What are Lauri Brown, Laura Skrobecki, Laura Arendsen and Cindy Kohler doing at the Citadel in Quebec City? The answer is on Page 3A.

Extortion

Several housewives have been victims of extortion in the Plymouth-Canton community. Persons are calling housewives at home, claiming to have their husbands in custody, and demanding money. Police urge anyone receiving such calls to call them immediately. See story on Page 11A.

When you win as many prizes as Ib's Heir Biff has, you get to sprawl on a special sofa for dogs only. Ed Caudle of Canton trained and bred the champion German shorthaired pointer. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Champion hound sitting pretty on his private sofa

By DARLENE STINSON

Ib's Heir Biff ain't just any hound dawg.

Curled up on his very own sofa in the Canton family room of Edward and Geneva Caudle, Biff is known from California to Maine as the only German shorthaired pointer to win three national trophies for his bird-hunting ability.

To Caudle, Biff is the type of dog that every hunting enthusiast dreams about. And Caudle, who has trained hundreds of dogs in everything from parlor-room tricks to guard-dog attacks, should know what he's talking about.

"Yep, to have this dog perform this well is like having a race horse win a triple crown," said the professional dog breeder-trainer, as he peeled off a pair of galoshes after a brief trip to the kennel.

"In the last three nationals, there was no doubt in anyone's mind that Biff would win."

A ROW OF SHINY gold trophies lines one shelf in the Caudles' family room to confirm Biff's bird-hunting ability. Among the awards are trophies won at this year's National Quail Championship in Oklahoma and National Pheasant Championship in New York.

The Dog of the Year Award, given to the German shorthaired pointer with the most competitive wins, sets among the score of trophies Biff has won in contests across the country.

All were awarded to the dappled brown and white purebred, because Biff knows how to hunt. He goes toward his game from a downwind direction with his nose high in the air, and he points in perfect form. He flushes the bird with ease and forces it to take flight. Then he retrieves his prize without "mouthing" it.

The 8-year-old canine has demonstrated his exceptional hunting ability again and again at field trials across the country. Biff and every other dog entered in the competition have an hour to stake out their prey and enable their masters to shoot it.

Trophies are awarded on the basis of accumulated points, matched against the perfect standard for pointing, retrieving and other hunting techniques.

Caudle says his dog has accumulated 69 first, second and third prizes in local and national contests.

CURRENT PRESIDENT of the National German Shorthaired Pointer Association and former owner of two other championship dogs, Caudle said he knew Biff was of championship caliber when the dog was 1½ years-old.

That's when the Caudles took Biff to Ardmore, Okla. for his first competitive hunt.

"That's when I recognized that he had the quality to be a dog of national caliber," recalled Biff's 50-year-old master. "I was patient; I kept working with him, giving him time."

Although Caudle has earned his living by training, breeding and boarding dogs his entire adult life, he says training a dog to hunt birds is the most difficult part of his work.

"No one can really tell you why a bird dog points," he explained. "This is not something we teach them. We can only improve it, and put manners on it."

"That's why breeding is so important," added Caudle, noting Biff's championship bloodline. "To be a good bird dog, a dog must have a strong pointing urge, a strong hunting urge and urge to please."

Caudle says he's currently training three young shorthaired pointers in hopes that one will take Biff's place in the competitive field someday.

BESIDES BIFF, Caudle owns "12 to 15" other dogs, four cats and two horses. Scores of other dogs are boarded in the 65-run kennel in the field behind Caudle's home.

But only Biff and two French poodles ("They're my wife's," Caudle is quick to say) have the run of Caudles' house. The rest of Caudle's dogs are German shorthaired pointers with quarters in the kennel.

Biff is clearly the star of the brood.

"You can sit anywhere but there," Caudle warned two newspaper guests as he motioned to the couch where Biff was snoozing. "That's his and we don't let anyone else sit on it."

Brown's bill would aid farmer with tax break

By CRAIG PIECHURA

One week before the Canton Land Use Committee is expected to release its report examining ways of saving farmland, State Rep. Tom Brown (D-Westland) has introduced a bill to help municipalities save farmland with tax breaks for farmers who agree to put development rights in escrow for 10 years.

The bill is designed for cities and townships with farmland located near heavy urban development. To be eligible, a municipality must be within 25 miles of an urban area consisting of 50,000 or more persons. Only nine counties in Michigan populated by 200,000 or more persons qualify for the program.

Brown says his new bill is an improvement over Public Act 116, an existing act that allows tax relief for farmland in escrow, because there is local control over who gets tax exemption and how much.

The 37th district representative admits that the clamor for growth control and just compensation for farmers who held their land for future development in spite of high taxes, prompted him to write and sponsor House Bill 4580.

"Canton's problems and people's desire for orderly growth had quite a bit to do with my introducing this bill," Brown said.

THE CHAIRMAN of Canton's land use citizen study committee, Bert Berg, believes Brown's proposed bill "would find more takers" among farm landowners than existing Public Act 116. Berg says he's especially encouraged that the legislature is looking into ways of preserving farmland in areas that border big cities.

Berg also likes the idea that a five-man council would review all requests for tax relief instead of the state, county or local government.

"That shows he's trying to take politics out of it," Berg said.

The council which sets the tax rate would be composed of one member appointed by the governor, one member appointed by the county board of commissioners, one member from the county intermediate school district and two members appointed by the local municipal board.

Under Brown's proposal the state would have no power to veto or overrule tax breaks for farmers once the council approved it.

Farmers with 20 or more acres of farmable land would be eligible for relief as well as people with 50 or more acres of open land.

The council could set a tax rate between $10 and $25 per acre for farmers who qualify.

BROWN PROPOSES that the state pay 80 per cent of the difference between the full property assessment and the amount paid by the farmer with the tax break. Local government would have to pick up 20 per cent of the difference.

The average Canton farmer pays $50 per acre in taxes.

Using a 100-acre farm normally assessed at $50 per acres as an example, Brown said owners normally would be expected to pay $5,000. If the council set their taxes at $20 per acre, the owners would pay only $2,000 in taxes for the year.

So, in this example, the state would pay $2,400 and the local government would pay $600.

Because only nine counties are eligible and only interested municipalities will participate, Brown estimates the cost of the program to be about $1 million yearly to the State of Michigan.

Farmland must remain farmland for 10 years for the landowner to continue receiving the tax break. Should the owner sell the land to a developer or stop farm production, he would be penalized by the council or forced to pay back the tax relief.

But in Brown's bill, landowners who are forced to break the escrow agreement "because of unforeseen occurrences" would have an opportunity to state their case before the local land council decides the amount of penalty.

"By leaving the penalties discretionary with the local council, persons can feel secure in entering the program, knowing if a family emergency arises or some other legitimate crisis occurs, they will be able to get out of the development rights agreement without mandatory severe penalties being imposed."

"However," Brown continued, "there are very strict penalty clauses available to the council for use when they feel the only reason for breaking the agreement is financial reward. I believe this will discourage those with the wrong intentions from becoming involved in the program."

THE BILL has been introduced this week and sent to the taxation committee. Brown hopes it will be sent to the towns and counties committee which he chairs. The legislator said he doesn't expect to see major changes or amendments tacked on the bill. "There's not too much room for amendments," Brown said, "if you like the idea. The whole point is who will administer the program—we say local units will—and who will receive it."

Once the bill leaves committee, Berg says he will try to round up a Canton contingent to go to Lansing to speak in favor of the bill.

"I'll campaign for this bill through high heaven and western Wayne County when the bill comes up for debate—if we can still recognize it," said Berg. "As it exists right now I have a few minor comments about it, but on the whole I thoroughly support it. I'm elated. It's the first time I know where the farms that border urban areas are going to be given an incentive to keep farmland. And Canton farms are in a highly pressurized area."

Recall of 2 more is possible

Seven blank recall petitions were reportedly picked up Saturday at Peter Bundarin's law office by Tom Quinn and Linda LaBell.

Bundarin, who lost the supervisor race last Nov. 1, said he does not support the idea of recalling anyone other than Supervisor Harold Stein, but said he could not speak for Quinn or LaBell.

Quinn claims he just picked up the blank petitions so he'd have them available "if the need arises."

Outspoken critics of the Stein administration, such as Jim Donahue and Thom Carman, say they have discussed with Quinn the idea of recalling more than just Stein, but nothing has been decided.

"I picked up seven petitions," Quinn said, "and they'll be put to good use if the need arises. I've got a hot little typewriter at home, so if I get ticked off by something one of the board members pulls, all I've got to do is go home and fill the forms out. I won't have to go downtown to get the proper forms."

Rumors about the possibility of expanding the recall movement from Stein to include his slate-mates, Treasurer Anne Bradley and Gene Daley, were rampant this week.

Quinn is fighting for reinstatement to the Canton Zoning Board of Appeals and LaBell is a member of the land use study committee. She has been critical of the township's attitude toward curbing rapid residential growth. Both are regular "board watchers."

Stein said he didn't care how many people are the target of a recall drive.

"The place is a circus," Stein said. "Recall is a big game to these people."

Apartment fight has new lawyer

By CRAIG PIECHURA

An attorney who came to Tuesday night's Canton board meeting representing Windsor Park homeowners found himself handling the township's legal defense in a lawsuit filed by the Slavik Development Co.

In a strange turn of events, Canton officials voted 6-1 to hire John L. Etter of Ann Arbor and drop the services of its regular attorney, Bert Burgoyne.

Slavik filed suit against Canton Township after the township board voted Nov. 9 to rescind already-approved site plans for construction of the apartments on 13 acres at the northwest corner of Warren and Morton Taylor.

The Windsor Park homeowners group is fighting construction of a 153-unit apartment complex claiming the apartments are incompatible with their single-family neighborhood.

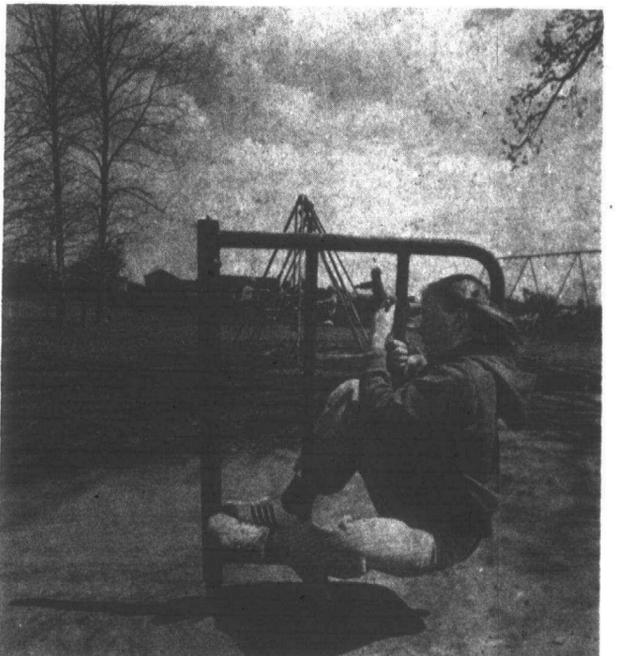

ONLY CLERK John Flodin voted against appointing Etter to fight construction of the apartments. Even Supervisor Harold Stein, who, for months, has maintained that the township should "avoid the unnecessary litigation," voted to hire Etter to fight the developer in court.

"Maybe the township's got to learn a lesson if they want to go to court on everything," Stein said in explaining the reason for his vote. "But tonight's arguments didn't change my original feelings on the lawsuit."

Tuesday's vote brought cheers from the homeowners who attend board meetings in large numbers to voice their disapproval of apartment construction, and who argued that property values will decline with rented apartments in the Windsor Park vicinity.

Last November, board members gave their reason for rescinding the site plan. The reason was that the developer had never made a written amendment—asking for the right to build 153 apartments—to the 1969 Planned Unit Development (PUD) (Continued on page 6A)

Special Olympics announce events

The schedule of events has been announced for the 1977 Special Olympics April 30 and May 6 under the sponsorship of the Civitan Clubs of Plymouth, Livonia, Northville, Wayne and Garden City.

The Olympics for some 1,800 mentally and physically handicapped persons ages eight to 35 years will be held at Stevenson High School, 33500 W. Six Mile, Livonia. The Olympics last year were staged at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

Gymnastic events are slated for 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and bowling competition from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, April 30.

The bowling competition will be in Westland Bowl, 5940 Wayne Road just north of Ford in Westland.

On Friday, May 6, the track and field and swimming competition will be held. The opening parade will be at 8:30 a.m. May 6, followed by swimming from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and track and field events from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

THE SPECIAL OLYMPICS is an athletic program, sponsored nationally by the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation, made available to mentally and physically handicapped people throughout the U.S.

The Special Olympics has one encompassing goal: To give handicapped persons, through active participation, the opportunity to develop self confidence, physical discipline, sportsmanship, responsibility and a desire to strive for their maximum potential to function satisfactorily in their social environment.

"Before Special Olympics, no mentally retarded person could ever hope to be a winner in anything," comments Dulce Green, Wayne County project director. "Today, the Special Olympics Medal is a recognized symbol of achievement—the most prized possession or the most cherished dream of thousands of mentally retarded people."

Bill Olson, Plymouth coordinator for the Olympics, stressed that the Special Olympics is a program for all retarded persons—not just the best athletes. "Our objective is to welcome every mentally retarded person to the world of sports training and competition. Trainable people now comprise nearly 50 per cent of all Special Olympians."

Olson adds that Special Olympics isn't just a meet or series of meets. "Far more significant to the growth and well-being of the children and adults themselves is the year-round training program which provides the physical and emotional incentive which makes the ultimate competition worthwhile."

Other Plymouth Civitan members involved in the Olympics include: Sam Detrich, gymnastics, Len Dybas, publicity, and Tim Doyle, program, and boys' track.

5-finger discount on a new Mark V

There is a thief with very expensive tastes driving around the Plymouth area.

A dove-gray, 1977 Mark V Cartier was stolen last week from the Hines Park Lincoln Mercury dealership on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth.

The theft took place sometime between 9 p.m. Thursday and 8:30 a.m. Friday. A spokesman for the dealership said the keys to the car were missing from a showroom cabinet.

Michigan State Police Sgt. Gary Sauer said the theft is under investigation.

Get taste of French culture

CEP students return from Canada

In Montreal's Chinatown are Chrisi Lysell, Jeff DuCharme, Karen Albright, Sharon Gutheire, Janet Olszewski, Paul Ardanowski, Karen Koster, Laura Parker, Pete Richardson, Laura Skrobecki, Laura Arendsen, Cindy Kohler and Paul Fogarty. Now shown is Kathy Koster. (Photos by John Hopkins)

About 15 students are back in Plymouth and Canton after spending a week in Quebec City and Montreal during spring break from school.

The trip is taken annually as an effort to further the interest of young people in the study of the French language and culture.

The trip isn't, however, school sponsored. Although Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem students go on the trip, the tour is privately sponsored by trip director John Hopkins. Hopkins is a fulltime French instructor at Salem.

Hopkins makes all arrangements for the week's activities, including planning the transportation, making arrangements for hotels and meals, and visits to spots of interest. Because he is a summer resident of Quebec City and knows the area well, Hopkins is able to pack a two-week experience into one week's time.

THAT EXPERIENCE includes lots of foot tours, visits to ski resorts, historic shrines and hotels, and shopping tours.

Places visited included the Citadel in Quebec City, Saint-Anne de Beaupre—the oldest shrine in Canada—the Chateau Frontenac, Mont Ste-Anne ski resort where the World Cup was recently held, Aux Anciens Canadiens, a restaurant dating back to the 17th century, and Chinatown in Montreal.

The students ate fresh French-made bread baked in stone ovens, sampled

French Canadian maple sugar products, rode on the subway in Montreal, and shopped in Montreal's vast underground city. While in Montreal, they stayed in a hotel on the Jacques Cartier—a quaint square at the heart of Old Montreal.

