Reserves' first week without incident

By CRAIG PIECHURA

At the end of one week's existence, the biggest problem facing Canton Township police reserves is semantics.

Members of the controversial Canton Township Police Reserves hope residents will soon be able to mention the force by name without preceding it with the word "controversial.

And Supervisor-Police Chief Robert Greenstein holds a particular disdain for, the words "lame duck" when attached to the front of his title and name.

The first night on the street for the reserves was Aug. 11. The force is composed of 24 men and two women who are recent graduates of Schoolcraft College's Reserve Police Training Institute, where they received 100 hours of instruction.

Another class will be starting at Schoolcraft Sept. 2 and Greenstein says Canton residents should contact the township office immediately if they're interested. A written general aptitude test will be given to applicants. If they pass, Greenstein says the applicants will be given an oral review by a board of police

THE SEVEN-MONTH reserve instruction class is for 31/2 hours on Thursday nights at the college. Upon successful completion of the course and board confirmation, the reserve officers were issued a uniform, a badge, patch and .357 mag-

Also on the force in a teaching capacity is Inkster Ptl. Larry McEwen, who is reportedly teaching the reserves how to keep correct logs and operate the desk effi-

"Yeah. we're in business now," said McEwen. "The newspaper made a big joke about how we were waiting for the pants for our uniforms. People figure, here we got a .357 magnum and we don't even have a pair of pants.'

Harold Stein, successful Democratic candidate for supervisor in the Aug. 3 primary, vows to take the guns away from the reserves if he is elected in November. Stein has said he favors strictly an "eyes and ears" uniformed patrol.

McEwen thinks most of the criticism of the Canton reserves can be traced to an unmovie with Clint Eastwood where they shoot and kill the guy after a bullet goes through the car and knocks him 15 feet. "It's a .357 magnum with .38 ammunition, so what's the big deal?" McEwen said. "A .357 is just a sturdier-built weapon and I understand the township got a good price on them. But that word, magnum scares people.'

The question of insurance delayed debut of the reserves only momentarily. Before the reserves went out on the street last Wednesday, Greenstein said they had to wait for an insurance binder to arrive at the township hall.

officer with $500,000 personal coverage and $1 million liability protection for the township, Greenstein said.

Through the first six days, the Canton reserves have made one arrest, according to the police chief-supervisor.

Last Saturday the reserves stopped and ran a check on a "suspicious man" who had a refrigerator and stove in his vehicle. In the check the reserves discovered the man had a revoked license, which carries a mandatory jail sentence, and arrested him. Silvers has discouraged reserves from ticketing or arresting people because a court appearance might interfere with the reserves' day jobs.

LAST WEDNESDAY, the first night the force was out on the street, the Canton reserves responded to a serious injury accident at Sheldon and Michigan.

A number of trouble runs have been made to the Sherwood Trailer Park in the first week, according to Greenstein.

One night the reserves went to break up a group of young persons congregating in a field by the Cavalier North subdivision. east of Sheldon and south of Ford.

"But the real value of the reserves." said Greenstein, 'is the public service aspect. We must have done 30 vacation checks last night and we encourage people to give us a call if they're going on vacation for a week or two.

Supervisor Robert Greenstein, who oversees the reserve force as township police chief, said it was probably the work of those who have opposed the controversial reserve force from the start.

"FIRST THEY made a political issue of it in the campaign, then they attempted to pressure the board into voting against the reserves, then they called the employers of the reserves trying to pressure them "When they failed with that, they moved Greenstein noted whoever painted the house could have done significant damage to Britcher's property.

'The state police agreed more serious damage could have been done, but evidently the vandal knew the significance between mischief and going to jail for a serious crime. While the painting surprised Britcher, he said it was not the first attempt to pressure him into quitting the reserves. He said on Monday, Aug. 9, the night before the reserve appointments were made by the township board, he received three threatening obscene phone calls.

Farm tax issue remains clouded

By RICHARD GOLD

While Canton farmers may find they are the beneficiaries of windfall gains from lower taxes this year, it appears any hopes they may have of reduced tax bills in the future are gone with the wind.

The issues of zoning and taxes for farmers has been surrounded by question marks during the administration of Robert Greenstein. His defeat for the Democratic nomination for supervisor in the Aug. 3 primary does little to remove the doubt In March, in anticipation of a zoning ordinance to implement a land use plan that would save 5,600 acres for agricultural use, the tax board of review was directed by Greenstein to lower assessments on those lands affected by the agricultural zoning district for 1976. According to Dick Palmer, a member of the tax board of review, a complex fivestep formula was devised to reduce assessments on farmland. In turn, it was scrapped when board members determined that a straight 40 per cent reduction "came within pennies" of the figures arrived at through the formula. Greenstein said the board of review would have been asked to lower farm taxes an additional 40 per cent in 1977. But his defeat in the primary casts a shadow over that possibility and the master land use plan.

Both the candidates now seeking the supervisor's chair have indicated that signifigant changes will have to be made in the master land use plan.

GREENSTEIN SAID planner Mike Manore has not been directed to complete work on the zoning ordinance. "All I can say is that when we won the election two years ago, the previous board stopped work on its plan "I think we'll have to get direction from the board as to whether or not to complete work on the zoning ordinance. Greenstein said had he not lost the primary, the portion of the zoning ordinance relating to the agricultural district would have been ready for board action before the end of the year. Without the zoning ordinance, the master land use plan cannot be implemented. Although Greenstein's defeat probably spells doom for the plan to save sizeable chunks of agricultural acreage, the question of tax breaks for farmers this year remains a question. "I really don't know what to expect," Palmer said. "I know that the tax board of review's actions are only good for one

"I suspect the rolls are fixed this year and I imagine it would be reasonable to assume that it will go back to the way it was next year.'

Greenstein said he too expected the tax reduction would stick for 1976, but that in 1977 taxes on farm property would return to previous higher levels. "It's not something that could be done continuously. We got away with it this year because we expected to have an ordinance for the agricultural-industrial dis-Greenstein said if the zoning ordinance implementing the land plan were passed. taxes eventually would have decreased from an average of $60-$80 an acre to $15. PALMER, a member of the dwindling farming community in Canton, said Greenstein's figures were reasonable, but added, 'Location has so much to do with the assessed value of the land that it's hard to say what the average tax per acre is." Although Palmer said March's meeting of the tax board of review was the first wholesale attempt to lower farmland taxes in the township, it was not unprecedented. He said several farmers in the past had been granted reductions.

"It used to be that the board of review couldn't do much unless it was a case of inability or hardship. Occasionally there were errors and we adjusted them.

"But about four years ago when the land use plan (of the previous administration for full urbanization of the township) came under so much criticism it brought land sales to a standstill.

"THAT GAVE the farmers something to any land that would revert to agricultural zoning was supposed to receive a reduction in assessed valuation.' Palmer said overall the lowered taxes represented "a significant reduction." Although Palmer said the reductions were sizeable. Greenstein said the tax board of review's action did not affect the township equalization factor.

He said when the decision was made to lower the assessments, he checked with the county to see if the change would affect the factor for 1976. "We were told there might be a a tenth of a per cent added to the factor, but when

The Stein slate spent a total of $1,980.72, according to its treasurer, Rose Bretzlaff. They took in a reported $2,304.91 in receipts, according to the filed financial statement. The biggest contributor was the Wayne County Sheriff's Local 502 which do-

The Stein slate is composed of Harold Stein, supervisor candidate; Anne Bradley, treasurer candidate; and Eugene E. Daley, trustee candidate. All three Democratic candidates on the Stein slate were successful in the Aug. 3 primary. The Greenstein slate consists of Robert Greenstein, supervisor candidate: Carl Parsell, treasurer candidate; Gerald Cheske, and Joyce Willis, trustee candidates; and John Flodin, unopposed candidate for clerk.

Flodin was the only person on the slate to win in the primary, put there is talk of a write-in effort for the others.

THE BULK of contribution receipts are not itemized by the Greenstein slate treasurer, John Blumenshine, since $1,569.50 is listed as having come from the April 30 pancake dinner fund-raiser at the UAW Union Hall, Local 900, 38110 Michigan Ave., in Wayne.

Blumenshine stated in his financial report to the county that a total of $2,468.21 was spent by the Greenstein slate in the primary race.

Total receipts from contributions amounted to $2,415.61, Blumenshine stated. Greenstein's personal financial report states that this total figure includes the $1,569.50 received at the pancake dinner;

$800 kicked in when each candidate contributed $200 to the slate's effort, and $46.11 left over from the 1975 campaign. The Stein slate reported that it has no debts or unpaid bills.

"To my knowledge $554.89 is still owed and unpaid," Greenstein stated in his report to the county.

LWV to urge campaign debate

After completing a busy month helping to inform voters on candidates and issues on the August primary ballot, the Northville, Plymouth, Canton, and Novi League of Women Voters have started a campaign calling for "equal time for issues."

Annalee Mathes, LWV President, announces the local League will participate in a nationwide League drive to bring the two major presidential candidates together in a series of face-to-face debates.

If the candidates agree to participate, this will mark the first time in 16 years that the nation will be offered presidential

THE FIRST STEP in this national drive will be the collection of at least four million signatures calling for the two major party candidates to debate before the November election.

