Folker's land is site for hall

Canton's new administration building will be constructed on the site of the former Folkers Nursery property on the west side of Canton Center Road between Proctor and Cherry Hill.

The 65-acre parcel finally won approval of township board members Tuesday night, after Trustee Brian Schwall and Clerk John Flodin agreed to compromise their first preference for an alternative, 12-acre site on the east side of Canton Center in order to break a deadlock vote on the building's location.

The deadlock, caused by Trustee Robert Myers' insistence to vote "no" on both of the proposed sites, could have cost the township its $2.7 million federal grant for the administration building. Groundbreaking must be begun by April 20 for the township to qualify for federal funds.

Myers and Trustee Lynne Goldsmith voted against the westside parcel in the final rollcall.

In related action, board members agreed to award the administration building's construction contract to R.E. Dailey Co. of Detroit, one of six construction management firms which submitted bids. R.E. Dailey, which oversaw construction of the Kresge warehouse on Joy, submitted the lowest bid—$88,800.

Myers, who believes the administration building should not be constructed because of its operating cost, cast the one dissenting vote anainst awarding the contract.

MYERS, WHO BLOCKED the township board's selection of a site for the administration building last week, Tuesday forced Schwall and Flodin to vote for the Folkers Nursery site, favored by Supervisor Harold Stein, Treasurer Ann Bradley and Trustee Eugene Daley.

In a repeat performance of action taken at last week's board meeting, Myers voted "no" on a 12-acre parcel on the east side of Canton Center, north of the township firehall— referred to as Site A—as well as the Folkers parcel, known as Site B.

With Schwall, Flodin and Mrs. Goldsmith voting for Site A and Stein, Mrs. Bradley and Daley voting for Site B, Myers' "no" vote creaded a deadlock on the board.

"Since I seem to be the kicker on this board," said Myers, "I intend to vote no on both sites. I've talked to numerous people in this township, and I just can't support this township hall.

"The operating expenses for that building are going to cost you $63,000 the first year."

Stein disagreed with the figure offered by Myers, but failed to give his own estimate of the building's operating costs.

Numerous residents at Tuesday's meeting explained their preference for sites A or B, and some hurled criticisms at Myers.

"You're hurting no one but the township," one resident told the trustee.

TO INSURE THAT the administration building would be constructed, Schwall moved to reconsider the Folkers site. His motion came after two separate motions to construct the administration building on both sites failed by 4-3 votes.

"I personally believe that acceptance of this grant is imperative," said Schwall. "I feel the action of a township board cannot be stymied by the inability to make a decision. I intend to vote for Site B (Folkers) this time, but I have a preference for Site A."

Flodin, who had also voted for Site A on previous roll calls, seconded Schwall's motion to reconsider the site of the former nursery property.

"I too have to compromise my beliefs," Flodin explained. "You can make a case that Canton doesn't need a new township hall today, but we

By DARLENE STINSON

Picking a lively bluegrass tune on the strings of a banjo and guitar, Canton resident Gary Best and co-worker George Piavis paused in the midst of a jam session.

"You know," said Best, as he toyed with the pick of his guitar, "it always seems like there's just the two of us when we start to play. We can be at a party, and, suddenly, there's no one else there but us and our music."

Best and Piavis, who work as a supervisor and a computer programmer at Ford Motor Co.'s Parts Distribution Center in Livonia, fill a generous portion of their spare time playing bluegrass music together or practicing on their own.

Although neither plans to leave his job, both hope to play weekend gigs at a nightclub or restaurant someday.

"That's even if we had to play for nothing but the experience," Piavis said.

THE TWO ARE always searching for an audience.

They recently performed in a talent show at the Geneva United Presbyterian Church in Canton, and once they even picked tunes on the rooftops of their cars in the parking lot of Livonia's Adams Townhouse Restaurant.

Another time they played in the record vault at work.

"We even drew a little crowd," Best said.

But so far, the bulk of their playing experience comes from Friday night jam sessions with guitar, banjo and a couple six-packs of beer. Then there's always the parties where friends expect them to play.

"It's almost that we get invited in pairs," laughed Best. "When one of us gets invited to a party, we know automatically the other will be there. We're always asked to bring our instruments, of course."

To gain acceptence as professionals, Best and Piavis hope to add other bluegrass musicians to their duo. A fiddler, a mandolin player, a string bass player or another guitarist would be nice, they say.

"We're hard up for other people who know bluegrass," said Best. "We've done everything short of placing an ad in the paper. We've put a notice on the bulletin board at work, and passed along our hopes of getting somebody by word of mouth."

BEST LIVES in Canton's Wagon Wheel West Subdivision with his wife Marilyn and two children. He met Novi resident Piavis at a party seven years ago. Best had his guitar, Piavis had his banjo, and the first chords of a bluegrass duet were picked.

Both had been bluegrass lovers for years.

"My theory is that we both grew up hearing bluegrass and the Grand Ole Opry on the radio," said Piavis. "I liked it when I was a kid, and it just came back when I was older."

Both musicians have roots in the South, the home of bluegrass music. Piavis was born in Louisiana, and Best's parents moved to Michigan from Arkansas.

Hard put to differentiate bluegrass from country and western music, Piavis said bluegrass tunes are essentially folk songs, played solely by string instruments with no amplification or percussion backup.

"When we play in dingy bars, people want us to play cry-in-your-beer, country songs," Best said. "That's not bluegrass."

Originating in the Blue Grass region of Kentucky, bluegrass music has won world-wide popularity. Even Japan has a bluegrass club and a star bluegrass musician.

"Bluegrass is 'purist' American music," Best said. "It's a music all its own."

But best of all, according to Best, is that bluegrass provides hours of enjoyment for himself, Piavas and their friends. And they don't need any delusions of grandeur to make that worthwhile.

"If nothing else, our music pleases ourselves," Best said.

Mettetal talk causes Pickwick flap

By PATRICK TOUHEY

Unless William Silaghi has cards he's not showing, his plans for the expansion of Mettetal Airport at Joy and Lilley appear destined to remain just that—plans.

In a public, informational meeting last Friday, Silaghi, the self-appointed project director, spoke to an audience of pilots and homeowners about the advantages of a larger airport. The pilots didn't need to be sold, and the homeowners weren't buying.

About an hour into the presentation, the homeowners—almost all residents of Canton's Pickwick Village—stormed out together, after one of their number shouted, "We went through this two years ago, and I'm not going to stand for it."

Prior to the mass exodus, Silaghi had tried to outline his proposal while fielding questions from the audience. At one point he admitted that the expansion "planning committee" was himself and the pilots at Mettetal.

His main argument for the expansion was that a larger airport would serve the Plymouth-Canton community by attracting business and industry which depended heavily on air freight shipments.

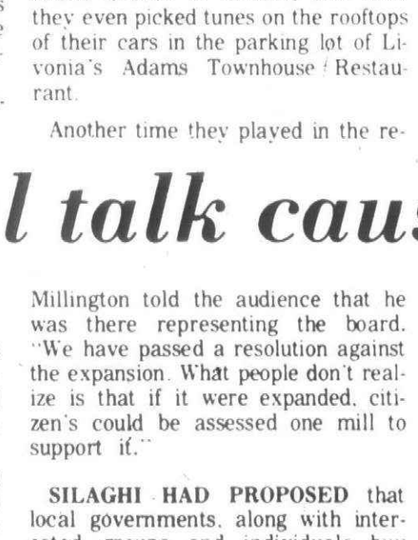

The residents, however, did not concede the advantages. Instead they objected to noise and safety problems and to the possibility that tax money would be used to finance the expansion.

Richard Olson of Plymouth Township said: "What you are asking us to do is subsidize 200 pilots' pleasure."

Plymouth Township Trustee Frank Millington told the audience that he was there representing the board. "We have passed a resolution against the expansion. What people don't realize is that if it were expanded, citizen's could be assessed one mill to support it."

SILAGHI HAD PROPOSED that local governments, along with interested groups and individuals buy shares in the airport, thereby making it public-owned and eligible for federal and state funds.

His plans called for lengthening the runway from 2,500 feet to 3,000 feet and constructing a 150-room hotel with convention facilities on the property.

He argued the increased runway length would allow pilots a greater safety margin in landing their planes and also would reduce the noise. The hotel, Silaghi maintained, would bring business executives into the area.

He pointed out that a number of local companies, including the Ford-Wixom plant, Associated Spring, and Burroughs, currently use the air field for shipping and receiving parts. A larger facility, Silaghi argued, would increase the industrial and commercial use of the airport, thus benefiting Canton's tax base.

Despite the poor reception by local governments, Silaghi was optimistic. "I haven't received any official notification that the governments are not for this project," he commented before the meeting. "I've read in the paper that they were against it, but maybe they'll change their minds when I get the facts out."

Canton Township Supervisor Harold Stein, however, stated that the proposal has not been presented to anyone on the board.

"He's missed the most important thing," Stein said. "He's gone to everybody but us, and the property is in Canton." Stein added that while he personally was not against progress, he was against expansion of the runway.

Also attending the meeting was J.P. McCarthy, a representative of Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, who said he was only there to observe and report. "Livonia is interested only if other community governments are interested.

SEVERAL QUESTIONS from the audience had to do with rumors that Mettetal Airport was in financial trouble.

They wanted to know if the idea for a municipal airport was, mainly, to keep the facility from closing down completely. Although Silaghi said there was no truth to the rumors, he indicated that if the Canton wouldn't buy the airport and expand it, he hoped it would just buy it and maintain it.

However, in an earlier interview, Bob Mettetal, the present owner, gave a different version: "We are trying to save the airport for business and industry. If they don't want that, it's fine with me. But I'm being taxed out of business. I've got to sell."

Dog licenses up for renewal

Dog license fees went up one dollar on March 1 in Canton Township. It now costs $5 to license your dog.

All dogs which are six months or older are required to be licensed. If a dog is picked up without a license, the owner is subject is subject to possible fine.

The dog licenses may be purchased at the township hall, 44508 Geddes. The hall is open Monday-Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Michigan Humane Society at Newburgh and Marquette also sells licenses.

3 named to police council

Canton Township Board Tuesday enacted a recommendation of the township's police study committee by appointing three board members to a commission that will oversee and direct the Canton Police Department.

Amid protests by Trustee Lynne Goldsmith, Supervisor Harold Stein appointed Trustee Eugene Daley, Trustee Brian Schwall and Clerk John Flodin to the police commission.

The police commission, according to the recommendation of the study committee, will decide and rule upon "all matters relating to the department." The police chief will be directly responsible to the commission's chairman, who will be elected by commission members.

The recommendation was part of a report submitted by the study committee last week. In the report, committee members recommended establishment of a full-time, full-service Canton Police Department as the best police protection for the township.

BUT MRS. GOLDSMITH and Trustee Robert Myers Tuesday voted against the police commission appointments—the first step in possible implementation of the study committee's plans.

In a written statement, Mrs. Goldsmith said township board members should take other steps before they establish a police commission. Board members, she said, should:

- Hold as many study meetings as necessary to determine the level of police service desirable for Canton, establish regulations, re-evaluate the police budget and allow for resident input on the police issue.
- Hire a police chief with the advice of experts.

"A police committee or safety committee, that could include the fire department, could be appointed after a police chief is hired to act as liaison between the board and the police department," Mrs. Goldsmith said.

But the majority of board members disagreed with her.

"I think we should react immediately to this police report," said Stein. "I think time is of the essence, and I think this police commission should be established."

Mrs. Goldsmith retorted, "I think this (the police department) is this board's responsibility. I don't think the board should delegate that responsiblity to a committee.

"Does this mean we're going to take the recommendations of the other study committees as easily as we're taking this one?" she asked.

SOME RESIDENTS at Tuesday's meeting offered other objections to the police commission appointments.

Jim Donahue, former co-chairman of the Committee to Re-elect the Greenstein Team, objected to Daley's appointment to the police commission. Daley is a lieutenant with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. The township study committee considered contracting with the Sheriff's Department for police services.

"My concern is that we've still made no firm commitment one way or another to the Sheriff's Department," Donahue said.

But Treasurer Anne Bradley quickly jumped to Daley's defense.

"I don't think Eugene Daley has a conflict of interest," she said. "He's qualified, and he does know police work.

"There's been a lot of talk about a campaign donation we got from the sheriff's union," she continued. "But we took that donation with no obligation toward them."

Another objection to the police commission came from resident Alfred Lobbestael, who feared the presence of three police commissioners on the township board.

"You only need four votes to take an action," he said, "and you'd have three police commissioners. I don't think it's a wise decision, and I don't have anything against any man here."

"You presume there'd be unanimity among the three," Flodin said.

Added Schwall, "I think you have more problems when you have a police commission not accountable to the public."

10 racquetball courts planned

A racquetball facility with ten courts might be added to the Plymouth Community Cultural Center.

The Plymouth city administration now is considering a $560,000 expansion to the cultural center to provide for 10 racquetball courts plus sauna and locker room facilities.

Fred Yockey, city administrator, gave a preliminary report during the pre-commissjon meeting Monday night and will ask the city commission March 7 for permission to hire an architect to prepare drawings and specifications.

YOCKEY'S SUGGESTION to expand the Cultural Center for racquetball courts grew out of a study he did on using the abandoned water storage tanks in Plymouth Township, owned by the city, for racquetball.

"The idea of racquetball courts in the old water tank sounded fine, but on closer examination we discovered that it would be more feasible and economical to build an expansion on to the cultural center for racquetball" Yockey explained.

"For one thing, the cultural center is more centrally located. Many residents can walk to the center and others can easily drive there, while the water tanks are three miles away.

"Also, the city has a staff on duty at the cultural center which can be used for the racquetball courts. We also have the concession stand at the center, and by having racquetball courts located there we might get a reduction in electrical costs. And, of course, there is plenty of parking spaces already available at the cultural center."

THE CITY MANAGER says preliminary estimates indicated that conversion of the water tank, popularly known as the "domed stadium," to a racquetball facility, would cost at least as much as expanding the cultural center.

"For the water tank, we'd need new floors, heating and air conditioning. The remodeling cost would be so extensive that it will be cheaper to add on to the cultural center. We now probably will use the water tanks for storage, as we originally intended."

Yockey says the expansion could be financed by the Plymouth Municipal Building Authority selling bonds to cover the estimated $560,000 construction cost.

"I anticipate it would cost about $70,000 a year to operate the racquetball courts, and we'd budget about $50,000 a year to pay off the bonds. But based on our projected revenues, we should realize a profit of $30,000 a year after expenses and bond payments. The $30,000 would help lessen the present cultural center financial deficit."

Yockey said another option in building the racquetball courts would be to use a private developer. "We've talked with a private source which would like to get involved. If that choice was made, the private developer would lease the property, construct the building, and then lease it back to thecity to operate for an annual payment.

