intent.

What I see is an intent to use actions and events, which are not joyful, pleasurable or glorified, to advance larger plots, inform characters' motivations and help to explain the future thoughts and actions of those characters in the stories being told. The PCEP Program of Studies lists not one, not two, but five alternative courses that can be selected by students wishing to take one of the two Advanced Placement English exams administered by the College Board. This is fantastic and something the district can be very proud of!

The syllabus for this particular course, given to the students three to four months before the start of class, informs students that they must "exercise intellectual, emotional and social maturity in dealing with challenging and provocative material" and that they must "be flexible in allowing their point of view to grow and be refined as they are exposed to new ideas in texts and class discussions."

Any parent who expects to have their student be able to pick from six AP offerings, and demand a change in the curriculum halfway through the year, shows neither emotional nor social maturity, or flexibility in allowing their point of view to grow and be refined.

. The PCCS Administration, and our Board of Education, would be making a tremendous error in substituting its/their judgment for that of the educators who have assembled and are teaching this curriculum. Allow a student out of the class if the parents insist. Don't conform the education of so many students to one family's world view, when the school district already offers that family so many comparable educational options which may be more compatible with their sensibilities.

> Jeff Longe Plymouth

Educational value

As a P-CEP sophomore, I understand that I am not an AP English student, but I do pride myself in saying that Mr. Read, an AP English teacher, is my Honors Modern Literature and the Arts teacher.

I was astounded to find that parents in the Plymouth-Canton area were inclined to censor the school's curriculum. Regarding Mr. Dame's recent quote that, "parents should have the right to choose what's right for the kids to read," I am slightly confused. What if my parents choose that they would like me to study Beloved and Waterland as my older sister did when she was in AP English at the Park? If Beloved was to be taken off the AP English curriculum, then I think it would be very unfortunate that future AP students would not be able to analyze all themes and subjects of classic literature in a controlled environment.

I feel that parents should have some say in what their own children read, but I do not believe that other parents in the area, with views that largely differ from my own family, should have the right to limit what I read at school and what I learn about in class.

I strongly believe that a small group of parents and adults in our area should not have the right to control what themes students study in class, based on their personal values. Such decisions should be made by educators based on the education value of the materials with alternative for students with concerned parents. This way parents and student with different values do not have the values of others imposed on them and their education.

Organize information for 2011 income tax returns

By Rick Bloom Guest Columnist

he most important part of preparing tax returns is to have the necessary information. Over the next few weeks, you will start to receive that information in the mail. Whether it is a W-2 from work or a 1099 from a bank

Money Matters

or brokerage house, the information is essential to preparing your return. I cannot stress enough how important it is to save this information for your tax preparer. Whether a professional is doing your return or you're doing it on your own, you cannot afford to misplace this information. For example, not including the information from a 1099 on your tax return is going to result in IRS scrutiny. Whether it is just a letter from the IRS or an audit, you can be sure that if you don't report the information contained in a 1099, you will be contacted. I don't know anyone who wants extra scrutiny from the IRS. That is why it is so important to retain these documents.

It's also a great time to start gathering other information that you will need to accurately file your tax returns. For example, if you made charitable contributions last year, make sure that you have the necessary receipts from the charity itself. Remember, the cancelled check itself is not sufficient documentation for a cash contribution of $250 or more. You need a receipt from the organization. In today's world, you're going to need backup documentation for just about any deduction you're going to take. Now is the time to organize that informa-

This is also a great time to make the decision whether you are going to prepare your returns or if you are going to hire a professional. If you are doing the return, I recommend purchasing a software package. If you hire a professional, especially if it is for the first time, make sure it is someone who has experience doing taxes and is dedicated to staying current with the changes in the law. In addition, make sure that they are going to be around. If you receive scrutiny from the IRS, it is always beneficial to have the assistance of your tax preparer.

Preparing tax returns has become more complex and more difficult. Therefore, more people probably do need the assistance of a professional. However, that is not necessarily true for everyone. Many people have relatively straightforward returns and can potentially do their tax returns for free. For a number of years, the IRS has partnered with software companies to offer the capability for people to do their tax returns online for free. This is 100-percent legitimate and it is something that many should consider. It is relatively simple to do. Go to the IRS website at www.irs. gov and click on the tab for individuals, click on the tab for e-file; you will then be directed to a page where you can select from a number of different free software packages. Generally, the software is only for federal returns, but for the great majority of us, those are the more difficult returns.

It would be nice if we didn't have to file tax returns and didn't have to bother with the IRS. However, we all know that's not going to happen. Our obligation as citizens is to file fair and accurate tax returns and, thus, we ought to make it as easy as possible on ourselves. One thing that will lessen he anxiety and make it easier is to start early and take time to organize your documentation. Good luck!

THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

The CITY OF PLYMOUTH, WAYNE COUNTY, GRANT TERM MICHIGAN, hereby grants to the Consumers Energy Company, a Michigan Corporation, its successors and assigns, hereinafter called the "Grantee", the right, power and authority to lay, maintain and operate gas mains, pipes and services on, along, across and under the highways, streets, alleys, bridges, waterways, and other public places and to do a local gas business in the CITY OF PLYMOUTH, WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN, for a period of thirty (30) years provided, however, that the CITY OF PLYMOUTH shall retain its right to use, control, and regulate the use of its streets, alleys, bridges, waterways, and public places, and the space, above and beneath them.

SECTION 2. CONSIDERATION. In consideration of the rights, power and authority hereby granted, said Grantee shall faithfully perform all things required by the terms SECTION 2.

SECTION 3. CONDITIONS, No highway, street, alley, bridge, waterway or other public place used by said Grantee shall be obstructed longer than necessary during the work of construction or repair, and shall be restored to the same order and condition as when said work was commenced. All of Grantee's pipes and mains shall be so placed in the highways and other public places as not to unnecessarily interfere with the use thereof for highway purposes. Grantee shall, within a reasonable time after making an opening or excavation, repair the same and leave it in as good condition as before the opening or excavation was made at the sole cost and expense of the Grantee. When provided notice by the City of a relocation of the City's utility system, Grantee shall move and/or relocate its equipment as necessary to relieve any physical conflict with the City's utility system at the sole cost and expense of the Grantee.

SECTION 4. HOLD HARMLESS AND INDEMNITY. The Grantee shall use due care in exercising the privileges contained and shall at all times keep, save, and hold the CITY PLYMOUTH free and harmless from, defend, and indemnify the CITY OF PLYMOUTH against all losses, costs, and expenses, including attorney fees, to which it may be or become subject to by reason of the negligent construction, and/or maintenance of the structures and equipment authorized herein. In case any action is commenced against the CITY OF PLYMOUTH on account of the permission granted herein, the Grantee shall upon notice, defend the CITY OF PLYMOUTH and hold it harmless from all loss, costs, and damages, including attorney fees, arising out of such negligent construction, operation and/or maintenance.

SECTION 5. EXTENSIONS. Said Grantee shall construct and extend its gas distribution system within said City and shall furnish gas to applicants residing therein in accordance with applicable laws, rules, and regulations.

SECTION 6. FRANCHISE NOT EXCLUSIVE. The rights, power and authority herein granted, are not exclusive. Either manufactured or natural gas may be furnished

SECTION 7. RATES. Said Grantee shall be entitled to charge the inhabitants of said City for gas furnished therein, the rates as approved by the Michigan Public Service Commission, to which Commission or its successors authority and jurisdiction to fix and regulate gas rates and rules regulating such service in said City, are hereby granted for the term of this franchise. Such rates and rules shall be subject to review and change at any time upon petition thereof being made by either said City, acting by its City

SECTION 8. REVOCATION. The franchise granted by this ordinance is subject to revocation upon sixty (60) days written notice by the party desiring such revocation. This revocation may occur for any or no reason whatsoever at the will of either party at no cost, expense, or penalty for said revocation.

SECTION 9. MICHIGAN PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION, JURISDICTION. Said Grantee shall, as to all other conditions and elements of service not herein fixed, be and remain subject to the reasonable rules and regulations of the Michigan Public Service Commission or its successors, applicable to gas service in said City.

SECTION 10. REPEALER. This ordinance, when accepted and published as herein provided, shall repeal and supersede the provisions of the gas ordinance adopted by the City Commission on September 10, 1973, entitled:

AN ORDINANCE, granting to, CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY its successors and assigns, the right, power and authority to lay, maintain and operate gas mains, pipes and services on, along, across and under the highways, streets, alleys, bridges, and other public places, and to do a local gas business in the CITY OF PLYMOUTH, WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN, for a period of thirty years.

And amendments, if any, to such ordinance whereby a gas franchise was granted to Consumers Power Company.

SECTION 11. EFFECTIVE DATE. This ordinance shall not be finally enacted, nor become effective until said ordinance shall be complete in the form in which it was finally enacted and remain on file with the City Clerk for a period of thirty (30) days before final enactment thereof. Further, it shall cease and be of no effect after thirty (30) days from its adoption unless within said period, the Grantee shall accept the same in writing filed with the City Clerk. Upon acceptance and publication thereof, this ordinance shall constitute a contract between the City and said Grantee.

We certify that the foregoing Franchise Ordinance was duly enacted by the City Commission of the CITY OF PLYMOUTH, WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN, ON the 19th day of January, 2012.

Balanced attack powers Salem

By Tim Smith Observer Staff Writer

Tuesday's false start aside, Salem wasn't about to let one defeat morph into a losing skid.

