Canton cops get new car cameras

Department uses forfeiture money and grant funds to purchase start-of-the-art thermal imaging cameras

A gun-wielding suspect robs a Canton business at night and hides behind a thicket of shrubs to elude police.
An Alzheimer's patient walks away from home and becomes lost and frightened on a shadowy street.
Drug dealers seize narcotics from a Canton pharmacy in broad daylight and cover in a wooded area to escape detection.

A foster child flees home and is hiding under a parked car to avoid being found.
Canton police encountering such scenarios will have a better chance at catching criminals and locating missing people, especially after dark or in hidden places, once they receive new thermal imaging cameras for patrol cars.

"These are state of the art," Public Safety Director Todd Mutchler said.
Using drug forfeiture money and grant dollars, local authorities plan to spend $8,148 to buy Noptric Thermal Imagers from Southgate-based Winder Police Equipment to place on two patrol cars.

Richard Winder, company president, said only two other Michigan departments – Grosse Ile and Northville Township – have the Noptric tool.
The police cameras are mounted on special cars and integrated with the rear-view mirror, allowing officers to better spot criminals, missing children, dementia patients and others who may cause harm or be in harm's way.

Local officials say the tool is similar to night-vision goggles.
"But it still works during the day," Winder said.
The new technology is more advanced than the bulky, handheld thermal imagers that force a police officer to stop the patrol car and exit the vehicle, losing precious seconds and potentially placing themselves in the line of fire.
The latest cameras also allow law enforcement to cover

Tuskegee Airman, 92, leads Canton celebration

Lt. Col. Alexander Jefferson bravely flew fighter aircraft during World War II and spent time in a German prison camp after his plane was shot down defending freedom.
Yet this African-American pilot, one of the oldest surviving Tuskegee Airman at age 92, was hardly treated like a hero when he returned to the United States, a country gripped by racism.

Black soldiers and their white counterparts had to form different lines as they touched U.S. soil. Back in Detroit, Jefferson said he couldn't ride the Boblo boat. He couldn't choose where he wanted a meal.

Kroger evacuated twice in two weeks

Firefighters called to store for carbon monoxide leak

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

The Kroger store at Canton Center and Ford roads was evacuated briefly Wednesday morning for the second time in as many weeks due to elevated levels of carbon monoxide, Canton Fire Chief Joshua Meier said.

"At this point, we have no reports of injuries," Meier said Wednesday morning.
Canton fire crews went to the store about 4:30 a.m. Wednesday after receiving reports from employees of a possible carbon monoxide leak inside the store. The store hadn't yet opened for business.

Fire crews contacted DTE Energy, which sent workers to the store and determined that a faulty heating unit had caused the problem, Meier said.

"The store was closed until the situation could be mitigated," he said.
Dale Hollandsworth, consumer communications spokesman for Kroger Co. of Michigan, said the store's 6 a.m. opening was delayed by an hour. He said the company's maintenance team went to the store to fix the problem.

Hollandsworth said "nearly feeling employees" were feeling

Locals join call for Agema ouster

Republican National Committee member draws ire for remarks

By Brad Kadrich
Staff Writer

Add Plymouth and Canton state legislators to the growing list of people calling for the resignation of Republican National Committee member Dave Agema.

State Rep. Kurt Heise, a Plymouth Township Republican representing the 20th District, and state Rep. Dian Slavens, a Canton Township Democrat in her third term representing the 21st District, both say the former state representative from Grandville should resign over controversial comments and postings made on Facebook.

They joined a burgeoning list of people calling for Agema to step down – or for the party to oust him – as the RNC prepared to meet this week in Washington.

State Sen. Patrick Colbeck, a Republican from Canton, couldn't be reached for comment.

Heise said he voted for Agema's opponent, Saul Anzures, in the 2012 vote that made Agema the committee member. He said Agema's postings – comments that have been described as anti-gay, anti-Muslim and intolerant – make it clear he "doesn't represent me and they don't represent the party."

KING

in downtown Detroit I could not eat in," Jefferson told a crowd Monday night in Canton that packed the 400-seat Village Theater at Cherry Hill for a celebration of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s life and legacy.

Jefferson, a highly educated hero who taught school and penned his war memories in Red Tail Captured, Red Tail Free: Memoirs of a Tuskegee Airman and POW, said struggles for equality continue — long after King was gunned down April 4, 1968, outside a Memphis motel.

Issues remain

Jefferson said women still earn 75 cents to a man's dollar for the same job. He said more young Detroit women are going to prison than college. He spoke of war atrocities in countries such as Rwanda.

"These are the things we have to think about today," he told a diverse crowd inside the Village Theater.

Even Hollywood has often failed history, Jefferson said, criticizing movies such as Red Tails for stereotyping African-American pilots as hard-drinking and drug users. "Not a damn thing in that movie is true — it's Hollywood," he said.

Jefferson gave a chilling account of war as he recalled being near Nazi camps "where they were burning bodies. I'll never get over the smell of burning human flesh."

Though it might seem surprising, Jefferson said he was mostly treated "as an officer and a gentleman" while he was captive. Back home, his parents grieved because they had been mistakenly told he had been killed in action.

Jefferson didn't shy away from politics, saying he believes President Barack Obama has been criticized for deep-rooted problems he inherited and has faced unfair attacks for trying to help uninsured Americans get health care.

Lighter moment

At times, Jefferson wove humor into his keynote address, saying he had so many topics he wanted to cover that he felt "like a mosquito at a nudist camp." He kept the audience's interest, this Detroit Chadsey High School graduate who never seemed defeated by racism as he earned college degrees in chemistry and biology before becoming a hero with the Tuskegee Army's 332nd Fighter Group.

Outside in the theater lobby, Canton resident and Vietnam veteran Leon Hawthorne, who once sang backing vocals for Motown artists, posed with Jefferson while Hawthorne's wife Barbara snapped a picture.

"I think I'm in dreamland," Leon Hawthorne said. "I can hardly believe I touched and shook his hand."

Terrika and Tonio Irby brought daughters Tabitha, 14, who performed with the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park's Step dance team, and Tiffany, 7.

Terrika Irby said it's important for the girls to learn about King "so they can tell their children someday and keep it going through the generations."

Canton's youth wowed the audience with music and dance. Alicia Dent aced The Star-Spangled Banner and a piano solo of Precious Lord. Singer and tap dancer Kelsey Rose, accompanied by guitarist Rick Young, performed Up to the Mountain.

From a balcony, actor Stan Jordan recited King's I Have a Dream speech before the New Hope Music Academy, directed by Isaac Pippen, had the crowd clapping along to spiritual songs. Later, local students received awards for their essays and artwork honoring King.

The winners:

- Elementary: Abdurrahman Khan for essay and Jordan Vidojevski for art.

- Middle school: Sanya Wadwa for essay and Sarah Rowe for art.

- High school: Tiffany Askew for essay and Sapphire Jackson for art.

Church hosts annual coat drive

Maureen Hassien knows her late husband Bud would not hesitate to strip off his own coat for someone else who needed it.

That's why Hassien is happy to be one of the folks leading the charge for the annual St. Thomas a Becket coat drive, dubbed "Be a Buddy Coat Drive," that will help fill a need church officials say "is still great" for coats.

This year's drive runs through Sunday, Jan. 26, and benefits a variety of church and other outreach organizations.

"It's a great thing," said Hassien, who lost her husband in September 2006. "We've gotten a lot of requests again this year."

It's the seventh year for the drive, named for friend of the church and former parishioner Bud Haissen. Organizers decided to re-member Bud in this way because, as his wife said, "Bud would have given the coat of his own back."

Over the last six years, volunteers have collected more than 14,000 coats, Hassien said. The church donated more than 2,000 coats in last year's coat drive and has had more than 2,000 requests this year.

In addition to coats, the church will also be accepting clean used gloves, mittens and scarves. Mittens are needed. Donors are asked to put mittens and gloves in a plastic bag so they do not get separated.

Like last year, the church will also be purchasing new coats with monetary donations. Last year, new coats were purchased for babies, children and adults at a discount, because retail sales are often great in late January.

Church officials said they'd "be thrilled to accept" any monetary donations. Checks need to be made out to St. Thomas a Becket.

Coat drive officials will take everything from baby bunnings, snow suits, hoodies, children's, teen's and adult coats and jackets.

Coats are distributed first to those in need in the St. Thomas a Becket parish. Coats also go to organizations such as the Wayne County Homeless Shelter, Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center (to dress women for job interviews), Wayne Family Resource Center, the Capuchin Soup Kitchen and others.

Donations, both clothing and money, can be dropped off at the church, located at 555 S. Lilley in Canton.

more ground in less time.

Township Supervisor Phil LaJoy, who has touted the Canton Police Department as among Michigan's best, said the new tool will complement the local arsenal of weapons and help keep the community safe. He and his six township board colleagues have approved the purchase.

Thermal imagers are used to halt criminal behavior and locate perpetrators who often use the cover of darkness to commit their crimes and elude capture. The cameras even give police the ability to see if a suspect is armed, lessening their risks. The tools sense heat and movement and work to improve an officer's visibility.

Trustee Pat Williams said the thermal imaging cameras are appealing "not just to catch bad people," but also to find residents who may have wandered away from nursing homes or other facilities.

When time is critical — whether it's a crime or a missing person — local officials say every police tool can potentially save a life. For now, police plan to equip just two patrol cars with the new technology, though it's possible others could get the cameras.

"Certainly we'll look at addressing them as needed," Mutchler said.

a little nauseated" when they called the fire department, though no serious injuries were reported.

"We opened up the doors and aired out the store," he said.

Hollandsworth said the carbon monoxide has "no effect on food at all" inside the store. He said the store has a carbon monoxide monitor.

Meier confirmed the same Kroger had closed "very briefly" last week due to a similar situation that involved the evacuation of workers and customers.

"The Kroger store has been very cooperative in getting its maintenance people on the scene," he said. "Kroger has done an excellent job on both occurrences in ensuring the safety of the employees and customers."

Meier said the incidents should serve as a reminder to businesses and homeowners to ensure they have carbon monoxide detectors that are working properly. He said heating-system leaks are more likely to occur during severely cold weather like the area has had.

"Anytime the temperatures get this low, heaters — whether in a home or a business — tend to be working harder," Meier said. That, he said, can make heating systems more susceptible to problems.

"I think he needs to step down ... it's time," Heise said of Agema. "I worked with (Agema) as a state representative but, unfortunately, I have to ask him to do the right thing and step down."

The list of Republicans urging Agema to resign is getting longer and louder. U.S. Rep. Candice Miller, R-Harrison Township, issued a press release Tuesday calling for Agema to resign. U.S. Rep. Fred Upton, R-St. Joseph, offered the same sentiment.

Earlier this week, published reports showed Betsy DeVos, former state party chairman and the wife of former gubernatorial candidate Dick DeVos, issuing a strong rebuke of Agema.

While she's obviously not involved directly, Slavs said it was time for Agema to go, calling the controversy a distraction.

"He needs to step down ... based on (statements of) ignorance, bigotry ... it's ridiculous he's a leader in the Republican Party," Slavs said. "We need to focus on moving Michigan forward, bringing more jobs to the state and making sure education is funded. I applaud the Republicans who've stepped up and called for him to resign."

Canton man faces charges in carjacking case at Meijer

By Lonnie Huhman
Staff Writer

The Meijer store at Eight Mile and Haggerty in Northville was the scene of a scary situation last week, when a Canton Township man allegedly used a gun to rob two men in a harrowing carjacking incident.