"But a profit motive would be involved, of course, in going the private route and so I expect it will be more economical to use the building authority to sell bonds."

Hearing is set on federal $$

On March 14 the City of Plymouth will hold a public hearing to receive citizen's suggestions on how to spend federal revenue sharing funds.

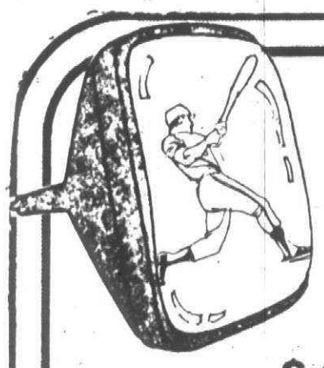

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the city commission chambers on the second floor of Plymouth City Hall. It will be open to all residents of the city.

The planning commission has offered several projects for consideration, including parking improvements, recreational facility improvements, and expanding the Dunning-Hough Library.

Burroughs hit by strike as UAW contract ends

Seniority and pension rights were cited by members of UAW's Local 1313 as reasons the strike was called at midnight Monday at Burroughs' plants in Plymouth, Wayne and Detroit.

Burroughs' contract with Local 1313 expired at midnight Monday after three months of bargaining between company and union officials. The three affected plants employ approximately 3,500 people and 1,800 of that number are out on strike.

The Burroughs strikers work on mini-computer parts and assembly.

A strike vote was taken three weeks ago when negotiations broke down in the midst of a rash of layoffs. A Burroughs spokesman in Plymouth said 237 employees were laid off in the last month at the Plymouth plant.

Workers, gathered around a bonfire, said the company hasn't made all layoffs on the basis of "least seniority." Others felt they had been shortchanged on the number of years in their pension fund.

MRS. AUDREY CRUICKSHANK of Plymouth Township said she has worked for Burroughs for 24 years, but, because of company layoffs, her pension is only for 22 years service.

"Besides, they've laid people off down to 1955-56 date of hire and yet there's still people with '73, '74 date of hire working," she said.

"This is survival we're fighting for," said John Midgel of Livonia. "I started in '47 and three weeks ago they laid off people with as much as 21 years seniority."

John Stone of Garden City claims Burroughs called back some of the people laid off three weeks ago for one day's work Monday "just so they'd lose their unemployment benefits. They knew we were going to strike that day at midnight."

A BURROUGH'S spokesman in Detroit said the company has made an offer to UAW Local 1313 that includes "equitable improvement in wages and a continuation of the cost of living benefit. Burroughs management considers its offer to be fair, reasonable and equitable and is prepared to resume work schedules when the members of the union return to work."

The formal statement on negotiations says the company's offer "calls for major improvements in life and health insurance, holidays, a dental plan and a 40 per cent improvement in fringes."

Burroughs' statement claims that the company's Detroit-area wage levels "are already higher than the average wage paid in the office equipment industry." The Detroit plants and Local 1313 represent six per cent of the corporation's total United States employment, according to a Burroughs' spokesman, and "all other units are operating normally."

Ralph Viola, UAW Local 1313 president, was not available for comment on the status of negotiations.

5 schools 'designated' 45-15; but union yelps

By PATRICK TOUHEY

The Plymouth Board of Education Monday identified five elementary schools which would be placed on an extended school year for 1977-78, despite charges from the teacher's union that the "unilateral action" violated fair labor practices.

By a vote of 5-1, the board designated Field, Miller, Eriksson, Hulsing, and Isbister schools for the so-called "45-15" programs next fall, which means the schools will be open for 45 weeks and closed for 15. In addition, Pioneer Middle School will be placed on a pilot 45-15 schedule. Trustee Richard Arlen cast the dissenting vote. Board President Joe Gray was absent.

Before the vote, Candi Reece, president of the Plymouth Education Association (PEA), read a letter to the board, stating that because there was no contract settlement the board would leave itself open to an unfair labor practices suit if it ordered 45-15 scheduling.

However, the board felt that because it was only designating the schools and not implementing the program, there was no violation. Earlier in the day, Charles Fine, the board's labor attorney, had given a legal opinion backing this position.

A prior motion made by Arlen to table the decision until the board's negotiaiting position was made clearer went down by a voter of 4-2. He and Trustee Flossie Tonda were the only members in favor of delaying action.

The majority opinion, though, held that the board could not afford to put off dealing with the issue, and the schools should be designated to allow enough time for the details to be worked out.

Said Trustee George Lawton: "There is nothing arbitrary about this decision, and there should be discussion with teachers. But everyone who has followed the problems of this district knows the space difficulties that it faces.

"Administration can't get the program started in a few weeks. We need all the time we can get." Establishment of the schools, he argued, would not prohibit negotiations.

HOSTILITY OVER THE controversial decision surfaced after an exchange between Arlen and the board's chief negotiator, Norm Kee. Arlen had asked Kee if the PEA had been given all the necessary information about the 45-15 program, as outlined in Fine's legal opinion.

When Kee said that requirements had been met, there was a loud reaction from the large number of teachers in the audience. Arlen then called on the PEA's Reece for more information. However, before she could answer, Trustee E.J. McClendon, acting chairman, told Arlen he was out of order in soliciting comments from the audience and refused to recognize Reece.

Lawton criticized Arlen for calling on Reece, saying he felt it was in poor taste to "use a position on the board to create dissension in a known partisan crowd." Trustee Marcia Borowski also expressed her dissatisfaction with the exchange.

"I'm sorry this had to come to a confrontation, but it was carefully engineered," said Borowski. "Our primary consideration is for the children . . .We are running out of room. We need to make the decision.

"Calendar is, of course, a negotiable item, and the board has so directed." Even if there is no agreement between the board and the teachers, Borowski maintained it is still the board's responsibility to provide an education for the district's children. Trustee Tom Yack agreed with Borowski, and pointed out that the board was "designating" the schools and not "implementing" the program.

In calling for the vote McClendon told the audience, "Voting yes on an unpopular cause is distasteful to me. But we have wrestled with this question for a long time. We are doing this because we feel that it's the best way to go."

BEFORE THE MOTION designating the schools passed, it was ammended twice. As originally presented, it would have required parents to furnish transportation for their children if they opted for a paired school with a traditional calendar. The one exception to this was Miller School, where bussing to the paired school would be provided. But Trustee Tonda questioned the fairness of the Miller exception, and the board voted to delete it.

The second ammendment guaranteed that there would be alternative (paired) schools for a one year period, if space was available. The paired school for Field is Fiegel; for Eriksson, Allen; for Miller, Gallimore; for Hulsing, Tanger; and for Isbister, Starkweather.

Although Bird was among those being considered for 45-15, Supt. John Hoben said the decision to designate Isbister instead was made because Bird's departing fifth-grade class was larger than the anticipated new enrollment.

2 arrested at local PCP lab

Federal narcotics officers raided a Plymouth Township house Tuesday, arresting two men and confiscating laboratory equipment and enough chemicals to produce 10 pounds of phencycladine (PCP), which one officer said has a wholesale value of between $50-80,000.

According to Theodore Vernier, regional director of the Federal Drug Enforcement Bureau, a federal search warrant was served at 9187 Tavistock on Tuesday afternoon. Arrested at the home were Ernest Mullin, 24, of that address, and Jeffrey Tatus, 20, of 3972 Greenfield, Berkley.

Both men were subsequently arraigned in federal court on a charge of conspiracy to manufacture drugs, and each was ordered held in lieu of a $25,000 cash bond. Also arraigned in the case was Jamie Pistometti, 24, of 1136 Minock, Detroit.

Vernier was reluctant to divulge specifics in the arrests, but said that the investigation started when federal officers were called to a fire at the Detroit address on Tuesday morning.

Youth, 19, dies in fall

The Wayne County Medical Examiner's office said Tuesday that the death of a Canton youth who fell down the stairs of his home last Sunday was accidental.

The victim, Tony Lynn Miller, 19, died in his home at 8473 Canton Center Road from a skull fracture, said Roger Pearsall, an investigator in the medical examiner's office.

Wayne County Sheriff's Det. Robert Pond said Miller's sister Gale was apparently the only other person home at the time of the accident. Canton Fire Department's rescue squad arrived at 2:38 a.m. and transported Miller to Wayne County General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

"He was found by his sister, Gale, who told us she heard a thump, went to investigate, and found her brother at the foot of the stairs," Pond said.

Miller was a 1975 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and an employee of Bathey's Manufacturing in Plymouth.

The funeral was Tuesday at Schrader's Funeral Home with the Rev. Samuel Stout officiating. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery.

Miller is survived by his mother, Mrs. Norine Miller; sisters, Gale and Patricia; brothers, Kenneth and Anthony; and grandparents, Matthew and Ruth Everett.

Farm survey could cost $4,000

Members of Canton's land use study committee may soon ask township residents for their opinions on saving agricultural land and open space.

Committee chairman Bart Berg has asked township board members to consider funding a survey that would focus on residents' attitudes toward the retention of farmland.

Officials are expected to take action on the matter at next Tuesday's board meeting.

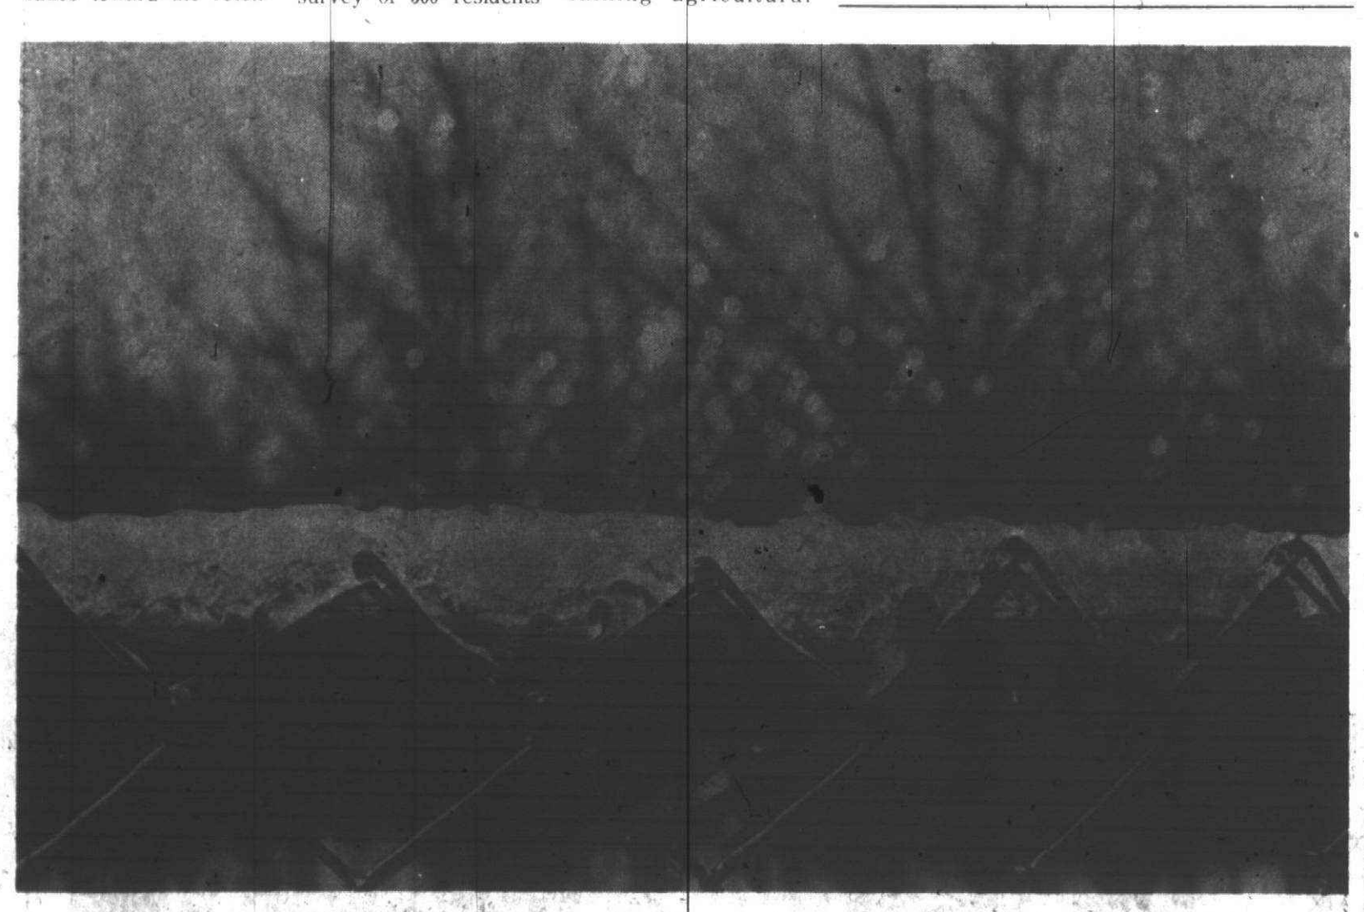

According to Berg, cost of the survey would depend on its scope. Mailing questionnaires to all homes in the township would cost about $4,000, while a sample survey of 500 residents and land owners would cost far less.

Berg said the land use study committee would use the survey's results to formulate their recommendation on the feasibility of retaining agricultural land.

"To write up our final report, I think it's critical that we know how the people feel about retaining agricultural land," he explained.

Berg hopes to mail the questionnaires to residents by March 15 and have them back by April 1. Committee members would take two weeks evaluating the survey results and complete its report by mid-April.

probably will need one two years down the street."

TOWNSHIP BOARD members have been divided in their preferences since shortly after the township's application for the $2.7 million federal grant was approved Jan. 20.

Stein, who favored the approved site on the west side of Canton Center, emphasized that the township would have to buy the 12 acres known as Site A from developer Dick Lewiston for $89,000. The township is already buying Site B, and still owes $197,000 on the property.

Site B's (Folkers) 65 acres, its proponents said, would allow eventual construction of a civic complex, complete with library, a police station and a courtroom, next to the administration building. The new township hall and a parking lot would completely fill Site A's 12 acres.

But proponents of Site A feared an administration building constructed on the west side of Canton Center would open the township's western half to sanitary sewers and a building boom.

Trustee Goldsmith, who last week issued a statement on her preference for Site A, said the township would spend a far greater sum for sewers if Site B if it were selected.

BOARD MEMBERS voted to award R.E. Dailey Co. with the construction management contract for the building upon the recommendation of the township's architect.

Under the construction management method, the township will pay R.E. Dailey Co. a flat fee of $88,800, hire subcontractors itself and purchase materials free of sales tax. R.E. Dailey Co. will supervise and coordinate work of subcontractors.

