Runner, dogs finally get to meet

PCA senior brings presents to pets in 'ran' across

Ed Wright

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Long before they formally met, Seth Windle realized he had a common bond with the pair of dogs that lived about a mile into the Plymouth Christian Academy cross country team's almost daily training route.

"Our school is on Joy Road, so we'd run the same way down Morton Taylor almost every day starting with my first day as a freshman," Windle, recently graduated, said. "When we'd get close to the dogs' yard, they'd run along the fence line with us, barking, happy to see us.

"The dogs loved to run, just like us, and they looked forward to seeing us, as we did them."

As his four-year running career at PCA gradually unfolded, Windle and the dogs became fast friends, sharing quick encounters through the chain-link fence that separated the canines from the sidewalk.

"When you're running long distances — we'd usually run four to eight miles each day — it's nice to have something to look forward to on your route and I always liked seeing those dogs because they were so excited when we ran by," Windle said.

The relationship was comparable to having an across-the-street neighbor about four houses down the road who you shared heartfelt waves and smiles with for four years, knowing you'd hit it off with them if given the chance, but never getting the opportunity due to life's torrid pace.

And then one day spotting a moving van backed into their driveway.

Windle and the dogs' "moving day" arrived a few weeks back, on the PCA track and field team's final day of training.

"Back when I was a freshman, the dogs were a lot faster than us," Windle said, his voice coated with nostalgia. "But on that last day we ran past them, we were faster than they were."

"I'm not sure if I got faster or they got slower. The dogs are almost nine (years old) now, so probably a combination of the two."

As he jogged past the dogs' backyard on his last day of senior-year training, Windle was inspired by an idea.

The next day, there he was, knocking on the front door of the dogs' owner's home, a bag in hand.

"When the dog's owner first opened

EATING WITH A PASSION

Summer festivals are paradise for gourmands

Food, glorious food! With that refrain from the musical "Oliver!" gourmands can celebrate the abundance of eats available at tents, trailers and food trucks across the area as the festival season, in the words of celebrity chef Guy Fieri, kicks it up a notch.

kitchens serving ethnic dishes to corn roasts and chicken barbecues sponsored by local service organizations, this summer's festival-goers have plenty of options for pleasing their palates.

Last week's 27th annual Liberty Fest in Canton Township was a festival foodie's dream, with a food truck rally and the restaurants participating in Taste of Liberty Fest offering their wares in the area around the amphitheater, plus more traditional concessions, like popcorn, cotton candy and, yes, deep-fried Oreos, scattered among the carnival attractions at Heritage Park.

"For me, it's kind of like an adventure," Tameesha Holmes of Westland said Friday after ordering a pork sandwich — the La Mancha — from Simply Spanish, billed as the only food truck in Michigan that serves authentic

Alzheimer's, dementia documentary airs June 27

Dealing with Dad
Dan Dean
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

A sold-out Royal Music Theater audience got a preview June 3 of Keith Famie's documentary "Those on the Front Lines of Alzheimer's & Dementia" and the full-length documentary hosted by JoAnne Puritan will air at 9 p.m. Wednesday, June 27, on WTVS-TV (Channel 56), Detroit Public TV.

I first met Famie when he reached out after I wrote a column about dealing with my dad and dementia. He invited me along as he filmed and interviewed many locals for his documentary. He even invited us to share dad's story for his film.

I had no idea that this terrible disease would reach me and have such a profound affect on my life. It hit hard, it hit fast and has left us reeling with not only sadness, but incredible stress as we navigate the waters of caring for both our parents and our own families simultaneously. As Famie states below, if you have a head with a brain in it, you'll do yourself a favor and pay attention, gain knowledge ahead of time and plan for your own cognitive future and the future of your family.

Below are 11 questions with Famie about "Those on the Front Lines of Alzheimer's & Dementia."

Hometown: Dementia is not exactly a sexy subject. Why spend two years filming a documentary that is not only a tough subject to talk, about, but one that few want to hear about?

Famie: If you ask most aging baby boomers what scares them the most about aging and illness, just about everyone's first concerns is losing their cognitive health, knowing what this would mean for loved ones left caring

Canton resident in line for top teacher award

A total of 188 music teachers from 171 cities have been announced as quarter-finalists for the Music Educator Award presented by the Recording Academy and Grammy Museum. In total, more than 2,800 initial nominations were submitted. They include Canton resident Elizabeth Hering, who teaches at Churchill High School in Livonia, one of four from Michigan.

The Music Educator Award was established to recognize current educators (kindergarten through college, public and private schools) who have made a significant and lasting contribution to the field of music education and who demonstrate a commitment to the broader cause of maintaining music education in the schools. A joint partnership and presentation of the Recording Academy and Grammy Museum, the recipient will be recognized during Grammy Week 2019.

The award is open to current U.S. music teachers and anyone can nominate a teacher — students, parents, friends, colleagues, community members, school deans and administrators. Teachers are also able to nominate themselves and nominated teachers are notified and invited to fill out an application.

Each year, one recipient is selected from 10 finalists and recognized for their remarkable impact on students' lives. The sixth annual honoree will be flown to Los Angeles to attend the 61st annual Grammy Awards and a range of Grammy Week events. The nine additional finalists will receive a $1,000 honorarium and the schools of all 10 finalists will receive matching grants.

Fifteen semifinalists will receive a $500 honorarium with matching school grants. The matching grants provided to the schools are made possible by the generosity and support of the Grammy Museum's Education Champion Ford Motor Co. Fund. In addition, the American Choral Directors Association, National Association for Music Education, NAMM Foundation and National Education Association support this program through outreach to their constituencies.

The semifinalists will be announced in September. For more information, go to www.grammymusicteacher.com.

the door, she seemed a little confused seeing a teenager standing on her porch with a grocery bag in his hand," Windle said with a chuckle.

The dogs' owner, Karen Rose, agreed with Windle.

"Initially, when I opened the door and saw (Seth), I thought it was a solicitor," she said with a smile. "But when he didn't jump off the porch like the solicitors do, I knew he was there for another reason."

Inside Windle's bag were two dog toys — a bone and a ball — Windle had purchased at a pet store earlier in the day.

"Eddie, who was the darker of the two dogs, really took to the ball, so I gave the bone to Ellie," Windle said. "Obviously, you never know for sure, but it really seemed like they recognized me."

Rose said Windle's gesture warmed her heart beyond words.

"I was so touched by his kindness," she said. "I think I said, 'Oh my gosh, can I give you a hug?' Both my dogs have really deep barks, so a lot of people who pass by our backyard think they're mean, even though they're both very sweet. When they bark at people, I think they're really just trying to say, 'Hey, wait, we're here. Why aren't you paying attention to us?'"

"So for Seth to do what he did, I mean, it just really made my day."