According to the Northville Township Police, the incident took place at approximately 9:30 p.m. Jan. 15 at the store, 20401 Haggerty Road.

A suspect, 20-year-old Muhammed Turkovic of Canton Township, was later arrested in connection with the incident on multiple charges.

The investigation that led to the arrest was a cooperative effort between Northville Township, Oakland County and Canton Township.

Police say two Farmington Hills men were robbed at gunpoint by another man after they exited the Meijer store and were getting into their vehicle. They were then forced to drive to a nearby ATM and withdraw money. They say the man also stole additional property from the victims.

"The suspect made the victims get out of the vehicle and he drove away in it," Northville Township Lt. Mike Wildt said.

Turkovic

The vehicle was later recovered in a nearby community, though police were not specific. Northville Township got a lead after spotting a "Be on the Lookout" issued by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. It stated a suspicious person that fit the Northville description was identified in an incident at the Walmart in Milford.

Police arrested Turkovic in Canton Township after another incident at the Walmart there, but this time he was taken into custody. Wildt said they interviewed him while he was in Canton and they were able to tie him to the Meijer crimes.

Turkovic is charged with one count of carjacking (felony, up to life in prison), two counts of armed robbery (felony, up to life in prison) and two counts of unlawful imprisonment (15-year felony) and one count of stealing of a financial transaction device (four-year felony).

"This is a case of good work and cooperation between us, Oakland County and Canton," Wildt said.

Turkovic was arraigned Monday in 34th District Court in Romulus and is being held on a $1 million bond in the Wayne County Jail. Because of the MLK holiday, the hearing went to the Romulus court, which was open on the holiday.

The preliminary examination is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. Friday, Jan. 31, in the 35th District Court in Plymouth.

PLYMOUTH CRIME WATCH

Parts theft

A 20-year-old Southfield man was arrested Jan. 14 in the theft of nearly $250 worth of plumbing components from the Home Depot at Five Mile and Beck.

The incident occurred shortly after 11 a.m., a Plymouth Township Police Department report said. Police were called after a store security worker witnessed a man walk through the plumbing aisle, conceal items in his coat and leave the store without paying for them, the report said. The employee confronted the man outside and $247.36 worth of parts were found in the liner of his coat, police said.

The suspect admitted the theft, police said, saying that he shoplifts to support a heroin addiction. He said he sells stolen items to a Downriver contractor.

Makeup theft

A 65-year-old Northville Township woman was arrested Jan. 15 in the theft of makeup from the Kmart store on Ann Arbor Road.

The incident occurred shortly before 2 p.m., a police report said. A store security worker told police he had seen the woman, via a security camera, conceal cosmetics in her purse and leave the store, the report said.

He confronted her outside and police were called.

Tire-slashing

All four tires on a Chevrolet Impala were slashed the night of Jan. 14 as the car sat in the parking lot of an apartment complex in the area of Ann Arbor Trail and I-275.

A responding officer noted a cut of about one inch to each of the tires after the car's owner discovered the vandalism around 10 a.m. Jan. 15, a police report said.

Light gone

The left taillight was reported stolen Jan. 15 from a Jeep Cherokee parked in the driveway of a house on Barrington Road, in the area of Joy and Canton Center roads. The entire assembly, including the wiring, was gone, police said. The complainant told police the Jeep had last been seen intact at about 2 p.m. Jan. 14.

CANTON CRIME WATCH

Parking lot sex

Canton police issued citations to a man and woman for disorderly and obscene conduct after finding them having sex in a red Honda in the parking lot of the Marathon gas station on Michigan Avenue near Haggerty Road, a police report said.

Police received a call shortly before 12:30 a.m. Monday after others noticed the couple—a Brownstown woman and a Canton man, both 21—inside a parked car that was fiddling with the windows idled up.

A police officer approached the driver's side of the car and spotted the man with his pants partially pulled down while he was being groped by the woman, police said. The front passenger seat was described as being in a reclined position.

The woman tried to cover the man's genitals with a pillow, the report said, before he pulled up his pants and was ordered out of the vehicle by authorities. He told police his pants were unbuttoned because he had a stomach ache, police said.

Police issued citations for the pair to appear in 35th District Court and released them at the scene.

Drug paraphernalia

Police arrested a 51-year-old Romulus man for possession of drug paraphernalia after finding items commonly used to smoke crack cocaine, a police report said.

The incident unfolded after police noticed a defective brake light and stopped a Ford Taurus near Canton Center and Palmer roads shortly before 11:30 a.m. Monday. A 20-year-old Westland woman was driving and was accompanied by her boyfriend, 21, of Inkster, and the man who was arrested.

Police found items in the back seat where the 51-year-old man had been sitting. Police recovered a clear glass pipe, a burnt scouring pad, metal wire hangers and rolling papers, the police report said. The female driver denied she and her boyfriend had any knowledge of the items, though she did admit to police that her boyfriend had recently served time behind bars on drug-related charges.

As the incident unfolded, police went to tell the woman's boyfriend had met the other man the day before at an Inkster motel. When stopped by police, the suspects said they were on their way to cash in a gift card.

The 51-year-old man who was arrested told police he had smoked crack cocaine the day before, but said the paraphernalia didn't belong to him. However, some of the items were found on him during a search, the police report said.

Work site theft

A contractor working on a construction site on Michigan Avenue west of Lilley notified police after items such as safety lights and cages were stolen sometime prior to Sunday morning, a police report said.

A 54-year-old man who reported the theft told police there had been no work done at the site for nearly a month due to winter weather, but when he returned the items were missing.

The man told police he intended to check with scrap yards to see if the items may have been sold for scrap. He also planned to notify the insurance company.

Duffel bag swiped

A 14-year-old male told police his duffel bag containing his cellphone and miscellaneous clothing was stolen while he was at Summit on the Park, a police report said. The teen reported the incident Saturday evening.

He said he arrived at the Summit around 2:15 p.m. and learned his duffel bag had been stolen about three hours later.

A conversation with ...

... a Plymouth coffee aficionado

In not quite three years in business, Plymouth's Espresso Elevado has built a devoted following with meticulously prepared coffees and specialty drinks, an eclectic, outgoing staff and on-site custom roasting. Owner Teresa Pilarz said the coffee-house lets her pour (her word) many interests—culinary arts, creativity, customer service and even Spanish (spoken in many coffee-growing countries)—into one business.

Pilarz sat down with the Observer over a couple of recent afternoons, as customers sought coffee and refuge against a grim chill, to talk about her 20-year love for fine coffee. She also studied Spanish for about 20 years, winding up with a master's degree and teaching it at the college level, while the shop's name suggests an "elevated" coffee experience, so we'll call her a coffee aficionado.

Observer: Fair to say you're passionate about coffee?

Teresa: Absolutely! To what do you date the passion for coffee?

First coffee job, early '90s. Drifted in and out of coffee and kept learning more about it. Eventually taught myself to roast and that was in, like, 2008. I started at roasting at home, worked for a roaster for a short time and at that point I was convinced I needed to be in coffee. The amount of things we don't know about coffee there's constant learning opportunities. I figured it was something I could grow into for the rest of my life.

You've compared coffee to wine in terms of its complexity, its different flavors or "notes."

Coffee is actually more complex than wine in terms of the number of volatile compounds in it. Roasting throws in a whole new set of variables. ... Fruits, nuts, chocolate, floral, citrus.

Teresa Pilarz at Espresso Elevado, where both the coffee and the water that goes into it are meticulously measured for each cup.

Flavor notes, yeah. ... How it's roasted helps bring out or mute a lot of those flavors.

Have you traveled to coffee plantations?

I've been to a couple. I've been to Costa Rica and the Dominican Republic and seen coffee in origin in those places.

You have employees here with a variety of interests. I often hear them talking about the different things they're doing.

Well-rounded. I want to hire people that are smart. You hire people smarter than you, that's even better. ... We've got two musicians, we've got an artist on the staff. ... we've got quite a variety here. It keeps it interesting. Then everybody's got some unique contribution.

Have you long wanted to own your own business?

For a long time. ... Having my own business would be a way I could express everything I'm interested in. ... And, let's face it, there are control issues.

Tell me about some of the odd things that have happened while running the shop.

A guy came in looking for his teeth.

Had he been drinking coffee in here?

He was drinking something—no, he wasn't drinking coffee.

You have a lot of regulars here.

We have a good, solid base of wonderful customers. ... I think a lot of 'em come because they truly like to interact with the staff.

What do you do besides coffee and business? Movies? Books? Planting a garden? Travel?

I hate gardening. I'm not good with plants. I should be because I'm a Virgo and that is technically that is an earth sign. ... We go out to eat.

What are your favor- ite places?

Probably a draw between Piamisu and Alexander's—and Cellar 849.

Coffee and books go together. What do you like to read?

Non-fiction. Business books. Right now the books on Steve Jobs.

How much coffee do you drink in a day and how do you take it?

Depends on the day. I don't really drink an excessive amount. Today, I had a cappuccino and I cupped (tasted) some coffees, so I so had some that way.

Do you need it to get your day started?

Yeah. (Laughs.) I'll feel like my day is not complete. ... I'd feel so sad.

Know anyone in the Plymouths or Canton who'd make a good candidate for "A conversation with ...?" Email suggestions to mjcham@hometownlife.com.

GLITZ, GLAMOUR AT AUTO SHOW GALA

The indomitable spirit of Detroit is alive and well. Just ask the nearly 13,800 people who attended the North American International Auto Show Charity Preview last Friday.

NAIAS reported $4.8 million was raised for nine children's charities during an evening of glamour and elegance. This year's event raised nearly $1 million more than 2013 – and the highest amount raised since 2008.

"The evening was absolutely electric," NAIAS chairman Bob Shuman said.

Charities benefiting from the event include Boys and Girls Clubs of Southeastern Michigan, Boys and Girls Hope Detroit, The Children's Center, The Children's Hospital of Michigan Foundation, The Detroit Auto Dealers Association Charitable Foundation Fund, a fund of the Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan, Detroit Institute of Children, Judson Center, March of Dimes Metro Detroit and Detroit P.A.I.

The black tie crowd enjoyed 4,400 bottles of champagne, 1,000 pounds of beef, 20,000 bottles of wine, 35,000 bottles of beer from the Detroit Beer Co., 1,200 pounds of shrimp and more.

The show is now open to the public through Sunday, Jan. 26.

Purple Heart recipient 'blessed to be here'

By Valerie Olander
Correspondent

When the government envelope arrived in Dan O'Connor's Redford mailbox, the Iraq War veteran thought it was just another form to fill out after retiring two years ago from the U.S. Army.

Inside, he found his Purple Heart certificate for wounds suffered in combat during his second tour in Iraq. Once the medal arrives, a pinning ceremony will be held with an adjunct general in Lansing.

O'Connor, 37, suffered a traumatic brain injury from a suicide bomber's attack Jan. 20, 2009. Five other soldiers were injured and four Iraqi civilians were killed that day. He still suffers from headaches and a hearing loss in his left ear.

"I'm just blessed to be here, home with my kids and going to school (at Schoolcraft College). I'm starting a new chapter in my life," he said.

As a sergeant with the 4th Battalion, 42nd Field Artillery Regiment, O'Connor was in charge of a security patrol in Baghdad, where his captain and other coalition forces were meeting with Iraqi officials.

He was in charge of eight soldiers in four Humvees lined up along a street near an office building where the meeting was taking place. A second security patrol from his unit was parked there, too.

