

Police have suspect in hammer killing

No warrant has been issued yet in last Friday's brutal hammer murder of Carolyn Kovacs, but police have a suspect.

Det. Ray Allen, of the Wayne County Sheriff's, said police are looking for information about a white male, who was described by a witness as about 25 years old, between 5 feet-10 and six feet tall, about 170 pounds, with light brown curly hair and a light brown mustache. He was wearing a blue ski jacket and driving a light blue '70 or '71 Ford Torino.

"If anyone saw a man fitting this description in the general area of the Red Roof Inn last Friday, I would like to hear from him," said Allen.

MS. KOVACS, 20, of Livonia, was the night clerk on duty at the Red Roof Inn on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township last Friday.

Sometime after 5:30 a.m. she was hit in the head repeatedly with a hammer during a robbery of the motel. She died a few hours later at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia following emergency surgery for wounds to the face and head.

Although police originally said robbery was the motive for the woman's murder, they are now theorizing that she knew her assailant and was killed to prevent her from supplying identification.

According to police accounts, Ms. Kovacs made a wake-up call to a guest at the motel at about 5:30 a.m. Friday. When the guest came to the desk to pay his bill about 20 minutes later, a man came out of the manager's office and said the clerk was hurt and he didn't know how to work the motel phone board.

He asked the guest to run out and call for help. The guest ran to the Dawn Donut Shop and phoned the Plymouth Township Fire Department. But when he returned to the motel, the man was gone and the door was locked.

The township rescue unit arrived at the motel and called the Sheriff's Department when they couldn't gain entry. The police broke the door open and found the woman on the floor.

Because the office where Ms.

Kovacs worked locked from the inside, police say she may have opened the door to someone she knew or to someone she believed to have business at the motel.

The guest who called for help supplied police with the description of the man who came out of the manager's office.

"We have narrowed the field somewhat and collected a lot of evidence," stated Det. Allen. "But we still have a lot of work to do. It's still an open case as far as I'm concerned."

Anyone seeing a man looking like this near the Red Roof Inn Thursday, Feb. 3, is urged to call the Wayne County Sheriff's detective bureau.

Popular Buckeye

Ohio State Buckeyes are the most loved athletics in the territory—normally. But one popular Buckeye is Jim Ellinghausen, the star center last year for the Salem Rocks now starting center for OSU. "Ely" was in Crisler Arena recently for a game against The Mighty Blue and drew a lot of homefolks to the contest to see for former local prep star perform. Man, 83, wounds stepson 3 times

By CRAIG PIECHURA

An 83-year-old Canton Township man shot his stepson three times with a .22 caliber pistol at approximately 9:30 p.m. Sunday night following an argument over a phone bill, according to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

The stepson, Lloyd Cash, 22, is listed in "fair condition" at the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Because of the age of the alleged assailant and Cash's reluctance to press charges, the stepfather, Robert Nichols, 83, was not picked up for questioning.

"It doesn't look like the old gent's going anywhere," said Wayne County Sheriff Lt. Gene Derengowski.

Sheriff officials said that immediately after the shooting Cash said that his stepfather accidentally shot him "after fooling around with the trigger mechanism" of the pistol. In the hospital, sheriff's officials said, Cash became unruly with attendants and talked about pressing charges against his stepfather.

When asked by the Observer Tuesday afternoon if he wanted his stepfather prosecuted, Cash said, "I better not say."

Nichols is a long-time resident of Canton Township and lives at 6133 Canton Center Road, with Cash and Mrs. Bertha Nichols, 64, Cash's mother.

On Monday, Nichols came to the side door and said he was the only person who had a gun in the room when the shooting occurred.

"It was a family argument," Nichols said before closing the door. Sheriff Deputy Tom Sheedy said in his report the argument started when Nichols questioned Cash about running up a high phone bill.

CASH'S NAME became prominent in the news two years ago during the Terry Buchman murder trials. Cash was the main prosecution witness in the separate trials of Barry Provow, his wife Leslie, and Robert Umney, all of whom were charged with murder in the shotgun slaying of young Buchman. Cash was travelling in the car with the Provows and Umney at the time when the car was stopped at Ridge and Joy roads—the site where Buchman was slain. Cash and Buchman were reportedly with Provow to arrange a meeting between Provow and a man who owed Provow money.

Provow is serving a life sentence for Buchman's murder.

One of Nichols' neighbors said he didn't believe "the old man" would indiscriminately shoot "unless he had a reason."

"That old man is a fine man," said Coburn "Butch" Dennis III, who works behind the counter of Dennis' Market, located across the street from Nichols' home. Seconds after the shooting, Cash ran into Dennis' Market for help, knowing that the store was open until 10 p.m.

"His mother and him came running in saying, 'Call the police.' Lloyd went behind the counter and the blood was falling on the floor. So I called Canton rescue and they came in about two minutes, followed by the Wayne County Sheriff's, the Canton Police and another sheriff's car."

"Lloyd's mother kept repeating 'Bob shot him,' and Lloyd kept looking over his shirt to see how many times he was shot."

Dennis said Cash was bleeding heavily around the left shoulder blade. The sheriff's report says the bullets hit Cash just below the throat, in the upper chest and the left arm.

"Lloyd was walking around, wanting to go home and pick up some money," Dennis continued. "He must've been in shock."

"I guess I'm all right," Cash said Tuesday, "but I'm pretty sore. I'd rather not say any more."

Cash is employed as a welder at Bathey Manufacturing in Plymouth.

After being hit by three bullets allegedly fired by his 83-year-old stepfather, Lloyd Cash, 22, ran from the home (left) at 6133 N. Canton Center Road to Dennis' Market, across the street. There, Coburn "Butch" Dennis III called Canton rescue. Cash is expected to be released from the hospital today and is consulting with an attorney to determine whether he will press charges against his stepfather, Robert Nichols. (Staff photo)

5 dropped from ZBA; 5 new people selected

Five members of the "null and void" Canton Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) lost their seats Tuesday night and five new people have been appointed to take their place.

Walter Guth, an attorney for the township's law firm of Sempliner, Thomas and Guth, announced Tuesday that the Canton Board of Trustees, under the Greenstein administration, didn't form or appoint a valid zoning board of appeals on Sept. 28, 1976 because the local zoning ordinance didn't comply with state statute.

The state statute, Public Act 131, went into effect last summer requiring all municipalities with 5,000 or more residents to have at least five people on the zoning board of appeals.

The mandatory statute demanded that each municipality in Michigan amend its local zoning ordinance and state in that ordinance whether the minimum five people or more would be appointed to the ZBA.

Ex-supervisor Robert Greenstein expanded Canton's three member ZBA to five on Sept. 28 by appointing himself and four others who were labeled Greenstein's "cronies" by Trustee Brian Schwall.

Tuesday night Guth said that although Greenstein appointed the correct number of people to the ZBA, the appointments were invalid because the local ordinance was never changed to specify how many people shall sit on the township's ZBA.

The township did not see fit to do this (amend the ordinance) and that is why I say you do not have a duly constituted zoning board," Guth said.

Any decisions made by the invalidated ZBA would stand by de facto authority, Guth explained. He likened the situation to a military instance in which a sergeant gives orders before being notified that he's been demoted to a private's rank. The orders are legal by de facto judgment.

JIM DONAHUE, deposed chairman of the defunct ZBA, vowed to seek a higher legal opinion on the validity of the Sept. 28 appointments from Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley. Donahue said he already has asked State Senator Bill Faust to request a ruling from Kelley.

Last month Donahue received a letter from John Bauckham, attorney for the Michigan Townships Association, which Donahue feels supports his claim that the ZBA appointments were valid even though the local ordinance was deficient.

Other men to lose their seats on the ZBA include Greenstein, Tom Quinn, John Burdziak and Robert Miller.

All five people that Stein recommended to replace the five deposed members were approved by the board of trustees by a 6-1 vote Tuesday night.

Trustee Robert Myers explained that his no votes were not a sign of displeasure at Stein's recommendations.

His no votes were an indication of reservations about the legality of appointing new people to the ZBA without going through normal zoning ordinance amendment procedure.

WILLIAM SEMPLINER, attorney for the township, advised the board last month that it could change the local zoning ordinance to comply with the state statute by board action, followed by publication and finally board adoption. The new ordinance, which states that Canton will have a five-member ZBA, was adopted at the Jan. 25 township board meeting.

According to Stein, a malfunction in the flashing light at Sheldon and Hanford has already been repaired.

"It is of the utmost importance that Canton Township have a good working relationship with both of these units in order to keep up the conditions of the streets and highways within the township as well as future improvements," the supervisor said.

Canton seeks grant for police

Canton board members have joined hands with officials in Belleville, Sumpter and Van Buren in hopes of winning a federal grant to purchase police equipment and construct a radio tower.

Canton Supervisor Harold Stein said the federal LEAA grant would finance 95 per cent of the purchase and construction costs. Canton, Belleville, Sumpter and Van Buren would share the remaining five per cent.

The grant would allow the Canton Police Department to replace its one-channel radio system with a multi-channel system, connected to the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the Michigan State Police.

Stein said the $100,000 radio tower would probably be constructed in Belleville.

The supervisor said he did not know how many individual police radios the township would purchase.

More traffic signs pledged to Canton

Canton Township should be a safer place for motorists in the months to come, if promises from the Wayne County Road Commission and the Michigan State Highway Department to install additional traffic signals and signs are realized.

Canton Supervisor Harold Stein met with representatives of the state and county agencies several times over the last few months and convinced the highway officials of the need for more traffic signals and signs.

ACKNOWLEDGING the support of Wayne County Commissioner Royce Smith and State Sen. William Faust in the traffic matter, Stein said representatives of the two highway agencies have agreed to:

Install a flashing light at Cherry Hill and Haggerty around May 1 to supplement the existing two-way stop sign. Three accidents were reported at the intersection in 1976.

Install traffic lights at I-275 off-ramps at Ann Arbor Road, Ford Road and the southbound off-ramp at Michigan.

Installation of the lights is promised within 60 days.

Install "no parking" and "fire route" signs in many of the township's subdivisions within 90 days.

According to Stein, a malfunction in the flashing light at Sheldon and Hanford has already been repaired.

"It is of the utmost importance that Canton Township have a good working relationship with both of these units in order to keep up the conditions of the streets and highways within the township as well as future improvements," the supervisor said.

Competition good for youth—to a degree

By W.W. EDGAR

Surprise followed surprise in the first report released recently by the state legislature's special committee on youth sports programs. This followed an exhaustive scientific study by Michigan's major universities on young people's participation in organized sports.

The study is the first full-scale scientific investigation of the impact of youth sports undertaken in the United States, and was initiated by Congressman Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) a year ago when he was a member of the state senate.

The researchers from the state's top school—Michigan, Michigan State, Wayne State and Lake Superior

State—stated that they were "amazed" at the level of participation in non-school sports.

This was just the start of the surprises. Among the others were:

- The extent of participation of both males and females that far exceeded major expectations.

- They were amazed by the numbers of individuals participating in what they termed agency-sponsored sports with few or no controls.

- A general drop-off in participation throughout the state range of sports activities was observed at about the 12-to 13-year age level.

- Female participation in contact sports tended to be more extensive than anticipated.

Non-school sports programs show the most growth where school programs are less extensive, especially for elementary and middle school students.

- Assumptions about the relative popularity of the various sports, ice hockey, for example, which was thought to be the most popular rated 10th in total participation. Baseball was the most popular among the males with one of every three boys participating. This brought the total to 397,000 males for at least part of the season. Hockey had 79,000 participants.

These findings—and surprises—involving collection of data from a representative sample of students age five to 17 in 89 school districts, and reached about five per cent of all students.

The one finding that perplexed Pursell was the general drop-off in activities at the 12-13-year age level.

"I think these young people are being put under too much stress for their age. They are being coached under the slogan that winning is everything—and they play too many games."

Pursell's own son is a dropout in the Plymouth program.

The congressman ventured the thought that youngsters no longer engage in these activities for fun. It is win, win, win, or else. And a hockey team playing up to 90 games a season is far too much of a strain.

"We have a lot of fun," he said. "and the boys benefit from it."

He also would curtail the number of games played each year and bring the program back to the point for which it was intended.

The report, just released, was for the first year of what is planned as a three-year study. The second phase now is under way and will focus attention on the reason for the dropouts in the 12-13 age level.

Since the first-year investigation was completed, Pursell, who was co-chairman of the committee, has been elected U.S. representative from the 2d District and was forced to leave the committee. He has been replaced by Sen. Gary Corbin (D-Chicago).

Fulkerson can keep fenced lot

Attorney Dave Berry hopes some out-of-court negotiating with a recreational vehicle storage business owner will save Canton officials time and money.

Township officials recently gave Berry the power to settle the lengthy litigation with businessman Jim Fulkerson, owner of Fulkerson Landscaping and recreational vehicle storage business at 6229 Canton Center.

The township maintained in its suit that Fulkerson established his non-conforming business without "proper" approval. A courtroom decision against Fulkerson could have forced the businessman to shut down his vehicle storage operation.

BUT BERRY, who claims the township's legal grounds for the case are somewhat shaky, said he will drop the case against Fulkerson if the businessman agrees to drop a counter lawsuit against the township.

Fulkerson is seeking $25,000 in damages for alleged discriminatory application of the township's zoning ordinance. Some months ago he successfully sought a restraining order from Wayne Circuit Judge Roman Gribbs to stop the township from enforcing a $100-a-day fine for ordinance violations.

Fulkerson said Berry has not yet approached his attorneys with a proposed out-of-court settlement.

"I don't what he (Berry) means by settling the case," he said. "Until he approaches us, I don't know what's going to happen. My lawsuit is not just for $25,000. It's mainly to stay in business."

The lawsuits revolve around Fulkerson's right to store recreational vehicles on his commercially-zoned property—a non-conforming use under the township's zoning ordinance.

Fulkerson has claimed that he received oral permission from former Supervisor Philip Dingeldey to operate the non-conforming business. According to Fulkerson, Dingeldey said he discussed the matter with township board members.

Berry said Dingeldey recently confirmed Fulkerson's claims in a legal deposition, which conflicted with the former supervisor's earlier statements. Originally, Dingeldey said Fulkerson never received oral permission, according to the attorney.

"BUT THERE'S NO question that Fulkerson failed to receive 'proper' approval," Berry maintains. Under a township ordinance, the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) must stamp its approval on all non-conforming uses. Fulkerson did not receive ZBA permission.

