County residents to face tax payment

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Despite opposition, Wayne County residents will face a one-time summer tax levy that, collectively, will cost residents of the county commission's 10th District - Canton and the Plymouths - millions of dollars for a pension-related court ruling against the county.

Joe Barone, 10th District commissioner, had opposed the levy amid strong opposition from his 10th District constituents.

"I've got to listen to what the people of my district are telling me," he said. "They're telling me they don't want to be shoved with this particular tax without having any input." Gary Woronchak, who chairs the commission, issued a statement Wednesday saying the commission will not attempt to override Wayne County Executive Warren Evans' veto of an alternate plan to take the money from a $78 million Delinquent Tax Revolving Fund.

"It's clear that an attempt to override the veto would be unsuccessful and probably counterproductive," he said, "so, an override vote will not occur."

Still, Woronchak said the commission's action played a role in the administration finding ways to reduce by about 20 percent the amount of the judgment passed directly to taxpayers on their summer tax bills.

Moreover, he said the commission "remains committed to resolving the county's many difficult financial challenges ahead."

Canton officials have said the $49 million judgment, which arose from a pension-related court case, would have to be paid, regardless of how it was accomplished. The latest developments indicate the amount imposed on taxpayers this summer is closer to $41 million.

P-CCS announces educator layoffs

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education isn't finished deliberating a 2015-16 district budget yet, but by contractual agreement it has notified some 73 educators that they may lose their jobs for the coming school year.

Meissen

"This is the initial list," Superintendent Michael Meissen said Tuesday night prior to the board adopting the layoff resolution.

The move is required by union contract and it allows the listed educators to be eligible for unemployment insurance, said Monica Merritt, assistant superintendent for human resources and labor relations. "It doesn't mean we will be losing any of those people next year," she said.

But the layoff notices are in anticipation of some $5.3 million in reductions as district administrators and the school board get closer to adopting the 2015-16 budget. Other layoff notices are expected within the next week.

Fund set up after family loses pets and all their belongings in apartment fire

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Canton mother Kristy McDermed and her five children need help starting a new life after their apartment caught fire Monday afternoon, killing one of their two cats and a hamster and destroying their belongings.

"They have to start all over again," Paula Smith, McDermed's sister, said Tuesday morning.

Smith has set up a GoFundMe account at www.gofundme.com/wksd57g to help the family. She said the family needs money to find a new place to live, buy clothing and shoes and pay for veterinary bills for their surviving cat, Viola, which was rescued by Canton paramedics and police officers.

McDermed and her children, ages 3-21, are staying with friends and family until they can figure out a longer-term plan, Smith said.

Canton car wash to rebuild after devastating fire

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

A Canton car wash and oil change business will be rebuilt after it was destroyed June 1 by a massive fire, a company official confirmed Tuesday.

"That place has been all my hard work for the last six years. I'm not going to let a fire bring me down," said Sammy Alnasir, general manager of Canton City Car Wash.

Company officials hope to reopen for business this year.

"We're still Canton strong. We've always been blessed," Alnasir said. "We're hoping to be open by the fall."

Fire Chief Joshua Meier said investigators haven't been able to determine an exact cause of the blaze, which started in an attic area.

"We know the origin of where the fire started, but there was significant damage - too much for us to pinpoint the exact cause," Meier said. "It is suspected of being electrical." Fire investigators early on had said the fire didn't appear suspicious. It started about 5:30 p.m. June 1 and spread quickly, forcing several employees to evacuate without injury.

Witnesses from more than a mile away reported seeing billowing smoke coming from the scene.

Meier said the fire caused only minor burning of petroleum-based products, prompting fire officials to evacuate two nearby businesses as a precautionary measure.

Canton Center Road remained closed for more than six hours.

Meier has said the Western Wayne County Hazardous Materials Response Team and a private environmental contractor came to the scene to clean up after water runoff caused a small amount of petroleum to leak into Fellows Creek.

The business had about 300 gallons of oil stored on-site, but Meier said it was stored in large containers and, except for a small amount, wasn't involved in the fire.

Potential conflict spurs new board vote on Canton arts grant

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Moving to avoid a potential conflict of interest, the Canton Township Board of Trustees has tied up its decision in May to award $75,000 to a nonprofit arts group working to bring an arts complex to the Cherry Hill Village area.

Three of the seven trustees - Tom Yack, Steven Sneiderman and Pat Williams - joined the board vote in May to award federal Community Development Block Grant, or CDBG, dollars to the Partnership for the Arts & Humanities, although they have ties to it.

Although they don't benefit financially from it, Yack and Sneiderman serve on the partnership's board of directors. Williams formerly served on the board and remains on one of the nonprofit's committees.

During a township board meeting Tuesday, the seven-member board rescinded the May vote and allowed Yack, Sneiderman and Williams to recuse themselves from a new decision affirming the $75,000 allocation.

Supervisor Phil LaJoy said the board revisited the issue to avoid a "perceived" conflict of interest stemming from federal CDBG guidelines.

"We want to make sure we're in compliance with all the federal guidelines," LaJoy said.

Canton Finance and Budget Director Wendy Trumbull said the rescinded vote and new decision were necessary to avoid potentially having to repay the CDBG dollars.

She also said Canton could risk future grant money unless it complied fully with federal guidelines.

The $75,000 grant to the Partnership for the Arts & Humanities comes as the nonprofit group is raising money to transform a former Henry Ford site where disabled veterans once made small auto parts and lived in a dormitory.

The site, near Cherry Hill and Ridge, is being transformed into the Village Arts Factory featuring arts and education programs, art studios, galleries and possibly a destination restaurant and brewery. Some of the arts programs will be geared toward veterans.

FIRE

"They're all really upset and shaken by this," Smith said.

Canton Gardens, a north-end apartment complex where the family lived, also is accepting toys, children's clothing and furniture - but not money or gift cards.

McDermed and her 3-year-old daughter Ayla escaped without injury when a fire swept through their two-story residence at Canton Gardens, off Joy Road near I-275.

McDermed's four other children were in school when the fire was reported shortly after 12:30 p.m. Monday, Fire Chief Joshua Meier said.

He described the mother as "very distraught" and said The Salvation Army had offered to help the family find shelter.

"She lost everything she owns in the fire," Meier said.

One cat was killed, but firefighters rescued a second one and took it to Alsager Animal Care Center on Warren Road.

Canton Public Safety
Canton Police Officer Melissa Andes and Firefighter Nick Bishop administer oxygen treatment to a family cat following an apartment fire that destroyed most of the McDermed family's belongings.

Paramedics and police officers had used an animal oxygen delivery device that is kept on Canton fire engines, Meier said.

"The cat is in serious respiratory distress and is being treated with oxygen therapy at this point," Meier said.

One picture obtained from Canton Public Safety showed Police Officer Melissa Andes and Firefighter Nick Bishop administering oxygen treatment to the cat.

The fire started in a first-floor living room area of the two-story apartment, causing two windows to burst and spreading upward, Meier said. Firefighters could see heavy smoke coming from the residence as they arrived.

Firefighters moved quickly to douse the flames and limit damage to one apartment unit, Meier said. The fire's cause remained under investigation.

"We believe it's accidental," Meier said.

The apartment sustained fire, smoke and water damage.

lissa McLaughlin said. "There's not going to be any customer who comes to my counter in the next few months to say, 'I'm happy I got zapped for another $100 or $150' or whatever it turns out to be. The fact is, people are just livid with the county."

Still, she said a move to take money from the Delinquent Tax Revolving Fund could be risky, too. The county, in part, uses that money to make Canton and other communities whole when taxpayers don't pay their tax bills on time.

"We, as a county, have an obligation to pay this (judgment)," McLaughlin said. "It's like taking one bucket and trying to catch the leaks in the roof when there are multiple holes in the roof."

Evans initially said the one-time tax levy would cost $62 for a homeowner who has a house with a $100,000 market value. Barone said that plan would have cost 10th District taxpayers about $6.9 million.

New reports have indicated Evans has since revised the amount to $50, which would reduce the collective amount.

The controversial tax levy has emerged among the biggest issues Barone has faced since becoming a county commissioner in April. He replaced Shannon Price, who was appointed Plymouth Township supervisor.

The dispute between Evans and some commissioners also comes as Wayne County struggles against a structural deficit that, for the last fiscal year, Evans pegged at $82 million. That is coupled with a pension fund that is underfunded by an estimated $910 million.

The new tax levy is a result of a court judgment in a pension case related to the so-called 13th check - an extra check for retirees. The commission voted 9-5, with Alisha Bell absent, to cover the cost by dipping into the Delinquent Tax Revolving Fund, but Evans vetoed it.

Canton Trustee Steven Sneiderman said the county should explore all options.

"It's unfortunate that the county is in this situation," he said. "But we are the county, so we need a solution that can actually correct the problem."

"I don't want our citizens to have to pay more on their (taxes)," Sneiderman added, "but it's everybody's problem."

Trustee Tom Yack conceded the county has the legal authority to impose the tax to cover its costs arising from the court judgment. He had predicted there wouldn't be enough votes to override Evans' veto.

Yack suggested residents might retaliate by opposing a county parks tax when it comes up for renewal. "It would send a message, 'How many times are you going to get into our pockets?'" he said.

Barone said the county's choices aren't easy, but he said he stood by his vote to use money from the revolving fund rather than impose a one-time tax levy.

"The voters should have a say in it if we're going to ask them to pay something," he said. "It shouldn't just be forced down their throats."

Plymouth's Tony Roko gets Best Fine Artist nod

Artist Tony Roko.

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools graduate and Plymouth-based artist Tony Roko has been named Best Fine Artist by the readers of Hour Detroit magazine in its 2015 Best of Detroit contest. Roko also won the magazine's Best Fine Artist nod in 2014.

"Art has changed my life in ways I could have never imagined and I look forward to sharing my work with everyone," Roko said.

In April, Roko, who has annually been joined by former classmates Joe Nader, executive chef for the Levy Restaurants at Ford Field, and Jennifer Kincer, an actress and singer, talked to Isbister Elementary students about following their dreams.

It took some time, but that's exactly what Roko did.

Roko started his working life at the Wayne Assembly plant. Instead of encouraging his artistic talents, others told him he was fortunate to work in the auto industry. Finally, 10 years ago, he decided to give his talents 100 percent of his attention. "I didn't have to punch in anymore for work," he told Isbister students.

Roko always loved painting and drawing. Isbister parent Michelle Dillon, who organizes the school visit for her classmates, told students that she remembers Roko as a kid always drawing.

On his breaks at the Wayne Assembly plant, Roko continued to draw, sometimes making portraits of his co-workers. Union representatives and management took notice and asked if he'd like to be part of a plant beautification project to boost workers' morale.