Those interested in signing petitions may contact these League members: Ms. Mathes, Northville, 349-7334; Peg O'Brien. Novi. 349-9189; Barb Suhay, Plymouth, 455-5723; or Barb Castrodale, Canton, 455-4274.

The LWV wants to make it clear to the two major presidential candidates that the public will not rettle for tinsel and hoopla at election time, explains Ms. Suhay.

"The League wants solid answers as to what the candidates stand for and how they intend to deal with the nation's problems if elected to the presidency," adds Ms. Mathes. "A petition drive of this magnitude will clearly demonstrate to both major party candidates that presidential debates are a vital part of political accountability.

Each member of this country's 136,000 LWV members will be asked to obtain at least 30 signatures on a petition which states: "We, the people, urge the major party candidates for President to meet in public debate on the issues facing the coun-

The slogan being used for the petition drive is "Presidential Debates: Equal Time for the Issues." Once at least four million names have been collected nationally, the League's Education Fund will present the documents to the two candidates.

"This isn't a legal petition form so there will be no need to have signatures and addresses validated," explains Ms. Castrodale. "Each LWV member has a copy of the petition and we expect to have them signed and collected by Sept. 10."

THE LAUNCHING of the equal time for issues campaign immediately follows very busy summer months for the League which also is preparing for the fall with a variety of meetings and areas of study.

Before the Aug. 3 primary, the League conducted candidates nights in Plymouth, Canton, Northville and at Schoolcraft College plus collecting candidates information for the newspapers. League members also collected the primary election results and reported them to the dailies and helped collect vote results for Plymouth Township.

Each local unit will hold meetings in early September to discuss the local programs of study for the 1976-77 calendar. This information then will be presented to the general membership and interested prospective LWV members at a meeting beginning 7:30 p.m. Sept. 22 in Plymouth State and national LWV information also will be discussed at that meeting.

"Election Laws" is a topic of intense study by the LWV this year. Informational meetings on this subject will be held in October followed by a concensus meeting Oct. 27 in Northville.

Membership in the League of Women Voters may be obtained by calling Ms., Mathes at 349-7334.

GM nixes Cadillac dealership for Canton

Don Massey obtained the zoning Tuesday night he needs to relocate his Cadillac dealership to a site at I-275 and Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township. But feelings remain mixed among members of the township board on whether an auto dealership is the best use for that site.

The rezoning from mid-rise to commercial was approved by trustees by a narrow 3-2 vote. Richard Gornick and Gerald Burke voted against the measure with Supervisor J.D. McLaren and Trustee Russell Ash absent.

Gornick agreed with the advice of planner Norman Dietrich that an auto dealership, no matter how prestiguous, was not the best use for a major entry point to the community. Dietrich felt that a more intensive use: such as a motel or hotel, would be more suitable. WHILE MAKING a presentation to the board, architect Floyd Cosmi repeated Massey's earlier assurances that he planned to develop both the Plymouth Township and Canton site into auto deal-

Cosmi reported, though, the Plymouth Township site at the expressway was considered to be the prime location for the Cadillac dealership. That decision, Cosmi noted, was made by General Motors, and Massey concurred with that recommenda-

The planning commission recommended approval of Massey's rezoning request subject to the advice of the planning consultant. Dietrich said he felt mid-rise was the best zoning for the site but he had reservations about an auto dealership as the best

Cosmi says the drawings for the facility to house a Cadillac operation meets General Motor's criteria. The showroom will feature a skylight to provide natural light to display the cars and reflective light as an energy-saver, Cosmi noted. "Under our timetable, we hope to begin construction this fall."

GORNICK POINTED out approval of a conditional use was required as well as the rezoning vote.

"I'm concerned about a new car dealer on Ann Arbor Road," Gornick said, "We are already deluded with car dealers on Plymouth Road and I'm not sure I want a dealership at the Ann Arbor Road entry to Plymouth Township."

Dietrich said the site, at the interchange of an expressway and state trunkline, is an ideal location for a mid-rise of about nine stories for a motel or hotel.

"There are other spots in the township where mid-rise wouldn't be appropriate, but it is here and we should save it for mid-rise. A car dealership itself is not an appropriate image for an entry point into the community. Also there is not enough area on this particular site for a dealership as they will need more space to store autos someplace."

Clerk Helen Richardson commented the remarks about use of the site were pertinent but the decision to be made by the board was whether to rezone. A vote on conditional use, and then on a site plan, will follow and then it will be up to Massey to show he can fit the dealership onto the size of the site, she added.

BURKE OBSERVED rezoning the Massey piece to commercial would destroy plans the township has for property across the street on the north side of Ann Arbor Road.

Frank Millington, trustee, said he was opposed to government subsidized mid-rise development because it results in little financial return to the school district and township.

"We once were ready to change the zoning on the Massey site from residential to commercial when we had the prospect of a Ramada Inn locating here." Gornick commented, "but the plans never materialized. Now we seem to be ready to change the zoning again because another use is proposed."

Mrs. Richardson added: "We have gone backward and forward on this particular piece of property. It's been rezoned three or four times and I'd-like to see something definate happen to this parcel. I understand Massey has purchased this site from Bud Gould and retains ownership."

Millington made the motion to approve the rezoning and was supported by Treasurer Joe West. Millington said the Massey Cadillac dealership was a prestigious business in the Plymouth community which should remain and would provide better revenue for the schools and township than mid-rise.

Massey is now located at Main Street and Ann Arbor Road in the City of Plymouth but has outgrown that site. Massey's architect Tuesday night said Massey will develop the Canton property but not as a Cadillac dealership. Plymouth approves high-rise

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Despite an attempt by City Commissioner Jack Moehle to filibuster the night away, at 12:30 a.m., the Plymouth City Commission approved the rezoning of 2.3 acres of land at Union and Penniman to multiple residential for a proposed 11-story senior citizen apartment building scheduled for the heart of downtown Plymouth.

The vote was 5-2, with Commissioners Bey McAninch and Jack Moehle dissenting on the rezoning, the consideration of a Planned Unit Development, and also on the consideration of tax abatement for the Moehle said he still has a lot of unanswered questions about the $5 million project and saw "no hurry" involved. McAninch said she voted against the rezoning because she feels the city commission has not assessed the impact of "at least 200 additional senior citizens."

Elaborating on her statement that such a project would create "a vertical ghetto," McAninch said "We're making a terrible mistake if we feel we can just file them (senior citizens) away."

PROBABLY THE most enthusiastic supporter of the project is Mayor Joseph Bida, who says the downtown area is dying and calls the Forest City Dillon development "a real shot in the arm."

"I've stated publicly to the newspapers that I don't give a damn how high the building is as long as it does the job," said Bida.

Bida said the city commissioners pledged to work for senior citizen concerns when they campaigned and added that this is the last opportunity they might have to do something.

Bickering occasionally cropped up between board members late Monday night, McAninch sparred with Bida and Norbert Battermann needled Moehle.

Much of the commission meeting was spent arguing about the ground rules for the amount of time people in the audience for the public hearing could speak. It was decided that citizens in the overflowing chambers could speak for three minutes, and be allowed a three minute rebuttal after everyone else had a chance to speak.

ROGER WRIGHT, of Citizens for Open and Responsible Planning (CORP), was the first person to speak in the public hearing. Wright, the only member of the planning commission to vote against rezoning, reiterated his contention that the senior citizen apartment would be double the density allowed under city code for multiple residen-

Wright accused the city commission of only considering one developer's plan (Forest City Dillon) and then employing "spot zoning" to fit the project.

"We can have a showplace senior citizen project in Plymouth." said Wright. "But this is not it."

When Wright's three-minute speech was p, the "anti-high rise contingent" clapped

Robert Simmons, of 770 Deer, a senior citizen and 40-year resident of Plymouth, told the crowd and commission why he came to the meeting to express support for the senior citizen apartment building.

"I have sold my home in Plymouth after an accident and an illness," Simmons said. "I've saved my money through the years. But you'd be surprised at how that nest egg can disappear. I'm looking for an apartment in the senior citizen building—a place we can afford.

"What's wrong with the 11-story building? It certainly is beautiful as the architect has painted it. And as for the Wilcox House, it should be torn down before it falls down."

THE WILCOX HOUSE, owned by Jack Wilcox, sits on the site of the proposed apartment building. Wilcox himself has no intention of trying to preserve the 73-year old house, but some members of the community have formed an alliance to save it. Wilcox says his wish is that Forest City Dillon name the high rise "Wilcox House" to provide a link with the past.

Frank Stoma spoke up at the public hearing to say he would like to see the Wilcox House preserved.

"I bought in Plymouth because of the old, aesthetic beauty found here," said Stoma of Church Street. "I moved away from the strife and problems plaguing cities. . . . Don't let this beautiful New Orleans-style home go down.

"You'd rip out something right in the heart, something right in the core of the city," Stoma said. "You'd be taking from the community something great and grand and raping it. The senior citizen project doesn't have to be right there, point blank."

One woman in the audience pooh-poohed the developer's promise to integrate the high rise with the existing downtown district and city park. She told the commission "it's a hard thing to hide a hippopotamus."

THE AUDIENCE seemed split equally between those who favor the project and those who oppose it.