In sharp contrast, the township would pay a general contractor for the entire cost of the building—in this case $2.7 million.

The case against accepting grant

Editor:

Harold Stein was recently quoted in our three local papers as stating that "the new administration building is something that we need 10 years or so down the road."—Observer 12-27-76; Crier 12-29-76 and Eagle 12-30-76.

The object of federal public works grants is to stimulate construction jobs in communities and provide long-term employment. According to the Eagle, several board members are concerned about the township's capability of affording new construction in terms of manning and maintaining the new building.

Mike Manore, former township planner, and the architect were supposed to come up with an estimate of utilities and other maintenance costs. Has this been done? Even though it is a gift of $2.7 million from the federal government, maybe we can't afford it in the long run.

Are we absolutely positive that this project will not cost more than this estimated amount, as so often is the case? If we cannot afford a police department, how can we afford any commitment towards this unknown expense?

We must consider the fact that energy for heat and electricity is a serious problem today. Many people are not able to work due to this fact. Maybe any building of this size should be planned with an alternate energy (solar?) in mind. The fuel, water and electric bills could be exhorbitant for a building this size.

Sewers are not available at either site. If sewers are extended, we must consider the cost and further suburban sprawl.

OUR PRESENT township office was remodeled recently at a cost of $30,000, plus approximately $8,000 to move and set up a modular addition worth $40,000, given to us by Bank of the Commonwealth. So, we have a newly-renovated township hall which is serving our present and future needs.

The architectural design of the proposed hall is too contemporary. It looks like a city hall. I am not so sure we want to take this first step towards being a city. A city can levy up to 20 mills without voter approval.

The present recreation building was remodeld recently with a $33,000 federal grant, which constructed kitchen facilities and an activity room for senior citizens. Will the new building have kitchen facilities for seniors? Also, a third floor location seems unfeasible for seniors.

The only promise of a library in the new building is a "possibility." Former supervisor Robert Greenstein was quoted (Observer 9-16-76) as saying the cost of supplying books and media materials would have to be borne by the township and the cost proved prohibitive. We presently pay $30,000 a year to Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth for the use of their facility. The cost of a librarian alone would consume a large amount of this sum.

The height of the proposed building does not meet our present code restriction of 30 feet or less.

Would we have to borrow money to start the construction, or is the grant given immediately?

Does cost of contruction include driveways, landscaping, widening the main thoroughfare, land purchase, etc?

It is my sincere hope that the Citizens' Advisory Council (CAC) study this mammoth project before jumping into the frying pan.

Teachers' union protests

Year-round school snarls negotiations

By EMORY DANIELS

Plans to expand year-round school scheduling in Plymouth-Canton Schools have all the ingredients of leading to a labor confrontation between the school board and teacher's union.

The Plymouth Education Association (PEA) has warned the board that expansion of the Extended School Year (ESY) program without negotiating a new master agreement would be a serious unfair labor practice warrenting counter-action.

School board negotiators, however, argue that the school board has the right to establish a calendar in the absence of a contract agreement and could extend the ESY program to other school buildings without commiting an unfair labor practice.

CANDI REECE, PEA president, told the school board Monday night that implementation of ESY programs in several buildings would be a violation of the master agreement which "prohibits such unilateral board action."

Ms. Reece quoted from two tentative agreements negotiated in August, 1976: "Additional ESY programs will be mutually agreed to by the association negotiating team and the board's negotiating team prior to implementation" and "No teacher shall be assigned into an ESY Program without their consent." As further support for the PEA's position, she quoted the interim work rules established by Supt. John M. Hoben in September, 1976, which read in part: "All provisions of the 1974-76 master agreement, including the new tentatively agreed articles and sections, will be adhered to, except for the following:...." The exceptions, Ms. Reece noted, doesn't include ESY.

"We assume that Supt. John M. Hoben's work rules are still in effect, in as much as there is no master agreement, and that the tentative agreement on ESY is binding on both parties.

"ESY language is just one of several issues that must be resolved at the bargaining table before a new master agreement can be ratified by the teachers and yourselves," she told trustees Monday night.

"We strongly encourage you to reassess your position on unilateral implementation of ESY programs for the benefit of the school district.

"Plymouth-Canton teachers will not be subjected to radical changes in calendar and working conditions without the protection of a master agreement.

"If you should decide to unilaterally implement ESY programs in Plymouth-Canton schools, the association will initiate whatever actions necesssry to prevent that implementation."

In conclusion, Ms. Reese stated that "challenges which confront this growing school district can be met only through the total cooperation of its educational family. We have made the settlement of an equitable master agreement our first priority We ask you to do the same."

NORM KEE, chief negotiator for the school board, said he has attempted to reach agreement with the PEA on ESY but without success.

"The PEA refuses to even talk about ESY until an agreement is reached on the total contract. I asked them three times to discuss ESY, but they refused. There can be no 'mutual agreement' when the other side refuses to even attempt an agreement.

"Extension of ESY wouldn't be a violation of the master agreement because we have no master agreement now. While the calendar is a mandatory item for negotiation, the state says when an impasse is reached the school board has an obligation to adopt a calendar so schools can be opened.

"If the superintendent sets the work rules, which he did, he also can re-set the work rules. I don't agree with the PEA at all that expansion of ESY would be a violation of the work rules which the superintendent is bound to uphold. The superintendent isn't bound by the work rules—especially when we are talking about a schedule for next year.

"Are the work rules set last September to go on forever without change because there's no agreement yet?" asked Kee. "If next fall comes around, and there's no master agreement, the superintendent would be entirely in his rights to set new work rules—even if those rules include greater use of year-round school schedules."

Kee also pointed out that the 1974-76 contract included a guarantee from the PEA that year-round school "would continue uninterrupted at Miller School, even without a contract, through the 1976-77 school year.

"We will try to reach a mutual agreement with the PEA on ESY, but if we cannot, the school board must schedule classes for next fall and the board can, if it chooses, implement year-round schedules at other schools."

CHARLES FINE, labor attorney for the school board, told trustees Monday that they have an obligation to enter into good faith negotiations.

"The negotiations in good faith require notification to the PEA of plans to implement the year-round school program and every effort should be made to reach an 'accord.

"However, if the PEA refuses to approach the matter in a meaningful way, the board may have no other alternative than to take unilateral action."

After Monday night's school board meeting, Ms. Reece said the PEA bargaining team would consult with its attorney to discuss what action, if any, to be taken next. "The term 'designating' schools for ESY is the school board's word. I'm not sure yet the action amounts to only designation. Teachers at Pioneer Middle, for instance, have received forms asking them to select what track they'd like to teach on for year-round school. That looks like implementation to me."

Kee responded: "Monday night the school board designated what schools will be selected for year-round school and directed the administration to proceed with plans to implement ESY. But implementation is a long process and takes a lot of preparation, including assignment of staff members on certain tracks. Technically, ESY won't be implemented until school starts next year.

"My understanding is that the board directed us to implement planning but we aren't implementing the ESY program yet."

CRIME

"I support a number of specific legislative proposals to crack down on crime These include mandatory minimum sentences for felonies, more uniform sentencing, and parole reform-including the requirement that every convicted criminal serve his minimum sentence. I believe that we should require stiffer penalties for juvenile offenders, and that the present $2,000 limit on the amount parents may be charged for damage done by children under their care and control should be raised. I advocate the appointment (rather than election) of judges and I support a constitutional amendment to permit capital punishment in Michigan."

WELFARE REFORM

"Since being elected to the House I have consistently fought for legislation to reduce the fraud and abuse which characterizes much of the state's welfare program. Specifically, I advocate closer checks on welfare applicants, annual provider enrollment, and enforceable subpoena powers for Department of Social Services investigations."

SENIOR CITIZENS.

"I favor measures which would improve the condition of our senior citizens, particularly property tax relief, but also improved health and recreation facilities, an end to age discrimination in employment, an end to compulsory retirement based on age, and more adequate state contributions to the cost of nursing home care to make higher standards of care possible. I also support legislation to reduce the impact of increasing utility rates on senior citizens, most of whom live on very limited incomes and will soon be unable to afford basic services of heat, light, and telephone."

Willow Run Airport now belongs to county

By TIM RICHARD

The Wayne County Road Commission expects to spend up to $10 million in the next five-10 years to renovate Willow Run Airport, which it took over Tuesday from the University of Michigan.

The road commission—after Detroit the most powerful local government in Michigan in terms of funds, jobs and political influence—added Willow Run to its system, which already includes county roads, county parks, public works, sewage treatment plants and the giant Metropolitan Airport.

Predicting "a bright future" for Willow Run, road commission Chairman Michael Berry said, "We see Willow Run as a contract air freight and general aviation reliever airport to our current operations at Metropolitan Airport."

WILLOW RUN, located mostly in Wayne and partly in Washtenaw County, lies between the I-94 freeway and Michigan Avenue about nine miles east of Metropolitan Airport. Because Metro was closer to Detroit, airlines shifted their passenger operations there, and Willow Run was out of the passenger flight business by 1966.

Willow Run has 35 employees, of whom 30 will shift to the road commission's jurisdiction. The management team which runs Metro will also run Willow Run. The team includes Daniel J. Norton, superintendent; Tim Ward, assistant; and Robert Stout, business manager.

Annual budget is about $1.8 million. Willow Run handles some 170,000 take-offs and landings a year, a bit more than half the movements of Metro.

Willow Run is used primarily for private flights and air freight of automotive parts.

"WE REALIZE Willow Run has slowly deteriorated, and some capital improvements will be necessary," said Berry. "We are prepared, with available federal funds (the Airport Development Aid Program), to make the necessary improvements.

"Until Willow Run is brought up to standards expected by aviation—and this includes runway and taxiway work, lighting, terminal renovations, roads, etc.—we expect Willow Run to continue operating as it did under the university's ownership."

Berry said a master plan would be developed—an expensive and time-consuming process. He added that the road commission will meet with neighboring officials and residents "to establish an agreeable relationship with our neighbors."

THE ROAD commission was not everyone's first choice to take over Willow Run.

A task force set up by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments recommended a local, joint authority, if one were financially feasible.

That didn't work out, and there was the road commission, with its fiscal strength and administrative structure, ready and waiting. State officials recommended that U-M transfer the airport to the road commission. The price was a token $1 because in contract law there must be some exchange of consideration to make a deal.

The university got the airport under the same conditions from the federal government in 1947, just after the close of World War II.

THE TRANSFER was formally completed at a luncheon Monday hosted by the road commission for university officials and a handful of newsmen.

After cocktails, there were a fruit appetizer, salad, steak, baked potato, French-cut green beans, chocolate covered cream puff and all the coffee anyone wanted.

There, U-M Vice President Richard Kennedy explained that after the war, the university picked up the airport primarily to get the laboratories for engineering research. "We were not really intterested in the airport operations. And we couldn't use revenue from the airport for anything but the airport—we couldn't use profits from the airport to underwrite educational programs," he said.

"Since the airlines left, our reserves became dissipated. If we had continued to manage it, it would have lost money. And we weren't going to commit our educational resources to run the airport."

U-M will still have a foot in the airport, however.

Retires to carving

Frank Cervelli of Five Mile, Plymouth, has something to retire to after ending his career with Dunn Steel Products in Plymouth. He began woodcarving as a boy when he got his first jackknife, and Cervelli now turns to that hobby for his retirement years. Among his fondest works is a carving of the raising of the flag at Iwo Jima. But his youth included much more than woodcarving. As a young man, Cervelli broke what was then the record for flag pole sitting by remaining aloft for 50 days in his hometown in Massachussetts. Cervelli was recently honored on the occasion of his retirement by George A. Andrews, vice-president and general manager of Dunn Steel.

Finance director named

Daniel J. White has been named director of finance for Plymouth-Canton Schools, a newly budgeted slot for 1976-77.

The board of education Monday unanimously accepted Supt. John Hoben's recommendation to appoint White to the post. He was selected from more than 50 applicants and is scheduled to begin working "as soon as possible."

White will be directly under Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business. However, the board directed that the position be reviewed in "no less than one year" to determine whether it should be changed to an assistant superintendent's classification.

White's salary will be about $23,000, and his duties include supervising the preparation of all financial statements, assisting in the preparation of annual budgets, supervision of financial reports to state and federal agencies, and the responsibility for the investment of school funds among others.

White is currently employed as a business office manager for the Dearborn Public Schools. Previously, he had been with Teledyne Continental Motors as a general accounting supervisor. He also was employed by Chrysler Corp. as a budget analyst.

Selling the Center

A marquee sign has been erected at Theodore and Main Street to sell use of the Plymouth Community Cultural Center. The sign will serve two purposes, says Chuck Skene, director of Plymouth Recreation Department. It will direct out-of-towners and residents to the site of the Center and will list current activities. The sign was put in place last week and will be revised this week with a larger, more visible arrow pointing towards the Center. (Staff photo)

CEP bands ready for district festival

The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park varsity, concert and symphony bands, all under the direction of James R. Griffith, will participate in the District 12 Band Festival Saturday at Ypsilanti High School.

Each band entered in the festival will be evaluated by three judges on its performance of three selections and on its sight reading ability.

The bands are given a rating of one to five and those receiving a one then will be eligible for the state festival in May.

The symphony band will perform in Ypsilanti at 8:30 a.m., the concert band at 12:45 p.m. and the varsity band at 4:35 p.m.

"March the Southerner" by Russell Alexander, "Caccia and Chorale" by Clifton Williams and the first and third movements of "Symphony in B Flat" by Paul Hindemith will be performed by the symphony band.

The concert band will play "Blue Lake Overture" by John Barnes Chance, "A Festival Prelude" by Alfred Reed and the first movement from "Third Suite" by Robert Jager.

"Marchmanship" by Howard Cable will be performed by the varsity band along with "Chorale and Capriccio" by Caesar Giovannini and "English Folk Suite" by R. Vaughan Williams.

The festival is sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

Commission splits on parking credits

A decision to grant parking credits to allow establishment of a number of retail shops in the building formerly occupied by Top Drawer is expected to be made Monday by the Plymouth City Commission.

The commission tabled the request at its meeting Monday night until the March 7 session on advice of the city attorney that the credits should be granted by adoption of an ordinance rather than by resolution.

Another request on parking credits to be handled March 7 is from Famous Men's Wear which wants to remodel and expand its store on Ann Arbor Trail.

Monday night the commission also took action on storm drainage improvement on Ann Arbor Road and for an alley paving in Old Village.

DAVE PUGH and R.A. Cannon are remodeling the building at 825 Penniman Avenue, recently occupied by Top Drawer.

They hope to construct about ten specialty retail shops for occupancy in May or June. Pugh says he expects full occupancy by September. Pugh asked the city commission for approval to purchase eight parking credits, at $1,000 each.