Hopkins said he attempted to expose the students to as many varieties of food as possible, including French crepes suzette, frog legs, sweet and sour scallops, New Orleans style spare ribs, flaming pepper steak, French onion soup, duckling with orange sauce, stuffed shrimp, pastries and hors d'oeuvres too numerous to mention.

"As one student put it," comments Hopkins, "the whole trip was one continuous meal."

Hopkins adds: "This group, more than any other previous students who have taken the trip, demonstrated a great deal of maturity and rarely abused their privileges."

THE STUDENTS themselves had various reactions to the trip, although most agreed the unpleasant part was the snowstorm resulting in six feet of snow which greeted them in Quebec City.

"The most exciting thing of the trip was the old buildings in Quebec City. They had a lot of history to tell," recalls Paul Fogarty.

Laura Parker remembers the carriage ride and sea foods and "all the stairs we had to climb in Montreal. It's easy to learn French when that's about the only thing anybody speaks."

Laura Skrobecki also said she learnt to speak French better on the trip, but also learned how to spend her money and keep track of it. "I would like to go back in the summer and see how everything would be then."

Karen Koster liked the quaintness of Quebec City. Janet Olszewski comments: "I was looking forward to the trip and it lived up to my expectations. I liked how we could go shopping and go off by ourselves without having to be somewhere every minute."

Laura Arendsen learned mostly that people who are trying to speak English have as much trouble as we do speaking French.

Kathy Koster remembers the buggy ride, disco, and maple sugar party and was impressed by the difference between spoken French and French taught in the classroom.

Chrisi Lysell comments: "The food was great and hearing all that French all the time really made me realize how important French is."

Pete Richardson remembers the heavy snowstorm, watching Hopkins slip and slide in the mud, and the rough landing in Quebec City.

Growth puts squeeze on utility companies

By PATRICK TOUCHEY

Heavy construction machinery, acres of torn up land, new neighborhoods and new neighbors almost overnight. Anyone in the Plymouth-Canton area is more than familiar with these obvious signs of growth.

They are familiar, too, with the personal consequences of living in a community of rapid development: high taxes, inflated housing prices, and crowded school buildings.

A recently released Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) survey indicated that Plymouth and Canton townships lead western Wayne County in residential growth.

And as people leave the City of Detroit at a rate of 90 per day, there is no sign of a let-up in the demand for suburban homes.

The mass service industries also feel the crunch of these high demands. For every new home, there are more customers for heat, telephones and mail delivery.

Most of the time, these services are provided without disturbance. But it's not by accident. In almost all instances, years of planning have gone into keeping pace with escalating needs and demands.

"WE'VE HAD TO SCRAMBLE a little to keep up with the growth in Plymouth and Canton," said Haze Wilson, Michigan Bell's community relations manager. "But generally the phone company works according to two-year forecasts. And we've been forecasting this population boom for quite some time."

Last year, Michigan Bell built a new electronic switching system (ESS) at Sheldon and Cherry Hill Roads in Canton to handle increased phone requests.

At that time, 4,000 Canton phone numbers were moved from the Bell office on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth, and the numbers themselves were changed. The Canton ESS currently handles 6,500 customers and has a capacity for up to 10,000.

According to Wilson, the move to the Sheldon and Cherry Hill office served two purposes. It provided better service to Canton customers and it left room at the Plymouth office to accommodate the projected growth in western Plymouth Township.

In April of next year, Wilson said, another new ESS office is scheduled to be constructed at Newburgh Road and Five Mile. When it is completed, about 1,800 Lakepointe Village phone numbers will be moved to that location, and the digits will be changed.

This plan will further relieve the Ann Arbor Road office, and the extra space can be used to service more customers in Plymouth Township. The Plymouth office currently serves 26,000 phone customers and has a capacity of 30,000.

Telephone and mail services have been forced to keep up with the demands of Canton's growth. Tanya Ward's (above) job was made easier by the Electronic Switching System on Sheldon Road in Canton. (Staff photos) agreement which called for construction of 98 apartments and 55 condominiums.

'Defensibility' of apartment fight debated

ATTORNEY ETTER, who initially represented Ron Rizza and his Windsor Park neighbors and left representing the township, disagrees with Canton counsel Burgoyne on the "defensibility" of the lawsuit.

Burgoyne strongly believes that site plan approval can only be revoked for reasons of zoning.

Burgoyne says it is not a valid reason to reject a site plan approved for multiples just because apartments, not townhouses, will be built on the site.

"Site plan approvals are not amendments to the original PUD," Burgoyne said Tuesday. "They're not amendments at all. And there is no provision to revoke site plans once they've been approved.

"What Slavik wants to do is something I think the court will let them do."

BURGOYNE SAID he felt the township's case "is very nearly a sure loser." The only point he felt confident about winning was the question of whether Slavik only had to uphold building code requirements that were in effect in 1969 when the PUD agreement was signed. Burgoyne said requirements would have to be met by the builder.

"I don't think it's a prudent expenditure of township funds," Burgoyne said of the suit. "The chances of its success are not, in my opinion, worth the cost of litigation. But lawyers don't always agree and apparently Mr. Etter feels otherwise."

Etter told board members Tuesday he thinks the township has "a fair chance of success" in fighting the construction of all apartments.

The township board was right Nov. 9 in rescinding the site plan, according to Etter, because officials had no authority in the first place to grant site plan approval "when the plans were not in compliance with the PUD agreement."

The PUD language specifically spelled out 98 apartments and 55 condominiums, according to Etter, and that will be an exhibit in the court fight. The type of construction and the accompanying density requirements are crucial to the terms of the agreement, he said.

ANY ORAL agreements made between Slavik and officials on the 1972 board concerning a change in the type of multiples to be built "were effective only to the extent that they were relied upon," Etter said.

Four condominiums were built on the site by a previous developer and these units are presently being rented as apartments by Slavik.

Utilities boom

All of the changes and new facilities, said Wilson, keep phone service and supply a few jumps ahead of projected demand. "There is, of course, some inconvenience to the individuals when their numbers are changed. But in the long run, it allows us to give more efficient service."

THE PLYMOUTH POST OFFICE also is groaning under the weight of additional mail sacks. Built in 1935 to serve a rural area, it now processes the mail for close to 100,000 people in Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships.

William Fleming, district director of customer services, said the present growth rate was particularly taxing on the available space in the building.

Canton got its own zip code last year to help speed up delivery, but Fleming believes that move was only a temporary measure. In two years, he said, the Plymouth office and staff will not be able to keep pace with predicted growth.

The district post office generally tries to predict individual area's need five to 10 years in advance. The present growth rate in the Plymouth-Canton area is about 3,600 new deliveries each year. And Fleming said it was expected to increase by this amount every year for the next five years.

Along with mail delivery, postal services include processing mail and "retail" stamp sales. To help clear out the congestion and long waiting lines in the Plymouth office and to give more convenience to Canton residents, a small station has been opened in Meijer Thrifty Acres to handle stamp sales only.

In addition to that station, Fleming said, there are several other plans being considered to give better delivery to Canton. There is a new post office in Westland, which is operating at 75 per cent capacity. And there also is a post office in Wayne at about 25 per cent capacity.

Either one or both could take deliveries, carriers, and clerks from the Plymouth office to process and distribute mail in Canton. Or a new post office could be built in Canton.

Although Canton residents would like their own office to enhance the township's identity, Fleming said, as far as service goes, it doesn't make any difference whether carriers and clerks work in Plymouth, Wayne or Westland.

Plymouth Postmaster John Mulligan said that so far his staff was experiencing only occasional minor problems in serving the large population.

"The Plymouth district of 63 square miles is, as far as I know, the second largest in the state. Only Detroit covers more territory. I don't know how long I'll be able to say this, but we are keeping up."

According to Mulligan, somewhere between 73,000 and 83,000 people depend on the Plymouth carriers to deliver their mail. However, on a daily basis, there are about 22,000 deliveries.

"The numbers become staggering real fast," commented Mulligan. "Right now, roughly three million pieces of mail come through this office every month. And that doesn't even include advertising flyers."

THE UTILITIES COMPANIES are facing the same problem. Even though Consumers Power districts are large, and individual growth areas are absorbed quite easily, the company is watching Plymouth Township closely.

According to Mike Bloombach, public information officer, there were 297 new residential gas customers during 1976. And the need in 1977 is expected to increase by one-third, or some 400 new residences.

The company also estimates that 20,000 feet of new gas mains—all for homes—will have to be installed during this year.

While Canton Township does have gas for commercial development because it is in the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. district, its residential growth far exceeds new businesses. Last year, the building department issued 188 commercial certificates of occupancy and 1,043 residential certificates.

"We're just getting started," commented Charles Thompson, building department supervisor. "I expect we'll give out 1,200 residential certificates before the year is over."

Racquetball is here

One of the most popular activities these days at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park is racquetball.

Plymouth Canton High's new gym-music facility has four courts which are in almost constant use.

There is a limited time during school days when the courts are available for student use—from 2:30-6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Sign up may be done in the continuing education office.

Courts are available for community use from 6:30-10:30 p.m. weekdays, 8-5 Saturdays, and 1-5 p.m. Sundays. For scheduling call the continuing education office at 459-1180.

The problem of short-term financing isn't limited to big business.

Short-term financing, as any good businessman knows, is a function of cash flow.

Like when school tuition is due before the bonus is paid. Or vacation time arrives before the tax refund.

Usually you handle it with one or more bank loans. Which means one or more trips to the bank.

Now there's a simpler way: Instaline, the new revolving credit account at National Bank of Detroit.

You apply only once for Instaline. Then, any time you need money, you simply write in the amount you need on a special Instaline form, then cash it at any NBD office.

You can apply for Instaline credit in an amount as low as $500, or all the way up to $10,000. You have the protection of minimum monthly payments. And the advantage of being able to make large partial payments, or repay the amount in full, at any time with simple interest. And Instaline costs you nothing until you use it.

Instaline. For everyone who occasionally needs help in covering the financial peaks and valleys of life.

And you can apply for it at any NBD office.

The Stroller

Hail the dandelion

By W. W. EDGAR

Every year, about this time, the Stroller feels compelled to come to the defense of the much maligned dandelion.

For the past several weeks his mail box has been jammed daily with what is termed "junk" mail. And, ironically, the top piece usually displays an ad for some sort of solution to kill the so-called unsightly dandelion.

Each time this happens, the Stroller can't help but feel that the folks who designed the ads and those who suggested them never have had the experience of being a member of a poor family trying to eke out in an existence in hard times. We used to call them panics, but in today's world, they are more generally known as depressions or recessions.

Had these enemies of the dandelion lived through what was called a panic when the head of the family couldn't buy a job, they never would have picked on the dandelion and asked for its destruction. For dandelion was the life saver when the Stroller was a youth.

IN THOSE days when difficult times came and the economy took a dip, the dandelion was turned to for sustenance, and many a hearty meal the Stroller enjoyed. His Pennsylvania

Dutch mother, who was quite a cook, served it in a manner fit for a king.

Just as soon as the plants broke through the ground, she would prepare us for the annual dandelion drive. First, we would pick the dandelion out from own lawn, then head for the sides of the country roads for our daily quota.

Once the dandelion was brought home, mother would select enough for our meal, wash the stems real well, then prepare a German sour dressing to pour over them.

The dandelion, along with a helping of mashed potatoes, was the type of meal we lived on—except for the weekends when she would try to have a bit of meat for us. But in the main, we were raised on dandelion. And when the dandelion season ended, she turned to endive and treated it the same way.

Many are the times at this season of the year when the Stroller longs for the dandelion dishes his mother used to set before the family.

The fact that the dandelion made splendid eating is only part of the reason the Stroller must come to its defense. Almost as important as the meals it made, the lowly dandelion provided the Stroller with his first lessons in business.

When he made his daily trips to the country roads he would pick much more than the family required. Then, one day, he got an idea.

What about the families that didn't have any one picking for them?

So, the Stroller started calling on homes in the neighborhood and inquiring about their need for some of the tasty greens. Many responded. So, the Stroller soon found himself in business.

IT WASN'T long until he had worked up quite a clientele and the dandelion, sold in portions called a "mess," brought 15 cents. You can imagine what that meant in times of depression. Many were the weeks when the receipts from dandelion sales enabled our family of six to have meat on Sunday.

Years later, when the Stroller moved to the suburbs, it was not unusual to see men, women and children, walking along the C&O railroad tracks from Redford to Plymouth, picking dandelions along the way. They came by the dozens during the Great Depression of the early 30s. To them, the dandelion was the gift from nature that pulled them through.

But aside from its quality as a food, the dandelion is a beautiful flower. Just pick one up and look at it.

Helping Hand program renewed

By DARLENE STINSON

A 5-year-old is chased by a group of older students on his way to school on a dark winter morning. An 8-year-old is asked to enter the car of a stranger. Another student falls off his bicycle on the way to an elementary building, and his arm in throbbing pain.

With the revival of the Helping Hand program sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton School Council and the Plymouth Jaycee Auxiliary, students who find themselves in such circumstances could receive immediate help from adult volunteers who display Helping Hand symbols on windows of their homes.

The Plymouth-Canton School Board Monday stamped its unanimous approval to re-establishment of the program that ended in the district about four years ago because of declining interest.

The school council, composed of PTO representatives from the district's elementary schools, will discuss a timetable for the program's implementation today, according to member Sylvia Stetz, who spearheaded revival of the volunteer program.

Mrs. Stetz says the program may be reimplemented before this school year ends.

UNDER THE PROGRAM. Helping Hand volunteers will be selected and supervised by chairpersons and councils established at each elementary school. Volunteers must be residents of the school district or businessmen in the community and be at least 18 years-old.

Volunteers will display the Helping Hand hand symbol in the windows of their homes and call the police and building principal immediately when a child asks for help. During the dark months of winter, volunteers should turn on their porch lights when children walk to school in the morning.

Under no circumstances will volunteers be allowed to administer first aid or medicine, offer food or beverages or transport children in a car. Children could be allergic to certain food or medicine, Mrs. Stetz explained, or they could be diabetic.

According to Mrs. Stetz, the Helping Hand program will be established in each elementary school, at the building principal's request and with the approval of the school's PTO. Although not intended for middle or high schools, the program will include those students at the principal's request.

By Monday, principals of all elementary schools in the district except Tanager and Smith had requested implementation of the helping hand program in their attendance areas, Mrs. Stetz said.

A REPRESENTATIVE OF Allen Elementary School PTO, Mrs. Stetz said she raised the idea of reviving the Helping Hand program before the school council last fall at the suggestion of Allen principal Tom Workman.

Workman claims Mrs. Stetz is "too modest" in brushing off credit for the program's revival.

A similar program was implemented in the district by the Jaycee Auxiliary in 1968. The program faded from view about four years ago.

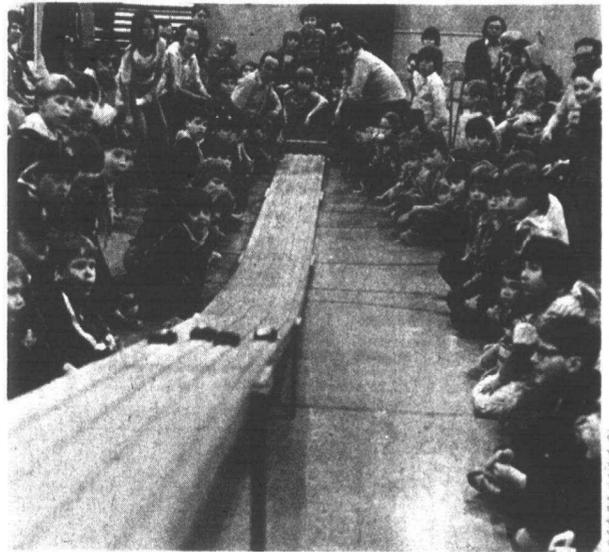

"That program worked exceptionally well in our area," Workman said. "It gave parents and children the security of knowing that someone in the neighborhood could offer help."