Bound for Phoenix-based Grand Canyon University in a few weeks, Windle pledged to visit the dogs on his homecoming trips to Plymouth — a promise that Eddie and Ellie were no doubt overjoyed to hear.

Traveling Vietnam War memorial coming to Livonia

David Veselenak
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Those who have visited the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C., know how emotional it can be to see the more than 57,000 names. But next year, people will just need to head to Livonia's Ford Field to experience those feelings.

A traveling version of the memorial, which lists those killed or unaccounted for in the Vietnam War, will make a stop in Livonia next summer. "The Wall That Heals" will be open at Ford Field near Lyndon and Farmington from Aug. 8-12, 2019.

Bringing the tour wall to Livonia will give area residents a chance to remember and honor those who were lost during the Vietnam War.

"It's a big deal," said Joe Neussendorfer, a Vietnam War-era veteran who is also the Americanism chairman for the Disabled American Veterans Chapter 114 in Livonia. "The reason is the Vietnam War was such an unpopular war and the guys and gals who fought in that war, they didn't believe that (they) got any respect or dignity."

Neussendorfer was one of several other people in Livonia looking to bring the wall to the city. Taken across the country by the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, the wall will stop at more than 35 locations this year, with the only stop in Michigan taking place Aug. 23-26 at the Livingston County Spencer J. Hardy Airport, 3399 County Airport Dr., in Howell.

The wall stretches 250 feet and will be set up at the park for viewing 24 hours a day while it's in town next year. It can be viewed at no charge.

Livonia resident Brian Duggan, who helped arrange for the visit next year, said he would expect people to come from other neighboring communities, such as Plymouth, Northville, Farmington Hills and Westland, as well as other towns.

"I'm hoping we're going to pull people from everywhere," he said. "There's a lot of families, a lot of vets in this area."

While the visit is more than a year away, efforts will be made to fund raise for its visit throughout the next few months, including a potential fundraiser Aug. 25 that is still being worked out. More details on that event will be released later this summer.

"Hosting the wall is a significant event for our community," Mayor Dennis Wright said in a statement. "It's a large effort that will involve volunteers, fundraising and special events."

This visit will allow the aging veterans of the Vietnam War the experience of visiting a memorial containing the names of those killed or missing in action during the war in south Asia and a chance to remember and honor those lost in the war without having to travel to the nation's capital.

"Not everybody has been able to go to Washington to actually visit the wall," Neussendorfer said. "This is bringing the wall to them locally."

Spanish food.

Holmes said she usually heads for "something you can't find anywhere else" when it's time to eat at festivals.

"Anything you can walk with," she said, listing pizza and shish kebab as examples. "You're constantly moving, going to the next tent to see things there."

Holmes said she's a fan of festival food because

"you get a chance to try it all."

Simply Spanish, owned by Xavi Vittal, who hails from Valencia, on Spain's Mediterranean coast, is in its fifth year year of operation, but only its second year traveling to different locations, server Susan Naveen said. The truck could formerly be found at the now-closed Mark's Carts food truck lot in Ann Arbor.

"Once people try, they love our food," Naveen said. "This is, like, straight from Spain."

There were seven food trucks Friday at Liberty Fest and Evan Sweet, a Canton Leisure Services facility specialist who organized the event's food offerings, said it's a growing trend. There were none in 2016, Sweet's first year as Liberty Fest food czar.

"We're trying to bring things that people can't get every day to the festival," Sweet said.

Canton also has a food truck rally, as part of a benefit for the Canton Farmers Market, planned for next month.

At Crêpe Day Twah, a traveling crêperie adorned with fancy lettering and a miniature copy of the Eiffel Tower, owner Johnny Keith said patrons are often surprised to find crêpes can be made savory as well as sweet. Crêpe Day Twah is in its second year.

"People come back for seconds, always," Keith said, adding, "It's not your everyday option."

John Curdi of Canton had picked up beef brisket tacos, for himself and wife Susie, from Cosa Sabrosa, a Mexican food truck. He's been attending Liberty Fest for a few years, but Curdi said it was only the second time he'd ever tried festival food.

"You have such a wide variety of choices to offer," he said. "I think that's an awesome thing."

Other food trucks at Liberty Fest included Naughty Boys Rolled Ice Cream, Nu Deli (an Indian flair), the Come As You Are Smoke House Grill and Kabob Kart. Taste of Liberty Fest participants included the Chopstick House, Cold Stone Creamery, Krispy's Fish & Chicken Market.

'Royal throne' highlights orthodontist's new location

A new "royal throne" has been built on Farmington Road inside Today's Orthodontics + Pediatric Dentistry.

"Our mission from day one has been to create smiles that are delivered in a family-friendly and kid-focused way that becomes a royal experience for the individual," orthodontist Dr. Nicole Teifer said. "I wanted to give patients a special and unique experience, a real royal experience. Hence, the royal throne."

Teifer

The office features what Teifer refers to as "the royal throne," where patients are invited to take a seat to pose for cherished photographs when they get their braces put on and again when the braces are taken off.

The new state-of-the-art, 4,000-square-foot building features the latest technologies, including digital X-rays and digital charting, in a family friendly environment. With the addition of a fourth location, Today's Orthodontics + Pediatric Dentistry is expanding and accepting resumes. Its Canton location opened in 2011, Novi in 2014 and the Woodhaven location, which is Teifer's hometown, in 2017. Teifer currently lives in Plymouth.

Teifer said she strives to put her patients' needs first.

"I believe in incorporating a patient's lifestyle, personality and physical characteristics into their treatment plan," she said. "I am proud to say that our team of specialists works hard to ensure your entire visit is as comfortable and relaxing as a visit to your best friend's home."

Top priority is given for patients to see Teifer when their schedules permit, so there is virtually no wait time — and at a price point that is conveniently offered at zero money down. Most insurance companies are also accepted.

"We are looking forward to building relationships and serving more patients at our Livonia location," Teifer said.

Today's Orthodontics + Pediatric Dentistry's newest location in Livonia is at 18444 Farmington Road. For more information, call 734-454-9200 or go to todaysortho.com.

Leave your bathing suit at home for this dogs-only swim at Orion Oaks in Orion Township. Your canine friend can dive off the dock and paddle around the lake while you watch. When swim time is over, take a walk along the Dog Tail Trail or just let your furry friend mingle with other dogs in the 24-acre enclosed dog park. There's a small dog area, picnic tables, drinking water and restrooms. The park, at 1200 Joslyn Road, is open from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily. Dogs must be licensed, up to date on vaccinations and able to follow commands. The daily admission rate is $5 per car for Oakland County residents and $12 for non-residents — or buy an annual pass.

If you want to take a dip with your dog and you're ready for a road trip, pack an overnight bag or your camping gear and head to Kruse Park in Muskegon. A portion of the sandy beach at Lake Michigan is set aside for dogs. Dig in the sand, swim in the lake and relax on the beach. For overnight camping, try nearby Hoffmaster State Park or Muskegon

State Park. Dogs are permitted in the campgrounds, but must be leashed at all times.