After starting the season 8-0, the Rocks finally lost a game (last Friday to Livonia Stevenson). Then Tuesday at home against Novi, veteran coach Bob Brodie's boys basketball team fell behind 5-0.

"I wondered there for a minute because we got off to a slow start against Stevenson, too," Brodie said. "We were down 25-8 in the first quarter. And I saw remnants of that, we were down five-zip all of a sudden."

But Salem stopped the bleeding right there, ultimately outworking and outscoring the Wildcats by a 61-42 score in the KLAA Central Division contest. The victory upped Salem's record to 9-1 overall and 3-1 in the division

"That bubble (unbeaten streak) gets so big and all of a sudden it bursts," Brodie said. "It kind of relieves the pressure, but you never know how the kids are going to bounce back after that. They did a nice job tonight.'

Novi (2-7, 2-2) still led 8-7 midway though the first quarter, but the Rocks reeled off 10 straight points to take control. During that stretch, Salem received two field goals each from senior guard Tyler Stewart and junior forward Cameron Werner.

Stewart made it 17-8 with 1:30 left in the quarter with a power dunk - having taken a feed from Werner, who intercepted a Novi pass to start the play.

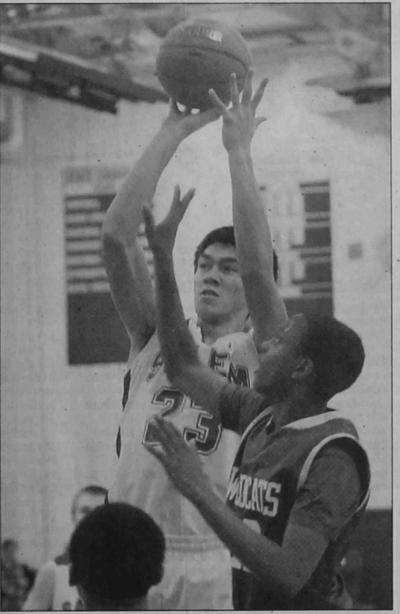

In the second frame, Novi cut the deficit to 21-18 after senior guard Kyle Clemmons drained a triple.

But the Rocks answered with nine straight points. Starting the run were buckets by junior forward Ahmad Khalid and senior center Josh Peterson; Stewart literally slammed it shut with another stuff.

Help from many Salem took a 30-22 lead into the intermission and kept the pressure on in the third.

Doing much of the damage in that quarter was junior forward Chris Dierker, with seven of his team's 11 points (as the Rocks went up 41-27 after three). Sharing scoring honors for

Canton gymnasts still perfect

Canton's varsity gymnastics team improved to 5-0 on the season with Monday's tri-meet triumph.

The host Chiefs won 143.475 to Howell's 137.25 and Brighton's 134.85, despite dealing with bumps and bruises, coach John Cunningham noted.

Freshman Jocelyn Moraw was outstanding, taking firsts on uneven parallel bars (9.525) and balance beam (8.95), while tallying 36.625 in allaround points (also first).

Canton also won the other events, with Erica Lucas taking the top place on vault (9.7) and Nicole Lasecki first on floor exercise (9.2).

Other highlights for the Chiefs included Melissa Green's score of 8.85 on bars (third) and 8.8 on beam (fourth), Pia Simon's fourth-place 9.0 on vault, Marina Milad's sixth place on floor (8.75) and Ayana Lewis' scores of 9.05 on bars (second place) and 8.95 on floor

Lack of clutch shooting dooms Wildcats selves in an overtime game - and then some. Plymouth made it to a second OT before losing 65-61.

"We had opportunities to put them away in the fourth quarter and in the first overtime with free throws," Plymouth head coach Mike Soukup said. "We just had a lot of timely misses. We had timely missed layups that really hurt us. "We had looks that were there at the basket, point-blank, and we just missed them.'

It was a 56-56 contest after regulation, although Soukup said the Wildcats could have finished off the Zebras with better shooting from the foul line. Plymouth made just 9-of-18 free throws in the game.

The game reached a second OT with the teams tied 60-60, but Plymouth (4-5, 2-2) could not stave off the Zebras (4-3, 2-2).

Scoring 17 points and contributing seven rebounds was junior wing guard Brendan

'Hockey night' to help Cigile family

Plymouth trip's a winner, B3

By Tim Smith Observer Staff Writer

All three varsity boys hockey teams at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park recently logged plenty of miles and games by taking part in tournaments in Traverse City or Sault Ste. Marie.

But those squads won't need to go too far Friday, with a so-called "Hockey Night in Canton" twinbill slated for Arctic Edge

At 6 p.m., Canton will skate against Northville; following at 8 p.m. will be the Salem-Plymouth tilt.

One ticket ($5, $3 for students in the Plymouth-Canton district) is good for admission to both games.