Roko painted murals on plant walls, based on suggestions from the workers. Roko used materials he found around the factory that had already shown their resistance to such conditions; industrial coatings, auto enamels and scrap wood from pallets. He became the resident artist for Ford and began beautifying other plants in the Detroit area.

Roko, who has been commissioned to paint pieces for Lady Gaga, Jay Leno and the Ford Motor Co. as part of its Centennial Celebration of the Assembly Line, has recently received recognition for his work, including a piece displayed in the permanent collection of Michigan's Holocaust Memorial Center.

Roko will take part in Hour Detroit's Best of Detroit party, which will be celebrated at a June 19 party at Motor City Casino Hotel in Detroit.

His work will be featured Sept. 17 at the 20th anniversary of ArtWorks Detroit, an event that benefits the Michigan AIDS Coalition. Roko's work will also be on display at ArtPrize®, an independently organized international art competition in Grand Rapids held Sept. 23 through Oct. 11.

His work is on display now at Lafontsee Galleries in Grand Rapids. For more information, go to www.lafontsee.us.

Celebrate dad at the YMCA Father's Day Run

A few years back, Nancy Drazga took part in the Plymouth YMCA Father's Day Run with some girlfriends. She recalls it as a great experience — good friends, a fantastic route through Plymouth, even nice weather — but something was missing.

"I wanted my dad there," Drazga said. "I saw so many fathers running or walking with their kids and I wanted to have that opportunity at least once. My dad was 87 at the time, but he was up for the challenge. The following year he started training in April by walking in the neighborhood."

Pride and admiration can be heard in Drazga's voice as she cheerfully added, "My dad is now 90 years old and this will be our fourth YMCA Father's Day Run. We are proof that it's never too late to start a new family tradition. And as we are walking, we are also keeping in mind the fathers of our friends and family who are not with us."

Drazga said she had told her dad Joseph he can go as slow as he chooses. "He walks a step ahead of me so I can match his pace. But at the end, we take each others' hands and run through the finish line. It's a perfect way to spend Father's Day."

DTP Run-Walk group, which meets in Kellogg Park three times a week, is a part of the effort on Father's Day. "We reached out to the Y and they reached out to us. We have the same goals and objectives," said the group's Dave Murphy.

This year, the DTP group hosted an essay contest for kids with the theme of why dad is so special. Three winners were chosen and they will be introduced at the Father's Day Run. "The essays are just so precious," Murphy said.

If you are gearing up to participate in the Father's Day race, Murphy encourages a visit to the DTP. The group walks or runs at 8 a.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. They meet in Kellogg Park and take it from there.

"It's fun. It's free and it's positive," Murphy said, adding he now throws in some Plymouth historical tidbits as the group makes its way around Plymouth.

Christie Banners for one, is ready for the race. "We have been doing this for at least seven years now. My husband Eric and our kids, Teddy and Sylvie, who are now 11 and 8 years old, consider this a big part of our Father's Day experience."

Long-time Plymouth Township resident John Stewart can tell many tales about past runs. He has participated consistently for 31 years. "It's the best way to start off Father's Day," Stewart said. "My family knows not to plan anything that day until after the race."

Stewart's participation is not limited to taking part in the race — he has sung the national anthem at the event for 15 years.

"One of the great things about this run is that we see so many family and friends creating memories," said Sage Hegdal, executive director for the Plymouth YMCA. "The event includes everything from a quarter-mile fun run for little ones, a one-mile walk or run, a 5K, a 10K and the 10.3-mile MDG Triple, which allows the runner to be part of three events. Whether you are a family with toddlers or you are a serious runner, there is something for you."

Hegdal also notes that if you are not interested in running in a race, you can still show your support by making a donation to the Plymouth YMCA or by acting as a race-day volunteer.

"We need volunteers to help with handling registration, race-day setup, directing runners and many other tasks," she said.

Race proceeds benefit the YMCA's Annual Campaign, which drives its nonprofit mission of youth development, healthy living and social responsibility.

Canton Public Safety fills two positions

The Canton Public Safety Department recently filled two new positions designated to enhance services provided to the community by the police and fire departments.

Canton welcomes Fire Marshal John Oltman and Community Relations Officer Patty Esselink to their new roles.

Oltman was promoted to this position following a competitive internal testing process. He has been a Canton employee since 1996, serving the last 14 years as a fire inspector. Oltman's credentials include National Fire Protection Association certifications in Fire Inspector I & II, Plan Examiner and Arson Investigation. He is one of 318 fire inspectors in the nation with a NFPA II certification.

Esselink

Oltman will be leading Canton's Fire Prevention Division consisting of himself and two fire inspectors, who are responsible for plan reviews and inspections of new, existing and remodeled buildings in the township, special event inspections and arson inspections.

The Fire Prevention Division is also responsible for public education in the schools, businesses, residential and retail establishments. The overall goal of the division is to ensure building fire code compliance, along with providing an assortment of public education programs, making Canton a safe place to live, work and visit.

Esselink was recently selected to fill this new position following a competitive internal testing process. Esselink has been a police officer with the department for 14 years, where she has served as a patrol officer, investigator, Explorer program adviser and as an instructor of the Teaching, Education and Mentoring program taught in elementary schools in Canton.

Esselink will be working directly with community members, developing and providing a variety of public education and crime prevention programs for homeowners, business owners and community groups. She has plans to revitalize Canton's Community Watch and Business Watch programs, as well as to provide security surveys for establishments when requested. Esselink will also take on the role of recruiter for the department.

"The Public Safety Department is excited to offer these two new positions as a resource to the community. I am confident John Oltman and Patty Esselink will be exceptional in their new roles and will have a positive impact on public safety's efforts and enhancements in our community," Public Safety Director Todd Mutchler said.

To contact Oltman, call 734-394-5456 or email joltman@canton-mi.org.

To contact Esselink, call 734-394-5194 or email pesselink@canton-mi.org.

CANTON CRIME WATCH

Dispute erupts in Canton Kroger

A dispute between a mother and another customer inside the Canton Kroger store on Michigan Avenue, near Canton Center, led to police involvement and citations to both women for disorderly conduct, a police report said.

The dispute unfolded just before 7:30 p.m. June 3 after a 22-year-old Belleville woman apparently became upset when she was struck by a ball that had been bounced by a child of a 23-year-old Canton woman, a police report said.

Police went to the store amid reports of two women yelling and preparing to fight.

Police indicated the Belleville woman was agitated and screaming loudly. It was alleged she threatened the Canton woman and her daughter.

One witness stepped between the two women to try to defuse the situation, but the report indicated the two women continued to argue and attempt to fight.

Police did defuse the situation, however, with a pair of citations for disorderly conduct.

Motorist scare

A 17-year-old Canton male may have been having an anxiety attack Saturday night while driving erratically and pleading for help near Beck and Warren, a police report said.

Police went to the scene after a 45-year-old driver, on his way to work, said his vehicle was nearly struck by the teen's car. He said he could hear the teen asking for help shortly before 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

The older driver helped the teen out of his vehicle and got him away from busy Beck Road until police arrived. A police report said it initially appeared the teen, returning from an electronic music dance party, may have been under the influence of drugs.

The older driver told police the teen was hugging him and groping him.

The teen's parents were contacted and came to the scene. They told police the teen is known to have had anxiety attacks.

Bizarre behavior

Police went to the area of Warren and Bircklan, east of Napier, amid reports that a 19-year-old Superior Township man was screaming "help me" and "come find me" while standing in the street, a police report said.

A police report said the teen then rolled around on the ground, sat up and talked with police. He appeared intoxicated as the incident unfolded about 3:15 a.m. Saturday.

The teen told police he was scared of the woods and that's why he was screaming, the police report said. He said he had consumed four drinks and had walked to the area, though he eventually divulged his grandmother's car was parked in the area. He continued to deny driving it.

The teen's father came to the scene to pick him. Police cited the teen for public intoxication.

Motorcyclist flees

A woman driving a red motorcycle fled from police after an attempted traffic stop near Beck and Swanmere, north of Hanford.

The incident unfolded shortly after 6 p.m. June 2. Police stopped the female motorcyclist after she was seen passing traffic on northbound Beck, a police report said.

The woman, wearing a camouflage coat and orange pants, pulled over after police initiated a traffic stop and appeared visibly upset, the report said. The woman then drove off and fled the scene, with police losing sight of her.

Cellphone debacle

A man staying at the Canton Days Inn, near Michigan Avenue and Lotz, got his stolen cellphone back after he reported it missing from his room, a police report said.

The man told police last Thursday that he returned to his room from his job and learned that his cellphone was missing. A police investigation centered on employees who had cleaned the room.

Police went to a worker's residence, spoke with her and her grandfather and took her into custody for an unrelated incident after learning she had a warrant for her arrest out of Southfield.

The officer said the woman's Australian cattle dog ran up to him and ripped his uniform pants.

After leaving the residence, police learned that someone had gone to the front desk to return the missing cellphone.

Police said it was the employee's grandfather who had returned the phone, claiming it had been found in a nearby Wendy's parking lot.

The man who got his phone back told police he didn't want to prosecute. He was just glad to get it back, the police report said.

Pushy customer

A woman who works at the Sprint store on Ford Road, west of Haggerty, notified police after a man entered the store even though she told him it was closed, a police report said.

The store had closed at 9 p.m. Saturday, but the doors hadn't yet been locked. The suspect had called the store and was told it was closed, but he came to the business anyway, a police report said.

He fled the store after the employee called police and was last seen getting into a vehicle in the nearby IKEA parking lot. Police advised the employee to notify them if the suspect returns.

52-1 District Court says ignition interlock devices are effective

The use of ignition interlock devices in the DWI/Sobriety Court program at Oakland County's 52-1 District Court in Novi has reduced the number of repeat drunken driving offenders. As part of an intensive program of supervision and sanctions for convicted drivers, ignition interlocks prevent a vehicle from being driven if the blood-alcohol content of the operator exceeds a certain level, which is measured by blowing into the device.

The successful results were released as part of a statewide news conference involving the Michigan Supreme Court and district courts throughout the state.

"We know all too well that drunk driving kills," 52nd District Chief Judge Julie Nicholson said. "There is solid data which indicates that ignition interlocks, used in conjunction with our DWI/Sobriety Court supervision, save lives by preventing drunk drivers from getting back on the road."

Researchers at Grand Valley State University found ignition interlock devices are an effective means of reducing the likelihood of convicted drunken drivers repeating their offenses. GVSU's analysis of data from the first four years of this project reveals that when the ignition interlock program is incorporated into a sobriety court program like the one at 52-1 District Court, chronic driving while intoxicated offenders are less likely to get behind the wheel drunk.