Pugh, of Roosevelt Street in Plymouth, is a supervisor for Ford Motor Company and a member of the Plymouth Planning Commission. Cannon, of Fairground Street in Plymouth, is a city employe.

There was considerable debate among city commissioners Monday night, with much of the discussion on whether the charge for parking spaces should be $1,000 or $1,750. The $1,000 per credit was established by commission action in February, 1973, but the parking committee which recently completed its study for the commission had recommended a charge of $1,750 per credit.

The commission voted 4-2 Monday on the $1,000 per credit charge but tabled final approval til March 17 on advice of attorney Charles Lowe. Voting against the $1,000 credit were commissioners Jack Moehle and Beverly McAninch. Scott Dodge abstained because he had done legal work for Pugh in helping him set up the business, although he hadn't advised him on parking credits.

Famous Men's Wear wants three parking credits because it plans extensive remodeling which will add about 450 feet of additional selling space.

Hearing on necessity was held Monday night for storm drainage improvement on Ann Arbor Road between Tonquish Creek and Mill Street. A hearing on the assessment roll wil be held in the future.

The commission also set March 21 as the date for a public hearing on paving the alley in Old Village bounded by Liberty, Mill, Spring and Starkweather. The merchants there plan to close off the alley, put in a red-brich type pavement, add gas lights, and use the alley space for pedestrians.

Other band achievers

Inadvertently, names of several Plymouth Centennial Educational Park students who won high ratings in the recent District 12 Solo and Ensemble Festival were omitted from the Observer story of Feb. 28.

In addition to those named, Veronica Gray received a Division I rating for her piano solo and Terrie Stanley a three on hers. Keith Greenleaf got a two on a snare drum solo while Jim Nichols and Ted Johnson got one's on theirs. Johnson also received a one on a xylophone solo.

All those earning first division ratings—and Plymouth students won 34 such awards—now are eligible to enter the state festival to be held on March 26 and sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

The Stroller . . . The story of a lost plane

By W. W. EDGAR

There are few things more enjoyable to a veteran stroller along the river of printers ink than to visit with a few budding young journalists and exchange a few experiences.

It was this way the other evening when the conversation turned to the use of words and how one of them misused can raise havoc not only to the reading public but to the editors as well.

During the conversation, one of the younger group asked for a specific example (the young travelers along the journalistic trail always do) and The Stroller was ready to oblige.

IT SEEMS RATHER difficult to believe but The Stroller was part of one of the most nerve-racking incidents of his career—a misuse of a word that caused three of the country's leading newspapers to hold the presses on the belief that an entire football squad was lost in the air.

It was back in the late '20s when the University of Detroit team, under the coaching of the late Gus Dorais, was making quite a splash in the grid-iron world.

The Titans, as they were called, had a game booked with Loyola of San Francisco and decided to do a bit of pioneering by chartering an airplane to make the trip.

The plane was an old-time propeller model and flown by any of the major airlines of that era. It was quite an experience as there was no dining area, no food except a big box of sandwiches and a five-gallon can of coffee.

And the flight took 16 hours!

Before he departed with the team The Stroller, then eking out his living as a sports writer at the Free Press, wrote a story telling of the hopes and dreams of the team. It was written in such a manner that the first paragraph could be lifted for one that he would send by Western Union telling of the safe arrival of team.

This was done because it would be near edition time and it would require the sending of only a few words at that late hour.

But somewhere along the line the plane, dipping and rising in and around the mountain area, lost time. As a result, we were more than an hour behind schedule.

Because of that when the plane landed in the little town of Elko, Nevada, to refuel, The Stroller wired his Free Press office that due to the fact that the plane was late there would be no new paragraph for the final edition.

Nothing more was thought of it until the plane landed at the Oakland airport across the bay from San Francisco. No sooner had the wheels touched the ground than a group of west coast writers raced for the plane.

"WHAT WAS WRONG? What happened?" they asked eagerly.

"Why all the excitement," The Stroller asked, "we are just a bit late."

"The entire country is agog over this flight," one of them answered, "because the wire services carried the story that your plane was lost in the air. In fact one of the papers carried such a headline."

When the story was traced back to the wire service it was learned that a chap on the copy desk at the Free Press who was writing the headlines, used the word "overdue" instead of "late." And there is a big difference. When the word went out that the plane carrying the football team was overdue, the newspaper world stood by. In those days a plane did not have to contact the airport until an hour before landing. So, when the newspapers contacted the Oakland airport they were told there had been no word from such a plane.

You can imagine what happened when we did arrive and learned of the excitement. There was a race for the telephones to let our families know that all was well. Even the good fathers at the university were routed out of their slumber and asked to notify the players parents that the team had arrived safely on the coast.

Just imagine the turmoil—all because the misuse of a single word.

And to make matters worse the Titans lost the football game.

It was a good lesson for the budding young journalists.

editorial opinion

Audience participation rules are fair, efficient

After much consternation prompted by township board meetings which went beyond 1 a.m., the Canton Board of Trustees has finally come up with a list of parliamentary procedures for themselves and the audience.

Even though the new rules were not followed to the letter last week, Trustee Brian Schwall is to be commended for drawing up a system that should bring about a more efficient board meeting without sacrificing citizens' concerns in the process.

One point in the new procedures has already met opposition from a couple of residents who regularly attend board meetings. They don't like the citizen participation clause which states that a person may speak once, for three minutes, on each agenda item. The board can vote to extend the time limit.

Their protest would be justified if the board said people could only speak once in the evening. But if people can't state their positions on any one issue in three minutes time, then their point must be so tedious that no one would listen anyway.

The reason many Canton board meetings last well into morning was that too often a running debate existed between audience members or between an official and a disgruntled resident.

If you're disgruntled about something, tell the board the reason you're displeased in three minutes time and the meeting can progress. That way the personality attacks don't take precedence over business.

ANOTHER ENCOURAGING change is the method of voting. From now on, all votes will be taken in alphabetical order; starting with Anne Bradley and ending with Harold Stein. In the past, votes were taken a number of different ways. Sometimes the roll would go from left to right, in relation to their seating arrangement; other times it would go right to left. Sometimes it would start in the middle.

Board members are often influenced by the votes that precede them. Now there can be no attempt at roll order manipulation on a close, or touchy, issue.

Tape recorders are officially approved by this township board, another improvement over the position of the prior board. Any board member or audience member may record any regular, special or study meeting in Canton Township without fear of reprisal. People who weren't able to make it to a planning commission meeting, or township board meeting, may listen to the tape of that meeting up to 90 days after the meeting is held. There is an $8 per hour fee to cover personnel costs.

There are bound to be a few bugs left in the system, but on the whole, Canton officials have made some significant strides toward setting up a fair and efficient public forum.

Glad to see police report was unedited and decisive

Two weeks ago, an Observer editorial urged that the final reports of all study committees be released in their original forms to avoid any attempt at homogenizing the product.

The fear was that members of Canton's board of trustees would receive the committee's reports, digest them, and then tell the people what was in the reports—conveniently leaving out any information or conclusion that they thought erroneous or unpopular.

HAPPILY, it can be reported that the first study committee has completed its report on police options and that report was submitted unedited for public review by the board members.

The police committee's report was refreshing because there was no attempt to couch its findings in ambiguity. The findings said very clearly that Canton voters should establish an independent local police department supported by a property tax millage. They didn't avoid a touchy issue when they called a contract for sheriff's road patrol services "the least desirable option."

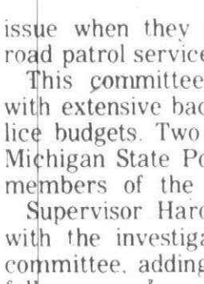

This committee was comprised of four men with extensive background in police work and police budgets. Two are presently employed by the Michigan State Police; the other two are former members of the Detroit Police Department.

Supervisor Harold Stein said he is impressed with the investigative work done by the police committee, adding that he doesn't feel obliged to follow every one of their recommendations. The supervisor is surely not expected to rubber stamp the committee's suggestions, but to ignore their findings or not implement any of the study group's recommendations would make a sham of the whole study group set-up.

It would be akin to former President Richard Nixon's action of forming a task force to study marijuana and rejecting the entire report because he didn't agree with its stand on decriminalization.

Or, don't bet money on a subway

The flap over mass transit

Tim Richard

To sum it up: It's not so much that suburban folks are against rapid rail transit. Rather, they're against spending a billion dollars on Detroit and only on Detroit.

The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) has been getting the message in thunderous terms ever since its "Transportation Week" public hearings early in February.

Most folks were left numb by SEMTA's presentation of 14 different public transportation alternatives, but now the reaction is setting in. Consider:

- The Oakland County Road Commission, once one of the most unpopular bodies in Michigan history, is continuing to seduce some support for its light rail "plan," which is really just a slide show.
- Western Wayne County officials, usually indifferent to rapid transit talk, are lurching to life as they finally perceive that no subway, no light rail and no express bus service—no nothing—is being planned by SEMTA for the Schoolcraft Road corridor.
- There was spirited competition as the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments last week prepared to name a new member of the SEMTA board. The executive committee's nod went to Plymouth City Commissioner Beverly McAninch—an excellent choice, by the way, because she will articulate the dismay of the suburbs without the kind of divisive shenanigans the Oakland County Road Commission is pulling.

ONE MAJOR reason SEMTA is getting a lot of constructive criticism and flak is the plan it submitted to Washington last October when the friendly federal government promised $600 million in urban mass transit funds.

That "preliminary proposal," as it's called, allocated at least 92 per cent of the $1.1 billion program to Detroit and a pittance to the suburbs, according to my calculations—which no one has yet challenged.

Since I made those calculations, however, I found out two very, very interesting things about that "preliminary proposal."

First, the SEMTA board never voted on it, even though SEMTA's seal is on the cover. It seems that then-General Manager Clarence Generette told the SEMTA board he had to go to Washington to fight for federal funds, and when he was asked what plan he would offer, he replied that the staff would whip up something. (Generette no longer works for SEMTA.)

Second, I was in the audience recently when William Cilluffo, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young's right-hand man, was speaking to the Birmingham-Bloomfield League of Women Voters. It was funny: Cilluffo kept referring to the mass transit plan as "our" plan—"our" meaning the City of Detroit's. No wonder that "preliminary proposal" allocated 92 per cent of SEMTA's projected funds inside Detroit's city limits!

SEMTA BOARD members are studying mind-boggling computer reports of the 14 rapid transit alternatives.

The heavy rail (with subway) shown in Detroit's "preliminary proposal" is one of those alternatives. Besides heavy rail, SEMTA is considering light rail (a modern version of the streetcar), express bus and people-mover kinds of rolling stock.

Frankly, some SEMTA board members are shocked at the staggering amounts of money it will take to build even a fraction of the rapid rail transit lines that are contemplated.

The point is that when SEMTA folks call that heavy rail plan a "preliminary proposal," they mean it. Their own looks at the figures, coupled with suburban indignation at the Detroit-only ideas, lead to doubt they will approve Mayor Young's dream of a subway.

No coins, wrong line— life can be uncomfortable

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

Life has many uncomfortable moments, some of which we create ourselves.

Such as using the restroom at a gas station when you don't buy gas and you try to sneak in and sneak out.

Or when you are at a very fancy restaurant and use the restroom facilities and have no change in your purse or pocket, and notice a person standing there giving out hot towels with his or her hand extended outward palm up. You have to create an air of indifferent nearsightedness and go without washing your hands.

Or at the same restaurant when you park your car in the parking lot avoiding having to pay a quarter to the doorman, but you have to pass by him to get into the place.

How do you feel when you've sneaked into a club in which you don't belong?

WHAT ABOUT those sailors who want to replenish their ice supplies on their sailboat and sneak into a motel to take ice out of the automatic ice maker, continually looking over their shoulders to see if anyone is watching.

How do you feel when you use the "8 Items or Less" express lane in a supermarket when in fact you have more than eight items and know everyone is looking at you?

Or consider the student who goes to class unprepared and sits through the whole session hoping that the teacher will not call on him.

IT'S A LITTLE uncomfortable to park in a permit lot when you don't have a permit.

Or parking in a "No Parking" zone, hoping that you'll get back to the car before the police officer does.

Or not putting money in the meter, hoping that you'll be able to return before the policeman does.

What about standing in the grocery line mentally adding up all your purchases because you're not sure you have enough money in your pocket or purse, ready to pull something out if the amount goes over your resources.

Or not remembering the name of somebody you really knew well?

What if you're under 17, and go into a bar and are served and you wait for somebody to come and find out that you're not of age.

Or when you put on the brakes after you see a policeman and you have to wait that agonizing period to see if in fact he has caught you.

Or saying something nasty about a person and then realizing they are within earshot.

Or passing somebody in the right hand lane on an expressway, even though it is perfectly legal, you feel squeamish about it.

OR SPOTTING A RADAR car and turning one block earlier to avoid being caught.

What about going into an apartment complex to look around when there is a security guard and you drive through waving nonchalantly as if you lived there, hoping you won't be stopped and questioned?

Or when you're sitting around after dinner and drinks and the check comes and you know you don't have enough money in your pocket, and you hope somebody else will reach for the check.

Or asking for a doggie bag at a restaurant when you know darn well—and so does the waitress—that you're going to eat the food yourself.

What about when you're talking about a person and say to the people in your group "don't look now" and they all do look, and the person is looking your way.

It sure doesn't take big things to make life uncomfortable.

Execution on TV?

Death-and a fast fadeout

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Capital punishment, this time without the frenzied excesses of the Gary Gilmore case, is back in the local news. Last week Michigan Republicans at their state convention voted strongly in favor of a proposal to make capital punishment an optional sentence for murder.

It's a subject which touches families in the suburbs directly. As George Stone of Farmington Hills noted in the floor debate, the executive board of the Republican 17th District Congressional organization has two families which have been directly touched by murder within the past year or two.

The vote at the convention was 572 to 267 in favor of the proposal, which would go on the ballot in 1978 if the state legislature approves. At present, Michigan has a constitutional bar against the death penalty.

THE CASE for capital punishment, of course, is that it would tend to deter murder.

Whether it would or would not is arguable, but the day before yesterday an item from the Associated Press added a new angle. A convicted murderer of a policeman who is in jail in New York has asked that if he is to be executed it be televised. "If society wants to condemn me to death, I'd love to have the whole thing on television, especially using the barbaric electric chair."

His argument is that the horror of the actual event of an execution, if televised, would be a much greater deterrent against murder than the present sanitized news coverage. Court rules prohibit live coverage of executions on the grounds that the act is too horrible for public consumption.

Back in the 18th and 19th centuries, they had public hangings in London and Paris, and even today the new regime in Cambodia paraded the heads of executed political enemies around to encourage cooperation from the population.