Workman said he endorsed revival of the program even before the recent rash of unsolved child slayings in Oakland County.

"I think we have at least one incident in each school each year where students are caught between home and school with need of assistance," he said.

Bobby Billings placed first in the backwards race with Terry Bates, second, Jamie Nelson, third, and Jimmy Robacher, fourth.

Jimmy Morin won the competition for most original car and Tom Partee won the award for best designed car.

DNR refuses new construction permits over concern of additional discharges

A Michigan State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) official has refused to issue any new construction permits for Plymouth Township, citing his belief that the township is exceeding its allotted sewer capacity.

In a letter to Plymouth Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert, David Sprow, a DNR sanitary engineer, said he was concerned that the township was discharging more waste into the Rouge Valley Interceptor system than its allocated amount of 9.6 cubic feet per second.

Any additional discharge, he said, would only aggravate the over-taxed flow capacity.

Although he specifically declined to issue a permit for a proposed 99-site subdivision on the northwest corner of Joy and McClumpha Roads, Sprow said he would not grant anymore permits until he was satisfied township officials had a plan to deal with the excess flow.

The DNR is a regulatory agency, which has the responsibility of monitoring pollution in state waterways. It also has final authority for approving commercial and residential development.

The township board of trustees gave its final approval the subdivision two weeks ago. However, until the state gives the go-ahead, construction will be at a stand-still.

If a general moratorium is enforced against the township, all new construction would grind to a halt.

"THE GOAL OF THIS department is to have zero pollution," Sprow stated. "These sewer problems don't happen overnight. The question is how much pollution can be tolerated."

"I for one do not want to continue to issue permits until I am sure the township has a proposal to handle the increased flow."

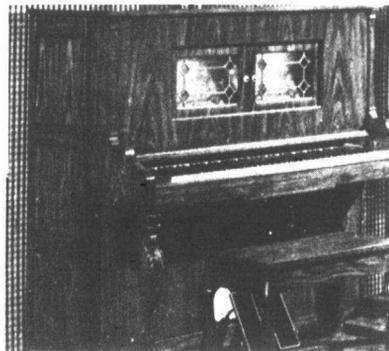

He said his refusal did not "reflect department policy" as far as Plymouth Township was concerned.

but he said he was going to notify his superiors that he felt a problem existed.

Sprow said he does not know how much excess the township is generating, but any amount was cause for concern.

If more sewage is dumped into the Rouge system than can be treated adequately, he said, raw human waste is discharged into natural free-flowing waters.

"I am not out to cause alarm. I just don't have very much information. I expect a response from the township officials, and then we can go from there."

Updated player piano

This unusual electronic player piano has found its way into Laurel Furniture store on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth. The piano can play music electronically by itself, as if it were a stereo, or be played manually the "traditional" way by pumping the pedals. The electronic player piano is a re-creation of Leonard Eisen.

MCF honors Nellie Baigrie

Nellie Baigrie of Plymouth was among 65 volunteers honored by the Michigan Cancer Foundation at its first Volunteer Recognition Dinner held recently in Hillcrest Country Club, Mt. Clemens.

The volunteers were honored for their more than 30 years of service and for having saved Detroit area cancer patients more than $175 million over the past 30 years by sewing and distributing free cancer dressings.

Each of these women has sewed more than 10,000 dressings and contributed more than 2,500 hours of service during the past three decades. Collectively they have provided 3,500 cancer patients with almost 700,000 dressings.

"These women are exemplary in their generosity," says Mrs. Mary Mulligan, MCF volunteer services manager, "and they truly represent the strength of the American volunteer spirit."

Guests at the dinner were entertained by comedian Henry Youngman.

State House, Senate conflict Schoolcraft board remains same

It's official. Nine candidates have filed to run for three seats on the Schoolcraft College board June 13, and the board's total size will remain at eight for the next two years.

The State House of Representatives late Monday gave 94-0 approval of a bill to increase the college board's membership to nine, as the present board of trustees had requested.

But the senate earlier had passed 32-0 a bill to reduce the Schoolcraft board's size to seven, a move at making Schoolcraft and Delta community colleges conform to the other 27 in Michigan.

Because of the differences, legislative leaders will appoint a conference committee, probably no earlier than next week.

EVEN IF THE conferees can agree, however, it's too late for the bill to take effect in time for the June 13 election.

"Our attorney and the elections office tell us that action had to be taken by 4 p.m. on April 26," said Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote.

That was Tuesday—which was also filing deadline for candidates for three board seats. Those who filed have until 4 p.m. Friday to withdraw, if they wish to do so.

ONE NEW NAME is on the candidates list: George Gravila of 16732 Merriman, Livonia. He has yet to make a formal announcement with biography and picture.

Incumbent Arch Vallier failed to file for re-election, and incumbent LeRoy Bennett earlier announced he would retire after two terms. So at least two new trustees will be elected.

Vice-chairperson Rosina Raymond is seeking re-election to a second term.

The other seven candidates are: Karl Sjogren, Clarenceville School District resident; Laura Toy, Len Wozniak, Harry Greenleaf, Michael Cicchella and Richard Hayward, Livonia School District residents; and G.J. (Jack) Bologna of Plymouth.

IF TREASURER Nancie Blatt should be elected state representative in the 35th House District June 28, the remaining two years of her six-year term would be filled by a board appointment.

Meanwhile, trustees resolved last week to continue seeking legislative approval of nine seats for their board. If the house-senate conference committee favors the senate's seven-member version, Schoolcraft trustees will seek to have the bill killed.

Board Chairman Paul Y. Kadish summed up the college's political strategy:

"First, we make sure the vote's are there in the house." (That has been accomplished.)

"Second, we influence the conference committee. Dr. Grote, myself and any board members who wish will work on that."

"After all of that is done—and hopefully the conference committee will recommend nine—we're OK."

"If the senate plan wins, then we lobby Bill Faust (senate Democratic leader and a Westland resident). I have every indication that, as Bill Faust goes, so goes the senate."

Africa Fellowship proceeds

The $2,000 proceeds from an Alma campus auction to support Alma College's Africa Fellowship program is presented by auction coordinator Douglas Shrewsbury (right) of Plymouth to Robert D. Swanson, college president. The auction, supported in part by the Sigma Beta service fraternity. The fellowship, supported in part by the auction and by a tax which Alma students assess themselves, makes it possible for one student from the college to serve each year as a member of the faculty of a secondary school in Nigeria. Shrewsbury, a 1973 graduate of Plymouth High School and a special student at Alma, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O. Shrewsbury of Maple Street, Plymouth.

Transit service

In cooperation with the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, the Plymouth Recreation Department offers the use of an 11-passenger van to Plymouth area residents 55 years or older on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month.

The second Tuesday of each month, the van will go to Westland Shopping Center and on the fourth Tuesday it will go to the Livonia Mall at no charge. For further information call the recreation office at 455-6620.

SC to host conference on careers

Schoolcraft College will host a state-wide development workshop on careers Tuesday in the Waterman Center on the main campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

The conference is entitled Passages in Career Development and is open to professional career counselors, human development workers, students and the public.

Experts in career programs and development from throughout Michigan will attend, according to conference coordinator John Webber, Schoolcraft's director of counseling. Topics will include: sex role stereotyping in employment; career misplacement; life work planning; a group model for mid-career change; and new state legislation.

The statewide conference is cosponsored by the Michigan Department of Education, the Michigan Association for Specialists in Group Work, the Michigan School Counselors Association Post-Secondary Office and the Michigan College Personnel Assn.

Registration fee is $5. Registration information is available from Sandra Florek at the college.

Extortionist at work in area

Another telephone threat last week by a would-be extortionist in the Plymouth Canton area has prompted Wayne County Sheriff detectives to ask for help from the community.

Det. Larry Patterson said that anyone who receives a threatening call—even if they know the threat is a hoax—should contact sheriff detectives immediately.

Last week's incident brought to 12 the number phone threats have been reported in the Plymouth Township, Canton Township area in the past two months, Patterson said.

Most of the threatening calls have been made to women in Plymouth Township while their husbands were at work, according to Patterson. All the calls involved an extortion attempt based information that proved to be false. No money was handed over in any of the cases.

"Last week we heard from a woman who stated she received a phone call at 5:30 a.m. from a subject who stated his name was Dave and that he had her husband, who had just been in an accident," Patterson explained. "The subject told the woman he had a shotgun to her husband's head and that if she didn't get $5,000 he would be killed."

After receiving the extortion threat, Patterson said, the woman called her husband at work and discovered that he was in no danger.

"If you get a call like this, first call to see if your husband's all right, and then give us a call," Patterson said.

"We're compiling a list for future prosecution."

Patterson said the caller, who appears to be a man in his twenties, has gone as far as setting up a drop off spot for the ransom money. "We had one stake-out at a drop point near Newburgh and Ann Arbor Trail but no one showed," Patterson said.

"We want people to know that these kinds of threats are going on," Patterson said. "Maybe it will alleviate a little bit of the anxiety for someone who'd get such a call. And maybe being aware of the problem will help us in locating the guy. We want to prosecute this guy for attempting extortion."

Call 911 for city fire emergencies

Plymouth Fire Chief George Schoenneman announces he is asking Michigan Bell Telephone to remove 453-1313—the former number for fire emergency calls.

Since the installation of the 911 service last September in Plymouth, explains Schoenneman, residents now are dialing 911 for emergency calls.

The elimination of the old number will save money and provide a uniform way of handling all emergencies in the city.

Because the new telephone book came out listing 911 as the emergency number, almost all residents are now using it. The phone company agreed to transfer misdirected calls to the 911 emergency number effective May 2.

Residents should to dial 911 only for emergency police, fire or ambulance service. For calls of a nonemergency nature to the fire department, dial 453-1234 effective May 2.

AAA opens centralized claim center

More than 100,000 Automobile Club of Michigan insureds in western Wayne County will be serviced by a new claim center that opens Monday in Livonia.

Settlements in excess of $20 million for 40,000 claims resulting from auto, boat, home, life or other accident coverages are expected to be handled in the first year of operation at Triple-

A's Schoolcraft District Claim Center, 27450 Schoolcraft at Inkster Road.

The office will service auto club insured who previously had claims handled through these five branch offices: Grand River, 15065 Grand River; Joy-Southfield, 8850 Southfield Road; Livonia, 32415 Five Mile Road; Plymouth, 44511 Ann Arbor Road, and Wayne-Westland, 434 S. Wayne Road.

With the exception of claims, all other services will continue at the Livonia, Plymouth and Wayne-Westland branches, and at the Detroit west office, at 22450 Schoolcraft, recently opened to replace the Grand River and Joy-Southfield offices.

All pending claims from offices affected are transferred to the new facility, which can be reached by phone at 525-9800.

The district claim center is the first of its kind opened by the auto club in the state and is managed by William C. Ramer.

The office will have a staff of 75 persons assisted by computers. In addition to computer terminals, two file areas can store more than a quarter-mile of claim cases.

"Motorists with damaged but drivable vehicles can expect to leave our new center with a check to cover cost of repairs in no more than 40 minutes after arrival," Ramer said.

Previously, he said, after an accident was reported to an auto club office, insureds took vehicles to repair shops where adjusters went to verify costs and approve repairs.

An insured who utilizes the new center will have claim coverage verified via a high-speed computer terminal in seconds. If a motor vehicle damage claim is made, computer information is given to one of the center's auto-adjusters.

"The damaged vehicle then is driven into one of the building's four inspection stalls where damages are determined and a check, payable to the insured and the repair shop selected by the insured, is issued on-the-spot," said Ramer. He added that if repairs not discovered in the initial inspection are needed, a second check will be issued to cover necessary work.

While claim adjusters estimate repair costs, insureds can wait in the office-reception center.

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

"After last winter's severe cold, a lot of homeowners are warming up to the electric heat pump. Here's why:"

Home pictured built by Guenther Building Company, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Today's heat pump is one of the most energy-efficient ways to heat your home, apartment, office or commercial building. It returns over 1½ units of heat for every unit of energy it uses.

Think what this can mean in conserving energy and helping to keep your heating and cooling costs down.

There's a unique reason why the heat pump is an outstandingly efficient heating system.

It makes good use of outdoor heat.

Yes. Even in winter there's heat in the outdoor air that can help keep you warm. The trick is to move that heat inside where you can use it. That's what the heat pump does. Only during very low temperatures is supplementary heat needed.

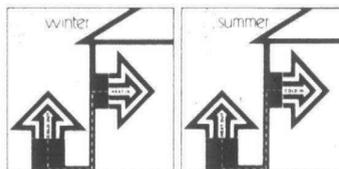

In summer, the heat pump moves heat out of your home for energy-efficient cooling. It's an all-year comfort system that also filters and dehumidifies. And it's clean because no fossil fuel is burned in your home.

The heat pump works something like your refrigerator.

A heat pump is more sophisticated, but it works in much the same way. Imagine the cold air in your refrigerator as the cold winter air outside your home. The hot air that you sometimes feel being blown into your kitchen is actually being extracted from the cold air inside the unit. This is how the heat pump warms your home. In summer, the process is reversed to cool your home: the heat in the inside air is extracted by the heat pump and moved outdoors.

Here's how the heat pump works.

See for yourself.

You can see heat pumps in the new homes displaying the Detroit Edison EEE Award. This Award is presented to builders who incorporate energy-efficient excellence standards into their homes—including proper insulation, energy-efficient appliances and lighting, as well as electric heat pump heating and cooling. Ask Detroit Edison for names and locations of builders who have EEE Award homes on display.

Conserving with comfort.

Detroit Edison wants you to know about the heat pump because it generally is the most energy-efficient way to provide homes and buildings with year-round comfort.

The heat pump can also be an important answer to conservation because the natural heat it uses helps save our non-renewable fossil fuels.

As a concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation, Detroit Edison is working hard to do its part. But it requires a working partnership between those who supply energy and those who use it. So if you're planning on buying, building or replacing your present heating system, consider a heat pump as part of your plans.

Detroit Edison has a folder, "Your all-season space conditioner, The Heat Pump." Pick one up at any Detroit Edison Customer Office and learn more about this energy-efficient way to heat and cool homes and buildings. Or write to: Customer Relations, Detroit Edison, 2000 Second, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Conserve for all it's worth.
The power is in your hands.

Don't discard those 'unwanted' eyeglasses

Old eyeglasses you no longer use can help some poor person have better vision.

J. Albin Jackman, director of family services for Harry J. Will Funeral Homes, said the firm is again collecting old eyeglasses for New Eyes for the Needy, Inc., a nonprofit, non-sectarian organization in Short Hills, N.J.

Eyeglasses you no longer need may be taken to the funeral homes at any time. They are at 37000 Six Mile, Livonia; 25450 Plymouth Road, Redford Township, and 4412 Livernois, Detroit.

WHEN ENOUGH glasses have been collected, the firm will carefully package and ship them to New Eyes, which will sort and test the glasses, distributing them to persons too poor to buy visual aids.

Boxes for donations of glasses are being placed in many area churches May 1 and 7. (New Eyes solicits no money.)

"Our last New Eyes drive was tremendously successful," said Jackman. "We are beginning another drive because we're certain that many more pairs of useless glasses have been accumulated locally, and people would like the opportunity to give these glasses a useful purpose."

In addition to old eyeglasses, New Eyes asks for donations of cataract lenses, artificial eyes, soft glass cases and broken jewelry which contains any bits of precious metals.

UNBROKEN plastic-framed glasses and sunglasses are classified and used to fill specific orders from medical missions and recognized welfare agencies throughout the world.

The metal is sold for refining, and proceeds are used to have prescription lenses ground and to meet other expenses.

New Eyes for the Needy uses a volunteer staff in donated quarters.