Specifically, the report found:
 » Recidivism cut in half: A DWI recidivism rate of 2.8 percent among interlock participants who are off probation as compared to participants in the Standard Probation Group who have a DWI recidivism rate of 5.5 percent.

» Near universal compliance: More than 97 percent of people ordered by the DWI/Sobriety Court judges to put the devices on their vehicles actually put them on.

» Failure rate two-thirds lower: Twelve percent of interlock participants failed the DWI/Sobriety Court program, while non-participants had a failure rate of 34 percent. Locally, 52-1 District Court found that using ignition interlock devices improved the successful completion rate of convicted drunken drivers in its DWI/Sobriety Court by more than 54.5 percent.

In other words, for the past two years 85 percent of convicted drunken drivers successfully completed the terms of the DWI/Sobriety Court at 52-1 District Court with the ignition interlock devices. In 2011, prior to the introduction of ignition interlock devices in the DWI/Sobriety Court, the successful completion rate was 55 percent.

The study, which uses data from 2011-14, was commissioned by the Michigan Association of Treatment Court Professionals in cooperation with the State Court Administrative Office. The research in the report is based on data drawn from 8th District Court (Kalamazoo); 51st District Court (Waterford); 61st District Court (Grand Rapids); 86th District Court (Traverse City); and 96th District Court (Marquette).

PLYMOUTH CRIME WATCH

Witness helps track hit-run suspect

A 55-year-old woman was arrested on a drunken driving charge Friday after a crash on Beck Road, near M-14. No serious injuries were reported, but the suspect was later taken to a local hospital because of a high blood-alcohol content, police said.

Police were helped by a quick-thinking witness who got the license plate number of a Ford Edge involved in the crash.

The suspect, who admitted she had been drinking, failed field sobriety tests and her blood-alcohol content was registered at 0.30, according to a Plymouth Township Police Department report. That's more than three times the level at which one can be charged with drunken driving.

The crash occurred shortly before 11 a.m.

Friday. A man told police he was stopped at a red light on southbound Beck, near the freeway, when his Chevrolet Impala was bumped from behind and lurched forward, the police report said. The man pulled over, as did the driver of a black Ford Edge, he said.

A woman, smelling of alcohol and unsteady on her feet, got out of the Edge and apologized, the man said, then got back into the Edge and continued south on Beck.

A witness, who told police she did not see the crash but saw the Edge leave the scene, followed and copied the license plate number. With that, police were able to find the registered owner of the Edge.

An Edge was in the driveway of the owner's house, police said, and had fresh crash damage and was leaking coolant. The driver, who was at home, admitted to drinking and the crash, but said she provided the other driver with insurance information before leaving.

Police had her perform field sobriety tests, which she failed, then used a device to measure blood-alcohol content.

Insurance fraud

A 35-year-old man was arrested for driving with a suspended license the afternoon of June 3 after a traffic stop on Sheldon Road, near M-14.

Police said the driver was stopped because a check of the license plate on the Buick Roadmaster he was driving showed the plate was invalid because of a fraudulent insurance application. Police then found the driver's license had been suspended.

Police took him to the Denny's restaurant on Ann Arbor Road near I-275 and turned him over to Livonia police.

Administrators presented Tuesday a fifth draft of proposed reductions. The P-CCS administration is faced with a board mandate for a balanced budget. The proposed budget has changed plenty in the past few weeks as more information has come in, including a $36 per pupil net increase — much less than was expected — in spending from the state.

The increase amounts to an estimated total of about $631,548 (based on a current 17,543 student count) in additional revenue for the district in 2015-16. The current per-pupil state foundation funding is $7,241, which with a $10 equity payment totals $7,251, according to the district.

The board is expected to again review the proposed reductions at next week's meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 16. A public hearing on the proposed budget is expected June 23, at which time the board could adopt the document.

Aussie Formula Stops Pain

Perth, Australia. — When noted Australian wildlife man David Ireland discovered he had developed arthritis, he turned to his aborigine bushman friend for help with pain relief. You see, outback bushmen have been using an all-natural formula for pain relief for over 2,000 years. Ireland says he developed arthritis in part because of his confrontations with wild animals, including a wild boar, but is now painfree.

Now called OUTBACK PAIN RELIEF, the formula contains various proven ingredients from the Australian outback, including eucalyptus and tea tree oils. In fact, OUTBACK PAIN RELIEF is the only product on the market with this combination of ingredients and is now available in America and manufactured using modern technology.

Radio Club holds annual field day at Garden City Park

Sponsored by the American Radio Relay League, a national association for amateur operators, Field Day is the most popular and fun on-the-air event held annually in the U.S. and Canada. It is estimated that 45,000-plus radio amateurs will gather with their clubs, groups or simply with friends to operate from thousands of remote locations.

The Garden City Amateur Radio Club will be demonstrating its value to public assistance with using various modes of emergency communication capabilities Saturday and Sunday, June 27-28. The non-stop 24-hour radio event will be held at Garden City Park, at Merriman and Cherry Hill.

All currently licensed amateur radio operators are welcome to join club members in operating from multiple stations set up in the park. Members will be making as

Arts & Acts Festival Downtown Northville

Arts and Acts Puts Spotlight on Talent, Community

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

The Northville Art House shines a spotlight on the imagination, talent and cultural diversity of artists when the annual Arts and Acts Festival returns June 19-21 to downtown Northville.

The festival originated years ago with fine arts, and expanded six years back to include other art forms.

"Before that, it was simply the fine art portion," Liz Carter, special events coordinator for the Northville Art House, said of the 27th juried fine art fair. This is the sixth year for the addition of film, theater and literature. Art in the Sun, with artists taking to the streets, is the fine arts portion still.

"It continues to grow and change," said Northville resident Carter of the summer festival. "It is how the Art House is able to keep its doors open. It definitely helps us stay open. It's a very important fundraiser for us."

The festival includes the 27th annual juried fine art show Art in the Sun, featuring over 70 artists; the Reel Michigan Film Festival at Northville's Marquis Theatre; the Sandbox Play Festival produced by Tipping Point Theatre; the Short on Words Literary Contest; musical entertainment featuring some of metro Detroit's top musicians; Children's Activities; the Northville Art House Chalk Festival; and food and drink.

It will run 3-8 p.m. Friday, June 19; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, June 20; and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 21, around Main and Center streets in downtown Northville.

Carter, who's both a staffer and Art House volunteer, tips her hat to the Friends of the Northville Art House, which supports the Children's Activities and Chalk Festival. "We also have fantastic sponsors from the community," she said. "It's always nice to have community sponsors behind us as well."

She also noted the fantastic group of volunteers who support the artists and musicians.

"We depend heavily on our volunteers," she said. "Without our volunteers, the weekend would not happen."

The 74-some artists are from Michigan, some local, and elsewhere. "We do have some coming from out of state as well," Carter said. Organizers increased prize money this year, and are very pleased with quality of art, including photography, painting, pottery, mixed media, drawing and jewelry.

"There's really something for everyone," she said. "It's a really fine quality small art fair." That means no stressing over parking, she noted.

"Of course, we have fantastic music this year," pretty much throughout the festival, she said. Information, including a list of artists, is at www.northvillearthouse.org.

"I think the community is very supportive of Arts and Acts," she said. "The community's happy to see how it's grown every year." There's a $5 fee for the Chalk Festival, she added, but most everything else is free.

"It really gets the community out there for the weekend and participating," she said. "I just think it's an important part of community activities. People who wouldn't necessarily walk into a gallery get to be surrounded by art."

Starkweather Key Club exceeds fundraising goal

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

The Starkweather Academy Key Club is on a roll, raising plenty more than its $1,000 goal to help fund a scholarship in the memory of a student who died in 2012.

"It went well, as we anticipated," Key Club president Erik Hyde said. "We had a lot of fun."

In August 2012, Heather Nicole Hill, a former Starkweather Academy student, drowned in Belleville Lake. Former classmates and her mom, Dana Cowell, are keeping Hill's memory alive by creating an annual scholarship in her name.

To that end, the Key Club raised 1,748, plus it is receiving a donation of $400 from the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, taking the fundraising way beyond the original $1,000 goal for the event last Friday.

"Heather's mom was there," Hyde said. "It was such a great support system we had in place."

The event packed the Starkweather gym, with people staying much longer than anticipated following dinner, Hyde added.

Girls Travel Club preparing for final trip – college

By Terry Jacoby
Correspondent

Terri O'Brien was heading into a new phase in her life in 2010. The Northville wife, mother and business owner knew that with her two daughters heading to college, she was going to need something to fill the large void she knew was coming.

"As a family, we had done a lot of traveling with our girls and it was going to be different traveling without them," she said.

So O'Brien adopted a family to travel with – seriously.

"After hearing a story on NPR about a Kalamazoo woman who started a girls travel club for young girls living in poverty, a light bulb went off in my head," said O'Brien, the 52-year-old owner of Street Marketing. "The K'zoo club founder noticed that the girls in the travel club started getting better grades in school and were discussing their aspirations for a higher level of education."

The club had inspired the girls – and the idea had inspired O'Brien.

She decided to start a girls travel club in southwest Detroit through a nonprofit called Bridgepointe, which has worked with schools in southwest Detroit for more than 16 years. O'Brien served on the Board of Directors.

"My friend Lisa Burnia (South Lyon) was willing to take this on with me and our first meeting was with the principal of the Academy of the Americas in Detroit," O'Brien said. "The eighth-grade teacher selected 15 girls to be in our Girls Travel Club."

Maiden voyage

Their first trip was in December 2010, when they took the Amtrak train from Dearborn to Ann Arbor. "The girls had never been to a coffeehouse and really wanted to go see what this craze was all about," O'Brien said. "We headed out to the streets of downtown Ann Arbor and stumbled upon the graffiti alley off of Liberty. The girls were amazed that graffiti could be an artistic expression versus gang symbols or acts of vandalism."

The Girls Travel Club out of Northville gathered for a "last supper" May 20 in Detroit. The group included (from left) AnaLisa Alvarez, Lorena Fragaso, Yesenia Barraza, Jasmin Orzoco, Lisa Burnia, Brenda Vasconcelos-Ramirez, Lupita Avila and Terri O'Brien.

The day continued with a tour of the University of Michigan.

"The girls' eyes were open to the freedom of college," said O'Brien, a native of Southfield. "We discussed what kind of careers interested them and how college could not only change their life, but the life of their family. Many of the girls are the oldest and are setting the tone of how it's done for their younger siblings. That ride back was when I knew there was no turning back."

The Girls Travel Club has been to many communities, universities, restaurants, plays, amusement parks, businesses and radio stations since that inaugural trip to learn about the world outside of Detroit. Members have traveled by car, bus, limo, train and boat.

Keep it going

The original idea was for the club to end after eighth-grade graduation. But enough of the girls expressed interest in continuing the journey that the travel club kept motoring down the highway into their high school years.