It's an interesting idea, although I really don't have the guts or bad taste to advocate it. Being a newsman who has covered a few murders myself, I can assure all concerned that merely the sight of a corpse is disturbing enough, without having to watch the actual event of somebody dying.

THE IDEA did get me to musing, though, about the problem of television violence. I don't know how many of the action shows you've watched lately, but I caught a couple on Monday and was astonished and outraged at the amount of violence pouring through the tube.

The argument against violence on TV is that it induces people, especially impressionable children, to think that it's OK behavior to act out their anger in violent ways.

I noticed one thing. Even with all the shootings and stabbings and rapings you see on TV, you never see the actual effects of such violence. The bad guy gets a load of buckshot in the face, and you see the face just begin to dissolve—never anything more. One of the murders I covered years ago involved a man who had been shot in the face, and the sight of that head so mangled has stayed in my shocked mind's eye ever since.

If any kind of argument against violence is needed (and I do not believe it really is), it is that the consequences of the act are so horrible as to discourage it in the first place.

In a way, I suspect that all the violence on TV with the fast fadeouts (supposedly in the name of good taste) simply encourages impressionable viewers that violence has no real consequence in horror.

I don't advocate showing the gruesome after effects of violence on TV, just as I don't support the idea of showing executions on TV. But I do think that in what ought to be a national debate on the effects of violence on TV, the subtle effect of the fast fadeout ought to be kept in mind.

Absences reported but not eliminated

Editor:

This is a thank you note to Glenn Bunting and the others responsible for the series of articles on absenteeism in our high schools. It's nice to know someone cares.

The article states "Reporting absences to the parents doesn't necessarily mean eliminating them." How true. We (parents) send our youths to school to get an education and I am grateful for the truly dedicated teachers and administrators that we are fortunate to have.

But the figures showing one-third of the student body cutting classes is a definite indication that something is drastically wrong with the system and that change is desperately needed.

I do not deny that broken homes, problems with the opposite sex (peer groups) and disliked subjects are contributing factors, but the school administrators, in my opinion, are trying to whitewash what is going on in the schools by using these reasons as excuses.

Running a high school on a college level is not beneficial, especially for ninth and 10th graders. There is too much unsupervised time. Class scheduling, in some cases, is totally ridiculous, giving students two or three hours of free time every day.

A MINIMUM number of credits is not required to pass from one grade level to another, with the exception of becoming a senior (15 credits).

Establish minimum credit requirements at each grade level. Revise scheduling methods. Get rid of "the commons." Make it a school for learning, not socializing. Eliminate the open method of learning. Give these kids something to work for.

If the school board was running a business the way they run the educational programs, they would have gone bankrupt a long time ago.

Wake up you people. We entrust our offspring to you to educate, not babysit. The children of today are the adults of tomorrow.

Bundarin hits home with his straight views

Editor:

Keep up the good work Peter Bundarin. You must be hitting home because you are bringing out all the kooks in Canton Township.

However, there is no question that a vast majority of the citizens of Canton support your views and understand what you are trying to achieve.

Only an administration and people who have something to hide try to squelch their critics by ridiculing them. Please note, Mr. Bundarin, that no one has yet blasted you because what you have said is untrue, they are only commenting on the fact that you have the guts to call "a spade a spade."

Mr. Bundarin's critics should get the facts straight on what he said. He has never spoken out against commercial or industrial development in Canton. He has only told the truth in saying that this type of development is not on the immediate horizon for Canton. Actually, his comments should have been applauded by the merchants in this community. If there was any more competition for them, they would be in deeper trouble than they already are.

Mr. Bundarin has lived in Canton longer than probably 80 per cent of the residents of Canton. Plus, he has given a great deal of his personal time to be active in this community's affairs in order to develop a background and understanding of the problems. What has Harold Stein ever done for Canton other than run for supervisor? Stein never attended a township meeting before his fluke election.

Actually, it was because of Mr. Stein's lack of concern about Canton's growth problems and tax situation that caused the blast Mr. Bundarin erupted against the new administration. Does anyone really think that Stein appointed a committee to study growth without Mr. Bundarin's prodding?

It is too bad, Mr. Bundarin, that you did not speak out before the election like you are now. If you had, there is no question you would be Canton's present supervisor. A position that you are head and shoulders more qualified to hold than the present man.

White in finance job

Daniel J. White has been named director of finance for Plymouth-Canton Schools, a newly budgeted slot for 1976-77.

The board of education Monday unanimously accepted Supt. John Hoben's recommendation to appoint White to the post. He was selected from more than 50 applicants and is scheduled to begin working "as soon as possible."

White will be directly under Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business. However, the board directed that the position be reviewed in "no less than one year" to determine whether it should be changed to an assistant superintendent's classification.

White's salary will be about $23,000, and his duties include supervising the preparation of all financial statements, assisting in the preparation of annual budgets, supervision of financial reports to state and federal agencies, and the responsibility for the investment of school funds among others.

White is currently employed as a business office manager for the Dearborn Public Schools. Previously, he had been with Teledyne Continental Motors as a general accounting supervisor. He also was employed by Chrysler Corp. as a budget analyst.

White currently lives in West Bloomfield. He earned his bachelor's degree in business administration at the University of Detroit.

Election done fairly

Editor:

I wish to thank all the members of my family, my other relatives, friends and co-workers who were so generous in their support of my candidacy for state senator from the 14th District.

Though I had hoped to do somewhat better in Redford and Livonia, my late start and lack of official credentials did not help in getting out the vote for me.

I can only hope that if I continue to seek political office, people will seriously consider me and I will receive more official support.

I would like to congratulate Pat McDonald on his impressive victory and say that I hope every Democrat who went to the polls on Feb. 23 will also go on March 23 and cast their vote for Pat.

I also hope that many residents who didn't go to the polls in February will take a more serious view and more active role and vote in March.

The person who wins this election will likely be the state senator from the district for at least the next six years. If people are to have the person they want to fill the position, they must cast their vote.

I personally learned very quickly how difficult it is to motivate some voters.

Though I managed to win my own and a couple of nearby precincts in Redford, an adjoining precinct had an overall voter turnout of less than five per cent.

THIS IS UNFORTUNATE, particularly for such an important office.

I believe I also speak for Paul Kadish when I ask all of my supporters and his to please vote in the March election and vote for Pat McDonald. Encourage all your friends and neighbors to do the same.

I would also like to thank the Observer Newspapers for their fair, intelligent and comprehensive write ups on all the candidates. I hope they will continue to provide us with real information on the three candidates in the regular election.

DANIEL GILLIS,

14th District Senatorial Candidate
Redford Township

Oldest service club marks 84th year

By ELINOR GRAHAM

No one had dreamed of an Equal Rights Amendment. The right to vote was 30 years away. But the ladies were not averse to taking a firm stand and, united, they were a force in their community, the village of Plymouth.

When the members of the Plymouth Woman's Club meet Friday in St. Johns Episcopal Church, they will mark the 84th anniversary of their club. As historian Jane Overholt recalls the founding of the Plymouth Ladies Literary Society on March 4, 1893, the activist role of their predecessors will be revealed.

The Literary Society started out with seven members. Mrs. Charles Valentine had suggested forming the group and she was the first president. They met in each others' homes and donated five cents to the treasury at each meeting.

As they studied the classics and the literature of the day, their attention wandered to the germane problems of the village.

"THEY WERE SO involved in those days," marveled Mrs. Overholt.

They were concerned about beautification of their hometown and its parks. They decided there were too many trees in Kellogg Park and that some should be cut down. It looked more like a woods than a park.

In 1905 they sent a delegation to the village council with the suggestion that a fountain be erected in the park. It wasn't until eight years ago, with the help of another women's group, the Plymouth garden club, that this dream became a reality.

In 1906 they were instrumental in effecting a local curfew. They battled the use of liquor and cigarettes, and worked for the improvement of child labor laws.

They took part in the "swat the fly campaign" of 1913.

THE LADIES' were responsible for bringing a lending library to town.

They took up the suffragettes right-to-vote cause and were among the first to espouse the censorship of movies.

As their membership grew, they changed meeting places. From congregating in their parlors, they moved to the Presbyterian Church, then to the Oddfellows Hall. They even met in a kindergarten classroom.

They also met in the Masonic Temple.

In the early days, the hope persisted that they someday would have a clubhouse of their own. They actually bought a lot on Adams Street for $600. As building costs increased, the realization of that dream became more remote. They finally sold the lot for $700, after paying taxes on it for 10 years.

The Plymouth Woman's Club of the '70s accommodates its service projects to the needs of the community. They helped fund the gaslights in Kellogg Park and aided in the development of the nature center at Gallimore Elementary School.

They support Loch Rio, a home for troubled girls. Each year they send two Plymouth students to Girls State. They have given financial support to the Salvation Army and other organizations.

In 1940, Mrs. Gerald Hondorp formed the glee club which sang at club meetings and conventions until it disbanded 10 years ago.

Mrs. Ron Wood is president of the club which meets the first Friday of each month in St. Johns on Sheldon Road. Past presidents will be honored at the March meeting and guest speaker will be Doris Wellman. Her subject will be "History Served on a Plate."

The Woman's Club has made its own history while serving the Plymouth community for 84 years.

STACIE BOSCHE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bosche of Canton Center Road, has been accepted as a member of the junior company of the Livonia Regional Ballet Company. Auditions were Feb. 11.

Stacie, 12, attends Our Lady of Good Counsel School in Plymouth. She has been taking ballet lessons for nine years. Since her family moved to this area 3½ years ago, she has been a student of Pamela Stopper in Northville.

Michelle Wolfe, director of the Livonia ballet company, says the next performance of the group will be in April when the program will be geared especially to young people. One of the selections will be choreographed to Neil Diamond's "Beautiful Noise."

Ms. Wolfe choreographed "Burning Tree" last year, a a folk ballet commissioned as a bicentennial production by the Plymouth Symphony Society.

BETTY STREMICH of Hillside Inn is one of three new owners of an Ann Arbor property which has housed the Millard Press since 1894.

The three-story building at 111 W. Liberty will be renovated for a downstairs shop and two-bedroom apartments on the second and third floors.

The owners have requested the building be included in the Liberty Street Historic District. The downstairs tenant hopes to be moved in by April 1. Carol Wilfong's Peaceable Kingdom, a gallery gift shop of handcrafted items, was located on Liberty Road.

Miss Stremich's partners are Joseph and Carolyn Arcure who refurbished the old Haarer Building next door on Liberty Street.

THE GIRL SCOUTS are looking for a day camp director for one week in July.

The adult volunteer would coordinate the day camp program and recruit other volunteers for the staff. Training would be provided by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council.

All levels of girl scouts—brownies through seniors—will attend the day camp sessions.

Anyone interested can call Barbara Radabaugh, 483-2370.

Mary Lou Johnson, publicity director for the Plymouth-Canton area Girl Scouts, says it is a supervisory position and there will be senior Girl Scouts on hand to assist.

FOLLOWING SUNDAY'S Plymouth Symphony concert, Director Wayne Dunlap and guest soloist Guillermo Fierens were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lang. Fran Lang is president of the Plymouth Symphony Society.

For those young people who wanted to know the brand name of the soloist's guitar, it was handmade. He said he loves teaching and has 35 students in the one term he spends at Grand Valley State College each year.

The Argentinian guitarist was not the only South American at the concert. Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Gonzales, who were born in Chile, were in the audience. They were the guests of Mrs. James Randall and had an opportunity to visit with Fierens after the concert—in (very) rapid Spanish, according to Mrs. Randall.

The Gonzales and Randalls were in Germany and Spain together—part of the Ford International group.

ANOTHER GUITARIST is going on tour.

Bruce Dunlap, 18, will spend the month of March in Germany.

He was in Europe last summer with a group of young musicians. This time, he will give solo performances on campuses and in clubs.

The bookings were arranged by his German manager, a former exchange student in this country.

Acording to father, Wayne Dunlap, "Bruce plays everything—folk, jazz and rock. He's taking along his Gibson, a 12-string, and a mandolin."

Needlethreaders' works at library

The Needlethreaders came to the Dunning-Hough Library on Main Street Tuesday. After several hours, the library had a new look. The walls were decorated with their creations, hand-worked hangings which illustrated children's books and stories.

Librarian Beth Simescu was enthusiastic about the traveling showing which will remain in Plymouth for the month of March.

The group of Detroit area women who are the Needlethreaders have been gratified by the response and interest their works have created in libraries and schools. The pictures give new life to t children's literature and have evoked new interest in reading for the youngsters who have seen the collection. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Theatre guild receives plaudits on drama

By PATRICK TOUHEY

If you missed the Plymouth Theatre Guild's production of "We Have Always Lived In The Castle" last weekend, you will have the opportunity to see it this Friday and Saturday in the Central Middle School auditorium.

In a departure from its usual production schedule, the guild is presenting the drama on two weekends instead of one. And the play is well worth seeing.

Billed as a comedy in the macabre vein, the drama lives up to its publicity. The cast does a good job in portraying believable characters in a very complicated story.

The action of the play takes place in the present and concerns a Vermont family whose lives have been transfixed by a single horrendous event.

The audience learns through character reminiscences that Constance, the elder sister, was accused of murdering her aunt, mother, father, and younger brother by putting arsenic in a sugar bowl.

Although the incident occurred 15 years ago, and she was tried and acquitted of the crime, the deaths have been woven into the fabric of the family's everyday lives. Not a day goes by that Constance isn't made to remember the ordeal. If it isn't her crazy Uncle Julian tormenting her in one of his "Constance did it" moods, it's her younger sister, Merricat, describing the viciousness of the villager's remarks when she goes to the store for food.

CONSTANCE RELIES on her sister's information, because, as we find out, she has not left the property since the day her trial ended.

Bit by bit, the protective fantasy world that Constance and Merricat have fashioned for themselves is fleshed out. And although Constance is the eldest, it soon becomes obvious that Merricat is in control of that world. She manipulates her sister and a young foundling the family took in named Jonas, and her Uncle Julian for her own purposes.

She knows exactly the right buttons to push in each family member's twisted psyche to get them to assume roles in her version of reality—and a destructive version it is.

However, we really don't find out how destructive until the end of the play, when long-lost Cousin Charles shows up at the house and threatens Merricat's power by convincing Constance to leave the "castle" and start to live again.

The ending of play is a real surprise. But suffice it to say that if there were a butler in the play, he wouldn't have done it.

John Roberts, who portrays the crippled and senile Uncle Julian, does a commendable job. His humorous dialogue and characterization carry the drama through some slow spots. However, both Patricia Troth and Fran Cyburt, respectively Constance and Merricat, manage admirably with very demanding roles.

All in all, the play is a good one. No message, no deep meanings; just plain enjoyment well put together.