"But our legal position is still questionable," said Berry, who recommended an out-of-court settlement for the case. "We don't have an open-and-shut case here."

Berry fears a courtroom judge would use the "Estoppel principle" in ruling on the case. Under that principle, an action is deemed legal, if the defendant relies on the word of a seemingly reliable authority and consequently takes action without any effort to cover up his deed.

"That principle may apply in these circumstances," the attorney said.

But even if the township won the case against Fulkerson, and forced closure of his recreational vehicle storage business, Berry wonders what the township would gain.

Landscaping equipment is stored outside a building across from Fulkson's property, the attorney noted. A major reason for the township's lawsuit was to force Fulkerson to remove "unsheltered" equipment from his premises.

Berry said the case is scheduled to go to trial "very soon" in Wayne County Circuit Court. The attorney hopes the case will never reach the trial stage.

"That's the most expensive part of it," he said. The case has already cost the township more than $4,000 in legal fees.

Physical education plans may be deterred by cost

By GLENN BUNTING

The Plymouth Board of Education conducted another informal meeting Monday night in its series of discussion workshops designed to assist members with budget decisions concerning the proposed $30 million bond issue.

This week's agenda focused on athletics and produced feedback from the school district's coaches and educators, in addition to parents from the Plymouth-Canton Junior Athletic Association (PCJAA).

John Sandmann, Plymouth Community Schools' athletic director, informed the board of his program's needs and problems that lie ahead in the immediate future. Among them are difficulties with coaches, middle school sports and athletic facilities.

The availability of coaches within our school system is nowhere near the number it should be," Sandmann said. "We're recruiting coaches outside the district more and more to the point where I'm becoming very concerned.

"WE PRESENTLY have a dozen coaches on our staff who do not teach in our schools. I have always felt that communications between player and coach concerning personal and eligibility problems are hampered by this situation."

Sandmann admitted, however, that he doesn't expect the board to act on the problem because the solution would mean hiring more teachers as coaches.

Combining middle school sports programs with the PCJAA to reduce expenditures for both sides is a possibility Sandmann would like to pursue. He said a meeting with the PCJAA might prove beneficial both financially and for the area youngsters.

The board encouraged the possibility of a merger, favorably citing the PCJAA's priorities on participation instead of a win-at-all-cost attitude.

Probably the worst news Sandmann gave the board was a need for maintenance on the high school's track and tennis facilities. All 14 tennis courts need resurfacing at $1,000 apiece because of poor installation and heavy use, Sandmann said.

"The track at the high school is one of the finest facilities in the area, but it needs upkeep," the athletic director said. "Both facilities are used for athletic and recreational purposes and should be included in the bond issue."

MUCH TIME was devoted to the problem of physical education instruction at the elementary level.

The current program calls for 40 minutes of physical education per week. Often, youngsters don't even change shoes for the class, one teacher said.

"I am appalled by the elementary physical education program," said Marcia Borowski, school board member.

"We need to establish a solid program that will indicate to the children why they need physical education, not to discourage them into a spectator role."

One teacher indicated that an elaborate program was set up last year, but was curtailed because of a lack of funds.

Medical zoning aired

The Canton Planning Commission has scheduled a public hearing for 8 p.m. Feb. 15 to reap residents' feelings toward the proposed rezoning of a 4.59-acre parcel at the southeast corner of Cherry Hill and Lille.

From residential to commercial classification.

The rezoning would allow construction of a

Phase one would probably include one or two buildings, he said.

An 11-acre parcel adjacent to the site of the proposed medical complex is zoned for commercial use.

The public hearing on the proposed rezoning for the medical complex will be held in the township firehall on Canton Center at Cherry Hill.

Coyote bounty rapped

Removal of the bounty on coyotes, establishment of a statewide environmental education program and passage of land use legislation are the top legislative goals of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) for the this year.

Announcement of the goals was made recently by Thomas L. Washington, MUCC executive director. He said the goals are based on the collective concerns of the association's 100,000 members.

"Last year was a historic one for conservation and the environment in Michigan," Washington said. "Citizens went to the polls to enact a ban on wasteful throwaway containers. Our state senators and representatives delivered a most welcome array of badly needed conservation legislation.

"But in spite of this impressive volume of outstanding legislation, much remains to be done to improve the climate for conservation and the environment in Michigan."

MUCC's list of legislative goals for 1977 are:

- Removal of the bounty on coyotes ($15 for males; $20 for females).
- Environmental education.
- Land use legislation.
- Preservation of wetlands.
- Phosphate control.
- Solid waste disposal.
- Canoeing restrictions.

Greed grab

Five local people went on a mad shopping spree Tuesday morning at Great Scott's Ann Arbor-Shelton store as winners in the store's reopening celebration. The supermarket sweep winners were given two minutes to fill their shopping carts. The biggest haul was made by Mary Beth Reef, of Wildwing, Plymouth, who netted $144 worth of groceries. She was followed by Sara Epps of Plymouth who snatched up $119 worth of goods; L.H. Hicks of Plymouth with $115 worth of food; Phyllis Cape of Plymouth with $111 in food and Leonora Bird of Carriage Hill subdivision in Canton who took home $79 in free food. Canton's Ray Hendrick won a color television set from the supermarket. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

C of C says business in Canton isn't hurting

Editor:

The Canton Chamber of Commerce wishes to refute some irresponsible statements made by Peter Budarini in the Jan. 10 issue of the Canton Observer (Letters to the Editor section).

He states that the Kmart store No. 3231 at Ford and Sheldon Road is doing poorly. A Kresge Corporation spokesman states that in the past year their volume has increased by 11 per cent in sales, they are very encouraged with the current rate of growth, and business is ahead of their expectations.

TERRY GRIFFITH, manager of the Meijers Thrifty Acres Canton store, says they are very satisfied with progress and looking forward to more business as the Canton community grows.

Bruce Engleman, owner of the Harvard Square Shopping Center, says the Kroger supermarket is consistently in the top two in volume sales in all of southeastern Michigan.

He points out that many of the smaller businesses are very successful. Of 23 new businesses to open in Canton, three have closed, three have expanded. This can hardly be called "musical chairs." He stated national statistics reveal that one business out of two will fail in a two-year period. This places Harvard Square well within the national standards.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce tries to maintain harmonious relationship with local government, to foster constructive legislation for the Canton community. We need cooperation, rather than destructive criticism of our newly-elected officials. Let's all work together for the betterment of Canton.

THE CANTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Middle school idea unsound: Stolmar

Editor:

The decision must be made soon as to how the Plymouth Community School District will solve the over-crowding in our schools.

Obviously this will involve many changes in our present structure and the construction of new facilities. I suggest that this is an excellent time to revamp the entire system and correct its one big mistake.

How a concerned, intelligent community could so disregard the basic concept that everyone, especially children and adolescents, learn better in a secure environment, and yet build such a vast empire for learning as Canton and Salem high schools, is beyond me.

I strongly urge the board of education, the new special committee, and especially the community, to drop entirely the middle school concept and have instead junior high schools. Keeping our sixth graders in grade school and seventh, eighth and ninth graders in junior high would not only cut down on the high school attendance, but more importantly, we would be sending our kids into a much more sophisticated atmosphere when they are ready to handle it (both sixth and ninth graders).

The average age of a ninth grader is 13 or 14 years and most are just starting to fight for their own identity. Peer pressure, the opposite sex, associations, curriculum choices, and trying for more independence, are all hitting them. Most are just not ready to enter a high school which is so large they have difficulty finding their classrooms let alone a familiar face.

That alone can't help but cause some insecurities. But we make things even worse by adding another new element in school-free time. Insecurity and free time at that age are dangerous. I've talked to too many parents who are astounded, and not positively so, at the changes in their kids the first few months in high school.

I have two children and three step-children. Except for one, they are all teenagers. There is a vast difference between a ninth and 10th grader in the ways they deal with problems, in attitude, and in knowing themselves. Let's stop pushing our kids too fast. Start high school at the 10th grade level, junior high at the seventh, and we'd all have fewer problems.

Hopefuls split on death penalty, ERA

By DARLENE STINSON

Of the candidates for a 14th District State Senate seat who attended a candidates night sponsored by the League of Women Voters, only Republican R. Robert Geake spoke in favor of capital punishment and a movement to rescind Michigan's ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA).

Speaking against capital punishment and in favor of the ERA were: Republican Mary Dumas, a current member of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners; Republican Jane Moehle; Democrat Paul Kadish, chairman of Schoolcraft College's Board of Trustees; Republican Raymond Kimble; Democrat Patrick McDonald, Redford Township Supervisor; and Democrat Daniel Gillis.

Republican Joseph Bida, mayor of the City of Plymouth, attended Tuesday's meeting but left early before the ERA and capital punishment issues were discussed. Bida was scheduled to speak to a homeowners group in Redford Township.

Candidates Josephine D. Hunsinger and Douglas MacKenzie, both Democrats, did not attend Tuesday's meeting.

The candidates—five Democrats and five Republicans—are vying for the senate seat vacated by Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), who won a congressional post in November's election. A special primary election for the state senate post is scheduled for Feb. 23.

The 14th State Senate District includes Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Livonia, Redford and part of Westland.

GEAKE. CURRENT state representative for the 35th District which includes part of Livonia, was the only candidate at Tuesday's meeting who said he would support a possible move in the Michigan Legislature to rescind the state's ratification of the ERA.

"It's not that I'm against women's rights. It's just that I don't believe there's a need for an Equal Rights Amendment in Michigan, because Michigan has made so much progress in equal rights."

"I just see no reason why we should hand women's rights over to the federal government."

But other candidates at Tuesday's meeting disagreed. All said they support the ERA and would oppose any movement to rescind ratification of the measure.

Perhaps Ms. Dumas spoke the most strongly.

"I staunchly support the Equal Rights Amendment. I support the rights of women, and I believe good legislation has been passed just under pressure of the ERA."

Regarding reenactment of the death penalty in Michigan, Geake again held different views than his political opponents. He said the death penalty should be given to persons convicted of first-degree murder; murder involving kidnapping or the rape of a child; multiple murders; murder of a police officer; or murder connected with a felony, such as armed robbery.

BUT OTHER CANDIDATES said they have seen little evidence that supports the theory of the death penalty reducing crime.

Kimball said he would seek input on the death penalty from residents of the 14th District, before voted on any measures to reenact capital punishment. He added, however, "I certainly don't agree with regression (in reenacting the death penalty)."

Gillis, McDonald and Mrs. Dumas said parole officials may be too lenient in granting parole to prisoners. They said they would support a minimum sentence with no chance of parole for certain prisoners.

Mrs. Moehle suggested research to determine why criminal behavior occurs and the type of family environment which possibly breeds crime. Gillis said Michigan needed a "better" judicial system, because many persons accused of first-degree murder are never convicted.

According to McDonald, not enough state funds are channeled into the rehabilitation of criminals. "If we're willing to commit ourselves to this we may make some strides toward the elimination of crime."

Kadish claimed that 70 per cent of the persons who commit crimes are never caught.

"There is no proof. There are no statistics that capital punishment is a deterrent to crime. In states where there is capital punishment, there's no less crime than in Michigan. If we caught these criminals, that would be the best deterrent to crime."

SC board aims for June 13 vote

A deadlock was broken on the Schoolcraft College board when Chairman Paul Kadish agreed last week to use the June 13 regular election for the college's property tax increase proposal.

Kadish, who had held out earlier for a special April 2 election, agreed that "on June 13 we have a chance. It's not our best chance, but it's a chance."

His switch meant there are now at least five votes on the eight-member board in favor of using the regular election, when three trustees seats are to be filled and when five local K-12 school districts elect their trustees.

THE INFORMAL agreement came during the board's special study session Feb. 2. It is scheduled to be made official at the regular board meeting Feb. 23.

Trustee Mark McQuesten became almost bitter as he held out for a special election to be held when students are on campus.

"In June you do not have a student body on campus. There are thousands of votes not easily gotten to. Student government leaders have expressed a desire to work on the millage campaign," said McQuesten.

But Treasurer Nancie Blatt, who had created the deadlock Jan. 27 when she backed away from the April 2 idea, repledged in June "the K-12 schools are not out yet, the weather is marvelous and people haven't gone on vacation yet."

IF THE JUNE millage question is defeated, chances are the board will come back with another ballot proposal.

"Livonia (school district) came back a second time, asked for more millage and got it," said Trustee Ron Cowden, a Livonia principal. "Coming back a number of times builds the feeling of crisis if it doesn't pass."

And Vice-chairperson Rosina Raymond, who knows what it's like to lose an election or two before winning, added: "You never lose. You just don't always win. You do an education job."

Trustee Leroy Bennett urged the board to proceed with plans to float a $10 million bond issue for campus expansion. Bennett said the loan should be taken even before the millage election to demonstrate to the public that expansion is necessary and the board is serious about it.

Petersen propels in pool

A pair of area tankers—Plymouth's Paul Petersen and Livonia's Scott Christie—grabbed large shares of the limelight last weekend at the 13th annual Bulldog Aquatic Club Age Group and Open A Swim Meet.

Petersen, who participates in the Clarenceville Swim Club, earned the 13-14-year-old age division high-point trophy by placing first in four individual races.

He bested the field in the 50-yard freestyle, 23.23 seconds, the 100-yard freestyle, 52.36 seconds, the 100-yard butterfly, 56.37 seconds, and the 100-yard breaststroke, 1:04.51.

Petersen teamed with Mike Spetz, Gary Pomeroy and Paul Dudley to win his age division 400-yard medley relay.

Christie, who swims with the Bulldog Aquatic Club, also won four individual events to claim the under-10 high-point trophy.

Christie showed the way in the 50-yard freestyle, 29.23 seconds, the 100-yard freestyle, 1:02.91, the 200-yard freestyle, 2:16.76, and the 200-yard individual medley, 2:35.40.

Several other area swimmers also won races in their respective age divisions.

Greg Dawkins, a Westland resident and a member of the Bulldog Aquatic Club, won the 200-yard freestyle for 11-12 year olds in 1:59.5 and combined with Derek Weller, Mike Sisko and David Malinowski to take the 200-yard freestyle relay for that age group.

Mark Winter, competing in the open division, established a new state record for 13-14 year olds by placing second in the 200-yard breaststroke with a clocking of 2:23.38.

Winter lives in Livonia and swims with the Bulldog Aquatic Club.

Linda Hein, who belongs to the Livonia Swim Club, placed first in both the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard butterfly in the women's 15-18-year old division.