After the rezoning was approved. Penny Wright of CORP announced that she would be taking names in the hall outside the commission room of people who wished to circulate referendum petitions.

Later in the week she said CORP will not attempt to veto the project unless they can come up with an alternative design for a senior citizen development on the Wilcox site.

"If we go for a referendum we'll need 508 signatures," said Ms. Wright." After last night it seems we have enough people who will sign such a petition."

An older woman in the audience asked what procedure would be used to select which seniors qualify for the project and when applications are due. Battling an abcessed tooth and some adverse opinions, Bernard Harr, regional development manager for Forest City Dillon answered the woman.

He said a management team committee composed of Plymouth residents and company officials, would "judge on merit, looking for a fair solution."

"I, for one, wouldn't want to sit as God over these people," Harr said. "The worst over these people," Harr said. "The worst thing we can do is dangle hope. When the time comes that applications are wanted, it will be announced publicly to everybody. You must understand that it's a most difficult problem because of the critical need for senior housing. In Southfield, for example, we had 197 units open and 1900 applicants."

SOME 30 PER cent of the federally-subsidized units must be reserved for "very low income" according to Section Eight, Housing and Urban Development, guidelines. "Very low income" is defined as $6,400 a year or less for people 62 and older.

The remaining units are offered to "moderate level" income seniors. This category permits a single senior to earn up to $10,200 and a senior couple can earn as much as $11,700.

Yearly rent is 25 per cent of a senior's annual income in most cases.

W-W selects new trustee

By CAROLINE PRICE

The newest voice on the Wayne-Westland Board of Education will belong to Stephen Kelley, but the new trustee joins the board under a cloud of Wayne-Westland Education Association objections.

At a special Aug. 16 meeting, trustee Agnes Greene moved that Kelley, a Westland resident, be appointed to full the post left vacant by trustee William White's resignation. All trustees present (board • vice president Thomas Barrett was absent) voted unanimously in favor of the motion.

BUT IN THE MIDST of congratulations as Kelley stepped up to join the board. W-WEA Executive Director Hugh Ryan rose to protest. "The Wayne-Westland Education Association believes it has the obligation to speak out against the manner in which the board has conducted itself in selecting a replacement for recently resigned trustee Bill White." Ryan said.

"Our concerns are not in any way directed toward the individual selected by the board, Mr. Stephen Kelley, nor are our comments intended to denigrate him." he continued "We have no reason whatsoever to question his integrity or capabilities. In fact, we know very little about him, either positive or negative. However, that is the very issue. The public knows little about him."

Ryan also objected to what he called secret interviews of candidates conducted by the board and because no other candidates' names were revealed to the public. "The board's crassness and disregard for the public was most evident in its public action of offering only one nomination then voting unanimously to select Mr. Kelley without one word of debate or discussion." he said.

ROBERT REICHARD, board president, quickly defended the trustees decision. "It's a hard job to select somebody." he said.

said. Reichard added, "I have been a member of the board during three such elections and I don't recall a big to-do about anyone we selected. We're not going to cow-tow to anybody. We had a list of 10 solid candidates and everyone was considered. This was no wash job."

Ryan replied. "I don't want to engage in medicate. but the public has a right to know what's going on."

Reichard answered. "We don't owe the public any apology for who we selected."

It's our bed of thorns if Mr. Kelley doesn't work out."

OTHER TRUSTEES added their support to Reichard. Trustee Fred Warmbier said...

"Mr. Kelley wasn't my first choice of canedidate, but I like his background and he is my first choice now."

Trustee Gerald McGrath added, "In the last election people who objected to a behind-closed-doors policy only got 50 per cent of their candidates elected. In fact, this is the first time we ever went through the formal process of interviewing candidates."

Superintendent of Schools Timothy Dyer's comment on the controversy was di-

Dyer's comment on the controversy was directed to Kelley. "You'll even come to like Mr. Ryan quite a bit He's a great guy."

Dyer said.

THE BOARD'S newest member seems to hold no resentment about W-WEA objections surrounding his appointment. "I appreciate their sencerity." Kelley said. "The trustee added that his main concern was to "help maintain and possibly improve what I consider a fine school district.

Whether he will seek re-election when his term expires on July 1, 1977 depends on his personal evaluation of his effectiveness as a trustee.

"I have attempted to be active in the community since we moved here three years ago. I have been involved in supporting millage cub scouts and my church. And since I have children in school. I feel it is my obligation to give something back." Kelley said after his appointment.

Foust, not Greenstein correct in CAC controversy

In his customary style, Bob Greenstein has conveniently massaged the truth in the recent Canton Citizens Advisory Council dispute with Brian Foust. Greenstein would have us believe this involves no more than a personality conflict between himself and Mr. Foust.

And for the nonbelievers, Greenstein has had current CAC Chairman Tom Quinn parrot a denial of Mr. Foust's accusations of Greenstein's lack of cooperation over CAC appointments. Unfortunately in his denial and affirmation of Greenstein, Quinn neglects to mention he was not even a member of the CAC until February.

While I was chairman of the CAC in December. I personally hand-delivered to Greenstein, with the agreement of the CAC, names which he could never quite manage to place on the agenda.

I had Greenstein accuse me of "trying to stack the CAC with business people" and pitch one of his customary temper tan-

Subsequently, I asked several trustees if they had recieved a copy of the letter. I had purposely stressed from the CAC guidelines that we were "reporting back to the entire township board" because Bob Greenstein has "interpreted "board" as meaning "Bob" too many times.

Soon afterwards, Greenstein, also true to form, started playing political football with the Canton fire millage. In the ensuing nauseating scrimmage, I became solely concerned with making certain Greenstein, via a political patsy, did not postpone the desperately needed fire millage until August so he could claim some political points for its passage-or he didn't ask for more money than needed so he could later maneuver to somehow tie the fire monies which now come from the general fund to the millage freeing those monies in order that he and his cronies could fund a few more pet projects or hire a few more

But the focal point of the Greenstein-Foust controversy should not be Greenstein's lack of respect for the truth and consequent avoidance of tape recorders. For the controversy vividly demonstrates the harsh reality of Canton preached according to Bob Greenstein especially for those who choose to ignore the gospel.

When I first met Brian Foust last September, he was a politically naive resident, an average citizen with a commitment to making Canton Township an above-average blace to live. Today he is a disillusioned man who has learned for Bob Greenstein there can only be one way-his

Of course I realize it's summer and many of you Concerned Parents/ have other priorities, but does it not oncern you that the board, now minus M. Benson, seems totally unable to make any meaningful decisions, except may that football coaches are more important than teaching?

Does it not concern you that students at Salem and Canton probably will be allowed only five credits? How does less classroom time solve the student free time problem? And finally, does it not concern you that most of us cannot get from the board a clear idea of exactly what a passed millage would mean?

We were told in May that if the millage passed, students would be able to carry more than five credits. The board is doing nothing to insure this and has refused to go ahead with a double computer schedule. If they wait any longer administration will be unable to process the necessary paper work in time for September classes.

What about the student who needs more than five credits to graduate, or the kids who might like to carry a heavier load in the 10th and 11th grades and work parttime toward college as seniors. And let's not forget the kids who really blew their start and now need to carry more credits. How many of them would just give up?

Either the board gets moving on this or the Sept. 2 millage is going to fail by more than one vote.

It's always easy to be destructive and rally people behind the cause that a new and better system is necessary. What seems to have been forgotten is with this comes the awesome responsibility of rebuilding and replacing the old with something better.

Nomination struggle cuts delegates fun and games

By LORAINE McCLISH

Mary Lou Barth ordered breakfast sent to her room in Kansas City's Crown Center Hotel at 7 a.m. Tuesday. She cancelled her appointment at the hotel beauty salon and at the same time realized there would be no swimming for her that day. Nor would she be able to accept any of the invitations offered by the city's residents to see Kansas City sites.

She is a member of the Ford team, a resident of Farmington and a delegate to the Republican national convention from the 17th Congressional District.

Her breakfast was eaten while she read literature—from Reagan propaganda, from officials—that had been dropped at her door following her return to her room Monday night.

HER ROOM OVERLOOKS the NBC facilities, set up on the marquee of the hotel, and she says she gets a kick out of watching John Chancellor and David Brinkley going through their paces in person and on her TV at the same time.

Mrs. Barth was one of nine who were called to a strategy meeting at 9 that morning by her group leader. Immediately afterward, about 11 a.m., the entire Ford contingent met in vet another strategy session with the aim of out-maneuvering the Reagan forces.

"It's a matter of sticking together," she said. "If we don't do that, we're lost."

The two closed door sessions in the Ford camp came up with one concrete idea. This stemmed from the fact that, to a person, they were all smarting over the fact that Reagan T-shirts are being worn all over their hotel.

"I feel that's embarrassing to the President." Mrs. Barth said.

TO COUNTER this, a Kansas City Ford car dealer was contacted, and 55 white blazers—bearing the Ford name—were ordered with the promise of delivery by five that afternoon.

The old expression "quick bite" can be taken very literally for the time allotted for lunch. Ordering any meal here is not easy, particularly in the hotel. More often than not, it's a hurry-up-and-wait experience.

But restaurant prices are moderate, compared to those in Southfield, Lathrup, Redford Township, Farmington and Farmington Hills, the communitiesMary Lou Barth represents.