Tuesday: Cocktails anyone?

Canine to Five, the day care/boarding company with locations in midtown Detroit and Ferndale, presents Drinking with Dogs, 6-9 p.m. select Tuesdays through October at bars and breweries throughout metro Detroit.

"You don't have to be a Canine To Five customer to attend," Colleen Robar, public relations spokesperson, wrote in an email. "No RSVPs are necessary. Just bring your dog (or not) and a thirst for fun."

The events are free and open to the public. Each gathering raises funds for an animal welfare organization.

"The bars and restaurants typically have a signature drink or donate a portion of the proceeds to the animal rescue group that works with us at each venue. The rescue groups bring swag and adoptable animals," Robar said.

The schedule includes June 26, at Red Crown, 15301 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Park, to benefit Grosse Pointe Adoption Society, and July 24, Old Miami, 3930 Cass, Detroit, to benefit Detroit Dog Rescue. For more Dining with Dogs events, see the Canine to Five

Wednesday: Learn a new skill

Summer school may be just what your dog needs to help remember basic commands, to learn them for the first time or to try a new sport.

Wolverine Dog Training Club in Farmington Hills offers basic through advanced obedience classes each Wednesday. Beginner training for the family dog starts at 7:45 p.m. and runs 45 minutes. A new six-week session starts July 16.

Michigan Dog Training in Plymouth trains dogs in basic manners each Wednesday and has a new four-week session starting in July.

Obedience classes help lay a foundation for continued learning in other dog sports such as agility or scent work, which both facilities offer.

If your dog needs a little help staying afloat in the pool this summer, consider a Doggy & Me Swim Class at Bark-A-Bout in Shelby Township. The next hour-long, two-week course starts Wednesday, July 25, and will teach dogs, age 6 months and older, swimming pool basics. Owners can be in the water with the swim coach or watch from poolside.

"We teach dogs of all breeds and sizes how to enter and exit the pool confidently," said Crystal Carlton, marketing and events coordinator. "We have a heated indoor pool, an outdoor pool and a wave pool in our bark park."

Bark-A-Bout also teaches dock diving in one-on-one and group settings and holds diving competitions.

Thursday: Bone appetite

Dagwood's Deli & Catering, 33179 Grand River Ave., in Farmington has welcomed customers and their dogs to its outdoor patio since it opened 34 years ago, owner Jerry Burger says.

"We have four (tables) in front. Coldstone next door has three or four, so there's about a total of 16 seats," Burger said. "We've never restricted anyone. It's free-wheeling. The dogs usually just sit next to their people while they eat."

He says the best time to break bread

The outdoor, dog-friendly Sunday service at Congregational Church of Birmingham.

with other dog owners is Saturday, when farmers market shoppers and their furry friends stop by Dagwood's outdoor patio for a quick bite.

Dagwood's sells a wide variety of sandwiches, including the 2-pound Dagwood's, a combination of roast beef, ham, turkey, two kinds of cheese, tomato, lettuce and special sauce on four slices of bread.

There are lots of other dog-friendly restaurants with outdoor patios, from Coratti's on Main in downtown Milford to Crawford's Kitchen in Plymouth's Old Village neighborhood. Some eateries allow dogs to sit at their owner's side outdoors, while some require pets to stay just outside the patio area. Remember to call ahead for details.

Friday: TGIF with ice cream and canines

Meet other dog owners and their pets while snacking on soft-serve or hand-scooped ice cream at the Dairy King, 232 S. Main, in downtown Plymouth. This family-owned ice cream parlor has some outdoor seating, humans-only indoor seating, a walk-up order window and is a magnet for ice cream lovers and their pooches.

Photos and videos of four-pawed customers often end up on the Dairy King Facebook page.

After mingling with other dog lovers at Dairy King, walk to the Music in the Air concert at 7 p.m. Friday at Kellogg Park. Upcoming performers include Gia Warner on June 22 and Thormetta Davis on June 29.

Saturday: Take a hike

You won't go wrong adding these three hiking trails to your list of favorites.

For a shorter walk, start with the trails in the nature preserve at Rotary Park, located on Six Mile at Hubbard, in Livonia. Head to the back of Rotary Park and keep your dog leashed. Trails connect and meander through woods and near a creek.

Looking for something a little longer? Explore Bloomer Park in Rochester Hills with your dog on leash. Park at the Clinton River Trailhead just off East Second Street/Letica Drive, east of Main, in downtown Rochester. Hike the trail until it forks. Take the trail on the right, leading to a bridge over the Clinton River. From there you can stay on the old railroad bed and walk until it dead ends at the river. You'll see a dam, remnants of an old railroad bridge and sometimes men and women fishing for pike, bass or walleye. Off-shoots from the main trail will lead you through forested and hilly areas of the park.

If you want even more space, try Highland Recreation Area, a 5,903-acre state park on Highland Road (M-59) between Bogie Lake Road and Duck Lake Road, in White Lake. You'll have plenty of room to roam with your dog on approximately 17 miles of hiking trails. Dogs must be on maximum 6-foot leashes.

Amanda Lizzet, an employee at the park headquarters, said the Cedar Creek Trail, a 2.75-mile path, is a favorite with walkers and dogs who want to encounter "fewer bugs" on the trail.

Admission to the park is a pass that's good for one year. Buy it for $16 at the park or for $11 when you renew your vehicle license plates.

Sunday: Bow wow your head and pray

End the week with spiritual reflection at the Congregational Church of Birmingham, UCC, 1000 Cranbrook Road, Bloomfield Hills. The congregation's 10 a.m. outdoor Sunday service and its grounds are open to leashed dogs, cats and other "relaxed" pets. Outdoor services run through the first Sunday in September.

The church also is collecting pet food donations for Michigan Animal Rescue League in Pontiac.

Carson's customers cash in as store closing nears

Darrell Clem
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Carson's customers are cashing in on deep discounts as an expected late August closing looms for the store at Livonia's Laurel Park Place mall, where talks are ongoing to find a new tenant.

Joann Salvadore left the store June 12 after buying a pair of Tommy Hilfiger shoes for $28 — half the original price, she said. She already was planning a return trip to find more bargains.

"I absolutely will be back," she said. "I was hoping to see prices better than they are."

Big signs throughout the store advertised discounts of 40-60 percent on most merchandise, including clothing and shoes, and an additional 10 percent off was posted for many items. Carson's still had a fairly big inventory.

"Overall for them to be leaving us, they still have quite a bit of inventory," Dearborn resident T. Layne said, leaving Carson's after buying discounted socks and T-shirts. "They have some pretty decent discounts."

Stephen Lawton of Farmington Hills left Carson's sighing as he carried a heavy, wooden Victrola turntable that came with other amenities such as a cassette player and radio.

"My arms feel like they're breaking," he said.