She turned in an effort of 25.67 seconds in the freestyle and 59.47 seconds in the butterfly.

Wayne jury gets award

Wayne County's jury reorganization, called "one-day, one-trial," has received the highest award given by the U.S. Department of Justice National Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The jury reorganization differs from the previous method in which jury duty lasted 30 days. The new plan calls for jurors to preside over one case only, and the duty may last only one day.

"This is great," said Judge James N. Canham, chief judge of the third judicial circuit of Michigan.

Holly's granted liquor license

The granting of a liquor license Monday night was the first step in a $200,000 renovation of Holly's Steak and 4 in Plymouth.

When the interior and exterior remodeling is finished, the restaurant now specializing in econo-steaks will be converted to a full menu, family-style dining facility serving liquor by the glass.

The Plymouth City Commission unanimously approved the liquor license Monday night. Abstaining was Scott Dodge because he is a member of the law firm of Draugelis, Ashton and Scully which represented Holly's in requesting a Class C license.

DRAUGELIS began his appeal to the commission by noting the parent company—Holly's Inc. of Grand Rapids—has been in business for 52 years and is a financially stable firm.

He reported the firm is converting all of its econo-steak restaurants in Michigan to full dining facilities and is phasing out those operations not being converted. In Plymouth, Holly's Steak and 4 is located at 1020 Ann Arbor Road at Harvey.

Bill Nasser, director of property appraisal for Holly's, said the renovated restaurant would be open from 11 a.m. to midnight weekdays and that 75 per cent of its sales volume would be food. Plans call for only 12 bar stools, he added, with most of the liquor sales being served at the tables with the meal.

"Our plans are for a sit-down type restaurant appealing to families," said Nasser, "of the same type as Northville Charley's or Bloomfield Charley's. We are employing 23 persons now and when the remodeling is finished, we will employ about 48. We'll be open for lunch and dinner with prices ranging from $2 to $8. The menu will include soup, sandwiches, salad, steak and seafood."

DRAUGELIS NOTED that Holly's is only the second application filed with the city since the commission adopted its new liquor license policy. "And we meet all requirements of that policy and of city ordinances," the attorney said.

The renovated restaurant will have a seating capacity of 198 persons, he added, and parking spaces for 75 vehicles.

"This is a unique opportunity because the petitioner's business is located on the edge of the city. It won't be competing with existing businesses downtown."

Before the commission's vote, City Mgr. Fred Yockey reported that the city has one remaining liquor license to grant. Licenses granted by the city for businesses now in operation include the Box Bar, Napoleon's, Mayflower Hotel, Mayflower Meeting House and the Side Street Box. The commission has given approval to Samuel Panciza for a liquor license for a restaurant he wants to locate in Harold Guenther's building at the C&O tracks and Main Street.

McDonald raps sharing

"The suburbs don't receive their fair share of state and federal revenue-sharing funds," said Patrick McDonald Sunday before a group supporting his candidacy for the 14th District State Senate seat.

McDonald is one of five Democratic candidates vying for the right to face a Republican challenger in the March 23 special election. The Democrats and five Republicans will first square off in the Feb. 23 primary for the seat vacated by U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell R-Plymouth.

McDonald, currently serving his second term as Redford Township supervisor, blamed an unfair allocation formula for providing a substantially greater per capita revenue-sharing allotment to Detroit than to the suburbs.

Citing figures showing the disproportionate sums received by Detroit in comparison to the seven cities in the 14th District (Redford, Plymouth and Northville Townships, Northville, Plymouth, and part of Westland), McDonald called for a new voice for the suburbs.

All municipalities, as well as school districts, have financial needs, not just Detroit. Yet, if the state's new budget is passed, Detroit will receive more than 40 per cent of the $57.7 million increase in this year's state revenue-sharing budget. This would up the motor city's portion to $100.2 million," he argued.

THE DEMOCRATIC candidate pointed out that in addition to this, Gov. Milliken has proposed a $28.8 million equity package for Detroit, a $1.4 million increase in cultural grants, and $9.2 million to pay pension liabilities for the city's bus system.

"I know that Detroit needs help," said the Redford supervisor, "but it is not the only concern of the state."

"Furthermore, little is being done to insure that state funds aren't used to perpetuate existing abuses in such areas as municipal retirement systems and pay rates."

"If Redford Township were to receive the same per capita amounts as the City of Detroit, it would mean an approximate $3.5 million increase, or a 50 per cent increase, in the total dollars now used to provide township services."

"Two points should be made clear. Most municipalities as well as school districts face financial problems because of inflation, not simply Detroit."

Secondly, there should be standards developed to ensure that these large sums of money are efficiently used," McDonald concluded.

While the official figures have not yet been released, one of the most unexpected things is happening on the metropolitan front.

It is the fact that the Detroit Women's Bowling Association has grown so large in its membership that it may surpass the men. And no one ever expected that.

In the latest announcement, the women have a membership of more than 125,000, while the men are pegged at about 135,000.

There is an important difference, though, in the fact that men demand a separate sanction for each league, while the women ask only one sanction. On that basis, there may be more sanctioned women bowlers than men in the area.

It will be interesting to see the latest figures.

ONE OF THE WEEKS features was provided by Herb Haeger and his two sons—Steve and Greg—in the Merri-Bowl.

In one of their three games, Herb posted a 269 while Steve had a 276 and Greg, 232. That gave the combination a 777 game. And Steve went on to roll a 706 series.

THERE'S ANOTHER Setlock on the way up the ladder to stardom on the lanes. For years, Ann Setlock, now the day manager at Garden Lanes, was among the area's best. Now Rick Setlock hit the top last week when he broke the 700 barrier in St. Norbert's loop. He put together games of 258, 256 and 187 for a 701.

Scoring also was good in the Moose League, where Bill Curnow had a 256 game in a 682 series to set the pace. Behind him came Bill Montgomery and Don McHugh, each with 614, while Dick Davis had a 602 and Jess Melendez a 600.

In the classic, Al Messecar was high man with 679. Trailing him were Roger Helle with 643, Jerry Fisher with 637 and Al Scarcelli with 635.

AT WESTLAND, Bob Baker was top man in the senior house league with games of 230, 223 and 225 for 678. Runner-up honors went to Dan Emmett who closed with 238 for 669 and Denny Cooney, who had a 258 in a 654.

THE TWIN-CITY women's tournament got away to a flying start at Wayne Bowl when the Town and Country team posted a 3,066 in the team event and Mary Caldwell teamed with Jane Boyce for 1,325 to lead the doubles.

Yvonne Polkowski topped the singles list with a 703 and Mary Caldwell was at the top of the ladder in the all-events with 1,843.

MARY JANE HUNT used a 256 game to register a 613 in the Thursday classic at Farmington Lanes and Barb Waling, of perfect-game fame, was right behind with a 236 in 598.

In the Friday Noon Classic, Gloria Mertz showed the way with a 635. At that figure, she held a 24-pin margin over Sue Padovich, while Jan Vandewill took third with 593.

In the junior house league, Fred Menke ran away from his rivals with a 262 in 677. Buck Stewart was next with a 639 and Tom Hay landed third with a 636.

TRIPOLITES were the order at Woodland Lanes. Lora Robertson turned in identical counts of 121 and Loris Hasler followed with three games of 106.

Another to gain the Woodland honor roll was Bev East, a 144 average bowler who linked game of 113, 230 and 210 for 613 to go 181 pins over.

Controls billion $$ system

Public meets new SEMTA chief

By TIM RICHARD

The general public recently got its first face-to-face look at the man who will preside over construction of metropolitan Detroit's multi-billion dollar transit system.

Larry E. Salci, 30, of Troy, was promoted to the post of general manager of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA). Salci had been acting general manager since last fall, when Clarence Generette was forced out.

After a meteoric two-year rise within the seven-county transit authority, Salci won the top administrative post over a host of candidates, including former SEMTA board member Walter Douglas and the chief of Denver's transit system.

AS ACTING general manager, Salci was on hand last fall when Gov. William Milliken announced SEMTA was to receive a $600 million federal grant for a rapid transit line.

The week of Feb. 6-12—"Transportation Week" in southeast Michigan—Salci was on the road every night, presenting SEMTA's 13 alternative transit plans to an occasionally hostile, often curious and sometimes bewildered public.

SALCI is no rough, tough Army engineer, as was one of his predecessors, Gen. Thomas Lipscomb (ret.). Nor is he a smooth, smiling political type, like "board chairman" Turner.

A former University of Detroit basketball star (1,000 career points), Salci is fresh-faced and pleasant looking, but except for the accompanying photo, he practically never smiles.

He's business. He earned his BSc in finance and master of business administration degrees from the University of Detroit.

After a stint in the Army, Salci went to work for Chrysler Corp. in Highland Park in such unglamorous jobs as budget analyst, project analyst and accounting supervisor.

He acknowledges his academic background as conservative and himself as a progressive conservative.

Although he's no orator and cautious not to ruffle any political feathers in talking to newsmen, Salci nevertheless managed to impress Turner and other SEMTA board members with the way he handled himself in negotiations with Gov. William G. Milliken, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and county elected officials.

Born in the little western Michigan town of Greenville, Salci came to metropolitan Detroit with his family as a child and graduated from Warren High School.

HIS JOB will be business, contracts, negotiating with the Young administration for purchase of Detroit's bus system and prying money out of the new federal political structure.

Salci's two-year contract is worth $44,000 the first year with a raise of up to 10 per cent (up to $48,400) in the second year.

Promoting a local man from within was an unusual step for the SEMTA board.

First top administrator of SEMTA in 1968 was William Ostenson, a young Southfield lawyer with great expertise at drafting the first SEMTA enabling act. But Ostenson was not an operating manager, and he ultimately returned to his native Seattle to head an economic development corporation.

Lipscomb was hired because he had built and operated the Lindenwood rapid transit line for the Philadelphia area. Lipscomb was forced out over policy differences with the board. Turner said Lipscomb was not particularly enthused about SEMTA's acquiring and merging all local bus systems in the region.

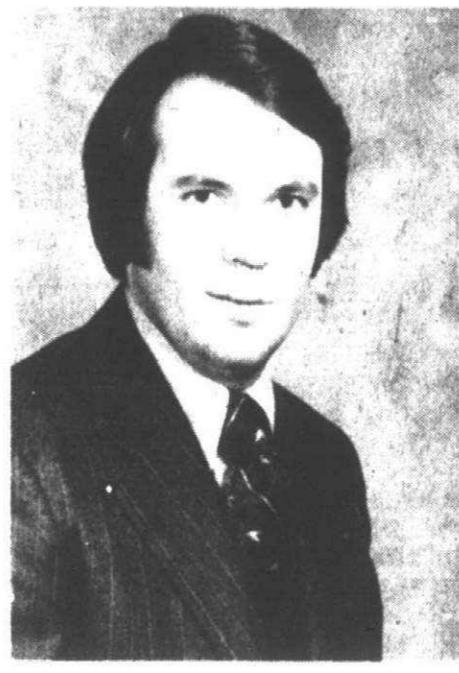

For a spell in the early '70s, SEMTA was headed by an acting general manager, K. Ross Childs. His background was in county management, and he left to become manager of Grand Traverse County.

Generette was a consulting engineer by background and had experience with Cleveland's transit system. He was forced out of SEMTA in 1976 because he was lacking as a public personality and weak on internal staff organization.

TODAY, SEMTA is the closest it has ever been to building a rapid transit line in southeastern Michigan. The Ford administration, in its waning days, pledged $600 million toward an 80 per cent federal share for construction of such a system—once the alternatives analysis is completed.

And the man who will pull the business end of it together will be Salci. He has a wife, the former Karen Lomarich; a daughter Jennifer, 4; Jennifer, 4; and a son Brian, 2.

They haven't seen much of him in recent months during the scurrying after the federal grant. They won't see much of him next week, during the public hearings. And they may not see much of him in the years to come.

VALENTINE'S DANCE

Feb. 12—The VFW's annual Valentine Dance will be held in the Mayflower Post 6696, at 1426 S. Mill just north of Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets

Deane Baker sells the Plymouth Hilton

Deane Baker has sold the Plymouth Hilton Inn, 14707 Northville Road, Plymouth Township, to the IDS Realty Trust of Minneapolis—the firm which owned the Thunderbird before its conversion to the Hilton.

Baker said the real and personal property of the Hilton was transferred to IDS on Feb. 5. Last month, the liquor license involved in the transaction was transferred to IDS.

Baker says he no longer has any assets at $5 per person include dancing to a live band, spaghetti dinner with salad, beer and set-ups (bring your own bottle). Proceeds from the benefit dance will be used to help military veterans and for VFW community projects. Tickets will be sold at society with the Plymouth Hilton Inn, as of Feb. 6. Although the property will be owned by IDS, the hotel will be under the direction of the Motor Hotel Management Inc. of Dallas.

"I am delighted to have had the opportunity to complete, open and operate the Plymouth Hilton Inn," commented Baker, "and hopefully have set high standards of hotel management and public service for the people of the Plymouth area and western Wayne County."

The hotel is one of the finest properties in the Hilton chain and I am sure the people of the area can look forward to a continued policy of quality food and service from the Motor Hotel Management Inc."

The IDS Trust was the owner of the Thunderbird when it was being converted to the Hilton and was the firm which sold to Baker in October 1974. IDS had experienced problems during construction of the Hilton and, for a while, the building sat vacant. IDS was involved in several lawsuits on the hotel's construction but it was completed and opened after Baker took over.

Baker, a builder and developer living in Ann Arbor, was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for U.S. Congress last year.

Business Briefs

Colonial Pizza of Plymouth will celebrate its grand opening Feb. 12 with the signing of the "Declaration of Independence."

The signing is to be executed at 198 Liberty in Old Village at noon Saturday. At that time the entrance door will be officially opened by Douglas Harb, owner, and Benjamin Franklin. After opening ceremonies are concluded, the shop will open for business at 3 p.m.

Ralph Archbold, who portrays Benjamin Franklin at Greenfield Village, will be greeting guests at the opening. The declaration will be signed by all invited guests and the door opening ceremony will be performed by a 9-year-old boy in colonial era clothing.

Pizzas will be delivered to five different businesses in Plymouth in an authentic covered wagon followed by 15 Cadillacs and four messengers in colonial clothing.

DAVID C. HEIST of Princess, Canton, is among those who have recently earned Certified Public Accountant certificates from the Michigan State Board of Accountancy.