At 2 p.m. Mrs. Barth was seated with the entire Michigan delegation to hear reports from the platform, credentials permanent organization, and rules and order committees.

DENNY HAMMOND, 17th District chairman, is serving on the credentials and gave its report.

ERA and abortion remain the two issues nobody can get together on, but Mrs. Barth didn't have to go to Kansas City to find that out.

She was an officer in the State Federation of Republican Women's Clubs in 1971 when the subject of the Equal Rights Amendment was first brought to that body, and the split in her own backyard was as wide then as it is in Kansas City

Back in her room at 3:30 p.m. for a press conference, she finds more literature at her door and inside, some on the bed.

"How did this get here?" she asked no one in particular. "What's this Reagan stuff doing here? I know my roommate hasn't been here all day. Are those people bribing the maids now to get this stuff in our rooms?"

The press conference reveals that the other day she had gotten a personal letter from Ford asking her to list five Persons she would like to see considered for vice-president.

Her responses were Sen. Howard Baker and John Connally predicated on an informal survey she did in Oakland County.

"I'm sure I talked to at least 80 people on that subject, and those were the two names that kept coming up over and over again," she said.

"THESE ARE THE people I'm representing." she continued. "On every issue, I vote to represent them."

In the ensuing discussion of names, locales, and how to choose the vice president, Mrs. Barth says. "Oh. I wish Barbara Jordan was on our side. We sure could use her." (Rep. Jordan stirred delegates at the Democratic national convention with her speech.)

She is adamant in her belief Ford will win the nomination, but predicted the Tuesday evening session will be long and drawn out. There will be a lot of debate. If all goes smooth, you canbet that something is very wrong."

Eletcher's win is no surprise to our delegates

By LORRAINE McCLISH

Peter Fletcher, delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention from Ypsilanti, has been re-elected Republican national committeeman by a 54-30 vote of the Michigan delegation.

Fletcher, whose opponent was Byron' Crosse of Kalamazoo, retains the position he won last year after the resignation of Creighton Holden.

"Quite predictable. No suprises here." said George Kettunen, a Reagan supporter from the 2d Congressional District. "The Ford and Reagan contingencies are running pretty consistent."

Robert Law, a delegate-at-large from Livonia, echoed Kettunen's "no suprise" statement after the Michigan delegation voted Sunday in caucus to defeat the Reagan camp's move to change the rules on vice-presidential nomination.

"I voted my conscience" said Law

"I voted my conscience," said Law, chairman of the Michigan Federation of Young Republicans, "but the question was put by the Reagan people, and nobody is surprised at how anyone voted."

BOTH DELEGATES believe that similar votes and similar splits were going on in hotels all over town among delegations which were meeting prior to the Sunday afternoon arrival of both President Ford and Ronald Reagan.

Kettunen said the only exception to the consistent vote would be on the platform issues of the Equal Rights Amendment and abortion. "Then it is a very personal, emotional issue," he said.

George Kettunen of Livonia and Shiely Arnold of Southfield are delegates at the Republican convention.

Among those they frantically wired for assistance was Eddie Stinson, the World War I flight instructor whose plant at Northville built passenger planes for airlines. Stinson did his best to accomodate them, but it was the Army Air Service which finally got them to New York on July 14, 1926.

IF ALL, they had covered 20,000 miles at a cost of $32,000, and had made use of almost all forms of transportation-including boat, train, automobile, plane and, in Yokahoma, a rickshaw.

Is Nixon pardon reason for party split?

By LORAINE McCLISH

Amidst all the Ford and Reagan banners laced all over Kansas City this week, there are a few which proclaim: "Nixon is ob-

In Republican jargon, John Gnau, a Bloomfield Hills resident and GOP delegate from the 19th Congressional District. translated the words to mean, "I'm for Reagan."

The slogan marks the bearer as one who has shifted his support from the incumbent because of the Nixon pardon.

ACCORDING TO Gnau, it is the singlemost reason for the Ford-Reagan split within the party.

Since the first vote, the Michigan delegation has barely wavered from the 54-30 or 55-29 pro-Ford split on any given issue. As of Tuesday morning, this was still holding.

Gnau has been a party worker since he joined the old 17th District Young Republicans in 1962 and has made known his pro-Reagan feelings in the past year through a host of activities, notably as state finance chairman for Reagan.

Monday night, Gnau and his wife Margy were feeling like second-class citizens because the two are staying in the Crown Center Hotel, which is marked "President Ford Headquarters" on one side of the Room service for dinner, ordered byby the Gnaus to avoid the heavy restaurant crowds before going to Kemper Arena for the convention's Monday evening session, was cancelled. The hotel wasn't able to accommodate both those in the Reagan hospitality suite and the Ford party at the same time. The Reagan suite lost.

MARGY GNAU holds sway over the Reagan hospitlity room, adjacent to the Gnaus' living quarters, where the cancellation was greeted with such comments as: "Well, after all, we're the dissidents," and "It's the rebels who are living up here."

Gnau's comment was that this kind of treatment, taking a second place stand to the Ford faction, "has been going on all

Gnau said he even had trouble getting adjoining accommodations to set up the Regagan hospitality room.

The single instance this reporter witnessed of the hotel's deference to Ford was when a hotel security man asked that a Reagan banner be removed from the lobby when the Michigan delegation was setting up the Ford welcome Sunday after-

Gnau, an Oakland County road commissioner, is floor leader for the Reagan faction of the Michigan delegation this week, making sure the Reagan people are where they are supposed to be in the event of an emergency vote.

The job is almost invariably given to one of the party's working veterans because "it's so easy to get lost in the shuffle and just lose the whole ball game," Gnau said.

AS ADAMANT in their votes as the two factions are now, there doesn't seem to be any doubt in anyone's mind that they will pull together once the nominee is picked.

There was some evidence of this in Kemper Arena Monday morning. Someone pointed out that the only delegation in the hall which distinguished themselves from the crowd were those from Hawaii because they all wore leis.

That was not altogether true. All the Michigan delegates were wearing "Esch" buttons, supporting U.S. Rep. Marvin Esch for the his senate bid.

Lorraine McClish, who is the Farmington Observer & Eccentric suburban life editor, was visiting friends in Kansas City during her vacation this week, but she just couldn't pass up a good story . . .

As we stood under the Crown Center Hotel marquee waiting transportation to Kemper Arena Monday morning, we saw cab after cab filled with persons on their way to Ramada Inn East

Many wore press badges. Then a chartered bus marked "White House Press Corps" stopped under the marquee, and about 10 persons got out and asked for cabs to the same motel.

Meanwhile, only a handful were doubling up in the cabs headed for the convention's opening session.

A QUICK CHECK into the tote bag handed out by the Kansas City Republican Women's Club revealed that the Mississippi delegation-the one with the bulk of the uncommitteed votes-was staying at Ramada Inn East.

Lost and found-GOP chief's spirits

Bill McLaughlin, Michigan Republican chairman, lost his voice Sunday night as the GOP gathered in Kansas City, but he was back in form Monday morning keeping the troops in line.

The Michigan delegation acted as hosts for the welcome given to President Gerald Ford on his arrival in Kansas City Sunday afternoon, so it fell upon McLaughlin to turn cheerleader and warmup man for the elbow-to-elbow crowd of 2,500 waiting in the Crown Center Hotel lobby.

The delegate from Northville turned hoarse and could barely be heard after three hours of leading the crowd with 'This is Ford country" and yelling "How do you spell Ford?"

McLaughlin played against a background of bands, banners, flashing cameras and a noisy crowd infiltrated by Secret Service men, hotel security guards, Missouri state highway patrolmen and Kansas City police.

editorial opinion

Canton Townshipit's been an education

Canton has been an interesting, exciting, frustrating assignment for a reporter and editor over the past year and a half.

It has not been easy to cover thoroughly and to the satisfaction of our readers.

It has been difficult to sit through the yelling. the eight-hour meetings, the nonsense-just as it has been hard to report about Canton accurately. Just when you think you have a handle on the situation, it changes, and you find you don't.

The truth-that gray area between conflicting statements, charges and countercharges-has been elusive.

In particular, the Aug. 3 primary election-replete with dirty tricks, claims and angry attackswas a rough assignment and difficult to write about with any degree of confidence.

The real facts probably won't surface for some time, if at all, and I leave the hard task of discovering who was behind all the nastiness to my successor.

I hope November is calmer.

BUT DESPITE the recent ugliness, on the eve of departing from Canton, I can look back on my tenure here only as an enjoyable experience. Canton is an exciting community suffering tremendous growing pains. It is an interesting concoction, a mix of the old and the new, a sprinkle of the different with its o farming traditions and its sudden rush into suburbanization. Young suburbanites, lifelong residents and farmers make it an unusual place to cover these days. It is a pretty community with a bright future. One only need look at the numbers of people moving to Canton as evidence.

There are big challenges ahead for its leaders and residents-critical decisions to be made that shape not only the social and cultural complexion of the community, but also the physical makeup for years to come.

While I won't be around to watch the changesand there will be many-I hope the community is satisfied with the choices it makes. And I hope that through some method, a vestige of the rural flavor that once dominated this township will be retained.