Lawton paid $108 for the entertainment center, but he wasn't sure how much it had been discounted.

"I definitely got a good deal, though," he said.

Signs throughout the Carson's store indicated discounts of 40-60 percent. DARRELL CLEM | HOMETOWNLIFE.COM

Carson's also is closing metro Detroit stores in Rochester Hills and Clinton Township. The Livonia location still had a healthy supply of clothing, fragrances, jewelry and other merchandise that day as shoppers rummaged store shelves to find good deals.

Meanwhile, mall officials say they are working to find a new tenant as Carson's prepares to close, likely in late August. Early on, some projections had indicated the store could close as early as this month.

"Late August is what the liquidator has told us," Laurel Park Place marketing manager Melissa Cavanagh said, "but I think that date is kind of fluid."

Cavanagh said CBL Properties, which owns the mall, has been involved in talks with "multiple parties" to find a new tenant to replace Carson's.

"I do not have any confirmed new tenants. We are having conversations with multiple parties about multiple uses for retail and other uses," Cavanagh said.

She said she couldn't name any potential tenants because no formal agreements have been reached.

"We have a team of leasing professionals working on that project locally and at our corporate office (in Chattanooga, Tenn.)," she said.

Stacey Keating, CBL spokeswoman, made a similar statement Tuesday by email.

"We are evaluating redevelopment plans for the space, but it's too early in the process to provide tenant names or a concrete timeline," she said. "We'll be excited to share more information as plans are finalized."

It wasn't known how long that might take, but Keating and others have said Laurel Park Place is a healthy, upscale mall that should have no problems luring a new tenant.

Keating had said previously in a statement that CBL has "several replacements under advanced negotiation."

During the past three years, the statement said, CBL executed more than 40 redevelopment projects to transform under-performing space into retail, dining and entertainment venues.

Bon-Ton Stores, which owns Carson's stores, announced earlier this year it was closing the financially troubled Carson's chain after failing to find a buyer.

Even as customers such as Layne cash in on big discounts, they said they lament the store's closing.

"I was a regular shopper here," she said. "It's very sad to see it close."

for them. Unfortunately, these baby boomers have first-hand experience with this, having to care for their own parents or spouse. So while the production was challenging to start, once the research and initial interviews were completed, it was clear we had a very important story tell.

Hometown: What is the biggest lesson you have learned during the filming of "Those on the Front Lines of Alzheimer's & Dementia"?

Famie: Personally, I need to become far more aware of basic things like sleeping well at night, physical activity, how I eat and find the time to nurture brain-related activities.

Hometown: Your dad died of complications from Alzheimer's. Was there a special motive pushing you during this film?

Famie: When my father died in 2003 after several years of his Alzheimer journey, I had a front row seat to his cognitive decline. Many times I tried to embark on this film, but just couldn't come up with the right direction. There is no question that my time caring for my dad was the catalyst behind the film.

Hometown: As a former celebrity chef, you know a thing or two about food. Is there anything new involving diet and dementia that has come to light?

Famie: We all have learned a great deal about what is good eating and not so good eating; common sense should be the first line of defense for everyone. You don't have to be a health guru to know that sugar-filled soft drinks or fast food is not good for you. With that being said, eating for brain health is the same as eating for body health, we are just now learning that foods good for cardio health are also good for brain health. So dark leafy greens, blueberries, lean meats like chicken, turkey, diet low-fat meats and dairy — all as organic as possible, wild, fresh salmon, moderate consumption of alcohol and low consumption of alcohol well before bedtime, since it can disrupt your sleep.

One of the biggest takeaways was what we learned about the diet of the people who live in the Blue Zone region of Ogimi, Okinawa. They have some of the lowest rates of any dementias in the world, almost non-existent. One of the researchers who has studied their diet, Dr. Paul Alan Cox, came to the conclusion that they consume far more L-Serine through foods they eat than we do, like, off the charts amount. His studies focused on answering the question could a diet high in L-Serine actually become a protector to tangle diseases like Alzheimer's?

Hometown: Who needs to pay attention in the dementia battle and why?

Famie: Anyone who is walking and breathing with a head on their shoulders that has a brain in it. One thing I learned, for sure, we take our cognitive health for granted. Once a cognitive problem surfaces, the horse has left the gate, meaning it's too late to reverse the problem. The tangle-related diseases that are creating the plaques in your brain have been developing for years. So a simple way of looking at this is this: "How you live your life today will determine how you cognitively age tomorrow."

Hometown: Are there any funny stories that you can share from the filming of "Those on the Front Lines of Alzheimer's & Dementia"?

Famie: A few come to mind, When Teepa Snow was working with families at the Brown Center, she would interact with both care givers and dementia patients.

On a couple of instances when talking about living with their diseases, Teepa was interacting with the participants one on one. Many of them while trapped in this world were still quick-witted enough to come back with some one-liners we kept in the film. Larry Dean, when asked about his forgetfulness, quickly responded, "Sometimes I like to forget on purpose." Of course, everyone laughed and Debbie Horwitz sitting next to her mother Jane was surprised when Teepa was talking with her mom and commented that she has a beautiful daughter. Jane looked over at her and said, "Sometimes."

Hometown: If you were Michigan's next governor, would this be a topic you would pursue? If so how and why?

Famie: As a governor (for sure not in my cards) I would do everything in my power to protect our most precious resources of the water we drink and the water we play in. One very disturbing finding in our film is how we, as stewards of our environment, may be causing our own cognitive decline and not realizing it.

Hometown: How does the subject of dementia stack up with other tough subjects you have tackled as a documentary film producer?

Famie: All of our productions take us down a path of uncertainly; each one has offered complicated challenges. We never really know where the journey is going to take us. When dealing with very personal topics that involve family and loved ones facing life-altering circumstances, such as a disease like Alzheimer's, the challenges come with being able to build relationships of trust when I am filming and interviewing with those families. For me personally, each time I sat with a person, especially an older gentleman, I would find myself thinking deeply about my father Albert.

Hometown: Is there a dementia hero that emerged in your mind while filming this project?

Famie: Clearly that would be Teepa Snow. Her work in helping families better understand how to help a loved one who is on a journey with a form of dementia can be a game-changer for so many. I think also the heroes in this film are all those who were brave enough to allow us to share their very personal story in an effort to help others to learn.

Hometown: The film has plenty of local angles, but this is more than a local story?

Famie: The film is far more than a local story. While we hail proudly from Michigan, we filmed all over the country for this film. Dementia does not have a particular ZIP code. Anywhere you go in America, if you ask someone do they know of someone with a form of dementia, you will for sure hear "yes." An example is our beloved Robin Williams. We all know that he had died of suicide, but what many are not aware of, because they only recently found this out through an autopsy, is that his diagnosis of Parkinson's was incorrect. They now know that he was suffering from Lewy body dementia.

Hometown: What's next for Visionalist Entertainment Productions?