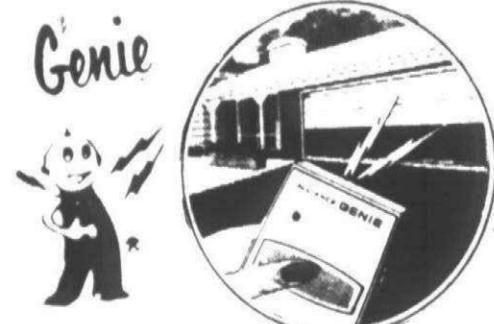

RICHARD P. FRENCH of Five Mile Road, Plymouth, recently held a seminar for owners of small and medium size businesses called, "The Effect of the Tax Reform Act on 1977 Tax Planning." French conducted the seminar for Comprehensive Accounting Co. of Aurora, Ill., which provides monthly bookkeeping, accounting and tax service to more than 10,000 clients through the offices of its 120 independent accountants throughout the U.S.

A NEW Dino's Pizza carryout restaurant has already opened at 44275 Ford Road in Canton Township.

John E. Ray, president of the Garden City-based chain of more than 100 pizzerias, announced that Dave Brooks will be a partner in the Canton operation.

Settle PEA contract without the red herring

Recent public discussion on the status of teacher contract negotiations has gone far astray from the central issues on the bargaining table. We need to realign our thinking and talking on those key issues to make community input more worthwhile.

Unfortunately, the discussion has been diverted into a debate on whether salary increases given administrators are too high in comparison to the salary offer being made to teachers.

A related charge is that the school board can find money in the budget to give administrators pay hikes—but seems unable to find the money to grant pay requests made by teachers. The implication is that the money is in the budget to give teachers what they want, but the school board is being obstinate.

Some discussions have degenerated to the point where we are supposed to believe a conspiracy is in motion to hide money in the budget and keep it away from teachers until a contract is signed.

Conspiracy theory offers neatly packaged explanations, but seldom touch on reasons which are operative in the real world.

IF COMMUNITY dialogue is to be meaningful in the bargaining process, though, some realism needs to be infused into the discussions.

The key issue remains what dollar amount can be agreed upon as a fair and equitable settlement for teachers in the Plymouth Community School District.

From a lifetime of failures came the noblest success

Our new president has described himself as a populist, saying he will represent the people and not special interests.

Our nation has been wallowing during the last several years because the people have been questioning whether the federal government does indeed represent them.

This is not the first time our government has had to meet this crisis.

Eight score and eight years ago this coming Saturday, a man was born who faced many odds.

He failed in business in '31.

He ran and was defeated for the state legislature in '32.

He failed again in business in '33.

He was finally elected to the state legislature in '34.

His sweetheart died in '35.

He had a nervous breakdown in '36.

He was defeated for the speakership of the state house in '38.

He was defeated for presidential elector in '40.

He was defeated for Congress in '43.

His successor in his own party was defeated in '48.

He ran and was defeated for the U.S. Senate in '55.

He was proposed but not chosen for vice-president at the first Republican convention in '56.

HE AGAIN was defeated for the U.S. Senate in '58.

And he was elected the 16th president of the United States in 1860.

This repeated failure was none other than Abraham Lincoln.

His record should be an inspiration to those who feel they are always facing an uphill battle with few tangible results.

Lincoln, in his own time, was not considered a great man. He was accused of splitting the Republic with his meddling in what we now call civil rights.

Why we groan

You want to know why newspaper people sneer at television entertainers who purport to be newsmen? We'll tell you why newspaper people sneer at TV types:

SEMTA General Manager Larry Salci and Chairman Tom Turner were holding an important and technical news conference the other day about public transportation, an immensely complicated subject.

Channel 7's entertainer waltzed in midway through the session and chirped: "I came in late. Would you repeat a summary for film?"

The real reporters, who had done their homework and listened carefully, groaned at the television entertainer's gall. But do you know what? The SEMTA folks took eight or 10 minutes and repeated themselves for film.

If Detroit goes under, we've no place to hide

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young's state of the city speech last week deserves more attention than the cynical view which treats it as the opening of his campaign for re-election.

Young claimed that "we have seen—and beaten—the worst. Detroit, I believe, is on the threshold of a physical and moral recovery." I think he's more right than wrong.

There are still enormous problems in Detroit—crime, unemployment, lack of investment, population flight—but a lot has happened in the city over the past few years:

• After nearly ruining the city single-handedly, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development is actually working to clear out the thousands of abandoned houses that have contributed no end to neighborhood blight.

• Despite the low ebb of the Cobo Hall incident last summer, crime has started to drop in the city. Of the seven classifications used by the FBI to report crime, five decreased last month in Detroit.

• A federal grant of $600 million for an area-wide mass transit plan is committed. Even though there will be squabbling between the city and the suburbs over its final design and control, the first transit system to serve the needs of people in this entire area is well within reach.

OF GREATER importance in the overall picture has been Mayor Young's focus in priorities: To set into place the basis for an economically healthy city.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

It takes a long time to renew the economy of a devastated city, but there are some signs that this is coming.

The Renaissance Center, obviously. Increased convention activity. A people mover scheduled for downtown.

More important than these specific instances is the battery of economic development tools that have been assembled to help the city over the past three years: the Plant Rehabilitation Act, special powers for an Economic Development Corporation and a Downtown Development Authority, and tax incentives for residential construction.

As a result, several hundred million dollars have been committed to modernize plants in Detroit owned by Chrysler, Allied Chemical, Massey-Ferguson and Inland Tool.

MANY OF the mayor's critics in the suburbs—and he has them by the thousands—have charged that he is operating in competition with the suburbs.

To the degree that any attempt by various city governments to acquire scarce resources entails competition, I suppose the charge is correct.

But it is false to say the mayor of Detroit has not tried to reach out to the suburban communities around the core city, in the hope that he could convince them that the interests of the city and the suburbs are in fact very similar.

Two weeks ago, Mayor Young entertained 40-50 suburban mayors and their spouses at the Manoogian Mansion. The tone was informal and the agenda casual, but in his brief remarks Young urged his guests to "talk about what unites us rather than what divides us." A couple of months ago, Young met with 17 south Oakland County mayors to pitch for area-wide support for the mass transit program in Lansing.

Indeed, what is interesting about the relations between the city and the suburbs over the past several months is that virtually no suburban mayor has tried to reciprocate the gestures offered by Mayor Young.

AFTER YEARS of stagnation, I believe that real movement can be seen in Detroit, and I happen to believe that Coleman Young has had a very significant role in making it happen.

And if Detroit can be reborn, made strong and stable, healthy and dynamic, then we all will benefit—suburbanites and city-dwellers.

For there is no more important axiom in the social fabric of southeastern Michigan than the fact that if the core city dies, so too will the suburbs. To the degree that Detroit is healthy, so too will be the suburbs.

We must all remember—those of us who like Coleman Young and those of us who dislike him—that rot in a city is like cancer. Unless cured, it spreads. And we who live and work in the suburbs must realize that ultimately there's no place left to run and hide.

He's in last place

A senior citizen, often vocal in one of suburbia's city council meetings, lamented that the senior citizens' group always had to use old buildings and never got anything new.

"I feel," he said, "like the little boy who always got hand-me-downs. I asked him what's wrong with hand-me-downs, and he told me: 'Plenty, mister, when you've got five older sisters.'"

Tested against the Michigan Economic Action Council's criteria, SBT performs badly and is actually counter-productive. It supposedly encourages manufacturing. But by taxing payrolls, it bears down on labor-intensive and high-technology industries. By taxing interest payments, it bears down on new industries which finance capital through debt.

Business people perceive SBT as bad. SBT has failed to produce jobs.

Can it possibly be repaired? No . . . and we'll try to show why next Thursday.

County hospital costs studied

By SANDRA ARMBRISTER

Uncertainty faces Wayne County General Hospital and its psychiatric facilities in Westland as a review of management and patient care costs at the hospital begins this week.

State funding for the psychiatric in- and out-patient facilities at the hospital is expected to be resolved by March 1 as the county continues to fund the programs, which now are operating at capacity.

Westland legislators say the uncertainty may mean some changes in procedures at the hospital but add that the hospital should remain part of the health care system for southwestern Wayne County.

Wayne County Board of Commissioners Chairman John Barr (D-Dearborn Heights), whose district includes Westland, this week plans to charge a citizens' committee with reviewing operating relationships and procedures at the hospital.

That nine to 11 member committee is being formed at least partially in response to a Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council report, which was critical of the hospital.

By press time, Barr had appointed six persons to the committee, including Royce Smith (D-Belleville), whose district includes parts of Westland, Plymouth Township, City of Plymouth and Canton Township. Smith, a member of the county board of commissioners, is chairman of the labor board.

Other committee members are Leonard Proctor, chairman of the board of auditors; Mark Stepp of the United Auto Workers; Symond Gottlieb, executive director of the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council; Joan Pettipren, chairwoman of the Wayne County Civil Service Commission; and Thomas Turner, Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority board chairman and president of the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO Council.

"I plan to charge the committee to review the report of the hospital council and to come up with a better overall structure with regard to the relations of the hospital management and the board of commissioners," Barr told the Observer.

"The hospital has an excellent emergency care program, which has no equal in the State of Michigan," noted Barr.

The report suggested that change definitely was needed, and I agree."

Barr continued. "A 60 per cent bed occupancy indicates the hospital is not using the best procedure of filling beds. Obviously there is a need for changes."

Barr believes the occupancy rate is reflected in the cost of care per patient, which is nearly double other hospitals.

"I KNOW OF no plan to close it," emphasized Barr. "There has been no official statement about closing it and there is nothing in the (hospital council) report about it."

He said possibilities the committee might consider are allowing private doctors to admit patients, a practice which is now prohibited and which Barr believes could improve the hospital's occupancy rate; consolidation of the psychiatric unit into the main hospital; closing inactive sections of the hospital; reviewing services provided at the hospital; and expanding trauma services.

"The hospital has an excellent emergency care program, which has no equal in the State of Michigan," noted Barr.

"THE COMMITTEE isn't going to last too long," said Smith. "We have a lot of work to do, but my main concern is that I do not want it closed. If it is run as a hospital should be, such as Henry Ford or Grace, it should not cost the county anything."

"The hospital has been closed to private doctors. If that wasn't the case, we wouldn't have a problem there," he added. "I have been assured by officers of two medical societies in the county that if it was opened up, more than 200 doctors would apply for staff privileges within two months."

"I also have good reason to believe that the top people in medical specialties would use the hospital," Smith continued.

Smith estimated that opening the hospital to private doctors would add about $14.2 million to hospital revenue. "It would cost us another $1 million for personnel, but that's still more than the deficit last year," he said.

Smith also believes that things now tacked onto the hospital's operating costs, such as the vacant buildings and ground maintenance, should instead be charged to the Wayne County Public Works Committee.

The fire department there doesn't need to be discontinued, but it should be prorated out. The hospital also should be charged only for the energy it uses from the steam plant there.

"I think there is a group in high places in Wayne County who would like to see it closed," said Smith. "But it wouldn't stay closed for long. Then a non-profit group would go in and buy it for $1, but I want something to say about it if we're picking up the cost."

"The Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) is not going to take over Wayne County General," said Barr. "But a separate hospital authority similar to the PCHA could be set up. There could be real possibilities in that direction."

"We could have a hospital authority deal independently of the politics of the board of commissioners," Barr continued. "It wouldn't relieve us of ownership, just management."

The PCHA, of which Westland and Garden City are charter members, operates four hospitals in southwestern Wayne County, including Annapolis.

"It's a good hospital," said Smith. "I don't know of a better one."

Agreeing that the hospital needs to remain open, Dr. Mel Ravitz, president of the county mental health board and director of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan, said: "It would be a disaster—utter folly—to close the hospital."

"There is no question that with both the psychiatric facilities and the general hospital cost containment practices and improved manpower procedures are needed," Ravitz said.

Ravitz said that although the mental health board just received a state allocation, which was four months late, that allocation definitely excluded funding for Wayne County General's psychiatric facility.

Instead, Gerald Miller, director of the state department of budget management, is expected to convene a meeting to resolve the funding dispute by March 1.

"It is our desire to get it solved by the end of this month," said Bill Nugent, deputy director of the budget department. "If it isn't solved by then, we're hoping for the first week or two of March. We may have to separate out issues for the long-term status from the short, mid-term solutions."

Until Jan. 1, 1976, the psychiatric facilities at Wayne County General were funded by the county with a small contribution from the state.

After that, a 90-10 formula went into effect with the county expecting the state to fund the community mental health board for 90 per cent of the hospital's operation, which would then come under the jurisdiction of that board.

THE EAGLE has been sighted again.

Harry Roberts of Herald Street, Plymouth, saw it Sunday afternoon. He was looking out his kitchen window when the huge bird landed in a tall tree just back of our wild cherry."

He watched the bird for 10 minutes from a distance of about 50 feet. He wanted to get his binoculars but was afraid the bird would depart while he was getting them.

Roberts said it is definitely a bald eagle. It has a white head and lighter coloring under the wings. "A beautiful bird," he said.

A representative of the Audubon Society said that although the eagles usually stay near the shorelines of the lakes, they could have been forced inland to look for food.

Another interesting result of the inquiry was the discovery of the rare bird alert which is one of the projects of Jeff Greenhouse of Birmingham.

Dial 545-2224 to hear the whereabouts of unusual birds in the Windsor-Detroit area—a mocking bird and a fox sparrow in Rouge Park, pintails and whistling swans near Monroe.

BETTY DOTY returned Feb. 1 from the glamour and excitement of European opera and ballet to the snowdrifts and ice of Plymouth Township.

During her six-week visit with daughter Holly in Germany, there had been a few heavy frosts and some "dustings of snow." She came home to find her husband, Raymond, suffering from a lame back—the result of shoveling too much snow.

"There was never more than a half inch of snow in Dusseldorf," said Mrs. Doty. "But the children were out sledding and making snowballs."

Except for a sidetrip to Amsterdam to visit a friend, she spent the time with Holly who is a ballerina with the Dusseldorf Opera Company.

"The finished product is lovely, but I loved being backstage."

She visited the costume construction room, watched the wigmakers and the shoemakers, and was fascinated with process of the shifting of the sets.

She marveled at the elaborate sets and the number of them. There were more than 25 sets for "My Fair Lady." She added that the arts are subsidized by the government and they seem to have almost unlimited budgets for their productions.