O'Connor remembers checking on his men and returning to his Humvee. Just as he shut the Humvee door, a blast rocked the street. A suicide bomber in a car detonated 200 pounds of explosives.

His memory is patchy. O'Connor remembers hearing one of his gunners yelling for him and then making the initial radio contact to report the explosion. In the second that followed, his patrol assessed the area to make sure no other threats existed. The injured were rushed to the Green Zone hospital. Three soldiers suffered shrapnel wounds. Two gunners from O'Connor's patrol, Spec. Dixon Daggar and Pvt. Dustin Dill, suffered concussions.

It was outside the hospital where troops were gathered waiting for news on the injured when his section leader noticed O'Connor was having issues with his depth perception. After an MRI, he was admitted to the hospital for a concussion.

"I don't remember much. I woke up in a hospital bed next to Dill and Daggi wondering what had happened," he said.

He spent two days in the hospital and returned to his base, where he recuperated for one more day before returning to duty.

"It's a very surreal experience. We lost so many men and sometimes I wonder how I made it back alive. I have 11 friends who were not so lucky during two tours in Iraq," he said.

The worst day was Jan. 5, 2006. This was shortly after arriving in southern Iraq during his first combat tour. Five men from his unit were killed from an improvised explosive device during a convoy operation in An Najaf. The anniversary haunts him and he memorializes the men, keeping in contact with their family members and his Army friends.

A 1994 graduate of Redford Union High School, O'Connor worked at the Kmart distribution center on Joy and Hagerty for 10 years. When it closed, he found temporary work, including a seasonal job with Wayne County Parks, but nothing permanent. That's when he decided to join the Army in 2005, knowing two wars were raging in Iraq and Afghanistan.

"I remember telling the recruiter I didn't want to go until after St. Patrick's Day so I could have my last hurrah with friends. I was at Duffy's (a bar where his future wife Susie was working)," he said.

The two knew each other, but didn't start dating until after he returned stateside in 2009. He was stationed at Fort Carson in Colorado for two more years.

After retiring in 2011, he found the job climate in the Detroit area no better than it was when he enlisted in the Army. Last semester, he began taking classes at Schoolcraft College using his Veterans Administration benefits. Once completing the prerequisite courses, he will transfer to Eastern Michigan University to get a teaching degree.

In the meantime, the stay-at-home dad is busy with his 9-year-old stepdaughter Mya and his 20-month-old daughter Lily, a busy little girl, who can snatch a reporter's unattended notebook with seconds. His wife Susie is a nurse at St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia.

"I'm lucky to be here with my girls. Chasing (Lily) helps me to not dwell on it. She's really my therapy," he said, tossing the giggling Lily skyward.

Redford Supervisor Tracey Schultz Kobylarz is the new chair of the Conference of Western Wayne, a consortium of the top elected leaders of 18 communities in western Wayne County that meets monthly to discuss topics affecting western Wayne.

Redford supervisor to lead CWW, Eight Mile group

By Beth Jachman
Staff Writer

Area's needs

Redford Township Supervisor Tracey Schultz Kobylarz was recently named chair of the Conference of Western Wayne and re-elected chair of the Eight Mile Boulevard Association.

"This is just an incredible honor to have the support of 18 elected officials," Kobylarz said of her recent election to chair of the Conference of Western Wayne, a consortium of the top elected leaders of 18 communities in western Wayne County. The group meets monthly to discuss topics affecting western Wayne.

Kobylarz joined the CWW five years ago and served as vice chair last year. Her term as chair is for one year.

As the members of the conference collaborate on legislative efforts to help meet the needs of western Wayne County, Kobylarz said she hopes to create "an open and welcoming environment that policy makers, elected officials and their representatives and residents are eager to be a part of."

She also hopes to lead the conference to be "more visible and involved in encouraging legislators as they may consider local needs that may be contrary to state initiatives."

Last year, the CWW joined with some chambers of commerce in western Wayne County to promote and further the area's needs in light of the recent financial and political troubles in Wayne County government.

"We are considering new partnerships with local chambers and regional economic development specialists," she said of plans to further promote the region this year.

Other areas the CWW is involved with are: CWW Mutual Aid Association, 9-1-1 collection and distribution of fees, Fire Chiefs and Police Chiefs Association, auto theft task force and funding for Growth Works and JJ Diversion efforts.

Kobylarz takes over for Plymouth Mayor Dan Dwyer, who is now chairperson emeritus. Other members of the executive board are Vice Chairperson Dearborn Mayor Jack O'Reilly, Secretary Canton Township Supervisor Phil LaJoy and Treasurer Belleville Mayor Kerene Conley.

As far as the Eight Mile Boulevard Association, a group representing the municipalities that border both sides of Eight Mile Road, Kobylarz has been chair for two years and joined the group in 2008.

The Eight Mile Boulevard Association was established in 1993 by 13 communities and three counties along Eight Mile Road, with the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments and Detroit Economic Growth Corp. to revitalize Eight Mile Road.

She has served on the SMCBA board since 2008 and has been chair for two years.

"I am most proud of the funding and grants efforts, as well as beautification programs along the corridor," Kobylarz said.

The Detroit Ham and Corned Beef Co. is serving up food to the Northville and Plymouth communities that brings with it local flavors and quality taste.

Located at 47287 Five Mile, the diner is the brainchild of Gus and Peter Kanakis, a father-and-son team that aims to continue the restaurant tradition that started in the family many years ago in Detroit.

"My father and grandfather both were in the restaurant business, so it's something we know a lot about," said Gus, a Northville resident who previously owned the former Steak Hut that was located on West Lafayette Boulevard in Detroit. "It's been good to see my son take up the tradition. This is all his idea." From local legends like Sy Ginsberg Corned Beef and Dearborn Ham to genuine Detroit classics like Better Made potato chips and Paygo, Peter said they take pride in serving the best their area has to offer, while supporting the local economy.

They opened their doors several weeks ago. "We want to bring a piece of Detroit to the suburbs," he said. "We have authentic local food options that you won't find at a chain location." All of their meats are cooked in-house and soups are made from scratch because Peter said they know it just tastes better that way.

His father said they use nothing but fresh quality ingredients, prepared and served the same day.

To learn more about this new diner or see the rest of its menu, go to www.detroitahamand-cornedbeef.com or stop by and see for yourselves the Detroit feel the Kanakis' are bringing to the suburbs.

Credit union program helps spread the warmth

Community Financial Credit Union celebrates another successful season of the Warming Hearts & Homes charitable campaign.

Through Warming Hearts and Homes, Community Financial chose several nonprofit organizations to receive a donation with the help of its social media fans. For December 2013, The Heat and Warmth Fund, local food pantries and The Salvation Army Coats for Kids Program each received a portion of $30,000 that was earmarked for Warming Hearts and Homes.

Community Financial chose nonprofit organizations that make a difference in children's lives across Michigan. THAW helps more than 20,000 children in their efforts to provide energy assistance to low-income families throughout Michigan. Funds received by THAW help Michigan families keep their utilities on. The Salvation Army Coats for Kids Program has provided warm coats to children in need for 31 years in eastern Michigan. Other donations from Warming Hearts and Homes went directly to food pantries around southeast Michigan feeding those who need assistance during the winter months.

CFCU officials point out that surveys from Michigan residents illustrate that over recent years, the force for choice between paying for food and utilities has increased. When families have to make decisions between paying for food and heat, the ability to purchase a warm coat just isn't there, officials said.

With an exceptionally chilly 2013-14 winter season, Community Financial wanted to help eliminate the choice for families across Michigan and make sure all three causes received well-deserved donations.

"Michigan winters are rough, so the thought of children not having the outerwear they need is heartbreaking," team member Denise Busby said. "I'm glad to work for an organization that sees a need and does something about it."

TICK TOCK, TICK TOCK

AAUW entertains children with 'Peter Pan'

By Sue Mason
Staff Writer

By Sharon Belobraidich's count, she's played Captain Hook at least nine times. The resident "meanie," the retired Plymouth-Canton teacher will reprise that role when the Plymouth-Canton AAUW's presents Peter Pan Thursday through Saturday, Feb. 6-8, at Garden City High School's O'Leary Auditorium.

"I'm not sure what we'll do if she ever retires," said Helene Lusa of Livonia, who is directing the production with Mickey Edell of Canton.

This is the 54th year the chapter has presented live children's theater. Its first production was Hansel and Gretel and the group now has a repertoire of six to seven plays that it rotates and updates every few years. The organization takes classics like Snow White, Peter Pan and Cinderella and turns them into hour-long AAUW versions.

"We try to add something each time that makes it contemporary for adults and children," Edell said. "We have a couple of surprises planned for this year."

This year's version includes speaking lines for Tick-Tock the Crocodile, played by Sue Belows of Garden City, and a musical addition the ladies say is sure to please the children. What it is, they aren't saying.

"We don't want to give away the surprise," Edell said.

Members started working on the production in October with tryouts and have been doing read-throughs in preparation for taking the stage at O'Leary Auditorium. Severe weather earlier this month postponed moving the play to O'Leary by a week, but rehearsals have gone on without a hitch and props will be in place next week.

'Good shape'

"I think we're in good shape," Lusa said. "This is an amazing group of women. They adjust to whatever parts are given to them to make them the best they can and make the play special. They really go all out for the kids."

"We have some very talented women in this group, but you don't have to be an actor, you need to be a ham and have a sense of humor," Edell added.

children to see the plays before getting involved with the chapter in 1982-83. Her children are still coming to the shows with her grandchildren.

The same is true for Becky Copenhaver of Canton, who hooked up with the chapter after bringing her two children to see a play. She thought they were having so much fun that she tried to decide to try out. The show was Peter Pan and she was cast as Wendy. This time she is playing the lead role.

"It's fun this year to play opposite Sharon," she said. "I played Wendy a couple other times, Mrs. Darling and Mr. Smee. I love working with these ladies, they're so creative. They come up with things to do."

Two of the shows — Thursday evening and Saturday morning — are set aside for Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, their families and friends. The scouts receive a 45-minute presentation about live theater, the show and a fun patch.

"The scouts are really huge for us," Lusa said.

Fun patches

The chapter has been doing the scout program since 2008 and generally attracts 1,200 for the two performances. The first year, they gave out a generic fun patch, but in 2009 for Peter Pan, Sandra Iannucci of Plymouth started to design them. This year's design is a cloud-shaped blue patch with Peter, Wendy, John and Michael flying over Big Ben, Tower Bridge and St. Paul's Cathedral. "I try to find patches that the Girl and Boy Scouts will like and that encompass the theme of the play," said Iannucci, who plays one of the Lost Boys in this year's show. "I want them to be something memorable for the kids."

Proceeds from the performances help fund scholarships for high school seniors, an important part of what the American Association of University Women does. According to Edell, the AAUW "has been empowering women as the premiere national women's organization" since 1881.

"The AAUW advocates for equality for all women and girls through education, research and philanthropy," she added. For more information about the play or about the Plymouth-Canton AAUW, visit www.aauw-pcmi.org.

OUR VIEWS

Thank your school board members for all they do

Elected officials serve with little recognition

Being a school board member has got to be one of the most thankless jobs.

Paid nominally, if at all, these elected officials put in countless hours of tedious work reviewing bids, contracts and other proposals so they can come to a consensus in making decisions in the best interest of the school district they represent.

Holding down day jobs to support their families—usually in fields unrelated to education—they meet in the evening to conduct school district business and sacrifice time they could be spending with their loved ones.

They attend musical concerts, athletic events, science fairs and school fund-raisers to show their support at all of the buildings, not just the ones their children or grandchildren may attend.