In a few weeks, the eight girls from the club will graduate from four different Detroit high schools with high honors and are now preparing for their next road trip – college.

Ironically, since the group's first trip was to Ann Arbor, two of the girls will be headed back there on a more permanent basis. Both Brenda Vasconcelos-Ramirez and Guadalupe E. Avila have been accepted to the University of Michigan.

Vasconcelos-Ramirez, 18, will graduate from Cass Technical High School with a 3.72 grade-point average. She credits the Girls Travel Club for giving her confidence and the tools to succeed.

"Terri and Lisa made me step out of my comfort zone," she said. "They challenged me to be great and dream. They encouraged me through the college process and to excel at whatever I do."

Avila, 18, also is headed to U-M. She credits the club for inspiring her to go to college and better her life.

Avila will be graduating this month from Cass Tech with a GPA of 3.5. She said the travel club has given her encouragement, hope, support and opportunity.

"Having been given the opportunity to be part of this amazing club has provided me with so much hope," she said.

"Terri and Lisa took us to so many places that gave me the opportunity to be exposed to so much that has inspired me to succeed throughout high school and to apply to college to make something out of myself."

"The Girls Travel Club means the world to me; it's like my second home."

Other members of the club include Lorena Fragaso, who currently attends Huron Valley Lutheran High School in Westland and will attend Henry Ford Community

MONEY FROM THE MITTEN

Terri O'Brien put her money where her heart is.

The founder of the Girls Travel Club out of Northville is sending her first "graduating class" off to college with a little spending money in the bank account. O'Brien said each of the eight girls heading to college will receive $400 from the money she raised with friend Lisa Burnia of South Lyon through their company Don't Mess with the Mitten.

"We also currently have $1,355 in our GoFundMe account that will be given to the girls, too, but we would like to see if it grows and give them more as they need to purchase books, school supplies, computers, printers and other things they may need," O'Brien said. "We have also asked friends and family to help with some of the items they will need. We have mini fridges, microwaves, bedding and other needed supplies for them."

Don't Mess with the Mitten was a business O'Brien and Burnia started during the auto bailout. They sold shirts and wearables to help put pride back into the state during a difficult time for many.

"We were mad at the world's image of Michigan and decided to create something that allowed Michiganders to feel proud of who we are," she said. "The business took off faster than we thought and we decided we would use the funds from this to help support the Girls Travel Club."

Community College; Arlene Torres-Villas, who O'Brien says "makes the most beautiful cakes on the planet," will attend HFCC; Yesenia Barraza, who has been doing work toward a cosmetology license while in high school, will attend Baker College; and Juliee Cruz, who is deciding between Henry Ford Community College or Oakland University.

Mentor's pride

It's been a prideful ride for O'Brien.

"I have had the honor of mentoring these smart women from Detroit and I am beyond proud of their hard work and accomplishments," she said. "I cannot express how this has changed my life. I am humbled and honored to be a part of these amazing young girls' lives. The transformation I have seen in these girls is remarkable. All of these girls are graduating with high honors."

"After seeing what I have seen in Detroit, I do not believe the world is equal or fair. I believe that if children are loved on and have a mentor, they have a better chance of believing in themselves to do anything they put their mind to."

And just because the travel club has reached its final stop doesn't mean that these girls are being left at the station on their own.

"These girls are struggling to figure out how they will pay for all the expenses involved with attending college," O'Brien said. "I've set up a GoFundMe account to help raise some money to help make things a bit easier."

Monaghan to speak

The Plymouth Community Chamber will host Scott Monaghan, head of USA Hockey's team development program, 7:30-9 a.m. Wednesday, June 24, at the Good Morning Plymouth Breakfast at Independence Village, 14707 Northville Road.

Monaghan

Monaghan, senior director of National Team Development Program, will present the renderings of upgrades to the former Compuware Arena that will include a new lobby to showcase the rich history of USA Hockey, 20,000 square feet of additional space that will house a new weight training/fitness facility, digital scoreboards, a new sound system and more. The arena will also continue as a place for other activities, such as drive-in movies, special events and C.J.'s Brewing Co. restaurant.

Following the sale of the Plymouth Whalers, USA Hockey purchased the arena and will transform it into a state-of-the-art model for junior hockey arenas and the front door of USA Hockey.

The cost to attend the breakfast is $13. To RSVP, contact teri@plymouthmich.org or call 734-453-1540.

Appointed

Gov. Rick Snyder has appointed Canton resident Juman Doleh-Alomary to the newly created Underground Storage Tank Authority Board.

Established by Public Act 416 of 2014 and housed within the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, the six-member board oversees the creation of a separate fund to pay for corrective action to be taken on leaking underground tanks and the revision of eligibility requirements that must be met by claimants.

Ribbon-cutting

Goldfish Swim School will officially christen its new Canton Township facility with a ribbon-cutting ceremony and other various family-friendly activities during grand opening festivities June 19-20.

The $1.5 million, 10,000-square-foot aquatic facility at 225 Sheldon Road, which opened May 29, will stage a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 3 p.m. Friday, June 19.

Also planned are open family swimming, a bounce house, face painting, crafts, food and facility tours. Grand opening hours are 6:30-8 p.m. Friday, June 19, and noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, June 20.

Goldfish Swim School will employ 50 workers who will conduct year-round swim lessons to children ages 4 months through 12 years.

"Canton is an ideal market for our curriculum because it has lots of growing families with parents who want their children to be safe in the water," said Katie Lee, a partner in the Canton Goldfish Swim School franchise.

Practical skills training are emphasized. Fellows participate in team and coalition-building activities to foster communication and the exchange of ideas. The MPLP faculty is composed of elected officials, political activists, MSU faculty, media and business professionals from across Michigan.

MPLP fellows are required to attend one weekend session per month from February through November, generally beginning with dinner at 6 p.m. Friday evening and meeting through 4 p.m. Saturday.

Considerable financial resources and time are donated to support each fellowship, which is valued at $12,000. The fellowship covers the participants' lodging, meals and program costs. Accepted Fellows are asked to pay an administrative fee of $1,000 to participate in this program. Travel and some parking expenses are the responsibility of the participant.

Griffin Funeral Home pioneer is honored

By Lonnie Huhman
Staff Writer

It was 60 years ago that Gerry Griffin was first licensed as a funeral home director. All of these years later, she is still committed to her profession of helping grieving families celebrate the life of a loved one.

She was recently honored as a 60-year licensee by the Michigan Funeral Directors Association, which gave a special recognition for her commitment to the profession and service.

"It was a big honor," she said. "It means a lot to be recognized, because it is such a respectable and professional association."

In 1954, Larry and Gerry Griffin opened the doors to their first funeral home on Plymouth Road in Detroit. She's a graduate of the Wayne State Mortuary School. Gerry was one of a few women during that time who worked in such a male-dominated profession.

"Back then, there were very few women in this profession, so I worked hard to help establish our name," she said.

Working together as licensed funeral directors, the Griffins understood the meaning of commitment and provided quality service to all families.

"Our commitment to service became a family tradition," she said. "It's important to us to take care of people in an honorable way."

has a long history in metro Detroit. As their family grew over the years, so did their business.

The Griffins opened their second funeral home in 1972, allowing them to serve Westland and surrounding communities. Believing that every community deserves a place that will help them honor a family member – and seeing a need in the Canton area – they designed and built their Canton funeral home in 1992. That was closely followed by the addition of another funeral home in Livonia. In March 2014, the Griffins became the new proprietors of the Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Home in Northville.

Now Griffin's two sons help carry on the family tradition. David said his mom is a real inspiration and to this day she's always around helping in any way she can. He said her longstanding commitment to quality service stands out.

"I look at my mother as a pioneer for her time," he said. "It was nice to see her honored and recognized for what she has done."

Here are legal, financial suggestions for new parents

I received a phone call from a client who told me that his son and daughter-in-law just gave birth to their first child. After I congratulated him on becoming a grandfather for the first time, he asked what legal and financial advice he could give his son.

He said that his son did not have a lot of resources and that, in the not-so-distant future, his daughter-in-law plans to go back to work.

I told my client that whether his son was rich or poor really didn't make a difference. There are certain things that he should do to protect his newborn. The first thing I recommended was that his son and daughter-in-law do a will. A will is essential for anyone with children.

Most people think the reason you have a will is to make sure your property, upon your death, goes to the right person. Although that is the reason most people end up doing wills, the most important issue for parents with minor children is who will raise the children if the parents can't.

The main benefit of a will in this case is to name a guardian for the child. In the unlikely event that both mom and dad pass away while the child is a minor, who will raise that child? For parents who don't have a will, that means the decision will be left to the courts and that can create all sorts of family disputes. Having a will that names a guardian for your child will dramatically reduce the risk of family difficulties.

Rick Bloom

I recognize that for a lot of young couples, money is always an issue and that is why some people choose not to do a will. That should not be an excuse. You can do a will for free. In Michigan, we have what is known as the Michigan Statutory Will, which is a free, fill-in-the-blank form that fulfills the needs of many people. You can download a copy of the Michigan Statutory Will by clicking on www.bloomassetmanagement.com/bloom-university/forms-legal-tax.aspx.

I also recommend reviewing life insurance needs. If something happens to either parent or both of them, what happens to the financial needs of the child? For the majority of people, I recommend term insurance, which is the most cost effective type of life insurance. In addition, it is easy to receive competitive bids.

My last recommendation was to consider setting up a college fund through something like the Michigan Education Savings Plan. As soon as you have a child, you should start thinking of their future education.

Establishing a college fund allows parents and other family and friends to make a contribution for the child's education. Instead of family and friends buying toys for the child – which will last about 10 minutes – they can help the child throughout their lifetime.

Having a child is a wonderful event, but it brings adult responsibilities. If you are a parent, make sure you've taken care of the basics so that if something does go wrong, your child will be protected.

OUR VIEW

Social media use demands responsibility, accuracy

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will feel the pinch of cuts to offset an estimated almost $6 million deficit this year. It's unpleasant for staff, students and the community. But any irresponsible use of social media to lobby for or against certain staff or budget reductions, or against district officials, only puts salt in a growing community wound.

Unfortunately, a recent Facebook post by the district's parent council put plenty of salt in many wounds by inadvertently publicizing sensitive information. It began when a parent — within her rights — asked for the district's 300-page draft budget document. In an effort to maintain the school district's commitment to transparency, the document was forwarded to her.

District officials, however, did not review the document for sensitive information prior to complying with the request. That was compounded when the parent also neglected to review the 300 pages before posting. As fast as lightning, the information spread like wildfire.

Social media in all their forms, including Facebook and Twitter, are powerful. Information is the life blood from which social media derives their strength and popularity. Social media effectively connect people, issues and information. But responsibility must be inherent in their use.