Value of PE being studied at S'craft

By TIM RICHARD
 Philosophers since Plato have held that the body as well as the mind must be educated.
 Three years ago, however, Schoolcraft College dropped physical education (PE) as a requirement and instead told counselors to "recommend" and "encourage" PE. Students planning to transfer later to a four-year college were to be advised of the PE requirements at their next schools.
 Now Trustee Mark McQuesten and PE Director Marvin Gans are encouraging a full-scale curriculum review of whether to require physical education.

Several students of varying ages spoke from the audience in support of a PE requirement. They attended as a group, consulting with Gans and McQuesten before and after the board discussion.
 The PE requirement that was dropped applied only to students under age 26, which Grote noted had sracked of "discrimination."

"WE SERVE an adult population," said Treasurer Nancie Blatt, who supported the 1974 decision, "and we felt uncomfortable saying, 'This is good for you; you should do it.'" Mrs. Blatt added the average age of Schoolcraft students is 28 and has been gradually rising.
 Vice-chairwoman Rosina Raymond, who also supported the 1974 decision, added, "We had input from people in the audience. I remember nursing students with heavy schedules who objected."

Later she said, "Is it our place to say we 'require' it? I will not go for that authoritarian requirement."
 McQuesten admitted that as a student he had favored cutting PE funds but added, "I grew up. I matured. For that for which I did not see value then, I see the value now. Mea culpa (Latin: my sin.) I want to call on the administration for an institutional review."

 "OUR PHYSICAL education facility is one of the finest in the Midwest. The funny thing is that we dropped it (required PE) at the same time we opened our new building."
 "We're too ready to drop courses because a student says, 'I don't need that.'"
 "I want to believe that a degree from Schoolcraft College not only got them a job but made them a better person. If the board can't make a decision (that PE is necessary), then no one can make that decision," McQuesten said.

Gans expressed doubt that counselors were really "encouraging" students to take PE. "It depends on their (counselors') particular experiences and backgrounds," he said.
 Student Jack Slater recalled he had a hypoglycemia problem and took a recommended physical program that included swimming. "Since then, I got in real good physical shape, and it affected my study habits. The mind works a lot clearer."

Former Student Senate president Jeff Stabenau, however, cautioned the board to "have a lot of loopholes" for older students.
 But student Laurie Watt, who confessed to being "one of the old ladies" of 30, argued that "for a great number of students, this is the last chance they'll have to do something with their bodies."
 She saw age as no problem, recalling: "I was graded not against other students but against my own expectations. There was a lot of leeway for women with weight problems and joint problems."

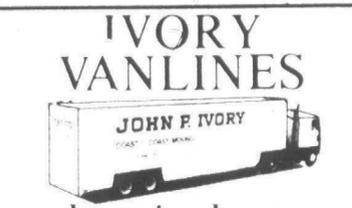

COUNSELOR Shirley Emerson said, "We have no reluctance to tell students to take English or history. We are requiring a student's mental development, we are requiring his emotional development when we require him to see a counselor."
 When board Chairman Paul Kadish recalled that nursing students in clinical work had serious scheduling problems, Ms. Emerson replied:
 "But we have no problem requiring nursing students to take a long list of courses before they take clinical work."

editorial opinion

Teacher truce a relief after a year of stress

The signing of a tentative agreement for a three-year teachers' contract last week was, indeed, good news for modern man—at least in Plymouth-Canton.

After almost a year of bargaining, teachers and administrators can now settle down to the primary task of providing the best education possible for children in the school district.

Negotiations with the faculty can now be set aside for two years. But before that is done, a word of praise should be given to both the teachers union and the school board team for bargaining responsibly under sometimes trying conditions and to Irving Rozian, facilitator, for keeping both sides talking.

AS ALWAYS, the tentative agreement isn't 100 per cent acceptable to either side. There has been give-and-take on major issues, but the package is one which both sides can live with.

The Observer hopes both sides will officially end the bargaining process with ratification within the next couple of weeks, as soon as the official contract is assembled, printed and distributed. At this point, it appears ratification will follow, based on informal pollings of both the teachers and school board members.

Although both sides may not be entirely pleased with the contract, each side can be 100 per cent proud of the performance at the table. And so can the community because agreement has been reached, after some tough bargaining, without disruption of the schools.

WHEN THE FINAL talks had ended, some major concessions were made to avoid undermining important philosophical positions of each side.

The school board had badly wanted a limit (shared cap on medical insurance premiums. But for the union, a cap on insurance was totally unacceptable from a philosophical standpoint—even though the actual dollars involved were minimal for each teacher. The cap represented a rollback from previous contracts, and a headache for future negotiators to wrestle with.

The matter was resolved when the union agreed to give up a half per cent of the first year's salary improvement—which removed enough money from the economic package to pay for increased medical premium expenses in the third year of the contract. The teachers also were given a concession of grandfathering certain stipends, an economic cost to the district also covered by the half per cent pay reduction.

THE SCHOOL BOARD also insisted that decisions on implementing Extended School Year (ESY) was a management right which should not be subject to the bargaining process. The previous contract had a provision that any use of ESY must be "mutually agreed to"—negotiated—by both sides.

The union had agreed to expansion of ESY up to 15 schools, which from a practical standpoint was all the flexibility the school board needed during the life of the contract. But from a philosophical standpoint, the school board did not want to be placed in a position of having to negotiate what, by the nature of administrative responsibilities, is a right of management. Recognizing this, the union agreed to eliminate the "mutually agreed" requirement from the proposed contract, but to include language that both sides would cooperate in implementing ESY at other schools.

After hours and hours of hard bargaining, in the end settlement was reached by swapping the right to implement ESY in exchange for eliminating a shared cap on medical insurance.

The important point is that each side recognized the very basic needs of the other, bent on these gut issues, and reached agreement. With that kind of movement, ratification now ought to be completed and all efforts concentrated on education itself.

Schoolcraft needs to build

Hearing of Schoolcraft College's intention of floating a $10 million bond issue, many persons respond with a fair question: Why, when school enrollments are declining, does the community college plan to build?

A fair question. And one to which college officials have a better than fair answer.

No standard classrooms are planned in this bond issue. All the money is for specialized buildings and for catch-up type renovations or replacement of inadequate facilities.

The college folks read our newspaper and know the K-12 districts are shutting down some buildings. Schoolcraft is already renting something like 40 standard classrooms from the local districts.

THE BIGGEST single project in the bond issue would be the fine arts facility.

Here, Schoolcraft is talking about space to teach music, speech, drawing, painting, ceramics, sculpture, graphics and music, along with repair areas, storage areas, a music library and practice rooms.

If you haven't seen what the college is now using, don't say this one isn't needed.

The most intriguing part of the fine arts facility would be a performing arts auditorium. People living in the Schoolcraft College district are currently traveling to downtown Detroit, Ann Arbor, Meadow Brook and Pine Knob for many of the things that could be offered here.

One question before the board is whether the auditorium should have 2,000 seats or 2,500. If any justification can be found to go for the larger seating, the board should aim for it.

The need is best summed up by Trustee Leroy Bennett, himself a practical math teacher in private life: "Man does not live by voc-tech alone."

THE RESOURCE center of 52,000 square feet would replace the present 23,000-square-foot library.

In modern parlance, a resource center includes the traditional library along with records, tapes and other teaching materials.

The old library would be remodelled into office space. At present, the college is using old houses on septic tank systems to shelter such offices as accounting. Both the new resource center and renovation of the existing library are to be part of the bond issue.

WHEN, IN THE early 70s, the Schoolcraft board was looking for a new president, it kept stressing the need for voc-tech programs and community service programs. Schoolcraft was to be more than just a junior college offering the first two years of the baccalaureate program, although that function wasn't to be ignored. Candidates ran on that platform, we endorsed it, and you the voters elected such people.

Well, President C. Nelson Grote's administration has striven to give us what we wanted.

The bond issue will provide much new space for the culinary arts program. Where currently there are three chefs and 58 students climbing all over each other, the intake of new students will double. When you consider that Americans today are spending one of every three food dollars in restaurants, culinary arts is clearly an excellent investment for Schoolcraft's bond issue.

An addition to the Applied Science Building is on the drawing boards. This would house career programs—petroleum technology, lithographic printing, climate systems (air conditioning and refrigeration), medical records and the like. To paraphrase Lee Bennett: "Man doesn't live by fine arts alone."

Schoolcraft College officials are trying to make good on the promises that have been made for years. As we enter an election campaign, both for three trustees and for a modest millage question we need to bear that in mind.

Energy 'crisis'—much room for politics

I believe there is an energy crisis today. I question whether there is an energy shortage.

There is on earth enough natural gas, oil and coal already discovered or identified to last for at least 100 years.

If we continue to use it up at the present rate, we are going to deprive our grandchildren of the way of life we have been accustomed to. We should conserve energy and seriously look for alternative sources.

There is a crisis today because the energy supplies are politically not where we want them to be. Our national leaders do not want us to be put in a position of relying on the Mideast nations who can cut us off if we do not act according to their political wishes. This is a serious problem.

To cure this political problem, the American people, if President Jimmie Carter has his way, will be penalized into conservation because we all know that voluntary conservation can only work on a temporary basis.

Energy is used every day by individuals and businesses all over the country.

The president's plan singles out Detroit as the culprit.

The price of gasoline will go up a nickel. We've seen it go up twice that in the last year and it has not reduced consumption.

HE WANTS TO TAX gas-guzzling automobiles, which is what the American people are buying today, to force them into cars that they are staying away from in droves.

The automotive industry contributes eight per cent to the gross national product. It's the biggest single industry in our economy.

The president's plan will hurt this industry be-

"MOMMY, LOOK WHAT I FOUND! CAN I KEEP IT IF I TAKE CARE OF IT?"

Waste, waste, waste!

A wise man once pointed out that only an overwhelming crisis will make a democracy take rational action.

President Jimmie Carter, to his credit, is trying to prove this false. His argument is that an energy crisis is inevitable and that unless we take action now it surely will overwhelm us later.

His specific proposals are aimed at reducing current use of energy sources which are in limited supply. The proposals are supposed to give the nation breathing room until technology brings on stream other, more plentiful sources of energy, such as coal, the sun and the atom.

He aims to reduce use of gasoline by driving up both its price and that of gas-inefficient cars, slash wasteful use of natural gas by increasing its price, provide incentives for industry and public utilities to convert to other fuels, and cut demand for fuel oil by making it worthwhile for people to insulate their homes better.

MOST OF these proposals make sense because they attack, in ways both concrete and indirect, the real cause of our energy problems: Wastefulness.

As a nation, we waste more resources than any other people in history. Our attitudes toward waste so thoroughly permeate our society that it is not going too far to suggest that wastefulness is virtually a national trait.

You see it in small things such as not turning off the lights as you leave the room or setting the thermostat at 75 rather than 68. You see it in swimming pools that are heated with scarce natural gas and in lawns in the West that are kept green with even scarcer water.

You can see our wastefulness in big things, too.

We build buildings with windows which you can't open, thereby requiring energy to run heating, cooling and ventilating systems even when the weather outside is fine. Our economy is geared to produce new products in a never ending stream, many of which can only be sold by convincing people that the old one (which is working perfectly well or can easily be repaired) is somehow out of date.

Everybody can produce examples of the degree to which wastefulness is a national habit.

WHAT BROUGHT our waste habits home to me

Eccentricities

by HANK HOGAN

cause it will up the price on cars people want and lower it on cars people don't want. Who is going to convince them they should now want small cars?

Under the president's rebate plan, the cars which get fewer than 18 miles to a gallon will be taxed. The cars getting more than 18 miles a gallon will get a rebate.

We all know that small foreign cars get the best mileage so our government will start subsidizing the sale of foreign cars. I'm sure workers in metropolitan Detroit who become unemployed will cheer this particular act of the program.

Because it is only a matter of time until we run out of our existing natural energy sources, the real hope for energy in the future is nuclear energy. But somehow environmentalists have convinced the president that it is dangerous.

Those of us who have been getting nuclear-powered electricity up north at our cottages for years do not share the president's concern. But then if we really wanted to solve the long-run energy shortage, everyone knows that conservation only delays the inevitable for a few years.

Why then is the president's policy based on raising oil prices through tax increases on oil and increased taxes on larger cars?

If he really wanted conservation, he could have ordered rationing and not had to change tax laws to provide for the return of part of the money collected to the taxpayers through tax credits.

After all, this is another loophole in the tax laws, and the president campaigned that he was going to reform the tax laws, not complicate them.

The answer seems to be that the energy program is in fact a tax generator.

According to James Schlesinger, on Face the Nation Sunday, the proceeds of the energy plan will allow us to work on welfare and tax reform.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

in a very direct way was spending a month in mainland China last year.

China is a poor country; everything is used, nothing thrown out.

When my wife and I returned home, we settled with pleasure back into our ordinary household routine. After two or three days, the big wastebasket in the kitchen was filled up, and so I carried it out to the garbage can. As I watched the stream of rubbish fall into the plastic bag, I suddenly realized that I was watching a stream of incredibly rich waste.

The Chinese would have refilled the glass bottles we were throwing out. They would have smashed the tin cans we were disposing into flat sheet metal and made them into something else. They simply would not have the pretty packages our breakfast cereal came in. Paper towels? The Chinese would have used cloth, washed them when they got dirty, and reused them.

In less than a week, I realized, we were throwing out as rubbish a vast variety of things that a simpler, less wasteful society would have put to good use.

THAT'S called wastefulness.

I don't for a moment advocate that we adopt the Chinese system. The United States is an economically advanced nation and China is not; their economy is one of scarcity and ours is not.

For years, we have gotten into the habit of waste quite simply because things like glass bottles and cans and paper towels and gas and fuel oil were so cheap we could use them and waste them without thinking much about their cost.

Times are changing. The era in which we could use stuff and then convert into waste rubbish is coming to an end.

Carter realizes this, and I hope we all start to realize it too.

THE ADDITIONAL planned $75 billion year in tax collections, by the mid 1980s, will "mesh together quite conveniently" the energy plan and the president's tax proposals.

The answer is, just as former president Richard Nixon used the Mideast energy crisis to try to take attention away from his Watergate problem, Carter is going to use his energy plan to balance the budget.

This will be all at the expense of our home industry—the auto industry.

Another hunting plot

They're out to keep the city feller from hunting again.

It used to be that rural counties, under the influence of farmers and big landowners, banned Sunday hunting, the effect of which was to cut the city hunter's season by half. Last year state Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled that bans on Sunday hunting couldn't be applied to state-owned land, and so the city hunter got a break.

The latest plot is coming from farmers who want to change the blind-draw system so they can get more antlerless deer permits. They're asking the Michigan Natural Resources Commission to rig the system so that farmers and other landowners can get a bigger proportion of the antlerless permits.

One argument is that in areas where large numbers of applications are received, fewer than 10 per cent of the applicants receive permits. Many owners get sore when city fellers get such permits and they don't, so they close their land to all hunting, or else permit only close friends and relatives to hunt.

Another argument is that on agricultural lands with high deer populations, there is a problem of harvesting enough deer to keep crop damage at acceptable levels.

On their face, the farmers' and landowners' arguments appear to make sense, but the net effect would be to have two sets of rules, with the city man again coming out on the short end. We smell a plot.

Babut backing Carter on energy

Editor:
This man called Jimmy Carter has taken on the most thankless job and turned it into an opportunity for both congress and the oil companies to make constructive, alternative recommendations to solve our energy problems. Yes, our energy problem.

No other resident has taken the time nor the positive attitude in addressing the energy problem because of its ultimate consequence—unpopularity.

Let's remember one thing folks—Jimmy is in the White House to help us. If he did not meet this challenge head on, then we would be open to criticize him. He has created a stepping stone to solve the energy problem objectively. All of us are now aware of the ultimate consequence that most of us will pay without a strict energy policy—gas rationing.