Some spend hundreds or thousands of dollars of their money on political signs and literature to get elected. Once in office, many donate back to the school district they represent any pay they may get for attending meetings or pass up reimbursement for classes or conferences they attend in order to learn how to do their job better.

While serving, they face tough decisions such as which schools to close, which programs to cut, which services to privatize. No matter how they vote, they inevitably make a group of people mad and are subjected to critical comments made publicly at meetings and in the press. It is impossible for them to please everyone with the difficult decisions they are elected to make.

Often, they have to set aside their personal preferences and vote for the greater good.

So then, why would anyone want to run for school board? Because they believe in public education, one of the cornerstones of American society. Their reward comes in June, when they get to hand out diplomas to another class of students, sending them off full of promise for the future.

Crouch

Maybe that's why January is School Board Recognition Month, a time when communities across Michigan acknowledge the efforts of their local school board members. From June to June is a long time to go without any encouragement—especially for a mostly volunteer job that requires so much commitment.

Take the time to send an email or write a note or card to the members of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. Whether you agree with them or oppose them, theirs is a thankless task for which they put in tremendous time and effort.

Members of the P-CBS board are Judy Margidjan, president; Adrienne Davis, vice president; Kimberly Crouch, secretary; Mark Horvath, treasurer; and John Barrett, Mike Maloney and Sheila Paton, trustees. Their emails and addresses are available online at www.pcbs.k12.mi.us.

Being a school board member is a tough job, but someone has to do it. Let's thank those who are willing to do it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bob and weave

Have you ever noticed how second-rate politicians and their followers are like third-rate boxers who have taken too many blows to the head?

They bob, they weave, they try to side-step, they back away and they try to cover up. Boxers want to hide the effects of the concussions they received, politicians think the rest of us are suffering from brain damage and won't recall their foul deeds (no offense to anyone in the boxing field).

I recently warned our northern neighbors that the folly of electing Tea Partiers was about to bite them in the butt. A bill backed by Patrick Colbeck would siphon millions from local governments up there.

A writer in the online Observer (Jan. 9) attempted to give us a civics lesson on domestic energy without getting to the gist of my original letter (bob and weave), which was that these right-wingers are giving huge tax breaks to mega corporations and, after leaving office, will go to work for these same entities. We already know that members of the last lame-duck session are now working for billionaires Matty Moroun and the Koch brothers.

And as far as the writer's apparent slur of the Democratic Party, I'll give my view on those he mentions: unions and teachers associations, may they grow and prosper; abortion, every woman has the right to make her own decisions; and, finally, atheists, everybody has the right to believe whatever they want, as long as they don't try to force that belief on anyone else.

However, these are the exact opposite views of the right wing that is currently permeating our capital in Lansing.

James Huddleston

Welfare assistance

I would like to thank the taxpayers of the United States for the SAFER grant to hire back one-third of our fire department here in Plymouth Township.

This has been us as a welfare recipient on public assistance. While our neighboring municipalities pay their own way, devoting politicians in Plymouth Township use their welfare assistance to fund our broken fire department. This allows our treasurer, Ron Edwards, and his trustee cronies to fund new improvements to their parks, money-losing golf course as well as give annual 4-percent and 5-percent raises to themselves and a select few of their employees.

I would also like to thank our neighboring communities for allowing Ron Edwards and his cronies to mooch off of them by offering frequent mutual aid to the fire department so Plymouth Township can use their ladder trucks, rescue vehicles and personnel.

Why buy the cow if you can get the milk for free?

GUEST COLUMN

Snyder makes the case for his accomplishments

Gov. Rick Snyder likes to describe himself as "one tough nerd." He is also widely and accurately regarded as a numbers guy.

And his annual State of the State address was, indeed, true to type. There was none of the soaring rhetoric of his predecessor, Gov. Jennifer Granholm. Our governor would never win an oratory contest and I suspect he knows it.

Instead, what we got was a down-to-earth, wide-ranging list of topics, from campaign promises kept and initiatives accomplished to some forward-looking priorities. Snyder is clearly, if unofficially, running for a second term and the speech offered an advance look at what his re-election campaign will look like.

For me, the most interesting part of the speech had to do with his emphasis on how immigrants coming to Michigan can be an essential part of our state's economic development strategy.

To his credit, Snyder has been talking about welcoming immigrants ever since his first State of the State back in 2011. This time, however, he called for creating a "Michigan Office for New Americans" to help educated, talented and ambitious immigrants, plus he urged federal approval for a visa program to help provide a path to citizenship for entrepreneurial immigrants who come with at least $500,000 in capital to invest in new businesses.

Indeed, the metrics of what immigrants have done here are impressive—even to a numbers guy. From 1995 to 2005, one-quarter of all high-tech start-ups in the U.S. were founded by non-native born entrepreneurs, fully half of all such firms in Silicon Valley.

In Michigan, where only 6 percent of our population today is foreign-born, a radically disproportionate 32 percent of high-tech start-ups from 1990 to 2005 were founded by immigrants. In fact, nearly one-sixth of all businesses started in Michigan between 1996 and 2007 were launched by immigrants; in all, those 2,276 firms generated $1.5 billion in one year alone.

Clearly, we need more of this. The Michigan Office for New

Phil Power
GUEST COLUMNIST

Americans idea follows past steps taken by the Snyder administration to encourage immigrant-driven economic success.

At Snyder's urging, the Michigan Economic Development Corp. has provided financial support for the Global Talent Retention Initiative of Michigan, a pioneering international student program. It's aimed at encouraging the best of the more than 25,000 foreign-born students at Michigan universities, many of them studying engineering and math, to stay after graduation.

The governor's administration has developed a series of online professional licensing guides designed to help new Americans through the thicket of regulations and requirements. Now, his Office for New Americans is a logical next step. Former state Rep. Steve Tobocman, D-Detroit, is a bright guy who started Global Detroit and has been a consistent and effective advocate for immigrants as drivers of Michigan's economy.

Tobocman says the new office "sends a signal that Gov. Snyder is serious, that he is committed to making our state welcoming and that the complexities of the field... require full-time attention and coordination."

Complexities are right. One example: Michigan has filed an application to be designated an EB-5 visa application center, something that would allow the state to reach out to prospective investor immigrants. Makes plenty of sense, yes? True—but bizarrely, the feds have placed management of the program in the Department of Homeland Security, not the Department of Commerce. Unraveling that bureaucratic snafu is bound to take some of the governor's attention.

The solution of Michigan's most pressing problem—how to remake Detroit into an economic engine rather than a sinkhole—has much to do with immigration policy. One of the key priorities for a revitalized Detroit is increasing the number of residents and it's plain that international immigration is the only population growth strategy that has worked in any significant way in years.

The growing Hispanic community in southwest Detroit, the Middle Eastern one in Dearborn and multi-ethnic Hamtramck are all envied by struggling neighborhoods throughout Michigan.

Back in 2011, Tobocman told me "nothing is more powerful to remake Detroit as a center of innovation, entrepreneurship and population growth than embracing and increasing immigrant populations and the entrepreneurial culture and global connections they bring." I suspect Snyder has heard that message.

And looking through his State of the State speech gives the impression he has been listening to other far-sighted folks, as well. The governor wants another $65 million in support for a state-run free pre-K program for poor and vulnerable 4-year-olds. He wants to explore the idea of year-round schools, where kids don't forget much of last year's learning over a long summer vacation. And he wants the Legislature to finish a new teacher evaluation system.

Two weeks ago, I went after the governor for signing a bill that perpetuates the disgraceful amount of secret "dark money" sloshing into Michigan political campaigns. That was a bad decision.

But there's much to admire in Rick Snyder's State of the State speech. We have no idea yet how the campaign for governor will unfold over the next nine months. But the markers Snyder laid down last week offer a powerful case for what he's done as a nerdy numbers guy who happens to be our governor.

Estate planning: Review your beneficiaries to avoid hassles

At a recent library talk that I gave, a man shared a story about the problems he had with his brother's estate. His brother, who was divorced, left everything in his will to him. Unfortunately, the deceased brother failed to change his beneficiary on his 401(k) plan and the ex-wife was still the beneficiary. His brother also was never named secondary beneficiaries.

The man eventually did get the IRA and the 401(k) plan, but he had to spend a significant amount of money in legal fees. He also had to give his deceased brother's ex-spouse something as part of a settlement.

This story reminded me how important it is that beneficiaries are always current and that secondary beneficiaries are named.

There are benefits to having the correct beneficiaries on things like IRAs, retirement accounts, brokerage accounts and life insurance. The main one is that upon your death, your property will go to exactly whom you want without having to go through probate.

Probate is the process where the court takes jurisdiction of assets and then supervises distribution. Although in many cases probate is relatively straightforward and easy, it can also be complex and expensive.

Planning goals

One of the goals of any estate plan is to make sure your beneficiaries can get their money as inexpensively and as easy as possible. Avoiding probate is one goal and having the correct primary and secondary beneficiaries can help accomplish it.

Taxes are another reason the correct primary and secondary beneficiary are important—particularly with regard to the inheritance of IRAs and 401(k)s. These investment vehicles have different tax consequences based upon who is the beneficiary. For example, if you name your spouse as beneficiary, he/she can transfer the IRA into an different IRA, potentially letting the money grow tax-deferred for a longer period of time.

Rick Bloom

In addition, in some situations there can be a financial and tax benefit to naming a child or a grandchild as beneficiary. The bottom line is who you name as beneficiary is important.

I recommend that beneficiary designations be reviewed once a year. In addition, if your family situation has changed (such as a divorce or a death), you should relook at beneficiary designations. Checking your beneficiaries is relatively easy and does not take any significant amount of time.

In addition to naming a primary and secondary beneficiary, consider other ways to avoid probate. For most people that would be to have a living trust.

Don't forget, avoiding probate and eliminating taxes are all good things, but the most important thing regarding estate planning is to make it easy on your loved ones after you are gone.

Good luck.

SENIORS APPLAUD 'NEW AGE' WITH WILDCATS

THEY'RE FAB, TOO!

Vets on board with makeover of Plymouth girls basketball program

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

One might wonder if Kylie Robb, Jada Woody, Shelby Cheston or Brooke Senkibell know anything about a British pop group that stormed America 50 years ago this month.

But they very well might be a new "Fab Four" at least in terms of what they mean to the quick makeover of the Plymouth varsity girls basketball team in this, the first season under new head coach Nick Brandon.

The four senior co-captains immediately bought in to Brandon's attitude adjustment and as a result made it a slam dunk for the entire squad to follow suit.

"I love how hard they've competed for one another," said Brandon about the Wildcats' senior quartet. "I like the tone they set for the rest of the team, and I'm the luckiest coach in the world to walk into a situation with those four."

The seniors, of course, point in Brandon's direction for how 2013-14 is unfolding like, well, a Beatles' smash hit.

Entering Tuesday night's action, the Wildcats were 8-2 overall and 3-1 in the KLAAS South Division.

Let it flow

"It's the way he communicates, the way he's good at getting good energy flow through the team," said Woody, a standout 6-0 post player who will play collegiately at Division I Toledo.

"That's a really big thing."

That systemic reboot extends beyond jumpers and put backs. All of the Wildcats wear warmup shirts with "Cats Together" emblazoned on the front and their game programs feature slogans such as "Welcome to the New Age."

Perhaps indicative of that moniker is how the girls seem to always be smiling on the floor and off. They play an uptempo brand where anyone at any time could get the ball.