Famie: In the coming 16-24 months, we will embark on the film "Those on the Front Lines of Cancer" as well as a look at the life of Capuchin friar Solanus Casey for the film "Blessed Casey's Journey to Sainthood."

Dan Dean is content strategist for Hometown Life. Both of his parents live with dementia and his dad Larry is featured in "Those Living on the Front Lines Of Alzheimer's & Dementia."

GIRLS SOCCER

Marian seeks to make it three straight in 2019

Marty Budner
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

There's no doubt the soccer bar is set high at Bloomfield Hills Marian.

That's the way veteran head coach Barry Brodsky likes it. Brodsky established that standard from the beginning and hasn't wavered from that approach.

In his 17 years at the helm, Brodsky's Mustangs have advanced to the final four of the state tournament 12 times. Marian owns seven Division 2 state championships and three runner-up trophies, losing in the semifinals on the other two occasions.

The latest state crown came June 16 at Williamston High School, where Marian doubled-up Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern, 4-2. It was the second straight state title for the Mustangs, who also defeated the Huskies in the 2017 final, 2-1.

It marked the third time Brodsky's Mustangs have captured back-to-back state titles, giving them opportunity to make it three straight next spring.

Brodsky figures if it's going to happen during his tenure, it better happen next year.

"We've never gone any further than back-to-back," said Brodsky, whose career record is 317-26-36. "So you say is there motivation (to win a third straight)? There is. I'm too old to go for another couple years to try and win back-to-back again."

"So there's motivation to get three," he added. "I mean, there absolutely is."

All about having fun

The Mustangs were nearly invincible this season.

They posted a near-perfect 22-0-1 record, with the only blemish a mid-season 1-1 draw with Catholic League rival Farmington Hills Mercy. The Mustangs captured the Catholic League Central Division and tournament championships in the regular season.

Top-ranked Marian was simply dominant in the postseason, outscoring its seven tourney opponents by a 44-3

Cranbrook grad Davis Schiller headed to boot camp

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Relaxed, but anxious, Davis Schiller is headed to boot camp next week at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

"I'm not too nervous. A lot of people told me I should be more nervous, but I think it's going to be a character-strengthening experience," Schiller said. "I'm honestly kind of looking forward to it."

The 2018 Cranbrook Kingswood

graduate is headed to the Air Force Academy, where he plans to further his academic and athletic careers while serving the country. The 18-year-old Beverly Hills resident excelled in lacrosse and hockey for the Cranes, but will play lacrosse in college.

Schiller had considered offers from various other Division 1 programs, including schools from the Ivy League, Big Ten, Patriot League and Atlantic Coast Conference. However, Air Force flew on-

Lewis gets nod as new Plymouth High coach

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

A new era of Plymouth High School football has been ushered in with the naming Tuesday of Brian Lewis as the school's new varsity coach.

The 29-year-old Lewis spent the previous season guiding Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard to a 7-3 record, a Catholic League Prep Bowl appearance and a berth in the MHSAA Division 5 state playoffs.

Lewis replaces Mike Sawhuk, who stepped down in late April after 12 seasons to pursue another coaching and teaching position in Florida.

Sawhuk posted an overall record of 73-48 (not including seven forfeit losses during the 2012 season) while leading the Wildcats to eight state playoff berths, including a runner-up finish in the 2010 Division 1 state finals.

Lewis becomes the third new varsity football coach hired this year at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park, joining Justin Reed (Salem) and Andy Lafata (Canton).

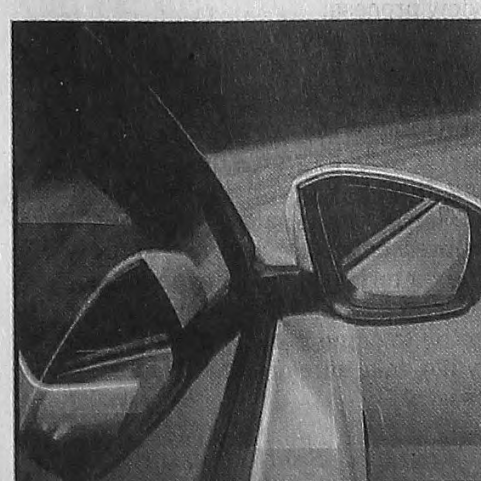

Plymouth athletic director Luke Swanson said there were more than 30 applicants for the position and eight candidates were interviewed, but Lewis was able to separate himself.

"We actually went through three rounds of interviews and part of that was because we had some really highly qualified candidates but, obviously, Brian was the one that really impressed us at the end," Swanson said. "When we went out and found somebody, we were really looking for somebody who is going to be dedicated to

USA Hockey alums waiting to learn NHL futures

hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Young hockey players with god-given talent and a dream to skate in the National Hockey League find out this weekend at American Airlines Center in Dallas whether or not their hopes will take off or be stuck on the runway.

Anybody with a Hockeytown pulse knows that blue-chip defenseman Rasmus Dahlin will be Buffalo's selection with the No. 1 pick, shortly after the 2018 NHL Entry Draft begins at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Seven players who took major leaps toward potential stardom the last two years in the Plymouth-based USA Hockey National Team Development Program stand an excellent chance to hear their name called during the televised opening round (NBC Sports Network).

"We're excited for our guys," NTDP head coach Seth Appert said as he prepared to travel Thursday to Dallas for the draft. "They've put a lot of work in during their two years here, but also throughout their careers and their life to this point."

"It's a very nice moment for them and their families, to have the opportunity to be called to the podium by a NHL team. It'd be a dream come true."

The Detroit Red Wings could select an NTDP alum, possibly defenseman Quinn Hughes (who played 2017-18 at Michigan), with the sixth pick. Perhaps off the board by then will be power forward Brady Tkachuk (Boston University last season), the No. 3 pick, according to the Hockey News.

Podium parade

Five other NTDP players from 2017-18 also could get to walk up to the podium, pull an NHL sweater over their head and stand next to their next coach and general manager.

That elite list includes forwards Oliver Wahlstrom and Joel Farabee and defensemen Bode Wilde (of Birmingham), K'Andre Miller and Mattias Samuelsson. In the Hockey News draft preview, those players were listed between Nos. 8-31.

Centers Jake Wise and Jake Pivonka, also just two months removed from closing out their NTDP careers at the U-18 Worlds in Russia, could each be selected by the time the second and third rounds wrap up Saturday.

Other teammates might still be waiting to hear their name called as the final four rounds (each with 31 selections) are finalized on Day 2 of the proceedings.

That is the nerve-wracking part, as far as Appert is concerned.

"It can be a stressful time," Appert said about the waiting game for still-young players who have worked their entire lives to position themselves for pro careers. "Draft day, draft weekend, can be agonizing at times for guys this age. I think sometimes we forget that they're still young men."