Not just hockey

But hockey isn't the only thing on the agenda. The Plymouth-Canton-Salem Hockey Booster Club is presenting 50/50 raffles for each game to benefit the family of former Canton Amateur Hockey Association coach Rick Cigile - who was paralyzed last June in a tragic swimming accident in Florida.

Proceeds will help the Cigile family with costs associated with medical bills or "for whatever they need," said Marilyn Smiatacz of the booster club. Cigile's son Jeremy is a player on Plymouth's varsity squad.

Arctic Edge is located on Michigan Avenue (south side) between Canton Center and Beck

"Hockey Night in Canton" should be enticing from what will take place on the ice, too. The Chiefs, Wildcats, Rocks and Northville are all very competitive teams in the KLAA Kensington Conference.

Tough sledding

Meanwhile, Canton head coach Jeremy Majszak's team split two games in Sault Ste. Marie last weekend, defeating Escanaba 2-1 on Jan. 13, but dropping a 6-4 decision Saturday against the host Blue Devils at the North vs. South Winter Classic.

Against Escanaba, senior linemates Duggan Tear and Taylor Baker scored while sophomore goalie Robbie Beydoun was stellar (stopping 29 of 30 shots).

The following night, Tear scored two more goals with Baker adding a goal and two assists. Senior defenseman Brandon Schlieger also scored a goal, with two assists each by senior forward Brandon Grillo and sophomore defenseman Collin Smith.

But their efforts came up a bit short as the Chiefs dropped to 9-5 overall.

"The team never gave up, but you know, we got to find a way to get other people involved," Majszak said. "The same core group of guys is doing a lot of our offense.'

Plymouth also played at the Soo tourney, going 2-0, while Salem took part in a holiday tournament in Traverse City the last week of December.

Tom Wilson (No. 10) of the Plymouth Whalers scores in the third period Monday, lifting a rebound over Windsor goalie Jaroslav Pavelka.

Wilson's catalyst in victory

By Tim Smith Observer Staff Writer

The Plymouth Whalers played on Martin Luther King Day, but there was nothing peaceful about their afternoon game against Windsor.

Sparks and fists were flying Monday all over Compuware Arena in the OHL matinee, won by the Whalers 5-1 before nearly 3,000 fans.

In fact, Whalers forward Tom Wilson recorded the "Gordie Howe Hat Trick," with a goal, assist and fight.

"I think it was," Wilson said, when asked if that was his first-ever Gordie Howe Hat Trick. "I try for those every night, but they're hard to come by, especially the goals and assists. But I was happy to get that."

Wilson, who graduated from Plymouth High School, decidedly won his scrap with Windsor winger Stephen Alonge midway through the second period, with the Whalers up 1-0.

'He (Alonge) had been asking me to go, so finally we were up against the glass and he said let's go," Wilson said. "So I just threw a couple rights and landed on top of him. I mean, fights are to get the boys going, and that's what happened there."

Fired up

That fight sent a jolt through the team and energized the fans, and the Whalers scored just 13 seconds later to go up 2-0 when forward Jamie Devane banged in the rebound of a shot by forward Alex Aleardi (Farmington Hills) with 10:58 to go in the middle period.

"I thought it did," Plymouth head coach Mike Vellucci said about whether the Wilson fight helped ignite the Whalers after a sluggish start to the second.

Plymouth had given up a flurry of six shots in the first two minutes, but wound up outshooting Windsor 22-3 for the rest of the period. "He (Wilson) had a real good game. That's how he's got to play to be suc-cessful," Vellucci continued.

The Whalers (30-10-2-1, first in the West Division) kept firing shots and fists (there were seven fights in the game) and went up 3-0 with 1:51 to go in the second on Stefan Noesen's power-play goal assisted by Wilson.

The 6-4, 200-pounder then scored at 10:52

Salem to host baseball clinics

Youngsters will have their chance to again learn all about baseball from Salem's varsity players and coaching staff.

The annual Salem Varsity Baseball Clinic will take place Saturday, March 24 and 31, in the high school gym.

For a fee of $28, kids will get three hours of instruction, focusing on pitching, hitting and all phases of fielding, along with a T-shirt.

Each player should bring a baseball glove and hat to one of the following sessions, space permitting:

Session 1: Saturday, March 24, 9 a.m. to noon, ages 11-14; 14; Session 2: Saturday, March 24, 1-4 p.m., ages 7-10; Session 3: Saturday, March 31, 9 a.m. to noon, ages 7-10; Session 4: Saturday, March 31, 1-4 p.m., ages 7-10.

Space is limited to 75 participants per session, so early registration is encouraged.

Peterson had six rebounds, while Dierker helped the cause with six blocks, four assists and three steals.

That the parade of offensive contributors was long did not surprise Brodie, who has come to expect such "all-in" performances.