"His first thing he wanted to see on the court was sharing the ball, making sure everyone's involved," Woody said. "And also communication, making sure that everyone knows what's going on on the court, being on the same page, being a team, really."

The team's go-to player in the paint is 6-4 center Cheston, agreeing that the new attitude and mission under Brandon's watch are hard to miss.

"We definitely play with a lot more intensity and togetherness," Cheston emphasized. "We all have an identity

Canton duo too much for Patriots

Power forwards Taylor, Nobles lift Chiefs

Canton led visiting Livonia Franklin hang around for two quarters Tuesday night and then the Chiefs let the Patriots have it after the intermission.

Speared by post production from Davon Taylor (15 points) and Jordan Nobles (14 points), the Chiefs turned an 18-15 halftime lead into a 37-20 margin after three quarters. Canton went on to notch a 47-30 triumph in the matchup of KLAAS South Division varsity boys basketball teams.

The Chiefs (8-2 overall, 3-2 in the KLAAS South) also received excellent work on the glass from their towering senior forwards. Taylor (6-6) and Nobles (6-8) pulled down 11 and eight rebounds, respectively, to keep Franklin's offense from taking off.

Also contributing to the win were sophomore forward Logan Ryan (seven points, five rebounds) and junior guard JaJuan Sturdivant (four points).

The loss dropped Franklin's record to 1-10 overall and 0-5 in the KLAAS South.

Adam Monroe paced the Patriots, who shot 28 percent from the floor (10-of-35), with 11 points while Charles Keith chipped in with six.

Canton will host Westland John Glenn at 7 p.m. Friday in a matchup of two division contenders.

Wildcats falter

Westland John Glenn proved efficient with the basketball Tuesday night as the host Rockets earned a 66-53 KLAAS South Division boys victory over visiting Plymouth.

The first-place Rockets, who improved to 7-4 overall and 5-0 in the division, got a game-high 22 points from 6-foot-4 senior forward Isaac Everette, while senior guard Mo Fonai made six 3-pointers and finished with 18 points.

Senior guard DeAngelo Kirksey contributed nine points and nine assists, while junior forward James Pruitt added eight points and 16 rebounds.

John Glenn made 4-of-7 free throws on the night.

"We had a good start and good assist-to-turnover ratio," said Glenn coach Dan Young, whose team led 32-20 at halftime. "We probably had 20 assists and around eight-to-10 turnovers. We were moving it and both of our bigs, Pruitt and Michael Edwards, played well on the boards. It was our chemistry, ball movement and courtiness that enabled us to get the job done."

Plymouth (5-5, 2-3), which

Can Plymouth grapplers stay ahead of class?

Favored Wildcats poised to claim 1st-ever Observerland wrestling crown

By Brad Emmons

One team appears to be in the catbird seat heading into the 23rd annual Observerland Invitational Wrestling Tournament, which commences once again Saturday morning at Livonia Churchill High School.

Plymouth, the Wayne County Tournament champions, will be gunning for their first-ever Observerland title in the 17-school field after finishing fourth a year ago.

"Plymouth is definitely the team to beat," said Franklin coach Dave Chioia, who owns four Observerland titles himself. "I've been coaching at Franklin since they started their program and this is definitely the best team they've had in my opinion, which is surprising because they've graduated a lot of good kids the couple of years. I thought they might be going down a little bit, but they've picked it back up with kids nobody has ever heard of."

Plymouth sixth-year coach Quinn Guertney is confident in his team's ability to get the job done, but remains cautiously optimistic.

Net-front bonanza

Plymouth Whalers' own 'Grind Line' keys matinee rout

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

The Plymouth Whalers brought their paint brushes to work Monday afternoon and put a colorful coat all over Compuware Arena.

Implored by head coach Mike Vellucci to start going hard to the blue paint of the goal crease in search of goals, Whalers players did just that. Plymouth led 4-0 after one period and was rewarded with a 7-2 OHL victory over Saginaw before 1,990 fans in attendance for the Martin Luther King Jr. Day matinee.

"We had a lot of chances against Windsor the other night (a 6-2 loss Saturday) and didn't capitalize on them and then we gave up a couple soft goals," Vellucci said. "But yesterday we worked on going to the net and getting our 'D' involved and they listened."

"I just told them, they paid attention, they listened and they played well. It's the tough area, you got to go to the net, you got to get the paint, as we call it."

Connor Chatham (two goals, one assist) got things rolling when he stormed toward the Saginaw goal crease and banged in a pass from linemate Francesco Vilardi with 13:17 to play in the opening period.

About five minutes later, Chatham scored again.

This time, he found a loose puck a few feet above the crease and flipped it past Saginaw goalie and Detroit Red Wings prospect Jake Paterson, who gave up four goals on 14 shots before being lifted at 14:50 of the period.

Earning assists on the power-play tally were forwards Connor Sills and Mathieu Henderson, who both were battling down low to keep the play going.

Work pays off

"Vellucci's been yelling at us to get to the net, get to the crease and we did that today," said Chatham, who now

Blazers score late to forge 1-1 tie with Penguins

PCS stymied by
Ladywood netminder

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Ladywood's varsity girls hockey team scored in the final minute of regulation Tuesday night to salvage a 1-1 tie against the Plymouth-Canton-Salem Penguins at Arctic Edge Arena.

Yet Penguins head coach Mary Beth Smith was in a good mood following the fast-paced, well-played Michigan Metro Girls High School Hockey League tilt. PCS out-shot Ladywood 31-21, but could not get more than one puck behind Blazers goalie Michaela Warner.

"It was a great game, both teams played really hard," said Smith, whose team is 5-4-1 overall. "I think that was the most offense we've generated thus far. They came out fired up and ready to play, definitely not a bad tie to come out of here playing against Ladywood."

Johnson wasn't down about her team losing a point thanks to the goal by Abby Pelon with 36 seconds to go in the third period, with Warner pulled for an extra attacker. She emphasized that the Penguins were strong throughout against the Division 1 Blazers. PCS is a D2 team.

"You never know until the buzzer goes, so you got to fight through the end of that period," Johnson said.

"But, I'm definitely not disappointed with the tie. I think we can build momentum off that. We play (D1) Liggett on Tuesday."

According to Ladywood assistant coach Ethan Graham, coming back to get the late goal and earn a tie continue a recent trend of improved play. His team is 2-0-1 overall, but more competitive since the Christmas break, he noted.

"We didn't have the start we wanted," Graham said. "But the girls battled the whole game. And we got better as the game went on."

"We kept digging, and we told them to keep shooting, keep moving your feet. We got the goal at the end to tie it up."

The Penguins had just expertly killed off a penalty, with solid work checking and clearing the puck by senior defenseman and captain Alexits O'Flynn, senior forward Jenna Carter, sophomore forward Megan Brace and junior forward Elizabeth O'Donohue.

Forcing OT

Then with about one minute remaining, the Blazers — wearing pink jerseys for breast cancer awareness — pulled Warner in a final stab at scoring the equalizer.

About 20 seconds later, defenseman Colleen Lynch sent the puck from the left point that reached PCS senior goalie Gwen Gadulka (who also played a strong game, with 20 stops).

Battling on the doorstep were Ladywood's Kylie Doyle and Pelon with the latter finally punching the puck into the net. Lynch and Doyle earned helpers on the play.

Both teams had to kill off penalties in overtime.

One of Ladywood's major threats throughout the contest was forward Katie Hayward, who had several prime scoring chances against Gadulka.

"She (Hayward) pushes the pace in a lot of games and she gets a lot of chances," Graham said. "She's definitely a spark plug for us."

He added that the netminding performance from Warner bought the Blazers the extra time needed to earn the point.

"Our goalie always keeps us in a lot of games and she was good tonight," he said. "She saw the puck through traffic a couple different times."

PREP HOCKEY ROUNDUP

13-1 Troy escapes Patriots on late goal

Plymouth wins big over Churchill

The Livonia Franklin boys hockey team just can't seem to get a break this season.

The Patriots battled one-loss Troy even for 50 minutes before losing in the final 23 seconds to host Colts, 2-1, in a non-conference game Saturday night at the Troy Sports Center.

Troy, now 13-1, tallied the game-winner during the final minute on Jake Howard's even strength goal from Jacob Smith.

Troy scored first at 3:34 of the second period on Jordan Sowerby's goal from Nik Berber, but the Patriots knotted the count at 1-all at 8:46 of the same period on Corey Ferrier's goal from Greg Bo.

Troy goalie Michael Fisher stopped 16 of 17 Franklin shots, while Patriots goalie Matt Monardo had 30 saves.

Franklin took six penalties, while Troy stayed completely out of the box for 51 minutes.

PLYMOUTH vs. CHURCHILL 2: Alex Schultz scored a pair of goals, and Mike Schultz added three assists Saturday as the host Wildcats (7-1, 6-2-7) exploded for four goals during the final period to beat KLAAS South Division Fox Livonia Churchill (5-10-2, 4-8-7) at Arctic Edge.

Colin Straub, Charles Supernick, Andrew Josley, Corey Smith, John Vandenberg and Anthony Sloan also added goals for Plymouth, which led 2-1 after one period and 4-2 after 34 minutes.

Each Taverne also chipped in with two assists.

CJ Corcoran scored both goals for the Chargers, who were outshot 50-19. Dan Hudly and Drew Puckner assisted on the first goal, while Joe Weismann and Puckner added assists on the second. David Tavel started in goal for the Chargers before Grant Krimmewicz came on to play the final 10 minutes.

PONTIAC vs. LADYWOOD 1: Devonlin Jones had a goal and assist Saturday as the Ice Hawks (2-1, 1-1) edged host Livonia Ladywood (2-0, 2-0) in a Michigan Metro Girls High School Hockey League Division 1 encounter at Plymouth's Arctic Pond.

Anna McNeill had the other goal for Port Huron, which led 1-0 after one period and 2-1 after two periods.

Frederick Kiefer Hayward scored her team-leading 16th goal of the season in the second period from junior Jackie Krimmewicz for the Blazers.

STEVENSON vs. T.C. WEST 2 (OT): Devin Kelly had the game-winning and game-winning goals as No. 1-ranked Livonia Stevenson (16-1) rallied for an overtime victory against upset-minded Traverse City West (7-9) at North-South Showcase held Centre Ice Arena.

Kelly's goal with only 44 seconds left from Ray Clavette Jr. knotted the game at 2-all and the senior led the game-winning from Dominic Lutz and Tyler Irvine with 1:11 left in overtime.

Irvine's second period power play goal tied it at 1-1.

Jake Santon had a goal and assist in a losing cause, while Ryan Roebler also added a goal.

WHALERS

has seven goals for the season. "I got a couple in close, so that's what we were working on and we're happy to get them."

The seven-goal explosion was the most scored by the Whalers (17-23-0-5) since March 10, 2013, a 7-5 win over Saginaw.

At the other end of the ice, Plymouth goaltender Alex Nedeljkovic stopped 58 of 60 shots, with former Whaler Cody Payne scoring both Saginaw goals (Payne now has 17).

Nedeljkovic needed to make some big stops after the Whalers built their lead, but Vellucci questioned the high number of shots against his goalkeeper. Saginaw took 23 shots in each of the final two periods.

"I think they were inflated," Vellucci said. "They were all from the outside. Ned made some saves, but nothing spectacular. We still had 40-some shots ourselves and we kind of (sat) back once we got up 5-0, 6-1."

Chatham, the game's No. 1 star, said the offensive flurry should serve as a blueprint of what he needs to do every game. We got to get to the point like that every game. We scored a bunch in close, we got to keep doing that."