"They're being watched on national television, they're sitting there waiting, hopefully not too long, to hear their name called. What I try to remind them is to enjoy it, to have fun, to embrace the moment with their family and their friends."

A long wait

Appert wasn't with USA Hockey in 2016-17, but a very similar scenario played out as defenseman Philip Kemp wasn't drafted until near the end of the final round — virtually 24 hours after the bright lights shone on top pick Nico Hischier.

Kemp was the 208th pick of the 2017 draft, taken by the Edmonton Oilers. He played last season for Yale University and has not yet signed with Edmonton.

Whether a player gets the call or not, Appert emphasized that they will continue to follow the USA Hockey guidebook and do all the right things as they prepare for whatever comes next in 2018-19 and beyond.

"What we're always concerned about here is getting them, developing them, giving them the skills on and off the ice that are going to keep carrying forward for them to have careers in the National Hockey League," Appert said. "Not just to be drafted."

He cited things such as poise, maturity, knowing how to handle expectations of professional hockey life.

"Those are critical skills," Appert said. "The work ethic, the commitment, the discipline that you need to be a world-class athlete, it's incredible. There's a lot of things that can get in the way. ... Those are things we preach about on a daily basis."

Appert also said that although it is gratifying to see seven NTDP players potentially be drafted in the first round, all that means is USA Hockey is doing its job.

"That's something we're supposed to do here," Appert said. "That's part of our mission, it's to develop the next wave of elite, American NHL players."

"Does it feel good? Yeah, absolutely, it feels good that we're doing the things necessary to attract the type of young men we get and then to enhance their development in their two years. But like I said, that is part of our mission, that's our goal ... we'll just try to keep getting better every year."

Anderson takes over reins at Franklin from Phelps

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Livonia Franklin boys hockey will have a new voice behind the bench for the 2018-19 season as Ken Anderson is taking over the varsity reins for Dan Phelps.

Anderson, 50, posted a record of 122-147-13 in 12 seasons for the North Farmington-Harrison unified team, which will be combined for the 2018-19 season with Farmington High. The Flyers finished 1-23 during his final season.

Prior to his stint with the Flyers, Anderson served as an assistant coach under Pete Mazzoni at Livonia Churchill.

"I was familiar with the high school hockey in Livonia and how important it is and I'm excited to be a part of it," Anderson said.

Anderson posted his best season in 2009-10 with the Flyers, who finished 16-6-2 overall and captured the OAA Red Division.

"Certainly he came with a lot of high recommendations from a lot of people in high school coaching that I think the world of," Franklin athletic director Ron Hammye said of Anderson. "He had some excellent references and he came in and impressed me as a good teacher of the game and somebody who was interested in developing a program."

Anderson

Anderson, who works for a Detroit-area power industrial group, attended Redford Union High School before graduating from Marquette.

"I'd like to play an aggressive style; hockey is a fast game," Anderson said. "As long as everybody is working together, I think you can afford to be aggressive, even against your better teams. It depends, of course, when you have to lay back. But my overall style is be aggressive, get after it and don't make many mistakes."

Phelps went 8-17-1 in back-to-back seasons with the Patriots before stepping down earlier this spring to take a coaching position with Victory Honda's U-16 team.

Phelps coached eight seasons at Novi

High starting the program there in 1998. He also spent two years in the Central States Hockey League Tier III/Junior A and was a coach and administrator for six seasons at Adrian College men's hockey club program (2008-14) going 165-65.

He joined Franklin's staff as a volunteer assistant in 2015-16 under Dennis Gagnon before taking the Patriots head coaching position after Gagnon resigned to take the Milford High job.

"I left on a good accord, I left on a good note. It's just a choice I made and looking to pursue some other things," Phelps said.

being in the building with the kids and helping them be successful in their academics, as well as their athletics."

Lewis, who also spent two seasons as an assistant at Gabriel Richard (2015-16), played football, baseball and basketball at Warren De La Salle, where he graduated in 2007.

He was the quarterback as the Pilots reached the 2006 Division 2 title game before losing to Muskegon, 32-30. He also was on the 2007 De La Salle basketball team that reached the Class A state semifinals.

Lewis graduated in 2011 from the University of Michigan, where he served as a football student assistant and manager under head coach Rich Rodriguez. He also worked under Brady Hoke for a year in recruiting operations and then as an offensive analyst for three years before going into the high school ranks.

"I think the Plymouth program is a unique, unique entity in itself, because of the values and core values that coach Sawchuk has instilled into this program," said Lewis, who lives in Pinckney with his wife Teddi and daughter Evelyn. "He built the program from the ground up. And from an outsider looking in and a guy that recruited one of his players, his program is based on integrity, hard work, accountability ... those are some things that are already instilled into these kids, which makes it a unique job to come open. It's just a phenomenal community with great families, great support system and this is an intriguing job."

In Sawchuk's final season, Plymouth finished 4-5 overall and 3-3 in the Black Division of the Kensington Lakes Activities Association. The Wildcats open their 2018 season at 3:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 24, at the Battle of the Big House at U-M Stadium.

"As far as scheme goes, we're going to try and be a physical football team that runs the football, move the chains and, hopefully, get some chunk plays as we go with some of the weapons that we have," Lewis said. "On defense, we're going to play together and we're going to swarm to the football and try get 11 hats to the football as we play."

On Tuesday, Lewis held a meet and greet with the players and started team workouts Wednesday.

"We just want to play together," Lewis said. "We just want to play as one collective unit. We're going to predicate ourselves on being guys that work really hard, put forth max effort in everything we do. We're just going to stick together through thick and thin, through good times and bad times. We're going to be a team when you walk on the field and you're going to be proud because we're a team. And we're going to see adversity throughout our year and all men are judged in their adversity situations. So hopefully, we're going to stick together and that's what we'll do."

Mike Lewis, who played football at Detroit Catholic Central and Eastern Michigan University, will follow his son to Plymouth and become the Wildcats defensive coordinator.

"He's the first piece of the pie," Brian Lewis said of his father. "And as far as the rest of the staff goes ... (Sawchuk) had a great staff here and trying to sit down and talk with those guys this week and into next week and, hopefully, we can have something solidified here, hopefully by the end of next week, but it's hard to put a time table on these things."

In addition to being hired as the third varsity coach in school history, Lewis has also been contracted to teach physical education and health starting in the fall at Plymouth High School.

"I'm a teacher first, coach second," Lewis said. "So knowing that I'll be in the building, being able to be around these kids and seeing these kids on a daily basis and build relationships with them, that's huge."

Swanson said Lewis checked off many boxes and fit the bill as the prime coaching candidate during the interview process.

"Leadership, just a desire to learn, to always have that growth mindset, someone who really cares about kids and kind of the holistic student-athlete and somebody who is dedicated to leading to the department as a whole as well," Swanson said. "I think we were impressed with the way he approached the interviews, his experience and background and he's somebody who is going to come in here and be here for a while, take care of our kids and be successful."