"That's been the truth all year long," Brodie said. "Tyler, Dierk or Peterson, (senior guard Grant) Bettner. Guys step up and they cover each other if somebody has a bad game."

The Rocks were pretty much on target from the early moments, connecting on half of their attempts for two-pointers (24-of-48). Conversely, Novi struggled from inside or outside the arc, making 10-of-30 tries for two-point field goals and just 4-of-22 trey attempts.

"The key to us is defense," Brodie said. "We have to play good defense every game. We gave up 67 last week (against Stevenson) and only gave up 42 today. That's a big improvement.'

With a strong allaround performance, Cheston scored 19 points and also was a force with 17 rebounds and seven blocks.

Also in double figures for the Wildcats (7-3 overall, 3-1 in the South) were Jada Woody and Kylie Robb, with 12 and 10 points, respectively.

"Shelby was great," Plymouth head coach Bob de Bear said. "She really made finishing at the rim tough for Wayne. I'm really happy for her. She is really starting to develop as a complete player.'

The Wildcats led 23-19 at halftime and pulled away with a 12-6 edge in the third.

Robb also was instrumental in the win, scoring seven of her 10 points in the second half.

Wayne dropped to 2-8 overall and 1-3 in the division.

Mercy rules Ladywood

By Dan O'Meara Observer Staff Writer

It didn't look good for Farmington Hills Mercy when it spotted Livonia Ladywood a 12-3 lead and lost point guard Candice Leatherwood to an ankle injury in the first quarter Tuesday.

But the other Marlins rallied and survived a late Ladywood comeback for a 61-56 victory in a Catholic League Central Division girls basketball game at Mercy. "We needed to settle down and relax," Mercy coach Gary Morris said. "Once we realized we were going to have to play without Candice, a couple players had to step up in terms of our ball handling. I was really proud of our kids, because we had a lot going against us early, being without Candice and also being behind."

Mercy forged a 23-23 tie at halftime with an 18point second quarter and 10 first-half points by sophomore guard Allie Gorcyca.

The Marlins (8-2, 2-1) continued to bring pressure in the third quarter and made an 11-0 run for a 43-32 lead.

Ladywood scored the last five of that period, but Mercy had a solid, 10point advantage nearing the midway point of the fourth, 52-42

Baskets by Briana Combs and Sara Even started a rally by the Blazers (5-6, 1-2), who were able to apply a fullcourt press and do what Mercy had done earlier after the made baskets.

Four free throws by

Andi Anastos and backto-back triples by Combs put Ladywood within two, 58-56, with less than half a minute to play.

'I'm just proud of our kids' effort," Ladywood coach Anthony Coratti said. "We had a long third quarter, but I'm very proud of the way our kids fought back. We just couldn't get over the hump. I'm frustrated with the result but eager to see us play our next game.

"At the beginning of the third quarter, (the Marlins) hustled and found a way to make their breaks. It seemed every ball that bounced off the rim bounced to them and they found a way to hit a layup or a three. But they played hard and they capitalized on our mistakes.'

Mercy's Gorcyca, Sierra LaGrande and Sarah Benson combined for six straight free throws to keep the Marlins on top, 60-56. The Blazers committed a turnover and fouled Gorcyca, who added one more point to the Mercy tally. Gorcyca, who had one triple basket in each quarter, finished with 21 points, as did junior forward Kiley Gorski for the Blazers

"That's going to help her confidence a lot," Morris said of Gorcyca. "She's a very good shooter and she showed that tonight. She made six threes (Friday) against Marian. Fortunately for us, she picked up right where she left off the other night.

'She struggled a little bit early in the season as kids do, transitioning from jayvee to varsity. I thought she started to get it going a little bit against Notre Dame Prep two games ago; obviously, the games she had against Marian and Ladywood helped us a lot.'

Morris also gave credit to Samantha Bauer and LaGrande for the jobs they did in handling the ball and running the offense in Leatherwood's

"It really put a burden on some of our kids," Morris said. "They hadn't been in that position before. I thought they did a great job in a tough situation. That's two sophomores who stepped up and did a very nice job.

Benson finished with 17 points and Bauer 13. Gorski sparked the Blazers early with 12 firsthalf points and was on the receiving end of numerous assists by Anastos, who posted 19 points; Combs added 11.

"(Gorski) was a beast," Coratti said. "With kids like that, you know we're going to find a way to start getting some Ws because, with kids like that, you can't lose. They work hard each and every day.'

"(Gorski played well) and Anastos was just relentless attacking the basket, so they presented some challenges for us," Morris said. "But we were able to hold on. I thought we had clutch free throw shooting down the stretch."