The Whalers chased Paterson after padding their lead to 4-0 on goals less than two minutes apart by defenseman Alex Peters and Sills (each tallying one goal, one assist).

Peters felled a bouncing puck between the circles and rifled a high shot over Paterson's blocker at 12:56.

Saginaw (22-18-4-1) then gave up a shorthanded goal with 5:10 left. After a Whalers player blocked a shot at the Plymouth blue line, Cullen Mercer and Sills rushed down the ice on a two-on-one. Mercer's point-blank shot was stopped by Paterson, but the rebound caromed off the leg of Sills into the net.

After officials reviewed the play, the goal stood and Paterson was yanked in favor of Nikita Serebryakov.

Energetic line

Plymouth took a 5-0 lead two minutes into the middle period when Vilardi scored from Mercer and Peters.

Mercer's harmless-looking shot from the left circle was stopped by Serebryakov, but the goalie could not corral it. The puck slithered over to Vilardi, who slammed it into the half-open net.

Payne finally got the Spirit on the bench when he knocked the puck over the goal line at 16:32. Daniel De Sousa's shot from the right circle started the scoring play.

Just 13 seconds later, however, left wing Mercer buried Chatham's centering pass over Serebryakov's trapper. The goal gave Mercer a three-point afternoon.

"They both bring a lot of energy, we all got some good speed and we all work hard," Chatham said about playing with linemates Vilardi and Mercer. "We're liking the chemistry we got, so we got to keep it going."

Plymouth's final goal of the day was an unassisted one by forward Matt Mistletoe about 13 minutes into the third.

With less than four minutes remaining, Chatham nearly scored his third on a two-on-one rush, but Serebryakov turned aside the bid.

"Oh man, I got a couple good chances there at the end, but it (that trick) wasn't meant to be, I guess," Chatham said with a hearty laugh.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Chiefs make quick work of Patriots, win 63-20

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

They pretty much could turn on the lights after Tuesday's first quarter thanks to a 27-0 frame by visiting Canton.

The KLAAs South Division leaders went on to pummel Livonia Franklin's varsity girls basketball team by a 63-20 count.

Canton improved to 8-3 overall and 5-0 in the division.

"Overall, I thought the kids played a solid game," Chiefs head coach Brian Samulski said. "The players' full court pressure allowed us to get up on them early and they were able to roll from that point on."

It was 44-8 at halftime and 61-12 after three quarters. Everybody pitched in for Canton, with all 10 players getting minutes and contributing. Nine of the girls got on the score sheet, led by senior forward Paige Aresco (16 points).

Tallying nine points each were senior forward Shannon Perry and junior guard Alanna Brown. Adding eight points was senior center Taylor Hunsley, with senior guard Rachel Winters and freshman forward Erin Hult helping out with seven and six points, respectively.

Canton shot 47 percent from the floor, with Aresco's 6-of-9 (67 percent) leading the way.

"I thought all 10 players came out ready to play," Samulski noted. "This team's work ethic, leadership and commitment to defense continues to impress me every day."

Franklin's record dipped to 0-10 overall and 0-4 in the KLAAs South.

The Chiefs will visit Westland John Glenn at 7 p.m. Friday.

Rocks roll

Salem made it two straight victories with Tuesday's 47-26 KLAAs Central Division girls basketball triumph over South Lyon.

The host Rocks led 7-4 after one frame and had little resistance from the Lions. Salem led 22-8 at halftime and padded that margin to 40-22 after three.

Rocks' interim head coach Lindsay Klemmer, whose team upped its record to 7-4 overall and 2-3 in the KLAAs Central, said the effort and intensity picked up in the second half.

"I don't care how we are playing or the score, our effort always needs to be there," Klemmer said. "Everyone contributed on the team both offensively and defensively."

Eagles soar

Plymouth Christian Academy's varsity girls basketball team faced a stiff MIAC Red Division test when Southfield Christian visited Butler Gymnasium on Tuesday night.

The Eagles aced that challenge with a convincing 64-42 victory that PCA head coach Rod Wilem credited to strong team defense.

PCA (6-4 overall, 3-1 in the division) led just 16-15 after the first quarter but really stopped Southfield Christian (7-2, 3-1) in the second, giving up just two points to take a 30-17 halftime lead.

Leading the way with 27 points for PCA was Rachel Smith.

Martha Mullett was everywhere for the victors, with 15 points and 15 rebounds. Other top contributors to the win included Rachael Fuller (14 points) and Jen Malcolm (eight points).

PLYMOUTH 67, JOHN GLENN 55: Shelby Chester poured in a game-high 27 points Tuesday and career-high 19 rebounds as the host Wildcats (9-2, 4-1) rolled in a 34-all halftime lead over Westland John Glenn (4-7, 3-2) in a KLAAs South Division game.

LaShi Kizimani and Kyle Robb chipped in with 13 and eight, respectively, for Plymouth, which outscored Glenn 32-21 in the second half. Adding six points each were Fawn Bengake and Kendall Ross while Brooke Senkbeil added cut air assists.

Plymouth halved an eight-game losing streak to the Rocks in the process. "This was an important victory for our seniors, who hadn't had the chance to get a win against John Glenn until tonight," Wildcats coach Nick Brandon said.

QUARTET

and without that we wouldn't be able to play.

"I'm all about sharing the ball. We can go pretty far if we all work together and stay together."

The player who sets the tone on both sides of the basketball is Robb. She commands respect on the court and employs a sweet outside jumper when the team needs an offensive jolt.

"It's a lot more fun, it's very fun," said Robb, who like Woody and Cheston is in her fourth season on Plymouth's varsity. "It's enjoyable. I actually like coming to basketball. Our bench does a really good job, always being ready, always being in the game."

Not just words

Robb stressed that the "New Age" slogan wouldn't mean much if all members of the team weren't following the script of cohesiveness and camaraderie.

"What that means to me is playing as a team and overcoming obstacles," Robb said. "And really playing to earn the respect of others, respecting ourselves in the process, just working together as one unit."

"Everyone has different qualities that they bring to the table. And so it's really important that we all work together, everyone is just as important as everyone else."

Concurring was Senkbeil, a tenacious wing who played her freshman season on the Brandon-coached JV before rising up to varsity as a sophomore. "For sure, even though the four years have been here four seniors, or three years, it's definitely a new age for this program," Senkbeil said.

"Girls, especially the seniors, have just a totally different and better attitude towards the season. And it's great."

Senkbeil said she sensed things were different from the beginning.

"Going into this season I knew it was going to be a change from seasons past," she noted, "just from how our workouts in summer went.

JADA WOODY, Plymouth senior wing

"It was uttempo, more effort had to put in and I was really looking forward to basketball for once."

Brandon's message to the girls, recalled Cheston, was "just to be a family and work together as a team. I think we've been doing that."

Playing for each other and having fun in the process has paid major dividends, too.

The Wildcats reeled off five wins in a row to start the season before getting blitzed on Dec. 30 by Farmington Hills Mercy.

All that loss did was embolden the team to come out tougher than ever after the holiday hiatus; Plymouth throttled Livonia Churchill SS-13 on Jan. 9.

Last week, in a victory over Wayne Memorial, all 12 players got into the game and 11 scored points — another example of the all-for-one mentality preached by Brandon and his senior leaders.

"Our seniors have led the way from the day I got the job and that's what I expect and that's what our team and our program needs," Brandon continued. "Especially this combination of four players who have been through so much, and have so much experience."

Finishing strong

Brandon, meanwhile, said his seniors — all excellent students with lofty GPAs — are ready to take things up a notch as the KLAAs regular season winds down and segues into the state tournament.

That's because time is running out on their last chance to put a banner up in the Plymouth gym.

"All athletes, when they become seniors, sometimes clicks," he continued. "I think that something is the realization that there's a timetable on their high school athletic careers."

"What I see out of these four players is four players that are really hungry. Four players that have persevered, four players that have seen a lot and been through a lot. That's left them very determined and very hungry."

First, of course, they'll have to overtake campus rival Canton — a team including senior stalwarts Paige Aresco, Rachel Winters and Taylor Hunsley — for the KLAAs South title.

Robb is pumped up to meet that challenge.

"We have the potential to win the division title, do well in the KLAAs tournament, and make a good run in playoffs," she added, "as long as we keep it together."

If she or her teammates ever waver about that last point, all they have to do is look at the front of their warmup tees for a bit of inspiration.

The Warriors, who shot 55 percent from the field (30-of-55), jumped out to a 24-5 first quarter lead and never looked back.

Caleb Schmake and Nathan Schick each scored 13 points in a losing cause.

"We had the foot on the gas from the opening tip tonight," Lutheran Westland coach Jim Hoeft said. "It was also refreshing to see us hit some shots tonight. We were able to break their full-court pressure, allowing us to get easy buckets throughout the entire game.

"We still need to limit our turn-overs, but overall I'm pleased with our effort tonight."

GREENHILLS 87, HURON VALLEY 45: Ross Scheinberg scored 18 points and Emmet Kulka added 16 points Tuesday as MIAC Red Division leader Ann Arbor Greenhills (8-0, 4-0) defeated visiting Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (1-6, 1-2).

Colin Wageman had 11 points, while Ryan Schaffer added 10 points and nine rebounds for the Hawks, who trailed 48-30 at halftime.

STEINER 65, HURON VALLEY 32: On Monday, Mills Greenstone tallied 19 points and Ben Hadlock added 13 points as host Ann Arbor Rudolf Steiner (7-2) rolled past visiting Westland Huron Valley Lutheran (91-5) in a non-conference game.

Huron Valley Lutheran, which trailed 22-11 after one quarter and 39-18 at halftime, got 12 points and eight rebounds from Milan Monk.

Ryan Schaffer chipped in with nine points.

MEN'S COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Crusaders cage Concordia, take over second place in WHAC

Junior center Donald Owens paced a balanced attack with 13 points and eight rebounds as Madonna University took over sole possession of second place in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference with a 75-67 men's basketball victory Saturday over host Concordia University in Ann Arbor.

The Crusaders, who improved to 14-6 overall and 10-2 in the WHAC, also received 12 points off the bench from Jordan Short, while Travis Schuba and Bobby Naubert (Livonia Stevenson) added 11 points apiece.

Naubert, who was named WHAC Player of the Week, also dished out nine assists.

The Crusaders trail No. 6-ranked Cornerstone (17-3, 11-1) by only a game in the conference standings.

Concordia (8-11, 6-7) got a game-high 16 points from Josh Fugate, while John Schaffer and Jesse Schenke added 13 and 12, respectively.

Madonna, which led 38-29 at halftime, shot 26-of-62 from the floor on the game (41.9 percent) and 17-of-22 from the foul line (77.3 percent).

ST. CLAIR COUNTY CC 117, SCHOOLCRAFT 79: Thirty-eight turnovers was the story Monday as Schoolcraft College (10-4, 3-1) fell to host St. Clair County Community College (9-8, 2-4) in an MCCA Eastern Conference game at Skippers Gym in Port Huron.

Marques Prou led the warriors with 29 points, while Everett Boone came off the bench to add 14. Matthew Van Dyke and Matthew Russell contributed 13 apiece.

Schoolcraft was led by Redford Thurston's Terrence Cullen (10 points, 10 rebounds) and Andrew Mayhew (13 points, 12 rebounds).

Rapel Ibrahim added 12 points, while Terrell Sewell (Canton) and Devonta Riley each added nine.