Holly is doing a lot of dancing. Opera ballet has been a marvelous experience. She enjoys the contact with the singers and living right there."

She said the productions change with the seasons. She saw "Tannhauser," "Rigoletto," "My Fair Lady," and "Die Verkaufte Braut" ("The Bartered Bride").

"The Germans love tragedy—the heavier the better."

Holly moved into a little apartment in September. "The kitchen is 6x6," said her mother. "I know because I measured it."

"She went to a tree school (nursery) and bought a live Christmas tree. We decorated it with popcorn, cranberries, cookies, McIntosh toffee angels and Santa Clauses." After Christmas Holly gave the tree to a friend who planted it outdoors.

Mrs. Doty appreciated the order and organization of the German city.

"Everything works and everything is on time. You could set your clock by the tram which goes by Holly's apartment."

When she accepted a delivery for Holly, "There were six legal size pieces of paper." When they were through signing everything, she kept three and the deliveryman took three.

"It's really a delightful place to be. Everything is very clean and everything runs."

She admitted the "don't annoy the salespeople" attitude took a little getting used to. "They have the products and if you want them, you wait for them."

"Of course we hit all the coffee houses," and she described the whipped cream concoctions smothered with toasted almonds.

When we interviewed Holly Doty before she left to join the Dusseldorf Opera Company, the then 18-year-old was hoping to improve her German.

Her mother was assured by Holly's co-workers there was no situation she couldn't handle in German. "She now speaks it like a native of Dusseldorf."

RUTH SHERMAN and Howard Griffore had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge game in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Margaret Swartz who is in charge of the group says, "The winter weather has cut down on the turnout to some extent, but we had 25 last week."

'Music is the enrichment of life'

By DARLENE STINSON

The twisting road to Juliana Kan's Plymouth Township home and huge piano studio is a well-traveled one.

Each week, 60 young, and not-so-young, piano pupils follow the winding pathway through snow-filled woods to their teacher's door, where a petite, Oriental woman greets them and ushers them into a paneled music studio.

They take their place at one of two grand pianos in the room, and the piano lesson begins.

"I think music is the enrichment of life," said Mrs. Kan, as she relaxed on the studio's white leather sofa and gazed out a picture window at acres of snow-frosted trees.

"But when you have a class, not everyone is that talented. You still have to teach everyone the same and try to encourage the best in everyone."

BORN AND REARED in Chunking, China, Mrs. Kan says she combines European and American teaching philosophies when she gives piano lessons.

While European teachers give their full attention to a select group of protégés, the American method is geared to all students, regardless of their talent. An American music teacher encourages everyone. Mrs. Kan says, and tries to evoke a deep appreciation of music.

Mrs. Kan, a pianist for 34 years and a singer for even longer, received piano instruction from both schools of music.

Jewish pianists who had emigrated from Germany to China during World War II offered Mrs. Kan her first instruction in the European method. In 1948, Mrs. Kan came to the United States to work on a masters degree in piano performance at University of Michigan.

In 1949, the Chinese Revolution began, and the doors between the two countries were closed. Mrs. Kan was unable to leave the United States or even communicate with her family until Sino-American tensions eased a few years ago.

AND SHE HAS more students than she can handle.

Ranging in age from seven to 72, Mrs. Kan's pupils include high school students, college students and housewives who gave up piano years ago and now want to recover their lost musical skills.

Peggy Heiney, a Plymouth Township resident and a kindergarten teacher at Bird Elementary School, rushes to Mrs. Kan's music studio on her lunch hour each Wednesday.

The mother of two decided to improve her technical ability on the piano this summer after two members of the Kagoshima Youth Symphony stayed in her home for a week. Mrs. Heiney gave up her piano lessons some years ago, when she entered Michigan State University.

"These young people in the orchestra were so inspiring, I thought I'd go back," explained Mrs. Heiney whose children are now 11 and 16. "I never gave up playing completely, but I played my own undisciplined kind of music. I decided I wanted to do better than that."

Because of Mrs. Kan's waiting list for late afternoon and evening music lessons, Mrs. Heiney grabbed the noon-hour slot.

She doesn't regret that decision.

"Mrs. Kan inspired me to keep going," she explained, "and it's really coming back fast. I've been ecstatic about the whole thing. I don't even eat when I have my lesson. But I love it so much, I just go."

ERIC AND ROB HEIDT of Plymouth Township are two other pupils who study under Mrs. Kan. Their mother, Connie, is a music teacher at Cranbrook Brookside School and holds a college degree in piano education.

"But I went to Mrs. Kan for their piano lessons," Mrs. Heidt explained, "because I felt I'd be in conflict trying to be both teacher and mother."

Mrs. Kan's own daughter, Karen, will enter the University of Michigan this fall as a piano performance major. Although the Plymouth Salem senior has studied under her mother for the last 10 years, Mrs. Kan attributes Karen's success to her daughter's temperament and willingness to learn—not to her own teaching ability.

But Mrs. Heiney feels the piano teacher is too modest.

"Taking from her is like getting a college course plus getting a piano lesson," she said. "She gives you background on a composer and tells you exactly how he wanted the music played."

"She's a perfectionist, and she doesn't overlook any of your weaknesses. But she's so sweet and kind in the way she goes about it."

Gary Navarre to lecture MACLD group

Dr. Gary Navarre, acting head of the Special Education Department at Eastern Michigan University, will speak on "The Battered Parent" at the 7:30 p.m. Feb. 16 meeting of the Plymouth-Northville Chapter MACLD.

The local branch of the Michigan Association of Children With Learning Disabilities meets in the cafeteria of Pioneer Middle School, 46081 Ann Arbor Road.

Dr. Navarre has worked with emotionally disturbed children. He was a school psychologist and has done psychological consultation with the public schools.

The focus of his talk will be on the parents of learning disabled children, the problems they face and the feelings of guilt they sometimes bear.

A disabled learner may exhibit disorders in thinking, talking, listening, coordination, reading, writing, spelling or arithmetic. He may have a behavior problem, but he is not primarily emotionally disturbed, physically handicapped, blind, deaf or retarded. His is a hidden handicap. He can be helped.

The local MACLD chapter seeks to inform parents, teachers, and the public on specific problems of children with educational handicaps. The meetings are open to the public and free of charge.

For those who wish to join the association, the membership fee is $5. For further information call Margo Panko 453-7959.

New voices

Dr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bares of Cedar Lane, Plymouth, announce the birth of their daughter, Lisa Renee, Jan. 29 in St. Mary Hospital, Livonia.

The Bares also have a son David, 4.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bares of Farmington, and Mr. and Mrs. Justin Sisung of St. Johns.

Tropical touch

There's a tropical air about the greenhouse in Plymouth Salem High School where students spend unscheduled time propagating an oasis of plants. Recent visitors were members of the Plymouth Branch Woman's National Farm and Garden Association who donated plant cuttings to the school. Ella Luvisch (from left), student Debbie Dietrich, Doris Richard and Bertha Peterson visited the plant room.

Students Ann Donahue, Linda Spitz, Sandy Wise, Jane Bowe and Meg McGee have made cuttings from stock plants. They are learning to identify the plants, care for them, and prepare them for sale. As an independent study, they are preparing booklets containing information about the use of the greenhouse, acquiring and propagating plants for home beautification and sale, and maintaining the greenhouse.

Beds of seedlings raised in the greenhouse will be turned over to Hank Rupert in the spring. These will be planted on the grounds of the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (PCEP) complex. (Photo by PCEP Annual staff)

I look for trouble-and sometimes the trouble is no insulation.

I'm a Consumers Power gas service man, and it's my job to troubleshoot. If people smell gas in their homes, they call me and I get there fast.

But sometimes while I'm working in a customer's home, I find more trouble—like no insulation. You'd be surprised to learn how many homes I go into that aren't adequately insulated.

Some customers tell me they can't afford insulation. But what they really can't afford is to pay for all the natural gas it's costing them by not insulating. Over the long winter, insulation doesn't cost money—it saves money and scarce energy. It's the best thing you can do to your home, and for your gas bill. Believe me, I know. I get a gas bill at my home every month just like you.

Canton chatter
By SHARON STARON 455-5322

There was a time, not too long ago, that Canton was mainly farms. It's really nice for those of us living in suburbia to still have farms to visit and enjoy so close to us. It's no secret that the farmers in Canton are having a rough time dealing with the townships new appeal to builders. I thought it would be interesting to talk to someone in farming and get a little peek at their lives. I'd like to introduce:

LINDA WILKIN

The Wilkin farm is located on Beck Road and is one of the few working farms in Canton. It is 60 acres and has been in the family for 62 years. The farm is owned by the Wilkins' in-laws Bea and Bus Wilkin, and is strictly a family business. They have 200 head of steer.

Mrs. Wilkin and her husband, Doug, are crop farmers. They grow wheat, soybeans, and field corn. They also rent other land in the township to grow their crops. Wilkin also is a full-time lab technician for Parke-Davis in Ann Arbor. He is presently working on drug research.

"Doug would never be happy out of farming," says Mrs. Wilkin. "Sometimes he works until 1 a.m. planting crops."

Wilkin was raised on the farm along with his six brothers and one sister. They are Donald, David, Dale, Denny, Duane, Dwight and Doreen. "We work around mother nature" she says. "and whenever we need extra help we know they'll be plenty of Wilkins available. They never have any outside help, only family. The Wilkin farm is a place for hayrides given by Wilkin and his brother and father from spring until fall.

THE COUPLE have three daughters: Kathy, 12, is a student at Pioneer; Karen, 9, and Kris, 5, are students at Gallimore.

The farmhouse they call home is more than 150 years old. It is a two-story house with eight rooms. The upper floor is closed off now and used as storage. The original living room has been turned into the girls' bedroom and the original dining room now is used as the living room. The dirt cellar is entered from the outside. The Wilkin's modern kitchen is equipped with dishwasher and microwave oven.

"I like farm life," Mrs. Wilkin says, "but I also enjoy convenience."

"In the summer, we have a large vegetable garden that the girls are in charge of," she adds. "They help plant, weed and harvest it." Mrs. Wilkin canned 96 quarts of tomatoes last year along with all the other vegetables from the garden. She also makes her own applesauce.

A first-place trophy in her kitchen was won at the Wayne County 4-H Fair for a cake she entered two years ago. "I'm very proud of it" she says.

Wilkin has won the plowing contest for three years in a row, and his brother, Dwight, had won it for five years before that. "I'd say the Wilkins have that area at the fair taken care of," Mrs. Wilkin says.

FARM LIFE for the girls is rewarding. They have been exposed to all sorts of life. They've seen a calf being born as well as other animals. They don't have the peer companionship other children have since their closest neighbor is 20 acres away, which is the one drawback. The two older girls belong to girl scouts and Linda has been a leader for six years. Wilking sponsors the troop.

The Wilkins enjoy winter fun and own of two snowmobiles. They usually go up to Gaylord to enjoy the sport.

Mrs. Wilkin has been on the farm for nine years. She was raised in Lake Pointe Village and graduated from Plymouth High School, where she met her husband. She had to adjust to farm life but now she's really in love with country living. Of course, the country is becoming sort of scarce lately. What once were their corn fields is now Sunflower subdivision.

"I'm beginning to feel a little closed in," she says.

"Closed in," says Wilkin, "I feel like I'm being kicked out."

The day of the big blizzard, when the grade schools were dismissed early, Mrs. Wilkin was responsible for getting the children at the west end of the township home safely. Her brother-in-law, Dwight, drove ahead of her with the tractor clearing the way as she loaded all the children from Gallimore, as well as some others stranded along the way, into her four-wheel drive Suburban and delivered them all to their homes to the appreciation of their parents.

Mrs. Wilkin considers herself a city girl turned farmer, and she loves it.

THE CANTON NEWCOMERS February luncheon in the Roman Forum last Wednesday afternoon was attended by 102 members and guests.

Clemmie Cybert and Brad Werner from the Plymouth Theatre Guild gave a talk about their group to the women. They informed the newcomers of other areas besides acting that might be of interest to them, such as working on sets or reading.

The main speaker for the afternoon was Beverly Hindersman from Interior Reflections. She gave tips on wallpapering and window treatments and also talked of color coordination, which was of great interest to all.

Winners of three plants that were given away to lucky ticket holders were Jan Brown and Sheila Turner, both of whom received gloxinia plants, and Debbie Druce who received a fern.

THE HULSING PTO is busy getting ready for its Italian night dinner that will be from 5:30-8 p.m. Feb. 18.

They are turning the all-purpose room in the school into a little bit of Italy. Music will top off the evening along with good food featuring pizza from Maria's Italian Bakery, salad, beverage, and dessert.

Reservations must be made in advance. Tickets, now being sold at the school until Feb. 16, are $2 for adults and $1.50 for children.

Lutherans plan Lenten series

Pastors of Lutheran churches in Livonia will mark the Lenten season this year by visits to each other's churches in Wednesday evening services beginning March 2. They also will cooperate with joint services both afternoon and evening on Good Friday. Joining in the meeting to plan the program for Lent were, (seated, from left) the Rev. David A. Papp,

All Saints; the Rev. Arnold H. Jahr, Ascension; the Rev. Walt Dickinson, Sword of the Spirit; the Rev. William C. Lindholm, Holy Cross; the Rev. Roger H. Schleef, Faith; and the Rev. John A. Root, Christ the King. Standing are the Rev. James Spilos of Holy Trinity and the Rev. George H. Fleischer of Timothy. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

CHURCH BULLETIN

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Farmington Road and Six Mile, Livonia, will conclude its annual missionary conference this weekend with an all-nations banquet Friday, a children's rally Saturday and mission messages from the pulpit Sunday.

Missionaries participating will provide part of the banquet program, each telling about "a funny thing that happened to me on the mission field."

Al Kuhne, director of the Voice of Christian Youth, will be master of ceremonies and the Gospel Troubadours, a vocal and instrumental youth group, will provide the music.

Missionaries from the Philippines and West Indies will be featured in the 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. children's rally, which will include music, stories and food.

All children in the church area are invited and may make reservations by calling the church office.

Sunday messages will take up the questions "Should We Send Missionaries Today?" by Dr. Bartlett Hess at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services, and "Who Shall Go? Whom Shall We Send?" by the Rev. L. Edward Davis at 7 p.m.

OUR LADY OF GOOD COUNSEL CATHOLIC CHURCH, 1160 Penniman, Plymouth, will have confirmation ceremonies for 240 young adults at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 14, and Tuesday, Feb. 15.