In last Saturday's Detroit Free Press Sound Off section, I noticed a definite negative, selfish, closed-minded attitude from 73 1/2 per cent of the people who called in. If this sam-quest were asked four years from now and the President had done nothing until then, the response would be "what has the president been doing for us in these past four years to solve the energy problem?" Then 73 1/2 per cent of the people would be correct in having a negative attitude. The question was: "President Carter revealed his long-awaited energy program to congress Wednesday night. Do you approve of the program?"

The fact is that Jimmy had the courage to meet this problem head on. It is now time that both congress and the oil companies start carrying the ball and help solve our energy problem, instead of wasting our time with their speeches, time-consuming money spending studies to see if an energy problem exists. It's very real and it's about time that they wake up and take on their share of responsibility in solving it instead of wondering who's responsibility it is.

As for the 73 1/2 per cent of the people referred to earlier, I say: let's have a little respect for "our energy problem." We are supposed to have a total team effort and this cannot be accomplished if there are people who aren't willing to sacrifice for each other's fellow men and women. It is just as much our responsibility as it is the White House, congress and the oil companies to unite together for a total team effort.

Let's face it: has any other president in the past decade done as much as Jimmy to address this problem and get it solved? I say no. They were afraid of public reaction which would lead to unpopularity. But instead, all of these fat cats side-stepped the problem by stating that "one existed and did nothing to help solve it. In other words, no energy policy."

If all of us will think back when we had restricted hours to purchase gasoline and it ended; nothing was done to resolve the problem or to get the ball rolling in the right direction. It took Jimmy only three months to react to a problem that has been around for a long time, while all the other fat cats before him side-stepped the problem.

Let's face it, at least Jimmy is honest enough to tell us that if we don't resolve this problem very soon, we will all pay the price in the future. Gas rationing! So let's not blame or criticize Jimmy for having the guts to address this problem head on.

The fact is that this country of ours is in sad shape as far as gas and oil is concerned and the problem isn't who to put the blame on but instead accept the fact we do have an energy problem and get it resolved.

I personally tip my hat and give my support to Jimmy in addressing the energy problem and waking a lot of people up to the fact that we do have one and it is real.

ESY options are a step backward

Editor:
I am a parent member of a committee, which until now was virtually unknown to most parents, children and teachers. This committee is in some way instrumental in defining the calendar to be used by the schools which will operate on a year round basis. My children attend Miller Elementary which has and hopes to continue a successful 45-15 program.

This letter is to inform you that the school calendar for extended school year which is presently most acceptable to the administration of the school district is not the locally proven 45-15 plan (piloted, adjusted and finely tuned) which has been successful at Miller Elementary.

Instead the calendar calls for a "block" start which may be bureaucratically appealing but:

1. Would not provide for a summer vacation for most children in 1978 and 1979 (Miller children, 1977 also);

2. Would not include a building shutdown for major maintenance each of these summers;

3. Would result in an additional cost of two days per diem for over one-half of the teachers involved for each and every year of extended school year;

4. Would result in situations in which your child will end his school year in one grade on Friday (sometimes mid-week) and return Monday (or overnight) in the next higher grade in a new room without either the child or teacher having gotten a rest;

5. Would—and this is the strongest bureaucratic reason—provide the administration with unlimited power to change track assignments each year to "balance" their head count (In effect they could generate small scale boundary changes because of the "numbers").

The program presently in use at the Miller school provides for a great deal of flexibility with none of the above problems and is especially considerate of all neighborhoods, families, and the individuals.

Rather than experimenting again, let us take credit for our past accomplishments in developing the working, humane 45-15 program and make it even better so that even the computers and administrators can be happy.

If you, as I do, feel that the block start scheme does not consider the human needs of your children and rather only provide for bureaucratic manipulation of numbers, then please speak out—to our school board and their administrators.

We have all had to contend with the impersonal, machine-oriented bureaucracy, but we need not let this happen to our children now.

The decision on this matter will be reached soon. If we fail to speak up, the decision will be made and nearly impossible to undo.

PAT CARNE of the Old Village Gallery has arranged a special show, "The Story of Plymouth in Art," which will open Sunday in the gallery on Starkweather Street.

The collection will be on display from 1-5 p.m. May 1 and will continue until May 21.

Paintings in various mediums will depict scenes of the Plymouth area—past and present. It will include the work of the gallery's regular contributing artists.

Featured in the show will be an exhibit of photographs by Robert Cameron.

The show will be free and open to the public.

ONE OF THE MOST memorable things about last week's Midnight Madness sale in downtown Plymouth was the witch.

by
ELLIE GRAHAM

The Observer received calls from persons who wanted to know her identity. "She was right in front of John Smith's when we saw her," said one caller.

"She was in the lobby of the hotel," said another.

Kirk Lorenz came in. "Do you know who the witch was at Midnight Madness? The Burroughs people were asking."

In the conversation that followed, the possibilities were listed.

"Could be Nancy Petrucelli, Julie Thoman, Joanie Gerigk."

First stop on the investigation was me and my friends where Sylvia Mullin and friends denied all knowledge of the witch's identity.

"Sounds like Joanie Gerigk or Nancy," said Sylvia.

A call to the Alphabet Gallery solved the mystery. Joan Gerigk had been the witch.

"I had a wonderful time," said Joanie. "My best friends didn't recognize me. It was a great costume with a skin mask and long white hair."

A spider dangled from the tall pointed hat and she wore a long black dress, gloves, and carried a broom.

"I went into Kresge's, the Pick O' the Wick, Julie's, and the hotel. I talked to everyone and they still didn't know me."

The same Joan Gerigk was the Lone Ranger at the chicken race last fall.

MARTY JABARA will graduate June 9 from the University of Southern California.

Marty is a percussionist but he can play a wide variety of instruments. He is a member of several prize-winning ensembles and groups. He is competing this week in a festival in Monterey.

His parents, Jean and Jim Jabara are planning to be in California for graduation ceremonies.

BETTY AND TREVOR Norton were in town for a brief visit.

The Nortons wintered in Costa Rica where Trevor represented America Motors.

They now are enjoying the English springtime in their cottage in Devonshire.

DOROTHY FINNEY returned from California on the same plane as the Detroit Pistons.

"They are such nice young men," said Mrs. Finney, "but so tall."

BOB HACKER, 14, of Canton Township was honored at the TOPS State Recognition Days Convention in Lansing.

Bob, a member of the Plymouth TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) Club, received a certificate for being the state runnerup in the teenage division with a weight loss of 23 pounds.

His mother Barbara also a member of the club, was in the audience. Mother and son have lost a combined 50 pounds in the last years.

They attribute their loss to mutual encouragement at home, counting calories, and regular attendance at TOPS meetings.

THE SPECIAL showing of the "Roots" series begins May 3 in Dunning-Hough Library, Main Street, Plymouth.

Based on Alex Haley's Pulitzer prize-winning book which was filmed for television, the seven consecutive programs will be free and shown at 7 p.m. upstairs at the library.

SUNDAY, MAY 7 will mark the second nature walk in Miller Woods, the climax beech-maple forest owned by the Plymouth-Canton Community School District.

Naturalists will conduct tours from 10 a.m. until noon. The woods is on Powell Road east of Ridge Road. Walkers are asked to park their cars near the Powell Road entrance to the woods.

AAUW marks 25th

Members of the Plymouth branch American Association of University Women looked back on 25 years of community service and accomplishment when they met Saturday for an anniversary luncheon in the Mayflower Meeting House.

A slide and talk program prepared by Coralyn Riley and Peggy Fischer reviewed the history the Plymouth AAUW which started in 1952 with a roster of 44 charter members. Eight of the original 44 have retained their active memberships. They are Wilma Barnes, Jean Harsha, Esther Hulsing, Clara Scharmen, Irene Truesdell, Chris Witwer and Libby Worth.

Charter members who attended the silver anniversary luncheon were Dorothy Dibble, Chris Witwer, Irene Truesdell, Wilma Barnes and Geraldine Walch. They have seen the membership grow to 238.

THREE OF THE original members were rewarded for outstanding service to education by having elementary schools named in their honor. They were Edna Allen, Mildred Field and Esther Hulsing.

Education has been one of the primary concerns of the AAUW. Its members have served on the school-community planning committee, and the citizens advisory committee. One of their past presidents, Jane Moehle, pioneered Schoolcraft College as a member of the original board and later was president of the Schoolcraft board of trustees.

TWO OF THE AAUW'S most familiar projects are the used book sale and the children's play.

The first book sale was in 1955 when 500 books were sold in the Plymouth Kroger store. The number of volumes increased annually and the location changed several times. This year 20,000 volumes will be offered in a three-day sale in Westland Shopping Center.

The children's play was the outgrowth of a drama study group. They decided it would be fun and beneficial to bring live drama to the children of the Plymouth area. In February 1961, the first play was presented.

"Snow White and Rose Red" was a group effort. Members wrote the script, designed and made the costumes and the sets, and performed in the play. Irene Truesdell, Clara Scharmen and Mary Fritz were in the cast. The play became an annual event.

The size of the production grew. Professional scripts were used. It even went on tour—one year to Birmingham and later to Northville. When the new high school was built, they began packing the Plymouth Salem auditorium for evening and matinee performances.

The play and the book sales became the club's main fundraisers. Proceeds from the projects financed fellowships and scholarships.

OVER THE YEARS, the members instituted a variety of studies and projects.

Activities include: sponsoring a lecture series, working with women inmates at the Detroit House of Correction who are serving life sentences (the Lifeliners), costume judging at the Plymouth Fall Festival.

Local feminists join ERA conference

By ARLENE VANDERLEUN

Optimism and determination permeated the national NOW (National Organization for Women) conference held in Detroit last weekend, and many local feminists were on hand to demonstrate their support and contribute their skills.

The Equal Rights Amendment was on everyone's mind.

A cold, chilly downpour of rain didn't dampen the spirits of marchers who rallied in Kennedy Square chanting, "What do we want? ERA! When do we want it? NOW!"

Guest speakers Michigan First Lady Helen Milliken, feminists Gloria Steinem and Betty Friedan and former Michigan Congresswoman Martha Griffiths urged supporters to continue fighting for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment. Although Michigan is one of the ratified states, three more states must ratify the amendment for passage.

Livonian Laura Callow, who started looking at ERA from the homemaker's vantage point and has become one of the best-informed in the area on the subject of the proposed amendment, was one of the conference delegates.

She estimates she has given 25 speeches state-wide on ERA this year alone, to schools, clubs and organizations who remain "vitaly interested" in the issue.

She became convinced of the rightness of ERA after attending a Schoolcraft College course on women and the law.

"The homemaker cares for the next generation and enables her husband to go out and earn and succeed," she pointed out. "Yet she is vulnerable now because she has only what her husband chooses to give her. That's why the ERA is so important to the homemaker."

The Equal Rights Amendment is a legal tool which will give women and men the opportunity to recourse if they are discriminated against, which they do not now have, said Mrs. Callow.

LORETTA ROSS, a Plymouth office worker, is a veteran of ERA rallies. She has ridden in uncomfortable buses, gone sleepless, eaten cold food and marched miles to demonstrate her support.

"A group of us went to Indiana last winter to rally, and marched in bitter cold and near-blizzard conditions."

Ms. Ross supports the feminist movement because of her belief that she should be entitled to equal opportunity in employment.

More than 85 workshops and seminars were presented on subjects ranging from women and health to battered women.

Hazel Watson, a Westland member of Mid-Western Wayne County NOW, was looking forward to attending a few workshops on discriminatory employment practices, and the progress that is being made in other states.

As the mother of two sons and two daughters, she sees the feminist movement and passage of the ERA as good for both men and women.

"It makes me feel good to be part of a movement that will benefit both sexes. It will make it easier for my children than it was for me."

DIANA VOLPINI, president of Mid-Western Wayne County NOW, held a workshop on feminism as it affects the single woman. Ms. Volpini is head bookkeeper for a Hamtramck paper company, and single.

Workshop participants gathered to exchange their feelings and ideas about being single.

"Feminism has given women the courage to remain single," said Ms. Volpini, although parents frequently try to pressure them to get married.

Ms. Volpini cited a Michigan State University study which said that women who choose to remain single are more stable and less likely to suffer emotional problems than married women, married men and single men. However, many workshop participants agreed that the "swinging single" image is largely a myth.

As a single career woman and feminist activist, Ms. Volpini leads a full, busy life. She admits to feeling lonely sometimes, "but I know it's only temporary."

Besides, all people, married or single, feel lonely at one time or another," said Ms. Volpini. "It's part of life."

PHS class of 1957 plans July 2 reunion

Members of the Plymouth High School class which graduated in 1957 will meet for a 20th reunion July 2.

Roberta (Lidgard) Limburg is chairing the dinner-dance in the Plymouth Hilton Inn. There were 240 graduates in the class of '57 and Mrs. Limburg is hoping for a large turnout.

So far, she has received word from many of the out-of-staters.

Carol Clarke is coming from Tennessee, Zitas Brokas from Arizona, Jim Pinkerton from Colorado, Henry Mende from Idaho, John Smith from Rhode Island, and John Gregory from Kentucky.

Norman (Scotty) Terry plans to come from the State of Washington, and Faye Leets, Lois Adams, Carolyn Carpenter and Shirley Groom are coming from Florida.

Mrs. Limburg still is searching for the addresses of 16 members of the class. She says she would appreciate help locating: Edward Anderson, Hal Bailey, David Bell, Sharon Beyer, Ruth Ann Cadogan, Dick Cell, Janice Harnett, Pat Hawk, Bill Mandt, Gary Minard, Duane Rider, Pat Roedding, Richard Russell, Paul Schwartz, Mary Swanson, Bonnie Yaeger and Doris Williams.

Mothers and daughters to model

The Rosary Altar Society of Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church on Penniman Avenue is planning a dinner and fashion show May 14. The mother-daughter banquet will be after 5:30 p.m. mass.

Mothers and daughters will model fashions from Minerva's Dunnings and Young Sophisticats. The affair is open to all mothers and daughters in the community. Tickets are available from members of the society.

Liz Browne modeled a Gibson Girl gown with a pink and white checked skirt and an eyelet top.

Marybeth Wisniewski, a sixth grader at OLGC, struck a pose during the fittings. Her mother, Sue, in a white jump suit, and Marian Smentowski, wearing a summery split skirt dress, smiled at her antics. Marybeth wore a terry cloth play suit which featured the new boxer shorts. (Staff photos by Elinor Graham)

Now you can stop spending so much on clothes.

Introducing Hit or Miss. Now you can stop spending so much for clothes. Because at Hit or Miss you get name-brand clothes for 30% to 50% less than you'd pay in a department store.

After all, if you want to look smart, you have to buy smart. And at Hit or Miss you can't do anything else.

Hit or Miss has the choicest fashions. By famous-name manufacturers. And we get in new merchandise every day. So browsing's always an adventure.

And if you're looking for something in particular (a top to go with those pants, a dress for the party, a coat that's the right color) the selection you have to choose from changes daily.

How can we give you so much that matters? By cutting out a few things that don't matter much. Like the labels (but don't worry: you'll still recognize them).

We've also cut out fancy store decor, charge accounts and elaborate window displays. But you don't wear those things anyway. Which is something savvy women have always known.

So if you're crazy about clothes — or if you're just driven crazy by the outrageous prices they're asking for clothes these days — you're going to love Hit or Miss.

Women all over the country already do.

Hit or Miss.

Spring job prospects are brighter for women

Job prospects for this spring's women college graduates look brighter than ever, according to the University of Michigan office of career planning and placement.

But women can still expect only a fraction of the job bids offered to men.

According to the latest national survey by the College Placement Council (CPC), offers to women are up 68 per cent over March 1976, and that is on top of a 27 per cent gain over 1975. CPC collects data from 160 colleges and universities, including the U-M.