Marian

margin. The Mustangs shut out five of those foes while averaging six goals per game. Their closest result was a 1-0 semifinal victory over DeWitt, while Forest Hills Northern was the only team to score twice against the stingy Mustangs defense.

Annie Bruce, a senior tri-captain who will attend Marquette next year but will not play soccer, indicated it's all about having fun at Marian.

"Barry always says to us, 'Just play to have fun,'" Bruce said following the victory over Northern. "Everything is over. We made it to (the state championship game) and that was our main goal. He just wanted to see us go on the pitch and have fun. So that's all we came to do."

"It was a pretty crazy season and I'm just really glad with the way we performed," she added. "I can't even express in words just how fantastic it is."

The Mustangs will enter next year on a 47-game unbeaten streak and, with 18 underclassmen on this year's roster, figure to be strong title contenders in 2019.

Junior Jansen Eichenlaub will return next year to lead the offense. The speedy Virginia-bound forward led the team with 33 goals this season while finishing with a team-high 44 points.

Marian's other starters who figure to return next year are juniors Neve Badalow (defense) and Sara Stroud (midfield) and sophomores Kate Hughes (forward), Anna Leonard (defense) and Chloe Aberlarde (forward). Marian's two goalies — junior Megan Krause and freshman Annabella Deinse — will be seasoned veterans.

"We gave up two goals (against Forest Hills Northern) in a game for the first time, I think, since March," Brodsky said. "I can't give enough credit to Anna in the back and Neve Badalow and Sara Stroud, those are players who maybe aren't scoring many goals, but they are the heart and soul of the team in the back. They get the hardest assignments and they do a great job."

"I can't say enough about the toughness of the Marian kids, because our coaching staff is tough," he added. "We're not easy to play for and some people can't do it. We've had people come from clubs and they can't handle it and they leave. For us and the players who stay, they get a good experience out of it and it makes them tough."

Marian's 'secret formula'

Marian's six seniors — Claudia Schilling, Grace Kinna, Rayya Harb, Julia Surratt, Emme Deconinck and Bruce — certainly left a strong legacy.

"We only had six seniors this year, but they were the players who glued the team together," Brodsky said. "Not all of them played, but you need those players who are willing to be part of the team and I think that's our secret formula.

"Two years ago, when Claudia Schilling committed to Western (Michigan University), I said to her that I want to get a state championship for you before you leave. And she said, 'Barry, let's get two.' And she did. She did it."

"We have enough players who want to be part of the team and that's a great thing. Just like the coaches, we just want to be part of the team because it's fun. We've got a good team," he added. "We've got an abundance of talent. But you can go up and down (Divisions) 1, 2, 3 and 4, a lot of teams have a lot of talent and, if you don't put it together as a team, you're not going to win. And these kids put it together as a team."

Next year's group hopes to put it together again and take the program to unprecedented heights with a historic three-peat.

to his radar early as he committed to the Colorado Springs-based service academy the summer before his junior year.

"I was going on recruiting trips to different colleges and I never really thought the Air Force Academy is where I would end up," said Schiller, who did not apply to any other school but Air Force. "But I visited it and, first off, the grounds are beautiful. It's right on the edge of the Rocky Mountains. The coach showed me around and convinced me it is the right place to go and I think it is."

"I loved my official visit. There's nothing else like it," he added. "I also was thinking about my grandpa, who served in World War II, and my other grandpa, who served in the Vietnam War, and I wanted to continue that lineage as well."

Early student of the game

Schiller started playing lacrosse in the second grade as a member of the Birmingham Bulldogs, where he played for his dad Ralph, who played lacrosse at Indiana's Culver Military Academy. He continued to hone his skills with the True Michigan program, where he was a national team member. He also was a three-time participant in the Jake Reed Blue Chip Showcase and a two-time player in the Maverick Showtime Showcase.

Schiller went on to play four years of varsity lacrosse as a starter for head coach Mat Wilson at Cranbrook Kingswood. The hard-working attack was a member of the 2015 Division 2 state championship team, was a three-time all-state player and an All-American this year.

As a senior captain, Schiller scored 60 goals with 35 assists and was named team co-MVP along with Grant Coleman. In a 10-9 victory over St. Mike's (Ontario), he scored nine times and assisted on the other goal. In his junior season, Schiller averaged six points per game before tearing his ACL midway through the season. He topped 50 goals as a sophomore.

In hockey, Schiller played defense for three years under veteran head coach Andy Weidenbach. He was named CK's hardest worker as a junior by the team's strength coach Cliff Ewald. Schiller, who played travel hockey since age 9, did not play hockey as a senior due to injury.

"I've been playing lacrosse for a long time and I also played hockey and I think that influences how I play lacrosse, too," Schiller said. "It's crazy how much similarity that there is between the two sports. I couldn't play hockey this past year, which was kind of a bummer, but I spent that time rehabbing my knee and focusing on lacrosse, which I think really helped my shot. I gained a lot of power.

"And my travel coach, Dan Catzere, helped my skills a lot. I've gained a lot of strength and that helped a lot," he added. "And I have a signature move now — the jump shot I always take — and that was actually my dad who helped me with it in the backyard on summer nights."

Well-prepared by Cranbrook

While he played both attack and midfield at Cranbrook Kingswood, Schiller said he was recruited mainly as an offensive middle.

"Lacrosse is going to be one of the biggest draws of my time (at the Air Force Academy) and I'm really excited about playing there," he said. "Traditionally, Air Force has been a really good team and they're usually in the top 20, although this year they had a down year. But I think we're going to be really good next year because there are a lot of good recruits coming in from schools out east."

As part of the Cranbrook Kingswood school system since the fourth grade, Schiller believes he is well-prepared for college. He took AP computer science classes this past year and hopes to continue that line of education at the Air Force.

"Cranbrook has prepared me for the next level, both academically and athletically. They develop you as a student and, athletically, they really taught me how to play," Schiller said. "I loved it all the way through at Cranbrook and there are a lot of good people there who are just pushing you to do your best."

"When I was really little, I always wanted to be a navy SEAL, because I just thought those guys were so cool. But I really hadn't thought about joining the military since then up until now. I know I'm going to get a world-class education. The academy tends to focus on cyber security and all kinds of different things that have to do with computer science."

"At the academy, it's way more than an education that they give you," he added. "There are leadership components that are invaluable later in life. I'm really looking forward to it and I know I'm going to love it."

And it will start with boot camp.

GIRLS LACROSSE

Cranbrook Kingswood repeats as state champs

Marty Budner

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Defending a state championship is never easy.

The Cranbrook Kingswood girls lacrosse team not only managed to defend its Division 2 state crown this year, but accomplished the task with a new head coach.

The Cranes, led by head coach Greg Courter, captured the 2017 title with a 17-16 overtime victory over East Grand Rapids. This spring, led by rookie head coach Evan Foulsham, Cranbrook Kingswood captured its second straight state championship June 9 with an 18-6 victory over Okemos.