SCHOOLCRAFT 74: Brandon Hicks scored a game-high 23 points and shot 10-of-21, 44.8 percent from the foul line (34.6 percent) and 48.5 percent from the field (34-of-79).

MCCAA Eastern Conference triumph over Schoolcraft College (10-5, 3-2): DeAndre Brown chipped in with 16 points and 17 rebounds, while Robham Griffin and Lawell McKeight added 15 and 14 points, respectively, for the victorious Monarchs, who led 50-43 at halftime.

Terrence Cullen (Redford) paced Schoolcraft with a double-double (18 points, 15 rebounds), while Terrell Sewell added 10 points. The Crusaders shot 48.3 percent in the second half, committed a total of 31 turnovers.

Schoolcraft shot 48.3 percent from the field (26-of-54) and only 65.3 percent from the free throw stripe (19-of-30).

PREP WRESTLING

Plymouth goes 4-1 at Phillip James tourney

Staying sharp for this weekend's Overland Invitational, Plymouth's varsity boys wrestling team nearly captured Saturday's Phillip James Memorial Tournament.

The Wildcats went 4-1 at the tournament in Tecumseh and finished second.

Plymouth nearly came away with the title — falling 41-24 in the final dual of the day to the host Indians, ranked No. 4 in ## Division 2.

Head coach Quinn Guernsey said his team gave Tecumseh a lot to ponder, with "a number of exciting matches and we won our share of them, as Daniel Ahearn, Jon Conn, Sterling Schiffrat, Joey Shaver and Hussein Youssef built a 21-6 lead."

But Tecumseh turned the tables during the next weight classes to go up 32-21.

Plymouth did manage a win by Mohamad Youssef to secure the final points of the dual.

Fast start for 'Cats

The Wildcats opened things up against the Tecumseh B team and coasted to a 65-12 win.

Against Battle Creek Lakeview, Ahearn earned a hard-fought 8-7 decision against state-ranked Hat Thet to help the Wildcats squeak out a 33-31 triumph.

Next up was Lapeer West and Plymouth rolled, 56-22.

That set the stage for a frequent opponent of the Wildcats, Swan Valley, which handed Plymouth one of its two losses this season.

Sparked by a number of gritty performances, the Wildcats emerged victorious by a 36-29 count.

Among Plymouth wrestlers to prevail in their bouts were Conn, Shaver, Hussein Youssef and Tarek Tamim.

Not to be forgotten were two others instrumental to the win — freshman heavyweight Ricky Burke (who pinned his opponent in 1:13) and Collin Reed.

The latter avenged an early season loss to Edwin Hernandez with a second period fall.

Franklin's Jordan Atienza (top) is undefeated in his 38 matches this season at 160 and 171 pounds. DOUGLAS BARGERSTOCK

TOURNEY

"This year we have plenty of top-end talent, but this year our seventh, eighth and ninth best kids on the team are still pretty good," Guernsey said. "Really, all the way down we don't have a hole. We don't have a kid — when he usually goes out — we don't expect to lose. And this year that's been the case."

"We've looked good all season. We're hoping to come out of this hoping to finish near the top."

Rockets defend

Westland John Glenn is the defending Overland champion after scoring a team-high 180.5 points. Rounding out the top five was Franklin (149), Wayne Memorial (143), Plymouth (133.5) and the Novi Detroit Catholic Central varsity 'B' team (120).

"They've been consistent," Glenn coach Bill Polk said of Plymouth. "I really thought we could win our dual against them, but they won some crucial matches. A lot of times who wins our division is the team that has a lot of consistency from top to bottom. This year — Canton, Franklin and us — have a lot of young kids in the lineup, so Plymouth has taken advantage of it."

Glenn lost to Plymouth in a KLAAS South Division dual meet only last week, 45-25. "They're pretty balanced from top to bottom," Glenn coach Bill Polk said of the Wildcats. "We've struggled a little bit lately. We got a couple injuries and we're putting a lot of young kids out on the mat. They're struggling at the varsity level, but hopefully we can get it all together at the end."

There will be no shortage of individual talent heading into Saturday's tournament as 19 Overland grapplers are ranked either in the top 10 or honorable mention in their respective weight classes by the website MichiganGrapppler.com.

Prime matchups

The finals, which will start at approximately 5 p.m., should feature some outstanding matches.

Among the Plymouth wrestlers ranked in Division 1 include junior Brandon Harris, 112 pounds (honorable mention); senior Mohamad Youssef, 119 (third); senior Jon Conn, 140 (ninth); and junior Hussein Youssef, 171 (seventh).

Mohamad Youssef was the Overland champ last year at 103, but Conn was runner-up last year in his weight class and the 130 pound champ in 2012.

Franklin is led by senior Jordan Atienza, the state runner-up at 152 pounds in Division 1. Atienza, who went 58-1 a year ago, is unbeaten this season and ranked No. 2 in his weight class (160) by MichiganGrapppler.com. Thirty-seven of Atienza's 38 wins this season have come by either pin, technical fall or by major decision.

Meanwhile, younger brother Nathan Atienza, a freshman, is ranked No. 8 this season at 125.

One of the most competitive weight divisions will be at 119.

That class features four ranked wrestlers including Youssef (No. 3), Belleville senior Austin Koehler (No. 8), Churchill senior Josh Perez (No. 10), the defending Overland champ, and Glenn junior Chase Spanos (honorable mention).

Other top talent

Other ranked Glenn wrestlers include freshman John Siemasz (103), who is ranked 10th; senior Kevin Huynh (125), who is ranked No. 6; and senior Jordan Brandon (215), who is ranked No. 1 after finishing runner-up at 215 in last year's Division 1 state finals. Brandon, who may wrestle up at 285, has only two losses this season — one to Lowell 215-pounder Josh Colegrove and the other in an upset first-period pin by Plymouth sophomore heavyweight Michael Jordan.

Making a return to Overland after a three-year absence is Canton, which boasts two outstanding talents in seniors Ben Griffin (ranked No. 1 at 130) and Alec Pantaleo (ranked No. 2 at 152).

Lutheran Westland has two wrestlers ranked in the top 10 in Division 4 by MichiganGrapppler.com led by senior Zach Francis, who is third at 135. Francis captured Overland last year at 125. Teammate Caleb Richter (140), a junior, is ranked No. 10.

Yet another threat is Farmington Harrison junior Michael Volyniuk, a state runner-up at 103 last year and now in the 112-pound class (honorable mention).

Highly regarded

Meanwhile, Wayne senior Aaron Mauldin is ranked No. 4 in the 285-pound class in Division 1, while Salem junior Mitchell Gross is No. 7 at 189.

"He (Gross) has had some good matches lately and as long as he steps up he should have a good tournament," Rocks head coach Pete Israel said.

Israel also said Salem wrestlers who could have solid performances include Cameron Shaughnessy (112) and Caleb McCabe (145).

"He has been doing well this month and continues to improve," said Israel, about Shaughnessy. "It will be good to see how he does against the wrestlers in the area that he might see at districts."

Meanwhile, McCabe said he is hoping for "some of the other guys to step up, like Hamad Abdel, Connor Thornbury and Peter Bushaw. If all goes well, we should have a decent showing Saturday."

Picking up bonus points with pins, technical falls and major decisions is one key to a team title, along with first places.

But that's only one part to the puzzle, according to Guernsey.

"It's not so much the champs," he said. "We're going to do well at this tournament with number of thirds, fourths and runner-ups, and kids we have in the semifinals. I don't really expect anybody on my team to go 0-2. Everyone is going to score points. At the end of the day we want 12 guys finish in the top six. That would kind of be a solid goal for us. That would be a great scenario."

But one area coach believes it's going to be a one-horse race.

"After Plymouth, I think we're in the mix with John Glenn, Wayne, probably maybe Churchill and the CC 'B' team," Chioia said. "Everybody is pretty much the same after that. That next tier there are probably five or six teams all vying for second and third place."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Canton gymnasts 1st at Caruss Invitational

The Canton Chiefs varsity girls gymnastics team had another splendid showing at Saturday's Jeanne Caruss Invitational at Lakeland High School. Canton topped the 17-team field with 144.7 points.

In second place with 140.925 points was Farmington.

Chiefs' head coach John Cunningham praised his team for excelling throughout and overcoming the fact Jocelyn Moraw and Hailey Hodgson were fighting the flu.

Moraw was no worse for wear. She was first in the all-around standings with 36.875 points and also won beam with a 9.65 and came in fourth on floor exercise with a 9.45.

Hodgson helped the cause with her 9.025 on floor, good for third place.

"Beam and floor were both 37-plus events, which is excellent," Cunningham continued. "I was most impressed by our first event in the competition, (uneven parallel) bars. Even though the scores were lower than usual, the routines were great."

There were other Canton standouts. Erica Lucas captured first on vault with a 9.25. Maddie Toal finished second on beam with a 9.6 (trailing only Moraw) and registered a 9.075 on floor for ninth. Melissa Green's 9.475 on floor was good for third. Stephanie Cox contributed a 9.025 on floor (10th).

Try dance, improv or set design at Motor City Theatre

'Trying some different things' helps beat winter blahs, cabin fever

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

If you've ever wanted to learn a few tap dance moves — without making a major commitment to classes — it's time to click up your heels and head to Motor City Theatre.

Nancy Florkowski, artistic director and founder, plans to roll out a series of arts sampler workshops on Sundays in February at the Livonia Playhouse.

"The kids have been asking for dance, so we're trying some different things. We did try something like this a year or two ago, but it never got off the ground," Florkowski said. "We're hoping now that we have an adult theater company, more people will notice."

Both Motor City Players, an adult troupe, and Motor City Youth Theatre perform and rehearse at the former Grantland Street Playhouse, now the Motor City Theatre, 27555 Grantland. All of the upcoming workshops will be held at that location.

The schedule includes:
• Improvisation for Theater, 1:30-4:30 p.m. for middle school to age 15, and 5-8 p.m. for age 16 to adult, Sunday, Feb. 2.
• Improv performers Mike Melke and Mark C. Holden will teach improv basics, including warm-up exercises, listening skills and group trust. The second half of the session gives participants to apply what they've learned by playing games seen in the television show Whose Line Is It Anyway? Cost is $35 per person.

• Tap, Jazz and Broadway dance is a two-part class, Sunday, Feb. 9 and 16. It's open to children and adults. Beginners and youngsters in grades four-six will meet from 12:30 p.m.; moderately experienced dancers and grades seven-nine will meet from 2:40-4:40 p.m. and advanced dancers and grades 10-adult will meet from 4:20-5:50 p.m. An optional dance placement workshop will be held from 2:30-4 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 1, to help determine skill levels. Cost is $35 for the two-session class. Molly Zelesky will teach the dance workshop.

Adults can sign up for tap, jazz and Broadway dance workshops at Motor City Theatre.

A drawing by Fred Florkowski shows a scenic design. He'll teach a design class for adults next month at Motor City Theatre in Livonia.

• Florkowski's husband, Fred, will teach a scenic design class for students, 16-adult, 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 23. He'll talk about visual images, script research, developing scene renderings and floor plans. Students should bring graphite pencils, colored pencils, erasers and paper. Cost is $35.

"Fred will take them at whatever level they are," Florkowski said, adding that some experience is preferred but not required.

Audition tool

Florkowski said the dance classes are helpful for actors who want some step and movement knowledge when they audition for musicals.

"They can go to an audition and not feel like a klutz. It's always nice to have at an audition. It gives you a little backbone if you're not going in cold."

She said Motor City Theatre may offer monthly classes if there's enough demand.