FOR MYSELF at least. Canton has been an education in many ways that college could not provide-politics, local government, land use planning and, most of all, people-people from all segments of the community who helped me on stories, gave me leads, a pat on the back or, often as not, a boot in the pants.

My ears still ring from the responses of some readers who didn't like an editorial or thought I misjudged a story.

And I confess that some of the criticism was earned. It was part of the education.

To the friends I made, to the sources who helped me, and to the many people who treated me so courteously making my job easier, I extend my sincere thanks.

To those with whom I differed, to those whom I may have offended, and to those who offended me, I suggest the world would be a boring place without our differences.

I hope all who helped me in the past year and a half will be equally courteous to my successors in the years to come. And to the community as a whole, I hope the decisions you make in the next few years will be the right ones.

It's been a pleasure. RICHARD GOLD

Vote shows suburbs' attitude hardens

I have been writing this column regularly for nearly 10 years now, and never have I seen relations between the suburbs and Detroit grimmer.

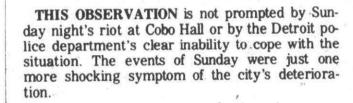

After many years of sweat and toil by countless men and women of good will, both in the suburbs and in the core city, people are simply beginning to lose hope.

Lose hope that the streets of Detroit can ever be made safe for ordinary citizens, black and white. Lose hope that the schools of Detroit can ever clamber back from poverty and start to give children the kind of education they need. Lose hope that business will ever consider Detroit safe enough to locate in and thereby provide jobs to the thousands of men and women who are out of work.

Lose hope, in short, that the city of Detroit can ever become once again a real city.

Observation

by PHILIP H. POWER

Businessmen who live here in the suburbs who have stores in Detroit are beginning to figure out how they can bail out without too much financial loss. Families which had been accustomed to going down to the Art Institute regularly are turning elsewhere for their leisure.

Corporations which have had their headquarters in Detroit for years are beginning to relocate in the suburbs. Crowley, Milner recently announced its move to Troy, and several other large companies are in the middle of their own agonizing decisions to move.

Men and women who have lived in the suburbs and worked in Detroit for years and years are beginning to look for other jobs. A friend of mine who has worked at the City-County Building for some time put it this way: "For years, I went downtown without giving it another thought. But in the past two months, it's become a real jungle. You get hassled just walking in the streets in broad daylight, and my wife's beginning to get

PERHAPS the most illuminating hard data on the state of mind in the suburbs and in Detroit is provided by the vote count in the recent primary of State, and one of the most decent people in Michigan public life was defeated in his attempt to win the Democratic Party's nomination. Just how he lost is fascinating.

In the city of Detroit, Austin won nearly 90 per cent of the black vote, according to members of his campaign staff. In the suburbs, if he got 10 per cent of the votes he was lucky. In outstate precincts, where suburb-city problems are not acute. Austin picked up 35 to 50 per cent of the vote.

Remember, in looking at these statistics, that Austin was one of the best known men in the state, with a very high approval rating for the job he has done as Secretary of State. And remember, further, that he won overwhelmingly in his two previous tries for office. In 1970, Austin carried largely suburban and white Oakland County by 55 per cent; four years later, Austin the incumbent swept Oakland County by 68 per cent.

But two weeks ago, Dick Austin got five per cent of the vote in Birmingham, seven per cent in Plymouth Township and Rochester, nine per cent in Livonia, and six per cent in Farmington.

Dick Austin did not collapse as a politician in just four years solely because of unfavorable publicity about gifts from his branch managers. He collapsed as a politician precisely in those suburbs which gave him majority votes in years

Why? Because people in the suburbs are simply fed up with the problems of Detroit and because Dick Austin, like many people in Detroit, is black.

THAT IS a terrible conclusion to reach, but I fear no other is available. The voting statistics are irrefutable.

What all this means for the future is by no means certain. I suspect that what will probably happen is that the suburbs will simply turn their back on Detroit and its problems until -and only until-the authorities in the core city can get their crime problems under control.

Indeed, the only issue I can think of that in any way could bring the interests of Detroit and the suburbs together is that of crime. Until that is done, Eight Mile really will be a wall.

State Police play tricks with young driver figures

I want to give you an idea of the kinds of nasty statistical games the Michigan Department of State Police is playing with young drivers, but first consider these games of logic:

Half the married people are women. But women are involved in 100 per cent of the di-

Less than half the people in Detroit are white. But whites are involved in 100 per cent of the interracial incidents.

Both statements are true but fantastically misleading. Now consider this model of two automo-

In collision No. 1, drivers A and B are involved. In collision No. 2, drivers C and D are involved. Driver A is age 20, B is 30, C is 40 and D is 50. Conclusion: Drivers of age 20 are only onequarter of the driving population but are involved in one-half of the collisions.

WHOA! you say, and you'd be correct. There is a trick being played, and it's the word "involved." It takes two persons to make a divorce, two or more races to make an interracial incident, and two or more cars to make a collision.

So now consider what the Department of State Police is doing in its recently published "Michigan Traffic Accident Facts" for 1975:

'Significantly, driver age group 15-24 represents 25.8 per cent of the total licensed drivers in Michigan. However, they account for a disproportionate number of all accidents at 36.4 per cent and an involvement of 40.8 per cent in all fatal accidents."

You can see right through that one, of course. The trick is that word "involvement."

HERE'S ANOTHER State Police trick that is just plain statistically invalid:

A chart labelled "Drinking drivers in per cent of all drivers involved in accidents" is aimed at the 18-20 age group. It shows that in 1972 drinking drivers in the 18-20 age group constituted 8.7 per cent of all drivers involved in accidents. In 1975 drinkers in the 18-20 group were 12.7 per cent of the drivers involved in accidents.

The State Police conclusion: Drinking drivers in the 18-20 age group increased their involvement in accidents by 45.9 per cent in just three years!

Richard

It's an apples-oranges comparison. What the State Police did was compare the 8.7 per cent figure to the 12.7 figure. But you can't do that because these are percentages of different bases.

The comparison would be fair if exactly the same number of accidents occurred in 1975 as in 1972. In fact, however, the number declined.

Young drivers are made to look far worse than they really are.

THIS KIND of statistical trickery aimed at young people isn't new for the State Police.

They once came up with figures showing a fantastic increase in drunk driving arrests among young people from 1971, when the legal drinking age was 21, to 1972, when it was lowered to 18.

What the tricksters failed to point out was 1) the legal definition of drunk driving was lowered at almost exactly the same time, 2) state and local police began selective enforcement of the drunk driving law in 1972, being super-watchful for young drivers, and 3) the figures showed only arrests and not convictions.

It's pretty clear what's going on: There's a campaign on to raise the legal drinking age in Michigan. The misleading and even false statistics issued by the State Police will be used to feed that campaign.

Young people had better study their math just as intensely as they study driving when they re-turn to school in fall or else the cops are going to convict them politically on a bum rap.

3 bills needed to correct pension abuse in Capitol

Inflation usually hits hardest the people on a fixed income. Retired people who have planned their investments to provide for a satisfactory standard of living for the rest of their lives are eaten alive when the cost of living goes up.

But this is not true of all retired people. If you happen to be under a federal government pension-that is, a retired member of Congress, a retired federal civil service employee or retired military person-Congress has put you in a different

The ordinary employee pays slightly less than six per cent as his contribution to social security. His employer also pays a similar amount on income up to $15,600.

When you work for the federal government, you put in seven per cent of your salary into retirement annuities. Federal employees are not covered by social security.

THE KICKER is that the federal employee pension plans are indexed for inflation. When the consumer price index rises three per cent or more, federal pensions are increased. But there is a special add-on bonus of one per cent given to federal retirees when the index rises three per cent or more.

What this means is that a retiree receives a four per cent increase—not three per cent—when the consumer price index goes up three per cent.
In other words, the more inflation we have, the cent. This means that federal retirees are in a position to improve their lifestyles 26 per cent faster at the expense of the American taxpayer.

THE SEVEN PER cent they pay toward their retirement annuities does not adequately fund their pensions. The comptroller general has told Congress that the estimated normal cost of these pensions is at least 28.74 per cent of pay.

Congress has passed a pension reform act for private industry. If we are going to have any fiscal responsibility, there must be a pension reform act for the public sector.

Public officials should not profit from increased inflation, particularly since many of these same public officials have contributed toward the in-

To correct the one per cent kicker abuse requires three separate acts of Congress, because the pay bills for civil servants, congressmen, military and foreign service personnel are all treated separately. There are bills before Congress to correct this abuse. Obviously, because the pension of the congressmen themselves is involved, they will be in no rush to correct this inequity unless they are reminded by the people that it is time for a change.

Michigan's high unemployment rate continues to be a source of worry to the state's legislators.

Rep. John Bennett (D-Redford) thinks he may have a solution to the problem. and he has even written President Gerald Ford to tell him about it.

Bennett's solution, according to the letter, is simple: If the age requirement for Social Socurity benefits is lowered to 60. workers would be encouraged to retire sooner, opening up jobs for a new crop of unemployed young people.

"Within the last month 20 Michigan State University graduates have asked me about jobs." Bennett says. "It makes me feel so inadequate."

In HIS LETTER to the president, Bennett stated: "Over the past two years the unemployment rate in Michigan has exceeded 10 per cent and it is depressing to know that about 25 per cent of our young people cannot find jobs. New technology in machines and computers has eliminated a lot of industrial jobs which has helped to create the higher than average unemployment rate in Michigan .