Despite the increases, however, women received only 18 per cent of the total offers to bachelor's degree holders. In 1975, their share was 11 per cent.

Why do four out of five job offers go to men?

"One reason is the nature of the current job market," explained U-M career counselor Deborah McCoy. "The most active employment areas right now are engineering, accounting and the hard sciences. These are fields which continue to draw a much larger proportion of men.

"On the other hand, the woman who does have technical training may have an edge over her male counterpart, because of the firms' affirmative action policies.

"It's not just a matter of meeting federal guidelines and filling quotas," McCoy adds. "The companies report great satisfaction with the women they have hired in past years, and they want to find more."

EVART ARDIS, U-M director of career planning and placement, calls it "one of the most dramatic and rapid attitude changes I've seen in my lifetime. I am quite heartened," he says. Ten years ago, he recalled, it was not uncommon for recruiters to ask him, confidentially, to discourage women and minorities from signing up for job interviews. The companies weren't interested, they explained quietly; it would just be a waste of the applicants' time.

Industry began actively seeking minority males in the late 1960's, Ardis recalls, but remained biased against women. "If granted an interview, women often had to endure facetious remarks and overt skepticism. They commonly found themselves defending rather than presenting their career goals.

"I think the situation reflected society's reluctance to accept women as equals," Ardis commented. "I'm not sure employers are any different or worse than other segments of society."

Prodded by federal guidelines in the early 1970's, employers have reversed their stand, he noted. They are even sending women to the campuses as recruiters.

But women are still at a disadvantage. The majority have not chosen engineering, accounting, computer science or any of the other technical areas where jobs are now plentiful, Ardis said. Instead, they are concentrated in teaching, the humanities and the social sciences. In those areas, jobs are scarce for both men and women.

"We don't want to steer people away from the liberal arts altogether," Ardis said. "I would not wish to see the U-M become a technical school. On the other hand, there is no doubt but that employers are looking for people with actual work experience and skills."

Ms. McCoy recommends developing those skills through a part-time job or summer job, field study courses, volunteer or extra-curricular activities. "Be flexible," she urged. "Decide what you want to do and get some experience in it, before you graduate."

THE PURPOSE OF PARABLES PART I - JUDGMENT

In Matthew 13:11 Christ gives two reasons for his exclusive use of parables. The parable is intended to bless and to curse. To reveal and to conceal truths of the kingdom. As a judgment, the use of the parable serves to aid the sinners advance in ignorance of salvation unto eternal destruction. It is not given them to know. The cause of the veiling of truth is found in the fact that the multitudes have closed their eyes and stopped their ears (v. 13). Hence the foolishness of man's wisdom: by human logic man cannot know God unless he submits his mind and heart to Him. Those who are unresponsive to the coming of Christ's kingdom receive from His hand blindness and deafness. Jesus veils truth from the spiritually poor that they may be poorer still. (cf. Matt. 13:12; Jn. 9:39) Jesus intends to leave some who are spiritually poor in their poverty forever. This serves God's purpose of election (cf. Rom. 11:7).

Why are men blinded and made more deaf? It is because of unbelief. Distrust is a road of less and less receptivity. It leads to severe petrification into hearts of stone. This path is absolute and irrevocable for man in himself.

These truths do not excuse unbelief. The fact that you cannot hear except Christ supply you with ears does not excuse your sin. It is an index of your sinfulness, of its irrevocability and of its absoluteness for you in yourself. This shows your helplessness. There is only one who can help you. Admit your utter helplessness and spiritual poverty. Flee to Christ to save you from yourself. He that has ears, let him hear.

Canton chatter

By SHARON STARON 455-5322

A tree grows. We planted a stick in the ground. It was two feet high and did not look like anything more than a stick sitting in the ground. We feared for its safety so we put a small fence around it for protection.

The first year we were sure someone would knock it down or a large foot would trample it, unconcerned. After every heavy rain storm or high wind we would rush to make sure the tree was still planted.

After the first winter we waited impatiently for the return of spring. The tree had grown and was sprouting leaves.

We fed it and gave it water and new peat every year. The tree flourished. We were constantly on guard so that no trespassers would harm it. We heard about people who loved to destroy trees.

We pruned the dead branches away from the healthy trunk so the bad would not destroy the good.

One summer we left for a vacation and forgot to provide for the tree. A dry spell had swept across our town and the tree was perishing from thirst and lack of care on our return. We watered it and nursed it back to health. We showed the tree that we loved it and promised never to neglect it again.

The tree stands six feet tall and looks healthy and well cared for. Every year the tree will grow and become stronger and more beautiful. The tree is Canton.

TO ALL CANTON GRADUATING SENIORS: you have until May 6 to apply for this year's scholarship from the Canton Jaycees.

The scholarship is $1,000 toward continuing education for any senior who is a Canton resident.

Mike Neal, scholarship chairman for the Jaycees, is excited about the award and wants everyone to know what it takes to qualify for it. The one and only restriction on the scholarship is that the recipient must be a Canton resident. Determination of the winner will not necessarily be based on scholastic records or of the winner's need for help with further education. All aspects will be considered when making the final selection.

Since the Jaycees is a community service group, the involvement of the student in the community will be one consideration. This can include school or church activities.

Students applying should already be accepted to a state or private college or trade school. They should have no other scholarship already awarded to them.

Applications can be picked up at the Plymouth Canton or Plymouth Salem guidance offices. Gloria Banks is coordinating the applications through the high schools. They also will be available through Neal, 455-2307. They must be completed and returned by May 6.

This year the winner will also be presented a plaque which will be inscribed with the student's name and the high school he or she attended. The plaque contains enough tabs to cover 18 years of Jaycee scholarship gift winners.

This is the third year that the Jaycees have awarded a scholarship. In previous years they were $100 awards. They are thrilled to have enough money to make this year's scholarship so much larger and are planning to have a $1,000 award in future years. The proceeds from their haunted house project last Halloween went toward the award.

Six finalists will be selected from all the applicants. There will be a committee to determine the winner made up of Jaycees and other Canton residents.

Neal is hoping for a large application return. "If I had a senior and heard that all it takes to apply for this scholarship is to live in Canton, I'd certainly want my son or daughter to go after it," he said.

This one is really worth trying for. Good Luck.

SOME 35 BOYS and many parents from Cub Scout Pack 766 from Galimore and Hulsing attended the Long Horn World Championship Rodeo at the Silverdome on April 17.

The boys enjoyed watching steer wrestling, calf roping, bareback bronco riding, dangerous bull riding and the cowgirls' cloverleaf barrel race. They also thoroughly enjoyed seeing the baby colt that had been born the night before.

All the boys had a fun time and ate all afternoon long. Caroline Pitchard told us a story about one cub scout who had brought along a bag full of canned pop. He was stopped at the entrance and told that cans were not allowed in the stadium. He had to be talked into disposing his bag in the trash can.

On the way out the boy disappeared for a moment. Caroline found him going through the rash can where he had left his pop. Determination won a victory. The boy recovered his treasure and exclaimed with joy, "They're still cold."

Pack 766 will hold its pack meeting at Galimore this evening at 7 p.m.

THE CANTON NEWCOMERS will hold their next general meeting May 4 in Pioneer Middle School at 7:30 p.m.

The guest speaker will be an officer from the Michigan State Police who will give a talk and short movie on protecting yourself against rape.

Carillan stars for festival

A select choir of teen-aged bell-ringers that has taken its music from Livonia to several parts of the country will be featured in the observance of National Music Week in Farmington and Southfield.

The Carillon Choir from Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church will perform in the May 1 concert that opens a week of events sponsored jointly by the Farmington and Birmingham Musicales.

Also part of the 5th observance of Music Week by the National Federation of Music Clubs will be seven days of events at the Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield, which will include performances by two other Livonia groups, the Bentley High School stage band and the Livonia Youth Choir.

The Carillon Choir will be a major attraction for the big concert of the week, scheduled at 3 p.m. Sunday in Harrison High School, Twelve Mile between Orchard Lake Road and Middle Belt in Farmington.

Sharing the spotlight will be top winners in Farmington Musicales student scholarship competition and a youth choir from Nardin Park United Methodist Church under the direction of Ina Grapenthin.

SHIRLEY HARDEN, who leads the Carillon Choir as part of her work as music director for Rosedale Gardens, described the choir as top group among five bell-ringing choirs for young people of the church.

"Most of the nine members of this group have been ringing for several years and have come up through the other choirs," she said.

"And all are versatile musicians—most play another instrument in their high school bands and orchestras and several sing with our youth choir at the church."

This particular group, said the director, has performed on several occasions for national festivals of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers, traveling to Ohio, Kentucky and Georgia.

The ringers' participation at Harrison is the first participation in Music Week festivities in this area.

"We have a couple of exciting things planned for that concert," Mrs. Harden said. "We will do a procession down the aisles with our bells, and our program includes 'Variations on Yankee Doodle,' and 'Prisms,' both by American composers."

THE DIRECTOR said Rosedale Gardens started handbell-ringing groups several years ago "when someone offered us a set of bells."

"I just went along with the idea at first," she added, "but the more I learned about handbell-ringing the more enthusiastic I and others in the church became."

"And we started our programs just as handbell-ringing, which originated in England, began to be developed by composers in this country, so we have had available a great deal of good music."

The Carillon Choir, to help raise money for its Florida trip in June, plans to join with other bell choirs at the church in 24 hours of continuous ringing, from 6 p.m. Friday, May 6, to 6 p.m. Saturday, May 7.

"People will be able to pledge to give money for a certain length of time playing, or for any member of any of the choirs for the time that member plays, or maybe for a specific piece of music to be played," Mrs. Harden said.

The money raised also will help send seven members of other groups to the handbell guild's Michigan festival.

MUSIC WEEK events on Tuesday and Saturday will feature Tel-Twelve Mall performances by other Livonia musicians.

Joe Patterson is director of the Bentley Stage Band, a 27-member group with a big band sound. The stage band will play at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The Livonia Youth choirs, 45 elementary students directed by Jo Ellen Rabbes and 40 junior high students under the baton of Henry Nakso, will perform at 1 p.m. Saturday. Musicians from high schools in Birmingham, Farmington, Southfield and Waterford, as well as the Birmingham Madrigal Singers and the Southfield Youth Symphony also plan performances during the week at Tel-Twelve.

Someone will thank you

In most homes there are pairs of old, no-longer-worn eyeglasses that are stuck in the corner of a drawer. These may not be needed by your family, but someone who cannot afford the luxury of better vision could use them.

As a public service, we are collecting these useless eyeglasses for New Eyes for the Needy, a non-profit, non-sectarian organization which distributes your donations wherever they're needed in the world.

If you have no-longer-worn eyeglasses, broken jewelry, soft eyeglass cases or cataract lenses, you may bring them to our office. We'll ship them to New Eyes for the Needy — so someone, somewhere, may see better.

Michigan in bloom, finally

Bahmy breezes scented with fruit blossoms, trees bonneted in green, lakes and streams coming alive with trout and salmon and pan fish all announce that it's spring in Michigan.

Besides that, when Michigan moves into May, all kinds of great things to do start happening, according to the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce.

This year's Blossomtime Festival at Benton Harbor/St. Joseph will be a month-long affair with a variety of activities taking place throughout May. The traditional "Blessing of the Blossoms" will take place on May 1, and May 21 is the date for the Grand Floral Parade. For information on other Blossomtime Month happenings, contact Blossomtime, Inc., Benton Harbor.

Other favorite festivals rolling out the welcome mat this month include Tulip Time at Holland, May 11-14; the National Mushroom Festival, Boyne City, May 14-15; and the Highland Festival and Games, Alma, May 28-29.

HIGHLIGHTS OF Tulip Time include the Klompen Dancers, the traditional street scrubbing ceremony, and, of course, the thousands of acres of tulips in full bloom. The Wooden Shoe and Delft Factory, the Netherlands and Baker Furniture Museums, Windmill Island and the tulip farms are only a few of the daily attractions.

Wyandotte's summer ethnic festival program gets under way this month with the Greek Festival, May 13-15; American Country Festival, May 20-22; and the Mexican Festival, May 27-29. The festivals are held in Yack Arena and are a delightful way to acquaint yourself with the flavors and customs of other cultures.

May is the month of Michigan Week, May 14-21. During the annual eight-day observance, residents in local communities throughout the state focus attention on Michigan with a variety of programs and activities.

The celebration kickoff takes place at Sturgis with the Gemutlicheits Abend, German party May 13, parade and other activities May 14.

Other annual festivities coming up this month include the Country Fair of Yesteryear, May 19-22, at Greenfield Village, Dearborn; the Fort Michilimackinac Pageant, May 28-30, at Mackinaw City; and the Grand Rapids Historic Homes Tour May 21.

CARSON CITY, Mich. lives up to its name with Frontier Days, May 13-16, and for those who would like to just get out and into spring, the Chippewa Nature Center in Midland will hold a "Spring Free Holiday" exhibit and open house May 15.

One of the most extraordinary touring art exhibitions in the country is the Michigan Artrain and it will pull into Detroit's Amtrak Depot for a month long lay-over from May 2-June 2. The converted railroad cars house a selection of American art of the past and present and emphasize that art is not confined to gilt frames on the walls of museums.

Other artistic happenings around the state this month include Cranbrook Festival '77, Christ Church Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills, with concerts by the Boston Symphony Chamber Players, Wayne State University Chamber Choir and Greek pianist Vasso Devetzi.

The Interlochen Art Academy, Interlochen, will hold a Piano Festival, May 8; Jesse Besser Museum, Alpena, will feature an exhibit of 19th Century Michigan Artists, May 8-29; and the Dort Music Center, Flint, will present a Sunday Afternoon Concert in the Park, May 29.

SPORTSWISE, the Pro-AMA Half-Mile Motorcycle Race will run May 7, at the Fairgrounds, Ionia. The race will incorporate novice, junior and expert classes and there will be an admission charge.

Admirers of stalwart steeds might want to make note of two Michigan Horse Shows scheduled for the State Fairgrounds, Detroit, May 12-15 and May 19-22. If you like a little faster pace, Quarter Horse Racing begins May 28 at Glendale Downs, Hillsdale.

The Henry Ford Museum Theater's Famous Early Movie Series has some great flicks scheduled for the screen during May. "Grand Hotel" leads off May 1, followed by the 1927 silent version of "Seventh Heaven" May 8, "The Big Sleep" May 15 and "Another Thin Man" May 22.

YOU'LL FIND all kinds of hand-crafted items on display and for sale at the Michigan Handicrafters Mall Sale, Genesee Valley Center, Flint, May 11-14. And, May 28-30, you're invited to help Tuscarora Township celebrate its 100th birthday at Indian River.

For a complete list of what's happening in May, and the warm weather months ahead, write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, Box 30226, Lansing 48909.

TGLR's 'Seesaw' is balanced

By ANN SHAW

The trick to a seesaw is balance. Who's up? Who's down? This time, the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford is up. Its current production of the musical "Seesaw" is an entertaining song and dance rendition of the boy-meets-girl theme.

It was good for this playgoer to be back at TGLR after five years at University of Michigan; it was sheer pleasure to see guildmembers on top of a snappy musical.

A YOUNG Nebraska lawyer, separated from his wife, goes to the Big Apple and takes a bite. He is seduced by the loneliness of New York and the lure of a "lovable lunatic" who sings and dances her way through life with a free spirit and a flair for error.

Jerry Ryan, played by Chuck Springer of Dearborn, reads The Wall Street Journal and chooses bedbugs in New York over his father-in-law's lien on his life in Omaha. Gittel Mosca, played by Kay Grismer of Livonia, is a "nice Jewish girl," ulcerated by anything west of Eighth Avenue.

THE STORY is aptly named. The affair, in the beginning and end, is hopeless and out of kilter, but for the balance of their time together, it's irresistible. They give and take from each other. He's book smart, and she learns from the boards and from the streets.