Foulsham

Cranbrook Kingswood finished the season with an impressive 17-1-1 record and a stellar No. 16 national ranking. Its only loss was to Rockford (18-8) and the tie was to Forest Hills Central (8-8).

"There are a lot of emotions about winning as a first-year coach and I'm, obviously, ecstatic with the outcome," said Foulsham, who grew up in northern New Jersey, where she attended Madison High School. "It was a lot for the girls to come out of a championship year into a season with a coach they've never met and a vision they weren't used to, but they fully bought into the goal and invested in the vision and that's really hard to do as a player. I'm really thankful to have a fantastic group of girls."

Foulsham, who played four years of lacrosse as a defender at Penn State University, said her team had visions of repeating right from the season's onset.

Smooth transition

After all, the Cranes certainly had some talented players returning, including standout offensive stars in Isabelle Scane, Sophia Milia and Jessica Geiger. Brigitte Ballard, the winning goalie in last year's title-game thriller over East Grand Rapids, was back between the pipes. Senior co-captains Delaney Langdon and Scane were veteran team members.

They all helped make Foulsham's initial season as head coach a smooth transition.

"After the girls won last year, they knew what it felt like to come home with a championship and they put their minds to doing that again," Foulsham said. "From day one, they had their sights on it and they worked every day to make sure it happened. They showed up (for the title game) fired up and ready to leave it all on the field to come home with a championship. With all the work they've put in this season, they deserved it."

Freshman midfielder Mallory Brophy scored the first goal for Cranbrook Kingswood 39 seconds into the championship game, but Okemos senior midfielder Emily Renfrew scored five minutes later to tie the score. The Cranes scored four of the next six goals and held a slim 5-3 halftime lead.

Cranbrook Kingswood took charge by scoring five of the second half's first six goals en route to a 10-4 lead. The Chieftains would make it 10-6, but the Cranes finished out the game with eight unanswered goals.

"We were a little on edge the first half and understandably so — the girls just needed to get the jitters out," Foulsham said. "Our halftime talk was about back to basics and not over-thinking the game and they came out in the second half and did just that. We definitely made more of a mental shift for that second half.

"I can definitely relate to the girls' feelings after winning. As a coach, I view the tournament through a different lens than a player would and my overall goal is to help develop these girls into strong, confident young women.

"Obviously, I love to win and want the girls to win every game, but I also know a season isn't measured by wins and losses, but our growth as individuals and a team," she added. "That being said, I couldn't be happier for the girls, not only growing tremendously this year, but coming away with the win."

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

LEXUS KEEPS GETTING IT RIGHT AS F-SPORT VERSION ADDS PERFORMANCE VIBE TO BRAND'S ICONIC RX 350 SUV LINEUP

How do you build on perfection? You make it sporty! That's what Lexus has done with the F-Sport version of its iconic RX 350 mid-size SUV, lending a bit of a black-trimmed, menacing vibe to a vehicle that has made a great living for decades as the ideal family getaway transporter.

And while the F-Sport version has only been around a couple of years, it represents a welcome dimensionalization of the nameplate that actually defined the luxury-SUV segment. The other major thing that Lexus has done lately with RX is to add a long-awaited three-row version.

Lexus has been in front of its fans lately in part because of its sponsorship of the just-completed U.S. Open men's golf tournament at Shinnecock Hills in Long Island, and also because the brand just launched a new marketing campaign that focuses on performance capabilities.

The new TV advertisements focus on Lexus's increasing lineup of performance vehicles, and fast versions of its other nameplates — and how they're built in Japan. Called "Performance: Crafted to the Extreme," the campaign includes TV ads that peek into Lexus factories building models including the LC 500 and GS-F, showing how high-tech assembly coupled with "Takumi mastery" yields "extreme exhilaration

The 2018 Lexus RX 350 F-Sport provides a sporty interpretation of the iconic nameplate on the road," Lexus said.

"Takumi" is the name of master workers who "preserve Lexus traditions and pass on valuable skills and processes, making certain every aspect of each Lexus vehicle is flawless," the company said. There are just 19 Takumi amid the 7,700 workers at the Miyata Lexus Plant in Kyushi, for instance. They make sure painstaking attention to detail is paid to the cars, which feature titanium engine components, aerodynamically sculpted bodies and extensive track testing.

Exciting product helps, too. Under CEO Akio Toyoda, the Toyota-owned luxury brand has been stepping up its development and production of performance vehicles and also hitting the re-set button on the exterior and interior of Lexus cars and SUVs, giving them a new, more dynamic styling language that is more consistent with the sportier image the brand wants to convey.

RX F-Sport has become a prime exemplar of Lexus's more pulse-pounding approach. For the new version of the entire RX line last year, Lexus cranked the styling volume up with an outsized front end that's punctuated by a yawning black grille, a roof that seems to float, and a lot more creases and bends in its surface treatment. Yet Lexus retained the line's classic raised seating position, comfortable interior and cargo-friendly confines.

Americans have responded enthusiastically by boosting RX sales. Lexus moved more than 100,000 of them last year, making it the brand's best-selling vehicle.

Then came RX F-Sport. With a base price of $51,295, F-Sport doesn't get a bump in power over the base RX, meaning that horsepower remains at 295 and torque at 268 pound-feet. But the F-Sport package does offer an adaptive suspension, 20-inch wheels and sportier materials inside the cabin.

In F-Sport as in its regular cousin, the engine provides trademark pick-me-up, smooth acceleration, and seamless shifts from the eight-speed automatic transmission. F-Sport's braking has been calibrated to be grabby from the get-go, which is a nice performance feature.

And despite its sportier stance and ride, F-Sport still provides all of the gargantuan room that you get inside any RX, with plenty of space for four adults and their luggage — as well as five for short journeys.

Inside, F-Sport offers brushed aluminum, leather and wood in an aesthetically quickening design that is also very pleasing. An angled, huge infotainment screen rises out of the dash alone but seems to be a continuation of the control stack below, which is a nice touch.

While its broadened RX lineup continues to benefit Lexus in the middle of the SUV market, Lexus also is paying attention this year to beefing up its presence in the hot subcompact-crossover segment and spiffing up some of its long-standing sedan nameplates.

In December, the UX crossover will join the Lexus lineup at the bottom end of its lineup, just below the subcompact NX that was introduced a few years ago. It's aimed at young customers who are the target of most luxury brands these days and will replace the slow-selling CT Hybrid as Lexus' primary entry vehicle, with prices beginning in the low $30,000s.

Meanwhile, Lexus will introduce a redesigned version of its staple ES sedan, giving it a sharper new design, a more powerful six-cylinder engine, a more calibrated automatic transmission and a new underlying platform.

A massive info screen is integrated nicely with the rest of the IP.