"Under normal circumstances, Michigan needs to place about 190,000 new workers each year. Close to 90,000 jobs are vacated each year due to retirement or death. leaving a net of better than 100,000 workers for whom jobs must be found."

Bennett's letter added allowing workers to retire at age 60 with full Social Security benefits would create employment for an additional 50,000 workers yach year in Michigan and more than one million new jobs throughout the country.

THE LETTER, which was sent to U.S. Senators Philip Hart and Robert Griffin and to all Michigan U.S. congressmen, as well as the president, received mixed re-

"I suspect that if we put 50,000 people back to work in Michigan it might offset the cost of social security enough for us to come out ahead," Bennett adds.

Opponents of this proposal have stated that it is too costly My reply to them is that maintaining the unemployed on the welfare rolls is much more costly.

Do a juggling act and enjoy life more Wa

In the Tarot cards, which we discuss so often in this column, the Fool card represents each one of us as we innocently start out on our journey through life. The other cards, the numbered ones, depict situations with which we must meet and deal on this journey.

One of the most interesting of these cards is the two of coins, or pentacles.

Here we see an individual engaged in juggling two coins held together by an endless cord. The river of life flows on behind him, and there we see ships riding the

This card illustrates the cycles of change at work in the world, the natural fluctuation of fortune which must be allowed for when planning ahead.

MOVEMENT, GROWTH, and changes are imminent in all our lives. We must learn to adjust our movements and activities to keep in balance, rather than attempting to resist change and mourn for things as they were in the past. Skillful navigation of the waters of life means adapting to the changes in the elements around us.

In life, it is often necessary to handle two situations that are in opposition at once. Alertness and agility are important.

A dear friend of mine, with whom I taught school for many years, was recently given the position of superintendent of schools in a western Michigan community. He used this card to explain his situation as the middle man in dealings between the teachers, the board of education, the bus drivers, the maintenance people, and the parents and children of the community.

Each of us is met with similar circumstances at one time or another: the mother who attempts to keep peace in the family; the newly married couple trying to establish harmonious relationships with both sets of in-laws; and each and every one of us deciding how we should best handle our income to cover our outgo.

Compromise, skillful maneuvering, and balance are necessary in all of these situathere were nothing to surprise us, if there were no changes of challenges, if everything always went according to plan.

There is a lesson here, as there is in each card of the Tarot: To maintain our balance, we must all be alert and always ready to accept change.

Foster grandparents find out they're needed

By ARLENE VANDERLEUN

"Helping a child fulfills a need to be That's how Mrs. Dorothy Teeter, 72, of Plymouth, describes the Foster Grandparents program.

Some 49 local senior citizens, not content to sit in a rocking chair reflecting on past achievements, work at the Plymouth Center for Human Development giving love and individual attention to the physically and mentally handicapped youngsters who are their assigned "grandchildren."

The Plymouth program is part of the Detroit Foster Grandparents program, sponsored by Catholic Social Services of Wayne County. Religious affiliation, however, has no bearing on participation.

To be eligible for the program, applicants must be 60 years or older, in reasonably good health and have a desire and willingness to work with these children. It is limited to persons with a maximum annual income of $2878. In exchange for their 20-hour work week, Foster Grandparents receive a non-taxable stipend of $1.60 per GRETA DOPHEIDE, 69, of Westland, likes the program because, "it gives you a chance to get out, and you become interested in the children." She has been a Fos-ter Grandparent for six years.

Dorothy Smith, supervisor of the Plymouth program, said Foster Grandparents fill a real need, providing companionship and attention to children who, for the most part, do not have visitors. Clearly, working with physically and mentally handicapped children requires patience, determination and understanding. All Foster Grandparents are trained. and regular refresher meetings are held. But most draw heavily on their own personal experience as parents and grandparents in working with the children.

"Mostly, we follow our own instincts," said Mrs. Teeter. Both a mother and a grandmother, Mrs. Teeter has been a Foster Grandparent for six years.

THE CENTER follows a two-fold program of teaching and training the children, combined with a loving, one-to-one relationship with the grandparents. "We try to motivate the children with personal attention," said Joe Rytel, 75, of Livonia.

He is a foster grandfather to two 13year-old boys, both retarded. One boy is able to walk, the other cannot.

Grandparents customarily devote complete attention to one child at a time. A typical day at the center might include taking a walk around the spacious grounds, playing a game of basketball, working on a puzzle or having a picnic.

Time is also set aside for nurturing a loving, caring relationship. There is plenty of rocking, cuddling, and crooning.

Rytel tries to treat his children as normally as possible, to overlook the fact that many of the children are retarded.

"Children respond to interest," he emphasized.

INEVITABLY, the grandparents and the children become close "When you're away, you wonder how they're doing and become anxious to get back to them," said Mrs. Dopheide. Sometimes the children are waiting in the doorway for their foster grandparents to arrive, Rytel said, and "when you walk in the door they give you a big smile." Jameila is a four-year-old sickle cell anemia victim. Because of her illness she can't walk, but she breaks into a grin and gives a wiggling bounce when her grandmother enters the room. "They thrive on attention," said Mrs.

Teeter Mixed with the happiness, though is frus-

She's trying to teach her foster granddaughter to understand and to follow simple directions. "I can see improvements," she said.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD Kathy, with a crippled arm and leg, was skinny and un-Patiently, over a period of time, Mrs. Dopheide began to win Kathy's trust. Now the child permits her foster grandmother to massage her arm, and by dangling a string of brightly colored balls she has gotten Kathy to hold them and even to shake them a little.

March of Dimes sets bikeathon

Hines Park will be the kick off point for Super Ride '76, the fifth annual Metropolitan Detroit March of Dimes Bikeathon on Saturday, Sept. 11. Hines Park will be closed to all traffic but bikers, volunteers and security from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. for the first 50-mile Super Ride 76.

MIKE WALDEN, president of the Michigan Bicycle Federation who will marshal Super Ride '76, commented, "Bicycling is not only healthy, it is great fun." "It can put the fun in fund raising when you are super riding for the March of Dimes," he added. "We hope to have all young people who have bicycles join us for a great day. All proceeds will further the goal of the March of Dimes in their continuing fight against birth defects.'

Walden is also the national volunteer coordinator for all March of Dimes Bikea-

Participants must pre-register. Children under 12 years of age must be accompanied by an adult. Bikers under 18 must have permission of parent or guardian. As a voluntary health organization, the March of Dimes is concerned about the health and safety of all its participants. To register, call the March of Dimes at 864ALL ROUTES will be pittrolled and any rider with bike trouble will be returned to the starting point.

There is no way of knowing how long it will take an individual to complete the Bikeathon. However, if participants agree on a certain time or place to be met. all facilities at all parks will be open.

Suggestions for increasing enjoyment in Super Ride 76 are: Don't overdress; bring just enough money for lunch, snacks, phone calls; eat light high energy foods; do not carry purses or shoulder bags; ride at a rate that is comfortable for you. This is not a race. The March of Dimes asks all participants to be alert. Bikes have a right on the road, but so do automobiles. This will not be a problem once you're inside Hines Park between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 11, because the park will be closed to all traffic but bikers and volunteers. Thanks to special contributors, there are premiums for fast collection returns. Two ten-speed bikes will be given away for each route. Riders who turn in $100 or more in pledges by Oct.25 will receive a nylon riding jacket worth $10 through the March of Dimes office. New Super Ride patches will be given to every participant upon receipt of their pledges

When it comes to picking summer vacation spots, our family tends to the tradition-

We've had some years of traveling with the gang, but for the most part we've picked a peaceful spot and returned to it year after year.

For a dozen summers (and a couple of falls) as the girls were growing up. it was a one-of-a-kind cottage on a small, beautiful lake about 200 miles north that gave us a second home each vacation time.

Then, after that paradise was turned into a subdivision, we found a spot near the shores of Lake Superior, and that's where we've done our swimming, fishing and relaxing for the last five years.

THAT WAS OUR destination this summer, but who could have guessed that our choice of cabin there would be the great triumph of many vacations.

By way of explanation, I should add that we went north this year with only one of our quartet of daughters. Of the others, one was vacationing in the west, one was just returning from an eastern trip and one had a summer job. So we were just a little worried about what kind of a week our youngest would have with only her parents for company.

Of course there are a lot of things we like to do together, but she's used to a gang of sisters or friends and doesn't go for quite as much reading and working of double-crostics as we do.

Pastor Balke will head Bethel Bible series

By MARGARET MILLER

The Rev. Fred W. Balke, a Livonia pastor for nine years, is leaving to take over leadership of a religious education pro-gram that encompasses 17 denominations and some 3,000 congregations.

Mr. Balke will preach his farewell sermon in a special service at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Aug. 22, in Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, where he has served since 1967.

The next day he and his family will head for Madison, Wis., where he will become director of the Bethel Bible Series, a program of biblical study and instruction that for 15 years has been expanding throughout this country and in several foreign na-

"I see this new work as a great challenge," said Mr. Balke, who has had close connection with the program since he first took its training five years ago.