Mercy made seven of 10 free throws in the fourth quarter and was 12-of-18 overall at the foul line; Ladywood was 8-of-14

The Plymouth Canton Force fourth-grade basketball team went undefeated in the MXP Saline Holiday Tournament on December 17th, winning all four games by an average of 33 points. of the third period, completing his big day and the game's scoring. Linemate Andy Bathgate's blast was stopped by Spitfires netminder Jaroslav Pavelka - who faced 54 shots - but Wilson jumped into the slot to chip in the rebound for his sixth goal of the sea-

"I was pretty happy to see that one pop out on the doorstep and bury it," Wilson said. "No regrets tonight. I think the boys worked really hard." Other Plymouth goals were scored by forward Michael Payne (at 2:49 of the first) and defenseman Austin Levi (Canton, formerly of Farmington Hills) in the first minute of the third period.

Levi sent a rising wrister from inside the blue line that zipped past Pavelka on the short side. The goalie was screened on the shot.

Windsor (19-21-3-1) ruined the shutout bid by Plymouth goalie Scott Wedgewood (26 saves) when Nick Ebert scored on the power play. Ebert roofed the rebound of a shot by Alexander Khokhlachev at 8:45 of the third.

-Vellucci, who said the Whalers came out with a chip on their shoulders after Saturday's disappointing 2-0 loss at Compuware against Mississauga, noted that the Plymouth-Windsor bash was a typical rivalry game. "We both played hard, we both played physical and we both have tough teams.'

The Whalers play road games this week against Owen Sound and Brampton before returning home for a 7 p.m. Saturday game against Sault Ste. Marie.

PLYMOUTH 6, KITCHENER 1: Meanwhile, Jan. 13, Plymouth scored three goals in each of the first two periods to rout host Kitchener. Forwards Mitchell Heard and Rickard Rakell each tallied two mark ers, with other goals scored by Bathgate and Aleardi (his team-leading 24th).

Trade winter blahs for friendly barks at dog show

By Sharon Dargay O&E Staff Writer

More than 7,000 wet noses and wagging tails will converge for the third annual Michigan Winter Dog Classic this weekend at the Suburban Collection in Novi.

Dogs will go head to head in conformation judging, obedience tests and rally trials. But Alan Dorfman, show chairman and a Farmington Hills resident, says the event isn't just about competitive canines. "We've made it educational and fun for families. We're making it a family affair," said Dorfman, president of the Oakland County Kennel Club, co-sponsor of the show with the Livonia Kennel Club. "We're bringing in the Rock-N-Roll K-9's so families can watch dogs perform. We're bringing in Border Collies for duck herding. When we do weight pull with Alaskan Malamutes, instead of using weights on the cart, we use kids.

"I teamed with the Detroit Zoo this year and I have four Zoo mascots coming. We were the first ones last year to do a 4- to 6-month-old puppy show. We sent in the 4- and 5-year-olds (handlers) with them. The crowd loves it. Those are the kinds of things we do that other shows don't."

and two by the Oakland Kennel Club, with conformation judging and other competitive events held each day. Demonstrations, performing dogs, and educational programs round out the schedule. Pet goods vendors and animal rescue groups with adoptable animals will be on hand each day.

Breeders can register their dogs for a variety of health tests on Friday and Saturday and the Canine Good Citizen testing noon-3 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Sunday is open to both mixed breeds and purebred dogs. Dorfman said dog owners can register on the spot for the tests, which challenge dogs to exhibit 10 skills including sitting and staying on command, coming when called and behaving nicely with other dogs. Visitors who test their dogs can't bring them into the show area, although Dorfman said they may bring crates to contain their dogs while they attend the Michigan Winter Dog Classic after testing.

Bobbie Green of Redford, test coordinator, welcomes show visitors to watch the Canine Good Citizenship tests.

"I'm always happy to talk with the public on why we do it and how the dogs are being evaluated. I can evaluate a dog almost anywhere. I try to make it as comfortable as possible for the handler and their dog," she said.

Showing dogs Green, who also grooms and breeds dogs, learned about handling and conformation when she was 18 years old. It was the late 1960s and her sister had begun to take Great Danes into the judging

The Michigan Winter Dog Classic gives beginning handlers a chance to show off their puppies in the judging ring.

"My sister got me involved in showing dogs. She had Great Danes at the time and got involved in the shows and got me involved."

Green said it was "great fun" watching her "four-legged" child on stage and she suspects sisters, "Ellie" and "Star" could possibly follow in their mom's paw prints one day.

"We have a lot of fun with our dogs. We enjoy sharing them with the public and talking with people about the different things they can do with their dogs. You can have fun with your animal doing lots of different things ... obedience, rally, therapy dog work."

Breed and Best in Show judging at the Michigan Winter Dog Classic will be streamed live Saturday and Sunday on the event's Web site. Watch the action at www.themichiganwinterdogclassic.com.