"Another reason we're doing this is we want to see what interest there is in classes," she said. "We want to do at least another four weeks after this. We'll do some crazy stuff."

She hopes to offer a puppet-making class in the next round of workshops. A monster makeup class is in the works and Florkowski plans to teach a session in harmonica. "We're there to inspire people. Things happen by serendipity. You take a puppet class and you may end up having a puppetry troupe. Or improv troupe. We're trying to generate interest to build more things."

Class reservations are due Feb. 1. Walk-ins will be allowed if there's room. Make checks payable to Motor City Youth Theatre and send payment — along with a form available at www.mcity.org — to Nancy Florkowski, 15498 Meadowbrook, Redford, MI 48239.

Perform Shakespeare for a chance to win scholarship

The Michigan Shakespeare Festival will hold regional contests next month — with statewide finals set in March — for its 13th annual Michigan Shakespeare Festival High School Monologue Competition.

The event is open to all Michigan high school students in grades 9-12. Entrants are required to memorize one monologue, one to two minutes in length, from a Shakespeare play of their choosing. Four finalists will be asked to compete in the statewide final and have the opportunity to win a financial award up to $625 to spend toward higher education goals.

The Eastern District Regional, which includes Wayne and Oakland counties, will be held Saturday, Feb. 15, at the Malletts Creek Library, 3090 E. Eisenhower Parkway, Ann Arbor. Signup will begin at 11 a.m. The Statewide Final Competition is set for Saturday, March 29, in Jackson.

Invitations to the finalists will be made after the regional competitions are completed.

Applications are available by emailing msf@acd.net and by downloading at www.MichiganShakespeareFestival.com. Deadline for registration is Feb. 8. Entrants also pay a nonrefundable application fee of $5. For more information about the competition, call the festival office at 517-998-3673.

Founded in 1995, the Michigan Shakespeare Festival is a not-for-profit professional theater company dedicated to entertaining and educating a broad-based audience through professional performances of Shakespeare's works and other classic plays. It presents a repertory season of three productions annually at The Baughman Theatre, located in Jackson College's Potter Center.

CLASS TEACHES VEGETARIAN NUTRITION, MEAL PREP

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

Arthur Weaver, M.D., will talk about one of his favorite subjects — the plant-based diet — on Sunday, Feb. 2, at Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist Church.

His wife, Natalie Weaver, will cook up some vegetarian dishes to illustrate the topic.

And everyone in their audience at "Vegetarian Cooking and Nutrition School" will get a chance to taste the results.

"We've been doing these classes for about 45 years," said Weaver, 90, who also leads stop-smoking classes and an annual week-long health camp. "The less meat one eats the greater the reduction in the risk for diabetes, cancer and a dozen other chronic diseases. "Studies show the vegetarian diet has a significant advantage and the vegan diet even more significant. But we don't try to make vegetarians out of them (class attendees). We try to inform them and give them the information and let them decide what to do with it. They become educated. The reason for doing this is to share some good news with the community."

Weaver and his wife are vegetarians who attend the Seventh-day Adventist church. He said about half of Seventh-day Adventists are vegetarians.

Natalie and Arthur Weaver of Northville will hold "Vegetarian Cooking and Nutrition School" Feb. 2 at Plymouth Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Becoming a vegetarian

He suggests that individuals gradually reduce their meat consumption and "re-educate their sense of taste" as they work their way toward a plant-based diet. Keeping portions under control is important, too. Weaver also prefers fresh fruits and vegetables over processed fare.

"Ideally I think fresh, and then frozen, then maybe dried and then canned. If you can get it locally, fine. But it's better to get it than not get it at all," he said.

"The average meat-eater can't picture a plate that doesn't have meat as a central item," he said. "They also don't know how you can make up various entrees they don't have meat. My wife will talk about menu planning and a (vegetarian) balanced diet."

Sample recipes and cookbooks will be available at the class. It will run from 2-5 p.m. Feb. 2, in the community room at the church, 4295 Napier, south of Ann Arbor Road, in Plymouth Township. Admission is a suggested donation of $15 per person or $25 per couple. RSVP by calling Weaver at 248-349-5683.

Here's one of the Weavers' bean recipes:

TASTY BEAN BAKE

Many different kinds of beans could be substituted, and home cooked beans also work well.

Serves: 8-10

- 1 (15.5 ounce) can kidney beans
- 1 (15.5 ounce) can lima beans
- 1 (15.5 ounce) can French-cut green beans
- 1 (15.5 ounce) can yellow wax beans
- 1 can condensed tomato soup
- 1 pound can vegetarian baked beans
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup barbecue sauce
- 1 small onion chopped
- 1 small green pepper chopped

Partially drain and do not rinse the kidney, lima, green and yellow beans. Add the remaining ingredients to the beans. Stir all ingredients and place into deep baking dish or crockpot.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours or crock pot 2 hours on high and then a half hour on low.

Sample recipes and cookbooks will be available at the class. It will run from 2-5 p.m. Feb. 2, in the community room at the church, 4295 Napier, south of Ann Arbor Road, in Plymouth Township. Admission is a suggested donation of $15 per person or $25 per couple. RSVP by calling Weaver at 248-349-5683.

Manage hunger with wholesome foods

Whether you're following a weight loss plan or simply maintaining healthy habits, finding foods that are nutritious sources of protein and promote satiety can help curb your urge to snack throughout the day.

Wholesome soy foods can replace other foods in your diet that might be adding too much fat, sugar and cholesterol. Soy foods also provide high-quality, complete protein, shown to increase satiety, the feeling of fullness.

"Soy protein can play a major role in satiety," said Russ Egbert, director of protein research at Archer Daniels Midland Co. "We know that diets that are high in protein are more satiating than diets that are high in carbohydrates or high in fat."

Regardless of your lifestyle or age, protein is an essential nutrient your body needs, and compared to other common protein sources, the soybean is a giant. The soybean is upwards of 38 percent protein, said Karl Weingartner, director of the International Soybean Program at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Fish such as salmon contain about 18 percent protein, while a T-bone steak is about 22 percent.

In addition, a recent study published in Molecular Food & Nutrition Research found that soy fiber has "favorable effects on body weight, body mass index and fasting LDL-cholesterol levels in overweight and obese adults," all factors that are helpful in weight loss and managing high blood pressure.

The soybean by its nature is a complete food. It's very high in protein, it contains valuable oils, essential fatty acids, fiber, even the sugars in it are considered to be prebiotics," said Peter Golbitz, director of international business development for the SunOpta Grains and Foods Group.

Simple substitutions make it easy to incorporate soy into your favorite dishes:

- Combine an avocado, a cup of extra-firm tofu and salsa for a lighter guacamole
- Substitute soy milk into garlic mashed potatoes
- Energize your child's morning breakfast with protein-rich soy yogurt
- Fix a quick, healthy dinner with soy-based burgers in place of traditional ground beef
- Toss fresh edamame on top of your favorite salad
- Select delicious whole soy nutrition bars as snacks
- Or, you can experiment with new recipes for guilt-free indulgence. For more recipes featuring soy protein, visit www.soyfoods.org.

- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 small bulbs fennel, cored, stalks thinly sliced (reserve fronds)
- 1 small onion, thinly sliced
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- Pinch of freshly grated nutmeg
- 1 cup silk unsweetened soy or almond milk
- 1 tsp salt

Bring mixture to a boil and remove from heat.

Chop 3 tablespoons of the reserved fennel fronds. Spread half of the squash in the bottom of prepared casserole pan. # Cooking, home heating fires increase in winter

The National Fire Protection Association and the United States Fire Administration are teaming up on a campaign to promote fire safety during winter months. There are typically more home fires and home fire deaths in cooler months. Safety information being offered on a host of topics under the umbrella "Put a Freeze on Winter Fires" is aimed at raising awareness of winter fire risks and providing tools and information that can be used to reduce these risks.

Preparing for a new season is the first step in addressing safety. NFPA and USFA offer 10 Tips to Get Ahead of the Winter Freeze, a printable checklist of reminders, such as checking that vents have been cleaned and inspected, and furnaces have been inspected and serviced.

The campaign will begin with a focus on cooking fire safety and heating fire safety. Cooking is the leading cause of home fires and home fire injuries, and the third leading cause of home fire deaths. November usually signals a time of increased cooking fires as Thanksgiving is the peak day for cooking fires with roughly three times the average number of cooking fires. It also marks the beginning of the holiday season and a lot of cooking. In fact, Christmas and Christmas Eve rank second and third in cooking fires. Unattended cooking is the leading cause of cooking fires. Most cooking fires involve the range or cooktop.

Heating is the second leading cause of home fire deaths, behind smoking, and the second leading cause of home fire injuries. In 2007-11, most home heating fire deaths (81 percent) and injuries (70 percent) involved stationary or portable space heaters.

For tip sheets, videos and other information on how to prevent cooking, heating and other types of fires, visit www.nfpa.org/winter and www.usfa.fema.gov/winter for an extensive list of resources. Check out the new online quiz and stay tuned to www.nfpa.org/winter or follow NFPA and USFA on social media for updates, new materials and other interactive ways to brush up on fire safety.

The "Put a Freeze on Winter Fires" campaign will run through mid-March and other topics will include holiday decorations, candles, electrical, winter storms and carbon monoxide.

NFPA is a worldwide leader in fire, electrical, building, and life safety. The mission of the international nonprofit organization founded in 1896 is to reduce the worldwide burden of fire and other hazards on the quality of life by providing and advocating consensus codes and standards, research, training, and education. NFPA develops more than 300 codes and standards to minimize the possibility and effects of fire and other hazards. All NFPA codes and standards can be viewed at no cost at www.nfpa.org/freeaccess.

residential. Buyers need to understand what they can and cannot have which usually are enumerated in the condominium documents. In general as far as the uses of the units are concerned, it is the buyer beware especially in developments where there are no limited-use units and no additional residential units. Buyers need to look very carefully at the governing documents to make sure that any amendments to them would affect their rights that would have to be approved by a majority of the live-work unit owners and not the owners of traditional units. You are best advised to consult with an experienced community association attorney before entering into any purchase agreement and/or design decisions that result in a condominium development.

Focus of N.J. case is handicap parking

Q: I live in an apartment complex and I am disabled. Initially, I was given an assigned parking spot. Now, I am asking the landlord to give me a handicap accessible spot closer to my apartment. Can I still keep my non-accessible parking spot?

A: Probably not. In a case in the early 2000s out of New Jersey, the federal court held that the association had acted reasonably in offering a disabled owner a handicap accessible parking space closer to his unit upon the condition that he surrender his non-accessible parking space, since each unit owner only had one assigned space. This case should be helpful to all associations dealing with this question.

Q: I am thinking about developing a live-work condominium and I am wondering whether you are aware of any potential problems with that type of development.

AT: It is a difficult question to answer in the short time allotted, but it is clear that the development of a so-called live-work condominium building is picking up speed throughout the country in response to the proliferation of professionals who work from home. A condo hybrid creates a space that allows people to work from home. However, there are zoning and building code challenges largely because communities don't know whether to treat live-work condos as commercial or residential. But understand what uses they can and cannot have which usually are enumerated in the condominium documents. In general as far as the uses of units, buyers should be especially in developments where there are fewer live-work units than traditional residential units. Buyers need to look very carefully at the documents and make sure that any amendments to them that would affect their rights would have to be approved by a majority of the live-work unit owners and not just the traditional units. You are best advised to consult with an experienced community association attorney before entering into any purchase agreement and/or design documents, especially for a condominium development.