Applause

Sunday's solist with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra received resounding applause from the audience, symphony conductor Wayne Dunlap and the orchestra. Guillermo Fierens, the young classical guitarist from Argentina, responded with an encore, which everyone had been hoping for. (Staff photo)

Deb Beckington named 'leader of tomorrow'

Debra Beckington has been named Plymouth Salem High School's General Mills Family Leader of Tomorrow.

She won the honor by competing in December with other seniors in a written knowledge and attitude test. She will receive a certificate from General Mills, sponsor of the annual scholarship program, and is eligible for state and national honors.

During high school, Debra has taken a broad range of courses including academic and vocational subjects. After graduation, she is considering a career in dental hygiene.

As a school winner, she will compete for state family leader of tomorrow on the basis of her response to the December test. That winner will be named later this month.

DEBRA BECKINGTON

Canton chatter

By SHARON STARON 455-5322

Shopping in Canton is such a pleasant experience. Many of us Cantonites love to go into Plymouth to shop because of the friendly atmosphere and the small town feeling of gratitude for our patronage we receive there.

Canton does not have the downtown location of all its shops or the beautiful Main Street of Plymouth, but we do have the most terrific business community of any town.

Our shops are not all in one area and Harvard Square on Sheldon and Ford Road is probably the nearest thing we have to a central location of stores, but it's worth going to the mini-sections to do your shopping to meet some the fine owners of our shops or the salespeople who work here.

If you're from a big city and almost naturally head for the large shopping malls, you really ought to take a look at what you're missing in your own township.

Let me introduce you to just a few of Canton's businesses and maybe the chamber of commerce slogan "Shop in Canton" will become yours.

Walls, Windows and What . Nots, owned by John and Diana Persh has been in the Canton Plaza, Lilley and Ford, for just over two years.

If you need wallpaper or a window treatment, pictures, hanging ornaments or just some ideas for a blank wall, Diana will be more than happy to help you.

The people who work for her are being trained by a super decorator. She always has time for her customers and their decorating problems. She deals with their indecisiveness with "your going to love it," and they do.

When talking to Diana, you can feel that she cares and you gain the self confidence to try something different to achieve a "decorator look" for your home.

Legaults of Canton owned by Karen Legault, has been in Harvard Square for almost a year. It features silk flower and dried flower arrangements. You can buy them already made or the supplies to do it yourself.

Karen does beautiful centerpieces and bouquets for wedding parties or for any other occasion.

She offers craft classes for those wishing to learn the art of flower arranging. Her son, Tom, also teaches painting for the real daring, and some of his work is on sale at the shop.

There's plenty of help for you and your artistic abilities waiting at Legaults.

Natures Cove located at Lilley and Warren Roads is not yet a year old, featuring tropical fish, pets and supplies.

The owners Ron and Toni Sanderson, can help you with your pets' needs or answer questions you may have about their care and feeding.

Asked how much a guinea pig should eat daily, Toni was so friendly and helpful one might well have thought it was an intelligent question.

That's how it is in Canton, warm friendly service with the shopkeepers becoming your friends. Harvard Book located in Harvard Square can fulfill your reading needs. If there's a book they might not have, they start looking over their records to find out why.

At the Addition, Harvard Square, they don't think twice when one comes in saying they want the exact pair of jeans that are on display except for --, they find them for you. And even as large a store as Krogers, the atmosphere there is fantastic. They know who you are, their customers, they like you and appreciate your business. But that's Canton for you, special people everywhere.

THE PLYMOUTH hockey house teams finished their playoffs over the weekend. The competition was great with all the divisions going down to the wire to declare winners. All the boys playing for Plymouth should be congratulated for a super season.

One Canton coach was very happy for his mite team Sunday when they won the playoff cup for the 6 through 8-year-old division.

John Safran kissed and hugged and could hardly speak when his boys skated around the ice holding the trophy. He would like to thank them all and they would like to thank him.

CANTON CADETTE TROOP 346 went ice skating at the Cultural Center Feb. 20. The girls who knew how to skate taught those who didn't. Everyone had such a good time they highly recommend this activity for other groups.

New voices

Mr. and Mrs. Dale A. Stankiewicz of 42088 Hanford Road, Canton Township, announce the birth of their son, Michael Anthony, Feb. 8 in Annapolis Hospital, Wayne.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin G. Bailey of Westland, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stankiewicz of Islamorada, Fla.

How can funeral service follow a set formula?

We don't believe it can.

After all, people are individuals . . . and all families have their own ways of thinking.

This is why every service we direct takes shape according to the family's individual thoughts and preferences.

Couples share raising kids

Young couples' growing interest in sharing the care and upbringing of their children, says Dr. Martha Karson, will bring changes in lifestyles for their offspring, particularly when they move into womanhood and manhood.

Dr. Karson is an assistant professor of psychology at Michigan State University.

She said that children's perceptions of themselves will change when parents switch from traditional mother and father roles to "parenting" in an interactive way.

"Boys can learn to become less dependent on their parents for their thinking, meals and getting their wash done. Girls can become more direct and less shy in their relationships with other people," said Dr. Karson.

A two-day workshop in sign language interpreting in religious settings will be offered by the Interpreter and Communication Department at Madonna College, March 4 and 5.

Dr. Lottie Riekehof, coordinator of interpreting training and services at Gallaudet College, Washington will be the principal workshop participant. She is coordinator of the National Interpreter Training Consortium and author of the book, "Talk to the Deaf."

Carol Tipton, who interprets the television program "Christopher Close-Up," seen in Detroit each Sunday at 11:30 a.m. on Channel 4—WWJ-TV, will also participate in the workshop. In addition to being a coordinator for the National Interpreter Training Consortium, Ms. Tipton works in the deafness research and training center at New York University.

Workshop topics will include religious signs, responsibility and ethics of the interpreter in the church setting, discussion of sign language instruction, and interpreting in various religious settings.

The workshop will meet Friday, March 4, from 6-10 p.m. and Saturday, March 5, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The fee for those enrolled for college credit is $37. Other participants will pay a $5 fee. Registration will take place at the door.

For further information, contact the interpreter for communication with deaf persons department at Madonna College, 425-8000, ext. 47.

Borgess mothers' gala

"March into Spring" is the theme for the luncheon and style show to be put on by the Bishop Borgess Mothers' Club at noon Wednesday, in the Raleigh House of Southfield. Fashions will be by Jacobson's of Dearborn, and tickets, priced at $8, may be reserved by calling Connie Green, 425-6639, or Mary Sherry, 937-8876. Looking over one of the luncheon centerpieces are Bishop Borgess students Kathleen and Maureen Harrington, standing with their mother, Kathleen Harrington, in back, and Julianne Sherry and her mother, Mary Sherry, seated in front. All proceeds will go to the school for student programs.

Davey singers perform hymns

The Max Davey Singers will appear in concert at 5 p.m. Sunday, March 6 in the sanctuary of Central Woodward Christian Church, 8920 Woodward, Detroit.

Under the direction of Max Davey of Farmington Hills, the 35 young singers and instrumentalists will present their new hymn program for the first time in the Detroit area. Radio personality Ted Strasser will be narrator.

Opening with Gordon Young's "Sing We Merrily Unto God," the program will include a gospel-style rendition of "Blessed Assurance" and a sing-along of familiar hymns such as "Rock of Ages" and "How Great Thou Art."

Tickets at $3 per person and $1.50 for students will be available at the door.

Shape up for spring at Schoolcraft

Schoolcraft College will offer a fashion workshop entitled "Spring Shape-Up" on four Mondays beginning March 14.

Sponsored by the Women's Resource Center and led by June Lark, the sessions are scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m. and will meet through April 4. The enrollment fee is $20 and class size is limited.

The workshop will offer a hair styling show by the owner of Emile's Coifferer Deux Foix Salon. He will lecture on the individual hair problems of the participants and four to six preselected women will have their hair cut by his stylists. Women desiring a free haircut must make their request and state the reason why at the time of registration.

Vanity Fair lingerie representative Lu Ann Johnson will explain what to look for in buying garments and lingerie. She will give a demonstration on proper foundations and show some of her new spring collection.

Other workshop topics include learning the proper methods of applying make-up and the correct shades to use; scarf tying tricks; how to accessorize spring outfits; how to make a new outfit from out-dated clothes; tips on dieting and easy to do exercises.

Individuals may register by calling the Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, ext. 370. The college is located at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

June Lark is ready for a new shape-up class at Schoolcraft College.

Youtheatre tells 'All About Us'

Youtheatre's "Something Every Saturday" series will present "All About Us" in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

Following the 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. March 5 performances, a free guided back stage tour for young persons 10 and older will focus on the secret behind the footlights. Tours can be arranged when tickets are purchased one week before show date.

GLIMPSES

NEW RELEASES

FUN WITH DICK & JANE (PG). Jane Fonda and George Segal in a snappy social satire about an unemployed engineer and his wife who turn to crime when he can't find a job and they flunk welfare.

THE LAST TYCOON (R). Based on F. Scott Fitzgerald's last novel, this is a sensitive but enigmatic movie about a film producer (Robert De Niro) during the '30s. Good visual recreation of the era in Hollywood.

NETWORK (R). Fierce satire attacking the television industry and mass media generally. Top performances by Peter Finch, Faye Dunaway and William Holden in fast paced, grimly humorous film.

ROCKY (PG). Human warmth and exciting drama combine in this stirring film about a no-name boxer who gets a chance at a title bout. Acting accolades to entire cast and especially Stallone as Rocky.

THE SENTINEL (R). Another yarn where supernatural horrors unravel in a New York brownstone where the forces of good and evil clash.

MOVING RATING GUIDE

G General audiences admitted.
PG Parental guidance suggested. All ages admitted.

Channel 56 will join with other public television stations in televising — in its entirety — President Jimmy Carter's radio call-in program.

"Ask President Carter" will air two hours after the program's radio broadcast over CBS Radio.

The show will be presented from 5-7 p.m. Saturday, March 5.

Since the PBS show will be pre-recorded, viewers will not be able to phone in during the broadcast. But those who miss the live radio program, or who are interested in the facial expressions, gestures, and other visual aspects of the President's performance, will find Channel 56's broadcast made-to-order.

Hobby show is back

The Detroit Spring Hobby, Arts and Crafts Show will return to the Light Guard Armory March 11 for a three-day run.

Show hours are noon to 10 p.m. March 11 and 12, and noon to 8 p.m. March 13.

The show will feature demonstrations on handmade jewelry, wine racks, plants and terrariums, stained glass, puppets, and other projects of interest to area handicrafters.

Light Guard Armory is at 4400 E. Eight Mile, between Mound and Ryan roads, Detroit.

Comedy en francais

Le Treteau de Paris will present the French-language comedy "Le Double Inconstance" for one performance only at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, March 3.

The play, sponsored in part by the L'Alliance Francaise of Detroit, will be presented in Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

The comedy, written in 1723 by Marivaux, "Le Double Inconstance" will be directed by Jean de Rigault.

For 19 years, Le Treteau de Paris has annually visited the U.S. to provide students and Francophiles an opportunity to experience French dramatic works as they are performed for French audiences.

THE CHATHAM CONSUMER FOOD COUNCIL ASKED 3 KEY QUESTIONS ABOUT SUPERMARKETS!

HERE ARE CHATHAM'S ANSWERS;

QUESTION Advertised Items: Some of us have found that supermarkets do not always have the items they advertise or limit the amount of the advertised special you can buy. We don't think this is fair. Food shoppers should always be able to find advertised specials and buy the quantities they need.

ANSWER At Chatham you never have to make a minimum purchase or present a store coupon to buy our advertised specials. And unlike some other stores with quantity limits we let you buy as much as you like, within reason, of any special. Chatham doesn't believe in coupons that limit customers to the number of advertised items you can buy. In the event of a temporary shortage we, of course, issue rain checks.

QUESTION Check-Out Lines: Waiting in check-out lines is frustrating and wastes time. One of the things that holds up check-out lines is check cashing. We suggest either setting up separate lines for people paying by check or finding some other way to speed up all the lines.

ANSWER Chatham is the first of Detroit's supermarket chains to install Michigan Money, a machine that electronically guarantees your check before you present it for payment at the checkout counter. This eliminates time-consuming proof of identity, courtesy cards or the manager's approval. Michigan Money is in many Chatham stores now and will be in all of them before June 1. Also, Chatham was the first to install, as a test, electronic scanning check-out that's designed to speed check-out operations.

QUESTION Cleanliness: We've seen some supermarkets that aren't always kept as clean as they should be and others with meat departments that sometimes have unpleasant odors. We think a real effort to keep stores cleaner would be better for shoppers and the supermarkets too.

ANSWER Chatham is the only one of the 5 major chains with a mobile laboratory, that is continually checking our stores to help insure that Chatham's high quality and sanitation standards are maintained. Special crews clean floor area daily by machine. And food processing rooms are also thoroughly sanitized.

THE CHATHAM CONSUMER FOOD COUNCIL Was Established To Help Us Serve You Better. It's Purpose Is To Help Make You, The Consumer, A Better Shopper And To Make Chatham A Better Place To Shop At. We Invite You To Apply For Membership.

Plymouth Showdown

Rocks whip Northville 85-69; face Chiefs tonight

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

The preliminary game is over!

And all that talk of a possible Salem—Canton basketball confrontation in the semifinal round of the Southfield District is now a reality.

Plymouth Salem finally broke open a close game at the end of the third quarter to whip the Northville Mustangs 85-69 Tuesday night in opening-round action of district play in Southfield.

That victory, the 16th in 20 decisions for the Suburban Eight League champions, earned the Rocks an opportunity to meet their neighbors from Plymouth Canton who drew an opening-round bye.

This battle, which proves to be a highly emotional clash, will be played tonight starting at 8 p.m. at the Southfield High School gymnasium on 10 Mile and Lahser Roads.

The winner of this semifinal game advances to the district championship game on Saturday against the winner of last night's Southfield-Milford contest. Southfield was considered the heavy favorite going into that other semifinal matchup.

THE ROCKS held the upper hand the entire game against Northville in recording the 16-point victory.

But the contest wasn't as easy as the score would indicate—at least not until the 1:51 mark of the third quarter.

The Rocks reeled off a 10-point scoring spurt early in the first quarter to gain control of the game with a 15-7 lead. Salem held a 21-14 advantage after the first quarter and raised that margin by one point at halftime, 42-34.

But the pesky Northville squad was determined to give somewhat of a fight before ending its season with this setback.

The Mustangs pulled within three points with 1:51 left in the third period before the Rocks came alive.

With the score 52-49, Mike Cristie came off the bench and served as the sparkplug of the Rocks' offense, igniting for three long jumpers that built Salem's lead back to nine points over the shocked Northville squad.