Two bishops of the Detroit archdiocese will lead the services. Bishop Arthur Krawczak on Monday and Bishop Walter Schoenherr on Tuesday.

ST. MICHAEL CATHOLIC CHURCH, 11441 Hubbard, Livonia, will continue its adult speaker series at 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 11, with two informational discussions.

The program will include information on Lifesearch for young adults and marriage encounter for couples.

UNITY OF LIVONIA, 28660 Five Mile, will welcome Frank Koehler, new associate minister of Detroit Unity Temple, to its pulpit for talks at 9:15 and 11 Sunday, Feb. 13, on "How to Love and Live Better."

Rev. Koehler was a businessman in Florida before training to become a Unity minister, and during his training he served as chairman of a prison chaplaincy program.

NATIVITY CHURCH OF CHRIST, 9435 Henry Ruff, Livonia, has engaged Edward John Soehlein as its new organist. A graduate of the University of Notre Dame and the University of Michigan, Soehlein has served as a director of music in Merano, Italy, and organist in a church in the Italian city of Bologna.

CHURCH OF ST. INNOCENT, 2330 W. Chicago, Redford Township, will serve a complete roast beef dinner from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 13.

The price is $3.50 for adults and $1.75 for children five to 12 years of age. There will be no charge for younger children. The church is located three blocks east of Telegraph.

TV drama in course

A course by television which requires viewing 13 classic and continental plays on Channel 56 is being offered for credit at Madonna College during the winter term. "Humanities in Drama" will feature outstanding acting companies in performances representative of the late 1500s to the early 20th century.

The four-credit class also requires that students attend eight on-campus lecture and discussion meetings. The first of these is scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 15. Other on-campus meetings will be March 1 and 22, April 5 and 12, May 2, 24 and 31. The on-campus coordinator is Dr. Ernest Nolan.

These plays are scheduled for weekly showing at 2:30 p.m. Sundays, beginning with Shakespeare's "Macbeth" Feb. 20. Other plays are "Edward the Second" by Marlowe, "The Duchess of Malfi" by Webster, "Paradise Restored" by Taylor, "She Stoops to Conquer," by Goldsmith, "Candide" by Voltaire, "The Rivals" by Sheridan, "The Wild Duck" and "Hedda Gabler" by Ibsen, "Trelawny of the Wells" by Pinero, "Three Sisters" by Chekhov, "The Playboy of the Western World" by Synge and "Mrs. Warren's Profession" by Shaw.

A half hour preview program prior to each play features a well-known scholar discussing background information and important issues to help in viewing.

Students may register for the course at the student service center, Madonna College, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia, Feb. 15. Tuition is $35 per credit, plus fees.

Carroll is new SA commander

Lt. Col. Raymond Carroll is the new divisional commander of the Eastern Michigan Division of the Salvation Army.

He will direct Salvation Army programs throughout the eastern half of Michigan from Cheboygan to Adrian.

Formal installation of colonel and Mrs. Carroll as divisional commanders will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 10, at 601 Bagley Avenue, Detroit. The public is invited.

Raymond Carroll, born in Canada, spent most of his developing years in southeastern Michigan, where his father held Salvation Army appointments. After being commissioned as a Salvation Army officer in 1942, Lt. Carroll had appointments in Royal Oak, Saginaw and Midland.

Prayer breakfast planned

The Northville-Plymouth-Livonia chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship will sponsor a prayer breakfast at 8 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 12, in the Miles Standish room of the Mayflower Hotel, 827 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. Fee for the breakfast is $4.

Getting settled made simple.

This weekend, let the good times roll.

Each weekend at Windsor Raceway there's a total of four fabulous programs with all kinds of chances to make you a winner.

The action gets underway Friday at 7:45 P.M. when you'll see some of the top drivers and horses going all out in races packed with thrills and excitement. It continues on Saturday with a "Double-header". A 9-race afternoon program at 1:30 and another 10-race program at 7:45 featuring outstanding pacers and trotters.

Windsor is for Winners.

Windsor Raceway

Easy access via all freeways to Ambassador Bridge, including newly completed I-96 extension to Southfield Road.

And it winds up with still more excitement on Sunday beginning at 7 P.M.

Along with it all, there's one of the greatest track restaurants anywhere, the Canadian Club. And six comfortable lounges where you can watch all the action.

So this weekend, let the good times roll. Come to Windsor Raceway.

And don't forget the weekdays when we race every Tuesday through Thursday at 7:45.

Chiefs zap Hawks

The Plymouth Canton varsity volleyball team raised its Western Six league record to 3-3 Monday when the Chiefs beat Farmington Harrison in a three-game match, 15-9, 10-15, 15-10.

Harrison played somewhat of an unorthodox game, bumping most of the balls over instead of spiking which left us kind of hanging," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "But we played a good defensive game and had pretty good serving which helped us come through with a win."

Captain Karen Decker had good serves, giving the Chiefs five points in the first game and six in the second. Senior Dorothy McCulloch also helped Canton out with some excellent spikes in the second contest.

In the third game, Harrison had a 10-3 lead over the Chiefs, but Canton's serving came through and gave the team a 15-10 victory and the match.

Canton's JV also beat Harrison, winning in two straight games by scores by 15-7 and 15-9.

Canton plays in the Schoolcraft Invitational Saturday, and at Waterford Mott at 7 p.m. Monday in another Western Six match.

PART TWO

In last week's column, I discussed the conveniences of Plymouth Canton High School's new Phase III athletic and music addition that will be open by the end of the month.

The biggest asset that Phase III offers is relief in game and practice scheduling for all participants in winter sports.

Plymouth Athletic Director John Sandmann has told me countless times that the cooperation between coaches at both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton High Schools has been tremendous during the trying years with only one facility.

It's a credit to Sandmann's scheduling abilities and the teamwork of all the Centennial Park coaches, that has made these two schools survive this horrid situation that has gone on for the past four years.

PEOPLE CAN'T imagine all the scheduling problems and late night practices that went on with two schools and only one facility.

It truly is phenomenal how everyone concerned survived using only one gym, one pool, the same coach's office and the same locker room with two schools present.

BUT PHASE III MEANS more than just an absence of headaches for coaches, players and the athletic department. Phase III also means a separate facility for the Canton athletic teams.

Hopefully, Canton will now get its own identity that it has strived for since the school opened four years ago.

No longer will the Chiefs have to share a facility with their friendly neighbors at Salem.

Canton will be on its own—to do its own thing. It's something that the Chief coaching staff and principal Kent Buikema have wanted for a long time. Canton now has a home it can call its own.

Having its own facility is a definite step in the right direction in helping develop and promote the Canton athletic program. And the results of the development of a separate identity should help build a winning tradition at the school.

Icers win two District 5 titles

Plymouth hockey teams fared well last weekend at the District Five Playoffs held at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Plymouth squads won the championship in both the Squirt Open and Midget B Leagues. Plymouth's Squirt A squad lost in the championship game of the double elimination competition.

No Plymouth teams made the playoff competition in the Squirt A League.

The most exciting championship game was in the Midget B League were Plymouth defeated Wayne 3-2 the second time around.

The first game was played Sunday at 10 a.m. Wayne jumped into a quick 2-0 lead only to see Plymouth tie and go ahead 3-2. Wayne tied the score in the closing minutes of regulation play, sending the game into overtime.

Neither team scored in two seven-minute overtime periods. The contest was rescheduled for 6 p.m. that same evening.

Both squads started an entire new game and Plymouth won by a narrow 3-2 score.

The Plymouth Midgets earlier defeated Garden City and Westland before splitting games with Livonia to reach the finals.

THE PLYMOUTH SQUIRT OPEN team breezed to an easy victory in its playoff competition.

Plymouth defeated teams from Farmington (5-1), Livonia (6-1), and Garden City (6-0) before shutting out Livonia 3-0 in the championship.

The Plymouth Squirt B team defeated Garden City and Livonia to reach the finals but proceeded to lose two straight to the same Livonia team. This gave Plymouth a second-place finish in that league.

Gypsy airs and Mardi Gras accent Oakway cabaret

Oakway Symphony's cabaret concert will be different this year.

It's being held earlier this year—at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 19, instead of in the spring.

And there will be a Mardi Gras theme for decorations in the Madonna College Residence Hall, Levan north of Schoolcraft in Livonia.

Finally, it will be a more informal scene, with sandwiches and bar service from 7-11 p.m. instead of a dinner. The price will be $5, and tables for eight will be available for $40.

Tickets are available at Hudson's Westland, Northland and Oakland Mall; Hammell Music and Madonna College in Livonia, and Royal Music in Royal Oak.

THE FOURTH annual cabaret concert will have a prominent radio personality as master of ceremonies and a long list of soloists, according to Francesco DiBlasi, conductor and musical director.

Ted Strasser, who writes the script, researches, and hosts WJR's "Patterns in Music," will be emcee. Strasser, a self-confessed sentimentalist who carries a pad of paper to jot down ideas for songs to match various themes, has headed the Sunday morning broadcast since June 1963.

Violinist Mischa Lefkowitz, 22, will be soloist in "Zigeunerweisen," a recreation of Gypsy airs by the brilliant 19th century Spanish violinist, Pablo Sarasate.

Lefkowitz will soon join the first violin section of the Los Angeles Philharmonic. He studied at the Special Music School in Riga, Latvia, and in the U.S. with Mischa Mischakoff, former Detroit Symphony concertmaster.

Lefkowitz has performed at the Aspen Music Festival and the Blue Hill Festival in Maine. Last summer, he gave concerts in Austria, Switzerland, southern France and Finland.

GUEST CONDUCTOR will be Ernest A. Jones, a familiar figure with the Oakway Symphony. Jones is chairman of the board of D'Arcy McManus and Masius, Inc., advertising agency, and has kept active in music circles since his days as first trumpet in the University of Michigan Band. DiBlasi will lead the orchestra in several light classic selections.

Other soloists will be announced next week. Printed tickets say the emcee will be Fat Bob Taylor. Taylor had to cancel after he took a new job as disc jockey at an Ann Arbor station.

METRO DETROIT CONSUMER FOOD COUNCIL™ ESTABLISHED BY CHATHAM

"We have inspected Chatham's new meat plant in Warren. We were impressed by the quality of the meat and how quickly they process it for delivery to stores within 24 hours."

Dance 2-3-4 to GCACB tunes

The Garden City Adult Concert Band will sponsor its third Big Band Dinner Dance Saturday, March 12, in UAW Hall, Van Born Road, west of Middle Belt, Wayne.

The dance will feature four hours of big band music of swing era hits to contemporary numbers. Dance tunes will be played by the Metro-West Big Band, an offshoot of the concert organization.

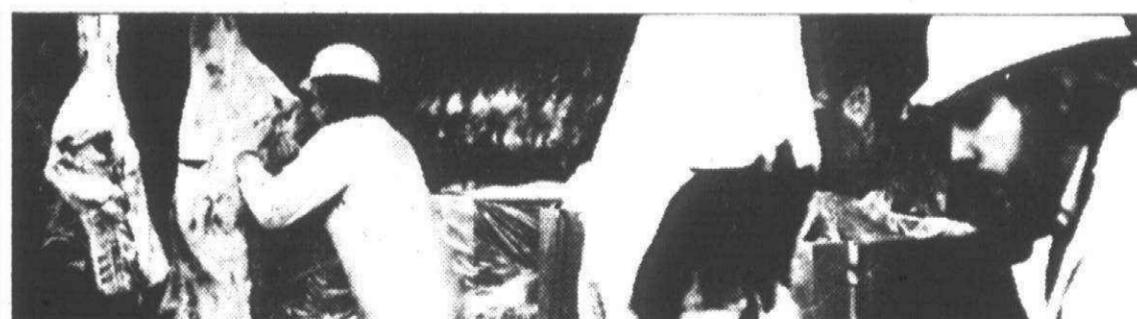

Proceeds from the event will go toward defraying the costs of the concert band association which includes members from 10 western Wayne County communities. A self-supporting group, now in its seventh year, the adult band plays concerts throughout Wayne County.

Tickets for the dance are $20 per couple. The price includes beer, softs, dinner, and tripping—the light fantastic.

CHATHAM'S HIGH STANDARDS MEAN FRESHER, MORE TENDER MEATS.

CFC members learn that Chatham handles only USDA "choice" beef.

Beef gets fast handling to assure 24-hour in-store delivery.

Fat and excess bone are trimmed off by experts.

Rigid sanitation assures wholesome, fresher meat for you.

Ever wonder why Chatham meat quality is consistently high? Your Consumer Food Council discovered the reasons. Chatham has the newest, most modern meat processing plant in Michigan where the highest standards are maintained.

All Chatham beef is corn-fed for flavor and tenderness, and it is all "choice" grade, rigidly inspected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. No wonder Chatham sells more meat per store than any other supermarket chain in Detroit.

If you would like to join a group tour of the Chatham meat processing plant, write: Bobby Kelly, Chatham Complete Food Centers, 2300 E. Ten Mile Road, Warren, Michigan 48091.

Buckeye battles U-M's Hubbard

Ellinghausen comes home

By GLENN BUNTING

Decked out in the scarlet and gray of Ohio State, Jim Ellinghausen came home to Michigan Saturday to display the talents that made him all-state selection last year for the Plymouth Salem basketball team.

The stage was Crisler Arena, home of the fifth-ranked Michigan Wolverines, and while Ellinghausen did not pump in his customary 30-or-so points—his normal production when he was at Salem—the 6'7, 200-pound freshman center did see plenty of action in a starting role for the Buckeyes.

Ohio State fell to the Wolverines 93-72, partially because the Buckeye's backcourt was unable to move the ball inside to either Ellinghausen or the other two front-court men. Eli finished the game with five points.

"We're trying to play an inside offense with perimeter people, but our guards are having a difficult time doing it," OSU coach Eldon Miller said. "We would like to get the ball to our big men more."

The two times Ellinghausen did get the ball down low, he popped in a couple of short, baseline jumpers in the second half. His other point came on a free throw in a one-on-one situation.

FOR MOST of the day, Eli was given the unenviable chore of battling Michigan's U.S. Olympic medal-winner Phil Hubbard in the pivot. While Hubbard did score eight points and outrebound Ellinghausen 12-7, most of his baskets came courtesy of U-M's fast break.

In the first half, Eli and Hubbard played to a standstill as both players did an exceptional job shutting the other off. Ellinghausen excited the crowd with a slam dunk off a rebound, but was called for offensive goaltending.