It's an up-and-down, make-you-laugh, makes-you-cry story told, sung and danced with remarkable success. Its weaknesses are chiefly related to the confines of the group's small playhouse: a three-piece orchestra (piano, bass, cello), a small stage and the countless obstacles of community theater production.

But in "Seesaw," Dr. Ron Worsley, director of theater at Henry Ford Community College, directs surprisingly good talent to an admirable performance of a technically complicated musical. The guild picked a fun, likeable toe-tapper, and Worsley cast players up to the task.

choreography is interesting, appropriate and (given the space limitation) exceptional.

The fast pace of the music and the variety of numbers and rhythms are expertly sustained by Andrew Henderson, musical director and pianist.

"Seesaw" is slated for the weekends of April 29 through May 1 and May 6-8 in the playhouse at 15138 Beech-Daly, Redford. Reserye tickets by calling Mrs. Richard Wirtler at 427-8325.

(Ms. Shaw, Ph.D., is a former Observer reporter and now resides in Ann Arbor.)

Museum movie

KAY GRISMER doesn't miss a beat. She sings with a strong, true voice. Her timing in the quick interplays of humor is superb. She makes the story believable and is a highly capable leading lady.

Chuck Springer, cast as the male lead, is a promising new talent for the guild. They are as well-matched on the stage as they are in the story.

Grismer and Springer are supported by the first-rate performance of Angus Wrigley, whose role as David is the secondary motif. Mitzi Carol's

"Grand Hotel," starring John and Lionel Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Greta Garbo and Wallace Beery, will be the opener for this year's Famous Early Movies series at Henry Ford Museum Theater. "Grand Hotel" provides the setting for a strange assortment of characters—a mysterious Russian ballerina, a bookkeeper on a last fling, a pretty stenographer and a business tycoon—who become involved with each other. No one can say "Nothing ever happens at the Grand Hotel." Showtimes are at 2 and 4 p.m. May 1.

Livonian first in competition

At a recent Schoolcraft College honors recital for piano students, Jill Christenson was judged best and 19 others were selected to play in the recital.

Miss Christenson, who is a Livonia resident, was awarded $25 for her first-place performance. Second place and $20 went to Debbie Hochberg of Oak Park. Honorable mentions were awarded Vickie Borsodi of Garden City, Mark Grote of Livonia, and Debbie Schwartz of Southfield.

The contest was open to late grade school through high school age musicians who either live in the college's district or study with a teacher who lives here or is a member of the Livonia Piano Teachers Forum.

The competition was judged by Joseph Evans, professor of piano at Michigan State University, and was coordinated by Donald Morelock, Schoolcraft piano instructor. The recital was sponsored by the college's student activities office.

Students ranged in age from 10 to 17. Those selected for the honors recital study with Sonia Geoffrey, Marian Sticks, Jo Peithman, Ruth Jones, Mischa Kottler, Jean Candish, Fontaine Laing, Linda Wotring or Donald Morelock.

Graphic art show May 1

One of Detroit's well-known graphic artists will present a one-person show in Plymouth this weekend.

Janet M. Anderson, a Livonia resident, will open her exhibition at 1 p.m. May 1 at the Phoenix Gallery on Mill Street in Old Village.

Ms. Anderson, who is recognized for her pen and ink drawings of historical buildings in Detroit, has begun work on a Plymouth-Northville series of historical buildings.

She has done commission graphic work for Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and for businesses and individuals throughout the metropolitan area.

Sorority officers installed

Members of Xi Delta Eta Sigma Phi sorority will install officers for the new season at their May 4 meeting in the home of Mrs. Dave Cramer of Plymouth.

New officers are: Karen Kramer, president; Sharon Pommerville, vice president; Eleanor Shevlin, recording secretary; Moneta Williams, corresponding secretary; and Lynn Lyon, treasurer.

Her original graphic of the McNamara Building, which was commissioned by a committee of Detroit businessmen, now hangs in the National Archives in Washington, D.C.

Her reproduction of Detroit's Music Hall building was used on the cover of Renaissance Center's garden party preview. In addition, she did the graphic work for this year's Builders Home Furniture and Flower show.

SHE ALSO does original pen and ink and watercolor drawings of individual homes and businesses, used for stationery, greeting cards or business promotions.

Ms. Anderson was born in Detroit; her interest in historical architecture stems from her childhood pastime of sketching old photographs which her grandfather collected.

She has formal training from Cranbrook, the University of Michigan, and Pratt Institute in New York. Her major was advertising design and print-making.

"My goal is to combine art and advertising so that beauty becomes a necessity rather than a luxury," Ms. Anderson said. "I've wanted to do buildings in Plymouth for a long time. It's an exciting, vibrant area."

Third baseman Lynne Stone grabs a line drive off the bat of a Trenton batter as shortstop Donna Goodrich looks on. The Rocks whipped the Trojans 14-1 Tuesday. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Rocks trounce Trojans 14-1

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

The Salem softball express continued to show its awesome power Tuesday afternoon when it won its third straight conference game.

The Rocks drubbed Trenton 14-1 at the Salem diamond to raise its record to 3-0 for the season.

Salem had its best offensive output of the season against the Trojans as they capitalized on seven hits and numerous base on balls to demolish its downriver opponents.

Junior Debbie Pitera continued to show signs of being the best pitcher in Observerland as her fastball struck out 11 Trojan batters. She went the seven inning for the victory.

Pitera's only weak moment on the mound was in the top half of the first inning when Trenton scored its lone run. She walked in the first run when she issued base on balls to four of the first five hitters. But after that string, she settled down and was in control the rest of the way.

The Rocks' offensive attack wasted no time in jumping on Trenton's pitching staff.

Salem scored five runs in the first and added four more in the second inning to put the game out of reach.

The Rocks added one more in the third and two each in the fourth and fifth stanzas.

The two big hits of the initial inning were by second baseman Kathy Leeh-man and Pitera. Leehman doubled home two runs and Pitera singled in another as all nine starters stepped up to the plate.

Leehman delivered another big hit in the fifth inning with a base-loaded, two-run single.

Two passed balls, a bases-loaded walk, and an error scored the four runs in the second inning.

Doris Hoelscher smacked a two-run double in the fourth inning.

Netters nip Trenton, 4-3

The opening of the Suburban Eight League tennis season was a happy one for Plymouth Salem as the Rocks traveled to Trenton and eked out a 4-3 victory over the Trojans Tuesday afternoon.

The victory evened Salem's record at 1-1 for the season.

The Rocks, coached by Jim Stevens, split the four singles matches with Trenton but grabbed two out of three doubles matches to win the contest.

Second and third singles Bill Cook and Bob Braun won respective matches for Salem. Cook beat Bill Morrow in straight sets 6-3, 6-1. Braun had easy time with Rob Goudi, 6-3, 6-1.

First singles Kurt Schultz and four singles Dick Cook lost their matches. Schultz forced his opponent to play split sets.

The second and third double combinations of Craig Stevens and Ed Thomas, along with Jeff Theodore and Matt Schroeder, each won their matches. First doubles Jeff Bearup and Chris Saxton fell in split sets.

In exhibition play, freshman Blake Lundberg won a singles match in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2. He later teamed with Greg Widmer and won a doubles match in split sets, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Widmer lost his exhibition singles match in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2.

The Rocks host Ypsilanti today and travel to Edsel Ford on Friday.

Salem track members mourn Mangan's death

Funeral services for Plymouth Salem track member Jeff Mangan were held Tuesday afternoon at Calvary Baptist Church.

The 18-year old senior died late Saturday night from peritonitis. Mangan was operated on earlier in the week after an attack of appendicitis.

"Jeff was the kind of man you always look forward to having—for a coach and for a team," said Salem track mentor Gary Balconi. "He accepted everything you said and always looked for more information to help himself."

"Jeff was a pleasure to have and was a positive kid in behavior and in helping people."

The Plymouth Salem track meet at Belleville, which was scheduled for last Tuesday afternoon, was postponed until next month in order that Salem's track members could attend the funeral.

"It was a mutual agreement to schedule the meet next month," said Plymouth Athletic Director John Sandmann. "Belleville understood the situation and was cooperative with its blessings."

The Salem track team has planned a car wash this Saturday to help raise money for a track record board. The new board will bear the name, "Jeff Mangan Memorial Record Board."

The car wash will start at 9 a.m. Saturday at Massey Cadillac on the corner of Ann Arbor Road and Main Street.

Canton girl thinclads fly past Thurston Eagles

By MICHAEL BLEDSOE

With strong individual performances, Canton girls track team scored a commanding victory over Thurston Tuesday.

"Our younger kids really came through for us today," said assistant coach Kevin Cronin. "We took firsts in eight of the last 10 races which really helped us."

Doing well against Thurston were Sue Vitoratos, whose 28 foot-5 inch shot put throw placed first. Melinda Breen finished third. The 880 relay team of Jennifer Tregembo, Beth Richardson, Lynne Bigelow, and Veronica Gray placed first with a finishing time of 1:54.5.

"All the girls worked hard for this one," said Cronin.

Kathy Kidston, Geri Shufeldt, and Kathy Kiefer finished second, third, and fourth, respectively in the 880 run. Beth Richardson took a first in the 100 yard dash and Meagan Ford placed second.

"We still look at this as part of our training period," said Cronin. "But every win feels good."

Lynne Bigelow again placed first in the hurdles, and Veronica Gray placed first in the 440.

"The girls have trained hard under severe weather conditions," said Cronin. "They haven't complained and the results really show."

Lynne Rudolph placed first in the mile run. The team of Kiefer, Carol Durocher, Dawn Malek, and an Ford placed first in the 440 relays with a 58.5 clocking.

"Those running junior varsity almost won over varsity in a couple of races," said Cronin.

"In the 440 relay Ford came from behind three teams to grab the victory," said Coach Barb Winn.

Other bright spots on the Canton team were Veronica Gray's first place finish in the 220 dash and the first place finish by the relay team of Jennifer Tregembo, Beth Richardson, Cheryl Coble and Lynne Bigelow.

"We are very fortunate to have such young talent," said Cronin. "They are really going to help us in a couple of years."

Liz Norton was hurt in the meet when she injured her knee while long jumping, but still managed to place second with a leap of 14 feet-4 inches.

"It's a shame this had to happen," said Winn. "She always places points for us."

The next meet for Canton will be a home contest against Walled Lake Western.

Canton boasts a 3-1 record.

Chief golfers fall, 213-281

The Plymouth Canton girls golf team lost its second match of the season Tuesday afternoon when it was crushed by a strong Saline squad, 213-281 at Hilltop.

"Saline played exceptionally well under the bad conditions of the course," Canton coach John Crosson said. The course was soaked from the rainfall over the weekend.

"I just hope we don't have more afternoon like this," the Canton mentor said.

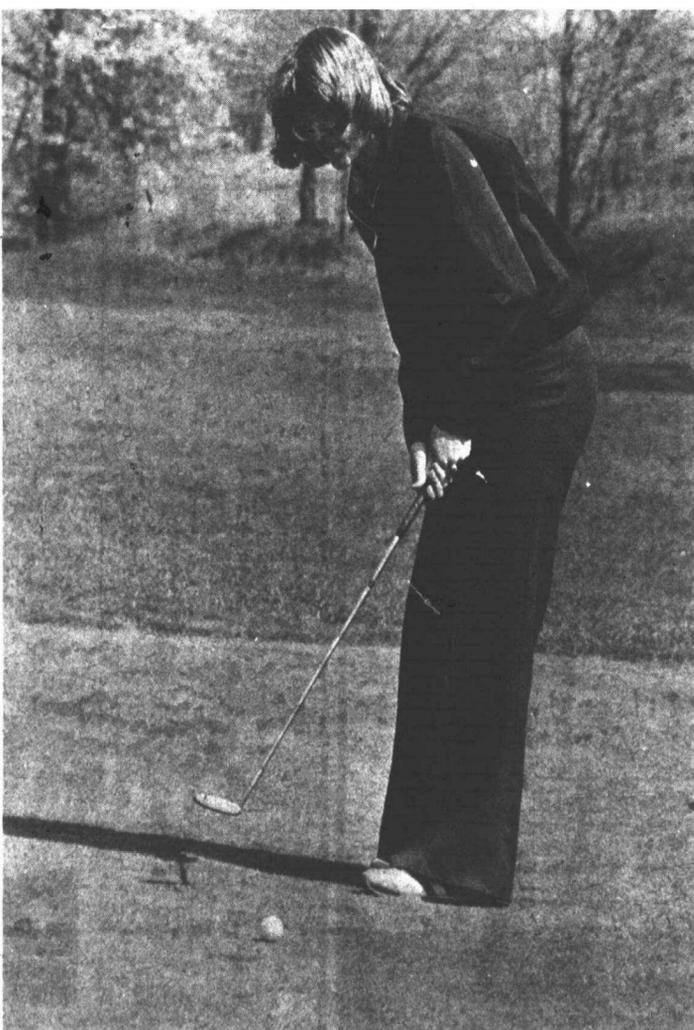

Charlene Rodden led the Chiefs' scoring with a 58 in nine holes. Peggy Visser followed with a 66.

Lynne McAllister shot a 76, and Jeanne French scored an 81.

Saline put impressive rounds of 52, 53, 53 and 55 together for its low score.

Salem's scheduled match against Brighton Monday was postponed because of rain. The match will be made up Monday.

Canton is scheduled to face Willow Run today at 3 p.m.

Canton golfer Peggy Visser follows through with a putt on the first hole during Tuesday action which saw the Chiefs fall to Saline.

Doc's Corner

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

Will you see results?

Results may be coming soon—and quicker than anyone would have expected.

The results I'm speaking of have to do with the maintenance of the outside athletic facilities at the Centennial Park.

Last week I spoke in this column about the lack of responsibility the schools were showing when it came to taking care of the girls softball diamonds.

But later in the week I went to the Park site and saw that there was more than just the softball fields that weren't being properly maintained. There were problems with the track, the baseball fields and even the newly laid sod on the football field.

When I left the Park, I was so disgusted with what I saw that I went back into the office and wrote a column on how the schools' were wasting the taxpayers' money—by letting all the outside athletic facilities go to waste.

BUT THIS PROBLEM might be solved quicker than I thought.

When I visited athletic director John Sandmann's office Tuesday morning, I found that he was equally concerned about this maintenance problem.

Later that afternoon, he told me he called the central office after our morning conversation. He talked with personnel in the maintenance department and it was concluded that there would be special workers in charge of maintaining the athletic facilities.

Now, this doesn't mean that the problem is completely solved. I'm going to have to see some positive results that truly show me that the athletic grounds are properly taken care of.

And these results should come in a few weeks.

Who knows? It might be a happy spring sports season after all.

Salem shut out in tennis opener

The Plymouth Salem tennis team lost its opening match of the season Thursday afternoon as the Northville Mustangs breezed to a 7-0 shutout victory in non-league action at Northville.

"Northville played real well and they should win the Western Six League," said Rock coach Jim Stevens. "But I don't believe Plymouth played up to par. We had some poor performances in a few positions."

The closest matches of the day came in the first and second doubles battles where Salem's Chris Saxton and Jeff Bearup fell 6-4, 7-5, and Craig Stevens and Ed Thomas lost 7-5, 7-6.

Freshmen Blake Lundberg and Craig Widmer also lost in the third doubles match 6-2, 6-0.

Curt Schultz played well at first singles but lost 6-0, 6-1.

"This was a well-played match and the score wasn't indicative of the play," Stevens said.

Bill Cook, Bob Braun and Dick Cook also lost their second, third and fourth singles matches respectively.

Blow four-run lead

Rocks dumped by Trenton

The inconsistent play of the Plymouth Salem baseball team cost the Rocks another victory Tuesday afternoon against Trenton.

The same exact thing happened, said a discouraged Salem coach Brian Gilles. "We had one out in the seventh and a 6-4 lead. And then we gave away four runs and lost."