There are plenty of well-publicized social media repercussions, from pure embarrassment to tragedy. Sure, people gossip, spread rumors and even incite ire in others. But social media have an exponential ability to spread hurt, tragedy and misinformation within seconds — for all to know.

P-CCS budget deliberations have been tense as reductions must be made to fulfill a Board of Education mandate for a balanced budget. For the past month, the board room has been filled to capacity and then some, with program or staff advocates, urging cuts anywhere else but their favorites.

As board President John Barrett has repeatedly said throughout the budget process, struggling for funding, reducing staff and programs and even marketing a district for increased student enrollment is now the norm in public education.

As the budget process for the Plymouth-Canton schools continues, sharing information and opinions is expected. And social media are effective tools for that purpose when used with responsibility, consideration, accuracy and with a clear understanding of the impact on others.

Very disappointed

Residents of Central Park Phase 1 subdivision are very disappointed in Canton Township officials for their approval of the Robertson Brothers Garden Villa's development adjacent to our subdivision property as it is currently being built.

The property was originally owned by Brown Properties and was being developed as multi-unit condos. It is located on Denton Road, east of Cherry Hill (it was part of the existing multi-unit condo project located on the corner of Cherry Hill and Denton).

Much of the property is wooded wetland, so the original builder (Brown) was required to keep a portion of the wetland undeveloped. Brown chose to separate the property and place a road (Garden Lane) with a separate entrance off Denton. This street was placed closer to the property lines of Manhattan Circle residents because Brown was not going to build on the south side of the street, but rather keep a wooded buffer zone and add evergreen trees to screen because these were not similar housing developments.

The housing market declined, the project went bankrupt and the property sat vacant for 13 years. In 2014, Robertson Brothers bought the property at auction and is currently building detached condominiums on the site. The company did meet with residents of Central Park subdivision to inform of its plans, which was to build on the south side of the street, adjacent to our property lines (the wooded buffer zone we fought to keep with the previous builder).

Since there is not enough space in this buffer zone, the builder is actually placing homes sideways on the lots behind the homes on Manhattan Circle, meaning the side of the condo unit will face the back of our property.

Canton Township approved this project despite our objections and violations of many township ordinances (proper set-backs from street, no sidewalks, proper easements, removal of landmark historic trees).

Clearly, there is not enough space in this buffer zone area to build the condos properly (front facing street, rear facing rear of our property). Central Park residents feel duped by the township. Residents of Central Park paid a lot premium for a wooded lot and Canton Township reaped the benefits of us paying higher taxes for 15 years because of that. But instead, we get detached condos turned sideways literally on top of our property lines.

All we asked is that the Canton Township Planning Commission follows the ordinances (set-backs, sidewalks) and maintain the aesthetics of our neighborhood (and how about saving some beautiful trees?).

The Robertson Brothers Garden Villa's development will look hideous when completed. Buyers, beware. You should definitely check the property out in the winter when the shrubs are bare. Shame on the Canton Township Planning Commission and administration for allowing Robertson Brothers to come in to our township and build a "hodge podge" development adjacent to our beautiful subdivision. This will definitely have a negative affect on our property values. We will remember you all at election time.

Still a lie

It is becoming more apparent that before anyone is allowed to join the extreme right wing of the Republican Party, they must take a course in Russian history. I believe this because it was Vladimir Lenin who said, "A lie told often enough becomes the truth."

A case in point is when a groupie of Patrick Colbeck wrote a letter to this paper (June 14, 2015) and attempted to contradict previous statements I have made about this Tea Party favorite. The writer cites a bill that Colbeck voted for that failed. Well, let me tell you, that is not surprising. Colbeck has made an art out of voting for or against a bill where the outcome has already been determined. This is done strictly for political cover.

But when his vote is crucial, he falls in line with the other right-wingers. The one time he broke ranks with the party was when he and fellow Tea Party members failed to give the Medicaid Expansion Bill immediate effect and that defiant act cost our state millions of dollars.

However, when it came to taxing seniors, approving corporate welfare, harming unions or taking away from the poor, the fine senator stood tall with his arm raised in agreement.

Only time will tell what kind of road bill comes out of Lansing, but don't hold your breath thinking the corporations that received billions in tax breaks will feel any of the pain you do.

In closing — and with all due deference to Lenin — I say, a lie by omission is still just a lie.

Judgment imposes levy without taxpayer consent

When a court judgment against a municipality awards money, the municipality has two choices: Pay whoever filed suit directly or pass it on to taxpayers by levying a special property tax. It's called a "judgment levy" and is required by law, if the municipality doesn't pay the bill with existing or surplus funds.

Most dramatically, the city of Inkster recently agreed to pay $1.38 million to a man who had been beaten by a police officer during a traffic stop. Inkster doesn't have that kind of money to pay out, so the judgment will be put on Inkster's summer tax bills, costing the owner of a home worth $100,000 about $180.

Every taxpayer in Wayne County may face a similarly unexpected and imposed property tax this summer under the same mechanism, the judgment levy.

Whether it is a judgment for payment on a catastrophic accident involving a county vehicle or, as it is in this case, over a required payment not made to the county pension system, the point is, there is a judgment against the county. At issue is whether the county will pay from available funds or let the bill be paid directly by taxpayers.

At the risk of further diverting from that bottom line, but in order to clarify points that are distracting on this matter, let's review how we got here. The county did not make a required $32 million payment to the pension system in 2010. The county had limited the bonus check program for retirees and instead credited $32 million that was already in that fund as the county's payment.

To avoid layoffs

Rear-view mirrors aside, that was during the height of the property value decline that was crippling the county's finances. That move with the pension system was to avoid 500 layoffs. The county believed it was on firm legal ground and, in fact, the move was upheld initially by the court, but overturned on appeal. In December, the state

Gary
Woronchak
GUEST
COLUMNIST

Supreme Court declared the county owes the pension system $32 million plus lost earnings to be determined by the local court. On May 29, the circuit court entered a judgment that the county owes $49 million.

Wayne County's dismal fiscal condition is well-known and $49 million is a big bill. However, there is $78 million in a fund that has not yet been allocated, though it had been expected that it would go toward reducing the county's accumulated budget deficit.

That's where a majority of the Wayne County Commission disagreed with County Executive Warren Evans. The executive believes that $78 million should be allocated to paying down the county's deficit. A majority of commissioners voted to move $49 million of that money anyway, believing that money could go to avoiding the judgment levy.

Of course, we realize that would be $49 million less toward the county's recovery. But the basic right-wrong of this is whether taxpayers should be forced to pay on this summer's tax bills when there is another way, even if it would keep the county in a financial hole a while longer.

I'm surprised at how some, including in the news media, think this is just something the taxpayers should eat. It was suggested this is the price they pay for poor performance of the people they elect. First, how does that twisted logic apply to those who voted over the years against the previous administration? Plus, are we blaming the housing market crash that had a hand in this case on elected officials?

As the legislative branch of county government, the Wayne County Commission is elected to directly represent the taxpayers of their district. For me, that means protecting the taxpayers — and their wallets — if there's another way to pay the bill.

Show no respect

Letting this money be taken, without permission, from the pockets of residents this summer would not be keeping faith with, or showing respect to, our taxpayers. If we want taxpayers to assist in Wayne County's financial recovery, to share in the sacrifice, we should ask them. We should convince them that it's necessary and we've done all we can on our end. It should not be imposed on them.

Proponents of the tax levy point out the big picture, the long-term consequences of using existing money, saying taxpayers will pay more later if they don't pay it now. I suggest that message be put in each tax bill mailed this summer; shall we guess how much better that will make the owner of a $100,000 house feel when they pay an extra $50 this summer?

Less facetiously, an imposed tax this summer will make it all the more difficult to convince taxpayers down the line to renew the voter-approved taxes that are expiring or to authorize new ones to be true and willing partners in Wayne County's recovery.

I understand and respect the county executive's position on this. None of this is easy. I'm not claiming he's taking lightly the imposition of a judgment levy on taxpayers. I'm certain he's not. Nor are commissioners taking lightly the long-term effects on county finances.

However this matter ends up, I remain concerned that the judgment levy could be viewed as a tool for extracting money from taxpayers. If it goes forward now, I fear it will be less difficult to swallow the next time.

And the taxpayers who used to believe they had a say in their property tax rates will realize that, under certain circumstances, they do not.

Gary Woronchak, D-DeARBORN, is in his third term as chairman of the 15-member Wayne County Commission. He represents Allen Park and Dearborn.

HANGING 'EM UP

Ron Hayes retiring after 40 years at helm of PCHA's Learn to Skate program

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Helmets adorned with first names written on masking tape helped Ron Hayes know the little kids in the Plymouth-Canton Hockey Association Learn to Skate program he launched in 1974.

But no such pieces of tape are required for thousands of his former skating pupils to know Hayes' name or what he meant to their hockey careers.

That's because they will never forget the way their first skating instructor kept things fun and simple while they decided whether they wanted to stick with hockey or not.

"I was (refereeing) a high school game and I'm holding a face-off," Hayes said while reminiscing Monday about his four decades with the PCHA program, "and my theory is drop the puck and get the heck out of there. Nobody's coming to watch you. So I say, 'OK guys, get set.'"

"And there's this kid," continued the 74-year-old Hayes, lowering the pitch of his voice, "Hi, Mr. Hayes, remember me?" And you look up and he's 6-foot-6 and he weighs about 180 pounds. I say, 'I have no idea who you are.' He goes,

"Well, you taught me to skate."

From 6:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday at Plymouth Cultural Center — the very place where Hayes helped that young man and so many others get their skates wet, so to speak — a retirement reception will honor his 40-year career.

"I don't know what to expect," said Hayes, a longtime Plymouth resident who now lives in South Lyon with his wife Mary. "I was very fortunate. Over 3,000 or 3,500 kids have gone through our program in the 40 years. That's really rewarding."

Hayes looked back at that first year, when the cost to skate was $2 an hour and families only had to worry about shelling out money for the

Plymouth's Bressler pitches Wildcats to first-ever regional title

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

For the first time in the history of Plymouth High School, the softball team is a regional champion and the team can't wait to continue the postseason ride.

Plymouth garnered its first-ever Division 1 regional championship Saturday at Saline High School, nipping Monroe 2-1 in the semifinal and then defeating Brownstown Woodhaven 8-0 for the title.

"Today's wins were definitely total team wins," Plymouth head coach Lauren Delapaz said. "Everyone made a difference in that game. We had girls pinch-running, courtesy running, we had some pinch-hitters going. This was a true Plymouth win today."

The Wildcats (30-4) advanced to Tuesday's match-up against Mattawan (29-12) in a D1 quarterfinal at the University of Michigan.