Concert honors life of arts philanthropist

Detroit Chamber Winds & Strings will celebrate the life of the late Edgar Hagopian at its next "Nightnotes" concert, 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 3, at Hagopian World of Rugs in Birmingham.

Hagopian's love of traditional Armenian music will be reflected in the evening's repertoire. It will include traditional Armenian folk songs, famous opera arias, and pieces for piano and violin. Pianist Robert Conway, violinist Henrik Karapetian and singer Rubik Mailian, Komitas Choir Director at St. John Armenian Church of Greater Detroit, will be the featured musicians.

Hagopian was known throughout the community for his kind nature, love of the arts and strong desire to give back to the community. He supported the arts and worked to make them accessible to all. In addition to making financial donations to the arts. he also donated his rug showrooms as venues for concerts, lectures, fundraisers and art shows.

The Detroit Chamber Winds & Strings has performed its "Nightnotes" concerts at Hagopian World of Rugs in Birmingham since 1993.

Discounted advance tickets for A Celebration of Life are $22 for adults and $10 for students. Tickets are available online at detroitchamberwinds.org or by calling (248) 559-2095. Admission at the door is $27 for adults and $15 for students.

A reception will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Detroit Chamber Winds & Strings draws its musicians primarily from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Michigan Opera Theatre. Visit its Web site at detroitchamberwinds.org.

Slow cook your way to the table

Tith busy schedules, demanding jobs and outside distractions, it's no wonder that 57 percent of families do not eat meals together every day, according to the Journal of American Medicine.

However, research shows that eating together as a family has many benefits including better academic performance, greater communication and improved nutrition.

Enjoy more family meals together by reducing the time spent on preparing a meal. With the help of America's favorite protein, pork, and a classic kitchen ally, the slow cooker, gathering the family around the table is a cinch. Featuring many versatile cuts that can be easily prepared and cooked low and slow, pork is a juicy, tender and flavorful centerpiece for gatherings of any size, whether it's a weeknight dinner or a large family reunion.

Try these tips for your next easy and delicious family dinner:

· Make it Lean: According to MyPlate from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, lean protein is a core element of an overall healthy plate. Fresh pork is a delicious way to meet the dietary recommendations and can readily be paired with fruits, vegetables and whole grains. Pork cuts from the loin such as a loin roast or chops are a delicious, leaner alternative for your next "low and slow" meal.

• Keep it Together: Help roasts keep their shape during slow cooking by tying them with cotton kitchen twine (also called butcher's twine). If you don't have it on hand, use unwaxed and unflavored dental floss.

 Spice it Up: Pork pairs well with so many flavors — experi-ment with different spice combinations to find your favorite. To add a mild garlic taste to your next slowcooked roast, before cooking, cut garlic cloves into 12 slivers, pierce 12 holes all over the pork with the tip of a knife and insert a garlic sliver into each hole.

Almonds add flavor and crunch to winter dishes

Winter foods typically mean one thing - comfort. Regardless of climate or geographic location, we crave the root vegetables and braised meats that complement the season and keep us full and warm. Luckily, almonds in all their forms guarantee these dishes taste as indulgent and delicious as the very foods we

Chef Anthony Rose of the Drake Hotel in Toronto, is a pro at using seasonal foods and almonds to create comforting, delicious and unexpected dishes. Rose's wintry creations take the best of what the season has to offer and adds the distinct crunch and flavor of almonds.

"I love the rich, buttery flavor and crunch of toasted almonds. They make the perfect addition to any dish, whether a starter, main course or even in desserts and cocktails," Rose says. "Braised dishes and winter salads always benefit from the unrivaled crunch almonds can provide."

Chef Rose's winter recipes, such as roasted beets in a tangy mustard-almond vinaigrette and braised pork shoulder with an apple-almond compote, create an entire menu that balances seasonal ingredients with zesty flavors and the crunch of almonds. But it's his Almond-Crusted Pumpkin Fritters that lend a colorful, festive and crunchy start to any cozy gathering.

Visit www.AlmondBoard. com for more recipes by Chef Anthony Rose and the Almond Innovator team, Jenny McCoy, pastry chef of Craft in New York City, and Matthew Biancaniello, mixologist of the Library Bar in Los Angeles.

Almond Crusted Pumpkin Fritters

- 1 pound cooked Kabocha squash (1 small raw)
- 2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil 1 tablespoon crushed chili flakes
- 1/2 pound cooked russet potato (1 large raw) 1 cup salt
- 3 tablespoons chopped sage 1 ounce grated parmesan
- 1 ounce grated cheddar
- 1 egg yolk
- Zest of half a lemon
- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour 1 ½ cups toasted crushed almonds
- Salt and pepper, to taste 1 bag micro greens

Preheat oven to 350°F. Split squash width wise; scrape out seeds. Drizzle each half with olive oil. Sprinkle with chili flakes, a pinch of salt and pepper. Let sit for 20 minutes.