Despite trailing by 15 points for most of the first half, Ohio State pulled within five at intermission, 41-36. At the start of the second half, Hubbard picked up his fourth foul and the Buckeyes scored the first four points to make it 41-40.

But then Michigan rebounded with 14 straight points to go ahead 56-40 and put the game on ice.

With Hubbard on the bench for most of the second half, Ellinghausen went against 6'9 reserve center Tom Bergen. But again, the Ohio State guards were unable to get the ball to Eli to work with.

"IT'S BEEN the same story all year," Ellinghausen said. "Sure I'd like to get the ball more often, but we just can't seem to do it."

Eli doesn't regret his choice to attend Ohio State instead of Michigan. "I like it here and I'm getting a lot of playing time," he said. "I'm just not used to playing against guys this tall."

Ellinghausen's father, Don, also re-

"For a forward playing center, Jim's doing a good job for us. We're really pleased with his defensive work," he said.

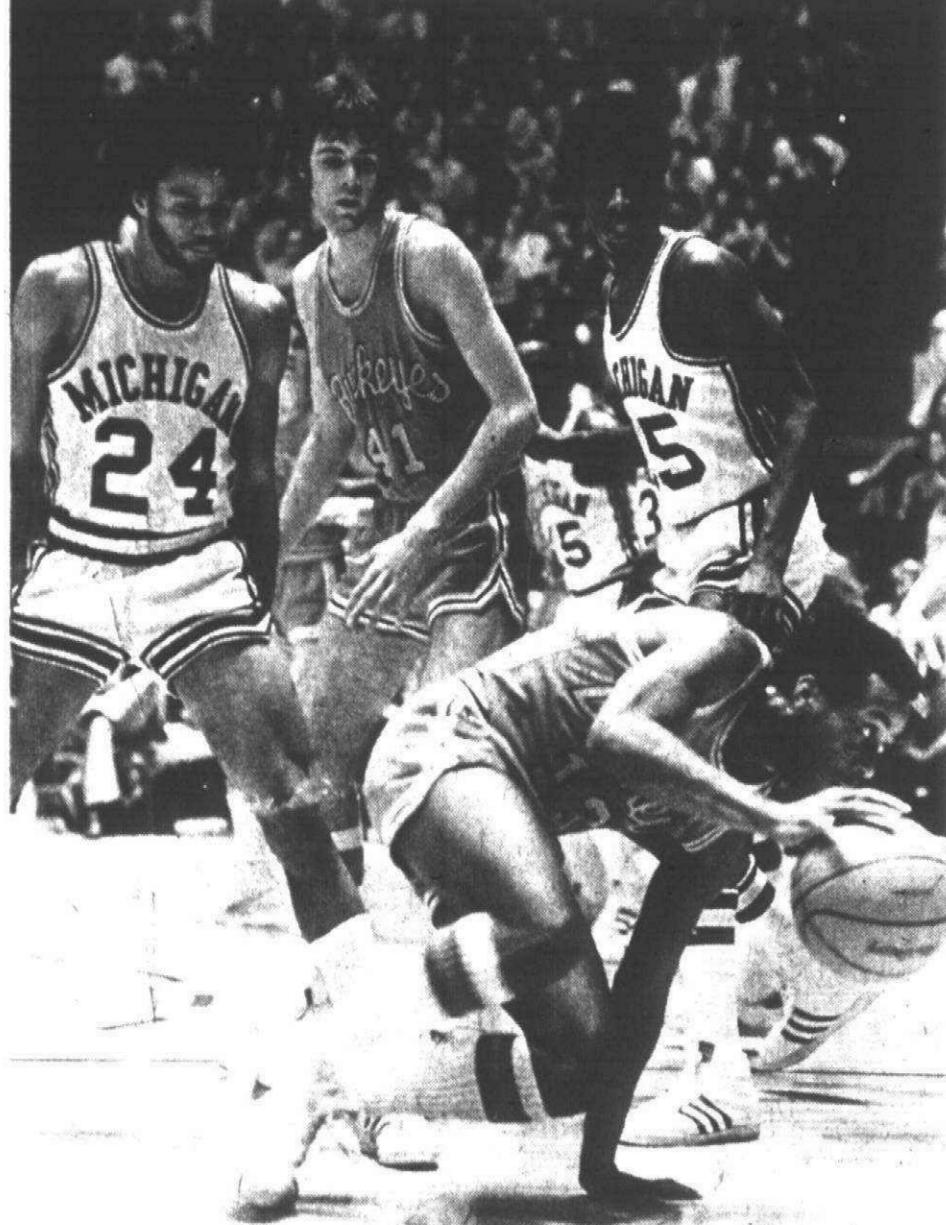

"He's going to be one heckuva player," said U-M coach Johnny Orr. "Jim's getting a chance to play regularly down there, something he wouldn't have here."

Michigan recruited Ellinghausen heavily before losing him to Miller, who coached Western Michigan last season.

"Jim had a chance to play for us but we felt he couldn't make a contribution to our program at first," said U-M assistant Bill Frieder. "We talked about Jim playing JV but Eldon needed a lot of players."

"It's always been a goal of mine to shut out someone we've recruited and lost," Frieder added.

It is questionable whether Michigan will ever be able to blank Eli in the scoring column. And with three more trips to Ann Arbor remaining, Ellinghausen hopes to put on quite a show for his local followers.

Rocks whip Trenton

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Moving one step closer to a coveted fourth straight Suburban Eight League basketball title, Plymouth Salem easily disposed of a lackluster Trenton squad 70-54 Tuesday night.

The Rocks returned home to the friendly confines of the Plymouth gym, where they have won 35 of their last 36 games after a two-week road trip. And it was a nice welcome back as the Rocks found themselves in the state rankings for another season.

Salem was rated seventh in the state by the Detroit Free Press this week but the implication of knocking off a state-ranked team didn't seem to phase the Trojans. And to the Rocks' credit, they remained as cool as a cucumber.

"This team has been there before and I feel we can compete there," coach Fred Thomann said about the ranking.

"But it (the ranking) was a complete surprise to me. It can out of nowhere. I didn't even know about it."

THE ROCKS NOW travel to Bentley for a rematch with their long-time rivals. Another Salem victory would knock Bentley out of contention.

The Rocks own a perfect 9-0 conference record to go along with their 13-1 overall mark. Bentley and Dearborn currently hold identical 6-3 records with the four league games remaining.

A Salem triumph tomorrow night not only knocks Bentley out of the race, but assures the Rocks of at least a tie for the title and possibly the outright crown if Dearborn loses that night. Dearborn travel to Redford Union for its Friday battle.

THE ROCKS NOW

Trojans for good with a five-point spurt in the middle of the first quarter that erased an 8-7 Trenton lead.

Salem held a 16-10 advantage after the first quarter and increased it to as many as 13 midway in the second.

A late Trojan surge, which resulted in five points as the half ended, pulled

Salem grapplers place 4th in league meet; Chiefs hit bottom

Plymouth Salem's Dave Champion and Jim Ross and Plymouth Canton's Scott Collins won respective league titles for their wrestling teams over the weekend.

Champion (194-pounds) and Ross (129-pounds) were victors in the Suburban Eight League meet held Saturday at Edsel Ford. As a team, the Rocks finished a disappointing fourth place but still managed to cling to a tie Dearborn for second place in the final conference standings.

Belleville, as expected, easily won the Sub-8 title with the tournament victory. The Tigers were undefeated in conference dual-meet action going into the tourney.

Champion, the first seed, surprised everyone but his coach Ron Krueger with his performance. Ross won a 6-2 decision for the title.

COLLINS WAS CANTON'S only bright spot in the Western Six League tourney held at Northville. The Chiefs finished in last place much to the disappointment of coach Dan Chrenko who had high hopes for his junior-oriented squad at the beginning of the season.

Collins was undefeated throughout conference action and breezed in the 148-pound competition for the victory.

He is the first Canton wrestler to ever win a league title.

The Chiefs were in good shape after the first round when they won eight matches. But only three grapplers were able to advance further, as numerous close decisions spelled defeat in the Chiefs' second-round matches.

Harrison won the league championship, and Churchill placed a distant second.

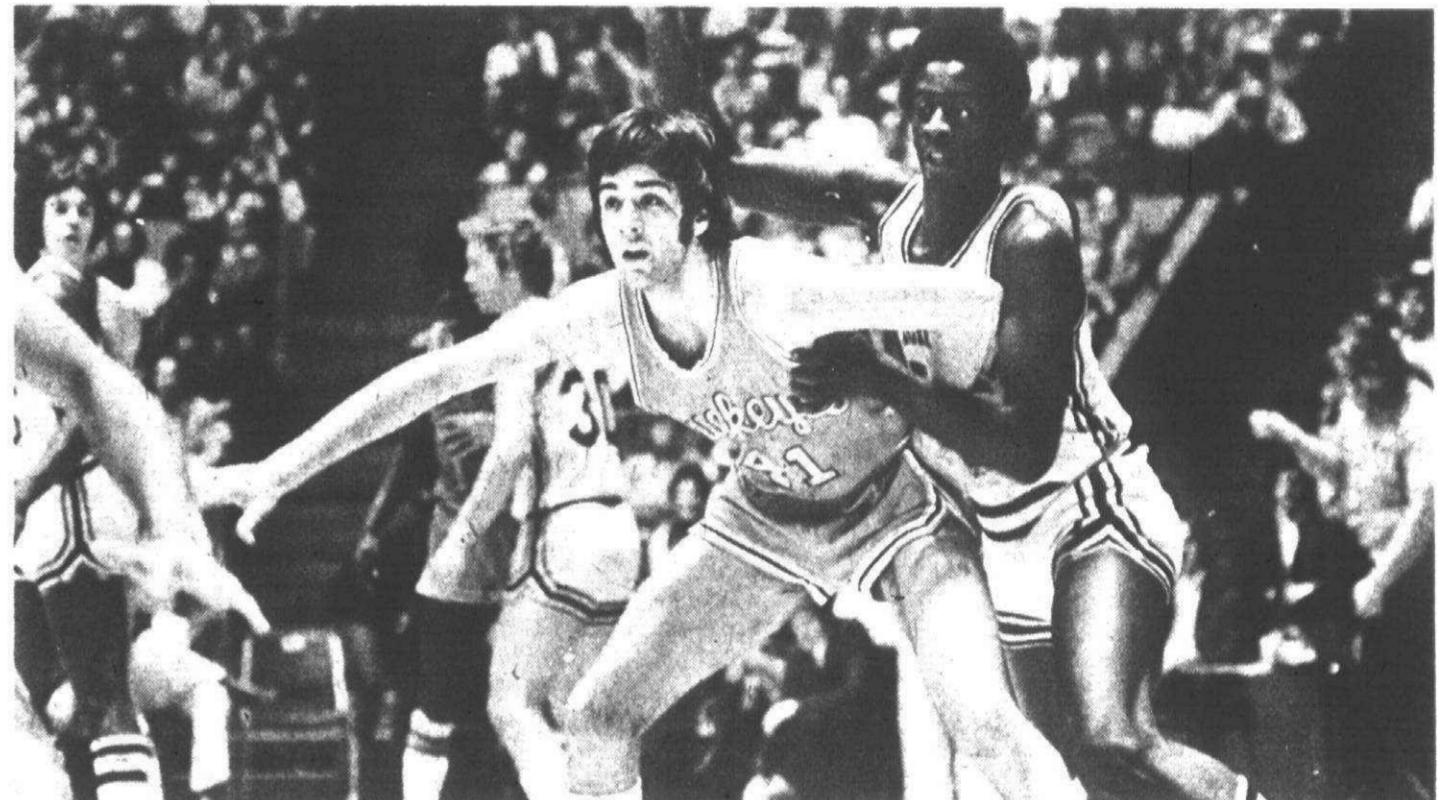

OTHER ROCK

wrestlers that placed in their competition were Steve Ernst (115), Rene Leist (122), Bob Zalameni (135) and Tom Chatalis (158) who all received thirds. Jeff Fidge (148) and Carl McNulty (141) both placed fourth. Heavyweight Bob Dasher didn't wrestle because of an injury.

Canton placed Kyle Heaton (158), Terry Clifford (141) and Craig Lee (115) in third place. Senior captain Bill Heedum (108) placed fourth.

To love and to cherish, from time immemorial, in every tongue and place, for all people.

from time immemorial,
in every tongue and place,
for all people.

There are volumes of superstitions—both happy and sad—that surround the institution of marriage. But marriage today needs all the help it can get, and with that thought in mind, I present you with some of the happy beliefs that have prevailed at one time or another.

When a visitor enters a home through one door and leaves through another, someone in that household is soon to be wed.

Marry in the month of June, life will be a honeymoon.

Happy the bride the sun shines on. Snow falling on the bridal couple is also said to be a good omen. They will get a dollar for every snowflake that falls on them.

The wedding day is the bride's day, and the day after the wedding is the groom's day. In some parts of the country, this is called "infare" or "unfair" day and a party is held for the couple by the groom's parents.

A piece of althea root tucked in the bridal bouquet insures a happy honeymoon and a life of wedded bliss.

A bride should have her veil put on by a happily married woman.

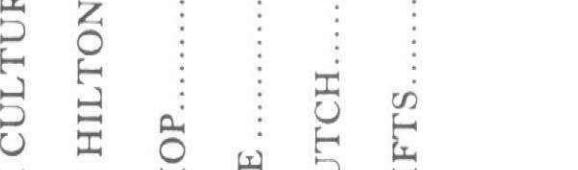

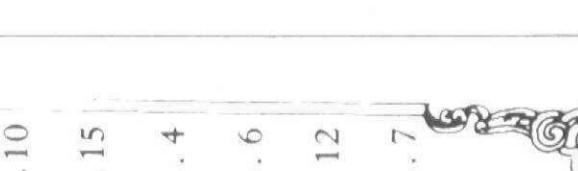

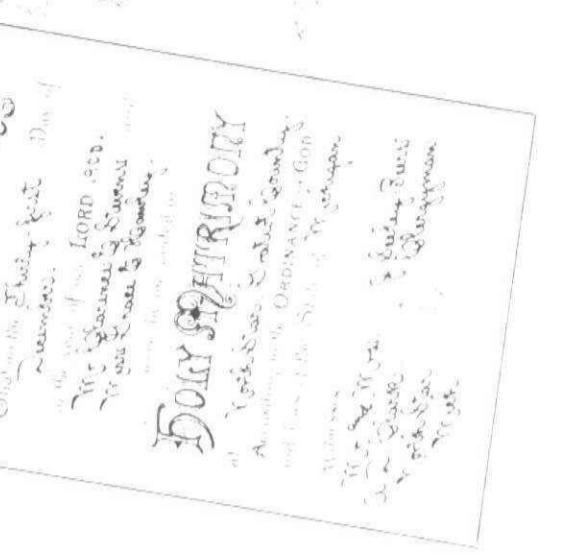

If the bride wears her grandmother's gown or veil, she always will have money.