The game against Woodhaven was closer than the score indicated. The Warriors put five base runners on the first two innings against Wildcats senior pitcher Mikayela Marciniak, but failed to score.

Delapaz didn't fault the left-hander, but wanted to give Woodhaven batters a different look.

Like a veteran

So taking over in the circle in the third inning for Delapaz was freshman Jenny Bressler — who had pitched a complete-game beauty against Monroe earlier Saturday — and the youngster had more than enough gas in the tank to throw five shutout innings.

"She's a great kid, she works hard," Delapaz said about Bressler. "This whole team is a team that wants to win and they want to do well. When they work together, they get their job done."

Bressler said she was ready to pitch when called upon against the Warriors, retiring nine of the first 10 batters she faced. She scattered four hits and struck out four.

"I enjoy pitching; it's my favorite position on the field," Bressler said, adding that it was "really fun, especially with this team" to finish off a regional championship.

Mattawan puts stop to 'Cats' title run

Plymouth can't get untracked at U-M

Plymouth wanted to end its 2015 varsity softball season later this week at Michigan State University, where the Division 1 state semifinals and finals will take place.

Instead, the Wildcats had to settle for putting wraps on the program's most successful season at University of Michigan's Alumni Field as Mattawan scored early and held on for a 4-1 victory Tuesday in a D1 state quarterfinal.

"I told these girls before this game that I was proud of them," Plymouth head coach Lauren Delapaz said. "This has been a great ride. We've had fun every step of the way and I think it shows in their play."

"I told our underclassmen that it's our job to get back here next year."

Delapaz also thanked her seniors for "working so hard this year. They're the ones that really put the whole team on their back and said this is how we're going to roll."

One of those seniors, third baseman Brittney Miller, fought back tears as she tried to come to grips with the disappointing loss.

"It was great, my teammates, I can't believe we made against Woodhaven junior pitcher Bri Charron, who had held the Wildcats at bay over the first three innings.

Marciniak led off with a walk and senior third baseman Brittney Miller drove a double off the wall in left field to put runners at second and third with no outs.

Senior pinch-hitter Caylin Waters followed with an infield single to load the bases and Marciniak scored on a wild pitch with freshman Jessica Tucci at the plate.

Jolt of energy

One out later, sophomore first baseman Mikayla Rose came through with a bouncing single off the glove of Woodhaven's third baseman. The ball rolled into left field to bring home Miller and Waters to make it 3-0.

"I thought that it was really important crunch time," Rose said. "I just thought I had to do it for my team to help us get the energy up and help us get a rally going."

The Wildcats broke it open with two in the fifth (run-scoring hits by Marciniak and Miller) and three more in the sixth (an inning featuring an RBI hit by Bressler and Marciniak's two-run double to left).

Marciniak had a big game at the plate, going 3-for-3 with two runs and three RBIs.

"I knew our team was going to come through," Marciniak said. "We're battlers and we're bulldogs, like (Delapaz) says. I feel like we finally timed up the pitcher and we finally settled down."

Plymouth's offense also was fueled by multi-hit games from senior catcher Rachael Ring (3-for-3), Miller (2-for-4, run, RBI) and Bressler (2-for-4, including a double to deep left).

Confidence grows

"Our girls put the ball in play every inning, it was just stringing a couple together," Delapaz said. "Once we strung some together, I think we gained some confidence and we got stuff done."

Woodhaven's fortunes might have been different if not for Marciniak shutting the door on two early rallies.

In the first, the Warriors loaded the bases with two outs, but Marciniak ended the inning by striking out Hannah Pasiko. Marciniak also struck out Jessica Harrison to close out the second, with two runners on base.

"It feels good my senior year to have this team go as far as we can," Marciniak said.

Against Monroe, Bressler struck out nine and only gave up a run in the second, which at that time cut Plymouth's lead to 2-1. She also calmly snagged a liner up the middle, off the bat of Nicole Sieler, to end the contest.

"Composure is something Jenny's had all year and we're really proud of her," Delapaz said between games. "She worked hard and she got better every inning and that's kind of our motto."

"Every inning, every at-bat, we're going to get better and Jenny did that."

Just enough

The Wildcats had opened the scoring with two runs in the top of the second, on a triple by junior Cali Jones (scoring Rose, who had doubled) and a squeeze bunt by junior center fielder Rachel Zerona (3-for-4).

Those runs held up, although Monroe made a bid to tie the game in the fourth, when Hope Longenbarger flew out to deep center field.

Also registering multiple hits against the Trojans were Bressler (2-for-3) and Miller (2-for-4).

Saline's Karcher stops Wildcats' ride

Plymouth's most successful season comes to a halt in Division 1 regional semifinal

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

The most successful season Plymouth's varsity baseball team ever had came to an unceremonious halt Saturday at the hands of the No. 1 team in the state.

Spotting host Saline two runs in the top of the first inning did not bode well for the Wildcats' chances in the Division 1 regional final and the Hornets — behind the outstanding pitching of future Michigan Wolverine Ricky Karcher — went on to post a 7-0 victory.

"We made a few mistakes, but honestly if you score zero runs you're not going to win, whether you make no mistakes or a ton of them," Plymouth head coach Jason Crain said. "So it just comes down to a great pitcher on the mound. He did a great job and they hit it like not many teams."

"That showed today. They put the pressure on, they put the pressure on defensively, offensively — it's someplace we need to get to."

Saline had only lost two games all season going into the regional and the path looked clear for the Hornets to capture a regional title. But the Hornets suffered a crushing upset later Saturday, when Taylor Kennedy pitcher Cody Serafin blanked them in the regional final, 1-0.

Plymouth managed just three hits in the game, a first-inning single by senior Patrick Downing, a double to left in the third by junior Pete Carravallah and junior Kyle Wolter's single in the fifth.

Cruise control

Karcher, touching the mid- to high 80s with his fastball, fanned six and rarely was in trouble.

"He was throwing a lot of fastballs, probably one of the fastest pitchers we've ever seen," Downing said. "We knew he had a curve ball and a change-up, but the fastball was the main pitch he went to every single time."

"They're really known for their baseball program. They can hit the heck out of the ball and that's just what we need to do, too. We just couldn't do it today."

The Hornets (35-3) racked up seven hits over the first two innings against Plymouth junior starter Josh Sulak, as they built a quick 4-0 lead.

It was a 5-0 margin in the third when Jacob Finkbeiner's sacrifice fly scored Josh Smith, who reached on a dropped infield pop-up.

"(Sulak) threw strikes, he didn't walk anyone. He got ahead of batters," Crain said. "And mistakes led to some of those runs. Out of the five they got early, they probably earned two or three of them."

Saline added single runs in the fifth and sixth on an error and a wild pitch, respectively.

Despite the way the season concluded, Downing (who will play next season at Concordia University) said it was a great year to be on the squad.

"We made it farther than we did last year and all the years before," Downing said. "It was the first time we won the district, so that was nice. I had a lot of fun."

Praise for seniors

Meanwhile, Crain praised his team, especially the dozen seniors who helped Plymouth win a record-tying 27 games and capture division and district titles along the way.

"We had 12 seniors and they all played an important role, whether they played a lot in the field or not," Crain said. "They all had spots where they made important contributions on the field and certainly leadership off the field was a big one for our senior group."

"This program's been through a lot of adversity the last handful of years and they've been a part of all of it. So to have them play through that adversity and win 52 ballgames in two years, it's a credit to them."

Downing, Seth Hubbard, Kevin Anthony, Andrew Jossey, Jared Merandi and Andrew Hejka were the seniors who made the most impact on the field.

But the other seniors, John Kochan, Cory Burnette, Nolan Gerou, Cameron Anstess, Alex Zoltowski and Dakota Lynn, were solid within their roles whenever Crain called upon them.

Crain, finishing his second season at the helm, now wants to see the Wildcats take the next step toward being the kind of powerhouse Saline is (Saturday's loss to Kennedy notwithstanding).

"It's a building block," Crain said. "Our seniors have done a great job building what we're going to try to do every single year and go beyond. It's a culture. You have to expect to win games like this. We're getting there."

"(The Hornets) are on it every single pitch. I've said this to the boys before, we're on it every single at-bat, they're on it every single pitch. And that's the difference; that's where we need to be."

it this far and I'm so proud of all of them," Miller said. "We made history as a team. I'm glad we got as far as we did. It wasn't about losing this game, it was about how we got here and our journey."

"And even though it wasn't the outcome we wanted, I'm still really proud of all of them."

Miller was a standout against Mattawan with two hits and a pair of defensive gems, including a heads-up play in the third to save a run.

With Plymouth already trailing 2-0 and a runner on third with nobody out, Miller caught a bunt pop-up and threw to shortstop Gina Barber covering third to double up the lead runner.

On the board

Plymouth (30-5) trailed 4-0 entering the seventh and finally pushed a run across against Mattawan pitcher Emily Koperdak. Sophomore Mikayla Rose led off with a single to right and moved up on a fielder's choice.

The next batter, senior Caylin Waters, missed an extra-base hit by inches. Her liner down the left-field line fell just foul.

She then struck out to leave it all up junior Rachel Zerona, who grounded a single to center to score Rose and break Koperdak's shutout.

"Everybody has one of those days; it just wasn't our day," senior second baseman Mikayela Marcinia said. "The cards weren't in our hands and we fought. We've never been in this position before."

"The 2015 softball team is the first (Plymouth) team to score a run in the quarterfinal, something to be proud of."

In the battle of the Wildcats, Mattawan (31-12) wriggled off the hook in the top of the first despite two Plymouth walks and a single.

Mattawan, from west of Kalamazoo, then delivered two hits with two outs in the bottom of the second to go up 2-0 against Plymouth freshman pitcher Jenny Bressler.

"That's what we've done most of the year," said Mattawan head coach Alicia Smith, whose team won the state title in 2011 and 2013. "Either if the other team scores first or we get out of something like that, that usually kicks us in gear and we're able to score and score early."

Koperdak roped a single to center to score Joanna Bartz (on with a lead-off walk).

Following with an RBI off the wall in left field was sophomore center-fielder Meaghan Markus, who perhaps made the defensive play of the game later on when she dove head-first to catch Bressler's line drive and save a run.

At that time, a Plymouth run would have made it a 2-1 game.

Instead, Mattawan, with a jolt of adrenaline from the play, increased its lead to 4-0 in the bottom of the inning.

Koperdak singled and a courtesy runner scored on Markus' second double of the game, a drive down the left-field line. A fielder's choice scored Markus.

Plymouth just could not put anything together against Koperdak, at least until the seventh.

Miller and Marcinia both came through with a single to open the fourth and sixth innings, respectively. But they were left stranded at first.

In the fifth, Zerona slapped a two-out single off the glove of Mattawan shortstop Alexis Taube and would have scored easily had Bressler's subsequent liner not been snagged by Markus.