Tom Ellinghausen added one free throw and John Broaderick converted on two more charity tosses before the quarter ended giving Salem its commanding 61-49 lead.

It was downhill after that as the Rocks continued to pour it on in the fourth quarter before coach Fred Thomann cleared his bench at the 2:38 mark.

Ellinghausen played a steady offensive game, finishing with a game-high 23 points. Cristie added 19, Rich Hewlett 15 and Chris deBear 11.

BUT THE BIGsuprise was how little of a factor Northville's Tony Armada played in the game. Armada scored 19 points but only converted on six field goals, most of which came on break away steals.

"This was a tough game," said Thomann. "But I though we did a great job on defense." Doug Agnew, Hewlett and Kevin Roose were the three mainstays that helped stop Armada.

"We had a lot of support off the bench," Thomann added in speaking of the performances of Cristie, Broderick and Roose.

"That's what we have to do. I was real pleased to see that."

Salem's biggest margin in the ball game was 19 points. This was reached on three different occasions in that final period.

State meet rough for grapplers

Plymouth's three state wrestling qualifiers found the going rough at the state championships Saturday at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

Plymouth Salem's Dave Champion and Rene Leist traveled with Plymouth Canton's Scott Collins to the west side of the state and each grappler won one match before facing elimination with two setbacks.

Collins, Canton's first state qualifier and regional champion in the 147-pound weight class, lost his first match to the eventual third place finisher.

The Chief wrestler rebounded with an 8-4 decision but was outmuscled 4-3 in his final match.

CHAMPION, who likewise lost his first match to an eventual third place grappler, won his second meeting, but was eliminated in his third match of the 195-pound competition.

Leist wrestled at 114-pounds and lost to a Lansing Eastern grapler in the first round. He showed promise in his second match, pinning a Bridgeport opponent that previously held a sparkling 33-5 record.

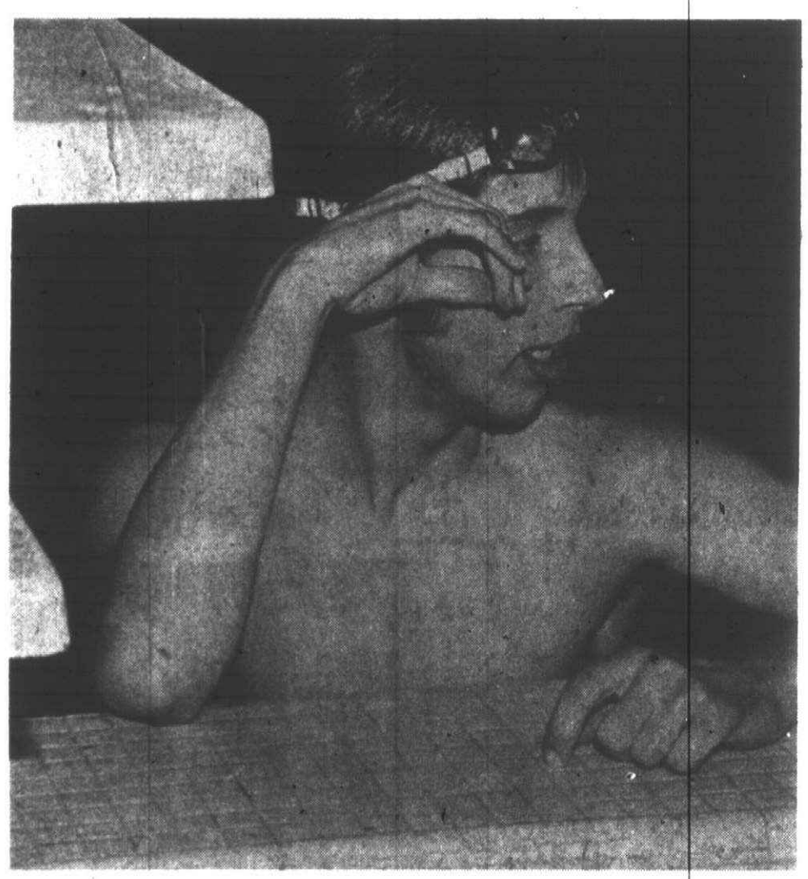

But Leist's hopes came to an end in the third match when he lost to a Hazel Park wrestler.

Collins was only the third regional qualifier in Canton wrestling history. This year's accomplishments broke most of the Chiefs' single-season records.

"He was disappointed at the time (after losing in the state meet), but I was proud of him," said Canton coach Dan Chrenko.

"I was really pleased with the way he (Collins) wrestled. In fact, I thought all the Plymouth kids wrestled well. It was a good experience."

Champion finished his season and career Saturday and has set most of the Rock records. Leist holds most of the Salem marks for a junior.

Team's top swimmer

Canton's Harris shows leadership

By BILL COLLINS

Kevin Harris is in his fourth year of swimming at Plymouth Canton, his second year as captain. Seasoned observers feel he stands as living proof that leaders and champions are made, not born.

Harris was one of nine swimmers who performed for Canton in the school's first year of existence. Four years later he is spearheading a 32-member team which is about to give the school it's finest finish to date.

Canton Coach Bill Faunce is in his 18th season of instructing swimmers and showers an abundance of praise on Harris for raising the competitive level of the program and setting the example for up-and-coming Canton swimmers.

"His leadership has been worthwhile. We appointed him team captain in his junior year, and he gave us result . . .The peer group approval was there," said Faunce.

There is no ignoring the timeless bromide that describes the basic formula for success: long hours of hard work. Faunce puts it this way, "I look for the three D's in a swimmer: Desire, determination, and dedication. Kevin has all three. This is the combination which makes a great swimmer."

Harris readily admits that the workouts are not a burden to him. The 17-year old senior looks forward to the repetitive task of trudging up and down the pool.

"The work doesn't bother me at all, I really enjoy it. It would be awful to go through a year without swimming," says Harris.

Harris gave no advance warning to swim followers that he would be setting school records soon after he made his debut as a freshman at Canton. "When I started, I just wanted to make the team and improve my times," says Harris.

A direct parallel can be seen between Harris's development and the evolvement of the Canton program.

"When I started we had nine swimmers, and we only win two dual meets and finished dead last in the

Jr. basketball starts playoffs this week

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Playoff competion in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball Association (PCJBA) begins this Saturday as nearly 1,000 children on 98 different teams participate in this annual post-season activity.

In the second year of a new playoff format, all teams from five of the seven different leagues are eligible in the single-elimination competition regardless of regular season records. Only C League boys and girls do not compete.

This new idea for complete participation keeps with the philosophy that has made the PCJBA one of the most successful junior associations around.

The PCJBA is in its 13th year of competition and includes to all youngsters in the Plymouth-Canton School District between the third and 10th grade.

There is currently four boys leagues and three girls conferences in the organization. And the bulk of the growth in the PCJBA stems from the newly-formed girls programs.

"The major growth in our program is in the girls leagues," said PCJBA president Bob Rienas. "The girls have been part of this organization for five years and this was the first season that all the girls were signed up during the normal registration.

"IN THE PAST years," Rienas explained, "PCJBA always had to round up extra girls to fill out all the leagues.

"The girls C League (third and fourth grades) is new this year, and it seems with the experience of the past year's, that the girls' program is here to stay."

This year's tournament action begins tonight with the Boys AA League first-round competition. The remaining four leagues start opening-round action this Saturday.

The championship contests will be played on Saturday, March 12 at Pioneer Middle School. Action begins at 8:30 a.m. and lasts throughout the day. The Boy AA League finale will be played at Central Middle School starting at 1:30 p.m.

All of these games are open to the public—free of charge.

PARTICIPATION OF ALL children involved in this program is the number-one goal of the PCJBA. And at a time when Little League sports of all kinds are being heavily criticized for all the emphasis on "winning," it's comforting to know that the PCJBA has its priorities elsewhere.

"I feel the major factors that contribute to the success in our program is that all players learn how to play the game and have fun doing it," Rienas said. "All players are distributed by their playing abilities for team balance.

"Each boy and girl must play 50 per cent of the games in the C League. And in all the other leagues, a player must play 25 per cent of the game and not more that 75 per cent of a contest."

THERE ARE MANY people who help make this program run smoothly through many hard hours of volunteer work.

Among these people are the 25 members of the board of directors that administer and direct the program.

Another 150 coaches volunteer their time to work with the boys and girls.

Over 40 high school boys and girls from the Centennial Park referee the games. These people are trained through the a association and are paid a minimal salary for their time. These are the only paid workers in the program.

Other volunteers include the players' parents that do all the score-keeping and timekeeping for each game. The season-ending banquet is prepared and served with the help of the Plymouth-Canton High School food service class.

Center-court action is one of the things that makes Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball Association games mexciting to watch. The PCJAA starts its playoff action this week and all games are free of charge. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Southfield kills Lakeland

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Southfield showed no signs of a letdown after winning the Southeastern Michigan Association basketball title as it opened district play with a convincing 81-47 victory last Friday over Milford Lakeland in first-round action on its own court.

The triumph advanced the Blue Jays to a semifinal round contest last night against Milford High School. Another Southfield win in that game would advance the Blue Jays to the district championship Saturday night against the victor of tonight's Plymouth Salem—Plymouth Cantocontest.

The Blue Jays raced out to a fast 10-2 lead over Lakeland in the first three minutes of play. After this opening spree, it was just a question of how badly they would best the lowly Eagles.

SOUTHFIELD'S OVERALL quickness and offensive penetration was the key to the resounding victory.

"We wanted to apply pressure (at the start) to cause as many turnovers as possible," said Southfield coach Don Kaump. "You never know how you are going to come off a game when you win a league championship. I wanted us to be up-and-around.

"Our quickness was the reason for our good penetration (on offense)."

Southfield held an 18-10 lead after the first eight minutes of action and extended that margin to 20, 36-16, with two minutes left in the first half.

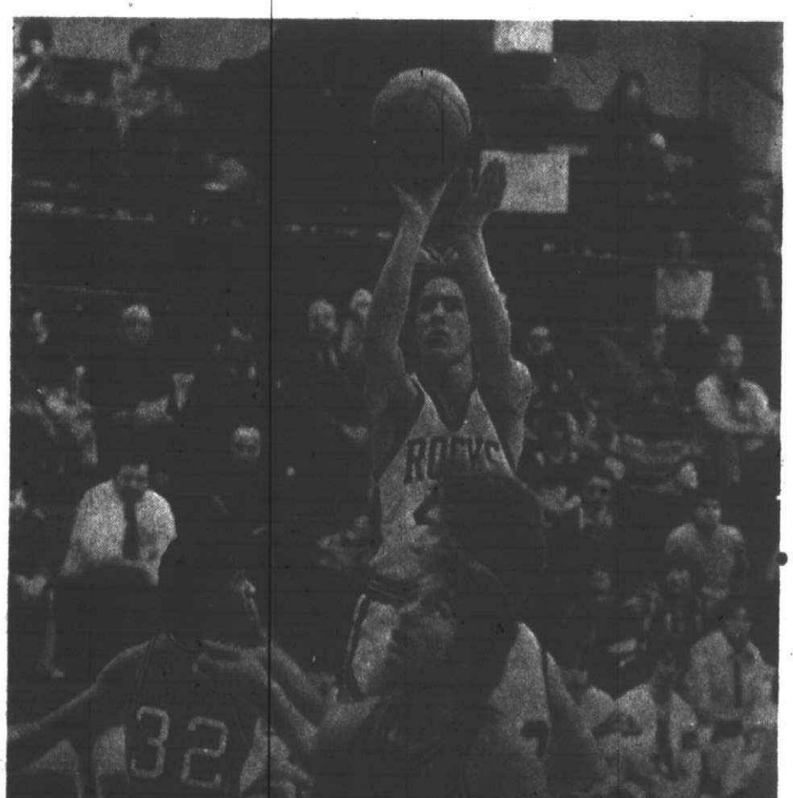

A late Lakeland rally cut the Jays advantage to 38-24 at halftime. But a sparkling eight-point burst in the opening two minutes of the third quarter raised Southfield's lead to 22. The Jays were never in trouble after that.

PAUL WILKIE scored 11 of his game-high 17 points in the third period. A balanced scoring attack saw Jeff McCall follow Wilkie with 10. John Vigi added nine, and Rodney Rice and Marvin Miles each chipped in with eight.

Lakeland center Mark Brodie led the losers with 14 points.

Southfield raised its overall record to 17-4 with this victory. Lakeland ended the season with an 8-12 mark.

A 22-12 third quarter margin extended Southfield's lead to 60-36 going into the final period. Kaump emptied his bench at the beginning of that quarter but his reserves still managed to outscore the Milford squad 21-11 in the final stanza.

Chiefs down Thurston

By BETTY DeLANO

A close win for the Plymouth Canton varsity volleyball team occurred Monday when the Chiefs defeated Redford Thurston. Canton lost the first game, 12-9 but came back to win the second and third games, 15-8 and 15-7.

Thurston held the lead during the entire first game, going in front 4-0. The Eagles kept going strong the rest of the game and although Canton's Judy Freiman started a comeback for the Chiefs it wasn't enough to stop Thurston from a 12-9 win.

During the second game, Thurston again took an early lead at 3-0. Then the Chiefs came alive, became a little more aggressive, and worked their way to a 12-4 lead. Canton junior Stacy Williams added her share to the 15-8 victory with eight points from the serving line.

The third game was similar to the second. After three minutes of bumps, sets and spikes, Canton had a 14-6 lead. A Thurston net foul ended the game at 15-6 for the Chiefs and added another match to their record.

"The team played very well, that's about all I can say. We played very aggressively with a lot of good spikes," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein.

The Canton junior varsity also won its match against Thurston, winning the first and third games at 15-11 and 15-6. Thurston took the second, 15-13.

"We played aggressively and pretty much away from free balls," said Canton JV coach Lisa Williams. "We did have some defensive problems in the second game; that's why we lost. In the third game we corrected the mistakes and came back to win the match."

Canton will play the winner of a pre-regional contest between Livonia Churchill and Plymouth Salem Monday on the court of the winner of that match.

Midgets upset Redford

The Plymouth Midget A traveling squad, ages 15-16, won its biggest game of the season Thursday night by upseting previously unbeaten and top-ranked Redford, 3-2 at the Redford Arena.

After a scoreless first period, Plymouth's Mark Kesson and Jeff Campbell each netted goals for a $e? ead. The second score was assisted by Kevin Kesces.

Redford bounced back with two quick third-period goals to knot the score at 2-2 with six minutes left in the game.

But Plymouth's Campbell scored his second goal with 33 seconds left to play to give his team the victory. Kevin Norton assisted on e deciding goal.

Greg Smith was in goal for the winners and turned back 32 of the 34 Redford shots.