"In our own congregation, about 100 people have become involved with it during that time," he added. "The kind of testimony they give, what they say about how the study has changed their lives, is most Lutheran Church, it's definitely not a Lutheran thing," he added. "Many denominations have found it most valuable."

THE PASTOR said directors of the foundation hads approached him on the job a year ago because he has considerable training in adult education as well as five years of working with Bethel.

"I turned it down then," he said, adding that the reasons were closely connected with his congregation's role in the developing split within the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod over a doctrinary dispute.

During the year that followed, Holy Trinity became the first of three Livonia congregations in the synod to leave its Michigan District and join the more liberal English District.

Its members now are faced with a decision on whether to affiliate with the newlyformed English Synod, which moved this summer to sever its connection with the Missouri Synod.

That decision will be made in November. Mr. Balke added, and the congregation making it will have the leadership of the Rev. James Spilos, a graduate of the Lutheran Seminar in Exile (Seminex), who was installed early in 1976 as assist-

"I think the biggest part of the dispute took place this summer," said Mr. Balke, "and the congregation now has an assistant pastor to fill in, so when the Bethel people asked me recently to reconsider, I decided it was work I would really like and it was now or never.

But I have to say I'll miss being in the thick of this doctrinary question which I consider most important.

ALSO LOOKING forward to a challenging new situation are members of the Balke family, his wife, Marilyn, their sons Bill and Bob, who will enter the 10th and ninth grades, and daughter Ann, ready to start junior high.

"They've all been active in a lot of projects in Livonia," Mr. Balke said, "and they feel they ready for new experiences."

A native of Detroit, Mr. Balke lived in Livonia for two years before becoming the second pastor of Holy Trinity, a congregation he has seen grow from a mission handful to more than 1,000 members.

He was director of the Lutheran Center in Detroit before coming to Holy Trinity. and had been a counselor at Lutheran West High School.

Diabetic kids learn at camp how to live with their illness

By LORAINE McCLISH

A summer camp with a accelerated schedule of activities geared for a fast burn-up of sugar draws about 70 Michigan youngsters to each of its five sessions programmed for young diabetics.

Camp Midicha, located in Columbiaville, northest of Flint, can be best described as a summer workshop for youngsters to learn how to cope with giving themselves shots, testing their urine, planning their own meals, and meeting new friends who also suffer from the malady.

Kathy Mesenbring, the 19-year-old daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Victor Mesenbring of Farmington, who works as a counselor in Camp Midicha this summer, summed up the biggest benefit of the camp for the campers when she said. "I'm not a diabetic. I'm a minority here. This is a turn-around for the kids who are always in the minority; for the kids who might be the only one in their class or on the block who have this problem."

Kathy: who has done a lot of social work with the Girl Scouts, is thinking of going into some kind of social work through her classes at Valparaiso University, and got her, summer job through a doctor in Prince of Peace Lutheran Church congre-

But even on the staff, she is a minority. Camp director Dan Donigan said diabetics get first crack at the summer job openings in the camp.

Probably three-fourths of the staff are diabetic and that includes the doctors, the kitchen help, the maintainence men: people who can emphasize with these youngsters, who know what its all about... he said.

THE YOUNGSTERS are well aware of their problem, and the medical aspects they are learning to cope with.

We met Ed Solomon, a Southfield youth who gave us his age as "nine and three quarters" when he was returning from the archery range and didn't catch up with him again until we spotted him with a group on a horseback riding stint.

But he told us that he and his sister and a couple of friends had given a carnival this spring in his yard at 17055 George Washington which raised $177 for diabetes research. Now he's learning about chemical changes in his body, and when to raise or lower his insulin injections.

For the first time since the camp has been in operation, the staff is getting ready to receive diabetics who are as young as six years. "as a pilot program, to see how it goes." Donigan said.

Or dreaming up gag prizes for the campers' version of "Let's Make a Deal."

Report from 4C

Children's needs now getting more attention

Current legislation and several new state programs and agencies are focusing more on the needs of children, according to Susan Brook, executive coordinator for the Michigan Community Coordinated Child Care (4C) Council.

She spoke recently on "Current Legislation Affecting Michigan Children and Their Families." at Michigan State University's College Week, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service.

"The 4C Council advocates the comprehensive delivery services of children," said Ms. Brook. "It is made up of representatives from public and private agencies. It is a public information and referral group and anyone can join the council.

The purpose is to make sure Michigan citizens have an input into policy decisions that affect children and their families."

AFTER A STUDY of Michigan's programs for children, the Office of Juvenile Justice Services was formed. This office is formulating a statewide plan for uniformed services for juveniles, delinquent and neglected. It will also administer the child care funds.

The child care study committee is currently investigating the needs and problerns of children. The committee is looking into adoption, child care, child abuse, neglect, family planning, public schools, juvenile code, high risk infants, and more. Current legislation affecting children includes pending House Bill 4751, which would create an office of family and child advocacy. This office would speak up for the child in court cases. There is no central place where you can get answers about laws affecting children. The bill would establish such a place.

The legislature passed a new child abuse law which expands the number of people who must report an abuse or neglect case. The law also states that suspect cases do not have to be reported to the police until after the Department of Social Services can look into the matter. An amendment has been introduced which, if passed, would require that all suspect cases be reported immediately to the police.

"WHEN PUBLIC ACT 198 was passed in 1971, it gave Michigan the most comprehensive special education program in the country," noted Ms. Brook. "This act says that the state must provide special education training or care to any handicapped person, age zero to 25. Most other states begin their special education programs for schoolaged children and end when the child reaches the age of majority."

The act also requires that the parents be involved in the decision about what special

A woman's education, not just her sex. causes "discriminatio" in hiring, says a Michigan State University management professor

"If women do not possess the educationcredentials deemed necessary for caeers in management," reporter Dr. Benry Tosi, "then their exlusion should ome as no surprise."

For example, liberal arts degrees, whether held by women or men, are not as preferred for entry level managerial jobs as are those with majors in accounting, marketing, and management, he explained. 'Tosi's conclusions are based on a study which he conducted with Dr. Patricia Renwick of the University of California, Ir-

Eighty UC graduate students in administration, 64 male and 16 female, rated bogus resumes on suitability for two mangerial positions as part of a class assignment. Many of the students were employed full-time, and about 39 per cent were single, 54 per cent were married, and even-per cent were divorced.

APPLICANT SEX, marital status, undergraduate major and graduate degree were systematically varied to yield 100 different resumes. The resumes were divided into 10 sets, each evaluated by eight students.

"The results indicate that all factors are important." Tosi said.

He added, however, that the experience of the job applicant, particularly field of specialization and graduate degree, plays a more influential role in these decisions than do personal characteristics such as sex or marital status.

"Overall, the most desirable job candidate was a married male with two children." Tosi notes. "He had an undergraduate major in business administration and an MBA.

The next suitable applicant was a single woman with an MBA and an undergraduate major in industrial sociology.

A divorced male was considered least suitable, with a single woman close be-hime. Both candidates had undergraduate majors in history and M.S. degrees in administration.

"IF SEX is the only background informa-tion given about a candidate," Tose said, "evaluators rely on stereotypical notions about the educational backgrounds of males and females."

education programs the child will receive. In 1974, the federal government passed the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act. It states that public school records of a child must be made available to the parents upon request.

"This act is so new that many parents are not even aware they can have access to their children's records," she observed. Another new act many people are not aware of is Public Act 296 of 1974. Among the provisions of this new adoption law, is an adoption subsidy for parents adopting children who are normally hard to place.

"For example, if adults adopt a child requiring medical care, they can get an adoption subsidy to help pay for medical costs," she added.

A CONTROVERSIAL piece of legislation is pending House Bill 4704. If passed, one aspect of the bill would amend the Juvenile Code so that the probate court would no longer have jurisdiction over status of-

Status offenses are those acts which would not be considered a crime if commited by an adult. (running away from home, playing hooky, etc.).

Many of the probate judges do not think status offenses should be taken away from their jurisdiction. So they helped write

House Bill 6034, which would also amend the Juvenile Code, but would leave status offenders under their jurisdiction.

"The House Judiciary Committee is currently looking into both bills," said Ms. Brook. "They hope to blend the best of both bills and come up with a substitute one in the fall."

Livonia's Ford Field. Rotary Park and the new Bicentennial Park all have one thing in common. When a baseball game is played at those fields, an occasional ground ball will take a bad hop and even hit some players in the face.

'We were scrimmaging Adray Photo." explained John Colley, Redford Adray manager who coaches in the summer Livonia Adray League. "In the warm-ups, their first baseman was hit right in the nose by a ground ball and their third baseman was almost hit in the head

Colley said that he feels the high school fields in the area are in better shape than the recreation fields because the high school coaches have more knowledge about how to take care of a diamond.

Roger Frayer, coach at Livonia Churchill and a manager in the Livonia Connie Mack League. also feels that one of the problems with recreation fields is that workers do not add the fine touches that could make a good playing surface a great

Fred Crissey. Plymouth Canton coach and manager of a Connie Mack team, agrees with Frayer and Colley that the workers who maintain the fields should have more knowledge about how to do it.

"I think it would be a good program if they could get the players who play on these fields the job of maintaining them." said Crissey. "Of course, they would have to be paid the standard rate the recreation

"Most of the fields are tough to play on." he said. "From what I have heard, the city does not have enough money to hire more workers. But I don't think they need more workers. Maybe someone could be hired to show the workers a better way to get the fields in condition to play. Frayer offers a suggestion to keep Ford Field the area's premier baseball facility.