When that didn't happen, it became apparent that Plymouth's outstanding season would not continue to MSU.

"Both teams played well today," Delapaz said. "It was one of those games where you have two great teams playing and Mattawan just came out on top today with a little more timely hitting than we did."

Chiefs third at D1 finals; CC takes crown

Trosper finishes second among individuals; Plymouth ties for 11th in team standings

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

The Donnie Trosper era at Canton did not end with a Division 1 boys golf championship. But the Chiefs finished the season on as high a note as possible short of hoisting the trophy.

Canton came in third Saturday at Ferris State University's Katke Golf Course with two-day tally of 624 — just two strokes back of Battle Creek Lakeview for the runner-up spot. Winning the championship was Novi-Detroit Catholic Central, with a 591 score.

"I don't think many people other than our team expected us to do as well as we did at the state finals," Canton head coach Tom Alles said. "We didn't win our district and placed third in our regional."

"Our seniors came to the state finals ready to end their high school careers on a positive note."

Plymouth, which came in with high hopes after winning district and regional titles, finished in an 11th-place tie with Northville.

The Wildcats registered a 327-323-650 scoreline.

"It was a great season. I was proud to coach this group," Plymouth head coach Dan Young said. "Excellent leadership, very hard-working and — most importantly — good guys. What more can you ask for?"

As for Trosper, the standout Canton senior finished with a second-place score of 67-77-144.

He had led the field after Day 1, but was edged by Lakeview's Andrew Walker (70-72-142).

"Donnie likes to fire at the flag stick with every approach shot," Alles said. "Saturday, the greens were hard and fast. Combine that with a gusty wind and a few times he got in trouble when he ended up over the green."

"Those holes resulted in bogeys, which was the main reason for his higher score on the second day."

Canton seniors Noah Lindlbauer (75-80-155) and Hunter Schlamp (80-80-160) also were outstanding, shooting below their season average. Rounding out the scoring for the Chiefs were Suhas Potluri (81-84-165) and Brian Oldani (87-91-178).

Plymouth's top performers over the two days at Katke were junior Kyle Kozler (78-74-152) and sophomore Jack Boczar (80-81-161). Other Wildcats included senior Connor Zydeck (84-84-168), sophomore Justin Kapke (85-84-169) and senior Andrew Lloyd (87-87-174).

Alles, meanwhile, had the highest praise for what Trosper did during his Canton career.

"Donnie is the most talented golfer I have had the opportunity to work with in my 21 years of coaching the Canton boys golf team," Alles said.

times their little boy or girl participated.

There were 12 kids in the program that winter. Since then, as many as 140 youngsters have skated; there were 83 participants in 2014-15.

"It's been a good run; I've enjoyed doing it," Hayes said. "What's great is every (PCHA) president from Al Campbell on has said, 'Do it your way, don't worry about anything else.'"

"I told my parents every year that I was going to give them as much money back as I could and we did."

Name game

Among future National Hockey League players Hayes helped nudge forward were Jeff Petry, Chris Conner, Brian Rolston and Kevin Porter.

"Those are the ones I can honestly say I know about," Hayes said. "But Gordon Bowman is the vice president of coaches for MAHA (Michigan Amateur Hockey Association) and Gordie runs the elite camps, when these kids are 17, 18 years old."

"And Gordie's told me a lot more kids have made it into pro hockey. When I see them, I got a name on tape, a first name on their helmet. That's it."

"Mary knows their last name. I never know the kid's last name, so I would not know if they went anywhere unless somebody points it out to me."

Mary actually investigated what turned out to be Ron's long, stellar career with the PCHA. If not for her attending a meeting in 1974, Hayes might never have set foot inside the Plymouth Cultural Center.

"She said she'd go to the meeting here at the Cultural Center to find out what's going on," he said. "She came home around 9:30 or 10 o'clock and said she's treasurer of this hockey association."

"I said, 'Good for you.' Then she said 'But you're the mite coordinator.'" Thursday's reception is something Mary Hayes can't wait to experience.

"I'm looking forward to hopefully seeing a lot of past parents and their kids," she said. "We've had, through the years, the kids starting out young. Then we've had them growing up, having kids of their own and bringing them back into the program."

With the ice at Plymouth Cultural Center gone for the summer, Ron Hayes walks across the arena's cement floor. A retirement reception in his honor will take place there Thursday.

For Ron Hayes, the past four decades with the Plymouth-Canton Hockey Association have all been about kids and hockey.

He had help

Joining Ron and Mary Hayes on Monday at the Plymouth Cultural Center were longtime friends Dick and Jackie Marnon, both veteran volunteers in the Learn to Skate program.

Ron emphasized that if not for people like the Marnons, who either helped him on the ice (as a coach) or off (with registration, for example) the program never would have succeeded.

He also praised the many parents who signed their kids up for the program.

"You got to give some credit to the parents,"

Hayes said. "The parents at the Learn to Skate age, they're positive, about everything. Anything you can do, they're positive with it."

"They accept it, they volunteer, they're just great people. You got them like you got their children."

Another assist doled out by the longtime hockey player, referee, skating instructor and coach goes to former PCHA treasurer Kathy Maxwell.

"(Maxwell) was the one who told me, 'Do it your way,'" Hayes said. "All the presidents agreed. Kathy Maxwell was very important in this association and very important for me to stay with the program, because anything I asked her for she went to the board and got it for me. 'I couldn't ask for a better liaison.'"

Giving back

Doing it his way meant giving back to the kids as much as possible after all of the various program expenses were taken care of.

That meant providing youngsters with pizza parties, annual awards, PCHA hockey garb and popular stick giveaways.

"(Stick day) is usually at the start of the year, so the kid can use it all year," Hayes said. "We have a Christmas party; we have a skills competition."

Midway through a season, he'd incorporate "pond hockey" scrimmages, where kids could

THE RON HAYES FILE

Who: Ron Hayes, 74, of South Lyon, founder of Plymouth-Canton Hockey Association's Learn to Skate program at Plymouth Cultural Center.

What: Hayes is retiring after 40 years with the PCHA. A reception in his honor is slated for 6:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday at the PCC.

Family: He and his wife Mary have three children and four grandchildren. They lived for a number of years in Plymouth.

Honors: In 2009, USA Hockey presented him with the William Thayer Tutt Award, honoring his grassroots work in the sport.

"That was probably the biggest honor I ever go," Hayes said. "They pick one person in the United States that does what they feel is the most for skill development, youth, grassroots kids. And they chose me."

Other: Hayes is an off-ice official for the National Hockey League, working Detroit Red Wings games at Joe Louis Arena. He also is on the USA Hockey staff, as associate coach-in-chief of MAHA's Skill Development program.

enjoy some impromptu competition.

Hayes also has a couple dos and don'ts about how to run a Learn to Skate program.

"The dos are to keep it fun, the dos are to keep it challenging," he said. "The don'ts are don't make it frustrating. By that I mean keep your drills simple at the start."

"Once the kids learn that drill, don't necessarily take it out of the program because there might be one or two players where that's the only drill they can do. If you take that away too quick, those two kids are going to feel, 'I can't do it.'"

Sticks and pucks

Kids were able to skate with their hockey sticks and shoot pucks, too.

For that, Hayes credited former Detroit Red Wings player and long-time broadcaster Paul Woods, a proponent of youth hockey endeavors.

Hayes is an off-ice National Hockey League official who works games at Joe Louis Arena, where he met Woods.

"(Woods) said, 'Ronnie, I really got a problem with some of the things I see happening,'" Hayes said. "He said, 'When we were kids, we had pucks on the ice, all the time. When I look at some of the Learn to Skate programs, there's 10 kids standing around and one kid doing the drill.'"

"Woodsy told me, if nothing else, to always incorporate a puck somewhere in that hour."

There were plenty of pucks around for Hayes' program, which in 2015-16 will be taken over by Darrin Silvester.

"So at the start of every session, there's a hundred pucks at center ice and we have five minutes of free time," Hayes said. "They're on the ice warming up, shooting pucks. And then we go through our regular program."

Still in the game

Hayes isn't giving up hockey itself just because he is retiring from the PCHA.

He'll still work Red Wings games, electronically logging everything from shots on goal to hits and takeaways.

And time will be spent on the USA Hockey staff, as associate coach-in-chief of MAHA's Skill Development program. MAHA is a sanctioned affiliate of USA Hockey.

"I've done everything in hockey that I can think of," Hayes said. "I've attained more goals than I ever thought I would. And it's been fun. I can't believe all this attention I'm getting for doing something you love."

"I mean, I'd get there and I couldn't wait to get on the ice with those little shavers."

Hayes shook with laughter as he talked about those youngsters, the lifeblood of the PCHA.

"It was just a ball, just a ball," Hayes said. "We had a lot of fun, a lot of good times and a lot of good kids. And a lot of good families, too."

With another laugh, Hayes added that the end of his PCHA tenure does free up Saturday afternoons, the typical time slot for the Learn to Skate program.

"This gig, 40 years, (Mary) never had a Saturday, you know what I mean?" Hayes said. "We were lucky if we went out to dinner with Dick and Jackie (Marnon) and had a couple pops after, but for 40 years there was no Saturdays for her."

"It was me on the ice at 4 o'clock. I worked a lot of Saturdays (at Ford), so that meant I'd leave work and come right here."

Indeed, there might be a few Saturdays next winter where Ron Hayes starts driving toward Plymouth — by force of habit, tug of his hockey heartstrings or both.

Parade of Home winners show style, sound construction

The Home Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (HBA) announced the winners in its 26th annual Parade of Homes architectural judging. Parade of Homes is an exhibition of 53 new model, under construction and pre-construction homes and condominiums located throughout southeastern Michigan. The showcase takes place June 1-30, 2015. All 53 homes are featured at www.ParadeHBA.com. HBA and Bank of America Home Loans sponsor the event.

In this year's architectural judging, blue ribbons were awarded to the model homes in 10 categories. Winning homes were selected based on the following criteria: best value for the price, best use of space, most innovative design and aesthetic appeal. Before being judged in these categories, participating homes were divided into categories by price, with a separate category for attached condominiums.