Plymouth's record stands at 14-16 for the season but for coach Tom Norton's squad this victory over the state's top team "made the entire seaen."

PLYMOUTH WILL HOST a round-robbin invitational with five different Midget hockey teams March 6-20.

Salem spikers bomb Brighton

A two-game victory over Brighton was in store for the Plymouth Salem varsity volleyball team Monday night when it beat the Bulldogs on their home court, 15-12 and 15-7.

Salem showed signs of blowing Brighton off the court during the first game when the Rocks had a 10-2 lead. Brighton was able to come back, however, to give the Rocks a scare at 10-12 before Salem's final surge of determination pulled it out, 15-12.

Senior captain Cheri Levielle and senior Lynne Stone aided in the Salem win with four points each, while seniors Peggy Moore and Polly Richards pumped over the spikes.

During second game action, Salem pulled out in front to a 14-4 lead. The Bulldogs were able to squeeze three points off the Rock defense but that was it as Moore spiked for the winning point, 15-7.

Carol Simonetti, a Salem senior, took serving honors during the second game with seven points, and Levielle added seven spikes to the Rock victory.

Salem's junior varsity also beat Brighton, raising its season record at 5-7. Brighton won the first game, 14-10, but Salem took the second and third, 16-14 and 15-9.

"We played an excellent team and had three excellent games," said Salem JV coach Cathy Himes. "Our main problem was that our spikes were hit from too far away from the net, but our defense made up for those mistakes."

Salem varsity plays in a pre-regional contest this afternoon (Thursday) in the Salem gym against Livonia Churchill. The match starts at 4 p.m. The winner moves on to play Plymouth Canton on Monday, also at 4 p.m., on the victors' home court.

Salem will compete in the Suburban Eight league meet Saturday at Dearborn High School. The Rocks go into this tournament ranked first in the league.

U-M hockey coach offers puck classes

The first session lasts one week, July 11-July 16. The second session runs for two weeks, July 18-July 30.

All the practices will be held at the Plymouth Cultural Center at 525 Farmer Street in Plymouth.

Doc's Corner

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

Now that we've done away with the formality of that first-round district game in which Plymouth Salem stung Northville 85-69 Tuesday night, let's get down to the serious business.

Tonight, the Rocks face Plymouth Canton in an all-Plymouth semifinal basketball game that should be a battle to the end. The Chiefs drew an opening-round bye and haven't seen action in the Southfield tourney. The Rocks earned the right to meet Canton with their victory over the Mustangs.

The winner of the semifinal battle will probably face Southfield for the district championship on Saturday. Southfield was expected to whip Milford High School last night to earn the right for to vie for the dictrict crown.

EVER SINCE the original pairings were released showing Salem and Canton in the same bracket—much has been written and plenty said. The Centennial Park has been buzzing with excitement.

I stated Monday that I pick the Rocks (16-4) to defeat their neighbors from Canton (9-10) in a very close game.

But I still feel that whichever wins this contest will fall to the host team from Southfield in the final round. But I sure wouldn't mind being wrong.

Now that Salem has beaten the Mustangs and the Plymouth-Plymouth game is a reality, let's hear what the opposing coaches have to say about the contest.

CANTON'S COACH CASEY Cavell can give a super boost to his program with a victory over the Rocks. All his teams have had to play in the shadows of numerous winning seasons that Salem has enjoyed.

But this season, above all seasons so far, Cavell's crew has the talent to give Salem a run for its money.

"We're glad that Salem won," Cavell said after watching the Northville game. "The kids want to beat Salem—quite badly."

And how is Canton going to beat the Rocks? Defense is the key in Cavell's mind.

"We have to stop them from penetrating," Cavell said. "If we keep them outside I think we can control the boards. We are quicker than Northville was in controlling the boards.

"We are going to pressure their guards and go for the steals. What worries me is how well we will release dowm the court in getting back on defense. We've got to improve on that."

Cavell will open with a man-to-man defense but could coange to a 2-1-2 zone if the situation calls for it.

The Canton mentor said he probably would match his starting five with Rob Mandle against Rich Hewlett and Butch King pairing with Doug Agnew at the other guard position. Randy Rienas will have the task of guarding Tom Ellinghausen and Keith Fuelling will take Chris deBear. Mike Albright will play center and guard Brue Gerish, but it will be Rienas or Russ Mandle (off the bench) that would play the middle of the 2-1-2 zone.

SALEM COACH FRED Thomann was reluctant to tell The Observer his strategy; but he also stressed the importance of defense as a key factor to the game's outcome.

Salem will open man-to-man against the Chiefs but Thomann's match-ups remain a question until gametime. The Rock mentor admitted that he didn't expect to go to a zone defense (2-3) unless it was absolutely necessary in respect of the Canton shooters.

"I know what we will do against them and we have to work on stopping what they do best," Thomann said.

"They are an excellent fast break team. They are tough, agressive, medium-sized and have a bunch of good shooters.

"They are capable of a good streak and we are going to have to put pressure on their shooters."

SO THERE YOU HAVE it. Canton will try to stop Salem's penetration while the Rocks try to stop the Chiefs' outside shooting.

It's a battle between two small, quick, fast-breaking teams—each out to prove thier the best in the community.

Harris shows leadership

Western Six League. But this year with 32 swimmers we were 8-4 (in dual meets), and I think we'll wind up second in our league," he says.

Harris holds a firm grip on school records as a member of both the 400-freestyle and 200-yard medley relay teams. He also has established the highest standard in the 50-free, 100-free 200-free, 500-free, and the 200-individual medley.

He considers the 100-freestyle his favorite event. He qualified and finished 14th in that race at the state meet last year and has already qualified for that distance at this year's state finals. Harris is also working on meeting the requirement for the 200-freestyle.

"Kevin is the strongest, self-disciplined swimmer I've known—and self-discipline is the ultimate for every swimmer," says Faunce.

Harris expresses the same admiration for his coach and others who have assisted his career.

"I get along rally well with with coach Faunce. He's a good person to talk to, and he's helped me quite a bit. My parents have given me a load of moral support, too," said Harris.

Tonight Plymouth Canton will attempt to reach somewhat of a milestone in its history by making a significant mark in the Western Six League meet.

Faunce says he will be looking to his senior co-captain to cut a winning path for his teammates. The Chiefs arch-rival is Farmington Harrison in the struggle for second place. Harris looks forward to the meet with confidence, "I know it's gong to be close, but I know we're going to win. We have more studs than Harrison, and the team that is up for the meet is the team that's going to win."

IN THE POCKET

By W.W. EDGAR

With an entry of close to 1,000 teams, the Detroit Women's Bowling Association again will lead the nation with its annual tournament that opens Saturday afternoon at Ark Sterling Lanes in Sterling Heights.

For the past several years, the Detroit group has topped the nation in membership and the size of its city tournament. Now, with a membership of more than 120,000, which includes hundreds of women from the western suburban areas, top place in the nation is assured.

"Our tournament now will run to April 24," Rose Marsh, DWBA secretary, explained, "and I am sure we will have the biggest tournament again."

NO ONE ever would suspect that a woman who is 82 would be taking a regular turn on the bowling lanes in the area, much less gaining membership in the exclusive club that boasts those who have converted the "impossible" big-four split.

But that is exactly what Marjorie Prior did in the senior citizens league at Westland Bowl.

While no official records are kept, it is suspected that she is the oldest women ever to accomplish the feat.

GEORGE BASHARA, owner of Wonderland Lanes, has good reason to be a bit proud of his Wonderland team.

Earlier this week, the Livonia pin spillers took their turn in the American Bowling Congress tournament in Reno, Nev., and wound up in sixth place with a 2,935 count — only a few pins behind the leaders.

Jerry Bingham was high on the team with a 635, while Bud Gignac contributed a 613. The others were Jim Cummings with 573, Nick Colucci with 570, and John Scarpa with 544. Cummings topped his mates in the all-events with 1,782.

LINDA SYLVESTER doesn't make too many appearances in the Ladies Classic at Livonia Lanes. But when she does, she makes her presence felt.

This week, she took top series with a 496-114—610, even though she only won one game.

Individual winners were Dot Fulton, who won the first with 179-39—216, Dorothy Goryca, who took the second with 187-24—221, and Sylvester, who landed the third with 178-38—218.

EVIDENTLY, John Shaneilis couldn't stand the pressure when he missed a perfect game while bowling with the Plymouth Five Star group at Plymouth Bowl.

He piled up 11 strikes in a row. Then it happened. With the pressure on, he left up the "washout"—the 1-2-4-7—for 296.

Bowling with the Burroughs team and the Chevrolet combination, Bud Gierksen and Lou Kirchner had better luck. Each of them converted the difficult 7-10 split.

BRYCE ALLEN took the major share of the spotlight in the Teen Classic at Farmington Lanes. He came through with a 257 in 571. Linda Hamlin paced the girls with a 484.

AT WOODLAND LANES, Sandy Scott earned a place on the Honor Roll. She came through with a 316 game to pace the Thursday Flyers.

ROSE APRAHAMIAN turned in one of her best series of the year in the invitational doubles at Merri-Bowl. She linked games of 216, 215 and 256 for a 687 to pace the entire squad.

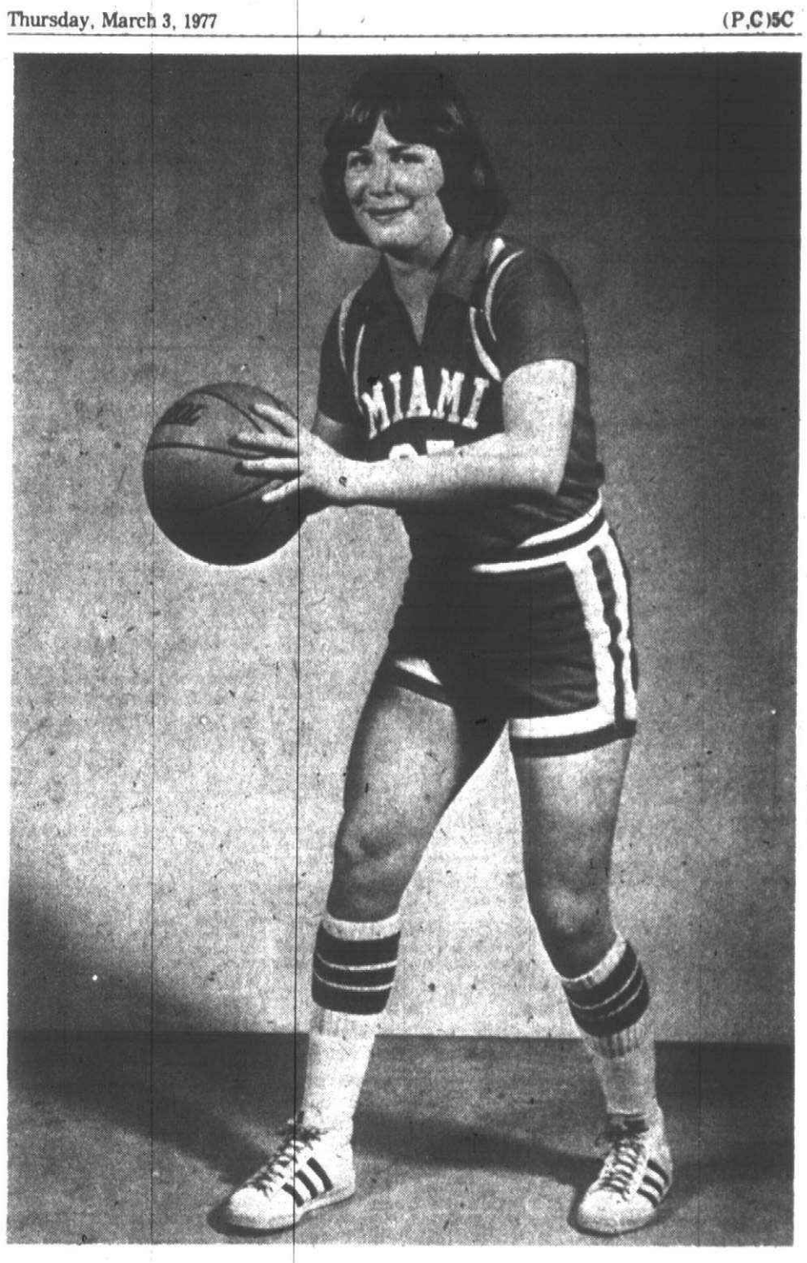

In the Ford Designers League, Mark McKenzie had top series with a 587, while Paul Gituli rolled the high game with a 275.

Among the juniors, Jerry Roti turned in a 203 and Cherryl Ranta, with a 140 average, posted a 242.

In the prep division, Pat Vonty fashioned a 508, and in the peanut group, Steve Ostler was high with a 173 in 417. To share the spotlight, Darlene Dorbs registered a 109 triplicate.

A WESTLAND JUNIOR, 12-year-old Mike Wrublewski, who carries a 105 average, helped his team win at Cloverlanes when he rolled a 208 game that included converting the 5-10 on his last ball.

SCORING HIT A LOW SPOT in the Westland Classic when Dan Emmett had a 233 in 624 to lead his nearest rival, Charlie Staggs, by two pins. Charlie had a 241 in his 622.

Smith scores for Miami, O.

Barb Smith, 1974 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, completes her third varsity season on the Miami of Ohio University women's basketball team next week. Smith, a 5-9 forward, averaged four points per game and shot 71 per cent from the free-throw line last year. She has been averaging 5.1 points and two rebounds a game this season. Smith is the daughter of Mary and George Smith of 44411 Beech in Plymouth Township. The former Rock cager majors in business management.

West, Central win titles

Rock JV ends season with win

By THOMAS ZAIBEK

In defeating Allen Park 50-34, the Plymouth Salem junior varisty basketball team completed a highly successful season with 15 victories against five losses.

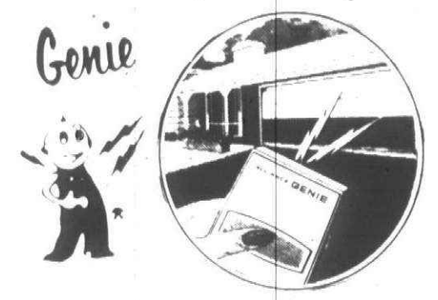

This Friday victory was the first time this year that every Plymouth player had a hand in the scoring.

With a balanced attack from Bill Thimm, Kevin Kelliher, Tom Sonnenburg and Paul Dillon, the Rocks took a 20-17 halftime lead.

Salem pulled away in the third quarter by outscoring the Jaguars 12-5.

Kelliher added 14 points in this game and led the Rocks in scoring this season with a 15.9 average. Dillon finished with an 8.5 mark for the year.