Stab each potato four times around with fork. Line sheet pan with salt; place potatoes on top. Place squash facedown on another parchment-lined sheet pan. Bake squash and potatoes in oven for 1 hour or until soft. Remove from oven. Carefully split open potatoes lengthwise to steam; allow all to cool completely.

When cool, scoop out squash and potato into bowl. Add sage, parmesan, cheddar, egg and lemon zest. Season with salt and pepper. Combine thoroughly; a chunky texture is fine.

Set up three bowls and one parchment-lined sheet tray. In one bowl, whisk together eggs; place almonds and flour separately in two remaining bowls.

With large spoon or scoop, take about 2 tablespoons of squash mixture and form an oval; dredge in flour, dip in egg and roll in almonds before placing onto sheet pan. Repeat with remaining squash. Refrigerate until ready to fry

In deep, heavy bottomed pan, heat oil to 300°F. Carefully pan fry fritters until golden brown, approximately 2-1/2 minutes each side. Remove from oil. Drain on paper towel; sprinkle with pinch of salt. Serve hot on small bed of microgreens with or without sauce.

Energy efficiency vital for winter months

With winter in full swing, many people are looking for ways to save money through energy efficiency. Better Business Bureau is offering a checklist for homeowners to safely prepare their homes for the cold winter months, and perhaps save a few dollars in the process.

According to the Energy Information Administration, home heating costs this winter are expected to rise by 10.2 percent for homeowners who rely on heating oil. Luckily, homeowners can fend off some of the rising energy costs by winterizing their home before the harshest weather takes hold.

"With the unpredictability of Mother Nature, now is the time to prepare for the winter months ahead," said Patrick Bennett, BBB Director of Community Relations. "Taking the time to winterize your home gives you the peace of mind that you will not only save money, but be energy efficient as well.'

The following is a BBB home winterizing checklist for consumers to consult when preparing for the cold months

•Furnace. Furnaces older than 15 years might be due for a replacement. For newer furnaces, BBB recommends making sure the furnace filter is clean, the thermostat is working properly and the pilot light is functioning. Homeowners can also hire an inspector to do the job and make sure the furnace is in safe working order.

·Chimney. Before lighting up the fireplace, homeowners should have the chimney inspected for animals, debris and leaves that may have fallen in. BBB also recommends installing a screen over the chimney opening.

•Gutters and ridge vents. Gutters should be cleaned to prevent any clogs that would cause rainwater to back up and freeze, making the gutters expand and crack.

The ridge vents need to be cleaned as well in order to allow the house to "breath" correctly. Otherwise, air will stagnate and create an unhealthy environment.

·Smoke alarm and carbon monoxide detectors. BBB recommends testing smoke alarms and carbon monoxide detectors and installing fresh batteries. Homeowners should consider replacing smoke alarms older than 10 years.

·Caulking and weather stripping. To prevent leaks, homeowners should inspect the caulking around windows and doors and check for cracking and peeling. In addition, BBB recommends ensuring that doors and windows shut tightly and no cold air is coming in due to worn weather stripping.

·Seasonal equipment. Homeowners won't need their spring and summer equipment for a few months, so BBB recommends draining the water from garden hoses and air conditioner pipes, and the gasoline from the lawnmower and other garden tools. It's also time to pull out the snow shovels and plows and ensure they are in good repair.

•Emergency kit. When a winter storm strikes, an emergency kit should have all essential materials in one handy place. An emergency kit should include flashlights, candles and matches, a first aid kit, bottled water, nonperishable food and a battery-powered radio. BBB recommends creating the same emergency kit for the car as well, including a couple blan-

Lawyer: Fee policy a negative

Q: Do you have any information concerning announced plans by FHA to begin disqualifying condominiums from FHA financing if an association charges a deed based transfer fee at the time of sale?

understand that this is the case which, of course,

A: Yes, I

puts FHA at odds with the Federal Housing

Finance Agency which earlier in 2011 determined that such fees benefit community associations that do not impact on the sale of community association properties. This is yet another unilateral action by FHA without public notice or input that will have a detrimental effect on the condominium market where transfer fees are utilized.

Q: Our landlord removed and has stored some of our personal property after we were evicted. I think by taking away our property they may have converted it. What do you think? A: The Supreme Court of Michigan has held that placing a former tenant's property in storage does not constitute In addition, your landlord's removal of an evicted tenant's personal property is not wrongful if the landlord undertook the removal pursuant to an eviction order. Obviously, removal of personal property pursuant to an eviction order can constitute conversion if the manner of removal was unnecessary to the eviction. Of course, if the landlord willfully or carelessly destroys the personal property, the removal was wrongful. Obviously each case is fact intensive and you should consult with an attorney.

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The