A bit of salt carried in her glove will protect the bride from the evil eye.

A bridegroom should carry a horseshoe in his pocket for good luck (I'm sure a miniature one will do).

A bit of wheat added to the bridal bouquet will insure fertility. Rice is thrown at the bridal couple for the same reason.

The ring is a circle without an end, the symbol of eternity, and stands for everlasting love.

Handcraft favorite gifts

Every now and then a couple comes along who are so special that not just any gift will do. That's the time to take out your needle and stitch a special one-of-a-kind gift, straight from your heart to theirs.

It's great fun to dream up special gifts for special people. Whether you choose embroidery, needlepoint or sewing, there are ideas here for you.

The top of the line in handcrafted bridal presents has to be the bridal quilt. Traditionally, a group of bride's friends worked the quilt for her. Each appliqued, embroidered or pieced together one quilt block and signed it. Then all gathered at a bridal quilting bee, sewed the blocks together and quilted them.

This was the start of our bridal showers today, with quilt blocks substituting for tableware.

If this idea appeals to you, here are a few up-to-date hints that may speed the job.

First, buy all the material for the quilt at one time, and give the fabric to the stitchers. These quilts look better if there are not too many conflicting colors.

A good, basic quilting book is "The Standard Book of Quilt Making and Collecting," written by Marguerite Ickis and published by Dover.

You needn't quilt the coverlet if you haven't the time or the inclination to do so. Try tying the quilt every few inches with pretty yarn or floss. Very clear tying directions are to be found in the "Sunset Quilting and Patchwork" book. This takes much less time than quilting wears well and gives a lovely, puffy effect.

The ultimate in embroidered gifts may be a framed needlework wedding announcement. These usually are derived from Pennsylvania German fractur presentation pieces. They show a bride and groom, their names and the date of their wedding.

Go to the library, where you'll find designs in books of Pennsylvania German folk art and early American samplers. Whether you work needlepoint, crewel or cross stitch, the announcement picture will be delightfully original.

Needle workers have the ability to take an ordinary, commercial object and make it special. Try embroidering pillow cases and sheets. The bride's new monogram makes a very personal decoration. And, to me, white embroidery on white sheets is the height of luxury.

Etiquette eases engagement jitters

Getting engaged is an exciting time in any girl's life and the happy event immediately brings up certain questions for the newly-affianced couple. Who should be told first about the engagement? How do you notify friends and relatives?

Your immediate families should be told first, of course. After the prospective groom has received his family's blessing, so to speak, he is expected to call on the girl's father, according to proper etiquette. In turn, his family is expected to call on the bride-to-be's family, if distance permits. Otherwise, a note by the young man's mother can accomplish this custom's objective: welcoming the prospective bride into the family. Close relatives and friends should be informed of the engagement before newspapers are notified and before the engagement party is held, custom dictates.

The engagement party, while not necessary, is a joyful way to celebrate the young couple's affiancing, and it is traditionally given by the bride's family. However, the groom's family can host the party if the bride's family lives far away. Sometimes the groom-to-be is separated by distance from the bride-to-be. If so,

everybody in love is blind. —Propertius

A time for joy and

"The ceremony consists of answering a few questions and making a declaration that you take each other to live as husband and wife. The fee amounts to a few shillings." So reads a time-worn book that more than a century ago provided rules of etiquette—for weddings and other occasions—for English middle-class society.

And so went the brides and bridegrooms to the parish church, the bride wearing "a style of dress most becoming to the person," and the bridegroom.

Dr. Hess, senior pastor of Ward United Presbyterian Church of Livonia, said most couples who come to him want the traditional wedding.

Although some choose to write their own vows or even the entire ceremony, they select carefully for this most important moment.

Many now are following a relatively new tradition in the lighting of three in full dress, avoiding everything that is eccentric and broad in style." How does tradition make itself known today?

In the wedding vows and the way young couples look at marriage, says Dr. Bartlett L. Hess, a minister who has married some 2,700 couples in ceremonies that have spanned a quarter-century.

In the plans for the big event, say bridal consultants, they paid the preacher have given way to major social occasions and more than a few dollars, but the tradition that took them to the parish church—the joining of two lives through a public declaration—goes on.

And it stands strong as couples today prepare to plight their troths.

Tradition, of a certainty, is still the word for weddings in 1977.

Not to be sure, the hide-bound tradition shouted by "Fiddler on the Roof's" Tevye, the kind that assigned a role to everyone and permitted no shadings of difference.

Rather, continuing tradition means an appreciation of the old truth that when two become one it is more useful and greatly needed your advice and your help as far as possible and Jane we were truly fortunate to be given such a wonderful wedding. We do hope our thanks to you for all your hard work and effort. Very sincerely yours, Mr. and Mrs. John and Linda all their years together. To make it special, measure the straps and work them in needlepoint. Be certain to buy the rack before you stitch the straps because dimensions vary.

Since every bride has her favorite wedding picture, what about an embroidered picture frame to hold it? Work one in needlepoint, crewel or cross stitch. Excellent directions for assembling the frame can be found in Phyllis Fiarotta's "Nostalgia Crafts Book."

And finally, what about a ribbon pillow made with the ribbons from a bridal shower? Tell the guest to use a good quality ribbon and tell the bride to untie the packages carefully. Gently iron any crumpled ribbons. Then weave them into a pillow top, following the directions in the "Nostalgia Crafts Book." The pillow will always be a reminder of dear friends who gathered together to wish the new couple well.

Some presents take much time, some take less, but all of them show that you cared enough to give a little of yourself. And that's the most precious gift of all.

Legend rhymes bride's attire

"Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue, and a lucky sixpence in her shoe."

Every young bride has heard this familiar wedding rhyme but few know its history.

Like much of our folklore, this wedding superstition was derived from English tradition with variations added by each succeeding generation.

According to legend, when the bride begins to assemble her wedding attire, she first must turn to a happily married lady friend. From her, the bride accepts a gift that is old and treasured. The exchange ensures a lucky transfer of happiness for the new marriage.

The wedding shoes, gown or other apparel must be new. In this way, the bride declares her freshness and innocence.

One young lady attempting to follow tradition paid a painful price for something new.

On her wedding day she was arrayed in the formal dress and veil handed down by her grandmother. A last-minute purchase of white shoes by a relative would keep the custom of wearing something new intact, she thought.

Unaware, the bride began to put her dainty size seven foot into an even daintier size six shoe. With no time for an exchange, the toes were pushed and the heels prodded into the torturous shoes. Each and every step down the aisle was one to be remembered for breaking the tradition.

"Something borrowed" is important. The object must be of gold to guarantee wealth and fortune in the couple's future. The gold cannot be in the form of a borrowed ring. Besides having its own symbolic meaning, the band may have absorbed bad luck from the original owner.

The custom of wearing blue has many meanings. It represents the heavens above and also carries religious significance. Azure symbolizes true love, royalty and pure blood lines.

A bride traditionally wore a blue gown on her wedding day to confirm her innocence. Although the Greeks long ago considered white a sign of purity, it was not until the late 18th century that a white gown was accepted as fashionable. The Victorians adopted the change, having been inspired by the white first communion dress.

During the marriage ceremony it is considered appropriate for the bride to turn her back on a gathering of attendants and unmarried female guests. This step is taken prior to throwing the bouquet, to ensure fairness in the ceremony. The lucky lady catching the floral prize is the next to marry. The bride dare not let the bouquet fall to the floor for that is an omen of bad luck for her.

An overzealous young married tried to follow the tradition carefully and avoid bad luck by tossing the bouquet high in the air. It didn't fall to the floor, neither was it caught by a guest. Instead, it rested firmly in a light fixture 12 feet above the crowd. Ushers and relatives scurried to obtain a ladder. After a lengthy delay, the prize was released and floated into the hands of a very happy bridesmaid. A gift worth waiting for.

Acquiring the bride's garter is another wedding custom with a checkered history. In the north of England, young men scuffled among themselves in their striving to be first at the altar when the vows were completed. They pounced on the bride, plucked the garter and paraded triumphantly around the church. This tradition was shortened due to the wear and tear on the bridal dress, not to mention the bride.

As an alternative, the lace collar and yokes, ruffled necklines, Puritan collars, butterfly sleeves, cathedral sleeves, beaded collars and waistlines, empire waists, and sweetheart necklines will be making fashion news to the strains of Lohengrin. One feature of many new bridal dresses is the capelet styling, peasant tunics, layers and tiers, and angel sleeves will also be prominent at weddings this year.

equally significant, was a bouquet of wheat or corn stalks to symbolize fruitfulness.

The Roman bride had the right idea when she wore laurel leaves in her hair as a sign of victory.

—LORI BRICKMAN

Romance laces fashion

Today's bride may be modern in her attitude, but chances are she'll be nostalgic when it comes to that all-important decision-selecting her wedding dress.

Victorian styling, elaborate lace effects and lots of ruffles are creating an old-fashioned bridal look for 1977.

Some brides will even choose twirling parasols, evoking remembrances of favorite romantic novels.

Picture hats, wide and flattering, will be replacing the traditional veil for many brides, although some hats do feature trailing veils as well.

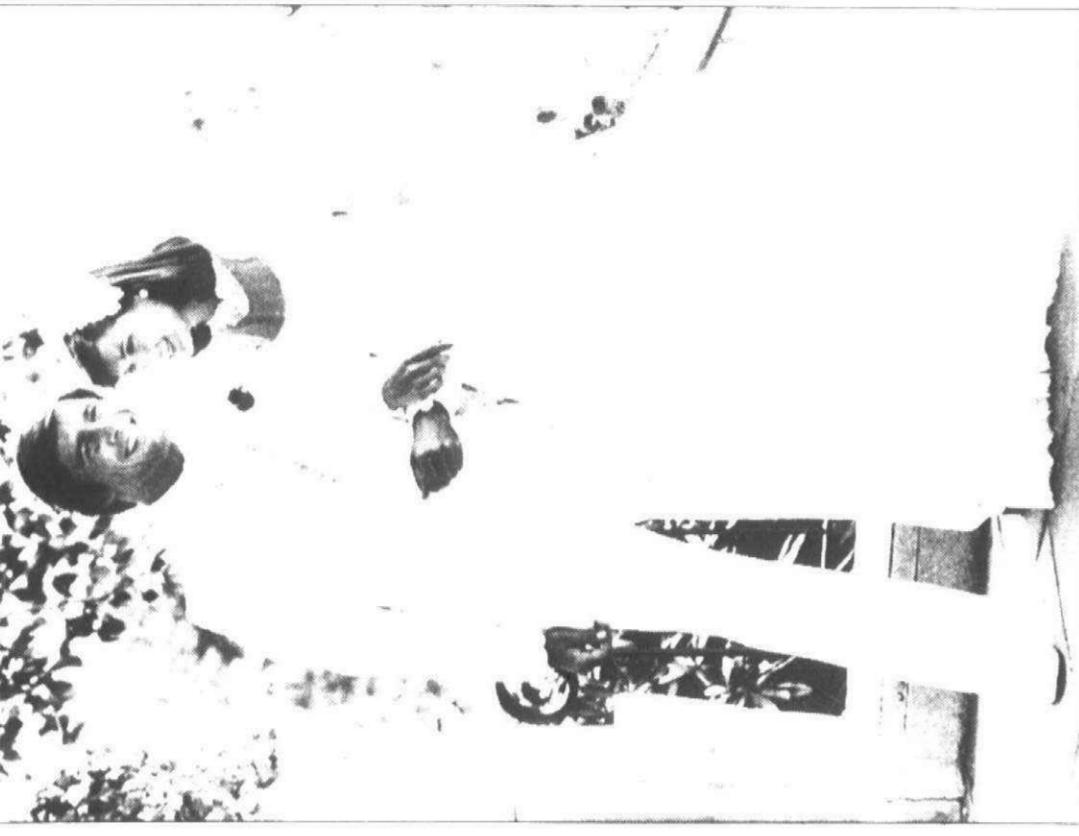

The country look is expected to be a popular choice for brides and their attendants, with natural fabrics such as cotton and lace fashioned into charmingly simple styles.

But organza, chiffons, satins, silk crepe de chine, and silky jerseys will still be receiving admiring attention from wedding guests this year.

Lace collars and yokes, ruffled necklines, Puritan collars, butterfly sleeves, empire waists, and sweetheart necklines will be making fashion news to the strains of Lohengrin.

Although the Greeks long ago considered white a sign of purity, it was not until the late 18th century that a white gown was accepted as fashionable. The Victorians adopted the change, having been inspired by the white first communion dress.

During the marriage ceremony it is considered appropriate for the bride to turn her back on a gathering of attendants and unmarried female guests. This step is taken prior to throwing the bouquet, to ensure fairness in the ceremony. The lucky lady catching the floral prize is the next to marry. The bride dare not let the bouquet fall to the floor for that is an omen of bad luck for her.

An overzealous young married tried to follow the tradition carefully and avoid bad luck by tossing the bouquet high in the air. It didn't fall to the floor, neither was it caught by a guest. Instead, it rested firmly in a light fixture 12 feet above the crowd. Ushers and relatives scurried to obtain a ladder. After a lengthy delay, the prize was released and floated into the hands of a very happy bridesmaid. A gift worth waiting for.

Acquiring the bride's garter is another wedding custom with a checkered history. In the north of England, young men scuffled among themselves in their striving to be first at the altar when the vows were completed. They pounced on the bride, plucked the garter and paraded triumphantly around the church. This tradition was shortened due to the wear and tear on the bridal dress, not to mention the bride.

As an alternative, the lace collar and yokes, ruffled necklines, Puritan collars, butterfly sleeves, cathedral sleeves, beaded collars and waistlines, empire waists, and sweetheart necklines will be making fashion news to the strains of Lohengrin.

One feature of many new bridal dresses is the capelet styling, peasant tunics, layers and tiers, and angel sleeves will also be prominent at the wedding.