"Bicentennial is supposed to get lights at one of the diamonds. That could cut down on play at Ford Field. All of the Livonia Class E games could be played there (at Bicentennial), with the Connie Mack and the Adray games at Ford Field."

Frayer said that if his suggestion were followed, the area around third base at Ford Field would not have a rough spot which produces a lot of bad hops as it does now. The present situation exists because the vounger Class E third basemen play on the grass, while the older players position themselves behind the bag on the dirt.

O&E golfers face test

By DOUG FUNKE

What kind of challenge will Whispering Willows Golf Course present to linkswomen and linksmen next month during the eighth annual Observer & Eccentric Open Golf Tournament?

Judging from scores recorded in competition last year, a pretty stiff challenge. Dave Wall topped the championship flight in 1975 with an actual total of 147 for the two-day tourney-five strokes over par. Winners of the other three flights produced even higher scores. "Whispering Willows is not a lengthy course." said Gary Whitener, club pro and tournament director. "The premium is not on length but on accuracy and the ability to use all the clubs in the bag-irons off the tee and the three-wood on the fair-

The course, owned and maintained by the City of Livonia, plays to par-71 at 6,265 yards. It is at Eight Mile and Newburgh

The holes on the course are as varied as the clubs in one's bag. Some fairways are wide open and others are narrow. Water comes into play on several holes. Accuracy is generally preferred to distance.

Golfers should not be deceived as to the apparent ease of the course by the first hole-a 460-yard par five with a wide fairway and an inviting, expansive green.

That test is merely a confidence builder. for things get extremely sticky at the second hole

A narrow shute lines a tree-studded fairway 337 yards downhill to the pin. The fairway is approximately 30 yards wide, with nothing but trouble for a distance hitter with a slight hook or slice.

The same situation exists on number 11, which runs parallel to the second hole. Golfers are further confounded on the 11th by a pond three-quarters of the way from the tee to the green on the 390-yard test. Whitener described the 11th as the most difficult par four on the course. "It's a pretty hole, but so tough. Both men and women hate playing it.

Competitors will not have a chance for a breather on the 12th, the longest par four on the course at 435 yards. Whitener suggested that the 11-12 combination is the toughest section of the course. The 14th, a 205-yard par three, is an uphill trek with a narrow fairway, a large tree to the left of the green and traps both to the right and the left of the putting sur-Club selection, always crucial, may be difficult, especially if the wind is blowing toward the tee. Whitener said that 14 is the most challenging par three on the course.

Golfers will face other tricky holes-a green built like a mound on 13, a fairway that narrows to a creek in funnel-like fashion on 18 and a 485-yard monster with fair way bunkers on seven. Whispering Willows is not only the kind of course on which it is easy for the novice. to get in trouble early and flounder most of the round.

It is also the type on which a fairlysteady player can lose strokes little by little to par then wonder what happened at the end

In addition to the toughies, which make up most of the course, there are several holes in which pars and birdies are distinct possibilities The first hole is a good example and so too are eight, a 170-yard par three, and 16, a 125-yard par-three. By the time the competitors reach those par threes, patience and steadiness will be the keys to success.

Established in 1921, Fox Hills operated privately for many years as the Plymouth Country Club. The course went public in the '60s, but deterioration of club house and pool eventually led to the closing of those facilities and use of the course also fell into decline.

The 35 nominees for the race have been weighted by racing secretary Frank Grand Jr., with Forego, two-time Horse of the Year, receiving top weight of 136 pounds. Forego, however, has done all of his racing in New York and is not expected to alter that pattern.

Foolish Pleasure, the 1975 Kentucky Derby winner, was given the next high weight of 128 pounds, but is expected to keep commitments in the East.

It remains to be seen if Brustigert's potential measures up to the proven stand ards of some of the stakes winners that are likely to start in the Mile. Two of them, Sharp Gary, assigned 118 pounds, and Brilliant Sandy, given the same weight, are consistent stakes performers.

Sharp Gary is a five-year-old gelding sired by 1961 Kentucky Derby winner Carry Back. Sharb Gary won $176,431 in 1975 and this year to date, has bankrolled $93.361. Local riding star Sam Maple is likely to be aboard Sharp Gary.

Brilliant Sandy is a four-year-old Canadian-bred colt sired by 1963 Michigan Mile winner Crimson Satan. Brilliant Sandy has started nine times this year, all in Canada, and has won four of those outings, including a victory in the Maturity Stakes at Woodbine in Toronto.

Very few bowlers will realize it, but many of them will be bowling on Japanese lanes when the new season gets underway

It isn't that the lanes were built in Japan. Quite the opposite. They are proof that the Japanese became victims of overbuilding and were forced to close many of eir establishments.

When this happened the major companies in the bowling business were forced take back their equipment. This includthe lanes. They were shipped back to the states and now are being sold to new houses or replacements for the older lanes

The reason for the blow-up in Japan is the fact that the proprietors over there didn't take the time to organize leagues.

When the game was introduced, "open" bowling held sway. So good was business that leagues-the backbone of any established-were not organized.

When enthusiasm of the "open" bowlers faded, there was nothing left but failure.

It may be a good thing that not many bowlers know of the installation of the Japaenese lanes. It would give them another excuse for poor showings.

New Colorless Cream Lets You

Get Rid of Gray Hair Some Of It Or All Of It

Time-lapse photographs show how gradual action of Grecian Formula 16 lets you control just how much gray you slowly, simply get rid of-some of it or all of it

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. - Hundreds of thousands of men all over the country are now using a remarkable, practically clear liquid to get rid of just as much gray as they want—some of it, most of it or all of it. It is called Grecian Formula 16 and the results are simply amazing. Now Grecian Formula 16 is available in colorless cream form. It's as easy to use as hair cream. This remarkable formula works for any color hair because it combines with the natural chemistry of the hair to recreate natural-looking color. There is no mess and no rub-off. You simply use it every day for two or three weeks until you slowly get rid of just as much gray as you want. Some of it, most of it or all of it. You are in complete control of how much gray goes or stays, Then simply use Grecian Formula 16 once a week or so to keep it that way. With Grecian Formula 16 the resulting color is so completely natural that the hair definitely does not have a dyed Took. New Grecian not have a dyed look. New Grecian Formula 16 colorless cream and famous Grecian Formula 16 clear liquid are now both available at

Mengert, Fortuna roll to golf victory

Al Mengert, golf pro at Oakland Hills Country Club in Birmingham, and his assistant Tom Fortuna set a tourament record with a 17-under-par 127 to win the Professional-Assistant Golf Championship held at the Birmingham Country Club, Aug. 16.

It was the second year in a row that Mengert and Fortuna have won the tworound, best-ball tournament and the second consecutive year that they have not gone over par on any hole. Their 17-underpar score broke the record they set last year of 13 under and earned them $400

The only time Mengert and Fortuna were in danger of recording a bogie was on the 185-yard, par-three seventh hole. After Fortuna had already bogied, Mengert hit his tee shot into a bunker. However. Mengert blasted out of the sand and then sank a 12 foot putt to save par. Mengert, over the course of the tournament, hit for 11 birdies and one eagle, while Fortuna had eight birdies.

This was the eighth team championship

John Williams and Steve Groves, the pros at the Orchard Lake Country Club, just finished in the money with a 139, putting them in a tie for 13th which was rewarded with a check for $67.50 apiece.

Other area participants included: Larry Tomasino and Bob McGillen, Wabeek C.C. 141: Tom Deaton and Kevin Leary, Franklin Hills C.C., 142; Gene Bone and Chuck Leyman, Bay Pointe G.C., 144; Ray Maguire and Craig Immel, Birmingham C.C., 144; Jim Dewling and Mike Bergsma, Great Oaks C.C., 145; Gary Whitener and Tom Sheldon, Whispering Willows G.C., 152; Earl Myers and Rod Yaich, Dun Rovin G.C., 153; and Gary Potter and Tom Evans, Shenandoah C.C., 157.

TOYOTA TOYOTA TOYOTA TOYOTA

OVER DEALER COST!

THE LONG ... AND ... THE SHORT

If you've got a big load on your mind, get a load of what Toyota's got for you. More small trucks to choose from with more power and more standard equipment than any-standard equipment unanaly-body in the business. Take our ½ Ton. It's our lowest priced. Yet you still get a big 22 liter engine. 4 speed syncromesh, power disc front brakes with 9 in booster, radisyncromesh, power tack that brakes with 9 in booster, radiator with reserve tank and cargo tie-down hooks. Not to mention things like whitewalls, mudguards and power-boosted flow-thru ventilation. All standard. For bigger loads, our Long Bed gives you almost a foot and a half longer cargo space, a longer wheelbase and bigger gas tank. And if you're a sportsman, we've got two sporting propositions, our SR-5 Sport Trucks. Choose either '½-ton or long bed and you get gassaving, engine-saving 5-speed overdrive transmission, AM radio wide radials, high back bucket seats, rading stripes and a lot of other extras. All standard equipment no charge. More, it's getting an outfit that filts your needs, outlitted the way you want for less.