The blue ribbon homes are:

- » Attached Condominiums - Sandstone in Lyon Township by Healy Homes
- » Homes Base Priced $273,000 and Under - Charleston in Lyon Township by Robertson Homes
- » Homes Base Priced Over $274,000 and Under $300,000 - Denali in Milford Township by Sandhill Associates
- » Homes Base Priced $300,000 to $350,000 - Lexington in White Lake Township by Heritage White Lake LLC
- » Homes Base Priced Over $350,000 and Under $400,000 - Desmond IV in White Lake by Steuer & Associates
- » Homes Base Priced Over $400,000 and Under $470,000 - 2409 Ellwood in Berkley by HRS Communities
- » Homes Base Priced Over $470,000 and Under $500,000 - Gardenia in Royal Oak by Norwood Homes

- » Homes Base Priced Over $690,000 and Under $1 million - Majestic in Oakland Township by Mocerri
- » Homes Base Priced Over $1 million - La Positano in Oakland Township by Arteva Homes

A panel of local architects and industry experts judged the homes. Participating judges were Lonny S. Zimmerman, AIA, NCARB, of Siegal/Tuomala Associates;

Boards choose to not have enough money

Q: I am on the Board of a condominium association and we need our documents revised as well as actively pursuing delinquent co-owners. The other Board members say we don't have the money, but I think we can't afford not to pursue these matters. How can I convince them otherwise?

A: I hear almost on a daily basis Board members telling me that "we don't have the money" to take the appropriate initiatives. My pat response is that the Board "chooses to not to have the money," because they have the ability under most community association documents to raise assessments notwithstanding the fact that they may receive the wrath of their neighbors. The directors of a community association have a responsibility to raise sufficient funds when necessary to protect the interests of the members of the association, which includes upgrading their documents, pursuing delinquent co-owners and enforcing the restrictions against recalcitrant homeowners who fail to live by the rules. Unless raising the assessments will likely have the effect of dramatically increasing delinquencies, there is generally no excuse for the Association not having the money to do the things that are best for the community at large. In fact, temporarily raising assessments to allow for the collection of delinquencies and the streamlining of Association operations could well serve to improve Association finances and allow for the reduction in assessments in the future.

Robert Meisner

Q: I am on a Board of five members and two of the members have legal training, one is a legal assistant and the other is an attorney. The Board is looking to them to provide legal advice, but I think it is a conflict. What is your view?

A: No one on the Board of Directors should be operating in anyway other than as a Director. They should not be providing services for the Association and merely because one has a legal license or paralegal degree does not mean that they should be practicing for the benefit of the Association. You are correct, that would be a conflict of interest and it is a pennywise and pound foolish approach. The problem arises, however, in that the other Directors presumably give credence to the attorney and/or paralegal as if they have expert knowledge in regard to community association law about which they probably know very little depending upon their areas of practice. You should get a legal opinion from your attorney as to the impropriety of them giving anything other than advice as a Director.

Dr. Pocket kicks off big band night at Elks Lodge in Plymouth

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

The @The Elks music series will add a big band concert to its schedule of monthly blues and jazz performances this month in Plymouth.

But if you're thinking big band jazz, don't let the concert title fool you. The first session of Big Bands@The Elks will feature a big group — a 10-piece band — that's known for rhythm and blues and songs that highlight its powerful horn section. Craig Strain, who plays trumpet in Dr. Pocket, which he founded 19 years ago, calls the band "a horn-driven R&B monster."

"We're a west side band," said Strain, a Farmington Hills resident who also directs Motor City Brass Band and CSO, a jazz, swing and R&B big band. He's also a board member of the Michigan Jazz Festival. "But the last couple of years we started playing on the east side ... Metro Beach (St. Clair Metropark), Freedom Hill, The Blue Goose.

"We're happy to go to the Plymouth Elks. I'm assuming it will be a fun crowd and a dance crowd. We'll play some of our specialty stuff and predominately up-tempo music, with a few ballads here and there," Strain said.

Dr. Pocket's "specialty" music gives its horn section and vocalists a chance to shine and includes hits by Blood, Sweat, & Tears and Chicago.

"When we do Chicago, we do it so well that people are really tuned into what we're doing. There are not a lot of bands with horn sections that can pull off Chicago and Blood, Sweat, & Tears."

Dr. Pocket will perform 7-11 p.m. Saturday, June 27 at the Plymouth Ann Arbor Elks Lodge No. 325, 41700 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth. Admission is a $10 donation and it includes hors d'oeuvres.

Dr. Pocket joins this month's lineup of the @The Elks music series in Plymouth.

Jazz@The Elks runs 7-10 p.m. the last Tuesday of the month and also includes hors d'oeuvres. Admission is $10. Susan Tobocman and the Cliff Monear Trio will perform June 30.

Blues@The Elks is on the second Tuesday of the month. Admission is $5 at the door. Guests can munch on free popcorn or buy pizza slices.

Adding big bands

"I'd say the jazz side tends to be the older crowd. The jazz night is advertised as a listening room. The blues night gets noisy and it's a lot of fun," said Lee Herberger, who heads the committee that selects performers for Blues@The Elks. He's also a past president and current board member of the Detroit Blues Society.

Herberger suggested adding the big band night. The other monthly sessions tend to feature smaller bands and a large group, like Dr. Pocket, didn't seem to fit.

"Several people did suggest this band (Dr. Pocket) and I knew the people in the band and the conductor and I thought they'd be a good fit for the Elks. They are very popular. They have a marvelous sound," Herberger said. "They're outside the range of what we do for Tuesday nights. We had a very small stage in the room where we do the concerts. We've tripled the size (for Dr. Pocket).

"This is the first time we're doing a concert on Saturday night and we'll see how it works. Saturday is an experiment," Herberger added. "It's going to be unusual for Plymouth and a lot of fun."

DOVE ON DAD

ENJOY A TASTY BACKYARD BRUNCH

Brunch isn't just for mom. On Father's Day, June 21, make eggs, toast and bacon on the grill for a breakfast that's sure to spoil the man of the house.

Not sure how to make eggs on the grill? It's easy! Crack an egg into a cut-out hole in toast set on a cedar plank, then sprinkle with a little cheddar and an Applewood rub for smoky grilled flavor.

"To complete the meal on dad's favorite outdoor tool, cook the bacon in a shallow disposable foil pan next to the eggs," said Chef Kevan Vetter of the McCormick Kitchens. "Once the bacon is almost done, I love to brush it with a honey-cinnamon mixture, then grill it directly on the grates for a few minutes to add a candied crisp."

For more grilling recipes and tips visit www.grillmates.com, and check out McCormick Grill Mates on Facebook.

CEDAR PLANK GRILLED EGG IN TOAST

Makes 4 servings
Prep time: 15 minutes
Cook time: 20 minutes

2 cedar planks (about 12-by-6 inches each)
4 slices bread, such as brioche or challah (½-inch thick slices)
7 eggs, divided
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons plus ½ teaspoon McCormick Grill Mates Applewood Rub, divided
½ cup grated smoked Cheddar cheese

Soak cedar planks in water for at least 4 hours or overnight. Drain and pat dry. Remove centers of each slice of bread with 3-inch round cookie cutter. Beat 3 eggs with milk and 2 tablespoons of the Applewood Rub in medium bowl until well blended. Lightly oil one side of each of planks. Place planks, oil side up, on preheated grill over medium heat. Dip bread in egg mixture. Place on planks. Break an egg into each of holes. Sprinkle eggs with remaining ½ teaspoon Applewood Rub. Cover grill. Grill 10 minutes. Sprinkle eggs with cheese and additional Applewood Rub, if desired. Grill, covered, 10 minutes longer.

HERBED SAUSAGE AND BELL PEPPER HASH

Makes 8 servings
Prep time: 5 minutes
Cook time: 20 minutes

1 pound bulk pork sausage
3 tablespoons oil
1 large red bell pepper, chopped
1 package (2 pounds) frozen Southern-style hash browns, thawed
3 tablespoons McCormick Perfect Pinch Sweet Onion & Herb Seasoning

Cook and stir sausage in cast-iron skillet on grill over medium-high heat 5 minutes or until no longer pink. Remove sausage with slotted spoon. Add oil to drippings in skillet on medium heat. Add bell pepper; grill and stir 3 minutes or until tender-crisp. Stir in hash browns and Seasoning; grill and stir 8 minutes or until potatoes are lightly browned. Return sausage to skillet; grill and stir 2 minutes longer or until heated through.

CINNAMON SUGAR GRILLED DONUTS

Makes 8 servings
Prep time: 10 minutes
Cook time: 12 minutes

¼ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
¼ cup (½ stick) butter, melted
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
1 can (16 ounces) refrigerated buttermilk biscuits (8 biscuits)

Mix granulated sugar and cinnamon in medium bowl. Mix butter and brown sugar in small bowl. Set aside. Cut out center of biscuits with small round cookie cutter. (Or use the cap of the cinnamon bottle to cut out the donut hole. Just be sure to flour the cap to prevent the dough from sticking.) Grill donuts and donut holes over medium-low heat 4 to 6 minutes per side. Brush with butter mixture just before removing from grill. Toss immediately in cinnamon sugar. Serve with fresh fruit and whipped cream, if desired.

ISLAND WOODFIRE SHRIMP WITH BACON-WRAPPED PINEAPPLE

Makes 16 (1 skewer) servings
Prep time: 20 minutes
Refrigerate: 30 minutes
Cook time: 10 minutes

1 package McCormick Grill Mates Island Woodfire Grill Marinade
¼ cup oil
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons water
1 pound large shrimp, peeled and deveined
8 slices bacon
½ ripe pineapple

Mix Marinade Mix, oil, vinegar and water in small bowl. Reserve ¼ cup for brushing. Place shrimp in large resealable plastic bag or glass dish. Add remaining marinade; turn to coat well. Refrigerate 15 minutes or longer for extra flavor. (Marinate seafood no longer than 30 minutes.) Meanwhile, cut bacon slices in half to make 16 pieces. Place 2 layers of paper towels on microwaveable plate. Place 8 pieces of bacon in single layer on paper towels. Cover with 1 layer of paper towel. Microwave on high 2 to 4 minutes or until bacon is partially cooked. Repeat with remaining bacon. Set aside. Peel pineapple then halve lengthwise. Cut off core from each half. Slice pineapple crosswise so pieces are same thickness as shrimp. Wrap 1 piece bacon around each pineapple slice. Remove shrimp from marinade. Discard any remaining marinade. Alternately thread 2 shrimp and a bacon-wrapped pineapple onto each skewer. Grill skewers over medium-high heat 4 to 6 minutes or until shrimp is cooked through, turning occasionally and brushing with reserved marinade.

CANDIED GRILLED BACON

Makes 6 servings
Prep time: 5 minutes
Cook time: 15 minutes

6 slices thick-cut applewood bacon
3 tablespoons honey
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon

Arrange bacon slices in single layer on bacon grilling rack or shallow disposable foil pan. Grill over medium-high heat 10 to 12 minutes or until bacon edges begin to curl. Remove pan from grill. Drain drippings. Microwave honey and cinnamon in small microwavable bowl on high 30 seconds, stirring after 15 seconds. Brush bacon with honey mixture. Place bacon directly on grill over low heat. Grill 2 to 3 minutes per side or until crisp.