Mental errors and poor execution, both on the mound and in the field, continues to haunt the Rocks.

This 8-6 Suburban Eight League setback dropped the Rocks' overall record to 3-7 and 1-2 in conference play.

What made this loss so discouraging for the Rocks was Trenton's ability to come back not once, but twice during the seven innings.

Before the Rocks blew their 6-4 lead in the final inning, they held what seemed to be a commanding 5-1 lead after two innings of play. But that lead quickly diminished one stanza later.

"I thought we were over this hump when we were winning in the summer but I guess not," Gilles said. "The bench was better and we were playing like a team. But we can't seem to finish opponents off."

Gilles said that a lack of leadership on the squad as might be a possible reason for its troubles.

Bruce Piper, the third of four Salem pitchers, was tagged with the loss. Oddly enough, Gilles said Piper was the best pitcher on the mound for the Rocks but he seemed to tire in the final inning.

Doug Holloway came into the game to try to save it in the seventh, but a costly throwing error by catcher Mike Stevens ended any thoughts of a Rock victory.

The four Salem pitchers allowed only four hits but walked an 13 batters.

Bruce Gerish drove home Salem first run with a single. A three-run homer by Joe Goodsir gave the Rocks that 5-1 lead after two before the roof fell in.

Tom Chiatulis started for Salem and was relieved by Barry Bruelner in the third. Piper took over for Breckner the following inning.

Canton games postponed

Both Plymouth Canton baseball and softball teams were unable to make up Monday's rainouts against Waterford Mott.

These two Chief squads were ready to play Tuesday afternoon, but Mott scheduled non-league contests. The games will be made up later in May.

Continuous rains on Friday, Saturday and Monday postponed all spring sports action at the Centennial Park. The Salem softball and baseball league games, which were postponed Friday against Redford Union, will be played later this week. No date has been set for Canton's Friday make-ups against Walled Lake Western.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING

The fifth public meeting pertaining to the overall Detroit regional pollution control system will be held on April 28 in the Council Chambers of the City of Southfield, 26000 Evergreen Rd., at 8:00 p.m.

The Overview Plan Study is being conducted for the tri-county area of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb in conjunction with the Detroit Facilities Plan Study. This combined study, ultimately, will outline modifications and additions to the Detroit system. Several hundred million dollars of new construction are contemplated for sewers and wastewater treatment facilities in the Overview Plan area. The two-hour session will cover the overall progress of the Detroit Facilities-Overview Plan Study and particularly its relationship to Oakland County Sanitary and Storm Sewage disposal.

Representatives of Giffels Associates, Inc./Black & Veatch of Michigan, a joint venture, and Ecol Sciences, Inc. will inform the public of the problem areas and recommendations being considered to meet the area's needs, the project criteria and the requirements of the Environmental Protection Agency and Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

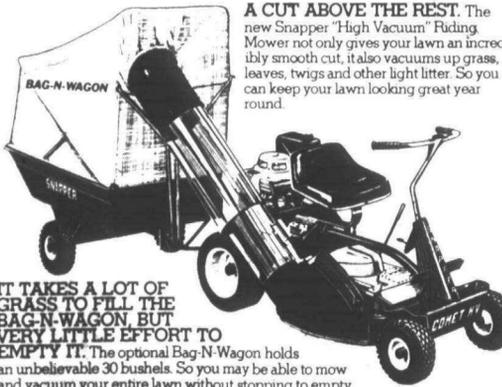

Environmental concern is a major criterion of the planning together with an improved system to alleviate the existing burdens and inconveniences. One of the prime considerations is the future role of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department in serving the suburbs from a wastewater collection standpoint. Public participation is urged during the planning stage of this project.

Powderpuffs win only two games

The Powderpuffs, Plymouth's representative in the state women's volleyball championships, finished the Saturday competition with a 2-5 win-loss record. The Powderpuffs won the Plymouth league crown last week.

Detroit followed with a 15-3 drubbing of the Powderpuffs.

Plymouth's strong team work resulted in its first victory—a 15-4 win over Warren.

The Plymouth squad, coached by Ursula Veit, competed in the round-robin affair with 20 other teams from around the state. The championships were held at East Detroit High School.

Plymouth was ahead of St. Clair Schores 7-5 in the fourth contest. But 10 straight points by the opponents finished the game for another Plymouth setback.

Plymouth opened its competition by dropping a 15-6 decision to Redford.

Plymouth lost its fifth match to a strong Walled Lake squad, 15-6. It was given a victory over Monroe, which forfeited.

'Run for Fun' just beginning

A jogger's delight has come to the community.

The Plymouth Parks and Recreation is sponsoring a "Run for Fun" club for all people interested in running. Recreation Supervisor Hank Grates is in charge of the activities.

"The group was formerly known as the Plymouth Track Club but we like the new name 'Run for Fun,'" Grates said. "This club puts less emphasis on competitive running but stresses jogging and conditioning."

"The words track club makes people think they aren't fast enough or young enough to come out. We encourage everyone, regardless of age, to join the group."

"Fun for Run meets every Thursday night at the Central Middle School track beginning at 7 p.m. Last week was the club's first meeting."

"At our first meeting, we had 25 people come," Grates said. "The group included four women and six children."

"We have a man who ran in the Boston Marathon last week and two former college trackmen who can offer tips to beginners."

The recreation department decided to form the club after a few phone calls from interested residents.

"You don't need a warm-up suit, or a certain type of track shoe to participate," Grates stressed. "We just want people who have an interest in jogging and conditioning."

"Cut-offs or any type of shorts and tennis shoes will suffice."

"Running can get monotonous and boring if you are out by yourself. Hopefully, people sharing a common interest will help this group grow."

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

There is a whole new flock of champions waiting to be crowned by the Detroit Women's Bowling Association and the crowning will be done at the annual banquet on May 20.

The new champions won their right to the titles in the city tournament that closed last weekend. Prominent among the titleholders in Marge Kropacek, a Plymouth housewife.

Kropacek teamed with Carol Gaddis to take the doubles title in the actual pinfall division with a count of 1234.

Meanwhile, the Motown team took the team event with 2845. Shirley Watkins shared the singles diadem with Diana Cianciolo at 674, while Doris Gaudy captured the all-events with a nine-game count of 1806.

ON THE MEN'S side, the "battle of the season" is set for Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park when the Thursday Classic leaders fight it out for the title. The three teams are Goebel's with a one point lead over Michigan Ambulance and Stroth in a challenging position.

While these teams are battling, Stroth and Bonanza, winners of the separate halves of the Tuesday Classic, will settle that race in a roll-off at Thunderbowl on May 3.

DOROTHY GORYCA walked from the approaches at Livonia Lanes as the champion in the Ladies Classic. She not only won the final three-game series, 532-75-607, but also won top average honors for the year with a mark of 154.

In the regular games, Joan Lewis won the opener with 168-34-202 while Doris Macorkindale took the second with 172-36-208 and Betty Markwardt gained the top honors in the final with 186-36-222.

IN THE CITY ROLL-OFFS of the Livonia Parks and Recreation league at Livonia Lanes, the Woodland Lanes team topped the prep division with a 1237 and Wonderland's team took the teen title with 1372.

HELEN SHABLIS, long-time member of the women's all star leagues and an instructor for years at Merri-Bowl, was accorded the women's highest honor this week when she was inducted into the Hall of Fame sponsored by the Women's International Bowling Congress.

She joins Stella Hartrick and Elvira Toepfer, the other Detroiters, in the Ten Pin Shrine.

IT TOOK A LONG TIME, but Norma Aro finally rolled her first 600 series. She did it in the Monday Night VFW mixed league at Westland when she put together games of 259, 171 and 179 for 609.

In the men's classic, Eddie Marzka showed the way with games of 247 and 231 in 670. Ray Kreuter used games of 221 and 206 for 619 and Ken Anderson had high game of 245.

THERE WERE several unusual performances at Woodland Lanes and most of them were supplied by low average bowlers.

Ven Wilchowski, who carries a 151 average, started it when he posted a 169 triplicate. Then Ralph Kletcha, bowling in the K of C league, strung seven strikes in a row before faltering and finished with a 258 game. And in the Belles mixed league Dave Gershon found the range for a 222—his first game in double century figures.

In the Allied Men's league Jack Barry went 85 pins over with a 233 and Harriet Wauhim, with a 148 average, had a 210 in 517. Others who bettered their averages were Cindy Mersino, with a 137, who rolled a 238, Larry Harding, with a 139, produced a 246, and George Gackiewicz, with a 184 average, topped the pins for 242.

In the Ford Parts league, Bob Nichols was the big gun with an actual 243.

PASTE THESE NAMES in your hat. In the decade that Fred Hamlin has been promoting junior bowling, he seldom has enthused over any of the youngsters more than he is now over two lads from Tyler School—Mike Bedford and Dave Kohn.

Bowling in their first year, Mike came up with a 157 and 212, while Dave had a 160 and 190.

Another outstanding performances at Farmington Lanes was the showing of Charley Sharp, a 73-year-old gent. Bowling in the Tuesday mixed league, he had a 258 in 698.

While these were the highlights, Gary Vanderwill paced the Thursday Classic with a 225 in 646. Another big count was Carl Kropp with 234 in 636.

Dianne Lawson was high in the Friday Noon Classic with a 225 in 646.

Who wants a dog?

The Plymouth Salem girls softball team received an unexpected present on its spring training trip to Tennessee two weeks ago.

The Rocks brought home a mascot named Smitty. Smitty is a dog which is part Labrador.

"She needs a lovable home," said Salem coach Liv Way. "We found her in Tennessee, cleaned her up and gave her shots.

"She is a young dog. The previous owner was arrested for mistreating animals."

Way explained that the team found the dog running loose and decided to bring it home.

Anyone interested in giving Smitty a home may contact Way in the evenings at 981-2279.

We'll help you save because you want to, not just because you think you're supposed to.

We believe that too many people think of saving as something that's difficult to do. Well, we suggest that you think of saving as accomplishment rather than requirement.

Think of it in terms of the pleasure and usefulness your saved money can provide, instead of just thinking about all the terrible things that you might suddenly need money for.

If you only think about the bad things, it's hard to have a good feeling about saving. And we think that makes it harder to build good savings habits.

Maybe if you talk about it with us, you'll see that your concern with not being able to save enough money has kept you from saving whatever money you could have saved.

Come and talk. We think you'll find it an enriching experience.

We know what money is for.

Ron Wrenn whips opponents at Wolverine

For Ron Wrenn, the hottest thing seen in a sulky at Wolverine Raceway in years, the grass has always been greenest here in his home state of Michigan. His harness horses won over $295,000 last year and not once did any of them set foot on a race track outside of the state.

"So far I haven't found any reason to leave here," Wrenn said. "Those are pretty darned good race earnings, and we did it all at Wolverine, Hazel Park, and Northville Downs."

Nobody really paid a lot of attention to what the 25-year-old Thumb area horseman was accumulating in the way of race winnings and earnings last year. His 1976 successes weren't brought to light until he hit Wolverine two weeks ago and started a winning binge that hasn't been stopped yet.

Wrenn's two latest victories Monday with Blaze Prince and Bob Glo J gave him exactly 16 wins in Wolverine's first 13 nights of racing. His closest pursuer in the driver ratings is defending champion Tom Harmer with seven Veteran Wolverine staff personnel say it's an all-time record start at the 28-year-old track.

My 25-horse stable is in overall fine shape and what you'd have to say was terribly unlucky for Lee Sattelberg turned out to be a piece of luck for me," Wrenn said. He referred to a three-horse pileup at Wolverine on April 15 which sidelined Sattelberg, a veteran Michigan trainer-driver, for an indefinite period with a back injury. Young Wrenn subbed for Sattelberg on three horses later that evening and won all three.

He has continued to attract attention almost every night. On April 22 his winning drive with the 40-1 shot Canny Victory—the trotter paid $88.80 for $2—was a driving masterpiece, according to track observers. The 10-year-old gelding was winless in four starts in 1976 and hadn't won in 12 starts this year.

"I've been working around harness horses since I was four or five years old," Wrenn said. "My father was a trainer in Canada and so was my grandfather. I had my matinee driver's license when I was 15 and my fair-racing license a year later."

Wrenn's parents moved to the downtown Detroit area before he was born, then moved on to Richmond, when he was a tot. Wrenn graduated from New Haven high school and gained his pari-mutuel harness driver's license at Hazel Park the same year. He's been quietly on the move in the sport ever since.

"All of the owners of the horses in my stable are Michigan residents," said Wrenn. "I spent a lot of summers working horses at the fair grounds in Croswell, got to know a lot of Michigan horsemen there and so it's not really surprising that my entire operation has been all Michigan."

In 1973, a transplanted Iowa trainer named Ezra Landrum turned over a 2-year-old dilly named Shaway Bee to Wrenn for driving duties. He drove her to 19 victories, more than any other 2-year-old filly in the country.

and she was hands down the Michigan champion for sex, age and gait.

Now his stable also include Thumb Ambler, who set a two-year-old filly track record of 2:00.3 at Wolverine last year, and the champion Michigan-bred trotter last year, Pine Ayres. The two are expected to anchor the rocketing Wrenn stable this summer.

"Watch that Wrenn kid," a veteran Wolverine railbird said recently. "He's going to really put Michigan on the map in harness racing."

Will U-M pass the football this season?

By W.W. EDGAR

Followers of the University of Michigan football team—and there are no more ardent followers than those of the Miazee and Blue—are going to have their wishes granted. At least at the start of the season.

For the past two years, the Wolverines have done quite well in the Big Ten, but fell flat in both the Orange Bowl and the Rose Bowl because they didn't pass.

After the Rose Bowl defeat last New Year's Day, there was a movement on among the Old Grads to employ a forward pass co-ordinator and make gift of him to Head Coach Bo Schembechler.

This didn't come to pass. But "Bo" must have heard the rumblings and acted.

In the press release given to football writers at the annual spring game last Saturday Schembechler was quoted as saying: "In refining our option attack, we'll work on first, second and third down passing."

A bit later, after the game got under way, Rick Leach, the junior quarterback who had taken much of the blame for the two bowl defeats, was throwing like he never had before for the Wolverines.

No longer was he lobbing the ball. No longer was it wavering in the air. He was throwing them like missiles. His receivers were not always on the job, and once he overthrew his man by 15 yards.

But he was passing on the early downs. So, there is hope that, come fall, Michigan will enter the campaign with a passing attack in the hope that it can live up to its pre-season ranking as the nation's No. 1 team, despite the loss of such all-Americans as Bob Lytle and Jim Smith.

Harlen Huckleby is taking over for Lytle, and Max Richardson, a three-letter winner may take over for Smith as wingback.

Special Olympics here

The 1977 Olympics are about to begin.

More than 1,000 athletes are expected to participate this weekend and next in gymnastics, bowling, track and field and swimming and everyone will be a winner.

The competition is the Special Olympics for the mentally and physically impaired. Young men and women from all over Wayne County will take part in the festivities sponsored by the Civitan Clubs of Plymouth, Livonia, Northville and Wayne.

Everyone who takes part, regardless of how he or she may finish, receives a participation ribbon. Participation is the important aspect of the games.

The program begins this Saturday, with gymnastics at Livonia Stevenson High School, 33500 Six Mile, from approximately 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Bowlers will have their chance the same day from 1-5 p.m. at Westland Bowl, 5940 Wayne Rd.

It's back to Stevenson May 6 for swimming and track and field events. The opening parade begins at 8:30 a.m., with swimming from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and track from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Spectators are welcome for all events at all sites without charge.

- Outdoor wood is genuine Wolmanized lumber. It's pressure treated with time-tested Wolmanized preservatives to furnish lasting protection for patios, decks, fences, benches, planters, walkways, and other weather-exposed structures.
- This special treatment gives the wood a handsome light green cast that eventually weathers to a natural driftwood gray.
